Harrold to Meet Bomarton For Right to Enter Cage Finals

Lopsided Scores Eliminate Holliday, Jacksboro In Night Play

Record News Sports Editor

The Wichita Falls Coyotes and Olney Cubs, prevailing favorites, breezed through opening rounds of the district No. 4 interscholastic league tournament here yesterday in easy fashion, setting the stage for the real fireworks of the tournament, which will be set off this morning when these two high-powered quintets clash in the semifinal round.

Leaders to Meet

The Harrold Hornets, Wilbarger county champions, and the Bomarton Sailors, Baylor county rulers, likewise entered the semifinal round and will meet today in the lower bracket contest. Most interest, however, will be centered on the Coyote-Olney game, the winner of this game being favored to cop the district title.

The Coyotes last night in very nonchalant fashion polished off the Jacksboro Tigers, 38 to 17, in the Pack's second triumph of the day, Holton's cagers having blasted the lid off the current festivities with a 41 to 17 victory over Electra's Bengals in the first game of the tournament Friday morning.

In the second game last night, the Harrold Hornets, Wilbarger county champions, ran rough shod over the Holliday quintet, Archer county champions, 57 to 11. The Holliday team was considerably weakened by the absence of several regulars, confined with influenza, and made but a poor showing against the goal-loopers who a week or so ago eliminated the Vernon Lions from the Wilbarger county race.

700 See Night Games

All games yesterday were played on the high school court. Last night's games attracted a crowd of approximately 700 fans.

The Wichita Falls-Olney semifinal bout will be played this morning at 9 o'clock. The Harrold-Bomarton game will be played starting at 10 a. m.

Senate Passes Bill To Remove Federal Reserve Limitations

Measure Goes to House for Approval; Complete Passage Predicted Before End of Week; Provides for Increase In "Free Gold" of System

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (UP)—The senate late today passed without record vote the Glass-Steagall federal reserve credit and currency and expansion bill, designed to increase federal reserve credit to banks and buttress American gold reserves.

The measure was amended at the last minute to extend from one to two years that section providing for emergency issuance of money to protect gold reserves and for loans to individual banks. The other section of the bill providing for loans to groups of banks is without limit.

Goes to House

The bill now goes back to the house, which passed it last week, for adjustment of differences.

This procedure is expected to delay President Hoover's signature and final enactment of the measure until the middle of next week, because of the week-end recess and the observance of Washington's birthday.

Not a single voice was raised in opposition to the bill when the vote was taken. The measure provides:

1—Permanently, that groups of five or more national banks can borrow from the federal reserve on their notes and collateral, upon approval of a majority of the federal reserve board.

2—Until March 4, 1933, that individual national banks of $2,000,000 or less capitalization, in emergencies, and on the federal reserve board's approval, be advanced money in their notes and collateral by the federal reserve. Foreign securities are barred as collateral for loans under either of these provisions.

3—Until March 4, 1934, federal reserve banks can use United States government bonds as a basis for currency issue, with the legal gold reserve of 40 per cent.

The third provision was drafted, according to a co-author of the bill, Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, Virginia, to prevent threatened "raids" by France and other countries on the nation's great supply of gold, much of which is "earmarked" to meet European obligations in this country.

Murray Comments Quite Briefly on Texas Martial Law

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 19. (AP)—Gov. William H. Murray briefly commented today regarding a federal court ruling at Tyler, Texas, which held void the military control of the East Texas oil field.

He said:

"I don't know anything about the Texas law in connection with the case, but I do know it is illegal for a federal court under the constitution of the United States to take such action, except that the supreme court of the United States may do so."

GUARDS STAY IN OIL FIELDS

Military Rule Holds Despite Court Order

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—The East Texas oil field still was under martial law tonight pending compliance with legal formalities that will make effective an opinion of a United States district court that Gov. R. S. Sterling exceeded his authority to enforce proration there.

As commander in chief of the Texas national guard, the governor had drawn on his military power to curb production of the big pool. He planned to resist the finding of the court through legal channels. The case was considered and determined by three federal judges who sat at Houston.

Plaintiffs in the suit brought to test the right of martial law rule have under the law a maximum of 15 days in which to draft a formal order reciting the court's holding. The order then will be entered as the finding of the court. That done, the governor will be forced to relinquish his military authority there unless the court should agree to vacate the order pending an appeal to the supreme court. However, it was likely he would keep his troops there to assist the railroad commission in enforcing "prudent and reasonable" operations.

Former Gov. Dan Moody and other attorneys who represented Governor Sterling at trial of the case, were studying a copy of the court opinion. Governor Sterling's only comment was that the case would be appealed.

It was indicated that in event the court refused to vacate the order pending determination of the case on appeal, the Texas railroad commission, administrator of state conservation statutes in normal times, would resume supervision over the area, comprising the counties of Smith, Rusk Gregg and Upshur. Attorneys said the court's finding did not interfere with the railroad commission's right to act.

Suspect Caught In Kirkland Robbery

CHILDRESS, Texas, Feb. 19. (AP)—A man was arrested here this afternoon as a suspect in the robbery of the First State bank at Kirkland, near here, early today. Two men took approximately $400 after kidnaping Night Watchman Frank Campbell.

Officers hoped that a necklace picked up just outside the bank a short time after the robbery would aid them in their search for the robbers. The hunt centered in Childress.

Campbell will view the suspect tomorrow.

The robbers escaped along the Childress highway in an automobile leaving Campbell bound, gagged and blindfolded in the bank building. He was overpowered about 1 a. m. while making his rounds, and was taken to the bank.

ATTACKS DESCRIBED

Hired Girl Tells Court Details of Repeated Abuse by Man

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Feb. 19.—W. H. (Bill) Foster, 69-year-old farmer, today was sentenced to serve 20 years in the state penitentiary, after a jury in Judge Allan D. Montgomery's 30th district court found him guilty of criminal attack on a young woman employed at his farm 16 miles southeast of here.

The jury returned its verdict after deliberation of 40 minutes. The case was given to the jury at 4 o'clock, after defense and prosecution attorneys consumed the allotted one hour to each side in argument. The state had asked the death penalty.

The aged farmer sat quietly through the trial. He heard the verdict stolidly and without show of emotion.

Foster Denies Charge

Foster, through his attorneys, C. V. Derden and W. H. Fillmore, pleaded not guilty before the introduction of testimony.

The complaining witness, a 21-year-old widow, first took the witness stand, and testified that the defendant had assaulted her three times on two occasions. She declared that the first time Foster took her to an abandoned house on the farm, where, she claimed, the farmer had attacked her. Some time later, her testimony indicated, Foster's wife and daughter left for a visit, leaving her alone at the home with the farmer. On this occasion, during the day and night of Jan. 31, she said, Foster forced her with threats and the use of a pistol, to again comply with his wishes.

Dr. T. C. McCurdy and Dr. H. L. Applewhite, Archer City physicians, testified that they had made a personal examination of the young woman after the alleged assault and that they found her condition indicated she had been attacked.

Gun Introduced

As Jap Aerial Bomb Started Great Fire In Shanghai

Copyright, 1932, by NEA Service, Inc. Transmitted by Telephoto.

Crashing bombs from hawk-eyed Japanese war planes touched off a blaze in the international settlement, as shown in this exclusive telephoto taken while the Japanese invaders were making their first thrust for control of Shanghai. High explosive bombs struck the Odeon theater (right center), famous playhouse of the Orient, in the heart of a teeming business area. Photo shows machine gunners of the Japanese marines crouched behind their sandbag barricades while officers survey the start of the conflagration that caused millions of dollars in damage to tight-packed blocks of the northern Shanghai district.

House Members In Verbal Battle On Garner And Cannon Questions

Speaker's Presidential Chances Come Up in Bishop's Libel Suit; Garner Claims Wet and Dry Endorsement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—The endorsement of both "wets and drys" was claimed in the house today for Speaker Garner, a Democratic presidential possibility.

During a discussion of law suits involving Bishop James Cannon Jr., Representative Blanton, an ardent prohibitionist, predicted Garner would sweep the country because "the people believe there is something here beside the liquor question."

The Texas Democrat spoke in reply to remarks made Thursday by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, challenging Bishop Cannon to an open court trial of the $500,000 libel suit the churchman has filed against him.

Garner Discussed

Garner was brought into the discussion by Representative Schafer, Republican, Wisconsin, an anti-prohibitionist. He said that though Garner voted against the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, he voted for "the notorious five-and-ten" law.

"We can realize why the father of the 18th amendment, Senator Sheppard, and the stepfather, William G. McAdoo, came out for him," Schafer said.

"My friend will find that the man I nominated will get every vote in the gentleman's district except one, because every progressive he represents is going to vote for him," Blanton replied.

Vote Cited

Schafer retorted that Garner, "who has been condemning the delay in the reorganization of the executive departments also voted for $24,000,000 to be given the execu-

CHURCH MEET OPENS HERE

Young People Gather For Three-Day Program

Problems facing constructive building of Christianity in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and established results in that city were detailed Friday evening by Rev. Rex D. Hopper in the opening address of the third state World Fellowship meet at the First Christian church in Wichita Falls.

Rev. Hopper and his wife have served as missionaries in Buenos Aires and both have prominent parts on the three-day program. More than 100 young people and their friends gathered at the church for a social hour and banquet Friday evening. Delegates from as far as Temple, and Midland, registered early in the afternoon and were assigned to homes.

Eight students from Texas Christian university at Fort Worth arrived by bus and are scheduled to take leading roles in the activities of the gathering. Miss Louise Spinks of T. C. Nipponese Push Begins as Invaded Forces Refuse To Withdraw SHANGHAI, Feb. 20. (UP)—Japanese troops were repulsed in the first phase of their big offensive when Chinese troops, fighting stubbornly, recaptured the village of Klangwan and beat off a tank attack.

