

First college fee increase on line this spring

The first in what is expected to be a two-part adjustment of fees upward for students at Western Texas College will go into effect this spring semester.

A new registration fee will be implemented in the spring while the charge per-semester-hour is expected to increase beginning in the fall.

Under the new schedule for registration fees, students who register for 1 to 11 hours will pay a $10 registration fee, while students enrolling for 12 to 22 hours will pay $20.

The former charge in both cases was $5 for this one-time fee at registration. With the new registration fee, a full-time student taking 12 hours will pay a total of $92 plus lab fees where required. Students who take one three-hour course will now pay $41.

The proposed tuition increase — which is assessed for each hour of college credit taken — is not finalized as yet. Trustees are to consider it at the December meeting.

Administrative officials have already proposed increasing the per-hour charge from $4 to $6. For a normal student load of 15 college hours, this would entail a $30 per semester increase.

This change would place WTC "about in the middle" of tuition fees charged by area colleges, it has been noted.

For the spring semester, all other charges will remain unchanged. Charges for dormitory housing and meals are also unchanged.

Students who live in the dorm and have a five-day meal ticket pay a total of $735 for one semester if the total is paid at the time of registration.

They may also pay $455 at registration and $150 in each of the two months following — a total of $755. There is also a sales tax of $22.

Ask Us

Q. — Is the television show "Bay City Blues" still on and what about Snyder's Barry Tubbs, who had a part in the series?

A. — The series received good reviews and an NBC spokesman said it is still in production, although it does not have a weekly time slot currently. Tubbs won't return, however, since his series character Micky Waggoner "died" in an auto crash during one of the episodes.

In Brief

Launch countdown begins

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Countdown began today for Monday's launch of the space shuttle Columbia and its six-man crew on a complex international science mission.

NASA started the count at 4 a.m. EST with test conductor Gil Whittaker's traditional "call to stations," summoning more than 50 technicians and engineers to consoles in the control center three miles from the launch pad.

Columbia, scheduled for launch at 11 a.m. Monday, carries in its cargo bay the 23-foot-long Spacelab, a $1 billion research facility built by the 10-nation European Space Agency.

Spacelab will remain in the bay throughout the nine-day trip as the astronauts, working in shifts, conduct more than 70 experiments in five science and technology fields.

Weather was the only question mark for the flight, already delayed twice since September. Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration watched a low pressure system heading toward Florida that could produce clouds and rain Monday.

Task force to investigate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Department of Public Safety has created a task force to help local law enforcement agencies investigate killings that may have been committed by Henry Lee Lucas, a self-proclaimed mass murderer already convicted of two Texas slayings, authorities said.

The DPS director, Col. Jim Adams, ordered the creation of a task force to coordinate the exchange of information and to assist local agencies in investigating Lucas, 47, and Otis Elwood Toole, a man who claims to have assisted Lucas in some killings.

The task force, which will be headed by Texas Ranger Sgt. Bob Prince, will consist of Rangers, officers from the DPS Crime Analysis Service and officers from the DPS Criminal Intelligence Service, said Adams.

Lucas, who has been convicted of two killings in Texas and who is charged with eight others, has claimed to have killed about 165 people, mostly women, since he was 13.

KOSA TV crew...

8 dead in plane crash

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A private plane ferrying a television camera crew to two high school football games crashed while trying to land early today at the Midland-Odessa Regional Air Terminal, killing eight people, authorities said.

There were no survivors, said Bill Giles, manager of Texas Western Aviation Inc., which chartered the flight for Odessa television station KOSA-TV, a CBS-TV affiliate.

The victims included six station employees, a pilot and a man who assisted the employees at the football games.

They were identified as news director Gary Hopper, 32, of Midland; sports director Jeff Shull, 25, Odessa; chief engineer Bobby Stephens, 47, Odessa; assistant chief engineer Edward Monette, 26, Odessa; production assistants Bruce Dyer, 26, Midland, and Brent Roach, 24, Odessa; pilot Keith Elkin, 29, Midland, and Jay Alvin Price, 27, Midland, a "spotter" for the station at football games and Hopper's brother-in-law.

"We lost some key people, but fortunately we have enough staff left to put the news on," said KOSA-TV anchor Brent Boynton.

The craft, a twin-engine Beechcraft 100 turboprop, was en route from Fort Worth at the time of the crash, Giles said. The television crew was flown Friday to tape highlights of two high school football playoff games — Midland Lee vs. Trimble Tech in Fort Worth and Odessa Permian vs. Wichita Falls Rider in Wichita Falls.

The plane crashed on the Scharbauer Ranch adjacent to the runway, said Texas Department of Public Safety dispatcher Jerry Warren.

Witnesses reported the plane "fell nose first for no apparent reason, crashed and burned on impact" about 1:50 a.m. Warren said.

"From where I was standing, all I could see that that looked like a plane was one wing jutting out of the wreckage," said Bob Brundage, a sportswriter for the Midland Reporter-Telegram who was among the first on the scene.

Three of the victims were thrown from the charred wreckage and all were dead at the scene, Warren said.

The plane burned for about four hours before firefighters could extinguish it. Four of the victims were burned beyond recognition, Warren said.

The airport was closed after the crash, but reopened at 6:42 a.m. after the area was secured, said Jay Stucki, airport operations supervisor. He said planes were routed away from the wreckage.

8-day classes offered

Western Texas College has scheduled a mid-winter session Jan. 3-11, giving students the opportunity to earn three hours of college credit.

Courses on the schedule are English 231, English 232, Government 231, Government 232 and History 132.

Classes will meet from 9 until 11:45 a.m. and 2 until 4 p.m. daily except Sunday. Students must attend all sessions to obtain credit. Final examinations will be given on Jan. 11.

Students who have attended WTC previously as college credit students can register by mail by sending their name, social security number, address and a $41 fee to Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services.

New students will need to complete the application for admission before enrolling. Final registration will be from 8 until 9 a.m. Jan. 3 in the administration building.

Students are urged to pre-register to facilitate arranging classes.

Businesses expand blood drive support

The sponsorship of Snyder businesses in connection with blood drives here is expanding as local volunteers prepare for another effort Tuesday.

New with this drive, Randy Davis, owner of Ben Wilson Auto Supply, has indicated that persons presenting a blood donor card — or other proof they have donated blood — will receive a 20 percent discount on all cash purchases made at his store Wednesday.

In addition, Sammy Hancock, manager of Snyder's Piggly Wiggly, has donated 12 dozen cookies to be offered as refreshments after giving blood.

As in past efforts, a free six-pack of Dr. Pepper will be given away to every fifth donor, courtesy of Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. of Sweetwater, and a free coupon for a hamburger will be given to each registered donor, compliments of Whataburger Restaurant and manager Jim Allmand.

Snyder merchants have again donated sign space to advertise the event also. These include: Swiggart's One-Stop; Ed Fisk Phillips 66 Service; The Shack Restaurant; Shakey's Pizza; Gill's Fried Chicken; Burgess-McWilliams

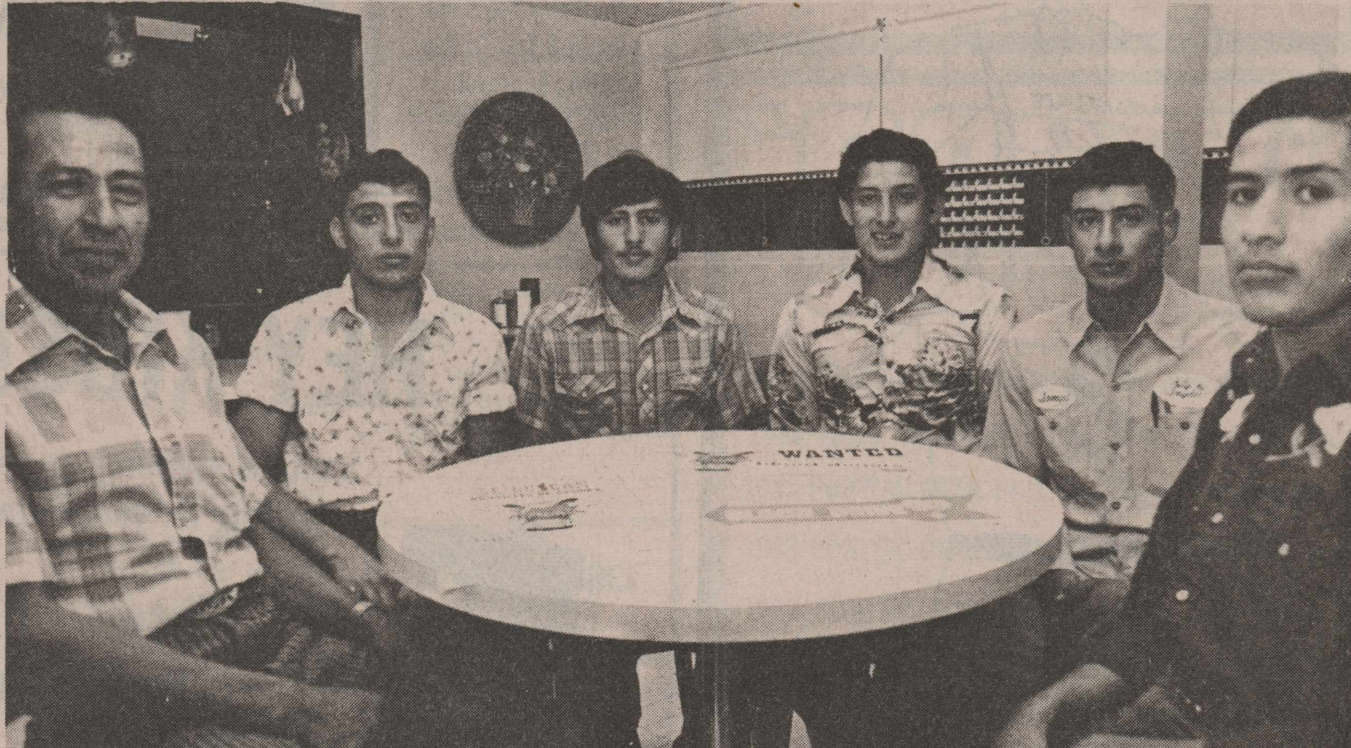

Pharmacy; Joe Brown Carpet Co.; Whataburger Restaurant and Snyder Nursery. In addition, sign space has been donated at Scurry County Coliseum. Tuesday's blood drive will start one-hour earlier — scheduled from 1 until 8 p.m. — and will be conducted at the Scurry County Senior Center, 2603 Ave. M.

Sponsors are the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, in cooperation with the local advisory council of United Blood Services of Lubbock, a non-profit organization.

DONOR FAMILY — With another blood drive planned Tuesday, local sponsors say they know they can count on the Mike Garcia family as donors. The members of the Garcia family have given more than 60 units of

Quarles claims that his organization helped defeated ERA, and were successful in keeping women in their places.

Quarles, however, says the new organization will be an equal opportunity group. "Women, as you know, are very good liars," he said.

Home burglary reported Friday

Snyder police detectives were called to investigate a residential burglary Friday evening.

