The people of the Loraine school district are faced with the necessity of making improvements in the band, home economics and agriculture departments. It is a necessity first because the facilities now available are not up to standard and even if the State Board of Education had not recommended the improvements the people of the district can see the need for it. You have only to visit these departments to see that students could do much better work in a better building and better equipment to work with.

The improvements are a necessity because the State Board of Education has reported that the present facilities will not meet the standards set for these departments. Since the state furnishes a large portion of the money to pay operating expenses of the school such as teachers salaries, bus transportation, etc. it is up to the citizens of the school district to provide adequate buildings and equipment to be used in the education of our children.

The State Board of Education has not threatened the local school board with the loss of school operating money or the loss of accreditation but we all know that will be the next step unless the school district moves to remedy the situation.

The local school board has made the first move, that of ordering an election on February 5, for the purpose of issuing $90,000 in bonds and levying a tax rate of 20 cents on the hundred dollar valuation for their retirement.

The money derived from the sale of the bonds will be used to remove the old brick school building and the frame home economics cottage from the campus and erect a modern building to house the band, agriculture and home economics departments.

If we, the people of the local school district, fail to approve the issuance of the bonds and the levying of the tax to retire them we will be inviting disaster for our school. We can not afford to do that. Without a school property in Loraine and throughout the school district would lose value. In fact, without a school Loraine would soon lose everything.

Next Tuesday will be the day to vote. Be sure you vote. The election will be held in the Lions Club building with the polls opening at 8 a.m. and closing at 7 p.m.

Loraine Says No To Sweetwater Junior College Monday Night

A crowd of approximately 40 citizens of the Loraine School District met at the Lions Club building Monday night to hear the proposition of a junior college for Sweetwater and this area explained by young men from Sweetwater.

J. B. Cushing, president of the Loraine Lions Club and superintendent of Loraine schools, introduced George Thompson.

Mr. Thompson started the discussion by stating that the map of the proposed junior college district which included the Loraine School District was drawn by the State Education Agency. He said the agency presented the map to Sweetwater officials and asked them to do something with it. The agency believes the area needs a junior college, he said.

Temple Dickson was the next speaker and said he wants a junior college in the area to benefit his children and others who might not otherwise be able to go to college.

Jerome Williams presented the cost of operating the junior college with a full explanation of the tax necessary to support it. He said that even though the petition call for a maximum rate of 50 cents on the hundred dollars valuation he was of the opinion that the full amount would never be used. The tax rate as worked out would be approximately 20 cents on the hundred which would include cost of buildings after two years of operation in leased quarters. During the first two years the tax rate would be a little more than 12 cents.

Bill Norred was also present and spoke a few words in support of the college.

After the speakers had finished several questions were asked by members of the audience and answered by the speakers.

Following the discussions Mr. Williams told the audience that the petitions that had been circulated here had been withdrawn and assured the crowd that no more petitions would be circulated unless the people wanted to join in the junior college district. J. B. Cushing told him he thought he could speak the sentiments of the people of the district in a few words "We don't want it."

It was pointed out during the discussions that the Loraine school district has a problem of its own at the moment, that of building a new building to house three departments of the school that the state says are sub-standard. The district is faced with the necessity of providing the building or losing operating money and accreditation. One citizen pointed out that "we've got to save our own school and we feel the cost of doing that is all the district should obligate itself for at this time."

Business Men, Parents & Citizens Urge Support Bonds In Election Feb. 5

In order to replace the Agriculture, Band and Homemaking facilities which have been condemned by the State Department of Education, the Loraine School Board has called a bond election for February 5. Voters will be in the Loraine Lion's building and the polls will open at 8:00 a.m. and close at 7:00 p.m.

PROPOSITION NUMBER 1
For Maintenance Tax Against Maintenance Tax
PROPOSITION NUMBER 2
For the issuance of bonds and the levying of the tax in payment thereof
Against the issuance of bonds and the levying of the tax in payment thereof

To vote for the bonds, the voter should mark through the "A" statement in both propositions that are shown in the sample ballot above. A majority vote for the bonds would authorize an increase in the present school tax rate of $1.50 per hundred dollar valuation to $1.70 per hundred dollar valuation.

The increase of 20 cents would be used to repay the bonds. The bonds to be issued would be in the amount of $80,000, and they would be repaid over a period of twenty-five years with the 20 cent tax increase.

