State hopes to block shaft tests

Sarpalius says DOE might ignore law

AUSTIN — Texas officials may be able to block Department of Energy attempts to place a high-level nuclear waste repository in the Panhandle, thanks to a bill passed in 1983 by Sen. Bill Sarpalius.

Sarpalius, D-Canyon, said the measure—Senate Bill 1018—requires anyone drilling a shaft through an underground aquifer to obtain a permit from the Texas Water Commission first. DOE must drill two shafts through the Ogallala aquifer before conducting further tests in Deaf Smith County, one of three finalists nationwide for the country's first permanent repository.

"Back in 1983, we suspected DOE might name a Panhandle site as one of the three finalists, and we knew they would have to drill a shaft through the aquifer before they could continue testing," Sarpalius said.

"We passed S.B. 1018 to make sure Texas had a say in the testing process," he said. "When DOE people go to start drilling that shaft, they're going to have to convince someone besides themselves that the Ogallala's going to be safe. They're going to have to convince the three water commissioners."

Ralph Roring, Texas water commissioner, agreed with Sarpalius' assessment.

"I can't speak for the other commissioners, but DOE will have to present an extremely strong case before they convince me they can guarantee the Ogallala's safety," Roring said. "It just doesn't make any sense to me to potentially contaminate the world's largest underground aquifer. The Ogallala is the sole source of drinking water for portions of six states. You contaminate the aquifer, and life in those areas will cease to exist."

"You've also got to consider the salt problem. DOE is going to be mining tons of salt from under the ground. How are they going to contain the loose salt and keep the West Texas winds from blowing that salt clear to the coast? If they don't contain the salt, they'll ruin farm production for years in the nation's largest agricultural area," the commissioner said.

Sarpalius said he expects DOE to

Hays, Moore appointed to nuke oversight group

John Hays, local farmer-cattlemen, and Troy Don Moore, county commissioner, have been appointed to an oversight group concerning the nuclear waste repository, it was announced Monday by Deaf Smith County Judge Glen Nelson.

The oversight group of area citizens was a recommendation of the Nuclear Waste Repository Study Committee. The study group recently completed a study of the repository issue. It was composed of members from Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, Deaf Smith County C of C, the Amarillo Hispanic Chamber, Amarillo College and West Texas

State University. Ted Davis, chairman of that committee, said board members are asking that the mayors of Amarillo, Hereford, Vega and Canyon and the judges of Potter, Randall, Deaf Smith and Oldham counties appoint two people each to serve on the oversight committee.

Davis said the board had received assurances from DOE "that the committee will have complete cooperation with the federal governmental agencies."

The initial meeting is scheduled Friday at 10 a.m. in the Amarillo C of C office.

Open For Business

Seven young entrepreneurs take advantage of Monday's mild afternoon as they break out the lemonade and ice at the corner of Douglas and Moreman streets. These future business people got rained out as Hereford was doused by over and inch of rain. The lemonade pushers are, from left, John Carnahan, 4; Coy Whitehorn, 6; Jason Collier, 6; Vicki Carnahan, 9; Bria Baker, 6; Lindsay Ward, 6; and Tabatha Whitehorn, 8. (Brand Photo by Shawn Cockrum)

Rainfall totals 3.8 inches

For a 10-day period

Another thunderstorm roamed across Deaf Smith County Monday with KPAN Radio, the official weather station, reporting a downpour of 1.35 inches in about one hour's time.

The rainfall Monday afternoon was another in a series of rains that have left 3.86 inches of moisture in Hereford in the past 10 days. The year's total stood at 6.66 inches of rain, according to KPAN.

The recent rains have been "excellent," according to John Fuston, ASCS manager. "I can't remember the last time the rains came in such fine condition and left this much moisture. A little land got washed pretty bad Monday afternoon, but generally the rainfall has been great."

"There are smiles on the faces of farmers and ranchers all over the county. Irrigated farms have shut down their wells, and that provides a big boost to crop prospects," noted Fuston.

Fuston said the rain came a little late for wheat, although it will help the yield in some cases. "It appears we have recorded 3 to 5 inches all around the county since the rainfalls started," added Fuston. "The moisture will be great for those who are ready to plant milo and will provide fine sub-soil moisture for other crops."

KPAN recorded .27 of an inch Sunday and .44 Saturday, following a moisture recording of .15 last Friday. The weekend rains left .86 of an inch before the downpour Monday afternoon. Some street flooding resulted from the heavy rain from about 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Only light showers were reported at Westway, Dawn and Summerfield yesterday. Around the Milo Center area, reports of .80 to 1 inch were recorded. Most of the rain was at Milo Center and to the south of that area. Only light showers were reported north of Milo Center. A report of .50 of an inch was reported east of Hereford, and just west of Dawn there was a report of .30 of an inch. Dawn Grocery reported only a light shower.

The forecast was for a 30 percent chance of more rains tonight and into Wednesday.

Mediators seek to end walkout against AT&T

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mediators are interjecting themselves into the country's largest strike in three years, calling leaders of American Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and its largest employee union back to the bargaining table.

Just two days into the walkout by 155,000 members of the Communications Workers of America, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service arranged meetings Monday night between the union's president, Morton Bahr, and AT&T Vice President Raymond Williams.

Citing the "sensitivity" of the talks, officials for the agency and the two sides refused to discuss what was said in the meeting, which also was attended by Kay McMurray, head of the government mediation agency.

But officials said the talks would continue today and Bahr told reporters earlier that the objective was to reach a settlement ending the strike "well before the end of the week."

Negotiators for AT&T and the union had reached a consensus on most of the issues surrounding a new three-year contract for 75 percent of the company's 200,000 unionized workers before the walkout at 12:01 a.m. EDT Sunday.

STAND will conduct forum in Amarillo Thursday

An educational program designed to counter information presented by DOE on the nuclear waste repository will be held Thursday at 6:30 p.m. by STAND (Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping) of Amarillo.

Beverly Gattis, STAND vice president, said about 300 Amarillo clubs and organizations have been invited to send a representative to the meeting in order to pass on the information to their groups.

To encourage participation by the audience, the program will consist of a panel discussion, followed by questions to the speakers, she said. "In order for the people of the Panhandle to make a satisfactory judgment regarding the repository, they should at least have an opportunity to hear first-hand the information gathered by those who have studied the subject and who find the DOE proposal dangerously flawed," said Ms. Gattis.

Speakers will include Steve Frischman of Austin, director of the governor's office on nuclear waste; Don Hancock, director of Southwest Research Institute at Albuquerque; and Wayne Wyatt of Lubbock, manager of High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1.

