U. S. ANNOUNCES CANCELLING OF BORDER TREATY

SMUGGLING PACT NOT TO HOLD AFTER ITS YEAR IS UP MARCH 28

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 22.—Events moved quickly today in the Mexican situation but in what direction was not entirely apparent. The state department announced that the American government would terminate on March 28 its smuggling treaty with Mexico which incidentally had been found with the question of arms shipments to that republic. It was estimated that efforts to obtain an agreement on a commercial treaty which would protect American property rights in Mexico had failed.

Tellex Radiates Optimism
Ambassador Tellex, who made a hurried trip to Mexico recently and held extensive conferences with President Calles, quietly slipped into a conference last night with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg at the president's Du Pont Circle residence, and today he radiated optimism over future relations between the United States and Mexico.

There was no indication of an early lifting of the embargo on arms, the state department explanation being that in the absence of other arrangements with Mexico safeguarding American commerce, it was not deemed advisable to continue the smuggling prohibition.

Says Reports in Error
The Mexican ambassador declared that reports that the smuggling treaty had been denounced because of the obligation which would rest upon the United States to inform Mexico of any

They Want Protection
Cut off by the Cantonese army, those remnants of the Shanghai forces and now engaged in looting, strove to preserve the barriers and gain the protection of the foreign fighting men against their enemies.

Decorating For The President

How The White House Pro-Tem Was Groomed For Coolidge Tenancy

BY GENEVIEVE HENDRICKS
For NEA Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 22—Miracles happen and dreams come true, even in the 20th century. For years I admired the Patterson house at the headquarters of Washington's big residences and often sat on a bench in Dupont Circle so that I might study its proportions and architectural details. I always hoped against hope that some day I might pass by at the happy moment when the main door would be open so that I could have a glimpse of the hall within.

During the last few weeks, I have passed through this same door hundreds and hundreds of times. As fate gave me the opportunity not only of seeing the interior, but of knowing the house from cellar to attic in the minutest detail.

Now has there been any disillusionment upon "peeking" frequently through the beautifully paneled vestibule door at the inside of the marble facade. For this house, designed by an artist and perfect in its proportions and details is always a source of joy.

Patterson, and has carried on the original plans of her mother. Like her mother, she is not a faddist and has never been lured away from the classical and the beautiful in design by striking or exotic modern pieces of furniture or materials. There have therefore been few pieces that have had to be thrown out.

To work in such a house is an opportunity that comes seldom to any decorator. Here only the best in design and quality may enter. There are no compromises. I have a very pretentious sense of permanence in the work which I do in this house. I have used only those materials and pieces of furniture which would fit in with the original scheme.

Several months ago Washington was agog with conversation as to where President and Mrs. Coolidge would live during their absence from the White House. It was known that several large and very beautiful places had been offered. Knowing the Patterson house is I do, I was of course "most" anxious that it be selected. In fact this house, more than any of the others, expresses quiet, simple elegance without ostentation or display. It is quite in keeping with the characters of the President and Mrs. Coolidge that they chose this classical abode instead of one of the larger, more lavish residences.

A mistaken impression has gone forth that the Patterson home was recommended solely because the President and Mrs. Coolidge were taking it over as their temporary residence. What actually happened was that the redecoration, which has extended over a period of two years, has been hurried to its conclusion at this time. Unlike most great houses, it is kept in perfect condition.

A study of the furnishings of the "Temporary White House" would give a good lesson in thrift, for it exemplifies in every way the value of good buying.

The old French and Italian furniture selected by the original owner in today as lovely as it was when it first entered the house. Much of it is genuine antique, the work of painstaking artisans of the 18th and early 19th centuries. Also, it has greatly increased in value because it is both good and rare. These old pieces have needed repairs from time to time, of course, and recently some refinishing. A few new pieces have been added, but each has been selected to accord with those already in the house. None of them strikes a new note of design or period style.

Unlike most great residences the Patterson house has a most desirable lived-in appearance. It is no museum cluttered with objects of art. Everything in it has a purpose. There are not just so many things, each beautiful, but having no particular reason for their presence. Even large rooms like the ball-room and the library and the dining-room, with their 15-foot ceilings and large dimensions, have a certain quality of charm and informality.

 NEW YORK, March 22.—The saying "As Babe Ruth goes, so go the Yankees" was fair Tuesday in the camp of the American League champions at St. Petersburg. The Bambino hobbled with a crippled leg through a game that the Yanks took from the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1 Monday. Youngsters had a lot to do with the victory, although the batter's slugger hit a single and Bob Meusel in his season inaugural, belted a homer into Tampa bay.

Brooklyn was beaten 2 to 2 in 11 innings by the St. Louis Browns at Tarpon Springs.

The New York Giants sat and watched it rain at St. Augustine, temporary headquarters.

Red Sox Take Rest
 Bill Carrigan's hard-working Boston Red Sox had a day off when the first rain in three weeks put an end to sunshine and diamond practice at New Orleans.

The Philadelphia Athletics have found their batting eyes. Until Monday their hits had been scarce and mostly due to defensive work in defeating the Boston Braves 9 to 3 at Fort Myers, they gathered 12 safeties, including three doubles and a home run.

The Phillies also are showing improvement in batting. Against Columbus Monday Manager McInnis' second string squad had made 11 hits, including two doubles and two triples when rain stopped the game in the seventh inning with the score 7-7.

Schalk Is Hurt
 Manager Ray Schalk, who will both manage and backstop for the Chicago White Sox this year after fourteen years of plain catching, was temporarily put on the casualty list in the Sox exhibition game against Wichita Falls Monday when a foul tip tore an old one of his fingers. Aaron Ward, former Yankee, who will perform in 1926, Collins' place at second this year, broke up the game in the eighth with a single when the bases were crossed. The Sox' winning 5 to 4.

McCarthy of Chicago
 Manager McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs acknowledged his satisfaction over the results of the second week-end invasion of the mainland and the Coast League, when the Cubs returned to Catalina Island, and more heavy batting practice was ordered for Tuesday. After a bad start, the Cubs began to slant the apple and have taken four out of the six Coast League contests.

Thevenow Wins For Cards
 Tommy Thevenow, silent shortstop whose money differences with the St. Louis Cardinals kept him out of preliminary training, stepped off the train Monday into nine full innings against the Washington Senators at Avon Park. His long double to right-center field helped the Cardinals to their five to four victory.

Fred Schulte, centerfielder obtained by the St. Louis Browns from Milwaukee for a reported price of $75,000 got four hits each in exhibition games Saturday and Monday. His home run Monday turned the tide against Brooklyn.

Manager George Morarity of the Detroit Tigers has taken vacation to spike reports that he contemplates releasing Whitehill, Art Johns and John Neun to the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League.

Whitehill is one of the best left-handed pitchers in baseball he said. Johns could never be wowed out of the league and there is less chance of getting Neun out.

Cleveland Is Ready
 After several trouncings by baseball teams, major and minor, the Cleveland Indians go into the second session with the yanigans at their Lakeland training camp Tuesday with an announcement by Manager Jack McCallister that the game would last until he runs out of pitchers as a weak inducer. The regulars took the yanigans Monday 3 to 2.

The Cincinnati Reds meet the New York Yankees in the second game of their brief series at St. Petersburg Tuesday. This will be the last game for the Reds on the Florida west coast this year. They go to West Palm Beach to finish their training.

