The revival of talk about a possible "super" collegiate athletic conference points up again the steadily growing economic gap between the tax-supported schools and the private and-or denominational colleges and universities.

Sports observers seized on an announcement by Frank C. Erwin Jr., chairman of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, as an indication that a "super" conference may be in the minds of University officials.

Erwin said the UT board is considering a study of the university's connection with the Southwest Conference.

Possible membership in a super athletic conference in this region has become a part of the speculation. Mentioned, along with UT Austin, are Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana State and the University of Houston, all large, tax - supported schools.

This, of course, would leave Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Baylor and Rice of the present Southwest Conference to look for a new alignment.

The cost of maintaining a major college athletic program is a prime factor in the speculation. For example, any Texas boy (or girl) can attend a tax-supported school for a flat rate tuition fee —$100. The denominational schools assess tuition rates ranging from some $30 to $50 per semester hour, which means that an athletic scholarship could cost a private school around $1,000 per year more than it costs a state school.

★ ★ ★

The trend has been established in other regions. For some years now, Stanford has been the only non-tax-supported school among "majors" on the west coast, whereas such private or denominational schools as St. Mary's and Santa Clara had been national football powers for years. St. Mary's once played in the New Year's Day game at the Cotton Bowl, and Santa Clara was the last to defeat Oklahoma before Bud Wilkinson's sensational winning streak occurred.

Tulane has withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference, leaving Vanderbilt as the only non-tax-supported entry in that league.

★ ★ ★

College football may be headed toward groupings similar to Texas High School football. Already, in fact, there are such groupings, although they are not recognized technically. The National Collegiate Athletic Association classifies college athletic programs as "University" or "College," which means major or minor. There may very well be a third, or middle bracket in the near future. Actually there is a middle bracket in performance now, with such organizations as the Ivy League, the old Southern Conference, the Missouri Valley, etc., playing a tougher brand of ball than the minors, but still a cut or two below the "supers."

Significantly, a school's enrollment has nothing to do with its classification by the NCAA, but rather its athletic ambition in scheduling of games, which, of course must be backed up by ample financial resources in the form of scholarships and playing facilities and equipment.

Americans Push To DMZ To Blast Entrenched Reds

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American forces maneuvered to the fringes of the Demilitarized Zone along the western anchor of the McNamara Line and blasted entrenched North Vietnamese troops with tank and gunfire, military spokesmen reported today.

About 200 men from the 1st Brigade of the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division killed 29 North Vietnamese soldiers in a two-hour fight Wednesday a mile below the DMZ. Three Americans were wounded.

North Vietnamese troops are reported digging in around allied patrol bases along the northern frontier, apparently trying to hem in allied troops and keep the infiltration routes open.

The 5th Division troops moved out of their base at Con Thien and pushed to within a mile of the southern edge of the DMZ when the North Vietnamese opened up with mortars and machine guns. The American tanks replied with 90mm tank guns, and the battle continued for about two hours.

Con Thien is the western anchor of the McNamara Line, the string of electronic detection devices that runs from the coast inland for 11 miles and is supposed to sound the alarm when infiltrating troops cross it. It is named for former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

U.S. sources say as many as 30,000 North Vietnamese soldiers are concentrated along the northern frontier, and the U.S. Command expects another major enemy offensive in the northern provinces before the monsoon season reaches its peak in November.

Sharp fighting also was reported farther south, along the coastal lowlands midway between Saigon and the DMZ.

American troops from the Americal Division clashed with a strong enemy force below Quang Ngai City Wednesday. 10 Americans were killed and 15 were wounded. Enemy casualties were not known.

In a delayed report, U.S. headquarters said other troops from the Americal Division killed 43 North Vietnamese soldiers in an all-night battle Tuesday south of Tam Ky, another provincial capital. The fight was triggered when enemy troops ambushed a U.S. unit, killing eight Americans and wounding 19.

The U.S. Command indicated that more action is expected along the demilitarized zone as well as around Saigon. A communique said that the highest level of enemy activity during the past several days has been in the 1st Corps Area, which takes in Saigon and the provinces around it.

The communique said allied forces have seized more than 90 tons of munitions and food stockpiled in the two areas, much of it around the outpost called the Rock Pile just below the central part of the DMZ. The stockpiles included more than 80,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 12,000 mortar and rocket shells, and 14 tons of rice, which U.S. headquarters said would feed a 600-man North Vietnamese battalion for a month.

South Vietnamese forces turned up two more arms stockpiles 16 and 20 miles south of Saigon. The haul included five mortar tubes, two bazooka-type rockets and assorted parts for mortars and long-range 107mm rocket launchers that have been used to shell Saigon in the past.

Fighting last week in the northernmost provinces and along the jungle approaches northwest of Saigon was reflected in the weekly casualty summary issued today by the U.S. Command.

The report said 217 Americans, 376 South Vietnamese and 2,484 of the enemy were killed in action last week. The U.S. and South Vietnamese totals were slightly higher than those for the week before, while the enemy total was 435 greater.

In a delayed report, the U.S. mission said 30 South Vietnamese civilians were killed and four were wounded Tuesday when a Viet Cong mine blew up two buses on Route 1 in the central coastal lowlands.

In the same area, the mission said, Viet Cong mortar fire killed seven civilians, wounded 25 and destroyed nine homes and 34 fishing boats, also on Tuesday.

Oil Allowable Is Unchanged

AUSTIN (AP)— The Texas Railroad Commission set the October statewide oil production allowable today at 41.3 per cent of potential, the same as the September flow.

The October percentage factor will permit maximum production of 3,246,026 barrels daily, the same as this month.

Nine of the 14 major buyers of Texas crude oil asked for no change next month from the September factor. One asked for an increase, and four sought a decrease.

Advance nominations by major purchasers indicated an increase demand for Texas crude oil. The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast indicated a decrease in demand.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon said, "the over-all stock situation in the nation is quite good, but in view of testimony here today, particularly that of Humble and Cities Service, the commission is holding the allowable at 41.3 per cent."

Humble said that if the current allowable factor were carried into October it would have 25,000 barrels a day too much oil. Cities Service indicated that the same allowable would leave it with an excess of 15,000 barrels a day.

Despite that testimony, however, Gulf Oil said it would take a 46 per cent allowable to give it the oil it needed in October, which is approximately the same amount as it asked for this month.

UFO Turns Into 'IFO'

A UFO reported here Wednesday morning apparently has turned into an IFO (identified flying object.)

Sam Joyce of Snyder said he observed the object that aroused the curiosity of a group at the American Motor Inn early Wednesday and that the object undoubtedly was a weather balloon. Joyce said he watched the object through binoculars from a point on Ennis Creek, somewhat closer to the object than the other viewers. He said he first thought it was a huge star, but when viewed through binoculars the instrument package was clearly visible swinging underneath. The instrument package apparently was the smaller object which a San Antonio geologist and others had observed Wednesday as moving down and then back upward to the larger "light."

Joyce said it was one of the larger types of weather balloon.

M. E. Forney and wife, Grace, of San Antonio, along with R. H. Duncan and W. P. Brockmier of Fort Worth, observed the object as they were preparing to leave the motel here Wednesday morning and reported it as a unidentified flying object.

College Board Sets Date For Hearings

AUSTIN (AP) — The College Coordinating Board announced today it will hold public hearings on North Texas educational needs, medical and dental education here Oct. 11.

The board received a staff report Monday on creation of new medical and dental schools. After the hearing the recommendations will be reviewed for possible board action at a later date.

Also on the hearing agenda will be the proposed reorganization of the University of Texas system's schools in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and North Texas educational needs.

Panel Asks Aid Cut Nearly Half

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended today a record 45 per cent cut in new financing President Johnson seeks for the foreign-aid program.

The $1.619 billion it approved in a bill sent to the House for consideration next Monday is $1.3 billion less than Johnson requested and $355 million below the ceiling approved in an earlier bill.

The proposed new funds are for use during the fiscal year ending next June 30. They are the smallest since the aid program was launched in 1948.

But, in a formal report written by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., the committee claimed the funds recommended "will still permit continuation of a reasonable level of effort."

It called the program "important to our national interest" but said the nation's serious fiscal situation compelled it to "take an even harder look" at the program than it has in the past. The program is designed to strengthen the capability of friendly nations to deter the threat of external attack and to help less-developed nations cope with conditions the committee said "breed unrest and violence in human affairs."

Since 1948, he said, the United States has extended a total net assistance of $118.4 billion in loans and grants, not including interest charges of about $52.8 billion. Unexpended balances in various international programs, he added, are about $20.7 billion.

During the current fiscal year, the committee said, 48 nations will receive military aid and 50 others will receive other forms of assistance.

Svoboda asked Premier Oldrich Cernik to take over the functions of foreign minister.

Freighter Is Sinking

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard said today the Dutch freighter Johannes Frans was slowly sinking in heavy Atlantic seas about 650 miles east of here.

A Coast Guard cutter and a merchant tug stood by but were unable to help the 18,000-ton, 633-foot freighter because of the 10 to 15-foot seas. The ship was taking on water from an unknown source and therefore could not be towed, the Coast Guard said.

