Water System Would Save Five Times Annual Cost Of Bonds, City Heads Say

LOSSES HERE ESTIMATED AT $550,000 YEAR

Fairtrace and Douglass See Economy in Providing Adequate System

CONSUMER TO SAVE

Insurance, Soap, Radiator And Plumbing Bills Exceed Bond Payments

Acceptance of the $1,400,000 bond issue for improvements in the city water situation would result in a saving to each person in Wichita Falls of more than five times the amount that each would pay in raised taxes or water rates, according to figures furnished The Record News Tuesday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and Dr. A. H. Douglass, general manager of the water department.

According to the figures of Mr. Fairtrace, the annual amount necessary to pay off the bonds would approximate $105,000, this amount being collected either by a raise in taxes or in the city water rates. In comparison with this figure, Dr. Douglass and Mr. Fairtrace estimated that a total of $550,000 would be saved by residents of the city by the supplying of pure, soft water. These estimates are based on figures obtained from local insurance men, plumbing experts, merchants and the experience of other cities in the United States.

Dr. Douglass quoted the case of Lansing, Mich., a city of about 75,000 population, where it was reported that a saving of $164,000 annually had been effected in soap bills alone after the furnishing of soft water for consumption.

Huge Savings

With the addition of larger mains and greater pumping facilities, the city would obtain a saving of about $80,000 annually in insurance premiums, according to figures compiled by local insurance firms. The present rate of 20 cents would be lowered appreciably by the provision of greater water pressure and larger quantity, Mr. Fairtrace said.

In a report furnished to Dr. Douglass by local merchants, it was estimated that a saving of $150,000 annually would be caused in soap bills by the furnishing of soft water. This figure was based on an estimate of 10,000 families in Wichita Falls and would run considerably higher with the inclusion of hotels, rooming houses, laundries and other establishments using soap in large quantities, Mr. Fairtrace said.

In plumbing and hot water heaters, residents would find a saving of approximately $10 per house per year, or a total of about $100,000 annually with soft water provided, it was estimated by several local plumbers. This figure would run considerably higher in consideration of other types of plumbing and water conduits, Dr. Douglass stated.

By providing pure water throughout the year and eliminating the

GRAF LEAVES FOR U. S. TODAY

Pacific Hop to Mark Last Leg of Flight

TOKYO, Aug. 21. (Wednesday)—The Graf Zeppelin will take off for Los Angeles at 4 a. m. tomorrow (Thursday) (3 p. m., Wednesday E. D. T.)

This announcement was made this morning to the passengers by Commodore Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, before he retired, after a delayed inspection of his craft. The inspection revealed a punctured gas cell, damaged just before the landing Monday, which will be repaired.

Meanwhile, the officers, passengers and crew of the giant monarch of the air are being feted royally as preparations are being completed for the hopoff on the Pacific flight, the third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin world flight. Replenishing of gas, fuel and larder are going on, and arrangements are being concluded for the shipping of 75,000 pieces of mail, at an ounce rate of $1 to Los Angeles, $1.50 to New York and $2.50 to Friedrichshafen.

DEATH CASTS SHADOW OVER SPIRITED RACE

Marvel Crosson's Death In Crash Stops Fliers At Douglas

SABOTAGE CHARGED

Probe Is Started to See If Planes Had Been Tampered With

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 20. (UP)—Robert P. Holliday, Santa Monica newspaper publisher, said today he had wired Cliff Henderson of Cleveland, manager of the national air meet, asking that the women's air derby be called off pending more adequate inspection and repair of the planes.

At the same time, the district attorney's office in San Bernardino announced that a complete investigation would be made of charges of sabotage advanced by certain entrants who had trouble with their planes after they left here for Yuma Monday.

It was understood the United States department of commerce also intended to investigate the sabotage reports.

FLIERS ORDERED TO STOP AT DOUGLAS

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 20. (US)—Charges of sabotage climaxed by the tragic death of Marvel Crosson resulted in orders for the remaining Santa Monica to Cleveland women's air derby contestants to remain here over night instead of continuing to El Paso.

Orders also were issued today for rigid inspection of all planes in the race before the start of each day's lap. The original itinerary for the third lap of the race called for the 15 aviatrices, all who remain of the 19 who took off Sunday from Santa Monica, Calif., to take off from Phoenix, Ariz., make stops here and at Lordsburg, N. M., and spend tonight in El Paso.

Mrs. Miller Down

Shortage of fuel forced Mrs. Keith Miller of New Zealand down 10 miles from Douglas. She made the control here after refueling.

Unofficial figures compiled by executives in charge of the Douglas control today placed Mrs. Louis Thaden of Pittsburgh and Phoebe Omilie of New York as respective leaders in the two classes of planes competing.

Not until they read the newspapers here late today did the aviatrices know of the death of one of their number, Miss Crosson, at the heels of sabotage charges by Mrs. Claire Fahy of Los Angeles and Thea Rasche of Germany.

MARVEL CROSSON'S BODY FOUND IN DESERT

WELLTON, Ariz., Aug. 20. (UP)—The broken body of Miss Marvel Crosson, beautiful San Diego entrant in the women's air derby, was recovered from the wild desert country near here today.

She had died in a futile attempt to parachute to safety when her heavy plane developed engine trouble and fell to earth. Miss Crosson's body was found 200 feet from the wrecked plane, a partially opened parachute telling of her jump.

After a night spent in the desert country, where the brush is often more than 10 feet high, searchers found the almost unrecognizable body and the demolished plane in a ravine near the Gila river bed.

3,000 WIDOWS LOSE PENSIONS

Old South's Matrons Not Voted Funds by Solons

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—For the first time in 15 years some widows of Confederate veterans will not receive a pension check from the state when warrants for the quarter ending Aug. 31 are mailed out.

Instead of the $75 widows of wearers of the gray who are 75 years old and over should receive under a law passed by the current legislature, they will get $67. Widows under 75 years old will get nothing, and in this class are many dependent on their pension checks.

Not Enough Funds

The attorney general's department, in a ruling, held that where the pension fund is insufficient to pay the maximum pension to all, those in the preferred class must be given their pension and the balance prorated. At the end of this quarter not only will the balance be insufficient to pay all those on the rolls, but it will not pay the preferred pensioners the full $75 voted them. They will have to take $67.

Under the old law, Confederate widows born prior to 1861 only were entitled to receive a pension. The recent legislative session made all widows born prior to 1873 eligible, and placed all those 75 years old and over in the preferred class, but furnished no additional money.

This was what caused the trouble and took from the widows from 70 to 74 years old their pensions.

3,000 Widows Affected

About 3,000 widows under 75 years old will not receive a cent.

Realizing what had been done, Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, during the closing days of the third called session of the legislature, attempted to have a sum appropriated from the general fund to supplement the seven cent pension levy in order to avoid the situation that now exists, but the proposition was voted down.

CLINE URGES PEACE AMONG DEMO FACTIONS

"Disarmament Conference" And "Business Policy" Badly Needed, He Says

ANSWER DELAYED

Letter to Carrigan Promises Decision Later On Governor's Race

Urging the importance of early unification of the Democratic ranks in Texas, and declaring "a permanent policy of business administration for the Democratic party" more important than the identity of gubernatorial nominees, Walter Cline Tuesday issued a statement deferring a definite answer to the petition recently circulated seeking him to become a candidate for the office of governor in the next state election.

Mr. Cline suggests a "disarmament conference" within the Democratic circles of Texas, in order that "confidence may be restored in the policies and leadership of the party." He indicated that no definite announcement relative to his proposed candidacy could be made until late in the fall.

The statement was made in the form of a letter addressed to Judge A. H. Carrigan, who was the first signer of the petition which originated about three weeks ago. The letter follows:

Dear Judge:

"As I am leaving town tomorrow to join Mrs. Cline and the children on a little fishing trip in Louisiana, I thought I should say something to you and my other friends in Wichita Falls who have complimented me by your recent petition.

"Assuming that you will give the same publicity to this letter that has been given the petition, I will take this opportunity to publicly thank you and my other friends for this fine expression of your confidence in me. I am sure Mrs. Cline

Widow Asks Court to Keep Neighbor From Discussing Husband's Death

Alleged Charge That She Poisoned Mate Untrue, Mrs. Delia Morris Says in Plea to Judge

Mrs. Delia Morris, 409 Lamar, widow of T. A. Morris who died here on Aug. 3, Tuesday afternoon applied for an injunction order restraining E. S. Goodlett, her neighbor at 407 Lamar, from the alleged circulation of a report that she poisoned her husband. The petition was filed at 5 o'clock in the 78th district court and will be presented to Judge W. W. Cook Wednesday morning.

The petitioner accuses Goodlett of continuing to bring the charge against her and of otherwise maligning her character. She asserts that she traveled all over the state in an effort to restore her husband to health during the 10 months of his illness with high blood pressure and heart trouble, and declares that the alleged remarks of the defendant are untrue.

The application further sets out that Mr. Morris, who was an employe of the Fort Worth and Denver, was under the care of a physician before and at the time of his death and that the plaintiff gave her aid in every way. She asks that Goodlett be restrained from charging her with other acts as well as with the administration of the poison.

When informed by The Record News of the filing of the suit Tuesday evening, Mr. Goodlett said that he had no knowledge that Mrs. Morris contemplated such action. He said that he had no personal ill-feeling toward his neighbor and that he had been too busy during the time which has elapsed since the death of Mr. Morris to circulate any reports. The defendant declared that he could not be sure of how he would meet the application because it came as a complete surprise to him.

NEW MARSHAL EXPECTED HERE

Bartlett Suspended Pending Hearing on Charges

A temporary successor to J. J. Bartlett, deputy United States marshal who was suspended here Tuesday morning following the filing of criminal assault charges brought by a 7-year-old girl, is expected to take charge of the marshal's office in the courthouse Wednesday morning, according to information in the hands of J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner.

Notice of Bartlett's suspension was received by the Record News Tuesday morning in a wire from W. P. Stokes, chief deputy in the Dallas office. The new official, whose position here will be strictly tentative for the present, is expected to be sent down from the Dallas office. Federal authorities here had not been told Tuesday evening who would receive the appointment.

Sam Spence, district attorney, Tuesday afternoon began an extensive investigation of the charges brought by the child against the 61-year-old official. The child's story was re-told by her paralytic father and by other members of the family whose signed stories are on file in the district attorney's office. Bartlett is under $4,000 bond on charges of criminal assault in the district court and aggravated assault in the county court. He has denied the charges.

'SUN GOD' LANDS

Mamer and Walker End Round Trip Flight To New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Two Swiss fliers, scarcely more than boys, were overdue tonight in their attempt to conquer the westward crossing of the North Atlantic.

Blithely disregarding the fact that they knew next to nothing of navigation, Oscar Kaesar and Kurt Luescher took off from Lisbon early yesterday morning and headed their white monoplane for the far coast across the waves.

They flew over the Azores at 1 o'clock, eastern standard time, in the afternoon. After that no ship at sea sighted them and today passed without any report of their whereabouts. It was foggy along the coast and if they reached New Foundland and Nova Scotia they were not seen.

Judging from their speed as far as the Azores, the Swiss fliers should have reached New York at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Field officials decided to burn the beacons all night, but there was small belief that the fliers would arrive.

The plane was a French land plane with no equipment for landing on the water.

SUN GOD ENDS ROUND TRIP HOP

FELTS FIELD, SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 20. (UP)—The transcontinental plane, Spokane Sun God, landed here at 6 o'clock tonight—exactly five days to the minute after it took off on a round trip refuelling flight to New York.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 20. (UP)—Aviation's first nonstop, round trip flight between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts was completed today when the monoplane, Sun God, arrived at Spokane after flying to New York and back again without touching its wheels to earth.

The plane began circling over the airport at 1:50 p. m., Pacific coast time.

Officials at the airport here were not certain whether the pilots, Nick Mamer and Art Walker, intended to land or keep flying in an effort to establish a new endurance record. The plane circled about the field after its arrival over its home station.

The Sun God made the trip to Roosevelt Field, N. Y., and return in 115 hours and 50 minutes. It took off from Felts field here at exactly 6 p. m., last Thursday.

A crowd estimated at 20,000 persons was at the field in advance of the big ship's appearance. Whistles throughout the city were blowing and all business was suspended while citizens cheered the fliers as they completed their remarkable flight.

18 NAVAL PLANES LAND AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (UP)—Eighteen naval planes bearing 45 U. S. navy fliers en route from San Diego to Cleveland for the national air races arrived at Love field here late today.

The planes made a 600 mile hop from El Paso today and expect to arrive in Cleveland for the opening of the national air races Aug. 24. They will take off from here tomorrow.

Waters Commission To Hold Secret Meeting

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20. (US)—Secrecy will veil the proceedings of the international waters commission which began discussions here at 4 o'clock this afternoon on Mexico's rights in the Boulder dam project in Colorado. Dr. Elwood Mead, chairman of the American section of this commission, stated today.

The reason for secrecy was not definitely explained, but it was suggested that whatever decision the commission makes, ratification of both the United States and Mexican government will be necessary.

Legality of Dallas' Car Impounding Law to Be Tested, Victim Warns

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (UP)—The legality of hooking up an overparked automobile to a wrecker and hauling it off to the city pound will be tested in the courts, L. R. Doughty, Dallas contractor, gave notice here late today.

Doughty's car was the second to be taken to the city pound after the new ordinance went into effect today making it permissible. He accompanied officers hauling away the car. When he was refused its return without the payment of a $2 fine, he demanded arrest of the officers at the district attorney's office.

He pointed out that tampering with a parked motor vehicle or manipulating the starter is a legal offense.

When Robert L. Hurt, assistant district attorney in charge, refused to take the complaint, Doughty employed J. Frank Wilson, an attorney, to file sequestration proceedings with view of having the car returned.

San Antonio as well as other cities in the state, officers said, have had a car impounding law in force for a number of years without the legality of it being questioned in the courts.

Students Shrug Shoulders at Frat Rules; New Building Is Approved

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (UP)—A four-year probation period for fraternities and sororities at the University of Texas, voted by the board of regents yesterday, failed today to cause any consternation in the student ranks.

Students simply shrugged their shoulders when asked if they feared revolutionary changes in housing and social life at the end of that time.

By being placed under immediate faculty regulation, the Greeks will be required to comply with minor rules limiting certain privileges they have enjoyed. None are radical in character and comply in general with regulations already in force at most schools and rulings already fixed by the national offices of most of the social groups.

State Senator W. E. Thomason, Nacogdoches, could not be reached tonight to learn whether he will present a bill to the legislature abolishing fraternities. He previously said he would await to see what action the board would take.

The regents met again today to consider the university building program, and approved construction of a $1,000,000 chemistry building.

WATER LOSS $550,000 YEAR

Consumers Pay for Poor System, Say Experts

necessity of by-passing part of the water during the heat waves in the summer when consumption exceeds the capacity of the present filtration plant, a saving of about $90,000 annually could be effected by doing away with the purchasing of bottled waters, Mr. Fairtrace said. In many cases, it was pointed out, families spend as much as $6 per month on bottled water, preferring to drink this type rather than jeopardize their health by drinking city water of uncertain purity.

Hundreds of women spend large amounts yearly in having their hair washed at beauty parlors and barber shops where the water has been softened, Mr. Fairtrace stated, and the elimination of this item, by providing soft water in the home, would save the city about $125,000 annually.

In reference to damage caused in automobile radiators by the hard water, Dr. Douglass estimated that about $30,000 annually could be saved by using soft water. This figure, he said, was based on an estimate of $15 for a radiator which would last about five years, or an average of $3 per year for 10,000 automobiles.

Health Most Important

"These figures, totaling $550,000, indicate a huge monetary saving for residents of the city," Mr. Fairtrace said, "but they can in no way estimate the saving to human health that would result from the providing of pure and soft water for Wichita Falls.

"It might be said that soft water would increase the life of fabrics by at least 50 per cent, which figures have shown to be true, but it must also be said that pure water would increase the longevity and maintain the health of residents of the city, and this feature could not be expressed in percentages or in dollars and cents."

Dr. Douglass, in corroborating this statement of Mr. Fairtrace, stated that the increase in pollution in the present open ditch from the lake to the city was more than 100 per cent greater than in the lake proper.

Dilution in the large area of the lake would render ineffective bacteria which would, if found in the unprotected ditch, create a hazard to the health of the community, he said. It had been argued, Dr. Douglass pointed out, that pollution could not be eliminated by constructing a conduit from the lake to the plant since it would be impossible to keep pollution out of the lake itself. The dilution of the lake, however, would eliminate danger of pollution from that source, he stated, and the conduit would do away with bacteria which cannot be kept out of the open ditch.

REMINGTON GIVES CORRECT FIGURES ON DITCH COST

Two methods of conserving the soft water of Lake Wichita were suggested Tuesday by G. A. Remington, general manager of the Wichita County Water Improvement districts Nos. 1 and 2. These means were stated only as possibilities, Mr. Remington said, and their use rests with the decision of the city if it desires to conserve Lake Wichita water for domestic consumption only.

Conserve Water

The first method suggested was to provide water for irrigation purposes only from the Lake Kemp system and to construct a ditch south of Holliday creek connecting the system which uses Lake Wichita water at present with the Lake Kemp system. This would make it possible to use Lake Wichita water for city consumption only.

