River Flows Into C-City Peach Orchard

Colorado River, fed by flash-floods on Scurry County creeks, poured out its lower banks Tuesday in Colorado City and at many points in Mitchell County. Here the river, at its highest point in years, is shown flooding a peach orchard of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. McCarty just south of the South Bridge on State Highway 163 (to Sterling City) in south Colorado City. Roof tops of downtown buildings are shown in background above the river and bridge.

Rains Pour New Life Into Farm Operations

Mitchell County cotton farmers moved into the fields with planters on the heels of soaking rains this week. They started up machinery to go to work after waiting anxiously for sorely needed moisture in a squeeze between dry soil and a late chances with fall's, killing planting date that takes frost. AT LEAST HALF of the county's producers moved into the planting brigade as Mitchell's agricultural outlook flashed its first smile of the year. Many of the producers were putting cotton seed in to the soil for the first time. Others, who had planted partially, were going ahead with seed for their full acreage allotment. For those who had planted earlier, their crop outlook brightened quickly with the rain which ranged from more than three inches in areas to around one inch in the Cuthbert community. IRRIGATION farmers faced with expensive pumping pipe moving with continued dry weather — the rains were the same as money in the pocket. And, at the same time, their crop yield prospects increased. Still, there were cotton producers who reported to The Record they would not plant unless more moisture came soon. Range lands, given a boost a week ago with good showers, got more valuable moisture in the latest downpour. Creeks were running throughout the county and many tanks were full. COLORADO CITY'S official rain measurement on Courthouse lawn showed a total of 1.78 moisture this week — 1.50 coming in Sunday night's downpour, .15 coming Monday and .03 more Tuesday. That brought the city's total for 1967 to 4.25 inches. And 2.30 inches of this has come during June. Lorraine reported 1.60 for Sunday and 1.15 more Monday for a two-day total of 2.75. COLORADO RIVER overflowed its lower banks at numerous locations throughout Mitchell County — reaching its highest point in years.

Farmers May Need To Check ASC

Mitchell County farmers were advised Wednesday to check with Mitchell County ASC office if in doubt about planting and government regulations for acreage and yield records. The advice came as new moisture brought improved conditions to the county's agriculture scene. "It might be necessary for a producer to have some crop production to maintain his yield record," Latimer said. Numerous requirements and policies pertaining to weather conditions complicated the already complicated agriculture programs. Among recent changes for diverted acreage are those dealing with acreage where weather has caused crop failure and the soil has been treated with weed control chemicals, the ASC committee said.

Frontier Rodeo Opening Thurs.

Rodeo season opens here tonight (Thursday) in the Western Riding Club arena, business route West Highway 80, at 8 p.m. when the first of three night shows will start. Sponsored by Western Riding Club with Colorado City Jaycees manning concession stands, the Frontier Days Rodeo is expected to attract more than 100 area cowboys for contests Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights. Prize money will be awarded in six events — barrel racing, bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, barrel racing and team roping. Tom Maricle will be official announcer with Mrs. Dorloros Wood, Western Riding Club secretary, and Mrs. Dink Rees as official timekeepers. Red Whitley of Crosbyton is to produce the rodeo and furnish stock for the events. Western dances will be staged each of the three nights following the rodeo performances. Music for the dancing will be played by Charles and Eddie and the Country Ramblers of Sweetwater. Dances will be in the building formerly occupied by Shurtlett Pump Co., at East Highway 80 business route intersection with Highway 208 (road to Robert Lee). Leo Thompson, Western Riding Club president, and Phil Fortune, president of the Jaycees, are inviting all rodeo fans of all ages to see the 1967 version of a real West Texas rodeo. Tickets will sell for $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children. Registration of cowboys entering riding events and cowgirls for the barrel racing is to begin this morning at 9 a.m. in the Root building at 211 Walnut St.

Teacher's Pay Above State $396 to $429

Colorado Independent School District board of trustees are increasing teacher salaries here to new levels above the state minimum foundation program. The board's action — with unanimous vote Monday night — incorporates the higher state increases voted by recent Texas Legislature and:

1. SETS THE district's beginning salary level for bachelor degree teachers with no experience at $396 above the state foundation minimum.
2. PEGS the district's beginning salary level for master degree teachers with no experience at $390 above state foundation minimum for that category.
3. ADDS $33 more per year than the state foundation minimum for each additional year of experience — through nine years for bachelor degree teachers and through 14 years for master degree teachers.

THIS IS A double boost for Colorado City teachers in the local differential above state minimum. Previously, local teachers received a flat $10 differential above the state minimum foundation schedule. For example, last year the state minimum for a Colorado City beginning teacher (bachelor degree and no teaching experience) received the state minimum of $4,104 plus the $100 differential for a yearly salary total of $4,214.

NOW WITH the board's action and the State Legislature's program, a Colorado City beginning teacher (bachelor degree and no teaching experience) will receive the state minimum of $4,734 plus a $306 differential for a total of $5,040. In the category of master degree teachers, those beginning with no experience will receive the state minimum of $5,910 plus the local differential of $5,430.

COLORADO CITY bachelor degree teachers will reach their differential maximum (increased $150 per year compared to $147 state minimum) in ninth year with a salary of $6,490 — compared to the state minimum of $5,784; for the same year. The state experience scale does not reach its maximum until the 10th year — at $5,904 which will still be considerably less than the local maximum reached the year before.

