

Airman Hikes Tied To PCS Move Status

The Air Force has initiated a new policy with regards to promotions that will be of interest to Reese AFB personnel.

Career airmen at Reese who refuse to reenlist or extend their enlistments to take a permanent change of station move to Southeast Asia or elsewhere will automatically make themselves ineligible for promotion.

The rule on promotions ties in with the overall Air Force policy on airmen who lack enough remaining service for a PCS move. They will still be required to sign a statement declining to reenlist or extend and saying they understand the action makes them ineligible to reenlist for 93 days.

A new clause in the statement also requires them to say they understand the declination makes them ineligible for promotion.

Refusing to reenlist or extend will take an airman out of the running for promotion during his remaining time but will not necessarily relieve him from an overseas move. Those who have enough time left for a short overseas tour may still be shipped even though they have declined to gain time for a long tour.

Base Personnel Play Active Role In Gridiron Show

Reese AFB personnel will be participating in one of Lubbock's top social events of the year tomorrow at the Lubbock Country Club.

The Gridiron Show, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism society, will have four Reesites in its cast. They are Capt. William J. Hubbard, base information officer, Second Lieutenants Nile Greenhalgh, Information Office, Paul W. Kaser, Field Maintenance Squadron and James Comeaux, editor of The Roundup.

The show — a stage affair — is staged annually by Sigma Delta Chi as a fund-raising project for the Texas Tech Journalism Scholarship Fund.

Proceeds from the dinner go to the fund. The show itself pokes fun at politicians and civic leaders through skit and song.

For the somewhat dubious honor of seeing themselves "roasted," guests pay $15 per ticket for the dinner and show. A skit on Reese AFB is usually included in the show.

Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, is scheduled to attend the dinner as a guest of Dr. O. W. English of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce's Reese Relations Sub-Committee.

Siren Test

A siren test will be conducted today to check the operation of Reese's sirens. No action is required by Reese people in response to the test signals.

Signals tested will be a one minute steady blast, followed by one minute of silence and then a one minute wavering tone.

Reese officials indicate that sirens will be tested on the last Friday of each month.

Personnel Team Briefs Officers, Airmen

Officer and airman assignment policies to Southeast Asia, and officer career development outlook were the topics discussed in a briefing by a team from Headquarters USAF Personnel Directorate yesterday in the base theatre.

OMS Airman Sings His Way To Talent Show's Top Award

BEST PERFORMER—Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, presents A1C John W. Brewster with one of two awards he received for his performance Tuesday night in the base Talent Contest. He won first in popular solo and best performance. (USAF PHOTO BY A1C GROVER T. WILLIAMS)

A Reese airman emerged from an auto accident which injured his wife and delayed his performance to take first place in popular vocal solo and win the best performance award in the base Talent Contest Tuesday night.

The airman sang "Don't Take Your Love Away From Me," for the winning award. A1C Isaac E. Kimbro won second place in the same category.

Other winners were A1C Lawrence E. Garvin who won first for master of ceremonies and comedy act. His comedy act was a Bill Cosby take-off on "Chicken Heart." Chaplain (Maj.) Asa E. Hunt III, won second in master of ceremonies non-competitive.

A1C Bobby Baker won first place in country and western solo category with his rendition of "Green, Green Grass of Home." Second place went to A1C George B. Rabe.

First place in the specialty act was A1C Isaac E. Kimbro for his presentation of a combination of songs by Lou Rawls.

Instrumental solo was won by pianist A1C Stacy M. Gates for his playing of "Bour'ee," a Bach number. Also Capt. Vernon W. Martin won non-competitive for his violin solo. Second place was won by A1C Frank D. Potera.

The best instrumental group was the Blue Crystals for their rendition of "Summertime."

Judging by the extent of applause, The Alcoholics captivated the audience with their first place

Reese Groups Asked To Aid Youth Program

The City of Lubbock Youth Services Department is requesting aid from Reese AFB groups which may be interested in sponsoring a "Big Brother" program.

Ted Jolly, director of the department, has offered his services as a speaker to any group on the base which would like to hear more about the program.

Mr. Jolly states: "Many boys in Lubbock do not have the influence of a man in their lives due to death, divorce, or other reasons. Because of this, many good, upright, young boys are swayed from these positions, and many times get into trouble that they would not get into if they had the guidance and encouragement of an adult male."

