Industrial Growth award

Garth and Susie Merrick at this morning's fun breakfast. The breakfast was sponsored by Merrick's Beef 'N More.

Record crowd joins breakfast celebration

Garth Merrick was presented the "Industrial Salute" award from Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce; KPAN Radio celebrated its 40th birthday, and Troy Schuder was presented the Bull Chip Award during the C of C Fun Breakfast this morning at the Community Center. It was the largest crowd ever to attend a breakfast, according to co-emcees Charlie Bell and John Stagner.

Other highlights of the breakfast included community announcements, introduction of new chamber members, and drawings for various door prizes. Terry Bromlow, Hereford State Bank, won the $100 Hereford Bucks award for C of C members; Ouida Halbert won $50 in a "Name that Tune" contest; and Nancy Last won $25 in a general drawing. A number of other persons won dog food and "Pound Puppies" provided by Merrick Petfood, the breakfast sponsor.

Larry Malamen, C of C president, recognized Merrick for expanding his business operations in Hereford by awarding him the Industrial Salute plaque. Merrick is also the owner of Hereford Bi-Products and Ag Analysis. Merrick recognized employees who attended the breakfast.

Schuder, owner of Troy's Sweet Shop, was presented the Bull Chip award by Speedy Nieman, past C of C president, who cited the honoree for support of Whiteface athletic teams, handling football ticket sales as a public service, and other civic involvement. Schuder has been in business here for 21 years.

A portion of the breakfast also served as a 40th birthday party for KPAN Radio. Clint Formby's "Day-by-Day Philosopher" was broadcast live from the breakfast, and he recalled the opening of the station in 1948. KPAN staff members attended the breakfast attired in tuxedos.

Formby introduced all of the KPAN personnel.

Community announcements at the breakfast included: Town & Country Jubilee—C of C Manager Mike Carr listed a brief schedule of events for the celebration next week; YMCA—Jerry Brock announced the annual running of the Greg Black 10-K and the 2-Mile Fun Run and 2-Mile Walk during the Jubilee; Jubilee Shopping Spree—Carol Gerck reported on the Shop for Free contest sponsored by about 40 merchants, with weekly winners' names going in the pot for a final drawing for two winners of $500 each in Hereford Bucks.

Deanna Hobbs, Miss Hereford, was introduced by Carr. She will be entered in the Miss Wheatheart Pageant this weekend in Perryton.

Games were another sidelight of the breakfast, and Justin Hampton won a 1948 radio given away by KPAN.

Dog food is latest Merrick idea

BY GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

He's Your Local Used Cow Dealer. He is also proprietor of Maggot Motors. Now he wants to sell you some dog food.

"We came up with the pet food concept as a way to use millions of pounds of beef in a nutritious animal food available at the retail level," said Garth Merrick, used cow dealer, Maggot Motors proprietor, and owner of newly-opened Merrick Petfoods. "The beef was just sitting there since we didn't have nearly enough buyers for it, so we wanted to devise a product for which there would be substantial demand."

Eight people work in Merrick Petfoods' 20,000 square foot building. Merrick's workers began construction in December 1986, and was open to the public today in an open house where plant officials explained the operation and guided tours.

Three dry dog food products, all featuring 25 percent beef, will target diverse market segments. Beginning this month, Beef 'N More can be found on grocery shelves in Hereford, Lubbock, Canyon and Amarillo and is also distributed in various locations by Affiliated Food Stores. "Beef 'N More features smaller bags available to the consumer strictly on a retail level," said Merrick. "Beef Pro comes only in bulk sizes. The 50 lb. bags are sold in feed stores throughout the Texas Panhandle."

Track Pro, a special dog food for greyhounds and other high performance dogs, is the third type. Track Pro isn't just for greyhounds: The market includes sled dog owners.

"There are several sled dogs that train on wheels around Albuquerque, N.M. but greyhounds are our biggest market," Merrick said. "We've seen their demand for frozen ground beef and dry food skyrocket from 10,000 to 800,000 lbs. over the past 10 years. For each pound of red meat fed to a greyhound, breeders also feed a pound of dry food. That's one reason we decided to get into the dry pet food business."

While optimistic, Merrick knows there are big challenges. "We must prove ourself in the dry dog food industry. Many people mistakenly believe that the large corporations have the most knowledge in marketing pet food, which is not true.

Word-of-mouth advertising from other Merrick customers hasn't carried over to Track Pro. "There truly is a Catch-22 situation with our greyhound customers. They have told me privately that they attribute the optimum health and condition of their race-winning greyhounds to our dogfood. But they admit that they will not tell other greyhound owners about their success with Track Pro because they want to keep an edge in the racing competition," laughed Merrick. "In fact, they consider the food a guarded secret. Hopefully the result of a kennel will speak for itself."

Merrick can empathize with pet owners everywhere who want the best for their pets. "I grew up around pets and they have always been important to me. It is my goal that Merrick Petfoods will provide a beef product that is good for the animals, one that is nutritionally superior to strictly grain food products."

His love of animals is a tourist attraction at the intersection of FM 2943 and U.S. Highway 60 east of Hereford. The three cats and two dogs are ordinary, and more than one person has waterfowl around.

Not everyone in these parts has some of Merrick's llamas or zebras in their front yard, though. Pines and other trees dot the landscaped area and rustic woodwork gives his home and businesses a cabin-like look. A visitor would never guess that his home, now complete with a recirculating pond, was once a double-wide trailer that served as his office and living quarters.

"Then I married and added on to it twice. We are 'home bodies' so that is why we've put so much effort into it." He and his wife, Susie, are the parents of two boys and two girls: Tyler, age 10; Noelle, 7; Sloane, 5; and Teel, 3.

Just looking around, no outsider would imagine that a business recycling dead cows, the precursor to Merrick Petfoods, is also housed on the premises. Hereford Bi-Products removes dead cattle from farms, ranches, and feedyards at no charge and processes the remains into useable products.

