STILES OUSTER A HARDSHIP ON RED R. SURVEY

Reclamation Engineer Must Organize Force To Continue The Work

IN WICHITA COUNTY

His Opposition to Topographic Proposal is Responsible for Rejection

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9.—A. A. Stiles, state reclamation engineer for 15 years, whose retirement will follow the confirmation of B. F. Williams of Kaufman, whose name was submitted to the senate by Governor Ferguson Monday, will continue as the Texas representative on the Red river boundary commission, under appointment of the U. S. supreme court, with approximately a year's unfinished work.

He will also be the state's chief witness in the Texas-New Mexico 100th meredian suit, on the state's suit for oil land in the bed of the San Marcos river in the Luling field and other litigation.

Political controversies, said to have grown out of his opposition two years ago to the $600,000 topographic survey program, are said to have resulted in the rejection of Major Stiles. "Stiles must organize a "miniature reclamation department," to complete the Red river surveys and reports, he told Governor-Elect Ferguson.

Assisted by half the entire reclamation department, Stiles was just finishing at the first of this year the work of the upper portion of the boundary work in Wichita county.

He has just taken up the examination and partial survey of all the Red river boundary from the Panhandle to Texarkana, nearly 600 miles, which it is estimated will take at least a year.

HE CONFESSES ERROR KILLED OHIO STUDENT

Took "Quinine" From Laboratory; But It Was Strychnine

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 9.—Lewis Fish, Canton, Ohio, tonight told authorities investigating the death of two Ohio State university students and the serious illness of many others from capsules of strychnine, that he had filled the prescription of David Pusken, Canton, Ohio, student at the university's laboratories. Puskin died from strychnine poisoning.

Arrested Monday.

Fish was arrested tonight and is being held for investigation. Fish told officials that he had entered the college dispensary without authority and filled a prescription for Puskin for "six R and W, (six red or aspirin capsules and six white or quinine capsules)," issued by Dr. H. Shindlewingert, head of the university health service.

In addition to the strychnine capsules which caused Puskin's death, another capsule was found in his possession which when analyzed was found to contain nothing but strychnine.

Fish declared he had "held back" because he did not wish "notoriety" in connection with the investigation.

Fish a friend of Puskin said that Puskin had come to him complaining of a cold and that he volunteered to go to the colege dispensary and get some medicine, and when refused admission by attendants in charge, went in another door and got the "quinine capsules" and gave them to Puskin.

Both From Canton.

Both boys are from the same city, Canton.

Fish maintained he obtained the capsules which he gave Puskin from the quinine bottle and that he was sure the poisonous capsules which caused Pusken's death came from the quinine bottle.

Officials pointed out that Fish was the first student to work in the dispensary during the week when other strychnine capsules were issued.

Fish also told officials he left Columbus last Friday night, January 29 but that on his arrival at his home in Canton, he at once returned to Columbus. His explanation for this action, officials said was "I didn't want to stick around Canton."

CAVE VICTIM'S HEART BEATING 26 PER MINUTE

Physician Says Fast Respiration Proves He Gasps For Breath

BUT HE STILL LIVES

When Night Came Monday Miners Had Sunk Shaft About 33 Feet

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 9—(AP)—As preparations got under way late today for a military investigation of the situation at Sand Cave where Floyd Collins has been entombed since Friday, Jan. 30, miners digging a new entrance to the cave reached approximately the half way point. Tests with sound amplifiers indicating that Collins lives, despite his more than 10 days' entombment revived hopes that the imprisoned man may yet be rescued alive.

Court of Inquiry

A military court, called by Governor W. J. Field, will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to make an inquiry into rescue work done and circumstaces surrounding Collins' imprisonment. Brigadier General H. H. Denhardt who is in command of the situation, will conduct the inquiry. M. E. S. Posey, personal representative of the governor said. All witnesses available will be heard in an endeavor to get at the bottom of the many rumors and charges that have been current here as the rescue work progressed.

As night settled over the barren country hills, the workers were digging at around 33 feet. The test drill had reached a depth of 70 feet when the testing was discontinued for the present. Hard rock had been struck at that depth. The probability that Collins still was alive was given credence late today when Dr. William Hazlett of Chicago stated that Collins was alive and that he was not suffering from pneumonia.

Uses Amplifier

Dr. Hazlett made the statement after the sound amplifier had been attached to the electric wiring leading back to the victim's head and a test made.

"The test proved conclusively that Collins was breathing at the rate of 22 to 26 times a minute," said the surgeon. "Normal respiration is 16 times a minute. It is natural that a person gasping for breath or whose vitality has ebbed low would breathe faster. Pneumonia patients breathe at the rate of 40 times a minute.

"Because of the regularity of the vibratory sounds, I am confident that the noises we heard were made by the electric light bulb raising and lowering with Collin's breathing.

Certain of Test

"We tried in various ways to reproduce the same sound and were unsuccessful. The sounds were with clock-like rhythm and I am confident it was respiration we heard."

H. T. Carmichael in charge of the sinking of the shaft to Collins said that he had knocked on the wires in the cave with stones and had moved the wires, but received no sound similar to that accepted as Collins' breathing. "Dropping of water was tried, he said, but did not produce the same effect.

FUREY, CAUGHT BY NORFLEET WAS MURDERED

So Testifies Former Inmate, Now a Resident of Memphis, Texas

OTHERS TORTURED

Physician Stuck Aspirating Needle Into Artery Of a Convict

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—A tale of brutality accounting for the deaths of four prisoners, verified in part by officials, was unfolded today before the joint legislative investigating committee by Dr. E. H. Boaz of Memphis, Texas, a former prisoner, nephew of a Methodist bishop, who said he testified in "the inteerst of humanity."

While the commitee was listening to the doctor's narrative, the house also was discussing the penitentiary. A bill by Representatives McDonald and Irwin, regulating the employment of trusties at the prison, was passed, after Representative McDonald had told of alleged misconduct of trusties. The bill prohibits employment of trusties until they have served three months.

On Own Volition.

Dr. Boaz declared he came to Austin on his own volition because he "wanted to help humanity, especially prisoners" who suffer cruelties at the hands of men out of sympathy with prison work.

The death of Joe Furey, a prisoner, stomped to death, it was charged, beneath the feet of a guard, presented the peak of the day's stories of cruelties. Others who met violent deaths in the prison, according to the testimony, were C. F. Dilliard, "General Miles," an aged negro, and another unidentified negro. The witness said Dillard bled to death as a result of a mistaken operation. "General Miles," he charged, was poisoned and the negro whose name he could not recall received a broken neck when a guard struck him with an iron single tree.

He told of punishment inflicted on prisoners who talked too freely of conditions, of drunkenness within the prison system, where he charged the current rates for bootleg were less than on the outside; of thefts of farm products and groceries, the disappearance of drugs and plumbing supplies.

Kin of M. E. Bishop.

Dr. Boaz testified he is the nephew of Bishop H. A. Boaz of the Methodist church, south, whose home is in Dallas. The doctor was sent to the penitentiary on a plea of guilty to manslaughter, having voluntarily entered on his sentence.

A subtle fear which is said to come over prisoners, preventing them from reporting acts of cruelty within the prison walls, was described by the witness. It was this fear, he said, that had prevented him from reporting these things while he was a prisoner.

"I bear no grudge," he said. "They treated me fairly while I was there, but the system is wrong. The commissioners are gentlemen, but they cannot see everything that goes on."

Commissioner Walker Sayle created somewhat of a sensation by testifying that former Warden Coleman had been discharged instead of resigning. Coleman testified last week he resigned rather than electrocute condemned men. Sayle said the record will show he introduced a resolution calling for Coleman's discharge because he believed him guilty of irregularities.

Boaz told of the deaths of Furey, Dillard, "General Miles" and the unidentified negro.

Captured by Norfleet.

Furey was said to have been a member of the confidence gang which fleeced Frank Norfleet. The prisoner was in charge of C. C. Folwer, a fellow convict, in charge of the insane.

"Fowler gave Furey only one meal a week," said Dr. Boaz. "For fear the man would starve to death, I slipped him scraps of food.

"I saw him a few hours before he died. Fowler plunged him head first into a bath tub of ice cold water, and when he was almost drowned, he dragged him out and beat him over the head with a club, then threw him on the floor and stomped him to death."

Syle testified he had received reports that prisoners with their hands tied were pushed backwards into bath tubs of water and that he had discharged some of the guards and former Warden Coleman in connection with the affair.

Dr. Boaz said C. F. Dillard, another convict, had bled to death when a doctor in charge plunged an aspirating needle into his side, ostensibly to draw fluid from the lungs, but that arterial blood flowed from the needle which throbbed with Dillard's heart beats. Within a few hours Dillard died, he said.

Dr. Boaz said he had refused to give some medicine to an aged negro when he discovered it to be bichloride of mercury. He said a hospital steward gave the negro the medicine and that the negro died two days later.

Some Guards Ignorant.

He said some of the guards cannot read or write and that some of the employes take delight in misery. He

SUNDAY LAWS ARE OPPOSED

Seventh Day Adventists Announce Program Of Opposition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A fight against proposed Sunday closing laws, both federal and state, has been started here by the Seventh Day Adventists' general conference which asserted today that if the "plans of the Lord's day alliance do not miscarry," every "avenue through the United States will be closed on Sunday except those which lead to the church door.

"Beginning a drive against individual freedom that will be felt in forty-four states this year," a statement said, the Lord's day alliance, "under the leadership of its national society has thus far introduced drastic Sunday bills in the legislatures of New York, Indiana, Nevada and California, and into congress for the District of Columbia."

The statement gave a long list of drastic prohibitions on sports, amusements and business which it was said was sought, adding that such a program would "turn back the wheels of true progress and civilization toward the thumbscrews, the racks, the gibbets and the fires of the dark ages."

FAVOR AMNESTY PLAN FOR JIM

Senate Committee Rejects Idea Of a Constitutional Amendment

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—Amnesty for former governor James E. Ferguson and not a constitutional amendment was the plan agreed upon tonight by the senate committee on state affairs.

The amnesty bill by Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman was ordered favorably reported with a majority report of the senate special committee appointed several days ago to decide and report to the senate on legal steps that might be taken.

Senator Woodward, who made the opening and closing addresses before the committee for his bill, dramatically exclaimed near the end of his second speech:

"It may be that I am writing the death knell of my political career. I am doing what I think is right. I owe the Fergusons nothing and they owe me nothing. I have made speeches against them and if there is any man to whom they owe nothing it is myself. But I do not believe in visiting eternal punishment on any man. Neither am I in favor of passing the buck back to the people, as a constitutional amendment would do. I am in favor of this legislature voting its convictions."

CALL COTTON CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A conference of representatives of all branches of the cotton trade Februarry 24, to devise means of preventing avoidable losses to the industry, was called today by the department of agriculture.

recommended an examination to obtain guards of more intelligence.

Dr. Boaz said that while he was hospital steward at the Ramsey farm requisitions for drug supplies were refused and when he reported the prisoners were in need, he was told to mind his own business.

Mrs. J. E. King, chairman of the prison advisory board, had heard of some of the cruelties described by Dr. Boaz.

Boaz told of a barn burning at the Blue Ridge farm and of a report made to headquarters that a carload of oats, about 1,000 bushels, and 1,500 bales of hay had burned. He said that the barn only had some shucks in it at the time of the fire and that for a month prior he had seen grain carried away by men not connected with the prison system.