A Coast Guard amphibious search and rescue plane was flying to the ship with four pumps to help stem the flooding, the Coast Guard said.

$11 MILLION ATTEMPT

Powerful Atlantic 3 Explodes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A 10-story-tall Delta rocket tumbled out of control Wednesday night and exploded high above the Atlantic, ruining an $11 million attempt to orbit the world's most powerful communications satellite.

The launch director said a faulty guidance system caused the trouble that brought fiery destruction to the spacecraft Atlantic 3.

"It seems quite clear there was an in-flight failure at 20 seconds after liftoff" in the gyroscope system needed to steer the three-stage rocket, said Robert Gray, launch director for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Eighty-three seconds later, the Delta pitched back toward earth and exploded, sending pieces of the shattered rocket and its Atlantic 3 payload plummeting into the ocean about 10 miles offshore.

Officials said it exploded before the range safety officer had time to destroy it.

Atlantic 3, owned by the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium—Intelsat—was to have been the first in a global network of new switchboard satellites that would link most of the world. It also was to have been used to relay telecasts of the Olympic games from Mexico City to Europe.

A NASA experimental spacecraft, Applications Technology Satellite 3, now in position over Brazil, will be used for the Olympic telecasts instead, said officials of Comsat Corp., manager for Intelsat.

Intelsat has two less powerful satellites now operating over the Atlantic but they are not in position to relay the Olympics to Europe.

Television coverage of the games to the United States is to be carried overland by microwave instead of via satellite, and the Japanese have made arrangements to relay telecasts via Intelsat spacecraft over the Pacific, officials said.

Gray said the launch problem could have originated anywhere in the circuitry of the Delta rocket's gyroscope or autopilot system, and an investigation team was trying to pin down the faulty component.

Casualties Reported

SAIGON (AP) — A total of 217 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, the U.S. Command announced today. This was only slightly above the weekly average for the past few months.

The command said 1,485 Americans were wounded and that 739 of these were hospitalized. This also was slightly above the recent average.

The weekly report said 2,484 enemy soldiers were killed, also somwhat above the recent average. South Vietnamese casualties were 286 killed, 1,269 wounded and 37 missing. It was the ninth consecutive week that the number of South Vietnamese dead have exceeded the American total.

The report did not include casualties in hard fighting early this week in the northern provinces and northwest of Saigon.

Columbia Is Scene Of New Protests

NEW YORK (AP) — Several hundred young men and women pushed into a Columbia University building Wednesday night for an unauthorized three-hour meeting of international student revolutionaries. The meeting was climaxed by a noisy march around the Ivy League school campus.

The students and their supporters, led by a man carrying a red flag, stormed into Schermerhorn Hall, shoving aside a campus guard who pleaded with them, "I'll lose my job."

The university had withdrawn previous permission for a campus meeting due to disruption of afternoon registration by the radical Students for a Democratic Society. The rebels unsuccessfully tried to register 28 students suspended as a result of disorders last spring which shut down the school.

Official said registration would resume today at the university, which has an enrollment of about 25,000.

Following the night meeting Mark Rudd, SDS leader and one of the suspended students, said to a crowd of 300: "Let us march around the campus and perhaps to Cordier's residence. Cordier apparently can't stand revolutionaries. We have revolutionaries from Italy, Mexico, Canada, France, Germany and Switzerland."

Andrew W. Cordier is acting university president. The six-day Conference of European and American student activists began Wednesday.

US, Mexico Prepare For Disasters

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Officials on both sides of the Rio Grande agreed Wednesday they are more prepared to handle a natural disaster such as Hurricane Beulah than they were a year ago.

Representatives of various government agencies from the United States and Mexico met at Brownsville to work on a disaster plan and to outline methods of joint cooperation between the two nations.

George Hastins, southwestern regional director of the Office of Emergency Planning, and Gen. Gomez Quevas, commander of the Mexican 8th Army, headed the two delegations.

The agencies attending the meeting were members of the newly formed Committee on Emergency Planning for Mutual Assistance in Case of Disaster.

The U.S. representatives first met and discussed their plan and presented reports on progress they have made since the killer hurricane went on a rampage.

The two delegations then met during the afternoon session to discuss joint plans.

Joe D. Winkle, natural disaster coordinator for the OEP, reported the office has paid out $6,325,763 in disaster relief funds to city and state government bodies. He said another $325,000 has been paid to agencies who took part in relief operations.

LTV Buys French Data

DALLAS (AP) — LTV Aerospace Corp., one of five U. S. firms in design competition for a Navy contract, says it has signed a pact with Avoios Marcel Dessault, a French builder of combat planes.

Avoios Marcel Dessault built the Mirage, a swing-wing craft which performed well for Israel in its quick defeat of the Arabs, the Dallas firm said.

An LTV spokesman said the long-term agreement with the French company would give the Dallas-based LTV Aerospace important technical data for its Navy contract bid.

W. Paul Thayer, president of LTV Aerospace, said his firm was particularly interested in the Mirage IIIG, which he said has been highly successful in tests.

Cancer Cases Study Due

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A detailed study to be made of all cancer cases occurring in 11 areas of the United States from 1969 to 1971 was announced today.

The third national cancer survey, to be directed by Dr. John C. Bailar III, of the National Cancer Institute, will update similar projects completed in 1937 and 1947.

For the first time, a sample of cases among an estimated population of more than 22 million will be studied in detail to determine the economic effect of cancer on the individual, his family and the community, Bailar said.

Doctors, health agencies and hospitals in these selected areas will gather information on amount of time lost from work because of cancer, cost of treatment, sources of payment and use of medical facilities.

Such information will permit estimates of the burden of cancer on the national economy. Dr. Bailar said in announcing the survey at the sixth National Cancer Conference.

The previous surveys have served as models for the development of population studies and cancer registries around the world.

Areas to be surveyed in the three-year project are Birmingham, Ala., Atlanta, Ga.; Detroit, Mich.; Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex.; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; San Francisco and Oakland, Calif.; Iowa, Colorado and Puerto Rico.

Bull None The Worse After Spell In Well

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Instead of an ox in the ditch, Duane Glover had a bull in the well near Deport.

A whiteface bull missing from Glover's pasture was finally found in an abandoned cistern in the neighboring pasture of R. L. Loven. The bull was in three-foot water with only his head showing.

A front-end loader was utilized to dig and hoist the bull to safety. After a through washing, the animal appeared none the worse for his travail.

Entertainment for the evening will be presented by the districts, each having been allowed 5 minutes to present a feature typical of the area. This may be by musical talent, costume, or any talent the district desires to present. A framed TFWC President's Citation will be presented to the winning district. The district with the largest attendance will also recieve a President's Citation.

Mr. Truett Latimer, Executive Director, Texas Historical Survey Committee, and former member of the Texas Legislature from 1952 to 1960 from the 84th District, will be guest speaker at the Texas Heritage Luncheon on October 2nd. Mr. Latimer formerly lived in Abilene where he was Alumni Director at Hardin - Simmons University for seven years, and in 1962 became Public Relations Director for the Texas Real Estate Association.

For the Big Thicket Dinner on Wednesday evening, Senator Ralph W. Yarbrough, U. S. Senator from Texas, will speak on the preservation of the Big Thicket, a project of the 1968-70 administration of Texas Federation. Interested in conservation and the preservation of our historic landmarks and park areas for a number of years, Senator Yarbrough has sponsored legislation creating two national parks in Texas, and in 1967 introduced legislation for the Big Thicket National Park in which the clubwomen are vitally interested. In appreciation of his interest and work for the preservation of a portion of the Thicket, he was made an honorary member of the Alabama - Coushatta Indian Tribe near Huntsville.

Hon. Burke Musgrove, Breckenridge, sponsor in the Texas Legislature at the last session of the revision to Texas' Dangerous Drug Acts, has launched a statewide youth educational program on the dangers of drug abuse. Representative Musgrove will be guest speaker at the October 3 Public Affairs Luncheon. This timely subject will bring to the Board Members information from the sole Texas participant in an international drug abuse symposium in New York sponsored by the U. S. Department of Justice which dealt with ways of curtailing the drug problems. For 8 years he has served as the coordinator of the American Legion Boys State program and was program coordinator of the first annual statewide Attorney General's Youth Conference against juvenile crime.

The last speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner on Thursday evening will be Mr. Reagan V. Brown, professional sociologist with the Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University. Mr. Brown is a recognized authority on community development and human relations, and an intriguing title of his talk is "Don't Just Stand There!" His sparkling style and down to earth philosophy have made him a favorite speaker at numerous functions. He is at home in academic circles as well as rural community meetings, and his talks are received with enthusiasm on college campuses, meetings and hundreds of community get - togethers.

Another important guest at the meeting will be Mr. Dempsie Henley, Mayor of Liberty, and President of the Big Thicket Association. He is author of "The Big Thicket Story" and an enthusiastic defender of the Thicket. He will be introduced and asked to make a few remarks at the Wednesday evening dinner. There will also be an exhibit of Big Thicket Crafts at the meeting.

