GLADEWATER, April 29. (AP)—John L. Keys, oil crew worker of Oklahoma City, died tonight in a hospital at Longview, his death making the eighth fatality from the fire. A blood transfusion had been given Keys late today, nine Sinclair employes offering their blood. Doctors said that Frank Felouck, also in the Longview hospital, was expected to die before morning.

In the meantime, water lines were to be laid from Prairie Creek, at the foot of the veritable volcano. Workers found the heat too great to attempt the extinction without reinforcements.

A torrential rain fell about the leaping fire but had no effect in checking the flames. It seemed doubtful that the circuitous road, taking ten miles to negotiate the four-mile air line distance from this little town, would permit

Deficit In State Funds Of $7,508,515.04 Looms

State Statisticians Complete Financial Statement In Meeting With Governor

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, April 29.—Statisticians of three state departments, meeting with Governor Sterling, concluded today a financial statement in which they estimated the deficit of the state's general revenue fund at $7,508,515.04 at the close of the next biennium unless new sources of revenue were tapped.

This estimate was based on the assumption that appropriations would be an average of the senate and house recommendations. The senate's figures were higher than those of the house.

The deficit at the close of the present fiscal year August 31 was estimated at $4,548,170.61.

A reduction of $2,383,853.88 in revenues during the next biennium from the gross production tax on oil was estimated, as a result of the present low price of oil.

The cigarette tax was estimated to bring $4,045,811.51 into the general revenue fund during the next biennium and the natural gas tax $751,169.02. Half of the cigarette tax and one fourth of the gas tax will go to the available school fund. Both these tax measures were enacted by the present legislature.

The report was signed by W. Frank Carter, first assistant state auditor, Claude D. Teer, chairman of the board of control; R. S. Calvert, statistician for the comptroller, and J. D. Hall, budget director.

Lamont Speaks On Wage Cuts Before C Of C

Secretary Says Most Prosperous Periods Are Those Coincident With High Wages And Shorter Hours

By J. R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Business Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 29. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, addressing the United States Chamber of Commerce today, counseled the nation's business leaders against wage cutting as a solution of their problems.

Instead, he said, the most prosperous periods in history have been those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

Done All Possible

Mr. Lamont told the chamber the government had done all possible; that the problems were so vast no single effort could solve them; that business itself, as the American individualistic tradition dictates, should get together "to sit on the bulge" of enthusiasm that makes over production during boisterous periods of prosperity.

Round table luncheons discussions featured.

"What, for instance, can private insurance companies do to take care of unemployment?" was one.

Acclaimed As Most Forward Step In Years

Under The Bill No Suits For Delinquent Taxes Would Be Filed; Property Advertised For Disposition

Right To Redeem

Only Enough Of Property To Be Sold To Pay Taxes And Costs; Owner Allowed To Redeem In Four Years

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, April 29.—Acclaimed as the most forward step taken in recent years in tax matters, the house today passed the delinquent tax bill of Representative Johnson of Carrizo Springs. The vote was 103 to 24.

Under the bill, no suits for delinquent taxes would be filed. The tax collector would advertise the property delinquent and it would be sold to the person who paid the taxes, costs and penalties in return for a deed to the least amount of the property. Johnston said only enough of the property would be sold to pay the taxes and costs, claiming it was unfair to sell all of a person's property to pay the taxes when the sale of a small portion would serve the purpose.

May Redeem Property

The original owner would have the right to redeem the property within four years by paying the purchase price, plus 20 per cent the first year and 40 per cent the second. If the property was not redeemed, the purchaser would be required to bring suit to quiet title to his interest in the title.

The bill was branded by Representative Greathouse of Fort Worth as a "fraud" and designed to deprive owners of their property without "his day in court."

Pass Corporation Levy

The house passed a bill to levy a penalty of $5,000 per day on foreign corporations doing business in Texas without a permit.

The house made doubly certain it had killed the Keller drivers' license by reconsidering the vote by which it failed at engrossment, and then ordering it tabled. The vote on engrossment was 54 to 66.

License All Drivers

The bill had been amended several times. It would have provided for licensing of all drivers, the license to cost 30 cents for a three year privilege. Licenses would have been suspended for violation of

Barbarism In America Gets Severe Jolts

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, April 29.—Gilbert K. Chesterton, author, told the Society for Preservation of Rural England today on his return from the United States that he felt as if he had "just returned from a different civilization—or barbarism, whatever you call it."

Prohibition, "ugly" buildings and Tennessee's rigorous moral code impressed him strongest on his tour of America, he said, adding that New York was as terrifying to Americans as to foreigners.

"I've seen in Tennessee," he said, "where if a man insults you you are expected to shoot him with a gun or you're not considered a gentleman. Call it barbarism or chivalry, it's the feudal spirit full of feud.

In regard to prohibition, Mr. Chesterton said the law was threatening America with disaster.

"There are no inns in America," he said, "but there is plenty to drink—far, far too much. Alcoholism has never threatening America today. It isn't normal that girls of 16 should go to dances and drink raw alcohol."

Luncheons Attended By Members Of Two Clubs Are Attractive Events

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

ONE of Lubbock's conventions of the year is making history, beginning today. That is the Homemaking Education Rally, which convenes this morning to continue through Saturday.

This convention is unique in the array of conventions which Lubbock has lined up for 1931. This one of all the meetings is for girls who are yet in their teens. Other conventions are drawing women of varying ages, but this alone is staged for the younger women.

These girls began coming in Wednesday afternoon. This is one of the biggest events in the life of many of them thus far and people here should be proud to have this event associated with Lubbock.

Many people have already expressed some of this pride and have indicated their interest — people other than parents of high school girls who are directly connected with the event. During the last few days numberless calls have been received by those who have had a part in preparing for this event by people who want to attend the sessions and to see the exhibits. The question of how much of this convention will be open to the public has been an ever present one and it does indicate a gratifying local interest.

