Antiwar Amendment Likely To Pass Senate

Measure Is To Insure Swift Return Of GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A double-barreled antiwar amendment appears likely to pass the Senate and move to an uncertain House fate, perhaps before President Nixon's troop withdrawal announcement Nov. 15.

The Senate amendment to the foreign aid bill would require total U.S. withdrawal within six months and would cut off funds for American military operations throughout Indochina except the amount necessary for withdrawing forces and protecting the pull-out.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Saturday the amendment "should end the stalemate" and insure the swift return of U.S. soldiers and prisoners of war.

Senate debate begins Tuesday on the bill which would also limit U.S. spending and personnel in Cambodia and expand the committee's jurisdiction over all U.S. aid in Southeast Asia.

Although the House has consistently rejected similar amendments, the margin has narrowed to fewer than 30 votes despite vigorous White House lobbying against such measures.

Pentagon sources have indicated the President would announce a total withdrawal of American ground combat troops by next July and possibly sooner.

But the White House has given no indication of the magnitude of next month's announcement.

Meanwhile, a British guerrilla warfare expert predicted the phase-out of American ground troops will be virtually complete "within a month or two."

Sir Robert Thompson, a personal consultant to Nixon on Indochina, said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report:

"I can hardly imagine that within a month or two any American ground forces will be involved in combat other than security at American bases."

Thompson said the pace of troop withdrawal could be stepped up so that no more than 50,000 would remain in Vietnam by next summer.

The antiwar amendment, the Foreign Relations Committee asserted, would "declare a clear national policy in Indochina" for withdrawal in six months if American prisoners were freed.

The amendment incorporates the Mansfield amendment setting the six-month deadline which passed the Senate and was defeated on a procedural vote in the House last Tuesday. The tally was 215-193, closest yet on such a measure.

House antiwar forces, however, say they doubt they could muster enough votes to actually cut off funds for the war, an additional provision of the new amendment authored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Close Vote Predicted For China Resolution

HOUSTON (AP) — George Bush, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said he expects that body to vote Tuesday to keep Nationalist China within its ranks.

In Houston for a U.N. Day dinner, Bush said a motion to expel Nationalist China and replace it with the People's Republic of China will be "extremely close."

"It's a very close vote," he said. "It's a critical one. I feel that we will win it. We've come a long way in the last two months."

Bush said the U.S. policy recognizes the reality of Red China, which holds the mainland of that country, and Nationalist China, which occupies the island of Taiwan.

"We're simply saying there are two realities," he said. "The U.N. would be much more realistic to have them, and it would be setting a dangerous precedent to expel a country. Ours is a policy of dual representation, not two Chinas.

"We've worked hard enough and I think we've made enough headway that some of the marginal countries recognize there is a great danger in setting a precedent of expulsion."

Diplomats said that the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said a spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the American casue figured they had a 58-57 or 59-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

However, another friendly diplomat calculated the vote at 59-58 against the resolution or 58-58 tie. Other assessments were that from 58 to 61 delegations were ready to vote against it and only from 56 to 58 were for it.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believed the voting would start Tuesday.

The "important question" resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain

Nixon Says Trips To Red Capitals Help U.S. Goals

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon has cautioned Americans not to have any "unrealistic expectations" about his forthcoming journeys to Moscow and Peking.

Speaking to the nation on Veterans Day eve, the President said the United States is ending an unpopular war in Southeast Asia, "while moving to prevent" other wars in the future.

"My trips to Moscow and Peking are directed toward that goal," said Nixon in a radio broadcast Sunday from Camp David. "We go with no false hopes, and we intend to leave behind us in America no unrealistic expectations."

Great differences remain among the three nations, he said, but they have "much in common. We share this earth. We share our love of our children."

Nixon said he hoped "this generation of veterans might truly be the last."

The President said the nation is ending what he termed a "little understood war" in Vietnam while "moving to prevent others." And, referring to the reception which returning Vietnam veterans receive, he warned "a nation that condemns those who serve it will find itself condemned in turn." He added that Americans should move to insure "that those who bore the burden of war" should not have to bear the burden of peace through unemployment.

Vice President Honors War Dead At Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew honors the nation's veterans today by placing a presidential wreaeth at the Tomb of the Unknowns as antiwar protesters start a year-long campaign to oust President Nixon from the White House.

The Pentagon has placed about 2,000 soldiers and Marines on alert at three military bases within 30 miles of the capital in case violence erupts at the demonstrations planned by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice.

The coalition, which sponsored the massive Mayday protests here last spring, plans rallies through Tuesday.

Agnew, who returned from Greece Saturday, was delivering the principal address as Nixon's personal respresentative at the anual Veterans Day ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery. The vice president is a World War II and Korean War veteran.

The people's coalition planned to "demonstrate a willingness to end the war" by talking with representatives of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks by phone at a rally oday near the Washington Monument.

It said it would have an exhibition of the "tragedies of life under Richard Nixon "on the monument grounds. Some announced participants included Indochina war opponents Dick Gregory, Rennie Davis, Dr. Benjain Spock and David Dellinger.

Nixon, who spend the weekend at Camp David, was expeted back in the capital when

Bodies Of 3 Mesquite Residents Found; Deaths Remain A Mystery

By JOHN LUMPKIN
Associated Press Writer

MESQUITE, Tex. (AP) — Bodies of a young Mesquite couple and a teen-age employe of a doughnut shop have been found, but most of the details of their violent deaths remained a grim mystery today.

"We really don't know a whole lot except there have been three people murdered that used to live in Mesquite," said Jack Faulkner, chief criminal investigator of the Dallas County sheriff's office.

Two young men walking along railroad tracks near Lake Ray Hubbard in Dallas County about 2 p.m. Sunday spotted the body of Susan D. Shaw, 16, who disappeared Wednesday night from the doughnut shop. Authorities said her father positively identified the body, which had been riddled by six bullets.

Two hours later at a spot several miles away, two other men found bodies in a Hunt County barn tentatively identified as those of Forrest Covey, 22, and his wife Jena, 19. They vanished Oct. 17 from a drive-in grocery store where Mrs. Covey was employed.

Asked if the same killers were to blame for all three deaths, Mesquite Police Chief Jack Garyson said, "It is an assumption, but I think it is a pretty good assumption."

