Hearing To Continue In Election Case

Johnson Says Illegal Votes Cast For Coke

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21.—Hearing on Coke Stevenson's suit for an injunction to keep Lyndon B. Johnson's name off the general election ballot as U. S. senatorial candidate, was adjourned at 5 p. m., today by federal District Judge T. W. Davidson with the question of court jurisdiction still in doubt.

John Cofer, Austin attorney, was rebuttal speaker for Johnson's move for dismissal on ground the court lacked jurisdiction. He was arguing before the court when adjournment was announced.

The court was to resume hearing Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Dismissal Motion Overruled

Earlier in the afternoon Judge Davidson had overuled Johnson's motion for dismissal. However, he left the court open to argument from both sides on the question.

A second effort by Johnson to bring dismissal of the injunction —a motion in opposition — was filed today by Johnson's attorney.

It alleged that in one county—as disclosed by a contest in another race—Stevenson received 1,102 illegal votes, a total higher than he alleges Johnson received in both Jim Wells and Zapata counties. Irregularities in other counties that materially benefitted Stevenson also were alleged in the motion.

New Contest Suggested

The judge made his ruling as court resumed after a noon recess. Just before that recess Judge Davidson had suggested—off the court record—that Texans be allowed to choose between Johnson and Stevenson in the general election. When the court resumed, Johnson declined. Stevenson said he favored the suggestion by Davidson.

The small, elderly jurist had interrupted arguments of attorneys for the two candidates to spring his surprise proposal on the tense and crowded courtroom.

For more than an hour attorneys for the plaintiff and defendant had argued whether Davidson's court had proper jurisdiction.

Suddenly, the grey-haired little judge wheeled about in his chair to face the courtroom squarely:

Offers New Proposal

"I have something to say, something that will be off the record and will not include my decision in this case . . ."

"I suggest—and it is only a suggestion, you understand—made off the record, that supporters of these two candidates get together and recommend to the state Democratic executive committee that the names of both candidates be placed on the general election ballot in November. In other words, let the people of Texas decide the winner."

The silent audience—Johnson and Stevenson its principal figures—strained to hear the soft-spoken words. The expressionless faces of the candidates provided no clue to their thoughts, but a moment after the jurist had finished, Johnson said "no com-

Boosters Visit 13 Area Towns

Information about the approaching Panhandle-South Plains fair was carried to 13 towns to the north, northeast and east of Lubbock Tuesday as two bus loads of Lubbock business men made the third fair booster trip over the area.

Approximately 40 men made the trip which started from Lubbock at 7:30 a. m. and visited Abernathy, Hale Center, Plainview, Lockney, Floydada, Matador, Roaring Springs, Dickens, Spur, Crosbyton, Ralls, Lorenzo and Idalou before returning last night at 6 o'clock.

Given Warm Welcome

At each point along the route the visitors were greeted by various civic leaders. At Floydada, Ben Crowell, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, said preparations for Floyd county's booth in the fair were progressing rapidly and he issued a warning that the county was going after the top money in this year's county exhibit class.

Schools were visited at the various towns and souvenirs including balloons, gliders, pencils, whistles and other trinkets were distibuted to the youngsters along with tickets to the fair on School Day, Friday, Oct. 1.

More than usual interest was shown in the "Queen for a Day" program to be given during the first three days of the fair and members of the Lubbock Lions club distributed several hundred tickets to the show at various business houses in the 13 towns.

The buses, chartered from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches for the trip, will carry a fourth group of business men on a trip to the west and southwest of Lubbock Thursday in the final booster trip before the exposition opens Monday.

Jewish Extremist Group Is Dissolved After Ultimatum

JERUSALEM, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Jewish extremist group, Irgun Zvai Leumi, accepted an ultimatum from the Israeli government today and went out of business.

The dissolution of Irgun was ordered as the government continued its crackdown on the Stern gang, another but smaller Jewish underground organization.

The government smashed both forces in the wake of the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the U. N. mediator, and his French Aide, Lt. Col. Andre Serot, in Jerusalem Friday. Israeli authorities have blamed the Stern gang for the killing of Bernadotte and Serot.

Showers Fall Over Parts Of South Plains

SHOWERS and light rains Tuesday over the South Plains, with the exception of a few scattered communities which received heavier precipitation, ushered out the last full day of Summer, which officially ends at 9:22 p. m. tonight. Cooler weather after Monday's and Tuesday's cloudy skies did, however, give a foretaste of Fall's impending arrival today.

A measured 2.15 inches of rain had fallen in the Brownfield area by Tuesday night, beginning about 7 p. m. Monday. Intermittent rain fell until 12 midnight, leaving .85 inches of moisture.

Heavy In Seminole Section

Between 4 and 5 p. m. Tuesday, a shower, accompanied by thunder and lightning, left 1.30 inches of moisture. The east part of Terry county was thought to have received a nice shower Tuesday, while the west part of the county was believed to have received moisture during Monday night's precipitation.

The Seminole area had received at least an inch of rain by late Tuesday afternoon. Littlefield reported possibly an inch of moisture between 4 and 5 p. m. Tuesday. However, it was thought that the rain was scattered, and that perhaps not even all parts of town received general moisture. The Santa Fe railroad's dispatcher offices in Slaton estimated the rainfall in the Littlefield area to have been somewhere around a half-inch.

No other South Plains area along the railroad's lines had reported rainfall.

Shower At Lamesa

Morton, Muleshoe and Levelland reported no rainfall Tuesday, but some lightning and thunder. Muleshoe and Morton reported dust storms and wind, but Levelland reported no unusual weather.

Also reporting no rain were Plainview and Lamesa. Plainview reported some thunder and lightning and some wind and dust. The sky was still hazy and overcast Tuesday night. Lamesa reported a light shower Monday night, but not even a sprinkle Bernadotte Plan Backed By U. S.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Sept. 21—The United States backed completely today the late Count Folke Bernadotte's plan for a forced Palestine settlement.

The U. S. action, the first such course taken by a big power, was announced in a statement by Secretary Marshall.

The statement domintaed the opening session of the third regular United Nations Assembly and aroused immediate opposition from the Arabs, who said they would reopen the whole Palestine situation in the Assembly.

Evatt Named President

The Assembly devoted its first session to housekeeping. It elected Dr. Herbert Evatt, Australian foe of big power politics, as president, and put Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian premier, into the chairmanship of the hot political committee, where most of the big battles of the 58-nation assembly are fought.

Evatt beat Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia, a champion of Franco Spain, for the presidency. The vote on the second ballot was 31 to 20, with 2 needed for election.

Evatt is deputy prime minister of Australia. He is an outspoken advocate for the small and me-

Big Three Ministers Discuss Berlin Crisis

PARIS, Sept. 21. (INS)—The three western foreign ministers discussing the Berlin crisis again met tonight in a two-hour session at the French foreign ministry.

Authoritative informants said they now are considering a joint diplomatic note to Russia warning Moscow to "quit stalling" or the United States, Britain and France will turn the problem over to the United Nations.

No decision apparently was reached tonight because U. S. Secretary of State Marshall, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman adjourned their meeting until next week, probably Sept. 29.

A French foreign ministry spokesman said the German question was discussed "but nothing spectacular is expected in the next few days."

GENERAL INCREASE SEEN

Additional Companies To Join In Boosting Milk Prices Here

LUBBOCK'S major milk distributors, after one of their number Monday announced price increases on all fluid milk to both producers and consumers, declared Tuesday similar increases will be put into effect in the near future, if not already in effect.

The price increase, one cent per quart, across the board on all fluid milk retail and wholesale, was announced Monday by Joe McIlhaney, of McIlhaney Dairy products. The announcement came as a bombshell in the already unsettled industry, which in recent months has been plagued with a short supply.

The new retail price will be 23 cents a quart, house delivery basis, with all other prices upped accordingly, including buttermilk.

At the same time, McIlhaney announced a 20-cents per hundred pounds increase in the price paid producers, $6.65, as compared with the $6.45 paid in recent months.

While other producers had made no move Tuesday morning to meet the new price, by Tuesday afternoon, most had met the problem by decisions to increase prices to both producers and con-

Dewey Flays Demo Policies

(By The Associated Press)

THOMAS E. DEWEY promised Tuesday night an administration "which really believes in conservation." He criticized Democratic policies as careless and said a "brand new approach" is needed.

For the second major speech of his 14-day western swing he moved to Denver, the city where his Democratic opponent for the presidency, Harry S. Truman, one day earlier had accused the Re-

MEETING IS SET

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 21. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long tonight summoned Louisiana legislators to a special session tomorrow night to consider restoring President Truman's name to the Louisiana ballot.

The governor said legislation would be submitted to allow the president to be listed as the candidate of the "national Democratic party."

"The national party will be given plenty of time to qualify electors on this basis if it chooses to," he explained. The state central committee of the Louisiana Democratic party has endorsed the States' Rights Democratic candidate. The governor said he had received no communication from the Democratic national chairman.

publicans of "sabotage of the West."

Program Is Discussed

"I propose to you a great change in our national government," the GOP candidate said in an address prepared for a Denver auditorium crowd, "that we get an administration that gets things done and doesn't just talk about them."

Taking up one by one, oil reserves, critical metals, soil conservation, timber resources and use of water, Dewey gave his ideas of what should be done in "a comprehensive national program of conservation."

Mr. Truman meanwhile moved on to Salt Lake City for his third major talk of a cross-country vote bid on which he already had

Area Rotary Meeting Set Here Thursday

A total of 500 to 600, including probably 400 from the area outside Lubbock, are expected to attend an inter-city meeting of Rotary clubs of the South Plains, to be held at the Texas Tech college gym Thursday night, it was announced yesterday by Irving L. Jones, president of the host club here.

Members of the club here voted at last week's luncheon to dispense with this week's regular luncheon, scheduled at the Hilton hotel today.

The inter-city business session will be preceded by a barbecue dinner Thursday night, to be spread on the lawn east of the college gym, with the program and business session to be held in the gym. It was announced that in event of bad weather, the barbecue will be held under the stadium.

Jones said last night that a total of 337 out of town guests already had notified the local committee, headed by W. P. Clement, they will be here and notices from other groups planning to attend were still arriving.

Canadian Official 'Certain' Reds Don't Have Atom Bomb

PARIS, Sept. 21. (AP)— Gen. A.G.L. McNaughton of Canada said tonight "we are quite certain Russia has not yet produced an atomic bomb."

Gen. McNaughton is Canada's representative on the United Nations Atomic Energy commission.

"The United States, Britain and Canada," he said, "have leadership in atomic energy developments despite feverish Russian attempts to produce a bomb of their own."

Lubbock Man Assails Proposed Legislation

Underground Water Fight In State Seen

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 21—A fight is brewing over Texas' underground water that will make the "free grass wars" of pioneer days seem like a pillow fight, W. O. Fortenberry of Lubbock and Monroe told the Texas County Judges and Commissioners' association today.

Fortenberry, president of the High Plains Waters Users and Conservation association, told 783 county judges and commissioners in convention here:

"This state would be in the darndest mess you ever saw if the vicious legislation proposing state ownership and control of underground waters had been passed in the 50th legislature.

New Proposals Hit

"And we understand that bills just as vicious are being written for presentation to the 51st legislature."

Fortenberry, whose association includes 4,500 irrigation farmers, continued:

"If that bill had passed giving the state ownership of Texas underground water, we of the plains country would, among other things, be making a gift of $300,000,000 to the government."

He said he based these figures on a government estimate that there are three million acres on the plains that will some day be irrigated. Fortenberry estimated value of the underground water on this land at $100 the acre.

Expects Water Level To Rise

The Lubbock man said the U.S. Geological survey had found no critical underground water shortage in Texas.

"It is true the underground level in West Texas particularly, is low. But we believe that this may be attributed to five relatively dry years and high farm prices which have caused irrigation farmers to pump all the water they can. We believe that a few years of more plentiful rain will restore the underground reservoirs, just as the water in dammed-up lakes is restored."

Fortenberry said his association is for limited control of water

Evacuation Of Reich Demanded

By OMER ANDERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 21 — The Soviet army press in Berlin demanded today that the four occupation powers immediately withdraw their troops from Germany.

The demand in the official Red Army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau came as the western powers reportedly were considering throwing the Berlin crisis into the lap of the United Nations.

Observers noted that Soviet diplomats at the General Assembly in Paris might press for the evacuation of all occupation troops if the Russians are unable to block consideration of the German issue in the international body.

Mayor Defies Soviets

As the maneuvering for control of Berlin continued, the Soviets met with sharp defiance by acting Berlin Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg in the city itself.

He told the Russians that he would remain at his city hall post despite Russian objections until arrested by Communist police. The Russians charge that Friedensburg incited recent anti-Communist demonstrations.

Taegliche Rundschau cited the recent Soviet announcement that Russian soldiers will pull out of Korea by Jan. 1, 1949 as proof that the Soviets are motivated only by the national interests of Germany and Korea.

Red "Grab" Feared

Observers, however, believed the Soviet-trained German militia and Communist-led police could grab control of the western areas of Germany if the U. S., Britain and France evacuated.

The Soviet army newspaper charged that the United States is trying to convert its occupation zones in Germany and Korea into colonies as bases for operation against Russia.

Two Persons Dead In Florida Storm

Roaring 160 MPH Winds Sweep Wide Section; Key West Area Hardest Hit

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMA, FLA., Sept. 22 (Wednesday)—The tropical hurricane was pointed toward Florida's rich citrus belt early today and the Weather bureau said it likely would split the peninsula from Everglades city to Daytona Beach.

In a 12:15 a. m. (EST) advisory, the Weather bureau said the hurricane was moved ahead too fast on its last advisory and was centered at latitude 25.9 north, longitude 81.2 west, or about 50 miles west of Miami early today.

At least two persons were dead in southern Florida.

The storm continued to move north northeastward about eight miles per hour. Hurricane winds extended 60 miles to the east of its center and 40 miles to the west.

Heavy Winds Still Raging

Winds near the center were estimated at 110 to 120 miles per hours. Gales extended outward 150 miles to the east and northeast.

The center should reach the Atlantic coast in the Daytona Beach-Melbourne area this evening, the advisory said.

The hurricane will be weakened considerably over land, but will likely retain winds of 60 to 75 miles an hour on its way to the coast.

(Meanwhile, the hurricane left widespread damage in the Florida keys, the International News Service reported in a late dispatch from Miami.

(A great amount of damage was reported, especially in the keys where trees and houses were blown down by the score, and many roads and bridges washed out. More than six thousand persons were evacuated to storm shelters in Miami alone, the International News Service reported, and an estimated seven thousand persons in the rich farm lands around Lake Okeechobee were evacuated to places of safety at Sebring, Lake Wales and Winter Haven.)

Key West Heavily Hit

Winds at Miami ranged up to hurricane force in gusts. The highest was 82 miles at the airport.

Key West, 175 miles south of Miami, was raked by winds reaching an extreme reported velocity of 160 miles an hour. The Key West section was completely isolated for hours as the savage storm battered the area. Heavy property damage was feared. A late Navy message, addressed to The Miami Herald, said hurricane force winds whirled over Key West for four and one-half hours from 9:30 a. m. until 2 p. m. The storm velocity registered 120 miles per hour for more than one hour of the period. The eye of the hurricane passed 15 miles east of Key West.

In addition to damage to homes, hundreds of large trees were uprooted. City Manager Ralph Spalding said the work of cleaning up debris would be started at once.

Two Persons Killed

W. H. Turner, Weather bureau director at Everglades City, 70 miles west of Miami on the extreme southwest Florida coast, said the barometer was 28.80 and and falling fast at 8:40 p. m. (CST).

The wind gauge was gone and Turner said he believed the hurricane was still two hours away at that time.

Mrs. Ben J. Kincaid, 56, of Coconut Grove, a Miami suburb, was killed when she touched a fallen live wire in the back yard of her home.

William John Evans, 46, engineer of the Tatem hotel, was killed when his body hurtled five stories from the roof to a sun deck. Miami beach detective E. Harrison and Lee G. Miller who investigated said they believed Evans might have been inspecting the roof and was blown off by one of the sudden wind gusts.

South Carolina Area Alerted

A number of persons sustained minor injuries in the greater Miami area, most of them from flying glass or debris.

Hurricane warnings were extended north of Melbourne to Daytona Beach and storm warnings went up as far north as Charleston, S. C. The red and black storm flags blanketed Florida south of the Daytona Beach-Fort Myers line.

Hurricane winds extended about 60 miles to the east of the storm center and 40 miles to the west, the Weather bureau said. Gales extend outward 150 miles to the east and northeast.

Citrus Crop Endangered

The storm, which reached a velocity of 160 miles in gusts at Key West, spread gales into Miami and hurricane winds that reached 75 miles an hour or more.

Florida's multi-million dollar citrus crop was in the path of the storm which hit the mainland with full force near Everglades City, about 60 miles directly west of Miami.

Communication lines to the Florida keys were knocked out by the terrific wind. Navy radio messages reported roofs blown from a number of Key West houses, the sinking of 30 privately owned boats and three feet of water flooding the east side of the island. Capt. Cecil Adel, naval base commandant, was unable to estimate damage to naval facilities.

Only two minor casualties were reported in Key West. The Navy said the highest winds of 160 miles an hour were recorded at Boca Chica Naval base, eight miles north of Key West.

Some Miami streets were flood-

2,500 Bales Cotton Damaged By Kaufman Compress Fire

KAUFMAN, Sept. 21. (AP)—Fire destroyed or damaged 2,500 bales of compressed cotton in a warehouse of the Kaufman Compress company here today.

Shannon Jones, manager, estimated damage at $350,000. "We cannot say as to what salvage value we have left, but all of the cotton has been damaged," Jones said.

Jones said he did not know who discovered and reported the fire. Its origin was unknown.

The Kaufman fire department brought it under control with the help of pumbers from Terrell and Kemp. Firemen were hindered by low water pressure. The cotton had been placed under government loan, and all of it was insured, Jones said.

Truck, Shipping Walkouts Eased

(By The Associated Press)

The throttling grip of two major strikes—New York truck drivers and west coast longshoremen—was eased Tuesday.

Trucking conditions in New York approached normal as striking AFL teamsters reached individual wage agreements with most of the major employers.

Embargo To Be Lifted

A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said a partial railroad freight embargo would be lifted. The embargo was declared when the truck strike started three weeks ago.

A spokesman for the teamsters union said his group may seek uniform wage levels to stabilize contracts. Various locals have signed contracts with various employers at different rates.

Most of the settlements were on the basis of a 17½ cents hourly wage increase and a hospital fund costing the employers five cents an hour per man. The old contract provided wages of from $53.90 to $71.40 for a 40-hour week.

