Viet Cong May Drive Toward Sea

SAIGON, Soviet Viet Nam (AP) — A series of Viet Cong attacks erupted Saturday in the three northernmost provinces of South Viet Nam, bringing concern that the Communists may soon start a big drive to the sea. One U.S. officer said an undetermined number of Vietnamese troops were killed.

The Vietnamese army struck back, but the initiative appeared to be with the Viet Cong. The Communists seemed to be trying to confuse the Vietnamese as to where the main blow would fall.

There was rising speculation that U.S. Marines from Da Nang in the area would be sent into action if the fighting got too rough for the Vietnamese.

WARPLANES STRIKE

In the air, U.S. warplanes again struck at Communist North Viet Nam. Six Air Force F105 Thunderchief and supporting jets dumped 12 tons of bombs on Hon Nieu Island, 130 miles north of the border.

A U.S. military spokesman said they destroyed an antiaircraft battery, two buildings and a radar tower despite heavy ground fire and returned safely.

Eight Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany severely damaged a wooden bridge and a barge and hit two highway bridges in unloading three tons of bombs on an area 160 miles south of Hanoi. A spokesman reported all planes returned to the carrier.

DELAYS TRIP

In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor postponed his trip to Washington for the second time in 24 hours because of political jostling between Premier Phan Huy Quat and Phan Khac Suu, chief of state, over Cabinet shifts. Taylor expects to leave Sunday.

In the ground war, Viet Cong attacks were concentrated in Quang Tri Province, bordering North Viet Nam, Quang Nam next to Quang Tri, and Quang Ngai, first province south of Quang Nam.

The U.S. Army officer — the 391st American to be killed in combat — was with a Vietnamese force in an outpost three miles east of Quang Tri, the provincial capital. He died along with about 30 government soldiers when the Viet Cong overran the post.

MRS. KATHRYN GRANAHAN

U.S. Treasurer In Good Shape

DARBY, Pa. (AP) — The treasurer of the United States, Kathryn O'Hay Granahan, was reported in fair condition today in Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital after undergoing emergency brain surgery.

Her secretary, Josephine O'Donohue, said, "She is doing well and the doctors are pleased with her progress."

Doctors issued a statement Friday after the operation — performed to remove a blood clot from the surface of her brain — saying "definitely no malignancy was involved."

Mrs. Granahan, 69, a native of Easton, Pa. and a former Philadelphia congresswoman, was stricken Tuesday in Atlantic City.

Chairmen have not yet been named in the three new voting boxes.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Weather continued to make major news as more showers skipped across this area. Monday morning showers brought up to .70 in some areas, and those on Tuesday ranged from nothing to 1.50. Some of these covered up freshly planted cotton, some helped soften the ground so that cotton came up easily. Then there were hard winds which drifted sand into furrows in a few areas and blew out spots in others. By and large, the planting job is complete—or will be in a few days. Then what will be needed is a few weeks of still, hot weather.

Thus far, the storms have managed to stay off the lake sheds. However, Lake J. B. Thomas did come in for a sort of unexpected rise. Early in the week an inch rain on the lake brought up the level by .03 of a foot, then at the end of the week Bull Creek went on a small rise and raised the level another .04 of a foot. Total increase for the week was about 325 acre feet. One effect of the showers has been to dull municipal demands. Traffic Dead May Top Grim Mark In '64

By The Associated Press

Near the end of the first day of the Memorial Day weekend traffic deaths on the nation's highways mounted steadily and appeared to be ahead of the normal mark for a non-holiday period as well as last year's record Memorial Day toll.

The accident toll late Saturday night stood at 124 traffic dead, 3 boating and 9 drowning, for a total of 136.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 430 and 510 persons might die this weekend during the 78-hour holiday period ending Monday at midnight. But the council added it still was too early in the holiday period to draw any conclusions from the current pace of fatalities.

TOPS LAST YEAR

Howard Pylen president of the council said:

"At the moment traffic deaths are running considerably ahead of last year's record. It still is early in the holiday period, however, and this upward trend can be reversed if every driver will use extra caution himself and also stay on the alert for the mistakes of other drivers."

Multiple deaths added to the weekend toll. Near Grand Island, Neb., three 16-year-old boys and a 26-year-old truck driver were killed in a crash at an intersection. Two teenage brothers were killed near Lansing, Ill.

National guardsmen were mobilized in Iowa, Wisconsin and Indiana to aid state highway police patrol the roads. All leaves on the Memorial Day weekend were canceled for Illinois State Police.

100 A DAY

In the first three months of 1965 traffic deaths averaged about 100 a day. In 1964 the death toll was a record high of more than 48,000.

The record for a three-day observance of Memorial Day was 431 set last year. The lowest total was 204 in 1948. The record high traffic death toll for any three-day holiday period was 609 in the 1955 Christmas period.

AP SURVEY

An Associated Press survey of highway fatalities during a three-day non-holiday weekend period from 6 p.m. Friday, May 14, to midnight Monday, May 17, showed a traffic toll of 387 dead.

The record high traffic fatality count for any holiday was set during the four-day observance of Christmas in 1956 when 706 persons died.

Officially Memorial Day is Sunday. But millions of persons also will enjoy a holiday Monday since most business and industrial firms will be closed.

Johnson Looks Over Hereford Stock At Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson kept in touch Saturday with developments around the world, but still was able to enjoy a favorite pastime—looking over his blooded Hereford cattle and other livestock.

The weather improved somewhat, permitting the master of the LBJ Ranch to get outdoors for a survey of agricultural developments since his last Texas visit six weeks ago.

House Lifts Out Blunder

AUSTIN (AP) — The House corrected Saturday an error members deliberately left in a resolution, adopted Friday, favoring preservation of Texas A&M as a predominantly all-male school.

When members adopted the resolution, they inadvertently left in the resolving clause language hastily copied from a similar Senate resolution:

"In adopting this resolution, the Senate...declares the policy of this state to be that Texas A&M University should remain essentially an all-male institution with continued emphasis on its fine military program."

Later the mistake was discovered, but members defiantly turned down a plea to reconsider the bill and change "Senate" to "House."

"This is the first time one house has voted the other in favor of something. Don't you think we ought to leave it in just to show the Senate the power of the House?" asked Rep. George Cowden of Waco.

Senate Junks Plan To Up Membership

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas senators unceremoniously junked Saturday their self-preservation plan for expanding membership from 31 to 39.

The plan, which started out as an attempt to stave off some of the bitterness over redistricting, became so embroiled in personalities and conflicting motives some of its foes joined supporters in an all-night filibuster Friday night.

The filibuster prompted Sen. Jack Strong of Longview, author of the plan, to lay the bill aside Saturday afternoon with no chances of reviving it before the session ends Monday. Senators approved the suggestion by a 22-8 vote.

PLANS AUTHOR

Strong originated the 39-member idea several months ago as a panacea for court-ordered redistricting under current 31-member status, which will cost the Senate seven incumbents.

Finding that Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba, redistricting committee chairman, had not begun the painful task, Strong began to sell his idea to other members. To make it more attractive to reluctant senators, he added a provision to extend terms from four years to six and provided for automatic re-election provision aiding all but five incumbents.

The six-year term and automatic re-election provisions touched off a storm of protests in the House and from other sources, so they were eliminated.

HERE'S SITUATION

Strong's actions Saturday left this situation:

Texans will have a special election Sept. 7 to consider a proposed constitutional amendment to enlarge the Senate from 31 to 39 members, but there will be no legislation to put the change into effect. The enlargement could take effect either through a plan adopted at a special session or one adopted by a federal court.

The 12-hour filibuster, which ended at about 6 a.m. Saturday, was carried out mostly by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan, who spent seven hours on the floor.

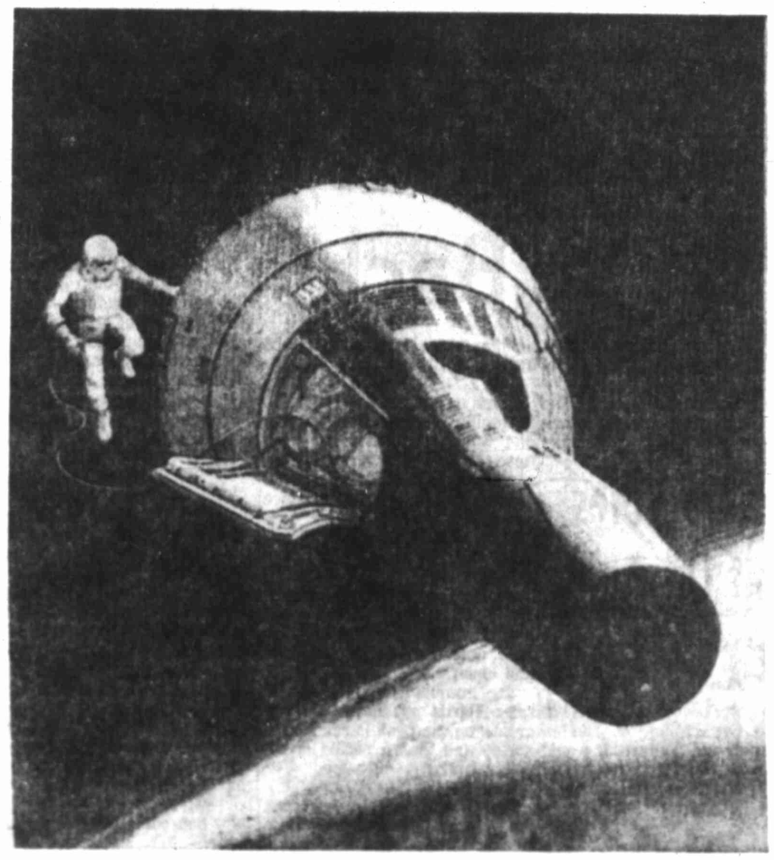

At issue in the filibuster was legislation to put the constitutional change into effect by districting on a 39-member basis. Strong drafted the plan.

MORE FOES

Moore was aided by Sens. George Parkhouse of Dallas and Criss Cole of Houston, who felt Strong's plan was unfair in its treatment of their cities; and by Crump, who wanted to see the voters approve the constitutional change and knew the Strong plan would bring fatal opposition from big-city newspapers.

Big-city senators on the other side included Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston, who knew Crump's assessment was correct and wanted to see voters kill the plan.

Rural senators opposing Moore included Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, Senate dean, who would vote for no plan except one such as Strong's which would guarantee that all incumbents will have their present districts under redistricting.

Outside Spacecraft

This is an artist's concept of an astronaut outside a Gemini spacecraft like the one readied Saturday to go into orbit Thursday. Here the spaceman is checking the equipment section of the craft while using a chest pack portable life support system and a tethering line, with the appearance much like Air Force Major Edward H. White II is scheduled to pose when he steps outside the Gemini 4 late in the second orbit, according to current plans. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Space Spectacular Thursday Given Go-Ahead After Check

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The cast and stand-ins for the most spectacular of all U.S. space spectaculars, the flight of the Gemini 4, ran through more rehearsals Saturday in preparation for next Thursday's opening.

The job of replacing a faulty battery in the two-man spacecraft was completed late Friday. The electrical systems were checked out during the night. Saturday, space agency officials said the job was successful and there would be no delay in the launch.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, two Air Force majors, will attempt a 62-orbit, four-day flight, the longest in U.S. space history. They will attempt the world's first space rendezvous when they edge close to their spent second-stage booster. And White plans to become the first American to emerge from the capsule and float free in space at the end of a golden tether.

The space agency repeated Saturday that White definitely will not attempt to touch the spent booster when he takes his space stroll. Not only will the booster be slowly tumbling, they said, but there is another danger —slight but real. The booster will still be armed with 20 feet of high explosive charges, the ones that would be touched off by the range safety officer to destroy the rocket if it wandered off course during liftoff.

The possibility exists, officials said, that the explosives could be set off by a charge of electrostatic electricity if White made contact with the booster. Electrostatic charges, which build up on orbiting objects, remain one of the unsolved mysteries of space flight.

McDivitt and White — and their backup crew, Air Force Maj. Frank Borman and Navy Lt. Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. —reported Saturday to Pad 19, where the spacecraft perches atop the Titan 2 booster.

Anti-Poll Tax Plan Gets Okay In Texas Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators approved Saturday for a November 1966 referendum a proposed constitutional amendment removing the requirement for poll tax payments as a voting prerequisite.

Senators voted 21-8 to submit the measure to voters. The measure goes back to the House, which must act on an amendment added.

Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio was Senate sponsor of the house-approved measure drafted by Rep. Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi.

Before the votes were taken, an amendment was attached changing from permissive to mandatory a provision that the poll tax requirement will be replaced with an annual registration system.

Bills for permanent registration have been approved by committee. The House has approved an annual registration bill, but its hopes were killed Friday when Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston used a parliamentary move requiring a committee hearing.

City Pays Tribute To Dead In Wars

Overlooking a green hillside in front of Big Spring's Veterans Administration Hospital, several hundred persons will join this afternoon in a quiet tribute to the nation's fallen war dead.

Others will mark the day by placing wreaths at the graves of loved ones.

The traditional notes of taps, a crisp military presentation of the colors, placing of a wreath at the flagpole, an address by Army Gen. E. C. Dunn, and Memorial Day, 1965, will thus be observed in Big Spring.

Each year patients of the hospital, some in wheelchairs and others in robes, stand in silent remembrance of their buddies.

PRESENT COLORS

The formal program will begin at 2 o'clock with musical selections by the high school band. A Webb AFB color guard will present the colors, and Mrs. Joe Jacobs, president of the Gold Star Mothers, will place a wreath. She will be escorted by the commanders of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and World War I Veterans. Gen. Dunn will be introduced by Dr. Halvard T. Hansen of the Legion Post 355. The general is a European campaign veteran of World War II.

SINCE 1864

The Memorial Day observance first began in 1864 in the town of Columbus, Miss., when a group of women went to a cemetery and placed freshly - cut flowers on the graves of Confederate soldiers. Known for a time as Decoration Day, it became a tribute to all American war dead.

Although the day has become one of remembrance for all loved ones, the dead of the nation's wars, more than a million men, receive special commemoration, from the American Revolution to the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Indian Wars of 1860 to 1898, the Mexican War, the Spanish American War, World Wars I and II and Korea. This year some Americans will be remembering in their tribute more recently - fallen dead of the conflict in Viet Nam.

As Memorial Day was first observed to commemorate dead of the Civil War, that war remains the most costly in terms of American lives, more than 560,000.

JOINT EFFORT

The observance here is a joint effort of the service organizations and the hospital. Honored guests at each year's Memorial Day services are the Gold Star Mothers. The invocation will be given by Chaplain C. O. Hitt and the benediction by the Rev. Robert McDermott.

In last year's ceremonies in front of the hospital, Lt. Col. B. F. Meacham of Webb AFB was the principal speaker. As part of his address he repeated the oft-quoted tribute by the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur to American soldiers.

"I do not know the dignity of their birth, but I do know the glory of their death. They died unquestioning, uncomplaining, with faith in their hearts, and on their lips the hope that we would go on to victory."

Acceptance Of Proposal 'Doubtful'

AUSTIN (AP) — Here's the 19th District as proposed in a House-Senate conference committee report:

Hale, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin, Howard and Midland.

The 20th is composed solely of Bexar (San Antonio); the 21st includes Ector, Crane, Upton, Reagan, Irion, Tom Green, Crockett, Schlicher, Menard, Kimble, Sutton, Val Verde, Edwards, Real, Kerr, Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Bandera, Kendall and Comal.

• • •

AUSTIN (AP)—A House-Senate conference committee agreed Saturday on a congressional redistricting bill that became controversial even before it was placed on lawmakers' desks.

The legislative leadership nursed faint hopes Saturday night that lawmakers would accept the conference report, clearing the last major hurdle before final adjournment.

A key House member said he felt a majority supported the bill but there was a question whether the two-thirds majority necessary to bring up the conference report in the House could be mustered.

SIGNED BY 9

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of the House conferees, said the conference report was signed by nine of the 10 members of the conference committee. Sen. George Parkhouse, Dallas, did not sign the report, he said.

Mutscher said the bill places Liberal Congressmen Jack Brooks of Beaumont and Clark Tompson of Beaumont in one district — a marked variation from House and Senate bills that pitted incumbents only in two Northeast Texas districts.

"We thought it was fairer that way," Mutscher said of the change.

He also said that U.S. Reps. Ray Roberts of McKinney and Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater were joined in a district.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana and John Dowdy of Athens, whom earlier plans put in districts with other incumbent congressmen, would get districts to themselves.

A new South Texas district, with no incumbent, includes both Wilson County, home of Rep. Wayne Connally of Floresville, and Webb County, home of Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo.

ECTOR COUNTY

Also in the measure is a controversial district that includes Ector County—but not neighboring Midland County—and runs eastward to Bexar County.

"I don't think it will be accepted," a liberal House member said of the plan.

A member of the Dallas delegation said suburban portions of the populous county are split off to even-up population in predominantly rural districts.

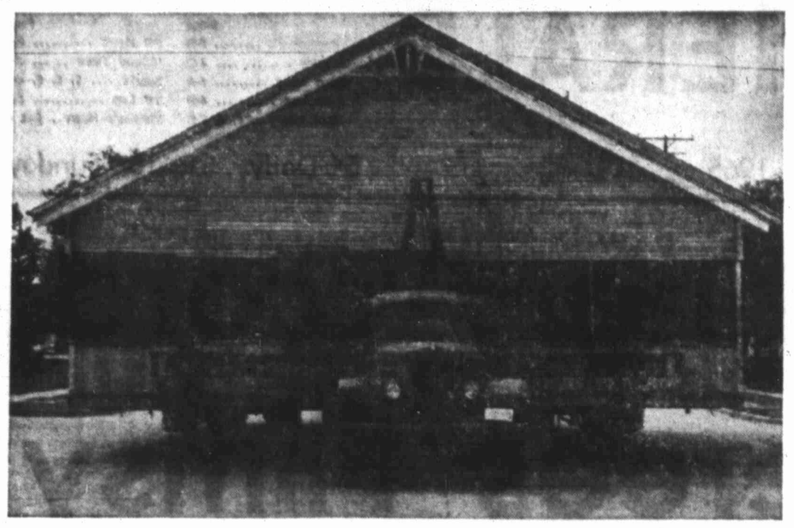

"They've run us from Wichita Falls to Harris County," said Rep. Ben Lewis. He said a northern slice of the county, including Richardson, was placed in a district now represented by Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls. Another piece of the county went into a district plunging southeastwardly toward Houston.

Gov. Tom Connally's part in the congressional redistricting talks followed the pattern set when the governor's office helped negotiate passage of the central coordinating board for higher education, the big 1966-67 spending bill, the $101 million teachers pay raise, a $79 million tax package to pay for the raise, and proposed four-year terms for Connally and other statewide officials.

ISSUES PASSED

Other Connally-supported major issues passed include a proposal for $85 million in bonds to give loans to state college students, pooling of oil and gas leases, reorganization of the state hospitals board into the Texas Department of Mental Health, and complete revamp-

Highwire Halts House Movers

Overhead utility lines temporarily halted movers of this large frame residence Saturday morning at 8th and Scurry. Electricians were called to raise the lines and the house was moved on through downtown Big Spring to a new location on the Snyder Highway. Weatherby Iron and Metal Co. purchased the house, moved from 901 Scurry.

Space Lab Orbits, Relays Data Back

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Imp 3, a compact physics laboratory capable of peering millions of miles into space, rocketed into a great oval orbit Saturday to probe interplanetary scientific mysteries and to map radation hazards along the astronauts' route to the moon.

A towering Delta rocket hurled the 130-pound package on a path ranging from 120 to about 130,000 miles from the earth—or halfway to the moon.

It was the third successful space launching here in a week. Earlier, a Project Fire payload was flown on a high-speed reentry test and a Saturn 1 rocket orbited the Pegasus 2 meteoroid-detection satellite.

RELAYS

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center said all nine Imp 3 instruments were functioning, relaying a stream of information on magnetic fields, solar winds and cosmic rays—both from the sun and from other sources such as stars.

Imp 3, which stands for Interplanetary Monitoring Platform, is the third of seven similar satellites planned in support of the U.S. Apollo project to land men on the moon. Two of the Imps are to orbit the moon.

MAJOR GOAL

A major goal is to determine if satellite instruments can predict when great thermonuclear flares will erupt on the sun, spreading dangerous doses of cosmic radiation through space on swift solar winds.