The second method would be to construct a low pressure system of mains from the Call Field irrigation canal throughout the city, these mains to furnish raw water from Lake Kemp for the watering of lawns, trees and flowers and for all uses other than human consumption. These uses, Mr. Remington pointed out, cause the heavy drain on the lake during the summer months which in turn forces the by-passing of water, some of which is used for human consumption.

Mr. Remington stated that he had been incorrectly quoted at the city council meeting Monday night when it was said that he had estimated $50,000 as sufficient for the building of a canal south of Lake Wichita for the purpose of furnishing irrigation water for the system which now utilizes Lake Wichita water. His estimate, he declared, was for a canal south of Holliday creek which would cost approximately $75,000 or $100,000. A canal south of the lake would cost at least $1,000,000, he said, and the estimate for the canal south of the creek would be correct only provided there were no difficulties in obtaining rights of way for the ditch.

At the present time the irrigation system, sometimes called "the old system," which takes water from Lake Wichita is operated as a part of the Wichita county system and its business is handled through the same office as that of the Lake Kemp system. The proposed canal south of Holliday creek would connect with the lateral east of the lake, leading from the Call Field system, he pointed out. Mr. Remington said he wished it to be known that the irrigation department would make no recommendations to the city but that it would cooperate in solving the water problem should the irrigation districts be involved in proposed changes for securing pure, soft water for city consumption.

First Artists of New Academy Of Fine Arts Ready to Begin Work Here

Arrival of three of the artists being brought to this city by the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, Tenth and Brook, as instructors, was announced Tuesday by Mlle. Delphyne Baluewa, president of the academy.

Of the more than 12 instructors engaged elsewhere to assume positions in the new institution here, Miss Gladys Milligan, head of the art department; Aaron Kaufman, head of the piano department; and Charles Doran, instructor in tap and ball room dancing, were on hand Tuesday.

Miss Milligan returned from Europe about a year ago following six years of study in New York and Paris. During that period she held teaching positions also in the Great Neck Preparatory school, Great Neck, L. I., N. Y., St. Mary's Junior college, Raleigh, N. C., and at Chateau de Bures, France.

Among the teachers with whom she worked were listed George Luke of New York, considered one of the outstanding of present day American painters, and a master technician. In Paris she studied with Andre Lhote, prominent in the school of modern art, and in Fontainebleau with M. Despujol. During the past year she has completed several portrait paintings in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Teacher From Russia

Mr. Kaufman, teacher of piano, arrived in the United States in 1916 from Russia, where he had been an instructor in the Royal Conservatory of Music at St. Petersburg until the outbreak of the war. His teaching began at the age of 13, his first pupil "being a large and husky printer." Since coming to the United States he has taught in New York, where he made his first concert appearance in Carnegie Hall in 1917; Detroit College of Music, and in Los Angeles. He was for three years principal of the Northern Branch of the Detroit College of Music.

Mr. Kaufman's activities have not been limited to teaching and concert piano, but have included extensive work with light opera, oratorio and choral organizations, both as conductor and as tenor soloist.

Charles Doran, instructor in tap and ball room dancing, came to the Wichita Falls academy direct from the Bud Murray Dancing school at Los Angeles, with whom he has been associated for eight years as assistant. His professional dancing covers a period of more than 12 years during which time he has filled vaudeville engagements with the Keith circuit and with Fanchon & Marco, a west coast booking agency.

Feature dancing for various motion productions has included numbers for "The Desert Song," and others. At the Murray Studios, Mr. Doran assisted in training Al Jolson, Ann Pennington and numerous other stars of musical comedy and screen fame.

Department of Languages

The department of languages will be conducted by A. C. Weill, and will offer courses in Spanish, French, German and beginning Italian. Mr. Weill has been in Wichita Falls a short time, and has heretofore accepted private pupils in these subjects. His experiences have lent practical use to the training received in the languages. Born of French parentage in Holland, he served with the French forces in Algeria immediately before coming to the United States in 1890. Service in Central American and South American fields for American business houses was interrupted by an enlistment for the duration of the United States' war with Spain in 1898. Mr. Weill then resumed his traveling, continuing for 25 years in Old Mexico, Central America and Cuba, where German, French and Spanish were the official tongues. Having been a student of languages during a lifetime, he declared, his readings have included practically all of the classics and semi-classics in the languages named.

NEW PRISONS RECOMMENDED

Five New Projects Urged By Mitchell

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (US)—Spurred by the shocking overcrowding of federal prisons, and recent rioting that was one of its symptoms, Attorney General Mitchell has recommended a $6,250,000 program of new prison construction, he announced today.

An additional penitentiary, a new industrial reformatory and three federal jails would be built, under Mitchell's plan, to house prisoners now "doubled up" in federal penitentiaries and spilling over into state and county institutions. The new building would accommodate about 4,500.

Vacate U. S. Prison

Meanwhile, President Hoover announced, the army will vacate its military prison at Fort Leavenworth Kan., to make room for federal civil prisoners until new buildings are provided. The military prison was described as a good one, capable of receiving about 1,800 men.

This number will be transferred from Atlanta and from the civil prison at Leavenworth, which is distinct from the military prison there.

The 600 army prisoners now at Leavenworth will be transferred to Blackwell's Island, N. Y., Alcatraz, Calif., and army post prisons. The number of army prisoners may also be reduced by paroles. Many parole recommendations are on file.

House 2,000 Men

The new penitentiary recommended would accommodate 2,000 men and cost about $3,000,000. It would be located somewhere in the northeastern section of the country. The new industrial reformatory, to cost about $2,500,000 would take care of 1,000 men, and operate on the same general plans as the reformatory built a few years ago at Chillicothe, Ohio. It would be in the West.

The jails a new type of institution for the federal government, would be built in different sections, to house prisoners serving terms of not more than a year. They would cost about $250,000 each.

OKLA. ANGLERS SOUGHT HERE

Friends Hunt Plane of Missing Men

Inquiries were being conducted here Tuesday night for Joe Bates, attorney, and Fred C. Cosman, both of Oklahoma City, who have not been heard from since they took off from Meacham field in Bates' monoplane Sunday morning headed for Lake Kemp. They were expected through Wichita Falls and on into Oklahoma City on Monday, but no word had been received from them late Tuesday evening.

The flyers left the Oklahoma City field last Saturday, flew to Fort Worth, and took off again Sunday morning with the announced intention of landing at Lake Kemp for a few hours fishing before completing the flight home.

John Crawford, warden at the lake said Tuesday night that he had neither seen nor heard of a ship in the lake district and no word had been received at either of the local landing fields. Diversion dam officials were also without any knowledge of the ship or its occupants.

Last Services Held For Mrs. Craycroft

Funeral services for Mrs. Emily Craycroft, 78, 1008 Fifth street, who died here Sunday night, were held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. A. Bundy, 1673 Dayton street, at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, officiating. Interment was in Riverside.

Francis, President Grover Cleveland and other leaders of the time. She was the daughter of Richard J. and Emily Huff, pioneers of Missouri and of a pioneer Kentucky family. She was born in Syracuse, Ky., in 1851 and married Colonel Craycroft in 1870, his death coming in 1911.

She is survived by two sons, Frank and Ben Craycroft and two daughters, Mrs. M. A. Bundy and Mrs. Grace C. Wright, all of Wichita Falls.

Cline Takes Rap At Demo Factions

and the five little Cline's will also want to join in a sincere, Thank you.

"Since you have suggested that my name be used as a candidate for governor, I am going to make a few observations.

Peace Between Factions

"Wouldn't it be a fine thing, Judge, if the Democrats of Texas could hold a disarmament conference? The balance sheet of the Democratic party could be reviewed, facts discussed, the future be faced and all citizens of Texas who believe with you and me that the Democratic party can give Texas an honest, economical administration of her public affairs, would have opportunity to unite.

"If there is one fact sticking out, like a sore thumb, that must be faced by the Democratic party in Texas, it is the fact that the citizenship of Texas lack full confidence in the leadership and activities of the Democratic party.

"In trying to answer the question, what can we do about it, I believe that the first need of our party is to lay down a definite policy which would guarantee a continuity of honest, economical handling of public affairs and funds so long as the Democratic party is entrusted, by the citizenship of Texas, with the control of public affairs.

"I am convinced that good government for the citizenship, then a permanent policy of business administration for the Democratic party are much more important than the individual desiring to be a nominee of that party.

"I believe that, at times in the past, we have permitted personalities and prejudices to obscure the importance of party and principles. We have quite frequently voted our prejudices for or against some "ism or ist" or individual without enough thought of the good of the citizenship. Don't you agree that when confidence is restored in the policies and leadership of the Democratic party, we will then be in position to cure most of the ills we now complain of.

Qualifications of Candidates

"I will express the hope to you that we may see during this and all future campaigns a candidate of the Democratic party who will have something more than his own consent, a campaign fund and a "bucket of mud;" and that the campaign will offer something more important to the citizenship of Texas to vote upon than the settlement of personal grudges or an appeal to political prejudice.

"You and my other friends know that my first duty is the welfare and happiness of my family, and I must devote the next two or three months to my personal affairs. Assuming that I will get my business in satisfactory condition, I will say to you that at the end of this time or possibly before, I will be glad to give you a definite anwser to the request you have made of me.

"Again thanking you, and with my warm, personal regards, I am,
"Your friend,
WALTER CLINE."

WHAT KISSES TELL MOTHER

Keeping children well is easy when mother can read the early symptoms of childhood's ills.

If little ones are fretful, pale, languid, won't eat and want to be mothered; when they often get colds and sore throat and seem feverish, depend upon it the bowels are sluggish. You notice unpleasant breath when you kiss them—sure sign of constipation and a sour stomach.

Give a little California Fig Syrup to purify the system and see how quickly it restores strength, appetite and joyous spirits. It acts without pain and gently cleanses the bowels of constipated waste which causes feverishness, sours the digestion and keeps the little one sickly and backward.

If you suspect measles or some other children's disease, give a dose of California Fig Syrup without delay. The doctor will praise your forethought. California Fig Syrup is the finest laxative in the world for children. It suits them perfectly and they love its delicious taste. For a child who is habitually constipated there is no other remedy to equal California Fig Syrup for coaxing the bowels back to healthy regularity. If you have a child who is troublesome in this way try California Fig Syrup. Get a bottle today. All drug stores have it.

California Fig Syrup has been trusted by the World's mothers for over 30 years. That is why the word "California" should be emphasized when buying.—Adv.

CLEANERS END PRICE WAR

Plants Here Adopt Scale For Services

Biblical prophecy of a day when "the lion and the lamb shall lie down together" reached fulfillment in the ranks of cleaning and pressing establishments Tuesday after many years of intermittent price warfare, according to information given The Record News by representatives of the industry.

All establishments in the city adopted the following price schedule on cleaning and pressing men's suits, it was said: cash and carry, 75 cents; cash and deliver, $1; charge and deliver, $1.25.

One of the periodic price struggles which have featured the history of the industry in this city occurred early in the present year, when the numerous shops in Wichita Falls were said to be aligned definitely into two groups. Opinion at that time seemed to point at charge accounts and delivery costs as a material handicap to the larger establishments in competing with small neighborhood shops where practically all business was on a cash basis. The fixing of definite charges for delivery and credit above the uniform cash and carry price was adopted as promising permanent solution of the problem, it was said.

JONES LAW ARMS NATION AGAINST CRAFTY CRIMINALS

NEW MEASURE IS NOT HARSH

It's Merely Just, Says Mabel Walker Willebrandt

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
XVII The Jones Law

By MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world)

(Still dealing with the subject of putting the law to work, Mrs. Willebrandt in this article tells of the progress made before the Jones law was passed and why she advocated its passage. She shows how the big bootlegger could operate with ease and contempt of the law until "teeth" were provided by enacting legislation which put violation of enforcement legislation on a par with other crimes).

Almost every one has noticed recently that every magazine has most attractive advertisements for the use of yeast cakes. They picture such attractive, athletic, virile looking men and women that I take some pride in having had a part in selling the idea to the country!

Mrs. Willebrandt

Much advertisement of yeast follows from two cases won in the supreme court of the United States which prohibited doctors from prescribing more than a pint of whisky every 10 days, and using beer for general tonic purposes.

Physicians Protest

A large array of most distinguished physicians led by Dr. Lambert of New York urged that such laws were unconstitutional because they unduly interferred with the professional judgment of a physician in prescribing what he thought best for his patient. The supreme court room was quite filled with interested listeners during these arguments.

I remember when one of them was concluded, at the recess, Chief Justice Taft stepped down from the bench to greet a prominent physician. His wife had listened so without appreciating the impropriety eagerly to the argument that, without appreciating the impropriety of her remark, she greeted the chief justice warmly by saying, "Oh, I hope you will decide this case in our favor." This impulsive comment, made in the presence of several people just drew forth one of Chief Justice Taft's famous chuckles! But the supreme court's opinions (265 U. S. 545; 272 U. S. 581) upheld the constitutionality of the law.

And so it happens that we nibble yeast instead of drinking malt extract for health and vigor!

Taxing Bootleggers' Incomes

Vast sums are made by bootleggers. They never pay income tax. Frequently the way we have brought them to justice best is by investigating first their financial transactions, and assessing the tax. A bootlegging buccaneer named Manly Sullivan resisted paying any income tax. And his best defense was that he had made his income unlawfully and it violated the constitution to compel him to put in a tax return. He won the point, too, before the circuit of appeals. He tried his own case. He had a sense of humor, quick wit, and a glib tongue. The judge was reluctant to hold him as closely in check as to the asking of irrelevant questions as he would a practicing attorney. Sullivan was aware of this and imposed upon the judge's reluctance to the limit. He was constantly overstepping the bounds of propriety.

At appropriate places in his examination or cross-examination he would turn aside for comments to the jury. One of these comments was: "You gentlemen see how these northerners are harrassing me under the prohibition and the tax laws—two of the most damnable statues on the books of this country." When I was in the midst of my argument on the law of the case later, to the supreme court of the United States, the chief justice suddenly burst out in an audible chuckle that quite upset my train of thought. He had found the page of the record upon which Sullivan's comment appeared. He commented that the defendant in the case seemed to hold very decided views with respect to certain of the federal statutes.

Making Crime Less Profitable

The supreme court held in this case that an income tax was collectable on profits illegally amassed. This has had a far reaching effect touching graft, illegal contracts and crime profits of all description, in addition to that derived from illicit liquor. Tax collections from bosses of the under world have reached many millions of dollars since the Sullivan decision. I maintain that if the man conducting a criminal business is financially pinched in every way that the law permits, it will do as much to deter crime as penitentiary sentences. The Sullivan decision made crime less profitable, for the illegal operator in making his return does not dare to deduct his outlay for graft. The lower court raised that very point, but Justice Holmes waved it to one side.

"It is urged that if a return were made the defendant would be entitled to deduct illegal expenses such as bribery. This by no means follows but it will be time enough to consider the questions when some taxpayer has the temerity to raise it."

These decisions represent permanent gains in the government's huge task of enforcing the 18th amendment. The winds of popular disapproval and political excitement over "Volsteadism" may rage, but these foundations, though unspectacular, are sure and firm. Ultimate orderly enforcement will be built upon them. At moments of discouragement I find reassurance in the knowledge that in this way I have really left a permanent contribution to the development of constitutional law, a contribution of increasing value as the government proceeds on its task of enforcing the 18th amendment.

"Five and Ten Law"

Many tears have been shed by anti-prohibitionists, and especially organizations actively engaged in propaganda against the prohibition law, because of the amendment which the antis have labeled "the Jones five and ten law."

I have heard many such comments as this: "Now, you have a law that will let a judge send a woman to prison for five years for selling a quart of whisky, and probably the next thing the prohibitionists will get through is a law giving a life sentence to the bootlegger who is caught a second time, and after that you will probably try to get capital punishment for supplying the stuff that even judges are drinking. The prohibitionists are just getting desperate because they know the law can't be enforced under reasonable penalty."

How much truth is there is such statements?

First, let's see what the Jones law provides:

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congres sassembled, that wherever a penalty or penalties are prescribed in a criminal prosecution by the national prohibition act, as amended and supplemented, for the illegal manufacture, sale, transportation, importation, or exportation of intoxicating liquor, as defined by section 1, title II, of the national prohibition act, the penalty imposed for each such offense shall be a fine not to exceed $10,000 or imprisonment not to exceed five years, or both: Provided, that it is the intent of congress that the court, in imposing sentence hereunder, should discriminate between casual or slight violations and habitual sales of intoxicating liquor, or attempts to commercialize violations of the law.

Section 2.—This act shall not repeal nor eliminate any minimum penalty for the first or any subsequent offense now provided by the said national prohibition act.

I do not believe that harsh penalties will ever secure enforcement of or obedience to laws. It is quite true, as stated by some of the anti-prohibitionists, that juries will not convict if the punishment does not fit the crime. Certainly, as the head of the department charged with the responsibility for the conduct of prosecutions, I would not recommend enactment of a law that would make conviction more difficult to obtain.

Mercy Tempered With Justice

Yet the fact is—and I say it without any compunction or pangs of conscience—that I actively advocated the passage of the Jones bill.

Why?