It was reported around 7:28 p.m. by a South Snyder resident, Mark Franks of 3214 Ave.

He told investigators that his house had been broken into sometime earlier in the day.

Listed as missing from the residence was an undetermined amount of cash. Investigators report attempting to contact a possible suspect in the case Friday evening but no arrests had been made in connection with the offense as of 10 a.m. Saturday.

Find new evidence on math ability

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not news that boys are better at math than girls. The news is that the boys who are really smart in math outnumber the really smart girls 13 to 1.

A study of gifted seventh-graders taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test — a test normally taken by college-bound juniors and seniors in high school — shows an average math score for boys of 416 and an average for girls of 386.

That difference would arise by chance alone less than once in a thousand times. There was no significant difference in scores on the verbal ability section of the test — 367 for boys, 365 for girls.

But the results reported by Johns Hopkins University researchers Camilla Persson Benbow and Julian C. Stanley show boys outnumber girls by 1½ to 1 among those scoring 420 or above in math, by better than 2 to 1 in the group scoring 500 or better, by better than 4 to 1 in the 600-and-over class and ed similar results in average math scores between gifted seventh-grade boys and girls. That earlier study did not report breakdowns by sex as scores changed.

The authors estimated that scores of 700 or above — scores achieved by about one of 20 college-bound male seniors — represent the top one of 10,000 among all seventh graders.

"Reasons for this sex difference are unclear," the two authors wrote in the new study on 19,883 boys and 19,937 girls tested in 1980, 1981 and 1982.

The researchers said they could not find substantial differences in attitude, background or previous mathematics training between boys and girls in either the old or the new study.

A footnote to the study said Stanley and Ms. Benbow now are investigating a "remarkably high incidence" of several oddities among the group scoring 700 or above. Twenty percent were left-handed or ambidextrous, 55 percent were near-sighted and 55 percent had some form of immune disorder.

It has long been known that males do better than females in mathematics in high school and after, but the 1980 report is believed the first to show that native ability, as opposed to course grades, shows up as early as the seventh grade. Some have argued that differences in social conditioning and expectations for boys and girls could account for the differences.

Striking driver charged with shooting at bus

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 53-year-old striking Greyhound bus driver has been charged with in connection with a late-night attack on a bus and its driver that left the windshield pierced by a bullet, the FBI says.

U.S. Magistrate Robert B. O'Connor charged Edwin L. Bunte of La Vernia with destruction of an interstate motor vehicle and ordered him held on $25,000 bond.

Bunte was arrested Thursday by the FBI under the federal complaint, said Bill Dalseg, special agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI office.

One man in the car shined a spotlight on the bus windshield when the vehicle neared an underpass on the city's east side, and moments later a bullet struck the right top side of the windshield, the driver told officers.

Police said damage to the bus was estimated at $200.

tronic Christmas cards, new to the market this year ($35 for a box of six) that will require a battery one-sixteenth of an inch thick. We're looking at home computers that do your budget, balance your checkbook, record albums, recipes and inventory your household items... batteries not included.

We're looking at electronic games (already in the homes of two million families) and toys in record numbers that need from one to eight batteries to operate.

The camera that Daddy points at you around the tree needs batteries. So does the little car that your pre-schooler rides over your foot. Dolls that do aerobics do it the easy way... on batteries. Even games that aren't hooked up to the TV set need batteries to light up and beep.

Don't think for a minute that batteries are interchangeable like light bulbs. You can't steal from one to make the other one go. I have purchased products where the batteries for them are available only directly from Iron Curtain countries during the months with R in them. (No personal checks, please!)

No, it's definitely a battery market this year. No one wants anything anymore that just sits there and does nothing. If it's worth buying, it's worth lighting up, belching, moving, printing out, beeping, doing a backflip, playing music, or ticking.

I told my daughter, "It doesn't matter if a potential mate is three feet tall, looks like a troll and has the personality of a food processor, just so long as he's in batteries. Just remember a cartoon I saw recently by Roger Bollen. It shows two kids knee-deep in toys with one of them saying to the other, 'How many batteries did you get for Christmas?' Think about it."

Station researches answers to various problems

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Man lands on the moon, but what kind of wheel does he need to drive across it?

A problem. Portable, perforated steel mats made instant airfields a contribution to victory in World War II. But today's jets suck grass up through the holes into their engines.

A problem. Great Lakes ore boats used to be 750 feet long. Now they are over 1,000 feet. Cleveland has trouble handling them.

A problem. How deep a hole do you have to dig and cover it with what to survive an atomic blast?

A problem. All these problems and many, many more come here to the Waterways Experiment Station of the U.S. Army Engineers for solution. They usually find it. WES is a laboratory staffed by 1,400 scientists and technicians who study how waves behave, rivers run, concrete crumbles, the ground gives in or doesn't.

It tries to provide solutions to engineering problems both military and civilian, such as earthquake-proofing buildings or shock-proofing missile silos or housebreaking the Mississippi River. But things can get pretty far afield.

Since the Corps of Engineers, the biggest builder in the world, may also be its biggest user of concrete, WES runs the biggest concrete lab in the world. It test-hammers model runways to determine how long airports, civilian and military, can stand the pounding of jumbo jets. It gave the specs to bury the North American Air Defense Command inside a mountain in Colorado. Since the Corps oversees 25,000 miles of waterways in the United States, WES is testing to determine if the Asian grass carp will eat its way through the hydrilla weeds that clog them.

Since the Corps dredges the nation's harbors and has a lot of muck and sand on its hands, WES studies what to do with the spoil. One answer is to create manmade marshlands. Also make islands for nesting shore birds. WES and the Corps have tried some in Mobile Bay and learned they work fine for terns if they're kept sandy. Terns don't lay eggs in vegetation.

WES was created in 1929 after the Mississippi's third worst recorded flood to study how to best tame the river. During World War II it built a scale model of the Mississippi Basin with the help of some German POWs who had once fought with Gen. Rommel's Afrika Korps. As now refined, the 800-acre model can demonstrate what a cloud-burst in South Dakota or leaky faucets in Louisville will do to the river.

The Mississippi is, of course, a civil works responsibility, one of many that take up 60 percent of WES' $70 million budget. The Engineers have models of 60 other ports and rivers. One of Cleveland is used to study the ore boat problem and determine where best to build jetties. One of Niagara Falls studied where to blast rock to keep the falls scenic but also avoid blocking its huge hydroelectric plant.

The Corps studies beach erosion from an 1,800-foot pier near Kitty Hawk. This project is under the Coastal Engineering Research Center, recently moved here from Fort Belvoir, Va.

In keeping with the times and the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, WES has greatly expanded its environmental facilities.

The 140 environmental scientists at WES have a $20 million budget to examine how dredge spoils can be used to cover strip mines. They are investigating what to do about melaleucas, an exotic tree planted in Oklahoma to control erosion that has also begun invading lake shallows. Corps environmentalists are determining if it is safe to import two species of weevils from Argentina that eat canal-clogging water hyacinths and only water hyacinths.

Beginning with the premise that the Engineers dig earth and move it, WES over the years has become the government's expert on dirt. It sets off explosions to test its ideas on Minuteman silos. It tests how tank treads "relate" to different soils and vice versa (and claims the world's speed record for a tracked vehicle: 74 m.p.h. for a souped-up armored personnel carrier).

The same reasoning gave WES the responsibility for designing the wheels for NASA's lunar rover, which it did after examining some moon rocks.

Since the Engineers have always been the Army's camouflager, WES is at work to find how to disguise targets against microwave detection, heat sensors and even satellites. Forty percent of WES' effort is in such military fields, when the Engineers swap their civil white hard hats for their khaki ones.

Overall, its work ranges from the cataclysmic — how best to build against earthquakes and nuclear weapons — to the mundane. One such is the best and cheapest way to rebuild canal lock walls against the ravages of time, ice and inexact tow barge captains.

Given the high costs of not only building but also tearing down buildings, the concrete lab is busy devising methods of making do with the aging post offices, Pentagons, Capitols, Agriculture Departments and other buildings that house the federal government.

The Engineers also have a lab in Hanover, N.H., which studies how thick ice has to be to move tanks across it, which gets you into how to keep helicopter rotors ice free, which gets you into how to dig for minerals in frozen ground. Another Corps lab in Champaign, Ill., is probing ways to make military structures more energy efficient.

The Corps lab in Dallas? That one buys and repairs for the Corps all of its diamondtipped tools.

Here, where you find runway pounders cheek by jowl with tank tread departments and blast analyzers and bog builders and concrete mixers, it is very difficult to define just what kind of lab WES is.

But astronauts did motor across the lunar landscape, the APC did hit 74 m.p.h., Cleveland will survive most likely and Niagara Falls abides.

Prince talks to young recruits

WHITTINGTON, England (AP) — Wearing his uniform as honorary colonel-in-chief of the British army's Prince of Wales' Division, Prince Charles told a group of young recruits that they were men of peace, not war.

"You will form part of this country's vital insurance policy for which we all pay a substantial premium," the 35-year-old heir to the throne said Friday after reviewing 32 graduates of the army's 20-week infantry training course. "By electing this profession of your own free will, you have become professional peacemakers, not warmakers."

Driver admitted after wreck

Two traffic mishaps, one called major by police, were reported in Snyder Friday.

The one termed major was reported in the 1800 Block of 26th St. at 9:20 a.m. Involved in it were a 1980 Oldsmobile driven by Dorothea H. Roemisch of 4018 Irving Ave. and a 1978 Pontiac driven by Ross Newton Allen of Abilene.

Roemisch was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of possible neck or back injuries and admitted for observation.

Damage to both vehicles was rated minor.

The day's second mishap was reported at 11:07 p.m. in the 3300 Block of Houston Ave. According to police reports, a City of Snyder fire plug was struck by a 1975 Chevrolet pickup driven by Herman Campos of 2911 Ave. J.

Accident investigators rated damage to both the truck and the fire hydrant as minor to moderate.

Vet benefits to increase

Some Texas veterans and their survivors receiving Veterans Administration pension benefits under the "improved" pension plan will receive a 3.5 percent cost-of-living increase effective Dec. 1, E. H. (Dan) Dever, Jr., Scurry County Veterans Service Officer, said.

VA pensions are paid to wartime veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to military service. Pension are also paid to needy survivors of wartime veterans. Unlike compensation paid to those disabled because of military service, pensions are based on income from other sources.

The first check reflecting the cost-of-living increase will be mailed on or about Jan. 1, 1984.

Rates and details about the pension program and rate increases are available from the Waco VA regional office. For more information contact Dever at 573-8511, ext. 212 or come by his office in the Western Texas College Administration building.

Class lists now available

Copies of the spring schedule of classes are available in the Student Services office or at the switchboard in the lobby of the administration building.

Spring semester classes begin Jan. 18 following registration Jan. 16-17. No pre-registration is planned for the spring semester.

SHEZA FANNY CHICK

Hays Ranch mare garners top award

Sheza Fanny Chick, a four-year-old mare breed and raised by the Hays Ranch, Snyder, was named world champion aged mare at the world championship quarter horse show held last week in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The mare was also named reserve champion mare at the largest quarter horse show in the nation in Columbus, Ohio. (the Quarter Horse Congress).

