Numerous readers have put in their bids for the prizes, naturally gaining a head start on those who have not become familiar with the rules of the contest. But there is time yet for the late-comers to get to the swim. The race closes December 1. The idea is to compile as near as possible the weight of the mastodon. All rules of the contest are carried in the sports section this morning. The sports editor, although addicted to predicting the scores of football and baseball games, has kindly condescended not to aid or perhaps hinder the contestants by making any prophesies about the purported poundage of the beast.

FUNERAL RITES SET TODAY FOR JOS. G. CANNON

Vice-President Dawes Will Represent Coolidge At Funeral

IS SIMPLEST CEREMONY

Not Even Flag Will Cover Casket of Famous Statesman

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 15. (AP) —With all the simplicity of his Quaker heritage Joseph G. Cannon's body will be borne to the grave tomorrow as that of a private citizen.

Not even a flag will cover the casket of the man who served for 42 years in the national house of representatives and for eight years as its speaker.

The men of state, headed by Vice-Pres. Charles G. Dawes, who will come in numbers to pay final tribute, will attend his services as friends and co-workers and not as envoys of the government he served although the vice-president will come as representative of President Coolidge. The body of "Uncle Joe" rested for the last time tonight in the turreted room in the Cannon home where in years gone by his friends gathered as neighbors or as political counsellors.

Tomorrow at 3 o'clock, the casket will be carried between lines of Boy Scouts to the First Methodist church across Vermillion street. There Rev. T. N. Ewing, Cannon's pastor and his wife's before her death, will liken the life of the political soldier to that of the Apostle Paul.

The former speaker's favorite phrase of his later years, "the goodness and mercy of God," will be intoned above the coffin, and there will be two hymns and a prayer. No formal eulogies will mark the ceremony. Flags will adorn the church.

The body will be interred in the family plot in Spring Hill cemetery beside that of Mrs. Cannon, while chimes in the First Presbyterian church knell "Nearer My God To Thee."

The business houses, schools and offices of Danville will be closed throughout the afternoon for the funeral.

One of the hundreds of floral tributes which came today to the Cannon home was from the 8,000 school children of Danville, all of whom knew Uncle Joe as one who often walked among them. Every school child from kindergarten to high school gave a penny toward the tribute.

Love Letters of Choir Singer To Her Pastor-Lover Read To Jury In Trial Of Minister's Widow For Murder

Sister of Slain Choir Singer Testifies That Dead Woman Made no Secret of Her Love For Rev. Edward W. Hall to Her Family

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 15. (AP)—An issue of veracity between two state witnesses appearing out of a clear sky in the Hall-Mills case today pre-emptied for a time the place in the spotlight occupied by the love affair of the Rev. W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills slain with him four years ago.

Elijah K. Soper of Highland Park, a New Brunswick suburb, was the witness whose testimony was attacked. He had testified that although he saw an automobile of the touring car type, occupied by two men and a woman, parked near DeRussey's lane, about midnight on the date of the double slaying, he could not identify the occupants. The state then produced Ira B. Nixon, owner of an oil company in New York, who lives in Newark to say that Soper four years ago told him that he had recognized the occupants of the automobile as Mrs. Hall and her two brothers.

State in Trouble.

The state was able to get this testimony before the jury on the ground that it was surprised by Soper's testimony and wished to neutralize it with that of Nixon's. In effect, the issue was placed before the jury for consideration as to whether Nixon's statement should be accepted as wiping out the failure of Soper to identify the defendants.

Reading the letters from Mrs. Mills to Mr. Hall found near the bodies was not accompanied by the tension in court developed when letters from the minister to the choir singer were read Saturday.

The woman's letters were no less ardent than those of the man, but there was much more repetition of favorite phrases.

Defendants Calm.

The three defendants were calm throughout the reading which was done by Francis Bergen, Somerset county prosecutor. He read rapidly with no stressing of the affectionate words and sentences.

Mrs. Hall was attentive but between letters when there was some confusion as to order and the pile of manuscript had to be arranged she spoke a few words to Mrs. Sydney Carpender, her cousin, who has sat each day just behind her.

James Mills, husband of the slain woman leaned forward in his chair with an expressionless face. Charlotte Mills, the daughter, was out of the court room.

Endearing Terms.

"Dearest, dearest boy," was the

$50,000 LOSS IN FIRES AT BURK AND IOWA PARK

Third Fire Discovered On Monday Night At Iowa Park

FIRES "SET" IS FEAR

Ginners Reported Employing Guards to Protect Property

Three gin fires in a period of 48 hours were causing investigations Monday night by authorities in Burkburnett and Iowa Park to determine if the fires which resulted in an aggregate loss of $50,000 were of incendiary origin.

The last of the three gin fires came Monday night when flames were discovered in the Greer long-staple gin at Iowa Park, 48 hours after the plant of the Valley Gin company had been destroyed with a loss of $25,000. The fire in the Greer gin broke out in several places but might have been started from smouldering embers of the Valley gin fire nearby, according to Iowa Park officials.

That the fire which destroyed the Hunt-Rigsby gin at Burkburnett early Monday morning with a loss of $20,000 was of incendiary origin was the opinion expressed by Burkburnett authorities. Cause of the fire which destroyed the Valley gin at Iowa Park on Saturday night had not been determined Monday night.

The fire in the Hunt-Rigsby gin at Burkburnett was discovered at 1 a. m. Monday by J. S. Rose, night watchman, when the entire building burst into flames and was quickly destroyed. The plant is to be rebuilt in time for operation during the next cotton season, owners have announced, according to word from Burkburnett.

Ginners Monday night were reported employing guards in this section to protect their properties from possible incendiary attacks.

NORRIS PAPER DENIED ENTRY

Texas Refuses to Receive Delaware Corporation Papers Filed

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Searchlight company of Fort Worth, operating under a Delaware corporation charter, Monday was declined a permit to do business in Texas, by the secretary of state. Application was made by Frank B. Potter of the Fort Worth firm of Dedman and Potter, attorneys.

D. A. Gregg, chief clerk of the secretary of state's office, said the permit was declined on the basis of an opinion rendered by C. M. Cureton, chief justice of the Texas supreme court, when Cureton was attorney general.

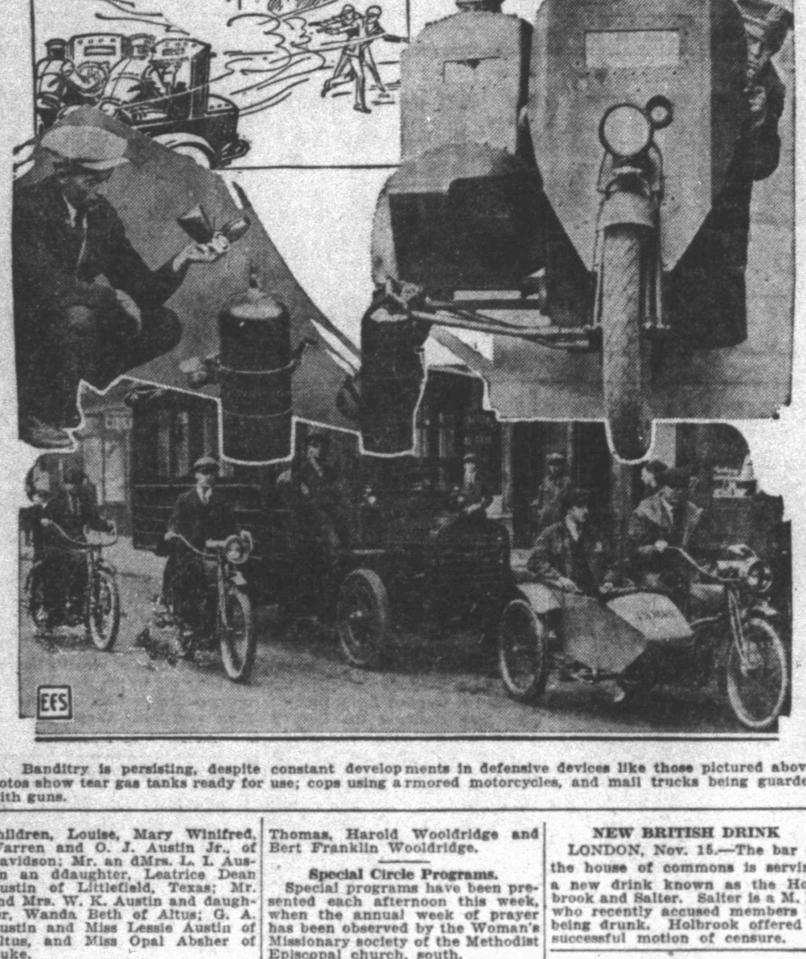

Norris Editor

Dr. Frank Norris, Fort Worth Baptist minister, is editor of the newspaper published by the company.

Guy Holcomb, commissioner of the blue sky department, announced that Mr. Potter informed him the company would not attempt to dispose of any of the stock in Texas until a permit to do business in Texas obtained and until a blue sky permit was obtained.

Judge Gregg cited the ruling of law is that where a charter is obtained in a foreign state for the purpose of transacting business in a domestic state and with no bona fide intention of transacting business in the state from which the charter is obtained, that such action is a fraud both upon the state issuing the charter and upon that into which it seeks admission for the transaction of business and a charter obtained under such circumstances and conditions confers no right upon the corporation and is not within the rule of comity between states which permits corporations chartered within one state to transact business in another."

Hostess to Club.

Mrs. Virgil Neeley was hostess to the Clionian-Delphian club Wednesday afternoon, at her home 505 North Julian street. The lesson was divided into two parts, the subject of the first section being, "Significant Movements of the Dark Ages."

Mrs. J. A. Smith and Mrs. D. H. Cherry were special guests Wednesday and at the conclusion of the interesting lesson a pleasant social hour was spent.

Armistice suggestions were used in the appointment of a lovely lunch which the hostess served to Mrs. J. A. Smith, Mrs. D. H. Cherry, Mrs. C. W. Snyder, Mrs. J. W. Humphreys, Mrs W. R. Kimperlin, Mrs. C. C. Devore and Mrs. Joe Chivers.

Worth While Club.

Vases of lovely cut flowers made the rooms attractive Wednesday, when Mrs. Irby Eikner was hostess to the Worth While club, at her home, 420 East Walnut street.

A pleasant afternoon, spent with needle work was enjoyed, and after book exchange the hostess served an excellent plate lunch. Special guests were Mrs. John Newmarker, of Juneau, Alaska, and Mrs. R. B. Lawrence. Club members present were Mrs. T. S. Christian, Mrs. A. C. Fagin, Mrs. Floyd Goodloe, Mrs. Robert Kizziar, Mrs. Grover Hardcastle, Mrs. E. A. Abernathy, Mrs. Herman Oliver, Mrs. Lee Ewing, Mrs. T. J. Kelly, Mrs. J. A. McCord, Mrs. L. H. McConnell, Mrs. Earl Mabry, Mrs. C. P. Peden and Mrs. M. T. Cochran.

Wooldridges Entertain.

A pumpkin jack-o'lantern, surrounded by autumn leaves and red mountain berries, formed an attractive centerpiece for the table, Wednesday evening, when Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Wooldridge entertained with a beautifully appointed dinner party, at their home, 723 East Commerce street. Seated with the host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. New Thomas, Mrs. C. O. Newlin, Mrs. Jennie Osburn Bridge, Miss Ella Mae Clark, Miss Buna Newlin, Miss Evelyn Bridge, Randall Thomas, Harold Wooldridge and Bert Franklin Wooldridge.

Special Circle Programs.

Special programs have been presented each afternoon this week, when the annual week of prayer has been observed by the Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

On Tuesday circle two had charge when the subject was "Prayer for Our Mission Fields." Mrs. Coker led the devotional and the topics, "Prayer for China, Mexico, Corea, Africa, Brazil, Japan and the Home Land," were given by Mrs. John Kimbell, Mrs. C. B. Peden, Mrs. Guy P. Horton, Mrs. L. H. McConnell, Rev. York, Mrs. Frank Welch and Mrs. J. B. Hix.

Circle one presented the Wednesday program, the subject of which was, "Prayer for Our Outgoing Missionaries and Deaconesses." Mrs. C. C. Austin led the devotional followed by a most interesting talk by Mrs. Charles Long, on the Isabelle Hendrix school in Brazil.

Mrs. Long, who has spent years as a missionary in Brazil, has visited the school many times and gave a vivid account of the work there. Mr. and Mrs. Long are at present on a furlough and will make Altus their headquarters while in the states.

The circles continued to entertain until the entire week was spent in prayer.

Suit To Regain Russ Gems Filed

Royalists Seek to Prevent Sale of Jewels In America

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Report has it that a group of Russians here has been organized to attempt to obtain by legal procedure jewels of the former imperial household in Russia which Norman C. Weiss, a jeweler, is bringing from Moscow to sell. Anti-soviet Russians desire to obtain control of these jewels which are valued at a fabulous sum, to satisfy claims against red Russia.

The jewels run the gamut from the famous nuptial crown to Katherine the Great, which contains 1,520 diamonds and is valued at $52,000,000, to a gewgaw in the shape of a baby's rattle of solid gold and ivory upon which the late Czar Nicholas cut his teeth.

Rudolph Oblatt, a New York jeweler and partner of Mr. Weiss, said that there were four jewelers associated in the purchase of jewels, but he declined to identify the other two members of the syndicate.