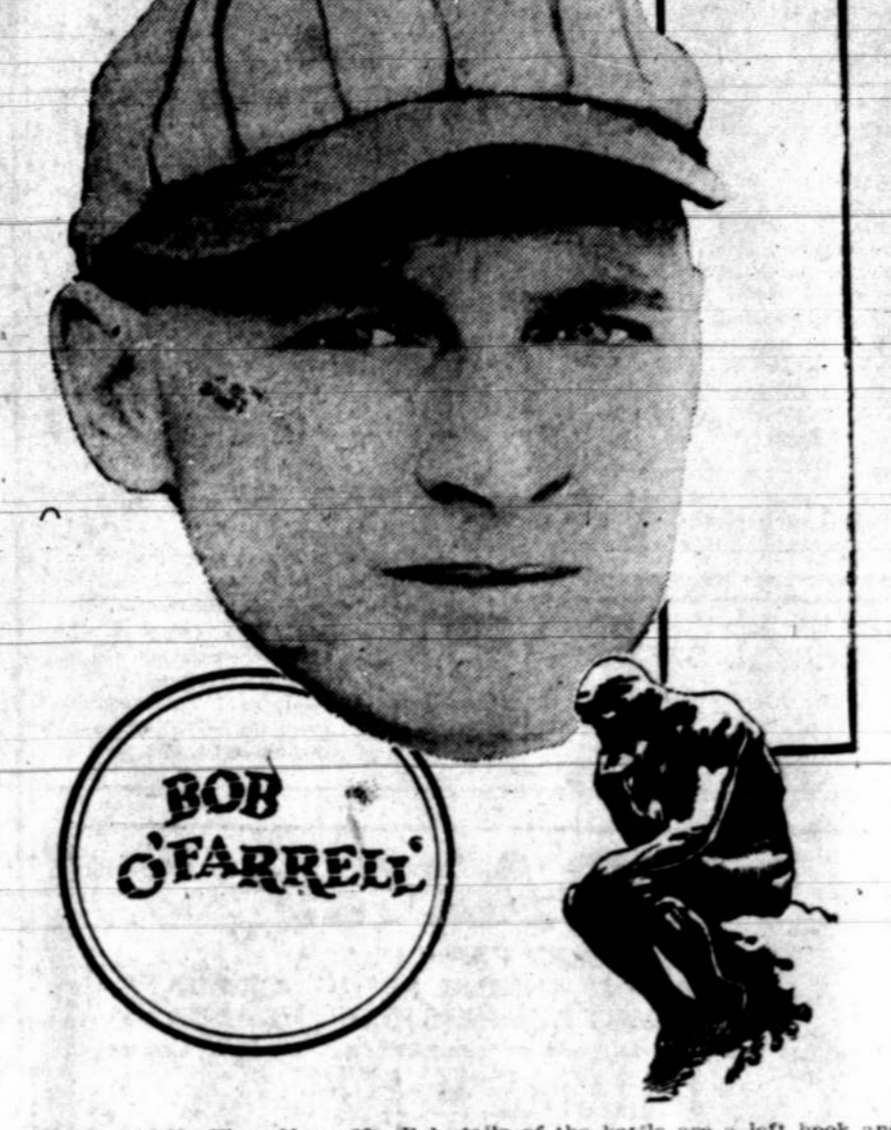

Glenn Wright, star shortstop, who has been out of the game with an injured hand for several days, is expected to return to the lineup when the Pittsburgh Pirates again clash with the Missions at San Francisco Tuesday. The Pirates defeated the Missions Monday 4 to 3.

Morris Is Hurt
 An injury to the index finger of his right hand has forced Manager "Bucky" Harris out of the Washington Senators lineup and pending an x-ray examination to determine whether the bone is fractured, it is impossible to tell how long he may be forced to direct play from the sidelines. The finger caught the full force of a throw from Goslin, the senators' left fielder.

In the initial inning of Monday's game at Avon Park, which the world champion St. Louis Cardinals captured by a 5 to 4 score.

Cardinals As Strong As Last Year, Says Evans

Bob O'Farrell And Frisch Jointly Shoulder Rogers Hornsby's Burden

BOB O'FARRELL

AVON PARK, Fla., Mar. 22.—Bob O'Farrell of the St. Louis Cardinals, making his debut as manager, inherited the toughest job that was ever handed a big league pilot.

The quiet, rather soft-spoken leader of the Cards takes over a world's championship team. It is minus its biggest star, the outstanding player in the National League, Rogers Hornsby.

The ball club which O'Farrell is to lead, in his way of thinking, is just as good a ball club as the 1925 model. Possibly it is a trifle better, because of greater reserve strength.

Ordinarily for a ball club to part with a second baseman of Hornsby's caliber, also its manager, would just about wreck it. That is not true as of the Cardinals.

When St. Louis received Frankie Frisch in return for Hornsby, the club acquired the only second baseman in the National League capable of filling the gap.

Now that Ty Cobb has passed the peak of his game, lost much of the fire that caused him to be the most talked about player in the game, Frankie Frisch comes closest to taking his place.

Frisch is remarkably fast. He makes spectacular plays on short fly balls to the outfield that no other infielder would come close to reaching, and he can cover acres of territory to his right or left. Frankie is also a sensational performer on the bases and a fine batsman.

Frisch, I am sure, will fill the bill at second base in as satisfactory a manner as Hornsby. I do not look for the St. Louis fans to be disappointed in his play as compared to the standard set by "Eajah" the Great.

Last year, had anything happened to Catcher Bob O'Farrell, the club would have been seriously handicapped for the want of an experienced receiver.

This year O'Farrell, who will be a busy man as manager and first-string catcher, will have a most valuable understudy in Frank Snyder.

Snyder, who served under John McGraw for a number of years and helped the Giants to several pennants, is back with the Cards, looking mighty fit.

Snyder was out of the game last season with two broken hands. Strangely enough they came from a fistie encounter rather than a diamond accident.

I am told Snyder became involved in an argument with Jack Onslow, who was then a Pittsburgh coach. The de-

TECH BASEBALL SCHEDULE MADE UP FOR SEASON

MATADOR TOSSERS ARE TO MEET STRONGEST OF WESTERN TEAMS

Coch Ewing V. Freeland has contracted for the last games in the Matador baseball season and now announces his schedule for the Texas Tech team. The schedule includes the strongest baseball clubs of the West Texas colleges and a bitter struggle is expected from all games scheduled. The opening card calls for the New Mexico Military Institute of Roswell to meet with the Matadors on the local diamond on April 6 and 7.

The schedule has nineteen games which is six more than were played last season. The 1927 card includes:

April 6-7, N. M. M. I. at Lubbock
 April 11-12, W. T. S. T. C. at Lub.
 April 18-19, Simmons at Abilene.
 May 2-3, A. C. C. at Lubbock.
 May 6-7, W. T. S. T. C. at Canyon
 May 10-11-12, Daniel Baker at Lubbock.
 May 20-21, N. M. M. I. at Roswell.

Detroit's Walloping Tigers May Be The 'Dark Horse' Of American Loop

McMANUS WILL BE GREAT HELP TO INFIELD OF BENGAL CREW

(By The Associated Press)
 SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Mar. 22. (AP)—The "dark horse" of the American League may wear a Tigers' stripes. Detroit players are exhibiting what boxing followers call a "sock," which has nothing to do with a covering for the foot. Straight down the batting order the Tigers can hit and it seems possible that a change in strategy may result in the maximum offensive being made.