Hays Ranch owns her sire, Gann's Three Chick, an American quarter horse champion and reserve world champion as a three-year-old. They also own her dam and a full sister.

Police construct own headquarters

SACHSE, Texas (AP) — When city officials told the Sachse Police Department they could not afford to build a new station, the officers decided to build one themselves.

Tired of being jammed into a back room of City Hall, the officers volunteered to provide the labor if the city would pay $13,000 for building materials.

The city agreed and construction began on the one-story brick building last month.

"At first, I think, there was doubt by some that we could do it," Police Chief Johnny Holley said. "We had our ups and downs but overall we enjoyed it ... It's been an experience. It will give us something to talk about for a long time."

The department's five full-time police officers and five reserve officers volunteered their weekend time and did the framing, sheetrock, walls, flooring, painting and roofing work. The slab, plumbing, brick and electrical work were hired out.

"If something falls down or breaks, I guess it will be our fault," Holley said.

Holley said he hopes the 1,600-square-foot building, which resembles a house more than a police station, will be finished Dec. 1.

Rank may have some privileges in the field, but it had none at the construction site.

"I've driven nails, I've put in labor. I've picked up trash," the police chief said. "I've hit my thumbs. We were all pretty equal on this deal."

Some 300 people died in 1922 when the Japanese cruiser Nitaka sank in a storm.

Holiday sales times off to fast start

By The Associated Press

Stores opened to waiting lines and popular items were already selling out on the traditional first day of the Christmas shopping season, as both merchants and consumers said better economic times put more people in a gift-buying mood this year.

Some store managers said Friday's sales were the best for the day in years, and many predicted that business through Christmas would be up 15 percent to 20 percent from a year ago.

"This is going to be the best year in the history of the store," said Gary W. Ramsey, manager of a Sears, Roebuck & Co. store in Raleigh, N.C.

"People seem to be more secure about the economy and themselves," said Ellen Thilmony, 64, as she joined the crowds Friday at Dayton's department store in Fargo, N.D.

A booming start to the Christmas season is encouraging news for merchants because holiday sales generally account for about 40 percent of the full year's business.

Big sellers Friday included telephones and telephone accessories, home computers, lingerie, sweaters, the "Cabbage Patch Kids" dolls and the "Care Bears," according to spot checks with shoppers and retailers across the nation.

Police had to be called to one Miami department store on Thursday when 150 shoppers pushed and trampled one another to buy the moon-faced Cabbage Patch dolls, which are one-of-a-kind and come with a name, footprints, "adoption papers" and personality profile. A 75-year-old man was knocked down in the frenzy at a Jefferson Ward store, officials said.

"Some people were crying because they didn't get one," said Elizabeth Figueroa, a toy department employee at the store's Lauderdale Lakes branch. "Some wanted to sue the store because we ran out."

"We actually had people camping out on our doorsteps" for the dolls, said Kenneth J. Ehli, regional vice president for the 18 Jefferson Ward stores in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Gwyn Manns of Lionel Toy Town in Randallstown, Md., said the store couldn't keep enough Care Bears and Cabbage Patch dolls in stock. "As soon as we get them in, they're gone," she said.

Retailers also warned of possible shortages of other fast-selling items.

"For the first time in a long time, we're seeing spot shortages at Christmas," said Edward A. Brennan, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer. He warned that consumers should not wait long in looking for "very wanted" items such as video cassette recorders and some sweaters.

There were few signs of hesitation. Storekeepers in many cities said they opened their doors as much as two hours earlier than usual in anticipation of Friday's rush, and some said they were greeted by waiting lines of hundreds of shoppers.

"It's very busy, very crowded and steadily increasing every hour," said Marilyn Hamilton, assistant marketing manager at the Santa Monica Mall at Santa Monica, Calif.

Harsh weather in the Rocky Mountains and in much of the East did not appear to chill consumers' enthusiasm for getting an early start on holiday shopping.

"It may be lousy outside, but in here I get a nice, warm feeling," said

Francine Myers as she braved the crowds at Macy's department store in New York City.

The gift-giving spirit may also be buoyed by rising personal incomes.

BREAST FEEDING

"Babies breast-fed during the first 6 months of life may enjoy fewer visits to the doctor for illness than do babies bottle-fed from birth," says Dr. R. Paine of U of Iowa. He lists these advantages:

- 1) Human milk has high levels of fatty acids, important in baby's brain development.
- 2) Human milk contains immune substances that protect baby against certain bacteria and viruses.
- 3) Breast-fed babies may have fewer allergy problems. Dr. Paine urges that nursing mothers follow a naturally wholesome diet.

Oil prices might not increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back from a trip to the Middle East, U.S. Energy Secretary Donald Hodel says Saudi Arabia will likely stave off attempts to change the price of oil over the next three years.

That should mean that gasoline and heating oil in the United States should not rise in price, unless there is an unforeseen disruption caused by a flaring of hostilities in the Persian Gulf or new domestic energy consumption taxes.

The 13 oil ministers representing member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are scheduled to meet in Vienna, Austria, on Dec. 7 to map their pricing and supply strategy for 1984.

While at least two of those countries — Iran and Venezuela — want a $5 increase in OPEC prices and other exporters see oil prices slipping because of a current glut in supplies, Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani is determined to keep prices at $29 a barrel for at least three years, Hodel said.

"There's clearly considerable concern in that part of the world about a short-term softening in price," Hodel said on his return to Washington this week. "But Yamani, who may well be in a position to know, was emphatic that it will not happen."

The OPEC cartel cut its price $5 a barrel eight months ago to revive sales that had declined to their lowest level in more than a decade.

That has helped reduce gasoline prices in the United States an average 3 cents per gallon in the past three months, despite a nickel boost in federal taxes and widespread increases in state and local taxes on the fuel.

Hodel, who met with Yamani last week, said Saudi Arabia is willing to use its market power as the "swing producer" for controlling marginal supplies in order to maintain the current $29 price.

"That was more than his hope," Hodel said. "That was his projection. And of course — with 25 percent of the proven oil reserves in the world — they (Saudi Arabia) have been in a position to have considerable influence on that."

Most of the oil exporting countries, he said, recognize that an abrupt $5 increase would only strengthen the "resolve in a way that little else could do" of industrialized nations to reduce their dependence on oil imports.

Virtually all predictions on future oil prices include the stipulation that there be no supply disruption similar to those in 1973 with the Arab oil embargo and 1979 with the revolution in Iran.

Hodel said he returned from the Middle East with a "greater sense" that the Iran-Iraq war might produce occasional hostile actions aimed at oil shipments from the Persian Gulf but "less sense" that supplies could be interrupted significantly.

"If you're one of the gulf nations, and 90 to 95 percent of your national income is from oil going out through the gulf, the impact is enormous," he said of a possible disruption. "The chances of a long-term closure of the gulf are pretty slim."

Explorer Christopher Columbus was accused of mistreating natives in 1500 in what is now the West Indies and was ordered sent back to Spain.

King George III proclaimed the existence of open rebellion in 1775 in the American colonies.

SNYDER YOUTH AWARDS—At a recent state convention of the Texas Association for Educational Technology held in San Antonio, three Snyder youths won awards for their entries in the Student Media Fair. Freshman Michael Fredrick and Tonya Cox placed second and third respectively with graphic art work. Sixth grader Amber Adams placed third with a linoleum carving. The student fair is designed to promote interest and to encourage the development of media technology through the recognition of outstanding "visual media presentations" developed by students. The awards earned by these three students were among 48 awards given for 593 entries. Sandra Norris, A. V. coordinator for Snyder Schools, submitted the entries and picked up the awards for these students. Letter bidding farewell to foes back in Texas

LAKE JACKSON, Texas (AP) — A letter of farewell from Mexican General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna to the Texas Army has returned to Southeast Texas, where it was penned almost 150 years ago.

The letter, with an estimated worth of $250,000, was bought by J.W. Terrill of Lake Jackson from a Florida collector.

Santa Anna, who was captured at the Battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836, was brought to Velasco, near present-day Surfside in Brazoria County. He remained as a prisoner of war for several weeks. He dashed off an elated letter to his captors, believing he was about to be returned home.

"My friends, I consider you brave on the field of battle and generous after it," the message translates from Spanish. "You can always count on my friendship and you may never regret the consideration you have shown me."

"On returning to the country of my birth, through your kindness please accept this sincere farewell from your grateful Ant. Lopez de Santa Anna," the letter reads.

The letter was written on heavy paper and dated June 1, 1836. Terrill said he was pleased to have possession of it.

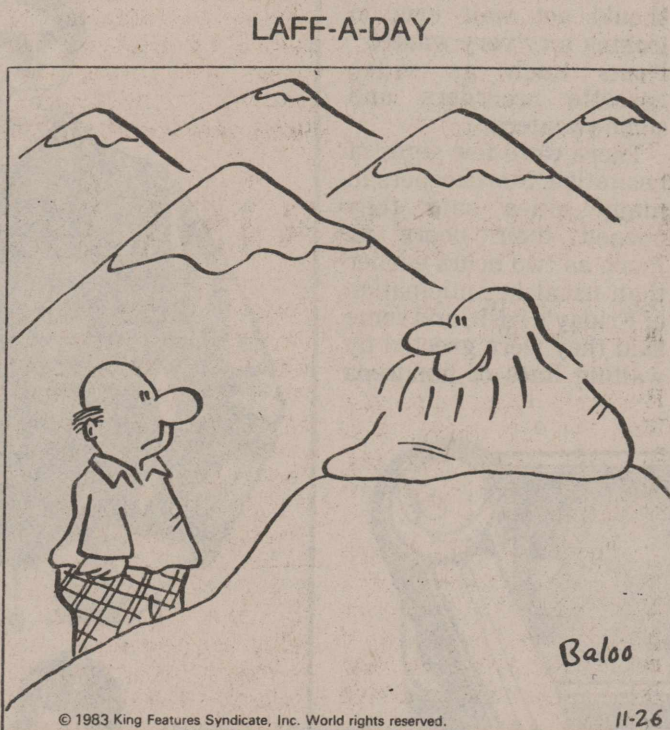

"This is where it was written," Terrill said. "This is where it belongs."

Santa Anna was removed from the ship Invincible, on which he was to depart, and taken ashore because the letter spurred protests from some members of the Texas Army.

Until June 1837, he remained a prisoner on Dr. James E.A. Phelps' Orozimbo Plantation near West Columbia.

Terrill bought the letter in October from Grover Criswell of Fort McCoy, Fla. He said it had also been owned by collectors in Dallas and Amarillo, which was probably responsible for its good condition.

"It survived because it got out of here," he said, referring to the high humidity

Present trend: socially responsible investing

WASHINGTON (AP) — For those who don't like their capitalism straight up, the financial community is offering a different twist: socially responsible investments.

Income without angst. Whether you're a religious pacifist, a solar zealot, a pro-Pentagon ecologist or a leftover '60s idealist, there is a fund designed to make you money without making you feel guilty.