The launchings are being spaced to provide continuous data throughout a substantial portion of an 11-year sun cycle. The sun presently is in a quiet period when flare eruptions are rare and thus easier to study and understand.

The number and intensity of solar flares gradually will increase until a peak is reached in 1968-69 and then a period of declining activity will begin.

PEAK ACTIVITY

The peak activity years span the time when the United States intends to send its first Apollo team of three astronauts toward the moon. A foolproof flare forecasting system would enable flights to be scheduled in safe periods.

Imp 3 was expected to provide new information on the composition and depth of the earth's magnetosphere and the transition area between it and interplanetary space. The magnetosphere is an area formed by the earth's magnetic field, which acts like an umbrella to protect man from deadly radiation sweeping through space.

Senate Votes Unit On Aging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill to create an administration of aging.

The office would operate within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It would authorize grants to states and universities for a variety of programs designed to help the elderly.

The measure authorizes $6.5 million in grants the first year.

The bill, called the Oder Americans Act, now goes back to the House for consideration of Senate amendments.

Satellite City In Space Eyed

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A plush vacation spa that would be literally out of this world may be available to those able to afford it some day.

The possibility of such a place, a self-contained satellite city in space, was described in St. Louis at the fifth annual conference on the peaceful uses of space last week.

The idea was offered by L. Eugene Root, president of Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale Calif.

Root said that sometime around the year 2,000 a city should be revolving around the earth in a 200-mile-high orbit, offering tourist accommodations as well as serving as a base for space research.

B4 SECTIONS

It would probably take 20 years to assemble it by lifting sections from earth by cargo rockets while men in space suits put it together.

Root said the city would have an average population of more than 4,000. But even its permanent residents probably would want to return to earth every six months.

He predicted that the community would have the most exclusive hotel in history — considering the cost of getting to it.

The estimated cost of operating the town, Root said, is $6 billion per year. Even so, he figures that three out of every four requests for accommodations will be turned down because of capacity crowds.

"STARLIGHT ROOM"

"The crowning glory will be the Starlight Room, which will provide gourmet dinners with an unobstructed view of the stars," Root said.

"Other features will include swimming pools, ice skating rinks, bowling alleys, a theater, a sun room, a zero-gravity room and a tourist observation room with a spectacular view of earth."

Another scientist, Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, president of the Radio Corp. of America, said that undoubtedly some day housewives will be figuring their household budgets by computer.

"For this purpose," he said, "we would have simple domestic computing equipment to keep track of personal finances and household logistics.

"Through a microwave pipe, the home computer would communicate automatically with computers at utilities, banks, insurance firms and other agencies with which people have business dealings."

Dr. Engstrom said it will be awhile before the concept becomes a reality but he said it will be here "well before the end of the century."

Scores of scientists and businessmen engaged in the space industry and officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and other governmental agencies attended the three-day meeting.

Highlight of the affair was a talk by Wernher von Braun, head of NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala. He told his audience that "men should be living on the moon as a matter of course by the end of this century."

Fluoridation Bill OKd By Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — In a suprise move, the legislature has passed and Gov. John Dempsey has signed legislation requiring fluoridation of Connecticut's public water supplies.

Connecticut became the first state to pass such a law, although the District of Columbia has one.

CAVITY FIGHT

The State Health Department earlier this year had proposed a regulation that would have accomplished exactly the same thing as the new law. Under the law a fluoride compound will be put into the water as a measure to help prevent tooth decay.

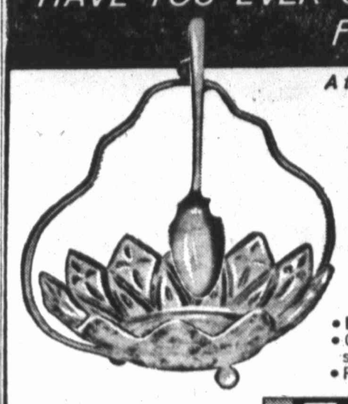

The regulation would have become effective unless both houses of the General Assembly specifically rejected it.

The Democratic-controlled Senate had no such plans. However, Republicans, who controlled the House, said that such an important issue should be settled by legislative action. They rejected the regulation in the House and introduced the bill.

The bill was passed by a 136-60 vote in the House. Less than an hour later the Senate passed it by voice vote.

The law requires that water companies serving a population of 50,000 or more begin fluoridation by Jan. 1, 1967, and companies serving a population of 20,000 to 50,000 begin by Oct. 1, 1967.

Plane Damaged In Hangar Fire

A fire early Saturday morning destroyed a model 135 Tri-Pacer plane and damaged several others in the main hangar of Howard County Airport.

The Tri-Pacer, owned by Clarence Fisher of Big Spring, was reported a total loss. The left wing was burned on a Cessna 140, owned by O. D. Landrum, Big Spring, and Harold Driggers, Georgetown.

The blaze apparently started in the Tri-Pacer, Fire Capt. R. T. Hale said, and heat at the plane's engine ignited insulation and wood inside a nearby wall between the main hangar and the airport lounge-office area. A 12-foot area of the wall insulation and wood framing was burned, but the wall itself, of asbestos construction, did not ignite, Hale said.

The fire was discovered when an alarm sounded at the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. offices indicating trouble with the Trans-Texas Airways teletype at the airport. Telephone company employes sent to the airport discovered the fire and Big Spring firemen were called at 1:35 a.m. Only one tire of the Tri-Pacer was still burning, firemen said, when they arrived and the wall area was then extinguished.

Damage estimates had not been definitely established Saturday but Landrum said the Tri-Pacer destroyed was a model normally valued at its present age at about $3,500. He estimated damage to the plane owned by himself and Driggers at $500. In addition to the wing, the left door galss was burned. Seven planes were stored in the hangar at the time. Fireman said two planes were partially blistered by the heat. Others were reported blackened by the smoke.

Hale said the fire had apparently burned for some time before it was first discovered. He said no cause had been determined Saturday for the blaze.

Firemen remained at the scene until 3:30 a.m. before remnants of the blaze were extinguished.

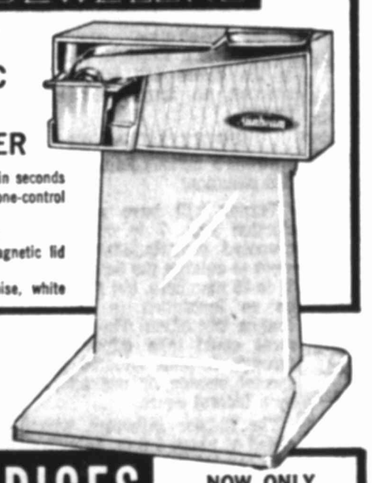

Zoning Changes Up For Hearing

A zone change from retail to commercial, for three lots at South Gregg and Eleventh will be considered at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday at city hall by the planning and zoning commission.

The lots are at the southwest portion of the intersection. The request is from Sam Burns, owner. The change was requested previously but turned down by the planning board when no one appeared to explain the proposed change. The hearing has been re-scheduled because the owner had not received notification of the previous hearing.

Another request to go before the commission is for deletion of sidewalks in the Colonial Hills subdivision, presently under construction north of Hearn Street in south Big Spring. The request is from the subdivider, Joe Starnes. The city's subdivision ordinance requires the sidewalks.

Officers To Get Tough In Youth Disturbances

Law enforcement officers here have issued warnings concerning incidents involving local teenagers and airmen from Webb AFB.

Police Chief Jay Banks said a situation had developed which could be objectionable to the community and Webb AFB. Incidents have been reported in recent months in which teenagers and airmen became involved in disturbances and fights.

A few local teenagers are deliberately instigating such and at times participants have gone into county areas to attempt to be away from local officers, Banks pointed out. Considerable crowds have gathered at times. Police have been called recently to disburse crowds of youths gathering at local drive-ins.

"The airmen are here because they have been sent here in uniform," Banks pointed out. "They are entitled to the same respect as other persons in the community, without fear of being harassed.

"Speaking for the police department we are not going to tolerate these incidents and we are going to be tough in our attitude toward them," Banks said. Officers have been instructed to maintain close patrol of areas where such incidents have been reported. They also will observe in particular certain local teenagers who have been repeatedly involved.

Joining Chief Banks in voicing concern over the situation, Sheriff Audrey Standard said his office would be alert to the problem. Quick action will be taken in out-of-city areas to see that the situation does not get out of hand.

Hazing Gets Out Of Hand

The cooperation of parents and youths has been asked by Police Chief Jay Banks and Sheriff Aubrey Standard to control hazing activities. A number of complaints have been received by officers this week.

The situations occasionally have gone beyond the harmless varieties, creating a danger of injury for youths involved and provoking fights between youths. In some instances, the hazing has been started inside the city limits, then moved outside the city, Banks pointed out. Boys and girls have been reported involved.

Standard emphasized that the majority of young persons were staying within limits of good judgment in their activities and that most hazing involved the harmless type occurring each year at the end of school.

"We want to encourage those involved to curb their activities and use common sense," Standard said, adding that some parents may not be aware their children are involved or the extent to which some situations have been carried.

Patrol units will be used to observe areas where such incidents have been reported.

Fallout Monitor Course Slated

A four-day course in radiological monitoring is scheduled to begin at the Veterans Administration Hospital June 1 with 16 members of the hospital staff taking part, W. D. Berry, Civil Defense director for Howard County, said Friday.

The course will be held for four hours each day with Marion Whitley and Doyle Paris as instructors. It will run Tuesday through Friday.

Berry said a class had been completed at Coahoma, in the high school, this week. Instructors for that class were Marvin Boyd and Paris.

Holiday At Courthouse

Howard County Courthouse will have a holiday on Monday. It will be a belated observation of Memorial Day which falls on Sunday. All of the offices will be closed with the exception of the district court clerk and the sheriff.

Due to an oversight in dates, the 118th District Court will be preparing for a crminal jury docket on Monday and has scheduled a docket call for 10 a.m. This will mean that Judge Ralph Caton, court reporter Jerry Spence, District Court Clerk Fern Cox and District Attorney Wayne Burns will have to be on hand for at least a part of the day.

Should any of the defendants on the docket elect to plead guilty, their pleas will be accepted, Judge Caton said.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said that his women deputies will be off duty. Field deputies will not have to work more than half a day. However, the office will be kept open all day.

The Howard County Commissioners Court will not meet as usual. The court at a recent session approved the holiday.

ONE JUNIOR HIGH ELIMINATED

Student Shifting Due Next Fall

Big Spring Independent School District will begin the 1965-66 school year with only two junior high schools. The two will carry an estimated enrollment of 1,894 students as compared to the enrollment, in three junior high schools, of 1,749 on May 21 of this year.

Lakeview Junior High, with an enrollment of 56 on May 21, and which would have had an estimated enrollment of 60 on Sept. 1, will be closed and students sent to Runnels and Goliad Junior High schools, as space permits. Most of them will be in Runnels. Five teachers, formerly at Lakeview Junior High, will also be reassigned to other schools in the system.

The school board, finding the cost of operating the north side school with a low enrollment too costly, has ordered the closing and the space made available for elementary enrollment in the almost new building.

TEACHERS ASSIGNED

Four teachers will be assigned to Goliad and Runnels Junior High schools. Marcy Elementary, and Bauer Elementary. One will be assigned where needed later, possibly to physical education, according to Supt. Sam Anderson.

As the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in respect to desegregation of elementary and secondary schools, becomes more active in affecting employment in operational and instructional functions of schools, the Big Spring district is meeting all requirements, and will not face the problem of operating without the federal funds normally allotted to school districts in impacted areas, school officials said.

Beginning as far back as 1955, the Big Spring district has integrated, from the high school down through elementary schools, where attendance areas carry all races. Junior high students have been given their choices between three schools as long as space permitted.

COMPLIANCE

Anderson, with the approval of the school board, has filed an Assurance of Compliance (HEW Form 441) to qualify the school system for federal financial assistance. No court order has been necessary to force compliance with the law in this district.

The Civil Rights Act, as submitted to the board and administration, carries the following basic objective in Section 601 of Title VI: "No person in the United States shall, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Impact aid, due to federal installations in the area, including Webb Air Force Base, has amounted to over $175,000 annually to the district. This is in lieu of taxes formerly paid on property taken off tax rolls, and where school enrollment is enhanced as military personnel moves in.

Assistance in building, equipping, and site development of space for certain vocational training programs in the schools, are also under the provisions for up to 50 per cent reimbursement with federal funds. These will be evident in expanded vocational training space in the new high school additions when completed.

PROBLEMS

One problem still remains in North Big Spring, however, and the administration and board are taking a close look at it. While the almost new Lakeview school will now have space for several hundred elementary students, there seems to be an inclination for those living west of Lamesa Highway to stay away from Lakeview, and to attend Bauer and Kate Morrison. A part of the latter school is new, and will be serviceable for several years, but the older section will eventually be used for storage, or abandoned. The school board is also looking at the closeness of Kate Morrison and Lakeview.

DISTRIBUTION

The enlargement of Bauer Elementary school is included in the Master Plan bond program for additions and remodeling. The actual cost to the district would not be necessary if elementary students on the North Side were distributed between that school and Lakeview, but the board and administration sense resentment if an attempt is made for equal distribution. The population shift is from west of Lamesa Drive to the east side, and the board may be faced with the task of setting another geographic attendance boundary to make the best use of available facilities at the three north side schools.

As of May 21 the enrollment at Bauer Elementary was 501 students, Kate Morrison Elementary 170, and Lakeview Elementary 159.

The district school board will be expected to make the choice, liked or not, on whether to spend several thousand dollars for additions to one school just a short distance from another which has plenty of space.

TOMMY MENSER

Tom Menser Wins Award

COAHOMA (SC) — Tommy Menser has been announced as the winner of the 1965 DeKalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award given to outstanding seniors in vocational agriculture departments. The award is based on scholarship, leadership and farm program activities during four years in high school.

Tommy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Menser, Coahoma. He attends Coahoma High School, has been president of the Coahoma FFA for the past year, and held several offices in the FFA in previous years. He is a member of the student council, National Honor Society, and numerous other school organizations.

His supervised farming program consisted of beef, swine and lamb feeding projects. After high school, Tommy plans to attend Howard County Junior College for two years, and then finish his college work at a senior agriculture college, majoring in agricultural education and pursue a teaching career after completion of his college work. He is the second DeKalb Agricultural Award from Coahoma High School, and as such his name will be engraved with the other winner on a special plaque.

John Minnick Named To City Police Force

Police Chief Jay Banks has announced appointment of a new patrolman, John E. Minnick, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of officer Bobby Ray Armstrong. Armstrong had served with the department since September, 1961, and resigned to move to Louisiana.

Minnick has been with the Big Spring fire department since April, 1957. Banks said he had passed the police department examinations previously and had been on the eligible list for employment with the department.

A native of Ranger, Tex., Minnick attended Fluvanna High School and served in the Army during World War II. He was a corporal in communications work and was awarded the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, American Theater Campaign Medal, Campaign Medal with four Bronze Stars and the Good Conduct Medal.

He is married and the family lives at 702 Bell. The Minnicks have two children, John E. Jr. and Sheila Lorene. While with the fire department, he was assigned as a driver.

CAF Proves Highlight Of Big Armed Forces Show

"Col." Connie Edwards of the Confederate Air Force, along with several other colonels, have returned from the largest Armed Forces Day celebration ever held at Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio. Twenty-one CAF colonels went up as support for three airplanes Capt Tex Townsend, director of the Air Force museum at Mercedes, accompanied Edwards, as they flew up in a B-26.

"We were all entertained royally by the base commander, Col. Arthur E. Exon, at Wright Patterson," Edwards said. "Our airplanes flew in the air show on both days in aerobatics. Our fighter planes were the highlight of the air show."

Edwards said the CAF had also started negotiations for a B-50, a B-47, F-84, F-86 and F-89 for static displays at the museum. He said they also received 10,000 pounds of spare P-47 parts.

LOOKING FOR SPITFIRE

The group now has an English Spitfire to be shipped into Houston within a month. The others, mentioned above, will possibly be on hand in about six months.

"We are still negotiating for a B-17 and a B-24," he said. "Robert Lansing, who plays Gen. Savage in 'Twelve O'clock High,' was at the show. He expressed interest in our cause of keeping World War II fighter and bomber airplanes for future generations to see. The movie company running the TV serial has one B-17 bomber. Others shown in the pictures are taken from old war-time films."

Work has slowed down on the hangar for training new Webb AFB personnel with the use of Cessna propellor - driven light aircraft. The concrete slab for the floor and base has been down for over 10 days, and plumbing roughed in, but no other building material is on the ground for the building, which is to be used as offices and shop-hangar space.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Says Work-Rights States Have Lower Wage Levels

To The Editor:

The National Association of Manufacturers and its Siamese twin, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, are throwing all their weight into a fight to retain Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartly Act, which allows states to enact laws barring union shop agreements arrived at by labor and management. Why are these two anti-union citadels so concerned with saving the 20 state "right-to-work" laws now in effect?

The answer is simple. In states with mis-named "right-to-work" laws, union-busting is easier, wage scales are lower, proverty is more widespread. This is why organized labor and other liberal groups are leading the drive to erase Section 14 (b) from the law.

The right of unions and management to freely negotiate union security provisions of contracts is important to every working man and woman in the country. By allowing the states to bar such agreements, the Taft-Hartley law steps in and says to both sides "Stop. You can't decide what form of union security you want." This interference gives a green light to the union-busters.

Of the 20 states with right-to-work laws, 75 per cent are above the national average in families living in poverty.

But only 26 per cent of the 30 states which allow union shop agreements are above the national average in families living in poverty.

The average hourly wage of production workers in 1962 is higher in states that don't have union - busting right-to-work laws.

Using an index of 100 as the national average, states with RTW laws have a wage index of 93 per cent, and states which permit union shops have an index 11 points better, or 104 per cent.

Lanes Are Being Painted To Help Activate Lights

Motorists passing through the FM 700-Goliad intersection by way of Goliad Street will notice large yellow stripes painted at each entrance lane. These are an experiment being tried with the automatic detection devices in the intersection.

The traffic signal recently installed at the intersection contains hidden detector wires on the Goliad Street approaches, with the light remaining green to FM 700 traffic until activated by cars approaching on Goliad.

The experiment is to paint yellow a four-foot-wide by 16-foot-long area where the detector wires are placed, in order to let motorists know where they must cross to activate the signal light change.

City Electrician Roy Rogan said motorists should thus make certain at least one tire of their car passes over the yellow area in order to bring a signal change for the Goliad Street approach.

On Vacation

County Judge Lee Porter will be out of his office for about two weeks for his annual vacation. He said he will be back on duty before June 14 — the date of the oil and gas properties equalization board sitting.

Equalization Panel To Meet

The local board of equalization for Coahoma Independent School District will be in session from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on June 7, it was announced Saturday.

Members of the board are Jim Hodnett, Pete Thomas and Earl Hull. Sessions will be held at the school. The board held sessions for oil and utility properties on May 14.

All Snagged Up

This neon sign service truck was rocked— and so was a section of downtown utility lines — Friday at 5 p.m. when its extension ladder struck the lines. A four-block segment of overhead lines and cable was knocked down along Third Street, and impact buckled a 35-ft. wodden utility pole four blocks away at Nolan and Fourth, said City Electrician Roy Rogan. Traffic lights two blocks east of Main were out for a time. The driver had been working on a sign at Zale's store and had driven north when the upraised ladder hooked the lines. It took about three hours to make repairs. (Photo by Kenneth Good)

Coahoma School Bonds Go Before Voters Saturday

Voters of the Coahoma Independent School District will decide Saturday what to do about $395,000 in school improvement bonds.

At stake are a dozen or more items, chief among them the immediate remodeling of the old auditorium into five elementary classrooms. Other major items include construction of a junior high - elementary gymnasium and the addition of 12 more classrooms as needed.

Land purchase, kitchen - cafeteria additions, furnishings, a track and stadium improvements, furnishings and fees also are included in the plans.

A series of meetings has been held to explain provisions of the program to patrons and taxpayers. Trustees and administrators appeared before two Parent - Teacher groups at Coahoma and Midway, and then at a mass meeting last Monday at the high school. Relatively few objections were voiced there, although several questions were raised.

One thing explained again was the extent of tax increase required to amortize the bonds over a 22-year period. Ten cents more to the tax rate under current assessments (which are only 40 per cent of actual value) will mean that a resident with a home with actual value of $7,500 will pay $3 more a year.

Those with a home or other property with actual value of $10,000 will pay $4 more; those with actual value property of $15,000 will pay $6 more; those with actual value property of $20,000 will pay $8 more per year.