Probably some of my anti-prohibitionist friends will supply an answer far from the truth—

"She is a fanatic on prohibition and she would put her own mother in jail for 10 years if she found her selling a pint of liquor."

I have always believed, and my official record contains plenty of proof of that fact, that it is best for society to temper justice with mercy.

But I also believe that there is such a thing as being too lenient and "easy" with the criminal, and the result is disastrous for law-abiding citizens.

The prohibition enforcement problem would not have reached the proportions it has today if there had been adequate penalties prior to pasage of the Jones law that would have deterred and discouraged and frightened the thousands who embarked on bootlegging with the thought in mind "well even if I do get caught, I will only get a $100 fine or a couple of months in jail. The money I can make justifies that much risk."

Let's see what the situation was up to the time of passage of the Jones law.

Willie Haar, of national bootlegging fame, whose profits reached the sum of seven million dollars, after conviction with some 60 of his confederates, under a conspiracy charge, was given the maximum sentence the judge could impose. That sentence was two years! And it wasn't under the prohibition law. Under it Haar could have not received more than six months and a thousand dollar fine. In other words, a man who had by bribery, corruption, fraud, and perhaps violence, and theft, distributed liquor through many states, contributing to the downfall and perhaps death of many persons with whom he never came in contact, was subject to less punishment than he would have been if convicted of stealing a gold watch or diamond ring in any one of most of the states.

Consider for a moment the actual case of an Indian agent who simply defrauded the government in supplying groceries and other necessities to Indians on their reservations, and who thus violated two sections of the federal statute. The agent had a family to support and was working for only $1,500 a year. Nevertheless, he was sentenced by a federal judge to seven years' imprisonment in Atlanta penitentiary.

On the other hand, a bootlegger whose sale of liquor traced by the treasury department, amounted to so many millions of dollars that he was subject to tax assessment of over one million dollars, was sentenced to but six months in jail.

Any person who imports goods in violation of the customs law, or who sells such goods after importation, may be imprisoned two years.

In other words, if George Jones had been convicted of smuggling into the United States empty whisky bottles, a judge could have sentenced him to the penitentiary for two years, and could have fined him $5,000. But if George Jones had instead smuggled into the United States hundreds of gallons of whisky, he would prior to the Jones amendment have been subject to a maximum penalty of only a $500 fine in case of conviction.

A drug importer failing to pay the tax levied on optum may be fined $10,000 and imprisoned for five years, or both. If a manufacturer fails to affix the required revenue stamp on phosphorus matches, he is liable to a sentence of two years in prison.

Another man, manufacturing tobacco without giving the required bond, is subject to a minimum sentence of from one to five years in prison.

For certifying a check when a depositor had not sufficient funds, the national banking act provides a penalty of imprisonment in the penitentiary for from five to 15 years. If an army officer while in an intoxicated condition at a polling place interferes with an election he is subject to a sentence of five years imprisonment, or a $5,000 fine. But the bootlegger who sold him the cause of his intoxication, if convicted prior to enactment of the Jones act faced at the most, only six months in jail and $1,000 fine.

The fact is that the penalties of the prohibition act were inconsequential during the first 10 years of its enforcement, or attempted enforcement, and they were totally out of proportion to the big offenses which constitute the real federal problem. They were out of proportion to the penalties that follow violation of other federal laws. Yet the violation of the prohibi-

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

THE MONKEY SHOP

When we go in to town, I always love to stop
Outside the Monkey Shop.

The monkeys are so sweet, with vests of downy white
And coats as black as night.

Their eyes are bright and shiny, and always brightly blinking
As if they're busy thinking.

They hardly ever rest, but frisk and jump and climb,
Just busy all the time.

They do such clever things, like balancing on rails
And hanging by their tails.

And then, they look at you, to tell you, if they could,
"Now aren't I pretty good?"

They're lots of fun to watch, and so we always stop
Outside the Monkey Shop.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We read that the Dallas mayor is objecting to funeral processions, particularly we judge, because they block the traffic. He pleads that a hearse and a car to carry pallbearers is enough to go in procession and that friends and relatives may gather at the cemetery.

We believe the Dallas mayor is right. We remember when automobiles began to be first used in funeral processions, doing away with the stately tasseled horses and funeral "hacks," and it seemed desecration to us at first to see the dead being rushed so madly to their graves.

But we realize now that it is not the dead, but the living who suffer when some one passes. And it is a merciful dispensation that takes relatives away from a grave before the grave is filled and we believe it would be merciful also if they might go quietly to where a loved body waited the last services.

Times are changing so rapidly that nothing can be judged by a standard that held good 10 years—nor even five years past.

Young people of today, as they grow up, often call fathers and mothers by the Christian name. Twenty years ago a mother would have been dazed to have her 16-year-old daughter so address her.

But mothers do not grow old as they used to. It is not long since we read of a 69-year-old woman who swam 15 miles—was in the water 12½ hours and when she emerged, said she felt fine.

When we were a girl, a 69-year-old woman had her "burial clothes" all ready. She wore black and she wore bonnets tied under the chin—just as in that day, the widows wore long, sweeping veils.

And we know women not more than 65 right in this day and time who have relegated themselves to a rocking chair existence; about all the pleasure some of them get from life is looking at passersby on the streets and gossiping.

There is a time in the lives of mothers when they must be confined at home a great deal. But when children grow up, let mothers grow young. Fathers do not lay themselves on the shelf.

We read that Mrs. Lindbergh is taking aviation lessons from her husband. There's one blessing; if he grows impatient at her steering and speaks abruptly, she won't run into a fence or a ditch as some wives do when they take lessons from their husbands in automobile driving.

We read also that on Sept. 2, the 50th anniversary of the composition of "Aloha Oe" will be celebrated. Almost every evening we hear it on a neighboring loud speaker, so we will not join in the celebration.

Tree minded? We admit it. Our eyes light always on paragraphs about trees. We were interested to read about the giant live oak at Jolleyville, Texas, which has been identified as a favorite camping place of Robert E. Lee, when as a young lieutenant, he led troops into Texas to protect settlers from Indians. A move to restore old Fort Crogan, where he was cared for, has been begun.

Pink and green, the lodge colors, were used in decoration. The center of the luncheon table was a mass of pink roses with pink and green candles and miniature baskets filled with mints emphasizing the color motif.

Seated with the honoree were Mrs. Lillie McNeeley, Mrs. Ada Ramsey, who is hostess to Mrs. Self, Mrs. J. T. James, Mrs. O. C. Blanton and the hostess.

Men Prefer Women Who Don't Always Prate of Virtue

No Man Really Prefers a Bad Woman to a Good Woman, but He May Find Her a Pleasanter Companion Than a Wife Whose One Thought Is to Impress Him With Her Own Virtue.

"Why do men prefer bad women?" asked a woman the other day. "Look at the great sirens of history," she went on, "the Cleopatras, the Salomes, the Helen of Troys, the Pompadours. Not a rag of dency to their backs, yet men swarmed around them like bees about a honey pot, but did you ever hear of men pestering Frances Willard or Susan B. Anthony or Clara Barton or Florence Nightingale with their attentions?

"Who are the women that men desert their good old wives for? Flappers with no more morals than an alley cat. Why, you can't even read of a woman being tried for murdering her husband without being told about the proposals of marriage she has from other men who apparently want to be next on her list.

"Observe among your own acquaintances. Who are the best loved and the most pampered wives? Are they the noble, unselfish, self-sacrificing wives who stay at home and pinch pennies and work their fingers to the bone trying to help their husbands? Not so that you can notice it. The most cherished and indulged wives are the baby dolls who put in their time beautifying themselves, and who keep their husbands on the jump to provide them with Paris finery.

"And even among the girls, isn't it the petters and the neckers and the drinkers and the smokers who have dates to burn, while the good girls sit at home with papa and mama and spend their evenings reading improving books and tuning in on the radio to hear what the wild ones are doing?

"I tell you," the woman concluded, "men offer mighty little encouragement to women to be good, for the worse they are the better they like them."

A lot of women think as this woman thinks. They believe that men prefer bad women to good women and that is why the standards of feminine conduct are being lowered, because the chief business in life of the modern woman, as of every other woman since the days of Mother Eve, is to please men and catch a husband and hold him after she gets him caught.

And you can't blame them for thinking, when they see how often the modest violet is passed over for the brazen sunflower and how easily a middle-aged husband is vamped away from the wife who has slaved to make him worth the attentions of the gold-diggers, that virtue is about its only as well as its own reward.

But for all of that it is not true that men really prefer bad women to good women. On the contrary, in his heart every man has enshrined an ideal of womanhood before which he does reverence. And that ideal is all goodness, all purity, all loyalty and faithfulness, all selfishness and devotion. The woman a man believes his mother to have been, the woman a man wants for his wife, the woman a man hopes his daughter will grow up into being, is a good woman, a woman who has kept herself unspotted from the world.

If men often seem to prefer the bad woman to the good woman it is not because of her naughtiness, but because she possesses other qualities that make her more attractive and a pleasanter companion than her more austere sister. She is easier to live with, for one thing, and being aware that she is also a sinner, she turns a kindly and sympathetic eye on masculine faults and foibles.

We are never critical of our own weaknesses. We never feel called upon to preach against our own vices. The woman who likes a good time herself is willing to step out with a man instead of trying to keep him nailed to his own fireside and acting like a killjoy when he does drag her along.

Undoubtedly many a good wife is such bad company at home that she drives her husband away from her to the society of other ladies who don't feel that it is their sacred duty to interfere with all of his pleasures and keep him reminded of what a poor, weak, miserable worm of the dust he is. Moral snobbery on the wife's part is the explanation of many an unfaithful husband.

And that is why the men who stay in love with their wives are these who are married to women who put on no superior spiritual airs, but who think that husband is just about all right as he is and needs no making over. A man will forgive a lot to a woman who doesn't condescend to him nor criticize him.

Another mistake that good women make is in thinking that just goodness is enough, and that it doesn't need any embellishment of grace or charm or finesse, which is as absurd as to think that a diamond doesn't need to be polished and that a good house doesn't need to be painted.

You see a lot of women who think that because they are good, honest, industrious wives, their husbands should stay in love with them, no matter how slovenly they dress, nor how dull and stupid they become, nor how nagging they get to be. Abstractly a man may recognize the goodness of such women, but that doesn't keep him from being disgusted at their appearance and bored with their twaddle and resentful of their tyranny.

And it is precisely because the women who are not good take the trouble to make themselves beautiful and because they read and study and keep their minds alert so that they are interesting to talk to and because they use diplomacy and tact in dealing with men and because they are gay and humorous and sympathetic and understanding that men turn away from the good women to them.

All of which should teach good women that it isn't enough just to be good. They mustn't be too good for their own good and they must be good for something. And when they have that goodness that comes from the head as well as the heart, they have the combination that always wins out.

For men would always prefer good women to bad if the good would add charm to their goodness.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Aprons

Aprons, I think, ought to be apotheosized, for aprons are such a part of the mothers of this world, so much a part of the men and women who have built and preserved our civilization.

Plain aprons, ornamental aprons, aprons that are worn in our homes for utilitarian purposes, aprons of all kinds, from the flimsy little nothings worn merely for show, to the strong, heavy, practical leather aprons worn by our smithies and others as they muck their way through the grime of the day's routine.

I am thinking more particularly of the aprons of mothers, sweethearts and wives. We pay a lot of attention to the other things that women wear. But what about this apron we wear as we putter about the duties of the home?

Aprons too often are looked upon as badges of drudgery. Our cooks, our waitresses, our nurses wear them. But very often these cooks and waitresses and nurses are also sweethearts, mothers and wives, the gentler keepers of our homes, the perpetuators of our tribal traditions.

I like to think of mother's gingham apron, its folds, its softness, when I buried my little face in it to heal a childish hurt.

But then, in the quiet of the evening, when the glories of the day had faded out to make way for the glories of the night, thinking of ghosts, perhaps, and other imps of darkness, and of God, the giver of light, how fine it was to snuggle our little faces in the crinkles of mother's apron, praying at her knees, the grandest of all human altars! . . . These aprons that we women wear are of large and beautiful significance in human annals.

Many artisans and craftsmen wear aprons; nurses wear them as they bend over our cradles, or softly minister to the sick in our hospitals, or in the grime and tragic trenches of our battlefields. Our mothers, our wives and our sweethearts wear them as they busy themselves usefully in our homes.

Badges of irksome drudgery? Rather should we look upon aprons as symbols of useful service to our civilization, and as gentle reminders of what we owe to the mothers of men for their sacrifices and heroisms in the long, bitter climb out of the darkness into the light and beauty of these new times.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20. (US)—"Oh, I don't think I ever will get well," wailed a discouraged girl, going to California for her health.

A Californian aboard the train consoled her: "Of course you will," said he, "why out here we plant a stick in the ground at night, and in the morning it's a rose!"

That was five years ago, and today I saw her. She is a rose. A very lovely one, and perfectly well.

Today I saw a bunch of candy tuft that you pay money for in New York, growing up around a lamp post at the edge of a cement sidewalk. There happened to be a crack there and the flower grew up through the crack.

"That's nothing," said a resident of Santa Maria, "come over to my yard and see the gorgeous array of flowers that grew there, and so far as I know no one ever planted them. They just decided to make that their home."

Glass is being used in London homes for decoration. Ceilings, walls and pillars with lights behind and within them, give beautiful effects.

A woman started the fad, Lady Ribesdale. And what a conscience a glass house required!

There is a great difference between opportunity and propinquity. We listen for opportunity, but propinquity sneaks up and hits us in the back of the head.

A life insurance company announces that after 25 a woman's chances for marriage dwindle.

It's really her desire to take chances that dwindles.

The Lincoln Star says that bachelors are not as big successes as married men. That a rabbit doesn't run its best unless there is something behind it.

Still when you see how American women make men chase after them, you wonder if they don't run faster when there is a prize ahead.

Then there are the bachelors. They don't lack exercise. They run away from the young ones in order to become bachelors, and run from the widows and married women in order to stay that way.

And it makes you laugh to see that in spite of all their speed the papers are full of suits that require money settlements.

Running gets them nowhere. They might as well take their pipes and sit in a rocker on the front piazza.

OKLA. FOREST FIRES SPREAD

Tired Fighters Hampered By Lack of Rain

BROKEN BOW, Okla., Aug. 20. (UP)—With skies leaden with smoke, a sweaty tired force of 150 men late today continued to battle forest fires raging through three counties of southeastern Oklahoma.

Accurate reports of the number of acres already burned were impossible because of the heavy smoke which cut off visibility.

The largest of approximately 30 fires is burning near Mount Herman. More than 9,000 acres already have been destroyed. Lack of state funds to employ men and equipment has hampered the work of curtailing the flames, George Phillips, state forester, said today.

There has been no drenching rains over the territory since July 2 making the forests as dry as tinder.

Courthouse Where Old Abe Argued Bought by Ford

LINCOLN, Ill., Aug. 20. (UP)—The old Postville courthouse here, where Abraham Lincoln argued many of his cases nearly 90 years ago, has been added to Henry Ford's growing list of antiques, it became known today.

The automobile manufacturer is expected to transport the building to Dearborn, Mich., and make it a part of his Americana museum, which is to depict early stages of American life.

The house was built in 1848 and Lincoln practiced law in it during the next eight years while traveling the eighth Illinois judicial circuit.

Lincoln changed the name of the town here from "Postville" to Lincoln years later, by breaking a watermelon as a ceremony. At the time, he predicted that "nothing named Lincoln ever amounted to much."

TEXTILE MILL IS REOPENED

Strikebreakers Work Under Protection of Guards

MARION, N. C., Aug. 20. (UP)—While two companies of national guard were held in readiness nearby, the Clinchfield textile mill, scene of strike disorders yesterday, reopened today with 384 strikebreakers as operatives.

The strikers are demanding the present wage scale with a 10-hour day and reinstatement of workers allegedly discharged because of their union membership. The strikers say the present schedule calls for a work day of 12 hours and 20 minutes.

After the deadlock at the mill gates yesterday the only other untoward incident of the day was an encounter which resulted in the arrest of four non-union workers for an assault upon a union man, Clarence Sexton. Sexton suffered a slight knife cut across the shoulder.

The disturbance at the gates occurred when between 200 and 300 non-union men gathered to go to work. Massed at the gates were some 600 strikers. Judge N. A. Townsend, executive counsel of Gov. Max Gardner, ordered the gates opened and the strikers refused. A party of mill officials, attempting to lead the way through the gates, was repulsed by the strikers. A threat of national guard intervention had no effect. It was decided to postpone the mill opening and the guardsmen were summoned.

Wichita Service Man Talks

Gains on Orgatone and Feels Five Years Younger

C. C. Goodman, the well known Frigidaire service man for the Texas Electric Service company, and residing at 2602 Fillmore street, Wichita Falls, Texas, recently made the following remarkable statement regarding his experience with Orgatone:

"Most every home I went into in my line of work were talking about the good results they were receiving from Orgatone and I decided to give it a trial on myself. I am certainly glad I did for I've gained wonderfully and am feeling five years younger since I commenced taking Orgatone. For 11 years I had been in a terribly run down condition and had no appetite. After eating I would have spells with gas and sour stomach which would often follow with sick dizzy headaches and I was so nervous and restless I didn't feel like taking any interest in anything.

