Lubbock And Its Public Schools

Another of a Series Of News Editorials On A Vital Subject

The visitor will find the Lubbock schools a work shop or a laboratory where the child is engaged happily at his task. He will not see the spirit of coercion that is so evident in so many schools, but he will find that the children do right and obey the laws of the school because they know that these laws are made for them and that they can attain the best for themselves by obeying them. Instead of seeking to drive the child to a task that is extrinsic to him, the teachers in the Lubbock public schools try to challenge him and to make his school work such as to enlist him and to cause him to put himself into it wholeheartedly. As a result, the children love their work and are happiest when engaged in it.

See More In Work

The teachers, too, see more in their work than they once did. They see more than the book or the information in it to be crammed into the heads of the children. They have more than the average vision of their work and they are anxious to learn how to do it better. It is an unusual sight to see the one hundred and forty-two teachers in the Lubbock public schools spending three hours every other Saturday morning in a general and departmental meeting, studying their special problems and seeking how to do their work in the most effective way. Teachers in other schools ask how it is done and wonder how the Lubbock teachers can be induced to give up their Saturday mornings for such purpose. They do not understand the enthusiasm that the Lubbock teachers have for their work and the truly professional spirit that causes them to be willing to make a sacrifice for it. The teacher who is at the head of the class, who has little trouble in arousing the same enthusiasm in his pupils. This is why the pupils in the Lubbock public schools have such a splendid attitude towards their work. They have caught the enthusiasm of their teachers and believe they are entitled to a hearing of their protests before the school tasks. They do not think of their studies as the gaining of some useless information, but they see them as a means of preparing them for the living and working world or girl, under the right kind of leadership, does not want to live better and grow into a more useful man or woman?

Enthusiasm High For Motor Show

Preparations for the first annual automobile show sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal got under way in earnest yesterday as various dealers of the city signified their intention of entering complete model displays in the event which is to be held in the Uptown Dance Palace, February 28-March 1. Enthusiasm for the show was in evidence from every showroom in the city yesterday and indications are that it is to be one of the premier sectional exhibits of automobiles in the state during 1929. Color combinations as well as model ranges in cars will be sought by the majority of dealers here, it was said. Allied motor dealers in the city representing such articles as tires, batteries, and other accessories will have complete exhibits in the show also. Arrangements are to be made to take care of as many people as can view the displays during the two-day event.

Lindbergh's Solo Flying Is Over; To Wed Daughter Of Ambassador Morrow

HERE'S HOPING THAT HE NEVER STRIKES ANY HEADWINDS.

Lone Eagle To Take On Passenger In Life's Flight

(By Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—(P)—United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow today announced the engagement of his daughter Anne to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Miss Anne Spencer Morrow now is at the American embassy here with her parents. The young couple first met when Colonel Lindbergh made his non-stop flight from Washington to Mexico City a little more than a year ago.

Guest In Morrow Home

Since that time, Lindbergh has been the guest of the Morrow family in Mexico City and at their country home at Cuernavaca. Miss Morrow is 22, a brunette, and a favorite in the diplomatic social circles here. She won two prizes for proficiency in scholarship at Smith College, from which she was graduated last year.

The Mexican capital suspected that a romance was in the offing between the colonel, idol of feminism hearts since he flew to Paris, and Miss Morrow. Rumors to that effect were printed in local papers last November.

Newspapermen Summoned

Late this afternoon Ambassador Morrow summoned newspaper correspondents and handed them a typewritten statement. It read: "Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Spencer Morrow, to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh."

Morrow refused to say anything more. He declined to give any indication of the time or place of the wedding but the capital immediately assumed that it would be held in Mexico City, and perhaps

The owner of the filling station said Bergdorf drove up and asked "who the two guys in blue were?" He then ordered Wallace to get in his automobile and accompany him to Lamesa. When Wallace refused, the witness said, Bergdorf drew a rifle from the car and fired.

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—Governor Moody's civil service bill, an issue in his recent campaign, was passed today by a 64-48 vote after its opponents declared it would give negroes the opportunity to hold important state posts.

Introduced by Representative Williams of Travis, the bill follows recommendations of the governor in his message to the legislature four weeks ago. It authorizes the board of control to act as a civil service examining body with assistance of other state employees, and sets out a non-competitive system to which the act shall not apply. In the group excluded from civil service examinations are elective officers or those whose appointment is required to be confirmed by the senate, the secretary to the head of a state department, members of a profession who hold a valid license, the judiciary, persons in the national guard or ranger service, and the secretary, chief clerk and stenographer in the governor's office.

Joy Reigns In Mardi Gras Fete

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—(P)—New Orleans joyously and noisily today celebrated Mardi Gras, climax of a festive season, in traditional manner.

Rex, king of the carnival, who headed a parade of 20 floats had issued instruction to "let joy be unconfined" and it was. From an early hour until late tonight the streets were packed with revelers determined to have as much fun as possible before the 1929 Mardi Gras passed into history.

All of New Orleans and thousands of visitors turned out to give Rex a welcome befitting the king of the carnival. The parade he led depicted the "outline of history" and each float presented a development from the time of Moses to the career of Napoleon.

The druids and comus parades also were held to supplement that of Rex and earlier in the day Kink Zulu led his negro admirers in a procession. Tonight the Rex, Comus and Fruids balls were held.

Promiscuous kissing was in order until dusk tonight and the opportunity was not passed idly by.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—California grapes, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs with bacon, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Parsnip chowder, orange salad, date bread, rice pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—English mutton chops, potato marbles in parsley butter, creamed turnips, spinach and egg salad, peach spider cake, milk, coffee.

Date bread is delicious to serve with tea in the afternoon or will be popular in the school lunch box. Cream cheese makes an excellent filling if sandwiches are wanted.

Date Bread.

One cup stoned and chopped dates, 1 cup bread flour, 1-2 cups graham flour, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup milk.

Mix flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Add milk and vanilla and beat well. Add dates and melted butter and mix thoroughly. Turn into an oiled bread pan and let stand in a warm place for 20 minutes. Bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Gladly red lacquered candlesticks, ash trays, desk sets and big trays give one a hint of how certain spots in one's room might be lived by the addition of some of these. There are interesting hints to be had, too, in the carved ivories—the work of the northernmost Siberian tribes which reflect the life of their people, the types and their primitive dress.

Develop Modern Angle.

Russian linens, leather thongs and silver work all are fascinating. The linens come in the traditional Russian patterns and rich old colors and also in new pastel shades like soft apricot. There are bridge sets as well as lunch sets, this year, and other indications of a modern angle. The same is true in leather, for the new shoes have mules and very comfortable little slippers of gaily patterned leather.

Perhaps, to Americans, the most interesting things of all are the toy exhibits. There are on display innumerable little animals carved out of wood and sold for a cent or so, that children would adore. There are tricky little toys worked on strings, the Russian equivalent for the high-powered electric mechanism our American toys enjoy.

Aside from the artistic value to this country, of such a comprehensive

Famous Beauty Of World Is Mourned Throughout Europe

Lily Langtry, Wit And Actress Dies Tuesday In Monte Carlo; Was Popular Figure In Time

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Feb. 12.—London society, dramatic and art circles were fully today of reminiscences of Lily Langtry, the noted beauty, wit and actress of the late Victorian era who died today at Monte Carlo. The stories emphasized the wide popularity of the "loveliest woman of her day."

Scions of royalty worshipped with poets, painters and social aristocrats before the shrine of Lady De Bathe when she was in the heyday of her fame as "the Jersey Lily." It was related that two of Queen Victoria's sons were ardent admirers of the "English actress."

Prince Leopold, the youngest son of the Queen, signified his adoration by hanging a portrait of the beautiful Langtry over his bed. It was related today that his indignant mother, who had her own ideas as to the proper place of stage beauties in society, mounted a chair and snatched the picture from the wall. The Prince of Wales, who later became Edward VII, often rode with Mrs. Langtry in rotten row and sought her company at social functions. Some remarkable legends grew from her friendship with King Edward.

Poised For Famous Artists
Artists who painted the Lily included Millais, Poynter, Watts, Burne Jones and Whistler. Oscar Wilde dedicated to the reigning Queen of beauty a long poem entitled "To Helen, formerly of Troy, now of London," and he composed for her his play, "Lady Windemere's Fan." The long list of her distinguished friends also included Ruskin and Gladstone.

Besides her wonderful beauty, Mrs. Langtry was gifted with sparkling wit and conversational charm. She had also a sound business judgment which led one distinguished admirer to say that she embodied "that rare phenomenon, a woman with a man's brain."

Miss Mary Lott Thompson is ill at the home of her parents on Ninth Street.