DEAR ABBY

She Talks To Plants

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if I am losing my mind or if my wife has already lost hers. She talks to her plants. She claims that they "understand" and respond to her, and that is what makes them grow. She has had fantastic luck with her plants. She can take the deadest looking weed and bring it to life in no time. Our house is like a regular greenhouse. She's got tiny little pots in every window, and big plants standing taller than I am. Is there anything to this "talking" to plants? If she doesn't stop talking to them, I am going to start talking to myself.

MUMBLES

DEAR MUMBLES: Lots of women talk to plants. Don't worry. But if your wife starts getting answers, investigate.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have just come from the home of some friends where we spent a perfectly exasperating evening. They have young children whom they let stay in the same room with us all evening and take over the conversation. I don't like to talk to children. I have nothing in common with them and I do not care about anything they have to say. I don't know their friends or their teachers, and I don't wish to hear about them. It is boring. I don't object to parents allowing their children to meet the guests and stay a minute or two, but to allow them to sit all evening and do all the talking is ridiculous. Why do parents do this?

BORED AND DISGUSTED

DEAR B and D: Some parents think their children are amusing, entertaining, or are more delightful than their guests think they are. Other parents sincerely enjoy the company of their youngsters and believe their friends share their sentiments.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crackpot on the subject of smoking. What gets me is she never complained about it before we were married. In fact, while we were going together, she even bought me a lighter for my birthday. Now she raises the roof whenever I light a cigarette. She said she wouldn't object so much if I ran around with other women. (She knows she's safe.) She isn't worried about my health because I smoke less than a pack a day. She has a few annoying little habits like cracking her knuckles and putting five teaspoons of sugar in her coffee, but I don't say anything. We've been married for 18 years. I am 48 and she's 37. How can I get my wife off my back about smoking?

SAM

DEAR SAM: Your marriage could go up in smoke long after the flame of love has quit burning. Your wife is getting even with you for something, and your smoking has provided her with a handy smoke screen. Find out the real reason.

S&H Centers Stress Program For Courtesy

The staffs at the Sperry and Hutchinson Company's 850 redemption centers around the country — including the one in Big Spring — have been getting to work an hour early every Saturday morning for the past three weeks to bone up on how to be courteous to folks who come in to redeem their S&H Green Stamps.

The program, concluded Saturday, was an abbreviated refresher version of an eight-week course conducted in the spring of 1963.

Called "Patterns for Friendliness," the program is based on the widely accepted business principle that success or failure depends largely on how a business is regarded by its customers and others with whom it deals.

The S&H program, however, was the most extensive of any national company when it was introduced two years ago. In the refresher course this month, some 3,400 hours of instruction are being given, with 4,500 redemption center managers, hostesses and stockmen involved.

These are all part of the Citywide Recreational Program, a joint venture of the United Fund, the City of Big Spring, the YMCA and the Big Spring Independent School District.

Registration is now under way at the YMCA, the administrative agency for the program. The program is open to youngsters all over the city, and there is no charge except a nominal ($1) pool fee for the learn-to-swim classes, and a small charge ($1) for materials in certain handicraft work. No child will be denied the program for lack of funds, Jim Gilbert, administrator, emphasized.

All during the week children may sign up for either the Fun Clubs for elementary ages, for the citywide learn-to-swim program, or for the teenage programs. Most of them were furnished forms at school about 10 days ago, but plenty are available at the Y.

Assignment to the groups will come on a first-come-first-serve basis. This also will be the case with the swimming instruction, which will be held at the City Park pool.

Summer Fun groups will be picked up by bus and brought to the YMCA building where they will have periods for gymnastics and tumbling, relays, swimming, trampoline, arts and crafts. The junior high and high school program will include softball, track and field events, basketball, horseshoes, relays, trampoline, etc.

Gilbert urged parents to complete registrations this week during mornings at the YMCA.

Derailment Cause Sought

MARSEILLES, Ill. (AP) — Twenty-two persons were injured, eight of them hospitalized, Friday night when a 14-car passenger train derailed in downtown Marseilles.

The train was en route from Omaha to Chicago.

Three persons from Iowa and five from Illinois were admitted to Ryburn-King Hospital in nearby Ottawa.

HCJC Okays Field House

Trustees of Howard County Junior College gave their blessings Friday to plans for an enlarged fieldhouse at Memorial Stadium.

They concurred in a June 15 bid opening date for the project, which will be undertaken jointly with the Big Spring Independent School District. School officials previously had approved the plans for adding to the structure, bricking it and installing concrete floors, dressing rooms, offices, showers, etc.

Board members also elected Robert Bradberry, who has been instructing at Hardin-Simmons University, to be a member of the mathematics staff, succeeding Joe Chance, who resigned to enter private employment. Bradberry has his master of arts degree from Rutgers University.

200 Gather For Reunion Of Dawson County Pioneers

LAMESA (SC) — Some 200 Dawson County pioneers gathered for the annual reunion Saturday at the Forrest Park Community Center. The day's activities began at 10 a.m. with registration and included a luncheon and awards.

A memorial address was given by Dr. E. D. Landreth, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and J. D. Dyer Jr. presented awards to five pioneers.

Dan Bartlett, 86, of Lamesa, was recognized as the oldest man present and Mrs. N. F. Peterson, 87, Lamesa, as the oldest woman. George Schumake, Seagraves, was the earliest resident of those attending the reunion, having come to Dawson County in May, 1902.

An award for traveling the longest distance to attend was presented Mrs. J. L. Kitchens, Concord, Calif. Mrs. A. B. Merrick, Lamesa, was recognized for having the largest number of her family present. The Merricks moved to the county in 1916.

Old timers from El Paso, O'Donnell, Seminole, Seagraves, Plains, Houston, San Angelo, Lubbock, Abilene and Big Spring attended.

In election of officers for the coming year, C. W. Duke was named president; Durwin Echols, vice president; Willie Belle Cleveland, treasurer; and Mrs. A. J. Hale, secretary. All are Lamesa residents. Outgoing president is Barney Bratcher.

County Judge Leslie Pratt gave a report on the Dawson County Historical Society and on plans for a museum. The Jesse Merrick string band furnished music, with vocalist Sharon Martin.

Among special guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. T. McCullom, Waco, and J. M. Baker, Bovina. McCullom was high school principal in the 1930s and Baker was the second county judge.

Outgoing vice president Richard Crawley invited the old timers to be present for Lamesa's Tornado Jubilee planned July 2-4. The next reunion will be the last Saturday in May, 1966.

Moss On Boys Ranch Board

Joe Moss was installed as a new director on the West Texas Boys Ranch Board of Directors Saturday, at the West Texas Boys Ranch annual meeting. The meeting was held at the Ranch 17 miles west of San Angelo.

As a director for West Texas Boys Ranch, Moss will be responsible for the West Texas Boys Ranch activities in Howard County.

The West Texas Boys Ranch's Board of Directors will meet four times in the fiscal year of May 1965 to May 1966, said Claude Collins Jr., president of the board of directors.

In the 1965-66 fiscal year the directors approved an annual rodeo which will be held this year on July 3 at the Ranch, an annual Blind Bogey Golf Tournament and several other special events. The Ranch will begin a new swine program, giving the boys additional responsibility. Special emphasis will be placed on advancing the vocational training program in woodwork, leatherwork, painting, furniture repair.

The directors are undertaking a project to present programs to the various civic clubs throughout the 60-county area.

West Texas Boys Ranch has grown from a one-boy institution to its present population of 64 boys in residence and 25 in placement away from the Ranch. The Ranch has a national average of 8 out of 10 boys making excellent or good adjustments. Recently, one of the Ranch boys who attends San Angelo College was elected "Mr. San Angelo College," one of the highest honors at the college.

The Ranch serves dependent, neglected, homeless, and pre-delinquent boys of the 60-county West Texas Area. It depends solely on free-will donations and contributions for its income.

SAN ANTONIO — The board of directors of the Lone Star Brewing Company, meeting in San Antonio, has approved a dividend of 20 cents per share on the common stock of the company it is announced by Harry Jersig, president and chairman of the board.

Payment will be made to stockholders on record of June 15, and payable July 1, 1965.

Lone Star Brewing Company declared a 200 per cent stock dividend on April 12, 1965, giving shareholders two additional shares for each held. J. E. Sommerhauser, secretary - treasurer, noted that this was the equivalent of 60 cents paid on the old shares.

The dividend will be the 80th consecutive paid to shareholders.

Street Repair Is Continuing

The clean-up of results of the flash downpour and flooding of two weeks ago was still continuing at week's end.

"We're not through yet," said Public Works Director Ernest Lillard.

City street crews have been busy patching holes in streets, cleaning dirt and debris off the roadways, replacing concrete drainage rip rap and unplugging stopped-up storm sewers for the past two weeks.

"It was about what we expected," Lillard termed street damage. Most of the damage was of a minor variety, but the dirt streets on the North Side were particularly hard hit. These streets are being reshaped as holes are filled.

No dollar estimates have been made on the amount of damage to streets or on the amount of dirt and debris removed, Lillard said.

Dirt is being hauled off streets throughout the city and dumped. Most of the street damage occurred where water was spilling or flowing directly onto pavement, such as spots where drainage pipes or ditches diverted water onto the asphalt.

The city's detention dams are now empty, Lillard said, after holding back a massive amount of the downpour. The Edwards Draw detentions drained down Presidio Street into low-lying spots on the west side of town, still to be seen in low areas of Big Spring.

Accused

U.S. Scoffs At Spying Charge From Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper Saturday accused two American diplomats in Moscow of being spies for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The U.S. Embassy called the charge a fabrication.

The accusation apparently was the Soviet Union's response to charges by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that spies are included in practically every Soviet group that visits the United States.

Nyddyelyan weekly magazine section of the Soviet government paper Izvestia, said that Malcolm Toon, the U.S. Embassy counselor, and Alan Logan, a second secretary, were actually CIA agents.

It said Toon, 48, third-ranking political officer in the embassy, was a typical example of "the master spy of American detective novels." Logan, 39, was described as the head of the embassy's intelligence group specializing in Soviet-African relations.

An American Embassy spokesman called the Nyedyelya article "a highly scurrilous piece which is a complete fabrication." Toon would make no comment.

Today is Memorial Day. Take time out of your schedule to attend the brief ceremonies at 2 p.m. at the VA Hospital. It's not much to give a few minutes in memory of men who gave everything they had for our nation.

• • •

The field of candidates for the 78th Legislative District post, vacated by the death of Rep. Ed Carpenter, grew to three before deadline Thursday midnight. Harold Hall, who ran for commissioner under the Republican banner last year, flew to Austin for a last-day filing. He thus joins Frank Hardesty and Roger Brown, Democrats. However, there are no party listings in the special election, and high man wins the marbles.

Last week Big Spring High School graduated 379 seniors (counting the mid-term total). This figures out 42 per cent greater than the previous total. One effect of this will be a pronounced rise in Howard County Junior College enrollment next fall, for other schools are experiencing a third or more increase in graduates.

• • •

Speaking of HCJC, that institution's new academic record for a valedictorian is likely to stand for quite awhile. Gary Kendrick completed his requirements for an associate in arts degree with 2.936 grade points out of a 3.0 possibility. This is the same as 97.866 under the ordinary grade system.

• • •

Our students have shared in scholarship awards, indicating a good level of proficiency. Last week Brenda Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Greene, won the West Texas Press Scholarship, becoming the second Big Spring student to do this. (Mrs. Nita Jones Dodds was the first). Terry Harkrider, who is completing work at Sul Ross, was announced as recipient of a National Science Foundation scholarship to do graduate work in geology at SMU. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Harkrider, Forsan.

The Air Force's request for funds for Webb AFB moved another notch forward last week when the House Armed Services committee gave its approval to $1,342,000 of work. Included are more quarters for bachelor officers, NCO Club, and flight line improvements. This project still has to clear the House and Senate, then go back through the appropriations gamut. But it is moving along.

• • •

Wade Choate resigned his post as Howard County auditor to take over management of the Webb AFB Credit Union. District Judge Ralph Caton was deluged immediately with applications, 20 or more. A decision likely will be reached before mid-week.

• • •

The Coronado Hills property, formerly the old county club site, has been turned to Murphy & Rochester, an Odessa firm, and development is due to be stepped up. Among projects talked immediately is a 52-unit apartment complex at the northwest corner of the tract.

• • •

Friends paid well-deserved tributes to W. C. Blankenship, former superintendent and College Heights principal, who is retiring after two score years in the education field. Supe modestly accepted the plaudits on the ground that a man was the mirror of his associates. It works the other way around, too.

• • •

A ruling from J. W. Edgar, Texas commissioner of education was good news to a number of people who had grown fond of George Gentry when he served here for about 10 years as high school principal. Edgar disallowed the ouster of Gentry as Baytown's superintendent.

• • •

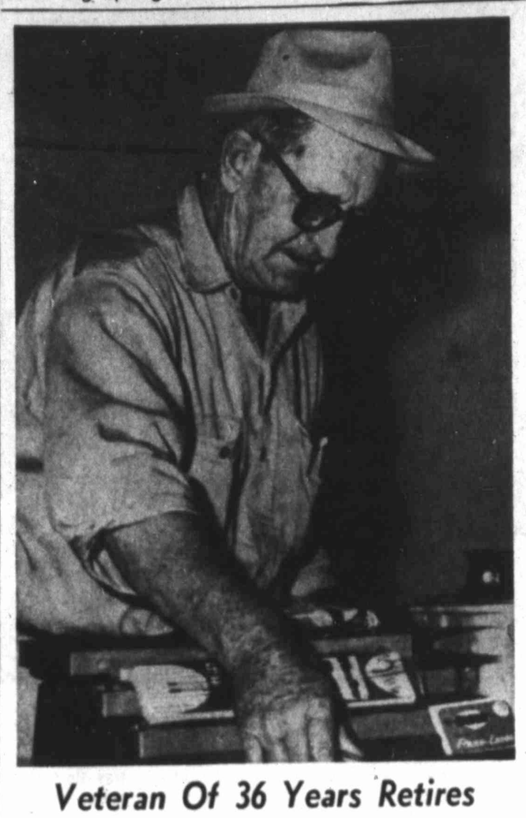

Old timer and pioneer are terms loosely used in the case of long time residents, but Henry R. Hayden, who died last week, would qualify. His life's span covered all but about 15 years of this city's history, and his connection in the newspaper field helped him have a hand in it. Another veteran figure who passed on unexpectedly was H. C. Hooser, attorney, who had lived here 37 years.

• • •

As expected, new faces will be seen here in the Methodist churches. Leo K. Gee, who has received an outstanding record at St. Luke's in Lubbock, will come here as First Methodist pastor, assisted by Harold Rucker of Lubbock's St. Johns. Hubert Bratcher, Stamford, succeeds Lloyd Hamilton as Big Spring district superintendent. Rev. Jarrell Sharp comes to Wesley Methodist, succeeding Jim Sharp (no relation).

Car Is Damaged

A one - car accident seven miles west of Big Spring about 1:30 a.m. Saturday caused severe damage to a sports car driven by Kenneth L. Harwood, Webb AFB, who escaped injury. Investigating Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks said apparently the driver dozed off and the car left the highway.

Veteran Of 36 Years Retires

Rufus E. Morton (above) of 531 Scott St. worked his final shift at the Cosden refinery here Saturday as No. 1 operator in the Treating and Pumping department after a tenure with the company that embraced 36 years. Raymond L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., was on hand to offer his best wishes to Morton. Morton's co-workers presented him with several gifts. A dedicated hunter and fisherman, Morton intends to spend more time following his favorite sports.

Stock Backtrack Still In Progress

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week continued to backtrack for the third straight week; but trading was very slow most of the time.

Volume for the week was 24,867,331 compared with 26,427,300 the previous week. It was the smallest turnover for any full, five-day trading week since the week ended Jan. 9 when 23,334,940 shares changed hands.

AN OMEN

Lightness of trading on any stock market move reflects lack of strong participation and therefore is regarded as an omen that the market "wants" to go in the opposite direction. This was not quite borne out last week because the days of heaviest trading were days of sharp decline, whereas there was lesser volume on two days of recovery.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week declined 3.97 to 918.04. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2.3 to 335.8.

MUCH LESS

The decline on average was much less than that of the preceding week. A number of leading issues emerged with respectable gains, even though losers outnumbered gainers by 970 to 406 among the 1,558 issues traded.

A single block of 286,800 shares helped make Consolidated Cigar the "most active" issue. Not far behind was American Telephone whose rise of 1⅜ reflected increased enthusiasm for the erstwhile "widows-and-orphans" stock. Latest company developments are expected to be divulged next week to a meeting of security analysts in New Work.

AUSTIN REPORT

ing of the powers and procedures of the Texas Water Commission and Texas Water Development Board.

Connally-supported issues that fell by the legislative wayside include a plan to put all state colleges into three systems, repeal of the poll tax, provide equal legal rights for women and place all county game and fish regulations under the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Connally vetoed two measures, saying they conflicted with the power given the central coordinating board, his main legislative proposal. The bills would have created a medical school at Texas Tech and would have given East Texas State and West Texas State separate regents.

UP TO VOTERS

Other measures approved by the legislature but subject to a final decision of voters this fall or in November of 1966, include proposed constitution changes that would give the Senate 39 instead of 31 members; give representatives four-year terms; let the legislature set salaries for the lieutenant governor and speaker; authorize creation of regional airport authorities; let the state take part in the federal medicare bill if it passes Congress; and authorize another $200 million in bonds for the veterans land program.

Also, the Senate passed to the voters Saturday a bill which would remove the poll tax as a requisite to voting.

Sundry issues that got a cold shoulder included changes in the Sunday closing law; required open meetings for public bodies; a 25-cent voter registration law to replace the poll tax; abolition of the death penalty; legalization of horse race betting and mixed drinks; and lowering the voting age to 19 years.

MRS. E. L. MASTERS

Masters Leaving As AF Retiree

Webb Air Force Base is saying farewell this week to one of its popular couples, as Col. E. L. (Frank) Masters, Base Commander for the past ten months, takes his retirement.

A retreat-retirement ceremony is scheduled at Webb Tuesday evening at 5 p.m., and the Masters family will be leaving Wednesday.

Following an extended vacation tour, they will make their home in Sacramento, Calif., where Colonel Masters will become director of adult activities for the Fremont Presbyterian Church.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Numerous social functions honoring the couple have been held the past two weeks, both on Base and in the civilian community.

Colonel Masters came to Webb in January, 1964, and was first assigned as deputy commander for training. A series of illnesses brought about his change of duty. He formerly had been at Randolph AFB as director of the Air Training Command's standardization and evaluation program. In that capacity, he had when heading inspection teams.

Colonel Masters entered the Air Force in 1942, and received his commission through the aviation cadet training program the following year. During World War II he completed 60 combat missions in the American Middle East Theater (Africa and Italy) as a pilot of B-26 bombers.

OTHER STATIONS

He has had duty with the Northeast Air Command, Goose Bay, Labrador; in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C., in personnel work; as squadron commander and wing inspector at Mather AFB, Calif.; as commander at Bainbridge AFB, Ga.; and in an operations post in the Philippines. He holds numerous decorations.

Mrs. Masters is the former Geraldine Dusenbury of Conway, S. C., and they have three children: Donna, married to Robert Mott and living in DeKalb, Ill.; Douglas, 16, who completed his sophomore year in Big Spring High School; and Thomas, 14, freshman in Goliad Junior High.

Mrs. Masters has the distinction to be the first departing Webb wife to win a special citation. Presented recently at an Air Base Group dinner, a certificate honored her as "exemplary wife, mother, homemaker x x x an example of a true Air Force wife."

Mrs. Masters, among other activities, has been a leader in Sunday School work at the Base.

Plug Made For Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every year that a federal office building is not constructed in Dallas, the government pays $1,375,000 rent, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., told the Senate Appropriations Committee Thursday.

For more than a decade Congress has considered the $26 million dollar project, but refused to appropriate money.

President Johnson's Budget Bureau recommended that Congress provide $22 million for the building in the year starting July 1, but the House Appropriations Committee rejected the proposal.

"This building in Dallas is probably as badly needed and as well justified as any other federal building in the country," Yarborough said as he asked that money be added to the pending appropriations bill for independent offices.

Help Equip New Plant, Urge Rehabilitation Center Heads

An all-out, one-shot appeal for help in equipping the new Dora Roberts Rehabilitation building is being launched by the Howard County Rehabilitation center.

