Miners Escape Flooded Pit

Rain-Swollen Pond Underground Trap

By JERRY GOULD
United Press Staff Correspondent

SHARPIES, W. Va. (UP)—Twenty-four miners trapped more than 6,000 feet underground when a rain-swollen pond flooded the pit were freed today after waiting nearly 17 hours for rescue crews to reach them.

The men, all mine veterans, merely waited out their entrapment. The Boone Coal Corp., operators of the mine, said all appeared unharmed.

Water from the pond broke through the ground into the tunnel at 1 p.m. and flooded the only exit way for the men.

"Everybody behaved well," said foreman Robert Turner, who was among those trapped. "No one was really scared."

Rescue crews worked through the night to free the entombed men, who had barricaded themselves in a section of the mine above the flooded area. The first of the trapped workers reached the surface about 4:30 a.m.

In High Spirits

The rescue was completed at 5:50 a.m. when Turner and two other foremen, who had remained behind until their men were safe, came out of the pit. The mine tunnels into a mountain about 18 miles from Logan in southwestern West Virginia.

The men were in high spirits despite their ordeal. Willie White, who has spent 34 of his 47 years in the mines, chuckled, "I kept them alive."

"I told jokes from start to finish," he said. "I always believed we would get out. There wasn't a bit of doubt in my mind."

Gus Phillips Jr., 42, who has worked in the mine for 26 years, was working his first day inside the mine this week.

"I first knew something had happened when the lights flickered," he said. "Then the water came."

Phillips said he tried to find a way out without success and then "just sat around."

"I couldn't sleep," he said. "You think of many other things at a time like that. Finally someone pounded on the barricade and broke through with a small hole. I heard a voice saying, 'That you Gus?' That's all I needed, I must have run a quarter of a mile to tell the others that help had come."

"Waited for Help"

Turner said he and his fellow foreman, Roy Castle, had spent the early hours of their entrapment seeking an exit through a section of the mine which has not been worked since the early 1930s.

"At one time I was within 500 feet of the entrance but I was on the wrong side and couldn't make the passageway," he said. "I returned to the men and we decided to make ourselves comfortable. We decided there was no use to panic. We just turned out our lights and waited for help."

Peruvians Praise Nixon's Courage

By DAVID F. BELNAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

LIMA, Peru (UP)—Embarrassed Peruvians today praised the personal courage of U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon who braved a Communist-led mob which stoned him, threw garbage, spat on him and desecrated the American flag.

Nixon was leaving today for Quito, Ecuador, on the next lap of his South American tour. But he made it clear he did not blame Peruvians as a whole or the student body od San Marcos University—only Communist ringleaders—for Thursday's violence.

It was disclosed that U.S. Ambassador Theodore Achilles had encouraged Nixon to visit the university despite the threats of violence. Nixon's advisers had urged him to remain away and he actually cancelled his plans until Achilles convinced him the Peruvians would consider him cowardly if he failed to show up.

The fact he did visit the university and the fact he stood up to the mob and demanded to talk with its leaders had a profound effect on many Peruvians. Nixon himself said the reds had suffered a "great defeat as time will tell."

Flag Ripped

The U.S. embassy formally protested the act of one group of students who ripped an American flag from a wreath Nixon had placed at the foot of a monument to Jose San Martin who helped liberate South America from Spanish rule.

An identical flag fashioned of flowers was later replaced on the tomb by order of the Peruvian Foreign Ministry. Police patrolled the plaza to prevent a repetition of the incident.

The Peruvian embassy in Washington apologized officially to the State Department and it was believed the incident, embarrassing as it was to Peru, would not mar the traditionally solid U.S.-Peruvian relations.

Lima's four morning newspapers—government and opposition alike—joined today in denouncing the leftist groups which provoked the assault. They called for punishment of the ring-leaders and said the action was a disgrace for Peru and a scandal that must be wipel out.

Communique Condemns Act

The students federation of San Marcos University issued a communique condemning the violence and rejecting claims that the students themselves were instigating the "barbaric acts."

The federation said it did pass a resolution May 7 declaring Nixon persona non grata (unwel-

Troops May Be Needed Again, Says Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—National Guardsmen "might be needed again next fall" to prevent Negroes from entering Central High School, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Thursday.

Faubus issued the warning when asked what he thought of President Eisenhower's order for the withdrawal of all Guardsmen from the integrated school on May 29 — the day after classes end for the summer.

Faubus, who is running for a third term this year, said state and local governments "never have been and are not now charged with enforcing federal laws or orders."

"What I would suggest," Faubus said, "is that we call a special session of the Legislature to enact anti-integration laws."

The President expressed hope Thursday that local officials would "assume their full responsibility and duty for seeing that the orders of the Federal Court are not obstructed" and that it will not be necessary to return the troops to the school next September.

Faubus' reply was, "I hope that never again will any national administration embark on such an unwise and illegal invasion of states rights."

Phillips Strike May Spread, Says Official

BORGER, Tex. (UP) — Union officials said a strike at one Phillips Petroleum plant near Borger will spread to another plant if an agreement is not reached by 4 p.m. today.

Some 321 striking employes at the Phillips Plains Butadiene plant have been picketing for eight days.

Burl Curtwright, president of Local 351 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said the strikers will be joined by 350 union men at the company's Philblack carbon plant if negotiations fail today.

A federal mediator entered the scene Thursday and talks were to continue today.

Continued Rain In Forecast For Area

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes skipped over West Texas and the Panhandle Thursday night and freakish winds disrupted power and blacked out a hundred cities an towns.

The power failure was caused when winds at West Texas Utilities Co.'s Paint Creek plant blew a telephone line into 138,000-volt power lines.

The blacked out area was roughly 300 miles long and 240 miles wide. It included Abilene and San Angelo, cities of about 75,000 persons each, and Alpine, Big Lake, Eden, Big Spring, Ozona, Big Lake and McCamey.

Utilities officials called it the worst power failure in 25 years. Hospitals switched on emergency power supplies to continue surgery cases. Theaters were emptied. Police, newspaper, and radio and television switchboards were swamped by calls from residents who suddenly found themselves in total darkness.

Tornado Hits Dam

The power failure came after a tornado skipped along the dam at Stamford Lake. Other tornadoes and funnel clouds were sighted in a small area near Chillicothe, about 60 miles northwest of Wichita Falls.

Hail and thunderstorms struck the South Central Texas area today and large hail was reported just west of the Austin city limits. A drizzle fell in the Panhandle and upper South Plains.

Overnight rains measured two inches at Lake Kemp near Wichita Falls and 1.70 at Paducah.

Officials said it was not a tornado but freakish winds that blew the telephone line into transmission lines at Paint Creek, north of Haskell which is about 50 miles north of Abilene. Power was out from 8:35 until 9:24 p.m. over most of the area.

High Winds Reported

The winds at Paint Creek were estimated in excess of 50 miles per hour. Two Stamford policemen moments before reported sighting a tornado funnel.

Surgeons at St. John's Catholic hospital at San Angelo were in the midst of an operation when the power went off. The lights flickered out but an emergency power supply was turned on and the doctors continued.

The Grand Ole Opry, a travelling hillbilly troup from Nashville, Tenn., was putting on a show at the San Angelo Municipal Auditorium when the lights went out. Some two thousand persons milled around outside the auditorium and some went home. The show finished later after power was restored.

The U.S. Weather Bureau today said thunderstorms were increasing in the central sections of the state, generally from the Hill Country west of Austin to the Bryan area.

Continued rain was forecast for the Pampa area today and skies

Work Planned On 'Space Agency'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Space Committee plans to hold a closed meeting next Tuesday to begin drafting a space agency bill after four weeks of hearings. House committee members have urged a measure setting up a civilian agency stronger than the one proposed by the President.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Thursday any new civilian agency should handle only non-military aspects of space exploration. He told a news conference the Defense Department must keep control of all military space projects.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) predicted today his House Armed Services Committee will approve next week its own version of the President's defense reorganization plan. He said the House will accept it.

Vinson, who has bitterly opposed features of the Eisenhower proposal, declined to forecast what the committee bill will be like. But other committee sources said it will have little in common with the President's plan.

Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.), Chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, and other champions of the Eisenhower plan have promised a stiff fight on the Senate floor.

The Senate Rackets Committee today took up some "special arrangements" made for labor union officials to buy stock in shopping center developments in several states. A committee spokesman said officials of various unions, including the Teamsters in Philadelphia, had purchased "considerable amounts" of stock in the Food Fair grocery company and Food Fair properties.

The spokesman said one man involved in the buying was Ben Lapensohn, a former Philadelphia Teamster official who has been investigated by the committee but is now out of its legal reach in Bermuda.

Both the Senate and the House were in recess today until Monday.

