Mothers' March Next Monday Night To Boost March Of Dimes Fund

When you hear the fire siren Monday night, January 30, at 7:00 o'clock, ,that will be the signal for porch lights to go on all over town. The annual "Mothers' March on Polio" will begin at 7:00 and last for one hour. This will be the fourth year for this Mothers' March and again this year every citizen is urged to do his part.

Results of the March last year exceeded any previous years' donations, according to an announcement by Mrs. Al T. Langford, chairman. And the committee is hoping for a repeat performance this year.

All mothers taking part in this march (there will be 19 or 20) will meet at Campbell Butane Co. building at 6:45 p.m. Then when the fire siren sounds the March will begin. This year by leaving your porch light on the Mothers' will know that you too are willing to help polio victims, children or adults, who may suffer this dread disease, a way to a life of health and happiness.

"So, let's all do our part in this wonderful job the mothers' are doing by having our porch lights on and our donations ready at the appointed time," says Howard Campbell, Mills County chairman for the 1956 March of Dimes.

BENEFITS HELP MARCH OF DIMES FUND

The benefit basketball games which were held at the local gym Monday night of this week, netted $162.86 for the March of Dimes. The concessions took in $10.00, cake auction brought $54.00 and the door receipts $98.86 took care of the balance.

The Elementary School girls from Mullin and Goldthwaite played the first game at 7:00 o'clock and the score was 25-24 in favor of Goldthwaite.

The second game was between the Mullin and Goldthwaite Elementary boys and again the Goldthwaite team was a winner with a score of 68-14. The climax of the evening came when the Goldthwaite Lions Club members and the Star All-Stars met for the final game. According to Howard Campbell, fund drive chairman, no official score was kept on the game.

While the basketball games were in progress, a domino game was going on at Wilson's Cafe and the proceeds from these games raised the ante for the March of Dimes by $18.05.

Then on Tuesday morning from 9:00 until 10:30 a "coffee break" was observed at Stacy's Restaurant for the benefit of the March of Dimes. Coffee was served by the following Lions: Howard Campbell, T. M. Glass, Milton Tate, L. J. Ward and LeRoy Stacy and the take was $45.03. Thus in one night and morning Goldthwaite and Mills County raised $225.94 for this fund drive.

Mrs. W. B. Wooster returned home Saturday afternoon from Rollins Brooks Hospital, Lampasas, where she underwent major surgery. She is reported to be doing nicely.

1956 Auto Tags To Go On Sale Next Wednesday

New 1956 license plates for cars, trucks and trailers will go on sale next Wednesday morning, February 1, according to announcement by C. F. Stubblefield, Mills County tax assessor-collector.

In applying for new tags folks are reminded to bring their certificate of title and 1955 license receipt.

NEW LAW WILL EFFECT TRAILERS

Those owning trailers are cautioned about the new law which effects all commercial trailers.

To begin with, each commercial trailer must have a license. In order to get license plates owner must have serial number from last year's receipt. If no serial number is available, or has been issued, then owner must make application for number at time of registering.

Serial number must be die stamped on frame of trailer before license plates can be issued. Trailer must be inspected by regular mechanic, or garage, and inspection certificate must be signed by inspector in order for owner to get license plates.

This information is issued early in order to give trailer owners time to check their requirements for securing new 1956 plates.

New plates for cars, trucks, and trailers will be issued from February 1 until March 31. All vehicles must have new plates before April 1, 1956.

Walton Twins Receive God And Country Awards At Sherman Services

God and Country Awards, one of the highest honors a Boy Scout can earn, were pinned on their sons by proud parents at Sunday morning's worship service Jan. 8, 1956, in the chapel at Perrin Air Force Base, Sherman, Texas, according to word received here this week.

The boys receiving these awards were: Robert and Roy Walton (twins) sons of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Walton, and Dale Fulkerson, son of Chaplain (Major) and Mrs. Maurice D. Fulkerson. The boys had earned their awards after one year of effort.

God and Country Awards are not merit badges in scouting but are recognition given by the church for service and spiritual achievement. The boys attended classes once a week for nine months, served in the chapel at services and passed a rigid test given by the three base Protestant chaplains. The chaplains were selected to give the tests by the Sherman Area Council of Boy Scouts.

