Life-Size Of Tiniest Man

Sensational Death Case Is Reopened

(By The Associated Press)

SOUTH PARIS, Me., June 24.—Sensationally re-opening the strangulation death case of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Littlefield, elderly South Paris couple, the Oxford county grand jury today indicted former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, 43, for murder of the 67-year-old physician.

Paul N. Dwyer, 18 former intimate friend of Carrol's 18-year-old daughter Barbara, now is serving a life sentence at Thomaston state prison for the doctor's slaying. Dwyer was arrested last October 16 at South Arlington, N. J., after a mildly inquiring policemen awakened him, asleep at the wheel, and found the bodies of Dr. Littlefield and his wife. The shocked South Arlington police learned Dwyer had "toured" six states with the bodies stuffed into the car.

Pleadrd His Innocence

Arraigned immediately after the grand jury reported, Carroll emotionally pleaded innocence before Justice William Fisher.

"The state contends Carroll and not Dwyer killed Dr. Littlefield," said Special Assistant Attorney General Ralph M. Ingalls of Portland after the arraignment.

For months Sheriff F. F. Francis and other officials investigated the case, dissatisfied with Dwyer's plea of guilty last December.

Peter McDonald of Rumford, associate defense counsel in the trial of Dwyer, said he would seek a pardon for his client if Carroll is convicted of the murder charge.

Had Been Under Arrest

Carroll had been under arrest for several weeks awaiting grand jury action on a morals charge involving his daughter, Barbara.

Dwyer's confession, used in his trial, said he had called Dr. Littlefield to the Dwyer home, which he occupied alone in the absence of his mother, Mrs. Jessie Dwyer, a Hebron nurse. While the physician examined him, Dwyer said he made a disparaging remark about Dwyer's girl. The youth confessed he struck the physician and later strangled him with his belt.

But Ingalls, after the arraignment, said:

"The state contends that this boy (Dwyer) possessed letters detrimental to the future of Francis M. Carroll. They were letters written

Switzerland To Get Neutrality

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, June 24.—Another peace sector was sketched on the map of western Europe today when Italy and Germany formally assured Switzerland they would respect her neutrality as long as she followed her traditional aloofness from international squabbles.

The assurances announced today were given in an exchange of letters between Berne and Rome and Berne and Berlin.

Free Of Obligations

Switzerland asked the League of Nations in April to free her from obligations to take part in sanctions — such as the economic and financial measures levied against Italy in the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The league council gave Switzerland this freedom and the nation informed her powerful, non-league neighbors, Germany and Italy, formally of what had been done.

Assurances Given

The foreign ministers of the two latter countries congratulated Switzerland on obtaining the freedom and gave the assurance of respect for her neutrality.

Italy and Germany assured respect for the republic's neutrality only for themselves. They did not guarantee inviolability of Swiss soil as far as third powers may be concerned.

Neighbors, called by the couple's two small children, hauled both out but artificial first aid attempts failed to revive the mother and she died before reaching a hospital.

Mr. Brown was considered out of danger by medical attendants.

Stock Exchange Reports Heavy Trade Friday

Buying Wave Has Been Steady Since Monday But Activity Subsides Slightly Yesterday

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 24.—When the closing gong resounded through the big trading hall of the New York stock exchange today the total quoted value of securities dealt in there was some $4,000,000,000 higher than at the beginning of the week.

Not since the spring of 1933, when prices surged upward after the banking holiday, has the marketplace at Broad and Wall Streets seen such a sudden and rapid swelling of the prices of the shares of the nation's leading corporations.

Buying Wave Subsides

The buying wave which has been sweeping through the market since Monday subsided somewhat today, after the biggest overnight accumulation of orders since last October were executed in the first hour.

The rapidity of the upswing prompted many traders to sell and cash in their profits this afternoon, and leading issues finished around $1 under the day's best prices, although the close saw numerous net gains of $1 to $5.

Trading slackened as the market slipped, and the day's turnover of 2,290,540 shares was 112,630 under yesterday's, which had set a record for 1938.

Gains Are Shown

The Associated Press average of 60 representative stocks showed a gain of 50 cents for the day, which boosted it to $44.50, highest since March 4, and up $5.80, or about 15 per cent, in five days.

The steepness of the ascent prompted some brokers to send out precautionary advices, which played a part in the afternoon slackening. The market would need time to "digest" and "consolidate" such a jump, they thought.

But there was a wide inclination in financial circles to believe the market might be sounding the knell of the business slump which began a year ago.

Market Is Thin

One of the chief reasons advanced for the swiftness of the market's rise was its "thinness." A thin market is one in which there are few bids and offers, so that substantial orders, either to buy or sell, are likely to move prices rapidly.

Most financial circles seemed doubtful that there was any "mys-

Youth Being Questioned In Bank Robbery Held In Jail

DALLAS, June 24. (AP)—Jack Winn, 22, questioned in connection with the Bradley, Ark., bank robbery June 9, remained in Dallas county jail tonight.

U. S. Commissioner John Davis said he had not been advised whether Winn would be arraigned as a bank robbery suspect or as a fugitive.

Winn admitted in a statement to local officers that he had been a companion of Floyd Hamilton and Ted Walters, fugitives from the Montague county jail, who are sought in connection with the Arkansas robbery.

Roosevelt Finds Another Name For Enemies

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt tagged opponents of his policies with another name tonight—"copper heads."

As he did when he applied the word "Tories" to his critics, Mr. Roosevelt turned to history for the appellation he used in his prepared address tonight. He said "copperheads" were carrying on a "concerted campaign" to defeat reform.

"It was the copperheads," he explained, "who, in the days of the war between the states, tried their best to make Lincoln and his congress give up the fight, let the nation remain split in two and return to peace —peace at any price."

Mystery Cloaks Terrific Blast In Oil Fields

(By The Associated Press)

HOBBS, N. M., June 24.—Mystery shrouded the cause today of a nitroglycerin explosion in the southeastern New Mexico oil field which last night dealt death to eight men, one a prominent financier, and sent four other persons to the hospital.

The blast literally blew to pieces George A. Kaseman, 69, president of the Albuquerque National Trust and Savings company, and seven oil workers. Fred Luthy, vice president of the Albuquerque National, lost his left eye and three others were hurt.

Investigation Is Held

Officials of both the drilling and well-shooting companies investigated the explosion, but indicated they were at a loss to know the reason.

The explosion occurred as workmen unloaded a time-bomb from a truck to "shoot" a well in the Monument field, about 20 miles from here. Eye-witness accounts indicated workmen were "tinkering" with the time mechanism when it let go.

A coroner's investigation was held in abeyance today pending further recovery of the injured, all suffering burns and probable disfigurations. None was expected to die, however.

Ambulances Gather Bits

So severe was the blast that ambulances were sent to the field today to return scattered bits of human bodies and limbs blown in all directions. Mud-choked roads kept the curious away, as oil men guarded the well until it could be determined whether an unexploded nitroglycerin charge remained in it.

Funeral services will be held in Albuquerque tomorrow for Kaseman, widely known financier in the southwest. He was president of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal company, and headed several other ventures, including oil operations here.

Others Killed

The other dead were H. A. Greer, well gauger; J. T. Broughton, derrickman; Forrest Huston and Charles Wrigley, rigmen; V. P. Peck, the well shooter; Alex Blair, shooter's helper; and Jack Starkey, superintendent of the Two-State Drilling company.

Luthy was put aboard a plane for Albuquerque, but the ship was forced

Eastland Man Is Killed And Another Is Held In Jail

MONAHANS, June 24. (AP) — Clarence Henderson was held here today in connection with the death of Jess Barnett of Eastland Tuesday night.

Bond of $2,000 was set. An x-ray examination revealed a slight fracture of Barnett's skull. Justice of the Peace A. G. Burton said. A complaint signed by Burton and Deputy Sheriff Toon Estes charged Barnett was slain with a hatchet.

Henderson, arrested yesterday, testified at an examining trial that Barnett entered his (Henderson's) home with a can of gasoline and began throwing the gas around the room.

Lynn County's Pioneers Hold Annual Meet

A. Thurman Wells, O'Donnell, Chosen President Of Group; Contests Are Conducted

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

TAHOKA, June 24.—The remaining group of those hardy pioneers who braved the sandhills of Lynn county a generation ago, and their descendants, gathered here today for the fourth annual Old Settlers reunion at the grade school gymnasium. It was a gala occasion, marred only by gusts of wind and showers that caused farmers with late planted crops some worry.

Attendance was good, more than 400 being present for the programs of the day. The barbecue at noon, served just across the road from the high school, was a highlight of the occasion. Beef, chicken, goat and lamb were barbecued in regular cowboy style and topped off with the best cakes, pies, etc., of famous Lynn county kitchens. Of course pickles, bread, beans, onions, coffee, etc. finished up the menu, but the barbecue was the thing.

Opens In Morning

Opening in the morning at 10:30 o'clock, the program as scheduled, was carried out as near as possible.

In the election A. Thurman Wells of O'Donnell was named president over Walter H. May, Wilson, who was named first vice president, by acclamation. Dave Estes of Tahoka was named second vice president and Truett Smith, district attorney, was chosen secretary-treasurer over Jim Weatherby. He succeeds W. E. Smith. May was first vice president the past year and J. D. Donaldson, second vice president.

President Waldo McLaurin of O'Donnell opened the morning session, with music led by Kary Mathis of Lubbock, former Tahoka grade school principal, leading. Mrs. M. H. Edwards was pianist.

Welcome Is Extended

District Attorney Smith, a Lynn county boy who moved with his family to New Home community in 1907, welcomed the pioneers. "It is always a pleasure to see these old-timers who have given their best to this county," he said. He referred

Quick Building Of Ships Seen

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—What may be America's answer to the problem of quick production of thousands of airplanes in war time—ships of plastic construction molded like cup cakes—was a reality today.