Master degree teachers will reach the local maximum at the 14th year of teaching experience, with a total salary of $7,530 compared to the state minimum for the same year of $6,678. When the state minimum reaches its maximum for master degree teachers at the 16th year, it will be $8,340. See Teachers Page 2

Tackless Trucker Nails 'Em

Punctured Drivers

This truck driver won't win any popularity contests on the highways. You will understand 'as you' read on. The other day he was traveling — in his Lubbock supply company truck — west on Interstate 20, about 8 miles outside of Colorado City. A 100-pound container of roofing nails fell from the truck, scattering onto the heavily traveled freeway. A. F. Kohutex of Irving coming along in another truck pulled to stop with flat tires. One of his tires — just one — had 88 nails. But the driver of the truck from which the nails had fallen just looked on without even trying to keep other vehicles out of trouble. He didn't worry about the nails either, letting 'em all stay where they fell. Kohutex got out and began flagging traffic, concerned for others who would get the same puncture treatment as he did. But not before another car, driven by Charles Chappell, pulled to stop with four tires flat — 13 nails in one tire, and Ray Speegle of Kermitt halted with three flats. While those who had driven into the nail trap halted traffic and sent for assistance, the driver who had lost the nails quietly returned to his truck and drove away. Texas Highway Department maintenance workers from Colorado City went to work as soon as possible, sweeping and picking up the nails. They filled a five-gallon bucket with the roofing nails scattered across the freeway. State Highway Patrolman Buddy Hertenberger doesn't think the truck driver would win any popularity prize, either. But Tuesday, the patrolman nominated him by mail — for a ticket alleging failure to remove injurious material from a highway.

Wife Teaches Physics

Brownfield New Ag Instructor

Franklin M. Brownfield, Colorado City business property owner and teacher at Blackwell for last 15 years, will be Colorado High's vocational agriculture instructor. He has been named to succeed Richard Lee, who resigned last month to enter the feed store business in East Texas. Brownfield, 37, will be joined on the Colorado High faculty by Mrs. Brownfield, instructor in physics and mathematics. The new agricultural instructor is an owner of the half block of building here that include Anthony's, Richburg's, Sears and Jar-nigan's Plumbing. He has a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from Texas Tech (1952) and a master of education with a major in agricultural education (1956) from the same college. At Blackwell during the last 15 years Brownfield developed an extensive program for show animals with emphasis on sheep, swine and commercial cattle feeding. Among his students were four Star American Farmers, 20 Lone Star Farmers and Star Greenhand. His students have won championships in sheep division at Odessa, Abilene, Sweetwater and San Angelo. They also developed extensive success in judging and leadership contests. Brownfield, whose father is a Snyder business man and property owner, is widely known for his knowledge of sheep. He has served as judge at shows in Dawson, Coke and Sterling Counties as well as local shows in Snyder and Abilene. He has been active in community projects and is a member of the board of stewards and church school superintendent at Blackwell Methodist Church. Mrs. Brownfield has a bachelor of arts degree with major in physics and mathematics and has three years of teaching experience. They are parents of two daughters and a son — Marsha, 11; Janet, 12, and David, 8.

Franklin Brownfield, joins faculty here.

Boy Injured In Accident Recovering

Larry McClure, 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob McClure of 301 S. Austin St., is reported in satisfactory condition in Root Memorial Hospital following a bike accident Saturday. His injuries were described by his physician as lacerations and fractured left leg. The youth's bicycle collided with an automobile on a country road south of town at approximately 3:30 p.m. Saturday. The automobile reported by Colorado City authorities to have been in collision with the bike was a pickup, driven by Willis Dawkins of Midland.

Rudy — A Little Guy With A Man-Sized Liking For Alcohol

He Has A Drinking 'Peeve' Against Police

Rudy Luera is a little guy — 5 feet 4 inches tall and about 110 pounds. Last year — June 19 was the date — he went before County Judge Elmer Martin for aggravated assault on Sheriff Lewis Claxton when the sheriff arrested him. Judge Martin gave Rudy another chance, probating the 30-day jail sentence for a year. But by October the kid was arrested for drunkenness again and went to jail with probation revoked. Rudy was free Nov. 9, out of jail a few days early with credit for good behavior behind bars where he couldn't get a bottle. He was back in custody again in April — brought before Justice of Peace Precinct 1 Court on a minor charge of drunkenness. He made the trip peacefully and drew a $25 fine — promising to bring the money in within a few days. That was about it for a while — until the last weekend. Friday police answered a complaint that Rudy, fueled by alcohol, was using his 110 pounds to toss boulders on another person's automobile. When Assistant Chief Truman Henderson and Patrolman Nick Martinez went to investigate, they became the target of Rudy's throwing arm. Instead of the 2-foot slab slammed on the car, though, they met hand-sized chunks of rock. They got him in tow and took him to jail, where after a night to sober up he was charged in Corporation Court for drunkenness. Sunday he was at it again — imbibing enough for city police to take him in hand to jail. This time there was no trouble, but police had lost their patience and court had no sympathy for probation. The city fined him twice — $100 each for drunkenness Friday and Sunday. County Judge Elmer Martin added 30 days in jail, $25 fine and $28.50 court costs for aggravated assault on Policemen Henderson and Martinez. In addition, the $25 still owed in justice court came due. So, unless somebody comes to his financial aid and pays for the fines, Rudy's stay in jail — which his disposition improves — is likely to be considerably longer than 30 days.

are also getting a raise which amounts to about $621 yearly added to the master degree minimum schedule. The 5021 differential was computed by figuring the average teacher salary for the entire school system.