"In addition, two other speakers may be present as well as several experts who will attend the meeting in an unofficial capacity," Ms. Gattis said. The meeting is to be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on the second floor of the Amarillo Central Library.

City okays zoning item; new computer

On a 3 to 1 vote, the Hereford City Commission elected to approve a request by Bill Cole to have a lot located at 441 Ave. B, be rezoned from a "C-Multi Family" zone to a "D-Restricted" zone during the regular meeting of the city commission held Monday evening at the Hereford City Hall.

All commissioners present voted in favor of the rezoning, while Mayor Wes Fisher opposed the request. "I am concerned with what may go on that property in the future," said Fisher. "It is kind of an iffy situation in my opinion."

B.K. Buske of Friona, the owner of the property across the street from 441 Ave. B, also said that he was opposed to a business at that location. "I am afraid of what may be placed there in the future," said Buske.

The commissioners stated that a "D-Restricted" zone does not allow for certain types of businesses. Commissioners felt that a "D-Restricted" zone will keep any unwanted businesses out of that area.

In other business the commission heard from residents of North Ave. K concerning traffic on that street. The residents stated that drivers disregard the 30 mile per hour speed limit and sometimes reach speeds near 50 miles per hour. The residents were requesting that a stop sign be placed at the intersection of Ave K and 13th Street, making that intersection a four-way stop.

Commissioners stated that Ave. K was designed to be a through street in order to benefit emergency vehicles. Commissioner Emory Brownlow stated that the commissioners will instruct City Manager Darwin McGill to present the matter to the police force asking them to be aware of the complaints.

Commissioners said that they will monitor the situation and asked the residents of Ave. K to report back to the commission if the problem continues.

Commissioners also adopted an ordinance to grant a contract to the existing Southwestern Bell Company franchise in Hereford for 10 years. The telephone franchise had originally requested that the ordinance be for 20 years, but the commission opted to grant the ordinance for 10.

Commissioners still must read the ordinance twice during a public meeting before the act becomes official.

Commissioners then granted authority to McGill to solicit bids for a computer for the police depart-

Absentee voting total 289

Today at 5 p.m. is the deadline for absentee voting in the June 7 runoff elections for the Democratic and Republican primaries. Those who will be out of town on that date or cannot go to the polls are eligible to cast absentee votes.

Registered voters who voted in the party primaries can vote in that party's runoff election Saturday. Eligible voters who did not vote in the primary can vote in either party runoff election. Locally, the Democratic runoff has Dempsey Alexander and Tom Simons vying for the county judge's post, and a runoff in the Precinct 4 commissioner's race between incumbent James Voyles and challenger Johnny Latham.

There have been 287 absentee ballots cast so far for the June 7 Democratic primary election, according to County Clerk David Ruland. Ruland also said there has been two votes cast in the Republican side of the ticket.

Seven minor thefts reported

Seven minor thefts were reported to city police over the past weekend, along with three reports of criminal mischief.

Also reported was a suspicious person, five domestic disturbances, two threats, trespassing, a civil disturbance, two assaults, disorderly conduct, and criminal trespassing.

Arrests were made for public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and parole violation.

Inmate walks away from jail

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office reported the escape of Guadalupe Garcia Saturday. The inmate did not return to the jail while he was on a work release. Deputies currently have no clues of his whereabouts.

Deputies made one arrest for driving while intoxicated and heard a report of a juvenile being drunk over the past weekend.

Child Welfare Board to meet

The Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board will meet for a regular called session in the Commissioner's Courtroom Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. The agenda includes a financial report, approval of bills and reports and committee reports.

Tourism on the increase in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Heavy Memorial Day traffic is an early indication that Texas tourism is going to have a "super summer," the executive director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency said Monday.

Tourist information bureaus operated by the state highway department reported a 20 percent increase in visitors in the January-April period, compared with the same period last year, executive director Larry Todd said.

A total of 1.2 million people stopped at the bureaus during the first four months of the year, with the Rio Grande Valley bureau reporting a 44.3 percent increase and Laredo listing a 35.4 percent increase, he said.

Passenger traffic at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport was up more than 15 percent in the first three months of 1986, for a total of 4.8 million people.

Todd quoted the American Automobile Association as saying the travel route requests it has received indicate travel in Texas is up 11 percent and hotel reservations 40 percent above last year's level.

Sightseers spend about $25.28 per person a day while traveling in Texas, and business travelers spend well over $100 a day, he said.

Banking study completed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Consumer Association said Monday a recent study clearly indicates the cost of consumer banking in Texas is "very expensive."

The association said it cannot point to specific trends because the survey is its first on banking, but that national fees have increased dramatically in recent years.

According to the association, only one bank — RepublicBank — charges for savings accounts, $12 per month. First City had the lowest fees for regular checking accounts, followed by Republic, MBank and Texas Commerce, the association said.

It said it would introduce legislation in the 1987 Legislature to correct any abuses in banking fees.

National

Dire forecasts bring scoffing

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a puff of pancake makeup and a peal of classical piano, the Senate launched itself into the television era, but veteran Capitol Hill watchers say drastic changes are as unlikely as ever.

"Today, the United States Senate catches up with the 20th century," Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said Monday at the start of a six-week experiment in making floor action available to networks.

Few doubt it will become permanent.

As the curtain went up, lawmakers betrayed a touch of stage fright.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, playfully dusted his bald spot with a puff of pancake makeup, and Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., declared with mock solemnity: "The bags under the bags under my eyes will just have to stay."

The producers of the broadcast — the Cable-Satellite Public Affairs Network — added an innovative touch designed to combat the bore factor, which is magnified by the Senate's numerous quorum calls.

Theoretically designed to bring more lawmakers to the floor, the tedious roll calls are an oft-used tactic to stall for time. The network broadcast classical piano music during the delays.

"Sometimes it seems like nothing is happening on the Senate floor," explained Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. "And, in fact, nothing is happening."

Panel seeks greater voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential Challenger commission is asking for new NASA procedures to give astronauts and contractors a stronger voice in launch decisions, sources say, to ensure that the space agency's bureaucracy never again tramples safety objections like those voiced in January.

The commission's 225-page report, sent to the printer Monday, will be presented to President Reagan this weekend. It blisters the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for its management practices and instructs the agency to put safety requirements into every phase of flight operations.

"They're going to recommend that contractors and astronauts be a party to the decision to launch," said one of three sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

One widely expected recommendation — for an independent safety board with enough power to stop a launch — was not adopted. "It was considered to be a stupid idea," said a source close to the commission.

But another commission source said, "There is going to be discussion in the report on setting up a safety organization. That organization could get into participating in the launch decision."

