Gromyko meets with Polish leaders, continuing pressure

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met with Poland's leaders Saturday, apparently continuing Soviet pressure to prevent an emergency party congress from going too far in its democratic reforms.

Gromyko met with Stanislaw Kania, the Polish Communist Party leader, for the second time in his brief visit, and with the party's 11-member ruling Politburo and the secretariat, according to the official news agency PAP.

Joining the meeting between Kania and Gromyko was Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski, who on Friday reshuffled his Cabinet in an effort to tackle Poland's economic crisis.

The 71-year-old Soviet official, who also is a member of the his nation's ruling Politburo, also visited World War II memorials.

Gromyko was expected to return to Moscow Sunday for the arrival of British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, who was bringing an European Common Market proposal on ending foreign intervention in Afghanistan.

Although official sources had said Friday that Gromyko would meet the party's 140-member policy-making Central Committee, PAP did not report such meetings by late Saturday.

Earlier, PAP reported Gromyko met Polish Foreign Minister Jozef Czyrek to discuss "Polish-Soviet cooperation in the fight for detente and security, peaceful coexistence, disarmament and the arms race."

Western diplomatic analysts speculated Gromyko's visit was both ideological and strategic in nature.

They said he could be assessing the state of the party as the July 14 congress nears and may warn the Poles not to go to far in their reform drive. Or he could also be stressing strategic concerns the Soviets have about Poland's alliance with Moscow.

Following last summer's crippling strikes and the formation of the independent union Solidarity, the party has undergone a major shakeup of its leadership and proposed democratic reforms to satisfy workers' demands for more representation.

The reforms, which would provide greater decision-making power to individual enterprises and boost grass-roots input into party politics by altering party statutes, are expected to win the support of some 2,000 delegates to the congress.

The congress is also expected to vote on a new party leadership, but many observers are speculating now that the changes will not be as sweeping as predicted in recent months.

"COAL OIL MEETS BONES"

Funds sought to buy local event sculpture

Local citizens are raising the funds to purchase a bronze casting of "Coal Oil Meets Bones," a depiction of the memorable meeting of possibly the world's best bronc rider and an unridable bronc in front of the Pampa Santa Fe depot in 1910.

Frank M. "Buster" Carter Jr. said the casting, now on display at the First National Bank, is the third of three created by Scotsdale, Ariz., artist Buck McCain.

The sculpture was commissioned by Joe B. Wells, Dick Khoury and Jim Whittenburg, all of Amarillo, Carter said. The three men, all from long-time Panhandle families, had heard the story of the ride many times, he said.

One casting now stands in the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Museum in Dallas and the second at the Pioneer Natural Gas Building in Amarillo.

Carter said several Pampa citizens have joined in an effort to raise the $9,500 for the third casting. If successful, the piece will be placed either in the M. K. Brown Auditorium or in the White Deer Land Museum, he said.

The tale of the famous meeting between man and beast is included with the casting. Carter confirmed the details of the story are accurate.

"Mathew Bones Hooks, born November 3, 1867 in Robertson County, came to the Texas Panhandle in 1886 when he was 19. He was the only Negro cowboy in the area. He worked at all of the famous ranches in the Texas Panhandle. He soon became recognized as one of the best bronc riders of all times.

"After breaking nearly every bone in his body at one time or the other from riding broncs, Bones retired from the range in 1909. All the ranchers in the area helped Bones get a job as a porter on the Santa Fe Railroad.

"One summer in 1910, Bones was dusting the seats on the train. He overheard four men talking about a bronco named 'Coal Oil,' owned Mart Davidson of Pampa.

"Many famous bronc riders had attempted to ride this horse in New York's Madison Square Garden, Chicago and Kansas City. All had been unsuccessful, Carter said.

"One of the Easterners in the railroad station said the horse had never been ridden. A man from Pampa said, 'That porter over there could ride any horse.' The ranchers began to lay their bets with the Easterners.

"The men wired the owner and arranged to have the horse at the train station in Pampa in two days.

"The train pulled in on time and Bones removed his coat. He mounted the bronco wearing a pair of borrowed spurs strapped onto his shoes. (He didn't have his boots, Carter said.) While the train was being serviced, all of the passengers and most of the townspeople gathered to watch Bones, waving his porter's cap, ride Coal Oil to a standstill.

"Bones collected $25 for his trouble and boarded the train with barely a wrinkle in his trousers. This was Bones' final ride and it soon became his most famous. Bones died in Amarillo on Feb. 2, 1951.

"The feat was no accident. A champion bronc rider once said that Bones could ride anything bareback that other cowboys could ride with a saddle."

Police patrolling Southall in aftermath of race riot

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of police patrolled Southall streets Saturday after the west London neighborhood's third race riot in five years. Asian immigrants vowed further violence if white youth gangs return to the district.

Home Secretary William Whitelaw ordered a full report on the violence Friday night in Southall, where half the 60,000 population are immigrants from India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

Police said more than 120 people — 60 of them police officers — were injured in the five hours of street fighting between Asians and white youth gangs known as "skinheads" because of their closely cropped hair.

"The skinheads invaded last night and got a sharp lesson," said a spokesman for Southall Rights, a legal aid center for non-whites. "If they try to come back they'll find an even tougher response from our people."

"Right-wing organizations are trying to infiltrate this area again," said Ajid Rai, President of the Southall-based Indian Workers' Association. "We're strong enough now to resist them. If the police can't protect us we're capable of doing it ourselves."

The violence erupted when busloads of more than 200 skinheads, many sporting swastikas, arrived for a punk rock concert at Hambrough Tavern in an area of Southall known as "Little India."

Black leaders fear Reagan's economic policies

DENVER (AP) — Despite President Reagan's personal reassurances, many black leaders say they mistrust the Republican administration and fear budget cutting will cost their movement 15 years of hard-won gains.

In his speech last week to the 72nd Annual NAACP convention, Reagan said his program of budget cuts "will move us toward black economic freedom because it is aimed at lifting the entire country."

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel Pierce Jr., the only black in the Cabinet, added his assurance that the president is "a good and decent man."

Most of the black leaders here said they did not disbelieve Reagan's motives, but feared he underestimated the impact proposed budget cuts would have on the disadvantaged, especially poor blacks.

"President Reagan wittingly or unwittingly is leading a cynical assault on the public sector and social justice," said Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Throughout the five-day convention, the prevailing themes appeared to be that the administration's budget cuts threaten blacks and that the civil rights movement needs new vitality.

Coretta Scott King, widow of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., urged representatives of the 400,000-member NAACP to undertake "massive and militant" non-violent action, including a voter registration drive "on a scale this country has never seen."

National Urban League President Vernon Jordan exhorted the NAACP Youth Branch to forge an interracial civil rights movement.

On economic issues, speaker after speaker rejected Reagan's position that blacks and other minorities will benefit from his anti-inflation efforts because "a rising tide lifts all boats."

"You have to be in the water in the first place," said Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. "They won't let us in the water."

Pampan is electrocuted

A 32-year-old Ingersoll-Rand safety manager was electrocuted Saturday as he welded on a trailer at the home of a relative in Decatur.

James E. Moreland, 32, of 1943 Grape, was pronounced dead at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the Decatur Community Hospital, according to Wise County Sheriff's Department personnel.

Moreland was apparently working on the trailer at the home of his brother-in-law about noon Saturday when he was electrocuted. Wise County Sheriff's deputies said they answered the call shortly after 1 p.m. at the Deep Creek Road residence, which is several miles out of the city limits. Moreland was transported to the Decatur Hospital by the Wise County Sheriff's deputies.

Moreland moved to Pampa in 1979 from Amarillo to work for the Cabot Corporation.

He was a member of the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ and was active in the Senior Christian Program.

Services for Moreland are pending with the Coker Funeral Home in Decatur.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy, and two daughters, Kristin and Sasha.

Ambassador tells Russians more frank, open dialogue is needed

MOSCOW (AP) — America's top diplomat in Russia, in the first televised speech by a U.S. official here in two years, called Saturday for both nations to engage in "frank and open dialogue."

In a Fourth of July speech broadcast throughout the Soviet Union, Jack F. Matlock Jr. made no mention of Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan or possible intervention in Poland — major issues between Moscow and Washington.

The American charge d'affaires instead appealed for the U.S. and the Soviet Union "to avoid conflict and confrontation by restraint."

A U.S. diplomat said Matlock's low-key approach was designed to "offer a positive view of America and American ideals, as opposed to the materialistic, aggressive and highly stratified image of America regularly presented by the Soviet media."

Matlock, a career diplomat who in his spare time translates Russian poetry, composed and delivered his four-minute, 12-second address in Russian.

His speech was broadcast on the evening news show "Vremya," which has an audience estimated at more than 100 million.

"Our people are imbued with a new sense of unity and optimism. We are reasserting those values which gave our nation birth," Matlock told Soviet listeners.

"Most of all, we are thankful that we are at peace with the world and that not a single American soldier is engaged in battle in any land," he said.

Boy drowns at Lake McClellan

A July 4th picnic at Lake McClellan turned into tragedy Saturday as a two-year-old Amarillo boy drowned when he apparently took off his life jacket and wandered into the water.

Arvin Kyle White of Amarillo was pronounced dead at 3:50 p.m. Saturday by Gray County Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge.

The boy had been playing in the lake throughout the day and had been wearing a life preserver, according to Bill Rogers of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Rogers said, "The family noticed the life jacket floating in the water and realized the boy had been missing for 45 minutes to an hour. A search was organized immediately and persons in the area began looking in the lake and on the beach and wooded areas for the boy."

The body of the boy was found in the water by a teenager soon after the search was organized. The teenager, Evette Caramillo is also from Amarillo but was not acquainted with the White family, Prestridge said.

"Several persons at Lake McClellan tried to revive the child by giving him artificial respiration, but it was too late," Rogers said.

Gray County Sheriff's deputies and McLean ambulance personnel were dispatched to the scene and the body was transported to Lamb Funeral Home in McLean by the McLean ambulance.

Top O' Texas Rodeo events beginning here Monday

Monday is the first of six days and nights of activities of the 35th annual Top O' Texas Professional Rodeo.

The week's activities will begin at 7 p.m. Monday when Groups I and II will kick off the Top O' Texas Kid Pony Show. Group I is composed of cowboys and cowgirls who are five years of age and under with Group II containing those who are six and seven years of age.

Tuesday night will see Group III, composed of youngsters 8 and 9 years of age, and Group IV, made up of 10 and 11 year olds, competing with activities again beginning at 7 p.m.

Groups V and VI, composed of young men and women who are 12 through 15 years of age, will compete on Wednesday evening.

Thursday will find cowboys and cowgirls beginning to arrive in Pampa from all over the nation to compete in the first night's performance of the local professional rodeo which has an added purse of $4,400.

General admission tickets for the 35th annual Top O' Texas Rodeo are on sale at many stores in Pampa.

The local merchants are selling these tickets as a convenience for the local and area residents. Prices for general admission tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for children.

The rodeo performance tickets can be purchased from: Addington's Western Store, Alco Discount Store, Anthony's, Coronado Center, Citizen's Bank and Trust, First National Bank, Hub Clothiers, The Kountry Store, Montgomery Ward, Pandhandler and Wayne's Western Wear.

General admission tickets may be used on any night of the rodeo and may also be exchanged for a reserved seat for an additional $1 at the Rodeo office at the Chamber of Commerce or at the gate, rodeo officials said.

Reserved seats for the rodeo performances will go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday at the Rodeo office.

Rodeo performances will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings with each day's activities beginning at 7:30 p.m. Each night's performance will begin at 8 p.m. with the Grand Entry.

Rodeo officials are expecting a large attendance for this year's professional rodeo because of the rising cost of gasoline and also due to the added attraction of the Budweiser Clydesdale Eight Horse Hitch which will be in the Rodeo Parade Saturday and at that night's performance.

They also note that the Top O' Texas Rodeo is the only profession rodeo in the Texas Panhandle and will attract many area rodeo followers. Local residents interested in attending one or more rodeo performances are urged to obtain their tickets early so they may be assured of getting a seat.

By popular demand, Clem McSpadden, former U.S. Senator from Oklahoma, will again be the rodeo announcer and rodeo events will again be cued by the "Country Critters" from Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Ted Kimsey and Rick Young will be the clowns and bull fighters for each rodeo performance. These nationally-known rodeo comedians will keep the audience laughing while they are protecting the cowboys from the bulls.

An Amateur Jackpot Double Muggin event will be held each night. Local cowboys will compete in this event and will do their part in entertaining the audience.

Reba McEntire and her band will be playing for the Rodeo Dance at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Clyde Carruth Pavillion.

Concession booths, operated by local organizations, will be open each night.

Weather

The forecast calls for a slight chance of afternoon thundershowers today and cooler temperatures. The high for today will be in the mid 80s with 10 - 15 mph winds.

Rain dampens Fourth of July

By ELLEN NIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

Rain dampened Independence Day festivities in the nation's capital and other major cities Saturday, and for the first time in the 20th century there was no major league baseball on the Fourth of July.

But there was no less joy in the hearts of 28 people from two dozen lands who took oaths of allegiance to become U.S. citizens in the "We the People" Hall at the National Museum of American History in Washington.

And across the nation, despite the rain in many areas, it was a day of parades and Sousa marches, fireworks and picnics, a day for politicians to talk of patriotism and for curious contests like tomahawk tossing and stone skipping.

In Washington, rain doused marchers in a parade along Constitution Avenue and prompted cancellation of some outdoor events, including an Air Force "Singing Sergeants" concert at the Jefferson Memorial and an American folk festival on the Mall.

But young people and families arrived at the Washington Monument grounds early for a Beach Boys concert. And in front of the White House, feminist protesters called for "a new, nonviolent but militant campaign for women's rights."

President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, planned to mark the day by celebrating her 58th birthday in Mount Vernon, Va., and return later for a picnic for White House employees.

There was driving rain in New York City, and by the time the Independence Day parade reached City Hall, only a few people were on hand to hear the last words of the master of ceremonies: "Better luck next year."

The nation's highways were crowded with people getting away from it all, and the National Safety Council estimated up to 550 people could die in traffic accidents over the three-day holiday. By Saturday afternoon, the death toll topped 240.

Former resident Carter was grand marshal of his home state's biggest parade, leading the Salute to America Parade in Atlanta, a city torn by the killings of 28 young blacks. The parade's special guest was retired Army Col. Charles Scott, a former hostage in Iran, and its theme was "Let's Keep Pulling Together, Atlanta."

Fireworks displays ranged from dazzling spectacles in New York City, Chicago and Washington to the firecrackers and sparklers set off on streetcorners from Brooklyn to Brownsville.

And in Britain, the country that lost a war to 13 upstart colonies after they declared independence July 4, 1776, a New Yorker took the Wimbledon tennis title from a Swede. John McEnroe, the 22-year-old known as "superbrat" to the British press, defeated Bjorn Borg.

Food was the focus of July Fourth celebrations in New Orleans, where "tasting portions" of gumbo, jambalaya and alligator were 25 cents to $1.25, and at a "Taste of Chicago" eat-out that drew hundreds of thousands of people to the lakefront.

New Orleans also featured a Louis Armstrong Birthday Party to honor the late jazz great, including look-alike and sound-alike contests.

Cuban-Americans marked the day in Miami's Little Havana with the district's first Fourth of July parade, complete with marching bands, floats and thousands of children bearing American flags. Eighty-year-old Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., was tapped as grand marshal.

It was the second day of a three-day Veiled Prophet Fair in St. Louis, and event that drew some 50,000 people on its opening day Friday.

"I appreciate the invitation to meet me in St. Louis for the fair," said Missouri Gov. Christopher Bond. "It's time for the state and the rest of the country to take note of what's going on in St. Louis."

What was going on was a concert by Ella Fitzgerald, beer-gulping, flag waving and skydiving.

What wasn't going on anywhere in the United States was major league baseball, halted since June 12 by a players' strike. On Saturday, players and owners went back to the bargaining table. Outside, a half-dozen fans picketed in the rain.

Pampan dies in Oklahoma wreck

CHEYENNE, Okla. — A Pampa man died early Friday after he was thrown through the back window and crushed in a one car roll-over near Cheyenne late Thursday. Two other Pampa men were not injured in the accident.

The victim was identified by Oklahoma State Trooper Bob Bohnsack as Max Miller Anderman, 34, of 1207 Mary Ellen. Bohnsack said Anderman died of injuries to his head, chest and shoulders after he was thrown from the back window and crushed by the overturning vehicle.

The driver, Jerome Peter Sheffield, 25, of Pampa and a second passenger, Robert Douglas, also of Pampa, were "shaken up" but not injured, the trooper said.

All three men were apparently employed by Milchem, Inc., Bohnsack said.

The wrecked vehicle, a 1980 Chevrolet, was leased by Milchem, Inc., the trooper said.

Bohnsack said the accident occurred at about 10:45 p.m. Thursday, 8.7 miles south of Cheyenne on U.S. 283. He said the vehicle was traveling south at the time of the accident.