Hostess to the speakers for the three day meeting will be Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, Midland, a past president, Mrs. R. W. Herren, Haskell, Mrs. Flay Baugh, Temple, and Mrs. Byron Campbell, Raymondville.

Adjournment will follow the Thursday evening "Challenge to Action" Dinner Meeting.

Spaceage Biology

THE BIOLOGICAL TIME BOMB. By Gordon Rattray Taylor.

This is a breakthrough, says Taylor. We're in "the opening stages of a biological revolution," of greater impact than our industrial and technological revolutions. The possibilities are as frightening as the breakthroughs in nuclear fission and fusion.

Biologists are close to making it possible to bring a human embryo to life in the laboratory, and to letting you choose the sex of your next baby. In the vegetable world they can take one cell from a carrot and grow exact copies of the orignal carrot; perhaps soon they can grow exact copies of a prize bull or a racehorse (and then perhaps a human being?)

They are finding clues to the postponement of aging and death. Having found ways to establish "mood control" of the mind — through tanquilizers— perhaps next they can make "anti-aggression pills." Already they are hopeful of discovering the nature of memory, and are exploring the possibilities or raising the intelligence levels of future generations.

But, says the author, the most staggering possibility is "man's imminent powe. to interfere in the process of heredity, to alter the genetic structure of his own species." That might become a power for good, if bad traits can be eliminated — but who is to decide which are good or bad? And if man can tinker with human genes, could that power lead to gene warfare? Even the synthetic creation of a living call may become possible, and one cell might lead to a whole new type of living creature.

Taylor stresses the urgency of understanding the ethical, moral, social, legal and political remifications of these impending developments, for he says they are coming by 1975 or 2000 of seon thereafter. He even suggests that some international body should "control" or delay some branches of biological research until mankind is ready to cope with their revolutionary potentials.

This British science reporter presents a wide review of today's biological frontiers, where even some of the scientists are filled with forebodings over what might happen.

Decorative Cookware

Cookware with decorated bottoms is particularly suited for kitchens that combine practicality with eye appeal. If ware is wall-hung above food preparation counters, it is easily accessible and provides a decorative note.

Two popular patterns of cookware feature decorated bottom designs that won't burn or wear cell may become possible, and is traditional in design with blue on white. Fiesta has a gay pattern in red and brown tones on a gleaming white background.

McLuhan Message Links Art

THROUGH THE VANISHING POINT. By Marshall McLuhan and Harley Parker.

Anyone familiar with the McLuhanesque style will recognize it in this volume. Example: "Pastimes are past times."

The authors' stated purpose is "to guide the reader through the sensory maze evoked by technologies old and new and to explain why, in terms of spatial form in poetry and painting, the Medieval and primitive worlds have so much in common with modern experience."

"Space" is the operative word in whatever it is McLuhan and Parker have in mind, which that McLuhan's "the medium is the message" has been turned into "the message is messy."

McLuhanese, words don't have the same meanings as in everyday speech, so the reader will have to cope with such things as this reference to abstract art: "Visual space is being internalized at the terminus of the visual gradient." And in this book there are many kinds of space — visual, formal, acoustic, kinetic, tactual, visceral, etc.

What seems to be going on here is that there is a relationship between the imagery of painting and the imagery of poetry. So the authors couple 49 paintings or other works of art with 49 excerpts from poetry. The pairings often are bizarre (Dryden and El Greco, Chagall and Dylan Thomas, for example), and the appended notations usually are prime examples of the nonsequitur. In this case, it would seem that McLuhan's "the medium is the message" has been turned into "the message is messy."

Swift Final Action Expected For Gun Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gun control bill, attacked by the National Rifle Association but falling far short of what President Johnson sought after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has passed the Senate and been sent to joint conference committee with the House.

The bill, basically banning mail order sales of rifles and shotguns, was passed Wednesday with two major differences from the version approved in the House July 24.

But the conference committee is not expected to have difficulty reaching a compromise which then must be approved again by the separate chambers before going on to the White House.

With some members of Congress anxious to get home to campaign for re-election and the Senate facing prolonged debate on a new chief justice the outlook for swift final action is uncertain.

The Senate and House versions differ mainly in penalties proposed for criminals committing federal crimes while armed with a gun and for sales of ammunition.

Neither version contains the major provisions sought by Johnson after the June 6 assassination of Kennedy, gunned down by a pistol after winning the Califoria Democratic presidential primary election.

These would have required registration of all firearms and licensing of owners. Soundly defeated earlier in the House and in the Senate Judiciary Committee, the provisions were rejected Wednesday in the Senate 55 to 31.

The president of the National Rifle Association termed defeat of the registration provisions "a victory for the American people."

But Harold Glassen, a Lansing, Mich., attorney, criticized passage, saying "no one can say a law is going to save a life. There is no indication that the availability of firearms has anything to do with crimes."

The NRA, which claims a membership of more than one million, long has opposed gun control measures.

The over-all bill was approved 70 to 17.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., made his first appearance on the Senate floor since the slaying of his brother Robert.

Kennedy showed up just in time to vote for the registration-licensing amendment, introduced by Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md. He took no part in debate and sat with his chin in his hand.

The Senate bill bans not only the mail order sales of rifles and shotguns, but also ammunition for all weapons.

The House version excludes mail order sales of ammunition for rifles and shotguns, plus rimfire .22 caliber shells.

The Senate bill would make a sentence of life imprisonment possible for anyone committing a federal crime of violence—such as rape, murder, arson, theft or kidnaping—while armed with a gun.

The House measure provides mandatory sentences for people convicted of using a gun in a mit also over-the-counter sales federal felony, but the sentences fall short of life.

There was strong support in the House, however, for writing in the life-sentence provision.

The Senate bill also would bar over-the-counter sales of firearms to nonresidents of a state unless the states are adjoining and the laws of both permit such sales.

A buyer would have to submit an affidavit of elegibility and the seller would have to delay delivery seven days to give police a chance to object.

The House version would per- also over-the-counter sales to those who sign an affida- that their firearm was lost, sto- len or had become inoperati-

Prohibitions on sales of hand- guns became law earlier this year in the omnibus crime control bill.

Both the House and Senate bills would require federal licensing of dealers.

BEING SWALLOWED BY BILLIONS

Revolutionary Power Of The Pill

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
A Science Writer

They are small, these pills, about the size of an aspirin tablet. Some are pink, some white, others blue or yellow. They are potent. And they are being swallowed by the billions.

Altogether, they are known as The Pill, and they've been the fuse to a far-ranging revolution.

Physiologically—the Pill is virtually 100 per cent effective in preventing conceptions, a vast boon for better family planning and to help slow the population explosion.

Psychologically—the Pill is making sex more enjoyable for millions of women, but is forcing some others to face up to their basic frigidity when they no longer can use fear of pregnancy as an excuse to avoid sex. It is making many husbands happier—and making some impotent.

Morally—the Pill is creating a crisis of conscience among Catholics who used or wish to continue using it in face of a papal encyclical banning all artificial means of birth control.

Medically—there is some concern over the safety of the Pill, particularly over the risk of dangerous blood clotting.

Sociologically—there is speculation whether the Pill may threaten to end man's dominant role in the family. When a woman "can choose between a baby and a refrigerator or between parenthood and another career, one's sense of power is very great," a sociologist remarks.

Promised for the future are even more advanced techniques for birth control, such as "shots" that would be effective for months to a year or more, or possibly pills for men.

The pills contain synthetic female hormones that prevent the monthly release of an ovum, or egg, that could become fertilized. Taken as directed, any of 10 brands of pills offer almost iron-clad insurance against pregnancy.

And some six million to eight million American women are using this insurance policy.

While most welcome this shield against pregnancy, medical reports cite a variety of other scattered reactions.

—Some women beg off from sexual relations "because we can't afford another baby." Once that excuse is demolished, they have to admit that they find sex repugnant, or that they are sexually inadequate.

—The Pill is throwing curves to some husbands who have been pretending they were very potent sexually. One man persistently pursued his reluctant wife until, with the Pill, she began enjoying sexual relations. He quickly lost interest. Another husband suffered dizzy spells and became impotent. A third angrily beat his wife because she enjoyed sex more and he assumed she probably was being unfaithful to him.

—The Pill in effect makes a woman infertile, and some therefore feel they have become less a woman. They prefer contraceptive methods that remind them they are still fertile. And for some women, and men too, sexual pleasure depends partly "upon the excitement with the risk of pregnancy," two gynecologists observe.

—Some men want children, or a bedroom gamble that they might have children, as a proof of their potency.

—For some women, "not having babies is associated with feelings of guilt and loss of status," another physician says.

Numerous women taking the Pill do become depressed, at least for a time, medical reports find. While the causes mostly seem to be emotional, some experts think it might be an effect from the hormone progestin in the Pill.

Over-all, the majority of women taking the oral contraceptives find them quite satisfactory, medical authorities report.

Among a group of 250 women taking the Pill for one to three years, most of the wives and husbands reported a definite improvement in sexual adjustment with no increase in emotional conflicts.

