JURY FINDS WAGGONER GUILTY

CONGRESS TAKES A HOLIDAY AFTER TILT WEDNESDAY

DEMOCRATIC FILIBUSTER IN SENATE TO BE RESUMED FRIDAY.

SHIP SUBSIDY BATTLE IN SENATE NEXT WEEK

President Does Little Work and Has Dinner in Room With Mrs. Harding.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Congress, with the house having passed the shipping bill and the senate still in the quandaries of a democratic filibuster on the Dyer anti-lynching bill, had suspended activities with other branches of the federal government here today over Thanksgiving day.

At the white house also President Harding had planned to do only a little work and spend the day quietly after having dinner with Mrs. Harding in her sick room, whose condition now permits her to spend part of each day in an easy chair.

The house took an adjournment over the holiday immediately after passing the administration shipping bill yesterday, 205 to 184, with 60 republicans joining the opposition and four democrats voting for the bill. The senate fight over the bill, which faces threats to delay if not prevent its passage there, is expected to get under way next week, the senate committee getting the measure Monday and planning to report it as passed by the house.

There was no end of the democratic filibuster in sight when the senate adjourned yesterday over Thanksgiving and the situation was declared by some to point to its continuation until the extra session adjourns sine die Saturday night. Although the motion to adjourn over today after a five hour session yesterday came from Senator Lodge, who as republican leader had presided over the republican caucus Tuesday at which it was resolved to hold the senate in session Thursday if necessary to break the filibuster, this was outside of any intention on the republican side to drop the fight in behalf of the bill. And equally determined last night were the democrats to continue the filibuster.

JURY IS UNABLE TO AGREE IN TRIAL OF ARTHUR BURCH CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—It was a happy Thanksgiving day for Arthur V. Burch, who was said to agree with his chief counsel, Paul Schenck, that the disagreement last night of the jury in Burch's third trial for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy was "the equivalent of an acquittal."

Burch laughed aloud when Judge John W. Shenck polled the jurors and each declared "there was absolutely no chance" for an agreement.

This came after more than 30 hours had passed since the case had been given to the jury and six ballots had been taken. The first was the same as the last—seven to five for acquittal—the jurors said after they had been discharged.

Judge Shenck thanked the jurors and told them he was certain they had voted according to their consciences.

The third trial of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, jointly indicted with Burch for the murder of Kennedy, her former sweetheart, is set to begin next Monday. Indications are, however, it will be postponed as her attorneys are busy with a case on trial in the federal court.

There has been no announcement from the district attorney's office concerning a fourth trial for Burch.

WILLIAM BROSS LLOYD AND 15 ASSOCIATES IN PRISON ARE RELEASED

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Freedom and Thanksgiving arrived almost simultaneously for William Bross Lloyd, wealthy radical, and 15 associates, at liberty today after serving eight days of their sentences for violation of the Illinois anti-syndicalism act.

Governor Len Small commuted their sentences late yesterday. Shortly before 11 o'clock last night Lloyd and the six others sentenced to Joliet penitentiary for one to five years, walked from the prison, free men. Three hours later the nine men confined in the Cook county jail, all sentenced to serve one year, were released.

In announcing executive clemency for the convicted men, Governor Small said he was in accord with the dissenting opinion written by Justice Orrin N. Carter, who questioned the constitutionality of the law.

RUNS 10 MILES IN 1 HOUR, 1 MINUTE AND 10 SECONDS

DETROIT Nov. 30.—Schou Christensen, star sprinter of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, won the fourth annual ten mile road race of the Irish-American Athletic club here today. His time was one hour, one minute and ten seconds.

DECLARES AMERICA SHOULD CANCEL PART OF DEBT OF ALLIES

SUGGESTION IS MADE BY THE PRESIDENT OF PRINCETON UNIVERSITY.

SPEAKS AT ANNIVERSARY OF THE RICE INSTITUTE

Demand In Full Would Mean Payment of Debt Twice Over, He States.

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—Declaring that America should cancel at least part of her war debt from the allies, President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university, in an address here today asserted that now is the time for the United States to guage whether the war sacrifices of the country have been in vain.

Dr. Hibben spoke at the tenth anniversary services of Rice Institute.

A great toll, he said, was "paid by the allies in the year when we were in preparation to enter the war. If we exact further payment in money we will be demanding that the allies pay the debt they owe us twice over.

"The indemnity given us by China on account of the Boxer uprising was found to be larger than the claims of our American citizens," he said. "Consequently we returned $13,000,000 to China. China, on her part, was so impressed with our generosity that their government regarded this as a sacred fund and set it aside for the education of Chinese youths who were to be sent from time to time to our schools and universities in the United States."

If the United States cancel a part of her war debt, President Hibben declared, "we should very carefully safeguard our generosity through the demand that the nations of Europe receiving this consideration from our hands should balance their budgets so as to wipe out the present annual deficits. They cannot do this, however, with out very substantial reduction of all their army and navy appropriations. To reduce their armaments and war appropriations they must be delivered from the bondage of fear, the fear of invasion and the scourge of war. This is particularly true in the case of France. An assurance of this kind can be gained only by means of the combined authority of the great powers of the world recognizing the sovereignty of their common cause, as in the days of the world war, to the end that there may be peace on earth and good will toward men.

"I do not know whether to regard it a tragedy or a comedy that we should in the present world situation be represented at the various conferences abroad by one whose function is that of a spectator."

A breakfast for the alumnae of the institution given by the woman's club was held this morning at the University club. This evening the alumni will have a dinner at the university commons. Plays by the dramatic club this evening and a football game with Arizona this afternoon are other features of the day.

Preacher Active In 'Klan' Organization Ordered to Explain

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Rev. Oscar Heywood, evangelist of Calvary Baptist church of this city, who recently defied Mayor Hylan to prevent him from organizing a ku klux klan in New York City, last night was ordered by his board of deacons to appear before it and explain himself.

The decision of the deacons, said S. Raymond Estey, chairman, meant that the Rev. Heywood would be examined to ascertain whether in his activities as a klan organizer he "violated the principles of the church or impaired his usefulness to it." The date for Rev. Heywood's appearance before the church board was not fixed.

CLEMENCEAU WILL SPEAK IN ST. LOUIS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

STOPS AT SPRINGFIELD EN ROUTE TO LAY WREATH ON LINCOLN'S TOMB.

ATTENDS PERFORMANCE CHICAGO GRAND OPERA

Further "Dissipates" By Appearing For First Time In His Top Hat.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Georges Clemenceau, France's war time premier, prepared to take the road again today on his self-imposed mission of winning American support for France. The next stop on his itinerary is Springfield, Ill., where he was scheduled to lay a wreath on Lincoln's tomb and deliver a brief eulogy this afternoon. He is due in St. Louis for his next big speech tomorrow.

The Tiger arose early to board his private car, which was attached to a 10 o'clock train. He did not rise as early as his customary 4 o'clock, however. For last night he stayed up until after eleven.

Making his last public appearance at the opera, he disclosed for the first time in America "mon tube"—his top hat. He had declared... in New York he wouldn't wear it because his soft one felt and looked better. But, as he was dissipating, he decided to do it up brown.

Clemenceau was given a long ovation when he entered the Potter Palmer box at the end of the prologue to "The Snow Maiden."

A few minutes later, the curtain rising on the first act disclosed Eduardo Cotreuil, French basso, holding a big tri-color, and Cyrena Van Gordon draped in the stars and stripes, with the entire company behind them. Cotreuil sang the Marseillaise and Van Gordon the Star Spangled Banner.

When they had finished, another long wave of applause for the Tiger swept the house and he arose and bowed again.

Then he settled down and became so interested in the opera that he stayed until the end of the third act—nearly half past ten.

Before he went to bed he dictated a Thanksgiving message to America, declaring the reception he had received and the interest with which his message had been heard gave him much to be thankful for.

PROMINENT GREEK MILITARY LEADERS ARE UNDER ARREST

LONDON, Nov. 30.—A Reuter's dispatch from Athens says that Generals Papoulas, Dousmanis and Valetias have been arrested.

General Dousmanis is one of the most prominent military figures in Greece. He has served as chief of the general staff and with the Greek military mission at Constantinople, and last September was appointed commander in chief of the army in a last unsuccessful attempt to stem the tide of the Turkish advance. A dispatch from Athens on September 30 said he was among the persons held in prison in connection with the Greek disaster.

General Papoulas, also a former commander of the Greek army, was reported last September to have joined the cause of the revolutionaries. He was called as a witness at the trial of the cabinet members, six of whom were executed last Tuesday.

REFUGEES FROM SMACKOVER GATHER IN UNION COUNTY

MONROE, LA., Nov. 30.—Many of the 2,000 persons who fled from the Smackover oil fields following raids by "vigilantes" are congregating in Union county and at Eldorado and are threatening to return to seek revenge, according to a dispatch received from Eldorado.

However, Ouachita county authorities have given assurances there will be no further disturbances. Sheriff Ed Harper at Camden, Ark., declared today the man killed by "vigilantes" Tuesday night was J. G. Woods, 35, a Mississippian, who was riddled when he refused to halt. Twelve shots were fired into his body when he resisted an attempt to whip him.

A resort operated by "Slim" Sanders was raided and the building torn down. It was a two-story frame structure. Sanders had previously been warned to leave and he was not found.

Sheriff Harper reported that the cleanup was thorough and that approximately 2,000 persons had departed, including 400 who were on the payrolls of the various oil companies. He said that he does not think the Ku Klux Klan was responsible for the raids but that the better element of oilfield workers who resented the recent series of murders and robberies conducted the raids.

An Ordinary Thanksgiving

By BERTON BRALEY

We're thankful in a humdrum way,
Without much chattering about it,
That we've a hearty meal today,
We wouldn't care to go without it;
We're thankful for the sheltering roof
Which humdrum labor keeps above us,
And for the friends who've met the proof
Of time and trouble, and who love us.

We're thankful that we still find fun,
Yes, fun that shakes the very rafter,
In just the ordinary run
Of simple jokes and hearty laughter.
Our jokes may be a trifle trite,
And captious critics might abhor them,
But they give us a rich delight;
Such as they are, we're thankful for them!

We're thankful that the family
Again is gathered here together,
Deep in our hearts we're glad to be
Undoubtedly birds of a feather.
We're thankful for our trials past,
Which, maybe, made us stronger, truer;
We're thankful that they didn't last,
And hope, in future, they'll be fewer.

We're thankful that our wordly lot
Is not so bad, and that ambition
Still stirs in us, so we are not
Quite satisfied with our condition;
We do not whine, we do not crow,
But each before his heaping plateful
Gives thanks, and hopes next year will show
More reasons still for being grateful!

LARGE GATHERING OF TEACHERS FOR STATE CONVENTION

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—Twenty-five hundred teachers and others interested in school matters were here this morning for the forty-fourth annual convention of the state teachers association. The total registration is expected to reach 5,000 before tomorrow.

The advance registration is 12,000, equal to that of the last state convention at Dallas, which was the largest in the history of the association.

Among outstanding figures who have arrived are M. H. Moore, superintendent of city schools of Fort Worth, president of the association, and S. M. N Marrs of Austin, newly elected state superintendent of public instruction.

Superintendent Marrs has initiated a movement among the teachers for the calling of a constitutional convention to replace the present state constitution, which leading teachers claim is a handicap to a suitable readjustment of the school system of Texas.

MAN ARRESTED IN DALLAS WANTED IN KANSAS CITY CASE

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—Charges of robbery by assault and violence were filed against Clarence Whalon and George Arlington in connection with the robbery of two agents of a chain system of grocery stores here November 15. The charges allege the men held up Everett Knox, one of the agents, and robbed him of approximately $6,000.

Arlington has been identified as "Irwin C. Jarvis," said to be wanted in Kansas City for an alleged highway robbery of a bank messenger there January 23, 1922, the local police said.

DRUG CLERK BEATEN TO DEATH AND BODY IS FOUND IN RIVER

TEXARKANA, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—Apparently beaten to death with a blunt instrument the body of Hugh Throckmorton, Wilton, Ark., drug clerk, was found in the Little river about a mile and a half from the home of Tom Owens, who had already been arrested in connection with Throckmorton's disappearance last Thursday.

Throckmorton and Euclyd Cooper were threatened by Owens when they went to his home Thursday, according to Cooper's story. He escaped by jumping in the river, he said, charging that Owens fired at him. Throckmorton was not seen again until his body was found yesterday.

Newberry, has indicated his willingness to continue at the head of the city railway system after he takes up his duties at Washington, and the acting mayor, John C. Lodge, and the street railway commission have agreed to the proposal.

Under this arrangement, which is permissible, the corporation counsel has ruled, Mr. Couzens would continue at the head of one of the biggest undertakings of his administration.

GREEK CABINET MEMBERS WENT JAUNTILY TO DEATH BEFORE FIRING SQUAD

By Associated Press.

ATHENS, Nov. 30.—The six cabinet ministers executed here last Tuesday went courageously, even jauntily to their death.

Theotokis, Baltazzis and General Hadjanestis wore their monocles as they took their places in the little line before the firing squads.

Stratos smilingly lit a cigaret as he took his place. Then he handed the silver case to the officer in charge of the execution as a sign of his appreciation of the latter's courtesy and tact in the exercises of a painful duty.

Theotokis and Baltazzis chatted gaily with Gounaris as the brief final arrangements were made. Protopapadakis was silent and General Hadjanestis wore his usual air of nervousness and restlessness.

PLAN CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS FOR LAST NEXT WEEK

WILL DISCUSS MATTERS PRELIMINARY TO BRUSSELS MEETING.

FURTHER POSTPONEMENT OPPOSED BY THE FRENCH

Urge That Every Day's Delay Renders the Situation More Complicated.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The French, Italian and Belgian premiers will meet Prime Minister Bonar Law in London at the end of next week for a discussion preliminary to the Brussels financial and reparations conference.

If Premier Poincare has his way, the allied statesmen will go direct from London to Brussels and the conference there will open by Dec. 16. The view in French official circles is that public opinion in France will not stand for further postponement of the Brussels meeting and that every day's delay makes the situation worse.

The provisional moratorium granted to the Germans at the Paris conference ends on December 31, another reparations payment is due in January on the old schedule and the French government is unwilling to accept any temporary makeshift.

There is a disposition in France to consider favorably a settlement whereby Germany would be granted more time in which to pay, provided she would give guarantees of good faith. The general opinion in political circles is that M. Poincare has committed himself so far to a program of vigorous action that, in the absence of such guarantees, he will be obliged to act or resign.