He added that he had not yet been informed by his partner in Russia of the consummation of the purchase, but said it probably was effected late last week in Moscow.

Diamond Crown.

The nuptial crown was worn by that gay and most beautiful empress of Russia when in 1745 she wedded Peter III. The crown of diamonds is surmounted by a cross of jewels.

Included in the purchase is the historic diamond studded three-edged sword of the "mad monarch," Paul I., which he carried in the military reviews of his day and the pointing of which at a regiment which had gained his displeasure through poor maneuvers meant that the entire regiment was to be sent to bleak Siberia in exile. Paul was assassinated in 1801.

Also in the consignment is a hat of pure gold set with diamonds, emeralds and rubies intended for the head of Mad Paul's pet monkey.

Two thousand diamonds are imbedded in a gold snuff box used by Empress Elizabeth, daughter of Peter the Great. It also holds a blood colored jasper and is valued at $15,000. There also are several golden Easter eggs embellished with diamonds, the gift of the late Empress Alexander to her imperial husband. The magnificent bodice worn by Katherine the Great at the coronation of Peter III. and herself on January, 1762, also is in the lot.

She Usurps Throne.

With the assistance of her paramour, Gregory Orloff, and others of her followers, Katherine brought about the depostition of Peter in July, 1762, and usurped the throne. Peter was put to death in prison.

Advices from Moscow to the Associated Press say all the gems brought by Mr. Weiss will be placed on sale in the American market. If there should be no American woman affluent enough to purchase Katherine's crown Mr. Weiss purposes to break up the diadem and sell the stones separately.

Mr. Weiss has not yet depleted the soviet government's treasure house, for there still remain in the vaults in excess of $200,000,000 worth of imperial jewels which it proposes to turn into cash for the purpose of plows, machinery and locomotives and for other practical needs.

MEN GETTING WORSE

BEDFORD, N. Y., Nov. 15.—One deduction from prison records is that women are getting better and men are getting worse. Amos T. Bedford, superintendent of the state reformatory for women, bases his conclusion on the fact that five years ago there were 5,500 males in state prisons and 800 women; now there are 7,500 men and 700 women.

JEWS ARE NUMEROUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—One out of every three persons living in New York is a Jew. The present Jewish population is 1,750,000, an increase of 250,000 in 10 years. The number of Jewish children is 38 per cent of the child population. The figures come from the Jewish Educational association.

GAS

an outstanding convenience of the age

OF THE many modern home conveniences enjoyed by the housewife, and the whole family, gas is one of the most outstanding. It is one of the four basic conveniences—running water, electricity, gas and telephone. And gas is one of the biggest work savers and time savers of the four. Wood and coal—while depended upon for heat for many years—were never considered conveniences. But gas, because of its ease of handling, instant availability at all hours, is one of the last conveniences that the modern housewife would be willing to dispense with. Lone Star Gas Company takes real pleasure in the part it plays in making gas available to you.

Vast Numbers Are Slowly Poisoned!

The human race is being slowly poisoned! Authorities declare that nine out of every ten persons are victims of intestinal stasis (CONSTIPATION). This is producing self poisoning! And the startling disclosure is that few people realize it!

They know they suffer from headaches—they feel grouchy and dull—with no appetite and a bad taste. They are sluggish and susceptible to colds and other diseases—but they don't realize that it's all caused from the impacted wastes in their intestines which foul poisons are seeping through their systems.

KLOK-LAX is the treatment to CORRECT CONSTIPATION. KLOK-LAX cleans out the entire intestinal drainage canal. It completely clears every inch of the twenty-eight feet in the stomach, upper and lower intestines.

KLOK-LAX is the new, improved method for overcoming constipation. The little tablets contain ingredients recognized the world over as being better than anything to give you a thorough cleaning out. And there's no nausea — no griping—not the slightest with your pleasure or work.

Negro Tot Seeks Her Aunt Lizzie

8-Year-Old Girl Arrives From Stamford But None Meet Her Here

Cordie Thompson, a little 8-year-old negro girl, arrived in Wichita Falls Sunday from Stamford. She had expected her Aunt Lizzie Smith to meet her. The latter has recently come to this city from Dallas and is working in the city. From some cause she did not meet the 8-year-old child who was left all alone.

Welfare workers came to the rescue, and the child was taken to the Colored Day nursery where she is cared for in the day time and Z. Trimble superintendent of the nursery, has made arrangements for Cordie at night. If anyone knows Aunt Lizzie, he is requested to call the Colored Day nursery, 2-1896, to get in touch with the superintendent concerning Cordie.

Wichita Falls Fakir Among Many Who Collect Damages for 'Trick' Injuries Records of Railroad Detectives Bare

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 15. (AP)—A man with a cord tied tightly about his wrist and a screw driver in his hip pocket boarded a train and took a seat near a window. When no one was looking, he removed the cord, revealing an ugly red mark, took out the screw driver, loosened a screw from the windowstop and let the window down on his wrist.

He then let out a yell of pain, called attention of passengers to the wrist held tightly by the window, and to the fact that the window-stop had fallen to the floor. The conductor was then called to examine the situation.

At the next station, the passenger visited a physician who advised him to have a X-ray photograph taken of the wrist. He then called on the nearest claim agent of the railroad, explained that he was a busy business man, hadn't much time to spare, and that if the road would give him $25 he would call it square. Railroads frequently are willing to avoid a possible damage suit for $25, and this road paid.

Succeeds 39 Times.

This man tried the same stunt 39 times but on the fortieth attempt the General Intelligence Publishing company isn't what it sounds like. It doesn't publish anything, in the ordinary sense. It works quietly, smoothly, and generally with effect. It weaves webs for the unwary. It has eyes everywhere, and its intelligence is valuable and far reaching.

This company is a corporation organized by several southwestern public service corporations to catch what are known as "repeaters" who present fake claims to railroads, street car companies and others.

The man with the cord around his wrist and the screw driver in his pocket is a type of individual whose illicit profits are rapidly diminishing since the General Intelligence Publishing company began working on them.

Wages of Chicanery.

Men who can dislocate their shoulders, hips, and ankles at will, others who simulate paralysis or freshen old wounds, and women who can fall into fits, have gained opulent, if precarious, incomes at such chicanery.

But now comes the clearing house for roguish information. This intelligence bureau has developed one of the strangest of card catalog systems. There are paralysis files, fainting files, red hair, bobbed hair and long hair files; there are scar files, speech impediment files, jewelry files; there are finger biting files, nervous files, mannerism files, and what not.

Whenever a member of this silent corporation receives a personal inquiry claim, a full description of the claim, the claimant, the injury, and all material facts is sent to the intelligence bureau. If the claimant is a bobbed-haired woman, that is a distinctive item to be recorded in the all-embracing catalog. Even more is the fact that she has long hair to be recorded, because long hair now is a more distinctive feature than short hair.

Data Filed Away.

Some claimants show signs of nervousness when they are interviewed by a claim agent. Some bite their finger nails. Others may wear distinctive jewelry. One may have a scar on the face. All of these things are filed away as matters of identification, because names and histories are changed by repeaters as often as they repeat, but a scar on the face or a mannerism goes with them always.

The reporter who specializes in a certain type of injury, such as dislocating an ankle, will always turn up with the same injury, though he may change the method of acquiring it. One time he will trip on a depot platform plank; on another occasion the ankle may be dislocated by a fall over a suit case in the coach aisle. But if he repeats, his card will turn up in the "ankle dislocation" file.

Just Once Too Often.

A man appears at the claim agents office with face and hands apparently burned. He evidently is in pain. A doctor's certificate says he is seriously injured. He tells a story to the effect that while passing a railroad coach in the yards he receives the contents of a cuspidor full in the face and on the arms. A porter, cleaning the car, has emptied the cuspidor out of the window without looking, according to the story. Railroad cuspidors generally contain a chemical for sanitary purposes. The man has a friend who verifies the story.

The identification bureau, however, examines its file marked "burns" and discovers claims for similar injuries on various railroads, none of course, under the same name. Investigation discloses that the claim is a fake. This is the man's scheme, worked many times but once too often. He develops a weak solution of carbolic acid which he spreads over his face and hands. By experience, he is able to make the concoction just strong enough to irritate the skin so it appears to be burned, but the burns are not deep. All he needs then is to arrange the details of his story and coach his accomplice. He collected thousands of dollars by the scheme until caught and convicted.

Hurt in Wichita Falls.

A man claimed that he had fallen from an upper berth and suffered a double hernia. The hernia file showed numerous similar claims from a man answering the same description. The investigation disclosed that he had received hernia while working on a building in Wichita Falls, and that for the same injury he had collected $400 in Chicago and $300 in St. Louis.

A woman presented a claim for a leg injury, stating she had tripped on a wire on the station platform. The card catalog showed, under the heading "wire injury," that the same woman had urged the same claim against several companies. Her plan was to wrap a baling wire around her leg in such a manner that she could trip on it at will.

One of the most elaborate and effective schemes, was that of a woman who wrapped a heavy cord around her waist with a large knot resting on the spine. She then wore a tight corset for several days. The knot would make a bruise or red spot on the spine. She would then trip in a coach aisle, retire to the toilet, remove the cord, and was ready for her claim for a serious injury of the spine.

Slipping on pop bottles or banana peelings, falling over obstructions such as suit cases, or tripping on loose planks, coupled with an ability to dislocate an accommodating joint, are among the favorite vocations of repeaters. One woman was in 46 supposed accidents in two months.

Theatres Have Troubles.

Theatres also have their repeater troubles. The bureau caught a man who made a living at claiming that a protruding screw or nail in a theatre seat had torn his trousers. Investigators of the bureau found five pairs of trousers in his room all prepared with slits in the side at the knee. He had collected 35 claims in 31 days.

One claimant had a concoction he could inject in his arm or leg to swell the joints and on this collected thousands of dollars in accident insurance.

FOR Acid Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

ATTRACTED BY BOOKLET

Read of Other Women Who Found Health

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 35 Central Ave., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

5 specialists told her:

"use Ivory Soap for your complexion—it is pure"

She is the wife of a naval officer. During his sixteen years of service she has lived in many parts of America. The sudden changes of climate affected her skin, and on different occasions during this period she has required the advice of five different skin specialists.

In each case, when the necessary treatment was finished, she asked: "What soap shall I use?"

Each of the five specialists answered: "Use Ivory—it is pure."

Indeed, one specialist went so far as to say: "Occasionally I have patients who think my prescription of Ivory Soap is too simple. They think they ought to be advised to use some more expensive soap—a 'beauty soap.' Much as I would like to accommodate them, I must still insist upon Ivory, because I have analyzed dozens of soaps in my own laboratory and invariably they have failed to reach the Ivory standard of purity."

When you add to purity Ivory's other qualities and properties, can you think of another soap, at any price, which is so nearly a perfect soap? For Ivory lathers quickly and richly, cleanses without irritating, has no objectionable perfume, leaves no colored stains on soapdish or washstand because it is white—and it floats!

If you paid a dollar a cake, you could have no finer soap than Ivory.

Guest IVORY—the dainty new form of IVORY— —for the face and hands. As fine as soap can be.

Did it surprise you at first to learn that Mme. Ida Chernoff, the noted expert on beauty, advocates the use of a toilet soap as inexpensive as Ivory? Some women are, until Mme. Chernoff has pointed out that the only function of pure soap is to cleanse safely and that cleanliness is the basis of true complexion beauty. Then, women invariably realize how completely Ivory's purity and gentleness fill every requirement of such a soap. Purity and safety in soap—not price—are Mme. Chernoff's reasons for assuring you that Ivory is the ideal soap for face and hands. You will find it delightful for cleansing your hair, too.

FRENCH GIRL MOBBED FOR DIAMONDS IN HER HEELS

PARIS.—Within a few minutes after Mlle. Hortense Raimbeaux, daughter of a Bordeaux millionaire, had left her hotel here for a stroll she was pursued by a throng of men and women, attracted by glittering flashes from the heels of her dainty shoes. Their surmise was correct. The young woman had a number of diamonds in her heels. Finally the crowd became a mob that thrust Mlle. Ramibeau into the street. Luckily a number of gensdarmes were close by and they saved her from injury by escorting her back to her hotel.

GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE

IN Cluny museum, Paris, in a corner near a window, you take a good look at the devil, a piece of vestry furniture from a church in Milan, and many centuries old.

The Cluny devil will shake your nerves; for he has horns, forked tail, red slim body, ouff, ouff.

His jointed figure, a mechanical marvel, trembles when the spring is touched; his wicked eyes roll wildly; he puts out his fiery tongue; chains rattle in secret places; and by all that is unholy, he utters hoarse barking sounds.

For many years, this devil now in harmless captivity in the famous Cluny museum, depository of medieval relics, frightened folks of vivid imagination in France, Spain, Italy and many devout persons swooned at sight of the bestial face, horns and spike tail.

But you do not need to travel thousands of miles to an European museum, to see the devil. He is already living right here at home in your own brain, and in the brains of thousands of otherwise normal Americans.

It is hard to kill the beliefs of centuries, instilled by your great, great, great grandmother, and by her great, great, great grandmother, before her; in due course, down the ages, to lodge in your own mind as part of your inheritance from your benighted ancestors.

We know better today, and the wise American mother will no longer permit her children to be told ghost stories, by some foolish old nurse or silly aunt who to amuse the little ones rolls her eyes and moans out weird fears in the voice of an old witch. That sort of thing, going on for centuries, must now stop.

