"New Deal" Spirit Seems To Have Been Infused In Observance; Weather Is Varied Over Nation

Four Generations Represented In President's Family In White House Dinner; 1,500 Americans Get Amnesty

(By The Associated Press)

THE cheer of Christmas yesterday covered all Christendom.

And into the American carol, especially, crept the merry note of increased yuletide spending—indicating, some trade reports state, the most optimistic holiday since 1929.

"New Deal" Predominates

The world, perturbed by bickering and depression, forgot trouble and took heart in the belief that better times were ahead. Rich and poor, the prince and the pauper seemed infused with a "New Deal" spirit.

The weather was a conglomerate—snows, rains, sub-zero temperatures, sunshine. But what mattered the state of the sun or the winds? It was Christmas. There were the usual accidents, taking a toll of more than two score lives to dim happiness in some homes.

In Washington, the first citizen of the United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, was a private personage for the day—giving out gifts to his family, to his friends, to his servants. The day before in a Christmas message to the nation, the President paraphrased Dick-

Farm License Plan Proposed

Farmers Who Do Not Participate In Government Plan Would Be Restricted In Operations Under Rule

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Farmers who do not participate in the government's production control plans for agriculture would be licensed and restricted in their operations under a plan suggested by the conference of national farm leaders.

The delegation which conferred Friday with farm administration officials, has suggested to Secretary Wallace that an amendment providing for the licensing plan be incorporated in the farm act at the coming session of congress.

Would Prevent Increases

The plan was designed to prevent farmers from upsetting the administration's program by drastically increasing their acreage and production in the hope of making large profits from expected price increases.

Under it those farmers who did not sign production contracts would be required to obtain a government license in order to continue farming operations. The license would limit their production of foodstuffs to the amounts they produced over an average period to be determined by the administration.

The plan was brought to Secretary Wallace's attention in a resolution adopted by the conference. It was proposed by Clarence Poe of Raleigh, N. C., editor of the Progressive Farmer.

Death Overtakes Spanish Leader

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 25. (AP)—Colonel Francisco Macia (above), who fought for years for the autonomy of Catalonia, saw his dream realized and became its first president, died today. Death overtook the old warrior after a valiant struggle against disease. He was 74. For four years he was in exile, following expose of a plot of international ramifications to overthrow the monarchy, only to return in triumph in 1931, aid in the fall of the throne and lead the fight establishing Catalonia as an independent state.

Wreck Grieves French Nation

Total Of 196 Known Dead In Train Tragedy And Death Total Expected To Be Over 200; Crew In Prison

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Dec. 25.—The horror of Saturday night's railroad catastrophe saddened Christmas Day for France. Twenty-three bodies of the 196 known victims remained unidentified, some so mutilated that it was doubted if their identity could ever be established.

An indication of the frightful shock of the crash of the Strasbourg flier into the fogbound Nancy Express 17 miles from here was the fact that 165 passengers in wooden cars of the express were killed outright.

May Be Higher

Thirty-one died in hospitals later with the death list likely to go above 200.

A national funeral service will be held for the victims Wednesday.

As investigators continued what loomed as a long inquiry into the worst railroad disaster in the history of France, both the engineer and fireman of the flier remained in prison at Meaux, charged with homicide by imprudence.

Lucien Daudigny, engineer of the fireman, both badly shocked by the flier, and Henry Charpentier, the disaster, continued to insist that the signal was for a clear track ahead and that they heard no warning torpedoes, left by the crew of the Nancy train.

Thousands Of Children Hear Opera Opening Gotham Season

NEW YORK, Dec. 25 (AP)—Forty years ago this yuletide, Engelbert Humperdinck, the Dutch composer, wrote for his children a musical version of the Grim fairy tale, Hansel and Gretel. Friends heard it, persuaded the composer to present it as an opera.

Today, several thousand New York children heard it at the Metropolitan opera. This Christmas matinee was a prelude to the opening of the opera season tomorrow night.

Congress To Hear FDR's First Annual Message Delivered On January 3

President May Deliver It In Person In Joint Session; Budget Six Billion Dollars

By CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25. (AP)—President Roosevelt's first annual message to congress will be delivered on January 3—the first day of the session—for reading by a house clerk.

Speaker Rainey said today that contrary to reports, the president did not plan to deliver the message in person but some of Mr. Roosevelt's advisors are still urging him to appear in person to deliver the message to a joint session of the senate and house.

G. O. P. Awaits Developments

Democrats are contending that the country is more back of the president that a few months ago and that they are prepared to follow him in his recommendations. Republicans generally are saying little and awaiting developments.

Speaker Rainey said he expected the ordinary and extraordinary budgets to call for appropriations in excess of $6,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1934. This includes the budget estimates of $2,600,000,000 for ordinary expenses of the government.

Of balance, about $1,700,000,000 is to be asked for continuation of the public works-employment program; about $500,000,000 for federal relief; additional capital for the reconstruction corporation for business stimulation, and varying sums for other government enterprises.

Liquor Bills To Be Up

First on the legislative calendar, Rainey said would be a bill for the repeal of the Volstead act as it applies to the District of Columbia, territories and possessions. This is to be followed by the liquor revenue bill to be introduced by Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee on the first day. It will call for a $2 a gallon levy on spirits, $5 a barrel on beer, retain present import duties on wines, spirits and brew, all the revenue from these sources, estimated at more than $500,000,000 to go into the federal treasury.

The president's budget message will be received by congress on the second day of the session. Indications are that the president, under the authority granted him in the economy act, may restore 5 per cent of the federal pay cut effective January 1, in view of increased living costs. The budget for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, provides for restoration of the full 15 per cent.

To Tighten Income Tax

The general revenue revision measure, designed to raise about $270,000,000 through tightening up of the administrative provisions of the income tax law, is scheduled for

Rising Populations, Curtailed Budgets And Prospects Of Further Salary Slashes Facing City Systems

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Dr. George F. Zook, commissioner of education, tonight sketched, in a survey of city schools, a dark picture of rising school populations, curtailed budgets and the prospect of further slashes in teachers' salaries.

"Prospects reported by city superintendents for the current year," Zook said in his second recent survey of the effect of depression on schools, "are, as a whole, dark, although there are some bright spots in the national picture."

Budgets Reduced

The commissioner said reductions in current operating budgets for schools average almost 20 per cent since 1931.

"School budget reductions in small cities of the north central, south central and western states average 33 per cent between 1931 and the present school year," he said.

"Very few cities have not made some reduction in teachers' salaries since 1930. The reductions run as high as 40 and 45 percent. The average decrease is probably about 14 per cent. Further reductions are re-

Increase In Personnel Of U. S. Marine Corps Requested

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP)—An appeal for greater strength in the fighting force of the marine corps was made tonight by Major General Ben H. Fuller, corps commandant, in his annual report to Secretary Swanson.

An increase in the marine's strength was necessary, the general said, in order that the corps could "properly" carry out its missions.

General Fuller recommended that the corps be increased to 17,000, or approximately 1,000 men more than the force which it was understood the budget bureau would ask congress to approve in January.

One Of Southwest's Oldest Men Dies On Christmas Day

HOUSTON, Dec. 25. (AP)—Death came on Christmas Day to Otto Mackensen at the age of 103 years.

Mackensen, one of the oldest men in the southwest, was born in the Hartz mountains, in Badenhausen, Germany, on November 28, 1830 — six years before the Republic of Texas was born.

In 1854 he came to this country, and settled on a farm near Lockhart, Texas. When the Civil war disrupted the nation, Mackensen volunteered in the Confederate army and served through the war with a company in Green's brigade. He was the last survivor of the company.

Paul Mitchell Awaits Death At Huntsville

Slayer Of Robert Tharp Is In Death Row Of Penitentiary Awaiting Execution Early Wednesday Morning

Amarilloan Has Hopes Of Getting Last-Minute Reprieve From Governor; Christmas Sweets Are Untouched

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 25.—In the dank death house of the state prison here tonight, Paul Mitchell, 24, of Amarillo, condemned robber, who is to take the one-way walk to the electric chair here early Wednesday, brooded in his cell on death row.

His wife and other relatives had just left his cell where they paid him a short Christmas Day visit and brought him a few sweet meats, which lay untouched after they departed.

Shows Signs Of Breaking

The blond Texan, who admitted a hold-up in which a man was shot to death, showed signs of breaking after his relatives departed. Heretofore he had shown no fear of the electric chair, officials said.

Unless Governor Miriam A. Ferguson acts to stay his execution he will be put to death shortly after midnight tomorrow—or legally the first minute of Wednesday morning.

"I have some hopes of escaping the chair," he told his keepers. "My relatives and friends have been busy in my behalf and maybe they will succeed."

Friday morning, Dewey Hunt, 27, Dallas murderer, and two negroes are scheduled to pay the supreme penalty in the chair, also.

Slayer Is To Pay For Killing Robert Tharp

Filipino Case Faces Trouble

Commission Head In U. S. For Conference Is Said To Be Lacking In Support From His Island People

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25. — While the Christmas spirit prevailed elsewhere, there was far from peace and harmony among Philippines political leaders here and in Manila today when lines were drawn for an independence fight—about which something must be done by next January 17.

While the independence mission headed by the Senate President Manuel L. Quezon waited here for an interview with President Roosevelt in an attempt to enlist his aid for a modified independence bill, Commissioner Camilo Osias returned from six months in the islands saying Quezon lacked popular support at home and that the people there would approve the present independence measure if given an opportunity.

Restrictions In Bill

The measure, enacted last January 17, grants the Philippines independence in 10 years with certain restrictions during the period. The act however requires Philippines acceptance within a year of its passage. The Philippines legislature last summer rejected it, empowering Quezon to come to Washington to attempt to obtain a modification or a new bill.

Quezon, who arrived here several weeks ago, has kept quiet regarding his plans, and leaders have been noncommittal so far, but informal predictions have been that congress would take the attitude that it had placed the long discussed sovereignity issue squarely before the Philippines people, and if this were rejected, little could be done again for perhaps a decade.

Hope To Stay Aloft Until 1934

Christmas Is Just Another Tiresome Day In The Skies For Two Endurance Fliers In Florida; Women Seek Mark

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 25.—Christmas meant just another tiresome day in the skies for Helen Richey and Frances Marsalis, endurance fliers.

"There ain't no Santa Claus up here," said the women aviators in a yuletide note dropped as they piloted their plane in monotonous circles into the sixth day in the air.

The only variation for the fliers in an otherwise routine day was a big turkey dinner, sent up to them along with a tiny artificial Christmas tree and a greeting from an American aviatrix in far off Moscow.