At west coast ports, CIO longshoremen began loading Army cargoes aboard ships for the first time since a strike was called Sept. 2. The striking maritime unions also agreed to load winter supplies for Alaska, before such shipping is endangered by Arctic ice packs.

Temporary Pacts Made

The Army cargoes are being handled through temporary agreements with firms not affiliated with the Waterfront Employers

NARROW ESCAPE—Despite the bashed up condition of the 1948 Chevrolet sedan and the battered dump truck three men escaped without injury Tuesday afternoon in the collision at the intersection of Ave. A and Slaton highway. Howard S. Crews and James Blair, both of Slaton, were riding in the sedan when it collided with the truck driven by Cornelius W. Bradshaw, Slaton. The car's front was smashed in by the initial impact, and as it was hurled aside, the dump truck bed, which was loaded with caliche, sheared from the chassis and toppled on the rear of the car. The man standing in front of the truck was not identified. Three persons were injured, one seriously, Monday afternoon in a similar car-truck crash at the same intersection. (Staff Photo).

Rep. Tom Martin, Well Known Lawyer-Columnist, Is Claimed

FREDERICKSBURG, Sept. 21 (AP)—State Representative Tom Martin died this afternoon.

Martin, a hero of World War I, was a lawyer and newspaper columnist and was widely known for his humorous stories.

The legislator died at 4:36 p. m. today. He had been ill four months and had been in a coma for the last two weeks.

His death was attributed to a heart ailment. He was 56 years old.

Son's Arrival Awaited

Completion of funeral arrangements await arrival of his son, Clarence, who lives in California.

His father and grandfather were judges of the 33rd Texas district court.

He was elected to the legislature in 1917 but resigned to enter World War I. Martin served in France as a captain and was presented the Croix de Guerre, one of the highest French decorations, by the then commander of allied forces, Ferninand Foch.

Went To California

After the war, Martin practiced law in California and returned to Texas in 1934 to establish his home at Stonewall. However, he spent most of his time in Austin.

The legislator had been for some years a columnist for the Austin American-Statesman and other newspapers. He also broadcast a daily radio program from Austin which he called "Sage of the Sage Hills."

During the last session of the legislature, Martin was chairman of the House Game, Fish and Oyster committee. At one time he was president of the Texas Fishing and Game congress.

Annually he awarded the Tom Martin trophy for rifle marksmanship to contestants from the Fredericksburg area.

Martin was attorney for the Texas Angora Goat Raisers association.

In the last legislative session, he introduced and helped pass a bill to create a state park near Fredericksburg to be called the Chester W. Nimitz state park. Admiral Nimitz is a native of the Fredericksburg area.

EASY EGG PEEL

After eggs have been hard-cooked, shell them directly under running water. First cool them under the water to loosen the shell, prevent overcooking and make the handling easier. Then crack the shell by tapping it against a hard edge or with a spoon. Loosen it by rolling the egg between the hands. Hold egg under water and peel at the large end where there is an air space under the shell. Cold water helps ease off the shell and washes away any bits left on the white.

States' Rights Party Operating In Red

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (U.P.)—States' Rights Democrats operated in the red in their first month of political life.

This was disclosed today in a report filed with the clerk of the house by the party's campaign committee.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina is States' Rights candidate for president and Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi for vice president.

The financial report was accompanied by a letter from a firm of certified public accountants shouldering any possible blame for filing it late.

The committee reported receipts totaling $13,449 and expenditures of $14,890 during the period from Aug. 4 through Aug. 31. This represented a "book overdraft" of $1,440. But actually the deficit was potentially greater since the receipts included $5,000 in proceeds from a loan made by the Capital National Bank, Jackson, Miss.

The Mississippi Democratic party, which is supporting the Thurmond-Wright ticket, also filed a financial report showing receipts of $13,049 and disbursements of $2,672. The expenditure was in the form of a contribution to the States' Rights Democrats campaign committee.

There were only 24 contributions of $100 or more to the campaign committee, most of them coming from Mississippi. The only contribution outside the South came from a W. B. Powell, of Birney, Mont., who gave $100.

Taft In Heated Attack On HST

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (INS) — Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, charged tonight that President Truman's election would bring to this country a "police state" and a "completely regimented people."

Sen. Taft, leading Republican member of the Senate, made the assertion in the current Saturday Evening Post in an article entitled "The Case Against President Truman." he added:

"The police state would lead, as night follows day, into the totalitarian state."

Program Claimed Radical

Taft characterized the President as "the leader of a radical party and a radical program." he said:

"In the field of foreign policy, Mr. Truman's lack of knowledge and background, and uncertainty of fixed governmental principle, present a real danger to the interests of America and the peace of the world. . .

"If elected with the king of radical Congress he is asking for, there is no assurance that we can have even that degree of stability brought about by the present-day necessity of consulting the Republican majority in Congress.

"Furthermore, the success of freedom against Communism and totalitarianism throughout the world depends upon the election of an administration which believes in freedom and opposes totalitarianism at home."

Taft charged Truman with being responsible for the spread of Communism in eastern Europe and for the decline in strength of Chiang Kai-Shek in China because of the Communists.

Paratroops Rushed To Scene Of Canadian Plane Accident

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21. (INS) — Paratroopers were rushed today to a tiny wilderness settlement in northern Manitoba near which a missing U. S. Navy plane reportedly has been located.

The plane, said to be carrying five key American and British naval officials, disappeared 10 days ago. Winnipeg reports said the naval attaches "are believed to have been in possession of documents or information vital to North America's arctic defense."

Residents of the tiny settlement at Skownan signalled to a search plane that a plane was grounded in the dense forest to the east. The paratroopers were ordered to the scene in an effort to locate the wreckage and determine if it is the missing plane.

Pension Party Files Suit On Secretary

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Texas Pension party today filed a petition in Federal District court seeking to force Paul H. Brown, secretary of state, to put their candidates' names on the November election ballot.

Cyclone Davis of Dallas is the Texas Pension party's candidate for U. S. senator.

The pension party's action is in the form of an injunction suit against Brown.

The petition lists Roger Q. Evans of Denison as the Texas Pension party candidate for governor; Ira G. Lowe, of Dallas, for lieutenant governor; William R. Bryant of Sherman for attorney general; Julius Barrett of Dallas for railroad commissioner; Davis for U. S. Senator; and Joe Bailey Irwin of Dallas for congressman from the 5th Congressional district.

W. E. Kaufman, chairman, and D. R. Jamerson, co-chairman, of the Pension party allege in the petition that Brown refused to certify their candidates on the grounds "it does not appear that the Texas Pension party was organized by any authorized or proper procedure."

U. S. District Judge Davidson indicated to Davis and Jamerson that he will take no action on the injunction petition until service is completed on Brown.

JUMPS TO MAJOR

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—T/Sgt. Thomas W. Brown turned in his uniform, received his Air Force discharge, stepped across the hall and was sworn into the Army as a major. He held that rank in the organized reserves and was notified shortly before his Air Force discharge of his acceptance for duty.

Politicians Retain Old Custom Of Observation Car Campaign

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—If we had as many political parties as France and thus as many candidates, we would have to surrender a cherished old campaigning stunt—the appearance of White House hopefuls on the rear platform of the observation car.

There just wouldn't be enough of these relics of another day of railroading to go around. As is now stands, the railroad boys probably had a rough time digging up those heaps for the Messrs. Truman and Dewey. If Norman Thomas and Henry Wallace want one, each, we may have to tap the Smithsonian institute.

Cost Is High

Whether the railroads will be able to keep a few around for presidential years remains to be seen. It costs about $5,000 a year to park one of those jobs and perhaps that much more for upkeep. They lost their general usefulness about the time it became illegal for the wine-laden sports, who used to stand out there on trips across the plains, to take pot-shots at buffalo with elephant guns. Air-conditioning completed the job of steering such cars towards the museum or junk-heap.

But presidential candidates would just as soon go into a campaign without an observation platform as they'd think of denouncing the average farmer as a loafer. Even in an enlightened era of quick picture-transmission and television the boys still persist in wanting to appear—with corsage-bedecked wives—in the shank end of a sooty railroad yard, while two dozen trackmen and a few itinerant tramps peer on inquisitively.

New Possibilities Seen

It will take that notion a long time to die, I suppose, but it probably will take the hard-pressed railroads only a short time to decide that fun's fun, but why keep archaic cars around to be used by some fellow who probably is going to cut freight rates?

It is easy, therefore, to envision the campaign tours of 1952 and thereafter. The candidates probably will appear—separately, of course—in those glass-domed observation decks of the new double-jointed streamlined trains. Their words will have to be piped out to the waiting tramps and hoboes by remote control.

Their wives will be forced to wear their orchids on top their hats, for that is the only portion of the anatomy which can appear in one of these mobile fish-bowls. Because of cramped conditions, all candidates will have to learn to wave with the eyebrows only.

Along about 1956 or 1960 one of the parties may even come up with a strong man, at least one strong enough to open the window of one of those round-back club cars on the standard streamliners of that day. He'll win in a walk, losing the vote of only those in the car whose cooling system he let leak out.

The tragic death of Count Folke Bernadotte and his French aide reveals another depressing weakness in the armor of UN, already made paper-thin by the veto clause.

UN officials are almost wholly defenseless against brutal physical attack. It is a tribute to their courage and their unquenchable hope for a better world that few, if any, have ever complained of their plight. Their lack of security came as a surprise even to them—at the birth of the federation in San Francisco—when reporters raised an alarm over the fact that anybody could get past the loose guard of their meetings by showing his driver's license.

Even if the murderers of Bernadotte are found, there is little UN can do to bring them to a court of international justice. There is no machinery by which UN can try and sentence individuals, even for this monstrous crime, unless the present international court's functions can be expanded to remove it from exclusive dealings with nations as entities.

It has become the habit of UN officials I know to speak of the organization as a moral force. But what protection is moral against a deliberate and heinous ambush that kills men whose only aim in life was to serve the cause of peace?

There is only this small consolation for Bernadotte's family and those millions who wished him well in his brave try: If his murder puts teeth to the gums of UN, he will not have died in vain.

It is estimated that the average automobile uses about twice the amount of gasoline and four times the amount of oil at 65 miles an hour as it does at 35 miles an hour.

Workings Of Texas Rangers Amazes Carolina Convict

HOUSTON, Sept. 21 (U.P.)—A cool, North Carolina convict pondered the workings of the Texas Rangers today, amazed at the series of swift moves that put him behind bars again.

Sandy-haired Doyle William Duckett, 30-year-old killer, was picked up early today. Rangers roused him from his bunk on a farm near Pasadena, Texas, where he had worked two weeks.

"How they got me," said Duckett, "I'll never know. I figured I was free as the breeze."

He had been at liberty three weeks after an escape (his third in six years) from a North Carolina prison. Duckett was serving a 30-year sentence for second degree murder and robbery.

The man signed extradition papers and told police he was sure "they'll put me in solitary when I get back."

"The Rangers just told me they 'had information,'" he mused.

Ranger Captain Hardy Purvis had nothing to add.

Packinghouse Workers To Vote On Union Choice At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (AP)—Armour & Company employes, 2,237 strong, will vote October 7, to determine what union, if any, they wish to represent them as a bargaining agent at the Fort Worth plant of the packing firm.

The election was announced by Edwin A. Elliott, regional director of the National Labor Relations board, after officials of the company and the two contending unions met with him to agree on terms of the election.

The rival unions, each seeking right to represent workers, are the amalgamated meat cutters and butchers works union, AFL, and the United Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO.

Washington's Hot Weather Does Its Worst To President Truman's Oversize Candy Hat

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 — I've got Mr. Harry S. Truman's candy hat in my cellar and if you think sleeping over a pilfered presidential bonnet is comfortable—well, try it.

How the topper got where it is makes an interesting, if embarrassing tale.

The other day an executive of Resistol Hats, Inc., of Garland, Texas, which makes custom-built hats, called long distance and said he was cooking up a little stunt.

Makes Candy Hats

"We're making candy hats," he said, "for people who lose election bets and have to eat their hats."

That sounded interesting to a man who once lost such a bet and had to root a rutabago, via nose, on all fours across State street in Chicago. Between traffic lights.

The man said he was making four 10-gallon head-size candy hats for Truman, Dewey, Wallace, and Thurmond. He hung up. I filed the information away in the back of my head.

A few days later the phone rang again. It was the same man.

"I'm at National airport here in Washington," he said. "Just a few minutes before we go up again and head for New York. Now listen:"

He said he had Mr. Truman's candy hat with him, all done up in cellophane and ribbons.

"I'm leaving it out here in your name," he said. "I want you to see that Mr. Truman gets it in person. Ooops. Gotta go now. They're calling us aboard the plane."

The receiver clicked.

I didn't get a chance to tell him how the Secret service would react if I started through the gates of the big White House on Pennsylvania avenue with a big box under my arm.

I called Charlie Ross, the affable grandfather of twins, who is Mr. T's press secretary.

He said the President had too many other things on his mind to go around trying on candy hats. If he should lose an election bet and have to eat a hat, it'll be that six-gallon pearl gray he likes so much, said Charlie.

"Good bye," he added.

That was during that awful hot spell when Washington sweltered for days under a 100-degree sun. I fretted and stewed. Finally the airport called and said to come get that big box off its hands.

I drove out and picked it up. I cheated a little and opened the box. The heat had done its worst.

Mr. Truman's hat, I'm sorry to inform him, is now a sticky, smelly mess. That kind of candy, whatever it is, wasn't made for hot weather.

State Demo Committee To Meet In Bonham On Monday

BONHAM, Sept. 21. (AP)—The state Democratic executive committee has been called to meet here Monday, Sept. 27, by John C. Calhoun, newly elected chairman.

Calhoun has accepted an invitation from the city of Bonham and Rep. Sam Rayburn to remain here for the visit of President Truman that night.

Carnegie's Widow Leaves Huge Estate

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (AP)—The widow of Andrew Carnegie, Scottish-born philanthropist and steel maker, left a $19,098,104 net estate before taxes, an estate tax appraisal disclosed today.

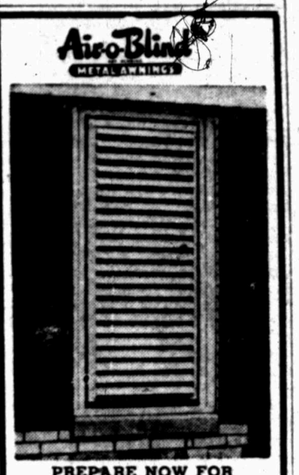

Paper filed by Charles W. Ferry, the appraiser, indicated the gross estate of Mrs. Louise Whitfield Carnegie who died June 24, 1946, amounted to $20,620,241.

Federal and state taxes, it was estimated, would aggregate more than $11,600,000 with the U. S. tax to amount to $8,990,893.

A total of $2,515,000 is distributed in public bequests.

The principal personal beneficiary is a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Carnegie Miller of Millbrook, N. Y., who received real estate, household effects, annuities' surplus and the residue of the estate.

LET FLOWERS SOAK

THESE tips on how to make cut flowers and plants last longer may be of news to some of you:

Place cut flowers in deep containers in a cool place and let them soak up the water for about two hours before arranging in more shallow bowls.

Scrape the stems of chrysanthemums.

Submerge dahlia stems up to three or four inches in hot water for about one minute before placing in cold water.

Most people water their plants too often, it's suggested. Water thoroughly only every three or four days.

REPORT ON TEETH—Overeating is as bad for the teeth as it is for the figure, a Philadelphia dentist reported at the 89th convention of the American Dental association in Chicago. He added that desserts should be abolished unless they are fruit or raw food.

Another dentist, from San Francisco, raised a cry against women who wear lipstick to the dental chair. He said it creates a color contrast that interferes with matching bridges and crowns.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

A WOMAN platformer can learn the tricks of public speech which will make her voice more effective when she gets up to speak her piece.

Tips from Dwight Cooke, radio forum chairman and experienced lecturer, underscores the need to speak simply, clearly and as briefly as possible. Short, incisive sentences are more easily understood than long, involved sentences, he warns.

Self-consciousness is another fault a woman speaker is advised to conquer. Focus your attention on your audience and forget yourself, is the rule.

To make sure your voice is pleasing to the ear, practice speaking to yourself, listening for voice timber, vibration and placing.

Open your mouth and let your voice come from the diaphragm. A beautiful voice is an undeniable asset to a woman, whether she raises her voice from the platform or to call the children in from play.

High School Sophomore To Be Organist

Gerre Hancock Will Provide Musical Setting For Styles

When the Junior welfare league presents fashions in harmony with the fall season today, 14-year-old Gerre Hancock will be present to present harmony and rhythm on the organ in keeping with the occasion.

Youthful Gerre began taking piano lessons when six years old, but began studying organ only a few months ago, after school had ended in May.

With his background of music instruction, and liking for music, however, he soon began to play selections on the organ. During the summer, he appeared a few times as organist in the Hilton hotel coffee shop, taking no music with him but simply a list of selections he planned to play.

When Gerre, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hancock of 2504 Thirty-third, was two years old, he would sit near the radio and sing. When he was about four, he began picking out tunes on the piano, although he had studied no music up to that time.

At 6, he began taking piano lessons. At 7, he presented a program before the Rotary club at Ralls, where the Hancock family then lived. He soon began to present programs before study clubs and other groups. The Ralls Rotary club took him to Floydada to appear before Floydada Rotary club.

In 1942, the family moved to Brownfield and he began presenting public programs there. At 9, later in Tahoka, he also appeared before various groups. While visiting his aunts in Dallas, he has played the piano in Gaston Avenue Baptist church and in other churches.

Dean Paul Van Katwyck, head of the music department at Southern Methodist university, described him as having unusual talent when Gerre was 11 years ago. The boy studied under Mrs. Van Katwyck six weeks. A voice teacher in Dallas who sang to Gerre's accompaniment at a wedding in February praised his accompaniment as the best she had heard.

He studies piano with Miss Mary Dunn and organ with Miss Imogene Webster here.

The tall, black-haired and blue-eyed boy, who lists Frederic Chopin as his favorite composer, has definite leanings toward music as a leading interest, but it is not his only interest. He likes to play basketball and baseball, too.

Gerre is a sophomore at Lubbock High school.

The list of fraternities and their pledges, announced by Jack Holland, assistant dean of men, includes a number of South Plains students:

Lubbock Youth, Knocked Out Of School Work By Car Crash, Warns 'It Can Happen Anytime'

After nearly four months in bed as result of a spinal injury suffered in an automobile accident, Terry Young of 2820 Maple looks back and says, "It couldn't happen to me, but it did."

His sister, Claudyne Young freshman in Texas Technological college, seconded his statement.

