MAYOR OF AMARILLO DIES HERE

Jury Acquits Ed Pryor As 'Brains' In Electra Burglary

JUDGE BRANDS VERDICT AS LAW "SETBACK"

Former Constable Freed After Four Hours Of Deliberation

OTHER CHARGES PEND

Martin Voices Disapproval In Receiving Verdict In Case Here

Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, was acquitted as an accomplice in the burglary of an Electra cigar store by a jury in the 89th district court at 8:30 Thursday evening.

Judge P. A. Martin, going aside from his usual custom, told the jury that he did not approve their verdict and that he believed it would prove a "very distinct checkmate to law enforcement in this county."

The jury was out four hours before reaching its decision. Word that an agreement had been reached was sent out at 8 o'clock and the officers of the court, the defendant, and the district attorney reassembled after the 5 o'clock adjournment.

Pryor sat alone at the defendant's table. Mrs. Pryor and their baby daughter, who had been at his side throughout the trial, had returned to Electra.

Expresses Thanks

Although Pryor is under two other indictments, he was a free man under his bonds Thursday night. Friends and relatives were waiting to help him to a car, in which he was to be taken to Childress. He was apparently bewildered by the excitement of the verdict, and made no statement beyond a brief thanks to the court.

Pryor was accused of having encouraged Henry Shumate to rob the King Cigar store in Electra and of having offered him protection. He was jointly indicted with Tom Shook, former chief of police at Electra, who gained his freedom in a break from jail last fall.

Shumate Chief Witness

Shumate was the principal witness for the state, describing his actions on the night of the burglary and claiming that after his break from jail on June 24, he went to Pryor's home in Electra for protection. Shumate, Pryor and Shook were all arrested after Shumate had been found in bed with Pryor on the night after his escape.

The defense claimed that Shumate had implicated Pryor in order to obtain immunity for himself, that his testimony was not credible, that Mrs. Lillian Blair, another state witness, was incompetent as corroboration, and that the

Depredations of Land Title 'Wolves' Soundly Flayed by W. B. Hamilton

Head of W. T. C. C. Oil Bureau in Smashing Plea for Laws To Curb Alleged Title Jumping

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (AP)—"Vacancy hunters" in recent years have "preyed" on owners of West Texas lands, where oil has been discovered, and by filing claim suits have clouded titles, impaired credit and taken land away from ranchers who have resided on the location for years, W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls, told a joint meeting of the senate and house public lands committees.

Hamilton acted as spokesman for a delegation of 25 appearing before the committee in the interest of four senate bills introduced by Small of Wellington.

Proposed Laws

One measure would give the resident of "scrap" land a prior right to purchase; another would redefine a navigable stream; a third would provide for trial of all title suits brought by the attorney general's department in the county of their origin instead of in Travis county district court here, and the fourth would validate all surveys crossing streams legally navigable.

In urging relief Hamilton said that in 1908 J. A. Whittenburg, now wealthy through oil royalties, settled on a survey and filed for excess property. Five years later Hamilton said, the application was denied by the land office with the explanation that no vacancy existed. Despite this, the uncle of a surveyor started litigation for title to the land in Hutchinson county after oil had been found.

Suit Instituted

"The attorney general brought suit against Whittenburg and oil companies operating wells on the

SPOONTS AND DANIEL ENTER COUNCIL RACE

Petitions Signed Thursday For Business Man And Attorney

SOFT WATER PLEDGED

First Entries Made In Compaign; Manager Given Approval

J. M. Spoonts, Wichita Falls business man, and Roy J. Daniel, attorney, will be candidates for places on the Wichita Falls city council in the city election on April 2, it was learned by The Record News Thursday.

Petitions for the two men were placed in circulation Thursday, and Thursday evening each petition had received the required number of signatures to place Mr. Spoonts and Mr. Daniel on the ballot in the city election.

Promise Announcements

Mr. Spoonts will be a candidate for place two on the council, and Mr. Daniel for place three, the petitions said. Place two is now held by A. W. King, while Roy E. Carter is the incumbent in place three. Reached by telephone Thursday night, both Mr. King and Mr. Carter, whose terms expire this spring, stated that they were as yet undecided relative to becoming candidates for reelection, but indicated that they would make announcements within a few days.

While no definite statements of policy have been made by possible candidates for aldermanic positions thus far, discussion of the coming election indicates that interest will be centered largely on the probabilities of early action designed to procure an adequate supply of soft water for Wichita Falls, and on the thorough acceptance and support of the city manager form of government as instituted last spring.

Soft Water Needed

Mr. Spoonts said Thursday night: "My friends have asked permission to place my name in nomination for the position as alderman. I appreciate this action on their part, for I believe in Wichita Falls, and am very much interested in the future development of this city. With regard to the city manager type of municipal government, I am strongly in favor of it, and believe that since its inception here last spring, it has made a very commendable showing. Should I be elected, I should be a staunch supporter of the present government in our city.

"Soft water, equal to the needs of the city's population, I believe to be our greatest immediate need. Means should be devised as soon as possible to procure it. My opinion is that the citizenship of the city would assume any reasonable financial program necessary to the immediate solution of this problem."

Mr. Daniel stated Thursday night that his position in the coming race would be one of absolute support of the present administration, and also mentioned a soft water supply as an immediate objective toward which the city should apply its best efforts.

Mr. Spoonts, who owns four drug stores in this city, came to Wichita Falls from Magargel several years ago. Mr. Daniel formerly served this district as representative in the state legislature.

SANITY BATTLE

Collegiate Killer of Low Mentality, Defense Story Says

ATLANTA, Jan. 17 (AP)—The trial of George R. Harsh collegiate holdup man and killer, resolved today into a battle of sanity experts after the mother and other relatives had testified in his defense.

The defense rested late today after relatives and 10 alienists had testified that the former Oglethorpe university student was a victim of insanity through habit and illness, and possibly hereditary ailments. The state then introduced the first of three physicians, who said Harsh, scion of a wealthy Milwaukee family, apparently was normal and unusually intelligent.

SCIENCE FAILS TO SAVE BABY

Doctors Give Infant Life, But Disease Wins

Fate, in the form of an attack of pneumonia, cheated science Thursday, after three Wichita Falls physicians had battled successfully to bring to life a child which apparently was dead.

The child died Thursday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock at the Wichita General hospital, owing its brief span of life to injections of adrenalin and alpha lobelin.

Heart Beats Start

At birth there was virtually no sign of life in the infant. For the first fifteen minutes, physicians said, the heart beat was not discernible to the ear. Two injections of adrenalin were then administered, and five minutes later the heart was beating.

But still there was no sign of respiration. This was accomplished with an injection of alpha lobelin, and 35 minutes after its birth the child was gaining steadily.

By 11 o'clock, according to Dr. W. R. McAdams, house physician, the child was able to assimilate water, and was normal in every respect.

Pneumonia Victim

Then shortly after noon, pneumonia began developing. Dr. J. W. Powers and Dr. T. C. Lynch, both of the obstetric staff, redoubled their efforts to build the infant's strength. But all to no avail. By 1:30 o'clock, it was reported, the lungs were clouding rapidly, and by 4 o'clock the critical stage was reached.

Victor in its fight for life, the child could not, in its first day, master this formidable foe, and died at 5:30 o'clock.

The mother of the child was reported resting well Thursday night.

Brothers Burn to Death As Oil Car Is Derailed

M'ALESTER, Okla., Jan. 17. (AP)—Two brothers named White, whose given names have not been learned, lost their lives in a freight train wreck at Red Oak today. They were caught under a derailed tank car and their bodies burned to a crisp.

Twelve oil and gasoline tank cars and three box cars of merchandise were consumed by flames which followed the derailment. A planing mill and lumber yard near the tracks, burned.

The White brothers, about 18 and 20 years old, lived at Bull Hill.

BILL CAUSES BRAWL

Highway Aid Asked to Be Withheld During Probe Of Road Affairs

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17 (AP)—H. Tom Kight, of Claremore, member of a committee investigating state offices, said tonight he understood impeachment charges against Gov. Henry S. Johnston were being drafted by committee members. Kight is a leader of insurgent Democrats opposed to the governor.

By DON A. HIGGINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17.—Oklahoma impeachment politics got all steamed up late today to such an extent that one house member threatened another with a paper cutter.

The sergeant-at-arms separated the would-be combatants before what had promised to become the fast "beaser-banging" of the rebellion got under way.

The net result was high blood pressure among the ranks of legislators fighting against impeachment of Governor Henry S. Johnston and the bulling of necks among their majority opponents.

Breaks Lone Peace

It was the first militant move since Governor Johnston called out troops a year ago to quell a special extra-legal impeachment session.

The fight, which might have set off a general legislative brawl, came when anti-Johnston members introduced a resolution that congress be asked to withhold all federal highway aid from Oklahoma until state highway affairs had been investigated.

Alleged incompetent highway administration figures in the fight on Johnston.

Representative J. T. Daniel, a Johnston supporter, engaged Homer Paul, anti-Johnston member, in a debate on the resolution.

Invites Him Over

Daniel, taking exception to Paul's remarks, removed his spectacles and invited his opponent to "come on over." They started at each other in the center of the house chamber, Paul holding a paper cutter in his hand, only to be stopped by the officer.

Paul got a referee's decision when the house voted to pass the resolution.

The incident was the high point of a legislative day which brought the hour of decision of Johnston's impeachment another step closer.

The house investigating committee was finishing the fourth day of testimony aimed to substantiate allegations of incompetency and corruption against the governor when the outbreak occurred.

To date the allegations examined are:

Incompetency Charged

That Johnston was incompetent and showed neglect of duty by pardoning Dewey Crosthwaite, fugitive Oklahoma murderer, whose killing of Thelma Lovejoy, Oklahoma City school teacher, figured in national headlines 10 years ago.

That he was guilty of corruption in office when he issued deficiency certificates for expenditures not provided by the legislature and by hiring extra employes not authorized by law.

A house leader, close to the insurgent group, told the United Press today that incompetency and corruption in office would be the two major bills of impeachment drawn against Johnston.

Similar charges resulted in the final ouster of J. C. "Jack" Walton, former governor in 1923.

FOCH TAKES FOOD

TRIPLE CRASH

Four Killed When Fast Train Hits Two In Dense Fog

ABERDEEN, Md., Jan. 17 (UP)—Four trainmen were killed at Short Lane, two miles south of here tonight when a south bound Pennsylvania express train from New York collided with a freight train and a north bound local passenger train in a dense fog.

Two of the dead were identified as D. E. W. Stewart, flagman, and K. A. Klein, brakeman of the freight train. Addresses of the two were unknown.

Ralph Mitchell, who lives near the scene of the wreck, told the United Press that the express train was making about 65 miles an hour when it collided with the other two trains.

"The fast train went straight up in the air," he said.

ACE PENDLETON TAKES THE AIR

Gang Leader Escapes Police After Being Identified

EL DORADO, Ark., Jan. 17 (UP)—Late today "Ace" Pendleton, one of the southwest's most notorious outlaws, escaped from the hands of local police and was again "at large."

Pendleton is wanted in different southwest states on charges of more than a score of bank robberies and at least eight murders.

Two weeks ago, after a month's search, Pendleton, together with Owen Edwards, his right hand man in crime, was arrested at Wink, Texas. He was arrested there in connection with a daylight holdup of a Junction City, Ark., bank.

The outlaw's identity did not become known until today when he was arrested. His bond of $2,000 was furnished by a professional bondsman. When police sought him later in the day they found that he had "left town." His bond was forfeited.

Wild West Holdup

Pendleton, it was alleged, was one of five men who staged a sensational "wild west" holdup on Dec. 4 of the Junction City bank. Two men connected with Pendleton in that robbery have been sentenced to long terms in the state penitentiary.

Buffalo, N. Y., authorities wired Sheriff Nelson here today that two men believed to have been Pendleton's accomplices in the Junction City holdup are being held for investigation. The two men held are believed to be "Whitey" Walker and Fred Nave.

LEE BIVINS IS STRICKEN ON WICHITA VISIT

Panhandle Cattle Baron And Civic Leader Victim Of Heart Attack

KING OF STOCKMEN

Two-Time Mayor Owner Of Vast Ranch and Oil Properties

Mayor Lee Bivins of Amarillo died at the home of Mrs. A. F. Sterne, 1723 Huff avenue, shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Acute indigestion and heart attack were the cause of death, according to a Wichita Falls undertaker, who took charge of the body.

In Panhandle 39 Years

Mr. Bivins had resided in the Panhandle for 39 years, being one of the earliest residents of Amarillo. He was elected mayor of Amarillo in 1925 and was re-elected in 1927. He was the owner of much land in the vicinity of Amarillo and had, within the past few years, seen the value of his holdings greatly increased by oil discoveries on and near it.

He is survived by his widow and by two grown sons, Julius and Miles.

Mr. Bivins was 62 years of age, a native of Grayson county. He had been active in business and civic affairs at Amarillo for many years. He was a member of the Christian church.

Arrived Thursday

The cattle business was Mr. Bivins' chief activity. In recent years he had acquired extensive oil and realty interests. His home was one of the finest in Amarillo.

Members of the Sterne family said Thursday afternoon that Mr. Bivins was an old friend of the family. He arrived in Wichita Falls Thursday morning after a visit to his sister in Fort Worth, they said, and after a few hours visit was suddenly stricken. He died before Dr. T. F. Lynch, who was hastily summoned, could arrive.

Dr. Lynch said Thursday that he had treated Mr. Bivins for a similar attack when he was through here last Saturday. The stricken man told members of the Sterne household that he had suffered a like attack during his visit in Fort Worth.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at Amarillo, according to an Associated Press dispatch from that city.

Julius Bivins, Mr. Bivins' oldest son, was expected to arrive by train at 2:30 Friday morning to take charge of arrangements.

FORTUNE PLACED AT $12,000,000

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 17—Mayor Lee Bivins, pioneer of the Panhandle, who died suddenly in Wichita Falls today, was generally considered to be the largest individual cattle owner in the United States.

His ranches, which total approximately 500,000 acres, are located in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Kansas, Nebraska and Old Mexico. Including his personal fortune, Bivins is thought to have left an estate variously estimated at from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000.

He had lived in the Panhandle for 38 years, and at the time of his death was serving his second term as mayor of the city. He was "drafted" for the position by a citizens' committee four years ago.

Recently, one of his biggest ranches near here became very valuable through the discovery of oil and gas.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17. (UP)—Dr. O. O. Hammonds, state health commissioner, today ordered all persons quarantined who have symptoms of cerebro-spinal meningits. Dr. Hammonds gave as his reason for ordering the quarantine that the disease is prevalent in Oklahoma at the present time.

Bob Long Pushes Bill Calling For Revised Game and Fish Commission

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—Representative Bob Long of Wichita Falls appeared before the house committee on game, fish and oysters in advocation of the Graves of Williamson bill abolishing the present game, fish and oyster commission and creating another instead, which was reported favorably by the committee.

As originally presented the bill provided for a commission of only three members. This provision was unsatisfactory to Long who had an amendment adopted by the committee, increasing the commission to six members. By having six members, Long pointed out one of the commissioners would be appointed from the Wichita Falls district.

Ben Oneal of Wichita Falls and Dr. Wheatley of San Antonio, president of the Isaak Walton league, appeared before the committee in advocacy of the measure. Long said he planned to keep in close touch with the bill.

Girls' Home Supervisor and Medic Face Charges in Drugging of Inmate

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 17 (AP)—Manslaughter charges will be filed against Superintendent Bertha Lips of the New Mexico Girls' Welfare home and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, medical adviser, for the death of Helen Haskew, 18, District Attorney Eugene Lujan announced tonight. Mr. Lujan said the charges probably would be filed Friday.

A legislative committee headed by Governor Dillon opened an inquiry into the girl's death today and heard testimony by Miss Faye Graves, another inmate.

Miss Graves testified "twilight sleep" had been administered to her eight times, as far back as last October. Prosecutor Lujan said he was not prepared to disclose the nature of charges he expected to file in the case against Supt. Bertha Lips and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, alleged to have administered the "twilight sleep."

Miss Graves was the first witness before the committee. She was one of the girls placed on diet and in solitary confinement after the run away.

Miss Graves said one injection was given her Saturday night at the time Miss Haskew was given the sedative. It made them "sleepy and sick," she continued. Miss Graves said she was ill Saturday night and Sunday but was placed on a full diet Monday. Miss Haskew died Sunday.

PRYOR FREED BY JURY HERE

Acquittal Flayed by Trial Judge Martin

whole affair was the result of a political frameup in Electra.

The case went to the jury after five hours of argument Thursday afternoon. The acquittal came after a long fight by defense attorneys and after frequent postponements of the trial. The case has attracted wide spread attention and comment all over the section of this state and has involved one of the bitterest legal struggles ever fought here.

Bond Once Forfeited

When Pryor failed to appear when the case was first called for trial in December his $1,500 bond was ordered forfeited by Judge E. G. Thornton, sitting in the 89th district court. He later appeared, borne on a stretcher, and evidence was offered to show that he had fallen from a car near Memphis a few days before the trial and was unable to appear. Application to set aside the bond forfeiture is pending.