Failure to pass the bonds to replace the facilities which do not meet State standards would cause the Loraine School to lose operating funds provided by the state and to lose the school's accreditation which would lead to the loss of the Loraine High School.

Community leaders urge the voters to approve the bonds in order that good educational opportunities for our children may continue to be available in Loraine.

Read John 14:1-7
Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. (John 15:4.)

One day we started out in our automobile to attend a wedding in a small town sixty miles away. We eagerly anticipated a happy reunion with relatives and friends but we never reached our destination because of a loose part which prevented the gasoline from reaching the engine.

Disappointments in life result when our connection with Christ is lost. We find ourselves facing life's problems alone.

None of us is capable of handling his own life. With those of us who ask His help, Christ stands ready to share His abundant grace and power.

"Abide in me" are the words of Christ. It is left to us to lay hold of the strength that can be ours in him. We can do this through daily fellowship with Christ and regular worship in God's house.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee that we can depend upon Thee to guide us through life. Help us today to live in such close fellowship with Thee that our lives may show forth Thy love. This we ask in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven-Amen."

Thought For The Day: When we worship God, He gives us the strength we need to be victorious over life's difficulties.
Edyth Draper (Saskatchewan)

Why should the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc. borrow money at 2% interest? It's a fair question and it has a fair answer. When Lone Wolf was first organized, the founders of this electric system made a covenant with the federal government to provide area coverage...instead of serving only where it was convenient or profitable. That is why Lone Wolf averages only 2.4 members per mile of line.

Yet in spite of this handicap, the member owned Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc. offers a dependable, efficient...economical electric service while paying back principal and interest on its loans.

It took ingenuity and industry on the part of your rural neighbors to do the job even with 2% money but it has been a smashing success. Low cost loans and the integrity of the Lone Wolf members share in this great accomplishment.

THE MITCHELL COUNTY NEWS

By—Vern Sanford
In a few more months Texas will have a wonderful new fishing lake.

One of the reasons is that the Texas Game & Fish Commission just recently has poured thousands of large mouth bass into the new Twin Mountain Lake, west of San Angelo.

Growth rate of bass in West Texas waters is very rapid. This was established only last year when the season was reopened on Lake Sweetwater.

This lake had undergone a complete kill. Then it was restocked. Within something like a year those bass had grown to a catchable size. Now some real "keepers" are being taken from those waters.

Perhaps that is one of the reasons West Texas fishermen are looking forward to the time when the Twin Mountain project will start paying off big.

There are hundreds of fine fishermen in West Texas, and many of them live in and around San Angelo. However, they've had a hard time keeping up with their fishing water. But now it seems they have it made.

In the early days the Angelenos fished in one of the forks of the Concho River, when there was enough water.

Their first real good water came something like a half-century ago with the little Ben Ficklin dam.

Then, as San Angelo grew, the Nasworthy dam was built. It created one of the finest crappie lakes in Texas.

Finally San Angelo got tired of being constantly flooded from the North Concho. So, the Corps of Engineers was persuaded to build a dam across this stream. True, it was dry most of the time but it was a demon during flood time.

So it was that Concho Dam was built just north of San Angelo, barely out of the city limits. North Concho Lake also produced good fishing. In fact, it was so good it was picked for the 1962 State Bass tournament, and it paid off.

However, this lake is on the desert, so to speak, and is subject to roughness from the high winds that prevail in West Texas. For that reason it really hasn't had the popularity it actually deserves.

But floods persisted in the Angelo area. When rains fell in Western Tom Green and even in Trion county, floodwaters roiled down Spring Creek and the middle Concho and poured into Nasworthy.

It became evident that another reservoir was needed.

Two years ago engineering work was completed and evidence produced to show a dam was justified at the Twin Mountain site.

The dam now has been finished at a spot only 12 miles west of the San Angelo Courthouse, and rains are awaited to fill the lake.

It was built by the Bureau of Reclamation. All new lakes afford excellent fishing during their first few years, and no doubt this new San Angelo lake will live up to those traditions.

However, it has more to offer. Not only will it fill up with flood water, but it will be spring fed, too. Many springs along the Merton and Spring Creeks flow into the Conchos.

Meanwhile, development work is progressing on Lake Nasworthy. It will be a wonderful little constant level lake.