Created in 1968 by Merrick and his father, the business began with two men and two pickups and has grown into a conglomerate in which Hereford Bi-Products, Merrick Petfoods, Ag Analysis, and Maggot Motors are members. Merrick has 200 employees.

"I've got tremendously good people working for me," Merrick says, "or there would be no success story here. I believe you must give credit where it is due. By the grace of God, having a supportive wife and father and a commitment to service also contributed to the growth of these ventures."

Merrick was raised around the by-products businesses his father operated in British Columbia, Nebraska, Kentucky, and Illinois. Born in Tennessee, the Garth grew to hate the business. "Dad always made me work on Saturdays and summers, so I detested it. When I got out on my own, I operated a bar in Colorado and opened one in Hereford. Traveling back and forth to manage these operations led me out of the bar business and into Hereford Bi-Products." He and his father, who lives in Wisconsin, are co-owners of Hereford Bi-Products.

Hereford was picked because of the huge cattle industry, and the community welcomed the business. "When I came here 20 years ago, I met the greatest people who opened their doors to me. They gave me, a 21-year-old kid at the time, a chance: There was no negative reaction toward the business."

Merrick shows his sense of humor in the Hereford Bi-Product logo which features a cow and the words, "Your Local Used Cow Dealer." "I thought it would be a good idea to use humor in our advertising because it is tough to have good public relations because of the nature of the business," he said. "By attaching a little humor with the name it

Rogers reaction: didn't 'lose' firm

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Hereford did not "lose" a new industry to Littlefield, it was announced here Wednesday by Ken Rogers, chairman of the industrial development committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Rogers was reacting to a Lubbock newspaper article and a report by KPAN Radio that the Littlefield location was chosen from a field of competitors that included Lubbock, Dallas and Hereford.

"The truth is we were not seeking this prospect," stated Rogers. "They approached us to see if local investors would buy into the plant to manufacture a sawed-off .410 shotgun that would be used as a personal defense weapon. A local group did offer to invest if the company could meet certain conditions, but the promoter of this project did not respond," said Rogers.

"This was not the type of business we felt Hereford needed, nor one that would have benefited us," added Rogers. "The news article stated it would employ 40 people but the original presentation was for 6 to 8."

According to a report in The Lamb County Leader-News, the firm was purchased by Rodney Richardson of Littlefield and Janie B. McNutt of Lubbock and the company name will be Sporting Arms Manufacturing, Inc. The firm was formerly located in Dallas and has been out of business for about two years.

Richardson said the firm already has established retail outlets nationwide. He said he hopes the firm will manufacture from 20,000 to 40,000 "Snake Charmer" and "Night Charmer" shotguns a year. In the Littlefield news article, Richardson explained that the butt stock of the shotguns had cutouts to allow the gun to be used like a pistol, but the Federal Firearms Act does not govern it the same as a pistol.

A footnote, and some personal thoughts, about Sunday's front page stories.

The main point of the stories was supposed to be: In 1980 there were 17 packing sheds in Hereford. Today there are five. The 1980 strikes and protests definitely contributed. There were other factors, of course, that added into the picture.

Also, at least one life was changed because of those actions. A man got an education, and that, my friends, is a change for the better.

The vegetable business is one of the prime factors in Hereford becoming what it is today. I would go so far as to say that without the vegetable business, we might be lucky to have reached 10,000. It brought a lot of people, Anglo and Hispanic, to Hereford. It will bring more people here in the future, and many of those people will have an impact upon our lives.

Let us hope that all of their impacts are positive. Let us also hope we can have a positive impact upon their lives.

How hep 'Is that still a word? Just thought I would throw it in) are you to the idea of indoor miniature golf?

It could be here in the not-too-distant future, if things work out right for Marilyn Barkley.

Some of you know Marilyn. She graduated from Hereford High in 1952, then moved off to Dallas as a public accountant. She is tired of the big city and wants to move back to Hereford.

Marilyn's already been in touch with financial institutions, real estate people, the Chamber, and me. She has her bases covered.

Lord knows we need some good, low-cost family entertainment, and this looks like it could fill the bill.

The theater idea is still in the works, but the Chamber could use your input. I'm sure they would like to hear from you on the indoor miniature golf idea.

It looks like Marilyn has a pretty sound idea, and she has a pretty good outlook about moving back to Hereford. We talked for almost an hour, and she kept on and on about how bad things looked in Dallas and how good things looked in Hereford. Eat your heart out, Molly Ivins.

may not seem quite so disgusting."

With 60 medium-duty trucks to retrieve dead animals, Hereford Bi-Products has expanded the company's processing operations to El Reno, Okla., Albuquerque, N.M., and the Texas cities of Amarillo, Plainview, Friona, Stratford, and Spearman. Six livestock pick-up stations are operated across the Texas Panhandle, western Oklahoma, and eastern New Mexico.

Hides are cured for shipment overseas, exported in truckloads. As for carcass yield, Merrick noted that everything but manure is used. "Whatever is left over goes to the rendering plant, where feed additives of meat, bone meal, and tallow are produced." Because both Hereford Bi-Products and Caviness Packing have rendering materials, they formed a partnership called Nutri-feeds to utilize their equipment.

A slaughtered, 1,100 lb. steer can yield 60-70 lbs. of what is considered 'pet food drop.' Organs such as lungs, liver, spleen, kidneys, and the heart are included in this group.

Some of the organs are kept and sold to greyhound customers while others are sold as ingredients to major canning companies. Such pet food companies as Alpo, Starkist, Carnation, and Kal-Kan receive beef by-products and it was from such activity that Merrick Petfoods was born.

Merrick Petfoods is his first entry into the retail pet food market, although some of Hereford Bi-Products sales went to owners of exotic animals. "About two percent of our sales came from owners of alligators, wolves, and circus animals such as lions and tigers. It is our hope that, in five years, 25 percent of our revenue will come from such retail products. Hopefully that percentage will grow to 50 percent in 10 years. We have some other ideas for pet products which we'll produce once more people get concerned with the proper nutrition of their pets and want the actual product instead of chemical imitations."