An impression is created in the training camp of the Juniors that the players will be held responsible for individual initiative. It was no secret that under Ty Cobb, the manager, and the thinking for the ball club, it was said that the great Georgian was frequently ahead of the rest of the team.

Morarity Tells 'Em'
 George Morarity, called the managerial responsibility after ten years as an umpire, has let the players know that he expects them to win baseball games and would just as soon have them win the hard way as his.

In the Detroit outfield will be found three of the main ones in the offensive which Morarity expects to make his team a serious factor in the race. Marush, current batting leader of the league, Heilmann, who held the title three times, and Fothergill, who was a menacing candidate for the same honor, "Red" Wingo is returned from last year's cast as an extra outfielder and has been joined on the bench by Arthur Rube, a competent batsman from the Southern Association.

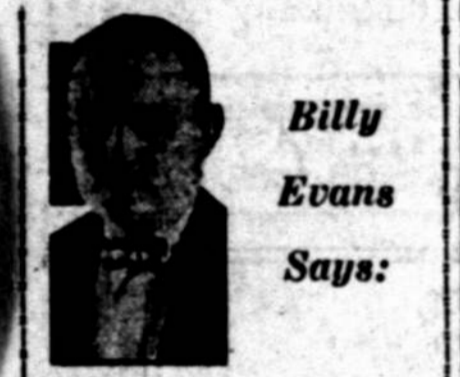

McManus To Help
 The addition of Marty McManus, late of the Browns has added power to the infield. McManus will play second base and bat second in the lineup from the outset. Jack Tavener, diminutive shortstop, has been moved to the top of the batting order, where he will be able to use his size to make it hard for opposing pitchers. He also will bat left-handed, an asset under ordinary conditions for a lead off man. Warner will be back at third base and Lucerne Blue will take care of first with a promotion to field captain to speed him up.

An extra infield is available in Neun at first, Gehring, second or third and two recruits, Bernard Deviceros and George Redfern, shortstops Deviceros came from the Texas League and Redfern was promoted from the Southern Association. One of the infielders will probably pass out of the picture when cutting is in order.

Injuries Are Bad
 Early season injuries have upset the catching staff to some extent but there seems a chance that a recruit may wash his way into the select circle of receiving. The Tigers have three veteran catchers, Bessler, Woodall and

Billy Evans Says:

Kindly Feeling for Hornsby
 Ball players are mighty sensitive. I have known that ever since I started umpiring.

However, it was never brought more forcibly to my attention than during my stay at Avon Park, Fla., where the St. Louis Cardinals are training to win another pennant.

As I breezed around among the players, I sought to get their sentiments relative to the passing of Rogers Hornsby, after he as manager had given St. Louis its first pennant and world championship.

Among most of the players I found a very kindly feeling toward the departed manager. All of them thought he was the victim of a tough break, even though he may have been partly responsible for it himself, due to his salary demands.

From my conversation, I gathered the players liked Hornsby and sympathized with him.

Interview Changes Sentiment
 About 24 hours later there was a decided change of sentiment in the camp of the world champions.

In a statement from Saratosa, the training quarters of the Giants Hornsby, on being interviewed—as to the chances of the Giants and Cardinals, was quoted, or misquoted, as follows:

"The Giants will win the 1927 pennant in the National League and the world series. Was never surer about anything in my life. I'd be willing to wager my entire season's salary."

"What about the Cardinals? They won't be troublesome. It's just an ordinary ball club that will be lucky if it finishes in the first division."

"I look for three teams, New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati to beat out the world champs."

Cardinals Resent Insinuation
 Hornsby may have said every word of it and then again some mere statement of his relative to the chances of the Cardinals may have been exaggerated.

One cannot blame Hornsby for believing the Giants will win the National League pennant. It's a mighty fine ball club, managed by none other than John McGraw, who leads only winning teams.

The Cardinal players didn't object so much to that part of the interview. It was the opinion expressed that St. Louis would be lucky to finish in the first division.

That statement caused a decided reaction in feeling. From it the players inferred that the passing of Hornsby meant the club had dropped from the position of world champs to a second division club.

Intention to Win Pennant
 Prior to practice the next day an indignation meeting was held in the clubhouse of the Cardinals.

It was strictly private, but some of my good friends among the players informed me that Hornsby's ears must have burned during the conference. It was the sole topic of conversation and much of it wasn't complimentary.

It was funny to listen to the chatter of the players as they later went about their batting practice.

"Hit one for Hornsby," was the college yell all afternoon.

The players resent the insinuation credited to their former manager. That they are a second division aggregation. Nothing could have spurred them on more than such a statement.

It strikes me when the Giants meet the Cardinals this summer for will fly.

Lockney Wheat Crop Is in Good Condition Now
 LOCKNEY, March 22.—The condition of the wheat crop in the Lockney section at this time, is much more advanced than for the preceding three years. The average is large and the planters are resorting to grazing in order to curb the growth.

As a rule the wheat does not need rain but it could be used to a good advantage.

DATES SET FOR AGGIE CARNIVAL

April 29 and 30 Will Usher In Annual Cinder Path Meet This Year

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 22.—The second annual relay carnival and fiftieth annual interscholastic track and field meet will be held at the A. & M. College of Texas on Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30, Frank G. Anderson, track coach of the A. & M. College and manager of the meet, has announced. All undergraduate athletes in high school and academy institutions who are passing in at least three courses are eligible for participation. There will be no division of athletes from among the high schools and academies.

In view of the success of the first relay carnival last year, this year's combination carnival and track meet is expected to be one of the best athletic meets of the year. Indications to a large representation from every section of the State.

To Award Medals
Medals for every event will be awarded winning teams and individual athletes on the second day. A long list of attractive awards are being prepared for this year's meet.

Although the rules of the Southwestern Conference do not permit the refund of railroad fares, every convenience will be provided visiting athletes. More than 1,000 lockers and modern dressing rooms will be thrown open to the athletes. Accommodations will be provided on the Campus, and the players will be given meals at the Mess Hall, which will be general headquarters. Everything possible will be done to insure every man a pleasant and profitable visit to the A. & M. College.

There will be no mile relay on the second day but those will be held in connection with the relay carnival.

There will be a meeting of all coaches and managers in the Memorial Gymnasium at 2:30 Friday afternoon to draw for lanes and to assign numbers to contestants in the relay carnival which will begin at 4:30. This will enable most of the teams to come to College Station Friday and thus miss only a minimum of school work. All entry blanks must be mailed in order to reach the college by April 25. Entries must be turned in by that time to permit the printing of the complete program.

The relay carnival will include quarter mile sprint, medley distance medley half-mile medley and mile medley. The track events will include pole vault shot put, 120-yard high hurdles, 100-yard dash, mile run, high jump, discus, 440-yard run, 220-yard run, broad jump, javelin, half mile run and 220-yard hurdles.

Norman And Dunn Battle To A Tie

WACO, Texas, Mar. 22. (AP)—Sailor Red Norman of Waco and Battling Dunn of Corsicana fought ten rounds to a draw here last night. Norman landed a blow early in the first round that injured his wrist, handicapping his efforts throughout the fight. After the bout, it was learned that Norman had fought nine rounds with a broken wrist.

Manion if Mervyn Shea makes a place for himself one of the older men will have to go. Shea was going at a rapid clip when he hurt a toe. Manion was also hurt in spring training and incapacitated.

There was a belief in the camp that the fight for the catching place was all square between the two hospital cases. Morarity believes the 1927 edition of the pitching staff is an improvement over that of 1926.