The plan of penalties discussed at the recent meeting in the Elysee palace, although new only in the details of execution, is also likely to come up at the London meeting. The regret of the government at the full publicity given the Elysee meeting is said to be due to the fact that it wished to reserve the first full statement of the project for Mr. Bonar Law.

EXPECT NO FURTHER TROUBLE RESULT OF BATTLE IN OIL FIELD

ELDORADO, ARK., Nov. 30.—Threats of "vigilantes" who Tuesday night visited Ouchita City in the Smackover oil field near here, and raided a number of objectionable resorts, killing one man, tarring and feathering several others and driving out a considerable number of alleged undesirables, to visit Smackover and other settlements in the oil field, caused officials of two counties to send posses to the threatened section late last night, according to reports reaching here today.

No further trouble developed last night, and accordingly to the sheriff of Ouachita county, no more is looked for as, he declared, most of the persons warned have left the section and are not expected to return.

No arrests have been made, and so far as can be learned none is expected. The coroner's jury which investigated the death of a man known as "John Few Clothes," who was shot to death in the raids, returned a verdict that he came to his death from shots "fired by persons unknown." The raids were over and the "vigilantes" had disappeared before the arrival of deputy sheriffs.

Several resorts were said to have been chopped down with axes by the raiders, while another report says several were burned. Several resort keepers were flogged, it is reported, for their failure to heed previous warnings to leave the country.

5-YEAR SENTENCE IS ASSESSED BY JURY IN EX-OFFICER'S CASE, IN VERDICT THURSDAY MORNING

C. M. Waggoner, ex-policeman, spent Thanksgiving day in the Wichita county jail.

He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff at 9:50 o'clock Thursday morning, eight minutes after Judge E. W. Napier read the verdict of the jury which had heard the evidence in his murder case.

The minimum penalty of five years was assessed by the jury, which found him guilty of the murder of J. W. Webb, as charged in the indictment.

A heavy rap on the jury door was heard at 9:30 o'clock by less than 20 people, one of which was the defendant. The court room was bare compared with the crowds that had gathered each day during the trial and which was climaxed Wednesday night with a packed house.

The defendant had come to the court house early Thursday morning. There was no indication on his countenance other than that he had spent a peaceful night.

Defendant Hears It Calmly.

When the jury filed out of the room into the box, Mr. Waggoner quietly seated himself near his counsel. His straight stemmed pipe that had been his constant companion throughout the trial was in his mouth.

Judge Napier received the written verdict from the foreman, E. F. Hannan. Then he read: "We the jury find the defendant C. M. Waggoner guilty of murder as charged in the indictment and assess his punishment at five years' confinement in the penitentiary."

Seated at the side of one of the large tables in the court room, Mr. Waggoner rested the elbow of his left arm on the smooth surface. He leaned slightly forward in his chair. His left hand grasped the bowl of his straight stemmed pipe and at regular intervals a puff of smoke emitted from his lips.

Judge Thanks Jury.

When the court read the verdict of the jury and came to the word "guilty" the regular intervals of smoke puffs was broken. There were two quickened puffs and then the small clouds of gray white smoke again began their periodical ascension.

The sentence as read by the court had no effect whatsoever on Waggoner's demeanor.

Judge Napier thanked the jury for its attention and complimented the personnel for their orderliness. District Clerk A. F. Kerr was not in his office and Judge Napier informed the jury members that they would be forced to return at some other time for their compensation.

Mrs. Waggoner, wife of the defendant, did not journey to the court house this morning. Mr. Waggoner was alone except for his counsel.

Argument Is Heated.

"There are officers and then again there are officers just the same as there are women and women," were the words of County Attorney E. L. Fulton, who opened the argument for the state at the night session Wednesday.

"Able counsel for the defense will come before you soon and eloqize officers, because they are defending an officer who is a defendant in a case of deliberate cold-blooded murder," Mr. Fulton continued.

This, however, brought forth from Attorney E. H. Gipson, counsel for the defendant, who was the second attorney to address the jury, a most bitter attack and vilification of all officers of Wichita county. One time during his address, after he had launched an attack on those "who prosecute some and permit others to go untried" he was interrupted by Assistant District Attorney Sam Holliday who resented the insinuations cast as he said "at Mr. Fulton, the county attorney."

Clash Is Apparent.

In making his objection to the court Mr. Holliday referred to the speaker as "General Gibson from Oklahoma." Judge Napier was forced to call to the attorney then addressing to the jury several times before he was able to be heard. It was then that Mr. Gibson turned to the jury and referred to Mr. Holliday as "This young upstart in the district attorney's office," and said, "gentlemen, you can see it is just the same here as when you put the harness on a mule that it doesn't feel just quite right the mule starts to kick."

Mr. Holliday showed his disapproval of these remarks by walking slowly but with determination in the direction of Mr. Gibson. Judge Napier wrapped for order and Chief Deputy Johnson of the sheriff's of-

DE VALERA PLANS EFFORT TO LEAVE IRELAND FOR U. S

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Eamon de Valera is reported to be attempting to leave Ireland for America, says a dispatch from the Belfast correspondent of the Evening News.

The republican leader is said to be hiding in the Carlingford mountains, overlooking Greenore, county Louth, from which there is daily boat service to Holyhead. It is understood, says the correspondent, that a large force of rebels has been concentrated in northern county Louth and will shortly attack, thus diverting the attention of the free state authorities and allowing de Valera to slip out of Greenore.

REPORT PLOT TO KIDNAP MEMBERS DAIL EIREANN

TWO ARE ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH TRAGEDY AT WACO

WACO, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—A sensational turn was given the search for the murderer of Grady Skipworth, Monday night a week ago, this morning when two white men were arrested by the police department and placed in the city prison. Three other white men are under detention in connection with the crime, indicating that the officers have abandoned, for the time being, the theory that a negro murdered the young man and mistreated the girl. Officers are working on an entirely different theory than that based on the statement of the girl the day after the murder.

In the investigation of the clue leading to this conclusion the Texas rangers have been active and are still working on the case. The police department, however, has developed some important facts pointing in the same direction and brought the investigation to a crisis by placing two men of those suspected in jail.

No complaints have been filed as yet. It is understood there will be other arrests.

Officials: Referee, Tipton (Missouri); umpire, Stroud (L. S. U.); head linesman, Vanne (Carlisle).

THANKSGIVING DAY OBSERVED WITH JOINT SERVICE

COMMUNITY GIVES THANKS AND ADDS TO WELFARE CAMPAIGN FUND.

SERVICE HELD AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Major Culbertson Presents Representatives of Eight Welfare Organizations.

Thanksgiving day was observed by an inspirational community service held at the First Baptist church Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Primarily, the service was a fitting climax to the welfare charity drive which has been going on for the past several days.

"America," sung by the entire congregation, opened the service, with invocation by Dr. S. L. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church.

Judge A. H. Britain, referring to the charity drive, said: "There has been adopted in this city a program of giving once a year to all charities to obviate the necessity of calling upon the busy men and women of this city for individual needs. There has grown in Wichita Falls among the people a spirit of reaching out for something better. It is the spirit which looks upon the neighbor as a friend. I am proud I live in a community like this and have taken a part in the welfare drive. We have eliminated eight different drives in this city, and have centered them all in one. It want to pay a tribute to the men and women who have engaged in this drive. I also want to pay a tribute to the donors. They gave freely and with open arms, and in many cases pledges were raised above the amounts asked. I want to pay a tribute to a citizenship like that."

Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, read the 107th Psalm as the scriptural reading.

Dr. C. W. Simpson, pastor of the First Methodist church, south, was chosen by the Pastors' association to deliver a fifteen minute address. He chose for his text the scriptural reading, "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men, for what we measure with meet it shall be measured to us again."

"We have gathered in this temple this hour as individual men and women and little children, to hear and offer our thanksgiving in terms of words," said Dr. Simpson. "We have been going about the streets in recent days and shall do so in the coming days to express our gratitude in terms of deeds, but what we say or what we have done or shall do will be determined by who we are, our characters, words and deeds. It, therefore, behooves us first to set our lives in terms of character and praise for the Lord Jesus Christ, and we come to express our joy and gratitude for the many blessings He has given us, and to express the same by our conduct and life."

Major Culbertson Address.

Major W. L. Culbertson, in a splendid talk referred to the individual work of each of the charitable organizations who will share in the money realized from the drive. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of the Red Cross in time of war and peace; a tribute to the work of the Y. W. C. A., the friend of the working girl; to Mrs. E. B. Coreline, secretary of the welfare board, whose duty brought her in close contact with the charitable work of the city, and her ability to dispense funds that would be productive of the best results; to the work of the Boy Scouts whom he referred to as the hope of the greatest nation the world has ever known; to the work of the Texas Children's Home where unfortunate children were taken in and reared in sunshine and placed in childless homes and into lives of usefulness; to the American Legion doing so much for the ex-soldier, keeping up his spirit in time of trouble, feeding and clothing him when misfortune assailed him; to the work of the Salvation Army nursery in its splendid effort to take care of little children of mothers who were compelled to seek a livelihood for their support, and last but not least to the work of Ma. Burdick and the Salvation Army. He paid a glowing tribute to her work in the recent war, and to her services in this community.

As the work of each organization was briefly outlined by Major Culbertson, the representatives from that particular organization stood up.

Fearing that some people had not been reached in the charity drive, an offering was taken up by members of the Salvation Army, swelling the amount already obtained by many dollars.

Tendered Farewell Dinner.

SHANGHAI.—Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, who is touring China, was given a farewell dinner last night by an association composed of eight of the leading Chinese newspapers here. In his response to an address, Mr. Noyes urged the Chinese journalists to present their readers with an exact understanding of America. He sailed today from Hongkong.

5-YEAR SENTENCE IN WAGGONER CASE

fice took a stand between the two men.

Criticises Officers.

"The able counsel for the state," Mr. Gipson began, "has told you that we will eulogize officers. I want to tell you that no officers of Wichita county deserve any eulogy. Look back and see how crime, murder, robbery and all other offenses against the law has been running rampant here for years. No, Wichita county has long ago learned to its sorrow that no praise is due any officer."

Mr. Gipson also took occasion to pronounce a bitter sentence on various witnesses of the state. He attempted to show to the jury the unreasonableness of the testimony as offered and applied the epithet 'liar' to two of them.

Three times during his argument to the jury, state's counsel interrupted him with the objection that he was not confining his remarks to the record.

Objects to Argument.

At one occasion Mr. Fulton addressed the court and said:

"Your honor, if Mr. Gipson is going to testify to the jury, I would kindly request that he be sworn."

Judge Napier sustained the state's objection and requested Mr. Gipson to stay within the record. It was then he turned to the jury and said:

"Well, there is so much that ought to be in that isn't that—" The audience of seven hundred people drowned out the remainder of the sentence. Judge Napier for the second time stated that another disturbance or demonstration on the part of the audience would cause the court room to be entirely cleared of spectators.

Both John Davenport, second speaker for the defendant, and T. F. Hunter, who closed the argument for the state, prefaced their remarks by stating that they did not intend to villify any witness or any one connected with the case.

John Davenport Speaks.

Mr. Davenport plead with the jury to place the evidence as had been produced from the witness stand under the searchlight of reason, then apply the law as was given them in charge by the court. He said:

"Gentlemen, if you will do that as you swore you would when you were selected as a juror to try this case you will return into that jury room and write a verdict of 'not guilty.'"

He referred to the defendant as the "man who has spent the best part of his life in protecting your property and my property while we slept, protecting your life and my life from the villianous attacks of the lawless, and now while on the threshold of age, nearly 60 years of age, his reward is that he is being tried here for murder because he went out like a soldier to do his duty and was forced to shoot because his life was in danger."

Closes For State.

Mr. Hunter consumed at least five minutes of his time in denouncing the "villainous and tyrannous attack" made on the officers of Wichita county in general by Attorney Gipson.

"Gentlemen," he said, "in one breath Mr. Gipson resorted to a vilification of all officers in terms of a superlative degree and then in the other turns around and points to one of those officers, his client, this defendant, as a man of unimpeachable reputation, a man who has never done a wrong, a man who is being persecuted because he was a peace officer trying to do his duty. I can't understand that, can you?"

Both Mr. Gipson and Mr. Davenport stressed the fact that the mortal wound on the body of John Webb as testified to might have been a bullet wound and not a buckshot wound. Both said: "Did you stop to think during this trial that Scottie may have been the man who shot Webb and caused his death?"

Argument was completed at 10:46 o'clock Wednesday night. The bailiff announced a few minutes later that the jury had retired and would not consider of their verdict until Thursday morning.

GRAVE MISGIVINGS AROUSED AMONG FORMER SULTAN'S MINISTRY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 30.—News of the execution of the former Greek cabinet ministers in Athens has excited grave misgivings among the former members of the sultan's ministry who are charged with high treason by the nationalist government at Angora. They expdess fears that they may suffer a similar fate when the nationalists take over the city, unless the allies intervene.

All the members of the sultan's last ministry are still in the capital, but numbers of those who participated in the previous cabinets have left the country.

THANKSGIVING MASS IN FRENCH CHURCH

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—A special Thanksgiving mass was celebrated at the French church of the Holy Trinity today as an expression of the friendship of France for America. This was the first time the French church has recognized the American holiday. President Millerand attended the mass.

Abbe Patrick Flynn have a sermon in both English and French in which he said France owed the deepest gratitude to America and it was fitting that she should join in her day of thanksgiving.

At the American church, Ambassador Herrick delivered a sermon.

PACK BOX FOR SCHOOL FOR HOMELESS BOYS

On Wednesday afternoon the children of the Sunday school of the Church of the Good Shepherd gathered at the parish house and packed a box for one of the church schools for homeless boys, located in Covington, Virginia. The box contained fifteen wool sweaters, fifteen knives and fifteen boxes of candy. They also packed a box of groceries valued at $40 for the poor of our own city and delivered the same to the Salvation Army to help them in their work of making the poor happy.

Six conversations can be carried on simultaneously over one telephone wire by means of a new instrument designed by a French postal official.

OIL PROMOTER AND WIFE CHARGED WITH STATUTORY OFFENSE

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 30.—Charged by indictment in nine counts with criminal assault upon a 13 year old girl, A. W. Hobson, president of the South Texas Oil and Development company, and Mrs. Ella Hobson, his wife, were arrested by deputy sheriffs and lodged in the Bexar county jail yesterday. The indictments were returned by the Bexar county grand jury in its report to the 45th district court.