Robert and Roy, age 12, are Frist Class Scouts. They have been in the Boy Scouts for one year and had spent three years as Cub Scouts. Roy is patrol leader of The Eagle Patrol and Robert is leader of the Rattlesnake Patrol.

The award ceremony consisted of a Salute to Colors, the flags of the Christian Church and the United States led by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Richard Carr, followed by the Scout Promise and Law led by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Richard Hewgley, and a summary of God and Country requirements presented by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Ray Riddle. S-Sgt. Robert Kramer, scoutmaster, then presented the candidates.

The climax and most touching point of the entire ceremony came when the Neighborhood Commissioner, Chaplain Fulkerson, presented the awards to the sons of Sergeant Walton and to Dale Fulkerson, his own son.

Following is a letter to the local pastor at Sherman from the National Council of Protestant Committee on Scouting from national headquarters at New Brunswick, New Jersey:

"Dear Pastor:

"We are happy to inform you that the Protestant Committee on Scouting has approved applications for the God and Country Award as submitted by your church. Enclosed you will find the medals.

"Hearty congratulations to you and to the Scouts . . . who are recognized for achievement in the God and Country program. We hope that this ceremony will inspire many other boys to enroll in this program of study, experience, and service to the church."

Robert and Roy Walton are the twin sons of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Robert G. Walton, formerly of Goldthwaite, now stationed at Perrin Air Force Base, Sherman. Paternal grandparents of the boys are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Walton of Route 1, Goldthwaite, and the maternal grandmother is Mrs. Opal Henkes, also of Goldthwaite.

During the past four years, the report shows an increase year by year in both sheep and goat sales.

Sheep sales showed a gradual increase for the past four years: in 1952 the total was 101,852; in 1953, 171,259; in 1954, 234,247, and in 1955, 279,776.

There has been a steady increase in prices on both sheep and goats from 1952 through 1955.

Total volume of sales for the year 1955 was $3,423,552.60 or more than a million dollars over the sales of 1954.

Mr .and Mrs. Velon Reese of Stephenville spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Reese.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Seems GOP Fears Harriman More Than Adlai Stevenson | Republicans Centering Fire On New York's Governor

Special to Central Press Association

WASHINGTON—The recent Republican campaign to label New York's Gov. Averell Harriman as the "Tammany Hall" candidate for President apparently indicates that the GOP fears Harriman more than Adlai Stevenson.

While Stevenson is far out in front in all polls as the probable Democratic nominee, Harriman isn't even an announced candidate. However, Republicans are centering their fire on Harriman, nevertheless.

Governor Harriman

This could indicate one of two things: GOP strategists believe that Harriman will be the Democratic nominee, or they feel he would be a bigger vote-getter than once-defeated Stevenson.

The new GOP blast at Harriman was launched by President Eisenhower's news secretary, James C. Hagerty, but quickly was backed up by various GOP senators.

Of course, Stevenson isn't immune to GOP attack, either, but many leading Democrats frankly are puzzled about the Republican emphasis on Harriman at this stage of the political war.

* * * *

STEVENSON PROBLEM—Meanwhile, Stevenson supporters were elated at the reception he received from the new AFL-CIO merger convention in New York. They say it shows he definitely will get the full backing of organized labor.

It is regarded as especially significant in view of the belief in some Democratic circles that Harriman is really the man that the unions had wanted to run for President.

Stevenson backers note that AFL-CIO President George Meany said after hearing both Harriman and Stevenson address the convention that Adlai had "said it better than anyone else has" in giving labor's views.

Democrats also feel that President Eisenhower in his message to the convention failed to stem rising labor resentment against the GOP because of Republican charges that the merger is a threat to the nation.

* * * *

● CANDIDATE LODGE?—On the Republican side of the political picture, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is the latest backstage candidate for the President nomination if Mr. Eisenhower should decide against running again. Friends of the United Nations ambassador quietly are grooming him to enter the race when and if the President says "no" to a second term.

It is pointed out that Lodge, in recent months, has been seen more and more in photographs with Ike. Furthermore, his daily role in the United Nations keeps him constantly in the public eye.

Backers of Lodge say that since the GOP is committed to a "peace and prosperity" theme for the 1956 campaign, he is a logical man to bill in the "peace" role because of his UN work.

