V. & W. Gets Flowing Oil In C-N Runnels In Palo Pinto Lime

Vincent & Welch, Inc., No. 1 P. M. Davis, Central - North Runnels County wildcat, two miles southeast of Winters has found a new source of petroleum production in the Palo Pinto lime of the Pennsylvanian.

This development drillstem tested at 3,592-3,810 feet. The tool was open four hours. Gas showed at the surface in five minutes and oil started flowing in 42 minutes. It flowed for three hours and 18 minutes at the estimated rate of 10 barrels per hour. The flow was through a one-half-inch tubing choke. There was no water. Recovery when the drill pipe was pulled was 1,200 feet of clean oil. Gravity of the oil is 43 degrees.

To Cement Casing
Operator is preparing to cement 7-inch casing at 3,390 feet and make production tests and complete.

Top of the Palo Pinto lime is 3,585 feet. That gives it a datum of minus 1.73 feet.

Location of the discovery is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 329, H&TCo survey. It is about one and one-half miles northeast of the nearest production in the Jennings field.

Extension Assured To SW Terry Pool

Tide Water Associated Oil Company and others, No. 1 E. A. Tapp, one location northwest offset to the discovery well of the Corrigan-Fusselman field in Southwest Terry County flowed 17.68 barrels of oil in 30 minutes to tanks during a drillstem test at 11,515-600 feet.

The flow was through a five-eighths inch bottom hole choke. A 1,600-foot water cushion was used for the test. The water cushion started flowing out in one hour and 55 minutes. Mud and oil came to the surface in two hours and 55 minutes.

The fluid was run to pits for one hour and 30 minutes to clean and was then turned to tanks. The 17.68 barrel flow in the next 30 minutes resulted. There was no water.

Second Well
Operators were coming out of the hole with the tester, at last report.

This exploration is the second well in the Corrigan area to reach the Fusselman. It is called top of that formation at 11,515 feet to give it a datum of minus 7.855 feet on that marker. That made it 26 feet low to the same operators No. 1 Nystel, the discovery well of the field.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2, block C-38, psd survey. The new producer is 14 miles southeast of Brownfield.

Second Claiborne Well Gets Free Oil

Sun Oil Company No. 1 Sampson, one location east of the discovery well of the Claiborne-Pennsylvanian field in Central Kent County showed oil in commercial amounts in a drillstem test of the Pennsylvanian lime at 6,741-51 feet.

The tester was open one hour. Gas showed at the surface in 18 minutes. Unofficial field reports reveal that recovery was 5,150 feet of clean oil and six feet of drilling mud. There was no formation water.

The drill pipe unloaded oil seven times while it was being pumped. Operator is preparing to run casing and make production test and complete the new producer — the second well to find the pay in the Claiborne area.

This well is one mile south of the town of Claiborne and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block 98, H&TCo survey.

Most Companies Observe Holiday

This being Memorial Day, most of the major oil companies in Midland — our sources of news — are closed. This accounts for the briefness of today's Permian Basin Oil & Gas Log.

Field activity, of course, is continuing through the holiday; however with main offices closed, it is impossible to give a complete report.

NW Martin Prospect Gets No Deep Shows

The Texas Company failed to develop any shows of oil, gas or water at its No. 1-X State, Northwest Martin County prospective discovery in the Ellenburger in the zone at 13,342-333 feet.

The tool was open 30 minutes. Recovery was 1,200 feet of drilling fluid. There was no gas or oil. Operator re-tested the same zone and was coming out with the tool last report. No air, gas or fluid came to the surface during the test.

Recovered Free Oil
This prospect indicated possibilities of producing from the Ellenburger when it recovered 6,550 feet of free gas, 4,004 feet of 47.8 gravity free oil and 264 feet of drilling mud, during a drillstem test at 13,110-331 feet.

The section at 13,320-342 feet did not show any additional signs of petroleum when drillstem tested. Location is 11 miles north of the (Continued On Page 13)

America Pays Solemn Tribute To War Dead

MEMORIAL TO WAR

By Elsie Karlin

How best to honor our brave dead
Who spared us all their pain,
And reassured their loved ones that
They have not died in vain?

With monuments and works of art
And speeches by the score?
A better way would be to build
A memorial to war.

The foundation has been laid for us
By those who fought and died;
The Golden Rule has measurements
By which we could abide.

With fair play for cementing bond We'd fashion something new—
A perfect sphere with lots of room
For different points of view.

Then, when war is just a memory
And human killings cease,
We'd have our great memorial—
A living world at peace!

And thus we'd honor our brave dead
Who spared us all their pain,
And reassured their loved ones that
They did not die in vain.

'Unity For Peace' Is Memorial Day Observance Theme

By The Associated Press

Americans throughout the world honored their war dead Tuesday and Gen. George C. Marshall urged continued support of the United Nations as a weapon in "the fight for peace."

The former secretary of State and wartime chief of staff also made a new plea for aid to the millions in the world who have "long suffered in poverty and misrule."

General Marshall, now president of the American Red Cross, spoke out in a address at Memorial Day services at Arlington National Cemetery.

"Some have suggested that the United States should lead in dissolving the United Nations and in setting up a new organization composed of only like-minded nations," he said. "Personally I think it would be unfortunate for the peace of the world deliberately to upset the precarious equilibrium that now exists."

Describing the United Nations as the symbol of an international House of Democracy, Marshall said: "So long as there is a forum for open discussion of international disputes, the United States should be a participant."

Cracks In Iron Curtain
"So long as there remains a conference table around which the nations can gather, the United States should be the first to attend and the last to retire," he said.

"Admittedly the United Nations is an imperfect organization. But remember x x x so long as this forum remains open there are cracks in the Iron Curtain through which some of our ideas will penetrate."

Marshall led the nation's Memorial Day observance at ceremonies beside the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. President Truman arranged for an Army aide to lay a wreath on the tomb and at monuments to Union and Confederate dead of the Civil War.

Veterans organizations also placed floral tributes at the tomb and at national shrines throughout the country and abroad.

An anchor of 1,000 poppies was cast into the Potomac River in a traditional ceremony at the Washington Naval Gun Factory symbolizing the burial of Navy dead at sea.

From Cities, Farms
Across the land, from cities and farms, men and women left their work-day tasks to honor the memory of their loved ones. Government offices and many businesses were closed for the day.

Secretary of Defense Johnson urged the nation to be tough to use our strength to prevent rather than to fight wars.

Johnson and the chiefs of staff of the Army, Navy and Air Force each issued a statement.

The defense secretary reminded all Americans that President Truman has asked them to pay on (Continued On Page 13)

Hundreds of persons were on hand to see and inspect the bell, which is touring Texas in connection with the Independence Savings Bond Campaign.

A special ceremony was to be held at 2 p.m., with John P. Butler, Midland County Commissioner, chairman, in charge. Mayor William B. Neely, County Judge C. C. Keith, Robert L. Wood, Chamber of Commerce president, and representatives of various patriotic organizations were to speak.

The bell was to remain on display here until 3 p.m.

