Hostages Threatened...

80,000 March In Tehran Today

By The Associated Press

An estimated 80,000 demonstrators marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today and Moslem militants threatened to take harsh action against their hostages inside the mission if the United States forced the shah to go to any country but Iran.

NBC-TV news in Iran said the march on the embassy was the biggest since the hostages were seized Nov. 4. After Moslem Sabbath prayers, loudspeakers broadcasting from minibuses led the demonstrators in anti-American chants.

The protest took on a carnival atmosphere, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported, with families and vendors mixing with the demonstrators. A long line of Tehran taxis drove past the embassy carrying stuffed animal effigies of wood and straw which people in the crowd struck while shouting anti-American slogans. It was not clear what the animals signified.

A spokesman for the militants inside the embassy told Tehran Radio: "We announce the message of the Iranian people to the world that if America expels the shah, it will be committing an offense even greater than its previous ones. The shah should be delivered to the Iranian nation with his hands tied. If America expels the shah, it must be certain that harsher decisions will be taken against the hostages."

The Associated Press in Bonn, West Germany reached the embassy in Tehran by telephone and spoke with a student who said, "So far those hostages are safe here and in a comfortable condition."

"But I'm not sure what would happen if the United States lets the shah leave. I'm not sure what action the people will take."

The broadcast, monitored in London, also said the militants would boycott American goods and that they urged other Iranians to ban U.S. products in any way possible during the coming week.

So far the U.S. government has refused to meet the militants' demand for the shah's extradition, and has given no indication it planned to expel him.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's 79-year-old revolutionary leader, has canceled all appointments for the next three weeks because of "slight fatigue and illness," the state radio said, and foreign diplomats in Tehran predicted a long siege for the hostages.

WRECK ON 84-Ray Walker, the driver of this truck, was unhurt when it flipped about 7 a.m. this morning on U.S. Highway 84 5½ miles north of Dermott, but several of the 85 head of cattle he was transporting from Groesbeck to Hereford were either killed in the wreck or had to be destroyed at the scene. Area cowboys were called out to round up the rest which had strayed as far as 10 miles away up and down the highway. The truck belongs to James Hall Trucking company based in Thornton. Bank Goes To 15¾% Interest

NEW YORK (AP)-Citibank, the nation's second-largest bank raised its prime lending rate today from 15½ percent to a record 15¾ percent.

Citibank said its formula for determining the prime called for a 16 percent rate, but that it had decided on the smaller increase.

The prime rate, charged by banks to their best corporate customers, has no direct effect on consumer loan rates, but is seen as an indicator of where other rates may be headed. Banks use the prime to set rates on nearly all commercial-industrial loans, with all but the most credit worthy businesses paying rates several percentage points above the base rate.

Bomb Plot Investigated

CHICAGO (AP)-The FBI said today it is investigating reports that a bomb which exploded aboard an American Airlines Jetliner on a flight from Chicago to Washington, D.C., was the work of a pro-Iranian group. No one was injured in the incident.

The group claiming responsibility for the incident in Anonymous telephone calls to the news media here threatened more bombings if actions were taken against Iranians in the Chicago area.

Vandiver To Head NTSU

DENTON (AP)-Civil War historian and Rice University vice president Frank E. Vandiver was named today as the new president North Texas State University.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Walter Buckel of the Lamesa Press-Reporter has expressed some misgivings about the realignment of University Interscholastic League conferences, especially the new district for Snyder and Lamesa.

"We are in the midst of an energy crunch, school districts are finding it increasingly difficult to fund athletic teams and to compete in UIL competition in all activities, and yet they realign schools to add hundreds of miles of travel to an already burdensome schedule," said Buckel. "We've always felt that in order to have good competitive rivalry you need to compete within a radius of 50 to 60 miles so that you can draw fans from both schools. I guess it's impossible out here in jackrabbit country where there are simply too many miles between communities."

On the other side of the coin: James Roberts of the Andrews County News says he likes the new lineup. The new district includes Andrews, along with Monahans, Pecos, Fort Stockton, Odessa Ector, Lake View and Sweetwater, in addition to Snyder and Lamesa.

"With the exception of Sweetwater, most have been on the Mustang schedule off and on for years," Roberts points out. "And under the new setup, with conference games, a team can lose two and still remain a contender for the title."

So, as always, there are advantages and disadvantages any way you go.

Jerry Tidwell of the Hood County News says President Carter did not necessarily strengthen his cabinet when he moved Patricia Harris from the Dept. of the Housing and Urban Development to HEW.

"Here are some major accomplishments of HUD while under the leadership of Mrs. Harris:

"Replaced a 45-foot flag pole with an 80-footer. The Department of Transportation across the street had a 75-foot model.

"Installed a set of heavy security doors, complete with gold leaf lettering. Cost was a mere $85,000, and the security doors are reported to remain open at all times.

"Replaced a patio that started leaking when people walked on it. It originally cost taxpayers $136,000 to install. Cost estimates for repairs were $428,000.

"Planned a $136,000 private elevator to her office so she could come and go without being seen."

Ministers Set Annual Service

Dr. James Granberry, Lubbock dentist, will be the guest speaker Sunday night at the annual Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance.

The service is set for 7 p.m. at First United Methodist Church.

The public is invited to the service, and several local churches are urging their congregations to attend in lieu of their regular Sunday evening services.

An offering at the service will be used by the Ministerial Alliance for its program of helping the needy of the community.

DR. GRANBERRY

Dr. Granberry is a former mayor of Lubbock, having been that city's youngest mayor in history when he was elected in 1970. He was serving as mayor there when a tornado devastated a big portion of the city on May 11, 1970 and from 1971-73 he served on a presidential assistance group that went to Peru to aid that country in recovering from an earthquake.

Dr. Granberry served in the U.S. Air Force in 1951-55 and then attended Tyler Junior College, North Texas State University and Baylor University College of Dentistry. He was candidate for governor on the Republican ticket in 1974.

He serves as a deacon in the Second Baptist Church of Lubbock and has served as chairman of several church committees and as Sunday School Superintendent.

Special music at the service Sunday night will be presented by the Snyder High School Choir, directed by Bill Lyon, and by the Brass Choir of First United Methodist Church, under direction of Chuck Weatherford. Several local pastors will assist in the program of worship.

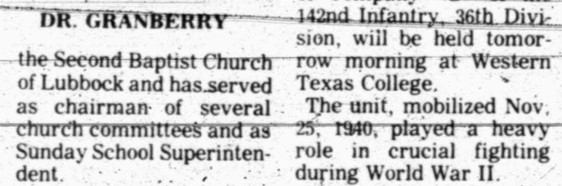

Following the service, First Baptist Church will sponsor a program for youth in Wesley Hall of First United Methodist Church. Jerry Neill of First Baptist, will lead the youth activities.

States Asked To Cut Oil Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter, vowing that America won't sell freedom for oil, wants the nation's governors to help cut petroleum consumption by 4 percent to make up for the loss of Iranian imports.

Carter was meeting today at the White House with 35 to 40 governors and other top state officials to discuss the Iranian situation. They were called to the executive mansion after Carter announced Monday he was cutting off Iranian oil imports in response to the seizure of some 60 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Energy Department officials said the governors would be asked to voluntarily develop conservation programs.

Q--What do the people get paid per month for taking care of the community centers and does the county furnish all cleaning supplies, etc?

A-Custodians of community centers are paid $158.30 per month, says Jay Massingill, county auditor. Cleaning equipment is furnished and up to now they have purchased their own supplies, with the county paying for it. However, under consideration now is a system in which the county park superintendent would purchase all supplies and issue it to the custodians.

Company G Reunion Set For Saturday

The sixth annual reunion of Company "G" of the 142nd Infantry, 36th Division, will be held tomorrow morning at Western Texas College.

The unit, mobilized Nov. 25, 1940, played a heavy role in crucial fighting during World War II.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m., and at 10 a.m. there will be a call to order and welcome made by association president J.C. Williamson.

A lunch break begins at noon, and the general business meeting starts at 2 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. at the college cafeteria.

Don Adams of Snyder is the general arrangements chairman.

Play Has Three More Showings

Performances of "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" are scheduled for tonight, Saturday night and Monday night in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College.

Curtain time is 8 o'clock each evening.

Reservations are to be made by calling the box office at 573-8511, extension 233. Admission prices are $3 for students and $1.50 for students.

Sunday Afternoon...

Farabee To Speak At WTC 10-Year Event

State Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls will be guest speaker for the 10th anniversary celebration ceremonies scheduled to begin at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at Western Texas College.

The ceremonies will be held in the Central Courtyard and all community residents are invited to attend. A campus-wide open house starting at 1:30 will precede the formal ceremony.