Monday night's action on the salary schedule followed weeks of study by the board and Superintendent James C. McMath.

VHF BOARD had been in action since the beginning of the year, during graduation week, and McMath said he would support the board's action to prepare for the future. School administrators believe the increase will help Colorado City meet competition in the area and teachers, although the increases are major, are upward, they will be considered as a bonus.

West Texas school districts. School Board President Curtis Lattimer said it was a case of "have or have not."

Banned Books' Don't Die, Either

Everybody who reads at all has been reading "banned books" for years, that is, books that have been banned by some authority. On exhibit through Saturday through courtesy of the University of Corpus Christi and the Texas Library Board, the display includes many lifelong favorites of the average reader.

Banned in Boston, banned in Tennessee, banned in some, banned in Ireland, banned in England, banned in China, banned in Russia, banned in Germany, each of the 36 books was banned or burned somewhere, some time.

Adventures of Sherlock Holmes by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle could not be read in Russia in 1929.

Hemingway's Farewell to Arms was banned in Italy and burned by Nazis in Germany in 1933. His The Sun Also Rises won the dubious honor of being banned in Boston in 1930.

All Is Quiet on the Western Front by Remarque was forbidden to Boston readers, to Austrian soldiers, and in German schools in 1929. It was burned in Germany in 1931.

Grapes of Wrath by Steinbeck, ired Oklahoma Missouri and California in 1939 and was banned in all three states. Tennessee banned Darwin's The Origin of the Species in 1925.

None of those bans on books is too surprising to a Banned Book appreciator.

But along with those, Mark Twain's Tom Sawyer was banned in Brooklyn in 1876 and Huck Finn was eliminated as "trash" in Concord New Hampshire in 1885. The treasured Gulliver's Travels by Jonathan Swift was banned in Ireland as "wicked and obscene" in 1726. The Odyssey by Homer drew wrath from Plato in Greece as early as 387 B.C.

John Milton's Paradise Lost was put on the Pope's Index in Rome in 1758. People in France could not read George Eliot's The Mill on the Floss in 1908. Even Jack London's The Call of the Wild was banned in London, in Italy, and Yugoslavia in 1929. Drieser's An American Tragedy brought its publisher a $300 fine in Boston and was burned by Nazis in 1933.

Ireland was a champion banner — next to Boston. That country banned Sinclair Lewis books such as Cass Timberlane and Huxley's Brave New World. Marc Connelley's Green Pastures was outlawed in England and Norway. Uncle Tom's Cabin by Stowe was forbidden in Russia and all Papal states.

The display at the library makes it clear that one man's favorite book may have been another man's poison. It also develops a fine point: the average reader has read just about every banned book on the list.

Buy a little place in the country with the money you save on Gas Air Conditioning.

Now you may not get a place just like this for the amount of money you save on gas air conditioning, but you can tell you've saved some money. Gas air conditioning's economy is a big advantage. It's economical to keep up, too.

Fewer moving parts in gas equipment mean fewer repairs, less labor and maintenance costs. Find out about gas air conditioning your place in the country or in the city. Call your air conditioning contractor or LONE STAR GAS.

Deregisus who has the role of Marian Grant, left and Ada Womack, at right, who plays Hulda, the housekeeper. Curtain time for the three-night presentation of Colorado City Playhouse is 8 p.m. tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday night, in Colorado High auditorium.

DRAMA IN AUDITORIUM

"A Man Called Peter" Opening Night Performance Set Tonight

The curtain rises at 8 p.m. tonight, Friday night and Saturday night, on "A Man Called Peter," July production of Colorado City Playhouse.

Directed by Don DeLaney, the three-act, five-scene play stars Paul Boyd Hunter as Peter Marshall and Dorthea Hunter as Catherine, his wife.

The drama highlights the wholesome story of a young minister and is billed as having appeal to all members of the average family. Setting is the living room of the Manse, the Marshalls' pastoral residence in Washington, D. C.

Time is in the early 50's. Peter Marshall was real. His story was written by his wife in a widely read book, "A Man Called Peter," from which the show was dramatized.

In the 15-member cast will be Jim Morgan as Peter John, son of the Marshalls, Don Foaster, as Allan Talbot a sensitive young man, Melba Mickle, as his maiden aunt Ann Morgan plays Jessie Bickle, Judith's sister.

Vickie Bodine is cast as Susan Grant, a confused young woman with Frances Deregisus as Marian Grant, her mother, Jim Harris, as Stephen Grant, Susan's father, Dale Bynum as George Vost, Susan's fiancé.

Robert Jones will play the role of Joe Keating, an underprivileged boy. Melbourn Palmer will act as Senator James K. Polk, High school senior girls, Nancy Everts and Barbara Logan, will be portrayed by Candy Curlee and Rose Ann White.

Completing the cast will be Ada Womack as Hulda, an ineffectual housekeeper in the Marshall home.