The trooper said the men told him they had "just delivered a keg of beer to a friend's house and were out driving around."

He said the car left the roadway, striking a delineator post. The vehicle went into a broadslide across the two-lane road, before rolling one and one-half times in a ditch and landing on its top.

"The victim was ejected through the rear window. He was sitting in the back seat," Bohnsack said.

The trooper was impressed by the quick-thinking and special efforts of two witnesses to the late night accident.

He identified the men as Doug McClure of Dodge City, Kan., and Oklahoma State Representative Roland Reimer of Cheyenne.

McClure immediately began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on Anderman and continued in his efforts until an ambulance arrived, Bohnsack said. While McClure tried to save the victim, Reimer called for the ambulance, the trooper added.

"They were 'knights of the road'," Bohnsack said. "If there was such an award, that's what I'd give them."

An emergency medical team continued in their efforts to save Anderman enroute to the Roger Mills Memorial Hospital of Cheyenne. However, he was pronounced dead at 12:32 a.m. Friday, the tropper said.

Charges as a result of the accident are pending while state highway authorities continue their investigation, the trooper said.

Anderman had been a resident of Pampa since 1978. He was employed by Milchem Inc. as district engineer. He graduated in 1978 from the College of Charleston, Charleston, S.C., with a bachelor of science degree.

Memorial services will be at 3 p.m. Monday at St. Matthews Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Scott Turner, officiating.

Survivors include: his wife, Connie, of the home; one daughter, Laura Smith Anderman; his mother, Mrs. E.C. Anderman of Oelwein, Iowa; grandmothers, Mrs. Will Anderman of Arlington, Iowa and Mrs. Dale Miller of Aurora, Iowa; two brothers, Michael Anderman of Yukon, Okla. and Monty Anderman of Oelwein, Iowa.

Aliens still entering at Organ Pipe

By LARRY LOPEZ
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Little has changed in the year since at least 12 Salvadorans and a Mexican smuggler died of thirst and exposure in the desolate, sun-baked Arizona desert.

The tragedy almost was repeated last month, officials say, but a band of 17 aliens found water just in time and reached a highway.

On a smaller scale, it's happened already: people have died in the 516-square-mile Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument while trying to enter the U.S. illegally from Mexico.

"We're living on borrowed time," said Dean Thatcher, head of the Yuma sector office for the U.S. Border Patrol. "It's going to happen again."

"We found two bodies out there" since last July, said border patrol agent Hector Ochoa. "But they were skeletons, so I don't know when they died."

The Salvadorans' route is still popular with the smugglers who earn a lucrative living by guiding illegal aliens, because the park has almost no roads and restrictions on vehicles even apply to patrol agents.

"When we speak of a route — it may be 30 miles wide," said Ochoa, who helped find the 13 bodies and rescue 12 Salvadorans and two smugglers a year ago. "An 'alien trail' is often just a general approach to a pass or feature."

Some 320 agents patrol Arizona's 384-mile border with Mexico, but tracking is difficult in the rocky park. "We have to wait until they get out of the park area," Ochoa said. "They have the edge."

The number of illegal aliens isn't known, but Ochoa and other federal officials say there has been no letup since the 13 deaths. Mexicans, Salvadorans, Guatemalans and others are pouring in — some 80,000 were caught in Arizona alone last year, and agents estimate they nab only a third of all who try.

"We caught two Guatemalans last night," Ochoa said Friday. "They know about it, (the 13 deaths) but they just hope it doesn't happen to them. Nothing has changed in the social, economic and political situation in Mexico and in South and Central America."

Last July 4, Ochoa interrogated three aliens who had been found by a road. For a day, they insisted there were no others in their group.

"I knew they were lying right away, but I didn't talk mean to them," Ochoa said. "Because I failed to violate their civil rights (by pressuring them), 13 people died. I have to live with that, and it's not a good feeling."

The three finally admitted others were in the desert and that water was short.

Ochoa and others set out last July 5, locating 12 Salvadorans and two smugglers who drank urine and deodorant after exhausting 20 gallons of water on the 45-mile trip. The agents also discovered 13 bodies, and officials aren't sure they found all who set out from Mexico.

The smugglers were sentenced to prison terms of up to seven years, and the Salvadorans were taken in by friends and relatives to await decisions on applications for political asylum.

Land offered for fireworks popping

After reading a Pampa newspapaer story about the lack of places to legally pop fireworks in Gray County, one Pampa resident came to the rescue of the downcast youngsters.

Buster Grayson, 1700 Christine, offered his strip of land on Price Road to anyone that wanted to use it for popping firecrackers.

"It is a small place but it's dry and they can have some fun out there. There are no fences and they can just get out of their cars and start," Grayson said.

The land is on Price Road, south of Highway 70, it is the first plowed field on the west side. Grayson made finding the land easier by erecting signs that say "Fireworks".

"I'm not too fond of the fireworks now, but I remember the fun we had when I was a kid," Grayson said.

"It won't cost me anything to let people use the land and it will be worth it. The neighbors said they would be glad to have the fireworks, in fact they sat out Friday night and watched the kids and families go at it," Grayson said Saturday.

Grayson was upset with city officials for not making it clear there was no place to pop the July 4th fireworks.

If I had known earlier, I could have advertised through the week.

Grayson said he will be out on his land this weekend, enjoying the Independence Day fireworks with everyone who takes advantage of his offer.

Nancy Reagan observes birthday at barbecue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan celebrated the Fourth of July with a birthday barbeque for his wife, Nancy, at a Virginia plantation followed by a Gay Nineties picnic on the White House south lawn.

Mrs. Reagan, whose 58th birthday is Monday, was the guest of honor at the party for 78 persons given by longtime friends. The event was held under a white tent at Woodlawn Plantation in Mount Vernon, Va.

The party was thrown by two couples who have been hosts of Mrs. Reagan's birthday parties for the last 20 years: the Earle M. Jorgensens and the William A. Wilsons.

The guests, including Frank Sinatra, top members of the White House staff and other longtime friends of the Reagans, were dining on a buffet that included fried chicken, chile, corn on the cob, and homemade strawberry ice cream.

Afterward, the president and his wife were flying by helicopter back to the White House to join an already-in-progress picnic with a Gay Nineties motif.

The president apparently was waiting until Monday to give his wife a birthday present, but the first lady reported through her press secretary Saturday that Reagan had ordered flowers delivered to her mother.

Each year the president makes it a practice to send flowers to Mrs. Reagan's mother to thank her for having her daughter, according to Sheila Patton Tate, the first lady's press secretary.

On the south lawn, about 2,000 White House staff members and their families were invited for games, a box lunch picnic, barbershop quartet entertainment and fireworks. A day-long downpour cleared as the picnic began.

Bani-Sadr urges resistance to fundamentalists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's fugitive ex-president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, in an interview reportedly conducted while he was hiding out in Iran, is quoted as calling on the country's women and youth to resist Islamic fundamentalists.

The Arab-owned magazine, "8 Days" said it obtained an exclusive interview with Bani-Sadr while he was in the western province of Kurdistan shortly after he disappeared from Tehran June 12.

The London-based weekly said in an editor's note that Bani-Sadr's current whereabouts remain a mystery, but "what is certain" is that he was in Kurdistan on June 16. The photograph of Bani-Sadr accompanying the article was from Associated Press files.

Bani-Sadr was impeached by the Iranian Parliament on grounds he was incompetent to hold office. He was dismissed as president on June 22 by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. A day later, the revolutionary prosecutor of Kermanshah province on the Iraqi border said Bani-Sadr was possibly on the run in western Iran and urged people of the region to be on the look-out for him. There were also unconfirmed reports that Bani-Sadr had fled to Egypt or Turkey.

"8 Days" quoted Bani-Sadr as appealing to the Iranian people not to "surrender" to the Islamic fundamentalist hardliners who engineered his dismissal.

"I particularly ask my sisters, the women of Iran, and the youth, to resist in every way and at all times," the magazine quoted him as saying. "I am confident that those capable of opposing the Pahlavi dictatorship (of the late shah) are also capable of fighting those now using illegal methods to obtain power in Iran," he said.

He also accused his opponents of plotting "a black and reactionary coup d'etat to impose a way of governing society completely different from my own approach."

The magazine described those opponents as Iran's prime minister, parliament speaker and, until he was killed in a bombing of the Islamic Republican Party headquarters a week ago, the IRP leader and chief justice of Iran's Supreme Court.

Rome police arrest 45 suspected terrorists

ROME (AP) — Anti-terrorist police said Saturday they have confirmed that urban guerrilla groups, despite ideological differences, share information, trade arms and give first-aid to one another's wounded.

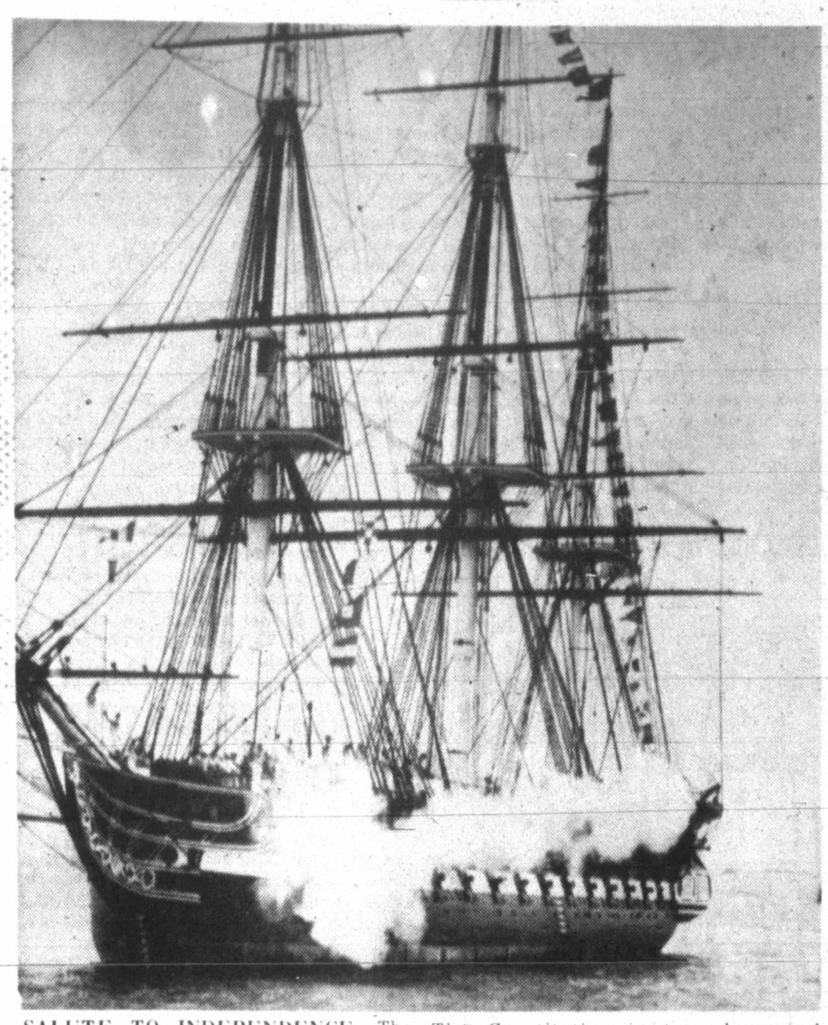

Police said 45 suspected left-wing terrorists have been apprehended in the past two months and caches of submachine guns, rifles, pistols and ammunition were found in raids. They said the investigations related to the arrests confirmed earlier suspicions about a network of intelligence and cooperation between the various groups.

The arrests came in connection with a string of attacks in Rome and other Italian cities, including the hit-and-run deaths of a lawyer and two magistrates over the past two years, anti-terrorist police said.

Police said those arrested belong to the left-wing terrorist groups Front Line, Fighting Communist Units, Revolutionary Communist Movement and several smaller groups.

The groups are believed to have ties to the Red Brigades, Italy's most-feared left-wing terrorist group, which is currently holding four kidnap victims hostage.

Police said the Marxist groups have cooperated with the neo-Fascist Armed Revolutionary Nuclei.

Oil boomtown groping for direction

By JOE STROOP
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — If there ever was a boomtown, this is it.

Spurred by a dramatic upsurge in the price of crude oil, the city skyline is sprouting upward like an untended patch of weeds. Midland's office space will have doubled by the end of next year and will increase another 43 percent by 1984.

"And it's not any Mickey Mouse stuff either," said Grady Bennett, a 30-year employee of Mobil Oil Corp. "This is long-term, permanent construction that they're doing." Bennett, whose father retired after 45 years with Mobil, shakes his head in wonder at what is happening here on the flat, dusty plains of oil-rich West Texas.

The two biggest banks in town will start work on new high-rise office buildings before the year is out. First National's twin towers of 40 stories each will lead the way for more than two million square feet of new high-rise office space.

Southwestern Bell representatives have apologized to the City Council because installation of telephone service has run as much as three weeks behind.

All rental property in Midland is completely occupied. Commercial campgrounds are filled to capacity. Most motels hang "No Vacancy" signs and some individuals have pitched pup tents on vacant lots, just to have someplace to sleep.

The city's work force has exceeded 50,000 for the first time ever, with 50,090 Midlanders holding down jobs in Mat. But even though more people are at work than ever before, unemployment stays right at 4 percent because "Yankees" keep arriving looking for work.

So, total population spirals upward. Midland, like most other Texas cities, believes it was short-counted in the 1980 census and depends on the Texas Employment Commission for population estimates. TEC thinks Midland's 1980 population was 82,600 — 26 percent higher than in 1970 — and believes it is even larger today. The Census Bureau said Midland's population in 1980 was 70,525.

In fact, every statistical category — airline boardings, postal receipts, tax revenue, bank deposits, utility connections, you name it — points to a dramatic boost in the city's economic health.

And all this good news springs from one source. It's the same source that produced Midland's first growth spurt in 1924 and its second in 1953 — oil.

The oil has always been here. Midland is in the middle of a geologic formation known as the Permian Basin. It was once an inland ocean where dinosaurs and prehistoric plant life flourished in great numbers, the decomposed to become crude oil.

The Permian Basin covers about 100,000 square miles of West Texas and eastern New Mexico. It has provided at least 18 percent of all domestic U.S. oil production every year since 1955.

But the value of that oil has fluctuated wildly. When wildcatters first found oil in the Permian Basin, in the 1920s, towns literally sprang up overnight and Midland became headquarters for many of the street-corner millionaires buying and selling oil leases as though they were raffle tickets.

The Great Depression ended that boom. Texas oilfields did not recover until after World War II, when an industrialized world began burning oil and natural gas in tremendous amounts.

So it was in the early 1950s when Midland began a strong recovery from the first oil bust. The number of drilling rigs in operation soon hit 500 in the Texas part of the Permian basin.

Independent producers and major oil companies needed someplace from which to operate. Midland — sitting on a major highway, bisected by a main railroad line and dotted with office buildings from the first oil strikes — was the logical choice.

Things were rosy until about 1965, when huge amounts of easily accessible oil were found in the Middle East. That oil became much cheaper than crude pumped in the United States and, as a result, the domestic oil industry slumped again.

"In 1967, this was not a good place to be," said Grant Billingsley of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. "You can still see some empty lots on Main Street where there used to be houses. The people packed up and moved away and left them. There wasn't any work here.

"So the city offered those houses for sale at ridiculously low prices, with the provision that they be moved out of town, 50 miles or something, so we wouldn't be reminded of the blight."

As grim as that story is, a tale from the 1930s — which the locals swear is true — tops it. The downtown Shell Building was so bereft of tenants during the depression that its owner, desperate for income, rented it out for storing hay.

Within the oil industry, the best current guess is that the Permian Basin's oil will be completely played out in another 25 to 30 years. What guarantee is there that the sparkling new office buildings of 1982 will not be the expensive hay barns of 2012?

Put simply, the answer is: oil. Prices for domestic crude have climbed steadily since the 1973 Arab oil embargo, and relaxation of government controls has pumped prices even higher.

"It's strictly a matter of supply and demand," said C. Winston Barclay, division manager for the local electric utility and a Midland resident since 1955.

He and Billingsley believe Midland must use its current oil-fueled growth as the foundation for a deliberate, well-planned broadening of the city's economic base.

Right now, oil and natural gas provide 70 percent of the wealth available to Midland and its sister city of Odessa, some 20 miles to the west. The goal is to reduce that percentage considerably by the time the oil and gas are gone.

But first, Billingsley said, Midland and Odessa have to get big.

"When you're a town of 50,000, or 80,000, you don't get much play," he said. "Hopefully new technologies will keep the oil industry strong and it can remain a base for this area and continue to bring more people in here."

But until that happens, until the Midland-Odessa region — which calls itself the "Petroplex" — becomes a true metropolitan area, Barclay remains skeptical about convincing non-oil businesses to relocate to the Permian Basin.

