Veteran Pilot Is Crashed To Death

George Cuddihy Buried 10 Feet With Ship's Engine Below Soggy Earth When Plane Falls 10,000 Feet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The little English combat plane he was testing for the navy bursted Lieutenant George T. Cuddihy to death today from nearly two miles above Bolling field.

The veteran speed and test pilot was buried with the ship's engine and fuselage 10 feet below the soggy earth. Some of the plane sliced through the clouds at about 10,000 feet elevation, dived approximately 1,000 feet and then went screeching into a widening spiral as a part of the plane whirled off.

Water Fills Hole
The ship's low section of Bolling field, softened by recent snow. Water filled the hole dug by the plane and two hours passed before Cuddihy's body was extracted.

A moment after the crash, Rear Admiral Moffett—the aviator's commander—by telephone directed the station to ask that Lieutenant Cuddihy be ready to transport him to Charleston, South Carolina in a day or so.

"He has just been killed," the navy's aeronautics chief was told. The rear admiral was stunned by the tragedy. He considered the late officer one of the world's most excellent pilots and held him in high personal regard.

Donald told his parents it was in retaliation for the pup biting him while at play in the kitchen. Falling in the breaking of men's records, they at least hope to establish a record for women. Each previously has had experience in solo, non-refueling, endurance flying.

Simplicity Marks Clemenceau Rites

Flowers, Procession And Speeches Missing From Funeral As 'The Tiger's' Orders Are Carried Out

MOUCHAMPS, VENDEE, France Nov. 25.—The man who is credited with having saved France from disastrous defeat in 1918 was buried today in his native Vendee with less ceremony than would be accorded the humblest peasant of his estate.

Georges Clemenceau, one of the last of the great pre-war European statesmen, ordered that there be no flowers, no procession and no speeches at his funeral. These orders were carried out to the letter.

The body was brought from Paris by automobile in a simple oak coffin. Only members of his family and a score of his most intimate friends were permitted to be present at the burial. Gendarmes and soldiers kept curious spectators, newspapermen, photographers and even the inhabitants of the countryside at a distance.

The wartime premier of France was buried alongside his father in the land of his fathers, a little plot of ground near the Clemenceau farm outside this village.

"I've Tried It Out And I Know," Says Amarillo Resident

J. J. McKnight Says: "Orgatone Beats Anything I Ever Saw In All Of My Life"

J. J. McKnight, a well known groceryman of 113 McMasters St., is one of the best pleased men in Amarillo, and when he talks of what Orgatone has done for him the genuineness of his enthusiasm never fails to convince his hearers that his faith is well founded. "I've tried it out and I know," he stated, "and I want to say right here and now that what five bottles of this Orgatone has done for me beats anything I ever saw in my life. I was so bilious that when I'd get up in the morning I would feel more tired and worn out than when I went to bed."

"The fact is, I hadn't felt like a well man in over ten years, for my stomach just seemed to go back on me entirely and I couldn't digest anything right, and I didn't get any nourishment from what I'd eat. My appetite failed me and things got so they didn't taste right and most of my food didn't seem to have any taste at all. "I would have severe headaches a great part of the time and couldn't sleep at night, and would have pains all through my stomach and would feel sore and stiff. I had little or no energy and was so blue over my condition that I was out of sorts most of the time or I didn't see how I was going to keep up much longer if my condition kept getting worse."

"Since I got onto this Orgatone and took a few bottles of it, I feel one hundred per cent better, and just as cheerful as the next guy, you'll come across. I eat good, sleep good and everything tastes good and don't disagree with me the least particle. To make a long story short, all these old troubles have left me, and I am feeling simply fine."

"I've told a lot of my neighbors about this medicine and I know a good many that are taking it; one of them, a friend of mine, who began taking it about the same time I did and says it has done him a world of good. He was in bad shape but now looks like a different person."