He said no physical evidence linked Miss Shaw's disappearance to that of the couple but added, "We're working on that." Grayson said there was a possibility that slugs from the bodies can be extracted and compared.

The Coveys apparently met death in the barn, Justice of the Peace Homer Wacasey of Greenville said, adding, "The man, we know, was shot in the back."

Wacasey said the hands of both were tied with baling wire and the bodies were "badly deteriorated."

Hunt County Sheriff R. W. "Red" Wood said the barn is next to a clubhouse that is used about twice a year by members of a Dallas racoon hunting club. The place is down a dirt road about a quarter mile off Farm Road 751 and about a half mile from the shores of Lake Tawakoni.

The club is about 20 miles south of Greenville in a somewhat remote area, Wood describ-

2 Japan's Trains Collide, Killing Two, Hurting 178

TSU, Japan (AP) — Two express trains collided head-on in a tunnel today, killing at least two persons and injuring 178, police reported.

The police said the motormen of the two trains were killed and three of the injured were seriously hurt.

Kintetsu Railways Co., a private railroad line, said the trains were carrying an estimated 600 passengers. Police said both trains were derailed and several coaches overturned.

No further details were immediately available.

The collision ocurred between Nagoya and Osaka, in central Japan.

Police said they had sent 200 men to the scene but they were having difficulty removing the injured from the tunnel.

Hotels and inns in the area also rushed buses and station wagons to help carry the injured passengers to hospitals.

Council To Decide On 'Trick-or-Treat'

Since Halloween falls on a Sunday this year—next Sunday—when will the trick-or-treat crowd go into action?

That question will be decided locally when the City Commission meets tomorrow.

City Manager Mack Wofford indicated today his recommendation will be Saturday night for the annual observance.

"I don't think Sunday night would be the appropriate time," Wofford said today.

Wofford said the matter would be taken up with city commissioners tomorrow.

Other business to be considered on the council agenda will include:

A recommendation in regard to bids on removal of the surplus elevated tank adjacent to Central Fire Statein.

Resignation of Shelby R. Cogdell from the City Traffic Commission. Request for the transfer of a city taxicab license.

Second and final reading of an ordinance establishing traffic control signs at 19th and Christy, Wilks Ave., and Love St., and Erown St. and Love St.

Consideration of a proposed change of the fiscal year for Canadian River Municipal Water Authority operations.

And the appointment of a committee to plan and coordinate the dedication of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

World Art Lovers Salute Picasso On 90th Birthday

PARIS (AP) — Art lovers on both sides of the Atlantic paid homage today to Pablo Picasso on his 90th birthday. But the Old Master remained in seclusion at his home on the French Riviera, probably working.

The French Communist party arranged a big birthday rally tonight at the Paris Palais des Sports. The Riviera village of Vallauris, where the artist lived until a few years ago, had an all-day fiesta Sunday to honor the man who made its pottery industry successful with his designs.

The Louvre installed eight Picasso paintings in its Grand Gallery, the first of a living artist to hang there. President Georges Pompidou opened the French tribute to the Spaniard who has lived in France since 1904.

Galleries in New York, London and other major cities showed Picasso exhibits. London's Tate planned to release a flock of white doves over the Thames. Newspapers ran special articles and editorial tributes. London's Sunday Times devoted five pages to Picasso. The Observer, another Sunday London paper, had six pages of reproductions and a five page review of his career. Time magazine this week has miniature reproductions of 61 of his works in color, titling them "Picasso: The First 90 Years."

Moscow saluted Picasso, a member of the French Communist party for more than 25 years, with editorials last week. The West German radio and television presented several anniversary programs, including a TV production Sunday night of Picasso's play "How to Grab Dreams by the Tail."

The object of all this homage, veneration and adoration remained behind the high walls at his villa in Mougins with his wife Jacqueline, sending out no birthday messages as the congratulatory cables and testimonials poured in.

Roland Leroy, a member of the French party's Politburo, told the crowd at the Vallauris party that Picasso had said he would "spend the day as usual—working." Leroy said the

Laird In Europe, Warning Against Cutting Defense

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird today began three days of conferences with America's European allies with a warning agains cutting their defenses.

Laird, who arrived from Washington Sunday, told news men the prospect of negotiations with the Soviet Union on reduction of forces in Europe had inclined European parliaments to cut their forces in advance.

He said this would be a grave mistake and "we should have just the opposite attitude."

Laird praised the European Defense Improvement Program, under which he European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization promised last December to spend nearly $1 billion in the next five years to improve military communications and aircraft shelters.

Laird's schedule today included conferences with William Porter, head of the U.S. delegation at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris; Helmu Schmidt, the West German defense minister, and the defense ministers of Britain and Italy.

Wage Hikes Seen As Mixture Of 'Freeze' And Per Case Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Cost of Living Council says it "would be an incredible burden" for the Pay Board and Price Commission to rule on every requested salary or price hike during Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

Instead, says director Donald Rumsfeld, he expects the panels to strike a balance between a case-by-case approach and the present all-encompassing wage-price freeze.

Rumsfeld stressed in an Associated Press interview that he did not want to preempt any of the board's options.

"...We have to recognize that the President created the Pay Board and Price Commission to make the decisions," Rumsfeld said. "And I think this is worth underlining. Those who have suggested that things are confusing because there's not a government edict on every aspect of this are wrong.

"The choice the President made was to have a process that would involve the Board and the Commission and they would make those kinds of judgments in an orderly way."

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, called for an outright ban on corporate mergers during Nixon's Phase 2.

Many of the nation's price problems "stem directly from the concentration of economic power in certain industries," Patman maintained Sunday.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson predicted the wage and price boards will focus on big industries such as the nation's 500 largest corporations.

Hodgson interviewed on WRC television in Washington Sunday, said he expects the boards to proceed case-by-case with no fixed limits for acceptable wage-and-price increases.

In his interview Rumsfeld acknowledged that there have been complaints from the business community that businessmen haven't been told precisely how Phase 2 will affect their pricing policies.

"...They will know in good time," Rumsfeld said. "The kind of information that the private sector needs to comply ... will certainly be forthcoming."

