Starvation And Disease Threaten In Florida Districts

RELIEF CREWS CENTER FIGHT ON EPIDEMICS

Corpses and Carcasses in Lake Region Offer Serious Threat

431 BODIES ARE BURIED

Whole Sections May Be Sprayed With Lime By Planes

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 21. (US)—Pestilence leaned over the shoulder of death in the everglades today, peering into the ruin and decay spawned by the hurricane.

With the loss of life mounting toward the thousand mark, relief parties were confronted with a crisis. An epidemic was threatened. Hurried conferences were held, and it was decided to bury the disintegrating bodies in quicklime or to burn them with crude oil.

"Unless all the bodies are recovered and buried within 24 hours," said Howard W. Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach county Red Cross committee, "the territory must be evacuated completely even by relief workers."

Selby estimated the dead at between 700 and 800, while official reports said 431 bodies had been buried.

Stringent Health Steps

Hundreds more are missing. Some may turn up in the refugee camps. Many more will be accounted for only in the memory of that desolate swamp which the flood water of Lake Okeechobee made of the everglades for miles around—that settled muck where the rule of death is undisputed.

While no outbreak of disease has been reported in the region, physicians want to take no chances and have ordered stringent measures.

"We may have to spray whole sections with lime from airplanes," Selby added.

Federal aid may be required, he said, since Palm Beach county has not the funds to disinfect the country for miles.

Not only the bodies of people but those of domestic animals and wild animals—cattle, dogs, rabbits, rodents, fill the flooded fields of what until Sunday was a truck farming community. Sanitary conditions have become unbearable.

The first two days after the disaster, bodies retrieved from the water were placed in boxes and taken to the cemeteries at West Palm Beach.

Identification Impossible

Today there could be no ceremony or delay. Quicklime and oil were

Indictments Accuse Pair Of Slaying Four Boys

Murder Farm Suspects Billed by Grand Jury; Northcott to Fight Extradition

RIVERSIDE, Calif, Sept. 21. (AP)—Murder indictments against Gordon Stuart Northcott, 20, and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, charging them with slaying youths on the Northcott chicken ranch near here were returned by the county grand jury today.

Northcott and his mother, both of whom are under arrest in Canada, were charged in the indictment with the murder of Walter Collins, 10, who disappeared last spring from Glendale, Calif. The second bill charged Northcott with the slaying of an unidentified Mexican youth and Louis and Nelson Winslow, aged 12 and 10 respectively, who disappeared several months ago from Pomona, Calif.

NORTHCOTT TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 21. (INS)—Cowering and trembling, his cap pulled down over his face, and coat collar turned up as though to hide from a mob, Gordon Stewart Northcott, Los Angeles "murder farm" owner, and accused slayer of four boys, arrived here today in charge of a police squad.

Northcott, the so-called "ape man," will fight extradition to California, where he is wanted in connection with the alleged slaying of four boys on a ranch near Riverside, it was learned.

Police declared that Northcott had but little to say since his arrest. He took a tremendous interest in newspaper accounts of his capture and of the crime of which he is accused, officers stated.

HONOLULU, Sept. 21. (AP)—A letter to the newspaper, Star-Bulletin, made public today and assertedly sent by the kidnapers and slayers of 10-year-old Gill Jamieson, declared the murderers would reveal their identities Tuesday.

RIFT IN CLOUD SAVES FLIER

Air Racers Land at Fort Worth; Goebel Off

PECOS, Texas, Sept. 21. (AP)—Lost for almost three hours in heavy fog and rain above the Guadalupe mountains between El Paso and Pecos, Samuel H. Turner, Los Angeles-Cincinnati derby flier, landed at Pecos late today with only a few minutes supply of gasoline remaining.

Turner rose to an altitude of 10,000 feet in efforts to get above the fog and was on the point of abandoning the plane and taking to his parachute when a rift in the clouds revealed Pecos a few miles away.

Bad flying weather also delayed David Kundle and Sid Riley, who are competing in the Los Angeles to Cincinnati air race. They landed here just before dark, having spent five hours picking their way over the dangerous Guadalupe mountains. They spent the night here.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 21. (UP)—Five out of a list of 20 entrants in the class A Los Angeles to Cincinnati air race had arrived at Meacham field here at 5 p. m.

Robert Drake, in a Moth monoplane, crossed the line at 2:11:02 p. m.

Theodore Kenyon, flying a Challenger and the first to leave El Paso, was second at 2:22:25.

Others arriving were:

George Hopkins, Stinson, 3:11:54.

S. J. Whittman, Pheasant, 3:31:34.

Charles F. Charles, Eagle Rock, 4:15:12.

Reports received at Meacham field tonight indicated that four of the racing pilots had landed at nightfall at cities between El Paso and Fort Worth. It was reported that one pilot landed near Midland and another near Pecos. Names of the four pilots who made forced landings were not received here.

NONSTOPPERS OFF FOR CINCINNATI

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21. (UP)—Two planes late today took off from Mines field in a transcontinental nonstop air race to end at Cincinnati. Emil Burgin in his Bellanca monoplane left at 2:57 p. m. and Art Goebel followed at 4:05 p. m.

Goebel was flying the Yankee Doodle, Lockheed Vega plane, in which he established a record for the Los Angeles to New York flight.

The nonstop event was the third of a series of races from Los Angeles to Cincinnati.

Mexican Railroads to Try Bandit Bombs

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21. (US)—With attacks on trains by bandits showing an increase in recent weeks, the railroads and government are now experimenting with tear bombs as a means to combat this very unsatisfactory condition. Just how these are to be used will depend on the outcome of the tryouts given the bombs, which include equipping the military escorts and train crews with gas masks and having a number of them available for the passengers.

Archer Oil Field Dispute on Vacuum

AUSTIN, Sept. 21. (AP)—The protests of other oil operators against vacuum being used by the Phillips Petroleum company in an Archer county field was the subject of an all-day hearing today before Lon A. Smith and C. V. Terrell, railroad commissioners.

R. E. Taylor, representing other oil operators, claimed the company had been using more than the maximum amount of vacuum permitted by the commission in depleted fields. He also said that the field was not depleted and therefore use of vacuum violated the commission's order.

Witnesses for the Phillips company contended the field was depleted.

Operators protested because they said use of vacuum in aiding oil production decreased flow on other properties.

Houston Fears Storm When Norther Hits

HOUSTON, Sept. 21. (AP)—Houston for 15 minutes this afternoon thought a tropical hurricane was hovering over the city when the wind reached a velocity of 36 miles an hour, 1.35 inches of rain fell and the temperature dropped from 83 to 67 degrees.

SMITH SPEECH PUTS SCRIBES IN QUANDARY

Effect of Oklahoma Speech Too Deep for Experts To Solve

SOONER STATE MIXED

Democratic Papers Jump to Hoover—Tulsa World Supports Al

By FRASER EDWARDS

ABOARD GOVERNOR SMITH'S SPECIAL TRAIN, WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 21. (US)—Campaign whispers against Governor Smith, which would be heard around the block in Oklahoma City, ended today and religion is an open issue.

With a single stroke the Democratic nominee slew one and created the other.

Politicians of high and low degree in this infant state of mixed political emotions all agree that Governor Smith by formally recognizing religion as a factor in the presidential campaign has made it a national issue.

And now the debate as to whether it will help him or hurt him is on.

The speech was variously hailed as "daring," "dramatic," "dauntless," "ill-advised," "ill-timed" and "ill-mannered."

The first three descriptions refer to the fact that Governor Smith chose Oklahoma City, a blue-ribbon city of the ku klux klan to speak of his Catholicism and to challenge the klan and its kind to make it an issue.

Some Call It Affront

The latter three characterizations concern the raising of the religion issue in a section where both Democrats and Republicans are striving to stamp it out, to the notion that the speech would have been better made elsewhere and that it was an affront to thousands of well-meaning men and women.

Opion as to the effect of the speeche upon the electorate of Oklahoma is about evenly divided. Some say that it will make him votes and unite the divided Democratic party in the state. Others say that it will solidify the opposition against him. There are so many conflicting opinions of the subject that it is impossible to reconcile them and get a clear view of the situation in Oklahoma.

The point raised by those who disagree with the advisability of Smith making that character of speech in Oklahoma is that it now gives all who so desire the privilege of discussing openly what heretofore has been talked of mostly in private. It is signal, in their opinion, to Dr. John Roach Straton and the Rev. Mordecai F. Ham to say what they please on religion from any stump in the country.

For the East

On the other hand, there are those of the opinion that the speech was not so much intended for local consumption in Oklahoma, which is re-

Texas' Finest Church Pipe Organ To Dedicate New Building Sunday

3,685 Pipes, From 16 Feet to Quarter Inch in Length, Give Wide Range to $35,000 First Methodist Instrument

By MARIE THERESA
The Record News Staff

The first services conducted in the new building of the First Methodist church, South, located at Tenth and Travis streets will be opened Sunday with music played on the largest church pipe organ in Texas. The organ is a four manual organ while most churches are equipped with two and three manual organs.

It has taken five weeks to install the new instrument at a cost of approximately $35,000. This sum does not include cost of erecting the instrument or of building the chambers. The tower pipes can be played from the console as well as from the pastor's study.

Gift to Church

No dummy pipes are visible, speaking pipes being installed in chambers in the side and back walls of the church. The console is of black walnut and is equipped with vari-colored celluloid console keys.

The pipe organ was given to the church by the following members: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hamilton. The tower chimes, which are separate from the organ chimes, were donated at the cost of $10,000.

The organ was designed and built by the Reuter Organ company of Lawrence, Kan., noted for the fineness of its work.

The speaking pipes of the organ are arranged in six large chambers and in the tone openings of those chambers are fitted expression shades or louvres. These louvres are operated electrically from the six expression pedals on the console of the organ and with them a perfect modulation of the volume of

EDITH WILMANS CLAIMS FRAUD

Defeated Woman Candidate Claims Irregularity

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 21. (AP)—Renomination of Governor Moody in the July primary is contested in a suit filed in district court here today by Mrs. Edith Wilmans, Dallas, one of his opponents in the race.

The suit asked that the governor's nomination be declared void and that another primary to determine a Democratic gubernatorial nominee be held before the general election. The case cannot be heard until the January court term.

Fraud Alleged

Irregularity and fraud in the election was alleged. Mrs. Wilmans also asked return of $1200 which she said she spent in the campaign.

Mrs. Wilmans, last in the race and reported to have received approximately 18,000 votes against more than 400,000 for the governorship, also filed a pauper's oath relieving her from posting bond.

The woman candidate who had declared publicly against Governor Alfred E. Smith, said that her name was left off the ballot in more than 30 counties and that thousands of legally qualified voters were afraid to participate in the primary for fear they would be disfranchised and not permitted to vote in the general election.

Names Companies

She claims that persons gathering the election returns used by the state Democratic executive committee were employees of telephone, street railway, electric light and telegraph companies in violation of a law prohibiting "a corporation participating in or assisting with an election of any candidate to public office."

Mrs. Wilmans asked for an injunction to restrain election officials from destroying ballots, a full investigation of the election, and a recount.

WOMEN TOLD OF AL SMITH

Mrs. Sevier Pays Tribute to Demo Choice

Praising Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as "a man steadfast in his honesty as the rock of Gibraltar in its strength" and describing him as "the greatest living American statesman," Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Democratic national committeewoman from Texas, Friday night urged the Democratic women to rally about the party standard-bearer and help send Texas' greatest Democratic majority to the polls in November.

"When I took office as national committeewoman," Mrs. Sevier said, "I did not know that it would be necessary for us to work so hard in Texas. But the work is necessary here, not because there is any chance that Texas will go Republican but because we want to poll the largest majority for Gov. Alfred E. Smith that any candidate ever has received from any state.

Reasons for Democracy

"I am a Democrat," the national committeewoman continued, "and I am a regular Democrat. I vote the ticket straight. I am a Democrat because I believe that the Democratic party stands for the most good to the largest number of people. I am a Democrat because the Democratic party has consistently fought for white supremacy which the Republican party would have destroyed on numerous occasions. I am a Democrat because I do not think it fair that a few privileged persons should utilize the nation for self-aggrandizement. I am a Democrat because the Democratic platform and the Democratic candidates are far preferable to the

Wilkins and Mates Sail Today For Jaunt Into Wilds of Bottom of World

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (US)—Ocean waves breaking against the sides of the great Munson liner Southern Cross, instead of screaming sirens of harbor craft, will soothe the nerves of four daring explorers bound for adventure at the bottom of the world.

Heading the quartet comprising the Wilkins-Hearst antarctic expedition will be Sir George Hubert Wilkins, famed explorer of arctic regions, bound for his ninth expedition into unknown lands. The expedition sails tomorrow at noon.

In the group, the smallest to undertake such a tremendous risk into the vast wastes of the antarctic, will be Carl Ben Eielson, who flew Wilkins across the top of the world less than four months ago. As copilot will be Joe Crossan, member of former Wilkins jaunts into the arctic, and Orville Porter, considered the best all around airplane mechanic in the country.