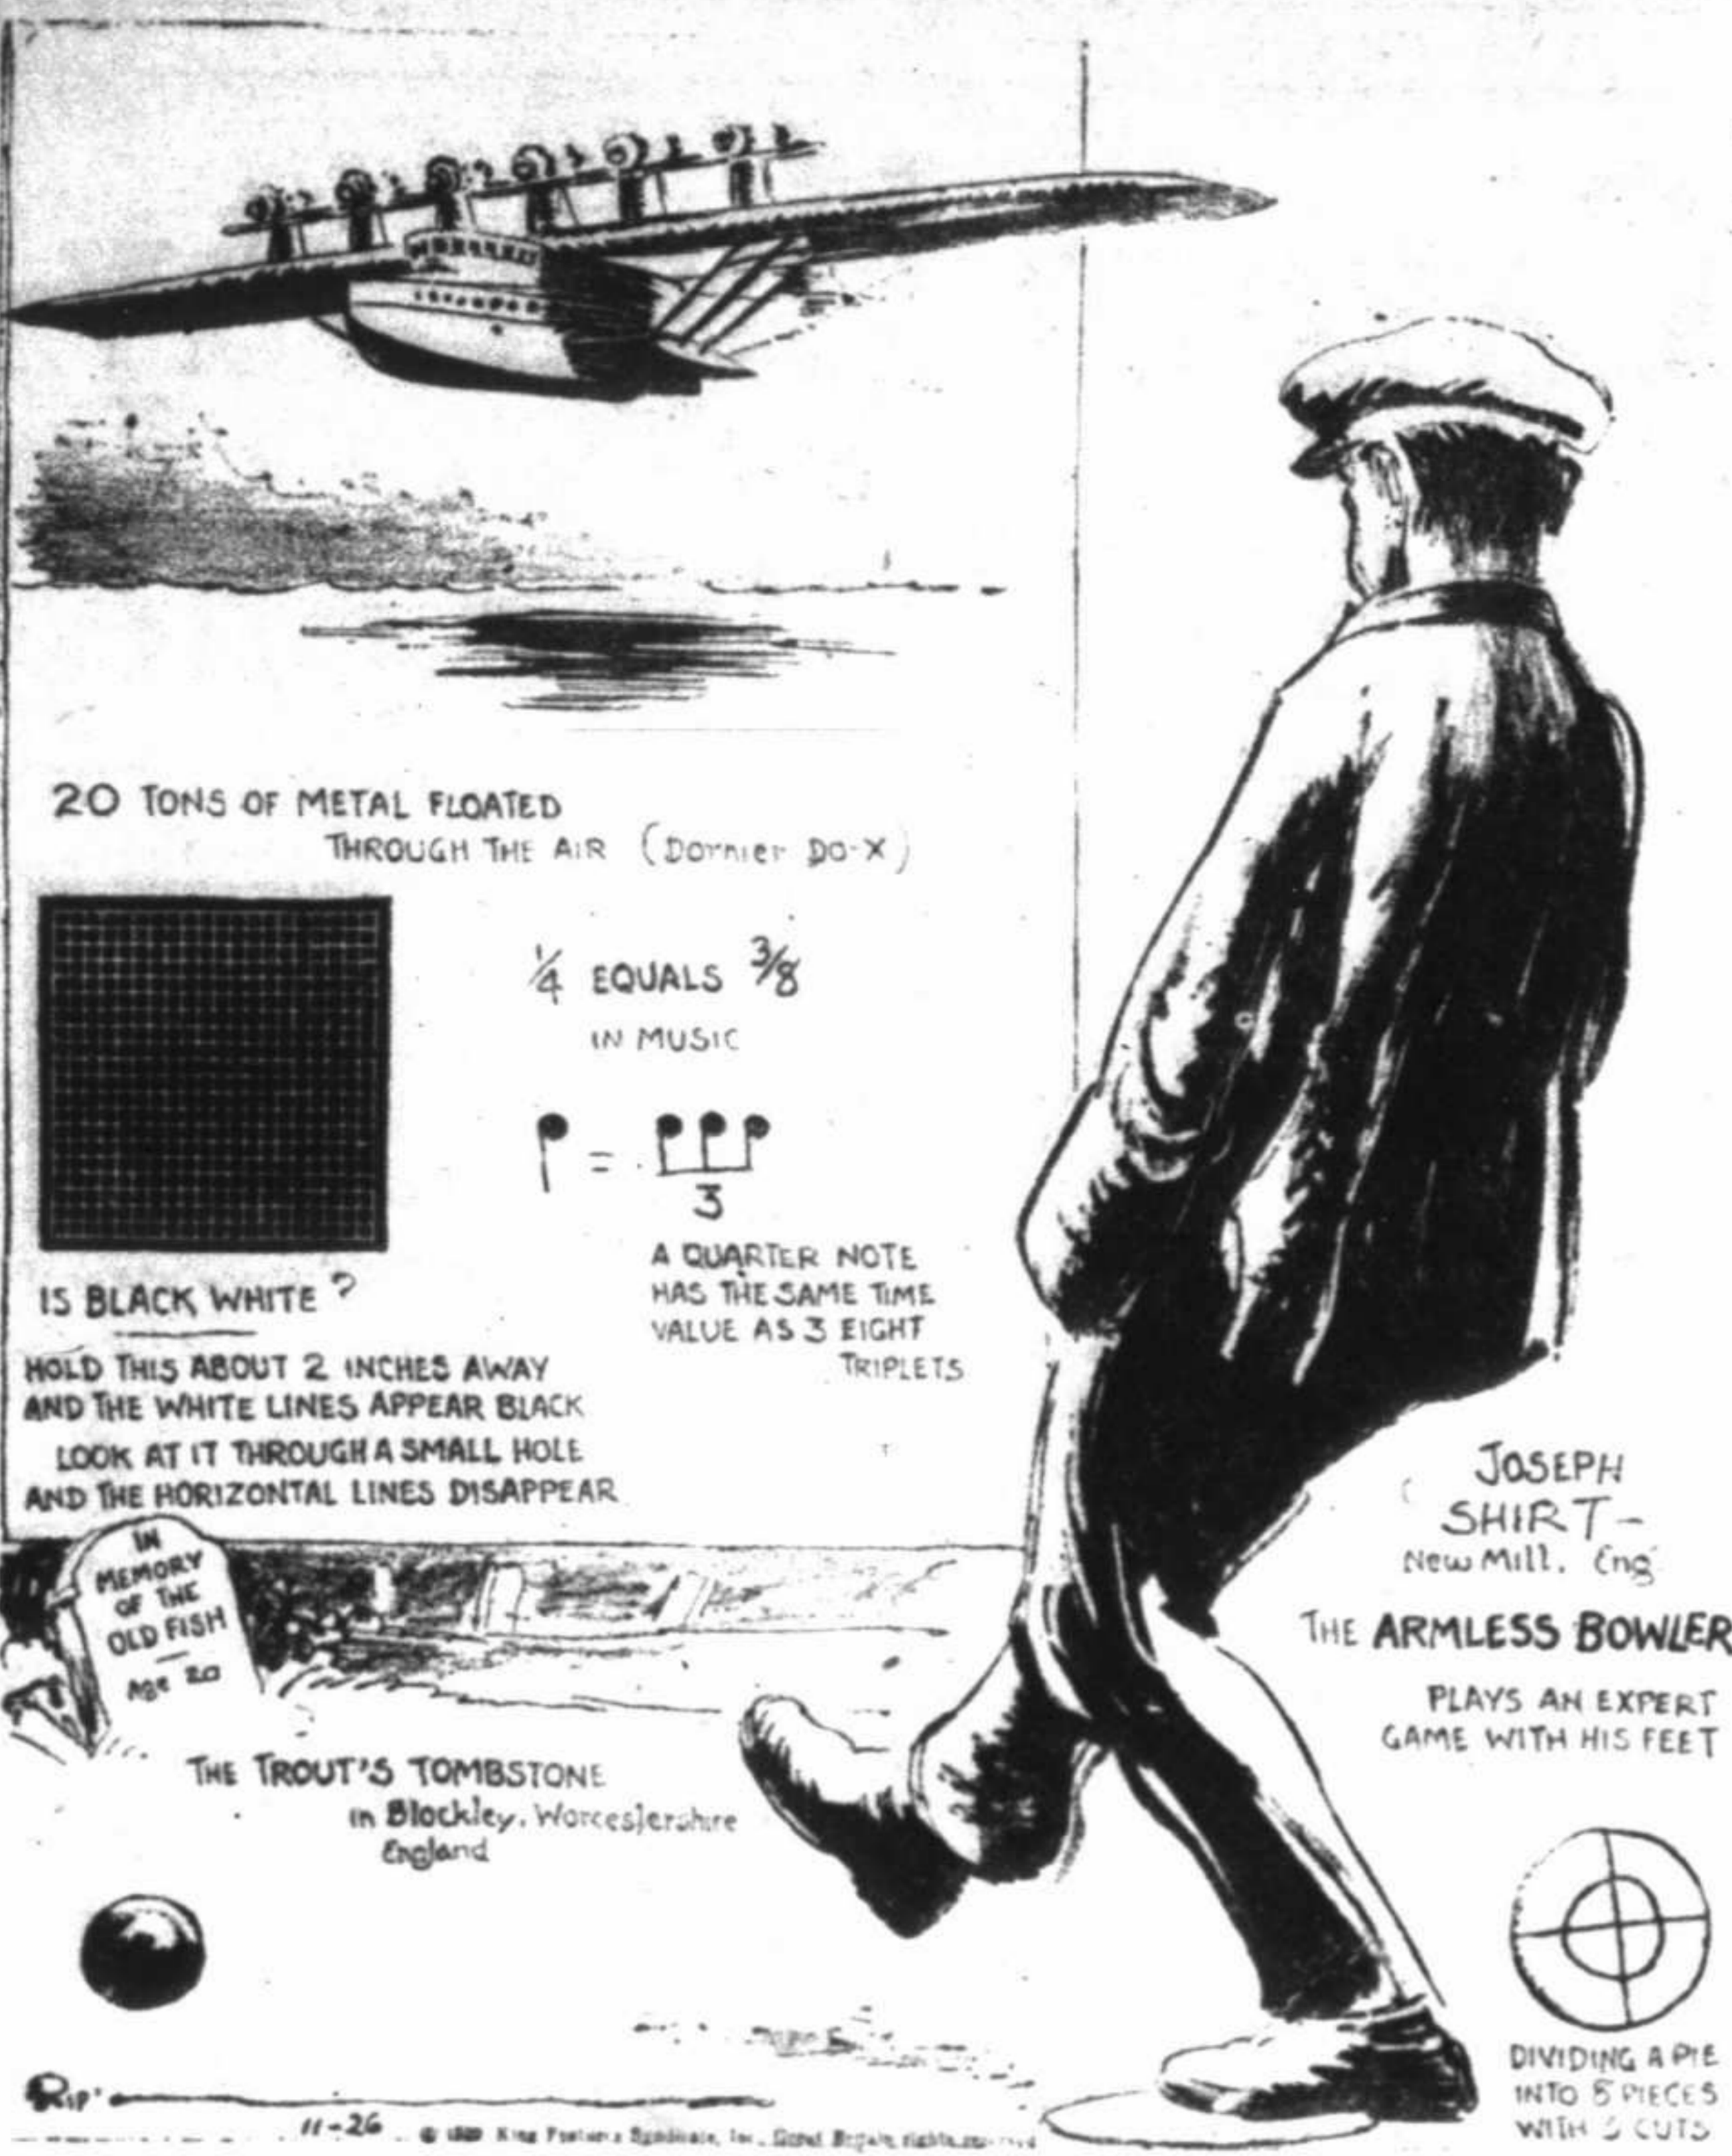

"I can't say enough about this medicine—it's certainly great. Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Downes Drug Store."

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover's business program found support today in the announcement that the 1930 improvement budget of the Rock Island lines will total about $50,000,000, the largest in the history of the company.

This amount, J. E. Gorman, president of the road, announced, will exceed by slightly more than $10,000,000 the improvement budget for 1929 and will be expended for new equipment, new lines, general improvements and miscellaneous construction.

Exclusive of the proposed new line in Texas, approximately $15,000,000 will be spent for new lines, second main tracks and roadway improvements. According to Mr. Gorman, this will include continuation of the St. Paul-Kansas City short line from Trenton, Mo., to Birmingham, Mo., and a new line from Dalhart, Tex., to Morse, Tex., on the C. R. IT'S GOOD BUSINESS