"I have now taken five bottles of Orgatone and my improvement is remarkable. All my indigestion and other pains have left me and when I sit down to the table I can eat a hearty meal like a good healthy man should, the best of it all is, it doesn't pain me one bit as that gas, biliousness and all the other bad feelings disappeared right after I had finished my first bottle of Orgatone. My strength and energy have returned, and I don't know what a headache is now. Orgatone has certainly taken care of me and I am more than glad to speak a good word for it."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy, but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store.—Adv.

NEW ROAD FOR SOUTH PLAINS

O'Donnell C-C Sponsors New Highway Move

Special to The Record News

O'DONNELL, Texas, Aug. 20.—The O'Donnell Chamber of Commerce has on one of the biggest road projects being promoted anywhere on the South Plains in the proposed state highway from Gail north and west through Treadway, O'Donnell, Pride, Seagraves, and Lovington, N. M.

The road is already completed from Lovington to the Texas line near Seagraves and it is believed that ways and means will be found to put the remainder of the road in shape to have it designated a state highway as fast as the work can be done. On Thursday night, Aug. 15 the people of O'Donnell attended a mass meeting of the people of Borden county at Gail, the county seat, and plans were made to push the work from that end as fast as possible. Some of the commissioners of the counties interested were present and expressed their approval and support of the road and stated that they believed it could be built. Not a citizen along the whole route has voiced opposition to the project.

This road will open up a new strip of country 50 miles wide and 100 miles long and will shorten the route from the Lovington, N. M., country to Fort Worth by 50 miles. A branch will also run north from Treadway by Draw and Slaton to Lubbock, opening up a large country to Lubbock. Plans are being made for the people along the route to drive the proposed road from one end to the other one day this week and complete the plans for construction.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF FROM INDIGESTION

Not Necessary to Diet

Many people who are hungry are afraid to eat for fear of distressing after-effects. They keep themselves on a limited diet and go about half starved.

This is unnecessary. Take a spoonful of GORDON'S after meals and you can eat what you like and as much as you want without any after-feeling of distress. Try it and see.

GORDON'S, an internal antiseptic, goes right to the seat of the trouble by stopping fermentation (souring of food). It soothes, heals and strengthens weak or disordered stomachs.

GLAD SHE HEEDED FRIENDS' ADVICE

"I am so happy over the wonderful benefits received from Sargon that I will always be grateful to my friends and relatives who insisted that I take it.

"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused great distress. I even thought I had heart trouble. Biliousness caused such dizzy spells at times I thought I was going blind. I had awful pains in my back, legs and arms and was so nervous I hardly ever got good sound sleep. I was always taking some strong laxative for constipation, but never got any real relief.

"Finally I started Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills and my relief was almost immediate. My appetite is now splendid, I never suffer with indigestion and those terrible pains have gone. The pills regulated me perfectly and relieved my biliousness and constipation.

WARM days. Clothing reduced to a minimum. Then is when women really appreciate the superior designing of Kotex.

Kotex, you know, is the sanitary pad with rounded, tapered corners. It really fits. Not a revealing outline can show, even when worn with your very lightest summer clothing.

Kotex is so comfortable, too. Bulk and weight are unnecessary because Kotex is so very absorbent. The air-cooled layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding keep Kotex light and comfortable though worn for hours.

And what a relief to know that Kotex deodorizes completely—so much more important in summer. The Cellucotton layers can easily be adjusted as needed. You dispose of Kotex just like tissue, thus eliminating fuss and laundering.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

Look out for the man who laughs loudest

Nine times out of ten the man who laughs loudest at the halitosis jokes is, himself, a victim of halitosis—and serenely unconscious of it. That's the insidious thing about halitosis (unpleasant breath), it doesn't announce itself to the victim. But it does to others. And offends them.

Don't fool yourself

Only those unacquainted with the facts are foolish enough to assume that they never have offensive breath.

Actually, one person out of every three offends this way either occasionally or chronically, surveys show.

Kills germs—destroys odors

Why risk unpopularity when you can instantly put your breath beyond suspicion by the use of full strength Listerine as a mouth wash three times a day.

Food fermentation and germ conditions in the oral tract are major causes of unpleasant breath. And full strength Listerine, as you know, kills germs. Even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) germ dies in 15 seconds; likewise the Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs—200,000,000 of them.

Furthermore, Listerine is a powerful deodorant which instantly destroys such odors as onion and fish.

THE SAFE ANTISEPTIC

The above question does not long remain unanswered after a glimpse of the new Straight Eight. And this is especially true if other fine cars are present for comparison.

The new Straight Eight was purposed to be the finest car that Pierce-Arrow ever produced. That it should also have been a remodeler of fine car fashions could not have been foreseen. But that is precisely what happened.

The long, low-swung slenderness of the new Pierce-Arrow was welcomed by fine car owners grown tired of bulk and stodginess in big automobiles. So great, in fact, was the conquest that Pierce-Arrow served a waiting-list for many months. And while demand still crowds production, some of the most favored models of the new Straight Eight line are now being locally shown.

Daily Editorial

SIR ISAAC NEWTON'S library suddenly emerges from its hiding place in an Oxfordshire manor house and heads for the auction block.

Eight hundred and sixty volumes on which the greatest physicist of his times browsed, are now available to the highest bidding collection.

Except for their market and sentimental value, the whole lot isn't worth the last edition of a current newspaper.

Any encyclopaedia knows more than the total knowledge at seventeenth century disposal, and every 10-year-old boy is aware of facts and fundamentals that the sixteen-hundreds hadn't yet surmised.

Newton's library is as empty of helpful suggestions as Newton's skull—and, if truth were known, played the least part in ripening an intelligence to which we owe so many scientific debts.

Pythagoras, Aristotle nor Seneca offered the clue to gravitation. Newton plucked that from an apple tree.

Just as Galileo snatched the principle of the pendulum from a swaying cathedral lamp.

A pair of twitching frog legs supplied the hint that led Galvani toward the branch of electric phenomena which bears his name.

ORIGINALITY is a sport, rooted in observation and accidental disclosure.

Education is a chronicle of past performances, rather than a suggestor of feasibilities.

Schooling trains us how to think, but not what to think.

Consequently, illiterate and crudely lettered folk have more frequently contributed to basic progress than popinjays in borrowed brain plumage.

Patent office records as well as history will verify that statement.

Necessity and emergency are the patron saints of invention. When old ways won't do for the task in hand, native wit attacks the problem and alters and enlarges the common working kit with necessary implements.

No college professor recognized the advantage of nailing two sheets of iron on a wooden plow share.

It took a practical farmer to realize that a metal edge would cut through frozen soil faster than a sharpened stick.

Cyrus McCormick never wore a mortar-board, but he lived to drive his home-made reaper across civilization and in the Hal lof Fame.

Portrait painting didn't provide Morse with a single aid to telegraphy. And James Watt hadn't even heard of Hero's apocryphal steam engine.

But several thousand high-brows dating from Caesar's time, were acquainted with the contraption and hadn't gumption enough to wonder how hot vapor could furnish motive power to a set of wheels.

Originality is inimitable. Culture confers many advantages, but familiarity with the products and processes of predecessors merely qualifies others to retrace their paths.

Genius follows private roads and methods.

There's no more of Newton in his library than Cellini in his chisel, or Rembrandt in his easel, or Wagner on his piano keys.

Imagination and flair leave no molds behind.

Times May Change—But Men Do Not

TIMES MAY CHANGE, but the fine traditions of heroism of the sea still remain. One finds the proof in the thrilling story of the rescue of three men and one woman from the wave-tossed waters of Lake Erie after a Cleveland-Detroit passenger plane had been forced down and sunk the other day. One man—John Kasper, a co-pilot of the airplane—was lost, but the other three were saved.

Weighted down with heavy flying clothes and heavy boots, but aided by a life preserver, Cy Caldwell, the chief pilot of the plane, swam four miles through rough seas to the nearest steamship lane.

Caldwell was a mere dot on the horizon, bobbing up and down with the waves, when Allan Emerson, eagle-eyed second mate of the Canadian freighter Midland King, chanced to sight him. Quickly, the ship put about and Caldwell was hosted aboard where he told of the other survivors still out there in the water.

Captain Roy Burke, master of the Midland King, turned his vessel and raced for the scene. His powerful searchlights penetrated the darkness and revealed Mrs. Robert Little, a passenger, struggling in the water.

One glance at her predicament was enough for Walter Joslin, first mate of the Midland King. Without even waiting to don a life preserver, Joslin dived over the side and swam toward her. She was so exhausted that she could do little to aid him and he soon became exhausted, too.

Sam Wilkinson, a wheelsman, saw what was happening and dived overboard to aid the fast weakening Joslin. Wilkinson, however, was swept around the stern by the strong current and barely managed to save himself by grabbing a life preserver that was thrown to him.

Joslin, with a half-unconscious woman on his arm, made his slow and painful way to a rope ladder, dropped over the Midland King's side. Supporting Mrs. Little with one hand, he grasped this. The waves tossed him about as though they were trying to snatch him to his death, but he held on with one hand until his arm was nearly pulled from its socket and the bone nearly broken. Then he passed Mrs. Little up to Second Mate Emerson, who had descended to the foot of the ladder. Slowly, he followed them up the side of the ship.

Meanwhile, C. A. Lupold, another airplane passenger, was being picked up by another ship where much the same scene was being enacted.

Yes, the glorious traditions of the sea still live, even in this modern day when survivors from ill-fated air liners are rescued from the deep. Times are different, but the cry for aid still finds willing and heroic rescuers ready to respond.

Thank God that even in this day of advanced progress and modern science we still have men who are real men!

The Governor's Only Consolation

GOVERNOR MOODY laments that while he has remained at Austin in this hot weather, wrestling with the appropriation bills which he has had to pare deeply in the interest of economy and the financial integrity of the state, he has met with nothing but criticism and that the people in whose interest he has been perspiring and worrying have been unappreciative.

We can appreciate to some extent the governor's dilemma. He has had to veto or pare down appropriations directly affecting communities and individuals. It is but natural that they should protest to add more worry to an harassed executive. On the other hand, the plain citizen in whose interest the governor has believed he has been working is failing in appreciation as plain citizens generally are. A long while ago somebody observed that republics are ungrateful. So are the citizens of republics and commonwealths. About the only consolation that Governor Moody can have is the feeling that he has done the best he could under the circumstances, and that if he has made mistakes they are only such mistakes as any man might have made under the circumstances.

Another Fire Menace

CIGARET BUTTS and cigar stubs are discarded at the rate of 170,000 a minute in the United States, says the department of agriculture. Tests have shown that a fire can be started from these "discards" with a wind of only three or four miles an hour. Here is a possible fire menace that should be watched carefuly. With forest fires raging in several sections of the West, the need for care in heavily wooded sections is obvious, but it is also true that caution is necessary in the home, office and city buildings.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a position as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman.

Chatty's busy tongue creates havoc in the office. Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuy's secretary, leaves on account of Chatty's gossip. David Jordan knows that Chatty is responsible, and drops her. Chatty begins to go with a new salesman, Bryant Dunning, who says he is married but has left his wife. Chatty's friends are Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van Nuy's new secretary. After some lively parties Chatty makes up her mind to quit going with Bryant.

Now Go on With The Story

"You see, you belong to another woman," she said. "Only I didn't realize it until I saw that handkerchief in your house tonight and knew that she'd been there to see you.

"Well, what if she had?" asked Bryant. "I can't help it if she comes bawling and boo-hooing around the place, can I? I told her this morning that I'm through with her and, believe me, Babe, I am! There's nobody for me any more but you—"

He tried to stop her in a dark part of the street and take her in his arms once more. But Chatty pushed him away.

Her mind was still full of the little flat, with its hand-made cushions and lamp shades, its white kitchen stool, its white twin beds with the book shelf above them—all the things that separated him from her.

"I can't believe you've changed this way just because you've found out that my wife comes to see me sometimes," Bryant kept saying, as they walked along with the width of the sidewalk between them. "It must be something else."

Fussing and arguing with each other, they walked up and down Lipton street a dozen times when they finally reached it.

Without getting anything really settled, they left each other at one o'clock, and Chatty went quietly up the stairs to the second floor of the apartment house.

The front room was filled with light, and Pud and Mrs. Chatterton were sitting there, wrapped in their bathrobes, and looking very sleepy.

Pud got up when Chatty came in and pointed accusingly at the old clock on the mantel shelf.

"Look at that clock!" he said to her. "One in the morning—and your mother worried to death about you! Staying out half the night without letting her know where you were! You're a fine kind of a daughter, aren't you?"

Chatty glared at him. "You're getting to be awfully pure since mother stopped your bootlegging career, aren't you?" she asked him, sarcastically.

Then she turned to her mother. "It won't happen again, mother," she told her. "I should have telephoned you to let you know I was staying out late. But I'm through with the crowd I've been going with, so I won't be keeping late hours any more, I guess."

—rushing around so much," Chatty thought, gathering them up and soaking them in the bathroom wash bowl.

She left them there, and when into the kitchen to get supper ready. There were some slices of cold ham in the ice box, a head of lettuce and a big bowl of chilled tapioca pudding.

While she was washing the lettuce the telephone rang.

"Hello! This you, Babe?" Bryant's voice asked her when she took down the receiver and put it to her ear. "It's all right for me to talk to you over the telephone, isn't it, even if you won't let me see you any more?"

"I suppose so," Chatty answered. "Where are you? At Winnie's?"

"No, I'm at home," he said, quickly, "and I'm mighty lonesome too. But I'm not going out until you come to your senses and start going out with me again, see? When do you think that will be?"

"I'm too busy to talk to you now," Chatty said. "I'm getting supper. Good-bye."

She hung up the receiver and went back to her lettuce.

At seven Pud came home from the drug store and the little family sat down to supper in the kitchen.

"Family re-union, huh?" asked Pud, his mouth full of bread and ham. "The reformed children have returned to the fold, eh what, mother?"

Mrs. Chatterton nodded her head doubtfully. "I hope you've both reformed," she said. "You're not going out again tonight, are you, Pud?"

"Just for a little while," he replied, carelessly. "I'll be back early."

But at ten o'clock that night he had not come home, and Mrs. Chatterton telephoned Tomlinson's store to see if he was there.

He was.

"He says he's coming right home," she told Chatty. "I do wish he'd stop hanging around that place. He's promised me he won't help Tomlinson deliver any more liquor, but it makes me nervous to have him down there, anyway."

She told Pud so when he came home a few minutes later.

"You promised me you'd stay away from that store in the evenings if I'd let you work there in the afternoons," she reminded him. "You know how it worries me to have you there at night!"

Pud scowled. "Aw, listen," he said "you don't have to worry about me and that store any more at any time! Tomlinson's opened up a beer flat with some other folks, and his store is as safe as a day nursery now!"

"A beer flat?" echoed his mother, horrified and wondering.

"Yeah. A flat where they sell beer," answered the boy. "And Tomlinson's store is absolutely okay now. So let me go back to work tomorrow night, mother. Tomlinson says he really needs me—and I sure need the money!"

Bryant asked Chatty to have lunch with him on Wednesday, and she refused him. He asked her again on Thursday, and again she told him she wouldn't go with him.

Friday night he called her up twice, and begged her to go driving with him. It was a wonderful night for a drive, he said, and there was a moon.

"No," she told him, firmly. "I wouldn't go with you if there were 20 moons."

She hung up, and went across the hall to play three-handed bridge with Billie and Sara so that she wouldn't be tempted to go with him if he telephoned again.

On Saturday morning the girl with the lovely voice called up the office and asked to speak with Dave Jordan.

"He's not here just now," Chatty told her, although Dave was sitting at his desk in plain sight, as she spoke. "And I don't know whether he's coming back today or not."

She was not the least bit ashamed of that lie after she had told it, either! She wasn't at all sorry that she had told it.

She was glad, and there was a hard, bright little smile in her eyes a moment later when she swung around in her chair and called to Dave across the office.

"You just had a telephone call from that girl who's always ringing you up, Mr. Jordan!" she told him in a loud, clear voice that everybody could hear. "I told her you weren't here and wouldn't be back any more today." She giggled.

Dave lowered his newspaper and stared at her in a puzzled way for a minute.

Then he came across the room to her.

"What do you mean?" he asked, his face full of annoyance.

Chatty giggled again before she answered him.

"Just what I told you the first time," she said pertly. "That girl called you up and I told her you weren't here! I'm not going to take any more of your phone calls in this office. You accuse me of listening to your silly conversations with your sweeties, and you never have a civil word for me, so why should I break my neck doing any favors for you?"

Winnie heard her and began to laugh. So did Jim Bowen and Bryant, who had just come in.

But Dave failed to see anything funny about the affair. His face whitened a little under its tan, and its freckles, and he opened his lips as if he were going to say something to her.

Then, suddenly changing his mind, he turned on his heel and went back to his desk. He picked up his newspaper, still opened to the financial page, and began to read it once again.

A long distance call came in for Mr. Van Nuys, and for three or four minutes Chatty was busy getting it. When she looked away from the switchboard again, Dave had left the office.

At noon Bryant came up to her.

"Look here," he said. "I can't stand this. I've just got to see you. Please be sensible and say you'll go for a drive with me this afternoon. There's no harm in it. Please say you will."