Bill Wilson, a member of the WTC board of trustees, will extend special recognition to Mrs. Jonisue Cogdell Stiff who donated the land on which WTC was built. Members of the steering committee which did the groundwork in securing the college will be recognized by Dr. Robert Hargrove, vice president of the board of trustees, and Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president, will present 10-year awards to eligible board members and Mavis Brumbelow, the first employee of the college district.

Presentation and burial of a time capsule will also be a highlight of the ceremony.

Senator Farabee will be introduced by Mike Ezzell, state representative from the 63rd District which includes Scurry County.

SEN. RAY FARABEE

Farabee represents the predominately rural 29-county 30th Senatorial District. He was recently named "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture" by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association. The Texas Farmers Union presented Farabee with the Senate Member Outstanding Legislative Service Award in 1975, and he also received the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association's Texas Distinguished Legislator Award.

In July of 1975, the "Texas Monthly" magazine named Farabee "the top Senate Newcomer," and in the July, 1977, issue of the magazine he was cited as one of three Senators among the "10 best Texas legislators."

He currently serves on the Legislative Budget Board which meets during the interim between sessions to prepare a budget for the state. He is vice-chairman of the Texas Coordinating Commission for State Health and Welfare services which studies and analyzes the services of health-related agencies. He is also a member of the Texas Judicial Council. He is chairman of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee and a member of the Finance Committee and the Natural Resources Committee.

Forty Senate bills and 18 House bills authored by Farabee were passed by the Senate and House during the 66th session and have become law.

A graduate of Midwestern State University, Farabee received degrees in law and business administration from the University of Texas. He is active in several professional and civic organizations.

New Ways Of Dealing With Shortages Probed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials, concerned with the "probability of sudden interruptions of oil supplies," are investigating ways of dealing with new shortages.

Higher gasoline taxes and reductions in environmental regulations are possible solutions to cuts in foreign oil supplies or sharp price increases, according to a study ordered by Deputy Energy Secretary John Sawhill.

A copy of the report, entitled "Oil Shortages Contingency Planning," was obtained by The Associated Press.

"The events of the past year and current market trends have increased the probability of sudden interruptions of oil supplies in the coming months as well as further price increase," the report said.

"We must develop workable plans for allocating gasoline by means other than waiting in lines," said the report, which was sent to a number of federal agencies.

Alternatives listed in the report included:

—Decontrolling gasoline prices "to reduce demand."

—Working out a simple gasoline rationing plan that could be implemented in a few weeks rather than months.

—Increasing taxes on gasoline and other petroleum products. No amount was mentioned.

—Changing or setting aside clean air and water regulations.

—Restarting nuclear power plants which are now shut down for various reasons.

—Speeding up production of gasohol, an alcohol fuel distilled from farm products.

—Preparing to "control money markets" if a major supply interruption creates "chaotic conditions in the international money markets."

—Working out emergency plans with other consuming nations in response to a major cutoff of oil supplies.

—Finding ways to reduce consumption of jet fuel, including discouraging unneeded air travel and dropping some air routes.

—Increasing imports of natural gas.

—Extending mandatory temperature controls in public buildings beyond the current expiration next March.

China Deserves 'Favored' Status

WASHINGTON (AP) Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher says China deserves to be granted "most favored nation" trade status quickly because it has liberalized its emigration policies and promises to loosen them even further.

Christopher offered that response Thursday to Senate Finance Committee members.

winning by losing

The Treasury dipped into its gold hoard the other day, selling 1,250,000 ounces to the highest bidders.

The sale brought an average of $372.30 an ounce, improving the nation's cash balance by almost half a billion dollars.

Good deal? Not when you consider that the price per ounce was down more than $5 and the total take some $6 million from the last such public sale, in September.

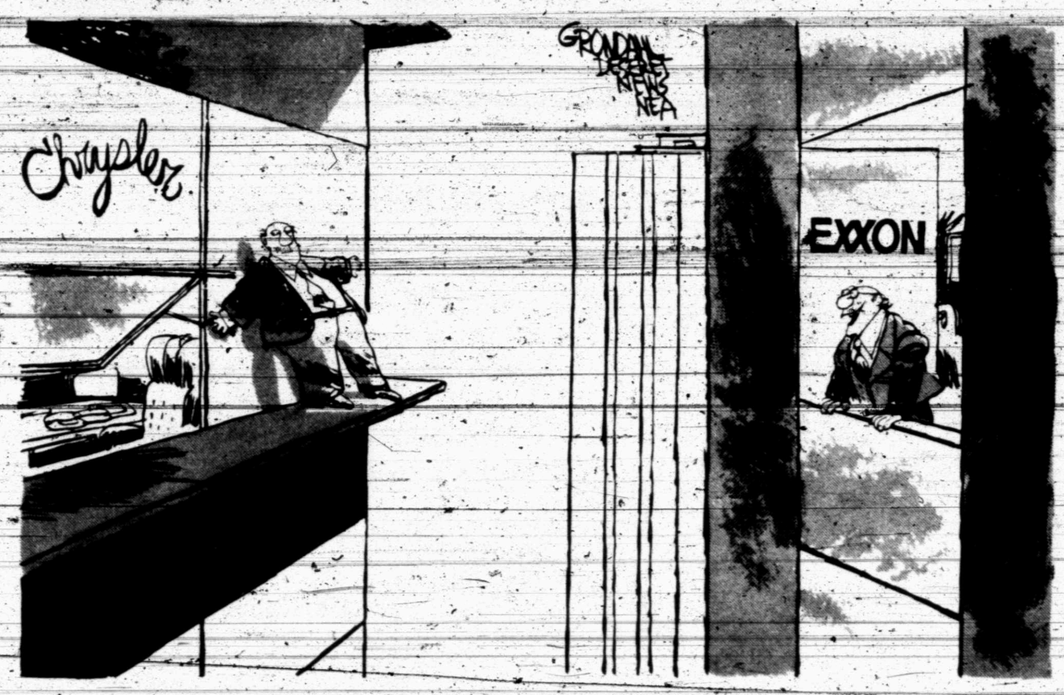

Bad deal? Not from the Treasury point of view. A drop in the price of gold is precisely the purpose of the new strategy, inaugurated with this sale, of keeping the quantity of gold to be sold and the date secret almost to the day of the auction.

It is an attempt to take some of the heat out of the gold market by keeping dealers and particularly speculators uncertain as to the monthly supply.

The price drop this time out suggests the Treasury is playing its cards right in this latest maneuver to support the dollar by making gold a less attractive alternative. But then, that's what was being said less than a year ago when a package including massive borrowing abroad and Treasury loans floated in strong-currency countries eased speculative pressures and boosted the dollar's value on the exchange markets for a time.

But that lasted only until the next round of increases in oil prices. And that, of course, is the tip-off as to what kind of a game this currency stabiliztion effort really is.

Oil, not gold, is trump. And unfortunately, the exporting cartel still holds all the high cards.

"Come on, I'll take you to lunch."

long range planning

Even as they battle one another in the primaries, the major Republican presidential contenders are quietly cooperating to insure that whoever wins the GOP nomination has a united party behind him.

All the GOP candidates are anxious to avoid the kind of nasty schism that lingered on between followers of Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford after the 1976 convention, a split that may well have contributed to Ford's defeat by Jimmy Carter.

Therefore, they are already working together through designated top-level campaign aides to minimize frictions and plan for a unified assault on the Democrats after the July 1980 Republican convention in Detroit.

The informal planning unit, which is known as "Group '80," was formed at the urging of GOP National Chairman Bill Brock and meets periodically under his direction. Participants are concentrating on the sort of nuts-and-bolts preparation (e.g. voter bloc targeting, registration drives, etc.) which can pay dividends for any nominee regardless of ideology.

Even without the kind of spadework Brock is overseeing, the Republicans are likely to have a big organizational jump on the Democrats next year, because their convention comes first, thereby giving them an entire extra month to gear up for the general election and to heal any intra-party breaches.

In 1976, the Carter-Mondale campaign used a similar head start to enormous advantage while Ford and Bob Dole, forced to hit the ground running, initially stumbled badly over various logistical hurdles.

commentary

donald f. graff

For a while there, it appeared too good to be true.

After more than a decade of typically Latin American military rule, Bolivia elected a civilian president early this year and the army actually allowed him to take power.

As it is turning out, it was too good to remain truth for long.

The military coup that has now precipitated bloody street fighting and raised the prospect of civil war in Bolivia is bad news not only for that Andean nation itself but for several of its neighbors.

