LBJ Calls Top Advisers To Foreign Policy Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called the National Security Council to the White House today as he abandoned the campaign trail for a watchful weekend in the capital.

The President had planned to spend today at his ranch in Texas and to campaign Sunday in the state. But this went by the boards amid turbulent international developments.

The top item on the agenda for today's council session is to review with his key advisers issues arising from the ouster of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the formation of a new government in Moscow.

Two other topics certain to be discussed are Red China's explosion yesterday of a nuclear device — its first — and the institution of a new Labor government in London.

Information available from high administration officials indicates this is Washington's view of the weeks three dramatic developments: 1. Shake-up in the Kremlin — The new leaders of the Soviet Union, Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin, probably will make some move toward patching up the Soviet-Chinese split and restoring unity to the whole Communist movement. U.S. officials doubt that a real reconciliation is possible, but the removal of Khrushchev, the major Chinese target, at least clears the way for the new Kremlin bosses to explore the chances of settlement. If probings are undertaken and they result in easing the differences, the Soviet Union may swing to a somewhat tougher line toward the West.

Officials report that so far they are encouraged by the reaction of Red China's neighbors, who seem to understand that a nuclear explosion does not mean China has immediate, real nuclear military power.

3. British election — On the whole, U.S. officials do not anticipate any serious policy differences with the new British government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson, although progress toward agreement on the proposed NATO nuclear missile fleet seems sure to be slowed down considerably. This in turn could create some difficulties with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who has been pressing for an early settlement of the nuclear fleet issue.

The President and his advisers are mainly preoccupied with trying to determine the future course of Soviet foreign policy, which for almost two years has been based on development of Khrushchev's policy of "peaceful coexistence" with the United States and other allied powers.

Acting on instructions from Moscow, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin called at the White House yesterday and told the President the Soviet policy of "strengthening peace, peaceful coexistence among countries with different social systems, and further relaxation of tensions" will not be changed.

Officials said that two developments gave significant but by no means conclusive evidence of how the future course of Soviet policy might develop.

SNYDER AREA OIL

New wildcats have been scheduled for drilling in the Scurry County area in Kent and Stonewall Counties.

BTA Oil Producers of Midland will drill No. 1-A Butler, a 6,800-foot Strawn prospector in Kent County, four miles southwest of Girard.

It is 2,173 feet from south and west lines of section 80, block 1, H&GN survey and it is four miles north of Strawn sand and Strawn lime production in the Boomerang field.

G. E. Kadane & Sons of Wichita Falls has staked location for No. 4 Bryan, a projected 6,400-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Stonewall County.

The venture is 12 miles southeast of Aspermont and 467 feet from south and east lines of section 17, Austin & Williams survey No. 349.

It is almost on the Fisher County line and 1¼ miles southwest of the Moutray - Moore (3,600-foot Swastika sand) oil reservoir.

LeClair Operating Co. of Abilene is drilling below 3,215 feet in a Cambrian wildcat on the northwest edge of the Rotan (upper Hope lime) pool of Fisher County and has staked an offset location, scheduled to drill to the Hope.

No. 1-10 City of Rotan is projected to 6,700 feet and no tests have been reported in drilling to the present depth. Site is 2,219 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 124, block 2, H&TC survey and in the city limits.

The new project, which is slated to drill to 4,100 feet is No. 1 Rotan Townsite Unit, 3,200 feet from north and 535 feet from east lines of section 125, block 2, H&TC survey.

Chapman and McFarlin Producing Co. of Snyder has spotted location for the No. 3-A J. B. Pumphrey, an attempt to complete the sixth producer and a location northwest extension to the Pumphrey, North (Bend conglomerate) pool in Stonewall County.

The project is slated to bottom at 6,200 feet and drillsite is six miles east of Aspermont, 467 feet from south and 2,184 feet from west lines of Peter Delane survey, abstract 67.

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder has planned drilling of No. 2-E McLaughlin Fee, in effort to extend production in the Diamond M (Clear Fork) pool of Scurry County, 12 miles southwest of Snyder.

The operation, which is projected to 3,500 feet, spots 330 feet from north and 2,339 feet from west lines of section 179, block 97, H&TC survey.

Marathon Oil Co. has filed application for a permit to drill No. 4 P. L. Anderson, a project in the Frankirk (Canyon sand) pool of Stonewall County.

Proposed depth for the operation is 4,850 feet and it is six miles southwest of Aspermont, 2,173 feet from south and 1,923 feet from east lines of section 17, block U, T&P survey.

Pennzoil Co. of Midland has completed No. 1-C Wallace as a northwest extension for the Clairemont, East (Strawn) pool of Kent County, seven miles northeast of Clairemont.

It pumped, on the 24-hour potential test, 162.84 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, plus five per cent water, per day from perforations between 6,536 and 6,538 feet. Gas - oil ratio was 976-1 and no treatment on the formation was reported.

The new producer is 467 feet from south and 5,331 feet from west lines of section 4, W. P. Wilson survey.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. has completed No. 6-B W. C. Weir as a new producer in the Guest (Canyon) pool of Stonewall County.

The project is 467 feet from south and 852 feet from west lines of G. W. Maddox survey, abstract 821, five miles south of Aspermont.

Perforations at 4,573 - 89 feet, after treatment with 1,000 gallons of acid, were potentialed to pump 103 barrels of 41.2 gravity oil per day.

Poor Cotton Crop Seen For 1964

Cotton harvesting is off to a slow start in Scurry County this year, and ginners estimate that far less than half of last years total will be ginned.

Only 2,240 bales have been reported ginned so far this season. At this time last year, the county had already produced 7,558 bales.

The present total was reported by eight of the nine gins in the county. No report was available from the gin at Hermleigh.

Gins, and the totals they reported Saturday morning are: Paymaster, 611; Snyder Co-op, 538; China Grove, 475; Inadale, 258; Planters in Snyder, 115; Planters in Fluvanna, 112; Layfield in Ira, 59; and Planters in Dunn, 42.

Farmers in the northwestern section of the county are defoliating their crops to a larger extent than in other sections where many are waiting on the first frost before starting the harvest. The first frost usually comes on about Nov. 15.

Only around Ira does the estimate of this year's crop appear to be as much or more than half of last year's.

Trip To Dallas Fair Ends In Tragedy

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (AP) —Judy Smith, 17, got up early Saturday to go to the fair in Dallas, left in the family car before dawn and was killed when the vehicle overturned near here. Carolyn, 19, her sister, was driving and was injured.

Shooting Victim's Rites Set

Funeral services have been set for 2 p.m. Sunday at the Bell - Seale Funeral Home chapel for Guy Vernon McKeown, 40, who was killed in a cafe near Roscoe Thursday evening.

Charged in Sweetwater with the killing is McKeown's wife, Juanita SoRelle McKeown, 35. It was reported that the couple had been separated for several months, and that a final divorce decree had been handed down in 32nd District Court at 9 a.m. Thursday.

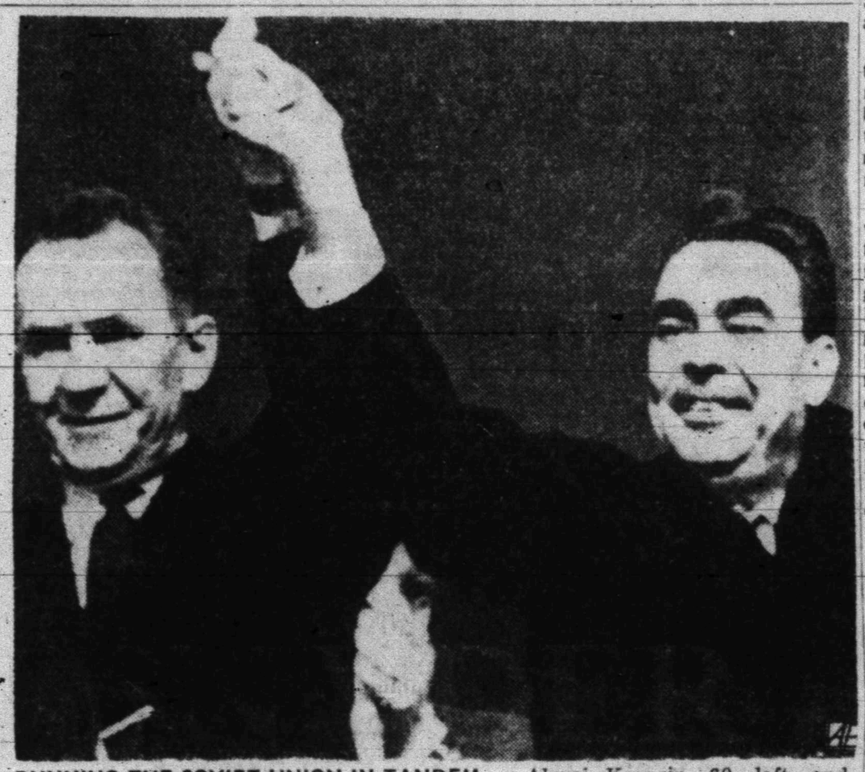

Witnesses told officers that McKeown, who was drinking coffee in a booth in the cafe, refused to go outside of the building with Mrs. McKeown when she came in and asked him to do so. When he refused, she pulled out a .22 calibre pistol and put six shots into his body.

Mrs. McKeown then apparently drove directly to the Sweetwater police station and surrendered the gun with the six empty shells. She was charged with murder with malice, and bond was set at $10,000.

Born Aug. 12, 1924 in Snyder, McKeown had been a resident of Sweetwater since 1942 except for brief periods of residence in Snyder. He was employed by Flintcote Co. in Sweetwater at the time of his death.

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of the First Baptist Church here will officiate at the funeral services. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery.

Four children survive. They are Mrs. Betty Lou Harbour of Brownfield, Danny, Jimmy and Beth, all of Sweetwater. Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. McKeown of Snyder; four sisters, Mrs. Jewell Williams, Mrs. Edna Browning, Mrs. Margie Pinkard and Mrs. Susie Lavinder, all of Snyder; one brother, Ray of Hobbs, N. M., and two grandchildren.

RUNNING THE SOVIET UNION IN TANDEM — Alexei Kosygin, 60, left, and Leonid Brezhnev, 57, who respectively were named to be premier of the Soviet Union and secretary of the Communist Party, clasped hands as they raised their arms during an appearance at Moscow's Sports Palace in 1960. They took over the posts that Nikita Khrushchev had held after his resignation. Brezhnev's post as party secretary is the one that both Stalin and Khrushchev used to control the Soviet Union. OUR ENDORSEMENT IS CAST FOR THE TEXAN

(AN EDITORIAL)

Nearly five years ago we endorsed Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as a candidate for President of the United States. That was many months before the 1960 conventions which ultimately produced the Kennedy-Johnson and Nixon-Lodge slates by the two major parties.

About the only change since that time is our belief that Mr. Johnson is even more qualified to serve as the nation's chief executive than he was then — and we believed that he was the best qualified in 1960.

The two major parties this year generally agree that they offer a choice, or perhaps "contrast" is a better word, In that vein, we prefer to make a choice rather than take a chance.

This decision is based upon several pertinent factors, among the more important being performance. As U. S. Senators, there is no comparison between the two nominees for the office of president. As a U. S. Senator, Lyndon B. Johnson rose to a statesman's role at a time when many believed that he was committing political suicide by taking over the Senate leadership of a party that had suffered its first defeat in a presidential election in 24 years.

Almost immediately it became apparent that the party in power would have to look across the aisle for support to keep the nation going. Lyndon B. Johnson, as the Democratic Party's Senate Leader, put his country above partisan politics and as time went on President Dwight D. Eisenhower depended upon him more and more. A person less dedicated to statesmanship could have made a shambles of the Republican record during those eight years from 1952 to 1960, but, of course, the country would have suffered.

Later, as vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson continued to grow in experience until that dreadful day, Nov. 22, 1963, when he was suddenly thrust into the nation's highest office. The lightning-like transition proceeded so orderly and smoothly during a period of shock and mourning that world leaders marveled.

Lyndon B. Johnson's performance since the assassination of John F. Kennedy has produced nothing but confirmation of his qualifications as a national leader. Throughout his political career, he has displayed an amazing sensitivity to the needs and desires of the people. This has lifted him beyond the realm of petty sectionalism, yet kept him in close contact with the "grass roots" in his own state.

Moreover, we are among those who believe that this land developed by Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, Jim Bowie, Mirabeau B. Lamar, William B. Travis, et al, is fully capable of producing a man qualified to be President of the United States.

Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texan with an American outlook, is our choice for this office.

New Leaders Take Swat At Red China

By FRED W. COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda published renewed blasts at Red China today, clearly authorized by the new party leadership.

The reaffirmed criticism appeared to rule out any immediate attempt by the successors of Nikita Khrushchev to work out a reconciliation with Peking.

At the same time, the Communist Party paper said the new regime intends to go ahead with plans for a world Communist meeting that the Chinese have denounced.

The criticism was contained in Pravda accounts of recent meetings of the French and Italian Communist parties.

Six Georgia Men Indicted; Identified As Ku Kluxers

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted six white Athens men on charges of conspiring to injure and intimidate Negro citizens in Georgia.

The action led a Ku Klux Klan leader to pledge support to those named in the indictments. The FBI identified them as members of the Klan.

The six included Cecil William Myers, 25, and Joseph Howard Sims, 41, who were acquitted Sept. 4 in a state court at nearby Danielsville in the night rider, shotgun slaying of Lemuel Penn, a Washington, D.C. Negro educator.

FBI agents arrested three of the men Friday after the indictments were returned by a jury which had been hearing evidence in the civil rights case most of the week.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified them as Denver Willis Phillips, 24, a garage mechanic; George Hampton Turner, 32, a loom fixer; and Herbert Guest, 37, who operates the garage where Phillips works.

Also indicted was James S. Lackey, 28, who is in jail at Macon awaiting trial by the state in the Penn slaying.

Hoover described the six men as active participants in affairs of Clarke County Klavern No. 224 of the United Klans of America Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Athens is the county seat.

Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, Grand Dragon of the Klan, said he would do everything possible to aid the men.

The three taken into custody by the FBI Friday were brought before U.S. Commissioner Gird W. Hawkins.

He set bond at $10,000 each for Phillips and Turner. Guest's bond was fixed at $1,000 on a charge of possessing an unregistered, sawed-off shotgun in violation of the National Firearms Act. Guest posted the bond.

Guest, Myers and Sims remained free under bonds of $25,000 each set after their arrest Aug. 6 by the FBI on federal charges of conspiracy in the July 11 shotgun slaying of Penn.

Phillips and Turner did not post bond and were detained.

Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve, was returning to Washington with two other Army Reserve officers from Ft. Benning, Ga., when the shooting occurred on a lonely road about 23 miles northeast of Athens.

Wilson Starts To Form Goverment

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—Installed in office by a razor-thin margin, Britain's new prime minister, Harold Wilson, pushed ahead today the business of forming a Labor government.

With a probable Parliamentary majority of only four votes, the 48-year-old prime minister will have little leeway to carry out his five-year program.

Wilson's most controversial measures — steel renationalization, government ownership of urban building land and the phasing out of Britain's nuclear deterrent — are bound to meet powerful opposition after the new Parliament meets Oct. 27.

Friday night's late returns with one result to come gave Wilson's Laborites 317 of the 630 House of Commons seats. The Conservatives of former Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had 303 seats and the Liberal party 9—an over-all majority for Wilson of five.

The last seat is expected to be held by the Conservatives, reducing the slender Labor margin further.

Wilson moved swiftly to form his administration. Within hours of his call to Buckingham Palace where he met with Queen Elizabeth II on his appointment, the Prime Minister named his first six cabinet ministers.

The key post of foreign secretary went to Patrick Gordon Walker, despite his defeat for a Commons seat at the hands of a Tory candidate.

Gordon Walker, 57-year-old pipe smoking party intellectual, was expected to get a safe Commons seat upon the retirement of one of Labor's elderly rank-and-filers.

George Brown, 50, deputy party leader, was named minister of economic affairs and first secretary of state which means, in effect, he is deputy prime minister.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college instructor. He's wonderful in almost every respect, but he's a nut on sports. He's 27 and I'm 26. He was raised on a farm and his dad never let him go out for sports in school because farm chores came first. He's on two softball teams, and when he isn't playing, he's practicing. When softball season is over, it's football. After football, it's basketball. (He plays golf in between, and he's good at everything.) He likes hockey, too. Don't tell me to find myself something to do. We have two boys. One is two years old and the other is three months. I try to be a good kid and go to watch my husband whenever he plays. I sat in the bleachers at a hockey game when I was a week overdue with my second, and chased my 18-month-old all over the gym.

Someone called my husband to be on a bowling team and I overheard him say, "My wife is unreasonable when it comes to sports!" I ask you. .. WHO is unreasonable?

