

Funeral Sunday
At Quanah For
Mrs. H. Smith

Mrs. Henryetta Smith, longtime Quanah resident, died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Wellington Friday night, November 18. She had been in failing health 18 months and hospitalized ten days.

Mrs. Smith was an aunt of Mrs. B. F. Ford and Mrs. J. C. Ford, and had been here with them since her health failed.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Knowles Funeral Chapel, Quanah, with the Rev. O. C. Harper, minister of the First Christian Church of that town officiating.

Burial was in the family plot of Quanah cemetery. The Kelo Funeral Home was in charge of local arrangements.

Pall bearers were Raymond Ford, Albert Fulcher, Claude Brown, Roy Akin, Elmer Akin, and R. C. Werner.

Mrs. Smith was born March 6, 1873, in Mississippi. She moved to Hardeman County in 1910 and to Quanah in 1911. She had been a member of the Methodist Church since early in life.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Lou Akin of Mississippi, and a number of nieces and nephews, including the two nieces here.

A Team Boys and Girls Play Same Nights

Coach Clement Announces Rocket, Rockette Season Schedule

The Skyrocket basketball season opened in earnest this week, when Coach E. W. Clement announced the season schedule for the boys and girls A teams and explained the set-up under which basketball will operate this year in Wellington high school.

The A team Rockets and Rockettes will play the same schools on the same nights this year, rather than the A and B team plan of last season. Clement is coaching both teams. They will play in interscholastic league District 1-A, since the new AA arrangement does not go into effect until next school year.

For basketball purposes, a split district was set up, with Wellington in the south half along with Memphis, Clarendon, McLean and Lefors. In the north half are Stinnett, Panhandle, White Deer and Canadian.

District competition will begin January 6 and a double round robin will be played to determine the top two teams in each the north and south divisions. These top two teams in each bracket will meet in the district tournament at Lefors February 9, 10 and 11, when the district winners in both boys and girls divisions will be determined.

The B team schedule for boys and girls is being worked up. These teams probably play Thursday night. Coach John Hurley is in charge of the boys and Coach Clement of the girls.

Coach Harvey Millsap is coaching the junior high boys and girls, and their schedule will be announced later.

"We should have a better ball club this year than last," Coach Clement said. "The boys have more experience. Last year, we had two one-year lettermen and three freshmen on the starting check in an equal amount. The total cost of the scoreboard, $1,500, was financed by the two clubs. A big auction sale, with local business men contributing merchandise, started the fund off last year. Kiwanians raised money for the final payment by sponsoring the Dale Carnegie course, and Rotarians with their Rotary Minister.

PAYING OFF THE SCOREBOARD

Duard Scott Plans Advertising Series

Merchants Start Educational
Town-Building Campaign

Some 40 far-sighted Wellington business firms are co-operating to start the publication of a series of page ads in The Leader, discussing certain facts of community life which are often overlooked. The series, in its essence, is an educational campaign on community building which presents a lot of factual information on how the individual consumer helps himself when he helps his community to prosper.

The campaign is not a promotion on the part of The Leader. It came about as the result of numerous requests made to the paper on the part of business men and individuals who are interested in the development and the future welfare of the community.

The series was designed and copyrighted by D. E. Scott. He spent several months on research work, studying the problems of small communities, the effects of buying habits, and the reasons why some towns grow and others just fade away.

Deskins Wells, publisher of The Leader, was instrumental in getting Mr. Scott interested in the project. When the first series of advertisements was completed, Mr. Wells said: "I consider this the most original and factual program for the improvement of conditions in the average small town that I have ever seen. It is not a plea from the merchants for people to trade at home. Instead it shows how it helps the consumer individually and the community as a whole."

One of the main themes of the series is why it is profitable to the consumer to trade at home with the merchants he knows best and who can serve him best.

The first advertisement in the series appears in The Leader this week, and graphically reminds us that National figures show the average dollar spent in trade actually brings the purchaser only about 70 cents worth of merchandise or service, while the remaining 30 cents which covers handling expense and the other costs, goes into the economic bloodstream of some community to keep it living and growing.

A Wellington area resident, therefore, who takes or sends his dollars to some other town for spending, gets the customary 70 cents worth of goods or service for each dollar, but somebody else gets the benefits which he has paid for with the other 30 cents. By spending his dollar in Wellington, however, he receives the same merchandise, plus the enjoyment of all that his 30 cents does to make this community a more comfortable, convenient and profitable place to live.

Nobody can tell, of course, how much he actually benefits from increased business in his own community. There is no way to measure how much a better-financed school or church might be worth to his children. Nor is there any way to put a dollar-value tag on what it could be worth at times to be living in a community which is prosperous enough to continue to support skilled doctors.

Likewise, there is no way to know how much better job, or more profitable business a man might enjoy in the future if his home community is live and progressive, and not undermined by its own gadding spenders.

The sponsors of this series of discussions are concerned about the growing trend toward smaller small towns and bigger cities—a trend which is largely due to high-pressure and often misleading tactics of big city advertisers, mail order and discount houses, door-to-door salesmen, and other attackers of small town prosperity.

They see in this trend a serious threat to jobs, to opportunities, and to investments in farms, homes, and business establishments in areas away from the cities.

FFA Sweetheart
Race at Quail

Quail Future Farmers from each of the four classes have nominated their candidates for Chapter Sweetheart, and the campaign will continue for two weeks, closing December 2.

Election will be on the basis of a penny a vote.

Death Takes T. B.
Starkey, 89-Year
Old Pioneer

T. B. Starkey, who came to Collingsworth just after the organization of the county, when the relics of Indian battles could still be found along the creeks, and who was one of the last of the real pioneers to retire from active business life, died Thursday, November 17, in St. Joseph's Hospital. He was 89 years of age.

His health had been failing since January, when he suffered a light stroke, and in recent weeks, he had no longer responded to treatment. Sunday, November 13, he was brought from Perryton, where he was with a daughter, Mrs. E. B. Morgan, to St. Joseph's Hospital.

For many years Mr. Starkey operated a seed store in Wellington, and it was only after his health began to fail that he gave it up. He continued to drive his car until after he was 85 years old.

Mr. Starkey was born July 25, 1866, near Fort Worth, the son of Napoleon and Matilda Casstevens Starkey. About 1870 they moved to Montague county. He had vivid memories of life in the North Texas and lower Panhandle frontiers. He recalled the Indians still raided after they moved to Montague County, once carrying off a boy and girl.

As a young man, he lived in Wilbarger County, and here again, the Indians gathered, setting up their tents around Vernon for days. "If they ever had any business there, I don't know it," he once commented. After he moved to Collingsworth County, he found relics of an Indian battle, and years later met an Indian fighter in San Antonio who told him of the battle on that location.

About 1887, Mr. Starkey moved to Wilbarger County. The following year, September 5, 1888, he was married to Miss Alice Davis in Montague County. Three years later, in 1891, they came to Collingsworth County, settling in what was then called Bradley Flat, later Plymouth. He had (continued on page 10)

Merit Badges and Promotions Due

Court of Honor For Scout Troop 32 Dec. 1

A court of honor for Boy Scout Troop 32 will be held Thursday evening, December 1, with approximately 20 boys receiving promotions or merit badges, Sam Adams, scoutmaster, has announced.

The court will be held in the First Christian Church, beginning at 7:30 p. m. Sandy Parsons Jr., Boy Scout Committeeman from Collingsworth County for the Adobe Walls Council, will be in charge.

The public is invited and urged to attend, and especially are all boys of scouting age, 11 through 13, invited to see the ceremony, Adams said.