Ecuador and Peru have also been taking shaky steps toward popular self-government. The former has its first popularly elected president after 15 years of authoritarian rule, and the army has been gradually easing its grip on the latter in preparation for elections next year.

The three Andean nations have thus encouraged hopes that democracy may have a more promising future than it has had a past in the Latin world. Together with Colombia and Venezuela, they comprised and had begun to act like a community, a democratic counterweight to the military regimes so prevalent elsewhere in the region. Concerting their influence, they played a constructive role in this year's Nicaraguan crisis, urging a moderate course upon the ousted Somoza regime's revolutionary successors.

But less than a year out of power was more than some of Bolivia's militarists could take. Thus, another coup in a country that has averaged more than one per year in the 1975 years of its independent existence.

And it may not be alone for long. Ecuador's civilian leaders are slipping into the sort of paralyzing political feuding that has invited military intervention in the past. Under the circumstances, the Peruvian generals could well be open to second thoughts.

There would appear still to be some hope in Bolivia. Political and labor leaders have continued to talk back to coup leader Col. Alberto Natusch Busch. And, what is even more encouraging, there appears to be doubts about him within the armed forces.

To call what is happening in Bolivia, as it has happened so often in Latin American, a revolution is a misnomer of the first order. A military takeover is not a radical change in the political order but a return to repression as usual.

It's just possible that the colonels and generals may yet let democracy get on with it in one or all of the threatened countries. Now that would really be revolutionary.

A multitide of words have been printed and uttered about what may be regarded as a revolution in the American Deep South, but none more to the point than those of its key figure.

"I believe that the decision of the voters of this city says more about how far Birmingham has gone than all the PR (public relations) we can do and all the things we say," observes Richard Arrington Jr., black mayor-elect of the Alabama city.

Arrington's victory margin was exceedingly narrow, depending upon the solid support of the 45 percent of Birmingham that is black plus a slim 10 percent of the white vote. Skeptics see in this a polarization promising not racial harmony but continuing antagonism for the future.

There is a similarity in the vote breakdown in the 1967 election of Carl Stokes in Cleveland as the very first black mayor of a major city. That also was the result of a small white swing vote. And as a racial breakthrough, it has been short on last has been short on lasting results.

The message of his victory may broader than Arrington suggests. It may be reminding how far Birmingham and the entire country not only have come but have still to go.

I read an interesting study the other morning that stated more and more fathers are experiencing the "empty nest" syndrome.

"We are living in a time of house husbands, father images, and fiusbands who share the burden of child raising," the survey said. "It's not uncommon for fathers to be depressed, and feel empty and restless when their children leave home."

"That," I said, putting down the paper, "is a bunch of horsefeathers."

"I don't think it's horsefeathers at all," said my husband. "What you're saying is that I don't share the same love and concern for our children that you do. Why, I miss all four of them."

"We only had three," I amended.

"Are you sure? No matter. There isn't a day goes by that I don't think back on the good times we had as a family. Remember that wonderful summer we camped on the Atlantic Ocean and dug for clams? We all sat around the campfire and ate them like popcorn."

"It wasn't the Atlantic Ocean. It was Lake Larvae, and it WAS popcorn because you couldn'd find where the clams hid."

"Whatever. I really miss those kids. There were a lot of fun times and a lot of trying times. I miss those too. Remember when our second-born came to me and said, 'Dad, will you teach me how to drive?'"

"I'll never forget it. You sent him to the Kamikaze Driving School and it set us back $175."

"Gosh, those were good times -- the broken legs -- the broken skulls -- the million and one emergencies that are parenthood."

"You never showed up for an emergency in your life!"

"But I called! Didn't I call?"

"Look, I know you love your children, but somehow men just don't get as involved in the lives of their children as mothers do."

He stood up stiffly. "I'm going to tell you something I've never told you before. I don't know why. Maybe I'm so macho I didn't want you to think I was weak or soft, but when my little girl walked out that door and said, 'Bye, Dad,' something in me died. I remembered the little ponytail and how we were always looking for rubberbands on doorknobs, little dolls crunching underfoot, grape bubblegum kisses and that wonderful feeling when she threw her arms around my neck and said, 'I love you, Daddy.' You never knew the pain when she left. If you did you never showed it."

"I never showed it because she never left. She's still at home."

He was silent a minute. Then he said, "Are you sure?"

WANTED: A runner who can beat John Long in the American Heart Association's Fun Run tomorrow. If there is one thing worse than a reformed sinner it is a confirmed jogger and John Long is both.

Since he started running he doesn't have time for sin. It is no strong drink, no tobacco and no girl is going to fool around with a guy who has carrot juice on his breath all the time.

For a year come Christmas, Long has been getting up in the wee hours of the morning, when all honest men are asleep, and jogging in Towle Park. He started about the same time the police department began getting peeping tom reports in that area.

The most noticeable side effect of running is long-windedness and Long has it bad. The victims are whoever he can corner to listen to all the boring details of his latest effort. In this case Bill McClellan and yours truly are the innocent bystanders, afflicted only because of the proximity of our desks to his. Fate can be cruel.

Who cares about low pulse rates and all that jazz about jogging making the heart grow stronger. Joggers still gradually grow old and die like everyone else. Sunday John Long and Mickey Mouse will have birthdays. John will be 27, Micky 51. Clearly Mickey is holding his age better and I have never known him to jog.

Bill and I feel a bit guilty about plotting against a co-worker who is involved in such a worthwhile cause as helping out the American Heart Association. After all, heart disease is the number two killer disease in the country and nobody is immune. But our purpose transcends this one event. If this column will silence just one jogger we'll feel like our effort has not been in vain--if that one jogger is John Long that is.

You can't imagine how depressing it is to be battling those early morning blahs, trying to wake up, and have some idiot come beaming in and announce that he got up at 5 a.m. and ran 7.6 miles before coming to work.

The Fun Run takes off at 10 a.m. in front of the junior high school. For the younger set there will be a turkey walk. The first place prize for the turkey walk is a 10-speed bicycle, second is a $50 savings bond and third is records and a pizza. The next 10 places will receive turkeys. Turkey walkers must have $5 pledged for every half mile they walk.

The Fun Runners pay $2 to enter and compete for a trophy.

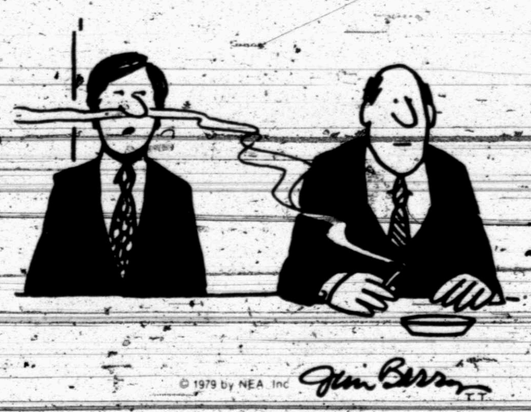

To the person who can beat John Long and win the 5 mile race, I will cheerfully refund his entry fee. Bill will throw in a large can of cranberry sauce. We realize that is it isn't much and if the winner insists on a turkey, we will give him John Long.

If the winner should be a she and single, married Bill can stew in his sauce and I will escort her to The Shack for a Thanksgiving dinner.

C'mon runners of America, it is for a good cause. Wouldn't you feel great, knowing your effort contributed to wiping out a menace to mankind?

And besides that the American Heart Association can use the money.

freeze could backfire

NEW YORK (AP) -- An government official was explaining why President Carter's freeze of Iranian government assets could boomerang on the United States, especially if it frightens off foreign investment.

"The oil producing countries dig up and send us a finite asset that took millions of years to produce. We burn it up, and in return we send them pieces of green paper that we can manufacture in huge quantities.

"They accept the paper, but then they leave it with us. They invest it in the United States and the money then is lent out to Americans to build homes and factories and create jobs. They help finance us.

"And now, in effect, we tell them 'watch out, you can't do that; you can't take your money back.' I ask you, who was getting the better part of the deal? We were. And now we may be cutting our own throats."

Carter's freeze of assets applies only to Iran, and then only to government rather than private holdings. But some officials, private and governmental, fear it could unnerve other foreign investors.

Oil producing nations, for example, have joined Japan and Europe in viewing the United States as a sanctuary both for liquid assets, such as stocks, bonds and savings, and as a place for direct investments.

Will they continue to express this faith if they fear their national assets might be frozen, or that a freeze could spread to private liquid assets and then to direct investments, such as manufacturing plants?

The Iranian situation also resurrects an American fear: Do foreigners, particularly oil-producing nations, own enough of the United States to seriously disrupt the domestic economy should they decide to do so?