Belfast Woman Who Opens Fire On British Troops Shot, Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A woman guerrilla opened fire on British troops today and was shot and wounded, military sources reported.

The shooting occurred as the Irish Republican Army began striking back with bombs and bullets in retaliation for the weekend killing of two women by British troops.

The incident, in which one soldier was wounded, underlined what the British say may be a dangerous new phase in Northern Ireland's violence—the increasing deployment of women and girls by the outlawed IRA.

A storm of riot and protest followed the Saturday killings of 19-year-old Dorothy Maguire and her married sister, Mary Meehan, 30, mother of four.

They were hit by army bullets as they drove with friends through Belfast's Lower Falls district, an IRA stronghold.

The army insisted that two shots had been fired at soldiers from the car, and that troops were justified in firing back.

Associates denied that the sisters had fired.

3This morning's Irish News, a Roman Catholic daily, carried death notices, however, identifying Miss Maguise as a staff officer of Cumann Na Bhan, the IRA women's organization.

This morning's Irish News, a in Belfast's Andersonstown district.

The army said troops searching houses for arms came under fire at several places.

Pictures in Irish newspapers recently have shown young women under arms training. Couples have been seen posing as young lovers in shop doorways. When they move on, a bomb goes off.

The security forces claim to have captured at least 300 hard-core IRA gunmen since internmen without trial was ordered Aug. 9. Now the army says newly trained girls may be coming forward to take their place.

Area Man's Body Found Under Snow

SILVERTON, Colo. Ap — The body of Marion S. Martin, 48, of Amarillo, Tex., was found under two feet of snow in the mountains northeast of here Saturday, six days after he and another hunter had been buried in an avalanche.

Sheriff Virgil Mason of San Juan County said Martin's body was found about 11 a.m. by two members of a search party probing a small mound in the slide. Death was attributed to suffocation.

Martin and Jimmy Logsdon, 32, also of Amarillo, were struck without warning Oct. 17 while hunting elk. Logsdon's rifle sling caught on a bush, however, as he was hit and he was able to dig himself out.

Authorities had been forced to temporarily halt the search earlier in the week because of the danger of further slides. An investigation had also been made into charges the avalanche had been triggered by snows from a cloud-seeding project in the region, but officials said analysis of snow samples discounted the possibility.

Violence Claims 18 Lives In Texas Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violence claimed a least 18 lives in Texas during the weekend.

The toll somewhat smaller than often is the case, included 10 traffic deaths. It was recorded between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

These were among the victims:

Heddy Moore, 65, of Naples was killed Sunday in a one-car accident on U.S. 77 just north of the East Texas city.

Ralpy Curry, 21, of Mexia died Sunday when his crop-dusting plane crashed in flames near Mexia. His brother, in a second plane, watched in horror as the crop-duster went down.

Quincy Paul Montgomery, 34, of Dallas was killed Saturday night in a car-pickup truck collision on a Trinity River viaduct. Dallas police said Montgomery and another man were standing in front of the pickup trying to make a repair when it was struck from the rear by an automobile.

Jean Solman, 24, was shot and killed in her Dallas apartment about midnight Saturday. Police said she had been arguing with a man who was held without immediate charge.

Bobby Garcia, 8, of Anton died Sunday of burns suffered the night before in a fire at the home of his grandparents at Levelland. His grandparents and his sister were injured.

Bobby Lawson, 13, of Dallas died Sunday morning of burns suffered during the night at his parents' home. Investigators probed the blaze after reporting discovery of a jug apparently filled with gasoline.

Area Residents Urged To Back Yule Seal Sale

Expressing concern over the rise in teen-age smoking and of education against it, the Top of Texas TB and Respiratory Disease Association today urged area residents to support the 1971 Christmas Seal Campaign which opened this week.

"Adult smoking is beginning to taper off," said Association President Lillian Jordan of Pampa. "But we are going to have to intensify efforts where students are concerned. Both boys and girls are beginning to smoke as early as age 13 now, and in some cases earlier. We certainly need the support of the public in combating the problem."

Seals have been mailed to some 80,000 area residents for the purpose of mounting an expanded program against migratory tuberculosis, emphysema, and other respiratory diseases related to cigarette smoking and air pollution.

Mrs. Jordan said although contributions will be mailed to Austin in an economy move to centralize bookkeeping, money raised from the area will be budgeted back to the Top of Texas TB Association to carry on program in the Panhandle's 26 counties.

Miss Shaw lay face down in about four feet of water in a slough of Lake Ray Hubbard. Officers said the slough was flooded by recent rains.

Several Northeast Texas police agencies are involved in the investigation, Grayson said.

He also said he understood police agencies as far away as Lubbock, Lakewood, Colo., and South Salt Lake City, Utah, would be given information about the slayings.

A 20-year-old girl disappeared from a Lakewood doughnut shop in late August under almost the same circumstances as Miss Shaw. Authorities said she was found in a field near the Wyoming border after having been shot and strangled.

A 26-year-old woman vanished from a Toddle House in Lubbock about a month ago and has not been found.

And Nevada authorities last month found the nude body of a girl who was last seen at work in a South Salt Lake City doughnut shop.

Grayson said the information would be shared in attempts to find any connections. There are no links that he knows of at this time, he said.

When the Coveys disappeared, they left behind two infants and their automobile and personal effects. They even left a load of laundry in their washing machine.

Miss Shaw's mother routinely went to pick her up at work about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday. Miss Shaw was missing and there were no signs of a struggle, but the store's money was gone and coffee was heating on a burner.

the coalition staged a candlelight march on the White House around dusk today.

Tuesday's antiwar activities will include a memorial service in front of the White House which will finish with an attempt to present Nixon with an eviction notice.

The coalition, which calls its entire project "Nixon Eviction—Phase I," staged over the weekend a "People's grand jury," investigating U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. Witnesses at the mock trial claimed Nixon is not ending the war.

The coalition said it has not received a permit for Tuesday's demonstration but will march anyway. It said there is no overt intention to disrupt traffic or create other situations that could lead to violent clashes between police and demonstrators but there would be "militant, nonviolent resistance to this order denying a permit."

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last night I left my 15-month-old baby in the care of my regular baby-sitter from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. (The sitter is 16.)

My husband works the third shift, and he came home unexpectedly about 8 p.m. and went to bed.