Chatty was just opening her lips to say "No" firmly, and for all time, when Dave Jordan came into the office. And with him was the girl who had called him on the telephone that morning.

She was all in pale yellow—pale yellow silk sports dress, tiny yellow straw hat, yellow handbag, yellow stockings and dark brown sport shoes. Chatty admitted to herself that she looked perfectly lovely.

She gave her a swift, searching glance from the corner of her eyes. Then she turned back to Bryant.

"All right! I will go with you!" she said to him, and she said it as if she were defying somebody.

They wound up their day's pleasure at Winnie's flat, and it was long after midnight when Chatty got home.

She slept until noon on Sunday, and appeared at the table with the shadowy eyes and colorless face that always were hers after a night spent with the "famous four."

"Who brought you home last night?" Mrs. Chatterton asked, when the meal was over and Pud had vanished from the flat. "Mr. Dunning?"

Chatty nodded.

"I thought you weren't going to go 'round with him any more," said her mother. "I wish you wouldn't. He keeps you out so late—and you don't know anything about him, really. I'm always uneasy when you're with him and the rest of that crowd."

"I know everything about him that I need to know," Chatty declared, with a sudden burst of anger. "I don't have to know his life's history or anything like that—I'm not going to marry the man, mother! I'm not even very crazy about him—"

She hadn't known it until then, when she began to put it into words. But it was true. She wasn't in love with Bryant any more. The crazy, senseless, strong infatuation was over. It was over on her side, at any rate.

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—For those who don't want to work too hard for a living, I recommend answering advertisements like the following two, which caught my eye in a trade publication:

"Open a bankrupt store. We furnish everything and show you how you can make big profits daily from the start. Experience unnecessary. Our new plan makes success sure. A sound, proven, legitimate business. Blank company, Chicago."

"Orangeade—Imitation powders costs one-sixth cent a glass! Best tasting, strongest, biggest profit paying powders made. Fine flavor and cloudy color. Dollar package makes 600 glasses!"

Pet Skunks

William Faversham tells one about the late Maurice Barrymore who apparently was the world's champion amateur collector of animal and feathered pets.

While Barrymore and Faversham were visiting the world's fair grounds in Chicago, they came upon a small circus that was selling off its animals. Barrymore insisted upon buying a pair of skunks. He paid cash on the spot, and walked off with one skunk in each pocket of his linen duster. He kept those animals with him during most of a transcontinental tour in "aristocracy."

On the train out of Chicago, Barrymore proudly exhibited his pets to the passengers. Some were interested, and some weren't. Bedtime came, and Barrymore retired, taking his skunks with him.

"In the middle of the night," says Faversham, "we heard the most awful screams from the women. The skunks were making a tour of the car, exploring every berth. Barrymore got up and caught them, and spent the rest of the night in the smoking room, with the door closed."

As the "aristocracy" company progressed along the Pacific coast, Barrymore accumulated more and more pets—birds, dogs and even, for a time, a bear. He kept the collection in the scene car when the company was traveling, until finally the company told Barrymore he could stand for it no longer.

Whereupon, rather than get rid of his pets, the star left the show, and Wilton Lackaye took his place.

Fan Letters

She is one of the better known of the younger movie actresses. I'd tell her name, only her company doesn't want it known that she is married—very happily so—and the mother of a 4-year-old daughter.

She was in New York recently, and she and her husband asked another young married couple to drop in on them during the filming of a scene in Grand Central terminal. The engagement, however, was not kept, and shortly afterward the actress left for California, leaving her husband here.

The young woman who had been unable to keep the engagement wrote the star a note of regret, addressing it to the California studio. No word for six weeks. Then came a postcard, with a typed form message:

Dear Friend: I appreciate your interest in me. I am sorry I cannot send you my picture, as you request, unless you forward 10 cents to cover the costs."

It was, thought the New York woman, a good joke. She told her husband. He told the movie star's husband.

"Huh," replied the gentleman. "You don't know anything yet.

"After my wife left, I wrote her a long, affectionate letter every day. In two weeks I got a telegram from my wife, asking why I didn't write. So I telephoned her, and explained that I had. She conducted an investigation, and found that all my letters had been sent to the fan mail department, opened, and filed away."

Just Say It

The newest wrinkle in ship-to-shore communication is the phonograph record. Going abroad—on one liner, at least—has at last been made completely perfect. No longer does one need to remain below decks, writing thank-you letters to friends who have sent baskets of fruit and the clubbiest thing in novels to one's stateroom. The passenger simply pours his or her thanks verbally into a microphone for two minutes, and the resulting phonograph disc may be mailed back to the states. This talk-by mail arrangement is considered much more intimate than laboriously written long-hand letters.

More Easy Letters

A friend of mine keeps bachelor quarters in a large hotel, where, despite the vigilance of the staff, card sharps will get in. But my friend, an indifferent player, welcomes them. The other day, for instance, he was walking down the hallway toward his rooms when he came upon a man who was unlocking his own door. This fellow started the conversation by asking what time it was, and then rather sorrowfully admitted that he was a stranger in town—a Southerner—and lonesome. Would my friend, by any chance, like to while away the afternoon with a friendly game of poker?

My friend would. "But I haven't any cards," he said. The lonesome Southerner, however, had.

"Well," said my friend, "you get your cards, and we'll play in my room. I'll go ahead and open it up." Giving his new acquaintance the room number, he went on down the hall.

Once in his room, he hurried to the telephone.

"Operator," he said, "call me back in half an hour without fail. And when I answer don't pay any attention to what I say to you."

The Southerner arrived, and the game was begun. My friend hadn't much money, and he dared not risk more than a half hour's play. But, he figured, his card-sharp acquaintance would probably let him win at the start, just to encourage him.

He had won a modest sum when the telephone rang.

"Oh, hello, dear," said my friend. "I didn't expect you so soon. I'll be right down."

And with hurried apologies he urged the lonesome one out of his room, and himself departed.

Higgleby, piggleby, one black hen;
She lays eggs for gentlemen,
But this hotel does not know when—
Higgleby, piggleby, one black hen.

Little Bo-Peep has lost some sleep
And doesn't seem to mind it;
When she gets home, no more to roam,
She'll get a chance to find it.

Mary had a little limb,
It was as white as snow,
And everywhere that Mary went
The limb was sure to show.
She went down by the sea to rest,
She got a burn—and how!
The little limb is tanned so brown
You'd never know it now.

Hey, diddle, diddle,
The drum and the fiddle,
The piano, flute and bassoon;
The orchestra swell
At this summer hotel
Can play anything but a tune.

Little Miss Muffett
Sat on a tuffet
Passing an August day;
Along came a fellow
Whose line was so mellow
It frightened Miss Muffet away.

Jack and Jill ran up a bill
To loaf beside the water;
They couldn't pay and had to stay
And serve as maid and porter.

Mary, Mary, naked, very,
How does your bathing go?
With brazen stares and matrons' glares
And field-glasses all in a row.

Who killed Cock Robin?
"I," said the Dumb Thing,
"I had to eat something—
I killed Cock Robin."

Twinkle, twinkle, little "torch,"
In the hammock on the porch,
With your scanty skirt so high
You have quite a public thigh.
All the tourists passing by
Stare and nearly lose an eye;
If a little less you'd show
Traffic wouldn't be so slow.

Curly locks! Curly locks!
Will you be mine?
We'll go to an inn by
The seaside to dine;
We'll stay for two weeks
With the vacation mob
And all we will get
Will be corn-on-the-cob.

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Otnes, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

LINDY TO FLY SOUTH AGAIN

Ace to Fly Mail to Dutch Guinea Sept. 21

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will return Sept. 21 to his old role of mail pilot and trailblazer and fly the mail from Miami, Fla., to Parsmaribo, Dutch Guinea, a distance of 2,680 miles, it was announced today.

He will thus inaugurate an extension of the Pan-American Airways system from San Juan, Porto Rico, to the South American city.

Accompanied by Radio Operator W. W. Ehmer and a mechanic, as yet unchosen, Lindbergh will leave Miami in a tri-motored Fokker monoplane. He will stop at San Juan, present terminus of the line, the following morning.

At San Juan, the mail will be transferred to a Sikorsky amphibian which the colonel will pilot to Paramaribo, with stops at the Virgin, Windward and Leeward islands and Trinidad and British Guinea. He will reach Paramaribo Sept. 24.

Hall Refused for Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial Rites

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (INS)—Refused a hall or theater in Boston, the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial committee today announced that services to commemorate the second anniversary of the execution of the two would be held in town hall here on Aug. 23, the anniversary date. The Civil Liberties union is associated in the observance, at which Henry R. Mussey will preside.

The committee announced that a full page advertisement in Boston papers failed to bring a meeting place there. They applied for every hall, hotel or theater with 1,000 or more seating capacity, committee members said.

Cotton Spinning Decreases Some

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (UP)—Cotton spindles in place in the United States on July 31 totaled 34,829,022 spinning units, of which 30,395,856 were operated at some time during the month, it was announced today by the department of commerce.

These figures compare with 30,816,122 operated during June and 28,159,676 during July, 1928.

The aggregate number of active spindle hours reported for the month was 7,744,243,369. During July the normal time of operation was 25 days, allowing for Independence day, as compared with 25 days for June.

Based on an activity of 8.68 hours per day, the average number of spindles operated during July was 24,853,979, or at 100.2 per cent of capacity on a single shift basis. This percentage compared with 104.6 for June and 79.7 for July, 1928.

Four Mexicans Held in American's Death Freed

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—After an investigation of the death two months ago of J. H. Ross, 80, the American proprietory of the Hotel Southern at Tampico, the state's attorney there has withdrawn charges against four men held for murder, El Universal's correspondent says.

Ross was killed during a fight in the hotel, in which the four other men, all Mexicans, participated. The investigation disclosed that Ross died from a blow on the head, delivered "accidentally" in the course of the fight.

City Council Walks Out on Crusader

Myra Shows 'Em How Bare Legs Look

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 20. (UP)—Is is truly a commercial age in which men adhere stubbornly to business.

The Wichita city commission today was visited by a famous woman, Myra McHenry, 83-year-old former ally of Carrie Nation, crusader and reformer. Myra removed her stockings in the commission room. She cried, "Behold, gentlemen!" The commission momentarily lost composure.

"I have letters I want to read to the honorable body," Myra continued. "One is from the devil's folks and the other from God's folks."

The commission's repose had returned. The gentlemen were discussing a soft water plant for Wichita.

Myra had other things to say, but the commissioners were deaf to her. She carried a large fly "swatter" and it repeatedly became entangled in the ample folds of her dress, making oratory hard.

The aged reformer was there in the interests of an ordinance to prohibition of the "bare-leg" fad. She described herself as "awful" when she had doffed her hose to set at rest forever any commissioner's notion that the bare leg is attractive.

"It is humiliating for me to appear before you this way," Myra said, as she made warning gestures against flies with the "chicken wire swatter." "But you see how awful it looks."

The commissioners were filing out.

"Just a minute," Mrs. McHenry cried. "I came here to address you in bare legs, to show you how it looks." The commissioners had seen. But they had talked of soft water plans and were going away without talking of bare legs. They were not even interested, apparently, in letters from the devil's folks and from God's folks. They left Myra standing there, a picture of resentment, but not of defeat.

The body was being sent to Baltimore today.

Tangled Suit Involving Man's Wife And His Mules, Faces Court Today

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 20. (US)—I want my wife or my mules!

This statement is the basis for one of the most complicated lawsuits which has ever faced the judiciary of Kentucky and will be heard Wednesday.

It all started with the marriage of Ed Green, 43, and Louise Gibbs, 13.

Hearing that his daughter was married, Henry Gibbs started action against Green alleging that his son-in-law had forged the consent papers necessary to obtain a marriage license because of Louise's age.

Green gave Gibbs four mules to cause him to withdraw his action and to be peaceful.

Then Green and his bride went to Detroit where Green introduced Louise to nine children.

"I thought you told me you had never been married?" Louise is alleged to have asked, and walked out.

Green followed his bride back to Kentucky and found her living at home.

"I'd rather die than live with you," Louise told him.

"All right," Green is alleged to have replied, "if that's the way you feel—but I want my mules."

Gibbs explained he had sold the mules and Green caused his arrest on charges of unlawful sale of the property of another. Gibbs went to jail.

Green had a change of heart and offered to make bond for Gibbs and drop the charges but Gibbs refused to quit the jail house—"until a jury frees me."

Louise is with her father 100 per cent saying "I'm not going back and he won't get his mules either."

Lawnmowers are being exported from the United States at the rate of 12,000 a month.

CIGARET PRICE HIKE PROBABLE

Merger Gives Rumor to Higher Costs

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (INS)—You cigaret smokers may have to pay more for the same old smokes before high finance gets through tinkering with the lowly fag.

Higher prices were forecast today following announcement that the George K. Morrow interests, controlling the Gold Dust corporation, has taken over control of the Tobacco Products corporation, which in turn holds majority stock in United Cigars. With this transfer goes a large block of stock in the Schulte Realty Stores corporation, formerly held by United, but control of the Schulte chain remains with David A. Schulte and associates.

It is understood stiff competition from cut-rate stores, forcing price-cutting, was the factor which caused George J. Whelan and associates to seek a strong alliance for their United interests, which include 2,300 stores, 24 subsidiary companies, interests in half a dozen other large concerns and heavy realty holding about $100,000,000 was involved.

MONROE POSTOFFICE BRINGS NEW SERVICE TO RESIDENCE AREA

SUB-STATION OPENS TUESDAY

Business District Complete With New Service

With the opening of the new Monroe street postoffice Tuesday morning, residents in the large portion of the city west of Brook avenue and south of the Wichita river were provided with complete facilities for the delivery of mail and the handling of all postal business within a few blocks of their homes.

The building which was constructed for the new station completed one of the largest residential business districts in the city, with bus and street car lines in the immediate vicinty and main city thoroughfares leading to the districts on the south where the city is rapidly expanding. The small business section, with the addition of the postoffice, provided almost complete mercantile independence for the homes in that section.

The postoffice is housed in a new brick building, constructed especially for this purpose, and is complete in every respect.

The nine city carriers who deliver mail west of Brook avenue and south of the Wichita river will work out of this office, as well as the rural carrier who covers the route along the Seymour road.

Incoming mail will be sorted into carriers' routes at the downtown postoffice and then rushed by truck to the Monroe street station for distribution to the above 10 carriers.

Facilities at the new postal station will include postoffice boxes for rent, general delivery, money orders, registered mail, parcel post and postal savings. One big convenience will be the return of parcels, which cannot be delivered because the consignee is away from home, to the Monroe street station instead of the downtown postoffice.

In the past many patrons who lived on the edge of town, several miles from the postoffice, would come home from a hard day of Christmas shopping and find a notice that a parcel was being held at the postoffice for them, that postmen had tried to deliver it and found nobody home.

This year many patrons who dwell in the district served by the Monroe street station will have to go only a few blocks in order to retrieve such parcels.

Busy Section

Built up principally since the establishment of the Wichita Falls Junior college, a full size business district is now flourishing in the vicinity of the city's new postoffice.

A roster of the business houses in this neighborhood now shows one drug store, a hardware store, two chain groceries and an independent grocery store, a bakery, two barber shops, three beauty parlors, two tea rooms and a coffee shop, shoe shop, an oil station with washing and greasing racks and several shine parlors.

This district has been growing steadily since the college was opened and a few business houses are added each year. It is believed with the establishment of the little postoffice that the suburb will grow even more rapidly.