Within six or eight months, Captain Wilkins said today, the party hopes to be again in New York, their work of establishing weather observation stations completed.

The operation occured today in a small cafe at Kerens, this county. George having sold two bales of cotton, went to the cafe to eat.

All was serene until George started to pay for his meal. Then he wailed. His right hip pocket had been slashed and the purse which had contained George's $300 was missing. The strange negroes likewise were missing.

LIQUOR BLAMED FOR RACKETS

Game Feeds on Profits of Bootleggers

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the thirteenth and concluding article of James P. Kirby's series on racketeering.

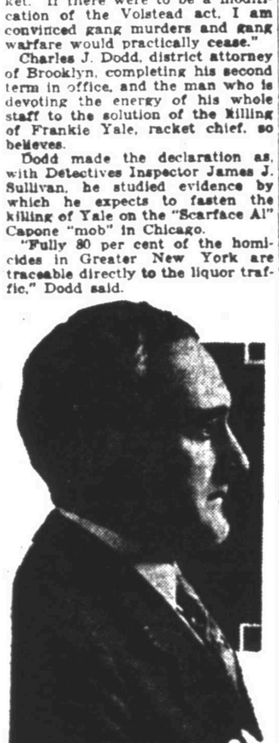

By JAMES P. KIRBY
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—"There is no question but that the majority of gang killings in Greater New York have their origin in the fights between mobs over the liquor racket. If there were to be a modification of the Volstead act, I am convinced gang murders and gang warfare would practically cease."

Charles J. Dodd, district attorney of Brooklyn, completing his second term in office, and the man who is devoting the energy of his whole staff to the solution of the killing of Frankie Yale, racket chief, so believes.

Dodd made the declaration as, with Detectives Inspector James J. Sullivan, he studied evidence by which he expects to fasten the killing of Yale on the "Scarface Al" Capone "mob" in Chicago.

"Fully 80 per cent of the homicides in Greater New York are traceable directly to the liquor traffic," Dodd said.

INSPECTOR COUGHLIN

Gang outbreaks and shootings, while perhaps less frequent than in Chicago, nevertheless are quite as spectacular.

And, quite in the Chicago tradition, New York's 17,000 police are as impotent at solving the murders and at accomplishing arrests, much less convictions.

Official figures covering the gang murders are not available. However, figures compiled by the New York Telegram (a Scripps-Howard newspaper), and covering the period from January to June, show 121 such murders.

Of the 121 such murders in the six-month period, there were 41 indictments returned, but of these, only 21 have resulted in the conviction and imprisonment of the killers.

Thus, in but 18 per cent of the cases in which the killers were apprehended and tried, was there what might be termed the penalty of the law; and, more notable, but two death penalties, neither of which has as yet been imposed.

Detective Inspector John D. Coughlin, in charge of the detective bureaus of the city's five buroughs, says the better known gangsters and gunmen have fled from New York state because of the rigorous Baumes laws. These provide severe penalties for second and third convictions, and life imprisonment for the fourth, regardless of the offense.

The principal occupation of the old-time gangsters, Inspector Coughlin says, were in the intermittent labor wars in which hired gunmen took first one side and then the other; their sallies on the piers from which millions of dollars of merchandise were stolen, etc.

The newer gangs, however, have grown out of the liquor and beer rackets which provide the basis for their operations.

The relationship, however, between beer and liquor rings in other cities, that of Capone and Frankie Yale, and between Philadelphia and New York, has been definitely established.

Ex-Mayor John F. Hylan reiterated to this writer his charge that during his incumbency as mayor he was approached by Philadelphia interests with the "suggestion that there was money to be made by a policy of official tolerance which would permit the running of whisky and alcohol from Philadelphia."

Regardless of New York's reputation, however, the fact remains that New York today is relatively clean of the more obvious displays of vice—certainly infinitely cleaner than Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and St. Louis, in which cities this writer, within recent weeks, had occasion to make some observations.

Noted Oklahoma Two-Gun Officer Begins Jail Sentence

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 21. (INS)—Jose Alvarado, widely known Mexican "two-gun" sharpshooter and former Oklahoma officer, began a seven-year sentence in the state penitentiary here today for store robbery.

Alvarado was brought here when Gov. Henry S. Johnston, who formerly appointed him as a state operative, declined to extend him a further clemency after his latest stay expired.

As a federal officer, Alvarado first came into the limelight as the "two-gun" man who cleaned up Whizbang, Okla., an oil town, several years ago.

He was convicted of robbing a store in Shidler, Osage county.

ALIBIS CLAIMED IN FLOGGINGS

Tennessee Whipping Trial Nears Close

M'MINNVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 21. (UP)—Six of the seven defendants accused of flogging Horace Cantrell and his wife on the night of Sept. 23, 1927, offered alibis in their defense when testifying in their own behalf at the trial here today.

The defendants are Andy Cantrell, 73; Herschell Cantrell, his son; Thomas Neely, brother-in-law of Mrs. Horace Cantrell; Fuller Neely; Wallace Neely, Ross Foster and Will Parsley.

The state closed its case today after indicting three witnesses who testified they heard conversations with Foster Duray in which he said Horace Cantrell had aided in revealing whisky operations, and that "something would have to be done about it."

The state's theory of the case is that the flogging was arranged because of remarks made by Cantrell and his wife about Mrs. Thomas Neely and because of a still raid on the farm of Andy Cantrell, which Horace Cantrell is alleged to have instigated.

'COPY' SWAMPS FRONTIER BOOK

Texas Publisher Given Material Aplenty

BANDERA, Texas, Sept. 21. (UP)—J. Marvin Hunter, publisher of the Frontier Times, a journal devoted to frontier history, border tragedies and pioneer achievement, declares that if he never received anothr line of copy, that he has enough material to fill the publication for the next 10 years, and that it has now completed its fifth year as a monthly magazine.

Mr. Hunter prefers the life of this small town of 800 persons to the lights of the city, and during the last nine years has written eight books. His publication, the Frontier Times, is not for sale at any newsstand and he donates several copies to the Alamo at San Antonio at each issue.

The Frontier Times now has a circulation of 3,600, and his contributors range from Dean Taylor of the University of Texas and J. Frank Dobie, of the same school, to cowboys on the far stretches of the range country.

Many of the writers of western fiction are subscribers to his magazine, among them being Zane Grey. Mr. Hunter runs this magazine as a hobby, and has made little if any attempt to secure advertising. Many of the great writers of America have called at his door, and have found him knee-deep in the activities of the back end of his little printing shop, which also produces his weekly newspaper, the Bandera New Era. He is considered an authority on matters pertaining to the history of the border and is known intimately by all the old-time cowmen.

Norther Peps Up San Angelo Fair

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 21 (AP)—A crisp norther, first of the season, hit San Angelo today and set the stage properly for the football clash between Ballinger and San Angelo high schools, feature of the day's program for the All-West Texas Exposition.

The exposition so far has shattered all records, both for attendance and receipts. More than 12,000 persons visited the grounds during yesterday, the largest attendance ever checked at any of the 33 annual events.

Beau Stanway 50th, 10-month-old Hereford bull calf, donated by D. E. Hughes to the San Angelo hospital, brought $975 when auctioned at the exposition grounds today. The calf was bought by Joe Pierce of Ozona for $275 after it already had been sold five times for a total of $700 and each time returned to the hospital for resale.

Racketeers Put in First Texas Appearance At Houston

HOUSTON, Sept. 21. (UP)—What is believed to be the first attempt of racketeers to invade the southwest was reported today in a news story in the Houston Press.

According to the Press' story, definite promises of protection and of assistance in the event of "the remote possibility of arrest," are being made Houston bootleggers by two "organizers," one from Chicago and the other from Philadelphia.

Hundreds of small bootleggers are known to have been visited within the past week or 10 days by two men who are trying to force on Houston's liquor dealers the schemes which now are under investigation in Chicago and Philadelphia.

YOUNG JOHN DROPS GUARD

President's Son Sends His 'Shadow' Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (INS)—Another celebrity today was struggling for the status of private citizen.

John Coolidge, the president's son and embryonic railroad man, admitted to International News Service over the telephone from Maybrook, N. Y., that Russell Woods, the bodyguard who has been with him constantly for two and a half years, has been returned to Washington.

"Yes, Woods has gone back to Washington," John Coolidge said. "No, a substitute will not be detailed from the secret service to be with me."

John was in the freight terminal at Maybrook, near Poughkeepsie, today in connection with his duties as clerk in the general offices of the New Haven railroad. Coolidge revealed that he has already taken up his home with Professor and Mrs. Benjamin W. Bacon in New Haven, another step in the new freedom which his parents are allowing him as a result of his entrance into the business world.

Coolidge said: "Yes, I suppose so," in response to a suggestion that President and Mrs. Coolidge no longer thought a bodyguard necessary now that his college days are over.

Loud Speakers Placed In Texas Lower House

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—R. B. Walthall, chairman of the state board of control, stated that a loud speaker will be installed on the speaker's stand in the house of representatives at the opening of the forty-first legislature. Amplifiers were used temporary for trial purposes before, at the last session of the legislature, but this time the board plans to purchase one for permanent use, Walthall said. This will enable the lawmakers to make themselves distinctly heard from the most remote portions of the house without artificial aid.

Kidnapers Take Movie Operator From Office

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 21. (UP)—Max Ruthen, 40 years old, secretary of the motion picture operators' union, was kidnaped from his office here by six gunmen last night and possibly taken for "a ride," it was learned today.

Police suspected the labor leader was kidnaped for ransom, because in a recent controversy with motion picture theater owners Ruthen was quoted as saying his union had $200,000 cash for use in case a strike was called.

A treat was given by the association to each child whose mother attended the meeting.

Young Wichita Falls

The lady shown in the photo will probably grow up to be a modern independent young lady who takes few suggestions from her elders.

To show what is meant—she takes her mother's purse each morning immediately upon arising and goes for any early ride with her father, using any chance coins from the borrowed purse as she sees fit. And she is partial to her daddy which may or may not be according to parental wishes, but is quite evident, her mother says.

She is Janet Corinne Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hammond of 2004 Elizabeth street, and will celebrate her second birthday anniversary in the not too distant fuutre. She has an older sister, Carclyn, five years old, who is already well along the path of excelling in expression. Corinne has light hair and large brown eyes.

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

Even head waiters love Cherie and they are notoriously hard hearted. However, she's a decoration to any dining room in this evening gown of sheer velvet made with an oval decolletage and skirt flounces down almost to the floor in back. Cherie is looking very well this evening and the rest cure seems to be working.

Dina is telling all to the police. How Cherie went away to decide the great problem of a girl's life, should she marry for love or money? How she has completely disappeared from the ken of those who are dear to her. Dina is telling it with great effect and these are photographs for purposes of identification. You can, of course, identify the first one as the most popular silhouette of the season for evening. The down-in-back silhouette that is rather skimpy except for the tail. The next varies only by the pouf on one hip. The one-sided lines in the next are good, likewise the dipping skirt. The fourth is the newest robe de style. Surely the police will find her by these.

"Yes, if we could find her on the beaches," answers the captain, which is a cold-blooded remark, but then he's never met Cherie. In the corner you can see Cherie deep in thought, undoubtedly about Eustace and Andy, and also dressed in an evening gown with princess lines that flare into irregular points below the hips.

No Marriage Is Sure to Succeed But Taking Chance Beats Single Life

Taking a Sporting Chance on Marriage Is Better Than Staying Single—Shall They Marry in Spite of Religious Differences?—A Leap-Year Fright.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young woman engaged to be married, but I hesitate to take the fatal step because so many of my friends say: "You are better off single," and even those who seem to have made successful marriages say: "Marriage is all right, but I would never do it over again."

What is your idea of this? Why do so many feel this way about marriage?—ONE WHO WANTS TO BE SURE.

Answer: When you say that you "want to be sure" that your marriage will be happy, you ask the impossible. No venture in life is an assured success. No matter what you do, you have to take your chances of disaster.

You can't go down the street without the danger of being run over by an automobile, but the risk you are bound to take doesn't keep you sitting in the house all the time. You can't eat without the danger of putting a germ into your mouth, but that doesn't make you starve yourself to death. You can't go into any business without the chance of failure staring you in the face, but that doesn't keep you from making an effort to succeed.

And it is the same way with marriage. It may raise you up to Heaven, or it may cast you down into Hell. You may find in it perfect happiness, or utter misery, but there is no way to tell beforehand how it is going to turn out, and, anyway, it always offers you a sporting chance that is worth taking.

You say some of your friends tell you that you are better off single. That depends altogether on the kind of a man that you marry, and if you are any judge of men at all, or have a grain of intelligence in your head, that question is easy enough to settle.

If the man is a drunkard; if he is immoral and a petticoat chaser; if he is a lazy loafer who will not work and support a family, then, undoubtedly, you are a great deal better off single than you would be married to him. Because there is no loneliness equal to the loneliness of the woman who watches night after night for the drag of a drunkard's footsteps coming home.