"These communities do a lot of talking about (economic) diversification, but the truth is something else. What do they have to sell? How ca

"I think they (manufacturers) are a little scared of this Permian Basin area," he said. "They're not sure about the work force, for one thing. They ask, 'Who can I hire,' 'Where can I put my plant,' and so on. It's a tough game — for every company ready to move there are 50 to 100 communities after them."

To further cloud the issue, both Barclay and Billingsley admit the oil production so dominates local attention that industrial expansion is on a back burner.

"We know it (diversification) is good but right now, it's on a little bit of a hold," Barclay said.

"Short term — 18 months to two years — we don't need to sell any more diversification," Billingsley concurred. "We're in a terrific boom."

NRC says cancer risk low

DALLAS (AP) — Over the 40-year life of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant, as many as 15 people living within a 50-mile radius risk dying of cancer from radiation and another 28 risk birth defects or other genetic disorders, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission says.

The figures were projected from information in a draft environmental impact statement for the plant, under construction near Glen Rose in Somervell County of north central Texas.

The projections represent deaths or disorders above those that normally would be expected for the area, NRC spokesmen said.

"The health impact to the general public due to routine operation of the station will be undetectable," the NRC concluded.

In the same statement, however, the NRC said radioactive emissions from the reactors may cause 37 cancer deaths and 71 genetic disorders for each year the plant is in operation.

Walter Pasciak, a radiological physicist with the NRC, said the figures are considered small because "20 percent of the adult population (nationwide) is expected to die of cancer."

About 6 percent of babies born in the United States suffer from genetic disorders, which inlcude birth defects and any diseases related to genetic problems, he said.

Woman in critical condition

DALLAS (AP) — An elderly woman who was burned over 70 percent of her body when her daughter's house exploded remained hospitalized in critical condition Saturday.

Virginia Browne, 79, had gone to the house about 6 p.m. Friday to feed a cat while her daughter and son-in-law, Jan and Billy F. Bailey, were on vacation at Lake Palestine, neighbors said.

The gas explosion damaged the two adjacent houses in the Northeast Dallas neighborhood and scattered insulation over the neighborhood.

Mrs. Browne told fire officials she smelled a strange odor when she went into a bathroom in the house and was knocked on her back as she walked down a hallway.

Fire Capt. Don Howard said the house and all its contents, valued at $50,000, were destroyed. He said officials did not know what triggered the blast.

A preliminary investigation showed an interior gas leak was the cause of the blast, Howard said.

"That's about the most blown-up (house) I've ever seen," he said.

Bill Hunsicker, an investigator for Lone Star Gas Co., arrived shortly after the explosion and checked other houses on the street for gas leaks.

"It's traditional whenever there's an explosion," Hunsicker said. "We're not sure it's a leak."

Neighbors said Mrs. Browne, who lives a few doors away from her daughter, had entered the house earlier Friday to feed the cat.

Flood cuts off hospital power

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — John Peter Smith Hospital began turning away patients Saturday after floodwaters shorted out two electric generators, leaving the building without lights or air conditioning.

Temperatures rose to 100 degrees in surgical patients' rooms and evacuations were possible if the intense heat began affecting patients adversely, said hospital public relations director Jane Woolf.

"We've responded to a power shortage before, but this is the first time we've had such immense heat in the patients' rooms," she said. "We have to watch them very, very closely to see how they are responding to the heat and determine the point at which we would start evacuating."

"The emergency generators just don't accommodate air conditioning," she added.

Although power was supplied to operating rooms and the trauma and intensive care units, the areas were closed because emergency power did not cover auxiliary services, such as X-ray machines and laboratories, Ms. Woolf said.

The trauma center, which treats an average of 350 patients a day and more during holidays, was rerouting all patients to other area hospitals.

She said firefighters had estimated it would take them at least until midnight to pump about 5 feet of water from a tunnel below the hospital where the electrical equipment was located.

Prison guards sought, cell space expanded after ruling

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections is trying to recruit 500 correctional officers and plans to provide 60 square feet of living space per inmate as a result of a federal appeals court ruling.

The June 26 order from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted stays to certain aspects of a comprehensive ruling by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

Justice's December decision required sweeping changes in prison policies and practices.

The appeals court let stand Justice's order that the ratio of uniformed officers to prisoners be decreased from 1-12 to 1-10 by Nov. 1 and 1-6 by Nov. 1, 1982.

With an inmate population of 31,000, 500 guards must be added to the current 2,600-member security force by November.

"By Nov. 1, we are going to be in that area," TDC Director W.J. Estelle said, pointing out that the department's final budget from Gov. Bill Clements could provide funds for a 1-10 ratio. "Beyond that, I don't know."

The three-judge appeals court did stay a requirement that inmates be housed one to a cell by Nov. 1, 1983, pointing to a recent Supreme Court decision allowing double celling of inmates in Ohio.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

CAB finds going out of business joyful

"This is a rare announcement by a fedral government agency," begins a release from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

And that it is. The CAB is announcing its request to Congress to put it out of business as the regulator of the airline industry as soon as possible.

The airlines have been undergoing gradual deregulation, as you may recall, since the mid '70s. The first major steps were elimination of federally fixed fare schedules and allocation of routes in the expectation of stimulating competition and, as a consequence, service to the public.

That it did, and both the traveling public and the airlines enjoyed a couple of heady boom years. There were also some problems, such as the loss of service by smaller communities, that are still being resolved.

But essentially deregulation worked. So well that the CAB, scheduled under the original legislation to shut down Jan. 1, 1985, wants its termination to be advanced by possibly as much as two years. Its remaining responsibilities are to be transferred as rapidly as possible to other agencies; for example, consumer protection regulation to the Department of Transportation and policing of questionable trade practices to the Federal Trade Commission.

Ironically, the move to speed up the closing down comes as the airlines themselves are running into rough economic weather. The bloom was off the boom sometime back with increasing energy costs absorbing much of the additional revenues generated by lower fares and more passengers.

But the problems are not ones that are susceptible to solution through regulation. On the contrary, in the CAB's opinion. It believes that going out of business itself is the best means of removing some of the industry's burdens.

It may be right. It certainly is right about this being a rare event.

Utilities next on the list?

With the process already well advanced in airline operations and under way in trucking and communications, the deregulators may be getting ready to tackle another big one: electric utilities.

The possibility has been under exmaination unofficially for a number of years, according to a Wall Street Journal report, and now is going official with a study in the Justice Department's antitrust division.

The utilities were originally brought under the regulatory roof to protect consumers from price gouging and to encourage expansion of service and efficiency realized through large - scale operations as a result of government - authorized territorial monopolies.

The arguments for deregulation are now pretty much the same. Encouragement of smaller, localized operations is seen as one way of getting around the immense costs of updating and expanding generating facilities, of using increasingly costly fuel more efficiently and eventually giving the consumer a price break.

He could certainly use it.

But are they trying harder?

Cutting regulations is a great beginning

Americans who have become increasingly aware that they were being over - regulated by a burgeoning bureaucracy in Washington should be happy to learn that something is finally being done about it.

During its first six months in office, the Reagan administration has demonstrated its commitment to deregulation by reviewing, modifying or postponing 181 new federal rules. The one - time saving may amount to $18 billion, and the annual saving will near $6 billion, that is just fine for a starter.

President Reagan set out to liberate the country from its burdensome regulations as soon as he could after Inauguration Day. In late January, he created a task force on Regulatory Relief, headed by Vice President George Bush. Subsequently, he required all federal departments to submit proposed and existing regulations to a cost - benefit test by the Office of Management and Budget. However, the Supreme Court has hobbled this program with its ruling that cost efficiency tests cannot apply to workplace safety standards.

The savings from the Reagan administration's first flurry of deregulation prove that freeing business and industry from costly, stifling federal rules could be as important in stimulating the nation's economy as balancing the federal budget. Mr. Reagan made this point himself by including regulatory relief in his four - point national economic recovery program along with curing federal spending, reforming the tax structure and deflationary monetary policy.

Dramatic results became clear at once when the regulatory task force changed proposed Department of Transportation regulations that would otherwise have cost the automobile industry $1.4 billion. This will mean consumer savings of $9.3 billion in the next five years. Gone with the auto industry restraints are less costly but equally expendable rules governing dress codes for schoolchildren, bilingual education standards and household appliance standards. The number of new regulations proposed by federal agencies has been cut in half since January.

Now that the presidential task force has curbed the bureaucracy's appetite for rule - making, it can start on the accumulated mountain of existing regulations. This could produce savings that would really stimulate the economy.

Letter to editor

Dear Editor:

As Social Activity Director of Pampa Nursing Center, I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the many generous people who have volunteered their time and talents to our residents.

Nursing home residents have special emotional needs and while our staff does a wonderful job, they do not always have the time to meet all of these needs. This is why our volunteers are so important - they satisfy a very basic need — the need to feel wanted.

The hours that an individual volunteer spends at Pampa Nursing Center can mean the difference between community isolation and happy involvement for the resident. Special activities and events sponsored by community service organizations are invaluable. They bring the world outside closer to our residents.

On behalf of the residents and staff of Pampa Nursing Center, I want to say thanks to those of you who have been volunteers. We hope you have found it rewarding. Next time you come to share yourself with our residents, why not bring a friend?

Signed
Carol Deaver

Reagan has global view

By OSCAR COOLEY

"Why don't you move Chrysler to Mexico?" Lee Iacocca was contemptuously asked by someone who resents the Chrysler chairman's effort to get labor to lower its demands on his company. Iacocca should have replied, "That's a good idea."

Many U.S. firms do have plants in Mexico, making use of the big labor supply in that country. Some 212 firms are said to have plants in one city, Juarez, which is across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas. The Mexicans like the free - spending U.S. firms, and the El Paso merchants like the dollars that flow back from the Mexican workers.

Labor union heads in New York and Washington may despise the "cheap Mexican labor," but along the rio Grande and far across the border the mutuality of interests is appreciated.

"These people (Mexicans)," says Governor William P. Clements of Texas, "are an important part of our economy in Texas . . . they are basically hard - working, conservative people . . . we need them."

Roanld Reagan, who hails from a part of the U.S. where Mexicans are not entire strangers, also takes a broad view of the relationship. His "guest - worker" plan, by which Mexican workers would come to the U.S. in an orderly manner instead of swimming the Rio Grande at night, was discussed by him and Jose Lopez Portillo, president of Mexico, at their meeting this week.

The relationship of peoples and the phenomenon of migration from one country to another cry out for sympathetic consideration. Masses are migrating, not only from Mexico into the U.S. but, as Georgie Anne Geyer points out, from Chile, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay to Argentina, from Colombia to Venezuela and Ecuador, from Haiti to the Dominican Republic, and from Central America to Mexico.

When people cannot make a living where they are, they migrate in search of a land where they can. In early times, they went armed, so they might wrest land from its occupants. Now, they are more likely to go peacefully and seek to join other economies by selling their labor cheaply. They are welcomed by buyers of labor but resented as competitors by the native sellers. Surely peaceful migration, such as that of the Mexicans into southwest U.S., is vastly better than the invasion of Europe by the Huns in the 5th century A.D.

It is natural to look upon immigrants as interlopers, flooding in to seize jobs and property, but for 200 years the U.S. has been relatively hospitable to newcomers, and a striking feature of our history is its demonstration of how a country can open its gates to immigration and prosper thereby.

The U.S. is in no wise being victimized by the present influx of Spanish - speaking people. We want oil, which Mexico recently has found it has in what may be greater abundance than even Saudi Arabia. The multiplying Mexicans want our grain — last year they imported 10 million tons of it. We want their sisal, the raw material of rope. Most of it is grown in Yucatan. There is much potential reciprocation between our two countries.

The notion that all the Mexicans who come to the U.S. are of low degree is wrong. Many have jobs in their homeland but come here looking for better ones. This shows their ambition and resourcefulness.

Reagan has proposed a North American Accord, whereby Mexico, Canada and the U.S. would share resources such as oil and gas, uranium and coal, all three countries benefiting. This is a large - minded proposal. It shows the global thinking of our man in the White House.

Union coercion

By ANTHONY H. HARRIGAN

Over the years, certain companies have been on organized labor's hit list. They have been the targets of boycotts, abusive publicity campaigns and worse.

The names of the Kohler Company, J.P. Stevens, and Farah pants manufacturing company — all come to mind as victoms of coercive unionism.

These are only a few of the numerous targets of monopoly unionism. In mid - May, "Business Week" reported that the Airline Pilots Assn. is launching a "corporate campaign" against Texas Air Corporation's creation of a non - union subsidiary. The union hopes to drive customers away from use of non - union pilots on the subsidiary airline, New York Airways Inc. The magazine said that the union campaign director "will try to alienate New York Air from its customers and financial backers."

"Business Week" added that the union "may urge union members to stop buying Pepsi - cola distributed by Minneapolis - based MEI Corp., one of whose directors is also a Texas Air director."

Another company that has been subjected to unfair pressure and abuse is the Adolph Coors Co. of Golden, Colo. The company recently asserted that a few labor union officials, unwilling to accept the results of an election that went against them, have "continued a boycott campaign aimed at destroying Adolph Coors Co."

What happened is that in December 1978, following a 20 - month strike, Coors brewery workers voted by a margin of more than 2 to 1 (71 percent to 29 percent) to decertify Brewery Workers Local 366.

The Coors Co. is unusual in that it has taken its case to the public. It reported, for example, that, during the strike, union officials never enjoyed the support of their own membership, noting that "more than 70 percent of those who left their jobs returned to work during the strike. Some never-left at all."

Unions are skillful in getting attention for their charges. Business usually is much less successful in getting its story across to readers and viewers. Business often is hesitant to speak out and present all the evidence. Happily, this is not the case with the Coors Co.

It says, for example, that "the average annual income in 1980 of a Coors production and maintenance worker on universal shift was $24,300." The company also said that more than 40,000 unsolicited applications for employment are received by Coors every year.

If the public has information of this sort, it is in a good position to judge the claims of the union leaders who speak of employers in terms of oppression. Business has everything to gain in getting the facts concerning wages and working conditions before the public.

In the case of New York Air, the public ought to know that the pilots it employs earn $30,000 a year, hardly a starvation wage.

A cheering development in this case is that the union already has failed to persuade Continental Airlines to stop handling ticketing for New York and to get Pan Am to quit leasing it space. These major air carriers properly resisted coercive union pressure which, if not illegal, certainly is outrageous.

As the Coors Co. said with respect to its situation, employees have freedom of choice and the right to exercise their freedom. Unions should not be allowed to coerce employees who attempt to exercise that freedom or ruin companies that offer employment at good wages.

Rent a plane

The Defense Department keeps insisting that the United States is short of all types of military weapons, from tanks to airplanes. We probably are. But every time you pick up the newspaper, there is an announcement that we're selling our stuff to some other country, or giving it away for free. No wonder we can't stockpile anything for ourselves.

The latest news bulletin, which came right after the Israeli raid on the nuclear facilities in Baghdad, was that the president had agreed to sell F - 16s to Pakistan. Now anyone in the U.S. Air Force will tell you that they need every F - 16 they can get. The question is, how do we keep supplying arms to all our friends and still have any left to equip our own armed forces?

There is a solution. Instead of sellig our equipment to every ally that asks for it, we could rent the hardware on a daily or weekly basis. Working with Hertz, Avis and other leasing companies, we could set up booths at air, naval and Army bases where all our military hardware would be kept.

Pretty women officers in attractive uniforms would be behind the counters.

This is how it would work: A foreign general and his staff would come to the counter and say, "We'd like to rent five F - 16s for a pre - emptive strike on our archenemy, Balanteria."

"That's no problem. I assume you want them fully equipped with rockets, bombs and gas."

"I certainly do."

"Well, that's included in the price of the rental. But if you have to re - arm and refuel, you will have to pay for it yourself. The first 500 miles are on us, but you will be charged a thousand dollars a mile after that."

"That's reasonable. Can we charge it to our credit card?"

"Of course. Now when were you planning on making your strike?"

"Why?"

"Well, if you made it on a Saturday or Sunday, we could give you our special tourist weekend rate of $5,000 per plane, though you would have to return them on Monday morning."

"The weekend is as good a time as any. It might even be a better surprise. Do we have to return the planes to the same airfield?"

"No, you can drop them off at any American Air Force base, after your raid. Now would you like liability insurance in case you are brought in front of the United Nations Security Council after the raid?"

"Sure, why not?"

"Here you are, sir. Take the Hertz bus right outside, and you can pick up your planes from our hangar."

"Oh, by the way, we also wanted to rent an AWAC airplane in case Balanteria decides to attack our oil installations in retaliation."

"All our AWACs haye been rented by Saudi Arabia. Maybe Avis could help you."

The general would be directed to the next counter. The lady officer would punch his request into a computer. "We have a new AWAC coming in this afernoon. It's a sports model with only 10,000 miles on it. It will be $50,000 a day, but that's with unlimited mileage."

"That will be just fine."