To Stay Until Engine Quits

Because of cramped space in the plane, the women decided to have their presents remain on the ground until they end their flight which, they said, will not be until the engine quits.

They seek to break the record of eight days and four hours, established last year by Mrs. Marsalis and Louise Thaden.

While the endurance fliers were dining on turkey their refueling plane flew alongside pulling a huge banner on which was printed a Christmas greeting. Shortly afterward, they dropped a note saying:

Send Greetings

"Surely enjoyed the many Christmas greetings floating through the air. It surely gave us a thrill and

Dr. Butler Assails Profit Motive Of Society

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. — Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler this Christmas Day assailed the dominance of the profit motive in society.

The noted liberal, in his report as president of Columbia university, declared that "if profit, and profit alone, be the end sought by human effort, then society must reconcile itself to steady disintegration, constantly increasing conflict between individual groups and nations, and eventual destruction."

Moralists have been pointing out almost from the beginning of time, Dr. Butler said, that "it is only when men rise above domination by the profit motive and learn to subordinate profit to service that the social, economic and political orders begin to come in sight of a firm foundation and a continuing existence, with peace and happiness assured to the great mass of mankind at least."

Must Change To Service

"It has remained for the happenings of the generation last past," the educator added, "to force these fundamental truths

Several People Over State Are Victims Of Mishaps; Child Shot At San Antonio May Die; Negro Sought

KNIVES, pistols and other instruments of death flashed throughout Texas to disturb the usual tranquility of Christmas, leaving five dead, one critically wounded and another badly beaten.

At Waxahachie, Joe Edmondson, about 35, member of a pioneer family, was found beaten to death in the dim stairway of a downtown building. His face was mutilated almost beyond recognition. Police were holding Bill Easterwood, bricklayer, and one of Edmondson's closest friends. District Attorney Archie Gray said murder charges would be filed pending grand jury action.

Said Attack Made

Easterwood, himself badly bludgeoned about the head, denied the killing and said he was attacked by "two or three men" in the stairway of his rooming house. The attack which took Edmondson's life occurred shortly after Edmonson had departed from Easterwood's room, he told police.

Austin investigating officers searched for clues in the death of J. N. Stallings, 58, found beaten to death in a vacant lot. His hat was found in a street nearby. Justice of

Warning Given On PWA Delay

Ickes Says Allocations For Projects Will Be Canceled Or Rescinded If Work Is Not Begun Soon

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25. — A sharp warning that the Public Works administration would unhesitatingly cancel or rescind allocations for projects to communities that are dilatory in getting actual work under way was given tonight by Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator.

His principal objection was against delays in the execution of proper contracts after projects had been approved by the public works board and allotment made.

Agreements Drawn

In a formal statement, Ickes cited figures showing that just before the holiday, grant agreements and bond purchase contracts covering 586 non-federal allotments had been drawn and sent to applicants.

Of these, he said, 279 had been returned properly executed and 307 had not been returned. Until the contracts are executed, funds cannot be transferred to begin work. Public works officials estimated that more than $50,000,000 in prospective payrolls was represented in the delayed contracts.

Warned Months Ago

"Months ago," Ickes said, "I warned against dilatory tactics which permit these funds to clog in official channels without final accomplishment of their purpose."

"Officials of local public bodies which have received allotments must act upon these contracts one way or the other or state why they fail to do so.

"The public works administration stands ready to aid any locality on any questions that result from these

Bank Debits Of Southwest Go To New High In Past Week

DALLAS, Dec. 25. (AP)—Southwestern bank debits jumped to a high of $141,764,000 for the week ending Wednesday, under the stimulus of Christmas business, the eleventh district Federal Reserve bank of Dallas reports.

The total was a gain of approximately $24,000,000 over the same week of 1932 and of nearly $26,000,000 over the preceding week of 1933.

Kelly Fails To Make Good His Boast To Escape By Christmas; 'In Solitary'

(By The Associated Press)

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Dec. 25.—While federal prison restrictions lifted slightly for other convicts, boastful George Kelly and two of his associates in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping found Christmas to be just another day behind the walls.

They remained "in solitary." They ate Christmas dinner—ham for Kelly and baken chicken for Harvey Bailey and George Bates—alone. Only their guards saw them exchange holiday greetings. Skies without were grey.

Kelly's boast upon his admittance to the prison Oct. 13, to serve a life term—"I'll be out of here before Christmas"—was answered by Warden Fred G. Berbst.

"We can keep him from now on," the warden said.

Kelly, a machine gunner in the $200,000 kidnaping of Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, last July, is held in a high tier along the west wall of the prison proper.

Bailey, "brains" of the abduction plot, and Bates, another strong arm hoodlum, are confined in isolated cells in the

Yale Professor Lists Nineteen Men Of World 'Who Understand Money'

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Professor Irving Fisher's list of men "who understand the real meaning of money" was publicized today.

Prominent in the list is Professor George Warren of Cornell, monetary advisor to the president.

Only nineteen are named.

In a letter to E. C. Riegal, president of the Consumers Guild of America, the Yale economist said "there are doubtless several others whose names do not happen to occur to me just now, as well as others especially among younger economists whom I do not even know. There are also some business leaders."

The list gives these names: Professor Harry G. Brown, University of Missouri; Professor Warren, Professor F. A. Pearson of Cornell university; Professor J. Harvey Rogers of Yale; Professor Williford I. King of New York university; Professor John R. Commons of University of Wisconsin; Dr. Warren Persons, of New York, Professor Ed. M. We can hope that you are arising late this morning, well filled with turkey and dressing and that the boss doesn't frown too much when you are late to work—in case you belong in that class.

CHILDREN'S DAY

YOU may think that you were having a good time yesterday but did you watch the children? There were little girls strutting proudly along the walks with bundles wrapped in blankets snuggled in their arms. Other little girls were pushing buggies or proudly displaying their dolls in their arms.

There were little boys learning to navigate shiny new bicycles and children in pairs and alone trying out their new skates.

Porches were cluttered up with shiny new red wagons and groups of children were standing in front of homes dividing their candies and fruits.

CHRISTMAS DAY

THIS is Christmas Day afternoon. Occasionally, still, there is the bang of a fire cracker, muffled by the walls of the building. Cars slide down the almost deserted street and once in a while some one wanders slowly down the walk across the way.

Business houses as far as one can see are darkened, as this is the hour before window lights are turned on. It's a holiday and the town is more deserted than on the ordinary Sunday.

Inside here there is almost as much noise as usual but less activity. New arrivals are greeted with questions about a merry Christmas and occasionally some gift is displayed. Men who will work tonight putting out this paper are arriving at intervals to start their work.

There is the staccato tap of typewriters as four people soberly go about their work and, supporting this, is the more muffled but constant clatter of machines bringing news over The Associated Press wires.

Shaded lamps over each desk cast a circle of light in the deepening gloom that is following the sinking of the sun and front windows, cast against the buildings across the street, reflect feebly this business-like scene to those of us who make it up.

Penetrating the usual noise is the peal of a telephone. Some one wants to know the time—coming back to realities after two days of lethargy and good times.

A negro man and his colored spouse, dressed in work clothes, come slowly down the walk in front of the Citizens National Bank building dragging brooms at their heels. They open the door of an office and go in. A light flashes on and they disappear to the back while a man, smoking a cigar, strolls leisurely past studying the movements within.

A lone woman studies shop windows as she passes down the street a block behind the man. She lingers before displays but does not appear interested. She is leaning against a wall dividing two buildings — evidently waiting for some companion to join her.

The door slams. Another night worker ending his usual holiday for Christmas was no more than a week-end to the men on the morning paper.

The telephone rings again. Some one wanting to know details of an accident. Cars continue to glide down the street, often with whole families leaning back to enjoy the ride. It's a holiday, late in the afternoon.

Charles Goodyear made his accidental discovery of vulcanization of rubber in 1839.

NECKLINE COUNTS
PATTERN 9838

When your new afternoon frock boasts a truly "different" neckline—you may be sure it's up to the minute. Just see what happens to this one—the scarf crushes about the neck and ties in back, a second end tops the crush, creates a bib over the bodice and finishes in chic pointed seaming. Clever, isn't it?—and so smart! The waistline is belted only in back for a slim effect. The sleeves merit attention, too, set in raglan fashion and finishing just below the elbow, though they may be cut short as in small sketch.

Pattern 9838 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 5-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 7-8 yard contrasting.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Dawson Man Is Buried Sunday Afternoon; Was Gun Victim

LAMESA, Dec. 25. (Special)—Funeral of Francis M. Mullens, 58-year-old Dawson county farmer, fatally shot in a local store Saturday, was conducted at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon here. Burial was in a local cemetery.

A justice of the peace, conducting an inquest, tonight had not returned a verdict.

Mullens was shot in the head by a second-hand 32.20 caliber pistol he said he was planning to buy. He took the gun in the rear of the store to examine it, Sheriff Gus White said. Three shots were fired, one bullet striking Mullens in the right temple. The gun was on the floor about three feet from Mullens' body when C. B. Bucklew and a Mr. Cole found the dying man.

Ceremony Read In Hall Chapel

Tech Graduates Are Married In Seaman Hall On Monday With Two Local Ministers Reading The Ceremony

Miss Ruth Winton Reed, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Reed, 2910 Twenty-First street, and Victor C. Bearden of near Lamesa were married Monday at high noon in Creighton chapel at Seaman hall with the ring ceremony. Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Marshall Rhew, assistant pastor of First Methodist church, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a blue suit with a gray hat and gray accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

The altar of the chapel was banked with gold chrysanthemums, oak leaves and fern and lighted with tapers. Ivory cathedral candles burned in flood candelabra.

Miss Rylander Sings

Miss Mary Frances Akard of Amarillo played the wedding music. She accompanied Miss Ruth Mildred Rylander, who sang "If God Left Only You" preceding the ceremony.

The couple is to be at home in Klondike in Dawson county, where Mr. Bearden teaches.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Texas Technological college. Mrs. Bearden is a member of the Tech chapter of the Southern Scholarship society. For the last two years she has been a laboratory assistant in the biology department at the college.

Mr. Bearden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bearden of near Lamesa. He and his bride were graduated from Tech college last June.

Since announcement of her engagement several weeks ago, Mrs. Bearden has been complimented with a number of parties here.

Three Laredo Attorneys Are Out For Legislative Office

LAREDO, Dec. 25. (AP)—Three Laredo attorneys—Ed H. Lange, Leo A. Netzer and John L. George—are candidates to succeed Paul S. Hill, who resigned in November as state representative from the 75th district, made up of Webb and Zapata counties.

