'IN A TRUE SENSE'

AMA Never Opposed Knowles

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association said today that "in a true sense" the group never opposed the nomination of Dr. John H. Knowles to an important federal health post.

Dr. Dwight L. Wilbur of San Francisco said the AMA did withhold its support of Knowles because it had three candidates of its own — none of whom got the job.

Knowles, general director of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, had been proposed as assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He was favored by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch, but after considerable public controversy, Finch last week withdrew the nomination and proposed Dr. Roger O. Egeberg of the University of Southern California at Los Angeles for the post.

The opposition of the AMA, backed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the Senate minority leader, was blamed for the withdrawal.

In a statement, Wilbur said: "In a true sense, we never opposed Dr. Knowles. But we did not support him because we had alternative recommendations."

Wilbur said that in keeping with a promise to Finch, the AMA had declined to comment during the controversy over the Knowles nomination.

"We held our silence during the last months of nationwide publicity because we agreed with Secretary Finch to make our suggestions to him and then say no more," Wilbur said. "We did that. The Knowles protagonists obviously did just the opposite."

He continued, "AMA favored the appointment of a physician representing the broadest scope of medicine and not too closely oriented to any one segment of medicine or the health field."

It was reported during the controversy that one reason the AMA wanted someone other than Knowles was that he represented hospital interests.

"I am certain," Wilbur said, "that — not withstanding the extraordinary history of this situation — Dr. Egeberg and the AMA will be able to work together in a productive effort to serve the best interest of the American people."

Marshal Of Cross Plains Gunned

CISCO, Tex. (AP) — The city marshal of Cross Plains was gunned down before dawn today when he stopped a driver and officers at four hours arrested a man and a woman about four hours later.

Officers questioned the two to determine if one shot Marshal Byron Richardson.

The two were in a white pickup truck, the type and color of the vehicle which the marshal stopped.

A Highway Patrol spokesman said Richardson had given a driver of a pickup truck a ticket for operating a vehicle without a driver's license when the shooting broke out.

Richardson was hit with a .22-caliber rifle slug and was taken to Abilene, where he underwent surgery during the morning. Cross Plains is 42 miles southeast of Abilene.

Sen. McGovern Met In Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern disclosed today he met in secret for 10 hours last May with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators in Paris.

He said he came away convinced that progress in the peace talks is impossible until the United States starts "the systematic withdrawal of all our forces," and stops unqualified support of the Thieu government.

He said the other side would respond quickly to ease off their military pressure if the United States changed strategy and withdrew troops.

Guatemalan Squatters

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Reports from the southern border state of Chiapas say a group of Mexican farmers plan to complain to the Department of Agrarian Affairs that farmers they call "wetbacks" have entered Mexico from Guatemala and become squatters.

The reports said seven Guatemalans recently crossed the border river Suchiate and took over 150 hectares of farmland in the village of Las Margaritas.

A delegation of Mexican farmers was reportedly in Tuxtla Gutierrez, state capital of Chiapas, waiting to see Gov. Jose Castillo Piellemann.

Action In The Mideast

Map locates where Israel claimed its jets shot down four Egyptian MIGs in a dogfight over the Gulf of Suez Wednesday. Egypt claimed two Israeli Mirages were shot down. Arab guerrillas attacked an Israeli army position in Jordan's occupied west bank. A map released by the Israeli army showed the target area of an Israeli raid in Suez near Ras Isran. Two Israeli soldiers were reported wounded in sporadic artillery, mortar and small arms fire along the Suez Canal.

Welfare Officials Mull AFDC Ruling

AUSTIN (AP) — Welfare officials met with members of the attorney general's department today in an effort to figure out what a Dallas federal court has ordered the state to do.

"We can not do anything definite until we get the written opinion but we are doing some talking now," said Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

A three-judge federal court Tuesday granted a permanent injunction against the State Welfare Department making announced decreases in payments to families with dependent children, but at the same time granted a 60-day stay in the effect of the injunction.

The Tuesday order said merely that the decreases "violated requirements established by congress and is therefore void." The judges said an opinion giving details of the order would be issued later.

An Austin source said today the opinion likely would not be available for several more days.

State Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney said the order apparently referred to a provision of the federal act that says welfare payments must be increased when the cost of living rises. The law gives no specific rate of increase.

State officials estimate the cost of living index in Texas has risen 11 per cent since 1965. However, when the new dependent children rates were figured only a 5.5 per cent cost of living increase was figured since the rates were based on 50 per cent of need, not 100 per cent.

Hackney is expected to make a full report on the effects of the ruling to Gov. Preston Smith later in the week.

The ruling gives the state 60 days to come up with a new plan for AFDC payments and includes a permanent injunction preventing planned payment cuts and prohibiting the state from receiving federal funds until a new plan is devised.

The three-judge panel in Dallas said the cut in welfare payments which were approved May 1 "violates requirements established by Congress and is therefore void."

Deputy Welfare Commissioner Herbert Wilson said Tuesday that the department had not received details of the ruling, but that he assumed it involved a congressional directive that welfare payments should be raised, not lowered, in accordance with rises in the cost of living.

The court action Tuesday was in response to a suit filed Feb. 12 by Dallas Legal Services attorney Ed Polk.

Polk said after the order was issued that it did, indeed, deal with the congressional directive to change welfare payments to meet increases in the cost of living.

Polk said the directive required that as of Jan. 1, 1968, payments should be adjusted upward to coincide with cost of living increases and that such adjustments should be made before July 1, 1969.

While the Senate wades into the sticky issue of the income surtax extension, the House Ways and Means Committee is committed to a full speed ahead effort to complete work on a comprehensive tax reform measure.

There is a possibility the House could have its reform bill to the Senate before the senators dispose of the surtax issue.

This would develop if Senate action on the surtax takes as long as some Democrats are suggesting—up to three months—and the House committee can deliver the reform measure as quickly as promised—by early August.

Should this happen, a merger of the measures would be logical, but not necessarily probable.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen is pushing hard for quick action on the surtax extension. He told a news conference he would like to see it enacted by July 31, but that it would be jeopardized "if it loaded down with a lot of reforms."

A determined group of Senate Democrats, backed by the party's policy committee is laying plans to turn the surtax measure into what they call a loop-hole-closing bill. This could mean prolonged hearings and debate, pushing final Senate action long into September.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he doubts the bill can get through the Senate unless it contains broad tax reform provisions.

The first test will come next week when the Senate Finance Committee voted on procedure for considering the measure. Dirksen says he wants hearings limited to two days, but Democrats outnumber Republicans 10 to 7 on the committee.

In the House, a Ways and Means Committee source says there is little doubt the comprehensive tax reform bill will be ready for a House vote in early August.

The 1969 review of the Internal Revenue Code began in February and, while the committee has made decisions on a number of proposed tax changes, some of the toughest problems are still ahead.

These include depletion allowances on oil and other minerals; the special treatment of capital gains, including the exemption of capital gains transferred at death; alternatives to the tax exemption of interest on state and municipal bonds; fast depreciation of real estate; changes in tax benefits for the elderly; maximum and minimum income taxes.

Israeli Jets Down 4 Egyptian MIGs

By The Associated Press

Israel claimed its jets shot down four Egyptian MIGs in a dogfight over the Gulf of Suez today. Egypt did not confirm the losses but claimed two Israeli Mirages were shot down.

Cairo radio quoted a military communique as saying two Israeli plane formations entered Egyptian air space in the Ain el Suk Neh area, were intercepted by MIGs and two Israeli jets were shot down in the ensuing fight.

The Israeli army said its planes encountered the MIGs while on patrol, pursued them, and four of the Soviet-built planes were seen falling in Egyptian territory.

The Israelis also claimed that some of their jets flew over Cairo last June 17, an audacious move that led to the firing of Egypt's air force chief, Gen. Mustapha el Hennawi, and Gen. Hassan Kamel, responsible for Egypt's air defense.

Their dismissal was announced in Cairo June 23. Egypt's new air chief, Gen. Ali Baghdadi, lost three MIGs by Israeli count within days of assuming his new office.

The air clash follows three Egyptian raids on three Egyptian positions in the Gulf of Suez Tuesday night and an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli army position in Jordan's occupied West Bank.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Arab raiders were driven off by Israeli fire and there were no casualties.

In a brief communique of the Suez raid, the Israeli army said its commandos killed 13 Egyptian soldiers, took one prisoner and returned safely to base. A map released by the army showed the target area near Ras Isran, about 100 miles south of Port Suez.

A communique from Cairo said only three Egyptian coast-guardians were killed, four were wounded and one was missing.

Rogers Says Lull Might Hike Troop Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that battle activity in Vietnam in the last week may have dropped to the lowest level of the war and he indicated this could increase U.S. troop withdrawals if the lull continues.

Rogers also told a news conference that "we know pretty conclusively" that the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam has declined in the last two or three months but the reason for this is not clear. Rogers cautioned that the reason for the battlefield lull is not yet quite clear either, saying more time would be required to decide whether it was politically significant.

He said, however, that "we hope this is a response to the announcement by President Nixon and President Thieu of South Vietnam at Midway." The Midway announcement June 8 disclosed Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops by the end of August.

One question asked Rogers was whether the United States would react to the lower level of combat now apparent, assuming that it proved to be significant.

He recalled that one of President Nixon's stated criteria for withdrawing forces from Vietnam was the level of enemy military activity in the field.

"Obviously if the level of hostility continues and it is significantly lower," Rogers said, "that would affect our decisions on further troop replacements (withdrawals)."

Trustees Whack $26,800 From $4.8 Million Budget

Trustees worked past midnight Tuesday in an effort to pare a $4,873,825 proposed 1969-70 school budget. In the five-hour session, board members managed to trim approximately $26,800, by cutting proposed salary raises for administration and business officials, principals and assistant principals, the elementary reading coordinator, and guidance counselors.

"It is easy to be thrifty with people who are already employed," Sam Anderson, school superintendent, said, "however, if you have to replace these people it could be expensive."

Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent-instructor, said he was almost certain the board's action would cost them at least one guidance counselor intending to come to Big Spring this fall.