Other congressional news:

Postal: House-Senate conferees agreed to Senate-approved hikes in basic second class mail rates, but postponed the effective date until next Jan. 1 to "give people a chance to get ready for it." The conferees endorsed three annual 10 per cent hikes in second class reading matter and three annual 20 per cent boasts in rates on advertising matter.

Foreign Aid: The House Rules Committee cleared the way for House action on a proposed $3,600,000,000 bill to provide military, economic and technical assistance to the free world during 1959. The committee granted a rule which allows six hours of general debate on the bill, scheduled to be taken up in the House next week.

Solon Is Faced With Indictment

WASHINGTON (UP)— His indictment by a federal grand jury left Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.) unscathed today as far as his membership in the House is concerned.

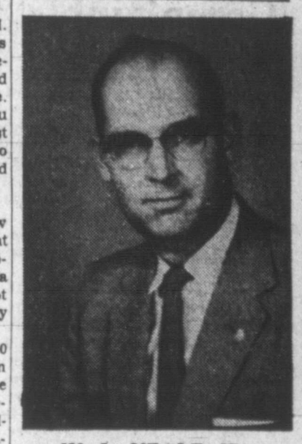

Not only does Powell retain all his congressional prerogatives and pay, but on the basis of past performance, other members will act as if they don't even know he's in trouble.

Powell was charged in New York Thursday with income tax evasion. This is the kind of charge which could, if he is convicted, send him to jail. Even then his House membership would not be denied him.

He could resign. Or he could, like Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass.) before him, serve his prison time while holding his seat. Lane, jailed for tax evasion in 1956, not only continued to serve but ran for another term and was re-elected. His official status in the House remains unimpaired.

The House takes a lenient view of the troubles of its members.

Taylor Gets Sousa Award In Concert

Following the Harvester rendition of "Badinage for Brasses" in the John Philip Sousa Award Concert Thursday, Band-man Kenneth Taylor rose to receive the John Philip Sousa Award. Then the band, with W. R. Tregoe in the lead, played "Sousa's "The Thunderer March."

Three bands made their appearances on the stage of Pampa Junior High School to play the annual award concert and to show their parents and neighbors what they had learned in school. The concert began with the playing of the All City Elementary Band, formed from the City's elementary groups by Charles Meech. The Junior High School Band followed, under the direction of Joe DiCosimo. W. R. Tregoe's Harvester Band, Interscholastic League Sweepstakes winner, played six numbers and paused for the John Philip Sousa Award. Band Director Tregoe presented the certificate to Kenneth Taylor for his outstanding achievement and interest during the three years he has played with the band.

Among the Harvester numbers, Paul Creston's "Celebration Overture Op. 61" stood out as a complex and controlled number. With a rhythm that was both oriental and very American, the piece climbed and pulsated with two forces mingling dramatically in the end.

"Badinage for Brasses" by Harold Waters had a festive air that was Latin and original.

Gustave Holst's "March for the Firt Suite" was a happy march with the rhythm of a river which burst into high pitch with the brass for a fighting, marching spirit

Shirley Hankhouse, on the clarinet, played the main part of "Concertino" by C. M. von Weber and played with great perception.

DiCosimo's Junior High School Band made its "biggest splash" with the unprogrammed "Gypsy Baron." The piece by Harold Walters had all the romance and color of a gypsy circus, with a galloping rhythm that was soft and strong and smashing. Another outstanding number was Deniston's "Walls of Jericho" with a recurring cadence of drums and bugles moving swiftly against somber notes.

M. Whitney's "Thendara" was the play of many instruments.

The All City Elementary Band contributed a lively interpretarion of Herfurth's "Polka Dot Polka" which was in sharp contrast to the more conventional "Graduation Waltz." For their last number, the group did the cheerful "Liberty March."

Woman Solon's Hubby Just Doesn't Like Her Assistant

By RICHARD A. HILL
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLEE, Minn. (UP) — Rep. Coya Knutson's husband said today he did not object to her political career, only to her administrative assistant.

"I wouldn't mind her staying in Washington if only she'll get rid of that Bill Kjeldahl," Andrew Knutson said. "I might even go to Washington, who knows?

"But," he added after a thoughtful moment, "I don't think I'd like it there."

Knutson said he has heard nothing from his wife since he issued a public request to her Wednesday not to run for a third term from Minnesota's 9th District, a farming community in the northwest quarter of the state. He said he would like to see her more often.

Says Kjeldahl Unpopular

"She was home for 10 or 15 minutes last Christmas—just long enough to stick her head in the door and leave," he said.

But he said he would work for her re-election, as he has in the past, "if she will just fire Kjeldahl."

Knutson said Kjeldahl threatened political office workers with the loss of their jobs, and that he was unpopular in the district.

"She (Mrs. Knutson) is losing votes by keeping him on the staff," he said.

He said he has written to his wife at Washington before, asking her to "get rid of Kjeldahl," but that his plea was not heeded.

Mrs. Knutson was reared a Republican and remained in the GOP until her marriage in 1940, "until I changed her into a Democrat," he said.

Never Thought of Fuss

He doubted that he could persuade her to abandon that interest now and content herself with being a housewife. And he said he was astonished by the interest his request had aroused.

By and large the attitude is that it's up to the voters in each congressional district to select their representative. The House is not inclined to interfere with their judgement.

Powell's position in the House at the moment is probably in greater jeopardy on political than legal grounds. Democratic leaders in his district are reported hoping to dump him, mostly because he bolted the party in 1956 and supported reelection of President Eisenhower.

Powell was accused specifically of preparing a fraudulent income tax return for his wife, pianist Hazel Scott, for 1951. Her return listed her income as $1,815 when it should have been $9,181.

He also was charged with evading taxes on a joint return with his wife in 1952 by listing joint net income as $5,252 when it actually was $8,952.

Observers in Lima said the mob action was Communist-inspired, but that the anti-American feeling displayed went far deeper than that. The Peruvian economy has been declining and businessmen blame this on high U.S. tariffs against Peruvian lead and zinc, "dumping" of U.S. surplus commodities like cotton, and quotas on imports from South America.

Two-Count Complaint Filed Here

Edward L. Blair, who lives three miles south of Pampa, was charged in District Attorney Bill Waters' office this morning in a two-count complaint with (1) Attempting to fondle a child under 14 years of age and (2) Indecent exposure to a child under 16 years of age.

The man was being held in county jail and no bond had been set at press time.

The two girls, ages eight and 14, are the two daughters of Blair. It was the eight - year - old who brought the happenings to light when she reported her father to the Welfare office. Nina Spoonmore, Director of the welfare office, then filed the complaints in Waters' office. A warrant was served on Blair yesterday and he was put in the county jail.

Waters said that he would talk with Blair in his office sometime this morning to find out a few more facts about the case.

Blair's wife, who is expecting another baby, and two children are in the care of the Gray County Welfare office.

Flashing a slide of Napoleon's Tomb on the screen, Mrs. Florence McMurtry took the Pampa Evening Lions Club on a quick trip of Europe, returning them to their Thursday meeting at Poole's Steak House via the Statue of Liberty.

In his introduction, Boss Lion D. V. Biggers said that Mrs. McMurtry, who is a school nurse in the White Deer-Skellytown school system, went to the International Congress of Nurses in Italy last summer and took along a camera.

Mrs. McMurtry showed slides of sights of Paris, Rome, Switzerland, Germany, Ireland and England.

Many pictures were taken in the rain or through bus windows but still showed up well.

Showing the slide of Napoleon's Tomb with a hospital in the back, Mrs. McMurtry remarked that most of the hospitals in Europe are over 600 years old. She showed slides of Venice where all the houses are built up out of the water and the most practical means of transportation is water taxi or gondola. Surprisingly, she said, there were no mesquitoes.

Vernon Brown, who is handling the Club's gum machine program, was a guest of the club and said that he was ready to expand their program, having the machines available.

Billy Graham In Lecture On Sex, Delinquency

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) —Billy Graham says the young people of today "are more familiar with Jayne Mansfield's statistics than they are with the First Commandment."

The 39-year-old evangelist lectured on sex and delinquency Thursday night before a predominantly teen-age audience of 18,100 at the Cow Palace.

Service Station Is Burglarized

The Simmons Service Station, 800 E. Frederic, was broken into sometime last night and three pocket knives, a pair of sun glasses and a few bars of candy were the only things taken, according to Chief of Police Jim Conner.

Entrance to the station was gained when the burglar broke out a window in the front door with a coke bottle.

Two Suits Filed Here

Two suits were filed in District Clerk Helen Sprinkle's office this morning.

F. E. Barnes of Pampa is suing Marvin Lee Cooper, also of Pampa, for $50,000, due to injuries received when Cooper ran into Barnes with his car.

In the suit, Barnes states he was walking across the intersection of Frederic and Wills in a proper manner where pedestrains are supposed to walk when Cooper, driving his car in a "reckless manner," hit him causing injury to his back and legs.