"You don't have to give up anything in terms of yield, safety or access to your money in order to make socially responsible investments," says Julia Parzen, chief financial officer of the embryonic Working Assets Money Fund.

The San Francisco money market fund is the latest entry into an arcane field once dominated by religious groups and now taking hold, say its boosters, in the American mainstream.

Twenty years ago, Christian Scientists loath to invest in alcohol, tobacco or drug companies founded the Foursquare Fund of Boston. Though Foursquare merged with a conventional mutual fund in September, several new funds are prospering and two older ones are healthier than ever.

The grandparents of the current boom are the PAX World Fund, started 13 years ago by pacifist Methodist clergymen, and Dreyfus' Third Century Fund, operated by a major brokerage house.

In September 1982, financial activists in Great Neck, N.Y., founded the New Alternatives Fund for investments in solar and alternative energy sources. A month later, the Calvert Group of Washington, D.C., started two more general social investment funds. Working Assets was born last Sept. 15.

Financial columnists, reporters and advisers are picking up on the trend and fueling it with publicity. The movement has even sparked two of its own newsletters.

"Interest in social investing has really taken off in the last year," says Peter Lowry of "Good Money," a year-old Montpelier, Vt., publication that discusses social investment performance and philosophy.

From rural Towanda, Pa., editors of the three-month-old "Market Conscience" use computers to track firms compatible with a 60-page social investment guide that took a year to research and write.

"We are the only advisory service making buy-sell recommendations to investors that uses social responsibility criteria," says Clark Moeller.

Of the funds, Calvert appears to have the most comprehensive social criteria. Companies and projects must manufacture safe products in a safe workplace with a process that does not harm the environment, must treat workers fairly, and provide equal opportunities for women and minorities.

The fund will not invest in companies "primarily engaged" in the nuclear energy industry, business activities in South Africa or the manufacture of weapons systems. Alcohol and tobacco companies are also taboo.

PAX World has an outright ban on weapons manufacturers while Third Century invests in McDonnell-Douglas, Honeywell and other large Defense Department contractors. Both employ the same environmental, labor, product purity and equal opportunity standards as Calvert.

Calvert, a year old, offers mutual and money market funds totaling $20 million to the conscientious capitalist interested in promoting companies that offer on-site day-care and other progressive policies.

Its president, D. Wayne Silby, 35, is a Wharton graduate and self-described "grateful" product of the 1960s.

The Calvert fund boasts a large star-studded advisory council. Among the members: Amory B. Lovins, author of Soft Energy Paths; Robert Rodale, chairman of the healthconscious Rodale Press, and Julian Bond, the Georgia state legislator identified with civil rights causes.

Socially concerned investors should be aware that performance is relative.

Third Century and PAX World averaged only a one on a 10-point scale in 1982 ratings by The Donoghue Group, a mutual funds analyst.

Third Century, a $140 million growth fund, has paid dividends of 80.5 cents per share this year. Shares were worth $6.58 last Dec. 31 and $7.08 on Sept. 30.

The defense ban that has made PAX World an antiwar attraction for Quakers, Mennonites and others cuts out 40 percent of the fund's potential investments. Still, the balanced fund topped the $11 million mark this year and has paid 77 cents in dividends. Shares were worth $10.37 on Dec. 31 and $11.55 on Sept. 30.

"We've hit the middle ground on performance. We have done better than the New York Stock Exchange," says Jack Corbett, vice president of PAX World.

Calvert's $6 million social investment mutual fund, too new to receive a Donoghue rating, has paid dividends worth 44 cents per share this year. Its shares closed at $15.72 last Dec. 31 and $17.58 on Sept. 30.

The group's $14 million money market fund paid 8.89 percent interest for the first three quarters of 1983, or 9.31 percent compounded — slightly above the Donoghue average and comparable to the Working Assets yield.

Growth does not appear to be a problem for Calvert or Working Assets, which attracted $1 million in its first three weeks of existence.

Jerry Dodson, the 40-year-old president of Working Assets, says his infant venture is seeking people to invest in small business, family farms, higher education and housing.

"We're not a left-wing fund," he says. "We are hoping for a broad spectrum of Americans. We are part of the mainstream."

History book would make good present

The Scurry County Book Committee suggests a perfect Christmas gift for those special loved ones on your list this year: a copy of "Footprints Across Scurry County" which is now in preparation. The book will be a quality production in all respects.

In lieu of the book itself, which will not be off the presses until sometime next year (hopefully by August), the committee has made available some attractive gift certificates which can be hung on the Christmas tree. Each certificate promises that a copy of the book will be delivered when the publication is released.

Do not delay ordering just because the book will not be completed until next year. All orders are needed immediately so that we can meet our goal for book sales before the book is printed.

Remember that only the number of books ordered before printing begins will actually be printed. The book publisher advises us that we need to sell approximately 1000 more books to warrant having approximately 800 pages in the book.

"We are confident this goal will be met," a committee member said,

"Please help us by ordering all the copies you anticipate needing now or in the future."

The book will be a hard-bound leatherette collector's edition of the history of Scurry County and its residents (past and present) as told by the people who have made it. It will be a limited edition, and each book will sell for $40 plus $2 sales tax per copy. If you wish your copies mailed, please add $3 per copy.

Included in the book will be the beginnings of the county, its struggles, its growth and its people. Over 1100 family stories and many current and historic photos will be published in the book. It will also contain histories of businesses and organizations in Scurry County. A special feature of the book will be the memorial section containing people of special importance to Scurry County.

To obtain a gift certificate(s) send payment in the form of a check or money order to Scurry County Book Committee, P. O. Box 204, Snyder, 79549 or come by the Chamber of Commerce Building and ask for Cecile.

Midwives assist births

DEL RIO, Tenn. (AP) — After delivering her 1,168th baby in 1970, 86-year-old midwife Etta Nichols stopped counting.

But she didn't stop delivering. She reckons she has brought more than 2,000 babies into the world, including some of her own 14 grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Their photographs all but wallpaper the living room of her four-room woodframe home in rustic Cocke County, where she lives with her 87-year-old husband, Harrison.

In Mrs. Nichols' 54 years of assisting births without the aid of anesthetics, forceps or a college education, she hasn't lost a single baby, she says.

Expectant mothers and family can stay with Mrs. Nichols as long as necessary, eat and have their laundry done at no extra charge.

"The ones that had two or three in the hospital said they wish they'd come to me before," says Mrs. Nichols. "They feel better after — not all doped up."

In October, Mrs. Nichols delivered the baby of LaFollette preacher Larry Hamilton and his wife, Deborah, who for religious reasons are fighting their 12-year-old daughter's court-ordered cancer treatments.

Mrs. Hamilton traveled 90 miles to have her baby delivered by one of the few midwives in the area who isn't affiliated with a hospital or clinic.

Some women, like Mrs. Hamilton, insist on paying Mrs. Nichols more than $15, she says. But she won't consider the idea of raising her fee.

"There's a lot of people that's poor people, and I know what it's like to be poor," she says. "I'd rather just do it free than let a little child go home hungry."

Lynne Smith, a nurse practitioner with the Cocke County Health Department who has known Mrs. Nichols for 20 years says health officials haven't seriously questioned Mrs. Nichols' practice. "She's just a granny midwife, and in that sense, it's not illegal," she says.

Mrs. Nichols works in a 9-by-9 "birthing room." It has two single beds, a toilet, a white metal supply closet and a sink with running water that she says is so hot she doesn't have to boil it.

Mrs. Nichols learned how to deliver babies by watching her father, who was once a doctor in the county. One night she couldn't find him when a woman was in labor, so she delivered the baby herself, she says.

Since then, she has delivered babies breech, feet first, face up and premature. She says she has delivered 20 sets of twins, and would like to deliver triplets.

Mrs. Nichols said she doesn't plan to retire until "my toes are sticking up."

Astronaut appeared in holiday parade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Space shuttle astronaut Guion Bluford Jr. made a down-to-earth appearance as the grand marshal for Philadelphia's 64th annual Thanksgiving Day parade.

Bluford, 41, a mission specialist who was on September's flight of the Challenger, escorted Santa Claus, 22 high school bands, and an assortment of marchers dressed up as ice cones, animals and clowns. The colorful extravaganza Thursday was called "A Child's Christmas Fantasy."

Many of the cast of characters in the march were employees of Gimbel's department store, the parade sponsor.

Bluford, born in the city, rode in a 1928 Packard convertible with Mayor William Green. About 50,000 people lined the streets. "I never thought when I lived here that I'd be part of something like this, and I like it," the astronaut said.

DON'T LET THE HOLIDAYS GET YOU DOWN

We should all look forward to the Holidays. And yet, it is amazing to note how many people can hardly get through them without a great deal of stress and exhaustion.

The fast pace of modern living seems to make people almost frantic in their approach to the Holiday season. Pressures build for both the business person and the homemaker as they seek to fulfill all social, business and family obligations in a short span of time.

What many of us don't realize is that the way we feel under pressure (mentally and physically) depends to a great extent on our overall health. No one can feel relaxed, pleasant, and capable of coping with a busy schedule if his body is not functioning properly.

Even under normal circumstances, there is a difference in the reactions of those individuals whose health is up to par and those whose health is less than should be expected. Add to that the overindulgence in food and beverage during the Holiday season, the drain on mental and physical capacities, and the result is more obvious. Since the central nervous system influences every part of the body, stress shows up in extreme fatigue, nervous tension, and lowered resistance against disease and disablement.

It's easy to say "slow down for the Holidays," but your doctor of chiropractic offers some sound advice based on his health care experience and training.

1. Before you jump on the merry-go-round of activities, pull out and pitch all the non-essential projects that were time-consuming and wasteful the previous year.

2. Concentrate on essentials, and pace yourself. Make up a list of projects to be done by priority and allow sufficient time for them.

3. Don't try to get all your entertaining into the Holidays. If you "owe" someone dinner or social response, try to schedule it after the Holidays. Since other people suffer the same frustrating schedule as you do, they might also appreciate an invitation when the pace slackens.

4. Resist the temptation to over-eat or to indulge in an excess of rich foods.

5. Get plenty of sleep and relaxation.

6. Keep an important place on that calendar of busy activities for periodic health examinations, including a spinal examination.

Your doctor of chiropractic reminds you that having a happy Holiday depends on staying healthy, being energetic, and being free of pain and illness.

Persistent or recurring aches in the back and limbs may suggest a possible spinal or pelvic problem. This often requires a structural correction of the cause in order to relieve the condition. Although drugs may hide the pain temporarily, the spine and sacroiliac must be aligned to their proper position for normal function.

Striking pilots arrested with bombs, pictures

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Federal agents are investigating a possible plot by striking Continental Airlines pilots to bomb non-striking workers after two striking pilots were arrested and charged with possessing explosive weapons.

The two striking pilots — Frances Calvin Earley, 43, of Houston and Charles Weldon Hall, 47, of Humble — were arrested in San Antonio with a pair of pipe bombs and pictures of at least three homes of non-striking employees, officials said.