One minute they were driving along happily and seemingly safely, as they and four other young people were returning to Lubbock from a Cumberland Presbyterian district meeting at Petersburg last May 30.

The next minute, the car had hit a mud puddle and was overturning and crashing against a telephone pole.

Terry Studies At Home

Terry and Claudyne, who are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claud O. Young, were glad to tell their reactions to the car accident, because of possibility it may convince someone else that a car accident can happen any time, any place, to anyone, in an instant and without sufficient warning to avoid it. Their mother also approved.

Terry wasn't able to return to school this fall, but he is taking English and algebra courses while at home. He has been able to sit up at times in the last few days and in a few days he hopes to be able to use a wheelchair.

He has based great hopes on the statement of a Fort Worth doctor who performed surgery on his back recently. The surgeon stated that, "It's possible he will be walking in a few months." Terry hopes to be able to return to school next semester.

Terry was expressing his own reaction, without any prompting when he said, "It couldn't happen to me, but it did."

He was putting into words, however, something which Texas Highway patrol officials have sought to impress upon the driving public. At various times, when issuing cautions, patrol representatives have commented the caution would be more beneficial if every driver would apply it to himself rather than to think, "It can't happen to me." Capt. E. L. Posey, commander of the Lubbock district of the Texas Highway patrol, expressed approval of the willingness of the boy and girl to help prevent other accidents.

"It can happen when you least expect it," said Claudyne, who was driving the car. "That's our first one and I hope it's the last one."

She said she swerved the car to miss a torn place in the pavement on a road between Abernathy and Petersburg. "The first knowledge I had that we might have a wreck, I thought 'My gracious, what would happen.' Then the car started weaving."

Hit Soft Shoulder

The car had hit a soft shoulder, to cause it to start weaving, and, "Just about that time the car hit a mud puddle and it flipped us over and we hit a telephone post. No one could comprehend that it could happen so fast."

Terry had an instant's realization that the car was starting to turn over. "It seemed like a bad dream," he said. "I was knocked unconscious. When I waked up, I expected to find myself in bed." It was as if he had been asleep, but if he had been asleep he wouldn't have been waking up with such pain.

Others Escaped Injury

Terry and Sheila Jondahl were the only two occupants of the car who were injured seriously. In a few weeks, Sheila was improved and no longer serious in condition.

Bruce Brown, John Brown, Anne Alexander and Claudyne had no serious injuries and did not enter the hospital.

Terry is receiving assignments sent from Senior High school in his English and algebra courses. He will take regular examinations. Miss Edith Caveness is teacher of the algebra course and Miss Irene Armes, of the English course.

LONG HOLDS PRESS CONFERENCE

Louisiana Solons May Act To Get Truman's Name On Ticket

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Russell Long, assured of election to the Senate, said today a special session of the Louisiana legislature may be held to return President Truman's name to the ballot.

The son of the late Huey "Kingfish" Long told this to a news conference he held while in Washington house-hunting. He won the Louisiana Democratic senatorial primary, tantamount to election.

By action of the Louisiana state Democratic committee, the Truman-Barkley ticket was eliminated, and the States Rights Thurmond-Wright ticket substituted.

Keeping Out Of Fight

Long said a number of requests have been made to Gov. Earl Long to summon the legislature to make it possible to put forward alternative Democratic tickets in the forthcoming election. Long said:

"I am keeping out of the presidential fight myself in Louisiana, but it is my impression that the majority of the voters in Louisiana will be for Thurmond and Wright.

"Unless Truman's name goes on the ballot, I would expect that he would run a poor third in Louisiana as a write-in candidate, but he might make a little better showing if his name appears."

Now 29 years old, Long will pass his 30th birthday in November, thus satisfying the age qualification for membership in the Senate.

Asked if he considered himself "another Huey Long," Long said that he supported the same principles as those espoused by his father, but that he realized that many of the reforms which his father advocated could not be realized within a short time.

As an example, he said that his father strongly believed that every man should own his home, and that this state of affairs should be brought about forthwith. Long said:

"I also believe that every man should have his own home, but even if that could be accomplished in my lifetime, I would be more than happy."

As to Huey Long's famous slogan, "Every man a king," Long said he held the same view. He added:

"I believe in that in the sense that my father had in mind. What he meant was that every man should be a king in his own home. It carried the same idea that President Roosevelt voiced when he said that we should have freedom from fear."

Among legislative recommendations he said he would strongly support were those involving extension of the social security and public welfare systems, and the school lunch program.

He said he would favor an annual appropriation of $600,000,000 for school lunches, approximately ten times the present federal allotment for this purpose. Long said:

"I will no doubt disappoint some people when I come to the Senate if they compare me with my father.

"It must be remembered that Huey Long was in politics for 15 years before he came to Washington. I have only been active for about 18 months.

"I will have to spend time learning before I speak up.

"I don't expect to get in so many fights as my father did, but I hope that I can get myself out of those that I do get in as well as he did."

Long said that he would again be a candidate for the Senate in two years for the term beginning in 1951, and would not be a candidate for governor of Louisiana.

He will succeed in January the seat made vacant by the death of Sen. Overton, which has been filled temporarily by the appointment of Sen. Feazel.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health. Adv

Probe Of Milk Prices Underway

HOUSTON, Sept. 21. (AP)—Attorney General Price Daniel was in Houston today to take a hand in rounding out his department's investigation of possible anti-trust violations in connection with new milk prices in this area.

The attorney general admitted his personal investigation was "unusual," and added he had not decided the nature of any action that might be taken against milk producers and distributors.

New Boosts Studied

"I'm here to check up on some of the relationships between milk producers and distributors," Daniel said. "We have some evidence indicating producers and distributors have dealt with milk prices, both on the wholesale and retail level."

Daniel said any action would be taken at his office in Austin. The picture should unfold, he stated, "within a day or so."

Investigators from the Attorney General's department were in the Houston-Galveston area last week, where a one-cent price raise on a quart of milk was announced by retail distributors only a week before. Simultaneously, the South Texas Producers association, large producer, announced a boost of 25 cents per hundredweight, from $6.90 to $7.15.

New NBC Code Of Standards Hits At 'Giveaway' Programs

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Sept. 21. (INS)—A new and stricter code of standards and practices, including a provision aimed specifically at "giveaway" programs, was announced tnight by the National Broadcasting company.

NBC President Niles Trammell will present the code tomorrow to some 300 officials of the network's affiliated stations who have gathered at Sun Valley for the second annual NBC convention.

He emphasized that the code, which will go into effect next Jan. 1, depends on the voluntary cooperation of the affiliates, and that no individual station is required to adopt it.

Other Provisions Included

Ken R. Dyke, vice president in charge of programs, described it as "an inventory of today's general measure of acceptability, presented, not as negative or arbitrary rules, but as a positive framework of attitudes governing NBC's service in the public interest."

The code applies both to standard broadcasting and to television.

Aside from the section aimed at "giveaways," its major provisions are the limitation of crime and mystery programs, the banning of middle commercials in news programs and of simulated spot announcements, and "new procedure for fading out artists who refuse to submit to program censorship."

Many of these rules have been announced previously and are already in effect.

Would Limit Commercials

The attack on "giveaways" is contained in the rules limiting the length of commercial announcements. These provide that the mention of any product or service, whether the sponsor's or not, must be counted as part of the commercial copy.

Thus, a description of refrigerators, cars and other prizes on a quiz show would leave little or no time for the regular commercial.

Commercial copy is limited according to a scale ranging (for evening programs) from one minute in a five-minute program to six minutes in a one-hour program. The limitations are somewhat stricter for news programs.

"Fading" Rule Outlined

The regulation on "fading" provides that when an artist refuses to cut out objectionable material, the program will be faded for 30 seconds and the reason will be explained by an announcer.

Dyke said that all major stars now appearing on NBC have agreed to this procedure and that no fading has been necessary since the rule went into effect.

The rule on crime and mystery programs, already in effect, provides that these shall not be broadcast before 9:30 p. m. The ban on simulated spot announcements affects that are known in the trade as "hitch-hikes," "cowcatchers" and "trailers.' These are announcements at the beginning or end of programs, usually advertising different products of the same sponsor.

As for television, Trammell said that while the code will apply to this new medium, its exact interpretation will change as new problems come up.

British Churchman Declared Acceptable As U. S. Visitor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (INS)—The State department today maintained its position that the very Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, known as the "Red Dean" of Canterbury cathedral, is personally acceptable as a visitor to the United States.

The "Red Dean's" case was revived again when 93 U. S. clerics headed by Harvard and Princeton professors, extended the British churchman an invitation to make a speaking tour here in November and December.

Must Make Application

Recently Dr. Johnson was denied a visa to come here under auspices of the national council of Soviet-American friendship on the ground that that organization was on Attorney General Clark's list of "subversives."

A State department spokesman said the Canterbury dean's first move would have to be submission of a formal application for a visa. Thereafter, it will be up to the U. S. Consul in London to determine whether it should be granted. The spokesman said:

"There has never been any doubt in our minds about the dean. The United States merely objected to his original sponsors."

Dr. Ralph Barton Perry, professor emeritus of philosophy at Harvard, has taken the lead in getting the "Red Dean" into the United States.

Perry wrote 380 churchmen and other cultural leaders on the idea and received 93 favorable replies.

Joining him in signing a new invitation to Dr. Johnson were Prof. William Ernest Hocking of Harvard and Dean Christian Gaus of Princeton.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (INS)—Fowler McCormick, board chairman of the International Harvester company, who suffered a virus pneumonia attack, was reported "out of danger" late today.

McCormick's improved condition was reported by authorities at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago, where he was taken last week after being stricken.

His wife, Fifi Stillman McCormick, is en route to his bedside by plane from Canada.

Demand For Gasoline Fails To Increase

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 21. (U.P.)—Demand for gasoline was "fairly steady" during the past week and the tank car situation continued to ease, refiners said today.

Anticipated heavy movement in gasoline did not develop during the week, a spokesman for one company said. Increased demand is expected when harvesting gets fully underway in the midwest.

Demand for furnace oils and kerosene was firm during the week. Refiners expect it to pick up as the weather turns colder.

Tank car prices showed no change over last week.

Gasoline: U. S. motor 78 octane minimum (ethyl) 11½ cents per gallon; 73-75 (regular) 10½; 60 and below 9¾.

Natural gasoline: 26-70 Oklahoma 8½; North Texas 8.

Kerosene: 42-44 water white 9¾; 41-43 grade 9⅜.

Domestic fuel oils: Range oil 9½; No. 1 white 9⅜; No. 2 straw 9¼; low cold test 9⅛.

Industrial gas oil: Zero (32-36) 9; ordinary (32-36) 7⅞.

81-Year-Old Couple Decides To Renew Teen-Age Romance

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21 (INS)—A pair of 81-year-old sweethearts who drifted apart after a teen-age romance will be married tomorrow in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Martha Boston and William C. Swartz first held hands 65 years ago in Terre Haute. Friends thought they were altar-bound.

But, as Mrs. Boston, explains, "we just sort of drifted apart." She married Clabe Boston, a Lewis merchant.

Swartz also married and became a wholesale grocer.

Their mates died sometime ago.

The pair met again three years ago and began "keeping company." They will be married tomorrow at the home of Swartz' sister, Mrs. Henry B. McCoy of Indianapolis.

Braves Defeat Cardinals Twice

Boston Near Pennant Win

BOSTON, Sept. 21. (INS)—The Boston Braves took both ends of their double header with the St. Louis Cardinals today and practically clinched the National league pennant.

They took the opener 11 to 3 as Johnny Sain won his 22nd game of the season and the night cap by a score of 4 to 0 as rookie right-hander Vern Bickford twirled a four hitter for his first major league shutout.

If Boston defeats the Cardinals in tomorrow's game and the Pittsburgh Pirates triumph over the Dodgers, the Braves would have their first pennant since 1914.

Sain got off to a shaky start in the first game when the Cards scored twice on four hits. But the Braves tallied four times in the second, and racked up five more in a sixth inning splurge. They got single runs in the first and eighth innings.

PIRATES DROP BROOKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (INS)—Pittsburgh, having been practically knocked out of the National league pennant race by the Braves and Phillies, ruined Brooklyn's chances today by beating the Dodgers twice.

Their first win, 12 to 11, was the ninth-inning playoff of a protested game. Their second triumph of the afternoon, 6 to 3, was a regularly scheduled affair.

The Bucs won the second game for little Vic Lombardi in the sixth inning when they broke a tie by scoring two runs off Rex (No-Hit) Barney on hits by Ed Stevens and Danny Murtaugh, a fielder's choice and an error.

GRIDDERS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Raiders Hold Rough Scrimmage Session; Set For Aggie Clash

Rain had no effect on the Texas Tech football squad yesterday afternoon, Coach Dell Morgan sending the Red Raiders through a long, strenuous contact session during the light moisture.

The varsity and first reserve team went through a short, intensive scrimmage and looked vastly improved. The line was blocking better and they were opening holes better. Contact was hard and the players gave no quarter, hitting hard, blocking fiercely and tackling viciously.

After 30 minutes or more, Coach Morgan sent the first two teams over to Jones Stadium, where they ran defense against the freshmen. Polk Robison, who scouted Texas Aggies at Philadelphia, Pa., instructed the freshmen in Aggie plays and operated them in dummy scrimmage.

Rough Scrimmage Drill

Meanwhile the promising reserves making up the third and fourth teams went through as rough a scrimmage session as has been seen on the old Tech football field in a long time. Milton Rathbone, quarterbacking one eleven, tried play after play some of which worked for long gains. But much of the time the backs, Herman Bailey, Bill White, Jim Hatch, J. W. Thompson, Zac Henderson and Charlie Reynolds, were running into a stone wall.

Particularly outstanding on defense was Fullback Keith "Bobo" Butler, the big back from Rising Star. Butler, backing up the line, was vicious on defense, crashing the interference, breaking up plays repeatedly and making bone-cracking tackles. He gave one of the finest performances of the scrimmage.

Box Hix at guard also was a tower on defense, along with Center J. B. Mahler. Most of the yardage gained by the offensive team was over the tackles and around the ends. Bailey got off several long jaunts with the ball, once or twice going all the way. Thompson also turned in a fine performance offensively, running hard and well, while Hatch showed occasional bursts of intelligent, elusive running. Henderson consistently ran hard.

Blocking Is Improved

One thing that pleased coaches was the downfield blocking, which was hard and furious. Backs and linemen both were hitting hard and knocking the defensive men down. Actual game blocking and tackling couldn't be much more intense.

But in the Aggies Tech will be facing a big team that is rugged all down the line and the Raiders will have to go all the way on every play. Wray Whittaker and Charles Wright, ends, weigh 204 and 200 respectively; James Winkler and James Flowers, tackles, weigh 210 and 225; Odell Stautzenberger and Max Greiner, guards, weigh 215 and 190; Center Herbert Ellis tips the beam at 205.

In the backfield, Quarterback James Cashion weighs 175 pounds; Halfbacks Robert Goode and James Boswell weigh 205 and 175; and Fullback Bobby Goff hits 190. It's a heavy team and one that can dish out a lot of punishment.

Most dangerous man is Goode, who sparked the team in its loss to Villanova Saturday. He was the leading Aggie scorer last year with 42 points on seven touchdowns. He stands six feet three inches and is using his final year of eligibility.

Cashion also will see a lot of service against Tech and the Raiders will see a lot of Cashion. He's the top passer on the squad and a dangerous man with the pigskin. Judging from last week's showing, he will throw many an aerial Saturday.

But Tech spirit has never been any higher than it is now and the Raiders show improvement each day. They are an eager team and their hustle makes up for a lot of their shortcomings. If the will to win does win games, the Raiders may surprise a lot of persons in San Antonio Saturday.

Quarterback Club To Hold First '48 Meeting Monday

The Lubbock Quarterback club, which functioned each Monday night of the 1947 football season, is being reorganized and rejuvenated this year, with the first meeting scheduled for Monday night in the main ballroom of the Hilton hotel.

Mule Dowell will be in charge of the first program, at which time Coach Dell Morgan and Coach C. R. "Pat" Pattison will speak on the games their teams have played.

In addition, the entire Texas Tech, Lubbock High school and Dunbar High school coaching staffs will be guests of the club.

After Coach Morgan and Coach Pattison have finished describing their impressions of their first games of the season, the meeting will be thrown open to members. They will elect proper chairmen for the year and discussion will be open for suggestions on how to improve the club. One suggestion already made is inviting area coaches in, as well as area Quarterback clubs.

Bosox Drub Tigers To Increase Lead

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Boston Red Sox made hay today while their American league pennant rivals were idle, slapping the Detroit Tigers 10 to 2 to increase their first place margin to a full game over Cleveland and a game and a half over the New York Yankees.

The Sox shelled four Detroit pitchers for a dozen hits, including a homer, two triples and two doubles, and wrapped up the important victory with a six-run spree in a wild third inning.

Lefty Mel Parnell gave up 11 hits but never was pressed as he took his 14th victory against seven defeats.

MIDLAND, Sept. 21. (AP)—The Midland Indians came from behind with two out in the last of the ninth to defeat the Vernon Dusters, 3-2, and even their Longhorn league championship series at three games each here tonight.

The final game will be played here tomorrow night.

Vernon scored on Twin Simons' two-run homer in the first inning.

Midland tallied its first run in the eighth. Eddie Melillo drove in the two ninth-inning tallies with a single.

District 3-B Tilts Carded

District 3-B conference teams, already tried under fire, will get their conference schedule underway with a vengeance Friday night, when eight of the nine teams oppose each other.

Petersburg's Golden Buffaloes invade Olton, Dimmitt's powerful Bobcats go to Amherst, Anton's Bulldogs visit Hale Center and Whitharral's eleven will take on Springlake at Earth.

In the only District 4-B conference game, Whiteface's Antelopes invade New Deal for a game with the strong Lions

Cowhands Invade Meadow

Thursday night the Meadow Bronchos will meet the Lubbock Cowhands in Meadow and the odds favor the visiting team. But the Bronchos have a good squad this year, putting up a strong fight in losing to O'Donnell 6-0 Friday night, when the winning touchdown was made in the closing minute of play.

The Bronchos also boast a 13-0 victory over the Ropes Eagles and Coach Lloyd Hunt, at Sundown in 1947, has the makings of a strong team. Last year's Cowhand eleven beat the Meadow team only 19-7 and another strong fight in this annual rivalry is anticipated.