Highest promotion will go to Neal Russell, who will go from Star to Life Scout. Harry White will be promoted from first class to Star Scout, and Gregory Smith will become a first class Scout, White will receive a merit (continued on page 10)

Wellington will be the area's Christmas town again this year, the traditional star on top of the courthouse, the community Christmas tree and programs beneath the tree.

The Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of Wellington's Christmas activities, is concentrating this year on decorations by individual business firms, and decorations of homes throughout the town.

"Let's make Wellington homes and business houses the best decorated, the loveliest, and most expressive of the spirit of Christmas," John Sherman Christmas Chairman, declared in announcing the decoration program.

Any type of decorations may be used. Merchants may incorporate merchandise in their decoration scheme, or they may decorate their display windows with a purely Christmas theme.

The Chamber of Commerce directors have voted to give cash prizes in each of the two divisions, business and home. First place will be $15, second $10 and third $5, Sherman said.

Any type of home decorations may be used.

Programs under the Christmas tree will begin December 15, with the Domestic Science Club in charge of the first. Any group interested in appearing on one of the evening programs should contact Mrs. Thomas at the Chamber of Commerce.

All programs will be given from 7 to 7:30 p. m., giving local residents an opportunity to attend any other functions that may be scheduled for the evenings.

The night on which the lights will be turned on will be announced later.

Mr. Sherman said that the community Christmas tree probably will arrive some time next week.

Permission has been secured from Ranger William Pecos, N. M., to see the Santa Fe National Monument near Pecos. The Chamber of Commerce is asking for one from 45 to 60 feet in height.

It will be decorated much as the trees have been in the past.

Bond Sales $4,150
During September

United States Savings Bond sales, series E, amounted to $4,150 in Collingsworth County during September, Jesse Adams, area sales manager, Amarillo, announced while in Wellington last week, conferring with John Forbis, county chairman.

The total for the year, January 1 through September 30, was $82,963, Mr. Adams said, or 46.1 per cent of the $180,000 quota for the county.

Sales in surrounding counties were also announced by Mr. Adams: Donley, September sales, Series E, $4,275; Series A, $18,000; total for year, $158,257, or 95.7 per cent of the quota.

Wheeler County: September, $17,642; total for year, $215,271 or 97.9 per cent of the quota.

Childress County: $11,850 for September; $210,769, for the year, or 84.3 per cent of quota.

4 Rattlers Killed
On Harrison Farm

SNAKE season opened up on the C. L. Harrison farm at Rolla with four rattlers, two of them large, killed within a period of a few days.

Mrs. Harrison, at home alone, narrowly escaped being bitten as she gathered eggs from a lone nest in her brooder house. The snake was coiled and ready to strike when she heard it rattle. She killed it with a hoe and the snake was found to measure 40 inches in length, eight and a half in girth, and had 11 rattlers.

A smaller snake, two and a half feet long with six rattlers, was lying nearby, and Mrs. Harrison killed it also.

About two weeks earlier, a (continued on page 10)

Texas Bank and Trust Company Contest

Henard Named Salt Fork Entry
In Conservation Award Program

John Robert Henard, one of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District's younger farm leaders, has been chosen to represent the district in the Texas Bank and Trust Company Annual Awards Program for Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

Henard was chosen by a committee of county bankers, with C. T. Hubbard as chairman and Floyd Teutsch, Jimmie Lee and Dick Wiley, members.

This is the second year the county has participated in the program, and last year, the district's entry, Frank Coleman, was winner for Region One. There are only five regions in the entire state. Only soil conservation district supervisors may be entered.

While Henard was chosen by the bankers committee because he is an all-around good farmer and stockman, the fact is that he has done outstanding work as a leader in two fields that needed special attention in his area, grasses and irrigation—one a problem that has been accumulating as long as the pastures of Collingsworth have been grazed, the other brand new.

Henard has been farming since about 1932, as a Future Farmer when he began renting land from his father, then World War II, when he spent three and a half years with the Air Force in Europe.

It was 1946 before he could tackle farming as an adult, depending on it for his livelihood. That year, he bought his first land, 670 acres of grass and farming land in two separate places. Two years later, he bought 2,000 acres of grass.

With three places, he has three sets of soil conservation and soil improvement problems. He found (continued on page 10)

Final Sermon Sunday

Rev. Bill Thomas Takes Pastorate at Henrietta

The Rev. Bill Thomas, pastor of First Baptist Church in Wellington for the last year, Sunday announced his resignation from the church here to accept the pastorate of First Baptist Church in Henrietta.

He will preach his farewell sermons at the services Sunday, November 27.

He, Mrs. Thomas, and their three-year-old daughter, Beth, will move to their new home Monday.

During his pastorate, the church has shown steady progress. There have been 118 additions to the church and Sunday School has averaged around 400 each week. The average training union attendance has been 145. Offerings during the year have totaled about $34,000.

"In leaving, we wish to express our appreciation, not only to the membership of the First Baptist Church, but to all the people of Wellington for the many kindnesses they have shown. We appreciate the privilege to have lived in

First History Compiled

South Baptist Church Organized At Dodson Forty-Four Years Ago

The South Baptist Church in Dodson was organized in 1911. This was the year after the railroad came to Dodson, and men and women of vision though small in number realized that it was necessary for people to have an organization and a place where they could meet and worship according to the dictates of their hearts and consciences.

Due to the lack of official church records for the first fifteen years of the history of the church, information is sketchy and dates are hazy, but many events and personalities stand out strikingly in the memory of some of the older members of the church.

Pastors

Rev. Jeff Thompson was the first pastor of the church. He was followed by Rev. M. L. Scivaly. Next were Rev. Wilson; Rev. J. L. King; Rev. Darnell; Rev. Orrick; Rev. Crouch; Rev. Milton Leach; Rev. Henry West (1926-32); Rev. John Crouch (1933-34); Rev. C. E. Meredith (1934-5); Rev. W. O. Cooley (1936-7); Rev. Eugene Brand (1938-41); Rev. Alvin Garrison (1941-43); Rev. Tommie Austin (1945-6); Rev. W. E. Brown (1946); Rev. Guy Killian (1947-49); Rev. John Herndon (1949-51); Rev. Cecil McCullough (1951-52); Rev. James Cooper (1952-3); and Rev. Bill Hendricks (1954).

Church Property

It is to be noted that the first year of the church's life the congregation met in what is now the masonic hall in Dodson. The present church building was built on the site which it now stands in the year 1912. It was used also as a school house before the public school was built in Dodson. The building was then a large one roomed structure with a square roof. During a wind storm in the early days considerable damage was done to the roof and the building was slightly jarred from its foundations. The damage was quickly repaired by the members.

During the late thirties and early forties a new roof was put on the church and the auditorium was redecorated. In 1954 Sunday School rooms were added to the church, and this fall the auditorium of the church was redecorated; used pews were purchased to replace the old wooden benches, and the exterior of the entire structure was stuccoed.

To those who knew the church in early days many changes are noticeable. The first old rough benches, which were a discomfort to many, gave place to benches of a better type in 1927. The original benches were given to a negro Baptist Church which was then conducting services in Dodson. An old hand organ provided the music for services in the early days. This was later replaced by a piano. Mrs. Rob Holland and the late Mrs. J. W. Peoples solicited funds for the piano among Dodson and Wellington merchants and these contributions together with the amount that the congregation was able to raise was sufficient to buy the new piano.

Coal oil lamps hung in brackets in the wall provided the first light for the church. These were replaced by Coleman lamps and in 1927 the church put in electricity and gas. Previous to this time the auditorium was heated with a big coal oil stove which was too warm for the folk sitting near, yet those on the outer edges of the crowd felt decidedly chilly. In 1952 air conditioning was added to aid in the convenience of the services and in 1955 an additional unit was added.