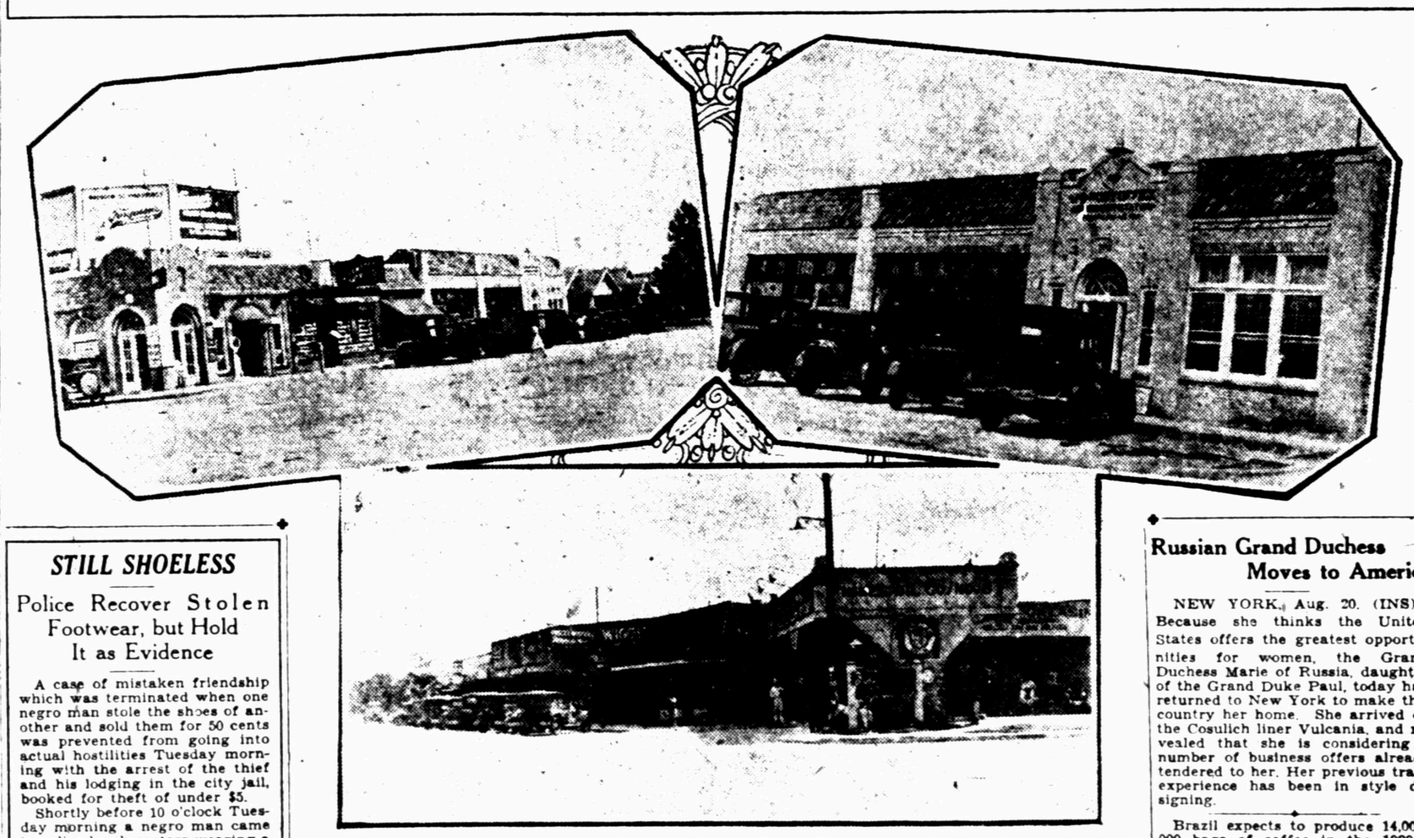

The Monroe street bus line passes through the center of the business district, while the Factory, Lake and Southland car lines are only a few blocks away.

This is also the nearest business district to the Country Club estates and is only a dozen blocks from one of the three city entrances to that beautiful residential addition.

More than 1,000 American citizens are living in South Africa.

There are 25,860 American citizens now residing in France.

STILL SHOELESS

Police Recover Stolen Footwear, but Hold It as Evidence

A case of mistaken friendship which was terminated when one negro man stole the shoes of another and sold them for 50 cents was prevented from going into actual hostilities Tuesday morning with the arrest of the thief and his lodging in the city jail, booked for theft of under $5.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday morning a negro man came to police headquarters wearing a battered pair of shoes and told officers that he had invited another negro man to spend the night with him Monday night and that the other man had absconded with his shoes, his only pair, while he slept. Plainclothes Officer F. B. Fountain discovered the shoes at a local pawn shop. Later, the negro man was arrested and identified.

The victory was but half a victory for the unfortunate victim, for police were forced to hold the lone pair of shoes for evidence and the man was sent on his way still wearing the soleless footgear.

SHOW WINDOW ART REVIEWED

Walker Tells Ad Club Of Changes in Style

Evolution of window display advertising during the last 15 years was discussed and demonstrated by Harry G. Walker before the weekly meeting of the Ad club Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

The haphazard manner of decorating show windows 15 years ago, with quantity shown apparently the principal objective, was compared to the scientific methods employed today to obtain effective symmetry and color schemes in window displays.

Oratorical feats of various local speakers were burlesqued by Bruce Greenwood in a short humorous sketch.

Charles Doran, recently of Los Angeles, and now tap dancing instructor in the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, entertained the gathering with dancing, accompanied by Sid Hunter and Jack Kekuna, piano and banjo.

J. W. Pyland announced the city-wide young peoples' revival opening at the First Methodist church next Sunday night, under the auspices of the Junior chamber of commerce. Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, will preach at the services.

Membership teams headed by P. B. Roberts and T. A. Bradley were appointed Tuesday to inaugurate a drive for new members.

Squaw Beat Him, White Husband Says in Plea

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 20. (UP)—F. L. Hallam, white husband of the wealthiest Indian woman of the Quapaw tribe, today accused the woman of beating him and, on one occasion, shooting at him with a pistol, in asking a divorce with $250,000 alimony.

Hallam married Mrs. Anna Beaver Hallam, whose wealth was gained from lead and zinc mine holdings, in 1924. He charged that she freuently was intoxicated and abusive.

"I'm Not Any Crazier Than I've Allus Been"—So Man Goes Free

A 58-year-old man who took the jury in a lunacy hearing in the county court into his confidence Tuesday afternoon escaped the sanitarium by candidly announcing that he had never had much sense but that he still had as much as he'd ever had. The defendant in the lunacy complaint, wearing a patch over an eye which was injured in a recent fall, did not seriously object to the complaint, but insisted that he is as near normal now as ever.

"I reckon I ain't ever been what you'd call right bright," he confessed. "But I'm not any crazier now than I've allus been."

The jury disagreed. Two of the six said the patient was crazy. The other four said he sounded sensible. The jurors were discharged and Judge John P. Marrs, county judge, sent the prisoner, nothing loath, to live in peace at the county farm.

Bandit Suspect Here to Face Other Holdup Victims in Probe Today

The inquiry into the possible connection between a suspect held on robbery charges in the Wichita county jail and the fatal shooting of Charlie McDaniel at Dundee in July, 1928, will be focused Wednesday on the identification of the prisoner as the bandit who hijacked Rozelle's cafe and filling station and the Jenkins filling station at Fowlkes on the night before the shooting, Dick Morris, handling the investigation for the sheriff's office, announced Tuesday evening. Witnesses to both holdups are expected here Wednesday where they will be asked to pick out the hi-jacker from among a group of prisoners.

Officials are attempting to trace the bandit through a series of holdups which included the attempted robbery of the Dundee bank where Mr. McDaniel was shot to death in his efforts to frustrate the attempt. The investigation has brought to light the prisoner's implication in the robbery of the Parks drug store at Holliday and Eleventh streets last year, both Mr. Parks and Charlie Wilson, formerly an employe, having positively identified him both by his appearance and his voice, Mr. Morris declared.

Additional witnesses from Electra are expected Wednesday, the deputy said.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 20. (UP)—Two men were holding the body of an outboard of an outboard type speedboat against the current of the Mississippi river tonight in an effort to establish a speed record from here to St. Louis for their model of craft.

The boat, christened Vivian C., was manned by her owners, S. J. Gianellani Jr., and E. E. Spencer, Baton Route sportsmen, who had arranged a race with a similar craft owned by two St. Louis men. When the Missouri boat failed to arrive for the cast off, however, Gianelli and Spencer nosed away from the dock alone.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" AND "TOO MUCH ACID" CAUSE 9 OUT OF EVERY 10 ATTACKS

"DIASTATIC DEFICIENCY" (failure to digest starches), causes more than one-half the cases of stomach trouble. Because of this deficiency, potatoes, breads, macaroni, rice, breakfast cereals and other starchy foods remain in a semi-solid condition and refuse to move on as they should. This stoppage causes INDIGESTION, GAS, FERMENTATION, SOURNESS, SICK HEADACHE and other common troubles.

"TOO MUCH ACID" is the cause of almost all the remaining half of our stomach troubles. It also is the result of fermentation and excess digestive acids.

ACIDINE, the new discovery, is a perfect anti-acid combined with "Japtase," the most effective known starch digestant, one pound of which will digest more than 800 pounds of starchy foods.

ACIDINE is the FIRST COMPLETE REMEDY for STOMACH TROUBLE—an ANTI-ACID, STARCH DIGESTANT, MEAT DIGESTANT. At the same time it is safe and soothing to the most sensitive stomach. Slightly laxative but not unpleasantly so.

CONOCO

Now

Choosing the best for you from almost Two Billion Gallons...

NOW the combined raw material resources of the Greater Continental Oil Company, newly merged with the Marland Companies, represents a crude oil production of almost 2 billion gallons annually.

Few refiners in the whole world have under control such a tremendous supply of petroleum from which to select their manufacturing requirements.

Now eight refineries are making CONOCO Motor Oil and CONOCO Gasoline to meet rigid CONOCO specifications, each refinery being supplied with the crude oil which is CONOCO'S own first choice for its market needs.

Every oil well does not produce the same grade of petroleum. Some fields yield ideal oil for making gasoline. Others produce oil best suited to make lubricating greases. Still others... and these are fewer ... afford an output which can be refined into an exceptional motor oil.

The Greater Continental Oil Company now can choose the best... and only the best will be sold under the Sign of the Red Triangle.

CONNALLY HURLS FOUR-HIT BALL AND STEERS SWEEP SERIES

MAVS HAMMER 8 TO 2 VICTORY

Wiltse Batted Off Mound; Fitz Gets Two Hits

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Aug. 20.—The slipping Spudders continued to wallow in the throes of their slump today and the Dallas Steers swept the three-game series by winning the final, 8 to 2. Sarge George Connally held the Wichita Falls nine to four hits, while the Herd hammered three Spudder chuckers hard.

The defeat, while Houston was winning two from Beaumont, reduced the Spudder lead to two and a half games over the Buffs. The Spudders left tonight for Houston, where tomorrow they start a three-day battle for first place with the Buffs.

Herd Ties for Fourth

Dallas climbed to a tie with Fort Worth for fourth place, the highest the Herd has been since the second half started.

Connally continued the mastery held by Dallas hurlers over the Spudders, and the Gallowaymen scored only four runs in the three games.

Fitzgerald got two hits today and Bennett and Bettencourt one.

Connally slammed a home run.

Wiltse Batted Off Hill

Harold Wiltse was batted off the hill in the fourth inning, after yielding five runs and nine hits and was succeeded by Lester White, who gave up two tallies and three blows until he was replaced by a pinch hitter in the seventh. Hopkins hurled the last two rounds and allowed the remaining run and three knocks.

Randy Moore was the batting leader with three hits.

Four double plays, three by the Herd, enlivened play. The Spudders made two errors while the Mavs fielded flawlessly.

Milt Steengrafe probably will oppose the Buffs tomorrow.

TEXAS SPORTS BOARD IS SET

Longhorn Coaching Staff Is Retained Intact

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—The University of Texas athletic and coaching organizations will be retained unchanged this year, according to members of the board of regents in session here.

Nomination of Clyde Littlefield as head football coach already has been confirmed. Nominations of Fred Walker, basket ball coach, Marty Karow, assistant football coach and C. J. Alderson, freshman coach, were not acted upon at the June meeting, but were submitted at this month's session, and were said to be sure of confirmation by the regents.

L. Theo Bellmont, former director of athletics, is retained in the faculty as director of physical education.

Southwest Gains Grid Recognition

Conference Coach Will Be On National Board

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (AP)—As a direct result of the Southern Methodist university football and basket ball coaching school which opened here yesterday, Southwest conference athletics are due to receive national recognition in a more concrete manner than ever before, Knute Rockne, famed Notre Dame mentor, revealed today.

Aside from the coaching school, the principal object of the visit of Rockne and Glenn S. (Pop) Warner of Leland Stanford here is to select a coach to represent the South on the newly organized all-American board of football, Rockne declared. This board, organized five years ago, originally was called the Intersectional Board of Football Coaches and consisted of Warner, Rockne and Tad Jones.

The new board will consist of four members, including a southern representative. Warner, Rockne, Jones and the new member, will meet at the close of the football season to select an all-American team for 1929.

Neither of the noted gridiron tutors would indicate what Southwest conference coach would be chosen on the board. The presence of a southern representative makes it virtually certain however, that one or more conference players will gain a place on its all-American selection.

GOLF'S AMATEUR Challengers

DON MOE

By BRIAN BELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Don Moe, 20-year-old University of Oregon student, who lives at Portland, made himself a distinct contender for the highest honors in amateur golf by winning the 1929 western amateur title at Kansas City.

Moe, who is a sophomore law student spending his winters at the university and summers in a Portland law office, has been playing good golf for several years. He was expected to prove a prominent figure in the intercollegiate championship but was not able to get going at the Hollywood club.

He has held the championship of his home state as well as the Portland city title.

The young captain of his university golf team is a great sportsman and has plenty of color and personality in his game.

Rhem was credited with both victories. He choked a tenth round rally in the first game and went the route in the nightcap. Scores:

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copy t, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered U. S. Patent Office)

"Hyper Introspection"

It happened in a foursome, about the seventh tee,
T'was Bill I think who made the crack,
"There's something wrong when I
come back,
It must be my left knee."
Then Bud chimes in: "I'm swaying,
And getting off the arc,
I'm only hoping and praying,
That this goes near the mark."
At this point I was going swell,
Even fours I think,
And Jeff and I were doing well,
With Bud and the other Gink,
At the eighth, a number two or three,
Across a precipice,
That awful thought occurred to me,
I'll watch myself on this.
And as I start to make my swing,
Decide to pivot more,
Instead of just trying to hit the thing,
Ideas began to soar.
The result—you know—its happened to you,
I came back with a snap,
Up went my head—the ball it flew,
Into a waiting trap.
Oh well, I thought, forget that boot,
I'll make it up next one,
But the seed was planted, had taken root,
The damage had begun.
A snappy six, on a three par hole,
Did me no good at all,
So at the ninth I concentrate on looking at the ball.
I nearly broke a vertebra,
My head flew up so quick,
The ball went bounding from the tee,
And landed in the creek.
Ye gods, there goes my thirty-eight,
Now the best that I can do,
With luck and more than an even break,
Is another forty-two.
That ninth cost me eleven,
I curse and tear my hair,
And swear by earth and heaven,
I'm through with golf right there.
But why keep up this doleful stuff?
I leave the rest to you,
I know that you have heard enough,
Are happy that its through.
But here's the all important thing,
The thought I would convey,
Don't think too much about your swing,
And how you are going to play.
Have uppermost of all your thoughts,
To hit the blooming ball,
And never mind about the faults
Of any one at all.
Don't try to pivot or follow through,
Or lack your bobbing dome,
Or you will sign an I. O. U.
Before you leave for home.

—G. N. O.

One of the Tops

A bystander wishes to know whether or not the winning trip of the Brown and Nichols' crew in British waters should not be listed near the top of the season's best performances. It is at least one of the tops and in many respects is the actual top. Its amateur quality was of a higher grade than one finds today in most amateur sports. And the quality of skill and courage needed carried an equally high grade. Two crews—the Brown and Nichols' crew and Columbia crew, must be given their share of the season's laurel output when the final checking up comes around.

The National Tennis Scramble

Ordinarily the presence of one or two French tennis stars, such as Cochet or Lecoste, stirs up more enthusiasm for the national championship. But this time their absence will make the next show one of the most interesting in many years. It will be doubly interesting to see what two such veterans as Tilden and Hunter can do against the swarm of younger stars now coming on like the surf. This next championship should be a free for all, where any one of five or six entries might win with the right break.

There will be no one dominating figure, but there will be a number who are well matched, and the scramble to outlast the field should be one of the keenest ever known. In the old days it had to be either Tilden or Johnston. Later it had to be one of the Frenchmen, Cochet or Lecoste. Now there will be no set final round, no one or two picked stars good enough to romp through the mass without any great trouble. Outside of Tilden and Hunter, the veterans, there will be such stars as Lott, Van Ryn, Allison, Doeg, Mercur, Bell, Mangin, Hennessy and four or five more who will have at least some sort of a chance.

GIANTS DIVIDE WITH LEADERS

Bush Loses Opener; Carlson Bests Hubbell

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The New York Giants and the league leading Chicago Cubs split a pair of two brilliant pitching duels today. Guy Bush lost his third game of the season for the Cubs in the opener, bowing 4 to 1 before Freddy Fitzsimmons' splendid pitching. In the second game Hal Carlson blanked the Giants 1 to 0 in an even prettier duel.

Carl Hubbell was almost as good as Carlson in the second contest. The shutout was the second plastered on the Giants by the Cubs in three games, Malone turning back the New Yorkers by the same score Sunday. Score:

CARDS AND ROBINS SPLIT

BROOKLYN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Brooklyn and St. Louis broke even today in a double-header studded with smart pitching and opportune hitting. Wee Willie Sherdel shaded Dazzy Vance in the opener to give the Cards a 3 to 2 victory, but Ray Moss, young Dodger right-hander, was supreme in the second contest, blanking the Redbirds, 4 to 0.

Moss allowed but four scattered hits in the nightcap. Johnny Frederick scored the final Dodger run in the eighth with his 21st home run of the season. Score:

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

THE SPUDDERS won't occupy the sporting limelight alone early in September. The second annual invitation golf tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club is scheduled for Sept. 2, 3, 4 and 5, and judging by the success of the first affair last year, it is to be one of the outstanding Texas links events of 1930.

Practically all foremost golfers of this section, in addition to others in more remote localities, have signified their intention of entering. Bill Strachan, professional of the club, was assured at Vernon during the Green Belt tournament, by many players that they will be here to contest in the Country club event.

Dallas and Fort Worth will send large quotas of entrants, in addition to those of other nearby communities. And, of course, all the local experts will compete.