Vance Reese, noted designer and test pilot, revealed that his first plane of the new type, created in secret had been tested and approved by the bureau of aeronautics.

No Struts Or Trusses

On a much larger scale, Reese said, his plane is similar to the plastic-molding of steering wheels, clock cases and tableware. There are no struts or trusses, beams or arches—the strength being derived from a combination of spruce plywood and bakelite.

His molded plane is virtually fireproof, Reese added.

FDR Favors More Cash For Drive To Eliminate Spies From The United States

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24—The army and navy may intensify and expand their counter-espionage activities to prevent foreign spies from getting vital military secrets.

This was indicated today when President Roosevelt came out in favor of more cash to detect and apprehend spies.

The chief executive, at his press conference, replied in the affirmative when he was asked whether recent charges of spying in this country would make it desirable to provide additional funds for army and navy counter-espionage.

The subject was brought up as a result of the recent indictment of 18 persons, 14 of whom are now in Germany, by a federal grand jury sitting in New York.

The president expressed belief that appropriations for army and navy intelligence services had been held down pretty low.

Admiral William Leahy, chief of naval operations, who called at the White House, said that "not very much money" would be required to give the navy a

Wife Of U. S. Naval Officer Slapped By A Jap Sentry

SHANGHAI, June 25. (Saturday) (AP)—Dispatches reaching here today said United States Consul Louis H. Gourley at Tsingtao had reported to the state department a Japanese sentry had slapped the wife of a United States naval officer named Massie.

The report said Mrs. Massie was returning to Tsingtao, escorted by two sailors, after visiting her husband on board the U. S. gunboat Tulsa. She landed and went on to the city, where she was challenged by Japanese by the sentry.

When she failed to reply in Japanese, the report said, the sentry struck her across the face.

General Rains Are Reported Over Section

Beneficial rains varying from a quarter of an inch to nearly four inches fell on the South Plains Friday, bringing relief from characteristically hot weather.

By far the heaviest fall in this area was at Muleshoe where the moisture was measured at more than 3.75 inches, Chamber of commerce officials there said the fall was general throughout Bailey county and termed it "the finest thing in years."

Valuable To Cotton

Nearly five inches of moisture fell at Portales, N. M., Bailey county agricultural authorities said the moisture there would be of considerable value to the cotton crop, most of which had been planted and was up. Although harvest there had just begun, the rain did little damage, since it fell slowly, unaccompanied by wind and electricity. Harvest will be delayed several days, however.

The Lubbock Municipal airport measured the moisture here at nearly an inch. However, the fall was considerably lower at the state agricultural experiment sub-station, said Don L. Jones, superintendent.

Falls Slowly And Steadily

Jones said the moisture would benefit cotton which was up, but might prevent obtaining a full stand if the cotton has been planted, but has not come up, since the top soil might form a crust.

Brownfield, slighted by most of the spring rains, received more than an inch, according to telephoned reports to the Morning Avalanche. The precipitation continued throughout most of the day. More than an inch was the report from Littlefield where falling weather prevailed most of Friday.

Good Falls To West

Levelland, Morton and Whiteface received an estimated inch with "showers off and on all day." Only a quarter of an inch fell at Tahoka, the precipitation getting a belated start. No moisture fell there until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

An inch and a half fell at Lamesa and late Friday night rain continued to fall. "Good rains" were reported at Big Spring, Seagraves and Seminole.

A half to three-quarters fell at

President Says He Will Offer His Support

Declares He Needs All The Help He Can Get; Says He Has Right To Intervene

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt virtually asked the people tonight to vote for "liberal" candidates in the coming elections. Moreover, he asserted a right to intervene, in behalf of such candidates, in the primary contests of the Democratic party.

In the prepared text of a radio "fireside chat" he expressed dissatisfaction with "the progress we have made in finally solving our business, agricultural and social problems," said he believed a majority of the people wanted him to "keep on trying," and added:

Needs Plenty Of Help

"In simple frankness and simple honesty I need all the help I can get."

His claim to a right to enter primary elections, he based upon a statement that as "head of the Democratic party" it was his responsibility to "speak in those few instances" where there was a clear-cut contest between liberal and conservative.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt, without mentioning the name of Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City, and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, said the people would not be "deceived by anyone who attempts to suppress individual liberty under the pretense of patriotism." Hague is involved in a court fight with the CIO, in which the latter seeks permission to send its organizers into Jersey City without interference from the mayor.

Achieved Much Good

Otherwise, the president's speech was devoted to a summary of the actions of the congress which just adjourned. Although he expressed belief there had been some legislative failures, he said the session "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress between the end of the World war and the spring of 1933."

He listed, among other things, the crop control bill, the wage hour bill, the monopoly investigation and the lending-spending bill, as the session's outstanding achievements, and then, reviving the great controversy of a year ago he termed the struggle over his proposal for reorganizing the supreme court "a lost battle which won a war."

Real Objectives Obtained

For, he said, "in one way or another, during the sessions of this congress, the ends—the real objectives—sought in the message (proposing the court bill) have been substantially obtained." The supreme court's attitude toward constitutional questions has "entirely changed" he said, and several lesser goals of the court reorganization bill have been reached.

The president's twelfth "fireside chat" was delivered from a room which neither contained nor, at the height of a typical Washington hot spell, needed a fireplace. He spoke from the "diplomatic room," an oval chamber in the basement of the

Young Companion Of Medill McCormick Is Found Dead In Mountains Of New Mexico

(By The Associated Press)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 24. — The body of Richard Whitmer, 20-year-old Albuquerque youth, was found tonight in the Sandia mountains, but mystery still shrouded the fate of his mountain-climbing companion, Medill McCormick, 21, heir of a Chicago publishing fortune.

Young Whitmer's body, a deep gash in the back of the head, was brought by stretcher to Juan Tabo CCC camp, at the base of the range, and was definitely identified as night brought a halt to the search for McCormick.

Governor Clyde Tingley and Adjutant General R. C. Charlton, heading the search, explained the terrain in which Whitmer's body was found was so rough and precipitous that a night search would endanger other lives.

The search will be resumed early tomorrow.

The place where the day-long search ended was at the base of a 1,000-foot sheer cliff, known as "The Shield."

Young McCormick, son of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms and the late Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago, left early Wednesday with Whitmer to scale the peaks of the rugged Sandia mountains just east of Albuquerque.

Late today, forest rangers discovered young McCormick's light car parked deep in Pussywillow canyon under the sheer face of the peak, northernmost in the Sandia range.

These are Paul "Peter the Great" Del Rio's feet (actual size). It's 19 inches to the top of his head (see cut above).

Sensational Doll-Sized Chapeaux Storm Fashion-Mad World

THIS week will make history we believe if for no other reason than two disputes of the century were settled. We refer, naturally, to the wrangle of who would play in the "Gone With the Wind" movie, which decision has taken two years, and the Louis-Schmeling show which took two minutes.

If you want to know how long two minutes are—they are how long it takes one to come from the kitchen to the radio and draw up a chair to listen to a fight.

IF they put heels on Gable to lend him the height of the novel character we have no complaint. The whole time we were reading the book we thought of him in the role and believed he would give it the best he has, but we have a let down feeling over gracious Miss Shearer playing the role of Scarlett. In the first place Scarlett O'Hara was a fiery, dangerous, loving and hateful person, characteristics foreign to the actress chosen for the part. We could see Miriam Hopkins or Katharine Hepburn flying through the scenes but no one asked us to make a choice.

A story out of Moscow concerns the disappearance of one Betty Glan, once a familiar figure in Moscow's social life and a great beauty who has not been seen for a year. She is believed to be dead, a victim to the "purge" of opponents of the Stalin regime.

Why would space be given to this little yarn? We believe it is because Betty Glan was a beautiful woman and, say what you will, beautiful women are rare. And every honest person admits that there is a pang when beauty dies, be it a beautiful person, a flower or a sunset.

Another prominent person in the headlines was Secretary Ickes who returned from abroad with his young wife. And in a few days we suppose the newsreels will be concerned with their posing from the ship's deck.

Feminine Hats Are On Tangent Again

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

Doll-sized hats—the most sensational feminine headgear since the be-plumed Empress Eugenie chapeaux—are taking the fashion world by storm.

Schiaparelli displayed a number of them in her midseason collection as the answer to what to wear on the upswept coiffure. American designers produced versions for immediate wear. Leading department stores stocked them as an amusing novelty for "the Colonel's lady" and now they are being produced in quantity in inexpensive designs for "Judy O'Grady."

A Little Too Eccentric

The first ones were miniature dark felt designs, turned down in front, up in the back and worn aslant on top of the head. They measured from six to eight inches across the widest part. Later versions were tiny dark felt tricornes with pastel-colored ostrich tips nestling in the brim. The latest ones for mass consumption are little straw pie-plates centered with a pompon or a bright cluster of flowers and held in place by an elasticized head band.

The development of the vogue in the last few weeks has been swift and feverish. How long it will last, however, is another matter. Buyers say the last shipment of the hats from abroad included chapeaux whose size was "something between a nickel and an ashtray" and whose design was so eccentric that manufacturing importers did not try to sell them.

Imitates Cowboy Type

Several felt importations from Paris are designed with creased or peaked cowboy crowns and rather wide rolling brims. An American designer shows a number of colored summer felts which have fairly high crowns and wide brims dipping slightly in front.

Another interesting note in midseason chapeaux concerns the use of ostrich tips, which are sometimes found in several colors on one hat.

White hats are going strong this summer. One leading New York designer's latest designs are accented with bright veils or with colored flowers or ostrich tips.

White pique pillboxes and Bretons, finished with a simple ribbon trim, are also shown for immediate hot-weather wear.

