

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

LOOKING AHEAD

One farmer we know is looking ahead to the time when a dry spell comes and he cannot raise enough feed for his cattle. He is taking this year's abundant growth of feedstuff and putting it in a ground silo—more than a hundred tons of it.

How many more are doing the same thing we do not know, but there is an ample supply of all kinds of green feed suitable for putting in a silo—enough to last this country for several years if taken care of properly.

Harvesting of the cotton crop continues to move at a fairly rapid rate during the good weather. There has been no great accumulation of cotton at the gins though they have been operating fairly steadily. Crops of pullers and the fact that some are waiting to strip has accounted for the lack of deluge on the gins. That may come later when strippers are running.

Here it is almost the middle of November and we have not had a killing frost.

Remember the time when Armistice Day really meant something. Er-service men everywhere took the day off, went to their American Legion hut and had a big time.

November 11 is now Veterans Day and not many celebrate. The American Legion has been through the years the leading organization for ex-service men. It has done a lot of good for the ex-service men and women of the country and is still doing a lot of good. Our own Post here at Lorraine is having a hard time keeping alive. It needs to be revitalized right now.

Seniors Will Present No More Homework

The senior class will present their annual play, "No More Homework" Friday night, Nov. 14, at the high school auditorium.

Almost every high school student has dreamed, at one time or another, of being principal for a day. No More Homework is the successfully tested account, based on a newspaper story, of what happens when force of circumstances propel three high school students into roles of principal, vice-principal and school secretary in a typical high school.

When Pamela Jones (Fran Griffin) was elected student council president, never in her wildest dreams did she foresee having to make the thousand and one decisions required of a school principal. Should she abolish home work as one friend helpfully suggests? Should she keep the school's star athlete out of the state basketball tournament for disciplinary reasons? These are only a few of the headaches that confront Pam and her boy friend "Buzz" Bailey (Roy Little), who unexpectedly finds himself doubling as vice-principal and "home ec" teacher, with an omelette in one hand and a dress pattern in the other.

Romance kicks up its lovely heels too in this merry turn-out. Who would have ever guessed that elderly Miss Goodin (Wanda Moore) "carried a torch" for the confirmed faculty bachelor, Mr. Harper (Charles Reed)? Who would have imagined that "Tick Tok" the diminutive janitor (Sanford Bowlin) would eventually dominate the school play? All of these things and more keep Acting Principal Pamela Jones in a whirl! One complication swiftly leads to another! Before long the entire school seems upside down and everybody, but everybody is "down" on her. She even has to fill in for the lead in the school play at the last minute!

Then somehow, with the return of Mr. Lundquist (Ronald Haley) the real principal, situations manage to right themselves and Pam and "Buzz" and the rest of the school return to normal. Well—more or less.

The public is invited to attend the play and the seniors promise you an evening of lively entertainment.

Others in the cast are Bobby Compton, Shirley Craghead, Sarah Pratt, Darrell Owen, David Redwine, Gloria Richard, Betty Griffin, Garland Narrell, Mary Ann Wright, Melba Thompson.

R. R. Waggoner and daughter, Mrs. E. J. Schroeder attended a bird sale in Abilene Thursday and went on the Ballinger and Ruth and Miss Glenda Carol Waggoner of Ackerly.

By L. A. Wilke

If you haven't already started on the project, better get busy sighting in that deer rifle for this fall's shooting. Every year we warn hunters against going out with a gun that hasn't been "trained in" for the season's shooting. And every year hunters come back with their shirt tail cut off for missing a big buck.

In some areas it is difficult to find a place to target a big rifle. Around most of the large cities, however, there are shooting ranges where for a fee you can lay a few shots in the bullseye. If you decide to go to the country, however, be sure you get permission of the land owner before blasting away. He may not like to have shooting on his place by someone thoughtless enough not to ask.

There'll be quite a few new guns and calibers on the market this fall. Also some changes have been made in ammunition. For instance, Winchester has introduced a new 20-gauge magnum bird load, comparable in pattern and energy to a 12-gauge load. The new 2 3/4 inch shell is loaded with 1 1/8 ounces of 7 1/2 shot. Previously the shell has been loaded with 2's, 4's and 6's for waterfowl and pheasant shooting.

Another new gun on the market this year is the X-5 Lightning by Ithaca. It is a semi-automatic 22 built along modern streamlines and is sure to become a favorite among those who have been shooting Ithaca shotguns for years. This new model, the first rifle by Ithaca, is built to Cadillac specifications. It handles easily, has a ruggedness not found in many rifles and is equipped to handle either 7 or 12 shot magazines.