SPORTS WIDOW

DEAR SPORTS: Your husband! Be patient. Time will sideline him soon enough, and then he'll learn you're the best sport he has.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see your apology for lambasting the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant when she and her fiance came to him to discuss their marriage plans. This is a standard question now, and I am sure the clergyman meant no personal offense. If a priest learns that the only reason a couple is getting married is to give a child a name, he will recommend a civil ceremony rather than a religious one.

INFORMED

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You disappointed me when you "begged forgiveness" for criticizing the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant.

If a clergyman had asked ME such a question in the presence of my fiance, my fiance would have asked him to take his collar off and step outside. When an innocent person is accused of shoplifting, and is subjected to the humiliation of a search, he has a case against the store, you know. I am not a thief, and no one has the right to ask me to prove that I didn't steal something. The principle is the same.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have been kissed quite a lot. My problem is when a fellow kisses me for the first time, should I pretend I don't know how to kiss very well, or should I let him know that I do?

I don't want him to think I have had too much experience along this line, and then again, I don't want him to think I haven't had any. Can you help me?

SIXTEEN

DEAR SIXTEEN: Just do what comes naturally. But don't overwhlem him in the first act or you'll have nothing to do for an encore.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: A psychiatrist once told me that a man who beats his wife was probably beaten by his mother (or a female figure of authority) when he was a child. If more mothers knew this they wouldn't be so quick to hit their sons.

McCormick Given Award By Phillips

Claude E. McCormick, McCormick & Sons Oil Co., Inc., has been given special recognition by Phillips Petroleum Company for outstanding accomplishments in community service.

M. J. Chisholm, Division Manager for Phillips Amarillo Sales Office, presented to McCormick the Phillips Petroleum Company's Mr. Phil Award. This is a gold-plated, "Oscar - like" statuette of a "Stylized man" in Phillips uniform. It is an award symbolizing achievement.

"A Mr. Phil Award is made to distributors of Phillips products for unusual sales efforts, customer services, community services, or other activities that bring credit to the individual or his organization," Chisholm explained. "It is truly a tribute to the man for the above and beyond the call of duty."

Nominations for the Mr. Phil Award are obtained from letters from customers calling special notice to an individual, or from recommendations of Phillips Sales Division Managers. A special committee periodically makes the selections of those to receive the distinction of being a Mr. Phil Award recipient.

"This award was presented in acknowledgement of the outstanding community service rendered over the past many years," Chisholm related. "Such service has included the Snyder Chamber of Commerce; Industrial Foundation; United Fund and Junior College Committee. In addition, he has generously given time and effort to the East Side Church of Christ in Snyder and Abilene Christian College in Abilene."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Daily News:

Another attempted plot on the life of our president! This time by a nazi. Whether he be called nazi, Marxist, or communist makes no difference when his aim and doctrine is the same — to kill (whoever is in the way) when necessary to accomplish this goal.

Why is this allowed?

After a murder it is too late!

I was so thankful when our Attorney General, Mr. Robert Kennedy, made the provision that all communists had to register as such, or be punished by $10,000 fine, or five years in the pen.

What did it amount to?

As far as I know there has not been one single case of punishment, even with Gus Hall and all his comrades making speeches in colleges etc. and roaming the U. S. A. as big as ever.

At the same time the liberals are trying to do away with (or maybe already have) the Internal Security Committee. Next will probably be the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Will we let this happen? I hope not!

Mrs. J. E. Sorrells.

To The Daily News:

The American voter seems to have only a vague idea of the vast waste involved in the foreign aid program and of the fact that it is bankrupting this nation. After the expenditure of more than $100 billion no dent has been made in worldwide poverty and leading spokesmen of some of the poor nations have admitted publicly that no progress has been made and that even harm has been done by the reckless throwing around of money in the manner in which we are squandering our wealth. According to the Dallas Morning News some 57 countries which have received over 12.5 billion dollars in aid from this country in the past six years have purchased approximately 7 billion dollars of our gold. This is at a time when our gold balance is of the greatest concern to this nation and when it threatens the economic stability of the entire world.

Recently President Johnson has said that while warring on poverty at home "we are also engaged in that same battle on 100 different fronts around the world in 100 or more nations. Let there be no mistake about our intention to fight that war (poverty) around the world. . ." A small cut in the foreign aid request in an election year is not significant when we consider such recent statements of the President. Do we want to continue this profligate course or do we want a return to economic sanity by electing Barry Goldwater our next President of the United States.

(Mrs.) Margaret D. LeFeuvre

To The Daily News:

It is being said by irresponsible persons that Mr. Goldwater will get this country into war if he is elected President in November.

There is little doubt that if the Democrats are elected we soon will have Senator Humphrey as President of the United States. Senator Humphrey is the man who has proposed that the United States turn its stockpile of atomic weapons over to the United Nations to build an international police force to be used to maintain world peace. Who then will control the United Nations when it has such unprecedented power, when such weapons and such strength are placed in the hands of people whose principal characteristic seems to be envy, who form "hate groups" to denounce the United States and who permit their followers to deface our embassies abroad and to tear down our flag and trample it in the earth. Do we believe with Senator Humphrey that such foolish and vengeful people armed with nuclear weapons will keep the peace for long? Let us listen to Senator Goldwater speaking on the floor of the United States Senate: "I do not vote against the hope of peace, but only against the illusion of it. I do not vote for war, but for the strength to prevent it." Which of these two men seems irresponsible to you? Do you want Senator Humphrey for President of the United states? I don't believe it!

Thelma C. Ross

To The Daily News:

We, the undersigned, are in the process of forming a group of local Democrats and Independents in support of Senator Goldwater for President. This group will be known as the Scurry County "Texans for Goldwater."

We base our support of Goldwater mainly on two issues: First, we believe that Barry Goldwater will restore morality and honesty to the Government. Second, we feel, because of Lyndon Johnson's prior severe heart attack, that Hubert Humphrey might become President and that would be a tragedy. Humphrey stands for and represents the extreme left in American politics, and we believe that he is dangerous.

We call on all Scurry County Democrats and Independents, who believe as we do, to join us in helping elect Senator Goldwater President of the United States.

UN Seeks To Avert Clash Over Dues

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates predicted today the General Assembly will postpone its opening at least two weeks in an effort to avert a clash between the United States and Russia's new regime over U.N. peacekeeping dues.

The word spread after the United States switched its stand and made known it would agree to postpone the Nov. 10 opening if someone else proposed such a move. It was believed a group of Asian or African nations would broach the idea and the Communist bloc would agree.

In a statement late Friday, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said, "While no one has yet proposed postponement of the General Assembly, in view of recent developments, the United States is open minded."

The dispute results from the Soviet refusal to pay General Assembly assessments to finance the Congo and Middle East peacekeeping operations. The Russians are two calendar years behind in their U.N. dues. The United States and Britain have said the Russians should lose their assembly voting rights under U.N. Charter Article 19, which provides that those members two years behind shall have no vote.

Rose Festival To Boast 40 Beauties

TYLER (AP)— Forty college girls will be in the court of Rose Queen Carolyn Louise Shaw at the Texas Rose Festival Oct. 21-25.

From abroad are Miss Ellen Barrett of Madrid and Miss Mimi Escalante of Mexico City.

Six Tyler girls serving as ladies-in-waiting are Misses Mary Ann Brown, Dinah Dennis, Elizabeth Dibert, Alexandra Owen, Virginia Patterson and Susan Elaine Roosth. Miss Sally Brush of Tyler is representing the rose growers.

Other royal representatives in the court are from other states and Texas cities.

The court will be in the queen's coronation pageant Oct. 22 and 23. At 10:30 p.m. Friday, court members will make their formal debut at the Coronation Ball given by the Order of the Rose.

James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will speak at the festival men's luncheon Friday. Miss Helen Poe of Dallas, lecturer and traveler, will speak to a ladies' luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Shaw will honor their daughter, Carolyn, and her court at the queen's tea Friday afternoon. Invitations went to 5,000.

The rose show will open at 10 a.m. Friday and continue through Sunday. A two-mile long street parade, terminating in Rose Stadium, is scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday. That night a fiesta will be held in Rose Stadium.

Mrs. Johnson Speaks At Texas U

AUSTIN (AP)— College days are only the start of learning and each new horizon opens another, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said Friday night.

She made this discovery, the nations First Lady recalled, while herself a student here at the University of Texas.

Uniformed and plainclothes policemen and Secret Service agents kept vigil as Mrs. Johnson spoke. She returned to her alma mater to receive a distinguished alumnus award from the university's ex-students association.

Mrs. Johnson was graduated from the University of Texas in 1933. While that period is far past, she said "my interest in this university is not."

Reviewing college days of that depression era when she and most of the other students came from small towns, she mentioned enrolling by chance for a geology course.

"My whole perspective of the life of man on this physical plant was stretched and broadened," the President's wife said.

"It happened that I minored in philosophy, which for me was not an ivory tower sort of subject but a new yardstick by which I could measure and try to understand the differing values mankind has used during the centuries of his existence.

"And, happily, I majored in history—which gave me a background of the irreplaceable value in measuring these few decades I have lived through, and shall hopefully live through, in our country."

Broiler Markets Open Stronger

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas broiler markets opened stronger this week with a half cent increase. The market closed firm. Supplies were short to barely adequate, demand sluggish and movement light to moderate.

Closing prices: South 14.50-15.50; East 14.00. Last week: South 14.00; East 12.85-14.00. Year ago: South 14.00; East 14.20-15.80.

Tight Security Set For Johnson's Visit

HOUSTON (AP) — Elaborate security plans were being made Saturday for President Johnson's visit to Houston Monday.

All police officers' leaves were cancelled.

Police asked the public to keep all windows closed in buildings along the motorcade route as well as to refrain from standing on rooftops and balconies along the way.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Clarence McCarthy, 45, of Kansas City, Mo., was struck from a bridge and killed by a Texas & Pacific freight train early Saturday.

Mishaps Are Investigated

The Snyder police department investigated a mishap at 5:06 p.m. Friday in the 3000 block of Fortieth Street in which a 10-year-old bicycle rider received minor injuries.

The mishap reported occurred when Sandra Bruns, 409 Thirtieth Street, attempted to avoid the bicycle rider, Jerrie Dolen, 1906 Thirtieth Street. The Bruns car struck a 1963 Mercury being driven by Mary W. Headstream, 3215 Fortieth Street. It was not known if the bicycle rider was struck or simply took a bad spill.

The Dolen girl was taken to Cogdell Hospital where she was examined and treated for bruises.

Two other Friday evening mishaps were investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol.

At about 7:30 p.m. 28 miles south of Snyder on the Big Spring Highway a 1960 Ford driven by Oscar W. Nelson of Snyder struck a cow. A passenger in the car, Pearlie Scott of Snyder, received a head cut, and was brought to Cogdell Hospital by private car for treatment. She was not believed seriously injured.

The Highway Patrol also investigated a mishap just south of Thirty - seventh Street on the Old Colorado City Highway. A 1959 Ford owned by Floyd Leatherwood of Snyder was abandoned there sometime before 8 p.m. after it had left the road, torn down a section of fence on the east side of the road, and became bogged down in loose sand.

Rotarians Help With Student Fund

The Snyder Rotary Club has achieved a rank of 300 per cent in their giving to the Rotary Foundation Fund it was announced Saturday by Hicks Allen, District Governor of Rotary.

While not the largest percentage reported in the 45-club district which covers the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, the ranking still indicates that an average of $30 per member was contributed by the local club, and represents almost $1,000.

A total of over $67,000 has been donated to the fund from the 59-county district.

The money, Allen said, is used to send graduate students to foreign countries for a year of study. Not only are they students, but they act as ambassadors, and build better understanding and goodwill on a person - to - person basis, Allen said.

Murderer To Get Chair

DALLAS (AP)—Kenneth Martin was convicted Friday of murdering a Duncanville couple. He must die in the electric chair.

Relatives of the victims, Mr. and Mrs. Lenferd Strickland, sat on benches near the front of the courtroom as Judge Louis Holland read the verdict.

Martin, 29, sat rigidly in his chair, staring straight ahead, as he heard the verdict. He cast two quick glances toward the jury as Holland polled it.

The slayer's mother, Mrs. Bertha Martin, was dry-eyed as she heard the sentence. Then, after kissing her son before deputies led him back to his county jail cell, she sat on a bench and wept.

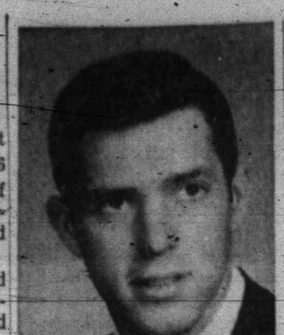

Martin's court-appointed lawyers said they would appeal.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Strickland were found May 17 near Mountain Creek lake south of Grand Prairie.

Lamar P-TA Slates Meeting Monday

The Lamar Junior High P-TA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the school auditorium.

The program will feature a discussion on textbooks by Dr. Robert Clinton, superintendent of schools; Fred Beard, assistant principal at Lamar, and Charles Anderson, classroom teacher.

HEADS LAW CLASS—Harold P. (Bo) Brown Jr., son of Mr., and Mrs. Harold P. Brown, 2900 Avenue U, was elected recently as president of his Mid-Law Class at the University of Texas School of Law. The office grants a position on the Board of Governors, which is the student governing body at the university. Brown is married to the former Miss Lady Falls. Mrs. Brown teaches Spanish and English in the Austin Schools.

At Session Of Principals

Daniel Johnson, principal of Lincoln High School, attended the meeting of the Texas High School Principal's Association in San Antonio recently.

The program of the convention was devoted principally to the school drop-out problem, and several noted speakers appeared on the program.

Such aspects of the drop-out problem as causes and possible remedies were discussed.

Another major discussion involved the promotion of vocational education in the schools for both public school pupils and adults.

Hermleigh Young Farmers To Meet

The Hermleigh Young Farmers Chapter will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the vocational agriculture building at the Hermleigh High School.

The scheduled speaker is Ruel Dixon of Lubbock who will speak on cotton defoliation.

Anyone interested is invited to attend.

DeMolays To Meet Monday

All boys, 14 years of age or older who are interested in the work of DeMolay, are invited to a re - organizational meeting of the chapter here Monday evening.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 at the Masonic Hall. A film depicting the work and benefits of DeMolay will be shown.

G. P. Proctor, chapter "Dad," said that it was important that all present members be present, and also urged parents of members and prospective members to be present to learn more about the organization.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Pitner, former Snyder residents who now live at 1204 Grant, Sherman, are parents of a daughter weighing 6 lb. 15 oz., born at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 17. She has been named Catherine Margaret.

1st. SEASON BONANZA

'Greatest' Fair To End Sunday

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The greatest world's fair in history ends Sunday the first season of a billion-dollar blowout blending a bonanza of entertainment, success and slipup.

Most visitors found it an exciting panoply of lights and color, eye-catching exhibits, avant garden architecture and features aplenty for fun and frolic.

Although beset at times by a variety of troubles, officials had justification for claiming overall success.

Even before the big exposition opened, the till contained $35 million from the sale of advance tickets.

A short time later, officials said income from admissions, land leases and parking lots would insure a surplus when the show finally closes in mid-October 1965.

The surplus will be used for park development on the mile-square fair site and elsewhere in the city.

The fair's builders had hoped for a 70-million attendance during the two six-month seasons, 40 million this year and 30 million the next.

But the gate this year is going to fall somewhat short. Total 1964 admissions probably will be somewhere between 33 and 34 million.

However, there has been no dismay to Robert Moses, the 76-year-old fair president and master builder of public works in New York State during the past 40 years.

He is pleased with the fair.

Visitors spent millions of dollars here for hotel rooms, food, department store wares, sightseeing and entertainment.

Royal W. Ryan, of the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau, estimated they spent at least 25 per cent of their vacation dollars at department and retail stores.

Summer hotel occupancy was up 30.5 per cent over last year.

The fair opened April 22 with some spectacular presentations by giants of American industry, 60 foreign countries and about half the states.

The theme was "peace through understanding," and exhibitors created a wonderland featuring the achievements of science, education, religion, art, philosophy, music, culture and cuisine.

While many pavilions were immensely successful, there were some expensive failures.

Some newspapers criticized some aspects of the fair, touching off stinging replies by Moses.

He lashed out at "sharpshooters who accentuate the negative" and said some people "hate like hell to see the fair moving to success."

Except for Sierra Leone, which had planned only a one-year stay, next year's fair will have the same lineup of exhibitors. Some, however, will expand their facilities and make other changes.

Discussions are under way for the possible addition of new features.

Courage Is Big Asset Of New Chief

CAIRO (AP) — Kenneth Kaunda, who once successfully stared down a lion, will need the same kind of nerve in the days ahead.