It was announced that a sub-committee would leave Austin for Huntsville or Wednesday night.

Dr. Boaz said he had been pardoned by Governor Neff, after serving but five or six months of his sentence.

Dr. Boaz said that C. C. Fowler, a prisoner in charge of the insane prisoners inside of the penintentiary, was in charge of Furey, and testified that Fowler gave Furey but one meal a week. Dr. Boaz said that he would slip food into the starving convict.

"Did you see Furey die?" Boaz was asked.

"I saw him just a few hours before he died."

"What did you see?"

Into Tub of Ice Water.

"I saw Fowler push Furey into a bathtub of ice water, head first, and when Furey was almost stiff and drowned, I saw him jerked from the water and beaten over the head with a stick of wood. He then was thrown to the floor and Fowler stomped him." The reason he did not report what he termed Furey's "murder" was because he feared he would get the same thing Furey got: Prisoners, he said, are severely punished for talking of what goes on in the penitentiary and he cited several cases.

Furey told Dr. Boaz, according to the testimony, that he had brought considerable money to the prison, and the witness concluded this was the cause of his alleged mistreatment. Furey mentioned $40,000, the witness said. Questioning developed that Furey died in a jail cell under the prison hospital. Though very ill, the prisoner was "not" in the hospital, Boaz testified.

C. F. Diller, another prisoner, was permitted to bleed to death through a "mistake" in treatment by the prison physician, Dr. Boaz continued. He had known Diller before going to the penitentiary. The witness said he was present when the doctor pushed an aspirating needle into Diller's side to draw fluid from the lungs. He said that there was no fluid, but that arterial blood flowed from the needle, which throbbed with the beat of the heart. In a few hours Diller was dead, the witness said, and when the undertaker came to dress him, a gallon of blood was found to have escaped from the wound made by the needle.

The witness also asserted he had seen a negro at the Ramsey farm killed when struck by an iron singletree by a guard, the blow breaking his neck. He said that the body was thrown into some water and reported to the officials that the negro had drowned while attempting to escape. The witness said he examined the neck, but that when Dr. Maxey of Angleton, the farm physician, came to make a report, he did "not" come closer than 15 feet to the body and made a verdict of "drowning."

Drugs Taken.

Boaz said he was the hospital steward at the Ramsey farm and had made requisitions each month for drug supplies, and the orders sent to Dr. Maxey for approval. He testified that he had received the invoices, but had "not" received the drugs. He said he had seen drugs bearing the prison label in an Angleton drug store, in which Dr. Maxey officed and on which he wrote his prescriptions.

Dr. Boaz is a nephew of Bishop H. H. Boaz of the Methodist church, from Dallas, he told the committee. The witness said he pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter and voluntarily entered the penitentiary to serve his sentence.

He told of the death of an aged negro called "General Miles." A hospital steward asked Boaz to give the negro medicine which Boaz discovered to be bichloride of mercury, he testified. When he refused to administer the medicine, the steward did so and the negro died two days later.

The prison commissioners are all gentlemen, but they can't keep an eye on everything," the witness said. "They give orders but no sooner are their backs turned than the orders are violated. I come here voluntarily in the interest of humanity to give this testimony. I have no grudge against anyone at the prison. I was treated fairly throughout. Many of the empoyes there are not the type of men to be handling other men. The system is wrong."

Legislative Hopper

From The Record News Legislative Bureau at Austin, Edited by Martin Anderson in charge and The Associated Press.

S. RAYMOND BROOKS MARGARET STALLINGS
W. BOYD GATEWOOD GEORGE S. WRIGHT

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9.—Rep. Norman G. Kittrell of Houston, former member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals, will offer a measure to put on the statute books a decision of an old English common law rule which has been in force in Texas.

Under the common law construction, Judge Kittrell says there have been cases wherein a property owner desired to confer a life interest in an estate, but have unintentionally granted fee title instead.

In the sense of writing a Texas statute to replace a particular provision of common law, it is possible to "amend the common law."

The houses have lengthened their working hours; the senate however, has not yet come to working on Saturday. Night sessions will be held during the past two weeks.

Whatever may or may not be done by the legislature, the prediction is now being made that the four general supply bills, or appropriations for running the government during the next two years, are going to be enacted.

With those bills safely out of the way, the governor may find it desirable to let the lawmakers go home until after cotton-chopping is over and corn laid by.

A governor's power in legislative matters is much greater in a special session than at the regular session.

It is strengthened in several ways, the principal one being that only those subjects submitted by the governor may be legislated upon; and an executive can wield great power by withholding special legislation until the general program is worked out.

The fact that the special session can last but 30 days, and the time element involved affecting the defeat of many measures, strengthens the governor's grasp on the legislative machinery of a special session.

The Texas legislature declared its policy to be "open sessions" at all times, when it sustained the appeal of T. K. Irwin from the vote of the prison committee for closed meetings to decide upon what the committee would permit to become public.

Open doors, open sessions, and letting the people know what is being done without arbitrary restrictions upon the news which is already hedged about with more tightly-drawn laws probably than in any other state—that is the policy to which Texas legislature by majority vote pledged itself But why should it not have?

Arkansas Man Is "Perfectly "Satisfied" With Black-Draught and Takes No Other Liver Medicine.

WIVILLE, Ark.—Mr. H. B. Wilkerson, of this place, says that for 56 years his health has been so good he only once has had to place himself entirely in the care of his family physician. But Mr. Wilkerson has taken medicine, when needed, for he says:

"I have used Black-Draught for at least 35 years. It is my medicine. I use it for indigestion or biliousness.

"When I feel the least bit bad, I go and take a dose of Black-Draught. After it acts I feel all right again. I am perfectly satisfied with it and do not find any need for any other medicine—I do not see any need for changing around when Black-Draught gives satisfaction, and it certainly does in my case."

Thousands of others have found satisfaction in the use of Thedford's Black-Draught in cases of indigestion, biliousness, headache, and constipation, when caused by a torpid condition of the liver.

Black-Draught is a purely vegetable medicine, with a record of success extending back more than 80 years.

So extensive is the popularity of Black-Draught, for liver ills, that druggists and retail dealers now sell nearly a million packages per month.

It is reported from the same source that William is displeased over the prominence the former crown prince is courting in Germany and the attention paid him by the nationalists and militarists as the ex-kaiser still regards himself as the only lawful claimant to the Hohenzollern throne.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

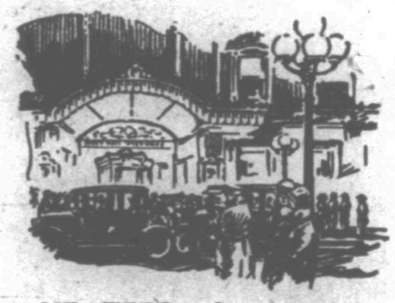

Daytime is Selling Time

THOUSANDS upon thousands of American families devote the evening hours to Radio. Daytime is selling time!

BRIDGE and Mah-jong games have replaced the family reading circle. Reach the buyers through morning newspapers!

THEATERS and motion picture houses are crowded each evening by your prospects. Your morning newspaper has ten hours of active life in the home each day.

WHAT happens after the evening dinner hour in American homes? It is not a matter for idle curiosity. The change that has come over the reading habits of families in this country is one that demands earnest thought among executives who buy newspaper advertising. Logical reasoning reaches the opinion that the most direct and effective road to public intelligence today is through newspapers published IN THE MORNING. Morning newspapers have ten hours of active life each day in the homes of America.

Social Interference to Evening Reading

Face the facts! Consider your own family and the families of your neighbors. How many evenings a week are they permitted even an hour of undisturbed reading? Changing times—changing habits!

The family habits today differ radically from those of even ten years ago.

Reading habits in a group of representative American cities have been subjected to close, laboratory analysis. This single instance is typical: 68% of the families are not at home at least two evenings during the week!

Morning newspaper advertising brings action on the day of publication.

Through the morning newspaper your advertisement gets in its work with women during buying time. And, as a woman thinks, so goes the sale!

BIG FELLOWS WHO PAY.

A Washington correspondent has made note of the fact that 67 persons reported net incomes of more than one million dollars for the calendar year 1922. He has made the discovery by glancing at the figures that it was the first year since 1916 when so many individuals reported net incomes in the million dollar class. Only 15 reported such incomes in 1921.

Total income in 1922 was something over $861,000,000, and these 67 persons paid $56,000,000 of the total. In 1922, 9 persons reported net incomes of $3,000,00 or greater and 4 of these reported that their net incomes were greater than $5,000,000. Two of those in the $5,000,000 class lived in Michigan, one in New York and one in New Jersey.

The Fords, Henry and Edsel, father and son, live in Michigan, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is a resident of New York. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was the heaviest income taxpayer in the state of New York until the recent publication of income tax returns showed that in the year 1923 John D. Rockefeller, Jr., topped the list.

And now the eastern newspapers assert that the New Jersey taxpayer, who admitted an income of more than $5,000,000, was the elder Rockefeller, the founder and the father of the Standard oil flocks.

A Pennsylvanian reported a net income of between three and four million dollars and the finger of suspicion points to Andrew W. Mellon, famous financier and secretary of the American treasury.

Now who will be the top notchers according to the returns of 1924 which are to be made in the year 1925. Who will talk the loudest? If money is the loud talker, then those who possess it should be the most vociferous, but wise men say that it is just the reverse.

JOHN BARLEYCORN VINDICATED.

Now John Barleycorn has been vindicated and all the responsibility placed on copper. Dr. Frank B. Mallory, a famous pathologist of New England, who is said to be eminent among medical scientists throughout the world, declares that the metal is responsible for chronic ailments hitherto attributed to hard liquor.

Furthermore he declares all foods and drinks prepared in contact with the copper are a menace. He would bar copper tea kettles; he would bar copper coffee pots, copper frying pans, copper preserving kettles; copper and brass water pipes, and copper and brass faucets, and other forms of this useful mineral extensively utilized by modern civilization.

His investigations have convinced him that the metal vessels are really responsible for liver, kidney and heart troubles, for which spirituous liquors have long been blamed. Poor old John Barleycorn.

He was driven from these shores because the welfare workers believed that he was responsible for all the ailments to which human flesh is heir, that he filled the poor house and the jail and the penitentiary, that he wrecked the brilliant lights of society and civilization.

Now after he has been outlawed, kicked into oblivion as it were, an eminent scientist has made the discovery that copper, and copper alone, is responsible for all that happened to wreck human health and pile up human woe in yester year.

NOT A DEAD LANGUAGE.

Latin is not a dead language. More than a million ambitious ones are studying Latin in the schools of the nation. More high school students take it up than all the other languages combined. James F. Abel, a noted specialist in the world of education, says so.

There are 940,000 young people studying Latin in the secondary schools and 40,000 more are pursuing courses in it in the colleges. Furthermore, he says that approximately 22,500 teachers of Latin are employed in the secondary schools and the demand for well trained teachers is steadily increasing.

In places of fewer than 2,500 population, he asserts, nearly 40 per cent of teachers of high school Latin have never gone beyond the secondary school stage in their study of the language.

Latin is not on the blink in the schools of the United States. Latin is not as dead as the dodo. Figures never lie.

YES, WE LIKE BANANAS.