ALL ELSE FAILED; SARGON BROUGHT BACK HIS HEALTH

"Sargon restored my health at a time when I thought nothing would help me," recently stated Frank Bennett, of 905 Macon St., Fort Worth. His full statement follows:

"My troubles started two years ago when I commenced to suffer with indigestion. I lost my appetite and what little I ate caused me lots of misery. I suffered with gas pains around my heart, and could taste my food for hours. I seldom got a good night's sleep and was so nervous at times that I would shake all over. I felt tired, run down and worn out even before the day was half over. My liver was out of order. I was bilious and my vitality was very low. I took lots of medicines and treatments with no lasting benefit.

"Then I tried Sargon, and I knew almost at once that I had found the right medicine at last. My appetite returned and my strength and energy began to come back with the first bottle. Now, I sleep fine, eat anything I want and everything agrees with me. I am always hungry and enjoy my meal. My nerves are steady as a die, my headaches are gone and I feel like a man made all over again. I have gained nine pounds and just want to be on the go all the time."

"Sargon has built me back up so that I am stronger, and feel better than I have felt in years. I am a well man now, and the Sargon treatment is responsible for it."

Sargon may be obtained in Lubbock at City Drug Stores; in Slaton at the City Drug Store. adv.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY NINA HELENA RUBINSTEIN

It has oftentimes been said that the choice of the accessories is of greater importance than the clothes themselves. You can readily visualize the woman with the last year's suit, who nevertheless looks decidedly smart because her shoes, stockings, gloves and purse are all in harmony and good taste. On the other hand, ill-chosen and poorly matched accessories can ruin the effect of the most expensive garments.

The choice of the shoes and stockings is of the utmost importance. Try always to select shoes which are appropriate to the costume you are wearing and to the occasion, where it is worn. For the little woman shoes should blend with the hosiery, and the hosiery should match the frock, so as to give a long unbroken line. On the whole, light shades in stockings are better than dark for this woman. A high-heeled shoe will give additional height. To wear the hat and the shoes in the same color is a very good note. Jewelry should not be too massive or overpowering; comparatively slender bracelets and small earrings are best. Purses should be of medium size and not strike too definite a contrast in color. Let the little woman see to it that her accessories do not dwarf her.

The tall woman will wear stockings to contrast with her dress, and of a slightly different shade from her shoes, thus breaking up her too long lines. If, however, her foot is conspicuously long, then the shoes and hose match so as to detract from the size of the foot; she may even wear shoes of contrasting colors in the front and back section. Slipper buckles are very good for her, and should be worn fairly low. She can wear long, heavy chains of beads, pendant earrings, large rings and bracelets, and the more bizarre adornments which are taboo to her shorter, stouter sister.

The stockings and shoes of the stout woman, like those of the little woman, should match each other and harmonize with the costume. Generally speaking, the less conspicuous things are best; dark stockings, if possible, and plain shoes; and unless the feet are unusually small, no buckles. Heels should not be too high, and care should be taken that these are always kept straightened, as there is nothing more unattractive than heels which have run down or sagged inward under the weight of an over-stout woman. Let gloves and purses blend with the ensemble, and let simplicity be the keynote of the stout woman's accessories.

Hoovercrat Leader Declares Defeat of "Loyalty Bill" Forces Him to Run; Measure Was Aimed At Him

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—Senator Love, Hoovercrat leader last year, asserted today that house action yesterday on the anti-bolter bill apparently was a mandate for him to run for governor in 1930.

He declared that Representative Mankin, its sponsor, admitted the bill was aimed at him but despite this, the house by a vote of 79 to 22 so amended it that it would not apply to him or any other so-called party bolter of last year.

The bill was finally killed, 61 to 58.

Matadors Wallop Sul Ross Cagers To Tune Of 52 To 13

After handing the Sul Ross cagers a neat lacing last night, the Tech basketball team will be seen in action on the college gymnasium for the last time this season tonight as the two teams tangle up for the second and final game of the series. Considering the class of competition they have met and the various set-backs caused by the ineligibility list, the crimson netters have come through the season with an exceptional record. Winning ten of their 16 games played thus far and losing to such teams as Canyon, Simmons and A. C. C. the Matadors have a record that any team might envy, taking the whole work into consideration.

The prospect of winding up the season by taking the final series with the Canyon Buffaloes does not appear so rosy when one glances over the past records of the two teams. The Canyon aggregation trounced the Matadors decisively in the two games played here this season, and it goes without saying that Coach Payne will lead his sharpshooters into the Buffalo gymnasium February 20 and 21 with the entire squad seeing red.

After losing their football and basketball coach and their first basketball game in 21 conferences starts, the Arkansas Razorbacks are not likely to accept either of the tempting offers given them by Simmons and Canyon for post season games. Undoubtedly, the morale of the Porkers is considerably shot and Coach Schmidt, himself, is likely to hold "what he's got." Texas did what was considered the impossible when the fighting Longhorn cagers downed the super-scoring machine from the Ozarks and now the Razorbacks aren't ceding the cinch in winning the Southwest title that they were a week ago. Possibly the best play of the conference leaders can choose would be to concentrate their efforts in winning the gonfalon. No word has been heard from Porker headquarters regarding the offers made by Coaches Bridges and Burton but a favorable answer is unlikely.

The Canyon mentor called the hand of the Abilene writer who claimed that the $750 offer was a record guarantee for a basketball series. He also stated that he had paid the Denton Teachers $1900 in 1927 for two games and followed it up by saying he would give the 1929 Porkers $1,250 for three games in Canyon. If Coach Schmidt is willing for his basketball team to meet post season competition, there should be no reason why both Abilene and Canyon could not be favored with a visit from the spectacular cage machine from Fayetteville.

OLD MAN SUNSHINE
More than 100 high school athletes donned their various paraphernalia Tuesday afternoon as "Old Sol" came out from his hiding place to afford them an opportunity to start preliminary track and spring football training. Coach E. J. Lowrey held his initial session with twenty-five candidates for the 1929 Westerner cinder team. The high school track and field hopefuls took a brief limbering up exercise and jogged around the Tech track several laps. Approximately 75 grid-ironers donned their mackintosh for a snappy workout on the grounds adjoining the high school building. From the looks of the squad of footballers reporting to Coaches Pinks and Morgan, the 1929 edition of the Westerner eleven will be lacking in weight.

The weather man was willing Tuesday for the final game of the intramural football series to be played off, but certain figures connected with the Engineers-Agiles contest were not ready. Present plans call for the final settlement of the school argument Saturday afternoon at 2:30. By winning over the Agiles, the Engineers can gain a tie with the Liberal Arts eleven, but if the Farmers cop, the Arts school will be the undisputed champions.

Crimson Basketeers Exercise Their Scoring Machinery On Alpine Crew In First Game Of Final Home Series

Paymen Count 22 Goals From Field As Visitors Score Three; Numerous Fouls Slow Action

Tech basketeers found the opposition to their liking last night and proceeded to exercise their scoring machinery at the expense of the Sul Ross Lobos to the tune of a 52 to 13 score. Displaying a brand of basketball that outlasted the Alpine cagers in every department of the game, the Matadors scored at will throughout a rough and tumble basketball contest. Personal fouls slowed up the action considerably.

Coach Payne sent practically every member of the squad into the contest before it was all over, most of whom took a hand in the scoring. The Alpine aggregation fought gamely against the scoring attack of the locals but were unable to get a look-in. The Matador plays were working to perfection as the crimson forwards slipped through to pile up 22 field goals as compared to 3 scored by the visitors. With Walker, their leading floor man, out of the line-up the Tech crew romped through the two periods with little effort.

Taking the lead in the early minutes of play, the pupils of Payne galloped away with a comfortable lead that seemed to the Tech boys minutes had passed. The startling combination of Hodges and Hunter at forwards, Tadlock at center, Vinzant and Gee at guards piled up a commanding margin and Coach Payne began to send in substitutes which ran the total of Tech participation up to 14 before the game ended.

Tech was leading 28 to 7 as the half ended, but met a stiffer defense in the early minutes of the last stanza. The Sul Ross cagers held the Matadors scoring at a standstill for a brief spell, but the crimson sharpshooters soon broke loose again, scoring 23 points before the final gun sounded.

Hodges, Fisher and Gee led the Tech scoring assault. Hodges was high with ten, while Fisher and Gee tied for second honors with nine each. In his first appearance in the line-up since the Abilene series, Fisher showed he had not lost any of his scoring punch and brilliant floor play.

The game teams play tonight.