No wonder then that after all these generations, the devil still lives in your own overheated brain, no matter how normal a person you may be.

For we are all victims to our inherited ideas which back unnumbered centuries. The devil is one of them, only one.

THINGS WOMEN ARE DOING

A "HERMIT MAIDEN," Miss Heloise Cottin, is the "cattle queen" of the mountains of the Canton of Valais, in Switzerland. She rides the range in regular American cowboy fashion, but wears Paris-made togs instead of cowgirl costume.

Mrs. Sophie Elliott Lynn, Britain's pioneer woman aviator, won an air race over a field of seven men fliers, including Sir John Rhodes. Encouraged by her success Mrs. Lynn may enter next season for the king's cup race around England, which is the big aeroplane event of the year.

Mrs. Dick Burge directs The Ring, the best-known fistic institution in London, and she promotes its boxing entertainment.

Mrs. O. R. Consoer, a farmer's wife, went down to Newkirk, Okla., the other day for the dedication of the new court house, and returned to her home near here rather surprised to find herself the new hog-calling champion of Kay county. She defeated nine men.

CARE OF PETS

DO YOU pay proper attention to the care of your pet?

A very important problem but often a neglected one, is that of our household animals. If you notice, you will find that the cat and dog are just as particular as we are about their appearance—they like to be clean.

There should be a certain few minutes set aside every day to brush and care for the family pet. In this way you can keep the loose hair from scattering about the house and keep the dust and dirt from the fur. This daily brushing is especially important as a health precaution—where there are children in the family, who play with them.

If we watch our pets and take just a little pains to keep them clean, they won't be so liable to carry disease into the home. A regular bath is necessary. Don't let them play in the Alley. Keep them away from the garbage pail—see that their food is as clean as the food you would eat yourself—then they'll be clean and safe for the children to play with, and a joy and a pleasure to have around.

Many mothers know that the care of a pet develops a sense of responsibility very desirable in a growing boy or girl.

USEFUL IGNORANCE

WHEN you come to fundamentals, such as the nature of electricity, the radio and a hundred others, man knows little, imagines much. And it is precisely that way with many other summaries that man makes for himself, in his little life.

Only in a school boy's book of history are "all" events laid out in neat checkerboard pattern, beginning with No. 1, and running on and on. You have seen such books, no doubt, and have marveled at their oracular ponderosity.

A man may have a decent respect for his own experience, yet not claim to "know it all." A flawless outline of knowledge is a fool's paradise, never was on land or sea. And never will be. Many minds, many stages of knowledge.

Do you doubt this?

Even the pope does not actually "know" the complete history of the Roman Catholic church. The subject is too vast, too complex, covering upwards of 2,000 years.

Nor can the archbishop of Canterbury tell you whence and precisely "how" came his present powers and possessions.

The wisest judge does not know exactly what he means, much less does he know, and whence came the legal idea that he calls "equity."

The most learned doctor begs to be excused when you ask him "what" he understands, from A to Z, concerning the puzzling word, "cancer."

As to the meaning of words we glibly pronounce "immortal life," "time and space," "democracy," progress," "civilization," who knows much less can explain?

Surveyors know that a "line" run at noon, under a bright sun, and the identical trial repeated at night under the moon, check up in a different way.

All of which means: An idea may be useful without being final. We take almost everything on faith.

49 ANGLES TO DIVORCE

WHEN, oh when, is something going to be done about the amazing divorce laws of these United States?

A survey of our marriage and divorce laws and a study of actual cases resulting from the failure of many states to recognize the laws of neighboring states, made by Mrs. Mrs. Genevieve Parkhurst, writer, shows, among othr injustices, that children, legitimate, and deprived of their rightful protection and heritage if the family decides to move to another state.

For under the 45 varied and conflicting divorce laws at present effective in the United States and the District of Columbia it is common, for instance, to find a husband or wife legally married in one state and living together unlawfully in another state.

As is well-known, one state, South Carolina, does not recognize divorce. From no ground, in South Carolina, to 14 grounds, in New Hampshire, the scale runs through two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight and 11 grounds for divorce.

New York recognizes only infidelity and disappearance of either party for five years, as causes for divorce. But scores of the wealthy go to Paris or other states and obtain decrees on trivial grounds.

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang.

Human Nature on the Half Shell
—By Joseph Van Raalte—

SUCCESS IN CRIME

It would just about tickle New York's police commissioner to death if he could get denizens of the underworld to understand that crime does not pay. Every little while he crashes into print with an interview stressing the stupidity of young men who desert probity for lawlessness to satisfy an ambition to procure money without working for it.

In a recent interview he said: "I can't see why it doesn't sink into the brains of young men who want 'easy money,' that there's nothing in crime. You hear a lot of talk about the 'big money' crooks get away with. That's all bunk. The criminals I have encountered since I have been police commissioner have nothing to show for the burglaries and holdups. It's only one criminal in a million who gets away with it."

The commissioner overlooks the fact that in crime as in other forms of human endeavor, there are failures and successes. The country is full of successful crooks who are rolling in wealth. They will never be caught because they mix their activities with brains.

The average type of criminal with whom the police deals, is the moron—the broad, bull-necked husky who never should have been brought into the world in the first place and who, finding himself here, unequipped mentally and morally for the struggle that faces him, takes the "easiest way" out.

There are more grafting politicians, corrupt judges and dishonest advertisers, crooked cops and short weight prune sellers in the land than there are safe blowers, stick-up men and pickpockets.

One dishonest lawyer is a worse menace to a community than a dozen yeggs and petty larceny thieves. The lawyer doesn't get caught. He has brains enough to dodge the penalty of his wrong doing. The dull witted yegg invariably lands in a cell. And when he is safely tucked away for a term of from one to 20 years, some moralist points to him and says: "You see, crime never pays."

We knew a judge one time who presided over a criminal court. He was a crook if ever there was one. He had earned the judical monkey fur by years of compromise. We have heard him sentence men to long terms in prison and we have listened while he hammered golden grains of morality into sheets of infinite platitude.

Being a judge he was invariably addressed as "Your Honer." Many and many a time we've heard him say: "Crime doesn't pay."

Certainly crime pays. It pays if it is indulged in with intelligence. If crime ceased tomorrow to pay, three-quarters of the reputations in New York would blow up with a concussion that would be felt all the way from Dan to Beersheba.

Intelligence is the only thing that ultimately reaps dividends.

"I have encountered many wicked men in my time," said Stevenson, "and I have met many fools; but I have observed that the fools were the first to encounter penalties."

LUCKY DAYS!

He had been very kind to me,
and our friendship was ripening into something deeper.
In the warm days of Indian summer he asked me to go with him for a stroll in the country. I saw no reason to refuse.
We were crossing a field when an enormous and ferocious dog charged us! I scrambled hastily over the fence and fell plump into a muddy ditch. When I got the mud out of my eyes, I saw my friend frantically trying to reach something just inside the fence. One glance at it and another at his head was enough.
The object he was trying to grasp was his wig!

NOW WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT IT?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. What country is nearest to Japan?
2. What race lives in Japan that differs in language, physique and customs from the Japanese?
3. What island of great economic importance formerly belonging to China is now owned by Japan?
4. What island has Japan long disputed with Russia?
5. What ports in China has Japan wrested from European nations?
6. What famous event occurred in the Straits of Tsu Shima?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

IS JAPAN CROWDED?

We are always hearing tales of the overcrowding of Japan, and how the Japanese must have room to expand their dense population. This is both true and false; it is certainly true that the islands of Hondo, Kiushiu and Shikoku are much overcrowded in parts. The Japanese however are very much like the Americans in their desire to live in places not too hot and not too cold, and in preferring city life to country life, so that while the cities in the pleasant climate zone of Japan are far too crowded, there are vast extents of Japan scarcely inhabited. The Loo-Choo islands are being abandoned on account of their heat and malaria, and Japanese go to Formosa as we go to Brazil, only because of business reasons. The immense island of Hokkaido north of Japan, cold and stony, would hold many people if they wanted to homestead it and stick out the difficulties of pioneering in it. But though Japan has settled farmers there many times, they always prefer to come back and live in crowded cities.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. A spectroscope is an instrument for diffusing the light transmitted through any substance into its separate colors, as in the color bands of the spectrum; every substance has its own characteristic varying width of the different color bands.
2. A microscope is an arrangement of lenses which magnifies objects.
3. A periscope is an arrangement of mirrors enabling one to see around objects.
4. Photomicrography is the taking of photographs through a microscope.
5. An astrolabe was an old-fashioned type of nautical instrument by which the positions of the heavenly bodies were determined.
6. An astrologer was a man who studied the stars and gave oracular pronouncements about their mystical influences.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

FATHER'S CORNER

Father's corner, Father's chair,
There they are right over there.
That's the chair he likes the best,
That's the place he likes to rest.
When the day's hard work is done
There is one place, only one,
Fathers want when fathers tire,
Just a corner by the fire.

And how good it always seems
When the lamplight throws its beams
On his paper, on his book,
There within the inglenook.
Sometimes Father turns to say,
"Saw a funny thing today"—
Many lessons I have learned
While the cannal cracked and burned.

Some folks like to wander nights,
Join the dancing, see the sights,
But th eboys and girls have found
It's a joy to join around
Father's chair and watch the flame,
Read a book, or play a game.
Love has made our house divine,
Father's corner for its shrine.

Father's gray, and Father's years
Fill my mind with sudden fears,
Fears that time may leave them bare,
Father's corner, Father's chair.
But the memory would remain,
Heal the sorrow, still the pain,
One thing never can depart,
Father's corner in my heart.

Kellygrams

BY FRED C. KELLY

WHEN YOU ATTEND THE THEATER.

Did you ever stop to inquire of yourself just why you go to a theater when you do?

Of course you go because you wish to see a certain play. But just why did you kick on the night you did rather than on some other night?

What if everybody wished to attend the theater only on Saturday nights? If too many got the impulse at the same time, no matter which day of the week both public and theater managers would be in distress.

The luckiest thing about going to a theater, or going anywhere, for that matter, is that we do not all care to go at the same time. What saves us from too many crowds is the law of averages. It is possible to go to our favorite restaurant or to a theater on a night when we wish to go, but when not too many others have the same impulse.

A certain theater manager recently set out from his home one night to witness a new show nearly three miles away, but encountered such a terrible rainstorm that he was obliged to give up going. He assumed that nearly everybody else would also be kept away by the rain. But the next morning he learned to his astonishment that the house had been sold out.

You see, everybody is not equally influenced by a rainstorm. Theater managers say that rain is more likely to keep people at home in a small town than in a large city. Also, a person raised in a small town pays more heed to rain even when he is in the city, than a born and bred city person. The difference is simply a state of mind. A small town has muddier streets than a big city and fewer taxicabs. People there spend more time out of doors than do city people. Hence they fall into the habit of paying heed to weather.

Theater-going is effected, too, more than we realize, by news in the papers. Anything depressing makes us seek diversion. During the World war, theaters had great prosperity. Even a poor play often drew a capacity audience. The same was true during the Civil war.

Those of you who are in a theater on a certain night represent a cross-section of a much larger crowd who might have gone or even had a notion to go, but did not.

You can amuse yourself, then, while waiting for the curtain to rise on the first act, by asking yourself why you picked the night you did.

And you may be surprised at the great number of little things which combined to influence you.

West Texas Farmer Shot at Cotton Pickers' Festival; Wichita Man Jailed

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Nov. 15.—George Howard, farmer of two and a half miles west of Carey has a bullet wound through his thigh, and Earl Charleston, a young man of 24 or 25 years, is in the county jail facing a charge of assault with intent to murder, and also charges of pistol toting and drunkenness.

The shooting came as the climax to a negro festival which Charleston attended on the Howard farm on Saturday night. The shooting occurred about 1:30 o'clock.

Officer Wesley Mangum was immediately summoned to the scene and brought Charleston in to the county jail where he is now, his bond having been fixed at $1,000 on the assault and the pistol case while he plead guilty to the charge of drunkenness.

Charleston, who hails from Wichita Falls where he worked in the oil fields, has a wife and two children in the community, the family having been engaged in picking cotton on the J. W. Foust farm, north of Carey. Carey is about 10 miles west of Childress.

Howard was given medical treatment and will get along all right if no infection sets in, doctors said.

Here's a Woman Who Has A Treasure For a Man

The Foolish Wife Whose Husband's Only Fault is Love of Reading—Could a Man Ever Fall In Love With a Lame Girl?—Miss Fifteen and Sixteen, Who Want to Get Married to Escape School.

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married for 22 years to a husband who is in most ways pleasant and obliging, but who has one fault that irritates me very much. He persists in sitting in the corner with either a book or magazine or a paper, and when he becomes absorbed in what he is reading it is impossible to move him to conversation, or even to get him to answer questions of the most commonplace sort. Please tell me what I shall do in order to cure him of this boresome habit.

MRS. J. A.

Answer: Why, Mrs. J. A., if I had a husband whose only fault was the love of reading, I should be down on my knees thanking God for having given me such a treasure instead of complaining of my lot. Why, woman, you don't know when you are well off!

Suppose, instead of sitting in the corner of an evening, that he was off running the streets? Suppose, instead of being absorbed in a book, that he had ears and eyes only for some flapper about half your age and who had half your weight? Then you would have cause to worry.

Believe me, sister, as long as a man stays put by his own fireside of an evening, and takes his romance vicariously in novels, his wife is a lucky woman.