* * * *

● WARREN UNINTERESTED—Close associates of Chief Justice Earl Warren say that he is so determined to stay on the Supreme Court that only the strongest appeal from President Eisenhower could persuade him to be a presidential candidate next year.

Would be Reluctant Candidate

GOP politicos say that Warren undoubtedly would make the strongest Republican candidate if Ike decides to retire. However, they also concede that it would take a real selling job to get him to run.

Warren is said to feel sincerely that he ought not to seek the nomination because such action on his part might only plunge the Supreme Court into the political arena.

In addition, Warren enjoys life on the high bench; it is a lifetime job promising uninterrupted financial security for a man who has no independent source of wealth.

SOLILOQUY

My friend Charles Canradt, local manager of the Production Credit Association, passed along to us a clipping taken from the West Texas Livestock Weekly which contains something that sounds very timely.

I want to present it here along with the editor's note as it appeared in that publication.

(Editor's note: The following lament is from Herb McSpadden of Oologah, Oklahoma, who says it was inspired by "grim experience—a 9 pound hammer, a No. 2 shovel, or an empty cake sack . . . we all have our problems." It may or may not be sung to the tune of a currently popular jukebox melody.)

EIGHTEEN TONS OF COTTONSEED CAKE

By Herb McSpadden

Standing at attention with the flag unfurled,
Got to make a living in an over-taxed world;
Discharged from the Army as the law allows,
Trying to make a living with a bunch of old cows.
But it takes money for horseshoes, takes money for gas,
Takes money for fencing, takes money for grass;
Your banker looks you over, says "It looks mighty fine,"
But you sign your name on the dotted line.
Born in the middle of a good grass land,
Looked like The Maker had me by the hand;
Calves began dropping, it looked like a stake.
But pay for 18 tons of cottonseed cake.
Started in a season when the rain didn't fall,
Prices got to dropping and still that wasn't all;
Used mussel shells for money for my banker's sake,
Trying to pay for 18 tons of cottonseed cake.
Friend of mine called me and wanted to play,
Told him I was busy and had nothing to say;
Got my nose to the grindstone 14 hours a day.
Cause I owe my soul to the P. C. A.
Eighteen tons and what do I get?
Another year older and deeper in debt.
Trying to show a profit, it makes me laugh;
It wipes away the margin on a feeder calf.
When St. Peter blows his bugle on that Judgment Day,
I'll have an empty sack, standing right in the way;
I'll have to turn around and go the other way.
Cause I owe my soul to the P. C. A.
Eighteen tons and what do I get?
A few empty cake sacks to apply on my debt;
Secretary Benson has promised some relief,
But he'll never get it done unless we eat a lot of beef.
Passed through the graveyard just the other day.
To see how my old buddy had been laid away,
And there was a notice on a big white stake:
PLEASE REMIT for 18 tons of cottonseed cake.

Mrs. A. E. Weathers, Roy, New Mexico, writes as follows: "I am sending the subscription renewal for the paper. I look forward every Monday morning to that Eagle bringing the news from Mills County, my childhood home where I had much joy, and thrills. But, now we are old and grey and will soon be on our way. The train is on the track, our grips are packed, our tickets are paid and I am praying we will make the grade. Keep the Eagle flying."

ON THE SIDE OF FREEDOM

The local newspaper is a personal diary of a community's life. This is especially true of the country papers, of which there are many thousands in the United States. These papers are free to express their point of view on any issue or question of public or private interest, subject only to the reservations imposed by the libel law.

Their right to criticize their government was established over two hundred years ago in what was then a British Colonial town now known as New York City. This country's smaller newspapers are a tremendous asset on the side of freedom, possessed by no other nation. The strong local appeal of the small town newspaper assures unusual readership interest.

Amid all the modern developments in the field, the newspaper retains its position as one of the most effective advertising mediums. All of us have a tremendous stake in the continued health and independence of our thousands of country papers. It's reassuring to know that they rest on such a solid foundation, both culturally in the minds and hearts of their readers, and economically in the support of advertisers.

Sometimes we get a note from one of our subscribers or hear a message passed along to us from some of our readers that shed a different light on the subject. One along that line came to our attention just recently. Mrs. J. H. Randolph received a letter from some old friends of hers, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Patterson, who are spending some time at Holly Springs, Mississippi, in which they made the following observation: "The Eagle is no good—we never see your name in it anymore."