Both Mr. Hobson and his wife denied any knowledge of the affair. In view of the fact that the crime with which they were charged is non-bailable and that the complaining witness must be brought to San Antonio from a north Texas town before a habeas corpus hearing can be held, both were taken to jail.

Information concerning the alleged crime was first received from the sheriff of a county in north Texas. According to this information the girl came to visit the Hobsons at their home here. After returning to her home in north Texas, officers say, she reported the alleged affair to her parents. The matter was taken up by the authorities there and the local sheriff's department was communicated with. Later the parents of the girl brought her to San Antonio and she appeared before the grand jury now in session.

PILGRIMS' LOYALTY TO GOD NEED IN AMERICA TODAY

Thanksgiving Day was observed by the congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd in a service as set forth in their ritual, with special music. The choir sang the anthem "The Desert Shall Rejoice" by Nichol.

Rev. Datson chose for his subject "Our National Thanksgiving," selecting his text from the 35th chapter of Isaiah, 4th verse: "Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong, fear not, behold your God will come with vengeance; even God with a recompense; he will come and save you."

Said Dr. Datson: "Thanksgiving to those who observe it aright, is a happy and inspiring holy day. It comes after the harvest has been gathered; when fires have been kindled and things made snug in anticipation of a benumbing cold and driving storm. It grants a benediction to the summer time that is past and beckons to the chilly months that are before us.

"With many it is the blessed time of family reunion; of inspiring cheer and of thanksgiving to Almighty God.

"Thanksgiving is evidence of life quality. 'Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh.' The things for which a man is grateful reveal the man that he is.

"As we make the earthly pilgrimage it is good to be thankful, not only as exhibiting the nobility of life, but equally for the blessing it offers, as an allurement of spirit for the continued struggle.

"Thanksgiving brings to us an ever-increasing appreciation of the gifts of God; opens the door of an abiding hope; unites humanity in the bonds of a glorious fellowship; increases the faith of faithless and induces the gracious good will of love and justice. Thanksgiving is a habit.

"If national thanksgiving is but another way of expressing belief in Divine Providence, we need to go further to see the source of this belief, and we find that it is this teaching as to the loving Providence of God that explains the grip of the Bible upon great men. Never was the Bible more loved. It is the story of God's guidance.

"Thanksgiving originated in the day of the Pilgrim Fathers. If we are to be great as a people and solve our national difficulties we must have something of the loyalty of the Pilgrims to the word of God.

"Let us as Americans, as followers of our fathers, band around the church and the Bible, then we may say to those of a fearful heart, 'Be strong, fear not; behold your God will come with a vengeance, even God with a recompense. He will come and save you.'"

Two Solid Hours Laughter in Play Coming to Palace

Two solid hours of convulsive laughter, such is the description of "The Girl in the Limousine," the Wilson Collison, Avery Hopwood farce success that is to be presented at the Palace theatre by Edna Park Players all next week. Don't miss the tremendously funny Broadway hit. It will send you out weak from laughter but in a mood that will last you over a week.

Director McManus announces that he has cast the production with particular care and the scenic department of the theatre promises effects that are decidedly out of the ordinary. Mr. Edward and Miss Park, leading man and woman of the Edna Park Players are intensely enthusiastic, as are also the other members of the company, at the parts they have been selected to play.

"The Girl in the Limousine" was written by the author of "Fair and Warmer" and "Gold Diggers." Local patrons of the Palace know of "Fair and Warmer," and "Gold Diggers" is credited with a phenominal run in New York City.

Thursday night "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" will be presented by this splendid company, which bill will be the attraction for the remainder of the week, including a matinee Saturday afternoon.

COMMANDER EVANGELINE BOOTH SICK IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, who has been confined to her bed two days, today had a rising temperature and her physician diagnosed her illness as a combination of bronchitis and pleurisy.

The turn for the worse came last night and a few hours after she had been reported improving.

Miss Booth contracted a cold last Saturday at the open air dedication of the new headquarters of the central territory of the Salvation Army and at the unveiling of a tablet marking the spot where the army first began work in Chicago.

42 PRISONERS IN COUNTY JAIL EAT HEAP MUCH TURKEY

Thanksgiving day did not pass unnoticed by the prisoners in the county jail. Sheriff and Mrs. Fred K. Smith did not forget the forty-two unfortunates who were restrained from enjoying the day with their families and accordingly served a big turkey dinner to all.

The prisoners one and all were most grateful and accordingly called the Times in order that they might express their gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Smith in this manner.

The prisoners who were served at noon Thursday included men, women and young boys and girls.

The informant, a prisoner stated that the sentences which were being served by the 42 ranged from three days to 15 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have never forgotten Thanksgiving day or Christmas since Mr. Smith has been sheriff and on each one of the days during the tenure of his office, the prisoners have been served a special dinner.

OFFICERS LOCATE TWO CARS STOLEN HERE

Police officials have located two of the three automobiles stolen Tuesday night and Wednesday. The five passenger Buick stolen from M. G. Langford was found early Thursday morning about six miles out of the city on the Freiberg road. The vehicle had been driven across a culvert off the main road. When found it was out of gasoline and oil. Officers are of the opinion that the car was abandoned when the thieves ran out of fuel.

The Ford touring car stolen Tuesday night from H. C. Jasper, 1127 Huff, was found late Wednesday afternoon on the Burkburnett road about four miles out of the city. A Ford roadster belonging to S. G. Fleming, stolen Wednesday, is still missing. Officers are at work on a clue which is believed will lead to the recovery of the car.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING IS BEING URGED FOR VERNON

NOT ENOUGH ROOM IN STUDY HALL TO ACCOMMODATE THE ATTENDANCE.

MOVEMENT ENDORSED BY THE ROTARY CLUB

Committee Is Appointed to Make a Survey of the Situation and Report.

VERNON, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—At the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club held Tuesday noon at the Bailey hotel, the members endorsed a new high school building for Vernon. The entire program was on different matters pertaining to Vernon having in the near future a fine new building for her high school pupils who are so badly crowded at this time.

Prof. Eb Dohoney, superintendent of the Vernon schools, stated that when he came to Vernon in September, 1921, the school opened with only 205 high school pupils and that the enrollment at this time is 340. He stated further that there was no enough room in the study hall to seat those desiring to study and that it had become necessary for him to use a part of the hall and his office temporarily for taking care of the overflow from the study hall.

T. H. Shive, who has recently returned from California, attending the Rotary convention, and where he spent the rest of the summer with his family, said: "We owe it to the children of parents of moderate circumstances, to ourselves and to Vernon, to erect a high school building that will do credit to west Texas, and I am in favor of taking action at the earliest possible date."

Emory Rhodes, a member of the school board, called attention to the fact that the high school faculty had been increased from seven to 12 members since last year, and that more pupils were in each high school teacher's room than should be for the best work. He also called attention to the good work being done at Mabell in this county.

The chairman appointed a committee to make a survey of the situation and report to the Rotary club. The members of the committee were: Cy Long, Owen Brunson, Arthur Rayzor, Emory Rhodes and Will Lane.

Other members who spoke on the matter were Joe Sumner, Bob Farrell, Owen Brunson, Cy Long, Arthur Vernon, Hub Colley, Chas. Ladd, Arthur Rayzor and E. C. Christian.

The good work of the Rotary club is having a good effect on the move to build a new high school building, and since Vernon has only a small amount of outstanding indebtedness in comparison of other towns of like population, there is no reason that her citizens will not go to the polls when the election is called and do the right thing for the children of the town.

Joe Harris of the Nash Hardware company of Wichita Falls was the guest of Will Lane. Mr. Harris, who was formerly a member of the Wichita Falls Rotary club, made a very interesting talk on the principles of rotary.

ELECTRA TO CONSTRUCT AN INCINERATOR PLANT

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Nov. 29.—Contract has been let to the Superior Garbage Incinerator company of Dallas for the building of an incinerator plant in Electra. It will involve an expenditure of $7,500 and will be of the same type as that used in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and other metropolitan cities.

The incinerator will be constructed near the site of the city sewage disposal plant, which has just been accepted by the authorities. The cost of this addition to the city sewer system was $13,000. Contractors hope to complete concrete work on the new spillway at the city lake by January 1. Some further time will be required for the completion of levees around the city lake, which will double the capacity of that reservoir and give enough water to last a community of 20,000 people a year.

MANY EXAMINED BY RECRUITING OFFICER BUT FEW ACCEPTED

B. H. Bowman, recruiting officer for the U. S. navy, up to this time has confined his recruiting activities to this city alone. Since the office opened Mr. Bowman has examined a number of local men but has not been successful in receiving applicants who were eligible for enlistment in the navy. In most cases the applicants were refused on some physical disability; in others it was a question of age and impossibility to obtain the parent's consent.

The navy requirement for recruits is high when compared to other branches of military service. The navy has long since passed the stage where it is thought of as a reform school for delinquents and at present admits only those applicants who are physically and mentally fit.

Mr. Bowman is planning a trip through Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Electra and the adjoining cities on a recruiting tour. He is in touch with merchants and city officials at these places who will assist him in his work. If his plans materialize he expects to begin his work recruiting in the nearby towns in Texas and Oklahoma next week. The names of towns and the dates in which he will visit them will be announced later.

LOCAL HUNTERS TO ADVANCE FRIDAY ON QUAIL COVEYS

Local hunters were all set Thursday for the opening of the quail season Friday, and it appeared that a large number would take the field.

The birds are not as plentiful as in some former seasons, but are numerous enough to afford ample sport.

In addition to those who will go out to nearby pastures, quite a few Wichitans have planned trips to favored fields on the plains and in southwest Texas where birds are more numerous.

EFFORTS OF AMERICANS TO COMPETE IN GERMANY IS DOOMED TO FAILURE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Efforts of American manufacturers to compete in Germany with Germany's own products "must be foredoomed to failure" according to advices reaching the department of commerce from its representatives in Germany.

The dispatches summarized today by the department, indicate that sporadic efforts to reenter the German trade are being made without success because of the top-heavy situation in exchange rates.

When it takes about 3,000 marks to buy one dollar's worth of American goods, one of the consular dispatches said, it is evident at once that the opportunity for selling American goods profitably in competition with German goods at home must be foredoomed to failure."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

MAGIC COUGH DROPS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"You're not doing your work half!" growled Twelve Toes.

The Green Wizard was so kind, and did so many nice things for everybody that he was very popular.

This made Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, more angry and jealous than ever. So he called Light Fingers, the bad little fairy who worked for him, and gave him a good talking to.

"You're not doing your work half!" growled Twelve Toes. "When ever you see the Green Wizard doing anyone a good turn you must stop it. What's he doing now?"

"Please, sir," said Light Fingers, "he's making some magic cough drops for Phil Frog. Phil Frog wrote him a letter and said he couldn't sing any pretty tunes as his voice was so hoarse. All he can say is ker-chug-a-hunk and he's tired of it, he says. So the Green Wizard is making him some magic cough drops so he can sing like a skylark or a nightengale. Nancy and Nick are waiting. When the cough drops are finished, off they'll go to Ripple Creek with them."

"H'm!" said Twelve Toes. "That wont do."

So he went into his cave and returned with a box.

"Take this," he said to Light Fingers, "and exchange it for the box of magic cough drops."

Everything came to pass just as Twelve Toes wished and when Nancy and Nick left the package at Phil Frog's house, they never dreamed that it was not the one the Green Wizard had given them.

Phil ate a lot of the magic cough [illegible] and then opened his mouth to [illegible] All the family gathered around to admire his new accomplishment.

"Hee-haw, hee-haw, hee-haw," went Phil, for the drops Twelve Toes sent made him bray like a mule.

"Goodness!" cried Phil in disgust. "I'll have to send word to the Green Wizard to give me back my own voice. It's quite sweet and musical beside this. I've learned a good lesson. It's best to keep gifts we have and be satisfied."

"WHO'S GOT RIGHT TO TELL ME THAT I MUST CUT OFF BEARD?" INQUIRES MAN OF OFFFICIALS

An old man with gray, shaggy hair which permitted only a small portion of his face to be visible and which completely concealed the neck from front to rear, entered the county attorney's office at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday evening and loudly lamented the fact that this was no longer a free country.

"Who's got a right to tell me that I must cut off my beard and mustache and trim the hair on my head or else I'll be placed in jail?" he inquired slapping a bony knee with a hand that was even more bony.

"Who's got a right to tell me that I can't hold my job unless I shave off all these whiskers. I thought this was a free country and we could do as we please. What hurt does it do for me to have this whiskers on. I was in the United States army and they permitted any soldier to wear whiskers anyway he wanted to," he argued.

He was finally quieted down so that he could give some light on his complaint. He said that he was employed in a restaurant on Ohio street as dishwasher and that an inspector of the city health department had informed him that if he wanted to continue washing dishes that he must shave off his whiskers. He said they told him that his whiskers and his long hair were unsanitary and could not be permitted under the city's sanitary code.

He was told that the county had nothing to do whatsoever with city regulations and that nothing could be done for his grievances. He didn't seem satisfied.

Upon leaving he said, "Well, I guess there's lots of room out there at that place close to the

SAYS FARMERS NOT TAKING ADVANTAGE OF DAIRY PROFITS

More farmers in this section are putting dairy cattle on their farms, but the number is still far too small, according to R. C. Priebe, manager of the Producers' Creamery company. Neither in number of cows, production per cow, nor in facilities are the farmers living up to their opportunities, Mr. Priebe to their opportunities, Mr. Priebe said.

"Every morning we receive at the plant about 7,100 gallons of milk, representing the output of approximately 400 cows," he said. "It should be considerably more from this number of cows, but I find the average farmer milking cows that produce only three quarts to a gallon of milk a day."

The plant is turning out over 5,000 pounds of pasteurized sweet milk a day, something over 400 gallons of Bulgarian buttermilk, and making 275 pounds of butter.

"The people of Wichita Falls consume about 1,200 pounds of butter a day. We have a splendid demand for our butter at fifty cents a pound," said Mr. Priebe, "and could sell all we can make, were we able to get cream. We are paying 42 cents for buter fat."

Mr. Priebe is milking 40 cows of his own, buying practically all of his feed, paying high prices for it, and says he is making money.

"I am not satisfied unless my cows are milking at least two gallons a day, and to do this I must keep my cows satisfied in the way of feed. In addition to what I buy, my cows are pastured on Sudan grass for about nine months in the year.