If you are so keen on talking and can't get any other audience, and if there are any particular questions you wish to ask him, why don't you make a bargain with him?

Tell him that if he will give you a half hour's talkfest just after dinner every night you won't interrupt his reading. That will appeal to his sense of justice. Also he will see a means of buying peace, and I will bet you my new hat that he will agree to the arrangement.

But if he doesn't, why not find someone else to talk to? You have neighbors and friends, and there is always the ever-useful telephone over which you can converse.

Perhaps you will say that these do not take the place of a husband and you feel that it is his duty to entertain you. So it is, to a certain extent, but you must consider his rights in the matter, too, and that he is as much entitled to spend his evening reading as you are to spend yours talking.

It always strikes me as curious that women never seem to think that a man has any rights and privileges in the home that he spends his life toiling to support. It is only the exceptional man who ever has a room of his own that he can furnish as he likes, and in which he can do as he pleases. It is only the exceptional man who even has a closet or chiffonier of his own. Generally speaking, anything is good enough for hubby and any old hook will hold his clothes.

Nor does the wife realize that the evenings are her husband's only time of relaxation, and that during the few hours when he is free of the grind of his daily labor he must get rest and refreshment of body and soul if he is to go on with his job.

If she did, she wouldn't save up all the odd jobs for him to do at night. She wouldn't begrudge him an evening off now and then, and she wouldn't take the book away from him that he wanted to read.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl 21 years old. My mother died when I was 13 and I have not been happy since, because I am crippled.

My sisters call me an old maid and say no man will marry me because I am lame, although I am prettier than they are. When any man tries to talk to me they say that he is just making a fool of me. Do you think a man could ever fall in love with a crippled girl? L. S.

Answer: Why not? If a man is big and fine and noble, he will be looking at your mind and heart, which are straight and beautiful, and not at your poor, deformed foot. As a matter of fact, I know two or three lame women who are married to splendid husbands.

I think your sisters must be as cruel as the wicked sisters in the fairy tale and that you are far luckier than they because they are lame in their souls, while you are only lame in body.

But facts are facts, L. S., and it seems to me that the brave thing to do, and the wise thing to do, is to look them squarely in the face, instead of shutting your eyes to them.

It is foolish to deny that men require far more physical perfection from women than women do from men, and that they are far more repulsed by any bodily defect in a woman than a woman is in a man.

Because a man is bald-headed or fat does not keep a girl from liking his attentions or falling in love with him, but any girl who was fat and bald-headed would never get an invitation from a man to go anywhere. Still less would she ever get a proposal of marriage.

All of us know women who have married men who are hunchbacked or blind or deaf and dumb, or who have been terribly maimed, "because the women could see the splendid heart and soul and brain that was housed in the poor, battered body. But you seldom hear of a man marrying a woman who is greatly afflicted.

So, while you are not predestined to be an old maid because of your lameness, it is undoubtedly true that you will have fewer chances to marry than if you had two good dancing feet. Therefore, I would advise you to think as little as possible about love and matrimony, and to fit yourself to make a good, independent living for yourself. If you do that, you will have something to interest you, money to be comfortable and independent on, and you can live a happy life whether you marry or not.

Then if Mr. Right comes along, well and good, and if he doesn't you will not have lost out.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We are two very troubled school girls, aged 15 and 16. We are very much in love with two boys who are 17 and 19, and we are thinking of getting married because we are all so tired of going to school. What do you advise us to do?

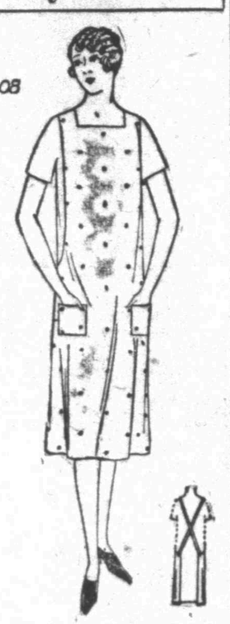

JESSIE AND MARGIE.

Answer: I advise you not to try the experiment of jumping out of the frying pan into the fire, because if you do, you will surely get badly burned.

You are tired of going to school. Believe me, my children, you will get a lot more tired of matrimony if you undertake it at your tender age. School lasts only a few years, but marriage is forever, unless you go through the horror of divorce. Your school hours are short hours, but marriage is a 24-hour job, with no holidays and off days for a wife and mother.

You think that marriage is a picnic. Look at your own mothers. Isn't mother up before anybody else in the morning and isn't she the last to go to bed at night?

S. federal reserve headquarters at Dallas Saturday. This is an increase for the new year of approximately $3,350,000 over last year.

For the week ending with November 10, debits to individual accounts of banks in 16 chief centers of the eleventh reserve district showed a gain of more than $30,000,000 over the same week a year ago. However, a part of this gain was accounted for by a holiday during the preceding week, which showed a loss from 1925 figures.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

A new wrinkle for your noble football athletes. Coach Bud McCallum installs a night study hall over which he presides lest more gridders fall by the scholastic wayside. Captain Dobson for one has toppled into the ineligibility gutter.

STORM BREWING.

Jack Reynolds, the welterweight mat title claimant, stored up a bit of trouble when he called off his match slated tonight with Yaqui Joe with understanding he considers tackling the Indian a week or so hence. No sooner did the Indian learn that Jack had unwisely albeit unintentionally given him more time in which to condition himself than did he hop a rattler and run over to San Angelo for coaching under the wise old Matty Matsuda.

Joe with his German shepherd dogs, "Dutch Mantell" and "Yaqui," pulled out for San Angelo Saturday. The Indian had a tough time keeping "Dutch" and "Yaqui" from jumping at each other's throats. They seem about as friendly as their human namesakes.

Joe began intensive training under Matty Sunday. The Jap will leave nothing undone in bringing Joe around to the pink of condition, for no kind feeling exists between Reynolds and Matsuda. The Indiana wrestler has baited Matty many months, claimed the Jap was an outlaw wrestler and no champion. Matsuda, having clashed with Reynolds seven or eight times, knows his strong and weak points, all of which, of course, he will instruct the Indian in.

CAN FOR CLABAUGH.

"Big Moose" Clabaugh has been canned by the Dodgers. 'Twas merely a matter of difference in pitching. Moose hung up a world's record with 60 homers last summer in the East Texas loop. But pitcher's box was too close to the home plate in the big show for him to get his bat around quick enough to do much good.

Clabaugh still can stage a comeback. A ball player who can clout 60 circuiters in one short season, no matter what league fences the pokes sail over, has it in him to slam 'em in any league. It is a case of nerve and seasoning. If Moose lacks the fighter's heart he'll never make the grade above class D or C baseball.

Notre Dame's victory over Army Saturday places the Micks aloft in the national championship reckoning. Rockne kicked Beloit down in the opener, then stepped on Minnesota, Penn State, Northwestern, Georgia Tech, Indiana and the Cadets.

FOOLED ALL BUT JINX.

The Notre Dame victory against the Soldiers came more or less as a surprise to practically all the "experts" but Jinx Tucker. Tucker had 'em tabbed, picking the Micks for a touchdown victory. Yet Tucker missed his guess on both games played at home, games he should know far more about than the far-away Army-Mick encounter. The Wacoan called the T. C. U.-Arkansas and Baylor-S. M. U. games wrong, picking the losers as the winners.

Zuppke resumes his duel with Wilce this week-end. Ohio State, nosed out in a complete upset by Michigan, 17 to 16, last week, rates and edge over the Illini. But on seasonal play, Zuppke has the advantage of seven victories against four defeats. There was one tie.

INDIANS FEAR NOT TARLETON

Wichita Falls Team Expects To Stop Powerful Plowboys

Tarleton's Plowboys are not throwing any paralyzing fears into the ranks of the Maroon and Gold jerseyed lads of Coach Herb Ludgate, all devastating dope to the contrary notwithstanding Monday's workout found the Tribe in as good spirit and with as high hopes as at any time during the season.

Every man on the squad realizes that the coming contests with John Tarleton Agricultural college and Decatur Baptist college are usually the hardest of the season. Hence, with the position of under dog in both engagements by force of necessity, the Redskins are working hard to bring themselves into the best condition possible. The Maroons realize that to hold Tarleton to a low score would be honor enough for this light and inexperienced aggregation, but they realize too that to put over a victory would put them into the Junior college hall of fame for some time to come. While Captain Stephenson and his mates are leaving the figuring to sideline players, they are working away quietly but hard to get the most of the three days of practice yet left before their departure.

Pat May Be Out

A scare was thrown into the ranks when final tabulations of grade averages disclosed Patterson, center, signal caller, and main cog of the fighting Indian line defensive, as failing in too many to play. Under Junior college conference regulations he has till game time to make up his work. The task will mean much toil on the part of this player, but with the incentive ahead he is expected to make the go. Incidentally this is the first time this year that a regular on the college team has been below the mark.

Leave Thursday

The Tribe would have hard sledding without Patterson. It would mean the shifting of Boyd to center and would leave only Trevathan, a relative new-comer at the game, as substitute in any line position besides end. McAninch could be run into the line, where he is used on the defensive anyway, and Kebler or McConnell could go to the backfield. Building up reserve power is one of the main objectives of the few days of practice left.

Ludgate announced Monday that the team would leave for Stephenville Thursday noon in order to get a good rest for the hard and gruelling contest Friday. The return trip will probably be made the night after the game or Saturday morning.

Looks Like Title Tie for Big Ten

If Gophers Beat Michigan Northwestern Cops Crown

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Upon the shoulders of the Minnesota Gophers, in the view of most followers of western conference football, rests the only considerable chance of averting a tie for title honors.

Minnesota, which lost to Michigan early in the season meets again next Saturday the Wolverines who bested by a single point last week the barrier to their championship hopes interposed by Ohio State.

Northwestern which stands with Michigan at the top of the big ten heap, meets Iowa and a defeat for the Wildcats would be regarded as a distinct upset.

The Minnesota-Michigan combat assures already as big a crowd as the Minnesota stadium will hold. Since the Gophers lost by 20 points to Michigan, Spears' men have hit their stride and have rolled rough shod over Wabash, Wisconsin, Iowa and Butler, conquering thhe Butlerites Saturday by and 81 to 0 score. Spears strove tonight to hold the spirit and the cohesion which have made his team a juggernaut after a slow start and polished all departments of the team's play with Almquist and Nyndahl as the focal points of his attack. The Gophers held Michigan scoreless in the second half of the Ann Arbor game and they believe they can keep the foe from scoring in the second contest.

Michigan began another week of the same hard practice necessary for the Ohio State conflict. Yost told his men that Minnesota will be a stiffer opponent than Ohio State.

Iowa's entertainment of Northwestern was viewed by the latter as a game which must be won for the Wildcats are at the threshold of their first conference championship. Iowa has yet to win a conference game.

For the first time this season, every big team will be in action Saturday against a conference foe. Wisconsin meets Chicago, Indiana battles Purdue and Ohio States engages Illinois. All of these have the ear marks of royal battles.

In spite of their defeat by the Quakers, Coach Rezdek, Penn State, had nothing but praise for his boys for holding the Penn team.

Cyclone Crippled On Eve of Game

But Memphis Is Confident She Will Turn Back Bobcats

MEMPHIS, Nov. 15.—It will indeed be only a skeleton of the real Cyclone squad of Memphis which will meet the Childress Bobcats, at that place Friday. Hammond, sensational halfback is out of the game with a broken leg, sustained in the Quanah tilt here last Thursday. C. Dennis and Massey, first string linemen, are out as results of injuries. Henderson, star quarterback was ruled ineligible and Dennis, fullback, is suffering with an injured leg. However, the second string men have been used at every opportunity and will have advantage of this experience in the game Friday.

Crawford, substitute back, will go in at full and Dennis will be shifted to quarter. Several linemen are available and rarin' to go in against the Bobcats.

The Cyclone has been undergoing strenuous work in the past few days as a hard battle is expected and the team feels confident they will meet the strongest opposition of the season when they play the Bobcats.

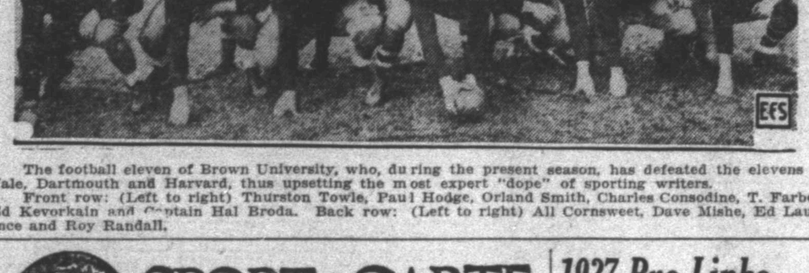

Memphis now stands the only undefeated team in the conference and should they defeat the Childress squad Friday the Cyclone will be undisputed champions of this district.

LOTS OF INVADERS

WORT WORTH, Nov. 15.(AP)—Business men are co-operating with officials of Texas Christian university in efforts to send more than 3,000 fans to Dallas on Thanksgiving day to see the Texas Christian university-Southern Methodist university play football.

Mrs. E. Nielsen, one of Denmark's best swimmers, has announced she intends to enter in the Catalina channel derby.

Brown's Eleven Men Who Beat Yale, Dartmouth and Harvard

The football eleven of Brown University, who, during the present season, has defeated the elevens of Yale, Dartmouth and Harvard, thus upsetting the most expert "dope" of sporting writers.

SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

The world is waiting to see and hear from Gene Tunney. The boxing fraternity is not satisfied that he is a heavyweight champion of the world. Their's is a technical basis, his method and style of battle.

The heavyweight situation is at a standstill until he meets a second oppenent. Also he must knock out a few of his contenders if he is to stand in the minds of the ringside as a recognized champion.

There are too many champions floating around him. There are not enough fighters of the Dempsey type.

Tunney will only lose his crown when he meets a man who can defeat him at his own style. It will take a fast, clever boxer to outpoint him and "by points" is the only way Tunney can be licked and by the same method he will continue to win.

But the fan doesn't care much for "the points" way of doing it. Their idea of a fight is to watch Dempsey slug them all about the arena or set slugged.

For a man to win on points is another way to take the game and carry it along at a safe distance, to know before the fight that you are going to win if the style lasts and the speed and cleverness keeps up to the finish.

During a discussion with a very prominent battler of his day, the old timer mentions that he doesn't believe Tunney ever tried for a knockout.

"He starts in with a lot of speed and seeing he has the battle on points he can then try for his K. O., or coast along with fight comfortably tucked under his belt."

This method brings back to the game the old style of Willard or Jack Johnson and it is doubted that if Gene could ever stay with either man in his fighting. They preferred to get warmed up and then fight it out toward the last of the bout.

Dempsey changed these methods of fighting by catching the lads off their guard. They had not time to perfect a style and boxing defense as Tunney has worked on for years to perfect.

There are today a great number of clever boxers who only have to speed up their battle to win over Tunney. The Greb "wind-mill" type of fighter can become champion now, the fast "sharp shooters" will be the model and perfection of coming fighters.

We must all go far back into the records to find men who can lick Tunney. Corbett could probably do it today. He was the finest type of boxing champion and with a punch as well as a fast and moving "sharp shooter."

The boys with the hard socks will have a hard time landing on Tunney. This style of fight is out among the heavyweights. A good light heavyweight can now become the world's heavyweight champion.

Old Jack Dillon, of the welters of years ago, who grew to a light heavyweight, could send Tunney all over the lot. Gene is no exception. Dillon could have licked Jack Dempsey in his prime. He had the speed of Greb and the sock of the defeated champion.

Gene Tunney defeated Gred with his left hand, and was as bewildered as any fighter could ever hope to be when he met Greb five times.

The game is up to the ringside whether to accept Tunney as champion or to reject him. He will always be champion as far as he is concerned, but popularity is another game. It means the gate and the receipts.

During a recent presentation in New York, Jack Dempsey was given the glad hand and a house full of cheers in contrast to the hisses that greeted Tunney when he rose to accept a championship belt presented by a group of boxing authorities.

There is something in the air with this heavyweight championship and only left to the fan and time to tell.

SEEKS FINAL PLANE RECORD

Italian Army Flyer Cracks All But One Seaplane Mark.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 15.(AP) Major Mario de Bernardi, Italian army flyer, who smashed all but one seaplane speed record in winning the Schneider trophy race here Saturday, will try for that record Tuesday.

His effort will be to carry back to Mussolini, whose spirt and pains dominated the Italian racers, the official world record for speed over a three-kilometre course.

This record is the only seaplane mark that America still holds. It was made by Lieut. James H. Doolittle of the army last year and experts say there is little doubt that it will fall before the powerful little monoplane provided for the Schneider race by Italy's strenuous premier.

Franklin Field coliseum, the new indoor stadium under construction at the University of Pennsylvania, will be formally opened January 1. It is one of the finest in the country and will have seating arrangements for 10,000.

1927 Pro Links Meet in Dallas

NEW YORK, Nov. 15(AP)—The Professional Golfers' association voted Monday to hold its 1927 championship tournament at the Cedar Crest Country club of Dallas early next November.

Delegates from 22 districts of the association gathered here for the three-day annual meeting of the organization participated in the balloting on the selection of the course which will take the title event to the south for the first time.

The championship was staged this year at the Salisbury Country club, near Garden City, N. Y., and was won by Walter Hagen.

DANDY DICK SCRAPS PAL

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—Pal Moore, the famous rubber ball scrapper of Memphis, and Dandy Dick Griffin, Fort Worth's greatest fistic product, will meet here in the 10-round main event of Meinert's Gymnasium club show Wednesday night.

LaFayette Has It Easy With Lehigh

New York May Find Tough Sledding in Go With Nebraska

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Two of the east's four unbeaten college football teams will strike their final blows on the gridiron Saturday, one with prospects of an easy triumph over a foe of long standing, the other with a drive into the west for its first major intersectional battle on foreign ground. LaFayette, victor in eight straight games, apparently has little to fear from Lehigh, although the embattled Bethlehem, Pa., warriors finally emerged from their long losing streak last Saturday by defeating Rutgers, 14 to 0. But the Nebraska Cornhuskers loom as a formidable threat to New York university's unblemished record, and the Gotham team's forward line is expected to receive its greatest test in the clash of the teams at Lincoln.

Critics today pointed to the N. Y. U. front row as one of the most powerful in the country. The team's defensive record yields only to that of Notre Dame. Of 10 points scored against the Violet eleven, seven resulted from a lone touchdown by West Virginia Wesleyan and three from a drop-kick by Fordham. Six other elevens have been shut out by N. Y. U.

A light schedule of games, topped by Yale's annual struggle against Harvard at New Haven will offer only minor opposition for other leaders in the fight for eastern supremacy. Brown and Navy, sharing unbeaten and untied records with LaFayette and N. Y. U. look for the comparatively easy games, the Middies having scheduled Loyola as a tune-up tilt for the Army struggle one week hence. The Bruins likewise accept a skirmish with New Hampshire largely as a preparatory contest for their farewell battle on Thanksgiving day against Colgate. Holy Cross, Army, Boston college and Syracuse also have tight opposition facing Boston university, Ursinus, Gettysburg and Niagara, respectively.

Chick Meehan, N. Y. U., granted his boys a week-end vacation. This was so unexpected, for Meehan has been keeping them hard at it, that only a few recovered in time to go to a movie.

COYOTES WORK AFTER SUPPER

McCallum Chases Squad Into Nightly Study Sessions

Everything from study hall to braving the tackling dummy will be on this week's training program for the Coyotes, Coach Bud McCallum stated Monday. Scholastic eligibilities and physical defects alike will receive their full measure of attention during the next six days' activities.

Three first-stringers failing in their courses has caused Coach McCallum to order the squad to assemble at the high school study hall in the Junior college building for a couple of hours every night this week. Attendance on these functions will be as strictly required as any other part of practice. The formidable contest expected Thanksgiving week makes it necessary that every man be ready to go when whistle time comes.

Pretty Smart Crew

On the whole this year's Coyote squad has suffered less from ineligibilities than usually. There are some good records among the group of players that stand up well against school averages. Francis, plunging halfback, stacks up pretty well among the boys in school and he is one about whom no one need worry concerning scholarship standing.

McCallum said his rule made at the beginning of the season that any player who fails in his courses would be taken out of the starting line-up in the next conference game would be strictly enforced next week. Captain Dobson will find himself on the sidelines at starting time for the first time in the conference season. The prospect has already served to bring some good resolutions from him and other ineligibles, and next Friday will very likely show another perfect record for the Pack if someone else doesn't slip up during the week.

No Game Yet

Monday night no game had been secured for the Pack this week. Lawton and Polytechnic, the two teams most figured on to give the Coyotes opposition this week, both have already scheduled contests, McCallum has been informed. Grandfield officials have not decided whether they would give a return engagement, since they have already defeated the Pack once this season and have also journeyed here another time to defeat the Indians. Attempts to get Plainview eliminated last Saturday by Lubbock from the conference race, have not been successful.

Paddock's Sprint Mark Approved

A. A. U. Plans Investigation Of Runner's Amateur Status

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 15(AP) The amateur status of Charley Paddock came under scrutiny today at the same time that the convention of the Amateur Athletic union considered ratifying the California sprinter's application for a world record of 9.5 seconds for 100 yards.

The use of Paddock's name and photographs of him in sprinting action in connection with the advertisement for gasoline in a Sacramento, Calif., newspaper was brought to the attention of F. W. Rubien, chairman of the A. A. U. registration committee. In the absence of any supporting evidence that Paddock permitted or was aware of this, however, Mr. Rubien referred the matter for investigation to Robert S. Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific association.

The convention turned down as "un-American" a proposal to bar athletes who are non-citizens from A. A. U. competition.

Without debate the convention ratified Charlie Paddock's new 100-yard sprint mark of 9 5-10 seconds and also approved the record of 20 5-10 seconds for 220 yards, made by Roland Locke of the University of Nebraska.

TRINITY FINALE THURSDAY

WAXAHACHIE, Nov. 15. (AP) Playing their fourth Texas conference game in many weeks the Trinity university Tigers will close their 1926 conference schedule Thursday when they meet the Southwestern Pirates here.

In three other seasons the Notre Dame team has dashed through the campaign without a defeat or even a tie. These were 1919, 1920 and 1924, and so far this season they have won all six games.

PRINCE ALBERT makes the grandest home-rolled cigarette that ever took form in your fingers. That isn't a mere claim. It's a statement of fact, backed up every few minutes by happy roll-your-owners everywhere! It's the tobacco, Men—that's the reason.

For P. A. is tobacco that is tobacco . . . the finest that ever lifted its head to the sun. First of all, it's crimp-cut and ideal for rolling. Doesn't take wings of the first little breeze. It saves time, temper, and tobacco. It burns better, too, for the same reason.

But that taste! That's the big thing after all. A cigarette made with P. A. is cool as a tree-top breeze. It is sweet as a melon, ripe and cold. It is fragrant as flowers that beckon the honey-bees. You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em morning to midnight, and enjoy every one.

If you sometimes smoke a pipe (or would like to), try Prince Albert this way too. Pipe-smokers who thought they were all set on a smoke-program have tried Prince Albert and found it a revelation. Buy some P. A. today. Try this wonderful tobacco both ways.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

HARD BOYS ON MAT TONIGHT

Edwards Said to Be Mean As Dutch, Grip Takes Kopecky

THE CARD

Charley Grip versus Joe Kopecky. Middleweights, two falls to a finish.

Jack Gorman versus Young Edwards. Welterweights, two falls to a finish.

Time: 8:15 tonight.

Place: Majestic theatre.

A couple of rough-and-tumble bouts are scheduled to go on the boards tonight at the Majestic when Dynamite Charley Grip tackles Joe Kopecky, one of the roughest middles in the country, and the scrappy little Jack Gorman goes after Young Edwards.

Both Grip and Kopecky had displayed a great deal of science and true wrestling ability in recent matches staged locally but each somehow or other seemingly could not refrain from roughing it merrily, some times throwing caution to the winds. So when the proposed Reynolds-Yaqui match fell through, Promoter A. Ross drew up articles to bring Kopecky and Grip together here instead.

Gorman is expected to have his hands full to overflowing with Edwards. J. O. Bell, local sportsman who saw Edwards perform in Amarillo not long ago, declares Edwards is a par-one, boisterous bozo. Says Bell, "I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see Edwards knock Gorman out. He's tough as a pine knot and rough isn't the word for it. Gorman knows more holds than Edwards but I don't believe he can rough it as well. Edwards, incidently, kicks like Dutch Mantell."

Frogs Go in For Broncho Busting

Purple and White Has No Fear of Vaunted Champs

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15. (AP)—Horses! Horses! Horses! the big rodeo at the annual Fat Stock show here stands to be eclipsed Thanksgiving day when Texas Christian university's football team enters the arena at Southern Methodist university to try to tame the Mustangs.

Four members of the Southwestern conference in the roles of potential bronc riders found themselves sprawling in the tanbark soon after they climbed into the saddle in an effort to "break" the hard-bucking Ponies.

It promises to be a big moment when the Frog warriors crawl into the saddle. With such careening broncos as the prancing Gerald Mann, the galloping Hume, and plow-horses like the giant Cortemeglia and Wade, all loose in one corral, the Frogs will need all the equestrain cunning they can muster.

Although a full game and a fraction behind the Ponies because of two tie-games, the Frogs still hold an unquestioned record as an undefeated eleven, the same as the Mustangs.

The Purple's 10-7 victory Saturday over the Arkansas Razorbacks proves that Coach Bell has a combination that is not to be taken lightly even by the rampaging Dallasites. Only heart-rending "breaks" kept the Christians from winning in their other two starts, and boasting an unmarred record.

The fact that the Frogs play only four conference games while the Mustangs play five now mars T. C. U.'s chances to tie Morrison's men. A fifth game for the Frogs could not be arranged.

They're Watching Crowley at Columbia This Year

The game's greatest football coaches are conceding that Crowley at Columbia is doing wonders with a perfectly green team, he is being rated and quoted and copied from every angle, and in the meantime receiving due credit for his hard work.

Columbia's win over Cornell was the telling point. Crowley, in being responsible for one of Dobie's 11 defeats in Gil's 20 years of coaching, must be lauded.

In meeting Cornell he met a team where victory was a traditional factor, and all he had to face the situation with was a new, very new, fighting machine. His victory over Dobie was the result of work and patient waiting of Columbia since 1905.

Coach Crowley, in his quiet way, conservative way, has been through many dark moments during his brief association with Columbia football, but he has been the coach to supply Columbia with a few cheerful moments.