Miss Louine Berry Becomes Bride Of Van Wilson McCasland

Miss Louine Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Berry, became the bride of Van Wilson McCasland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon McCasland, in a candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Goldthwaite Saturday evening, January 14, at 5:00 o'clock. Rev. J. T. Ayers, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Gatesville, read the impressive double ring ceremony.

The altar was beautifully decorated with palms, candelabras, tall baskets of white gladioli, stocks and chrysanthemums. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Vows were exchanged before a white wedding arch with white wedding bells in clusters.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. G. J. DeLapp who accompanied Mrs. Charles Sheldon as she sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white slipper satin, fashioned with a tightly fitted bodice which came to a point at the waistline. The low neckline had an inset of Chantilly lace accented with pearls, and long fitted sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. Her veil of Chantilly lace fell in folds to waist length from a white satin bandeau embroidered with pearls. She carried a white Bible, topped with a gardenia surrounded by feathered carnations, with streamers of white satin ribbon tied in double lovers knots. She followed the custom of "something old, new, borrowed, blue and a penny in her shoe. Something old and blue was a blue silk handkerchief made from her mother's wedding dress.

Miss Kay McCasland, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of blue taffeta with a tightly fitted bodice which came to a point at the waistline. She carried a cascade bouquet of -gladioli and chrysanthemums. Her bandeau was made of flowers to match her bouquet.

Miss Margie McCasland, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a ballerina length gown of pink taffeta patterned after the maid of honor's. She carried a tulip shaped basket of maline filled with pink rose petals. Her bandeau was made of flowers.

Bill Beard was best man. Charles Mitchell Sheldon and Armand Zoe Clary were ushers and lighted the candles.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Berry wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. McCasland, mother of the groom wore a Navy blue suit with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

...ny Farmers And Ranchers Have ...ial Security Responsibility

...y operators of farms and ...es have a special security responsibility to meet for the first time in January (this month), James B. Marley, district manager of the Austin social security office, said today.

He was referring to employers of farm and ranch labor who heretofore have not been required to report wages paid to hired help or remit social security taxes on those wages because their farm employees did not meet the regularity-of-work test which applied to farm labor before 1955. Any farm or ranch operator who paid $100 or more cash wages to an agricultural employee in 1955 is required to report all cash wages paid to that employee up to $4,200 in the year. At the same time he must send in the 4 percent social security taxes on those wages. The law provides for the employers sharing of this tax with the employee. However, it is the employer's responsibility to send the tax along with the report on wages to the District Director of Internal Revenue. This must be done on or before January 31, 1956.

For purposes of reporting wages and paying the social security tax, farmers and ranchers will use Form 943. If the employer does not have a copy of the form, he can obtain one from the District Director of Internal Revenue. Short Form 943 "Employer's Tax and Information Return for Agricultural Employees" is a brief one-page return. There are just a few entries that the employer is required to make on it.

Mr. Marley said: "I want to point out to every self-employed farmer and rancher that the cash wages he is required to report on Form 943 are credited to his workers' individual social security accounts. Through the proper reporting of taxable wages, just as by the proper reporting of his own earnings, both he and his employees are building old-age and survivors insurance protection for themselves and their families in later years and for their dependents in case of their death. I want to remind farm and ranch operators that the reports on their employees will be due on January 31; the due date for reports and social security tax payment on their own net earnings will be the due date for their individual income tax returns."

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

By CHARLES HAENISCH

V. C. Marshall, "Father of Texas soil conservation districts" was honored at the 15th annual convention of the Association of Texas SCD Supervisors in Lubbock January 18, 19, and 20.

Farmers and ranchers from all over the state gathered to map conservation strategy for 1956 and ponder soil, water, and farm problems of state and national concern. One point which received considerable attention was the Hoover Commission's recommendation on USDA's upstream flood prevention work.

Marshall, 70, retired December 31 after 16 years as executive director of the Texas State Soil Conservation Board. Well-known to rural Texans for nearly 40 years, Marshall helped write Texas' first rural aid bill for schools which inaugurated the school bus system and free transportation for rural kids.

Since the early 30's he has been an active leader in the conservation movement and is generally credited with having done more than any other individual to make soil conservation districts a fact in Texas.