An election to pick Hill's successor has been called for January 13. The time for filing for places on the ballot expired at midnight Friday night.

Hill resigned to accept a post as assistant counsel for the joint United States-Mexico boundary commission.

Horses Have Own Christmas In Gotham; Is Yearly Custom

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. (AP) — The horse had his own Christmas tree—festooned with gadgets dear to a horse's heart—on the lower west side of Manhattan Saturday. It is a yearly custom of the humane society.

The fir was strung with eight new-type feed-bags, shiny bits, bridles, cloth snowshoes, gloves for drivers and placards reminding owners to water their horses. Lying about at the base were several pails full of apples for passing drivers to hand to their beasts.

Standing guard was a Santa Claus in scarlet and white.

Government Files Income Tax Lien Against Buster Keaton

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25. (AP)—An income tax lien seeking $13,774 has been filed against Buster Keaton, film comedian, by the government, which claimed the actor's returns for 1932 were insufficient. A lien also was filed against Sally O'Neill, actress, asking an additional $149 on her 1931 earnings.

Methodists To Hold Meetings

Great Missionary And Evangelistic Rallies Scheduled For Church Districts Over South In Near Future

(By The Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 25. — The forces of Southern Methodist will gather in 34 connectional conference strongholds Jan. 9 - Feb. 15 in what is planned as one of the greatest missionary and evangelistic rallies attempted in the present generation.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore will direct the movement and he will be supported by every other bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, south. Each bishop will head the conference rally in his own area and in addition there will be visiting teams to assist local leaders.

The purpose of the evangelistic movement is to inspire the church with a new confidence, a spirit of jubilation and victory, and a deeper joy in its task, said Bishop Moore, the director of the undertaking.

Among the dates for the rallies are: Jan. 29, Jacksonville, Texas; Jan. 30, Houston; Jan. 31, San Antonio; Feb. 1, Fort Worth; Feb. 2, Oklahoma City; Feb. 5, Sweetwater; Feb. 6, Amarillo; Feb. 7, El Paso.

Changes Made In Directorship Of Cranfill-Reynolds Company

HOUSTON, Dec. 25. (AP) — The Houston Post said Sunday that three new directors were elected, a reduction made in the number of shares and the Cranfills-Reynolds company name changed to the General Crude Oil company at the annual stockholders meeting held here Saturday.

Officials of the company declined to comment.

The former 2,500,000 shares of none par value stock were decreased to 1,500,000 shares of $2.50 par value stock, it was said.

New directors named were: R. W. Peck, manager of the Sun Oil company with headquarters in Beaumont; Joyner Cartwright, attorney for the Sun company, Beaumont, and Thomas W. Pew, Houston. Mr. Pew is to be in charge of production for the company.

Several months ago control of the Cranfills-Reynolds company was obtained by the Pew family. The consideration was not divulged. The Pew family also is heavily interested in the Sun Oil company of Philadelphia, and J. Howard Pew is president of the Sun company.

Headquarters of the company will remain in Houston, it was said.

The couple left after the reception for Strawn to visit the groom's grandparents. Later they will be at home in Fairview, where the bride teaches school. The groom is a farmer.

Houston Reporter Spends Much Time To Cause Of Harris County's Needy

HOUSTON, Dec. 25. (AP)—Without thought of credit, Marshall Monroe, veteran reporter on the Houston Chronicle, each week contributes many hours of his time to the cause of Harris county's unfortunates.

Monroe has no official position in the unemployment relief organization and his only office is his desk in the newspaper city room but hundreds of needy persons know of his ability to "get things done." Many unemployed transients who wander into Houston hear of his charity work and come to solicit his aid.

Monroe's paper assigns him to write news and human interest stories about the thousands of destitute in Harris county and efforts of governmental and private agencies to supply them with the necessities of life.

His interest does not end with doing that job thoroughly. The veteran newsman takes a personal concern in cases he comes in contact with. If some one is not receiving fair treatment from a distributor of government funds, Monroe endeavors to see that the erring relief worker mends his ways.

If a poor or sick child wants a doll, Monroe finds a way to get it for her. If someone wants a job, the news writer does his best to find one. If "squatters" lose their tents in a windstorm, Monroe arranges for a new supply.

Large numbers of needy persons come to see Monroe. He always has time to talk with them and to do what he can to help them. To do that and keep up with his newspaper writing he has to work day and night but he doesn't mind that.

This month Monroe has spent much of his time obtaining Christmas toys for 20,000 Harris county children who otherwise would have no "Santa Claus."

Father Time Marvels At An Electrical World

To FATHER TIME a century is but as an hour to us and yet within that hour he has seen a world change from primitive practices to the marvels of electrical current performance and mode of living. The oil lamp has disappeared; the horse-drawn street car or chaise has been supplanted by electric cars, motor cars, airplanes; houses are heated; meals are cooked; cool breezes are wafted throughout the home or office; rugs are cleaned; laundry work performed; great manufacturing plants; massive cranes, bridges, presses and looms are operated by an unseen force called ELECTRICITY.

There are hundreds of services that this mystic element performs that formerly required man-power or woman drudgery. It is cheapest form of operative energy. It provides the greatest home comforts. Amarillo Badgers Cop Texas Junior College Grid Title With 13-6 Win

Power Display Late In Game Nips Marshall

Frank Kimbrough's Eleven Do Stuff In Second Half; Overcome Lead And Sail To First State Championship

(By The Associated Press)

MARSHALL, Dec. 25.—The Amarillo college Badgers staged a driving finish in the second half today to overpower the College of Marshall eleven 13 to 6, for the state junior college football championship.

Marshall scored first in the second period, when Boyd took a short pass from Erwin and ran 50 yards through a broken field for a touchdown.

A 40-yard power drive in the third period ended with Flowers bucking the line for Amarillo's first marker and Flowers booted the extra point.

Howes carried the ball over from the one-yard line for Amarillo's winning touchdown after drives by Flowers and Russell hauled the pigskin within scoring territory, in the final period.

ON THE SIDELINES BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Someone was remarking the other day, with withering scorn in his voice, that there used to be better fights staged around the ringside in the old days than are staged now in the rings themselves. Instantly there came back two memories.

One was of Charles W. Dunkley, of Chicago, a noted fistic epert, who heard what he thought were shots above the clamor of a fight in the Chicago stadium, and taking no chances attempted to hurl himself over the table around the ringside and under the ring. He was acting on the theory that whatever developed could be seen just as well from the more strategic post under the battle pit.

He has always stressed the fact that the question of personal safety did not enter at all into his calculations.

Unfortunately for Mr. Dunkley his waistline has grown with the years and he got half-way under and then stuck. It was equally unfortunate that his first impression of trouble impending was justified. A mob descended upon the ring thirsting for the blood of one of the pricipals.

They were blocked off at the corners, where guards quickly formed, but there was one weakness in the defense lines and that was Mr. Dunkley, writhing in an effort to reach his haven, but stuck there and providing a perfect ramp up into the ring.

Most of that crowd ran right up his back in single file. His clothes were torn off. To this day he can show you his scars.

The Wrong Pew

There was quite an argument going on at one time in New York over the right of outsiders to sit in the press row at fights. Just about everyone, politicians, thugs, favored friends, could get in there, everyone but sports writers. So an indignation meeting was held, the writers organized, and the order went out that none but working men thereafter could sit in the hallowed square.

Carl Duane and Joe Glick were fighting at the Queensboro the night the new law went into effect and one of the writers hadn't heard of the rule. He brought his father-in-law. A terrific argument followed.

By main strength the writer got his father-in-law seated, a small timid man who did not relish the commotion at all.

Duane used to bring quite a crowd with him to his battles, and there were some very rough boys among them. They were a colorful group.

A Beautiful Shot

Immediately the press row was settled, Glick up and popped Duane a couple low, the fight was stopped, and Duane's boys came piling down looking as if they'd lynch Glick. Someone hurled a bottle. It was a beautiful shot, one of those low zooming drives that ride far and away, never lifting more than a few feet off the ground.

It missed everyone in the ring, sailed through the far ropes and popped the writer's father-in-law squarely between the eyes. His glasses shattered, blood popped out of half a dozen wounds, and with a shriek he popped right out of the arena.

He never had to be told again that the press row was for writers alone.

Jack Curtis To Meet Joe Bauer Of Germany Here

Cyclone Mackey To Battle Brown On Wednesday Card

For his Christmas week wrestling program, Promoter Sled Allen has booked a quartet of experienced grapplers who shall stage a double main event at the Auditorium Wednesday evening.

Cyclone Mackey, veteran welterweight of this and other sections, will clash with Lobo Brown, popular Amarillo bone-buster, in one contest. The headliner, however, is promised when Jack Curtis, quick-witted, nimble-footed light heavy from Jackson, Miss., takes the mat against a newcomer.

From Coblenz, Germany, comes Joe Bauer, "uglier than Dutch Mantell," another light heavyweight who is making his first tour of this section. Coblenz is the only address Bauer gives. He is not long in this country, according to his own statement, but wherever he has appeared, rassle fandom has greeted him with appreciation. Appreciation, in this sense, does not necessarily mean handclapping and cheers. Bauer is another of the rough, tough, gorilla like matmen, who twists his countenance into various shapes and forms in an effort to disarm his opponent with hard looks.

Curtis A Favorite

Curtis, who has appeared here twice as a substitute, already is a favorite with local fans. His clean and tricky tactics have gained him a large following here. Handsome and tanned a high nut brown, the Mississippi lad was the occasion of a surprise when he entered the ring two weeks ago as a substitute for Jim Cushing. He put on a fight that was good to see, using clever tricks against Red Heinz to upset the dope and win one of three falls over the popular local favorite.

Last week Curtis subbed for Cyclone Mackey, who was unavoidably detained enroute to Lubbock, and again he put on a good show, against the threshing Charley Heard of San Antonio.

Cyclone Is Due

Mackey finally has reached the Panhandle, and is due to put in his appearance Wednesday night. He will give weight to Lobo Brown, who has appeared in a few preliminary bouts here, but is looked upon as a favorite in almost any match he enters.

There will be no advance in prices for this double main event, Promoter Allen said. There will be no preliminaries. Each match will go two out of three falls.

Frankie Klick Rises To Boxing Heights With Technical K. O. Over Cuban Bon-Bon In Tilt For Lightweight Title

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 25. (AP)—A fighting Californian, young Frankie Klick, today rose to great boxing heights to gain the Pennsylvania recognized world's junior lightweight championship by defeating Kid Chocolate, the Cuban "Bonbon," in the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round Christmas Day encounter.