"To assist in giving these boys the adult male influence they need, a program has been established on a nation-wide basis to encourage adult males to take an interest in boys who do not have fathers or other adult males living in their homes."

In making his presentation to groups interested in sponsoring such a program, Mr. Jolly lays out 10 guideposts for big brothers. Groups desiring to hear the talk may contact Mr. Jolly at Porter 2-6411, ext. 370.

Sergeant Harvey Praised In Letter

SSgt. John R. Harvey, NCOIC of the information office, has been cited by letter of congratulations signed by Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell.

The letter cites Sergeant Harvey on the selection of the "Crossroads," official base newspaper at Lajes Field, Azores, as the outstanding Air Force newspaper of its class (category A) in the 12th annual Worldwide Air Force Newspaper Contest. Sergeant Harvey was the paper's editor during the period of judging. He has since been reassigned to the Reese AFB information office.

The letter bore endorsements from Gen. Howell M. Estes, commander, Hq., Military Airlift Command, and down through channels to Reese.

Dedication Set At Credit Union

The Reese AFB Credit Union will formally dedicate its new building with a ribbon-cutting Wednesday. Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, will snip the symbolic ribbon.

For the occasion, the Credit Union has planned a three-day open house at which prizes will be given away to those who open new accounts, or who add to their old ones. One ticket will be given to those who open new accounts—plus a ticket for each $5 placed in that account. A ticket will be given to those who add $5 to their old accounts.

$36.50. Second prize is a General Electric toaster valued at $22.50; third prize is a Coleman camping stove valued at $16.50; fourth prize is a Toastmaster toaster valued at $16.50 and the fifth prize is a transistor radio valued at $9.95.

To qualify for the prizes, persons must visit the Credit Union in person to collect their tickets for the drawing — even though they are on allotment basis.

The ribbon-cutting is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, kicking off the three-day open house.

Student Claims First

ENGLAND AFB, La. — Second Lt. Dave Whitehall, former Reese student, is scheduled to become the first second lieutenant to fly a tactical fighter in Southeast Asia, according to England officials, was presented the Top Gunner award at the completion of his A-37 training with the 5432d Combat Crew Training Squadron here.

FOR THE COMMANDER

Military Courtesy Denotes Respect

Col. Clyde J. Morganti
Wing Commander

By Maj. Ralph E. Hazer
Chief, Management Processing

We have all heard many words concerning military courtesy. From time to time it is necessary for our commanders to stir things up a bit to remind everyone of military courtesy. This is as it should be in a military organization.

I believe that Reese will stack up against any base in this department. However, we should all take a hard look at basic courtesy and respect to our country and our flag.

Any day of the week at the time the flag is being lowered, the streets are suddenly void of pedestrians. People can be observed making for the nearest doorway as though caught in a sudden thundershower. This includes officers and airmen alike.

The obviousness of this brings up the question of what is wrong with taking a minute or two of our time to pay our respects to our flag? Has pure, simple patriotism become so old fashioned and out-of-date that we are ashamed of it? Have so many highly publicized acts of disrespect in the last few years caused us to become so calloused that we just don't care anymore?

It would appear that the time has arrived for us to take another survey of ourselves and determine if we cannot generate a little more outward indication of respect for our flag and loyalty to our country.

Generally I believe that most military people will agree with this view. A good example of this feeling is the furor that was caused when the decision was made to drop the National Anthem from movies shown at base theatres.

Saving To Help 'Uncle'

(AFPS Editorial)

President Johnson has appealed to all U.S. citizens for help in solving a problem "of vital concern to the economic health and well-being of this Nation and the Free World."

The problem is not a new one. It concerns the "international balance of payments" and affects every U.S. serviceman—and his family—now serving or about to serve abroad.

But how does this "international balance of payments" situation touch a serviceman and his family? What can he do to help?

The answer is simple: "Buy" and "Save" American.

Every dollar a serviceman spends for goods produced by Uncle Sam helps; every American dollar he invests in U.S. Savings Bonds, Freedom Shares or the Uniformed Service Savings Deposit Program also helps.

And in the "savings" programs you get paid for the privilege. U.S. Savings Bonds will pay you 4.15 per cent interest; Freedom Shares pay 4.74 per cent interest in only 4½ years; and at overseas stations the Uniformed Services Savings Deposit Program pays 10 per cent interest.