Kaunda will become president of the new African Republic of Zambia Saturday when the British hand over control of the 70-year-old protectorate of the area now known as Northern Rhodesia.

Zambia will have borders with four white-ruled territories in southern Africa whose governments have been condemned to extinction by Africa's nationalists — Angola, Mozambique, Southern Rhodesia and South-West Africa, now governed by South Africa.

If that isn't enough trouble, Zambia will have the Congo for an immediate neighbor in the north.

When the chips are finally down in the gathering struggle to end white rule in Africa, Kaunda may wish he was back with the lions.

Little thought is being given to such forebodings as Zambia prepares for $1-million celebration to mark the end of British rule. But they are never far from Kaunda's consciousness.

He once said a bit wistfully that he would like Zambia to be "the Switzerland of Africa," an independent and uncommitted oasis in a troubled continent. Geography and history are against him.

Zambia will bring with it into independence the usual problems of new African nations: a largely illiterate population, poverty and a great lack of the skills needed to develop a country.

Its principal assets are some of the world's most productive copper mines, plus a reasonably efficient civil service developed by the British and Kaunda.

The new president, who has been serving as prime minister since the break-up of the Central African Federation Jan. 1, is a shrewd and determined man devoted to multiracialism. The 74,000 whites in Zambia tie their future to the success of that policy. Many are nervous and uncertain. Some are planning to leave. Pressures are certain to build up among the 3½ million Africans for the promotion of blacks to better-paying jobs held by whites.

With an eye on the nation's immense mining operations, which have produced a favorable trade balance of about $200 million this year, Kaunda realizes that he must keep the whites at work. At the same time he must solve an increasingly difficult unemployment problem among the blacks.

Whites will be represented in Zambia's Parliament for four years. Then these reserved white seats fall away.

Jenkins Case Emphasizes Problem Of Security Risks

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Walter W. Jenkins morals ease raises this important question: How effective is the U.S. government program aimed at keeping possible security risks off the federal payroll?

The answer appears to be that an intensive effort is made, but that the machinery slips a cog now and then.

The magnitude of the effort is illustrated by a couple of statistics:

1. Last year the Civil Service Commission made 230,000 checks on applicants for nonsensitive jobs, such as mailmen. These checks cost about $5 each.

2. In the same period, the commission made 25,000 "full-field investigations" of people wanting sensitive jobs, such as computer operators handling national defense data. The cost of these probes averaged about $390.

The Civil Service Commission handles most — but not all — of these investigations for the executive branch of government. The FBI handles quite a few, including White House appointees. And each of the military services has its own investigative branches.

Under an executive order issued years ago and reinforced in another order of 1948, every appointive officer in the executive branch, from cabinet officer down to waste-basket emptier, is supposed to have clearance of some kind of another.

The highest clearances are required for all members of the National Security Council except the president and vice president and all who attend council sessions where sensitive matters are discussed. This includes the secretary of state, the secretary of defense and the director of the Office of Emergency Planning.

The National Security Council does not make investigations itself. It relies on the agencies who send people before it.

"For example," an official said, "when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara attends a session, he is responsible for the guaranteed security of himself and the people he brings with him."

Jenkins, who resigned as special assistant to President Johnson this week after his arrest on morals charges in 1959 and last Oct. 7 became public knowledge, attended some National Security Council meetings and had access to any information the President had, persons familiar with his duties have said.

An Air Force Reserve officer, Jenkins was granted a top secret clearance by the Air Force in 1956 after an investigation into his background, the Defense Department said last night.

In 1958, when Johnson was majority leader of the Senate and in a position to receive much classified information, Jenkins, as his aide, was investigated by the FBI at the request of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Sources have said this check disclosed no personal behavior that might reflect unfavorably on Jenkins' clearance for access to classified material.

The clearance situation on Capitol Hill is different from that of the executive branch. Congress is a separate branch of government and not beholden to executive orders.

So, some congressional committees before hiring staffers, ask the FBI to look the applicants over. Others are more carefree, hiring people without even a $5 checkup.

What happens when a congressman or one of his employes, gets into a position where he needs access to top secrets, like those of the Atomic Energy Commission?

The director of the AEC then has the delicate task of determining whether granting such access will be in accord with national security.

One gathers that, on the record at least, elected members of Congress are not given the full "field investigation treatment."

But one gathers, too, that the AEC, in considering such questions, tries to look at congressmen and their employes as individuals, rather than officials, and tries to guide itself accordingly.

Champ Bull Shown By Ark. Farms

DALLAS (AP) — Winrock Farms of Morrilton, Ark., showed the grand champion Santa Gertrudis bull Friday as judging of beef cattle was completed at the State Fair of Texas.

Its winning entry was WR Petit Red 942-1, a two-year-old.

Vernon and James Smith Ranch of Walnut Springs showed the reserve grand champion bull, Rush Creek Ranch of Kerens the grand champion female and R. E. Smith Ranches of Houston the reserve grand champion female.

San Cayetano Ranch of Tumacacori, Ariz., paid the top price $1,400 for the fair's junior champion Santa Gertrudis bull in a auction. The animal was consigned by C. A. McDaniel of Uvalde.

The best price for a female was $900, paid by Dr. G. S. Rushing of Longview for an animal from Rush Creek Ranch.

Leckrone Dairy of Salem, Ill., exhibited the grand champion bull and Great Southern Ranch of Stephenville the grand champion female in the placing of Brown Swiss dairy cattle. E. L. Whitmire of Normangee had the reserve grand champion bull and Raymond Braddock of Dimmitt the reserve grand champion female.

Peace Corps Nurse Thrust Into Thick Of Malaysia War

AYER BALOI, Malaysia (AP) — The pretty brunette, dressed in a clean, white nurse's uniform, pedalled her way carefully along a rutted dirt road in the heart of Malaysia's rubber plantation country.

A village woman shouted "Missy" in friendly greeting and Erin O'Brien, 24, turned to lift her arm in reply.

At the same moment she lost her balance, plunged from the side of the road and sailed head first into a rain-filled drainage ditch.

Erin recalls the incident that occurred shortly after she arrived here in February as a Peace Corps nurse.

"It couldn't have been a better way to break the ice. It made me appear very human," she says.

The ice may be broken with the villagers but a strong element of danger persists around the young registered nurse. She has been thrown directly into the middle of Malaysia's fight against Indonesian guerrillas.

More than 100 guerrillas landed within a few miles of her bungalow a few weeks ago. Malaysian forces killed or captured more than 60 but the rest disappeared into the expanse of rubber plantations and dense jungle.

Erin takes a casual attitude toward the whole matter.

The young colleen — who grew up in Elmira, N.Y., but now lists Boca Raton, Fla., as her home — has too many expectant mothers and wailing babies to take care of to be concerned with a few armed Indonesians. When Malaysian forces clamped a 21-hour curfew on the area shortly after the landing, Erin's main concern was for the needs of the villagers.

Since the ban has lifted, however, she has been on the go almost every day, sometimes bicycling 16 miles a day to see her patients and discuss their needs in fluent Malay.

Her career with the Peace Corps began, by coincidence, on Sept. 16, 1963 — the day Malaysia was formed. Behind her lay her childhood spent mostly in Elmira, schooling in Baltimore and two years in pediatrics at Johns Hopkins hospital.

Erin arrived in the capital city, Kuala Lumpur, in January and spent nearly a month at various training centers before finally arriving at this small, tree-shaded village.

Her clinic, specializing in pediatrics and maternity cases, treats approximately 130 babies for the one day a week it is open for infants. On maternity day, an average of 50 mothers visit her.

Since Erin began giving immunization against jungle diseases her visitations trebled and she now treats 500 to 800 persons a month.

Four days a week the petite four nurse, whose Malay nickname means "bright eyes," works at her clinic with visiting patients. Two days a week she travels eight miles up the road to treat patients at another temporary clinic.

Sunday mornings she makes her rounds to the Kampong people, mostly rubber plantation and pineapple field workers. She doesn't give them extensive treatment in the field but urges them to bring their needs to her at the clinic.

In the afternoon on Sunday she travels to the nearby city of Pontian to give first-aid instruction to village wives, some of whom walk several miles for the lessons.

On her one day off, Erin might go down to the nearest real city, Johore Bahru, or to Singapore, some 150 miles from the clinic. At home in the evening she practices Malay or Chinese cooking, reads from a large library she has accumulated or practices her guitar.

But Erin's real life lies with the Malaysian people who so desperately need her assistance.

Although Erin doesn't attend births herself — she has a trained midwife with her for that — she provides pre- and post-natal care and advice to mothers.

Nor does she, as a registered nurse, look with disdain on midwife practices in the Kampongs. Erin says these women have been delivering babies for years and many of their practices — if somewhat crude — are successful.

She has had no trouble with village midwives, who might have resented her. On the contrary, they have sought her out to learn better ways.

Erin, joking and gossiping with the villagers in their own tongue, is warmly greeted on her arrival at the raised Malay-style houses. She talks with them in a light manner, but when she begins looking over the needs of the baby she grows serious. The villagers, noting her concern, also grows serious, then break into white - toothed smiles of relief when the inspection session is over and no one appears about to die.

Now fully knowledgeable on the intricasies of Malay manners, Erin completes one visit after another with no slips — all to the delight of her hosts.

The delight is secretly Erin's, however, for she is watched carefully by the family, relatives and scores of children. A false move, such as eating with the left hand, would bring silent condemnation.

Gets 3 Yrs. For Murder

EL PASO (AP)— William H. McKnight, 23, heard a jury pronounce him guilty late Friday of killing a rival for a woman he identified as his common law wife. His punishment was set at three years in prison.

Former Gov. Coke Stevenson as a special prosecutor had demanded that McKnight draw the death penalty for shooting Kelly Coy Parker at Bandera in 1962.

Chief defense lawyer Fred Semaan applauded the verdict as a reward for "an uphill battle all the way."

Witnesses in the trial related these details:

McKnight, a graduate student at Texas A&M University, and Bernice Flach informed their parents they had married although the couple actually had not wed.

He and Miss Flach moved into the McKnight home. Miss Flach told McKnight's mother the day of the shooting, however, that she was leaving to marry someone else.

McKnight said he drove home from Austin and heard Miss Flach say she intended to marry Parker after the two spent the night together.

Semaan said McKnight wanted to be formally sentenced at once and hoped to leave here en route to the state prison at Huntsville by Tuesday.

Olympic Records Set By Americans

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — Dallas Long, Henry Carr and Fred Hansen set Olympic records in resounding victories Saturday, but the United States' dominant swimmers suffered a major setback in the 1,500-meter men's freestyle when they gained only a silver second-place medallion in the Tokyo Games.

The Americans, boasting world record-holder Roy Saari and John Nelson in the event, figured the gold medal in the bag, but had to settle for second, by Nelson, as Australia's Bob Windle churned in the winner.

A 1-2-3 sweep of the medals in the women's 400 meter individual medley, led by Donna de Varona, Santa Clara, Calif., took some of the sting out of it, however, and pushed the Americans' leading medal total to 52, including 23 gold, 15 silver and 14 bronze.

Russia, after seven days of competition in this 18th Olympiad, now has 33, including 11 gold.

Hansen, the world record-holder from Cuero, Tex., had to survive a nine-hour marathon and a severe challenge by Germany's Wolfgang Reinhardt before he clinched the pole vault with a successful third attempt at 16 feet, 8¾ inches.

John Pennel, Miami, still bothered by back trouble, and Billy Pemelton, Mercedes, Tex., went out hours earlier and killed a Yankee hope for a sweep.

Long, a massive man from Los Angeles, won the shot put and set an Olympic record with a toss of 66-8½, while Carr, a lithe, lean student at Arizona State, won the men's 200-meter dash in 20.3, just one-tenth of a second off his world's record.

Miss de Varona, the blonde beauty of the American women's swimming team, came home in an Olympic record 5:18.7 in the women's 400-meter individual medley, leading teammates Sharon Finneran, San Gabriel, Calif., and Martha Randall, Wayne, Pa., in an American sweep.

Long, the world record-holder in the host, announced his retirement shortly after he had clinched the United States' 500th gold medal in Olympic history.

"This is it for me," the 260-pounder said. "I don't plan to compete any more. It's back to school and more training for dentistry."

Carr's triumph completed a one-two punch in both the shot and 200 meters for the United States, and secured once again U.S. Olympic sprint supremacy.

The U.S. lost both sprint gold medals — long considered private property — in 1960. Bob Hayes got one back in the 100 meters two days ago, and Carr completed the comeback with his Olympic record performance.

Paul Drayton of Cleveland was second in the 200 and Randy Matson, a teen-age giant from the brown, rolling prairie country of Pampa, Tex., was second to Long with a toss of 66-3¼, also over the old Olympic mark.

"He has everything," Long said of the 6-foot-6, 240 pound Texan. "Poise, strength, timing. In two years he'll be throwing it out of sight."

The United States was blanked in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and two women's events, the pentathlon and 400-meter run, but neither came as a surprise.

Belgium's Gaston Roelants, the world record holder, took the steeplechase in 8:30.8, an Olympic record and the third fastest in history, with George Young of Casa Grande, Ariz., fifth in 8:38.2.

Miss Press, whose sister holds the world women's shot put record, increased her world pentathlon record to 5,246 points. She was followed by Mary Rand of England and Galina Bystrova of Russia. America's Pat Winslow was seventh.

The U.S. did not qualify a girl in the 400-meter finals, won by Australia's Betty Cuthbert in Olympic record time of 52 seconds flat, but the men gave promise of more medals to come when they pushed a maximum three through qualifying rounds and heats in the 1,500-meter run, two rounds of the meters, the hammer throw and the 110-meter hurdles.

Uncle Sam's teen-age swimmers also advanced almost nonchalantly in two qualifications, with the junior varsity breaking the Olympic record in the men's 800-meter freestyle heats and the girls twice lowering the Games record in women's 400-meter freestyle heats.

US Olympic Team Seems Stirred Up

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Maybe that Russian weight lifter shouldn't have carried the flag one-handed in the opening parade.

Or maybe the kids just got tired of reading about how soft they were getting to be.

Whatever it was, something has sure stirred up this American Olympic team.

They are roaring through these Tokyo Games like Bob Hayes down the stretch of the 100 meters.

The American boys and girls are winning every medal they are supposed to win, and a lot where they were given about as much chance as Harry Truman in 1948.

It all started when Billy Mills of South Dakota, Kansas and the United States Marines, romped off with the 10,000 meters.

Upset? It would be no more surprising if they named a new high school in Atlanta after William Tecumseh Sherman.

After the long came the short. Hayes, who minces down the track like a runaway railroad train, took back the title of world's fastest human for the old homeland.

And so it has gone.

The swimmers have won so many medals they may sink slowly beneath the chlorine after this thing is over.

They were expected to do well, but this is ridiculous.

The 100 meter women's backstroke was a good sample.

France had the world record holder in there, Christine Caron, and the mademoiselle broke her own record in the finals. It wasn't good enough. Cathy Ferguson, a husky 16-year-old from Burbank, Calif., beat Christine, anyway.

Meanwhile, out on the pistol range, and over at the yachting, they were wearing out the Star Spangled Banner, too.

And on the rowing course, a bunch of the boys from Philadelphia who like to keep in shape on the old Schuylkill River of a Sunday whipped the eight-oar world champion German crew.

Of course, the Games have another week to go, and there are some sports coming up where the Yanks will have to pay their way in to see the victory ceremony.

But unless they lock the Americans in the Olympic Village, they are going to continue to dominate these Games as never before.

Steer-Hog Clash Tops SWC Action

By The Associated Press

The first full Saturday of Southwest Conference football play is headlined tonight by the clash of Texas and Arkansas at Austin.

From that game will come the leader of the race although the winner of the Rice-Southern Methodist game will be unbeaten.

Rice and Southern Methodist are opening the race for each at Dallas, also a night game.

Texas Tech, in third place with a 2-1 record, meets Baylor at Waco in another night engagement. Defeat for either team means elimination from the championship race.

The only daytime affair matches Texas Christian with Texas A&M at College Station. Each has lost four straight games. TCU already is out of the conference race with a 0-2 record, and the Aggies will be pitched out if they lose. They are 0-1.

Crowds totaling more than 115,000 are expected for the four games with most of the fans at Austin. A sellout of 65,700 has been announced there.

The Rice-SMU and Texas Tech-Baylor games are due to draw 20,000 each with 15,000 to 20,000 at College Station.

Arkansas is expected to go to the air in an effort to knock down Texas, the nation's No. 1 team and winner of 15 straight. Fred Marshall using the I Formation has made the Razorback aerial threat most pronounced. Texas has a strong pass-defense, however.

Arkansas has a 2-0 conference record, Texas 1-0.

The Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League won all five pre-season exhibition games.