The flashy Cuban, holding his own at the time, was dethroned as king in the division over the technical knockout route. Referee Johnny "Spud" Murphy ruled the battle ended with but two seconds left of the seventh round after Chocolate was floored with a right hand smash to the chin.

Bout Is Stopped

As dramatic as it was unexpected, the fray was climaxed when Klick shot over that right hand punch. Chocolate went down, face forward. He staggered up at the six count but collapsed against the ropes, apparently on the way down.

Referee Murphy rushed in, intent on stopping the bout. At the same moment, Moe Flesher, one of the Cuban's seconds, jumped through the ropes, and led Chocolate to his corner. He said later he believed the bell had rung for the end of the session.

Up to the time Klick, who scaled 12 3-4 pounds to Chocolate's 130, hammered over that crushing right to the chin, the battle was a see-saw affair. Klick, from San Francisco, started off with a rush, was slowed in the second session by the Cuban's attack, and then took the advantage in the third and fourth.

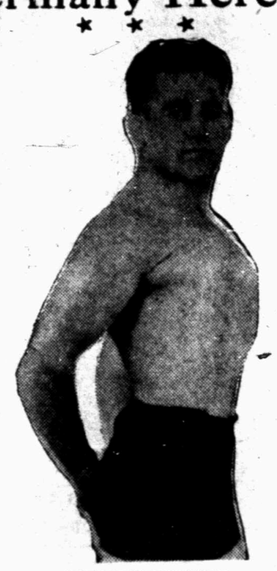

Keed Starts Well

In the fifth, the "Keed" from Cuba led off with a two-handed attack to head and body, and carried it into the sixth session. As they parted from a clinch, Klick's left eye started to bleed and swell from a right-hand jar.

Only the junior lightweight crown of the game little Cuban was at stake. He did not risk his featherweight title.

As the referee raised Klick's winning right arm, the Havanan leaned over the rope in his corner, and tears of disappointment were in his eyes.

The judges were Herman Cherin and Lou Cassidy.

Matadors Back For Workouts; Meet Bulldogs

Tech Cagers To Open Season With Two Games Friday And Saturday Nights; Oklahoma Teachers Expected Soon

Cutting short their Christmas holidays, Texas Tech athletes will return to the campus tomorrow and prepare for the opening of their 1934 basketball season.

At the same time, another band of athletes will be departing from Weatherford, Okla. They are Coach Rankin Williams and his Southwestern Oklahoma State Teachers college Bulldogs, who came here to help the Matadors blow the lid off the new cage season.

The Sooner team will arrive tonight or tomorrow, and work out on the Tech court for two nights preceding the series, which opens Friday night.

Coach Dell Morgan and his Tech cagers have been drilling steadily for the last two weeks prior to the holidays, and a probable starting lineup slowly is developing.

While Rankin Williams is considered one of the standout basketball coaches of the southwest, he holds such a regard for Coach Morgan's knowledge of the game and ability to teach it that he's bringing his squad here two days early in order to give them the benefit of working out under Morgan and against his Matadors. The squads will work out together Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Frankie Parker Tops Field In National Indoor Tennis Title Tourney; Starts Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 25 (AP)—Frankie Parker, former Milwaukee youngster now living at Lawrenceville, N. J., stands heads and shoulders above the field in the national indoor junior tennis championships, starting tomorrow at the seventh regiment armory.

More than a match for many of the ranking stars of the game despite his youth and recommended for the No. 8 position in the national rankings, Parker is conceded a virtual walk-over for the title. His leading rivals will be Joseph Abrams of Dewitt Clinton High school, New York, who is seeded No. 2; Sumner Redman of Harvard, No. 3; George H. Ball, Northwestern, No. 4; Jackie Behr, Roxbury school, Massachusetts, No. 5; W. J. Simpson, Cornell, No. 6; Gilbert Hunt, Massachusetts Tech, No. 7, and Robert Madden, Pittsburgh.

Parker will face Stephen H. Ogilvy of Northwood school, New Rochelle, in his first round match and then, if victorious, tackle the survivor of a clash between D. R. Grace of St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., and Nathan Ritzenberg of James Adams high school, Washington, D. C.

Lyman W. Crossman Jr., of New York heads the seeded list in the boys championship which will run concurrently.

Seeded behind him are Henry H. Daniels of New York, Isadore Bellis, Philadelphia, John Totten, Patterson, N. J., Peter Lauck, 3rd, Lawrenceville, Charles Mattman, Trinity school, Robert Low, Choate school, and Rolfe Kingsley, Jr., Hill school.

Dallas High School All-Star Team Beats San Antonio Club

DALLAS, Dec. 25. (AP)—A team composed of Dallas high school players defeated a similar team from San Antonio today, 19 to 7. It was a listless game witnessed by an estimated crowd of 4,000 persons.

San Antonio scores on a 52-yard forward pass from Wildman to English. O'Brien scored one of Dallas' touchdowns, and Slider scored the other two. Proceeds of the game were donated to charity.

East And West Gridmen Start Game Practice

Lively Practice Sessions Are Part Of Gridders' Holiday Celebrations On California Fields Yesterday

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Stars who will roam the gridiron here New Year's Day in the annual East-West charity football game, mixed up lively practice sessions today as part of their Christmas celebration.

The 22 pigskin artists from the eastern half of the country transferred their activities to Palo Alto and worked out on the Stanford university field.

Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate sent their charges through a two-hour drill, almost entirely offensive tactics.

Coach Hanley said he was well pleased with the eastern linemen, describing them as "some of the best we have assembled in a long time." That field goal kicking may play an important part of the attack was indicated by the assignment of Charles Ceppi, Princeton tackle, and Paul Pardonner, Purdue quarterback, to concentrate on booting the ball through the uprights.

Some Place-Kicking

Ceppi is placement kicker while Pardonner specializes in drop kicking. In practice yesterday Ceppi sent one through the goal posts from the forty yard line.

Both left and right handed passing will be part of the East's aerial game. Nick Lukats on Notre Dame and Beattie Feathers of Tennessee, halfbacks, are right handers who "throw strikes" with the oval while Joe Laws, Iowa quarterback, and Mike Sebastian, Pittsburgh half, are port side flippers.

Western players worked out two hours here under Coaches Orin Hollingbery of Washington State and Percy Locey of Denver. Backfield men were shifted about and linemen juggled in the hopes of producing the eleven starters. Meri Nehl of Columbia college, Portland, and Phil Sorboe of Washington state, will alternate at quarterback.

Sauer Shows Up

The triple threat possibilities of George Sauer, All American fullback from Nebraska, have particularly impressed the coaches. Early indications are Sauer will be the main threat of the West.

In Adolphe Schwammel, Oregon State tackle, Coaches Hollingbery and Locey believe they have the answer to the East's field goal threat. Schwammel already had demonstrated he can toe the ball through the uprights from long distances. He has place kicks of more than forty yards to his credit.

Following practice, the Western players moved over to Berkeley where they will remain the rest of the week. They will practice at the university of California.

Corsicana Stars Win Xmas Battle

CORSICANA, Dec. 25. (AP)—The Corsicana All-Stars defeated the Palestine All-Stars 7 to 6 today in a hard-fought football game.

Maco Stewart, Southern Methodist university end and former Corsicana High school star, sent the ball through the uprights for the margin of victory, after the Corsicana touchdown was scored in the third period.

Both touchdowns were long jaunts. Ned Brownlee of Corsicana intercepted a pass in the third period and ran 50 yards for a marker. Barwick of Palestine took a punt in the fourth period and raced 77 yards for a score, for the visitors, but Kilpatrick missed his attempt at placement kick and failed to tie the count.

Haskell Indians Lose Close Game To Tampa University

Columbia Lions Spend Christmas On Arizona U. Grid In Hard Scrimmage

Little Worried As Weights Drop Off Under Hot Sun

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 25. (AP)—In keeping with the spirit of Christmas, Coach Little "gave" Columbia's football team a thorough workout today in preparation for its New Year's day game with Stanford at Pasadena.

The practice session, which marked the turning of preparations for the intersectional Rose Bowl contest into the last week, covered every point in the Lions' offensive and defensive setup.

Little added a bit of scrimmage of the dummy variety for good measure, but the blazing sun forced him to go easy on the squad through the early part of the session.

Weights Below Normal

The troublesome fact the players' weights have been below normal since arrival here Saturday continued to worry Little.

Starting with a kicking and passing practice, the team swung into a workout setting up several different types of defense against hypothetical Stanford formations. Then the team ran through its offensive repetoire stressing a varied passing attack.

Although the temperature shaded ninety degrees on the field, the Lions with a day of rest behind them launched into the practice with enthusiasm, taking a full turn around the quarter mile University of Arizona cinderpath before settling down to the workout.

Little and Herb Kopf, his first assistant, called the squad together this morning for a long skull session in the hotel rooms before luncheon.

Few Hard Workouts

There was no disguising the fact the coaches were puzzled by the sharp dropping off of weight by the players but they were pleased to note that Joe Richavich, tackle, who started the trip overweight at 217 pounds, was down to 210. Cliff Montgomery, star quarterback, had picked up three pounds over Saturday's first local appearance, tipping the scales at 156, but Alfred Barabas, probably starting left halfback, was well under his usual 190 pounds.

The fact the squad showed less of the sluggishness it displayed on arrival Saturday planned to stick to his schedule of limiting the hard workouts this week to two or at the most three.

Just Another Day Of Work For Stanfords

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 25. (AP)—Christmas Day was not only another work day, but an unusually stiff one, for Stanford university's football squad, training for the New Year's Day game against Columbia.

Coach "Tiny" Thornhill almost ran his charges ragged up and down the field in an extended session of "wind" exercising and topped this off with signal practice.

Because of the holiday, Coach Thornhill let the Indians off with one practice round today but there will be two tomorrow and Wednesday and possibly the same daily right up to Jan. 1.

With the exception of Wes Muller, who is in a hospital with a cold, and Lyle Smith, who has a shoulder injury, the team is in good physical shape, Thornhill admitted.

Muller may be back on the field by Wednesday, but probably still will be in a weakened condition.

Dunlap To Battle To Retain Crown

PINEHURST, N. C. Dec. 25. (AP)—All was in readiness here tonight for the beginning tomorrow of the 31st annual mid-winter golf championship with George T. Dunlap, jr., National amateur champion who has won the mid-winter crown seven times in eight years, preparing for another attempt on the title.

The play ends on Saturday with qualifying rounds and final 18 holes. A gold medal will be given for the best qualification score while a trophy for the winner, runner-up and winner of the consolation will be given in each division.