At the calling of the case here Monday, Shields Heyser, counsel for the defense, made a motion for a change of venue and another to quash the indictment, both of which were overruled. He asked for a severence of trial from Henry Shumate, which was granted, but his motion that Shumate be tried first was denied.

Throughout the four days of the trial the defense tried to show by its cross examination that a bitter political battle was being waged in Electra at the time of Pryor's arrest and that his political enemies had raised money to push the prosecution.

Shook Also Involved

Henry Shumate was arrested on June 22, 1928, following the burglary of the King Cigar store, the Grand theater and the Jefferson hotel in Electra. Two days later, he escaped from the Wichita county jail. On the night following the jail break he was arrested by Sheriff W. G. Bralley as he lay in bed with Ed Pryor, then constable, in Pryor's home in Electra.

Within an hour after Shumate's arrest, Pryor and Tom Shook, former chief of police, then working with Pryor, were arrested. They were later indicted as principals and accessories in the three alleged crimes. The state elected to dismiss all the counts in the first indictment, trial of which has just been completed, except the one naming Pryor as an accomplice.

Shumate is said to have made his statement, implicating the former officials, after his second arrest. The defense claimed all through the trial that Shumate had been offered immunity if he would make his statement to the court.

Tom Shook, then under five indictments, one for murder, one for driving while drunk, and the three as a principal and an accessory in robbery with firearms, and for the burglary charges already named, escaped from the Wichita county jail last fall and is still at liberty.

Pryor is still under two indictments, each numbering four counts. One names him as principal and accessory in a robbery with firearms charge, and the other as principal and accessory in a burglary charge. The two indictments are concerned with robberies of the Grand theater and the Jefferson hotel in Electra, and involve the same charges of protection brought out in the case just completed.

Other Cases Pending

Sam Spence, district attorney, said Thursday night after the verdict was brought in that he did not know just when the other two cases would be tried. He indicated that they might be called before the end of the present term of the 89th district court, which does not close until April 1.

He said Henry Shumate would not be tried at once. No immediate plan for the setting of his case has been made, he said.

Fred Weeks was employed as special prosecutor in the case. Shields Heyser and Harry Bunnenberg represented the defendant. Five attorneys took part in the arguments before the jury Thursday. The case for the state was opened by George Anderson, assistant district attorney, who was followed by Mr. Bunnenberg for the defendant; Mr. Weeks, the next speaker, was answered by Mr. Heyser and the district attorney, Sam Spence, closed for the state.

At the first ballot, the jury stood evenly divided, six to six, for and against conviction, it was reported. At the second vote the count changed to four to eight for acquittal, and the agreement for acquittal was reached shortly after, it was understood.

tract, which, if decided in favor of the plaintiffs, will take away from Whittenburg what he has always regarded as his property," Hamilton stated.

The Wichita Falls man asserted the Gray county court house and a cemetery were in jeopardy because of a statute enacted in 1837, when Texas was a republic, defining a navigable stream as one averaging 30 feet in width. The present law, he said, sets out that such streams shall not be crossed by a survey.

"There isn't a gulley between here and San Antonio that doesn't come under that law," Representative Pope of Corpus Christi interrupted.

Hamilton also attacked the statute which provides land title suits by the state shall be tried in Travis county, with the statement that 2,500 property owners in Gray county will be forced to spend $500,000 to defend their lands as the result of suits brought in behalf of persons who make it a business to file land claims.

Assistant Attorney General Trueheart said he favored a bill giving property occupants a preferential right in purchasing land found to be vacant of title, but described the 8mall measure as "inadequate." Navigable streams might be redefined, but neither party to land suits had been harmed through their disposition by a Travis county judge or jury, he said.

Frank Willis, Amarillo attorney, spoke also, urging legislation advocated by Hamilton.

Two Small Thefts Reported to Police

Two cases of petty burglary in which $10 in cash and several articles of clothing were stolen were reported to police headquarters Thursday. House prowlers took a pair of trousers containing $10 from J. A. Goff, 2106 Bluff street, while a suitcase containing a pair of shoes, three pairs of pants and a shirt were reported to have been taken from A. J. Greene, 1505 Fifteenth street.

SENIORS END CLASSES TODAY

Judge Kay to Deliver Commencement Talk

The commencement address to the mid-term graduates of Wichita Falls high school will be delivered by Judge John C. Kay, at the commencement exercises which will be held in the Junior college auditorium Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

The graduation of the mid-year seniors marks the end of the week of activities which have been given for the graduating students.

The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, while the benediction will be delivered by Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church.

Scholarships to the boy and girl making the highest scholastic average for their four years of high school work will be presented to the honor students by S. H. Rider, principal.

Musical numbers on the commencement program will be furnished by the high school orchestra while J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools, will introduce Judge Kay.

Another Well In Shaw Pool

The new producing area, the Shaw pool recently opened up in section 18, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, Waggoner lands, southeast of the Greyback pool in Wilbarger county, is rapidly coming to the front as one of the most active of the smaller producing areas in the district. A summary of activities in this spot at present shows 11 tests going down in various stages of completion, Charles Kolp and others drilling two, Fain-McGaha company one, and the Lewis Production have four tests in actual drilling.

Thursday another good well was added to the pool's number of producers by the completion of the Shaw Oil company's No. E-2, W. T. Waggoner, making 300 barrels. The well, which bids fair to surpass the same company's No. 1 or discovery well which came in 30 days ago and still producing 280 barrels, topped the pay at 2375 and drilled 16 feet of solid sand.

Other wells drilling by the Shaw Oil company are No. 3 Waggoner, 1085 feet, No. 4 Waggoner drilling 450 feet and No. 5 spudded in.

Aged Parents Sue Son for Return of Baylor Land

"Didn't Understand Deed," Bohemian Couple Declare in Suit

Alleging that their own son took advantage of their age and their ignorance of the English language to defraud them of their property, an aged Bohemian couple has filed suit here for the recovery of title to 205 2-3 acres of land in Baylor county.

According to the terms of the petition, the son, on March 10, 1924, obtained a deed to the property, telling the aged pair that they were signing a paper concerned with the leasing of some land. The petition says that the son did not read the instrument to his parents and withheld it from the records. It adds that the parents have only recently learned the purport of the transaction, and immediately repudiated the deed and asks its cancellation.

The plaintiffs assert that they can scarcely read and write the English language, but that their son, having had more advantages, is more adept. They claim that being old and unacquainted with legal formalities, they can not understand business affairs very readily, and that their son knew these weaknesses and took advantage of them.

The petition sets forth that the son at the same time had fraudulently sought to obtain money as well as the land involved in the suit.

TWO SCHOOLS GIVE PROGRAMS

Reagan and Zundy Seniors Promoted Today

Commencement exercises for both Reagan and Zundelowitz Junior high schools will be held in the school auditoriums Friday morning at 10 o'clock, it was announced Thursday by the principals of both schools.

The commencement address to the 90 Zundelowitz graduates will be delivered by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, while the 40 Reagan graduates will be addressed by Roy J. Daniel.

Of the 40 Reagan graduating tomorrow 22 are boys and 24 are girls, according to W. A. Franklin, principal. Twenty-three students from Reagan will be promoted to high school without receiving diplomas.

The Reagan Junior high students will be entertained with a sunrise breakfast in Weeks park Friday morning at 6:30 o'clock.

Seats for the parents of the graduates have been reserved by both schools and both principals urged that as many of them as possible attend the exercises.

N. Y., is under indictment at Childress for the slaying of Jack Morgan, husband of a girl who worked for Nave in a Borger dance hall during the oil boom days.

Morgan's body was found stuffed in a culvert near Childress in January, 1927. In September Nave was arrested for attempted robbery of the Dodsonville, Texas, bank. Soon after his arrest, Nave and Mrs. Morgan were charged with killing the woman's husband. A telegram found on the body was the only clue.

Nave was indicted in April, 1928, and the case was transferred to Donley county, where Nave was released under $5,000 bond.

COLORADO REQUESTS WALKER'S RETURN

DENVER, Jan. 17 (AP)—Gov. William H. Adams today signed requisition papers for the return to Colorado from Buffalo, N. Y., of "Whitey" Walker, held by authorities there for a number of western states on charges of murder and bank robberies. The requisition was requested by Allyn Cole, deputy district attorney of Lamar, Colo.

Arrangements were made to send the papers to Buffalo by air mail so that they would reach there simultaneously with the arrival of Chief of Police Hugh D. Harper of Colorado Springs, who identified Walker as the leader of the bandit gang that held up the First National bank of Lamar, which resulted in the death of four men.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv.

INJURED MAN WINS $20,000

Vernie Cheatwood Given Jury Verdict

Vernie Cheatwood was awarded $20,000 damages from the Independent Torpedo company by a jury in the 78th district court Thursday afternoon. Mr. Cheatwood sued for $70,000 for injuries said to have been suffered from the premature explosion of a nitroglycerine bomb at an oil well in Gray county in 1926.

The plaintiff claimed to have been permanently injured by bits of steel sent into his brain and other parts of her body by the force of the explosion. Two men working with him at the time were killed. Mr. Cheatwood, then 24 years old, was employed as a tool dresser by the Empire Gas and Fuel company.

Make system alkaline to ...Stop Colds QUICK!

Get Rid of Colds Before They Weaken You, Make You Liable to More Serious Troubles . . . The Method with Highest Medical Endorsement.

Most any of the older treatments for colds will bring relief—after so long a time. Nowadays, it's important to stop your cold quick; before it weakens you; makes you susceptible to more serious trouble.

Here's the new, quick treatment for colds; the method with highest medical endorsement; the way thousands say brings the quickest relief for colds they've ever experienced.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon and night, the first day. Do the same thing the second day. Then take only at night.

Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That's what makes you feel achy, feverish, weak, half-sick. Phillips Milk of Magnesia is alkali in harmless, palatable form. It relieves the symptoms of colds by restoring the alkaline balance of your system.

Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it; millions know how it helps stop colds; relieves sour stomachs, gas, indigestion, constipation and other symptoms of too much acid.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes.

It's all you need in tub or machine for a whiter wash

AND Whiter, brighter, clothes this safe new way!

NO wonder women everywhere insist on Rinso for their laundry!

It makes rich, lasting suds even in the hardest water. Clothes come out of those thick Rinso suds so brilliantly white — so spotlessly clean — that even boiling isn't necessary. Colored clothes stay brighter, too.

And clothes last so much longer when washed the safe Rinso way! For those creamy, lasting suds soak out all the dirt and stains. There's no washboard scrubbing to wear clothes threadbare.

Rinso is economical, too. One cupful of this new kind of granulated laundry soap gives more suds, does more work, than two cupfuls of light-weight, puffed up soaps. And it saves the cost of a water softener, besides. Marvelous for dishes and all cleaning. Get the BIG package.

BEBE FINALLY NABS HER MAN

Takes Blame for Six Affairs Which Flopped

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 17. (UP)—Bebe Daniels, recently reported engaged to Ben Lyon, admitted in an interview today she was "largely to blame" for the failure of six previous romances.

"I'm a bachelor," said the demure, athletic star of the screen, "accustomed to doing with my time as I please, and no real man would tolerate that.

"I wouldn't have anything but a real man."

Her previous affairs of the heart, she admitted with a frankness she never before indulged in, included Barry Beneto, an early schoolboy chum, Harold Lloyd, John Gilbert, Jack Pickford, Charlie Paddock, and Michael Arlen.

Her First Love

"Barty was my first love, and I'll never forget him," she said. "He wouldn't even look at me, and I suffered as only a woman of 11 summers can suffer under such humiliation."

Harold Lloyd was the first boy Miss Daniels "ever went out with," she said. "But I was too young and he was too poor," she said. "By the time I was old enough and he was rich enough, we had ceased to care."

John Gilbert!

"He swept me off my feet," Miss Daniels said. "But before it was time for the wedding bells we realized that we were not truly in love and Hollywood thus was spared another divorce."

Too Systematic

Jack Pickford was "terribly systematic," the star said. "He would send roses to my home at 2:30 p. m. every Wednesday. He was young and very handsome, but he wore rubbers and carried an umbrella."

"Next? Well, there was Charlie Paddock, the sprinter, a sweet lamb. Out of our friendship grew a fine understanding which continues to this day."

"I then met Michael Arlen, the writer, in New York, and it was another case of love at first sight. It seemed to me he needed the loving care of a mother—not a wife."

Now Miss Daniels' name is linked publicly with that of Lyon, a leading man of the screen. Formal announcement of the engagement is expected within a week.

Lone Inhabitant of River Island Found Suffering From Fall Injuries

LOUISIANA, Mo., Jan. 17. (UP)—A man alone in a club house on an island in the Mississippi where he had spent a week with injuries sustained when he fell on the ice was revealed here today with the finding of Henry Keifer, 60, employed as caretaker of a club house, and the only inhabitant of the island.

A week ago Keifer fell on the ice. He managed to crawl to the club house and using a piece of white cloth as a distress signal which he hung from one of the windows awaited the coming of help. He remained alone in the house, nursing his injuries and hoping for relief that might come as the result of the white flag that he had displayed. Today Mrs. Louis Becker who lives on the opposite side of the river from the island noticed the signal. She summoned assistance.

When Keifer was found he was almost exhausted. The supply of oil for the stove, his only means of warmth, was almost gone. Keifer had remained in the cabin in his injured condition during coldest days of the winter.

He was removed from the island by Dr. Fred Demko, who owns the club house, and others who took him to a St. Louis hospital for treatment. The island on which the club house is located is known as "town" island and is south of here.

Armed Nations Do Not Reserve Loans—Tydings

Proposed Church Merger Approved

CHICAGO, Jan. 17, (US)—Episcopal church leaders here today expressed approval over the proposed organic unity of the Presbyterians, Methodist and Episcopal churches, as adopted by the presbytery of New York on Monday.

Among those approving the proposal were Bishop Charles P. Anderson, Dean Duncan H. Browne, Dr. George Craig Stewart and the Rev. Norman B. Quigg.

The local churchmen expressed that "the proposal is an outgrowth of a tendency toward better feeling and closer co-operation among Christian bodies."

Price Attacks Part Of Lease Repeal Law

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (INS)—Constitutionality of one section of the law repealing the university lease act was attacked in the injunction suit against Land Commissioner J. T. Robison today by former Senator Lloyd Price of Fort Worth, counsel for several oil companies. Price said his clients bid on the land advertised for sale Jan. 2, in good faith and argued that the bids were legal at that time.

Price upheld the position of Land Commissioner Robison.

WET CHALLENGE CAUSES UPROAR

Demo Brings Solons to Feet In Dry Law Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (US)—"I challenge any accredited social organization to produce a single individual who was a heavy drinker before prohibition and who is now a total abstainer."

This defi by Representative Somers, Democrat of New York, caused a flare-up over Volsteadism in the house today.

Somers also challenged such an organization to produce before the close of the present congress a single family that now is enjoying a fair degree of prosperity, that, before prohibition was denied the necessities of life because of the excessive indulgence in alcoholic liquors by some member of that family.

Half a dozen members of the house jumped to their feet when Somers issued his challenge, all clamoring for recognition.

"I can present some families who will comply with the gentleman's request," shouted Representative Snell, Republican of New York.

Representative Clark, Democrat of New York, a wet, interrupted:

"And I have some exhibits I would like to put in the record."

"Me, too," exclaimed Representative Underhill, Republican of Massachusetts.

"There are millions of them," cut in Representative Williams, Republican of Illinois, a dry.

"I think the answer may be found when they are presented," concluded Somers.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories: tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as 10 times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

Dueling Oath May Be Removed by Solons

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (INS)—Elimination of the time-honored clause in the oath administered to state officials, stating that they have not fought a duel with deadly weapons, is proposed in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Coltrin of Mathis. This part of the oath has been in the constitution since 1872.

Considerable amusement resulted when former Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson took the oath swearing that she had never taken part in a duel upon her inauguration as governor in 1925.

Tax Board Refuses Publicity to Actors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Motion picture actors whose names flash forth from theaters everywhere can get no publicity from the board of tax appeals.

That was made clear today when a movie couple who had a case before the board was described as "a man and his wife."

The decision in the case was that expenditures made by the couple in entertaining newspaper reporters could not be deducted as necessary expenses in their business.

GRAHAM BANKS IN GOOD SHAPE

Young County Institutions Hold Annual Meets

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 17.—Notwithstanding weather conditions in Young county in 1928 adverse to the prosperity of the agriculturist, and continued depression in the oil industry, the position of Graham banking institutions indicate a condition that encourages optimism.

Each of the two banks of Graham, the First National and the Farmers National, have declared annual dividends of 10 per cent and at the meridian of the last year passed substantial sums to capital and surplus.

The current call shows combined deposits of the two banks to be $2,360,495.52.

The First National, capital stock $100,000, has deposits totaling $1,291,107.88, surplus and undivided net profits of $80,156.75 and resources totaling $1,531,063. Deposits for the year ended last Dec. 31 increased approximately $100,000 over the previous year.