The 13-member commission, headed by former Secretary of State William P. Rogers, held nine days of hearings and its members scattered over the country to investigate the Jan. 28 explosion that destroyed the ship and its crew.

23 Killed, 113 wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem militiamen battled Sunni Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas with tanks, rockets and mortars today in and around Beirut's Palestinian refugee camps. Police said 23 people were killed and 113 others were wounded.

It was the heaviest fighting in the Moslem sector of the Lebanese capital since May 19, when the current round of intermittent battles for control of the camps broke out.

A Moslem orphanage housing more than 3,000 children and west Beirut's fire brigade suffered direct hits, but police said there were no casualties in either instance.

Fires burned out of control on the two top floors of one seven-story apartment building, and heavy shelling prevented fire engines from reaching the scene. Smoke billowed from the smoldering apartments.

Shiite irregulars of Justice Minister Nabih Berri's mainstream Amal militia pounded the camps and Sunni-held neighboring districts with Syrian-supplied T-54 tanks and Soviet-made multi-barreled rocket launchers all night, police said.

Guerrillas and militiamen of the al-Sunni February 6 Movement returned fire from the areas of the Sabra, Chatilla and Bourj el-Barajneh camps with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns.

Hulsey wins Silver Haired election

Candidate Poppy Hulsey of Tulia won the Silver Haired Legislature election held Saturday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hulsey, who ran against local candidate C.P. Worthan and Murrell Whitaker of Hedley, will be representing the 11 county district which includes Oldham, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Collingsworth, Donley, Gray and Wheeler counties.

"We wanted representation from all of the Panhandle area, not just Amarillo," said Barbara Serres, program specialist of Panhandle Area Agency on Aging in Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

"The Silver Haired Legislature steering committee decided to break up the counties by population. They felt that Potter, Carson, Randall, and Armstrong Counties have the most population of senior citizens and they almost have the same population of the two other districts put together," she explained.

The two representatives from those four counties are Melvin Kunkel of Amarillo and Joe Gidden of Canyon.

The other candidate from the top 10 counties, (Dallam, Hartley, Sherman, Moore, Hansford, Hutchinson, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, and Hemphill) is June Kindy of Perryton.

These four representatives of the Panhandle Area Agency on Aging, including Hulsey, will serve for two years as the first mock legislature group in Texas.

The legislature consists of 116 senior citizens from 28 area agencies who will be in Austin the latter part of July for training in the legislative process.

Representatives of the Silver Haired Legislature will meet for their first legislative session on Sept. 29-30 and Oct. 1, in Austin.

"We didn't have a big voter turnout," said Serres, "we had more absentee voting than we had regular balloting on election day."

Serres said this was due to the Senior Citizens Centers not being large, 5-day operations. "But the interest from the small groups was the best we ever had," she added.

"Nazareth, Bovina, Vega, Adrian, there senior citizens may only meet once or twice a month and they sent in the largest votes considering the number of the people in those groups," said Serres.

"More people are understanding that services are available for seniors because of the publicity from the election," said Serres.

"I've had a lot of phone calls from seniors that have never used our services before..."

The strike is the largest one in the country since a three-week walkout by more than 500,000 AT&T workers in 1983 before the Bell System was ordered by the government to spin off its local operating subsidiaries into seven new, independent regional companies.

On Sunday, AT&T's second largest employee union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, tentatively agreed to the company's offer of an 8 percent pay hike over three years but with no inflation adjustments.

However, that accord is subject to rank-and-file vote by the union's nearly 41,000 AT&T workers and IBEW officials have made no recommendation yet on whether it should be accepted.

The biggest stumbling block, however, is the company's intention to divide "systems technicians" — largely installers, repair and maintenance workers — now making $646 per week into three new categories.

One of those new categories for lesser skilled tasks such as pulling cables would have a maximum wage of $360 per week under the company's final offer.

Despite company assurances that no one now on AT&T's payroll would suffer a wage cut from that provision, CWA officials said its final offer on the table lacked specific language guaranteeing that.

"We're not going to throw those people to the wolves," Bahr said, adding that the union wanted those assurances in the contract.

ignore Texas' permitting requirement and begin drilling the shaft anyway. If that happens, Sarpalius believes Attorney General Jim Mattox will have excellent grounds for another lawsuit.

"If they start drilling anywhere near the Ogallala without a permit, I'll start hollering for a suit," the senator said. "If they drill without a permit, they'll be making a mockery of states' rights. DOE, the Reagan administration, the whole federal government in effect will be saying 'Texas has no rights.'"

Sarpalius said he already has drafted a letter to Energy Secretary John Herrington, reminding Herrington of S.B. 1018. He said he would be surprised if the secretary responds to the letter.

"I hope I'm wrong. I hope DOE complies to the letter of the law, but I'd be shocked if they do," Sarpalius said.

"Throughout the site-selection process, they have ignored the wishes of the people in the Panhandle," he said. "They've ignored our concerns.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something has been bugging me for a long time and I'm ashamed to ask anyone. They would think I was nuts. But I simply must get it off my mind because I have been giving it a lot more thought lately than I should.

What happens to those odd socks after they go into the washing machine? My husband and sons are two-legged creatures. They were PAIRS of socks, not singles, yet almost every time I take the socks out of the dryer there is one black, one blue or a white one left over. I must have collected 60 socks with no mates in the last three years.

Do these automatic washers eat socks? I use a rather strong detergent, but no sock could dissolve in it. Is it possible that a sock could go down the drain? As you can see, Ann, I have been toying with several possibilities. None seems logical. Please help me reach a sensible conclusion. I am—DINGY IN DUBOQUE

DEAR DUB: Automatic washers do not eat socks. Nor do they dissolve. No drain that I have ever seen is large enough for a sock to go through. Whatever went into the machine remains there throughout the washing and drying cycles.

How then does one account for the singletons? It's obvious. The mate was tossed away, either unconsciously or consciously because it had a hole in it. We all do things of which we are unaware. This doesn't mean we're wiggly, it merely means we are human. Other possibilities: Socks sometimes cling to other clothes, stick to the sides of the washer or get trapped on ledges in the dryer drum.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently moved into an apartment with a girlfriend. Everything was lovely until two weeks ago. The problem is her boyfriend. He decided to move in also.

I left a comfortable home because I wanted privacy—the chance to do those things one can't do with little brothers and sisters hanging around. Now I am faced with the same situation and it is driving me around the bend.

My girlfriend is the kind who lets people walk all over her. She is completely dominated by this nerd and doesn't realize he is using her. I am being used, too.

I work very hard so that I can afford this apartment. The guy is getting free room and board and maid service, not to mention transportation. (He has no car.) I've never been very good at standing up for my rights. I need to know how to deal with this situation without losing her friendship. Can you help?—THREE'S A CROWD IN CONN.