And now an economist reports that bananas are consumed in great quantities by the people of the United States, the annual imports amounting to approximately 45,000,000 bunches. This would be nearly a half bunch per capita for the hundred millions who claim Uncle Sam as their great father. In the face of this it will be possible for Antonio to say, "Yes, we have no banan." He is a falsifier or the import figures are columns of lies.

SUCCESS OF A LABOR BANK.

There is a labor bank in the City of New York known as the Federation Bank of New York. It started a year and a half ago with $500,000 and now it has $8,500,000 in resources and thus it is organized labor has affiliated itself with the gold demons of Wall Street. This is a world of rapid change, rapid as well as startling, and organized labor is changing with the world.

WHY THEY ARE HIGH.

Prices in England are at the highest since 1921 due to grain and cotton. Brother Jonathan isn't growling.

THEY DRAW THE LINE ON MABEL.

California is a republican state. Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilbrandt of California is an assistant attorney general of the United States. She is known nation-wide for her prosecution of violators of the Volstead act and her contempt of federal district attorneys who are not merciless in the warfare they wage upon rum sellers and rum importers.

President Coolidge had about made up his mind to place this gifted woman on the federal bench and she would have been the first woman to sit on a federal bench if opposition to her appointment had not developed. Senator Samuel Shortridge and several other republican members of California entered vigorous protest. They did not want Mabel on the federal bench. They said that she is a resident of Los Angeles and that it would not be running true to form to select her to preside over judicial districts embracing the northern section of California.

Mabel was backed by numerous organizations of women and individual women. They demanded that the appointment should be made as a recognition of the sisterhood who vote the republican ticket, as well as a recognition of the legal ability and record of the woman in the case. Semi-official advices from Washington say that the possibility of her appointment has not been entirely eliminated. Senator Shortridge demands the appointment of a citizen of San Francisco, now a member of the circuit court of appeals of California, a personal friend, a Shortridge republican to be explicit.

Senator Hiram Johnson is a resident of San Francisco. He hasn't chirped. His nose was broken by the regulars last year. He isn't close to the Coolidge throne. He is watching and waiting; but unless the signs are misleading Mabel will not sit on the federal bench and win a place in history as the first woman "who ever graced the federal bench."

GREAT DEMAND FOR CIGARETTES.

There is a tremendous increase in the demand for cigarettes. In 1913 there was fifteen billion cigarettes smoked in the United States. Consumption has gained four fold in ten years, amounting to sixty-three billion in 1923.

Now comes the chief of the tobacco section of the federal department of commerce with the explanation that the increase in the number of women smokers is responsible for the tremendous rise in recent years in cigarette consumption.

Japan jumped into second place. There the increase advanced from 1913 consumption of seven billion cigarettes to twenty-three billion in 1923.

A recommendation of Governor Ferguson that the smokers of cigars and cigarettese should be heavily taxed for the benefit of the building fund of institutions of higher education may hit smokers heavily, should the law makers accept the recommendation of the Texas governor.

Then the well-to-do smokers will buy thei supplies in other states and escape payment of the tax.

PLACING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Senator Carl Hardin is a statesman from a western district. He has introduced a most interesting bill in the upper house. It provides that children born out of wedlock shall take the name of the father.

This will make it interesting should enactment of the bill follow for the fathers of illegitimate who sidestepped the main issue and willingly shift the responsibility to the mothers of illegitimate children.

Why not provide a hyphenated name for the unfortunate illegitimate one. It goes without saying that the innocent progeny of indiscriminate people should not suffer through life for the sins of their sires and dams.

PASSING THE BUCK.

Republicans control the New Jersey legislature. Organized labor and women welfare workers are very strong in New Jersey. All these demanded ratification of the 20th amendment.

What did the law makers do? They sent it back to the people and a referendum will pass on the issue relating to the power of congress to regulate the labor of persons under the age of 18 years.

This amendment represents a dead cause for years to come as the 20th is as dead at the present hour as the right of a state to secede from the federal union.

By Dr. Frank Crane

INDIRECT BENEFIT.

The income tax, the surtax and other taxes devised to bear especially upon the rich are not wholly harmful to business in their consequences.

It is true they drive rich people out of the investment field. They invest their money in tax exempt securities or indulge in stock speculation, or do anything except put it into legitimate business.

In the meanwhile, business must have capital, and is forced to look for it in another place. It seeks it among the moderately well-to- do, in other words, it goes after the small investor.

Therefore the extreme taxes upon the rich compel industry to seek its capital from the small investor.

The consequence is, as Mr. B. C. Forbes says, "America has more 'customer owners' of securities today than the total number of security owners in the whole country ten years ago.

"Also, there are more employe subscribers for stocks today than the total number of stockholders in America before the war."

He states that during 1924 electric light and power companies alone have sold nearly two hundred million dollars worth of their securities through customer ownership campaigns.

Many companies in seeking new capital have turned to the small investor. He has not much money, but there are "a lot of him." Many a little makes a mickle. And just as the success of a product depends upon the number of its customers at a small profit, so on the other hand the success of a capitalistic investment rests upon the number of its investors at small amounts.

Within the next few years, electric light and power companies are going to need a good deal of capital for their development. If some plan is devised for them to seek this capital from the small man their business will rest upon a much firmer basis than by seeking capital from wealthy persons.

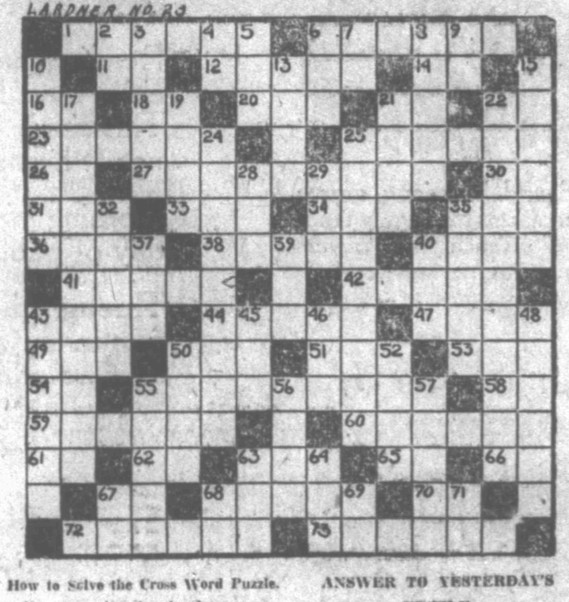

Seeking money from small investors implies winning the popular confidence and the confidence of consumers. It implies making every employe an investor and a plugger for his concern. It humanizes the whole business, and if some means can be devised for seeking it easily, it is the best form of capitalization.

Mr. R. H. Ballard of the Southern California Edison company has done much in this direction since he has been president of the National Electric Light association.

Cross-Word Puzzle

How to Solve the Cross Word Puzzle.

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle directly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE.

NEW EMBASSY IN JAPAN.

Large Sum Approved by Senate to Replace One Ruined by Quake.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Appropriations of $1,200,000 for a new American embassy at Tokio, to replace the one destroyed in the earthquake, was approved today by the senate foreign relations committee over the opposition of both Chairman Borah and Senator Swanson of Virginia, the ranking democrat.

Irrigation

The Number of Acres Which Can Be Irrigated Here.

Dr. Youngblood in his address before the chamber of commerce brought up the question of the ultimate size of the irrigated area here. This is a matter that is often discussed so it will be timely to give some figures on it.

He states it is estimated that about 80,000 acres can be irrigated providing there is water for that much. This estimate we take it is based on the soil survey which covers only Wichita county.

As a matter of fact the amount of land which can be irrigated by gravity flow from the Diversion lake extends into Archer and Clay counties and is several times 80,000 acres. In fact there is no practical limit to the amount of land to be irrigated providing always, there is sufficient water.

In practically every irrigation project it is the water supply which is the limiting factor. There are millions upon millions of acres of the most fertile land in all parts of the west which need only water to support a very dense farming population.

Some time ago a rather detail study was made to determine as nearly as possible the amount of land which could ultimately be covered by irrigation from Lake Kemp. River flow data was assembled. Lake Kemp's capacity was taken into account. Annual rainfall was allowed for. The kind of crops that would probably be grown was estimated. From all of this data it appeared that something between 125,000 and 150,000 acres could be covered.

The limiting factor will probably prove not to be the amount of land or water available, but rather the present contract between the two irrigation districts. This contract, unless amended, is very apt to be found a stumbling block to any extension, especially any above 100,000 acres.

GLEANINGS

FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

FAREWELL!

In Queen Mary Alfred Tennyson makes the observation that

Every man at time of death,
Would fain set forth some saying that may live
After his death and better humankind:
For death gives life's last word a power to live.
And, like the stone-cut epitaph, remain
After the vanished voice, and speak to men.
What will be your last thought?
Do you not wonder?

We have learn a great deal about great men by considering their last words. It is the moment when vanity vanishes, and the soul stands revealed. How like Washington to utter "It is well," as he breathed his last, or for Lord Byron to say, "I must sleep now."

These are the last words of some noted men and women:

"I feel as if I were myself again."—Walter Scott.

"An emperor should die standing."—Vespasian.

"Then I am safe."—Cromwell.

"Let the light enter."—Goethe.

"And is this death?"—George IV.

"Lord, make haste."—H. Hammond.

"Don't give up the ship."—Lawrence.

"It is the last of earth."—John Quincy Adams.

"I am about to die."—Samuel Johnson.

"I shall be happy."—Archbishop Sharp.

"Don't let poor Nellie Gwynne starve."—Charles II.

"I have endeavored to do my duty."—Taylor.

"Refresh me with great thought."—Herder.

"I thank God I have done my duty."—Nelson.

"James, take good care of the horse."—Winfield Scott.

"I feel the desire growing over me."—John Keats.

"What, is there no bribing death?"—Cardinal Beaufort.

"Taking a leap in the dark. O, mystery."—Thomas Paine.

"I thought that dying had been more difficult."—Louis XIV.

More Truth Than Poetry

HARD FISTS AND LOVING HEARTS.

Never doubt that the heart of a fighter,
Though his manners seem roughish and wild,
As he wallops his foes with swift jabs on the nose,
Is as soft as the heart of a child.
For always the daring are loving.
And a gent with a battered-in dome
And a fragment of ear, may still shed a warm tear
For the dear little mother at home.

Just bark to the voice of a slugger
Who, sated with money and fame,
Has made up his mind to leave glory behind
And to give up the rib-smashing game.
When lately they asked him what reason
This singular choice had provoked,
The brave fellow said, with a shake of his head:
"Aw! me mudder is scared I'll get croaked!"

No thought that some two-fisted youngster
Might suddenly end all his hopes
By a left-handed punch, which would land on his lunch
And knock him clear over the ropes,
Inspired this great spirited hero
To pluck fame's bright plume from his crest!
He stepped from the stage like a man, to assuage
The ache in an old mother's breast!

You would think, as you gazed at a bruiser,
Engaged in acquiring renown,
By smashing the chin of another pug in,
While his face wore a sinister frown,
That his mind was on punches and clinches,
Which always occur in a brawl,
But beyond any doubt he is thinking about
His darling old mother—that's all.

NOT SO EASY.

Every person in the United States owns $2,168 of its assets, but trying to get it is something else again.

WHAT'S THE USE?