In a Cleveland, Ohio, study, wives who continued on the Pill were found to be emotionally and psychologically better off than wives who gave it up. They had greater interest in sex, and their husbands' morale was higher.

Fears that the Pill could become an invitation to sexual license aren't justified, says Dr. Aaron Shiloh, University of Pittsburgh anthropologist who studied 239 women before and after they began taking the Pill. He found no greatly pronounced changes in the frequency of sexual relations, but women said they did enjoy sex more.

At the same time women are asking questions about the medical aspects of the pill.

Some doctors, percentage unknown, are taking their patients off the Pill, on grounds that any health risk, however small, is too high a price to pay for contraception. They are urging women to use IUDs—intrauterine devices—or older methods of birth control.

But an apparent majority of physicians regards the risk associated with the Pill as being so small that its use is justified.

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc., sees no reason to withhold the Pill from most women.

It produces temporary chemical changes in some women, he says, but these changes are like those that come along in pregnancy, and they go away when the Pill is stopped. "There is no evidence of permanent damage to organ systems," Dr. Guttmacher says.

"Probably no substance, even common table salt, and certainly no effective drug can be taken over a long period of time without some risk, albeit minimal. There will always be a sensitive individual who may react adversely" among the millions of women on the Pill, says the Food and Drug Administration's advisory committee on obstetrics and gynecology.

This committee is taking a new look at medical-health aspects of the Pill and it took part, along with drug manufacturers, in recent relabelling of the oral contraceptives.

A main change was to advise doctors of British studies pointing to "a definite association" between use of the Pill and the incidence of blood clotting disorders, including 36 fatal reactions.

British investigators, using national health service records, found a seven-to-tenfold increase in illness and death from thromboembolic diseases in women taking the Pill compared with healthy women who didn't. These troubles included inflammation of veins and blood clots that lodged in the lungs.

But, they add, women who go through pregnancy are far more likely to have these blood problems than nonpregnant women. Also, the risk of blood clotting problems is terribly high among women who seek or try to induce abortions to end unwanted pregnancies.

There is suggestive but not confirmed evidence of an association between the Pill and brain strokes, and between the drug and clots in the retina of the eye, the FDA adds.

"There is no epidemic" of the clotting trouble, says Dr. John J. Schrogie of the FDA's Bureau of Medicine. While the majority of women on the Pill do show some changes in the intricate, complicated mechanism of normal blood clotting, the vast majority of them don't get into any trouble, he adds.

Some authorities have wondered whether the Pill might induce cancer, but there's no human evidence that it does. Indeed, the pills are more likely to reduce the risk of breast cancer than to increase it, says Dr. Charles Huggins of Chicago, a Nobel Prize winner in cancer research. A small percentage of women taking the Pill have developed abnormalities of the cervix, the neck of the womb, but three separate studies declare these changes are not cancerous and seem to become

The Pill affects sugar metabolism in some women, and might unmask hidden diabetes. Normal pregnancy also frequently changes sugar metabolism. The Pill may affect liver function in some women also, and in others it produces some changes in the lipids or fats in the bloodstream.

Up to one-fifth of women starting the Pill report side effects such as nausea, breast fullness, a tendency to gain weight, breakthrough bleeding, fatigue or other symptoms—which usually disappear after a couple of cycles. Others find a welcome effect: The Pill corrects minor difficulties of menstruation.

Side effects have decreased as the pills have become less powerful. Today's pills contain only a tenth or less of the hormone dosages in the first pills of 10 years ago.

And side effects can be reduced or eliminated by finding the right pill for the individual, one medical team says. Side effects, they explain, come from an excess or deficiency of natural hormones. The pills vary in their content of estrogen and progestin, so the answer is to find the combination, in a pill, that most closely matches a woman's own hormone requirement.

As a simpler, one-step method of birth control, the IUD has staunch advocates. These plastic or metal devices, of different shapes and sizes, are inserted into the uterus and can be left there indefinitely.

Just how they act to prevent pregnancy is not known. Most experts call them slightly less effective than the Pill in preventing conception. The FDA's advisory committee says the most successful IUD's are associated with a pregnancy rate of 1.5 to 3 per 100 women during the first year of use, and lower rates thereafter.

Advantages claimed for the IUD are that it needs be applied only once, that it is cheap, and that it doesn't affect the hormonal balance or other organs of the body.

About one million American women now are using IUD's, as are some seven million women in other countries, Dr. Guttmacher estimates.

With the Pill and IUD, birth control entered a new era. Some researchers think it is just beginning, and they predict a second generation of birth control methods that may be simpler, easier, and completely effective.

HemisFair Said Virtual Gold Mine

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — HemisFair was pictured as a gold mine, not a bottomless pit of financial troubles, by a fair official who appeared before a press conference Wednesday as a private citizen.

William R. Sinkin, a fair vice president, told newsmen that the world's fair was the biggest bargain the city of San Antonio ever had, "and it didn't cost the taxpayers a dime."

Although he was speaking as a private citizen, Sinkin's remarks were a retort to charges that the fair's losses would cost city taxpayers money. He also was replying to a city council report that the exposition was some $8 million in the red as of last July 5.

Sinkin estimated that the loss would total about $6.5 million.

About 95 per cent of the loss will be borne by three sets of underwriters, he said, adding that the third underwriting of about $3 million would probably be a total loss for all signers, who "knew the total risk they were taking."

He credited HemisFair with bringing to San Antonio $400,000 more in sales tax revenues than was anticipated. He said this indicates that the increased sales tax revenue to the city directly attributable to the fair, primarily derived from out-of-town visitors, eventually will be nearly $1 million.

High on his list of HemisFair assets was a statement that as a result of HemisFair, $12.8 million was generated in land acquisition and expenditures, and $3 million in new buildings.

He also listed these assets:

—$2 million in urban renewal agency credits.

—Deterioration of the city's central core halted.

—Since 1964, some $30 million in new construction generated by HemisFair.

—About 100,000 new jobs created for four years, giving $20 million to wage earners.

Furthermore, Sinkin said, the expected total of about 6 million visitors will spread the word of San Antonio far and near after the fair closes Oct. 6.

The new city of Brasilia replaced Rio de Janeiro as the capital of Brazil in 1960.

Hike Seen For Farm Price Support

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ballooning crop production may force the government to hike farm price-support payments $150 million this year, an Agriculture Department expert said Wednesday.

Charles L. Grant, department budget director, said the Sept. 1 crop estimates for larger crops of livestock feed grains account for most of the expected increase.

The extra outlay would be on top of an extra $700 million or so the department said earlier it would need to make support payments to farmers this year.

Last January, Grant said, the department estimated its 1969 fiscal budget for price support activities at about $2.9 billion. The additional funds would boost total expenditure to about $3.8 billion.

The payments are provided by law to farmers cooperating in federal farm programs. Farmers agree to restrict crop production in return for a guarantee that minimum price support payments will be available.

Therefore, Grant said, budget cuts ordered by Congress cannot be applied to price support activities concerning farmers.

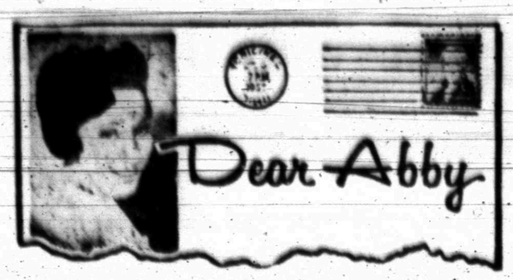

But some—possibly all—of the increased spending for price supports may be spread among other agencies of the department. A spokesman said it was not certain at this time what this might total.

"If we had to pass on all the extra spending under the price support program to other department activities, I'm not sure whether we could absorb it," the spokesman said.

To Serve Again On Educational Board

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally Wednesday appointed Sen. William T. Moore, Bryan, to a new term as legislative member of the Board of Control for Southern Regional Education.

The board operates under a compact of the Southern states.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Henry and I have been married for nearly 60 years. Henry is over 80 and he's still looking. Can you beat that?

All our married lives I covered up for him because I didn't want the children to know.

Last week Henry met a nice-looking younger lady in to one of our rental properties. (She was about 65.) I finally got so tired of having to go over there every time I wanted to find my husband, I gave her notice to vacate. Henry pouted for a long time but he finally got over it.

Now it's another woman. This one is about 60 and a real live wire. Please tell me what to do. I can't do much as all our money is in my husband's name. No publicity, as I am a proud woman.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Be patient. It won't last forever. Nothing does.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son has informed us that he doesn't want to accept the 4-year academic scholarship offered to him by a fine college this fall. His reason is his 13-year-old girl friend. Abby, this has us baffled. He was always such a sensible boy until he met this girl.

The girl's parents don't seem to mind that our son stays over there until midnight every night. They treat the kids to movies and dinners and let our son use their car to take their daughter driving.

How can we make this girl's parents realize what a dangerous situation they could be pushing their daughter into?

WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR WORRIED: Don't expect the girl's parents to assume the entire responsibility. Go to work on your son and lay down a few rules about how much time he can spend with this girl. Furthermore, a lad who is ready to throw away a 4-year scholarship for a 13-year-old girl has proven himself to be sadly immature. He needs plenty of guidance, and as his parents, it's up to you to guide him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been invited to leave town every few weeks for a day or two for legitimate reasons.

Whenever I am gone, some neighbors (a man and his wife) invite my husband over for a meal.

I have never been invited to this neighbor's home even to share a cup of coffee with the wife. Am I making an issue out of a trivial thing? Or should I be concerned, and why?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Perhaps you are concerned over nothing. As a gesture of appreciation for entertaining your husband, why not invite THEM to your home for a meal?

Land Program War Brews

Editor's Note: All is not well with the veterans' land program, although Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler says developers are trying to make a fast buck. Developers says acreage rules, appraisals and delays hurt bad. Over it all hangs the memory of the land scandals of the 1950s.

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — There's a Texas range war brewing between Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler and real estate developers over the $400 million veterans land program.

Sadler says the land sellers are trying to make a fast buck at the state's expense.

Stung by low appraisals and a ruling limiting sales, the developers accuse Sadler of wrecking the program. One realtor wants a legislative probe.

In the background are the veterans land scandals of the 1950s.

"Mr. Sadler's way yonder and gone beyond the restrictions the legislature wanted," said A. S. Duncan of Austin. "I've got veterans standing in line right now for land from as far away as Houston and El Paso.

"One wanted to jump down my throat when I gave him his money back because of Sadler's 10 per cent rule. It's unjust, unwarranted, an infringement beyond the bill. The rule has completely killed the program."

"It's not worth a damn," said Gene Naumann, of Austin. "There's no land program at all. I just got back from McLennan, Bosque and Hill counties and not one realtor there wants to mess with it.

"It's the biggest flop there is."

What has the realtor-developers hopping mad, especially in land crazy Central Texas, is the policy announced by Sadler April 9, three months after the revival of the 1949 veterans land program.

Sadler, chairman of the veterans land board, limited the state's purchases of land for veterans to 10 per cent of any large subdivision.

That means a person who owns 1,000 acres in a single tract can sell only 100 acres to veterans under the state-financed program. Smaller tracts, such as 100 acres, are handled differently so veterans are not prevented from buying all or part.

"It appears," Sadler said, "that real estate developers have blocked up as many as several thousand acres in one tract, offering it for sale to Texas veterans. We cannot spend all our money in a few isolated areas."

He said it was "only fair" to give all veterans a chance to buy land, not "spend our money in a few large subdivisions."

Bob Wire of Austin said he lost five potential sales because of the ruling.

"It's terrible and it's hurting lots of people real bad," said Harry Montandon, another Austin realtor.

He said he had 23 veterans under contract on 760 acres, losing almost all of the because of Sadler's policy.

"All Sadler is doing," Montandon said, "is holding off the veterans until the land will be higher. By the time Sadler changes his mind, the veterans will have to pay more. And he will change after pressure is brought."

"Dozens of veterans are wanting property but can't get it because of an arbitrary rule by that little bureaucrat down there," said Duncan. "I had to refund money. It was financially hurt, sold land before the ruling, paid $880 for a survey and had to give money back.

"It's an intolerable situation."

"The program is one of the best things in the world economically—it's dern sure good for the veterans—but some of the land prices have been out of sight," Sadler said.

He specified four counties where he thought the land was priced too high: Travis, Kerr and Bastrop counties in Central Texas and Hidalgo County in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Most realtors disagree.

"The land has gone up the appraisals have not," said Johnny Roberts of Austin.

Twenty-five land office employes do the appraising.

"The damn appraisals are cutting down on the program," said Wire, who is selling 1,040 acres southwest of Austin and another 1,500 acres northwest of the capital. "They're running $50 to $100 an acre low."

Montandon said land he was selling at $900 an acre was appraised by the state at $500. He said he paid $735 an acre for some more land and was reselling it at up to $1,000 an acre, but land closer to Austin was appraised at only $400.

"Look at the stuff appraised," said Naumann, "It's absolutely ridiculous. Land that sold for $400 an acre in 1964 and since has sold for double and triple that price has been evaluated at $200. Hell, it's bound to be worth twice that much if it was selling for twice that much four years ago.

"I'm simply not going to develop anymore. I've got 1,200 acres at Jonestown (a lakeside development near Austin), on which I've tried to make a legitimate profit, but I'm coming out a loser. He said he was selling 40-acre tracts for $10,000 each and had contracts from 37 persons in just 10 days before the appraisals came in. "I had appraisals as low as $4,300 and the highest was $8,000—and it had a lake on it."

The maximum loan a veteran can get is $9,500 and he must buy at least 15 acres. He must provide a $500 down payment.

The loans are made at 5.5 per cent interest over a 40-year period. Any Texas veteran of 90 days continuous service at any time from Sept. 16, 1940, to the formal withdrawal of troops from Vietnam is eligible.

If the land board does not offer the veteran a loan high enough to cover the land cost the veteran must pay the difference, renegotiate the deal with the seller or cancel it.

Often a low loan offer causes the deal to fall through.

"I spent $50,000 putting roads in on the land where those 37 tracts were sold," Naumann said, "and now I'll have to renegotiate. It's the biggest messup I've ever seen."

However, P. L. Marlowe of McAllen sides with Sadler. "Some people," he said, "are trying to charge the state twice what the land is worth."

Another irritating point to developers is how long it takes to complete the deal. For example, a veteran who turned in his application the first day, Jan. 15, still has not closed his deal although he obtained the maximum loan and there apparently have been no hitches.

"There is lots of red tape," said Bill Moschel of McAllen. "We tell the veterans they'll get the land if they live that long."

Sadler replies, "We're being mighty, mighty careful."

"We don't want any more Bascom Giles, that's what he is hedging against," said Jack Magness, Edinburg real estate man.

Giles, former land commissioner, was indicted in 1955 on 13 charges of illegally promoting veterans land sales. The veterans land program was his idea.

He was convicted in 1955 of being an accomplice to theft of $6,800. Later he pleaded guilty to accepting bribes ranging from $8,000 to $36,000 in connection with veterans land deals. He was sentenced to six years in prison and was released after serving two years and 11 months.

But neither memories nor technicalities are bothering the land program, Sadler insists. He campaigned incessantly for the program, but it closed Dec. 1, 1965, when the last of the original $200 million in bonds ran out. Voters rejected proposals in 1963 and 1965 to continue the program but finally authorized another $200 million bond issue in 1967.

Sadler said the state should make a $5 million a year profit off the new program.

A total of $60 million in veterans bonds have been sold this year—$30 million at an interest rate of 4.33 per cent and $30 million at 4.2823 per cent. With veterans paying 5.5 per cent, some of the difference will be the state's profit.

And Sadler said close to 500 contracts were ready to be closed out of some 2,500 applications this year.

But whether from the sale limitation, low appraisals or slow movement of contracts, all is not well with the veterans land program, say those holding or selling land the ex-servicemen want to buy.

"Everyone I talk to is not interested," said Bob Martin, McAllen realtor.

"I want a legislative review," said Duncan.

"No GIs," said a newspaper land advertisement.

Fort Hood Soldier Is Sentenced

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Pfc. Oscar Taylor of New York City heard a military court sentence him Wednesday night to three months at hard labor because of a demonstration against possible riot duty in Chicago.

The Army court-martial convicted Taylor of refusing to obey an order to disband.

Ft. Hood authorities said 60 soldiers engaged in the Aug. 23 protest against an expected assignment with riot-trained troops to the Democratic national convention in Chicago. Seventeen C141 transports airlifted men from this Central Texas Army post to the convention city next day from Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin.

Of the 60 demonstrators, Army spokesmen said 43 failed to disperse and charges were preferred against 42, including Taylor. The spokesmen said all are Negroes.

The court, consisting of a captain and two lieutenants, also ordered that two-thirds of Taylor's pay be forfeited while he is serving the three-month sentence, and that he be reduced to the Army's lowest rank of private 1-E.

One soldier, Otis Robinson, 20, of Orlando, Fla., has been acquitted in the case.

Authorities did not say when others may be tried. There was no immediate word on whether Taylor would appeal.

It was announced that the court-martial trying Taylor was convened at 1 p.m. Wednesday and reported its verdict at 10:47 p.m. Members of the court then deliberated for 11 minutes on the penalty to be assessed.

In addition to the customary military counsel, Taylor was defended by civilian lawyer Curtis McClane, who said he was representing the Workers Defense League of New York City.

Three other members of the court also were assigned to the case. One was dismissed on a peremptory challenge by the defense and another on a defense argument that one of the 43 accused soldiers was under his command. No reason was given for the third member being excused.

About 26 of the men charged after the demonstration were reported to be veterans of the fight in Vietnam. Authorities said the protest was orderly and ended with military policemen escorting the soldiers to the stockade after a lengthy discussion.

Bank Of England Cuts Lending Rate

LONDON (AP) — The Bank of England cut its lending rate today from 7½ to 7 per cent. The cut was taken as a sign that the British economy is improving.