And the supervisors are hoping that there may be no disappointments. People will not be barred from visiting any of the sessions. Limited space in the exhibit halls has made it impossible for them to be opened to the public during the judging, but when this has been completed, anyone may view them. A limited number will be allowed to watch the judging while it is in progress—and it is going to be worth seeing because of the nature of these contests.

A mere exhibit will not be hung on the wall and judged, as I understand it, but the girls will be given problems to solve; they will wear clothes that they have made; they will have to select from a group of menus and will be asked to select home furnishings and flowers or judge arrangements that have been made. Testing the initiative of these girls is thought to be a problem in education and the primary purpose of this rally is education.

A TIMELY PROGRAM

FREQUENTLY we hear that women's club programs are untimely or that there is little actual relation to the lives of the members. The Twentieth Century club announced this week that Russia is to be studied in that club beginning in September.

Whether this is some sort of a cut and dried program dealing with Russian, I do not know, but if it is to concern the Russia of today, it certainly is timely.

Russia is the cynosure of all eyes. Hardly a paper is printed without some reference to political and social conditions over there. Most of us know little enough about the country, in spite of all that we may read, yet Russia is experimenting with many customs and policies while the rest of the world is watching to know the results. Women have a large part in determining the trend of thought in this nation; they have a part in politics; in every phase of life. Their sphere is larger than the home and surely a study of history that is in the making cannot be untimely.

COMPARING US

OCCASIONALLY we see a story about American women, their big feet and general husky appearance. And if visiting royalty in America now can be used as a measure, this sort of story should cause little wonder.

Prince Takamatsu, the Japanese princess who is in America now, is a dainty little thing, we are told. Her shoes are size one and one-half; her waist measures 17 inches around. And Queen Rambai of Siam was buying new shoes in New York the other day in size 3B.

Unless my figures are all crossed up, the average size shoe worn by American women — or is that in Lubbock alone—is a 7. In all probability the list of women in Lubbock who wear shoes shorter than a 5 wouldn't be very long and we're not overgrown here at all. As to the waist measure, show me the one of 17 inches.

Of course, Princess Takamatsu is of a different race and is considerably shorter than the average American woman. We must appear a race of giants to her.

Campbell Loughmiller, of Berkley, Calif., is spending a few days here as the guest of his brother, Wiley Loughmiller, Tech student. Mr. Loughmiller attended the local college several years ago.

MOST FOODS TASTE BETTER IF COOKED IN SMALL AMOUNTS

Same is True of Hills Bros. Coffee, Which is Never Roasted in Bulk

When food is cooked in small quantities, the mixing, the application of heat, can be controlled with much more exactness. An omelet, for example, made of three eggs will turn out more tender and fluffy than one made of many eggs.

A similar situation occurs in roasting coffee. When roasted in bulk it is impossible to control the heat exactly. Some of the batch, therefore, is overdone and some underdone. As a result there is a variation in flavor.

In the invention of Controlled Roasting, Hills Bros. found the way to insure an even roast in their fine blend of coffee. Only a few pounds at a time are roasted by this patented, continuous process. When the roasting is finished & uniformly delicious flavor has been developed such as no other coffee has.

When you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab on the can.

"I PATRONIZE the independent dealer because he sells the gas, oil and accessories I want—and not what some out-of-town manager tells him to." C.V.W.

Mr. C. V. W. is right, too! The independent dealer takes no orders from the "Main Office." He knows your needs—and caters to them. If you believe in fair and open competition, give your business to the Independent. You'll be more than repaid by his courteous service.

And one sure sign of the Independent is the green and white Quaker State sign—the oil with the "Extra Quart." Use Quaker State. It lasts longer—lubricates better. Saves your car—and saves your money.

Patronize the dealer who sells Quaker State—and cast your vote for independence. The dealer's—and your own. For the independent dealer takes orders only from you. He sells what you want—whether it's gas, accessories or oil!

Vice President Of Browns See Spudders

WICHITA FALLS, April 29. (AP)—L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns, here looking over the Browns' Spudder farm, is not overly excited at being prominently mentioned as successor of the late E. S. Barnard as president of the American League.

"Everybody from McCarthy on the coast to Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York has been mentioned as the new league president," he said. "The league powers are in no hurry to select a new president, since it had fine leaders in Johnson and Barnard, and was able to open the season successfully this year after Barnard's death, due to the latter's efficiency in handling league affairs. I expect the league to take its time in selecting a new president and give the office to someone thoroughly qualified."

Asked if he would accept the position if it were offered him he replied, "the time to answer that question is when I am offered the position."

Retired Merchant Asks That Search For Men Be Started

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 29; (AP)—Louis Belmont, 68, retired jewelry and clothing merchant of Medford, Mass., and Hot Springs, Ark., came here today from St. Louis to ask police to search for two men who he said swindled him of $16,000.

He told Detective Inspector W. T. Griffin they took his money in a St. Louis hotel room, locked him in and fled.

Stories of "sure thing" bets and a chance to make $200,000, inveigled him, Belmont said.

Labor disputes have been frequent in the Philippines recently.

Alvin Allison Is Winner Levelland Golf Tournament

LEVELLAND, April 29. (Special)—Out of a field of 20 who qualified for the championship flight, Alvin R. Allison emerged winner of Levelland's first city championship golf tournament this week after winning 2 and 1, over John Roach, his opponent in the final match.

Allison won his first round match of the 20th hole after a hard tussle with H. W. Bailey, and had little trouble in defeating Client Breedlove, 8 and 6, in the second round. He drew a bye in the third round and defeated T. L. Mullican, 8 and 6, in the semi-final match. Roach came through th finals with equal success to meet Allison in the championship match.

After halving the first hole, the finalists played neck and neck throughout. Allison was leading, two up, at the turn, but Roach staged a comeback and cut the lead to one hole at the fifteenth. Allison won the sixteenth after making a neat recovery from the rough to par the hole and win the match.