Intramural Tilt Set For Saturday

The final game of the intramural football series under way at Tech which was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon has been again postponed, according to Chubby DeWitt, engineer coach. Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock is the latest date set for the Engineers-Agiles fracas.

Continued inclement weather has caused this deciding contest to be postponed from time to time, and if it is at all possible, the rival schools will meet Saturday.

In the event the Engineers defeat the Agiles, the Liberal Arts will be the undisputed champions while a win by the Farmers will throw the other two schools in a tie for grid supremacy.

Two Yankees Are Yet To Be Signed

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. (AP)—Reports about contract relations of the world's champion Yankees with their players tonight indicated that only two players are yet unsigned for the 1929 campaign.

Who these may be, Secretary Ed Barrow refused to reveal but baseball writers guessed they are Ben Paschal, North Carolina flycatcher, and Bob Meusel, lanky California outfielder.

The advance party of Giants, headed by Secretary Jim Tierney, departed today for San Antonio and the spring training siege. Four players in the party were Jack Cummings, catcher, Floyd Johnson, and Curley Ogden, pitcher, and Johnny Kavanaugh, recruit outfielder from New York's "gas-house" district.

Van Ryan Defeats Big Bill Tilden

Former Princeton Captain Makes Himself The Sensation Of Invitation Meet By Beating Leader

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. (AP)—John Van Ryan of Orange, N. J., made himself the sensation of the new tennis season today by defeating Bill Tilden in three straight sets in the final of the Heighis Casino indoor invitation tournament. The scores were: 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

As the former Princeton captain yesterday eliminated Francis T. Hunter in semi-finals, he now has accomplished the feat of conquering the country's second and first ranking players on successive days. Van Ryan is number six, for this young athlete, just returned from two months of play in Southern California. Tilden proved considerably easier than Hunter, beaten in two sets out of three.

Van Ryan, with his partner, J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, recent winner of the Canadian championship, added more laurels later by winning the doubles final from Tilden and Hunter in a hard four set match. The scores were 6-2, 9-7, 4-6, 7-5.

Tilden On Defense
Playing almost exclusively a back court game, Tilden found himself on the run at the very outset before a hard hitting all-court attack of bewildering versatility. While his own shots occasionally spluttered and flashed in the pan for disconcerting nets and outs to Tilden's audible discomfiture, those of his young opponent were exploding with cannonading effect from base line to net and back again.

In the second set Bill Tilden was able for a time to stem the tide but even then Van Ryan finally broke through him at three all. Only at times was the famous Tilden cannonball serve effective and when the first ball failed of its mark, the rangy and agile Johnny was well able to handle the second. In one brilliant flash in the first game of the second set, however, Tilden electrified the gallery of about 300 with a rare feat of serving genius. After giving Van Ryan two points by nets, he ran out the same by serving "in the ace" in the back four straight, three of which were on the first ball.

While not so spectacular, Van Ryan's deliveries proved as valuable. There was every evidence that Tilden was in earnest about the encounter although he wore an air of easy sang froid. At stake was a trophy which would have been his permanently for the winning, as he was triumphant in this winter fixture for the last two years.

Tilden, who has played tennis in recent months because of the amateur ban, now removed, was 36 years old Sunday and was breathing hard in the third set and could offer little sustained resistance.

Jackrabbits Cinch County Cage Title

(Special To The Avalanche)
RALLIS, Feb. 12.—The Ralls Jackrabbits clinched the basketball championship of Crosby county here tonight by trouncing the Crosby Chiefs 21 to 17.

Leading 9 to 6 at the half, the Rabbits piled up a substantial lead and resorted to their deadly defense in the last four minutes of play. Walker was high point scorer with 3 field goals and seven free throws out of eight attempts for a total of 13 points. Work led the visitors in scoring with seven.

OREGON MAN LEADS DERBY

TRUCKEE, Calif., Feb. 12. (AP)—Fred Printz, Portland, Oregon, who has finished first in the first two days racing of the Sierra dog derby, was still in the lead today at Tahoe Tavern, the half way mark of the last lap. Roy Stover, McCall, Idaho, was in second position.

Baseball Seems A Funny Racket To Owner Perry

(By NEA Service)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 12.—Money alone can't buy ball players from big league clubs and friendship often counts as much as money—that is one of the lessons learned by Owner Jim Perry of Indianapolis since he acquired the club a little more than a year ago.

"Baseball is the damndest game I ever sat in on," Perry says. "You get all steamed up about a fellow some major league must send away and you offer a big sum for him only to have the manager laugh at you and then give him away for less than what you offered to some friend of theirs in the minors."

The Only One In Captivity

For the first time in the history of the diamond an important baseball club will be bossed by a beautiful young girl. The comely miss, shown above, is Miss Florence Killilea, daughter of the late Henry Killilea, who has inherited sole ownership of the Milwaukee Brewers, American Association outfit. Florence says she intends to retain active management of the club and will go with the team to the training camp.

Billies Nose Out Abilene Wildcats

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 12. (AP)—Daniel Baker won a hard fought basketball game, 48 to 39 from Abilene Christian College here tonight.

The local team took an early lead and apparently was off to an easy victory, but the Christians rallied after a few moments of play and knotted the count at 13 all.

From that point on it was a nip and tuck battle with Daniel Baker always a few points ahead. At the half the score was 24 to 20 for Daniel Baker. Chambers of Daniel Baker was high with 12 points.

WINS ANOTHER Percy Adds Laurels To List In Special 45 Yard

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 12. (AP)—Percy Williams of Canada, added another great set of achievements to his list tonight at the Meadowbrook, A. C. games by twice defeating a picked collection of sprinters to win both his heat and the final of a special 45 yard invitation.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

"I want All Women to Shoot, C. Police Champion Advises," says a headline in the Oklahoma News. Police business getting dull out that way?

They're not going to broadcast the Battle of the Century Planis down at Miami Beach. But don't let that interfere with your thrill; tune in on any other bedtime story.

Max Schmelling, who looks to be a possible heavyweight contender since knocking down Mr. Risko, is a methodical fighter and studious. Too bad he didn't get a crack at Tunney before he retired. The two could have matched methods all over the place and no one would have been hurt at all.

Of course, Max couldn't be expected to step right in and battle Sharkey or Stripling right now. He doesn't know nearly enough about wrestling.

Gus Sonnenberg, the new match champ, may appear in a preliminary to the Battle of the Palms. No bet, preparation for what is very likely to follow could have been devised.

"Mr. Jacobs has guided me satisfactorily since we became associated, and I see no reason for ending that association, regardless of whether or not I am successful in breaking my contract with Bulow," Max Schmelling speaking. All he needs now to win the championship is to address a literature class at Yale.

Alleged Bribery Again Brought Up By Attorney

Complaint Follows Granting Of Permit To Braves To Play Sunday Baseball; Funds Questioned

BOSTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—State Attorney General Joseph A. Warner announced tonight he would make complaint in municipal court tomorrow against the Boston Braves as a consequence of his investigation of the outdoor recreation league which supported a bill legalizing Sunday sports in this state during the last state election.

Complaint also would be made against O. J. Bruce, of Brookline, treasurer of the league, which raised a fund of $30,000 to wage a campaign in favor of the sports measure, Warner said.

Investigation of the league started when, in an altercation between officials of the Braves and the Boston, council over adoption of the sports measure in Boston, it was charged that the Braves had contributed heavily to the $30,000 fund. It also was charged that Bruce filed a false list of contributors to the fund with the secretary of state to cover contributions made by the Braves.

For many weeks the investigation has been going on simultaneously with an investigation of alleged attempts by city councilmen to obtain bribe money from Braves officials to insure ratification of the sports bill in Boston.

The Boston finance commission, which conducted the bribery investigation recently reported that, although unwilling to pass on the guilt of parties involved, the affair was a suspicious array of circumstances.

Yesterday the city council, after several stormy meetings, passed an order granting the Braves a permit to play Sunday baseball here.

Rotary Delegations To Make Tour Of Mexico Following International Meet At Dallas In May; Preparations Begin

Post-Convention Activities Already Planned; Sutton, International President, Is Popular Worker

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Feb. 12.—Five of the delegations expected at the Rotary convention here May 27-31, numbering perhaps several hundreds, have already made plans for post-convention tours of Mexico, visiting the principal cities as a gesture of goodwill.

The Rotarians from Germany, coming on the S. S. Cleveland, and the special trainloads from Cleveland, Buffalo, New England and "Dixie" have made arrangements to swing through Mexico from El Paso, Laredo and other border points, to Mexico City and Vera Cruz or Yucatan, returning home via Havana or New Orleans.