A deep concern for his employees has also spurred Merrick to expand his operations and encourage safety through the past 20 years. "Winter is our busiest time at Hereford Bi-Products since harsh weather conditions contribute to higher livestock losses. For several months out of the year we had very little to do and it was hard to keep good employees. It was because of the cyclical nature of the Used Cow Business that we ventured into other satellite businesses to provide full time, year 'round employment."

Rewarding employees for safety practices has been a big success at Hereford Bi-Products. Merrick noted that workers compensation claims once provided him with an ever-rising insurance premium. "We started offering $50 beef certificates to employees who work 10 consecutive weeks of a quarter without sustaining a job-related injury. We have issued $40,000 in these certificates so far."

Merrick recently made the news as one of the contributors who made a drug-locating dog available to local law enforcement agencies. "I thought it would be a good way to curb drug-related accidents in our facilities," he explained. "Because of the sharp knives and heavy equipment we use, we don't want workers to be under the influence (of drugs). It can jeopardize the safety of others."

Federal and state agencies carefully monitor Merrick's business activities. "The USDA comes in and checks our products, as does the Texas Health Department. We must meet several regulations to manufacture dry dog food and the Texas Air Quality and Texas Water Quality boards keep an eye on us."

Despite the grisly nature of the business, odor does not seem to be a problem for Hereford Bi-Products and its subsidiaries. "We lease the old Swift plant and use their high technology machines to wash odors away as best we can," Merrick stressed. "Everything that can be done is being done. What people don't realize is that the packing house does not create the odor. Odor depends on how long the carcass was allowed to decompose before we were called to haul it away. We operate seven days a week, so if we are called in a timely manner, odor is no problem."

Ag Analysis, another business owned by Merrick, is operated by Marc Hardt. It grew out of a need to determine the quality of items shipped and received and product analysis is done for other customers also. But while such subsidiaries of Hereford Bi-Products are aptly named, none has an more intriguing name than Maggot Motors.

"Maggot Motors is a legitimate used car dealership," Merrick said. "I was interested in antique cars and the dealership provided me with access to them." The interest has lessened because of the expansion of his family and business, he admits with a grin that "I certainly didn't have to fight anyone for the rights to this name."

Merrick's duties at his businesses leave him little time for civic involvement, but he is a member of the board of directors at Hereford State Bank and the Nazarene Church. "God, I love this business!" proclaims a plaque on his desk, but Merrick admits that he would like to "get back into the plant and do less office work."

The 41-year-old Merrick could sit back and enjoy the prosperity of Hereford Bi-Products and its subsidiaries, but he has too many goals. "We are not merely testing the waters; we plan to make BIG waves!" And if Merrick's previous entrepreneurial successes are any indication, Merrick Petfoods should do just that.

Dukakis tries to end flap

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis headed South today after trying to squelch rumors about his mental state after a pair of personal losses, as George Bush continued trying to show he is tougher than his Democratic opponent on foreign policy and defense.

Dukakis was headed to Philadelphia, Miss., for an appearance at the Neshoba County Fair, then on to Los Angeles. The vice president was headed to Corpus Christi, Texas, to deliver a speech in which aides said he would highlight his differences with Dukakis on defense.

Dukakis began the journey after a campaign rumor about his mental health that had begun to rear its head during the Democratic National Convention emerged fully Wednesday during a presidential news conference.

A writer for a publication affiliated with political extremist Lyndon LaRouche, whose supporters had started the rumor with distribution of a flier at the Atlanta convention, asked President Reagan whether Dukakis should release his medical records.

Reagan quipped that he didn't want to "pick on an invalid" — a reference to Dukakis that he later retracted as a bad joke. Hours later, Dukakis' personal physician released a summary of their 17-year relationship as patient and doctor.

"He has had no significant illnesses during his lifetime and has been in excellent health," Dr. Gerald R. Plotkin said at a news conference called by the Dukakis campaign.

"He has had no psychological symptoms, complaints or treatment," Plotkin said.

The Littlefield chamber said the plant is expected to provide a $7 million boost to the economy each year. The firm estimated a payroll of $425,000 and projected $1.2 million in sales. The $7 million figure is based on each extra dollar generated by the business turning over seven times as it is spent with the community.

Rogers was irritated that rumors are going around town that the chamber "lost" a chance to locate the plant here.

"This was not the type of business we felt Hereford needed, nor one that would have benefited us," said Rogers. "We are currently working with two excellent prospects for plants to be located here. They are major companies that will benefit every person in this community, with a combined employment of 475 to 550 people and capital investments of close to $25 million.

In addition, Rogers pointed out, "These companies would need in excess of 20,000 acres of crop production to supply the needs of the plants. This would be of tremendous benefit to our farmers and other agriculturally-related business."

Rogers said these were the types of activity that need to be supported by the community. "Let's stop all the rumors, get the facts, forget past differences and work together for the benefit of the entire community."

FDIC says more help needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. says his agency can handle any foreseeable problems in commercial banking, but indicates the insurance fund for savings associations may need more money to survive.

L. William Seidman said that despite the $4 billion rescue last week of First Republic Bank Corp. of Dallas, "At this time, we see nothing on the horizon that the insurance fund won't be able to handle given normal economic conditions."

Seidman said the FDIC may have to provide assistance to one other major Texas bank. He declined to identify it, but was believed to be referring to MCorp., a Dallas bank that has been trying to raise private capital.

In the newest and most pessimistic government estimate of the problems facing the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., he said it will likely cost "slightly under $50 billion" to restore the savings industry to health.

The problem "is getting worse at something like $1 billion a month," he said.

That appraisal, offered to the House Banking Committee on Wednesday, falls short of private analysts' guesses, which range up to $100 billion, but it is nearly twice as high as other government estimates.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the parent agency of the FSLIC and the regulator of the nation's 3,100 savings institutions, last month put the price tag at $31 billion.