The $165,000 structure is nearing completion, and before it can be occupied and utilized effectively, the store of special equipment must be enlarged. Funds are for capital equipment, not operation.

Approximately $15,000 is needed for therapeutical apparatus. An estimated $5,000 could be used to provide waiting room and other urgently needed furniture, said V. Ward Jackson, president of the Center.

Under the chairmanship of Bill Pollard, brochures are being circulated this week to acquaint individuals, businesses and clubs with opportunities to share in the project.

The brochure contains a list, with price, of perhaps a hundred items which are needed. These range from five treatment tables for at $225 each to a few dollars for educational toys. A number of the more critically needed devices are illustrated in the booklet.

Each room in the new center will carry a plaque naming the persons or groups who have provided the equipment valued at over $50. Equipment costing more than $300 will have a bronzed plaque naming the donor attached to the equipment.

"We earnestly urge people in Howard County to look over the list and make a selection of an item they will give," said Pollard. "As they call the center, this item will be taken from the list. Naturally, earmarking of these items will have to be on a first-come, first-served basis."

Those who would like to have a copy of the lists or the brochure, or who would like to make any kind of a gift are asked to telephone AM 3-2880.

Distribution of the booklets, together with appeals for support, will be handed to businesses by Lou Carothers, to service clubs by Joe Pickle, to individuals by James Cape, to Webb AFB personnel and groups by Col. Mount Franz, and to women's clubs by Mrs. Rube McNew.

An hour long television show is being planned for June 8 with Bruce Frazier and Elaine Clark presiding. Regular accounts of gifts will be carried by news media.

Lot Of Prestige Going To Waste Around Here

Financial advisors for the state estimated that the "prestige" car license plates would produce $5,000,000 a year.

They may be right, but so far the apparent maximum return from the plan in Howard County has been $20.

The special plates which are offered this year will be the name, initials, nickname or other special legend wanted by the purchaser. To obtain such a plate, the motorist must get an application blank at the auto tax license office in his county, fill in the desired information and send it with $10 to the state tag office.

The plates will be specially stamped.

They won't be sent back to the purchaser, however. They will be dispatched to the county auto tax office in his county. In order to retrieve them, he must bring in his regular plates and exchange these for his new special tags.

There have only been two motorists who have picked up the required application forms at the Howard County Car tax office. The office has no way of knowing if the persons who obtained the applications sent them in to the state office.

The delivery date for the special tags is Sept. 1.

P.S. The tags are useable on the applicant's vehicle only until the 1966 plates are issued. Then he has to buy new prestige plates. if he wants them.

Early Ruling Expected On Extradition

Jack Eubank, the man New Mexico says it wants to resume an interrupted life sentence for murder, may not have to wait much longer before he finds out what his fate is.

Lanny Hamby, his attorney, said Saturday that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals may advance Eubank's habeas corpus appeal for an early hearing.

The court does not go into its summer recess until June 27, Hamby has been advised that if he sent a letter signed by himself and by Wayne Burns, district attorney, requesting that a speedy decision be reached on the appeal, it is possible it could be heard before recess.

"Mr. Burns and I signed such a letter and sent it to the court," said Hamby. "All papers and exhibits in our appeal are on file. I think there's a good chance the appeal may be heard before the court shuts down for the summer."

Eubank, under conviction for murder and serving a life sentence, escaped from a New Mexico prison farm in 1957. Using the name of Bob Johnson, Eubank established a new life for himself in Big Spring, working as a carpenter. On March 5, Sheriff A. N. Standard received a tip on "Johnson," and he was arrested. He admitted he was Eubank but refused to waive extradition. When extradition was ordered by Gov. John Connally, his attorney filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

This was heard and denied by Judge Ralph Caton in early April. Hamby appealed.

He attacked the warrant on which Eubank was arrested as invalid and argued that evidence on which his arrest was made was insufficient to merit his being extradited to New Mexico. Eubank has been in jail since March 5.

Soviet Newspaper Raps U.S. Movie

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia says the American movie "The Magnificent Seven" has corrupted Soviet youth.

Promoted

Marvin L. Smith, St. Louis, has been elected a vice president of Missouri Pacific Railroad and the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. and will be headquartered in Dallas on June 1. He formerly was vice president-perations for Mo-Pac. Smith started in 1922 at Alexandria, became yardmaster at McGhee, Ark. and Little Rock, then trainmaster and director of terminals in St. Louis before taking the operations post.

Bank Robbery Case First Up

Wayne Burns, district attorney, said Saturday that he plans to call the case against Higinio Soto, accused of bank robbery, as the No. 1 trial when the 118th District Court Criminal Jury docket opens on Tuesday.

"I have talked with Norman Spencer, Soto's attorney," said Burns, "and he has indicated he will be ready to go to trial. The state will be ready."

Soto is one of 15 defendants whose cases are set down on the docket for the week of June 1. Burns said that he has had no indication if any of the defendants intend to enter guilty pleas.

A jury panel is being called by Judge Ralph Caton to report to the court at 10 a.m. June. 1. The docket will be sounded at 10 a.m. Monday. Guilty pleas will be heard at that time.

Soto is accused of robbery by assault. The indictment stems from a holdup he staged on the Security State Bank late last October. He was quickly apprehended and the money recovered. He has been in jail since that time. Soto is a native of Puerto Rico and was here visiting relatives at the time of the alleged offense.

Other defendants and the indictments against them:

Antonio DeLeon, theft; James W. LeMay, robbery by assault; Earnest Henry Jr., burglary; John Detiege, DWI second offense; Daniel A. Rios, murder with a motor vehicle; David Keith Collett, DWI second; Robert DeLeon, burglary; Benjamin DeLeon, burglary; Antonio Bustamente, burglary; Robert Loren Baker, burglary; Elmo Henry, assault with intent to commit murder; Billy Dee Clark, DWI second offense; and T. V. Thompson, theft by bailee.

DOYLE WARREN

Warren Takes Dawson Job

COAHOMA (SC) — Doyle G. Warren will become the assistant county agricultural agent for Dawson County on June 1, according to Extension District Agent Billy C. Gunter, Lubbock.

Warren will replace Danny Stewart, who is resigning to go into ranching with his family.

The new agent has been a junior assistant training agent with the extension service in Lynn County since graduating from Texas Technological College last January.

Dawson County Agent Lee Roy Colgan Jr. said that although he regrets losing the services of Stewart, he feels lucky in getting such a fine replacement immediately.

Warren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Warren. Coahoma. He holds a B.S. in agricultural education from Texas Tech where he was active in a number of agricultural organizations.

Consumers Due Refund Savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has declared that manufacturers will not be given refunds on excise-tax reductions unless they pass savings on to consumers.

If the excise-tax reduction sought by President Johnson becomes law, refunds will be made on automobiles and air conditioners bought after May 14 and on other items bought after July 1.

The IRS said payment to the consumer must be made in either cash or check by the manufacturer or dealer. "No other form of reimbursement, such as a credit on the consumer's account will be acceptable," it said.

White Sox Uncouple Yankees Again, 6-3

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, getting six innings of brilliant pitching from Tommy John, handed New York a 6-3 defeat Saturday, extending the Yankees' losing streak to four games.

John, 22-year-old lefty, yielded a run in the first inning on Bobby Richardson's single and successive walks to Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone. But then he settled down and held New York to one hit through the next five innings.

He turned wild again in the seventh, walking Clete Boyer and throwing a wild pitch before giving up a single to pinch hitter Horace Clarke that scored Boyer. Eddie Fisher came in and put out the fire.

The Sox cushioned John for his fourth victory against two setbacks with two runs in the first off Al Downing. Ron Hansen walked and Bill Skowron, Pete Ward and Ken Berry singled for the runs.

The Yankees loaded the bases off Fisher in the eighth on Mantle's single, an error and a walk but scored only one run — on pinch hitter Ray Barker's sacrifice fly.

Bruce Crampton Takes Indy Lead With 208

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Australian Bruce Crampton, seeking to become the PGA's first triple winner this year, slammed a four-under-par 67 to surge into the 54-hole lead of the $87,000 Speedway Festival Open Saturday.

Crampton's three-round total of 208 moved him two strokes ahead of a trio including Dan Sikes, Miller Barber and Lionel Hebert, all of whom shot third-round 70s and 210.

Greentree's par 35-36—71 becalmed course played much easier after two days of wind and soggy greens had frustrated a field shooting for top money of $15,200.

Crampton, 29, handsome son of a Sydney police officer, fashioned his fine round despite a double bogey six on the 465-yard third hole.

He turned the first nine in 34 and then really went to work on the back nine, scoring birdies successively on the 12th and 13th and another on the 15th.

Crampton, who previously this year won the Bing Crosby and Colonial National, currently ranks fifth in the PGA money winning list with official earnings of almost $28,000.

Only two other players, leading money winner Jack Nicklaus and Doug Sanders, have matched Crampton as a double winner this year.

Rich Rollins Standout In Minnesota Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rich Rollins drove in five runs with a homer, single and double, sparking Minnesota to an 11-8 triumph over Washington Saturday.

Rollin's two-run single in the Twins' five-run sixth inning snapped a 7-7 deadlock. He homered in the fifth following Zorro Versalles' two-out single and doubled home Versalles in the ninth.

The Twins' five-run uprising wiped out a 7-5 Washington lead built partially on home runs by Bob Chance and Ed Brinkman in the fourth and Jim King in the fifth.

Earl Battey started the winning rally with a single, and the Twins loaded the bases on Jerry Kindall's single and a walk to Don Mincher.

Steve Ridzik replaced Buster Narum, but Versalles greeted him with a two-run double that tied the game. Rollins followed with his single, then scored the final run on Joe Nossek's sacrifice fly.

McCovey's Home Run Rescues Giants, 6-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey's 10th homer, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, broke a 4-4 tie and gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday for a sweep of their three-game series.

There were two out in the seventh when Bill McCool walked Dick Schofield. Jesus Alou doubled to left center where Vada Pinson partially got his glove on the ball but couldn't hold it, Schofield scoring to tie the score 4-4. McCovey then hit his homer.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the third when Johnny Edwards doubled and Leo Cardenas singled against Giants' starter Jack Sanford.

Gerry Arrigo, making his first start for the Reds after 10 relief appearances, hit his first major league homer in the fifth off Sanford. The three-run smash made the score 4-0.

Aspromonte Blow Slays Cardinals

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Aspromonte singled home Joe Morgan with the bases loaded in the 10th inning, boosting Houston to a 4-3 triumph over St. Louis Saturday.

Bob Purkey walked Morgan, leading off the inning, and the Astros loaded the bases with one out on Jim Wynn's single and an intentional pass to Walt Bond. Aspromonte followed with a single to right field.

The Cardinals played the game under protest after a play in the eighth on which Tim McCarver lifted a foul fly down the first base line. The umpires ruled McCarver inadvertently bumped catcher Ron Brand, trying for the catch, and was out for interference.

The Astros, held to two hits by Tracy Stallard through seven innings, tied the game with two runs in the eighth. Stallard gave up a leadoff homer to Al Spangler, then had to leave the game. It was announced afterward that he injured his back on the home run pitch.

Compose Front line At Indianapolis

Three race drivers will make up the front row of the pack of 33 cars that will be competing in Monday's 500-mile race at Indianapolis, Ind. They are, from the left, Dan Gurney, Costa Mesa, Calif.; Jim Clark, Duna, Scotland; and A. J. Foyt, Houston. (AP WIREPHOTO).

World's Best Drivers Await Start At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Texan A. J. Foyt, Scot Jimmy Clark and Californian Dan Gurney, each shoehorned into a rear-engine Lotus-Ford, will help start a new era in the 54-year-old 500-mile race Monday.

A trio that has taken specialization out of auto racing, it earned the front row at speeds never reached before on the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

It will pace a field of 27 rear-engine cars evolved from road runners of the world Grand Prix circuit, a couple of Novis and only four of the Offenhauser roadsters which have won every 500 since 1953.

Twelve of the pushers made the 33-car field last year but the favored Lotus-Fords of Clark and Gurney were retired by mechanical difficulties blamed on failure of foreign tires. Foyt came up from a fifth-place start to win in one of the 19 old Offys that started.

WINNERS

The three front-row drivers already had proved that a good one can race anything, anywhere. Clark, world road racing champion in 1963 and No. 3 last year, has led both of his Indianapolis starts and won another U.S. closed course feature, the Milwaukee 200-miler, in 1963.

Foyt is the only driver who has ever won four national championships on the U.S. Auto Club big car circuit since the opening campaign in 1904. He also has captured sports car events and major races on the NASCAR grand national stock car circuit.

Gurney is a regular on the international road racing circuit and was runner-up for the world title in 1961. He has won the January international stock car race at Riverside, Calif., for three straight years.

Parnelli Jones, the only other former winner in the field, will be starting Monday with a fractured bone in his neck, souvenir of another speedway crash May 21. Speedway physicians said it shouldn't bother him.

Foyt has what is basically Clark's 1964 car, but it was rebuilt extensively by U.S. master mechanic Luigi Lesovsky. Clark has a new model Lotus-Ford, a little bigger.

Gurney will carry the colors of the Japanese Yamaha motorcycle builders but he also has a Lotus-Ford. He pulled out of team Lotus, Indianapolis section, to form his own All-American racing team, reputedly financed by Californian Carroll Shelby of Cobra sports car fame.

Gurney's teammates will be charging Roger McCluskey, who has wrecked or spun out in three previous 500 starts, and newcomer Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., USAC stock car rookie of the year for 1964.

Foyt has the exclusive attention of his Sheraton-Thompson crew, but Clark has a new teammate, speedway rookie Bobby Johns of Miami, who is a second generation racer.

As the vanguard of the possible record — but never announced — crowd began filtering into suburban speedway city Saturday night, many veteran fans were saying that this 500 could break patterns in addition to the long Offy reign.

If Clark wins, he will be the first foreign speedway champion since Italian Dario Resta in 1916.

Sacred Heart Cardinals Play In Lamesa Today

The Sacred Heart Cardinals are in Lamesa today where they play the Lamesa White Sox in a return engagement.

Last week the White Sox downed the Cardinals, 4-3, in a 10 inning game here. Joe Cadenhead will toe the mound for the Cardinals. He has a 2-2 record. The Cardinals are 3-4 for the year. Shortstop Pat Martinez Jr. will be out of the line-up for a week with a pulled muscle.

Detroit Nips Clevelanders Behind Lolich

DETROIT (AP) — George Thomas opened the 10th inning with a double and raced home on a double by Dick McAuliffe, giving the Detroit Tigers a 1-0 victory over Cleveland and Jack Kralick behind the two-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich Saturday.

The victory was the second 1-0 decision for Detroit over Cleveland in less than 24 hours and extended the Indians' scoreless inning string to 21. The Tigers also got a two-hitter Friday night with Hank Aguirre outdueling Ralph Terry.

Lolich, now 7-2, allowed only a pair of singles by Leon Wagner, one in the first inning and the other in the fourth. After the second single, Lolich retired 18 straight Indians until he walked Rocky Colavito leading off the 10th.

If a bowler's 1964-65 or current average for 21 games or more is ten pins higher than his previous season, then the 1964-65 or current average must be used.

Tape Measure Homer By Allen Aids Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A two-run tape measure home run by Rich Allen featured a 4-2 victory for the Philadelphia Phillies over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Allen, 1964 National League Rookie of the Year, slammed a first-inning shot off right-hander Larry Jackson an estimated 510 feet.

The ball soared over a 15-foot high sign on top of the left-center field roof and bounced 60 feet up a street across from the park.

The homer highlighted a three-run first inning that included successive doubles by Tony Gonzalez and John Callison for the first run. Allen's blast was his ninth of the season.

Clemente Zeroes In On Met Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — Roberto Clemente kept up his assault against New York pitching Saturday, sparking the Pittsburgh Pirates to their eighth straight victory, 7-4 over the last-place Mets.

Clemente rapped four hits, including a single in the seventh inning that sent in the deciding run. The National League's defending batting champion, who got off to a slow start due to a preseason malarial attack, has seven hits in 10 trips in two games with the Mets, raising his average 29 points to .300.

The Pirates, after trailing twice in the game, clinched it with three runs in the seventh on a walk and four straight singles — all after two were out.

Clemente also tripled in a run and scored in the first, singled in the third, and doubled and scored in the sixth.

Joe Christopher homered with two on in the first, giving the Mets a 3-2 lead.

Smith Enters State Meet

MIDLAND—The field for the annual Men's State Amateur Golf tournament, scheduled to start here June 3, will be limited to 210 players.

Robb Smith, Big Spring; Holly Toler, Hamlin; and Bill Roden, Odessa, are among the latest entries as the list swelled to 192.

The course will be closed Monday to permit officials to prepare the layout for the onslaught of linksters.

The field will be cut to the low 85 and ties after the second round of play June 4. Low 30 shooters and ties will make up the championship flight for the final round of play June 6. Next 30 and ties will compete in the president's flight while the balance of entries will be in the first flight.

Defending champion Marty Fleckman of Houston is an entry, as is David (Spec) Goldman, Dallas, last year's medalist.

Carter To Take College Degree

Walter Carter, all time leading scorer for the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks, is scheduled to graduate from Howard Payne College in Brownwood this August.

Carter was recently named as the outstanding basketball player on the Howard Payne team.

His wife, Jayne, also a former HCJC student, was named the college's outstanding student in the business education department and student teacher of the year.

The two plan to return to their home, Scott County, Virginia after graduation to teach.

Texas Open Purse May Grow

By TOMMY HART

Spike Dykes, the Coahoma football mentor, is thinking seriously of devoting his summer to publishing a series of football booklets on various districts around the area . . . He's acquired the rights for the publications from Bob Carter of Fort Stockton, whose family has come into some money and who is retiring from the endeavor . . . Goose Goslin, the one-time big league hitting great, now runs a fleet of fishing boats in his native New Jersey . . . Eddy Nelson, the HCJC basketball phenom, may have to attend summer school in order to be eligible for the game at Howard Payne College . . . The 1965 Texas Golf Open may become a $100,000 event . . . A real estate promoter there has offered to put up one-fourth of the money for the purse, if the tournament is held on his concern's course . . . Ted Hicks, newest member of the Runnels Junior High coaching staff here, was an all-district football performer at Comanche High School, where he played quarterback, and performed for Arlington State against Cerritos JC in the Junior Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., in 1957, a game the Texans won, 20-13 . . . Hicks was also Honorable Mention All-State his senior year in high school, ran the sprints and hurdles in track and played basketball . . . The 25-year-old Hicks, whose wife, Sandra, is also a teacher, has been here since last January . . . Houston was the first big league team to pass the half million mark in attendance this year but Los Angeles' Dodgers will probably be the first to reach a million . . . When Ole Miss was tied in football by Vanderbilt last fall, 7-7, one Rebel rooter felt so badly about it, he committed suicide . . . Look for Odessa College to firm up its track program, now that its chances have improved to become a four-year school . . . The school has taken on George Roach, formerly Permian High track mentor, as coach of the cinder team . . . Roach will be paid $625 yearly for the chore and expects to remain on as a teacher in the public schools over there . . . Of that Judas kiss between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston that passed for a fight, scribe Jimmy Cannon of New York wrote: "No one ever killed a buffalo with bullets made of lard."

WADE WALKER

* * * *

Don Robbins, the local high school football mentor, leaves Monday to attend Bear Bryant's coaching clinic at Tuscaloosa, Ala. . . . Robbins has been invited to the school, held exclusively for Bear's former players, in other years but hasn't been able to make it . . . From June 26 through July 10, Robbins will be training with the National Guard at North Fort Hood . . . Walter Carter, the former HCJC cage great, reportedly was offered a freshman coaching position at Howard Payne in order to start work toward his master's degree but his wife wanted to return to their native Virginia . . . In that $50,000 National Challenge Match July 22-25 involving Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, the performers will also have an opportunity to make an extra $10,000 . . . Anyone shooting a hole-in-one on the 168-yard ninth hole can pick up the extra change . . . Lloyd's of London is carrying the insurance against such a feat . . . Jim Anderson, the Lamesa footballer, is going to Trinity University on a football scholarship . . . Buddy Travis, the HCJC cage mentor, will have three boys in the Little League program here in 1966 — an endeavor that will keep him hopping, going to and from practice sessions . . . The U.S. Golf Association has placed a ban on five name brand golf balls for failing to conform with velocity regulations of 250 feet per second . . . Players on the Lubbock Monterey baseball club, finest looking team I've seen all season, reportedly work out the year around . . . No restrictions, of course, are placed on baseball drills by the Interscholastic League and the continued success of the team is a tribute to the ability of Bobby Moegle, hard-working coach of the Plainsmen . . . Wade Walker, the former Texas Tech coaching aide, is now being prominently mentioned for the job of commissioner in the Southeastern Conference . . . A fellow named Jeff Beard still has the inside track for the position, however . . . The fight mob will be shooting for a $15 million gross for the Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson fight next year, now that the Early Bird satellite makes it possible for Europeans to be gulled into the places where closed-circuit TV will be offered.