It is learned that a well known movie actress was quietly married in Paris the other day. It is understood that her press agent sent in his resignation the same afternoon.

THE RESULT OF PROCRASTINATION.

Scientists believe that the mummy of Tu-Tank-Ahmen will be decayed when it is exhumed. We always contended that Carnarvon and Carter were not working fast enough.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED.

What Today Means To You

Aquarius.

There is a continuation today of the benign aspects that evidenced themselves yesterday afternoon, and they show a steady and an increasing improvement until sundown, when conditions very suddenly change for the worse. The signs indicate very clearly that, until the late afternoon, all conservative effort—especially along professional or artistic lines—will be crowned with success.

It is an exceptional opportunity for all engaged in either the legal or medical professions, as research will be facilitated, and that which has been difficult in the past will be easy of solution and accomplishment. In the evening, there is more danger to be anticipated from your own character than from any flaws in well matured plans. The vibrations are of a sluggish nature, and great self-control must be exercised, if disagreements and differences are to be avoided.

A child born today will be quite healthy, and give every sign of robusticity and strength. Its recuperative powers will not be as great as those possessed by others of an apparently lesser outward show of a strong constitution. Its nutrition must be carefully regulated and it must be given as much outdoor air as possible. Its disposition will be kindly and it will despise everything that is underhanded, or not strictly on the level. It will, in youth, be shy, and, as it grows up, will be quite reserved—so much so in fact as not to attract others. Those, and there will only be a few, who are able to penetrate the wall of taciturnity and secretiveness, will very much appreciate its many sterling qualities and virtues.

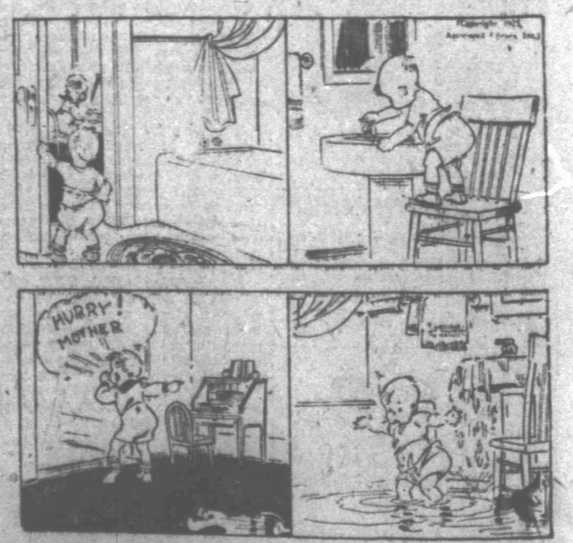

If today is your birthday you have a very pleasing personality and are more liable to trade on this to secure your ends than on hard work and persevering effort. You can secure almost any chance or opportunity by the exercise of your invariable charm and affability. You, however, once your chance is secured, should work consistently and perseveringly in order to make good.

You are generous to a fault, and have frequently sacrificed your own interests by being more careful of other people's welfare than of your own. You have very often discovered that people are more ready to accept than to give; and those to whom you have given favors have shown their unwillingness to reciprocate.

A little more industry, a trifle more perseverance, combined with persistency and ambition, will, with your personality, enable you to attain to almost any bright of success—either commercial, social or political.

Successful people born on this date are: Dr. Henry M. Guernsey, pioneer of homeopathy; Isham G. Harris, former U. S. senator and governor of Tennessee; Frederick B. Conway, actor; Augustus P. Cooke, naval officer prominent in civil war; Ira Remsen, chemist and former president of Johns Hopkins university. Wm. C. Noble, famous sculptor.

Floral Heights Church Women Back Building Fund Movement And Have Active Program Planned For Year

MUCH work lies ahead of the Federated Missionary society of the Floral Heights Bautist church, according to the new president, Mrs. F. R. Featherston.

"The main aim," stated Mrs. Featherston, "is to assist and lend encouragement in every way that is possible to the building of a new church. We are also going to redistrict the territories and form new circles. This will tend towards more enthusiasm and new interest o nthe part of each individual woman.

"Work will be taken up at once along definite lines; mission and Bible study, personal service and raising money for building funds. A Sunbeam band has already been organized under the leadership of Mrs. Wood, a new and capable leader."

Mrs. Featherston was asked if the work was going to be heavy and she stated "yes indeed it is going to be but every one is interested and are working hard to do all that they can to make it really worth while. I am really glad that it is going to be hard for we ca naccomplish much more under those circumstances. After we accomplish the things we now have started, we are going to foster other work among the young people."

Other officers elected at the last meeting were vice president, Mrs. W. E. Fuller; secretary, Mrs. Tom Wynn; treasurer, Mrs. Lester Flatt; chairman of personal service committee, Mrs. J. M. Ward; benevolence, Mrs. Myrick; mission and education, Mrs. Fry and entertainment, Mrs. J. E. McKee.

Mrs. Roberts assisted by Mrs. Hal Shirey, reported a trip made to the W. H. M. S. convention during the week at Lawton, Okla.

Mrs. W. L. Dalton read and discussed the leaflet "Juanita" before the meeting.

Opening devotionals were led by Mrs. Leslie Miller who read from First Kings, fifth chapter, 41 to 43 verses. A prayer followed and the group sang "In the Service of the King."

Mrs. O. W. Ross gave the closing prayer of the session.

The following members responded to roll call: Mesdames Warren Roberts, C. A. Dorrance, J. T. Bentley, C. B. Jetter, Leslie Miller, C. A. Andree, Geo. Thorpe, W. W. Swartz, O. L. Gibbs, Bus Byman, W. The Civic league is still holding its tree sale open to the people of Wichita Falls in hopes that more will buy. Mrs. A. R. Bleakley states that the league is not selling these trees to make money but for the reason of helping beautify the city: "Each new home needs at least two new trees in its yard," she stated. "We opened this sale of good trees at a much cheapen price than trees could be bought most anywhere else in the hope that it would induce the people to buy trees and help make the city beautiful." About 50 more sycamore and hackberry trees are for sale by the women at the Moore-Richolt lot at the corner of Ninth and Indiana streets. Everyone interested in trees is urged to come at once and buy.

At this time of year many frocks of gaily printed silk are shown for southern resorts' wear. The one illustrated today has a "toy balloon" motif with a trimming of numerous rows of broad black silk braid.

Original Song To Be Heard

"ASHES of Roses" titles an original song composed two weeks ago by Mrs. Harwood Stacy, president of the Musician's club, which Rev. Leslie Miller will sing at the Artist's concert presented by the club this evening at the Junior college.

The composition is new in every respect, for the words were chosen from a modern poem in a recent copy of the Literary Digest by Mrs. Stacy, who has set them in a quiet little melody, colorful and sweet. A desire for something new to offer Wichita Falls music lovers was given as the reason for composing the song, and Rev. Leslie Miller, for whom the number was especially written, has worked on it since its completion until his interpretation of it is as true finished as that with which he sings "Leetle Bateese." the French song which has endeared him to many of his audiences.

A Gift From England.

Mrs. Stacy composes with the authority of former successes in England, where she was recognized as a musician of the highest rank, and from which country she has recently come back to make Wichita Falls her home and to give to the local Musicians club her leadership and her musical talent.

Rev. Miller will sing besides "Ashes of Roses" two other songs, one of them, "English Song," a composition also from Mrs. Stacy, done in England in 1921. The words are by Frederic Weatherley, a famous English song writer, and the atmosphere of the song is characteristically English, as the title and the composer imply.

Original work in the arts arouses interest at any time, and the two songs given by one of Wichita Falls' finest singers, as Rev. Miller is styled by local critics, is proving one of the most attractive features of the concert, judging from current comment.

The program includes performers representing the highest type of local amateur talent and will surpass in entertainment value anything that could have been imported by the Musicians club for the occasion, inasmuch as all artists on the program are local favorites and have achieved for themselves enviable reputations elsewhere because of their talent and ability.

Those Who Appear.

The performers include besides the Rev. Leslie Miller, the Misses Juel and Adele Ray, contralto and soprano; Floyd Ard, concert pianist; Mesdames Jouette Bonner, C. R. Eyessen, Alf Miller and Harwood Stacy, who compose the Ensemble String players; Messrs. Vaughn Ray, Grover Bullington, Paul Von Allmen and Ivan Murchison, the Shrine chanters; Mlle. Delphyne Baleuwa, danseuse; Stanley M. Raub, violinist, with accompaniments by J. S. Pitman. Miss Minter Watts and Mesdames F. R. Collard, Harwood Stacy and A. H. Britain.

Proceeds for the concert will go toward the grand piano on the Junior college stage which is being purchased by the Musicians club.

Waffle, Sawdust, Chili, Papoose! They Are Names Of Colors Depicted For Spring Styles, Wichita Buyer Says

Waffles, sawdust; chili, papoose, lipstick.

Not words for a cross word puzzle, but the names of some of the colors that are depicted by spring styles in women's ready-to-wear.

Back From New York.

Mrs. Elwyn Haden, head of the P. B. M. company's ready-to-wear salon, recently returned from a buying trip to New York and tells about the colors that spring things will bear. For the most part, they are sprightly colors, as befits springtime things, according to Mrs. Haden.

"For instance, the ensemble costumes for spring," Mrs. Haden said—"these will show some distinctive effects in contrasting colors, using the higher shades mostly. The coats, of kasha, patou or charmeen, and the dresses of chiffon or crepe fabrics, will rival each other in colorfulness, and the designs are prettier than this store has ever shown before.

A Masculine Note.

"There is a rather masculine note in the spring coats. You'll see the circular flounce worn very much, and Gadet insets are also quite in vogue. Fur hems appear on a number of the more distinctive new coats. Kasha is the favored fabric for many wraps, but charmeen, patou and twillcord are also well represented.

"The chiffons and crepes that are used for spring dresses have flares, pleats, lace, tucks and other pretty decorative ideas, and the range of color is elaborate and varied. We believe the kasha sport costumes are going to be very popular. Most of them have unusual decorative effects that make for distinction."

Special attention to the needs of larger women resulted, Mrs. Haden says, in some handsome "slenderizing" and "youthfulizing" notes in the new spring things.

Child-birth

How is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse as we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Women At Austin In A Victory

AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Women won their fight here today for the state to continue appropriations for child hygiene work under the Sheppard-Towner act.

The vote was 24 to 5. Negative votes were cast by Senators Bailey, Bowers, Davis, Hardin of Kaufman, and Strong.

As a result an appropriation of about $72,000 for the biennium was inserted in the departmental appropriation bill. It had been eliminated by the senate finance committee and was brought up on the floor by Senator A. E. Wood of Granger.

Senator Davis opposed as it tending to weaken the moral fibre of the people who ought, he said, to prosecute child hygiene work with their own money. He offered an amendment which would refuse federal aid and appropriate necessary state funds.

With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night. —Adv

Champ To Continue Training For Title Scrap This Summer

Connie Mack hopes his veteran hurler, Eddie Rommel, will get his knuckle ball working in good shape the coming season. In other words Connie hopes Eddie will knuckle down.

Babe Ruth says the Yankees have a better ball club than the Senators. Huggins has strengthened the club. Yank fans have reason to believe that the new material will make its presence felt. But what will help the Yanks and the other clubs most in their efforts to dislodge the American league champions will be a non combatant, Mr. Psychology.

