(Special To The Avalanche)

MULESHOE, April 23.—Oral Whitford, 29, of Earth, Bailey county, died this morning at 11 o'clock in Olton following a car wreck which occurred a short time before on the Muleshoe-Plains highway. A coroner's jury this afternoon rendered a verdict of death by accident. J. A. Winston, of Pampa, driver of the automobile which overturned, is being held by officers for investigation, despite the coroner's verdict.

Winston told officers that he picked the boy up on the highway and that the wreck was purely accidental. Whitford's chest was badly crushed in the wreck and other portions of his body were bruised.

Peddler's Jubilee Tickets on Sale

Ticket sales for the eighth annual Peddler's Jubilee, to be held at this city next Saturday are falling far short of previous years according to reports received last night from Amos Howard, chairman of the ticket committee.

Sale of tickets was started yesterday and, with exception of one team, the day's work was regarded as disappointing. Group No. 1, Ben Powell chairman, and W. E. Lavender, sold a large number of tickets and were far in the lead of other teams. Completion of the work is expected today.

A spy program has been worked out for Saturday evening by Dick Smith and his assistants: R. D. Erwin, Jr., Dean J. M. Gordon, Frank Kent and Curtis C. Bearden. Every indication is that the jubilee will be one of the most successful in the history of the city.

Part of traveling men and interest ever held, according to officials.

Soldiers Hunt For Kidnapers

Capture Of Mexican Bandits Thought Certain Following Release Of American For Ransom Of $200

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, April 23.—Federal soldiers tonight were on the trail of three kidnapers who last night released Dr. George Edward Purnell, American dentist, after exacting a ransom of $200. The doctor, captured near Guadalajara Sunday, returned to this city today.

Nothing had been heard definitely from the troops, but it was believed they would capture the kidnapers within a short time. The American had identified two of the men by name and it was known that the three had only a short start on the pursuers.

It was just two weeks ago that J. E. Bristol, Texas mining man, was released after being held for 32 days and paying ransom of $1,500. Dr. Purnell got off with a much smaller sum, although his friends had $500 ready in case it was needed. The original demand for his ransom was $2,000.

Snow Storms and Record-Breaking Cold Weather Grip North, Eastern States

NEW YORK, April 23. (AP)—Snow storms and record breaking cold weather gripped the north and eastern Atlantic states today, indirectly causing the death of 3 persons in an airplane crash and disrupting sports schedules over a wide area. In New York a thermometer reading of 30 was the lowest on record for April 23.

Weather bureau officials said a high pressure area in Manitoba which extended southward to the Gulf coast and thence to the Atlantic, was responsible for the cold, which they expected to continue for a day or two.

A snow storm was thought to have caused an airplane pilot to lose his bearings over Attica, N. Y., and the plane crashed against a hill, killing him and two passengers.

Tupper Lake reported a six-inch snowfall. At Pittsburgh nearly 20,000 fans braved the wintry elements for three innings of a game with Cincinnati before the arbiters decided the snow and cold were too much and stopped the game. At New York, Boston, Newark, Columbus, Toledo and Washington, followers of the national sport sought fireplaces instead of baseball parks when announcements were made there would be no games.

Black Is Captured Following All Night Search By 250 Men; Officer Says Victim Handcuffed To Tree, Shot

No Inquest Likely

Investigation Not Expected Until Next Fall; Negro Is Accused Of Shooting Youth Who Accused Him Of Theft

(By Associated Press)

GUNNISON, Miss., April 23.—A negro accused of slaying a 17-year-old boy was shot to death by a crowd of some 250 men near here today. The shooting occurred on a Mississippi river levee.

Dave Harris, 35, married and a father, was captured after an all-night search for the slayer of Clayton Funderberg, who had accused Harris of stealing groceries from the Funderberg farm. The boy was shot down yesterday.

The negro was taken to the levee and three volleys of gun shot were fired into his body. Deputy Sheriff T. L. Courtney said Harris first was handcuffed to a tree, although an account had it that he was told to run and was shot as he dashed away.

Courtney said no inquest was likely. He did not expect an investigation before next fall.

Sensational Charges Made In Investigation Of Ohio Pen Fire; Warden Admits No Flame Precautions Taken

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Sensational charges that prison officials could have saved all of the 318 prisoners who died in the Ohio penitentiary fire Monday night and an admission from Warden Preston E. Thomas that no general fire precautions are taken at the institution were made today in the record of the board of inquiry today.

Charges that prison officers were lax in consideration of the value of human life were made by A. E. Nice, Columbus fire chief.

State Is Blamed

The warden blamed the state for over crowding the prison to almost twice its capacity.

Chief Nice declared all the victims could have been saved if they had been released from their cells as soon as the fire was discovered. He told the board that there must have been undue delay because the first alarm came from a box outside the prison walls.

Warden Thomas, recalled to the witness stand after Nice testified, was questioned in detail as to what precautions were taken against fire, and why he went outside the prison walls.

Local Citizens Urged to Co-Operate In Census Enumeration Here; Appeal Made in Effort for Complete Figures

Lubbock, now boasting a population of approximately 21,000 will suffer a shock which will be pungently hurtful to the prestige this city has exercised through wide publicity over the nation unless every citizen rallies to the aid of enumerators for the 13th decennial census of the government, it became apparent today.

Have You Been Enumerated?

If not, or if you have any doubt, fill out this coupon and mail to Supervisor of Census Lubbock, Texas

On April 1st, 1930, I was living at address given below, but to the best of my knowledge I have not been enumerated, either there or any where else.

Name _____ Street and Number _____ City _____

There are possible thousands in Lubbock who have not been reached by enumerators, although census takers have been diligent in performance of their duty. In many cases repeated calls have failed to obtain required information from many homes, due to the fact that residents have been absent for sundry reasons.

Rank Is At Stake

Such facts surely will not be considered lightly by those who are interested in the development of Lubbock. This year's rank among others of West Texas is at stake.

Barry Miller Will Be Here This Morning

Lieutenant Governor Speaks Wednesday At Lamesa; To Make Tour In Interest Of Candidacy For Governor

(By Associated Press)

Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, of Dallas, is expected to arrive in Lubbock early today on his first visit to this section since announcing his candidacy several months ago for the office of governor of the state of Texas.

Miller yesterday spoke to a gathering of some 300 Dawson county citizens in Lamesa, according to advices received last night by The Morning Avalanche, arriving in that city from Midland.

Greeting Voters

Information from Miller's campaign headquarters earlier in the week stated that the lieutenant governor is not making a lecture tour of the state at this time but rather is personally greeting the voters of West Texas.

No definite speaking engagement has been announced for Lubbock but Miller spoke yesterday to Dawson county people at the district court room at 5 o'clock. In his address he stated that he was not speaking in the interest of his campaign for governor. He related details of his political life in Texas and stated that he would thoroughly campaign the state before the primaries.

T. L. Wheeler, secretary to Miller, is accompanying him on the western trip.

Pre-Nuptial Days Filled With Round Of Events Honoring Miss Moxley

Mrs. H. Woods Entertains With Prettily-Planned Tea To Compliment Bride-Elect

Forty Friends Of Honoree And Mother Guests Wednesday Afternoon; Mrs. V. W. Agniet Opens Varied Program Featuring Musical And Dance Selections

PRE-NUPTIAL days are filled with a round of delightful functions for Miss Lucille Moxley, bride-elect of Winfield Watkins. Hydrangea snowballs and lilies were featured in decorations when Mrs. H. D. Woods entertained with a seated tea and miscellaneous shower Wednesday afternoon in her home, 1823 32nd street. About 40 friends of Miss Moxley and her mother, Mrs. R. D. Moxley, were guests for the afternoon.

Next event is slated for Friday afternoon when Mrs. Bass Arnett and Mrs. Howell Arnett join in giving a 3 o'clock bridge party in the suburban home of Mrs. Bass Arnett.

Mrs. Agniet sings. An effective opening for the program was the waltz song from the opera "Roméo et Juliette" sung by Mrs. V. W. Agniet with Mrs. Joe Wilson playing the piano accompaniment. This was followed by an old fashioned dance by little Miss Barbara Ann Hale, who was frocked in a pink colonial costume. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Aubrey Walker.

Planologue Is Given. "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" by James Whitcomb Riley was the charming rendition in the form of a planologue by Miss Lida Mae Cravens. Winifred Woods, costumed in a pink bonnet and checked apron, and John Robert Moxley, brother of the honoree, impersonated in pantomime sweethearts seven years of age, and Jane Akers, through a lovely dance and a violin selection, "The Song of Love," impersonated the sweetheart 14 years of age.