There is no woman's life so empty as that of the wife whose husband has forsaken her for younger and prettier women, and whose heart is torn by a thousand jealousies. And it is far less work for a woman to support herself than it is to support a husband and a houseful of children.

But if the man you are proposing to marry is a fine, honest, industrious man, you most assuredly will not be better off single than married to him, because marriage completes a woman's life and gives to her her instinctive craving for her husband, her children, and her home.

No matter how hard a woman has to work, she is happier and better satisfied married than single, so long as she has a husband who loves her and a baby's head on her breast.

As for your married friends who tell you that "marriage is all right, but they would never do it over again," that is all piffle. Why, the sod has hardly settled on the grave, or the ink dried on the divoree, before practically every widow and widower is hunting up a new mate. Even those who have been unhappily married want to try it over again.

They can't stand the loneliness of being without a companion. They want somebody to talk to all the time, somebody even to quarrel with. Somebody to look out for their comfort and provide them with the kind of food they like. They want somebody to make a home for, and somebody to make a home for them.

Finally, take this for your comfort, that your marriage is what you make it, and if a thousand other marriages have failed all about you, it is no reason why you cannot make yours a success.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been engaged to a young lady for the last five years. We love each other very devotedly, but we are of different religions. This makes no difference to us, but some time ago my mother learned of the affair and worked herself into a dangerous physical state over it. We broke off, but secretly went back to each other. Lately friends and relatives of the young lady have begun to say things about our protracted courtship of an embarrassing and sarcastic nature. Now, what shall we do? Shall we continue on indefinitely, insensible to the scoffs, jeers and whisperings of the outside world, subduing our mutual desire for a home and a family? Shall we separate and break our hearts, as it would for us to part, or should we

3,685 PIPES IN ORGAN HERE

Tones Surpass Work of 100-Piece Orchestra

the tone from any division of the organ can be effected. The organ has seven divisions, the great, swell, choir, solo, echo, string, and pedal. The solo and echo divisions are played from the top or fourth manual, and the string division is so arranged that it can be played from any of the four keyboards. The pedal division is played by the feet, from the pedal keyboard.

Billion Combinations

In the organ there are 88 speaking stops, representing a total of 3,685 pipes. The instrument also has a harp and a set of chimes. The pipes range in length from the longest which is about 18 feet in length and large enough for a person to get into it, down to the shortest which is only about one-fourth of an inch in length and smaller around than a lead pencil.

Among the sets of pipes in the organ are many beautiful voices which are used principally for solo work. These include the quintadena, a stop of very quaint tone character and in which each pipe sounds two different notes at the same time; the English horn with its plaintive and rather melancholy tone; the French horn which produces the "hand" or muted notes of the orchestral instrument; the corno d'amour, a lovely and rich voice; and many others.

The selection of the stops for the organ is arranged as one would arrange the orchestration of a large symphony orchestra. There are the reeds, the brass, the flutes and the strings. In addition the organ has the diapasons which impart the solid foundation tone to the tonal structure. The organ will be capable of producing all the effects possible from a smyphony orchestra of 100 pieces and to the full volume of the instrument there will be a grandeur and brilliancy not possible for a symphony orchestra. The possible tonal combinations that can be secured from this organ are so great that it would be impossible to use them all in a lifetime. It runs well into the billions.

In addition to the many stops in the organ, its equipment includes 31 couplers, 39 adjustable combination pistons, seven expression pedals including the crescendo pedal, and numerous other accessories to facilitate the playing of the organ.

Disease Threat In Storm Area

dispatched to the charnel waters. The bodies will be destroyed where they are found. In most instances identification will be impossible.

More than 75 bodies had been stacked near Pahokee for two days, awaiting removal and burial. Plans were made to place them on a great funeral pyre some time today.

Adjutant General Vivien Collins visited the ruined district and reported the extent of the casualties to Gov. John W. Martin, who is surveying the damage along the coast.

So completely did death sweep the communities of Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay and the surrounding farm lands, that hardly a family of the refugees has not lost some member.

Men Help Work

Among the negroes, many of them living in remote lowlands of the everglades, the death list will never be known. Whole neighborhoods were wiped out. Hardly a woman or child is left in the everglades. They have been brought out to refugee camps. Many of the men, however, stayed behind to help clear away the debris, hoping to rebuild their homes. Most of them will be ordered from the district today. Trucks are to be sent to bring them out.

In a few days, probably, the country around the western and southern shores of Lake Okeechobee will be deserted—left to the unclaimed dead—until nature slowly purifies itself.

Red Cross officials said it would be weeks before any work of rehabilitation could be started.

Beside the stark desolation of the everglades, the scenes of devastation at West Palm Beach, Lake Worth and other coastal towns seemed cheerful. There were no dead to mourn—almost none—and few seriously injured. There was vast property damage. Reaching beyond $30,000,000, perhaps but houses unlike persons, can be restored.

$5,000,000 SET AS RELIEF FUND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (UP)—A minimum of $5,000,000 will be needed to assist 500,000 destitute victims of the tropical hurricane, which swept over the West Indies and Florida last week and the early part of this week, the National Red Cross announced today.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, announced that the hurricane had created a relief task second in size only to that created by the Mississippi flood two years ago.

"The full extent of the relief problem the storm left in its wake is still of uncertain proportions," Payne said.

President Coolidge who is in Vermont sent a telegram to the Red Cross today expressing gratification that the Red Cross was prompt to respond to the needs of the stricken districts.

Holland's Queen Under Censure of Church Heads

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 21. (US)—Queen Wilhelmina has been officially censored by the elders and deacons of the Christian Reform Church of Holland.

The vote of censure came as a result of the queen's conduct during the Olympic games, which were held here last summer. The action was taken at a meeting of the church's elders and deacons, which was held specifically to consider the queen's conduct in presenting on Sunday, August 12, the closing day of the Olympiad, the prizes won by the athletes of the various countries.

Take a Chance, Says Dorothy Dix

defy parental wishes with possibly fatal results to haunt us?

—SWEETHEARTS.

Answer: To me the most amazing thing in the world is that there should be any one with so little understanding of what religion really is that he or she is willing to break the hearts and wreck the lives of two young people because they do not hold to the same creed. There is no religion in that, for God is love and the greatest commandment He gave us was to love one another. He didn't say a word about what we believed or what creed we held to.

You are called upon, then, not to deal with religion, but with bigotry and fanaticism, and I see no reason why you should sacrifice your happiness and that of the girl to whom you are engaged to that. To prevent your marrying her, your mother has deliberately worked herself up into a nervous state. I have known many other women to do that same thing and to keep their whole families cowed for 20 or 30 years by threatening to die if you go along quietly and marry the girl and tell her afterward, mother will throw a hysterical fit and then settle down and accept the situation.

Anyway, she is old and you are young. She has had her life, yours is yet to come. She is taking an utterly unreasonable position. You are proposing to do nothing but what is perfectly right for you to do, so I think you will be entirely justified in disregarding her, and marrying the woman you love.

But since your mother is such a fanatic, is it not possible for the girl to join your church? Creeds amount to so little in reality. They are only different pathways up to God.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The other night I was with a girl at a dance and was talking casually to her when she broke out with this: "I think you are simply divine. I love you." For a moment my senses left me, but when they came back I thought the best thing to do was to beat it. So I did and said to myself: "That's enough from you."

Was I right or wrong?—FRED.

Answer: You were right, Fred, if you wanted to save yourself. There are times when absence of body is better than presence of mind, and that was one of the conspicuous occasions.

You remember what Mr. Kipling said about the female of the species being more deadly than the male. Especially is this true in love-making, and when a woman goes after a man with intent to marry him, there is no safety for him but in flight.

This young lady is a pioneer wooer and startled you because she was the first woman who ever made love to you, but I prophesy that her example will be followed, and that in another generation it will be just as common for a woman to pop the question to the man she wants for a husband as it is now for a man to propose to the woman he desires. And there is no good reason why she shouldn't.

So you had just as well get accustomed to being made love to. After all, it can't be unpleasant to be told that you are divine. And, of course, you can always say "No" if you don't want to marry the girl.

AGREEMENT ON ARMS PARLEY

Preparatory Commission to Meet in February

GENEVA, Sept. 21. (UP)—An agreement was reached tonight for the convocation of a preparatory disaramament commission either in January or February, 1929.

Count Von Bernstorff of Germany did not vote on the resolution. He had insisted that the committee set a date for general conference in 1929.

The importance of a general conference next year was further stressed in an important debate before the committee.

Jean Paul Boncour of France, led the discussion with a declaration that he was willing to concede that the preparatory commission should meet this year if the big powers are unable to reach an understanding on naval limitation.

The committee is deadlocked on an attempt to set a definite date for the disarmament meetings as proposed in a joint resolution embodying the French and German views. Germany had insisted that a general conference be held in 1929.

Count Von Bernstorff took up M. Bouncour's discussion with the declaration that "if a date for a general disarmament conference is not fixed, it is tantamount to capitulation by the League of Nations." He urged that a conference be called irrespective of the results of present negotiations for limitations in progress.

Dr. J. Loudon, president of the preparatory commission, insisted that it would be useless to convoke the meeting if no agreement had been reached meanwhile by the big powers which have held divergent views.

The report today of the second committee on alcoholism was submitted to the assembly with the request that the health committee of the League of Nations be instructed to pursue a world wide investigation in regard to the extent of alcoholism and its effects. It also was proposed that the committee investigate the results obtained in countries where liquor is prohibited.

TURK OFFICIALS MUST MARRY NATIVE WOMEN

ANGORA, Turkey (AP)—The Turkish government prohibits marriage of ambassadors or high government officials to foreign wives. The breaking of this rule entails dismissal, as in the recent case of a prominent officer of the aviation corps here, who returned from a mission abroad with a German mate. Infringement of the law has been winked at, however, in cases where the foreign wives are wealthy.

BUS RATES DOWN

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 21. (AP)—Mark Marshall of the motor bus division of the state railroad commission, here today heard favorable applications of motor carriers to reduce rates about 18 per cent, received applications to establish four new lines in southwest Texas and to discontinue one.

Mrs. Sevier Pays Smith Tribute

platform and candidates of the Republican party."

Although fully half of the more than 200 persons who crowded into the Eighty-ninth district courtroom to hear Mrs. Sevier were men, her address primarily was to the women voters. Time after time her sentences were broken by cheers.

Message to Women

"To the women of Texas," she said, "I bring this message: Now is the time for you to work for the principles of the Democratic party. You've never had an opportunity to work for a candidate more worthy than Alfred E. Smith.

"The Republican national committeewoman from Texas has spent much time in New York and eastern states telling leaders of her organization and representatives of the press that Texas is going for Hoover this year because the women of Texas are going to vote for Hoover. There, women of Texas, is your challenge.

"I should like to tell you of a few of the nation's truly great women who are working for Governor Smith. There is the daughter of William J. Bryan, the Great Commoner. The widow and daughter of Grover Cleveland both are staunch supporters of Alfred E. Smith. And the widow of the greatest man, the most noble statesman the Democratic party has produced, the immortal Woodrow Wilson, is working for the Democratic nominee.

"Certainly if these women feel that Alfred E. Smith is qualified, I do not see why Texas women can not feel the same way."

Mrs. Sevier then proceeded to outline her plans for organization of the women of the state, pointing out that such organization would be successful only if the men and women of the party worked together.

The organization will embrace every precinct in the state, she said. The organization will see that every family in each precinct is visited and every Democratic woman told of the true character of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Mrs. Sevier declared.

The committeewoman then told of a conversation she had with Governor Smith in New York several weeks ago.

"At that time," she said, "he told me that the greatest problem we had to fight was the whispering campaign directed against him.

"'I can fight back at any one who comes out in the open,' he said, 'but the women of the country will have to help me against this insidious and slanderous campaign being instigated against me.'

"The women of Texas," Mrs. Sevier continued, "are above conducting a whispering campaign—at least the Democratic women are above such tactics. When you hear ugly rumors on our candidate either deny them or demand positive proof.

"We hear a great deal about Governor Smith's stand on prohibition. He stated publicly that he is for temperance. That is more than the present administration has shown itself to be. No one can truthfully assail Alfred E. Smith's honesty.

"Governor Smith's honesty is as irrevocably associated with his character as is strength with the rock of Gibraltar. He is a man who is devoted to his family. He is a great humanitarian. Even his political enemies who know him have been unable to assail his character.

"One of the 'whispers' that all of you have heard seeks to reflect upon Mrs. Smith. Some say that Mrs. Smith is not the 'type' of woman for mistress of the White House. Mrs. Smith, on the contrary, is a woman of great charm and poise and is, in addition, a great mother.

Praises Mrs. Smith

"I don't know what Mrs. Hoover's merits are that make her such an 'ideal' mistress for the White House. Mrs. Smith most certainly is a woman fully equipped and qualified in every way for the service she will be called upon to give in the White House as first lady of the land.