Statewide Economic Group Appointments Announced By Ulmer

Four U. S. Soldiers Attacked By Japs During Red Rally

TOKYO —(P)—Communist-led Japanese Tuesday attacked four American soldiers in the first public light of the occupation.

The attack touched off other skirmishes as American Military Police cracked down on instigators. At least eight Japanese were arrested.

Demonstrators, gathered in Imperial Plaza for a Communist rally, showered the American military observers with rocks. One soldier was knocked down.

One American is Capt. C. V. Clark of the Tokyo provost marshal's office. The others are a Nisei interpreter and two enlisted men.

One witness said the incident began when members of a Communist youth group snatched a notebook from a Japanese plainclothesman who was taking notes on speeches.

Soldier Strikes Back
The Americans attempted to recover the notebook. One of the soldiers was hit and struck back. The crowd, in ugly mood, threw rocks at the Americans who forced their way into the crowd.

American Military Police moved into the crowd as it entered Hibuya Park for a second rally. They arrested at least three Japanese believed to have taken part in the first affray.

The three put up stiff resistance. Clubs and fists swung freely.

Another Japanese was pulled out of a marching column when he shouted an anti-American slogan as he passed the Military Police.

Other Japanese tried to prevent the arrest. The Americans quickly fought clear of a hostile circle of shouting, pushing demonstrators.

The white-helmeted MPs picked up two more Japanese who tried to help their friend escape. Later the Red demonstrators sent a delegation to nearby Marunouchi Police Station to demand their release. Two leaders were arrested.

Memorial Day Is Rest Day Here

Many Midlanders Tuesday were enjoying a day away from their jobs.

Virtually all county offices located in the county were closed for the Memorial Day holiday. Only the sheriff's office was open. County clerk, tax assessor-collector, district clerk, PMA, county judge, justice of the peace, child welfare, county agents and county treasurer's offices all observed the holiday.

Woods W. Lynch Post, American Legion, was closed for the holiday, as was the Texas Employment Commission and the post office.

The majority of Midland's downtown retail stores remained open for the holiday although a large number of oil offices were closed for the day.

No special services were planned by Midland's veteran organizations.

Most active place in town appeared to be the ever-full lobby of Hotel Scharbauer where oil men, ranchers, farmers and rodeo officials were engaged in the week's favorite conversation topic, the 16th Annual World Championship Rodeo.

Texas Sels Pace In Holiday Death Derby

By The Associated Press

Accidental deaths in the nation's four-day Memorial holiday climbed above the 400 mark Tuesday.

Traffic accidents took the greatest toll, and Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said "slam-bank driving" and "mass indifference" had turned the holiday into a "massacre."

The council had predicted 290 persons would be killed on the highways before the holiday ends at midnight Tuesday. But by 11 a.m. the toll already had reached 270 with the big burst of homeward bound movement yet to come.

Fatalities totaled 416. In addition to the traffic deaths, 55 persons were killed by drowning and 91 in miscellaneous mishaps — fires, airplane crashes, explosions, falls and other accidents.

Last year 413 people were killed in the three-day Memorial weekend.

Texas continued to set the pace for the nation. Since the holiday death watch began at 6 p.m. Friday, 36 persons have met violent death in the state. Twenty-one of the Texas fatalities were from traffic accidents. Nine drowned, and six were victims of miscellaneous violence.

Michigan climbed into a second-place tie with California for second place in the death derby, each with 28 fatalities. Illinois stood in fourth place with 26 dead, and New York was fifth with 21.

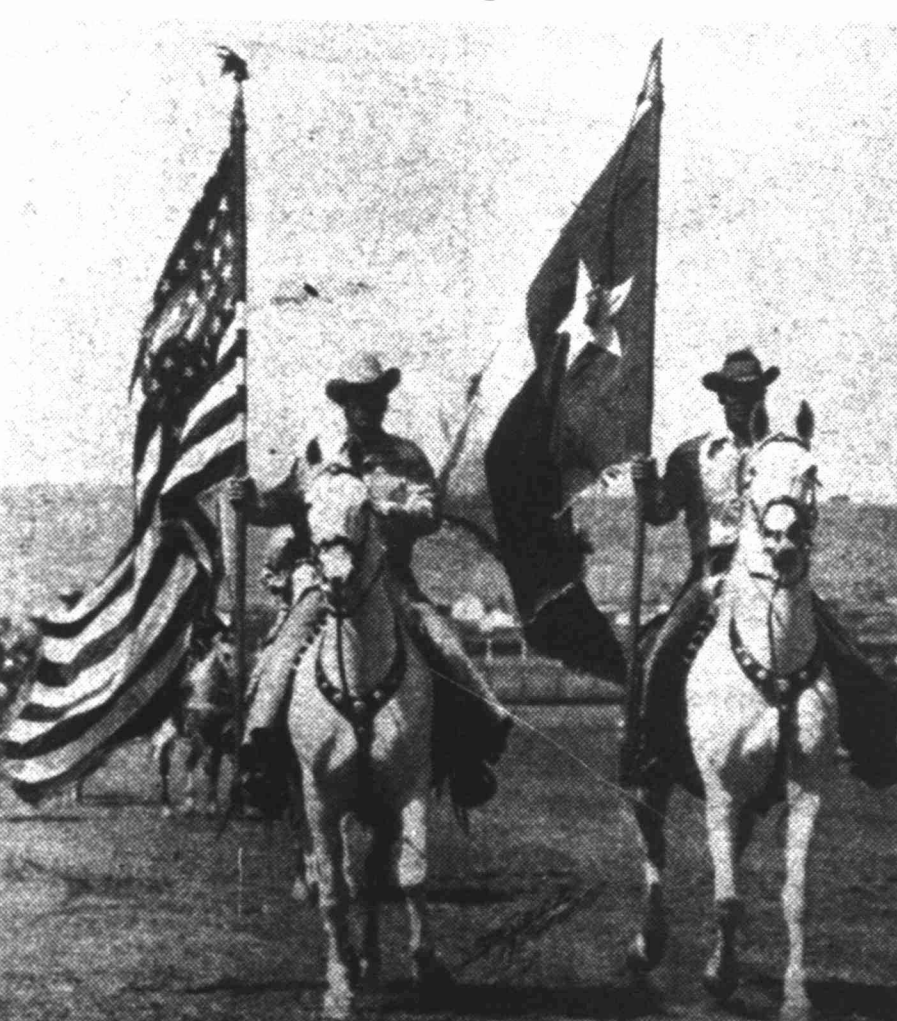

Spots In X-Rays Prove 'Falsies'

ATLANTA —(P)—A number of women, obviously in good shape, turned out to have lung spots in a citywide health survey here.

Puzzled doctors studied and studied the X-rays, baffled by the fact that the spots showed on both lungs and in identical positions.

Finally a doctor who had encountered such shadows for the first time in 1946 enlightened his comrades. "Falsies," he explained.

New York-Florida Gambling Tie-Up Bared By Probers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate crime investigators reported Tuesday their surprise swoop into Miami showed Frank Erickson, New York bookmaker, is the "big-shot" in gambling activities in the Southern Florida resort area.

"Erickson is the No. 1 man, the big-shot," said Senator Hunt. "D-Weed" in telling reporters that New Yorkers through local managers, run the gambling casinos, horse race bookmaking and similar activities in the Miami area.