Much interest was taken in the tournament here. A large field entered the qualifying round and entered the two flights. Among the other outstanding golfers were Curtiss Dickinson, Preston Lee and T. L. Mullican.

NEW YORK, April 29. (AP)—In his first speed trial as a three-year-old, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, co-favorite with Equipoise to win the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, turned in an impressive workout over the Belmont Park oval today.

The mile was covered in 1:41 3-5 and they pulled up at the mile and a furlong in the excellent time of 1:56 3-5.

Mrs. Hunter Of Dallas Beats Medalist In First Round Of Match Play In Women's Association Tournament

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Country Club, San Antonio, April 29.—The tradition that a medalist must never win a golf tournament was upheld here today when Mrs. Dan Chandler, Dallas, and medalist, fell from the fifteenth Texas Woman's Golf Association tournament by losing to Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Dallas. Mrs. Hunter sunk a 25 foot putt at the 17th green to win, 2 to 1.

Mrs. Hunter's sensational shot was only one of the several thrills crammed into second round championship matches. Mrs. O. A. Armstrong, El Paso, was eliminated when she lost to Mrs. R. R. Fisk, Wichita Falls, 4 and 3. Mrs. Fisk made the turn three up and on the back nine played steady golf to retain her lead.

COUNTRY CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, April 29. (AP)—In a long driving contest here today, staged as a special event of the Texas Woman's golf association state tournament, Mrs. J. A. Durbarrow, Houston, won with a total of 582 yards. She had drives of 191, 207 and 184 yards.

The gallery shock of the day centered on the Mrs. J. A. Durborrow and Mrs. C. P. Simpson title battle. Mrs. Duborrow, Houston, was a heavy favorite. At the turn Mrs. Simpson, Dallas, was square with her and on the back nine the Dallas contender held her own to win the eighteenth hole and the match, one up. The elimination of Mrs. Durborrow, removed from the championship bracket a player who was expected to reach the finals.

One of the finest comebacks of the day was recorded in the Mrs. M. M. Van Wormer and Mrs. E. R. Lederer match. At one time, Mrs. Van Wormer, Beaumont, breezed along with a four up lead, but she began to missing putts and Mrs. Lederer picked up a couple of holes to face a dormie two task at the 17th green. Mrs. Lederer won the 17th and 18th to square the match. They halved the 19th but Mrs. Lederer won the 20th and the match, one up.

Babe Ruth Continues To Improve; May Be Able To Play Sunday; Hard To Hold

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 29.—His 226 pounds draped in a pale green bathrobe, George Herman Ruth reclined on a pale green divan in his sumptuous Riverside Drive apartment today and talked of many things, but mostly of baseball and his ailing left leg.

"Yeah, I ought to be back in there Sunday," the Babe said as he carressed the bruised left thigh, injured in a collision with the former football player, Charles Berry, of the Red Sox, in Boston a week ago today. "I can stand on one leg and hit 'em."

"It's been coming along fine the last 48 hours. If it keeps on improving the doc says he'll probably let me go out to the stadium Sunday. Say, wasn't that terrible at Washington yesterday? I stayed awake until 4 o'clock thinkin' about that one. A three run lead in the ninth and then they blow it."

One of the Babe's visitors inquired as to the exact nature of his injury.

"Well, I don't exactly know," he said, and glanced toward Artie McGovern, his trainer.

"It's what they call a blood tumor," Artie explained. "Probably a hundred small blood vessels in there burst when the Babe and Berry collided. It will gradually clear up and the Babe ought to be as good as ever. The main thing, right now, is rest."

The NUT and CRACKER

In Which The Position Of The Brooklyn Robins Is Explained; Would Be Dizzy If On Top

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY
One-Time Big League Pitcher

BROOKLYN, April 29.—Because of having picked Brooklyn to win the National League pennant and to beat Washington in the world series of 1931, I have been the target for several jibes from the experts on the New York newspapers who picked the Giants.

But I think I can explain why the Robins started in reverse gear this year. Adolfo Luque mashed his thumb, Glenn Wright was taken down with flu, Fresco Thompson was spiked on the hand and Babe Herman is laboring under the delusion that a fly ball is something you are supposed to punt.

Last year the team was on top early in the season. Uncle Robbie and your correspondent have agreed that it is more important to be on top the day the season closes. The team that stays on top has a tendency to get dizzy. It looks as if the Robins are a little dizzy from being up there so long last year, but if they keep playing the way they did in Boston, they will not suffer from vertigo very much longer, unless you can get dizzy in a basement.

(Editor's Note: Well, maybe you can.)

Then, too, the Brooklyn prexy, Frank York, decided that the team couldn't afford to pay Dazzy Vance more than $23,000 this year, and practically forced Vance to sign at that disgraceful figure. You can't expect a pitcher to give his best efforts two hours a week for such chicken-feed.

Hurls First No-Hit, No-Run Game In Major Leagues For Two Years

NEW YORK, April 29. (AP)—Wesley Ferrell's no-hit, no-run game against St. Louis today was the first recorded in the major leagues for nearly two years. The last previous one was pitched by Carl Hubbell, of the New York Giants, on May 8, 1929. He beat Pittsburgh 11-0.

It had been more than ten years since a Cleveland pitcher had turned in a hitless shutout. On September 10, 1919, Raymond Caldwell pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Yankees.

Intramural Track Teams Meet Today

Coach James Harley Dallas' Liberal Arts track team will clash with the Engineer thinly clads at 5 o'clock this afternoon in a dual meet as part of the Texas Tech intramural track tournament. The meet was scheduled for Tuesday but bad weather caused the postponement.

Herschel Tadlock coach of the Engineers, states that his team is in fine shape and capable of giving the Dallasmen a run for the kale. Both teams are well balanced and contain some of the best track talent of the school. Since there is no regular Texas Tech Matador team, varsity men are eligible for intramural play.