"Others say because Mrs. Smith is a Catholic she should not be made mistress of the White House. No Christain mother can hold against a man or a woman the fact that he or she clings to the religion learned at a mother's knee.

"When people make a point of religion in politics they either forget or are ignorant of section six of the constitution, which guarantees religious liberty to all.

"I want to ask you women of Wichita Falls," the committee woman concluded, "to get out and work in this campaign. Get out and show where you stand. Broadcast the meaning of Democracy. See that these two outstanding men are elected in November and see that Texas gives them the biggest majority this state has ever given any candidates."

Following Mrs. Sevier's address Judge Scurry, county Democratic chairman, announced that Smith headquarters would be opened in an office on the ground floor of the Hamilton building.

Harry Mason of Vernon is chairman of the 23rd senatorial district," he said. "Mrs. Luther Hoffman is the woman's district chairman. I am county chairman and Mrs. W. P. Smith is the women's county chairman.

"We will be wanting every loyal Democrat to help us pile up Wichita county's biggest Democratic majority in November."

Mrs. Sevier was introduced by Judge J. T. Montgomery after an orchestra, composed of Leo M. Underwood, Gerry Schneider, Barton Dunning and F. L. Travis had played "The Sidewalks of New York," "Dixie," and "The Eyes of Texas."

POWER FIRMS FINANCE 'NEWS'

Alabama Press Service Sustained by Trust

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (UP)—Two hundred newspapers are receiving an editorial and news service paid for by the Alabama Power corporation, according to evidence developed today in the federal trade commission's power industry investigation.

The news service, which emanates from Florence, Ala., has printed frequent attacks on Senator Norris' proposals for government development of Muscle Shoals, and its editor, Marcy X. Darnell is a militant foe of government ownership, the commission learned.

Clip sheets of Darnell's service were placed in evidence and disclosed that attacks on Muscle Shoals and Boulder dam development are a feature of his editorial comment and news articles.

Though admitting a $200 monthly payment by the power corporation, Darnell said this was but a small part of his total income from the service and did not influence his editorial attitude on power questions.

"Do the editors who receive your service know that it is partly financed by the Alabama Power company," he was asked.

"No, they do not, and I do not think it is any of their business," was Darnell's answer.

At one time or another, Darnell testified, he has sent his service to every weekly newspaper in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida. He refused to give names of papers now receiving his service at the expense of the power company.

Documents introduced by Judge Robert E. Healy, chief commission counsel, at today's hearing revealed that J. F. Zimmerman, of Albuquerque, N. M., received $52.02 expense money after attending the 1927 convention at Colorado Springs of the Rocky mountain division of the National Electric Light association.

Loree Stripped Of Authority

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (AP)—Authority which L. F. Loree had been given by the Interstate Commerce commission to hold a position as director of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroads, was withdrawn today by the commission. In effect, the railroad magnate was ordered to withdraw from the directorate in question.

Mr. Loree, who was president of the Delaware and Hudson company went on the board of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas in connection with his plan to consolidate that railroad with the Kansas City Southern and St. Louis Southwestern.

The commission attached to its order the statement that "we are unable to find that the holding by Loree of the position of the director of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas while continuing to act as director of the Kansas City Southern would not adversely affect public or private interests."

"An aimless life is a nameless life."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—When house wreckers began to demolish old buildings in the Forty-second street area for the erection of a skyscraper, they built the usual wooden sidewalk bridge with overhead protection from falling debris.

The wooden roof shielded the improvised walk from the sun and the spot became exceedingly cool on a hot day. When the wreckers appeared one morning to continue work they found that a street florist had appropriated a small space on the wooden sidewalk steps for the display of flowers. They were fresh flowers, fragrant flowers and he was an optimistic sort of a chap. He stayed.

Then the wreckers brought the building down close to the street level and removed the wooden sidewalk roof. The florist still clung to his little corner, although his flowers now were exposed to the sun.

Later the wreckers were compelled to take away the sidewalk platform and the wooden steps. This brought the florist down to the sidewalk. But the wreckers built a slight wooden fence around the site, now almost cleared, and the florist still hangs on. He has selected for himself a little spot at the north end of the fence and has arrayed his flowers on the sidewalk there. He takes good care of them. They are fresh and fragrant and he makes sales.

The magazine and newspaper vendor down at City Hall Park was giving the "inside dope" on why his racks were full of a month-old magazine that once was a good seller. It deals with the Hollywood movie actors and actresses, telling what books they don't read, what they have for breakfast, what they occasionally think, and that sort of "intimate stuff" about the onetime screen idols. The magazine used to have a heavy sale among the less sophisticated stenographers, but of late months it has been a decided dud.

"I've just figured it out," said the magazine man. "It's because of the talking movies. As long as the screen idols remained dumb they were romantic figures, but the minute their voices are heard and they begin talking like any other human, the fans seem to lose interest in their private lives, if any."

He stopped to sell a Wild West magazine, and then concluded: "Perhaps it's just as well. Maybe the movie people can be their natural selves now, without having it broadcast every time they buy a new dress!"

Swimming pools, the latest addition to New York and one that has been copied by all the adjacent towns, are springing up in all directions. Railroads used to run past small streams and brooks on the outskirts of town where little boys in original bathing suits were diving and swimming, but now from the car windows one sees huge pools where everybody and his brother and sister, is swimming, diving or lounging in bathing suits of every shade and cut (except those used by little boys in the swimming hole).

When the Phone Bell Rings

WE ARE pretty well used to the telephone, which always can be counted on to ring just when you are taking a bath, drifting off to sleep or taking the ashes out of the furnace. But Europeans consider the telephone a nuisance and an invader of privacy.

It is interesting to learn that Alexander Graham Bell, who invented it, eventually came to look on it as the Europeans do. Catherine Mackenzie, in a forthcoming biography of the inventor, says:

"Bell deplored the casual manners his invention had introduced. Nobody, he said, would dream of coming to one's house and demanding an audience while one dined, bathed or slept; but everyone made these peremptory demands by telephone."

Political Knock-Down-Drag-Outs

THERE have been a good many expressions of regret because the convention of Texas Democrats culminated in a free-for-all row.

Our politics, some commentators seem to feel, ought to be above that sort of thing.

We can't agree. On the contrary, we think it's an excellent sign. When men feel deeply enough about candidates and issues to punch one another's jaws, noses and eyes, they are at least taking an active interest in the welfare of their country. The campaign to worry about is the campaign that does not call forth one single bloody nose. So long as the voters are not indifferent, the republic is safe.

The Faked Fiddle

SOMETIMES it does seem as if it hardly paid a man to struggle after the truth.

Joseph Brennan of New York had a violin—an heirloom, handed down by his grandfather. Brennan for years prized it highly. It bore a label with the name "Guarnerius," and Brennan's life was made contented and happy by the thought that this fiddle was a masterpiece—an instrument worth probably $100,000.

But Brennan, the other day, decided to seek the exact truth. He went to an expert. And the expert cruelly told him that his violin was a fake, and not even a very good fake, worth perhaps $100 at the most.

Now the violin, instead of sweetening and brightening his life, is a source of unhappiness and regret. However praiseworthy the pursuit of knowledge may be, Brennan would be far, far better off if he had continued to take the superlative excellence of his ancestral fiddle on trust.

Hurricanes Teach a Lesson in Sympathy

THERE isn't much to do, when a hurricane comes along, but scurry for cover.

Mankind has mastered nature in a good many ways, but it is still back where it was in the days of Columbus when the winds begin to blow. We can smell a hurricane a little further off than our predecessors could; but we can't deflect it or lessen its force.

Porto Rico—and, to a lesser extent, Florida—have suffered again from the age-old curse of the Caribbean. The papers are full of the old, familiar story; houses knocked flat, shippings driven ashore, trees uprooted, crops ruined, people crushed in the falling wreckage, thousands of people left homeless and in danger of starvation. The laboratories of the twentieth century don't contain any antidote for hurricanes or tornadoes.

There is, however, one improvement, highly significant.

There was a time when a town's misfortunes were strictly its own affair. If a hurricane devastated a certain place, the people living there had to stew in their own juices until they had repaired the damage. It might take weeks to get news of the catastrophe to people who could help; and, when the news got there, the people there were apt to be more or less indifferent.

That, at least, we have remedied.

The extent of the Porto Rico disaster was known in New York and Washington as soon as it was known in San Juan. Governor Towner had not had time to make a complete list of supplies needed before a steamer was sailing for the island with some 300 tons of foodstuffs. Doctors were mobilized, funds were collected, and the word that went back to Porto Rico was, "Let us know what you need and we'll get it for you."

Now the difference lies not only in the fact that news travels faster than it used to. It has more effect. It is hardly too much to say that people are more sympathetic than they used to be. A century ago it would have been almost impossible to interest citizens of the United States in a catastrophe in distant Porto Rico. It never would have occurred to any of us that the thing concerned us in any way.

But steamships, railroads, wireless telegraphy and airplanes have made the earth shrink. The sufferers in Porto Rico are not far-off strangers; they are our next-door neighbors, and our reaction to news of their trouble is instinctive. We take it for granted that we must help, and we wait only to find out what needs to be done.

This is important. It means that we are gradually beginning to assimilate the old, neglected proposition of universal human brotherhood. We haven't got very far with it, to be sure. But we have made some progress. We cannot remain unconcerned in the face of our neighbor's disaster. And that is immensely encouraging.

CRITICS CRITICISED

In Arkansas recently a young man hanged himself because was criticised. This leads a pert paragrapher to remark that if the practice becomes general there won't be enough preachers left to fill the pulpits, and teachers will be scarcer than hens teeth, and all those fellows who believe they could run a paper better than the editor would have their chance. —Sherman (Texas) Democrat

For several months, new business institutions have been established in Hollis at the rate of one or more a month. They are high class institutions, department stores, groceries, and the like. PROOF

When all is dark and lonesome,
And days are bleak and blue;
When clouds are dark and heavy,
And sunshine can't come through,
It's then that I need someone
To help me work my plans;
There's only one to aid me:
My friend who understands.

This world's a jumbled compound,
Composed of sweet and sour,
Mixed up by happy moment,
And sad, dejected hour;
And still I know it's fashioned
By His almighty hands,
Whenever I remember
My friend, who understands.

Mustache and Beard Sacrificed By 157-Year-Old Turk

STAMBOUL, Turkey, Sept. 21. (UP)—Zaro Agha, at the age of 157, has sacrificed his mustache and beard for his country's good.

Zaro holds a minor municipal job and responded to the city edict ordering all employes to be clean shaven.

It took Zaro more than a century to cultivate his splendid whiskers and he relinquished them with a sigh, but was consoled by the improvement it made in his appearance. He looked half a century younger.

Zaro took new interest in life and decided to replenish his stock of wives, three or whom have died of old age, leaving him only one. To his dismay, he ran against the new law prohibiting polygamy.

In an interview with The United Press, Zaro explained his hopes for the fture. He is eager to start life anew in a fresh job and improve his standard of lying, he said. He gratefully accepted an offer to tour abroad with a circus, but the negotiations fell through. Zaro is awaiting a new offer.

Asked for probably the thousandth time about the secret of longevity, Zaro grinned, his sunken eyes almost closing, and recited glibly:

"That's easy. I don't smoke. I don't drink. I married four wives."

LAUNDRESS BENEFITED
By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Nashville, Tenn.—"I cannot say too much in favor of the medicine. I was in a run-down condition. I worked in a laundry but my health got so bad that I had to give up work. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began taking it and every time I feel run-down I get another bottle. It is an excellent tonic and I am willing to tell others about it. People take me to be much younger than I am."—Mrs. Hanny Bornstein, 406 Second Ave. South, Nashville, Tennessee.

PINCHOT GIVEN KLANS VOTES

Pittsburgh Hearing Told of Texas Lynching

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21. (INS)—Discussion of the Ku Klux klan as a political factor today was injected into the hearing of testimony which Atty. Gen. Arthur Gilliom of Indiana hopes to use in his ouster proceedings against the order in his state.

Joseph Shoemakeer, who described himself to Gilliom as former Pennsylvania treasurer of the klan, said that not only did he believe the klan instructed its members to vote for Gifford Pinchot for United States senator from Pennsylvania, but that he was told the klan hoped also to control the policies of other states.

With Gilliom at the hearing was Fred C. Gause, his assistant, while the klan is represented by J. H. Connaughton and J. A. Cole-Scott of Washington.

Wilson Nudnow of Donora, Pa., who followed Shoemaker to the witness stand, told Gilliom he witnessed the burning of a negro at the stake by a group of Texas klansmen.

"It was near Terrell," Texas, Nundow said. "I saw a colored man burned at the stake for an attack on a white woman in November, 1920. The klan held a kangaroo court and sentenced the negro to be burned. He was tied to a stake, oil was poured over him and debris piled about him and then the klansmen, robed and masked, and all carrying torches, marched in a ring around him so that it could not be told who started the fire. There were from 80 to 120 klansmen."