Truitt Steward has filed a suit against Fidelity and Casulty Life Insurance Company of New York for $35 a week for 401 consective weeks.

In his suit, Stewart claims he was employed by Pona Engineers Incorporated and was doing contracting work in Gray County. He says he was cutting out a steam line, holding a wench line, when it came in contact with a high voltage wire. His right foot, back and hips and body generaly were burned and scarred.

Physically Handicapped Are Doing Okay In Recession

WASHINGTON (UP) — Blindblind as an aftermath of wartime service on Okinawa, said he classes President Eisenhower among the physically handicapped. He said the President falls into the "large group of cardiac patients" because of his 1955 heart attack.

Maas, a nattily dressed man who will be 60 next week, said 2,600,000 handicapped persons have been placed in jobs since his committee was created in 1947.

Another two million need jobs and their number increases by 275,000 a year, he said.

The general navigates around his seventh-floor office in the Labor Department with the aid of cellophane tape and a collapsible cane. Despite his blindness he knows his office door by tape on the doorknob. Tape on his desk gives him another landmark.

Chances Slim For Getting Panda In US

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chances of any American zoo importing a rare giant panda from Communist China looked dim today although the bidding for the Teddy Bear-like animal was up to 27,500.

To import a panda would be breaking the U.S. embargo on all trade wth Red China. A State Department spokesman said "I would be surprised" if the ban were relaxed to let the zoos buy one of the white-faced creatures.

City commissioners at St. Paul, Minn., sent a formal request to the State Department Wednesday to make an exception so a St. Paul zoo could get a giant panda.

Theodore H. Reed, director of the National Zoological Park here, said only four giants pandas are in captivity. All are in Red China, he said, unless one has been sent to Moscow. The animal is a native of Tibet. One is on sale in Peiping now to the highest bidder.

F.J. Zeehandelaar of New York, an agent trying to sell the panda, said he has at least five offers for the animal, including a bid of $27,500 from Stanley Hubbard, owner of radio station KSTP in St. Paul, Minn.

The Como Park Zoo in St. Paul offered $25,5 0 for the animal through a New York agent. Other institutions bidding for the panda were Chicago's Brookfield Zoo and the Bronx Zoo in New York.

Before the Communist took over the Chinese mainland Madame Chiang Kai-shek gave some giant pandas to this country. All have died and no American zoo now has one.

The general got out of a sickbed Monday to be ready to take part in the committee's big powwow today and Friday. He suffered a slight stroke Sunday morning and was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital.

"He talked himself out of there the next day," a member of his staff reported, "and complained that he had wasted two days' time."

'Kraft Theatre' Ticked Off Its 11th Anniversary Wednesday

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)— NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre" ticked off its 11th anniversary Wednesday night. As everyone knows by now, Kraft won't be celebrating any more birthdays because its sponsor has decided to drop it in September.

Laboring under its new production team, Kraft wheeled out its fourth successive quality job. It is both bewildering and saddening that the series should be heading for entombment at a time when it has been transformed into the most distinctive weekly show on television.

Its effort Wednesday was Bret Harte's "The Outcasts of Poker Flat," a piece that I don't think anyone takes seriously outside of classrooms anymore. Harte's tale of a group of sinners and a pair of innocents snowbound in a cabin is laced through with feeble humor and awkward sentimentality. Even worse, Harte just sloughed off motivation when his sinners turned angels.

Credits Actors

But it is to the credit of its crew of actors and to Phil Reisman who adapted and stretched Harte's rumpled little excursion that on TV it all seemed pretty believable.

"The Outcasts of Poker Flat," if you've somehow managed to escape it, is a story about a gambler, a petty thief and two ladies of negotiable virtue who are kicked out of a Western town. The quartet is forced to hole up in an isolated cabin with a pair of naive youngsters who are eloping Snow sets in and food runs out after the petty thief makes off with the provisions.

Sad to say, everyone dies except the young man who has gone for help. But before death sets in, the remaining trio of outcasts prove through sacrifice that they are made of good stuff after all.

What Harte was trying to tell us is that goodness can be found in most human beings and, I suppose, that true innocence can sometimes work magic transformtaions.

Reisman switched the story a little and allowed the young girl to survive as well as the boy, but it didn't disturb the character of the piece much. And I suppose it made the audience a little happier. I'm all for that.

Anyway, what amazed me about the whole gambit was that it came off. There were some strained moments — the gambler pulling an ace of spades (gasp!) out of a deck which foretold his future death, and a clumsy telling of the "Illiad" in regional dialect by the young boy to amuse his cabin mates.

Solid Performance

But overall, I would call it a clicker. George Scott, who played the gambler, reeled off one of the most solid performances I've seen on TV this season, taut, crisp and hard. Larry Hagman (who is Mary Martin's son) also chipped in a four-square chore.

One side note: Within the past week, there were two cast changes in the play. Zamah Cunningham and Barbara Lord, both scheduled to play the shady ladies, had last-minute substitutions — Ruth White and Janet Ward. Miss Lord indicated she had pulled out (the producers said she was let out) because of the immoral nature of her character.

Miss Lord, of course, was mistaken. "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" was a neatly moral little drama and Miss Lord's character after her transformation emerged as unstained as "Lassie."

The Channel Swim: CBS-TV's "Wingo", which made its debut on April 1, goes to the boneyard, after June 24. No summer replacement has been picked yet, but the latest word has Garry Moore's new one-hour evening show filling that Tuesday slot in the fall.

Louis Da Pron, choreographer on the NBC-TV "Perry Como Show" will produce and direct Como's 13-week summer replacement, "The Bob Crosby Show." Como is talking about spending his summer vacation at his new home in Jupiter, Fla.

CBS-TV's "Climax" is about 90 per cent sure to get the axe by September—that will leave "Playhouse 90" and the alternating "U.S. Steel Hour" and "Armstrong Circle Theater" as the only dramas on television.

Marv Griffin got the emcee job on "Play Your Hunch," a quiz that will bow in the morning of June 30 on CBS-TV. Producer Walt Framer of CBS-TV's "The Big Payoff" has acquired rights to the old radio show, "Can You Top This?" and will convert it into a TV vehicle.

Seniors Get Recognized Scholarships

Robert Collett and Gerald Nolty, Pampa High School seniors, will go to college on two of the most widely publicized scholarships in this country. The Camille and Henry Dreyfus scholarship, Collett's, and the Santa Fe Foundation scholarship, Nolty's, are National Merit Scholarships which will carry the boys for four years at any accredited college.

The Camille and Henry Dreyfus scholarship honors the two brothers who helped found the Celanese Corporation in America, England and Canada. In 1946, the late Dr. Camille Dreyfus established the scholarship in memory of his brother. Upon his death, the Company awarded the scholarship in names of both ment. Dreyfus scholarships there are 30 in all, are awarded for chemistry, chemical engineering and related sciences.

Collett has been accepted at Rice Institute and plans to be a research chemist when he gets out. At Pampa High he has taken part in varied activities, including the Harvester Band.

Nolty received his Santa Fe Scholarship for electrical engineering. His scholarship come from the Santa Fe Foundation, set up by the Santa Fe Railway Company, and is one of three offered in that field.

'Temper Pill' Fails First Critical Test

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—The pill which pharmacological science hoped would sweeten terribly tempered people has failed in its first critical test. The big question no longer is how the pill works but how people work.

The pill is a pill of the drug benacyzine which is a fairly new drug that has excited international curiosity. It seemed to take people's minds off the irritating things which often cause them to lose their tempers.

One of the first scientific investigators, who investigated its effects upon himself, said it made "unpleasant impressions" not worth the effort of bothering with them. Another scientist thought it established "a distance" between himself and reality.

From these beginnings, the investigations went to cats which, as everyone knows who knows cats, are likely to have short tempers. The experimental cats were made "neurotic" by situations of conflict and below their tops. But when they were given benactyzine, their return to normal cat behavior was impressively fast.

Thus the way was paved scientifically for tests on people. Dr. P. W. Nathan of the British Medical Research Council, took 12 London hospital patients whose hair - triggered tempers were a matter of record.

Six were given the pills daily and the other six got pills which looked the same but were chemically blank. After two or three months, those who had been taking the drug were switched to the taking the drug were switched to blank pills and those who had been taking the blanks began taking the real mcCoy.

No patient ever knew there were any blank pills involved. Indeed, all patients thought they were taking something which would help them control their tempers. This went on for a maximum period of two and a half years. Meanwhile, a carefull record of temper outbursts was kept for every patient.

The result was that all the patients controlled their tempers just as well while they were taking the blanks as while they were taking benactyzine. Tempers were controlled better than they had been when the terribly tempered were taking nothing at all for temper control, however.