Scrabble chances slim as a qiviut

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Armed with lucky hats and T-shirts and a love of dictionary oddities, competitors 19 to 92 years old are huddling over game boards this week in a bid for glory at the National Scrabble Championship.

For a parlor game, the tension is unusually high and, yes, there is some cheating. But then, Scrabble isn't usually played for a $25,000 purse.

"Oh, everybody uses tricks to win; some call it strategy," Babette Cornine of Greenport, N.Y., said Wednesday. "There's more to this game than just knowing how to spell."

Ms. Cornine is vice president of Scrabble Players Inc., and one of 320 top Scrabble players in the United States and seven foreign countries, including Canada, Britain and Nigeria, competing in the championship.

During the tournament, which ends Friday, games are limited to an hour and each player has only 3 minutes to spell a word or forfeit that turn.

"The intensity level sometimes gets very high," Ms. Cornine said. "Sometimes, even with good players, the tiles just aren't turning up right."

Some competitors chew gum to ease tension. Others wear lucky hats and T-shirts or jiggle the tiles in their own leopard skin or zebra-striped bags.

One player sits in the corner and juggles.

"It's better not to talk to him when he's reached the point of juggling," Ms. Cornine warned.

Scrabble is played with 100 small wooden tiles imprinted with a letter of the alphabet, each worth from 1 to 10 points. Players spell words on a crossword-like game board from a "hand" of seven tiles with their score tallied from the number of points each letter is worth.

Now You're Cooking

BY GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

With a love of cooking that rivals gourmet Julia Child, Hereford's own Della Hutchins has pleased the palates of many local residents.

"Cooking has always been my favorite thing. I basically cook beef and country dishes, but I'm prone to like sweets and desserts," she gleefully admitted. "Homemade ice cream is my number one choice."

An area resident since 1960, Hutchins has lived in Hereford for 11 years. She has delighted friends with tasty dinner parties and recently played hostess to two Arizona food editors, among them Stella Hughes, recent inductee to the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame as a 1988 Western Heritage honoree.

"Stella gave me one of her Chuckwagon Cookbooks and autographed it—we had a wonderful time and she hopes to return some day for another visit," said Hutchins. "The other food editor represented the Arizona Highways magazine and she was fun, too."

An experimental type of cook, Hutchins learned the skill from her mother and her grandmother, who was of hearty German descent. "They could make anything out of anything. Nothing went to waste," she noted. "Now I enjoy occasionally doing some gourmet cooking for a dinner party, starting off with a meat."

Indeed, Hutchins is well known for her mastery of many types of cooking. She cans such garden-fresh vegetables as beans, peas and tomatoes. The energetic lady also does a great deal of sourdough cooking, creating such breads as Amish Friendship Bread. Yet cooking is but one aspect of her life.

"I love my job as director at the Hereford Day Care (Ruth Warner) Center," she said. "I've been there for two years; I love children so the work is very rewarding." She herself is the mother of two children, Dana of Tyler and David of Amarillo, and has three grandsons. "It's a lot of fun to have the grandkids around. We bake cookies and have a good time."

Yet children and cooking do not occupy Hutchins' time entirely. She attends Amarillo College in pursuit of an administrative certificate for directorship of day care services and is a member of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce.

Raised near Abilene in Lawn, Hutchins entered high school in Whitharral and graduated from Spade. A member of First United Methodist Church, Hutchins also belongs to United Methodist Women. Yard work and redoing her home at 123 Aspen ranks among her favorite activities, and she collects angels and cookbooks.

A sample of Hutchins' favorite recipes follows:

ATHENIAN PASTA SALAD

3/4 c. loosely packed chopped fresh dill
1/2 c. loosely packed fresh mint
1 large garlic clove
1 medium red onion, chopped
2/3 c. olive oil
3 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper, ground
16 large shrimp
8 oz. fusilli pasta (or any kind, as spinach pasta)
12 cherry tomatoes
16 canned black olives (in oil pack)
6 oz. feta cheese, diced
Cook shrimp in boiling water for 2 or 3 minutes. Drop into ice water, cool and peel. Set aside.

Place the dill and mint into a work bowl of food processor with machine running. Drop garlic through tube and mince. Add onion and chop coarsely using 12 on and off turns, add oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper and mix 5 seconds.

Toss 1/4 of the dressing with peeled shrimp and refrigerate for at least 3 hours or over night.

Chill the remaining dressing separately. Cook the pasta until tender but firm, drain well. Toss with chilled dressing to coat, cool, then add the tomatoes, olives, feta cheese and toss gently. Garnish with the shrimp. Serve salad at room temperature. Use the remaining dressing as a passing sauce.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

Summer vacation time is in full swing and we want to share some good tips on packing your car for that long-awaited trip.

Always place the smaller heavy objects as far forward in the car trunk as you can.

Instead of using one large suitcase, consider taking two smaller ones. They will fit in the trunk better and will be easier to handle.

Try to keep the luggage as light as possible. No one wants to have a back sprain. It would also make unloading much easier.

Never place flammable liquids or spare fuel inside your car. A car rack can be quite useful for light, bulky objects like sleeping bags.

Don't forget to leave enough room to pack items that will be purchased on your trip.

Here are some problems associated with over-packing the car:

The tires can be overloaded and cause problems throughout the trip.

The headlights will be angled up, thus blinding oncoming vehicles.

The car could possibly sway if you have an emergency stop.

The back of the car will ride low and cause it to bottom out on bumps.

Statistics have shown that people never use half the things that they have packed. So remember, pack light.

Have a great trip. — Heloise

BROWN SUGAR SUBSTITUTE

Dear Heloise: What would be a good substitute for brown sugar? Recently I was baking some cookies and didn't have any brown sugar and since I live far from any store, I would like to have a substitute just in case. — A Faithful Reader, Omaha, Neb.