Officers elected are: E. S. Graham, chairman of the board; Graham P. Stewart, president; Malcolm P. Stewart, vice president; C. C. Bloodworth, cashier; Jack White, Blake Allison, assistant cashiers. Others of the personnel include Jack Stewart, Francis Robertson, Nancy Tom Robertson. Directors are: P. K. Deats, S. Boyd Street, H. B. Street, E. S. Graham, A. B. Eddleman, Graham Stewart, Malcolm Stewart, C. C. Bloodworth.

The Graham National bank, capital stock $50,000, has deposits totaling $1,034,387.64, surplus and undivided net profits of $71,620.89 and resources totaling $1,168,508.53.

Officers elected are: W. A. Corbett, president; R. V. Tidwell, active vice president; G. D. Hinson, vice president; H. L. Tidwell, cashier; Mrs. H. D. Criswell, assistant cashier. Directors are: W. A. Corbett, A. A. Morrison, G. D. Hinson, R. V. Tidwell, R. L. Morrison, R. R. Whittenburg, H. L. Tidwell.

Among rural banks of Young county the Eliasville State bank shows deposits totaling $171,924.16, the Jean State bank individual deposits subject to check totaling $85,925.21.

Young County Farmers Throwing Off Yoke of Single Crop Income

(By Staff Correspondent)

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 17.—Experiences of the last two years have disheartened the farmer in Young county who has in the past relied exclusively upon cotton for his income, to the extent that he is now listening with respect to the evangels of diversified farming.

For a period of 12 years, 1916 to 1927 inclusive, average annual production of cotton in Young county was 13,935 bales. The peak year was 1926, when 25,772 bales were ginned. The following year production declined to 18,980 bales and last year the total crop was approximately 10,000 bales, the yield being only one bale to about seven acres. The decline, however, was due to unpropitious seasons.

Estimates are that the acreage planted to cotton in Young county in 1929 will be considerably reduced.

Cotton, which has been described as being "at once Texas' greatest asset and greatest economic problem, its greatest future promise and greatest future threat," has for years, and will continue to be the principal money crop of Young county farms.

However, growers of cotton in Young county, according to W. C. Hale, county farm agent, recognize that there are problems associated with the production of cotton, the solution of which depends largely upon the farmer himself, guided in his operations by the counsel of those scientific agencies established for his benefit.

Foremost among these problems, according to Mr. Hale, are standardization of staple to meet the demands of the cotton trade, through the planting of improved and certified types of cottonseed, intelligent application of methods of intensive cultivation which have been demonstrated to result in production of more bales on fewer acres, soil conservation and replenishment, insect and plant disease control and adjustment of production to demand in order to realize a price fair in proportion to the intrinsic value of the staple.

None of these problems can be adjusted by the farmer alone, if left to his own devices, Mr. Hale emphasized.

Recognition of this fact is responsible for the exertions of the agricultural department of the chamber of commerce to aid the cotton grower in his operations.

Endeavor is made to acquaint the cotton grower with every development recommended by national and state agricultural agencies for the increased and more profitable production of cotton. The unsatisfactory price of the staple, it is explained, is a problem whose adjustment lays in concerted action in all the cotton growing states. Every cotton grower, however, can contribute to remedying the condition, to a certain extent, by following the counsel of those agencies whose conclusions have been found logical.

"In brief," Mr. Hale continued, "the Graham Chamber of Commerce is urging that more cotton be grown on fewer acres, thereby releasing land for the growing of feed crops for dairy and beef cattle, hogs, poultry and products with which to supply the farm table.

"By way of parenthesis, the menace of short staple cotton is impressed upon the farmer. He is told that the primary demands of the trade are for staple of 1 1-32 to 1 1-6 inches; that the price structure of the entire Texas cotton crop of late years has been disturbed by the preponderance of short staple cotton; that the annual 5,000,000 bale short staple crop of India approximates the world demand for that grade; that every bale of short staple cotton produced in Texas is grown in competition with that produced by the coolie labor of India; that the short staple produced in Texas penalizes tenderable cotton.

"That the chamber's campaign in behalf of the cotton farmer has not been futile is shown by the fact that in the last year the chamber was successful in organizing a dairying association with an enthusiastic and rapidly growing membership and a poultry association that is expanding into substantial proportions. The pig club project initiated by the chamber in 1926 has enlisted the participation of the brightest club boys and girls in Young county and these are proving to the oldsters that there is not only profit in hog raising, but the assurance of meat on the home table when money is scarce.

"As has been stated, less cotton will be planted in Young county this year, it is believed 'more bales will be grown on fewer acres,' and a wider interest in diversified farming is a fact and not a prediction. Young county farmers are exhibiting an eagerness to gain wider knowledge of advanced farming methods; indifference to our pleas for a wider acceptance of diversification has disappeared."

WAR FLIER INDICTED

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 17. (UP)—William J. MacMahon, former Yale athlete and world war aviator, was indicted today on a charge of assault with intent to kill his wife, Mrs. Mai MacMahon, formerly of Pittsburgh. It was alleged MacMahon attacked his wife with a flashlight Thanksgiving day.

C.-C. DIRECTORS MEET TODAY

Braniff to Confer With Leaders Here

Directors of the chamber of commerce will meet at 10 'clock Friday morning with Paul Braniff, Oklahoma City air line operator, for further consideration of the extension of air passenger service to Fort Worth and Dallas by way of Wichita Falls, according to officials of the organization.

The special committee appointed last week in connection with the establishment of a Braniff line through this city, composed of W. N. Bonner, chairman; C. W. Cahoon, and J. Alvin Gardner, will attend Friday morning's meeting, it was said.

At a luncheon held here Wednesday Mr. Braniff declared that daily two-way service on the extension through this city will be opened by Feb. 1, and stated his intention of raising $25,000 here as part of a $75,000 increase in capital stock of the Braniff lines.

22 Scout Troops To Hold Meetings Tonight

Regular meetings of the 22 Boy Scout troops in the city will be held Friday night, with especial attention given to preparation for the next general jamboree to be held in March, according to Frank B. Creighton, executive.

Emphasis is being placed by troop leaders on the fire by friction test, which will be a feature of troop competition in the coming jamboree.

The scout leaders training course will open on Thursday, Jan. 31, according to Mr. Creighton. Meetings will be held weekly, with the expectation that about 30 leaders in the Boy Scout organization in the Wichita Falls area will enroll for the special training to be offered.

Boy Scouts to Take Movie of Activities

Boy Scout activities as enacted by local troops will be filmed Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock near the clubhouse at Weeks park, according to Frank B. Creighton, local scout executive.

All scouts are urged to be present in uniform at that location for making the pictures, which will be shown here and elsewhere during anniversary week of the organization, which occurs soon.

One of the exercises scheduled for Sunday afternoon is the ceremony of burning an old American flag.

Males Are Not Actually So Struck By Beauty as They Appear to Be

"Men Are Not Half Such Beauty Worshipers as They Pretend to Be," Observes Dorothy Dix, "and the Prettiest Girl in Any Community Is Seldom Most Popular"

Ordinarily it is the plain girl who is jealous of the pretty one, and it is Homely Jane who wants to know why Pulchritudinous Pauline should have all the dates, while she is left sitting on the sidelines to suck her thumbs and ponder upon the injustice of fate that gives one girl a peaches-and-cream complexion and bestows a saleratus-biscuit complexion upon another.

Occasionally, however, the shoe is on the other foot and it is the ugly duckling who catches the worm, so to speak, while the swan hunts in vain for a meal ticket.

Such a case is called to my attention by a young woman who writes that she has taken several prizes in beauty contests, but that she makes no hit with the men, while they all fall hard for her sister, who isn't even good-looking. She says that while men rest their eyes by looking at her, they pop the question to plain sister, and she wants to know by what secret arts and wiles Cinderella is so often able to lure a good catch away from Miss, Venus.

Well, there are several answers to that question. The first is, perhaps, that men are not half such beauty worshipers as they profess to be. Speak to them about any woman and the only question they ever ask is, "Is she good-looking?" They never ask, "Is she intelligent?" "Is she well educated?" "Is she amiable or agreeable?" "Has she charm?" Nothing but her personal appearance seems to count. When men discuss women among themselves their discourse centers around their beauty, or lack of it.

From this women naturally conclude that men are so beauty mad that they would never give a second look at any maiden whom Heaven hadn't blessed with a Greek profile and naturally wavy hair, and all the other accessories of form and features that go to make up a lallapalooza. Hence, the frantic efforts of women to conform to men's ideal, and the agencies they undergo in trying to be beautiful though ugly.

Strangely enough, however, in real life men do not put the stress upon feminine pulchritude that they do in theory. The prettiest girl in any community is seldom the most popular, and when it comes to marrying the plain girl can cut wedding rings around the professional beauty. An observation of the married ladies of your acquaintance will convince you that few of them were married for their looks.

Another reason why the homely girl frequently wins out over her better-looking sister is because nature is not as unjust as we often think it is, and when it skimps on the outside adornment of a woman's head, it is often lavish on the inside furnishings. Of course, a homely woman who is a fool is sunk, but an ugly woman with brains can be the most fascinating creature on earth.

We use the phrase "a living picture" in speaking of a beauty, and often it is only too accurate a description. The beauty is nothing but a living picture at which one grows tired of looking because it is always the same. There is no intelligence back of it. No versatility. It has no surprises. It gives nothing back, whereas the clever homely woman can keep one perpetually interested, entertained, amused and has an inexhaustible box of tricks that keeps one so intrigued wondering what she will do next that one ceases to notice how she looks.

Still another place where the beauty loses out, and where the homely woman has her innings, is in the matter of vanity. The beauty expects men to bow down and kotow before her, while the plain girl buries herself burning incense before the masculine shrine.

The beauty expects men to spend their money upon her and lavish attentions upon her, as no more than her due. She expects them to tell her how beautiful and how wonderful and lovely she is, and she is so engrossed in admiring herself that it never occurs to her that they would like a little appreciation, or to have her notice that they are not so bad-looking themselves.

The homely girl is grateful for small favors and is so appreciative of being taken about that men get a kick out of their dates with her that they do not get out of those with the girl who considers that the privilege of looking at her is cheap at $20 an evening. Also, the homely girl, not having to waste any time admiring herself, is free to seize the opportunity of letting a man find out what a sheik, and how big and strong and w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l she considers him. And between working the spotlight, and having it turned full upon you, which is the pleasanter experience? I ask you.

Still another reason why the homely girl can so often outdistance her more pulchritudinous rival is because she has a more varied technique. The beauty generally has only one shot in her locker. She depends altogether on her looks. She knows she is balm to the eyes and she considers that enough. But the homely girl knows she has to make men forget her looks, and she gets busy cultivating a line of variegated charms so that if one fails she has another line of strategy to fall back upon.

She cultivates her mind because she knows that while men may listen to drivel from a blonde who is a peachareno, an ugly woman has to be a spellbinder to hold them. She learns how to dance and play a good game of bridge, for she is aware that even the Venus de Milo would never get a cut in, or be asked to sit in a game, if she had to be dragged around the floor like a ton of lead, or trumped her partner's ace. She acquires the art of fascination, which consists in never being dull, never talking about yourself, and always being ready to listen to the other fellow.

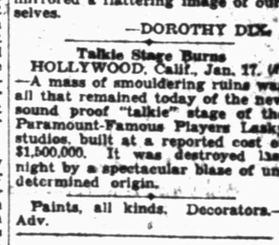

That is why the homely girl so often wins out, for beauty is in the eye of the beholder and those look good to us in whose eyes we see mirrored a flattering image of ourselves.

'CZAR' TOLD OF HIS SELECTION

Prince Nikita Takes Serious View of Honor

PARIS, Jan. 17. (UP)—A young $60 a month bank clerk, standing in the living room of his modest apartment on the sixth floor of a somber building near the outskirts of Paris, was notified today that he had been chosen heir to the fallen throne of the Romanoffs.

Prince Nikita of Russia received the messenger of the Russian monarchist council with dignity, standing stiffly at attention, his face pale and rigid as befits a prince of the royal blood—even though his throne is but a fantasy.

Leader of Exiles

As successor to the late Grand Duke Nicholas, Prince Nikita becomes the recognized claimant to the Russian throne and the undying foe of Soviet Russia which threw down the Romanoffs. He has at his command the great force of thousands of exiled Russian royalists and a large sum of money contributed by the admirers to foster a revolution in Russia and restore the monarchy.

His sudden elevation from the dull life of an eight-hour workday has brought confidence and sobering influence to Nikita almost overnight. Until the secret election Monday, he was an obscure member of the Russian colony here, arising at 7 a. m. each day and making the long subway trip to his bank, where he was known as "Mister Romanoff."

"It is not yet time to talk," he told the United Press correspondent after his notification. "I feel that nothing should be said now in view of the death of the grand duke. News of my choice as emperor came so suddenly that I have not yet time to realize the full solemnity and responsibility entailed. Besides, the high council is not yet ready to proclaim the choice."

Father in U. S.

Nikita lives with his young wife in the little apartment where one maid carries on the principal duties. The princess often helps with the work, laundering the light clothes and doing other menial tasks.

The pretender to the throne was born in Petrograd and was a boy when the Bolsheviks overthrew the throne and killed the czar and members of his family. He is the son of Grand Duke Alexander, who is now in the United States.

Europe Now Ready To Sign Peace Pact

PARIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—European nations which, out of diplomatic courtesy have been waiting for the United States to ratify the Kellogg-Briand pact for war renunciation, now will make haste to follow that example, in the opinion of diplomatic circles in Paris. Those circles today gave America credit for leadership in the peace move.

France probably will be the first country of the old world to approve the pact.

Gas Tax Proposed to Aid California Aviation

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17. (UB)—Improvement of California aviation and airport facilities through a state tax of 3 cents a gallon on gasoline used by airplanes is proposed in a bill being prepared today by Assemblyman Melvin I. Cronin of San Francisco.

Mill-Pladner

PARIS, Jan. 17. (AP)—Johnny Hill, English flyweight, has accepted the terms of the American promoter, Jeff Dickson, for a bout with Emile "Spider" Pladner of France in an effort to clear up the muddled European flyweight title situation. The battle is to be held at the Velodrome d'Hiver Feb. 7 and is scheduled to go 15 rounds.

DON'T KNOW YET

Search for Cause of Flu Has Been on For 2400 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Speculation as to the cause of influenza has been going on for nearly 2,400 years, researchers for the U. S. public health service discovered today.

As early as 400 B. C., hippocrates, "father of medicine," attributed it to changes in the wind. Since then, earthquakes, comets, volcanoes, floods and other natural phenomena have been suggested as causative factors.

Even after 24 centuries, science is unable to account for the lightning-like spread of the malady.

TEXAS SCHOOL POVERTY TOLD

Educator Describes Needs To Legislators

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (AP)—Inadequate facilities and teaching funds for summer school work were described by heads of six state supported schools Wednesday in laying requests for emergency aid before the house appropriations committee. The educators previously had outlined their needs before a senate finance group.

All college presidents said their summer school systems last year had been greatly impaired when the 40th legislature slashed appropriations for summer schools for 1928-29 by one-half.

Dr. S. H. Whitley, president of East Texas Teachers college, at Commerce, told the house committee that unless the legislature comes to the aid of his institution with a sufficient emergency fund, courses necessarily would be cut short or teachers would be forced to work without pay. He asked for $25,000 for the approaching summer.

"It is unfortunate that I am forced to admit it, but one-third of the summer school teaching force at Sul Ross Teachers college at Alpine last year were student assistants who received an average salary of $50 a month," H. W. Morelock, president, said.

Morelock said 1,000 students were being crowded into a building erected to accommodate only 350.

Similar conditions were painted by R. L. Marquis, president of North Texas Teachers college at Denton; Dean Davis, North Texas Agricultural college, Arlington; Dean Thomas Davis, John Tarleton Agricultural college, Stephenville; Dr. J. A. Hill, West Texas Teachers college, Canyon, and C. E. Evans, Southwest Texas Teachers college, at San Marcos.

St. Louis Broker Loses Stocks Valued at $57,387

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17. (UP)—A broker, Harry Potter, reported tonight that he had lost stock certificates aggregating a value of $57,387. The lost certificates represent a total of 1,221 shares of Chickasha Cotton Oil stock.

The shares had been made out in the name of Potter's wife, Mrs. Ada Randolph Potter. The last quotation on the New York stock exchange showed the stock worth $47 per share. The certificates were lost between last Thursday and Monday. The transfer privilege was stopped on the stock immediately following a discovery of their loss.

Argument on Oil Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Argument was to be resumed before the supreme court today in the protest of the Grayburg Oil company of San Antonio against the 1-cent per gallon tax levied by the state of Texas on gasoline delivered to the federal government. Court adjourned yesterday shortly after Victor Keller had opened arguments for the company.

BOX MAY LOSE POST AS WHIP

Too Many Texans Getting Honored, Claim

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (UB)—Representative John C. Box of Texas, Democratic whip of the house, who recently caused a stir by demanding that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith relinquish control of the Democratic party, probably will not be renamed whip in the next congress, according to his colleagues today.

The reason assigned for side-tracking Box was that, as Representative John N. Garner, also of Texas, will become minority floor leader, appointment of both of them to commanding positions in the party would be giving Texas "too much to say."