"The salary was very much a factor when we agreed to join our school system. I will have to notify him of the salary change, of course, but I'm almost positive we'll lose him," Hise said.

The biggest single cut came when A. K. Guthrie made a motion that salaries for elementary, secondary and assistant secondary principals be increased 5.1 per cent above the present salaries, which reduces the proposed salary raises for 1969-70 approximately $11,800.

School officials had budgeted $218,878 to pay principals' salaries, and the board cut this to approximately $207,000.

Trustees began the session by attempting to hold administration and business salaries at the level of the 1968-69 budget. Jimmy Taylor made a motion that these proposed salaries be reduced to the same as last year.

Joe Moss, board president, reminded the trustees of the Jan. 31, 1968, meeting in which a two-year contract extension with an added $1,000 per year increment was approved for Anderson.

"There is no way we can hold his salary to the same as last year," Moss said. Anderson will receive $24,000 under the 1969-70 budget. His salary for 1968-69 was $22,000.

Moss suggested Taylor amend his motion to exclude Anderson, but Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper objected. "I don't think we should raise one person's salary and not at least look at the others," she said. Taylor withdrew his motion.

Jack Alexander made a motion that trustees grant only a 4.5 per cent increase in the administration and business salaries for 1968-69, excluding the superintendent, which reduces proposed salary raises by approximately $7,600. Moss stepped down from the chair to second the motion, and Mrs. Cowper called for the vote. Trustees voted unanimously in favor.

Guthrie made a motion to adopt the proposed salary schedule for elementary principals. Taylor and Mrs. Cowper voted against the motion, saying they thought the principals' salaries should be uniform. Mrs. Cowper said trustees shouldn't accept proposed salaries for elementary principals, and then change the salaries for secondary principals.

Guthrie made a motion to rescind action on the first motion. Trustees voted unanimously and then acted to give all principals a 5.1 increase over present salaries.

The proposed salary for the elementary reading coordinator was cut from $9,540 to $9,105 on a motion by Guthrie. The board members voted unanimously to accept it.

Trustees cut another $6,900 from the budget when Mrs. Cowper moved to increase salaries for eight guidance counselors 5.1 per cent over present salaries. The proposed salaries totaled $75,664, which ranged from 12 to 14 per cent increases over present salaries. Alexander was the only trustee opposed to the motion.

Board members also questioned, but did not cut, the proposed transportation budget of $27,579.

"It looks to me like some people are spending a lot of time out of the district — some spend as many as one out of five work days traveling," Taylor said.

Alexander said he felt the school district was not adequately compensating for travel. The district pays eight cents per mile and $11.50 per diem and the state and federal schedule lists 10 cents per mile and $14 per diem.

Moss agreed that the transportation allowance was low. "We're not paying those who have to travel enough and we're paying some to travel who don't need to," he said.

The $650 local increment also came under fire, with board members agreeing that the local school district could not afford to continue raising teachers' salaries to meet the state minimum rate and also continue to pay the local increment.

Mrs. Cowper said the governor's commission had recommended no school pay a local increment, so all communities would have an equal salary attraction for teachers. "I am afraid that next year we're going to have to start reducing our increment," she said.

"We only have one alternative to reducing the increment," Taylor said, "and that is to raise taxes — which we cannot afford to do."

"We're probably not going to be able to maintain the local $650 increment," Don Crockett, assistant superintendent of business, said. "But by complying with the state salary raise, we will be paying our teachers a good salary without this increment."

The school board members will continue studying the budget at the regular meeting July 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Board room.

Army Putting Its Hopes On New 'Burger Court'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is putting its hopes on the new "Burger court" to ease the impact of a landmark Supreme Court decision barring the military from trying servicemen charged with nonservice-connected crimes.

Unless the high court's July 2 decision is clarified or reversed, Army legal officials predict that as many as 450,000 court martial convictions could be thrown out.

The court headed by now-retired Chief Justice Earl Warren ruled 5-3 that servicemen may be tried in military courts only if their offenses were "service connected." Warren voted with the majority.

The case involved Army Sgt. James F. O'Callahan who was sentenced to 10 years in a military prison after a court martial convicted him of attempted rape in Hawaii.

Advised by his legal aides, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird originally wrote the Justice Department suggesting the Supreme Court be asked for a rehearing. Laird contended the decision "overturns almost 200 years of practice and law."

After considerable consultation between U.S. Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold and Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, the Army's judge advocate general, it was decided not to go through with the petition for rehearing, sources said.

The main reasons were that very few such petitions are granted and because the case could not be heard again, in any event, until the Supreme Court's October session.

Instead, the Army and Justice Department legal strategists decided to bank their hopes on other cases now moving toward the Supreme Court.

An important consideration in this strategy, it was said, was the two new faces on the Supreme Court when its fall term begins—the new chief justice, Warren E. Burger, and the replacement for Justice Abe Fortas, who has resigned.

The Army hopes the two new members will be enough to change the court's position on similar new cases or at least rule that the O'Callahan decision is not retroactive.

In handing down its June 2 decision, the Supreme Court was silent on the issue whether its impact was retroactive.

The Army judge advocate general told reporters at the time that the opinion "is retroactive for 180 years unless the court later on changes it."

It is this point which Army lawyers feel strongly is most in need of clarification to avoid the wholesale reversal of military courts martial convictions.

Pickets May Shut Down Southeast Texas Jobs

HOUSTON (AP) — Southeast Texas construction jobs will be shut down by pickets next week if negotiations with contractors yield no progress, a laborer union official said Tuesday.

Negotiations recessed Tuesday with no new talks slated until next Tuesday. Both sides said no progress had been made to end the strike which began Tuesday and involves some 6,000 laborers in Houston.

Separate negotiations covering an additional 2,000 Sabine area laborers are expected to resume in Beaumont Thursday with the industrial contractors.

The Painters Union, covering 1,800 men, also struck Tuesday when workers failed to ratify new contracts. However, neither union group put up pickets.

The painters voted 2-1 to reject a $1.15 hourly increase over three years. Less than 22 percent of the members voted.

"Right now we don't plan on putting up any pickets unless we find someone doing our work," one laborer official said. Despite the lack of laborers on the jobs of local contractors, the official said the union was not officially on strike.

An official for the Painters Local 130 said they have not made definite plans about picketing.

(From the 'Upper Room')

We Should Be Grateful

The General Services Administration has confirmed the previous word from Rep. Omar Burleson that the former post office building will be turned over to Howard County for use as a home for the library.

This is a heartening development, for it is just about the only way that our library could now break out of its confining bounds. The way is now open for significant expansion, and with it a far greater sphere of service in our community and area.

When, through the generosity of the Dora Roberts Foundation, the former home of Mrs. Roberts was made available to the county as a home for the library, it was a fortuitous circumstance. At that time the library was hopelessly constricted in limited space at the courthouse.

But libraries, if they are of consequence, are like people—they must grow and develop. When space problems become critical, the addition of volumes and of services is retarded.

The county has $25,000 in the budget for the first renovation and remodeling of the former post office location. Obviously, this will not be enough to accomplish much more than a healthy start, but it should be enough to make the transition and to make the library operational. Appropriations in subsequent years can gradually but steadily bring about the changes desired.

The modern library will need to be more than a repository of books, although it must be this on a progressive basis. Increasingly, sound and visual aids are fitting into the plan. Also indicated are spaces for conferences and lectures, story-telling, music appreciation, archives, etc. The new location will offer an opportunity for these developments, in addition to a handy location. We should all be deeply grateful to GSA and the federal government for use of the building.

Serve Intended Area

Both sides have fired their big guns, and not without some sharp feeling, in the hearing by the University of Texas regents site selection committee on a location for an authorized upper level college for the Permian Basin.

Midland argued that to serve the Midland-Odessa metropolitan complex most effectively and conveniently, the college should be between the two cities. Moreover, it was indicated, this was the basis of an understanding under which Midland gave the support, without which the legalizing act could not have passed.

Odessa, however, contended that it had made the initial investments in higher education and created a community college consciousness; that it was folly to put the college on the prairie well removed from either community; that the whole territory—west, as well as east, should be considered. Odessans claimed they had been pressured into acceptance of the original central site.

The hearing is not apt to be the last of it. There will be continued pressure as well as political leverage applied from both sides before the site committee comes up with a recommendation will be based upon the consideration of maximum service to the area the institution is intended to serve.

NEW YORK (AP)—Most Americans, earning more money today than ever, are dismayed at the inroads inflation has made on their buying power and the disruption it has caused in their plans for the future.

Housewives are perturbed by climbing food costs and husbands are holding off on decisions to buy new homes and cars.

The reason for their distress is plain. The value of the dollar you earned in 1958 has eroded to 79 cents.

"I PROBABLY spend twice as much on groceries now as I did four years ago."

That's what inflation means to Patricia Misurade, wife of a Kirkland, Wash. school teacher and mother of three.

Through the comments of people in a dozen major cities runs the complaint that their rising incomes haven't kept up with jumping prices. Even so, many say they are holding to their accustomed standard of living if it means dripping into savings and borrowing.

Wages of a typical nonfarm industrial worker with three dependents last April averaged $112.13 a week. This left him with $88.11 in spendable money at current prices. But this was the equivalent of only $77.62 on the basis of 1957-58 prices.

Billy Graham

I am trying to help a friend of mine who wants to believe in God but says he can't. Have you any suggestions?

M.T. First of all, let me urge you to make this a matter of earnest prayer. Ask God to give you the necessary wisdom, the humility, the love and also the proper time. One approach is to tell in simple words what Christ means to you, how He has saved you from the guilt and penalty of sin and given you peace in your heart. If he maintains that he does not believe in God, call his attention to the marvels of creation all about us. Tell him that the very yearning has in his heart is God speaking to him. In the Epistle to the Hebrews we find these words: "He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." (11:6) The evidences of the fact of God are so overwhelming that only a fool will deny His existence. But there are many confused people who need to be assured that the God of this universe is also a God of infinite love and compassion. Sin has separated us from God but Christ has taken this sin for us so that fellowship may again be established. Above all, do not argue for no one has ever been won by arguments. As far as possible use Scripture references which are pertinent and the Holy Spirit will do the rest.