George Duhaes has been lost to the club through sickness but Jess Doyle has returned from the International League to shoulder the relief burden. Whitehill has been showing good left-handed form, supported ably by Wells and John Gibson. Collins, Stoner, Smith and Holloway are right-handers, returned from last year. Fighting for a place are five recruits, Kneisch, Walkup, Carroll, Sullivan and Watt. The race was judged a free for all.

TECH SELLS TRIO OF ITS CALVES

Three Jersey bull calves have been sold by the animal husbandry department of the Tech college to the Clover Leaf dairy at Pithaville. The animals were delivered the latter part of last week. W. L. Stangel, head of the department said today. The calves were raised by the college, and in the opinion of E. J. Macpherson, Plainview banker, who made the purchase, are equal or better in individuality than the score or more bulls imported to Holt county the past fall from Ohio through the county agent's department of the county. It was said.

The calves are from ten to thirteen months old, and will be used to head the dairy herd. They are not out of registry of merit dams, but represent a very popular line of breeding, being strong in the blood of Noble of Oaklands, Gamboe's Knight, and Sybil's Gamboe. Mr. Stangel said. The first and the latter of the three above mentioned are rated as two of the leading sires of the Jersey breed.

Gray had been regarded by his friends as a man of exemplary conduct. He was an active church worker in East Orange, N. J., where he lived.

His affair with Mrs. Snyder originated in a flirtation in a restaurant two years ago.

Mrs. Isabella Gray, the 29 year old brunette who has been a wife to Gray for 12 years, was told of his alleged confession early today, but continued to profess belief in her husband's innocence.

"I can't believe it and I won't believe it until I hear it from my husband's own lips," she said. "I still keep my faith in him."

Cinderella Goes Home PEACHES LOSES ALIMONY She Sobs Out Sorrows

NEW YORK, March 22.—Midnight having struck in the Cinderella life of "Peaches," the 16-year old bride of Edward W. Browning, today was separated from the riches and splendor to which she had become accustomed. No longer must her wealthy husband pay her $300 a week alimony. In fact, he need not pay a cent.

The Cinderella referred to her chimney corner, "Peaches" went to bed where she sobbed her disappointment over losing her separation suit against the 52-year-old wealthy real estate operator, who won his suit for separation.

Automatically deprived by the decision of the $300 a week alimony she had been receiving since November, "Peaches" and her mother, Mrs. Catherine Heenan, are without funds to pay for an appeal. Mrs. Browning's only claim to continued support is to return to her husband, should he desire to take her back.

But Browning declared today he would have nothing further to do with "Peaches."

British food experts say Cloppina, ate onions and used garlic and other highly scented ingredients in her food.

Realizing the truth of the statement by Thomas Jefferson, "we must educate or we much perish," Bryan has developed one of the best school systems of the State, and a third of its population has been attracted because of its educational institutions. The Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, located five miles from Bryan, has an enrollment of 2,500 students. The Allen Academy of Bryan gives training to a large number of boys from every section of the State, and the Villa Maria Academy for girls has a splendid enrollment. Bryan's public schools, including the high school, grammar school, and ward school, rank with the best.

Bryan has many other advantages, too. It is the eleventh best-lighted city in the United States under 10,000 population.

Bryan has 18 miles of paved streets.

Bryan has an unusually low tax rate of $1.80, three-fifths of which goes to the schools.

Bryan has a population of 8,500 persons.

Bryan has a Carnegie library.

Bryan has two civic luncheon clubs, the Rotary and the Lions.

Bryan has the official Lions Club band of Texas in the Allen Academy Band, which will appear before the national convention of Lions Clubs in Florida in June.

Bryan has one of the most active civic clubs in the State in the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce with a membership of more than 800.

BRYAN

The City of Schools

IN THE HEART OF THE BRAZOS VALLEY—ONE OF THE MOST FERTILE SECTIONS OF TEXAS

A Great Year Just Ahead For Bryan

The year just ended was a period of great expansion and development for Bryan. The area of the City was extended; some additions were opened, a number of new homes were built. The City has spent many thousands of dollars in laying new water mains, enlarging the power plant, extending lighting service, installing additional street lights in the residential section and a Whiteway on Bryan Avenue and on 26th Street in the business section.

Confidence in Bryan's future is unmistakably being exhibited in plans now being completed for a modern hotel, development of "She Haswell Memorial Park," petitions for street paving and many other projects already underway. These, with the expansion program of the City Government that is being carried out, are all sufficient in themselves to assure to Bryan an even greater program of expansion and development in 1927 than was had in 1926.

Bryan is a City of Homes and Home Owners. It is a city of prosperous, happy and contented people who are able to enjoy the good things of life. A large percentage of the people own their own homes, and these homes are uniformly high class, many of them palatial. Bryan homes are well kept and the lawns and surroundings are beautifully landscaped.

The vital statistics of the City of Bryan show it to be for many years one of the lowest in death rate. Health is a fundamental requirement and the foundation of happiness. Bryan is essentially healthful and has a very low sickness record.

Bryan the City of Schools has just passed another milestone on its march of progress. The year 1926 has witnessed many developments in Bryan with building construction and all lines of business and industry steadily active.

Building projects under way here are three churches, Hotel,

Municipal Building, Coulter's Office Building, etc.

We are beginning another year of prosperity and well being. Bryan has everything in its favor, and with all loyal citizens working in harmony, this city will go far during the coming year.

Bryan is not a self-satisfied city nor a self-sufficient city. Bryan welcomes new business and new industry. Early pioneers visioned the Bryan of the future as a great city. Their descendants are striving to make that dream come true.

People from other parts of the State and Nation will find Bryan a very friendly and hospitable city, with every facility for their comfort, convenience and accommodation.

Whether they come in Winter or Summer they may be assured of finding a climate that is healthful and agreeable, whether they come on business or for pleasure they will find that in Bryan pleasure is a business and business is a pleasure.

Old-Fashioned Box Supper To Be Big
Feature Of Next Legionnaires' Meet

LEADERS OF POST DECRY
ATTENDANCE OF BOYS
AT CONVENTION

An old-fashioned box supper, with the spirit of fun and frolic will be the feature of the next meeting of the American Legion and Legion auxiliary Monday night, April 4, next regular meeting of the post, it was announced Monday night at the meeting of the organization. The funds derived are to be used by the auxiliary in furthering its program of work here.

The meeting Monday night, though attended in its every phase, was very enthusiastic, and after rendition of several musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental, by men selected at random from the crowd, Col. Clark M. Matlock, judge of the 59th district court, spoke a few minutes, touching briefly on four subjects of much interest to the boys of the Legion.

To Hunt Missing Boy
Col. Matlock asked for aid of the Legion in locating Frank Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Perkins, of this city who was either lost or killed during the war, and who has not been heard of by his people since. He outlined the progress of the Citizens military training camp, pointing to the good that can be derived from them; discouraged the idea of the "second American invasion of France" on the occasion of the national convention of the Legion this fall in Paris; and told of the present status of the Reserve Officers' Training corps.

The people of France and England, particularly the former, are recognized not very friendly to Americans. He has never been except during the actual time of fighting during the World War, and it is a dangerous situation for several hundred thousand ex-service men from America to invade the nation at this time. Col. Matlock said he spoke of the ramblings of war in the Balkans and in China, saying that actual warfare which probably would again involve the world may break out any time.

Dr. E. F. George, head of the department of physics at the Tech, college concerned heartily in Judge Matlock's earnestness against the Paris invasion, as did H. D. Woods, former commander of the Legion post here, but the latter suggested that plans are now under way by Legion national officials to control the situation through co-operation of various agencies.