He helped write, then vigorously supported, the bill which became Texas' Soil Conservation District Law when it passed the Legislature in 1939. This law opened the way to formation of SCD's as legal sub-divisions of state government, and it placed control of the districts directly in the hands of farm and ranch people.

For awhile, Marshall was chairman of the first State Soil Conservation Board—the group which administered the State SCD Law. Later he became the State Board's first executive director and in that position helped organize the 172 districts which now cover more than 97 percent of Texas.

A farmer himself, Marshall lives on the Bell County blackland farm where he has lived since birth.

A big feature of the convention was this year's SOIL AND WATER Show and its giant display of conversation farm and ranch equipment. Both the show and the convention was held in Lubbock's Fair Park Coliseum.

MRS. ORA BLACK

The sleet and snow which fell here through Tuesday and Wednesday along with the rain which followed Saturday brought the precipitation in our guage to a little over an inch. The moisture was badly needed in order to promote the growth of grain crops.

Saturday was an unusually disagreeable day for a stock show, nevertheless the FFA and 4-H Club members from out our way were up at the break of day and on their way to Lampasas to display their animals. Those exhibiting calves from here were John Streigler, Virgil Evans, Carroll Anderson and Huntis and Layton Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Burk were in Cherokee recently guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lock.

Mrs. Frank Hines and daughter, Miss Greta Sue, visited Mrs. W. B. Wooster of Goldthwaite, who is a patient in the Rollins Brook Hospital at Lampasas, last Thursday.

The writer attended an all-day meeting with the Mullin ladies Monday of last week, at the home of Mrs. Frank Shelton. A wonderful feast at the noon hour was enjoyed by twenty guests.

Mrs. Dick Hughes is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

BEST FOOD BUYS FOR FEBRUARY

The time has come again for publishing a list of plentiful foods for the coming month, put out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Potatoes, pork, beef and grapefruit top the plentiful food list for February.

According to Miss Mae Belle Smith, Extension Specialist in Consumer Education, not nearly so many potatoes are being eaten now because they are thought to be fattening. This really isn't true. A medium sized potato contains about 100 calories—what is fattening is the gravy and butter that is commonly eaten with the potato. Potatoes are a good source of Vitamin C, and they contain B vitamins, iron, and other minerals besides being a good energy food. They are a good food and good for you.

Red meat supplies for 1956 are expected to equal those for 1955 and a wide variety of kinds and cuts of pork and beef are available. Consumers are asking for leaner pork, and producers are responding by trying to produce more meat - type hogs. Pork is a top source of Vitamin B as well as iron and phosphorous.

Beef is still plentiful and the economy cuts can help keep the food budget low.

Grapefruit, both fresh and processed, are available in large quantities at prices slightly below those of a year ago and are a good buy.

The fresh vegetables on the list are cabbage and celery.

Rice, broilers, fryers, milk and other dairy products, vegetables, fats and oils, peanut butter, lard, and canned tuna round out the plentiful list for February.

...emaking Department Presents ...le Show At High School Program

BY JOYCE SCHUMAN

...oldthwaite High School ...king Department had ... show at the school's ... assembly program on ...ry 18. Girls who model- ...es are taking Home-making as a subject this year and made their own clothing.

Along with modeling of the clothes, the girls had cleverly planned skits. The first year girls did a pantomime of "The Rock and Roll Waltz." Second year girls, who have two sections, gave two skits. The fifth period girls had a skit entitled "Dragnet." Sixth period girls gave a skit of the famous television program "This is Your Life," using Nell Langford as the main character, because of her sewing troubles. The third year girls used a scene in a doctor's office as the source of their skit. The patient waiting to see the doctor seemed to catch everything she came in contact with.

There were three women who judged as to how the dresses looked on the girls. The judges were Mrs. R. L. Steen, Mrs. Carlos Patterson, and Mrs. W. C. Barnett.

First year girls that won ribbons were Brenda Kelly, first place, Linda Ward, second; and Addie Jo Conrad, third.

In the group of second year girls Patsy Hammond won first place; Joyce Schuman, second; and Linda Langford, third.

The third year girls who won were Dorothy Warlick, second; Carlene Wood, third, and Jo Ann Jones and Anna Collier tied for first place.

Mrs. Patty Johnson, homemaking teacher, judged the girls on construction of the dresses. In this class Benna Von Reid won first place and Barbara Burns won second place in the group of first year girls. In the group of second year girls Jackie Morgan won first place, and Jerrilyn Gotcher won second place. Of the group of third place girls Anna Collier won first place, and Jo Ann Jones won second place.