Over at Idalou Coach W. Lloyd Johnson, a graduate of WTSTC, has a strong eleven that is being touted as one of the two strongest in District 4-B. The Wildcats didn't lose too many men last spring and they have come up with a strong line and backfield. The forward wall averages about 170, with Don Seale, Alvin Joiner and Leon Jarrett, all fast, pacing the backfield. In the line Johnson has three lettermen including W. K. Mullinox at center, Billy Ross Armstrong at right tackle and Sidney Scoggins at left tackle.

Cooper Team Inexperienced

Junior Jackson, a reserve guard or tackle, weighs 204 pounds and is being counted to help fill in for J. N. Sowder, a left guard, or Bill Wilbanks, right guard. David Reddell and Lloyd Allen are capable ends and the Idalou mentor has come up with a rugged eleven. They will be given a great test by Kress this week.

Cooper High school is undergoing a rebuilding and building experiment and Coach Ray Bailey, new on the job this year, after coming from Silverton, is not optimistic. Cooper was hit heavily by graduation and the starting eleven is light and inexperienced. Bailey is shifting players a good deal and expects to open with a freshman at quarterback, Don Green. Bobby Dodd, another freshman, probably will start at one halfback post. John B. Allen, a fine player, is one of the holdovers who will be at the fullback spot.

Cooper already has taken one severe setback from the strong Idalou eleven and this week tackles Abernathy of District 4-A at Abernathy in another killer. The team has two open dates, Oct. 29 or 30 and Nov. 4 or 5, which Coach Bailey would like to fill. Any team interested in games on these dates can contact him at the school.

Chicago Cardinals Ask Waivers On DeCorrevont, Two Linemen

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. (INS)—The Chicago Cardinals, champions of the National Football league, asked waivers on three players today.

They are Halfback Bill De Correvont, formerly of Northwestern; Tackle Dick Loepfe, who starred at Wisconsin last year; and Guard Dick Wedel, ex-Wake Forest standout.

Disposition of the three players will bring the Cards' roster down to 36 players. They must cut one more man before opening their league season against the Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago Friday night.

At least four Toronto players, Third Baseman Willie (Puddinhead) Jones, Catcher Stan Lopata and Pitchers Emery Church and Lou Possehl, are scheduled to get tryouts with the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League next spring.

Kilgore Takes Third Straight Playoff Triumph From Longview

LONGVIEW, Sept. 21. (AP)—Kilgore made it three straight over the Longview Texans here tonight in the Lone Star league's championship series, 5-4.

The fourth game of the series will be played here tomorrow night.

The Drillers put together four runs in the fifth inning on three singles, a double, walk and a high fly.

Longview's big inning was the fourth, when the Texans scored three runs.

Capacity Crowd For Tech-Aggie Game Predicted

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 21 (Special) — A sell-out crowd for the Texas A. and M.-Texas Tech football game Saturday night in Alamo Stadium has been predicted by C. C. Krueger, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee sponsoring the contest.

Krueger said that if the weather remained good, there would be no question of a virtually capacity crowd. He declared that ticket sales were running ahead of last year and additional tickets have been ordered by the Aggies. Aggieland requested 500 ducats to go with the total of 6,144 already furnished the school.

Tickets On Sale

The Aggies will have with them their 170 piece band to provide half-time entertainment. The band is considered one of the finest college groups in the nation.

Krueger said that tickets for the game still are available in downtown sporting goods stores; the Municipal Auditorium, Ellison's six stores and the military post exchange. Reserved seats in the East and West stands are selling for $3 each; South end zone seats are selling at $2 each.

Out of town orders for tickets will be accepted through Thursday, Krueger declared.

The game will be broadcast over a local station, with Bill Michaels at the microphone, and the broadcast also will be heard over 17 other Texas stations. In Lubbock the game will be heard over KFYO.

Tulsa Enters Finals With Win Over Buffs

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 21 (AP)—The Tulsa Oilers moved into the Texas league playoff finals tonight by defeating Houston 7-1 in a game played under protest by the Buffaloes from the fifth inning.

The game did not become critical until league President J. Alvin Gardner disallowed the Houston protest.

Johnny Keane, Buff manager, filed the protest in a freakish inning when the park's lighting system was extinguished briefly while a batted ball was in the air.

Cerdan Knocks Out Zale

Frenchman Is New Champ

ROOSEVELT STADIUM, Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 21. (AP)—Marvel Cerdan, a terrible, punishing little fighter from French Morocco, beat Tony Zale into a state of utter helplessness tonight and won the world middleweight championship while the iron man from Gary Ind., sat glassy-eyed in his corner

Referee Paul Cavalier looked at the 34-year old Tony as his seconds worked frantically over him between the 11th and 12th rounds, and spread his hands in a gesture which told 19,272 fans in the stadium that it was all over—that the title had changed hands.

Purse Is Held

The gross gate was announced as $242,870 which would give the Tournament of Champions a slight profit on the show, according to the figuring of Promoter Andy Niederreiter. Zale was guaranteed $120,000 and Cerdan $40,000. The Frenchman's purse was held in escrow in this country however, under a provision of his contract which specified he must defend his title against Zale for the same promoters within six months in the United States.

For 11 rounds Zale, who rewon the 160-pound crown only last June in Newark, N. J., from Rocky Graziano, had taken cruel, numbing punishment from the tireless Cerdan. He had won only two rounds, and had been beaten mercilessly.

Cerdan, the former French sailor who became known to thousands of American servicemen by his fighting in North Africa and Italy during the war, became the second European boxer to win a world championship this summer.

Zale Was Favored

Freddie Mills of England won the light heavyweight title from Gus Lesnevich only two months ago in London. Cerdan's victory tonight was much more decisive than that of Mills. The rugged Frenchman won all the way, never was in serious trouble, and handled Zale as though he owned him.

Zale, who entered the ring a 5-8 favorite and widely expected to win by a knockout, carried only the third and fourth rounds on the Associated Press scoresheet. Referee Cavalier gave him those rounds and the ninth as well.

There was no question about the other eight.

Tony's only big round was the fourth. In that one he caught Cerdan a lulu of a right on the whiskers, shaking the Frenchman up and causing him to hold on for a moment. That was the only time Cerdan appeared to be hurt even for an instant.

Westerners Prepare For Tussle With Steers In Practice Tilt

A full-dress scrimmage session under regular game conditions, complete with kickoffs, punts, first downs and extra points, highlighted activities at Chapman field Tuesday afternoon as Coach Pat Pattison readied his Lubbock Westerner gridders for their non-conference clash with North Side's Steers Friday night at Fort Worth.

The "White" team held a 27-13 margin at the close of the hour and a half tussle, but the score didn't mean much since many of the squad members played for both teams before the head-knocking was completed. The "Golds" were outmanned during the first half of the period, but picked up strength in the last half of the setto.

Both teams were impressive on offense, with Backs Malcolm Young, Bobby Brown, Donald Decker, Bill Bridge and Wayne Stroud romping for long yardage, but both elevens made numerous defensive errors. Young, who has been running from the fullback slot, turned in two long touchdown gallops for the white team, and Wingback Decker tallied once on a brilliant run.

Brown, who has turned in outstanding performances in both the Westerner games this season, slashed through the White line for consistent yardage, but he shared the spotlight with the power smashes of Fullback Bill Bridge.

Several of the Westerner linemen turned in good performances, with Guards Morris Moyers and Jack Hensley, Tackles Billy Bohner and Billy Brazell and End Ted Vaught attracting attention of the mentors.

Coach Pattison reported that the Westerner gridders will be sent through a lighter drill this afternoon, then the squad will leave Thursday morning for Wichita Falls. The Westerners will work out at Wichita Falls Thursday afternoon, spend Thursday night at that city, then move on to Fort Worth Friday morning.

The Lubbock school boys will clash with the powerful Steers, representatives of the City conference of the Interscholastic league, at 8 o'clock Friday night at Farrington field.

E. J. Lowrey, athletic department business manager, has announced that tickets for the Westerner-Steer tilt will be on sale today and Thursday at his Senior High school office. The ducats will cost 60 and 40 cents if purchased here, but will be priced at approximately 90 cents if fans buy their tickets at Fort Worth.

Amarillo Gold Sox Shade Pampa, 9-7

PAMPA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Amarillo won the West Texas-New Mexico league baseball championship here tonight with a 9-7 victory over Pampa.

The decision gave the Gold Sox the series, four games to one.

Paul Halter hit a grand-slam homer for the Gold Sox in the first inning and Bob Crues followed him this frame with another homer.

Pitcher Ray Panneman helped win his own ball game with a circuit clout in the fourth inning.

Dave Teyema cut Amarillo's winning margin by blasting a two-run homer in Pampa's ninth inning.

Texas Schoolboy Gridders Open Campaign For Honors

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (U.P.)—Texas schoolboy football stars already are making their bids for all-state honors although the season is only two weeks old.

Take for instance, Marv Vincent, Denison's scintillating back, who looked good even in defeat.

The flashy youngster has carried the ball 24 times in two games against San Angelo and Wichita Falls and averaged 13.2 yards per try while scoring four touchdowns. Denison's opposition was tough, too, for the San Angelo club it whipped in the opening week turned around to knock off Lubbock, while Denison fell before Wichita Falls 26-13 last week.

Then there's Ken Vavra, a lithe sophomore from Ennis, who completed six of 11 passes and gained 110 yards as his light teammates battled Dallas Crozier Tech to a 6-6 standoff.

Or, Mineral Wells' Jim Veal, who scored two touchdowns, one on a 13-yard run and the other on an 85-yard punt return as the Mountaineers defeated Electra 25-0.

Amarillo's Marvin McNeil made his bid with touchdown runs of seven, 80 and 16 yards as the Sandies overpowered Childress 39-6, then kicked in with a touchdown toss for good measure.

And, not all the stars are backs. It takes linemen to round out a team.

Spearheading the stout Brownwood Lion defense that throttled the heralded Kerrville Antlers last week was Guard Vern Holleman. It was Holleman's alertness in recovering a key Kerrville fumble that helped the Lions score that 12-0 upset.

Odessa's Dean McCullough blocked a punt to set up one Bronco score and played an all round fine defensive game as the West Texans defeated Fort Worth North Side 20-7.

Lubbock lost to San Angelo 21-13, but it wasn't Westerner End Bob Rooker's fault. He caught five passes for 51 yards, recovered two fumbles and stayed in the Bobcats' hair most of the night.

One of the hidden reasons why the Port Arthur Jackets are rated at the top of the schoolboy heap is Jimmie Fletcher, a guard. A great defensive player, Fletcher also stars as a blocker, cutting down the opposition for the fleet Jacket backs.

It's a long way 'till mythical-team-picking-time in December, but such performances as those will be remembered.

H-SU To Battle Cincinnati Team

ABILENE, Sept. 21. (Special)—Hardin-Simmons' Cowboys will get their initial trial of the season Saturday night when they take on the powerful Cincinnati university Bearcats on the latter's home field in the opening game of the 1948 campaign for both elevens.

Coach Warren B. Woodson and a travelling squad of between 30 and 40 players will leave Abilene by air Friday morning and are expected to arrive in the mid western city in time for a limbering up drill on Cincinnati's Nippert stadium that evening.

Injuries Hit Squad

It will be two elevens with identical 1947 records who will face each other in the season opener. Both the Cowboys and the Bearcats won seven while losing three over the regular season campaign last year. The Cowboys made it eight and three when they defeated San Diego State in the Barbor Bowl game January 1. Both elevens also have been picked as runnerups in their respective conferences, the Cowboys in the Border and the Bearcats in the Mid-American.

Coach Woodson has indicated he will have to dig deep in his bag of reserves to come up with a starting lineup for the Saturday game. Costly injuries have whittled the already small Cowboy squad down considerably. Guards Jesse Clardy, Paul Frost and Tackle Strawberry Rowan are among linemen favoring injuries, while George Leja, El Centro, California halfback and Nolan Harvey, 138 pound speedster from Bermuda have suffered injuries among backfieldmen. It is expected that Harvey and the linemen may suit out for the contest and see action although Leja probably won't break into the lineup.

Starters Are Named

Probable starters in the backfield include Wilton (Hook) Davis, and Brooks Allen, both sophomore lettermen, at the halfback posts; Pat Bailey, junior and two-year letterman, at fullback, and John Ford, sophomore, at quarterback.

The line will probably consist of ends Bob McChesney and J. W. Steadman, 1948 captains; Herman Raphelt, senior and two-year letterman, and Leon Cooper, two-year junior letterman, at tackles; Bob Surratt, transfer from Cameron, Oklahoma junior college, and J. C. Smith, sophomore squadman from Van Nuys, California, at guards, and Howard McChesney, junior understudy of Red Cleveland for the past two years, at center.

WOODCOCK SCORES WIN

LONDON, Sept. 21. (AP)—Bruce Woodcock knocked out Lee Oma of Detroit tonight in the fourth round of his heavyweight comeback bout. Oma was knocked out by a right to the jaw after a dull fight that had the crowd stamping its feet.

Blast furnaces producing pig iron and ferro-alloys used 200 million tons of air last year.

Wichita Falls Clips Sherman-Denison

SHERMAN, Sept. 21. (AP) — Wichita Falls squared its Big State league playoff series with Sherman-Denison, here tonight, 7-6.

The two teams meet tomorrow night for the Class B league's championship. Tonight's result evened the series at three games each.

Ed Cole gained credit for the victory. He relieved Claude Horton in the eighth with the score tied, 6-6. Cole got the first three men he faced on pop outs to left field. In the ninth, Don Stokes tripled, but Cole struckout Glen Snyder, Joe Smaza and Mario Diaz to win his ball game.

The Twins went ahead in the second when Diaz walked, Jake Suytan singled and Gilbert Castillo doubled to score two runs.

Wichita Falls tied it up in the fourth when Paul Brotherton singled, Frank Pawlik walked and Cecil McClung sacrificed.

Sherman-Denison got one run in the fourth when Diaz doubled and Rivas singled.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

One of the spotlight college grid games Saturday will be the clash between Minnesota's Golden Gophers and the Washington Huskies at Seattle. The Gophers have been hailed in pre-season rankings as one of the top teams in the entire Midwest and the probable opponent for the Pacific Coast representative in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1, 148. Not since the powerhouse Gopher elevents of the 1930s has Minnesota shown so much brawn in the forward wall and speed in the secondary.

Coach Bernie Bierman continues to moan, however. The wily mentor says that his backfield, which averages about 170 pounds per man, is too light for top-flight competition. He says he doesn't have a single halfback that can compare with some of his former stars—Pug Lund and Bruce Smith. Bierman, sobbing bitterly, says he doesn't have but four good ends and only one tackle who is an all-America prospect. We feel sorry for Bernie—he's in for a rough season.

Seriously, though, sports fans will be glad to welcome the Gophers back to the headlines. The Gohphers provided plenty of color to the college grid picture during the '30s, with their amazing "four yards per down" single wing attack, and the Minnesotans could usually be counted on to beat the "glamor boy" teams from Michigan and Northwestern. It will be like old times to have them back in the national picture.

An unusual "player's angle" report on one of Minnesota's major grid triumphs in 1934 was recently featured in the Minneapolis Star. Pug Lund, All-America Gopher halfback, tells the following story on the game:

"They say Jack Sutherland (the former Pitt coach) never got over losing that 1934 game to Minnesota. Well, none of us who played will get over it either.

Most of you know the Gophers rallied to whip the unbeaten Panthers, 13-7, and go on to a national championship. But probably only a few realize we began to have the feel of victory when we were back in the hole on our own two-yard line.

We were on the spot all right in Minnesota's first trip east. Although most of us on the squad figured 1934 was to be our year, the newspapermen and everyone else thought the Gophers were in for quite a ride in the return game. They didn't put much stock in our 7-3 upset win in 1933.

It was the coaches' pre-game strategy that we could wear Pitt down by dealing out a lot of punishment to start with, even if we didn't make many good gains.

That's what we did in the first half, until I missed a bad pass from center and Pitt recovered on our six. It was then Bill Bevan and the rest of our line really rose to the occasion. They stopped Weinstock and Nicksick cold. When we took the ball on downs on our two, the Gophers seemed to catch fire.

Things were going alone nicely until just before the half ended, when Weinstock broke through tackle on one of his typical drives. Both Julie Alfonse and I came up too fast. We were wide open for the lateral Weinstock tossed to Nicksick, who went 64 yards to a touchdown.

"Late in the third period, just as Larue was fielding a high punt, Widseth hit him with perfect timing. He fumbled. Butch Larsen recovered for us on their 40, and we were off.

Alfonse was kayoed just before the quarter, but we stayed in and switched with Larsen at right end to give us a chance to use Julie on an end around reverse. The play fooled Pitt and Julie made it to the end zone although he still was so groggy he didn't realize he'd scored.

We kept right on rolling the next time we got the ball. Kostka was running like a maniac on a mousetrap through guard and their secondary was pulling up to stop him. So on fourth down, four to go on the Pitt 18, the stage was set perfectly for a forward pass developing out of the buck lateral series. I spotted Bob Tenner and threw just as he crossed over from left end, and he ran over a tackler to score.

"The next morning Ed Neill of the Associated Press wrote in his story of the game:

"10,000 Swedes came out of the weeds to win the battle of Copenhagen.' That was quite a tribute from an unexpected source."

Containers made of stainless steel have a service life of about 14 years.

Al Getz Will Test 'Marvel'

Al Getz, the rough, tough Dutchman from Pennsylvania, who last week felt the power of Jack Dempsey's celebrated right hand, tonight takes on the Masked Marvel in the featured bout at Sled Allen's wrestling arena.

Getz and the Marvel headline a card that brings together Rex Mobley of Borger and Sailor Parker in the semi-final and Bennie Trudell of Montreal, Que., against Sammy Kohen of New York City in the preliminary.

Marvel Never Defeated

The Marvel never has lost a fight in Lubbock, although he has had to resort to some questionable tactics to win in the past. He's a big, rugged, far from handsome individual who doesn't like to follow the referee's instructions. And if a little dirty work will gain him a fall, he'll take the chance.

But Getz is no sissy in the ring either and is just as ruthless. He may be the man to pin the Marvel for the first time and a good crowd is expected to see the match.

Mobley and Parker should be a good semi-final go, with Parker making another of his visits to the Hub City where he always has done well.

And Trudell and Kohen appear to be another fine attraction for the prelim.

Tickets go on sale at Wylie's Drug store this morning. And fight time for the first match has been moved up to 8:15 p.m.

MERCHANTS ASKED TO AID DRIVE

Annual Funds Drive Is Opened By Texas Tech's Matador Club

Members of the Matador Club of Texas Tech, made up of former students here, is conducting its annual funds drive and Spencer Wells, newly elected president, requests cooperation with members.

Wells said that the Matador club this year would make a short, intensive drive designed to raise funds to avoid having another drive later in the year. If this drive is successful, the funds raised will be enough to meet requirements for the year.