Two of Big Spring's three sandlot baseball teams will take to the field today for a doubleheader at Steer Park beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The Big Spring Tigers, 0-1, and the newest addition, the Gage Oilers, 1-1, will provide the action. Admission will be 50 cents a person for the two seven-inning games.

Billy Rogers will toe the mound for the Tigers in the first game. His opposition will come from the Oilers' Bowman Roberts. The Oilers ace hurler, Chubby Moser, will be out of town today for the game.

Danny Valdes will start the second game for the Oilers with Jim Fierro starting for the Tigers. Bobby Suggs will be ready for relief duty for the Oilers should Roberts or Valdes need it.

Other starters for the Tigers will be Bill Weatherall, first base; Jim Graham, second base; Andy Gamboa, third base; Tom Arista Jr., left field; Bill Pineda, shortstop; Albert Mendoza, center field; Jerry White, right field and Nico Paredez, behind the plate.

The Oilers will likely go with a lineup of Tito Arencibia, first base; Joe Sharpnack, second base; Tommy McAdams, third base; Jerry Barron, shortstop; Jack Blizzard, David Maberry, Tommy Young or Roy New in the outfield and Jim Baum or Dean Christian behind the plate.

Concessions will be on sale during both games.

The Oilers, who are now suiting out in their new toggery, were to have played the Lamesa White Sox originally today but Lamesa cancelled the game.

Baum is still seeking games for five open dates on his schedule. Those are for July 4, July 11, July 18, Aug. 15 and Aug. 22.

Southern University Is Gunning For New Mark

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — An outstanding field that includes 11 defending champions will put one world record and 13 meet marks in danger at the 14th NAIA Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday.

Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., with clockings of 3:05.6, 3:05.7 and 3:06.5 this season, will shoot for the world mile relay record of 3:04.5, held by Arizona State.

Southern's team includes one junior, Theron Lewisn and three freshmen—Anthony Gates, Webster Johnson and Everett Mason.

Among the meet marks in jeopardy are those held by four Olympians—Bob Hayes with a 9.3 in the 100, Ralph Boston's 25-7¼ broad jump, John Pennel's 15-1 pole vault and the 21-flat 220 by the late Stone Johnson.

Richard Stebbins of Grambling, La., with season bests of 9.2 and 20.6, heads the list of challengers. Among 16 NAIA runnrs at 9.5 or better are Ed Roberts of North Carolina College, who finished third for Trinidad in the 200 meters at the Tokyo Olympics.

Norman Tate of North Carolina College, a double winner in the 1964 NAIA, has a best of 25-6 in the broad jump and holds the meet triple jump record of 51-9.

John Camien of Emporia, Kan., State will bid for his fourth straight NAIA mile crown. He holds the record of 4:04.3 and a career best of 4:00.7. He is getting back to top form after a throat infection.

Emporia State, The defending Team Champ, will have trouble repeating with Southern, Grambling and North Carolina College in the picture.

Pepsi Winner By 4-2 Tally

Pepsi brought home three runs in its half of the third inning Friday night to down the Seaboard team, 4-2, in American Softball League action.

The three big runs came on a homer by Charles Boadle with two men out. Ernest Barbee had reached first, via a walk by Seaboard pitcher Gene Simpkins. Rhodes doubled to put Barbee on third when Boadle stepped up to the plate to unload his home run blast.

Joe Blassingame fashioned the win for the Pepsi team and Simpkins was charged with the loss. The 3560th from Webb forfeited its game with Skateland Friday night.

Tide, Steers Ranked 1-2 In Grid Book

LOGAN, Utah — A thorough survey of all major college football teams in the nation shows that Utah State University over the past five seasons has posted a won-lost record that is surpassed by only five other powers in the entire country.

During this resurgence of football at USU the last half decade, starting with the 1960 season and continuing through 1964, the Aggies have won 39 games, lost but 9 and tied 2 for an excellent .800 percentage.

The only teams in the nation which better that standard are Alabama (45-4-1—.910), Texas (44-5-1—.890), Bowling Green (40-6-1 — .862), Mississippi (39 5-4—.854) and Memphis State (38-9-1—.802).

Utah State is tied with Arkansas (40-10-0—.800) for the sixth spot with Louisiana State (37-10-3—.770), Arizona State (37-11-1—.765) and Missouri (36-10-4—.760) rounding out the top ten.

Two of these above mentioned teams, Memphis State and Arizona State, are on the Utah schedule for 1965.

Slot Cars Zoom At Scale Speeds Of 700 mph Or More

By HARDY PRICE

The blue Cobra goes into the last turn too fast, starts to spin-out and crashes over the retaining wall.

As attendants frantically try to get the Cobra back into the race, the bright red Ferrari zips past the finish line and claims top honors.

Sound like Sebring or the Belgium Gran Prix?

Hardly. It is Big Spring, Texas, USA, and the latest hobby craze to sweep the country —slot car racing.

It all started in England around 1948 and invaded these shores in 1953. It lay dormant until about five years ago. Now it is the fastest growing sport hobby in the country.

Slot cars get their name from the slot in each lane of the track on which they run. A fin under the nose of the car slips into the slot. Power comes from electric current picked up by brushes that run along the metal strips flanking the slots.

SPORT-NOT HOBBY

These modern tracks in Big Spring offer slot car racing. They are P&P Raceway at 203 E. 3rd, operated by John Peveto; Model-Rama Speedway at 1105 Eleventh Place, operated by Wayne Jones; Sportsman Toy Land, 1608 Gregg, operated by Bill Talbot.

Peveto, part owner in one, helped build the first commercial track in Texas in Corpus Christi in 1963.

"This is a sport and not a hobby once you get into it," said Peveto. "The cars act just like a real car and it is about the same thing as driving a real car," he continued.

It is not only the youngsters that are interested in slot car racing, but adults as well. Peveto said most track operators would admit that more than 50 per cent of their regular customers are age 18 and above.

In Chicago recently four business executives raced 2,400 scale miles in 12 hours using only tiny headlights attached to the cars for a guide.

DRIVING ART

There is a definite art to driving a slot car, and after trying it once anyone would agree. The correct way to win races is to get the maximum speed on straightaways and enough braking on turns to prevent spin-outs.

These tiny cars reach scale speeds of up to 700 miles per hour and Peveto has one car that has sped to a true 70 miles per hour.

"It's an inexpensive hobby to get into," said Peveto. "For $12 a person can get a good car, motor and handle," he continued.

The handle controls the speed of the car. Most handles in use are of the thumb-grip variety. Push the thumb-grip down and the car speeds up—let up and the car slows down. An average of $3 will cover a handle Peveto said.

BUILD YOUR OWN

Most cars come in kits, complete with motor and tires. The chasis of the car is light-weight metal with a plastic body. Tires are of real rubber, but most tires that come in kits are not good enough to stand up to the powerful electric motors now being built.

Kits range in price from $4 to $12 and the average kit will range around $7. Special racing tires will cost about $2.

"About $35 is all you can spend on one car," said Peveto, "and this is for a car with two engines and using an expensive handle."

Motors range from as little as $3 to as much as $15. The tiny motors are made to turn on the average 20-30,000 rpm's, but some have been made that will turn 80,000 rpm's.

ENGINES CAN BLOW

"Some engines can explode if you don't handle them right," said Peveto. "When this happens all you have is a big ball of busted wire and you have to start over again."

"You would be really surprised at the number of girls that take part in slot car races. One girl in Odessa is just about the best in this part of the country, and the majority of them seem to have a smoother control than boys," he said.

The three Big Spring slot car racing tracks regularly hold races and award trophies for the top winners. It is estimated that more than 350 persons in the city take part in the slot car activities.

Experts Pick A. J. Foyt To Win At Indianapolis

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., will win the rich Indianapolis 500 mile classic Monday, if pre-race selections by the Pure Oil Panel of Experts, nationally recognized racing authorities from all over the country, are any indication.

Of the 58 ballots cast on the outcome of the Indy 500, 21 were cast for Foyt in his record setting Lotus Ford. Speeds predicted for Foyt ranged from a high of 151.002 miles per hour to a low of 140.100.

Jimmy Clark of Duns, Scotland, 1964 world driving champion, was next in line with 14 ballots, and third spot selected by the Pure Oil Panel went to the California road-racing ace, Dan Gurney, with 7 votes.

Rookie Mario Andretti and former 500 winner Parnelli Jones were next with 4 votes each.

Paul Goldsmith, Roger Ward, Jim McElreath, Don Branson, Walt Hansgen, Lloyd Ruby, Len Sutton and Bill Foster each received one vote of confidence.

Champion Could Miss Cut 3rd Year In Row

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Venturi, the defending U.S. Open champion who has been spending more time with doctors than with his golf clubs, shouldn't fret if he plays only half of the National Open at Bellerive.

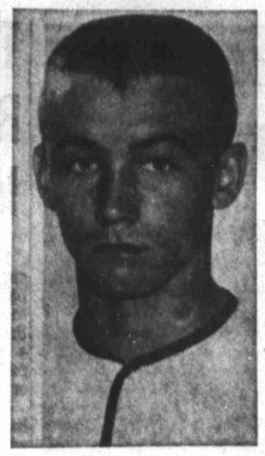

The San Franciscan, trouble since January with poor circulation in his fingers, will join some select company if his score for the first two rounds is not among the low 50 players.

The two previous defending Open champions didn't go all the way either. And one of them was healthy.

Last year, when Venturi won by four shots with a brilliant 278 at Washington's Congressional course, Julius Boros, the 1963 winner at Brookline, Mass., missed the cutoff point by shooting a pair of 77s. Boros, suffering from muscle spasms in his back, missed because a two-day total of 150 was needed to qualify for the final 36 holes.

The same thing happened to Jack Nicklaus. The 1962 winner shot 76-77 and missed the cut by one shot at Brookline. "Nothing is bothering me except myself," the husky Nicklaus said then.

This time the Open will be played in four days, starting June 17, rather than in three.

LEE LEONARD

Eunice Star Is Signed By HCJC

A third basketball player has signed a letter-of-intent to attend Howard County Junior College this spring.

He is Lee Leonard, 17, of Eunice, N.M., 6-feet-2½, who averaged about 18 points a game and picked off an average of ten rebounds. He'll play outside for the Jayhawks, coach Buddy Travis said.

Leonard was also a pitching star on the Eunice baseball team and was a leading factor in the school's successful bid for the 1965 New Mexico State championship.

Lee posted a 10-2 won-lost record in baseball and finished with an earned run average of 1.03. The team had an over-all record of 17-8.

The Eunice basketball team lost to Jal in the district tournament but Leonard scored 25 points, a season's high, in the contest.

His basketball coach was Joe Langston, one-time co-owner of the Big Spring Longhorn baseball league franchise. His mentor in baseball was Martin Wade.

In the state championship game with Laguna Acoma, which Eunice won, 2-0, Leonard went all the way on the mound and allowed only two hits.

Previously, 6-feet-7 Jack Thompson of Ysleta High School and Leon Smith of Austin Anderson High School had been signed by HCJC.

Hamlin Seeking Football Aides

HAMLIN—Hamlin High School is in the market for a couple of coaches to complete the staff of new head coach Joe Youngblood.

A head basketball coach, who could also double as a football assistant and an assistant line coach, are needed.

Least Productive Area Gets Most Allowables

March crude oil production declined 1 per cent after allowance for seasonal factors. At 93.2 per cent of average monthly production during the 1957-59 base period the index was a fraction of a percentage point below March 1964. Crude oil production during the first quarter averaged 94.2 per cent of 1957 - 59, virtually unchanged from the comparable 1964 period. January production of 95.7 per cent of the base value was the highest for the quarter. Each successive month since January has seen a decline in the index: 2 per cent in February and 1 per cent in March.

Total crude oil production in the state for the first two months of the year, as shown in the April issue of "World Oil," amounted to 164.9 million barrels, up 1.1 per cent from 1964. Total production for the United States for the first two months amounted to 463.6 million barrels, up .2 per cent from the comparable 1964 period. Louisiana production for the period was 95.5 million barrels, up 3.4 per cent from 1964. The increase in Louisiana production of 3.1 million barrels exceeded the increase of 1.0 million barrels for the entire United States. Declines in production in other oil producing states reduced the national total for January and February. Of the total Louisiana increase 1.6 million barrels, or 51.8 per cent, was produced by wells in the North Louisiana district. The remaining 1.5 million barrels, or 48.2 per cent, was produced by the South Louisiana district, which includes the vast offshore producing areas.

MORE THAN HALF

When it is considered that 84.3 million barrels of the 95.5 million produced in Louisiana was produced in the South Louisiana district, it seems unusual that more than half of the increease in allowable production was given to North Louisiana producers. The area which produced 11.7 per cent of the Louisiana total received more than 50 per cent of the increase in allowable production during January and February.

Prospects for offshore activity in Texas were enhanced in the first quarter by a sale of leases which brought a record $39 million. This was encouraging evidence that both major oil producers and independents regard the prospects for offshore production in Texas favorably.

Seasonally adjusted crude oil runs to stills were 112.5 per cent of their 1957-59 monthly average in March. This was a fraction of a percentage point above February and virtually unchanged from last year. Crude runs during the first quarter were 1 per cent below the first quarter of 1964.

Demand for gasoline during January and February was .6 per cent below demand during the like 1964 period. Gasoline stocks at the end of February were 5.6 per cent above February 1964. High inventories have resulted in crude runs to stills being held at a steady level.

Seasonally adjusted total consumption of electric power in Texas declined 1 per cent in March as a result of a 4 per cent decline in industrial power consumption. March total power use was 8.3 per cent above March 1964. First quarter total power consumption was 8 per cent above the like 1964 period. This index has shown a strong growth trend for the entire post World War II period.

Electric Pipe Testing Tool Now Available

Use of the first electric wireline pipe testing tool which permits continuous downhole testing of an entire tubing or casing string, for high or low pressure leaks, has been announced by Worth Well Services, Inc. The new tool is run in connection with conventional cable head, sinker bar and mechanical jars without special crews or equipment.

Heart of the tool is a 75-volt, .1-amp electric motor which sets the packing element. Pressure applied at the wellhead through the tool sets hydro slips. When wellhead pressure is relieved, the slips are automatically released. The motor is reversed to retract the packing element.

About five minutes are required to expand the packer to hold position. It is released in about 30 seconds. Wellhead pressures up to 9,000 pounds per square inch may be safely applied. The tool will hold up to 20,000 pounds per square inch.

"We are pleased to be the first to offer this new tool," says LeRoy Billingsley, Odessa, vice president in charge of field operations. "Our records show significant cost and time savings over earlier methods. We expect to see a growing demand for its use."

The calculated open flow of gas was 2.1 million cubic feet per day, and the 51-gravity distillate yield at 19 barrels per million cubic feet of gas.

Lario Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Moorhead, 990 from the north and 467 from the west lines of section 25-25, H&TC, is in the process of completing. Operator rated 137 barrels of oil per day in the Pennsylvanian and perforated above 7,000 to complete dually in the Wolfcamp. Final reports are due within a couple of days.

Gas Sales May Break Record

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The 1965 spring-summer gasoline consuming season may break records.

Gasoline inventories have dropped rather sharply from their March peak despite refiners maintaining production well above last year.

The heavy demand season starts in early April and moves into full swing in early June.

After recording steady increases in gasoline demand for 1963 and 1964, domestic refiners prepared for 1965 by boosting inventories to a record level.

Gasoline stocks reached an all time high of 232 million barrels the week ending March 26. This was 16 million barrels above the year earlier peak and 6 million above the previous all time high set in 1961.

Between March 26 and May 14, motor fuel inventories dropped 14 million barrels. The comparable decline in 1964 amouted to only 6 million barrels.

The 14 million barrel decline developed despite a high level of gasoline output. Domestic refiners, operating at 84.4 per cent of capacity, processed more 31.4 million barrels of gasoline a week the four weeks ending may 14. This output exceeded year earlier gasoline production by almost 500,000 barrels a week.

'SENIORS'

Billy Wayne Carlile

Billy Wayne Carlile has been a billing clerk at Cosden's refinery for over a decade. During that period he has seen billing operations keep in step with the times. When he first assumed this job, manifests were completed in pencil. Sometime later pencils yielded to typewriters. Six years ago, flexowriters moved in to streamline the task.

This senior is well into his 16th year at Cosden. The native Big Springer had graduated from the local high school and served in the Army for a year before joining the company on Oct. 12, 1949, as a yardman. Twelve months later the Army Reservist was recalled for a year's duty as a combat infantryman in Korea.

When he returned to Cosden he entered refinery sales as a dockman. Promotion to billing clerk was followed in 1956 by the designation of senior billing clerk.

Shirley Hunada of Colorado Springs was visiting her sister in Midland when she met Carlile. They were married Nov. 22, 1952. She is employed in the business services office at the VA Hospital.

The Carliles, who live at 1110 Mt. Vernon, have two children. Gregory Scott, 10, just finished fourth grade at Washington Place School. His father has been coaching in the American League for three years, so Scotty is a natural for Little League. Mike, who is 3, will doubtless follow the pattern, too.

The whole family water skis at Lake J. B. Thomas. Their church home is First Methodist. Carlile is a Mason.

HONORED RECENTLY was Mrs. Joe Jacobs, 1605 Lancaster, president of the local unit of Gold Star Mothers Inc. She was awarded a state position at the May 1 convention in Dallas when she was elected first vice president of the Department of Texas.

CAKE AND COFFEE, homemade and delicious, is furnished once a month by the Gold Star Mothers for patients at the Veteran's Administration Hospital. On these mornings, a serving area is set up in the hospital kitchen where the men may help themselves to the refreshments of their choice. Mrs. Harry Lees, left, is the group's representative to the hospital. She is assisted in serving by Mrs. Domingo Abreo and Mrs. S. R. Nobles.

MEMORIAL DAY - '65

By JO BRIGHT

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Joe Jacobs, president of the local unit of American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., will be provided a military escort from Webb AFB as she walks to the flag pole on the grounds of the Veteran's Administration Hospital. There, at its base, she will place a wreath in memory of men who died for their country and in respect for those who served it honorably.

In so doing, Mrs. Jacobs represents local women who are members of Gold Star Mothers and carry on the organization's work in memory of their sons.

The men who gave their lives and are being remembered today by this group of mothers are Travis Lee Smith, Salvador B. Abreo, Edwin G. Christensen, Cecial E. Edmonson, Roy Gene Franklin, Joe M. T. Lusk, Stephen E. Nobles, Charles Blakely Talbott, C. B. South, Clifford J. Clyburn, Raymond Jackson, John Lees, Charles Moody, Robert L. Smith and Jake Trees.

It is the aim of the Gold Star Mothers to aid men and women who served and were wounded or incapacitated in World War I and World War II, and to inculcate lessons of patriotism and love of country in the communities in which they live.

The group strives to inspire respect for the Stars and Stripes in the youth of America and to promote peace between the United States and all other countries.

On this special day, the association of mothers will join the community in perpetuating the memory of those whose lives were sacrificed in wars.

A CHARTER MEMBER of the Gold Star Mothers Inc., Department of Texas, is Mrs. Sallie Edmonson, right, who now resides at Bennett House. Many of the group's members visit with Mrs. Edmonson, and here she discusses the news with Mrs. E. G. Christensen who holds membership in the organization.

MEMORIAL SERVICES are held each May by the Gold Star Mothers who utilize a Bible, the American flag, the unit charter and banner in forming an alter where the formal ceremony is held. Mrs. A. W. Moody, left, is the chaplain, and Mrs. Jerome Lusk, right, is second vice president. Mrs. Herbie Smith, secretary, was unable to be present for the picture.

THE LOCAL UNIT of American Gold Star Mothers Inc., was chartered May 30, 1950, with 22 members. Mrs. Joe Jacobs, current president, served also as its first president, and the group still has 16 women holding membership. Viewing the framed charter are Mrs. C. B. Guinn-Walker Vows Recited In Baptist Church Saturday

Miss Carolyn Walker became the bride of Aubrey Lepold Guinn in a ceremony performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the College Baptist Church. The Rev. Byron Orand, pastor, officiated for the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Edwin Walker, 2603 Cindy Lane, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guinn, 2615 Lynn.