Clearance Of Slums 'Necessity'

DALLAS (UP)—Slum clearance is a "necessity," believes Life magazine publisher Andrew J. Heiskell.

In an address to an urban renewal conference group, he said slum clearance acts as a tonic to areas that do not want to wither on the vine.

The publisher was among the speakers Tuesday at a clinic sponsored by the American Council To Improve Our Neighborhoods.

Heiskell said he was not interested in becoming involved in a "local political debate over urban renewal." He made the statement in reference to Dallas Rep. Bruce Alger's strong stand against an urban renewal project for Dallas.

On The Business Scene

By UNITED PRESS

New claims for unemployment benefits edged down last week for the second successive week, according to a Wall Street Journal survey. The poll of 12 industrial states showed initial claims for jobless pay declined to 263,503 last week from 284,624 the preceding week.

Steel scrap prices advanced $1 a ton on two industrial grades in the Chicago area in the first upturn since February. However, official prices still could turn downward because a lot of scrap is still overhanging the market.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. relighted two steel-making furnaces at its Lackawanna, N.Y., plant. It was the first increase in the number of furnaces in operation in the Buffalo area since last August.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You ran a letter from a lady who found a box of love-letters in the trunk of her husband's car. They were from a married woman and told everything. The lady who found them asked you if she should turn the letters over to the husband of tis married woman. You told her not to. I pray every night that she will take your advice because I am that woman. I have three children who could be hurt, and he has two. If this woman who found my letters will destroy the letters, without telling my husband I promise never to see her husband again.

Asking For Another Chance

DEAR ABBY: Please ask that woman who found the box of love letters in her husband's car how much she will take for them. I am sure this concerns me.

WILLING TO BUY

DEAR ABBY: If that wife who found the love letters to her husband will contact me, I can straighten out a few things for her. I also have a lot of letters from HER husband begging me to let him divorce her so he can marry me, but I wouldn't let him break up his home or mine. So if she wants to break up MY home after I tried to protect HERS, let her go ahead and show my husband those letters.

NO HOME WRECKER

DEAR ABBY: Please inform that lady who found my letters to her husband that if she turns them over to my husband it won't do her any good because I already have confessed everything and he has forgiven me. Thanks loads.

FORGIVEN

DEAR ABBY: Please give your opinion of a mother who has three small children (ages 6, 9 and 12) who lays in bed all morning sleeping and lets the children get their own breakfast and clean up the kitchen. Then she brags to all her friends how independent her children are and makes everyone else feel like dopes because they get up and do the things for their children that mothers are supposed to do.

CURIOUS

Dear Curious: No one can tell another what she SHOULD do for her children. Maybe this is her way of teaching her children to do for themselves. What's one man's medicine is another man's poison.

DEAR ABBY: I am going steady with a very nice boy. But there are a few things I wish he would do. First of all he wears a silk scarf around his neck that went out with high button shoes. His hair cut looks like his mother put the bowl on his head and cut around it. How can I tell him these things without hurting his feelings?

HIS GIRL

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Pat, aged 15, is exchange editor of her school magazine. After a staff meeting one afternoon, the editor-in-chief, one of the most attractive males in the senior class, offered to drive her home. She was so overwhelmed she barely managed to say yes.

He didn't seem to mind her being overwhelmed. After braking before her house, he went right on telling her about his ideas for the June issue. She was saying, "Oh, I think that's just wonderful!" when an explosion of giggles came from behind the hedge.

The next moment her little brother Bud and his friend Skinny burst out of it yelling, "Ain't love too, too divine?" Then with skrieks of mirth, they dashed for the rear of the house.

To her mother Pat stormed furiously, "I never was so humiliated in my life! Do I have to go on living forever in the same house with that brat of yours?"

After a moment her mother said, "I'm sorry Bud was so rude and I'll certainly ask Dad to speak to him about it. However, you're not going to live with him forever, you know. One of these days soon you'll have your own home. You'll have babies of your own and be able to teach them the things Dad and I haven't been able to get over to Bud."

This reassurance of coming independence quieted Pat's excitement.

The adolescent finds fault with the way we train his younger brothers and sisters just as he finds fault with the way we vote, set the table or talk to his teachers. Actually, his criticism of our younger children is crisicism of us.

If we're brave enough to recognize this, we don't get caught in futile, angry defenses of the younger children. Instead, we can deal directly with the fear behind nearly all adolescent criticism of us—the teen-ager's ever present fear that he will not be able to break away from us and manage his own independence. Like Pat's mother we can express faith that he will.

It is hard to be an adolescent. On the one hand, you desperately want independence of your parents. On the other, you're scared to death you'll make a mess of it.

So when you're discouraged, you're apt to belittle your parents in a desperate effort to enlarge confidence in yourself.

There's No Freedom Of Religion In Russia

RELIGIOUS NEWS
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

A visit to Moscow convinced Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) that "the Russians have freedom of worship—but they don't have freedom of religion."

Hays is president of the Southern Baptist Convention. He and the Rev. Claren W. Cranford, president of the American Baptist Convention, flew to Moscow last month for a good will visit with Russian Baptists.

They reported their impressions in separate interviews in Washington this week. Hays will give a formal report to the Southern Baptist Convention, which meets in Houston May 20-23.

They found, as have other visitors to the Soviet Anion, that worship service in Russian churches are heavily attended. At an early Sunday service at Moscow's First Baptist Church, for example, every one of the 1,400 seats was filled long before the opening hymn, and more than 600 worshippers stood throughout the two-hour service.

But as Baptists who attach great importance to evangelism, Hays and Cranford were acutely conscious of the restrictions which the Soviet Communist government has placed on church activities.

"The reason I say that the Russians do not have freedom of religion," Hays explained, "is that they are not free to propagate the faith. The churches cannot operate Sunday schools or conduct any kind of educational programs. They are not permitted to acquire property to open new churches."

Only the government can carry on "educational functions" in Russia. And in state-operated schools, Russian children are taught that religion is an "outworn superstition." They are told that the Soviet government tolerates religious worship because it makes the old folks feel good, But that young people are expected to take a "scientific" — i.e., atheistic—view of the universe.

Soviet Communist leaders believe that this strategy will be more effective in the long run than open persecution of the churches, and that it will virtually eliminate religion from Russia within one or two more generations.

'Clean Up And Live' Is Theme

"Clean up and live! Don't give fire a place to start!"

Spring Clean-Up which is underway in Pampa and Gray County, has that important reminder as its basic theme, County Extension Agent Ralph Thomas announced.

"Fire losses on the nation's farms have reached the staggering total of about $150,000,000 a year, according to National Fire Protection Association estimates," said Thomas.

"During Spring Clean-Up it is urgent we make a concentrated attack on spots in and around farm homes and buildings were fires start.

"While we are cleaning the primises," Thomas says, "we should get rid of the rats, which are another fire hazzard."

Anticogulant bait such as warfarin, pival and fumarin are the safest and most satisfactory to use. This type of bait, mixed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, may be obtained during the campaign from the secretary Barbara Smith, in the County Agent's office in Pampa or at the Price Barber Shop in McLean.

Nehru Concedes He Is Indispensable

By CHARLES N. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PRIME Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has been compelled to concede that he is India's indispensable man.

After a week of crisis in his Congress Party, Nehru has agreed to abandon his plan to give up the prime ministry and go into semi-retireoent as India's elder statesman.

Instead, Nehru has settled for a six-weeks' vacation in an isolated valley of the Himalayan Mountains near the Tibetan frontier.

There, he plans to work on his autobiography and study the many problems which beset India and the Congress Party.

It all started back in March. Nehru then began to tell his fellow cabinet ministers that he was physically tired and mentally stale after leading his country as a benevolent dictator since it attained its independence on August 15, 1947. He is 68 years old and has been in active politics for 40 years.

Holds Several Posts

He is foreign minister and head of the department for atomic energy as well as prime minister, and he attends meetings of the parliament to answer questions direct the legislative program and make frequent speeches.

The report that Nehru wanted to retire leaked out first in a newspaper. It caused little excitement. He had said the same thing during a period of depression four years ago.

But on April 29, Nehru broke the news officialy at a meeting of Congress Party members of parliament. He said that he wanted to step out from under his heavy burden of leadership, and get relief from his day-to-day duties.

The party was thrown into panic. A series of secret party meetings followed.

Nehru became angry at first. He asked that he be permitted at least to give up leadership temporarily. But the party passed a formal resolution saying that he absolutely could not be spared. Nehru gave in.

Wanted New Life

It looks now as if what Nehru really wanted to do was to scare his party into rejuvenated activity. If so, he certainly succeeded.

The Congress Party has been suffering from too much prosperity. With 369 seats in parliament out of a total of 494, it had become complacent. There have been charges of corruption and grant. The country's financial situation is bad. And the Communist Party, which now controls one of India's 14 states, is gaining strength in others. The whole burden of responsibility has rested on Nehru, who spends nearly all of his 19 daily waking hours working.