Dunlap is making his first competitive start since he won the United States title at Cincinnati last fall.

Halbert . Blue, who was beaten by Dunlap, 5 and 4, last year by the champion's round of 67 in the final, will be one of the principal contenders for the crown.

Chick Hafey Has A Price-Tag, And Why Not? Figures Show He's Better Than Klein In Seven Parks; Cost $150,000

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Dec. 25—Let's not argue about this, but Larry MacPhail says one reason why he doesn't want to part with Chick Hafey is that Hafey—get this—is a better batsman than Chuck Klein, even if Klein did win the National League batting championship this year.

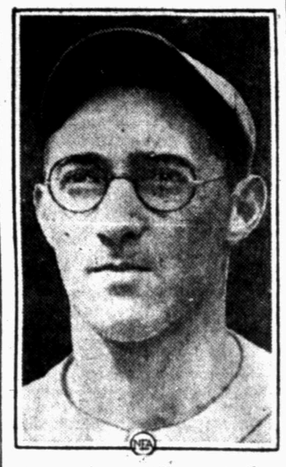

That's why MacPhail, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has turned down an offer of $50,000 and two players from the Boston Braves, and hung a $150,000 price tag on the bespectacled outfielder.

Settle A Dispute

It may have been a forerunner of the Boston offer, but the story goes that at the recent major league meeting in Chicago, MacPhail and Bill McKechnie of Boston disputed over the relative abilities of the two—Klein and Hafey, with the Bostonian all for Klein.

"But what," MacPhail staggered McKechnie by saying. "If I were to tell you that in six years, from 1928 to 1933 inclusive, Hafey has outhit Klein at Braves Field by 131 points?"

And he went ahead with figures to show that Hafey has outhit Klein, in the last six years, on four of seven National League parks, counting out the Phillies band-box. Here they are:

Batting averages:

Park	Klein	Hafey
New York	.234	.333
Brooklyn	.374	.276
Cincinnati	.299	.346
Boston	.252	.383
St. Louis	.332	.348
Chicago	.320	.272
Chicago	.320	.272
Pittsburgh	.311	.290

Thus, in six years, Hafey has batted at a .320 clip in the seven parks, and Klein in the same time and the same fields has garnered a figure of .303. And on top of that, MacPhail reminds all comers that Hafey has been ailing for the past two seasons.

In all, Klein has been to bat 1,648 times in the seven parks mentioned, clouting out 499 hits. Hafey has been up 1,613 times, and produced 517 hits.

Hence the $150,000 price tag.

Greenville To Meet Tech On Dallas Field

Game Is Scheduled Saturday At Fair Park Bowl; Teams Start Polishing Attack; Frnka Is Considerably Worried

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Greenville Lions and Dallas Tech Wolves will start polishing their formations Tuesday in preparations for their Texas Interscholastic league football championship game Saturday afternoon at the Dallas Fair Park stadium. Both clubs were allowed to rest Christmas Day.

Seats for the championship classic went on sale Monday. School officials were confident that if the weather was good, between 25 and 30 thousand persons would see the game. It will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Same Lion Backfield

Coach Henry Frnka of the Greenville Lions probably will start the same backfield that last Friday riddled the Port Arthur line, 32 to 14. This backfield composed of Dock Luckett, Robert Williams, Bert Marshall and "Terror" Perry, is small according to announced weights, but has speed and deception. Perry is the lightest of the four. He weighs 125 pounds. The largest man on the Greenville team is Emmett Hussey, candidate for an all-star guard position. He weighs 194 pounds.

Frnka's cohorts have a number of minor injuries but the Greenville mentor said Sunday he would have them ready to go at top speed against Tech. He expressed a hope that the game would be wide-open and not a slow, cautious game like most championship battles.

Wolves In Shape

Coach Wally Davis' Dallas Tech Wolves escaped from their 13 to 7 victory Saturday over San Angelo without suffering even a minor injury. Tech played the entire game without making a single line substitution. Only a few reserves were used in the backfield. The Wolves will have a weight advantage over Greenville. It will be the second meeting between these two teams. In their early season non-district game, Greenville won, 13 to 0.

Cheer
Knows No Season

"Cheer", according to Noah Webster, is "a state of mind or heart". The famous dictionarian didn't say anything about the state of warmth, but warmth certainly has a lot to do with cheer—warmth that one can feel and SEE—the kind of warmth that brightens and enlivens the home on cold, drab, dreary days—the glowing, cheering warmth of a Gas Radiant Heater.

December or May, morning or midnight, Christmas Eve or Blue Monday—they're all happy days with a Gas Radiant Heater on the job—always ready with instant, visible heat, waiting to warm chilly hearts as well as chilly hands—clean, convenient, odorless, inexpensive heat. Let your fireplace radiate "good cheer" every day.

The Platt Amendment

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is reported to be ready to recommend to congress abrogation of the Platt amendment, which gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuba.

This much discussed amendment is a part of the treaty of 1901 negotiated between Cuba and the United States. It provides:

"That the government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba, imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba."

The amendment has been the cause of much resentment among Cubans, and throughout South America generally it has had a similar effect. It has been attacked at times in the American congress.

Although the preservation of Cuban independence is one of its purposes its critics have interpreted it as representing domination by the United States of Cuba's internal affairs. That the United States never has used it as an excuse for unjustified intervention has received little attention. In connection with the recent disturbed conditions in the island republic, this country exercised extreme patience in a successful effort to avoid intervention.

Abrogation of the treaty would be hailed by a large part of the Cuban public. It might help in restoring stability in the island government. It would, no doubt, serve to place the United States in a more favorable light in South America.

It would not prevent American intervention, though, in the event Cuban independence were threatened by a foreign nation or in event that conditions in the island became such as to endanger the lives and property of Americans and other foreigners. In other words, the interests of the United States and the welfare of the Cubans themselves might require American intervention whether or not treaty authority for this course existed. Americans will hope that such a situation never will arise, but the possibility exists.

ADVERTISING

Julius Caesar told of a tribe that was accounted great because it kept a space of miles all about its borders totally uninhabited. It thrived by killing off its neighbors.

Business used to have the same ideals. Modern business, which is vastly more efficient and prosperous, has learned a better principle. It welcomes competition and thrives best when its competitors prosper. And the finest fruit of this cooperation is the education of the public through constructive advertising.

When mechanical refrigeration began to demonstrate its convenience, efficiency and economy the prediction was frequent that the iceman would be put out of business. Not so. The sale of natural ice goes on and prospers. Refrigerating interests say that in spite of the sale of millions of mechanical refrigerators, the sale of ice boxes and iced refrigerators constantly improves. The advertising that put the new devices upon the market educated the people in the value of refrigeration, and the simple ice box came into homes that hitherto had enjoyed no conveniences of the kind.

And thus it is that no advertiser expects or even desires to reap the entire benefits from his advertising program. He must share the good results with his entire occupational group. The advertisers of tooth paste and tooth brushes are spreading the gospel of dental hygiene; the advertiser who pictures correct dress creates a desire in the mind of the public which increases the sale of automobiles of all price grades; the advertising of business colleges promotes generally the cause of business education.

It has been noted that many newspaper readers turn first to the advertising columns. There is education in them.

Yet your opinion would be like the other fellow's if you had made it out of the same limited material.

The final proof of poise is to refrain from swatting Junior when he refuses to show off for company.

He who laughs first laughs most often.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

By REV. MARSHALL RHEW
Of The First Methodist Church

"Alas for you who are rich, for you have had your comfort!"—Luke 6:24.

Some one has said that youth looks forward while old age looks backward. This is not true. Backward looking is not a malady confined to old age. Jesus was speaking here of a group of people who "have had" their comfort. "Have had" is past perfect tense. For them it was all over. They live in the past.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

REPUBLICAN strategy has been pretty well reversed in the last few days.

That's why you saw those stories quoting G. O. P. leaders in both houses of congress as promising to go along with the Roosevelt administration on fundamental policies of relief and recovery.

All the stories mean is that the Republicans have decided to pull into their shells for a while longer.

The opposition generals figure F. D. R. is still too popular with the people for them to get away with any open offensive.

During the next couple of months the Republicans will be using periscopes and shooting around corners.

But don't get the idea their opposing publicity won't be smacking home every day. It simply will be concealed and appear publicly (if you can get around that paradox) as emanating from this society and that league.

Republicans in many sections were disappointed at the way one of their recent blasts fell rather short.

This was the adroitly phrased pamphlet "Let's Look at the Record" which picked up all the administration catch-phrases and tossed them back with reverse English.

It was decided this booklet didn't get the proper play because it was issued by the Republican National committee. Ergo, said the boys, let's do it by sleight-of-hand in the future.

FACTIONS: One factor hurting Republican publicity at present is the inevitable inside fight to gain party control.

That group commonly known as the "Old Guard" wants to pry Everett Sanders loose as Chairman of the National committee. One faction would like to see Walter E. Edge of New Jersey in his place. Another favors former Senator Jim Watson of Indiana.

This scrap got so near the surface the other day that Edge issued a public statement denying he aspired to further public office. Nevertheless he added that he "naturally" would "always be ready to render to it (the party) any consistent service."

Other complications result from the jockeying around of those who want the Republican presidential nomination in 1936. Mills, Snell and Wadsworth, all of New York are supposed to be looking in that direction. McNary of Oregon is said to have a similar hankering. Edge himself no doubt would respond to a call for "consistent service."

Very much in the background, but still potent, is Herbert Hoover.

Not a word comes out of his Palo Alto home. His agents here keep him well informed on every move.

LOST: That executive order making the powers of the National Labor board official would have been issued several days earlier but for one thing.

Senator Bob Wagner of New York, who is chairman of the board, lost a draft of the order out of his pocket while en route to get President Roosevelt's signature.

It was all very embarrassing to Wagner when he got in the President's office and couldn't find the order. (A newspaper man picked it up on the lobby floor but failed to get its full significance. He threw it away.)

TACKS: Almost all of the volunteer boards and agencies have proved ineffectual.

The Consumers' board and the Industrial Advisory board of NRA are cases in point. A group of unpaid industrialists disbanded after getting nowhere fast trying to advise AAA.

Reorganization of these and other functions of the Recovery program under the National Emergency council was the administration answer. It was decided paid and centralized workers would get more done.

The National Labor board suffered from the same ailment. Up to the time Mr. Roosevelt outlined their duties in an executive order and approved all previous actions they had been functioning in rather hit-or-miss fashion.

Policy meetings weren't held regularly. When they were, all of the members couldn't be counted on to show up.