Eleven Booths In New Fair Building Not Reserved

When offices of the Panhandle and South Plains Fair association in the city hall closed Friday night, only 11 of the 50 booths in the new merchants building had not been reserved.

Twenty-two firms had obtained 39 booths, it was announced.

Firms with booths were: Lydick Roofing company, Hemphill-Wells company, Sears, Roebuck and company, Sherrod Bros. Hardware company, Economy Mills, Kuykendall Chevrolet company; Levine's, South Plains Music company, Newsom-Gibson Paint and Paper company, Lindsey Theaters, Inc., Magnolia Petroleum Refining company, Direct Mattress company, Sanders Tire company, Hub Clothiers, Ohlenbush Oil company, Avalanche-Journal Publications, Inc., Modern Appliances company, Waples-Platter company, Stephens dry goods company, Meinecke Bros. Hardware, Hodges Bros., and Household Supply company.

Bids will be opened at 9 o'clock Monday morning for construction of the building. The contract will be let at a meeting of the board of directors of the association in a meeting in chamber of commerce offices.

Authorities in charge of distribution of space in the new building said apparently there would be a shortage of space.

TO REMOVE PAINT FROM GLASS

Paint spots on window glass may be removed by rubbing with a soft cloth saturated with alcohol or turpentine. Varnish spots may also be removed by the same method.

Billy Shearer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dane Shearer of Slaton, returned recently from Estelline where he visited in the home of relatives.

Six Small Building Permits Are Issued Here Friday

Six small building permits were issued Friday at the office of the city building inspector authorizing construction and repairs estimated to cost $1,667.

Total for the week climbed to $21,565; for the month to $220,698.75; and for the year to $1,212,306.57.

CAKE SHOW PLANNED

At a Cooper Home Demonstration club meeting Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Raymond Wilke members were urged to bring angel food or sunshine cakes or jelly roll, or all three, to the cake show to be held at Hotel Lubbock June 30. The women were told that the committee in charge prefers uniced cakes and that the food should be brought to Allen's store by 9 a. m. the day of the show, so that they may be taken to the hotel by 10 o'clock.

The club will meet with Mrs. Carl Brown July 13.

Mrs. Wilke served ice cream, topped with fresh berries, and cookies to two guests, Mrs. Howard Bourland and Miss Elouise Wilke, and ten members.

Friend To Tech Dies In Blast

At the time of the time-bomb explosion near Monument, N. M., which was to cost the life of Jack Starkey and seven other men, Hugh T. Williams of the athletic department of Texas Technolcgical college was waiting to see Starkey.

The Tech athletic department had a sincere friend in Starkey, said Pete W. Cawthon, head coach. Starkey formerly was with the Amerada Petroleum company and had aided several Tech football men in obtaining jobs.

Had Gone To Hobbs

Williams, graduate manager of athletics at Tech, Calvin Hazlewood, administrative secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, and Ellis Foreman, member of the association, had gone to Hobbs to attend a meeting of the Hobbs branch of the association Thursday night. Williams intended to see Starkey and later learned he had been injured in the explosion. Starkey, who lived six hours after the explosion, was superintendent of the Two-State Drilling company at time of his death.

The trio from Lubbock arrived in Hobbs shortly after the explosion.

Heard Gruesome Tales

They heard gruesome tales brought from the accident scene. Later, the meeting of alumni and ex-students "almost was broken up" because of the accident. The group managed to dispose of some business, although the explosion was the principal topic of conversation.

Dr. J. H. Stiles and Dr. H. E. Mast of Lubbock sanitarium staff, Miss Ann Knight and Miss Edith Franklin, nurses, and Dr. Rush Crews, brother-in-law of Dr. Mast who recently graduated from the University of Texas school of medicine at Galveston and is visiting here, went to Hobbs in answer to a call for aid. Many doctors already were on the scene, however, and the Lubbock group returned.

Parts Of Flesh Found

Foy Pribble of Hobbs, second vice-president of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Students association, told the visiting trio from Tech of having visited the scene of the accident. Parts of flesh, including a severed hand and other body parts, lay about. The tires on nearby automobiles were torn to shreds. Several automobiles were damaged beyond repair.

Many cars were attracted to Hobbs and the explosion scene after the reports of the accident spread.

Conversations expressed the irony of the fact that George A. Kaseman, president of the Albuquerque, N. M., National Trust and Savings bank and of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal company, was at the scene of the explosion because he had expressed a wish to see an oil well "shot" for the first time.

The nitroglycerin time-bomb exploded about 5:30 o'clock and Williams, Hazlewood, and Foreman arrived in Hobbs at 6:20 o'clock. They went to Monument, six miles southwest of which town the explosion occurred, to see several persons whom they knew and there heard horrifying tales of the tragedy.

Picard Increases Lead In Goodall Invitation Play

CINCINNATI, June 24. (AP)—Henry Picard, the Hershey hurricane, stretched his lead like a rubber band today as the 15 pro golfers in the $5,000 Goodall invitational tourney steamed around to the 54th of the 126 holes.

After shooting a four-sub-par 67 in the morning round, Picard blazed out with a 66 in the afternoon for a total of 14 under par for the 54 holes. And, in the round-robin scoring, he moved from the seven-up lead he had yesterday to plus 10 after the morning round and a handsome plus 15 for the 54.

Lawson Little, who duplicated Picard's 67 and 66, was second in the standings with plus 10. Horton Smith, who shot 69-69, and Jimmy Thomson, with 68-68, were third with plus 6 each.

"Me Retire? Why Should I?" Reflects Aged Mentor After 28 Years At Longhorn Helm

By RAY NEUMANN
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, June 24.—Twenty-three baseball championships in 28 years for the University of Texas—that's the record of Coach W. J. (Uncle Billy) Disch.

The silver-haired patriarch of Southwest conference coaches, 68 years old and as spry as his greenest rookies, recently watched his Longhorns win the title after losing but two games all season and then took occasion to blast speculation as to possible retirement.

"Me retire?" he grinned. "As long as I can beat half the boys running around the bases and knock a ball over the centerfielder's head, why should I retire? No, sir, this game is my life and I'll die on the field. And they can bury me there, too."

Secret And A Suggestion

The secret of his success?

A thorough knowledge of the game and an ability to handle youngsters.

And Disch has a word for young mentors:

Fundamentals are all-important. My advice to young coaches is to play all positions before trying to teach them.

Disch, who has seen more than 30 players drafted directly from the university campus to the big leagues, came to the state school in 1911 after a number of years in midwest minor loops and in the Texas league.

Not Serious-Minded

Asked to compare students of today with those of yesteryear, "Uncle Billy" voices a complaint:

"These boys don't take things seriously. They don't have the interest in their studies—or in their baseball—those 15 or 20 years ago had."

The hardest thing to teach a rookie?

"Hitting," Disch replies. "That's really difficult. A lot depends on the kid's natural ability and how he got started. Habits are hard to break."

The sun-tanned coach wastes no time reflecting on past glories. Every year is a new season to him.

"The one great baseball truth," he opines, "is the common bond between the rookie and the grass in the ball park—they're both green in the spring."

Tennis Tourney Gets Down To Business At Wimbledon Friday

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24. (AP)—Wimbledon got down to the serious business today of deciding the tennis champions of the world.

Helen Wills Moody, playing today with glacial slowness, tomorrow meets Mrs. Bobbie Heine-Miller of South Africa in the first real crisis of the week. Don Budge must face Ronald S. Hayes, No. 1 singles player of the youthful 1938 British Davis Cup team.

Though Mrs. Moody first had to scramble to beat herself before she could beat Mrs. P. F. Glover of England, 6-4, 7-5, the United States in general had a pretty good day, winning ten of eleven matches.

Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., won easily, Miss Bundy from Joan Saunders of England, 6-4, 6-2, and Mrs. Fabyan, from Miss G. M. Southwell, 6-1, 6-0, and now must meet each other in the fourth round.

The U. S. loss came when Owen Anderson, 18-year-old student at the University of California at Los Angeles, through a slip in the program had to race from one doubles match to another. After pairing with English Rita Jarvia to beat Kho Sin Jie of China and Kay Stammers of England, he went to the adjoining court and, with Lawrence Nelson of Los Angeles, lost to J. B. Sturgeon and G. L. Tuckett, 6-3, 9-7, 7-9, 6-0.

Opener Delayed Until Today By Friday's Rain

Jupiter Pluvius caught up with local baseball Friday afternoon, washing out the proposed opening game between Wink and Lubbock at Parris field.

Local officials announced that the field was in good condition despite the deluge and, barring further rain, no later than 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the series would be inaugurated. Friday's postponed game will be played as part of a double-header starting at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Manager Jodie Tate has a pair of aces ready to start against the Hubbers and two days of inactivity may put the second-place Spudders in condition to battle Lubbock to the last ditch. Wink had a respite Thursday night on its home lot when the series final with Midland was rained out.

Bridwell Due To Start

Red Hay, veteran righthander, has been inactive since Monday and Frank Lucas since Sunday. Both likely will get a fling at the Hubbers before the sun sets on the Sabbath twin bill. One probably will be beckoned today.

Chucking assignment for the Hubbers will go to Clovis Bridwell, according to Manager Hack Miller.

When the Spudders made their last appearance here a month ago they were in the thick of the titular fight with Lubbock, but immediately went into a tailspin, dropping ten games in a row during a two-week stretch. They since have gained their equilibrium and have bounced from fifth to second slot.

Clovis-Hobbs Game Halted

The club is defending champion of the league, but unfortunate injuries and minor reverses have kept it off the top this season.

The all-New Mexico feud, a fight for third position in the standings, also was cancelled by rain at Clovis Friday afternoon. The Pioneers are resting a half game ahead of Hobbs, which concluded a three-game series here Thursday.