The Senators will be playing next season under the strain of being champions. Last year they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. They were in the chase to turn back the Yanks. They played dashing, carefree ball. This year the knewledge that their title and the chance to participate in the honors and emoluments that go with a championship are in the balance will weigh on their minds. They will play more cautious ball.

The "field" will be against them. There will be no let-up in the attacks of the opposing teams. "Nail the Champs" will be the slogan.

Victory over the pennant-fliers is always doubly sweet to any aggregation.

The main reason Sam Bohne is with the Detroit Tigers this season is Hugh Critz. It was the showing of this former American association star more than anything else that caused Garry Herrmann and Jack Hendricks to let Samuel go to the American league town.

Critz is now awaiting the call for the next chance to prove to the world that Hendricks' judgment in his case wasn't misplaced.

Critz was thrown into the infield breach last season when injuries and illnesses had crippled the regular team. He stuck. He played in 152 games.

That he hit at a fair clip is indicated by the fact that the official average gave him a .322 per centage. Fifty-two of the 135 hits he collected were for extra bases, which gave him a grand slugging average of .450.

* * *

That he is rather fast on his feet is shown by the base stealing records. He stole 19 bases in those 152 games, Babe Pinelli, who led the team in swiping sacks, purloined only 23 in 144 games.

Critz has a bit to learn yet in fielding but what will come to him under capable teaching. He is a mighty sweet ball player today in all other respects.

Fans generally are glad that George Burns, veteran outfielder of the Giants and then the Reds, has caught on for a time at least with the Phillies. Burns was given his unconditional release a while ago by the Cinci bosses. Word of his release brought him several offers of managerial jobs with minor league clubs. Burns was considering these when Art Fletcher offered him a job with the Phils.

There no doubt figures that a minor league berth will be open to him later on and in the meantime he can travel in fast company.

He may have a good year left in his system. He has always been a sane liver and uses his noodle to help his legs and arms. He has always been under all over the National league circuit.

The coming season ought to loom bright to one Clande Jonnard, young pitcher and member of the New York Giant team for two seasons. This despite the fact that he will not appear in a big league uniform.

Jonnard has just been sent to Toledo by McGraw under option.

Primarily this change means that Jonnard will get a chance to pitch a few ball games, which, after all, is the main desire of a pitcher.

Jonnard was sent to the box quite often by McGraw but not "on his own." Jonnard started but two games. He worked in over 150, however. Figure out for yourself how many of these were lost when he entered them.

Mogolia, Egyptian auto dare devil, who hopes to attain a speed of 200 or more miles an hour with his specially built car over the Ormond-Daytona-Seabreeze course in Florida one of these days, is said to be a fabulously wealthy prince. Auto racing is his hobby and he is spending money as other millionaires spend it on maintaining thoroughbred stables or polo stables.

Mogolia paid Talbot and Ballot, French auto designers and builders, a fair sized fortune to produce the car he now drives.

The Ormond-Daytona course is said to be the only one in the United States, if not in the world, where a continuous speed of 200 miles an hour can be obtained.

Federal laws calling for prosecution by the proper authorities of foul players mixed up in crooked deals of any kind are now suggested. Competent laws prepared to punish gamblers, crooked payers and promoters of shady deals in any sport would be more than welcome. The value of such laws would be lessened, however, by restricting them to baseball.

True, baseball is considered the national pastime and its closest rival, football, is conducted on an entirely different plane. But crookedness will hurt any sport. Therefore all branches of it should have the protection of the courts.

RICKARD SELECTS JUNE 5 AS TENTATIVE DATE OF PROPOSED DEMPSEY-GIBBONS EMBROGLIO

Kearns to Journey East About March 1 to Arrange Bout—Hasn't Closed With Any Promoter Yet

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey will continue to keep in training and arrangements for a title match during the summer will be discussed in New York next month, it was announced here today by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager.

"I will leave here about March 1, to meet promoters there," Kearns said. "No definite arrangements have been made for a bout but there will be one during the summer either in New York, New Jersey or California. I would like to save Dempsey meet Wills first, as I think Wills will make a better opponent for Dempsey than Gibbons."

Dempsey and his bride remained in seclusion here today. He will not accompany Kearns east, but will remain on the coast in training, Kearns said.

By DAVID J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Professing to have implicit confidence in Jack Dempsey's readiness to indulge in a busy summer, Tex Rickard today named the Yankee stadium as the local site and June 5 as the tentative date of the champion's proposed meeting with Tom Gibbons for the heavyweight championship.

A provision in the articles of agreement, the promoter agreed would call for the winner to frolic with Harry Wills next September, thus indicating that is our Mr. Rickard's story and that he is going to stick to it.

It is no star chamber secret that Wills may not be permitted to box for the title in this section now or at any future date, but Rickard is one who covers all bets. He merely wants to have the Wills bout in his bag in the event the negro is officially tolerated as a championship principal here. Furthermore, the dangling of Wills in the background of a Dempsey-Gibbons match is not expected to injure its attendance.

Rickard, therefore, is concentrating all of his attention upon the Gibbons meeting, while Charles L. Henderson, who is making some motions about building a stadium at Long Island City is frankly in the field for a Dempsey-Wills match only. In addition to deciding upon a tentative date and site, Rickard also has decided that Dempsey and Gibbons will box at night and that both must be on the ground at least a month before the actual proceedings.

He says he has the champion's assurance, given through his man of business, Jack Kearns, that all will be as our Mr. Rickard wishes.

Henderson also declares he has been in converse with Mr. Kearns via the long distance telephone and that he has Jack's heartening assurance that he is not yet obligated to any promoter, Rickard included, to deliver Dempsey at ringside at any given time or for any given bout.

Henderson's reaction to this was to proceed with the construction of his stadium, present plans whica call for a seating capacity of 110,000

Kearns is expected to arrive in New York about March 1 and the real bidding will begin.

BEAN AND WILLIS, NEWCOMERS TO WICHITA FALLS RING CIRCLES, EXPECT TO STAGE MEAN TILT

Reagan Wants Trammel On Winner-Take-All Basis, So He's Given Dorland As Test Bout

Jimmy Bean, Enid light heavyweight, and Ray Willis of Lawton, the main eventers of this week's Legion fight card are not any too well known to Wichita Falls fandom. But, points out Don Wofford, that's what the fans have been calling for—a change of faces, new blood, a rest from witnessing the local favorites in action. Now they've got it.

Bean ranks as one of the leading scrappers at his weight in the southwest. He is a hard and fast mixer, in fact, such a tough customer that it has been difficult for the Legion to find a battler in this section who was not afraid to meet him.

Oklahoma promoters declare that Harry Cooper and Willis are just about the only mittsters in the southwest who are willing to mix it with Bean.

Cooper and Wills, fighting last week in a bout billed as for the championship of Oklahoma, scrapped to a draw. Bean immediately declared he would take on either of them. Cooper was unavailable, but Wills agreed to meet Brean here Thursday night over the 10-round route.

Regan Gets Test

Johnny Reagan, another newcomer, from Dallas, will appear in a special 8-round event with Kid Dorland of Enid. Dorland has fought here once, losing to Trammel after a pretty 9-rounds of milling.

This is to be a test bout for the Dallas battler. His manager here last week offered to match him with Trammel on a winner-take-all basis. Legion promoters decided to pit him against Dorland first for the purpose of finding out whether or not a bout with Trammel would be a good one.

Two Murdocks

Tabby Levine of Wichita Falls, is to mix it with Kid Murdock of Oklahoma City in a 6-rounder. There are two Kid Murdocks, both brothers. One of them fought on the last Legion card. He is to meet Battling Kosse of Wichita Falls in either a four or six-rounder.

Of the fighters carded who are not Wichita Falls boys Dorland and Bean are expected in Wichita Falls this morning to windup their training here. The others will come later.

Megargel Wins Archer County Basketball Title

Victors Rate Four Men On Mythical All- County Quintet

By defeating Archer City, 17 to 4, on the Archer City court Monday Megargel captured the Archer county cage championship, and is in readiness to participate in the district meet the latter part of this month.

Yesterday's victory nosed out Archer City last Wednesday, 6 to 5, at Megargel, and by coming back Monday for such a decisive win over now have a clear claim to the title.

Walker was high point man with four field goals for eight counters. Ikard of Archer City and Walsh of the champs tied for second each with four points. Ikard tossed a field basket and two fouls. Walsh connected with a pair from the floor.

The contest was refereed by Coach Benge of Wichita Falls junior high school.

Following the game officials selected the annual mythical all-county quintet. Pierce and Kent of Megargel were placed at forwards. Walker of Megargel was chosen for the center position. Ikard of Archer City and Walsh of Megargel were picked at guard. Morrison of Archer City was awarded honorable mention.

He's Still Far From Title

Mandell's Victory Over Sid Terris Not Bery Impressive

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Sammy Mandel of Rockford, Ill., may be Sid Terris' master and one of the "leading contenders" for Benny Leonard's lightweight crown, but he is still far from that title.

His victory over Terris the other night wasn't very impressive. Terris slammed him to the floor in the third round. Again in the fifth round Terris dazed Sammy and took the rubber out of his knees with a sock to the head. Little in such a showing to weave a laurel wreath for Mr. Mandel.

There was nothing produced that would convince the average fan that either one of the boys had more right to Benjamin's title than Sid Barbarian or Louis Vicentini, two of the other outstanding members of the chosen 16 who will fight it out in a tourney for Ben's crown.

Mandell's main claim to fame before meeting Terris was a no-decision battle with Leonard over a year ago. Terris had set up quite a row of victories over men of varied ability. Some eastern enthusiasts had intimated that Terris' showing ha helped Leonard hurry his retirement from the ring. If Terris was at his best the other night Leonard need have little fear of him for a couple of years.

Coyotes Scamper Over Iowa Park Loopers, 34 To 1

Park 16-Year-Olds Nose Out Wichita Falls Youngsters

Wichita Falls high schools' 16-year-old cage five lost a hard tussle to Iowa Parks' 16-year-olds, 10 to 8, Monday night on the latters' court, but McCallum's Coyotes came back in the second game of a double header and completely avenged the defeat of their younger buddies by trimming the Iowa Park regulars, 34 to 1.

The play of the little fellows was featured by a fast passing and close guarding game with Habern of the Wichita Falls team starring in the defensive role. Hooks of the victors and Howard of the losers each tossed a pair of field goals for high scoring honors.

The Iowa Park regulars stood no show with the Coyotes from the outset, and were bested in every department of play. The defensive work of O. Powell proved too airtight for the Parkers to overcome. Ed Powell, his brother waged a fine game, but his was of the roving style of play, leaving the bulk of the guarding for O. Powell.

Superb passing and the goaling ability of Andrea who pitched six field baskets, Jenkins who threw three goals and one foul, and E. Powell who came through for seven points, is the gist of the Coyote victory.

Hill, Iowa Park forward, connected with his team's lone tally via the free throw route.

The dates for the junior championship were not decided today, but the event, which is for golfers under 21, will be held at a Chicago club, probably early in August.

President Charles O. Pfeil, of Memphis, reported that the season promised to be one of the best ever experienced by the Western Golf association.

LEONARD CAN'T GIVE PRESENT CROP OF CONTENDERS MUCH

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion rates the 16 boxers the New York athletic commission has designates to battle it out for the lightweigh title as a "lot of fine boys," but he says he cannot get excited over any of them.