The General Accounting Office answers no to the latter question, concluding that the entire OPEC portfolio of stocks, bonds, Treasury bills and the like could be absorbed by U.S. markets in two or three days, albeit with serious prices changes.

Still, one Commerce Department official estimated that price declines would not even be as bad as those created in October when the Federal Reserve raised the U.S. discount rate by one percentage point.

Portfolio investments such as these are one aspect of foreign investment. Direct investment, such as in factories, businesses and real estate, is another.

Commerce Department figures show that direct foreign investment through 1978 totaled $40.83 billion, but this amount minimizes the true value of the assets controlled, which was last estimated in 1974.

At that time, the foreign direct investment position was about $25 billion, but the value of assets was seven times that, or $175 billion. Using the same ratio, current assets might be more than $280 billion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Ambitions you hope to realize can be achieved today, surprisingly, perhaps not in the manner which you first envisioned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Good things could happen to you today through friends and acquaintances you know socially. Be alert for profitable tips.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be tenacious. Put forth your best effort, but also trust your luck in competitive situations today. Dame Fortune is slanting the odds toward you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your judgment regarding large issues is quite keen today. You should be able to see the whole picture where others see only small fragments.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Shifting conditions tend to work to your advantage today. You could be brought into a joint venture that offers you a surprising gain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Involvements where you will be working in conjunction with partners will be the ones offering the largest rewards today. They could even be of a social nature.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have the knack of utilizing your talents to their fullest advantage. Thus, you should be able to take small opportunities and turn them into large ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't deny yourself any opportunities for social expression today. You could be the life of the party if you let your hair down a bit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Treat matters which mean something to you financially or materially optimistically today. Your positive attitude will carry you over the top.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) To advance your self-interests today, let your sense of humor supersede your assertiveness. Your wit has more power than a punch does.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for personal gain are exceptionally strong today. Breaks could come unexpectedly through unusual sources.

Raisin-Cheese Filling
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees)
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
2 eggs, beaten
5½-6 cups flour
¾ cup apricot preserves
8 candied cherries, halved
½ cup slivered almonds

Prepare Raisin-Cheese Filling (recipe follows). Refrigerate until cake is assembled.

Dissolve yeast in warm water.

Scald milk. Stir in butter, sugar, salt and cardamom. Cool to lukewarm.

Stir in yeast and eggs. Mix in 4½ cups flour. Beat thoroughly.

Turn onto board and knead in enough of remaining flour to make smooth, satiny dough (about 10 minutes).

Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down.

On lightly floured board, roll and stretch into 22-by-12-inch rectangle.

Spread with chilled Raisin-Cheese Filling to within 1 inch of long edges. Roll from long side as for jelly roll. Pinch edges to seal.

Carefully fit into deep 10-inch tube pan, sealing ends together. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 2 to 2½ hours.

Bake at 350 degrees for 60 to 70 minutes until golden brown. Cool in pan 15 minutes before turning out on rack to cool completely.

Melt apricot preserves over low heat, stirring constantly. Strain and cool to lukewarm.

Place cooled cake on serving plate and cover with preserves. Decorate with candied cherries and slivered almonds. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 to 16 servings.

Raisin-Cheese Filling
1½ cups raisins
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 egg
1 egg yolk
¼ cup sugar
Grated peel of 1 lemon
½ cup chopped walnuts

Toss together raisins and lemon juice.

Beat cream cheese, egg and egg yolk at medium speed with electric mixer until well blended, about 3 minutes. Add sugar. Mix well.

Stir in raisin mixture, lemon peel and walnuts. Refrigerate.

RAISIN-CHEESE coffee cake is a treat for the whole family.

West opened with the king of hearts and East overtook with the ace.

The Professor studied the dummy to plan the entire play of the hand. He didn't like his chances, but beggars can't be choosers. He was pretty sure that West held the king of clubs for his heart overcall.

What could he do about it?

See if you can figure out how he made his contract. You are looking at all the cards. The Professor was only looking at them in his mind's eye and had hoped for the right combination.

Getting back to the actual play, East led back a heart. West continued the suit and the Professor ruffed.

He drew trumps, stopped in his own hand. Then he led a low club toward dummy. West played the six and the eight was played from dummy. East won with the jack (a false card) and led back a diamond.

South cashed the ace and king of diamonds and was pleased to see West follow. Now came a club to dummy's ace dropping West's king and a club back. After a moment's thought, the Professor finessed his nine and was home.

Why did he finesse and not play for the drop? As the Professor explained later, he knew that East liked to false card.

Dear Abby

Falls for His Bedtime Story

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm an 18-year-old girl with a problem I can't talk to anybody about. I am very shy, and just don't know how to say no to people.

About three months ago I went to bed with a guy I babysit for—I'll call him "Mr. M." He's divorced and has two little kids. Even though I knew it was wrong for me to go to bed with him, I didn't know how to turn him down without hurting his feelings.

"Mr. M." is a nice person, but he doesn't consider me in his class, or care about me as a person. He's dating a woman his age (35) who sometimes sleeps over.

Now that I've gone to bed with "Mr. M." five or six times, I don't know how to refuse him. I don't feel anything special for him, like I did for the guy I went steady with last year.

I want to quit baby sitting for this man, but I really like his kids and they are crazy about me. Also, I'm too shy to tell him what's on my mind. What should I do?

CAN'T SAY NO

DEAR CANT: You CAN say no, and you MUST! Your problem is not "shyness," it's a very low self-esteem and lack of confidence. You need more help than I can give you in a letter. Please see a professional at your local mental health clinic. You must learn to assert yourself, and put an end to allowing yourself to be used.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old divorcee in love with a charming, well-to-do 55-year-old widower. I'll call Frank. He is delightful company and wants to marry me. Now for the problem.

Frank has two married daughters (whom I have never met) who want to run his life. They are so afraid that someone is going to take advantage of their father that they can't stand it. (His wife died two years ago and he's afraid to tell his daughters that he has been dating!)

When Frank takes me out, we have to go where his daughters will not find out about it. Also, when he comes to my home he takes a taxi so no one will see his car parked in front of my house!

How can I convince Frank that it's time he lived his own life and quit worrying about what his daughters think?

BACK STREET BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE: If you could meet his daughters and win them over it would be ideal. But a grown man who hides his lady friend from his daughters sounds like poor husband material to me.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor across the way keeps standing in front of his window stark naked!

I do not catch accidental glimpses of him in this state. He actually stands by the window that way hoping to be noticed. I have reported him to the police, but they say he is in his own home and there is nothing they can do about it. He has a wife and children, but he does this while they are not at home.

Should I tell his wife? I don't know her very well, but I will speak to her if you think it will do some good.

NEW NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEW: The man needs help. Present the bare facts to his wife.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is thinking about buying a "hot" color television set and also a "hot" movie projector.

The man who wants to sell them got them from someone who steals to support his drug habit.

I told my husband I thought it would be wrong for us to buy these items even though we can get them way below cost, but my husband says if we don't buy them someone else will.

Abby, I don't want any part of a deal like this, but how can I convince my husband that it's wrong?

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLS.

DEAR NO: He KNOWS it's wrong. Just tell him that anyone who knowingly buys "hot" merchandise stands to share in the guilt of the theft—if caught.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Below, students from Northeast demonstrated materials used in the Resource Room for the parents who attended. Students are, from left Debbie Yandrich, Pam Hardy and David Holley. Bride Feted

Mrs. Alan Fletcher, nee Stella Espinoza, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Claude McCormick Jr. The couple was married Oct. 6 in the parlor of the First United Methodist Church with Rev. David Robertson officiating.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. Leroy Thrower, Dale Cates, Mike Martin, Troy Koening, Billy Wayne Harris, Albert Canon, and Mrs. McCormick.

WTC Drama Production...

'Marigolds' Makes For Entertaining Evening

If you are wondering about a play cast with women only, it has nothing to do with women's rights or "women's lib."

It is an authentic situation portrayed on the stage of Western Texas College's Fine Arts Theatre, and it results in a highly entertaining play.

And if you're wondering about an apparently nonsensical title, such as "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-moon Marigolds," it all makes sense when you see the play that Jim Rambo is staging as his first production since coming to WTC as speech and drama director.

Paul Zindel, the playwright, notes that he suspects it is mostly biographical and that he laughs and cries every time he sees it unfold on the stage. You'll understand why when you see it.

In the WTC version, Brenda Otto, better known here as an English literature teacher at Snyder High School, has the role of a frowsy widow who obviously grew up under trying circumstances and had an unhappy childhood, especially in the town's public school. She has two daughters, one an emotionally disturbed teenager who is alternately cunning and congenial, played by Toni Disko, a freshman drama student at WTC. The other daughter is the modest young genius around whom the plot swirls as she achieves highest honors in her high school science class. Donna Browning, well-known to Snyder audiences, has this role. She is an SHS graduate, having received honorable mention for all-star cast honors at the regional level for "The Corn Is Green," and district and state honors in "MacBeth."