GETTING THE MOST OUT OF OUR FOOD DOLLAR

Built-in maid service on our grocery shelves may be a big boon to time-saving for today's housewife, but it has been a big factor in making the food process cost more than the food itself.

Ten years ago the farmer got more than half—53 cents to be exact—of every retail food dollar. Today his share has shrunk to a miserable 39 cents, little more than a third of the total, and 3 cents less than it was only a year ago.

The lion's portion, or 61 cents out of every food dollar, goes to the "middle men," those who take charge of the foodstuffs after the "preliminary" stage of raising them is completed. And while the service of the middleman is generally essential in bringing food from the farmer's market to the food store in good condition, his fancy lables often save little time while costing a lot more money.

I doubt that the average housewife can thaw out a package of frozen french-fried potatoes and have them on the table any quicker than if she took a paring knife in hand and went to work. Most women can cut up a potato while the grease is getting hot. Yet this little built-in convenience can cost you more than the potato itself is worth and put the cash conveniently into the middleman's pocket.

Of course, frozen food processes are the best means we've ever had for enjoying the food we like whether in season or not, and without danger of spoilage. But when the housewife selects a package of in-season vegetables from the frozen food counter, she's not helping herself much, and certainly not the food budget.

The housewife can avoid buying the box and getting the beans thrown in incidentally by sensible marketing. But what about the farmer? Unfortunately, a saving to the housewife is not a saving to the food grower, nor is it a detriment. Any price decline is customarily passed from farmer to housewife.

However, farm prices since November 1954 have declined 10 percent while the middlemen have dropped their prices only 2 percent. This could mean that the price of the food itself is secondary to processing costs. Surely this is being unrealistic.

Recent Congressional legislation provides funds for a mandatory study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to find out if middlemen are reaping undue profits at the farmer's expense.

If this is even partially true, then we might expect the presently unrelated on-the-farm and in-the-store prices to resolve into more money for the farmers, a reasonable profit to processors and food-handlers, and finally a saving to the consumer.

Glad tidings came over the radio Wednesday. There was a mention of snow and sleet in Central Texas. I heard Brownwood mentioned, and I heard something about icy roads in Mills County. I hope there was enough moisture to bring relief from the drouth.

Today (Jan. 19) is the 98th birthday of Mrs. Sarah Ann Reeves (Mrs. John Reeves) of the Pioneer Nursing Home in Brownwood. She has been a citizen of the Ebony Community since 1883. To me she is a dear and treasured friend. Last year she was able to have a birthday party. I haven't heard lately how she is, but I heard sometime ago that she was very feeble and was failing fast.

A letter from Mrs. Brownie Reeves White of Los Angeles this week said on Dec. 31 she and her daughter, Mrs. Anita White McCall, attended the Golden Wedding Anniversity of John and Emma Stinson. Emma is the former Emma Honea — youngest sister of the late Louis Honea of Brownwood. John Stinson is the brother of Mrs. Louis Honea. Emma attended her first school at old Buffalo Schoolhouse at Ebony. Afterward the family moved nearer to Indian Creek.

Brownie said their children got a large club house for the occasion, and over one hundred relatives and guests registered. They served punch and cookies to all, and John and Emma received many nice gifts.

On Jan. 10, Brownie had the thrilling pleasure of seeing her son, Charles White, sworn in as a practicing attorney. She has also been to Disneyland, and has recently seen the film, Martin Luther, in the Pepperdine College Auditorium. She says the floats of the Rose Bowl Parade were simply beautiful. One was from Pasadena, Texas—the Cradle of Texas Liberty. Brownie says she does not know the location of the Texas Pasadena. I happen to know that it is near Houston .

My sister, Mrs. J. F. Bateman, of Fort Worth writes that the crowning gift of the Christmas season to her and John was a 24 in. R.C.A. Television set from Son Joe. She said John (a football fan) watched the Rose Bowl, the Cotton Bowl, and the Orange Bowl games all on one day. She was afraid it would be too much for him, but there were no bad effects. She says that just goes to prove that what we enjoy doesn't hurt us. She says she finds that you have to treat television somewhat like drinking. You must be temperate about it, or you will become a victim.