In the first meet last week, the Army defeated the Aggie team by a close margin. The intramural track season will continue several weeks, the teams playing for the campus championship.

Jo Massey, Macon, Ga., amateur golfer, picks a rainy day to test his ability to enter a tournament.

Four new tennis courts have been completed for use at the University of Viginia, this spring.

Something To Think About

THE well known music of the hammer and the saw is due soon to crash into a sweping crescendo in Lubbock's downtown area and by midwinter the city's retail section complexion will be changed again.

Added to the activity at the scene of the new jail building will be work on the new federal building, contract for which has finally been let. On up the street, rebuilding of the Temple Ellis structure will soon be noted and cat-a-cornered from there will be noted the rebuilding of the Conley corner.

There is soon to be more building activity in downtown Lubbock than there has been since the erection of Hotel Hilton and the expansion of Hotel Lubbock—two projects carried on almost simultaneously. A year from now Lubbock will be an altogether different looking place.

These three big construction jobs are going to do a good turn for Lubbock. Many craftsmen will be steadily employed, much payroll money not now apparent will be turned loose in the purchase of many necessities and some luxuries. In addition, the appearance of the city will be vastly benefitted—convenience of the downtown area improved.

All in all, building activities already assured—plus minor projects which are bound to be commenced in the retail section—will do a lot toward wiping away tears of business woes which have attached themselves to the life of this community. To put it into every day language, "Lubbock Is Getting A Break" that will help a lot in the restoration of business to normalcy.

USES FOR EVEYTHING

Fashion through the ages has ransacked "frozen and torrid clime" alike to supply the fabric of vestment or footgear for civilized mankind. No sort of wild creature has been safe against hunter or trapper, unless the law forbade destruction or no part of its anatomy was suitable for covering human nakedness.

But a curious feature of modern fashions is that they utilize the skins of creatures that have generally been regarded as abhorrent or terrifying to human eyes.

The Biblical prophecy that the heel of man shall be set upon the serpent is fulfilled when one finds the skins of the boa and python made into costly shoes for ladies. All sorts of water snakes and desert lizards that bred terror or repulsion seem to have commercial value in this revolutionary age. Who knows but what the rattlesnake and the Gila monster may some day grace milady's wardrobe?

However, the history of commerce offers many instances where human uses have been made of things once despised and neglected. A notable instance is gasoline; and the reclamation of fuel from smoke is only in its infancy.

These strange modes of the moment teach man not to dismiss as mere pests the teeming life of the swamp. It is not pleasant nor safe for man to live among those reptiles, but he is gradually discovering uses for them in the fields of industry and for covering and ornamenting the human body.

"The masses" include all of those people who make less money than you make.

Practical Health Problems

INFANT PRODIGIES

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

In a recent consideration of the practical application of heredity, Paul Popenoe discusses particularly the question of the infant prodigy. He mentions the mathematical genius who, at the age of nine years, can multiply six figures by six figures and announce results; of the children who do calculus at the age of 11; of phenomenal memories capable of giving populations of cities, statistics concerning mountains, rivers and inventions.

A Norwegian student learned 408 figures in 104 minutes, and there are people who have been able to remember 2,000 words after one reading. It is obvious that such performances require not only a system but also some special gift in the form of unusual brain development.

Popenoe concludes as a result of his consideration that such mathematical talent runs in families, mentioning a French family which produced eight outstanding mathematicians in three generations. In the same way, lack of mathematical ability runs in families. Thus there was one family in Pennsylvania in which there was an inherited lack of sense of quantity and number.

When the father went to work in the morning he had to measure out the meat and potatoes that the mother was to cook for dinner, because if it were left to her, she had absolutely no sense of quantity and there was no telling how much or how little she would cook. This defect persisted through five generations.

One of the reasons for believing that mathematical and similar mental abilities are inherited is the fact that not all of the members of the family are gifted alike, the fact that the special ability appears at an early age in the gifted members, the fact that it behaves independently in transmission. Thus the special genius may appear without any other type of talent and may be lacking with almost any other type of talent.

Furthermore, the special gift comes out in spite of any discouragement. One of the greatest experts in the field of heredity attempted himself to become a lawyer, but the pull toward mathematics and statistics was so great in his case that even though he studied law he eventually had to follow his bent. Training is a great help to genius, but a genius is not greatly influenced by training.

In a study of 2,000 children in California, it was found that ability in arithmetic changed less than almost any other ability tested. The ability to spell correctly followed closely thereafter. Approximately 97 per cent of adult differences in the ability to do arithmetic and to spell could be ascribed to the original nature of the person concerned; by the time people had reached adult age, modifications of only three per cent had occurred due to experience and training.

Popenoe is convinced that spelling ability is as much determined by heredity as any ordinary mental talents. Children either spell well or badly, and his statistics indicate that there is little or no relation between spelling ability and various methods of instruction, school surroundings, or even foreign parentage. Among college students it has not been found that spelling ability is closely associated with general intelligence.

Campaign Pictured

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 29.—When the manager of one of our big industries of today wants to slash his payroll he is not so crass as to post a notice announcing it, in the fashion of a generation ago.

A manager who is a real diplomat often is clever enough to effect a wage reduction in the guise of an increase.

Of course the workers ultimately discover from the contents of their envelopes that the "readjustment" was not as satisfactory as they thought at first, but this realization may not dawn on them for quite a while—perhaps several weeks. By that time they are more or less accustomed to the lowered rate. Very likely there is some grumbling, but the manager is pretty sure it will subside before long.

SUCH, ANYWAY, is the story I hear at labor headquarters in Washington—at the A. F. of L. building on Massachusetts avenue, where most of the affiliated unions' national officials hold forth.

These executives say it is mighty difficult to point to a given concern in the country's major class of industries, and prove that it has cut wages. Nevertheless, they assert, workingmen (those who still have jobs) are very widely drawing reduced pay.