Interesting sidelights of the production include new faces in the Playhouse cast. It will be the first appearance in layhouse for the Hunters, and all the younger members of the cast except Jimbo Morgan who played the boy in "Stop the World."

It is a "first" for Palmer whose wife Colleen Palmer starred in two earlier productions by Playhouse. Ada Womack, mother of popular local amateur theater actor George Womack, is making her initial appearance. Mrs. Womack is the voice for Radio Station KVMC's Thought for the Day.

Properties are in charge of Ray Anne Carlock with Ricky DeLaney handling the lighting, Charlotte Northcutt and Shirley DeLaney doing the makeup, and staging done by Tandy Curlee.

George Womack and Porter Richardson.

Tickets bought in advance are $1 each, with tickets at the door to cost $1.25.

Playhouse is completing its third year as an organized hometown theater group, July 1. Richardson is retiring president, Curlee, president-elect.

Mitchell Historical Committee Meets

Speakers at the Mitchell County Historical Survey committee meeting Tuesday, were A. V. Sheppard, Soil Conservationist, and Bobby Lemons, County Agent here.

At the meeting in Mitchell County Public Library the two guest speakers told of a survey being made by them of historical areas in this county.

A government appraisal of potential recreational areas is being made, they told the committee.

Reports were heard from recent regional meetings held at Midland and in Snyder. Mrs. Witt Hines, committee chairman, gave a report of the tour in Scurry County, attended by a Mitchell County group.

Twelve members here also attended the recent dedication of a marker for the Sance post-office in Coke County.

Dedication of the Dorn Chapel Methodist Church marker, near Lake Colorado City, was attended by 200 persons, Sunday. It was reported.

James Jarrett, son-in-law of the late Pierce Dorn, a Dorn Church pioneer, was master of ceremonies with Mrs. Hines presiding.

Mrs. Rube Hart, daughter of the church's founding family, reviewed the early history of Dorn Chapel and Judge Elmer Martin directed the unveiling of the marker.

M. P. Dorn, Jr., read the inscription and Rev. C. C. Dorn of Hartley told the recent history of the church.

Mrs. Bryan Yachorovich of Robert Lee, chairman of Coke County Historical committee, praised contributions made by pioneer settlers in her address as guest speaker.

CONVERSATION CORNER

PODEO flags decorating our town always remind me of the first rodeo ever attended by this adopted West Texan. Product of deep East Texas — along with yams, wild mustang grapes, plum thickets, dewberries, hickory nuts, chiggers, and persimmon trees — had never heard of a rodeo. Honest.

A season or so after the family moved to Colorado City, decided to persuade the man of the house to take the children and me to the old Frontier Roundup.

Opening day parades used to be spectacular, back in the late 'thirties. And not to take the kids to the rodeo was in the class with refusing to let them see the circus when it came to town.

FIRST RODEO stands out in the memory for many reasons. Grand Entry was exciting, if dusty.

There was toe-tapping music by the old Cowhand Band, lights and crowds and yippee-yay a plenty. And all that was very pleasing to a transplanted East Texan.

Main reason that first rodeo stands out, however, is the fact that this rodeo fan knew about as much about what was going on in that arena as she did about the care and feeding of the ibex.

Way it looked, back then, cowboys on fast, trained horses chased little baby calves, rudely roped them, flung them roughly to the hard ground and tied their poor little feet.

Only cheering done by this spectator was when the dogies got away. Cause the baby calves had all my sympathy and sympathy. And that must have seemed plumb peculiar to neighbors in the grandstand.

A FEW YEARS later, back in '42, it was necessary for this writer, by then a working reporter, to cover the Frontier Roundup for the Record and several daily papers.

Man, what a difference seeing it from the judge's stand and hearing it talked up by people who spoke rodeo mad!

Flanked by Frank Reeves of the Ft. Worth Star Telegram and Harry Holt, then of the Abilene Reporter-News, both veteran rodeo-stock show and farm newsmen, I learned about rodeo from them.

Rodeo language translates into good sense, once you get the hang of it. It's even okay to say "bull" in West Texas — especially at a rodeo. Cowboy contestants ride 'em — if they're lucky.

SO? So there was added to the vocabulary the once taboo word "bull" . . . and things like broke the barrier . . . time . . . no time . . . chute, pronounced same as shoot . . . purse, no connection with a lady's handbag . . . pickersmen . . . grab-leather . . . barrel races . . . and steer wrestling.

Learned, first-hand, that rodeo clowns are heroes in disguises and that their jokes and antics are just a sideline. Learned how the riders loved their smart horses with deep and personal affection.

Learned that real rodeo fans root for the riders and horses, never, never, never for the bawlin' calves they chase around.

Learned, too, that when a big Brahma bull jumps the fence and heads for Ruddick Park it takes a heap o'ropin in the dark to take him home.

SEEN LATELY include Clem Myers and his grandson Rob Sivley visiting Clem and Frances from Chico. He's son of Robert and Janice Myers Sivley and is such a sturdy, handsome little lad!

Saw Don DeLaney . . . Jackie Hickman . . . Odessa (Mrs. Jim) Wood in Colorado Drug . . . Mrs. Adolph Wood, downtown.