"I find that at least 90 per cent of the dairymen in this section have no real facilities for taking care of their cows."

EXPECT WOMAN TO BE TEACHERS' NEW PRESIDENT, LOCAL DELEGATION OFF

A delegation of a dozen teachers left Wednesday afternoon for Houston to attend the State Teachers' association meeting, which opened there Thursday.

Supt. Lee Clark, who heads the delegation, has been prominently mentioned for the presidency of the organization. However, there is an unwritten law in the association providing for the election of a woman as president every other year, and it is probable that a San Antonio woman will be chosen president.

The local delegation will return Sunday.

THE FARM POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES

The department of commerce announces that, according to the fourteenth decennial census, the 31,614,269 farm dwellers enumerated as of January 1, 1920, were grouped according to sex and age as follows: Males, 16,496,338; females, 15,117,931. Under 10 years of age, 8,135,070; 10 to 20 years, 7,824,106; 21 years and over, 15,652,093. The farm population comprises all persons actually making their homes on farms, regardless of whether engaged in agriculture, together with farm laborers and their families living elsewhere than on farms but not living in incorporated places.

The sex ratio for the farm population in 1920 was 109.1 males to 100 females, as against a ratio of 104 to 100 for the entire population of the United States. In every state except three—West Virginia, Wyoming, and Arizona—the ratio of males to females was higher for the farm population than for the total population, despite the fact that the foreign born element, in which the males considerably outnumber the females, is found mainly in the cities. This means that larger numbers of women than of men are leaving the farms in search of more lucrative fields of endeavor. East of the Mississippi river the highest ratio for any state is that for Wisconsin, 115.7 to 100, while the lowest 100.8, appears for South Carolina. West of the Mississippi the corresponding ratio ranged from 149.4 for Nevada to 103.7 for Louisiana. In general, the ratios are higher in the west than in the north and higher in the north than in the south.

Of the total farm population, 25.7 per cent were under 10 years of age, 24.7 per cent between 10 and 21 years of age, and 49.5 per cent were 21 years of age and over. The corresponding percentages for the entire population of the United States were 21.7, 20.7, and 57.6, respectively. Thus the farm population includes a realtively large proportion of persons under the age of 21 and a relatively small proportion of persons 21 years of age and over. This difference in age distribution is due in large part to the fact that the majority of persons who leave the farm to take up their residence elsewhere have reached or passed the age of 21. Moreover, the foreign-born population, which is found mainly in the cities, consists in large part of persons past the age of 21. The largest proportions of children and youth in the farm population are shown for the southern states and the lowest for the New England states, New York, New Jersey, and California.

JACK LONDON

In celebration of the fifth anniversary of their establishment of the store in Wichita Falls, Anderson's, which has grown in the five years to be one of the largest department stores in northwest Texas, will on Friday open the greatest sale in the store's history.

W. W. Anderson, head of the store, has placed the sale in the hands of the Jack London Sales System of Dallas, well known southwestern sales service, with instructions to reduce prices to a point that will move the goods rapidly and make it an occasion to be remembered as a great bargain event. Through this sale the store's guarantee will hold good and the Jack London Sales System has been authorized to announce that if any article purchased is not satisfactory and as represented the purchaser's money will be refunded.

The store was closed Thursday to give Mr. London and his assistants, G. L. Neeley and L. M. DeFord, an opportunity to make arrangements to accommodate the crowds that are expected to throng the store Friday and throughout the sale.

An additional large force of salespeople has been employed and every effort will be made to wait on the buyers with the least delays possible.

MADAME BASCHI RUMANIAN SINGER COMING TO VERNON

VERNON, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—Announcement came today from Mrs. C. J. Farrell, president of the Musicians' club, that arrangements have been made by the club to bring Madame Alice Baschi, famous Rumanian concert artist to Vernon. According to present expectations she will appear here on January 5.

The Rumanian contralto is particularly well known in European grand opera circles. She is making a transcontinental tour this season under the management of the affiliated bureaus and is expected to visit several Texas cities, including Wichita Falls. Her performances in America, which include several of the metropolitan centers, have brought forth much favorable commendation from the large publications of the east, according to officers of the local musicians' club. She has appeared in leading roles in many of the large operas of Europe, it is said.

Madame Baschi will be accompanied to Vernon by Miss Adelilade Keeser, pianist, and Godfrey Wetterlow, violinist. Miss Keeser is a graduate of the Faelton Pianoforte school of Boston, and Mr. Wetterlow is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music. Both are artists of unusual ability.

It is the plan of the local club to develop arrangements whereby several of these performances may be staged in Vernon each season, according to Mrs. Farrell.

VERNON IS MAKING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE WATER SYSTEM

VERNON, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—The city of Vernon has purchased 1,500 feet of water mains to extend from the new water station northwest of the city to the mains of the city. The work of connecting up the line has been started and Mayor Harry Mason thinks that the city will have a water supply equal to none in west Texas. The cost of the eight-inch and six-inch pipe to be used was approximately $20,000.

The city owns a tract of 21 acres of land two miles northwest of the city and a large pumping station and reservoirs will be erected on this tract of land immediately. There will be a concrete reservoir to hold 400,000 gallons and a dirt reservoir to hold about 10,000,000 gallons. Vernon has a key rate of 42 cents and this added supply of water is expected to reduce this 10 cents. Tests have been made for water on the tract of land and it is reported that the engineers have everlasting springs opened up. Old settlers stated this was once a camping place for the Indians.

TEXAS WILL COOPERATE WITH FEDERAL OFFICIALS ENFORCING VOLSTEAD LAW IN THE STATE

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—A program of more concerted cooperation between federal officials and local enforcement agencies is planned for the coming year, Federal Prohibition Commissioner R. A. Haynes advises Director David H. Morris of this state.

Section 11 of the enforcement act divides the responsibility between the government and the states. Practically all of the states have enacted legislation to this end and the various state agencies report increasing evidence of cooperation.

Commissioner Haynes says that every state, county and city has the initial responsibility of cleaning up its own conditions through locally selected officials, before the federal machinery should be expected to take charge. Hence, the necessity of close cooperation between the states and federal agencies.

Director David H. Morris is greatly pleased with the progress that has been made in enforcement in this state, and is most optimistic in regards to the future, in view of the spirit of cooperation, in evidence practically everywhere. More and more is the public becoming convinced that the success of enforcement lies as much with the people themselves as with the officers who are designated to enforce the law. In spite of obstacles and many complaints, prohibition is showing itself as a means of pronounced public betterment, of improved living conditions, and healthier, happier human beings. There is evidence everywhere of marked progress in the way of enforcement.

This is not the time to be impatient, nor discouraged, for the friends of the law are truly in action, as shown by reports which Commissioner Haynes has received from the various states, justifying the optimism which he entertains.

Reducing the source of supply, through concentration, in Commissioner Haynes' opinion, will aid materially in enforcement and also make for economy, for, as he says, economy has been the watchword of the administration. Concentration of bonded whiskey in a smaller number of bonded warehouses will result in the saving of at least $300,000 per annum. A saving of $250,000 has been effected through reductions secured in rental of office and storage space and the disposition of seized property. A further saving of $155,900 annually has been effected by the readjusting of salaries.

Referring to the cry that prohibition is a "failure," Commissioner Haynes says that in his judgment, one of the most remarkable successes ever attained in the enforcement of a new and drastic law has been recorded in the present status of enforcement of the national prohibition act.

A complete reorganization has been effected in the last 15 months. Fifty-one directors' offices have been established in each state, and Hawaii, Porto Rico and Alaska. These complete changes in the reorganization of the work have resulted in the elimination of duplication of work and a greater effeciency. Experienced men of undoubted integrity have been called into service. The Washington office of over 600 employes, and all the field forces have become enthused with the greatness of the task. Thirty-two hundred and one temporary and permanent appointments have been made during this 15-month period.

A new feature of the organization is the general agents' force operating independent of the directors' force. To date this force has reported 3,231 cases, and recommended taxes in the amount of $24,168,824.62.

The narcotic force, which also operate under the prohibition unit, have also been reorganized. There has resulted such an increase of efficiency that with no larger appropriation or appreciable increase in field force, there has been an increase of some 65 per cent in the number of violations reported in the period of one year, and an increase of one hundred per cent in the convictions secured.

IMPERIAL KLONVOCATION OF KLAN COMES TO CLOSE

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 30.—The imperial klonvokation of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan came formally to a close here early today. A new constitution with a clause prohibiting the klan affiliating with any women's organization and carrying a penalty of banishment from the invisible empire for any one who aids or abets such organization was adopted.

One of the most important features of the new constitution provides that the imperial wizard hereafter shall be elected by the grand dragons or state chiefs of the order. There shall be no nominees for this position and each dragon will vote for any klansman he may select. The voting strength will be regulated by the number of klansmen in each state. The term for officers was fixed at four years.

Today, on the grounds of the Great American university, the klan's institution, a school of instruction for exalted cyclops, grand dragons and king kleagles will be held. These officers will be instructed in the kloranic and scientific divisions of the order.

THIS IS HOW THANKSGIVING DAY BEGAN

The historian dipped quill in ink and prepared to write.

We was about to chronicle an incident in the story of a party recently landed from the 'shippe "Ayde," of the Frobisher Expedition, which brought the first English settlers to the then very New World.

"On Monday morning, May 27, 1578," scratched the quill, "on board the Ayde (off the Newfoundland coast) we received all the communion by the minister of Gravesend and prepared as good Christians toward God and resolute men for all fortunes and toward night we departed toward Tilberry Hope.

"Here we highly praysed God and altogether upon our knees gave him due humble and hearty thanks and Maister Wolfall, a learned man appointed by her majesty's council to be our minister, made unto us a godlye sermon, exhorting all especially to be thankful to God for his strange and miraculous deliverance in those dangerous places."

This, it appears, was North America's initial Thanksgiving service.

The first record of any similar observance on the soil of what now is the United States was that of the Popham colonists at Sagadahoc, Me., in August, 1607.

But these were mere services. A whole Thanksgiving day beginning with worship of course, but including also turkey and appropriate trimmings, was proclaimed by Governor Bradford of Massachusetts on Dec. 13, 1621.

This was the Thanksgiving day generally spoken of as our first.

In reality it lasted three days. The governor's proclamation designated only one, but the colonists enjoyed the feasting so much that they stretched it out.

The Pilgrims, as Puritans, be it remembered, didn't think much of Christmas. Yet they wanted some day they could celebrate. They took kindly to Thanksgiving as a substitute.

True some years they missed it, either because they were pretty busy or didn't feel very thankful, but other years they celebrated twice.

Once, just as the Massachusetts colonists were sitting down to a gorgeous spread, it was learned that the godless aborigine who had purveyed the venison and turkey for the occasion, acquired them, by sleight of bow and arrow, on the Lord's Day.

For this the redskin was compelled to return the money paid him and received thirty-nine lashes instead.

"Having inflicted a just and righteous punishment on the sinful Indian," says the chronicle, "the company, with the exception of one member whose conscience was not satisfied, fell upon the meat and devoured it."

By 1684 the festival had become a regular annual event in Massachusetts. Before long it was observed similarly throughout all New England.

During the revolution, the continental congress recommended eight Thanksgiving days and General Washington two.

In September, 1789, Representative Boudinot asked congress to suggest to the president a day of thanks for the constitution.

"In my opinion," said Representative Burke, objecting, "this would be a silly mimicking of European ways."

"And in mine," said Representative Tucker, objecting too, "before giving thanks for the constitution, it would be well to try it for a while and see how it works."

Perhaps with turkey and cranberry sauce in mind, congress made the suggestion nevertheless and President Washington named November 26.

Various other national executives followed suit. Thomas Jefferson certainly was one of them, for it is of record that a certain Connecticut clergyman, in his Thanksgiving sermon, besought on behalf of the Monticello sage, as "our president," a goodly portion of the divine grace.

"For well, O Lord, thou knowest," the worthy pastor reminded his Deity, "how much he needeth it."

However, a presidential proclamation was by no means the invariable rule in those days. More often than not the governors of the various states were left to issue proclamations of their own, and this they generally did, though not always for the same day.

Finally, just after Gettysburg, Mrs. Sarah J. Hale of Philadelphia sent a copy of Washington's first proclamation to President Lincoln, urging him to issue one of his own. Lincoln did, naming August 6.

Since then a presidential proclamation has been issued every year, and with one exception the last Thursday in November always has been the day.

THINGS SOME NOTABLE AMERICANS FEEL THANKFUL FOR

COLE.

BURBANK.

DEMPSEY.

SCHWAB.

MRS. HUCK.

GOMPERS.

ANDERSON.

Cornelius Cole, who celebrated his one-hundredth birthday recently, was a distinguished and an active figure in the public life of the United States for 60 years.

He represented California in the lower house of congress from 1863 to 1865 and in the senate from 1867 to 1873. He was a law associate of William H. Seward, President Lincoln's secretary of state, and a close friend of Lincoln himself.

From his long political observation he sets down here for The Times the things for which he thinks the country has to be especially grateful on Thanksgiving day, 1922.

By EX-SENATOR COLE.

Having lived in this land dedicated to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for more than 100 years, I am perhaps entitled to say what I believe the nation has to be grateful for at this Thanksgiving season, namely:

That we weathered the most disastrous of all wars with so little real distress, and that we are not under the appalling shadow which hangs over so many of the earth's less fortunate peoples.

That we have come again into an era of general prosperity and stability out of threatened chaos.

That the principles upon which the United States was founded—a government by the majority, built upon the rights with which all human beings are endowed—have not been shaken by recent internal and external events.

That the spread of these principles throughout the world—a spread which is sure, though slow in spots—presages a time when all nations will live in perpetual amity together.

That there are no more laws than already pester us in attempting to dictate and regulate our thought and conduct. (Goodness knows there are too many already, and that our government should be far simpler.)

That the women, bless them, are doing better than I, for one, expected, in using their responsibility of franchise for sound, constructive policies.

That this young and sometimes bewildered nation is developing much sound common sense, in the main, as it approaches its age of maturity, in both domestic and foreign relationships.

That, summing it all up, perhaps the fathers of our country would not need to be alarmed or ashamed if they could see how nearly we of today have followed their vision in realising their splendid ideals of a free government.

Luther Burbank.

I am thankful for all things in life.

To serve humanity always has been my aim.

If, in my time, I shall have done this; if, from my striving, mankind has been benefited in any measure, should I not be grateful and happy.