In preparation for the fifth division Legion convention that is to be held here in May, a committee, composed of W. M. Young, F. D. Rowe, J. A. Bailey, Avon Howard and "Abel" Lincoln, was named to begin arrangements for the convention. It is expected that 200 or 300 ex-service men from all parts of West Texas to confer with representatives from state and national headquarters will be here for the convention.

The Convention Spoon in the Tower of England is believed to be the oldest silver spoon in existence.

SHANGHAI RIOTS

General Fu Shu-chan, commander of the northern defense forces at Shanghai, has agreed to surrender. His capitulation was arranged yesterday in negotiations with Chang Ki-shok, nationalist generalissimo.

The nationalist flag has been hoisted over Fu Shu-chan's headquarters, but many thousands of Shantungese soldiers in certain sections this evening were still unaware of the surrender. Sniping, fires and looting continue in the Chapel quarter just outside the international settlement, where mobs composed partly of Shantungese soldiers, partly of ordinary criminals and partly of nationalist gunmen, hold sway.

Streets Strewed With Dead
The streets are strewn with dead. In numerous cases, the robbers have cut off women's fingers in order to obtain their savings.

Every place holding the promise of loot has been cleaned out, but the problem of the criminals is now to get away with their booty. As they leave the city they are met by swarms of rioting mobs, and bloody fights occur.

Numerous innocent people are reported to have been killed in these affairs. The scenes in Chapel are indescribable. Blocked thoroughfares prevent the escape of the victims from the robbers.

Women Roam Streets
Nothing is to be heard there, but shots and the screams of women and children, running hysterically to and fro, many of the women afraid to remain in the houses, are roaming the streets unaided, having been stripped of their clothing by the soldiers in their wild hunt for loot.

Sometimes, hood-laden soldiers are protected by mobsters with machine guns, who think nothing of clearing the way down a crowded street by opening fire and killing scores of people.

But despite all this, it is declared that Chapel is merely undergoing the experiences that scores of other Chinese towns have had in the past during the present civil warfare.

Tonight the sky was lighted by the fires spreading in the district. A three-pound shell struck the Presbyterian Mission premises in the international settlement this afternoon and exploded, it caused much damage, but there were no casualties.

Marines On The Job
SHANGHAI, China, Mar. 22 (AP)—The United States marines today were settled in their shore billets and actively participating in the maintenance of order inside the settlement boundaries, hence they have not thus far experienced clashes with the Chinese such as the British have had at the barriers.

However, there has been some excitement, since the areas they patrol are within range of rifle fire from the Chinese sections. Today several spent bullets from the fighting in the native Chapel district fell in the regimental headquarters established on Sium road, but there were no casualties.

The Americans have the important task of protecting the vital services against attempts by agitators to cripple them.

British Troops Active
SHANGHAI, China, Mar. 22 (AP)—British troops shot and killed at least twelve and wounded about a score of Shantungese when they made a fresh attempt to break through the barriers of the international settlement here late today.

Later the British admitted 300 Shantungese, who gave up their arms upon entering the settlement.

Troops Attack Settlement
SHANGHAI, China, Mar. 22.—Firing their rifles in the air and yelling wildly, a mob of 2,000 Chinese troops from the ranks of the defeated northern army, rushed the thin British cordon guarding the northern area of the international settlement here at 4:40 o'clock this afternoon.

A few were successful in breaking through in the rocky hold alleys, but they were quickly rounded up, disarmed and turned back into Chinese territory. The main body of the invaders were stopped by the British troops without firing. No British casualties were reported.

The attempt to invade the settlement followed a day of intermittent firing between the southerners and Cantonese guerrillas in the native Chapel district.

Sniping Is Continuous
There was continuous sniping mostly by anti-aircraft airplanes, and the northeastern border of the settlement, and many shots penetrated the foreign quarter. The Japanese marines, who are holding the eastern portion of this area are replying to the snipers shot for shot. The Japanese are posted on several high roofs from which they watch for the snipers.

A small detachment of the Durham battalion (British), holding the barrier near the northern railway station was fired on by a Shantungese soldier lying on the ground. After the third shot, the British commanding officer ordered his men to fire once.

Lubbock Nurse Says Hardest Cases In Her Career Have Been Most Pleasant

36 HOURS SANS SLEEP IS NOT BAD, SHE SAYS, IF YOU'RE INTERESTED

"To him that hath patience, work is a pleasure."

"To her that hath patience work can be made a pleasure," says a nurse at a local hospital.

According to this pretty maid, the serious cases are the best ones. "But my girl would say the same thing when referring to men, her mind though, she was speaking of hospital patients."

"A serious patient is no more trouble than a measles case," she continued. "He will demand more care, but when able to express himself he is more appreciative. Really, I enjoy watching a person pull through a crisis; it comes to me to feel that I'm doing something worth while."

"Thirty-six hours without sleep! Few people are expected to go through that ordeal in a lifetime. That is the record of her years as a nurse, and she says she could do it most any time." "That was a particularly interesting case," she added, "which demanded special duty. The more interesting, the more appreciative the patient, regardless of his seriousness, the better I can work."

"Most patients appreciate my efforts," she says. "When they do not it is a difficult task to work with them."

"Surgery cases are her choice, and she finds more pleasure in nursing children."

MEXICAN TREATY

shipments of arms were important.

The smuggling treaty, he said, had not fulfilled the expectation of those who had drafted it.

He expressed confidence that with the co-operation and good will which he expected to meet in the state department, a friendly solution of pending matters between the two countries could be worked out.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22.—An indication that the United States had been unsuccessful in efforts to negotiate a commercial treaty with Mexico was contained today in a state department announcement that a negotiating convention between the two nations would be terminated on March 28.

The notice was issued by the Mexican foreign office by the American embassy at Mexico City last night. A statement issued by the state department today, said that inasmuch as the United States has no commercial treaty with Mexico, "it is not deemed advisable to continue in effect an arrangement which might in certain contingencies bind the United States to cooperation for the enforcement of laws declaring the importation of commodities of all sorts into American territory which this government has not arranged by treaty or otherwise, safeguarding American customers against possible discrimination.

Has Bearing On Arms
The smuggling convention has a direct bearing on the American embargo on arms shipments into Mexico. Under the convention, even if the embargo were lifted, the United States would be required to notify Mexico of impending shipments from the United States of arms or any other commodities prohibited from importation under Mexican law.

Whether the recent secret correspondence with Mexico involved a renewed American effort to negotiate a commercial treaty with that country to protect American owned property has not been disclosed. Ambassador Teller has not visited the state department since his hurried trip to Mexico City to consult President Calles. He sent a communication to the department on Saturday, however, and the state department has, night notified the Mexican foreign office that the smuggling convention would cease to be effective so far as the United States is concerned March 28 when its original one year term expires.

Teller Optimistic
WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Mexican Ambassador Teller conferred with President Calles and Secretary Kellogg at the Chedoke residence on Du Pont Circle last night and today he said he entertained nothing but the most optimistic views of future relations between the United States and Mexico.