When I got home at 9 p.m. my baby was gone and so was the baby sitter. I immediately called the sitter's mother who told me that she had come and gotten her daughter and taken my baby home with them because she (the sitter's mother) didn't want her daughter sitting while my husband was home!

The mother said she had nothing against my husband personally, but she had to look out for her daughter's welfare. When my husband heard this he just about hit the ceiling, and of course I was hurt. Is there something wrong with our attitude, Abby? Or is there something wrong with hers?

WIFE AND MOTHER

DEAR WIFE: Hers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had one ear piereced when he was in the Army, and he always wears a gold earring in it. He knows I don't like it, but he likes it and continues to wear it anyway.

I have tried nagging him about it, and also ignorning it, and then I just gave up. The only thing I ask of him is to please not wear it when he comes around my place of work. He has paid no attention to my request and when he shows up where I work with that earring on, everyone snickers and makes remarks.

Now I have decided to do something that will embarrass him as much as he is embarrassing me without embarrassing myself. Have you any suggestions? Thanks.

HATES EARRINGS ON MEN

DEAR HATES: That's a poor solution. It will boomerang. If you embarrass him in retaliation, he will feel justified in continuing to embarrass you.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman with a three-month-old baby and my problem is that I sleep too much. I get anywhere from 12 to 14 hours of sleep a day, and I could sleep some more if I didn't have so much work to do.

No matter how much sleep I get, I'm still tired. Sometimes the more sleep I get, the more tired I am.

Before the baby came I got away with it, but now my house is seldom clean and I am always behind on my laundry and I never have a chance to fix myself up before my husband comes home. He is always mad at me, and I know it's my fault.

What do I do? Let my husband divorce me and get custody of the baby? Or should I just kill myself and leave my husband free to marry someone else who will be a better wife and mother? I don't know whether my problem is mental or medical, but for God's sake, don't tell me to go to a doctor. We can't pay the bills we have.

LAZY

DEAR LAZY: I don't think you're lazy. I think you're sick. Telephone the MENTAL HEALTH SOCIETY nearest you. There is help for you even if you have no money. Or get in touch with your local FAMILY SERVICE organization. Please don't put this off. I want to hear from you after you have followed these suggestions. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to PEG, concerning the male nude, you said, "When you've don't want to see 'em all.

Certainly the same thing could be said about the female nude, yet few men would agree with you.

That may be your view of the male body, but I for one can appreciate a lean, muscular, well-developed physique. I've seen one. And I don't want to see 'em all.

Designer Says Nakedness Is Spring Fashion News

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Oscar de la Renta says the big fashion news for after five this spring will be "nakedness."

"I think it's time we showed a little skin," declared the designer at the opening of his $250-to $600-priced couture line Wednesday.

He showed skin teasingly—a bareback on a dress with a large round collar, a small cape removed to show shoestring straps. Sometimes on the bodice small triangles edged with tiny ruffles served at the bustline and sometimes there was a halter look or a wrap-around-the-neck-strap. A few dresses had squared backs.

Legs, however, were hidden or just peeking through side slits. Hemlines just covered the knee for daytime and cocktail and were to the floor or just nine inches above the floor for evening.

Many of the more formal evening dresses were full enough to have been worn by Scarlet O'Hara and complete with rustling taffeta.

What he called picture dresses with wide necklines and sometimes long or three-quarter sleeves, had small rows of ruffles at the cuffs and hem.

The dress that brought gasps and applause from the audience that overflowed the Seventh Avenue showroom was a hot pink taffeta evening dress with rows of ruffles on a stole and ruffles wrapping around the skirt.

He also showed a series of Oriental inspired fashions with bright splashy prints, Ming colors, a Mandarin or manchu collar. Some belts were about 10 inches wide and sometimes closed with frogging.

For daytime the designer shied away from this season's popular blazer, showing it only a few times. Instead, he concentrated on a cardigan coat or jacket and a battle jacket. Frequently stand up collars from blouses poked over the collarless jackets. Nearly every outfit was belted at the natural waistline.

Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, OCT. 26

Your birthday today: The major patterns of your daily living gravitate toward stability for quite a while to come. The changes to be expected are subtle, mainly spiritual. Today's natives ordinarily concentrate on narrow, special fields of study; are generous to others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Personal social contacts pose several minor problems, all temporary. Do the least that will get you past them for the day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Impulse brings some impasse. Perhaps you unconsciously set it up to test yourself and your patience. Greater spending could possibly straighten everything out but may not be the healthier course.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Visitors, strangers, passersby are chock-full of news, tall stories, unfounded opinion. You learn a great deal about people very little of the facts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Any theory you offer brings further dispute — and not on the merits of either the case at hand nor your estimates. Put it in writing if you must, but be brief.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Now it's your turn to carry the main responsibility, keep a personal secret. You have missed seeing a simple fact.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The time is ripe to put in afoothright bid for better income and improve working conditions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Recognize your habits for what they are, and make resolutions to change what you don't find productive. This can lbde a fair day to rearrange finances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It's a rather instructive day to watch what happens to ordinary routines and what people do about them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get a second opinion on any technical question. Preview your home and possessions, and discern how you might improve or redevelop them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Social doings can upset work schedules — perhaps it's just as well, as you should be a little ahead of the routines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 8): Finish the larger tasks first, then get something done on any neglected older projects. There's little time for hobbies but make the most of transitory lulls.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Pursue bright idea as far as your time and present convenience permit. More will come from its development.

Football Roundup

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took a full-scale Indian war to stop the rampaging Redskins and, when the dust settled, it was quite naturally the Chiefs who subdued the tribe.

The Washington Redskins went into Sunday's National Football League action as the only undefeated team and appeared they'd stay that way as they carried a 17-6 lead into the second half against Kansas City.

But 30 minutes and three Len Dawson touchdown passes later, the Chiefs were whooping it up with a 27-20 victory.

In Sunday's other games, Chicago defeated Detroit 28-23, Miami beat the New York Jets 30-14, Philadelphia whipped the New York Giants 23-7, Dallas demolished New England 44-21, Oakland edged Cincinnati 31-27, 28-6, Los Angeles shelled Green Bay 30-13, Denver stunned Cleveland 27-0, San Francisco slapped St. Lous 26-14 and Pittsburgh turned back Houston 23-16.