"While you're here, sir, would you be interested in joining our VIP Nuclear Club?"

"What's the advantage of that?"

"You don't have to run through airports to get your planes. You can telephone in your order to the toll - free number and they will be ready when you get to the counter."

"That's a good idea."

"You also get a 20 percent discount on our F - 4 fighter aircraft, and when you produce your card you will have priority on the latest air - to - air missiles just off the production line."

"Give me the application. You Americans certainly do have a wonderful customer relations program."

"Thank you, sir. When you're second best in defense, you have to try harder."

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1981. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 1, 1863, the biggest battle of the Civil War began at Gettysburg, Pa.

On this date:

In 1867, the Dominion of Canada was created by the British North America Act.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

In 1966, France withdrew all its armed forces from the integrated NATO military force.

And in 1974, Argentine President Juan Peron died in Buenos Aires at age 78.

Ten years ago: The North Vietnamese said they'd release all U.S. prisoners of war if the U.S. withdrew all its forces from Vietnam by the end of the year.

Five years ago: Spain's program for democratic change was thrown into confusion with the resignation of Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro and his cabinet.

One year ago: West Germany's Chancellor Helmut Schmidt ended talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev without a pledge that the Soviets would withdraw more troops from Afghanistan.

Detective's digging reverses suicide ruling

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — When detective Johnny Bonds arrived at the fashionable home that July day in 1979, the bodies of John and Diana Wanstrath and their infant son lay amid what appeared to be a classic murder-suicide setting.

There was no sign of a struggle, no evidence of robbery and there was a clean gunshot wound to the head of each victim.

Just one thing bothered the 14-year veteran detective — there was no gun. How could a person commit suicide and afterward get rid of the weapon?

Despite the official murder-suicide ruling by Harris County officials, it was that doubt that inspired Bonds to embark upon a 19-month investigation that ended in a sordid tale of murder for hire — and the subsequent overturning of another death ruling that also had to be changed from suicide to murder.

The motive in both cases, prosecutors claim, was the greed of an adopted son who they say tried to wipe out the rest of his family so he could inherit their wealth.

On Monday, the curtain will rise on what prosecutors hope will be the final act in the bizarre drama. Investor Markham Duff-Smith, 34, will stand trial in the 1975 death of his adoptive mother. He also is accused of arranging the killings of his sister, Diana Wanstrath, and her family.

The entire case was broken by Bonds because he would not accept the Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk's explanation that the gun used in the Wanstrath deaths must have been removed by a "person or persons unknown."

But seven months after Wanstrath was found slain with his wife and son, Bonds still had little more than his suspicions to go on. The official ruling stuck at murder-suicide, supposedly closing the case.

And assistant district attorney Ted Poe says the case would likely have remained closed if it had not been for Bonds' bulldog-like tenacity. "The guy makes Kojak look like an amateur," Poe said.

The story began Oct. 17, 1975, when a caretaker found the body of wealthy socialite Trudy Duff-Smith Zabolio, 60, in an upstairs bathroom of her home in Houston's exclusive River Oaks neighborhood.

A pair of pantyhose was tightly wound around the woman's neck, and the death was ruled a suicide — authorities assumed she must have strangled herself. An unusual way to do it, they conceded, but physically possible — and as in the Wanstrath case, there were no signs of a struggle or forced entry.

Mrs. Zabolio left an estate of approximately $180,000, which was split between her natural-born daughter, Mrs. Wanstrath, and her adopted son, Duff-Smith.

Case closed — until four years later the Wanstrath bodies were discovered and Bonds entered the case.

"The immediate appearance was of a double murder-suicide," Bonds said. "The first person I suspected was the man (John Wanstrath), because he was sitting in a chair. Diana was lying across the floor. It looked like he would have shot her, then sat in his chair and shot himself.

"I got down on my hands and knees and looked under the chair. When I didn't find the gun, I looked around Diana's body.

"By the time we left, I was pretty sure it was murder, the main reason being there was no weapon."

But the Harris County medical examiner's office concluded Diana Wanstrath, 36, shot her 35-year-old oceanographer husband and their 14-month-old son, and then turned the gun on herself.

The medical examiner's report cited a history of suicide in Diana's family, notably her mother's "suicide" in 1975.

The Wanstrath estate totaled about $800,000. More than half was inherited by Duff-Smith.

Meanwhile, Bonds doggedly continued to investigate anyone connected with the family who might have had a motive for tpe killings, including the victims' major hei , Duff-Smith. Bonds was joined by a partner, Det. Dan McAnulty.

Their digging led from Duff-Smith to Walter A. Waldhauser Jr., an independent investor and close friend of Duff-Smith. Waldhauser had a mysterious connection — Bonds won't say what — with a 31-year-old ex-convict, Allen Wayne Janecka.

"The more we dug, the more it looked like murder," said Bonds. "We had a lot of information that implicated Duff-Smith and Waldhauser. But it wasn't anything we could get an indictment on, so we were kind of stuck and everywhere we went dead-ended. But we kept on and eventually came up with Janecka — we associated Janecka with Waldhauser."

"Janecka was the missing link," said McAnulty.

Last November, armed with information but not enough evidence to indict Janecka, McAnulty went to Georgia, Janecka's last known address. McAnulty's contacts sent him to the home of Janecka's common-law wife, where he was presented with the gun that police say was used to kill the Wanstraths.

From there, things quickly fell into place for the two detectives.

Janecka confessed, prosecutors say, to being the trigger-man in the Wanstrath slayings and told police he was hired by Waldhauser.

On Dec. 11, 1980, Waldhauser and Janecka were indicted in the Wanstrath deaths.

In February the medical examiner's office changed the Wanstrath deaths from murder-suicide to triple homicide.

In mid-March, Waldhauser admitted his involvement in the Wanstrath and Zabolio deaths and promised to testify against Duff-Smith. Waldhauser received a 30-year prison sentence in the plea bargaining.

The medical examiner's office was again forced to change a ruling, and Mrs. Zabolio's strangulation death was officially listed as a murder.

On March 13 Markham Duff-Smith was indicted in the Wanstrath killings.

On April 6, Janecka was convicted in the death of the Wanstrath baby and two days later was sentenced to death.

Congress ready for abrupt, painful spending cutting

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like a drug addict ready to go cold turkey, Congress is poised to heed President Reagan's call to end its spending habit with an abrupt, painful package of cuts in more than 250 programs ranging from school lunches to pensions.

The president used his inaugural address Jan. 20 to begin pushing for Congress to slash spending across the breadth of government to spur the economy.

"It is time to check and reverse the growth of government which shows signs of having grown beyond the consent of the governed," Reagan said.

Just over five months later, the Republican-controlled Senate has passed a package of $38.5 billion in 1982 cuts and the Democratic-controlled House, after bitter parliamentary wrangling, has voted for a package estimated at between $35.6 billion and $38.2 billion.

What has emerged is tentative congressional endorsement of reductions roughly parallel to the $34.6 billion recommended by Reagan in February and March.

Some of the changes have been under discussion for years. The surprise is that so many have been acted upon so rapidly.

The moves affect every facet of government, trimming or killing scores of politically popular aid programs that Congress has been creating since President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

"I think the president has done a masterful job in trying to move us, nudge us and shove us in a direction that we should go," Rep. Jack Edwards, R-Ala., said on the House floor, "but the truth is that we are about to respond to the needs of the people of this country, crying to give us new directions, and it is going to hurt.

"We are at the point now where we somehow have got to get the narcotic needle out of the arm. You know that is painful. We know that we are going to have to struggle with it, and yet we know that it has got to be done."

Reflecting the feelings of many House members, Edwards said the real purpose of the exercise was "to somehow pick this country up and shake it a little and reverse the direction in which we have been going."

The outcome in the Senate had been anticipated given its GOP majority ready to carry out the president's wishes.

In the Democratic House, though, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., called the administration's budget recommendations "heartless" and "a deliberate effort to transfer wealth from the struggling families of this country and award that wealth to those who are already wealthy."

Republicans, who managed to forge a working majority coalition with conservative Democrats, responded that the seemingly endless flow of federal dollars had to stop if inflation was to be brought under control.

Edwards said the protests from Democrats amounted to "the last battle of a group of liberal members of this House who have fought for years to build federal programs, build them in good faith, do good for the people as they saw it."

Rep. Delbert L. Latta of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Budget Committee, told colleagues not to believe that cuts in child nutrition programs were aimed at taking the food away from the needy.

"Free lunches remain intact," Latta said. "But the people who can pay for their lunches, those in the higher income brackets, will be asked by the taxpayer of lower means to pick up the tab for feeding their children."

Democrats fighting the cuts see it differently.

"The fact is that we are rolling the dice with the lives of millions of Americans," said Rep. Leon E. Panetta of California, a key Democrat on the House Budget Committee. "Whether they are children, the elderly, the poor, or farmers, whether it is rural areas or urban areas, we do not know what we are doing in terms of impacting on those Americans."

In the end, the House acted quickly, voting for budget revisions that the administration and its House allies had drawn up the night before.

The work had been done so quickly that section headings were penciled in, words crossed out and others written in, and some programs were inadvertently eliminated with mistaken wording or a misplaced phrase.

Israeli vote counting enters the final stages

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Labor Party leader Shimon Peres faced a week of intense bargaining with potential coalition partners as vote counting entered its final stages Saturday.

The count, slowed by the separate tallying of the military ballot, was suspended for the Sabbath and resumed Saturday night.

Begin and Peres have met with the two main coalition candidates and are waiting for the official results to be announced Tuesday before getting down to hard bargaining.

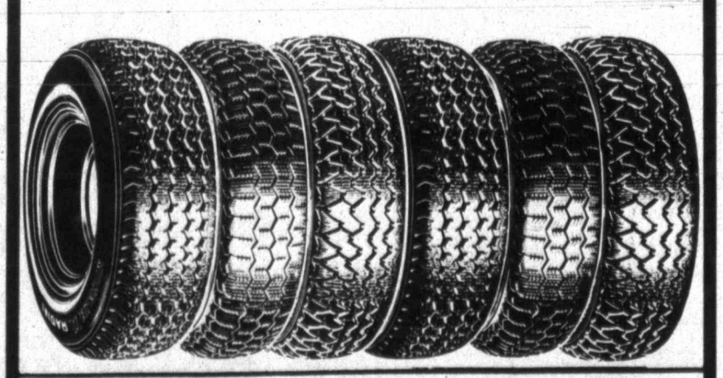

Unofficial running reports of the count show Begin's Likud Bloc and the Labor Party seesawing a few dozen to a few hundred votes apart. Both may end up with 48 or 49 seats apiece in the 120-member Knesset, or parliament.

My, wasn't the rain nice! What a pleasant break in our hot, dry summer. It seemed to be fairly general over the area.

BINDWEED CONTROL

I have contacted the Texas Highway Department about controlling bindweed along their right - of - ways. They will be using Roundup herebicide since there is no drift problem or soil sterilant action. It kills the foliage and root system of plants it is sprayed on.

We need a list similar to the list we had last year of all farmers who are actively trying to control bindweed on their farm land adjoining state highways. The Highway Department will try to spray all of the bindweed on their adjoining right - of - ways.

We have a map and certificates to sign - up for this program in the Gray County Extension office.

SICK PLANT CLINIC

Plans are being developed to have a Sick Plant Clinic on July 16. We will have four Extension Specialists to assist everyone that is having plant problems. Further details will be forthcoming.

COTTON INSECT SITUATION

Thrips continue to be the biggest problem in cotton; however, with the good growing conditions, cotton is rapidly out - growing the thrips problem. Once the cotton plant reaches the 4 - 5 true leaf stage, it is past being severely damaged by thrips.

Fleahoppers are the next pest to be checking for in cotton. They move into cotton as squaring begins and can cause excessive blasting and shedding of small squares. The first three weeks of squaring is the critical time for fleahopper control. Control measures should be applied if 25 - 30 fleahoppers per 100 terminals can be found with 15 - 25 percent damaged pinhead size squares.

CORN INSECTS

Southwestern corn borer overwinter survival was high in most corn growing areas. This has been reflected in heavy infestations of first generation borers especially next to unplowed corn stuble. The potential for extremely heavy second generation borer infestation appears great at this time.

LIVESTOCK INSECTS

Hornfly infestations have been fluctuating with an overall increasing trend in the past few weeks. If the hot, dry weather continues, the infestations will likely level off and even decline. Hornflies are relatively easy to kill. Properly maintained self - treatment devices such as backrubbers and dust bags will provide adequate control of hornflies if they are positioned in such a manner that cattle will use them frequently. Sprays will provide excellent temporary control. Spraying will likely need to be repeated periodically through the summer as the hornflies build up again. Ear tags provide effective control of hornflies for many weeks. The latest synthetic pyrethroid tags EctrinR, AtrobanR, and Guard StarR will provide hornfly control for 4 - 5 months.

HOG PRICES SHOULD IMPROVE

Although barrow and gilt prices have not been as high as expected in the second quarter (April - June), they should show a $9 to $18 per cwt. increase during the July September period. That would mean a $51 to $54 per cwt. average for barrows and gilts.

In the first eight weeks of the second quarter, hog slaughter was down 7 percent from the same period last year, so this should strengthen prices.

Currently barrow and gilt prices are reaching the $50 per cwt. level and should continue to improve if slaughter remains 7 percent below year ago levels.

Thus far, through the second quarter, barrow and gilt prices have averaged about $39.74 per cwt. This quarterly average price likely will move up to $42 to $45 per cwt. as June prices should remain above the $45 per cwt level.

Several factors have hindered hog prices and could continue to be a factor in the months ahead.

One, of course, is climbing interest rates. As last year, prices have fallen with rising interest rates.

Another factor is that May reports indicate frozen pork supplies to be 18 percent greater than a year ago and total cold storage red meat supplies to be up 14 percent. These supplies must move through market channels before prices recover.

White shocked by opposition to windfall profits tax challenge

AUSTIN — Attorney General Mark White said recently that he is shocked and amazed that the U.S. Department of Justice has filed a strong opposition to Texas' motion to intervene in the lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980, styled Independent Petroleum Association of America et al. v. United States of America.

During his campaign for the presidency, President Reagan made numerous promises to bring an end to this unfair tax which principally affects a group of people who cannot afford a reduction in income. Over 650,000 Texans alone rely on their small royalty checks as a supplemental source of income to survive in these inflationary times. Three - fourths of those checks amount to less than $200 a month. The windfall profit tax currently is an unfair hardship on these people, many of whom are elderly and retired and who otherwise subsist on social security.

"The Windfall Profit Tax Act adversely affects millions of Americans," White said. "I assumed that the Reagan administration would take immediate steps to call for the repeal of this onerous law. To my dismay, not only has no attempt been made to abolish the tax, the people affected by this law are now giving up more of their income than at any time since the law was passed. Furthermore, the administration now seeks to prevent my office from directly supporting the lawsuit filed to challenge the tax.

"I strongly support legislation introduced by Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D., Texas) to allow independent oil producers and royalty owners to exempt from the 1980 tax the first 1,000 barrels of daily production. It is an attempt to provide an alternative solution to this problem, and to give some relief to those persons most affected by the tax.

"However, I intend to continue to do everything within my power and the jurisdiction of my office to challenge and prevent this tax. Not only am I compelled to do this with absolutely no help and support from the Reagan administration, I must do so with their strong opposition. I am extremely disappointed that once again, a campaign promise has been broken to the detriment of the American people."

Gas find north of Canadian

AMARILLO — Pioneer Production Corporation announced recently the completion of a natural gas discovery well in Hemphill County, Texas, one mile north of the city of Canadian.

The well, the Pickens Unit No. 1 - 76, flowed at a rate of 4.2 million cubic feet of gas per day through a 10 - 64 - inch choke, with a flowing tubing pressure of 4,278 pounds per square inch (psi). During testing, a shut - in tubing pressure of 6,073 psi was reported.

Drilled to a depth of 11,250 feet, the well is completed in the Upper Morrow formation with perforations from 11,177 feet to 11,187 feet. It is approximately three miles north of a 12 - well Upper Morrow field, in which two wells each produce over one billion cubic feet per year.

Pioneer Production corporation, a subsidiary of Pioneer Corporation (NYSE), is the operator and owns a 37.5 percent working interest, and private investors own the remaining 25 percent.

Astro-Graph

Much can be learned of a practical nature which you will be able to put to use profitably this coming year. Don't miss any opportunities to add to your storehouse of knowledge.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) As long as everything is running smoothly today you'll conduct yourself very well. However, should the unexpected occur, it may cause you to become quite temperamental. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll treat others generously today, provided the idea originates with you. In situations where demands are made, you're apt to do an about-face.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be optimistic regarding that which you want to do today, but there's a possibility you could wilt under challenge. Be positive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't make winning or being first too important today. In situations where your ego gains the upper hand, you could act in ways you'll later regret.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very careful today, especially in business or money matters, that you don't take foolish risks against your better judgment. It's not a day to buck the odds.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Joint ventures hold promise for you today, but there are also potential problems, particularly if the ideals of all involved are not in harmony.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your judgment is good today, but you could be too easily influenced by the opinions of associates and revise decisions in order to placate them. Stand firm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There is much that needs doing today. Your spirit is willing, but the flesh could be weak. The desire to do fun things may cause you to quit too early.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unfortunately, not everyone you'll be dealing with today will be operating on your ethical level. Don't let others draw you into petty intrigues.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Though you will be industrious and eager to do what needs doing today, co-workers could, unfortunately, lack your purpose and slow-down production.