The Lubbock Community Chest has been organized after months of careful study, investigation, and inquiry among numerous other Texas cities and cities located outside of the state. Three hundred and twenty American cities have found this plan to be the most economical, scientific and businesslike method yet devised for financing their charitable, welfare and character-building organizations.

HOW IT OPERATES

- 1. Requires the submission of all agency needs to a committee of Lubbock business men, who have the requirements of the social welfare needs of the entire city before them.
2. Saves work. One annual campaign instead of six.
3. Provides the supervision of all funds raised in the city. The public to be fully informed as to all receipts and disbursements.
4. Relieves agency executives and agency board members of the task of raising money, thus enabling them to devote all their time to carry on the work for which they are directly responsible.
5. Conserves the time and energy of those upon whom the burden of soliciting funds usually falls.
6. Spreads the responsibility of giving to all citizens in the city.
7. Insures justice to all agencies; provides year-round efficiency; prevents overlapping of endeavor here and entirely overlooking some important need there.
8. Convenient to the giver. One subscription per year.
9. Permits each one making a subscription to feel a pride in having helped every worthy case in the city and gives him the assurance that every dollar of his subscription will do the work for which it was intended.
10. Progress of cities comes through the combined efforts of its citizenry. The Community Chest plan enables all citizens to combine their effort in one annual appeal for the good of all.

Ralls Jackrabbits Down Lockney Longhorns, 14 To 13

Lovvorn Crew Wins Right To Meet Lamesa On Thanksgiving Day For Football Championship Of District

Brilliant Aerial Attack Gives Rabbits Victory Over Steers In Second Attempt To Decide Issue; Two Thousand Fans Witness Clash

(Special To The Avalanche)

FLOYDADA, Nov. 25.—Making their second attempt to decide the grid supremacy of the north end of District Two, the Ralls Jackrabbits and Lockney Longhorns battled furiously through four quarters here Monday afternoon, the Rabbits emerging with a 14 to 13 victory and the right to meet the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes on Thanksgiving Day for the Class B championship of this district. The same teams had played a 6-6 tie at Lockney Saturday.