The Venetian Boat Song, by Blumenthal was sung as a duet by Mrs. Harry Blocker and Mrs. J. M. Lewis, with Mrs. Joe Wilson at the piano. As the music died away, a boat laden with a shower of gifts was "beached" in a little cupid, Marion Woods, was at the helm, and the boat was piloted by two little sailor boys, H. D. Woods Jr. and J. D. Hassell Jr. The gifts were graciously accepted by Miss Moxley, who was frocked in gray chiffon, softened through the use of lace in the neck and sleeves. She wore a purple hat of horsehair braid and carried a bag beaded with pearls. Her shoes were of gray water-makeup, and her gloves of cream-colored kid.

SHOOTING WITH SHUTE DENNY SHUTE

If every golfer would take the same care in making his tee shot as the he does in making a short iron shot to the green, I believe he would find himself in a lot less trouble off the tee.

By this I mean that a great many players just stand upon the tee and aim into the ball, thinking of distance and not much about direction.

From the tee, there is usually such a large space out on the fairway where there is no trouble that the ordinary player does not select carefully a certain position for his second shot.

Reward Is Two-fold

I think it is vastly important for two reasons. In the first place, if you are aiming at a certain position, the shot is apt to be at least somewhere near that position. In that way you frequently can avoid bunkers and down hill lies.

Secondly, the second shot to the green can be made much easier if the first shot lands in a carefully selected spot. Most greens have approaches where there are no traps to lure a misplaced iron shot. Why not arrange the first shot so the second has an opportunity to make use of such things?

Psychological Aid

Second shots should be played, whenever possible, from places where the ball has a chance to get as close to the cup as possible without forcing one to shoot over a trap. Think it over. Also think over the psychological part of it, the danger a trap suggests, which ruins so many shots before the swing has even been taken.

Here He Is, Bigger Than Primo

Primo Carnera seems doomed to lose his title of being the biggest man in the ring with the advent of Rosario Impellittero, 283-pound, six feet seven and one-half-inch tall Cold Spring, N. Y. youth. In a few months when this 30-year-old giant is ready to make his pro boxing debut, he should be larger than the Italian, for he is still growing. Rosario was a terror to other teams because of his height when he played football and basketball for Peekskill High.

Tech Gridders May Stay Out Another Week

Matadors To Continue Spring Work Until Interest Lag Says Cawthon; Forty Matadors Still In Uniform

Tech's football candidates will continue their spring training as long as interest keeps up and the squad shows progress. Head Coach Cawthon announced Wednesday afternoon between breaths that the Matador gridiron.

The Crimson grid hopefuls have shown marked progress during the three weeks of practice under the new commander and the spirit exhibited by the college men has been unusually satisfying. There is a possibility that the spring grid will end Friday or Saturday of this week with a lengthy scrimmage between two picked teams of the squad.