Protectionism Vs. 'Free Trade'

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of frayed phrases, so shopworn and weary by history that their original identity hardly can be understood any more, are proving to be potent catalysts in world affairs today.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, back from icy receptions in the world's trading capitals while seeking import restrictions, and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, now receiving a torrid reception in Latin America, can attest to the vitality of the concepts.

So also can the executives of Standard Oil (New Jersey) and the Anaconda Co., who have had their difficulties with Latin-American nations, understand the words that convey the concepts—economic imperialism and free trade.

THE CHARGES of imperialism are almost bound to be made against any economically powerful nation, but in today's world some other factors complicate matters. First there is nationalism, secondly there is internationalism.

Tremendous national pride exists today; nearly one half the nations of the world have arisen in the most recent generation. And, as small nations are inclined, they seek to grow in strength.

Not only gain in strength, but like youth the world over, they seek to establish their own identities and resist the powerful forces of conformity.

At the very time that the number of nations has multiplied, the world in a marketing sense has shriveled. Hundreds of companies now consider the world—not any one country—their market place and their source of supply.

VERY OFTEN the smaller nations find themselves selling raw materials to these multinational companies but, in their view, failing to share in the economic benefits. Instead, they feel, the benefits are taken elsewhere.

Often, in fact, they are unable to develop enough purchasing power to buy the finished products made from the raw materials of their lands. And they feel thwarted in developing industry to compete with the dominant powers.

The economically powerful nations also find themselves in a frustrating situation, for they feel they cannot permit goods produced in low-wage countries to compete with their own. And so they deny them access to markets.

Despite a supposed philosophical commitment to free trade, the United States and most of the world's developed nations practice something a good deal more restrictive than that. And it isn't only against smaller nations.

Middle Age Advantages

NEW YORK (AP)—The trouble with middle age is that most of the people undergoing it don't know how to relax and enjoy it.

They tend to regard it as teenagers do acne—something they'd like to hide if they could. They see it as an affliction, not a blessing.

But every period of life has its advantages—yes, even middle age. For example, when you're middle-aged—

IT IS NO longer really necessary to waste money buying alarm clocks. Your conscience will wake you up.

While every work day does get to feel like Monday, that means you look forward with five times as much eagerness toward Saturday and Sunday.

As there are fewer women older than you, there are fewer that you have to get up and yield your bus seat to.

It doesn't take you so long to comb your hair, and the time you save can be put to more constructive use.

Realizing she must conserve your waning energy, your wife is more willing to take the dog for a walk in bad weather. She may even pitch in and help shovel the snow off the driveway in winter.

AS YOUR diet no longer allows you to eat gravy, it becomes impossible for you to spill it on a new necktie.

Many people in the upper reaches of middle age no longer notice the symptoms. It has no harmful effect in otherwise healthy folks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 24-year-old son has not eaten meat, fish, fowl, or any product made from animals in six years, with no apparent ill effect.

I am concerned that he may not get enough protein, with consequent poor health in later years. He eats vegetables, fruit, soy bean preparations we get at a health store, about four eggs a week, and he drinks about a quart of milk a day. Do you have any suggestion for supplementing his protein intake? —Mrs. C.L.

My own feeling is that it's much safer for people to make sure of adequate protein by a couple of meat (or fowl or fish, or egg or cheese) servings a day.

But if some folks choose to avoid meat, I can't argue with them — provided they get enough protein elsewhere.

Soy beans, nuts, wheat and other cereals contain protein, and it comes down to a question of whether a person gets enough of these to make up. The eggs and a substantial amount of milk are important in your son's case as protein sources.

The thing that puzzles me is the contention of some folks that they won't eat foods "from animal sources," but do not recognize that eggs and milk are from animal sources.

In your son's case, perhaps he would eat a few more eggs, and a fair amount of cheese, both of which will bolster his protein intake.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Thosteson's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Oh, Say It Ain't So

Now I know how that little boy felt when he tearfully cried to Joe Jackson, one of the principals in the Black Sox scandals: "Say it ain't so, Joe. Say it ain't so."

But here it is right before my eyes, an Associated Press dispatch confirming that the daily temperatures are not going to be available from Presidio henceforth.

MR. AND MRS. OLIVER HARPER, who operate a hardware store in Presidio, made their last readings Monday and retired after 26 years of dutiful chronicling of the state's habitually hottest point. Another observer will take their place, but the service is being trimmed to a recording function that will rely on the U.S. mails at the end of the month to bring out the news to a waiting world.

I just can't imagine what it will be like. A weather report without a maximum temperature from Presidio will be like Christmas without a Virginia. What will people like Telecaster Harry Newhart have to jibe at in the temperature round up? What will be the point of saying on a scorching day: "Man, I wonder what it's like in Presidio today?" Well, you can go right on wondering, because there will be stony silence from the border.

IT IS NOT as though the temperature were Presidio's sole claim to fame, for the cantaloupes from down that way are just as good (beg pardon Reeves Countains, almost as good) as Pecos cantaloupes. But whoever heard of talking about a cantaloupe everyday on a national network?

Mr. and Mrs. Harper just got weary, after all these years, of being tied down every day to make and report those readings to the outside world via El Paso, we are told. But there is a gnawing suspicion that somewhere someone is subtly trying to change the image of Texas. Just get that fiery breath from Presidio off the wires and the channels and the outside world will think of us as a sylvan paradise with herds of four-gallon cows grazing placidly on the slopes. Nonsense, you might as well bathe and shave a cowhand and put spats and a frock tail coat on him and pass him off as a group leader of the bovine community.

THERE IS SMALL consolation in the word that there will be daily readings at Marfa, the county seat of Presidio County. In other parts of the country this may sound reasonable, but Marfa is about 600 miles north of Presidio and is 2,000 feet higher. Now Marfa does get warm in the daytime, but not like Presidio where the sun lies down to wallow in the Rio Grande. It just isn't the real thing, any more than it would be for a minister to preach on hell and use the thermometer reading from the air conditioned blockhouse just outside the entrance.

SURELY IN this day of electronic marvels our weather bureau can economically ascertain and relay to the waiting world what was the temperature today in Presidio. These hot, summer days may become intolerable if we don't have a daily reminder that there is at least one place that to us is hotter than. —JOE PICKLE

The Issue Of 'National Commitment'

WASHINGTON—What is a "national commitment" by the United States in the conduct of foreign policy? The Senate, by a vote of 70 to 16, has passed a resolution trying to define the term.

But only a few days before on television, Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and one of the authors of the resolution, voiced approval of President Nixon's expressed "hope" that all American combat troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam by the end of 1970. Mr. Fulbright, in referring to Mr. Nixon's remark, said: "I think it is a commitment."

THE RESOLUTION, on the other hand, insists that a "national commitment" results only from "affirmative action taken by the legislative and executive branches of the United States government by means of a treaty, statute, or concurrent resolution of both houses of Congress specifically providing for such commitment."

If it is the purpose of the senators who backed the resolution to insist that certain processes be followed before American military forces are used in foreign countries, then the blame must be placed upon Congress and not the President for any such "commitments" made in the last several years.

THE SENATE, for example, by a vote of 82 to 1, ratified on Feb. 1, 1955, a pact known as the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty. It was under the commitments specifically made in this document that Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon have acted in maintaining our military forces in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

If there are any doubts as to whether a President has authority as commander-in-chief to utilize American troops in a particular instance, Congress can always express itself by adopting a resolution. Indeed, the so-called "Gulf of Tonkin" resolution — which was passed overwhelmingly by both houses of Congress in August, 1964, when the Vietnam conflict began to expand — is the real basis for the President's authority today to continue to help South Vietnam repel aggression.

CONGRESS HAS the right, under the 1964 resolution, to terminate it at any time by a concurrent resolution, and call for a withdrawal of all troops.

It will be recalled that, when North Korea invaded South Korea in 1950, President Truman ordered American forces to go to the aid of South Korea. Almost simultaneously, the United Nations took upon itself the task of forming a collective military force from various countries, including the United States, to thwart the invaders.

ACTION WAS TAKEN promptly by Mr. Truman because of a belief that, under the United Nations charter, there is an obligation for members to come immediately to the assistance of countries which are the victims of aggression. Even when American troops were made part of the United Nations command, President Truman did not ask for any resolution of approval from Congress. Silence by Congress was regarded as acquiescence.

THE RESOLUTION just adopted by the Senate has been opposed by both President Nixon and Secretary of State Rogers as likely to interfere with the normal processes of diplomacy.

Despite the fact that the new resolution is not binding upon the executive branch but advisory, and merely expresses "the sense of the Senate," it is not constructive. It could do more harm than good in the conduct of our relations with other countries, which has always been considered the prerogative of the President of the United States.

In Memoriam: Ernest Hemingway

WASHINGTON—He was a child who boasted "frail of nothing," a draft-proof boy of 18 with defective vision who wangled his father's permission to enlist as a frontline ambulance driver in World War I in order to experience combat, a hero who bodily carried in a wounded soldier while wounded and blood-soaked himself, a young writer of such Spartan self-discipline that he spent months at the single task of teaching himself to write "one true sentence."

ON JULY 2, 1961, I returned from the funeral of a friend, Columnist Ed Koterba, to learn at home that Ernest Hemingway had committed suicide with a shotgun in Ketchum, Idaho. I never met him, but I was a worshiper of his works, and I was always sorry to read nasty reviews and profiles, and to hear first- and second-hand stories of what a heel and boor Hemingway was at times.

I take the viewpoint that a great artist, as Hemingway was, should have the benefit of double-standard judgments, and that his faults as a human being are forgivable by reason of his genius. His three major biographies to date are exercises in the tolerance which I feel due to Hemingway, although many reviews of these biographies are not.

"HIGH ON THE WILD with Hemingway" (Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho) is a text-and-photo memoir by an uncritical friend and fellow-outdoorsman, Lloyd R. Arnold, a photographer and publicist for Sun Valley, knew Hemingway well for 22 years and was with him in the last sad days.