Two thousand fans, a large number of which came here from Lockney and Ralls, saw the Rabbits launch a brilliant overhead attack to overcome the plunging and running game of the Longhorns. It was not until the final whistle blew that the contest was decided. Lockney was in possession of the ball on Ralls' 8-yard line when the game ended.

Steers Score First
Lockney scored in the first quarter after Spence and Cook had carried the ball to within striking distance of the Rabbits' goal. Spence went over but failed to kick the extra point.

Ralls came back with a counter when "Flashy" Walker placed a pass in the hands of Captain Perryman that was good for 20 yards. The receiver advanced another 19 yards and from here Henry carried the oval across the final stripe. Walker passed for the extra point.

In the third quarter Lockney scored again, Duncan receiving a long pass and stepping 20 yards for a touchdown. Ralls retaliated with the final score of the game in the fourth period. Walker passed again to Bryan, who went across for the counter. The Rabbits plunged over for the deciding point.

Rabbits Have Edge
Ralls passed a total of 22 times and 10 were complete for a gain of 177 yards. Lockney passed 14 times and 9 were complete for a gain of 96 yards.

Walker, Perryman and Bryan were the offensive stars for the winners while Duncan, Spence and McAdams shone for the Longhorns.

Green Gives Views On Race for B Grid Crown

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Nov. 25.—Slaton claims the right and beyond any question of doubt is actually entitled to represent District Two Class B, in meeting the football winners of District One this season. Superintendent L. T. Green of the Slaton schools told newspaper reporters here Monday afternoon.

In support of his statement, Mr. Green read from the Interscholastic League rules the following quotation: "It shall be the duty of the district executive committee either to arrange schedules or to require that a certain number of games be played with member schools inside the district. Failure to play a representative schedule, in the opinion of the committee, shall eliminate a team from consideration for district honors."

Green Gives Views On Race for B Grid Crown

Mr. Green said neither Lamesa Ralls nor Lockney had played a representative schedule this season, pointing out that Lamesa had played only two conference games and refused to meet Spur and Post teams. Both refusals occurring because of ineligibilities. He said Ralls had played only three member teams before meeting Lockney these teams being Littlefield, Floydada and Crosbyton, none of which has been a serious contender for the district title, and that the Ralls game with Spur was cancelled.

The Slaton superintendent pointed out that there are twelve member teams in the district this year. He declared Lamesa could have played a representative schedule if she had not refused to meet some of the stronger teams of the district. Spur recently announced that she had offered Lamesa $250 to come to Spur for a game or that Spur would go to Lamesa to play but instead Lamesa played at Spence, not in this district, on that date. He said this occurred before Spur was ruled ineligible. Green also said Lamesa cancelled her schedule game with Post, due to a late arrival of the Thanksgiving Day and that the cancellation took place before Post was ruled ineligible.

Tigers Played Five

Slaton has played five member teams, defeating four of them. Brownfield, Spur, Paducah and Post and losing to Lamesa after Lamesa beat Tahoka. The only other member teams which have played this season by the far have eleven. Slaton beat Spur and Post before either was ruled ineligible.

Green Gives Views On Race for B Grid Crown

By reason of Slaton having played a representative schedule, and on account of Lamesa Ralls and Lockney not having played representative schedules, it is clearly the duty of the executive committee to decree that the latter three teams have not played enough games and to declare Slaton the rightful district champion this season," Green declared, "and Slaton claims the district title on those grounds, regardless of the ruling of the executive committee," he added.

Green Gives Views On Race for B Grid Crown

Mr. Green said that the committee ruling that Lamesa should play the Ralls-Lockney winner for the district championship has met with a storm of protest over a large part of the district, and quoted a statement from Superintendent M. L. H. Baze of Tahoka in which Mr. Baze said he believed it unfair for any team to be allowed to enter the finals without having played at least four representative games.

Green Gives Views On Race for B Grid Crown

Mr. Green said that, if the rules did not provide for the settlement of such questions by the district committee, he felt positive that the state Interscholastic League committee would not tolerate a policy allowing teams to win district titles on such flimsy schedules.

J. Doak Roberts Succumbs Monday In Dallas Home

Executive Of League For Past Nine Years Is Victim Of Kidney Ailment; One Of Founders

DALLAS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—As he had wished, J. Doak Roberts 58, died today as president of the Texas League. He had been ill more than a year and his death had been expected momentarily for several days.

One of the founders of the modern Texas League, Roberts had been its president the last nine years. His second five-year contract still had three years to run and he was apprehensive that his health might force him to resign before the expiration of that contract. Often he expressed the wish that he might die as league president.