Piece work is mentioned as responsible for it in many cases. "A new tool, for example, is introduced," as one labor official explained to me, "which supposedly will enable the worker to increase his output. His price is cut correspondingly, but he is told to speed up and he will do as well as before, or better—but soon finds it hopeless."

BUDD L. McKILLIPS, an able and experienced investigator on the staff of the railroad brotherhoods' organ, "Labor," speaks of one giant industry which, while having reduced wages steadily, he says, "never has done so on a scale to create the same grievance for a large number of men at the same time."

He admits that he cannot determine the extent of these cuts exactly because:

"The rates and methods of pay are so varied and complicated that it is virtually impossible for an outsider to say that any certain amount is the average wage for rank and file workers."

AMONG REPORTS in labor circles is a persistent one that the pay reduction campaign is international—not haphazardly so, but in accordance with a carefully mapped-out plan.

Governor Montagu Norman of the Bank of England, who recently was in Washington in conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, is referred to as having come here in large part to seek the co-operation of American banking and industry in getting wages down to the diminished level of commodity prices. British workers, he is said to have represented to Secretary Mellon, are likely to be less resentful if aware that labor deflation is in progress in the United States as well as the British Isles.

Definite verification of these rumors is unobtainable thus far, and probably always will be, since well founded or not, it is highly unlikely that any record would be kept of such conversations.

MANY labor leaders certainly do, at all events, believe that an understanding exists between international bankers, looking toward a world cut in wages, not to a common level, but in proportion to the cost of living in the various important industrial countries.

An international angle to the situation has but very lately begun to be talked of and comment concerning it is decidedly hazy.

As may readily be imagined, however, American workers are far from disposed to look kindly on a program to sacrifice their interests to big business as a world-wide proposition, and if the idea solidifies in their minds that a scheme to that end is simmering, the outcry is sure to be terrific.

THE WHOLE wage reduction situation is new.

Labor obviously has been afraid of pay cuts ever since early in the depression, but pay cuts only begun to be coherently urged within the last few weeks—though financial and industrial magnates may have been waiting considerably longer than that for what they believed would be a favorable moment to start the downward pressure.

There is no question that at last it has begun.

How much internationalism is connected with it is problematical.

NEW BIOGRAPHY

Agitation over the facts of history, which has arisen since fiction was succeeded in public interest by biography, has had one excellent result. It has set many writers to an examination of the truth behind historical reputations, and, while there has been a large amount of humanistic twaddle to endure, a few shaded figures are being studied in clearer light.

One among these is Aaron Burr, whom American schoolboys for generations were told was an unequivocal conspirator. An author is now said to be at work upon a "sympathetic biography" of Benedict Arnold, despised of all school children.

Another victim of partisanship to obtain a new and fairer survey is Andrew Johnson. The new biography exalts him for the very things for which the old biographers and school textbooks crucified him. It makes out a good case against his radical persecutors, proving beyond question to the open-minded reader that President Johnson's policy toward the South of the Reconstruction Period was that of President Lincoln and his assassination probably saved the latter from the baseless impeachment proceedings which fell to his successor. His only "crime" was a policy toward the South of mercy, cooperation and protection from political thievery.

This new school of biography is revolutionary in two directions, being iconoclastic toward the idols and little gods of history and idolatrous toward the infamous "sinners" of history. Both attitudes are equally reprehensible in the eyes of those possessed of immutable prejudices and equally laudable in the eyes of realists with a liberal viewpoint.

THE DOOR OF DEATH.—Every three years about 2,000 applicants enter the Examinations Hall in Peking, China, to take the competitive examinations for civil service. These examinations consist of physical, mental and spiritual tests, usually lasting from 48 to 72 hours, during which time students are under constant strain. Usually a few competitors collapse during the ordeal and as they are carried out an intermission is announced to witness the ceremony as their bodies are carried through the "Door of Death." See "Hall for the Pursuit of Wisdom," by Kang Yu-Wu, or "Imperial Academy in Peking," by Prof. Schmidt.

THESEUS—FATHER OF BOXING.—"Pugulism" comes from the Latin of "pugil," and means fighting with clenched fists. But the game is presumed to have been originated in Greece by Theseus, son of Argus King of Athens, about 900 B. C., and gets its first mention in Homer's Iliad. Theseus is pictured as a youth who was patron saint of the undertakers and embalmers union of Athens and vicinity, and the game as invented by him was fought with gloves studded with spikes, resulting in the death of one and sometimes both of the participants. A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

The famous Hardway diamonds are stolen and a gang led by a person called the Funny Toff, who no one has seen, but who is identified by his maniacal laughter at the scenes of his crimes is suspected. Inspector Brooks is first put on the trail, but his body is returned in a packing case to Sir Edric Conway, Penhampton, who is in love with pretty Alison Weatherleigh, is put on the trail and at midnight discoverers the body of one Thomas Herridge, a rival gangster. One of the diamonds has been placed on the dead man's chest. Dick and Detective Pollard seem to lose all clues. Dick finally asks Sir Edric to make an examination of the packing case in which Brooks' body was returned. Dick discoveres a piece of mud in the case from Brooks' shoe. Upon being analyzed the discovery is made it probably comes from a lonely hill country known as the Mendips. Dick pays the locality a visit to investigate some old lead mine workings. In the hills, Dick discovers an abandoned old mining building belonging to a lead mining syndicate. Summoned home by a telegram signed Alison, Dick learns next morning that Mr. Ibbotson's house has been robbed of some famous rubies. Inspector Pollard finds a perfect finger print on the door knob of the pantry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 29

Pollard's first act on reaching Scotland Yard was to take the tin containing the door-knob to the finger print department, and to give the official in charge there certain instructions. He then requested an interview with the Assistant Commissioner, which was readily granted.

"Well, Pollard, what do you make of this business of the Maharajah's Rubies?" was Sir Edric's greeting. "I'd like to discuss it with you, sir, if I may," replied Pollard gravely. "I think I've a line upon it already."