The Japanese tank charge revealed the Chinese troops had mined the area heavily and had planted hidden batteries of 4.7 guns which threatened to put the Japanese tank force out of commission.

Beaten back, the Japanese tanks retreated under heavy fire to a point of safety where the commanders went into a hurried conference to consider the next move.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20. (Saturday) (AP)—Infantry assault lines were advancing this morning behind the cover of a Japanese barrage laid down on Chinese positions on the Klangwan front, Japanese naval headquarters announced.

While the barrage was going on aviators bombed the Chinese lines. A spokesman at the Japanese headquarters aboard the flagship Idzumo said the Japanese were encountering the stiffest opposition.

The Chinese artillery, this spokesman declared ,was raining shells into the assault lines and machine gunners kept up continuous fire from behind barricades.

The 87th and 88th divisions of the crack troops of General Chiang Kai-Shek, China's chief military commander, were reliably reported to have taken up positions in Klangwan, north of Shanghai.

This was regarded as a highly important development as the Japanese have drawn a careful line of distinction between Chiang's troops and the 19th Chinese route army, the unit hitherto serving on the Shanghai front.

Japanese planes were bombing the Klangwan positions supposedly held by the 87th and 88th.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20. (Saturday)—The Japanese imperial forces grimly kept a promise to Emperor Hirohito today and began a general naval, land and air offensive against Chinese armies holding the 16-mile Shanghai-Woosung front.

Shelling from heavy Japanese artillery batteries began at 8:55 a. m. The big siege guns battered and smashed the Chinese defenses north and east of Shanghai, and were answered by Chinese howitzers and trench mortars.

Fleets of Japanese fighting planes and air bombers, racks loaded with shining aerial torpedoes, climbed into the sky and unloaded death on the Chinese defenders.

Ships Resume Fire

The Japanese cruisers and destroyers in the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers resumed their sharp shellfire on the ruins of the Woosung forts.

Machine guns sprayed no man's land along the front with thousands of deadly bullets, and Japanese infantry in the Chapei, Paoshan and Kiangwan areas were reported ready to attack.

Six thousand pounds of Japanese aerial bombs were dropped around the Chinese observation post on the 150-foot water tower of the international race course. The Chinese fired at the diving bombers with machine guns.

One shell landed in the Chungyin mill, from which a company of U. S. marines had just moved, and into which the relieving company was about to take up billets.

No marines were present, but the explosion wrecked their bunks and shattered the windows of the building.

Bombing Increases

Aerial bombing and artillery fire on the western end of the front increased each minute, but the Chinese batteries toward Woosung

Repeal Considered For Tax Deduction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—The house ways and means committee today began consideration of the proposal to repeal tax deduction allowances on foreign investments estimated at about $35,000,000.

The proposal was advocated by acting Chairman Crisp before the group forming the $1,241,000,000 revenue bill.

Also, Undersecretary Ballantine submitted the treasury's views on suggestions to repeal or modify the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax law.

No conclusions were reached.

At present, American concerns with branches in foreign countries are allowed to deduct from federal taxes the amount of taxes already paid on their foreign made profits. Often times such concerns thus evade payment of any federal taxes.

Tom Pickett, Veteran Of Wild Times On Plains, Takes Bride At Munday

Constable Who 'Choked Elephant To Death' Here In Early Days Recalls Battle

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 19.—Tom Pickett, among the last of this section's remaining stalwart figures of the old West, announced here today that he had again become a husband at the age of 72 years.

The hardy cattleman, who is manager of the south pasture of the 265,000-acre "6666" ranch in King county, said that yesterday he and Mrs. Bessie Tankersley, Knox county widow, had married at Guthrie, King county, Texas.

One of those figures around which are wrapped the tradition and history of West Texas, Tom Pickett has led an active and by no means adventureless life in this section. He has many years' credit as a peace officer, fitted into a life which started when the plains of West Texas were a wilderness of mesquite.

Pickett was a resident of Wichita Falls from 1881 to about 1912. He served as deputy there under three sheriffs, F. M. Davis, R. M. Moore and Pete Randolph. Later he was constable for 14 years. While out of office as constable he served Wichita Falls for a number of years as a night policeman. Other experience as an officer was gained at Fort Worth and at Grandfield, Okla.

His adventures during these years were countless.

He claims to be the only "elephant killing" constable in the state, if not the entire nation.

Today as he was being congratulated on his marriage, he related how some 30 years ago in Wichita Falls he was called upon to kill an elephant.

A circus came to town, he said, and among its herd of pachyderms was a ferocious beast with the death of seven men to his credit. He was chained to his railroad car to prevent his going on a rampage.

Circus officials called on Constable Pickett to execute the man-killing elephant. Constable Pickett volunteered.

Weighted down with chains and barely able to walk with steel hobbles, the beast was led to a point south of town, now a residential section. The man-hating elephant was picketed to numerous stakes driven deep into the ground.

Pickett levelled a high-powered rifle at the elephant's head. He pulled the trigger. The elephant screamed in a fit of pain as the bullet seared his tough flesh.

Frantically the beast tugged at his chains in lusty efforts to free himself. Pickett fired shot after shot into the huge beast but the rifle lacked power to penetrate the elephant's brain.

Constable Pickett's reputation as an elephant killer was at stake. He called to town for teams of horses. Huge chains about the beast's neck were attached to the horses and the command was given to the teams to go. Horses tugging from all sides, the chains around the elephant's neck tightened.

As the animal trumpeted with

Blanton Claims Speaker Has Wet and Dry Aid

tive, without restriction, for the purpose of dry law enforcement."

"I want to call the attention of the country to this," Blanton said, "that William Randolph Hearst, a notorious wet, endorses the man I nominated this morning one of the great drys in the United States, William G. McAdoo, endorsed him. So you see he has the endorsement of the wets and the drys. It is an economic question."

The Garner discussion came late in Blanton's remarks assuring the house that the trial asked by Tinkham was assured. It concerns a libel suit based on a charge by Tinkham that the clergyman was a "shameful violator of the federal corrupt practices act."

Bishop Cannon There

Bishop Cannon himself sat in the gallery listening and at times joined in the laughter that greeted the Texan's remarks on prohibition. Tinkham was not present.

The Texan said the Republicans should give Bishop Cannon "a fair and square deal," because his efforts had put their candidate in the White House.

"Will Cannon give the wet cause a square deal?" asked Representative Igoe, Democrat, Illinois.

"If he gives it what I am going to give it, he'll give it hell," Blanton shouted. "I have only seen Bishop Cannon twice in my whole born days. Cannon is a mere incident. I'm for the dry cause."

Archer Farmer Given Sentence

after the girl had made her escape from the home, was introduced as evidence.

In a description of incidents leading up to the attacks, the young woman testified that she was 21 years of age and that she was a widow, her husband having died last fall in Franklin county. Having no home, she said, she advertised in a Dallas newspaper for a place and that her ad was answered by Foster, who employed her. She came to the Foster home about Jan. 1.

Giving an account of the first assault, the woman said that Foster requested her to accompany him to the old house on the farm which he was moving to another location. The assault occurred there while helping the farmer to tear down the structure, she claimed.

Attack Unreported

This attack, she related, was unreported because she was an utter stranger to the community and as she hoped it would not occur again. She had no money, no place to go, if the incident was reported, she explained.

The second occasion was some 10 days later, she testified. Mrs. Foster, the defendant's wife, and her daughter, visiting her parents from Alberta, Canada, left to visit relatives in Jack county. This was on Saturday, Jan. 30. Sunday, her testimony continued, Foster forced her with threats and at the point of a gun to receive his advances. Sunday night Foster again attacked her, she said.

She told how she made her escape Monday morning, after having been held captive by the farmer. She made her way four miles to the home of George Hoffman, a neighbor, who resided near Markley in Young county.

Neighbor Aids

Hoffman drove the girl to Archer City, where the assaults were reported.

Foster was arrested at his home a short time later by Sheriff Fred McDaniel and a deputy. The farmer had been in jail from the time of his arrest until completion of the trial.

The defense introduced both Mrs. Foster and her daughter as witnesses. Both testified that they had noticed nothing wrong with the complaining witness at the time the two women left for the Jack county visit.

During the trial, which consumed the entire day, the courtroom was crowded to capacity with spectators. A number of women were among those present.

Witnesses Fined

An incident which preceded the opening of testimony was the fining of two defense witnesses by Judge Montgomery. H. T. and W. F. Butler of Jack county were assessed $10 fines each for delaying the hearing, after Sheriff McDaniel brought them to court on order of Judge Montgomery. They had failed to obey the summons. On their plea that they did not have money with which to pay the fines, they were ordered to jail. Judge Montgomery later remitted the sentence.

Sam B. Spence, district attorney, and O. M. Wylie, assistant, represented the state in the case.

Foster has been a resident of Archer county for 30 years.

Invaders Lay Down Barrage As Chinese Reject Terms

were strangely silent even an hour after the bombardment started.

The Japanese cannonade on the western flank was believed the prelude of an infantry attack on the Chinese positions there.

The beginning of the battle of Shanghai, begun after the Chinese refused to comply with the Japanese ultimatum demanding withdrawal of defending armies, was witnessed by trembling but thrilled residents of Shanghai from the roofs of tall buildings.

This is the first war ever fought in modern history on the outskirts of a metropolis of 2,500,000 souls—and as many of Shanghai's people as were able climbed as high as they could to "take a look."