Of course, as is obvious, the President blanketed the board with a formal definition of duties for the immediate purpose of helping to win the impending court battle with the Weirton Steel company. He also wanted to get the board down to brass tacks.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK sound moneyites have turned from dollar stabilization to budget balancing as an immediate objective. They know they're licked on the first but they still have hopes of curtailing the spending spree—especially such spending as might give the government a voice in business management.

Their activities will soft-pedal alarmist tactics. They will focus instead on the long-term disadvantages of continually spending much more than you take in.

They are encouraged by the rise in Lewis Douglas's stock and they secretly hope that Henry Morgenthau, Jr. can be converted into a valuable ally. Insiders whisper that Earle Baillie—former Seligman partner—has been doing his stuff along these lines since he went to Washington as Morgenthau's assistant. Of course congress and the President may have other ideas.

ECONOMY: As recently noted in our Washington column the National Economy league has taken a new lease on life and will be in the thick of the budget fight. Its sponsors would like to stage a new national campaign to sell the idea but its funds are too limited to get far with this plan unless it draws a windfall from interested sources. It may if the outlook seems sufficiently bright.

The conservatives feel they have one big advantage here they didn't have in the currency scrap. That's the fact that the President himself has declared for a balanced budget. It's just a case of proving there should be one budget instead of two—if they can.

UTILITIES: Sentiment is slowly growing among utility executives that government hostility will not be appeased until financial management setups are radically revised, capital structures modified, complicated holding companies abolished, and a new system of rate control installed. Those who hold this view believe the utilities would be wiser to start voluntary action along these lines instead of putting on a last-ditch act. But there aren't enough of them yet to count.

LIQUOR: Some of the New York retail stores are still grossing around $30,000 a day in their liquor departments.

But earmarks of a first-class scandal are developing. Beverages with foreign labelz bought from licensed dealers sometimes prove on examination to be of domestic origin and sub-bootleg standard.

74 YEARS ON THE SAME JOB.—Mr. William C. Creamer who was born in 1840, entered the employ of Arnold, Constable and Company, as an errand boy at the age of 10. Seventy-four years have passed since that day, but Mr. Creamer still continues to work with the same firm. During these 74 years, he was never absent from work even for a day. The Great Blizzard of 1888 could not deter Mr. Creamer from being among the small number of men who reported for work on that day.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his hotel apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out. Police are searching for an "unknown blond," known to have visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, who told him her name was JULIET FRANCE. She swore she knew nothing of the murder, but she has disappeared since.

HERMAN SCURLOCK, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He also declares his innocence.

Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINEY, star reporter of the Post. In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture and keeps it.

Gainey and Bannister meet AL DRUGAN, a member of King's orchestra. Drugan declares, "There's just one person in the world who had any reason to want to harm Tracy King!

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Involuntarily the three men stopped walking. Drugan had said, "There's just one person in the world who had any reason to want to harm Tracy King."

Gainey asked quickly, "Oh, yes? And who is that?"

"It's quite a story," Drugan told them. "I can't tell it all to you here. Take too long." He glanced at an illuminated clock across the street. Its hands pointed to 10 minutes past 7. "I've got to be on the stage in about half an hour," he said. "Suppose you come along back stage with me. I'll tell you what I know and you can judge for yourself."

"Okay," Gainey said quickly and Bannister assented.

They walked another block, went down an alley and entered the stage door of the theater. A few moments later they were settled in a dimly-lighted corner of the cavernous back-stage quarters. Bannister tipped back on a kitchen chair while Drugan and Gainey perched on an object that looked as though it might be a cast-off stage property. Painted canvas scenery shielded them from view.

"It all starts," said Drugan, breaking into his story, "about 10 years back. Tracy King is gettin' his first break in vaudeville then. He's travelin' with an act that's been on the Olympia circuit in the middlewest, Not such a good act but it plays good houses and in some of the big towns. Tracy's a hoofer then. Not such a good hoofer maybe but still he gets by. Everything is swell until one night in Omaha he takes a cold. It gets worse and a week later he's flat on his back. Pneumonia. Well, the act goes on and leaves him behind. Tracy lands in the charity ward of a hospital.

"He manages to pull through but six weeks later when they turn him loose he's broke, looks like a skeleton and he hasn't got a job. Well, Omaha isn't such a good place to be in the winter when you're broke and out of work. Too cold. But Tracy finds a job. Washin' dishes! He works in a restaurant and lives in a cheap rooming house.

"One night he gets talkin' with a fellow named Joe Parrott. This Parrott lives in the same rooming house with Tracy. He plays the ukulele and sings a little and Tracy thinks he's good. Well, they work up an act together and Tracy gets in touch with a bookin' agent he knows. This fellow gets them on in a local house and they go over. Then he gets them some dates out of town. After while they land on a regular circuit.

"They're billed as 'King and Costello' because neither of them thinks Parrott is such a good stage name. Parrott plays his ukulele and they sing together and then they both do a little hoofin'.

"They play the midlewest two or three seasons and then they go east. All the while they're partners. But by this time Parrott's drinkin' pretty heavy. Sometimes he doesn't show up for the act. Finally they have a big row and bust up. Tracy knocks around by himself for a while and then joins Louie Lamont's orchestra. Of course you known who Louie Lamont is! Well, after awhile Tracy gets the idea of having his own orchestra. He gets some boys together. That was three years ago. I was with him then and I've been with him ever since. We played a couple of seasons in vaudeville and then he got this offer to come to the State. Most of the boys in the orchestra live around here but I came with Tracy. Like that, we are!"

Drugan stopped talking long enough to raise two fingers of his right hand, holding them firmly side by side. "Like that," he repeated. "Me an' Tracy."

He leaned forward again, intent on his narrative. "Now here's what happened last week!" he said. "Tracy and me were standin' right over there—" (he motioned to a spot near the outside entrance) "when a little dark fellow in seedy-lookin' clothes walks in, claps Tracy on the back and begins pumpin' his arm. It's this Joe Parrott! Tracy tries to get rid of him but Parrott says he's got to see him private. Of course I know that means a touch so I hang around.

"Then the little fellow gets sore. He asks Tracy for a job and Tracy says nothin' doin'. Then he asks for $50. Finally he gets it down to $10. Well, Tracy gives him a couple of bucks and tells him to keep away from the theater.

"But the little fellow doesn't keep away. He's back the next morning and the next afternoon. He's a bad actor, this Joe Parrott. He meets Tracy out in the alley and he makes more trouble. Tracy gets good and sore this time and tells Parrott that if he doesn't keep away he'll have the cops on him. Tracy tells me about it and says he's worried because besides bein' such a drinker Joe's a hop-head. You know—." Drugan paused significantly and made a quick movement that suggested the use of a hypodermic needle.

"Now last night," Drugan's voice lowered and the hush gave it emphasis. "Tracy saw Parrott hanging around outside when he came in. We went on for the early show and afterward Tracy told me he was goin' to go home and stay there until time for the second show. He said he couldn't stand seein' Parrott around and he didn't really want to turn him over to the police. He went out the front way—and

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Dec. 25. (AP) — Texas leaders in the civil works administration program are taking precautions to avoid criticism of their proposed highway and park beautification program.

They plan to make only such permanent improvements as can be maintained satisfactorily.

In the early stages of the beutification program, they turned to the practical and determined to limit their scope to projects that would be of benefit to the largest number of persons and easy to keep up.

To Center In Parks

Much of the work will center in parks near state highways, Gutzon Borglum, chairman of the beautification group, said.

No trees or shrubs will be set out except where care of them has been reasonably provided for, Borglum said. Specific instructions also will be issued as to the manner of handling and planting the trees and shrubs to keep plant losses at a minimum.

Borglum, a noted sculptor, has an amazing knowledge of Texas plant life. He is familiar with the nine types of oleander and says there are three distinct varieties of crepe myrtle. The popular conception has been that an oleander is an oleander and crepe myrtle is crepe myrtle.

Runs To Color

Borglum's taste runs to splashes of color rather than merely planting of trees and shrubs. He plans to group the shrubs to obtain the maximum color effect so that the work will not only attract the eye but at the same time vividly impress the memory. He has no use for simple regimentation of trees and shrubs.

Borglum is particularly interested in establishing parks in parts of the state where the sun shines fiercely in the summer. The cool nooks he visualizes convey a sense of restfulness to hear him tell about them.

They will be constructed, he said, primarily for the poor travelers who often crowd the highways in outmoded cars in which usually cluster many small children. The parks will be spaced at convenient distances and will afford opportunity for rest.

"The big man traveling through the hot sun in his limousine doesn't need these frequent breathing spaces," Borglum said. "It is the man with an old car traveling with a bunch of fretting kids who will offer thanks for these cooling-off spots."

Make Money
Farm prices are on the rise, and this is your opportunity to make real money. Signs point to fifteen cent cotton in 1934, and that will naturally raise the price of land.
Possession can be had January 1st on the following:
160 acres 4 miles east of courthouse. All in cultivation and a perfect cat-claw land, with plenty of sand. Improved. Level. $37.50 acre, $2,750.00 cash, balance in Federal loan.
160 acres, all in cultivation, 8 miles from courthouse, well improved. Mixed soil. School nearby. $36.50 acre, $2,000.00 cash.
240 acres 6 miles southwest of Lubbock. A good piece of land and improved. $31.00 acre.
We also have several quarter-sections that can be had for less money, with $1,000.00 down. Also some good half-sections.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN, No. 56

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The boat that had attracted Jane's attention as she stood guard upon the Kincaid's deck was also seen by Rokoff and by the beasts of Tarzan on the opposite river bank. At the Russian's shouts the little craft turned shoreward and, after a short parley with him, steered directly toward the Kincaid. Before it had gone half way, however, a rifle spoke from the ship's deck, and a sailor in the bow of the little boat crumpled over into the sea.

After still another of their number fell a victim to the girl's rifle, the boat put back to shore, there to wait for nightfall. Jane realized this would be but a temporary respite for her, and so determined to make a bold and final stroke for freedom. Calling the two sailors she had imprisoned in the forecastle, she forced their consent to her plans. With revolver ready to compel obedience, she let them come above deck.

Then she set them to work cutting the cable which anchored the Kincaid. The ship was well stocked with provisions and water, the season of storms was over, and she hoped that by drifting into the open sea the Kincaid would eventually be sighted by some passing vessel. The night was deeply overcast, a perfect one for her purpose. Her enemies could not see the activity aboard or know the ebb-tide was carrying the ship seaward.