Saving your money in one of these programs is not only a service to your country, but is added insurance that you won't return home empty handed.

Also, as President Johnson said: "The time has now come for decisive action designed to bring your balance of payments to—or close to—equilibrium in the year ahead. The need is a national and international responsibility of the highest priority."

On The Line

Serenity In The Midst Of Stress

(Prepared by the USAF Chaplain Board)

Dr. Rufus Jones, a man of great wisdom and intellectual power, once said that "the master secret of life is the attainment of the power of serenity in the midst of stress and adventure and action." This power of maintaining a serenity and calmness in the midst of stress is a quality of life possessed by all great leaders and men of action.

We are busy people, constantly subjected to the daily pressures of life in the "age of anxiety." We would therefore do well to consider a danger inherent in all action — that of mistaking activity for effectiveness. It is possible to camouflage and overlook the real problem by engaging in some form of feverish activity. Because we are unable to find a solution or make a decision, we relieve our minds by becoming very busy.

Effective leaders and men of action have developed the habit of quiet thought each day, a habit which is as regular as that of eating. They turn from the frustrations of ineffectual striving to the unseen spiritual forces which bring peace of mind, strength, and stability. Then, refreshed and renewed, steadied and lifted by those forces which are eternal, they are ready to meet whatever awaits them. They have learned the master secret that transforms mere activity into effective action.

Be your own traffic judge

You are traveling about 45 miles per hour on a two-lane highway when you overtake three cars approximately 45 feet apart moving about 30 m.p.h. You sound your horn, signal and pull into the left lane to pass the three cars.

When you are about 20 feet from the lead car, the driver turns on his left turn signal, veers into the left lane and slows abruptly to turn into a roadside rest area. You brake hard, but strike the left rear corner of the automobile and knock it off the road.

Are you entirely free of blame? Could you have prevented this accident?

Passing accidents like this one occur with alarming frequency, and can be avoided by proper driving. One of the cardinal rules of safe passing is to be certain the drivers being passed are aware of your presence and intentions to pass.

In this instance you sounded your horn only once — more than 135 feet behind the lead vehicle. It is too much to assume that the lead driver heard your horn.

Additional horn signals would have been justified and might have prevented this accident. Also, the roadside rest area ahead should have tipped you off to the danger of this passing situation.

This, coupled with the slow speed of the cars ahead, should have warned you that one or more of the cars ahead might turn left into the rest area.

Whenever you pass another vehicle always consider the possibility of a sudden left turn, especially when his speed is such that a turn can be made, and if there is a place to turn into.

Suggestions Can Earn You Money For Effort

By William L. Seller
ATC Suggestion Program
Director
(ATCPS Editorial)

One idea a year!
Doesn't sound like much, does it?

You'd think that a command entrusted with operation of the world's largest training system would pace the rest of the Air Force in offering ideas to save Government funds, reduce man-hours expended, improve safety, bolster morale, provide convenience or effect improvements in our everyday way of doing things.

But, records show that we're not getting that one worthwhile suggestion a year from each of our people. We know the ideas are there. We hear them wherever Air Training Command people congregate — on the flight line, in offices, in the dining halls, clubs, living quarters and shopping areas. We hear these potentially valuable ideas — but we don't see them submitted in the Air Force Suggestion Program.

Perhaps the people with these valuable ideas don't see them the same way we do. Maybe they seem so obvious that they're quickly discounted. But, be fair—give management an opportunity to consider the ideas and make a decision.

Here are a few hints which may prove helpful in submitting that award-winning suggestion:

Ask yourself questions about how jobs are being performed—watch the way others are doing things. Keep alert for ideas as you talk to others or visit other work locations. Watch for ways of combining, reversing, alternating, and substituting methods for accomplishing your work.

Keep a pocket notebook handy for writing down ideas as soon as they occur. They can be developed more fully later into a quality suggestion.

Define the problem in a simple statement.

Have confidence in your ideas and the ability to propose practical answers. Continue to submit ideas, since about one in four is adopted.

Don't waste ideas by discarding smaller ones in favor of the one big flawless "brainstorm." Smaller ideas frequently result in large awards.

Each year ATC pays out thousands of dollars for approved ideas.