President Is Active
President I. B. "Tom" Sutton of Rotary International is in the hardware business in Tampico, Mexico in the past eight years, and has visited 26 of the 41 countries in which there are Rotary Clubs, and his friends have stimulated interest in Mexico.

Due largely to the enthusiasm he aroused among the business and professional men of Mexico, 41 Rotary clubs have been established in Mexico in the past eight years, and their activities have exerted a profound effect upon conditions in their country.

An unusually large delegation of Rotarians from Mexico is expected at the convention because of the proximity of Dallas and their interest in Rotary. The fact that the Rotary president is known to them and that so many delegations plan to tour their country after the convention, are added inducements.

As quasi-hosts to the Rotarians from all over the world, 43 Texas Rotary clubs have been chosen as correspondents to the Rotarians from the countries outside the United States. These clubs provide information to the Rotarians in the country they correspond with, and make personal contacts with the Rotarians planning to come from that country so they can be of service to them when they arrive in Dallas. The San Antonio Club is the correspondent club of Mexico which is expected to send one of the largest delegations from a country outside the United States.

Kill me," he was sentenced to death.

NOTICE—It is not the intention of The Avalanche to cast reflection upon the character of anyone, business, and in error we should, the management will appreciate having our attention called to same, and will gladly correct any erroneous statement.

The Avalanche is an independent Democratic newspaper, supporting in its editorial columns the principles which it believes to be right and opposing those which it believes to be wrong, regardless of party politics; publishing the news fairly and impartially at all times.

Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee and let such as love thy salvation say continually: Let God be magnified.
But I am poor and needy; make haste unto me, O God; thou art my help and my deliverer; O Lord, make no tarrying.

FUTURE POLITICS

There is no telling just what all is going to happen in politics in Texas during the next two years. Governor Moody is in the saddle for another two years, and while he is admired by many thousands of Texans there are those who are not favorable to his administration as is sure to be no matter who might be the governor. The Temple Telegram however seems to see in the next two years a heated campaign and those who have been signing for the good old days are liable to have their desires fulfilled so far as politics are concerned.

Texas will again see the days when a democratic nomination, even though obtained in a primary election instead of a caucus, is the only way to get a certificate of election in November. We are to have lively campaigns in which bolting democrats, who supported Hoover and still seem proud of it, will become candidates for office against those who voted the regular democratic ticket.

Exciting times are promised in the 1930 campaign and survivors of historic campaigns between Roger C. Mills and John T. Brady, greenbacker, for congress; Wash Jones and his mule against John Ireland, for governor; Jerome Kearby for governor against Charlie Culberson, which, by the way, nearly left Charlie in a cold place, will thrill with enthusiasm over the prospect of joint debates, free-for-all political races for state and county and district offices and the chance to enjoy again the fervid oratory of the political meetings.

Charles E. Baughman, of Austin, formerly of Brownwood, and market and warehouse commissioner under Pat Neff's administration, has announced that he will be a candidate for governor in 1930 as an independent. He qualifies his candidacy by saying if Tom Love, Marshall Hicks, Atvin Moody or some other prominent Hooverer will take the head of the ticket he will drop into a lower slot. But he is determined that there shall be an independent ticket in the field in 1930 and if that happens, of course, those who support the independents will not vote in the democratic primaries unless by special arrangement with their consciences they vote there and then develop a preference for candidates other than those nominated in the primaries.

Baughman's announcement means lively times in Texas politics such as marked the memorable congressional campaign between Roger C. Mills and John T. Brady, when the old district stretched from Navarro through McLennan, Bell and other counties on down to what is now the Houston ship channel, where Brady lived. Wash Jones of Bastrop campaigned as a greenbacker against John Ireland for governor, and the contest mustered enough strength to make Ireland extend himself, Jerome Kearby heading a Populist-Farmers Alliance ticket furnished Charlie Culberson some of the most exciting days of his political life.

But these parties and campaigns against the regular democratic ticket are only the dim vista of things that were and unless political history reverses itself, so will vanish the present outburst of opposition to the regular democratic organization. While it lives it may and it should have the effect of inducing changes in the primary laws of the state, or the abolition and a return to the old convention system of nominating officers. With all its faults the convention system never saddled upon the democracy of Texas candidates as have been seen under the primary system.

Baughman's platform includes the right of the people to vote by ballot, the right of every citizen, regardless of former political affiliations, to seek public office; and elective highway commission; reduction of automobile tax to $2 per car this going to meet expense of license plate numbers; ineligibility of members of legislature while holding their terms to any manner of public office, either elective or appointive.

OUR LAW MAKERS

Texas lawmakers are busy in Austin trying to devise means of pleasing and satisfying the public in regard to concrete highways, revamping the state prison system and a thousand and one other things that are vital to our continued progress.

The prison system and the highways seem to be attracting more attention than all the rest of the pending legislation and rightly too. We must have highways and the best solution is no doubt the state wide bond issue as advocated by the Hon. R. S. Sterling, chairman of the highway commission. A bond issue will insure good roads for the entire state and if this can be carried and paid for by the gasoline tax it is most assuredly the thing to do.

INCREASE EVIDENT IN JARDINE'S

BY CHARLES F. STEWART

Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The Avalanche
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine, who is reckoned as one of the present cabinet members likeliest to hold over into Herbert Hoover's term as president, would have been considered about the most improbable of the lot, until a few months ago, to survive the end of President Coolidge's administration.

That is to say, such would have been the estimate of his chances prior to the advent of Secretary of the Interior Roy O. West and Commerce Secretary William F. Whiting. Of course, it is taken for granted that the new president will want to get rid of West the first day in the forenoon. Whiting, also, though no such incubus as Roy, never has been regarded as anything but a stop-gap appointee whose portfolio must speedily be wanted for someone else.

Among the older members of the Coolidge official family, however, Secretary Jardine undoubtedly would have been picked, up to pretty recently, as perhaps the poorest choice to bet on for a much longer stay in Washington.

Secretary of State Kellogg and Attorney General Sargent were recognized as certain to go, but there seemed to be no special reason for hurry in their cases, and in Secretary Jardine's there did, for Secretary Jardine's chief mission in office was to please the farmers and he has not been much of a success at it except maybe lately.

Since the last campaign there is no question that he has been more popular than he was.

The truth appears to be that Bill Jardine has been a middling good secretary of agriculture, but it was hopeless for him to try to suit the western farmer folk while he had the "equalization fee" hanging over his head.

No matter what the equalization fee is—or was. Everybody who ever took any interest in it knows already. It would take a volume to explain it to anybody else. It's a dead issue, anyway. Suffice it to say that it was something the farmers thought they wanted and that President Coolidge wouldn't let them have. This difference of opinion placed Secretary Jardine in a heck of a fix. To the very people it was his job to satisfy and he was unable to give the only thing that would satisfy them.

If Bill hangs on, it goes almost without saying that his future will depend a good deal on pure luck.

In case crops are good, and prices are better, he will be hailed as the greatest agricultural administrator the country ever had. On the other hand, should things get worse, or even fail to improve, the farmers will be bawling him out as vigorously as before, or perhaps more so on account of having been disappointed again.

It is generally believed Mr. Hoover selected him for President Coolidge in the first place. That may be one reason for predicting that the former will keep him if he can.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE FREES MAN FROM FEAR OF DISEASE

EDITOR'S NOTE—"This is the first of a series of seven articles on 'The Human Body and Its Care.' The series, in pamphlet form, can be obtained from the American Library Association, 68 East Randolph street, Chicago, Ill.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEE
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

One of the most striking phenomena of the twentieth century has been the rise of interest in health.

The philosophers of mankind have for 20 centuries written epigrams, aphorisms and proverbs indicating with absolute unanimity their well settled conclusion that health is the most important factor for happiness in human existence.

Only recently has man begun to take the necessary steps to secure that highly desirable attribute for all mankind. Indeed, in his survey of Our Times, Mark Sullivan considers the work of preventive medicine the greatest of all the accomplishments of man, since it has freed human beings from the fear of disease.

The Example of Panama
The pest hole that was Panama has today a death rate lower than that of most of the states in our own country. Hundreds of years ago the person without the scars of smallpox on his face was the exception; person in the community today the one who carries such scars is a monument to the stupidity of his parents because vaccination against smallpox prevents this disease.

If Chicago had a death rate for typhoid fever today similar to the one it had in 1885, there would have been 60,000 cases of typhoid fever in Chicago instead of less than 200 which was the record for the city in 1928. Such diseases have been controlled through the application of community hygiene on a large scale through the control of sewage disposal, water supply, milk supply, and the sanitation of food. Such community sanitation problems however differ from those that concern the individual himself.