The Box statement that the election of Herbert Hoover to the presidency was due in part to Governor Smith's Tammany connections and that the party must rid itself of that influence to succeed in the future, apparently will not be the argument used to ease him from his present position as whip.

Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, present Democratic floor leader, who did not run for re-election to the house, but was defeated in his bid for the senate, announced that the time he nominated Box for whip that it was to be a temporary appointment.

Box was named to succeed the late Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas. Box had been Oldfield's assistant.

Should Box make a fight for appointment as whip in the 71st congress, it is expected that friends of ex-Governor Smith will make a fight against him in the party caucus after March 4, on the ground that his selection would cause friction in the party.

LOUISIANA REPRESENTATIVE RESIGNATION IS REJECTED

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 17. (AP)—Resignation of Representative J. A. McClanahan of Caldwell parish, caused by the special session of the state legislature refusing to favorably consider his efforts to cut expenses of legislature employes, has been rejected by Governor Long. In a letter to Mr. McClanahan yesterday, Governor Long stated he believed acceptance of the resignation "would be contrary to the wishes of the people of your section."

Radio Allocating Methods Branded As 'Unfair' by Federal Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (UB)—"Unscientific" and "unfair," were brands placed upon the present system of allocating radio broadcasting licenses, by O. H. Caldwell, federal radio commissioner, and representative Reid, Republican of Illinois.

Caldwell was testifying before the house merchant marine and fisheries committee, of which Reid is a member, in opposition to the White bill to extend the life of the commission one year, when the distribution system came under fire.

Under the Davis amendment, the commission is required to make equal distribution among the five radio zones of the nation on the basis of population and area.

"Radio does not follow state lines or pay any attention to geographical boundaries. I do not believe that the present zone system is satisfactory," declared Caldwell.

California has eight per cent of the country's radio facilities, while Texas, with greater area and population, has 4 per cent, Caldwell said.

Certain wave lengths are idle because stations using them would interfere with the general set-up required by the radio law, according to Caldwell.

A system of "local option" to determine the popularity of radio stations, was urged by Caldwell.

INDIAN LANDS LEVY DEFENDED

Bureau Assistant Answers Marshall's Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Edgar B. Merritt, assistant commissioner of the bureau of Indian affairs, appeared before the senate committee today to reply to objections made by Louis Marshall, New York attorney, to terms of the contract negotiated by the interior department with the middle Rio Grande conservancy district of New Mexico.

Marshall had charged that a maximum assessment of $67.50, to be levied against Pueblo Indian lands in the district, was higher than that to be charged land owned by white farmers in the Rio Grande valley. Merritt, today declared the assessment was "not excessive in view of the fact that the Indian land would be increased in value by $2,750,000" as a result of flood control and irrigation plans proposed by the contract. In addition, Merritt said, water rights of the Indians would be protected and relieved of charges for future maintenance and operation of the project.

The contract was signed in December by Secretary West. Confirmation of his appointment as interior secretary has been held up by the senate pending an investigation of his part in the negotiations which, Marshall charges, were too hasty.

Photographer Sues Hollywood Star

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (UB)—Gertrude Olmsted, film actress, was made defendant in a $5,000 suit filed at La Salle today by John E. Seebold, a photographer, for pictures, alleged to have won her a $10,000 beauty contest and a movie contract.

Miss Olmsted, now the wife of Robert Z. Leonard, a film director, won a beauty contest here in 1920, when she was sponsored by the La Salle Elk's club. Seebold alleges that her success was directly due to his efforts and he asks judgment for $5,000, which amount Miss Olmsted is alleged to have promised him in the event she won the contest.

SCHWAB HAS FLU

Stubborn Indigestion Must Go or Your Money Back

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin Doesn't Give Quicker Relief and More Lasting Benefit Than Anything You Ever Used

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You think perhaps you are suffocating.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin and in 10 minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breath deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

With this wonderful medicine you can banish indigestion or dyspepsia, or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.

And how happy you will be when your stomach is as good as new for then dizziness, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, dull eyes and other ailments caused by a disordered stomach will disappear and you will be your old happy, contented self again. Every regular pharmacist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin to show the way to stomach comforts or money back. Allison's Drug Co. sells dozens of it.—Adv.

THE Torch of Liberty won't be dimmed or doused in the scrub-bucket rapidly filling for literature and the drama—both of which are due for a thorough delousing.

Constitutionally guaranteed freedom of speech isn't threatened by any rods-in-pickle for dirty plays and leprous books.

American minds are not filth eaters and rebel at the thought of changing their present wholesome appetites.

Therefore, news that a certain publisher intends to issue a novel, recently burned by the British and banned by the French, provokes us to prove that local standards of morality haven't yet fallen below European levels.

A precocious and sophisticated group regularly protests that authors are privileged to strip truth of its last reticence, licensed by art to belch obscenities, blab perversions and blurt and foulest secrets in Pandora's chest.

But,

When literature stoops to prostitution, becomes an agent of vice and a pander for degeneracy, its sponsors invite corrective legislation and deserve consequent restraints.

Society is merely a synonym for censorship.

Ever since men elected to dwell in groups, moderation has supervised behavior.

Nicholas' Victory

THE Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, gone to his grave with the last hopes of the czarists who never could see that history had turned over a new leaf on them, was a striking example of the way a man can fail and still be a success.

Although Nicholas commanded the armies of one of the allied powers, we can safely say, now, that he was on the wrong side. He served an autocracy that was corrupt to the core, reeking with centuries of oppression and misrule. The World War tore it down, and it deserved its fate. Czardom had given the world all that it had to give, and it was time for it to give way to something better.

But to Nicholas, imperial Russia was the greatest thing in the world. He fought for it with bitter tenacity. With inflexible resolution, he sacrificed scores of thousands of uncomplaining soldiers in a vain effort to keep the past upon its throne. He served a bad cause, and he was beaten. Yet—and here is the point—we admired him. When the papers announced that he was dead we felt that the world had lost a genuine man and was the poorer for it.

How is it that a man, tied to a bad couse and overwhelmingly defeated, can win our admiration? Why do we feel that the Grand Duke Nicholas lived well and was essentially a success?

Consider the circumstances that preceded the final collapse of the Russian armies. Russia was confusion and inefficiency personified. Soldiers were sent out unequipped—driven to the front, often, without ammunition or food. The czar, wavered between crafty, self-seeking counselors. Czardom, in its death struggle, was proving that it did not deserve to live longer.

But amid all this confusion Nicholas stood, loyal and brave, like a rock. He dared defy even the czar himself in his fight for the right as he saw it. To the end he was unshaken and unperplexed. The men at Petrograd let him down again and again; he fought on, using the faulty tools that they gave him without complaint.

In short, he was a genuine Man, looming large in an eddying welter of half-men. He had courage, fidelity and endurance, and those qualities are not yet too common.

'Renouncing Poison Gas

IN Germany some well-meaning people are now starting a movement to have the great powers sign a treaty renouncing the use of poison gas in time of war.

Surely there can't be any great harm in such a scheme. The thing ought to be quite easy to put over. High-sounding treaties seem to be popular, and this one ought to be high-sounding enough for anybody.

Of course, such a treaty wouldn't have the slightest effect. If war should come every nation involved would begin to use all the poison gas it could lay its hands on, no matter how many treaties it had signed.

But it would make a nice treaty, for all that.

Discarding Milk Bottles

THE old glass milk bottle, a feature as characteristic of modern civilization, in its way, as the skyscraper, may be doomed.

New York dairies have introduced a new cardboard container. This affair, a glazed, water and moisture proof cone-shaped arrangement, has the approval of the state board of health, is much cheaper than the glass bottle and can be thrown into the waste basket after the milk is used. According to early reports, it seems to be giving complete satisfaction both to customers and dairymen.

Life won't seem quite the same if we don't have the early morning "clink clink" of milk bottles to penetrate our dreams and warn us that it is almost time to get out of bed.

Mellon on Failure

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY ANDREW MELLON is not one of those who believe that the rise of large-scale industrial and business organizations has diminished the ambitious young man's chance to succeed in the world.

Writing in the February issue of the Cosmopolitan magazine, Secretary Mellon declares that, on the contrary, he believes that opportunities are "infinitely more varied" than formerly, that rewards are greater and that the enjoyment is more immediate.

'It should be pointed out," he writes, "that as part of a large organization, adequately financed and directed by men in touch with market conditions throughout the world, the average man's chance of failure is far less than it would be outside. I remember the time when we lived in a world of small competing units, and it seemed to me that the casualty list was very great."

HELPING IT POP

Jim Ferguson is quoted as saying that hell would be popping before this legislature was a month old, also said that he would revive the Forum. While he did not say so; if he revives the Forum it will be to help along the popping. THE GOSPEL OF ANOTHER CHANGE

As a New Year comes, it brings serious thoughts to all earnest souls. May this be one that shall dwell awhile in your mind and heart and cheer you with its message: Jesus preached the Gospel of Another Chance. That gospel is ours today as we face the failures of the past and look toward the untried country of a New Year.

A woman caught in red-handed sin, loudly condemned by her accusers, was brought to Him, and stooping He wrote in the sand a message that has thrilled the world ever since: The Gospel of Another Chance. "Go thy way and sin no more." were His inspiring words. The man in the tombs of Gadara whom nobody could tame or restrain, came to Jesus and our Lord liberated him and sent him back home with the Gospel of Another Chance ringing from his lips. When Peter miserably failed, after his loud declarations of constancy, the first message Jesus sent from the open tomb to His apostles—"and Peter," The Gospel of Another Chance for that erring soul.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"I'll have to go into some other business; this ain't any way to treat a horse."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The young mother decided to go to work. And so she got herself a $25 a week job, made a contract with a lovely $30 a week chaperon and went forth to work

The section manager placed her quota of sales at $25 a day. The first day she sold $142 worth. She was congratulated, she was all set up, she told the chaperon about it and she went to sleep tired, but smiling

The second day was a busy one too. The chaperon brought the four-year-old daughter to the store to visit the efficient sales-mother. The child was kissed, but not in the usual heart-expanding way. Then the mother dashed away to make a sale. The baby called back frantically, but the mother went on waiting on cash customers. The chaperon led her tearfully out of the place.

On the sidewalk the baby halted. "Auntie," she said earnestly, "let's go back and be a customer and then we can make mother talk to us."

Auntie had been a saleswoman herself. They didn't go back.

◆

The stranger with in New York's revolving doors inevitably decides that we live in skyscrapers—work in them, sleep in them and shop in them. But to the veteran turnstile rusher there is another side to New York life—an underworld that is a lawabiding, rather an underground world. What can't be purchased under the surface of New York streets is difficult to think of.

It is true that airplanes have not been displayed in shop windows down under the clamoring traffic, but only one full-sized one ever was in stock on the first floor of a department store, so perhaps there still is a chance in that quarter.

Shop windows line subway stations here and there and fill underground passages to railway stations offering for sale everything from pianos to lingerie and back again to cocktail sets. Without emerging from Manhattan's caverns one could buy shoes, flowers, books, hats, toys of all kinds, jewelry and watches, victrola records or music rolls, trunks, suit cases or cameras. One could stop at a milk depot and drink buttermilk fresh from the sunlit pastures up-state; stop again at a service station and have that year's accumulation of razor blades sharpened; stop again at a circulating library and borrow a book if he did not care to buy one. In Grand Central alone there are four cigar stores of one chain beneath the surface of Manhattan.

Mrs. John Doe tells of an experience she had recently with New York's underground boroughs. She lived in the Hotel St. George in Brooklyn, it seems, and had access to the subway merely by taking the elevator down to it in the building in which she lived. She wanted to go to her bank, which was in the Woolworth building, so it was unnecessary for her to emerge from the subway. She entered the Woolworth building from the subway station. Her banking finished, Mrs Doe was directed to the tunnel for the B. M. T. subway, since she wanted to stop at Wanamaker's. She entered that store from the subway station and from there she wanted to go to Grand Central to make a reservation for her vacation trip. While in Grand Central she saw a haberdashery and bought Mr. Doe a lot of shirts of the wrong sized collar band and sleeve length. She saw a silver carving set in one window as she neared the subway entrance and bought it for a gift. She took the shuttle train to Times Square and, feeling rather tired, stopped at a soda fountain for a light lunch and at a fruit stand bought fruit to take home. She remembered an article she wanted to stop for at Gimbels and so at Pennsylvania she followed the long tunnel into the basement store.

When John Doe returned from his office that evening he found his wife tired from her day of shopping.

"Do you know!" she exclaimed, "I haven't been out of doors all day!"

"What makes you so tired?" Mr. Doe inquired, somewhat perplexed.

"Why, I've been shopping all day," she replied.

"You had better lie down and rest, my dear. You talk most erratically."

BANDITS GET $200,000 IN JEWELRY SHOP RAID

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (UP)—Bandit activities turned to the exclusive millionaire district of Upper Park avenue today when four young men raided a jewelry store and escaped with between $100,000 and $200,000 in precious jewels.

The jewelry store was in one of the exclusive apartment hotels which line the thoroughfare that has gained the reputation of housing more millionaires than any other street in the world.

"I believe the biggest laugh of my life," she told me, "came one time when we were in the African lion country in pursuit of good pictures of the king of beasts. Mr. Johnson was indisposed and I decided I would go out alone to the 'blind' where we sometimes spent hours at night waiting for lions to come along in order to take flashlight photographs. Mr. Johnson remained in his tent and went to bed.

"In the wee small hours of the morning, after having taken several pictures, I sped back to the tent to relate my good fortune to Martin. As I approached I began tooting my horn, to relieve any nervousness which I supposed he might feel during my absence, and, of course, expected to see him come running out of his tent. Instead, as I drew nearer, honking my horn continuously, and calling to him, I met no response. When I got out of the car, I was greeted with the most prodigious snores; in fact, a running battery of snores, played on all notes of the scale, little, medium and big.

"I then called to him in my loudest voice, punctiated by a few more honks on the horn, and he came running out of the tent to see what all the commotion was about. And, in spite of the fact that I had to almost raise heaven and earth before I could raise him, he called out:

"'Oh, darling, I'm relieved to see that you're safely back. I have been so worried that I haven't been able to get a wink of sleep all night!'"

The VICARION

The Astounding Story of an Invention Greater Than the Movies

Copyright by Gardner Hunting

By Gardner Hunting

Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

In the year 1935 Radley Brainard has invented the Vicarion, a device with which it is possible to re-create scenes out of the past. The invention is a sensational success, with all the theaters installing it in place of motion pictures. Complete illusion, Inc., which at that time controls all the improvements on the movie, faces ruin, but when Ferdinand Mortimer and Jerry Ballard, heads of the company, call on him, Brainard refuses to make terms.

Brainard's records of the past are contained in "bombs," which hold liquid air, and while he is projecting one of the "bombs," which was unmarked, he sees a beautiful gossamer-clad girl, with whom he falls in love, although he is engaged to Phyllis Norman. During the first demonstration of the Vicarion, with Phyllis and her family looking on, a strange man staggers in the studio. He is unable to tell who he is and Brainard names him Van Winkle, and makes him his aide.

Brainard calls in the operator who made the unmarked record, but gains no information from him. He orders Van Winkle to investigate the making of the bomb.

Another writer treated the whole matter humorously, sketched a future in which all people would be so addicted to the Vicarion that everything would have to be done for them by machine. Pictures accompanied this, purporting to be private views of some mysterious interiors at the Bonmar, in which some of "Brainard's advanced pupils" were shown, looking rather like beings pretty thoroughly bled by means of suction created through the "nose bag."

Another man said that the Vicarion, making vicarious existence easy and making second-hand existence available, would soon kill the impulse in humans to live at first hand, and therefore kill the subject, just as complete lack of physical exercise would. If one refused to live he would lose the power to live, argued this gentleman, obviously enough.

Publicity

A woman paragrapher discussed the "human imprint in the ether." All human personalities, she averred, leave their imprint in a thousand impressions on life visibly; why not invisibly? And she sentimentalized about "the touch of the vanished hand." On the same page, another woman "fled in terror from the approach of a diabolical contrivance" which would tear open old wounds, rake up forgotten quarrels, expose humanity in shameful nakedness to itself—and Phyllis fled in terror from her story.

A prominent novelist, impressed into service for his weighty opinion, spoke of "second-hand sensations" with contempt. He said that any normally healthy creature would feel first restive, then downright rebellious against this looking back upon past life, just as any normal, healthy person rebels against any other unnatural experience.

He touched upon the "inevitable dissipation" in which people would indulge in pursuit of the new sensation; and spoke of a new influence tending to destroy the instinct to work—nothing less than a crime against a world that must eat bread by the sweat of its face.

Then he discussed action in its relation to an eternal public demand. Yes, we must have action, in our drama, our stories, our public entertainment of all kinds, because action was life. But action was worthless unless it was creative!