Ruger also has announced a new 22 caliber frontier model. It is in the competitive field of the Colt single action 22 and the new Double 9, of Hi-Standard. The new Ruger Bearcat by name has some of the appearance of the original Remington Police 36, and the Colt Model of 1849. It looks more like a gun of the old west than the others.

Ruger now claims to be the largest manufacturer of single action pistols. In addition the company also has a very interesting line of semi-automatics.

Hunter's Handbook Out
With the approach of the big game hunting season in Texas and elsewhere it is fitting that we give some thought to the handling of trophies. The average man who sits at the desk 50 weeks a year can't be expected to know too much about the dressing out of wild game, or preserving a head for mounting.

Major B. J. Brewer, who is the wildlife management coordinator for the Red River Arsenal at Texarkana, thought of this. Accordingly he has written a book telling how to handle your prospective trophies. He got his inspiration while visiting in the taxidermy shop of Kelton S. Tillery of Fort Worth.

Major Brewer was looking over some of the trophies shipped to Mr. Tillery. Most of them had been badly handled and had major things wrong with them to prevent perfect mounting. It was then that he was inspired to prepare a handbook for field instruction in the care of trophies. There are many library books on the subject, but none small enough to carry in a parka pocket, to provide directions on the spot.

Major Brewer points out in his pocket size manual that two things make the difference between poorly mounted trophies and a piece of art. First, is the proper care of the trophy from the moment it is killed or caught; second, the use of a skilled taxidermist for the finished product.

He takes up the various subjects, such as caring for big game heads, skins for making rugs, animal full body mounts, half mounts, fish and birds and then gives you a few simple rules to remember. Major Brewer's book is well written and well illustrated. It certainly is worth the dollar price.

Time To Hunt America
Hunt America Time is a new plan of the Izaak Walton League of America to promote better relationship between landowner and sportsmen. The theme of the program is "Respect Private Property—Save Public Hunting." How well the program gets organized in Texas remains to be seen. The principle of it, however, is the only thing that can save public hunting as such.

It must be remembered that more than 80 per cent of the harvested game each year is taken on land belonging to someone other than the hunter. In Texas this percentage may be even higher.

The game belongs to the people, but the land belongs to individuals. If they fail in providing cover and feed for wildlife, there will be no harvest. On the other hand, if landowners treat their wildlife as a crop, it can be profitable to them financially, and provide recreation for the millions who like to hunt.

The pledge in the Hunt America Time program is (1) to be law abiding; (2) to respect the rights and property of others; and (3) to be careful with fire and firearms.

If you are interested in more details of this program, write to the Izaak Walton League, 1326 Waukegan Rd., Glenview, Ill.

Knife Making Booklet
W. D. "Bo" Randall of Orlando, Fla., is a man who has literally carved his way to fame. He is a knife maker.

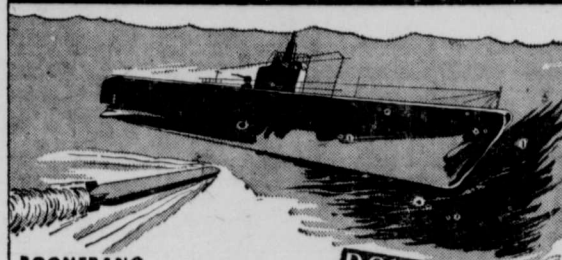

It all started as a hobby with him. Suddenly his hobby became a growing business and today he sells outdoor knives all over the country. He thinks other people should make knives as a hobby, too, so he has prepared a little handbook on knife making which he sells for 20 cents. Might be worth reading.

Underground Water—A Mystery Uncovered
 The amazing existence of great quantities of tappable water below certain areas of the earth's surface was for centuries one of nature's greatest mysteries.

The search for such unseen wealths of water was, in past years, sometimes considered a venture requiring supernatural insight by persons whose best guide might be the fabled "witching stick" or an acute physical sensitivity to the imagined presence of water.

However, underground water obeys the laws of physics, and can be identified, and the rate at which it sinks into underground reservoirs can be computed in some areas. Also, the areas in which no important water supplies exist can, in many instances, be accurately mapped.

Thus, the mystery of underground water has been invaded. But, although the vital presence of water is perhaps now somewhat less of a mystery to us, it is certainly no less a wonder. It is a gift which, like the soil we use so long as we care for it, if we abuse it, then we may destroy and ravage the work of centuries with which we were blessed.

The tools of science can tell those blessed with sub-surface moisture just how they can both use it now and keep it available for the use of future generations. It is not only practical that they do so; it is their moral obligation. The use of underground water is divided for several purposes—municipal, industrial, domestic and agriculture. By and far the largest percentage of underground water use in Texas is that directed to agriculture irrigation. This may or may not be surprising, but it is a paradox since agriculture is probably the only single section of our society which could reasonably survive unaided by underground water. Therefore, underground water is more a blessing to the farmers who have it than to the cities and industries which require it. And blessings must be safeguarded, not abused.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jean Sunday night were their daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Bruce of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nunn of Midland.

