Immediate Tests Begin For Civil Rights Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights bill is the law of the land today and civil rights groups immediately began testing whether its sweeping provisions against discrimination can break generations of racial barriers in North and South.

Three hours after the House sent the legislation to the White House Thursday, President Johnson signed it with an appeal to all Americans to "join this effort to bring justice and hope to all our people."

From the South came indications the new law's constitutionality will be quickly challenged. Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson cautioned that he expects "some real trouble" when Negroes seek to desegregate public accommodations in that Deep South state.

BARELY DRY

Barely was the President's signature dry before civil rights organizations announced plans to see if the law opens to Negroes the doors of motels, restaurants, theaters that had been closed to them.

"Be ready to make a start—even though a modest one—by July 4th" declared instructions to Southern chapters of the Congress of Racial Equality for probing racial policies in places of public accommodations.

The swiftest test came in the North — in Kansas City. One minute after the legislation became law a CORE sit-in was launched when a young Negro couldn't get a haircut in a hotel barbershop. Down in the South, a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said integrated groups were served for the first time in at least seven Albany, Ga., establishments Thursday night.

COMPLIANCE

Officials charged with enforcing the law are hoping for widespread voluntary compliance. But the government is preparing for courtroom battles and the Justice Department soon will ask Congress for more money to add more lawyers to its civil rights division.

In his address on signing the bill, broadcast by radio and television, the President stressed that the law first relies on voluntary compliance to achieve its goal of striking down racial barriers in employment, schools, voting, public accommodations

Sit-In For Service

Members of the Congress of Racial Equality, in Kansas City for a national convention, crowded into the Hotel Muehlbach barbershop just after word was received of President Johnson's signing the civil rights bill. One member of the organization was refused service and the sit-in resulted. The group disbanded when the hotel management said that it would try to obtain barbers who would cut the Negroes' hair. (AP WIREPHOTO) and federally aided programs. The White House ceremony—attended by civil rights leaders and the Republican and Democratic leaders who steered the bill on its long, stormy passage through Congress — climaxed more than a year of effort begun by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Johnson said the denial of equal rights and equal treatment to Americans because of the color of their skin can no longer continue.

"Our Constitution, the foundation of our republic, forbids it," he said. "The principles of our freedom forbid it. Morality forbids it. And the law I will sign tonight forbids it."

Even as the President spoke, Gov. Johnson was suggesting that Mississippi operators of public accommodations should defy the law so its constitutionality can be tested.

Asked at a news conference whether he thought restaurant and hotel owners and the like should comply with the new law, the governor said: "I don't think they should. I think it should be tested in the courts. A great many people feel it is unconstitutional."

In other parts of the South, however, businessmen and community leaders expressed a willingness to go along with the new law, even if they don't like it. Directors of the Georgia Restaurant Association, which fought the bill, urged its members to comply, saying "we have no alternative."

In his address President Johnson said the purpose of the law is simple.

"It does not restrict the freedom of any American, so long as he respects the rights of others," he said. "It does not give special treatment to any citizen."

"It does say the only limit to a man's hope for happiness, and for the future of his children, shall be his own ability."

The President announced he is nominating Leroy Collins, former governor of Florida, to direct the community relations service established by the law and that he is appointing an advisory committee to assist him. Collins is stepping out as president of the National Association of Broadcasters to take the post.

The final act in the congressional civil rights drama came only three hours earlier when the House voted, 289 to 126, to accept the Senate's amendments.

Spectators packed in the galleries, some even sitting on the stairs, clapped and cheered speakers on both sides, in violation of the House rules. But with the members busily clapping and cheering their own spokesmen, no effort was made to quiet the crowd.

In at least two cities, some did not consider the federal law sufficient and called for city ordinances to extend it.

Mrs. Volma Overton, wife of the Austin NAACP chapter president, said, "The NAACP believes that Austin needs an ordinance to cover the many areas not covered by this bill and will continue to seek it (the ordinance) passage."

Integration leaders have been demonstrating before the city council for some time.

BRIEFING

Austin Mayor Lester Palmer called for a briefing on the new federal law. He asked this before appointing six members to the Austin Human Relations Commission. The commission was established a month ago, but six of the seven members resigned when there was public criticism of the need of such a body.

At Corpus Christi, former Mayor Ben F. McDonald, chairman of the city Human Relations Committee, said signing of the federal bill called for prompt passage of a local civil rights ordinance. He said this would permit the city to deal with the problem rather than relying on federal authorities.

Most Corpus Christi and Austin facilities have been integrated for some time, as they have been in many Texas areas, particularly in the larger cities and in the western portions of the state.

NEA Slates Climax Vote On Integration

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Five days of backstage maneuvering end today as the National Education Association takes a show-down vote on desegregation.

The 6,172 official delegates will be asked to vote on a motion that all-white teacher associations in 11 Southern states be given just two years in which to get well under way on integration with Negro associations.

AMENDMENT

The motion, as an amendment to a leadership-sponsored resolution, is expected to be defeated — but only after a verbal battle which may extend into the evening hours on this convention-ending day.

The lengthy debate here has not been between segregationists on one hand and civil rights proponents on the other. Most of the delegates, including many white teachers from the South, believe that desegregation of the state and local affiliates is desirable and inevitable.

The debate has been on how this can best be brought about.

DEADLINE

The "action now" group says, in effect, that the South won't move without the pressure of a deadline. Many of their opponents say an ultimatum will only freeze attitudes and possibly force thousands of NEA members to leave the organization.

Backers of the amendment softened their original position as the vote neared.

Instead of automatic expulsion from the NEA, the amendment was changed to read: "the executive committee shall have discretionary powers to take whatever steps are necessary."

Los Angeles Fire Rages

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Seven hundred men working with shovels, bulldozers and aircraft continued their attempt to contain a massive brush fire in rugged terrain north of Los Angeles today.

The fire, the season's first major blaze, has burned over 5,300 acres. It started Thursday. Officials said it still was racing out of control along a one-mile front on the north face of Bee Canyon in Angeles National Forest.

Forecasters predicted another day of near 100-degree weather and low humidity to hamper firefighting. High winds swept flames Thursday, but were expected to stay down to 15 miles an hour today.

Two helicopters hovered over the fire, about 50 miles north of Los Angeles, directing firemen. Five aerial tankers began dropping fire-retarding borate solution on hot spots at daybreak.

Although no homes are in the path of the fire, officials say a few summer cabins are on its western edge in San Francisco Canyon. There are no major timber stands in the area.

Traffic Toll Opens Light For Holiday

Millions Taking To Hot Highways

Communists Attack Viet Fortifications

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic death toll held relatively light today in the early part of the Fourth of July weekend, although Americans took to the highways by the millions for holiday jaunts.

The fatality count was 36 since 6 p.m., local time, Thursday.

One smashup killed six persons early in the three-day recreation period near Spearfish, S.D. Four members of a Portland, Ore., family and two South Dakota residents died in a head-on collision Thursday night on U.S. 85.

The National Safety Council estimated that more than 83 million motor vehicles will travel 8.4 billion miles during the three-day observance of the holiday. This is 300 million miles over the total travel during a nonholiday period of the same length.

Between 450 and 550 persons may lose their lives in traffic accidents during the period that started at 6 p.m. local time and will end at midnight Sunday, the council estimated.

The Associated Press made a survey during a recent three-day nonholiday period to establish a basis for comparison with the present holiday. There were 420 traffic deaths during the nonholiday weekend, 16 in boating mishaps and 104 by drowning.

Traffic deaths have averaged about 143 a day during the first five months this year, including deaths that occurred days or weeks after the accidents. The holiday tabulation includes deaths only during the holiday period.

Traffic took five lives in Texas as Thursday night and early Friday before the long Fourth of July holiday hardly was under way.

Latest reported violent deaths included:

Dennis Sherrer of Crestwood, Mo., was killed early Friday in a car-truck collision 25 miles west of Texarkana. Three passengers in the Sherrer car suffered injuries. The truck driver, Donald Heckerman, Dallas, was not injured.

Clyde Raymond Medlin of White Oak stopped his automobile in the middle of Interstate 20 near Terrell, highway patrolmen said, and was killed when the vehicle was struck by a truck, driven by David Wayne Wilson of Haleyville, Ala. The accident occurred in darkness early Friday.

Mrs. Fannie Ware, 71, was killed late Thursday when her car was struck by a freight train near Sabinal.

Lawrence A. Kaiser, 28, was killed Friday when his tractor-trailer ran off the road and overturned near Beeville. Investigators said he apparently went to sleep at the wheel.

James Livingston, 21, of Skidmore was another traffic victim Thursday night.

Hot Weather Due Saturday

The Weather Bureau, probably inspired by wistful thinking more than by meteorological conditions, predicted possible scattered thundershowers for the area on Independence Day. Then the bureau added, "otherwise continued hot."

Indications are that the holiday, to be generally observed in Big Spring, will be a hot, partly cloudy day and if there are any thundershowers, they will probably be late in the afternoon and—as promised—scattered.

Streets were teeming with traffic Friday as shoppers got in their last minute licks before the Saturday close-down.

About the only traditional observation of the day, other than for the close down of offices and businesses and the display of the flag, will be at Webb AFB. As has been the custom for several years, a fireworks display will be offered at 8:30 p.m. at the base. The display will continue for approximately an hour and Base Explosive Ordnance disposal personnel is in charge of the show.