Jack Dempsey.

I am thankful that I still have my health and that my mother and father are comfortably settled with me in Los Angeles.

And I am thankful that my present vaudeville engagement terminates in three weeks.

But I will be more than thankful if somebody will find someone for me to fight by the next Fourth.

Charles M. Schwab.

We should be thankful that we are citizens of the United States.

And we should be thankful that we live in such a country.

We should be thankful for our country's equipment with such natural resources as it possesses.

And we should be thankful for our country's citizens—citizens who make it so good.

Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck.

Why am I thankful?

Because I have the opportunity to bring the mother's point of view to congress.

Because now I can work effectively for a foundation for world peace.

Because I have a husband and four children with whom I can share the great honor that has been given to me.

Samuel Gompers.

Labor is thankful this year for many things of great moment.

Political reaction has been dethroned and America is once more on the road to progress. Industrial reaction has been discredited and disarmed. Here too America is on the road to progress. The miscalled open-shop campaign has been defeated, unemployment is decreasing rapidly, wages are on the upward trend.

Much remains to be done, but much has been achieved, for which workers and all other right-thinking Americans are glad and thankful.

Bishop William F. Anderson.

In the midst of this tumultous and broken world, I am devoutly grateful that there is one hope for a better day to come, that one constructive force has been revealed about which the life of mankind may be built in safety and security.

This is the gospel of brotherhood and good will known to man through Christian revelation. The international situation which presents so many intricate problems affords a unique opportunity for the leadership of our own great country. At Thanksgiving all Christian people should pray that our government may be wisely guided that it may fulfill its divine mission to all the nations of the earth.

LET US GIVE THANKS.

Charles W. Miller, of the Vicksburg, Miss., Herald, compiled the following Thanksgiving scriptural quotations for the Editor and Publisher:

"Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High: And call upon Me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me.—(Ps. 1:14, 15; Ps. 50:14, 15.) I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men: For kings, and for all that are under authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour; Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus; Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time.—(1. Tim. ii:1-6.)

"I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase. Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour. For we are labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building. According to the grace of God which is given unto Me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble; Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.—(I. Cor. iii:6-14, 16, 17.)

"God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that He is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; Neither is He worshipped with men's hands, as though He needed any thing, seeing He Giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, And the bounds of their habitation; That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after Him, and find Him, though He be not far from every one of us; For in Him we live, and move, and have our being: as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also His offspring. Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.—Acts xvii:24-29.) Every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving: For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.—(I. Tim. iv:4, 5.)

"And he (David) appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the Lord, and to record, and to thank and praise the Lord God of Israel. Then on that day David delivered first this psalm to thank the Lord into the hand of Asaph and his brethren. Give thanks unto the Lord, call upon His name, make know His deeds among the people. Sing unto Him, sing psalms unto Him, talk ye of all His wondrous works. Glory ye in His holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord. Seek the Lord and His strength, seek His face continually. Remember His marvelous works that He hath done, His wonders, and the judgments of His mouth.—(I. Chron. xvi:4, 7-12.)" And to stand every morning to thank and praise the Lord, and likewise at even.—(I. Chron. 23:30.)"

A DAY OF THANKSGIVING.

This has been another year of readjustment, and in the readjustment a good many of us have felt financial pinch and from that viewpoint we may not have much to be thankful for—and it is a failing characteristic of Americans to want to express everything in terms of money. Or, at least, in terms of prosperity. At that, we ought to be thankful for the gradual improvement in industrial and financial conditions.

But just as on that first American Thanksgiving day, the Pilgrim fathers found other things besides crops that would carry them through the winter, so can we today find many things to be thankful for. We can be thankful, as the Pilgrims were thankful, that we have religious freedom, that no religious test can be imposed upon an American citizen, that we can worship as our conscience may dictate, that ours is a representative government, free from tyranny and that agitation during the year has but strengthened our adherence to these principles and our determination that the guarantees of the bill of rights shall be made good. All Americans ought to be thankful for these things and for the fact that our government has remained strong and steadfast while disorder, revolution, destruction and disaster has overtaken so many governments and peoples.

And we can be thankful for our homes, our friends, health and the opportunities that are ours.

It may be that the truest spirit of thanksgiving may not be manifested today in a home of riches and plenty where liveried servants serve delectable viands but in some humble home where hungry children gather with mother and father in genuine love and happiness and with grateful hearts for small blessings.

WHEN YOU BUY.

There's one retail store for every 40 families in America. William G. Sheperd tells this to a convention of advertising men.

One groceryman in 20 fails each year.

In the long run, according to John Wanamaker, only one man in 25 who go into any kind of merchandising makes a success of it.

A fine thing to be in business for yourself—your own boss. But do a lot of thinking before you try it.

If you, later on, start a store, what line of goods should you select, to make you the most money? This is your first thought, and an important one.

But the number of dollars taken in by a merchant does not always determine how much profit he can make.

On the average, says Shepherd, to run a store takes 17 cents out of each dollar received by the grocer. Similar figures are: 19 cents on $1 for butchers, 25 cents for hardware dealers, 24 cents for clothing sellers and 26 cents for shoe dealers.

The figures vary, according to the amount of sales. As a business grows, overhead expense is carried on the shoulders of an increasing number of dollars. This means, less overhead for each dollar to carry—provided overhead doesn't increase at a faster rate than gross sales, which it often does.

Shepherd calls America "a nation of counter jumpers." One worker in each 10 is engaged in selling something. And two-thirds of these 3,000,000 sales clerks are engaged in selling food and clothing.

For each three farmers, there's one person behind a counter. For each four factory employes there's a store clerk or a store manager or a store owner, selling the things produced.

The trend seems to be toward a point where every one will be distributing commodities, nobody producing.

That point, of course, never will be reached. But the tendency toward it is strong enough to emphasize that our greatest problem of economics is one of distribution rather than production.

Only thing in the way as much as a drum is a man as tight as a drum.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUTLETS.

I have often marveled at the continuous flow of waters from some spring or mountain stream. Where does all the water come from? Will it never run dry? I ask myself these things.

But what would happen if there was no flow—no outlet for these waters?

There would be dangerous floods, and property would be made useless over wide areas. And so these waters find an outlet—and go their way happily—bettering the world of man and nature.

In the old days they used to bleed people. That was a common practice by the doctors then. When I was a boy I used to think that this was done to get some of the "bad blood" out of folks. And maybe that is what it did. But, I once asked a doctor why it was done, and he told me it was to lower the blood pressure. That sounded reasonable. Too much blood in a system of veins and arteries too weak to hold it.

Outlets are the blessings of healthy life.

Not long ago, I was walking at a sea resort and I noted a great crowd gathered around a group of men who appeared to be in hot argument. I asked my friend what this was all about and he replied that there was a free debating society which met there regularly. He said that anyone could step up there and get into an argument or debate and go to it as thick and as fast as he chose.

A good idea, I thought.

England and America live in freer mood than any other nations on earth. This is because they have liberal ideas when it comes to the expressions of their citizens. These democracies believe that in free discussion there is opportunity for the giving off of mental steam, so that the individual is better off afterwards for thinking and acting.

Forbid free expression and the nation starves or commits suicide.

The reason for so many nervous wrecks in our daily life may be that so many things are forbidden as "not proper" or against "convention," whereas, on the contrary, freedom of thought and honesty of expression clear the mind, fortify the body and enlarge the soul.

JUST FOLKS —By— Edgar A. Guest

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER.

Lord, for the beauty of the day,
The sun which drives the night away,
The stars which make the sky of night
A jeweled canopy of light,
For splendors shining everywhere
Accept today our grateful prayer.

Lord, for the leaf upon the tree,
The droning of the summer bee,
The rippling wave of lake and stream,
The spider web upon the beam,
The swallow's nest, the robin's lay,
Accept our gratitude today.

From Thee alone these glories spring—
The beauty of the mallard's wing,
The scent of apples, ripe and red,
The grain that has been harvested,
The fruit of vine and field and tree,
The mountain and the rolling sea.

Lord, beyond toil and pain and care
Exist Thy wonders everywhere,
The tiniest thing the eye can see
Utters a song of praise to Thee.
So for the beauty of the day
In gratitude to Thee we pray.

TOM SIMS' Thanksgiving

Exactly as was predicted yesterday, today is Thanksgiving.

And a serious shortage of things to be thankful for is reported.

This shortage, however, reminds us of the auto driver.

The auto driver was thankful because telephone poles only hit his car in self-defense.

So here is a list of things we are thankful for this Thanksgiving.

And, if you have a thanks shortage, you may be thankful with us.

We are thankful because women don't chew tobacco.

Because everybody can't sing.

Because Sunday always comes on time.

Because America is not in China.

Because night only comes once a day.

Because tall girls are not redheaded.

Because we can't play golf.

Because all girls are not blondes.

Because we can't play a saxophone.

Because all girls are not brunets.

Because we can't play auction bridge.

Because autos don't eat oats.

Because phonographs run down.

Because we don't like garlic.

Because trains never run sideways.

Because we don't like rhubarb pie.

Because bathtubs empty themselves.

Because we don't eat tapioca pudding.

Because Christmas is a month away.

Because water never makes you sick.

So, after all, you see how easy it is to be thankful.

If you are not thankful because something is, you can always be thankful because something isn't.

And this reminds us of the man who needed shoes and was thankful because he was not a centipede.

And the bald man who was thankful he never needed a haircut.

Which reminds us of the man who was broke and was thankful because he had indigestion.

And the one with the wart on his finger thankful for the finger.

And the man thankful because he had a tooth to ache.

But above all comes the man who was thankful just because he had sense enough to be thankful.

And that's that, thank goodness.

WHAT IS SHIP SUBSIDY?

By HARRY HUNT,
NEA Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. — The most bitter fight in congress since the league of nations battle will be waged over the administration's ship subsidy bill, on which President Harding has demanded early action.

Just what does this bill provide?

It is submitted as a measure "to promote an American merchant marine." Simply stated, it provides six primary methods of assistance to vessel interests:

1. The sale of government-owned vessels to private individuals or corporations. These vessels are to be operated under the American flag, on terms permitting payments to be extended over 15 years, with interest at 4 per cent on unpaid balances.

2. Government loans, up to $125,000,000, for new vessel construction or equipment. Loans may be made up to two-thirds total cost of such vessels, and to bear interest at rate of 2 per cent.

3. Reduction of taxes on incomes and profits of individuals or corporations, earned by the operation of American vessels in foreign trade, and exemption from taxes of earnings or profits reinvested in new ship construction.

Aids U. S. Shipping.

4. Monopoly to American shipping, wherever possible, in carrying out-bound foreign mails.

5. Requirement that one-half of all immigrants coming to America shall have passage on American-owned vessels.

6. Direct cash payments by the government, on the basis of gross tonnage and mileage of vessels operated between American and foreign ports.

Supporters of the measure maintain that the cost to the government under its provisions would be less than the sum the government is now losing on its war-built merchant fleet. President Harding placed this loss at $50,000,000 a year.

They also declare the measure would stimulate private interest in the development of American shipping to the point where American ships would transport American products to the markets of the world, thereby keeping in American pockets the profits from such transportation.

Further, they contend, an adequate American merchant marine would be an invaluable asset in time of war for the transportation of supplies or troops.

Opponents' Arguments.

Opponents of the measure say the subsidy will constitute a gift of untold millions to a comparatively few groups of shipping interests; that it will not stimulate a truly great merchant marine, but will go only to lines operating ships over established routes; that it is unAmerican in principle, because it seeks to sustain, out of the public purse, a service which the administration says cannot be maintained in open competition with other nations; that by the special favors proposed in tax exemption and low rates of interest, injustice is done all other groups which must pay taxes and borrow money.

They also argue that, in addition to the direct cost to the government of the tonnage-mile subsidy, estimated by shipping board officials at $30,000,000 yearly, the lost taxes and other gratuities would add additional millions which never could be accurately figured.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

INDIAN

Minnie Atkins, half-blood Creek Indian, wins oil lands worth $4,000,000 in a case decided by the national supreme court.

We have been unfair to the Indians, robbed them right and left. But we are getting fairer when a descendant of the conquered race can go to court, claim and get $4,000,000.

In the history of other subject people, there is nothing like it. The Atkins case should help soothe an uneasy national conscience.

MIDDLE-BROW

A new word combination, "middlebrows," is coined by Margaret Slattery, lecturing in Boston. She says the world needs middle-brows rather than unthinking low-brows and intelligent but heartless highbrows.

Margaret is on the right track. The world today needs "heart" rather than intellect. Big problems remain unsolved because they are viewed as intellectual problems when they really are matters of "heart"—tolerance, charity, decency, brotherhood.

TRAPPED

John Martin, champion hunter employed by Uncle Sam, "works" two months in South Dakota. He kills 37 coyotes and two bobcats, all old animals. Two-thirds of them bore evidence of having been in traps from which they had escaped, or of having been shot and wounded in the past.

Old and wary animals are hard to trap or shoot, says John.

Experience is valuable, to humans as much as coyotes and bobcats.

"BABY MINE"

But most of us raise a mighty howl while we're acquiring it. Yet getting caught in a small trap usually saves us from a larger trap later—provided we remember and learn.

DANGER

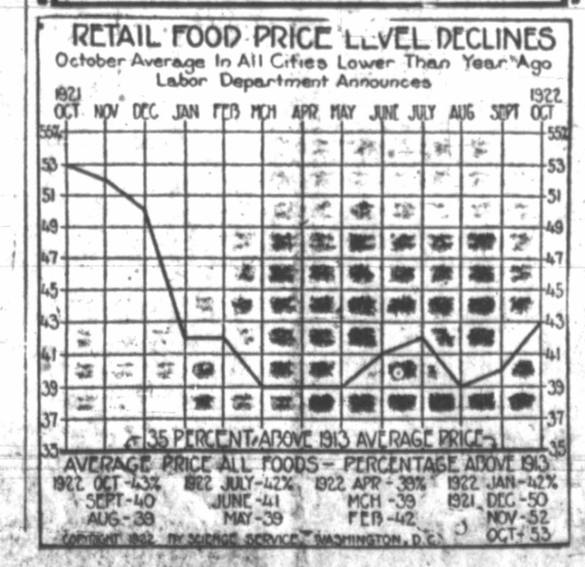

Fire insurance is the latest. That's the trade name, but the policies protect restaurants and other sellers of foods in general, from damage suits when the food makes the eaters ill or kills them outright.