The altar, illuminated by wedding tapers, was graced with arrangements of white gladioli, stock and Majestic daisies accented by palms of jade foliage. The bridal aisle leading to the altar was marked by rosettes of white satin.

Mrs. Ray Dabney, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Morris Sewell as she sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace, the molded bodice featuring long lace sleeves ending in petal points over the wrists and fastening with tiny self buttons. The bouffant skirt came to an inverted V at the front and was caught at the peak and on the sides with fabric roses. Extending from the lace overskirt was a deep tulle ruffle. Her waist-length veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a semi-crescent arrangement of white stephanotis and orchids showered with French picot ribbon.

ATTENDANTS

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her aunt, Mrs. Royce Rainey. The bridesmaids were Miss Linda Edwards and Miss Susie Horbath. Their street-length dresses of yellow peau de soie featured scooped necklines and belled skirts. They wore elbow-length gloves and headpieces formed of peau de soie bows touched with veiling. Each carried a cascade of yellow carnations backed with tulle and satin leaves.

The best man was Ronnie Ward, and groomsmen were Paul Guinn and Alan Clanton. Ushers were Donnie Anderson and Pete Sanderson, and Robert Wilson served as ring bearer. The altar tapers were lighted by Carlene Walker, the bride's sister, and Judy Tinsley, Haynesville, La., aunt of the bride.

Diana Rainey, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl and wore a dress of yellow peau de soie and silk organza with matching headpiece and gloves.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride and bridegroom were joined in the receiving line by their parents, the feminine attendants and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Tinsley, Haynesville, La., grandparents of the bride.

A floor-length cloth of white cutwork organza covered the three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom in a heart of white lace and yellow roses. The centerpiece was of white stock, yellow carnations and tea roses, and crystal and silver appointments were used.

Guests were registered by Mrs. W. H. Ward Jr., and members of the house party were Miss Brenda Gray, Miss Nancy Sessions, Mrs. Ronnie Teague, New Orleans, La., and Miss Debbie LeBouf, Lubbock.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Walker, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Monroe, La.; and Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Anderson, Stanton.

WEDDING TRIP

For a wedding trip to Dallas and points in Louisiana, the bride chose a three-piece suit of yellow linen with a large picture hat and black patent accessories. She wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet. Upon returning, the couple will reside at 1012 E. 20th.

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, was a member of the DE Club, choir, and Future Homemakers of America. She is now employed at the Security State Bank.

The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring Senior High School and attended Howard County Junior College. He is employed by Nabor's Paint Store.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guin hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday in the Blue Room of Cosden Country Club. Guests included the family and members of the bridal party, and the honored couple presented gifts to the attendants.

Feel Better With Hearty Breakfast

To feel your tip-top best in the morning, you need to eat a "real" breakfast. Whether you are a homemaker, a day worker or an office executive, your most productive working hours usually are in the morning.

A real breakfast includes protein foods such as bacon, eggs, ham and sausage. Sausage is a popular protein food which may come to the breakfast table in several different forms, including sausage patties, sausage links, canned pork sausage and ready cooked sausage.

Eating a hearty, protein-rich breakfast does not interfere with a weight-reduction program. If a person eats a good breakfast every morning, he'll not be tempted to stuff at other meals of the day or eat in-between meal snacks.

Woman's Forum Receives Award

The Woman's Forum has received a certificate of award from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs for placing third in the Historical Tours Division of the Texas Heritage Department. The club's report was written by Mrs. Joe Pickle and had previously won first place in the Western District.

Organizing Cosmetics Saves Time

In this busy world many make-up minutes may be saved and greater beauty acquired by maintaining a well - organized dressing table.

When you search through a drawer or make-up case scattered with disorganized requisites to find the colors and items required for a certain look, it is not only time-consuming, but often the make-up you need is never found. Organize your requisites by first grouping each make-up type together.

All of your foundation make-ups, regardless of how many shades you have, should be in one place. Most packages have shade names on the bottom labels; therefore, arrange them with the shade names in view so you may instantly select the color you need.

Lipsticks and eye shadow sticks may be separately grouped in containers with divided sections so the names of the colors are easily seen. Keep make-up brushes clean and in a box where they will not become soiled.

Follow this procedure with all other make-up requisites, and you will have extra time and patience to create the beauty you desire.

Bedroom Decor Needs Pick-Up

If your bedroom decor needs a spring pick-up, just change the bedspread.

New cotton bedspread styles for spring are standouts in color and pattern, guaranteed to brighten the drabbest bedroom.

The National Cotton Council reports that lively, vivid colors are the rule, especially in woven spreads. In a change of pace from the one-color look, patterned spreads are tops for spring. Richly colored florals and large block checks are favorite choices.

Even gingham checks, a bedspread classic, are brought up to date with modernistic contrasting colors, like red with gold, or turquoise with blue.

VA 'Candy Stripers' Receive Orientation

Benjamin Franklin once said, "Do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of."

Fifty-one area young men and women are taking heed of Old Ben's advice and, their school books barely closed, have signed up to work as Youth Volunteers at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital. Thursday morning they took time out from a busy orientation and training program as the hospital staff honored them at a social hour.

FELLOWSHIP

The entertaining area was decorated in red and white, the colors of the "Candy Stripers," the name by which youth volunteers serving in hospitals throughout the country are known. A floor-length white satin cloth covered the refreshment table where a centerpiece of red and white carnations matched the pinafores of the girl volunteers. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Official hostesses were Mrs. Donald D. Van Meter, wife of the hospital director; Mrs. Phil Hines, secretary to the chief, Medical Administrative Service; and Miss Charlene Goins, assistant chief nurse for Nursing Education.

During the general orientation, C. W. McDonnell, chief, Medical Administrative Service, presided and the invocation was by Chaplain C. O. Hitt. Donald D. Van Meter, hospital director, welcomed the volunteers.

SPEAKERS

Speakers were Dr. H. C. Ernsting, Charles R. Miller, Dean Lagerstrom, Henry Dirks, Louis H. Gore, Rex Bishop, Mrs. George Zachariah, Chaplain Hitt, Harold L. Lyles, Miss Bessie Love, Miss Goins and teer director.

After lunch, the group toured the hospital, had a Coke break, and were given their assignments. In the afternoon, the volunteers met with chiefs of divisions and services for training and scheduling. Their tour of duty will begin Tuesday morning.

This is the seventh year that young people from Big Spring and the surrounding area have served as youth volunteers at the hospital. They are sponsored by various organizations—American Legion Auxiliary, American Red Cross, P-TA City Council, Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, Future Homemakers Association, and the National Junior Honor Society.

ACQUIRE SKILLS

Assignments are made based on the youth's acquired skills, talents and interests, and, in many instances, their future career plans. For those who are contemplating health careers, the youth volunteer program provides a good training ground.

They soon discover it takes occupations and skills in practically every field to operate a hospital—doctors, nurses, janitors, electricians, secretaries, clerks, gardners, dieticians, telephone operators, bakers, and X-ray technicians—to name just a few.

Sixteen of this year's group are returning for the second summer and four for the third year. Taking advantage of the opportunity to learn more about his planned career of biochemist is John Callihan. He has put in almost 1,000 hours working in the hospital's laboratory doing everything from washing the glassware to filing slides and assisting the technicians in the performance of tests. Three young ladies plan to travel from Odessa to work in the laboratory and nursing service.

The youths have their own newspaper designed to keep each other informed of the activities they are performing throughout the hospital as well as to pass on necessary information. Ann Bennett will be traveling from Coahoma to serve as editor and Judy Caddell will do the art work for the paper.

Club Exchanges Favorite Recipes

Favorite recipes were exchanged among the members of the Center Point Home Demonstration Club at their Friday afternoon meeting. The group met in the home of Mrs. J. R. Petty, 1013 Sycamore.

The program session was opened with "My Favorite Food" roll call. Mrs. L. J. Davidson and Mrs. Petty presented a program entitled, "Meals You Eat Alone."

Mrs. Alden Ryan was named nominee for delegate to the Texas Home Demonstration Association convention, and Mrs. Bob Wren was chosen alternate.

Mrs. Mack Sunday was a visitor, and Mrs. Ernest Lillard won a special prize.

Tile Terrace Cuts Down On Mowing

For the homemaker who needs a clincher in her campaign for a new terrace, save this for the finale: every square foot of paved terrace means a square foot less lawn to mow.

A spacious terrace of weatherproof, easily - maintained ceramic mosaic or quarry tile means that the family lawn mower can spend more time at ease in the shade.

Washing, Drying Helps Repainting

If the old paint on your home is just faded, dirty and chalking, the only preparatory work needed is to dust the surface before painting, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

An extremely dirty surface can be washed with a mild synthetic detergent and rinsed thoroughly with water. Allow the surface to dry before painting. Remove loose, flaking or blistering paint with a wire brush and scraper.

New Dust Cloth

Fasten a piece of cloth to a yardstick with a thumb tack to clean hard-to-get-at spaces.

Garage Cupboard Enlarges Kitchen

No space for canned goods in the kitchen? If the garage is close by, why not build canned goods cupboards there?

An unfinished interior garage wall is especially ideal for the job because you can work with the exposed studs for your cabinet supports. Keep the cabinets shallow — no more than the depth of three No. 2 cans.

Be sure to vary shelf spacing to allow for tall bottles and cans of shortening, as well as for standard size fruit and vegetable cans.

If the garage adjoins the house, try to locate the cupboards on the joining inside wall for the sake of insulation. If that's not possible, use one-inch-thick ponderosa pine boards for cabinet backs as well as for shelving and doors. You can use ordinary pine boards for the backs and shelves. For doors, use tongue - and - groove stock, held by a Z brace.

Identify Valves

Tag or identify all valves in your home so that water can be shut off if an emergency arises, suggests the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Wouldn't it be nice if all wives could be presented with a plaque or something of that nature that could honestly state they were good mamas, good housekeepers, good cooks, good wives, good drivers, of good disposition and looked good, too?

I know a goodly number who would fit into most of these categories but not very many who will measure up to all of them. Out at Webb AFB they have recently noted a Webb Officers wife who they think measures up to this and perhaps just a little more. She is MRS. E. J. MASTERS who was presented a plaque upon which all these qualifications were inscribed. She is the first to receive such an honor, I am told. Perhaps there are others who will qualify but the Masters are leaving the service so she gets to be told about how much the Webb people appreciate her now.

At a party Thursday evening we enjoyed a little goodbye visit with charming Mrs. Masters as well as with personable MRS. L. J. McNEIL, attractive MRS. TOM NORMILE and friendly MRS. C. N. WAHL. It was pleasant to chat with MRS. J. E. REDDEN who is just about recovered from a near tragic accident.

We always have the feeling of visiting with the home folk when we chat with MRS. CHARLES PENN, MRS. A. F. TAUTE, MRS. B. F. MEACHAM, MRS. J. B. BAIRD and MRS. GEORGE FRANKS. When it comes their time to move on we'll feel as though part of our family has moved.

• • •

Part of our family really has moved. MRS. MILLER HARRIS left Friday morning to join Mr. Harris at their new ranch home in Durango, Colo. Her father, J. B. PICKLE, accompanied her and will visit for a while before returning here.

MRS. JIMMY DAVID WILLIAMS

Curley's Studio

Miss Nobles Weds Jimmy D. Williams

Miss Charlotte Elaine Nobles became the bride of Jimmy David Williams Saturday evening in a double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 o'clock in the Wesley Methodist Church. The Rev. Jim Sharp officiated for the nuptial rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coleman, 1608 Cole Lane, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Williams of Spur.

The vows were exchanged before a candlelit altar graced with tall white candelabra holding cathedral tapers and forming an arch. Centering the arch was an arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. The couple knelt on a white prie dieu made of white wought iron draped with satin roping.

Mrs. J. P. Aslin, organist, accompanied Mrs. Carl Bradley as she sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." Mrs. Aslin also played traditional wedding selections.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her step-father. She was attired in a white peau de soie wedding gown with a rounded neckline embroidered with seed pearls. The dress had long fitted sleeves fashioned with tiny self buttons and formed soft points over the wrists. The semi-fitted formal skirt extended into a chapel train, and the veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl crown.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white glamelias backed in satin and pearl leaves showered in white picot satin and carried atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Donald Newell of Garland, attended the bride as matron of honor. She and the bridesmaid, Miss Cindy Nobles, a cousin of the bride, wore identical gowns of soft yellow satin with fitted bodices and short belled skirts. They wore tiny ring hats topped with net and carried nosegays of yellow irises tied in matching satin.

Serving as best man was Dwain Rowland of Plains. Ushers were Tim Smith and James Alberding of Plains. The altar tapers were lighted by Steve Coleman, brother of the bride.

WEDDING TRIP

For a trip to Oklahoma and Kansas the bride wore a three-piece yellow knit suit with white accessories. Upon returning, the couple will make a home at 118 Ave. V, Apt. 4, in Lubbock.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Joining the couple in the receiving line were the bride's parents, the bridegroom's parents and the wedding party. Mrs. Donald Gregory of Denton was in charge of the register.

Hi-Bye Coffee Held At Webb

An old time ice cream parlor was the setting Thursday for the "Hi and Bye" coffee in the Officer's Open Mess at Webb AFB. Participating as hostesses were representatives of all classes on base except the arriving and departing classes.

The center of attraction was an old-time table and chairs placed before a backdrop of an ice cream parlor. Nearby, the refreshment table was centered with a large decanter filled to resemble different flavors of ice cream and topped with whipped cream and cherries. The arrangement was flanked by two ice cream sodas, and name tags were shaped like cones. Candy sticks were wrapped and given at the door.

Ingredients were provided and guests invited to make their own ice cream sundaes. Also, coffee and fruit punch were served with cookies.

Entertainment was provided by having someone improperly dressed and letting the guests discover the mistake. Mrs. J. H. Kiehle and Mrs. R. L. Counts were awarded prizes for seeing that Mrs. August F. Taute wore mismated earrings.

Farewells were said to Mrs. Ronald McKinley, Mrs. Louis Soder, Mrs. J. R. Berger, Mrs. Milan Zimer, Mrs. Stephen Cortright, Mrs. John Hassmann, Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mrs. Ron Sjolander, Mrs. Robert Myers, Mrs. Tom Clark, Mrs. Earl Henderson, Mrs. Larry Rucker, Mrs. D. C. McDowell, Mrs. S. W. Edlund, Mrs. Gary Baker and Mrs. John Pankhurst. All are wives of students. Goodbyes were said to Mrs. R. L. Counts, whose husband is a member of the permanent party.

New permanent party members welcomed were Mrs. Richard Speros and Mrs. James Beard.

New student wives who were introduced were Mrs. J. R. Cross, Mrs. John Cantwell, Mrs. Paul Tiley, Mrs. P. A. Gardinier, Mrs. W. L. McEathron, Mrs. R. E. Milne, Mrs. J. D. Eustes, Mrs. Stan Menze, Mrs. D. E. King, Mrs. Bill Stocker, Mrs. Guy Smith, Mrs. Taylor Eubank, Mrs. F. Peter Clements and Mrs. Jerry Patton.

Students of the Farrar Private School will enact a miniature version of the opera, "Hansel and Gretel," at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Municipal Auditorium.

The opera, by Engel Humperdinck, is set in the German forest of the legendary children's story of Hansel and Gretel, a witch and the gingerbread house.

The three-act production includes stage settings of the forest and a cottage. A series of musical numbers includes a duet to the words, "The Witch Is Dead," by Hansel and Gretel and a chorus by the group of gingerbread children, "The Spell Is Broke," which marks the climax of the opera.

The opera is being directed by Mrs. Betty Farrar Deza and Mrs. A. Farrar.

In the four lead roles are C. M. Wozencraft, as Hansel; Betsy Burleson, as Gretel; Diane Tipton, as the mother; and Marvin Burleson, as the father.

In act II, a group of angels are played by Carol Duggan, Linda Beaird, Barbara Dirks, Debbie Morphis, Vickie Hines, Starla Johnson, Lynne Sanders, Janie Fulcher, Oris Blackwell, Debbie Hoover, Susan Beaird, Anice Fulcher, Halena Wozencraft and Ann Puckett. Playing the sandman will be Ricky Willoughby.

The gingerbread children of Act III are played by Doug Ballard, Linda Ballard, John Gwyn, Maridene Margolis, Doug Mayes, Mary John Cherry, Donald Wiehe, Candy Middleton, Jeffrey Huddleston, Cynthia Smith, Tammy Hart, Debbie Thompson and Cheryl Lieber. Skirts Expanding To Smooth Fabric

Floating into spring, gentle young suits are all-girl with their pretty pastels, refined fabrics and moving skirts. Following the lines of the figure they are neither indented sharply at the waist nor too boxy. They are just flatteringly skimming.

The official edict is "longer jackets" — but the day of the uniform is past. There are hip-level jackets for those who look best in them, and top of the hip jackets that go well with the shorter, fuller skirts.

And skirts are shorter and fuller! High - fashion length shows the knee; more conservative skirts end just at the knee.

Suit skirts are full of charm as well as full. They are gathered or pinch - pleated from waist or hip. They can have inverted or unpressed pleats, but the big commotion is about motion in skirts.

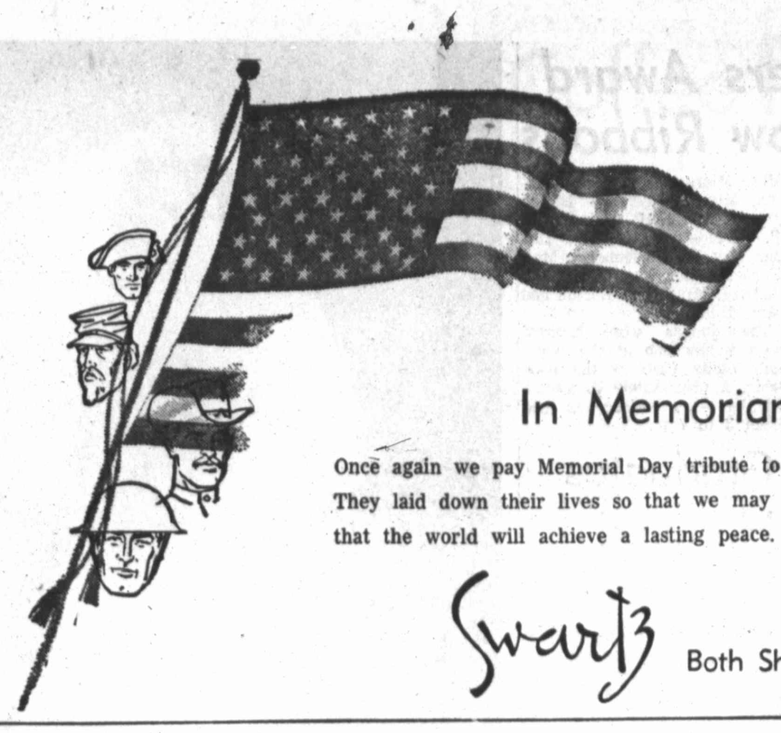

The various types of pleats continue, with a fresh move toward the dirndl or gathered skirt.

Jacket shaping moves to the front, with easy back, shoulderlines in the news. The line is narrow and high, and sleeves are most often set in.

Important entrant is the leather - belted suit. Silhouette here focuses on a hipline jacket, softly belted below the natural waistline.

Costume suits are given new zest with color and fabric. There is hardly a suit that doesn't have its own blouse, which puts it right into the costume class.

Suit fabrics are smooth and sleek in sharkskins, chiffons, flannels, gabardines, Spotlighted are refined, flatter woolens and worsteds, often double-woven to hold the supple line.

Explaining Uniform Care

Foreman Jimmy Graham of the City of Big Spring talks to this sanitation department crew on the care of their uniforms and equipment. City crews have now completed a trial year of uniform use, with the plan termed successful by city officials. Shown are, from left, W. C. Reynolds, Tommy Arista Jr. and Odder Johnson.

City Employes Look Sharp, Work Better In Uniform

By PRESTON MAYNARD

A program providing uniforms for City of Big Spring workers and their supervisors has been termed a success after its first year of trial.

"Public reaction has been far better than we hoped, and it is a great morale factor as far as the men are concerned," City Manager Larry Crow said.

When the program was initiated about a year ago, water, sewer, street, traffic and sanitation workers were placed in uniforms, during a period of several months. This year parks workers are being included.