Mary Lee Moore who was saying that our Little Stage (Mrs. R. P. Cap) is in El Cajon, California, visiting her grandsons while daughter Catherine and her doctor husband tour Europe. Lottie took Arthur Spragg, son of her daughter Betty Spragg of Odessa, to California with her.

HEAR TELL that Nell Ruth (Pickens) Holman, wife of Charles, was salutatorian in the Howard County Junior College graduating class. Nice going for the mother of bride-to-be Dolores and of two sons!

Hear, too, that Doris Allen and her husband John Allen are parents of a new baby son, James Conley, born to them in Roswell, N. M., May 30. Doris is a former Record employee.

And out in California at Burbank, Cindy Smith, daughter of Cecil and Sarah Carter Smith, was one of eight flag twirlers chosen at Valley College where she's a soph this summer. She also plays in the wind ensemble for the college marching band. Cindy is granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith and niece of Mrs. Lucie Hock of C-City. Honor For Mom —

If you are sitting around thinking you are faced with a lot to do, then give a thought to Mrs. Charles Holman.

She is the wife of a farmer-rancher, mother of daughter and two sons and a full-time college student.

Not just an ordinary student, either, for she has just been named salutatorian of her class at Howard County Junior College.

That's a pretty-fair sized honor for a mom who has returned to her classroom after her daughter has graduated from high school.

Yes, indeed . . . our women never fail to amaze me.

State Capital Highlights

Fed-State Communications Criticized

By JERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

A task force of federal officials, here for a conference on federal-state relations, got an earful from disgruntled state agency officials who complained of poor communication between Austin and Washington.

Gov. John Connally opened the conference by telling the men from D. C. that the federal grant system is characterized by "misunderstanding, disharmony and, in some instances, utter confusion."

Other state officials got down to specifics when the conference broke up into small groups to discuss inter-governmental coordination, health and welfare, education, water development, outdoor recreation, economic opportunity and manpower development.

They said they want to be consulted in advance about proposed programs; they want federal agencies to work through state agencies on local programs; they want block grants which would give state agencies greater latitude in tailoring federal programs to fit local needs; and they want specific, unconflicting instructions from Washington as to what is expected of them.

Since the federal officials had been through similar sessions in 39 other states, they took the criticism without flinching.

ENOUGH OIL — Texas Railroad Commission is keeping an eye peeled on the Middle East Crisis in case it becomes necessary for Texas to help make up for crude oil shortages growing out of the hostilities between the Israelis and the Arab nations.

Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon said Texas has enough reserves to meet any emergency; but while increasing all allowances is easy, overcoming logistical problems would require ingenuity.

TEXAN CULTURES — Newest state office to open in Austin is the Institute of Texan Cultures. Its task is to assemble educational exhibit material for the ITC building at the HemisFair '68.

After HemisFair '68 closes its six months' run, the educational program by the State of Texas will be continued there as a permanent feature.

Institute is under the direction of H. Henderson Shuffler, former West Texas newspaperman who has been heading the UT Texana programs for the past five years. Exhibits will portray the colorful history of Texas in terms of the people who made that history.

COURTS SPEAK — Supreme Court will hear arguments July 19 on whether parents can collect damages for premature birth and subsequent death of a child due to injury of the mother in an accident.

In other questions the high court:

- Asked to review the $200,000 judgement favoring a workman who was burned when his bulldozer burst an underground pipeline in Brazoria County.

- Upheld a trial court decision awarding damages to a woman who lost her hair from application of a lanolin bath on bleached hair (extending doctrine of strict liability to cases other than foodstuffs).
- Found parents of injured child who poured kerosene on smoldering stick are not barred from suit against an oil company which allegedly adulterated fuel with gasoline.

AGRICULTURE — Although the lawmakers turned down a proposal for creation of a coordinating board to study problems in agriculture, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White was given the job — and the money — to make the sort of studies envisioned for the proposed super-board.

In the appropriations bill, funds were earmarked for studies on ways to expand marketing outlets for Texas commodities and research on boll weevil eradication, aflatoxin control, peanuts, plums, peaches, dairy products, fire ants, castor beans, vegetables, cotton, mohair, wool and statistics on county farms.

In addition, appropriations were bigger and better than ever for the Texas Animal Health Commission, A&M's Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service, salaries for teachers of veterinary medicine and the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

ATTORNEY GENERAL — Texas gas and oil production taxes do not apply to gas and oil which is severed in Texas, but produced from reservoirs located entirely out of state, A.G. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other opinions Martin concluded that:

- "Cable TV" concerns are not required to pay gross receipts tax charged telegraph message companies.

- Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to control and protect marl, sand, shells, gravel and oyster-bed resources and to seek court action to protect fish and shell-fish breeding grounds against disturbances (except those necessary to navigational purposes).

- Lamar County Hospital district may pay private institutions located within its district for medical care rendered to needy and indigent in district's own facilities.

- State board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists has authority to refuse to issue a license for operation of a business which has same name as one previously licensed and still in operation.
- Sharpstown State Bank can purchase a building in Sharpstown Center, Houston, with legal limitations governing bank investment of capital.

SCHOOL SALARIES — By increasing salaries for classroom teachers, the Legislature also raised the pay of administrators, principals and counselors whose base pay is what they would make if they were classroom teachers.

Depending on degrees earned and years of experience, a classroom teacher may, under the new law, be paid anything from $3,132 to $6,912 for nine months.