Leonard said today he would not attempt ot pick the best of the 16 for the reason it was impossible to figure them.

"One fellow licks another today and then gets licked the next time he starts."

"Smith beats Jones and Jones beats Brown whereupon some one turns around and beats Smith. How are you going to figure them?"

ETCHEN CAPTURES INTERSTATE TROPHY

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9.—Fred Etchen of Coffeyville, Kansas, defeated E. B. Melrath, Philadelphia, in a shoot-off at the twenty-first annual interstate trap shooting tournament here today, wresting the interstate individual amateur flyer cup from Pete Baggerman of St. Louis. Baggerman shot with 22 challengers. Melrath and Etchen tied in the twenty-five target race with perfect score. In the shoot-off, Etchen scored five straight hits and Melrath, three.

J. L. Nicoll, Denver, won the preliminary 100 target race with a perfect score. G. M. Troeh, Portland, Ore., was second with 99 targets and Mark Arie, Champaign, Ills., ... with 98. D. C. Hayward of Wesawanga, Wis., was fourth with 97.

McGraw Arrives At Training Camp Ahead Of Squad

Muggsy Doesn't Expect To Replace Any Of Regulars

SARAZOTA, Fla., Feb. 9.—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants has arrived here one week in advance of his first contingent of ball tossers.

The Giants' manager stated that 47 players were coming to the training camp and that the pitchers and catchers would arrive next Sunday.

While 16 youngsters will make the trip this year he said that it was hardly probable that any of his regulars would be replaced as he was depending upon them to make a strong bid for the National league pennant this year.

Frogs Defeat Steers, 31-12

FORT WORTH, Feb. 9.—The Texas Christian university basketball team tonight defeated the Texas Longhorns by a score of 31 to 12 in one of the roughest and most interesting games ever staged here. It is the first time that the Christians have ever defeated the Longhorns in any sporting event.

MADDEN SIGNS TO BATTLE GIBBONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Bartley Madden, Irish heavyweight who stayed the limit with Harry Wills last year, signed today to meet Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul in a 16-round match featuring the opening outdoor show of the Queensboro A. C. early in May. Madden signed for the match through his manager, Charley Rose, according to announcement by Lew Raymond, Queensboro matchmaker who said he had wired terms to Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, at Chicago.

DRISCOLL IT WAS WHO BEAT ATTELL

Abe Attell, when in his prime was one of the shrewdest, fastest and most skilful boxers in the game. The one-time featherweight champion at the height of his career, ranked as one of the greatest men among the little fellows of all time.

There was one gent, however, who received due credit for a victory over Attell when the latter seemed unbeatable. That chap died the other day in Cariff, Wales. He was Jem Driscoll.

Driscoll held the featherweight championship of England. He reigned as one of England's boxing idols until his death.

He was one of the fastest men the game has produced. He shot his punches home with the speed of lightning. He was shifty, a great defensive boxer, and a ready mixer.

He was only 42 when he died—the victim of stomach trouble. He underwent an operation a year ago for the trouble but the relief was only temporary.

His passing is regretted abroad and in the U. S.

KIRKWOOD WON'T DEFEND HIS TITLE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Joe Kirkwood, holder of the Texas open golf championship, will not defend his title in the tournament which begins Tuesday at San Antonio, he announced today. He has found it will be impossible for him to reach San Antonio until an hour or two before play begins, he said, and feeling that he could not possibly play his usual game after the long trip without rest he has cancelled arrangements for his departure.

Three Amateur Champs To Play In Texas Open

Wichita Falls Golfer Tops List of Invading Amateurs

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 9.—Three state amateur champions will play in the Texas open championship tournament here Friday and Saturday, it became known this morning, when the entry of Tommy Cochran, the Texas state champion, now of Wichita Falls, was received. W. H. Gardner, of Milwaukee, the Wisconsin state champion, is already here, and Larry Broomfield, enver, seven times winner in Colorado state, will arrive tonight.

There are exactly 100 professionals entered, at the latest check, and 87 amateurs. The field will be well over 200, officials predict.

Among the pro entries are two Abe Mitchells, one from England and the other a youngster from Tampico, Mexico. Mexico is sending a dozen pros and amateurs to take part.

DELANEY-SLATTERY MEETING FEB. 13 SHOULD BE CORKER

That Jack Delaney-Jimmy Slattery bout scheduled by Tex Rickard for February 13th, will be better than half the championships that could be staged, Delaney is going up against a real fight when he meets this Buffalo boy. Slattery is lightning-fast and has a peculiar boxing style, dancing about with his hands dangling at his sides and hitting from all unexpected angles, that will offset Delaney's deliberate figuring for knockout openings.

The Berlenbach-Flowers bout on the 26th will be another corker. Seems that the top-notch fighters aren't as much afraid of each other as they used to be.

PADDOCK WANTS TO RACE NURMI

Charlie Paddock wants a race with Paavo Nurmi. Not that the springtime champion has any notion of becoming a long distance runner. He says that Nurmi, in his flying finishes, has shown that he can sprint. So Paddock wants to run Nurmi a handicap hundred, giving the Finn five yards on a board track race, or if Nurmi would prefer to wait for summer and run on a cinder path Paddock will go east and give him ten yards in a hundred. As Nurmi has just broken his 13th world's record in distance races and must find the going monotonous he may be interested in Paddock's proposal.

SOUTH AMERICA AND SPAIN IN FOR POLO

Polo is becoming very popular in South America, and the Argentine team may have company when it again invades the north. The Argentine is the home of the best polo ponies in the world, and if the Argentine has four Luis Lacey's, Uncle Sam would have something to worr, about in retaining the cup.

Spain is also going in strongly for polo. Within a year or two the king of Spain will offer a new cup to be competed for by the United States, Argentine and Spain. Members of the English team that los' the 1924 series here, say that it will be at least two years before England can develop new players and mounts for championship class.

PAAVO LAPS THREE OPPONENTS THRICE IN 3,000-YARD RUN

PORTLAND, Maine, Feb. 9.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance star, won a featureless victory in the special 3,000 yard run at the American Legion games here tonight and failed by many seconds to touch the world's indoor record of seven minutes, 58 1-5 seconds for the distance. His time was 8 minutes, 14 2-5 seconds.

Nurmi lapped the other three starters twice. He seemingly made no attempt to challenge the record and made no sprint at the finish. His competitors were Sullivan, of Colby, Whittier of Bowdoin and Ludvell of Fort Preble.

MARBERRY AND SPEAKER TO BE GUESTS OF MEXIA

MEXIA, Texas, Feb. 9.—Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, visiting his old home at Hubbard, near here, will spend Wednesday in Mexia, where he first played professional baseball, as guest of local citizens. He will be joined by Fred Marberry, Washington Senator pitcher. Both of the diamond stars will bring their brides.

WYLIE SUCCEEDS TIERNEY

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—L. J. Wylie, retiring president of the Decatur, Ills., club, today will succeed A. E. Tierney of Chicago as president of the Three I league, a position Tierney has held 12 years. Tearney resigned two months ago.

Quatrain Now Derby Favorite

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 9.—Since the winning of the $25,000 New Orleans handicap last Saturday, Quatrain has become one of the favorites here for the Kentucky derby because his success at New Orleans follows the historic path to victory of Black Gold.

Nurmi Changes Running Style

Nurmi is still going strong. There's no limit to his speed and endurance. The only way they'll be able to beat him will be by hooking a ball and chain to his ankle or giving the other runners limit handicaps. Nurmi lost one handicap race, but it might be mentioned that he took several seconds off the world's record for the distance. Joie Ray looked like the only distance runner in this country with a chance to beat Nurmi, and that only because Ray is used to the board tracks. When the Finn beat Joie on his home track, 12 laps to a mile, where Ray knew the turns as well as he knows his own knife and fork, Joie admitted that he was up against running such as he never had seen before. Being beaten by Nurmi indoors was a crushing blow to the veteran champion, who has been unrivaled for many years.

Nurmi runs with his head as well as his legs. Alonzo Stagg and other coaches say that the Finn has changed his style since the Olympics, and now runs more on the ball of the foot, and with higher knee action. He may have picked this up from American runners at Antwerp and Paris, and in the month of training in New York before his American debut. He ran easily on boards in his first race and apparently knew all the tricks and knacks of indoor running. Nurmi has decided to stay in this country for the coming summer season in outdoor running. That means more and more world's records on the cinder paths.

Junior College's Star Forward May Not Play Against Pollywogs

With but a few practice sessions remaining before the Junior college quintet arrays itself here Thursday and Friday night against the invading Texas Christian university Pollywogs Coach Mosley finds himself on verge of losing his leading point getter, Riley Rawls, sharpshooting forward.

Rawls has been absent from practice the past several days because of a knee injury, and it is a strong possibility that he will be in no condition to enter the contests against Dutch Myer's athletes.

The Pollywogs stack up as one of the most powerful cage teams in Texas, and if for no other reason than this, should Rawls be unfit to play, the blow will be a sore one to the Indians.

Johnson Reports To Nats Sunday

World Series Hero Gives Up Hope of Buying Coast Club

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, who announced today that he would pitch again for the Senators, is under orders to report Sunday to Manager Harris at Hot Springs, Ark., to begin training with other veterans of the team.

"I'll be with Washington this spring," he said, "so I do not know whether I will sign a contract for one year or for two years, but there is no chance of my getting a coast league club. The chance to buy the Vernon club was good, but it seems that William Wrigley wanted his friend H. W. Lane, of Salt Lake, to run it and the deal fell through. I'll be in Florida in two weeks to train with the team. As for my salary I can only say that it will not be $30,000 a year.

Johnson said he had had a tentative offer to buy the Sacramento club, but that his mind had been set on getting Oakland or Vernon and now he had given up any idea of buying into a coast league club this year.

LEONARD DIDN'T QUIT BECAUSE OF FEAR

Benny Leonard has balled up the boxing situation by retiring instead of sticking around until some one clipped him on the chin. But Benny is wise. He has been fighting a long time, has held the championship virtually years, has had trouble making the weight for two or three years, and probably feels that he is slipping back a bit. There's no reason why he shouldn't retire, under the circumstances, and every reason why he should. Leonard isn't retiring for fear of having to take a beating. He has been a pretty good champion, always ready to accept a risk. He has met the maulers and the clever ones, has been put down a few times, but has always won. That shows how game he is.

Johnson Should Box Fuente.

Jack Johnson can't even fight for charity, his Michigan bout having been officially called off. The only thing left for Johnson is to go to Mexico and fight Tony Fuente. They could bill it as a scrap for the world's championship, and that far south nobody would know the difference. It was in Mexico that Johnson sprung his famous story that he had "laid down" in the Willard fight in Havana, and consequently was still champion.

T. T. A. C. Quint Swamps Times

Boy Scout Troopers Win Hard Tussle, 17 To 13

Daily Times basketeers found the going rough last night on the Grace Methodist court, losing both ends of a double header, the first game to Troop 1 of the Wichita Falls Boy Scouts, 17 to 13, and the second to the T. T. A. C., 63 to 12.

The scout quint was forced to the limit to win. The Times five held a slight lead at the end of the first half, and threatened thoughout the final period to nose the scouts out. The basket shooting of M. Allred who tossed a sextet of field goals carried the scouts through, however, to a victory.