In 1947 the church acquired a comfortable 5-room home for a parsonage.

South Baptist Church is free from debt and maintains a balance for current expenses. This was not true at first, when a $500 building loan was necessary. Rob Holland signed his name to that note the day he joined the church and was instrumental in getting it paid off.

Events and Personalities

Baptisms in the early day were held in earthen tanks and stock tanks. Those in recent days have been in neighboring churches, for as yet the church has no baptistry. Most of the early revivals were held out of doors several in the brush arbor fashion. Two meetings were held in the Davis Gin yard. A Rev. Tennison held a tent meeting one summer. It is interesting to note that a Nazarene pianist played for one of the revival meetings and for a period of some years in the early twenties the Methodists and Baptists met together until the Methodist church was built. When Rev. West came as pastor of the church in 1926 his brother, a Methodist, was leading the singing.

There are an even dozen resident members who have been members of the church for twenty years or longer: Mrs. Bessie Davis, R. L. Daughtery, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Holland, Truett Holland, Dennis Holland, Mrs. Dora Johnson, Mrs. M. J. Milner, Mrs. Truett Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford, and Mrs. H. P. Scott. Mrs. O. D. Hill of Hollis is the only known charter member, although there may be others whose address is not known.

The present board of deacons is composed of Rob Holland, Aaron Welch, Ed Crowder, Truett

Holland, and Clem Timmons. The church treasurer is Mrs. Raymond Fillpot and the church clerk is Mrs. H. P. Scott. Director of music is Mrs. Ted Parker, and the S. S. Supt. is T. E. Lennon. Pianist is Mrs. Truett Holland.

At the present the church has 100 resident members. Last year an average of 75 was maintained in the Sunday School, but for the past two months of the association year the attendance has averaged in the eighties and the goal is set for the yearly average of 90 in Sunday school. During the past year the church gave over $5,400 for all causes. This is an average of $54.00 per capita, which is considerably above the average for our denomination.

We are proud of the achievement of this church which has been for forty-four years an influence for moral and civic righteousness in the community in which it is located. Many people will rejoice in the celebration of the second annual homecoming, and many unnamed people have played an important part in the history of the church. There are many plans and dreams for the future, and we trust that these too will take place in time. We would thank the many friends of the church who have helped in numberless ways through the years.

South Baptist Church in Dodson is typical of scores of our village and rural churches who are doing a great service in contributing to the stability and permanence of the community. Strong churches will make for strong character formation and they coupled with the home and the public school are the very backbone of our American Way of life.

ANOTHER GULF FIRST!

New Super-Refined Gas-Oil Team

gives you more miles per gallon...more miles per quart

This lamp is burning the "DIRTY-BURNING TAIL-END" of gasoline which GULF refines out

This lamp is burning NEW SUPER-REFINED GULF NO-NOX, the clean-burning super-fuel

Gulf No-Nox burns clean. Here's proof: Note the black deposit on plate at left, caused by the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the part which Gulf refines out in making new NO-NOX. But see how clean new NO-NOX leaves the plate at right. Now—in your own car, see how new NO-NOX can give you more miles per gallon in the kind of short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

Gulfpride Select works clean. Here's why: Most conventional oils are refined only to the stage shown in A. But New Gulfpride Select is further refined by the Alchlor Process—removing up to 15% more of the carbon-formers, in B... C contains the new super-refined oil that gives you more miles per quart because it has natural viscosity (body)—contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

Together they give you thousands of extra miles of new-car performance...new-engine economy

Gulf now brings you not just a gasoline... not just an oil... but a great new gasoline and a great new motor oil which, working together, boost each other's efficiency.

This new Gas-Oil Team will help your car retain all the horsepower you paid for—help you enjoy thousands of extra miles of new-car performance.

Now that fall changeover time is here, switch to Gulf's great new Gas-Oil Team to get more miles per gallon—more miles per quart... plus complete engine protection.

University Slates Aptitude Tests For Students Who Will Enroll There

AUSTIN—The University of Texas has chosen three dates and 42 cities for required aptitude tests to high school seniors and graduates who plan to enter the University next fall.

Test dates will be Saturday, Feb. 4; Saturday, May 12, and Friday, August 10.

The tests will be given at Childress February 4; at Amarillo all three dates; and at Lubbock and Wichita Falls February 4 and May 12.

Registration for the February test date will last until Jan. 23. Students may register for the May test from March 1 to April 30. Registration for the August test will begin June 1 and last until July 30.

After the University has received a student's test application, the student is sent a card authorizing him to take the test at one of the testing centers. Tests begin at 9 a. m., but students will report at 8:30 a. m. for instructions. All tests will be given in the forenoon of each testing date.

Authorized by the University's Board of Regents in October, the aptitude tests are part of the University effort to continue and improve the quality of its service to students and to the State. "The aptitude tests will be used along with other information in selecting students who have the greatest probability of success in the University," Dr. H. T. Manuel, the University's Testing and Guidance Bureau director, said.

The tests are designed to measure two very general abilities needed in academic work. The first is the ability to work with words, to understand their meanings, and to see relations between the ideas they express. The second is the ability to work with numbers, to do simple mathematical operations, and to solve problems.

Dr. Manuel cautioned students that scores on the required aptitude tests will not be the only basis for admission to the University.

"A low test score, for example, may be offset by a good high school record," he said. "Similarly, a high test score may call attention to students who, because of handicaps, have not been outstanding in their high school work."

Students will be notified of their test scores and all scores will be kept confidential.

In addition to taking the aptitude test, a prospective University student must also apply for admission to the University registrar, who will use the student's test score as one factor in determining whether the student will be admitted.

Dr. Logan Wilson, University president, has said, "By appropriating sums too low to guarantee respectable standards for a greatly increased number of students, the last session of the Legislature, in effect, gave us a mandate to institute selective admissions."

"We have no desire to limit the University's expansion by arbitrary means, but without promise of adequate financial support, we simply cannot accommodate the 35,000 students we know we would get by 1970 if we kept our doors open to any and all applicants."

Test application blanks and bulletins of information concerning the tests are available now from high school principals over the state or may be obtained from the Testing and Guidance Bureau, The University of Texas, Austin 12.

30 Chest X-Rays Found Suspicious

Collingsworth County's Chest X-Ray campaign this year brought a total of 1686 x-rays, Dr. Carter Holcomb, county health officer, has reported.

Returns from the State Department of health showed 30 x-rays to be suspicious, and personal physicians of these individuals were notified.

Dr. Holcomb said the drop in the number of x-rays could be attributed to several factors. This year, for the first time in several years, the unit was here during a time school was not in session, and formerly students over 15 years of age were brought by bus from outlying schools to the unit. Because of the late date, a number of individuals had free chest x-rays elsewhere, usually at fairs where the unit was in operation.

Crossroads Report

November 26, 1955

Dear Editor:

I see where the scientists have discovered that they can vaccinate a cow for small pox and measles, etc., and people who drink her milk will be immune to these diseases.

My thinking neighbor says if this will work, maybe we could just send our heifers to school and then get our own education by drinking strawberry milk shakes.

Come to think of it, maybe there is something to this theory that milk can influence people. Could be that drinking milk from our old family cow is what turned me against taxes. She always lucked about being milked too.

CARD OF THANKS
We do not have the words to express our appreciation for the many kind words, deeds, and acts of our many friends, shown us since the injury of our son, Jimmie Ray Clubb. Every word of encouragement and every thoughtful act helped so much.