Big Spring Bobbles Used By Pioneers For Win, 6 To 2

BIG SPRING, June 24. (Special) Midland rapped Clarence Trantham, ace Baron righthander, for only six hits but used adequate five fielding errors of his mates to beat Big Spring here today, 6 to 2.

The Barnabe nine found Cliff Neighbors and Chief Benny Franklin for a like number of safeties but were unable to produce necessary tallies.

The loss dropped Big Spring two and a half games back of the Cardinals and Hobbs, who are in a virtual tie for fourth place.

Oil Well Brought In On Land Owned By Martin And Dean

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—Dizzy Dean, Chicago Cubs' righthander, said today oil had been struck on land given to him and Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, three years ago by S. A. Murphy, Wichita, Kas., oilman.

Dean said he received a wire from Murphy last night saying "Your well came in today. More power to you."

Dean said Murphy had deeded the property to Martin and himself when both were on the Cardinals who were playing an exhibition game in Wichita at that time. Dean and Martin met Murphy and his son at the game and the pitcher presented the youngster an autographed ball while Martin gave him a bat.

The players later introduced the boy to other members of the team. Later Murphy wrote the players he was giving them ten acres of prospective oil land in Sumner county, Kas., in thanks for their kindness to his son.

'It Ain't So,' Joe Says Of Retirement

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 24. — Joe Louis said today that any reports he was planning to retire from his position as world's heavyweight boxing champion "just ain't so."

The 24 year old negro heavyweight king, arriving today from New York, asked, "why should I retire?" when queried about reports he might quit after one more bout, which may see Max Baer as his opponent.

"I'm the undisputed heavyweight champion now because I evened up that knockout by Max Schmeling two years ago," Louis said, "but I'm not thinking of quitting either now or after another fight. I'm young and there'll be lots of guys to fight."

Louis said, "that's fine" when told improvement was noted today in the condition of Schmeling, in a New York hospital with a back injury incurred during the title bout Wednesday night. Louis paid tribute to the German as a "brave fighter."

Julian Black, one of Louis' co-managers, said tentative plans called for Joe to meet Baer in the fall but that nothing definitely had been agreed upon.

"I consider Baer is always a dangerous fighter," said Louis of the man he once knocked out. "You never can tell when a punch may fly at you when you're in the ring with Max."

Max' Condition Is Improved; Louis-Baer Fight Probable

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—As Max Schmeling showed distinct improvement from his back injury, Promoter Mike Jacobs today went ahead with plans to match Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis against Max Baer in September, probably in New York.

Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, has a date with Promoter Jacobs tomorrow at which time he expects to sign a three-year contract giving Jacobs exclusive control of Baer's ring activities.

At the same time a bid came in the form of cable from London and guaranteed Louis "$200.000 in American currency or the privilege of 40 per cent of the gate" for a late September meeting with Tommy Farr, British Empire champion whom the Brown Bomber outpointed last year.

Schmeling spent a comfortable day in the Polyclinic hospital although his manager, Joe Jacobs, suffered a case of high blood pressure until an x-ray picture of Schmeling's injury was released by the hospital. Joe wanted the plate to prove to a handful of experts who had some doubts as to whether Schmeling actually was injured. Finally, Promoter Jacobs, accompanied by an attorney, went to the hospital and returned with the x-ray plate.

Max Machon, trainer and confidant of Schmeling's, said the Teuton still is anxious to get a return match with Louis.

State Muny Golf Tourney Opens Today In Dallas

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 24.—Slender Dennis Lavender, a picture of golfing nonchalance, tomorrow starts his bid for a fourth Texas golf title in the 72-hole medal tournament of the Texas Municipal Golf association.

Twice winner of the muny title and once winner of the Texas Golf association's blue ribbon event, the nerveless Dallasite starts defense of a title he won last year as the ranking favorite.

Stars Are Entered

From muny courses a great band of par snipers arrived to challenge the veteran's titular try over Tenison park's 37-35—72 course. Most formidable of his foes, critics agreed, were two South Texas youngsters.

Blond Lonnie Wendland of San Antonio, who took the title in a stirring 1933 tournament, and Arthur (Buck) Luce of Austin, twice state junior champion, were conceded great chances.

Fired 277 Last Year

There were a host of other stars, including Hack Williford, Joe Moore, jr., Jimmy Chasey and Bill Thurmond, all of San Antonio; Collis Glasgow, former Beaumont city champion; Tom Miller, Austin's University of Texas star; Derald Lehman and Jimmy Walkup, Fort Worth tournament stars; Eddie Connor, Peyton Slade and Gordon Young of Dallas; Orion Daniel and Tom Williams of Wichita Falls.

Lavender, who won last year's event with an amazing 277 total for 72 holes, has scorched Tenison in practice rounds. Only two days ago he negotiated the course in 68, four under par, and then laid up his clubs and waited for tomorrow's start. He was the star of the amateur Texas Cup team in matches with the state's professionals at Tyler last week-end.

Senior Event Scheduled

First round will start at 8 a. m. Only those players within 15 strokes of the first day's 36-hole leader will continue in the final 36 holes of the championship flight Sunday. Others will be relegated to lower flights.

Professional Tom Sockwell reported a large entry for the senior flight, embracing golfers 40 years of age and over. The winner of the championship flight will be sent to Cleveland for the National Public Links tournament.

Liberal Voting Urged By FDR

White House. He was seated before a specially built desk, into which the paraphernalia of broadcasting were set. In a niche behind him was a bust of Lafayette and to one side a portrait of President Grant.

Purge Has Been Hinted

Primarily, it was the president's utterance on the coming elections which attracted attention. For months Washington and students of politics throughout the nation have been discussing a "Democratic purge," an effort by administration men to beat Democratic members of congress who have opposed certain administration policies, particularly the court bill.

Invariably in the past, the president has said that his was a position of neutrality. Tonight, he said:

"As president of the United States, I am not asking the voters of the country to vote for Democrats next November as opposed to Republicans or members of any other party. Nor am I, as president, taking part in Democratic primaries.

Claims He Has Right

"As the head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles or involving a clear misuse of my own name.

"Do not misunderstand me. I certainly would not indicate a preference in a state primary merely because a candidate, otherwise liberal in outlook, had conscientiously differed with me on any single issue. I should be far more concerned about the general attitude of a candidate toward present-day problems . . .

May Block Progress

"We all know that progress may be blocked by outspoken reactionaries and also by those who say 'yes' to a progressive objective, but who always find some reason to oppose any specific proposal to gain that objective."

Mr. Roosevelt's call for the election of "liberal" candidates although not stated in so many words, was hardly mistakable. He provided the voters with definitions of the "liberal" and "conservative" schools of thought, identifying himself with the former.

"Roughly speaking, the liberal school of thought recognizes that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies.

Can Solve Problems

"Those of us in America who hold to this school of thought, insist that these new remedies can be adopted and successfully maintained in this country under our present form of government . . .

"We believe that we can solve our problems through continuing effort, through Democratic processes instead of fascism or communism . . .

"The opposing or conservative school of thought, as a general proposition, does not recognize the need of government itself to step in and take action to meet these new problems. It believes that individual initiative and private philanthropy will solve them—that we ought to repeal many of the things we have done and go back, for instance, to the old gold standard, or stop all this business of old age pensions and unemployment insurance, or repeal the securities and exchange act, or let monopolies thrive unchecked — return, in effect to the kind of government we had in the twenties."

Blows To Be Struck

The president said that since freedom of expression, "especially freedom of the press," prevailed in this country "a lot of mean blows would be struck between now and election day." By "blows," he said he meant "misrepresentation, personal attacks and appeals to prejudice." He added a word of advice to "liberal candidates," saying he hoped they would "confine themselves to argument and not resort to blows." He recalled, in conclusion, a Chinese story ending in the maxim "'the man who strikes first admits that his ideas have given out'."

Mr. Roosevelt said that although the congress just closed left many things undone, "barring unforeseen events, there will be no session until the new congress, to be elected in November, assembles next January."

Previously there had been talk of a special session to help the distressed railroads.

Farsighted Program

The wage-hour act he called the "most farsighted program for the benefit of the workers ever adopted," with the possible exception of the social security act. And he aroused curiosity as to whether he was referring to any one individual by the following statement:

"Do not let any calamity howling executive with an income of $1,000 a day, who has been turning his employes over to the government relief rolls in order to preserve his company's undistributed reserves, tell you—using his stockholders' money to pay the postage for his personal opinions—that a wage of $11.00 a week is going to have a disastrous effect on all American industry. Fortunately for business as a whole, and therefore for the nation, that type of executive is a rarity with whom most business executives heartily disagree."

Attitude Is Changed

On the subject of the courts, he said:

"The attitude of the supreme court toward constitutional questions is entirely changed.

"Its recent decisions are eloquent testimony of a willingness to collaborate with the two other branches of government to make democracy work . . ."

The president said he was convinced that the American people fundamentally insist upon two things in the relationship of government to private business.

"The first," he said, "is complete honesty at the top in looking after the use of other people's money, and in apportioning and paying individual and corporate taxes according to ability to pay. The second is sincere respect for the need of all at the bottom to get work—and through work to get a really fair share of the good things of life, and a chance to live and rise."

All Made Mistakes

Business, labor and government, he made mistakes last year, he continued.

"Last year," he said, "the leaders of private enterprise pleaded for a sudden curtailment of public spending and said they would take up the slack. But they made the mistake of increasing their inventories too fast and setting many of their prices too high for their goods to sell.

"Some labor leaders goaded by decades of oppression of labor made the mistake of going too far. They were not wise in using methods which frightened many well-wishing people. They asked employers not only to bargain with them but to put up with jurisdictional disputes at the same time.