The first Japanese shell, fired when Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda's personal airplane observer, after two flights over the Chinese lines, reported no withdrawals, dropped in the Kiangwan sector, and was followed by terrific cannonading along the 16-mile front.

Chinese Reply

The Chinese, their positions unchanged, replied with trench mortars and howitzers, their shells dropping close to the Japanese lines. The Japanese, with better range-finding, smothered the Chinese positions with shells, first reports from the front stated.

Japanese projectiles fired at the Chinese lines north of Chapei dropped only 800 yards north of the American defense sector of the international settlement. The 31st American infantry, occupying the lines, reported no shells had dropped in their territory.

The officers of the American infantry said that although the beginning of the bombardment was obviously Japan's intention of shattering the Chinese forces and destroying China's armies, further peace parleys were being initiated by the Chinese government. This could not be confirmed immediately.

Americans Fired On

During the early morning strafing, one Chinese sniper fired several shots at the American infantry outpost, narrowly missing one Yankee doughboy. The Americans did not return the sniper's fire, and the sniper kept quiet after the post unlimbered its machine gun and began swinging it around.

The beginning of the Japanese bombardment was delayed an hour and 55 minutes because of the Japanese efforts to ascertain if even the least move was being made by the Chinese to comply with the demands of the ultimatum which China had rejected.

When it was found that the Chinese lines had not been vacated and that military activity existed in both the Woosung and Lion forts, General Uyeda gave the order that sent the first shells lashing out at the Chinese trenches.

Planes Await Signal

Sixty Japanese airplanes, fighters and bombers, stood on two air fields just off the eastern tip of the international settlement, their motors warmed when the signal for the opening attack was sounded. The planes carried from four to six bombs each.

There was speculation as to what the Chinese air force would be able to do. Neutral observers say the Chinese planes are special craft, better than anything the Japanese have, and give the Chinese the edge in the air.

Just before "Big Ben," the clock in the customs house tower, sounded its nine solemn strokes, the firing on the front began, signaling General Uyeda's determination to stand back of his ultimatum and China's decision to defend the Shanghai-Woosung lines.

Infantry Waits

The Chinese trench mortars and machine gunners were active on the front line, and howitzers screamed and roared a matin of death across no man's land. No infantry attacks were reported back to headquarters for some time after the beginning of the bombardment. Tanks and armored cars were held ready to push out over the swampy ground between the opposing lines.

Within the international settlement, Chinese snipers were at their guerilla warfare again, firing from rooftops in plain sight of neutrals gathered to watch the battles progress.

One Chinese, who for 14 days has waved a greeting to observers and pot-shotted Japanese at the same time, was out early and accounted for many Japanese right up to the beginning of the shelling.

Ten thousand fresh Chinese troops were being rushed into position as the second defense, cannon-fodder for Japan's big guns, while a fleet of Japanese transports were nearing Shanghai, reportedly with 40,000 fresh Tokyo troops, supplies and aerial bombs aboard. The transports were steaming right toward the mouth of the Whangpoo when hostilities were resumed. A fleet of destroyers and cruisers guarded them.

Foreigners Warned

American and British residents of Shanghai were all reported safely within the safety zone formed by the defense lines of the international settlement. They had been warned by the American and British consuls-general, E. S. Cunningham and J. F. Brenan, that fighting would begin this morning.

Women and children were removed from the Yangtzepoo, Hongkew and wayside districts, the regions most likely to suffer heavily from the dual bombardment.

The Yanks and the British Tommies took over the front line defense of the concession from the Shanghai volunteer corps while the volunteers were called into action as a second defense organization.

Elizabeth Albritton Named Beauty At Junior College Annual Banquet

Harry Daugherty, Fred Barron and Margaret Bone Placed First in Selection of Other Favorites

Miss Elizabeth Albritton, college freshman, was announced most beautiful of the Junior college Friday night, when more than 100 college students met at the Woman's Forum for their third annual all-college banquet. Miss Mildred Johnson, also a freshman, was the runner-up in the beauty contest.

Other favorites announced were Harry Daugherty, most popular boy; Wilmont Hunt, runner-up; Fred Barron, most representative boy; Bryant Creighton, runner-up; and Margaret Bone, most representative girl; Katherine Stewart, runner-up. Of the eight favorites, eight were members of the graduating class, and three were freshmen. Pictures of the four winners and their runners-up will appear in the Wai-Kun, Junior college yearbook.

Harry Daugherty, president of the 1932 graduating class, acted as toastmaster, and Harold Naylor, president of the first Junior college graduating class, was the principal speaker. He addressed the group on "Memories of College Days in 1922." The theme of the entire program was based upon the 10 years' history of the college. The same theme will be used throughout the 1932 Wai-Kun, it was announced.

Decorations carried out a George Washington theme, with red, white and blue candles at the tables and a miniature reproduction of Mount Vernon placed at the head table.

In keeping with the Washington motif, Misses Phoebe Jane Chenault and Irvene Roberts danced the minuet, and Miss Margaret Bone sang several old melodies. They were accompanied by Miss Laurette Erwin. All were in costume.

Other numbers on the program included a reading by Miss Billie Leslie Stimson and several popular selections played by the Junior college state band, under the direction of Tom McCarty.

rage, slowly, surely, his breath was cut off. After what seemed hours of straining tension on the elephant's steel noose, the beast was choked to death.

And thus, Tom Pickett won his title as the "elephant-killing" constable.

On another occasion, Pickett recalled today, he roped and captured a wild deer during a night thunderstorm. Riding near Red river, he said, he startled the deer into action. Loosing his rope, he opened it into a noose. With a flash of lightning he slung the rope and the noose settled about the fleeing deer.

By no means has activity left this specimen of the old "he-man" days of West Texas. He still can ride as hard as many a young man—and does. He maintains several horses for his own use on the "6666" and rides range daily, supervising the affairs of the ranch.

In addition to his varied ranch activities he is now a constable of King county, a county commissioner and school trustee.

GARNER CLUB FORMED HERE

Six Named to Attend State Meet at San Antonio

Six citizens of Wichita Falls were named Friday afternoon in a meeting of about 30 business men and professional men at the Kemp hotel to attend a state-wide meeting at San Antonio next Monday for the purpose of organizing a Texas "Garner for President" club.

Senator Ben G. Oneal, Judge A. H. Carrigan, J. D. Parnell, W. M. Bonner, Judge Edgar Scurry and C. C. Hudson were named by Chairman P. B. Cox after they had indicated their willingness to attend the San Antonio meeting.

Enthusiasm was high among those present Friday in their declared belief that a strong Garner movement is now gathering headway throughout the entire nation. Immediately after his election as temporary chairman, Mr. Cox stated his conviction that John Garner is the only Texan ever considered for the office of president who had any show whatever of obtaining election.

Judge A. H. Carrigan, H. J. Bruce and C. C. Hudson were named as a committee to draw up resolutions voicing the group's approbation of Garner, and setting out purposes of the Wichita county organization.

Judge A. H. Carrigan made the chief address, and after reviewing Garner's record of 29 years of distinguished service in the house, declared "he has gained more attention and respect from his political opponents than any other member of congress since John Carlyle."

Other speakers included Senator Oneal, Judge Scurry, W. H. Penix, W. W. Silk, E. E. VanDeventer and J. D. Parnell.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Parnell, who presided until Mr. Cox was elected temporary chairman. Gerald Coffey was elected secretary.

Texan Asks Query for Federal Anti-Trust Laws

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Chairman Sumners today asked the house to authorize the judiciary committee to investigate the anti-trust laws with a view to determining necessary changes.

The Texas Democrat presented a resolution saying the investigation was necessary to ascertain needed changes and a policy to be followed by the committee.

The group would be empowered to go into all phases of the anti-trust law structure and violations.

"B.C." Relieves Headaches and Quiets Nerves

Realizing that no one drug can conquer even ordinary headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina pharmacist has developed a combination of several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time.

You can get this formula wherever drugs are sold under the name "B.C." 10c and 25c packages, and when you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, "B.C." will give you soothing relief in three minutes.

"B.C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia, reducing fever, and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs.—Adv.

The chamber of commerce of Burkburnett first entertained with music by the Hickville band. This number was followed by two dancing specialty acts by Miss Lucile Hodge of Electra. The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce presented two dancing teams who were under the direction of Charles F. Doran. The last number of the program was a black-face skit given by 15 citizens of Iowa Park.

A feature of the success of the box supper was the support of many political candidates who attended.

Moratorium For 1931 Seed Loans Is Sent To House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Senate approval of the Barkley bill for a one-year "moratorium" on repayment of 1931 seed loans by farmers puts the issue up to the house where sentiment in favor of it is not believed so pronounced.

Some members there contend it would constitute duplicate legislation since the act creating the federal seed loan office provided that time for repayment could be extended for one year on evidence of necessity.

The provision applies to individual cases and it is a record of the loan office that in the 11 years of its service there have been no foreclosures without first granting an extension except when a crop has been abandoned or the holder of the second lien tried to override the government's prior claim.

A "moratorium" now would affect less than one-half of the farmers who borrowed from the 1931 seed loan fund. Although repayments have been a little slower than in years prior to the last, approximately 52 per cent of the some $47,000,000 lent in 1931 has been repaid. Farmers who have liquidated would not be allowed to withdraw their payments.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON.—Republics are notoriously ungrateful, yet now and then there arises a man around whose public service cluster tributes by his countrymen that set him apart as a non-controversial figure in the history of his times.

Cardozo

That cannot happen with presidents. Political partisanship is the essence of their place and power.