Earley and Hall were stopped by Department of Public Safety troopers during a routine driver's license check. After a paper sack containing two pipe bombs was found, each was charged with possession of an explosive weapon and released Wednesday on a $10,000 bond.

The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has launched an investigation into the activities of Earley and Hall, said Phillip Chojnacki, acting special agent in agency's Houston office.

"We are investigating that situation referred to us by the Department of Public Safety. At this stage of the game, there's nothing I can legally refer to the news media," said Chojnacki.

Earley and Hall could not be reached by The Associated Press Friday.

The two men were arrested Tuesday afternoon in San Antonio and, at the time, said they worked in a drapery business, said DPS Trooper J.R. Holder, one of the arresting officers.

Holder said that at a bond hearing the pair listed their occupations as Continental pilots.

Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks confirmed Friday that the two were striking pilots.

"We've been totally shocked by this incident involving these striking ... pilots," Hicks said. "There has been a very well-organized campaign of harassment, intimidation and threats since the strike began, but until now, the bulk of it has been very sophomoric.

"This is clearly well beyond the fairly mild intimidation thus far," he said.

An Airline Pilot's Association official said the union was not involved in the incident.

"I have been a union representative for 10 years and (have) never been involved in anything like this. I was not involved in it. As far as I know, no other union officials were involved," said Dennis Higgins, head of the Continental Airline Pilots' Association master executive council.

The DPS said it pursued the pair in a car after they apparently tried to avoid a routine driver's license check on the city's north side. A variety of disguises also were found in the suspects' car, the DPS said.

DPS Trooper Hector Herrera said after the car was stopped, the two men gave the troopers their licenses. At that time, an unidentified woman drove up and gave the officer a paper sack that she said had been thrown from the car by one of the men.

Herrera opened the sack and discovered two pipe bombs.

The strike against Continental began Oct. 1 after Chairman Frank Lorenzo shut down the airline and regrouped under new work rules and reduced salaries.

Sgt. Robert Ellis of the San Antonio police bomb squad said the pipe bombs would "fragment when they explode. They would be more apt to be used like a hand grenade — lit and thrown at someone."

Ellis said each pipe bomb had a foot-long fuse. Hicks said that Continental said it is prepared to provide additional security for its pilots.

"We are cooperating 100 percent with this investigation and we are doing all else that we can to provide the additional security that our pilots may feel that they need, but we would hope that this incident is one-of-a-kind," he said.

Hicks said the two suspects had been active in the strike, "picketing and being involved in rallies and so forth."

Accuse hospitals of discrimination

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A state legislator says he is looking into complaints about discrimination and harassment leveled against five hospitals by about a dozen black doctors.

Officials at the five hospitals deny the allegations, saying the process used to evaluate doctors for staff privileges is fair and that doctors of all races are subjected to the same examination.

But Rep. Reby Cary, a black Democrat from Fort Worth, says he met with the doctors and believes their allegations.

"It's a bad situation. There is a conspiracy among the hospitals, or at least among the doctors, to keep black doctors out," Cary told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "We are looking at the alternatives. I suspect we will probably file a class-action suit."

Ray Bell, president of the Fort Worth chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said his organization also has been involved in some of the meetings.

"We're going to wait to see what happens," he said. "We don't believe in going to court unless we have to."

The hospitals named by Cary were John Peter Smith Hospital, Harris Hospital, All Saints Hospital, St. Joseph Hospital and Medical Plaza, all in Fort Worth.

No discrimination complaints have been filed by black doctors against any state or local agencies empowered to investigate them.

Several black doctors said they were aware of the discrimination allegations but that they had not been discriminated against. Others declined to comment.

Dr. W. Michael Byrd, a black obstetrician-gynecologist, said he lost his staff privileges at Harris Hospital several years ago but declined to say why.

He said intense examination of black doctors forces them to spend more time on paperwork. They also are asked to return to school for additional training more than white doctors, said Byrd.

"You spend 25 percent of your time covering your tracks because you know you're going to be excessively reviewed," he said.

At St. Joseph's Hospital, 14 of 621 doctors are black, and four of 319 doctors are black at John Peter Smith, hospital officials said. Statistics for the other three hospitals were not available.

Of the 905 practicing doctors in Fort Worth, about 25 are black, said Dr. W. Michael Byrd, a black obstetrician-gynecologist.

Of 7,982 students enrolled at the University of Texas medical and health science campuses in fall 1982, the last year for which figures were available, there were 319 blacks, according to the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board.

"At Harris, everything I do is under intense scrutiny," said Dr. Charles Battle, a black internist. "All of a sudden, my work is not acceptable."

Battle said he has been reprimanded for ordering too many tests on patients.

Another black doctor, who asked not to be identified, said: "Our charts are reviewed much more stringently than other doctors. I'm constantly having to defend the way I practice."

Newspaper strike affects millions

LONDON (AP) — A 21-week dispute over the firing of six printers by a small northern England company has escalated into a massive strike that today shut down all 10 national newspapers.

The strike was seen as the first major challenge to a law Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government introduced last year to curb Britain's powerful trade unions.

To protest a court order impounding their union's funds, printers belonging to the National Graphical Association walked off the job Friday in Fleet Street, London's newspaper row, and in Manchester, where northern editions of the national newspapers are printed.

The strike forced cancellation of today's editions of The Times, Daily Telegraph, Guardian, Financial Times, Sun, Mirror, Express, Star, Mail and Morning Star. The newspapers have a combined circulation of 14.83 million.

High Court Judge Michael Eastham in Manchester had ordered the seizure of the printing union's entire assets of $16.2 million because of its refusal to pay a $73,000 contempt of court fine.

Eastham levied the fine on the 131,000-member union last week after it refused to call off mass picketing. The High Court ruled the picketing violated the 1982 Employment Act, which says workers can picket only at their own company.

The judge added another

$146,000 in fines Friday, saying, "The attitude (NGA members) have maintained ... is that they are above the law."

The Court of Appeal in London — the next rung on the British legal ladder — set a hearing for Wednesday.

The dispute started 21 weeks ago when Selim Shah, chairman of a chain of free weekly advertising newspapers in northern England, fired six union printers in "Stockport for going on strike."

The workers had accused Shah of breaking a closed-shop agreement by employing non-union workers. The dispute escalated and British television has nightly shown savage clashes between massed ranks of police and up to 600 pickets outside Shah's newspaper distribution plant at nearby Warrington.

In defiance of the 1982 act, the union has based in pickets from as far away as Scotland.

The union, backed by the 11-million Trades Union Congress — Britain's equivalent of the AFL-CIO — plans another mass picket Tuesday.

Union officials Friday were seen loading files from their headquarters into private cars. The BBC said the union was transferring some of its funds out of the country to prevent their seizure.

There were no immediate reports of court officials trying to seize union assets or funds to pay the fines.

Soviet missile deployment.

Plan might disrupt balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Reagan administration denies the Soviet walkout on arms talks amounts to a crisis, the Pentagon is concerned that Moscow's plans to deploy new missiles might disrupt the nuclear balance.

Administration spokesmen studiously tried to dispel the impression Friday that a new confrontation between the superpowers would ensue with the suspension of arms talks and the Soviet announcement of new weapons to counter NATO's decision to install 572 Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe.

Alan Romberg, deputy State Department spokesman, denied the new Soviet deployments, including rockets on submarines off the North American coasts, would be a new threat to the United States.

Soviet leader Yuri Andropov outlined the new deployment measures in a statement issued Thursday, a day after Soviet arms negotiators said they were "discontinuing" the talks in Geneva on medium-range missiles.

Romberg said there was nothing new in Andropov's announcement.

But a senior Pentagon official expressed concern over Andropov's announcement of plans to install new submarine-based cruise missiles.

"If the Soviets were to deploy long-range cruise missiles on submarines and if they were accurate enough, it could affect the strategic balance," Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Perle said in an interview prepared for broadcast this weekend by the Voice of America.

In a separate interview, Perle said the threat of submarine-launched missiles would depend on the number and location of the weapons. The submarine-launched cruise missiles "could be used to attack our bomber forces" before the warplanes could get off the ground, he said.

Perle downplayed the overall significance of Moscow's latest moves, saying the missile deployments announced by Andropov have been planned for some time, not just in retaliation for NATO's decision to proceed with the installation of Pershing 2 and cruise missiles.

But he suggested that the deployment of mobile SS-20 missiles in Eastern Europe was potentially dangerous for Western Europe.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes, meanwhile, announced that U.S. arms control negotiator Paul Nitze will soon begin consultations with U.S. allies, including nations where the new missile deployments are planned. Secretary of State George Shultz is also scheduled to visit NATO allies early next month, beginning with a stop in West Germany, the site of some Pershing 2 installations.

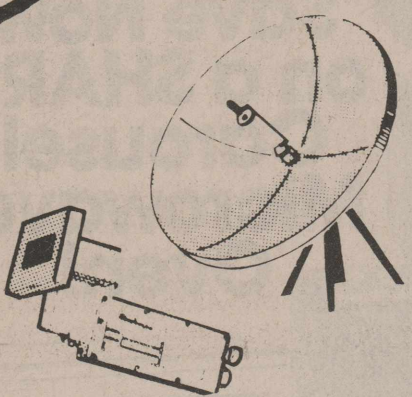

Speakes, who spoke to reporters in Santa Barbara, Calif., near where President Reagan was vacationing at his ranch, also denied the Soviet walkout from the Geneva talks amounted to a crisis. He reiterated the U.S. willingness to resume the talks.

HOLIDAY REUNION — Although they try to see each other at least once a year, Joanne Dunn of Tulsa, Okla. and her two brothers hadn't spent Thanksgiving together the past 20 years. Thursday, Bob Clifton (left), morning radio announcer for KSNV, and younger brother Terry Rumpff changed this as the family was reunited again for the holiday. (SDN Staff Photo)

WJCAC teams dominate...

Dusters outduel Buccaneers, 84-69

The Western Junior College Athletic Conference ruled here Friday, taking a three-game sweep in first-day action of the Duster Classic.

Howard College opened the event with an 82-77 victory over Cisco Junior College before Amarillo's Lady Badgers outclawed Yavapai, 64-57. Then, in the nightcap, the host Western Texas College Dusters defeated Blinn Junior College, 84-69.

The tournament was to continue through Saturday with Howard taking on Blinn at 4, Amarillo testing Cisco at 6 and the Dusters entertaining Yavapai at 8. The Dusters had a relatively easy time of it Friday, as Coach Joe Cushing emptied the bench on several occasions. Western led by as much as 12 points in the first half, had that trimmed down to 43-37 by intermission, but outscored the hosts 16-3 as the second 20-minute period began.

The margin stayed at 17-19 points until Renvy Evans executed a three-point play to make it a 75-53 score with six minutes left. Karen Kuykendall put up a pair of freethrows minutes later, and Western had a 24 point lead.

"I had a brilliant game plan where we go out and win," said a happy Cushing after the game. "We didn't know what to expect out of them (Blinn). We really had no information at all. So both teams went into it blind. They lacked our height. I thought they'd be real quick, but I believe we out-quickened them," he said.

"We were able to play our 'Chinese Bandits,'" he said, referring to the nickname of several players on the bench who "go out there and look like a chinese fire drill."