Was Given Leave

Recognizing the good he had done the league, its members in a meeting Monday granted Roberts a six months leave of absence. J. Alvin Gardner of Wichita Falls, became active vice-president in October, leaving Roberts free to regain his health, if possible. His kidney ailment, however, beset the "grand old man" of the Texas League, but he died the titular head of the baseball circuit he built.

Was Given Leave

The body of the veteran official will be taken to Corsicana tomorrow and funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be at Corsicana.

Was Given Leave

Elected In 1921
Died at Corsicana, Tex., in 1931. Roberts lived there until 1921 when, on his election to the presidency of the Texas League, he moved to Dallas. His earliest connection with baseball was as pitcher on independent teams in his home town and as a semi-professional team promoter before the reorganization of the Texas League in 1902.

Was Given Leave

When the reorganization was effected, Roberts joined the late Ted Sullivan and his associates as owner of the Corsicana franchise. He operated the club until 1904. Temporary in 1902-1903 and 1904. Temporary in 1905. Cleburne in 1906. In 1907 he attempted to quit baseball when the Texas and South Texas leagues merged, retaining only his interest in several player contracts sold to Claude Roney of Houston. Late the year Roney asked Roberts' aid in directing the club and the next year Roberts purchased a half interest in the Houston team. In 1920 Roberts sold his interest after having built up a substantial fortune by methods that still are considered model by other clubs which ended his ability to develop winners and conduct a baseball club economically.

Was Given Leave

During his direct connection with the teams, his Texas League history. His clubs won Texas League pennants at Corsicana in 1902 and 1904, Cleburne in 1905, Houston in 1909, 1910 (tie with Dallas), 1912, 1913 and 1914 (tie with Waco), a record for one-man league championship. The 1902 Corsicana club still holds a record of 27 consecutive victories.

Was Given Leave

Roberts developed and sent many players to the big league, including Tris Speaker, Dode Criss, Nig Clarke, Rick Adams, George Whitman, George Foster, Joe Jenkins, Hickory Dickson and Pat Newman. He once claimed title to Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, refusing the former because of an epidemic in Cobb's vicinity and Hornsby because scouts agreed the Rajah could not hit. He always was of the old school that thought an owner should run the playing field as well as the box office.

Was Given Leave

He was the only man who had maintained a connection with the league from 1902 until 1929. In mid-season of 1904 he became manager, remaining in that position until 1906 when the merger occurred. In the fall of 1920, after disposing of his Houston interests, he succeeded President J. Walter Morris. He was re-elected in 1927 under a five-year contract.

Was Given Leave

For several years Roberts had been a member of the national board of arbitration, the advisory body of the national association of professional baseball leagues. He never missed a meeting of that association when that body convened in Chattanooga next month. It will be the first time in 28 years it has been without his services and advice.

Plans And Purposes Of Community Chest Organization Here Listed

As the campaign dates of the Lubbock Community Chest draw near, there are yet questions in the minds of local citizens as to the plans and purposes of the organization. During the ensuing week the Avalanche-Journal publications will carry from time to time a list of questions with their answers, designed to eliminate all doubt regarding the approaching campaign. The first of these follows:

1. What is the Community Chest? The Community Chest is an organization set up by local people to finance six social welfare organizations in one campaign, instead of six as has heretofore been held in Lubbock.
2. What agencies are included in the Community Chest? The Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and Campfire Girls.
3. What division will be made of the Thirty Thousand Dollars which is to be raised? This was determined by a budget committee consisting of local business men and allotments were made as follows: Red Cross, $5,500; Boy Scouts $7,000; Salvation Army $3,675; Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. $4,500; Campfire Girls $3,500; Contingent Fund, $1,200; Administration and Collection $1,200. Campaign costs $3,425.
4. Will a contribution to the Community Chest eliminate all other campaigns? It will eliminate campaigns for the benefit of the six organizations included in the chest. The allotment to these organizations includes the amount needed to carry on the social charity and welfare work of the city.
5. May I select the agency which I desire to support? Yes. Designate the agency of your choice on the back of pledge card. You should not refuse to make a contribution to the Community Chest because you do not like the work of some particular agency. In this way you would penalize six agencies.
6. Must a subscriber pay his subscription in full at the time of making his pledge? No. It is not necessary. Subscriptions may be paid between now and Oct. 1, 1930, in monthly or quarterly installments.
7. Will all funds be accounted for? Yes, all receipts and disbursements will be audited by a competent accountant semi-annually. Each agency will be required to account to the Community Chest for all receipts and disbursements.
8. How many are expected to subscribe in this campaign? Based on the number of subscribers in other cities, more than 3,000 should subscribe on the present community chest campaign.
9. Should wives make a separate subscription from their husbands? The women of Lubbock will play an important part in the forthcoming campaign and all women should be represented in the family of givers.
10. How much salary do officers of the chest receive? Not a cent. All officers and workers in the campaign give their time, as well as their money, for the good of the cause.
11. How about income tax exemptions to the Chest? Individuals may claim exemptions of gifts to the Community Chest up to 15 per cent of their income.