They had many a hunt together. Arnold writes that Hemingway was not a godless man, not indifferent to the decent opinion of mankind and did not desire his own death. "I figure that he was certain he wasn't his own man any more," Arnold writes, "and he was not about to face living death."

A. E. HOTCHNER who wrote "Papa Hemingway" (Random House) was a friend of 14 years, a magazine editor, quite the antithesis of the straightforward, nonliterary Arnold. Hotchner was the foil and the tape-recording "Boswell," something of a toady but a loving comrade. He goes much deeper, with horrifying anecdotes, into Hemingway's mental crackup and shock treatments (ECT for Electro Convulsive Treatment) to which Hemingway submitted himself at the Mayo Clinic in a desperate effort to recover his sanity.

"ERNEST HEMINGWAY: A Life Story" (Scribner's) by Professor Carlos Baker is a masterpiece of the old school of biography. Its length (697 pages with notes and index) and its Olympian objectivity have been points of praise by the best reviewers and objects of niggling by the testy ones. The full man is presented here — valiant and vain, the artist as well as the showoff. The reader is given a closeup Judgment Seat from which to assay this titanic figure of literature. Hemingway wrote his psalm of life into every work: courage is grace under pressure, and winner take nothing except the satisfaction of behaving bravely.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Even if the hail hit, the wind blew and the weather generally has been hot enough to fry them on the plants, we have come up with some pretty good vegetables... the products of JP's industriousness on his lower forty.

Some of the tomatoes have reached a right respectable size even if they have taken on the appearance of a freckled face. The bell peppers are tender, and the summer squash is putting on very well for plants that had the daylight beat out of them just as they were trying to come up. I remember that an elderly friend once told me that thrashing a tomato plant could bring on fruit, and I must agree that there seems to be something to it, because the tomato plants, along with the squash, got a good pounding with our late spring storms.

The home of MR. and MRS. W. W. GRIMES has been a busy place the past week. Here from Houston are their daughter and her children, MRS. JOE CANTLON, Gregg, Mike, Joe Don and Cliff, of Houston. They plan to stay several weeks. Here over the weekend were another daughter and her family, MR. and MRS. TROY RUNYAN and Jaimee of Lubbock, and the Grimeses son JIMMY GRIMES of Abilene and his fiancée, MISS SUZETTE BROWNING of Paducah, who is a student in Texas Tech this summer.

DANNIE GERSTNER of Burkburnett is here for a visit with his grandparents, MR. and MRS. LESLIE JENKINS. He accompanied the Jenkinses back home after they visited his parents, MR. and MRS. L. M. GERSTNER, and his brothers last week. The Jenkinses had been in Duncan, Okla., earlier to spend some time with their son and daughter-in-law, MR. and MRS. JIMMY JENKINS.

MOLLY GOODMAN is to visit her parents, MR. and MRS. JOE GOODMAN, this weekend. Molly is teaching a course in American history at the summer session at Harlandale high School in San Antonio.

LARRY TAYLOR and GREGG LEWIS were in Austin over the weekend to attend some fraternity functions at the University of Texas. They plan to enter the university this fall. They visited KYLE McALISTER, who is in school there this summer. All three are spring graduates of Big Spring High School.

MR. and MRS. J. B. DEAN plan to leave this week for San Antonio where they will get their children who have been visiting there. The family then will go on a vacationing tour into Arizona where one of the stopping places will be the Grand Canyon.

We miss seeing MRS. LARRY (Pete) CROW and the reason we don't see her is that she has been slowed down a bit by a fall and complications that followed an injury to her leg. Be nice to see her up and out again.

San Antonio's "Father of the Year," by a unanimous choice of the selection panel, is a former Big Spring resident. He is DR. RICHARD LEE (Dick) DICKSON, who was one of twin children of Maj. (Dr.) and Mrs. Richard F. Dickson. Maj. Dickson came here prior to the opening of the Big Spring Bombardier School and remained in charge of its dental clinic until the base was phased out in late 1945. Dr. Dickson is engaged in practice of dentistry with his father, but he finds time for a wide assortment of activities beamed chiefly at youth. He is president of an Optimist Club, has conducted bike rodeos, led the respect-for-law campaign, supervised oratorical contests, worked with Little League teams and coached a Mite baseball team, led in observance of Youth Appreciation Week, worked with the Gra-Y program assisted in a weekly awards appreciation for outstanding high school students. He also is active in his (Travis Park Methodist) church where he leads a youth choir. He also directs a Youth-For-Christ organization and leads a choir at Boysville, a farm and ranch home near San Antonio for homeless boys. Dr. Dickson is the father of three sons and a daughter.

His parents, incidentally, plan to be here this weekend, arriving Thursday for a visit with DR. and MRS. H. M. JARRATT. During the Big Spring Bombardier School days, Dr. Jarratt served under Dr. Dickson at the base here.

Miss Cynthia Decker Weds J. McCullough

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny McCullough left on a trip to Ruidoso and Carlsbad, N.M., following their wedding Friday evening in the Airport Baptist Church.

The bride is the former Cynthia Decker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Decker, 1402 Harding, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCullough, Bossier City, La.

The Rev. Eldon Cook performed the double ring ceremony before an altar enhanced with baskets of gladioli, fern and ivy. A pedestal arrangement of carnations and ivy was flanked by altar tapers entwined with ivy, and at the center was an ivy-covered arch.

Mrs. R. P. Morton, organist, and Mrs. James Norman, pianist, accompanied Mrs. Leon Stockton, as she sang "Because," "O Promise Me" and "Bless This House."

The bride was attired in a gown of bridal satin accented with full silk organza sleeves fashioned with wide fitted cuffs of beaded lace. The lace Empire bodice was marked with an organza bow, and her headpiece was a satin and beaded cap veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers and pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Carolyn Decker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a pastel pink formal designed with sequined Empire bodice. Mrs. Gene Morris of Lubbock, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmatron. She wore an identical dress in pale blue. Both the attendants wore headpieces of rhinestones with brief veiling, and Miss Decker carried a nosegay of pink carnations and Mrs. Morris's nosegay was of blue carnations.

Gene Morris of Lubbock was best man, and Lonnie Prescott was groomsmen. Ushers were Richard Meek, Ronnie Sandell, Steven Meek and Terry White.

Lisa McCullough, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Calvin Meek was ring bearer. Taper lighters and their escorts were Ronna McCullough, sister of the bridegroom; Tracy Decker, sister of the bride; Michael Bailey and Darrell Bailey. The girls were attired in long pastel satin dresses styled with lace belled sleeves and lace appliques on the skirts. Their iridescent headpieces were briefly veiled.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Miss Judy Spivey presided at the guest register, and others in the house party were Mrs. J. W. Hughes, Mrs. Roy Spivey, Mrs. Dale Dittlo, Mrs. Larry Stroud, Miss Shirley Osborn, Miss Kaki Morton, Miss Delores Richardson and Miss Linda Stevens.

The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth over pale blue underlay and centered with a heart-shaped arrangement of pastel net, wedding bells, rings and a 50-year candle. The three-tiered cake was decorated with pink confection roses and Ackery, and friends in this area are invited to attend.

couple.

The bridegroom's table was laid with lace over orange and centered with an arrangement of orange flowers.

SCHOOLS

Both the bride and the bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School. Mrs. McCullough attended Howard County Junior College, and her husband graduated from HCCJ. The bride is employed at Ling-Temco-Vought in Grand Prairie and will attend the University of Texas at Arlington in the fall. The bridegroom formerly worked with the athletic program at Airport Elementary School and the YMCA. He will attend the university. They will reside in Grand Prairie.

For traveling, Mrs. McCullough wore a blue crepe

Housewarming Is Set At O'Donnell

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hogg and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Harry, are hosting a housewarming for the couples from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday in their new home at O'Donnell. All are former residents of Ackery, and friends in this area are invited to attend.

Bride-Elect Is Party Honoree

Miss Candice McCracken, who will be married July 5 to Ronald Powers of San Francisco, Calif., was complimented with a gift shower Monday evening at Wesley Methodist Church.

Attired in a sleeveless pink dress, the honoree received guests with her mother, Mrs. David McCracken, and her grandmother, Mrs. H. D. Drake of Lake Thomas. All were presented pink carnation corsages.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth edged in lace; and the bride-elect's chosen colors of pink and pale green were carried out in decorations. Crystal appointments were used.

Hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Askins, Mrs. W. D. Lovelace, Mrs. J. W. Bryant, Mrs. M. O. Hamby, Mrs. Zeanna McWhirt, Mrs. Alta King, Mrs. B. E. Reagan and Mrs. Tommy Lovelace. They were assisted at the table by Mrs. Luther Coleman.

F. Sweedens Host Weekend Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sweeden of Sand Springs hosted a weekend reunion attended by their children and their families.

The children are James Sweeden, Owensboro, Ky.; Robert Sweeden, Little Rock, Ark.; Bert Sweeden, Odessa; Richard Sweeden, Houston; Mrs. Shirley Lowry and Mrs. Kathryn Henderson, both of Houston; Mrs. John Miller, Tucson, Ariz.; and Teresa and Pat Sweeden of the home.

Jack Sweeden of Long Beach, Calif., was the only one of the couple's 10 children unable to attend.

Other guests were Mrs. Alma Holbert, Kilgore, sister of Mr. Sweeden; the Arthur Borron family, Imperial; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stephens, Sweetwater; the Howard Stevens family and H. D. Fowler, all of Big Spring; and the Kenneth Stone family of Odessa.

An estimated 80 persons attended the annual homecoming dinner in the school gym at Knott, where Morris Barnes was master of ceremonies, and the welcome was extended by Donald Allred.

Bobby Roman worded the invocation, and the Pledge of Allegiance was led by Johnny Peugh.

During the homecoming program, Larry Don Shaw, winner of a trip to Washington, D.C., sponsored by the Cap Rock Electric Company, spoke on "My Future in Rural Texas."