During recent months developers have been busy running channels from Nasworthy behind some of the lake cabins around it.

This creates a paradoxical situation because generally San Angelo is recognized as a part of that great arid portion of West Texas. Yet it will have the most modern lake in Texas with boat roads behind many lovely homes, just like Florida.

So the coming of the Twin Mountain dam will mean a great deal to those West Texas fishermen who have been going a long way for their outdoor recreation. And it will mean a great deal to San Angelo, too, in the way of flood protection and additional domestic water potentials.

LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

RELEASED BY THE TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

John C. White, Commissioner

GRAIN WAREHOUSE LAW REVISION

Texas' multi-million dollar grain storage industry is expected to receive some close study during the present session of the legislature in Austin.

Until 1953, the Texas farmer who stored his grain in a public warehouse had very little protection from unscrupulous operators that plague large industries. On the other side of the coin, legitimate warehousemen were exposed to dangers from manipulators of grain warehouse receipts.

A system of bonding and regular inspections of stored grain stock was inaugurated by the Texas Department of Agriculture 10 years ago. Since that time, and despite the Billie Sol Estes scandal of last year, no Texas farmer has suffered an unrecoverable loss of money from grain stolen or missing from storage.

This year, the Texas Grain Warehouse Law is up for study on two proposed revisions which should provide even better protection in coming seasons. Amendments have been requested concerning storage rates and higher bond requirements.

A uniform system of storage rates is a measure being sought by men in the industry. For many years, there was an acute shortage of storage bins for the bumper grain crops. Today, the situation is more competitive among warehousemen and the industry is being plagued by speculative undercutting, preferred fees, deferred payments and ruinous bonus systems.

Warehousemen, themselves, are being asked by the Texas Department of Agriculture to determine a standard rate guideline which can be administered by law. This will assure equal treatment and yet keep prices competitive for farmers and grain dealers alike.

The practice of requiring bonds by warehousemen as protection against grain losses is expected to be strengthened. The consensus is that present bond requirements are too low in view of the rapid growth of storage facilities in recent years. A bond acts like the gold reserve in Fort Knox which backs the nation's paper currency. Texas grain warehouse receipts, backed by bond, are acceptable in trade throughout the world.

Higher bond requirements puts more "reserve" behind the grain warehouse receipts.

Both measures—a standard rate guideline and stronger bonds—are a vital necessity for Texas as the largest grain producer in the nation.

Farm Facts

Nurse cows have a new competitor—the electronic "mother."

It's a feeder that blends water with a dry milk replacer, holds it at a temperature of 100 degrees, and dispenses it through a standard calf nipple. Not only is milk available around the clock, but a time delay feature prevents calves from gorging themselves.

Capacity is 16 calves per feeder. Antibiotics or other medicine can be fed automatically in the ration.

According to Harold Stover, agricultural engineer at Kansas State University, here's how it works:

The machine is connected to a water supply and source of electricity and dispenses milk replacer from a 20-pound hopper. A fan-like vibrator in a tank just below the hopper keeps the powder flowing uniformly into a plastic mixing bowl beneath the machine. At the same time, warm water from a small hot water tank flows into the mixing bowl.

When the water level

Calves now can be fed mechanically.

reaches a "feeler" bulb, the supply cuts off until the calf sucks the milk replacer through a nipple mounted at a low angle. This forces the calf to bend its neck, causing the formula to go into the proper stomach.

In the Loraine Community it is a well known fact that Coop. Gin No. 1 and Coop. Gin No. 2 are well equipped and efficiently operated to give farmers first class ginning service.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. My father, a veteran of World War II, died of a service-connected disability. My mother has remarried. Am I still eligible for educational and training benefits?

A. Yes, you are still considered a war orphan and are eligible provided you are within the age limits. See your nearest VA office.

Q. I am a Korean Conflict veteran and eventually I plan to buy a home through a GI loan. What is the final deadline for applying?

A. You have 10 years after your discharge, plus one year for every three months of active wartime service. The final deadline is: For World War II veterans, July 25, 1967, and for Korean Conflict veterans, January 31, 1975.

Q. I named my mother the beneficiary of my GI insurance. She is now dead. Will the VA pay the insurance to my wife in the event of my death?

A. You had better notify the VA to make your wife the beneficiary. With no named beneficiary, the VA may have to divide the insurance among your nearest heirs when you die.