New Pontiac Is Accepted By Public

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 15, 1958—Nation-wide acceptance of the new 1959 Pontiac was evidenced today as Pontiac dealers reported sale and confirmed orders of over 20,500 cars during the first three days of sales, according to S. E. Knudsen, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division. Knudsen termed the early customer response "unprecedented in our history" as nationwide reports by Pontiac dealers listed 2,561 on-the-spot sales and over 18,000 orders on hand. "Customer reaction to our new line substantiates confidence that 1959 will be a year of opportunity for Pontiac," Knudsen said. "Customer orders were 250% more than a year ago even though dealer stocks were limited by the strike. Dealers report enthusiastic acceptance of Pontiac styling and great interest in Pontiac's revolutionary Wide Track."

"HIGH SCHOOL ECHOES"

PEP SQUAD NEWS

By Peggy Belvin
Even if the Loraine Bulldogs fell a little short of winning the district championship, the townspeople are very proud of their home town team.
The Hermleigh Cardinals were defeated by the Eldorado Eagles the same night of the Loraine victory. Had the Cardinals won Loraine would have won the district championship. However, the Bulldogs deeply appreciate the effort of the Cardinals and it seems the long time rivalry of the two teams has dissolved. It seems that both teams are glad to see the bitterness go and the teams are now forming a deep devotion.
The Bulldog Banquet will be given on November 20, and is sponsored by the pep squad. We would like to thank all those who participated in the bake sale held last Saturday.
Our pep squad personality this week is Beth Shepherd. Since football season is drawing to a close Beth is one student who will be sorry to see it go. She is one of the best Bulldog backers Loraine High School has. She has never missed a pep rally or game and her devotion to the team is very touching.

Soil Conservation
News Of District

The application of conservation practices are beginning to pick up and will mushroom as the terracing season approaches, is the statement made by Perry Bowles, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District.

District cooperators planning to terrace their farms this winter should begin to plan out their work, Bowles advised. They should begin getting their contractors lined up. We anticipate a very heavy work load this year. As district cooperators get their fields open, they should contact the Soil Conservation Service about getting their lines run, Bowles urged.

Mary L. Hooker, a district cooperator, has recently completed 5.3 miles of her ridge type terraces with ends closed on her farm at Westbrook. The terraces were laid out, designed, and constructed to hold the water that falls on the field, to retard water erosion, and provide guide lines for contour farming. Last week she completed a 2,200 ft. diversion terrace on her farm Northwest of Loraine. The diversion terrace was laid out, designed and constructed to divert runoff water away from a field to allow terraces to be constructed on the field as soon as the crops are harvested. Mrs. Hooker received technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Service as well as financial assistance from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

The terraces and the Diversion terrace is a part of Mrs. Hooker's complete coordinated soil, water and plant conservation plan that she developed to treat each acre according to its needs and use it within its capability. The plan was developed by Mrs. Hooker with the Soil Conservation Service providing technical assistance.

Congressman George Mahon is now reworking part of his old terraces as well as building some new ones. As a district cooperator with the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District Congressman Mahon's plan calls for using the land within its capability and treating it according to its needs. Other work will be completed when the crops are harvested.

Joe Boyd, livestock farmer in the Spade Community, is planning to construct a 4,000 cu. yd. pond on his rangeland. The pond will provide livestock water and allow Boyd to do a better job of managing the grazing of the range grasses. This is a part of Boyd's range management plan.

Questions and Answers

Q. Can a veteran receiving compensation for a 10 percent service-connected disability get extra money from the VA because of dependents?

A. No. The law does not authorize payments for dependents of veterans whose service-connected disabilities are found to be less than 50 percent in degree. Q. I let my World War 2 GI term insurance lapse right after the close of the war. A friend now tells me he thinks some law was passed last summer which would entitle me to get back my lost insurance. Is this a fact?

A. No. Your friend is doubtless thinking of an amendment in a bill which would have provided for a general re-opening of World War 2 GI insurance. The bill carrying this amendment, however, was changed to eliminate the re-opening provision. There is no law permitting re-opening of expired GI insurance.

Q. What is the new boost in the total disability income provision on GI insurance I've been hearing about? I already have this disability coverage, under the old ceiling that allowed me up to $50 a month, if totally disabled. Has it been raised?

A. Yes. A new law increased the total disability payments to up to $100 a month. If you wish, you may obtain the added coverage for a small additional premium.

D. F. Brians of Abilene visited his mother, Mrs. N. J. Brians, Sunday afternoon.