Keane Has Edge Over Dark For Yankee Job

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the baseball world digested Friday's bombshells that left World Series rivals Johnny Keane and Yogi Berra as ex-managers, the grapevine whispered that Keane will be the new pilot of the New York Yankees and Leo Durocher will succeed him as field boss of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Reliable sources reported that Keane had the edge for the Yankee job over Alvin Dark, ousted earlier this month as manager of the San Francisco Giants.

Durocher was known to be the favorite of St. Louis owner Gussie Busch but the Cards' new general manager, Bob Howsam, was rumored to be pushing Charlie Metro, Chicago White Sox scout and veteran minor league pilot.

"Keane will take over Yogi's job" said a headline in the New York Daily News.

The News said it "learned of Keane's taking over the managerial assignment late Friday night when an authoritative source said the decision was made as long ago as three weeks."

Before the second-guessers had much of a chance to rehash the World Series, Keane marched into Busch's St. Louis office and handed in his resignation, which he said was written several weeks ago.

Not long after, Berra got the bad news from Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk that the American League champs had decided to replace him after a one-year trial. The 39-year-old Yogi immediately signed a two-year contract as a special field consultant under Houk.

Those were the biggest developments as baseball began its winter-long layoff from the hectic 1964 season.

In addition to the Keane-Berra announcements:

The Cleveland Indians, rumored to be moving to Seattle, decided to remain in Cleveland at least through 1965.

Eight wealthy Milwaukee businessmen asked baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to help them arrange negotiations for the purchase of the Braves, whose present owners reportedly plan to move the club to Atlanta.

Houk said the Yankees probably would name Berra's successor within a week.

In St. Louis, Busch appointed a six-man committee to screen Cardinal candidates.

The idea of dropping Berra, Houk said, began in mid-August when the Yankees were 5½ games out of first place.

'The move had nothing to do with losing the World Series," Houk said. "Friday morning was the first Yogi knew about it. In his new job, he'll be scouting major league teams and looking at some of the players in our farm system."

McKinley In Semis

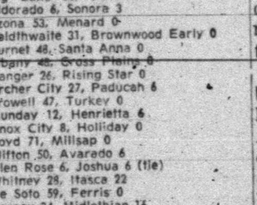

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, the No. 1 seed, was in the semifinals of the Racquet Club National Invitation tennis tournament today and the No. 2 seed, Dennis Ralston, is expected to get there.

McKinley won his first round match Friday, beating Antonio Palafox of Mexico 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, while Ham Richardson of Dallas took out Pierre Darmon of France, 6-4, 6-4, and Cliff Richey of Dallas beat Rafael Osuna of Mexico 6-4, 6-3. Ralston plays Butch Newman of Trinity University today to round out the semifinals, scheduled for this afternoon.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, seeded No 1 in the women's division, beat Virginia Brown of Odessa 6-1, 6-1; Rose Marie Darmon of France downed Diana Beacham of Odessa, 6-1, 6-1, and Billie Jean Moffett of Los Angeles won over Billie Domingue of Odessa, 6-2, 6-2, to furnish three semifinalists. The other will come from a match today between Karen Susman of San Antonio and Carol Neely of Midland.

All finals are Sunday.

Former Yankee General Manager Roy Hamey now resides in Arizona. He retired after last season.

Conservation Has Caused Increase In Texas Wildlife

DALLAS (AP) — Texas' two million wild deer are a good example of what can be accomplished through a properly organized statewide conservation program, a wildlife official said today.

Much remains to be done, however, in conserving bird and mammal resources of the state, said E. A. Walker, assistant director for wildlife of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Addressing a governor's conference on natural resources management and development, Walker said:

"Research and management programs now under way must be continued to insure and improve proper management now and in the future.

"The conservation and proper management of the bird and mammal resources of Texas involve the protection and perpetuation as well as wise use of an extremely valuable and renewable natural resource.

"The quality of the management of this resource can be expected to ultimately affect every Texas citizen."

As an example of what remains to be done, Walker said an area of 15,000-20,000 acres is needed for research on birds and mammals in South Texas.

"As the pressure mounts due to population increases, the demands for public lands dedicated to outdoor recreation can also be expected to increase," he said.

He noted increases of deer in recent years, and said:

"There is no serious problem at this time in connection with deer production except in those portions of the state where local interests are not supporting a game conservation program."

Walker also spoke optimistically about the morning dove, which he said "is believed to provide more shooting than any other single game bird in the state.

"Their population continues to keep abreast of present gun pressure, although the annual kill in our state has been estimated in the millions."

Looking ahead, he said that some day the desert bighorn sheep might provide a limited season in the mountain ranges of the Trans-Pecos.

Snyder Tigers Defeat Tornadoes 21-12

Hobbs Edges By Mattson

MATTSON—The Hobbs Panthers warmed up for district competition which begins next week with a narrow 36-34 victory over the Mattson Mustangs here Friday night in a six-man football contest.

The Panthers were led by [illegible] and Tommy Lay in a game that was in doubt all the way.

In gaining the victory, Hobbs scored twice in the first quarter, once in the second, twice in the third, and once on a field goal, in the final period.

Freddie Martinez tallied first for the Panthers as he took a pass from Hull. The next score for Hobbs came on a 40 yard run by Lay.

Mattson tallied once in the first period on a five-yard run by Jimmy Ayeck.

The two teams exchanged touchdowns in the second period, with Hobbs getting one on another pass from Hull to Martinez. The Mustangs tallied on a 3-yard run by Dennis Opitz, with David Smith kicking for the extra points.

The same tried and true combination, from Hull to Martinez, was good for a 3rd period TD for the Panthers, and a pass from Lay to Martinez went for the extra point. During that same quarter Hobbs also scored on a 60-yard scamper by Lay.

Mattson tallied twice in this period, with the first score coming on a 50-yard run by Keith Chapman, and the other coming on an intercepted pass by Smith, who went 30 yards to cross paydirt.

In the final stanza the Panthers got 4 more points as Lay kicked a 25-yard field goal. Mattson got its final score on a 60 yard run by Chapman.

Hobbs will open up district warfare this week as the Panthers play host to the Ira Bulldogs. The contest has been designated as homecoming for Hobbs, and will be played Saturday night.

Rice Frosh Fall To SMU Colts 27-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Ralph Weaver and Mike Livingston teamed to mount a devastating offense as the Southern Methodist Colts crushed the Rice freshmen 27-0 Friday night.

Weaver broke loose for 43 yards on the second play from scrimmage and Livingston scored from the seven.

Defense Holds Tors Offense To 40 Yards

LAMESA — The Snyder Tigers, with a huge edge in the statistical department, won their first district contest here Friday night by defeating the Lamesa Tornadoes 21-12. The Tigers are now even in district play with one win and one loss.

In winning, the Tigers grounded out 216 yards rushing and added 86 via the air for a total offense of 302 yards. Meanwhile the Snyder defense limited the Tors to only one yard on the ground and 39 passing for a total offense of 40 yards.

The Tigers moved the ball well, especially in the first half, but were stopped five times inside the Lamesa 30 yardline during the contest. Meanwhile they scored in the first, second and fourth periods on runs from the 15, 4 and one yardlines.

Although most of the Tigers saw action, a number of them were not able to give full-time service, due to bruises and ailments. However, this gave some of those boys who usually do not see a great deal of action an opportunity to get some good experience.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff, and after one first down were forced to punt, with Kenneth Dower doing the kicking. The Tornadoes picked up a first down on two consecutive offsides penalties against the Tigers, but were forced to punt moments later, because of a defense led at this point by Bobby Kay, Donnie Newman, Danny Howell, Reed Robinson and Richard Elkins.

Starting on their own 18, the Tigers quickly racked up two first downs before bogging down at midfield. The biggest gainers were a 12-yarder by Richard Waters, who handled most of the quarterbacking chores for the night, and a 9-yarder by Leslie Brown, who was hampered by injuries.

TIGERS SCORE

The Tigers then received a big break when Lamesa fumbled and Donnie Newman recovered for Snyder on the Tor 15. The break was then converted to a touchdown on the next play as Brown rushed into the end zone for the first score of the contest. Tom Kincaid calmly kicked the extra points, his first of three during the tilt, and Snyder led 7-0 with about 4 minutes left in the initial period.

Kincaid then kicked off, and it was a good one, being picked up on the Lamesa 8 yardline and run back to the 20, where the ball carrier was stopped by Jackie Rice, Rodney Gray and Larry Walton. Three plays then netted the Tornadoes just yards as they could not penetrate the Snyder line. Kay, Elkins, Ray Kizer, Kincaid and the whole center of the Tiger line stopped them cold.

The Tigers then began another march that took them to the Lamesa 27 before running out of gas. The longest runs during this drive were by Kincaid, Albert Williams and Waters, who went for 12, 9 and 9 yards, respectively.

WILLIAMS INTERCEPTS

After a 3-yard run by Lamesa quarterback Dick Roberts, the Tors picked up one, stopped by Jerry Kincheloe, Kay, Roy Miller and Robinson. Lamesa then tried a pass, but it was intercepted by Albert Williams, and Snyder was back in business on the Lamesa 45.

This time it looked as though the Tigers would not be stopped, but they were. Kincaid drove for 2, Waters picked up 8, and then Williams ran for 11 and a first down on the 24. Brown almost went all the way then, but was stopped on the 9. With first and goal to go for the Tigers the Tornadoes dug in. Kincaid got one, Brown managed for 3, Williams twisted for about 3, and Brown almost went over, just lacking a matter of inches, but the drive was halted.

A five-yard penalty against Snyder gave the Tors a little breathing room just outside their 5. They picked up a first down on the 12, but could not go. On the first down, the whole Tiger line rose up to stop the carrier for no gain. Lamesa then picked up 3, and on 3rd down Ray Kizer and Newman rushed in to stop the Lamesa quarterback for a 5-yard loss, and the Tors had to punt from deep in their own territory.

KINCAID SCORES

Rice took in the punt and returned it 19 yards, with a nifty bit of running, and the Tigers had the ball on the Lamesa 32. Brown took the ball on the first play and scooted 25 yards to the 7. Kincaid then took it to the 3, and on the following play he blasted on in from the 4. After the boot, the Tigers had a 14-0 lead with just over 2 minutes remaining in the first half.

On the ensuing kickoff, the Tornadoes pulled some real razzle-dazzle, with sophomore halfback Gary Mayfield ending up with the ball and running some 80 yards before he was driven out on the 5 by a game-saving tackle by Buddy Shaw. The Tigers tightened up and after two running plays Lamesa had netted only one yard, due to a defense led at this point by J. B. Murphy and Jackie Rice. On third down, Roberts threw a quick jump-pass over the line to Leonard Shipley, and the Tornadoes had their first points of the 1964 season. Jim Anderson's try-for-point was no good, but Snyder led by only 8 points with seconds left in the half.

TIME RUNS OUT

The Snyder Tigers then almost went for another score in the waning seconds. Two quick passes by Waters, one to Brown good for 21 yards, and another to Williams for 25 yards took the Tigers to about the 4 yardline. Williams quickly signaled for a time out, but the clock was allowed to run out.

There was no score during the 3rd stanza, as the Snyder eleven kept the Tornadoes in the hole most of the time. The Tigers managed to get inside the 30 three times during this period, but could not cross the goal line. They even tried a field goal from about the Lamesa 26 about midway through the quarter, but Kincaid's kick, although true in aim, fell short, just under the goal posts.

The longest run by either team during the 3rd quarter was a spine - tingling one by J. N. Wall that kept one Snyder drive going. With 3rd down and need ing 14 on his own 45, Wall kept, went to his right, and then took off down the sidelines, and was not halted until he had gained 21 yards.

WILLIAMSON SCORES

The final Snyder touchdown came about halfway through the final quarter after Kay had intercepted a Lamesa pass and took it to the 31. The score was set up by a 25-yard pass from Wall to Jay Williamson. Two plays later Williamson took it over from the one.

Lamesa tallied its final points after taking over on the Snyder 10 yardline when a 4th down snap from center was off its mark and Brown was unable to get a punt away. Roberts passed to Lindsey for the six points. The try-for-points were not successful, and Snyder led 21-12.

SCORING

SNYDER — Brown on 15-yard run with 3:50 left in first quarter. Kincaid kicked extra point.

SNYDER — Kincaid on 4-run burst, 2:10 remaining in half. He then kicked extra point.

LAMESA — Shipley on 4-yard pass from Roberts, with 51 seconds left in first half.

SNYDER — Jay Williamson on one-yard run. Kincaid kicked extra point. Time: 6:08 left in game.

LAMESA — Lindsey on 10-yard pass from Roberts with 1:29 left in game.

Cardinal Fans In Uproar Over Keane's Resignation

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis baseball fans expressed disbelief, anger and sympathy Friday after Johnny Keane resigned as manager of the Cardinals and Yogi Berra was fired as manager of the New York Yankees.

"I think it's a shame it had to happen this way," said Tony Manisalco, a barber. "If (Leo) Durocher gets in, I'll never root for the Cardinals again."

He referred to a reported move that August A. Busch Jr., club owner, had sought to make Durocher manager of the Cardinals next season.

"The general reaction of our customers is that the whole thing has been very foolish on the part of the Cardinal management," said a bartender. "If they put Durocher in, not many people will go to see the games next year. People are rather upset about this."

"I think it's the smartest thing Keane ever did," said a St. Louis County police sergeant. "He worked his heart and soul out for the Cardinals and the most he would have gotten is a one-year contract."

"I'm really proud of Keane for having the courage to do this," was the typical comment.

A secretary said "I think it's lousy. All he (Keane) wanted was a two-year contract. After all, he brought the pennant and the World Series to St. Louis."

And there were some who were happy to see Keane go.

The owner of a tavern, Norbert Thurmer, said "I don't believe he was that good a manager. He managed too much by the book. I'm happy he's gone."

"It is a shame it has to work out the way it did, though. I'll say it is a shame. Keane did a heckuva job this year for the Yankees. I can't understand why they had to get rid of him. Berra is a nice guy, but I don't think he's a manager. He's a player."

Another tavern owner, Richard Hochecker, said "I'm glad he's gone. I'm behind Mr. Busch. It's his team."

On The Hill, St. Louis' Italian-American community where Berra was raised, friends of Berra were shocked.

"You must be kidding," said Joe Garagiola, a sports announcer and close friend of Berra. "I'm stunned. It's almost like hearing an obituary. Yogi did a heckuva job this year for the Yankees. I can't understand why they had to get rid of him. Berra is a nice guy, but I don't think he's a manager. He's a player."

Julius Garagnani, part-owner of Stan Musial's and Biggie's Restaurant, said he wasn't surprised about Keane resigning. "But this floors me.

"I wonder what is happening to baseball," he said. "It seems like loyalty is a thing of the past."

At a favorite tavern meeting place for Berra admirers, bartender Mel Mercurio said "I refuse to believe it. Who would do anything like that. He did a tremendous job for the Yankees."

Wave Of Upsets In Schoolboy Play

By The Associated Press

Defending champion Petersburg of Class A fell along with nine other previously undefeated, untied teams Friday night as a wave of upsets swept through Texas schoolboy football.

Petersburg, which hadn't lost a game since year before last and was undefeated and untied through 12, was nosed out 7-6 by Idalou and isn't likely to make it back to the state playoffs.

Two great winning streaks continued. Rockwall, champion of Class AA, beat Lewisville 21-13 and made it 20 straight victories. Garland, the kingpin of Class AAAA, walloped Carrollton 35-0 and hung up its 18th consecutive triumph.

Galena Park beat LaMarque just 46 undefeated, untied team, Austin 14-8 to trim the unbeaten, untied teams in Class AAAA to seven.

Arlington Sam Houston and Cuero were ushered out of Class AAA's perfect records ranks. Weatherford trounced Sam Houston 41-8 and Cuero was crushed 35-0 by San Marcos.

Anson and Granbury took the count in Class AA, Anson 19-0 at the hands of Ballinger and Granbury 22-6 from Dublin.

Four teams, including Petersburg, were whipped in Class A to whittle the list to 11. Seagraves was knocked out by Wink 20-19, Bogata was trimmed 35-0 by Jefferson and Agua Dulce took the plunge before Woodsboro 38-0.

All of this fuss and furor left Barlick began his career in the Northern Association in 1936.

Chamberlain Hospitalized For Opener

By The Associated Press

Bill Russell is too fat and Wilt Chamberlain is too sick.

That's the story in a nutshell as the Boston Celtics and San Francisco Warriors, division champs a year ago, prepare for their National Basketball Association openers tonight.

Boston is at home with Detroit, while San Francisco plays at Baltimore. In other action, Cincinnati is at St. Louis and Los Angeles at New York.

The campaign opened Friday night in Philadelphia, where the 76ers trounced Detroit 125-113. Hal Greer collected 32 points and Paul Neumann 20 as the 76ers led throughout.