"They don't just have links with the gambling down there," he said. "They run it."

He is a member of a Special Senate committee which has been given $150,000 to investigate interstate crime and gambling and their "corruptive influence" on local politics.

With unexpected suddenness, Hunt and the committee chairman, Senator Kefauver, held closed-door hearings in Miami last Friday and Saturday. Investigators for the committee still are at work there.

Kefauver revealed in a news interview Monday that the names Joe Adonis and Frank Costello, both of whom have been described as big-time gamblers, were among those that figured in the Miami hearings.

McCarthy Proposes Subpoenas For Six In Amerasia Case

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) is urging that senators investigating his Communist charges against the State Department subpoena the six persons arrested in the Amerasia magazine case.

McCarthy told reporters he thought their testimony would be an essential part of the inquiry which a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee now is conducting into the five-year-old case. It involved the alleged theft of secret documents from strategic government war agencies.

One of the six arrested, John S. Service, has been accused by McCarthy of pro-Communist leanings. The veteran State Department career officer, now under-going a new department loyalty investigation, has strongly denied the charge. Service was not indicted after his arrest.

McCarthy's accusations against Service were made last March as part of his general charges that the State Department is riddled with Communists and Red sympathizers. They led directly to the committee's decision to look into the case as part of the overall investigation.

The other defendants in the case were Philip Jaffe, editor of the now suspended Far-Eastern affairs publication; Kate Mitchell co-editor; Mark Gwyn, a free-lance writer; Andrew Roth, Naval Intelligence officer; and Emmanuel S. Larsen, a State Department employee.

Committee aides said they had heard reports that both Gwyn and Roth now are in foreign countries. The Amerasia case stemmed from a raid conducted in March 1945 on the magazines' New York office by Frank Bielaski, of the Office of Strategic Services. Three months later the FBI raided the office. Both raids turned up a lot of federal documents.

Gwyn and Miss Mitchell as well as Service were not indicted and the case against Roth was dropped. Jaffe was fined $2,500 and Larsen $500.

New Turkish Leader Asks Western Help

ANKARA, TURKEY — (AP) — Turkey's new premier called on his country's Western friends Monday night to aid in insuring the "material and moral security of the Eastern Mediterranean."

Premier Adnan Menderes, in a policy statement to the two-week-old Grand National Assembly, said his government also considered it necessary to "establish closer relations with the state of the Middle East to whom we are bound by intimate relations and to create in this region an atmosphere of friendship and solidarity bearing the marks of justice and mutual understanding."

Turkey's foreign policy was based, he said, on traditional alliances with Britain and France, the "closest friendship and collaboration with the United States" and "unalterable respect toward the independence and territorial integrity of all nations near or far, small or large."

Casting the regime of former President Ismet Inonu, Menderes proposed the country's shaky economy be improved through the use of Marshall Plan funds, foreign loans and other measures.

Chappell charged that "unconstitutional control of personal gain" is being made of the Texas organization.

Martha Barrett began the story by introducing the postman with a letter from the grandparents. Walter Leeper told them about the train the children would take and the group sang a song about a train.

Betty Melzer asked about grandma and was answered with a song. Danny Koegler told about grandpa's farm. Mary Kay Linehan of the flowers and bumblebees found there and Pat Davis of the sunshine.

Barry Wright described a surprise, a circus, and Joe Pennel told about the animals.

A square dance party was discussed by Ann Canon and illustrated by her. Sharon Williamson, Mary Lou Cassidy, Joe Pennel, Pat Daly, Walter Leeper and Betty Melzer, who did a square dance. Danny Koegler clapped accompaniment. Beverly Bowen introduced a tap dance in which she was joined by Sally Payne-Mary Kay Linehan and Martha Barrett.

Mary Lou Cassidy told the parents how tired the group was after such strenuous activity and they went to sleep to the tick-tock of a large clock. Sharon Williamson discussed the fun they had and said next year they plan to go to the ocean.

Congratulations, Graduates

Congratulations are in order for members of the 1950 graduating class of Midland High School who receive their diplomas in commencement exercises Tuesday night.

The class is the first to be graduated from the new Midland High School building, which in itself is quite an improvement to the boys and girls included in this year's Senior class.

The class members have completed their high school work and now are ready to seek broader and even more challenging endeavors. Many of the graduates will attend colleges, universities and business schools, while others perhaps will enter directly into the field of business and commerce. However, it really is commencement for the 128 Midlanders who will commence a new life upon receipt of their coveted high school diplomas.

Congratulations also are in order for the school officials and faculty members upon turning out of such a fine group of young Americans. And while congratulations are being expressed, we certainly should not overlook the parents of the grads. Congratulations, Mothers and Fathers.

For the graduates, who are the future leaders of this city, state and nation, we wish the utmost of success and happiness. We expect to hear much more of the class members and their accomplishments in the future.

Again, congratulations to the Midland High School graduates of 1950.

Unknown Soldier's Tomb

The tomb of the Unknown Soldier stands high above the Potomac on a grassy slope in Arlington National Cemtery. Inscribed on its clean white marble are these words:

"Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

Few memorials to our war dead catch so simply and nobly the spirit of dedication we feel toward our fallen sons. Unhappily too much sentiment, too much sculpture, too many words often have marred our memorials.

In a year or so, there'll be a new tomb to the Unknown Soldier of World War II. Already the complex task of selecting soldiers from half a dozen major war theaters is under way.

Every American must hope and pray that from beginning to end this labor is marked by the same elemental depth of feeling which guided the erection of the tomb honoring a fighting man of World War I.

The homage we pay to unknown men is a far deeper thing than it might seem at first. It is a way of saying that, to a free people like ourselves, all life is dear. No man, known or unknown, must go unremembered in this land when he has sacrificed himself in its defense.

That is why we do this. That is why the shining tomb in Arlington bears no scratch or flaw. That is why a soldier stands guard over the shrine 24 hours a day.

The tomb is the evidence in stone of America's faith in man—any man.

The real selling was when Acheson met Ernie Bevin in London. Here again personalities entered the picture. The British consider Acheson a staunch friend. His mother was a Canadian, a member of the wealthy Gooderham-Hiram Walker family, and undoubtedly many of his policies have been strongly pro-British.

Therefore, when Foreign Minister Bevin started kicking over the traces against the Schuman plan, he found himself facing the persuasive arguments of a friend.

Bevin didn't like the economic union of Western Europe for several reasons, one of them being that the British Labor Government must operate under fixed prices with a protected market, and can't compete well with the free mass market of a European economic union.

Another reason is Britain's traditional balance-of-power policy of playing France and Germany against each other.

However, Acheson, during his private, Lancaster House conference, pointed out that cooperation between France and Germany was the only hope for future European peace and finally won the belligerent British foreign minister around. To show good faith, Prime Minister Attlee next day made a guarded statement in the House of Commons favoring the Schuman plan.

British Sabotage?