The bank lending rate governs all financial transactions in Britain. A cut had been expected in the wake of Brain's improved trade figures for August, announced earlier this week.

The rate had been 7½ per cent since March 21. From November 1967 until March it had been a record 8 per cent as part of the retrenchment program following devaluation of the pound.

NEW RECRUITER — T/Sgt. Richard L. Yates, Air Force recruiter for Snyder, will be on the main floor of the Courthouse from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. each Monday to interview prospective applicants for the U.S. Air Force. Sgt. Yates said there is a continuing need for young men and the Air Force also has over 200 types of jobs for young ladies. Sgt. Yates' regular duty station is the recruiting office in Abilene. He is a graduate of Henryetta, Okla. High School and attended New Mexico State University. He is a veteran of the Korean War and has 16 years service.

Bilingual Plan Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Wednesday "We have scored a real breakthrough" after he reported a Senate-House conference committee agreed to recommend $7.5 million for starting bilingual education.

Yarborough said the bilingual education programs would be for pupils who cannot speak English when they start to school.

The House originally appropriated no money for the programs. The Senate, however, voted a $10 million appropriation.

The bills Wednesday still were in conference.

"I am confident that the dollars invested in bilingual education," said Yarborough, "will pay rich returns in better educating American citizens."

Two million of the estimated 3 million persons who could qualify for the bilingual program are Spanish-speaking Southwesterners, about 750,000 in Texas.

Statute To Be Studied

AUSTIN (AP) — The 1879 Texas law under which 42 demonstrators were arrested at a service station last May will be examined by a three-judge federal court in Austin Nov. 7.

Twenty-one of the demonstrators filed suit against the county attorney to stop him from prosecuting the case. The county attorney asked that a federal court be convened to consider the constitutionality of the law.

The law prohibits assembly to interfere with the lawful pursuit of a man's occupation.

The demonstrators carried placards around Don Weedon's service station near the University of Texas campus, accusing him of being a racist. Weedon pleaded "no contest" to a charge of assualting a Negro musician at a night club. He was fined $20.

Panel Eyes Broad Scope Of Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, which triggered creation of the President's commission on violence, has faded almost entirely out of the focus of the panel's probe.

The blue-ribbon commission, which went into its second day of formal hearings today in its broad survey of American violence, heard virtually no mention of the senator's slaying in Wednesday's opening session.

Controversy over the bloody clashes between Chicago police and antiwar demonstrators at the Democratic National Convention dominated the first day. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover praised Chicago police while Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark criticized undue police violence.

Both Clark and Hoover strongly endorsed the drive for stiffer gun controls at the very hour the Senate was rejecting a proposal for registration of all firearms.

Lloyd Cutler, executive director of the commission, said there was practically no mention of assassinations at the initial session.

President Johnson created the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence as Kennedy dying June 5. He asked for a wide-ranging study of violence including efforts to seek insight into assassinations.

Cutler said no witnesses connected with the investigation of the shootings of Kennedy or civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. are likely to be called to the panel's Oct. 2-3 hearings on the specific subject of assassinations. Instead, he said the panel would hear general testimony from psychiatrists and security personnel.

To Be Declared Posthumous Citizen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A native of Germany killed while fighting with the U. S. Army in Vietnam would be declared a posthumous citizen of the United States under a bill passed and sent to the White House.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex. from Fort Worth, sponsored the bill passed earlier this week by the House.

The German was Spec. 4 Klaus Josef Strauss who emigranted to the United States in 1954 and was drafted into the Army in 1966. He was awarded a Bronze Star in Vietnam where he was killed Feb. 8, 1968.

Saints' Atkins Is Top Defender

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Losers seldom produce players of the week but New Orleans threatens to secede from the Union if Doug Atkins of the Saints doesn't get the call for defense this week in the National Football League. They say even the Cleveland Browns will agree.

It seems Atkins, 38, celebrated the start of his 16th pro year last Sunday with 13 unassisted tackles. The 6-foot-6, 270-pound defensive end also took his turn flattening Frank Ryan, Cleveland's quarterbeck.

Despite the heroics of Atkins, Cleveland won the ball game 24-10 on interceptions by Ernie Kellerman, who almost became the goat on a pass interference call, and Bill Glass.

"He's unbelievable," said Coach Tom Fears of the Saints, describing Atkins. "He just breaks the laws of nature."

Blanton Collier, coach of the Browns, said to Atkins, "Dog-gone it, aren't you too old to still be playing the game?" Collier was an assistant coach under Paul Brown when Cleveland drafted Atkins as its No. 1 choice in 1953 out of Tennessee.

"I'm not satisfied with my performance," Atkins told staffer Ben Thomas. "The fact that we lost takes it all away. Let's have more victories and less stuff about how many tackles I make."

Frank Ryan's commented: "I'm glad I don't have that man coming at me every Sunday."

Kellerman also qualified for the Browns. Four plays after his interference call, he picked off a Bill Kilmer pass that led to the go-ahead touchdown.

Eddie Meador of the Los Angeles Rams was an important factor in Monday's 24-13 victory at St. Louis. The Rams gave three game balls, one each to defensive halfback Irv Cross, defensive end Lamar Lundy and defensive safety Ron Smith.

The New York Giants, who beat Pittsburgh 34-20, also had a candidate in Bob Lurtsema, defensive tackle. Chuck Howley, Dallas linebacker, stood out defensively in the Cowboys' 59-13 ramble over Detroit.

Washburn Fires No-Hitter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Twice in less than 24 hours either the San Francisco Giants or the St. Louis Cardinals went hitless as the Cardinals' Ray Washburn and the Giants' Gaylord Perry tossed consecutive no-hitters, the fourth and fifth in the major leagues this baseball season.

Perry walked two in no-hitting the National League pennant winners 1-0 Tuesday night and Washburn, surviving five walks, did the same, 2-0, Wednesday.

It was the first time in baseball history that successive no-hitters were pitched in the same park, and fewer than 15,000 fans —4,703 of them in the stands Wednesday—saw the masterpieces.

Despite the walks, caused by a wild sinkerball, Washburn was in complete control.

The 30-year-old Kirkland, Wash., right-hander, now 13-7, got the only run he needed in the seventh when Orlando Cepeda singled with one out, went to second on John Edwards' grounder and scored on Mike Shannon's double.

St. Louis scored again in the eighth as Dick Schofield opened with a double, went to third on Washburn's sacrifice and came in on Curt Flood's infield single.

The only other time two no-hitters were pitched on successive days in the same park was in 1917 when the St. Louis Browns did it against the Chicago White Sox. But it was over a span of three games.

Ernest Koob no-hit the White Sox 1-0 on May 5 and Robert Groom repeated the feat 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader on May 6.

"I got around to thinking about a no-hitter in the sixth," said Washburn, "By then, the boys were saying, 'Let's get some more hits' or 'Let's get some more runs.' But nobody said anything about a no-hitter.

"I got up to the full count several times. That probably was from not wanting to give in on a no-hitter.

"You can't make mistakes when you have fellows like Willie Mays and Willie McCovey coming up. But after I got Ron Hunt out in the ninth, I felt like I was in even against Mays and McCovey."

Mays grounded to third for the second out and Washburn got two quick strikes on McCovey before throwing a ball.

McCovey, the league homer leader with 34, lined the next pitch to Flood for the final out.

Reliever Joe Hoerner started warming up in the bullpen in the seventh after Washburn walked Hunt and McCovey. With one out, they advanced on Jim Hart's ground out. But Washburn retired the side by striking out Dick Dietz.

"I've waited 16 years for this and what a way to go out," exclaimed Cardinal outfielder Roger Maris, who is retiring after the World Series.

Washburn said he didn't get nervous until the end.

Cepeda remarked that maybe Washburn felt confident but there was plenty of tension for everybody else in the late innings.

"You keep thinking, just one booboo and you've messed up the whole thing."

Tigers To Rebound Tonight?

With one loss each in league play already, the Snyder Tigers and Lake View Chiefs probably will go at it "tooth and nail" tonight in their 3-AAA clash in Bobcat Stadium at San Angelo. Kickoff is on tap for 7:30 p.m.

The Bengals came out of the Dunbar clash in sound physical condition. Fullback David McGinnis sustained a calf muscle cramp during the affray, but returned to action later in the game.

Tonight's action pits Snyder's pro type tandem offense against the Chiefs' "Houston veer" with its option pitch outs.

Tiger coaches generally were pleased with the defensive performance of the Snyder team, although Dunbar took a 21-0 decision. Discounting peanlties, the Panthers actually only drove 11 and 12 yards respectively for their first two touchdowns. The third TD resulted from a blocked punt.

Insufficient pass and punt protection appeared to be the only real weakness in the Bengal performance. Discounting losses, Snyder actually had more total offense than the Panthers. McGinnis carried the ball 10 times for a total of 50 yards for a 5 yard average per carry. He was the leading Tiger ball carrier. A. G. Perryman, the touted Panther back, was the leading gainer with 59 yards total. However, he carried the pigskin 15 times. With a less average gain per carry than McGinnis, he was kept pretty well in check by the Bengal defenders. His biggest gain from scrimmage was for 11 yards, compared with an 18 yard jaunt by McGinnis.