Next week, when Nehru goes on his vacation, the party will start a series of meetings to try to tighten discipline, restore unity and regain the vigor it had in leaner days.

Recession Or Not, Burgs Are Raising 19 Children

By JOHN LEAHIGH
United Press Staff Correspondent

COLGATE, Wis. (UP) — Economic recession or not, John and Lorraine Burg are raising 19 children of school age or younger on about $85 a week.

They live in a white frame building of four bedrooms, kitchen and living room. It's far from fashionable, but every inch a home. Burg built it himself that first year of marriage before Bobby was born — Bobby's the oldest at 18.

Since then, Mrs. Burg has given birth to another 10 sons and eight daughters, including five sets of twins. Twelve are in school, the youngest is 3 weeks old.

There's also a dog—a playful pup called "Pretty," who sleeps under the porch. "She's got to stay outside," Burg ruled.

How do Burg and his wife manage?

Income supplements come from the older girls who do some babysitting in this rural Washington County neighborhood, and from Bobby who will keep his job as power mower repairman when he graduates from West Bend High School next month, Burg said.

Besides, Burg confirmed he had 20 tax deductions. He has no barber bill because of a "makeshift" barber chair in the basement where "I get them all together and give 19 haircuts once every three or four weeks."

As for clothing needs, "We've got a lot of relatives, and make the most of hand-me-downs," said Burg.

Burg has a two-acre property, which helps explain how a man working 64 night-time hours weekly at a nearby Menomonee Falls bakery can feed 19 children "in these times."

A large garden produces enough berries for Mrs. Burg to can about 500 quarts a year, enough vegetables to feed the family. Another section houses "35 to 40 hens good for two dozen eggs a day," Burg said. "We don't sell any."

Otherwise, there's meat and potatoes and milk and bread.

"Two years ago, my boss told me 'You don't pay for the bread anymore'," said Burg. So there's the daily bread, four large loaves of it. "I also bring home two gallons of milk a day," Burg said.

He buys a bushel of potatoes a week.

It Happened In John's Factory

The man said something like this, "John, you know a lot about Christianity. I'd give anything in this world if you could tell me how to be saved."

This employee asked plastics manufacturer John Pollard of Dallas a question he hardly knew how to answer. Searching his mind for the answer he picked up a small New Testament which opened at Luke 18:13, where the publican prayed "God, be merciful to me a sinner." The man prayed, was saved—and John resolved to select and mark New Testament passages that set out clearly how men are saved. He wanted to help men know Christ as Savior. The plan here outlined is the result.

Liberty Or Tyranny

"The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty, and the American people, just now, are much in want of one." So wrote Abraham Lincoln during his stormy years as president.

"We all declare for liberty, but in using the same word we do not all mean the same thing. With some the word liberty may mean for each man to do as he pleases with himself, and the product of his labor; while with others the same word may mean for some to do as they please with other men, and the product of other men's labor. Here are two, not only different but incompatible things, called by the same name — liberty. And it follows that each of the things is, by the respective parties, called by two different and incompatible names — liberty and tyranny."

This statement, prepared nearly 100 years ago, is as applicable in the main today as it was when the words were first strung together. Liberty — freedom. There is magic in those words. But what does the magic portend to you? How do you define the term liberty?

In the political arena, the word freedom (liberty) appears, as Mr. Lincoln so wisely indicated, at two incompatible positions. To some it means one thing. To others, it means an opposite thing. Thus, in the great efforts being made to reach men's minds the terms liberty or freedom are used both by those of the far right and those of the far left.

Communists, and those on the left, use the word. Anti-commnists, and those on the right, use the word. But what a world of difference is in that usage.

It must follow that since the same word is used to convey altogether different meanings, a large measure of confusion should spring up about the word. Let us seek to clarify that which is confused.

To begin with, we will not seek to differentiate between the words liberty and freedom. There is undoubtedly a difference, but for the moment we will let it pass. We will, for brevity's sake, lump these two words together, for in essence their meanings must be very close together.

What then, does freedom mean, if we strip it of its political connotations? There have been many definitions. But essentially there are two general definitions, one exclusive of any framework of reference, the other within a moral framework of reference. And either of these two definitions will guide us unerringly.
tions will guide us unerringly.

The first definition has been prepared by Dr. F. A. Harper. The sum of Dr. Harper's position is this: Liberty means freedom of choice. Where the individual is free to choose and to act out his choices, that individual is free. Where his liberty is diminished, his liberty is diminished. Where his choices are eliminated, his liberty is gone.

The second definition has been prepared by Freedom Newspapers. It defines liberty within a moral framework, as follows:

1. Fredom of choice. 2. Freedom of action. 3. The absolute necessity of the individual to accept full responsibility for his choices and his actions. As Rose Wilder Lane has put it, "Freedom means self control — no more, no less."

What is important about both of these definitions is that liberty is general term, applicable to all men everywhere at all times. Liberty is not something that can grant to certain men the right or the power for those men to do as they please with other men or with the products of other men's labor. By definition, liberty applies equally to all. And no society could be a free society, if there exists within that society a privileged class which is able to choose, to act or to be responsible for others.

The essence of liberty is individualism. There can be such thing as a group which is free, if the individuals within the group are not free.

Therefore, in truth, Lincoln's first definition of liberty is the correct one. Liberty provides the right of each individual to do as he pleases with himself and the products of his own labor. The definition of tyranny is, that certain men shall do as they please with other men and the products of other men's labor.

BETTER JOBS

Wages, Unemployment And Inflation

II.

Here is the continuation of Ludwig von Mises' article on "Wages, Unemployment and Inflation."

"Yet this popular doctrine" (that labor unions can raise wages without causing unemployment) "misconstrues every aspect of economic reality. The height of wage rates at which all those eager to get jobs can be employed depends on the marginal productivity of labor. The more capital—other things being equal — is invested, the higher wages climb on the free labor market, i.e., on the labor market not manipulated by the government and the unions. At these market wage rates all those eager to employ workers can hire as many as they want. At these market wage rates all those who want to be employed can get a job. There prevails on a free labor market a tendency toward full employment. In fact, the policy of letting the free market determine the height of wage rates is the only reasonable and successful full - employment policy. If wage rates, either by union pressure and compulsion or by government decree, are raised above this height, lasting unemployment of a part of the potential labor force develops.

"These opinions are passionately rejected by the union bosses and their followers among politicians and the self - styled intellectuals. The panacea they recommend to fight unemployment is credit expansion and inflation, euphemistically called 'an easy money policy.'

Credit No Substitute For Capital

"As has been pointed out above, an addition to the available stock of capital previously accumulated makes a further improvement of the industries' technological equipment possible, thus raises the marginal productivity of labor and consequently also wage rates. But credit expansion, whether it is effected by issuing additional banknotes or by granting additional credits on bank accounts subject to check, does not add anything to the nation's wealth of capital goods. It merely creates the illusion of an increase in the amount of funds available for an expansion of production. Because they can obtain cheaper credit, people erroneously believe that the country's wealth has thereby been increased and that therefore certain projects that could not be executed before are now feasible. The inauguration of these projects enhances the demand for labor and for raw materials and makes wage rates and commodity prices rise. An artificial boom is kindled.

"Under the conditions of this boom, nominal wage rates which before the credit expansion were too high for the state of the market and therefore created unemployment of a part of the potential labor force are no longer too high and the unemployed can get jobs again. However, this happens only because under the changed monetary and credit conditions prices are rising or, what is the same expressed in other words, the purchasing power of the monetary unit drops. Then the same amount of nominal wages — wage rates expressed in terms of money — means less in real wages — in terms of commodities that can be bought by the monetary unit. Inflation can cure unemployment only by curtailing the wage earner's real wages. But then the unions ask for a new increase in wages in order to keep pace with the rising cost of living and we are back where we were before, in a situtation in which large scale unemployment can only be prevented by a further expansion of credit.

Protracted Inflation

"This is what happened in this country as well as in many other countries in the last years. The unions, supported by the government, forced the enterprises to agree to wage rates that went beyond the potential market rates, that is, the rates which the public was prepared to refund to the employers in purchasing their products. This would have inevitably resulted in rising unemployment figures. But the government policies tried to prevent the emergency of serious unemployment by credit expansion — inflation. The outcome was rising prices, renewed demands for higher wages and reiterated credit expansion; in short, protracted inflation.

"But finally the authorities became frightened. They know that inflation cannot go on endlessly. If one does not stop in time, the pernicious policy of increasing the quantity of money and fiduciary media, the nation's currency system collapses entirely. The monetary unit's purchasing power sinks to a point which for all practical purposes is not better than zero. This happened again and again, in this country with the Continental Currency in 1781, in France in 1796, in Germany in 1923. It is never too early for a nation to realize that inflation cannot be considered as a way of life and that it is imperative to return to sound monetary policies. In recognition of these facts the Administration and the Federal Reserve Authorities some time ago discontinued the policy of progressing credit expansion."