Teachers honored were Clyde E. Ross of Lone Oak and Mrs. Robert Cheatham, R. B. Turner was recognized as the earliest student (1906), and Mrs. Clara Parker was the earliest graduate (1924) in attendance. The person traveling the longest distance to attend the reunion was Mrs. Salome Ellsberry of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Officers who planned the event were Mrs. Raye McGregor, president; Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskin, vice president; Jerry Roman, secretary; and Woodie Long, treasurer. Entertainment was provided by the Knott Sand Diggers Band composed of Jeanette Nichols, La Deana Riddle, Gary Riddle, Robert Herren and Kelly Gaskins. New officers elected were Morris Barnes, president; Mrs. Joyce Dittlo, vice president; Mrs. Nila Peugh, secretary; and Leonard E. Smith, treasurer. Barnes gave the benediction.

CALIFORNIA STILL WITHOUT A BUDGET

State Money Troubles

By The Associated Press

California prisons and mental hospitals were buying perishable food on credit today as the legislature logjam over the state budget showed no signs of breaking.

The Ohio Legislature approved an appropriations bill Tuesday night after a 36-hour quarrel that left the state temporarily without spending money. In Pennsylvania, appropriations for July were approved in place of an annual budget.

California's 33 penal institutions and 14 mental hospitals, which buy perishable foods such as eggs, milk and meat every day or two, will have to rely on local merchants' trust, according to Caspar Weinberger, state director of finance.

"They will not be able to get food unless they can persuade some supplier to give it in good faith," he said.

Other state officials said they had no funds to buy postage stamps or office supplies.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's $6.37 billion budget was stalled when Democrats refused to vote for the bill unless Reagan increased school aid. The Republican governor offered a $105 million increase in the $1.3 billion school budget, but Democrats weren't satisfied.

A two-thirds majority of 54 is needed in the 80-seat Assembly, where the GOP holds a 41-39 edge.

"I haven't seen any indication that the Democrats intend to move from their position," Republican Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan said.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes is expected to sign a $4.17 billion appropriations bill today after losing his fight to retain control of the State Controlling Board, which spends the money.

Both legislative houses approved the bill Tuesday night. John McElroy, the governor's top aide, said, "We have no objections to it."

The bill changed the makeup of the Controlling Board to the state finance director and six legislators, at least two from the minority party. It originally contained the finance director, attorney general state auditor and two legislators from the majority party.

Rhodes and the leadership of both houses are Republicans. "We take a lot of guff for raising money," said Sen. William W. Taft of Cleveland. "So we ought to have the power over how it is spent."

The Pennsylvania Legislature

approved stopgap funds for government operations and welfare during July after failing to pass Gov. Raymond Shafer's $2.25 billion budget. Shafer had called for a state income tax to finance the budget and legislators balked.

Waiting For White House Tour

Visitors to the nation's capital line up on the south side of the White House in a line that often lasts for 3 1/2 hours for a 12 1/2 minute tour of the building. The tour is the biggest summer show in town with between 8,000 and 12,000 tourists taking advantage of it every day except Sunday and Monday.

White House Tour Biggest Free Show In Washington

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can stand 3 1/2 hours in a broiling Washington sun for a 12 1/2 minute tour of the White House and come out wondering what you saw.

Even so, it's the biggest summer show in town and between 8,000 and 12,000 take advantage of it every day except Sunday and Monday.

"I was a little disappointed," said Jack Dugan, a businessman from Bisbee, Ariz. "This was my first visit and I would have liked to stop and examine some of the prints and history, but you can't hold the people up."

"Mama," said a small girl tugging at her mother's hand. "I want to go to the zoo."

"Leave that policeman's pistol alone!" barked another mother at a tow-headed tyke who had slipped under the restraining ropes.

"Hey, you—get to the end of the line, I've been waiting here three years," a burly man with ham-like arms yelled at a small figure carrying a briefcase. The man with the briefcase retreated sheepishly.

This is the mad scene that takes place almost daily at the mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue which has been the home of every President except George Washington.

If you hope to catch a glimpse of President Nixon practicing his stroke on Ike's famous putting green or Tricia tossing her pretty blonde locks, forget it. You're lucky to see a rose.

"The crowds are so large you have to keep them moving," said Sgt. Daniel Cassell, who heads the 14-man uniformed force which marshals more than two million people yearly through this whirlwind tour of an American legend.

"They start queuing up as early as 7 o'clock in the morning and the gates don't open until 10," says Cassell. "Visiting hours are between 10 and 12 noon on Tuesday through Friday, 10 to 2 on Saturday but the schedule can be canceled suddenly if there is a press conference or a prominent visitor."

The perspiring mob passes through the East Gate and into the East Room, or Ball Room, scene of the President's televised press conferences and small receptions such as the recent one for Duke Ellington.

"This is the oldest house in Washington, D.C.," explains a spilling guard. "The corner stone was laid in 1792. Now from here you go into the Green, Blue and Red Rooms which you can tell by looking around you."

In the state dining room, guard Leroy Lombard, adds a little levity by announcing that the gold candelabra were a gift to President Eisenhower from Margaret Thomas Biddle.

"He left them here because he couldn't afford the taxes," he said.

The crowd, forbidden to take pictures or walk on the red carpet which is rolled up, is then hustled out the door onto Pennsylvania Avenue.

"Why can't we go upstairs?—we haven't seen anything," visitors constantly complain.

"That's where the family lives—it is out of bounds," the policeman replies.

So the show ends. The price is right. It's free. But in the foyer for $1.25 you can buy a brochure showing what you didn't see on the tour.

Topics Listed For Symposium

LUBBOCK — An electric theory of tornadoes... food and water... feuds and wars... a search for a lost water god... All these and more will be topics for discussion by Texas Tech faculty at the Third International Symposium offered next Sept. 25-28 by the university's International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies.

Internationally recognized authorities in several fields will join the faculty as participants on the symposium program, arranged to demonstrate the scope of interest in problems related to aridity.

Electrical Engineering Prof. Darrell Vines will discuss "Communication and Lightning in Arid Regions," and his colleague Marion O. Hagler, "Electric Theory of Tornadoes, Mechanism and Control."

An artist and an educator, Profs. Clarence Kincaid and Bernie Fallon, will work together to present "Prairie Windmill," a poem augmented by a film. (Dr. Fallon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fallon, Big Spring.)

The origin and development of the Chihuahuan Desert will be discussed by Biology Prof. Chester Rowell. Dr. Francis Rose, another biologist, will discuss adaptations by amphibians to arid environments.

Firefighters To Man Safety Stop

Howard L. Dodd, president of Big Spring Firefighters Local 1771, said today that his organization will operate a safety coffee stop at the rest area about 10 miles west on IS 20 July 3-4.

Coffee and cold drinks will be served without charge to travelers from 4 p.m. July 3 through midnight July 4. The firefighters will set up a trailer on the area and it will be manned around the clock. Object of the effort is to persuade travelers to rest briefly and thereby lessen the possibility of accidents.

New Purges, Editorial Shakeups

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's hardline Communist bosses purged officials in two major party organizations and announced editorial shakeups on three daily newspapers today.

At the same time, pro-Soviet journalists and party propaganda officials launched a campaign to isolate newsmen unwilling to support the government's policy of appeasing Moscow.

The moves were part of the continuing drive to dismantle the liberal Communist apparatus and press freedoms that existed in Czechoslovakia before the Soviet-led invasion in August.

New editors in chief were named for the daily Rovnost in Brno, the daily Pruboj in the northern Bohemian city of Usti-on-Elbe, and the Prague daily Zemedelske Noviny, published by the Food and Agriculture Ministry.

The papers were the 11th, 12th and 13th dailies to get new editors since hard-liner Gustav Husak took over the nation's Communist party in April.

Prague radio reported that the 12-man Presidium of the North Bohemian party organization had resigned en masse at the same time Miroslav Kindl submitted his resignation as editor of Pruboj.

The editor of Rovnost, Bohumil Marcar, resigned along with three party functionaries including the chief district secretary in Brno and the town of Blansko. The Brno official, Jaroslav Sabata, was purged from the party.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said the Brno party presidium had criticized Rovnost for showing too little commitment "in the political struggle with rightist-opportunist tendencies within the party."

In Prague, Zdenek Fort was dismissed as editor of Zemedelske Noviny by the Czech food and agriculture minister. The minister said Fort would be given another responsible position.

Safety In Water Urged

The first weekend of summer in Texas saw 20 persons die in boating and drowning accidents. The approaching Independence Day holiday will undoubtedly add to the tragic and often avoidable death toll in the state. More than 450 Texans die each year from drowning.

"Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen," stated Dr. L. S. Thompson of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Medical Association committee on public health.

Dr. Thompson offered the following basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family — Learn to swim and to relax in the water; never swim alone; do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold; do not overestimate your ability and endurance; swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim a long distance to shore; never dive into waters of unknown depth; try new activities, such as water skiing or SCUBA diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

"Many families will do most of their swimming this summer in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor," Dr. Thompson said. "There also are some special safety precautions for private pools."

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified; walk, don't run, about the pool; fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children; keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring bouys; keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Now I know why God lets the woman outlive her husband by about 10 years. She needs at least that much time to rest and recuperate. Pity the poor woman who's been married 50 years. I've been married 15 years, and if this man of mine doesn't go pretty soon, I pray to God that I will soon be laid to rest. I couldn't take another 35 years of this.

It's nag and brag! Rant and rave! Yell and cuss! All he has on his mind are eat, sleep, and sex (especially sex). A poor woman goes to bed tired and wakes up tired. All a man is good for is his paycheck.

I've heard women talk about how lonely they are after their husbands pass on. Well, here is one who is looking forward to that day. Sign me "TIRED, TIRED, TIRED IN LONG BEACH."

DEAR TIRED: Too bad you didn't sign your name. A husband is entitled to know how his wife feels about him. He may want to hire a food taster.

DEAR ABBY: I come very close to being the person described by "CO-WORKER." (She raises her children on the telephone on company time.)

Suppose a woman finds herself widowed or divorced with children to support? What are her alternatives? She could:

1. Go on relief.
 2. Steal.
 3. Sponge off her relatives.
 4. Entertain men for money.
 5. Do as I did. Go to work.
- My children are too old for baby sitters. The hours between after school and the time I get home from work are few, and I don't think their being alone during that time can be called "letting them raise themselves."