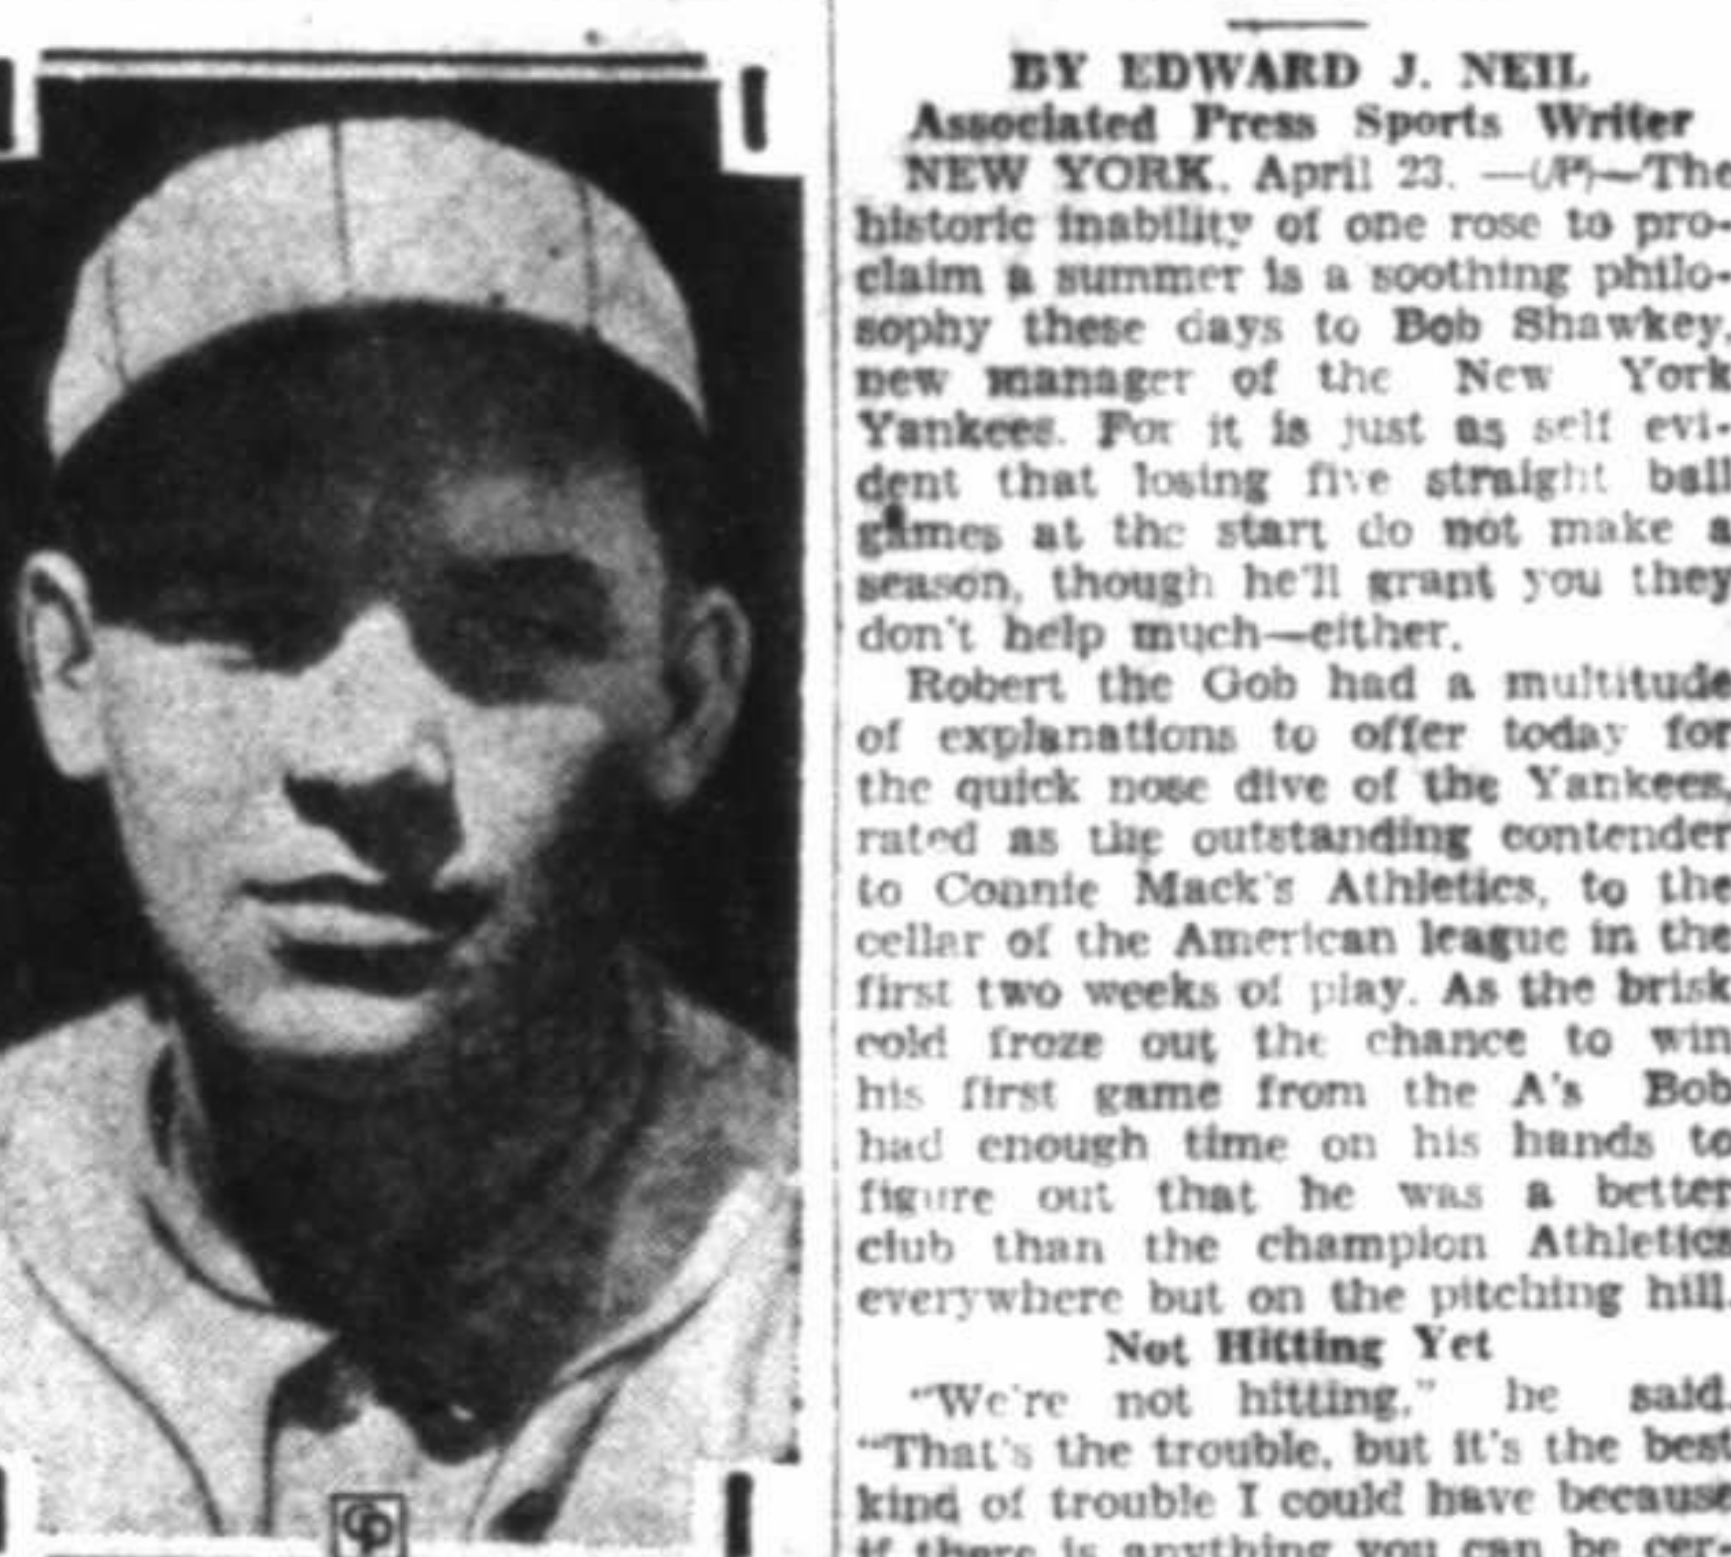

But if there is a need for further training, Coach Cawthon will have the squad out for another week. The staff has not yet decided whether the Matadors should be kept in uniform or not. The Matadors are still in uniform.

Cawthon is plainly encouraged by the recent showing of his charges and has hopes of a budding club next fall.

"The boys are at least running through their plays a lot more than they did and they are all working hard. It was the greenest bunch I ever saw at the start. Those who have quit the squad wouldn't have been worth anything to us, anyway. All the good men are still out there."

Phillies Nose Out Brooklyn, 16 to 15

BY EDWARD J. NEIL Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 23. (AP)—The historic inability of one team to claim a summer is a soothing philosophy these days to Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees. For it is just as self-evident that losing five straight ball games at the start do not make a season, though he'll grant you they don't help much either.

Robert the Gob had a multitude of explanations to offer today for the quick nose dive of the Yankees, rated as the outstanding contender to Connie Mack's Athletics, to the cellar of the American league in the first two weeks of play. As the brick cold froze out the chance to win his first game from the A's, Bob had enough time on his hands to figure out that he was a better pitcher than the champion Athletics everywhere but on the pitching hill.

Not Hitting Yet

"We're not hitting," he said. "That's the trouble, but it's the best kind of trouble I could have because if there is anything you can be certain of over a full season's play it's that the Yankees will hit."

"The outfield, with Babe Ruth, Earl Combs, Byrd and Cooke in there, has hit exactly .119 in five games. You know that can't last. Tony Luzzi, a .250 hitter, has had three safe singles. Cooke will start hitting when the rest do. The only man on the team hitting his normal stride is Lou Gehrig and Lou had a bad season last year."

"Gehrig should go great. He fell into a bad habit of taking his eyes off the ball last season and falling away as he swung. He has remedied the fault and should climb right back into the .250 class."

Lorenzo Worried Over Matter of Losing Its Coach

LORENZO, April 23.—Residents of Lorenzo as well as students of the high school are much worried over prospects of Jack Agee, principal of the high school and athletic coach being absent from the work next year.

So far Jack, who has been offered a contract for next year, has not decided on his future plans. He has had several offers from other towns but silent on his intentions.

During the two years he has coached the team, Jack, 28 graduate of Howard Payne college, has built up his athletic work from scratch to one of the best in this section.

Lorenzo has had sixty boys in school this year and virtually every one has participated in some form of athletic work.

Last fall he had 30 boys out for football and had a strong team. When basketball season came on he found nine good prospects.

Spring found ten men out for track work and the same number lined up for tennis.

Only in baseball has there been a falling down. There were only eight boys who came out regularly for this sport. But the boys worked with the town team, forming the backbone of that organization.

Lorenzo is in Class B athletic work in this conference.

Jack's home is in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Large Crowd Hears Visiting Wacoan In Methodist Church Revival On Wednesday Night

Increased Throng Sets Mark For Service Thus Far And Hears Of Sins Destroying Influence Of Church

Taking as his subject "The Three Great Sins Destroying the Life Power and Influence of the Church," Dr. L. L. Evans, of Waco, last night was greeted by more than 400 persons in the third week-night service of the first Methodist church's two week revival campaign.

The visiting divine, who is pastor of Austin Avenue Methodist church in the Central Texas metropolis, is one of the leaders of the both in Southern Methodism. Attendance at both morning and evening services in the revival thus far has shown marked increase daily.

Tells Anecdotes
Doctor Evans listed as the three great sins the broken promise, neglect and the human effort to serve two masters. His talk was marked by anecdotes of interest and by several humorous stories. A special musical feature was a duet by Rev. H. L. Munger, local pastor, and Andrew Humphreys, noted Port Worth vocalist and teacher, who is in charge of singing at the revival. They were supported by the church choir.

In his dissertation on broken promises, the speaker brought the question home to his hearers by stressing trustworthiness and pointed out that "there is still a demand for old-fashioned honesty." He recalled promises made by members joining a church and urged support of the institution. He stressed the need of law enforcement, rapped persons who violate the prohibition statutes and said that "law and order is being taken too lightly in this country." The average American, he said, can be trusted in the bigger things but is more likely to fail in the wayside in the observance of lesser duties.

Raps Modern Mothers
Speaking on neglect, as the second great sin, he stressed the neglecting of home teaching, particularly as it affects the teaching of a mother over her daughter. He decried modern mothers who fail to bring up their daughters spiritually and scored those who put society before church affiliation and activity. He asserted that family worship is one method of teaching in the home and urged that more families institute the family altar.

Quoting Joshua's immortal declaration of "As for me and my house, we shall serve the Lord," Doctor Evans pointed out that it is impossible for man to serve both God and Mammon. He closed his talk with a plea for the throwing aside of worldly pleasures and more attention to church service.

The Wacoan will speak at 9 o'clock this morning on the subject of "The Nearest Way to a Man's Heart," and said it is not a topic for women only. Tonight's subject will be "The Biggest Thing A Man Can Do," and will begin at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Munger said the congregation hoped to fill the church auditorium for Doctor Evans' service tonight.

Seen From The Top Of The Yellowhouse Windmill

BY J. SAM LEWIS, FIELD CORRESPONDENT

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first presentation of a feature column, to be run "now and then" in The Morning Avalanche, dealing with personalities and brief news events from over the South Plains. It is being written by the travelling reporter and takes its name from the historic Yellowhouse ranch windmill, once a landmark on the Staked Plains.

HAPPY IN RAILS

Rails business men were just about the most puffed up bunch on the entire South Plains this week when the stock judging team won first place in dairy judging contests at Texas A. & M. "We got out and raised $100 to send the boys down to Austin," Bill McKee, Lumberman and Rotarian, said. "Proggie" Lovern, coach, told use he thought he had a team that had a chance to win something. It was hard pulling but the town made it. I'm sure glad we did." Other men echoed the same sentiments.

CARRIER IS POPULAR

Curtis Keene, Avalanche-Journal agent and carrier at Ralls, is making himself very popular with residents of the Crosby county metropolis. Curtis and his younger brothers carry the papers. They meet the Texas Way buses that bring in the papers morning and afternoon and in a few minutes the trio is on its way delivering. "I always get my Journal within a half hour or so after the bus arrives," L. L. Drumheller, Santa Fe agent, said. "Curtis certainly is a good agent." Mrs. Keene, if the papers are late, often helps out with the delivery work.