"Good man!" exclaimed Sir Edric. "Fire away. What have you discovered?"

"I'll give you the details later, sir. The theft was organized by some one who must have been acquainted with Mr. Ibbotson and his home in Park Lane. It has evidently been in preparation for some time. The first move was made last September, when Mr. Ibbotson's keys were taken from his pocket at the Eros night-club, and wax impressions made of the key of the safe and the front door."

Sir Edric smiled. "I shouldn't be surprised at anything happening at some of these places," he remarked. "You've no clue to who took the keys? One of the waiters, I suppose?"

Pollard shook his head. "One of the members, I fancy, sir," he replied. "You get all sorts of queer people at these posh places. Why, I spent three or four nights at the Eros myself, when I was looking into that Crampton affair, and jolly glad I was when it was over. Well, what's one man's meat is another man's poison, I suppose, sir. But it's a queer thing that this should have happened in September, long before Mr. Ibbotson bought the rubies."

"I don't think that need worry you, Pollard," remarked Sir Edric. "I imagine the idea then was merely to secure a means of access to Mr. Ibbotson's safe. You see, he is pretty well known as a buyer of valuables. He deals in these things as a sort of hobby. I have no doubt that when he bought the rubies, he had some customer in his mind who would take them off his hands at a profit. This habit of his being known, it was pretty certain that sooner or later the safe would contain something worth going for."

"Ah, that explains it, sir," replied Pollard, in a tone of satisfaction. "Now, yesterday afternoon Mr. Ibbotson had arranged to go down for a couple of nights to his son's place in Surrey. The thief must have known of this, so far as I can see, and decided to go for the rubies in his absence. Anyhow, he rang up Mr. Ibbotson just before he started, saying he was his solicitor's clerk, and gave a message about some property that Mr. Ibbotson is buying. Now, that shows that the thief must have known a good deal about his affairs. At all events, he knew the name of the solicitor and the fact that Mr. Ibbotson was buying property."

"I'm afraid that leaves you a pretty wide field to cover," said Sir Edric. "Ibbotson, as I told you, is a retired money-lender, and I expect that lots of unfortunate people have good cause to know the name of his solicitors. As to the purchase of the property, well, Ibbotson, by all accounts, is very fond of boasting to his many acquaintances of his means and the use he makes of them. I expect plenty of

Menace Looms In Oil Field

Pollution Of Water By Oil Operations Charged; Tucker Declares Every Effort Will Be Made In Cleanup

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, said today the commission was facing "a pollution menace without parallel," in the new East Texas oil fields.

"Despite vigorous effort by the department to avert damage, Many valuable bodies of water are being ruined by oil and complaints are pouring into the department from dairyman, stockman and farmers in the watersheds of the fields and from cities whose water supply is being menaced," Tucker stated.

Tucker promised nothing would be left undone in bringing about a cleanup. He said cooperation of the operators was being asked and where such withheld prosecutions would follow.

Seven men already had been detailed to the work. H. E. Faubion, director of anti-pollution activities and Charles Jones, director of law enforcement were in charge. "If this force is inadequate, additional men will be detailed and there will be no halting of effort until the fields are definitely clean of all polluting matter," Tucker said.

HOUSTON, April 29. (AP)—Mrs. T. P. Lee today filed suit for divorce from her wealthy husband, oil man.

She alleged cruel treatment.

Mrs. Lee obtained in district court an injunction preventing the transfer of ownership of properties or removal of stocks or bonds or money from banks during the pendency of the suit.

Mr. Lee was ordered to file by May 15 an inventory of all properties.

The couple married in 1900.

Taste the World's Rarest Coffees

... Grown in the Mountains of Central America

Primitive ox-carts bring rare coffees to market in Central America.

(EWING GALLOWAY)
Antigua Coffee Berries. One of the world-famous Central American coffees used to give Folger's its rare flavor.

Do you know this new, rare flavor in coffee that is captivating the world?

We don't want to tell you how good it is.

We want you to taste it instead. For 8 out of 10 people who drink this coffee for 3 days say that it actually spoils your taste for less flavory kinds.

A Different Region

It comes from coffees found only in certain tiny volcanic districts along the West Coast of Central America. A region that, experts concede, produces probably the most remarkable coffees in the world. Coffees with twice the richness—twice the flavor. Coffees from which Nature leaves out the "rough" offensive oils.

Introduced by Folger

Years ago this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco, where it was introduced by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it?

"They tell me in the finger-print department that there can be no doubt of it, sir," replied Pollard. "Now, as it happens, I secured them all myself. And as I'll explain, sir, I know whom they belong to."

"Can you lay your hands on him?" inquired Sir Edric eagerly.

"I think so, sir," replied Pollard. "But there are one of two things I'd like to explain first. As I told you, sir, I have been watching the Margate Jetty at Wapping. I arranged with the landlord that all the glasses used there of an evening were to be put aside. I had a man go around in the morning, before they were washed, and dust them over. I've got quite a decent collection of prints, that way. Most of them were the same, night after night. They'd be the regular customers. But in some cases, I only got one print, which means that the owner of it only visits the place occasionally. Now, sir, the photograph marked A belongs to one of these occasional visitors."

Cotton Cotton Trading Rather Sluggish — Livestock Hog Reports Show Decline — Grain Good Gains In Wheat Scored

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(AP)—Trading in cotton was rather sluggish here today and the course of prices was downward. The depressing influences were lower cables and weakness in stocks. While there was a slight rally at one time owing to a bullish weekly weather and crop summary it failed to hold.

Liverpool cables came in 2 to 4 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there was scattered liquidation. Manchester cabled that cloth sales were below production and are forcing lower prices.

A private authority reported that the crop had made normal progress and that the probable decrease in acreage would be about 10 per cent.