Know Thy Body

Obviously it is impossible for anyone to take proper care of his body without some knowledge of the manner of its construction and the nature of its function.

The human body is a combination of cells bound together in various systems, such as the muscles, the bones, the circulation of the blood, the nervous system and the digestive tract. These interlocking cells of human machine are controlled by the mind or brain to a considerable extent but many of the functions are automatic.

New Scientific Evidence

Within quite recent years scientific evidence has been developed which indicates that an interlocking chain of glands which pour their secretions directly into the blood—the glands of internal secretion—act also as regulators of what might be called the automatic system, including the blood pressure, the heart beat, breathing and the dilating and contracting of the blood vessels.

Careful consideration reveals moreover, that the entire works will get along satisfactorily if left largely alone particularly since it is within the power of the cells to repair an ability which does not exist, for instance, in such machinery as can be found in automobiles or even in dynamos.

It is perhaps the function of the brain of man to make it possible for him to realize when things go wrong and to take such steps as are within his power to correct the deviation.

TOMORROW: Hygiene and Sanitation.

EASY ENOUGH

"Doctor, is there anything I can do to keep my husband from talking in his sleep?"
"I just cured a case like that last week. I induced the wife to give her husband a chance to talk during the day time."

New Shoots!

SO THINK WE

We think that discouragement is a great big word that a great many people stumble over, and it causes a great deal of trouble sometimes.

We think that drink is a terrible thing, and why people will continue to use red liquor or any of its substitutes we cannot figure out. It shatters happiness, drives good men to do things that they would never think of doing otherwise. It causes women and children to suffer, and makes paupers out of rich men.

We think in the death of M. V. Brownfield, the South Plains has lost one of its most useful citizens. Mr. Brownfield has spent much of his time, and a great deal of money helping to develop the South Plains, and especially has Brownfield, the town that bears his name has been a great benefactor of his efforts to improve, and make that a pleasant place to live. His death adds one more to the long list of prominent and useful pioneers of the South Plains who have turned the program of development over to their successors, and have gone on to their reward. Mr. Brownfield will be greatly missed not only by Brownfield, and by his family, but by the entire South Plains and the many thousands of people who have come here to make their homes.

We think that every organization in Lubbock can have plenty of work to do. There is civic work, and there is work with the boys and the girls, and the building of bigger and better buildings.

We think the opening of another park in the South Part of the city is a mighty good thing, and it should be well improved and made useful from the very beginning. Many things can be added that will make it an enjoyable place to spend the leisure moments of the thousands of Lubbock people, and it is something that is needed and will be greatly enjoyed.

We think about the hardest thing to do these days is to get your old car paid out before you think you should have a new one. Changing of models however is largely to blame for this.

We think it is not always well to judge a person by the clothes they wear or the car they drive, for they might owe for both.

We think some people are so forgetful. Some folks do not even remember who they voted for vice president, as a running mate for President Elect Hoover.

Your Income Tax

YOUR INCOME TAX NO. 8

Taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both capital and personal services are material income-producing factors also is given consideration in computing the tax on earned income.

The revenue act of 1928 provides in such cases that a "reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services" shall be considered as earned income. Such allowance is not to exceed 20 per cent of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. For example, a taxpayer received in 1928, from a business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, a net profit of $30,000. The 25 per cent credit is computed on 20 per cent of $30,000, or $6,000. The amount payable is the tax on $30,000, less 25 per cent of the tax on $6,000.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

BURNS

January carried the birthday of Robert Burns, who Carlyle called, "the greatest Scotchman who ever lived." It was Burns who illuminated life's commonplace scenes and extolled the beauty of the world about him, and that, although he was great in humanity. He was great in his understanding of the common people—and most of us are common people. He was great in his knowledge of the heart of man. Read in Burns:

"Tis thus the royal mandate ran,
When first the human race began,
The social, friendly, honest man,
What 'ere he be—
'Tis he fulfills great Nature's plan,
And none but he."

THE END OF WAR

A Japanese Rotarian by the name of Miyaoka says: "There are no boundaries or sovereignties in our brotherhood. If the same feeling which characterizes us characterized the actions of government, there would be no international questions." War is made by the spirit of national leaders.

Rarely do the people force nations into war. Leaders may wish to have it appear that they are in the hands of the people, but too often that is by no means the case. They may be far ahead or far behind the people. The overwhelming power for international peace lies in leadership.

THE LOWER SHELF

Preachers are sometimes criticized for being too popular in their approach and appeal. Others are criticized for being so high-brow that many in the congregation do not know what the minister is talking about. It seems to the writer that the best preacher is one who has exceedingly good cookies, but puts them on the lower shelf.

It is not possible to keep the idea up and the language down? The final, principles, the most lofty idealism, simply expressed, so that all can understand, is immeasurably more effective than the same principles and idealism abstractly and opaquely expressed.

SKIMMERS

Those who swim through good books get less for their time than those who read fewer books—thoughtfully. The acquisition of language, of the power of expression, of great and increasing importance. Language is learned from the best writers. Read the best writers carefully, slowly, and over. And remember when you pick up a book to put this question to yourself: "Have I time for this? If I read this I can't read THAT."

COULDN'T GET PAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A one-legged burglar is about as handicapped as the proverbial one-armed paper-wanger. Yet one was arrested here recently. He was Shonan Jones, negro, who was charged with robbing Thomas De Saiva, a tailor, of a suit and $27.

NO BATHING BEAUTY

LONDON, Feb. 12.—When the village schoolmaster at Hottisbridge made a plea for a bath in his school, one of the school board, evidently opposed to the suggestion, stated that he hadn't bathed in ten years and that a friend of his, who lived to be 90, never had a bath after his mother quit washing him.

The whole country's railway system of greater Berlin is expected to be electrified by April 15.

PRESS COMMENT

From the Hartford Courant: Eugene E. Prussing, a Los Angeles lawyer, who has spent thirteen years in study of the subject, declares that George Washington was the first millionaire in the United States and that he was a successful farmer, business man, builder of transportation, engineer and promoter. Mr. Prussing adds that Washington was a man of rare business ability who spent a quarter of his life in public service, and that, although he started his career with but a few cents, when he died the land and other investments which by his will he directed to be sold were worth by his own estimate $530,000, and that he did not include some of the most valuable portions of his estate.

Mr. Prussing says of Washington, "He was a man who would have been perfectly at ease in a group of modern big business men around the directors' table, and he enjoyed fox hunting and dancing as the modern man enjoys golf."

This estimate of Washington comforts us not a little. In the last decade we have seen studies of him which might have been inspired by his subordinate, General Charles Lee. They have shown that the colonists won through the favor of heaven and in spite of the blunders of Washington. They have asserted that he was much too fond of the society of women, and generally that he was mediocre; in short, that he was an ordinary man whose countrymen in some strange way have come to regard him as a demigod.

Mr. Prussing finds that his "ordinary man" conducted a farm to such success that his profits ran to $150,000 a year; that he operated fisheries on a ten-mile water front and had the foresight to buy 53,000 acres of valuable land. He saw that the colonies on the coast must be protected by commerce and transportation to the interior. He was careful about exacting value and in giving it, and performed contracts and promises according to the spirit as well as the letter.

Perhaps readers of comparatively recent works on Washington will take heart from this article by Mr. Prussing, and we may go on observing Feb. 22 as usual without fear that we are victims of a delusion.

The working out of a plan of regulation of public utilities appears to be one of the most important tasks before the legislature. There is a wide-spread demand for a method of regulation that will safeguard the interests of small communities and rural sections served by utilities companies. The cities that feel able to look out for themselves, however, don't have to send anybody to Austin whenever there is an argument with one of the utilities companies. And the communities that have municipally-owned plants or systems are quite emphatically opposed to the idea of seeing them regulated from Austin.

Preliminary hearings on this legislation have made it appear fairly certain that municipally-owned plants will be expected. It is scarcely less important, it seems to us, that cities wishing to retain control of privately-owned plants should have the right to do so. Probably there is need of regulation in the rural areas now served with electricity, gas, etc. The need of such regulation in cities is doubtful. For when a city gets into an argument with a power company or gas company over a question of rates or franchises, the question usually gets into the courts. And this is where such a yeston would help. If there were a state commission undertaking to regulate the utilities, if a city must go into the courts eventually, there is no good reason why it should not go directly, without having to consult anyone at Austin.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHIE, honeymooning in Paris, meets an old sweet-heart, MONTY ENGLISH. Monty is young and handsome, but Ashforth turned him down because he was only a radio salesman, and poor as poverty.