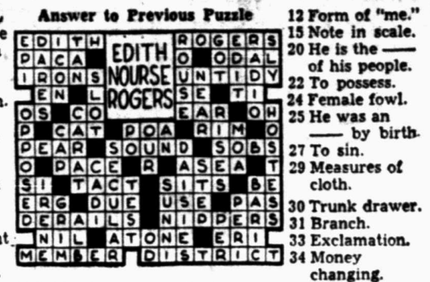

"Government too made mistakes—mistakes of optimism in assuming that industry and labor would themselves make no mistakes—and government made a mistake of timing in not passing a farm bill or a wage and hour bill last year."

Lessons had been learned by all three, however, the president added, and he now looked for cooperation. He asked for "concerted opposition" by capital and labor to wage cuts which would "further reduce purchasing power."

Before tonight's speech, Mr. Roosevelt set his monopoly investigation going. He held a White House conference, at which part of the investigating committee was selected.

to the part the women played in pioneering the county. The vast changes that have taken place in the past 25 or 30 years were pointed out, to show the rapid advancement of the area.

President McLaurin recognized J. Wright Mooare of Snyder, K. J. Milwee of Lubbock, Ed Zieliitz and F. M. Sherrod of Tahoka, all of whom were pioneer residents and participated in the organization and development of the county.

Music On Program

Miss Christia Cowan, daughter of Troy Cowan, a pioneer, sang "Long Long Ago." Two string bands, the Morris and the Williams, gave several selections each. W. B. Morris and his sons Doule and Donnie comprised one group and J. B. Williams and his son J. B. jr., and Troy, the other.

Mrs. James W. Elliott, herself a pioneer resident of the county, presided during the afternoon session.

First contest was that of the oldest woman pioneer in the county. Nominations were made from the floor and a number of women were named. Mrs. Pamie Coughan, 90, was the oldest. Others named, and their ages, included: Mrs. J. D. Dyer, 82; Mrs. E. N. Weather, 81; Mrs. O. G. Kershner of Lubbock, 79; Mrs. L. G. Phillips, 80; Mrs. O. T. Patterson, 79; Mrs. A. N. "My people used to roam this country to hunt buffalo and other game that used to run in this country at that time," he said. "My father roamed these prairies." The Indian used a bow and four arrows to illustrate the Indian custom of a man asking for the hand of a girl or woman in marriage. Reverend Butterfield, a missionary who accompanied him, spoke briefly.

In the oldest pioneer contest A. N. Treadway of O'Donnell, 91, was winner, with J. K. Milwee of Lubbock, 87, runner-up. Others nominated were: O. G. Kershner of Lubbock, 84; J. H. Franklin, 83; L. G. Giles Shaw of Tahoka, played a guitar for his sister, Mrs. Jernie Swan, who sang "Home on the Range." Mrs. John Randal of Terry county, the first teacher in Lynn county, was introduced. Several of her pupils stood with her.

Women In Jig Contest

Blankenship won the jig contest against a field that included three women.

Aunt Becky Roberts, a pioneer, was accorded the best liar and was presented with the prize by Mrs. Elliott. Truett Smith was awarded second place. "I've never told a lie in my life and I'm too old to begin now," Aunt Becky said, as the crowd gave approval.

Jim Weatherford, W. E. Smith, Gary White and Hall Robinson were other contestants. Jackie Weathers played a French harp.

Secretary Smith announced the old fiddlers contest was a draw and the committee awarded both the Morris and Williams groups a prize.

The affair closed with an old-time square dance, with Weatherford calling the numbers. Down town, at night a square dance was to be given in a skating rink.

General Rains

Crosbyton to aid growth of cotton. Floyd county received varying amounts of rain. In some places only a quarter of an inch fell; in others the precipitation was measured at an inch and a half. Cotton was benefitted, it was reported and the unharvested wheat unhurt.

Between a half and an inch of moisture fell at Spur to boost cotton prospects. About 90 per cent of the wheat in that area had been harvested.

According to an Associated Press report from Plainview, 1.55 inches fell there and in that immediate area.

In contrast to high maximum temperatures here recently, the high Friday, according to the airpotr, was only 76.4 degrees. Early in the night the barometer was steady; ceiling was 1,200 feet; skies were totally cloudy; and a 12-mile-an-hour south wind prevailed.

Colorful Double Rainbow Is Seen By Hockley Residents

LEVELLAND, June 24. (Special)—Described by old-timers as the "most vivid, most distinct, and most colorful they had ever seen," a double rainbow here early tonight created much excitement.

The rainbow first became visible about 25 minutes before sunset and remained in view until the sun had gone out of sight.

"Phenomenal" was the one-word description given it by Tom V. Watson of the Hockley county board of development.

counter-espionage division able to perform efficient work.

Army and navy officials asserted both branches of the service have intelligence sections whose activities include counter-espionage, but that no funds are specifically earmarked for the special work.

The president also commented on the question of publishing a series of newspaper articles on the New York spy investigation, saying printing of the stories involved patriotism and ethics.

The stories were prepared by Leon G. Turrou, G-man who directed the investigation and quit his job to write the series.

Publication of the spy stories has been delayed pending the outcome of a suit brought by the government.

The president said the facts learned by the former agent, whom he did not name, called for criminal prosecution, that the agent resigned before the trial, and contracted to write articles which seriously jeopardized the work of prosecution.

Carroll and not Paul Dwyer killed the aged physician."

tery" underlying the situation. They turned to the unexciting explanation that the market had become all sold out. Slightly better business statistics and hopes that the government pump priming program would take hold, brought a little buying and that sent prices up easily and attracted more buying.

One possibility which Wall Streeters have been discussing as a potential spur to recovery has been readjustments in steel prices and wages. U. S. Steel subsidiaries after the close of the markets announced a cut in prices, amounting to about 6 1-2 per cent on two leading products and varying amounts on others. Earlier in the week, Philip Murray, head of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, had flatly denied that wage reductions were under discussion.

WESTERN ATMOSPHERE

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Helena, capital of Montana, outgrew cowboy attire so long ago the chamber of commerce believes its residents may have forgotten how to wear ten gallon hats. Young Negroes Are Executed

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., June 24. (AP)—Two young negroes were executed here today for criminal assault on an 18-year-old Memphis, Tenn., white girl last Christmas night.

Frank "Buster" Carter, 26, was strapped in the electric chair at 4:58 a. m. and pronounced dead three minutes later by the prison physician after administration of two electrical charges.

Theo Thomas, 28, went to the chair at 5:18 a. m. He also was given two electrical shocks and was declared dead at 5:20 a. m.

The two were convicted at Marion, Ark., Jan. 6 of assaulting the Memphis white girl near West Memphis, Ark. The state charged the two attacked the girl after finding her parked in a car with a northeast Arkansas youth.

The Only Logical Ruling

RULING by the attorney-general's department that names of candidates who mail their filings before the expiration of the deadline period must be printed upon ballots is the only one which logic, practice and fair-play would permit.

The question arose when certain candidates for district offices waited until the last day to mail their filings to county chairmen for places on the Democratic ballot in the primary next July 23. Naturally, such filings did not reach the chairmen until after the deadline had passed. Some of the county chairmen ruled that the filing actually had to be in their hands before the deadline to cause a name to be printed on the ballot.

That theory was faulty. The chairmen know, or should know, that accepted practice in all public life—including the payment of income taxes—is that deadline is determined by the postmark. It is a practice which can be established by custom. It is a practice which can be followed without inconvenience to anyone, or without causing any important delay in the printing of ballots.

The attorney-general's opinion, we believe, is thoroughly in accord with the wishes of the overwhelming mass of a citizenship already exasperated by an excess of technicalities in politics and public affairs.

The Stock Market Rise

THE fact that stocks continue a steady rise seemingly should be good news. It should be, and perhaps is, indicative of improving business conditions.

Despite that fact, the market upswing which Friday continued into its fifth consecutive day causes a feeling of uneasiness among those who recall a certain black October day in 1929.

Then the market had been rising steadily, not merely for days, but with occasional minor losses, for months and years. It had continued so long that the nation had accepted it as a matter of course. It had become lulled to the feeling that the climb would never end; that there was no ceiling. Then came "the day," and within hours the gains of years were wiped out.

What the end of the present ascension may be no one can say. Probably, at worse, a collapse of the movement would be without serious consequences. But just the same the nation has learned from bitter experience to watch such things with misgiving.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

COMANCHE

Contrary to popular supposition, there was one survivor of the Custer Massacre of June 25, 1876, on the Little Bighorn, in Montana. A horse, Comanche, the mount of Captain Keogh, was wounded seven times and apparently left for dead on the battlefield. Captain Keogh was listed among the victims of the Sioux Warriors. When discovered two days later, this horse was seen to show signs of life, and was transported to Fort Abraham Lincoln at Bismarc, North Dakota. There every care was given him, and he entirely recovered from his wounds. He lived until 1891, a favorite of the ladies of the post, and at every parade and military review, Comanche attended riderless, with saddle and bridle. He is now on display at the Museum of the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—liked new places, new jobs, new girls.
HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.
TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday: Reverses come to the Murray home; Joe loses his job, there is talk of closing the lace mill, and the Murray hopes fade away.

CHAPTER XV

Joe was grim these days, and Terry was silent. Her bland gaiety was impotent against this. Joe went out each day when Terry departed for work, and if he had nothing definite to attempt, he walked with her to the streetcar. He would have sat beside her in silence all the way to the mill if the carfare were not an extravagance. He was waiting for her when she alighted from the car at night, and they walked home together. When they arrived home he went furiously to work, either lightening or entirely relieving every task. He did not stay to do the work alone because he did not spend a minute alone there all the day.

He walked, walked all the day. He went to the employment offices of the plants, where the "No Men Wanted" signs were waiting, leering at him. He lay in waiting for bosses he knew and accosted them cheerily, uttering a set formula and hearing a set reply. He ranged mean streets downtown, eyeing people at work hungrily, resentfully, hatefully.