However, State Department officials now are worried over diplomatic grapevine reports that the British have started working backstage to scuttle the Schuman plan. Substantiation of these reports came from John F. Reynolds, a London observer with his pulse on the Foreign Office, who writes:

"Now that the series of London conferences is over, the Foreign Office is facing one of its stiffest tasks. M. Monnet, the French expert, has explained the (Schuman) plan to pool Western Europe's heavy industries, a technical committee of international experts will get busy to work out details, and it will be up

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.
Drew Pearson says: Acheson's big job was convincing Bevin of need for French-German pool; British now may sabotage Bevin's agreement; Truman reshapes Civil War with West Virginia congressmen.

WASHINGTON — Most important job during the big three conference was at a private Lancaster House talk with Ernie Bevin. Actually, the talk took place before the Big Three Conference started and had to do with the all-important, but often under question of a British blessing for the proposed French-German iron-steel pool.

Before talking to Bevin, Acheson had been in Paris where Foreign Minister Schuman also had discussed his plan for the French-German pooling of iron and coal, and had expressed the fear that the British would be opposed. So he asked Acheson's help.

Personalities sometimes play a big part in moulding the peace of the world. One personal factor regarding the Big Three is that Acheson and Schuman instinctively like each other. Furthermore, Schuman, born in Alsace, a province that has been shut back and forth between Germany and France for almost a century, realizes the vital importance of French-German cooperation.

As a boy, Schuman learned to speak German along with French. When he grew up he served in the German Army in World War I. He didn't want to serve, but he had to. Now, as foreign minister of France, he believes that the two countries which have bled each other white three times in 58 years must learn to live in peace.

And as the key to peace is cooperation regarding the iron and coal of the Ruhr and Rhineland, Acheson convinces Bevin.

That in brief was the thesis which Foreign Minister Schuman sold Acheson, and it didn't take too much selling. Acheson was strong for it.

The real selling was when Acheson met Ernie Bevin in London. Here again personalities entered the picture. The British consider Acheson a staunch friend. His mother was a Canadian, a member of the wealthy Gooderham-Hiram Walker family, and undoubtedly many of his policies have been strongly pro-British.

Therefore, when Foreign Minister Bevin started kicking over the traces against the Schuman plan, he found himself facing the persuasive arguments of a friend.

"Now that the series of London conferences is over, the Foreign Office is facing one of its stiffest tasks. M. Monnet, the French expert, has explained the (Schuman) plan to pool Western Europe's heavy industries, a technical committee of international experts will get busy to work out details, and it will be up to the Foreign Office to stifle the plan.

"It will not be killed outright, but will be softened considerably.

"Though Mr. Attlee has welcomed the French initiative as a valuable contribution to the promotion of European unity, both the Foreign Office and the Treasury are worried.

"On the international coal and steel authority, which would run the pool, Britain would be in a hopeless minority. Not only would this mean the beginning of the end of Britain's sovereignty, but it would also seriously threaten Labor's policy of economic planning and nationalization, for neither Germany nor France are inclined to change their present economic system, which is non-socialist."

So it looks as if Dean Acheson would have to exert his friendly influence on the British all over again.

Battle Of Giants

U. S. Steel's President Ben Fairless got off a remark before the House Judiciary Committee the other day which seemed to please him. Referring to the problem of reducing big business to little business, he said:

"You can't make a giant into a dwarf by merely cutting off his legs."

But later, New York's Congressman Manny Celler had this to comment:

"We don't want a situation developing where the elephant says
'Every man for himself' as he dances around the circus ring."

Truman On Civil War

President Truman, whose family aided differing views on the Civil War, got into a war-between-the-states discussion with Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia, the other day, when the congressman invited him to visit Elkins, W. Va.

"I know something about Elkins," replied the President. "It was named after a man from my state."

"Yes, Stephen B. Elkins was born in Missouri," agreed Congressman Staggers, "but he won fame as a United States senator from West Virginia. He was a Republican."

(Staggers is a Democrat.)

"A story goes with that," reminisced Truman. "His father, 'Kit' Elkins, and his grandfather were close friends. One day they got to talking politics and 'Kit' asked my granddaddy who was going to win
the Civil War."

"My granddaddy said there was no doubt about it—the North would win, because it had the raw materials, the industries and the manpower. Then he inquired why 'Kit' had asked the question."

"Elkins, a Democrat, replied that he wanted to be on the winning side."

"I shot was that Elkins became a Republican," continued Truman,
"and that is why his son, the senator, was a Republican."

The President quickly added, however, that Civil War standards for picking the winner in politics "do not apply today."

J. J. Hill, the great railroad buildhe paid an unexpected visit to a di-

"So you found that spike? I've had three men out for two days hunting it."

David Crockett felt that unfair be more profitably employed?"

THE telephone ringing awakened her next morning and when she answered sleepily, a strange man's voice said, "This is Alexander Grant, your husband's lawyer."

"But," she puzzled, "my husband hasn't got one."

"Your husband's office engaged me this morning when Mr. Brown couldn't go to work," he explained.
"We may be able to get him released within 48 hours. He said to tell you not to worry, that it was a very comfortable jail—guardhouse."

"I believe, the word he used. Visiting hours are at 2 p.m."

"I'll be there," Gloria cried.
"Just a minute," the lawyer urged patiently. "Mr. Brown said to tell you that he'd rather you didn't come to see him. It isn't any place for a girl like you and there might be photographers..."

Which was probably just as well, Gloria thought, hanging up the phone. Mittades would know she had plans and worm them out of her.

A rap on the door halted her thoughts. She tossed a pink trailing house coat over her white chif-fon nightgown and went to the door.

"Good morning, Mulligan," Lieutenant McGann greeted her.
"May I come in? In spite of your tongue, off which slip the most beautiful lies, I want to ask you some more questions."

"Come in if you must," Gloria invited ungraciously, trailing over to plug in the electric percolator still half full from last night. "I haven't even had breakfast. Will you have a cup of coffee? No, don't use that cup!"

He had picked up Murphy's cup as he tried amiably to be helpful. She washed it carefully under the tap, fixed a small tray for each of them with coffee, toast, and English marmalade and was just settling down in a pink and white chiffon ball on the gray velvet

very weary she was.

She tipped to the door, opened it carefully, and picked up the empty cup beside his chair and put it in the sink, suddenly realizing how very weary she was.

Atom Secrecy
Recently resigned Atomic Energy Commissioner Lewis L. Strauss has revealed that the much-criticized secret-keeping atomic information is neither the baby of the military nor of the commission. Admiral Strauss claims that the scientists themselves originated it, though they have been most voluble in their criticism of censorship. The story goes back to the first German nuclear fission experiments in 1939.

U. S. scientists immediately recognized the application of this principle to atomic weapons. Those working on the problem made a pact among themselves to "keep their research findings out of the hands of the Nazis. Strauss says this is the pattern that has influenced the control over dissemination of atomic information ever since.

War Controls
Higher taxes and still tighter government controls in case of another war were predicted by W. Stuart Symington, new chairman of the National Security Resources Board, in his first public statement since taking over the job.

"Today's tax and control policies are less than those of the other 'ong free country of the world," said Symington. "Despite much criticism of current taxes, corporations are now making more money after taxes than ever before under the American enterprise system."