Texas Roads May Get More Money

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Texas probably would receive $3,000,000 additional yearly for road work if congress should increase the annual appropriation from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the state highway commission, said here today. Sterling pointed out that the state now receives $1,500,000 in federal aid each year. If Texas shares the proposed increase in proportion to the present allotment this state would get $7,500,000 annually. At its recent meeting in San Antonio of Highway officials urged an increased federal appropriation for highways. Flames a million miles long leap out into space from the sun, yet they are scarcely visible to the naked eye.

Avenging Parrot

United States... No, boy, you're having a swell time, and I hate to ruin your day, but Mrs. Hogarth was murdered for the money she either had or was supposed to have hidden in this room, and when we find Sevier—

"I'm not a clairvoyant," Dundee grinned, "but isn't there a chance that Mrs. Hogarth had something else that she wanted, and which she refused to give him? Remember, chief, Mrs. Hogarth was a mighty mysterious character herself. She was in hiding from something in her past. In all the five years she lived here she never referred to her previous place of residence, or to any person in her past. And she wrote to and received letters from only one person—S—guarding the address so expertly that not even Mrs. Rhodes knows it. Even if you aren't interested, I'll watch for that postman tomorrow more eagerly than any girl ever would."

"What's that?" Strawn interrupted. "He hurried to the door, flung it open. Norma Paige was at the head of the stairs, calling frantically. 'Dusty! Oh, Dusty! Quick! Mrs. Hogarth's door!'

"What's wrong, Miss Paige?" Strawn called from Mrs. Hogarth's door. "Oh!" She was startled, then smiled uncertainly. "It's just Cora's wash basin, sir. It's stopped up and the water's running out on the floor. I was helping her wash her hair on account of her burned hand, you know, and—Oh, Dusty! Please hurry and get your tools to unstop Cora's basin!"

"Maybe I can help!" Strawn suggested, and by a jerk of the head invited Bonnie Dundee to accompany him. They found Cora Barker in her room, rubbing her long wet hair with a bath towel. At the unwelcome intrusion of the lieutenant and detectives and the young man of the kitchen, the woman's haggard face flushed an angry scarlet. "Give me an extra bath towel. I'll try to keep any more water from spilling," Strawn directed, ignoring her anger.

Dundee and Strawn were mopping at the pool of water on the floor when Dusty Rhodes, much the worse for his last night's debauch, came slouching into the room, followed by his anxious wife. "If you females wouldn't break the rules and wash your hair in the basin, things like this wouldn't happen," Dusty complained disgustedly as he knelt to ply his wrench. A minute later, as Dusty pulled out the upper section of the drain pipe, its little cross bars matted with long black hair, Dundee risked exposure of his connection with the police by staying the hand of the landlady's husband. "Let me see that before you clean it," he ordered quickly. And over Dusty's protest he took the short section of the drain pipe, and walked to the window with it. Strawn followed, bending curiously over his subordinate as Dundee's finger's began to untangle the mass of hair. "Look!" he urged in a whisper, though the others had not drawn near. "Pellets of paper caught in among the hairs. Paper stained with green ink!" "Well?" Strawn puzzled. "A page was torn from Mrs. Hogarth's diary last night—the entry of May 19," Dundee answered in so low a voice that it could not carry to the group around the basin. And last night the parrot nipped a piece of flesh from Cora Barker's hand!"

Strawn granted incredulously, but quickly removed all the pellets of water-soaked paper from the tangled mass of hair. "Go and take your place behind the screen in Mrs. Hogarth's room," Strawn directed, his lips scarcely moving. Then, turning toward the group about the basin, he said in a normal voice: "That'll be all now, Dundee. Don't leave the house. I want to question you again."

"Say, can I go on with this here job?" Dusty whined. "I got other work to do."

"Here you are, Rhodes," Strawn conceded cheerfully, as Dundee hurried out of the room, striving to give a perfect imitation of a man incensed by the unjust suspicions of the police. "Two or three minutes later, Dundee from behind the screen saw a terrified woman, her head wrapped in the damp bath towel, her bandaged hand instinctively hidden in the folds of her kimono. "I don't know what you want of me!" Cora protested angrily. "It's a crime to wash your hair on Sunday."