You know the things that Joe did; possibly you have done them yourself.

If you have, and were meantime living on the bounty of a woman, a small gay needful person whom you set out to rescue and help and have only dragged into privation and dread, if you have exhausted her vocabulary of encouragement until you winced at the familiar words, always beholding your incompetence to cope with life, the hollowness of her original estimate of you . . . then perhaps you know what Joe thought, as well as did. I could not begin to tell you his thoughts unless you had some closer inkling than vague words.

His mind was in the grip of a slow and morbid fever which showed only in the quiet grimness of his eyes. Terry looked at him and was frightened more at his eyes than all the menace of their plight. This was something she could not cope with either, could not beguile him out of; not all her witchery could prevail against that grim stolidity.

"Darling," she cried, "close your eyes. Kiss me . . . Now pretend."

"Pretend what?"

"Oh, pretend we're just married and you love me and we're rich and going to have a house and a little car and a garden in the back . . ."

The grimness cracked a little. "In back of what? The car?"

"No, in back of the house! We'll have something else in the back of the car. Guess."

"Tools?"

"No, no . . . Babies!"

He scrutinized her swiftly, but she shook her head, smiling. "No, darling. I said, pretending. Some great day—there'll be a Terry and a Joe, and then another Joe!"

But there was no charm for him in the illusion. A shadow had passed over so swiftly and broken the spell. He smiled for her, but his eyes told the truth. And she was afraid, for this was a Joe whom she could not handle.

Once when Joe was walking on the street a small but shiny and brand new roadster drew up at the curb just ahead and the driver got out to run into a house. He recognized Joe and waited. It was Tommy Withers, a bit older, sure of himself, prosperous looking, jaunty even in Joe Murray's sight after avoiding him so long. It was his big moment.

"How do you like the new gondola, Joe?"

Joe looked at him a moment, then looked at the car, "Nice. Where did you get it?"

Withers was waiting for the question. "Just bought it."

"H'm," said Joe.

"Lined up a job at the new broadcasting station plant on Marshall street. Maintenance work. Steady; same old wage scale. You picked the wrong trade, fellow."

"You're an electrician?"

"Always was."

"Huh! Lucky break; not the trade," said Joe. "Glad somebody's getting it."

"Thanks!" And before going inside Withers added, "How's the missus?"

"Good!" said Joe, and walked on.

A small incident, but significant. Small incidents make big thoughts, if not always right thoughts. Withers, whom Joe had once beaten ignominiously, waiting jauntily to show off before Joe, to patronize him. To patronize Joe Murray. Joe grimly, glumly, taking it, and though saying very little, irresistibly impressed, depressed. And then walking, walking. This man, Joe Murray . . .

He walked by night too. Not in the streets, on his lean legs, in corporeal reality, but in the mind, during the reaches of the night when Terry slept soundly in weariness beside him and there was no weariness to drug Joe. He walked far, alone. He walked even where he had no right, he knew, but far off things beckoned now, in a way which was an enchantment he could not withstand.

And when he had gone far, a certain distance, he was not alone any longer. So much had things changed, even to that extent; what was gone had returned. There was a sound of music and a familiar smell of earth in spring. There was many things: there was joy of working and sleeping and eating and loving, there was a genial, lusty and untroubled laughter, there was a light voice, a glint of sun, a perfume, a peace . . . a peace.

Helen! Polack! . . .

Once in the darkness he wept, silently. This man, Joe Murray.

There came an afternoon when, as he met Terry at the streetcar, there was a tension on Joe and a determination. She was quick to read him, quicker day by day. She hurried to join him and caught his arm, looking at him.

"You've got something to tell? News? Good news?"

"Wait till we get up the house," he said.

"Tell me. I can't wait."

"We'll go up the house," he said, and her eagerness vanished and she went along quietly. She knew it was not good news.

She did not urge him to talk when they were alone, and he found it a little more difficult than he expected. Her silence made it hard. He studied her as she went about, not looking at him, absorbed in putting away her hat, filling the kettle, opening a package.

"I found work," he said.

Now she stopped and looked at him. "Where?"

"National Shipyards . . . at Port Lansing."

"I knew it," she breathed. "You want to go away." She came to him. "Port Lansing is dead. There's no building. Why go there, Joe?"

"Refitting; refurnishing. There's work. Maybe permanent. An old buddy of mine has a big job there. I wrote to him, if there was an opening to give me the break. I just got an answer."

She started, then she said, "It's so far, Joe. We'd never see each other."

"It's a job."

"But . . . Joe, I can't let you go! What will I do?"

"It's a job, Terry," grimly.

A terror was growing in her. "No, Joe! Stay here with me. We'll make out somehow. You'll get a job here. The contracts will be renewed, the plant will open."

"The money is almost gone. There's only a few days' emergency money left. Your job isn't safe—and it can't keep us both. And there's my old pay waiting for me down at Port Lansing."

Terry lost all control. Here her art, her management collapsed. For the first time, she became importunate, she wept, she pleaded. She grasped at straws, promising to do anything for him, to slave, to manage, to do all the worrying. She would beg for him, steal for him. She must have him, without him she was helpless, worthless, utterly undependable. All kinds of disaster would come to her.

His face was set. He argued stolidly, patiently. He reviewed the reasons; he'd likely get away to come see her occasionally. Then he ceased answering. Then suddenly he shouted at her to shut up.

"I'm going! Don't make it any worse than it is. There's not a damned thing left to do. If I could take care of you better, I would—down there I'll send you money every week and keep a roof over your head."

"I don't want a roof over my head . . . all alone."

He swore and grabbed up his hat and made for the door.

Crops In Vernon And Lubbock Areas To Be Unusually Late

DALLAS, June 24. (AP) — Aubrey Lockett of Vernon, president of the State Ginners' association, said here today cotton crops in the Vernon and Lubbock areas would be unusually late this season.

Weather disturbances have caused replanting in a large measure, Lockett said.

He said he knew of no responsibility for federal regulation enforcement laid to ginners under the present agricultural act.

Near Louisburgh, Ireland, is an automobile road sign which says "Clare Island, 3 Miles." Clare Island is about three miles out at sea off the Irish coast.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

SENATOR GUY GILLETTE has discovered that nothing succeeds like success. After he licked New Dealer Wearin, he committed political grand larceny in the United States Congress.

It is estimated that amendments sponsored by the Iowa Senator hard upon his repulse of the New Deal totaled some $400,000,000 for the farmers who stood by him. His shoved through the $212,000,000 scheme for extra money for A.A.A. beneficiaries, and he revised certain other farm measures so that wheat would benefit at the expense of cotton. The Senate, anxious to insure the victory of an anti-White House man, raised no objection to his political pilfering.

The Iowan's luck in cashing in on his victory contrasts strangely with the misfortune of Senator Claude Pepper of Florida. Though the latter was supposedly renominated by New Deal votes, and asked for reward immediate action on the Florida ship canal, he was snubbed all around. The subsidized corn financed by the Gillette grab will still sail around Florida and not through the canalized northern tip.

IRRITATION: British Prime Minister Chamberlain recently committed a blunder which makes the Roosevelt administration loath to play along with him any more. All the inside facts have been relayed to the State department in diplomatic pouches.

When the House of Commons interrogated him on Franco's bombardment of supposed British ships, the Prime Minister replied that no defense or protest was contemplated. Now, the facts are that these vessels are owned and manned by Danish and Grecian interests, which have simply registered under the British flag for self-protection. There is no reason why Great Britain should imperil Europe and the Empire in their defense. No real British interest is involved.

Had Mr. Chamberlain told the facts to the Commons, the issue would have died down. But now many of the British people are even more aroused against his policies than before. They think that he has refused to protect British skippers and the British flag. And the Roosevelt administration cannot afford to tie up with Londoners who do not command popular support at home. Secretary Hull, though he can't admit it, is becoming increasingly impatient with Whitehall.

REVIVAL: The Townsend movement—contrary to a previous report by Whirligig—appears to have gained it second wind. The second depression has apparently restimulated political demands for old-age pensions.

The Townsendites helped to renominate Claude Pepper in Florida because he catered to them in his fierce primary fight. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, who has a couple of tough customers on his hands, has agreed to address their California convention. That indicates their strength in the Southwest. It is generally agreed that they wielded the balance of power in the Martin-Hess primary contest in Oregon. They haven't many votes, but they have enough to make their influence felt in close contests.

Social Security board investigators privately report a revival of the $80-a-month movement. Its influence declined for a while during the first period of Roosevelt recovery, but the current depression has brought it to life again. It may muss up next fall's elections in certain states no end. It may be almost dead, but it's still kicking.

PREFERENCE: President Roosevelt has warned certain Congressmen that the word "Democrat" will not fall from his lips during the Congressional campaign. He will throw his admittedly tremendous influence behind "liberals," whether they belong to the Democratic, Republican, Progressive or Leftist parties.

Several prominent partyites have sought to dissuade the President from such a party-smashing program. They concede that the Democratic organization as now constituted, with so many Southern and Northern conservatives, will not go along with him to the bitter end in his demand for more reforms. But it is their opinion that he can win more lasting improvements within the party than by organizing a ragtail-bobtail political mob which will desert him when he displeases them even in little things. They recall that it was a few Wisconsin Progressives who killed his government reorganization bill.

But the President won't listen to the cautious crowd. He's mad at the old-fashioned Democrats because of their opposition to his reforms in the Seventy-fifth Congress, and he's set on weeding them out. He prefers a good Republican to a bad Democrat any day.

CHANGE: R.F.C. loans to industry measure a slight and slow improvement in general business. Even the normally grave Jesse Jones, R.F.C. chairman, is smiling.