But on the serious side, Cushing added, "We needed that game. It gave us the opportunity to play a lot of people and to rest some of our others."

Mary Nell Clayton, the sophomore from Roby, led all scorers in the game with 22 points. Evans sacked up 15 as the only other Duster in double figures. Liz Grant, a transfer from Blinn, had 8 points, as did Clara Campbell.

Blinn, which scored 14 of its 32 second-half points on freethrows - the Bucs were 19 of 26 for the night - was led by 5-6 Sharon Kovar's

28. Annette Guidry had 10. Earlier in the evening, Howard had led almost all the way but couldn't shake the scrambling Wranglers from Cisco. Shelly Kay, a 5-4 guard from Whitharral, played a big hand, scoring

21 Queens points. Alex Provincio and Debbie Hall sacked up 18 each. For Cisco, 5-10 sophomore Barbara Williams had 29 points - the most scored by an individual so far in this tournament. Nena Barber added 13. Amarillo got 22 points from 6-2 veteran Machel Whitehead and added 12 from Georgia Walton and 10 from Sharon Marion to trip Yavapai College of Prescott, Ariz.

Yavapai got 14 from 6-1 sophomore Tami Brewster and 13 from guard Pam Cizan.

Wins in first round...

Holmes pounds Frazier

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Larry Holmes, the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion, knocked down Marvin Frazier with a tremendous right to the head, then battered the son of the former heavyweight champion into submission at 2:57 of the first round of a scheduled 12-round fight Friday night.

The fight was not sanctioned by the WBC as a title fight but if Holmes had lost, the title would have been declared vacant. The 34-year-old Holmes made sure that didn't happen.

Frazier came out at the opening bell and threw a big left hook, which had been the trademark of his father, Smokin' Joe Frazier, but it missed. Thirty seconds into the round, Frazier mugged at Holmes with his hands at his side and suddenly hit

Then, Holmes got his punishing left jab working and scored with it often. He also scored with a good left hook and a right, and at one point in the round threw Frazier against the ropes.

At the 2:09 mark, Frazier hit the deck. Holmes missed with a left, then caught the 23-year-old Frazier flush in the face with a right that dropped him on the seat of his pants.

He immediately got to one knee and took an eight-count before arising.

Holmes rushed into the attack, throwing shots to the head with both hands as Frazier, on wobbly legs, backed into his own corner. Several times during the assault, Holmes motioned with his right hand to referee Mills Lane to stop the fight.

Then after a smashing right to the head by Holmes, Lane jumped in and halted the proceedings.

"I'm not going to win any popularity contest, so I'm going crazy," said

Holmes before the fight. "I'm going out and take his head off."

There certainly was no play in Holmes on this evening before a crowd of about 4,000 in the 4,500-seat Caesars Palace Sports Pavilion and a national television audience.

Eagles overcome Crimson Tide

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - In an 83-second span, 15th-ranked Boston College, 9-2, turned two fumble recoveries into touchdowns. Then the Eagles withstood a last-minute threat by the No. 13 Crimson Tide, 7-3, and pulled out a 20-13 college football victory Friday.

Six plays after Dave Thomas recovered a fumble by Kerry Goode at the Alabama 35, Doug Flutie threw a five-yard touchdown pass to Bob Bielek. Brian Waldron's extra point tied the score, 13-13 with 6:29 remaining.

On the Crimson Tide's next offensive play, Ricky Moore fumbled and defensive end Steve Lubischer pounced on the ball at the Alabama 33. Four plays later, Bielek bulldozed over from the 3 for the winning touchdown with 5:06 to go.

"Fumbles killed us," said Moore, who rushed for 109 yards to crack the 100-yard mark for the fourth consecutive game. "We gave the game away in the fourth quarter. I never really had control of the ball."

The first half was played in a driving rainstorm, and both teams had trouble mounting sustained at- tacks. Alabama's Van Tiffin kicked field goals of 20 and 28 yards before Steve Strachan scored on a one-yard run 19 seconds before intermission to tie the score 6-6.

IDON'T LOVE YOU ANYMORE

"I don't love you anymore."

This is a dilemma many couples find themselves in.

There are reasons for this dilemma, but it doesn't have to be that way.

Many couples find themselves in a double bind: They no longer have the same feelings they once had for each other, but they feel guilty about breaking up the family unit.

When divorce proceedings do take place, most couples experience ambivalent feelings - they cannot live with one another, nor can they readily adjust to living apart.

"What is happening to couples?"

Many find themselves caught in a maze of conflicting conditions and expectations.

Here are some.

•Old established values that promote a secure feeling for home and family are now "free floaters" in the media, tossed around casually as "maybes" for some in today's new world, so some couples who find themselves in a traditional family life begin to feel left out of the "new life."

•Mobility tears families away from relatives and friends, yet they move next door to permanent residents who haven't been touched by the mobility phenomenon.

•Sexual exclusiveness may be an early marital expectation, yet extra-marital affairs are often depicted by the media as an "ok" alternate choice to couples.

There are other conflicts that cause couples to fall "out-of-love."

Personality differences may continue to grow larger. A warm, expressive person often finds an introverted, distant partner too cold and unfeeling to live with.

The greater the number of differences between a husband and wife, the more likely they are to grow apart.

Closely associated with personality is attitude. Opposites are often poles apart - materialism versus idealism, pessimism versus optimism, self-centered versus others-centered.

Also, today in the midst of cultural conflict and change, love is subjectively defined for each spouse by his own personality and background - rather than by both as partners.

When there are no agreed upon norms and expectations by the couple as partners, confusion and apathy may develop.

On the other hand, love between two people is adaptability and harmony. It is learning to communicate, to feel, to expand and grow as an individual - and as a couple.

One cannot love only one's spouse. Each spouse must be in love with people, with experiences - in short, with life.

Then each can go on saying, "I still love you - because I love who we've each become."

New theater

SEATTLE (AP) — A new $10 million theater has opened in Seattle with a new American play, "Ballad of Soapy Smith."

The 864-seat theater, named the Bagley Wright, contains a smaller rehearsal theater, the Poncho Forum, within the new theater.

The new play, by Michael Weller, centers on a high-powered con man during the Alaska Gold Rush.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

The late Sidney Lenz was a great composer of problems. They were presented in very amusing form, but frequently the opening lead would be a poor one that would give declarer a chance to make some rather difficult contract. In today's hand North explains that his partner not only bid seven spades, but after getting the queen of hearts lead, proceeded to chuck what had become a laydown contract. A typical pseudo-expert claims that there is no way to make it after that lead, and a very large wager is laid. In fact, it is the old Dr. Faustus theme, in which North bets his soul with Mr. L.U. Cifer. A few of you will already have figured the play out. In order to save the rest of you headaches, North's ace wins the first heart and the jack of hearts is played. East must cover with the king. South ruffs and runs off all his trumps. This gives him a chance to discard the A-K-Q-J of diamonds and a small club from dummy. It also puts West under pressure in all suits. He must come down to six cards. One must be the nine of hearts, and two others the K-Q of clubs. That leaves him with just three diamonds, so South can now cash four diamonds to squeeze West in hearts and clubs. Either way, the slam comes home and North's soul is saved. Workshop on purchasing home computers scheduled

The Scurry County Program Building Committee in cooperation with the county extension office will sponsor a workshop on "Purchasing of Home Computer Systems" Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7 p.m. in Room 118 at Snyder High School. All area residents are welcome to attend.

The program is designed to assist the consumer in making decisions on purchasing a home computer for themselves or as Christmas gifts. With Christmas only a few weeks away many computer companies are offering reduced prices for their systems. Many people may not realize exactly what they are receiving for their money. Many of these questions will be answered during the workshop, say Marvin Enson and Kathryn Roberts, county extension agents.

The program will be very introductory and simple with terminology and parts of computers being explained and also the programs that are available. A variety of computer systems will be displayed and demonstrated.

Mrs. Larry Early, Snyder High School computer math teacher, will present the program.

Questions regarding the workshop should be directed to the Scurry County Extension Office.

Dear Abby

Man and His Best Friend Can Be Buried Together

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The more I see of people, the more I love my dogs. I would like to be buried with them, but I can't find a cemetery where people and their pets can be buried together. Is there one? I am 83 and not crazy.

DOG LOVER IN HARRISBURG, PA.

DEAR DOG LOVER: To my knowledge, the only cemetery in the world where humans and their pets are buried side by side is Bonheur Memorial Park, located just outside Baltimore.

The owner, William A. Green, said there are currently about 8,000 pets and 100 humans buried there, with reservations in the hundreds for more.

Bonheur is the final resting place for dogs, cats, hamsters, rabbits, birds and monkeys. An elephant named Mary Ann who lived at the Baltimore Zoo for over 40 years is also buried there. Plans are being made to bury six racehorses—a difficult feat because after a horse dies, it's impossible to fold its legs.

Bonheur offers 24-hour pick-up service in a custom-built pet hearse from home or animal hospital. The pet is brought to Bonheur where it is bathed and groomed to give it a lovely "sleeping" appearance. The pet is then placed in a satin- or velvet-lined casket and placed in the "slumber" room for viewing. For those who want a religious service, a priest, minister or rabbi may be engaged.

For an extra fee, candles will be lighted at the grave of the loved one on the anniversary of his or her birth or death, and on Easter and Christmas. If your pet was Jewish, Hanukkah and Passover are remembered as well.

It costs about $350 to bury an average-sized cat and about $450 for a large German shepherd. A complete interment of a human is about $950. (Human bodies must be prepared at a "regular" funeral home.)

Bonheur was founded in 1935 as a pet cemetery, and in 1979 special permission was granted by the court to bury humans as well.

Some may think that being buried with a pet—or even giving it a "funeral"—is a foolish waste of money. But to many, a pet is a much-loved member of the family and it seems reasonable to me to give it a dignified and compassionate burial.

For more information about this unique cemetery, write to: Bonheur Memorial Park, 7239 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Md. 21227.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl, and I just finished reading your booklet, "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know."

As I read through it, I thought it was just an OK book, but when I started reading the chapter on drugs, I thought it was really great!

I have never taken any drugs. I have never even had a desire to try them, but after I read your booklet, it made me absolutely sure that I will never try drugs as long as I live. I never realized how serious just trying drugs out could be.

I hope other kids will read your booklet and learn what I did. Thanks, Abby. I am passing it around to my friends.

NO DRUGS FOR ME IN MAINE

DEAR NO DRUGS: Thanks for writing. Your letter made my day. For those who want the booklet, "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know," send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I moved to another state, I had to find a new physician. Right off the bat, he started calling me by my first name, so I said, "Since you are calling me 'Melanie,' I suppose I may call you 'Milton.'"

He looked a bit surprised and replied, "No, just call me 'Doctor.'"

I suppose rank has its privileges, right?

MRS. JONES

DEAR MRS. JONES: This is not the Army, Mrs. Jones. Ask your doctor to please call you "Madame" or "Mrs. Jones."