Plenty of customers, the insurance people announce. Good reason. A wedding cake, when cut recently in New York, was found to contain a dead rat. It cost the pastry baker $11,000 damages when sued.

Be careful what you eat. Food is the most dangerous thing in civilization, especially when eaten to excess.

CHAPTER III

The afternoon sun lay on the terrace of the gray stone house, where the big creature, dead to the middle, talked from his chair, clearing the mystery that had covered his disappearance from the world. It was an extraordinary story, and I wished to get it, in detail, precisely clear.

"It was fiction," I asked, "this explanation to Westridge?"

He looked at me in a sort of wonder.

"Sure," he said, "I made it up."

"There wasn't any of it true?"

"Not a word," he answered. "Don't you understand?

"This was a little game that me and God Almighty was settin' up on the side."

"You knew nothing of the girl's affairs?" The thing seemed incredible to me.

"That's right," he replied, "not a thing, except that her father, a lawyer in the south, was dead, and the small coin was beginning to mean somethin'—an' of course this little game of this Westridge person—it was a blind pool; nobody in on it, but God Almighty."

I could not forbear a comment.

"He seems to have helped you in the opening."

The big creature turned heavily toward me.

"With little Westridge?" There was deep irony in his voice. "I didn't need any help to handle him. That was A B C stuff. The big trouble was ahead."

"With the girl?" the query escaped me.

"No," he replied, "that was my job too. You listen. I'm comin' to it.

I looked out for a chance to get the girl by herself, an' about four o'clock I got it. There had been a fog in; it cleared a little and she went for a walk. She took the path along the sea toward Cromwell's Harbor and I followed her. She turned back where the path ends at the harbor, and just before a big house, that hadn't been opened that season, I met her.

"I stoped in the path?

"Missie,' I said, 'could I speak to you a minute?'

"There was no sham business about her. She was clean and straight and afraid of nothin', like an angel of God.

"'Certainly,' she said. 'What is it, sir?'

The big man moved his loose bulk in the chair.

"I knew something about stories," he said. "I've had to make 'em up so a jury would believe 'em, an' I done my best as I limped along by her.

"'I ain't always been rich,' I says. 'I was down an' out in the eighties, an' I was agoin' to do somethin' that would have ruined me, when by God's luck I met Harry in Louisville.' (I'd heard the old women call her father Harry, so I had that much to go on.)

"'Al,' he says, 'what's the trouble?'

"'I suppose it was in my face. I was broke down an' I told him. He got it all in his head, an' then he patted me on the shoulder. "Old man," he said, "a little money ain't goin' to do you any good. I'll get you fifty thousand dollars an' you go out to the race-course this afternoon an' pick a winner."

"'I tried to turn it down. I didn't want to lose his money. I didn't know one horse from another. But he just laughed and kept patting me on the back. 'A beginner for luck,' he says. 'Where's your nerve, Al?' Well, I picked that big Dercum colt that nobody had ever heard of, a five-to-one shot, an' he romped in!'

"I was alimpin' along the seapath, aproddin' the gravel with my cane an' atalkin' to my feet same as if I was afraid the recollection would get away with me if I wasn't careful. The girl didn't say nothin' and I went on.

"'Harry wouldn't touch the winnins; he picked out his fifty thousand and put me out of the room.'

"I limped on, talking to my feet.

"'And it saved me two ways, for the thing I was agoin' to do would have ruined me.'

"My voice got down pretty near in a whisper.

"'I never saw Harry after that,' I says, 'until last night.'

"She stopped quick, an' I went on a step or two.

"'My father?' she said.

"'Yes,' I says, not looking up. 'Harry, just as he looked that morning in Louisville—only he was troubled.'

"'Then I turned on her like I was makin' a clean breast of it. I had the tears startin' and the right choke-up, an' it wasn't all jury dope. I didn't want that heavenly angel fouled over by little Westridge. It balled the heart out of me.

"'Now, Missie,' I said, 'you've got to help me even this thing up. I don't know nothin' about your affairs—I don't want to know. But you've got to take that same bunch of money and chance it on something.'

"But what should I do with the money?" she asked.

"She shook her head, and I had a bad hour. All along that sea-path, with the fog dodging in and out, I kept right at her; I never lost a step. I was old and rich; money was nothing to me.

"'But what should I do with the money?' she asked, finally, in a sort of queer hesitation.

"'I'll tell you that tonight,' I answered.". The huge creature seemed to relax, as though there had been a vital tension in the mere memory of the thing.

"'That cleaned up my end of it,' he continued, "and after dinner when it was getting a little dark, I limped over to the church. I had the last copy of the Financial Register in my hand. I stopped in the door. The church was closed and it was dark, but I didn't need any light for the business I come on.

"'Governor,' I says, 'the rest of this job's up to you. I'm agoin' to open this magazine here in the dark and the first things that's advertised at the top of the page on the right-hand side is the thing I'm agoin' to tell her to put the coin on—Ready,' I says, 'go to it!' and I folded back the page and went over to the hotel."

Again he paused.

"I got a jolt when I saw the page. It was some sort of Canadian goldmine so fishy that the letters had scales on 'em. But I says to myself, 'That's the Governor's business, an' I cut it out, put it into an envelope with the draft, and left it at the desk for her."

He paused.

"The next morning I slid out. Eight months later the plague struck me. I crippled into England, asked her to hide me while I died, and she put me here."

"And the gold stock," I said, "I suppose it turned her out a fortune?"

The energy came back for an instant into his voice.

"It was so rotten," he replied, "that the Governor-General of Canada summoned all the victims to meet with him for a conference in Montreal."

At this moment I caught the sound of a motor entering the gates at some distance through the park. The huge paralytic also heard it, and his attention was no longer toward me. It was on the great great coach colored limousine drawup at the end of the avenue of ancient beech-trees.

I looked at him.

A girl helped out by footmen stepped down into the avenue, carpeted down with the yellow Autumn leaves. Even at the distance it was impossible to mistake her; the charm, her beauty, were the women of England. And on the instant, in a flash of the eye, I recalled the painted picture hanging in the great house in Berkeley Square, the picture from which this creature's mutilated photograph had been taken, the picture of a young girl, in an ancient chair, with an ornament but a bit of jade on a cord about her neck.

"It's the young Duchess of Hurlingham," I said.

The big creature beside me was struggling to rise, his voice in an excited flutter.

"Sure," he said, "God Almighty didn't throw me down. When she went up to that conference in Montreal, He had young Hurlingham on the spot—fine, straight, clean youngster as ever was born. It was love her at sight; an' now"—he made a great gesture as though to include something without a visible limit—"she's got all these places in England, an' all that Standard Oil money that belonged to his mother's people."

The girl, radiant as a vision, was advancing on the carpet of golden beech-leaves, and I hastened to put a final query, the thing I had come here to find out. I have given up the idea of an arrest. The man was dying.

"What did you do with the registered bonds that you got when you cracked the vault of the British Embassy in Washington the night before you went to Bar Harbor? They had Lord Dovedale's name on them, and they could not be negotiated."

The whole sagging body of the unsteady creature strained toward the advancing vision as toward an idol. His voice reached me, stuttering as with fatigue.

"That's the stuff I put up with Westridge for the loan—go take it away from him!"

A startling story of mystery and horror, "The Thing on the Hearth," will begin in our next issue.

RAISING SMALL FRUITS AND VEGETABLES PROFITABLE

HOUSTON.—The raising of small fruits and vegetables in Harris county has grown within the past few years to be a very profitable industry, and as a consequence there is not a day in the year that some variety of vegetable is not offered for sale in the city, it is reported, with a large number of truck farms and gardens in and around Houston. Produce houses of San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Mexia, Oklahoma City, and other points, send their buyers here during the winter and early spring, it is said.

STATE AND FEDERAL OFFICERS TO STAGE CLEANUP AT TULSA

TULSA, OKLA., Nov. 30.—Backed by the state and federal governments, Clifford W. King, assistant state attorney general, arrived here this morning to institute an investigation into the dismissal of liquor cases by County Attorney W. F. Seaver, who takes the stand that "the people don't want prohibition and there is no use trying to enforce it on them."

On his arrival here from Oklahoma City the assistant attorney general was greeted with the published announcement of the 76-year-old county attorney that the "whole attorney general's force can come down here and see what they can do about it." Declaring that he thought the action of Governor Robertson in ordering the attorney general to make an inquiry was "a big joke," County Attorney Seaver made it plain that he intended to do things in his own way until his term expired.

Mr. King has orders from Attorney General George Short to refile charges against any alleged violators of the dry laws in Tulsa county where it appears there is evidence sufficient to gain conviction.

The force of the government was thrown behind the attorney general's department with announcement by Frank Lee, United States district attorney for eastern Oklahoma, that his office would give the closest cooperation in the investigation. Lee said he was prepared to file federal charges in all cases dismissed by County Attorney Seaver.

NO CONSTITUTIONAL BARRIER TO SPECIAL ROAD BONDS

GALVESTON, Nov. 30.—There exists no constitutional barrier to the issue of the proposed $1,250,000 special road bonds, if the property taxpaying voters of the county, by a two-thirds majority, approve of the proposition, according to the opinion of County Attorney Charles H. Theobald.

PLAYS HEROIC PART AT THE BURNING OF STEAMER

WACO, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Ella D. Weaver, former Waco telephone operator, played a heroic part during the burning of the City of Honolulu, steamer, last month, according to a letter received by Mrs. Weaver's daughter, Mrs. C. K. White of Waco, from D. J. Phelan, chief freight clerk of the steamship President Harrison, and who was on board the ill-fated steamer. Mrs. Weaver, the letter states, not only assisted by summoning the passengers out, but assisted with the life belts and was the last woman to leave the burning ship.

STARRY SKIES IN DECEMBER

By Professor Barton of the University of Pennsylvania

By PROFESSOR BARTON
University of Pennsylvania

Again Mars is the only naked-eye planet visible in the early evening. It is in the low southwest, as indicated on figure 1. During the month Mars passes Uranus. They will be closest on Christmas morning and nearly as close on the preceding evening. At that time both are near one of the stars in Aquarius, so close that the two planets and the star will be in the same field for small telescopes or opera glasses. The planets are but seven minutes apart when closest, but at about twice that distance when visible on the evening of December 24. The star is to the north of the planets. The planet Uranus is not visible to the naked eye and the star will not be conspicuous at the low altitude, but Mars can be seen easily and the location established in this way.

The A marked on figure 1 marks the position of the star which has recently been found to have a larger mass than of any star whose mass is known. The star is of magnitude 6.1 and is seen with the naked eye only under especially good conditions. It may be well to state that the mass of a body means the amount of matter contained in the body. To state the mass of a body gives no definite information as to its volume or size. One might have two balls of the same diameter and volume, one a toy balloon filled with light gas, the other a ball of lead. Their volume would be the same, but their mass very different. On the other hand we might have the oft-mentioned pound of lead and pound of feathers the masses of which (compared by their weights) is the same, yet their volume is very different. The mass contained in a unit of volume is called the density and if the density is compared with that of water as is usual the density is called the specific density.

The densest of the astronomical bodies know is the earth, which has an average density 5.5 times that of water. This is not surprising since the earth is a cold body. Another such body could not be seen unless nearby. Stars shining by their own light are intensely hot and large densities would not be expected.

Binary Stars.

The attraction of the earth for bodies on it gives them what is known as weight, which is proportional to the mass of the body. If unsupported the body will fall to the earth. Any two bodies will tend to fall together by reason of their mutual attraction and the rate of falling is a measure of the intensity of the force, which in turn depends upon the masses and the distance between them. It is this attraction which keeps heavenly bodies in revolution about each other. When we observe such "revolutions" we can obtain some information about the masses causing them. When we find two stars moving under their mutual attraction we call them a binary star. When we have observed the period of revolution of such a star, and can determine its distance, we can determine the mass of the stars. In but a few cases about 10 have we been able to do this satisfactorily as yet.

With the spectroscope, however, we are able to determine the velocity with which stars move toward or away from us regardless of their distance. This instrument tells us that certain stars, otherwise considered single, are double, one star moving toward us and the other at the same time moving away from us. Such stars are called spectroscopic binaries. The stars are so close to each other that no one can actually see two stars. A study of these velocities and a calculation based upon them enables us to determine minimum values of the mass for about 50 such stars. When a star is not a binary its mass cannot be determined.

An Unusual Star.

Observations made with the powerful spectroscope attached to the great reflecting telescope of the Dominion astrophysical observatory at Victoria, Canada, showed that the star at A is a spectroscopic binary and that the velocities of the two stars change as shown in figure 2. These curves give us much information. The period in which the stars revolve is simply the interval between the greatest velocity in the same direction—that is, the interval between similar high or low points on the curve which, as may be seen from the figure in this case, is 14.4 days. The curves show that both stars while revolving are moving away from the sun at the rate of 14.8 miles per second. We also determine the shape of the ellipse in which one star moves about the other and something as to its position and size and the place of the body in it, and that the masses are at least 75 and 62 times that of the sun. In this case the path is nearly circular and the bodies not very unequal. The stars are as much as 55,700,000 miles apart.

From somewhat less exact methods it has been deduced that the masses are probably at least as great as 56 to 72 times that of the sun; that the distance of the star is about 10,000 light years, and that the two stars are 14,000 and 11,000 times as bright as our sun. We see them as a single star which gives out 25,000 times as much light as the sun. No other star so bright is known. The stars are of equal density, which is about a hundredth of that of the sun. The diameters are about 20 and 18 times that of the sun. Thus although this is the most massive star known, its volume does not reach that of such stars as Betelgeuse at D nearby, whose diameter is 75 times that of the sun, or of the still larger star Antares.

It is indeed remarkable that so much information can be secured about any star. Seventy-five years ago such information seemed hopelessly beyond possible investigation. That we can now secure it is due to those great instruments of modern astronomical research, the spectroscope and photographic plate, used with large telescopes. This star is hardly visible to the naked eye, and in the telescope undergoes no noticeable change either in brightness or position. To the eye there is no change whatsoever. Our information comes from the analysis of its light. Not less important than the instruments, however, is the interpreter of the facts of observation, in the case of Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Dominion Observatory, who in turn owes much to those who have discovered the laws of mathematics and physics involved and to those who have considered similar problems.

The largest mass heretofore known for any star was that of V Puppis, which is 23 times as massive as the sun. The star discussed above, which has no other designation except the technical one B. D 6 degrees 1309, is at least more than four times as massive. The information we have seems to indicate that stars differ much less in mass than they do in characteristics. The smallest mass known is about a sixth of that of the sun.