Time has not yet wholly obliterated such criticism of George Washington. Men who knew him and still live may privately question Lincoln's right to all the honors paid his memory.

The final estimate of Woodrow Wilson must await historians, untouched by the political rancors of his times.

Meeting the Test

Yet Oliver Wendell Holmes has known in life a unique freedom from that pitiless partisan scrutiny to which the official acts of those who seek public place in a republic must undergo.

In 30 years on the bench no whisper arose that political partisanship could have colored his judgments. When he stepped out, surrendering at last to the weight of his years, few knew and none cared under what party flag he was enrolled.

That being true, perhaps no finer tribute to the place the patriarch of the bench had made for himself could be devised than that his successor on the high court should be one as aloof from the suspicion of partisanship as was Justice Holmes himself.

And in Benjamin Cardozo of New York President Hoover seemed to find ready to his hand a great judge befitting the Holmes tradition of non-partisanship.

Through years of state politico-legal controversy where partisan feeling ran at fever pitch, Cardozo walked unchallenged with respect to personal political bias.

President Hoover may have felt that filling the vacancy left by Holmes' retirement laid upon him special burdens.

As the venerable justice was a man apart among his colleagues, so would the man named to fill his place be scanned with special attention, his underlying philosophy be sought for study in the light of Holmes' practical application of the theory of democratic representative government.

It may be too soon to say, with Cardozo's nomination, that a definite Hoover trend toward selection of men of liberal tendency for supreme court service has been established.

In all likelihood Mr. Hoover will have more appointments to that court to make before his present term of office ends.

Double Tribute

The nomination of Chief Justice Hughes was not hailed as a liberal appointment. The Hoover nomination of Judge Parker was defeated by the senate liberals just as Justice Roberts was confirmed with liberal approval.

The nomination of Judge Cardozo may be as much a tribute to Oliver Wendell Holmes as to Cardozo himself, an exceptional case.

A Spanish royal guard died at the age of 119. Probably got tired waiting for the red light to change.

Judging by box office figures, Jack Dempsey's comeback campaign proves one thing. He can take it!

Our Clumsy Civilization

PERHAPS the gravest charge that can be made against American civilization today is that it is clumsy.

By that, of course, is meant simply that it no longer seems able to adapt itself quickly or easily to changed conditions. Its machinery creaks and rattles whenever it has to realign itself. There is no elasticity.

An extremely homely and commonplace illustration will show how that is.

A menu card from the dining room of a large hotel in Kansas City came to hand recently. It listed, among other things, three club breakfasts. They are worth examining.

One combination, offering cooked cereal with cream, toast and coffee was listed at 50 cents. The second, offering fruit, a rasher of bacon, toast and coffee, listed at 75 cents. The third, which included fruit, ham or bacon and eggs and toast and coffee, was offered for $1.25.

Now at this moment the price of foodstuffs is about as low as it has ever been. The farmer has to sell his eggs at approximately 15 cents a dozen. The wheat which goes into such items as toast and cooked cereal has hit such a low price that the whole wheat belt is in dire distress. Ham is quoted on the wholesale markets at about 15 cents a pound; choice breakfast bacon, in the same markets, is listed from 15 to 25 cents a pound.

And yet, in a hotel in the very heart of the richest farming land in North America, you must pay a dollar and a quarter for an orange, a plate of bacon and eggs and some toast and coffee!

Now all of this, of course, is not exactly anyone's fault. Any hotel man will assure you, plaintively, that hotel owners are not getting rich these days; indeed, the hotel that is breaking even considers itself lucky. The farmer, as was remarked before, isn't getting the money. The commission merchants and the retailers aren't precisely waxing fat.

But somewhere there is a lag, a clumsiness, that lands three cents worth of eggs in the place of honor on a $1.25 breakfast.

Our national life won't be healthy until we have found some way of cutting down price discrepancies of that kind.

What Is a Teacher?

NOT the charge, nor the findings of Dr. Paul W. Horn, but the revealed misconception of education is of greatest importance in the current case of a Lubbock pastor against the alleged teaching of atheism in West Texas Technological institute.

A member of the college faculty was accused by the minister of teaching atheism. After conferences with the clergyman, Dr. Horn announced he found no evidence to support the charge. But, he will "place the matter before the board of regents" later in the month.

In its finest sense, teaching does not mean the methodical storing of facts, theories, or attitudes in the student's mind as fixed entities. It does not mean that young minds, like so many empty bottles, are to be carried by curricular mechanism beneath the filling spigots, then to be tightly sealed as a completed process.

The function of education, rather, is to cultivate in the student's mind a capacity for weighing such facts and theories as he may encounter, to judge properly for himself their values, their possibilities. Education fosters not only the hunger for knowledge, but a capacity for seeking it successfully.

To charge a teacher with teaching certain "things" or "isms" disparages not only that teacher's capacity, but reflects an inadequate conception of what education should be. The highest objective of the real teacher is to enable his pupil to think deeply and accurately about the facts, hypotheses—even the prejudices—which he finds extant.

Prospering Industry

A SURVEY of the airplane industry in 1931 indicates that it withstood hard times about as well as any industry in the nation despite the fact that only $49,000,000 worth of airplanes were built as compared with planes worth twice that much in 1929.

To begin with, all the ships that were built last year were sold—which was decidedly not the case in 1929. Production was off, but it was accurately geared to consumption, which is the important thing. Furthermore, the excess stocks built up in 1929 were largely disposed of.

In addition, the air transport business showed striking gains. More lines were in operation last year, more miles were flown and more passengers were carried than ever before.

Aviation, evidently, has become a firmly-established business. Its position now is far stronger than it was before the depression began.

"What have you to say for yourself?"

READ THIS FIRST

Lois Corbin, a pretty working girl, falls in love with Bruce Durand, the nephew of Charles Durand, one of Chicago's wealthiest men. Ashamed to have Bruce know where she lives, Lois leaves her family and goes to share an apartment with Margaret and Arlene, two of her girl friends. Arlene falls in love with Bruce herself, and sets about to get him. She tells him that Lois has gone out with another man one night when Bruce calls for her, when in reality she has gone to a movie because Arlene has told her that Bruce could not come down that night. Bruce is driven by jealousy to fall deliberately into the trap Arlene has set for him. Lois sends her engagement ring back to him and moves into a little room down on Rush street so that she will not have to live with Arlene.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durand have heard that their nephew has announced his intention to marry a girl who is not in the social register, and Mrs. Durand insists that they return at once to America and settle Bruce so that he will not do anything foolish.

Bruce is sorry that he has made a second date with Arlene, because he can't think about any one else except Lois. However, he goes for her, and on the way to the club they pass his home. Arlene insists on going inside, and Bruce decides that this is as good as any other way that he knows of to kill time.

Bruce is obviously bored with Arlene, but she is having a good time. He plays the radio, and they make an attempt at conversation. Bruce finally suggests that they leave, and as he helps Arlene on with her coat she puts her lips up and kisses him. At that same moment he is aware that someone is watching them.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXIX

Bruce did not have to turn around to find out who was standing in the hallway. Almost immediately he heard the voice of his aunt speaking to him in no uncertain tones. She was hysterical, she was forceful, she was demanding, she was everything all at once. Bruce couldn't explain. She wouldn't give him a chance. She rambled on about the time and money that both she and Charles had spent in bringing him up only to find that he was making love to a thief, a girl who had stolen. She went on flinging epithet after epithet.

Charles Durand helped the cab driver bring in the luggage and had just set it down in the hallway. He had hated this worse than anything in the world. All the way out he had secretly hoped that Bruce would not be here. Now it was worse than ever. He not only was here but the girl was with him.

"What have you to say for yourself?" Eleanore hurled at Arlene. Arlene was panicky. She knew at once that Mrs. Durand thought she was Lois. She tried to tell her. Bruce tried to tell her but it wasn't any use. No one could do anything at all until Mr. Durand entered the room.

Then he said, "Let's talk this thing out quickly. My nerves are just about shot."

He motioned for all of them to sit down. When Bruce got a chance, he said, "You've made a mistake, in the first place. I have an idea what you think. But you're wrong. In spite of the fact that Mrs. Hayes promised me she wouldn't write to you I can see that she did. Well, this isn't the girl that Mrs. Hayes wrote you about. That's your first mistake."

He knew that he was red all over. His neck was burning up. He was simply furious. He wondered whether or not he could control himself enough to go through with explanation.

His Aunt Eleanore paid no attention to the fact that the girl who was sitting there was in no wise implicated in the affair. She went on with her tirade.

"You do admit, then, that it's true. That there is a girl to whom you're engaged. Then all that Ruth wrote me is true! Oh, dear, I was hoping that I would find it was all a mistake!"

She began to weep. Mr. Durand took her hand.

"Eleanore," he said, "why don't we permit Bruce and this young woman to depart? I'm certain it is unpleasant for her and we can talk to Bruce regarding it later."

Mrs. Durand thought it over and finally consented. Before Bruce had gone out the door with Arlene, Mrs. Durand came up and apologized to her.

"I'm awfully sorry, dear," she said, "but I'm sure you can understand how we must feel about it. We came all the way from Europe when we heard that Bruce was in trouble."

Bruce winced. It was all too unbearable! Here was Arlene getting all the information concerning his aunt's attitude toward Lois. He had a sudden desire to go back in there and in front of every one declare his love for Lois Corbin. The more he thought about it the hotter he became. The idea of Mrs. Hayes stirring up all that trouble! He would like to make some trouble for her! He could do it, too, if he desired. He wished nothing had happened between himself and Lois. He wanted to stand beside her through all of this, to clear her of all the accusations that had been made against her.