DEAR CROWD: The friendship is already shot, so let's go on from there. The set-up you describe is grossly unfair and you ought to have your head examined if you allow it to continue. If you can't face her, take the coward's way out and write a letter. Make it abundantly clear that you want the moocher out pronto—for her sake as well as your own. If you don't have backbone enough to write the letter, resign yourself to a lifetime of being used and abused.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may not be up your alley, but do you have any ideas on how I can get the ugly marks off my shoes that appear from nowhere when I drive my car?—SCUFFED IN SCARSDALE

DEAR SCARS: Those marks are murder to get off. Avoid them by keeping an extra pair of beat-up numbers in the car.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

DR. GOTT Get counseling for nightmares

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a man in my mid-70s, and for the past several years have been experiencing periodic nightmares that leave me with a very frightened feeling. I try to wake up, but feel that I've become paralyzed. My wife says I occasionally cry out. What can I do to rid myself of these recurring nightmares?

DEAR READER — Nightmares are thought to be means by which we unconsciously work through problems and frustrations. Dreaming is normal and nightmares are common. Some medications can trigger or enhance dreaming, so if you are taking drugs for an ailment, ask your doctor about this.

Counseling can often help cure nightmares by bringing unconscious stresses and conflicts into the open, where they can be effectively dealt with. Recurring nightmares can be temporary problems or last for years. If this change in your sleeping pattern does not resolve in a few weeks, ask your doctor to refer you to a therapist for counseling.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What causes water puffs under the eyes in the elderly? Our pathway is rugged enough, and they make us appear so ghostly.

DEAR READER — As people age, the skin begins to sag. In addition, there is a loss of subcutaneous fat. These two factors can cause the bags-under-the-eyes look. You may be happy to learn that many plastic surgeons are quite skillful at removing excess tissue in the facial area. If you are tired of looking like the Ghost of Christmas Past, see a plastic surgeon for an opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a slight curvature of the lower spine, plus rheumatoid arthritis (in remission). I do aerobics three times a week and sit-ups (with knees bent) every day. What other exercises can I do to strengthen my lower back?

DEAR READER — I think the specific answer to your question depends on the severity of your arthritis and is best left to your doctor's judgment. In general, walking, biking and swimming are useful forms of exercise.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there any antibiotic that will get rid of vaginal warts? I have them burned off, but they come back. If they are caused by a virus, why can't I take some drug to kill the virus?

DEAR READER — Because warts are caused by viruses, they are not helped by antibiotics. The most effective current treatment involves topical therapy (medicine applied to the skin) by a specialist such as a gynecologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Every few months, in the middle of the night, I am awakened by a rectal spasm. I have an irritable colon and watch my diet. Is there anything else I can do to alleviate this discomfort?

DEAR READER — Irritable colon is characterized by uncomfortable intestinal spasms. Therefore, when nocturnal spasms are present, the use of an antispasmodic medication at bedtime may help your discomfort. Check with your doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 66 and have been suffering periodically from prostate trouble. I was told that I have an extremely small prostate and probably will never require an operation. The discomfort is periodic, but is severe enough for me to want additional help. I am allergic to penicillin, take 50 milligrams of Macrobid daily and use a hot whirlpool five times a week.

DEAR READER — The term "prostate trouble" could mean anything from repeated infection to urinary blockage. Since you are taking Macrobid, an antibiotic, I assume that at least part of your problem may be due to infection. You probably need a cystoscopic exam so that the urologist can examine the inner prostate tissue. Even though you have a small gland, internal prostatic growth that is not diagnosable by means of a rectal examination could be causing interruption of urine flow with secondary infection.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am lefthanded and have always turned my hand when writing. Now, when I start to write and the pen or pencil presses on my thumb, my hand starts to shake. Two doctors have not been able to give me satisfactory reasons as to why this happens. Can you?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing an intention tremor. This may indicate the beginning of a neurological problem or it could just be an isolated event common to aging. See a neurologist.

'Silent disease' dangerous despite lack of symptoms

High blood pressure doesn't hurt. It often doesn't make you feel bad. But despite its lack of symptoms, this disorder can be dangerous to your health.

Many of the 20 percent of adult Americans who have high blood pressure do not know it, says the Texas Medical Association. If you've never had your blood pressure checked, now is a good time to do so. May is National High Blood Pressure Month.

Hypertension, the medical term for high blood pressure, is a condition in which the blood in your arteries is putting too much pressure on the vessels' walls. Hypertension usually begins at about age 30 and is more common as age increases, but it can occur in any age and any person.

High blood pressure occurs more often in men than in women. In women, the disorder often is associated with birth control pills or pregnancy. Hypertension occurs more frequently in blacks than in whites, in overweight people, and in relatives of people with high blood pressure.

Hypertension is a major cause of stroke, heart failure, and kidney failure, but this disorder can be controlled by taking prescribed medications, reducing salt intake, not smoking, losing excess weight, exercising, and drinking less alcohol.

If medication is required, it should be taken daily, even if the patient feels well. If he feels sick, he should see a physician. Hypertension patients or those who have ever been told they had high blood pressure should have their blood pressure checked frequently. For others, a yearly check is advisable.

Hough pitched 8 1/3 innings

Rangers beat Chicago 1-0

By The Associated Press

Charlie Hough had his rhythm and was throwing his devastating knuckleball with ease. The only thing he failed to do was go the distance.

Hough's pitching and Pete O'Brien's run-scoring double in the first inning Monday night provided the Texas Rangers with a 1-0 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak and vaulted the Rangers back into first place in the American League West. The Rangers lead California by a half-game. Kansas City, which started the day tied with Texas, but lost to Milwaukee 7-2, trails by one game.

Hough had a two-hit shutout working with one out in the ninth when Harold Baines singled. Manager Bobby Valentine immediately went to his bullpen and called on Mitch Williams and then Greg Harris, who finished for his eighth save.

"If I had my choice, I'd have told Bobby to let me stay in there," said Hough. "But those other two guys bailed me out."

"Charlie had the best knuckleball he's had all season," said Valentine. "But I had a left-hander who gets people out and a right-hander who gets people out. It turned out all right."

Hough said he was confident going into the ninth inning because he had been throwing strikes.

"I felt good and we had a run but after Baines got that hit I had to face a guy who has given me trouble," said Hough of Greg Walker.

Williams retired Walker but, after walking Jerry Hairston, Valentine called on Harris who got Ron Kittle to foul out and end the game.

Hough, 4-2, had to be at his best to outduel loser Joe Cowley, 1-3. Cowley scattered six hits and struck out 10.