Nudnow also charged that Hiram Evans, former imperial wizard of the klan, agitated trouble between klansmen and negroes and Catholics. He described a flogging where Evans stood by as a spectator.

IN BED A WEEK OF EVERY MONTH

Texas Lady Thought She Would Suffer All Her Life, Till Her Mother Gave Her Cardui.

Paris, Texas.—"When I first began suffering with my head and back, I was very young," says Mrs. M. S. Ward of 288 North Twenty-eighth street, this city. "Nothing did me any good.

"I was in bed a week, each month, and never felt well. I suffered day and night. I could never go to school but very little, each month. I began to think I had to suffer the rest of my life, until my mother read about Cardui.

"She began giving it to me regularly. By the first week I could tell the difference and in a month I could hardly believe that I had suffered so much.

I kept on taking Cardui regularly, for a long time, and I never have suffered with my head and back any more.

"That was about five years ago. I am married now—have been for two years—and am strong and healthy. I am glad to recommend Cardui to my friends for what it has done for me."

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 21.—With this city completely decked out in gala bunting, with the barns and exhibition buildings rapidly filling and all booth and exhibit spaces taken to capacity for the first time in the history of the Tri-State fair, no doubt is left with officials that this year's "free gate" will bring the largest crowds ever in attendance at a fair in this section of the country.

Preparations are for an attendance of 250,000 of which 50,000 are expected for Monday "Amarillo Day" when the merchants will close shops for the afternoon and the city schools will be dismissed. The 1928 fair officially opens at noon Saturday, Sept. 22 and continues until Sept. 29.

Virtually every city in the Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico has announced that schools will be out for one day of the week and special trains and automobile caravans will come to Amarillo.

The special train from Norman, Okla., with the crack high school football team from the Oklahoma university city will arrive on Thursday for the first big game of the season here on Saturday afternoon. Intra-Panhandle games are scheduled throughout the week with another big grid feature a week from Saturday when Oklahoma City high plays Amarillo's high school Sandies.

A special train will bring more than 200 from Roswell on Tuesday and make other pickups at Portales and Clovis en route. More than 100 will arrive Monday morning from Pampa for the Pampa-Texhoma morning grid game. School children will be dismissed for that day there. All schools in Dumas, Borger, Channing, Claude, McLean, Shamrock and Clarendon. Plainview will have an automobile caravan and a band and Memphis and Hereford are sending delegates.

BUILDERS OF A GREATER SOUTHWEST

Federated Women's Clubs

The claims of the Southwest to the affectionate devotion of its home people have been developed largely through the efforts of its women, working in clubs and organizations, to make their own communities centers of education, art, music and healthful pastimes which add color and pleasure to life. The lure of wealth takes men into many lands, but only where the women have followed to develop the country for gentler usage do communities thrive and gain the sacred name of "Home".

A great variety of aims is behind the individual clubs which make up the Federated Women's Clubs. But in all of them is a striving for improvement. The schools, theaters, playgrounds, health centers, libraries and charitable organizations are in many instances left to the care and supervision of women's organizations. They have sponsored community art centers, little theaters, music festivals and sound educational programs for the spreading of knowledge concerning the health and social problems of children and the home. To women's clubs, wherever they are gathered for the betterment of community life, we offer our praise and acknowledge a debt of gratitude.

LAWTON ELEVEN TAKES M'CALLUM'S COYOTES TO TRIMMING

Dudley Golding And Ed Stewart Go Into Finals For Championship Of Wichita Tourney

SOONERS HANG UP 26-0 SCORE

Wichita Falls Forwards Are Completely Outplayed

By AL PARKER
Staff Correspondent

LAWTON, Okla., Sept. 21.—Lawton high school football team rolled up four touchdowns and a safety here Friday afternoon to defeat Wichita Falls high school, 26 to 0, for its second victory of the season, and kept intact a record of not having been defeated since 1926.

The superiority of the home eleven was evident at every turn and only in the first few minutes of play were the Coyotes able to make any headway against Coach Bryan Griffin's men. Eleven first downs for Lawton and three for Wichita Falls tell a true story of the day's activities.

Registering a safety in the second period and two touchdowns in each of the final two, Lawton gave the Coyotes little chance to show. A Lawton line that lacked some of the size of its opponent clearly outplayed the invading forwards, opening up big holes for its backs to scamper through and stemming every Wichita Falls attack before it was fairly well under way.

The Coyotes recorded two of their first downs early in the first quarter when Pete Powell, fullback broke through tackle for a 20-yard gain and Black followed with a pass to Hambrick that was good for a 10-yard advance. After that the Wichita Falls attack was entirely futile, and it was simply a matter of taking two or three downs and then kicking.

Lawton Scores Safety

On the first play of the second quarter, Black, attempting to kick from his own 20-yard line received a bad pass from center back of his goal line, automatically recording two points for the opposition.

Shortly before the safety gave Lawton two points, Captain Fuqua fumbled the ball on Wichita Falls' 4-yard line and the Coyotes probably were saved from a touchdown. At the end of the half Lawton again was on the 4-yard line after two line plays had failed to gain an inch.

The high spot of the game was produced in the first touchdown Lawton received at the start of the half and on the first play the Coyotes fell victim to an old, but still handy trick. Valdez, a speedy little half, started off for the sidelines kicking his helmet as he went. When he reached the sideline, the play was snapped and the ball sailed off Fuqua's fingers fully 25 yards down the field. Valdez leaped high in the air, gathered in the ball in a wonderful catch and speeded down the sidelines to score the first touchdown. It was a gain of 60 yards.

A few plays later a penalty of half the distance to the goal line against Scott, Coyote end, gave Lawton the ball on Wichita Falls' 12-yard line and three line plays were all that were necessary to put the ball over, making the score 14 to 0 at the end of the third period.

Punt Blocked

On the first play of the final quarter, Black's punt from his own goal line was blocked and downed by Lawton on the one-yard line. Valdez went around end for the touchdown after two line smashes had failed.

In the last two minutes of play Gentry intercepted a Wichita Falls pass on the 5-yard line and trotted to Lawton's fourth touchdown.

Wichita Falls followers of the Coyotes may take the defeat none too seriously, for it was a typical opening day performance for the team. During the reign of Coach Bud McCallum no Coyote team has started strong — and few have started weaker than the Coyotes did on this occasion. Lawton's lighter line completely outcharged and outplayed the Coyote forwards and the attack was given no chance at all to function. Kenneth Mills and Dale Davis, backfield stalwarts, were on the sidelines because of injuries.

Pete Powell at full and Carr at halfback turned in neat defensive games for the Coyotes, but few of the linemen showed to advantage.

For Lawton, the rangy Gentry at tackle played a whale of a game and havoc with the Coyotes' plays while Fuqua, Valdez and Love all were able to gain through and around Wichita Falls' line. The summary:

W. FALLS (0)	Position	LAWTON (26)

YANKEES WHIP CHISOX, 5 TO 2

Champs Gain Game When Tigers Beat A's

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. (AP)—Just when the Yankees seemed to be slipping toward a final plunge down under, old Tom Zachary came hobbling to the rescue with a brand of left-handed pitching which the White Sox couldn't hit. The former Washington veteran so scattered eight Chicago safeties here today that the home forces got only two runs, and the Yankees won, 5 to 2.

Not satisfied with his defensive efforts old Tom battered the last two New York runs into the records in the eighth with a home run into the upper deck of the right field seats. Durocher previously had singled.

Just before the Yankees made their conquest complete, figures on the scoreboard told of the defeat of the Athletics in Detroit by 9 to 4; so the Yankees just doubled their lead, whereas yesterday they were forced to stand idly by and see it cut in half. The margin of the champions tonight is two full engagements, with only nine more to be played. Score:

TIGERS ROUT ATHLETICS

DETROIT, Sept. 21. (AP)—The pennant progress of the Athletics received a serious check here today when the Tigers hammered out a 9-to-4 victory over the Mackmen in the second game of the series. Coupled with the Yankees' success over the White Sox in Chicago, the defeat put the Athletics two games out of first place with only eight more to play.

The Tigers triumphed at the expense of Robert Moses Grove, southpaw ace of Philadelphia, driving him from the box in the fifth inning. Included in the attack that brought about Grove's retirement was a home run by Harry Rice into the right field bleachers with the bases full.

Subsequently Jonathan Stone, recruit outfielder, hit a home run off Ossie Orwoll with two bases occupied, so that seven of Detroit's nine runs were due to circuit smashes. Score:

WICHITAN WINS OVER LAVENDER

West Texas Champion Is Eliminated 1 Down

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Two golfers, representative of the best game played in Texas, meet today in the championship round of the first annual invitation tournament of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. They are Dudley S. Golding of the home course and Ed Stewart of Glen Garden Country club, Fort Worth, who survived gruelling and as brilliant golf ever played here yesterday in winning quarter-final and semi-final rounds.

The cold and calculating Golding was "hot" in his play yesterday. The figure of this methodical and at times brilliant golfer stood alone between annihilation of the home guards, with three out-of-town stars remaining in the semi-finals. But Golding, arising to the great game of which he is capable, defeated Dennis Lavender, the 20-year-old West Texas champion from Stamford, 1 up in their sensational semi-final match.

Stewart defeated C. R. Pope of Abilene to give him the right to play in the finals today, and although not extended as was Golding, the Fort Worth expert was called upon to play his best game before scoring victory by 3 and 2.

Levender, Pope Extended

Lavender and Pope were forced to display all the shots from every club in their bags before winning their quarter-final rounds. Lavender defeated Gus Moreland, the 17-year-old schoolboy of the Cedar Crest club, Dallas, youngest entrant in the tournament, 1 up, and Pope was carried to the twentieth green before winning from Jack Hale of the home course.

Lavender started by winning the first hole in his match with Golding with a 4 and they halved the second with 5s. Golding took the third with a 4 to square the match. They each had 3s on the fourth. Lavender laid a stymie to take the fifth with a 5, but Golding squared the match at the sixth with a par 4.

Dennis went ahead again in the seventh with a par 4 but Golding came back with a birdie 4 to take the eighth. Golding shot a par 5 to take the ninth and led 1 up at the turn.

Golding increased his lead to 3 up by taking the tenth and eleventh with par 3s and they halved the twelfth with 4s. Lavender shot a birdie 3 to win the thirteenth. They halved the fourteenth with 4s and Lavender cut down Dudley's lead to 1 up by taking the fifteenth with a par 5. Golding shot a par 4 to make it 2 up at the sixteenth. Lavender, still fighting courageously and with no diminishing of his excellent game, shot a birdie 3 to take the seventeenth.

Leading 1 up at the eighteenth, Golding halved with Lavender with 4s, to win the match. Their cards:

Lavender out	455	354	456—41
Golding out	554	363	545—40
Lavender in	444	345	534—36—77
Golding in	334	446	454—37—77

Stewart Takes Lead

Stewart was out in front in his match with Pope with a birdie 3 for the first hole and Pope squared the match at the fourth with a par 3, after halving the second and third. They halved the fifth with 4s. Stewart negotiated a birdie 2 to take the sixth and shot a par 4 on the seventh to lead, 2 up. They both shot 5s on the eighth and ninth and Stewart was 2 up.

Ed made it 3 up with a par 3 for the tenth but Pope regained a hole with a 4 for the eleventh. Stewart shot par 4s to win the twelfth and thirteenth. Pope wasn't out of it, yet, however, and won the fourteenth and fifteenth with a par 4 and a par 5. Stewart regained his mastery of the clubs by shooting a

Big League Pennant Contenders Strong at Important Second Bag

Lazzeri Outstanding Star But Tony Is Handicapped With Injury; Bishop, Critz, Frisch, Maguire Stars

(This is the second of a series of 10 articles in which Louis A. Dougher, Universal Service baseball expert, discusses the merits of the teams which are admitted contenders to figure in the world series. Dougher is one of the country's outstanding sports critics, and for more than 15 years has devoted his talents especially to the realm of baseball.)

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (US)—If Tony Lazzeri was not handicapped by an injured arm, the Yanks would have a big margin in their favor when it comes to comparing the second basemen likely to appear in the 1928 world series.

Lazzeri's strong hitting, his brilliant fielding and running and, above all else, his remarkable fighting spirit makes him the king of second-sackers in his league. Only Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, shapes up in his class among the big league keystone players.

However, Lazzeri is suffering from a torn tendon in his right shoulder and this may handicap him considerably in the field. Pivoting on double plays calls for a good arm and it is here that Lazzeri may find the going too much.

Bishop Has Big Year

Max Bishop, of the A's, is having his best year since entering the big show. A strong, steady fielder, he is hitting for .329 and as a lead-off man, is making a brilliant record for reaching first base.

Both Lazzeri and Bishop rather overshadow their National league rivals in hitting, but Hugh Critz, of the Reds, Maguire of the Cubs, and Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals are right up with them when it comes to fielding.