My children are told that I am available to them by phone if they have any questions, and I made that clear to my boss when I took this job. My children receive more supervision and attention than children from homes where Mother never leaves home except for bridge parties and club meetings.

If you were in my position, Abby, which alternative would you choose?

WORKING MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: The one you chose.

DEAR ABBY: I have read with great interest the recent article regarding the American service man who was bringing home a Vietnamese "prostitute" as his wife.

I am one of many service men here in Vietnam, and I want to tell you a little story: During the major campaign of 1968, my Vietnamese wife — at the risk of her own life — stayed by my side during three days of pure hell, completely

He'll Go Long Way Next Time

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A passing motorist's report that he'd just seen a man crawling through a Hollywood Beach hotel that is closed for the summer sent police rushing to the scene.

Police rounded up the climber only to find he is a hotel employee who stays in the building in the summer. They asked him why he crawled through the window. "It's closer to my room than the door is," he responded.

But the man promised he'll go the long way around next time.

Howard, Powell Scare Hurlers With Power

By The Associated Press

Put Frank Howard and Boog Powell together, and you have something that resembles the Washington Monument or the Creature from the Black Lagoon. Together they stand 12 feet, 11 inches and weigh 500 pounds.

Individually, they're pretty awesome, too.

They certainly were Tuesday night, but only Howard came out a winner.

The giant Senator collected a homer and two other hits in each game as Washington swept Cleveland 4-1 and 7-5. One of his other hits in the second game was a ninth-inning single that drove in the decisive run.

Powell, meanwhile, lashed a pair of homers and a pair of singles, knocking in seven runs.

But his Baltimore Orioles couldn't hold the lead he gave them, losing instead to the New York Yankees 10-9.

SEATTLE WINS
In other American League games, Seattle crushed Oakland 7-1, Minnesota whipped Chicago 10-5, Detroit clobbered Boston 12-4 and California trounced Kansas City 9-3.

With his prodigious performance, Howard raised his average to .306 and his homer total to 26.

The 6-foot-7, 260-pound slugger singled in the first inning of the first game, homered in the third and singled in the eighth. In the nightcap he walked in the first, homered in the fifth, doubled in the seventh and singled in the third run.

Ed Brinkman and Mike Epstein also homered for the Senators in the opener. Tony Horton connected with one on for the Indians in the second contest.

Powell's runs batted in total soared to 70, his homer total to 19 and his average to .303. The 6-4, 240-pounder cracked a two-run homer in the first, a two-run single in the fifth and a three-run homer in the seventh that put the Orioles ahead 9-7.

HOMER DOES IT
But Frank Fernandez clouted a three-run Yankee homer in the last of the event, leaving Powell a ninth-inning chance to tie the game with another homer. But all he did was single, and the Orioles couldn't bring him around.

"We've been hitting the ball good," said Orioles Manager Earl Weaver. "This is one of the few times our pitchers have let us down."

The first of those pitchers was unbeaten Dave McNally, who failed in his bid at victory No. 12. Gene Michael and Bill Robinson also homered for New York.

Reggie Jackson hit his 39th homer for Oakland, but that was the only run the Athletics scored against Gene Brabecor. Seattle, meanwhile, exploded for seven runs in the fifth inning after Pat Dobson had held them hitless for the first four. Don Mincher's three-run homer capped the outburst.

BIG LEAGUE STANDOUTS
Batting (200 of bats) — C. Jones, New York 389; M. Alou, Pittsburgh 372; F. Robinson, Baltimore 329.

Runs batted in — Killebrew, Minnesota 71; Powell, Baltimore 26; Home runs — R. Jackson, Oakland 36; F. Howard, Washington 26; Strikeouts — McDowell, Cleveland 122; C. Boston 119.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Batting (200 of bats) — C. Jones, New York 389; M. Alou, Pittsburgh 372; F. Robinson, Baltimore 329.

Ex-Brave Given Lumps; Reds Blow Verdict

By The Associated Press

Luman Harris blew his way an inning too early, but it didn't prevent the Braves from adding to Clay Carroll's list of disenchantments with Atlanta.

Carroll was the victim of Sonny Jackson's bases-loaded single in the 10th inning Tuesday night that gave the Braves a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati.

It was just a little over a year ago that Carroll, who wasn't overly happy as a Brave, was traded by Atlanta to the Reds in a six-man deal.

The 6-foot-1 right-hander has developed into a brilliant reliever this season, winning 11 games, but he's been strictly a dud against his old mates.

Three of his four defeats have been to the Braves this season. Meanwhile, Los Angeles used a three-run inside the park homer by Manny Mota to turn back Houston 4-1 and protect its half-game lead over Atlanta in the National League's tight West Division.

EXPOS STOP CUBS
In other NL games, upstart Montreal stopped Chicago's East Division leaders for the second straight day, 11-4; St. Louis swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 4-1 and 8-5; Philadelphia extended its winning streak to eight with a 7-4 conquest of Pittsburgh, and San Francisco edged San Diego 5-4.

Carroll came on in the ninth inning and cut off Atlanta's rally after the Braves had tied the game 4-4 on Tito Francona's RBI single.

In a Sophomore league game that saw the ten-run rule invoked after the fifth inning, the Yankees walloped the Orioles, 12-1, here Monday evening.

The loss was the fifth of the year for the Orioles, compared to five wins.

B. Carleton was the only Oriole to get as many as two hits.

Wide-Open Battle Looms In Tennis

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)

With Wimbledon three-quarters of the way over it's still anybody's guess who will meet the United States in the challenge round of the Davis Cup.

"I've been watching the form of players from the countries still in contention," said Donald Dell, captain of the U.S. team, "and it's difficult to know what to make of it."

My predictions of Davis Cup results have been all wrong so far, anyway. It's the most open Davis Cup for years."

The countries bidding for a Challenge Round match against the United States are Britain, South Africa, Russia, Romania, Brazil, Mexico and India.

BRAZILIANS LOSE
Thomas Koch, Brazil's No. 1 singles player, and his teammate, Edison Mandarino, fared badly at Wimbledon. Koch lost to Georges Goven of France and Mandarino went out to Bob Carmichael of Australia—both in the first round.

Bob Hewitt, South Africa's Australian-born star, was seeded No. 14 here but was tumbled by America's Cliff Richey in the first round.

British and Indian players have made the best showing. Graham Stilwell reached the third round and then took Arthur Ashe, the U.S. No. 1, to five sets before losing. Mark Cox overcame Manuel Orantes of Spain and Ion Tiriac of Romania, but lost to Cliff Drysdale, the South Africa professional, who is not eligible for the Davis Cup.

Premjit Lall, India's No. 1, staged one of the bravest battles of the tournament. He won the first two sets before going under to Rod Laver of Australia, the defending champion and top seed.

AT PEAK FORM
Laver touched peak form Tuesday to defeat Drysdale 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 and reached the semifinals.

Thursday, Laver will play Ashe who downed Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

The other semi will be an Australian affair between Tony Roche and John Newcombe. Roche survived three match points to overcome Clark Graebner of New York City 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 11-9. Newcombe downed Tom Okker of The Netherlands 8-6, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

The women's semifinals were scheduled for today.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who is bidding for her fourth straight Wimbledon crown, was due to meet her friend, Rosemary Casals of Francisco.

Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia, who won the title in 1963 and 1965, was paired against Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The least compatible things in sports, perhaps, are knees and football. Most players who go into dry dock for repairs are forced there after experiencing trouble in that particular part of their bodies.

One such individual is Dan Reeves of the Dallas Cowboys, who called it a season as early as Oct. 6 last year after being hurt in a game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

When Reeves was injured, two ligaments and two cartilages gave way on him. He spent the rest of the fall watching Craig Baynam do the job at running back for him. Baynam filled in adequately, it might be added.

It is pleasing to report that Reeves is poised to make a comeback. He can go at full speed and he insists the only sign of his injury is a jagged scar.

Dan reports to the Cowboy rookie camp July 11. He knows he'll have to go full-throttle to beat out Baynam but he reasons he again has the wheels to do it.

Bear Bryant, the Alabama mentor, told Joe Namath that if his shadowy friends really cared for him and his career, they would make him get out of the night club business.

Namath's loyalty to them didn't waver in the least. Those who have been to the hangout which got Namath in trouble with Pete Rozelle—Bachelors III—say that it is little but an upholstered sewer. In other words, some of the characters who hang out there you wouldn't want to be dating your daughter.

Of course, one thing that makes it so hard for Namath to divorce himself of such surroundings is that Hollywood and the television industry are entranced by such comradeship and offer rewards for such fealty.

The race for the baseball championship in District 3-AAAA next season could be confined to one city—Midland. Champion Lee returns a good nucleus for a third straight title and Coach Ernie Johnson is working with his hokidors in a summer program. They are playing under the Elcor Chemical banner.

Dub Headrick, coach of rival Midland High, has tremendous pitchers returning in Martin Gonzales and Mike Manulik, along with such tried and true performers as shortstop Gary Salgado and first baseman Kim Crowe.

Headrick, too, has his personnel in tow this summer, as coach of the Rogers Ford club.

District 3-AAAA could field its strongest alignment of teams ever next spring. Oakey Hagood of Big Spring is expected another fine team. San Angelo returns most of its personnel and Odessa, Permian and Abilene are invariably tough.

The close race the conference experienced this year, and Lee's ensuing success in the playoffs, did much to improve the game's image in the area.

The similarity of the finish in the last two National Open golf tournaments is amazing, almost unbelievable.

Lee Trevino of Texas came out of nowhere last year to put a stranglehold on the crown. He polished his game while in the Marines. He had been reared in near poverty, never knew his father, went to his first U.S. Open with no coat and just enough money to return home. A year later, he won it at Rochester. He had never won a tournament.

Orville Moody, who claims allegiance to Texas, had never won a tournament going into this year's meet. He polished his game in the Army. The only money he had was supplied by a group of Kilheon Backers.