Two writers who had been purposely pitted against each other sneered at each other's opinions. One said the Vicarion was to grieving bereaved humans a blessed anodyne; the other that it was a highly injurious anesthetic! One man essayed at length to show that The Vicarion would prove perfectly "the evil that men do lives after them,' as the Great English Bard has it," and went on to state on his own authority that it is always the worst in men that appears in their actions, which would be all that The Vicarion could reproduce; that the best is expressed only in those high qualities that make go show. Another said The Vicarion would undoubtedly show you to yourself as you were, but that people would mostly prefer to retain the impression of themselves as they are. Another writer had gotten hold of the suggestion that Brainard might call his organization Universal Sensations, Inc., and suggested instead Universal Perversions, Inc.

One man came to the sage conclusion that Liquid Life is in no other sense a solution of life.

There was a circumstantial story about a committee of prominent citizens who had waited on Mr Brainard and explained carefully to him what The Vicarion would probably do to business as people indulged their passion for its undeniably unmatched fascinations. Mr Brainard was said to have shrugged. When told that there should be a law at once to control him and his influence, he had laughed at them and told them he would be the law. And he had defied them to stop him.

This story had a ring that brought the qualms of fear once again into Phyllis' quivering mind. She threw aside the windy, clearly hasty, scientific and unscientific conclusions and speculations, and was walking the floor in uncontrollable agitation again when Relief Brainard came to the house.

She had her opinion, had Aunt Relief. Radley ought to be ashamed of himself. He ought to be compelled to be ashamed of himself. Nothing like The Vicarion would have been permitted in public back, say, in the days of 1890. But if he was going to show things, it was rather a pity not to see them. Didn't Phyllis want to go down to The Swan, where Aunt Relief had seats, and see Sarah Bernhardt's secret of preserving her youth? It was said to be "dressing-room scenes."

Phyllis did not—but she wanted to see the crowd for herself at The Swan. She went to see the crowd.

She saw them—the representatives of the great public about whose welfare so many people were so deeply concerned, at whose reactions so many people guessed, whose probable ruin so many prophets foretold, whose moral needs, whose spiritual tendencies, whose domestic problems, whose attitudes toward life, their wise critics and historians discussed from standpoints so completely detached! She saw a great, rather silent, stuffy, sweating cloud of them—a theater so full that egress would have been utterly impossible except in panic, defying fire laws, police efforts, common sense, filling niches and crannies of that house like wax running into a mold.

The Mob

Comparatively few found their reserved seats; the usher system was demoralized. But Phyllis and her companion got in and half way down an aisle before they became wedged there. A man in a seat gave it to Miss Brainard. Phyllis stood. She was merely one of the pack that filled the aisles, downstairs and up, jammed the open space where standing room was legally sold and where it was not, crowded every inch of the boxes. Men actually sat on the railings of the balconies, at seeming imminent risk of damage to themselves and others.

Miss Brainard was indignant and suggested that they might leave the place unless given their proper seats. But they could not have left if they had wished. And Phyllis reflected that in case of fire few would escape unscathed.

But she was immediately impressed with the fact that, if she had come to see the crowd, so apparently had others about her. She heard murmured comments by men and women whose bodies were as thoroughly trapped as hers in the grip of all the rest. They were all remarking on how others were taking the new marvel, what the effect on people was, or would be. Everybody was a critic: every one was an observer, acknowledging symptoms in himself of the general epidemic of excitement, perhaps, but always looking about him for a real victim of the disease. The girl wondered who then was the great public for whose reactions one must look. Where were the men and the women on whom the phenomenon was to be expected typically to work?

But when she listened to the general hum of the big, dark throng, instead of to individual remarks at her ear, she knew. She herself was in and of them. Her own reactions were an exponent. The crowd's emotions might be sampled from her own little cup. She was no more separate from them than any of the others. She had a sudden sense of the oneness of humanity she had never caught before—as if it were a sense only to be caught in time of emergency or mystification.

A man spoke to them from the stage. He told them some of the things Phyllis had never thought to inquire about—how air was compressed, cooled, liquefied by expansion into the Vicarion's bombs, where, by means of the new insulating material called veritin, it was preserved in frozen state for long periods; and how it could be handled readily in the bare hand because of this same remarkable insulator.

Phyllis was sure some of his talk was part of Brainard's clever scenery to disguise facts he did not care to have appear too plainly. But people listened, many a mouth hanging open as if the lecturer's meaning ran out thereat as rapidly as it was received at the ear; but they seemed somehow to absorb something in passing. They accepted everything the speaker said as true. This was the astounding thing about it; a few scientific terms imposed the whole fabric, incredible fact and picturesque fable, upon them. And they did not seem to doubt at all that they were about to be admitted to the intimate acqualities of the past. They seemed to think it was a sort of museum.

When the lights went out and the "show" began, they were silent, rapt. Now and then there would be a whisper: "Do you s'pose it's really her?"—as the great Bernhardt stood before them in her Paris dressing-room and made up with help of her maids, speaking now and then audibly in French, which 99 out of 100 of the audience did not understand, and doing nothing either to justify the hints of the risque that had been circulated or from which one of the watching women could seize a beauty-hint. But she shed the fragrance of a great personality, compellingly over them.

"They say she died in 1923," said a woman at Phyllis' shoulder. "It's an awful good impersonation, I should think."

"It's not an impersonation," whispered a man. "This here oxygen that's in liquid air brings 'em back to life or something. I don't get it."

"No, that ain't it," explained a third member of the party. "They've found out that everybody that's lived leaves a sort of radio-message of himself behind, and they're just beginning to pick 'em up."

But talk was not widespread.

Hundreds of the people in that theater probably believed either that they were the victims of some clever mechanical trickery or that they were witnessing some form of theatrical performance. Phyllis took refuge in their quality of high resistance to belief which saved her from some of the power realization threatened to wield over her. On the other hand plenty of people were there who, like herself, were put to it to control the feelings stirred by the living presence of the dead! It was no less—when one could grasp it! And as scene followed scene in this exhibition, the truth stabbed deeper and deeper into the minds of all, clever and stupid alike, that here were miracles, dealing with great forces as with toys, and promising to overturn many solid conceptions of what was and what was not out of men's hands.

But the great moment came when, after the lecturer had announced that it would now be proved to them that what they had looked at was really life as it had been lived, and not mere mechanical reproductions of it, they suddenly found themselves looking at themselves as they had that night streamed into the theater. A continuous scene which occupied perhaps 20 minutes showed the people who now packed the seats, aisles and railings, their own arrival in groups, pairs and singly at the front entrance of the building, gave them back their words, their exclamations, their laughs, their chance missteps, their jostling, their fumblings for tickets, little courtesies, little resentments, protests at crowding—a thousand details from the actual, instantly remembered, a thousand sounds, colors, scents, the chill of the night breeze—in which the gaping spectators lived again not only the movements of a past hour but its emotions also as roused by the same stimuli!

One might have thought that simply telling them that they had witnessed a resurrection on the stage would have roused their interest and excitement to highest pitch. But they had had no intimate knowledge of the life of Sarah Bernhardt with which to compare the incidents presented. Now, however, living again through moments that had been their own, they could realize that they had seen again moments that had been hers! The effect was tremendous. Instead of shouting out their recognition of selves and friends, they were struck dumb with the facts at last driven home.

Of course, at the end, there were those who burst into chatter. But the majority of the throng were too deeply impressed to talk. They began their departure from the theater in even more orderly and quiet fashion than they had come in. As Phyllis made her way out at Relief Brainard's side, she listened for expressions of opinion or feeling. But she heard none that could be isolated or quoted. An ejaculation, a sigh, an awed question half expressed—these were the sounds she heard. Most minds were too deeply occupied with stirring things to feel any impulse to comment.

As they reached the pavement outside the doors and looked for the car, they murmured a few words between them. But even Relief Brainard seemed unready with conclusions or sentiments tonight. There was no number system at this theater by which cars were summoned, and they were waiting for Masters to sight them and drive to the curb, when Relief suddenly clutched Phyllis' arm and pointed.

"Look, Phyl!" she whispered. "There—in that car under the arc light! That girl!"

Phyllis looked. The light of the flaming arc was garish, and she thought for an instant that this alone explained the ghastly color of the face she could not miss in the crowd. A young woman in an open car in which others were seated or just seating themselves—a girl of beauty, perhaps, luxuriously dressed in the last exactions of the mode—but with countenance so bloodless and so full of undisguised agony of despair that it stood out like some strange phosphorescent thing in the dusk, sat with her hand clutching the side of the car, her eyes fixed in an insane stare on nothing she saw before her.

"She looks like—a mad thing!" Miss Brainard said under her breath. "What in the world can put a look like that into a woman's face?"

Keep Stomach Young!

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.—Adv.

LADY HEATH TO BE U. S. CITIZEN

Aviatrix Says She Will Renounce Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (US)—Lady Heath, famous English aviatrix who is now touring America, declared her intention today to renounce her title and become a citizen of the United States.

After applying for citizenship papers at the naturalization bureau here, Lady Heath explained:

"I am hoping to be allowed to take out citizenship papers because for 10 years it has been my desire to do so. I became acquainted with Americans for the first time in France at the end of the war. I very much admired their attitude toward life, their enthusiasm and the way they tackled things.

Joins Union

When I returned to England, I joined the English speaking union of England and America, an organization which makes for closer cooperation between the nations.

"I am still on the committee of that body. I came over here last autumn to see if America was as good as I imagined it to be. I found it one hundred times better. If I am allowed to become a citizen of this great country, it shall be my pride and endeavor to give it the same loyalty and service in both national and international affairs which I have tried to give the British empire since I left school 15 years ago.

"My two greatest loves are aviation and women's athletics and my ambition is to devote the rest of my life to the furtherance of these."

Breaks With Mate

First indications of a break between the woman flyer and her titled husband became public several weeks ago when Sir James Heath announced that he would not be responsible for his wife's debts.

The tall, junoesque Englishwoman made a sensational lone flight from London to Cape Town, Africa, last year. She is also credited with setting the first woman's record for altitude flying.

"About that matter of not being responsible for my debts, I might say that I am self-supporting. In fact, I earn more money than my husband ever gave me as an allowance," she said.

Lady Heath, who is 31, is the third wife of Sir James who is 75 years old.

SIGNATURE ON KELLOGG PACT

Document Rests in U. S. Archives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Bearing the signature of President Coolidge, a brief but portentous document reposed tonight in the archives of the state department to attest that the United States has given its full and unconditional approval to the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war.

The paper, known officially as the instrument of ratification, was signed today by the chief executive in the midst of ceremonies imposing in their simplicity, and surrounded by an atmosphere of solemnity befitting the supreme importance which Mr. Coolidge attaches to the pact.

In the historic east room of the White House, had gathered the entire cabinet, high officials of the state department, and more than one-third of the membership of the senate. They looked on as the president signed his name to the instrument, passed it to secretary Kellogg for certification of his signature and then followed the same course with a duplicate of the document.

To America fell the distinction of being the first of the 15 original signatory nations to ratify the pact, but before it can become effective it must be approved by the 14 other powers in the manner prescribed by their respective constitutions, and their own instruments of ratification must be deposited with the Washington government, which is custodian of the original treaty. When this has been accomplished, exchange copies of the pact will be signed by each of the 15 states.

Sale of Arms to Truant Nations Would Be Halted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (UP)—A resolution to prohibit the exportation of arms or munitions to nations violating the Kellogg anti-war pact was introduced today by Rep. Korell, Oregon, Republican. DUTIES SWAMP TEXAS SOLONS

House Recesses to Allow Committees to Work

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (UP)—Today's session of the Texas house was brief, adjournment being taken until 11 o'clock Friday morning to permit committees to hold hearings.

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (AP)—House committees today were buried under such a mass of bills that a day's "breathing spell" was asked while they rolled up their sleeves to consider 804 measures introduced since the 41st legislature got under way.

The committee on fish and game was expected to take some action on a bill calling for a fish, game and oyster commission of six members, together with an executive secretary and assistant to replace the present commissioner. Several companion measures relating to leasing of university oil lands were on the table for consideration by the public lands and buildings group. The appropriation committee continued to hear pleas for emergency aid from presidents of state-owned colleges, which already have been placed before the senate.

On house bill was passed today. It was a local measure introduced by Representative W. R. Montgomery, of Edinburg providing for a Hidalgo county water control and improvement district.

Rigid enforcement of the prohibition law among public officials was asked today in a bill introduced by Representative D. D. Richardson of Grand Saline, which would require that all persons elected to public office subscribe to an oath that they would not drink intoxicating liquor as a beverage while a public servant.

Exemption of university-owned lands from county taxation was hit in a house joint resolution signed by Representative Penrose Metcalf, of San Angelo and others, specifying that the proposed constitutional amendment be submitted to voters at the next general election.

"Some West Texas counties are in a bad financial situation because much of their area is embraced in university oil lands on which no taxes are levied," he said.

The patriotic movement started yesterday by Representative Preston L. Anderson of San Antonio asking for $1,000,000 to purchase property surrounding the Alamo was followed by a bill which Representative Ernest C. Cox of Corsicana, introduced, requiring trustees of public school districts to purchase an American flag for each school building.

College Town Officers Aroused at Charges of Student Drinking Bout

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 17. (INS)—Will O. Johns, chief of police, and R. R. Rutherford, sheriff of Douglas county, have challenged a statement made by William C. Shepherd, member of Collier's staff, concerning liquor situation in Lawrence and at the University of Kansas, as made in a story published this morning.

Johns and Rutherford took exception to a part of the story on Kansas being a "beer state" upon reading that Shepherd attended the Kansas-Ames football game played here Oct. 13, and observed several young men under the stadium drinking bottles of beer and "spiking" and "tumbling" them with tiny bottles of alcohol.

"Not a single arrest was made at the stadium on that afternoon," said Sheriff Rutherford today, "and a special staff of deputies were on hand to watch students and fans both in the stadium and underneath where Shepherd alleged the young men spent the afternoon drinking." He added, "there was less drinking at K. U. football games during the past season than in any previous year," Rutherford declared. "And only on a few occasions was it necessary to arrest drunks."

According to Chief of Police Johns, special officers were stationed at the bus depot during the day—the place at which Shepherd declared plenty of flasks were in evidence—and that a sharp lookout for "drunks" and liquor was maintained at all times.

Mexican Immigration Reported on Increase

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17. (UP)—Nearly 100,000 Mexican workers entered the United States in 1928, according to official figures released today. Felipe Canales, acting secretary of the interior, said that since 1919, with the exception of world war years, Mexican immigration to the United States had shown a steady gain. He ordered officials to use immediate measures to curb the influx northward, as it is "of deep concern" to the government.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

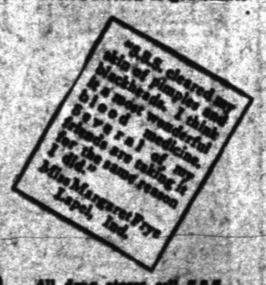

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

AFTER OPERATIONS

"I was three times under an operation and I was very weak and nervous and could not eat. I suffered for ten years. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my husband bought me a bottle. I felt a little better and he bought me two more. I had the Compound in my home for two years and took it all the time. Now I feel strong and can do anything."—Mrs. A. Michalk, 5443 Mitchell Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

To a most important group of motor car buyers

Certain American people are getting on in the world. Many of them are just starting. But they're headed up the ladder. Their ideas of luxury are expanding. They want finer homes, finer furniture, finer automobiles.

During the past three years, hundreds of thousands of these progressive Americans have been buying the Pontiac Six. Some of them have bought it as the first car they ever owned. But to most of them, Pontiac has represented the first big step up from the lowest priced field.

Three years of building Pontiac Sixes for progressive Americans have taught Oakland a lot. Oakland knows, for example, that progressive people are thrifty. But it knows that their thrift is governed by real wisdom. They will not skimp in first cost when a few additional dollars mean greater quality and more impressive performance. They love beauty. They want more luxury. They are continually demanding greater power and speed.

For this progressive group, Oakland has now created a brand new Pontiac Six. It represents an even greater advancement over everything else in its field today than the original Pontiac represented in 1926. It offers all the style, safety and comfort advantages of entirely new bodies by Fisher. It will enable progressive Americans to enjoy greater beauty, greater luxury and finer performance than ever at its price. It will take its buyers farther than ever up the ladder of motor car quality in one step. Watch for the

MANDELL'S REIGN AS LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION ENDANGERED

5 CONTENDERS AREDANGEROUS

McLarnin and Miller Loom As Most Formidable

By BERT DEMBY

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (UP)—The lightweight boxing division, although headed by a champion who has not been particularly anxious to defend his title, begins to show possibilities of some lively action within the next few months.

There are at least five lightweights who can put up strong fights, and a half dozen more are clamoring for positions at the top.

Despite the class of some of the contenders, however, it appears that Sammy Mandell, the champion is still the best of the lot, although strong opposition looms in his path.

The five who look to be the best in the division, other than Mandell, are Ray Miller, Billy Petrolle, Joe Medill, Jimmy McLarnin and Bruce Flowers.

McLarnin, Miller Best

Jimmy McLarnin and Miller are the "standouts" of the group. McLarning already has had a chance at Mandell's crown and about all he received was a fine boxing lesson from the champion.

Jimmy outboxed Joe Glick in New York the other night and appears to be vastly improved but he is still growing. It is doubtful if he can make the lightweight limit right now without fighting underweight.