ONE OF FEW

Big Spring became one of the few Texas cities providing uniforms for all work crews in addition to fire and police personnel. For a number of years some cities have provided uniforms for sanitation crews, while others have included some additional workers.

"We explored the possibility of buying uniforms, but found it would not be economical," Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson said. The city commission then approved a plan to use uniforms normally furnished by rental agencies. Three changes each week are now provided at $2.15 per worker per week, or a clean uniform every second day.

The plan originated about 18 months ago when concern arose about identification of city workers who must pass near private property.

THE UNIFORM

"Our meter readers and sanitation department employes, for example, work through all areas of the city," Crow said. Men in ordinary work clothes, unidentified and near residences, could easily be mistaken as prowlers.

With the change, the men wear a gray uniform (its attractive and doesn't show dirt easily) with a City of Big Spring patch over one shirt pocket and another patch bearing the individual's name over the other. A white shirt is worn by supervisory personnel. Patches are white with blue lettering and yellow trim.

For winter, the uniform contains a light blue, washable dacron and cotton jacket with a removable quilted liner. For headgear, the employes are furnished an aluminum safety hat.

"In an industrial community such as ours, these are commonly worn and are considered a symbol of skilled labor," Crow said.

There have been individual problems in the change. A few employes felt the uniform idea was a good one but that they could continue their individualistic headgear, or else make some other exception. However, pressure of co-workers has usually eliminated this problem.

HARD HATS

"There was little point in putting employes in neat uniforms if they were to wear an assortment of headgear ranging from cowboy-type straw hats in varying shades of repair to hunting caps and old felt hats," Crow said. An inexpensive ski cap cap was first selected, but did not prove satisfactory. The aluminum hat proved to be the answer, combining a safety factor with its protection from a hot West Texas sun in summertime. Liners with ear flaps are used in winter months.

Whether improved performance will cover the cost of this fringe benefit is debatable, said Crow, but improvement in morale has splashed over into greater awareness of the men's equipment, its care and appearance. As a result, an effort has been made to upgrade standards and appearances of city vehicles.

Viet Nam Vet Longs For News

When you are 19 and far away from home on a tropical beach with the improbable name of Chu Lai, it is most understandable you develop a hankering for news of what's going on back home.

More than that — when the only printed information which reaches your hands is a small two-sheet mimeographed paper, you want to know what's going on out in the world at large.

In fact, according to Thomas H. Hines, with the Seabees in South Viet Nam, you just hardly know about anything except but about the tiny strip of beach on which you are busy building an air strip.

And, as he recently wrote his mother, Mrs. Stella Mallory, 1804 Benton, you are not even really in close touch with the war.

"The fighting," he said in his letter, "is four miles from where we are. So don't worry about me."

But what Hines wants is news. So he has written to the Big Spring Daily Herald, asking what it will cost him to have The Herald sent airmail. Since Thomas was once a route carrier on this newspaper, he has a special interest in this paper.

He enclosed a copy of the mimeographed newssheet distributed to the members of his Seabee outfit. It is captioned "The Ten Scoop." The date line is Chu Lai, South Viet Nam. The issue he sent is dated May 19. Most of the paper is devoted to comments on the work the Seabees are doing on the beach. It contains a complimentary statement from the commanding admiral to the group on its achievement. It lists the church services on the base. It has a brief report of how a bomb-laden B-57 accidentally exploded and killed 21 Americans on the Bien Hoa airfield. There is also a short item on the Dominican situation — just enough, it would seem, to whet the appetite of the reader.

THOMAS HINES

Thomas says in his letter that this sheet is the only source of information that his outfit has with the outside world other than letters from relatives at home.

He landed at Chuai Lai on May 7. He wrote Mrs. Mallory that he had heard it was reported there were 3,000 Seabees in the project. "We've really got only 600," he reported.

Thomas is a native Big Springer. He attended school here. He enlisted in the Seabees in 1963 at the age of 17.

His official address is Thomas H. Hines, U.S. Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Ten, FPO San Francisco, Calif., 96601.

Office Course Due Extension

The Vocational Office Education program began by Big Spring Senior High School in January will be continued as a two-semester course next year.

Of the 27 girls who obtained part-time office positions this semester, 17 will continue either on a part-time or full-time basis at least for the summer, Mrs. Harlan Huibregtse, coordinator, stated. Many will continue on a part-time basis in the fall while entering Howard County Junior College. Five of the 27 plan to attend other colleges, three are moving from the city, and one is seeking full-time employment. Nine of the girls either are already married or plan summer weddings but wish to continue pursuing an office career.

Equipment purchased especially for the course includes two calculators, two 10-key adding machines, two full-key adding machines, a spirit duplicator, a mimeograph machine, a copying machine, a posting machine, and three kinds of electric typewriters.

The students attend school one-half day and receive on-the-job training in a local business office.

Continuing Hail Check

General Adjustment Bureau's special storm damage office on Runnels has already processed more than 600 claims for damages from recent hail storms. The adjusters think that only about half of the claims they will have to check, have been filed as yet.

The spokesman said that he anticipates his crew will be on duty an additional two or three weeks at the least before they can complete the work here.

No estimate on dollar damage was available. Many of the claims are small, adjusters said.

Majority of the claims are for roofs battered by the hail. Only a few cases of car or siding damage have been filed. There have been only a few glass claims.

The adjusters said the bulk of the damaged roofs were composition type. Shingled roofs escaped with little harm from hail.

Ballots Readied For Bond Vote

Ballots to be used in the proposed $600,000 road bond election on June 22 are now being printed, Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said Friday.

The approved text of the ballots has been received from the county fiscal agent who is preparing all material for the election.

The ballot reads simply: "Vote for the expression of your choice by marking out the statement 'for' or the statement 'against' the proposition below:

"For the issuance of bond and the levy of ad valorem taxes in payment thereof.

"Against the issuance of bonds and the levy of ad valorem taxes in payment thereof."

The bond issue is to provide the county with funds to acquire essential right of way for several major road projects. Most important of these is the proposed west leg if FM 700 from Goliad Street to rejoin US 80 west in the general area of Webb AFB. A second project is the proposed extension of FM 700 from its present intersection with IS 20 east of town to join the Snyder highway. A third is a grade separation at Gregg and Marcy.

Absentee voting for this election will open June 2 and close at 5 p.m. on June 18. The June 22 balloting will be a county-wide election with all of the county's 20 voting places in operation. It will be the first election in which the county's four new voting precincts will be activated. These four boxes, Nos. 17, 18, 19 and 20, were created to comply with a new law which bans voters living outside the urban limits of a city balloting in boxes within the city.

Mrs. Petty said that voters living in Precinct 17 will vote at the residence of Gerald Harris, Rt. 1. Wesley Yater, formerly an election official at the Northside Fire Station box, will serve as assistant for Harris.

Voters balloting in Precinct 18 vote at the Byron Neel residence, 2605 E. 25th Street, with Neel as judge and Thelbert Camp as his assistant.

Precinct 19, with M. A. (Slick) Boalter as judge, votes in the Elbow School house. Jack McKinnon is assistant judge.

Precinct 20 voters ballot at the Crest View Baptist Church. Mrs. Riley McCullough is judge.

Mrs. Petty said that she has ordered 6,000 ballots for the bond election.

Post Office Grounds In For Beautification Job

Big Spring Post Office building and grounds will be prettied up.

The post office, according to Elmer C. Boatler, postmaster, is participating in President Johnson's Natural Beauty program. He said that he had been asked by Postmaster General John A. Gronauski (along with the nation's other 34,000 postmasters) to seek the advice and help of local garden clubs in a plan to make the post office installations look better.

He took the matter to the Big Spring Garden Club, and that organization enthusiastically accepted the invitation.

Mrs. Garner McAdams, Mrs. Obie Bristow and Mrs. Alan Hamilton immediately began work on a plan for the grounds. The plans have been completed and have been approved by the post office officials.

Work cannot get under way before July 1 due to the lack of funds. However, Boatler said, he was instructed to proceed at once to get bids on the job.

Meantime, he said, the exterior of the building is being painted and cleaned. This is the first step. He said that he told the garden club members that the government would not go for expensive shrubbery or trees or plants which would require special care and attention.

They prepared a program, with drawings to show how the project would look, he said.

Boatler, in all probability, will receive a special citation when the work is done. Postmasters who have done outstanding jobs in setting examples for the community and mobilizing local action to support the President's program for revitalizing the nation's out of doors are to be cited. Boatler said he gave credit to the garden club.

More Boxes Due For Post Office

When Big Spring's new post office building is put in service it will have 600 more lock boxes than are now available in the old post office. The order has been placed.

This will be good news to the scores of patrons who have had their names on a waiting list for such boxes for a long time.

When the new lock boxes are installed, said E. C. Boatler, postmaster, it is likely that many of the present box numbers will have to be changed. Oldtimers, accustomed to their old box numbers, will have to learn new ones.

Boatler said that insofar as possible box numbers would be left as they are but that some would have to be changed.

Boatler said that the present post office building as 1,120 lock boxes, all the space will allow. All of the available boxes are always rented and Boatler has a long list of patrons.

Law Academy Opens Monday

Four weeks of training that ranges from the amount of force used in making an arrest to laws relating to fires will begin Monday for law enforcement officers from a number of West Texas cities, with the third session of the Southwest Academy for Law Enforcement.

Enrollment will be Monday morning, with the opening day plans to include introductions by Wallace D. Beasley, coordinator of police training at Texas A&M University, and welcomes from Jay Banks, Big Spring police chief; City Manager Larry Crow; and Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College.

Classes will be conducted five days per week at HCJC.

The opening sessions include instruction by Beasley and Banks; Bill Caffee, an A&M police instructor; Melvin James, chief of police at San Angelo; and Bill Eyssen, corporation court judge here. Topics for the first day include police service as a career, classroom note taking, history of police, responsibilities and duties of officers, and the code of criminal procedure.

Three officers from Big Spring will be attending the session, and officers are expected from San Angelo, Andrews and several other area cities.

The school is operated under an advisory committee composed of West Texas police chiefs, city managers and mayors. This is the third session.

Close of the school's 160 hours of instruction is set for June 25, with Lewis E. Berry, editor of the "Texas Lawman" magazine, to address the class at a luncheon.

Class Scheduled For Non-English Speaking Pupils

Pre-school age, non-English speaking students wishing to attend, a special summer school for them are urged to register Monday morning at Bauer, Kate Morrison or Cedar Crest schools, Dr. Lynn Ainsworth, director of educational training, said Friday.

"Some 111 are already preregistered," he said, "and will attend school Monday. But several telephone calls have come in today wanting more information for registration. All Latin-Americans having children who will be six years old on or before Sept. 1, and who want them to attend the summer school for non-English speaking children, should have them at one of the schools at 9 a.m. Monday." This program has no connection with "Head Start," which begins July 5.

New State Criminal Code

In the flurry of publicity over a specific section having to do with "pretrial coverage of crime news," little not may have been given to a major bill passed by the Texas Legislature in its closing days.

This is a sweeping revision of the state's criminal code, first full modernization of this set of laws in no more than 100 years.

It resulted from a broad study and recommendations of the State Bar of Texas, and brings Texas into line with various decisions handed down in recent years by the U. S. Supreme Court. The net result of the final bill must be for the good.

Also for the good was the elimination of very stringent restrictions which had been proposed on handling of news in connection with arrest, charges, indictments and general background of a crime.

News media fought this restriction vigorously, succeeded in having it removed, but in the last analysis, they were fighting for the right of the public to be informed. It is a matter of public news when a major crime is committed, and the various aspects of the crime also are news.

While the limitation was put upon peace officers as to what they could reveal to news representatives, there really was no way to have enforced this section effectively. Diligent reporters would have gotten their information—and it is better for all concerned, including the suspect or defendant, that the facts can be confirmed by knowledgeable sources. It is our opinion that news people, along with public officers and all the public want to see that fair trials are insured.

Getting Our Neighbors To Help

President Johnson is correct when ne calls for a new type of fast moving machinery on the international front "geared to meet fast-moving events."

He set forth this idea at Waco Friday, in the commencement address at Baylor University. Much of his talk dealt with the situation in the Dominican Republic.

The President has been criticized in many quarters for hasty action in sending troops into that revolt-torn country, but he was operating on the information that this was a Communist take-over, and since the Cuban situation is still a thorn in the national flesh, most people would have to go along with the President.

But certainly a coalition of states is better to meet these events. The Organization of American States in spirit would serve the purpose the President outlines, but it has not had the direction, the availability of forces or the decision - making procedures to move as fast as the U. S. was able to move.

The Dominican affair, though, could be the object lesson. Foreign observers write constantly of more Communist threats in various Latin-American countries. There may be more flare-ups that call for more defense measures, and there is a limit to how far even the U.S. can respond.

President Johnson seems to have laid out his own task: Bringing the Latin American neighbors into closer rapport with this country, and persuading them to be ready to move when a crisis comes.

Public Debt Keeps Climbing

WASHINGTON—Millions of citizens probably did not notice a small item in the newspapers last week reporting that the Secretary of the Treasury, Henry H. Fowler, has asked Congress for legislation to increase the limit of the public debt from $324 billion to $329 billion, to take effect on July 1.

Perhaps many citizens think—as do some officials here—that there is no limit to what the government of the United States may borrow, and that raising the public-debt ceiling by $5 billion is a piece of routine.

ACTUALLY, there is considerable significance in the fact that the United States Treasury keeps on asking Congress periodically to raise the debt limit. This has been going on for several years now. The public debt has risen from $16.2 billion in 1930 to $320 billion in 1956—only 35 years. The costs growing out of two world wars and the Korean war, of course, pushed up the debt of the government in that period.

But it is not the increase in military expenses—now about $50 billion a year—which alone keeps the public debt rising. There has been a tendency to spend just as much money on nonmilitary appropriations. For a while, tax rates, instead of being adjusted after a war was over, were retained at not far from the same levels. Only in recent years has there been a recognition of the fact that the tax rates might be inequitable and would produce more revenue if they could be adjusted to stimulate the economy.

BUT IT IS ONE thing to reduce tax rates, and quite another to keep on piling up deficits. If the government continues to spend money for many things that are not absolutely essential, there is no way to bring down expenses and balance the budget.

The average citizen isn't aware of the consequences of continuously unbalanced budgets. He thinks that the government is rich enough to pay its bills and that the public debt can always be refinanced by selling bonds to the banks and to the people generally. The history of governments, however, has shown that, while financing and refinancing is accepted as a normal process, there comes a time when doubts are raised as to whether the purchasing power of the monetary unit can be maintained.

THE DOLLAR doesn't buy today what it did 10 years ago. Just this week, an Associated Press survey shows that costs of some foods are as much as 15 per cent higher this spring than a year ago and that in many instances food prices are at a record level. The causes, of course, are numerous. But as prices and wages rise, inflation sets in.

Years of inflationary trends are often disregarded, on the theory that if the inflation is gradual and not sudden, it can be absorbed. But in the long run the dollar can become weaker and weaker as the government is unable to maintain a sound financial program.

THE JOHNSON administration holds out the hope that some day it will balance the budget. But it doesn't say when. There have been very few years in the last 20 when any surpluses have been accumulated, and even when more money is collected than is spent, the excess is not used to pay off anything on the public debt. The assumption is that the debt limit can be raised indefinitely.

The fact remains that the debt keeps piling up as expenditures are larger than receipts. The big test of fiscal strength or weakness will come in the next two or three years when the effect of cuts in income taxes as well as in excise taxes can really be measured. For unless the economy is stimulated to wipe out the loss of revenue from reduced tax rates and some kind of surplus is achieved, the general impression in the financial markets of the world will be that the United States is in for an indefinite period of inflation.

Billy Graham

Last year I was dating a wonderful boy who was an atheist. Now he has another girl friend and I have no one. I thought God cared for His own. I still feel that he was meant for me. M.S.S.

God does care for His own, and no doubt the breaking up of this courtship is proof that He does!

Mildred and Harry were engaged, and Mildred was a Christian. Because Harry was an unbeliever, her parents opposed the affair. Harry promised Mildred he would improve after marriage. Within six months after their marriage, Harry, far from improving, became more intrenched in his unbelief, and added drinking to his other vices. Their home became a hell on earth.

You could have been Mildred. Thank God you are not.

I realize that when two people like each other very much, and one pulls out, that the pain is very deep. But time is a great healer, and in a few weeks or months this episode will be forgotten.

If there is an area of our lives in which we should seek earnestly the will of God, it is in these relationships. God has a plan for your life, and evidently Harry was not a part of it. Accept this as God's doing. As you walk with Christ, you will see His plan unfold before your very eyes. "All things work together for good to them who love the Lord."

Interest Discrepancy Is Hurting The U.S.

No finer description exists of today's monetary discord in the Western world than Irving Berlin's famous World War I song, "They are all out of step but Jim." And the United States, alas, is Jim.

The "new economics" of President Johnson's Great Society calls for low interest rates. Let's not throttle down prosperity with reined - in credit. The Federal Reserve Board has danced the twist accordingly.

VALIANTLY, first under President Kennedy and now under President Johnson, the Reserve System has nudged short-term interest rates up and held long-term interest rates down. Thus, long-term corporate bonds yield about 4½ per cent to 4¾ per cent. This, presumably, encouarages corporations to borrow — to expand.

But in the industrial nations of the Western World, interest rates are about 6 per cent to 7 per cent. This tends to pull funds away from the U. S. Money — investments — seek the best return.

On the other hand, if Treasury bills and certificates of deposit pay about 4 per cent, foreigners will keep short - term money here — for interest and safety. If the rate sinks too low, if it's unattractive, foreign funds — gold — will be withdrawn.

JUST BEFORE he retired as Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon rejected the thesis that U. S. long-term interest rates must ascend to those of Europe and Japan. "The level of interest rates in Europe is extraordinarily and historically high," Dillon said, "higher than it has been in centuries. There is no reason to expect that it is the proper level or that it will continue."

In passing the Treasury flag on to Henry H. Fowler, Dillon expressed the hope that the rest of the world get in step with history, that European rates would come down.

BUT ECONOMIC and political decisions are more often made by political leaders, such as President de Gaulle of France and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany, than by historians. And politicians abroad are today committed to high interest rates.

If Western Europe's interest rates remain high to curb inflation, can ours possibly stay down to encourage economic expansion here?

The answer may be already developing. Let us hope it does not lead to head-on conflict between William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

BACK IN 1950-51, a White House - Reserve Board struggle took place. President Truman and Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder insisted that the Reserve Board support 2½ per cent government bonds at par. In the words of former Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles, this converted the Reserve System into an "engine of inflation." It monetized debt.

Prices were rising, yet the Reserve Board couldn't use monetary policy to check bank lending. Banks merely sold government bonds, thus accumulating lending power.

Ultimately, under Thomas B. McCabe, the Reserve Board said, "Enough." It refused to maintain the price of governments at par. "Accord" was reached and, lo and behold, Martin, who was then assistant secretary of the Treasury, was named chairman of the Reserve Board, succeeding McCabe.

AS MARTIN looks back, "The persistent pressure of government bonds was, for the Federal Reserve System, like being at the foot of Niagara Falls." He sees a parallel in the "massive overhang" of foreign claims against the dollar, against the U. S. gold supply.

That's why the Reserve Board has been changing its monetary stance. For the first time since early 1960, banks have a persisting deficiency in reserves. Their freedom to lend is being reined in (see chart).

Martin makes the point that the United States "can no more be isolationist on interest rates than on foreign policy." Inference: If we can't persuade De Gaulle, Erhard and others to get in step with us, we may have to get in step with them.

THIS MUST be done anticipatorily. We can't wait until crisis is upon us as did the British in November. The drain on British gold and foreign exchange was so extensive that the Bank of English had to jump its rate to 7 per cent and the central banks of the world and the International Monetary Fund had to raise about 3 billion dollars to save the pound from devaluation.

Which Sex Is More Prone To Color Blindness?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please settle an argument between my husband and me. Which sex is predominantly susceptible to color blindness?—MRS. H. S.

This is another question that sounds simple, but, as the song says, "it ain't necessarily so."

If you want to know which is more likely to be color blind, that's easy. Men. However, SOME women are color blind.

So, if you and your husband argue whether the new draperies are a beautiful reddish heliotrope, or are just a dismal gray, because one of you is color blind and won't admit it—I can't decide the fight.

You, madam, have percentages on your side, but you still MIGHT be color blind and your husband not. The only way is to have some rather easy tests which will tell you who does and who doesn't see colors the way they really are.