He took Arlene on to the country club, as he had promised but he never passed such a miserable two hours in his life. Arlene made herself more obnoxious than ever, or else she seemed that way because Bruce was so wrought up about everything. She insisted on being introduced to every one who came near them and even asked to have "that terrible Mrs. Hayes pointed out to her. It appeared to Bruce to be more of a matter of curiosity than anything else that Arlene wanted to see her. Certainly it was not because she was displaying any sympathy for Lois, for Arlene had not once mentioned the fact that she was sorry for Lois.

Bruce found himself defending Lois without intending to do so. "I want you to understand that Lois is innocent of all these accusations that have been made against her," he said defiantly.

Arlene looked up at him innocently. "Of course," she answered quickly. "Do you think I would believe anything like that about such a good friend? I should say not."

Bruce went on rabidly, "it seems as if everybody is trying to pull her down. Mrs. Hayes promised me faithfully that she would drop the whole affair. Said she was convinced. Well, you can see how she did it. Dropped it to the extent of getting my folks back home to raise more trouble."

Arlene did not answer.

"That's a woman for you," Bruce continued. "Women always are looking for a loop hole so that they can make trouble for another woman. If they'd practice being a little truer to their own sex perhaps they'd get along a little better."

Arlene winced. Bruce wasn't being very complimentary—talking about women in front of her. She put her arm through his as they stood there together in a darkened corner of the big enclosed porch.

"Don't worry, darling," she cajoled. "I'll stand by you. I'll go back home with you if you want me to. You can even tell your aunt that I am the girl who was with you, if you desire."

Bruce was praying for the evening to end. He wanted to get home, or to get some place where he could be alone so that he could think things out. Apparently it was all very easy. He didn't have Lois any longer. Why should he have to defend her? He could simply tell his aunt that it was all over, that he had broken up with Lois and that there was no further cause for worry.

Still, that didn't seem quite right, either. It made him feel as though he were walking out the back door, as though he were yellow, afraid to face things, and he wasn't. He desired to go after Lois and bring her up to his home, to clear her before everybody. Then, if his folk didn't believe him he would run away with her and tell them all that he believed her anyway.

There is something about human nature that simply rebels against wrong doing. In fact this affair only strengthened Bruce's feelings toward Lois. All the way to Arlene's apartment, he was thinking that he would go on up—and kidnap Lois! At least he would demand an explanation. He couldn't go on this way.

Margaret was still up when Arlene and Bruce arrived. She was lying on the davenport reading a book. It was late, but Bruce asked to come in anyway. It was evident, after he had entered the room, that there was only one thing he desired.

"Isn't Lois home, yet?" he asked pointedly.

Margaret looked at him as though she thought he were crazy.

"Lois?"

Arlene hurried into the dressing room.

"Yes, Lois," Bruce said crossly.

Margaret laid down her book. "Lois doesn't live here anymore," she said quickly. "I thought you knew that."

OIL MASS MEET IS SET MONDAY

New Proration Schedule May Be Adopted

DALLAS, Feb. 19. (AP)—A new proration schedule for all Texas fields, giving East Texas an allowable on the same basis as all other producing areas, was forecast today when recommendations were drafted to be presented to mass meeting of the oil interests Monday afternoon in Tyler.

Capt. J. F. Lucey issued the call for the mass meeting. Judge Amos L. Beatty of New York, president of the American Petroleum institute, was asked to attend the mass meeting.

Two recommendations were to be submitted to the mass meeting:

Full cooperation with the railroad commission, and compliance with all its orders on the part of all producers, for a period of 30 days.

A petition that the railroad commission, in the meantime, give East Texas proration on the same basis as all other fields in the state.

Since the East Texas allowable of 65 to 75 barrels per well has been far below the proration basis for other fields, it is thought that this second clause of the recommendations will call for a new proration set up for the entire state, lowering the allowable in certain fields, perhaps, and increasing the East Texas.

Amos L. Beatty of New York, president of the American Petroleum institute, will be asked to attend the Tyler session, Captain Lucey said. A long distance telephone call was put through to Mr. Beatty immediately after the committee session closed.

Mr. Beatty will be asked to present to the Texas operators a comprehensive picture of the importance of the East Texas situation in the national oil picture.

SUPPORT FOR HOOVER URGED

Indiana Republican Lauds President in House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—Support for President Hoover was urged in the house today by Representative Wood, Republican, Indiana, who said the chief executive has faced "greater trials than those through which the immortal Lincoln went."

He recalled that in 1864 Lincoln felt his administration had been a failure and did not want to run for re-election. His friends, however, prevailed, Wood said, and Lincoln was re-elected.

"I believe that if the people use good judgment now they won't change horses in the middle of the stream," he added.

Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, reminded Wood that in 1919 the Indianan said "Herbert Hoover is the most extravagant luxury ever fastened upon the American people and will continue to be."

"Well, at that time the man who now is your leader, Mr. Rainey, Democrat, Illinois, was praising Mr. Hoover," Wood retorted.

"That was before he found him out," Blanton replied.

"That was before I found him out, too," Wood said.

Nevada Divorce Law Criticized by Judge

RENO, Nev., Feb. 19. (AP)—George S. Green, retiring president of the Nevada state bar, in his annual address today criticized as "serious error" the enactment of the six weeks divorce law by the last legislature.

"Our dignity and reputation suffered by reason of the change," Judge Green told the members of the bar at their annual convention here.

"In my judgment, the legislature has greatly erred in tinkering with the residential requirements in actions for divorce, especially since such changes were based upon purely mercenary and business expedients, ignoring the essential moral, ethical and social considerations.

"It will be difficult for us to confess error and to return to our position of security under the time-honored law of 1861."

Judge Green's attack on the six weeks law drew a veritable storm of protest from Reno attorneys, who last year sent 4,248 couples through the local divorce mill to break an all-time record.

15 NAMED IN MURDER PLOT

Rio Grande Murder Plan Is Frustrated

Walter J. Weaver, prominent Democrat and attorney of Donna; Wise Hooks, another prominent politician, Harry Ridgeway prominent Democrat and manager of the Donna irrigation district, and two other well known political leaders of Hidalgo county whose names were not divulged.

The Mexican killer was to have received $500 for the assassinations. According to information learned, he had rated the killings as a "$10,000 job" but had consented to do this work for less.

Texas rangers, sent here by Gov. Ross Sterling, were reported to have arrested about 15 involved in the conspiracy. They have been charged with conspiracy to murder.

Among those arrested are the Mexican, who is said to have confessed the plot.

Most of them arrested are held in the Starr county jail at Rio Grande, Texas, it was reported.

Ranger Captain Frank Hamer, of Austin, Ranger Captain Albert Mace of Falfurrias, and three other rangers are rounding up the conspirators.

While officers were reluctant to talk about the motives behind the plot, it was learned that a desire to "rub out" the six men in order to hide some purported political secrets was at the bottom.

The assassination plot then was to be laid to the old regime once headed by A. Y. Baker, former sheriff who is now dead.

The rangers received their tip on the assassination plans when a member of the Baker regime heard that the plot was to be laid to their door although they had no part in it. He went to the rangers to give his information.

Body Odor

Body odor, popularly advertised as "B. O." is rightfully termed a social mistake. Whether a strong unpleasant odor arises from the feet, breath, underarms or other sources it is unpleasant to one's companions, and it is easier to keep friends when the condition is corrected. Body odors are usually more noticeable at social affairs where people are close together and the air is warm and humid. Fastidious women always take particular pains to be absolutely sure that they do not drive others away by an ofensive odor which would retract much from their daintiness.

It is not the best plan to try to disguise strong body odor with strong perfume nor to use certain medicated preparations. If you find it advisable to use a deodorant occasionally, one should be selected which simply removes the odor while not interfering with the normal perspiration. An unpleasant odor is always annoying to others, but sometimes the one with this complaint does not know it exists.

The unpleasant odor is usually dus to impurities which are deposited on the skin by the sweat glands; however, normal perspiration does not have a bad odor. A noticeably foul perspiration may indicate a deep-seated toxemia in the body or it may be caused by the invasion of the sweat glands by certain types of bacteria which produce an odorous excretion.

If the elimination of impurities and wastes from the lungs, kidneys or bowels is blocked, a body odor may develop as the skin begins to assist in the elimination of such wastes. Those with constipation are especially likely to suffer from an ill-smelling sweat under the arms. It is well known that many sick people have a very offensive perspiration. An experienced physician is usually able to distinguish the different odors and often obtain the clue even before an examination as to whether the patient may have rheumatism, diiabetes, tuberculosis, cancer, etc.

Whenever a bad odor persists in spite of the most scrupulous cleanliness, the patient should realize that his system is toxic and should take steps which will eliminate the poisons as soon as possible. When the body's elimination proceeds in a normal manner, the offensive odor often disappears completely. Temporary bad odors may be caused by eating foods such as onions or garlic, or they may be due to strong emotional disturbances such as fear or anxiety.

In the toxic types the quickest results for correcting the body odor may be obtained by cleansing the system with a short fruit fast. The perspiratioin may perhaps be more odorous than usual during the first two or three days of the fast when the skin elimination is more rapid, but later on one will note a decided improvement. During such a fruit fast be sure to take at least one or two warm shower baths a day and a plain warm water enema. In almost every case body odors become less pronounced if the bowels can function two or three times daily. In all cases the use of frequent bathing is very beneficial. Sweat baths will be found a good method of stopping excessive perspiration under the arms. It is a good plan to try to induce a good sweat two or three times a week. One can do this by putting on heavy clothing and taking a rapid walk. Where bacteria have invaded the sweat glands, the use of the ultra violet light locally in addition to ordinary methods of cleanliness will usually correct the trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Milk Diet

Question — Mrs. Dona H. writes: "I am about to have all of my teeth pulled. What should I eat to keep up my strength and health. I've always had more or less gas and feel like a drum at times after eating."