With the same conditions applying, administrative personnel get the same sums, but spread over 12 months for superintendents, 11 months for principals and 10 months for counselors.

On top of the base pay, each superintendent gets a 20 per cent to 40 per cent increment, and each counselor gets a $300 increment.

Under the new law, the lowest possible salary for a superintendent is $5,011.20 and the highest possible salary is $12,902.40. Principals can earn as little as $4,593.60 and as much as $10,137.60. Salary scale for counselors will run from $3,780 to $7,980.

POLLUTION BOARD — President's Water Pollution Control Advisory Board will visit Texas June 26-29 to survey state pollution problems first hand and study solutions being undertaken. Nine-member board will visit Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Galveston and Houston. Trip will be climaxed June 29 by a public meeting at the Rice Hotel in Houston.

PADDED PAYROLLS — Governor Connally is keeping state employees and legislators guessing as to whether he will veto a bill which would improve retirement benefits for both.

Connally has made known he is giving serious consideration to a veto because lawmakers tagged benefits for themselves onto a bill designed originally for state employees.

While retired workers would get a 10-per cent hike in their pensions, credit for five years military time, disability provisions and benefits for widows and dependent children, legislators would receive a 50 per cent hike in their retirement compensation under the tampered bill that passed late in the session.

Connally resented the manner in which the legislators' extra compensation was written into the bill in conference committee rather than by open floor amendments. Bill would raise legislators' retirement from $100 to $150 a month for eight years' service. Also, it increases longevity additions from $10 to $15 a month for each year of service beyond the 10-year mark.

Speaker Ben Barnes has urged the governor to veto the bill. If he does, he will probably submit the employee retirement benefits proposal at the special session next year.

JULY DRAFT QUOTA — Texas draft boards will be called on to furnish the Army 974 men during July. Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz has announced. National call will total 19,900.

Monthly calls from January through June ranged from a low of 674 to a high of 1,110.

July 1968 local draft boards will forward 5,016 men for draft pre-induction examination. It's an increase from 4,000 in June.

AIRBORNE BRIGADE — National Guard reshuffle will bring Texas a new airborne unit and two other brigades.

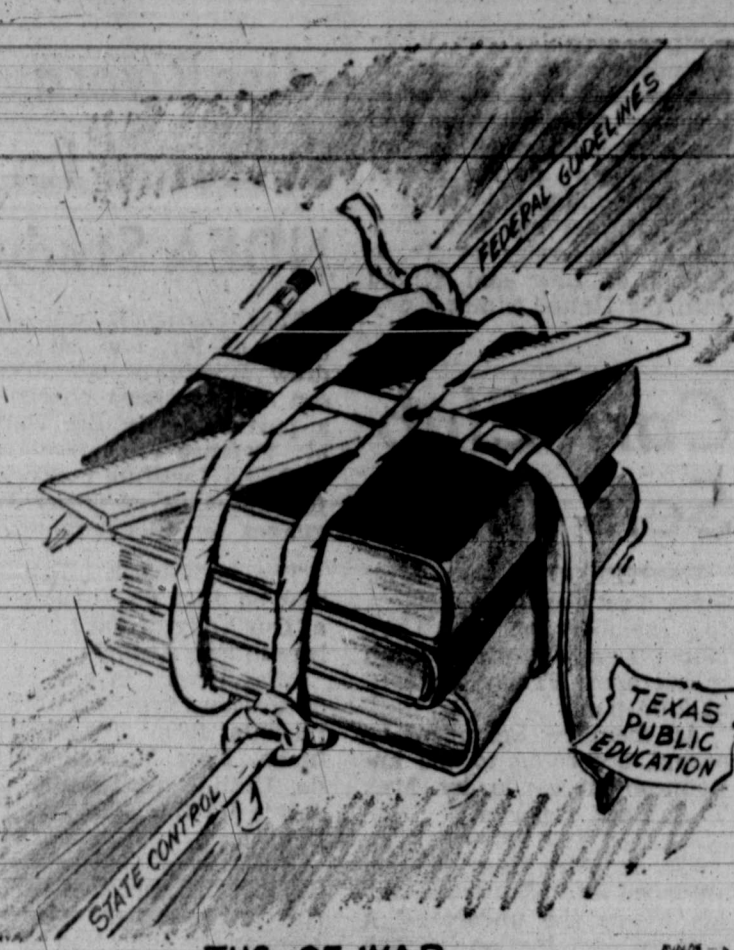

Adjutant General Thomas S. Bishop said the all-volunteer airborne brigade assignment (originally slated to go to Alabama) is still subject to approval by U. S. National Guard Bureau.

Under reorganization, Texas' 49th armored and 36th infantry divisions will be replaced by a new mechanized infantry brigade and high-priority 36th infantry brigade. State also will get an army aviation group.

SHORT SHORTS — Highway Commission has approved new farm to market road program which calls for development of 949.3 miles of secondary roads in the state, including 228 projects in 166 counties, covering 623 miles at a cost of $24,600,000.

Parks and Wildlife Commission is weighing the merits of setting the deer hunting season as November 1 through January 15 and will announce its decision in July after public hearings have ended.

Highway Department tourist bureaus have extended their hours from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in preparation for an expected record number of out-of-state visitors.