Snyder picked off three of Dunbar's aerials. All of the defensive alignment looked much sharper than the score would seem to indicate. Mitch Rambin, Ricky Glasscock, Jerry January, and Randy Levens all looked good in the secondary. Middlemen or linebackers Eddie Ray McClain and McGinnis were in the right spot most of the time, and the front men — Cliff Voss and Kenneth Keller and Valvin Garcia and Tommy McDorman — did some good hitting.

Perryman was big and fast and hard to bring down. He probably would have gotten loose if the Tiger pursuit hadn't been so good. Team pursuit was really outstanding.

A loss wouldn't necessarily eliminate either Snyder of Lake View tonight, but it would "push the loser against the wall."

Do Browns Choke Up?

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Cleveland Browns come into their National Football League game with the Dallas Cowboys Sunday in the Cotton Bowl with something to prove—that they don't blow the big ball games.

"That's something the players are sick and tired of hearing," says publicity director Nate Wallack of the Browns. "They keep hearing that they choke in the big games—that they can't whip the good teams in the league like Green Bay and Dallas."

Wallack said a 55-7 loss to Green Bay and, a 52-14 loss to Dallas in the Eastern Conference championship game were examples of the ill fortune that befell Cleveland last year.

"We will be trying to prove we can play a good game against one of the good teams in the league," said Wallack.

Both the Cowboys and Browns won their openers, Dallas routing Detroit 59-13 and Cleveland overcoming New Orleans 24-10 in the rain and mud.

Dallas is the total offensive leader in the NFL going into the game and Cleveland is the total defensive leader.

Coach Tom Landry of Dallas says "We must control their running game. Leroy Kelly is the key. We must contain Kelly to beat Cleveland."

Three Raiders Are Sidelined

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Three players will miss Texas Tech's football opener Saturday night with Cincinnati and fullback Jackie Stewart will see only limited action.

Defensive end George Cox has been slow to recover from a knee operation. Also missing the first game will be linebacker Fred Warren and second string offensive guard Bobby Parkhill.

Stewart's injury, a pulled leg muscle, likely will relegate the starting fullback job to junior Tony Butler, who has been running neck-and-neck with Stewart for the starting job since last spring.

Ladies Finals Is A Rematch

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Ann Rathmell of Houston and Mrs. Mary Griffith of Fort Worth meet in the quarterfinals today of the state Women's Amateur Golf tournament in a rematch of last year's chamionship round.

Mrs. Rathmell walked away with the title at the 1967 tournament in Tyler with a 4 and 2 victory over Mrs. Griffith.

In Wednesday's matches, Mrs. Rathmell defeated Mrs. Ruth Newberry of Gonzales 4 and 3 and Mrs. Griffith downed Betty Ferguson of Quero 2 and 1.

Finals in the championship and first flights are scheduled Saturday. All other fights will finish on Friday.

Super Conference Rumored

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas Board of Regents is expected to authorize a study into the school's relationship with the Southwest Conference but the outcome could be much more far reaching.

Frank C. Erwin Jr., chairman of the regents, said Wednesday the board is considering reactivating a special committee at its regular meeting Friday to study UT's own intercollegiate athletic program and its relationship to the SWC.

Erwin said any speculation concerning Texas' future in the conference would be premature at this time.

Erwin referred to a Dallas Times Herald story which said the study could revive proposals of a "super conference" among the SWC's state-supported institutions, Texas, Texas A&M, Arkansas and Texas Tech and adding Oklahoma, Louisiana and the University of Houston.

"We will discuss this matter only in relation to our own problems," Erwin said. But the Times Herald article quoted a highly-placed source on the board as saying such a study could have "upheaval results."

The UT study reportedly would examine friction between the league's state-supported schools and the private colleges.

Erwin's statement made no reference to conflict within the SWC but other sources pointed out that conference votes on many issues are split 4-4 and 5-3.

These sources said that Rice, TCU, SMU and Baylor have much smaller athletic budgets, especially the three church schools, than the state-supported institutions.

One point of contention between the private and state-supported schools, the Times Herald article said, is the cost of scholarships.

Football scholarships are much more costly at the private institutions and these schools would like to limit the scholarships. UT-Austin feels such limitation would make the state-supported schools less competitive on the national scene.

The special study committee also likely would study proposals to enlarge Memorial Stadium at Austin.

Fall registration at the Austin school is expected to reach 31,500. The stadium seats 66,397, leaving only about 26,500 tickets available for sale to non-student supporters after the visitor ticket allotment is subtracted.

Rain Delays McLain's Bid

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A sympathetic cloudburst gave the Detroit Tigers an extra day to recover from their first pennant celebration in 23 years.

The Tigers, who wrapped up the American League flag and celebrated with champagne showers the night before had their game against the New York Yankees postponed by rain Wednesday night.

That was just fine with the bleary-eyed town of Detroit which went wild Tuesday night when the Tigers clinched their first flag since 1945.

The rainout delayed Denny McLain's bid for a 31st victory. McLain, hoping to match the total reached by Robert "Lefty" Grove in 1931, was to go against 20-game winner Mel Stottlemyre, out with a three-run flurry in today's makeup game.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Boston shut out Baltimore 4-0, and Minnesota split a doubleheader with California, winning the first game 4-3 and dropping the nightcap by the same score. Washington's game at Cleveland was also rained out.

In the National League, St. Louis' Ray Washburn no-hit San Francisco 2-0, making it two no-hitters in as many days at Candlestick Park. Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 2-1. Atlanta blanked Houston 2-0. The Chicago Cubs trounced the New York Mets 7-2 and Cincinnati downed Los Angeles 2-0.

Roger Nelson pitched six hitless innings against Boston before the Red Sox knocked him out in the seventh and went on to beat the Orioles.

Nelson retired 18 straight batters and struck out 13 after walking the leadoff man in the first inning. But Mike Andrews opened the seventh with a single. A walk to Carl Yastrzemski and Ken Harrelson's single loaded the bases.

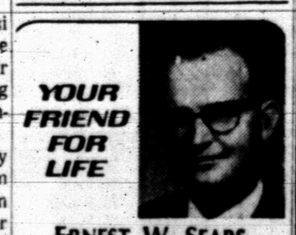

Reggie Smith singled for two runs knocking out Nelson and the Sox added another when Joe Foy drew a bases-loaded walk against reliever Pete Richert. Smith's sacrifice fly brought home another run in the eighth. Dick Ellsworth and Lee Stange combined for the seven-hit shutout.

Bruce Look singled home a pair of runs in the fourth inning, snapping a 1-1 tie and moving Minnesota toward its first game on Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly.

victory over California. Dean Chance got the victory with late-inning help from Ron Perranoski. Chance, 15-15, struck out seven, giving him 223 for the season and establishing a Minnesota club record. The old mark was 221 by Camilo Pascual in 1961.

In the nightcap, Jim Fregosi tripled home two runs in the first inning and built another with some daring base running in the seventh to earn the Angels the split.

Fregosi's triple drove in Jay Johnstone and Jarvis Tatum who had singled in the first. In the seventh, Fregosi bunted for a hit and then raced to third when catcher George Mitterwald was slow to retrieve Dave Boswell's wild pitch. He scored

Atlanta Clips Houston, 2 To 1

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rest of the National League action was more routine as the Chicago Cubs downed the New York Mets 7-2, Atlanta nipped Houston 2-1, Philadelphia got by Pittsburgh 2-1 and Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 2-0.

In theonly American League contests, Boston shut out Baltimore 4-0 and Minnesota tripped California 4-3 before losing 4-3 in a doubleheader. Washington was rained out at Cleveland as were the New York Yankees at Detroit.

Washburn and Perry outdid Ernest Koob and Robert Groom of the St. Louis Browns, the only pitchers to hurl no-hitters on successive days in the same ballpark. But Koob and Groom did it over a span of three games—Koob on May 5 and Groom in the second game of a doubleheader on May 6.

"I've been with the Cardinals 23 years and never saw a no-hitter before," smiled Manager Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals. Lon Warneke was the last Cardinal to turn the trick—in 1940.

"It was my first no-hitter since high school," said Washburn, who had a 12-9 for St. Louis in 1962 before injuring his arm the next year. Thanks to the Cardinals' patience, he has slowly worked his way back after years of 5-3, 3-4, 9-11, 11-9 and 10-7.

Bob Bolin of the Giants matched the shutout until the seventh when Mike Shannon doubled Home. Orlando Cepeda. Dick Schofield doubled in the eighth and eventually scored on Curt Flood's infield hit.

Washburn's gem was the fifth in the majors this season and third in the National League.

The Giants clung to second place despite the loss, although Cincinnati climbed within two games as Gerry Arrigo and Ted Abernathy hurled a four-hitter and Tony Perez doubled in one run and scored another.