"For the moment, I'm not interested in the blue laws," Strawn said with a terrible humor. "I'm merely interested in the law relating to robbery and—murder." "Oh!" Cora gasped, and swayed as if she were about to faint. "Here! Take this chair," Miss Barker. And don't faint. I'll simply have to use valuable time to said with a terrible humor. "I'm merely interested in the law relating to robbery and—murder."

Cotton Reacts; Market Is Unsettled

Reaction Follows Opening Advances On Steady Cables

Near Months' Cotton Easy Under Liquidations Promoted By Issuance Of December Notices

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—An opening advance on relatively steady Liverpool cables was followed by reactions in cotton today, with near months easy under liquidations promoted by the issuance of December notices. January contracts after selling up to 17.65 at the start declined to 17.47 and closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady net 6 points lower to 2 points higher.

The opening was steady at a net advance of 11 to 13 points in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool, an idea that the December notices which were estimated at about 85,000 bales would be promptly absorbed by trade and continued lack of a possible scaling down crop ideas because of record unfavorable weather in the South. December sold up to 17.50 and May to 18.18 on this initial advance.

Prices eased in consequence with December declining to 17.21 and May to 18.03 during the early afternoon or about 2 to 3 points net lower. Later fluctuations were more or less irregular but the rallies met a little more selling and offerings increased in the last few minutes with January closing at the lowest price of the day while other deliveries were within a point or two of the lowest.

Cotton Market In Downward Movement—NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25. (AP)—December liquidation today, the first notice day for that option, influenced an irregular undertone in the local cotton market with a downward movement at one stage. New Orleans notices of around 18,000 bales and New York notices of about 85,000 were issued, the latter representing practically the entire stock.

Cables were about as expected, but December with opened 2 points down on the circulation of the notices. As New York figures at the moment were higher, the month beyond December in New Orleans opened at 5 to 10 points up and all months soon were 5 to 13 points above Saturday's close.

"Dry" Plains (Continued from page 1) or not, and we much more resent them being made when they show such a total lack of information on the fast developing section in the entire Southwest.

"It is true that many years ago when the eastern part of Texas was the western frontier of the United States, that this section was looked upon as semi-arid, but now it is recognized as being one of the greatest agricultural sections in the Southwest and with potentialities that cannot be envisioned. Such an authority as Arno B. Pearce, General Secretary, International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' association of Manchester, England has said: "There is no other cotton section in the whole of the United States which can compete with so low an average price of production as the South Plains of Texas." Enclosed herewith is a leaflet headed "Cotton Facts" which will give you some information regarding this section.

"We could take government and state records and prove every statement we have made above which, summed up, are that this section of West Texas is one of the greatest agricultural sections in the Southwest and it could not be such except sufficient rainfall was had to germinate, grow and mature the crops planted.

"We are conducting a national advertising campaign for this section and enclosed herewith is copy of an ad proof which appears in December (with a few minor changes) in some of the leading farm journals of the Nation. "Out here on the Great Plains of Texas today you will find cities with all modern conveniences and it is on behalf of them and of the entire section that we write you this letter to protest such statements as made in the above referred to editorial.

"We realize that the growth of this section has been so rapid, so wonderful and so recent that those who do not visit here regularly cannot comprehend the development that is taking place, but we are enclosing herewith statistical sheet showing the growth of Lubbock, just to give you a faint idea of what is taking place.

"Any correction you want to make will be appreciated. If you do not want to make a correction, we are at least glad to give you some facts on this section."

Profit Taking Is Feature Of Stock Exchange Monday

Normal Five-Hour Trading Sessions Are Resumed In Wall Street After Three Weeks Of Short Periods

BY CLAUDE J. JAGGER Associated Press Financial Writer NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—The stock market was somewhat unsettled by profit taking in advance of the protracted closing beginning with the Thanksgiving Day holiday, and a mild break in the coppers, today, as normal five hour trading sessions were resumed after three weeks of the three hour periods.

The market was well supported on declines, however, and traders were encouraged by a noteworthy slackening of trading on downturns. Cautious short selling, still restrained by the members' daily reports, held the stock exchange as to short accounts was in evidence but it made little impression.

Turnover Small Total sales 3,130,000 shares, this smallest turnover for a full session since Oct. 17, and but little larger than the average volume of trading during last week's three hour periods.

Declines among popular shares 1 to 11 points. A large part of these losses was regained before the close. Profit taking appeared in some volume during the morning, and no sooner than did it seem to have been absorbed, than reports of price cutting by some of the smaller copper producers depressed the red metal shares, and caused further unsettlement.

Profit Expected Some profit was expected to result from the announcement after last Friday's close that the exchange would be closed beginning with the holiday next Thursday, until the next Monday. This four-day shut down will be one of the longest on record in peace times. The day's news continued to be of a reassuring character.