The mother, Beatrice Hundsforfer, has difficulty coping with a monotonous existence which keeps her mostly confined to the ex-vegetable store which the family has attemped to convert into a home.

She repeatedly resorts to sarcasm as she is confronted by the high academic achievements of the one daughter and the emotional problems of the other. Meanwhile, there is a semi-invalid in the house, mother of a prominent citizen who has been farmed out for care at a cost of $50 per month. Beatrice vents her frustrations on her as well as her daughters, all the while speculating on various types of business she might enter to better the family's standard of living.

It's all talk, however, as she never quite reaches the point of action, until the very last when she actually begins making gestures toward cleaning up (or at least clearing out) the building to establish a tea room.

Tammi Sparks, WTC freshman from Rotan, is cast as "Nanny," the elderly boarder, and Doni Douglas, a freshman theatre major from Colorado City has the role of Janice, a competitor of Tillie the genius daughter, in the high school science contest.

There are many laughs and somber moments, and the set fits the situation to a "T."

The play goes on again tonight, Saturday night and Monday night. It easily beats anything we've seen on TV for a long time.--W.M.

Sherman Pastor Disfellowshipped

LUFKIN (AP)-The United Pentecostal Church Board of Presbyters has "disfellowshipped" the Rev. Charles Glass of the First Pentecostal Church in Sherman.

Glass and his wife have been charged by some members of the congregation with being preoccupied with fighting satanism and devil worship.

The action taken by the board means that Glass cannot preach in or be pastor of any of the church's 5,000 congregations, the Rev. Vernon Neely said.

The Sherman church has disassociated itself from the main church body.

While the board took its action Wednesday, Glass' wife, Mary Jo, and another woman were found guilty of identifying themselves improperly to Garland police. Each paid a fine.

Attorney Joe Joiner said he would appeal the two convictions on the misdemeanor charges.

Dolly-Porter Feud Finished

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The feudin' and fussin' between Dolly Parton and Porter Wagoner is over -- and they may even harmonize once more, their lawyers say.

Wagoner, who gave the blonde star her break in the business, sued Miss Parton for $3 million this year for alleged breach of contract, charging she owed him royalties on songs published by a house they own. Miss Parton said Wagoner intimidated her into making the agreement.

Wednesday afternoon they met, talked for three hours and settled their legal differences.

"After the proposals were reviewed and finally signed, both Porter and Dolly were obviously relieved," said Wagoner laywer Tom White.

The lawyers issued a statement saying Wagoner dropped his suit and the country and western stars may record a duet album within the next year.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) —Health officials say bacteria-infested taco filling caused the vomiting, cramps and diarrhea that sent nearly 300 Hugo children and school employees to hospitals earlier this week.

REV. R. VIRGIL MOTT

Rev. Mott Resigns As Bethel Pastor

The Rev. R. Virgil Mott has resigned as pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Snyder, ending a full-time active ministry there of 15 years duration.

Rev. Mott said he planned to remain here and that although he will not be serving as a full-time pastor, he will be available for pulpit supply, for singing and preaching in revival meetings, weddings and any other way that a minister may serve the community.

"We desire to live in Snyder for a long time," Rev. Mott said.

He succeeded the late Rev. Marvin Rogers in 1964 as pastor at Bethel Baptist. He and his family moved here in 1958 from Clovis, N.M., where he had been associated with the First Baptist Church. He served First Baptist Church in Snyder for seven years as minister of music and religious education before accepting the pastorate at Bethel Baptist.

Bethel Baptist has been Rev. Mott's first and only pastorate.

"We are proud of our record at the church," he said. "Today, there are no debts against the church property and the church's GMC van is paid for in full. Thanks to a group of people from Midway Baptist Church east of Snyder, they merged their building and their membership at that time with our people in 1965."

For 15 years, Rev. Mott's "Back to Bethel" broadcast has been sponsored over KSNY at 8:35 a.m. each Sunday. He said he planned to continue the broadcast, but the title of the program will be changed to "This Is Your Time," and that there will be some changes in the method of broadcasting.

Dayan To Speak On Middle East

Dayan will speak on "Middle East Perspective" at a lecture at McFarlin Auditorium sponsored by SMU's Program Council.

6th Grader Uncovers 12,000-Year-Old Rib

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Derek Saunders says it came as no surprise when a bone he found turned out to be 12,000 years old.

It just meant the 11-year-old's career as a paleontologist was finally getting off the ground.

"I thought it was pretty old," the sixth-grader said. "Young bones are white, and it takes them a while to fossilize."

Derek, a sixth-grader at Irving's Lamar Junior High School, found the bone last year while walking his bicycle through a local park. He showed it to his fifth grade teacher and brought it to class again this year.

His current science teacher, Ann Miesch, took the bone to a meeting with professors from East Texas State University's Earth Sciences Department. A month later, the bone came back with a note identifying the bone as that of an elephant that lived in the Pleistocene Epoch of the Ice Age.

The bone is really that of a mammoth, Derek says, because no elephants lived in that time.

Derek said he has returned to the creek bed for more digs, but so far as found only cow bones.

A self-described "rock hound," Derek says he wants to be a paleontologits when he gets out of school. He started his collection of rocks and fossils when he was 7.

"I'm always aware," he said. "I'm always looking for things like that."

Derek's parents are Robert and Linda Adkins. He has two brothers -- David, 12, and Aaron, 6.

Mrs. Adkins said she tried to throw away the fossil "about three times" before it was identified.

"It was in a plastic bag on the dresser and kept falling off," she said. "I can't remember when he hasn't been bringing things home. The first book he took out of the library was on dinosaurs."

But Mrs. Adkins can be rid of the pesky bone now. Derek is thinking of loaning it to the Dallas Museum of Natural History.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Value of annual physical

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — It's about time for my annual physical examination. During the past year I've heard several reports that this is a useless exercise plus being expensive. I'm 51 years old and a male and don't have any medical problems that I know of. I get an annual physical because I want to stay in good health. I'm sure there are a lot of your readers who would like to know whether we're wasting our time and money with this effort.

DEAR READER — It depends on what you mean by an annual physical examination. In certain situations entirely too many tests and perhaps some overly sophisticated tests are done too frequently. But the major causes of death and serious illnesses are often associated with changes that don't cause symptoms. Many men in your age group drop dead from a heart attack. Their first symptom is when they drop dead. It's a little late to do an examination then.

We know full well that the risk of having a heart attack or a stroke is significantly increased by high blood pressure, which may cause no symptoms at all, and high cholesterol levels which you won't know about unless you have a blood test.

Some news accounts are of reports based on expense versus economic return. This really doesn't make any sense to the individual. As one physician said, "It's like saying you don't need the fire department because you haven't had any fires."

The incidence of heart attacks and strokes has significantly decreased in this country in recent times. One reason is because of detection and control of high blood pressure in people who didn't even know they had it.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 10-2, Your Valuable Medical Examination. It will answer a lot of these questions you and other people have about why they need an annual medical examination and, more specifically, what such an examination should include. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Did you know that the third most common cause of cancer deaths in men in this country is cancer of the prostate? Did you also know that only 5 percent of the men in civilian life with cancer of the prostate survive but the survival rate from Walter Reed Army Hospital is 50 percent? Guess why? It's because the army series is from people who have regular medical examinations and the cancer is detected early enough to do something about it.

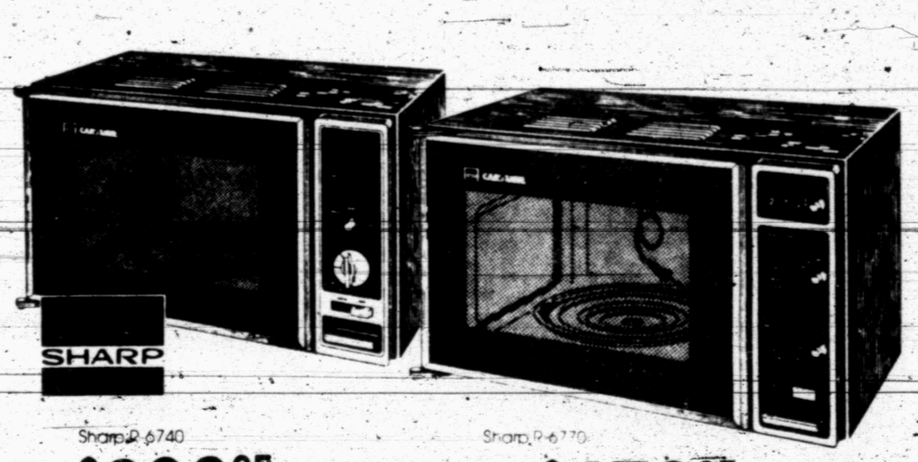

If you adopt the attitude that annual medical examinations aren't worth the cost, you might as well forget about preventing heart attacks, strokes and cancer — the major killers and causes of disease in our society today. So what if it costs you a little time and money and you never develop any of these serious illnesses? That's a small price to pay for the opportunity to either prevent such catastrophies or to be able to be cured if one of them occurs.