Treaty Means Little
BROWNSVILLE, Texas, March 22.—Termination of the smuggling convention will have practically no effect, as there has been no marked efforts on the part of Mexican officials to aid in the suppression of smuggling of others liquor or drugs. No efforts have been made to extradite known smugglers as provided under the terms of the convention. Mexican officials state, however, that they have prevented hundreds of liquor barrels from the Rio Grande, which they had consigned to buyers that were liquor was to be smuggled, but due to the fact that Mexican citizens are permitted to possess any quantity of liquor the results of their efforts have been almost negligible. No effort has been made to break up the alien smugglers' ring which European aliens captured on this part of the border, since the headquarters of Tampico and Monterrey.

American officials have turned over to the Mexican authorities a number of well known smugglers captured on the American side of the Rio Grande and their deportation ordered by the immigration department after regular deportation proceedings.

SAINT AND SINNER

COPYRIGHT 1926. NEA BY ANNE AUSTIN

BOB HATHAWAY had been on the witness stand an hour before Banning permitted him to finish his story of the finding of the body of his uncle, Ralph Cluny, his notifying the police, his hurried trip to the church to inform the rector, the Rev. Mr. Ashburn, and Faith, of the death of his bridge-room.

"That is all, Mr. Hathaway. Oh, pardon me, just a minute, Mr. Churchill," Banning spoke suavely to the defense attorney who had sprung from his seat to cross-examine Bob. "Mr. Hathaway, do you remember the events of Sunday, September 24 last?"

Bob frowned, looked puzzled, then shook his head slightly. "Then let me refresh your memory, Mr. Hathaway," Banning spoke gently. "Were you in Darrow—the city of Darrow, Chelton County—on that date, in company with Miss Faith Lane—who is now your fiancée, and with this defendant, who was at that time your fiancée?"

"Objection!" Churchill thundered. "After the customary session of wrangling and arguments on both sides, Judge Grimshaw overruled the objection and Bob was forced to answer."

"I was in Darrow on a Sunday in September, in company with Miss Faith Lane and her sister, who is now Mrs. Wiley. I do not remember the exact date."

"Ah!" Banning expelled the syllable with acute satisfaction. "Now, Mr. Hathaway, you admit, do you not, that Mrs. Wiley, then Miss Cherry Lane, was your fiancée at that time?"

"She was," Bob answered in a low but distinct voice, his face going quite white as he remembered the events of that dreadful day, when he and Faith had hastened to Darrow to rescue Cherry from her rash elopement with Albert Littleton.

"Your witness, Mr. Churchill!" Churchill advanced his heavy imposing body slowly to the witness chair, to rest one hand familiarly on the arm of it. "Mr. Hathaway, the question of your engagement to this defendant, Miss Cherry Lane Wiley, has been twice raised by Mr. Banning. Will you tell the court and the jury who broke this engagement—you or Cherry?"

"Cherry broke the engagement herself," Bob answered clearly. "When did Cherry break this engagement with you, Bob?" Churchill asked in a comradely manner.

"Cherry, in the presence of her father, her brother, Jim Lane, Jr., and her sister, Faith, broke the engagement over my protest that same night."

"The night of Sunday, September 24 last, when you, Miss Cherry and Miss Faith had been in Darrow?" Churchill prompted.

"Yes, after our return from Darrow, to the Lane home, I announced our engagement to Mr. Lane, and Cherry said that she would not marry me." Bob's voice was steady, but his cheeks were flaming.

After a few apparently irrelevant questions, Churchill indicated that he wished to ask Bob as a witness for the state, and Banning immediately sprung another question upon him:

"Mr. Hathaway, did you escort this defendant to a dance at the Marlboro Country Club on the evening of Saturday, October 27?"

Infected Tonsils Often Harm Entire System

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

THE majority of physicians today are convinced that infected tonsils have a definite relationship to the occurrence of heart disease, rheumatism and St. Vitus dance. This opinion is based on evidence accumulated particularly during the past 20 years, which shows that bacteria from infected tonsils can get into the blood and be carried by the blood to other parts of the body, where they set up secondary infections. Indeed, the evidence indicates that the tonsils are more likely to be the primary place of infection leading to rheumatism than either the teeth or any other place in the body.

Undoubtedly the removal of infected tonsils will prevent a recurrence of infection, although the removal of the tonsils is unlikely to cure any permanent damage that has already taken place as the result of well established rheumatism.

Some of the persons who attack all medical procedures claim that removal of the tonsils may cause injury to the voice, or to the ears, or even be responsible for a greater likelihood of infection. There is not the slightest reason to believe that any such dangerous complications are likely to result.

Hundreds of thousands of persons have had their tonsils removed without damage of any kind to their general health during the past twenty years, and the majority of evidence indicates that the general effect has been good. In most instances persons who have had their tonsils removed have suffered, to a less extent with colds, with infections of the ears, or with infections of the sinuses. Sometimes children who have been unable to gain weight and who have been generally ailing have improved in their nutrition and in their strength following the removal of their tonsils. A few physicians have even urged that the tonsils should be removed routinely from all persons.

There does not seem to be any reason to urge such a routine method. If the person suffers constantly with sore throat, if the tonsils are greatly enlarged, if there seems to be reason for believing that the tonsils are acting as a focus of infection and setting up disturbances elsewhere in the body, these glands may be removed without question.

A good physician invariably examines the throat and the state of the tonsils in considering the cause and treatment of any disease.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

DURING CRISES

IS IT fair for one parent to take all the moral responsibility in regard to the physical and mental welfare of the children?

Sometimes, in a crisis, a decision has to be made. It may be a matter of an operation. It may be a matter of calling upon the child to make a sacrifice. It may be a matter of reproof or punishment or any of the thousand problems that come up in his training.

When I say moral responsibility, I mean just that. Moral responsibility is the responsibility that takes courage to back it.

Often one parent is apt to dodge the issue. He or she slips out from under and allows the other one to handle the situation alone.

I have in mind the case of a child who was ailing and whose parents had been told by specialists that an operation was necessary.

The father refused to give his consent. The mother also refused. Time went on. The child got worse—still ailing.

In time it became a matter of the child's very life—the focus of infection would have to be found and removed.

The father still refused because he knew in his heart that the mother would give her consent in the face of his opposition. There would be the responsibility if things went wrong. He was too cowardly to back her up.

The child did have the operation—and died! And the mother is held up as this day, by the father, as a murderer. Where he should have shared the responsibility, he refused and now he is being beastly cruel about the consequences.

It is of course not always so drastic. It is not always a case of life and death. But the principle is there.

Parents should stand shoulder to shoulder in a crisis. They should talk things over and if things do go wrong, there is no one to blame.

Crime and Punishment

This great land of ours has its faults, of course. No nation in the world's history has ever been otherwise...

From every side come reports of new and harsh laws. New York has a new law making a life term obligatory for "habitual criminals"...

Michigan is considering revising the death penalty for murderers. In certain states the death penalty has been extended for robbers as well as murderers...

All in all, it would seem that most of our criminals will be either dead or locked up safely in a short time.

But before the criminal millennium dawn, we would like to make a suggestion.

Might it not be that a general tightening up of our court procedure would do more good than stricter laws?

Statistics which have been brought to their fullest flower by our American civilization show that comparatively few criminals ever are brought to trial...

Let's see if we can't make our police and court systems a little more business-like, so that a man contemplating crime will find that the chances are so high he will be caught and convicted.

That seems a logical first step.

Flaming Youth In Africa

Did you think that "flaming youth" is a product of modern America only? These things happen in every city. They also happen in darkest Africa.

The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions reports that evangelistic work in the older fields of the West Africa mission is becoming increasingly difficult.

Apparently this "revival of youth" is going on in the Sudan as well as in the United States.