"Having survived the controls of two world wars," he continued,
"there is no reason why we should not survive controls found necessary to fight and win a possible future war. Emergency controls in the future may have to be more extensive than in the past. Controls must take the profits out of wars—I mean the unusual profits. And because manpower will in all probability be our greatest shortage, it appears that directed work may well be necessary."

These challenging statements were made before a luncheon meeting of the trustees of Committee for Economic Development, private business research organization. Included in the group of several hundred were some of the biggest businessmen of the country, like W. M.
Clement of Pennsylvania Railroad,
Roy Barton White of B. & O., Frank W. Abrams of Standard Oil and John M. Hancock of Lehman Brothers. They took this news without any criticism and without batting an eye.

Phone Co-Op Rings Bell
You never can tell, of course, how popular these co-op plans are going to be. Rural Electrification Administration, for instance, already has more than 300 applications for loans to build telephone companies and cooperatives. And since the initial REA rural phone authorization was $25,000,000, there's already a move on foot to have the sum enlarged.

Incidentally, REA celebrated its fifteenth birthday anniversary recently, by announcing that its 1,000 borrowers—more than 900 of which are co-ops—had put their millionth mile of power line in operation.
Eighty-five per cent of U. S. farms are now electrified.

Noise In Investigation
Senator Millard E. Tydings, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating alleged Communists in government, was holding an impromptu press conference in the Capitol corridor after an executive session. A photographer made a picture of the gathering just as the senator's dining room noise. The conference stopped right there while the senator stormed at the photographer. "Now look! Is that picture shows me pulling my nose. I want you to destroy the plate." The photographer promised.

ROYAL DOUGHNUTS
By MRS. GEORGE A. STREETER

Place 3 tbsp. shortening, 2 3 cup sugar, 1 egg and 1 level tsp. nutmeg in a mixing bowl. Mix well and add 2 3 cup sweet milk. Stir in 3 cups flour (sift and measure) and add 1 tsp. salt and 4 tsp. baking powder; a little at a time until all flour is used. This makes the dough stiff enough to roll without sticking. Roll to 1/4-inch thickness and cut with a doughnut cutter. Cut all of dough before starting to fry. Fry in an iron skillet, preferably a No. 8, filled with 2 inches of oil, top with melted shortening. When shortening is very hot put doughnuts in and turn two or three times while frying. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Members of the Senior Class of Midland High School, at class day ceremonies Monday afternoon in the auditorium, presented a cash donation of $100 as the initial gift toward a pipe organ to be bought for the new auditorium.

Charles Mathews, principal of the high school, accepted the gift from the class. Obie Stalcup, class president, made the presentation.

Three other students were honored at the ceremony, as awards were presented by the DAR and the AAUW. Ralph Arnett, MHS junior, received an award, sponsored annually by the DAR, for the best historical essay.

Mrs. John McKinley made the award for the DAR group.

Mrs. Keith Stuart, representing the American Association of University Women, presented a $100 scholarship to Nancy Trauber, another graduating senior. The scholarship is offered to girls who measure up to standards of character, scholarship, and qualities of potential leadership.

Other highlights of the all-school assembly were the reading of the class history by Nick Harrison, the class prophecy by John Steinberger, and the class will by Maggie Lee Murphy.

Kathrine Lewis presented a piano solo, and Ann Boring played piano accompaniment as Bill Burnside sang, "Blue Orchids." Rosalynn Leggett, one of the honor graduates, played a piano solo, "Lento." Eddie Juan Durrell sang, accompanied by Jo Ann Nelson, and the student body sang the Alma Mater to close the program.

Militia Guards Tennessee Plant After Strike Fray

MORRISTOWN, TENN. — (AP) — Tennessee National Guardsmen stood guard at the strike-bound American Enka Corporation's rayon plant.

They converged on Morristown, by plane and motor convoy Monday, to stem violence in the nine-week-old strike. They guarded plant entrances during shift changes as workers passed through CIO picket lines.

In Atlanta, Ga., Commissioner D. K. Jones of the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service said he has telephoned union and company officials asking them to meet with him there Monday. Jones said in on contract talks which preceded the strike.

Use of the 300 National Guard members was authorized by Gov. Gordon Browning. Sheriff Robert Medlin asked for help after continuing violence which erupted last week.

Medlin told the governor two carloads of workers were overturned as they approached picket lines Monday and that there were two dynamite bombs near workers' homes. No one was injured, but Medlin reported the situation was out of hand for his force of 50 State Highway Patrolmen.

Joplin Divorcee Beaten To Death

JOPLIN, MO. — (AP) — Police studied gory clues Tuesday to help solve the violent death of Gwendolyn Creekmore, 49.

The body of the twice married and twice divorced woman was found Sunday night, beaten with a meat hammer and burned in the living room of her own luxurious home.

Two expensive diamond rings and diamond earrings found on the body and a diamond-studded wrist watch in a nearby bedroom ruled out robbery.

Officers said there was no evidence of a sexual assault.

Coroner W. W. Hurst said Miss Creekmore was hit on the head nine times with a meat hammer in the basement of the home. The hammer was found on a ledge in the basement. Bits of flesh and hair also were found in the basement.

Lee Moxley, identified by police as Miss Creekmore's "boy friend" and another man who formerly worked at the home, were held for questioning.

Kentucky-California Jant In 1901 Olds Finally Completed

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — He didn't have to get out and get under, but Russell Cornelison of Louisville, Ky., had to oil his car at least every five miles coming across the country.

Cornelison, who arrived here Monday, was driving a 1901 Olds-mobile. It took him six weeks. He would have been here sooner only — "In dust storms you've got to oil this thing every mile. And did I see dust storms!"

The car's maximum speed was 10 miles an hour, but it averaged nearly 40 miles per gallon of gas.

Cornelison made the trip to promote interest in the Shrine's Crippled Children Hospital fund entrance to the Shrine convention here.

He intends to fly home.

Research Reveals Medieval Origin Of Cap, Gown Torture

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

It's commencement season again, and just the right hot weather in Texas for those smothering gowns the graduates wear.

There'll be mothers out in the audience, moist-eyed with pride, and up on the stage the graduates, moist all over with perspiration.

For the women, the graduation gowns aren't quite so bad since they think nothing at all of removing their dresses and just putting the gowns on over their slips. Conveniently they would not even need the slips. Maybe some don't wear 'em. But we have never known a male graduate daring enough to remove his shirt, tie and underwear top. They sweat, wear, pant and mop their brows, but they keep their shirts on and some, honestly, even wear coats under those gowns. These fellows really earn their diplomas.

Bill Keyes, information director of the University of Texas, sent us the "Academic Costume Code of the American Council on Education," and also a letter in which he explained the code. The gowns, it seems, are one form of medieval torture still tolerated, even in Texas.

"The history of the academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities," Bill said learnedly. "It still is a vexing question whether academic dress finds its source in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress."

Couldn't Afford Overcoats

"Gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars."

There you have it. In those days — in cold, dark, damp England, scholars wore gowns, probably because they couldn't afford overcoats. And because of that, sweltering scholars of this sizzling state still wear 'em.