We especially appreciate our pastor, Rev. Bill Thomas, who stood by us so closely, the Doctors, and nurses, who did everything for his welfare, also all the boys that are with the H&R Drilling Co.

Thanks for all the beautiful flowers and cards.

May God's richest blessing be with each of you is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clubb

Miss Jackie Steward and Hubert Saunders Marry at Dallas Saturday

Coming as a surprise to their friends here was the marriage of Miss Jackie Steward and Hubert Saunders, which took place Saturday evening, November 19, at 8:30 o'clock at Sunset Missionary Baptist Church in Dallas.

The Rev. Mr. Acker, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Steward and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Saunders of Wellington.

The bride chose for her wedding a white faille dress, styled with a bolero and a pencil-slim skirt. It was accented with pearl and rhinestone trim. She wore a beaded white hat and her other accessories were black.

Miss Nell Thomas of Dallas was the only attendant.

After a short trip, the couple returned to Wellington early this week and are at home at 801 14th Street.

The bride graduated from Wellington high school in 1954 and since then has been employed as a secretary in the Mill Iron Ranch Offices.

The groom, a graduate of Quail high school, is engaged in farming here.

Savage Asks Co-operation

Postmaster Asks Early Mailing For Christmas

"It's time to start those Christmas mailings!" Postmaster R. T. Savage warned today, launching his 1955 "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign.

"On the calendar it's a month away but here in the Post Office it's Christmas today—and every day until December 25th," he said. "Everything is ready for the mammoth flood of Christmas mail that is expected to smash all records."

The Post Office has already dispatched a tremendous quantity of gift packages headed for members of the Armed Forces overseas. Christmas cards for service personnel can still be delivered in time if they are sent by air mail before December 1st. In the U. S. A., smart people are now mailing gifts to friends and relatives living in other states.

Postmaster Savage especially calls on housewives to help in his effort to deliver every package and Christmas card before December 25th. "The lady of the house," he emphasized, is really in charge of each family's Christmas mailing program. She selects the Christmas cards, buys most of the gifts and sees to it that the mailing list of friends and loved ones is up-to-date.

"Actually, success in having all Christmas gifts and greeting cards delivered on time is largely a matter of advance planning and preparation which should be done this week."

He urges that you take the following steps at once: Get out your Christmas card list and carefully check through it. Make sure that each address includes the full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Then, pay a visit to the Post Office, stock up on stamps (use three cent stamps on your Christmas cards for first-class mail service) and ask any questions you may have about mailing regulations.

You can do this in a leisurely way if you will come to the Post Office after 9:30 A. M. or between 1:30 and 3:30 P. M. thus missing the rush hours. On your way home pick up a supply of heavy wrapping paper, sturdy empty cartons, strong cord and kraft paper adhesive tape. A modest investment in these necessities will pay big dividends in safe delivery of your cherished Christmas gifts.

After your gift wrapping and packing is complete, plan your mailings so that those for the most distant points go first. Try to get all long-distance mailings into the Post Office before December 5th and those for nearby points should be mailed by December 10th. You'll be glad you did.

We of the local office especially, and the Post Office Department in general desire to render you the best service possible but can only do so with your cooperation.

Colored School Begins on Monday

DRY WEATHER DID NOT STUNT THIS

This was the height to which the sorghum alnum on the Olan Starkey farm grew this year in spite of the fact that it had no rain after it was planted until after the heads were harvested. The stalks have a cane-like appearance, although the heads more closely resemble sudan. The seed is like sudan seed and is planted with a two-hole maise plate.

McGUFFEY'S "VENOMOUS WORM"

It would be wonderful if all the adult population of America today could have access to and would read the famous old McGuffey's Electric Readers, which were the dominant elementary school textbooks in America for almost a century, beginning in 1836. Many of the old McGuffey stories containing character-building lessons have been selected for publication in a new series of school readers now being selected for publication in a new series of school readers now being published by the American Book Company.

The appearance of the new McGuffey series prompted me to browse through my own cherished set of the original McGuffey Readers received as a gift some years ago. Their stories are wonderful—the best from the pen of such writers as Hawthorne, Whit-tier, Longfellow, Alcott, Irving, Webster, Cowper, Johnson, Dickens, Thackeray, etc. The readers of this column will agree, I'm sure, that the moral of "The Venomous Worm," from McGuffey's old Fifth Reader, has application today. Here it is.

COPPERHEAD
"Who has not heard of the rattlesnake or copperhead? An unexpected sight of either of these reptiles will make anybody recoil; but there is a species of worm, found in various parts of this country, which conveys a poison of a nature so deadly that, compared with it, even the venom of the rattlesnake is harmless. To guard our readers against this foe of human kind is the object of this lesson."

"This worm varies much in size. It is frequently an inch in diameter, but, as it is rarely seen except when coiled, its length can hardly be conjectured. It is a dull lead color, and generally lives near a spring or small stream of water, and bites the unfortunate people who are in the habit of going there to drink. The brute creation it never molests. They avoid it with the same instinct that teaches the animals of India to shun the deadly cobra."

"SYMPTOMS TERRIBLE"
"Several of these reptiles have long infested our settlements, to the misery and destruction of many of our fellow-citizens. I have, therefore, had frequent opportunities of being the melancholy spectator of the effects produced by he subtle poison which this worm infuses. The symptoms of its bite are terrible. The eyes of the patient become red and fiery, his tongue swells to an im-moderate size, and obstructs his utterance; and delirium of the most horrid character quickly follows. Sometimes, in his madness, he attempts the destruction of his nearest friends.

"If the sufferer has a family, his weeping wife and helpless infants are not unfrequently the objects of his frantic fury. He exhibits all the detestable passions that rankle in the bosom of a savage; and such is the spell in which his senses are locked, that no sooner has the unhappy patient recovered from the paroxysm of insanity occasioned by the bite, than he seeks out the destroyer for the sole purpose of being bitten again."

VICTIMS MANY
"I have seen a good old father, his locks as white as snow, his step slow and trembling, beg in vain of his only son to quit the lurking place of the worm. My heart bled when he turned away; for I knew the fond hope that his son would be the 'staff of his declining years,' had supported him through many a sorrow. Youth of America, would you know the name of this reptile? It is called the worm of the still."

It should be explained that the worm of the still is the small lower coil of copper or lead tubing on a moonshining whiskey still from which drips the powerful distilled product. Mountain whiskey stills are located at springs or on creek banks—to obtain the necessary water supply. The writer of the McGuffey Reader's "The Venomous Worm" was John Russell, an author noted for his sense of humor. The application of its lesson today is obvious: In a recent newspaper article I notice that of the approximately 50,000,000 Americans who drink, several million are alcoholics—victims of McGuffey's "Venomous Worm."

School Dismisses For Thanksgiving

Wellington schools will dismiss for the Thanksgiving vacation Wednesday at 3:45 p. m. and classes will be resumed Monday morning, Supt. Bennett Goodloe has announced.

During the Thanksgiving Vacation, Mr. Goodloe will attend the annual meeting of the State Teachers Association to be held in San Antonio.

Church Ladies Have Bake Sales

The ladies of the First Christian Church have been having bake sales in the Higdon Auto Sales Building on Saturdays. They are having the bake sale for this week on Wednesday instead of Saturday.

On Saturday, December 3, the ladies are planning a Bazaar and bake sale, both in the Higdon Auto Sales Building, which will be in progress all day.

A. T. Lewis entered St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday, November 17, and underwent surgery the following day.