Sermon Of The Week

'A Word Fitly Spoken'

By WEENS S. DYKES
Minister, First Christian Church

It has been said that God has given us two eyes and two ears and only one tongue, that we see twice as much and hear twice as much for our speaking once.

Not many among us speak as one having authority, as was referred to Jesus.

Too many of us can be put in the category with those of whom it is said, "Their tongue is tied in the muffle and loose at both ends." He that thinketh by the inch and taketh by the yard, should be kicked by the foot, is a saying that certainly holds great merit for our age if applied with respect of persons.

In the Old Testament there is a statement in the Book of Proverbs that needs to become a part of our daily life, the writer says: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver."

Gold is considered a precious metal and the words that we let fall from our lips should be considered in like manner.

Jesus says, "But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give an account thereof in the day of judgement. For by thy words shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned."

Yet, how many of us really take this statement of Jesus seriously? Too few I am afraid.

To know the time to speak and what to say is a virtue most of us aspire to possess. To weigh our words in the balances and to be found not wanting is to have attained a perfection rarely known in our world. Indeed, most of us cry out with the Psalmist, "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer."

"There is a time to keep silence, and a time to speak," may God grant us the wisdom to do accordingly.

It has been said that more people have been killed with words than with bullets.

The New Testament writer James says of the tongue, "My brethren, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation. For in many things we offend all. If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, able also to bridle the whole body. . . . But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil full of deadly poison."

"Therefore bless we God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God. Out of the same mouth proceedeth both blessing."

Crop Forecast

For Wheat, Cotton

Texas wheat production, based on June 1 prospects is forecast at 56,376,000 bushels, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

This is 3,132,000 bushels below the May 1 forecast. Yield is expected to average 18.0 bushels per acre compared with 22.5 last year.

High Plains wheat condition is generally poor with the crop being affected throughout the growing season by drought, hail, insects, and freeze damage.

The amount of freeze damage resulting on May 1 and 2 varies greatly among fields of wheat. The damage appears most extensive to irrigated wheat in southern portions of the Northern High Plains where development was farther along.

Some wheat along the Red River and on the High Plains was damaged in early June by heavy rains and hail. Harvest has been slowed by recent rains, and was 21 percent complete by June 2.

Cotton prospects are good in the eastern third of the State. In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, Coastal Bend, and Southcentral Texas, prospects have improved with recent rainfall. In the Blacklands, the crop is generally making good growth, although mildew is showing up in southern parts and there is spraying of some fields.

The rainfall received in early June will allow planting of large acreages on the High and Low Plains. Sorghum planting for the State on June 2 was 74 percent complete compared with the 87 percent last year.

Sorghum is making good growth in the eastern third of the State. In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, Coastal Bend, Upper Coast, and Southcentral Texas, growth has been stimulated by the rainfall received and the crop is fruiting well, although insects are building up.

In Blacklands, cotton is making good progress, however, insects and weeds are building up due to wet fields. On the High Plains, some cotton was lost to hail and heavy rains.

Planting on the Southern High Plains was 73 percent complete on June 2 and large acreages of cotton remain to be planted on the Low Plains, but planting activity should increase rapidly with the moisture received. On June 2, planting for the State was 74 percent complete compared with 90 percent last year.

Offering 'Em Hope

Senators View of Job Corps

By RALPH YARBOROUGH
United States Senator

This week in Washington, with very little fanfare, the Office of Economic Opportunity announced that it had extended the contract for the Gary Job Corps Center at San Marcos, Texas, for another two years. The new contract runs from July 1 of this year until June 30 of 1969.

The writer Thomas Wolfe proclaimed the motives of this modern program for young Americans when he wrote:

"To every man . . . his chance.

"To every man the right to live . . . to work . . . to be himself . . . and to become whatever his manhood and his vision combine to make him."

"This . . . seeker . . . is the promise of America."

Thomas Wolfe wrote that thirty years ago, and President Lyndon Johnson quoted it two years ago when he spoke at the Gary Job Corps Center dedication. Camp Gary, which was turned into the Job Corps Center, was the first such training center in the nation, and it has been an overwhelming success.

The Job Corps is an important segment of this country's war on poverty — a training program for young men and women between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one who are jobless and who, for one reason or another, lack the training and the education to make it on their own in this modern society.

This month more than 40,000 young Americans are getting a special chance at learning a skill or finishing their job training at the Job Corps. It is a program that will help them step out of poverty and into a useful role in their community and their nation.

These youngsters come from all over this country — from the farms, the cities, and from every ethnic background. They have only two things in common at the start: they are poor and they want to escape their poverty.

The federal government created and is financing the job corps, working closely with local authorities. Since Gary Job Corps Center was created in 1965, more than 10,000 young men have arrived there. Some were called social misfits. Most of them have left with new hope. The San Marcos Center has the lowest dropout rate of all the job corps centers in the Nation. Students at Gary come from all parts of the United States to study such things as auto mechanics, welding, business administration, office skills, carpentry, and dozens of other programs that can give them a break in our modern competitive society.

Today at Gary and in other job corps centers around the nation there are nearly 4,000 young Texans receiving training. The newest of these centers to begin operation is the McKinney Job Corps Center at McKinney, Texas, in Collin County. Some 600 women are there now receiving training which hopefully will lead them back to their hometowns and to happy, useful lives.