This substitution works in a pinch, but the texture isn't the same as packaged brown sugar: Mix 1 cup granulated sugar with 4 tablespoons of dark molasses. Thoroughly mix with a fork. — Heloise

Football mentor Graf aims to rekindle Buffs' tradition

Californian is happy as WTSU coach

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A bird common to Texas and much of the sunbelt is the Northeastern Warmthseeker, also known as the Common Snowbird. The bird is known as a non-migrating species. It reaches adulthood in cooler climates, then travels to the South and West. It is known to make a permanent home in warmer climes.

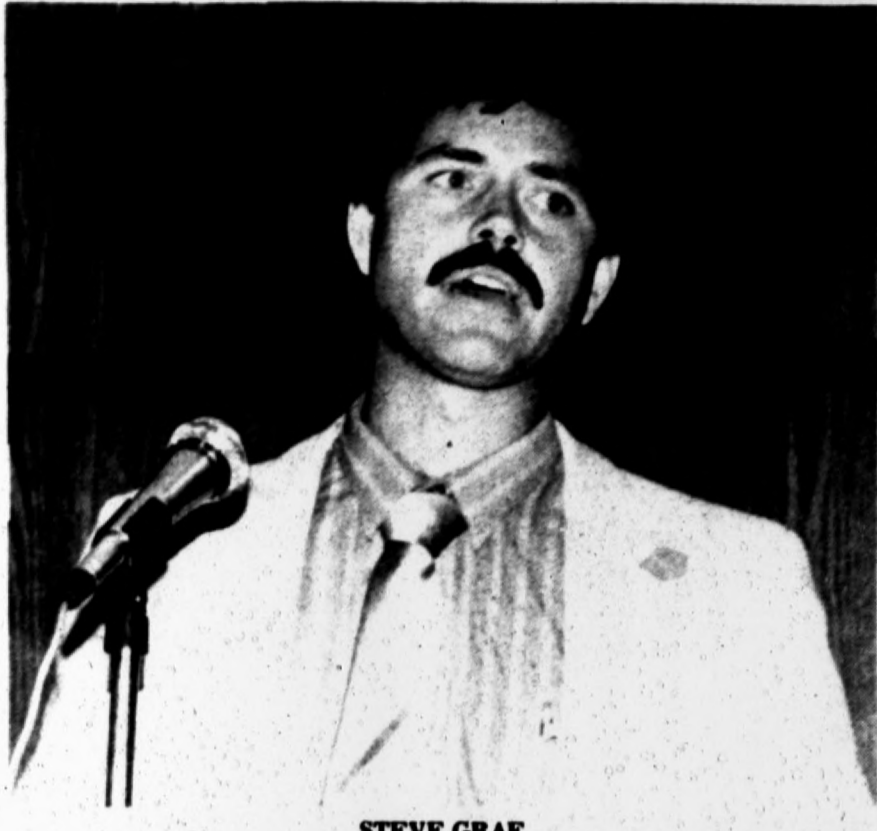

Much rarer is the California Sun King. It is usually seen along beaches. It is uncommon to find the bird east of Phoenix, and extremely unusual for the bird to roost outside of California.

But West Texas State University head football coach Steve Graf, a California Sun King, seems genuinely happy to be working in the Texas Panhandle.

He's especially happy for a coach who took over a job that had been wrapped in some controversy, but it was instant opportunity for Graf. Graf's head coaching record is easy to remember.

0-0-0. He's been an assistant under Bill Kelly for four years. At least two of those years, the teams at Eastern New Mexico University and WTSU should have been in the playoffs, but weren't. The other two years, they should have had winning seasons, but fell short.

Now Kelly's gone, fired this spring within two months of receiving the dreaded contract extension. There have been other controversies around the WTSU campus, but they don't bother Graf.

"Yeh, some things are going on, but you don't worry about things you have no control over," Graf told the Hereford Lions Club meeting Wednesday. "I just believe things will work out. I have a game on Sept. 3, so I have other things to work with and worry about."

Graf has to worry about the possibility of too many players: 138 potential Buffaloes will show up August 13 to begin fall workouts. Some will quit, some won't have a chance, and Graf has to cut his squad to 90 players by the time the Lone Star Conference season rolls around in late September.

"We have signed some good football players," Graf said. He feels he had a successful recruiting season even though he was only the interim head coach. The signees need to be good. He has only four juniors and four seniors, thanks to the "instant win" situation Kelly found himself in when he came to WT and concentrated on junior college transfers.

"Three years ago Coach Kelly found himself in a position where he needed to win immediately to save the program. They built a foundation, but I want to be here long enough to rekindle the tradition."

That tradition goes way, way back, but is recent enough that fans old enough to need a toothbrush can remember names like Mercury Morris, Duane Thomas, and John Ayres. They played back when Kimbrough Stadium was filled several Saturday afternoons and nights. Thomas and Morris played back when WT was good enough to be on TV when there were just a couple of college games a weekend.

"We want to be able to fill the stadium again," Graf said. "We have one of the most outstanding Division II facilities in the nation. It's better than most Division 1-AA stadiums. It's better than some Division I stadiums."

One stadium-filling move the school has made is leaving the Missouri Valley Conference. The Buffaloes used to travel to Drake, Illinois State, Wichita State, and other midwestern points.

Now, WTSU is in the Lone Star Conference, where the rivalries are savored and simmering.

"You can relate to Abilene Christian, Angelo State, East Texas State, and Eastern New Mexico. It was hard to relate to Drake."

And Graf is putting more Panhandle flavor in the team. "40 of our 138 players are from the Panhandle," Graf said. "Two are from Hereford: Bryan Lady and Wesley Brown. Some people would like us to recruit exclusively from the Panhandle, but, folks, that's just not realistic. You see coaches from the West Coast out here, and when I go to the West Coast I see other coaches from Texas."

"Some people said they wanted more night games, so we did that." "Course, the schedule wasn't hard to adjust, with just three home games."

"I really feel very strongly about how we'll do this year. Our players are dedicated to winning football at WTSU or they wouldn't be here. Our coaches sure had a reason to leave, but instead of being on the phone looking for new jobs last spring, they were on the phone looking for recruits."