Antibiotic Helps Produce More Pigs

COLLEGE STATION, --An extra pig or two per litter resulted when the diet of the mother sow was supplemented with an antibiotic during her gestation, N. R. Ellis of the U. S. Department of Agriculture told delegates to the First International Conference on the Use of Antibiotics in Agriculture at its meeting in Washington.

The extra pigs were due to birth of more live pigs and better ability of the pigs to survive until weaned. It is emphasized that the inclusion of aureomycin (the antibiotic used) in the gestation ration neither increased the number of embryos nor the birth weight of the pigs.

Similar work has been conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Fred Hale, station swine husbandman, says that at least three antibiotics have been tested including aureomycin. He has reported results which closely paralleled those of the Belville Research Center.

Hale does offer this additional advice to farmers who may include an antibiotic as a supplement to the gestation ration of their sow herd. "Don't depend upon the antibiotic to replace a good sanitation program on the farm. As in the case of the ration, the antibiotic is only a supplement to management and sanitation practices which will aid in the control of swine diseases and parasites."

Among practices listed by Hale are rotation of hog pastures, through cleaning of farrowing houses before farrowing time, cleaning the sows before the pigs are born and carefully watching the sows and litters for any signs of diseases or parasites. Frequent rotation of pastures and farrowing areas will aid in preventing "pig sick soil". A term used by swine producers to describe soil which is infected with disease or parasites.

The normal dosage of aureomycin is 10 grams per ton of feed. Supplementing the gestation ration at this level gave the same results as the inclusion of larger amounts -- better survival of young pigs.

Hybrid castorbeans under irrigation last year produced yields up to 2,800 pounds of clean beans an acre in tests near Littlefield.

Traffic Deaths Increase In Six Months Period

Some 1134 people were killed in traffic accidents during the first six months of 1955, representing a two per cent increase over the

Controlling External Parasites of Stock, Poultry Good Business

COLLEGE STATION, --External parasites of livestock and poultry are not only a constant menace but also are profit robbers. They lower production of meat, milk, and eggs by sucking blood from the animals, transmit diseases and cause loss of energy by annoyance, says Extension Entomologist F. M. Fuller.

The major external parasites can be controlled by using organic insecticides and Fuller believes there is little excuse for allowing them to exist. He points out that losses caused by these pests can be the difference between financial success or failure for many farm enterprises. With the cost-price squeeze getting tighter, it is just good business management, he adds, to get the insects before they get your profits.

As an aid to stockmen, dairymen and poultry producers, the extension entomologists have prepared a leaflet, "Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry" which gives in brief form methods and formulas for doing the control job.

The leaflet is available at the offices of local county agents or from the Agricultural Information Office at College Station. Ask for L-256.

same period of 1954, F. Darby Hammond, Executive Secretary of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service of Dallas, announced today.

Traffic accidents were also up two per cent from the first half of 1954, totaling 952. Over one-half of the traffic deaths--577--occurred on Texas highways. Cities with a population of 2,500 or more, accounted for 246 traffic fatalities. A total of 139 traffic deaths were reported on farm-to-market roads, and 89 persons were killed on County roads. In towns under the 2,500 population 83 deaths were recorded. The month of May was the worst traffic fatality month. A total of 214 people lost their lives during the month, Hammond stated.

The insurance industry representative pointed out that the Department of Public Safety in Austin predicts that at the present rate of deaths on Texas highways, and roads, the year-end tally of traffic fatalities will be nearly 4.4 per cent higher than in 1954.

"Already the economic loss for the first six months of 1955, from traffic accidents is close to $3,359,750 higher than for the same period last year. Estimates of the economic loss so far this year stands at $67,296,250. Of course, this is the monetary loss and does not take into consideration the terrible pain, suffering and bereavement resulting from traffic deaths," Hammond said.

"As a total problem, or national problem, deaths on the highways and roads have become the major problem confronting the American people. Some 38,000 of our fellow Americans have their lives snuffed out in traffic accidents each year, and the economic loss is nearly 4 1/2 billion dollars. Motor vehicles annually bring death to more children than all five of the major diseases combined. Even among adults, they are the fifth-ranking killer during the productive working years of life. In short, the loss of life and property annually sacrificed on the altar of carelessness and criminal irresponsibility is a national disgrace. We're all calloused to big figures when it comes to money, and in a sense, we're somewhat the same way with respect to human accident statistics. But spelled out, those 38,000 traffic fatalities equal the entire population of Tyler, Texas. Think of it! Each year, the entire population of a city of that size is completely wiped out in needless traffic accidents," Hammond said.

"Texas, while it ranks third in the Nation in automobile registrations, it also contributes 6.4 per cent of all the Nation's traffic fatalities. Last year, Texas traffic deaths were the second highest in the country. While there are varying estimates, the cost of traffic accidents to each individual in the Lone Star State--to every man, woman and child--is generally agreed to be about $60 per year. For a community of 10,000 persons that's a bill of $600,000--enough to build a new school, swimming pools, and to pay for countless civic improvements," Hammond continued.

Mrs. W. W. Sugg was a medical patient in St. Joseph's Hospital from November 11 to 15.

Slaughter Calves Important Part Of Beef Industry

COLLEGE STATION -- The production of slaughter calves is an important part of the beef industry in Texas and the South. Figures released for the month of June by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that Texas led all states in the number of calves slaughtered for the month with 97,000 head.

As an aid for stockman and farmers who produce this type of beef, Extension Animal Husbandman U. D. Thompson, has prepared a bulletin on slaughter calf production. It is now available at the offices of county agents.

Thompson has covered such items as pasture-forage, selection, prebred and crossbred herds, breeding practices, management of the bull herd, calving time, dehorning, castrating and branding, creep feeding, feeding minerals and vitamins, equipment, internal and external parasites, disease prevention and control and marketing.

Interested persons should ask the local county agent for B-799, Slaughter Calf Production.

Burial Rites For Mrs. Annie Bird Held Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Bird, long-time Collingsworth County resident and a Lockney teacher at the time of her death, were held at the Church of Christ Friday, November 18, at 2:30 p. m. Minister Monroe Tharp officiated, as friends from all walks of life gathered to pay final tribute.

Mrs. Bird died unexpectedly at her home Monday night of a heart attack. She was in her second year as a member of the Lockney faculty.

Pall bearers for the service were Herman Childress, Shelton Nunneley, John Jackson, C. L. Blandford of Amarillo, Troy Gardner, and Scotty Witt of Lockney.

Honorary Pall bearers were Ired Thomas, V. P. Robertson, Dick Wiley, Paul Starr, Deskins Wells, Ellis Nunneley, Fred Capps, J. S. Dorn, S. R. Davis, Grover Hunt, Fred LeDerer, Pat Dickey, E. F. Bartlett, C. W. Roberts, W. I. Jackson, J. M. Homer and Hugh Longino.

Burial services were delayed until Sunday morning in order that a daughter, Mrs. Lurline Wells, in Civil Service work with the Air Force in Iceland, might attend. Min. Tharp was at the graveside rites, and interment was in the family plot by the Kelso Funeral home.

Mrs. Bird, a former tax assessor of the county, is survived by four children: Mrs. Wells; Mrs. James O. Pickering of Eaton-town, N. J.; Clarence Bird of Kempner and George Bird of Hereford.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has announced a progeny testing program for program are available at the offices of all county agents or from the Department of Animal Husbandry, Texas A. & M. College, College Station.

Rattler Speed, Weight
Down Gallant Rockets

Too much weight and too much speed is what the Rockets went down in defeat before the champion Stinnett team last Friday by a score of 31 to 13. Never has a Wellington team put up a more gallant fight; but they could not match the power of the Rattlers and it is doubtful if any other team will stop them either.