The custom of a fireworks display in the Big Spring City Park, formerly staged by the community, has been abandoned.

All city and county offices, as well as most business establishments, will be closed for the holiday. Firemen, police and other law enforcement officers will be working in larger numbers, however, in an effort to slow traffic and prevent traffic tragedies.

Difficulties Foreseen For Texas Integration

By The Associated Press

Integration leaders in Texas hailed the federal civil rights law Friday as a great step forward for their program. But some other Texans saw difficulties ahead.

The federal civil rights bill was signed into law Thursday night by President Lyndon B. Johnson shortly before he left for his Texas ranch.

Clarence A. Laws, regional secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), said in Dallas that the law is "one of the greatest human documents in history."

Laws said Johnson's appeal to the public to conform to the bill "should go far toward giving genuine meaning to this historic legislation."

EMANCIPATION

The Rev. A. A. McCardell, president of the Houston NAACP chapter, called the law "a second emancipation proclamation." He called for prayer and thanksgiving at 8 p.m. at a church service.

However, Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said, "I have no doubt that passage of the civil rights bill is going to create many more problems. We are going to have unrest."

Garrison told a budget hearing that the department is equal to the task of helping local authorities in case of disturbances and added a hope that, "We will never have to be supplanted by the military."

At Houston for an attorneys' meeting, Federal Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson declared the law "an infringement on the state courts" and will "tend to reduce the status of state courts and further centralize the government in Washington." He made several rulings against immediate school integration but was overruled by the Supreme Court.

LBJ Relaxes After Signing

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The master of the LBJ Ranch plans little more than to relax and inspect his acres and livestock today.

After signing the civil rights bill with a plea to Americans to "close the springs of racial hate," President Johnson flew from Washington to his Texas home.

He had no fixed schedule for his stay, but aides said he planned to keep tabs on domestic and international affairs by telephone to key advisers in Washington.

The length of the President's visit to his ranch has not been announced, but he is expected to be back in the White House by early next week.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter Lynda Bird, 20, accompanied the President to Texas. Luci Baines, who turned 17 Thursday, remained in Washington.

As he did on his vote-woofing fund-raising trip to Michigan and Minnesota last weekend, Johnson used a 10-seat Jetstar for his trip from Washington instead of the big presidential jet transport.

Fire Sweeps Building

Firemen had to quell flames in a storage room-garage behind 588 Lancaster at noon today before they could remove two cars inside the building. D. C. Hedges is owner of the vehicles, and he is at camp with the local National Guard Unit. His wife and four children were alone in the den of the house when the fire occurred. A neighbor, J. L. Rankin, called firemen. Damage to the contents of the building was total.

De Gaulle Woos Germany Again

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle came to West Germany's capital today to try again to line up Chancellor Ludwig Erhard behind de Gaulle's policy of independence from the United States and Britain in world affairs.

A high West German official said no sensational results were likely.

De Gaulle brought most of his Cabinet with him—seven ministers — for two days of conferences. Regular meetings of this kind are held every six months under the Treaty of Friendship and Cooperation signed by de Gaulle and former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in January, 1963.

Erhard also had some things he would like to accomplish. West German sources said he wanted to talk about three main subjects:

1. Strengthening his position for any dealings with the Communists. Though prospects for reunification of Germany are remote, Erhard wants any support from France he can get.

2. Providing some political underpinning for the European Common Market. De Gaulle is expected to listen sympathetically only by providing Erhard proposes nothing that includes Britain or involves yielding any French national power to a supranational body.

3. Getting French cooperation for talks with the United States and other major trading countries in the "Kennedy Round" of negotiations to break down barriers to international trade. West Germany is particularly eager to cut tariffs on industrial goods.

DECLARATION NOT SIGNED UNTIL AUG. 2

Independence Date Of July 4th Hits Happy Historical Medium

By SAM BLACKBURN

It is generally known that many of the more widely observed religious holidays have been established on their particular days by custom, rather than because the events they commemorate actually transpired on those dates.

It is not so well known that this nation's only official national holiday, observed in all states and territories, is also a date determined more or less by striking a happy medium rather than pinpointing any one particular date.

Ask the average citizen why we celebrate July 4 and he will say we are commemorating the date the Declaration of Independence was signed. This is not the case.

Real Date

If we celebrated the date the declaration was really signed, our Independence Day would not be noted for another month.

The patriots who laid the Declaration of Independence before the peoples of the 13 original states attached their names to the immortal document, not on July 4, but on Aug. 2.

And the signing itself was only the formal finale to a prolonged interval in which the colonists gradually urged themselves forward to the mental point where they would make the final break from the mother country.

The Declaration of Independence was not a spontaneous development—it was a final blossoming of an idea which had been working its way over the colonies for several years. Probably it solidified into an action on May 15, 1776.

On that date a convention in Virginia adopted a resolution instructing its delegates in Congress to "propose to that body to declare these United Colonies to be free and independent states."

Resolution

In response to this motion, on June 7 Richard Henry Lee rose from his seat in the session in Philadelphia and moved the adoption of just such a resolution. Sam Adams of Boston was prompt to second the motion. The proposal was debated for several days but the debate was listless and no action was taken.

Lee waited until July 1. He then called up his resolution again and on July 2, the delegates approved its adoption.

On July 4 — our big holiday — the declaration was adopted. A committee composed of Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert B. Livingston had been appointed to draft the wording of the formal resolution. It is generally believed Jefferson wrote the declaration—in reality, Jefferson, an ardent believer in freedom, set down on paper sentiments and arguments which had been echoing up and down the Atlantic coast for several years.

John Hancock

This resolution, laid before the delegates, was adopted and authenticated by the signature of the President, John Hancock, and the secretary, Charles Thompson. Members present were asked to sign it. Not all members were in attendance. "Mr. Dickinson," one of the Pennsylvania delegates who was opposed to the resolution, refused to sign the resolution and according to Jefferson, never did sign it.

This original draft of the immortal document has long since disappeared. A copy of the resolution, inscribed on parchment, was ordered by the Congress.

It is this copy which we still so carefully preserve in Washington.

If it had not been for a courageous and thoughtful woman, we would not have that. On Aug. 24, 1814, the British army invaded Washington. General Cockburn ordered the Capitol, the Library of Congress and other edifices burned.

Dolly Madison, wife of the President, was careful to save two precious mementoes of American history—the Declaration of Independence and the portrait of Washington by Stuart.

Signature

The specially prepared copy was laid before the delegates for signing Aug. 2, 1776. John Hancock, the President, once again wrote his famous signature at the top of the list. The other delegates stepped forward and attached their own names.

Those in Philadelphia on July 4, of course, knew the momentous and dangerous trend of debate in the Congress. And most of the people in the city felt that the time was at hand to make a break from England.

Word got around that the Congress was to vote on the Virginia resolution July 4. There was a huge crowd gathered in front of the Carpenter's Hall. The doors of the deliberation chamber were locked.

At 2 p.m. a small boy raced out of the building. He was yelling, "Ring! Ring!"

An old man who had been waiting with hands on the bell rope began tolling what we now call the "liberty bell." The throng of Philadelphians cheered.

Two days later a copy of the resolution was published in the Pennsylvania Evening Post. On July 8, John Nixon read the declaration to a large number of Philadelphia citizens gathered in the State House yard.

"It was a warm and sunshine morning," an eyewitness wrote. "The crowd gave three huzzahs."

To Troops

On July 9, George Washington, general of the army, had the declaration read to the troops under his command. He also set up the ceremony for its observation each year thereafter as long as he commanded the forces—"a salute of 13 guns, double allowances of grog and freedom for all men held in the guard house." It was so observed throughout the years. Washington was commander in chief of the army.

Word of the declaration was dispatched by fast couriers over the rough roads and dim trails to all of the 13 colonies.

It was probably September or later before the settlers in the more remote areas heard the big news. And it is probable that celebrations developed on a more or less spontaneous level in each little settlement and village as the school teacher, preacher or lawyer of the community read the stirring words of the declaration.

So it may be a little difficult to say exactly when the declaration became legally operative, but it is not difficult to justify wholeheartedly its celebration.

And July 4 is a perfectly good date on which to observe the day.

More Highway Patrolmen Essential, Says Garrison

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' traffic death rate is climbing because there are too few highway patrolmen to keep watch on the state's roads, the director of the Department of Public Safety says.

Director Homer Garrison Jr. told budget examiners Thursday he hopes the next legislature will provide funds to raise salaries and boost the strength of the patrol by 200 men.

The 926 highway patrolmen currently authorized cannot give the necessary traffic surveillance, even with their 54-hour work week, Garrison said. Each unit has about 170 miles of highway to patrol, he said.

VISIBLE CONTROL
"There is a complete lack of control," Garrison said. "You've got to have visible control. If a man sees a highway patrolman, he can well think he's not going to see another for a long, long way."

The scarcity of patrolmen is a direct cause for the rise in the death rate of Texas highways, he said.

Garrison's budget proposal calls for a raise in pay for patrolmen from the present $453 to $500 a month.

The budget request calls for spending of $19.9 million in the year beginning Sept. 1, 1965, and $21.2 million the following fiscal year.

Garrison predicted Texas is likely to have several years of racial unrest.

MORE PROBLEMS
"I have no doubt that passage of the civil rights bill is going to create many more problems. We are going to have unrest," he said. Garrison said the department is equal to the task if called in to help local authorities cope with racial disturbances, and voiced the hope that "we will never have to be supplanted by the military."