We've just put you on the track to earning your share. If you've got the right kind of idea, you, your base, the command and the Air Force derive benefits.

Submit that idea now.

It's Your Day

"As Commander-in-Chief, I invite every American to participate in the 1968 observance of Armed Forces Day which honors these courageous men and women of our forces for freedom." — President Lyndon B. Johnson in his Armed Forces Day message for 1968.

"Forces For Freedom" is the theme for Armed Forces Day, May 18, at Reese AFB and bases throughout the world.

No finer theme honoring today's serviceman could have been chosen. It honestly portrays his mission. It characterizes his devotion to duty, courage and stamina in trying times.

But it is appropriate that each individual serviceman to whom the day is dedicated, take a reappraising look at himself to make sure he deserves the honor. The decision should be conclusively in the affirmative.

The average serviceman is not in the habit of strutting and bragging about himself. Generally, he goes about his job quietly and conscientiously, endeavoring to live up to the respect and trust the American people have in him.

This holds true for the serviceman in Vietnam. He may be at Khe Sanh, living from day to day in the knowledge that he wouldn't be there if he wasn't needed. Or, he may be stationed in the United States. In both places he tries hard to do his job.

It doesn't matter where he is; what's really important is that he's doing his assigned job in the best possible way he knows how. In short he's working for a free, peaceful world.

In his message, President Johnson said: "The true peacekeepers are those who wear our country's uniform. In Vietnam — and around the world — they perpetuate the ideals which made and preserve us as a nation."

Wear your uniform proudly, Armed Forces Day is your day.

Fatigue Produces Accidents; Give It Due Consideration

When planning a trip by motor vehicle, Reese personnel should keep in mind that fatigue is a prime factor to consider if you are to arrive at your destination safely.

Fatigue is defined as "weariness from bodily labor or mental exertion, lassitude or exhaustion of strength, enervation, nervous breakdown, the body worn out or strained to the breaking point."

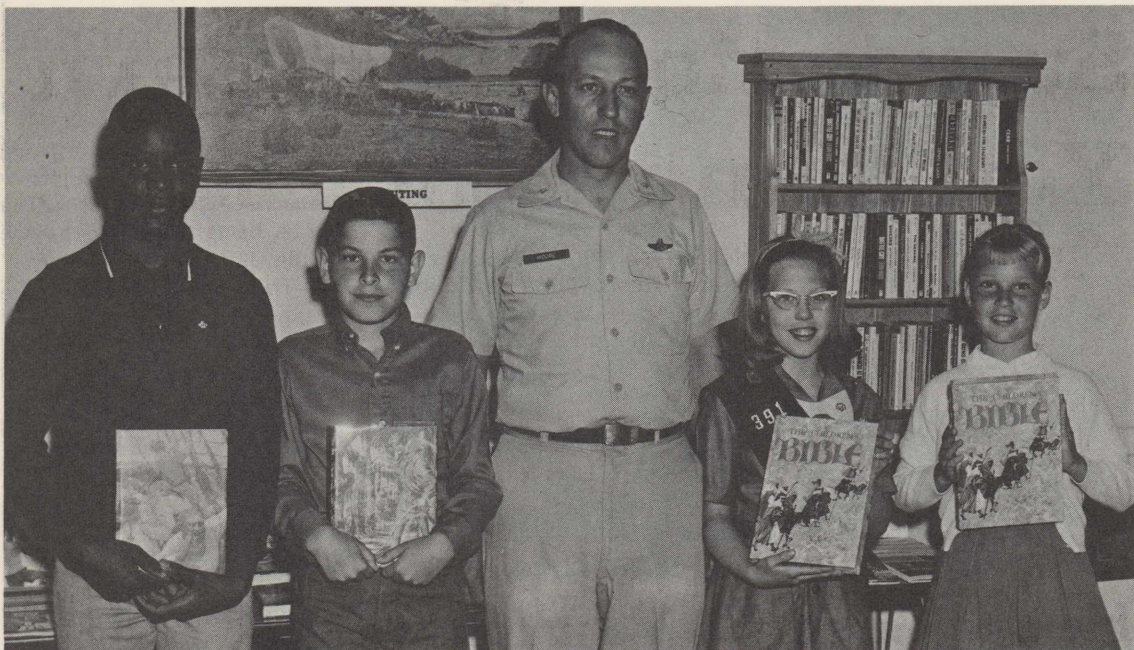

In the operation of a vehicle for long periods of time, most of the factors defined as fatigue are experienced. That is why fatigue should be given due consideration when planning your trip.