Any person not reached individually by a Matador member, and who wants to join the fund drive, may contribute by mailing a check payable to the Matador club. The envelope should be addressed to Post Office box No. 981.

Funds raised by voluntary contributions around town are used to provide athletic scholarships for athletes at Tech, including football, basketball, track, tennis and other sports. A good athlete, who might be unable to attend Tech otherwise, thus is enabled to have part of his education cared for without embarrassment.

Wells asked merchants called upon for contributions to co-operate in the program, pointing out that Texas Tech is one of the largest business firms in the city and directly responsible for much of Lubbock's growth.

Lone Star League Attendance In 1948 Shows Marked Decline

KILGORE, Sept. 21. (AP)—The Lone Star league had a fall-off in attendance of more than 16,000 during the season just closed, figures obtained by the Kilgore News Herald from the eight clubs revealed today.

The total was 412,073 compared to 428,449 last season. Only clubs showing increases were Tyler, Bryan and Gladewater. The latter replaced Jacksonville of last year and had almost 10,000 more attendance than had that city.

The report by clubs: Kilgore 65,564, Longview 63,497, Henderson 47,577, Marshall 37,582, Tyler 65,353 Bryan 42,500, Gladewater 47,500, Lufkin 42,500.

Hearing In Vote Case To Continue

ment," and Stevenson said:

"I would be happy to adopt the judge's suggestion."

Moody Opens Arguments

The first hour of the session, which began shortly after 11 a. m., was filled with the words of attorneys. Former governor Dan Moody, speaking for Stevenson, argued that the court had jurisdiction in the case and John Crooker of Houston, Johnson's attorney, followed him in an attempt to show that the court had no jurisdiction at all.

Joe R. Greenhill of Austin, executive assistant attorney general, then arose to say he was present to represent Paul H. Brown, secretary of state, who is named in Stevenson's suit.

Judge Davidson prefaced his "off record" remarks with the observation that "two candidates for the Senate, both distinguished, are in this courtroom."

"If the people of Texas choose the winner in the general election, then the chances are, he would be allowed to stay in the U. S. Senate for many years, not just for one term.

"It is important that a man be allowed to stay in the Senate for more than one term," the judge said.

"In such a case as this, public sentiment will crystallize into anti-Stevenson and anti-Johnson sentiment. If this case goes to the U. S. Senate, which it may—then you will have the feeling among some in Texas that the winner has won on a technicality."

"Election Contest" Claimed

Crooker had termed the suit an "election contest." He called for Stevenson forces to "come into the election contest with clean hands."

Moody had asserted the suit was not an election contest "for the constitution guarantees a man the right to become a candidate and entitles him to an honest count of the vote."

Earlier Moody had said he was prepared to present testimony that in one Jim Wells county precinct "a ballot box was stuffed and additional votes added."

He said that in each of four precincts in Zapata county votes were taken from Stevenson and given to Johnson. He said Stevenson would contend that the returns in Duval county made a prima facie case of fraud.

Duval Vote Cited

That vote, said Moody, was approximately 4,600 credited to Johnson and only 40 to Stevenson.

Moody said that under Texas law there is no remedy to correct such a wrong as alleged in Stevenson's petition.

"This is a crusade for honesty in the ballot box and protection of this state from fraud deprivation of the people of their choice for this high office," Moody concluded in the opening statement to the court.

Crooker asserted that none of the grounds presented by Stevenson gave the federal court jurisdiction.

He referred to "blood cousins of Stevenson" in Dallas county. He said that county sent in five separate vote returns, each favoring Stevenson. He also mentioned Galveston county, calling it "where the papers are emblazoned with indictments for tombstone voting and other fraudulent irregularities."

The state Democratic convention certified Johnson the Texas Democratic nominee for the Senate by 87 votes. Stevenson obtained an order from Judge Davidson restraining Secretary of State Paul Brown from putting Johnson's name on the general election ballot. The hearing today was on Stevenson's suit for an injunction with the same purpose.

Defiance of the Soviets was voiced by Friedensburg in a letter to Col. Serge Tulpanov, Soviet propaganda chief, rejecting Tulpanov's charges that the deputy mayor and other West German officials incited recent anti-Communist demonstrations.

Band Demonstrations Are Given At High School Meet

Over 100 students and parents met last night in the Senior High school auditorium at which time band and orchestra instructions available to Lubbock public school students from grades five through 10 were introduced.

The Senior High school band was on the stage in uniform to assist in the demonstration. In charge of the meeting were Paul Brannom Senior High director; Harry S. Born, J. T. Hutchinsop Junior High band and orchestra Slaton Junior High director; Benjamin F. Herring, Carroll Thompson Junior High; and J. H. Penn, Senior High orchestra director.

Following the demonstrations, the meeting was broken down into various school groups for further demonstration and discussion.

Before the demonstrations, Joe Haden and Dr. D. O. Wiley, of the music department at Texas Tech, spoke briefly.

Classes in band are to be given Monday and Wednesday afternoons and in orchestra, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Directors in the three junior high schools in the city will give instructions in both band and orchestra.

Children in elementary grades may choose the junior high school in which they will receive such instruction.

Dog Finally Loses Freedom--Officer Almost Loses Hand

A small shaggy-haired dog, who resented interference with what he considered his private business, disrupted a major part of the city police department for a considerable time Tuesday evening, even "resisting arrest" to the extent of biting the hand of a policeman.

"Puppy", a 10-year-old English sheep dog belonging to a member of Cole Brothers circus which played Lubbock last Wednesday, had escaped from a crate at the express office here, when it was being returned from Amarillo after another period of freedom.

Dog Snub Police

First sighted when it passed police headquarters, the dog eluded various members of the department for a long time, turning a cold shoulder to all efforts to entice it into custody.

Running on three legs (the fourth was crippled from some accident in the past), he still managed to keep ahead of pursuit, until two determined officers decided the chase was getting monotonous.

Patrolmen Dickey and Sherrell came upon the fugitive in the vicinity of East Broadway, and Dickey grappled with the animal. "Puppy," a fighter to the end, managed to get his ancient teeth into the hand on "the long arm of the law," the hand belonging to Patrolman Dickey.

Once under custody, the canine gave up peacefully and spent the remainder of his time at headquarters sleeping in a corner behind a desk.

The dog will be shipped by express to its owner at Taylor, where the circus is to play on Thursday.

UN Assembly Meets

dium powers and was chairman of the assembly committee which voted the Palestine partition plan last fall.

Big Three Meet Again

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britan and France met for the second time in two days to map their next move in the battle with the Soviet Union over Berlin.

This problem involved the basic issue of East-West differences which is the major concern of the delegates to the world peace organization.

But Palestine clearly dominated the day's assembly proceedings in the flag-draped Palais De Chaillot just across the Seine river from the Eiffel tower.

The body of Count Bernadotte of Sweden, UN mediator killed by assassins in Jerusalem last Friday, passed through Paris en route to Sweden just a few hours before the Assembly convened.

Delegates and French leaders paid honor to Bernadotte in a brief ceremony at Orly airport.

Bernadotte Pair Tribute

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the UN, also paid tribute to Bernadotte in a brief talk to the Assembly and the delegates stood one minute in silence out of respect to the mediator and other UN people who have been killed in Palestine.

Bernadotte's final report recognized the existence of Israel as a state, said its boundaries must be fixed by the UN if the Jews and Arabs could not agree on them, and declared peace must be imposed in Palestine by any possible means. It recommended revisions of boundaries set forth in the original partition plan.

ed by driving rain and bay water tossed into them by the high winds. Damage in the city was limited to palm trees, power lines, unprotected windows and billboards.

The Red Cross sent an evacuation train to the Lake Okeechobee area to remove about 3,500 persons to safer areas. Shelters were prepared for the refugees at Sebring, Avon Park, and Lake Placid. A second train was held in readiness to remove others in the lake area.

Storm Loses Strength

The storm increased in intensity rapidly as it roared over the keys. Its violence dropped just as quickly when it began the inland journey into Florida.

"The hurricane is over land now and it can be expected that it will lose force until it passes over water again," said Norton.

Reports of damage already began to trickle in All docks at Tavernier, midway down to the Florida keys, were reported washed away. A filling station at Modello, near Homestead, was blown across communications lines, knocking out the wires and two poles.

The storm, fourth of the season but the first to threaten Florida, spread over an area of 300 miles.

The hurricane tossed up a small tornado on its fringe in the Homestead, Fla., section. The twister knocked down a farm house, damaged several others and tumbled a one and a half ton truck along the ground. No one was injured.

Other labor developments:

Oil: Director Max W. Ball of the Interior department's gas and oil section said that if the west coast refinery strike continues "the whole country will feel its effects this winter." Negotiations continued in California to end the 18-day-old deadlock.

Rubber: A company spokesman at Goodyear Tire and Rubber company's No. 1 plant at Akron, O., said a work stoppage had seriously curtailed production. The stoppage started Saturday when three men left their jobs in a dispute over a change in timing of a mixed operation. The company suspended the men and other employes walked out. A continuation of the walkout could cause the plant to shut down, making 3,000 idle, the company said.

Electric: Negotiations were completed to give 6,000 warehouse and distribution employes of Western Electric company average hourly wage increases of "slightly better" than 11 cents. The Communication Workers of America (independent) said the agreement would have to be ratified by members in 29 cities. He said the boost would make the country-wide wage $1.48 hourly.

Electrical and automotive equipment: Some 1,200 workers in three AFL unions at five Noblitt-Sparks Co. plants in Columbus, Ind., struck and set up picket lines. The union is seeking a 16 cents hourly wage boost and a union shop.

Navy Wants To Take Over Hensley Field For Jet Planes

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Navy wants to take over Hensley field near Dallas and expand it for use of jet aircraft.

The Air Force presently holds the lease on Hensley field and action probably will not be taken until after a joint Air Force-Navy board comes here to survey the situation.

If the Navy plan goes through, it would expand one runway from 5200 to 7500 feet and build hangars and jet fuel tanks.

The Navy made the proposal to assume command of Hensley field some time ago, but the Air Force was hesitant for fear its activities might be restricted.

spoken more than two score times since Friday night.

HST Renews Charges

He told trainside crowds that Congress had cut funds for the West. At Glenwood Springs, Colo., he spoke up for development of shale oil deposits in view of the drain on the nation's petroleum resources.

Mr. Truman, his hoarseness of Monday considerably allayed, had a good time joking with the crowds. He turned again and again to the West's resources, saying the development of the section assumed a "rolling advancement" after Franklin D. Roosevelt became President.

It was a busy day too for the Republican and Democratic vice presidential candidates. Governor Earl Warren reached St. Louis on his special train for a speech and received a greeting from a crowd along the streets figured at 50,000 to 75,000. The reception was complete with ticker tape, confetti and aerial bombs.

Big Crowds Hear Barkley

Senator Barkley of Kentucky spoke three times in Delaware. Opening a nationwide speaking tour, he laid stress on the Democratic farm record.

Like the other three leaders of the major party tickets, Barkley enjoyed large crowds.

Noting Governor Dewey's endorsement of the policy of price supports for farm products, Barkley said: "Well, isn't that wonderful, but who started that? We are glad to welcome the new candidate for President on the Republican ticket into the Democratic party."

Dewey told his Denver audience that the administration has 12 agencies to handle oil. He said oil "is too vital to have so many cooks spoiling the broth." He proposed "a wise and intelligent use of oil reserves in this country in the closest cooperation with the states of the union."

A score of our critical metals are running low, Dewey said, and proposed to "encourage the development of superior technical skills as well as new investment so as to increase our reserves and our national security."

Soil Conservation Created

Farmers, he said, "are doing the greatest job of soil conservation in the world" and a government is needed "that really wants to help them to do the job which only they can do."

"We want less regimentation and more education and technical assistance in the field," he said.

He gave "much credit" to the guidance of the soil conservation service and land grant schools.

We are cutting 50 per cent more saw timber than is being replaced, Dewey went on. He said a program to maintain a consistent reserve of timber could be planned through federal, state and local cooperation.

"With a government which is genuinely interested in evolving tax programs and forest regulations to preserve a steady timber supply," he said, "we can stop the waste of our timber resources. We can start to build again."

Turning to water and its use, Dewey said that "the mighty rivers of the West should be developed with a view to the widest possible use for conservation, power, navigation, flood control, reclamation and irrigation."

He urged "unified programs" to do the job and that "no little supermen from Washington be put in centralized control." The people in the areas "must have a full share in the planning, the construction and in the operation of the projects," he said.

Dewey, noting "a good deal of argument about reclamation appropriations," said the Republican 80th Congress had appropriated for the reclamation bureau "the highest figure in our history. I guess that settles that argument."

Mr. Wertz was a member of the Amarillo Rotary club. He had gone to Boston to consult a physician, friends said.

Milk Price Boost

sumers: To the first group in order to keep their producers—already decreasing in number, to the second to maintain a fair margin of profit for themselves after the increase to the first group.

Matter of Self Defense

One of the major producers had just that to say about the situation: While his company had not yet raised prices, he said, it would have to "fall in line" in order to keep their producers from selling milk to some other distributors where higher prices were paid.

"It's just a matter of protecting ourselves," he said.

The spokesman did not know just how soon his company would put price increases into effect.

On the other hand, Bell Ice Cream Co., plans to raise its prices on milk to consumers either the latter part of this week or early next week, a spokesman there said Tuesday afternoon.

The company raised its prices to producers Tuesday, he said, to conform with those announced Monday by McIlhaney.

He thought price increases on milk to consumers would meet those of the other dairy company.

Must Keep Balance

A third local milk distributor felt that little else could be done except hike prices on milk products to both producers and consumers. The management said Tuesday afternoon that the company intends to pay whatever is necessary to protect its milk supply and still maintain a fair margin of profit

The company, he went on, has the interests of two people—the consumer on the one hand, and the producer on the other.

If, he explained, the distributor kept prices paid to producers at the same level while others paid more, in order to keep prices to consumers the same, he might soon have no producers—and no milk—since they naturally would take their product to the distributor who paid the most.

Again, if he increased his prices to producers and kept prices to consumers the same, he would have little or no profit and could not stay in business.

Move Was Not Expected

The initial announcement of the price increase came as a surprise, since only Saturday a majority of milk distributors here had agreed that no increase in milk prices was likely or would increase the supply of milk.

More than one of the local distributors considered the move badly timed, and regretted any further interruptions in the price structure.

The announcement by the McIlhaney firm said the new price increase involves both sweetmilk and buttermilk, and is effective in both wholesale and retail circles.

The increase would boost the price to 23 cents a quart for grade A milk, house delivery basis, the same as in Abilene where an increase became effective last week. Midland's price was upped to 24 cents.

McIlhaney said the increase was necessary because of increasing costs in all phases of the industry, and in an effort to induce more production through the increase to producers.

Milk production has been lagging more and more in recent months, thus pressing distributors to supply their customers, for several reasons:

One distributor said strong efforts have been made to replace cows in depleted herds of producers, but that cows cannot be found.

Increase in consumer demand for milk, and high grain, feed, and cotton prices which would afford a farmer more profit for less work were other outstanding reasons for shortages.

SOLON CALLS FOR INDICTMENT

Atom Spy Action Against Two Scientists, Mystery Man Urged

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Rep. McDowell (R-Pa.), declared today that the Justice department should seek indictments against two American scientists and a third person on atom bomb spy charges.

McDowell, acting chairman of the House UnAmerican Activities committee, flatly refused to identify the three.

At the same time, he disclosed that the committee, which has been conducting a closed-door investigation of atomic espionage, may meet this week to decide whether or not to terminate this phase of the Communist probe without holding public hearings.

May Issue Report

McDowell explained that in the interest of national security it may be advisable to issue a report instead of holding public hearings which might accidentally lead to disclosures that would help foreign agents.

He said all members of the committee may not return to Washington until Friday so that its decision may not be made before that time.

McDowell said that the two scientists he suspects of espionage worked on the wartime atomic bomb project and are American citizens. He said he was not sure of the citizenship of the third.

McDowell said he did not have in mind Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the National Bureau of Standards, who has been accused by a subcommittee as being "one of the weakest links" in the nation's atomic security program.

He added that the third suspect was not a scientist and did no work on the atomic bomb but was active in Soviet attempts to steal atomic secrets.

All Have Been Questioned

McDowell revealed that all three of the persons he thinks should be indicted have been questioned by spy probers.

He thus ruled out the possibility that the third suspect was Arthur Adams, identified by the committee as a "very important Soviet agent assigned to get America's radar and atomic secrets."

Adams, who has fled the country, has never appeared as a witness, McDowell told newsmen:

"In my opinion, on the basis of evidence we have, any reasonable official of the Justice department could get at least three indictments against persons we have heard.

"I will recommend to the full committee that in its reports on atomic espionage, it call on the Justice department to bring the matter before a federal grand jury for indictment."

Scientists Are Named

Scientists known to have been questioned by the committee are Dr. Martin Kamen, St. Louis; Dr. C. F. Hiskey, New York; Dr. John Hitchcock Chapin, New York, and Dr. Joseph Weinberg, Minneapolis, all of whom worked on the wartime atomic bomb project.

However, there are other scientists who have never been revealed by the committee.

McDowell disclosed that the probe of atomic espionage began as early as last June—some three months before the unit announced that atomic espionage was under investigation.

McDowell said that in June and the early part of the summer, individual committeemen took turns conducting unheralded sessions at night to escape public notice. He said that a number of scientsts were questioned at the highly secret sessions.

The committee today questioned two German refugees and Weinberg, 31-year-old assistant professor of physics at the University of Minnesota where he is doing research on cosmic rays.

Weinberg formerly was a part-time consultant at the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley. This work came under the wartime atomic bomb project.

Weinberg told newsmen he answered all questions of the committee. In response to a reporter's question, he said he was not a Communist.

The two German refugees quizzed were Dr. and Mrs. Paul Massin, of New York. McDowell said they were "completely cooperative" witnesses who had information on espionage gained after their arrival in this country in 1937.

The unit briefly questioned Charles Clarke, a Cleveland attorney who during the war was an Army intelligence officer. He was described as a friendly though minor witness.

Sales Campaign And Safety Talk Given At Lions Meeting

A talk on traffic safety by Sgt. T. C. Laws of the Texas Highway patrol, and an announcement of a Friday morning coffee-and-doughnuts meeting of all club members for a one-hour concentrated sales campaign on "Queen For a Day" tickets for that radio program's three-day appearance at the fair next week were highlights of the Lions club luncheon Tuesday noon at Hilton hotel.

Elmer East, general chairman of the club's committee supervising the radio show, was given an almost unanimous show of hands when he called for those who would participate in the ticket sales campaign.