She married, instead, a millionaire named HOLLIS HART, who showers her with gifts and loves her with all his heart. Ashforth loves him, too—or she thinks she does. Anyway, Hollis is fabulously good to her. They live at the Ritz, and she has a lady's maid, and a Hispano-Suiza, with a chauffeur named Felix, who wears a bottle-green uniform. And she wears the most beautiful clothes that an American girl in Paris (which is saying a great deal).

Now she is sitting with Monty at a little sidewalk cafe near the Flower Market, watching the French sweethearts make love to each other.

Monty tells Ashforth how he has come to Paris, to sell radios. Suddenly leans to her across the table "Tell me, Ash," he asks, "are you happy, dear?"

She invites Monty to have dinner with them and conspires to see him on several occasions, though Monty tries to discourage it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV
They were going home again. Sailing from Havre on the Victory. In a week they would be in Boston.

Mogg was packing. Five wardrobe trunks. Four shoe boxes. And steamer trunks for the linens. Household furnishings were being crated. Brocades and credenzas, and an old refectory table that Hollis had picked up in Venice. Ashforth's things that were said to have been used by Marie Antoinette.

Hollis wrapped the toilet set himself, sending out for an armful of tissue. There was a tea set also, to which he gave his personal attention. The cups were diminutive china, swans, with beautiful necks. And they rested on saucers of solid gold. They had belonged to the Empress Josephine. Hollis explained to Ashforth that Josephine's emblem was a swan, and Napoleon's a bee. He had found a piece of crimson brocade embroidered with golden bees, and believed it to be a fragment from the Empress's canopy bed at Versailles.

Hollis was greatly excited about his treasures. Almost effeminate, Ashforth thought. She hated to see him handling small things with the care a woman would have given them.

The concierge came to help and brought two assistants with him. Then Hollis handed Ashforth's trunks to Mogg, and helped her slip them on the hangers. He handled great piles of frothy lingerie, and made order out of chaos.

Then he ordered more packing boxes, and began the packing of his dearest finds. The concierge and his helpers might pack books and pictures.

But tea sets and toilet sets, and the vases from Limoges, crystal jars that were Pompadour's, and the snuff box that was du Barry's—Hollis handled these with reverent hands.

Ashforth, standing in the doorway, watched him pack his dearest finds. "It's positively womanish," she thought, "the way he loves those things."

And she thought of the way Monty would act in a room that was cluttered with lingerie and tea sets and Marie Antoinette's toilet articles.

"Like a bull in a china shop," she reflected, and smiled to herself. "Well, that's the way a man ought to act."

"Bored," asked Hollis, glancing up from his self-appointed work of swathing a cup in 10 sheets of tissue.

"Dreadfully," she told him. "I hate packing."
"But you're nothing to do," he protested. "Mogg will take care of everything."

"I know. But I'm hungry. I wanted to go to Jack's for our last luncheon. And now you're wrapping all that junk and I've nobody to go with."

She blew a little kiss over Mogg's broad back.
"Would you mind a bit," she asked, "if I telephoned Monty, and asked him to take me?"
Hollis straightened from his task.
"Why of course not, child. Run ahead. And tell Monty to be sure to look us up in Boston."

He smiled as she powdered her nose, and pulled a hat with a wide dark brim over her eyes.

"When you're as old as I am," he predicted, "you'll be more interested in antiquities. I suppose at your age, I'd rather have had luncheon at Jack's than handle the empty tea cups from which an empress drank. Viewpoints change. Well, run along, my dear."

Ashforth took an orchid from the cluster on her dressing table. Hollis had them delivered each day. She pinned it at her belt.

Today's Poem

TO A CRICKET

VOICE of summer, keen and shrill,
Chirping round my winter fire,
Of thy song I never tire,
Weary others as they will,
For thy song with summer's filled—
Filled with sunshine, filled with June;
Firelight echo of that noon
Heard in fields when all is still
In the golden light of May,
Bringing scenes of new-mown hay,
Bees, and birds, and flowers away,
Prithoe, haunt my fireside still,
Voice of summer, keen and shrill.

"Oh, Monty. You're impossible!"

"All right. Let's not talk about it. Finish your chicken. Will you have some more wine?"

She pushed her plate away petulantly.

"No, you've ruined my appetite. And I thought we were going to have such a pleasant little goodbye luncheon."

"Listen, Ashtoreth," Monty covered her hand with his. "You're not playing the game little girl you bargained with life for millions, and you're sick of the bargain. The stakes were high, and you won. Life hates a quitter. Ash. And you've got to stick to your bargain."

"I don't know what you're talking about!" she exclaimed.

"Maybe, I didn't say it very well," he acknowledged. "I'm not much on speeches, but you do know what I mean, Ash."

"That you want me to leave you alone?" she flashed.

He smiled diffidently.

"That's putting it rather crudely," he objected. "But since you ask me, that's about the size of it."

"And I thought," she moaned, "that you were my friend."

Monty looked at her sternly.

"People who have been lovers can never be friends," he told her. "There's no such thing as friendship between a beautiful woman and a hungry man. I don't particularly want to be your friend."

Ashtoreth. I'd rather be out of the picture altogether."

"Then you don't value friendship?" she demanded angrily.

"Oh, yes," he insisted. "It's a wonderful thing between men. I suppose it is also a wonderful thing between women. And I've no doubt there have been rare instances where there have been perfect friendships between men and women. Deep, abiding, loving friendships. But they're rare. Ashtoreth . . . I don't say a man can't be friendly with a girl. Fond of her, and all that . . . But, when it comes to one of these close, intimate affairs — they're dangerous, I tell you."

"You're too beautiful," Ashtoreth. And I'm too desirous."

She blushed, and looked at her chicken.

"Foolish! I'm not beautiful!"

"All right then. But I am desirous. I'm not old, or hardboiled enough to look at you, and be anything else."

They were quiet for a little while, playing with their glasses.

"My God," Monty broke the silence violently. "Why did you do it, Ash?"

Hollis disappears and Ashtoreth turns wildly to Monty. In the next chapter.

Court Contempt Motion Filed Here

Motion for contempt of court was filed in 9th District court yesterday against J. S. Lancaster following his alleged failure to abide by a temporary injunction granted by the court January 12. Hearing on the contempt case will be held at 10 o'clock this morning before Judge Clark M. Mullican.

In a civil suit last October, the Whaley Lumber company recovered judgment and foreclosed a lien on lot 6, block 20, Overton Addition, and all improvements on the land owned by J. S. and E. E. Lancaster. It is alleged that the defendants began moving a windmill and tower from the premises and that the plaintiff filed a petition for a temporary injunction. This injunction was granted by Judge Mullican last month, restraining the defendants from removing the improvements and ordering that they be replaced. The motion for contempt states that Lancaster willfully violated said writ of injunction and has failed and refused to replace and restore said windmill and tower to the condition it was in when he undertook to remove same.

Two Local Women Held On Charges

A local woman and her daughter are being held in the county jail by the sheriff's department on charges of violation of the prohibition laws.

According to officers, the woman who was arrested Sunday night, and the girl have been operating a "speakeasy" bootlegging "joint" in the city for some time. The daughter was out of the city at the time of her mother's arrest but returned later and continued the practice. Several men were found drinking in the house it was said.

She was arrested late Monday night.

The couple are being held awaiting action of the district grand jury now in session.

Talk On Speakers Begun In Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (P)—House democrats and republicans have set March 1 and 2, respectively, for their caucuses to name candidates for speaker, party leadership and other offices in the house for the next session.

Speaker Longworth and Majority Leader Tilson are expected to be re-nominated for their respective positions. Representative Garner of Texas has little or no opposition as democratic candidate for speaker, which in effect would make him minority floor leader upon the selection of Representative Longworth by the republicans.

Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, is being mentioned as a candidate for democratic whip.

Says Orgatone Restored His Health When Everything Else Had Failed

T. H. Martin who owns and operates a shoe shop at 809 Broadway, Lubbock, Texas, and who resides on Ave. H. 1934, talks interestingly of the benefits he has derived from Orgatone. In a conversation with the Orgatone representative, he said:

"I was in a general run-down condition and have had a severe chronic case of stomach trouble and indigestion for a long time. I was in such a low-spirited, run-down condition my life was miserable. I had no appetite and could hardly eat anything unless I was troubled afterward with severe bloating spells and gas that formed on my stomach. I was constipated and was forced to take strong laxatives most all the time."

"I am getting wonderful results since taking Orgatone. Doctors told me I would have to be operated on for gall trouble, but Orgatone has saved me from this. It to my notion has saved me hundreds of dollars and a lot of suffering. I eat anything I want now and it does not bother me at all. Gas does not form on my stomach anymore and I have improved with every dose till I feel now like nothing ever was the matter with me. I sleep and rest fine and am not nervous anymore. I will praise Orgatone for what it has done for me and I am telling all my friends about it. I am more than glad to give this statement for it has certainly made me feel like a new person."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store under the personal direction of the special Orgatone representative.