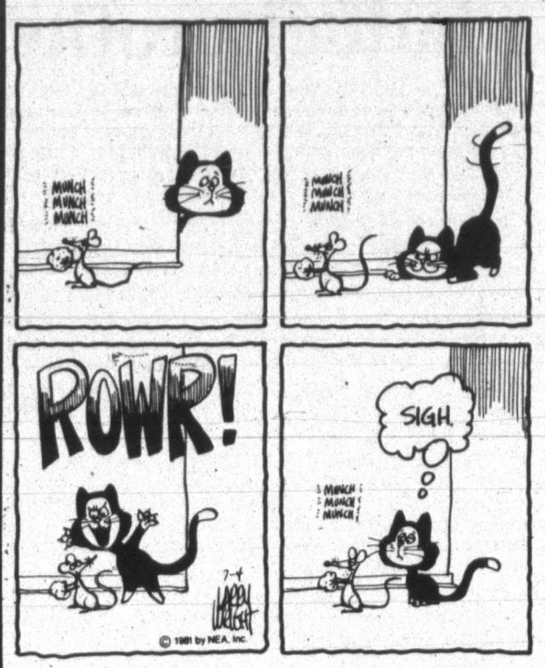

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't move too impulsively on your ideas today. They might not be as sound as you think and could prove costly, either to yourself or another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's little doubt you'll get what you want today, but there's also a chance your methods could irritate others. Don't be too self-serving.

Carol Hall, Susan Rice in 'Good Sports'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Hall and Susan Rice are working on a new sports musical for next season, "Good Sports." It doesn't bother them that three baseball musicals also are in the works.

"I'd think they'd be more worried about each other than us," says Miss Hall, tunesmith for the hit musical now in its fourth Broadway year, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

Their competitors-to-be are "The First," about Jackie Robinson; "A Whole New Ballgame," about black baseball in the Forties, and "The Winner," about the Dodgers' move from Brooklyn to Los Angeles.

"Good Sports" isn't confined to baseball, says Miss Rice, who'll be making her Broadway bow as author of the show's book. The musical concerns various sports, features both male and female athletes. And it notes changing attitudes in today's sports world.

But love is the main event, specifically a professional and romantic tussle between a grizzled sports columnist in his forties and a tough, lovely young lady who happens to be one of the few women covering sports for TV.

"She's a beautiful Howard Cosell," says Miss Hall, a tiny, doe-eyed delegate from Abeline, Texas, who has worked on the show — it's due here in December — with Miss Rice for nearly three years.

Their labors began shortly after they were introduced by a mutual friend, Stevie Phillips, a show-scouter for Universal Studios who helped guide Miss Hall's "Best Little Whorehouse" to Broadway success.

Miss Hall always wanted to write for Broadway. She got there after some modest success as a pop singer-composer and as a songwriter for "Sesame Street" and Marlo Thomas' acclaimed TV special, "Free To Be You and Me." She also wrote two children's books.

Miss Rice, on the other hand, didn't have Broadway in mind after exiting Smith College with a philosophy degree. She set out to be a movie critic, did that, and then became a screenwriter.

"I worked for little magazines, saw about 200 movies a year," says the lady, a friendly, attractive Detroit native in her middle thirties. She winces. "That career ended when I saw a movie about a blind sharpshooter.

"No, I'm not kidding. It also featured a boxcar full of naked ladies. And as I sat in the screening room, I said, 'I can't do this anymore.' So I collected my things and went to Martha's Vineyard with my cat and my typewriter.

"I wrote a tennis film, 'Love 30,' in four months. And to my complete surprise, Jane Fonda bought it." True, she sighs, no movie has been made yet. But the sale sure seemed a good omen.

Miss Rice's first play, a comedy called "Was It Good For You," recently was produced off-Broadway and had a fair run.

Can Thomas Waites bridge the gap?

NEW YORK (NEA) - Thomas Waites bristles with intensity, curiosity, enthusiasm and talent. Especially talent. The curly-haired young actor is attracting a lot of attention these days for his convincing protrayal of Bobby, a simple-minded street kid burnt out by dope, in the smash off-Broadway revival of David Mamet's "American Buffalo," which stars Al Pacino.

Watch Waites on stage and you get the feeling you're seeing a guy who has that rare stuff to become a major star. Sit down with him over coffee and you meet up with a friendly mass of contradictions. You don't often discuss Restoration comedy and Ibsen with a Juilliard graduate who talks out of the side of his mouth. Nor do you usually find a polished stage veteran with a long line of Shakespearean roles to his credit who looks like the commander of a teen gang.

He explains it this way: "I'm a street guy, a fighter. It also happens that I've had an education."

Filmgoers may recognize Waites, 26, from featured roles in "On the Yard," "And Justice for All" and "The Warriors." In August he's scheduled for a role in a remake of the 1951 science fiction classic "The Thing."

So far, it is his street-wise image that film casting directors have wanted. "They tune in to what they need," he says. "They sense the toughness and control in me. I have a green belt in karate. That's all part of that control. I can play other parts and have played them on stage. I was a Jewish transvestite in a play a few months ago. But you only get the luxury of doing that kind of variety on screen when you're a major studio figure."

By playing a spaced-out punk in "American Buffalo," Waites has, in a sense, bridged the gap between his screen and stage images. Thus, the play may prove to be the turning point of his career.

He prepares for the role every evening by whittling with a pen-knife on the roof for 30 minutes. He feels this is what Bobby would be doing just before he joins the play's other characters to plot robbery — a small-time robbery that never comes off.

"The beauty of acting is to get into the character's emotional skin," he says. "Ever since the '40s the whole Actors Studio idea has been to bring out what you feel. That's very important, but it has little to do with what the character feels or how you're going to represent that to an audience.

"The best actors are the ones who will give and give until nothing is left of themselves. It takes incredible energy and effort. To be a good actor you have to be a bit of a warrior."

Waites grew up in a tough lower-middle-class neighborhood on the outskirts of Philadelphia. He, his four sisters and two brothers all went to Roman Catholic schools.

More to Ted Lange than being television bartender

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's more to Ted Lange than just tending bar aboard ABC's "The Love Boat," although he claims he can mix a mean martini.

Lange plays bartender Isaac Washington in the fluffy TV tales of romance afloat. But beyond that he is a dedicated playwright and director. His original rock musical, "Born a Unicorn," the story of the first black Shakespearan actor, opens this week.

"I love the theater," he says. "It's so marvelous. It's so raw. It's wonderful to see it survive."

Lange, who previously produced an original production of "Hamlet" and a bpack version of "The Odd Couple," is now doing a rock musical on the life of black actor Ira Aldridge.

"He went to England in the 1830s and they wouldn't let him play 'Othello,'" says Lange. "They said, 'It's all well and good, but we don't think blacks should play blacks.' They did let him play slaves. And he did play 'Othello' in the London ghetto, the poor area with all the pickpockets. He became the first black man to play 'Othello.'

"I love doing Shakespeare," Lange says. "One reason is I love it when English actors are bad. That's why I do other Shakespeare besides 'Othello' and direct Shakespeare. English actors say to me, 'I say, old fellow, you're a bartender.' I say, I've done Shakespeare, and they say, 'Othello?' I say, no, 'Romeo and Juliet.' That gets them."

Lange grins broadly and adds, "There's nothing worse than an English actor in a bad American movie."

Charles Weldon stars in "Born a Unicorn," which is at the Center. Damita Jo Freeman is choreographer, and Phyllis. St. James and Beverly Bremers wrote the music and lyrics.

Lange recites the legend of the unicorn to explain his title. He says, "A unicorn cannot be captured alive. If you want a unicorn you have to kill it. In its horn is a magical power. A unicorn will lay its head in the lap of a virgin and go to sleep.

"My play is about a black guy from New York in the 1830s who thinks he can go to England and become a famous actor. He had to believe he was a special person. He had to have the power of a unicorn. And it is a woman who does capture him."

THE LAST CONVERTIBLE

Sharon Gless stars as Kay Haddon, a sophisticated woman who renews her acquaintance with a group of Harvard students while on tour in Europe as a USO singer during World War II, in Part Three of "The Last Convertible," the television adaptation of Anton Myrer's best-selling romantic novel about five members of Harvard's class of '44, MONDAY, JULY 6 on NBC-TV.

In Part Three, Terry (John Shea) learns of his wife's infidelity while a POW in a German camp, and when he escapes, he has an affair with an English woman he meets. Russ (Perry King) barely survives when his ship is torpedoed and is soon re-assigned to a new ship, encountering a sailor with whom he fought after being teased about his marital problems. George (Bruce Boxleitner) is depressed when a close friend is severely injured in battle.

SOME KIND OF MIRACLE

David Dukes and Andrea Marcovicci star as carefree young people about to be married when their lives are turned upside down after he is paralyzed in a surfing accident, in the motion picture-for-television "Some Kind of Miracle," to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies," TUESDAY, JULY 7.

The drama evolves from the shattering accident that in an instant changed the lives of television newscaster Joe Dine (Dukes) and his fiancee, newspaper reporter Maggie Nicoff (Miss Marcovicci).

Both suffer emotional and physical shock as they try to adjust to his uncertain future, which could be life in a wheelchair. Flashbacks contrast their happiness before the accident, planning marriage and a family, with the bleak present of his fight for recovery.

THE ADVENTURES OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN

Brock Peters (left) plays Jim, a runaway slave, and Kurt Ida appears in the title role as a youngster fleeing from the prospect of life in a boarding school, in "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," an "NBC Thursday Night at the Movies" World Premiere presentation based on the classic work by Mark Twain, to be telecast THURSDAY, JULY 9.

When he learns he is to be sent to a boarding school, Huck Finn (Ida) runs away and is joined by close friend Tom Sawyer (Dan Monahan) and an escaped slave named Jim (Peters). By fashioning a homemade raft, the trio embarks on a wild escapade down the Mississippi River that leads them into a series of thrilling and often frightening adventures.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION. Expressions on the faces of these youngsters betray a variety of opinions as they watch a co-competitor practice on the trampoline during the U.S. Acro-Gymnastics Federation National Age Groups Championships held this weekend at West Texas State University in Canyon. Bart Thomas of White Deer qualified for the finals in two events as he placed second in the mini-tramp and sixth in the trampoline Friday in the boys' 10 and under division.

Pampa bowling roundup

More bowlers are needed for the Friday afternoon youth leagues at Harvester Lanes.

Interested youngsters may call 665-3422 for more information.

There's nothing more disgusting that moves than a grimy looking vehicle thickly covered with panhandle dust.

If you want your '63 Chevy shining again, take it to the Pampa Youth Bowling Association car wash Saturday and Sunday at Harvester Lanes.

Proceeds will send eleven youngsters to the state junior tournament July 18 in Dallas. All participants will be treated to an awards banquet that night.

The 5 Ding-A Lings and the Screwballs won first place in the Class B boys' and girls' divisions at the regional tournament in Amarillo.

Rebecca Dunn and Chalenia Tackett won the Class C girls' doubles championship.

Members of the 5 Ding-A-Lings are Debra Bryan, Chalenia Tackett, Tamra Wilson, Candi Crouch, and Debra Hoskins.

Members of the Screwballs are Gary Winton, Mike Kellogg, Johnny Spotts, Darrell Caldwell, and Randy Parsley.

The car wash opens at 8 a.m. both days on the north side of the bowling alley.

The All-Stars lead the Friday afternoon Bantam Junior League with a 12-4 record.

Team members, along with their averages, are Richard Spence (100), Richard Shay (81), and Jay McCarthy (79).

Kelli Wells has both high series (450) and high game (181) in the girls' division.

Wayne Hoskins has high series (461) and Johnny Spotts has high game (186) for the boys.

Mike Elliott and Kyle Dickerman each carry a 105 for high average.

Bowlers can sign up now for winter leagues at Harvester Lanes. Signup sheets are posted at the bowling alley.

Yarborough wins 400 race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough passed Harry Gant two turns from the end and held on to win his fourth Firecracker 400 Grand National stock car race Saturday at Daytona International Speedway.

Yarborough, who started from the pole, fell behind Gant 22 laps from the end of the 400-mile race, but stayed right on the leader's back bumper until the two zipped down the long backstretch on lap 160.

The 41-year-old veteran from Timmonsville, S.C., dropped low on the high-banked, 2.5-mile track and pulled even with Gant as the two entered the third turn. He moved into the lead before they entered turn four.

Yarborough, who picked up his second victory of the season and 71st of his NASCAR Grand National career, piloted his Buick Regal across the finish line just ahead of Gant, who never has won a Grand National race and now has finished second eight times, including five times this season.

McEnroe wins Wimbledon title to snap Borg's 5-year streak

SPORTS

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — It was a star-spangled Fourth of July for the United States Saturday, and "bad boy" John McEnroe led the parade by beating the mighty Bjorn Borg for the Wimbledon singles title.

The 22-year-old American left-hander defeated the Swedish star 4-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4 in a nerve-tingling final that lasted almost 3½ hours.

All the sour incidents of the last two weeks — tantrums on court, arguments over line calls and fines imposed by the tournament committee — were forgotten as McEnroe ended Borg's five-year run as champion.

When he hit the last winning forehand volley, the 14,000 fans on the center court stood and cheered. Some of them had slept on the sidewalks outside the tennis club for the last six nights to stand and watch.

At a news conference afterward, McEnroe was a quiet and dignified champion.

"I am glad to have beaten a guy who is one of the greatest players who ever lived," he said. "And I want to congratulate him, because he's a great champion."

The crowd thought so, too. When the Duchess of Kent presented the trophy and the runner-up medal, the crowd gave Borg an even bigger cheer than they had given McEnroe.

Borg, 25, won the title in 1976 and has held it longer than any other player this century.

One man — Englishman Willie Renshaw — won it six times running, from 1881 to 1886. But no overseas players competed in those days, and the defending champion had to play in only one challenge match at the end of the tournament.

Borg won a record 41 matches at Wimbledon until McEnroe dethroned him. The old record was 31 matches by Rod Laver of Australia.

But McEnroe wasn't the only American invader to find victory here. For the first time since 1975, Americans won both the singles titles as Chris Evert Lloyd defeated Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-2 Friday to win the women's final for the third time. And McEnroe and Peter Fleming took the men's doubles title, defeating Stan Smith and Bob Lutz 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Then, on Saturday, Pam Shriver, who was born July 4, 1962, teamed with Martina Navratilova to capture the women's doubles championship 6-3, 7-6 over Anne Smith and Kathy Jordan.

Even in the Wimbledon junior tournament, it was a grand old day for the USA. Matt Anger of Pleasonton, Calif., beat Pat Cash of Australia 7-6, 7-5 for the boys' crown and Zina Garrison of Houston defeated Rene Uys of South Africa 6-4, 3-6, 6-0 to win the girls' title.

In the only setback on America's birthday, Frew McMillan of South Africa and Betty Stove of the Netherlands defeated defending champions Tracy and John Austin in the mixed doubles 4-6, 7-6, 6-3.

Because of a series of upsets in the earlier rounds, McEnroe reached the final without meeting one seeded player. Throughout the tournament he had been trying to get his service under control as well as his temperament.

In the finals it all came right.

"I picked the right match to serve well," he said.

McEnroe served steadily throughout the match and got almost 60 percent of his first serves in.

Borg's rate was well below 50 percent in the first two sets, but he finished with an overall average of 52 percent.

Borg was the man with the reputation for winning the big points. But on this occasion it was McEnroe who won them.

McEnroe, the 13th American to win Wimbledon since World War II, won $43,000. Borg earned $21,500.

The committee fined McEnroe $1,500 after his first-round match against Tom Gullikson, when he disputed line calls and had a fiery clash with tournament referee Fred Hoyles.

Pampa meets Canyon in 13 district tournament

The group of all-stars will be coached by Guy Simmons Scott Dunn, and Troy Hendricks.

"We have a good chance of winning it," Simmons said. "We've got a strong hitting team and we've also looked good defensively."

Team members include Trent Watson, Dean Wilson, James Ellison, Johnny Snuggs, Monte O'Neal, Billy Butler, Clifton Pittman, Paul Simpson, Kevin Jacoby, Frank Graves, Alvin Murgai, Joe Murphee, Jeff Willis, and Jackie Goldsmith.

The Pampa-Canyon winner meets the Hereford-High Plains winner Tuesday night.

"Canyon should be the team to beat," Simmons said. He said Paul Simpson would start on the mound for Pampa.