WON NICE PRIZE

Best available information is that the Ralls aggregation won $800 in cash, a trip to the National Dairy show at Chicago next November and three scholarships in Texas A. & M.

GOOD OLD COW

R. P. Nicholson, owner of the City cafe at Lorena, is proud of his service. "We sell the buttermilk that is left after we make our own butter," he said. "My mother-in-law has a fine Jersey cow and we certainly get the best kind of milk for the restaurant."

WEATHER PROPHET

Ed Fullbright, of the Cone community near Ralls, is proposed by Bob Whaley, of the Harvest Queen elevator here, as the semi-official weather prognosticator of Ralls. Ed breezes into the elevator Tuesday. "Bob," he said, "you think we need rain. We do. We are going to have it before the sixth." Bob grinned. "Sixth of what?" he asked. "April!"

Alleged Jake Peddlers Get Prison Terms

Two Sentenced In Connection With War Being Conducted By Dawson County's Grand Jury On Alleged "Joins"

Lee, another sandwich shop operator, is also facing a penitentiary sentence of two years after pleading guilty to the first indictment. He has seven others brought against him.

NEGRO KILLED

GUINISON, Miss., April 23. (AP)—A crowd of several hundred men today shot and killed Dave Harris, 35-year-old negro, accused of slaying Clayton Funderberg, 17-year-old farm boy.

Ed smiled. "No. May 6," he replied as he darted out the door.

FAVORS MODIFICATION

NEWARK, N. J., April 23. (AP)—Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who voted for passage of the Volstead law, and who again is candidate for the republican nomination for the senate, said today he favored modification of the prohibition laws. "Ten years of experience and study have modified my views," he said.

STORY DISCREDITED

LOS ANGELES, April 23. (AP)—Discrepancies in the voluntary "confession" of Russo Rinaldo, 41-year-old accountant and shell shocked World war veteran, that he was the murderer eight years ago of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, led police detectives today to discredit his story.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

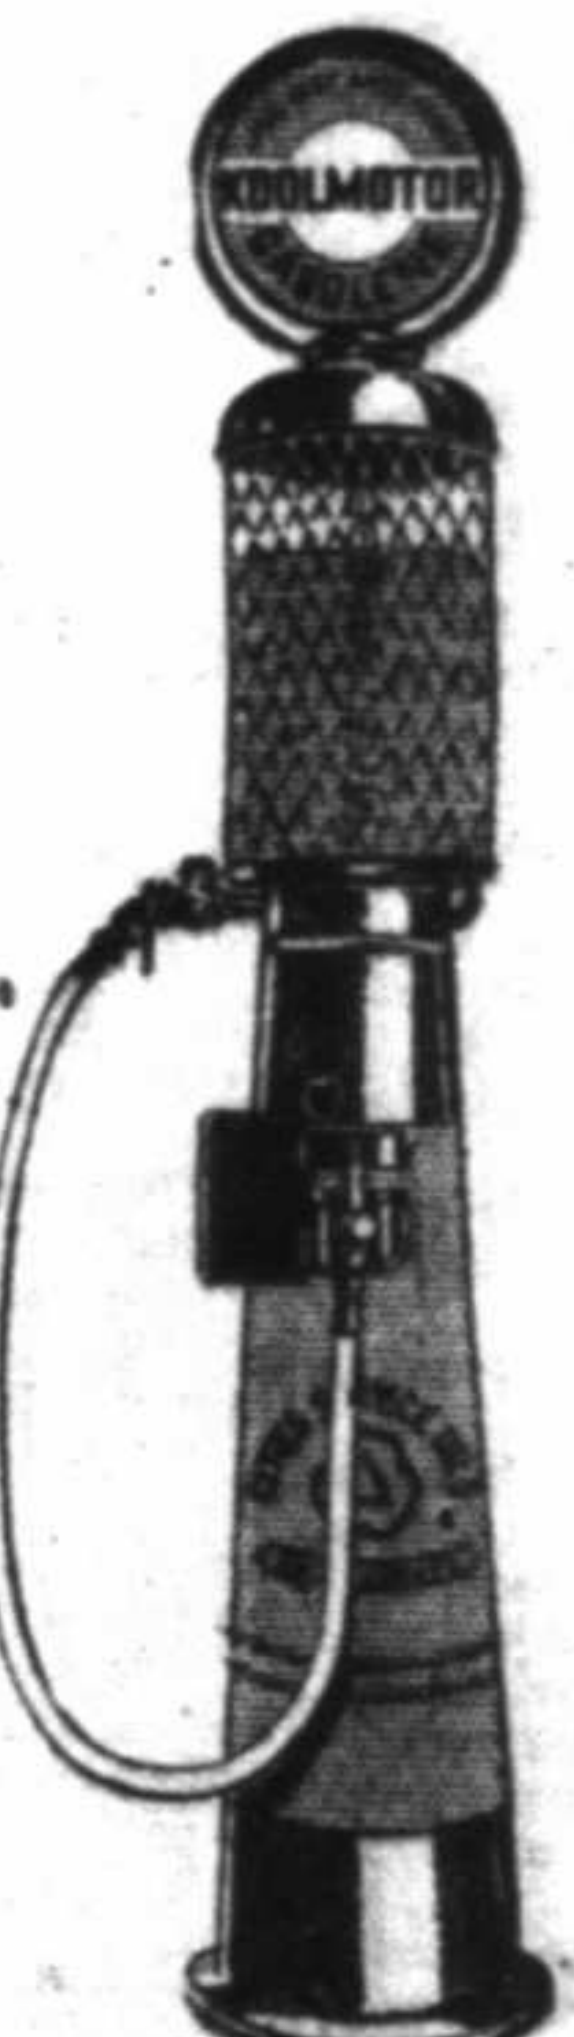

THRALL, April 23. (AP)—Fire in the R. L. Marks No. 1 Simmons oil well, which had been burning since 5 p. m. yesterday was extinguished about noon today.

Avoid GUM-STUCK VALVES!

Use  KOOLMOTOR GASOLENE

the gas from which harmful gum has been removed

IMAGINE the fight that goes on in your engine when your valves are stuck with sticky, gummy, clinging deposits.

Gasolenes containing an excessive amount of gum cause that condition. When you step on the gas for more power your engine labors—your valves struggle to get free—you wince at the faulty response.

Why tolerate this sluggish performance? Change to Koolumotor Gasolene—the gas from which harmful gum has been removed. Cities Service experts put this superior motor fuel through extra processes, exercise greater care, to relieve you of gum-stuck valves. The Cities Service mini-gum process reduces the gum content to a harmless minimum.

Keep your valves clean—help them deliver their best—insure maximum power at all times—by keeping your tank full of Koolumotor Gasolene—the gas that is free from harmful gum.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.—Psalm cxxx, 7, & 8.

A GOOD START, CLINT!

WE have with us today Hon. Clint C. Small, West Texan and candidate for the democratic nomination as governor of Texas. Mr. Small, of Wellington in Collingsworth county, speaking:

"I have announced for governor after a careful study of conditions. I am prompted by the conviction that the people demand, and should have, relief from partisan political strife and that in lieu thereof they shall be given a careful business administration.

"If I should be elected governor, it will be my aim and ambition to adjourn politics in Texas and to inaugurate a constructive era devoted to building and developing Texas institutions. By thoughtful application of strong business policies it will be possible for the state to make substantial progress without additional cost of government. State government should so function as to make Texas an inviting field for new and diversified industries. To accomplish this end taxes must not be increased, but the tax dollar must be judiciously expended and made to yield a greater dividend. The most practical way to aid agriculture in all of its branches is to make Texas an industrial state."

If you care for our opinion, Mr. Small's start is a good one.

As a matter of fact, The Morning Avalanche is itching to support Senator Small in his race, thus far largely due to sentimental reasons. He's "from our neck of the woods." If you please, he is almost a newcomer to state-wide politics and his hands are clean. If his position upon state issues is as judiciously chosen and expressed as his reasons for his candidacy, South Plains readers need not be surprised at this newspaper's "tearing its shirt" to help Clint Small "get over."

Doesn't Texas democracy need a Moses to lead it from the jungle of petty politics, over-grown with years of "hoss trading?" Isn't it just about time when a West Texan—a geographical West Texan, we mean—ought to be given a chance at running the state to the advantage of the majority of the people?

And hasn't Clint Small, as a district judge, a State Senator and a patriotic West Texan marked himself as a leader?

Our answer to all these points is a resounding "Yes!"