The eclipsing star Algol at E, Figure 1, is at its minimum brightness December 10, 11:40 p. m.; Dec. 13, 8:25 p. m.; December 16, 5:15 p. m. The sun is farthest south December 22, 9:57 a. m. Eastern standard time. Winter begins then.

LONGHORNS AND BEARS FAVORED TO WIN TODAY'S GAMES BUT--

Baylor's Veteran Squad Believing to Be Facing Stiff Battle at Dallas

DALLAS, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—The Baylor Bears and the S. M. U. Mustangs hold the attention at the state fair stadium fighting for the southern conference championship of the gridiron season while the Texas Longhorns and Aggies meet at Austin.

Baylor University's eleven from Waco, the conference's one veteran team, which inside the organization has maintained an undefeated record, commonly held to be a favorite over the Mustangs, presented a field of tried players, with Bradshaw, quarterback outstanding.

The Mustangs, with Bedford, right end, and Stollenwerck, quarter, offered their strongest lineup, and a determined spirit, bent upon wiping away their defeat by the University of Arkansas, and a repetition of their victory over the Texas Aggies.

Sporting writers have devoted pages of "dope" to today's big game but have at the last minute conceded that speculation, though rife, has been meaningless when the final whistle terminated big games the country over this year—and all agreed today's outcome laid solely in the hands of the official scorer.

The Bears lead Texas teams in total scores. In eight games, they have run up 251 points against their opponents' 60. The Mustangs are second with 199 points, with their opponents having scored 44 points. The Longhorns show a tally of 193 to 51.

The complete scores follow:

Baylor University (Bears).

Baylor 55, Denton Normal 0; Baylor 42, Simmons College 0; Baylor 31, Rice Institute 0; Baylor 60, U. of Arkansas 13; Baylor 40, Mississippi College 7; Baylor 13, Texas A. & M. 7; Baylor 0, Boston College 33; Baylor 10, Oklahoma A. & M. 0.

S. M. U. (Mustangs).

S. M. U. 46, Denton Normal 0; S. M. U. 61, L. S. U 0; S. M. U. 7, Austin College 19; S. M. U. 32, Oklahoma A. & M. 3; S. M. U. 44, Southwestern 13; S. M. U. 27, Texas A. & M. 6; S. M. U. 6, Arkansas 3.

Texas University (Longhorns).

Texas 19, Austin College 0; Texas 41, Phillips U. 10; Texas 19, Okla. A. & M. 7; Texas 10, Vanderbilt 20; Texas 19, Alabama 10; Texas 28, Rice 0; Texas 24, Southwestern 0; Texas 33, Oklahoma U. 7.

Texas A. & M. (Aggies).

NORTH TEXAS AND A. & M. TEAMS IN GOOD CONDITION

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—The annual Texas University-Texas A. & M. college game today finds the University Longhorns favored to win. Their season's record is marred by only one defeat—Vanderbilt—while the Aggies have been four times downed. But even with this standing those who have in former years watched these annual games aver that the Aggies always play hardest against the university.

Coaches of both report their players in good condition.

The game will be preceded by stunts by students of both institutions. The Texas "Cowboys" will perform on behalf of the university while the Aggie students will present some kind of an act.

Probable line-up:

DALLAS GAME IS BETWEEN TWO STRONG OFFENSIVE TEAMS

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—When the Baylor University Bears and the Southern Methodist University Mustangs clash in their annual Thanksgiving football game here today each team will go up another rated far better as an offensive club than defensive. Both teams offer fleet backfields, especially adept at end running and tackle brushing.

Though rated highly on the offense neither the Bears nor the Mustangs are weak on the defense. In the past games of the season both have demonstrated numerous times the ability to break up plays and stem the tide of the opposing organization.

The offensive work will be added to by performance of two star quarterbacks — Wesley Bradshaw for Baylor, and Leon Stollenwerck for S. M. U. Each a contender for the mythical all-southwestern conference team, today's game will probably decide to which of the two the honor goes. It is generally conceded that one of them will be chosen when the season closes tonight.

Probable line-up:

S. M. U.	Position	BAYLOR
Sanders	LE	Fullinghim
Brooks (c)	LT	Williamson
Boyd	LG	Anderson
Daniels	C	Kirk
Newton	RG	Weathers
Smith	RT	Blailock

Many Elevens In South Lay Claim to Title

By NEA Service.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 30.—What about the football championship of the south? What college has the best claim to the southern title?

As in all other sections of the country the football situation is rather muddled in the south. Some of the best teams in this section have fallen below expectations, while others have upset the dope.

Georgia Tech is sure to present a strong claim. If Tech can win from Auburn in the Thanksgiving Day battle, it will have some mighty strong arguments to offer to support its claim.

Georgia Tech's southern record is clean, although it has been beaten by the Navy and Notre Dame. Auburn recently beat Centre 6 to 0, more or less eliminating that eleven. Auburn also beat Georgia 7 to 3.

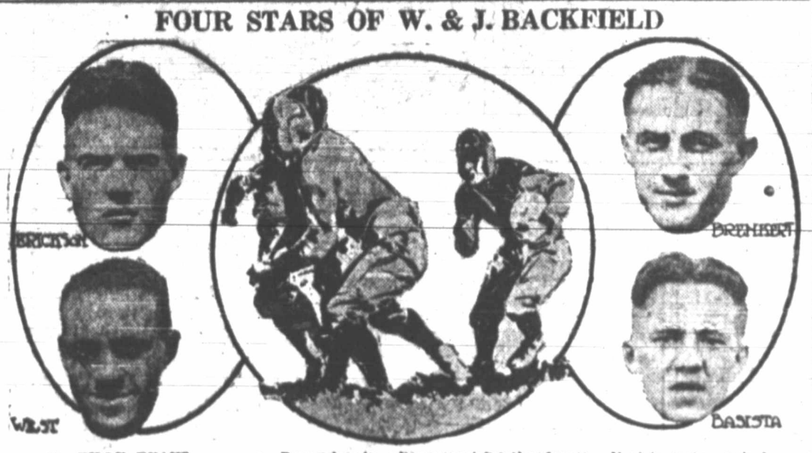

The record of Vanderbilt is imposing. The team has not lost a game and has a 12 to 0 victory over Georgia, a 20 to 10 victory over Texas and a scoreless tie with Michigan, one of the best teams in the west.

If one considers West Virginia as a southern college, it is of course impossible to overlook the Mountaineers, who have made a great record.

FOOTBALL SLUMPS BANE OF COACH

TEAMS AFTER BEING POINTED FOR BIG GAME USUALLY GO STALE

FOUR STARS OF W. & J. BACKFIELD

By BILLY EVANS.

In these days of intensive football, slumps are getting to be a regular part of the gridiron game.

For years the word slump from a sport standpoint has been confined almost entirely to baseball. Players and teams from time to time slump in their fielding and batting, pitching staffs do the same.

When a football team is pointed for some big game the difficult thing for the coach after getting over that game is to keep his team from slumping off as a natural reaction.

Pennsylvania, after surprising the football world by defeating the strong Navy team, suffered a form reversal and lost to the Alabama eleven. When Alabama was scheduled it was looked on in the light of a practice session.

Pitt Surprised W. & J.

Washington and Jefferson is the latest big eleven to slump in its work. After its great victory over Lafayette, supporters of Washington and Jefferson were ready to make all kinds of claims for their favorites and deservedly so. Then came the 10 to 0 defeat at the hands of University of Pittsburg.

Pittsburg's overwhelming defeat of Washington and Jefferson came as one of the big surprises of the season. A comparison of the records made W. & J. look like a certain winner. Comparative scores, however, have received some terrific jolts this year.

For instance, Lafayette beat Bucknell, 27 to 7, while the best Pittsburg could do was a 7 to 0 win. Since W. & J. had beaten Lafayette, Neale's team ranked as a hot favorite over Pitt.

The Washington and Jefferson game is a big affair with Pittsburg. Smarting under a rather unexpected 7 to 0 defeat of last year, Coach Warner undoubtedly pointed his Pitt players for the W. & J. game. Neale's team, on the other hand, seemed to be in one of the slumps that has come to be a part of the game.

The 10 to 0 defeat must have been a severe jolt to Coach Neale, who probably figured a hard game, but certainly a victory. Now it is up to Neale to restore some of the prestige lost in the Pitt game.

University of West Virginia offers a chance for W. & J. to do a comeback. West Virginia has a 9 to 6 victory to its credit over Pitt. If Neale can get his team going and wallop West Virginia he will have removed some of the sting of the Pitt defeat.

Strenuous Game of Football Has Its Many Amusing Features

By "BO" McMILLIN
All-America Quarterback.

Football is a spectacular game and many times the crowd is amused by the freakish plays pulled by the players. If this results in a break in favor of the home team it pleases the crowd, but if it should go against them it will cause the spectators to groan. In my time I have seen some very peculiar plays and some of them have placed our team in dangerous positions at the time.

In a recent article I mentioned where our punter in one game missed the ball entirely on an attempt to punt. In this same game there were several other peculiar plays. Early in our game against West Virginia the Mountaineers tried the old shoe-string play where one man lays out near the sideline and a pass is thrown to him without a signal. But in this instance it failed to work as the man receiving the pass was thrown for a two-yard loss by our halfback.

Value of Smart Player.

Another play in that same game shows the advantage of a smart football player over a slow thinker. West Virginia tried a trick play in which the halfback carrying the ball starts on an end run and as he is tackled he will pass the ball to another back who is behind him waiting.

Roberts, who was playing defensive end for us on that day, refused to tackle the man but used his hands on him instead. Just as he was attempting to pass the ball Red gave him a shove, causing a bad pass and consequently a fumble. Red scooped up the ball and ran 30 yards before he was forced out of bounds. This broke up the offensive drive of the opposition and was largely responsible for our winning the game.

Tackled His Own Man.

The spectators will sometimes wonder how the players manage to keep so cool under fire in a game as strenuous as football. However, the man in the stands does not know all that goes on during that 60 minutes. Even the most experienced players will get excited in the heat of a game, especially so in a hard one, when his team is about to score or be scored on for the winning touchdown.

I recall one game in which Centre was on the small end of a 6 to 0 score. We had just made a pass to one of our ends, who, by a beautiful catch and run, carried the ball to the opponents' two-yard line. With first down and only two to go the end who had caught the pass rushed back to me and said, "Throw me a pass, throw me a pass." He was about as much excited as a man could be. If he had only stopped to think he would have known it would be a bad play to try at that time. On the first play we bucked the ball over and kicked the goal for the winning point.

Another funny instance, although not so amusing to me at the time, happened in one of our hardest games. One of our men intercepted a pass and was running for a touchdown with no one between him and the goal except one of our own men. You can imagine our surprise when our own man tackled him and before he could get going again the other team was on him.

This is all in the game, though, and it is such plays as these that help to make football the wonderful game that it is.

COACH WARNER WINS NEW HONORS

Victory of Pittsburg's Green Team Over W. & J. a Real Feat.

By NEA Service.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Nov. 29.—The University of Pittsburgh football team will close its home season with the annual Thanksgiving Day game with Pennsylvania State College at Forbes field, home of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and a crowd of 33,000—all that the park will hold—is anticipated.

This will be the twenty-fifth contest between these Keystone State teams, football relations between them extending back to 1893 when Pitt was known as the Western University of Pennsylvania.

Last year and in 1920 the games resulted in scoreless ties, and in 1919 State won by the score of 28 to 0. Previous to that the Panthers had won six in a row, their victorious string starting in 1914, the year before the veteran Glenn Warner came here to coach.

Pitt has lost two games this season to Lafayette and West Virginia University. Lafayette won by the score of 7 to 0, and the Mountaineers triumphed by the count of 9 to 6.

Started With Green Team.

Warner started out this fall with a decidedly green team. He had lost by graduation last spring four of the five men in the center of his line, including Herb Stein, who had won All-America honors at center; Harvey Harman, one of the best tackles ever developed here; Leon Kelly and Fred Peters. He also lost his All-America halfback, Tom Davies, one of the greatest broken-field runners in modern football—a real flash, whose place could not be easily filled.

Then in the Lafayette game this fall he lost Captain Tom Holleran, his quarterback, who was put out of it with a broken arm. Holleran was a tower of strength in the back field, a great interferer and a fine defensive player. He was also a bearcat at throwing forward passes and good at receiving them.

Then, on the eve of the Penn game, Nick Shuler, second string quarterback, who had been developing rapidly, was stricken with pneumonia, and in the struggle with the Quakers Nick Colonna, second string fullback, suffered a dislocated elbow, which deprived the coach of his services.

Pitt Has Fine Record.

In spite of numerous handicaps, Warner kept steadily at work, defeated Bucknell, Syracuse, Cincinnati, Geneva and Penn, and topped this off with a most brilliant victory over Pitt's sectional rival, Washington and Jefferson, last Saturday.

Prominent in the W. & J. defeat were H. C. Flanagan, Orville M. Hewitt, J. C. Winterburn, Jack Sack, Charley Bowser and John Anderson.

Pitt is mighty proud of its gridders, practically all of whom are products of high and prep schools in Western Pennsylvania. Coach Warner took this outfit and welded it into a machine which is showing more power and drive with every game. Pitt is one of the three colleges in the state of Pennsylvania which observes the one-year residence and the three-year competition eligibility rules, the others being University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State College.

ANOTHER COYOTE CENTER INJURED; CAN'T PLAY TODAY

When the football teams of Ryan, Oklahoma, and Wichita Hi met at the Athletic park, the Coyotes will probably be without the services of another center, West. He is reported as being ill, and with Harris on the side lines with a dislocated ankle, only Hughes remains to fill the center position.

Shaw, star end, will still be out of the game, but all the other players, who were adorned with blankets in the contest against Quanah, will be back among the starters.

The probable lineup is:

Coyotes—Bracken and Kiker, ends; Coffey and Howie, tackles; Walker and Hildreth, guards; Hughes, center; Chewning and Stringer, halfbacks; Kenley, fullback; Mackechney, at quarter.

Ryan—Smith (captain), half; A. Burnett, full; Dean, quarter; Barrett, end; Jopling, end; Mains, center; Hundley, guard; Poynter, guard; McDaniel, tackle; B. Burnett, tackle.