"We may not be a powerhouse this year, but I really want to come back in five years and speak to you again about how good we are doing, and I want to be here to rekindle that tradition."

A men's softball team from Hereford, the Shockers, are preparing for the state U.S.S.S.A. class C tournament, a tournament they have finished in the top 10 in four out of five years.

The state tournament is scheduled Aug. 12-14 at Dallas. The Shockers qualified for the state tournament by placing second in the Custom Classic Tournament at Clovis this summer.

"Our motivation is to win a state championship before we get too old," said Jackie Mercer, team member and one of the organizers of the team back in 1983. "Our average age is 25."

Mercer and Jimmy Ramirez organized the team, and six of the original members still play with the group. Five new members joined the Shockers last year, and two new players began competing with the team this year.

"We started our own team because we knew there were some good players who weren't getting a chance to play on other teams," Mercer said. The group has captured 32 tournament titles in its six-year history.

The Shockers' second place finish at Clovis also qualified them for the regional U.S.S.S.A. tournament at Garland during the Labor Day weekend. They have a 35-10 record this year and are undefeated in the YMCA men's softball league.

Tournament placings have included winning the Plainview tournament, placing third at Pampa, and finishing fourth in both the Lubbock and Albuquerque, N.M., tournaments.

About 130 teams qualify for the state tournament. The top two teams in the regional tournament earn berths in the regional tournament qualify for the World Series in Hutchinson, Kan., in late September.

game to us. Our families go on all our trips," Mercer notes.

"It takes time and effort. We want to bring something back each time we go somewhere. Our wives support us. They are our cheerleaders.

"We thank our friends and our supporters, and hopefully we'll bring them back a championship," he adds.

In addition to Mercer and Ramirez, other team members are Steve Brock, J. Cabezuola, Eddie Chavarria, Jim Crosson, Freddie Gamboa, Erasmo Gonzales, J.D. High, Larry Mendoza, Dan Odell, Wayne Pollard, Brian Taylor, Harvey Torres and Arnold Villegas.

The team's highest placings have been fifth in the 1986 state tournament, and 11th in their division in 1986. The Shockers had a 21-game winning streak that season in tournament play.

In the 1967 NBA playoffs, Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia pulled down 26 rebounds in one-half of a game to set a league record.

Gus Williams and Bernard King both have scored 23 points in a single quarter of an NBA playoff game.

In a 1978 NBA game, John Drew of Atlanta set a league record with 14 turnovers.

On Jan. 25, 1988, Rickey Green of the Utah Jazz scored the 5 millionth point in NBA history on a three-point play.

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II reportedly joked that she is tired of waiting for her daughter-in-law, the Duchess of York, to give birth.

"I'm fed up with all this waiting," the British monarch told a crowd of well-wishers outside St. Christopher's Hospice here Wednesday, according to the domestic news agency Press Association.

"These wretched babies don't come until they are ready," she was quoted as saying. "They don't come to order."

The first child of the former Sarah Ferguson, 28, and the queen's second son, Andrew, is due next week, Press Association said, but speculation has been rife in London's tabloid press that the birth could come sooner.

The queen's comments came as the queen helped the hospice, which cares for advanced cancer patients, celebrate its founding 21 years ago.

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. (AP) — Action movie star Chuck Norris was beaten by a propeller in his attempt to set an ocean speed record from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

A chipped propeller took 41 minutes to repair at sea Wednesday, preventing Norris and his crew of four from racing their 46-foot Scarab from the Golden Gate Bridge to Marina del Rey in less than seven hours, two minutes, 32 seconds.

The boat, under reduced power because a second propeller was causing problems, arrived here in 7:41:19, said Joe Hice, spokesman for Wellcraft Marine, which made the hull.

Norris did set a record for a diesel-powered craft because this was the first time a diesel boat attempted the 440-mile run, said Hice.

The record was set in 1984 by a gasoline-powered boat.

CHICAGO (AP) — Talk show host Oprah Winfrey says she has obtained ownership and control of her show from Cap Cities-ABC.

The arrangement is similar to that of Johnny Carson, whose Carson Productions owns and produces "The Tonight Show" as well as other shows.

"That's exactly what I'm going to do. Eventually I'm going to buy a studio and produce things for other people," Winfrey said Wednesday.

"The Oprah Winfrey Show," the second highest-rated syndicated show, is distributed by King World and is carried in 198 TV markets.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The entertainment career of boxer Mike Tyson, who crushed Michael Spinks' bid to take away his heavyweight crown last month, will be guided by Norman Brokaw, the agent says.

"He is today's newest American hero," Brokaw, co-chairman of the board of the William Morris Agency, said Wednesday.

"I think he's a winner. I like everything that I see in Mike Tyson. He's a marvelous young man," said Brokaw. "In the entertainment industry, I see the writing of a book, television, commercials and personal appearances."

Spinks, 22, defeated Spinks in 91 seconds in Atlantic City, N.J., on June 27.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Filming of "Personal Choice," a movie about the friendship between an astronaut played by Martin Sheen and a teen-ager, is set to begin at the Alabama Space and Rocket Center.

"This all looks terrific," writer-director David Saperstein said recently. "It's going to work very well for us."

The center is a state-run museum with a large collection of space artifacts.

The film also stars F. Murray Abraham.

Yesterday's Answer

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I thought you were rather abrupt with the woman who wrote to say she thought you had retired.

Let's be fair, Ann. Several months ago there was a great deal of publicity about a worldwide search for your replacement. The finalists received a lot of coverage. Will you please explain exactly what happened so that those of us who read about the contest to replace you will not feel like morons?

In the meantime, I, too, am puzzled. Your column continues to appear in our paper seven days a week, and it sure sounds like the same old Ann to me. I don't believe anyone could imitate your style.

What's the story—Wanda Pandolfo, Bermuda Run, N.C.

DEAR WANDA: If you are confused, I'm sure others are, too. Thanks for urging me to set the record straight once and for all.