The district champions will advance to the state tournament in Brownsville. The winner there returns to Pampa Aug. 1 for the regional tournament.

Pampa Team One is the host for the regional tourney and automatically drew a bye from district and state competition.

Team One members include Wade Howard, Matt Martindale, Brian Gordzelik, Dierk Milum, Paul Smethers, Bryan White, David Carter, Tim Woods, Brent Cryer, Ricky Cloud, Jay Snow, Jeff Gaines, Derek Coleman, Roy Waters, and Kelly Zeek.

The team is coached by Bob Johnson, Bill Kidwell, and Wayne Barkley.

Is Baylor going to play possum this season after winning the Southwest Conference title in 1980?

Apparently Texas Football magazine writers think so.

The magazine's summer edition picks Baylor to finish no better than fourth in the 1981 league race.

Baylor has some holes to fill on defense, but the Bears still maintain an explosive offense.

Running back Walter Abercrombie, the SWC's player of the year, veteran quarterback Jay Jeffrey, punishing blocker Dennis Gentry, and 245-pound tackle Bill Glass should help boost Baylor higher than fourth.

Texas Magazine doesn't figure Texas will take a nosedive this season. They pick the Longhorns to win it all.

Pampa High coach Larry Gilbert isn't upset because both Texas Football and Texas Sports pick the Harvesters to finish last in the final District 3-5A standings.

"It was to be expected, but we may surprise some people," Gilbert said. "The kids know its going to be a challenge for us."

Gilbert said the Harvester defense will have to cope with a lot of pressure early in the season.

"The defense is going to have to carry us early in the year until the offense can get a few games under their belts," he added.

Gilbert said all Harvester prospects have received a summer workout schedule to give them a head start on two-a-day workouts, beginning Aug. 17.

"Our weight room is also open and everyone in the program is invited to use the weights if a coach is present," he added.

Charles Tindall, who wore three coaching hats at Pampa, will be the head basketball coach at Archer City next season.

"Tindall assisted with football and basketball, and was head Harvester tennis coach this season.

"Charlie did a fine job here," Gilbert said. "He did everything you asked of him. It's every coaches dream to get a head job and I wish him luck."

If you run into someone twitching his head and swinging an imaginary bat, don't be alarmed. He's not having an epileptic seizure and please don't call the white coats. It's just a Major League baseball fan having withdrawal symptoms.

The pinfish is a rather nondescript, perch-like dweller of Texas coastal waters.

They don't grow very large, but that's no deterrent to those interested in catching a state record fish. Ronald L. Neill of League City holds the new state record with a one-pound, 14-ounce pinfish he caught May 22 off Galveston.

His fish replaced a one-pound, 10.4 ounce lunker landed in 1980, also off Galveston.

Entry date July 6 for softball tourney

Entry deadline is 5 p.m. Monday for the annual ASA District 8 Men's Open Slow Pitch Softball Tournament in Pampa.

The tournament is scheduled July 10-12 at Hobart Park. Entry fee is $85 and checks may be mailed to the City of Pampa, P.O. Box 2499, Pampa, Tex. 79065.

Softball will be furnished, but no metal cleats are allowed.

The tournament will be hosted by the Pampa Parks and Recreation Department.

WHAT TO TAKE? Mishelle inspects her collection of evening gowns and begins packing for her week - long trip to Fort Worth for the Miss Texas pageant and related activities. Sassy, her pet cat, seems to be saying that she would like to go, too.

MISHELLE SAVAGE
MISS TOP 'O TEXAS 1980

Miss Top 'O Texas to try for Miss Texas crown

Almost a year of preparation will culminate at the Miss Texas Pageant July 11 when Miss Top 'O Texas 1980, Mishelle Savage of Borger, competes for the state crown.

The 5'6", hazel - eyed ash blonde began buying dresses for the Miss Texas pageant the week after she was crowned Miss Top 'O Texas in Pampa on Aug. 16, 1980.

Shopping trips to Fort Worth and El Paso netted original designer gowns and dresses. But after a two - day search for a swimsuit suitable for competition, she finally found what she was looking for — in Borger.

But shopping is just one part of the preparation needed for a pageant. Mishelle has had makeup and hairstyling lessons with professionals and a session with her talent coach, and has been working on her mental attitude.

"You have to work on your mental attitude. You have to want to win," she said.

The 21 - year - old plans to play the first cadenza of Grieg's Piano Concerto in A Minor in talent competition. She played the composition in the talent section of the Miss Top 'O Texas pageant last year.

"Talent is my favorite part of a pageant. I'm 100 percent confident in that part," Mishelle said.

She has good reason to be confident. She was a piano student for 10 years, practicing four to eight hours per day, and won talent competition in Cinderella Girl pageants as a teenager. She was awarded a full music scholarship to North Texas State University during her first year of college.

"Now I just practice when I can. I've played this piece (the concerto) for some time now," she said.

One headache involved in preparing for the Miss Texas pageant has been a matter of distance. Mishelle lives in Canyon — she is a senior marketing major at West Texas State University — while her mother lives in Borger and her manager, Ron Graves, is in Pampa. Her coordinator, LaRona Maxwell, also lives in Borger. Mishelle is the daughter of Mrs. Claude Kuroki of Borger and the late Richard Savage.

No matter how much time is available to prepare for a pageant, it never seems to be enough.

"There's always a last - minute rush. Or maybe it's panic," Mishelle said.

When it's finally time to walk onstage, some parts of the pageant are not as much fun as others. Mishelle's least - favorite activity is the swimsuit competition, "because I'm just real modest, I guess."

The interview session doesn't bother her, however. "I don't dread the interview. I love all of it except for the swimsuit competition. Thank goodness that's the shortest amount of time on stage," she said.

"The interview is real important," she continued. "It's important that you be relaxed and intelligent about current events. Mr. Magness (B. Don Magness, director of the pageant) told me that you can't win the pageant in the interview, but you can sure lose it there."

Work doesn't end with the end of the pageant, at least not for the new Miss Texas. She will be involved in making appearances across the state, and in preparing for the Miss America pageant, which is held about two months later.

Win or lose, Mishelle says that being in pageants has been a valuable experience for her.

"I've gotten more self - discipline from being in pageants. It's also a learning experience. And I'm going to have a fantastic wardrobe after all this is over with!" she said.

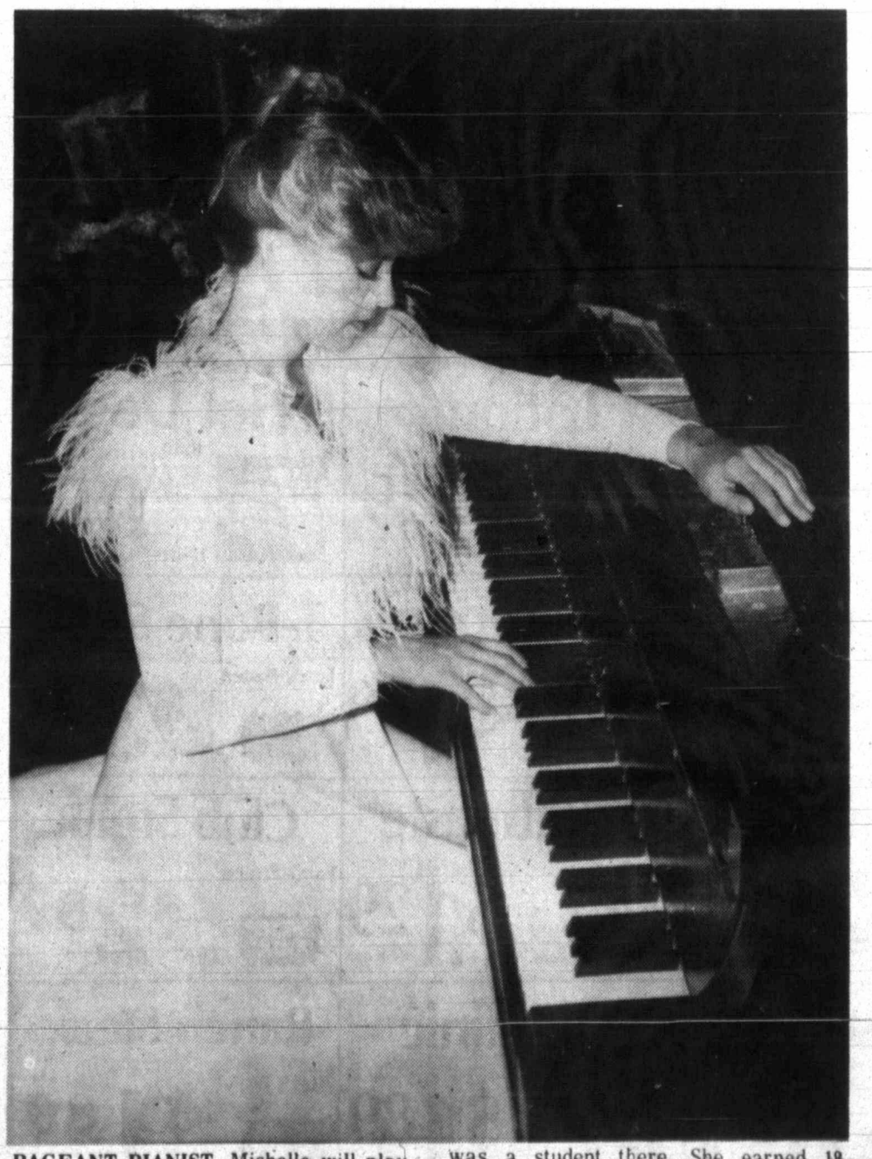

There have been disadvantages, too, such as tight schedules and no spare time.

But when she isn't working on pageants, Mishelle's activities include vice president of the women's residence hall council at WTSU and membership in Alpha Kappa Psi national professional business fraternity. She has been listed on the Dean's Honor Roll at WTSU for the past three semesters, and was nominated this year to the national dean's honor roll. She was also on the dean's honor roll twice while attending North Texas State University.

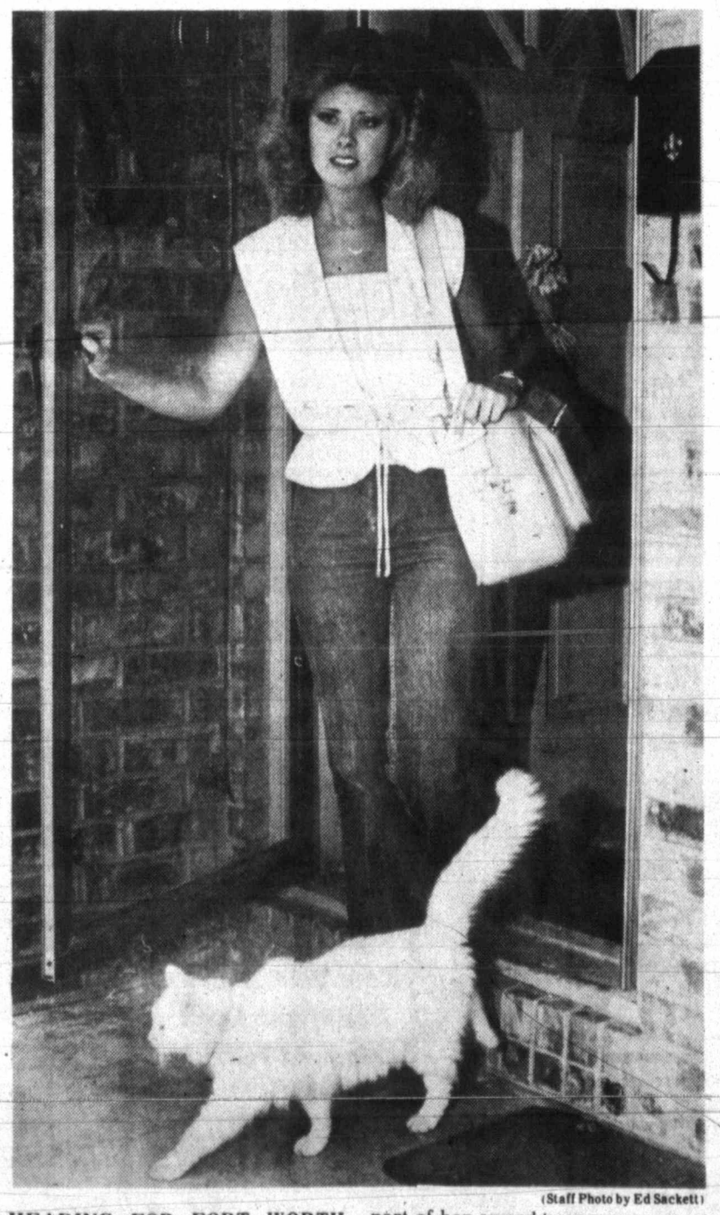

Her advice to girls dreaming of entering a pageant is, "Be sure that if you win, you're willing to take on all those responsibilities, because it entails a lot more than smiling and wearing that crown."

PAGEANT PIANIST. Mishelle will play the piano during the talent portion of the Miss Texas Pageant. She was elected outstanding pianist by the piano faculty of North Texas State University while she was a student there. She earned 18 consecutive superior ratings in UIL competition, and three superior ratings at state solo and ensemble piano contests.

HEADING FOR FORT WORTH. Mishelle left Borger for Fort Worth this weekend in time for the pre - pageant activities which begin Monday. The 1978 Borger High School graduate said she would use part of her award to earn a master's degree if she becomes the next Miss Texas. She has been competing in pageants since she was 17. Sassy escorts her out the front door.

BRENDA STANFORD AND DANIEL WESLEY

Stanford, Wesley to exchange vows

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stanford of Durant, Okla., formerly of Pampa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Dee, to Daniel Wesley.

Wesley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ottiss Wesley of Durant.

The couple plan to wed July 10 in Bible Baptist Church of Durant.

The bride - elect is a 1978 graduate of Clera, Okla. High School and is a student at Southeastern State University in Durant. Her grandparents are Mrs. Bonnie Burgess of Pampa and Mrs. Pearl Stanford of Higgins.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1978 graduate of Bryan County Christian Academy. He is employed by Tate Bros. Manufacturing in Durant.

Casey, Handren wed in Lubbock

Ann Michelle Casey and Patrick Handren were wed in an evening ceremony Friday in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church of Lubbock, with Father Mike O'Dwyer, priest of the church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leo Casey of Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Handren of Lubbock.

The bride wore a formal length gown of white organza with an off the shoulder neckline and a wide satin ribbon at the waistline. She wore a fingertip veil with a lace cap trimmed in star lace.

Attending the bride was Desiree Isom of Lockney. The bridegroom's attendant was Tom Hartman of Lubbock.

Colleen Handren, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest registry.

The bridegroom's brother, Tim Handren of Lubbock, was usher.

Music was provided by Bob Schroeder and Jay Cason, both of Lubbock.

A reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents following the ceremony. Servers were Diana Beaver, Rocky Cox and Reggie Petilo, all of Lubbock.

The couple will make their home in Corpus Christi following a honeymoon in Ruidoso, N.M.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Texas Tech University and will be employed this fall by the Corpus Christi school system as a resource teacher.

The bridegroom is a 1981 Texas Tech University graduate and is a petroleum engineer with Sun Gas Company in Corpus Christi.

Soaking solution

Don't be tempted to beat the summer heat by soaking in an ice-cold tub. Water temperature that low will only make you feel hotter! Instead, run warm water into the tub. Bath water that's about 90 to 99 degrees causes blood vessels to dilate so internal heat can be expelled at the body's surface. You'll feel cool and refreshed for several hours.

A close shave

The more you shave your legs in the summer, the drier they can get. Here's a great trick to keep them soft, smooth and silky. Simply fill a plant mister or an atomizer with baby oil, then gently spray your legs after shaving to seal in natural moisture. You can even spray on some oil whenever you wear shorts. Your legs will have a healthy glow.

Shoe-in

The best way to keep canvas shoes clean and attractive all summer is by preventing soil buildup. First, always spray new shoes with a fabric protector. When the first sign of dirt shows, use a sponge or small brush to wash the shoes. An effective cleanser is suds whipped up from mild dish detergent. Make your job easier by stuffing your shoes first with plain paper, (not newspaper). Be sure not to soak seams or stitching trim, which could bleed and stain your shoes.

Pool cue

Did you know about the special bonus a dip in a swimming pool can give people with oily, troubled skin? The chlorine in the water can actually help clear up skin problems by removing the excess oil that causes them. Even acne can be improved.

Dear Abby

Honesty is its own best reward

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have read your articles for years and you finally hit a topic that makes me see red. A man reported that he had found a wallet containing $140.

Twice I have found wallets, and once a checkbook (containing cash) in otherwise empty shopping carts. I personally delivered them to the owners. All three people counted their money and never even said "thanks." One even asked me why I hadn't turned in the wallet to the store!

As a hobby, I look for coins and jewelry with a metal locator and have found several class rings, some of which were very valuable. I read the lost-and-found ads in the newspaper and return whatever I find. Abby, would you believe, I have yet to receive a reward?