Natural Gas Bill Is Getting Another Whirl

WASHINGTON — The on-again-off-again natural gas bill is in process of getting another whirl.

Representative Oren Harris (C., Ark.), chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, is making a new backstage drive to line up support for the legislation as a far-reaching anti - recession measure.

With the active backing of Representative Joseph O'Hara (R., Minn.), co-author of the natural gas bill, Harris is contending that its enactment would lead to more than $1 billion in capital expenditures, particularly in the production and use of thousands of tons of pipeline.

This latest bipartisan effort to revive the long-embattled measure has the full approval of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.). He not only favors it, but is helping in every way he can.

At the same time, in discussions with Harris, Rayburn is making it clear he will not bring the bill before the House until positively convinced the votes are in hand to pass it. This has been the canny Texan's position ever since the hotly controversial legislation was reported out of Harris' Committee a year ago.

Also, Rayburn is bluntly advising Harris to "tell our friends to stop pulling bloopers on this bill. If it weren't for them, it would have been law long ago.

This caustic reference was to a testimonial dinner that Texas supporters of the natural gas measure gave for House Republican Leader Joseph Martin, Mass., to raise campaign funds for the GOP congressional campaign this year. Nationwide press accounts of this $100,000 affair caused the bill to be shelved, just as it appeared set for House approval by a close margin.

WORKING HARD — In this new bipartisan drive to rally support for the legislation, Representative Harris is making both public and private appeals.

An example of the former is his virtually unnoticed speech last week before the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association, in Amarillo, Tex. A signigicant instance of Harris' backstage "selling" is a letter to a House colleague from New England, who has voted against the bill.

It was in the Amarillo speech that Harris argued enactment of the natural gas measure would importantly counter the business slump. Before delivering this address, the Arkansas went over it carefully with Speaker Rayburn.

Crux of Harris' anti - recession argument in the Amarillo speech is as follows:

"You hear many explanations for this recession. One of the soundest, surely, is that there has been a falling off in consumer purchases of durable goods . . . Figure for yourself, then, what effect on the recession might come if hundreds of thousands of would-be customers who want natural gas could get it.

"Calculate the number of gas furnaces that would be bought and installed, the number of gas water heaters, of gas stoves, of gas incinerators . . . Think of the employment that would be created by local distributors . . . Tranmission companies would do their part, or more, in expanding their materials-and-labor market. Can anyone doubt that such buying and expanding would give a tremendous impetus to recovery.

"Certainly the sum total of the capital outlays that are being held up would exceed one billion dollars a year. I submit that this would be an anti-recession step that would cost the taxpayer nothing; that would be carried out entirely by private business funds; that would provide lower energy costs; that would require hundreds of thousands of tons of steel pipe and oil country tubular goods; that would put thousands upon thousands of men back to work; that would be of benefit to the total economy."

Harris' letter to his New England colleague is one of a number he has written to House opponents of the gas bill.

In all these letters, Harris stresses several points; that the measure is widely "misunderstood," and that it is strongly favored by the Federal Power Commission. Highlights of these backstage pleas for support are:

"There is so much misunderstanding about this bill and its effect, that I felt compelled to write you. I sincerely believe that unless Congress enacts some appropriate legislation this year to amend the Natural Gas Act and to alleviate the present untenable situation, thousands of people are going to continue to be deprived of this service, and our nation will undoubtedly be faced with a serious gas shortage in the not-distant future.

"The Federal Power Commission has strongly recommended this bill because it would give the Commission the regulatory tools it needs to work with. No other proposal has been made to the Interstate Commerce Committee to alleviate this problem and to provide a workable plan of regulation."

The new military pay measure will be signed by President Eisenhower, and will become effective as of June 1 . . . Kansas' former Governor Edward Arn has been dropped for consideration for a vacancy on the federal bench. Reason is strong opposition from state and other Republican leaders. They warned that if Arn was named, he would be vigorously opposed in the Senate Judiciary Committee. He claimed support of White House assistant Sherman Adams, but the latter would not confirm that . . . A banquet is being given in Chicago on May 14 in honor of the late famed Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. For the occasion, the Adult Educational Council of Greater Chicago has prepared an interesting profile of Mrs. Holmes. Representative Barratt O'Hara (D., Chicago) has inserted the article in the Congressional Record for wide distribution.

Will Kennedy Back Up Order To Cops?

Steve Kennedy, the New York Police Commissioner recently made a pep talk to his 21,000 men in which he guardedly ordered them to get rough with the young criminals of all hues, persuasions and strains who are known by the lenient and dishonest description of juvenile delinquents. If Kennedy and the mayor could be trusted to back them up, the cops could smash this menace, the danger of which Kennedy frankly recognized. Many of the "delinquents" are men in the physical sense, ranging upward from 175 pounds and five feet, ten. Many of them use narcotics.

It might be necessary to kill a dozen or a hundred including, possible, some unoffending victims of civil commotion along with the "delinquents," but generals in war figure such matters without emotion and, anyway, meanwhile throughout the country, "Delinquents" will otherwise be killing many dozens or hundreds of innocents.

The miscalled massacre in south Chicago on Memorial Dayl 1937, was the showdown between the CIO Communists and the authority of government. Government won. The rioters attacked the Republic Steel plant to wreck the property and inflict God known what harm on workers barricaded inside, including negro workers who wanted no traffic with the Soviet forces then spilling American blood under FDR's political patronage. Captain Mooney of the Police Department drew a deadling, a recognized military move. When rocks, bricks and missiles of steel arched from the rear of the mob into the midst of the police, who had been roughed up two days before, Money turned his men loose. When it was over, 12 rioters were dead and about 70 lay broken and bloody, but all the police answered muster. None of the dead or wounded had been employed in the plant. No employees were on strike, but many were absent because they could not get through the mob.

A few years later, Captain Barnes, who had succeeded Mooney, was able to boast to the House Committee on un-American Activities that one, lone cop had the strength of 6,000 on any picket line, anywhere in Chicago. The CIO had learned its lesson.

When Barnes gave his practical statement of a simple police problem, politicians of both sides bellowed up the horror of it all. But Captain Barnes had only said: "All a Chicago policeman has to do when a truck approaches a picketed plant is to sing out, 'Heads up, men,' and they fall back and let the truck through. It is the same with employees going to their work. The pickets can picket all they like, but they cannot interfere with traffic to and from the plant. When one cop sings out, 'Heads up, men' the pickets know we will send 6,000 Chicago cops to back up that one cop. If they insist on fighting we will fight them and they know we do not get paid to lost fights. We get paid to win. And we always do win even if people insist on getting killed."

It remains to be seen whether Kennedy, in New York, will back up his cops in any such trouble with young giants call delinquents, or whether he will flinch as all other commissioners have flinched, and allow crime to increase. He could even harass and disparage his own men, a common attitude of commissioners owing their position to politician mayors.

Speculation as to the reasons why so many young men are criminals stubbornly veers away from the obvious principal incitations. Most of these brutes were born under the CIO terror imposed by John L. Lewis and the UAW in which Walter Reuther, not Mrs. Roosevelt's nominee for President, was a wild insurrecto. There was blod on the moon and in the gutters. Many of the wild ones of today are actual children of criminal rioters who in those days boasted in the family circle that the President of the United States was their friend and supported. To speak of parental "Negligence" in explanation of their bad character is plainly dishonest. The parents were young, ignorant hoodlums themselves. By the example of the White House they were shown that theft by fraudulent loans, wanton contempt for marriage and the dignity of parenthood, and bloodshed in union riots were approved conduct. Their children, these "delinquents," have lived according to a sordid example that still commands the tribute of prominent position in the most influential magazines in the country.

McLemore Observes National 'Weeks'

I'm a "Weekling."

You'd have to search far, wide, and long before finding anyone more conscientious than I am about observing the National Weeks, one or two of which starts almost every day.

I eat apples when the apple people celebrate their Week, and the same is true of pears, doughnuts, sauerkraut, and licorice. I wear cotton during Cotton Week, wool during Wool Week, rubber boots during Rubber Week, keep off the grass during Law Observance Week, buy all new bulbs for my house during Better Lighting Week, and hang around the pool hall a lot during National Snooker Week.

All of which is said to point up my failure to observe National Good Posture Week. Like business, I was in a slump, and there I stayed all week. I was ashamed every time I saw a good posture worker drive by in his car, sitting upright behind the wheel, or standing squarely on both feet while waiting for a street car.

I tried to pay tribute to Good Posture Week — tried my best. But incorrect — or comfortable posture has been a part of me too long. I just couldn't change. Had I stuck at good posture for seven days I would have been a wreck, and it would have taken a medical team, working overtime, a week to have unbent me.