About Policemen

It was that a little one-eyed robbery in the street the other day. Perhaps you noticed it, too. I told about a policeman in the city who rescued the inmates of a burning tenement...

Little things like that aren't unusual. Such things happen in every city. We all have our privacies of policemen, now and then.

Keep that in mind the next time you start expressing yourself about the officers.

THE PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman understands upon good authority that this week's examination week at Texas Tech. This is the first indication that they ever had for some years that they ever do any studying in modern institutions of learning.

We cannot help but wonder why El Paso is such a popular city in which to hold conventions. Can it possibly be that the queer sights of quaint El Juarez—its old jail and older church—have anything to do with it?

"March winds and April showers bring forth May flowers." So the old nursery rhyme runs. The Plainsman believes that if April brings forth as many showers as March has winds, many showers in Lubbock country they'll be a nuisance.

The people who held their cotton are glad of it. The final government report, issued yesterday, showed fewer bales than previously estimated and as a result the market immediately went up.

The Plainsman is of the opinion that driving a car without a tail-light providing of course the driver is innocent of the fact is not nearly so bad as one motorist bull-headedly passing another on an intersection.

Some of these people who so consistently use the intersections to pass another car will be picked up in a bucket some day as a result of their folly.

Europe and Asia are again smoldering volcanoes of war. Back in 1914, when the world was laid to rest in a prosperous and happy U. S. A. had little idea that we would ever become involved in it but we were.

It is very likely that you won't see it. It's the president's fault. An ass who it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would reside in the home of the former Senator, Glick, near Mrs. Elmer Schlessinger, a great many bright young men engaged in the business of taking photographs bent every effort to obtain photographs inside the temporary White House.

Mr. Schlessinger had no objection. It appeared, she was rather proud of the old house. In fact, Mr. Schlessinger was overjoyed. Orders had come from the White House that it was not desired to have such pictures appear in the newspapers.

No reason was given for this reluctance. The president of the United States seldom has to give explanations for anything of such a nature.

As the flur approached for the president to depart the White House pending repairs, and to move into the Dupont Circle place, efforts were redoubled to obtain the interior views. These efforts likewise came to naught.

The camera boys could stand outside and shoot as much as they desired, but they couldn't step inside the sitting room, will get the point.

A desire has been manifested from the direction of the White House to stress the innate simplicity of the Dupont Circle place. But, under the circumstances, that is a rather difficult task.

The mansion is vastly more ritzy than any private residence your correspondent has ever seen "in the state of Vermont."

It is hardly likely that publication of interior views of this little palace would have any effect on the popular conception of President Coolidge, and the chances are that the president's objections are due to a feeling of modesty. If it were his own, personal dwelling, it might be different.

Photographers are popular with the president and the president is popular with the photographers. In the first place, he is nearly always glad to oblige and in the second place he seems to know so much about the technique of photography that the boys say he himself would make an excellent photographer. He knows just how to stand to get the best benefit of the light and always helps pull groups together when it's that kind of a picture.

Mr. Coolidge always moves promptly one way or the other, on demand, and he makes sure that all the photographers in sight get a good position on the "firing line." Whenever one comes running up late, he is ready to wait for a minute until another picture can be taken.

Photographers are allowed to function in the House of Representatives at the opening and close of a congressional session and when the president comes to make an address, but never in the Senate.

TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE IS A BIT RITZY—SO THE CAMERAS ARE BARRED

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22.—President Coolidge is not at all blithely, personally, about posing for photographs.

In fact, it is generally suspected that he is rather fond of it. But you may recall that you have yet to get a picture of the interior of the president's new temporary home, the Patterson mansion on Dupont Circle.

It is very likely that you won't see it. It's the president's fault. An ass who it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would reside in the home of the former Senator, Glick, near Mrs. Elmer Schlessinger, a great many bright young men engaged in the business of taking photographs bent every effort to obtain photographs inside the temporary White House.

But it's not the kind of evil we have, but the kind of good and women we see, that needs the criticism of the soviet.

How often and how easily, for it is our habit to be very free and easy in talking about the inferiority of all other peoples, have we said that Russia needed a bath and a shave. And now Russians say that we are fat and "indecent." We are wrong in our sneers, unwholesome in our boasts. Without knowing anything about it, we accuse them of free love. But they have seen our dances and would tell them to their children. We're called pig sorts of things by all sorts of people. But it was left for poor, despised Russia to say the things that hurt. The kind of dances that Mary Jane permits herself with Jack is not decent for Sonia and Ivan. When you talk about the way we rear our children, you touch us where we live. And after all our painful showing, the bolsheviks call us "fat—Milwaukee Journal."

Or on an uptown side street, once between monotonous stone fronts, one comes upon the young and old men of the Explorers' club, whose feet have stretched over every land and sea. Some have been caught by the city and bound again to the routine of existence. Here they can come and ease their itching feet with recollections of Sahara hunts or honeycombed coral reefs. A sun-burned new arrival from the South Sea calls to their nostrils the pungent odor of copra. Famous ones and little known youngsters of the world drift in and drift out again upon the streets to cast a halo of the far away upon a city infant upon its million little affairs.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and BROADWAY

NEW YORK, March 22.—In the vast percent of starch-faced office workers, overstuffed papas of the cloak and business world, snappy figures of the hunger belts and snappy dressers of the avenues, one is certain to be halted by the hint of adventure that lies behind the leather-bronzed skin of an unknown passer-by.

Here in Manhattan the restless of the world halt for a moment between exploits, whether their goal has been the arctic circle or the South American jungles.

For a few days the city swirls around them and often its touch with life and color holds them over a winter. In this interval they generally seek to rediscover the world they left behind while tapping other civilizations and climes. Frequently they are grabbed for lectures or efforts are made to build them into social lions.

Yet, exploring the side lanes of Greenwich Village, one finds the huge and colorful Stufmann. He prefers a quiet Village side street when in New York. Living in one of those many rebuilt tenements that squat beside the last of the old Italian and Irish residences of this belt.

Again one encounters the lean and taut Boole in from the Galapagos or some deep-sea adventure. To his side and he attracts artists, writers, musicians, the clever young men and women of the magazines. It is an atmosphere far removed from floating laboratories in strange seas.

Or on an uptown side street, once between monotonous stone fronts, one comes upon the young and old men of the Explorers' club, whose feet have stretched over every land and sea. JUNIOR C. C. OUT FOR MEMBERS

The membership campaign of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Lubbock, during which it is expected to have 700 active members, was officially launched this morning following a meeting of directors and other interested members of the organization.

Lists of prospective members as submitted at the meeting, were checked to avoid duplication, and the more

FOR THE CHILDREN "Now you ask one" for today was declined especially for children. That isn't saying, however, that there isn't a question or two in it, likely to stump the grown folks. The answers are in the next column:

1-What's wrong with this picture? 2-Through what Central American country is the United States considering digging a new Atlantic-to-Pacific canal? 3-Who was the last president to wear a moustache?

4-Where did Andrew Jackson win a great victory in the War of 1812? 5-On what river is the city of St. Louis located? 6-What was the original name of New York City?

7-Of what European nation was New York a colony before it passed to the British? 8-Who founded and named the city of Providence, R. I.? 9-Who was Pontiac? 10-What state existed as an independent nation before its admission to the union?