The assassination of President Kennedy caused the department to increase security for Gov. John Connally, who was seriously wounded in the same shooting, Garrison said.

"After the assassination, we became very much concerned, because there are potentially many people who might harm an official, he said.

Also, the succession of Lyndon Johnson to the presidency has placed a greater security burden on the department.

"We use a tremendous amount of manpower whenever he is in," with highway patrolmen cooperating with the Secret

Says Press, Lawyers Must Work Jointly On Coverage

HOUSTON (AP) — A meeting of the resolutions committee featured the third day of the four-day State Bar of Texas convention today.

The committee will determine resolutions to be offered to the general assembly Saturday.

Delegates to the State Junior Bar of Texas Thursday heard Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, say that newspapers, television and the bar are trying to solve the problem of rights of freedom to know and to a fair and public trial.

He said he knew of no case where innocent defendants "have been railroaded to jail by television or newspaper publicity."

TOO LITTLE

"Certainly, I would argue that in general there is more danger to justice from too little press coverage than from too much," he said.

"We must not, in seeking identical objectives, allow ourselves to become opponents. We both have an important burden to shoulder — a constitutional guarantee to maintain a bill of rights directed at individual freedom, liberty and justice. If we fail in responsibility, we may lose those privileges."

U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough called for stronger wire tapping laws in an evening speech to the National Association of Criminal Attorneys.

Here's why you should choose a TSO Doctor of Optometry to prescribe and fit your Contact Lenses.

If you are considering CONTACT LENSES, undoubtedly, you would like to know the factors which contribute most toward providing maximum wearing comfort with the greatest amount of visual efficiency.

First, there is the experience and proficiency of the practitioner who examines your eyes, measures the curvature and diameter of the cornea (front of the eyes), and interprets and specifies the ophthalmic prescription and dimensions for your contact lenses.

Then, there is the skill and precision with which your contact lenses are made in accordance with the Doctor's prescription and specifications. There is the design of the lens, and then the care taken in assuring accuracy and perfection of processing in the laboratory, to produce the finest . . . the ultimate in contact lenses.

Considering these requirements, here's why YOU SHOULD

CHOOSE A TSO DOCTOR OF OPTOMETRY TO PRESCRIBE AND FIT YOUR CONTACT LENSES:

In the past fifteen years, TSO Doctors of Optometry have fitted over 40,000 patients with contact lenses, a vast experience which results in precision and skill in the interpretation of examination findings . . . assures you of the correct optical and physical elements in your prescription specifications. These are factors which often determine the successful wearing of contact lenses.

In the laboratory, again the experience of producing many thousands of contact lenses has resulted in important improvements in design and in the processing and finishing techniques used. TSO Contact Lenses, with a multi-curve design and highly polished edge bevel, are produced under strict, rigid inspection at every processing stage. Only the very finest grade, cured optical plastic is used.

*Average adaptation time for all-day wearing: 10 to 14 days.

do the world's friendliest people go to church?

Maybe we should have asked, "Do the world's nicest people go to church?" or "Is going to church a happy experience?"

The answer to all three questions is yes. The Christian philosophy is a time-tested philosophy of love and peace — and good will. That's why the Christian is a hospitable person. The follower of Christ knows the satisfaction of his teachings of brotherhood.

If you do not have a "home" church or if you have not examined the Christian life and its common-sense standards of morality — if you have yet to find the tranquility it affords — we cordially invite you to our services this Sunday.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠.
East obtained a cue from the bidding which enabled him to hoodwink South and lure the latter to his own destruction in today's hand. When South received a constructive raise from his partner after his one spade overcall, he had every intention of getting to game, as is evidenced by his subsequent bidding. The recommended procedure, then, would have been to proceed directly to four spades. His decision to show his hearts first was based, perhaps, on a desire to reach the safest contract. However, in so doing, he paved the way for his own downfall.

West opened the deuce of clubs and, when East's king dropped the queen from declarer's hand, it appeared that there were no more tricks to be garnered from that source. Prospects for the defense were quite gloomy in fact, and desperate measures were in order. South's heart bid had indicated at least four and perhaps five card length in that suit which meant that West did not have very many. East saw a ray of hope, provided he could deceive the declarer regarding which defender was short in hearts.

At trick two East returned the six of hearts. South rose with the ace and led a trump. East was in with the ace and he completed his sabotage by playing back the trey of hearts. From South's point of view, his opponent apparently had a doubleton in which case it would be fatal to finesse, for West might win with the queen and then give his partner a ruff.

Declarer played the king of hearts and, to his utter surprise, it was West who was short in the suit. The latter ruffed the trick and got out with a club. South still had to lose to the queen of hearts which resulted in a setback on the deal.

Oil Import Move Ires Independents

WASHINGTON (AP) — "What can we do now?" independent oil producers, aroused by a wider opening of the import gates, are asking.

The Interior Department's decision to let in more oil imports in the last half of this year has created "a groundswell of disbelief and resentment" among independent producers, in the words of Minor S. Jameson Jr., executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"Having lost a battle, producers are now ready to go to war," Jameson said.

"Producers who already were hurt and deeply concerned by deteriorating conditions in the industry are now fearful and aroused. They feel they have been let down by their government."

As for what they can do now, Jameson said some course of corrective action must be found that will produce immediate results and "we are considering a number of avenues to accomplish that."

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall announced June 25 an increase of 70,000 barrels a day in the import quotas, effective July 1. The Interior Department administers the government's program for control of oil imports, established in 1959.

Jameson said a sound case was made by domestic producers for substantial reductions in imports and "this case was rejected and instead total imports were increased."

"Imports are clearly excessive by any yardstick which could be applied and the domestic industry is more determined than ever to seek and obtain corrective action."

The long-range struggle for a sound import program for the future is one thing, he said, but that goal has been temporarily obscured by the government's action.

"Right now," Jameson said, "the great need is for emergency action to relieve the critical oversupply conditions that are now swamping domestic producers."

Club Wins Third Place

Big Spring Coin Club's observation of National Coin Week this spring has been classified as the third most effective of all clubs in the United States. The club won the same honor in 1963.

This year, the members put forth what they felt was even greater efforts than in 1963 striving to place higher in the nation. However, although some of the members were slightly disappointed at winding up third again, it has been pointed out there are many more clubs operating this year and a larger number of competing organizations trying for the top honors.

"We are in Class A," Victor Barlow, a leader in the activities here, said. "This includes all clubs with over 100 members. We were in competition, therefore, with many organizations much larger and older than our own. We were the only Texas club and we were the youngest club in the nation to win a top post. We believe that with the knowledge we have picked up and with the success we have had, we will make an even better showing in 1965."

A trophy commemorating the club's achievement will be presented at the 73rd Annual Convention of the American Numismatic Convention to be in Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 17-22. Members of the Big Spring Club will be on hand to accept the trophy. The club's scrapbooks and other displays which won them the nod of the judges for coin week observation will be on display at Cleveland.

Barlow, speaking for the club, voiced the appreciation of the organization to the radio stations, the TV station, the newspaper and the public at large for assistance in its observation of coin week.

Sky Divers Set For C-City Jumps

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Sky divers from Odessa will show their skills before those gathered for Colorado City's annual Fly-in breakfast Saturday. The show will be held at the City-County Airstrip three miles east of Colorado City, just north of US 80.

The fly-in breakfast, sponsored by the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee and the Colorado City Flying Club and Flying Service, will be free to all persons arriving by air. Frank Derogibus, airport manager, said. Everyone else is invited, but the breakfast, served from 7 to 10 a.m., will be 75 cents for non-flyers.

The four Odessa sky divers will jump from 10,000 feet at 10 a.m. They will do typical maneuvers down to 2,500 feet before opening their parachutes.

Pilots are expected to fly in from over the West Texas and New Mexico area.

CHRIST'S UNCHANGEABLE PLAN FOR HIS CHURCH

THE SAME IN NAME

Is there anything to a name? Many, including Shakespeare, have dismissed the importance of names.

The Bible, however, claims there is something to a name if it is divine in origin and has been given by God to His people. Human-names cannot be substituted for divine names if God is to be glorified in a name.

God — through Christ and the Holy Spirit-led apostles — provided the name to be worn by His children. Hear the language of the Scriptures:

"And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch" (Acts 11:26).

"Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian" (Acts 26:28).

"Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf (in this name)" (1 Peter 4:16).

Followers of Christ in the first century as individuals, were given the divinely approved name of Christians, which appropriately gives honor to Christ. (See Colossians 1:18; 3:17)

The name given to the church is equally important. Christ's unchangeable plan for His church requires that all identifying characteristics of the church remain constant in every century. The name of the church must be exactly the same in the 20th century as in the 1st century.

In one sense, however, the church does not have a single name or title. There are many scriptural designations of the church. Christ was the builder of His church (Matthew 16:18); Christ owns the church, having "purchased" it with His own blood (Acts 20:28).

Thus, we read in the New Testament of "churches of Christ" (Romans 16:16). Other scriptural designations are: "church of God" (1 Corinthians 1:2); "body" of Christ (Ephesians 1:23; 5:23); "house" of God (Hebrews 3:6); "church of the firstborn" (Hebrews 12:23); "kingdom" (Hebrews 12:28); "temple of God" (1 Corinthians 3:16); and many others.