"I'm very happy with rookies John Thompson and Ron Bonham," Boston coach Red Auerbach said, "but outside of Willie Naulls, I'm not too happy with the veterans—particularly Russell and Tom Heinsohn."

The Celtics have won eight championships in nine seasons. Russell, Heinsohn and Auerbach himself are the only survivors of the first championship squad.

Chamberlain will remain in Philadelphia's Temple University Hospital while the Warriors keep their fingers crossed for a speedy recovery.

Nate Thurmond, 6-foot-11 second year man, will take Chamberlain's pivot spot.

Mustangs On Top After 2nd Victory

As a result of District 3-AAA activity Friday night Sweetwater took a clear - cut lead in the standings and Lake View went to the cellar.

The Mustangs won their second in a row with a 36-8 victory over the Brownfield Cubs. Quarterback Benny Pace and Fullback Danny Foust led the Mustangs to the win before a homecoming crowd of some 4,000 persons. Brownfield has now won one and lost one in district play.

The Lake View Chiefs found themselves in the cellar all alone as they fell to Littlefield 6-20. This makes the second straight loss for the Chiefs. It was the first outing for Littlefield, who was open last week.

In the only other contest the Snyder Tigers edged by Lamesa 21-12 to even their record after two games. Lamesa has now lost one and tied one.

Sikes Has Lead In Sahara Tournamen

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Dick Sikes, the 24-year-old upstart in his rookie year on the professional golf tour, led the way into the third round of the $70,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament today, with a three-stroke lead.

The national collegiate champion of 1963 held a five-stroke bulge over National Open champion Ken Venturi, six over Arnold Palmer and eight over the defending champion of the Sahara event, Jack Nicklaus.

Hornung Injured For Colt Game

By The Associated Press

A pinched shoulder nerve makes halfback Paul Hornung a questionable starter for the Green Bay Packers against the Baltimore Colts in a game Sunday for first place in the National Football League's Western Conference.

The game tops a Sunday program of seven NFL and two American League games. An AFL game between the New York Jets and the Houston Oilers is scheduled tonight in New York.

Hornung was injured last week and may play, although Packers Coach Vince Lombardi is often close-mouthed about the effect of injuries to key players. In the season's first meeting between the clubs, Hornung missed an extra point attempt as the Colts won 21-20. The Colts (4-1) lead the Packers (3-2) by one game in the conference.

The defending champion Chicago Bears (2-3) will depend on the passing of Bill Wade against the Detroit Lions, whose 3-1-1 record gives them a strong interest in the outcome of the Colts', clash.

Cleveland and St. Louis are tied for the Eastern Conference lead with 3-1-1 records. The Cardinals play in St. Louis for the first time this season, meeting Washington (1-4), fresh from a victory last week over Philadelphia. The Browns meet Dallas (1-3-1) on the rebound from a defeat by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

In other NFL games, Philadelphia (2-3) plays at New York (1-3-1), Pittsburgh (3-2) is at Minnesota (2-3) and San Francisco (2-3) is at Los Angeles (2-2-1).

Western Was Turning Point In Jimmy Stewart's Career

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thirty years ago this fall a gangling, hesitant-talking Pennsylvanian came to Hollywood to be met at the train by a Broadway pal, Henry Fonda.

And what, after those 30 years, is the most vivid memory of all for Jimmy Stewart?

"Well, I'll tell you," drawls Jimmy in a perfect imitation of Sammy Davis imitating Jimmy Stewart.

"It was a few years after I came back from the war — the big war. I had a couple of pictures that didn't do too well at the boxoffice, and was quite surprised when a magazine writer said he had an assignment to do a story on me . . . and then he said, 'The rise and fall of Jimmy Stewart.'

"Boy, did that shake me up? But I profited by it. I called my agent and said: 'Get me in a Western, quick.'"

Since then Stewart, now 56, has appeared in 12 Westerns, has, in a way, revolutionized the Hollywood star system and is a millionaire star riding higher than ever.

The article — the rise and fall of Jimmy Stewart — probably never will be written. Stewart is one of Hollywood's golden dozen of big moneymakers.

His current "Shenandoah," a Civil War story, is his 67th movie in 30 years.

What was Stewart's favorite picture?

"Everybody thinks I'll say 'The Philadelphia Story' for which I won an Oscar or 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington' in which I didn't but everybody thought I would. Wrong.

"My favorite movie of them all was 'It's a Wonderful Life.' It got all kinds of Academy Award nominations but 'The Best Years of Our Lives' won everything that year.

"Like 'Mr. Smith,' it was a Frank Capra picture — but never did the business that 'Smith' did. In fact, it was one of the pictures that led up to the magazine article assignment.

"You still see it every Christmastime on television. My kids think it's my best, too."

Stewart is also celebrating [illegible] year — he's using the same horse and the same battered cowboy hat that he first used when he made that historic decision 15 years ago.

The hat and the horse date back to "Winchester 73," the Western Jimmy wanted his agent to get quick.

He had only been in one Western before — and that a comedy — "Destry Rides Again."

At the time, Universal was in financial trouble. Producer Bill Goetz was head of the studio and there were no star names on the roster. The lot was filled with $75-a-week contract players including one named Rock Hudson.

Goetz lined up Hudson and one pretty good contract actress who was making maybe $125 a week — Shelley Winters — and submitted the script to Stewart's agent, Lew Wasserman of MCA.

Wasserman drove a hard bargain with Goetz and asked that Stewart get 50 per cent of the profits. Before that, with rare exceptions, actors worked on straight salaries.

Goetz agreed, but over the advice of fellow tycoons who predicted he would ruin the industry.

The rest is history. Stewart made millions from the successful picture. Now many stars are businessmen.

And Wasserman is head of Universal.

"He still drives a hard bargain," says Stewart. "Now he's got me working for a flat salary. That's one bucket my agent He's the boss."

Jimmy's career started on Broadway after his graduation from Princeton.

"My first night on Broadway [illegible] Night.' After a disastrous first act I was visited backstage by Josh Logan, an old Princeton pal. I asked him what I should do.

"Josh said quite simply: 'If I were you, I would shoot myself.'

But more plays followed, notably "Yellow Jack." Not long after this an MGM talent scout gave Jim the magic word — and a railroad ticket.

"I yearned to make the trip — not so much for the fame that might come — but for resumption of our Thursday night beer club — Hank Fonda, Burgess Meredith, Josh Logan, the late Myron McCormick and me.

"In New York, a membership of a dollar-covered steak sandwiches and beer. All of the members had preceded me to Hollywood."

Stewart moved in with Fonda, who lived close to Greta Garbo.

"One night — one hilarious night — we decided to tunnel into Garbo's house and pop up in her backyard and say 'Hi, honey.'

"The digging seemed fun when we started it but, by daylight, it was work — and we forgot it."

Stewart seemed destined to become a hardware dealer. His grandfather founded a hardware store in Indiana, Pa., back in 1853. Jimmy's father, Alex, also a Princeton man, operated it until his death in 1961.

"My father always kept my Oscar in the front window — although my pictures always made him sleepy. My mother was my greatest fan. She saw each one at least nine times. She always considered it a visit from me.

"We don't personally run the hardware store anymore but I've never leased it to anyone else. I don't think Indiana, Pa., would look the same without that sign on the main thoroughfare — J.M. Stewart and Co., hardware."

As a free-swinging bachelor [illegible] the town's most eligible. Then in 1949 he married Gloria Hatrick McLean, who had two sons. The Stewarts since have had twin daughters.

Mrs. Stewart calls Jimmy "the perfect husband."

Why?

"Because he doesn't behave like an actor. He's too normal."

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITORS NOTE: Seventh in a series of articles describing Mr. Fowlers experiences in the Holy Lands. Write to him in care of this newspaper for answers to travel questions.

There are two ways to get into the lost city of Petra — by horseback or helicopter.

The city, carved out of rock about 3,000 years ago, lies in a rock basin in a narrow valley completely surrounded by lofty mountains. The entire area is not over one mile in length by one-half mile wide.

Petra, because of its seclusion and inaccessability, has a varied and colorful history. It has been a harbor for thieves preying on camel caravans, the capital of a now extinct nation, and a Roman province and a main tributary to Rome.

Some of the earliest known writings about Petra, state that it was captured by Amaziah of Judah in 900 B.C. In about 300 B. C. it was taken over by the Nabataeans, an Arabic tribe which broke up and disappeared about a hundred years before Christ. At about this time the city became a tributary to Rome and later, a Roman province.

Up to the fourth century, Petra was a trading place on the camel caravan route between Syria and Arabia. A century later it disappeared from the annals of human history until it was discovered by a Swiss orientalist about the time of the War of 1812.

Why Petra "disappeared" for over 1,400 years perhaps will never be known. But it was easy to see, as we approached the magnificent mountains surrounding the lost city, how generations of travelers and nomadic tribes of this area of Jordan could pass by without observing the tiny opening.

On horseback we entered the narrow passage, at times almost brushing the towering canyon walls with our shoulders. The ride was short and, quite unexpectedly, we rounded a bend and came upon Khaznat Far'on, the most perfectly preserved monument of Petra.

The tomb, rising about two stories in height, is carved out of rock which ranges from a deep red hue to orange depending on the time of day and the sun's rays. Although the rock is soft enough to flake with a fingernail, we could not help but be amazed at the perfection of the intricate carvings which were done with crude instruments around 3,000 years ago.

We turned northwest on the trail and soon discovered that even the magnificent tomb had not prepared us for the splendor of the lost city. Looking down, we saw the valley and the canyon walls in which had been carved tombs and mourning cells and palaces of late Greek influence, and evidences of Egyptian and Oriental workings.

In the center of the rocky canyon floor were the ruins of an amphitheatre, convent, citadel and palace, constructed of stone quarried and cut no doubt within the canyon. The entire scene, because of the color of the stone, had an awesome rose-red hue which has resulted in Petra becoming known as the "rose red city."

The insides of the tombs, though disappointingly plain and cavern-like, offer the tourist one of the most unusual overnight lodging places to be found in the world. Because of the lack of accommodations within the canyons of Petra, the traveler has his choice of staying in a small crude hotel with few conveniences, sleeping in tents or within the tombs.

Some West Texas visitors slept in the tombs, despite more comfortable accommodations that I had arranged for them, and enjoyed it thoroughly.

Although a traveler can stand on a rocky cliff and see Petra in its entirety, at least two days should be spent in close observation of the colorful monuments and to gain the full impact of being in one of the true wonders of the world.

Regretfully, for we had not stayed long enough, we mounted our horses for the narrow passage which was to lead up "out into the world" again, still marveling at this lost city which has had such a colorful history.

And we wondered just what had happened there during those 1,400 years that it was lost.

Cure Is Unadvisable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Are you sore at the boss — but don't dare show it? Maybe you've got statis medicamentosa.

Says Dr. C. W. Wahl, of the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute:

"Self-medication with aspirins, tranquilizers, laxatives, cough syrup, sleeping pills and what-have-you often produces a bizarre set of symptoms hard to diagnose because they are different for almost every individual."

They include headaches, rashes, muscle spasms, tingling fingertips, dizziness and faintness.

Among the important causes is frustration created by suppressing ill-feeling toward the boss, Wahl told the Industrial Health Conference yesterday.

He didn't say what to do about it — but you could quit.

Cantor's Mind Sharp Until End

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A last visit with Eddie Cantor—

Cantor in his final years was far from the vital, kinetic figure who had danced across the Ziegfeld stage and the screens of movie houses. His speech had grown slow and heavy-tongued, evidence of the heart attacks that had withdrawn him from the entertainment scene. When he moved, it was with a deliberateness of a man who knew he was existing on borrowed time.

But his mind was sharp as [illegible] Hills home one day, his memory seemed unimpaired as he reached back to those days he liked to recall, when he was first flashing across the horizon of the entertainment world.

Cantor's doctor had prescribed a shot of whisky each day to assuage his ailments, and the comedian still didn't enjoy taking it.

"I never enjoyed drinking," he reflected, "and I think I know why. My first roommate in the Ziegfeld Follies was W. C. Fields. He never drank before the show — he couldn't and do his juggling. But when the show was over, he got plastered.

"I saw him three days before he died, and he said to me, 'I sometimes wonder what I could have been if I hadn't been on the stuff.'"

Cantor felt a mellowness toward Fields, as he did toward all his old fellow performers: Fanny Brice, Will Rogers, Bert Williams, Marilyn Miller, etc. But for Fields he had a special affection.

"He helped educate me," Cantor said. "Fields always carried books with him, and every day he would read the New York Times and several other newspapers. Each night he would get out the dictionary and pick out three words that he made me learn and use in sentences. By the end of two years with the Follies, I had amassed a pretty good vocabulary."

Cantor refused to let his heart disability end his good works. He was using all his efforts to line up a big television spectacular to raise money for Dr. Jonas Salk's Research Foundation.

"I can no longer raise money retail. I have to go after it wholesale," said Cantor, who had collected millions of dollars for the March of Dimes and other causes.

He reminisced about the great names he had worked with. He spoke affectionately of Samuel Goldwyn, who had brought him to Hollywood for a series of film extravaganzas. One was "Whoopee," in which Cantor had starred on Broadway for Flo Ziegfeld.

The stage producer wanted his star to stay in the show and make the movie version on Long Island during the daytime. Goldwyn argued that the film could be made cheaper in Hollywood, "because I can get the Indians right off the reservoir" (sic).

Dinah Shore In A Return To TV

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-T Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mellow-voiced Dinah Shore is back on the television scene after a year's absence in which she sought and failed to find a new way of life.

At the close of the 1963 season, Dinah announced she was quitting after a dozen highly successful years in television. She started with a 15-minute show, did 444 of them, then switched to an hour-long program that lasted for seven seasons.

"I've worked a long time," said the singer, who had started her career in 1931. "There are things you get to do only once in your life, like watching your children grow up. I'm determined not to let those things pass me by because I was too busy working."

She declared she was going to make Palm Springs her home, since it afforded a wholesome atmosphere for the rearing of her children. What she didn't reveal was that she also planned to marry Maurice F. Smith, a Palm Springs contractor. Their wedding May 26, 1963, was a surprise.

The marriage lasted a year. Now Dinah has moved her children back to Beverly Hills and is resuming her television career.

"I needed that year off from television," she explained between rehearsals for Saturday night's NBC telecast. "I had to slow down and find out where I was going. I never stopped singing; I would never do that. I played some dates where all I had to do was sing — that's pure enjoyment for me.

"Television was something else again. The blocking-out of the show never bothered me; it was easy to work out the mechanics. The real headache was in the planning: Trying to figure out what to do with the guest stars, how to keep the show moving, what to say. Most dialogue on variety shows is pure pap. It is a constant struggle to make the talk entertaining.

"Even in an hour show I usually did only three or four songs. So I was doing very little singing, which is what I really like to do."

When her marriage broke up and Dinah decided to return to television, she came on her own terms. She will be doing four nighttime specials and three daytime hours on which she will introduce treatments of problems concerning women: child molestation, geriatrics, housework vs. career.

The Saturday night show will feature David Janssen, Rose Marie and George Gobel.

Texas Voters Face Three Amendments

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Voters decide Nov. 3 on three changes in the state Constitution.

On the ballot, as "for" or "against" propositions, are what could be the 156th, 157th and 158th amendments to the 1876 Constitution.

None has stirred up much debate.

In their order, the amendments would:

1. Remove the legislature's authority to transfer up to 1 per cent of the permanent school fund annually to the available school fund.

2. Require notice to the public and to the Texas Water Commission of intent to introduce legislation creating or substantially altering a conservation and reclamation district.

3. Authorize the legislature to enact a program, under the federal Kerr-Mills Act, of financial help for Texans 65 and older who are not on the old age assistance rolls but who can't pay for medical services.

Since 1891 the legislature has had power to shift not more than 1 per cent a year of the permanent school fund into the available school fund for current state school aid expenses. It has used this authority 12 times.

The permanent school fund of $535 million is invested in government bonds and some corporate stocks and bonds. The interest and dividends goes into the available school fund. Increases in the investments' value and mineral income—such as oil and gas royalties from school lands—are not subject to automatic transfer to the available fund. They increase the permanent fund, which has been growing since 1948 at an average of $26 million a year.

Advocates of the proposed amendment say it will prevent depletion of the permanent fund by removing from legislators the temptation to dip in the fund to avoid new or higher taxes, which might be politically unpopular. They argue that mineral income is declining and the day may come when the fund will no longer be growing.

Opponents contend the legislature has used prudently and reluctantly its authority to draw on the permanent fund. They say the lawmakers should be allowed to retain the power for emergency use and such revenues as oil and gas royalties should be treated as income for the available school fund anyway.

The second amendment, obscure in its wording on the ballot, requires newspaper publication of a legislator's intent to introduce a bill creating or substantially changing a conservation and reclamation district 30 to 90 days before the measure is submitted.