The quality of the loans is more gilt-edged than when President Roosevelt liberalized borrowing provisions a few months ago. Then many requests were so speculative that no sound institution—public or private—could honor them. The security was inadequate and the reputation of the prospective borrower was none too good. Now the boys are coming through with fairly sound proposals and decent security. They want to put money and men to work on valid projects—present and prospective orders.

There are other evidences of a gradually improving economic situation. Private banks are underwriting more requests for money than in several years. Year ago the R.F.C. financed 90 per cent, whereas the banks took only 10 per cent. Now the private institutions are handling 40 to 50 per cent of the business. The boys with the glass eyes are beginning to get confidence.

UPPED: Arthur Mullen's famous $160,000 lobby claim has finally been settled. It was a good deed which must go to the credit of the kindly Franklin D. Roosevent.

The story is so old that it has probably been forgotten. But Mr. Mullen, who managed Mr. Roosevelt's floor campaign at Chicago in 1932, migrated to the Capital and sought to cash in on his achievements. He represented certain Nebraska power interests in their effort to obtain P.W.A. loans, and submitted a $160,000 charge that Secretary Ickes refused to pay. The latter offered to compromise for $10,000.

This incident—together with the President's public denunciation of lobbyists—almost broke Mr. Mullen's heart. Now he is seriously ill. But as a sick-room present the President upped the Ickes ante by $30,000.

NEW YORK
By Alan Barth

NEW YORK observers of Ireland's turbulent affairs see little likelihood of enduring harmony between North Ireland and the Free State. Americans, they say have overestimated the success of the recently negotiated Anglo-Irish treaty.

The Free State is still quite as definitely set as ever upon having the principle of self-determination applied to Ireland as a whole, instead of separately to its two halves. The North, on the other hand, is set with equal definiteness upon retaining its own political identity.

Trouble is likely to arise, according to informed sources, from the Free State's grievance over the treatment of Catholics in the North. The grievance has not very solid foundation. Oppression of Catholics in Ulster is reliably reported to be ludicrously exaggerated. But it is a grievance which can readily be made to seem serious and to provoke discord.

REQUISITE: New York's giant "rice bowl" party, held simultaneously with some 2,000 others throughout the country for the benefit of victims of the war and floods in China, proved an undoubted success from a humanitarian point of view. Gastronomically, however, it turned out to be less than perfect for some of the 5,000 who attended. They had trouble getting their rice.

The Chinese restaurants along Mott, Pell and Doyers Streets where the guests were to dine were overwhelmed by their sudden popularity. Table reservations were forgotten. Dinner parties were left standing until the diners felt convinced that they themselves were famine-stricken refugees. The Chinese were extremely affable about it all—but altogether helpless.

More than one guest suggested that what they really needed was a few Japanese to get things organized.

Texas Topics---Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, June 24. (AP)—The question often is asked whether John N. Garner is too old to be a candidate for President in [illegible].

Persons promoting a movement to "draft" him for the Democratic presidential nomination say he is not.

Born Nov. 22, 1868, Garner now is 69. He would be 72 when inaugurated if he were nominated and elected, and should he be re-nominated and re-elected four years later, would be 80 on expiration of his second term.

Against the argument his age precludes his candidacy, these points are advanced:

1. He has rugged health, knows how to preserve it and he has consistently safeguarded it.

2. He is so well-known nationally it would not be necessary for him to make the strenuous campaign a younger man, but one less widely known, would have to make.

3. Many men of his years and beyond are very active in business, professional and political life.

Indians Raid Supreme Ct

A group of Indians invaded the conference room of the Texas Supreme court recently. They were Chiefs Tic-ca-itchee and Kina of the Alabama and Coshatti tribes and a brave named Ramond Poncho.

In full tribal regalia, they came to the capitol to see Gov. James V. Allred to hold an Indian pow-wow at Livingston June 23, and paid an accidental visit to the Supreme Ct.

Two white men who accompanied them, Clem Fain, jr., and Emmett Manning, both of Livingston, took them to call on Judge S. H. German, member of the Supreme court's commission, and while making the call they were observed by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, who had them in to the conference room for all the court to meet.

The head chief, Tic-ca-itchee, invited members of the court to the pow-wow and Justice Cureton thanked him.

So far as is known here it was the first time an Indian had visited the court.

About 90 years ago, in 18[illegible], two chiefs of the Indians, who live on Texas' only Indian reservation near Livingston, came to Austin to ask Gov. George Wood to protect them against livestock thefts by bad white settlers.

Governor Allred accepted the invitation to the pow-wow and proclaimed June 23 Texas Indian day.

POLITICAL challenges of varying nature are not unusual in election years but here is one a little out of the ordinary. It involves the race for the place on the Supreme court now held by Associate Justice Richard Critz.

Tom Smiley of Karnes City, one of two men opposing Justice Critz for re-election, has proposed to Dean Ira P. Hildebrand of the University of Texas Law school that if a check of district court records did not show that Smiley had tried two cases to Critz' one then Smiley would withdraw from the contest. If the records did not bear out Smiley's claim, Critz should withdraw.

A further proposal was that Hildebrand select any county in Texas, barring Karnes and Williamson, and let an unbiased committee interview the first 100 voters they met. Williamson is Critz' home county.

"If they do not find that I am better known than your candidate, I will withdraw from the race," Smiley said. "If not, he must withdraw."

The challenge was directed at statements allegedly made by Hildebrand that Smiley was not an outstanding lawyer and not known outside his own county.

W. H. Davidson of Jefferson county also is seeking Critz' place.

It Depends On How You See It

Governor Allred says he does not recall any important political campaign in which personalities were not injected.

At a press conference he noted that this year's campaign for governor was "warming up," and expressed the opinion there would be "plenty of heat" before it was ended.

He said he was enjoying his position of "sitting on the sidelines and watching the other fellows fight it out."

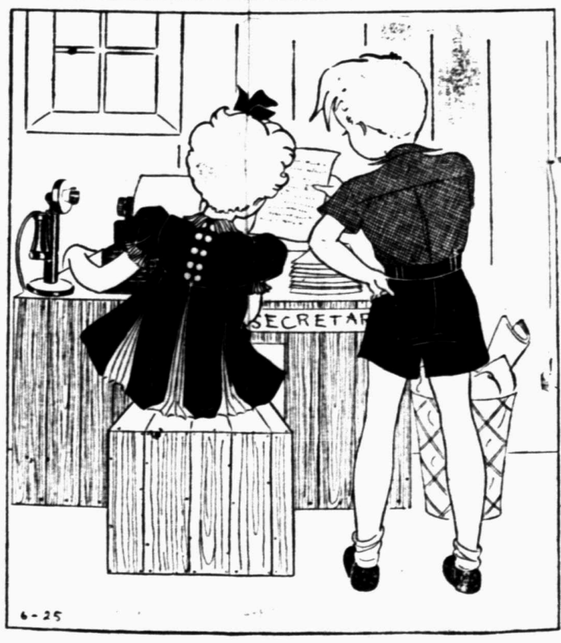

"As far as personalities are concerned," he remarked, "a campaign nearly always starts out with the candidates saying they are going to talk only about principles and issues.

"But as they go along the situation changes and personalities begin to appear. Of course, people seldom agree as to what constitutes personalities.

"If the other fellow says something about you he's getting personal; if you say something about him, you're citing the record."

A short time previously former Gov. James E. Ferguson had opined that the people liked "fireworks" in candidates' speeches.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE — No. 42 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Abdul Keb contrived a secret rendezvous with Tarzan's jailer, and pressed him with persuasion, threats and bribes. "No one will ever know," the Arab insisted; "it will appear that Tarzan was killed while trying to escape. Simple!" The jailer nodded assent. . . .

. . . And while the thread of fate was weaving a net of doom around the ape-man, the Tarzan Twins and little Yvonne were moving cheerily along the jungle trail, confident that they were homeward bound. Dick stopped and looked back at Doc, who had fallen behind.

"Go ahead," Doc urged; "I've got to fix my bow. I hope I won't have to use it, but you can never tell." And so while his cousin and Yvonne walked on, he gathered some tough, fibrous jungle grasses and wound them around a split that had appeared in his bow.

"We ought to have you home by night," Dick declared jauntily. "I hope you're right," Yvonne sighed. As she spoke she halted abruptly and voiced a little cry of terror. At the same moment, twenty frightful men, snarling fiercely, darted up from ambush!

FIFTH RALLY STAGED

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—The stock market put on its fifth consecutive rally today but it was forced to override an exceptionally large batch of profit selling in the accomplishment.

Heavy buying from all parts of the country swamped boardrooms in the forenoon, sweeping leaders up 1 to 5 points. Offerings at reduced quotations became more insistent later and top marks were chipped down in many cases at the close.

Blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares cluttered the ticker tape in the initial lap with the recording machinery as much as 4 minutes behind. The turnover of 820,000 shares from 10 to 11 o'clock was the largest for this period since last October.

Volume dwindled substantially as selling seeped into the list and transfers for the day totaled 2,290,540 shares compared with 2,408,270 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to emerge with a net advance of .5 of a point at 44.5, a new peak for the composite since March 5. Both the rail and industrial averages crossed their spring highs again, but that for the utilities was down slightly at the finish.

Market sentiment seemed more cheerful than for months, but the rapidity of the recovery brought thoughts of at least a correctional reaction and many in-and-out traders turned paper gains into actual dollars on the theory that, even if the long-term trend is upward, consolidating intervals are to be expected.

There were few outstanding bullish news items although signs of betterment in business and industry were to be seen here and there. A hopeful note was sounded by observers in the automotive field and a contra-seasonal rise in last week's freight loadings helped buoy speculative spirit.

Additional stimulation was found in the quiet strength displayed by major commodities, together with further hoists of prices for lead and zinc, scrap and export copper and scrap steel.