After writing for the Chicago Sun-Times for 33 years, I decided to leave that paper and sign up with the Chicago Tribune. Not one word was said about retiring.

The Sun-Times ran a contest to replace me. Keep in mind that my column is syndicated around the world and the only paper I pulled out of was the Sun-Times. Every one of my 1,200 additional clients remained in place. Moreover, not a single paper dropped me to take on the winner of the Sun-Times contest.

I have no plans to retire. My column will continue to run seven days a week. I intend to keep on doing what I'm doing as long as you, my readers, think I'm doing a good job and the good Lord grants me the strength to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm engaged to a man who has many wonderful qualities. We have had an exclusive relationship for five years and have gotten along well. The problem is that he has gained a lot of weight. He is 5-foot-10 and when I started dating him he weighed about 175 pounds. Now, he probably weighs 220.

Most of those added pounds are in his stomach. His trousers are so tight it's embarrassing.

I still love the person inside, but being affectionate with him is difficult. I'm completely turned off by all that blubber. I'm afraid that if I marry him I will find myself with a dangerously obese husband a few years down the road, and I'll end up being his nurse.

He knows his weight bothers me but does nothing about it. He refuses to consider counseling because he views it as a sign of weakness. He feels people who can't solve their own problems are idiots. I need to know how to handle this. Can you help me?—A Woman in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Since the man knows how much his weight gain bothers you, he should be willing to do something about it to save the relationship. If he isn't, that tells you something.

Give him this ultimatum: "Get counseling and find out why you have put on 45 pounds in five years and go on a diet." If he refuses, tell him it's all over.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for real. I read it in the paper. Wisconsin senators have approved a measure letting blind people hunt deer if they are accompanied by a sighted person. The vote was 27 to 6.

I find this incredible. Please check it out.—Mrs. M.L.

DEAR M.L.: We called Gov. Tommy Thompson's office in Madison and learned that the measure was intended to place a restriction on the visually handicapped hunter because previously anyone could go hunting—no questions asked.

The governor refused to sign the bill because of unrelated restrictions.

Whew!

Are you struggling with decisions about sex and needing more information to help you make them? Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," can be like talking to a good friend. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

DIAGNOSING FIBROSITIS
ATLANTA (AP) — Researchers at the University of Illinois in Peoria have developed new criteria to help doctors in diagnosing fibrositis, says the Arthritis Foundation.

Fibrositis, or fibromyalgia, a form of arthritis that often mimics other medical conditions, involves aching pain in the muscles and tendons, as well as various tender points throughout the body. The researchers pinpointed six specific pain symptoms and seven pairs of tender point locations that can help doctors make a more accurate diagnosis.

Accepting donation

Gene Brock, fundraising chairman for Camp Wigwam, at right, accepts a contribution from Grant Hanna, finance officer for the American Legion Post No. 192. The money will be used to help fund a campership for mentally handicapped citizens to attend a week at Camp Wigwam which serves 44 counties in the Panhandle.

Winter vegetables can be planted now

Although a lot of sizzling summer weather is still ahead, Texas gardeners know it's time to plant fall vegetables.

"Much of Texas is well suited for year-round gardening, and fall vegetables generally have better quality and flavor than those grown in the spring," said Dr. Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Many popular warm-season vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, pole beans, potatoes, okra, cucumbers and squash can be planted in late summer.

Also, so-called "winter" vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, greens, parsley and carrots can be planted now for early harvesting. Later plantings of these cold-hardy crops will supply fresh vegetables well into winter, Cotner said.

What are some of the important aspects of fall gardening?

"First of all, get the soil in good shape," said the horticulturist. "If you had a garden this spring and applied fertilizer, little, if any, additional fertilizer will be needed before fall planting."

For new gardens, work into the soil two to three pounds of complete fertilizer such as 10-20-100 per 100 square feet of area. If plants grow slowly, apply a light amount of fertilizer between rows and water it into the soil.

"Adequate water is important for a successful fall garden, particularly for seed germination and early plant growth," Cotner said. "It's best to 'pre-irrigate' before planting. Then follow with subsequent, light waterings three or four times a week to keep soil from drying and crusting. Water stress during early growth of plants can reduce later yields."

Because of high temperatures and drying winds this time of the year, transplanting (use of young plants) is a good practice, said the horticulturist. Check at garden centers for recommended varieties of vegetables and select strong, vigorous, healthy plants. Or you may want to grow your own transplants in a protected area and set them out later.

The brown Indian muntjac, or barking deer, barks like a dog when excited. The buck is 30 inches tall and has two-tined antlers, about four inches long.

Shopping strategies cut clothing costs

The mythical average American family spent an estimated $353 for clothing and shoes for each child ages 6-11 in 1987, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures.

Yet depending on where they shop and what they buy, families can easily exceed that figure just buying school clothes, according to Alma Fonseca, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Fonseca priced a complete school wardrobe for a 10-year-old boy and another for a girl of the same age. Each wardrobe included enough underwear and socks, shoes, jeans, shirts and tops for a week at school; one casual and one dressy outfit; and a lightweight jacket.

When purchased at the discount store, the girls' wardrobe cost $249 compared to $576 for similar items at the department store. The boys' wardrobe cost $182 at a discount store and $559 at the department store, she said.

"Most children don't need a complete wardrobe at once, so costs are spread over several months," she said. "Beginning the school year in summer shorts and making use of hand-me-downs from older siblings also reduces clothing needs."

"Whatever the size of your clothing budget, it's good strategy to spend the most money to buy quality in those clothes that will be worn most often, receive the hardest wear and be laundered frequently," said Fonseca.

"Then shop for these items during the children's clothing sales, generally held in August and October."

The specialist said that for staple items such as underwear, socks and t-shirts, discount stores may have real bargains, especially if you buy in quantity.

"Discount and outlet stores carry a variety of less-expensive clothing, but it may also be less durable. That may not matter if you expect the child to grow out of the item quickly or it's a garment with a limited use, such as a dressy dress," she said.