Answer—One of the best diets for you to take while recovering from your mouth troubles is to go on a well-regulated milk diet. If you will take a glass of milk preceded by a teaspoonful of lemon juice every hour during the day, as long as you are awake, you will be able to get enough nourishment without using any other food. Your gums will heal more perfectly under this diet than if you tried to use other foods.

Failing Memory

Question — G. B. asks: "What is the cause of the memory failing and is there a cure for it? A friend of 67 years of age is apparently in good health, but his memory is failing."

Answer—Your friend's trouble is always an evidence of decreased vitality and a general breaking down of the nervous system. The trouble can be kept from getting worse by the patient living on a good diet and keeping up a free elimination of toxins from the body.

Red Nose

Question—Mr. Ted R. writes: "An article on the causes and cure for a red nose will be greatly appreciated by a great many."

Answer—An overly red nose is always caused from some kind of digestive disorder, principally from putrefaction in the colon. It may also be caused by acne rosacea, a skin disorder which frequently affects the nose and face.

The Dempsey Fight

Two schools of thought as the philosophers say, seemed to have bobbed up yesterday after Dempsey's loss of a newspaper decision to King Levinsky in their four-round exhibition bout at Chicago Thursday night.

One group still cherishing their fond admiration of the old Manassa Man Mauler, contended that Dempsey didn't open up; that the fight was largely bait for the public; that Dempsey would like to meet Levinsky in a 10-round bout in the not too distant future, and that the four-round exhibition was merely a demonstration designed to whet the public's appetite for more.

The other fellows admit sadly that Levinsky showed Dempsey up all too convincingly; that Dempsey is through, and will never make further headway in his quest of the championship he once held.

The crowd that claims Dempsey didn't open up is staunch in its loyalty to Dempsey as a fighter, but they are a little bit suspicious of him, nevertheless. Dempsey, remember, made $33,000 out of that four-round bout. If it was, as they believe, merely bait for another and longer fight, then old Jack appears in the light of a merciless profiteer, for it is only reasonable to suppose that a 10-round fight will bring him another $33,000 or more.

There is a ready answer for this kind of talk, however. If the public is willing to pay Jack $33,000 just for the privilege of watching him bounce around a few minutes, then why shouldn't he rake in that cash?

Those who believe Dempsey and Levinsky will fight again in a 10-rounder either to an official decision or a knockout, pointed to Levinsky's statement after the fight as an indication that such a plan was brewing. "Dempsey ain't so hot but he can still punch," said Levinsky. He has a good left hook. I would like to fight him again any time for 10 rounds."

The last sentence seemed to carry a certain significance.

Dempsey and Levinsky may fight again and in a longer bout. The four-rounder may have been bait. But we do not think so. After reading all the details of the fight and post-battle statements of the fighters, this writer is led to the belief that the mauler did his best against the kingfish and did his best to give the public its money's worth. Dempsey announced that he would go on "for a month or six weeks longer just as we have been going. One bout isn't enough to determine whether I have a chance to bid for the title."

Well, he's right. One bout isn't enough to settle the issue. But that one bout was enough to make Dempsey's admirers a little fearful of the future. Much as we like the old mauler, we must confess we do not care to take a peep into the magic crystal. There is something a little sad about the whole thing.

The Grapefruit Terror

Speaking of fighters, boy we're going to have one on the Spudder baseball club this season! His name is Freddie (Grapefruit) Baldwin, an outfielder-pitcher located and signed at Havre de Grace, in the free state of Maryland, by the eastern squadron of scouts for the St. Looey Brownies.

The scouts report that Freddie is a pretty good ball player, although they don't go into details as to whether he's better as a pitcher or an outfielder. Several seasons ago he was signed by the Baltimore Orioles. His stay with that club, however, was brief, for on the trip south for spring training, Baldwin and a group of other rookies started heaving grapefruit at each other in the dining car of the train. Out of the grapefruit war Baldwin acquired his nickname.

But getting down to the fighting business, Baldwin forwarded a clipping from a Havre de Grace paper that describes a ring battle in which he participated. It seems that the promoters don't book fights at Havre de Grace. They simply announce they're going to have a show, have a set of scales near the ring, and when everybody's seated comfortably the promotor arises and invites any one so inclined to step up and have at it.

On one such occasion, Baldwin decided he would fight. He went up to be weighed. His weight was announced as 151½ pounds. Just as the promotor finished making the announcement, someone in the back of the hall yelled:

"You can't fight, Grapefruit!"

"I can lick the man who said that!" came Baldwin's quick reply.

Forth from the crowd stepped a gent named Gillespie, who, incidentally, also was a ball player. He had played in the Susquehanna league.

The sports scribe who covered the event described it as follows:

"It was a great fight for one round, Baldwin having the better of some of the roughest milling ever seen at Havre de Grace. Just before the round ended Freddie got his foe on the ropes and pounded his ribs to a jelly with 20 rights and lefts.

"Gillespie was just able to make his corner when the bell sounded, but he couldn't come out for the second round."

Claypool Wins Title In Jefferson County

Special to The Record News.

RYAN, Okla., Feb. 19.—Ryan lost by a very narrow margin Friday night in the Jefferson county tournament. In the opening game the score stood Waurika 19, Ryan 16.

In the second game Grady snatched a feather out of Ryan's cap and walked away with honors. The score was Ryan 21, Grady 22.

Mountain Home, Claypool, Sugden and Hastings entered the arena with Claypool coming out bristling with honors. Mountain Home won over Sugden in the first round but later lost to Claypool. Then Claypool plucked honors from Hastings. The contests began in dead earnest and east team felt like the winner of the first game would likely carry off the honors of the tournament.

THREE TEAMS SURVIVE TESTS

Memphis, Wellington Meet In Semifinal Today

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Feb. 19.—Defeating the Wheeler quintet in a convincing manner tonight 59 to 21, the Crowell Wildcats, Foard county champions, swept to the finals of the district No. 3 interscholastic league basket ball tournament.

The Wildcats, reigning favorites to cop the district title, had entered the semifinal round by defeating Kings High school, champions of Hardeman county, 46 to 35, in the first round Friday afternoon, while the Wheeler county champions had won the right to meet Crowell with a 40 to 24 victory over Flomot, Motley county champions, in the first round.

In the lower bracket, Memphis, Hall county champions, advanced to the semifinals with a 37 to 18 victory over Delwin, Cottle county champs, late this afternoon; while Wellington, in a game that preceeded the Crowell-Wheeler affair tonight, nosed out the Childress Bobcats, 47 to 38, in the hardest-fought game of the early rounds.

The Memphis-Wellington semifinal game will be played at 9 a. m. Saturday and the winner will meet the Crowell team in the finals Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Wildcats Get Hot

The Crowell-Wheeler semifinal joust tonight afforded the Wildcats their second opportunity of the day to exhibit a brand of basket ball that appeared all but unbeatable. A brilliant defense backed up the scoring efforts of the two sensational Todd brothers, who consistently looped goal after goal to the dismay of their rivals. John Todd, forward, with 19 points, and his brother, Dick Todd, guard, with 26 points, saw to it that the Wheeler lads never offered a serious threat during the entire game.

After the preliminary rounds this afternoon and tonight the concensus appeared to be that if the Wildcats are stopped at all, it will be by the Wellington Skyrockets, who in the second game tonight displayed plenty of punch in disposing of a Childress team that at the last minute showed unexpected strength and aggressiveness. Wellington generally was favored to win over Memphis in their semifinal bout Saturday morning and meet Crowell in the finals.

The box score of the Crowell-Wheeler game:

Bobcats Dump Dope

The Childress Bobcats, though beaten by Wellington in the first game tonight, need shed no tears over the matter. Rated far down in the lists and conceded virtually no chance to make a stir at all, they gave the Skyrockets of Collingsworth county plenty to worry about. Loter, forward, with 17 points, and Johnson, center, with 11, led a gallant attack that failed only because of the superior goal-shooting of a stellar brace of Wellington forwards, Williams and Harris, who between them accounted for 38 points.

Only eight teams entered the tournament, the King county entry failing to appear.

The box score of the Wellington-Childress game follows:

Crowell Takes Opener

The Crowell Wildcats went one up on their bretheren in district No. 3 by winning the opening game of the tournament this afternoon from Kings High school, champions of Hardeman county. The score was 46 to 35. The Wildcats unleashed a heavy scoring attack to eliminate the Hardeman county loopers, Middleton and John Todd grabbing the spotlight so far as scoring honors were concerned. Middleton accounted for 17 points, while Todd rang up 10. The leading scorer of the game, however, was Newman, Kings forward, who was the individual scoring star of the contest. Newman sent nine field shots through the wicket and dropped one free toss home.

Further Overhauling of Rules of Interscholastic League Suggested

AUSTIN, Feb. 19. (AP)—A general overhauling of the rules of the Texas Interscholastic league, reputedly the largest high school association in the world, is being urged after adoption of the two rules recently to bolster the league's athletic standards.

The rules, one of which would prohibit a student who has attended high school for eight semesters from participating in interscholastic athletics and the other bar a transfer student from playing for one year, were adopted by substantial majorities.

Commenting on the vote, Roy Bedichek, an official of the league, stated "the overwhelming majority given each of these rules leaves no doubt in any one's mind of the determination of responsible public school authorities of Texas to reclaim high school sports from the disastrous ways into which they were drifting."