The group is to meet at 8:15 o'clock Friday at the Hilton, outline a concentrated downtown campaign, then from 9 to 10 o'clock are to fan out over the city in a whirlwind sales effort.

East explained that the club has underwritten a $9,000 guarantee for the Jack Bailey show which will go out from here over a national network as one of the features of the Panhandle South Plains fair Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Tickets are $1.50 each, including admission to the fair grounds.

Speaking on traffic safety, Sgt. Laws believes that the lack of common courtesy when a person is behind the wheel of an automobile is responsible for many accidents. He compared the "hell for leather" attitude of many drivers to their usually meek and wholly courteous actions under other circumstances.

Laws said 19 persons have died in this county in traffic accidents already this year, and said at the present rate 25 to 26 will die during the year, compared with a total of 13 deaths in the county last year.

The speaker was introduced by Gene Quest, program chairman. Club President Wayne Henly was in the chair. He announced that no luncheon will be held next week, but that all members will be expected to report at the fair grounds to help with the show there. Invocation was by Judge G. V. Pardue.

X-Ray Tests Are Given Total Of 1,098 During First Day

Tuberculosis x-ray tests were started at Texas Technological college Monday, and according to Mrs. R. R. Rondeau of the State Health department, 1,098 students and faculty members had been x-rayed at 6 p.m.

Giving of the x-rays will continue until noon Saturday, and Dr. Agnes True, professor of physchology and education and chairman of the student welfare committee, has expressed the hope that everyone connected with the college take the tests.

The tests are being given to all students, faculty members and employes of the college who want them, and no charge is being made. Conducted by a mobile unit of the state health department, they were made possible largely through sale of Christmas seals by the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association.

Britain Less Inclined To Fear War Than U. S., Survey Shows

BY GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 21.—Are we going to have another war?

That question in the minds of the man in the street in a dozen or more capitals of the world takes on increasing significance in view of the Berlin crisis and of Secretary George Marshall's statement last week that American-Russian relations are "deteriorating."

There is substantial fear of war among the people of many countries, an international poll shows. Polling organizations in nine nations, affiliates of the World Gallup Polls, put the question of war within ten years to voters in each country and found that there is greatest fear in Italy, the United States and Canada.

However, in the United States less than one-third think we will be involved in war within the next year.

"Do you think there will be another big war within the next ten years?"

Here are the views of the people in the nine countries:

	Will Be War	Will Not	No Opin.
Italy	58%	26%	16%
UNITED STATES	57	26	17
Canada	56	25	19
Norway	53	27	20
Holland	52	34	14
Denmark	46	22	32
Sweden	36	53	11
England	35	36	29
Finland	28	42	30

"While these polls measure what the public thinks will happen, they cannot by any stretch of the imagination be taken as any sort of forecast of actual events. The importance of the survey lies in the relation between fear of war and people's attitudes on national policies.

The way the people in various countries view the international situation so far as war is concerned will determine how they will vote on issues of national defense, on foreign policy and may determine what kind of leaders they will elect to represent them.

In the United States the poll put to voters in a separate but comparable cross-section a question concerning war in the immediate future, as follows:

"Do you think the United States will find itself in another war within, say, the next year?"

UNITED STATES

Yes	32%
No	54
No opinion	14

Those who voted yes were asked: "Who do you think will be responsible for starting the war?" The vote:

Russia	24%
U.S.A.	3
Other	4
Don't know	3
	34*

(*Adds to more than 32% because some respondents gave more than one answer).

One interesting sidelight of the international poll is that several countries bordering on Russia or close to her geographically seem to fear war less than some of the nations more distant from Russia's borders.

Thus, Finland, Sweden and Denmark are among the nations showing the least fear of war in the next ten years.

The people of England, while not geographically close to Russia, also seem to have comparatively little fear. This survey was completed before the British government announced its program for rearming.

Minor Changes Are Announced For Four Elementary Schools

Four elementary schools of Lubbock were affected by minor changes announced Tuesday afternoon by Superintendent R. W. Matthews.

Since it was found possible to equip one room at Dupre school with rest room facilities, the School for Exceptional Children has been moved to that school. Mrs. Josephine Ballenger is teacher of the 12 handicapped and crippled children who attend this special school.

During the first two weeks of the school year the exceptional children had been attending at the Cottage school, so the change allowed fifth grade students in the Cottage zone to be moved from K. Carter to the Cottage school. This alleviated a crowded condition at K. Carter which necessitated using the school cafeteria as a classroom during a portion of the school day, Matthews said.

At East Broadway where 97 students are enrolled in the third grade it was necessary to put these students on a half day session. The superintendent explained that he could arrange to have a school bus transport one room of third grade children from the East Broadway school to another school building each day, and should enough parents approve this plan the half-day session for the third grades would not be necessary. It would be possible to pick up the students at the Broadway school campus to take them to another school should parents approve such a plan to avoid the half-day schedule.

Cities May Swing Vote To Wet Column In Kansas Showdown

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 21 (U.P.)—The cities may vote to repeal Kansas' 68 - year - old constitutional prohibition in November, but it appeared today the rural areas would remain bone dry.

That is the way it was in 1934 when Kansas last voted on the wet-dry issue. The repeal measure was defeated then by 89,044 votes in 884,332 cast.

Sixteen counties went wet in 1934, among them the state's three largest—Sedgwick, Wyandotte and Shawnee.

A United Press survey of numerous smaller counties revealed today that most of them want prohibition to stick, as contrasted to a survey of the larger counties which want repeal.

Many observers have pointed out that the population shift in recent years from the small, dry areas to the more populous centers will prove enough to give the wets a victory Nov. 2.

Evidence Obtained Horse Meat Being Sold In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 21. (AP)—Evidence has been obtained that horse meat is being sold here for human consumption, Dr. A. E. Wharton, chief veterinarian for the city health department, said today.

Tests conducted by the city and state health departments of meat samples from three restaurants definitely indicated presence of horse meat, he said.

One of the restaurants subsequently was closed and charges are to be filed against several persons during the week.

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 21. (Special)—Lamb county's first post-war annual county fair will get underway here Wednesday at 10 a. m., with a mammoth parade which will be officially started by Cong. George Mahon.

The Littlefield Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by its president, Rhenard McCary, will have charge of the parade. Over 30 floats and miscellaneous displays have thus far been entered in the parade, under sponsorship of various civic clubs and firms. A prize of $25 for the best float is being offered, $15 for the second best, and $10 for the third.

The parade, which will march through downtown Littlefield, will be led by the Littlefield High school Wildcat band.

The Lamb County Fair association, organized last year by the local Chamber of Commerce, is in charge of this year's fair, which lasts through Saturday.

Officers of the fair association are: President, Jess Elms, Littlefield; first vice president, G. T. Sides, Olton; secretary-treasurer, Alvin Webb, Littlefield; and Jim Roberts, general manager.

The association also has a board of directors composed of men from every town in the county.

The association has added five new buildings to the fair plant, bringing the total number of buildings to six. Included are the merchant's exhibit building, agriculture building, women's exhibit building, two cattle barns, and a horse barn.

It is planned that this first postwar fair will mirror the agriculture and livestock products of the area and provide a varied entertainment program with special appeal for the entire family.

Fair officials said tonight that record numbers of entries have been made in every department.

A highlight of the fair will come Thursday night with the inception of the first annual Lamb County Square Dance festival. The event is to begin at 8 p. m. in the rodeo arena with costume exhibition dances, followed by contests, after which a gold loving cup will be awarded to the wining dancers.

Dance teams from Amarillo, Lubbock, and Littlefield will participate.

Wednesday, starting day for the fair, has been named Children's Day and a band concert by the Little High school band will start the event off. All schools in the county will dismiss classes for the day.

An amateur rodeo sponsored by the Littlefield Roping club will feature performances at 8 o'clock Friday night, and 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Dickens Co-Op Gets REA Grant

SPUR, Sept. 21. (Special) — A $435,000 federal grant that will mean electricity to 350 farm and ranch families in six counties was made by the Rural Electrification administration to the Dickens County Electric co-operative today, Joe M. Rose, president of the board of directors, was advised by a telegram from Sen. Tom Connally.

According to G. Bynum Britton, manager of the co-operative, the funds will finance construction of 360 miles of lines in Motley, Dickens, Crosby, Garza, Kent and Stonewall counties.

A Lubbock engineering firm, H. N. Roberts and Associates, will prepare maps and plans for the project, and a Spur contractor, E. G. Ericson, is already at work on the "D" section, with temporary headquarters in Aspermont.

Members of the co-operative's board of directors are Mr. Rose, S. L. Benefield, secretary, W. L. Buckelew, vice-president, Charlie Witt, Bill Wyatt, A. L. Smith, Elmer Cade, Ben Loe and Melvin Thacker.

Tech Enrollment Sets Record As 6,130 Students Register

Registration at Texas Technological college came to a virtual standstill Tuesday, with only about six more students completing enrollment, to bring the total to 6,130, which falls 367 students short of the most conservative prediction, 6,500.

The 6,130 students, though short of expectations, still broke last year's record 6,114 enrollment for this semester, but by a bare 16 students. It was not known in what division the largest increase was made Tuesday night.

Others Sought Permits

W. P. Clement, registrar, expressed some surprise that 6,503 permits to register were issued and approved, and yet the actual number to register was so much short of that figure. He said that his intentions were to mail letters to at least a part of those who applied for permits and never used them in an attempt to discover the cause for such a large shrinkage.

Enrollment for petroleum engineering at Tech has shown a great increase this fall as a result of the opening of a separate department for petroleum engineering according to W. L. Ducker, professor and head of the department.

"Over 300 students have enrolled in the newly instituted department, representing an increase of over 300 per cent as compared to last spring," Ducker said, adding that much of the increase was due to streamlining of the department.

Construction of a building to house offices and laboratories for the department has been delayed by late shipment of materials, but deliveries have been promised in time for completion of the building before the beginning of the spring semester.

"Over $1,500 worth of equipment, much of which is especially prepared, cut-away models of oil production machinery, has been received, and scientific laboratory equipment will have arrived by

Dillard Trial To Resume Today

The second murder trial of Brewster E. Dillard, Lubbock man charged with the Nov. 1 slaying of Garlon Weaver, will be resumed this morning in 99th district court, following a one-day delay granted Monday by Judge G. V. Pardue on a motion by the defense.

Judge Pardue granted the defense plea for additional time to prepare for trial due to filing of an amended report by the sheriff's department explaining the lack of service on at least 45 members of a special venire panel of 200 called for the trial.

The report showed that those not notified to appear were either occupationally exempt from jury duty, over age, or those who had moved from the county. Because of exemption, and excuses from service allowed by the court, the special venire panel now numbers about 100.

These were instructed by Judge Pardue to report at 9 o'clock this morning, when it was anticipated that selection of a jury would start.

Dillard is charged by indictment with murder, and is facing his second trial on the charge. A previous trial last April resulted in a hung jury.

Farm Demonstration To Be Given North Of City Thursday

A demonstration that will be of interest to many farmers of Lubbock and surrounding counties will be conducted at the J. E. Hancock farm north of Lubbock beginning at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, David W. Sherrill, county agent, announced Tuesday night.

It will be a land levelling demonstration. Various machinery will be demonstrated and the steps necessary to level land for proper irrigation will be explained. There will also be a demonstration of proper irrigation practices on land already levelled.

The Hancock farm is located on the first road north of the municipal airport. It is one-half mile east of the Plainview highway.

The demonstration was arranged by Marshall W. Howard, district conservationist, Hal C. Normand, Soil Conservation service agricultural engineer and Sherrell. All farmers and others interested are invited to attend.

PROGRAM STARTS ON FRIDAY

Field Days For Area Farmers, District 4-H Pig Show Slated

Two field days for farmers of the area Thursday and Friday, and the annual district pig show for 4-H club boys to be held Saturday at the fair grounds, were announced yesterday by W. N. Williamson, district agent of the extension service.

The field days, similar to the one held recently for Lubbock county, when farm and stock demonstrations of various kinds are inspected, were planned in two sections for the convenience of farmers. It is believed that more benefit will be derived by those attending if smaller groups attend each of the two days instead of one large group on the same day.

16 Counties Included

Thursday has been set primarily for farmers in Hale, Dawson, Swisher, Terry, Yoakum, Floyd, Castro, and Parmer counties, and Friday was designated for Lynn, Hockley, Cochran, Lamb, Garza, Crosby, Bailey and Gaines counties.

Williamson explained that farmers or others interested may attend either or both days if they desire, and that Lubbock county was not included in either group on account of the recent field day for them. He said, however, that Lubbock county farmers and others are welcome to attend any or all of the meetings.

The day's program is to start at 10 a. m. at the experiment station, where various crop production and irrigation methods will be observed.

Groups To Visit Tech

In the afternoon, the group will visit individual farms where soil conservation or other outstanding farm practices are being carried out, then will go to Texas Tech college, to inspect farming methods there.

At the college much emphasis is to be placed on livestock, particularly dairying and the artificial insemination program.

Farmers throughout the area were invited to participate in the field days, designed to inform them on the latest developments in crop production.

The district 4-H club pig show, to be held in the swine barns at the fair grounds Saturday afternoon, is expected to bring entries from at least 12 counties in the annual awards contest sponsored by the Sears Foundation.

Winners in this county are to be selected at the Lubbock county show Saturday morning. Other county shows have already been held, or will be held before Saturday, and county winners over the area compete that afternoon in the district show here.

Arguments Seen Against Forcing Showdown Over War With Russia

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN—If war with Russia is inevitable, would it be better to have it now or later?

The American colony in Berlin, official and unofficial, seems to me to be pretty well agreed that war with Russia will come, some day, unless there is a revolutionary divorce between Russian Communism and the traditional policies of Russian imperialism.

There is less agreement on whether we should fight now, if Russia attempts to take one more step forward, or whether we should temporize, re-arm on a defensive basis and give time a chance to work.

Must Take Stand

In Berlin, the question of whether we should take the risk of war now very largely boils down to whether we shall get out of here or stand firm at all costs.

You can get an argument here over whether the state of American unpreparedness is as vital a factor in this question as you might think. Some of the real experts in this deepest outpost within the sphere which Russia would like to call her own, think that we should risk war now, and that if it comes we might well be better off than if we compromise our position now and have to fight later.

They say that Russia is arming even more desperately than we, that time is not going to make much change in the ratio of strength, and that time might give the Russians the atom bomb and the Air Force which are now our greatest reliance. They argue that the United States cannot continue indefinitely under the strain of our present outlays in the anti-Communist campaign, and that the threat to our institutions through a resulting economic collapse would be greater than the chance of our defeat in war.

Others Argue For Talks

Nobody pretends to know whether there is any chance for a collapse of the imperialist Communist hierarchy before it tests its strength in combat for control of the world. But there are those who argue so long as we don't know there is no chance, we should not force the issue. That so long as we don't have war there is a chance for something else.

They also argue that war cannot really settle such an ideological dispute as now obtains; that, as Abraham Lincoln said, it cannot settle the issues which caused it; that war might even solidify the determination of Communism throughout the world, just as it solidified the Russian people against Germany; that the present drain on our economy is as nothing compared to the drain of war, and that we might well win a military campaign only to find that we had lost all that we were fighting for; that immoral ideas must be beaten down not by war, but by moral ideas.

I am inclined to agree with the latter, that war had best be put off until every other alternative is exhausted. Yet I agree that life is not so sweet that it should be lived in chains. I agree that to retreat from Berlin would be disastrous. It could only mean retreat to stand somewhere else, or to bow eventually to aggressive threats. If we have to decide whether to give up Berlin or fight, I shall probably stand on the side of fighting. With full knowledge that, should war develop, my conscience will torture me for endless days over what might have been had we only taken a little more time.

Joe Louis Learns Quitting Is Hard, To Fight One More

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—One of the hardest things in life for any man to master is the fine art of quitting.

This 24-karat truth is pointed up anew by the decision of Joseph Louis, the eminent pugilist, to resume his former calling.

At the ripe old age of 34, having amassed enough gelt to cushion his declining years, Joe announced he was through with his precision fistic bombing. He decided to trade in his gloves on a typewriter and launch a new career as a columnist-commentator for a Harlem newspaper.

One More Fight

Trying a new job was no mental hurdle to Joe. He was a newsboy, shined shoes, ran errands, delivered ice and worked in an automobile factory before he found how easy he could quintuple his income merely by doubling his fists.

But now Joe has changed his mind again—as have may champions who wanted to quit at the top—and he's going to try one more fight next June, when he'll be 35.

"Just one more, Joe."

It's hard to resist that plea. Sometimes the plea comes from within a champion's own heart. More often it comes from his retainers and the men around him who want to keep him in action to finish feathering their own nests.

Hard To Resist Plea

It's true of politicians, businessmen and warriors as well as athletes. There's always a group that wants them to stay in there pitching after their own minds tell them it's time to step down.

"Just once more," they're told. "We need you. We can't win this time without you. Just once more."

It is hard to resist such flattering pressure, the "You're-the-only-one-who-can-do-it" flattery. And so the aching muscle or the weary mind goes back "just once more" into the fray. And too often what happens is what happened to Jim Jeffries when he emerged from retirement for a flabby rendezvous with Jack Johnson at Reno in 1910, to Jack Dempsey when he took on Gene Tunney a second time, and to Napoleon when he met a fellow called "the Iron Duke" at a wide place in the road called Waterloo.

Freshmen English Students To Be Given Tests At Tech

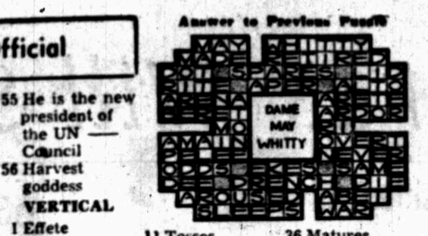

Freshmen English students at Texas Technological college this fall are being sectionized according to their present knowledge of English fundamentals, Dr. Truman W. Camp, head of the English department has announced.

"Grades made on entrance examinations will be combined with the grade which each student will make on a theme which his present instructor will assign to determine just how much of the basic principals of English the student knows, and how much must yet be taught to him, and he will be sectionized accordingly," Dr. Camp stated.

Ten sections have been kept open to allow students to be sectionized according to their averages, he said.

"This method, it is hoped, will enable those students who have slight knowledge of English to receive more instruction on the basic principals, and eliminate, to some extent, repetition of material that students already know," Dr. Camp said.

Norris-Newton Feud Continues At Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 21, (U.P.)—Dr. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth, today continued his feud with Dr. Louie D. Newton, Atlanta Baptist minister, over Communism.