Following are some points to consider when planning that trip:

1. Have your vehicle checked for mechanical defects.
2. Map your trip to include the best highways to travel, avoiding city driving insofar as possible.
3. Plan your rest stops. Start your day's travel early and plan to stop for the night so as to get normal sleep.
4. Drive steady at a moderate rate of speed. Fast driving induces nervous tension and fatigue.
5. Observe all traffic signs carefully.
6. Do not set a time limit for reaching your destination. When traveling against time one will take undue chances.
7. Get plenty of rest prior to starting on your trip.

Keep in mind that fatigue is dangerous for you, the occupants of your vehicle and other people traveling on the highways. It is one of the primary factors causing high death rates on our highways.

Library Week Draws To End

National Library Week is drawing to a close, and at Reese AFB it was a busy week to say the least.

Open house was held at the base library Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday featuring book exhibits and reviews. In addition, the Reese Elementary School had two of its grades — the fifth and sixth — writing essays in connection with the week's theme — "Be All You Can Be." Two of the four winning essays are reprinted below. They are by Carol Moore, 11, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E. Moore, and by Lawrence Smith, 11, son of TSgt. and Mrs. Samuel A. Smith.

"Be All You Can Be, Read"
By Carol Moore
(6th Grade)

You can take a train to go where you want to go, but you must train yourself to be what you want to be. To be all you can be, read.

Some famous people who were helped to become great by reading are Ralph Bunche, William Soroyan, C. B. White and Bennett Cerf.

Ralph Bunche, political scientist and United Nations official, said that reading books was one of his greatest joys and that there is nothing quite as relaxing as settling down with a good book and becoming absorbed in the narrative while living with the characters portrayed. He also states that an early-developed reading habit was a great encouragement in his career.

William Soroyan, playwright and novelist, told reporters of the "Our Wonderful World" encyclopedia that books meant everything to him and that without books his life would be nothing. He said: "I am convinced there isn't anything more wonderful for the soul of the human race than books. I believed it as a boy. I believe it as man!"

C. B. White, editor and humorist, felt that for him books were an excursion or sometimes were a whole world. He said, and I quote: "There is nothing that takes the place of reading and I doubt anything ever will. If it does, I won't like it."

Bennett Cerf, columnist and publisher, also recommended that children start reading early but that the parents should not push the child. If the parent pushes, the child will hate books and everything to do with them. But the parent should encourage the child by setting examples. "You would be surprised how they comprehend," he said.

What do you want to be? You can find out by reading about what others have become. Be what you want to be. Be all you can be, read.

"Be All You Can Be, Read"
By Lawrence Smith
(5th Grade)

To be the best student you can be, you must read. The most important part of reading is to remember what you're reading about. Arithmetic, English or any subject matter to be learned requires much reading.

As a student in school my present goal is for me to do all that I can do to be the best student I can be. This requires reading in all my subjects.

To learn about others who have made history and reached the highest in life, I must read or I would not know about them. By reading about them and finding out about their accomplishments, I want to try to accomplish worthwhile things for myself. So my advice to other people who really want to be all they can be is for them to read, read, read.

Other winners were Linda Harris, 10 of the 5th grade and the daughter of TSgt. and Mrs. Harold Harris. Also, Mike Gaston, 12, of the 6th grade, son of Sgt. and Mrs. Sylvester Gaston.

Group Awaits Spring Picnic

The 3500th Air Base Group will hold a picnic tomorrow, beginning at 12:30 p.m. Those who have signed up for the picnic should have tickets in their possession now. All military and civilian personnel assigned to ABG have been invited to attend at the picnic grounds.

The menu includes fried chicken, potato salad, baked beans, relish tray, rolls and ice cream, lemonade and soft drinks.

COMMAND PROVIDES MEN, EQUIPMENT

Aerospace Defense Command provides more than 70 per cent of the man and equipment available to the North American Air Defense Command.

3,500 Reserves Called Up For AF Commands

WASHINGTON (AFNS) —Three major commands will gain 3,500 members of the Air Force Reserves and Air National Guard upon mobilization May 13.