Miller is too slow to whip Mandell. The Chicagoan can take it and give it but Mandell probably would have little trouble "powder puffing" him to death with his speed.

Sammy probably is the best boxer in the ring today and certainly he has little to fear from the rather slow Miller. Nevertheless, a Miller-Mandell fight would be a good drawing card because of the possibility that Ray might land hard a couple of times. If he were lucky enough to slam Sammy once or twice there might be a new champion for this Miller really can hit. But slamming Sammy is a tough undertaking.

Opposition for Sammy

One thing stands out. Mandell has enough good opponents to make this a banner year in money-making and yet assume very little risk to his title. The opponents seem just good enough to admit of the possibility that "they might win." That means they would draw a crowd.

Joey Medill's win over Billy Wallace showed that he has something and before this year ends he may come forward as an applicant for a chance at the title.

Petrolle had Mandell clinging to the ropes in St. Paul over a year ago but lost on points which Mandell had piled up before the Fargo, N. D., boy started his vicious attack in the eighth round.

Flowers is not yet ready for championship consideration, although he looks like a comer.

Braddock Plans To Fight Heavies

He'll Seek Big Fellows If He Beats Lomski Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (UP)—If James J. Braddock, who recently knocked out Pete Latzo and Tuffy Griffiths, gets past Leo Lomski tomorrow night he may seek honors in the heavyweight division instead of remaining among the 175-pounders.

Braddock is a favorite of William Muldoon, and if the commissioner undertakes to sponsor James J. among the big fellows it will smooth the youngster's path smoothly. The last heavyweight who was sponsored by Muldoon was James J. Tunney, although the veteran took an active interest in the careers of James J. Corbett and James J. Jefferies.

There is dynamite in the fists of Leo Lomski, and the fight Friday will be a severe test for the Jerseyman.

Big 10 Officials Want Pay Raised

Grid Arbiters Ask Increase Over $75 Scale

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (US)—Big Ten football officials are reported tardy in signing up for the 1929 season because of the low salary scale.

The regular scale in the conference is $75 a game and the officials point out that elsewhere the officials are paid from $100 to as much as $250 a game.

One veteran officials of the conference han said:

"We do not see why the Big Ten conference should not renumerate its officials with fees similar to those paid in other parts of the country. We are not on strike—we simply choose to work in games where we will draw higher pay."

Seymour Roadsters Take 7th Straight

Norwood's field goal in the last minute of play in an extra period gave the Seymour Roadsters victory over the Jewish Temple cage five at Call field. The score was 18 to 17.

It was an exciting and bitterly-contested game, with the score 16-all at the end of the regular game, necessitating the playoff. Juhl and Norwood featured for Seymour Roadsters and Goldstucker and Kruger starred for the Jewish Temple team.

It was the seventh straight victory for the Roadsters and they are unbeaten this season. Lineups:

Famous Golf Shots of 1928

Von Elm's Pocket in One

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

If a galleryite hadn't reached in his coat pocket for a cigaret, Dr. William Tweddell, captain of the British Walker cup team, might have defeated George Von Elm of Detroit in their twosome at the international golf matches last August.

But he did reach for it and pulled out a lost ball, which is the basis of this story of a famous shot.

Von Elm came to the twenty-fourth tee at the Chicago Golf club, where the matches were played, two down to Tweddell. Both got off good tee shots, but the Briton's second sailed in the trap to the right of the green. Von Elm's second hooked and it looked like it landed in the dangerous rough.

Search as they might neither Von Elm, the scorer, his caddy nor spectaters could find the ball. Just as Von Elm was about to take a two stroke penalty for a lost ball the galleryite reached into his pocket for a cigaret. Instead he found Von Elm's ball. It had bounced into the pocket without attracting his attention.

"Yup, that's my ball," said Von Elm, and the pellet was tossed on the fairway. His third shot landed 10 feet from the pin and George putted it in for a par four. Captain Tweddell took a five and Von Elm was only one down.

Von Elm squared the match on the next hole and finally won, three up. The "break" seemed to upset Captain Tweddell and provide a great topic for the American.

Tex Discovered $60,000 in Gold In First Great Eldorado Strike

Established Gambling House at Dawson as First Amusement Venture, and the Sky Was the Limit

By JACK LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1929, by the New York American, Inc., and Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—When Willie Stack got cold feet on the frozen banks of the Yukon and turned back toward civilization, George Lewis Rickard plugged on alone.

It took something more than 30 degrees below zero to stop Tex.

He spent that winter in Circle City and started out from there in the spring. It must have been a tough winter for Tex as he was virtually broke. However, with what little was left of his original capital he took a chance and sat in at various poker games that were running 24 hours a day and the cards were good to him. He also won at faro and this tided him over.

While wintering in Circle City Tex Rickard made some friendships that were to last for the rest of his life. He became intimate with a man named George Cormack, who was carrying in his breast a golden secret.

Cormack had been prospecting in the Klondike during the previous summer and fall. He had stopped to drink from a narrow stream that flowed into the Yukon, when his eye fell on something bright and glittering beneath the surface. It was a band of gold embedded in the rock and sand. The ceaseless flow of water had exposed and polished it. Cormack nearly fell head foremost into the stream. That was the beginning of the great Eldorado strike, the news of which was to bring men rushing to the Klondike from all parts of the world.

Tex In On Secret

Cormack staked out a claim right then and there, but had no time to work it before the bitter Alaskan winter shut down on him. It was while he was hibernating in Circle City that he became intimate with Tex Rickard and told him about his great discovery. The two became partners and early in the spring set out for the little stream which they called the Bonanza.

Other miners in Circle City who had seen Rickard and Cormack whispering together became suspicious of them and trailed them to the little stream, and it was these men who made the great Eldorado strike. Cormack's discovery had been merely the beginning of that fabulous load. Had he and Rickard staked out another claim a little to the north of their original site they would have owned the greatest single gold deposit ever uncovered in the Klondike. As it was, the Cormack-Rickard claim began to peter out late in the summer and they sold it. Meanwhile the Eldorado strike was giving up millions in glittering gold.

Tex Rickard considered himself a rich man when he returned to Circle City that fall with $60,000 in gold dust in his money belt.

"I thought I was fixed for life," Tex said in telling of that experience long afterward. "I figured that I had made my fortune and I planned to go back to Texas and buy that ranch. But before heading back into civilization Cormack and I thought we'd have a little fun. We had worked hard all summer and figured that a little vacation was coming to us.

"I was drinking in a Circle City saloon one night when I met a man named Tom Turner, who had just come up from Dawson City. That guy was all het up over Dawson, and said that anybody with money enough to open up a gambling house and saloon there would have a mine that would produce gold without any digging. Turner had some money, and we became partners right then and there. We offered to take Cormack in with us, but he had the gold fever bad and said he was going back into the Klondike in the spring. He had an idea that he was going to hit another Eldorado."

Turner and Rickard went to Dawson City and there established the biggest gambling, drinking and eating house in the town. It marked the beginning of Tex Rickard's amazing career as a promoter of amusement enterprises. After that he was seldom to be in any other line of endeavor.

The Square Gambler

Like all the other gambling houses of which Tex Rickard was proprietor from time to time, this Dawson City establishment was strictly on the level. In it you could play roulette, faro or poker until your dust was gone or you broke the bank.

Tex Rickard was a gambler to the day of his death. You could get a bet with him on almost any old thing if he thought he had a reasonable chance to win. And his luck was something uncanny. Of all the times he gambled with the weather when producing open air shows he lost out but once or twice. I have known it to rain steadily for a week, right up to the day of Tex Rickard's big outdoor fight, and then clear up. It was raining the morning of the Leonard-Tendler fight for the lightweight championship of the world at Boyle's Thirty Acres a few years ago.

A postponement seemed inevitable and Rickard's assistants were discouraged and disgusted. Everybody was downcast but Rickard. He simply smiled and said:

"Oh, I guess the sun will be out by 11 o'clock."

And sure enough it was. He seemed to have a great pull with the sun god.

In Rickard's Dawson City joint you could name your own game if you didn't care for roulette, faro or poker. All Rickard asked was that it be strictly on the up-and-up.

"Were your games always on the level?" I once asked the promoter.

No Place for a Crook

"Were they on the level!" he exclaimed. "I'll say they were! They had to be. No man would have lasted long trying anything crooked in that country at that time. The proprietor of a crooked game would have been pumped full of lead sooner or later. There were no suckers in Alaska in those days. Honesty was the safest policy in that country. Say, miners used to come into my Dawson City joint and say, 'Hey, Tex, mind this for me, will ya?' And they'd throw down a sack with thousands of dollars worth of gold dust in it. I used to keep tags to which there was attached a little piece of string. I'd put the miner's name on this, attach it to the bag and toss the sack back of the bar. I guess I've seen close to a million dollars in gold lying back of that bar. We never had a safe and never needed one. Not one grain of gold dust was ever missing.

"Sometimes you'd hear a squawk from a hard loser, but in all my gambling experience in Alaska I can remember hearing only one man claim that a game was crooked. And he apologized for it afterward. He was pretty drunk and blew a small fortune on the roulette wheel I had told him to quit, but he wouldn't. He kept right on until he was broke and then he yelled murder. He said the game was crooked and demanded his money back.

"I told him my games weren't run on the money-back principle and he pulled a gun on me and said if he didn't get back his dough he'd shoot me full of holes. Somehow or other I knew he was bluffing. Anyway, I grabbed that rod out of his hand and tossed it back of the bar. Then I bounced that guy right out into the snow. He came back next day when he was sober and apologized. We had a drink together and I staked him. Then he went out and I never saw him again."

Rickard's Dawson City place lasted for four months and during that time luck played with him and he prospered. But any run of luck will turn if you play it long enough. Rickard's turned with a wallop and in a few hours he lost all that he had made in the four months, including the gold he had taken from the Little Bonanza. When bad luck went to work on him it worked fast. It didn't even leave him a place to sleep.

HEENEY WORKS FOR COMEBACK

Tom to Meet Paolino And Hopes to Fight Dempsey

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (UP)—Between diamond rings and boxing rings, Tom Heeney, the New Zealand heavyweight, has chosen the latter and is training daily for a comeback he hopes will land him a match with Jack Dempsey in September.

Heeney married after his unsuccessful attempt to win the world's championship from Gene Tunney last July at Yankee stadium and returned to his home at Gisbourne, New Zealand, on his honeymoon. He came back to this country in November with every intention of becoming a diamond importer.

Charlie Harvey, his manager, and the late Tex Rickard talked him out of it.

"You can peddle diamonds any old time," Harvey insisted.

Tom Is Won Over

"Tom, I want you to fight Paolino," Rickard told him. The winner gets Sharkey or stribling and the big shot with Dempsey will be waiting for the victor."

One of the best liked fighters in the game, Heeney couldn't put up a convincing argument against them.

"As long as Dempsey's going to be in it," Tom said today, "I guess the best the rest of us mugs can do is get in there and fight for a chance to meet him."

"The public is glued to Dempsey and he'll work up enthusiasm in fighting. Of course, now that Rickard is gone I don't know what Dempsey will do. I hope he does fight again and I get a chance to meet him."

Heeney probably will meet Paolino Uzcudun in his first comeback bout. They have met twice before, Paolino winning the first decision and the second bout ending in a draw.

Wants to Fight Paolino

"I'd just love to fight Paolino," Tom said. "That's one guy I can lick. If I cant whip him I'm going to quit and get started in my diamond business."

"When Heeney was fighting around Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1924, he made a lot of friends. Two of them have since become rich through their diamond mines and they want him to handle their uncut diamonds in this country.

Reminiscing on his fight with Tunney, Heeney said the long training grind in the hot weather hastened his defeat.

"I don't want to take anything away from Tunney," he said. "He licked me, but I'll always believe I'd have put up a better fight if I'd only trained 10 days instead of six weeks. But they said nothing less than six weeks would do for a championship fight."

Heeney trained near the seashore at Fair Haven, N. J., and the humidity made him suffer.

Coyotes Defeat Olney, 23 to 22 In Overtime Period of Thriller

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 17.—The Wichita Falls high school Coyote basketeers started a three-day trek tonight by defeating the Olney Cubs in a thrilling game that required an overtime period to determine the victor.

The score was 10-10 at the first quarter, 14-14 at the half and 19-18 at the third quarter and 22-all at the expiration of the 40 minutes of regulation play. Curtis then sank a free goal to give the Pack a 23-22 win.

Curtis and Perkins, Olney center, were scoring leaders with 13 points each. Hodgkiss played a sensational game for the Pack at guard, as did the Gilmores for Olney.

The Coyotes play at Ranger Friday night and at Cisco Saturday night. Tonight's lineup:

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Jan. 20:

Sunday—Breakfast: Waffle, crisp bacon, stewed figs. Lunch: Potato on the half shell, spinach, celery and ripe olives. Dinner: Celery soup, baked chicken or Belgian hare, string beans, salad of grated raw carrots, pineapple snow.

Monday — Breakfast: Coddled eggs, re-toasted cereal biscuit, stewed prunes. Lunch: Cooked carrots and peas, stuffed celery. Dinner: Broiled steak, oyster plant, cooked lettuce, salad of chopped raw cabbage, Jello or Jell-well with cream.

Tuesday — Breakfast: Re-toasted breakfast food with cream (no sugar); stewed apricots. Lunch: Corn meal muffins, string beans, raw celery. Dinner: Broiled mutton chops, baked ground beets, tomato - spinach - asparagus salad, baked pear.

Wednesday—Breakfast: Poached eggs on Melba toast, broiled ham, stewed raisins. Lunch: Raw apples, all desired, with peanut butter (eaten bread and butter fashion). Dinner: Vegetable soup, roast beef, mashed turnips, stewed tomatoes, *small dish of junket.

Thursday — Breakfast: Cottage cheese, toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuit, applesauce. Lunch: Baked squash, salad of molded vegetables (cucumber, celery, parsley). Dinner: Roast pork, oyster plant, spinach, McCoy salad, baked apple.

Friday—Breakfast: French omelet, whole wheat muffins and butter. Lunch: Boiled rice, string beans, salad of chopped raw cabbage and celery. Dinner: Broiled halibut, baked egg plant, boiled beets, sliced tomatoes, no dessert.

Saturday—Breakfast: Grapefruit, all desired. Lunch: Macaroni, spinach, head lettuce. Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, cooked celery, baked parsnips, salad of cold cooked asparagus (canned), Jello or Jell-well with whipped cream.

*Junket tablets may be purchased in any grocery store. They are a form of rennet the chief importance of which, from a food standpoint, is the property of coagulating milk. A wholesome and delicious dessert or noonday lunch may be made by dissolving one of the tablets in a little cold water and adding to lukewarm milk that has been sweetened with a little honey or maple syrup, which imparts a delicate flavor.

A convenient way of preparing is to measure out a pint of sweetmilk into a quart bottle and let stand in warm water until the milk is lukewarm. Measure into the milk four scant teaspoonfuls of honey or maple syrup, replace the cap on the bottle and shake vigorously until thoroughly mixed, then add the dissolved junket tablet and shake again for a few seconds. Pour into individual molds and let stand undisturbed until coagulation takes place, then place in the ice box or other cool place until ready to serve. For a change, raisins may be used in place of the honey or syrup. Simply prepare the milk as directed and pour into the molds, adding a few raisins to each mold. This fruit furnishes enough fruit sugar to give the desired sweet taste without the honey or syrup.

These measurements make four generous portions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rubbing Oil on Body

Question: A. M. writes: "Twice a week I have been rubbing pure olive oil on my body. The reason is merely that it is restful and I have an idea that it would keep my skin healthy. Is there any possibility of injury to the skin or of growing hair?"

Answer: There can be no danger in your rubbing the olive oil on your body, providing you also take a daily sponge or shower bath to remove any oil residue which would become rancid if not removed soon enough. Rub the oil on after you have taken your bath.

Are These Fattening?

Question: M. S. writes: "Would like to know if Melba toast is fattening if eaten without butter. Also would like to know if berries are fattening if eaten without cream or sugar."

Answer: The dextrin of Melba toast is considered just as fattening as the starch of the bread before being toasted. The only thing which can be considered fattening about berries is the sugar they contain, but if the only sugar you use is that which you get from toast or berries, you need have no fear about gaining too much weight.

Dislocated Bones

Question: I. W. writes: "Will you please tell me through your question and answer column what I could do with my bones? I am 21 years old, have had a dislocated knee, also a jaw bone. This is all on the left side and my bones crack every time I move and they still go out."

Answer: I would advise you to consult an osteopath and also change your diet so that you eat plenty of foods containing the mineral elements needed to grow strong bones.

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN—What's that funny business yo' is wearin', Big Boy.

MACK—I'se on th' champeen ice-hockey team from Montreal.

MORAN—What kinda stuff is that?

MACK—Well, yo' tosses a rubber biskit on th' ice an' then everybody smacks each other with umbrellas an' walking sticks.

MORAN—Is THAT A GAME?

MACK—It is if yo' is WINNIN'.

MORAN—What happens when yo' loses?

MACK—Yo' NEVER knows.

MORAN—What does yo' do on th' team?

MACK—I'se Head-Man when we is losin' an' substitoot when we is winnin'.