Johnny and Billy are TV fans, but Johnny (four) leaves TV every night long enough to go into the living room and sit on the piano bench with his mommy while she plays the accompaniment as he sings The Yellow Rose of Texas. He sings it perfectly with his voice high and light as a child's should be. He'll say, "Let's sing it again, Mom." I tell Bill he should get a picture of them. It's just too cute for words.

PARENT PROBLEMS

Teach Child To Accept Blame For Own Mistakes

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

"HE made me do it," or "He told me to do it" is a familiar retort, even from a very young child. He should be taught to admit and bear responsibility for his own acts.

Attack this problem early.

Limit Training

Let the tot learn, for example, that no matter how many of his playmates run into the street, he must not. Also, that he must not do anything else he knows to be wrong, regardless of what others do. Limit your early training in this direction to situations you can check with your own eyes and ears.

As the child grows older, you can get over the principle of responsibility for his own acts, through companionable discussion of such matters. But don't attempt to do this while he is threatened with blame, rebuke or punishment.

Wise and Consistent

Your influence on him in this direction while he is away from you will be greater, if your training has been wise and consistent and if he enjoys your confidence and companionship. You don't get far by commanding a child what to do in your absence and then question and cross-examine him afterwards.

In the matter of teaching the child to admit his own wrongs and accept responsibility for them, our example as parents is very powerful. How well do we measure up in this respect with each other, with the child and with other people? Then too when we see the child voluntarily admitting his own wrongs or errors when he might easily escape doing so, let us compliment him.

Whimsical Lesson

In Checkaway for November 24 "The Magazine for Classroom Fun," which is widely used in schools by many third and fourth grade children, Munro Leaf describes in his picturesque words and humorous drawings But-But the Blamer.

"In class, at home, at play But-But has an excuse for every mistake.

" 'Somebody else told me the wrong thing.' 'Somebody pushed me just at the wrong time.'

"You wish he just once would be honest enough to say that he was responsible when he did something wrong. You could like him then and you would probably want to help him as much as you could."

(My bulletin "Teaching Your Child Responsibility" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.)

Tips On Low-Cost Meals

By ALICE DENHOFF

CANNED mushrooms come to the rescue nicely just now in our series of budget-savers. Here is a new and delicious chicken skillet dish that is elegant but not at all expensive.

Combine ¼ c. flour, ½ tsp. paprika, ½ tsp. salt and dash of pepper in paper bag. Place pieces of a cut-up 2 lb. ready-to-cook fryer in flour bag and shake.

In a large skillet melt 2 tbsp. butter or margarine. Cook chicken in butter until golden. Add ¼ c. minced onions, a 4 oz. can sliced mushrooms and liquid, 2 tbsp. lemon juice, tsp. sugar, ¾ tsp. salt, 2 tomatoes cut up, and thyme to taste. Cook slowly, covered, for about 30 min. or until done. This serves 4.

A Good Buy

The Oriental touch lends a new flavor to an unusual pork dish, made with rice and soy sauce.

To serve 4, cut ½ lb. lean pork in thin slivers and cook in 2 tbsp. bacon drippings, 4 to 5 min., or until browned. Slice thin ½ green pepper, slice 1 medium onion. Add with a 4 oz. can sliced mushrooms that have been drained, and sauté 3 to 4 min. longer or until vegetables are tender but not browned. Stir occasionally.

Combine 1 tbsp. cornstarch with a small amount taken from 2¼ c. tomato juice, mixing thoroughly. Add remaining tomato juice, tsp. salt, tsp. Worcestershire sauce and ½ tsp. prepared horseradish.

Add to pork mixture and cook, stirring lightly until thickened.

Cover and continue cooking over medium heat for about 10 min., stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, add 1⅓ c. (5 oz. pkg.) precooked rice and ½ tsp. salt to 1½ c. boiling water in saucepan. Mix, just to moisten all rice.

Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 min. Arrange rice in serving dish and top with the pork and sauce. Serve with soy sauce, if desired.

Public Cooperation Credited With Improved Handling Of Holiday Mail

Public cooperation today was credited with improved handling of a record volume of Christmas mail in this area. George A. Gray, director of the Post Office Department's Texas-Louisiana Region, said reports now being made to his office in Dallas indicate that there was about a six per cent increase in mail over Christmas of 1954. Postal revenues also increased about six per cent while work hours were up only two per cent.