Senior center highly rated

The Scurry County Senior Citizens Center received commendation for its services and programs during the annual evaluation conducted by Kayla Fowler, program director for the Department of Aging of the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

"In my opinion, this is the model program for the region," Fowler said. She cited the center especially for the variety of activities offered, the quality of food served at the noon meal on weekdays, and the efforts made to involve residents of communities throughout the county.

The senior center is sponsored by Western Texas College and receives generous financial support from both the county and the City of Snyder.

It was originally housed on the WTC campus but since January, 1979 it has occupied space in a building at 2603 Avenue M that the county remodeled from what had been used by Travis Junior High School as a band and shop facility. The county also has office space in the building.

Gloria Shaw is the director.

Records show that in the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, the center served 35,000 meals, with 9,318 delivered to shut-ins. Contributions for the meals last year totaled $29,897, putting the center in the top 10 percent in the region for meal contributions.

A total of 1,107 different people ate at least one meal in the center during the year.

The Scurry County

Senior Center is generally ranked among the top 10 in the state. Both Fowler and Mrs. Shaw have noted that other centers have studied the local operation and have adapted its programs for their own use. Mrs. Shaw has been invited to describe the activities of the center as a participant in leadership workshops held by WCTCOG.

Very often, the volunteer hours generated through the center comprise more than half of the combined totals of volunteer hours in Taylor, Jones and Callahan counties, Fowler noted. (Not all senior centers have a volunteer program, thus no comparisons can be made with all centers in the region.)

Mrs. Shaw is beginning her seventh year as director of the senior center. Other staff members are Jean Smith, assistant director; Mary Farris, coordinator of volunteer services (part-time); Bonnie Schupp, secretary; and Nadine Pearce and Melva Craig, food services. Senior citizens assist in the operation of the center through volunteer work.

Producer marries

3rd time at age 96

NEW YORK (AP) — At age 96, Broadway producer George Abbott has married again — the third marriage for him and the first for his bride, 52-year-old Philadelphia businesswoman Joy Moana Valderrama. The couple tied the knot Monday in a ceremony in Abbott's Miami Beach home.

Miss Valderrama, president of a Philadelphia retail fur company, met Abbott 25 years ago while she was attending school and working as a Hawaiian dancer in a New Jersey nightclub. She was a championship tennis player and is a member of the Sports Hall of Fame at Temple University.

Bumper apple crop reported in Washington

By TOM HOGE
AP Wire & Food Writer
The crisp, bright days of autumn signal the harvest of America's favorite fruit — the crisp, crunchy apple — and Washington state, known as the "World's Apple Bowl," reports a bumper crop this year.

The worldwide yield of apples hovers around 700 million bushels, nearly one-fifth of which are grown in the orchards of America. More than 40 percent of the national crop is harvested in Washington.

Thousands of varieties of apples are known to exist, but relatively few are cultivated in this country any more. At least 6,500 types are said to exist worldwide and about a thousand have appeared in America.

But many succumbed to insects and blight, while others did not have wide enough appeal. In fact, they were disappearing at such an alarming rate that in 1952 the Worcester County (Mass.) Horticultural Society saved a number from extinction.

Among the fruits that dominate the American market are the mellow Baldwins of New York, New England and the Middle West and the delicately textured Cortland from New York and New Jersey.

But Washington state sets the pace. Its yield includes the Red Delicious, now the world's leading type, and its sister, the Golden Delicious, whose firm, sweet flesh, unlike most types, resists browning when cut open.

Other varieties from Washington are the Winesap, whose tart flesh is crackling crisp, and the aromatic Rome Beauty, known for its brilliant red hue.

The fertile soil of Washington, combined with long summer days, low humidity and lots of sunshine, accounts for the juicy sweetness of the local fruit.

In my opinion, the Golden Delicious, with delicate flavor and low sodium content, is one of the tastiest grown in the West. This apple holds its shape well when cooked and its golden skin is so tender that paring is not called for in many recipes, such as this one for Apple Shrimp Sauté.

1/4 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

6 ounces fresh or frozen shrimp

1 Golden Delicious apple, cored and sliced, with skin left on

1/2 cup fresh or frozen peas

1 stalk celery, diagonally sliced

1 green onion, sliced

1 tablespoon cold water

1 teaspoon cornstarch

Combine pineapple juice, soy sauce and ginger; bring to boil. Add shrimp, apple, peas, celery and green onion. Simmer 5 minutes, or until shrimp is cooked, stirring frequently. Combine water and cornstarch and blend into hot juices in pan. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Serves 2.

Like most other American citizens, we remember where we were the day John F. Kennedy was shot. And like most folks, our circumstances were unremarkable on that remarkable day in history. Nov. 22, 1963 was a school day — a Friday. The shooting occurred at approximately 12:30 p.m., so most of us were out of class for lunch when the tragedy occurred. We returned around 12:45 p.m. to the wild rumors which immediately followed the incident. We settled in to our classes, and then came the announcement offered by the high school principal. The president had been shot, perhaps mortally wounded. Silence is probably the overriding memory of that moment — the amazing quiet that comes when a large group of people are suddenly still. A curious feeling, like hearing of the death of a distant relative. At age 15, politics and the importance of the presidency are pretty much lost on a wise-guy teenager. But there were no wise guy reactions that day as we and the rest of our classmates puzzled over this news. We remember a distant feeling. "Crazy," we thought. "That's just crazy." The first class after lunch was sophomore English. High school studies of the time alternated each year with grammar then literature. The sophomore and senior years were designated for literature, with one dollop of Shakespeare to be included each year. The sophomore offering was Julius Caesar, and the senior requirement Macbeth. When word of Kennedy's death reached us, we had just opened our books to the portion of Julius Caesar where the attackers fall upon the king with daggers. We remember the photographs illustrating the play, slick color photos from a stage production. Caesar's white tunic was streaked with blood beneath the raised and bloody knives. The irony of that moment has stayed with us these 20 years. And the sight of that stage blood remains in our memory. A few minutes later, the principal announced over the speaker system that a Catholic priest had been summoned to Dallas' Parkland Memorial Hospital where Kennedy had been taken. The speculation, according to radio reports, was that the Catholic president was being given last rites. The confirmation that Kennedy was dead followed a few minutes later. The first sound after what seemed long seconds was a girl sobbing — a silly chuckleheaded freshman two rooms away. She cried at football game losses and pep rallies, so the sound of her crying was familiar to us and came as no surprise. Most of us absorbed the information quietly — withdrawing into ourselves.

Eight years later, this same quiet pervaded a street near downtown Dallas. We didn't know exactly where we were as we tried to weave our way back to more familiar territory. It was with a mild shock that we read the chisled stone inscription above a building entrance way — "Texas School Book Depository." It was toward dusk that day, and we stopped the car briefly just to look. The downtown Dallas traffic was a distant noise, but little traffic passed this spot where history had been made. As it has happened on other visits to other historical sites, the importance of what happened there was not reflected in what we saw — only a brick building with a famous name. The memory of Nov. 22, 1963 remains a silent classroom.

SCHWABEISCH GMUEND, West Germany (NEA) — It would be difficult to imagine a more peaceful setting than this south-central portion of the Federal Republic of Germany. Drowning in the late-autumn sun, the rolling Swabian countryside is a tapestry of perfectly manicured fields and dark patches of forest, dotted here and there with picture-postcard villages. Like this one, which at the moment is of some special and controversial significance. This is where the first of the new U.S. intermediate-range ballistic missiles are to become operational Dec. 15 — nine Pershing II launchers and 13 nuclear-tipped missiles. There is at the moment, however, no sign of that controversy here. Schwabish Gmuend has not been untouched by the anti-deployment campaign, but most of the action has been elsewhere, in major cities which, as Franz-Josef Strauss, the intensely conservative and staunchly pro-missile prime minister of neighboring Bavaria, points out, are for the most part far from the sites of actual deployment. Giving rise, he says, to some misleading impressions. "You must make a distinction between real resistance and the multiplied effect of mass media reporting." But even so, he believes the effort has failed. Strauss is firmly convinced that deployment will continue on schedule barring the "miracle" of a last-minute Soviet-American agreement in the Geneva negotiations. Still, the anti-missile forces are clearly doing more than spinning their wheels on the missile issue. It has given focus and strength to a peace movement that poses some serious questions for the Federal Republic's present and future. Although polls show a public majority still in support of the Western alliance, there is no question that Germans are increasingly concerned about where their role as good allies is taking them. Germany is the only country receiving the Pershing IIs which, because they can strike Soviet targets within minutes of launching, are the real issue in the missile confrontation. Only slower and less controversial cruise missiles are to be based elsewhere, in Britain, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands. This puts the Germans, who already have more nuclear weapons on their territory than any other country in Western Europe, more than ever on the front line. It also ratchets that German authorities have no say in the use, if it ever comes to that, of the weapons based in Germany. Even pro-alliance and pro-missile Strauss has suggested the advisability of a "second key" in German hands for the activation of nuclear weapons on German soil. Further, the peace movement is not something apart from mainstream German politics but tightly intermeshed. It has in effect co-opted the leadership of the major opposition party, the Social Democrats, which is now engaged in a struggle for control of the movement with the extremist Greens, who are not only opposed to missiles but would take West Germany out of NATO and adopt a policy of neutralism. The good news in all of this is that, so far at least, the contest is being conducted strictly according to the rules. The anti-missile demonstrations have been noisy enough, but with minimal violence on the part of either the demonstrators or the forces charged with maintaining law and order. There are no echoes of the anarchy in the streets that 50 years ago changed German and world history. This may well turn out to have been an autumn of decision not only for missile deployment and the military balance between East and West on the European front line, but for German democracy. You'd never know it, however, from the tranquility that prevails here, at Ground Zero.

Nov. 21
The annual Gold Coater of the Year award — given to the most active member of the chamber of commerce goodwill representatives — has been renamed, it was announced Monday. Beginning with the next chamber of commerce banquet, when the award is presented, it will be called the Paul Sizemore Award. Two Scurry County youth were among top 4-Hers from a 20-county area honored at the annual South Plains District 4-H Gold Star Banquet conducted in Lubbock. Following an option offered them by a statewide vote this past Nov. 8, Scurry County commissioners Monday proposed to divide the county into two rather than four justice of the peace and constable precincts.

This concept was one of the amendments to the state constitution approved by Texas voters during this past General Election. Scurry County currently has four JP and constable precincts. Of these eight possible county offices, six are currently held. While noting they agreed with the proposal "in concept," city council members Monday backed away from adopting a proposed "unattended child" ordinance. City staffers were instructed Monday to research a new city ordinance which would limit business-use type motor vehicles parked in residential areas here. Specifically, the city council asked that such concerns as noxious odors or hazardous materials in such vehicles be addressed.