JOHN IN CLARENDON, ILL.

DEAR JOHN: "Virtue," it is said, "is its own reward." Your experience is surprising.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old boy who found a woman's wallet in plain sight in the parking lot next to a supermarket. It had $127 in it and the owner's name and address. I got back on my bike and rode right over to the lady's house, which was about a mile away. She was just getting out of her car when I got there. I told her that I found her wallet, and she gave me a big hug. After I handed it to her, she looked through it, then she pulled out a $20 bill and gave it to me. I thanked her politely and went home.

That evening I told my parents about it and my father said, "I don't think you should have accepted $20 for doing what you should have done. A person shouldn't be rewarded for being honest."

After thinking about it, I realized that my father was right, so the next day I biked over to the lady's house and gave her back the $20. She didn't want to take it, but I told her she had to — that my father pointed out something to me that I had never realized before. She got tears in her eyes, then she crossed herself and said, "This is one for Ripley."

Abby, who is Ripley?

DENNIS IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR DENNIS: Robert Ripley wrote a famous column titled "Believe It or Not." Bless you. And thanks for a terrific column piece.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Mr. X and I have been going together for two years. Although we don't have a wedding date set, it is understood that we will be married sometime in the future, which means we are "engaged," right? Here is the problem:

When Mr. X receives an invitation from friends or family, for a party or wedding, it's always for "Mr. X and guest." This indicates that they don't care who he brings. In other words, they don't care whether I attend or not.

When I get invitations from my friends or family, my fiance's name is always included along with mine, indicating that they want him.

When I complained to Mr. X., he said I was being immature to let it bother me and it was no big deal. Abby, to me it is a very big deal. Don't you agree that the "and guest" type of invitation my fiance receives is an insult to me? And how should this be remedied?

JUST THE GUEST

DEAR GUEST: The "and guest" invitation indicates that your fiance's friends and family may not be aware that he is officially engaged to you. And the obvious remedy is for him to set them straight. If he doesn't, perhaps you are not as "engaged" as you think you are.

Leftover syrup becomes punch

SNACKTIME FARE
Fruit Punch Cookies

FRUIT PUNCH

We've been asked how to use leftover syrup from canned fruit. Here's one way.

1 cup syrup from canned fruit (any kind)
1 cup red grape juice
1 cup orange juice
1-3rd cup lemon juice
2-3rds cup water

Mix together all the ingredients. Chill. Makes 4 large or 8 small servings.

Keep hair looking pretty through summer months

It's vacation time . . . the season for soaking up the sun . . . dips in the pool . . . bicycling along the lake.

It's fun, but it's also murder on hair! Now, more than ever, is the time to give tresses plenty of tender, loving care.

Start with a good haircut that will be easy to keep up through a summer of fun and sun. A hairstylist can help choose a "wash and wear" do that's right for your particular type of hair.

Counteract any damage from the sun, salt air or pool water by instant - conditioning hair each time you shampoo; and always shampoo after swimming.

If hair tends to get frizzy, use the latest combs and barrettes to keep those locks under control. If hair tends to get limp, give it more body with a mild perm.

Planning a trip? Be sure to include hair care on your list of "things to do." Pack along some plastic bottles containing your favorite shampoo and conditioner, or sample sizes, plus some clever cover - ups such as pretty scarves and coated elastic bands.

Dykes, Phillips wed in evening ceremony

Dana Ruth Dykes became the bride of Lonnie Eugene Phillips in a recent evening ceremony in Barrett Baptist Church of Pampa, with the Rev. Ronald Harpster, pastor of Pampa Church of the Brethren, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Dykes of 1220 E. Foster. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Phillips of 416 N. Sumner.

The bride wore an ivory Quiana gown trimmed with re-embroidered lace, seed pearls and glass beads. The gown featured a Queen Victoria neckline, cathedral train and candlestick sleeves. The bride wore a chapel length veil.

Attending the bride were Angella Palmer of Tyler, and Jan Kerbo and Misty Edwards, both of Pampa.

The bridegroom's attendants were Malcolm Crawford of Snyder, and David Haesle and Clint Miller, both of Pampa.

Music was provided by Wanetta Hill, Estelle Malone and the bride, all of Pampa.

Ushers were Mickey Bynum and Jeff Fletcher, both of Pampa.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony. Servers were Shirley Crawford of Abilene, Maxine Palmer of Tyler and Linda Eddleman of Amarillo.

The couple will make their home at 309 Sunset Drive following a honeymoon in Fort Worth and Dallas.

The bride is a 1981 Pampa High School graduate and is employed by Steven J. Davis, D.O., P.A.

The bridegroom is a 1978 Pampa High School graduate and attended Angelo State University in San Angelo. He is employed by Titan Specialties of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Wilson of 2336 Duncan announce the engagement of their daughter, Cathi Lynn, to Ricky Allen Knight.

Knight is the son of Leroy Knight of Odessa and Liz Craft of Clarendon.

The couple plan to wed July 31 in the home of her parents.

The bride-elect is a 1981 Pampa High School graduate.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1979 Pampa High School graduate and is employed by Golden Spread Roustabout Service of Pampa.

MRS. JOHN EUGENE SPRADLING III

Langham, Spradling recite vows Saturday

Kellie Rae Langham became the bride of John Eugene Spradling III in an afternoon ceremony Saturday in First Baptist Church of Pampa, with the Rev. Claude Cone, pastor, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Dr. and Mrs. Wes Langham of Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Spradling of Roswell, N.M.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon with a Queen Anne neckline trimmed in lace. Long straight sleeves edged in lace came to a point over each hand. Her veil was edged with pearls.

Attending the bride were her sister, Kristie Morris of Muleshoe; Julie Smith of Casper, Wyo.; Stacy Wilkerson of Odessa; and Christy Smith of Ennis.

The bridegroom's attendants were his brothers, Tom Spradling of Waxahachie and Bob Spradling of Roswell, N.M.; Ray Spradling, cousin of the bridegroom, of Plainview; and Dennis Carter of Dallas.

Music was provided by the bride's brother, Guy Langham of Atlanta, Ga.; Jan Carter of Dallas; and Mrs. Charles Parr of Pampa.

Debbie Spradling, sister of the bridegroom, of Roswell, N.M., was candle lighter. Flower girls were the bride's niece, Meagan Morris of Muleshoe, and the bridegroom's niece, Jennifer Spradling of Waxahachie. Ring bearer was the bridegroom's niece, April Spradling of Roswell, N.M.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. Servers were Annette Wilkerson of Odessa, Paulette Craig of White Deer and Barbara Burns of Claude.

The couple will make their home in Dumas.

The bride is a graduate of Wayland Baptist College and is employed by the Texas Department of Human Resources in Dumas.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Wayland Baptist College and is employed by the Texas Department of Human Resources in Dumas.

Families hold reunions

HORTON FAMILY

The children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Horton, long-time Pampa residents, had a family reunion recently in the Shrine building.

Nine of the couple's 11 children, and their families, attended. Seven of the 11 children reside in Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Horton moved to Pampa in 1927. They were members of the Pampa Baptist Temple, and he was employed in construction work. Mr. Horton died in 1974, and Mrs. Horton died in 1980.

Eighty-five relatives from Texas, California, Oregon, Oklahoma, Illinois, Missouri and Colorado attended.

TERRY FAMILY

The annual James Levi - John Henry Terry family reunion was held recently in Clyde Carruth Pavilion in Pampa.

The late Owen Terry was represented by 26 of those present. Sixteen family members of the late Henry Clay Terry attended.

The youngest descendant present was Candi Terry of Pampa. The oldest direct descendant present was Orville Terry of Pampa, who was also the only first generation descendant present.

Those traveling the farthest to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Underwood and family of Evermân.

Others attended from Skellytown, McLean, Amarillo, Ponca City, Okla., Spearman and Leedey, Okla.

Prepare winter supply of peaches

By ELAINE HOUSTON
County Extension Agent

PRESSURE CANNER TESTING

Pressure canner gauges will be tested all day Wednesday, July 8 in the County Extension office. Bring canner lids or weighted gauges and they will be tested free. Those who are waiting for a gauge to be tested may browse through the bulletin display racks. This is a free service available from the Gray County Extension Service.

CANNING PEACHES

It is peach season again. Do you have a surplus or can you purchase them at a reasonable price? You can have them any time of the year by canning them.

For those who haven't canned before, here's how:

Wash and peel them just as you would prepare them to be eaten fresh, or plunge them in boiling water for 2 minutes or until the skins slip. They can be halved or sliced, but be sure to remove the pits.

Pack the peaches into clean jars, leaving ½ inch at top of the jars. Cover with boiling syrup made with 2 cups sugar to 4 cups water. For a sweeter syrup, add more sugar. Wipe off the sealing surface of the jar and close according to the type of lid being used.

Place the jars in a boiling water bath canner, which is a large container with a rack in the bottom to hold the jars about one inch from the bottom. It should be tall enough to have space to cover the jars with about one to two inches of water and about the same amount of space above the water.

The water should be hot but not boiling when the filled jars are placed in the canner. Place lid on canner and bring the water to a rolling boil, but reduce the heat just to boiling. This prevents the juice from being drawn out of the jars.

Boil pint jars 25 minutes and quart jars 35 minutes.

Remove the jars from the water bath and let them cool, away from a draft. The peaches can also be canned without sugar.

If your family loves jam, be sure to use some of the peaches for jelly and jam. To make peach jam, use the following recipe:

2 quarts (1900 ml) crushed, peeled peaches
½ cup (120 ml) water
6 cups (1440 ml) sugar

Combine peaches and water; cook gently 10 minutes. Add sugar; slowly bring to boiling, stirring occasionally until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly until thick, about 15 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Pour, boiling hot, into hot jars, leaving ¼ inch (6 mm) head space. Adjust caps. Process 15 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield: about 4 pints.

NOTE: For Spiced Peach Jam, follow Peach Jam above except add to jam during cooking, spice bag tied in cheesecloth, containing the following ingredients:

1 teaspoon (5 ml) whole cloves
½ teaspoon (2.5 ml) whole allspice
1 stick cinnamon

Remove spice bag before pouring jam into jars. Process as shown above.

For more information about home food preservation, contact the County Extension office, located in the courthouse annex, or call 669-7429.

MRS. RONALD WAYNE GUDGEL

Batton, Gudgel wed in evening ceremony

Shannon Batton and Ronald Wayne Gudgel were wed in a recent double - ring candlelight ceremony in First Methodist Church of Mobeetie, with the bride's uncle, the Rev. Mark Arrington of Dallas, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Batton of Mobeetie. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gudgel of Mobeetie.

The bride wore a formal length gown of ivory organza. The bodice, trimmed in Venise lace and seed pearls, featured a scalloped sweetheart neckline. Venise appliques were scattered over the skirt, which was joined to a wide crystal pleated ruffle by a border of lace which continued to chapel length.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Jamee Batton of Mobeetie; Miss Cleo Lynn Batton of Schererville, Ind.; Donna Quarles and Tammy Densberger, both of Mobeetie; and Stefanie Byrum of Miami.

The bridegroom's attendants were his brother, Gerald Gudgel of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Jim Bass of Dalhart; Keith Roberson of Lefors; and Greg Estes and Stephen Batton, both of Mobeetie.

Music was provided by Mrs. Carla Sims of Mobeetie, and Jeff Summerford and Miss Kim Dyson, both of Sayre, Okla.

Guests were registered by Miss Stephanie Binnion of Midland. Miss Janet Byrum of Miami was flower girl.

Candle lighters were Scott Lancaster of Wray, Colo. and Doug Binnion of Midland. Ring bearer was Jason Gudgel of Oklahoma City, Okla.

A reception was held in the church's fellowship hall following the ceremony. Servers were Sheryl Estes and Carol Lester, both of Mobeetie; Vicki Robertson of Texas City; and Melissa Hall of White Deer. Rice baskets were carried by Kerry Gudgel of Oklahoma City, Okla., Shelly Lancaster of Wray, Colo., and Betsie Binnion of Midland.

The couple will make their home in Midland following a honeymoon in Vermajo Park and other areas of New Mexico.

The bride is a graduate of Mobeetie High School and plans to attend college in Midland during the coming year.

The bridegroom is a 1977 graduate of Mobeetie High School and a 1981 West Texas State University graduate. He is employed by Exxon Corporation in Midland.

Pedicure helps put best foot forward

NEW YORK (NEA) - Out now from under wraps, your feet are visible, whether on the beach or in this summer's colorful sandals. The Footwear Council wants to help you put your best foot forward with a pedicure regime.

Always do a pedicure right after bathing, when the foot is still damp. Using a cotton-wrapped orangewood stick, gently push back cuticles and clean under nails. Apply cuticle remover lotion and rub with towel to remove excess. Trim nails straight across, as tapering can cause an ingrown nail.

Stroking in one direction only, gently smooth nail edges with an emery board, rough side first, fine side to finish. Now gently rub callused or rough areas of the foot with a wet pumice stone. Finish by stroking on a moisturizing body lotion from the toes up to the ankle.

If polish is to be applied, start by cleaning nails well with polish remover. Separate toes with twists of tissue and apply base coat, polish and top coat just as with finger nails. The Footwear Council advises that pale colors are more attractive on toes than brights or darks.

Final foot beautifiers are such exercises as picking up a pencil with your toes or walking on the beach barefoot.

Million-dollar look

The new walking shorts are perfect for a warm summer day in the city. This style of shorts is longer, usually down to the top of the knee, and often has tailored details, such as front pleats and trouser pockets. Wear your walking shorts with a pretty cotton blouse and a lightweight jacket. Balance the longer length with a pair of lacy cotton knee socks and dressy loafers. You'll look like a million for a whole lot less.

Double hominy puff uses whole hominy, grits

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

MEATLESS SUPPER
Double Hominy Puff

Fig Pudding Beverage

OUR DOUBLE HOMINY PUFF

Our latest inspiration — using whole hominy with hominy grits.

2½ cups water
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup quick-cooking hominy grits
3 tablespoons butter, soft
2 large eggs, separated
16-ounce can whole white hominy, well drained

In a medium saucepan bring the water and salt to a boil. Gradually stir in the grits; cover and boil gently, stirring often, until thickened — about 5 minutes. Off heat, whisk in the butter until melted, then the egg yolks, one at a time. Stir in the whole hominy. Beat the egg whites until they hold stiff peaks; fold into the grits mixture. Turn into a well-buttered round 2- to 2½-quart souffle dish or casserole (about 8 by 2 or 3 inches). Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned — a silver knife inserted in the center will not come out clean but the center will feel set — 30 minutes. Serve at once with lots of butter. Makes 6 main-dish servings.

Peeking at Pampa

Heard a lot of ladies say they like to read about the parties in town, where they are, what the decorations are, the lovely dresses, etc.

Well, let me tell you that the Pampa Club President's Ball was the hit of the summer season. Two presidents were honored — Elmer D. Wilson, outgoing, and Otis Nace, incoming. Board members were also guests.

The party was held in the Heritage Room and dress was formal. Heard that the ladies' dresses were something to see. Impressions related to me were:

Dorothy Gardner, an outstanding beauty in shimmering silver, a rich complement to her slim figure and lovely hair . . . Freda LeMond's gorgeous pink gown . . . Lucille Foster's white skirt with black lace top . . . Betty Casey, a sweet - dream lady . . . Laura and Floyd Imel, both in white, a striking couple, always popular . . . Rex McKay's wife in pale blue that blended well with Rex's elegant suede jacket . . . Jessie Newberry in black and white ruffles . . . Billie Cash, minus Bill (he was on a fishing trip) smartly dressed as always and giving everybody her beautiful smile . . .

The president's lady in a white and gold formal with gold accessories . . . Sally and Bud Brainerd, a delight to know, with Sally's bright eyes adding zest to any party . . . Joe Gordon with two of his granddaughters, attractive and vivacious girls, a joy to meet . . . Pat Marcum's lovely upswept hairdo (she's a real beauty) and her admiring escort, Bob Johnson . . . Darlene and Bill Toland, happy and carefree, loving everybody . . .

Music for dancing was by Tiffany Brass, an excellent orchestra, splendidly attired in light blue and gray tuxes. Their girl singer (such a lovely voice) was in flowered chiffon.

Hors d'oeuvres (really a delectable dinner) were served throughout the evening. Chef Baker's culinary creations were much enjoyed. Must have been a marvelous evening.

Understand Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Scott (she's the former Joyce Cambern, you know) are home from their wedding trip to Europe. Friends say they look wonderful and are enthusiastic about the glories of Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Germany. Took a new tour every day, by motor coach. Loved the castles and the magnificent fields of flowers, one spread over 40 acres. Said the bus drivers and tour guides were well informed and educated, some of them working on Ph.D.s.

A smallish party was the one given by Carolyn Copeland for her husband, Dean. In fact, only the two of them were there. Since Dean is only a speck older than Carolyn, she said, "For six months I'll be married to an older man!" Hope Dean has so many more birthdays that he can't count them.