"This increased efficiency, which is reflected in reports from the larger offices of the region, is traceable to the best cooperation from the public the Post Office has ever had," Mr. Gray said.

He cited an unprecedented amount of publicity by newspapers and radio and television stations urging the public to separate, face and bundle letters and to mail early.

"The public responded remarkably," he declared. "Most people with Christmas cards to mail carefully separated them into local and out-of-town bundles and faced them for quick processing through cancelling machines, speeding up the dispatch of outgoing mail and helping postal workers keep pace with the deluge that gave the Department its biggest volume in history."

The regional official concluded that this public cooperation and the good work of postal employees and transportation companies kept the mail flowing smoothly. "There was no delayed mail in post offices in Texas and Louisiana on Christmas Eve," he said, "and I give a great deal of credit to the publicity by press, radio, and television."

The Post Office "Mail Early" campaign is a continuing thing, he explained, but except at Christmas time it pertains to mailing early in the day.

And Purina Range Checkers have what it takes to help cows build husky calves, condition cows to calve easily and have lots of milk to start calves right.

It costs a lot of money to feed a cow. A husky calf is the dividend. And if a cow isn't properly fed you pay for it in short calf crops, scrawny calves, calving trouble, poor cow condition that results in breeding trouble the next year.

Purina Range Checkers contain choice grains, a variety of protein, vitamins and minerals—everything a cow needs to grow and drop the kind of calf that's up and sucking a few minutes after he hits the ground.

If Range is Poor we recommend Purina Range Breeder Checkers, fortified with extra Vitamin A.

State Capitol NEWS

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — Talking to some 250 newspaper people, Sen. Price Daniel took the spotlight in Austin when he made public his current thinking about the race for Governor.

Senator Daniel said it was the largest press conference he ever had held. It followed his talk on the program of the Texas Press Association's Mid-Winter Meeting.

Anticipating the first question, he began the conference by stating that he intended to complete his term in the Senate . . . unless the people of Texas "call me home to take a more important job."

He set March 1 as his deadline for disclosing his decision on a possible race for governor.

Should he decide to run for governor, Daniel said he would not resign from the Senate until after his nomination. But he would resign in time to give the people the "freest possible choice" in selecting his successor.

In reference to rumors that a job "trade" was being considered between him and Gov. Allan Shivers the junior senator said that he never had and never would consider a political trade-out.

In further reference to his political future Daniel said he will not run for re-election to the Senate in 1958, unless pressing and unfinished business demands that he do so. He drew considerable applause when he stated that "I would rather be governor of Texas than President of the United States."

Daniel's appearance in the Capital City temporarily drew some of the interest away from the currently involved insurance investigation.

It still goes on, however. Some good news made the headlines when it was announced that, according to present estimates, US Trust depositors, policyholders and other creditors may receive from 70 to 85 cents on the dollar.

Meanwhile both the Senate and House investigating committees were at work.

Making a strong start, the House committee planned to continue its four-point investigation: 1. How to help US Trust victims to get back the most possible as soon as possible; 2. Inquiry into charges of influence for and against legislation; 3. An attempt to trace over $50,000 in US Trust checks issued to "cash" about the time A. B. Shoemake, US Trust president, was lobbying on insurance legislation; and 4. How to prevent recurrance of similar situations.

A parade of Senators has testified before that group. One upshot has been an increasing clamor for passage of lobbying regulations next session.

Insurance Commission Chairman J. Byron Saunders told the House committee that the blame for conditions should be shared three ways. The insurance industry wasn't sufficiently alert; the Legislature was partly to blame; and previous insurance commissions had been "derelict" at times. Later he qualified the "'derelict" to say he meant no particular individual or commission, and certainly not the present commission.

Saunders predicted that under present insurance laws, no company could set up an operation similar to US Trust.

Life Insurance Commissioner Garland Smith, apparently under tension of recent developments, went to the hospital with stomach trouble. His condition was believed not serious.

First trial on criminal charges resulting from the insurance investigations is expected to get underway early next month.

Travis Co. Dist. Atty. Les Procter said he hopes to bring to trial three Beaumont men under indictments for perjury. All were connected with the now-defunct Texas Mutual Insurance Co. of Beaumont.