It was Cowley's first appearance since he set a modern major league record by striking out the first seven Rangers he faced in a 6-3 loss at Texas last Wednesday night.

"Cowley pitched good," said Valentine. "That's two outstanding outings against us. It looks like he's a pretty good pitcher."

Cowley gave up only two walks, but the first one burned him. Oddibe McDowell opened the game by drawing a walk after Cowley had him 0-2.

Scott Fletcher bunted McDowell to second and O'Brien followed with a bounding double past first as McDowell scored.

"It was a two-strike breaking pitch," said O'Brien of his hit. "I was fooled a little but I got most of the bat on it. I hit it pretty good."

Cowley was in good form and said "I felt good, comfortable. I fell in a groove and stayed ahead of the count. Those things happen, especially the way we're going now."

The loss was the eighth in the last nine games for the slump-ridden White Sox, who have lost 16 of 24 games at home.

"It's a shame that Joe Cowley was the losing pitcher," said White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa. "He was outstanding. When he dodged the bullet in the eighth inning and they didn't get any insurance runs, I thought we'd win it."

"But it was one of those nights where it was tough to score runs," said LaRussa. "The offense is tight, we're going to have to loosen up and get more aggressive."

The big problem has been the lack of hitting from such big guns as Carlton Fisk and Kittle. Both are batting .207.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was New York 8, California 7; Boston 3, Cleveland 1; Toronto 3, Minnesota 1; and Milwaukee 7, Kansas City 2 and Oakland 7, Detroit 1.

Yankees 8, Angels 7

It was the kind of game teams involved in pennant races later in the season can usually recall.

For the New York Yankees Monday night's 8-7 defeat to California will evoke depressing thoughts; for the Angels, exaltation.

The Yankees clawed their way back from a 6-1 hole to take a 7-6 lead in the top of the ninth inning. Trailing 6-5, Mike Pagliarulo led off with his 11th homer and Rickey Henderson's run-scoring double gave the Yankees the lead.

New York brought on relief ace Dave Righetti and his 12 saves to pitch the ninth, hoping to stay within 2 1/2 games of first-place Boston in the American League East.

But Righetti walked Dick Schofield to lead off the Angels' ninth. Schofield advanced to third when second baseman Willie Randolph threw wildly to first on Bob Boone's grounder up the middle for a two-base error.

Pinch-hitter George Hendrick was intentionally walked to load the bases and Schofield scored the tying run on pinch-hitter Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly to left. Wally Joyner walked to reload the bases and Brian Downing followed with a sharp single to left, scoring Doug DeCinces, who was pinch running for Boone.

Blue Jays 3, Twins 1

Jim Clancy pitched no-hit ball for six innings and George Bell hit a two-run homer in the first to lead Toronto over visiting Minnesota.

Kent Hrbek led off the seventh with a sharp line drive to right field to spoil Clancy's no-hit bid.

Clancy, 6-3, walked two and struck out six.

Red Sox 3, Indians 1

Jim Rice knocked in two runs and reliever Steve Crawford got starter Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 7-3, out of a seventh-inning jam as Boston beat visiting Cleveland.

The Red Sox scored single runs in the first, second and seventh innings off Neal Heaton, 2-5, en route to their third straight victory and 13th triumph in 15 games.

Brewers 7, Royals 2

Teddy Higuera scattered nine hits and recorded his sixth complete game as host Milwaukee snapped Kansas City's four-game winning streak.

Higuera, 7-4, walked three and fanned five.

A's 7, Tigers 1

Three Detroit pitchers walked seven Oakland batters in the first inning and Dave Kingman added a two-run double as the A's sent the visiting Tigers to their fourth straight defeat.

The seven walks allowed by Detroit pitchers in one inning was four under the major-league record, 11 by the New York Yankees in a 1949 game.

The Tigers had Kirk Gibson in their lineup for the first time since April 22. Gibson, who was on the disabled list because of an ankle injury, was 0-for-4 as designated hitter, striking out three times.

A Time To Run, And A Time To Rest

The Kids Inc. Jog-Rama was a time to run and a time to walk, and here several Babe Ruth League baseball players decided to rest themselves some and walked around the track at Whiteface Stadium. The Kids

Inc. organization raised funds through pledges by sponsors that gave according to the number of laps completed by the players and teams. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Only five players have played in 3,000 or more big-league games. They are Pete Rose, the leader, and stars of the past Carl Yastrzemski, Hank Aaron, Ty Cobb and Stan Musial.

Only one pitcher won as many as 500 games and one other as many as 400 in the major leagues. Cy Young posted 511 victories and Walter Johnson won 416.

Walter Johnson, who pitched 110 big-league shutouts, is the all-time leader in that specialty.

Three players hit 600 or more home runs during their major-league careers. Hank Aaron is the all-time leader with 755. Babe Ruth had 714 and Willie Mays connected for 660.

Lefty O'Doul, sometimes a part-time player and pinch-hitter, still had a lifetime batting average of .349 for 970 games in 11 seasons.

Cardinals win third straight

By The Associated Press

A three-game win streak is just the beginning, but the St. Louis Cardinals and ace pitcher John Tudor are beginning to see a little daylight despite being locked in last place in the National League East, 13½ games behind the New York Mets.

St. Louis, 19-27, is on the rise after a five-game losing skid, with two wins over Cincinnati and a 9-2 rout of the Houston Astros Monday night. Tudor, 5-3, picked up the victory with a three-hit, seven-strikeout performance for his second complete game of the season. But he's still cautiously optimistic.

"I didn't feel in control until we started putting some runs on the board," Tudor said. "We're playing the way we should, but we're far from being back in it. I hope we can continue to play well and the Mets don't."

It was about this time in 1985 that Tudor rebounded from a 1-7 start to finish 21-8 for the National League champions.

"He's pitched well 10 times this year," St. Louis manager Whitey Herzog explained. "We just haven't scored any runs for him."

The Cardinals scored nine runs despite leaving 17 runners stranded, just one short of the National League record of 18 left-on-base, which has been done eight times in a nine-inning game. The last time was June 5, 1951, in a game between Pittsburgh and the Boston Braves. The Major League and American League record is 20.

"I think we'll eventually start to hit and score some runs," Herzog stated. "It's a shame we didn't hit well earlier when our starting pitching was pretty good."

The Houston pitching corps of loser Mike Madden, 1-2, and relievers Larry Andersen and Julio Solano surrendered 1986 team highs of 14 hits, 10 walks and four wild pitches. Solano gave up four walks and a wild pitch in only one inning.

"There was as much bad in this game as in the whole last week," Astros' manager Hal Lanier said.