The seven Reserve and three ANG units are among 24,500 men in 88 Reserve components identified for active duty April 11 by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford.

The Military Airlift Command will gain five of the seven Air Force Reserve units. Tactical Air Command and Headquarters Command will receive the balance of units called up.

One-third of the men called to duty with the Air Force will be deployed to Southeast Asia under present plans.

Air Training Command and Reese AFB will not gain Reserve or ANG units because of the mobilization.

Reese Airmen Enters AECP

Sgt. James L. Boylan, base accounting and finance office, has been accepted for the Airmen Education and Commissioning Program (AECP), leading to a commission as a second lieutenant in the Air Force.

Sergeant Boylan began his college studies in September, 1961, at the University of Oregon and completed 118 quarter hours before entering the Air Force in April, 1966. He will attend the University of Texas in Austin in June for undergraduate study in the field of meteorology. That field is deemed critical by the Air Force today and is open for AECP applicants.

Under the AECP, Sergeant Boylan will be promoted to the grade of staff sergeant prior to his departure from this base. This program will pay for his tuition and books while attaining a bachelor's degree. He will continue his normal pay and allowances while in school.

Upon receiving his degree, Sergeant Boylan will attend Officer Training School at Lackland AFB and upon successful completion will be commissioned a second lieutenant.

Sergeant Boylan reenlisted for a six-year period Wednesday with Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, administering the oath of enlistment at Wing Headquarters.

Sergeant Boylan was born in Eugene, Ore., and lived there until entering the Air Force. His wife is the former Sally Jean Russum of Eugene.

Tornado Season Approaching For Local Area

AUSTIN, Texas — C. O. Layne, state coordinator of Defense and Disaster Relief for the Texas Department of Public Safety, today reminded Reeseites that the peak tornado season is approaching.

"Statistics from the United States Weather Bureau's State Climatologist indicate that Texas again led the nation in total tornadoes last year, with an all time record of 232," Mr. Layne said. The 1967 figure compares with the 77 twisters confirmed in the State during 1966.

Only two months in 1967, January and November, were free from tornadoes. September accounted for more than half with a total of 124. Of the September tornadoes, 115 occurred in connection with Hurricane Beulah.

There were two twisters in February, 11 in March, 17 in April, 34 in May, and 22 in June. Other totals included July with 10; August, 5; October, 2; and December, 5.

A circular of tornado safety rules has been prepared by the Department of Public Safety, and is available through local city and county Civil Defense directors.

SGLI Provides 120-Day Coverage After Separation

Most Reese military personnel, as well as all U.S. servicemen, possess a meaningful benefit that they may not be aware of.

The Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) program provides for automatic, no cost coverage for 120 days after the insured member is released from active duty, discharged or retired.

From Jan. 1 to March 31, the Air Force Personal Affairs Division assisted the Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance in processing 35 insurance claims involving former Air Force members who died within 120 days after their separation.

Under the SGLI program, monthly premium cost for military members is $2 for 10,000 coverage or $1 for $5,000 coverage. The Government pays a portion of the cost of insuring servicemen which represents the extra hazard of military service.

Athletic Honors Presented I P

A Reese AFB instructor pilot has been named "Athlete of the Quarter." Capt. Fred S. Olmsted, 3500th Pilot Training Squadron, received the honor from the base Athletic Council at a meeting April 18 at the base gymnasium. He will be awarded a trophy at Tuesday's wing staff meeting.

In being named to the honor for the first quarter of 1968, Captain Olmsted is following a pattern he set last year when he won the honor for the first quarter of 1967, then repeated for the second quarter.

Captain Olmsted was both coach and participant on the base and squadron basketball teams and is very active in almost all sports.

He is a graduate of the Air Force Academy where he lettered in baseball for four years and made the All-Western United States Baseball Team as a pitcher. He is a lefthander. He was also a member of the All-Cadet soccer team and participated in basketball and boxing. He played football and baseball at his hometown high school at Chula Vista, Calif., and was an outstanding school athlete.

Captain Olmsted is currently studying an offer from a baseball team in Lubbock to play in Amateur Athletic Union league play this summer. Two years ago he was a member of the Holts Raiders team, last year pitched for the Reese team, and currently is contemplating the offer from the Rip Griffin Hubbers.

He and his wife Barbara, live in Reese Village.