YOU DON'T have to be a top-flight golfer to win a prize—and you don't have to win a prize to indulge in some good golf and to enjoy that good fellowship that goes with a links tournament, if you enter the Wichita Falls meet. There will be as many flights of 32 each as is made possible by the entry list, in addition to consolation play and a driving contest, with prizes to winners and runnersup.

Entries should be mailed to W. G. Eads, assistant secretary of Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, or if further particulars are desired, communicate with E. P. Bass, chairman of the tournament committee.

GALLOWAY'S gallopers haven't cinched the second half championship of the Texas league. Any belief that they were about "in" with that flag has been rudely shattered at Dallas, and with 15 days remaining on their present trek, the Spudders face a long, hard grind. Houston has come with a rush recently, Beaumont and Shreveport are tough, and Dallas has indicated it still may have something to say about the second half title.

The Steers are pretty well down in the race, but it isn't unlikely that they will be right up there with the leaders when the final standings are computed.

PITCHING and balance won the first half gonfalon for the Herd and those qualities will make the Bovines mighty hard to beat in the playoff—if there is a playoff. Glazner, Frasier, Barnabe and Connally form the best chucking staff in the league and there isn't a weakness any place in the Steer array.

Bischoff is one of the leading catchers in the circuit. Davis is a fair first baseman, as is the youngster Ratcliff; Morse and Flaskamper form an excellent keystone combination; Jeffries is a star third baseman, and the outfield of Jim Moore and Randy Moore and Rosenthal is the best all-around trio in the loop, with the possible exception of our own Spudder three.

SAVE FOR pitching, the Spudders probably are superior to the Steers. Stapleton, the most valuable first baseman in the league, bests Davis, and Turgeon and Benton, also forming the greatest second base duo in the circuit, outrank Morse and Flaskamper in all departments of play. Jeffries is superior to anyone the Spudders can offer at third base, and as noted above, the outfields are about a standoff. Lapan's hitting will about offset Bischoff's superiority as a receiver.

Pitching, as always, is the nub of the situation, particularly in a short series. If Payne, Messenger, Wiltse and Steengrafe are at their best, they will give the Dallas quartet of chuckers a royal battle. Otherwise, the playoff (again providing IF there is one) will be a romp for Stock's men.

Here's Another for The Baseball Book

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 20. (AP)—Cows have no place in the 1929 baseball rules.

But, there was at least one case in which a lone heifer played an important part in batting averages and the score of a baseball game here.

Shortstop McNeely of the Tulsa fire department team clouted a fly into right field this afternoon, seemingly easy catch for the fielder. However, the sphere hit the cow grazing there and bounced off. When the perspiring fielder attempted to stop the rolling ball the cow charged him, making it impossible for him to get the ball before the batter had crossed the plate for a home run.

The firemen, who were playing Coweta, won the game, 14 to 8.

LUCAS BEATS BRAVES

BOSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Fred Lucas of the Reds chalked up his 13th pitching victory of the season today when he hurled Cincinnati to a 6 to 1 win over the Braves. He permitted the Bostonians eight hits but the Braves failed to bunch them.

Ford and Swanson led the visiting batters, while Richbourg was the only Tribesman to do any heavy hitting. Score:

Aviator's Sickness

In this strenuous period when airplanes are passing out of the experimental stage into the field of practical use, it is interesting to study some of the hazards which confront the flying man. In spite of the fact that any serious disease prevents the granting of a pilot's license, the aviator must be constantly alert to protect himself against many minor illnesses and accidents which would not be serious to one not flying.

One exposed to the strain of flying too frequently, or too long at one time, may develop flying staleness, and a temperamental nervous feeling, causing his sleep to be broken by terrible nightmares, as of crashing into a ship that is on fire from a tremendous height, or colliding in the air with another ship flying in formation. By the time he has dreamed such a dream every night for a week, his judgment and mental control may be affected. Sometimes in these dreams one whom the pilot knows to have crashed comes back to haunt him. Is it any wonder that in the morning he fears to take his ship up, or that his self-confidence is shot?

The physical strain of excessive flying may result in a muscular unbalance. A convergence insufficiency, or a divergence excess which will impair the pilot's judgment at the vital moment when he is landing will cause him to under or overestimate the proper distance so that he will not hit the field when he wishes to.

Duynener, the French ace, showed these symptoms of increasing nervousness and irritability for some time before his fatal flight, and his mates called in a doctor to examine him, who arrived just half an hour after the famous ace had left on the flight from which he never returned.

In the beginning of the flying era men stayed comparatively close to the ground, but now it is not uncommon to go up as high as 22,000 feet. Due to the increased oxygen tension there are two types of altitude sickness. The symptoms are headache, vomiting, buzzing or ringing in the ears, nausea, and a dimness of vision. The first type of this sickness is acute and marked by fainting attacks or lividity, rapid heart beat, and marked weakness. The second type is of much the same characteristics, but the attack is delayed. The symptoms of nervousness and heart derangement may be accompanied by a heavy panting and the feeling of being unable to move—a sort of paralysis of the limbs and marked weakness. The pilot becomes dazed or unconscious.

In some cases the pilot does not realize that he has pain or distress. He may feel well, almost too well, and this breeds confidence in himself and his condition that keeps him from realizing that his life is imperiled. He not only feels very well, but he is sure that he was never better. He considers himself in full control of his plane when he may really be almost helpless. He may lose control of his plane suddenly, acting like a sufferer from petit mal (epilepsy), or he may faint two or three miles away from the earth and, alone in his ship, hurtle downward. If luck is with him, he will come to at a lower level of flying to find his plane out of control, or he may never recover from the fainting fit at all, in which instance he crashes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Diet for Reducing.

Question—F. D. asks: "Will you please tell me if the menus printed once a week in your column are reducing menus? I am too heavy and would like a balanced diet which would take off 10 or 15 pounds. Have been following your instructions, but do not lose by using your weekly menus.

Answer—If you want to reduce, I would advise you to change the weekly menus somewhat. A simple way to do is to substitute a fruit meal in place of any meal including starch. If you are overweight and will do this, you will probably lose from three to five pounds a week.

Sweet Milk

Question—H. asks: "Is it healthy to drink a glass or two of sweet milk just before retiring every night?"

Answer—Not unless you are on an exclusive milk diet, in which case your schedule might extend to bedtime, depending upon how much milk you were taking. Ordinarily, when milk is used at all, it should be used as a meal itself, and not in addition to any of the customary three meals a day.

Mitral Stenosis

Question—G. D. H. Jr. writes: "I am a young man of 20 years and have heart trouble (mitral stenosis) which has existed since birth. I have heard that near my 21st birthday I may expect a change for the better, the explanation being given that during youth at intervals of seven years a change occurs. Is this true?"

Answer—It is true that heart disorders of childhood often gradually disappear after adolescence, but do not depend too much upon this possible change. Start in eating correctly so that you do not have an excessive amount of gas pressure against your heart, as such gas pressure is the most common cause of all heart derangements.

China Missionary Talks at Bluegrove

HENRIETTA, Texas, Aug. 20. (Spl.)—The preaching for the revival being conducted at Bluegrove is being done by Rev. C. L. Culpepper, who has been in China for the past five years, now home on a furlough. He is telling of the experiences that have come to him in connection with his work in a foreign land, which proves very interesting to the listeners. The song service is in charge of Bert Peters, a fullblood Pawnee Indian, the grandson of White Eagle, a noted chief who fought with General Miles in the civil war.

The personal service work is under direction of the pastor, Rev. Bob Whipple. Much work is being done on the outside to induce professions.

NEW MEASURE IS NOT HARSH

It's Merely Just, Says Mabel Wlaker Willebrandt

tion statute is a violation of the constitution itself.

The Jones amendment is not a new law. It leaves most of the Volstead act untouched, raising penalties for violation of such sections as parallel specifically with the 18th amendment. Only maximum punishments are raised. The judge is simply given a larger sliding scale in order to enable him to fit the punishment to the crime. There has been raised by the anti-prohibition press a great hue and cry over the outrages judges may commit under it in sentencing college boys, mothers with small children and a man who carries a flask on his hip, to the penitentiary for five years.

Federal judges are appointed for life. They are officers chosen for their discretion. Every day they sentence hundreds of offenders under laws that have a sliding scale of punishment enabling the sentence to be all the way from a fine of a dollar to 25 years in the penitentiary. We can trust our judges. Certainly government is in a bad way if we cannot leave the fate of a college boy who carries a flask to the football game to the sound discretion of the federal judge whom he faces. There isn't an objector to the Jones law in the entire United States who could point to a single federal judge in whose hands that boy's fate would not be safe.

Cobweb of Restraint

The crux of the matter is that a Chicago racketeer would no longer feel so safe. The judge now has the power to send him to the penitentiary for five years, and neither the racketeer nor his patrons like that.

Every safeguard is still left around the casual offender. He can be given only a fine. Or he can be given the smallest kind of a jail sentence of an hour or a day. Everybody seems to forget the probation statute, under which the judge can suspend all punishment. That is why I was for the Jones amendment. It is not oppressive. It is right for the judge to be able still to deal leniently with the exceptional case. But it arms the government against crafty criminals. I know that teeth are needed in the law so that he who violates the constitution for the purpose of making money may be dealt with in such a manner that the punishment means something.

There would be little opposition to this amendment if it pertained to anything except prohibition. The little criminals and little drunkards will never overthrow the dignity of the law. We have drifted along for 10 years with conditions becoming worse until a new danger has arisen. It is the commercial class of law violator—the racketeer, alcohol baron and rings of smugglers—who combine their lawlessness with entrenched political power. To them the Volstead act was no more than a cobweb of restraint. Any fine under it was less than a license compared to the profits of the business. And it was easy for them to hire substitutes to go to jail for little terms.

A Worried Alderman

In Chicago not long ago an alderman was convicted. He had organized a five-million-dollar company to engage in a systematic violation of the prohibition law for the specific purpose of commercializing crime and making money out of defying the law. My experience as a law enforcement official has convinced me that the Volstead act needed to be amended so that when that alderman stands up for sentence, the judge may have the power to mete out something reasonably proportionate to his offense. Before the Jones amendment the price would have been six months or $500 fine for profits to a five-million-dollar illegal combine!

Another reason I know that beneficial results will follow the Jones amendment is that it will do away with the too prevalent use of the conspiracy statute. United States attorneys when given evidence of huge sales or manufacture of liquor on a commercial scale, in order to avoid the toothless misdemeanor offenses of the Volstead act, have charged the defendants with "conspiracy." The conspiracy statutes have thus been distorted. They never were intended for so widespread use. Federal judges, including the chief justice of the supreme court, have condemned such careless resort to conspiracy indictments in liquor cases. The man who transports a truckload of liquor should be charged with transporting. The man who sells large quantities of whisky should be charged with sale; and he who manufactures gin should meet that charge before the bar of justice. That is the forthright way to go about law enforcement. That is what the Jones amendment is enabling prosecutors and judges to do.

Reaching the Purchaser

The Jones amendment to the Volstead act also enables the man who purchases liquor from a bootlegger to be prosecuted. This is because sale has been made a felony. That ties it in with section 251 of the United States code. Section 251 provides that whoever helps in the commission of a felony shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both. If, therefore, a man purchases a case of liquor, he is helping in the commission of a felony and may himself be charged with misprision of a felony. Several United States attorneys are preparing cases of this character now.

A great bugaboo has been raised over the Jones amendment because it is charged that hereafter every prohibition violation will have to be presented to the grand jury. No one who is informed upon the various statutes can long maintain such a contention. Almost every violation reported by prohibition agents is a legal infringement of no less than five sections of law, to-wit: (1) some of the internal revenue statutes existing prior to prohibition; (2) the possession, (3) nuisance, (4) transportation, (5) sale, or (6) manufacturing sections of the national prohibition act; (7) the tariff act, (8) the customs act, and frequently (9) the prohibition law of the state.

Manifestly, no prosecutor multiplies charges for the same set of facts by pleading violation of all of these statutes. It is the duty of the prosecuting official to look over his evidence and then plead the case under the statute best suited. It is also the duty of a prosecutor to follow the intent of congress.

Hope for Hip Pockets

The Jones amendment makes it clear that congress intended it to apply particularly to commercial violations of the law. If, therefore, the prosecutor has evidence of a "hip pocket pint" he does not need to take it to the grand jury. He can proceed under possession by filing an information. If the evidence shows commercial "crime for profit" features he should take it before the grand jury. It is the prosecutor's duty to exercise a sound discretion in choosing the proper charge. If he does, the grand jury alarm fails.

The Jones amendment to the Volstead act is already working. It is not congesting courts. They were already congested before it came along. In districts where the United States attorney has organized his work and is using common sense, it is not proving burdensome to grand juries. The little local misdemeanor cases ought to be turned over to the state courts any way. The chief responsibility of the federal government is to reach the bigger offenders—the racketeers. The Jones amendment gives the judge power to punish them adequately instead of giving them a "slap on the wrist" as the Volstead penalties have been doing for 10 years.

Why all the hulla-baloo over the hypothetical harshness of the Jones act? The Volstead infant has been in the arena 10 years and big bootleggers laugh!

Then why not try the five and ten?

Maybe they won't laugh it off so easily.

(In her next article Mrs. Willebrandt will reveal some of the human flaws in enforcement).

Changes in Grid Ticket System Announced by University of Texas

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Several changes, having as their object the promotion of a thoroughly impersonal and automatic system of ticket selling have been inaugurated in the rules governing distribution of tickets for the 1929 University of Texas football season, according to Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, acting director of intercollegiate athletics.

In the first place, all reserved seat tickets will be sold in advance through the mail and, on the day of the game, at the ticket office on the stadium grounds. No reserved seat tickets will be sold over the counter at the athletic office or downtown stations as has formerly been the practice.

Application blanks for tickets may be obtained by addressing football ticket manager, box 1926, University of Texas, Austin, Texas. The blanks, properly filled out and accompanied by a cashier's check or money order to cover, made payable to W. R. Long, auditor, should be mailed back to this same address. If acknowledgement of order is desired, a self-addressed post card should be included with the application.

The applications will be filed in order received at the office of the ticket manager and will be filled in the same order, making every individual's procuring of a good seat entirely dependent upon his own initiative. Applicants may indicate preference as to location of seats in a given section, whether high up, half way up or low down. As far as tickets are available this preference will be granted.

All tickets purchased by application will be sent by United States registered mail to the applicant with the demand for a return receipt. To cover this, all remittances must include 25 cents as a registration fee. Two or more persons in the same group desiring seats together may include applications in the same envelope and all tickets will be mailed to one designated person.

Contributors to the stadium fund will be entitled, as in former years, to priority rights in the purchase of choice seats. Application blanks will be mailed to each elegible stadium contributor, upon which will be indicated the amount of the contribution, not the amount pledged, and the maximum number of preferred tickets which may be purchased. This preference expires 30 days before each game so that, in order to be effective for any game on the schedule, applications must be in the athletic council office not later than 30 days before each game.

Student and faculty season ticket holders will be given a priority right to purchase reserved seats, other than their own, and will be grouped in order following the priority of the stadium contributors. To be effective for the Oklahoma and Rice games, this right must be exercised before Oct. 1. For the remaining four games of the football schedule, this privilege will be effective up to within 30 days of the date of the game.

When two or more applications for different classifications, say a stadium contributor and a non-stadium contributor, are placed together, they will be filed in the group of the lowest classification, in this case, the non-stadium subscriber.

Applications are divided into three blanks with three games listed on each blank for the convenience of the individual in getting the blanks back to the ticket manager on time.

The first blank includes St. Edwards university at Austin on Sept. 28, Simmons university (second varsity team) at Abilene on Sept. 28, Centenary college at Austin on Oct. 5 and Arkansas at Fayetteville on Oct. 12.

The second blank lists Oklahoma at Dallas on Oct. 19, Rice at Austin on Oct. 26 and S. M. U. at Dallas on Nov. 2.

The last three games on the third blank are the Baylor game at Austin on Nov. 9, the T. C. U. game at Austin on Nov. 16 and the Texas A. & M. game at College Station on Nov. 28.

Dr. Ettlinger urges that all applications for seats for the Oklahoma game be returned in a particular hurry, because of the limited seating capacity of the Fair Park stadium at Dallas, which seats only 16,000 people.

"These seats will have to be divided up with the Oklahoma contingent, and there is every reason to believe that there will be a large delegation from the University of Oklahoma in Dallas on Oct. 19," Doctor Ettlinger said.

Vernon Highway Work Is Resumed

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 20.—The last vestige of the truck owners strike which stopped the paving on highway No. 28 about four and a half miles southwest of Vernon disappeared today when the line of empty trucks that has rimmed the courthouse during the four days of the strike vanished entirely. Work was resumed this morning by the McClung Construction company with 20 trucks in operation. Clyde McClung, in charge here, said no strikers had been reemployed, but some of the strikers this morning charged that part of their number had gone back to work.

Hardly a dozen trucks were lined up at the courthouse this morning and these disappeared during the day. Strikers admitted their numbers had dwindled until they could not afford to employ counsel to represent them in a court fight for back pay they said was due them. Two officers on duty at the scene of operations during the day experienced no trouble. Strikers did not put in appearance.