Lamb Twins Never Able To Separate

Nature went awry Thursday morning and manifested itself in a deformed lamb fetus.

The misshapen animal had one head, four ears, eight legs, and two tails. It died during birth.

"He was going to be twins, but he didn't quite make it," said Dr. Robert Taylor, veterinarian and owner of Scurry County Veternary Clinic, who delivered the animal.

While it was still inside the mother's womb, Taylor said he had to dismember the fetus for delivery. The mother survived.

Although rare, Taylor said it is not unheard of to encounter such deformed fetuses in a veterinary practice. He said the chances of such deformed fetuses living are nil.

"I'd say the chances of it living are almost zero because of the transposition of the internal organs. But it was alive up to the time labor started," noted Taylor.

The animal was brought to Taylor by E.E. Ford of the Polar Community.

Convinced SALT Treaty Will Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Senate's acting Republican leader says he is convinced there is enough opposition to SALT II to insure defeat of the treaty unless it is altered.

Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska said Thursday his "hard count" was 33 votes against the treaty. That would be one short of enough to defeat it if all 100 senators vote. But Stevens said his count does not include undecided senators, some of whom might vote against the proposal. Democrats say their count shows 60 senators favoring the treaty or leaning in favor of it, 30 opposed or leaning against it, and 10 who give no sign of leaning either way.

EIGHT, COUNT 'EM—A freak of nature was delivered yesterday by Dr. Robert Taylor, a local veterinarian. Above is the fetus of a lamb with one head, four ears, eight legs, and two tails. Taylor speculates that the fetus should have been twins, but something went wrong. (SDN Staff Photo)

Clements Says Iranians Are 'Management Crisis'

MIDLAND (AP) Seizure of the U.S. Embassy and American hostages in Iran is "much more serious" than the Cuban missile crisis of the early 1960s or the more recent Mayaguez incident, says Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements was deputy secretary of defense and a member of the National Security Council when the Cambodians captured the Mayaguez and when North Koreans killed an Army officer in a "tree-chopping episode" in the Korean demilitarized zone.

He told a meeting of West Texas bankers here Thursday that the situation in Tehran is much more volatile than the two "management crises" that occurred during his four-year tenure under president Nixon and Ford.

The governor has been a frequent critic of President Carter, but he told the bankers he has no barbs for the president's handling of the Iranian takeover.

Americans need to understand "that in a management crisis only a very small group in Washington, D.C., has the responsibility for making the decision," the Texas governor said.

"We should stand back and let them make them. Any decisions have to be based on the latest intelligence and its implications," he said.

"No one in the public sector has this kind of information. Those people up there who we elected are charged with that responsibility, and we have to let them make the decisions."

Clements returned to Austin Thursday night and will be meeting with other governors on the Iranian situation in Washington today.

Clements also told the Permian Basin chapter of the Banking Administration Institute that he is convinced the prime lending rate will peak at 19 to 20 percent.

The governor based his predictions on talks he has had with financial experts from across the country.

The consensus on interest rates among national and international financial experts, he said, is "They'll go up before they go down."

Texas legislators grappled with raising the usury ceiling from 10 to 12 percent last spring, and Clements said he may include the interest rates in his call for a special legislative session next March or September. But he doesn't know what he'll propose, he added.

"My position at the moment is that we in Texas have no business fishing in those troubled waters," Clements said.

"They are problems of national scope, governed by national policy. We should not try to put a bandaid on the problem in Texas."

Turkey Walk, Fun Run Set For Tomorrow

The American Heart Association's Fun Run and Turkey Walk will begin tomorrow at 10 a.m. in front of the junior high school. Participants will follow a 3-mile course that goes through Towle Park and returns to the school.

Students should bring all pledges with them to the school. Every $5 pledge will qualify the student to walk one half mile.

The student bringing the most money will win a 10-speed bicycle. Every student who participates will win something.

Adults in the Fun Run will pay a $2 entry fee and will be competing for a trophy.

Suspect Held In Marijuana Case Here

A misdemeanor marijuana arrest was made early this morning by police Sgt. Wade Norris.

The subject picked up was a 19-year-old man. He was taken into custody shortly before 1 a.m. in the 1900 block of 18th St.

Yesterday, three minor traffic accidents were investigated.

The first occurred at the Wild Country Club and was reported at 8:25 a.m. Reports show a parked 1976 Ford pickup owned by Billy Gene Wilkenson was struck by vehicle which fled the scene. The accident was worked by Kerry Fritz.

Fritz also worked the second mishap at the Varsity Square Shopping Center at 2:10 p.m. It, too, had been a hit and run. Reports show that a parked 1977 Pontiac owned by Benn Nachlinger was struck by a vehicle which left the scene.

The final wreck Thursday was investigated by Joe Bob Martinez. It involved a 1971 Chevrolet pickup driven by Sarah Briggs Johnson and a 1976 Pontiac driven by Theodore Nicolas Vasquez.

Two Plead Guilty To Welfare Fraud

Two guilty pleas to cases of welfare fraud were entered Thursday in 132nd District Court.

Pleading guilty to the cases, filed as theft charges, were Jeanette Newby, 2103 Ave. O, and Mary Preston, Rt. 1, Box 378A.

Prosecutors allege the two women failed to report all sources of income and thus were authorized to receive food stamps in an amount in excess of what they were entitled to receive. The fraud had been occurring over the past several months, said prosecutors.

Each woman received two years probation and a fine of $250. They had been indicted on the charges earlier this week.

Three other guilty pleas were entered yesterday.

Two of them were entered by Juan Armando Hernandez to charges of driving while intoxicated.

Hernandez, 1907 Coleman St., was fined $500 on one charge and received a two-year probation on the other.

A probation was also given to Lorenzo Rodriquez Larralde Jr. on a car burglary charge.

Larralde was charged with breaking into a car owned by Alfonso Juarez. The offense is reported to have occurred Oct. 21.

Larralde, 2111 Ave. X, received a two-year probation.

H.W. Longfellow published his "Evangeline" in 1847.

Railroad Commission Race Already Steaming

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission, an agency that regulates so many things besides railroads that it may be the most powerful such department in the nation has two seats up for grabs.

Commissioners John Poerner and James Nugent, both former legislators who were appointed to their posts in non-election years, are now running with all the big industry money and political backing traditionally awarded incumbents.

The challengers are a timber baron's son and a muckraking journalist who used his tabloid to criticize the cozy relationship between the commissioners and the very industries they regulate.

What attracts so much attention to the 1980 statewide races for two $45,200 a-year jobs is the commission's duties.

The three-person agency was created in 1891 to control outrageous rail freight rates. Over the years, the commission kept its name but added duties.

Now it regulates the strip mining of coal, lignite and uranium, the rates and routes for intercity buses and trucks and the production of liquified petroleum gas such as propane and butane.

But most vitally, it sets prices and regulates production for Texas' oil and gas industry, which supplies 25 percent of all fuel consumed in the United States.

"We know a senator can debate energy policy and we've seen a governor can spill oil on our beaches, but a railroad commissioner actually sets energy prices," says Jim Hightower, 36.

Hightower, given to cowboy hats and boots, touts himself as a candidate who owns no oil wells and gets no dividend checks from "Exxon or Lone Star Gas or one of the railroads."

He quit as editor of the bimonthly Texas Observer to run against Nugent, who was nicknamed "supersnake" for his maneuvers in the Texas House.

Rep. Buddy Temple, one of the richest men ever to run for the commission, will oppose Poerner, whose previous campaign focused on the pronounciation of his name -- Pur-ner.

Temple, 37, is the son of Arthur Temple Jr., who was chief officer of the Temple-Eastex lumber company before it merged with Time Inc. several years ago. The elder Temple is now vice chairman of the Time board.

Temple announced first, choosing to oppose Poerner. He estimated his race would cost $600,000 and said about one-fourth of the $200,000 he had raised had come from oil and gas people.