MORAN—What does th' substitoot do?

MACK—He goes into th' scrimmage an' he don't have to do nothin'. They does IT for him.

MORAN—Will yo' show me what a scrimmage is? I ain't never seen one.

MACK—THAT'S ALL I wanted to know.

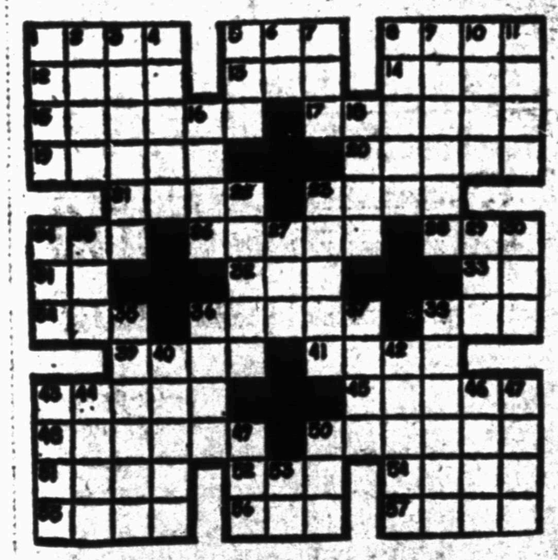

Attorney Fined More Than Client at Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 17. (UP)—Bud Crane, an attorney, today was fined three times as much as his client, a woman charged with assaulting her husband by throwing a jar of stick candy at him. The judge fined Crane twice for contempt of court and assessed his client $5 for simple assault.

COMMISSIONER SELECTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17.(UP) —Gov. Henry S. Johnston today appointed H. E. Dunham of Gracemont as county commissioner of Caddo county to succeed W. P. Campbell, resigned.

But Shell, Gulf and Atlantic Rankings Change

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 17.—Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company and Pure Oil company remained the first and second largest oil producers, respectively, in Winkler county during the week ending Jan. 9, but Shell-Texas dropped to fifth place, Gulf Production company moving from fourth to third position, and Atlantic Oil Producing company from fifth to fourth place.

Five hundred and eight wells produced 1,132,307 barrels, an increase of 10 wells and 7,628 barrels over the preceding week. Of this number 500 wells in the Hendrick pool yielded 1,117,285 barrels, a gain of seven wells and 4,786 barrels over the week before, and eight wells in the Leck, O'Brien and Scarborough areas produced 15,022 barrels, compared with 12,180 barrels the week before. In these three areas only one new well was added, Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Scarborough, but two wells not listed the week previous were on production, Shell-Llano Nos. 1 and 2 Scarborough.

In the Hendrick field four new wells were added: Atlantic Nos. 6-E and 7-E, Shell-Texas No. 11-A and Southern Crude No. T-88-3-3.

Production in Winkler county during the week ending Jan. 9, compared with the week ending Jan. 2, follows:

Hendrick Field

Amerada Petroleum corporation: Two wells, 4,580 barrels; week before, two wells, 5,670 barrels.

Mining and Engineering corporation of Arizona: One well, shut in; week before one well, 1,953 barrels.

Grand total, Winkler county: Five hundred and eight wells, 1,132,307 barrels; week before, 498 wells, 1,124,679 barrels.

Osage Gusher's Flow Strengthens Oil Come-Back of Joshua Cosden

Special to The Record News

TULSA, Jan. 17.—Joshua S. Cosden's comeback in oil following his losing control of Cosden and company, which he formed back in 1917, is real. Following several important strikes in West Texas he came back to Oklahoma and drilled in discoveries in Okfuskee and Osage counties.

Cosden lives at Fort Worth. With associates, the Westland Oil corporation and Gray Oil company, he has a big well near Wynona in Osage county which made 90 barrels in 30 minutes' time. Not expecting a big well, little or no storage was up, and the well had to be pinched in.

A test was made early Thursday and in one hour it flowed 212 barrels, and average 110 barrels an hour, fluctuating from 90 an hour to 160 an hour. It has plenty of gas and the oil is free of sediment and water. Additional storage is being built.

WILBARGER OIL COMPANY

The Wilbarger Oil company is rigging up for its test No. B-1 W. T. Waggoner, to be drilled 160 feet each way from the northwest corner of southwest quarter of section 55, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, two miles northeast of Rock Crossing pool in Wilbarger county.

LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER

American Refining Properties No. 6 J. Cernosek, in section 2409 T. E. L. survey, southwest Archer, has set and cemented pipe on the oil sand encountered at a depth of 1423 feet.

READY TO SWAB

Prairie-Comac Drilling company No. 3 Mrs. Bishop, located in the Netherly survey, south of Iowa Park and east of the Watkins pool in south Wichita county, is making preparations to swab the oil sand topped at 1772 feet.

TEXAS COMPANY LOCATION

Texas company has made location for its No. 1 J. R. Parkey, to be drilled 1320 feet west and 2280 feet south of the northwest corner of section 1, A. T. N. C. L. survey, Archer county.

NORTHWEST OF VERNON

Sloan and others are rigging up to continue the drilling deeper of the North Vernon Oil company's test on the Lutz land in section 39, block 12, H. & T. C. R. R. survey. The test, which was drilled to a depth of 2580 feet, has been taken over by the Sloan interests and will be drilled to an approximate depth of 3500 feet.

JACK COUNTY WILDCAT

Kizer & Kelley No. 1 Jones estate, located in the Mabin survey, abstract 413, Jack county, is drilling at 1600 feet.

MAGNOLIA PAYS ONCE MONTHLY

Purchaser Notifies Producers of New Plan

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17. (AP)—Magnolia Petroleum company has notified producers and royalty owners from which it purchases oil that henseforth payments for oil purchased by it and run from properties will be paid once a month instead of twice a month, as has been the custom in the past.

This is an extension of a change which already has been made in some parts of the Midcontinent to Texas, and may be followed by other major purchasers.

The movement has brought protest from many small producers and royalty owners, the former particularly claiming that the change will effect a sever credit strain on them as payrolls and other expenses have to be met by them either semi-monthly or by cash payment.

The companies claim that the double monthly payment has added to accounting expense to the extent that the companies cannot longer afford to foot the bill for expanding accounting departments. The many small accounts, due to split-up of royalty interests, is particularly complained of by the companies.

WESTBROOK SALE REPORTS DENIED

Rumors of negotiation of sale of the properties of the Westbrook-Thompson Holding corporation has drawn an official statement from Roy Westbrook, president, that no sale of properties of the company is contemplated. The company, which holds the retained interests of the discoveries of the Hendrick pool in Winkler county, represents a half interest in properties operated by the Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company with an allowed daily production of 36,000 barrels, and a rated potential of about 375,000 barrels per day.

GAS BLOWS IN AT OKLAHOMA WELL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 17. (AP)—Gas estimated at 5,000,000 cubic feet blew in the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil and Foster Petroleum companies number 1, Trosper, et al, in section 13-11-3w, in the South Oklahoma City area today.

The hole was bottomed at 3,986 feet in sand showing both gas and oil.

New dates have been set by J. C. Denton, president of the Kansas-Oklahoma division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association for the general mass meeting of oil operators of the two states to consider conservation legislation as proposed by a committee of the American Bar association.

The Oklahoma meeting will be held Jan. 29 at Tulsa, and Kansas operators will meet Jan. 25 at Independence.

OSAGE GUSHER FLOWS 100 HOURLY

TULSA, Jan. 17. (AP)—Flowing 100 barrels per hour, pinched in, while shut down with the first Wilcox sand only topped at 2,575 feet, the Westland Oil corporation-Gray Oil company-Cosden gusher south of Pawhuska in the Osage, is exceeding expectations.

Shell Petroleum corporation has completed for 43,400,000 cubic feet of gas with 850 pounds rock pressure, its shallow test is on the glass farm, extreme south end of Little river pool. Gas sand was encountered from 3,180 to 2,208 feet and the hole is bottomed at 3,222 feet.

Coleman Gusher Helps Activity

Special to The Record News

COLEMAN, Texas, Jan. 17—Maintaining its flow of 65 barrels of oil per day, Midsun, Foster, Bebout and Sullivan No. 1 Haas, section 71, G. H. & H. Railway survey, eight miles south of Coleman, is expected to increase activity in that section.

An offset location to the well has been made by J. R. Foster, Ansler et al, 550 feet northeast of the producer on the L. C. Haas 20 acres. Drilling is expected to begin immediately.

Two acreage sales near the producer were announced early this week. Jesse Pearce sold the lease on the west 40 acres of the northwest 120 acres of section 86, G. H. & H. railway survey to the Rex-Tex Oil company for $50 per acre. The acreage is located 1600 feet southeast of the Haas test. Carl Shore sold 100 acres in section 72, to the Independent Oil and Gas company for $40 per acre. This lease is a quarter of a mile east of the producer.

Plans to deepen the Haas well were abandoned Tuesday in order to determine the extent of the pay at the present depth, 1495 feet. According to Midsun officials, the hole probably will not be deepened as long as it maintains its present production. The sand, correlated as the upper Overall or Cheney sand, has been penetrated only one foot. The oil tests 42.4 degrees gravity.

BROKERS' LOANS GAIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending Jan. 16, 1929, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $5,384,000,000, representing an increase of $71,000,000, as compared with the preceding week.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—The cotton market just about lost yesterday's advances in today's trading, owing to the failure of the bullish features to stimulate a more general demand, and to realizing or liquidation. March contracts sold off from 20.40 to 20.18 and closed at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 10 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 7 points, January sold up to 20.32 and May to 20.42 on some overnight buying attracted by the firmer tone of yesterday's market and talk of an improving spot situation in the South. The demand was limited, however, and the market soon turned easier under reselling by buyers who evidently were disappointed over the absence of a more active demand.

Some covering and buying on encouraging reports from the Manchester goods markets, the fairly steady showing of Liverpool and a reported small gain in the spot situation, gave the market a fairly steady undertone, but prices worked gradually lower. Trading was so quiet that it did not require much selling to cause the decline which extended to 12 points for January and 20.19 for May in the late trading, or about 15 to 18 points net lower on active positions. Closing prices were at the lowest of the day on most months. The South was reported a small seller and offerings increased in the late trading, when there was a little more pressure from that source, and rather more active liquidation.

Trading advices from Manchester claimed that cotton cloth manufacturers had turned more toward healthier conditions and that the improved situation in China was encouraging. Reports of slightly better business in cotton cloths in the local market also were in circulation, but apparently failed to stimulate the market. Liverpool cables said continental buying had been supplied by hedging and Bombay selling in the market there.

Some of the buying here was attributed to expectations of bullish weekly statistics tomorrow. Exports today 21,000 bales making 5,286,768 so far this season. Port receipts 16,747. U. S. port stocks, 2,288,098.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17. (AP)—Following a slight early advance the cotton market turned weak later today due to realizing and liquidation. May, the most active month after advancing 4 points to 19.51, eased off steadily to 19.36 and closed at that figure net 14 points down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 12 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were about as due and were reflected in an opening advance of 5 points here. The execution of some overnight buying orders extended the initial advance to 19.75 for March and 19.81 for May, or 5 to 8 points above yesterday's close.

The market soon turned easy, however, under liquidation and realising. There was no apparent news development behind the offerings which in the absence of an aggressive trade demand by noon carried March off to 19.55, May 19.65, or 13 to 16 points down from the highs and 8 points under yesterday's close.

The selling subsided for a time and prices rallied 2 to 3 points but there was a renewal of liquidation in final trading and active positions made a low for the day with January closing at 19.50, March 19.57 and May 19.59, or 17 to 22 points down from the early highs.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.(U.S.D.A.)—Steers and yearlings met a slow uneven trade and at the Chicago market were ruled steady to unevenly lower with some sales as much as 50c lower. Short feds predominated at all markets and weighty kinds were neglected. Butcher cows held about steady but in-between grades of mixed yearlings and heavy heifers were dull and unevenly lower. Best fed steers reached $15.15 and desirable long yearlings brought $15 at Chicago. The limited supply of stockers and feeders held around steady, although the country demand was narrow as a result of the weaker undertone in slaughter classes. Receipts totaled 27,000 against 24,620 last Thursday and 39,422 a year ago.

Steady to 25c higher prices prevailed on fat lambs as a rule although some weakness was reported at the river market. Choice fed lambs scored $17 at Chicago with comparable kind at Omaha bringing $16.85. Pet ewes sold at steady to strong prices with $10.25 taking the best at Chicago. Offerings totaled 48,100 as compared with 45,966 a week ago and 48,011 a year ago.

The hog market ruled barely active with prices mostly steady, although some markets reported slightly higher prices as compared with Wednesday's level. The extreme top of $9.45 was registered at St. Louis on choice light weights. Arrivals at the 11-market totaled 135,400 as compared with 137,126 last Thursday and 121,936 a year ago.

Tax Immunity On Gasoline Stressed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Claim of Texas corporations to immunity from a state occupational tax on gasoline furnished the federal government was stressed in the supreme court today by Victor Keller, as counsel for the Grayburg Oil company of San Antonio.

Keller asserted in his closing argument, begun yesterday, that the state was prohibited from collecting a tax on gasoline sold at Fort Sam Houston because the tax would operate to increase the price the government must pay for gasoline.

Texas was represented in court by Attorney General Claude Pollard and D. A. Simmons, the latter presenting oral argument.

U. S. Steel Shares Attain Peak In Leading Stocks to Improvement

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (US)—Stock prices continued to improve today under leadership of standard industrials and rails. The market was stimulated also by a decline in call money to 6 per cent. U. S. Steel attained a record high since its 40 per cent stock dividend, encouraging some expectation that another favorable adjustment of capital is impending. Pennsylvania likewise reached a new record high. The copper shares staged the most vigorous bullish demonstration as a group.

Weekly federal reserve statements presented a mixed picture. Broker's loans advanced $71,000,000, but rediscounts, or borrowings by member banks, declined an additional $54,723,000, indicating that the seasonal trend in this direction at least has not been interrupted. The statements, however, disclosed a loss of $20,000,000 more gold which has been "earmarked" for foreign account.

The most pleasing feature of the recent market strength has been the character of leadership. Consolidated Gas added to its gain on persistent buying by leading investment interests and the powerful group which is sponsoring the issue, Johns-Manville advanced sharply in anticipation of its entrance into new fields, to be disclosed shortly. Packard Motor led a revival of the auto shares by jumping over five points, while other motors enjoyed smaller advances.

Advance in the copper shares, in which Chile led by scoring a new top, was accomplished in the face of a decidedly bearish analysis on the coppers issued by a well-known economist. This report emphasized the fact that the copper market is beginning to show signs of easing of prices after the sustained advance of recent months.

In some circles there was also a disposition to take profits on the theory that a further rise in copper prices will encourage the use of substitutes. Nevertheless, Anaconda, Kennecott and other coppers were all in active demand. Chile will probably be offered an attractive exchange into Anaconda.

Brunswick Terminal resumed activity on report that a new group have taken over its market. Their interest has been inspired, it was stated, by expectation of the company's development program in connection with American Minerals company, will result in materially enlarged income.

St. Joseph Lead enjoyed a sharp jump to record levels as a leading mining company was reported seeking a dominant interest. American Smelting and Refining company is understood to have attracted a powerful group. Electric Auto-Lite was the outstanding feature of the day's trading, advancing into record territory traceable to the most powerful automobile people interested in the current market. It's phenomenal earnings record of the past few years will probably be exceeded this year.

Standard Oil of New York shares featured the oil section by rising close to its previous high on concentrated buying, which is reported to be largely for the account of the huge new "oil-share investment trust" nearing announcement. Tobacco shares were also helped by formation of investment trusts to specialize in this class.

Liggett and Myers "B" is reported under accumulation, encouraged by exceedingly optimistic reports of its cigaret business. There is some likelihood, it is asserted, of favorable dividend action by Liggett and Myers. There was also a report current that the largest cigaret-makers were contemplating an advance in their prices to dealers.

Davison Chemical was in active demand as its new state of affairs and bright outlook was more generally appreciated. The annual report of the company will disclose, it is understood, important developments affecting the company. One of these is a solution of the former problem facing the company—that of merchandising its own fertilizer products. Such products are now being sold through chain stores in agricultural sections.

Loew was a feature of the amusement stocks rising on report of another large enterprise in the same field seeking a dominant position. Warner Pictures held firm as forecast was made of $15 a share net for the current year. Rubber stocks were in some supply.

TEXAS REVIEW

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17. (AP)—A light supply of all classes of cattle at Fort Worth today enabled salesmen to collect about steady values. Buyers inclined to take off a little—particularly on cows, but with very few straight loads and most of them rather common, it is doubtful if they saved anything.

Only a few loads of slaughter steers arrived, all light cattle. An order buyer took a load at $9.50 and packers bought two loads in the quarantine division at $8.25 and $9.00 and some on the yearling order sold at $10.10, one load being unsold at the noon hour.

Very few bulls included in the receipts. Those that were here sold fully steady, packers of heavy bulls up to $8.90. The common light bulls sold mostly at $6.00 and $6.50.