The 28-20 Astros still lead the National League West by three games.

Successive homers by Glenn Davis and Kevin Bass in the fifth inning broke up Tudor's perfect game. A harmless two-out single by Bass in the ninth inning made him only the fifth Houston baserunner of the game.

Shortstop Ozzie Smith led the Cardinals' attack. He had the second four-hit game of his career and drove in two runs with his four singles. Smith's other four-hit games was on August 1, 1983.

The Cardinals scored five runs in the last two innings, with Andy Van Slyke's two-run home run in the ninth added the finishing touch.

In assessing the Cardinals' progress, Tudor said "We're doing the things we did last year. We're getting a lot more hits and getting more running on the base pads."

As for his individual accomplishment, Tudor felt "This is my best game in a while. I finished the game, didn't I?"

In the rest of the National League, it was New York 11, San Diego 2; Philadelphia 13, Los Angeles 2; Chicago 8, Cincinnati 6, and Pittsburgh 9, Atlanta 2.

Mets 11, Padres 2.
George Foster hit two home runs, and Dwight Gooden pitched a four-hitter to help New York end a two-game losing streak by ripping San Diego. Gooden, 7-2, won his second in a row after a stretch of three starts during which he had two losses and a no-decision.

Danny Heep also homered for the Mets. He scored three runs and drove in three more.

Phillies 13, Dodgers 2

Ron Roenicke had the first four-hit game of his career and homered as Philadelphia pounded out 21 hits to hand Los Angeles its third straight loss. The Dodgers, 1-6 on their current road trip, committed four errors and lead the league with 62.

Afterward, Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda said he had called a special practice today for some players, but he would not say who they were.

Cubs 8, Reds 6

Ryne Sandberg hit a three-run homer, and visiting Chicago scored four runs each in the fourth and seventh innings to send Cincinnati to its third straight loss. Rick Sutcliffe allowed five hits in 6 2-3 innings to beat the Reds for the second time in a week.

Sandberg now has 10 hits in his last 16 at-bats, and during a seven-game hitting streak has three homers.

Pirates 9, Braves 2

R.J. Reynolds went 2-for-4 with a walk, two stolen bases, three runs scored and an RBI to help Pittsburgh right-hander Rick Reuschel win his seventh straight game over visiting Atlanta. Reuschel also had two hits and two RBI, while giving up three hits in 5 1-3 innings against the Braves, to whom he has not lost since April, 1979.

In World Cup soccer

Mexico's 1st game is today

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The magic of Maradona and the power of the Soviet Union were on display at the World Cup, where the anticipation of Mexico's first game was foremost in the minds of the citizens of the world's largest metropolitan area.

At Argentina's 3-1 victory over South Korea here Monday, the fans rarely got worked up — except when the chants of "Mexico, Mexico" started.

Outside Olympic Stadium, Mexican flags were being waved and the fans continued celebrating into the night, though not nearly as feverishly as on the weekend, when thousands jammed the streets to sing, dance and praise their country's soccer team.

Vernon JC sets baseball tryout camp Saturday

A college baseball tryout camp has been scheduled in Canyon on Saturday by Vernon Regional Junior College.

The tryout camp will be held at the Canyon High School baseball field from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Danny Watkins, head baseball coach at Vernon Regional Junior College in Vernon, said those attending the tryout camp should bring their own glove, spikes, cap, and insurance waiver.

Watkins said baseball players ages 16 through the age of freshman in college are invited to attempt the tryout camp.

For more information on the camp, call Watkins at (817) 552-6291.

Mexico's opener against Belgium today was expected to draw more than 100,000 people to Aztec Stadium. A victory for the hosts could touch off more of the wildness of last weekend.

The action on the field in Irapuato was wild Monday as the Soviet Union routed Hungary 6-0. The Soviets scored twice in the first four minutes and Hungary never recovered.

Also on Monday, longshot Morocco held powerful Poland to a scoreless tie.

Diego Maradona, one of the world's foremost players, showed all of his wonderful skills against South Korea. He set up all three goals, two off free kicks, despite many hard tackles by the Koreans, who last made this championship tournament in 1954.

The Soviet-Hungary game was rated a tossup, but the Hungarians were finished only four minutes into the match, as Pavel Yakovenko and Sergei Aleinikov scored.

Igor Belanov connected on a penalty kick later in the opening half, and Ivan Yaremchuk got two goals and Sergei Rodionov one in the second half.

"When a team lets in two goals in four minutes, it's very hard to come back," said Hungarian Coach Gyorgy Mezey. "It was like a blow on the head to my players."

Not No. 1 in eyes of major league baseball

Jackson picked in 4th round

NEW YORK (AP) — Bo Jackson may be No. 1 to NFL talent scouts, but not to those in major league baseball.

Jackson, the running back and Heisman Trophy winner from Auburn and considered to be potential baseball material, had to wait until the fourth round before he was picked in the major league amateur free agent draft Monday.

Third baseman Jeff King, an Arkansas junior, was the first pick of the draft, going to the Pittsburgh Pirates, while another college junior, Texas left-hander Greg Swindell, was chosen second by the Cleveland Indians.

Although some baseball scouts were very impressed with Jackson, his stock obviously was down because he has yet to choose a professional career. Jackson was taken as the first pick in the NFL draft by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and is expected to become a pro football player.

Jackson's agent, Tom Ziemann, has said one of the considerations in whether to pick baseball would be how quickly Jackson might move from the minors to the majors.

While calling Jackson "a Kirk Gibson who can throw," Royals head scout Art Stewart said Jackson would have to spend some time in the minors. Jackson's major league stock may also have dipped because he hit just .246 in 21 games last season before he was declared ineligible at Auburn for accepting a plane ticket to a pre-NFL draft physical. Jackson hit .401 with 17 homers as a junior.

"The next step is for his agent and John Schuerholz (Royals general manager) to begin negotiations," Royals spokesman Dean Vogelaar said as the club confirmed the choice of Jackson.

Only the first-round selections were made public by the commissioner's office. Subsequent rounds, which may continue as late as Wednesday, will not be made public until next week. Teams were directed by the commissioner's office not to reveal the rest of their picks, but the Royals confirmed Jackson's selection because the player's agent already had announced it.

First-round picks are the only ones made public by the major league clubs. The choices in the remaining rounds will be announced later. The idea is to prevent college coaches from using the draft picks to compile a recruiting list.

Two Texas schoolboys — Prairiland pitcher Scott Scudder and Crockett catcher Phil Clark — were first-round selections in pro baseball's annual amateur free agent draft.

Scudder, a right-hander, was selected 17th by the Cincinnati Reds, and Clark was chosen 18th overall by the Detroit Tigers.