To be sure, it's a long hard pull to the state house at Austin—particularly when it's a West Texan on the wagon. Senator Small has a little task confronting him and upon an ordinary campaign year we'd be apt to say that his cause is a hopeless one. But, Heaven be praised, this isn't an "ordinary campaign year" and by hard work and solid support from over the West, the Wellington man has a chance to win.

We have two splits in the party ranks—the Hoover democrat split and the newly won republican wedge.

We have a large field of aspirants to the nomination, practically all of them "war horses" running in "opposition" to this, that or the other principle. The temper of Texas voters is a mysterious thing and who knows but that the majority of our fellows may decide that it's time to put things in a new man's hands and cast an avalanche of ballots for the gentleman from the Panhandle?

The Morning Avalanche is interested in Mr. Small's campaign for two reasons. One is purely selfish, in that we hope, should he be elected, West Texas will face a new era in receiving what it justly deserves. The other, as stated before, is sentimental, because Senator Small is our Collingsworth county neighbor. All things being equal, we're frank to say we'd rather see a West Texan in command at Austin for a change, in preference to a "down stater."

It will be our pleasure, along with that of the majority of West Texans, to watch carefully Mr. Small's platform and his stand upon public questions. We believe Lubbock and the South Plains are friendly toward the new candidate, who has made a good start.

"ADVENTURE STORY" SENATORS
FEEL THAT PIONEERING SPIRIT
STILL IS ALIVE IN UNITED STATES

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Senators John E. Kendrick, of Wyoming, and Key Pittman, of Nevada, are congressmen two typical "adventure story" pioneers. The frontier they knew was the real thing. Its spaces were indeed wide open. Pistols cracked. Spurs rattled. Movie stuff!—when it was the genuine article.

At 73, Senator Kendrick still is the "old cattleman."

Senator Pittman panned gold in Alaska. The six-shooter was law when he got there. Later he helped to organize Nomes "consent form of government" and became the first prosecuting attorney on the polar side of the Yukon.

Does much of the pioneering spirit survive in the present generation of Americans?

It seems to me that modern conveniences have so softened the race as to have unfitted it for an existence that its sires thrived on. True, the young man of today is quite equal to a campaign, as in Planners led, fed and given his orders. He has physical courage. He may be an athlete. But has he the stamina, the initiative, the independence and the resistance-to-hardship to create a civilization for himself—like his father before him. I doubt it.

Three times I have watched attempts to colonize one of the richest regions in South America with settlers from this continent.

Tex Rickard led one; Alfalfa Bill Murray a second; Fred Engen the third—a Scandinavian-American, less widely-known than Tex or Alfalfa Bill, but a sturdy Nordic, with an ambition to found an empire.

Their followers, all told, numbered into the thousands and they quit in thousands—all but the merest handful, who, by sticking, and subsequently prospering exceedingly, proved that there was nothing the matter with the trio of ventures except the quality of their human raw material.

These colonization enterprises did call for a start from scratch, and life, for a term of years, in a wilderness.

Squatters in our own west were not appalled by such a prospect half a century ago. Europeans of all sorts, even now, are defying the hardships of the same region where Rickard's, Murray's and Engen's companions deserted them almost immediately upon arrival.

No electricity! No plumbing! No movies! Old-timers like Senators Kendrick and Pittman would not have groined. But present-day Americans? A tourist agent probably would do well, who succeeded in scraping together a railroad carload of them guaranteed to endure such conditions.

Is the pioneering spirit dead in America? I put this question to Senators Kendrick and Pittman. With one voice they answered, "No," emphatically.

"I know Murray personally," said Senator Kendrick. "I doubt if his colonists were well selected. It is worth remembering that by no means all of those who tried our own frontier won success when they reached it. Covered wagons were almost as numerous struggling back toward the eastward as the continent bound for the western horizon."

"Given a sufficient incentive," said Senator Pittman, "Americans would take to the trail as readily in 1930 as in 1849."

"Pioneering," continued the Tonopah lawmaker, "simply is a form of gambling, and the American is a born gambler."

"However, unless that game is offered to him he cannot play it."

"It has not been offered to him lately. Due to the lack of it, he had to play the stock market—not because he preferred the stock market, but because no pioneering was available."

"He was perfectly willing to risk his life among hostile Indians for the sake of riches in land, or among the dangers of the Arctic for the sake of riches in gold; he has seen no stake in recent years that invited him to brave pioneering perils. When he does, they will not stop him for a minute."

MUMPS CAN BE VERY PAINFUL IF PROPER CARE IS NOT TAKEN

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Mumps is a condition which affects particularly the glands that produce saliva and of these more particularly the parotid glands, which are in the cheeks in front of the lower part of the ear.

In mumps, the other salivary glands, those just under the jaw and just under the tongue, may also be affected but not so frequently. Usually both sides of the face are involved and usually also the person who has mumps has been in contact recently with someone who has the disease.

The organism that causes mumps is evidently spread from one person to another by material from the mouth and nose, but also by the hands which become contaminated with material from the mouth and nose.

Usually mumps is a fairly light condition, but there are cases in which the other glands in the body may be infected, and because of this possibility, it is customary to keep the infected person in bed, at least during the acute phase of the attacks. The person with mumps should lie quietly and be kept alone until all of the swelling disappears.

It is customary to isolate children who are ill with mumps for 14 days in order to prevent them giving the disease to other children who may not have had it.

There are many unusual superstitions about mumps having to do with the fact that the person with the disease cannot enjoy sour pickles or persimmons, but it is doubtful that a person in a severe stage can enjoy any food very much. It is too hard to swallow. Seldom does the fever in mumps rise above 101 degrees; occasionally it will go a little higher.

Seldom does it cause severe sickness, but there are cases in which the swelling and the fever have been so great that the person could not swallow, had severe headache and even delirium.

Any infectious disease may be followed by serious complications, particularly of the kidneys, unless the person is given the best possible opportunity to recover thoroughly with complete rest in bed. If there is much pain or swelling in the glands, the application of heat or cold usually produces relief.

It is not necessary to fumigate or disinfect a room after the patient has had mumps. Airing, sunlight and soap and water cleaning usually serve the purpose of disinfection quite satisfactorily.

It is only in real life that the would-be hero gets the knock-out blow.

Look how cooperation has worked out for Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller.

CHAPTER XLVII

The Berkeley household had been notified on Sunday afternoon that the inquest into the death of Doris Matthews would be held Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, in the funeral chapel of the city morgue.

When Dundee entered the dining room at half past eight he found that he was the last to appear for breakfast and that every member of the party was decorously dressed for the coming solemn occasion.

"Hello, Stuegar!" Gigi greeted him joyously, then broke into parodied song.

"My Bonnie lies long past the door, My Bonnie lies long in his bed!"

"Gigi!" her mother reproved her. "Just when we were talking of a funeral, too!" She turned impatiently to Dundee: "George and I have decided to have the funeral here, dear Mr. Dundee. In the little parlor—not the servants' sitting room, Doris was Church of England, wasn't she, dear Mrs. Lambert?"

"I'm sure our own Episcopalian minister would be delighted to conduct the services, both here and at the cemetery."

"Mrs. Berkeley, Mr. Crosby and I have talked it over and we'd like to take Doris to New York and bury her beside Phyllis. We feel it is what they both would want."

"Oh!" Mrs. Berkeley said uncertainly. Then, in a rather strange voice: "You won't be coming back, I suspect?"

Mrs. Lambert smiled faintly and shook her silver-white head. "I don't believe you will need me, now that—"

"Of course it was largely because of Clorinda's marriage to Mr. Crosby that I needed you," Mrs. Berkeley interrupted eagerly, "and now that she is going to marry John Maxwell instead—"

"I'm glad you admit it at last, Mother," Clorinda put in quietly. "Oh, I'm going to stop trying to manage other people," Mrs. Berkeley laughed brightly. "Your father and I had a long talk last night, children, and your old Abbie is going to settle down and be a model small-town wife and mother."

Husband and wife exchanged the first frank, affectionate glance that Dundee had seen pass between them and the young detective felt a sudden surge of something remotely akin to fondness for the woman he had disliked so heartily.

He looked swiftly toward Gigi. The child's eyes were downcast and her lips were trembling, but whether from grief at Mrs. Lambert's imminent departure or from a painful joy over her mother's tacitly promised reformation, he could not tell. But when he glanced at all as to what had brought the tears to her blue-gray, shadowed eyes. For her eyes were upon Gigi.

At a quarter to 10 Dick Berkeley knocked impatiently upon Dundee's door.

"I'll be down in five minutes, Dick," the detective promised. "Wait for me in the car. Have the others gone?"

"Everybody's gone—including the servants," Dick told him. "And you'd better make it snappy or we'll be late."