As the last strand of the cable parted the Kincaid drifted rapidly with the current. Then suddenly up the river came the rattle of musketry and a woman's scream! Startled, Jane for a moment was thrown off guard. The two men instantly leaped upon her and bore her to the deck. Was her struggle for freedom to fail after all? As she fell Jane saw, outlined against the gloom of the ocean, the figure of another man clamber over the Kincaid's rail.

Four Counties Added To Area

Pink Boll Worm Quarantine Is Extended To Four Counties And Parts Of Three Others On South Plains

Four additional counties and parts of three others, have been added to the pink boll worm quarantine area on the South Plains by order of the secretary of agriculture and regulations governing moving of cotton and cotton seed from the territory are now in effect. This was the announcement of H. B. Prickett, chief of the field party of the bureau of plant quarantine of the U. S. D. A., who has made Lubbock his headquarters.

Gaines county was the original county placed under quarantine in October. Additional counties are Hockley, Terry, Yoakum and Cochran, with parts of Bailey, Lamb and the northwest corner of Dawson. Sections of Bailey and Lamb south of the sand hills that traverse the section from over in New Mexico to west of Plainview, are those where the pink boll worm was discovered in gin trash. In addition, Lea and Roosevelt counties, New Mexico are included in the territory.

Lightly Infected

"All these sections are lightly infected," Mr. Prickett stated. "There is nothing especially to get excited about. The only requirements about cotton is that it be sent from the infected areas to designated compresses. These compresses include the one at Lubbock, and at Littlefield, Brownfield and Lamesa and some at the ports.

"Seed also is to be sent to designated oil mills where they can be treated. Lubbock, Plainview, Slaton, Lamesa and Sweetwater mills are so equipped. Also terminal mills at Houston.

Suspicions Of Trash

"We had four machines in the field, going from gin to gin and testing all gin trash. Machines were located at Farwell and Lubbock and other points. We went to all suspicious trash piles.

"There has been a splendid spirit of cooperation on the part of farmers and gin men in the territory. We will hardly know that the quarantine is being imposed.

"No restrictions are to be placed on planting of cotton in 1934. No one will have to reduce acreage or quit planting. Prior to the planting season gins in the infected territory will install cooking machines to cook all seed before it is planted. No one will be permitted to plant seed not treated for pink boll worms. It does not hurt the germination qualities of the seed."

Headquarters Here

There are 10 men in the party. Field men are located at Seagraves, Brownfield, Levelland and Littlefield. Headquarters are in the federal building, second floor.

Mr. Prickett said he expected that the ban would be lifted in about two years or less, unless unexpected serious situations arise.

broke the monotony. Will shower you this afternoon and tonight with turkey bones.

"The Christmas tree was swell, but there ain't no Santa Claus up here. Please send us some pencils and do not demand too many notes from us as every chance we get we knock off the shut-eye. Christmas greetings to all the press and to Miami and all its visitors."

In another note, the fliers said they enjoyed seeing the flights from living Christmas trees on the ground last night, but added that it was a "lonely" night and that they were weary.

Besides a huge Christmas dinner, the fliers received fruits and candy and more than 150 cards and telegrams from friends and relatives.

City Schools

ported in prospect for the current year."

Have 18,000 Fewer Teachers

Dr. Zook featured the following in his report:

"City schools are operating with about 18,000 fewer teachers now than in 1930.

"Enrollment is up sharply—probably 250,000 more than in 1930.

"Expenditures are down. City schools are now running on approximately $133,000,000 less for current expenses than they did in 1931-1932.

Budget slashes, said Zook, have caused schools to "suffer considerably."

School Terms Reduced

"The school term was reduced in length in one out of every four cities," the commissioner said of the budget slashes.

"There has been an increase of 2 pupils per teacher in the last 3 years. Arkansas cities will have about 45 pupils per teacher, the largest pupil load in the country, with North Dakota and Missouri having a load of 28, the smallest. The average for the country is 32 pupils for each teacher. Three years ago the average load for the South Atlantic states was 24 pupils per teacher, while in 1933 this number has risen to 37 pupils.

Idalou Child Is Victim Of Illness On Christmas Day

that's the last we saw of him.

"When it got near time for us to go on again I called his apartment but there wasn't any answer. We thought he was on his way and would be here any minute. Well, we had to go on without him. It was the first time it ever happened! As soon as I could get away I jumped into a cab and rode out to the Shelby Arms. I guess you know the rest. I couldn't get any answer when I rang the bell or pounded on the door so I ran downstairs and got the clerk. He opened the door and we found him!"

It had been a long story and it ended as abruptly as it had begun. There could be no doubting the honesty of the emotion that made Drugan's voice die away, almost to a whisper.

There was a pause and then Gainey said, "I suppose you've told the police all this?"

"I've told them to find Joe Parrott if they want the man who killed Tracy," Drugan said slowly. "He's the only enemy Tracy had in the world. But the police have a lot of theories of their own. They've got this Dutchman—or whatever he is—in jail because of writing a crazy letter." There was sarcasm in Drugan's voice. "Tracy showed me that letter when it came," he went on, "an' laughed at it. He thought somebody was kiddin' him. What else could it mean? He'd never heard of this Scurlach or his wife. Tracy thought it was just a joke."

Gainey put in, "It might be a joke to him and be real enough to Scurlach."

Drugan shook his head. "I don't believe it," he said. "It was Joe Parrott who fired that shot." He went on heatedly, "If it wasn't Parrott why'd he clear out of town? He hasn't been around the theater since last night. I know because I went out lookin' for him! The cops tried to pick him up and they couldn't find him. Parrott blew. Probably realized what he'd done and got out as fast as he could travel!"

Suddenly they heard a signal and Drugan jumped to his feet. "I've got to beat it," he said. "In three minutes we're due to go on."

Gainey called, "I'll be around to see you later!" as the musician disappeared. Gainey turned to Bannister who was on his feet. "Well, what do you think of it?"

"You mean what do I think of his story?"

The other nodded.

"I'd think more of it if I knew he was entirely sober."

"Oh, he's sober enough now! Sure, he's all right. Want to hang around and talk to him some more after while?"

Bannister shook his head. "Not me," he said. "I'd rather see that girl that Bannister was engaged to."

Gainey screwed his face into a sardonic expression. "You mean try to see the girl he was engaged to! Let me remind you Denise Lang is 'quality folks.' High society and all that. There's only a chance that she'll even let us in the house."

"Come on," said Bannister. "Let's make a try for it any how. And I think you have a way with the ladies."

They make the 20-minute trip in a taxicab. The imposing Lang residence loomed before them, black and forbidding, as they stepped from the cab.

"You go first," Gainey suggested, and Bannister rang the bell.

"I'll like to see Miss Denise Lang," he said. "My name is Bannister and I'm from The Post."

A maid in a black uniform ushered them into a small reception room. A moment later the maid was back.

"Miss Lang will see you," she said. "Will you come with me?"

"Among the bankers," Fisher listed:

Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City bank of New York; and George Leblanc, former vice president in charge of foreign exchange of the Equitable Trust company.

The only foreign banker named was: Reginal McKenna, M. P., chairman of the midland Bank, ltd., of London.

The foreign economists listed: John Maynard Keynes of England; Cassel of Sweden, Frisch of Norway, Schultse and Gaevernitz of Germany.

The Consumers Guild, which asked Professor Fischer to compile the list and made it public, noted that among those not named were Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, who resigned recently as advisor to the treasury, and Leonard P. Ayres, of the Cleveland Trust company, "most widely quoted authority."

In his letter to Riegel, the Yale economist said he "would rather not try to make any complete list. In fact, I could not do so."

Christmas

ens' immortal Tiny Tim with the words: "God Bless Us Every One."

Extends Amnesty

Shortly before, the president gave his yule greeting emphasis by extending amnesty to 1,500 Americans who evaded the draft or opposed the World war, by restoration of citizenship.

King George V, in his Christmas message to his British subjects, noted also the "sober progress toward recovery."

Former President Herbert Hoover, in Palo Alto, Calif., saw his family gather around a Christmas tree and receive gifts—as did the millions in the United States.

New Spirit Shown

A new spirit seemed to infuse the nation. Records of the United States department of labor, various associations of commerce and employment agencies showed that unemployed were returning to work; Christmas stockings were filled in homes where last year meals were scarce; industrial concerns announced bonuses for employes; department stores reported greater sales since the black days of October, 1929.

Weather Plays Tricks

Vicissitudes of weather dappled the map. Santa had smooth going over snow in some sections. In others he had to don hip boots. Elsewhere, he discarded his fur coat and decked himself in a straw hat to make the rounds of gift distribution.

Flood victims on the Pacific northwest saw receding waters with extremely cold temperatures. Montana, Colorado, and Wyoming experienced cold and some snow; it was 42 degrees below zero in Evelth, Minn., and the twin cities, St. Paul and Minneapolis, had the coldest weather in years.

Detroit Lakes, Minn., had the coldest Christmas in the history of its weather bureau—40 below; parts of Oregon were balmy and California, while generally fair, shivered; Missouri, Tennessee, Oklahoma, and Kansas were several degrees from the comfort mark, and Nebraska was cold.

The south generally was warm, and the east, splotched with snow in sections, was whipped by cold winds.

Lubbock Soends Quiet Double-Holiday Observance

Except for a little too much imbibing in public places and a few minor disturbances, Lubbock spent a quiet double-holiday observing Christmas. Stores and offices were closed.

Seventeen persons arrested by police Saturday, Sunday, and yesterday were charged with drunkenness, it was said late last night. During the same period, the sheriff's and constable's departments jailed 18 persons for drunkenness.

Playthings Everywhere

After Santa Claus' visit either Sunday night or yesterday morning, bright-hued toys and playthings appeared on every Lubbock sidewalk and in nearly every front yard.

Lions Saturday were hosts to between 800 and 900 underprivileged children at a party at the Lindsey theater. Toys and food were distributed.

Levine's was host at a Christmas party yesterday afternoon, in front of the store at 1009 Broadway. Several hundred children received Christmas baskets.

Accidents Reported

Police had reports of two automobile accidents in which none was hurt. A Chevrolet sedan driven by Jack Niblick of 1628 Ninth street and a Hudson sedan, owned by Milton Blanford, negro policeman, and driven by Mose Jackson, were in a collision at Sixteenth street and Avenue S at 8 a. m. Monday. A Buick sedan, owned by Norton Baker, and parked in the 1200-block of Thirteenth street, was struck by a Ford coach being driven east on Thirteenth street, about 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

A 48-year-old man, living in the 1900-block of Nineteenth street, was arrested at 9:30 p. m. Sunday by police after the man slashed his father-in-law with a knife. The older man was injured only slightly. The suspect was transferred to county jail, and was held there last night. Police also arrested a negro, Nathaniel Brown, who later was charged in county court with assault. Brown was released on $250 bond Sunday, soon after his arrest.