Critz, the midget second sacker of the Reds, is called the most glittering keystone guardian in the older league by all critics watching him. Whatever can be done around the bag, he can do, and does it. He makes impossible stops right along from day to day as though a mere routine affair.

With the Cardinals winning the National league title Frankie Frisch will have a chance to shine in old-time style. He has been injured frequently this season and his hitting has fallen off considerably, but he is still a great second baseman, doing his best work under pressure.

Giants Have Youngsters

With the Giants rushing over the line in first place two youngsters may divide the work around second base, Cohen and Reese; the former used only when Reese takes his turn in the outfield against southpaw pitching. Reese is a real hitter, though a mere kid. He tops all the National leaguers as a batsman and John McGraw predicts a long and brilliant career for his former Vanderbilt university star.

If the Pirates defend the old league's flag, either Adams or Bartell will hold down second base. Adams has filled in for Wright in the short field much of the time this year and might be Donie Bush's first choice for the position as against Wright. Bartell's work has been first class.

Leo Burocher, who substitutes for Lazzeri, is one of the flashiest infielders in the game but he is a horse collar around the plate. He will only play if Lazzeri has to stay in bed.

Looking at both leagues, one would say that the Yankees and Cardinals would offer the best competition around second base, though the A's and Pirates are not so far behind. Indeed, some might say that Max Bishop would be even stronger than an injured Lazzeri and have plenty of grounds for the belief.

ROBINS DEFEAT CHICAGO, 2 TO 1

OLNEY CUBS WIN OPENER

Throckmorton Loses by 30 To 0 Score

Special to The Record News

OLNEY, Texas, Sept. 21. — The Olney Cubs won the first game of the season here this afternoon, defeating Throckmorton high 30 to 0. The Throckmorton boys held the locals to only one touchdown during the entire first half. During the entire period the Cubs showed a weakness in their blocking, and the backfield men failed to follow down on the punts.

Atchley, quarter for the Cubs, called a good game and carried the ball for several long advances. Lefty Roberts, Cub halfback, tore through the opposing line for numerous gains and first downs. His playing was exceptional for early season and considering his previous experience.

Two Cub substitutes entering the game during the last period aided materially in additional touchdowns. W. Gilmore intercepted a pass, taking the ball to the five-yard line where it was carried over on the next play. Hill, substituting during the last few minutes of play, recovered a block punt on the 10-yard line, Atchley going over for the fifth touchdown. Touchdowns: Atchley 3, Cosby 1, Roberts 1. Lineup:

Jayhawker Frosh Grid Candidates Start Work

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 21. (INS)—The first call for freshmen football candidates at the University of Kansas was made this afternoon by Steven Hinshaw, new freshman coach and former head grid coach at Parsons Junior college. Hinshaw will direct all freshman athletics, having taken the place of John Bunn, who was moved this year to the varsity staff, under Coach H. W. "Bill" Hargiss, new head grid skipper.

Equipment was checked out to the "frosh" candidates yesterday. The squad probably will number 100.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

JUDGE H. F. WELDON, wit and raconteur, and a few of his cronies were flinging challenges for golf matches left and right down in the grillroom at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, where the invitation tournament ends today. It seems that the seniors of the club were arranging a foursome of 50-year-olds, and doubt was cast on Judge Weldon's right to play in such a match. It was argued that Judge Weldon has a fine crop of hair on his head, with not a gray lock, and nobody 50 years old would thus be so favored. It seems that the basis of making the match was whether the contenders were gray-haired, or bald, and it was evident that there was some jealousy over the Judge's retention of all his hair in its youthful color.

One of the old boys, a ruddy-faced, pleasant gentleman, as marks those sportsmen of the links, was particularly vehement in casting doubt over Judge Weldon's right to qualify as a senior. Now this gentleman in particular has little hair on his head and admits to being more than 50 years old, though you couldn't tell it by the excellence and sturdiness of his golf game. So he told Judge Weldon that only people of 50 years old, who were gifted with an undue amount of brains, were bald or gray-haired, a remark much appreciated by his cronies.

THAT DIDN'T STOP the judge, though. "Well," says he, "gray hair shows that the gray matter is coming out, and no hair at all shows there isn't any gray matter."

THE SENIORS then decided the judge was eligible to play in the 50-year-old foursome.

That Brewster County, with an area of 3,739,680 acres, is the largest county in Texas.

This county alone is larger than any one of three states—Rhode Island, Delaware or Connecticut.

You may never motor across the Sahara Desert. But your engine will run better in hot weather if you use the same oil as that which protected the Citroen cars which were the first to cross that torrid waste of sand. Their oil was Gargoyle Mobiloil.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE — (403) Our Presidents

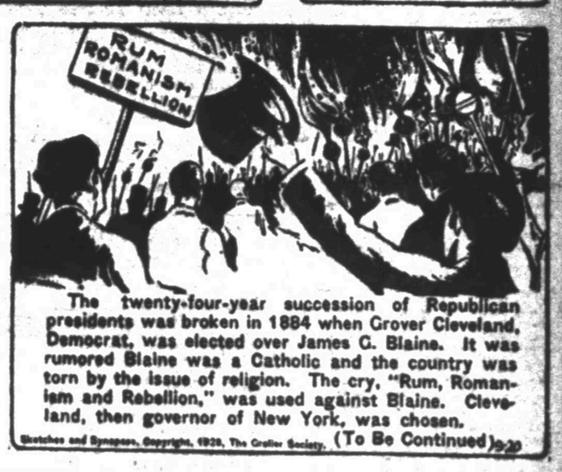

In the campaign of 1880, James A. Garfield, an Ohio boy whose first work in life had been that of a canal boy, was elected president. Garfield was a Republican. He had been in office but a few months when Charles J. Guiteau, a disappointed office-seeker, shot and killed him. Vice President Chester A. Arthur succeeded to office.

Arthur's administration was prosperous. The South had recovered remarkably from the effects of the war. Iron mining began its tremendous growth.

Immigrants poured into America. An exposition held in New Orleans in 1884 showed the great progress the South had been making.

The twenty-four-year succession of Republican presidents was broken in 1884 when Grover Cleveland, Democrat, was elected over James G. Blaine. It was rumored Blaine was a Catholic and the country was torn by the issue of religion. The cry, "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," was used against Blaine. Cleveland, then governor of New York, was chosen. (To Be Continued)

Health and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in Regard to Health and Diet Will Be Answered by Dr. McCoy, Who Can Be Addressed in Care of This Paper

Our Senses

Have you ever considered that all of your consciousness of the external world comes to you through your special senses of seeing, hearing, touching, tasting, smelling and equilibrium? If at birth a person were deprived of the organs which register these sensations, it is doubtful if he would ever realize that he lived.

Most of our actions are complex reflexes from stimulations that have come to us through these sense organs. For example, if we see an automobile coming at us while we are crossing the street, we dodge or otherwise endeavor to avoid being struck. If we hear a footstep climbing the stair at night, we listen intently, and may even get up to find out who is there. If we smell smoke as of burning wood, we look around to find out whether or not the house is on fire. In fact, you will be able to trace practically every movement or thought that you have to some impulse that has come to you through some of your organs of sense.

We have the eye for detecting variations of light; the ear for detecting noises; the nose for detecting odors; the tastebuds in the tongue and mouth for overseeing our food; touch organs in the skin and internal organs for registering heat, touch and internal sensations; we have the semilunar canals in our skulls near the ears, for observing our equilibrium. These sensations are carried by nerves to the brain, where they register and start channels of impulses which may cause us to perform very complicated physical movements.

All of our knowledge of the world has come to us through the sense organs, and it is interesting to trace the development of the first recognition of these senses by an infant. Probably the first knowledge that a baby has of the external world comes to it through its sense of touch. It becomes conscious of the support of the bed, and of things coming in contact with its arms and legs. Gradually it realizes the difference between being held by the mattress and its mother's arms. The undirected physical movements of the baby's arms and legs bring its attention to clothes, pillows and crib. One of the reflexes that a child seems to be born with is to try to grasp any object placed in its hands.

At first a baby cannot see objects; it is merely conscious of lights and shadows. Gradually its eyes become conscious of large moving objects, and the eyes will follow them in a horizontal position, since the muscles for raising and lowering the eyes are not developed until some time after birth.

The new-born child is deaf, but as the air enters the middle ear through the eustachian tube, the hearing becomes developed. Possibly sound at first is simply a disturbing factor. The child becomes able to distinguish between harsh and soothing tones, and the mother's lullaby has been evolved in practically every country of the world as an aid to quieting the child. Hearing does not develop fully for from several hours to several days after birth.

The child at first is not conscious of a sense of hunger. The sucking of milk for the first few weeks seems to be purely a reflex action. Oddly enough, the sense of smell seems to be more acute than the sense of taste in recently born babies.

It is most interesting to watch a baby's enjoyment of experimenting with its new-found senses. If baby is given an object, or if an object is placed within grasping distance, first the infant looks at the object, then grasps and tastes it, and may even listen to the object. Many mothers develop gray hairs because baby insists on tasting everything, but this is simply a natural method of the child trying out its new-found senses.

Questions and Answers

Question—Mrs. A. G. writes: "I have a most annoying feeling come over me at times. It begins in my head, then seems to make my body stiff. Does not last long, but when it goes away it leaves me with a very bad headache all the rest of the day. Could you tell me what it is and what to do about it?

Answer—It would be necessary for me to know more about your trouble in order to give you a correct explanation of the cause and cure. I cannot attempt to diagnose cases without personal examinations.

Question—Mrs. J. writes: "I am fond of pancakes and coffee for breakfast. Sometimes I use oatmeal and poached eggs in addition. Would this hurt if I am careful with my other meals? I never see you mention pancakes in your menus. Can you give me a good recipe for them?"

Answer—I do not recommend the ordinary pancake because it is exceedingly hard to digest, and a breakfast such as you describe is apt to make you logy and sleepy the remainder of the day. Even if your digestive system is good the strain will tell in time. A good substitute for pancakes is a thoroughly toasted waffle in which the starch is completely dextrinized. I do not advise much butter or syrup on the waffle. In addition, one or two eggs may be used, cooked in any manner except frying, and some stewed fruit, preferably prepared without sugar. I do not advise the use of breakfast cereals except in the case of children and those doing heavy work.

Question—Rose writes: "Am 32 years old and my hair is just beginning to get curly. Could there be anything wrong with my health or scalp? Am feeling fine, but would just like to know the reason for this change in my hair."

Answer—Hair frequently turns curly toward middle age, and this change is no doubt due to the results of a bad fever or to a radical change of diet. I have known many cases where thin, straight hair became curly after a fasting and diet treatment.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By PAT COLLINS

Pat Collins is the star catcher of the New York Yankees baseball club and one of the biggest stars in the baseball sky. Collins used to belong to the St. Louis Browns. The Browns allowed St. Paul to get him away from them. This was just what Miller Huggins was waiting for, and, much to the Browns' discomfort, Collins was signed by the "greatest base ball club in the world."

Pat Collins

"I got a big snort," Collins told me, "out of the story about a baseball club which was being organized in a small town.

"The team was seriously handicapped because they lacked one player. The club members talked with every possible entrant in the village without avail. Finally they persuaded an old fellow to fill in, although he said he had never played before, and didn't know a thing about the game.

"During the first game of the season he went to the bat and the first ball pitched he knocked over the fence. Every one watched the ball in amazement, then turned their eyes upon the batter. Excitedly they began screaming for him to run.

"'Shucks!' said the old man, 'what's the use of running—I'd rather buy a new ball.'"

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (AP)—Increased nervousness over the progress of the crop and reports of a falling off in the volume of southern hedging were reflected in more active demand and an advance of about $3 a bale in the cotton market today. December contracts sold up to 18.28 or 60 points above Thursday's closing quotations, and a cent a pound above the low levels last Wednesday, and closed at 18.24. The general market closed firm at net advances of 52 to 59 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 12 points in response to higher Liverpool cables. The market soon developed increased activity and firmness. Reports of storm damage to cotton in Atlantic state sections of the belt continued to come in, while unfavorable crop advices were received from the Southwest that prospects were for lower temperatures in that section, and there were reiterated reports that mills had been buying more freely on basis of the recent decline.

These advices combined with the smaller volume of hedge selling reported from the South, made a decided impression on sentiment, and the buying movement broadened out at midday. It included brokers with Wall street and western connections and seemed to become more urgent as prices worked upward without attracting any decided increase in offerings. A good part of the demand was attributed to covering, but there were also reports of fresh buying through commission houses or others which was said to be based partly upon apprehensions of reduced crop estimates as a result of the private reports of deterioration reaching here, particularly during the first week in September and again more recently.

October sold up to 18.22 and January to 18.25, net advances of 58 to 63 points on the general list. The close was within a few points of the best.

Two private reports were published on ginnings prior to September 16.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21. (AP)—Prices advanced as much as $2.90 a bale on the cotton market here today as the result of improved textile advices from foreign and domestic markets, two private estimates of ginning to September 16 much smaller than traders expected, a broadening spot demand for export and larger mill takings for the week than for the corresponding week last year.