Why not cool commencements for Texas, organ and chiffon for the ladies and seersucker suits for the men? Yankee costumers, who leer and send those hot gowns to Texas at two buck a throw, would cry, but how much better it would be.

The word would get around: "Be prudent, student. Graduate safely in Texas. No heatstroke!"

Where's that Texas freedom? Are we men or medieval mice?

Death Takes Radio's Colonel Stoopnagle

BOSTON — (AP) — Frederick Chase Taylor, radio and film wit known as "Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle," is dead.

The 52-year old comedian died from a heart ailment Monday in the New England Baptist Hospital.

Taylor, who made the mistake of entering the stock market shortly before the 1929 crash, got his chance in radio because of a storm.

While trying out as production man in 1930, he had an announcer, Budd Hulick, had to fill a 15-minute gap when a gale disrupted network wires to a Buffalo, N. Y., station.

They became partners and were heard over national networks as Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd until they broke up in 1937. The following year Taylor was featured over the Yankee Network in Town Hall Varieties, and in 1939-40 was quizmaster in the "Quizx Doodle Contest" over the Mutual Network.

Others To Follow California Oil Suits, Says McGrath

LOS ANGELES —(P)— The federal anti-trust suit against seven major oil firms in California is only the beginning of a series of similar cases in other parts of the nation, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath indicates.

McGrath said on his arrival here Monday to make a Memorial Day speech that the suit filed here May 12 is "in a sense a test case."

Explained McGrath:

"This is a suit to break up the monopoly of the oil industry, to separate its production, transportation, wholesaling and retailing, and we're going to file similar suits in other regions, probably without waiting for a decision in the case here."

Defendants in the suit are Standard Oil of California, The Texas Company, Shell Oil of New York, Tide Water Associated, Richfield Oil Company, General Petroleum and Union Oil Company. The suit also is aimed at breaking up their retail-wholesale tieups in Oregon, Washington, Arizona and Nevada.

Allied Arms Plan Stirs Resentment Of Egypt's Leaders

CAIRO —(P)— A member of the Egyptian Parliament Monday night proposed that Egypt sign a non-aggression pact with Russia as a counter to the Western Big Three's offer to supply arms to the Arab states and Israel.

Nureddin Tarraf of the small but influential Nationalist Party told Parliament the arms offer by the United States, Britain and France was "an attempt to place the Middle East under a Western powers mandate."

Naming Britain as Egypt's enemy, Tarraf urged the pact with Russia and said, "Though we hate communism, we must protect ourselves."

The arms proposal, which the Western powers said would stabilize the Middle East and give it the means of defense against communism, also was criticized by Mohamed Belal of the ruling Wafdist Party and Tewfik Khashaba of the Liberal Party.

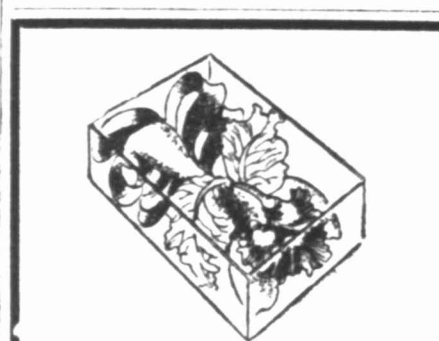

Belal said the proposal did not "favor the aspirations of the Arab countries." He charged the United States is supporting Israel financially.

Khashaba urged a strengthening of the Egyptian Army and demanded that the government step up its effort to seek removal from Egypt of British troops, who now occupy the Suez Canal area.

ADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

ly Ringtail Hands Up

Today I was telling you how small people in the Great West were taking together to do to save the very little that was left in the Whis-River until the rains came to fill it with water to drink. I suggested that every- without water on Thursday, as seemed such a very good idea everyone was all for having Thursday, until the Puffen said, "Who a now, it's a minute! The camel has on his back, he does, and fill it up with water on Wed- and then he won't even a drink on Thursday."

save the water left in the river, and the best way to decide things. Daddy Ringtail said, was for every- one to say what they wanted to do about it. "Hands up! Hands up, every- body!" Daddy Ringtail said. "If you want to have a thirsty Thurs- day." Everyone raised his hand but the Hufen Puffen. When the Hufen Puffen saw that everyone's hand was up but his, the Hufen laughed and said: "That's the way we decide about things, we do. We raise our hands, and if everyone else wants to have a thirsty Thursday, I'll have to put up my hand, too." The Hufen Puffen raised his hand. It was very fair of him to do it, to agree to have a thirsty Thursday, which was what everyone else was want- ing to have. "Humpf!" said the camel, because he was wanting to be as fair as anybody. "If everyone wants a thirsty Thursday, a thirsty Thurs- day we shall have." And the camel promised that he wouldn't fill up his hump with water on Wednes- day. "Then I'll be thirsty on Thursday, too," he said. And everyone liked the hands-up way of deciding how they should work together to save the water left in the Whispering River. It's a very fair way of deciding things, and the fair way is the happy way. Happy day!

It Reveals East Texas Field Founder and Almost Broke

Lie Assured U. S. Will Not Use Veto Against China Reds

WASHINGTON —(P)— Secretary of State Acheson is reported to have assured Trygve Lie the United States will not use the veto to keep Communist China out of the United Nations.

This restatement of American policy appeared Tuesday to have been the principal firm development in the meetings held by Lie, the UN secretary general, with President Truman and Secretary Acheson.

Diplomats familiar with the substance of Monday's "confidential chats" indicated they produced little in the way of definite understandings promising to ease cold war tensions. Lie, however, was left with a free hand to continue his efforts to find a way out of the UN deadlock.

The impression among diplomatic authorities following the meetings is that Lie, on his recent mission to Moscow and other capitals, was given no commitments by Stalin. On his return to Lake Success last week the secretary general expressed guarded optimism and told reporters he found the Soviet leaders still have faith in the UN.

U. S. Position Outlined
This feeling, American officials said, appeared based on a generally friendly attitude shown by Stalin and Andrei Gromyko and Foreign Minister A. Y. Vishinsky rather than on any firm promises Russia might be ready to talk compromise.

The U. S. attitude on the point of admitting Communist China, which was restated to Lie and Byron Price, his American assistant, was thus outlined authoritatively:

1. The decision whether to admit the Peiping regime in place of the Nationalists is the most urgent issue facing the United Nations, in view of the Soviet bloc walkout from UN agencies.

2. Until it is settled, Lie's proposal for periodic top level meetings of the council to try to settle some cold war issues is largely academic. Besides, this government wants to give the idea further study.

On admitting Communist China, the U. S. will not veto a decision by the Security Council nor follow the Soviet walkout example. It will not "lobby" with other members to block the Peiping representatives and will accept the decision by the requisite seven of the 11 council members.

Abundant Living

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Rom. 12:1; Deut. 28:1-6; 30:11-14.

A DISCIPLINED SELF IS A SELF POWER

Recently we were concentrating our attention on the three steps to disciplined power: (1) Attention, (2) Meekness, (3) Power. We gain this third step only as we master the first two—there is no gaining of power by tricks, by mental legdemain. Power comes by discipline, and by discipline alone.