An informal disposition hearing was scheduled in Newton's study during which Norris said he would ask Newton to answer 17 or more pointed questions about the Atlanta clergyman's relations with Russia.

They were the same questions, plus a few more, that Newton refused to answer during last year's Baptist convention at St. Louis, Norris said.

Norris claimed he had the chance now to force Newton to answer the questions or be in contempt of court. Today's hearing reportedly was to be oral with no court officer higher than a justice of the peace present.

The hearing was a sidelight to a libel suit filed by Norris against Columbus, Ga., newspapers. He said Newton's name was mentioned by the Columbus papers in an editorial he claimed libeled him.

Newton was to be represented by counsel at the meeting today and said he did not care to discuss the case prematurely.

Newton said he did not know if Norris would appear personally at his study but added that "he will of course be welcome."

The answers Norris has been trying to get out of Newton grew out of Newton's visit to the Soviet Union and several speeches he made to Southern Baptists concerning his views on American-Russian relations.

Norris accused Newton, a former president of the Southern Baptist convention, of advocating an appeasement policy toward Russia.

Warning Is Given Latin-Americans

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. (INS)—President James S. Kemper of the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production 21 warned Latin-American countries to tread cautiously before wishing for themselves a Marshall Plan.

He warned in his address before the commerce and production group in Chicago that the Latin-American leaders should make exhaustive research of such a plan's possible effect on their free enterprise economies.

Kemper said his warning was based on fears already being voiced by European businessmen, adding:

"Our counterparts in Europe unanimously deplore the fact that under the Marshall Plan too many American dollars are being used to fasten the yoke of Socialism around their necks."

He said European businessmen have expressed to him more often of late that "windfall aid of the nature of the Marshall Plan" places recipient nations uhder extreme political pressure at home to spend the money for public works and other social projects which are not self-liquidating.

In another address, W. L. Hemingway, chairman of the U. S. Inter-American council, told the Latin-Americans that cooperation between North and South America could preserve a Democratic system throughout the hemisphere.

He said:

"This council can make great contributions to the cause of sound thinking and fair dealing, and this meeting affords the opportunity to do so. I hope it will not fail."

Mexican Workers Found Less Anxious To Work In U.S. Fields

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21 (AP)—Mexicans are less anxious than formerly to go to the United States on long work trips.

Officials said today that thousands may cross the border illegally, as the Texas border is close to home. But it is increasingly difficult to get braceros (workers) of good character and health for such things as cotton picking in Missouri, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Complaints by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) in Washington, yesterday were answered today by Jose Herrera, in charge of the bracero contracts, and other officials.

There is no disagreement with the facts Sen. Eastland presented, but the delay in gettting 25,000 or 30,000 men for the three states, Herrera says, is not entirely Mexico's fault.

One delay, Herrera said, is transportation which United States employers were to furnish if needed. Trains from Monterrey to the border are limited and the employers were to send trucks if requested.

Mitchum, Three Co-Defendants Arraigned On Drug Charge

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP)—Robert Mitchum, glowering screen hero, and three co-defendants will plead Sept. 29 to narcotic charges.

They were arraigned today at a brief hearing in superior court, and remain at liberty under $1,000 bond.

Named with Mitchum are starlet Lila Leeds dancer Vicki Evans and Robin Ford, real estate dealer, all arrested three weeks ago in a raid on a secluded cottage in Lauren canyon where police said a marijuana cigaret smoking party was in progress. They were indicted by the grand jury on charges of possessing and conspiring to possess marijuana.

Turks May Get U. S. Destroyers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Turkish fleet soon may be bolstered by several modern American destroyers, diplomatic officials said today.

Negotiations for the transfer under this country's Greek-Turkish military aid program are in the final stage, they said.

The destroyers would add considerable striking power to the generally outdated naval forces with which Turkey guards the strategic Dardanelles.

Last spring the U. S. Navy turned over four modern long range submarines, eight minesweepers, and other support vessels to the Turks. In addition, American aircraft carriers have been ferrying planes and other military equipment to help this key Middle Eastern country guard against any Communist aggression.

Dewey Takes Slap At GOP Candidate

GREELEY, Colo., Sept. 21 (INS) — Gov. Thomas Dewey took an unwitting slap at the Colorado Republican candidate for governor today as he addressed a crowd from a platform erected in a small park near the railroad tracks in Greeley.

A small airplane equipped with a loudspeaker droned over Dewey's head, prompting him to say:

"I've competed with a lot of things but never an airplane. He's no friend of mine. He has a loudspeaker but mine is louder than his."

The plane is chartered by Dave Hamil, the Republican governor candidate, and was following the train while Hamil boarded it for the trip into Denver.

FOUR MEN HELD

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (U.P) — Four men were held today following their arrest as suspects in narcotic traffic.

DEWEYS REGISTER—Republican presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey and Mrs. Dewey register for the November election at the central board of registration in New York. The New York governor will be on a campaign tour during the regular registration period, Sept. 27 through Oct. 2. (AP Wirephoto).

Negro Pastor Helps Capture Holdup Men At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (U.P)—A negro pastor, suspicious when a car roared past him forcing him from the road, was responsible for the capture early today of four filling station holdup men.

The capture came less than two hours after the quartet, which "hadn't really intended to keep the money," took $35 to $40 in cash from W. B. Getton at the point of a toy pistol.

The 55-year-old minister was identified as S. A. Wells, pastor of the Friendly Church of God. He noted the license number of the car and the occupants were picked up shortly afterwards.

Robert Louis Stevenson called the inhabitants of Samoa the "gayest of the Polynesians."

Armed Forces Have Mobilization Plans

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The United States armed forces, for the first time, have a sheaf of strategic plans which tell each service how it will fight if war should come tomorrow or in the next few years.

This was disclosed indirectly today when the national military establishment let it be known that the joint chiefs of staff has completed and filed with the munitions board a listing of the materials needed for a sudden "mobilization day."

Preparation of this list would have been impossible if the hitherto rival armed forces—army, navy, air and marines—had not finally agreed on:

1. The precise mission of each service in war.
2. What materials would be needed for those missions. This involves an allocation among the services of such commodities as steel, weapons such as aircraft and industrial manpower.

The strategic plans, top secret documents, presumably are based on a number of assumptions and actually composed of a folio of alternate plans.

BOY IS ARRESTED

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (U.P) — A Riverside boy, 15, was returned here today from Houston after his arrest there for passing more than $115 in bad checks. He had been missing from home since Sept. 9.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED

TOKYO, Sept. 21 (U.P) — The Japanese board of trade today signed a contract to import iron ore from Brazil, the first such agreement to be signed since the war.

Wages lost annually by factory workers due to accidents would buy a year's supply of food and clothing and pay the rent for a year for nearly 1,500,000 people.

Bandleader Fails To Get Top Billing In Annulment Suit

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. (INS) — Bandleader Artie Shaw failed to get preferential billing in Supreme Court today in his annulment suit against authoress Kathleen Winsor.

Rejecting Shaw's petition for an immediate trial of his action and Kathleen's counter-suit for separation, Justice Francis McNally declared:

"A reading of the motion papers leads the court to the conclusion that no interests of justice could be served by the granting of this application. It would merely serve the interests of this plaintiff alone to the prejudice of countless other cases ahead of his on the calendar."

Shaw had objected to paying a $150 weekly alimony award pending trial and had run up a $1,050 arrears bill. Today, it was learned, he has turned over the back payments to Arnold Krakower, Kathleen's attorney, and is now in good alimony standing.

the opening of the new building," Ducker said.

New Sections Added

It has been necessary to add new sections to many courses in the engineering division according to Dean O. V. Adams, and some sections have been scheduled at night. Dr. R. G. Sidwell announced that some sections have been added in the Geology department also, but none at night.

H. A. Anderson stated that enrollment of veterans has taken a sharp decline this fall, falling approximately 800 short of the 3,500 registered last fall.

A formal reception is being given tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock in Drane Hall on the campus for Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiggins and Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Jones. Dr. Wiggins and Dr. Jones began duties September 1 as president and vice president respectively. The reception is being given by the Faculty club in honor of the two new executives of the college. In the reception line will be two representatives from the faculty club, S. M. Kennedy, president, and William Whittington, vice-president; Dr. and Mrs. Wiggins and Dr. and Mrs. Jones.

Texas MP Shot To Death In Kansas; Investigation Set

FORT RILEY, Kas., Sept. 21. (AP) —Pvt. Robert F. Dane, 19, a member of the 10th military police company, was shot and killed by another MP early today as they entered the center guardhouse here to go on duty.

Dane, son of Jake Dane of route 2, Pilot Point, Tex., was killed instantly when shot in the chest by a 45-caliber automatic pistol.

A preliminary investigation, Army authorities said, indicate the shooting was accidental. Further investigation is being made.

SWEEPING SOVIET ACTION MAY BE TAKEN AGAINST UNREST

Red Leaders Of East Europe May Be Holding New Conferences In Moscow On Next Diplomatic Step

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—American diplomats believe Russia has called in leaders of the Soviet satellite countries for secret conferences on the next major move of the Communist bloc.

Top Communist stalwarts in several of the five satellites loyal to Moscow were reported today to be absent from their posts. One is known to be in Russia and officials suspect others are there also for talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. He stayed in Moscow when the foreign ministers of the other Big Four powers—the United States, Britain and France—went to Paris for the the opening session today of the UN General Assembly.

Other Officials Missing

The satellite leaders "on vacation" in Russia or otherwise missing from their posts include:

President Klement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia. He went this month to the Crimea ostensibly for a vacation, accompanied by the Soviet ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

Ana Pauker, Romania's foreign minister, whose post at Bucharest has been taken by Eduard Mezincescu as acting foreign minister, according to official advices.

George Dimitrov, Bulgarian prime minister, who is officially on vacation but is rumored to have gone to Russia.

Mathew Rakosi, deputy prime minister of Hungary and dynamic figure in Communist seizure of power in that country last year, also had been out of public view but is now reported to have turned up at a public function yesterday in Budapest.

Next Move Awaited

There was nothing in the reports to indicate that Poland, which has just undergone a Communist internal purge, also may have sent a top official to Moscow. Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia, at odds with the cominform, would hardly be represented at any Moscow meeting at the moment.

The reports came from several capitals. They served to revive speculation that:

(1) Russia plans to push the current Communist campaign to collectivize the peasants in Soviet bloc lands or

(2) May even be planning to absorb some of the satellites into the Soviet Union.

Until recent weeks diplomatic authorities discounted recurrent rumors that Russia might absorb Romania and possibly Czechoslovakia just as the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were forcibly incorporated into the U.S.S.R. in the early stages of World War II. The split with Tito, and other developments, have led diplomats to give fresh consideration to the idea.

Secret conferences are in line with the Soviet tradition. Announcement of the formation of the cominform (Communist Information Bureau) last year followed a secret meeting of Russian and satellite Communist leaders "somewhere in Poland."

International control of Samoa was arranged after a hurricane in 1889 wrecked rival U. S., British and German warships in Apia harbor during a dispute over sovereignty.

Rites Set Thursday For Negro Dentist

Funeral services will be conducted at New Hope Baptist church at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon for Dr. Clarence Lyons, about 44, of 1617 Ave. B, negro dentist who came to Lubbock 16 years ago with $16 and had accumulated property valued at about $175,000.

He died at 7:40 o'clock Tuesday morning at Chatman hospital following 10 days' illness.

A Texarkana minister will officiate at services. South Plains Funeral home is directing arrangements.

The day he became ill he saw his picture in public print for the first time in Ebony, negro magazine patterned in style of Life magazine. An article in the magazine classified Dr. Lyons, Dr. J. A. Chatman and William Lusk as the "Big Three" of Lubbock's colored population.

Estate Includes Houses

Included in the dentist's property were about 70 rent houses.

He became ill about 10 days ago with an ordinary case of acute indigestion. He later developed intestinal influenza. Monday morning, he developed double lobar pneumonia.

Dr. Lyons was a Mason, a member of Knights of Pythias, a deacon and treasurer of the New Hope Baptist church, director of the negro nursery and vice president of the Commonwealth club.

He is survived by his wife, Senteele Lyons, and a cousin, Maggie Collins of Gary, Ind.

ONE DEAD IN CRASH

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 21 (INS) — A Springfield minister was killed and nine other persons were injured today in a head-on automobile collision one mile south of Stanton. The Rev. G. W. Smith, pastor of the New Hope Baptist church, died in the crash. Police said one of the cars tried to pass a truck and collided with the other car.

Barbara Stanwyck Signed For New Role In 'Gambling Lady;' Navarro Also To Return

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21—That beaming smile on Bill Goetz' face is because he is able to get Barbara Stanwyck for the title role in "Gambling Lady" at one time hinted for Loretta Young.

Barbara is hotter than a firecracker since "Sorry, Wrong Number," and any producer able to get Hal Wallis to lend her has the "right number' and the right to smile.

"Gambling Lady" is a thriller about a woman who can't stay away from the gambling tables, and loses everything because of her love of it. Gambling becomes as much a vice in her life as femme drinking was in "Smash Up."

Actor Plans Comeback

Once before, Barbara played a lady gambler in "The Lady Eve" movie that put her on the comeback trail after two dull seasons. William Gordon, who directed "Act Of Murder," a movie I found very interesting, will direct "Gambling Lady." Michael Kraile is the producer.

Ramon Navarro, who in the old days was the greatest threat to Rudolph Valentino's supremacy, is coming back to movies.

Ramon, who hasn't made a picture in 10 years, is today on the Columbia lot playing a Cuban revolutionist in "Rough Sketch," with Jennifer Jones and John Garfield. Director John Huston, who signed Ramon, believes he's handsomer today than he was when he was one of the screen's romantic heroes. He now has a small goatee, of all things and a mustache.

Ramon's greatest role was in "Ben Hur," which he made in Italy for MGM many years ago. "Scaramouche" and "The Pagan' were other important movies he made. I'm not sure the younger generation remembers him, but in the old days Ramon Navarro was hot stuff.

The "deal" John Farrow is making with Henry Ginsberg is one of the most flattering that any director could possibly have offered to him.

He is being given a four-year contract without an option, and that's understandable because he's Paramount's money director. He turns out his pictures in record time, and they are good. I have just seen "Night Has A Thousand Eyes" and it is a great melodrama—so was "The Big Clock."

Maureen and the five children will have no financial worries, but then, that's not news, because they never had with John turning out good pictures.

Sought For Film

While Charlie Feldman was in Europe he flew from Paris to London to talk with Helen Hayes about playing the lead in "Glass Menagerie."

Helen was very interested and didn't say no to the proposition. She's coming back home shortly to do a radio show, but she has said she will not do a stage play for a year, because she hasn't felt well.

Every time I have asked Helen if she will make another picture, she always says she feels she isn't glamorous and beautiful enough to be a motion picture star. Well, she doesn't have to be glamorous or beautiful in "Glass Menagerie"—and as for acting, that, nobody can take away from this little lady, who is certainly one of the finest actresses of our day.

'Tokyo Rose' To Face Quick Treason Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21 (INS) No time will be wasted in starting legal proceedings against "Tokyo Rose" after she arrives in San Francisco from Japan this Saturday.

The Los Angeles-born Nisei will be taken immediately before the United States commissioner for the filing of a treason complaint against her.

District Attorney Frank Hennessy of San Francisco announced the complaint would be filed promptly because the law provides that the accused must be taken before the commissioner at the point of entry into the United States.

The complaint will be filed against Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, known to thousands of radio listening service men during the war as "Tokyo Rose."

Thirty-two years old and the wife of a Portuguese resident of Tokyo, Mrs. D'Aquino is being brought to San Francisco from Japan aboard the U. S. Army transport General Hodges. The ship will reach San Francisco on Saturday.

She will appear before a federal grand jury in San Francisco Oct. 6 on an indictment specifying that during the war she served in the interest of Japan.

POTENT EXPERIMENT

New Credit Controls

THE MASSES of the American people will and should watch with much interest and concern the results of the tightened credit controls which went into effect Monday.

The results may be too slight to be noticed by the average person confronted with the problem of making a living. Many competent observers doubt whether the controls will have much affect upon the national economy either for good or bad. The government apparently did not view the lack of credit restrictions with too much alarm. Otherwise the enforcing agencies would not have given more than a month of advance notice that the curbs were to be applied. Seemingly, if the situation had been alarming, the brakes would have been applied promptly.

But the possibility cannot be ignored that the controls may mean something in terms of prices and depression. It may be that reduced demand because of tightened credit restrictions may force the prices of the affected commodities downward. The fly in that particular ointment might be reduced employment. Manufacturers who anticipate a reduced demand for their product will trim payrolls accordingly. Any trend toward unemployment is a trend toward depression.

The effects of the new controls cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy until they actually have been tested. The testing, now begun, will require several months, at the least. A reasonable hope seems to be that the effects, if damaging or dangerous, will become apparent during the congressional session to be convened in January. There is some re-assurance in the feeling that appropriate corrective measures can be adopted, if needed, before the present experiment can do a great deal of damage.

UN Assembly Session

IF THE PRESENT session of the United Nations Assembly in Paris accomplishes nothing else, it should bring into the open much information not previously disclosed pertinent to such mystery-shrouded issues as the Berlin blockade, the Near East and India.

It is seriously questionable whether the Assembly actually can do anything which might solve those and related problems. About all the organization can do is to exercise moral pressure.

But debate in the Assembly, in which the smallest nation has equal voice and representation with the biggest, usually is less restrained than in the UN Security Council, which the great powers dominate. The Assembly is not paralyzed by a veto rule which enables the nation—usually Russia—to nullify efforts of the Council. Assembly members can, and frequently do, discuss and debate with complete frankness many subjects concerning which the Council's attitude has been exceedingly hush-hush.

So, at least, the masses of the world are likely to be better informed concerning what goes on in the trouble spots because of the Assembly proceedings. At worst, existing conditions cannot be made more perilous. The session, in short, seems to offer the prospect of nothing to lose with a possibility—a remote one, perhaps—of something to gain.

Down Memory Lane

IT took Bindle only a second to decide not to hold out against obvious knowledge. He was convinced Sterling had talked.

"Okay, Lieutenant," Bindle said. "I was out here that night. But why should I mess in on a murder?"

"What time were you here?" Talent asked.

"Eleven o'clock."

"A little late for a social call, wasn't it?"

"Sterling owed me 10 grand and he was giving me a runaround. I came out here to collect."

"Did you collect?"

"Not exactly. Not right away." Bindle frowned, chewed his lips. "I'll spill it all to you, Lieutenant," he said. "It can't help you much, now, but it can't hurt, with Sterling dead."

"Let's have it anyway," Talent encouraged.