It will be recalled that he came from nowhere last year and turned back an Army team that was an outstanding favorite.

Then to follow this year by adding the Cornell scalp to the Columbia list—two major football triumphs in two seasons—is achievement enough to give Crowley a place in Columbia's march to the football crest.

The march has been slow, is still on and the drive seems to be headed in the right direction.

Three World Series Go Seven Games

* * * * *

Some Cling to the "Hashed Up" Idea

* * * * *

The Cynic Disregards Solid Facts

* * * * *

The doubting Dans are at it again. Here and there around the country, they have been pointing the finger of suspicion with the accompanying question: "Why is it that the last three world's series have gone the limit for seven full games?"

Ever since the Black Six sellout of 1919, there looms perniciously on the horizon of doubt, that percentage of skeptics who harbor the belief that the fall contests are highly spiced "cut and dried affairs." Suspicion, however, is a flexible quality, the finger of which points too often in the wrong direction.

Some of the accusers cling to the ridiculous viewpoint that these games are "hashed up" on a "You win the first; we win the next, gate-receipts' basis," till six games have been played, with the agreement that only the last game is to be fought out on the square.

The baseball magnates are "painted" as the hard-hearted pirates of finance who promote the scheme, and the players are but the clay to be molded. Nor do the casters of this silly slime pause to reflect that million-dollar stadiums cannot be built with the thought of paying dividends on dishonest hase hits, and "pushed over" tallies.

The cynic in reaching his conclusions that the big series are purposely lengthened to the last game, conveniently disregards some solid facts. For instance, it is a matter of statistics that the first division clubs invariably break even or come close to the .500 percentage on the season's play of 22 games with one another; then why is it so difficult to believe that two pennant winners should split even in a world's series? I do not know the exact figures, but it seems to me that double-headers usually go 50-50 among first division clubs, and it is the exception rather than the rule when first division teams win three straight games from one another. I mention the first four clubs because of their relative strength, and their abilities to play .500 baseball.

Why should Babe Ruth risk permanent injury in one of the St. Louis games, by running full tilt into a wooden rail to complete a spectacular catch of a foul fly, which if dropped or let alone, could not possibly have resulted in a score?

In the last world's series it is a plain fact that both Hornsby and Huggins used all of their pitching resources to win the championship as soon as possible. You will recall that the title was at stake in the last game, and neither manager was able to call upon his favorite pitcher to start the contest. Pennock and Alexander mounted the hill in the closing innings as the managers' last resort.

It is merely a wild guess when an enthusiast or cynic proclaims that a world's series should terminate in four straight games. A pennant winner is seldom able to win four consecutive games from a second division club. One of the sanest and safest predictions relative to a world's series, is that it will go at least six games.

Farmers Begin Secret Sessions

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 15. (AP)—Coach Dana X. Bible announced Monday that the A. and M. football team will start training Tuesday behind closed gates and that secret practice would continue until the Thanksgiving game.

Monday was utilized for blackboard practice, but hard scrimmage will occupy the remainder of the time, Bible said. The freshman team will furnish opposition in the form of plays the state school has used thus far this season.

"Burge" Burgess, a substitute, has earned a regular berth and will start the Thanksgiving game, Bible announced. Many local fans believe he will be the star of the game and expect Johnny Estes to prove the offensive star for the Steers.

Hawks Close On Olney Grid

The Iowa Park Hawks will wind up the football season at Olney Saturday, announced Coach R. E. Brewster yesterday. The game is to start at 3:15 o'clock.

Ten of the Hawks will close their football career with the Iowa Park team, six regulars and four irregulars. They are Smythe, Corder, Denny, Wiley, Fields, Enloe, Cheves, Thompson, Morehead and Dorris.

Junior basketball practice will begin a week after Thanksgiving, said Brewster. The Hawks are on the open market for games to be played between December 15 to January 1. Teams wishing to tackle the Hawks should notify Brewster.

Sub-junior and junior basketeers are to play Weeth at Iowa Park Friday night. The volley ball teams will tangle with Electra also. Jim White, coach, is doing well with his junior cage material.

FIRED WHOLE FOOTBALL TEAM

Suspended his whole football team.

That's practically what George C. "Kid" Woodruff, football coach at the University of Georgia, did.

He sent 18 of his varsity men to the "showers" when they admitted having broken training. Later they sent him letters of apology and were taken back.

No piece of football news in the south has caused more comment.

"If anyone wants another chance he shall have it," thus spoke Head Coach George C. Woodruff, chief mentor of the Georgia Bulldogs, in which he made plain that all Georgia football men requested to turn in uniforms will be given a chance to reinstate themselves if they care to do so.

Following Woodruff's action, a number of suspended players made overtures with a view to reinstatement and the coach stated that he was deeply impressed by the attitude of the men, and that he was ready and glad to give to any man who wants it, a chance to re-establish himself on the squad.

Coach Woodruff was high in his praise of his players for their manly frankness in confessing their attitude toward the training rules. "I did not have to institute any system of espionage," he said; "I merely asked that every man who had broken training at any time this season should step out and by doing so, admit the fact. I can say to the credit of every one of them that they had the courage to take the course of men and gentlemen.

Coach Woodruff made the following statement:

"At the beginning of the present football season, I laid down strict regulations with regard to training. In order to determine definitely whether or not these rules were being obeyed, I called the squad together and asked if any one had been guilty of infraction of these rules, assuring them in advance that they would be disciplined if guilty. Eighteen men stepped forward. I immediately ordered them to the clubhouse and those men vluntarily wrote me letters of apology assuring me that they had not realized that they had broken rules in the sense I had construed it. The honesty of these men has touched me greatly, and I am now enovinced that Georgia has a team that can be trusted."

Tickets $15 For Army-Navy Tilt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (APA) Gate prices for the annual Army-Navy football classic are causing some complaint but the unprecedented demand for seats continue just the same. One of the protests registered with officials here came from a member of congress who objected to Secretary Wilbur that the $10 and $15 scale fixed by local authorities in Chicago where the game is to be played is beyond the means of the ordinary football fan. The war department has also received a few scattering complaints.

The sale of the big block of tickets allotted to Chicago authorities is regarded by the war and navy department as none of their affair, however, and no objection to high prices is seen here so long as the public is eager to pay. Some Chicagoans have telegraphed here saying they saw no prospects of getting into soldiers' field even at $10 or $15 apiece and were willing to go much higher.

AERO SCHOOL FOR TEXAS U.

University Authorities Confer With D. Guggenheim Foundation

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—A Texas training school for the promotion of civilian aeronautics, and the operation in Austin of an air school co-operating with the Daniel Guggenheim fund for civilian aeronautics, were proposed during the past week, in conference with Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, professor of mathematics, and Pro. John M. Bryant, professor of electrical engineering, representing the University of Texas, with a representative of the Guggenheim fund.

The university may begin courses covering the first three years of an aeronautics course next fall, it was indicated. The addition of one professor or aeroplane design and other advanced work is proposed by an outline submitted to Charles Kunkel, representative of the Guggenheim fund, at Dallas. The proposal calls for expenditure of only $10,000 a year additional for a start, though a building for air science study may be projected later.

Dr. Ettlinger and Prof. Bryant went to Dallas to meet Lieut. Bennett, flier of the Byrd plane which crossed the North Pole, and Mr. Kunkel, who accompanied Bennett on the flight. No final answer was given the Texas university representatives at the preliminary conference. None was expected. The school was asked to send and will submit data concerning courses in engineering, to the Guggenheim fund headquarters in New York.

So far, the branch centers of instruction in aeronautics have been established in five colleges and universities, it is said: The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York university, Michigan university, Leland Stanford Jr., and California Tech.

"Honey Lou"

BY BEATRICE BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills. Honey Lou likes everyone at the mills except JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk, who makes love to her against her will.

JACK WALLACK, who comes to his father's mills to learn the business, falls in love with Honey Lou the minute he sees her. Brought up by an old-fashioned mother, Honey Lou is a mixture o' flapper and clinging vine.

ANGELA ALLEN pretends to be a friend of Honey Lou and tells her not to take Jack seriously. Jack is very jealous of DR. STEVE MAYHEM, a friend of MARGARET, Honey Lou's sister.

Honey Lou goes to work with Margaret in the office of Holy Cross hospital. One day she goes to tea with the wily Angela and meets Jack's mother, whom Jack calls The Head, because she manages everything at home. She tells Honey Lou that "Grumpy" is not satisfied with his new secretary, ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp. Jack asks Honey Lou to work for his father, who is at home with lumbago, and Honey Lou promises that she will.

Honey Lou meets Angela, who tells her that Jack Wallack is taking her out to dance that night. Honey Lou calls up TIM DONEGAL, determined to have him take her to the same place.

Honey Lou goes with Tim to the restaurant and he has been drinking. The place is raided by dry agents and Honey Lou escapes with Jack Wallack. Jack tells Honey Lou that he thought she was tricking him and ends by telling her that he loves her and wants her to marry him.

Honey Lou tells her mother that she is to marry Jack Wallack the next day but her mother asks her to wait and have a wedding. Honey Lou's engagement is announced and plans are made for the wedding.

She meets Angela downtown and she persuades her to open a charge account under the name of Mrs. Jack Wallack, Jr., and to put the shoes she is buying, along with some lingerie, on the account. But at home with Margaret, who sees through Angela, she decides to take back the lingerie and Margret pays for the shoes for a wedding gift.

Jack and Honey Lou have a quiet home wedding and spend their honeymoon camping at Lake Tamay. In the meantime Steve visits the flat and breaks under the realization that Honey Lou is lost to him now.

Jack and Honey Lou return from their honeymoon and stay with the Wallacks while looking for a flat for themselves. Honey Lou tells Angela that they are anxious to start housekeeping. They find a seven-room flat on the next street to the Wallacks and The Head says Angela told her Honey Lou could not wait to get away from them. This angers Honey Lou and she cannot understand why Jack's mother is so cool toward her. Honey Lou starts shopping for furniture. She stops at the Wallack Mills office to see Ann Ludlow.

Ann tells Honey Lou why she sent for her. Honey Lou sees Joe Meadows and tells him he must marry Ann Ludlow at once and he agrees to do so.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

The flat on Dulcimer street was all ready by the last Saturday in October.

Every cushion was in place, every curtain hung, every piece of furniture just where it belonged. From every corner something beautiful shone out—a mirror or a Chinese bowl of yellow and blue and rose color.

There was a fern box of carved teak-wood that ran along the silk hung windows of the sun-room. Four love birds fluttered about in a big wicker cage above them.

In the kitchen Mary, the new cook, was hard at work cooking the first dinner in the new flat.

Mary Delaney had been The Head's cook until a year ago. Then she had left because of "words" that she had with Grumpy. But The Head had forgiven her and sent her to Honey Lou.

She was fat and talkative—much too talkative.

But her striped dresses were crisp and clean and she settled down into the kitchen of the flat as if she had worked there all her life.

"'Tis a grand place you have, Miz Wallaeck," she told Honey Lou that afternoon as she passed through the hallway to answer the doorbell. "Everything of the best, and if you're not happy here 'tis your own fault, I'm saying."

"But, of course, I'm going to be happy here," Honey Lou answered.

Mary sniffed. "Don't you be too sure!" she said gloomily. "None of the young snips that's getting married nowadays is happy. The last place where I worked was at Mr. Jim Clemens' house—and that little wife of his! That little Mrs. Suzanne—"

Whatever she was going to say about Suzanne Clemens was cut short by the arrival of The Head who had come to look over Jack's new home.

"Hmm—" She made a little grunt in her throat as her eyes took in the rainbow-hued floor pillows, the love birds, the flowered curtains and the vases and bric-a-brac.

"Don't you like it?" asked Honey Lou, anxiously, as she led her from room to room.

The Head shook her magnificent head. "I suppose I'm old-fashioned," she said with a little smile. "But it looks like an Italian street fair to me. All such stuff—" she scornfully picked up a powder box from Honey Lou's dressing table.

It was a pale blue box and when the cover was taken from it, it played a piece of music.

"Angela gave that to me," Honey Lou told her, "and Angela helped me furnish my house. She knew I wouldn't know what to buy."

"It looks to me as if you'd bought out all of down town," The Head retorted. "But if you like it and it suits Jack, that's all that's necessary.

It did suit Jack. Man-like, he knew nothing of house furnishings and the cozy rooms with their deep soft rugs and easy chairs and cheerful-looking lamps suited him down to the ground.

Then, on the first of November, the bills started to come in. Every morning when Mary brought Honey Lou her breakfast there were bills on the tray under the coffee pot.

"I don't like to have breakfast in bed," Honey Lou declared in the beginnig. "I want to get up and eat with my very own husband."

And for a few mornings she did get up. It seemed wonderful ot her at first, to be sitting there with him watching him pepper his eggs. Everything about him was wonderful—as everything about a husband is wonderful to a bride—the way he washed his hair every morning under the shower, the way he could get dressed in two minutes, the things he said, even the way he held his newspaper in one hand while he ate with the other.

But after a week or two Honey Lou began to sleep late once more.

After all, there was nothing to do when she did get up early.

Mary took care of the house, and Angela and Suzanne Clemens were never ready to go shopping or driving until ten or eleven o'clock.

"I wish we didn't have Mary," Honey Lou complained to Jack on a cold crisp December morning. "I could do all my housework in two hours myself."

"Well, you aren't going to," Jack came back at her firmly. "I didn't marry you to put you to work for me. I'm the one that's going to do the work in this family."