The Rockets, who were not expected to get very far at the beginning of the season, ended the year with one of their most successful seasons in recent years.

The game began to resolve itself into a pattern early in the first quarter. The Rockets received the ball on their own 20 yard line. Ford picked up 11 yards for the first 1st down. A penalty and then a fifteen yard loss on a fumble forced Wellington to punt from their own 11 yard line. Stansbury got off a nice boot against a stiff wind that went out of bounds on the 43 yard line. George Bodey made 20 yards on the first play but in attempting to make a sharp turn twisted his ankle and was removed from tute Sammie Roberts proved to be equally as fast and shifty and along with Ralph Hicks and Freddie Thompson carried the ball for a touchdown and the try for point was good.

Fumbles caused by hard charging and big Stinnett line plagued the Rockets all evening and the second of these set up the 2nd Rattler touchdown. On four plays the Rattlers went over for their second touchdown. The try for point was blocked by Don Crawford and Don Scott and the score stood at 13 to 0 with only half of the first quarter played.

Wellington's first touchdown drive was started by a recovered fumble on the Stinnett 30 yard line. With Stansbury, Jameson, Nunneley carrying they went to the 1 yard line where Wilkins carried it over and Tarver made the point good. Nunneley, who has more years to play for the Rockets was particularly impressive on this drive.

Stinnett tried to start another drive from the 35 yard line: but great line play forced them into a passing game. They made one good to their own 46. Running plays put the ball on the 28 and a pass from Wilkins to Elbert put the ball on the 1 foot line as the whistle sounded the end of the first half. The pass that failed by inches was the Rockets last chance to get ahead in the ball game.

In the second half the Rattlers scored again on one play after a Wellington fumble had been recovered on the 28 yard line. Hicks ran it on one play: but the try for point was no good. Their next

TO: W. A. Taylor & P. J. Mattingly; if living, whose place and residence are unknown to plaintiff, and if dead, the legal representatives of each of said named defendants, and the unknown heirs of each of said named defendants;

Gasoline, kerosene and cleaning fluids improperly used often turn a peaceful farm into a holocaust of flame. Store and handle them the safe way.

Heavy infestations of fowl ticks, commonly known as blue bugs or chicken ticks, can take a big bite out of the market price of turkeys. Reports wide areas of the state indicate that many turkey flocks are being damaged by this insect pest. Apply control measures as soon as the tick is found. Local county agents can supply information on control methods.

Get set for winter dairying. Don't wait, advises Extension Dairymen R. E. Bureson, until the first cold snap hits to winterize the facilities needed to make the cow herd comfortable during the winter months ahead. It will pay.

Research workers at the USDA's Southern Regional Laboratory have developed an improved flame resistant treatment for cotton fabric.

defendants; the legal representatives of the unknown heir of each of said named defendants, if the unknown heir of each of the said named defendants are dead; the unknown heirs of the unknown heirs of the said named defendants are dead, Defendants, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable 100th Judicial District Court of Collingsworth County at the Courthouse thereof, in Wellington, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A. M. on the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 12th day of December A. D. 1955, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 7th day of June A. D. 1955, in this cause, numbered 3745 on the docket of said court and styled Roy Widener, Plaintiff, vs. W. A. Taylor, et al and P. J. Mattingly, et al, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:

A trespass to Try Title Suit in which the Plaintiff pleads that on or about the 20th day of May, 1955, he was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described lands situated in Collingsworth County, Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit: the West one-half of Section No. 31 in Block 19 of the H. & G. N. Ry. Co. Surveys in Collingsworth County, Texas, that on said date the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff and unlawfully withheld plaintiff from possession and plaintiff relies specifically upon the 3, 5, 10, and 25-year statute of limitations, Plaintiff prays for judgement of title and possession of said land and such other and further relief to which he is entitled, as is more fully shown by Plaintiffs' Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the seal of said court at Wellington, Texas, this 27th day of October A. D. 1955.

Attest: MRS. O. E. DODSON, Clerk, 100th District Court Collingsworth County, Texas. 19-4f

We Give Thanks

Like the Pilgrims, we are thankful for the everyday things about us... for bountiful crops we are now harvesting beneath the clear skies of Collingsworth... for the land itself, which we are making more fertile year by year.

For the association of friends and those interested in us... for we are a friendly people... for the inspiration of our fine schools and the spiritual uplift of our churches.

These are things about us every day... but they are the very things that mean the most in our lives.

he couldn't solve the problems of one place by what had worked on either of the others.

Henard was not one of the first men to sign up with the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District when it was formed, but when he did sign up in 1951, he was sold all the way.

"The first thing Joe Grigg had me do was build some tanks for more equal distribution of grazing," he recalls. Grigg was work unit conservationist here at that time. Henard kept on until he has seven tanks on his grassland, with from 10 to 15 acre feet of water each except one, which was built primarily as a spreader dam.

Henard has always taken care of his grass, which was in fair condition when he bought it. His work in the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District has made his efforts more concentrated.

"He has made awfully good recovery on his grass," Fred Squyres, present work unit conservationist, says. "Much of his grassland is classed in good condition and the remainder in fair condition. This is in spite of four years of drought."

One of the principal points of Henard's grazing plan, like that of any other good stockman, is that he does not overgraze any part of his native pasture. His cattle are moved off winter pasture on May 15, moved again July 15, then back onto the pasture where they spend the winter on October 1.

"This lets the climax grasses seed on each pasture every other year, that is, one either pasture, the climax or fall maturing grasses seed one year and the short grasses, that mature in the summer, seed the next year," Henard explained.

Henard has thought through a number of little things that taken together have helped to keep the native pastures grazed more evenly. For instance, he moved his salt away from the tanks.

Now instead of doing their heaviest grazing in those areas, they move off to salt in other parts of the pasture. Henard believes this one thing helped materially.

Few men in the Salt Fork district have been more conscious of the benefits of supplemental grazing than Henard.

In 1953 he began a reseeding program that has become outstanding in this area. At that time, he took some of his farming land, which he considered too rolling and sandy out of cultivation and made pure seedlings of switch and sand love, and a blue stem mixture. He got a good stand considering the moisture that year.

Henard had reduced his herd from 156 to around 120 head.

"I had too many cattle and they were grazing the pastures too close. That's a thing you get into before you realize it," he commented.

Henard was the first man in the Salt Fork District to secure water rights for irrigation out of a stream, and this system was set up on what he calls his Elm Creek place, located 25 miles northeast of Wellington in the China Grove community. He terraced approximately 80 acres and bench leveled bottom land for irrigation. It doesn't take a big acreage of improved grasses to make a big difference in grazing capacity Henard is aware. Here are a few examples of what he has done.

Henard planted two and a half acres of improved grasses on this irrigated land on Elm and in 1954 cut 84 bales per acre and left 12-inch stalks so he could graze it.

In the fall of 1954, he planted 7 acres on land where he had put in a syrup pan terrace system to utilize outside water from approximately 60 acres of land.

On the same place, he sowed 8 acres of blue panic broadcast, irrigated it, and in the second year harvested 739 pounds of clean seed, then turned 40 head of cows and calves in on it and an adjoining sudan patch that totaled 23 acres. Again, he put 92 head of calves on 80 acres of sudan and 12 acres of blue panic for a considerable period.

That year, Henard got 50 cents per hundred above the average price on the calves he sold and attributes it to creep feeding plus his supplemental grazing, particularly on the blue panic patches.

This year, he made 960 pounds of beef more on the same number of cows, using the same grazing program, but without the use of creep feeder.