In Saturday night's lone game, San Diego smothered Buffalo 20-3. And tonight, in a nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EDT) contest that looms as a brutal defensive collision, Baltimore is at Minnesota.

Dawson, who wound up completing 10 of 23 passes for 203 yards, began hitting with consistency in the second half. He hit his favorite receiver, Otis Taylor, with scoring strikes of

What would have been a day of rejoicing for the Bears became one of mourning for all of pro football as Lions wide receiver Chuck Hughes, a five-year veteran from Texas, collapsed on the field and died a short time later of what Detroit team physician Dr. Richard Thompson said was apparently a ruptured major blood vessel.

Third-string quarterback Bobby Douglass directed the Chicago upset, throwing touchdowns of 54 and 15 yards, then plunging over from the one for the winning score.

"We can do this against anybody," Larry Csonka said after scoring two touchdowns and teaming with Jim Kiick to roll up a massive 258 yards on the ground in the Dolphins' romp over the Jets.

The Cowboys opened their new home, Texas Stadium, in grand style as Roger Staubach threw touchdowns of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another score against the outgunned Patriots.

George Blanda, who made a habit of saving the Raiders last season, came off the bench against the Bengals to direct his teammates to two touchdowns and a come-from-behind victory.

Casper's Victory A Ho-Hum Affair

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper, playing some of the best golf of his sparkling career, got so far in front he made his victory in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open a ho-hum affair.

Casper established a six stroke lead at one time during the final round, fashioned a four-under-par 68 and finished with a tournament record 269, 19 under par on the 6,633-yard Silverado Country Club course.

"When I saw what he was doing, I decided I'd better start playing for second," said Tommy Aaron, the only man who really had a shot at the front-running Casper.

Aaron's last hopes died on consecutive bogeys on the 11th and 12th holes and he slipped back to third when rangy Texan Fred Marti birdied the last two holes for a 67 and 273, four strokes off the pace.

Swiss Racing Driver Dies In Flaming Crash

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP) Jo Siffert, called "a model to all youngsters wanting to get into motor racing" and "one of the world's best drivers," is dead following the flaming wreckage of his BRM Formula I car.

The 35-year-old Swiss driver was burned to death Sunday under his blazing car, which crashed into a bank, overturned and exploded. He had been driving at more than 100 miles an hour in the year's last Formula I event.

Ironically, the race was a nonchampionship event organized to replace the Mexican Grand Prix in which drivers had refused to compete because of inadequate safety precautions. It was arranged as a "triumph victory" appearance of Scotland's Jackie Stewart and his Tyrrell Ford, winners of the 1971 world driving championship.

Siffert, BRM's No. 1 driver following the death of Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, killed in a sports car race in Germany in July, was the favorite for Sunday's race after winning the pole position.

Following his crash on the 14th lap of the 25-lap event at the Brands Hatch circuit south of London, a huge black cloud rose into the air.

British driver John Surtees, whose car was behind Siffert's, said later: "He didn't stand a chance. His gear box seemed to seize and the car flipped over as it hit the bank out of control."

Vikings Meet Colts Tonight

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLISST. PAUL ST. PAUL, Minneapolis (AP) — With defensive reputations and divisional leads in jeopardy, Gary Cuozzo of the Minnesota Vikings plays down his role as an avenger against the Baltimore Colts in tonight's National Football League television special (9:05 EDT, ABC).

Early Start Stops Don Garlit's Winning

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A start which was a split second too soon cost favored Don Garlits of Seffner, Fla., the world drag racing championship Sunday.

Instead it went to California's Gerry Glenn, who took four-tenths longer than Garlits on the final run.

Garlits, three times national drag racing champion, and the current national record holder, was clocked at 6.55 seconds on the final run, the best of the meet.

Glenn, driving for Bill Shultz of Panorama City, Calif., had a time of 6.59 seconds in the finals and a top speed of 227 mile sper hour.

World champions crowned in the three other professional categories were Mike Fons of Southfield, Mich., in pro stock; Austin Myers of Louisville, Ky., in top gas and Phil Castronovo of Utica, N.Y., in funny car.

Champions also were crowned in four sportsmen's brackets to complete six months of world championship series races in the United States and Canada.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Stick To Basics In Prison Reform

In the aftermath of the bloody events at San Quentin and Attica, an experiment conducted at Stanford University last August is said to offer some kind of new insight into the brutalizing effects of prison, on both prisoners and their guards.

In the experiment, devised by psychology professor Philip Zimbardo with the help of an ex-inmate, 21 healthy, normal and average students volunteered to spend two weeks in a mock prison set up in the basement of the psychology building. They were randomly divided into 10 "prisoners" and 11 "guards."

The "prisoners" were "arrested" unexpectedly at their homes, handcuffed and taken blindfolded to the "prison," where they were stripped, deloused and subjected from then on to a number of petty cruelties and indignities.

They soon began plotting resistance. The "guards," who wore reflective sunglasses to make themselves more impersonal, soon began thinking of the "prisoners" as less than human and played them off against each other in order to control them.

On the sixth day, as one after another of the "prisoners" began having hysterics, the experiment was called off.

"If we were able to demonstrate that pathological behavior could be produced inso short a time, think what damage is being done in 'real' prisons like Attica and San Quentin," says Zimbardo.

But does this experiment really tell us anything new about "real" prisons?

Anyone who femembers the hazing that fraternity pledges used to have to go through should not be surprised to learn that even nice guys can turn into little tyrants when they are given the opportunity.

Cruelty and indigniy and inhumanity do exist in prison, and as long as they do we cannot claim to have a truly civilized society. But it is not this so much as it is the simple fact of being in prison with little real hope for the future — certainly, with little success, in past life to build on — that drives men to despair.

The prison camps of World War II and Korea were not exactly vacation spas. Yet there is no indication that any significant number out of the thousands of men who spent years in them were turned into hardened criminals.

Is it customary for real prison guards to wear sunglasses that hide their eyes? Are real prisoners brought in blindfolded and rousted from their beds every night at 2:30 a.m., as the mock prisoners were?