The second game was a walk-away with the T. T. A. C. scoring almost at will. Windrum was high point man with 11 field goals for a total of 22 counters. Thornberry and Kollman each threw nine baskets from the court.

SOX PAY FELSCH 1920 SALARY CLAIM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 9.—Oscar "Happy" Felsch, banished from organized baseball by Commissioner K. M. Landis, in connection with the 1919 world series scandal today came to an agreement with the Chicago White Sox for $661 unpaid on his 1920 contract and interest.

The agreement was made in the suit in which Felsch claimed salary alleged to be due as a result of the breach of his 1920 contract with the White Sox.

Felsch also claims he was entitled to $1,500 for aiding his club to win the 1917 pennant in the American league. This phase of the case was dropped by Felsch when attorneys for both sides agreed on the salary claim for 1920 contract.

The Story of a Social Climber
by Lucille Van Slyke

"Yes sir," stammered Hendrickson running toward the terrace.

The maid had already opened the door. The reporter who had rung, was, as Nannette had put it, "terribly good looking," young, with a pleasant twinkle in his grey eyes and a nice youthful lift in his voice. He wasn't at all keen about pushing his way into the Quimby house but (his not to reason why) when his city editor informed him that Harrison Quimby had raced back from Chicago. Behind him were three more earnest seekers after news concerning the Quimby-Blanchard elopement.

"Mr. Quimby has nothing sto say," Hendrickson informed them.

"But Mrs. Quimby," the young reporter began.

"Mrs. Quimby has nothing to say," roared the irate bridegroom.

The mocking eyes of the young reporter were upon the blushing Mrs. Quimby.

"Mrs. Stuyvesant Perry, mother of your predecessor, intends to ask the courts for the custody of her daughter's child, on the ground that your being expelled from Pendleton Hall is evidence that you are not a fit person to bring up a young child," he said swiftly. "Don't you want to make some answer to that?"

CHAPTER XLIV.

In Which Quim Lays Down Some Domestic Laws

"Oh," wailed Rosalie. "What a hateful old cat!"

Four pairs of reportorial eyes gleamed at her delightfully feminine wrath.

"Rosalie," thundered her new lord and master, "will you be so good as to go into the living room and wait until I come."

She went reluctantly, looking back over her shoulder at the "terribly good looking" reporter, who had the audacity to wink, ever so slightly at her.

Evidently her husband gave another order for she heard Nannette's petulant: "Oh, daddy!" as the child went across the hallway and up the broad stairs!

A quarter of an hour later her husband came through the living room doors and shut them firmly behind them.

She looked ridiculously little sitting in a big winged chair by the fireplace.

She was rather white and the dark eyes lifted to his were pleading.

He was breathing hard. Evidently he was still very angry; his eyes flashed and his color was high.

"I think that once and for all," he began abruptly, "you and I must have a definite understanding about your position in this household. You are my wife and as such I expect you to conduct yourself with dignity and discretion. Whatever your personal opinion may be concerning the person who was formerly conducting this household—and Mrs. Perry Jid it efficiently and well for a number of years—"

"But you said things, yourself," protested the amazed Rosalie. "You said you didn't like the way she was bringing up Nannette and that you didn't like her horrid little dogs and—"

"I may have been so indiscreet as to criticize her in some ways, to you. But never to outsiders. And I—er—think I never referred to her as 'a hateful old cat!'"

"But she is!" Rosalie's voice quivered. "If she tries to make everybody believe that I—"

"Probably she had done nothing of the sort! That was just a clever subterfuge on the part of that reporter to make you talk. But even if she does contemplate doing something of the sort, surely the very fact that you used such an epithet concerning her might be used as proof that you were unfit to—"

"If you think I am—" Rosalie began excitably.

"I think," he spoke more gently than before, "you love Nannette and I know she loves you dearly. I think you have it in your power to make a great difference in that little girl's life. But not if you do and say indiscreet things that make people misjudge you. Understand clearly that I realize you were left in most difficult position. I owe you an apology," he paused gravely. "I ough to have realized what might have occurred. We won't discuss what happened but I am going to ask you to give me your word of honor that you won't talk to any more reporters and that you won't discuss Nannette's grandmother with anybody, except me."

"All right," said Rosalie a trifle sulkily.

"And the other thing I am going to ask is that you conduct yourself with as much dignity as possible before the servants here, remembering that—"

"None of them do what I tell them to do!" Rosalie interrupted him hotly. "That man you call Stimson was perfectly rude to me when I told him to fetch some wood."

He sighed.

"I think," he said wearily, "that the trouble arises from the fact that you've not had time to acquaint yourself with what constitutes the duties of the various persons employed here. Stimson has been here many years. He is thoroughly trustworthy and I could not easily replace him."

"And you think I'm not! And it would be easy to replace me!" she sprang to her feet. "Oh, oh! I perfectly hate the way you are talking to me! This isn't the way you talked to me that day—that day you married me."

Her lips were trembling, her dark eyes brilliant with unshed tears. She was gorgeously pretty in her little gray frock as she defied him.

"No demure country school ma'am Suddenly and quite illogically he found himself exulting in her new spirit. Altogether abruptly he disliked quietness and was swept the spell of her youthful coldness, the cold chic of that vague resemblance to the wife he lost so long ago.

He took an indecisive step toward her, laughed rather boyishly and stretched out his arms.

"Oh, Rosy Lee!" he murmured! "Come here! We'll forget this whole this! But a vivid, protesting woman! wretched mess and begin over again! You're right, I shouldn't have talked that way—those chaps made me furious! I—Rosy Lee! Come here!"

She did not stir but stood with folded arms contemplating him from under frowning eyebrows. Her heart was beating exultantly.

"I shan't budge!" she thought "I'll make him come to me!"

There was something naively funny in her answer.

"It wouldn't be behaving with—with 'dignity and discretion,'" she murmured slowly. "You just said I had to conduct myself with 'dignity and discretion.'"

The delicious impudence with which she flung his own phrase back at him made him throw back his head and shout softly.

Abruptly he caught her in his arms and the vehemence with which he kissed her rather frightened her. He walked across the room with her, sat down in a big chair and held her closely, murmuring in her pretty ear.

"You're a spiteful little darling."

She didn't struggle but lay rather apathetically still, her long lashes against her flushed cheeks. From under those lashes she contemplated the lovely room, and gave a little sigh of content. She was delightfully pressed with herself.

"He's terribly in love with me. I can do anything I please with him," she thought exultantly. Hm—he needn't try laying down laws on to me—I'll lay down laws to him if he does!"

The fire crackled softly, the room was heavenly warm, the faint spicy odor of great bronze chrysanthemums on the mantelpiece seemed to fill it. She closed her eyes and snuggled against him like a comfortable purring little pussy cat.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—Spot cotton closed steady, 5 points up. Sales on the spot 2181; to arrive 395. Low middling 22.95; middling 24.35; good middling 24.95. Receipts 8715; stock 360,414.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—The cotton market was a two-sided affair in today's session, advancing quite well during the first half of the morning on favorable cables, insufficient rain in Texas and the west generally, and on a bullish consumption estimate for January by domestic mills of 593,000 bales. The October position which manifested the most strength advanced to 24.50 or 29 points above the close of Saturday. Later in the morning prices eased off on selling by ring traders who had bought earlier owing to private reports of rains in Texas and some uneasiness of the liquidation of the March position. During the afternoon prices continued to decline and new lows were made on all positions. The decline was largely due to Liverpool advices to the effect that Lancashire spinners were expected to vote in favor of a reduction in working hours by mills using American cotton. Practically all the early gain was wiped out by the later decline, although October closed 10 points net higher on the day.

The start was fairly active in sympathy with much better cables than due and first trades showed gains of 18 to 24 points. The market continued to improve during the first half of the morning. March finally trading up to 24.42, May to 24.74 and October to 24.50, or 22 to 29 points above Saturday's closing levels.

The subsequent decline which extended virtually to the close carried March down to 24.20, May 24.52 and October 24.31 or 19 to 22 points down from the highs. The close was near the bottom showing net gains for the day of 1 to 3 points on near months and 6 to 10 points on more distant positions.

Although the cabled report that Lancashire mills were expected to resort to short time was largely responsible for the afternoon's decline other cables from Liverpool showed good gains in that market which were inconsistent with the talk of short time. Texas received some rain during the day, according to private reports but it was feared the precipitation was not sufficient to do much good unless followed by other and heavier showers in the near future. Spot news was generally favorable, and the drygoods market also showed improvement. Port receipts for the day totalled 11,193 bales.

Spot cotton remained steady and unchanged Monday, with business growing higher every day, and few transactions reported at around 23.60 to 23.70 for middling staple.

N. Y. Stocks

STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Violent fluctuations in the high priced specialties featured today's irregular stock market, standard industrials and rails indulging in a backing and filling movement.

United States Cast Iron Pipe made a sensational advance of 19 points to 214 a new record figure, and closed at the top. The commercial solvents issues each soared about 11 points, and then forfeited more than half of their gain. American Can was run up 7 points to 172¾, the highest price in its history, and closed within a small fraction of the maximum quotations, most of the advance taking place in the last few minutes of trading. United States Realty common also was run up 7 points to 131. Most of these fluctuations were attributed to the activity of powerful speculative pools.

Approximately two dozen issues sold at their highest prices in a year or more. American Smelting crossed 106 for the first time since 1917, but the other coppers were irregular. General Motors was in brisk demand in anticipation of the increased dividend announced after the market closed, showing a net gain of 1¼ at the record top of 78⅝. Dupont which owns a majority of General Motors stock advanced more than three points, in sympathy, also attaining a new maximum at 149¼. New peak prices also were recorded by Hudson and Gardner Motor.

Nash Motors broke 8½ points to 261½ or nearly 30 points below its recent high. S. S. Kresge dropped 4¼ points to 494⅝.

Outside of American, pivotal industrials showed little change in the day. United States Steel common fluctuated within a range of 1⅛ points, closing ⅛ higher at 127½. Studebaker showed a slight fractional loss at 45⅝. Baldwin closed unchanged at 134½, after selling between 133½ and 135⅝.

Oils displayed a reactionary tone as a result of further profit taking and bear selling. Bear selling, due to the threatened investigation of gasoline prices. Most of the rails also were backward, although Wabash preferred A, Texas and Pacific and Missouri Pacific preferred showed independent strength and sold at new high prices.

Call money opened at 3¼ per cent and then advanced to 4 and 4½ as a result of the increased demand for funds and the calling of loans to make up the deficit in reserve reported in the clearing house statement last Saturday. There was little activity in the time money and commercial paper markets and the rates held steady.

Foreign exchange displayed a firm tone. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.78 and French francs were moderately active around 5.37½ cents.

A spirit of progressiveness prevails in the south which promises well for its future growth and prosperity, according to Edward E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, who has returned from a trip to Havana and the Florida resorts. Large sections of the south have gained especially through water power development, he said, and the extension of transmission lines is making itself felt.

"PURIFYING GAS" HOT STUFF

And Negro Seeres and Family Nearly Succomb As A Result.

CORONA, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Belle Henchill, negro "seeress and purifier," filled her home Sunday with "purifying" fumes in preparation for the millenium she had prophesied for this week. A patrolman found the seeress, her husband and their six children in a stupor and sent them to the hospital. City chemists are analyzing the decoction which was emitting the fumes.