Check the catalog sales at the department stores that have mail-order services. Sometimes the catalog sale price will be less expensive than the in-store price for the same or a very similar item, said Fonseca.

"If your child is growing rapidly, buy sizes as large as possible without being ill-fitting. Clothes with adjustable straps and waistbands, raglan sleeves, stretchy fabrics, deep hems, dropped waistlines and two piece outfits provide more room for growth."

"You may be better off waiting to buy clothes as your growing child needs them. This can also give your youngster time to see what the other kids are wearing and feel happier about his or her choices in school clothes."

MVP for the day

Robert "Chapolin" Casarez of the Holly Sugar team rounds third base as he scores on a teammate's hit during a game Sunday in the Summer Agriculture Productive Softball League. Casarez was selected as the most valuable player for Sunday's league games.

Astros achieve winning road trip with 3-2 win over Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Houston Astros might have Glenn Davis, their top hitter, back in the lineup as well as the home park advantage against the Los Angeles Dodgers this weekend.

"Glenn indicated he'll be ready to play Friday night. But that's just him talking," Manager Hal Lanier said Wednesday after the Astros completed a winning road trip with a 3-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Astros, alone in second place after the tie-breaking game with the Giants, open a four-game series with the National League West-leading Dodgers on Friday night. The Giants will visit Houston after four games in Atlanta.

The Astros are 30-19 at home and play 32 of their remaining 55 games at the Astrodome.

Davis, who had not played in a week because of a pulled hamstring, returned to action Wednesday with two out in the ninth inning as a pinch hitter for pitcher Mike Scott. He was at the plate when the winning run scored on Scott Garrelts' bases-loaded wild pitch.

"He ended up striking out," Scott said. "But he contributed to that win, whether he thinks so or not. I'm sure Garrelts would rather have pitched to me."

Garrelts got two strikes on Davis, and on the 0-2 count a "waste pitch" was in order to the hobbled first baseman who has 22 homers and 74 RBI.

"He wanted to throw a slider away, not in the strike down," catcher Bob Melvin said.

"I wanted it hard, down and away," Garrelts said. "Bob is a very good catcher as far as blocking balls goes, and that's one reason I felt comfortable throwing a pitch like that."

But he got a sick feeling as the pitch bounced into the dirt, took a high hop over Melvin's head and cleared the screen 66 feet behind the plate. Billy Hatcher, who started the winning rally with a single, trotted home.

Davis went down swinging on the next pitch from Garrelts, 3-6, who struck out five men and issued three walks, including two in the ninth, in 3 1-3 innings.

Joe Price, a bullpen regular, was called on as a starter Wednesday and, as Craig said, "He was outstanding. We couldn't ask for any more."

The left-hander allowed four hits and only one earned run in 5 2-3 innings, leaving when the score was tied 2-2.

Scott, 11-3, pitched five-hit ball over eight innings for his first Candlestick Park victory in three years and Dave Smith earned his 19th save by setting the Giants down in order in the ninth.

For Red Sox in 5-4 victory over Rangers

'Morgan Magic' continues to work

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Morgan's Magic continues. And the Boston Red Sox have charged into a tie with Detroit for the American League East lead.

In less than three weeks under new manager Joe Morgan, the Red Sox have made up nine games on the Tigers, going 19-1 since John McNamara was fired two days after the All-Star Game.

With Morgan, their former third base coach, rewarded with a new contract that will pay him a reported $190,000 in 1989, the Red Sox pulled out a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Wednesday night.

Rookie Jody Reed's two-out single scored Ellis Burks from second base to lift the surprising Red Sox to their 22nd consecutive home victory, tying the AL record for consecutive home victories set by the 1931 Philadelphia Athletics.

So, just how tough is it to win 22 games in a row with the home field advantage?

The best indicator is that only two other major league teams have accomplished the feat in this century. The New York Giants won 26 in a row at the old Polo Grounds in 1916 and the 1978 Pittsburgh Pirates had a 24-game streak in Three Rivers Stadium.

Few of the Red Sox, though, think much of the Fenway Park winning string, begun under McNamara on June 25. They're more concerned with the 19-1 record under Morgan and moving from virtually nowhere into contention for the division title.

Virtually all of the Red Sox conceded that luck, along with Morgan's Magic, played a key role in the Red Sox victory over Texas, completing a sweep of a sixth consecutive series at home.

"You have to have a little luck in this game," said Burks, who was hitless Wednesday night but made contributions on the basepaths and in center field.

"We were lucky tonight, no question," Morgan said.

Morgan said the Red Sox "got lucky" when Pete Incaviglia slipped and fell while waiting to catch a routine fly ball to left in the seventh. Wade Boggs got a gift triple and scored the tying run on Marty Barrett's grounder to second.

The Red Sox got another break, Morgan said, when Jim Rice was nearly tagged out after rounding second on Reed's single, which scored Burks from second.

The Rangers took a 4-3 lead in the seventh on Incaviglia's RBI single after a two-run throwing error by reliever Bob Stanley.

Holly Sugar wins Sunday's Ag Softball title game

Holly Sugar won the championship game for the second Sunday in a row in the Summer Agriculture Productive League, defeating DeBruyn 10-6.

Earlier games Sunday saw Holly Sugar score a 13-12 win over M.W. Carrot, and DeBruyn defeat Barrett-Fisher 10-6.

Holly Sugar trailed M.W. Carrot 12-4 in the bottom of the seventh, but rallied to win 13-12. Robert "Chapolin" Casarez, the winning pitcher of the Holly Sugar team for both games, was named the most valuable player for Sunday's competition.

Season records in the league are: Holly Sugar, 4-0; DeBruyn, 2-2; M.W. Carrot, 0-2; and Barrett-Fisher, 0-2.

Games scheduled for Sunday are DeBruyn vs. Barrett-Fisher at 4:30 p.m., Holly Sugar vs. M.W. Carrot, 5:45 p.m., and the championship contest at 7 p.m.