If, however, you are arguing over whether the mother or father is responsible for a child being color blind, that becomes what used to be called a Mexican standoff. You can't settle it (and I can't) without knowing the hereditary background of the parents.

A father cannot pass color blindness along to his son. Only the mother can do that.

But if a father is color blind, he will pass the trait on to ALL his daughters. They may not be color blind (unless their mother also carries the trait or is color blind herself) but they will carry the hereditary trait.

If you want to know why this is so, come around some Saturday afternoon and we'll discuss some books on genetics, and X chromosomes and Y chromosomes, and recessive genes and stuff like that.

It's something like hemophilia, a hereditary disease which is even more closely related to sex. Boy babies may have it; girl babies rarely do. Yet the TRAIT can be carried by either sex, and transmitted to children.

In that case, the boys, having the disease, often do not live long enough to grow up and have children. Girls, having the trait but not the disease, do grow up and have children.

Therefore women transmit the disease, yet rarely if ever have it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am considering surgery to have my breasts enlarged. What does the operation involve? How do you contact a doctor to perform it? What risk is involved? What is the length of disability? What are the after-effects? What is the cost?—E.S.D.

I don't like to be blunt, but you haven't been considering this. You've been dreaming about it. If you have some hundreds of dollars to try this, you can well afford to go to your family doctor and discuss the matter seriously.

For facts about the total health of you and each member of your family, Dr. Joseph G. Molner's new book, "Stay Well Every Year of Your Life," ($5.95) is now available at your book store, or Prentice - Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N. J.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

More Leisure On The Campus?

One of the tenets to which this column clings precariously (all things herewith are done precariously) is that the world keeps moving too fast, and we are all caught inextricably in the rat race.

There comes now new support, from an unexpected source.

DID YOU SEE that newspaper piece the other day quoting a college professor as saying that campus life has become too grim, too high-pressure, too demanding for any leisure moments left to students? There have been other sources to say that mental and nervous breakdowns are accelerating in the academic halls.

The professor apparently longs for a return to a more peaceful campus life, wherein students would have moments for meditation and perhaps creation of their own.

WELL, NOW.

He may be right, because he's at the heart of the situation and I am a long way from the ivy halls, but I was under the impression that the young folk still can do all right for themselves.

Granted, things have changed. When I strolled between the halls of learning, about the only pressure I ever heard of was from distraught instructors doing their best to get us to complete our assignments, and prodding us on to a passing grade.

THERE MUST not have been this great strain for superior learning. Heck, the old boy who was my partner in physics lab made nothing but A-plus, and went on to become one of the country's top scientists. If you think this pressured me into mastering the mysteries of the universe, you are wrong. I was impatient to get out of lab and hitch a ride to town for the movie, and my most earnest effort was to try to get my A-plus partner to finish up my lab report for me.

OH, WE HAD our leisure all right. But if any sonnets or musical compositions or anything else creative came out of the gang I ran with, I have yet to hear of them. It seemed to me that our leisure moments were spent thinking of girls, of getting to the drug store for a soda, of girls, of skipping into town to stand on the corner, of girls, of planning a weekend trip to the city, of girls, of the next sports contest, of girls, of a hasty bridge game, of girls, or how to wangle a car, and of girls.

This could have been the generation that was barren as far as the nation's progress was concerned; but again, there was my A-plus partner and there was a handful of others like him.

SURELY EDUCATIONAL demands have gained pace, and it must be an intense effort on those A-plus people. I have a hunch, though, that the run-of-the-pack collegian uses a great deal of his leisure as did the generations ahead of him.

He must be thinking of girls, and sports, and girls, and cars, and girls, and bridge games, and girls, and weekend trips, and girls, and swimming and skiing, and girls, and how to get rich without working, and girls. That's bad? —BOB WHIPKEY

Lindsay's Task In New York

NEW YORK—Rarely has any political announcement touched off such salvos of publicity, almost all of it bursting with praise and enthusiasm. So great has been the response to his announcement that he would run for mayor of New York City as a Republican that Rep. John Lindsay is a little overwhelmed by it.

LINDSAY IS portrayed as a kind of St. George confronting the dragon of corruption, crime, traffic and the other evils of urbanism in its most-advanced form. He is tough-minded enough to know that the extravagant hopes of the reformers are not the equivalent of votes in the ballot box in a city where in large stretches the citizens do not even know what a Republican is.

Why there should have been such miles of publicity is not hard to discover. First of all, Lindsay is superbly type cast. He looks the epitome of the courageous reform candidate — tall, lean, handsome in a rugged way. The contrast with Mayor Robert Wagner, who bears the scars of 12 years in what must be one of the three or four most difficult and demanding public offices in America, is painful.

BUT THE REAL reason is that Lindsay took the plunge deciding after long soul-searching to enter a race in which the odds against him seem hopelessly long. The registration figures alone—2,377,000 Democrats plus 67,000 Liberals as against 670,000 Republicans—should have warned off a sensible man.

In this polyglot city the biggest ethnic and religious blocs—Negroes, Jews Puerto Ricans—have cemented an alliance with the Democratic party. Add to this the close ties of the garment workers and other leading labor organizations and you have a political structure with the look of an unshakable monolith.

THE LINDSAY challenge is a challenge to despair. It is a test of whether the two-party system has any vitality in America's cities with the dead weight of the slums and the exodus to the suburbs of citizens who might bear a share of civic responsibility. For New York is the prototype of the present-day alliance between the big cities and the Democrats in Washington who can dispense federal bounty. San Francisco is almost the only metropolis in the country with a Republican mayor, and George Christopher, born in Greece and with a special appeal to minorities, is a rather special case.

IF LINDSAY should win in November despite the long odds, the Republican party would get a badly needed lift. The rightists in his party will be only too happy to interpret his defeat as proving that moderate liberalism hasn't a chance. As one of a small minority within a minority in the Congress Lindsay is the kind of Republican whom many in his party would like to excommunicate. For the party itself, not only in the city and the state but in the nation, his candidacy is a test.

It is too early to say whether moderate Republicans will rally to his cause and provide what is the immediate need—money. A lot turns on the kind of support Lindsay can get from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brother, David, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank. They can do the necessary with the business community if they decide to.

A GENERATION has passed since Fiorello LaGuardia, the last Republican mayor. And LaGuardia was elected by benefit of the kind of fusion with the Democrats which Lindsay is undertaking. If he can pull it off he will become a national figure with a future of extraordinary promise.

Keeping Navy Men Penned Up

WASHINGTON—The United States Seabees, it has just been revealed, spent 18 days in Warsaw de-bugging the American Embassy. In his report to Washington, the American ambassador to Poland, John M. Cabot, said that he was quite apprehensive over housing and feeding the Seabees, as well as keeping them "isolated from the temptations which Warsaw has in abundance."

THE AMBASSADOR said he solved the problem of "temptation" by having a number of Embassy wives prepare dinner for the Seabees, which was served in the snack bar of the Embassy, and on weekends the Seabees were invited to the homes of members of the staff for food and entertainment.

"Everything," the ambassador was quoted as saying, "worked out to our satisfaction."

It must have been a very trying 18 days for everyone concerned.

I can imagine what went on.

A SEABEE CHIEF petty officer is all dressed up in his blues, just about to leave the Embassy on liberty, when an Embassy staffer stops him. "Where are you going, chief?"

"I just thought I'd go into town and get myself a beer and see some of the sights."

"There's nothing to see in Warsaw, chief. Why don't you have a beer in the snack bar?"

"FRANKLY, I'm getting sick and tired of that snack bar. And I don't want to seem ungrateful, but I'm getting fed up with those home-cooked meals made by the Embassy wives. They keep saying to me, 'I'll bet you are grateful for a home-cooked meal.' And I keep telling them, 'How would I know? I haven't eaten in a Polish restaurant since I got here.'"

"Look, chief, why don't you hang around tonight? We're going to have a bingo game after dinner."

"I don't want to play bingo. I want some action. I hear Warsaw is a great town—not that you could prove it by me."

"CHIEF, if you've seen one Polish town, you've seen them all. You know, we're having a dance tomorrow night. That sounds like fun, doesn't it?"

"No disrespect intended, sir, but dancing with an Embassy wife is like dancing with your sister. I think I'll just wander around the town instead.

"I didn't want to mention this, chief. But do you know that the Communists have specially trained girls who are ordered to make friends with Americans and even seduce them if necessary?"

THE CHIEF gulps. "Are they good looking?"

"They're gorgeous—and dangerous."

"Suppose I didn't tell them anything?"

"They have ways of getting information out of you."

"Why couldn't I be put to the test? Why couldn't I plant false information?"

"That's what our military attaches are for, chief."

"How come we do all the work and the officers have all the fun?"

"That's the American way, chief."

NOON by the Chapel Clock

One . . . two . . . three.

Four years Connie and I have listened to that deep, resonant chime counting off the hours of our college days. Sometimes it was just part of the setting at State — like the Commons, and the Quad, and Moonlight Walk. But often it called us to high moments of worship and thought and prayer.

Four . . . five . . . six.

Today we pause, and count! Exams are over. Trunks are packed. Books are on their way back to the Library. Tomorrow — Commencement.

Seven . . . eight . . . nine.

Again we're reading each other's thoughts. Let's walk once more through that graceful arch, hand-in-hand and smiling. Let's kneel together in the sacred stillness, breathing our thanks . . . our hopes . . . our needs . . . our dreams. For life and love await us. And these we will share with God! It is Noon by the Chapel Clock.

Ten . . . eleven . . . twelve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Heston Plays Role Of 'Major Dundee'

The excitement and entertainment to be found in a story of action and strong emotion, comes to the Ritz Theatre screen in "Major Dundee," opening today in Panavision and color. Charlton Heston and Richard Harris, the Irish star of "This Sporting Life," top the cast.

"Major Dundee" is set in the Southwest, in the time of the Civil War. Heston plays the title role, a Union Army officer who commands a troop of renegades and misfits; Harris, the Confederate captain who is his prisoner. Together, they lead the company on a mission, the destruction of a marauding Apache chieftain who has been using Mexico as his sanctuary.

Harris and his fellow-Confederates go along because they have no choice; they face a murder charge for killing a prison guard. At the same time, given the chance to fight anew, they gladly take up arms—not only against the Apache and the French Lancers who try to keep them out of Mexico, but also against their own Union companions on the assignment. The Confederate captain makes no bones of his intentions of killing the Union major, once their mission has been accomplished.

Heston is the cigar-smoking, fight - loving commander of Troop C, a man who enjoys war, Harris plays the embittered Confederate officer. Jim Hutton appears as a young lieutenant who discovers the art of killing and James Coburn is seen as an Indian scout whose one arm has made it necessary for him to be twice as good at the art of survival as any man with two. Michael Anderson Jr., also stars, as the baby-faced bugler who learns from his fellows how to kill, and to kiss. Co-starred are Mario Adorf, as a knife-throwing Mexican sergeant; Brock Peters, as a Negro volunteer who fights beside the Confederates and with them; and Senta Berger, as the widow of a Mexican doctor.

Today's Ballads Better, Jane Morgan Believes

JANE MORGAN

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Jane Morgan takes issue with the pop singers who say that rock 'n' roll has ruined the popular field and nobody is writing good ballads any more.

"I think in a very strange way rock 'n' roll has helped the music business," Miss Morgan argues in her unhurried, gracious manner. "Out of rock 'n' roll has developed a whole new kind of popular song, with lots more strength, guts, reality to it. Before the rock 'n' roll thing got started, we had moon, June, spoon, always about love, but the songs seemed to be detached from reality. Now they tell stories about real people and the situations they get into: They reach people in a much more direct way."

Miss Morgan started a long way from rock, training to be a serious lyric soprano at the Juilliard School of Music. She studied days and worked evenings in a New York supper club. The latter endeavor led to a nightclub engagement in Paris. The blonde singer didn't return from France for several years — some fans still think she is French — and she never has left popular music.

"I was working in France during the early 1950s," Miss Morgan says, "and at that time in France they were writing the kind of songs that we now have — story songs. The Piaf songs were all stories, for instance.

"Some of my biggest hits were written by Gilbert Becaud, who writes and sings his own numbers. He wrote 'The Day the Rains Came.' I just flipped over it. I wanted so much for that song to be a hit; I felt it was a great song.

"Another of his, 'What Now My Love,' which has become like a standard, I was the first to record in English. Both these songs were translated almost literally.

"I believe that the only real way to make a hit out of a foreign song is to stick to the original thought of the lyrics."

OTHER HITS

Other Jane Morgan hits have been "Love Makes the World Go Round" and "Bless Them All." "The Day the Rains Came" sold over a million — as did Miss Morgan's best-known song — "Fascination."

"I wasn't supposed to record 'Fascination' at all," Miss Morgan says. "I just happened to be in the studio in New York when they were recording it as an instrumental. They were fooling around, and somebody said, 'Come on, Jane, sing a couple of takes of this just for laughs.' "

The record was released with "Fascination" on both sides — the instrumental and the vocal. "I was astounded when it got to be a hit," the singer says. "I though we might sell 30 or 40 thousand, who knows, and we sold over a million."

Miss Morgan has recorded for Kapp and Colpix and this spring signed with Epic. Her first song there is a departure for Jane, in a frank attempt to interest the teenage market. It's "All the King's Horses and All the King's Men," country - western style, written by Bob Gaudio of the rock 'n' roll Four Seasons.

DIFFERENT TYPE

"I decided that I was going to have a whole different type of record now. I'm going to have the Four Seasons' arranger make the arrangement because I think that he knows much more about the sound that the kids like than I do.

"It'll still be me. I can't sing rock 'n' roll, let's face it. But this song has real melody and a very catchy idea and still it's in the popular vein."

Besides recording, Miss Morgan's musical activities are many and varied. She appears in night clubs, concerts, on TV, headlines convention and charity benefit entertainment. This summer she will star in "Lady in the Dark" in six summer stock theaters and follow up last year's "Gypsy" in Atlanta with "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Service Of Suit Voided

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Service of a $500,000-damage suit against Jackie Gleason has been set aside in Los Angeles County Superior Court at the comedian's request.

Gleason's former business manager, George Durgon, sued him for injuries allegedly received when a golf cart operated by Gleason overturned June 25, 1963 on a movie lot.

Durgon said he suffered a broken back. He charged that Gleason was a "careless and reckless driver of golf carts" and that he was intoxicated at the time.

But Judge Carlos M. Teran here supported Gleason's position that service of the suit by mail in Florida is improper. Gleason should have been served personally, the court said.

THE PLEASURE SEEKERS
Ann-Margret, Carol Lynley and Pamela Tiffin

'Pleasure Seekers' Opens At Jet Drive-In Today

Ann-Margret, Carol Lynley and Pamela Tiffin play opposite Tony Franciosa, Gardner McKay and Andre Lawrence in the romantic-drama, "The Pleasure Seekers" which opens today at the Jet Theatre. Filmed in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color on location in Madrid and its environs, the cast also includes Gene Tierney and Brian Keith.

"The Pleasure Seekers" is the story of three American girls who live in Madrid. Each has her own preconceived notions about love, and these undergo a radical change as each girl has the romance of her life. The romantic lineup goes like this: Ann-Margret, a singer-dancer living and working in Madrid, falls in love with Andre Lawrence, a poor but proud Spanish doctor. Tony Franciosa, a Spanish nobleman, captures the heart of Pamela Tiffin, an art student vacationing in Madrid. And Carol Lynley, secretary in an American news agency, falls in love with Gardner McKay, a journalist employed by Brian Keith, husband of Gene Tierney and clandestine lover of Miss Lynley.

"The Pleasure Seekers" is one of the few major motion pictures in which the leading roles are all played by relatively young talent. Ann-Margret, who has the top starring role, first came to the attention of film audiences in "Bye-Bye Birdie," released just over one year ago. She followed this success with "Viva Las Vegas" and recently "Kitten With a Whip."

Of the starring actors, Tony Franciosa is perhaps the best known. His most recent effort was star of the TV series, "Valentine's Day." Carol Lynley was an actress during her teens in numerous adolescent dramas, but really came into adult stardom in 1963 with "The Cardinal" and "Under The Yum-Yum Tree." Gardner McKay, of TV's "Adventures in Paradise" series, Pamela Tiffin in her sixth starring role and Andre Lawrence are also typical of the new Hollywood stars who add glamor and excitement to "The Pleasure Seekers."

'Witch Doctor' Stars Mahoney

Smuggling, murder and rampages of natives furnish the plot for "Moro Witch Doctor," starring Jock Mahoney and Margia Dean, opening Friday at the State Theatre. The production was filmed in the Philippines, and particularly on the island of Mindanao, home of the Juramentados, religious native zealots who believe the murder of non-believers will insure them a place in Heaven.

Jock Mahoney plays a CIA man sent to Manila to investigate the murder of two plantation owners. His inquiry takes him to the island of Mindanao where he attempts to tie the murders to a smuggling operation. While he is on the island, his work is hampered by the Juramentados who go on a rampage of terror and destruction.

Experiment

Upper photo: Mechanics has wide appeal for boys; middle photo: girls learn how to care for infants. Lower photo: mechanical drawing classes have double objective.

A scholastic experiment, classified here as a Community Vocations Study Program, pursued through the spring semester in Runnels and Goliad Junior High schools, likely will be continued next school year.

Object of the program is to find a way to meet the needs of students for aquiring occupational information. It is a definite departure from traditional courses normally offered in junior high schools.

Six schools in Texas, including Big Spring, engaged in this pilot test of the program. Basic aim was to give certain boys and girls insights into the requirements and opportunities offered by various jobs. The project provided shop work for boys and home related and commercial art laboratory work for girls.

Classes were for students who are underachieving — boys and girls whose school performances were not consistent with their age and grade placement.

OVERAGE PROBLEM

Students who were in the Big Spring program were 14 to 16 years of age and were enrolled in either the seventh or eighth grades. Roughly, the average pupil in this program was two years older than the normal age for the grade in which they were enrolled. Average seventh graders, for example, are 12 instead of 14.

Of approximately 100 potential students, 85 entered in the program and 75 finished the semester. Of the seven dropped from the list, four were dismissed for disciplinary causes, officials said.

While the program has not been operated long enough for an accurate estimate of its full effectiveness, Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of educational services in the Big Spring Public Schools, feels it should be continued.

EXPERIMENT

"It is strictly an experiment," he said. "The six schools selected have had to devise their own method of handling the work. We may find some of the efforts we have been following are not effective but we have reason enough to urge that it continue for another full term."

The State of Texas Education Agency created the idea of the program. Funds for its operation are being provided in part by the state. Additional materials and matching instructional costs are being met by the agency.

The initial test has demonstrated that the boys enrolled have displayed deep interest and enthusiasm in shop feature of the work.

However, the program is also angled at improvement for the student in basic skills academically. The progress shown by some of the students in this field has not been too good.

"We wanted to make certain these boys and girls acquired the ability to read," said Dr. Ainsworth. "The gains shown by some are not encouraging."

OTHER SUBJECTS

The program offered a balanced ration of classroom study with vocational training.

The girls, for example, in their laboratory work, were taught the elements of baby-sitting, of caring for the ill and disabled and fundamental household procedures.

The girls also have acquired skills in food handling, in addition to child care and house keeping. They have also studied advertising design.

In the shops division, boys studied woodworking, mechanical drawing and general mechanics. They were taught the proper way to use and handle tools, and taught the methods of welding. Mechanical drawing courses gave them an insight into the broader field of construction and design.

"The students," said Dr. Ainsworth, "have found there is no royal road to learning. Many have worked at improving their academic skills. English usage, spelling and reading developments have been stressed. Short selections, related to vocations and stressing comprehension, have been used along with regular texts. We have also made use of kits of materials emphasizing phonetics."

TEST OF INTEREST

In the school year ahead, the program will again be on a project basis. The state will continue to assist on a matching deal in the costs. Officials anticipate a considerable number of the 78 who completed the initial semester will be back for the next year.

If this is the case, it can be interpreted as an indication the program has an appeal which could be of continuing benefit.

Boys and girls who are overage, as measured by their grade enrollment, are often dropouts. Finding a way to gain a student's interest, where such apathy develops, is vital, so this program could be part of the answer to the dropout problem, schoolmen said.

Curriculum guides for the project will be studied and revised as experiment and experience show it is needed.

Members of the school administration and teaching staff will meet with State Education Agency officials and representatives of the other five schools in the initial program this summer to swap experiences and ideas. Other schools participating in this experiment include Dimmitt, Weslaco, Dallas and Corpus Christi.