The market closed strong at the highs at net gains for the day of 54 to 58 points.

The two ginnings estimates called for 2,310,000 and 2,546,000 bales. Traders had been expecting ginnings around 3,000,000 bales.

Liverpool was 5 to 8 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 1 to 8 points. The advance was soon increased until prices were 13 to 14 points above the previous close. This raise attracted hedge selling and realizing, however, and by the end of the first hour the gain had been lost.

Early in the second hour the ginnings estimates were issued and this, coupled with greater demand for spots for exports and private advices of crop deterioration, sent October up to 17.40 and December to 17.54, 44 to 45 points above the previous close.

After easing off 18 to 12 points on profit-taking the market again advanced sharply on weekly statistics issued by H. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton exchange. October climbed to 17.52 and December to 17.65, 56 and 54 points above the previous close. The close was strong at the highest.

Port receipts, 56,721; for week, 337,631; for season, 1,074,389; last season, 1,404,967. Exports, 19,580; for week, 173,779; for season, 477,904; last season, 765,240. General Motors Hogs Spotlight, Going to New High, Spurring Sales

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—General Motors was the stock market today. It surged steadily forward into new high ground and influenced increased public participation in dealings throughout the list with the result that total turnover topped the 4,800,000-share level and the tape was close to a half hour behind at times. Easing of the call rate from a renewal of 8 to 7½ per cent enhanced bullish sentiment and completely overshadowed the bearish showing of the federal reserve bank statements.

Motors closed at 218 for a net gain of 5¾ points and within ¾ of the record high registered during the afternoon.

It was followed in its advance by Chrysler, Hupp and other motor shares but Can, Steel and the remaining standard industrials were held to narrow price range.

Rails and oils were quiet again but generally firm. Greene Cananea skyrocketed more than 9 points while Anaconda gained over a point with expectation that favorable trade conditions will result in larger dividend payments by several of the copper companies.

Motors Melon Cut

Now that the General Motors melon has been cut, marketwise, two months ahead of time, the street has to look for other bullish stimulus. Those who have been most correct on Motors affairs, however, tell of the large short interest locked in the stock and indicate that little opportunity will be given for the bears to get out without paying dearly.

The highly favorable view of General Motors business and incidentally of the automobile industry as a whole presented by Mr. Sloan would be no surprise as trade reports have indicated right along that his corporation, with Chrysler, Hupp, Studebaker and one or two others were doing a record business.

The most important part of Mr. Sloan's remarks is the bright outlook he painted of future business. As head of General Motors, he is in a position to get the best idea of industrial conditions and also the opinion of dominant banking interests so that his optimism can be taken as a reflection of the feelings of the most important business leaders.

Electric Auto Lite's further rise followed report here that the midwesterners most active in the market were actively buying the stock, due to knowledge of the record breaking business enjoyed and the prospects for eventual larger payments to stockholders.

Brunswicke Balke continued to enjoy good buying as it was learned that a contract to furnish cabinets has been closed with the Radio corporation.

Some buying in Packard was influenced by the belief that its development of a Diesel engine for airplanes would mean further increase in income. Kelvinator was sold because of denial that Chrysler was interested therein in any way.

Oil Merger Talked

Cerro de Pasco continued to hover around par with those responsible for the recent advance repeating their bullish opinions. They maintained that the technical position of the stock now is stronger that at any time in several months.

Sinclair was churned again in lively manner with further talk of negotiations for merging with other companies, although insiders declare there was little likelihood of such deal being consummated for quite awhile. Erie advanced over a point as a result of private advices that an announcement regarding a dividend on the preferred shares would be made within the next fortnight.

CHICAGO REVIEW
By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Sept. (US)—The grain markets turned today against the bears, not like a downtrodden worm but like a raging lion. Prices went upward from a lower opening and a sluggish start that at first dragged them downward slightly. Wheat soared through the daily and the weekly offers and at the end was champing at the bit like a derby horse pulled up at the end of six furlongs.

At the close wheat was up 3⅞ to 4⅞; corn was ¼ lower to 1½ higher; oats were ⅝ to ½ higher; rye was up 3½ to 5⅛.

It was September corn that closed ¼ lower. As pointed out here the other day the excitement in that future may be over and it may go out quietly at the end of this month at around its present level.

There is a big outside public from the Atlantic to the Pacific who have had for days the tip that a big bull market was coming in wheat. Today the uprush carried the December future up to 1.19⅛, a price level which many prospective buyers have been waiting for before they should take hold. This price seemed to them significant because it was the top of the bulge in wheat about the middle of August.

Ordinarily such a bulge in prices as that of today should make a trader very cautious about buying and perhaps lead him to take profits. But the wheat market looked to me at the close as if it is not through on this minor advance yet.

Unless the market opens much higher tomorrow wheat may be a dangerous sale. If it opens about where it closed and looks weak or drags lower early it seems to me it ought to be purchased for another good advance before the day is over.

Bears will be timorous. Shorts are badly caught, and tomorrow is a short session with a holiday following. These are circumstances that favor the bull.

The strength in rye, which has a sound foundation in the small crop in this country and the loss of 35 per cent in the crop of Poland, the country usually the biggest influence in the world's rye situation, is too obvious to need comment. All through this year so far, all through its market weakness, the underlying strength in the crop situation has always been greater than in any other grain.

It is worth noting that the advance in wheat at Winnipeg today was greater than it was here.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21 (AP)—(U.S.D.A.) Moderate activities featured the fat lamb trade around the loop, with prices firm to 25c higher. Choice range lambs in Chicago cashed up to 14.25 and at Omaha 14.10 was realized on short westerns. The supply approximated 67,600 against 70,050 a week ago and 47,279 the same day last year.

Hog prices at most markets ruled weak to 25c lower, a few points having relatively light receipts showing a slight advance; the day's extreme top of 17.75 was paid at Chicago; total offerings of around 44,400 were 5,500 short of a week ago but 10,000 more than the same day last year.

Cattle trade around the 11 market circuit was slow and prices steady to easier with the week's uneven and sharp decline; demand at eastern dressed beef market was sluggish and additional declines were enforced; this week's sharp decline on cattle and calves should have a tendency to reduce receipts the next 10 days but unless the supply next week is considerably reduced additional losses may be expected. Stocker and feeder trade at Kansas City continued slow with prospects of a moderate to slow week-end holdover; many late sales on good to choice white faced stockers and feeders at this point were fully $1 under last week; aggregate receipts were estimated at 14,425 as compared with 14,787 last Friday, and 14,000 a year ago.

Cattle—Receipts 500; receipts mostly mixed butcher and beef grades; no slaughter steers offered; trade generally slow; slaughter yearlings steady; few sales from $12 to $13.

DUN'S WEEKLY STATEMENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (AP) — Dun's tomorrow will say:

"The satisfaction derived from a further seasonal commercial expansion has been overshadowed by the recent destructive tropical hurricane, extending to the lower Atlantic coast and followed by severe storms in some other sections. Although the work of reconstruction and rehabilitation ultimately will give impetus to certain branches of business, the immediate results in the affected regions, and to some extent in outlying territory, naturally are deleterious. Broadly, however, trade has followed the upward course that invariably develops at this period, evidence of gain being more numerous in reports covering the country as a whole. The spreading of mercantile and industrial operations is not now, nor has it been for a long time, evenly distributed, but the existing irregularities and contracts do not obscure the fact that the underlying conditions are favorable. Political influences are not acting as a brake on progress, and such retarding elements as prevail are outweighed by stimulating forces."

Weekly bank clearings were $11,595,903,000, an increase of 5.02 per cent over a year ago.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-4 Harvey Snider Bldg., received the following Friday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago connections:

Stock

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The market opened as if it were somewhat uncertain about the money situation, about the increase in brokers' loans, evidently feeling somewhat uneasy. General Motors featured. Buying the stock swept aside all resistance and the street fully believed at the November meeting some very good news for stockholders would develop and also look forward to an optimistic statement from President Sloan, who sails for Europe tonight. Chrysler started late but in the last hour went to new highs as if following the example set by General Motors. Hudson in which a substantial short interest is said to have existed for weeks, came to life suddenly and under the influence of fresh buying advanced aggressively. The oils took the place of the industrials as market features during the middle of the day. Sinclair was particularly strong with bullish interests predicting earnings of the company, given a satisfactory gasoline market, such as at present exists, would materially increase above current levels. Sinclair is said to be in a particularly strong cash position. Some late selling gave the market an irregular tone at the close but the impression left by today's trading was that large interests were still actively engaged on the buying side and bearish traders were in most cases strictly on the defensive. Total sales 4,794,800.

Cotton

Cotton, on its upward swing, crossed 18 cents today, with buyers finding contracts scarce. The market started higher on cables, gained strength on Garside's small ginning figure due to lateness of the crop, advanced further on frost north of the cotton belt and then had a sharp bulge around noon on stop-loss orders being reached. Hedge selling was light and it was apparent the South was not inclined to sell on a rising market. The Dallas News was bullish, heavy deterioration reported from Northwest Texas. There was talk that the next government might show a decrease from the last but that is two weeks away. Meanwhile, the trend may be higher.

Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—There was a marked change in sentiment in wheat trade and while there was a small break early in sympathy with Liverpool, the decline brought in a good class of buying which quickly absorbed the surplus in pit and later there was aggressive short covering which disclosed a heavy oversold condition and prices advanced about five cents from early low with stop loss orders uncovered in profusion on way up. Sellers of offers had to protect themselves on way up. There was a noticeable lack of hedging pressure and houses with northwestern connections were on buying side and have been for several days. Strong Liverpool finished ⅜ to ¾ lower on light rains in Argentina and Australia. Export demand was fair with sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bushels in all positions.

Corn showed a firmer undertone and with wheat strong an advance was easily attained with locals and shorts good buyers on way up. Weather conditions over belt were spotted with light frost forecast for tonight.

Oats higher in sympathy with other grains. September rye acted tight and advanced sharply with stop loss orders caught. There was no material pressure.

Vernon Lions Tie Grandfield 6 to 6

Early Touchdowns Feature Of the Contest

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 21.—The Vernon Lions and the Grandfield, Okla., Bearcats fought to a 6 to 6 tie here this afternoon. The sensation of the game came on the kickoff when Dye of Grandfield received the ball on his own 20 yard line and raced through the entire Vernon team for a touchdown.

The Lions came back fighting and scored a touchdown within a few minutes after a 15-yard pass and run had placed the ball in scoring distance. The two teams played on an even basis thereafter. Granfield made seven first downs and the Lions recorded eight.

The Lions looked slightly stronger than in the opening game last Friday, but today's contest was marred by fumbles of the Vernon backs.

The lineups:

'Rural Racketeers' Kill Roadhouse Proprietor

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 21. (UP)—"Rural Racketeers," who last night murdered John Shackelford 23, of Dixon, Mo., in a raid on Charlie Jones' roadhouse, were sought tonight in a great manhunt in which officers of Pulaski and Maries counties participated.

A shot through the door of the roadhouse last night gave notice that the bandits arrived and immediately after the shot, two men ran in through different entrances. Another waited in an automobile outside.

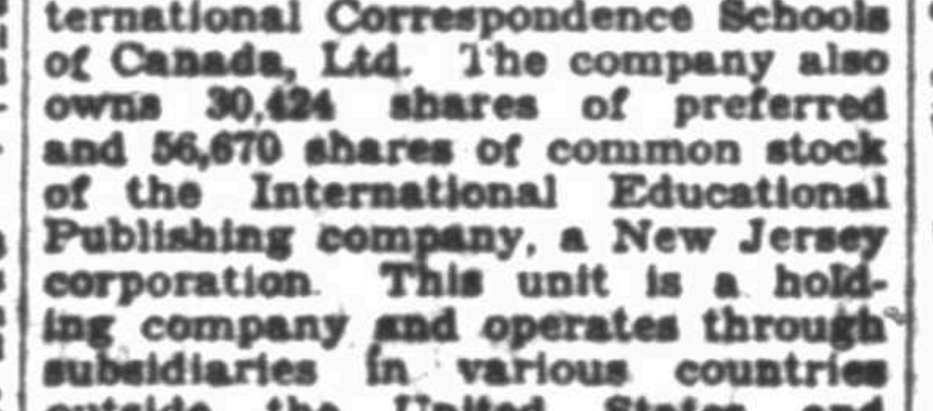

Horse and Buggy Theft Reported in Missouri

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Sept. 21. (UP)—The first horse and buggy theft that has occurred in this section of Missouri in years, was recorded today with the report of Molly Lillard, negress, that the horse she left standing at a pasture gate was stolen.