11-Who did the British lose at the Battle of Yorktown? 12-What is the name of the city in which the Declaration of Independence was signed? 13-What is the name of the city in which the Constitution was signed? 14-What is the name of the city in which the Emancipation Proclamation was issued? 15-What is the name of the city in which the Gettysburg Address was delivered? 16-What is the name of the city in which the Lincoln Memorial was dedicated? 17-What is the name of the city in which the Washington Monument was dedicated? 18-What is the name of the city in which the Statue of Liberty was dedicated? 19-What is the name of the city in which the White House was dedicated? 20-What is the name of the city in which the Lincoln Memorial was dedicated?

Mother Slays Mother In Fierce Battle
Rosa's Grasp For Love Leads To Grave

By VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer
RED BANK, N. J., Mar. 22.—Nature's prototype—what you will—was about and lost two.

Because Rosa Stoble followed the urge of her nature and created a new life without the sanction of society, she lies in a morgue with her new baby dead and buried the day it was born.

They carried the bodies out into the daylight from the cellar of Rosa's home, where her baby was born on the floor, and they led Rosa's mother off to jail, with her pistol still smoking where she had flung it.

Specie's Point

Society with its regard for what people say, had set a mother to kill a mother, and had gained its point.

Two sides of motherhood are protagonists in the drama—the respectability of legalized motherhood represented by Susan Christine Stoble, and the fierce, unthinking joy of primal motherhood that Rosa knew.

Christine was ten times a mother-giving children to the world with a lavish, inconsiderate generosity, safe in the protection of church and state, which require only a woman wear a wedding ring before she creates.

Her squalid home was like the shoe the old lady lived in—running over with children—babies under foot and sprawling down the stairs—ten of them.

Respectability
Christine grew tired and nervous and craved—with washing babies' linen and filling eternally-yawning mouths. Here was no glory of motherhood—but it was respectable. No one could hit the thumb at Christine as she walked down the street, if ever she found time to walk.

She was a mother, fecund and sanctified. What matter if little Rosa must be taken out of school at 14 to help wash and cook for the flock? Daughters were meant to drudge.

And then came Rosa's miracle. Rosa fell in love. Sixteen and a woman, with all the fire of Latin youth, she set out unspaying, and found her mate.

Love as Rosa discovered it was something quite different from the bond that tied her slovenly, ill-humored mother to the father of the ten.

Love to Rosa was a miracle. Rosa filled body and soul with ecstasy, transforming life so that even the little home became bearable. Rosa sang over her dishes.

But love and Rosa had small chance. The neighbors talked. Mother Christine met shy glances when she went marketing. A strange lad walked with Rosa.

And then the tragedy moved quickly. Christine questioned her daughter, watched her closely.

"You are going to have a baby?" She shot the accusation at her daughter.

And motherhood primal answered back. "Mind your own business."

The days that followed were full of sharp glances, taunts, accusations. Rosa's mother darted out from shady corners to surprise her, questioned her every move, and eyed Rosa's head as she went to bed.

"Mind your own business," she said to her mother. "Mind your own business. MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS!" She hid in her tiny bedroom.

"You are my daughter," chanted the old woman, "and you have dishonored the family!"

The Finale
And then came the dark morning of the finale. Rosa went to her room. Even here, the venom of respectability motherhood sought her out.

Christine found the girl visibly in pain, and drove her from her bedroom. Down the stairs through the house, to the dark cellar she fled, still shrieking. Mind your own business.

At the foot of the cellar stairs the climax came.

The old woman at length pursued and clouted over the girl. There was a pistol in her hand. She smiled at Rosa. Her eyes did not waver.

And then came the exultation of womanhood fulfilled. "See, see, see—what's here?"

Mother Kills Mother
Christine, the grandmother, the vengeful mother, looked once at Rosa's body and first a sob into Rosa's hand. The lady lay on the cold cement floor, suspended. Fifteen minutes later it was dead.

Rosa's brothers are searching for her "motive." (Rosa's mother faces the "electric chair," Jersey justice) is getting ready for another big trial.

The motherhood already has fought out its battle with individualism in that dark cellar, and prejudice, tradition and respectability have won their case.

Mexicans Threaten Border Cattlemen

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Mar. 22. (AP)—A report that 20 Mexican soldiers have camped on the Rio Grande forty miles west of Del Rio and have served notice to all Americans to keep away from the river or they will be shot is contained in a special dispatch to the San Antonio Express. The dispatch said the soldiers asserted they had orders to shoot Americans on sight in retaliation for the recent killing of liquor-runners.

Sheriff M. L. Whistler of Del Rio, Ranger Captain D. E. Lindsey and Victor Bentliff, head of the United States border patrol, went to Villa Acuna, Mexican town opposite Del Rio, to interview Mexican officials regarding the presence of the soldiers, and were informed that no such orders had been issued to Mexican troops, the dispatch said. Despite this assurance, residents along the Rio Grande are said to be afraid to go near the river to round up their stock.

Damage Re-Done
"In some counties such corn as has been planted is being destroyed by the worms and it is probable that damage may be repeated where corn is replanted. This may result not only in the reduction of corn acreage but may increase the cotton acreage by that much. The present damage to gardens with a likelihood of its continuance during the next month is also a matter of seriousness when it comes to the live-at-home program. Considered from every aspect, the present cutworm infestation, which is much more severe than has been experienced in a number of years, is of special importance in Texas this season."

The formula for the poison bran mash, tried for use in combating the cutworm, is given by R. R. Reppert, entomologist, Extension Service, as follows:
Paris Green or white arsenic 1 lb.
Coarse wheat bran, 20 lbs.

Does Weakness Detract from Your Good Looks?
Paris, Texas.—"I was suffering with woman's trouble and after trying several different remedies without receiving any benefit to speak of, I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was told that it was the best, and so it proved to be. I had taken only a few bottles of it before I was perfectly well."

"I also took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery after an attack of the flu and it built me up in health and strength wonderfully."—Mrs. Corlie Nation, 161 Graham St., All dealers.

A. & M. College Prescribes Poison Bran For Control Of Cut-Worm In Gardens

COLLEGE STATION, March 22.—Heavy damage to garden and field crops by the cutworm is reported in notices reaching the Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas, from various sections of Texas. Chas. H. Alvord, director of the Extension Service, has announced.

Urging use of the standard poison bran mash in combatting the ravager, Director Alvord said: "In many sections where damage has appeared County Agents and gardeners have made prompt use of the standard poison bran mash. This has resulted in absolute control of the insect."

Commenting on the reports of cutworm damage, Director Alvord said: "For several weeks past reports have been reaching College Station of heavy damage being done to garden crops by cutworms. The same damage is also being reported to such field crops as are growing at the present time. Observation of cutworms in gardens and fields indicates that their damage in many sections may be expected to continue up to the middle of April or perhaps a little beyond, or later in our northern sections."

Willacy Sheriff Off To Prison
RAYMONDVILLE, Tex., Mar. 22. (AP)—Former Sheriff Raymond Teller, convicted of violating the federal poonage laws and sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth penitentiary, left here unaccompanied last night to give himself into custody of federal officers at Houston.

Prior to the poonage case, tried at Corpus Christi before Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson of Houston, Teller was charged with murder along with several others in connection with the death of four Mexicans and an Australian, shot to death in the Chaparral near here last September, but was acquitted by the grand jury. Counsel employed by the Mexican government protested that personnel of the grand jury, and after the investigating body reported filed suit against the United States for damages on behalf of dependents of some of the men killed.

Teller and four others were convicted of holding cotton pickers on vacancy charges and forcing them to work out fines on land in which they were interested.

Partisans of the convicted ex-sheriff gave him a silent demonstration at the train tonight.