Webb To Host Tourney For Softball Contingents

Webb's base softball team will host ten other teams from West Texas in an invitational softball tournament Friday and Saturday at Webb.

The tournament is open to the public. The diamonds are located near the main gate and will be clearly marked for visitors.

Action will open at 2 p.m. Friday on both diamonds One and Two. The tourney will continue through the evening and all day Saturday. The final contest of the double-elimination tourney is scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday.

Teams entered include Reese Air Force Base, D&B Plumbing from Odessa, Morton's Foods, Dyess AFB, Basin Machine from Odessa, Cannon AFB, N.M., Permian Oil and Tire from Odessa, Barrett's Body Shop from Abilene, Sewell's from Lubbock, Tex., and the Lamesa Merchants.

The Webb contingent comes off a second place finish in the Lamesa tournament two weeks ago and has a season's record of 23 wins and 12 losses.

Hurling for the Webb team will be Dick Morrison, Dan Benson and Ron Bouldin. Defensively, the team lines up with Buddy Contreras catching, Dave Johnson on first, E. J. Wikke or Bruce Bickhaus at second, Tommy White at shortstop, Maury Abrian at third, Tex Thomasson in left, Gene Davol or Hal Rhoden in center and Chuck Crane or Hank Rimmer in right.

Thursday, Laver will play Ashe who downed Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

The other semi will be an Australian affair between Tony Roche and John Newcombe. Roche survived three match points to overcome Clark Graebner of New York City 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 11-9. Newcombe downed Tom Okker of The Netherlands 8-6, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

The women's semifinals were scheduled for today.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who is bidding for her fourth straight Wimbledon crown, was due to meet her friend, Rosemary Casals of Francisco.

Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia, who won the title in 1963 and 1965, was paired against Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain.

The Braves scored twice in the second and two more in the third to edge the Wildcats, 4-3, in National Little League play here Tuesday night.

The win leveled the Braves' record at 10-10. The Wildcats are now 10-9.

Jim Zapp pitched the win and collected one of his club's five hits. Mark Taylor had two blows for the winners.

Both teams, along with the champion Rockets, have qualified for the City playoffs, which begin next week.

David Smith, who is only 10, pitched the win for the Talons. He surrendered five hits. The Talons had nine blows.

The Talons played errorless ball and Smith walked only one man.

Mike Brinkman, Junior Foster and James Coffey were the hitting stars for the winners, Brinkman collecting three blows.

Expects Vote Will Settle Union Power

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas AFL-CIO President Hank Brown says he expects a vote of the state convention July 16-20 in Corpus Christi to settle a struggle for administrative control of the organization.

"There is a wide difference of opinion between myself and the present secretary-treasurer (Roy Evans) and the gap has gotten wider the past couple of years," Brown said.

Brown and Evans have been in their present positions as leaders of the Texas AFL-CIO since 1961. Both are candidates for re-election at the Corpus Christi convention.

However, Brown said he has been "telling everybody what a good man I think Jessie Sapp is. He would make an excellent secretary-treasurer."

Sapp, a member of the United Rubber Workers Union in Waco, is an announced candidate for secretary-treasurer.

There have been reports Evans may be nominated to oppose Brown for next president of the state labor group.

Brown said he and Evans were elected as a team "but a couple of years ago we started seeing things in a different manner. It kind of got down to the question of whether the president was running the organization. . . Generally speaking, our differences are how the organization should operate, how staff members should be assigned and who decides policy matters."

Taylor Declines To Press Charges In Stabbing Case

Kenneth Taylor, who lives on Eubanks Street in Bauer Addition, declined Tuesday to file charges in connection with a stab wound he received at his home Monday afternoon.

Taylor, 53, is recovering satisfactorily at Cowper Hospital and Clinic of a scissor wound in his lung. The lung was punctured.

Sheriff A. N. Standard talked with Taylor Tuesday about the case. The victim of the stabbing said he had no wish at this time to file a complaint. Standard said he had conferred with Wayne Burns, district attorney, and that Burns had said if that is the way Taylor wants it, to go along with his position.

The sheriff said that Taylor was in the yard at his residence when he and a deputy reached the scene Monday. Mrs. Nora Taylor, wife of the wounded man, was also on the premises.

Pavilion Has Been Popular

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Frederick Schmid, formerly of Carbondale, Ill., has been named director of the Wichita Falls Museum and Art Center.

"Shadow Retreat," the only picnic pavilion in City Park which can be reserved, has been used 45 times since it opened May 19, according to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager.

"We have collected $540 in reservation fees for the pavilion," Anderson said. It is reserved on a day-to-day basis and a $12 reservation fee is charged. The money is used by the parks department for maintenance and upkeep, Anderson said.

The money cannot be refunded, but a group which has paid the fee and has to cancel the reservation has one year in which to reserve the pavilion again before the fee is forfeited to the city.

The pavilion seats 150 people with 12 people at each of 12 tables. The pavilion was reserved eight days in June and four reservations have been made for July.

Prince Begins Tour Of His Principality

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) — Cheering yachtsmen and spectators ashore greeted Prince Charles today at the vacation resort of Llandudno as the new Prince of Wales began a four-day "meet the people" tour of his restive principality.

The 20-year-old heir to the British throne had a cozy dinner party with friends, including some much talked about girls, before leaving Holyhead aboard the royal yacht Britannia. He was reported in a relaxed mood with the personal ordeal of his investiture, its bomb scares, deaths and royal pageantry behind him.

"It's as if a huge weight had been lifted from his shoulders," said an aide.

Small sailboats and yachts clustered around the Britannia when it arrived at Llandudno, on Wales' north coast, after the overnight trip from Holyhead, on the Isle of Anglesey. But security was heavy, and Navy frogmen searched the Llandudno pier for bombs throughout the night.

Charles landed just after 9 a.m. wearing a dark brown suit. As the royal barge moved toward the pier, he waved in acknowledgment of the cheers.

The prince had said he wanted to meet as many Welsh people as possible during his tour. At Llandudno town hall, he signed the visitors' book and talked with local officials.

While he was ashore, his sister, Princess Anne, and other guests on the Britannia disembarked from the Britannia and left for London by special train.

Charles was to visit Denbigh, Caernarvon, Merioneth, Montgomery and Cardigan Shires today, before returning to spend the night aboard the Britannia off Newquay on the west coast of Wales.

Charles invited his closest friends to an informal celebration dinner Tuesday night aboard the royal yacht Britannia. The guest list, particularly the girls, was headline news in Britain and aroused fresh speculation about the nation's most eligible bachelor.

The girls included Lucia Santa-Cruz, 25-year-old daughter of Chile's ambassador to London and a classic blonde beauty Charles has known for years; Sybilla Dorman, 19-year-old daughter of the governor general of Malta who was Charles' guest at a Cambridge ball last May; and Lady Cecil Kerr, 21, a pretty brunette daughter of the Marquess of Lothian.

After dinner there was "just sitting around and talking and laughing, no music or anything elaborate," a spokesman for the prince said.

The Britannia left early this morning for the vacation resort of Llandudno on the north coast, the first stop on Charles' four-day tour of Wales called the "Royal Progress." He is due to make more than 50 stops and is expected to shake thousands of hands at civic functions throughout the land.

But security men were out in force along his travel route, a constant reminder to Charles that his installation as Prince of Wales was bitterly opposed by Welsh nationalists seeking separation from Britain.

Only nine hours after his investiture—Britain's most spectacular royal ceremony since the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II—a military policeman was killed by a firebomb beneath the floodlight walls of Caernarvon Castle. The area swarmed with investigators who warned post-midnight celebrations away.

"This is a murder scene so keep away," said one officer. "This is obviously connected with the ceremony in some way."

Authorities said the soldier had been sitting with a girl in a military truck when a Molotov cocktail was thrown under the vehicle. He died instantly in the explosion but the girl was reported to have escaped serious injury.

This was the scene at sunset after the service gantry was moved away from the Apollo 11 moon rocket during the count down demonstration test at Cape Kennedy Tuesday.

Red Attacks Drop To Lowest Level

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy attacks in South Vietnam "are almost down to nothing," an American source reported today. Military officials said attacks have dropped to one of the lowest levels of the year, but added that infiltration from North Vietnam is keeping enemy forces up to strength.

"For reasons unknown," one source said, "the enemy has decreased his actions. They are almost down to nothing. They are not launching any sizable attacks."

The source noted that "attacks have gone down in the past. Whether we're in a valley between a couple of peaks, I don't know yet. We'll have to wait and see. There is a sprinkling of reports indicating possibly another surge of enemy attacks rather soon, but this is not firm."

Ranking officers said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are waging the war almost solely for political goals now and are correlating their military objectives with their goals at the peace talks in Paris.

Military analysts cited a Communist Command policy directive, captured last month, warning subordinate commands not to assume that the summer campaign will be decisive. It admitted that it would be impossible to annihilate the entire American and South Vietnamese force, the analysts said.

"Limited victory will be achieved with full victory coming later in a complicated and indirect way," the document said. It added that the limited victory "will consist of the withdrawal of U.S. troops from the formation of a coalition government and assurance that the Viet Cong will be in a stronger position than the South Vietnamese."

Analysts said the recent enemy siege of the Ben Het Special Forces camp was an example of the enemy's tactic to attack with a relatively small force backed up by rockets and mortars in an effort to inflict maximum damage with minimum casualties.

The South Vietnamese Command announced that a resupply convoy from the military base at Dak To reached Ben Het today. Dak To is 10 miles east of the Special Forces camp. A spokesman said it was the first convoy to get through since the North Vietnamese cut off the overland route eight days ago, forcing the allies to drop supplies to the camp by parachute.

Government armored vehicles cleared the vital Highway 279 linking Ben Het and Dak To Tuesday night, and spokesmen said the road is now secure.

The U.S. Command said ground fighting was light and scattered today, and there were only seven enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the night—the lowest number in a month.

None of the attacks was directed against U.S. bases, and only three caused casualties or damage.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 13 Vietnamese civilians were killed and 16 were wounded Tuesday when Viet Cong terrorists threw hand grenades into two movie theaters in the provincial capital of Na Xuyen, 90 miles southwest of Saigon.