Amateur Rule Under Fire

Now a movement has been started to revise the amateur rule of the league.

Under the present amateur rule, an athlete who wins a footrace at a firemen's picnic and receives a small monetary prize is barred from interscholastic competition, even though no money is made from the athletic exhibition and no admission is charged.

Bedichek pointed out that a firemen's picnic, or other similar event, was a wholesome community meeting of a truly folk flavor and should be encouraged.

The rule could be made more effective and better strike at the roots of professionalism by revising it so that students who participated in athletic meets, outside the regular league schedules, at which admissions were charged would be barred. This would permit athletes to engage in harmless meets without having the odium of "professionalism" attached to them.

Bedichek stated that gate receipts were the basis of true professionalism and that geneuine professionalism could not obtain a foothold without hearing the clink of money as the turnstiles revolved.

Discussing the recent changes in the rules, Bedichek stated that athletics could not survive as a school enterprise unless used in behalf of bona fide students.

The one year transfer rule was advanced as a cure for the evil of proselyting and subsidizing among high school athletes. Numerous instances had been called to the league's attention where fans from one school were alleged to have induced the star athlete of another school to quit his first love and cast his lot with the second school.

The other rule was aimed at the lesser of the two evils. It will discourage an athlete from the practice of failing a year or dropping out of school for two semesters to obtain an advantage over a student who passes his work regularly by putting on a little weight and age without endangering his elegibility.

Heavy Buying Criticized

League officials stated the old rules encouraged a student to fail in his studies for a year or to drop out, the precedure acting as a deterrent to the athletic ambitions of a student who passed his courses as they came only to find himself outweighed and out-experienced when he tried to obtain a place on the team.

Bedichek stated it has been the experience of other states that unless school authorities took action to insure clean sports that the public intervened, through its legislatures, and forced enactment of drastic regulations. This is especially true in states wherein schools participate for state championships.

"Only two courses are open," Bedichek stated. "One, to lessen the drive; or, two, to increase the control. A high powered car needs better brakes than a low powered car. The interscholastic league has chosen the latter alternative. It has chosen to enact two rules that can be enforced because, in the majority of cases, the facts will be a matter of record. We believe that these brakes will work."

Criticism of the practice of buying large amounts of sports equipment by high schools also has been voiced by officials of schools that are members of the league. Heavy buying has caused schools to become lax in meeting their accounts, one official estimated that within the last 10 years sporting goods companies had been forced to charge off more than $200,000 in bad school accounts and that these same dealers are carrying between $300,000 and $400,000 in accounts from 60 days to two years overdue.

STRIKE CAUSES ATHENS' FALL

Hornets, Minus Two Vets, Bow to Rusk, 32-31

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, Feb. 19. (UP)—A team weakened by a "strike" today resulted in the Athens, Texas, High school quintet, national champions, being defeated in a district tournament here.

By a one-point margin, the Athens Hornets, winner of the national basket ball title three times, went down to defeat before an unknown team from Rusk, 32 to 31.

A "strike" of six of the players last week, resulting in the suspension of two from the team, had weakened the Hornets and the form the quintet had shown in bowling over teams from all over the country in previous national tourneys was absent.

Coach Jimmy Kitts last week had asked six of the team members to turn in their suits when they had failed to appear for a scheduled game. Four of the men were later reinstated when they sent in verbal and written apologies.

But Troy Tompkins and Weldon Browning, members of last year's winning team, remained on the suspended list.

This is the first district tournament Kitts has lost since he came here six years ago, and this is his last year here.

"I'd like to have a winning team this year because it is my last, but that is insignificant compared to discipline in the school," Kitts said. "I want to win only with those boys who have their school interest at heart."

Walters Defeats Comanche Tribe

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., Feb. 19.—The Walters Blue Devils climbed out of their third place position into a tie for second with Comanche by defeating the Comanche Indians in a close battle by a score of 19-17 here Wednesday night.

Comanche's defeat at the hands of Walters practically clinches the conference crown for the Ryan Cowboys, since Comanche was the only team endangering Ryan's prospects. Comanche has led the conference until recently when the Indians were defeated by the Ryan quintet.

Although Comanche was doped to carry away the game Wednesday night with ease, Walters players held an edge on the visitors throughout the contest, playing their outstanding game of the season. The teams were more closely matched than any two that have met on the local court this season.

Stellar work of Doy Burchell, Walters center, was outstanding for the local group. He was high point man for the Walters team with eight points. C. Johnson, rangy and sharpshooting Comanche center, was high point man for the visitors with 12 points.

Walters had met defeat at the hands of the Indians earlier in the season in a game at Comanche.

In a preliminary game, Walters Junior team defeated Comanche Juniors in a 19 to 16 contest. This was their second victory over the Comanche Juniors this season.

Conference standings:

School—	W.	L.	Pct.
Ryan	5	1	.833
Walters	4	3	.571
Comanche	4	3	.571
Temple	3	4	.428

THAT'S HOT ENOUGH

The temperature of one of the sun's spots is about 4,700 degrees centigrade. This is about 1,000 degrees cooler than the sun's spot-free surface. An abundance of these spots on the sun is thought to drop the temperature on the earth one degree.

The tournament got under way promptly at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning with the Coyotes and Electra Tigers in the role of early risers. In polishing off the Tigers, 41 to 17, Coach Holton's Pack got off to a groggy start, picked up momentum gradually, and finally swept the Electra visitors off their feet. The game produced the usual heavy scoring trio of Brandon, Reeves and Janeway, the latter also starring in a defensive capacity. The Harrold Hornets, Wilbarger county champions, produced a scoring sensation in Nixon, forward, in defeating Petrolia of Clay county in the second game of the first round. Nixon rarely missed a chance in ringing up a total of 17 points. Cubs Drub Tribe

Coach Albert Acker's Cubs easily disposed of the Nocona Indians, defending district champions, in the third game of the day. The score of 57 to 20 was the largest rolled up in the preliminary round of the tournament. Pratt and Wright, forward and center, respectively, led a withering attack on the Redmen until the majority of first stringers were relieved by a flock of substitutes, whose arrival permitted the Indians to make a somewhat better showing in the closing stages. Pratt registered 23 points in leading his mates to victory.

Bomarton Beats Masters

Bomarton, Baylor county champions, met and defeated Masters, champions of Throckmorton county, in the final first round contest shortly after noon. The second was 36 to 33. Like Olney, Bomarton by virtue of its first round victory advanced direct to the semifinals, both teams having drawn byes in the second round.

The Bomarton quintet relied on a powerful two-man attack to dispose of the Masters goal-loopers, Burns and McElroy, forwards, accounting for all of the victors' points. Burns accounted for 20 points while McElroy looped 16. Stewart led the Masters attack with 15 points. Bomarton led at the half, 20 to 12, and never relinquished that lead.

Volley Ball Results

Girls' volley ball teams of Olney, Wichita Falls, Clara, and Petrolia advanced to the semi-finals by successfully warding off foes in the first rounds of competition, which started Friday afternoon soon after basket ball activities had been called off until nightfall.

Each of the winners was victorious by a decisive margin. Mankins, Archer county champions, defeated Bowie, Montague county champs, in the first encounter, winning two straight games by scores of 15 to 1 and 15 to 2. Wichita Falls won two straight from Oklaunion, Wilbarger county champions, 15 to 2 and 15 to 6. Clara, Wichita county champions, won two straight from Throckmorton, Throckmorton county titlists, 15 to 1 and 15 to 4. Petrolia, Clay county champions, won two straight from Jacksboro, Jack county champions, 15 to 3 and 15 to 5.

Mankins Loses to Olney

Mankins, successful in the first round over Bowie, fell by the wayside in the second round, losing to Olney in two straight games, 15 to 11 and 15 to 13. The two games were the closest and hardest-fought of the early rounds.

The semi-finals in volley ball will start at 11 o'clock this morning with Clara opposing Petrolia. In the second game, scheduled to begin at noon, Wichita Falls will meet Olney. The finals will be played tonight at 7 o'clock, preceding the championship basket ball game.

Players Given Luncheon

Plans for a noon luncheon for visiting players which members of the Junior chamber of commerce feared would not materialize came through in great fashion late Friday morning, and at noon representative athletes and school officials from five of the schools were on hand at the Kemp hotel for the feast. Approximately 75 athletes and officials from Nocona, Olney, Petrolia, Electra and Harrold attended the luncheon, at which Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, chairman of the sports and recreation committee of the chamber of commerce, was toastmaster. The remaining visitors either could not make arrangements to attend due to the conflicting schedule, or had not arrived in the city at that hour.

Dr. Kimbrough in a brief address welcomed the visitors to the city. Responses were made by Coaches Vick of Harrold, Watson of Petrolia, Tampke of Electra, and School Superintendents W. D. Stone of Nocona and B. C. Shulkey of Olney.

The luncheon was arranged by a committee headed by Tom Vague.

'So They Think I'm Through, Eh? Well, I'm Not,' Scowls Dempsey

Man Mauler Offers to Meet King Levinsky Again in 10-Round Bout With Six Ounce Gloves

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—There was one big man in the boxing world tonight who was certain Jack Dempsey still could come back.

It was the old Manassa Mauler himself.

Surrounded by his faithful old trainer, Jerry "The Greek," Louvadis, and his closest friends, Dempsey today carefully digested all the accounts of his whirlwind four-round exhibition against King Levinsky at the Chicago stadium last night, read the almost unanimous opinion of the experts that Levinsky had won, and then scowled.

"So they think I'm through again, eh?" Dempsey blurted out.

"Well, I'm not. I'm going right on. I'll be back. I'll fight Levinsky 10 rounds with six-ounce gloves, instead of the 10-ounce gloves we wore last night. I still can sock with the regulation fighting gloves on."