July closed at 10.13 down 10 points net for the day and October closed at 10.43 down 10 points net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 29. AP)—The action of the stock market appeared to be the dominating influence in cotton today. Rallies of a few points from an opening decline followed a little buying on unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather bureau, but prices eased again owing to th weakness in stocks and reached the lowest point of the day in the late trading.

July sold off to 10.12 or 10 points net lower and within 7 points of the season's low record established last December and closed at the lowest. The general market closed barely steady at net decline of 10 to 14 points.

Liverpool cables reported an inactive market with liquidation absorbed by trade calling. May notices issued here were estimated at 2,600 bales.

Waves Of Liquidation Sent Through Stock Market With Plunge U. S. Steel

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, April 29.—A nine point wave of liquidation through the stock plunge by United States steel common sent market today.

Other issues suffered much loss severely than the old industrial favorite, so that the average decline was held to 2.4 points, less than many other breaks the market has had this year, but it was enough to drop the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite price fractionally under the lows of last December to a new minimum since the summer of 1927. Sales totaled 3,200,000 shares.

Wall street certainly found no cheer in the steel corporation's quarterly statement, and apparently was unwilling to believe that the declaration of the regular dividend meant the maintenance of the payment in the event earnings continue unfavorable. Bethelehem steel dropped 6 5-8 points.

lic as well as the parents of children, to visit the display.

Requires Much Time

Several hours would be necessary to make a round of the room and see the major exhibits and spend some time with each one. Probably an all day tour would be required for a close inspection of every item.

Work of the children of the lower grades consists mostly of pictures, drawings and the like. These, while necessarily crude compared to finished productions by older students, never-the-less are worth seeing. They show the possibilities of future years.

Display By Groups

In the upper grades, especially the junior and senior high schools, the displays are by groups, such as home economics, vocational work, art, Spanish, chemistry and physic students, sewing classes, geography students, English, history, civil government and the like.

The home economics work includes displays of dresses and aprons made by the girls, both for their own personal use and for other members of the family. There are several groups of dresses for dolls, made just like those for girls. Other clothing displays are shown.

Lubbock Products

Near one of the entrances is a huge card board showing the things made in Lubbock. It is interesting and instructive. There are loaves of bread, candy, mattresses, packing house products, jewelry, doors and window sashes, floor sweep, coffee, ice cream cones, monuments and other items.

Reproduction of a group of Indian pueblioes is another interesting exhibit, as well as other Spanish and Indian displays.

The work of the vocational boys is interesting. There are several cedar chests, large and small, music cabinets, book ends, tables, inlaid trays, dining tables, end tables, book cases and other articles made of wood. Most of them are finished but there are several that are not.

History students prepared a map showing the agricultural and mineral products of the state and also the "six flags" under which this state has been governed.

can solve the problem of unemployment is very limited and, indeed, there is great danger that unemployment insurance would tend to increase the incidence of the very ailment it was intended to remedy. It should not be implied from this that the cause of such a situation, if it should transpire, would be due entirely to the insured persons themselves. It is quite posible that the existnece of insurance sufficient in its scope, would tend to make employers and even the state, as well as the workmen, more careless about the essential evil of unemployment itself, and would tend to induce them to relax the efforts they would otherwise to making to diminish a state of unemployment."

the robbery. He grabbed his shotgun and started across the street, arriving in front of the place as the bandit was about to emerge. The bandit struck him down with a bullet and then fired others into the prostrate form.

Search Widespread

He then made his escape. Officers searched and searched and a clue that a former convict was implicated in the case was found. Later officers traced McKee to the southern part of West Texas and there he was captured.

Evidence connected McKee with a visit to Dawson county. The case was hard fought, the family of the accused spending everything they could to defend him.

Judge Gordon B. McGuire heard the case in the district court room at Lamesa. Thomas L. Price, then of Tahoka but now of Post, was the prosecutor. He was assisted by A. W. Gibson and J. E. Garland, the former then county attorney.

Royal Albert Hall, London, has installed its own printing plant, painters and carpenters' shops and blacksmith's forg.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—Hog trade around the eleven markt circuit was on a steady to 25 lower basis with most points reporting a general decline of 10-15. Current prices on the lighter cights are as low or lower than at any time this year, but strong weight butchers a little higher than the low spot in February and March. The day's extreme top of 7.30 was paid on early rounds at Chicago. Total offerings were around 83,100 as compared with 83,997 a week ago.

Killing classes of sheep found a slow outlet at steady to 25 lower rates, old crop lambs and aged stock generally showing the most loss. The upply approximating 89,500 was 5,000 more than last Wednesday.

Aggregate receipts of cattle were estimated at 39,700 against 41,652 a week ago and 30,713 a year ago.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, April 29. (AP)—Hogs 800; truck hogs steady to strong; no good rail hogs offered; truck top 685; bulk medium to choice 170 to 240 pound truck hogs 675 to 685; carload packing grades and heavy butchers 550 and 600; packing sows steady, mostly 550.

Cattle 2,700, including 249 cattle through and 400 calves; slaughter steers very dull at week's full declines; practically no morning sales; other classes slaughter cattle about steady; few sales good fat yearlings 7.00 to 7.50; some fat cows 4.25 to 4.50; butcher grades around 3.50, low cutter sorts 2.50 to 2.85, one load heavy bulls 3.50; stock yearlings fairly active, steady to strong, five loads 478 pound stock steer yearlings 7.25; two cars 540 pound stockers 7.75, one load good stock heifers 6.75; one load heavy slaughter calves 5.60; about steady, few choice vealers up to 10.00, 3 loads good vealers unsold.

Delinquent Tax

traffic laws in cases of serious accident.

Seeking to meet objections advanced by the opposition, Representatives Keller and Bradley agreed to several amendments.

Keller claimed the bill would reduce the number of fatalities by at least 20 per cent. He estimated 1,500 lives were lost annually in Texas because of reckless and careless driving.

The main argument against the bill was that it was not needed. Enforcement of present traffic laws was given as the best means of holding accidents to a minimum.