Any of these scriptural descriptions may be used by Christ's church today. Names, however, which give honor to men, to human organizations, to systems of religious government, or even to religious ordinances should be discarded in favor of names found in the Holy Scriptures. Let us call Bible things by Bible names. Let us restore Christ's church in its divinely approved name.

A Devotional For The Day

He that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes; and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go. (John 11:44.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to loose ourselves from those thoughts and ideas that would hinder us from receiving Thy blessings and living Christlike lives. Grant us release that we may lay claim to the eternal life Jesus promised. We ask in His name. Amen.

Take Time To Ponder

City commissioners have received the job classification and pay report from a company experienced in the field.

The immediate reaction in some quarters was to complain that the pay recommendations were not adequate in many instances.

They may not be; they may also be fairly well in line with general practice and with services rendered.

The commission, of course, is under no obligation to accept the report in whole or in part. It has purchased an advisory service, and it can take or leave the suggested outlines and scales. The situation, however, is comparable to going to your doctor or lawyer.

There is no element of time involvement in the matter, either, and the commission acted wisely in asking for more comparative information to illuminate further consideration.

Department heads cannot be faulted for looking out after their personnel, nor can the commission and administration be faulted for looking out for the taxpayer.

The problem at this stage is not to cry "wolf" until there has been adequate time to digest the report in its entirety as well as to examine it in the light of our own situation, the local and area competitive picture, and the resources available. Part of the problem, too, is not to be totally concerned with suggested pay scales to the exclusion of the equally important job classifications.

True Figures On Insurance

Concern has been expressed in these columns for the poor guy who pays the freight in what is apparently a continuous upward spiral on automobile insurance rates in Texas. The same can be applicable to other types of insurance.

Now comes a communication (published in The Herald Thursday) on the matter from Mark Wentz, local insurance man. Mr. Wentz can speak with some authority, since a few years ago he served with distinction as a member of the Texas Insurance Commission. He was known then as a spokesman for the buyer of insurance, and may not have pleased the "powers" because of this.

Mr. Wentz calls for a simple procedure. For all insurance companies to make public the actual dollars and cents received in premiums from Texas policy holders, and the money paid out to claimants. He specifies the amount actually paid to claimants, and not that paid to adjusters, attorneys, etc., since these items properly are part of regular expense.

"I predict," wrote Mr. Wentz, "that if and when such figures are made public an aroused public will demand a complete overhaul of the methods used in fixing insurance rates in Texas."

His suggestion seems to be sound, and so fundamental a policy for the State Board of Insurance, that one can wonder why it hasn't been standard all along.

Why shouldn't premium receipts and claims paid be required by the Board and made public? If rates are fair, the publication of such figures would justify them. If they are not, adjustments are in order. As a matter of protecting the public's rights, the Board could well take into consideration Mr. Wentz' suggestion.

Who's Impulsive?

WASHINGTON—"Impulsive" seems to have become a popular word in the political vocabulary of the hour. Maybe it will even provide an issue in the campaign.

Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania uses the word in describing Senator Goldwater's alleged lack of qualification for the presidency. Henry (Abbot) Lodge, just returned from serving as ambassador to Viet Nam in order to campaign for the Pennsylvania governor, promptly adopts the word as applying to the Arizona senator. So perhaps it is time to make an exhaustive analysis, if not a "sophisticated" study, of just what the word means historically as well as in the field of political debate.

IT WAS JUST a short span of years ago, in the summer of 1950, that an important decision confronted a Democratic President, Harry Truman. The Communist armies had crossed the 38th parallel from North Korea to invade the territory of South Korea. Within 48 hours after the Communist invasion, the President—without waiting for the U. N. to organize an international army and without asking Congress to authorize the employment of our military forces—had ordered U. S. sea and air forces into action against the invaders. Was this "impulsive"?

IT WAS UNDER a Republican President, Dwight Eisenhower, in the autumn of 1957, that trouble developed in Little Rock, Ark., where a federal court had ordered a public school to desegregate. The state's National Guard, sent by the governor to preserve order at the high school, was withdrawn on orders from the court, and there was some disorder near the school as the Negro students entered. But in the course of a few hours that evening the advisers around the President became panicky and urged that federal troops be ordered to the scene. He agreed and issued a proclamation threatening the use of federal forces, and they took charge the next morning even though the violence had subsided and before the local populace or police had been given an opportunity to show compliance with the warning proclamation. Was this "impulsive"?

IT WAS UNDER another Democratic President, John F. Kennedy, in April 1961, that Cuban exiles undertook an invasion of their homeland. The United States government had worked with the exiled Cubans for several months to plan and implement the operation and to give clandestine help. Air support was expected as a natural military maneuver essential to the success of the project. American naval forces were standing by when the Cuban exiles landed at the Bay of Pigs. But the President's advisers—including Adlai Stevenson, American ambassador to the United Nations—had persuaded Mr. Kennedy to cancel an airstrike by the Cuban exiles designed to knock out Castro's air force, and to forbid U. S. planes to be used at any time, since this might create an unfavorable impression in the United Nations.

IT IS REPORTED that Mr. Kennedy later changed his mind again and told the Cubans they could make the airstrike and also agreed to allow U. S. planes to provide desperately needed air cover, but it was all too late.

The expedition failed, and thus the United States lost an opportunity to get rid of the Castro problem. Can the President's action in suddenly overriding his military advisers be called "impulsive"?

FORMER AMBASSADOR Lodge said this week that a President must not only refrain from "impulsiveness," but must be "prudent." There comes to mind the action of Senator Goldwater who had for several months known that an emotional wave of public opinion was pushing the "civil rights" bill to passage by Congress. But Mr. Goldwater carefully studied past decisions of the Supreme Court and concluded that the measure as drawn was a violation of the Constitution, which, as a senator, he has taken an oath to support. So he decided to vote against the bill.

CERTAINLY IT cannot be charged that Mr. Goldwater was "impulsive," but may it be said that he was "imprudent" by his vote? The answer is not immediately available, as the political dictionary of the year has not gone to press as yet. For what is politically "prudent" in 1964 will not be established until after the presidential election has taken place in November. (Copyright, 1964, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

GOP Scrambles While Johnson Builds Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—While

Republicans scramble around, seeking issues and tormenting themselves in their fight over a nominee, President Johnson is quietly building a record to wrap around their necks.

He isn't saying much about it now and probably won't say a word until after the Democratic convention nominates him late in August and the presidential campaign begins.

Then when the Republicans begin heckling him with charges of inadequacies and deficiencies he can hit them with his record. By then it should be very good, at least on domestic legislation

THE LATEST part of the record was added Thursday night as he signed the new civil rights law, the strongest in almost a century.

The Republicans, as he said, voted for it overwhelmingly, too. But the passage of this strong measure is one more example of how Congress has responded to his requests to give him what he wants as he wants it.

The biggest previous example was the $11.5-billion tax-cut bill passed earlier this year. It was the biggest tax cut in history. There have been some other examples.

And there are more to come.

Since he has no opposition for the Democratic nomination he can spend his time working in the presidency and on Congress until next month's convention in Atlantic City.

THIS IS AN advantage the Republican nominee can't enjoy, whoever he turns out to be. He won't have a White House record to point to and he and his party will have to think up fault to find as they go along.

In person or on the telephone, Johnson, who was in Congress 23 years himself, is a master at twisting the arms and bending the ears of the members of House and Senate to get what he wants. Those around him say he never stops.

What he wants is the maximum legislation, which will require Congress to come back after the Republican convention and work perhaps right up to the time the Democratic convention starts.

HE ISN'T always successful in getting what he wants.

For instance, his program of medical care for the aged looks just as doomed this year as it did all through President Kennedy's administration. Johnson can't even get it out of the House Ways and Means Committee to a floor vote.

The chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills' Arkansas Democrat, is blocking Johnson on this just as he did Kennedy.

The President's most colorful success so far, perhaps his most impressive one, has been the foreign aid program which for years has always been cut far below the figure the President asked. Johnson asked $3.5 billion.

ALWAYS THE biggest foreign aid ax-man has been Rep. Otto Passman, Louisiana Democrat. For instance, last year Kennedy asked for $4.5 billion and got only $3 billion when Passman and others were through.

This year, by some magic, the spellbound Passman was left immobilized and steaming when the House voted to let Johnson have $3.3 billion, or only $200 million less than he requested.

The Fourth Means Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—America announced its independence 188 years ago Saturday.

Ever since then it has sought to celebrate a safe and sane Fourth of July, but in many ways the holiday remains unsafe if not insane.

Fireworks now are banned in most states, except under controlled conditions, but the auto isn't. And the auto now takes about as many lives over the holiday weekend as fireworks did at the turn of the century. Deaths ran into the hundreds then; they still do.

PERHAPS NOT one in a thousand Americans' minds down reads again Thomas Jefferson's basic statement of our human rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Behind our celebrations, wise or unwise, is the idea of freedom. But what is freedom? It might be worth a few moments on our most national of holidays to ponder what some of the great minds of the past have had to say on this subject.

"No one is free save Jove"—Aeschylus.

"No man is wholly free. He is a slave to wealth, or to fortune, or to laws, or to the people restrain him from acting according to his will alone"—Euripides.

"NONE CAN love freedom heartily but good men; the rest love not freedom, but license"—John Milton.

"A free man is he that, in those things which by his strength and wit he is able to do, is not hindered to do what he has a will to"—Thomas Hobbes.

"It is not good to be too free. It is not good to have everything one wants"—Pascal.

"Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow"—Lord Byron.