Mixed Loads Of Commons Feature

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12. (P)—While today's offering of cattle and calves was a little more liberal than the corresponding day last week, it consisted mostly of mixed loads of rather common quality. Lower values in prospect on most classes of cattle.

Most of the steers offered were light weights but some of them carried fair flesh. The demand for steers was very narrow and no early sales reported.

A few cars of slaughter yearlings found buyers slow in placing bids and such bids as were made were lower, except on the very best kind that were about steady. A few packers sold at 11.75 to 12.25.

Cows were receiving bids that were 15c to a quarter lower with a 3-car lot at 7.75 and one load at 7.00. Very few canner and cutter cows offered, but they were generally steady with the bulk of the business at 5.00 to 6.00.

The supply of calves was light and generally lacked and quality. Packer buyers paid 11.00 and less for the better calves with culls at 6.50 to 7.00. Good heavy stocker calves sold at 11.25.

Except for small packages very few stocker cattle changed hands during the early session with values steady.

No bulls of any consequence included in the receipts. Values steady.

Sheep steady, woolled lambs at 15.75 and woolled wethers at 10.50; woolled yearlings at 14.00 and clipped wethers at 9.00.

Hogs 10 to 20c higher; best rail butchers at 10.20 and those in the truck division at 9.60. Packing sows sold at 8.25 to 9.00; bulk of the 17,250 pounds butchers 9.00 to 10.20.

Daily Markets

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12. (P)—U. S. D. A. — Cattle trade at most points around the 11 market circuit continued slow with further price declines enforced on fed steers.

Lower dressed beef prices at Boston, the key market for heavy steer beefs, made the live trade on heavy steers very sluggish. Light yearlings registered no material change but packers were bearish toward heavy heifers and fat cows.

Many in the trade believe that the cattle market would be immeasurably benefited if the feeders who are consigning half fat steers could be inspired with some degree of confidence in the future market.

Country demand for replacement cattle is centering around thin stockers and continues relatively narrow for feeders. Choice light slaughter yearlings in Chicago topped at $14.25 while best weighty steers on the same market stopped at $12.00. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 33,950, as compared with 32,043 a week ago and $42.60 a year.

Hogs found a fairly broad outlet to both packers and shippers, strong to 25c higher price levels. The day's extreme top of $10.40 was realized at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were around 108,000 a decrease of 36,500 from a week ago and 16,000 less than the corresponding day last year.

The sheep supply approximated 50,444 against 43,676 last Tuesday and 61,308 a year ago. Fat lambs ruled slow at steady to 25c lower values. Closing trade was more active than the opening. Aged stock showed little change. Choice lambs in Chicago reached $17.35, a figure equal to yesterday's best price.

Lubbock Farmers Sold on Terracing

Success of Experiments At Spur Station Makes Hit With Group; Campaign In County Starts Soon

Twenty-five Lubbock county farmers were well convinced of the advantages of land terracing Monday in their visit to the Spur agricultural experiment station. County Agent D. F. Eaton and Farm Bureau representative, N. H. Payne, declared yesterday following their return from the station with the men.

Headed by the two men, the farmers left here early Monday and spent the entire day in a study of the experiments being conducted by R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the station there. Much valuable information and data was given out and all of the visiting farmers felt the trip was well worth their time, the men said.

This inspection trip was given as a preliminary step to an intensive terracing campaign which it is planned to launch throughout Lubbock county next week under the direction of Mr. Eaton. The experiments viewed by the visitors represent expenditure of more than $12,000, but demonstrated clearly what can be done in this section by terracing, soil erosion and moisture preservation.

THREE WAYS TO LOSE FAT

One is starvation, one abnormal exercise. The other is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. The Marmola way is based on modern research. It has been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. The results are seen in almost every circle, in new beauty, new health and vitality.

A book in each box of Marmola gives the complete formula, also the reasons for results. Users know just how and why the changes come about, and why they are beneficial. Learn the facts. Try the scientific help which has done so much for so many, and watch what it does for you. Start today by asking your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola.

Federal Routing Sought For Road

Carlsbad Caverns Highway Association Plan Greater Work; Group to Visit Local Rotary Club Today.

(Special To The Avalanche)
CARLSBAD, N. M., Feb. 12.—Definite plans were laid by the Carlsbad Caverns Highway association, at its closing sessions here today, for immediate work seeking Federal designation of the agreed route from Oklahoma City to El Paso, by way of Lubbock and Carlsbad. This phase of the organization's efforts will be considerably encouraged by the knowledge that it will be the government's plan, it is anticipated to establish permanent airplane routes throughout the nation, paralleling its proposed national system of federal highways.

In Good Condition
The Carlsbad route is now in better condition for travel than many of the present federally designated highways and the fact that no markers exist along the road from Oklahoma City, the convention was told, is the only thing keeping tens of thousands of tourists from being routed this way.

Wednesday noon about 25 or 30 members of parties from Quanah and other cities, with President Carl Guin, of the association, and J. A. Singletary, of Oklahoma City, will be the guests of the Lubbock Rotary club at their regular weekly luncheon.

Lubbock Schools

children of Lubbock remain in school as they do and why there are about as many in the high school grades as in the grades below. There was a good deal of questioning last spring as to the size of our graduating class and some doubting Thomases who think of education as only a cramming process suggested that we might be letting the children through too easily. The average teacher, with a measuring rod in his hand, the weapon he takes the place of the old-time birch rod, does not know the possibilities of children.

He is so busy measuring the children that he has not time to tap their resources and to get them into their work. He feels that modern and up-to-date to measure and he stands over the children with this measuring rod, ready to measure the first sign of life. But usually the life does not appear, and he contents himself with measuring the meaningless mass of dead information that has by main strength been crammed into the child's head against his will. No wonder children want to leave school under such conditions and no wonder so few of them remain until they have gone through the motion of completing the work outlined.

With more than four thousand children enrolled in the Lubbock public schools, it should be no unusual thing to have a graduating class of two hundred and thirty-two. With eleven grades and four thousand children, there should be nearly four hundred pupils in each grade and a graduating class of two hundred and thirty-two is really smaller than it should be. The trouble is that we have so long been accustomed to driving, cramming, and eliminating, that we think it is normal for about seventy-five percent of the children to be driven out of the schools before they have finished the course. We do not seem to realize that it is our business to keep them in school, to enlist them in their work, and to make conditions such that they can get the most possible from the schools. The one who visits the Lubbock schools will find that it is the spirit that permeates them that causes the boys and girls to want to remain in school as they do. It is this spirit, too, that causes them to want to continue their education in college and it accounts for the large percentage of our graduates who go to college and for the splendid work that the great majority of them do there.

Co-Operation Stressed
It is this spirit, too, that causes such a unity among the people of Lubbock in the support of their schools and causes them to boost instead of criticize. It is such a spirit that makes it possible for four thousand pupils, one hundred and forty-two teachers, and about eight thousand patrons to work together without friction. The school system run by coercion can not run smoothly. It is the spirit of work and freedom, the spirit of opportunity and self-realization that has possession of all connected with the Lubbock public schools, that makes possible their almost frictionless machinery and the splendid attitude on the part of pupils, teachers, and patrons.

However, with all the things our teachers are doing and seeking to do, we have not yet begun to dream of the possibilities of the children when they are really enlisted in their work. When we approach the child as an essentially spiritual being to be reached through his feelings and will, we shall be amazed at his possibilities and shall wonder why we were so long so blind as to try to drive him to his school work against his will and into tasks that were foreign to his life. At best we have only begun to touch the borderline of the possibilities of the new education and to see only dimly what it means to the children.

GOOD OLD DAYS?
LONDON, Feb. 12.—Maybe two can live cheaper than one, after all. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lovelock of Lynham, in celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, revealed that they were married when Lovelock was making but $2.50 a week and that shortly after his salary was reduced to $2.25.

Plane Is "Busted"

Question Mark To Return To Ranks

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12. (P)—The famous plane "Question Mark" came home to its foster-mother today to "die."

Making its last flight with the special refueling equipment that made its epochal endurance flight possible, the tri-motored ship was flown to the army air depot at Middletown, near here from Bolling Field, Washington, for removal of its "lungs." It flew to its own funeral. It will be just an ordinary airplane after being stripped of its special equipment at Middletown and will go back in the service as a good soldier, but a "buck private." Its only claim to distinction will be the large "Q" painted on each side of the fuselage, which the government has allowed it to retain.