Two Lubbock men pleaded guilty of disturbance and were fined $15 each yesterday afternoon. The disturbance was reported to have occured after father of the men was found at a woman's house in the south part of town. The sons were released on bond.

Fair weather, comfortably pleasant, favored trips of Lubbock and South Plains persons during the week-end.

Four Generations Of Roosevelts At Dinner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP)—The Roosevelt family—four generations of them and a big circle of relatives—pulled up the high backed chairs of the White House dining room tonight and sat down for a typical Roosevelt Christmas dinner.

Mr. President, at the head of the long table, presided with such formality as was necessary at the strictly informal and jolly home gathering of the "Roosevelt clan." At the foot of the table was the first lady, directing the serving of the hearty holiday dinner.

The four generations of the president's immediate family and the relatives totalled a score. Of the immediate family, there were the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt, the president's mother; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the two grandchildren of the executive, "Sistie" and "Buzzie" and the two younger sons, John and Franklin, jr.

Feet-Washing Is Observed In Local Church Christmas

A ceremony, dating back to the time of the Christ, was performed at the Lubbock Church of God, Third street and Avenue T, last night.

About 50 men and women of the congregation separated, removed their shoes and hose, and washed each others' feet. The women were seated, facing each other, and each washed the feet of the woman opposite her. The same ceremony occurred in another part of the small building where the men were.

The Lord's supper also was observed by the small congregation.

Evangelist J. C. Campbell, district overseer, of Brownfield, preached. As he spoke, choruses of "amens," "hallelujahs," and other similar phrases swelled from the little group.

Rev. Walter W. Rush, the pastor, said that Rev. C. F. Meador of Slaton and Mrs. Larkin Taylor preached yesterday afternoon. Mr. Campbell spoke Monday morning, and basket dinner was served at the church. Services will be continued each evening this week.

Congress

passage before March 15, the day returns are to be filed by individuals and corporations.

On the tentative legislative program so far set are:

Proposals to amend various provisions of the recovery program, enacted at the special session last spring, including the farm administration and relief acts; possible guaranteeing by the government of the principal of the home loan bonds in addition to interest, and possible changes in the securities act.

May Seek Law

One of the important questions that will arise will revolve about the president's monetary policies and inflation of the currency. Indications are that some legislation will be asked by the administration to put into specific law some of the policies inaugurated under the broad powers granted the president under previous acts.

The influx of senators and representatives for the session has already begun.

Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic house leader, have been here for several days. Vice President Garner and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the senate Democratic leader, are expected to join them soon.

To Talk Program

President Roosevelt plans to talk over with his party leaders phases of his projected program at a series of conferences to begin as soon as they all get here. Indications are that efforts to avoid any possible major conflict will be made by the president before he submits his proposals to congress.

One phase of the presidential program that is an ever present potential source of trouble is the economy act, with its sharply reduced gratuities to veterans. Veterans organizations are demanding modification if not repeal of its major provisions. Some leaders predict the administration will restore some of the benefits.

Veterans To Make Aggressive Demands

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25. (AP)—An aggressive drive for modification of the National Economy act as it effects veterans expenditures is taking shape for the coming session of congress.

With most former service men's organizations working for repeal of the act, the American Legion is pushing a four-point modification program. Its amendments will be presented on the first day of the session by Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), chairman of the house veterans committee.

Adoption of the program, according to legion estimates, would cost $70,000,000. It would restore free hospitalization to improvident veterans; would substitute the word "compensation" for "pension" with reference to service-connected death and disability payments; would return the compensation for World war death and disability to persons who received it on March 20, 1933, on the old basis, and would provide payments for world war orphans and widows.

Veterans' organizations other than the legion are seeking its support for their efforts to repeal the act. These attempts so far have failed.

Legion officials take the view that by asking for less they will ultimately obtain more than those who ask for a lot. They predict adoption of their program.

NEWS BRIEFS

A 1932 Ford coupe, stolen about six weeks ago from J. F. McDonald, has been identified as the car found by officers when they arrested Roy Stewart at Littlefield last week.

Stewart has been charged with burglary of Gentry Dry Goods store at Shallowater. Identification of the automobile was announced yesterday at the sheriff's department.

Two Littlefield men were arrested and two stolen mules were recovered by the sheriff's department early Monday morning. The animals were stolen Sunday night about 15 miles north of Clovis, N. M. An alarm was spread, and the local officers found the mules in a truck being driven through town.

Three Mexican youths, arrested Saturday by police for theft from Grollman's, 1015 Broadway, were transferred to county jail and released to their parents Sunday by County Judge E. L. Pitts pending disposition of their cases.

A 25-year-old Lubbock man, arrested Saturday afternoon for operating a cafe in an unsanitary manner, was released on $100 bond. The cafe was on south Avenue H.

R. B. Hudson, charged with theft of cotton, was placed in Lubbock county jail at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Hudson, arrested in the vicinity of Waco was returned to Lubbock by Sheriff Tom Abel. Carl Crockett, who was charged with cotton theft in connection with the same case, pleaded guilty in county court Dec. 11. Crocket drew sentences of three months in jail in each of four cases. The sentences are running concurrently.

H. F. Dowell, vocational agriculture teacher, of Estacado High school, was principal speaker last Wednesday night at a cotton acreage reduction rally at Becton. Many farmers of this community are planning to slash their cotton acreage, it was said.

upon the attention of men everywhere and to turn the thought of mankind not by any means toward the elimination of profit but toward its subordination to service."

Dr. Butler, discussing the resources of the world, said:

"It is only as the world has come to be so widely and so largely settled and developed that it has dawned upon men how great is the loss of this generation and that of generations to come, for example, through the reckless use of natural resources for private profit."

If helpful service to one's fellow men be the dominant motive, Dr. Butler said, "then the greater the legitimate profit one makes, the more will be applauded. Criticism and resistance come when the service motive disappears from sight and the profit motive dominates all."

S. T. Love Is Injured In Air Crash Sunday; Not Hurt Badly

S. T. Love, who suffered lacerations of the face and a severely sprained ankle in an airplane mishap at Municipal airport Sunday afternoon, was dismissed from West Texas hospital yesterday afternoon.

A single-seat Buhl Bull Pup monoplane Love was piloting crashed on the field after one wing caught on the ground. Clint Breedlove, airport manager, said Love, soon after taking off, was turning the plane to the left when the wing-tip touched the ground. The ship landed upright.

Damage to the ship, owned by M. F. Dagley of Lubbock, was estimated at about $500, Breedlove said. The left wing, the landing equipment, and the propellor were demolished, he said. The accident occurred at about 4:30 o'clock.

Love was carried in a Stahler ambulance to West Texas hospital. The young man, who was spending the Christmas holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Love, 2317 Thirteenth street, suffered lacerations of his face. His nose was badly bruised, it was said.

Breedlove said Love, an army flier from Marsh Field, Calif., previously had made three landings with the monoplane.

contracts, but there must be action and not delay.

Will Not Hesitate

"The PWA will not hesitate to cancel or rescind allotments already made which because of unreasonable delay in confirmation of contracts do not fulfil their purpose in furnishing employment through actual construction work."

Public works officials explained that the secretary's warning did not apply to cases where, after allotments were made, legal obstacles had arisen over such matters as rights-of-way, although, they said, such situations should have been cleared up before application for funds was made.

In cases of legal delays, they said a reasonable time would be granted for adjustments before the allotment was cancelled and an inquiry would be made by the public works to determine whether the "entanglement" was an actual one, or a means by opponents to delay a project.

The gun accidentally discharged. A bullet entered Earline's right eye and went into her brain. Physicians fear the Hartman home will be sorrowed by death.

Negro Is Sought For Man's Murder

ALVIN, Dec. 25. (AP)—His head beaten in with a bloody axe that stood against the open door, the body of R. S. Lapham, about 50, recluse truck farmer, was found Christmas morning in his window-less retreat in a barn.

The body was discovered by Cloid J. Jackson, county highway employe, who lives near the five-acre tract Lapham had been cultivating as a tenant farmer.

"Lapham made his living selling vegetables," Jackson said, "and I went over to his place to get some onions. As I came to the open door I saw he had been murdered."

After hours of painstaking inquiry among neighbors and search of the scene of the slaying, officers had only slim clues. They said they were searching for a negro for questioning, but admitted that they had nothing to connect the negro with the murder directly.

WIFE IS HELD

DALLAS, Dec. 25. (AP)—Ike Massey, 30, was in a Dallas hospital Christmas night with a critical gunshot wound in the abdomen, and his wife, Mrs. Louise Massey, 24, was in county jail charged with assault with intent to murder. Officers were told the couple had engaged in a quarrel. Mrs. Massey refused to make any statement.

MAN SHOOTS SELF

Cramer's daughter, Mrs. Grace Taliaferio, said that her father was despondent before the shooting.

"My father had received a Christmas present from every one of his relatives and was sad because he could not give them something in return," Mrs. Taliaferio said. "He went into another room. When I found him later he was shot."

CRASH VICTIM DIES

TEXARKANA, Dec. 25. (AP)—Injuries suffered when an automobile wrecked the wagon in which she rode caused the death at a hospital here today of Mrs. Clyde Walker, 24, of Omaha, Texas.

An automobile driven by Morris Stevens struck the wagon, in which Mrs. Walker was riding with her husband and eight other persons, about one-half mile east of Omaha. Stevens lives at Omaha.

She was rushed to a Texarkana hospital, dying a few minutes after reaching it. Death was attributed to a fracture at the base of the skull.

Her husband and other occupants of the wagon were not hurt seriously.

CHILD IS KILLED

TEMPLE, Dec. 25. (AP)—Robert Polk, 6, died here late today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Henry Blum, jr.

Witnesses said the boy stepped from between two other cars into the path of the one driven by Blum. The impact hurled him several feet into the air.

Funeral services for the boy, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Polk, will be held tomorrow.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN

BREMOND, Dec. 25. (AP)—William Marshall, 26, was killed today when run over here by a Southern Pacific freight train.

Roosevelt's Act Is Said To Have Restored Free Speech

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. (AP)—President Roosevelt's Christmas proclamation, granting full pardons to World war violators restored the principle of free speech to the constitution, Harry N. Weinberg, attorney who defended Emma Goldman before her deportation, said today.

Leaders of the campaign to free wartime offenders begun 12 years ago said the proclamation marked the end of their long fight.

Charles Ludwige Dodgson used the pen name of Lewis Carroll in his writings.