At a news conference last month, Temple told reporters he saw no need to investigate published reports that the oil industry created an artificial gas shortage this summer to jack up the prices. Nor did he see any reason to question data furnished by the industry on oil and gas reserves.

Hightower said he would not accept campaign money from the oil and gas industry. He said he chose to oppose Nugent because Nugent "best symbolizes the industry's viewpoint" and way of doing things, which he wants to change.

Before he left Texas Monthly, the paper frequently ran articles on issues which concern the Texas Railroad Commission, such as strip mining and the end of train service to some small towns.

Earlier this year, Hightower's own columns criticized the commission, and he had special jabs for Nugent and Poerner. In a final Observer column, Hightower wrote: "There comes a time when writing about the bastards isn't enough."

Hightower said he has $10,000 in cash and firm commitments and expects to raise $300,000 - four times as much as a similar "consumer candidate" spent in the 1976 commission race.

"No way this is a lark," Hightower said. "At best it's an uphill fight."

The commission's powers of regulation are so extensive that former Gov. John Connally said he was looking for a "miracle man" when he sought a replacement for William Murray Jr. in 1963.

Murray resigned after published reports disclosed he had grossed more than $285,000 on a Throckmorton County oil lease.

The "miracle man" was El Paso civil appeals judge Jim Langdon, who served 14 years. He reportedly once described the commission's primary function as assuring profr persistent criticism that he was too friendly with the oil and gas people. A World War II Navy veteran, Langdon said he would "much rather be in a fox hole than being sniped at like this." Langdon was succeeded by Poerner.

Nugent was appointed to fill a vacancy created when Jon Newton, also a former House member, resigned. Newton said he wanted to avoid any appearance of a conflict of interest after his wife received some family-owned land where natural gas had been discovered.

The third member of the commission is Mack Wallace. He succeeded former House Speaker Byron Tunnell, who resigned in 1973 to work in public affairs for Tenneco Inc., a huge conglomerate whose natural gas pipelines are regulated by the commission.

Former Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Nugent and Poerner in mid-term, which gives them the incumbents' advantage of running with financing from the industries they regulate.

This method of selection is so common that there have been only two races for commissioner since 1940 that did not involve incumbents.

Conservation Of Soil Needs More Attention

WASHINGTON (AP)- Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, says soil conservation "is our most underrated priority" and should rate with energy and oil supplies in the public eye.

"I acknowledge that it may be a far-out thought, but it would be the ultimate irony if the Arabs elected to conserve their oil while we continued to export our topsoil to the Gulf of Mexico - and run out of topsoil before they ran out of oil," Culver said Thursday.

The Iowan referred to the millions of tons of soil that wash way from valuable cropland each year, carried into streams where it pollutes water and winds up as silt deposits.

Culver's remarks were in a speech prepared for a National Conference on Soil Conservation Policies. The two-day meeting is sponsored by the Soil Conservation Society of America, the National Association of Conservation Districts and the Agriculture Department.

In his keynote address, Culver said he appeared "as an angry advocate for a total commitment by our nation to this priority problem" of conservation.

Frosh Pop Cubs 31-8

The Tiger freshman football team wound up its season here yesterday, thumping Brownfield 31-8.

Matt Davis scored from 25 yards out and crossed over for the conversion moments later as Snyder took an early 8-0 lead in the first quarter.

Casey Peterson added another first period touchdown from seven yards out. Davis converted for two points.

Snyder took a 24-0 lead at halftime after Kirk Herrley scored on a 6-yard sweep in the second quarter. Peterson ran over the conversion. Herrley also returned a punt for 65 yards but the effort was called back by penalty.

Snyder put its final points up in the third quarter when Peterson scored on a 20-yard run. He also kicked the PAT.

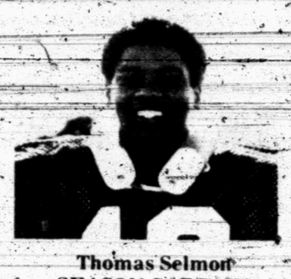

Brownfield scored with less than a minute left in the game.

Recovering fumbles for Snyder were Ross Bawcum, David Miller, Herrley, Brent Roemisch, Curtis Gafford and James Cadwell.

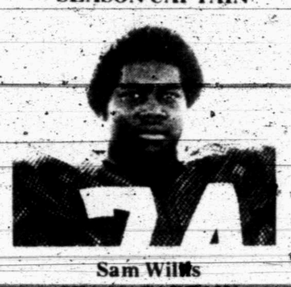

"It was a good game for us," praised Coach Larry Scott. "Everybody played well. This is what we've been looking for all year." Assisting Scott this season were coaches Jim Carson, Tommy Doyle and Wes Poarch.

Both Teams 2-1 In District Play...

Tigers Host Brownfield Tonight

Two teams with a lot to prove promise some good schoolboy football excitment here tonight at 7:30 in Tiger Stadium.

Snyder's Tigers and the Brownfield Cubs, both 2-1 in District 3-3A, battle for what amounts to second place in the conference standings. Should Lamesa upset highly favored San Angelo Lake View in Lamesa tonight, the winner here would gain a tie for the loop championship.

Snyder Coach Mike Jenkins leaves no doubt about the Tigers' intent tonight.

"We expect to win the game," he said Thursday morning. "I really believe that we'll determine the tempo of the game. If we play well, execute properly, do the things we're capable of doing, we'll win the ballgame."

But he's not taking Brownfield lightly.

"They've been inconsistant all year," he noted, "but they are playing for second place and that's something they haven't been fortunate enough to play for recently. They've got a lot of momentum coming into the game, I'm sure."

Brownfield will sprint into Tiger Stadium with a two-game winning streak, having defeated district foes Sweetwater, 14-12, and Lamesa, 21-18. Snyder downed Lamesa 16-12 and trapped the Mustangs 24-0.

With a 5-4 season record, Snyder obviously would like to find win No. 6 tonight, but according to Jenkins, the final record is secondary.

"I'm not sure we've played up to our capabilities all year," said Jenkins. "This is something we'd like to do Friday. A good victory would be very good for our young kids as well as those who will be graduating. These kids have played hard all year, and we expect the same type of effort Friday night."

Tigers vs Cubs

Tiger Stadium

Of Brownfield, 3-6, Jenkins pointed out quarterback Kelly Reid, running backs Gilbert Franco and Charles Burse, flanker Jimmy Martinez and center Alan Sexton as standouts offensively. Defensively, Jenkins lauds the abilities of Martinez, linebacker Brentt Wilkes, noseguard Clifton Smith and end Rudy Gomez.

"They have good team speed, as quick as anybody in the district," commented the coach. "Reid is a good size quarterback and throws the ball well."

Reid, which programs the Cubs in the I formation, likes to throw play action passes to flanker Martinez and end Billings. According to Jenkins, the Cubs throw the ball about 20 times a game.

No doubt Jenkins will have Tiger quarterback Mike Roemisch hurl a few right back at the Cubs. Snyder averages 97.3 yards a game in the air. Flanker Dale Jenkins has been the primary target, though Roemisch will hit Trussell Thane, Bryan Vincent and Barry Tubb almost as frequently.

Defensively against the pass, Snyder is allowing 54.7 yards per game and has ripped off 16 interceptions.

Defensive end John Igo and teammate Eddie Thompson are the only Tigers figured to miss action tonight. Igo is out with a separated elbow, while Thompson is having knee problems.

The entire senior staff for Snyder will be named honorary game captains. Field captains tonight - and for the season - are Thane, Sam Willis, Thomas Selmon and Tommy Peek, all seniors.

Western Texas College Classic...

Westerners Smash Sul Ross State

Western Texas College set at least two school records here last night as nine players finished in double figures to romp past Sul Ross, 152-63.

In the classic opener, South Plains waylaid The University of Juarez 83-45.

Tonight, Western Texas takes on Juarez at 8:30. At 6:30 South Plains will play Sul Ross. The annual Classic concludes Saturday as Juarez and Sul Ross meet at 5:30 followed by WTC and South Plains at 7:30 - in what should be much better balanced ballgames.

The Westerners, 3-0, jumped out to a 50-10 lead with 7:21 remaining in the first half. Two of the five Sul Ross field goals were awarded for goal tending. The halftime score was 89-20.

Phil Spradling led the Westerner scoring with 19, followed by Greg Stewart with 17, Bill Patterson 16, James Hutcherson 14, Keith Dennis, Paul Pressey and Oscar Alvarado 13 each, Freddie Davis 11 and Joey Rosales 10.

Warren Quick led Sul Ross with 15 points. Eddie Pruitt had 11.

The 152 points scored by WTC snaps the old record of 119 notched against Clarendon last year. The Westerners also set a team assist record of 55. The old one had been 27.