Although introduced late yesterday, a bill by Representative Keller of Dallas which proposed repeal of the newly enacted cigarette tax was today recalled from the committee to which it had been sent. The house then reconsidered the vote by which Keller was authorized to introduce the bill, and voted 60 to 53 against its second introduction. Representatives charged Keller took unfair advantage of the house by introducing the bill while its members were paying little or no attention.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 29. (AP)—Grain demand, slow; quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid: Wheat No. 1 ordinary hard $1 to $1 1-2; No. 1 hard 14 per cent protein $1 1-2 to $2 1-2c; No. 1 hard 15 per cent protein $2 1-2 to $3 1-2. Corn, No. 2 mixed 65 to 66 1-2; No. 2 white or yellow 67 to 68 1-2; oats, No. 2 red 39 to 39 1-2; (No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 38 to 38c). Barley No. 2 nominally 53 to 54c. Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.26 to 1.28 No. 2 kaffir $1.16 to $1.19.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 29. AP)—Nothwithstanding the handicap of a weak stock market, wheat prices scored good gains today, but selling ascribed to Omaha sources brought about a late reaction. Persistent dry weather over the spring wheat area of this country and Canada, with increasing likelihood of material curtailment of 1931 wheat production in Canada, stimulated demand for wheat. There were also forecasts of a slashing reduction of 56 cents a bushel in Germany's wheat import duty within a week.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-2 cent lower to 3-8 1-2 higher, corn 3-8 off to 1-2 up, oats at 1-8 decline to 3-8 advance, and provisions showing 5 cents setback.

trucks to cart the necessary supplies to the scene of operations. If so, the shooting will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Sinclair Absent

Harry F. Sinclair did not come to the field today and it could not be ascertained if he would be on the ground to supervise operations.

Five charred bodies lay in Longview morgues. Two other bodies were cremated in the flames at the site of the derrick and late today had not been recovered.

Disclaim Theory

Although Sinclair officials at Tyler intimated today there was a possibility the well was ignited by incendiarists, that theory was scouted by both W. Tom Cole, owner of the lease and eye-witness of the explosion, and by Sheriff Martin Hayes of Gregg county.

The suspicion of Sinclair officials as to possible incendiary origin of the fire was based upon a recent letter sent by Texas ranger Captain Frank Hamer to oil companies warning of a possible communist plot to damage oil properties, in connection with which he was investigating recent thefts of nitroglycerin.

Flames Increase

Meanwhile, the rain made roads through the East Texas red sand so sticky heavy trucks could hardly get about and while this new cause for delay intervened, the flames increased. Oil men estimated that fully 1,500 barrels of oil hourly were being lapped up.

Bodies in Longview morgues awaiting burial were those of George Albright, Carnegie City, Pa; Roy Blankenship, Tulsa, Okla.; Bill Caslin, Sr., and Bill Caslin, Jr., of Winona, Okla.; and Virgil Woltz of Hunter, Okla.; Bodies of Bob Murdock of Orlanda, Okla., and Bill Harroun, of Canadian, Okla., had not been recovered from the fire. Two men, John Keys of Oklahoma City and Frank Felouck of Woodfield, Ohio, groaned with pain on hospital beds in Lonview from their burns. Deputies were detailed by Sheriff Hayes to patrol a wide area adjacent to the burning well, refusing to allow sightsers nearer than several miles.

Cole Tells of Fire

Cole, his hands bandaged from burns he received when he tried to rescue some of the workmen said he was one of the first to see the first bit of fire. He said sparks flew when the collar of the drill stem in the well came in contact with one of the clamps the men worked with in their efforts to harness the wild producer which had raged for thirty hours prior to the explosion.

Cole related some of the horrors he witnessed while a nurse, Mrs. Virginia Myrtle Jergensen, bandaged his seared hands.

Martin Cole, just a few minutes beforehand, had ridden his horse to the well location with a bucket of water to quench the thirst of the men who had been putting in long hours of hard work.

"I would give five thousand dollars if I had not taken that water down there," he said today. "Those fellows came off the job one by one and tilted the bucket to drink. Five minutes later they were burned beyond recognition."

"It was just like an Indian war dance," Cole senior explained. "Their blazing clothes reminded me of the feathers Comanche Indians wore, and those poor fellows were running wildly, calling for help every jump.

"I saw the spark the instant it ignited the oil. In less than a second those men were in a mass of fire. Before they moved out of their tracks they knew they were done for—burned to death."

league, the Rio Grande league and the Central league. The last three years he spent managing clubs in the latter loop, spending the 1928 and 1929 seasons at Akron, Ohio, and last year at Richmond.

In his time he has discovered and developed such players as Joe McGinnity, renowned National league pitcher, and Joe Tinker, famous infielder. Recently he groomed such players as Leslie Mallon, second baseman with the Fort Worth championship club last year, and Walter Euller, Spudder third baseman last season. Both started out with him in 1928 at Akron.

McCloskey was signed to manage the Dayton club in the Central league this year but the league voted to disband temporarily.

The original West Texas league disbanded after the 1929 season.

Five Negroes Die In Blaze

Thought Mentally Deficient, Five Were Kept Locked Up In Wing Of Dormitory Used For County Poor

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., April 29. (AP)—Five negroes, described as "mentally deficient," were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed a wing of the dormitory of the Montgomery county poor farm, 20 miles from here.

The dead, all of Montgomery county, are: John McElroy, 45, Dave Gallaher, 21; Leslie Hunt, 25; William Jarrett, 60, and William Newell, 75.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined. Damage was estimated at $1,000 by James Powell, superintendent of the farm.

The dead negroes were considered by Powell as possibly "criminally insane" and were kept locked up at night in a separate wing of the dormitory. Three other negroes who were kept in the same wing, but not locked-up, escaped and spread the alarm. By the time the superintendent was reached the fire had gained such headway it was impossible to rescue the five men.