In a way it was fun not to have anything to do. It was fun ot meet Angela and Suzanne down town and go Christmas shopping with them.

It seemed like a dream come true to be able to walk into Sabine's luxurious tea-room and order what she wanted, and sign her name at the bottom of the check. To buy fresh violets at the shop where Angela bought here, and tell the clerk to charge them to "Mrs. Jack Wallack, junior," and then walk out with them!

She opened a charge account at The Powder Box, the clever little beauty shop where Angela went to have her nails manicured and her hair washed.

She went there two afternoon a week to have her own healthy hair washed and treated with sweet-smelling lotions, to have her nails polished until they shone like pink glass, to have cold cream rubbed into the skin that certainly did not need cold cream.

Late one afternoon she walked into Sabine's to buy some cakes to take home with her and bumped into Margaret.

Margaret looked blue and unhappy. "You're going to come home with me," Honey Lou told her. "I've scarcely seen you since I got married and I have millions of things to tell you. Jack's working late tonight and it'll be like old times.

She could not wait to take her hat off when they got home, but ran excitedly about, showing Margaret all her treasures.

"We'll have some tea in the sun-room, Mary," she said, putting her head in at the kitchen door. "My sister, Miss Moody's here, and she's going to stay and have supper with me."

Every now and then Honey Lou forgot and said "supper" instead of "dinner." Mrs. Huntley had always called the evening meal "supper," as they had on the southern plantation where she had been born and brought up.

"What are you so blue about, anyway?" she asked Margaret, when she came back into the sun-room. For Margaret was sitting on the long cushioned set that ran along under the windows, staring down moodily into the street below.

"Nothing," she said, looking up.

"Is it Steve—is Steve treating you rough or something?" Honey Lou went on. But Margaret shook her head.

"No," she answered, still looking down into the vollet twilight that covered Dulcimer street. "No, it's just—everything. I know I ought to be happy. I have a good job and everything that I need. But, don't you know, Honey Lou, a woman wasn't born to live out all her days in an office."

She raised her head and looked around the sun-room, with its cheerful flowers and its bright cushions, and the love birds in their cages.

"I suppose I'm going to be an old maid, and I ought to make up my mind to it," she said tensely. "But I can't. I'd marry almost any man who came along and offered me a roof over my head and a meal a day. Just for the sake of having a home and some babies of my own."

"Yes—and then you'd be thinking of Steve Mayhew all the rest of your life." Honey Lou told her sensibly. "Don't be a fool and marry anybody who comes along. Wait for Steve. You watch everything's going to turn out all right for you and Steve."

Margaret dropped a lump of sugar into her tea. "Well—perhaps," she sighed. "But I couldn't help thinking the other day, when Ann Ludlow married that Meadows how gladly I'd have changed places with her."

"Oh, no!" gasped Honey Lou. "You don't know what you're talking about, or you wouldn't say such a thing. He's the most terriable creature who ever drew breath. He's dreadful. Keep away from him."

Margaret stared. "Why," of course! What would I go near him for?" she asked, amazed at Honey Lou's outburst. "What I meant was that I wished I was going to be married when I heard that Ann Ludlow was leaving to get married."

That night Steve Mayhew came to the flat to take Margaret home.

Mrs. Huntley telephoned to say that he was on his way, and two minutes later the doorbell rang sharply through the rooms.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead too serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is obsorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

MIDWEST WELL 600 BARRELS

New Producer Is Southwest Of Phillips Discovery Well

Another gusher in Jones county.

Midwest Exploration company's No. 1 Ira Thornton, a southwest offset to the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Joe Winter, the discovery, is estimated at 600 barrels daily from lime at 2,506 to 2,512 feet. This is the second well to be brought in in the Noodle creek field of southwest Jones county near the corners of Jones, Nolan, Taylor and Fisher counties. It was drilled in Sunday.

The new producer is on an 80-acre lease traded by the Phillips for an 80 in Garza county before the Winter well was brought in. It is in section 18 and 300 feet southwest of the Phillips No. 1 which is in the southwest corner of section 19. The Marland Oil company is drilling a north offset to the Midwest well, while Phillips No. 1 Walling is an east offset.

The structure in the new well is said to have run low and brightens the outlook of the Marland test.

Another Jones county test which may discover a new pool is Amon G. Carter's No 3 Proctor, 18 miles east of Stamford. This well is reported to have a good showing at 1,858 feet to 1,866 feet.

The Phillips pool was discovered on Labor day, last, when the Winter well came in making approximately 1,000 barrels natural. It is still flowing over 500 barrels daily.

When painful skin trouble is healed after resisting many treatments

East Haven, Conn., March 17:—"I work at Electro Plating and have what is known as "Platers' trouble." Every Plater gets it more or less, but I am unfortunate enough to get it all over my body from my head to my feet. My skin just opened up into a million and one deep cuts, from which ran a nasty watery fluid. I suffered tortures even after many different treatments. I was very much discouraged for some time and had about given up all hope of ever being healed when I tried your Resinol Soap and Ointment. I immediately began to get better and today my face and the tender parts of my body are entirely healed without even a scar. I'll boost Resinol every chance I get and I wish everybody suffering from skin trouble, especially that caused by Electro Plating, would give it a fair trial." (Signed) Samuel J. DANIELS SEES CALM SESSION

Wichita Falls Solon Finds All Is Peaceful In Capitol Halls

The forty-first Texas legislature which will convene at Austin next January will be a united body, working together for the furthering of Gov. Dan Moody's progressive program, is the opinion of Roy J. Daniels, representative from this district, who stated that he would support Moody's policies and aid to further legislation proposed by the governor-elect.

"This legislature," Mr. Daniels stated, "will probably spend a little more money than previous sessions have done, but it will be toward constructive progress, and will be along a line where it is badly needed."

School Aid Issue.

Mr. Daniels had reference to the proposed school aid measures that will be presented to the next legislature. All of these propositions are working toward longer terms and better facilities for the rural schools, and more equipment and buildings for the state institutions.

The most important legislation, to be presented, is the Junior college bill, a measure that Mr. Daniels is heartily in favor of. This bill will provide that the state will financially assist those institutions already established and will aid in building them where as yet there are no junior colleges.

"This is the finest school plan I have ever seen," Mr. Daniels stated, "as it provides that our boys and girls can remain at home for two years longer, and will thus be older and more able to look out for themselves when they leave home for the university. It merely provides that this schooling will be done in the home town instead of the university. Many boys and girls are too young when they go to the university to know how to manage themselves, and the Junior college plan keeps them at home under the supervision of their parents for two years longer."

Roads Also Issue.

Another important legislative matter will be the highway department. The Honorable Mr. Moody will have some constructive legislation along this line which will probably meet with the approval of the majority of the legislative body. It will in part provide for larger salaries of the highway commission but will take the appointment and supervision of this department from the governor and give it direct to the legislature.

Another plan which Mr. Daniels thinks may be efficient is to have the highway commission directed and appointed by a non-salaried commission which will be composed of non-interested parties. This system has proven very efficient with the prison commission and may be adopted for the highway commission.

No Hope For This.

"There is no hope," Mr. Daniels declared, "for the proposed statute which would provide for a breaking up of the commission and the prorating out to counties the highway money to be expended individually by counties. This would absolutely halt all main highway construction and would do away with the very idea of highway construction. Such proposals will not even be given consideration by the legislature."

Mr. Daniels stated that he would propose several bills, among them being a bill that will emancipate the married women of the state and would give them the right to handle their own property and dispose of it without the consent of their husbands.

Cotton--Latest Market Quotations--Cattle

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—A slight opening decline was followed by rallies in the cotton market today on reiterated reports of steady southern spot markets and further trade buying. January sold up from 12.50 to 12.66 and closed at 12.61, the general market closing irregular at net advances of one to eight points on active positions, but six points net lower on cotton for delivery next October.

The market opened steady at a decline of two to five points selling about three to seven points net lower during the first few minutes under over-Sunday hedging from the south combined with local selling promoted by relatively easy later cables from Liverpool. December eased off to 12.42 and March to 12.71, but near month liquidation was absorbed by continued buying of spot house brokers and soon as initial selling orders had been executed prices turned steadier on covering.

Reports of further rains in the belt over the week-end, which were thought likely to delay picking and cause additional damage to grades probably contributed to the advance while there also was some buying on reiterated reports that the better grades of cotton in the south were being firmly held. Demand failed to broaden much, however, and after selling up to 12.63 for December and 12.85 for March, or about eight to 15 points net higher the market reacted some five or six points from the best under realizing combined with a little southern selling in the late trading.

Part of the buying of near months here was supposed to be against sales of later deliveries, but there was also buying of December by spot house brokers which seemed to be without any connection with the late months. The firmness of the near month which closed within five points of January, compared with a difference of nine points at the close Saturday helped the tone of the general market.

Exports today 41,942, making 3,150,624 so far this season. Port receipts, 96,071; United States port stocks, 2,685,713.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NE WORLEANS, Nov. 15. (AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today with narrow price fluctuations and without any definite trend to values. After opening five to nine points down owing to les sfavorable Liverpool cables than due and receding a few points more in the early trading mainly on some hedge selling until the price level was nine to 12 points under the previous close the market rallied on covering. The buying was due to the very wet weather map and to uneasiness created by the tropical disturbance reported in the Caribbean headed for the Yucatan channel which it was feared might bring a spell of bad weather. The recovery ultimately reached 11 to 12 points which brought the price level back parallel with Saturday's close. After advancing in the late trading to levels 12 to 14 points above the lows of the morning the market eased off slightly closing net unchanged to three points down.

First trades here showed losses of five to nine points. The market continued to ease off after the start on hedge selling until by the end of the first hour December traded down to 12.48, January to 12.54 and March to 12.68, or nine to 12 point sbelow the close of Saturday.

Later in the morning the market rallied on covering and as there apepared to be a scarcity of offerings, prices recovered all the early loss, December trading up to 12.60, January to 12.65 and March to 12.79. The market advanced to 12.62 for December in the late trading and to 12.67 for January and 12.80 for March. The close was three to four points under the top.

Exports for the day totaled 42,142 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Price movements in today's stock market lacked uniformity, but major activity appeared to be on the upside. Trading was again largely of a professional character with the general public judging from the business of leading commission houses, placing a small part in the day's proceedings. In many instances activity was associated with the prospect of special dividend, earnings or merger developments, the general market apparently marking time pending further light on the trend of winter business.

Marking up of the call money rate from 4½ to 5 per cent the highest in weeks reflected the heavy withdrawal of funds in connection with mid-month dividend and interest payments. The weekly federal reserve report on brokers' loans, issued after the market closed showed a reduction of $37,373,000 in the week ended last Wednesday, practically wiping out the gain of the previous week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Persistent accumulation of U. S. Steel common was accompanied by Wall street gossip of a series of extra $5 cash dividends next year, the theory being supported by the fact that the corporation had adopted a policy of substantial extra dividend distributions during the period of big war earnings. Steel was bid up 2⅝ points to 152½, or only 7⅛ points below the record high, on a turnover of approximately 150,000 shares. Independent steels held steady.

Bullish sentiment in today's stock market was helped by the raising of the annual dividend on Kennecott from $4 to $5 and the declaration of $5 extra on the new DuPont common, which was also placed on a $7 annual basis. Kennecott touched 63⅝, the highest price since 1916, but DuPont showed a net loss of ⅝ at 168⅝, after having touched 170. General Motors, a large block of which is owned by DuPont, closed 1¼ points higher at 147⅞, although it had sold nearly a point above that figure. Strength and activity of Chrysler and Pierce Arrow was associated with Union firmed rumors of a possible merger of those two companies.

Establishment of about a score new high records for the year was due largely to the activity of pools. The list included Reynolds Tobacco "B," Corn Products Refining, Gotham Silk Hosiery (old and new), A. M. Byers, Commercial Solvents "B," and Liggett and Myers.

Rock Island common touched a new record high at 69½ on buying influenced by the belief that dividends will be inaugurated next month. Other rails held firm in quiet trading.

The foreign exchange market displayed a firmer undertone, with demand sterling ruling around $4.84⅝ and French francs just above 3 1-3 cents.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15. (AP)—Wheat, corn and oats were selling on the Fort Worth cash grain market Monday at prices about in line with Saturday's quotations. Demand, however, was weak, barely keeping pace with the lessening receipts. Milo and kaffir prices were sagging under heavier offerings and light demand.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Despite 1,195,000 bushels increase of the United States visible supply wheat values showed an upward trend most of the time today. Argentine advices pointed to likelihood of smaller yields of wheat than had been looked for throughout a large area. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¼ to ⅝c net higher; corn 1 to 1⅜c up; oats at ¼ to ½c advance, and provisions unchanged to 7c down.

Corn displayed independent strength from start to finish. Rainy weather restrained sellers and conditions being unfavorable for curing the new crop and for the movement of corn from the interior. Besides special attention was given to a statement that regardless of bearish aspects of the government crop report the amount of merchantable corn this season is the smallest in twenty years excepting only 1924. Oats followed corn.

Provisions sagged on account of increased selling that developed after a bulge due to better cash demand for lard.

KING AND FOCH SPLIT ON WAR

French General and Belgian Ruler Stage Heated Controversy

PARIS, Nov. 15. (AP)—King Albert of the Belgians and Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied forces in the World war, are at odds on a question of war facts.