"Every man has freedom to do all that he wills, provided he infringes not the equal freedom of any other man"—Spencer.

"FREEDOM EXISTS only where the people take care of the government"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Better to be a free bird than a captive king"—Danish proverb.

"Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and, under a just God, cannot long retain it"—Abraham Lincoln.

To Your Good Health

Tuberculosis Cures Vary In Time

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Twenty years ago my husband was admitted to a tuberculosis sanitarium for a spot on the lung. He was released six months later, doctors having found everything negative.

Four months ago he had X-rays and a sputum test, and the sputum was positive. He was sent to the same sanitarium and is taking medication. All sputum tests now are negative but the doctors do not speak of a release. Is there a specific time for which such a patient must be confined?—WORRIED WIFE.

It doesn't sound as though you have too much cause for worry; your husband evidently is making progress.

No, there is no specific time. Some patients respond better to treatment than others; some have suffered more lung involvement than others.

The continued negative sputum tests (present-day drugs do a wonderfully good job in suppressing the germs) are an excellent sign, naturally. In a good many cases patients are released very quickly, once repeated tests show the absence of germs, and such patients then can be treated at home or on an out-patient basis. They have reached a point at which they are no longer a peril to others. They won't be spreading TB germs.

But that isn't the whole story. If X-rays, taken at intervals, show the lungs to be continuing to improve, it is often best to keep the patient where he is. Don't rock the boat when you are making progress!

When the situation stabilizes, that is the strategic time to talk about release. There is no reliable way to predict exactly when this may occur.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am European but have been reading your column here. I was born with a birthmark on my cheek. Could skin grafting be performed? If so would you tell me the best doctor or clinic?—H. S.

In general the answer is yes. Most of these blemishes can be removed. Some may leave a scar, but an inconspicuous one. In other cases you can hardly see anything.

I can't recommend individual doctors or clinics, but since you live in the city, ask your own doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon; or ask one of the major hospitals to tell you some of its doctors who handle such cases; or ask the county medical society to give you two or three names of specialists doing this work. In any of these ways you will be referred to fully-qualified doctors.

NOTE TO MRS. C. S.: I know of nothing dependable for villi except cosmetics or stains to make the light areas blend with your normal skin color. For what consolation you find in it, at least villi poses no threat to your health.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Around The Rim

Forensic Fireworks On The Fourth

Quite often you read where Americans have taken a "so what" attitude toward the Fourth of July, that the holiday has lost its deep patriotic meaning for our citizenry, and the occasion has become just another day off from work for John Q. Public.

We'll have to admit our flag-waving and patriotic fervor leaves much to be desired, too. But we had the pleasure of operating a small weekly newspaper several years in a town that made the Fourth of July bigger than Christmas.

THIS WAS DEEP in the bayou country of Louisiana, where English was the second language, the coffee powerfully loaded with chicory and the people knew how to shed their worries at the drop of a hat or the whang of a guitar.

Those French-speaking folks in our lakeside town weren't any more patriotic than the average American the year round, but for them July Fourth had been a big day since the Nineties.

OUR FIRST summer in the bayou community was 1959, and politics were at an all-time, white-hot peak. Earl Long was governor and had just made his famous escape to John Sealy Hospital at Galveston and to a Louisiana mental institution. He bulled his way out of the Louisiana hospital two days before the Fourth of July, and our town was the traditional campaign launching spot for the December elections.

Along with a good many other state political figures, like the late LaSalle Morrison, Earl came to our town of 3,000 people for a noon-day Fourth of July speech. The temperature soared to 100 and the humidity nearly matched its pace.

TEN THOUSAND people, it was estimated, jammed the live oak and Spanish moss-shaded park on the waterfront, and naturally Earl Long was the big drawing card. The local Lions Club, the volunteer fire department and the Ladies Altar Society anticipated the crowd, and they had their concession stands, rides and games prepared. Cases of drinks and stacks of hamburgers and hot dogs melted away by the hundreds.

This was Earl's first public appearance since his hospitalization, and national television cameras plus photographers from Life magazine were on hand for the event. With the aid of a local state trooper, we were given a seat on the bandstand in the Long machine dignitaries—in fact, we were seated right next to Earl, it turned out. The horde of trooper escorts weren't so congenial with our visitors from New York, however.

LONG APPEARED physically exhausted when he arrived. After an hour or so of various candidates' orations in both English and French, Earl was rested and ready to talk. He asked for a drink of water and when there was a delay, he grabbed a nearby Coca-Cola and poured it over his head to cool off. Then he took the microphone.

An Earl Long stump speech is something unique in American annals, and luckily for posterity, many of his orations are on records and tapes. They are in a class all by themselves.

In his customarily hoarse rasp, Long was off and running on a dozen different subjects, lashing political rivals, his wife, the state of Texas, Eisenhower, the NAACP and the hot weather without a letup.

HE CLOSED BY branding our local state representative, who was sitting 10 feet away, and who had fought Long hard in the legislature, as a "no damn good Baptist hypocrite." Long (a professed Baptist, too) continued, "Now I'm telling you, this fellow ain't good for his church, he ain't good for our state and he ain't good for you people." Then he sat down.

Louisiana swamp weather and Earl Long made that Fourth the hottest and most memorable in our memory.

An Able Man, But—

WASHINGTON—One of Washington's more talented female reporters, an implacable bachelor girl who customarily regards men as (a) faintly bumbling competitors, or (b) subjects for her sweetly venomous prose, once pointed to a tall and handsome senator and moaned:

"That's the only man I could ever have married."

PERHAPS FORTUNATELY for the male in question, the lady's predatory passion bloomed 19 years too late. Minnesota's Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D., Farmer-Labor) has been happily married since 1945, is the father of four children, and seems safely beyond the clutches of the waspish girl journalist.

Senator McCarthy probably would rank at or near the top if a poll were taken among Washington's ordained journalists to find the senator they regard as the most able. Reporters with poorly sublimated tendencies toward egotism are, in this political summer, inclined to thrust Senator McCarthy's name into any speculation over President Johnson's running mate. This wretched group sadly concedes that their tiger has small chance, but such is their ardor that they are constitutionally unable to contain their enthusiasm.

THERE IS NO mystery in the senator's ability to command the respect of this notoriously disrespectful group. He is, to begin with, an intensely intelligent and cultivated person, and he is able to be to both these things with no overtones of pedantic stuffiness. He is, in point of fact, one of the easiest people in the Senate to talk to, and his sprightly humor is a refreshing switch from the ponderous sportifics of some of his colleagues.

HE IS NOT a typical egghead in physique. He has plenty of hair (black going to grey), and he is an athlete of such stuff that he is one of the more professional ornaments to the annual GOP-Democratic baseball game.

Senator McCarthy, erstwhile college professor (economics and education) and one-time Benedictine novice, first won widespread attention when he put Adlai Stevenson's name in nomination with a powerful and moving speech to the 1960 Democratic National convention.

BUT IN SPITE of the respect in which he is held by the professionals, in spite of his political sex appeal, in spite of the esteem in which the reporting trade holds him, and in spite of his manifest ability, the cool realities seem to doom his chances of becoming Lyndon Johnson's Veep.

Senator McCarthy is a Catholic, which is counted a plus value for him in a year when many Catholics may feel Robert F. Kennedy should be on the Democratic ticket. But most soothsayers still think President Johnson will be a strong enough candidate to name the man he wants as his running mate, and that one would be Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the senior senator from Minnesota.

BUT IF FOR any reason Senator Humphrey should falter in his all-out campaign for Veep, Senator McCarthy remains highly eligible. Indeed, he is eligible for any demanding task in Washington, save only the one the lady alluded to in paragraph one has in mind. (Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Racist Fire Feeds On Itself

JACKSON, Miss.—The racist fire seems unhappily to feed on itself. To serve their own ends, certain Mississippi leaders are pouring fuel on that fire.

Foremost among them is former Gov. Ross Barnett. Two years ago he appeared a bumbling and unpopular governor. Then in September of 1962 when he defied federal authority over the admission of a Negro, James Meredith, to the University of Mississippi with a large-scale riot at Oxford, Barnett made himself a hero.

HE HAS BEEN pushing hard on the race issue ever since and plumping, too, for unpicked electors following the line of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. Taking Mississippi out of the Democratic column of Southern states, he hopes, could swing the balance in a close election.

The atmosphere being created by such extremist organizations as the Association for the Preservation of the White Race and the revived Ku Klux Klan is extraordinary.

FOR GOV. Paul B. Johnson this is an acute embarrassment. He has shown that he wants to be reasonable and to preserve law and order. But he is a timid man and it must be said in his defense that if he were to raise his voice to make himself heard across the walls that separate Negroes and whites in favor of accepting at least token change he would probably be cut down.

For President Johnson, too, Mississippi is a painful dilemma. If disorders grow and more student volunteers are harmed or abducted, he can hardly avoid ordering what will be surely denounced in the South as a military occupation of the state. Sending 100 sailors to join the search for the three missing workers was interpreted as the beginning of such an occupation.

THE PRESSURES on the President are certain to grow. But the United States does not have a federal police force and when the more sensible students talk about protection, they say they would not like to see such a force come into being. At Ole Miss 500 federal marshals were brought in to insure Meredith's safety. They had to be rounded up from every corner of the United States and returned from their normal duties. Such action cannot be taken casually or often.