SENSATIONAL MARE

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 21. (AP)—Though J. W. Murr, owner, says the "old gray mare is not what she used to be," the notable animal was brought into play by Capt. Henry Murr, of the Crooked Hollow polo team in a matched game here, in which four of the mare's colts were also played, and led the flock of wiry ponies through a hard fought contest. The old gray mare has been a sensation in West Texas polo circles, and has been played in many contests. She knows the game and apparently loves it.

Junior College Indians Open Grid Schedule Today With Electra High

Baggett Produces Hard-Fighting Eleven in Short Period; Many Husky Men Out for Team

Going into the opening game of the season and the first contest under the tutelage of Coach E. A. Baggett the Junior college Indians engage the Electra Tigers Saturday afternoon on the Tigers' home field.

The Indian eleven this year is probably the hardest fighting aggregation that has ever been produced by the Junior college. The line is composed of husky men while a number of fast backs give promise of a strong offense with plenty of reserve material in both sections.

The squad is in excellent condition considering that it has been in training for only two weeks. The two weeks of hard work that Baggett has given his men almost fits them for a mid-season game.

Edmondson Captain

Ox Edmondson, the best tackle on the team last year, leads the Indians, while the greater portion of the remaining part of the line is made up of last year's high school stars.

Castleberry, halfback, and Hutto and Black, linemen, who were with Baggett's team at Vernon high last year, are three of the most promising additions to the junior college squad. So far Jimmy Harvey, fighting little quarterback from high school, seems reasonably sure of running despite the handicap of his small size.

Former High School Men

Golding and Stewart start their 36-hole championship match this morning at 10 o'clock, and will play the second 18 holes in the afternoon, starting at 2:30.

Nolan, Mayfield Win

L. P. Nolan and J. L. Mayfield meet in the finals today of the first yesterday. Nolan defeated F. L. LeBus 4 and 3 and Mayfield eliminated J. D. Bright, 2 up, in semi-final play. LeBus won his quarter-final match from Budley Raines by default; Nolan defeated Bud Seevers, 4 and 3; Mayfield put out F. P. Jamieson, 4 and 3, and Bright beat R. E. Alexander, 3 and 2.

Jim Jennings and E. F. Granberry survive to the finals of the second flight, played today as are all finals. Granberry defeated Walter Sikes, 2 and 1, and Jennings went into the finals on a default by T. J. Waggoner Jr.

Jennings defeated L. S. Walker, 3 and 2; Waggoner defeated John F. O'Donohue, 5 and 4; Sikes was extended 1 up by Jack Parr, and Granberry eliminated Bob Lipscomb, 2 and 1 in quarter-final play.

Stanley McGregor defeated J. B. Tesserand, 1 up and Bill Parker beat A. I. Brainard, 4 and 3 in semi-finals of the second flight consolation. In the quarter-finals, McGregor defeated Gene Howe by default; Tesserand outscored J. E. LeBus, 1 up; Brainard beat R. R. Fisk, 3 and 2, and Parker won on default from Sam Vaughn.

W. H. Street and George Exell were both extended to advance to finals in the third flight. Street to feated Tom Elliott, 1 up and Exell was victor over E. A. McKelvie, 1 up at the twenty-first hole.

Present Trophies Today

In the quarter-final round, Elliott defeated Frank Parsons, 2 and 1; Street advanced with C. O'Hara's default; Exell outscored Lee Henry, 2 and 1, and McKelvie defeated F. E. Hudson, 5 and 3.

A putting contest and "evening full of entertainment" in the clubhouse last night marked the end of social affairs of the tournament.

Trophies to winners and runners-ups and tournament medalists are to be presented this afternoon following play, as the final gesture of the event, pronounced by all participants a most successful affair in every respect.

Archer City and Graham Tie 12-12

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Sept. 21.—Archer City and Graham battled to a 12 to 12 deadlock today in the opening game of the season for both teams before crowds at the Young county fair. Brewster, Graham tackle, scored one touchdown when he grabbed a fumble and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown, while the Archer City captain and right end duplicated the feat on a Graham fumble when he sprinted 70 yards to cross the goal line. The game was well played with the exception of frequent fumbling on the part of both teams.

Record Crowds Seen For Breckenridge Game

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Sept. 21.—Jake Sanderfer Jr., former Simmons university student and M. E. Daniel, former T. C. U. student and at one time all-southwestern football player, started selling tickets Thursday for the big interconference clash between the Horned Frogs and the Cowboys to be played on the local high school field Oct. 6.

These two men have been greatly instrumental in securing the game for Breckenridge between their two rival schools.

Nearly a 1,000 tickets were sold on the opening day, according to Sanderfer. As he sees it now, 7,000 persons will be here for that game. Some 2,000 have already been sold to out of town fans. Almost that many will be taken by students of the two institutions, and great many more will be be bought by local fans. Seats will be available until the day of the game, Mr. Sanderfer said.

'SHERMAN DAY' OBSERVED HERE

Visitors Honored in Trip to Wichita Falls

Friday was "Sherman" day in Wichita Falls.

Twenty-one business men of the little Texas industrial city arrived by automobile at 10 o'clock in the morning, visited friends, were honored by a special radio program being broadcast for them from KGKO, attended a luncheon of the business council of the chamber of commerce, and finally went for a ride around the city and a tour of the industrial plants. They left for their homes late in the afternoon.

Radio Program

The radio program was put on extemporaneously while the visitors were seated in the studios from 11:30 to noon. The Shermanites were taken in as part of the program. Mayor Will Leslie, Shan Cunningham and Dr. A. W. King, all of Sherman, each made brief addresses. Mrs. John Cammack sang and was accompanied by Mrs. Pauline Slaughter. R. E. Shepherd, former mayor of Wichita Falls, sang several numbers; Zack and Glen, permanent artists of the station, gave a few numbers, and Jack Ogle, harmonica expert, gave a novelty demonstration.

After the broadcast period the party went to the meeting of the business council in the Kemp hotel.

Judge R. M. Carter of Sherman urged greater co-operation among counties of the Red River valley, and Mayor Leslie expressed the good will of his city to Wichitans Lee Simmons, manager of the Sherman chamber of commerce, spoke on the necessity of farm diversification to the point where the farmer may practically receive a check a week for his products.

Welcomed by Lee

Dr. Q. B. Lee, vice president of the chamber, welcomed the visitors, and Ralph DeShong told of the recent trip by Wichitans to Sherman.

Sherman visitors included: Mayor Will Leslie, Charles Estill, J. D Ballard, James Fant, G. H. Wilcox, Fred Varner, Carl Nell, Lee Simmons, R. M. Carter, Maurice Goldstein, W. W. Simpson, G. A. Blue, Tom Hobson, Barlow Roberts, Cliff Douglas, L. A. Day, W. P. King, Shan Cunningham, R. C. Hughes, W. C. Shearer and J. T. Tong.

Hubert Harrison, manager of the Wichita Falls chamber, announced that the Simmons university-S. M. U. football game will be held here October 13, and that the Iowa Park community fair will be held October 4, 5 and 6. He also read an appeal from the United States chamber of commerce to Wichitans for funds for the Red Cross for storm aid.

Whitt Sentenced To Five-Year Term

Jeff Whitt was in the Wichita county jail Friday night awaiting transfer to the penitentiary following a sentence of five years imprisonment imposed upon him by Judge P. A. Martin in 89th district court after he had plead guilty to a charge of robbery with firearms Friday morning.

Whitt, who twice escaped from the county jail, was charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the theft of an automobile belonging to L. S. Hendrick after Whitt and seven others had broken from the county jail. Hendrick was forced to accompany the jailbreakers into Oklahoma, where he was left tied to a tree as they continued in his automobile.

Whitt was recaptured in Arkansas following both escapes.

Columnist Confers With Herbert Hoover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (US)—Arthur Brisbane, editor of the Hearst newspapers, conferred with Herbert Hoover at the Republican presidential nominee's headquarters here today.

"I found Mr. Hoover in very good cheer," said the columnist as he left.

garded by some Democratic leaders as a lost Democratic province, but more to the liberal East which listened in on the radio.

It is said that Governor Smith selected Oklahoma City as the spot for the speech because of the dramatic effect it would have on the rest of the country in being delivered there.

Although the governor said that his speech was the last he expected to make on the subject of his religion there is a suspicion among the correspondents on the special train that it may be heard in the East in the waning days of the campaign.

Oklahoma has so many cross-currents in politics that candid political leaders in the state admit that they do not know what is going to happen on Nov. 6. Some Republican leaders say that now Smith will capture the state and some Democratic leaders say that the outlook is hopeless.

It presents a much-mussed up situation. Every Democratic daily in the state is opposing Smith, while the Tulsa World, the largest and most influential Republican paper in the state, published by Eugene Lorton, is ardently supporting Smith.

At the same time the Democratic machine is going full-steam ahead. It is forcing the Democratic leaders to sign on the dotted line for the Smith-Robinson ticket.

One of the last to come into line was Governor Henry S. Johnston, who last night took the platform and openly avowed his support for Smith. And Johnson, so everybody in Oklahoma City will tell you, was elected by the ku klux klan.

Oklahoma City turned out in force to greet the New York governor but whether it was from curiosity or conviction no one can say. Guthrie, the first capital, gave the governor a polite hand, so did Perry, the home of Governor Johnston, but strangely enough when the Democratic candidate got over the state line into Kansas, he was met by cheering throngs and brass bands playing the "Sidewalks of New York." And that is something else the political experts on the train are trying to figure out.

Republican Leaders Under Fire in Smith Talk Come Back at Charges

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (UP)—Prominent Republicans, under fire in Governor Smith's Oklahoma City "intolerance" speech last night gave answer here today to his charges.

First, Col. Horace A. Mann, in charge of the Republican national committee's southern section, suggested indirectly that Smith and his running mate, Senator Robinson "while denouncing campaign misrepresentations and religious agitation in the campaign" were themselves using these weauons as campaign assets.

Second, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, whose recent Springfield, Ohio speech to ministers drew a Smith broadside last night, declared her talk had been on prohibition, not religion, and denied she had used unfair campaign methods in this address. Further, she announced she will speak again Sunday at Lorain, Ohio, on prohibition and politics.

Innuendo Charged

Third, Chairman Work of the national committee issued a statement suggesting that "if Governor Smith values the truth he should withdraw the reckless innuendo that the Republican national committee engages in religious propaganda."

Mann, through the Republican national committee issued a statement, disavowing charges that his office had directed a woman to an anti-Catholic paper here when she sought campaign material.

"Governor Smith," said Col. Mann's statement, "stated in his speech last night that an inquirer for literature attacking Governor Smith because of his religion was directed by the head of the Republican national committee to the office of an anti-Catholic periodical in Washington. Senator Robinson, his running mate, in a speech the same night at Owenboro, Ky., stated that I conducted a seeker after such material to a source where it could be obtained.

"I have already denounced this story as a falsehood in the columns of the paper which printed it 10 days ago. I repeat this denunciation. The truth is that this paper, or the Tammany national organization, sent a female detective to my office to procure some evidence along this line. Mis-stating her identity, she called three times and was told that we had no such literature and did not know where it could be obtained. The fourth time she asked a clerk at these headquarters to look up for her the address of a publication she named, in the telephone book, which as a courtesy he did for her. In other words, this was as attempted frame up through a detective which failed because there was nothing here for her to find, and the flimsy story which I have publicly denounced was the result."

War Vets' Minstrel Wins Approval Of Audience at Auditorium

A superior brand of talent was displayed by performers on the program of the minstrel and vaudeville given Friday evening at the Memorial auditorium under the auspices of the David McCaleb camp of the United Spanish War veterans. The show was directed by Alec B. Ross and George Hodgins with music by the Panhandle Refinery band under the leadership of Paul Seeds.

Herman Munden in his cyclist skit showed more than amateur talent, both as trick cyclist and comedian. Other vaudeville numbers to receive spontaneous applause were the Crowson Kiddies' song and dance act; the "Varsity Drag" by Misses Helen Peters and Virginia Hampson of the Knickerbocker School of Arts, accompanied by the Gordon Shay orchestra; Betsy Ross in an acrobatic dance; Marjorie Fay Honesschiedt with a song and dance specialty; Misses Eleanor Pitman and Juanita Burgess, with a vagabond dance act, and the Bluebonnet Harmony Girls' old-fashioned melodies.

With J. Wilkie Talbert, interlocutor, the minstrel show "went over big," special numbers in the skit being as follows: Song, "My Mammy," by Walter Penney; George Hodgins and Joe Marlow giving dances accompanied by the Shaw orchestra; song, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," by Ernest Reeves; flag dance by Miss Juanita Burgess; song, "I Don't Care," by Joe Marlow; banjo solo, member of Shay's orchestra; song, "Chloe," by Guy Hawkins; song, "The Sidewalks of New York," by Walter Penney. Veterans of the Spanish-American war surrounded the minstrel, and sat on the stage during the show.

The group filling the minstrel semicircle was made up of the following: R. E. Shepherd, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, W. H. Carson, Ernest Reeves, Glen Groves, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, Beelor Peasley, C. W. Gray, Paul von Allman and Edward McDougal.