"We was sitting here, having a couple drinks. Sterling had the news on the radio. He said he didn't want his wife to hear our voices. Sterling said he didn't have any dough, only what his wife gave him. I needed my 10 grand, told Sterling I had to have it. He said he'd go up and talk to his wife. So he went upstairs."

"And that was some time after 11 o'clock. What then?"

"I waited a long time . . . begin to think he took a powder. I went out in the hall. I figured maybe his wife wasn't upstairs at all, that he run out on me the back way. I was just starting up the stairs when I saw Sterling come sneaking out of a door, closing it so nobody could hear him. Then he came down."

"Then what, Harry?"

"Sterling threw his wife's diamond necklace down on this table. He said I'd have to take it as security till he could get the dough."

"And you took the necklace?"

"Only for security. Like he said, it was take that or nothing."

"You took it only for security, but you never returned it, did you?"

Bindle scowled. "Sterling never came after it."

"Weren't you supposed to return it to Sterling inside that roll of newspapers?"

"What roll of newspapers?"

"The one you gave the young lady who delivered 10,000 to you at the Crosstown Hotel?"

"You ain't got nothing like that on me!" Bindle said hotly.

• • •

TALENT motioned to the detective in the hall and Miss Wilson came in, timorously, pale.

"Do you see Mr. Davenport in here, Miss Wilson?" Talent asked.

Miss Wilson's startled eyes rested on Bindle. "He's Mr. Davenport," she said.

"The man who gave you a roll of newspapers for Mr. Sterling in exchange for the package you delivered to him?"

"That's right, Lieutenant."

Talent, on his feet, looked down at Bindle. "But you forgot to put the necklace in those newspapers, didn't you, Harry?" he said. "And you never thought of turning it over to this young lady when she was bringing you a package from Sterling every month during 1941, did you?"

Bindle scowled, made a move to get up, changed his mind.

"How much a month were you collecting from Sterling?"

"He was paying up. He was sending me two grand a month."

"Paying up for what?"

"For what he owed me. That first 10 grand he sent me was hot. He was paying extra because I had to wait so long."

"You knew the first 10 grand was hot and still you hired Joe Steppo to pass out some of it at Belmont. Remember the Lily Francie I mentioned to you this afternoon, Harry? Joe Steppo was her boy friend."

Bindle's eyes flashed poison at Talent. "You're trying to mess me up with something, Lieutenant, but you can't mess me up with what happened here," he said heatedly. "Now I will spill something. I'll show you just what kind of suckers Sterling made out of you cops."

"We'd be glad to hear it, Harry," Talent said.

"OKAY. I went out of here before 12 o'clock. I knew the whole setup was screwy. I knew Sterling had pulled something upstairs. So I watched outside to see what Sterling would do. And I saw plenty. I saw him fix up that window, smash it, come out with a pair of shoes on his hands to make it look like footprints. I saw him knock that clock loose."

"You could see that from the driveway?"

"When he went back in, I stood on the running board of a car and watched. And you ate up his alibi because he moved the clock up to 1:30. It wasn't even 12:30 when he beat it away in a taxicab."

"You probably also noticed that he left the front door unlocked."

"I saw him change the lock, so he could get back in with the shoes on his hands."

"And that is how you were able to come back in here after he drove away, isn't it, Harry?"

"Who said I came back in here?"

"Your thumb print was the last one on the radio dial."

Bindle laughed derisively. "So you think that gives you something on me? I turned off the radio while Sterling was upstairs."

Talent had caught the significance of new voices in the hall. He smiled benignantly at Bindle. "I'm glad you explained that, Harry," he said. "Seems I was making a mistake about it. You've told me a lot to help me, and now you may be able to give me one more little bit of help. It's just possible you will recognize the woman about to come in here."

Bindle's scowl followed the direction indicated by Talent's nod. At that moment, Janet Trapgood stepped in from the hall. She halted abruptly. Trapgood immediately behind her.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

SOME people seem to think that I am very religious because I quote the Bible so often.

Quoting the Bible is not at all proof that one is religious. But it does prove that one respects common sense and wisdom. To me the Bible contains more common sense and more practical wisdom than all the other books together.

BRANDEIS

Let me give an example.

In the seventh chapter of St. Matthew it says:

"And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?"

Beholding the mote in our brother's or sister's eye is, as we all know, one of our favorite pastimes at every luncheon, afternoon tea, kaffeeklatsch or bridge game.

But I want to cite a more concrete instance.

A reader of my column in Waynesboro, Pa., whose name I shall not mention, sends me a copy of the Record Herald and, in her accompanying letter, calls my attention to a local column entitled "Life in the Country."

The column is signed "E.V.K." and is a very good column.

It deals with the subject of hate and it tells about two men sitting on a Waynesboro front step, philosophizing.

"I hated a certain man, says one of the fellows, "not because he did anything malicious to me, but only because he got himself a new car and I had to struggle along with my old jalopy.

"I hated a certain family for years simply because they were able to send their daughter to college and I couldn't send any of my children."

THEN E.V.K. goes on to tell how this fellow finally thought things over and decided that he had been a jealous fool. The next time he saw the people he hated he shook hands with them and they have been friends ever since.

I think that's a darn good idea and the column is well written and well thought out.

A few days ago I had lunch with a young fellow who had just been married to a wealthy girl. She is a very pretty and very lovable girl, the kind that any man would be proud to have for a wife.

But this fellow kept on insisting to me and the others at the table that he married her because he loved her.

What's wrong with falling in love with a rich girl?

". . . but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?"

FOR HOLLYWOOD STARS

Dope Major Threat

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Harry S. Anslinger, the kindly and philosophic Federal Commissioner of Narcotics, does not pretend to be a Hollywood critic or expert, but he believes he knows the basic reason for the addiction of many noted motion picture stars to various forms of solacing or stimulating drugs.

Although the nation's top authority on the smuggling, distribution and consumption of dope did not appear openly in the sensational seizure of Robert Mitchum and his marihuana companions a few weeks ago, his agents have had their eye on this problem for months. Mr. Anslinger, however, prefers to remain behind the scenes, letting the local police handle the cases on the spot.

TUCKER

PSYCHOLOGICAL: In fact, TUCKER weeks ago, anticipating that a certain big star would eventually be arrested and indicted, he begged the heads of a studio holding the actor's contract not to go ahead with plans for using this man in a leading role.

Mr. Anslinger pointed out that the psychological effect on theater-goers, especially children, would be unfortunate, if at the time of release of the movie the central figure was under a cloud of dope, indicted or in prison.

"You run your own business," he was told, in effect, "and we will run ours. We have already invested a lot of money in this film, and we can't afford to lose it."

The picture will be shown, unless present plans and the attitude revealed in the conversation with Commissioner Anslinger are reversed by studio higher-ups or Eric A. Johnston, so-called screen czar.

SECRETS: Mr. Anslinger also explains that Mitchum simply happened to be the unlucky man when the police broke into the home where he, a real estate operator and two minor actresses were having a "smoke" of the illegal stuff. According to the federal official, it might have been any one of several stars who have frequented this and other places under surveillance for months.

The Narcotic Commissioner, who feels sympathy rather than bitterness toward victims, reserving his hatred for the smugglers, peddlers and profiteers on human weakness, has saved several movie headliners from disgrace. He has hospitalized them with utter secrecy, as he institutionalized Barney Ross, the prizefighter, and they have been discharged as cured.

From them he learned many secrets which have enabled him, the Hollywood and California police to uncover the dope ring and its trade.

ENDURANCE: A great deal of the responsibility for Hollywood's periodical misbehaviour and exposure is attributed by Commissioner Anslinger and other close-up students of the problem to the fact that movie actors and actresses, as well as the magnates, directors, script writers etc., are worked beyond the limit of normal endurance in too many instances.

The makers and participants in the nation's No. 1 entertainment feel that they must run a fierce, gruelling marathon in order to cater to the pleasure-seeking American populace which makes the millions of movie lovers accessories before the fact. Hollywood can never relax because of the home folks demands.

FAIL: When liquor, a feverish night life, exhibitionist affairs and bizarre parties finally fail to provide fresh or sufficient stimulation, especially to actors and actresses in romantic or heavy or heroic roles, the next recourse is frequently a drug. De Quincy would have made an excellent motion picture director.

But when the fairly mild, albeit habit-forming, marihuana no longer satisfies the craving for escape or artificial hopping-up, the sufferer is likely to flee to such stronger forms as heroin or morphine.

QUIT: In his talks with several of the "big shots" he has helped to hospitalize, Commissioner Anslinger discussed this aspect of their plight. He suggested, for instance, that they take longer vacations between pictures, perhaps laying off for a year every so often in order to retain their physical and mental health. The invariable reply was:

"You can't ever quit in show business. The studios and the public on which our rating and popularity depend, would forget us in no time, and we would be on the shelf. Look at so-and-so. She tried it and now she's a has-been.

INVESTIGATION: The off-the-record impression at Washington is that federal, state and city officials rely on the Mitchum and possibly other exposes to throw such a scare into Hollywood that it will clean its own house without the need for a large-scale investigation and prosecution.

If not, next January Prosecutors Dewey and Warren may have to resume the racket-breaking role which introduced them to the big-time political stage in New York and Almeda Counties, respectively.

Hollywood can be—is now—such a national and international institution, and it can be such an inspiration for good and for needed diversion, that high officials do not want to be too hard-boiled. They feel like fathers dealing with a spoiled, wayward but a potentially worth-while youngster. Nor do they indict the whole motion picture colony for the sins or weaknesses of a few.

CONFIDENCE: Hollywood is unfortunate and unique in that it must live in a glass house, while all the stones are in the hands of admiring or envious inhabitants of homes with a few and narrow windows that can be shuttered after nightfall.

Smypathetic officials do point out, however, that continued scandals of the Mitchum, Wally Reid and Alma Rubens variety can eventually have as depressing a box-office effect on the national mind and emotions as did the "Black Sox" baseball skulduggery of 1919, when a boyish bleacherite appealed to Slugger Jackson to "say it ain't so, Joe!"

And there may be no Babe Ruth to restore confidence in Hollywood!

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

PRESIDENT BEARING DOWN

HST Puts On Smooth Campaign

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN.—The Truman road show is the same this self-appointed dramatic critic saw on tour across the country in June—same title, "The Man From Home;" same villain, a sinister, pot-bellied fellow named "Congress;" same assistants to the villain by names of "Wall Street," "big business' and "lobbyists," also pot-bellied, also sinister; and the same incidental music, "The Missouri Waltz."

But it is now a finished performance, with entrances and exits properly timed, props always in place, and with some extra touches in scenic effects and gestures, as well as a larger cast. The shot offstage goes off on time, and not three minutes later with the principals groping about, muttering to one another and looking anxiously toward the wings.

STOKES

The caricatures are of real persons, though the American people may not find out about this until later.

Details Smoothed Out

The special train, which is just as much a part of this show as the one in the old melodrama that was headed, pell-mell, for the young lady tied to the tracks, plays its part properly now, as it did not at the start of the June try-out. In short, the train stops now where the crowd is gathered at the various way stations, and not some distance back, as on that other trip, so that the voters then had to hop, skip and jump to get to the back platform to see the President. Voters too much out of breath are not apt to be too happy.

This technical defect, incidentally, was corrected toward the end of the June tour by no less a personage than Clark Clifford, the ghost-writing playwright, who happened to notice it one day while taking a bit of air and time-out from his daily revision of the script at one of the many stops. Like any good playwright, he is not above such drudgery on details, and, like any good playwright, he was proud of the way it improved the performance.

It was a small matter, to be true, but important.

Perhaps the most effective added scenic effect is the royal blue curtain that now hangs across the door that admits to the back platform—the stage—from the President's private car. After the President has talked to the crowd, this is parted for the appearance, first, of Mrs. Truman and, second, after she has taken a bow, for Margaret.

The first lady is usually introduced by the President as "the boss," which draws an appreciative titter. Margaret then is introduced as "my daughter, Miss Margaret, the boss's boss." Another titter. Both always get a big hand.

Mrs. Truman, who impresses the observer as really very much immersed in this back-to-the-wall campaign of her husband, knows a thing or two herself, about politics and political effects. As, for example, before that vast throng at Dexter, Iowa, at the plowing contest.

As she and the President stood side by side on the platform, receiving the applause, she noticed that the carnation he wore was pinned to the right lapel of his coat. She calmly straightened him around before her and transferred the flower to the other lapel. Wives in the audience laughed understandingly, and so, too, did husbands, for the husband on the platform grinned somewhat sheepishly, as they would have done.

This was a little matter, too, but important—at that particular time.

The cast of characters in the show now is much larger, with a great many "bit" players who change constantly. This, unlike the other cross-country trip, it not billed as "non-political," as was that, but is strictly political and no bones.

Politicians Board Train

Consequently, at nearly every stop local politicians get aboard for a ride and a visit with the President between stops, candidates for U. S. senator and governor riding usually all the way across their states. The lesser lights may be seen sitting stiffly in the club car that adjoins the private car, waiting their turn, saying little to one another, looking like people at a wake before the whiskey has been passed around. This somber atmosphere may be due to the doldrums in which Democratic politicians find themselves these days.

The President greets them all cordially and he goes all out for them, mentioning them from the back platform and expressing the hope that the voters will elect so-and-so to whatever office he aspires, from senator on down. No man running for President ever did so meticulously and warmly.

Whatever happens to him and them in the election, you may be sure that lots of politicians in his party around the country who have received such pats on the back will not soon forget it, and it may help to keep him in an influential place in his party if he is defeated so that he can rebuild it along the lines he wants.

He will be known, too, to millions of people in the country, many who do not often see Presidents; for he is stopping at towns never before visited by Presidents or presidential candidates in one of the most strenuous campaigns any candidate ever undertook.

A sample day that makes you tired even to think of it was that early on the trip when he got up at five o'clock—his usual hour is 5:30—made his first back platform speech at six o'clock, just after dawn, at Rock Island, Ill., and then went through a routine of 13 other appearances during the day, ending just before midnight when he registered to vote in his home town of Independence, Mo.

No road-show trouper can equal his performance.

Five-a-day would be restful compared with it.

Mold Found On Guam May Be Developed Into Anti-Flu Serum

By PAUL F. ELLIS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. —The development of a new, possible anti-influenza substance from a mold found growing on the photograph of a Navy medical officer's wife was disclosed here today.

Results of tests with the product on experimental animals were reported for the first time about ten days ago by Dr. Richard Edwin Shope of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, Princeton, N. J.

Product Tested On Mice

Dr. Shope told a meeting of mycologists that the product apparently prolonged life in mice that had been administered lethal dosages of swine influenza virus, a type of virus that is almost identical with influenza "A" virus in human beings. There have been no human trials.

It was learned today that Dr. Shope found the mold while he was serving on Guam as a commander in the Navy's medical corps. That was just after the end of the war in 1945. The mold, identified as penicillium funiculosum, was growing on the picture of Dr. Shope's wife, Helen.

He brought the mold back to the United States, grew it in broth and found that it caused a substance to form—a substance that Dr. Shope later used as an anti-viral agent in mice. Many thousands of mice were used in the experiments.

Experiments Are Preliminary

Dr. Shope reported that the new product had no activity against bacteria, such as penicillin has, but apparently acted against the swine influenza virus. Many of the mice that were first given lethal doses of the virus recovered after injection of the substance; in others, life was prolonged; and in some, it had no effect.

Dr. Shope emphasized today that the experiments are only preliminary, and that no human tests have been made.

Nevertheless, all the adopted drugs for human beings today first went through the stage of animal experimentation. Dr. Shrope's discovery and subsequent laboratory tests may be great steps toward the whole problem of finding agents that will act against virus diseases, which include the common cold and poliomyelitis. Earlier this year, at least one other drug—aureomycin—was found effective against certain types of virus.

Dr. Shope, a native of Des Moines, Ia., has been with the Rockefeller institute since 1925. He disclosed that he had not yet named the new substance but it thinking of calling it Helenin because of the lucky discovery of finding the mold on his wife's picture.

Mexico Threatens Action To Force Lower Prices On Car

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21 (U.P.)—The national economy ministry may lift automobile import restrictions if prices on cars assembled here are not lowered a flat 15 per cent, it was reported here today.

The big three popular priced cars cost from 17,000 to 20,000 pesos ($2,500 to $3,000) off the showroom floor in Mexico City.

Sources close to the ministry revealed that it will give automobile assembly plants two weeks to effect a price reduction.

After that time, if prices are not lowered, the ministry will lift the year-old ban on auto imports to permit "free competition."

One well informed observer, however, said the action "approaches biting off one's nose to spite the face."

He pointed out that although assembled cars can be brought from the United States and sold here more cheaply than the Mexican-assembled articles, the difference in the price between the two consists largely of wages paid Mexican workers in local assembly plants.

U. S. Takes Serious View Of Oil Men's Arrest In Hungary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (INS) —The United States today took a "serious view" of Hungarian action in arresting two Standard Oil of New Jersey employes for alleged sabotage of oil production.

U. S. Minister Seldon Chapin at Budapest advised the State department of the Hungarian government's arrest of Karl Ruedemann and George Bannentine, American heads of the Hungarian American Oil Co., a Standard Oil subsidiary.

Press Chief Michael J. McDermott declared:

"The government of the United States takes a serious view of the action by the Hungarian government and will follow very closely the developments in the case."

Protest Believed Lodged

McDermott said he presumed Chapin already had lodged a formal protest with the Budapest foreign office. The department was awaiting a more comprehensive report from the U. S. legation.

According to Budapest dispatches, arrest of the oil officials highlighted a long standing effort of Soviet Russia and its Hungarian satellites to take over control of the Hungarian-American company's field at Lispe.

These dispatches said the two Americans "had confessed" to deliberately slowing down production for political reasons.

Ruedemann was born in Germany, came to this country at the age of three, became a naturalized citizen and lived in Albany, N. Y., for a number of years. His wife and family live in Hartsdale, N. Y.

Bannentine is a native of St. Louis, where his wife and family reside.

Lubbock Man Has Reason To Doubt Cold War On In Germany

It's hot in Germany in more ways than one, according to a letter Mrs. Ed Bear of 1513 Ave. E received from her grandson, Delton Walker, 18, former Lubbock High school student and Avalanche-Journal carrier boy now in the Navy.

Young Walker, in a letter written from his ship in Germany Sept. 5, said the temperature in the ship's engine room was 142 degrees at the time, and in the room where he was writing it was 108.

He formerly lived with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bear. He is now stationed on the U.S.S. Tolovana, a Navy supply ship and was recently promoted to the rate of seaman first class.

He expects to be in Houston Oct. 1 en route to Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Bear said she hopes to be able to go to Houston and see him there. He joined the Navy about a year ago.