In a note to the International Control Commission, the Saigon government complained that enemy terrorists killed 471 civilians and wounded 1,521 during May. The note said the terrorist activities "showed that North Vietnamese aggressors have remained stubborn and belligerent (and) have no goodwill in searching for a solution to end the Vietnam war."

The commission, composed of Canada, Poland and India, was set up to police the 1954 Geneva Accords ending the French Indochina war.

Harris said Wallace "helped stem the tide of socialism" by his candidacy. A "minimum registration charge" of $2 will be required for entrance to the session when the former Alabama governor will deliver his address.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Defeat of 1968 presidential candidate George Wallace will speak here Aug. 3, the final day of the 11th Christian Crusade convention.

Dr. Billy James Hargis, founder and director of the anti-Communist crusade, announced Wallace's coming visit Tuesday, commenting, "I am one of the millions who would like to know what this influential and sincere man thinks about the war in Vietnam, the college insurrections here at home and the liberal opposition to the ABM."

Hargis said Wallace "helped stem the tide of socialism" by his candidacy. A "minimum registration charge" of $2 will be required for entrance to the session when the former Alabama governor will deliver his address.

Countdown Rehearsal For Liftoff

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown resumed on a rehearsal for the Apollo 11 men-on-the-moon launching today after it was stalled more than three hours by a leaky valve.

The launch crew aimed for a simulated ignition of the Saturn 5 rocket in early afternoon. Until the trouble cropped up, the lengthy test had proceeded without a hitch for 5 1/2 days.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the problem involved a leaky valve located on the 200-foot level of the rocket service tower. It is part of a system that replenishes liquid hydrogen in the third stage.

A four-man team of experts went to the pad and tightened the valve.

A NASA official noted the purpose of the countdown rehearsal is to pinpoint and eliminate such problems before the final count starts next week.

Through the night, the launch crew pumped tons of supercooled liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen into the cavernous tanks of the Saturn 5 rocket while experts monitored systems in the moon mission's two spaceships.

These are the command ship and the lunar module, the spidery vehicle which is to transport two men to the surface of the moon on July 20.

Launch controllers aimed for a mock ignition of the Saturn 5 at mid-morning to conclude a countdown test that began last Friday.

Once the liftoff simulation had been achieved, the fuels will be drained from the 36-story-tall rocket.

STAR DISADVANTAGED BUSINESSMAN? SBA Loan To Brock Shocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration guaranteed a $135,000 bank loan to a high-salaried Negro baseball star Lou Brock under its program for disadvantaged businessmen.

Brock, the St. Louis Cardinals' left fielder, said no one ever told him the guarantee was made through the SBA's minority enterprise program rather than the stricter conventional business loan program.

"It never even came up," said the $85,000-a-year star of the past two World Series. "Not even once that I can recall."

Brock said all he sought was conventional SBA financing that would allow him to open an automobile dealership in heavily Negro East St. Louis.

"I went to them not in the sense of asking for a minority loan, Hell, I went to them for a loan-period."

The St. Louis SBA office, which officials in Washington say is lagging in loans to ghetto dwellers, granted Brock the 90 per cent guarantee March 7, three days after he applied.

The guarantee represented about 10 per cent of the $1.1 million in total minority business transactions by the St. Louis office from July, 1968, through last May.

Brock, 30, also owns a florist shop and a share of a chicken franchising firm which have no SBA involvement. He said he was confident he could have received the auto dealership loan without an SBA guarantee.

"I never tried it," he said in an interview. "You'd really have to give it a try. There's no doubt in my mind that I could. I'd be awfully surprised if they said no."

John P. Pfeiffer, SBA regional director in St. Louis, said Brock was turned down for a loan by two banks. He defended his decision to channel Brock's guarantee through the minority program.

"He is a Negro," Pfeiffer said, "a member of a minority group." Pfeiffer said it would not have made much difference if conventional programs had been used.

Conventional SBA programs carry stiffer requirements, an SBA Washington official explained. Collateral is usually required, he said, and the equity the loan recipient must furnish can range up to 50 per cent.

Under the minority program, 15 per cent is the usual cash equity and even that can be lowered or waived.

In Brock's case, an SBA spokesman said, the St. Louis office asked him to put up only 10 per cent of the $150,000 needed to close the deal.

Brock, he said, put up $15,000 and the bank $135,000. No mortgage was required but Brock personally guaranteed repayment up to $50,000 should the venture fail. He is to repay the loan in 10 years at 7 per cent annual interest.

"True, he's making a fine salary now, but obviously, he's not had time to build up equity and while he owns a house, it's heavily mortgaged," Pfeiffer told a reporter. "He has a good job at the moment but what happens to him if his arm goes bad or he twists a knee?"

C. J. Rogers, president of the Union National Bank of East St. Louis, which extended the $135,000 loan, expressed surprise that the loan was made under the minority program. "To me it was a routine SBA transaction. It was not under any special category."

The SBA, seeking to close what its officials termed an ownership gap between whites and nonwhites, launched Project Own last August and aimed it at 28 cities including St. Louis.

Officials said the St. Louis office had approved 40 minority loans during the first 11 months of the fiscal year. Its goal was 106 loans for the full fiscal year.

Pfeiffer said few Negroes among the estimated 700 who made inquiries at his office during the fiscal year were capable of staying afloat in business. He claimed "we're beating the bushes to find guys."

Brock was financed, he said, because "we are concerned about creating a black example here and we're damned enthused about it."

Parcel Post Weight Limit Is Increased

The parcel post weight limit has been raised to 40 pounds for shipments between first-class post offices, Postmaster Frank Hardesty announced today.

The maximum parcel post weight limit was increased from 30 pounds on shipments between the larger post offices in the third through eighth parcel post zones (more than 150 miles). On packages sent locally and to offices in parcel post zones one and two, the ceiling has been 40 pounds. The maximum size of packages sent between all first-class offices remains 72 inches in combined length and girth.

The size limit on parcels sent to or from smaller offices, rural or star routes, military post offices, and all Alaskan and Hawaiian post offices stays at 70 pounds, with a combined length and girth of 109 inches, Postmaster Hardesty added.

Public law 89-593, enacted Sept. 20, 1966, authorized the postal service to increase weight and size limits on shipments between larger cities. On July 1 of 1970 and 1971, the length and girth limits are scheduled to rise to 78 and 84 inches, respectively, on shipments between first-class post offices.

Blount Estate Named In Suit

The name of the late A. D. Blount, shot to death by assassins last Dec. 19, which has been in the news frequently for several months, was injected into court activities anew on Tuesday.

This time, the matter did not concern his murder, but dealt with the efforts of the City of Big Spring and the Big Spring Independent School district to collect delinquent taxes pending against his estate.

A tax suit against the estate of A. D. Blount, doing business as the West View Pet Shop, was filed in 118th District Court. The school alleges that the estate owes $753.83 and the city claims $88.74 as unpaid taxes.

Proved for actually reducing wrinkles

Latest Cosmetic Find!

With a substance new to cosmetics, named Genava, aging skin can start looking younger and younger — not older and older.

After a two-week trial on a selected group of women, a noted physician, specializing in dermatology, reports on the ingredients in Genava:

"Disappearance of small wrinkles was accomplished in two-week period; even the very deepest wrinkles showed very great improvement."

This physician also comments, "the small superficial wrinkles responded dramatically." And he adds that the skin was "more translucent and smoother in appearance."

These results are nothing short of amazing. And it took a new cosmetic compound to do it.

Genava was designed to be used daily under make-up or overnight—it is absorbed instantly by the skin. Recommended by leading department and drug stores. Start using Genava today. In just two weeks your wrinkles will vanish or diminish greatly. Skin becomes more translucent, smoother. You will look gloriously younger! 1.65 oz. $3.50; 4 oz. $5.00.

Rockefeller Will Visit Dominican Republic

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, bolstered by a cheering welcome to Haiti Tuesday takes his Latin American fact-finding mission across the island of Hispaniola today to visit the neighboring Dominican Republic.

The New York governor visited Haiti to meet with President Francois Duvalier, dictator of the impoverished Negro republic which had most of its U.S. aid funds cut off six years ago.

Duvalier read a letter from President Nixon and told Rockefeller that Nixon's dispatch of an emissary to South America indicates the President knows "no nation, large or small, lives in angry isolation."

After the brief reception at the Presidential Palace, Rockefeller met behind closed doors for more than an hour with Duvalier and top members of the Haitian Cabinet.

Outside the palace, thousands of Haitians—many brought by government buses for the occasion—lined the streets of the capital to cheer and applaud Rockefeller in the most tumultuous welcome he has had during his violence-scarred tour of Latin America.

A dispute between Duvalier and U.S. authorities over the administration of aid funds resulted in withdrawal of the U.S. aid mission in 1963. The United States still provides $1.6 million a year for malaria control and $1.8 million in aid distributed by international agencies.

South contrived a very delicate touch in mapping his campaign to fulfill a four spade contract.

South opened the bidding with one spade, and the West had sufficient high card strength for a take-out double, he chose instead to overcall with two hearts. He reasoned, quite properly, that unless East could bid voluntarily he would have gained little by forcing partner into the auction.

North had something in reserve for his free bid of two spades and when South made another try, he cheerfully accepted the invitation. Since North's values were well distributed, he tried three no trump. However, South's hand was unbalanced and he persisted to four spades.

West opened the king of hearts. He was reluctant to continue the suit, however, when the queen appeared in dummy. The shift was to a trump. Declarer drew three rounds of spades, played the king of diamonds from dummy and then led a small diamond. East followed with the six and South covered with the eight.

West was in with the queen of diamonds and found himself confronted with an unattractive choice of plays. If he attempted to cash the ace of hearts, it would establish North's queen. He, therefore, shifted to the ace of clubs. This proved to be the third and last defensive trick, for declarer spread his hand and claimed the balance.

South timed the hand with perfect precision. By stripping West of all safe exit cards before putting him in, the latter was obliged to open the club suit for South. Observe that if the declarer has to play clubs himself, there is no way to avoid the loss of two tricks.