The Cubs remained 15½ games back and in the battle for second place as Jim Hickman broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning with a run-scoring single and Adolfo Phillips followed with his 11th homer.

Loser Jerry Koosman, 18-11 homered for the Mets, who broke their own major league strike out record of 1,129 for one season by fanning four times for 1,132.

The loss left the Mets still tied with Houston for las place after Phil Niekro of Atlanta cut down the Astros on three hits and Hank and Tommie Aaron doubled home runs in the first inning.

Johnny Briggs singled home a run off Bob Veale in the seventh inning, giving Jerry Johnson and Philadelphia their victory. The hit followed Tony Taylor's run-scoring ground out.

Rebel End Honored

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Senior Bill Bergey of Arkansas State made 26 tackles and blocked two passes at the line of scrimmage to earn Southland Conference defenseive player of the week honors.

Split end Jimmy Thomas of the University of Texas at Arlington snagged five passes for 130 yard and two touchdowns to gain the offinsive player of the week plaudits.

Umps Take Case To Congressmen

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Umpires Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, fired by American League President Joe Cronin Monday, were scheduled to present their case today at a meeting in Washington with Senators Jacob Javits and William Goodell and Rep. Alexander Pirnie, all of New York.

The Utica Press reported Wednesday night that Salerno, of Utica, and Valentine, of Little Rock, Ark., would meet with the lawmakers before going to New York for a news conference and television appearance.

The umpires' attorneys, Jerry Milano and Harry Hanna, both of Cleveland, also were to attend the Washington meeting, which was set up at the invitation of the lawmakers.

Cronin said he fired Salerno, who has worked in the league for 12 years, and Valentine, who was hired in 1962, for incompetence. The unpires insist they were cut loose because of their labor activities in attempting to organize American League umpires and join in an association with their National League colleagues.

Salerno, 37, and Valentine, 35, said in Utica they were confident a major league umpires association would be formed within a week. "There's not much we can do until the association is formed and doing business," they said.

OLFACTORY APPRECIATION

Essence Vital To A Woman

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A visit to a perfume factory can be a dizzying experience. It can leave you a bit disoriented, your mind addled, your awe of human vanity multiplied.

First there's the smell. A young lady off the production lines gets on the tiny elevator and as the door closes the scent of powder and perfume causes you to gasp for a breath of the pure industrial smog you've been used to breathing.

Then there's the language. It's fragile, soft, murmuring. A casual observation may flow in a melody of tender sounds that seems to create an awe of the product and its user.

"I look at fragrances as an expression of the mystique of each woman; it surrounds a woman with a heightened aura of excitement," says Andrew Borzner, a vice president of the Coty company.

He holds up a line of new products. "This is a tribute to American women," Borzner says, his excitement growing as he visualizes the future market. "It is a distillation of American women. It is a mystical expression of her. It is . . ."

Then there's the feeling that a plot against reality, a conspiracy to make people what they aren't, is secretly being perpetrated behind the "employes only" doors: The essence of the fragrance cosmetics business was described this way by Pierre Parchois, another Coty man:

"A woman likes to change her personality. When she is young she likes to look more sophisticated. And then as she grows older she attempts to retain her youth." Perfumes and cosmetics help create these new personalities.

Parchois, a distinguished and gentlemanly native of Grasse, France, where the main industry has always been perfumes, is the head nose around Coty.

Nose? Well that's what they call them in the perfume factory. They sniff the new fragrances, choose the essential oils, and determine that the hundreds of scents are mixed exactly as they should be.

More than 300 fragrances might make one perfume, Parchois notes. It could include civet, which is from the civet cat and costs $3,000 a kilogram, Bulgarian rose, which is distilled with steam, musk tonkin from a Chinese goat and ambergris from a whale's intestines.

These are the ingredients also of an amazing business. Sales of toiletries and cosmetics last year totaled $3.5 billion. Add in the beauty parlors and the health spas and you double that figure.

Women's vanity, you are inclined to believe, is responsible for all this. But Borzner and Parchois convince you otherwise. It isn't vanity at all, they say. It's confidence—the lack of it and the desire to acquire it.

A perfume or cosmetic is not something applied only to the outside of a woman, you are told. You are then educated in the theory of the interior woman.

"It does something to the inside of a woman. "It gives her confidence, the feeling of being complete," one of the Coty men said. The other added: "A fragrance is essential as a dress; it gives her confidence."

Perhaps so. But are the wrinkle removers, the greases and jellies really worthwhile? Some dermatologists say they aren't. Said Parchois: "Yes, you can do with soap, water and one cream but it would be a minimum. Why do with a minimum? You could also fill up on bread and water but it wouldn't satisfy."

And prices. Isn't it true that sometimes the package costs more than the contents? It has happened in the past at some companies, they concede, but Borzner maintains that the net profit after taxes is only 5 to 7 per cent.

Future profits could be much better. Sales have been rising 10 per cent a year, which is faster than the population increase. Males are now being drawn in as customers, gradually and carefully lest the whole thing boomerang.

Jumping To Conclusions With Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) —Jumping to conclusions:

Animals as well as people can be corrupted in a welfare state. It you stroll through a public park you will note that the squirrels, once symbols of independent thrift, now spend about as much time soliciting free peanuts from passers-by as they do in scouring the grass for acorns to bury.

You used to be able to tell when a man had just been to the barber by the way he smelled. Now many he-men reek so much of the sniff-sweet they pour on their faces in the morning that they smell as if they had spent three weeks in a barbershop.

Poor men and self-made millionaires share one trait in common—both like to reminisce about the hard times they had in their youth. But the millionaire generally has a more appreciative audience, simply because his tale has a happier ending.

Whatever happened to the mystery of feminity? Now that the television commercials show us that women are afflicted with dandruff, denture breath and even athlete's foot, they don't seem to be any more of an enigma than ordinary mortals.

One of the nice things about being told by your psychiatrist that you suffer from a secret inferiority complex is that, when you brag about it later to your friends, it enables you to feel smugly superior.

Seeing is believing. That's why a salesmen with a lot of gold in his teeth finds it easier to sell stock in a mining company. His customers subconsciously feel that if he has all that ore in his mouth there is probably even more still left in the mine.

Wise old Benjamin Franklin once observed that eight out of 10 people, by the manner in which they live, take their own lives. The figure today would probably be nine out of 10.

If people could be arrested for their thoughts, every jail in the country would be thronged by nightfall.

No one can be called truly educated who has never owned a cat. A cat will teach you more of the profundity of life than a hundred books.

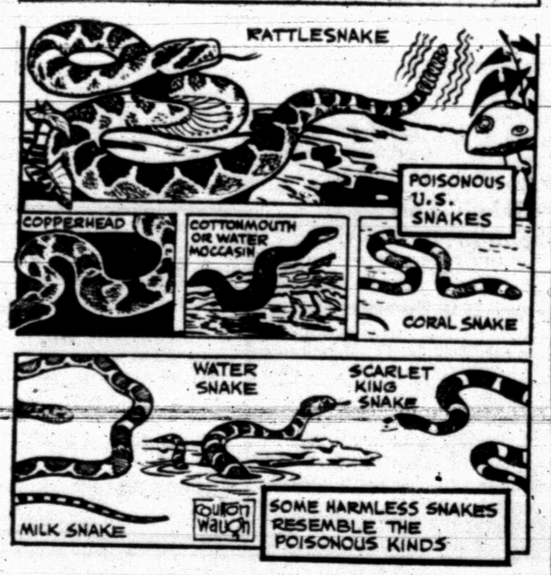

New tools don't always replace old tools. No matter how much a husband spends on a gadget-attached vacuum cleaner for his wife, he'll find she still likes to keep a carpet sweeper in the closet and a broom in the kitchen. Why? Only she knows.

After a lifetime spent in alternately, gaining and losing weight, the most successful diet rule I know is this one: Eat none of the foods you really like—eat all you want of the foods you can't stand.

The world is such a depressing turnoil today that many readers, after a quick glance at the front page of their newspapers, now turn to the obituary section in the hope of finding something more cheering.

An optimist is a guy who saves all his old lottery tickets in the hope that they'll hold a second drawing. Would you like to see my drawerful?

Junior Editors Quiz on SNAKES

QUESTION: Which are the poisonous snakes in the U.S.A.?

* * *

ANSWER: There are four main kinds of poisonous snakes in this country, which we show in the top of the picture. Rattlesnakes, copperheads and water moccasins all belong to a group called pit vipers because of a pit between the eye and nostril. These are thick-bodied snakes with arrow-shaped heads, mostly with dark saddleshapes across the body. They have long fangs and are extremely dangerous. The rattlesnake vibrates his tail when angry. His rattles make a buzzing sound. The smaller copperhead is pinkish copper in color, and the moccasin is dark with a white mouth. The fourth poisonous snake, the coral, is different in shape, thin, with a small head. The fangs are small, but the poison is deadly. Coral snakes are found in the southern parts of the United States.

Below the poisonous snakes, we show three harmless snakes which might be confused with them. There is no simple rule to tell a poisonous from a harmless snake. Unless you are a snake expert, it is best to leave all of them alone.