"I was really surprised I was taken that early in the draft," said Scudder, who is 15-0 this season. "I was really thinking more around the second round. But I had a feeling it would be Cincinnati. They were one of the main teams that were scouting my games."

Clark, a 6-foot, 175-pounder, is a recent high school graduate. He bats

University of Texas pitcher Greg Swindell, drafted by the Cleveland Indians, was the second pick overall.

Nacogdoches pitcher Daryl Green, expected by many to be an early first-round choice, was taken by the California Angels between the first and second rounds.

The Texas Rangers picked Houston Aldine pitcher Roger Pavlick in the second round.

Brenham's Carl Sullivan, an outfielder, was selected in the second round by the Chicago White Sox, and teammate Chris Graves, who signed to play football with the University of Texas, in the third round by the Angels.

Dallas Thomas Jefferson pitcher Mike Moscrey was picked in the fourth round by the Reds and Plano East catcher Steve Piskor in the sixth round by the New York Mets.

Two sons of former major leaguers were selected in the first round. Derrick May, a high school outfielder from Newark, Del. and the son of former Baltimore Oriole Dave May, was chosen by the Chicago Cubs as the ninth overall pick and Lee May Jr., a high school outfielder-first baseman from Cincinnati and son of former Red Lee May, was tabbed by the New York Mets as the 21st overall selection. The Mays are not related.

Scenes from Kids Inc. Jog-Rama

Running, Jogging For An Hour

More than 400 boys and girls participated in the Kids Inc. Jog-Rama on Saturday at Whiteface Stadium. Each Kids Inc. athlete ran, jogged, and walked as he or she felt like doing for one hour, and a record was kept on the number of laps each individual ran. (Brand photos by Gary Christensen)

Happiness Is ...

Running (and walking) in the Kids Inc. Jog-Rama! As the young man in the White Sox shirt shows on his face, it was a happy time participating in the Jog-Rama last Saturday. This boy was caught with his smile during the 10 a.m. session, in which mainly T-ball league players were running in the Jog-Rama. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

On Your Mark, Get Set, Go

In the photo above, the Braves team members in the girls' T-ball league take off in the Kids Inc. Jog-Rama, a fund-raising activity held last Saturday at Whiteface Stadium. The bottom photo below shows several girls from the minor league beginning their session of the Jog-Rama. The upper photo below is the session in which most of the runners were from the Babe Ruth League and the girls' major league. The chairman of the Jog-Rama was Melody Siever. More than 400 boys and girls participated in the Jog-Rama, and a makeup Jog-Rama will be announced later for those boys and girls who were unable to participate in last Saturday's event. (Brand photos by Gary Christensen)

Let's Race

The Kids Inc. Jog-Rama, which was held last Saturday at Whiteface Stadium, was not a track meet, but many of the boys and girls who participated had some competition among themselves. These three boys from the Kids Inc. boys' major league appear to be having their own contest during one of their laps around the stadium track. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Adding Up The Laps

Running along are several members of the Babe Ruth League in the Kids Inc. Jog-Rama, during the same session that members of the girls' major league teams also were running. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Campaign finance reports released

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has $1.7 million in the bank while Republican challenger Bill Clements is $34,000 in debt, according to the candidates' campaign finance reports.

White spent $4.5 million in defeating five Democratic challengers in the primary, reports filed Monday with the secretary of state indicate. And Clements spent just over $3 million in beating challengers Tom Loeffler and Kent Hance.

Clements reported contributions of $636,709 and expenses of $579,326 for the period April 24 through May 28. But his campaign is $34,000 in the red because of a deficit from the previous report.

Meanwhile, Roy Barrera Jr. and Ed Walsh square off Saturday in the runoff for the GOP nomination for attorney general, but they're not spending much campaign time talking about each other.

Both candidates focused Monday on Jim Mattox, the Democratic incumbent who is seeking re-election. "The fact is Jim Mattox will be defeated in November," said Barrera, a San Antonio state district judge who ran first in the May primary with 46 percent of the GOP vote.

Walsh, a former Williamson County district attorney, said Monday that Mattox has failed to fight crime the way Texans want it fought.

Barrera, at a Capitol news conference, said he has found much dissatisfaction with Mattox's performance.

"Jim Mattox has lost the respect of many Texans in both political parties for whatever reason — be it his indictment for commercial bribery, his combative style, his politicization of the attorney general's office, his liberal political views, his weakness on the death penalty," Barrera said.

Walsh held Monday news conferences in Longview, Texarkana, Sherman and Wichita Falls, and released copies of his latest campaign mailing. It features a large, black-and-white photo of a sneering, tattooed inmate behind bars.

"Say hello to your new next-door neighbor," it says above the photo sent to 200,000 Republicans.

The four-page mailing continues Walsh's claim that he is the candidate best able to make a dent in crime, an area in which he says Mattox has failed.

"We need to lock up these criminals and throw away the key, not release them back into society to live in halfway houses," Walsh said, referring to recent crimes involving parolees and particularly to heinous crimes.

Walsh said Mattox has "shown a proclivity toward caving in on the side of convicts in prisoners' rights lawsuits."

At an Austin news conference, Clements said White's handling of the state's fiscal crunch reminds him of Nero's handling of the fire that engulfed Rome.

"Mark White continues to fiddle about while Austin burns," Clements said.

The ex-governor said Friday's special House session on the state's money woes — at which Comptroller Bob Bullock said the shortfall could reach $2 billion — was proof that White should call a special legislative session.

"The message is loud and clear from the House caucus last week: Mark White, call a special session, scrub the budget, prioritize spending items, eliminate the projected budget shortfall," Clements said.

He said there is enough money to meet the state's needs without raising taxes.

White noted Monday that the Texas Association of Taxpayers agreed with his decision that a special session is not needed. The governor said "there are those who would seek to approach our current projected budgetary shortfall through a politically expedient, costly and irresponsible solution."

White's wife on Monday announced her schedule for hearings at which she and a panel will listen to educators' ideas on how to fine-tune the education reforms.

"Our teachers can offer suggestions as to how we can hasten our progress to excellence," Linda Gale White said.