Rail bonds gave another exhibition of climbing power, but U. S. governments were under moderate pressure.

Stocks prominent on the continuation of the upswing included U. S. Steel at 52½, Bethlehem 54⅞, International Harvester 61¾, Deere 20⅜, Chrysler 54⅛, Kennecott 36½, American Smelting 45⅞, Westinghouse 89½, Du Pont 113½, Union Carbide 77⅞, Dow Chemical 115, Santa Fe 31⅞, Union Pacific 77¼, Homestake Mining 58¾, and McIntyre 42.

On the losing end were American Telephone at 140¼, North American 20⅞, and Consolidated Edison 25½.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 24. (AP)—Cotton prices continued their advancing tendency today but realizing by recent purchasers caused partial reactions. The close was steady at net gains of 4 to 8 points.

Firmer stocks, steady foreign markets and reports of greater activity in Worth street were the prime factors behind the buying movement. Speculative interests and the trade were the principal buyers with commission houses furnishing some support in mid-session dealings.

Favorable weather in the belt induced profit-taking and liquidation from the long side and prices lost part of the gain.

July contracts closed at 8.78, Oct. at 8.83@8.84, Dec. at 8.89, Jan. at 8.90, March at 8.94 and May at 8.97.

Spot trading was quiet but middling advanced 6 points to 8.83 on sales of 152 bales.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—Cotton moved irregularly today but the tone was steady helped by reports of further large sales of cotton goods. October, which had reacted from 8.74@8.65 under realizing, closed at 8.71 with final prices 4 to 9 points net higher.

The market opened 6 to 8 points in response to higher Liverpool cables and on trade and commission house buying. More profit taking and some local and foreign selling, however, caused quotations to ease to around the previous closing levels during the noon hour, but more trade price fixing was uncovered on the reaction. Reports of a resumption of the buying movement in cotton goods which was expected to account for the largest weekly textile business of the year, stimulated other buying.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 24. (AP)—The average price of midding cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.79 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.30 cents a pound.

Shanghai was opened to foreign trade on November 14, 1843, as a result of the first war between China and Great Britain, and has developed into the fifth largest port in the world.

William Kraft Again Is Held Prisoner

William O. Kraft doesn't like restraint and he has let it be known generally.

The man was in custody Friday at Beaver, Okla., after some anxious moments involving both him and law enforcement officials.

Wanted in Lubbock for armed robbery of an automobile salesman, and in several towns of five states for hijacking, Kraft staged a thrilling hare and dogs chase Thursday night with Sheriff Ford Householder near Liberal, Kas.

He and Roy Rushing, also wanted in connection with investigation into the robberies including that here, parted company at Springfield recently, Kraft said after being recaptured.

Picked up near Wichita, Kas., several days ago on a charge of robbing an Anthony, Kas., filling station, the two men were found in possession of a coupe taken from the Lubbock man.

En route to jail at Anthony, they escaped from the Anthony sheriff.

They became objects of a widespread search in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Then Kraft, after being caught by Householder after a 30-mile chase Thursday night over highways and prairies, slipped easily out of the Beaver county jail and was caught again near Liberal.

Officials said they were not decided how to go about keeping him in jail.

Kraft pried jail bars apart with a leg ripped from a table and slid down a drain pipe, then stole a car for his flight.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and New Mexico cities would like to question him about a series of armed robberies, said the Associated Press.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 24. (AP)—Beneficial rains in spring crop areas both sides of the Canadian boundary served to offset in Chicago wheat dealings today any material stimulus from securities.

As a result of timely moisture northwest, Minneapolis wheat values tumbled as much as 2½ cents at one stage, but downturns here were only fractional. On the other hand, gains in Chicago proved to be of but similar limited extent.

Because of conflict of influences, the outcome for the Chicago market was virtually a drawn battle after many nervous fluctuations in a range of about 1 cent, with prices averaging a bit lower most of the time, but rallying near the last on account of news of unwanted wet weather in harvest districts southwest and owing also to United States export business totaling about 500,000 bushels.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to ⅛ higher compared with yesterday's finish, July 75½@75⅝, Sept. 76⅝@76¾, corn unchanged to ¼ up, July 57⅛@57⅜, Sept. 57⅞@59, oats unchanged to ⅛ advance, rye showing ⅜ to ⅝ bulge, and provisions varying from 2 cents drop to 5 cents gain.

Third Annual Short Course Concluded Here Last Night

A banquet, attended by approximately 40 cleaners and dyers of West Texas, eastern New Mexico, and southern Oklahoma and Colorado, Friday night concluded the two-day third annual short course sponsored by the State Cleaners and Dyers association.

The course here was under direction of Texas Technological college; and in charge of arrangements were M. E. Heard of the textile engineering department and John Stinson of Stinson Furriers, Cleaners and Dyers.

The Friday night banquet, held in the Lubbock hotel, was featured by a stage show under direction of Bernie Howell.

Several sessions in the textile building at Tech were presented as scheduled Friday and visitors were taken on an inspection tour of the department.

Drawing For Names On Demo Ballot Is Set For Today

L. C. Ellis, chairman of the county Democratic committee, announced Friday that the position of names on the Democratic primary ballot will be determined by drawing at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon "probably in the district courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse."

Numbered slips on which are written names of candidates for given offices will be drawn from a hat, thus determining position.

In the meantime, candidates will hope for top places on the ballot—which is deemed of psychological advantage by most.

Japanese Land Strong Forces

HANKOW, China, June 24. (AP)—Japanese forces driving up the Yangtze river toward this provisional Chinese capital landed more than 5,000 men on the river's south shore near Anking today under cover of a heavy corrdinated warship and airplane barrage.

With the ships blasting at Chinese defenses and the planes alternately bombing and strafing, the invading infantrymen were put ashore at a point 180 miles by river from Hankow.

Gains Consolidated

Three hundred miles to the north, on the Honan province front along the Lunghai railway, the Chinese consolidated gains made in following up retreat of Japanese who were forced back by the great Yellow river floods.

Hankow received details of conditions there in advices today from missionaries at Chengchow, important junction of the east-west Lunghai and north-south Peiping-Hankow railways.

Farmers Paid Off

Chinese military strategists, they reported, paid off farmers and townsfolk along the Yellow river at the rate of ten Chinese dollars ($1.77) an adult before deliberately flooding the region to drive back the invaders.

Following up the retreat of the highly mechanized Japanese armies, the comparatively light Chinese units have recaptured important areas previously won by the Japanese.

Encouraged by these successes as a result of the otherwise costly flood east of Chengchow, the Chinese today were believed planning to smash the Yellow's dikes west of the city, upstream.

Voters Of New Deal Today To Decide Bond Election

Voters of the New Deal Rural High school district today will ballot in a bond and bond assumption election.

The voters will determine whether $10,000 worth of bonds will be issued for construction and equipping a school building of material other than wood and for constructing a ceiling in the combination auditorium and gymnasium and whether a tax will be levied and collected on all taxable property not to exceed $1 on the $100 valuation.

If the measure carries, the New Deal district will assume bonded indebtedness of Center common school district, Monroe independent school district, Caldwell common school district, and the Grovesville independent school district.

W. O. Fortenberry will be election judge and will be assisted by Troy Edwards and Roy Speer.

In the deserts of northwest Chinese Turkestan are still to be found large herds of "kiang" or wild asses, wild horses and wild camels.

If You Want To Give Ickes Present Then Don't Make It One Like President's

WASHINGTON, June 24. (AP)—If you want to give Harold Ickes a wedding present, okay; but don't send him $1,000,000,000.

His friend Franklin Roosevelt presented him with a sum like that, and all it's brought him is worry.

The interior secretary told reporters about it yesterday at his first press conference since he departed for Ireland a month ago to wed red-haired Jane Dahlman.

"What do you think about that billion-dollar present from the president?" a reporter asked, referring to the new public works funds administered by Ickes.

"Oh, that," said the secretary in a hollow voice. "It made me come back home sooner than I wanted to. It will make me work harder this summer. That's the kind of wedding present that is."

Special Movie Camera Device To Tell Of Approaching Typhoon Being Developed

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 24. (AP)—Whether a special movie camera device can tell of an approaching typhoon from the light of the sky long before the clouds appear, was one of the research problems reported to the American Physical society here today.

Such an instrument has been developed by W. M. Cohn, physicist of Berkeley, Calif., and reported on by George F. Tauchmann, of Berkeley, a noted amateur builder of telescopes and astronomical instruments.

Cohn's device is a motion picture polarigraph. It photographs the polarization of light in the sky. A densitometer and photometer analyzes the record and gives the prediction.

Photograph Whole Sky

"Changes in the polarization of sky light seem to occur a long time before any clouds appear," Cohn said, "and it seems desirable to find out if for instance, the approach of typhoons may be predicted from polarization measurements."

The instrument will photograph the whole sky area in six minutes, and is portable. It was described as the first instrument devised to replace visual measurements of polarization and provide permanent accurate records.

O'Daniel Will Get Support

Lubbock county advocates for $30 a month state assistance to the eligible needy Friday afternoon indicated they would support W. Lee O'Daniel for governor.

In an unofficial poll, 136 persons who attended a meeting in 99th district court room rated their choice of gubernatorial candidates in the following order: O'Daniel, first; Tom Hunter, second; Karl Crowley, third; Clarence Farmer, fourth, and William McCraw, fifth.

Determine Support

Purpose of the meeting, at which J. A. Humphries was secretary, was to determine whom the old age bloc would favor for endorsement at a later rally, which probably will attract all 24 counties of this senatorial district to Lubbock for a composite vote about July 10, said spokesmen.

At a meeting to be conducted here before then an expression on the state representatives' race also will be sought.

Recommendations will be made July 15 to a state committee, said Humphries.