Heard that Rotary's Installation Banquet was an evening to remember. Jerry Carlson, with Sherry at his side, passed the presidency to George Warren, accompanied by his wife, Nell. Former Pampan Melvin Kunkel installed the officers — and made much fun for all by exchanging jibes with Gary Stevens. Gary brought down the house with his "Ode to Rotary Anns." Rex McAnelly, a real wit and at home on the stage, added humor.

The program was by Blue Grass Five, local musicians who are becoming well - known over the area. Brian Vining and his wife head the group that puts out the toe - tapping numbers. Their country - western shirts of red and white were as fetching as Brian's smile and his wit.

Here and there about town, to be noticed and admired: Travis Lively Sr.'s meaningful invocations — and his pleasure in the visit of his son, Lamar, and family, from Amarillo . . . Julia Sparkman's beautiful smile, as bright as her eyes . . . Joe and Irene Gidden, both so friendly . . . Tommy and Shirley Clark, so youthful in looks and attitude . . .

Heard a Pampa man remark that we have two "Angels" here. I looked it up and, sure enough, we do — Jesse D. and Terry. Same man who noticed the names and remembered that, during World War II, he knew a soldier named Andrew Angel from a western town somewhere called Paradise. So, when anybody asked him his name, he answered truthfully, "I'm A. Angel from Paradise!"

See you next week. Keep as cool as possible! PAM.

Kill pests; use proper fertilizer

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent

GARDEN INSECTS

Squash bugs (usually several pairs) can be found in area squash. Start control measures now and stay with it until you are tired of squash or tired of controlling the squash bug. Frequent application of Sevrin(R) provides effective control.

ORNAMENTAL INSECTS

Currently bagworms and elm leaf beetles are the biggest problem in ornamentals. Control measures should have already been applied to control these pests; however, it is not too late to start. One thorough foliar application should control bagworms, while several foliar applications through the summer will be required to control successive generations of elm leaf beetles.

PROPER VEGETABLE FERTILIZER

Applying proper amounts of fertilizer at the right time is vital to producing a garden full of fresh, tasty vegetables.

This makes the right amount of nutrients available to plants throughout the growing season.

One heavy application of fertilizers is not enough. It's better to apply moderate amounts prior to planting, then supplemental amounts (called side dressing), during the growing season.

Side dressing usually means applying fertilizer, generally containing nitrogen only, beside the rows or in a circle around growing plants.

The rate and timing of side - dress applications is important. Unless otherwise specified, ¼ to ½ cup of ammonium sulfate (21-0-0) per 10 feet of row is adequate for most crops.

Information concerning the best time to side dress specific vegetable crops is outlined below:

— Asparagus: Immediately after the end of harvest.

— Beans (snap, wax, lima): After plants flower and set first fruit.

— Beets: When 4 to 6 inches tall, with 1 tablespoon of fertilizer per 10 feet of row.

— Carrots: When 4 inches tall, with 2 tablespoons of fertilizer per 10 feet of row. Repeat when 8 inches tall if tops pale.

— Crucifers (cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower): Every three weeks after planting.

— Leafy greens (lettuce, endive, mustard, spinach, collards, kale): After several sets of true leaves are formed.

— Okra: Three weeks after harvesting begins.

— Onions: when five to six leaves have formed.

— Potatoes: When 6 to 8 inches tall.

— Sweet potatoes: In July.

— Sweet corn: When 8 to 12 inches tall, with 1 cup fertilizer per 10 feet of row.

— Tomatoes, peppers, eggplants: When first fruits are small, with 1 level tablespoon per plant. Repeat every four weeks.

Vine crops (cantaloupe, cucumber, watermelon, squash, pumpkin): When vines are 1 foot long, with 1 level tablespoon per plant.

Whenever side dressing, avoid getting fertilizer on plant foliage, and always water thoroughly after each application.

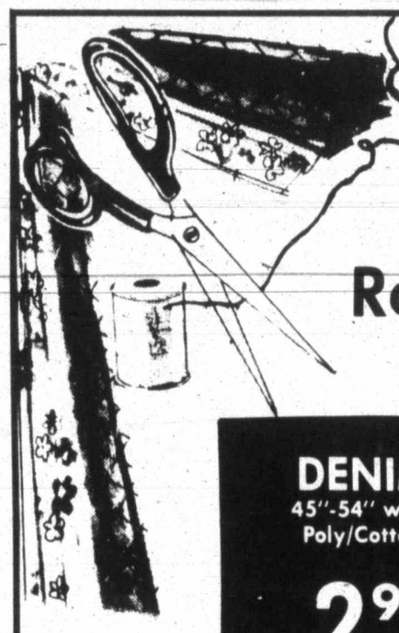

There are three important advantages to side dressing when done properly: (1) It helps prevent delayed fruit set caused by excessive nitrogen too early in the season; (2) It significantly increases yields; and (3) It results in healthier, stronger plants with fewer pest problems.

As an aid in growing vegetables, remember that a fertilizer usually contains three materials as listed on the bag in the following order — percentages by weight of nitrogen (N), phosphorus (P) and potassium (K). Since most Texas soils are low in nitrogen, medium to high in phosphorus and high in potassium, it's best to use fertilizers high in nitrogen with little or no phosphorus and potassium. Of course, it's also a good idea to get garden soil tested.

To reconcile these facts into an effective fertilization program, the following are suggested:

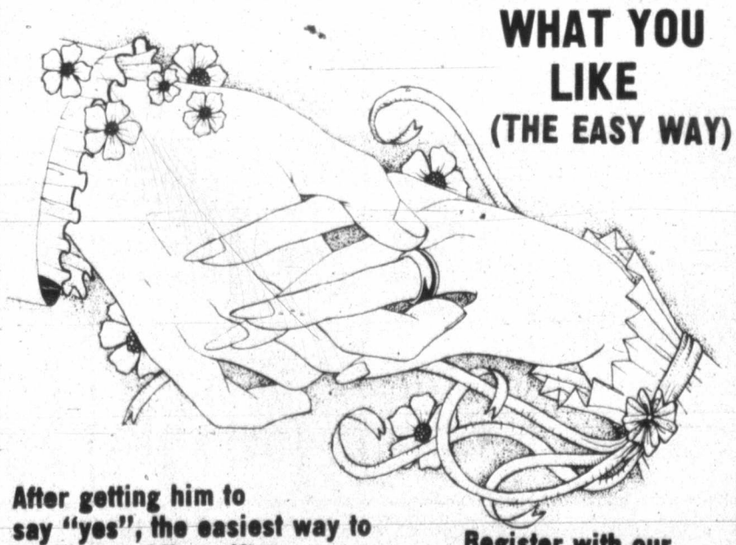

— Apply 1 to 2 pounds of complete fertilizer with a high nitrogen content per 100 square feet prior to planting.

— Side dress with a nitrogen - only fertilizer, such as ammonium sulfate (21-0-0), at the proper time during the growing season.

Try pet sitting for change of pace

By LOUISE PIERCE

"DEAR LOUISE: K. and I are retired and in reasonably good health. But we're bored with our humdrum life — and even get bored with each other sometimes. If our grandchildren lived close, we'd neighbor with them. And if our dear old cat and dog hadn't died, we'd enjoy them. But, as it is, we're alone with nothing much to be interested in. Can you tell us how to pep

DEAR W.V.: Since you like children and pets, you might want to do baby sitting in your home. If you told somebody, anybody, that you were available, I'm sure you would be flooded with takers.

If child sitting doesn't appeal to you, why not try pet sitting? According to the Wall Street Journal (article by Lawrence Rout, April 30, 1980), a lady named Jeanne Tusler founded what she calls Pet Vacations, Inc., a few years ago. Since then she has arranged for more than 600 dogs and cats to stay from one night to six months in her clients' homes.

The service costs $6 to $7 a night plus food, and has become so popular that the iade has spread to other cities.

This is a personalized service that delights pet owners. Miss Tusler prepares impressive questionnaires for the owners to fill out — pet's name and breed along with pleasures and preferences. She says, "If the pet is used to sleeping with its owner, we find a place where it can plop into bed with somebody."

One such pet loved an egg every Sunday and cottage cheese in her food. Her master said, "Kennels wouldn't do that for her. But Pet Vacations will."

Another pet is a fast - food addict. His sitter takes him to McDonald's for hamburgers, French fries and malteds. She says, "He goes absolutely wild when he sees those golden arches."

Miss Tusler found many of her vacation sitters among senior citizens. An elderly couple named Hecht cared for 154 dogs and cats in four years of sitting. They don't want to own pets but they love animals. Mrs. Hecht says, "Our dogs mean more to us than membeis of our families."

The Hechts treat their dogs with familial affection. A basket of toys is always awaiting canine visitors. If a pet is with them at birthday time, they have a little party, with a cupcake and a candle, a little toy and a birthday card. As she puts it, "A kennel just wouldn't do that."

Might this be going overboard to keep pets happy? I think not — if you want to be happily busy and if you love pets.

If you don't fancy pet sitting or child care, you might sent out the word that you will care for plants while owners are away. I know people whose plants ha ong — and who can't find friends or relatives who will take on the care of African violets. I think you would find takers in this field.

There is opportunity for almost any extra s ommunity. Find one which suits you, tell a friend to tell a friend — and you should find happy togetherness as well as freedom from boredom in your new work.

"DEAR LOUISE: A few weeks ago our dog died. He was the best pet we ever had and my wife sits and cries all day about losing him. What can I do to get her to quit carrying on about it? T.H."

DEAR T.H.: See the above letter, offered to W.V. Caring for others' pets might take your wife's mind off her own loss.

If this holds no pleasure for her, you might try the plan that friends of ours used when their children were growing up. They had a kitten named Fluffy that the whole family adored.

Eventually Fluffy lived out her life span and died. When that happened, the parents searched kennels and homes to find the cat that looked most like her. The kids took to the new pet because she looked too much like Fluffy for them to resist her purrs.

This happened many times. In every instance, the new kitten fit right into the family. Now the kids are grown and gone — but their pa

"DEAR LOUISE: We let a young couple live in our house while we were gone on a two weeks' vacation. They let their three cats tear up the place. They riddled the drapes, scratched the walls and did a lot more damage. Can we sue these people? W.R."

DEAR W.R.: I'm not a legal authority, so you'd better consult a lawyer about your chances of collecting. My opinion, is that the offenders should pay you.

Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Man admits plane debris lying about

MENA, Ark. (AP) — A Little Rock man was in jail at Polk County Saturday after he admitted he lied about seeing the wreckage of a single-engine plane, police said.

"When confronted with discrepancies in his story, he admitted that the information he had provided was a hoax perpetrated on the assumption that should the aircraft be found, he could collect the $10,000 reward being offered by the families of the missing men," said Sheriff A.L. Hadaway of Polk County.

The 18-year-old man was arrested Friday, Hadaway said. No charges have been filed.

Paul Strand and Ray Haugen, both 50 and of Decorah, Iowa, were returning to Decorah frmm Brownsville, Texas, when their plane apparently crashed. They had refueled in Paris, Texas, and are believed to have crashed in the Ouachita or Kiamichi mountains during a thunderstorm.

The teen-ager had told authorities Monday that he spotted the wreckage while hiking on Black Fork Mountaih near Mena. Authorities searched for the wreckage for three days before quitting Thursday.

"It sure had us going there for awhile," said Chief Deputy Jimmie Jacobs.

Strand's family had offered a $10,000 reward if the wreckage could be found by Tuesday. The reward was reduced to $5,000 and will be dropped if the wreckage isn't found by July 31.

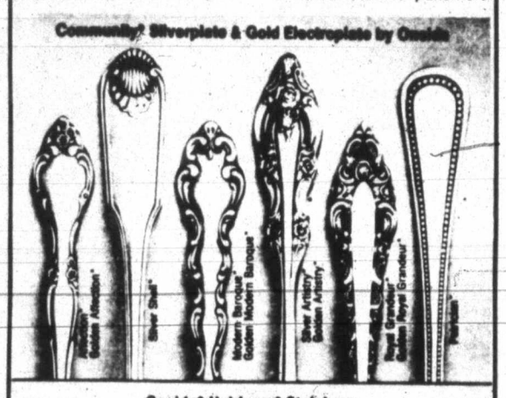

The Civil Air Patrol initially searched for the plane for a week before dropping its flights because leads were exhausted. The search has been called off for now, Jacobs said Saturday, until more leads can be developed.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective July 21, 1981, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 15.8 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio tambien afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

Timing was bad when three blacks drowned

DISCUSSES DROWNINGS: Alice Cotton Jesse, 74, discusses the drownings of three black youths who drowned while in custody of the Limestone County Sheriff's office on the night of June 19th. "Some mistakes were made," she said, choosing her words carefully. "It was sad. There were mixed emotions, some think one thing, some another. But, in my heart I don' think they meant any harm to those boys."

MEXIA, Texas (AP) — The timing could hardly have been worse.

It was June 19, "Juneteenth," anniversary of the day Texas blacks learned of their freedom from slavery. Irony thus would compound tragedy.

Along the banks of Lake Mexia, hundreds of blacks celebrated with song and dance, food and drink. The revelry and rejoicing spilled into the night.

Before midnight, two sheriff's deputies and a probation officer arrested three young blacks for alleged drug violations. At least two were handcuffed.

The officers loaded the teenagers into a 14-foot metal boat which contained neither lifejackets nor the capacity for six adults.

Some claim the handcuffs were removed. Others claim they were not.

Perhaps 35 feet off shore, the boat capsized. The officers survived. The three young men drowned.

The public outcry was predictable, although one arresting officer was black.

Despite the absence of hard evidence, many now contend the arrest of the teenagers was racially motivated and their deaths just barely short of murder.

The tragedy cast a racial cloud over a small Central Texas town and plunged the Limestone County Sheriff's Department into a virtual state of seige. Perception of what happened became perhaps as important as what actually happened.

Reporters, suspecting a major racial story, poured into the area from in and out of state.

At mid-week, a Houston legislator claimed the sheriff's office was "directly responsible" for the drownings and actively engaged in a monsterous coverup.

Whatever the eventual investigative outcome, it's a safe bet that Mexia and the sheriff's office will be permanently scarred by the tragedy.

"It is," said one observer, "the classic no-win situation."

At 74, Alice Cotton Jessie is a widely respected and delightfully unasuming pillar of the Mexia community, a black woman of charm and compassion.

The Cottons descended from African slaves, and her late brother, Walter, wrote the only history of blacks in Limestone County.

A schoolteacher for nearly half a century, Miss Jessie, as she is called, has seen Mexia at its best and worst, including the transition to integration.

"I said then, in the 1960s, to give them a little time, that the kids would work it out better than the grownups," she recalled this week.

And, she added, the relationship between Mexia blacks and whites has been "remarkable."

And while 30 percent of the town's 7,000-plus population is black, racial incidents have been almost non-existent in recent years, she said.

For 72 of her 74 years, she recalled, she has spent Juneteenth on the banks of Lake Mexia, at what is now the privately owned Booker T. Washington Park.

But she remembered nothing so tragic as the events of last June 19.

"Some mistakes were made," she said, choosing her words carefully. "It was sad. There are mixed emotions. Some think one thing, some another.

"But in my heart I don't think they meant any harm to those boys. I think something happened that nobody thought could happen. With that many people out there, you need law enforcement.

"It was just an unfortunate affair."

The "facts" of the Lake Mexia episode are well known, largely misunderstood and certainly open to a variety of interpretation.

For starters, one might reasonably wonder why a 23-year-old deputy, a jailer and a probation officer were arresting people in the first place.

One could also question the wisdom of herding the suspects into a small boat, with a 600-pound capacity, for delivery to a sheriff's department command post across the lake.

Finally, and most importantly, how was it that the three officers survived and the three youths did not?

Two of the youngsters, Carl Baker, 19, and Stephen Booker, 19, reputedly were good swimmers. Anthony Freeman, 18, was not. Friends said he was "scared to death" of the water.

Baker and Freeman lived in Mexia. Booker, a former Mexia resident, lived in Dallas.

The "official" party that night included Kenny Elliott, 23, a white sheriff's deputy who refused to testify at a court of inquiry last week.

He invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination, as did Kenneth Archie, a black reserve deputy and fulltime jailer.

The third man, David Drummond, an adult probation officer, provided the court the only eyewitness account of the arrest and subsequent drownings.

He said he accompanied the deputies into the park to purchase soft drinks and was merely an on-looker when Elliott arrested the youths on suspicion of marijuana possession.

Drummond said two of the youths were handcuffed together, but that the handcuffs were removed before or as soon as they got into the boat.

A number of people in and out of the courtroom insist the youngsters were handcuffed when they drowned, but autopsies indicated otherwise.

According to Drummond, and to statements Archie made that night, attempts were made to save the victims, and Freeman at least once was lifted atop the overturned boat, which was afloat.

He slipped off, they said.