On his land just north of Salt Fork, Henard rested the pasture completely from May until October this year and it was in fine condition when he put his cattle back in. He also got a good growth of side oats and mesquite grass that he didn't know he had on that place.

He has already planted 22 acres of sand drop seed grass and will put in additional acreage of blue

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT CLASSIC OFFERED IN ALL-NEW STYLING FOR 1956

The new Studebaker President Classic four-door sedan, top model in the company's lines, has the big new design and styling being introduced for 1956. The car is more than 17 feet long and almost 6 feet wide. The new car is now on display at Warrick Machinery Co. Studebakers have the only complete restyling in the volume low-price field. Two-color interiors are available in a broad choice of new fabrics and vinyls, decorator-harmonized with exterior color selections. The Classic is presented by Studebaker as the highest powered car in its price class, with 210 horsepower. Along with other models in the new Studebaker lines, it has more than 30 major safety features. The new lines include 16 different basic models—12 in the President V8, Commander V8 and Champion sedans and station wagons, and four in a new sports-type line.

Bible Comment

Beatitudes Are a Way Of Life

The first portion of the Sermon on the Mount contains the Beatitudes and the words of Jesus concerning spiritual values and relationships, for those who would follow the ways of the Kingdom of Heaven.

The prevalent beatitudes of our modern world are very different from the Beatitudes of the sermon on the Mount.

These secular beatitudes of the life surrounding us say:

"Blessed are the efficient and the self-sufficient—Blessed are the strong—Blessed are the self-assertive—Blessed are the rich and the successful—Blessed are those who are free from trouble. And so on.

Was Jesus right when He put the blessings His way?

"Blessed are the meek; Blessed are the poor in spirit; Blessed are the pure in heart; Blessed are they that mourn; Blessed are the persecuted; Blessed are those who hunger after righteousness."

These things do not seem to have much to do with the welfare of today's world. Yet, the more we reflect on them, the more we must realize that our very welfare depends on Jesus' Beatitudes.

Take out of a nation all the unselfish, all the kind and considerate, all who are sympathetic and helpful.

Cancel out all who place their values above all self interest and profit.

What do you have left but the morally and spiritually bankrupt? Without a leavening of those who live by the Beatitudes, what a world we would live in!

built a half dugout before bringing his family here.

Mr. Starkey was one of the "nesters" but his relations with the ranchers and cowboys was always good. In a reminiscent mood, he could tell of a Collingsworth County where quail and deer and wild turkey were thick. The old road to Mobeetie and Fort Elliott ran through his place and men would go up with deer meat, to sell for 6 and 7 cents per pound, and prairie Chicken, for $2.50 and $3.00 per dozen. Mail was sent to Aberdeen. With neighbors, he took turn going for it.

Mr. Starkey helped to organize the first Sunday School and church in that part of the county.

When land from the Rocking Chair Ranch was sold, he filed on four sections at 50c per acre, later he tried to sell one section at that price and couldn't get a buyer.

About 45 years ago, with his children growing up, Mr. Starkey moved to Wellington to give them the advantage of the schools.

He had been a member of the Baptist Church since early life. He was for many years a Sunday School superintendent and deacon. With the organization of Faith Baptist Church several years ago, he transferred his membership from First Church, and was serving as a deacon at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held Friday at 1 p. m. at First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Bob Evans of Faith Baptist Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. Alvin Hamm of Quail and the Rev. Tom Burns of Lela.

Pall bearers were members of his family, Carroll Morgan, Loyd Morgan, Winfield White, Herman Morgan, Junior Davis, and Bill Neeley. Burial was in the family plot of the Wellington Cemetery under the direction of the Kelso Funeral Home.

Surviving Mr. Starkey are five daughters and four sons; Mrs. J. W. Brooks of Abernathy, Mrs. W. H. Brown of Levelland, Mrs. E. B. Morgan and Mrs. Raymond Powell of Perryton, Mrs. W. M. Boston of Goodnight, Bert Starkey of Dozier, Grady Starkey of Quitaque, Oran Starkey of Wellington and Charlie Starkey of Quail. Other survivors are a sister, Mrs. Nannie Edmondson of Perryton, 28 grandchildren, 40 great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild.

Miss Nell Trew has joined the nursing and teaching staff of Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, after having been a member of the teaching staff of Parkland Hospital, Dallas, for some time.

Miss Trew is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Trew of Wellington.

Mrs. Lucille Wade, Gailan and Cager Wilkins visited Sunday with Jimmy Cummings of Tulia.

WSCS Plans Day Of Prayer Friday

The WSCS of the Methodist Church is holding a "Week of Prayer" program Friday, November 25, in the church. This is an annual affair for the church, which is a spiritual program.

The services will start about 9:30 Friday morning and will continue through the day with a covered dish lunch at noon. The day will be spent studying about the Mission work being done. An offering will be taken which will go to the missions.

The tags placed on bags of planting seed carry valuable information and should be read before purchases are made. The cheapest seed are those of known purity, with a high germination test and free from noxious weed seed.

Need for Combat-Ready Force Grows STATUS OF MEN IN STANDBY AND READY RESERVE EXPLAINED

AUSTIN, TEXAS (Special)—The increasing need for a strong combat-ready Reserve force prompted passage of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955. The act became law on August 9, 1955, when signed by President Eisenhower, and clearly defines the military obligation faced by youths today.

Persons inducted or enlisted in the regular armed services after passage of the Act are faced with a six-year military obligation.

If inducted, the obligation is: (1) Two year's active duty, (2) Three years in the Ready Reserve with requirements to participate satisfactorily in drills and annual unit training, and (3) One year in the Standby Reserve with no requirements to participate.

If enlisted, the obligation is the same except that for each additional year of enlistment, over two, there is a resultant decrease in the Ready Reserve obligation.

An individual in READY RE-

ERVE status is subject to recall to active duty by either an Act of Congress or by Presidential action.

In STANDBY RESERVE status an individual is subject to recall only by an Act of Congress in the event of a national emergency.

Satisfactory participation in the Reserve means attendance one night each week at a two-hour training period and attendance for two weeks each year at a summer training camp.

Reservists residing in areas that are remotely located from Reserve units, and those who are precluded from attending weekly training assemblies by reason of employment, (such as traveling salesmen) will be given other opportunities to make up for those assemblies missed.

The Army Reserve has various plans for fulfilling the military obligations for young men who wish to do so with the least interruption to their plans for the future. Currently there are three in effect.

One. Eight-year enlistment in a hometown unit of the Army Reserve with draft-deferred status. The eight-year obligation consists of six month's active duty for training at an Army camp and seven and a half years in Ready Reserve status. Special provisions of this plan allow men enrolled in high school the opportunity to graduate before undergoing the six month's training. Pay is received for all training during this period and the enlistee is qualified for promotion and may study toward becoming a commissioned officer in the Army Reserve.

Two. Six-year enlistment in the Army Reserve for persons aged 17 to 26. Obligation is the same as for persons inducted. Difference is that individual will be given a 120-day delay before entering the two-year active duty tour. This plan was designed for individuals who wish to complete their military obligations as speedily as possible under the new Act.