Plainview

member of the Lubbock Board of City Development was particularly interested in attending the Plainview banquet this year as he will work on a committee to arrange the annual meeting of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce soon and that Burrus expected to get many good pointers from the Plainview banquet.

Included in the evening's program was a number of musical selections featuring Plainview's best talent. Mrs. R. H. Knohuizen and Mrs. J. Lynn Williams sang a vocal solo. Mrs. Williams was introduced as a new citizen of Plainview, having moved here recently from Lubbock. Mrs. A. A. Berry played a violin solo. Mrs. Vera Newton Jacob accompanied at the piano and Harold Dallinger accompanied one piece with the cello. Jimmie King, Frank Chambers, and Mrs. Jones gave a number of popular selections.

"The Plains of Texas has a great future. You have done much," Leopold said, "but you have not yet scratched the surface. You have the man power, it is mobilized, you have the finances and the program, keep up the work." Leopold predicted a most rapid development on the Plains in the next ten to fifteen years.

He explained the services offered by the United States Chamber of Commerce and told of its organization after President Taft desired the opinion of the American Business Man on a national question.

Visitors introduced included: J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College; Fay Gaultie, secretary of the Lockney Chamber of Commerce; J. P. Nystel, secretary of the Abernathy Chamber of Commerce; Sterling C. Evans, district agent, A. & M. Extension Service; Charles R. Ray, Petersburg; Jake Harris, Clovis; R. T. Baggett, Kress; L. S. Kennedy, Olton.

Ed Bishop, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce; R. E. Fry, president of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce; Fred D. Daggett, general passenger agent, Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company; Dr. S. J. Underwood, Hale Center; Bob Anglin, Tulsa; S. P. Rossen, Hereford; Miss Opal Wood, former home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Julia Kelley, present agent; W. Fred Love and John P. McGarr, master farmers; P. C. Bennett and B. B. Holland, Amarillo; C. M. Anderson, manager of the Cooperative Creamery here; and Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

The new directors of the organization were introduced after which Wm. J. E. Goudy, newly elected president made a short address outlining as the chief aims of the organization for the year, the building of roads to Petersburg, Dimmitt, and Silverton together with a number of lateral roads. The new directors are: W. O. Daniels, vice president; David Bates, treasurer, and C. C. McGlasson, Floyd Covington, Fred Madison, Chauncey O. J. Sexton, R. Q. Silverthorne, A. J. Baird, E. Q. Perry, J. W. Walker, P. B. Randolph, Ray Wilson and John F. Hardway.

Chas. Reinken, president and other members of the Plainview Board of City Development were also introduced.

the residence faces.

May Conduct Services
The service was conducted by Rev. E. V. May, Brownfield Baptist pastor. At the grave, the Masonic lodge had charge of the ceremony.

Mr. Brownfield, known throughout the Panhandle country as one of its pioneer builders, as one of its most philanthropic citizens, and as the founder of the town of Brownfield, had a circle of friends which extended throughout West Texas. Scores of these were on hand for the funeral service.

As a mark of respect for Mr. Brownfield, every business house in the city was closed during the hours of the funeral service. Citizens of the town attended the ceremony practically en masse. Visitors were on hand from many towns of Texas and from in New Mexico as well.

A SCOURGE TO RABBITS

ORLANDO, Fla., (P)—Police arrested a man here on whose person they found an automatic pistol, two extra cartridge clips, a tear gas bombing device and extra gas cartridges, skeleton keys, a diamond pointed glass cutter, a flashlight and a cartridge belt. He said he was a rabbit hunter.

Pardon Is Center Of Sooner Probe

Tuesday's Investigations Twirl Around Pardoning Of Escaped Convict; Is Claimed As Mistake

(By Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 12.—Possible ulterior motives on the part of Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, for the pardoning of R. D. Crosshwaite, listed as an escaped convict, were sought today by the Oklahoma house of representatives committee while the senate court of impeachment continued its trial of Johnston, with the pardon in the spotlight there also.

Attorneys for Johnston have contended that the Governor signed Crosshwaite's pardon last December without making an investigation that would have revealed that the convicted murderer had been listed in state records as a fugitive from justice since 1923. The Governor's counsel claimed he was misled by his private secretary, H. E. Sullivan. After eluding process servers from the house committee for about three weeks, T. N. Crosshwaite, father of the pardoned man, was brought before the committee today. He was grilled for hours by members of the committee.

Lindy's Wedding

before long.

The ambassador was smiling and seemed highly pleased as he made the announcement.

He declared that no definite plans had been determined. There was immediate speculation as to whether the colonel might fly to Mexico City as soon as he completes his air mail flight.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the aviator, is in route to the United States from Constantinople where she has taught for six months in an American school, where a sister of Ambassador Morrow also teaches. It was certain that there will be no wedding until she arrives, but that would not mean a long delay.

When Lindbergh took off from Valbuena field here last November for the United States, he gave an aerial salute to Anne. She was at the field with her family to watch him start.

As soon as he had climbed to a little height he circled over the field and then dipped low over the head of Anne.

Farewell Is Recalled
Some recalled it today as a significant farewell message, although only the principals suspected its purport at the time.

Anne is described by her friends as a "quiet, sweet and girtry girl," studious and domestic. She is said to be interested in modern artistic and literary movements and in world affairs, but at the same time to be of the home loving type. These persons regard her as the perfect type to round out the somewhat one-sided life of the colonel.

Valley Citizens

the legislature," Kirgan declared.

"We are representative citizens of the state of Texas who are asking that our constitutional rights be safeguarded and that our votes be counted as cast. In our caravan we have some of the most highly respected citizens of the valley, doctors, lawyers, business men and farmers. We are not beligerent, but we do want a fair hearing and we are going to demand our rights."

"We are confident that the right kind of an investigation of this election will disclose that Smith received a clean majority of from 1,200 to 1,500 votes."

EDINBURG, Feb. 12. (P)—Although reports from Harlingen today said that 500 Hidalgo county independent republicans in 150 automobiles were driving to Austin to protest the action of the legislature in passing W. R. Montgomery in the lower house, the section of the cavalcade that traveled via Edinburg numbered but 41 automobiles containing less than 100 people.

The party planned to spend the night in San Antonio and then continue to Austin to present its protest. Political trouble in Hidalgo county when two republican delegations from this section went to the republican state convention. The unsuccessful delegation placed a ticket of independents in the field and waged a bitter campaign.

The other wing of the party supported the democratic ticket. At one time the independents appealed to President Coolidge to intervene to assure a "fair" election and later a congressional committee investigating campaign expenditures, held a hearing in the county. The democratic ticket won almost every office. Every candidate declared elected, with few exceptions, faces a contest. Montgomery, a democrat, was seated by the house last week.

COOLIDGES TO RETURN

President Expects To Be Back At Home March 5

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge expect to be back at their old home town of Northampton on the morning of March 5. The President plans to leave the capital as early as possible on the afternoon of the inauguration day of Herbert Hoover for the Massachusetts city where he started his political career as councilman and city collector.

Mrs. Mabel Boland of Woodrow is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Beesinger, 1813 Avenue F.

The GOSSARD Line of Beauty

Not only "HOW SMART!"—but
"HOW MARVELOUSLY
IT FITS!"

A NEW WAY TO SLENDERNESS

THE fashionable, clear cut figure line of the woman who is Gossard corseted comes not only from the superb designing of Gossard foundation garments, but from the developed knowledge of the corsetiere's art. The corsetiere who serves you, who chooses just the right Gossard for your figure, and who fits you perfectly with such ease, does so, not from instinct, but because she knows.

All over the country Gossard schools of corsetry each season train corsetieres in how to fit the new foundations, how to best answer the figure needs of women.

And a trained Gossard representative visits your corsetiere many times a season to assist her in giving you the correct answer to your particular figure needs, to bring to you the unequalled fashion attainment of the correctly fitted Gossard.

"How smart—how marvelously it fits!"—women say these things of Gossard foundations because Gossard designers are artists and stylists, and because women who know Gossards fit them to your figure.

Ask your corsetiere to show you the new Gossard foundation garments.

Seek Combined Plan
The combined park-playground idea is to be established in the park plan it was decided in the meeting. No sites less than a block will be considered in the purchases.

Following a detailed discussion of the problem, the commissioners instructed members of the park board to secure as many tracts as possible in the survey and also to submit a feasible city plan of parks along with these tracts.

Members of the park board, consisting of Charles H. Mahoney, chairman, J. B. Maxey, K. N. Clapp, and Mrs. C. F. Stubbs, are to meet again Friday afternoon at two o'clock.