What is more, any federal act inflames feeling. The magic phrase, "states rights," is invoked to justify resistance to federal authority when federal laws go against the Mississippi code. And this, it should be added, in a state in which nearly one-third of all income derives from federal programs of one kind or another.

REASONABLE PEOPLE have been saying since the voter registration project—"the invasion"—was first initiated in the North that the way to meet it was to ignore it. Let these "damn fool Yankees" make themselves ridiculous. They won't get far, anyway. So far as actual achievement measured in voter rolls in the face of massive resistance, the latter may be true.

But even sensible people add a condition—as long as the invaders don't go into the counties in the southwest part of the state. There the Ku Klux Klan is the dominant force.

BUT THE STUDENTS insist they are going into the southwest in at least token numbers. They argue that if they fail to do so, the example of the southwest counties will spread and nowhere in Mississippi will it be safe for volunteers to work with Negroes for civil rights. Mississippians themselves concede that federal marshals could never provide protection in communities where intense feeling is reflected in Klan nightriders. BANGS AND BOWS
Young hair style is trend setter

Bangs 'In' To Cover Milady's Forehead

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP News Service Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bangs, bangs, bangs. Beatle bangs, fringe bangs, skimp bangs, shaggy bangs, straggly bangs, and thick, luxuriant bangs all the way down to black-fringed bangs—that's the style now.

The downswing is as the downbeat, and the upswing is as the upstroke. Marie Antoinette. Now drawn over the once-prized high forehead, emphasized by imperious ladies of history by confining the curls upward and upward, is a curtain of hair.

So frantic indeed is the panic to cover the forehead with curls that you would think bareness above the brows was a shameful sin.

You might also think that modestly hair-dressed foreheads in a fashion era of partially bared bosoms is a paradox. But this is not paradoxical, it is proportionate, contends Kenneth Battelle, who as the former First Lady's couturier put the whole world of women in bouffant hairdos. And an indication that his influence is still strong is this current bang rage.

"With the necklines dropping and bosoms peeking out, there must be more softness with the hair," Sluck, done-up hair front and back with bare clothes looks hard."

With or without the bosom covered up, however, Kenneth believes bangs are romantic. And, this being Leap Year, well.

Everybody knows that bangs are for little girls. And hairbrows are, too. But when do you draw the line?

"Never," asserts Kenneth. "You can have bangs if you're 70. Bangs draw attention to the eyes—but they must be down to the eye-brows or they don't mean a thing."

The trend to framing the eyes with hair is one reason why he is certain that women will pay more and more attention to making up their eyes, and why, indeed, more of them will try fake eye lashes.

Miss Brenda Bowlin Honored At Shower

Miss Brenda Jo Bowlin, Freeport, bride-elect of Roy C. Brown, was honored with a pre-nuptial shower Thursday evening in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Miss Bowlin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Bowlin, Albuquerque, N. M., and Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brown, 1303 Sycamore, will be married July 11 in the First Methodist Church, Freeport.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Bowlin and her daughter, Sheryl, and Mrs. J. T. Underwood, the prospective bridegroom's maternal grandmother. Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Garland Land and Mrs. Odell Buchanan.

The table, laid in light green linen with white lace overlay, was centered with a white paper mache' bridal figurine flanked with crystal candelabra.

Appointments of silver and crystal were used by Mrs. LaVerne Rogers and Mrs. L. S. Bonner to serve cake and punch. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. M. O. Hamby, Mrs. O. A. Nichols, Mrs. D. G. Harris, Mrs. T. F. Horton, Mrs. Jan Tally, Mrs. Land, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Bonner.

A panel composed of Mrs. Pyle Bradshaw, Mrs. J. B. Apple, Mrs. Loyd Wooten and Mrs. Myrtle Smith presented a mock business transaction where inadequate credit information was obtained. The mistakes of this type of management were detailed.

Mrs. Earl Hughes presided at the business session. The next meeting will be held July 16.

Webb Wives Hold Luncheon

Informality was the keynote of the summer luncheon held by the Officers' Wives' Club Thursday at the Officers Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

The group voted to provide free nursery service for members who are doing volunteer work at the Big Spring State Hospital. Hi-and-Bye coffees have been scheduled for the fourth Thursday of each month, and the next session will be held July 23 with Class 65-G in charge of arrangements.

Curtains and decorations for the base nursery have been provided by the club, it was announced. The final plans for the Fiesta Mexicana scheduled July 11 were made.

Arrangements for the luncheon were provided by wives of Class 65-A and 65-B. Beach balls and sun hats decorated the room and the individual tables. An arrangement of carnations, chrysanthemums and gladioli were arranged in a large straw hat at the speakers table.

Mrs. Hartzog introduced new members of the group. They are Mrs. E. J. Henderson, Mrs. T. J. R. Preston and Mrs. R. W. Hunter. Farewells to wives who will be moving to new bases were extended to Mrs. Rex Fryer, Mrs. John G. Short.

Lutherans Hold Study

"The Holy Spirit Makes Christians Good Citizens" was the title of a talk given by the Rev. Clair Wiederhoft to the St. Paul Lutheran Church Women Parish Workers at a Thursday evening meeting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Wiederhoft.

The general topic was "A Christian's Responsibility in the Community."

Mrs. Morgan Oppgaard was elected treasurer by the group to replace Mrs. Jack Schroder who is moving to Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Oppgaard and Mrs. Elmer Lyster served refreshments to 22 members and one guest, Mrs. J. W. Bosse, Evansville, Ind.

The group will have a picnic at 6 p.m. Sunday in Birdwell Park. All attending are asked to bring their own food and drinks.

HINTS FROM HELOISE Save Knitted Cuffs For Garden Gloves

Dear Heloise:

After seething for years because gardening gloves always seemed too short at the wrists, I finally found a solution.

I bought a pair of the knitted cuffs (the type they put on jackets) and sewed them on the tops of the gloves with a zig-zag stitch and they work like a charm.

You probably could use the tops of old cotton socks just as well. . . F. Y.

You can. One woman wrote that she sewed the legs of knee socks to her gloves so that it kept her arms from getting blistered, scratched and freckled.

Dear Heloise: I have heard many methods of pasting in trading stamps, but you always had to handle the stamps after they were damp and sticky.

I just lay out the exact number of stamps to fit on a page, then take a medium-wet sponge and dampen the page on which I will paste the stamps. Get it damp all over and lay the stamps on the page and press them down.

I find it much faster. . . Ruby Clapp

Dear Heloise: When you take out your recipe book to prepare something, tear a piece of clear plastic wrap just the right size of the open book.

Place the wrap over the pages and no more spills and splashes on the pages. . . Mrs. J. R. Anderson

Dear Heloise: I needed beige gloves and found I didn't have any beige dye so I thought, "Why not try tea?"

I boiled water and put one tea bag in it. Then I poured the tea (without the tea bag) into a bowl and put my white gloves into the bowl. When I had the desired shade, I rinsed the gloves a couple of times in cold water, using a few drops of vinegar in the last rinse to set the color.

The longer you leave them in the tea, the darker they get. You can dye either nylon or cotton. . . Mrs. Kay Leach

Castro's Sister Said Valuable CIA Tipster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro's sister voluntarily supplied valuable information to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for four years before she fled Cuba for political asylum in Mexico, authoritative sources said today.

The sister, Juanita Castro Ruz, left Cuba openly June 20 on a scheduled airline flight for Mexico City and the speculation in official Washington is that she had to have the help of at least one of her powerful brothers and probably the consent of both.

Miss Castro was generally known in Havana to be opposed to Prime Minister Fidel Castro and his brother, Raul, a trusted aide. She was in fact an outspoken critic of the regime which she has now publicly denounced as a puppet of "Russian imperialism."

The Central Intelligence Agency, sources said, made contact with Miss Castro about four years ago, a relatively short time after Fidel Castro had taken over full power in Cuba. She is said to have cooperated with CIA contacts voluntarily because of her strong opposition to her brother's policies.

In the course of this prolonged cooperation she provided items of information which are said here to have contributed valuably to the development of more complete information about the activities of the Castro regime and conditions in Cuba under its Soviet-guided administration.

The feeling among informed authorities here is that Fidel and Raul finally "got fed up" with Juanita and decided the simplest way to handle her was to let her leave the country. They could at least then deal with her more openly and blame this essentially family trouble on the United States.

Fidel Castro told reporters at a Canadian Embassy reception in Havana on Wednesday night that the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City had written a statement his sister made in Mexico City.

Office Collects 227 Checks

Sixty-seven per cent of the 339 worthless checks turned over in June to the worthless check department of the Howard County sheriff's office have been paid off, Miller Harris, sheriff, said Friday.

He said 227 of the bad checks handled by the department have been redeemed by those who wrote them for a total collection of $3,073.68. For May, the payments made back to merchants and others who had cashed the worthless checks was $3,587.81.

So far, the department has collected and repaid to the merchants $92,102.16 for bad checks. During June, the office filed 18 misdemeanor check cases in Howard County court and seven felony check cases in the district court.

There were no reports of probation violation during June.

City Sends Bills For Lot Clearing From Last Year

Final billing was completed this week for payments on the clearing of city vacant lots last summer. Homeowners whose lots were cleaned by city crews were billed at 10 cents per front foot, or $5 per normal-sized lot.

More than 1,400 vacant lots were cleaned last summer, about 600 of which were by city crews. The program will begin this year about Aug. 1.

Emphasis of the program, according to City Manager Larry Crow, is on voluntary cleaning by lot owners, with the city first notifying each owner and then doing the cleaning only if the owner does not do so.