Perhaps not. And perhaps worse things happen in real prisons. But what the Stanford experiment ultimately founders on is the fact that the students who took part in it were not criminals. They were guilty of no crimes; they had not been sentenced by any court.

This is not to say that men who are guilty of crimes and who are legally sentenced by courts are fair game for any kind of treatment which society, in the form of aging prisons and underpaid, undereducated guards, cares to mete out to them. We had evience enough long before Attica and San Quentin to know what that kind of penal system results in.

It is to say that an experiment like that in the Stanford psychology building is no more necessary than would be one in the university's medical school in which one group of volunteers would be allowed to be bitten by mosquitoes and another group not, the object being to see which group developed yellow fever.

In both cases, we already know what causes the disease. What we need to do is to cure it.

A Sinister Threat

More than one person will be puzzled by treasury sekretary Connally's statement that "a change in the price of gold is of no economic significance."

For a number of years now — dating to the dawn of recorded history — multitudes of men and women have taken a different view of the matter.

Over that span, men have risked their lives to get gold, sacrificed precious possessions for gold, dug for gold, fought for gold, and even died for gold. The streets of heaven are depicted as paved with gold.

So it seems a bit ridiculous for one man at a given point on the endless line of eternity to announce that the entire proceedings have been suspended.

In a restricted sense, however, Mr. Connally may be correct. Although the U.S. government declared an ounce of gold to be worth only 35 American dollars, the marketplace declared it to be worth at least seven dollars more than that. In other words, Connally may have meant nothing more than that any official change in the price of gold would only be a tardy recognition of what the marketplace already had done.

But there was another part of the same statement by Connally that gives it an additional thrust. This was his reference to "our objective to reduce if not eliminate, the role of gold in any new monetary system."

For there is quite a convenient way to eliminate the role of gold temporarily, in world trade. That is to introduce a printed legal tender, a piece of paper that has the legal force of paying off debt. The moment this is done, Gresham's law goes into effect; the bad money drives out the good. Which is to say, the gold goes into hiding.

There is one sinister aspect to Connally's expressed view. Experience shows that for legal tender to be acceptable it must be backed by a police force — national currency by a national police force, international currency by a world police force.

Who Cheered Them On?

Wars are a product of the "masculine mystique," says Wilma Scott Heide, newly elected president of NOW, the National Organization for Women, and when women take over the government among other changes will be a "universal end to war."

It is a tall order, but no taller than the goals of the early suffragettes, which included not only an end to wars but to saloons and hemsoiling dirty streets and every other ailment of society when women won the right to vote.

Wars, saloons and dirty streets are still with us (though the dirty hem problem has been solved!), and part of the reason may be not that women have not yet won enough power but that they really are equal to men, in ignobility as well as nobility, in foolishness as well as wisdom.

Pollution In Russia Kills Seas

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Those who blame free enterprise for pollution haven't looked at Russia.

Accordihg to a little-noticed paper read by Professor Marshall I. Goldman of Wellesley College at an ecology conference in Tokyo, reports from the U.S.S.R. match every pollution story told from New York to Los Angeles.

And Soviet moves to reverse the flow of major rivers, in act, could effect the earth's rotation, change ecology worldwide.

But back to the more usual forms of pollution:

In 1965, a cigarette thrown in the Iset set that river afire.

The Ukraine's Mologhaia River is reported dead. And a number of other rivers as well.

Two-thirds of Russian factories discharge their waste without cleanup.

Affluent from the Chernorechensk chemical plant near Dzerzhinsk killed almost all fish life in the Oka River in 1965. Factories along Volga, Ob, Yennessei, Ural and northern Dvina have been equally guilty.

Mines, oil wells and ships freely dump waste into the nearest body of water. Oil from slicks has coated the shores of the Baltic, Black and Caspian seas. Partly because of the oil—and the lowereing of water levels—the production of caviar has been so threatened the Russians are experimenting with artificial substitutes.

Six of Moldavia's 20 main cities have sewer systems. Two of these six treat their sewage. Forty per cent of Soviet cities and suburbs have sewage treating equipment.

Most Soviet cities have air pollution. The metallurgical towns of Alma-Ata, Chelyabinsk wear a dark blue cap. Tbilisi suffers from smog almost half the year. Leningrad has 40 per cent fewer clear daylight hours than nearby Pavolvsk.

The ecology of the Lake Baikal area has been so disrupted by tree-cutting and other disturbances, dunes from the Gobi have already started to move in, raising fears that desert will sweep into Siberia.

Water is being pumped out of Russia's lakes and seas so rapidly some authorities fear (at the current rate of shrinkage) that in 29 years the Aral Sea will be a salt marsh. The Caspian has fallen eight feet in two decades.

There is concern that age-old sources of drinking water may gradually disappear.

Goldman's remarks have been excerpted in part by the American Association for the Advancement of Science for its publication Science.

SENSING THE NEWS

Time Of Sham And Gimmics

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The late W.R. Inge, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, once wrote that the Dark Ages at least had the merit of knowing that they were dark. In our own time, we seem to have great difficulty recognizing or acknowledging ighorance, sham and the abandonment of intellectual and moral standards.

Many opinion-makers and leaders today strenuously avoid logic, refuse to examine political proposals in the context of history, and engage in sophistry — making the worse appear the better cause.

Thus some medical colleges yield to political pressure and admit unqualified students, explaining such admissions in terms of "democratic opportunity." A great religious denomination takes money from the collection plate and sends it to revolutionary terrorists who have engaged in armed insurrection against public authorities, characterizing this as "social justice." Innumerable family counselors and writers discuss marriage as though it were simply a psychic relationship between a man and a woman and not a matter involving the survival of the race and the well-being of society as a whole. "Civil rights" in our time are interpreted as pertaining to the rights of the aggressor elements in a community, not the rights of the law-abiding majority.

It is no exaggeration to say that our institutions are drenched with sentimentality about the ignorant and the hostile. The tone of our society, within a short span of years, has degenerated. Discussion of community and national problems is characterized by an almost unprecedented banality.

Henry Fairlie, the well-known British journalist, cited these creasingly being conduted at Encounter magazine. Conversation, he said, "is increasingly being conduted at one level, in one tone of voice about so limited a number of subjects that they are in effect, or are made to seem, one. Viet Nam, the Blacks — the Young: in America, but not only in America, these sometimes seem to be the whole of our range. It does not matter if we add the Environment one year, or Women's Liberation the next, there is no escape from the numbing monotony — the same vocabulary, the same shrillness, the same definitions."