"Obviously it wasn't the type of game where you can tell how good you are," said WTC coach, Nolan Richardson. "We would much rather have had a good, close one. I think we'll get a much better test Saturday night against South Plains."

Western Texas shot an amazing 71 percent from the floor – 80 in the first half – but a bushel full of the baskets were layups off of the fast break.

In the earlier game, Jackie Vaughn scored 13 points, Walter Sydnor and Ronnie Butler added a dozen and Kenneth Dodd dropped in 10 as South Plains dominated Juarez. Snyderite Randy Courtney pumped in 6 points.

Jorge Luge scored 15 to lead Juarez, while Mario Colmenero scored 10.

Eying Statistics For Final District Game

Snyder High School football team can grab some personal and team achievements when Brownfield's Cubs come calling at 7:30 this evening.

The Tigers, 5-4 and 2-1 on the season are favored over the spicy Cubs, but the point margin has dwindled slightly since mid-season. Brownfield is 3-6, but has won its last two outings. Like Snyder, the Cubs are 2-1 in loop play.

Despite a less than spectacular year, Snyder's statistics are impressive. The Tigers are averaging 257.4 yards offensively each game, while holding opponents to 187.5.

With 2,317 total yards to credit for the 1979-80 campaign, Snyder needs but 183 yards tonight to reach 2,500. The Tigers currently have 876 passing and 1,441 rushing, unofficially.

Defensively, Snyder will have to hold Brownfield under 312 yards to keep its opponents from reaching the 2,000-yard mark collectively. The Tigers already lead the area in pass interceptions, having picked off 16 for the season. Thomas Selmon leads that category for Snyder, with 5.

In fact, Snyder's opponents have a passing record (against the Tigers) of 35 completions in 100 tries for 493 yards. The 16 interceptions mean that 31 percent of opponents completions have been caught by Snyder players!

Individually, flanker Dale Jenkins has 20 pass completions for 377 yards and needs 23 more to reach the 400 mark. End Barry Tubb (12 for 198) can pass up 300 with only three yards. Other receivers include end Trussel Thane, who can reach 200 with 28 yards, and Bryan Vincent, who needs 30 yards for a 100 season.

In the rushing department, Keith McClain (92 carries for 499) needs a single step to snare 500, while teammate Bobby Degrate (128 for 538) needs 62 to make 600.

Leading tacklers are Robert Rodriguez with 109, Tony Degrate with 99 and Morris Anderson with 76. Others include John Igo with 55, Paul Gafford 51, Vincent 47, Selmon 46 and Jamie Lopez 45.

Tony Degrate leads in "tackles for loss" with 13. Anderson and Igo have 7 each. Degrate also has 3 fumble recoveries to credit. Anderson has 2.

Back to interceptions, while Selmon leads with 5, Vincent is right behind with 4. Ricky Gambol boasts 3 and Rodriguez, Gafford, William Robinson and Alan Pollard have 1 apiece. Vincent, Rodriguez and Gafford have each returned one for a touchdown.

Cats Control Brownfield, 21-7

BROWNFIELD--Snyder junior varsity completed the 1979 football season by romping Brownfield's Cubs here last night.

The Cats, 8-1 for the year, ate up 402 yards offensively while holding Brownfield to 45.

Mark Shaw, who picked up 231 yards for the night, scored Snyder's first touchdown from 10 yards out. Perry Echols put up the conversion.

Later in the first quarter Brownfield found good field position by recovering a fumble on a punt. The Cubs got on the board via a 20-yard pass play and conversion kick.

Snyder took the lead for good in the second quarter. Robbie Davenport scored on a 6-yard run. Echols added the PAT.

Neither team scored in the third, but Shaw went over from nine yards away in the fourth, and Echols added the conversion to make it 21-7.

"This is probably the most improved bunch I've had since I've been in Snyder," said Coach Winfred Shipp, of the Tiger crew. "They've got a lot of potential." Assisting Shipp this season have been Albert Lewis and George Byerly.

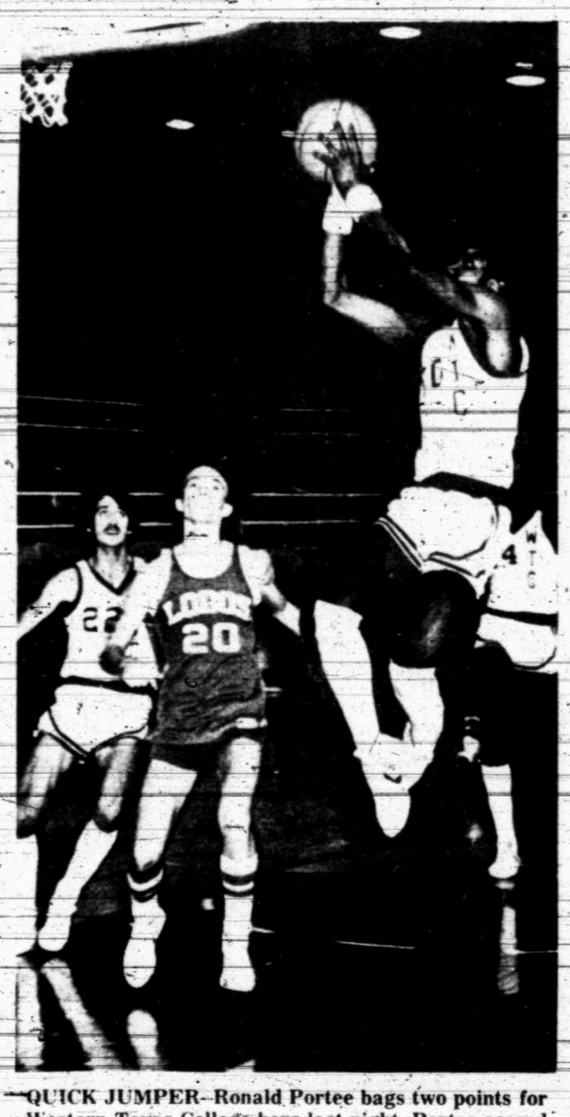

Tigers Sock Kermit Crew

ANDREWS -- Snyder's District 3-AAA championship volleyball team defeated 7-AA titleholder Kermit here yesterday 15-9, 12-15 and 15-3.

Lisa Cobb served for 12 points followed by Kathy Northcott 10, Kim Harlin 9, Billie Owens 6, Sherry Mayes 4 and Suzanne Fisher 1. Shauna Pate also played.

The Tigers will attempt to schedule more "practice" games prior to the Regional Tournament set Dec. 1 in Lubbock.

Hall of Famer Rogers Hornsby is listed as having the top batting average for one season for three different National League teams.

Felines Sweep Steers; Win Triple-Header

BIG SPRING--Snyder girls opened the 1979-80 basketball season in strong fashion here last night, defeating the Big Spring Steers in varsity, junior varsity and freshman games.

Snyder varsity sacked the Steers 44-34 as Jamie Hataway drilled the hoop for 15 points and teammates Sandy Sewell and Pam Gray added 9 apiece.

The Tigers, who host San Angelo Central in the high school gym on Saturday at 5 and 6:30, held only a 15-13 halftime lead, but basketed 16 points in the third period to grab the win.

Michelle Townsend sacked up 25 points as Snyder junior varsity ripped the hosts 52-24. LaDonna Halford had 5 and Shelly Davenport and Vickie Gregory had 4 apiece. Snyder held a 27-12 lead at the half and was in front 42-13 after three quarters.

Penny Wolfe and Tonya Mitchell led with 8 and 6 points as Snyder freshman won their season opener 27-16. Sylvia Landell had 10 points for Big Spring.

ASU Forfeits Five Games In PAC 10

TEMPLE, Ariz. (AP)- The Pacific-10 Conference ordered Arizona State to forfeit all of this season's league football victories in which eight ineligible players participated.

ASU, which had been 3-3 in Pac-10 play and 5-4 overall, now drops to 0-6 and 2-7, respectively.

One of ASU's conference victories was over Washington. But with the league ruling, the Huskies' 4-2 conference mark goes to 5-1, keeping Washington in the Rose Bowl race with the University of Southern California, which is 5-0-1.

An hour or so before the conference ruling Thursday night, ASU declared the eight players academically ineligible.

The players involved are linebacker Den Apuna, defensive lineman Tony Baker, linebacker Louis Camptell, offensive linemen Brad Igou and Kani Kauahi, running backs Arthur Lane and Alvin Moore, and wingback Ron Washington.

Apuna, Kauahi, and Washington were starters.

Jim Muldoon, Pac 10 spokesman, said the decision was reached in a conference telephone call between Pac-10 members and league officials.