CLEAR, SNAPPY WEATHER PROMISED FOR GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Clear, snappy weather was promised today for the annual Thanksgiving day football struggle between Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania at Franklin field. Nearly all of the 53,000 seats in the new stadium had been sold last night and it was expected that a capacity crowd would be present when the teams kick off.

The undefeated Cornell eleven was prepared for the stiffest test it has had all season.

Southwestern Football Season Closes Thursday With Many Games On

DALLAS, TEXAS, Nov. 30.—Today's holiday gridiron car virtually terminates the football season in Texas. The southwestern conference offers Baylor and Southern Methodist University at Dallas; the Texas Aggies and Texas at Austin; Arkansas and Oklahoma Aggies at Fort Smith, Ark.; and Rice Institute and Arizona at Houston, the latter game out of the conference.

The Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association teams lineup in the Thanksgiving offering as follows:

At Denton: Southwest Texas Normal vs. North Texas Normal.

At Brownwood: Simmons vs. Howard Payne.

At Waxahachie: Austin College vs. Trinity.

At El Paso: Daniel Baker vs. El Paso School of Mines.

At Commerce: Abilene Christian vs. East Texas Normal.

At Clarendon: West Texas Normal vs. Clarendon.

Southwestern University is the only T. I. A. A. team not in action today.

Standing of the teams in the T. I. A. A., before today's battles showed:

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Austin College	5	5	0	1.000
Denton Normal	1	1	0	1.000
Simmons	5	3	1	.750
Howard Payne	5	3	1	.750
Southwestern	5	2	2	.400
Daniel Baker	6	2	4	.333
Trinity	5	1	2	.333
T. C. U.	5	0	5	.000
Southwest Texas	2	0	2	.000
East Texas Normal	2	0	2	.000
West Texas Normal	2	0	2	.000

In the southwestern conference play today team and team rivalry is foremost. Texas and A. & M. meet for the twenty-nineth time, with Texas having won eighteen times, to the Aggies seven. Three games were tied. S. M. U. has never won a game from Baylor.

JACK DAW IN HOOPLAND

By ELTON

It was growing a bit cold and Filp whined. Jack was startled and a bit afraid that it would attract the aviator's attention. However, the noise of the plane engine drowned out Flip's commotion. Then Jack looked up into the sky and saw a big group of eagles flying through the clouds.

In his excitement Jack stood up in the plane and, of course, the aviator saw him. Suddenly the matchine took a deep dip and for a moment Jack thought it was going to crash to earth. Then, as suddenly, it righted itself and Jack heard the aviator yell, "Where did you come from?"

Jack stood up in the plane to answer the aviator. A gust of wind nearly knocked him over. Then crouching down, he said, "I just wanted to take a ride." "Well," said the aviator, "you'll have to leave the plane. I'll let you have my parachute and you and your dog can drop." (Continued.)

Hears From New York State In Reply to Want Ad

Attorney Guy R. Holcomb, Wednesday told of the gratifying results from a want advertisement which he inserted in the Sunday issue of The Times.

Mr. Holcomb said that he inserted a two line advertisement in the classified columns asking for capital to finish a well in the Sunshine Hill district.

Tuesday afternoon he received a telegram from a party in Rochester, N. Y., in response to the advertisement stating that he would be glad to furnish the capital as advertised for in the Daily Times. Many other replies were also secured, Mr. Holcomb said.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The state of Texas. To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Reliance Oil company, a corporation, by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 89th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in January, A. D. 1923, the same being the first day of January, A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 28th day of November, A. D. 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 12704-C wherein, W. C. Witcher, administrator of the estate of Lucy O'Neill Sanders, deceased, and Mrs. Annie L. Witcher, guardian of the person and estate of Francis Ann Saunders, a minor, are plaintiffs, and Reliance Oil company, a corporation, is defendant, and said petition alleging, that on the 30th day of March, 1920, E. M. Foster, executed and delivered to the defendant, Reliance Oil company, a certain oil and gas lease upon the following described tract of land, situated in Wichita county, Texas, and described as follows: 106.3 acres in subdivision No. 2; 115.8 acres in subdivision No. 10; 162 acres in subdivision No. 13; 107.5 acres in subdivision No. 14; 117.7 acres in subdivision No. 15; 209.4 acres in subdivision No. 17; 124.8 acres in subdivision No. 18; 115.8 acres in subdivision No. 20; containing 1123.3 acres, all being out of what is known as the Specht Colony Lands, according to the plat of record in the deed records of Wichita county, Texas, to which reference is here made. The intention of the lessor is to convey all the unleased property in the subdivision herein mentioned. Plaintiffs further allege that in accordance with the terms of said lease, the defendants agreed and covenanted as follows: "If no well be commenced on said land on or before the first of January, 1921, this lease shall terminate as to both parties, unless the lessee on or before that date shall pay or tender to lessor or to the lessor's credit in the National Bank of Commerce at Wichita Falls, Texas, or its successors, which shall continue as the depository, regardless of changes in the ownership of said land, the sum of $1,000, which shall operate as rental and cover the privilege of deferring the commencement of a well for 12 months from said date. In like manner and upon like payments or tenders the commencement of a well may be further deferred for like periods of the same number of months successively. And it is understood and agreed that the consideration first recited herein, the down payment, covers not only the privilege granted to the date when said first rental is payable as aforesaid, but also the lessee's option of extending that period as aforesaid, and any and all other rights conferred." That among the terms and covenants of said lease, it provided as follows: "Should the first well drilled on the above described land be a dry hole then and in that event, if a second well is not commenced on said land within 12 months thereafter, this lease shall terminate as to both parties, unless the lessee on or before the expiration of said 12 months shall resume the payments of rentals in the same amount and in the same manner as hereinabove provided." That the defendant did before the first day of January, 1921, to-wit, along in May or June, 1920, go upon said land and drill a well thereon, but that said well was a dry hole. That on or about the 30th of Oct., 1920, the plaintiffs became the owners and holders of the fee simple title to the above described property and all of the rights and privileges accruing to the said E. M. Foster from the oil and gas lease which the said E. M. Foster had theretofore executed to the defendants on March 30, 1920. Plaintiffs further allege that since the drilling by the defendant on the above described property in the month of May or June, 1920, or about that time, said defendant has done no further work on said premises, have not drilled any more thereon, and have never at time produced any oil in paying quantities therefrom, but that all of work on said premises resulted in drilling dry holes. That said defendants on or about July 1st, 1920, moved off of said premises and abandoned the same by taking all of the machinery, equipment and everything that they had placed on said lease, and have failed and refused to deposit to the credit of the plaintiffs in the National Bank of Commerce of Wichita Falls, Texas, or its successors, any sum or sums of money as hereinabove specified and as shown in the lease covenants. Wherefore plaintiffs pray that the defendants be cited to answer this petition and that they have judgment cancelling whatever right, title or interest the defendants may have in and to the property hereinabove set forth and removing the cloud from the title to said property by reason of the oil and gas lease executed to the defendants on said above described property, and for such other and further relief, both general and special, etc. Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 29th day of November, A. D. 1922.—A. F. Kerr, clerk, district court, Wichita county, Texas. By Eunice Jackson, deputy.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

The state of Texas to the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, Greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Hugh B. Tucker by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 89th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls on the first Monday in January A. D. 1923, the same being the first day of January A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 29th day of June A. D. 1922 in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 12021-C, wherein J. F. Montgomery is plaintiff and Hugh B. Tucker is defendant, and said petition alleging: That on or about the 1st of June, 1922, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the following property, situated in Wichita county, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit: lot 9 block 10 Floral Heights addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas; that on said date defendant unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withholds from him the possession thereof, to his damage of $500; that the reasonable annual rental value of said land and premises is $600. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that plaintiffs have judgment for the title and possession of said property and that writ of restitution issue, and for his rents, damages and cost of suit and for such other and further relief, special and general in law and in equity. That on or about January 2, 1920, W. H. Yeargin sold and conveyed to the said Hugh B. Tucker said lot 9 block 10 Floral Heights addition to the city of Wichita Falls together with the improvements thereon and in his deed retained the vendor's lien to secure the payment of 11 vendor's lien notes for the sum of $500 each, payable to W. H. Yeargin and J. F. Montgomery. That each and all of said notes bearing interest from date at rate of 8 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and that the vendor's lien was expressly retained against said property until said notes and all interest thereon are paid, according to the face value when said deed was to become absolute. That W. H. Yeargin, the vendor in said deed and joint payee in said notes, transferred and assigned unto the plaintiff six certain vendor's lien notes, being described in the deed as Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 and at the same time transferred and assigned to the plaintiff all the right, title and interest owned or held by said W. H. Yeargin in said lot above described by virtue of said notes therein conveyed, and assigned. There is still due on said notes 5, 6 and 7 the full principal amount of $500 each and interest on each of said notes since March 2, 1921. That the notes each and all of them contain the 10 per cent attorney's fee clause. Wherefore, plaintiff prays for judgment in said amount and for 10 per cent additional as attorney's fees, and all cost of suit. Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 15th day of November A. D. 1922. A. F. Kerr, Clerk, district court Wichita county, Texas. CITY'S PRISONERS ALL MAKE ESCAPE; IT'S THANKSGIVING

"Mister, all them fellers that have been carrying the chain around for you are running away," a small boy who lives in the neighborhood of the city hall rushed in and told the officers as three prisoners who had been working for some time on the city streets left the police station Thursday morning.

Then it was explained to the little fellow that it was Thanksgiving and Judge Hoffman had just called them all in and let them go home to spend Thanksgiving with their home folks; and he went away glad that they were going to get out without running away.

"Life is too short to fool away working for the city or the state," Judge Luther Hoffman told one white man and two negroes who were given their freedom from the city jail Thursday morning. "It is no pleasure to us to be a part of a law enforcement machine, but it is our duty to instill, into those without it, a respect for the law; that is why we are here."

"We are just as anxious for you boys to get along and just as interested in your future welfare as you are and at any time you may feel free to call on the police force, the lawyers and the good citizens of the town for advice or assistance," Judge Hoffman said as he dismissed the three prisoners. Before dismissing them he asked all three of them concerning the treatment they had received from the police department while in the city jail.

All three agreed that they had been given every consideration and had no complaint to make against any member of the police department. The last negro questioned as to the treatment he received said: "Fines never was treated better in my life."

"Well, perhaps you would like to stay here and continue to receive this fine treatment," the judge suggested.

But the darky thanked the judge for the offer of a place to stay and said that he believed he would be happier outside.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keepsaying: 'Why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. Henrietta Miller, 1373 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio.

Polar Bear Cub Is Wichitan's Gift To Their Daughter

A white polar bear cub was the unique gift recently made by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider of this city to their daughter, Helen, who is attending Ward-Belmont college at Nashville. The gift is attracting much attention at the school, according to the Nashville Banner, which says:

"That 'you can't fool a fly' is an old saying, and maybe a true one, but that you can deceive a bright school girl has just been proven out at Ward-Belmont in a very humorous way.

"Two weeks ago the rumor spread among the Ward-Belmont students that one of their number, Miss Helen E. Snider of Wichita Falls, Texas, was to receive from home the present of a white polar bear. Miss Snider was the envied one among her immediate associates, her dormitory and suite mates, and the whole school took an interest in the coming of the bear. All the girls enjoy pets, or would like to enjoy them. The campus dogs benefit immensely by their love of animals, but within the school walls bowls of gold fish is about as far as pets are permissible.

"Miss Snider was given permission to keep the bear and the superintendent of the Ward-Belmont campus was casting about for a suitable spot where a small cage might be built for him. Expectancy kept Miss Snider watching daily for his coming. Meanwhile her father, C. W. Snider, a prominent Wichita Falls banker, went to New York, and from there not only wrote, but telephoned his daughter and asked if the bear had arrived. It had not, and the father promised to look into the matter and hurry its arrival. The tension of watchful waiting became greater, and then, on Tuesday, the exress company deposited the bear, addressed to Miss Snider.

"It was a small, wooly, white toy bear, a very good imitation of the polar variety, in its shape and general appearance, though only about twelve inches long and tall proportionately. It can walk, unsteadily, but perhaps no worse than a cub bear would do, and it certainly emits bear-like grunts when properly approached.

"It was somewhat of a fall, to the anxious girls, who were eagerly expecting Sir Polar Bear, and only received a harmless form of the Teddy variety. The supposed real bear had already been christened 'Joe,' and the name descended to his counterfeit presentment, which Miss Snider ruefully leads about on a string."

REFINERS TO MEET FRIDAY TO DISCUSS RECENT PRICE MOVE

A meeting of the independent refiners of this district who are members of the Western Petroleum Refiners association, has been called for 4 o'clock p. m. Friday in room 913 City National Bank building.

W. B. Hamilton, a member of the board of directors of the association, representing the north Texas district, attended a meeting of the association held in Kansas City on November 28.

"The question of just what posted price means, in view of the changed conditions in buying crude on a gravity basis, was the paramount question under discussion at that meeting," said Mr. Hamilton.

He reports that the refiners of Oklahoma and Kansas are more uncertain, now, as to the effect in change of posted price for crude oil than in the north Texas district, because in those states the gravity is lower and more varied, and premiums were paid according to the gravity of the oil run.

At the meeting to be held on Friday a full report of the Kansas City meeting will be made.

Thanksgiving Not Overdone in Court, Several Pay Fines

City court Thursday morning was one of surprises and general good will and Thanksgiving spirit. Fines ranged from $1 to $200. In most cases the minimum fine was assessed; the prisoners in the city jail who had served a portion of their sentences were dismissed.

A fine of $5 was assessed in a case of drunkenness in which a traveling salesman admitted that he had a prescription filled and just couldn't wait until he reached his hotel room.

"It was just a 'slip-up' Judge" he admitted, "it won't happen again." And the judge realized that it was Thanksgiving; agreed that it was a "slip-up," inquired about the minimum fine and decided to make the fine $1 in the place of the $5 fine assessed.

Two brothers who had imbibed too freely of the merry liquid had gone home and the elder brother started a racket with "friend wife;" the younger brother was called to the rescue, and the police department was called to quell the disurbance in the rooming house where they live. They were fined $10 each on pleas of guilty to drunkenness.

A negro, who was charged with running his second wife away from home when he attempted to take a knife away from her, was fined $5. The negro admitted that he had been in court a few times before; once for fighting, once for shooting craps, once for disturbing the peace and another time for a "little trouble" with his wife. The court inquired how he happened to lose his right eye.

"Oh my first wife, she done that," the negro answered calmly.