An aviator told me that every moment while he is in the air he has to obey the laws of aviation—one moment's disobedience or carelessness and the machine would be wrecked. There can be no "moral holiday" while in the air; the obedience must be complete, the mastery will not be complete.

Only by attention, by meekness, does he gain power.

Begin to be hard with yourself. Paul says, "The soft shall not inherit the Kingdom of God." I Corinthians 6:9, 10 — "effeminate" is literally "soft." Jesus stressed the same thought when He said, "He who puts his hand to the plow and looks back is not fit (literally, cannot fit into) the Kingdom of God." Those who are undisciplined, soft, looking back toward things given up, cannot fit into the Kingdom of God, which is a Kingdom of the disciplined.

"Severe with self, Gentle with others, Honest with all."

If all this discipline seems like a diminution of life instead of an augmentation of life, let me say that the control which discipline exerts on the self is the same kind of thwarting which is applied when a dam is thrown across a river—the even flow of the river is interrupted and restrained, but only in order that a powerhouse might be installed to create power and light. The disciplined you is not free to do as others do, but free to do what others cannot do—to be a contributive soul, full of light and power. Some will say, "I am free to do as I like," but you will say, "I am free to do as I ought." You are dammed up on one level, but only in order to raise the level of life, so that you can function on a higher level.

My Lord and my God, I am putting my head into Thy Yoke—putting myself in bondage to Thee. But Thy yoke is easy, for I am made for it—Thy yoke is my yearning, for Thy laws are my life. I take Thy weights upon my shoulders only to find they are wings. Amen.

Death Of Indian Youth Ascribed To Old Tribal Custom

TOPPENISH, WASH. —(P)— The body of a 14-year-old Yakima Indian boy, clad in an old nightgown belonging to his grandmother, was found early Tuesday hanging in his grandfather's shed. His death was said to be an ancient tribal custom.

Reputy Sheriff Bud Burleson said the lad, Theodore Peall, apparently followed out the outmoded tribal law that a "good warrior" must take the role of the "old woman" or "frail one" if he fails at something in which he believes he should have succeeded.

The grandfather, Alex Saluskun, said the boy had been trying out for an American Legion baseball team and was discouraged over his prospects.

Burleson, who listed the death as suicide, said young Peall had taken off his play clothes, donned the nightgown, climbed on an old oil drum, strung a wire to the rafters of the shed, then kicked the drum away.

Couple Drowns In Seaplane Crash

SEATTLE —(P)— The president of a Seattle construction company and his wife drowned in Ross Lake when their light seaplane crashed during a takeoff. The State Patrol reported.

Their two sons, Miles, 14, and Jay, 12, escaped without serious injury.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Double-Bills In Major Loops Are Holiday Feature

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anybody had predicted a couple of months ago that the Philadelphia Phils would move into Brooklyn on Memorial Day as the National League leaders they'd probably have been regarded as nothing more than a dyed-in-the-wool Philly fanatic.

But here it is May 30 and those fightin' Phils are sitting on the roof of the standings, enjoying a half-game margin on the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The amazing part of the Phils' tremendous showing is that they've done it with a minimum of help from Russ Meyer and Ken Heintzelman, the two pitching mainstays of 1949's third-place outfit. Last year Meyer and Heintzelman won 17 games each. With six weeks of the '56 season gone, the pair have won only one game between them. They've dropped seven.

Who then among the pitchers are responsible for the Phils' success? Just a pair of 23-year-old bonus kids—Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons. Each has won six games while losing only two. Roberts won 12 games all last season while Simmons won only four.

Good Road Record
A year ago, the Phils were in sixth place with only 17 triumphs against 19 losses. As they opened their important twin bill with the Dodgers Tuesday, the Phils boasted a mark of 22-13. They owned the best road record of any club in the circuit with 12 wins against seven losses. The Dodgers have played no better than 500 ball on the road, with a 9-9 record.

Inability to win sufficiently on the road, a deficiency which cost them the flag the last two seasons, again keeps the Boston Red Sox from the American League lead. As they faced the front-running Yankees in New York for a holiday doubleheader, Joe McCarthy's men showed only a 10-10 record on foreign fields.

Harden's 64 On Last 18-Holes Tops Field

Wally Harden of El Paso laid down a six-under-par 64 on his last 18 holes Monday at Midland Country Club to tie the favored Elroy Marti of Houston at 133 for one of the spots in the United States Golf Association's National Open. Harden had a 69 on the first 18 and was three strokes behind Marti, who fired a 66.

Oklahoma A&M is played by three teams and Oklahoma by two.

Rice does not open the season until September 30, playing Santa Clara at Houston.

Nothing Wrong With Paul Pettit's Arm, Doctor Tells Bucs

BALTIMORE —P— The worried Pittsburgh Pirates were assured Monday there's nothing permanent wrong with the pitching arm of young Paul Pettit in whom they have $100,000 invested.

That was about all the Pirates and Pettit got out of Dr. George Bennett after a two-hour examination. But it should be enough, since he told the 18-year-old southpaw he could go back to pitching.

Roy Hamey, general manager of the Bucs, said all he could understand out of a telephone conversation with the doctor is that there's nothing permanently wrong. And that Pettit is to "start pitching again as soon as he's back in shape."

Snead Wins Colonial Open

SPORTS SLANTS by SHORTY SHELburnE

Wally and Jack Harden, the pair of fine golfing brothers from El Paso, were forced to withdraw from the PGA golf competition at Midland Country Club Monday due to the death of their father in El Paso.

The regrettable news reached them just after Wally had come in with a blazing 64 on his last 18 holes to tie Elroy Marti at 133 for tops in the USGA qualifying round.

The Hardens departed Monday. It is possible but doubtful that they will return for the state PGA tour.

Elroy Marti ran his string of 33's for nine holes on the Midland Country Club course to seven before shooting a 34 on his last nine Monday to break it.

He also had the only eagle in Monday's round, a deuce on the 352-yard fourteenth hole.

Golfing like that keeps Marti in the favorite's circle along with a few others who will go in the Pro-Amateur and state tour.

Guthrie, Okla., can be justly proud of the two boys it has playing ball for the Midland Indians. It was Ralph Blair's brilliant no-hit relief pitching in the ninth inning that put out the fire in Monday night's Midland-vern game.

And it was Tex Stephenson's line-drive homer over the right centerfield wall that produced the winning runs.

Both are from Guthrie.

Frank Bridges, the ex-Baylor coach and presently a scout for the Philadelphia Athletics, was looking over Monday night in Indian Park. He had his eye on Carly Hayes and James King of the Indians.

Frank is touring the Longhorn League now. He just completed a round in which he scouted more than 40 college teams.

We asked Frank about the recent shakeup in the Philadelphia A's main office.

"How does that affect you," we asked Frank.

"Well, I can't say for sure because I haven't heard from my boss since the changes took place," Frank replied.

"But with all the action up there, it might make me the 'Boy Scout' instead of a baseball scout," he concluded.

Poncho Perez, a former Big Spring Bronco, has been trucked off to a new home.

Sherman-Denison of the Big State League, where Perez has been toiling this year, optioned the big Cuban to Paris.

Carroll (Red) Dial, who hurled for Lamesa last season, was purchased from Paris by the Twins.