Also reqquired would be delivery of the proposed bill to the governor for submission to the Texas Water Commission for its recommendation, which would go to the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House.

Included in the scope of the amendment is legislation adding land, altering the taxing authority or bond issuance authority and amending the qualifications or terms of office of the governing board of a district.

Those favoring the amendment say it would be a safeguard against creation of new units of government, with taxing powers, before those affected can prepare and argue a case against it. Requiring the water commission's opinion will provide expert advice on whether the proposed district would harmonize with the needs of the area and benefit the statewide water program.

Opponents say adequate notice already is given. They also argue that the amendment would add to the load of an already over-burdened water commission.

The medical care proposition has gotten the most attention. It would expand Texas participation in the federal-state program of medical assistance to the aged under the Kerr-Mills Act of 1960.

Texas already participates in a portion of the act that raised the amount of federal matching funds available for medical care to recipients of old age assistance. Since 1962, the state has paid a monthly group health insurance premium for each recipient plus direct payments to nursing homes.

The program costs about $30 million a year, with three-fourths of the money coming from Washington and the rest from Austin.

Medical services authorized by the proposed amendment include fitting of glasses.

The amendment is strongly supported by the Texas Medical Association, which says privately purchased health insurance and the old age assistance program already take care of the medical needs of 72 per cent of Texans 65 and over. The association says the Kerr-Mills program is preferable to medicare under social security.

Opponents say the program would place a heavier tax load on Texas citizens and is not needed. Some argue also that adoption of the amendment would be a step toward socialized medicine.

AT NEW ORLEANS CONVENTION—Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. McCloskey of Snyder are shown as they registered for a three-day convention for State Farm Insurance agency representatives at the Jung Hotel in New Orleans. More than 2,300 managers, agents and wives from 12 states attended. Among convention highlights were award ceremonies for those with exceptional insurance production and an address by State Farm president, Edward B. Rust.

China Kept Feverish Pace To Develop Nuclear Device

By BEM PRICE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A world coexisting uneasily between two nuclear power blocs is now confronted with three.

The division came Friday with Red China's announcement that a nuclear device had been exploded in her western reaches.

And Red China did it, beginning almost from scratch, in six years of incredibly intensive work.

According to intelligence sources here, Red China did not embark formally on a nuclear program until the summer of 1958 with the construction of a nuclear reactor near Peking with Soviet assistance.

This plant was capable of producing 2.5 kilograms of plutonium a year — enough for one bomb at the end of two years.

Since then intelligence sources have figured there are 15 atomic research laboratories in Peking alone and 21 elsewhere in Red China.

The explosion was no surprise to U.S. officials. On Sept. 29, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the Chinese Communists were approaching a point where they might be able to detonate a nuclear device and that it might occur in the near future.

There are now five nations in the atomic "club" — the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and Red China.

The United States, Britain and France belong to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Soviet Union has stood supreme in the Communist world.

But no more. The Soviet domination of the Communist world by holding up the only atomic deterrent available is broken.

In terms of raw destructive power, the Red Chinese explosion was insignificant compared with the megatonnage available to the United States and the Soviet Union.

But the explosion probably means that any hope of a deep cut in the U.S. defense budget over the next 10 years is gone.

The area over which the U.S. missiles must be targeted to destroy the war-making facilities of potential enemies over the next 10 years has been increased abruptly from 8.6 million square miles — Russia and Siberia — to embrace China's 2,279,134 square miles.

The advent of Red China as a nuclear power and the probability that she will soon have her own missile delivery systems, means that more pathways through space to the United States must be protected.

Even more than before, chiefly the probability that military adventurism by nations associated with Red China will increase.

If Red China rattles its atomic power toward the United States — and maybe even toward the Soviet Union — small, anti-western nations may feel free to undertake nonnuclear attacks on their neighbors. Indonesia against Malaysia or Indonesia against the Philippines, for example.

And it may make the local Communist guerrillas in Southeast Asia bolder.

Certainly the entry of Red China into the nuclear field is not going to make either India or Pakistan feel safer.

If the United States and its allies are to continue in their role as protectors of the freedoms of small nations, the Red Chinese explosion may also force expansion of nonnuclear forces.

One final point:

The Red Chinese entry into the nuclear field would seem to make expansion of the Navy's missile submarine force imperative.

It also makes cultivation of allies who will permit the placing of missile sites in their territories, equally imperative.

The aiming points for Soviet and Red Chinese missiles in the future must be dispersed.

That would seem to be fundamental.

Still Brings Fresh Water To Thirsty Greek Islanders

By PHILIP DOPOLOUS

SIMI ISLAND, Greece (AP) — Sea waters and sun rays have been brought together on this arid Greek island to make fresh water for a seafaring people who have thirsted since the time of Homer and before. Prosperity and repopulation are expected to follow.

The timeless elements were happily harnessed by a simple mechanical condensation method in an era that in sophisticated forms elsewhere has desalted seawater by intensive uses of atomic energy.

The apparatus in use here is called a solar still. It is a gift from an anonymous American philanthropist who wants to freshen other semi-desert islands as well, particularly in the Mediterranean basin. The project is sponsored by the Church World Service, a U.S. organization of Protestant and Orthodox churches.

The solar still works simply: salt water is piped into a collecting tank. Heat from the sun is trapped inside and the salt water evaporates as vapor rising collects on a plastic top from which the fresh water trickles down into troughs. The remnant salty soup (brine) is carried off in a drain.

The project has been in operation for weeks and estimated production is 7,500 gallons of fresh water daily at a cost of less than $3 per 1,000 gallons compared with $9 per 1,000 for hauled-in water.

The island, one of the smaller of the Dodecanese (10x8 miles), once sustained a population of 34,000; now there are 3,000 residents whose average per capita fresh water consumption has been one gallon daily.

The mountainous, barren island was chosen for the first plant because acute water shortages created a serious economic hardship. Rain caught in cisterns was the only supply and it was usually exhausted by June. In the April to November dry season water was brought in by ship.

The Simiotes, rated as Greece's top sponge divers, began emigrating because of water problems and the decreasing demand for sponges. Many families went to Tarpon Springs, Fla., and set up in the sponge business there.

Most of the island men now work in the Greek Merchant Marine, supporting their families with monthly remittances.

Mayor George Nikitiadis, who also serves as the island's doctor, sees a bright future.

"With the fresh water we can build hotels and fill them with foreign tourists," he says. "How could we build and advertise the island if we couldn't provide the tourists with a basic necessity?"

The perennial mayor, born on the island 60 years ago, remembers winters with hardly a drop of rain to fill the dry cisterns. Without government-shipped water the island would have been abandoned, he said.

Alexander Georgas, a teenage worker in the island's power plant, said: "Around about June, I'd take a long hard look at the dwindling water supply in our cistern and think about the long treks to the quayside to fill our cans with potable water.

"Now I believe most of will think twice about leaving the island, and start thinking about building a future here."

Evangelina Papanikonomou, 80, leaning on her cane, said that as a girl she dreaded the dry season.

"I can remember times after our cisterns ran dry when most of the children were full of lice and no water to wash in," the old woman said.

Misou Strateri, 44, a housewife wearing her Sunday best for the solar still inauguration ceremonies, said her merchant seaman husband hadn't been home in 18 months.

"I hope in some way, the water project will keep my husband here when he next returns," she said. "Now with all the water we require, there must be a business we can go start indirectly connected with this project."

American engineer Raymond Eckstrom of St. Paul, Minn., who supervised the building of the conversion plant, said he hoped to build hundreds more on islands around the world. He said the project can be termed a success.

"The islanders were so enthusiastic over the project that they willingly contributed one day out of five free toward the project," he added.

The Church World Service plans to operate and pay costs of the conversion unit for at least two years before turning it ove rto the Simiotes.

Sisters Found Guilty In 80 Deaths

SAN FRANCISCO DEL RINCON, Mexico (AP) — Two sisters found guilty of slaying at least 80 girls in the operation of a white slave ring in central Mexico.

The sisters, Delfina Gonzalez Valenzuela, 56, and Maria de Jesus Gonzalez Valenzuela, 39, were given the maximum sentence, 40 years in prison.

Several hundred persons gathered in front of the court house in this small, isolated town as Judge Timoteo Lozano pronounced his verdict. The trial began last January and brought forth details of starvation, beatings and death.

Nineteen other persons were convicted of being members of the ring and given sentences ranging from 1 to 35 years.

The prosecution contended the ring had been operating for at least 10 years and the girls who were slain had tried to resist discipline.

The Gonzalez Valenzuela sisters admitted operating houses of prostitution but denied guilt for the deaths.

At least 21 bodies had been discovered by the time the trial began.

Busy Day Planned For Young GOPs

AUSTIN (AP)— Politics and football dates filled an active schedule today for Barry Goldwater's two sons and William Miller's two daughters as they campaigned in President Johnson's home country for their Republican fathers.

They appear at a "go-Goldwater jamboree" in Austin's Zilker Park, travel 65 miles west to a barbecue at Fredericksburg and return to Austin for the Texas-Arkansas football game.

Campaigning for their dads are Goldwater's sons Mike, 25, a Phoenix bank employe, and Barry Jr., 26, a Los Angeles stockbroker, and Miller's daughters Mary Karen, 17, a high school senior, and Libby, 20, a Newton (Mass.) College senior.

The Fredericksburg barbecue was billed as a party honoring Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who was to deliver the main address. It took the Republican candidates' children within 15 miles of Johnson's LBJ Ranch.

Dates for the quartet were arranged by the University of Texas Young Republicans Club. Its president, Neil Wilkerson of Dallas, was to escort Libby to the football game.

David McGee of Longview was going with Mary Karen, Barry Jr. with Glory Hopkins, a co-ed from Richmond, Tex., and Mike Goldwater with Jane Maxfield of Wichita Falls.

Says Khrushchev Planned Step-Down

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, former U.S. Ambassador to Russia, says Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told him last year he would step down after he reached 70 and even named his successors.

The only surprise is the manner in which it happened, Harriman told a Ball State College audience last night. "In my opinion, his downfall began with the Cuban crisis," he said.

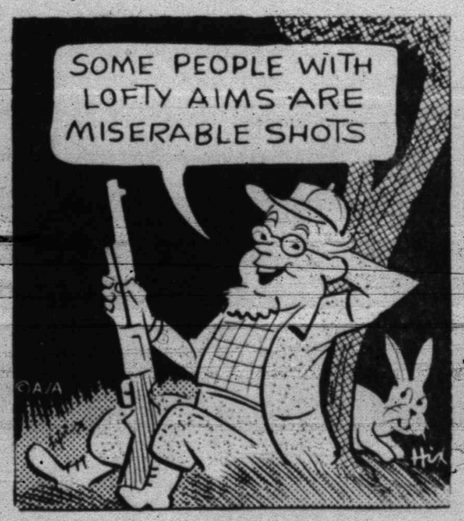

"The Red Chinese called him a coward for backing down."

Harriman, now undersecretary of state for political affairs, said that in 1963, when he last met with the Russian leader, Khrushchev mentioned his approaching retirement and named Alexei Kosygin and Leonid Brezhnev as likely successors.

Three-flour Break

¾ cup buttermilk, scalded
2 tablespoons shortening
1-3 cup light molasses
1 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup each white flour, stoneground whole wheat flour and stoneground whole rye flour

In a big mixing bowl stir together the buttermilk and shortening until shortening dissolves; stir in molasses and salt. Dissolve yeast in water; stir into buttermilk mixture. With a wooden spoon, gradually and thoroughly beat in the mixed flours. Knead on floured surface for 10 to 15 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top; cover. Let rise in warm draft - free place (80 degrees) until doubled — 1 to 1½ hours. Punch down; Shape into a loaf on floured surface. Place in greased loaf pan (8 by 4 by 3 inches); cover; let rise as previously until doubled — about 1 hour. Bake in a moderate (250 degrees) oven 50 to 60 minutes. Turn out; cool on wire rack.

New York Carrots

6 medium carrots
1 small onion, peeled
1 branch and 1 tablespoon (minced) parsley
4 whole cloves
¼ teaspoon each salt and sugar
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2½ tablespoons butter
½ cup boiling water
1½ to 2 teaspoons lemon juice

Pare carrots; cut in half crosswise; cut each half into 4 sticks. Gently boil carrots, covered, with onion, parsley branch, cloves, salt, sugar, pepper, 1½ tablespoons of the butter and the water until tender - crisp — 8 to 10 minutes — and there is scarcely any liquid in pan. Fold in the remaining 1 tablespoon butter, lemon juice and minced parsley. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Dilled Cucumbers

¼ cup sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
6 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons cold water
2 tablespoons dill seed
2 thin medium-size cucumbers

In a shallow container, stir together the sugar, salt, vinegar and water until sugar dissolves. Tie dill seed in a small square of cheesecloth and add. Scrub cucumbers and slice thin; if cucumbers have waxy coating, pare before slicing. Mix with marinade; cover tightly; refrigerate overnight. At serving time, drain cucumbers, add more salt if desired; sprinkle with a little of the dill seed from cheesecloth bag. Makes 8 servings.

Students Watch Their Tongues In Russian House

By BETTY HOPPER
AP Newsfeatures

SEATTLE (AP) — "Vnimatelno devushki!"

Roughly translated that means, "Attention girls!" It's like the familiar cry in college sororities of "Man on third," and blushes to the girl at Russian House who's slow with the Russian phrase for "hold it."

Sponsored by the University of Washington, it is the only year - round Russian House in the country. Among the 26 resident students, 13 are girls. All believe living with a language is the best way to learn it.

To qualify for residence each student must have had one year of college Russian or its equivalent, for nothing but Russian is spoken in the house.

A 5 cent fine is levied for each slip, and yet there are plenty of linguistic lapses.

One faux pas occurred when one of the men offered a girl half his dessert by asking if she wanted "pol" (sex) instead of using the word "polovina" (half).

But Russian House has its memorable experiences such as a visit by Lewellyn Thompson, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, and Mrs. Thompson.

John Jacobsen, a graduate student, leased a house in 1961 and got the living language experiment under way, but the original house was torn down later. This year the University sponsored the experiment.

Russian House is financed by funds from the University's Far East Department and the $85 per month charged its resident. A board of four faculty members and five students rule on general policy, while a house manager and elected officers attend to the day-to-day responsibilities of the house. House business meetings are conducted in English so there can be no misunderstandings.

A 12 - member choir directed by a priest from the Russian Orthodox Church, performs at the city's Russian Community Center. After the concert, students join in the dancing.

Contact with the Russian community has resulted in closer cooperation between the university and the community. Members invited as dinner guests include Russian language students on campus as well as members of the Russian community.

The Russian motif carries through from the curios to the cuisine. Portraits of Russia's literary giants hang on the walls and an ikon, made by a house alumnus, decorates one corner of the spacious living room. Language fines eventually will pay for a samovar.

Mrs. Nina Nikolaevna, daughter of a former Czarist governor of Tashkent, and her husband, act as house mother, cook, business manager and arbiters of language disputes. Russian dishes appear on the menu at least once a week.

Girls live on the third floor where no male is permitted unless brawn is needed to move furniture.

The second floor is the men's domain. Girls are not allowed except in the morning when a feminine knock substitutes for an alarm clock.

The men, spy they get sly looks from their classmates when a girl resident blurts out:

"How come you were so hard to wake up this morning?"

To substitute sweet milk for buttermilk in a muffin or quick bread recipe, pour a tablespoon of strained lemon juice into a 1-cup measure and fill the cup with the sweet milk. Allow the lemon juice and milk mixture [illegible] using after stirring.

Mrs. Bert Dennis Speaker For A. Daughters Meeting

The Altrurian Daughters Study Club met Wednesday at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Billy Greenfield, hostess. Mrs. Ward of Big Spring, mother of Mrs. A. D. Dodson was a guest.

For the afternoon program, Mrs. Greenfield introduced Mrs. Bert Dennis, president of the Womans Auxiliary to the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Assn. Mr. Dennis assisted his wife in showing film of the many interesting shows and displayed several samples of wools, some very sheer to the heavier types.

"The Romance Of Wool In America"

Mrs. Dennis said in part:

"Sheep production began 10,000 years ago in Central Asia, even then early man discovered sheep was a twe product animal — furnishing two essentials to life, warm covering and food. Men first used sheeps fleece as a kind of tunic and in 3500 BC the first wool was spun into cloth. Sheep spread through Europe and during the next thousand years Greeks, Romans and Persians contributed to improvements in the breeds, but Romans were responsible for bringing sheep to North Africa and Europe.

"Roman conquerors set up a woolen manufacturing in Winchester, England, in 50 AD. During the dark ages the Cistercian Monks are credited with preserving the industry. England's 'empire of wool' reached its highest point during reigns of Henry VIII and Elizabeth, but Henry's seizure of flocks belonging to the monasteries and redistribution of them to his favorites (who fenced them in) brought vast unemployment among shepherds. Many of them, unable to pay their debts, were imprisoned.