Carrying a suitcase, Dundee moved swiftly from bedroom to bedroom, collecting white canvas tennis shoes and golf shoes. In one bedroom he paused before a dressing table, picked up a black-and-silver bottle of perfume, removed the stopper and sniffed. There came over his face a ludicrous expression of disappointment. Then he read the label again—Nuit de Jole; he'd had a girl not so long ago who used that scent, he sniffed again, then smiled triumphantly. Very carefully he wrapped the bottle in his handkerchief and deposited it among the shoes.

"What are you doing with that suitcase?" Dick demanded. "I thought you were staying here until this murder business was cleared up."

"I am," Dundee assured him. "I'm just taking some stuff into town to have it cleaned."

"They drove almost in silence, but when Dundee asked the boy to stop at City Hall, Dick commented dryly:

"I didn't know there was a laundry or a cleaners' shop here, though I suppose the politicians need one for their dirty linen."

Dundee was still smiling at Dick's brave attempt at a joke when he entered the laboratory of Dr. Abel Jennings, city chemist and toxicologist.

"Another job for you, Doctor?" he announced, as he opened the suitcase. "You may find it a poser. I want to know if there are any wood alcohol impurities lurking beneath the nice white polish on any of these shoes, but—particularly this pair."

"Then I'll analyze the cloth of these shoes first," Dr. Jennings promised matter-of-factly. "What's the poser?"

"I thought maybe the white shoes polish had queerer our chances," Dundee admitted. "Then one other little thing, Doctor. . . . Look! Can you tell me whether this perfume is a mixture of what the label claims it to be and Fleur d'Amour, the scent on that handkerchief I gave you to analyze?"

"Each perfume is composed of its own essential oils," the doctor answered. "If there's any—what'd you call it?—Fleur d'Amour, I'll be able to tell you."

"When?"

"I'll try to have both reports for you by five o'clock," the doctor answered, then explained in some detail the need for so much time.

Dunn returned to Dick's car, without his suitcase. "One more stop, please, Dick, and then for the inquest. . . . Meredith's Department Store."

It took only five minutes for the detective to purchase a bottle of Nuit de Jole, identical in appearance with the one he had just left in Dr. Jennings' office and three minutes more to give it into Detective Payne's hand, with explicit instructions. Before Dundee took his place among the witnesses to be called by the coroner, Payne was well on his way to Hillcrest. Coroner Price reproved the two inexcusably late arrivals with a fierce frown, which seemed to have no effect upon Detective Dundee's cheerfulness.

The inquest dragged along until past noon, bringing forth no new evidence, for of his own recent discoveries Dundee said nothing. Dr. Price called upon him to tell of the discovery of the body in the lake and of its removal to the summerhouse, then dismissed him. At one o'clock District Attorney Sherwood requested an adjournment of the inquest until Thursday and the coroner readily agreed.

"Well! Where do we go from here?" Captain Strawn grinned at his young subordinate as they lingered in the cleared funeral chapel. "I'll bet Sherwood would give his new silk topcoat just to have jumped into this Jonah of a case so cockily. Did you see the papers this morning? Promised the dear voters he'd have the murderer behind bars within 34 hours."

"I'm afraid his prophecy will come true, Chief—though no one will be more surprised than District Attorney Sherwood himself."

"Hey! What's that? Been holding out on me, have you, young feller me lad?" Strawn abashed. "I have got a pot on to boil," Dundee confessed. "I can't tell you about it now, for I may be all wrong. But if I'm right—and I think I am—you are now invited to attend a very private confession party at Hillcrest this afternoon at six o'clock."

"And in the meantime, what am I supposed to do?" Strawn demanded sarcastically. "I'm only the chief of the homicide squad. What are my orders?"

Dundee laughed. "I want you to telephone to Hillcrest this afternoon about four o'clock and request, very officially, the presence of every member of the family, and of Crosby, Mrs. Lambert and Wickett, in your office. I'll come along as a matter of course and to make sure there are no absentees. You can tell them anything you like, hammer away at them with as many questions as you can think up. I'll slip away at five and telephone you whether the pot's boiling or not. If it is, I'd like for you by five o'clock," the doctor answered, then explained in some detail the need for so much time.

Dunn returned to Dick's car, without his suitcase. "One more stop, please, Dick, and then for the inquest. . . . Meredith's Department Store."

you by five o'clock," the doctor answered, then explained in some detail the need for so much time.

Dunn returned to Dick's car, without his suitcase. "One more stop, please, Dick, and then for the inquest. . . . Meredith's Department Store."

It took only five minutes for the detective to purchase a bottle of Nuit de Jole, identical in appearance with the one he had just left in Dr. Jennings' office and three minutes more to give it into Detective Payne's hand, with explicit instructions. Before Dundee took his place among the witnesses to be called by the coroner, Payne was well on his way to Hillcrest. Coroner Price reproved the two inexcusably late arrivals with a fierce frown, which seemed to have no effect upon Detective Dundee's cheerfulness.

The inquest dragged along until past noon, bringing forth no new evidence, for of his own recent discoveries Dundee said nothing. Dr. Price called upon him to tell of the discovery of the body in the lake and of its removal to the summerhouse, then dismissed him. At one o'clock District Attorney Sherwood requested an adjournment of the inquest until Thursday and the coroner readily agreed.

"Well! Where do we go from here?" Captain Strawn grinned at his young subordinate as they lingered in the cleared funeral chapel. "I'll bet Sherwood would give his new silk topcoat just to have jumped into this Jonah of a case so cockily. Did you see the papers this morning? Promised the dear voters he'd have the murderer behind bars within 34 hours."

"I'm afraid his prophecy will come true, Chief—though no one will be more surprised than District Attorney Sherwood himself."

"Hey! What's that? Been holding out on me, have you, young feller me lad?" Strawn abashed. "I have got a pot on to boil," Dundee confessed. "I can't tell you about it now, for I may be all wrong. But if I'm right—and I think I am—you are now invited to attend a very private confession party at Hillcrest this afternoon at six o'clock."

"And in the meantime, what am I supposed to do?" Strawn demanded sarcastically. "I'm only the chief of the homicide squad. What are my orders?"

Dundee laughed. Westbrook And Evans Talk At Luncheon Meet

Rotary, American Business Clubs Have Joint Session Here Wednesday; Clean-Up Playlet Presented

Dr. L. L. Evans, pastor of the Austin Avenue Methodist church, Waco, and Lawrence Westbrook, Waco, state organization director of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, were principal speakers at a joint gathering of the Lubbock Rotary and American Business clubs, held yesterday noon at Hotel Lubbock.

Aside from the two speakers a playlet, stressing the importance of the coming clean-up campaign, which is to be staged in Lubbock from April 28 to May 10, was presented by a group of Campfire girls.

Building Stressed. In his address, which was briefly made, Dr. Evans stressed the idea of city building through two foundations, that of spiritual and intellectual education. "In a review of history you will find that these two foundations were essential factors in the building of permanent cities," said the speaker.

"After a drive through Lubbock I find that here the people of this progressive country have laid foundations that will make this city a substantial one and one which will be marked successfully for permanent."

Mr. Westbrook, explaining that he is in the city for the purpose of conferring with officials, declared that Lubbock has done no more than officials of the newly organized cotton co-op have expected of it. "I want to congratulate you," he continued. "Your city is destined to be the agricultural center of this great empire and I want to assure you the hearty cooperation of the state organization. We only expect to do the things you point out to us that are to be done, you know how it should be done and we are under you."

"I see in this great country of yours the best opportunity that the cotton industry has in meeting the serious competition of the world."

Yesterday's program was in charge of Robert J. Murray and James I. Kilpatrick announced the clean-up program which opens next Monday. Carl D. Brandt, president of the American Business club, responded to a short welcome delivered from the chair by Charles A. Guy, Rotary vice-president, who presided in the absence of President J. J. Clements.

The cartoon portion of the program, sponsored by the Campfire girls under direction of Gerald Wren, of the chamber of commerce, revealed in character form a city's fight against dirt and disorder. The cast included the following:

Elizabeth Cammack, Lucie Barker, Jean Sheppard, Florine Barker.

Built in 1911. The present jail structure was built in 1911 when the entire population of Lubbock county was less than 4,000 people. At the time its erection a capacity of 27 prisoners was thought sufficient for needs of the county for many years but the rapid growth of the county in the past several years the number of criminals has fast outstripped the capacity. Wednesday the jail numbered 45 prisoners within its walls. Four are being held in the Federal jail and three in the city jail through lack of space in the county lockup. The law requires that county jails state for federal prisoners also and when the new federal building is erected in Lubbock the number of this class will be increased.