The controversy came into the open today with the publication of a letter from the king to the marshal dated Saturday categorically denying Foch's quoted assertion that he persuaded Albert not to allow the Belgians to retreat from the Yser in 1914.

The king's letter replied to statements attributed to the marshal in an Armistice day article printed by Le Matin.

Albert says that when Foch first called on him on November 16, 1914, his (Albert's) proclamation that mention of retreat would be treason was already three days old. The king admitted that his staff considered retreat 10 days later, but says he absolutely opposed it and the Belgians held the line.

The king denies any recollection of Foch leaving the memorandum against retreat which the marshal was quoted as saying he gave to both Albert and Sir John French (later Field Marshal French, the British commander.)

Marshal Foch's revelation of the "inside story" was incidental to his observation that he seldom commanded, but generally persuaded. He recalled that he was without authority at that time, but "although I had not the right to ccommand, I commanded."

Marshal Foch today refused to comment on the king's letter.

D., 1926, the same being the 6th day of December, A. D., 1926, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 1st day of November, A. D., 1926, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 19069-B

Wherein W. W. Fraser, who resides in Wichita County, Texas, is plaintiff, and W. G. Burton, Lon C. McCrory, A. L. Steel, C. M. Beeler, J. D. Dunn, T. W. Wentz, G. W. Hustead, A. H. Hustead, R. H. Hustead, J. W. B. Tucker, J. W. Rowley, T. Frank Hines, Robert C. Evans, William Carter, H. C. McClelland, George H. Weber, the Fort Steubin Oil Company, a joint stock association, and DuLux Oil Company, a joint stock association, all of whose residences are unknown, are defendants, and said petition alleging:

That the plaintiff resides in Wichita County, Texas, and that the residences of the defendants are unknown; that on or about the 14th day of September, 1925, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the oil and gas leases and leaseholds, carrying therewith 7-8 of the oil and gas produced and saved therefrom, on and covering the following described land in Wichita County, Texas, to-wit:

FIRST TRACT: Five-acres in the Northeast corner of Block 55, Kemp's Wichita Valley Farm Lands Subdivision, and being the East 5-acres of the North 15 acres of a 110-acre tract out of said Block, said 110-acre tract being all of said Block save and except the 50 acres in the form of a square in the Northwest corner of said Block.

SECOND TRACT: 21-acres out of Block 1, Meade's Subdivision of the West 1-2 of the Margaret Ramsey Survey, described as follows:

Beginning at the Northeast corner of said Block No. 1, thence West with its North line 691 feet to a stake: Thence South 1,275 feet to a stake: Thence East 691 feet to the East line of said block: Thence North 1,275 feet to the place of beginning.

That on or about said date the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withholds from him the possession thereof to his damage in the sum of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars.

Plaintiff prays for citation and for judgment for the title and possession of said premises, oil and gas leases and leaseholds, for his rents and damages, costs of suit and general relief.

Further complaining of said defendants he alleges that they executed the assignments of said leases hereinafter mentioned, under which plaintiff holds, and which assignments through mutual mistake erroneously or inaccurately rescribed the property assigned to-wit: (a) Assignment from W. G. Burton to J. Y. McQuigg, Jr., dated December 16, 1918, recorded in Vol. 109, page 467, Deed Records of said County, covering the first tract mentioned; (b) Assignment from Lon C. McCrory and A. L. Steel to C. M. Beeler and J. B. Dunn, dated March 27, 1919, recorded in Vol. 125, page 230, of said records, covering first tract mentioned; (c) Assignment from J. B. Dunn and C. M. Beeler to PuLox Oil Company, dated May 10, 1919, recorded in Vol. 131, page 257, Deed Records of Wichita County, covering the first tract above mentioned; (d) Assignment from PuLox Oil Company to G. Steubin Oil Company, dated May 1st, 1920, recorded in Vol. 158, page 307, of said deed records, covering the first tract above mentioned. Plaintiff also alleges that by reason of the mutual mistake and inadvertence the following named instruments do not correctly described the property assigned to be affected, which property was the two tracts above mentioned, and which instruments are also muniments of his title; (a) Judgment of the 89th District Court of Wichita County, Texas, of date October 11, 1921, in Cause No. 11707-C, styled A. E. Davidson et al vs. Fort Steubin Oil Company; (b) Order of sale issued out of said cause on November 5, 1921; (c) Return of Fred K. Smith, Sheriff of Wichita County, Texas, on said order of sale; (d) Sheriff's deed of the 6th day of December, 1921, from Fred K. Smith to W. E. Wilson, recorded in Vol. 183, page 594, of the deed records of said County.

Plaintiff prays for judgment reforming all of said instruments so that they will speak the true intent of the parties and the court executing the same, and so that they will correctly describe the two tracts of land as above described.

Plaintiff also alleges that defendants, George W. Hustead, A. H. Hustead, R. H. Hustead, and J. W. B. Tucker, are claiming some interest in said land by virtue of an alleged mechanic's lien, which lien and claim plaintiff says is barred by limitation and is void and of no effect, and prays that the same be cancelled as a cloud upon his title.

Herein fail not but have before said Court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 1st day of November, A. D., 1926.

Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas.

SEVEN ENTER GUILTY PLEAS IN U. S. COURT

Two Other Cases Tried By Juries Result in Convictions

Judge Wm. H. Atwell, presiding over United States district court for the northern district of Texas, rounded out a full day's work yesterday when the federal grand jury was put in motion and completed their work for the term; received seven pleas of guilty, tried two cases by jury, both of which resulted in convictions; continued one case and dismissed one case.

A total of $1,300 was assessed in fines on pleas of guilty and two penitentiary terms resulted from the day's work, as well as a 60-day jail sentence was assessed. All the cases were for violations of the federal prohibition act.

Pleas of guilty were as follows: John Pastusek, fined $250; Jack Miller, fined $250; Warren Durrett, fined $250; W. E. Parks, fined $200; John Stearman, fined $200; W. A. Gowdy, fined $200.

A. L. Brannan plead guilty and was sentenced to 60 days in jail, the date being set back 30 days.

"Kitty" Allen, a negro charged with violation of the liquor law, was found guilty by a jury and he will receive a penitentiary sentence, having previously been found guilty of a like offense.

Clement Couch, Oklaunion, was also found guilty of liquor law violations by a jury and will receive a pen sentence because of a previous conviction of the same charge.

Love Letters

salutation of the first letter, and all abounded in such terms as "my darling," "honey," and "sweet adorable babykins." Frequently references were made to anticipated "love nest" and one expression was "darling, I could rave for hours." That "love is the most vital power," was a declaration. "No house is big enough for me," she wrote. "I need the great outdoors. There isn't another man who can make me smile," she said, referring to her love for Hall and his for her, she described as a "noble man's great eternal love." "I am his forever," she added.

Two of the letters were almost entirely occupied with discussion of a book in which the writer compared the characters of herself and the rector. Once, when she had described the pain she was suffering, she wrote "hold me close. Nothing will cure me, but that."

Love's Message.

How friendly our Easton avenue road looks," she said. "I get a new message of love every time you take off your hat." Later she declared that she was "so happy, I could dance wildly."

"No one understands me but you," she wrote. "Of course I have never shown my true self to others."

"Babykins," was a word appearing again and again as the reader went on. "What a muddle we are in," was a plaintive note sounded. "You are a true priest, and I am your physical inspiration," one letter read. "You see in me what you teach."

Beauty Disavowed.

Disavowal of claims to beauty was made in a letter where she said "I know I am not pretty," referring in the same letter to my "scrawny skin."

A reference to material things read: "If I am not blessed with material things, I have the greatest gift of all, my babykins."

Mrs. Elise Barnhardt, a sister of Mrs. Mills testified before the letters were read into the record, that the choir singer in reply to a protest that she was unwise in openly showing her affection for the minister told her that she did not care who knew it.

Sister Testifies.

Mrs. Barnhardt said also that Mrs. Mills declared she cared "more for Mr. Hall's little finger than for Jim's whole body." This statement was repeated she said, in the presence of James Mills, her husband. Her sister confided some of the details of her love affair to her, Mrs. Barnhardt testified, telling of meetings with the minister at various places. It was definitely decided today that the jury will not be taken to the scene of the killing about ten miles away. Justice Charles W. Parker, presiding, announced today that the court had decided that no substantial advantage would follow the visit of the jury and that it would be next to impossible to make the trip without interference from a crowd.

Other members of the court staff present were Assistant U. S. District Attorneys Randolph Caldwell and Mrs. S. C. Menezes; District Clerk Geo. W. Parker, U. S. Marshal Sam L. Gross and Court Reporter T. C. Irby.

The federal grand jury was empaneled and John W. Hughes of Graham was selected as foreman. Those reporting for grand jury service were: J. C. Campbell, Sunset; S. P. Richardson, Montague; J. W. MELLON SEES BIG TAX SLASH

Income Tax Ranges to Be Benefited, Treasury Head Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP) Secretary Mellon today again boosted the ante on the plan of President Coolidge for income tax credit, declaring it would be safe to permit tax payers a saving of at least 15 per cent on next year's income levies.

The 15 per cent minimum was predicted, Mr. Mellon explained on a prospective surplus of $300,000,000 for this fiscal year. First estimates made by the president indicated a surplus of $200,000,00 and on that ground he proposed a ten per cent credit which later was boosted to 12 1-2 per cent.

No Tears Foreseen.

There were definite indications today at the treasury that no tears would be shed there if congress turned down the proposed credit plan, threats against which have been seen in some of the conflicting views expressed by leaders and forced the application of this year's surplus to debt retirement.

But if the surplus is going to be returned to the tax payers Secretary Mellon made it clear today that he saw no other practical way to do it. He also reiterated that no permanent cut in tax rates would be sanctioned at this time.

At a round table discussion of taxes with newspaper men Mr. Mellon frankly called for alternative proposals to the plan to give a credit on next year's income levies as a means of returning to the tax payers the prospective surplus.

Urges Fairness.

Mr. Mellon replied he did not feel it would be fair to take the surplus created largely by income tax payers and apply it on reduction of the excise taxes including the automobile and admission dues. It would be difficult also, he said, to give the smaller tax payers greater credit because their payments now were so small. This plan, he added, would be prejudicial to the other tax payers.

The secretary did not deny however, that he would just as soon use the surplus toward retirement of the public debt but added that the debt which now stands at about $19,600,000,000 would be cut by well over $500,000,000 this year and he considered this sufficient.

Big Surplus Piles Up.

With a surplus of more than $300,000,000 in sight for this year and business conditions continuing sound the suggestion was offered that it would be safe to make a permanent reduction in taxes. But Mr. Mellon replied that it was unwise to count on certain continuance of prosperity, declaring if there was any diminution it would wipe out the surplus and might necessitate a consequent increase in tax rates.

Dope Peddlers

monwealth; that one should never look upon him as Atwell, or the clerk as Parker or the marshal as Gross, but as the representatives of the law, which in turn is of the people.

Judge notes Genesis.

Quoting from the book of Genesis Judge Atwell reminded the jury that Eve believed the word of the lowest form of animal rather than that of God, and said that many people today were paying no more attention to the governmental laws than they have to God's law. There are two ways to look at the law—the right way, which is justice, safety, protection to all, and the wrong way, which is thoughtlessness and un-godliness.

"The most important question to the American people today is that of living the law. Texas must wake up to the responsibility of living the law. There are crimes being committed here that will equal those of benighted Russia or China," Judge Atwell said.

Remedy For Lawlessness.

"I want also to remind you of the too common tendency of fearing to convict an innocent person, but I declare to you that one should just as diligently guard against fearing to turn a guilty person free. There should be ten years of wholesome fearing to turn loose guilty persons, and then the country would rid itself of much of this lawlessness

"Government is omnipresent. It is supposed to protect everybody, even the man who is murdered or the man who is robbed. There is no haphazard method about the machinery of the government, which is the courts. It is only when justice is thwarted or juries are prejudiced or other missfires of the kind that the courts are inefficient."

Reads Constitution.

Judge Atwell then read the preamble to the constitution and explained that this great set of laws was formed by the fathers of the country and that in its pages are contained all the law. Every amendmen is only an offspring of the original constitution and all amendment is only an offspring of tion of the United States supreme court as to its constitutionality.

Any man who fought against the Volstead act and against all liquor legislation had a perfect right to fight against the passage of such an act, but he has no right to violate it or to oppose it after it became law, he declared.

First "Air Charge."

Judge Atwell was the first judge in the nation to charge a grand jury of the new federal Air Commerce Act. He explained the usage of the act and the vital factors it may later have bearing upon.

Judge Atwell asked for a "quickened conscience in peace as well as in war, and declared that the Volstead act was just as much a law as any other law and that it was the duty of everybody to observe it, 'and I don't mean maybe.'"

Tankersley declined from his farm near Glen Rose today to say on what grounds he sought a pardon. He said such would have to come through his lawyers. One of them, Walter B. Scott, said: "We believed Tankersley was a victim of circumstances and because Tankersley was making a good citizen when the offense was detected, which was a long time after it was committed.

Sick Children Love "Cascarets" For the Bowels

Give "Candy Cathartic" for a bad cold, sour stomach, constipation

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle cleansing of the bowels—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets Candy Cathartic which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though they cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents a box at any drug store.—Adv.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Checks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, rundown men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now, for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing flesh producing vitimins, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least five pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Smith and Renfros drug stores or any druggist.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9—gained 12 pounds in 7 months.—Adv.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

When the Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys, as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.