"It was discontent with the unfairness of this situation which caused a surge of immigration to the new American colonies. In America, the first sheep were introduced into what is now the Southwest U.S. in 1519 by the Spanish troops under Cortez. He became America's first ranchero. During colonial days, yarn and sheep were smuggled into U. S. (against England's wishes). In 1643, there were 1000 sheep in Mass. alone and grew to 100,000 by 1664. A law was passed by the General Court of Mass. requiring youths to learn to spin and weave.

"By 1650 northern colonists were shipping wool to other countries in return for trade goods. This enraged the English and they made sheep and wool trading an offense punishable by having the offender's right hand cut off. One cause of the Revoluntionary War, along with the passage of the Stamp Act, was the resentment of colonists over restrictions placed on sheep raising and wool manufacturing industry in America by the British. Despite threats and punishments, wool industry in America flourished and spinning and weaving came to be considered acts of patriotism.

"Betsy Ross made our first flag out of wool and Washington and Jefferson were both inaugurated in suits of American wool. Washington raised sheep on his Mt. Vernon estate.

"There are over 30 million sheep in the U. S. at present with over five million in Texas alone. Five countries: Australia, Russia, New Zealand, Argentinia and South Africa produce more sheep than the U.S.

"The U. S. has about 500 woolen mills and each year they change 300 million lbs. of wool into clothing and other useful products. Value of wool textiles produced in the U. S. amounts to about 2¼ billion dollars each year. Let's see how wool, natural wool loomed in America, goes from fleece to fabric. 1. Sheep shown of wool in the spring — experts using power clippers can clip 125 sheep a day —each fleece is folded together and tied separately with paper twine, then packed into hugh wool sacks — each sack can hold more than 250 lbs. or the fleeces of about 28 sheep. 2. The wool grower, ships these bags to a wool warehouse where a buyer appraises it—then the wool is shipped to mills where it is scoured and cleansed and the natural grease (laholin) is removed. 3. Then the wool is dyed, carded (this unsnarls the fibers. 4. The combing process is next, this makes the fibers run parallel and all short fibers are removed. 5. The wool is then drawn thru small rollers which further draw out the fibers. They are wound onto revolving bobbins that apply a twist to the finished yarn. 6 The weaving and finishing may include what is called 'fulling' this is when the fabric is treated with moisture, heat and [illegible] weave."

Mr. Rosson Speaks To AAUW

The Snyder chapter of the American Association of University Women met in the home of Mrs. Carolyn Reon for their regular meeting Thursday at 7 p.m.

Assisting Mrs. Reon as hostesses for the occasion were Prentice Glass and Brooksie Hodges. Twenty members and guests were present. Mrs. Jewel Summers gave the collect.

Mrs. Lida Rhoades, chapter president, conducted a short business meeting, during which Mrs. Summers, Miss Linda Salley, Mrs. Ruth Powell, Mrs. Martha Zeck and Mrs. Virginia Whitson were introduced as new members.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Reon introduced Mr. Renal Rosson, state representative from Snyder who presented a brief resume of legislation which has been recently before the state House of Representatives at Austin.

Mr. Rosson presented facts concerning legislation that has been passed concerning educational benefits for both public schools and institutions of higher learning. After an interesting and informative talk Mr. Rosson led the group in a discussion period about future needs and desires of our area, and of the state, as concerned with future legislation.

Refreshments were served by the hostess from a lovely table adorned with fall flowers.

Whole Bran Cookies and Cocoa Ideal Snack-Mates

Molasses whole bran cookies and hot cocoa make simple, vigorous refreshment. The snap and delicate "bite" of the spiced cookies taste especially good between warming sips of the beverage. The combination is ideal to serve after outdoor play or as a before bedtime snack these cool days and evenings.

Cereal cookies such as these are truly wholesome refreshment. Not only does whole bran cereal make the cookies taste better but it improves their nutritive value by the addition of protein, important B vitamins, essenial minerals, and food energy. The cookies will keep crisp and fresh for several days in a cooky jar.

Molasses Whole Bran Cookies

3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons ginger
2 teaspoons soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup seedless raisins
1½ cups shortening
1½ cups brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
1 cup whole bran cereal

Combine flour, spices, soda, and salt; sift. Add raisins; mix. Combine shortening, brown sugar, and eggs; beat until smooth and creamy. Stir in molasses and cereal. Add dry ingredients and raisins; mix until dry ingredients are blended in. Shape into balls, using 1 tablespoonful of dough for each ball. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Flatten slightly. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until done, about 10 minutes. Remove from baking sheet with pancake turner, cool on rack. Yield: About 3½ dozen cookies.

Moving Moisture Area

As the family laundry center is moved about by home planners, so are the problems normally associated with the laundry. Most recent trend, for example, is to locate laundry equipment near bedrooms as bath, on the theory that this is where soiled laundry originates. Moving the laundry facilities to these new areas means moving the moisture problem along along with them. Thus, walls and floors in the laundry should be surfaced with a waterproof, easy - to - clean material such as real ceramic tile. Ceramic tile; because it is impervious and permanent, is an ideal surfacing material in all "wet areas."

Flank Steak Continental

Here is an unusual way to prepare a flank steak - by rolling it over a filling of walnuts, mushrooms and coarsley chopped chips among other ingredients. Hot sherry wine is part of the sauce that makes this dish worthy of a Continental Chef.

PINWHEEL STEAKBAKE

2 cups coarsely crushed potato chips (measured after crushing)
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tbsp. finely chopped onion
3 tbsp. finely chopped mushrooms
3 tbsp. finely chopped parsley
3 tbsp finely chopped wlanuts
2 tbsp. commercial sour cream
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 egg beaten
1 flank steak, about 2 pounds

Saute onion in butter or margarine Blend mushrooms, parsley, walnuts, sour cream, Worcestershire sauce and egg. Add to onion mixture. Stir in potato chips. Place steak on cutting board. Cut lengthwise, with grain, almost in two. Open and flatten uncut edge. The meat is now half as thick and twice as wide as it was when you started. Spread potato chip mixture over meat, leaving about ½ inch on each end and far side uncovered. Roll from side as for jelly roll, folding ends to hold filling. Fasten with skewers or string. Place in shallow baking pan on rack in 350 degrees oven for 1½ hours or until fork-tender. Remove skewers or string and cut into ¾" slices to serve. Spoon sherry-mushroom sauce over.

Sherry-Mushroom Sauce

In saucepan, combine 1 can mushroom gravy with ½ cup sherry wine. Heat until bubbly.

Old Time Bands Won't Fade Away

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Despite the popularity of discotheques, those dark, frenzied places where everyone dances to rock 'n' roll records, the old time band won't fade.

As one jazz buff put it, if it weren't for bands, you couldn't have discotheque. The music played at discotheques are records by the latest bands.

The yen to be in a big time band often begins in schools with the stage bands. And this summer for the sixth time, many stage band performers - 14 to 19-are going to jazz clinics on college campuses.

Guest stars are there for the full two-week period. Among the big names are Dave Brubeck, at the University of Connecticut and pianist Marty Paich, at Phillips University at Enid.

Marty, a writer-composer, has arranged for Ella Fitzgerald, Frank Sinatra and many others to appear. Woody Herman, is at the University of Nevada at Reno; trombonist Warren Covington and arranger-composer Oliver Nelson head the clinic at Cleveland. Covington took over from Tommy Darsey at his death, then started his own orchestra.

While many young people further their musical education with the idea of working into a college scholarship (there are some around) a love for music is a common bond.

There isn't a vitamin lost either, by the most devoted jazz buff attending the summer jazz clinics. Many find their appetites improved under the planned sessions. They start the day off with a big breakfast.

After scrambled eggs, the group sits down to a classroom session on theory, arranging and orchestra rehearsal. After lunch is a workshop with the guest artist conducting the session. Next is a sectional rehearsal, followed by a before-dinner a practice or jam session. After dinner there is a jazz hour and then an entertainment hour.

There is always a great sense of community pride in bands, whether it's the school band marching in a parade, a neighborhood combo group or a big name band. Last year more than 175,000 school age musicians in the United States played in about 8000 school bands.

Lavish With Color

Lavish use of color is the hallmark of today's fashions in clothing, automobiles, home decor, furniture and appliances. Bright or subdued, contrasting or harmonious, color is adding warmth and vibrancy to our daily lives. That's why such versatile materials as ceramic tile are finding increasing use by decorators. Ceremic tile, for example, is now available in more than 150 colors and an infinite number of design patterns.

Decorators Also Make Architectural Changes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many apartments and houses have rooms that resemble little boxes so that interior designers must often take care of architectural details before getting to the home's furnishings. You can't get that continental look that everyone wants these days with a background of blank walls, says interior designer George Bockman.

"The good thing is that people accept architectural details you suggest. Years ago they fought it," he says.

In the 1930s when stark modern was in vogue, a reaction from the crash, it made no difference really what kind of background you had for furniture. People were escaping from the opulance of the 20s, he says.

But today richness is in style again. People want to enjoy their homes and have others enjoy them. If they go to the theater, it is because they want to, not because they want to escape from dreary abodes.

Bockman revives rooms wih crown molding or a dado, if possible. He aims to provide true architectural detail, such as boiserie (French panelling) as often as possible.

"Even when the budget is low, it is possible to have these treatments by using simulated effects of moldings and boiserie manufactured in paper. Even in rented apartments people take a lot of care in this type of detailing, he points out.

"Ive found people will put money into their homes when they are interested in a definite style. But if there is an ordinary assemblage of furnishings, they will not want as much for their homes. When one realizes what total design means, though, one is not so conscious of how much it costs as how to achieve it, he says.

Once you understand furnishings and background, you can create effects of your own. Trouble is that amateurs go all to pieces if a mistake is made, he says. Instead of merely trying to solve it some way. Interior designers cope with mistakes, often getting better results born of the necessity of correcting the error.

A wall scenic in his own home is a case in point. A former scenic designer for television and Broadway, his knowledge came in handy when a problem arose.

"I had ordered scenic wall panels from miniature panels that were charming. But when I saw the full - scale scenics on my wall, I was shocked — the colors were far too sgrong.

"I could have had an artist work at $75 a day to correct the look, but that was too expensive. So I bought theatrical netting, wide and seamless, and spread it over the entire wall, surrounding it with a galloon (narrow trimming) to make it look chic. The mist created by the netting looked perfectly natural over the architectural theme, an Italian landscape."

That's how a different look is born. ut sometimes it takes courage to try.

One big help for interior designers has been the interest in quality furnishings displayed by clients, says Bockman, who is newly elected president of the New York Chapter of the National Society of Interior Designers.

They want quality in everything — art, architectural details, color, furnishings. And the key thing is, he says, that more people recognize fine detai in furnishings — fine carving and furniture finishes obtainable today in authentic reproductions.

Thought some people seem shy and restrained when exposed to shocking ways of using color, they are stimulated by it. The impact of good design and forward - looking designers is helping everyone, he says. Some people originate; some adapt. It's like women's styles, he points out. Some set trends; others copy.

Dining rooms of the smallest apartments are being made more formal, and small areas of living rooms and other space can become spots to set up formal dining in a jiffy. Bockman has set up such dining areas in less than a half-hour with two or three card tables, fine linens, beautiful candles and accessories, storing everything in a handy adjacent area until needed.

"I give a dress rehearsal and my client knows what to do when the time comes. One table can be keyed to a color in one accessory, another table in another color, if desired," he explains.

Patron Saint of Gardeners

Gardener's Corner

BY EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

THE LIFE-SIZE statue of St. Fiacre, patron saint of the gardeners, that stands in Florida Cypress Gardens near Winter Haven, Fla., is a tribute to Vernon Rutter Sr., who has supervised the gardens since their beginning. St. Fiacre Feast Day was celebrated Aug. 30.

The statue, carved in Italy, was placed in the gardens by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Downing Pope. It has a pointed shovel in one hand and an open Bible in the other.

A large fern tree towers above St. Fiacre and flowers of the season bloom constantly on either side. In the background are white azaleas.

St. Fiacre was born about 670 A.D. in Ireland and went to France.

According to legend, St. Foro, Bishop of Meaux, offered St. Fiacre as much land as he could turn up in a day. St. Fiacre turned the top of the soil with his staff, instead of using a plow, which gave him a larger plot of land. Many healing miracles were attributed to him.

Other statues of St. Fiacre stand in New York City's Cloisters and Metropolitan Museum.

* * *

A reader in Ely, Minn., wrote that her garden has been infested with cutworms this summer as never before and asked what action to take against these ugly caterpillars.

She said that in other years the cutworms would cut down the plant at ground level and let it go at that. But this year they also crawled all over the plants and chewed the leaves.

If you have only a few plants, a cardboard collar set an inch deep in the ground and high enough to prevent the cutworm from going over the top will protect tender growth.

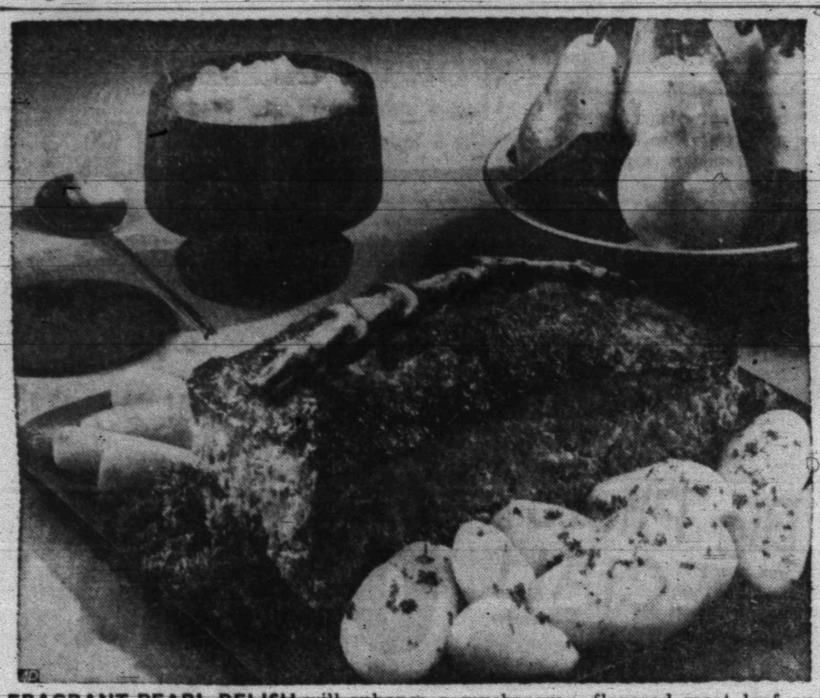

Large gardens make such individual barriers difficult. Dusting or spraying with 5 per cent DDT, chlorda. or dieldrin is one mass treatment. Cutworms also may be poisoned with a bait made of one-quarter of a pound of Paris green to five pounds of wheat bran to which is added enough water to moisten it. This should be scattered around or mixed in the ground near the plants.

To fold egg whites into a batter, use a rubber spatula, cutting it vertically through the mixture and turning over by sliding the spatula across the bottom of the bowl and up. Continue this action until the egg whites combine with the batter.

DRUG FACT 9 92

In almost all cases, the price of an effective new drug goes way down after mass production takes over. This was true of Cortisone, vitamins, Salk vaccine, the steroids, etc. And because they work so fast, modern drugs usually reduce your total cost of illness. Your prescriptions filled here are uniformly and fairly priced, always.

FRAGRANT PEARL RELISH will enhance a mushroom - flavored meat loaf and other main dishes.

Bartlett Pear Relish Rates High

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

NOWADAYS GOOD cooks are likely to treat their family and friends to delightful old - fashioned homemade relishes — but they do so without the trouble Grandma went to in preparing them.

How does this happen? Modern cooks make the relishes in small batches and serve them right away or store them in the refrigerator.

In Grandma's day, relishes were made in vast quantities. Bushel baskets of fruits and vegetables were peeled and chopped. Huge preserving kettles were brought from their storage places. Jars were washed and sterilized. No more — well hardly ever.

With no fuss, you can have the old - fashioned aroma of fruits and vegetables, simmering in a spicy syrup, wafting over your kitchen, and you can have old - time pride in a homemade confection.

If we've persuaded you to try this small - batch preserving, then we urge you to start with this recipe for a relish made with Bartlett pears. It's the best of its kind to come our way.

Its attributes? Because light-colored spices are used, the pears and tomatoes called for hold their pretty colors, and the Bartletts hang on to their delicate flavor. If you follow recipe directions and dice the pears in good - size pieces, they will retain their shape.

The first time around, we served this Fragrant Pear Relish with a mushroom meat loaf; then later with sliced cold veal, with broiled fish, and with a mild curry. All our tasters voted for the relish and menu combinations.