An Inch of Gasoline

Melts off the top of each crude tank daily where tanks are not positively gas tight.

And it's pure D stuff, airplane quality, the very cream of the crude.

The producer loses and nobody gains.

A Battery of M & V WELDED STEEL TANKS with an EMVEE SIGHT FLOW SEPARATOR pays for itself in a surprisingly short time.

With three dollar oil in sight for this year why delay replacing those old tanks with approved equipment.

We say M & V's are quite the best the market affords.

THE OLD, OLD MOTHER-IN-LAW PROBLEM—HOW CAN A YOUNG COUPLE STOP THE HABIT OF ARGUING OVER TRIFLES? —HOW CAN "TWENTY-ONE" GET RID OF A GIRL WHO WANTS TO MARRY HIM?

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married just one year and my husband's mother lives with us. She does everything that is possible to cause trouble between us. She tells him that I am unkind to her, that I gossip about him, all sorts of untrue things, and is attempting to run me out of my home.

Do you think that I should put up with this? I love my husband dearly, but when I tell him how she does he only says, "Oh, well, she's old," and that he is her only child, and there is no one else to take care of her.

MRS. L. O. W.

Answer:

The mother-in-law problem, my dear, causes more tears, more heartaches, and misery than any other one in the world. It is the most inscrutable, for it has a thousand different angles, and the wise way to solve it is generally the way it can't be solved.

No two women, and especially no two women who love the same man, ought ever to undertake to live in the same house together. They are simply inviting trouble to come in and camp on their hearthstone when they do. They bring together all sorts of jealousies, and sex antagonism, and different ways of housekeeping, and when these collide the home becomes an understudy of a Kilkenny cat fight.

Therefore, a man does a wrong and foolish thing when he asks a girl to marry him when his mother must live with him, and a woman takes a foolhardy risk on her happiness when she accepts him, but it is often a question of no wedding bells or mother.

Then, if a woman has accepted the situation and married a man, knowing she must live with his mother, it seems to me that she is only playing the game if she brings all of her fortitude and patience to enduring whatever she has to put up with, and using all the tact and diplomacy of which she is capable in getting along with the old woman, and if she shuts her teeth on her complaints and does not make her husband miserable by running to him with complaints of his mother.

This isn't easy to do, I know; but it can bpe done, and it will pay in happiness. For it takes two to make a quarrel, even with a mother-in-law. If you do not answer back when mother-in-law finds fault with you her criticisms will fall flat.

It is literally true that the soft answer turns away wrath, and that there are very few persons that you cannot get around with a little jollying.

After all, the best way to handle a mother-in-law is by making a friend of her.

Your husband's defense of his mother, "Oh, she is old," sums up all that can be said on the subject. The old make always a call upon the patience of the young, for they are almost invariably querulous, and nagging, and fault finding. But the young should forgive this because they are so pitiful and so helpless.

We should find it easier to bear with the weaknesses of age, because some time the young must be patient and forbearing with us, and we should show to our mothers-in-law the consideration that some day we shall pray a daughter-in-law to show to us.

DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * * * * *

Dear Miss Dix—My wife and I have been married thirteen months. We argued from the first, but loved each other just the same. But now we find that we are quarreling all the time over trifles, and we are less and less guarded about what we say to each other, and I am afraid that it is going to wreck our happiness. What do you think? A. F. N.

Answer:

I think there is no other such first aid to divorce as the arguing habit, and that any two persons who indulge in this vicious practice are sure to come to hate each other in the end. There can be no peace and harmony in a home where every statement brings on a dispute and where everything one does, or leaves undone, calls for criticism and endless discussion.

The people we like and whose society we enjoy are those who agree with us, not those who antogonize us and who differ with us on every subject from politics to pie.

But why argue? No one is ever convinced by an argument. No one ever changes his point of view because of anything you say. Furthermore, why should you wish to make every one think as you do? Other persons, even husbands and wives, have a perfect right to their own opinion and likes and dislikes.

I should certainly advise you and your wife to agree on this one point—not to argue. If she says black is white, let it go at that. If she says that Chicago is the capital of Oklahoma, permit the statement to stand uncontradicted. Try to get her to be equally fair to you. And if she still persists in arguing don't answer back, and she will be forced into silence, because you can't argue with any one who won't argue back. DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * * * * *

Dear Miss Dix—How can I get rid of a girl who wants to marry me and whom I don't want to marry? I don't want to marry anybody, for I am only 21, and I have a good home, and money, and lots of companionship, so why should I tie myself down with a wife? But this girl is determined to have me. I have tried in every way to show her that I am not in love with her and don't want to marry her, but she pursues me, and what to do is a cross-word puzzle I can't solve. IN TOUGH.

Answer:

You have my sympathy, son. You certainly are in danger, for when a girl is that determined to have a man she generally gets him. But I should say that the answer to your cross-word puzzle is in two words, the first of four letters and the second of two letters, which mean a get-away. DOROTHY DIX.

Traffic Signals Are Operated From 11 A. M. Until 8 P. M.

As a step in their campaign of experiments with the new traffic lights, police yesterday operated the signals from 11 o'clock in the morning straight on through until 8 in the evening. Suggestions have been made from several sources that such operation would be more beneficial than the use of the system merely in the rush hours.

Officers believed that the longer hours accomplished considerable good yesterday. The same thing, it was indicated, will probably be tried again today.

HE BLAMES MAYOR HYLAN

Justice's Report Says He's to Blame For Traffic Troubles.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The probable political effect of Justice McAvoy's transit report was the subject of wide speculation in political circles today. In his report Justice McAvoy placed most of the blame for New York's transit tangle on Mayor Hylan's administration and said that the charges of neglect of duty brought against the state transit commission by the mayor and the board of estimate were without foundation. When the charges were made, Governor Smith appointed Justice McAvoy to investigate the whole transit situation.

A Novel Costume

"My small daughter was to go to a fancy dress party, where there would be the usual array of Mother Goose characters represented, and she wanted to be "something different." So she became a "Flour" girl. I made her a cunning frock of ringed flour sacks, with a hat trimmed in imitation wheat. There were tiny sample bags of flour strung from her girdle, while in a basket upon her arm she carried a supply of diminutive cakes. She reported being quite popular at the party!

Sen. Parnell Will Support Repeal Of The Cox Bill

Wichita Senator Also Renews Position On His Public Utilities Bill

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9.—Senator J. D. Parnel of Wichita Falls announced Monday. He will support the Barker bill to repeal the cox gas utilities law which gives the state railroad commission authority over city ordinances fixing gas rates.

Parnell declared his public utilities bill, on the re-drafting of which a committee of mayors and city officials are engaged Monday, was intended to require efficient local control of utilities and to eliminate need for supervision from Austin.

"I favor the cities controlling their utilities, and not putting that authority at Austin," he declared.

He pledged himself to do everything possible toward securing the passage of the repeal measure.

Wichita Falls and Sherman have both had experience in appeals of gas companies to the railroad commission to override their ordinance governing gas rates.

Warning is Issued Over Traffic Lights

Police are still having considerable trouble with motorists who refuse to heed instructions on right hand turns against red traffic lights. Previous warnings have been given about this and it is now intended that more drastic action will be taken if an improvement does not come speedily.

Many drivers here are under the impression that they can make a right hand turn, even when the red lights are set against traffic. This is an absolute fallacy, officers declare, and must be stopped.

THIEF IN A NEW ROLE

Posing as Property Buyer He Gains Entrance To a Home.

Warnings to be on guard against "phoney" real estate operators whose chief game is to gain entrance to a house and then retreat with any article of value that may be in sight were sounded yesterday by the police.

It was prompted by the report of a woman living on the west side, who told officers yesterday morning that a man had called at her home and asked if it were for sale. The place was on the block, all right, and on being so informed he asked permission to look through it. This was readily granted, as was later a request for a drink of water.

After the "agent" had gone, the woman discovered her husband's watch and a few other pieces of jewelry were gone.

Sleeping Beauty

A Brave Prince

The prince ordered his favorite horse to be saddled. Then he changed into his hunting suit, called his followers together with a blast of his horn, and off they set on their hunting trip.

As the horses were picking their way down the steep side of a hill the prince cried suddenly, "Look! What are those towers I see among those tall trees down there to the left?"

"It's a deserted palace," replied one of his men. "No one knows anything about it, but it's supposed to be haunted by witches. There's a thick hedge around it that no one could possibly get through."

"That's exciting!" cried the daring prince. "I should like to explore it."

(Here's the suit the prince was wearing about the court before he changed to his hunting suit, which you'll see tomorrow. Color it green, with a golden belt. Slit his hat on the dotted line).

Law Rattles As the Rattler Rattled By

His antiquated flivver was rickety and unstable—but it was nevertheless full of vim and vigor.

So was he.

An astounded copper rubbed his eyes and gaped in amazement late Sunday night when the machine with its Ethiopian pilot scraped by a down town corner. Three of the wheels were in rattling good shape. The fourth—had been. Right front, it was, but a silver hub was all that remained. It hung on the end of the axle and served its purpose, not effectively but passably.

The negro had the throttle wide open and was ploughing ahead full steam when the law got on his trail. He brought his bouncing puddle jumper to halt by merely slowing up the motor, which promptly stalled and died. Protestingly, he was led to jail and a charge of intoxication lodged against him. When he sobered up, he was released on a $10 cash bond, and this was forfeited Monday morning in police court.

Patrons Hear Of Nyack Plan At Weekly Meeting

Dr. Sartell Prentice Invited To Address Alliance February 16

A discussion of the Nyack plan for the encouragement of church attendance, being now presented in the city by Dr. Sartell Prentice, leader of the nation wide movement, filled the entire meeting hour for the Wichita Falls ministerial Alliance at the First Christian church Monday morning when the body met in regular session.

Dr. Prentice, who is directing the work locally through a committee of 30 Wichita Falls business men, two thirds of whom are not regular church attendants, will be invited to address the pastors at their next meeting, Monday February 16.

Rev. Milo Atkinson, who presided at the meeting, was to have delivered an address, but postponed his talk until Monday Feb. 23, for the consideration of the Nyack movement.

A circle prayer, in which several pastors present participated, opened the meeting and a song service led by Rev. Leslie Miller followed.

NYACK COMMITTEE MEETING IS CHANGED.

Members of the committee functioning here in the interests of the Nyack plan, sponsored by Dr. Sartell Prentice of Nyack, N. Y., as a means of promoting religious sentiment for a moral rehabilitation of the country will meet Tuesday night at 6:30 at the Wichita club rooms. The meeting place and hour was changed Monday and announced by J. T. Harrell, chairman of the committee. It was stressed that this session will in no way conflict with the Musicians club program, scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Active steps toward the conducting of a big mass meeting next Sunday afternoon at the Wichita theatre will probably be made at tonight's meeting.

Depository Contract To the City National

With only two bids submitted, one from the City National and the other from the First National, the county commissioners' court Monday awarded to the former bank the contract as county depository for the next two years. The successful bidder offered a return of 5.84 per cent on monthly balances, against two per cent of the other bid. The City National has been the county depository for the last two years, with a 4.25 per cent rate in effect.

All banks in the county were asked to bid for the funds but only two were received.