I am sure that I was not along in sort of skipping Good Posture Week. We Americans are a nation of slouchers, either standing up or sitting down. Watch a group of us on, say, a day coach train ride The train will not have gone more than three stations before every passenger lucky enough to have a little spare room, will be curled up like a sleepy anchovy.

One leg will be curled up on the seat, the other will be flung across the arm of the seat, and left to dangle in mid-aisle, the head will be propped on the window sill, and the neck will be bent like the stem of a bulldog pipe.

Yet, the person thus draped, will be asleep, and breathing deeply and comfortable. The fact that the arm rest has stopped circulation in one leg, and his head has a dent in it from the sill, won't bother him a bit.

To sit an American upright for a journey of even a few hours is to torture him. He wants to slump, slouch, and sort of flow about in every direction.

Most of us Americans are one-leg standers, too. If not entirely on one leg, then with enough weight on one foot to cause us to list either to port or starboard. This is supposed to wear a man out, just as is slouching behind a steering wheel all day. But in any contest for long standing or 'long driving, I'd have to be on an American.

It could be that years and years of bad posture have made us immune to the ills. Perhaps our veins have become snarled and curled and that is the way our blood moves along the best. Maybe our muscles have become conditioned to being tied in knots, and ache when smoothed out.

Whatever the reason, one hour of good posture puts me in a state of shock. I'm a slump and shuffle man.

Tim Tam Is Choice In Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)— The odds-makers, who seldom allow sentiment to interfere with their judgment, today installed Tim Tam, the Calumet Farm colt who won the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, an overwhelming 7 to 5 favorite to win the Preakness May 17.

Robert Sloan, Pimlico mutuels manager who released the advance estimate of odds for the second jewel in racing's Triple Crown classics, said he had not anticipated such a short-price choice since Native Dancer won the Preakness in 1953 and returned $2.40 to win.

Citation, another Calumet horse, was the shortest price favorite in Preakness history. He paid $2.20 in 1948.

Despite the odds-makers pick, Silky Sullivan, the West Coast flash who disappointed his legion of followers in the Derby when he failed to come up with his patented stretch finish, almost certainly will reach the post in the Preakness as the "public" choice.

Silky showed he hadn't lost a bit of his appeal when he arrived here on Tuesday to the accompaniment of a brass band and a cheering crowd. By contrast, hardly anyone was on hand for Tim Tam's arrival the same day from Louisville.

Both Tim Tam and Silky were on the old Hillside course Thursday for familiarization gallops. Tim Tam was walked around the stable area for the second straight day and already has been pronounced "fit and ready" by trainer Jimmy Jones. Silky, on the other hand, galloped two miles with Pete Kozar, an exercise rider, aboard.

Walter Gets Bum Rap On LA 'Theatre'

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Walter O'Malley is getting a bum rap from critics who say his Los Angeles "Chinese Theater" is making a travesty of home-run hitting.

That's the evidence produced today in a United Press survey of homer-hitting during the first three weeks of the big league season. There's no denying more homers were hit at the Coliseum than at any other park — but in past seasons homers were hit at faster paces in three other stadiums.

In fact, the 49 homers hit in 18 games at the Coliseum are only four more than were hit at San Francisco's Seals Stadium — a park which nobody has yet charged is making a travesty of anything.

The figures establish the following key points:

—The current rate of homer-hitting at Los Angeles and San Francisco is less than record paces established in the past at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, New York's Polo Grounds and Cincinnati's Crosley Field.

—Nevertheless, National League home run hitting is up 15.6 per cent over its 1957 pace.

—Home run hitting in the American League is the same as last season.

"It's about time somebody injected some sanity into all that criticism of the Coliseum," commented Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. "I would accept these figures as proof that no new home run records will be set because of the Coliseum's unusual layout.

"Another thing to remember is that homer-hitting is usually greater early in the season than later on when pitching staffs are straightened out," Frick added. "I would say homer hitting will decrease as the season goes on."

If the current pace of homer-hitting were continued over the full season, a total of 198 would be hit at Los Angeles and 182 at San Francisco. These totals would fall short of the 219 hit at Cincinnati's Crosley Field last season as well as the 207 at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field in 1950 and the 206 at New York's Polo Grounds in 1947.

Pitchers Secret To Winning In Baseball

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Connie Mack, one of the inventors of the game, once estimated that pitching is 60 per cent of baseball.

This placed pitching and defense under one category and left 40 per cent to attack. Which means that in the old gentleman's active mind, pitching had a 20 per cent bulge on hitting if the matter of winning ball games.

All of which is being proved once again this season.

The proof is being posted by such gentlemen as Stan Musial and Mickey Vernon along with their clubs, the Cardinals and Indians, as well as such assorted teams as the Yankees, Cubs and Senators.

Consider first the Cardinals. Musial is batting a blistering .529—a mere .143 points ahead of his closest competitor—and is hitting as if he intends to wrap up the National League batting title by Memorial Day.

Pitchers To Blame

Yet his Cardinals are about to drop through the bottom of the National League with a record, as of Thursday, of 14 losses in 17 games. The answer is in the records of the Cardinal throwers. In the 14 games they lost, the "pitchers" gave up an average of 12 hits and seven runs a game. Not a pitcher has gone the distance and in the three games won by the miracle of Musial's bat they gave up 33 hits—or an average of 11 per game.

The Cubs are the surprise team of the early season, right up there in the unfamiliar heights when they figured to be doormats. The answer again is in the pitching. Chicago's hurlers have held the opposition to an average of three runs a game and an average of seven hits to post those startling triumphs.

Vernon is leading American League hitters with a .400 mark and yet the Indians are playing no better than .500 ball. The pitching figures contain the answer. In the losses, they gave up an average of 10 hits per game—and in the victories cut that down to an average of six hits.

Yankees Roll On

Meanwhile, the Yankees go right on rolling along and the answer isn't strictly power. The Yanks have built up a long-time reputation as power hitters since the days of murderers' row but, hidden beneath the hitting hoopla, they always have solid pitching and a smooth-working defense. This season their pitchers have gone the distance six times in 14 victories while the surprising A's and Senators each has received five route-going performances.

If you still give power the edge, take a look at the Boston Red Sox as well as the 1947 Giants and 1956 Redlegs.

The Red Sox have seen Ted Williams win five batting titles. Yet their only pennant in recent times came when Williams didn't bat at the top but curried the ball for a mere .312 average. They won it when Tex Hughson and Boo Ferriss had 20-plus seasons and Mace Brown was great in relief.

The Giants set a major league record of 221 homers in 1947 and finished fourth. The Redlegs tied that mark in 1956—and finished third.

Mr. Mack is gone but his figures still are with us.

Softball Meet Is Called Today

A meeting has been called for 6 p.m. today in City Hall for anyone interested in playing or managing a softball team, according to Bob Hamilton, secretary of the Pampa Industrial League.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the rules and regulations of the softball game. Teams that are already in the Industsial League are asked to be at the meeting.

Hamilton said this meeting is important to the future of softball in Pampa.

FOR SURE—Bob Cerv dropped the bat and started around the bases while watching the flight of the ball hit 410 feet deep into the left field bleachers at Yankee Stadium. That was how certain the Kansas City outfielder was that the ball pitched by Bob Turley was going out of the park. The burly ex-Yankee is leading the American League in home runs and runs-batted-in. The catcher is Yogi Berra, the umpire John Flaherty.

Eddie Southern and Coach Clyde Littlefield

S'West Meet Gets Underway Today

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (UP)— At least five records were in jeopardy as the Southwest Conference track and field meet got under way today, with the title-favored Texas Longhorns due to figure in four of them.

Coach Clyde Littlefield's team, seeking its 28th championship, its fifth in a row and its 23rd under Littlefield, is so deep in talent that the Longhorns are not expected to come close to being pressed.

Talented Eddie Southern, the Texas Olympic star who has shifted from the hurdles to the dashes with no loss of luster, seemed an almost sure-fire record breaker in is especialty, the quarter-mile, and could conceivably become a triple winner should he also run the 100 and 220 dashes in which he is tentatively entered.

Texas javelin ace Bruce Parker is almost as sure a bet to shatter his year-old mark of 220 feet, 7½ inches; Texas miler Joe Villarreal was a strong bet to best his own mile record of 4:10.5, and the Texas mile relay quarter of Wally Wilson, Drew Dunlap, Jimmy Holt and Southern have bettered another year-old Texas record of 3:11.8.

The only non-Longhorn figuring strongly as a record breaker was Ray Dyck, the Arkansas sophomore, who has a 1:52 mile to his credit. But, even here, Villarreal has equalled the record 1:52.1 and might be able to nip Dyck in this one, too.