Dempsey may not get a chance to fight Max Schmeling, the titleholder, but he is determined to carry on in the hope of proving he can do better than he did last night.

Suffered From Cold

Dempsey isn't the kind to make excuses or offer alibis, but he did make the emphatic statement that he wasn't right against the Kingfish, declaring he had suffered from colds that forced him to bed nine times during the last 30 days.

"You know that I never give alibis," Dempsey said, "but I think my showing last night—an off night for me—was largely due to my cold. My head wasn't clear and I was bothered throughout the match by inability to breathe. I don't want to take any glory away from Levinsky. He is better than you think he is, he has courage, can punch and has the makings of a good fighter."

There is a possibility that Dempsey may fight Levinsky in a 10-round bout under the Chicago stadium, in Soldier Field this summer.

Second Record

The record smashing crowd that jammed the Chicago stadium last night gave Dempsey, most magnetic personality in boxing, the distinction of drawing the largest crowd in the history of the sport, both indoors and outdoors.

Dempsey and Tunney drew the outdoor record crowd with some 147,000 spectators at Soldier Field, Sept. 22, 1927. Last night's official figures were 23,322 paid admissions, eclipsing the former record by almost a thousand. The gross receipts were $74,616.25.

I. C. C. Hold Railroad Has Recapturable Income

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission in a tentative report held today that the Abilene and Southern railroad had $148,957 of recapturable income from Sept. 1, 1920, through 1926.

The report, which must be finally passed upon after argument, showed that the road during the last four months of 1920 had recapturable income totaling $4,377; in 1921 no recapturable income; 1922, $10,119; 1923, $31,196; 1924, $17,036; 1925, $37,189; and 1926, $49,040.

The road had an income of $297,913 in excess of the fair return provided by law, of which one-half is recapturable.

RUSSIAN MAT STAR THROWN

Jap Wins Over Ligosky In Wrestling Thriller

Whitey Grovo's search for the man to stop Russian George Ligosky ended Friday night when Titsu Higami, the wonder Jap, applied the sleep hold to the bearded badman. The match was filled with thrills all the way. Higami's scientific ju-jitsu proved to be the master of Ligosky's brute strength. The lightning quick little Jap revived in the memories of the fans the days of Matty Matsuda, the all-time favorite of Wichita Falls. The Russian found himself at a disadvantage most of the time with the Jap's uncanny ability to find the "buttons" to break every hold Ligosky could apply.

The first fall came after 14 minutes and 38 seconds when the Jap opened with a rapid fire session of flying mares until Ligosky was groggy, then applied an alligator arm stretch. After an exchange of mean faces and wild windmill windups, Ligosky won the second fall in six minutes and 15 seconds with a body slam and pin. The Russian tossed the Jap about the ring with his brute strength, tossing the Jap as if he were an empty eggshell. Ligosky had started tossing him around again when the Jap suddenly clinched and applied the sleep hold. The last fall came in 15 minutes and 33 seconds.

Bob Taylor, the Terre Haute flash, emerged the victor in the semifinal, over Jack Calahan, of Memphis. The victory for Taylor was a popular one with the fans and was well deserved. The two men mixed it freely from start to finish with the referee being brought in several times as an unwilling third party. The Terre Haute grappler won the only fall over Calahan in 36 minutes and 45 seconds with a hook scissors. They then battled the remaining eight minutes and 15 seconds without a fall.

Emmett "Flash" Disheroon won the one-fall preliminary over Carl Jackson of Fort Worth, in a speedy match. Disheroon, local Ju-jitsu artist won in seven minutes and 35 seconds with a series of flying mares.

The card as a whole marked one of the fastest staged in this city in a long time with all three of the matches filled with plenty of speed, action and thrills.

Stolen Cigars Seized By Constable Smith

Fourteen boxes of cigars stolen from the automobile of W. M. Cason, cigar agent, last Sunday, have been recovered by Constable Fred Smith—minus several handfuls of the aromatic Havanas.

The loss of 3,600 cigars, valued at about $160, was reported to the city police by Mr. Cason Monday. On Friday, the constable found 14 boxes, most of them intact, in possession of three boys living a short distance from the courthouse.

They had found the boxes under the remaining portion of a burned house in their neighborhood, the boys said. The boys remained in the cutody of Juvenile Officer J. A. McDonald while a further investigation was being pressed.

Bill Offered to Make Saturday Legal Holiday

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (AP)—A further advance which carried May contracts to 7.15 or 55 points above the low level of last week, featured today's cotton market.

The opening was very steady at an advance of 7-11 points on a continuation of the recent buying movement, which again included a considerable demand through houses with foreign connections. Prices worked down to 6.90 for March and 7.48 for October or to yesterday's closing quotations but stiffened up with the demand becoming more active in the late trading.

The early advance resulted from the relative firm showing of Liverpool and strength in the stock and grain markets. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were again said to be buyers here, while a further demand was reported from the Far East which was supposed to include some buying for Bombay as well as Japanese account.

This was accompanied by further reports that American cotton was being substituted for other growths in the oriental market.

Futures closed very steady, 3 to 6 points higher. Spot steady; middling, 7.05.

Industrial And Utilities Stocks Climb On Short Selling Restriction

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. (US)—Under the impetus of exaggerated interpretation of the latest "restriction" against short selling instituted by the stock exchange, prices of stocks today rose, in the industrial and public utility departments, to new high prices for the present recovery, which were for these two groups the best quotations of the year.

Railroad stocks, however, did not participate quite as freely in the upturn, failing as a group to reach new high ground. Industrials alone maintained net improvement toward the close sufficient to establish a new peak for the recovery.

The opening was an expression of unusual fright among shorts. Large blocks of stocks advanced several points overnight and the number of shares involved in initial transactions testified to the impression which had been made upon a large element of the trading community by the exchange's efforts to satisfy Washington demands for restrictions against short selling. The early gains, however, could not be maintained, being lost almost in entirety before the close of the market.

All other influences of the day were overlooked in the attempt to interpret properly the latest restrictions, if they really are serious restrictions. Turnover jumped considerably, to 2,400,000 shares against 1,700,000 the previous day.

From the very opening it was noticeable that the principal strength would be confined to those stocks harboring supposedly the largest short accounts. Their action after the initial enthusiasm had died down emphasized the fact that short-covering probably was the major influence in their early advances.

Some of the overnight interpretations publicly made of the latest stock exchange ruling almost suggested that a virtual ban had become effective against short-selling. As a matter of fact, the exchange has already signified very firmly to its own members, and through them to the biggest bear operators, that indiscriminate "raiding" of stocks will not be permitted and of late it must be conceded even by the opponents of all short-selling that such activities have been at a reasonable minimum. It is to be remembered while the excitement of the latest ruling still exists, that the exchange inner rules are still in effect, whereby for example short sales cannot be made below the last previous sale. The stock exchange is awakened to the realization that it must make some concessions to the demands for reforms, if a legislative inquiry is to be warded off.

What the latest ruling in truth represents is little more than widespread publicity to a clause in the broker-customer contract already in effect.

Undoubtedly, many people holding stocks on margin have never appreciated their right to revoke the power giving brokers the privilege of lending their stocks. But, if a great short interest still exists, it fails to find reflection in the "lending" market. After the close today the premiums which had been demanded on most of the active stocks, including steel, can, and American Telephone had disappeared. Modest premiums still were demanded on Cocowacolo, Eastman-Kodak and International Business Machine.

If a large demand existed for borrowing stocks, it would be expected that under the new regulations the customer willing to let his stock be lent might demand a part of the premium if any were paid.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 19. (AP)—In the face of big profit taking sales, wheat today outdid the season's high price record and closed well above yesterday's finish.

Broader export demand, unfavorable crop reports from the Southwest and New York stock market bulges had a brisk stimulating effect. New buying of North American wheat for shipment over seas was estimated at upward of 1,000,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at a fractional setback from the day's top, ⅛@⅝c higher than yesterday, with corn varying from ⅛c decline to ⅝c advance, oats ⅛@⅝c up and provisions unchanged to 10 cents off.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat, but enlarged country offerings of corn acted as a drag.

SCHOOLS TAKE LEAD IN HONORING GEORGE WASHINGTON

PTA SPONSORS TREE PLANTING

Great Leader Still 'First In Hearts' of Kids

The life story of George Washington and the qualities and traits which make him "first in the hearts" of all American school children have been carried to scores of Wichita Falls students this week in plays, stories, pageants and musical programs.

Every school in the city system has given a Washington program or will give such a program within the next few days. Scores of children of all ages have taken part. Tree-planting exercises are to be held at all schools within the week, under the auspices of the City P.-T. A. council, and many other special programs are planned. While Feb. 22, the bicentennial of Washington's birth falls on Monday, some schools have given their programs this week while others will give them early next week.

Patriotic songs and talks on both George Washington and trees will be the main feature of the program at the Austin school. Students of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will participate in this entertainment, which will be given at the school Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Betty Dilworth, principal of Barwise, announced that in addition to the tree-planting, which will be held next Wednesday, there will be an assembly at which classwork from the various grades will be exhibited.

Two Programs at Franklin

Two programs will be held at Ben Franklin Friday. The primary grades met at 1:45 o'clock. The program included patriotic songs and readings, and selections by the Rhythm orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Grace Pickins. Intermediate grades met later in the afternoon in a special assembly, when the student safety council was in charge of the program. In addition to patriotic songs and readings, the council presented a playlet, "The Military Life of Washington." The school orchestra, directed by Miss Bernice Ewing, played several numbers.