According to the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, which directs the job corps program, the typical trainee is less than 18 years old. He has less than nine years of formal schooling and comes from a family and community environment that would make his return to school under normal circumstances almost impossible.

But these men and women are young; they are full of hope and most of them are trying very hard. The Job Corps program, at places like Gary Job Corps Center in San Marcos, is giving them a chance to find a job and take their place in society.

Turning Of The Tide

In War On Ignorance and Poverty

Our nation has made larger gains against ignorance, unemployment and poverty over the past three years than during "any comparable period in history."

That's the studied opinion expressed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz in recent testimony on urban problems before the Senate Subcommittee on Executive Reorganization.

"It won't hurt or weaken us as a Nation," Wirtz said, "to recognize the turn of a tide of battle we had let run against us for a century."

Secretary Wirtz, who also noted the unfinished tasks in the country's war against disadvantage, cited this national progress over the past three years:

2 million more people working and 1 million more in high school and college than the population increase of the past three years accounts for.

3 million people have either received training or been helped to stay in school or get jobs under the new education, antipoverty and manpower programs.

1½ million children have benefited from Head Start. 1 million boys and girls got jobs in each of the summer of 1965 and 1968 and another 1 million will get jobs this summer under the Youth Opportunity Campaign.

Between 1½ and 2 million persons who are in school or training or at work today would be out of school and out of work if it hadn't been for recently-developed programs.

The number of hard-core jobless (those out of work 15 weeks or more) has been sliced by more than half, from 1,322,000 in March 1964 to 560,000 in March 1967.

Secretary Wirtz added that while the cost of fighting in Viet Nam has been rising over the past 3 or 4 years, "this country has increased its Federal appropriations and expenditures for human and urban redevelopment — especially those benefiting the disadvantaged, the poor — in infinitely larger amounts and at a far faster rate than ever before."

Federal funds for educational and training programs that benefit the poor, he said, increased from $300 million in 1963 to $2.5 billion in 1966 and to an estimated $3.1 billion in 1967.

This represents a 10-fold rise over the past four years. "Total Federal expenditures for education, training, medical and health-related programs, along with programs assisting the poor," Mr. Wirtz noted, "have increased from $19.8 billion in 1963 to an estimated $34.9 billion in 1967."

This, he added, is a 76 per cent increase in four years. But major problems, high youth and minority-group unemployment, the gap between white and nonwhite earnings and poor progress in nonwhite promotions, "continue to keep all who are decently concerned awake at night," he said. "But we are tough-minded enough — fair-minded enough — level-headed enough — to check the benchmarks of what we are getting done as well as the roadmap of our intention," the Secretary declared.

Late Economy

Debt Limit Vote

By OMAR BURLESON
U. S. Congressman
11th District

"A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" — the subject of a Broadway theatrical a few years ago — based on certain facets of Roman political life.

A funny thing happened last week in the House of Representatives when legislation to again raise the national debt limit was defeated by 13 votes. The peculiar aspect was the fact that some of the most liberal and the most conservative voted together, but for different reasons.

During the last 33 years the debt limit has been raised 19 times, but this is the first time for defeat.

THE MORE CONSERVATIVE of the Congress have usually voted against the increases in the debt limit by reason of the inner satisfaction that they were not responsible for the necessity of raising the debt ceiling. If expenditures had been kept within the bounds as voted for by those who felt we should live reasonably within our means, the government would not have to continue to borrow huge sums for its operation.

The more liberal element has voted against the increase in the debt limit — not consistently but recently — because they say it enables our government to borrow money to finance its national defense and the Viet Nam War.

FROM THE STANDPOINT of fiscal responsibility, both theories are somewhat short of being on solid ground.

This is one issue on which some of us have been on both sides over the years, but for good and sufficient reasons. As mentioned, when one feels he is not responsible for necessity of giving the government greater borrowing power, there is personal satisfaction in opposing raising the ceiling on what the government can borrow.

William Randolph Hearst II wrote a number of years ago, "I always feel that it is not as important to be consistent as it is to be correct. A man who is completely inconsistent never learns anything. Conditions change and he does not."

WE ARE AT WAR, and not to have governmental authority to finance what it may take to win could be calamitous. For the government not to be able to manage its public debt could, on down the line, cause chaotic conditions at a time when it could ill afford to do so.

The debt ceiling is simply the limit to which the U. S. Treasury can borrow money to meet the government's obligations. It comes down to the simple fact that when the government's obligations reach a point where shortly they total more than the debt ceiling, Congress must give a latitude for the issuance of more government securities.

ON EVERY occasion when the Congress has had this issue under debate, some very fine economy speeches are made by just about everyone.

Those who support raising the debt limit talk about fiscal responsibility and, of course, they are correct. They usually urge that the authority be granted "this time" and it will not be necessary in the future. Usually, they say that we must watch our actions in authorizations and appropriations in order that future raises will not be necessary.

THE PLACE AND time to practice economy and fiscal responsibility is when each appropriation bill is first considered. Once appropriations are made the obligation must be met and, of course, that is what causes the debt — spending money beyond and above our income.

It is too late to practice economy when the necessity arises for raising the debt limit. In fact, raising the limit has nothing to do with economy at all.

Unless the Congress puts first things first, we will be going through this exercise time and time again.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