Mr. Fairlie points out that almost every human problem is viewed on the single level of atrocity. The President of Yale University is outraged because Black Panthers are brought to trial on criminal charges. The New Yorker magazine, once a repository of civilized wit, bitterly condemns the values of the nation whose expensive vanities it advertises. Underground newspapers talk of concentration camps because District of Columbia police arrest demonstrators who have smashed windshields and slashed automobile tires. Social commentators such as Prof. Charles A. Reich celebrate a new lifestyle while drugs destroy the minds of thousands of young people.

Mr. Fairlie presents the reality of the new lifestyle. "Most of us by now," he says, "have stood among the street people who congregate near any university: the stoned and the rocked and the rolled . . . The waste of those young lives on the streets — the casualties of the whole hallucinogenic and psychedelic hoax! Slumped from dawn to dawn against shop windows, begging for loose change, and always — always — one in tears, 'A bad trip!' How casual the explanation, how convenient the dismissal. But the Pied Pipers are always there to tell them that is beautiful; that they 'beautify' and 'renew'."

It is tragic that so many of the aging Pied Pipers of the new lifestyle enjoy comfortable posts in universities. Those who promise young people an existence free of work, hardship and duty are destroyers of the nation's future. They assault intellectual and moral standards essential to a decent life and the continuance of civilization.

Targically, some of our most famous universities are breeders of internal barbarians. Dr. Reich, for example, is a professor at the, Yale law school. One wonders: what kind of law is he teaching? As for the president of Yale, Dr. Kingman Brewster, he apparently views the university as a heaven for Black Panthers. As Mr. Rairlie says, "Ignorance is breeding ignorance from university president to university faculty to university student."

One hopes that the American people will tire of the tedious gimmickry of the contemporary sophists who say life is just a happening, who thrill at the idea of a university turned into a revolutionary commune. In order to survive, America must return to intellectual rigor, ideas of order, respect for history, and standards of personal achievement and accountability. The false prophets, the apostles of a phony "liberation," must be rejected, or our country will end, as T.S. Eliot once wrote, not with a bang but a whimper.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Statistics Can Be Misleading

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read in the newspaper a story about athletes having a shorter life expectancy than normal. Can you please tell me why? I am very worried about this because I want to become a hockey player.

Dear Reader—The news story you quote must be telling only part of the story. Life expectancy doesn't necessarily refer to poor health or illness. A good example is the astronauts. At this writing nine American astronauts have died out of a population of about 50 astronauts. That is a very high death rate in people who are in outstanding health. Three deaths have been from the space program in the Apollo fire, but six have been from automobile and aircraft accidents. These people as a group are very active and engage in activities that impose a high risk. To date, looking at the group, their life expectancy is better in space flight than on earth. You could say similar things about bullfighters and race car drivers.

There are a large number of athletes who live long and healthy lives. I was interested in one of the Harvard rowing crews where all the men were still alive years later and pushing 80 years of age—still able to row, too. In general, the longlived athlete is one who engages in endurance sports, like running or skiing.

Often it is said that athletes die young from heart disease. It is ture that a number do—but the catch is they do not continue to be athletes. This seems to be particularly true of football players. In high school, and college they are very active. Soon they no longer play football, but continue to eat as much as they did before. Before they reach 40 years of age they are former athletes who are now fat slobs from a physical point of view. Most overweight, out-of-shape men are more likely to have heart attacks than more active lean men. Having been an athlete 10 or 20 years earlier doesn't help. If the individual was a real Saturday afternoon hero his death will cause headlines.

Football also places emphasis on body weight and it is possible that the increased weight, particularly if a good portion of it is fat, may not be a plus factor for health.

You may hear comments about "athletic heart." Good physical conditioning does slow the heart and increase its capacity to receive and pump blood. This makes its external size larger because its volume capacity is greater. This is a sign of health, not disease. Because certain heart diseases cause the heart to enlarge there is a common misconception that all "enlarged hearts" are evidence of disease. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Go ahead and play hockey. Just don't expect it to prevent you from problems when you are older if you develop a life pattern of eating too much, not exercising and smoking cigarettes. It will not protect you from reckless driving either.

Question Box

Question: The power to create money (bills of credit) is the power to tax! The Federal Reserve creates money by expanding the money supply (inflation), but the Constitution reserves the power to tax by creating new money to Congress! Does this mean that the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 exists in violation of the Constitution and that the Federal Reserve ranks equal to the Internal Revenue Service as a taxing agency unconstitutionally? Are we in a sense being taxed by the banks? And who is responsible for this outrage?

ANSWER: Article I of the U.S. Constitution says, "The Congress shall have Power to lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imports and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defense and general Welfare of the United States;..

"To borrow Money on the credit of the United States;..

"To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures;..

"To establish Post Offices and post Roads;.." plus a long enumeration of other powers.

Section 10 of Article I reads in part "No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit, make any thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts."

And the Tenth Amendment states: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

It should perhaps be noted that while the Constitution grants these powers, and others, to Congress, it does not make the exercise of these powers mandatory.

We do not find anything in the Constitution pertaining specifically to the issuance of paper currency. The power given specifically to the Congress and denied to the States is that of coining money and regulating the value thereof. Currency is issued ostensibly to represent gold and silver coin or bullion. Since the issuing of currency was not specifically delegated to the Congress nor prohibited to the States by the Constitution, it was for many years possible for private banks and the states to issue their own notes, redeemable, supposedly, for coin or bullion, and in some cases, secured by pledge of real estate as was the negotiable Certificate of Deposit issued by the Clinton Bank of New York in 1839.

Section 8 referred to above not only details a long list of specific powers given to Congress, but then, as if the framers were afraid they might have overlooked something, the final paragraph gives Congress practically Carte Blanche to do whatever it wished: "To make all Laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into Execution the foregoing Powers, and all other Powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any Deparment or Officer thereof."

Given the power to lay and collect taxes to provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States, and the power to make all laws necessary to carry that power into effect, Congress can pretty well do as it pleases. And it does. At least, so it seems.