Southern Methodist, concentrating its strength in high jumpers Bertil Holmgren and Don Stewart, the defending champion, Gerry Peters in the pole vault, hurdler Gene Ellis and a likely second-place mile relay team, was generally conceded the best chance of finishing runner-up to Texas.

Texas, in both relays; Villarreal in the mile, John Emmett of SMU in the 440, Larry Cowart of Baylor in the shot put, Stewart in the high jump, Parker in the javelin and Emmett Smallwood of Texas A&M in the broad jump and Gordon Ratcliff of Texas in the two-mile are the defending champions seeking repeats.

Bolt Seeks 2nd Straight Tourney Win

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)— Tommy Bolt set off on the second lap of his quest for a second straight golf victory with a one-stroke lead in the $20,000 Arlington Open tournament.

Bolt plowed through the first round without a bogey Thursday and picked up a six-under-par 66.

His first round was one stroke better than the 67s shot by Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa; Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., and Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex.

Al Besselink of Grossingers, N.Y., took an eagle on the last hole for undisputed third place 68 in the first round standings.

Dub Wysong, a Dallas amateur, tied at 69 with Arnold Palmer of Labrobe, Pa., Ken Venturi of San Francisco, Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y., Doug Sanders of Miami, Fla., Paul O'Leary of Chattanooga, Tenn., Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., and Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La.

REPEAT SERIES PREDICTED

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UP)—Bill Veech, a pretty good judge of talent in his years as a major league executive, predicts the Yankees and Braves will win the American and National League pennants. Veech, on a speaking tour, said the Yankees should win the AL flag by 15 games and the Braves the NL bunting in a close race.

Spahn Sees Tight Race For Pennant

By GREG FOSSELMAN
United Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Warren Spahn, who looks like a good bet for another 20-victory season, expects an even tighter pennant race this year than the hectic 1957 National League scramble.

The left handed pitching ace of the world champion Milwaukee Braves bases his prediction on the surprisingly good stars his tyear of the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants.

"We haven't played San Francisco yet, but Pittsburgh and Chicago looked very good when we met them," he said. "It's hard to tell how far they might go, especially if any of them should be straigthened by trades before the June 15 deadline."

One thing is sure, Spahn said. "We'll have to be a better team than last year to win the pennant —and I think we are.

"The addition of Bob Rush to our staff has given us more pitching depth and our big hitters look like they're starting to get squared away after a slow start."

Spahn's personal goal this year is another 20-victory season to help boost the Braves to a second straight pennant. He already holds a record for National League left-handers with eight season of 20 or more victories each and appears headed for number nine.

This season, like last, the versatile southpaw is off to a flying start with four victories and no defeats. He has given up only 11 earned runs in 45 innings.

"I can't explain why I've had better starts the past two seasons than ever before," he said. "I didn't do anything different in spring training."

He offered as a partial explanation, however, the possibility that a new pitch he uses this season might have something to do with it.

"I worked on a slider during the winter," he said, "and started using it this season for the first time. I haven't used it often but it has been effective when I throw it."

Spahn led both leagues last year with 20 victories and 18 games completed at the age of 36.

United Press Sports Writer

Sweet sanity reigns again in the National League, now that they've booted the upstart Chicago Cubs out of first place, but those whacky Washington Senators are getting out of hand in the American League.

The Cubs didn't go quietly—it took an eight-run riot by the Cincinnati Redlegs in the ninth inning of Thursday's game in Chicago to hand them a 10-8 defeat that dropped them 13 percentage points behind the world champion Milwaukee Braves.

But the Senators, those perennial AL sad sacks are refusing to back up at all.

A 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers Thursday with the help of another goose-egg relief job by Dick Hyde was the Senators' fourth win in their last five decisions and moved them just a half-game behind the mighty and first-place Yankees — with whom they open a four-game series tonight under the lights in New York.

Could Tie Yanks

A win for the Senators tonight, and they have Cuban ace Pedro Ramos (2-0) ready to hurl, would give the Senators a percentage tie with the Yankees for first place.

Hyde, 29-year-old righthander who had only a 4-3 record last season, is the latest Washington hero. He was called on to save this victory for starter Ralph Lumenti, ended the Tigers' only threat with a double play, and blanked Detroit for the last 3 2-3 innings.

That gives Hyde a string of 9 2-3 innings in which he hasn't allowed any runs — and a string of 15 without allowing an earned run. In 22 innings this year, he's allowed only 11 hits and three earned runs for an earned-run-average of 1.23.

Lumenti, a 21-year-old bonus hurler from Milford, Mass., got credit for his first big-league win. Detroit rookie Bob Shaw matched Lumenti's shutout hurling for four frames and then, after retiring 13 straight batters, yielded two runs in the fifth on singles by Jim Lemon and Norm Zauchin and a double by Rocky Bridges.

Lumenti walked two runners in the sixth and Reno Bertoia drove in one with a single, but Hyde relieved and nailed Jim Hegan on a double play to end the frame. The Senators wrapped it up with two more runs in the sixth on a single by Albie Pearson, a double by Roy Sievers, a sacrifice fly by Clint Courtney, and a single by Lemon.

'Winningest' Team

The Senators actually are the "winningest" team in the league —they have 11 wins, one more than the Yankees. However, they've lost two more than New York.

The Cubs' heady week atop the National LLeague standings seemed certain to last a little longer when they carried an 8-2 lead against Cincinnati into the ninth inning. But then that old-time Redleg power broke loose. The rally included five singles, one walk and one error, and was capped by a three-run pinch homer by Smokey Burgess.

The Cubs had built their lead with single tallies in the first and second innings, a five-run rally in the fifth that included Walt Moryn's fifth homer, and Dale Long's bases-empty homer in the sixth.

Joe Nuxhall, fourth of five Redleg hurlers, was the winner and Dolan Nichols, fourth of five Cub flingers, was the loser.

The only other game scheduled in the majors Thursday, Cleveland at New York in the American League, was rained out.

In most cases, the size of the brain seems to have no direct bearing upon intelligence.

Lopes Favorite In TV Fight

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Unbeaten young Carlos Ortiz, a stylish boxer with championship ambitions, faces able Joey Lopes tonight in a nationally televised (NBC, 7 p.m. p.d.t.) lightweight 10-rounder at Legion Stadium.

The handsome Puerto Rican (via New York City), unbeaten in 26 fights, will be making his first serious bid for national recognition against the veteran Portuguese from Sacramento, Calif.

Oddsmakers have established Lopes as the 6-5 favorite, though much of the local sentiment goes with Ortiz.

Summertime Trek To Camp By School Kids Is Institution

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — We will have with us, before long, a spectacle that has become an early summer ritual in the United States — millions of moppets marching off on a pilgrimage back to nature.

The summertime trek of grammar and high school age kids to supervised camps is a fixed institution in many densely packed cities such as New York. Its magnitude nowadays is arresting. Business is zooming.

Within three decades, while we have become more and more a nation of city dwellers, the number of boys and girls attending such camps has grown 500 per cent.

The American Camping Assn., an organization of camps and directors, says that one million children attended camps in 1930. This summer, it expects the camp population to be 5,000,000. That would be 11 per cent of all U.S. grammar and high school children.

The association estimates there now are about 13,000 camps in the United States—61 per cent operated by agencies such as youth organizations and voluntary service groups; 20 per cent privately owned; 19 per cent by such groups as churches, municipalities, schools, businesses.

America is one of the greatest come down the pike of history. We organize everything. And, sure enough, the association claims that organized camping for recreation and education is a U.S. invention, nearly a century old now.

The whole thing started, according to this version, in 1861 in Connecticut when Frederick William Gunn took the students of his boys' school to the country for two weeks of camping. The outing became annual and lasted 18 years.

A further step came in 1876 when Dr. Joseph T. Rothrock set up a health camp in Pennsylvania for "weakly boys." In 1880, the Rev. George W. Hinckley began a religious camp in Rhode Island, mixing in sports and recreation. A year later, in New Hampshire, Ernest B. Balch started a camp to train boys from wealthy families, to use their leisure time wisely.

Organized camping began for girls in 1888 when Dr. and Mrs. Luther H. Gulick opened in Connecticut a camp for their daughters and friends.

In the early 1900s city settlements and YMCAs got into the camping act. In 1910, the Boy Scouts came along and gave a mighty shove to the camping movement's progress. The Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls gave new impetus two years later.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Astronomer Alfred H. Mikesell explaing that the swinging motion of an open gondola in which he soared eight miles into space Wednesday complicated his observation work:

"I didn't get airsick, but it certainly made sightings through a telescope impossible."

HOLLYWOOD — Divorcee Marilyn Scott, who claims that Dennis Crosby is the father of her infant daughter, expressing regret that the story had been made public:

"I'm sorry all this had to come out, particularly because of the effect it might have on my baby's future."