Mercury Plane May Not Compete in Cup Races

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (INS)—Unless Lieut. Al Williams, the navy's speed ace, can get his Mercury racing plane off the water in a successful test flight, the trim little speedster will not be sent to England to compete in the Schneider cup races.

This dictum was laid down today by Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, after a series of navy department conferences in which Lieutenant Williams participated. Only two days are left in which to make the tests if the ship is to be gotten to England in time for the cup races.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Further advances of about 35 points on dry hot weather in the Southwest were checked by realizing in the cotton market today, with prices later reacting partially under continued profit taking and some southern or local selling. December contracts over advancing to 19.22 or fully $5 per bale above the low price of last week, closed at 18.96. The general market closed steady at net advances of 6 to 11 points on all months except July which was relatively quiet and 9 points net lower.

The market opened firm at an advance of 11 to 24 points. Stimulated by nervousness over the Texas crop, and firmness of the English market. The market sold up to 18.90 for October and 19.46 for March contracts before noon these prices attracted increased realizing and the market eased with the selling a little more active toward the close when there was said to be more pressure from the South.

Trading was quiet during the middle of the day, but there was fair volume of business early and again in the late trading. A private report said that the crop condition had continued to decline, being now below the 10-year average for this season owing to drouth in Texas and weevil damage.

The official forecast for partly cloudy weather in West Texas with reports of rains in Kansas and Nebraska led some of the local traders to hope for relief in drouth conditions in the Southwest.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to general buying and covering on unfavorable crop reports.

Exports today, 12,826 bales, making 123,123 so far this season. Port receipts 22,634. U. S. port stocks, 534,865.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—An early advance of 24 to 28 points met realizing in the cotton market today and before the offerings were absorbed nearly all the gain was lost. The early firmness was attributed to continuation of yesterday's buying movements coupled with favorable cables and continued drought in Texas. December contracts after selling up to 19.11 eased off to 18.88 and closed at 18.90 for a net gain of 7 points.

The market opened firm. Execution of overnight buying orders induced by yesterday's decision of the federal farm board to lend on this year's crop, was the main influence behind the early advance although values received some support from the firmer Liverpool market and the continued dry weather in the drought section of West Texas.

After opening 16 to 20 points the market continued to advance in early trading until by mid-morning October traded at 18.84, December 19.11 and January 19.15, or 24 to 28 points above yesterday's close.

The market ruled steady during the balance of the morning and fluctuated near the highs after mid-session, however, selling pressure increased and prices eased off steady during late trading. October sold back to 18.60, December 18.88 and January 18.94, or 21 to 24 points down from the highs. Final prices were near the lows.

Final prices were steady and 3 to 25 points net higher. Responding to better cables from Liverpool, opening prices at Chicago were 13 to 30 points up. Crop damage report from Texas and a tropical barometric disturbance in the Caribbean sea brought buying orders and prices advanced rapidly.

Technical Influences Wipe Out Early Gains on Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (US)—Technical influences wiped out most of the early gains recorded in the stock market, today, but Allis Chalmers and a few others scored outstanding advances. Allis Chalmers finished 38 points higher at new record level, while Montgomery Ward advanced 5¾, Case Threshing 23¼, International Telephone 10⅝, Commercial Investment Trust 4⅝ and Radio Corporation 4¼. U. S. Steel after recording new high above 251 dropped off to close fractionally lower on the day. Other Standard Industrials followed the action of Steel. Oils and Rails remained quiet but held fairly firm throughout. Call money appeared in good supply at 7 per cent. Turnover dropped under the 5,000,000 share level.

A good part of early enthusiasm was engendered by announcement of formation of another big investment trust. So long as these continued to be formed it will be felt that there is an increasing potential demand for the "good stocks" that promises to continue the upward movement. The new idea of offering exchange of stocks in the new trust for stocks of leading corporations listed on the exchange met varied reaction. Some traders attempted to take advantage of arbitrage that was available but found that the bankers were not philanthropists. The bankers most responsible are quite thankful to the reserve board as they feel its policies have been most effective in influencing most investors to trust others to make safe commitments even though they do not trust themselves.

Outstanding advance in Allis Chalmers was regarded as indication of what is threatened in Steel common. The stock is practically cornered and with improving earnings power influencing new demand violent fluctuations cannot be avoided. The only recourse is to a split up of the shares that increases floating supply and also results in price range available to the trading public. The new Allis Chalmers is expected to be put on a $2 annual dividend basis but if earnings continue to gain as indicated extra payments are likely. Despite denials those in close touch with leaders of the Oil industry maintain that Standard of New Jersey will get control of Union of California.

Abe Warner denied that deal was on with Paramount Famous but it was claimed by others that agreement was very near. A new corporation was to be formed, it was claimed, of which Harry Warner would be chairman and Zukor named president. Warners were willing that one share of new be given for each Warner Brothers share, but the Paramount Famous interests were holding out for one and a half shares rather than the one and a quarter so far offered. Definite agreement was forecast for next week when Harry Warner returns to this city. With the talk of a Warner-Paramount Famous combine stirring up interest those usually active in Fox pool work took more aggressive activity in their stock.

Rise in Steel, and some others recently, it is claimed, has enabled Durant to make up for part of the damage from the June break. He was also mentioned in connection with Allis Chalmers but those who keep closest watch on that market state the important buying was for investment trusts. Durant was interested also in the attempt to push Anaconda, it is stated. The "Durant stocks" of before the reserve cataclysm of June, however, continue to disappoint as it seems impossible to attract a following. Incidentally, the Combustion people are said to be trying to effect deal with Consolidated Gas interests along the lines of that closed with Chicago Utility company.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—A lower undertone prevailed around the 11-market circuit today. A few choice quality grass fed steers and yearlings proving the exception. Packers had their way on western grass steers. Majority of the western steers are 50c to $1 lower for the two days, with some sales off $1.50. Grass fat she stock has shared a large proportion of the decline. Thin fleshed stockers and feeders have been liberal, especially at Kansas City. Western grass steers are selling within a wide range of $7.00@13.00. Kinds around $11.00 and above are well conditioned and show the effects of dry feed. Chicago had a $17.00 top on heavy native steers. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 43,900, an increase of 3,500 over last Tuesday, but 3,000 short of a year ago.

Hogs were tendered a price jolt of 15@50c. The day's extreme top of $11.60 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 82,000 as compared with 76,397 a week ago and 65,031 the corresponding day last year.

Moderate receipts checked the decline on fat lambs with most markets reporting steady prices and some strength developing at Omaha. Aged stock ruled unevenly steady to 25c lower. Closely sorted native lambs in Chicago scored $14.00, and best rangers made $13.65. The supply numbered around 60,200, a decrease of 9,000 from a week ago and 17,000 short of a year ago.

The American Hawaiian Steamship company is engaged principally in the intercoastal trade through the Panama Canal and in the transpacific trade. The company owns, in conjunction with the Matson line, the Oceanic and Oriental Navigation company which bought from the U. S. Shipping board 21 freighters now operated from Pacific coast ports to New Zealand, Australia, China and the Philippines. The price paid for the vessels was $1,981,756.

Early in 1929 the company acquired the fleet and business of the Williams Steamship company. At present it operates about 30 vessels from Pacific coast ports to Philadelphia, Boston and New York. The concern does not do much business in passenger transportation. During the war the fleet of the company was taken over by the government which paid a rental of $6 a ton monthly.

Gross revenues and operating income increased steadily from 1924 on but depreciation chargeoffs resulted in deficits except in 1927 and 1928. In the former year net was $23,952 and in 1928 $425,955.

There is no funded debt but on Jan. 1, 1929 there were outstanding purchase money obligations to the extent of $881,250. Capital stock outstanding consists of $4,756,020 in shares of $10 par value. No dividends were paid from 1925 to 1928 inclusive but $1 from surplus was paid Jan. 15, 1929.

As of Jan. 1, 1929 total current assets were $6,684,696, current liabilities amounted to $916,648 and net working capital was $5,768,048. Book value applicable to the outstanding capital stock was $25.06 a share.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Wheat rallied briskly late today after an early break.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ¾c down. Corn closed at ½c to ⅝c advance, oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Lower Liverpool quotations than expected, a bearish Canadian crop estimate, reports that piling up of wheat supplies in the United States was being paralleled at Montreal, and favorable reports on harvest yields in European continental countries drove prices down as much as 7 cents.

Pronounced dearth of future delivery offerings of wheat here became apparent as the day approached an end and this with emphatic denials of bearish Canadian crop estimates reversed the market. The market closed at about the top figures reached and with most of the day's losses wiped out.

Unfavorable corn crop advices from South Dakota were a factor in bringing about a late upturn in the corn market. Oats were unsettled, with hedging pressure in evidence on advances.

Provisions inclined downward on account of weakness of hog values.

Mauretania Breaks Record Third Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (UP)—The Cunard liner Mauretania for the third successive day broke her record for a day's eastward run making 636 knots from noon yesterday to noon today, according to the company officers here.

The 22-year-old transatlantic greyhound set her previous records in 1924. Her average for the fastest record day was 27.65 knots per hour. She is due at Plymouth shortly after midnight.

Families who settle in a new home during August and September add another (imaginary) year of pleasure to their lives. When winter comes and the folks look back upon the summer season it appears that the past summer was really two distinctly different seasons. August and September are just far enough ahead of the cold, wintry days that the average person gets this idea. Then, too, there is just enough time before the cold days to get comfortably settled for winter.

RADIO TEAM IN VAUDEVILLE

Honey Boy-Sassafras On Weekly Program

Honey Boy and Sassafras, popular KGKO comedians, will appear on the weekly free vaudeville program Wednesday night at Bellevue park in a black face act in which the two will discuss some of the problems which have been puzzling Amos and Andy, another well-known comedy team. This is the first appearance of Honey Boy and Sassafras in real black face before the vaudeville audiences, C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, stated Tuesday.

Mrs. Honey, who took the place of Sassafras in their last appearance, and who proved quite popular with the audience, will assist the two in the skit Wednesday night. The bill will be entitled "dance night" and a series of special dance features will be presented. The complete program follows:

Concert numbers by the East Side Presbyterian church band, stringed instrumental numbers.

Band concert by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds.

Attorney Warns Tax Delinquents

Wayne Somerville, county attorney, Tuesday afternoon issued a warning to property owners whose 1927 tax assessments have not been met. Suits are being constantly prepared and filed against such property and the county attorney's department is prepared to go straight through the roll with its suits unless payments are made at once, the attorney declared.

Mr. Somerville explained that the property owners can save from $4 to $20 in court costs by paying the taxes and avoiding the suits. He said that preparation for the suits involved a checking through four sets of records and that the costs in the end are met by the taxpayers.

Roofing Company Site Scene of Small Blaze

Firemen were called to the scene of the conflagration which wrecked the Lydick Roofing company several weeks ago about noon Tuesday when waste paper scattered about the place caught fire. The small blaze was quickly extinguished with no damage reported. Fire department officials attributed the blaze to children who were reported to have been playing about the ruins of the burned building.

MAJESTIC: Tarkington's story-telling and good acting happily combined in "River of Romance" Mack Sennett comedy. Fox Movietone news.

STRAND: Richard Dix and Esther Ralston in "The Wheel of Life." Three Vitaphone vaudeville acts. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: Realistic picture of the Klondike gold-rush with Ralph Forbes and Dolores del Rio in "Trail of '98" Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: Shadows, mysterious signs and surprises in "The Canary Murder Case," with William Powell and Louise Brooks. Comedy.

Thirty years have not erased memories of the stampede to Alaska's gold fields. Many survivors of that epochal attack on the North's mineral treasures are scattered through every state, while those of a younger generation recall vividly the childhood impressions, filled with wonder and romance, received from accounts of privation, desperate struggles, and rich strikes which filtered back from the Yukon.

That the reflected "spell of the Yukon" has not been forgotten is strikingly indicated by the unusual attendance given the "Trail of '98" which opened at the Olympic Sunday. Even the afternoon showings have been numerously patronized, with a noticeably large proportion of men in the crowd.

Naturally, the picture was built to portray the atmosphere which surrounded the hegira to Alaska, and the tortuous trek to the famed inland. The plot, which Forbes, Del Rio, Tully Marshall and Dane enact creditably, has a minor function and may therefore be allowed the slightly miraculous turns achieved in the finale. But in its major function of depicting the frantic rush for the end of the rainbow, and the sufferings endured by thousands to reach their goal—not often to find their fortunes—is accomplished with surprising degree of realism.

Ralph Forbes proves a particularly good selection for the leading role of "Larry." The striking Nordic features and general bearing of a Viking aid the imagination greatly in feeling the driving blizzards of northern winters. Dolores del Rio as "Berna," Tully Marshall as "Salvation Jim," and Karl Dane as a big Dane blend excellent characterizations with the background of icy waters, turbulent mountain streams, and shrieking blizzards.

There are always smiles for the review of what Mr. and Mrs. Smith wore three decades ago, and this source of entertainment was not overlooked in "The Trail of '98." Emily Fitzhugh, whose unrelenting features dominated "The Show Boat," introduces the spring ensemble of that year, with fur boa and everything. And speaking of obsolete costumes in the movies—

Extraction of remarks anent the "movies" from letters penned by one high school girl to another just half-way back to the Klondike rush—1915—turns up numerous reminders that evolutionary changes during the last 15 years have not been limited to screen entertainment. Sentences gleaned here and there paint a "moving" picture of days when the Tuesday and Saturday motion picture dates gave the girls of the neighborhood a real thrill.

To-wit: "They've torn down that old livery barn back of the school house. . . . The Temple movies sure have put a crimp in the Gem and the Comet. Tomorrow they have the original company in 'Brewster's Millions' at the 'Temple Grand'—with Bryant Washburn' . . . with Jimmy the other night. He can take off Charlie Chaplin, of movie notoriety, to perfection."

Then, as the opening of school approached: ". . . getting my clothes all ready—a black silk poplin redingote, three silk shirt waists, two pairs of doeskin gloves, and two pairs of shoes one storm and one good. Skirts are shortening. Mine is going to be well up on the ankle."

Physical discomforts which may be brought back from the ocean beach are not limited to overexposure with sunback red bathing suits. This revelation has been made by Miss Reba Newman, of the Dent theater offices, who returned from Virginia Beach, Va., Sunday from an abbreviated vacation with one hand painfully bruised and heavily bandaged. From the information available, it seems that the horse which the accident victim was riding became weary of the continual substitution of equestrianism for the aquatic sport commonly supposed to attract vacationers to the beach. Exhausted by long plodding through the sand, and determined to protest against the perversion of attractive swimming attire, the conscientious mount deliberately lay down on the sand without having given any warning whatsoever of his intent. Miss Newman, however, remained with the animal, for the very good reason that one foot was firmly imbedded beneath his tired body. Using an Australian crawl stroke, the prisoner was able to deliver several smart blows to the creature's head, effecting a sudden release of her own foot and two of the animal's at the same moment. The protecting hand which shielded its owner's face received the impact of a flying hoof—this was no sea-horse—and Miss Newman's work in the Dent theater offices is now being dispatched with her manual capacity reduced by 50 per cent.

SUIT REOPENS ACCIDENT CASE

Guardian Seeks to Set Aside $1,500 Settlement

A controversy arising out of the death of Mrs. L. V. Thomas in a railroad accident in Iowa Park last November was reopened Tuesday afternoon with the filing of a new $25,000 damage suit in behalf of J. D. Greathouse, 7-year-old son of the woman who died in the collision.

The suit, filed by E. W. Napier, attorney for the plaintiff, is brought through H. L. Hunter, guardian for the little boy, against the Fort Worth and Denver railroad. It seeks to set aside a former compromise agreement settling the case for $1,500, on the grounds that Mrs. Lizzie Greathouse, grandmother of the boy, was not legally capable of signing the agreement. The petition alleged that Mrs. Greathouse, who accepted the $1,500 settlement, was not in possession of all the facts and not in a position to settle the matter for her grandson. The plaintiff prays to be heard by the court without regard to the former agreement signed on Dec. 28, 1928.

Mrs. Thomas was killed and the little boy was injured when a Fort Worth and Denver train struck a truck in which they were driving with their household goods in Iowa Park on Nov. 3, 1928.

do you have these SYMPTOMS ? at 10-2 & 4 o'clock

Ah! it's — "HUNGERITIS"
(Slightly Nervous Exhaustion from Hunger)
Nothing else But

Here's the Prescription—Easy to Take:
DRINK A-BITE-TO-EAT AT 10-2 & 4.
And You'll Snap Right into it Strong

Mother Nature knows her stuff. She demands 3 meals a day and it's a habit you can't escape. But in this high-pressure age, you burn energy, both ends against the middle. That's why you get "that feeling" at the mid-meal hours of ten, two and four. Solid foods take time to transform and tax digestion with extra effort you can't afford to spare. That's why it's better to eat lighter meals and drink a-bite-to-eat between.

Dr. Pepper perks you up pronto, but it's nourishment, not "nerve whip," that does it. You get the energy of invert sugar practically pre-digested and in a virtually non-fattening form. This, plus the tonic of acid fruits and the spicy tang of herbs, adds to your zest and aids digestion as no other drink can do. Don't let energy get low. Get this wholesome habit—it's happy, healthful, harmless and it helps like an ace in the hole.