Therefore, by these sections of the Constitution itself, Congress can, if the people stand for it, and has, assumed powers to regulate anything it chooses and the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 falls within these powers. It was created by Congress and Congress has the power to "make all Laws which shall be necessary.."

The Internal Revenue Service is not a taxing agency. It is a collecting agency. The taxing agency is the Congress which creates all federal tax bills.

Americans are, in a sense, taxed by the banks who have been authorized by Congress to issue credit with marginal reserves to the extent that this increases the supply of currency, which is inflation. Before Congress interfered, banks which issued notes in excess of their reserves were quickly suspect and subject to runs and put out of business. The damage done was confined to a few unfortunates who did in fact suffer from having been too careless in their choice of a bank. The damage was not spread nationwide—indeed, worldwide—as is now the case where the reserves of banks are not merely marginal, but nearly non-existent where all they consist of is federal reserve notes and treasury bills for more federal reserve notes which, in the final analysis, have nothing of any value left to back them at all.

As to who is responsible for this "outrage" as our questioner asks, it may be possible to answer that the framers of the Consitution are responsible, or that the members of Congress who passed the Federal Reserve Act are responsible, or subsequent Congressmen who have allowed the situation to continue. Is it not also possible that we ourselves, to the degree that we turn to the State for solutions to all our problems instead of taking full responsibility for our own actions, are the ones responsible?

County School Head To Direct Spelling Bee Plan

Mrs. Rena Anderson, county school superintendent has been named to direct activities for the 1972 Spelling Bee program for Gray County.

April 8, 1972, is the latest deadline for the event to be held in the county, and the winner named will be a participant in the 24th regional event in Amarillo will be the lucky The youngster who catapults to the top regional spot in Amarillo will be the licky recipient of an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C., June 5-9, 1972, for himself and a parent. In the nation's capital he'll compete for the 44th national title with other area winners from throughout the United States to Guam. The week's stay in Washington will be highlighted by various tours throughout the nation's most famous city.

Any boy or girl who has not reached his 16th birthday or passed beyond the eighth grade by June 1, 1972, is eligible to enter.

The 1972 Golden Spread Bee will be co-sponsored by West Texas State University and the Amarillo Globe-News. L.J. (Jack) Edmondson, director of public services at the university, will be bee coordinator for the contest. This year's regional spelldown is the 24th annual contest sponsored by the newspaper and WTSU, and 46 counties in the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico comprise the Golden Spread area.

In 1971, David Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fraser of Pampa represented Gray County in Amarillo, and placed 13th from a field of 46 county winners. He attended Stephen F. Austin Sihool, and was in the 6th grade.

Since the first Regional Bee in 1949 district winners from Gray Coonty have been Pat Ludeman of Pampa in 1961 and Nancy Palmer of Pampa in 1970.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Incredulous at first, you will grow indignant at the "Child Control Bill." It lets bureaucrats by-pass the teaching by mothers and churches. Sen. James Buckley (N.Y.) says it is "an invitation to legal and social chaos." It means brain-washing by "Big Brother."

CASE XX: Dr. Urie Bonfenbrenner took part in the 1970 White House Conference on Children.

He praised the Russian (communal) method of rearing children.

"Communal forms of upbringing," he said, "have an unquestionable superiority over all others!"

And he predicted the disappearance of our usual family unit, which will "dissolve within the context of the future social commune."

Apropos of this idea, Congressman Brademas (Indiana) sponsored a recent bill to let government bureaucrats usurp the training of pre-school kiddies, thus by-passing mothers and churches!

But Dr. Jack Raskin, Director of Psychiatry Service at Seattle's great Orthopedic Hospital, warns:

"There is no substitute for a mother's presence!

"The best day-care center in the world cannot compete in this regard!"

Alarmed educators and church officials now urge you to write President Nixon to veto this dangerous "Child Control Bill" on these grounds:

(1) It can lead to Hitler's Nazi brainwashing of children against even their own parents and make them spies of the state, to "rat" on papa and mamma;

(2) It will by-pass the religious influence of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant churches, subordinating them (as in Russia) to "Big Brother" in Washington, D.C.

(3) It will add untold BILLIONS of unnecessary taxes to us already overburdened taxpayers;

(4) For it thus competes with the splendid (and FREE) child training organizations, such as Boy and Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, 4-H Clubs, YMCA, YWCA, CYO, YMHA, etc., whose leaders are dedicated volunteer parents and child workers (not patronage employees of "Big Brother");

(5) It can even impose eugenical and thought control over our present independent Americans thus coverting the next generation into robots of the state.

"Dr. Crane" you may ask, incredulously, "how could Congressman Brademas hoodwink his colleagues into passing such a dangerous bill?"

Well, he tacked it on as an amendment and thus didn't even let Congressmen see it in print till just before their roll call vote.

Via air mail, I have just now received a copy of this bill, which covers many pages of 3-column fine print that even a constitutional lawyer could hardly comprehend in a week; not a mere 3-hours before voting!

"Dr. Crane," you may inquire, "then why would Congressmen ever spprove without reading it?"

Because it was tacked on to a crass vote-buying bill to win the millions of "inner city" folks, whose ballots in 1972 may determine many statewide U.S. Senate elections and swing those heavy Electoral College delegations.

For it is a common political trick to fasten a bad amendment (rider") to vote-buying measure.

This I describe as "legislative miscegenation," as recently shown when a 10 per cent Social Security increase was tacked on to a very unpopular boost of $35 billions in our national debt ceiling.

So write President Nixon to veto this hazaradous "Child Control Bill," for I have already received 11 phone calls from Congress saying many who voted for it, would now vote against it, after having had more time to see its dangerous implications!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BATH, N.C. (AP) — Billy Bosman says he found a seal or the seal found him as he cruised in a small boat in the Pamlico River, 50 miles from the open sea across Pamlico Sound.

Bosman said he spotted the 150-pound animal in the water, and thinking it an otter, went closer.

The seal jumped in his boat and began drying itself on Bosman's shirt, said Bosman who took the seal home and fed it fish.

Then the animal stretched out in the sun to nap.

Bosman will not keep the seal penned, he said, so if it doesn't like his fish or the yard, it can go back to the nearby river.