A few cans of slaughter yearlings and heifers listed in the receipts, but nothing especially good included. Early sales included a carload at $11.25; others due to sell in that range; individuals sold up to $13.50.

Buyers set out to save a little on the butcher and beef cows but they found such a light offering and the quality generally lacking that the bulk of sales about steady. Better cows sold at $8.00 and $8.50; canners and cutters at $4.50 to $5.50.

Calves about steady, packers paid up to $11.25; four loads of calves in the quarantine division sorted at noon. Very few stocker calves offered. Packers up to $12.10.

Hogs fairly active with values steady to strong and best rail butchers selling at $9.25 and those in the truck division at $8.60. Bulk 170-280 pound butchers at $8.35@9.25; packing sows at $7.25@8.00. Pigs very inactive and values considerably lower.

Sheep steady with fall shorn wethers at $9.00 and fall shorn lambs and yearlings at $13.00.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 47,000; steady to 10c higher; top $9.35 for choice 180 to 210-pound weights; packing sows $8.15@8.75; pigs, medium to choice 90 to 130 pounds $7.25@8.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (AP)—Despite an immense rush of selling to realize profits, corn today not only outdid the season's high-price record but finished almost on the top. Estimates were current that as a result of crop damage the 1929 probable export surplus of Argentine corn has been curtailed nearly 100,000,000 bushels, compared with 1928.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous, ¾c to 1¼c net higher, wheat ¼c to ⅝c up, oats ¼c to ⅝c advanced, and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 12c.

Word of renewed hot winds devastating corn in Argentina was largely responsible for last-minute advances today in the corn market here. During most of the day, too, as was the case at the finish, the advantage lay with the buying side of the market.

News that the corn market in Buenos Aires had jumped 2¼c a bushel and that the Liverpool market was up 2⅞c a bushel was regarded by many in Chicago as confirming acute need of copious additional moisture for the Argentine corn crop.

Wheat and oats sympathized with corn strength, July delivery of wheat and all deliveries of oats going up to a fresh top-price level for the season. Sleet storms and ice packs reported in domestic winter wheat territory counted as a bullish factor.

102. LEGAL NOTICES

SHERIFF'S SALE—The state of Texas, county of Wichita. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable 30th district court of Wichita county, on the 10th day of January, 1928, by Eunice Jackson, clerk of the district court of said county, for the sum of fifty-seven hundred and twenty ($5,720.00) dollars, together with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from December 20, 1926, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of E. W. Logan and W. C. Young, executors of the estate of W. J. Logan, deceased, and for the sum of $675 and cost of suit under said judgment in favor of L. E. Whitham and wife, Rebecca M. Whitham, as co-partners composing the firm of L. E. Whitham & Company, in a certain cause in said court, same being No. 21729-C and styled E. W. Logan, et al, executors, vs. W. C. Mathews, et al, and placed in my hands for service, I, W. G. Bradley, as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 10th day of January, 1928, levy on a certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: Lots No. 1 and 2, block No. 10 of the Floral Heights addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, according to map and plat thereof duly recorded in the county clerk's office of Wichita county, Texas, same being out of Simpson Holloway survey, abstract No. 488, patented to W. L. Knott by patent No. 21, Vol. 60, and levied upon as the property of W. C. Mathews and that on the first Tuesday in February, 1928, the same being the 7th day of said month, at the courthouse door of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale, I will sell above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said W. C. Mathews. And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county. Witness my hand, this 10th day of January, 1928.—W. G. Bradley, sheriff Wichita county, Texas; by M. F. Hawkins, deputy.

JURY PROBES BEASLEY DEATH

Indictment May Follow New Investigation

Evidence which may lead to the indictment of the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured M. H. Beasley on the Iowa Park road on the night of Dec. 23 was brought before the 30th district grand jury when it reconvened Thursday.

A complaint against the suspect has already been filed in the office of the district attorney and his arrest is expected at any time. Mr. Beasley, a farm laborer, was struck as he was at work repairing the car in which he, with his wife and nine children, had started from Wilbarger county to Kemp City. Two other members of the family were seriously injured in the accident, but have recovered. The driver of the car did not stop to render aid to his victims.

Evidence discovered through an investigation by the district attorney's office, the sheriff's department, and the city police, was presented through a number of witnesses summoned to give testimony before the grand jury Thursday.

The body is to investigate a numbers of other recently developed cases before its adjournment this week. Before its recess last Friday afternoon the jury returned 50 true bills. No date for its next report has been indicated.

Dancers Feature Vaudeville Bill

By The Record News Critic

Ledova, the brilliant danseuse, and Irvan Luttman, headliners of the week's interstate vaudeville bill which opened Thursday at the Majestic theater for a two-day run, pleased their audiences with dance numbers that proved to be the feature of the five vaudeville acts presented on the bill.

The four Camerons in their comedy skit. "Like father—like son," which closed the vaudeville part of the program, drew bursts of applause and laughter from the audience.

Frank Evers and Greta, in "Dance Creations On the Wire" presented one of the best rope walking stunts that has been shown in the city in several months while Sargent and Lewis drew a big hand with their comic songs an jokes.

"Someone to Love," with Charles Rogers and Mary Brian, a Paramount newsreel and comedy comedy complete the movie part of the show.

Gained 11 Pounds By Using Orgatone

Holliday, Texas, Woman Says She Spent Eight Weeks in Bed—Feels Fine Now

"I actually have gained eleven pounds on my first bottle of Orgatone, I feel better than I remember ever feeling, and my friends say they have never seen me looking as well as I do now." This remarkable statement was made a few days ago by Mrs. W. C. Sellers, residing at Holliday, Texas, while in Allison's Drug Store, Wichita Falls. Mrs. Sellers, is the wife of W. C. Sellers, the well-known barber of Holliday, and their many friends will be glad to learn of her restoration to health.

"I don't know how long," continued Mrs. Sellers, "I have been afflicted with stomach and indigestion troubles, but the trouble became acute some year or so ago and I just can't describe the suffering I have endured since that time until I got relief by taking Orgatone. My food would not digest, my stomach was all bloated up with gas and my heart would flutter so at times I would almost faint. The fact of the matter is I was in bed eight weeks and got down to where I only weighed 98 pounds. I had tried all kinds of medicines and had the very best treatment, yet I continued to suffer and grow worse and had become discouraged and despondent about my condition.

"But when I read about the good Orgatone was doing so many Wichita Falls people, I had a new hope. I felt like it would help me, too, and it certainly has, even beyond my expectations. I just now realize what good health is. I haven't felt as well before in months. I have just finished my first bottle of Orgatone and have not only gained eleven pounds in weight, but all my troubles are disappearing, too. I never told my friends and neighbors I was taking Orgatone until my face commenced to fill out and my color got so good and now they are all talking about my wonderful recovery, and many of my neighbors are taking Orgatone and getting well too, since seeing what it has done for me. Orgatone has made my husband and I both happy by giving me my health, and I'm glad to give this statement because I know there are lots of other people who need just such a medicine as Orgatone to get them over their suffering and make them well and happy."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent medicine, but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Out-of-town customers are being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 or six bottles $6.25.—Adv.

Knox County Must Pay $75 Burial Fee for Negress, Court Holds

Knox county must pay $75 to cover the funeral expenses of Shady Bell, a negress who died here 15 months ago from injuries received in a cutting affray in Munday, according to a judgment entered by R. V. Gwinn in the justice court here Thursday.

The woman was a citizen of Knox county and at the time of her death, and Judge Olive Lee, county judge of Knox county, authorized her burial here at the expense of that county, according to the evidence in the case. Suit was brought by the Merkle Undertaking company against Wichota and Knox counties, and Judge Gwinn held Knox Wichita and Knox counties, and Judge Gwinn held Knox county responsible for the debt.

Revival of Soul-Saving Religion Urged by Bishop in Address Here

Methodists Attack Horse Racing Bill Offered in Texas Legislature by Representative Avis

A description of the missionary work being done in Europe by the Southern Methodist church and a stirring plea for a revival of Godloving, soul-saving religion throughout the church featured the address of Bishop U. V. W. Darlington, bishop of Europe, before the missionary institute of the Wichita Falls district at the First Methodist church at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Humanity First

The speaker discussed the work of the Southern Methodist church organization in Czecho-Slovakia, including a brief review of the country's history, and descriptions of the various peoples and social classes which make up the population there. Missionary activity on the part of the Moravian preacher, said Bishop Darlington, inspired in John Wesley the religious enthusiasm which made him later founder of the Methodist church. The speaker also declared that ministers must again give their chief interest to what they can do for humanity, rather than what they can get.

Dr. J. W. Perry, secretary of the board of home missions, was the first speaker at the morning session which opened at 10 o'clock. He stressed additional missionary activity and renewed evangelism within the church.

A resolution presented by a committee composed of Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, Dr. Edward R. Barcus, and Dr. S. Stephen McKenney, local pastors, and adopted in full by the institute, contained drastic condemnation of the bill introduced in the present legislature by Representative Avis of this district which would legalize pari mutuel betting on horse racing, and called for sending copies of the resolution to this district's representation at Austin.

Oppose Bill

The resolution in full follows:

"Be it resolved by the members of the Missionary institute of the Wichita Falls district, assembled at the First Methodist church, South, of Wichita Falls, that we oppose the passage of the bill introduced into the legislature by Representative Avis of this district legalizing the pari mutuel system of betting on horse racing.

"We oppose the passage of this iniquitous measure because it is essentially productive of an immoral and dangerous practice.

"We condemn it because we believe that the law abiding, churchgoing people of this district are misrepresented by this proposal, that every teaching of the church and morality opposes such practices.

"Be it further resolved that we declare our unceasing opposition to this measure by all the means within our power; and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the representatives in the legislature from this district."

Ladies Serve Luncheon

Following the luncheon recess, Dr. R. F. Bryant, missionary secretary of the North Texas conference, addressed the institute. Bishop Darlington delivered his second address of the day, and was followed by Frank B. Wheeler, field representative of the North Texas conference for the Methodist hospital at Dallas, closing the institute.

Ladies of the missionary societies of the First Methodist church served luncheon at noon to about 125 visitors.

Mother and Widow of Oil Field Worker Make Claim

The wife and mother of Arthur E. Morgan, oil field worker who was killed in an 85-foot fall from a derrick in the field near Maud, Okla., in November, Thursday filed suit for $40,000 damages against J. G. Hammond, alleged employer of Mr. Morgan at the time of the accident.

The widow, Mrs. Opal Mae Morgan, claims damages in the sum of $25,000, and the mother, Mrs. Cret Morgan, asks for $15,000. The petition alleged that the employer was guilty of negligence, and that the derrick collapsed which the employe was at work.

WICHITA CLUB HOLDS MEETING

New Directors Elected At Annual Party

Members of the Wichita club entertained with their annual party and election of a board of directors Thursday evening in the club rooms when the affair was an "old clothes" party. Members of the receiving line wore masks and each guest upon entering was asked to don one.

Preceding the election of the board of directors J. H. Allison, president, gave the annual report of the club, after which C. C. McDonald and Bert King made political speeches for the election. Mr. King represented the black ticket and Mr. McDonald the red. The red ticket won and those elected to the board are as follows: Jack Barnard, Chester Wynne, J. T. Harrell, Pat H. Simmons, C. I. Francis, Carter McGregor, R. O. Harvey, John F. O'Donohoe, Arthur Rayzor and Dr. Q. B. Lee.

Directors carried over for the year include J. H. Allison, D. G. Gray, W. N. Bonner, Walter Campbell, and W. N. Alexander.

Immediately following the election guests were invited to the dining room where the table was a veritable bower of beauty. Huge roasts, chickens, turkeys and other delicious edible coated with sheet gelatine and highly decorated. Salads, relishes, olives and desserts with cider and coffee completed the menu.

After the dinner games of cards and dancing featured the evening's entertainment.

Fire Prevention Committees Meet

Monthly meetings of the various local fire prevention organizations will be held throughout the year for the constant coordination of their efforts in the suppression of fire losses, according to action taken Thursday morning when the first such meeting was held in the office of Fire Chief J. L. McClure.

Matters discussed at the meeting Thursday morning included the present building code and the need for amending it, 1928 fire loss, and police and firemen's closer cooperation during conflagrations.

A conference with the fire chief and city manager on the 1929 budget for the fire department was arranged, and a committee composed of George D. Fairtrace, city manager; James M. Williams and Chief J. L. McClure appointed to plan the enlargement and extension of the fire department relief fund.

Those who attended included Lester Jones, president of the safety council and chairman of the fire chief's cabinet; J. C. Ward and J. W. Lyle, of the cabinet; James M. Williams, Walter Robbins and O. Abernathy of the fire prevention committee of the safety council; George D. Fairtrace, city manager; Claude Foushee, electrical inspector; Thelbert Martin, city attorney; J. W. Chatham of the chamber of commerce; Chief McClure, Clyde Gold, assistant fire marshal, and other officials of the fire department.

Harrison Leaves For Capital on Radio Plea

Small Farm Like Aladdin's Lantern

The way to health, wealth, and love, life's three greatest ambitions, is found on the small farm, intensively developed, according to Charles Weeks, colonization expert, who addressed the members of the Rotary club in their regular weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Thursday noon.

Mr. Weeks announced that the model "little farm," work on which was begun last week, will be opened formally on Feb. 2. It is located just south of the graveled road leading from Call Field to the Westmoreland swimming pool, and comprises only two acres of ground. Thousands of people from all over the continent, Mr. Weeks said, will be brought here to view this model farm, which will be typical of those to be developed throughout the district as colonization proceeds.

George Keith Jr., was introduced by his father, George Keith Sr., as a "baby Rotarian," and received a Rotary emblem and a copy of the organization's code of ethics. Guests were introduced by George Gutzman.

INDICTMENT IN NOCONA DEATH

Carl Goodspeed Billed By Montague Jury

Special to The Record News.

MONTAGUE, Texas, Jan. 17.—An indictment charging murder was returned by the Montague county grand jury today against Carl Goodspeed in the fatal shooting of City Marshall A. R. Gooch at Nocona, Sunday afternoon, according to Lee Husband, sheriff of Montague county.

The Goodspeed case had been before the grand jury since it reconvened here Wednesday morning.

Gooch had entered the Goodspeed home Sunday afternoon, with a warrant authorizing him to search the residence for intoxicating liquors, according to statements made by Temple Yarbrough, county attorney, Sunday night after the shooting.

Goodspeed, himself, called the Nocona police who found Gooch dead in the residence.

WILL BALES TELLS OF KEASLER'S THREATS

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 17.—Will Bales took the stand in the district court here today in his trial for the murder of Alonzo Keasler, Donley county farmer.

The evidence in the case was completed today and Judge A. R. Fires' charges to the jury will be delivered at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Bales testified that Keasler had threatened and cursed him several times and had told him that the next time he put his cattle up that he would have to pay damages.

Bales said that he had been on the way to Keasler's farm on the day of the shooting to see about paying for damage done by his cattle when Keasler met him in a field near the house. Bales said that he and Keasler had an argument in which Keasler threatened him and then drew a gun on him.

WICHITAN HELD AFTER CRASH

Homicide Charge Follows Fatal Accident

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17 (AP)—Charges of second degree negligent homicide was filed today against J. M. Stovell, Wichita Falls, in connection with the death of Jack J. King, 27, fatally injured Wednesday night when struck by an automobile near here.

King, San Angelo oil man, died this morning. The charges were filed in justice court by Assistant District Attorney Morris and bond was fixed at $2,000.

King and a companion, P. L. Keller, also of San Angelo, were repairing a tire when they were struck by a passing car. Keeler received cuts and bruises.

Stovell appeared voluntarily at the district attorney's office.

STOVELL'S HOME IN OKLAHOMA CITY

J. M. Stovell is manager of the Skinner Brothers Belting company here. Thursday night he was said to be at Breckenridge.

Officers of the sheriff's department said they had received no complaint in connection with the fatal accident.

Though Mr. Stovell's headquarters are here, he makes his home in Oklahoma City.

Anti-American Entente Advocated by German

BERLIN, Jan. 17. (US)—A political and economic alliance of the nations of Europe against the United States was advocated today by Arnold Rechberg, noted German potash magnate, as the only way to settle the reparations and war debt questions.

Rechberg's plan for an alliance would include Germany, France and England as the principals in the entente. His suggestion followed the expression of like views in German industrial newspapers.

Million Ill as Flu Rages

Better Get Rid of That Tough Hang on Cough at Once—It's Dangerous Company

It takes more than ordinary sweet, syrupy cough mixtures to stop a stubborn cough that persists in hanging on.

For slight ordinary coughs almost any decent cough syrup will do, but if you have one of those tough ones that won't yield to common remedies and often keeps you awake at night then your one best bet is Bronchuline Emulsion.

Often one half bottle forces the most stubborn cough to yield and you are better almost before you know it.

There is no sugar, chloroform or dope in Bronchuline Emulsion; it's a wonderful medicine for people who are getting over a heavy cold or an attack of flu.

A New York nurse just couldn't stop coughing even after consulting specialists yet one half bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion did stop it—completely.

Ask Allison Drug Co. or any good dealer for a bottle—often three or four doses will stop an ordinary cough.—Adv.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