Many of the property owners whom we gave notice to last year are now cleaning their lots voluntarily," Crow said.

A deadline of July 15 was set for payments due from last summer.

Coach Talks Of Lindgren

NEW YORK (AP) — Tracy Walters, erudite young coach of schoolboy distance runner Gerry Lindgren, considered the question very carefully.

"When," he had been asked, "did you know you had a prodigy on your hands?"

"Prodigy," replied Walters, "is rather semantic. Courage, heart, determination, a gift—are better words."

"Then I had Gerry think about them for a while. "Later we had another talk, this one about Gerry, about his personality and physique. Then we chose some of the devices used by the great runners, a little of their procedures from a lot of them, and wove them together into a program that would fit Gerry's personality and physique."

"We had Gerry run to the point of exhaustion, then keep running, as Zatopek did. We had him run in sand, like Elliott. We had him run in the hills, like Snel."

"And he runs 140 miles a week."

Syrian-Israel Firing Erupts

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Guns rattled for several hours Thursday along the Syrian-Israeli frontier north of the Sea of Galilee in the first major incident since Israel began testing its Jordan River water project in May.

An Israeli army spokesman said two Israeli soldiers and a worker were wounded in five hours of fire between Israeli and Syrian positions in the Huleh reclamation area.

A Syrian army spokesman in Damascus said five Israelis were killed or wounded. He gave no indication of any Syrian casualties.

Each side accused the other of starting the fighting, which occurred in a demilitarized zone long troubled by incidents.

New Commander

Lt. Col. T. J. R. Preston Jr. (left), goes over pre-flight check list with 2nd Lt. Russell K. Herig, a student pilot in Class 65-A.

Col. Preston Commands 3560th Training Sqdn.

Lt. Col. T. J. R. Preston Jr., recently assigned to Webb Air Force Base, is commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron. Prior to his assignment here, he spent 3½ years at Headquarters, Air Training Command, Randolph AFB, and was assigned to the deputy chief of staff, flying training.

For two years he participated in the officer exchange program and saw duty with the Royal Canadian Air Force Central Flying School at Trenton, Ontario and the RCAF Station, Saskatchewan.

Col. Preston attended the command and staff school, Maxwell AFB during 1957-1958. At Laredo AFB from 1952-1957, he held a variety of assignments with the 364th Pilot Training Group. From 1951-1952, he was assigned to the 614th Tactical Control Group at K-6, Korea.

For his service in Korea he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters. For his service at Laredo AFB, he received the Air Force Commendation Medal.

Col. Preston spent four years as an enlisted man from 1941-1945. He served with the 8th Air Force in England and flew in B-17's. In 1948-1949, he flew 200 missions in the Berlin airlift. He was stationed at Webb AFB in 1945 as a second lieutenant and was at that base when it closed after the war.

He received his commission as a second lieutenant in 1945 after completing training in pilot schools in the south and west and graduated from a multi-engine flying school.

A command pilot, Col. Preston has 5,600 flying hours to his credit, of which 2,200 are as instructor. He is a native of Paris, Tex., and is married to the former Margaret Lee, also of Paris. They have three children: Lynn, 14; Kay, 11; and Jan, 8.

The Prestons make their home at 75 Ent Drive, Webb Village.

Maintenance Group Hits Goal

The maintenance division at Webb Air Force Base oversubscribed its goal of savings under the cost reduction program for the fiscal year ending June 30 with 132 per cent.

The division's goal was $181,968. Most of the savings came in the program of J-85 engines. Biggest saver was Airman 2 C. Martin Hazwood whose idea for the salvage of J-85 afterburner nozzle parts brought a saving of $70,061.50.

Next largest savings amounted to $57,917.00 on specialized lubrication of J-85 engine parts. There were nine savings projects developed by the division.

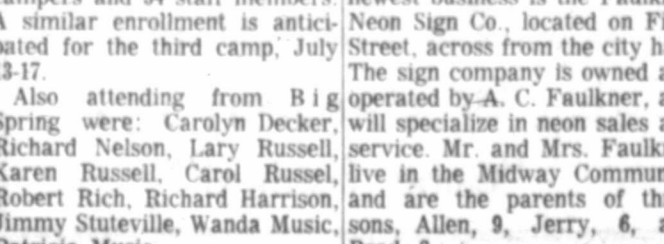

Project officer for the Division is Major H. P. N. Gammel. Lt. Col. J. McNeil is the Webb AFB Chief of Maintenance Officer.

Warren Doubts Validity Of Lawyer's Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren has told attorney Mark Lane that the presidential investigating commission has "every reason to doubt the truthfulness" of some of Lane's testimony in relation to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The commission questioned Lane in open session Thursday. The New York lawyer has been making lecture tours abroad and in the United States on the theme that Lee Harvey Oswald was not the assassin.

In testimony he gave on March 4, Lane talked of an interview he claimed to have had with Helen Markham of Dallas, Tex., one of the witnesses to the murder of J. D. Tippitt, the Dallas policeman who stopped Oswald less than an hour after the assassination.

The commission reopened that question by asking Lane if he had a tape recording of his talk with Mrs. Markham. Lane said he did, but refused to say who made it or when it was made, and refused to turn it over to the commission.

The questioning revealed that Mrs. Markham has told the commission she never talked to Lane.

In obvious annoyance, Warren told the lawyer: "Until you give us the corroboration that you say you have, we have every reason to doubt the truthfulness of what you have told us."

On his earlier appearance, Lane said he was representing, without pay, Margaret Oswald, mother of the 24-year-old ex-Marine sharpshooter. He told newsmen he was making his living by speeches and lectures on the case, but showed them no evidence to support his claim that a person or persons other than Oswald might have done the shooting.

Lane said he could not turn over the purported recording because of his "attorney-client relationship" with Mrs. Oswald.

Warren asked: "What is the present attorney-client relationship that would prevent you from telling about the recording?"

Lane acknowledged he had no present relationship but said he had conducted the interview in furtherance of his original relationship. He said Mrs. Oswald had asked him not to tell the commission anything about the tape because she was working on her own investigation. She has appeared with Lane for some lectures.

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,—That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world. He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. He has refused to pass Laws for the accommodation of large districts of People, unless those People would assent to the proposed Laws on their own separate Petitions. He has refused to assent to Laws for the relief of the most distressed. He has called together legislative Bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them by long sessions. He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the People. He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within. He has endeavored to prevent the Population of these States, for that purpose obstructing the Migration of Persons; refusing to pass other Laws to encourage their Migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands. He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers. He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their Offices, and the amount and payment of their Salaries. He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our People, and eat out their Substance. He has kept among us, in times of Peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our Legislature. He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power. He has combined with others to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution, and unacknowledged by our Laws; giving his Assent to Acts of pretended Legislation: For quartering large Bodies of armed Troops among us: For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury: For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences: For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever. He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging war against us. He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our Towns, and destroyed the lives of our People. He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty, perfidy and insupportable barbarity, so that peace and good will, which should have been the result of our former Sufferings, have been transformed into blood and fury. He has constrained our fellow Citizens to take up arms against their Country, to become the executors of their凶暴 and Bruties, to do fall themselves by their Hands. He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered by insult and injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free People. Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable Jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Life's Not All Bad

Relief from a long hot spell was found by Roddy Ryan, 2, in a mud puddle created by a heavy rain. The look on his face Thursday would seem to indicate resistance to any plans by his mother, Mrs. Thomas Ryan, to haul him out for a scrub. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Nikita Offers To Cook For Kon-Tiki Expedition

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev offered today to go along on the next Kon-Tiki expedition as a cook.

"I must have that offer in writing," said Thor Heyerdahl, the Norwegian explorer who led the expedition across the Pacific on a balsa wood raft.

"I had not been planning another raft expedition," Heyerdahl told Khrushchev, "but I am willing to organize one on that condition."

Khrushchev nodded gravely. "I am willing to sail with you on the raft," he said, "but I warn you that I am not a good cook."

"That doesn't matter," Heyerdahl replied, "just bring along lots of Russian caviar."

Khrushchev, his wife and other members of his party inspected Heyerdahl's raft at a museum just outside Oslo.

"Khrushchev was surprisingly well-informed about the expedition," Heyerdahl said later.

Two million copies of Heyerdahl's book about his expedition have been sold in the Soviet Union.

Heyerdahl and five other adventurers drifted on the raft across 4,300 miles of the Pacific from Peru to Polynesia. The 101-day voyage in 1947 was made to prove a theory that aboriginal peoples from South America could have populated the Pacific islands by sailing there on balsa rafts.

Scranton Rips Farm Proposals Of Barry

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton contended today Sen. Barry Goldwater's farm proposals would "court disaster in the nation's heartland."

Scranton toured the Dakotas in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination. Goldwater holds a commanding lead in delegates.

"My current opponent for the Republican nomination has urged prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program," said Scranton.

"Such statements do more to discredit a responsible Republican approach than all the partisan attacks of our Democratic enemies combined," said Scranton in a statement.

HUGE BALLOON

Scranton arrived in Sioux Falls, S.D., Thursday night. He was greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Archie Gubbrud and a huge orange and white balloon.

To the delight of a crowd of some 1,000 persons at the airport, Scranton rode the balloon about 20 feet into the air. He pronounced the ride "terrific, wonderful."

The balloon carried a sign proclaiming "Scranton on the rise."