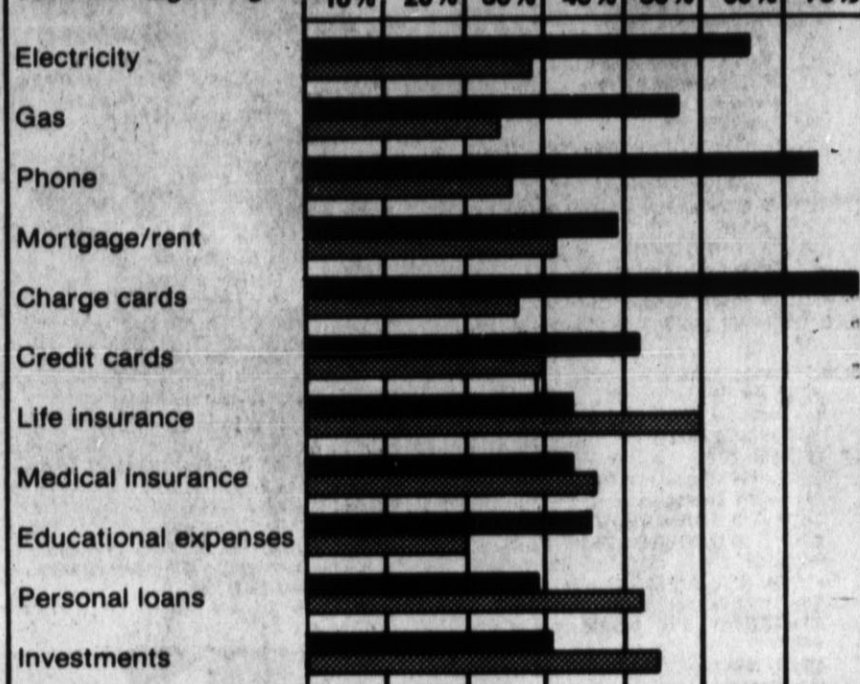

The first hearing is set for June 9 in El Paso.

The Newspaper BIBLE

Peter's words moved the people deeply, and they said to him and to the other apostles, "Brothers, what should we do?"

And Peter replied, "Each one of you must turn from sin, return to God, and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; then you also shall receive this gift, the Holy Spirit. For Christ promised Him to each one of you who has been called by the Lord our God, and to your children and even to those in distant lands!"

Then Peter preached a long sermon, telling about Jesus and strongly urging all his listeners to save themselves from the evils of their nation.

And those who believed Peter were baptized about 3,000 in all! They joined with the other believers in regular attendance at the apostles' teaching sessions and at the Communion services and prayer meetings. A deep sense of awe was on them all, and the apostles did many miracles.

And all the believers met together constantly and shared everything with each other, selling their possessions and dividing with those in need. They worshiped together regularly at the Temple each day, met in small groups in homes for Communion, and shared their meals with great joy and thankfulness, praising God. The whole city was favorable to them, and each day God added to them all who were being saved.

Charges dismissed against worker

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Sanctuary movement worker Stacey Lynn Merkt went into U.S. District Court to face a retrial on charges of transporting three Salvadorans in 1984.

But she left the courtroom less than five minutes later Monday after prosecutors asked U.S. District Judge Ricardo Hinojosa to dismiss the charges.

"Basically, we have encountered difficulty in obtaining witnesses and we see no need to pursue it any further," Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Guerra told Hinojosa.

Hinojosa granted the motion and Ms. Merkt's supporters inside and outside the courtroom cheered softly.

"I just feel great. I am a person that lives by faith and I take things one step at a time," Ms. Merkt said later outside a Catholic Church where supporters had gathered.

"I am going to allow myself a couple of days to decide what I need to be doing with my life in the way of helping refugees," she said.

Sanctuary movement workers contend Central Americans are fleeing their region because they fear for their lives, but government officials contend many come to the United States for economic reasons.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had reversed Ms. Merkt's conviction last summer, citing improper jury instructions given by the presiding judge.

"This is great. It's just a beginning and I can't help but think of the other side...that there's still the root causes of war that cause the refugees to flee here," Ms. Merkt told reporters outside the courthouse.

Ms. Merkt, 31, was convicted in May 1984 on charges of transporting three Salvadorans. She, a nun, a reporter and the Salvadorans were arrested on Feb. 17, 1984 by Border Patrol agents.

The agents stopped the Catholic Church-owned car that the nun was driving on a rural road near Hebbronville. Ms. Merkt was the only one who was prosecuted.

She was sentenced to 90 days in prison and two years' probation, but she remained free pending the appeal.

Ms. Merkt, however, is appealing another conviction. She was convicted in February 1985 on a charge of conspiring to smuggle Salvadoran aliens. She was sentenced to 179 days in prison and three years' probation in that case.

Supporters on Monday held a prayer vigil outside the courthouse before Ms. Merkt and her attorneys went to court. They gathered at a Catholic Church later for a celebration and lunch.

"We think the government realized we would have won the trial and this was just a way of saving us all a lot of time and money and we're delighted," said Ms. Merkt's attorney, Steve Cooper.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Christopher Milner said the decision not to re-try the case was made because of the difficulty in finding witnesses and the expense involved.

"The government really had nothing to gain from a retrial of Stacey Merkt in this case," he said. "I don't anticipate trying her in the near future in this case."

Milner said the decision to dismiss the case was made by U.S. Attorney Henry K. Oncken of Houston. But Milner said the government was not backing off its prosecution of sanctuary movement workers who violate immigration law.

At the time of her arrest and conviction, Ms. Merkt was a volunteer at Casa Oscar Romero, a Catholic Church-sponsored shelter in San Benito, Texas.

The shelter's former director, Jack Elder, served five months in a halfway house after being convicted in February 1985 of illegally aiding two Salvadorans in entering the country.

A month earlier, he had been acquitted of charges he transported three Salvadorans.

Cutting cooling costs

Austin - Summer cooling costs represent the largest annual utility expense in the typical Texas home. Peggy Rosson, Chairman of the Public Utility Commission, suggests a "whole-house cooling strategy" to reduce summer cooling costs by as much as 30 to 40 percent.

"But more is involved," says Chairman Rosson, "than merely adjusting the thermostat up a few degrees, closing off unused rooms, and installing ceiling fans. While all these actions can help, much more is possible."

The Energy Efficiency Division of the Public Utility Commission has a "Cooling Cost Reduction Package" with information ranging from keeping your air conditioning system tuned up to efficient exterior shading methods and cooling options for the different climatic regions of the state.

The package contains a consumer guide and factsheets, to help design the most effective strategy to combat Texas heat.

To learn more about cooling methods tailored to individual homes and local conditions, call 1/800/643-SAVE and talk to an energy specialist. Ask for the "Cooling Cost Reduction Package."

ONE BURGLARY
EVERY 8 SECONDS

Every 8 seconds. That's how often burglars walk away with thousands of dollars of merchandise from people's homes - adding up to more than $3 billion of stolen possessions each year.

"Burglar-proof Your Home" is a new brochure from USF&G Insurance that can show you how to protect your home from burglars. It's important information you need, and it's free.

Call us or stop by for your copy.