FRAGRANT PEAR RELISH

2 pounds fresh firm-ripe Bartlett pears
1 pound tomatoes
1 cup chopped (medium coarse) green pepper
½ cup chopped (medium coarse) onion
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ cup cider vinegar

Pare, core and coarsely dice pears — there should be about 4½ cups cut in ½ to ¾ - inch pieces. Dip tomatoes into boiling water for a minute or two and remove skins; cut into medium - thick wedges to make 2 cups.

In a kettle, mix together the pears, tomatoes, green pepper, onion, sugar, salt, pepper, mustard, ginger and vinegar. Bring to a boil, stirring often. Simmer until pears are soft and transparent and liquid is thickened. Makes about 1 quart. Serve warm or cold. Store any relish not used in tightly covered jar in refrigerator.

Dream Kitchen May Be Just Over Horizon

A dream kitchen that will take care of everything automatically may be here sooner than you think.

It will combine very new ideas — such as devices that will do everything but serve and eat the food — with one of the oldest of all building materials.

The ancient material that figures so prominently in the dream kitchen is ceramic tile, which will be prefabricated to countertop and wall panel size. The tiles will be joined together with stainproof grouting that is practically as tough, colorful and easy to clean as the tile itself.

Among the new gadgets modern home planners are contemplating will be a "program cooker" that will combine food freezer and oven. A push on a button will send a full - course meal along a conveyor from the freezer to the oven. In less than 30 minutes everything from appetizer to dessert emerges from a handy serving window.

Then there will be a plastic dishmaker. Here you will merely dial for a plate, bowl, cup or glass — press another button — and in short order out it will pop, pressed from a sheet of plastic.

Another item that will please tomorrow's homemaker will be the ultrasonic dishwasher that will wash dishes with sound waves.

A Clean Castle

In days of old, when knights were bold, milady had a clanking night and his trusty steed tracking up the castle. Her cleaning problems may dim beside the modern homemaker who had to put up with muddy football players, dank fishermen and weekend gardeners. The modern homemaker can be far ahead of her medieval counterpart, however, if entryways are surfaced with easy-to-clean materials such as real ceramic tile. No need for bullrushes on the floor, just a swipe with a damp mop does it.

Nation's Illiterate Said One Of Today's Basic Problems

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS (AP) — A skilled mechanic comes home from work and greets his wife. If the children are there, he picks up the paper and holds it in front of his face. He looks like he's reading.

But he isn't. He can't read or write. He does that every day so his children won't find out.

A woman in a grocery store selects cans with pictures on them because she can't read the labels, not even simple words such as peaches and beans.

A woman waiting for the bus says she's left her glasses at home and asks the man standing next to her to tell her what bus is coming. She can't read the route sign as the bus pulls up.

These are examples of how eight million or so illiterate American adults act in a modern society and with its written word.

The most casual social situations can become moments of private agony for the illiterate as he relies on his memory, his inventiveness, sometimes his sense of humor and always his wits to hide his secret.

Light was thrown on the problem after World War II when it was disclosed that 600,000 American youths called up for the draft were rejected because of illiteracy.

Labor secretary Willard Wirtz said last year that 16 per cent of the youths called for the draft in 1962 couldn't read or write and thus failed to pass basic requirements for military service.

The widespread automation of American industry and business has tended to aggravate the problems of the illiterate.

If a worker who has operated a machine for years is pushed out of his job because of automation, it's unlikely he will be able to get a similar job.

And if he can't read or write, he has virtually no chance of retraining himself for anything save the most menial forms of employment.

Such a man often has no recourse but to turn to public welfare.

"Illiteracy is one of our basic problems today," said Dr. J. B. Adair, director of the Baylor University Literacy Center.

"It's a vicious circle. Illiteracy breeds illiteracy."

He said he wasn't sure whether poverty caused illiteracy or vice versa.

"At any rate, it's as much an economic and social problem as it is an educational one."

Efforts to fight illiteracy mostly have been haphazard. Notable exceptions can be found in Illinois and California, Adair said.

He mentioned two recent federal programs that have provisions designed to aid the fight against illiteracy — the anti-poverty bill and the manpower retraining act. But he said the main responsibility for their implementation would be up to the states.

An illiterate is a person over 25 who has less than a fifth-grade education. The rate for the United States is 8 per cent, says the 1960 census.

Texas has neither the best nor the worst approach to the problem. The Texas illiteracy rate is 13 per cent.

Most literacy work in Texas is carried on by churches, civic groups, volunteer organizations and public evening schools. No state money is available. There are 700,000 or so illiterates in the state.

Thousands receive literacy training every year in Texas from volunteer teachers.

The programs are effective and inexpensive. But the lack of statewide coordination and the need to depend on contributions leave much to be desired, say people involved in the situation.

Adair made public Sept. 12 a study undertaken for the Texas Education Agency. Gov. John Connally had asked for the research.

Adair's study recommended that state and federal money finance a program that would be voluntary and with emphasis on the local community for execution.

The report said Texas should develop a "philosophy of education that realizes the obligation of the state toward the adult, as well as toward the child."

Adair said one out of six inmates who entered the Texas prison system in the 1950s was illiterate.

Perhaps the most extensive program in the state is provided by the Texas Literacy Council (TLC), now in its seventh year.

Anne Dodson of Corpus Christi, former chairman, estimated 8,000 persons have received TLC training. The council has 22 chapters.

"All we charge is the cost of the book, $1.54," she said. "TLC is limited because we don't have enough money. We'd welcome being taken in on a statewide basis and with public money."

Most literacy training in Dallas is given by Operation LIFT (Literacy Instruction for Texas). It was organized in 1961 by the National Council of Jewish Women, which started similar programs in Houston and San Antonio.

The Baylor Literacy Center is generally considered the leading institution of its kind. It was established in 1958 and the TLC was organized with its help and around its basic teaching format.

Baptist citywide associations sponsor literacy programs in Lubbock and Corpus Christi but a master project set up in Dallas in 1958 ran into financial trouble and was discontinued. Several Baptist churches in Dallas, however, have their own literacy classes.

Illiterates as well as persons who want to improve their reading and writing can pay $5 for nine months of instruction at Dallas public school evening classes.

Mrs. Juanita Hobbs, an evening class instructor, said one of the best informed persons she ever met was a hobo, aged 38, who couldn't write his name or read a word.

"I guess it was because he had traveled around so much," she said.

Troy Bond, evening school director, said a man, 69, enrolled in the basic literacy course last year so he could learn to read and write his name.

"All his life, he had made an 'X' for his name. He was the happiest man I ever saw when he learned to write his name," Bond said.

Quebec, France's largest province, meets with the United States south of the St. Lawrence River, then fans out northward over 594,860 square miles to the frozen shores of Hudson Bay and Hudson Strait.

Junior Editors Quiz on GARGOYLES

QUESTION: What are gargoyles and why are they perched high on old cathedral roofs?

ANSWER: Rainwater, pouring down the sides of a building, can do a lot of damage. Nowadays, we use gutters on the edges of roofs which catch the water and send it down through pipes away from the building. Instead of such pipes, many ancient buildings had spouts projecting from the gutters so the water would pour outward. (upper left) The Romans began to decorate these spouts with lions heads and this led to decorations being applied to the waterspouts built on Gothic cathedrals. Since these projected several feet outward, stonecutters realized they had the opportunity to carve whole figures with the water coming through the opened mouths; and they seem to have delighted in meeting this challenge to their imagination and skill. Greek myths had told of a fantastic monster who breathed fire, called the Chimaera. With a lion's head and a dragon's tail, this creature had the shaggy hair of a goat. The monsters on the waterspouts, called gargoyles from the Latin "gurgulio" or "guilet," were equally or even more fantastic, some possessing human arms or legs. Beside the gargoyles, other fantastic figures, not connected with waterspouts, were often perched on cathedral roofs and these are correctly called 'chimaeras.'

FOR YOU TO DO: Have fun drawing a chimaera or gargoyle, making it as grotesque and fantastic as you can.

Wilson Novel Is Optimistic

NECESSARY DOUBT. By Colin Wilson.

Leave it to Wilson to give an odd twist, not only to a story, but also to whatever message it may contain.

In form, this novel is like a detective story with not much detection, and with some confusion as to whether there are any murders.

The key figure is Prof. Karl Zweig, whom the author classifies as an existentialist theologian. One of his former pupils, Gustav Neumann, had been a bright but erratic young intellectual who let philosophy go to his head. He once had raved that he would turn himself into a master criminal as a demonstration that he could "take the side of the gods against human beings."

So when Gustav turns up in London as the supposed secretary to a wealthy, elderly man —Sir Timothy Ferguson—Zweig recalls that Gustav has been through this act several times; the result always has been the death of the wealthy man, presumably by suicide.

Zweig calls in his old friend, Sir Charles Grey, who is retired from Scotland Yard, and together with a nutty scientist who butts into the case, they try to forestall the possible demise of Sir Timothy. Grey is not very apt, and some odd things happen.

Wilson, who is best known for his first book, "The Outsider," fancies himself to be the promulgator of a new — that is, optimistic — existentialism. He leads his two principal characters through a deluge of words about ultimate reality and the limitations of the human consciousness. Whatever this message may be, most readers will pay more attention to the odd happenings of the plot than to the philosophical duet. On the level of entertainment, at least, the book is quite interesting.

MRS. CAROL R. HABERMAN

Texas Attorney To Speak At B&PW Conference Here

A President's Banquet, Saturday evening and a workshop breakfast Sunday morning will highlight the District 7 conference of Business and Professional Women's Club to be held in Snyder Oct. 24 and 25th.

Registration and coffee will begin Saturday at 4 p.m. in the foyer of the Martha Ann Woman's Club, with Vera Periman as chairman.

Guest speaker for the presidential banquet will be Mrs. Carol Haberman, attorney, of San Antonio, and president-elect of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc.

A native of Wisconsin, Carol was transplanted to Texas approximately 20 years ago. She attended Texas Christian College in Ft. Worth, and St. Mary's Law School in San Antonio and is currently president - elect of the State B&PW Federation. On the state level, she has previously served as Personal Development Chairman, Legal Advisor, Chairman of the Legislative Steering Committee for the promotion of funds for ELRA.

Carol is an attorney, a member of the State Bar of Texas, a member of the local San Antonio Bar Assn. with offices in the Milam Building. Other affiliations include the Altrusa Club, San Antonio Women's Federation and the Council of Presidents.

She is married to a hotelman — Mr. Rudy A. Haberman, who is associated with the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio. They have two sons; one married, and they are proud grandparents of two grandchildren. One son is at North Texas University in Denton.

Carol's primary interest in life lies in an attempt to help all people who need assistance to function according to their abilities but who are experiencing some emotional strain or burden beyond their comprehension. Because her ideals are based on the dignity and worth and promotion of improved conditions for all mankind, she is becoming more and more known as a humanitarian here in the Southwest.

Sunday morning workshop topic for discussion will include membership, personal development, civic participation, public relations and world affairs. The session will close promptly at 10:45 for the members to attend the church of their choice.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades, District Director for District Seven is workshop coordinator, while Mrs. Frances Brown, local club president is conference chairman.

Clubs participating in the conference will be Colorado City, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Brady, Coleman, Hamlin, Stamford, Haskell, Abilene, Brownwood, Baird and DeLeon.

Pot Roast

Boned rump beef roast, about 3½ pounds
1 clove garlic
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, sliced thin
1 cup water

Wipe beef with a damp cloth; sliver garlic and insert at intervals in meat; coat with a mixture of the flour, salt and pepper. In a heavy greased saucepan brown meat thoroughly on all sides; pour off fat. Add onion and water; cover tightly and simmer, turning midway through cooking period, until very tender - about 3 hours. Skim off fat. Slice and serve with pan gravy. Makes 8 servings.

Ever use lamb kidneys when you are making beef and kidney pie?

Library Notes

With better communications being emphasized in almost every field of endeavor, the Scurry County Library reminds local residents of the many books available on this broad subject. Books on effective letter writing, better speech and the miracle-working power of dialogue to the latest advances in space communications may be found within the four walls of the library.

It is strongly maintained that the history of man is really a history of communications. Some scholars have insisted that every crucial change in the structure of society has been the consequence of a major change in the methods of communication. Today, the use of communication satellites signals the approach of a new epoch in man's advancement. On a colossal scale never known before, surpassing the wildest imagination of yesterday's science fiction authors, man can communicate through means heretofore never dreamed of.

Communication is a means by which information and meaning is conveyed and received between individuals and groups. It is needed in all relationships: individual and social, educational and religious, economic and political, national and international.

Barriers to communication sometime keep meanings from meeting. First of all there is the barrier of language, whether it is merely poorly spoken or a foreign language. It is false to assume that if one can talk he can communicate. Language is the process of knowing and being known through the use of words, and it follows that an apt use of language is essential for effective understanding and living.

In his book, "Freedom and Communication," Dan Lacy outlines America's communications system — its past present and future. He points out that we have created a communications system unparalleled in its magnitude, yet there is a growing awareness of its shortcomings in meeting the tremendous demands and challenges of today's rapidly changing world. The author urges that the whole system of communications — books, newspapers, magazines, radio, television, films, schools, libraries — be reviewed to access its adequacies and inadequacies in keeping pace with today's needs and to chart possible public policies for the future.

"Every man is a potential adversary, even those we love. Only through dialogue are we saved from this enmity toward one another," states Reuel L. Howe. Howe's book, "The Miracle of Dialogue," introduces as a new, exciting study of dialogue and communication. He examines dialogue not as a method but as a principle of effective communication, and describes it as the act by which individuals or groups make themselves available to and become aware of others. He is careful to point out that dialogue does not require agreement and cautions against the pitfalls of over - persuasiveness, over-specific counseling, and glossing over of opposing points of view. In the broadest sense, Dr. Howe's book goes to the heart of the problems involved in creative communication and mature human relationships. The author concludes, "The fruit of dialogue is the reunion of man with himself, with others, and with God who is the source and revealer of all truth, and whose spirit is free to guide when men open themselves to him by turning honestly to one another." Dr. Howe uses situations taken from a broad spectrum of experience which will be familiar to every pastor, layman, husband, wife, parent, teacher and student.

Business executives and others aspiring to higher positions will be interested in Dennis Murphy's book, "Better Business Communication." Murphy demonstrated that the success of both supervisor and supervised depends ultimately on effective communication. This easy - to - follow book will enable the reader to sharpen his abilities in the seven skills of human communication in business — thinking, doing, observing, talking, listening, writing and reading. Each subject is dealt with separately. The book is planned to give practical help in straight thinking, increased awareness of the creative ability of the average man or woman on the job, and realization that doing is the end result of communication.

"Social Responsibility of the Press," by J. Edward Gerald stresses the importance of having a free and responsible press in a democratic society. Professor Gerald considers basic problems with relation to various media of mass communication today such as newspapers, radio, television and magazines, and offers thoughtful answers to questions he poses. Gerald, a professor of journalism at the University of Minnesota, has been an active newspaperman, serving on both metrolplitan and smalltown newspapers.

An epic story of communications by Orin E. Dunlap, Jr., gives space communications from wireless to satellite relay. His book, "Communications in Space," begins with the discovery of electro - magnetic waves and the electron, advancing with radio, television, and radar to the sophisticated satellite relay systems that are extending man's contact with man and are exploring the universe around him. This book is useful, not only as a record of developments of communications technology, but as a fascinating account for readers of the dramatic story of man's conquest of outer space.

Books like "The Hidden Persuaders," by Vance Packard describe how man becomes the victim of communication rather than communication being a means by which he finds himself in relation with other men in a rather exotic new area of American life. It is about the large-scale efforts being made to channel the publics' unthinking habits, the public purchasing decisions, and thought processes by the use of insights gleaned from psychiatry and social sciences. Typically these efforts take place beneath the level of awareness. The result is that many people are being influenced and manipulated by such communications for more than is realized in the patterns of everyday life. This depth approach to influencing behavior is used in many fields and is employed in a variety of ingenious techniques. It is being used most extensively to affect our daily acts of consumption.

Maurice Fabre, in his book, "A History of Communication," reconstructs and explains the development of this amazing and crucially important technology, from the first primitive "ugh," or the beat of the jungle drum - telegraph, to the latest satellite launching. It is a story of the maturation of mankind and of his use and misuse of what is perhaps not only the most important tool but the touchstone of civilization. For anyone interested in the world around us today, how it came to be and what it may become, this is an invaluable book.

Means of communication through the written word was once well described by Andrew Carnegie. He wrote, "The greatest reservoir of knowledge open to the public is the public library. Between its walls are stored the greatest wealth man has ever given his fellow man. On its shelves are filed the ideas of men, their achievements, their mistakes, and their hopes." The local library is proud of its shelves of books linking the past with the present, and looking forward to the future.