Public opposition raised at an Austin meeting Tuesday of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority Board prompts directions for a "new look" at 16 counties in the state previously pinpointed as potential sites for a proposed waste dump site. Among these is the five-county area identified by the authority as the Red Bed Plains and consisting of Scurry, Borden, Mitchell, Garza and Howard Counties. WEDNESDAY Nov. 23 A second suspect was in custody Wednesday morning, linked to the Oct. 17 burglary of Margaret's dress shop on the south side of the Snyder square. Charged was a 29-year-old Lubbock man, the brother of the first suspect arrested in connection with the case Nov. 14. A 21-year-old Snyder man was given a 16-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections after being found guilty of charges of possession of a controlled substance. FRIDAY Nov. 25 A sizeable expansion of facilities at the Ezell-Key feed plant east of Snyder was announced Friday. The storage expansion — which has nearly doubled the plant's previous capacity — involves the addition of six metal storage tanks. To feed these tanks, a bucket conveyor-type "elevator" has been added plus a new grain dumping pit. In addition, equipment additions have been added to the feed plant itself. This includes adding a 2-ton "horizontal mixer" — which blends the various ingredients comprising feed cake — and a second conveyor-type "elevator" inside the plant. The number of fire runs were up substantially for both calls inside and outside the city limits of Snyder during the past 12-month period, it was reported Friday. During this period, the fire department answered a total of 426 fire calls as compared to 302 for the previous 12-month period. This included 216 inside the city limits and 210 to rural Scurry County. The Christmas season was ushered in Friday with the arrival of Santa Claus and a Yuletide program on the square. Christmas decorations this year have been expanded to include not only the square, but also the shopping area along College Ave. from 30th St. to just beyond 37th St. Santa arrived at 3 p.m. via a red fire truck and siren at the southwest corner of the courthouse. Community-wide carollers sang and the Christmas lights were turned on also.

"A lady once said to me in an interview one day, 'Now be honest. Weren't you happier when you were starving?' I said, 'Are you nuts?'" — Wayne Newton, singer, on his possessions, which include Arabian horses, an antique sports car collection, a helicopter and a 52-acre Las Vegas ranch. (ABC-TV) "Even when I was little, I was big." — William Perry, Clemson University football player, who is 6 feet 3 inches tall, 320 pounds. Perry is a defensive lineman. "It's terrible. The kids really look forward to those gifts in the box. Can you imagine the questions they would have asked?" — Lorraine Iglesias, consumer, on finding a sex manual instead of a toy inside a box of Cracker Jack. (Rolling Stone) In 1945, a section of Prospect Point overlooking the United States side of Niagara Falls fell into the Niagara gorge.

Looking Back

FIVE YEARS AGO
Kenneth Wood, a volunteer fireman since 1950, was named Fireman of the Year at the Annual Snyder Fire Department Thanksgiving Banquet last night — Nov. 19. Snyder High School bandmen Darrell Calvert and Martha Womack were named to the TMEA All-Region Orchestra in Wichita Falls Tuesday — Nov. 21. The SHS Tigers captured the school's first ever Class AAA Bi-District football trophy with Friday night's 17-9 victory over the Burk Burnett Bulldogs in Tiger Stadium. Tiger standouts included Richard Crayton, Tony Degrate and field goal kicker Baron Land. 10 YEARS AGO SHS senior offensive lineman and senior running back Willie Smith and Welton Cobb were the only Tigers named to the all-district team for District 4-AAAA announced yesterday — Nov. 24. Cobb was listed on the All-District roster twice as both a running back and defensive linebacker. Workers were chipping out concrete from the center of the WTC Sentell Memorial Stage in the campus courtyard this week in preparation for the installation of an eight foot square mosaic featuring a wagon wheel, cactus, Indian pictographs and rocks. The mosaic, which was planned for the stage from the start of construction, was designed by WTC Assistant Art Professor Warren Cullar with Cullar and art instructor Mike Thornton doing the actual installation. 15 YEARS AGO Both Snyder Lamar and Travis Junior High School marching bands captured first division ratings in UIL marching contests in Odessa Saturday — Nov. 23. The Lamar bands were under the direction of Jerry Roe and Travis bands were led by Ray F. Lashaway. Snyder Goodfellows opened their annual Christmas campaign this week seeking donations of money, toys, clothing and food for needy citizens during the holiday season. In charge of the effort was chairman Gerald Johnson and vice-chairman Rev. John Gordon. 20 YEARS AGO Snyder Goodfellow officers elected last night — Nov. 21 — included Keith Pitner, Jim Erwin and Mrs. Kenneth Wood. Local students and members of the Snyder Kiwanis Club got a chance to visit with royalty today — Nov. 27 — when the exiled Princess Catherine Caradja of Romania visited here. The princess, an acquaintance of high school teacher Bob Cole, addressed an assembly at the high school about life in Communist Romania. 25 YEARS AGO Scurry County 4-H Gold Star award winners for 1958 were Sadie Fren Hillis and Royce Summers. County Judge Edgar Taylor presented the awards at the annual 4-H awards ceremony in the Towle Park Barn. All-American running back Jack Spikes from Snyder scored a touchdown for the TCU Horned Frogs in Houston Saturday — Nov. 22 — as TCU bested Rice 21-10 to claim the Southwest Conference title and a berth in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1. Also representing Snyder on the TCU squad for 1958 was sophomore receiver and defensive back Milton Ham.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the state in late November for final 1983 crop acreage, yield and production totals and end-of-year livestock and poultry inventories.

State statistician Dennis Findley reported that producer compliance with the current farm programs reduced crop acreage across the state, and many farmers and ranchers are depending on this survey information for an accurate picture of the 1983 agricultural situation.

Findley explained that the confidential interviews, conducted by mail or in person by field enumerators, provide information used by producers to make their production and marketing plans for the coming year. "Without these reports, farmers and ranchers would have to rely on other sources for crop and livestock information," he added.

To reduce survey costs, Findley is urging farmers and ranchers to return the mailed questionnaires as soon as possible. The reported information will be combined for state as well as county estimates.

Annual county estimates are published to livestock, dairy, poultry, cotton, field crops, small grains, fruits, pecans, vegetables, and cash receipts from the sale of farm products.

Copies of these bulletins can be obtained by contacting the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P. O. Box 70, Austin, Tex. 78767.

Underarm pain in women

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been troubled with fibrocystic disease of the breasts for almost four years. I am 30 years old. For the last six months I have had fleeting pain under my arms, but no swelling. I have had my annual physical and my doctor says it's nothing to worry about.

The pain is not constant. It almost feels like it's coming from a cyst. Is this normal, in your opinion? I have read that if your lymph nodes are cancerous, your survival rate drops. Please tell me what could be causing this new pain.

DEAR READER — You did the right thing by having your doctor check you. He evidently found nothing that would even suggest cancer or he would have ordered other tests, rather than reassuring you.

Usually, lymph nodes from early cancer are not painful. In a way it is too bad that cancer of the breast isn't painful from the start of the first abnormal cell; that way those cancerous cells could be found earlier.

I cannot tell you what your fleeting pain is, but you should know that pain can be referred along nerves to distant areas from the real problem. It may be related to your fibrocystic disease. Or it may not be related to your breasts at all.

Fibrocystic disease occurs mostly in young women in the childbearing years. Breast cancer occurs most often, but not always, in women after menopause.

There are studies that show fibrocystic disease may improve or disappear in women who stop all caffeine as found in coffee, tea and colas, and also stop smoking entirely. You may need to stay on such a program for at least a year. Short-term efforts may not provide the same results obtained from the longer effort.

You should read The Health Letter 18-12, Breast Basics, which I am sending you. It includes a discussion of fibrocystic disease and cancer. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was 20 I had a very painful inflammation and acute swelling of the right testicle. The physician prescribed rest with ice packs until swelling ceased.

After the swelling went down the right testicle became soft and much smaller than the left one and was sensitive to touch.

Now I'm in my 50s, but still experience some discomfort. What was the probable cause and is there any treatment that could now be used to reverse any debilitation or discomfort?

DEAR READER — Mumps can cause such inflammation, even if there are no other signs of mumps. But other viruses also can cause similar findings.

You could have had a bacterial inflammation of the tubules near the body of the testicle, called epididymitis, in which case you might have been given antibiotics.

Atrophy may occur from the viral action directly on the body of the testicle or from lack of circulation to the testicle caused by the acute swelling. Now, more than 30 years later, there is not much that can or needs to be done. If one testicle becomes atrophic, the other testicle usually enlarges to compensate for any loss of function. Compensatory enlargement may also occur after surgical removal of one.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

ASTRO-GRAPH

Nov. 27, 1983

In the year ahead, you could be the recipient of many favors, most of which will be granted by those who feel indebted to you because of your past kindnesses.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not be discouraged if you don't achieve your objectives on the first try today. Success won't be denied you when you go all out the second time. Major changes are in store for Sagittarians in the coming year. Send for your Sagittarius Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make it a point to be extra-respectful and appreciative of friendships today. Subdue impulses which urge you to manipulate pals for your ends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Even though friends may want to be helpful, it's best to keep them out of your private affairs today. Their good intentions could be misdirected.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might be intent upon doing one thing today and your mate another. Instead of letting the situation get sticky, suggest a compromise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you attempt to do things hastily today, the results are apt to be slipshod. Be patient and allocate reasonable time to arduous tasks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In joint ventures today, don't try to run the entire show, although you should play an appropriate role. If suggestions from your counterpart are better, heed them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your initial appraisal of matters may be off-target today. Before doing anything impulsively, take a hard second look to avoid unnecessary mistakes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Assistants cannot be relied upon today to do things as you'd like to have them done. It's best not to delegate difficult assignments to the unqualified.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial conditions may be subjected to wide swings today. In some situations you might spend more than you intended, while you could gain in others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unless you are confronted by some type of challenge today, your better qualities are apt to remain dormant. When the chips are down, it's another story.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons who care for you will go out of their way to be helpful today. Don't let it be said that you weren't equally as kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Most areas of your life will be managed skillfully by you today. However, there's a chance you may display poor judgment financially.

Nov. 28, 1983

Make a concerted effort this coming year to associate with persons whose objectives are similar to yours. You could be extremely lucky in associations where all think alike.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Normally you are not a worrier, but today you may be overly concerned that you'll repeat a past mistake. Be hopeful. Experience will guide you. Major changes are in store for Sagittarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Persons on whom you were counting today might look the other way when you need them. It'll be those you least expect who will assist you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Continue to keep acquaintances who are merely nosy out of your private affairs today. Restrict information exchanges to those directly involved.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Joint ventures will succeed today, provided the stronger party is allowed to do the wheeling and dealing. Let everyone else play a supporting role.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unless you and your coworkers have a common purpose today, there's a possibility you could go off in different directions. Clarify your objectives.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not try to introduce frivolity into serious matters today, especially where your work or career is concerned. Save the jokes until later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Family matters must be managed skillfully today or you'll only accomplish a portion of what you hope to do. Steer with a firm hand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Directives or verbal suggestions are likely to go unheeded today by persons whose assistance you require. Instead of talking, set an example.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Have fun and enjoy yourself today, but try to do so in the least expensive ways possible. If you're too loose with your money, you'll regret it later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your chances for achieving what you set out to do today look good. However, be careful that you don't conduct yourself so as to irritate others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions look promising today, but self-doubts could cause you to lose belief in your abilities. Try. You will succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not be apprehensive as to how you will come out in your commercial dealings today. Treat others with good intent and they'll be square with you.