Scranton had some harsh words for the agricultural policy of President Johnson's administration.

"Nowhere is the limited negative view of American agriculture more evident than in the farm programs of the current Democratic administration," Scranton said.

"It is time we broke the shackles of an outdated economic philosophy and outworn politics," he added. "The abstract theoreticians of this Democratic administration have been so mesmerized by commodity controls that they have forgotten their ultimate concern—the individual farmer."

MORE FREEDOM

As part of his own farm program Scranton said he would seek, if elected president, "greater freedom in our agricultural economy" that would allow "decisions of investment and production" to operate.

Scranton said he would be opposed to any abrupt elimination of farm subsidies, but indicated he would seek a readjustment of commodity programs.

Scranton will meet in Harrisburg, Pa., Sunday with Henry Cabot Lodge and the two will fly west together in the quest for delegate support, a Lodge spokesman said in Washington.

They will go to Chicago Sunday night and will fly on to St. Louis for a meeting with Missouri and Southern Illinois delegates and a talk, and will move to Milwaukee Monday night for a meeting with Wisconsin delegates Tuesday morning and a luncheon address.

Sergeant Wins Award Of $25

M. Sgt. Ray C. Anderson, Webb Air Force Base, received a cash award of $25 for his suggestion submitted in the military-civilian incentive awards program. He suggested an improvement which extends the life expectancy of motor vehicles and cuts maintenance costs.

He makes his home at 3701 West US 80 and is married to the former Violet E. Rick, Morrison, Ill. Sgt. Anderson has been stationed at Webb AFB since July, 1962.

Airman Vacura Wins Honors

Airman I.C. Mitchell B. Vacura, Support Squadron, Webb Air Force Base, was selected Airman of the Month for June for his squadron.

Minn. and makes his home at 1108 Runnels with his wife, the former Patsy N. Kicklighter, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They have two children: Becky Lynn, 2; and Jeffrey Bryan, 8 weeks.

Airman Vacura is an administrative specialist in the food service branch and has been stationed at Webb AFB since February, 1963.

WONDERFUL PRIVILEGE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We are proud of our freedom... whether it be freedom of speech, freedom of assembly (the ayes have it), freedom of the press, or freedom of religion. Of all these, we sing: "Let freedom ring!"

Freedom of religion is not the property of the clergy, but of all the people. Every schoolboy knows that the Constitution says so. It guarantees freedom of worship... freedom to honor God according to one's own conscience. It is a precious gift.

How you worship is your business! That you must worship, ah, that's God's business! Choose the church to honor God with your fellowman... thanking God for this wonderful privilege. For, so often in other lands, such worship is forbidden and outlawed. Sunday is His day! Make it your day!

NCOs Elected To Club's Board

Six Webb Air Force Base non-commissioned officers were elected to the NCO Open Mess board of governors at an election held recently.

New members are C.M. Sgt. William A. Brown, T. Sgt. L. J. Fontenot, S. Sgt. Joe T. Smith, S. Sgt. Cecil Sparks, T. Sgt. Severn Yetman and T. Sgt. Donald G. Martin.

replaced M. Sgt. Harry Schonearts, Headquarters, because of retirement. Sgt. Brown, as senior board member, takes over duties as president. He replaced S.M. Sgt. Herbert L. Smith who was not running.

Also, S. Sgt. Daniel Karczski took over duties as the new club secretary. Sgt. Karczski comes to Webb AFB from Japan. He replaces T. Sgt. Bobby Martin, who is going overseas next month.

Blistering Heat Hits New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's sizzling heat wave has brought out Teamsters in knee-pants, been blamed for stranding sightseers on an aerial ride at the World's Fair and sparked a rent-strike threat at the Empire State Building.

"Distinguished attorneys" are working in their undershirts, said a law firm partner whose offices are at the equator of the 39-floor heat belt in the Empire State Building. The floors have been without air conditioning for a week.

The "tropic zone" tenants of the Empire State Building met in the law offices of Levine & Broder and 50 agreed to sign a notice they would withhold July rents until business losses could be determined.

A spokesman for the building's management said the needed repair parts were expected over the weekend.

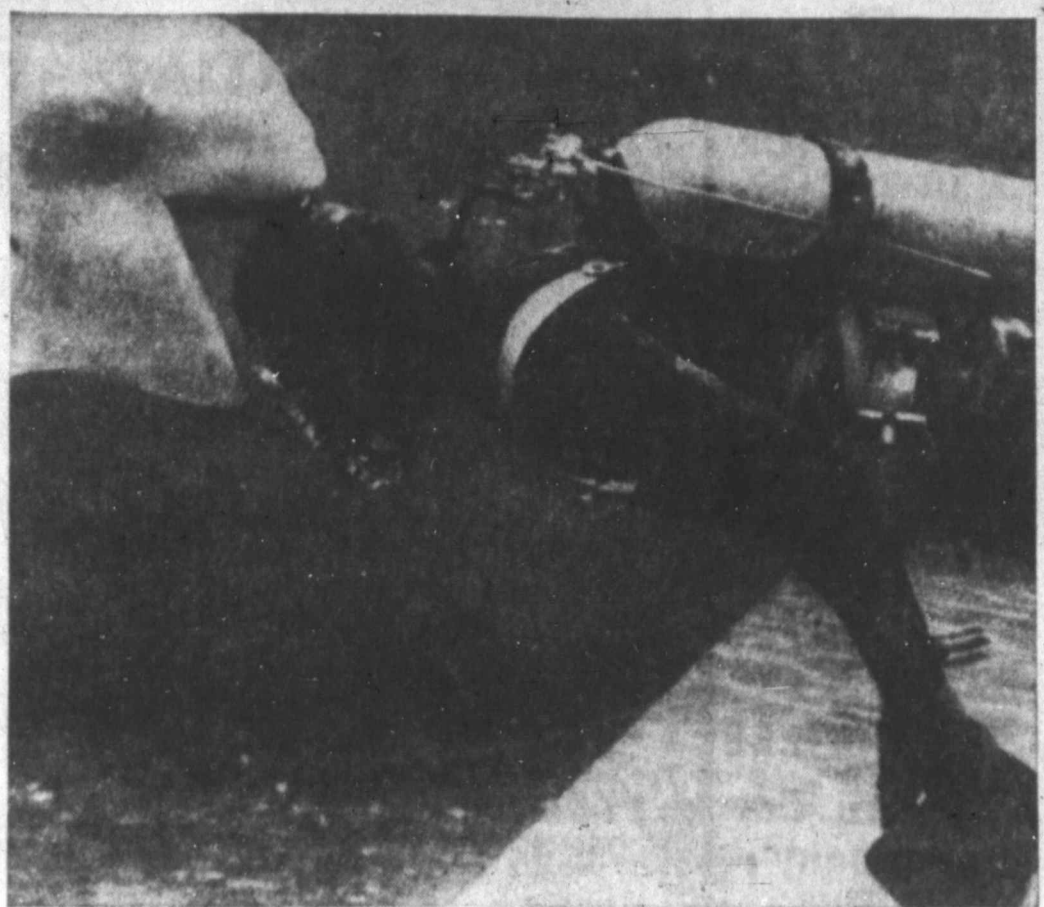

On four working days of this week the temperature went into the 90s. On two days it hit 99. Pavements buckled. Motorists' radiators, and tempers, boiled. Thousands fled the broiling city and headed for beaches.

Air conditioners were turned on full blast and, in a few sections, the electricity went off temporarily, the result of heat tripping automatic switches.

The bare, cool knees of five Teamster Union members, — and management's stern disapproval — led to a walkout Thursday of 75 drivers at a Railway Express Agency terminal in Brooklyn.

It would not be proper, said a company spokesman, for housewives to see the knees of the company representatives.

The drivers, who had the support of their local, said Bermuda shorts were just the thing for the oven-hot cabs of the trucks. A shop steward said he made a private survey of housewife reaction and got no complaints.

Farm Bureau Sets Talks

Problems plaguing the livestock industry will be discussed at a series of eight area-wide meetings July 8-17, according to Texas Farm Bureau President C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma.

Livestock producers in all sections of the state are urged to attend these Farm Bureau-sponsored sessions, DeVaney said. He emphasized that the main purpose of the meetings is to "evaluate the livestock situation from all angles," and to give producers an opportunity to voice their opinions and ideas on how best to solve the basic problems of the industry. This subject is expected to assume major importance during Farm Bureau's policy development process this summer and fall, DeVaney added.

Subjects to be covered include: beef imports, declining prices, build-up in cattle numbers, voluntary promotion programs, proposals for government assistance, present USDA actions to alleviate meat industry troubles, and related government programs affecting the industry. The nearest one to Big Spring will be at Town House Motor Hotel, San Angelo, on July 10.

Barbecue Is 'Best Ever'

Kiwanis Club's Fourth Annual Rodeo Barbecue, served on the opening day of this summer's Howard County Cowboy Reunion Rodeo, has turned out to be the most successful in the club's history.

Jay Banks, ticket sales chairman, said a final check showed the club served more than 1,700 guests on the afternoon and early evening of June 3 and that the net profit from the enterprise would probably reach $1,000.

Program Thursday for the club failed to materialize as the speaker scheduled for the day could not attend. The club devoted its time to an informal discussion of the Independence Day holiday and of the significance the day has for Americans.

Bob Travis presided in the absence of the president, Ward Jackson, who is attending the International Kiwanis Convention in Los Angeles.