It sounds like an odd deal to us, optioning a pitcher with a 3-0 record (Perez) to another club and buying a hurler with a 5-4 record (Dial).

Ohio became a state in 1803.

New Record, Hard Battle Forecast At Indianapolis

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS —(P)—Prospects of hub-to-hub petition and a new record for the 500-mile Memorial auto race pulled a mammoth crowd through the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 11 gates Tuesday.

Speedway officials had facilities set up to handle more than 175,000 spectators.

The fastest field in the 34-runnings of the sweepstakes was capable of finishing the 200-lap contest in four hours or less at a speed of 125 miles an hour. It depended on the weather—with a possibility of showers—and whether the race was slowed by bad wrecks.

Bill Holland of Reading, Pa., missed the four-hour mark last year by less than eight minutes in setting the record winning average of 121.327 miles an hour.

Holland and Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., who edged out Holland for first money in 1947 and 1948, were the only former winners in the 33-car field.

Rose, co-winner with Floyd Davis in 1941, had shifted from the Blue Crown team to a front-drive car owned by the Howard Keck Company.

INDIANAPOLIS —(P)—Crewmen found a crack Tuesday in the block of Johnny Parsons' race car but the 1949 AAA national racing champion planned to start the 500-mile race anyway.

How long the Van Nuys, Calif., racer could run was problematical.

pair of Los Angeles in his campaign to become the first four-time winner. It was a proved car, driven non-stop to sixth money last year by Jimmy Jackson, Desert Hot Springs, Calif.

Jackson had the only unorthodox racer in Tuesday's field, a new six-cylinder Cummins Diesel Special built as an experiment by the Cummins Engine Company of Columbus, Ind. The slowest car in the qualifications, it nevertheless showed more speed than can be used in the race and has proved its durability in more than 800 miles of test runs.

The rest of the cars were powered by four-cylinder engines, Meyer-Dicks or their predecessor Offenhauser.

It lacked only one car of being an all-American field. The exception was an Italian Maserati, fitted with a Meyer-Dicks engine and driven by Henry Bar Compton, Calif., who was born in England.

In the number one starting position was Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., the first away rookie to start on the since George Boillot of France the spot in 1914.

The jockey-size Faulkner led first-time speedway drivers in trials with a record 10-mile average of 134.343 miles an hour. The over-all average was 131.045, two miles faster than anybody drove at any stage of the 500-mile race.

Ty Cobb made 4,191 base hits in his diamond career, more than any other player.

Houston District Census Count May Be Nation's Tops

HOUSTON —(P)— It will be a couple of days yet before a definite figure can be announced, but indications are that Harris County may have the largest population of any single census district in the nation. George Pindley, district census supervisor, said Monday he has started a tabulation which will enable him to say in about two days whether Houston will top the 600,000 population figure or not. Estimates of the county's current population have ranged from 775,000 to 800,000.

"We have already counted more people here than have been counted so far in any other district," he said. "I am convinced there are a lot more yet to be counted here."

The American Radio Relay League, organization of amateur radio station operators and owners, was founded in 1914 by the late Hiram Percy Maxim.

Rail Commission Studies T&P Bid To Abandon Two Trains

AUSTIN —(P)— The Railroad Commission Tuesday studied the Texas and Pacific Railroad's application to abandon two passenger trains on its branch line between Fort Worth and Texarkana. The commission gave no indication when it would rule. It invited attorneys for the railroad and for towns along the route, which are protesting abandonment to submit briefs. Final oral arguments in the dispute were heard Monday by Commissioners W. J. Murray, Ernest O. Thompson and Examiner C. E. Pettit.

Likely Choice

Robert A. Lovett, above, former undersecretary of State, and now a New York financier, appears the most likely choice to direct the new permanent machinery of the North Atlantic Defense Alliance. The new post, as American representative and automatic chairman of the alliance's 12-nation permanent executive committee, is regarded in Washington as the most important in the entire Western mutual defense machinery.

Canada May Join U. S., Britain In Atomic Spy Hunt

OTTAWA, ONTARIO —(P)— Speculation heightened Tuesday that Canada has joined Britain and the United States in a drive against atomic spies.

Already two English papers have reported that one Canadian is among persons due for arrest as the result of disclosures by Dr. Klaus Fuchs, German-born British atomic scientist now serving a 14-year sentence for giving atomic secrets to Russia.

Fuchs' name was found in a notebook seized from one of the defendants in the 1946 trial of a Canadian spy ring. Fuchs' name then had no significance, and the notebook owner was acquitted.

The Arkansas press said it was significant that officials sternly refused to discuss conjectures that Canada may see a revival and extension of the 1946 spy trials. A cautious government approach to all parliamentary questions about security checks and anti-spy activity also was taken as a sign a spy roundup is in the offing.

Freighters Collide In West Coast Fog

SAN FRANCISCO —(P)— The freighters Arkansan and Edgar F. Luckenbach collided in the fog off the Golden Gate Monday night but radioed the Coast Guard no help was needed.

The Arkansan reported its bow was smashed but said it was continuing to Alameda in San Francisco Bay. The vessel was inbound from New York via Norfolk, Va., and Los Angeles.

The outbound Luckenbach liner reported it was returning to the harbor here. The vessel was enroute to Houston, via Los Angeles, Panama City, Havana, and Mobile, Ala.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★

St. Vitus Dance Is Treated By Diet And Long Bed Rest

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Chorea, or St. Vitus dance, is a curious condition about which much still has to be learned. It seems to be related to rheumatic fever. A family tendency to the disease is fairly common. Unusually bright children and those with a "highly strung" nervous system appear to be particularly susceptible.

The disease is somewhat more common in girls than in boys and affects principally those between five and 15 years of age. Some children with early signs of chorea do not appear to be ill but merely more awkward than usual. They are often scolded by their parents or teachers for dropping things and showing other signs of poor muscular control without realizing that it is illness and not intention which is responsible.

In mild chorea the general health is good, the muscles twitch only slightly and the speech and mental functions are not disturbed. Children with mild chorea frequently complain of fatigue.

Emotional disturbances, such as easy crying and nightmares, often are present. When the hands are held straight out in front with the fingers spread, the jerky irregular movements of the muscles are characteristic and easily can be recognized by the experienced physician.

In the severe form of the disease the movements involve a lot of muscles and the youngster may not even be able to feed or undress themselves without help. Sometimes the speech is affected and a child may not be able to talk at all for several days.

The worst type of chorea is the maniacal form which is, fortunately, very rare. Here, in addition to the muscular movements, there are severe mental symptoms which may last for weeks.

Diagnosis is not difficult as a rule if the possibility of chorea is considered. It is important to try to tell whether the chorea is of the kind associated with rheumatic fever or not.

Diet and long bed rest, similar to that which is given for rheumatic fever are the treatments of chorea. Because chorea involves the nervous system, sedatives for the nerves are usually necessary in addition. The cause is still unknown.

Violent Attacks
The muscles are weakened. The heart is sometimes involved but often escapes undamaged. Irritability and emotional outbreaks are common. An attack lasts on the average from eight to 10 weeks and most patients recover.