Nine men also are being held in jail here who have penitentiary sentences assessed them. Local officers, however, must see that they are kept here for the prison board of Texas has closed the gates of the state institution until normal conditions again are reached.

Condition Alarming. "The county commissioners hesitated about calling an election at this time because it followed closely on the heels of other bond elections," stated Judge Bean, yesterday. "The jail, however, has been overcrowded for so long and conditions are becoming so fast alarming that the court felt that to delay longer would be fatal. Present plans call for an expenditure of about $175,000 for the new building and an additional $75,000 for equipment."

The only additional raise in taxes, according to Judge Bean, would be to put the county tax rate for all purposes, except the road bond issue, at 80 cents, where it has been for a number of years except for 1929 when it was 75 cents.

The present Lubbock county court house has been thoroughly investigated by a prominent engineer and his report to the commissioners court states that it would not be practical or economical to try and put the weight of a jail floor atop this building. The necessary changes would be so expensive that nothing would be saved, and an additional story would probably be dangerous to the present building.

Ballot boxes will be established Saturday at the following places: Precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4, Lubbock county court house; precinct 27, fire station No. 2 on 19th street; precinct 28, Lubbock lumber company; precinct 12, Carlisle; precinct 3, Hartwood; precinct 13, Wolftrath; precinct 14, Foster; precinct 15, Slide; precinct 30, Union; precincts 3, 24, 25 and 26, Slater city hall; precinct 31, Foster; precinct 16, New Hope; precinct 21, Woodrow; precinct 22, McClung; precinct 8, Auld; precinct 7, Canyon; precinct 18, Idaho; precinct 9, Becton; precinct 23, Estacado; precinct 10, Center; precinct 20, Abernathy; precinct 19, Monroe; precinct 6, Caldwell; precinct 17, Hardy; precinct 20, Grovesville; precinct 11, Shallowford.

Census. (Continued from Page 1.) been out of the city when solicited, if for any reason enumerators have failed to include you in the census, it is your patriotic duty to the city, state and nation to fill out the coupon which appears in this issue. You might be the one person who would cause Lubbock to show a population of 20,000 to 22,000.

Repeating Calls. "We are making repeated calls in efforts to secure names of every resident," said Dr. E. E. Barr, supervisor of this district. "We are using every measure possible and I assure you that every person will be counted if our efforts are realized. We are urging a spirit of cooperation on part of citizens who can undertake. And it is these tasks that the board is undertaking that the exchange members are complaining of."

Referring to Lubbock's achievement so far, toward creating the district organization headquarters for the 65 counties of the Panhandle-Plains area, Mr. Westbrook complimented the business men and farmers of this area, very highly, stating that greater progress has been made here than in any other part of the state and that he as well as other officials of the state organization, were optimistic of final results in this section.

He departed for Dallas at 10 o'clock Wednesday night.

A. B. Davis and R. E. Overstreet left over the Denver Wednesday night for Childress, where they will spend today with that city's chamber of commerce and to aid in having a local branch office underwritten there. C. O. Moore, secretary, and vice-president, of the American Cotton Cooperative association, will be in Childress to explain the set up. Friday and Saturday the same men will go to Memphis and Wellington for similar purposes. All three cities are in Lubbock district and all members secured by them will be credited to this city's 4,000 necessary to win out the guarantee, underwritten here.

Two Enter Race To Succeed Lee

ABILENE, April 23. (AP)—Two announcements for the place of the late R. Q. Lee, in Congress were made today. The candidate are V. Earl Rupp, city attorney of Sweetwater, and Thomas L. Blanton, of Abilene.

Rupp said he would file a formal statement tomorrow for the unexpired term of the late congressman from the seventh Texas district. Blanton, who was succeeded in Congress by Lee when he decided to seek a seat in the United States senate two years ago, will enter the race in both the special and regular elections.

Optimism Bus Driver Carries Shovel for Mud

Many patrons of the Texas Motor Ways due to Rains, Crosby and Spur have wondered at the short handed shovel that is tied onto the front bumper of the car bearing state license 884.

Ed Abbott, owner of the line, explains the shovel's presence as follows:

"When we had so much snow last winter one of the boys decided it would be a good thing to take the shovel along with him to shovel the car out of snow drifts. It came in mighty handy more than once."

Now that it's in the wet season, although we have not had any wet weather so far, I presume he is carrying it to shovel the mud away."

"Pretty soon, if we don't get some rain, I guess he'll have to use it to shovel the dust off the roads to get through."

plane motor.

Charles S. Knight, test pilot for the Verville company of Detroit, manufacturers of the plane which crashed and which was equipped with one of the new Diesel motors, Harold B. Scott, Douglass, N. Y., a pilot.

En Route To New York

The plane, a four-place cabin monoplane, was being flown from Detroit to New York where it was to be exhibited in the aviation show.

There was no fire, but the bodies of all three men were mutilated by the force of the crash. It was several hours before workmen extricated them from the wreckage.

The plane first was sighted over a farm four miles south of here by workmen on a highway. They said it seemed to be flying in a peculiar manner, but was heading west. Suddenly it swung sharply about and headed directly for the hillside. A moment later there was a crash.

Then the twisted wreckage of the plane rolled down the hillside, coming to rest beside the tracks of the Attila and Arcade railway.

Identification Difficult

Identification of the occupants proved difficult. A pilot's license found in the wreckage was made out in the name of Alvin J. Perrin of Detroit, while Westbrook was an army flier's uniform. He was a captain in the aviation corps of the United States army during the world war and, more recently, a captain on reserves.

Lifting The Veil Of Time

A brief summary of Lubbock news of five years ago today, taken from the files of the Morning Avalanche.

APRIL 24, 1925

The heads of the Fort Worth & Denver Railway company met here Thursday with the railroad committee of the local chamber of commerce to discuss the possibilities of building a line into Lubbock. If built the road will probably be from Childress via Lockney and Petersburg.

R. M. Chittwood, of Sweetwater, who was recently appointed by the board of regents of Texas Technological college as business manager of that institution, arrived in Lubbock Thursday to inspect the college.

Lubbock was selected as the meeting place for the 1928 conference of the Woman's Home Missionary society, Northwest Texas Methodist conference at the fifteenth annual session which closed Tuesday in Memphis.

The boys' debating team of Lubbock high school, composed of Sterling Brown and C. A. Holcomb, won the judges' decision over Lamesa Thursday night. The Lubbock team was winner of the district interscholastic league meet here and the Lamesa team was winner in the Tahoka district.

Mrs. Arthur Adams, Miss Marie

Gooch and Mrs. J. D. Peters, representatives of the Missionary society and Mary Heim auxiliary of the Methodist church, returned Thursday from Memphis where they attended the Missionary conference held there.

Letters are being mailed out by Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, containing information in regard to the opening of the institution in September.

Lubbock men interested in training for Boy Scout leadership are to meet at the First Baptist church Tuesday evening.

George A. Fields, chief engineer for Division 5, State Highway department, with headquarters here, has gone to Austin where he will attend the meeting of the State Highway commission Friday.

Approximately 300 cases will come up for hearing during the April term of District court which convenes next Monday, April 27th, for a six weeks' spring term.

The Lamesa High school graduating class is composed of 38 pupils, 20 of which are girls. This is the largest number of seniors Lamesa has ever had.

City's Growth Revealed With Funds Balance

Statement Compares Lubbock Treasury Figures With Conditions For Past 8 Years; Balance Now $316,324

Growth of Lubbock was further revealed yesterday with issuance of a statement in which figures of the city treasury at this time were compared with like figures issued eight years ago.

Balance of funds of the City of Lubbock now total $316,324, as compared with $181.55, shown in a statement issued June 1, 1922.

In the statement issued eight years ago the collections for May on the light fund totalled $4,531.32, compared with $12,652.56 collections for March of this year. An astounding increase in the water fund, collections for which totalled $14,448 for May, 1922, compared with $11,951.35 for March of 1930. Water collections for May will show a sizeable increase, it was pointed out today by city officials.

Two Overdrafts
The financial statement of 1922 revealed two overdrafts, one for $432 and one for $3,315.49.

Healthy financial condition of the municipality is revealed in the following statement, issued today.

Slaton Plants $300 In Trees

School, Municipal Grounds Being Beautified Through Planting Of Evergreens By City Organization

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, April 23.—Through cooperative work of several local organizations, nearly 300 worth of evergreens have been planted here during the past week on school and municipal grounds. C. A. Bruner was chairman of the general committee having charge of the work. This committee was formed two months ago by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

Funds were supplied for the planting by the following organizations: Slaton High school, senior class, Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, Civic and Culture club, and the P. T. A. organizations of the East and West Ward schools here. A tag day was held to raise other funds. Many school children assisted in this plan.