Three. A plan designed for veterans who entered the armed services before the passage of the Act, are separated between August 9, 1955, and July 1, 1957 and still have an eight-year military obligation to fulfill. By agreeing to actively participate for one year in Ready Reserve status such individuals will then revert to the Standby Reserve. In most cases this reduces the Ready Reserve obligation by five years depending upon whether the individual was initially inducted or enlisted. The inducted veteran, upon his release from active duty after August 9, 1955, who does not actually participate in the Army Reserve is obligated to spend six years in Ready Reserve status. If enlisted, his obligation is the same except each additional year of enlistment over two results in a decrease of one year in the Ready Reserve. Young men and their parents who desire additional information on the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 may obtain information from: The office of the Amarillo U. S. Army Reserve Advisor 112 NE 2nd Avenue Tel. Drake 6-8074

Wellington Cagers Split Pair With Vinson Teams

The Wellington Rockettes and B Rocket basketball teams split a pair of games with the Vinson, Oklahoma, teams Tuesday, November 15, here.

The Rockettes won 47 to 27, while the B Rockets went down 51 to 31.

Oklahoma rules were used in the game, and this hampered the Wellington teams in their play.

Sally Murphy was high scorer for the Rockettes.

"All in all, they showed up good and moved the ball pretty well," Coach Clement said. Vinson never gained the lead.

The Wellington B team was competing with the A team from the Oklahoma school. The visitors also had the advantage of height over the Wellington boys, and the Rockets still had so much football left in them that several fouled out for roughness.

"Considering the height and experience of the Vinson boys, we did all right," Coach Clement said.

Relatives of Mrs. Brantley Ill, Hurt

Mrs. R. W. Brantley received word of illness and accident of two members of her family during the past few weeks.

A great grandson, Ricky Harms, 3 and half year old son of Chaplin and Mrs. Sudderth of Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina, has been a polio victim in the Columbia Hospital. Ricky was stricken in his back, neck, and both arms about 4 weeks ago. They now have his arms in casts. Mrs. Brantley reported that he was progressing nicely and that he has been removed from the polio ward into the main hospital. It has been stated that he can now move his hands.

A grandson, Heber Brantley of Vernon was in an automobile accident Sunday, November 13, when he was returning to the University of Texas where he is attending college. He had been home to see his wife and new baby daughter. The accident occurred near Archer City when a car pulled out in front of him from a side road. Mr. Brantley's car was completely demolished but he received no injuries.

¼ teaspoon cloves
1½ cups seedless raisins (½ golden and ½ dark are best)
¾ cup finely cut dates
1 cup broken walnuts
1½ cups ready-mixed, cut-up candied fruit, bulk or canned

Line with waxed paper bottom and sides of a 9-inch tube pan; or 6-cup loaf pan. Put into a bowl the milk, marshmallows and orange juice. Let stand until needed. Roll graham crackers into fine crumbs. Put crumbs into a large bowl with the cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, raisins, dates and walnuts. Add candied fruit and the milk mixture. Mix with a spoon; then with hands until crumbs are moistened. Press firmly into pan. Top with fruit and nuts. Cover tightly. Chill 2 days before slicing. Keep in cool place. Makes 3½ lbs.

*Alcoholic flavoring can replace the orange juice if desired.

UNITED Super Markets We Sell for Less

Big New Studebakers Feature Complete Styling Change and New Engines With Top Power

Big new styling, top horsepower in the low-priced field, a new series of high-performance 5-passenger sports-type cars, major engineering advances and a record list of safety innovations and improvements are outstanding features in the all-new line of Studebaker passenger cars for 1956 which are now on display at the Warrick Machinery Co.

The new Studebaker models, bidding for recognition as "the biggest cars in the low-priced market," represent the auto industry's only complete restyling in the volume low-priced field for 1956.

Presented by Studebaker also as the highest power in standard volume-produced cars in the low-price field is the new 210-horsepower President Classic four-door sedan.

Markedly bigger in exterior appearance, the new Studebakers have greater room inside, and trunk room has been increased by 20 per cent. The new design is described as a basic advance within auto industry trends at the same time it heightens Studebaker's reputation as postwar automotive style leader.

Mechanical innovations include an advanced automatic transmission—the new Flightomatic; special "safety fin" brakes that increase brake-drum cooling by 100 per cent to maintain non-fade efficiency when heavily used, and a new concept in speed indicators—a color-lighted "safety-eye" speedometer.

Studebaker's new lines include 16 models—12 in the sedan and station wagon series, and four in the volume-produced sports-type group.

Heading the nine models in the sedan series is the big President Classic four-door V8. The Classic model—more than 17 feet long and luxury-styled throughout—is powered by a new Sweepstakes 289-V8 engine with four-barrel carburetion. Also powered by the Sweepstakes 289-V8 engine are two other sedans in the President series and the Pinehurst President station wagon.

These sharply increased powers combine with Studebaker's high horsepower-to-weight ratio—the most favorable in the industry—to give the new sedans and station wagons outstanding new standards in acceleration, useable power for both city and highway driving, and other vital performance factors.

Heading the list of Studebaker safety innovations is a new "safety-fin" brake drum which increases cooling area by more than 100 per cent, thus greatly minimizing brake "fade." Most standard-type brakes lose efficiency when they are applied several times over a brief period of rapid heating of the brake drum. The cooling feature of the new Studebaker "safety-fin" drum—standard equipment on President models—allows consistently quick, straight line stops in high-speed driving and mountainous terrain as well as regular driving conditions. In addition, the new drum substantially lengthens brake life.

New crash-tested safety door latches, to prevent car doors from coming open under collision impact, are standard on all models. Crash-tested nylon seat belts are available as optional equipment. The bigger, self-energizing, self-centering brakes introduced with outstanding success by Studebaker in 1955 have been further improved. All brake drums have a tone in groove type seal to prevent entrance of dirt or water into the brake assembly.

Among other safety features are increased passing efficiency with the new power-higher torques and new transmissions; new safety-strength steel bodies using heavy gauge, box section, girder construction; new safety beam headlights, higher capacity defroster systems, tubeless tires, self-tightening wheel bolts, and padding on the rear of the front seat to protect passengers in the back seat who may be thrown forward in case of accident.

Studebaker continues to offer padded instrument panels as standard on some models and optional on the others.

A special safety device already identified with Studebaker that is being continued in the 1956 lines is the hill-holder, which prevents any roll-back of the vehicle when stopped on an incline after the foot is removed from the brake pedal. The hill-holder is standard equipment on all V8 models with standard or overdrive transmission.

The 1956 Studebaker presents a strikingly new appearance. The hood is higher and, designed from the driver's seat, gives the sensation of power and length. The rear deck is also higher and more massive, providing not only more impressive lines but also greater storage utility. The laced grille features a graceful simplicity at the same time it is sturdy looking. On sedans, a jewel-like crest is recessed into the hood above the grille.

The new models in the complete line offer the widest color selection in Studebaker history—a choice of 23 new two-tone combinations and 11 solid colors, with a wide choice of harmonizing two-tone interiors in rich new fabrics and special vinyl treatments.

Classwork Begins At Samnorwood

Classes at Samnorwood school were resumed Monday, November 21, following the five-week cotton pulling vacation, Supt. Orville Cunningham, announced.

Only about five students who attend regularly were absent, he said.

"Not quite all the cotton is out, but people certainly responded in getting their children back in school," Mr. Cunningham said.

During the time school was out, the interior of the building was redecorated, and Mr. Cunningham invites all patrons to come in and see the changes made.

Brother of Mrs. J. M. Bishop Dies

John Ensey, brother of Mrs. J. M. Bishop, died with a heart attack Friday, November 18, at his home in Wynne Wood, Oklahoma. Mr. Ensey had been in bad health for several years. At the time of his death he was 77 years old. Mr. Ensey has visited several times with relatives here. Funeral services were held in the Funeral Home Chapel.

Relatives attending from here were Mrs. J. M. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Oral Bishop and Oliver, and Misses Dona and Eva Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sechrist of Rolls visited over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Courtney.