During the summer months the city government will furnish water and care for the material planted.

on municipal grounds and school officials will do likewise on school campuses.

Systematic plans for the planting were laid out by landscaping authorities before the work was begun, and additional planting will be done in succeeding years, it is intended.

This program of beautifying around public buildings, which has already developed considerably here, fits in with the home beautification program sponsored for the past four years by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

Robinson Opposed To Plan Of Davidson For Convention

WACO, April 23.—(AP)—Fred B. Robinson, former newspaper publisher, now one of the democratic candidates for governor, today rejected a proposal by T. Whit Davidson, former lieutenant governor, that all candidates "withdraw in favor of a convention-selected candidate."

"The all-day primary secures an expression of 100 voters to 1 by convention methods," Mr. Robinson said, "and I have always believed in rule by the people, fairly expressed."

"This is my first entry into the state arena and my desire is to have as full expression of the voters as possible."

DROWNED IN WATER YET IT RUNS

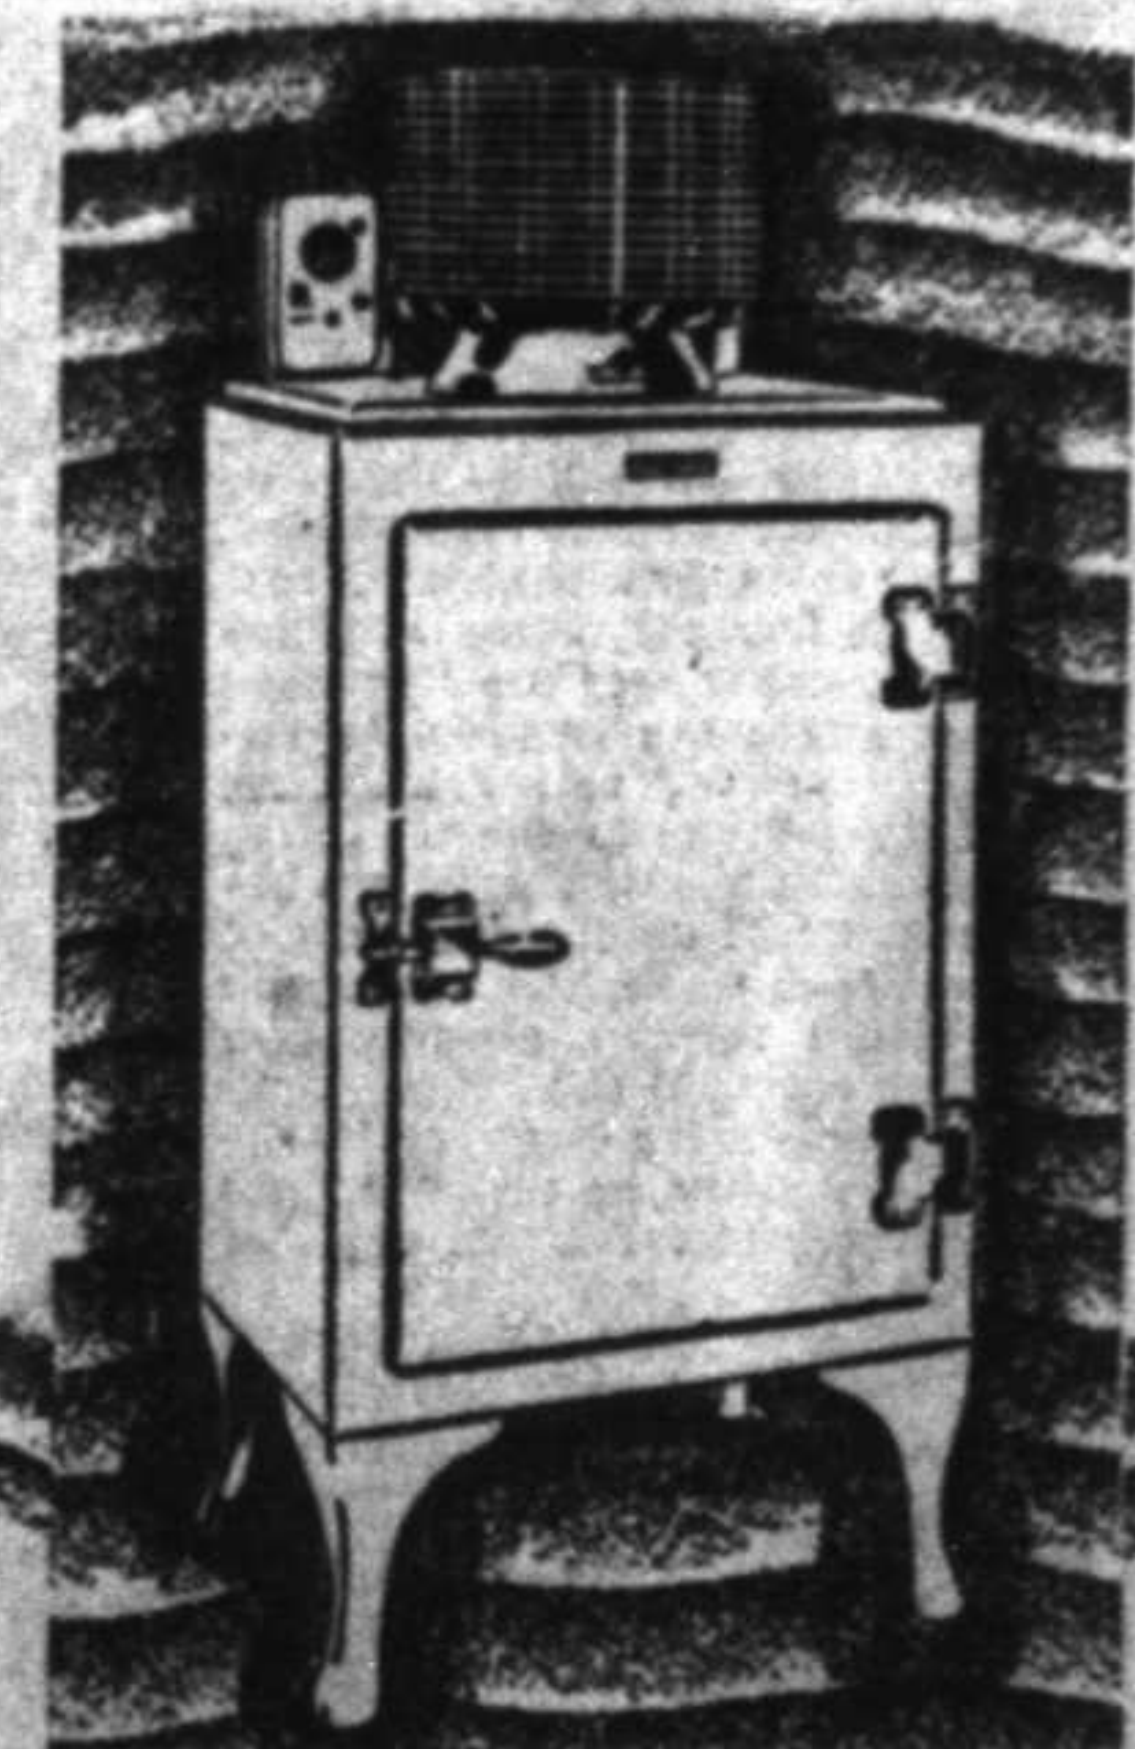

TONS of water surge futilely against the General Electric Refrigerating Units in dealers' windows throughout the country. From coast to coast people are witnessing an astonishing demonstration of the unfailing reliability of General Electric Sealed-In-Steel Refrigerating Units.

Drowned in torrents of water—flooding special display tanks—they are operating quietly, efficiently, perfectly.

Dramatically General Electric shows why not one owner—out of hundreds of thousands—has ever spent a cent for service. No other mechanical refrigerator could withstand this test. Its mechanism bathed in oil and hermetically sealed in steel—the General Electric Refrigerator is unaffected by air, dirt and moisture. Precision mechanism permanently protected and properly placed makes the General Electric trouble-proof and worry-proof. General Electric gives you every advantage that electric refrigeration has to offer—plus value, convenience and service without comparison. Modern in design, beautiful in appearance, and durable in construction, it is without a doubt the greatest dollar for dollar value on the market.

GENERAL ELECTRIC ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

The cabinet is of all steel construction—porcelain lined. It is movable. Built on legs—it has a free-vision base that permits true kitchen cleanliness. Freezing is rapid. Food storage capacity is greater. High efficiency and lower power requirements cut operating costs. Here is the most helpful and least expensive household servant you can have. Ask us to prove these advantages to your complete satisfaction.

Join us in the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday from 9 to 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, over a nationwide N. B. C. network.