Reese To Send Team To ATC Track Tourney

A 13-man delegation from Reese AFB will invade Sheppard AFB, Tex., next month in quest of titles at the Air Training Command Track and Field Championships. The meet is scheduled May 15-19.

Personnel Services submitted a list of names to ATC Tuesday and gave a total of 10 track events and five field events in which base personnel will participate.

The track events are the 100-yard dash, mile run, 440-yard run, 220-yard run, two-mile run, 880-yard run and the mile and half-mile relays. The field events will include the shot putt, broad jump, javelin, discus and hammer throws.

69-01 Class Commander Observes Big Birthday

Class commander of 69-01, Capt. Francis B. Storey, had a big day March 27.

On that date he celebrated his 28th birthday by being the first student in his class to solo in the T-38 Talon.

All was not a "Piece of Cake" however. An unsafe landing gear indication shortly after take off also composed his first in flight emergency.

Captain Storey remained in the traffic pattern to burn off fuel and had mobile control check his gear before landing.

After finally getting his gear safely down with the alternate gear extension system, an otherwise normal landing was accomplished. The whole flight lasted half an hour.

Captain Storey served as an intercept controller in Air Defense Command, and spent three years in Germany before coming to Reese.

He was soloed by his instructor, Capt. Albert L. Vermette, assistant flight commander of "E-2" Flight.

Bowl Leagues Slow Down Play

Bowling activity has slackened at the base bowling alleys with only a couple of leagues still in action.

The 68-08 Mixed Doubles League is showing some strong competition going into the final week of play. The Clark and Spittler team is firmly implanted in first place, but at least one team still has a chance.

In other action, Air Base Group Handicap League play was highlighted with some fine games by James McNutt.

By Jim Comeaux

The first major golf tournament of the year at Reese is now in the books. The month-long Reese Match Play Golf Tournament was completed Sunday, and a story on the final results appears elsewhere on this page.

So many of these contestants enjoyed the tournament, that many have been bitten by the tournament bug and will be seeking greener fields this spring and summer. To those who plan to participate in the many tournaments planned at area golf courses — the pro-ams, opens, partnerships and such — we can give this advice; go prepared.

First of all, you will need a handicap card. Most Reese golfers have established handicaps which are kept posted at the club house. You must see the Reese golf pro, Ken McGuire, and have him give you a handicap card. This card will give your established handicap by quarters of the year. Each quarter's handicap must be initialed by the pro. This is to keep current the handicaps, some of which may be established in the winter, spring, summer or fall. Do not ask for what has been commonly referred to as a "travelling" handicap. This is one that is inflated. To do this jeopardizes the club pro's standing, and could do the same with the many handicaps issued by him which are legitimate.

Secondly, you must be acquainted with the rules. This means not only the rules of golf, but the local rules and specifically, the rules of the tournament. Most golfers feel they know the rules of golf, but actually, very few do know them all. Do you know the rules on say a "lost ball?" Or striking a ball with yours on the green?" If you are going to play in tournaments, you must know these things. The golf rules are clearly defined in a booklet being sold at the pro shop for 25 cents. It could be the best investment you'll make this year. It has always been a mystery why some golfers will spend up to $300 on a set of sticks, but never a quarter on a book of rules. Remember, the rules you play by (USGA rules) are not the same rules being played by professionals (PGA rules). There are differences of which you should be aware.

Furthermore, tournament rules and local rules differ. For instance, at Reese the so-called winter rules are in effect the year around, including tournaments. That is, you may "choggy-up" your ball in the fairway, but must hit it where it lies in the rough. Some tournaments do not allow this practice.

Local rules differ as well. At Reese, for example, it is a violation to strike a flagstick if your ball lies anywhere on the green. Some courses allow the length of the flagstick, or beyond, as the distance you may use to putt at the flagstick.

Here is a little test you can use: What is the ruling on a lost ball? An unplayable lie? A ball in a water hazard? A ball in a lateral water hazard? (There is a difference.) On striking a ball on the green when putting—and when chipping? (This is a tricky one.) And finally, how many clubs are you allowed to play with in a tournament?

If you can't answer these questions, then you should go and buy yourself a rule book.

Golf Tourney Comes To End

The Reese Match Play Golf Tournament ended Sunday with the final match being played. Trophies will be presented the winners in a ceremony at a later date.

In the championship flight, L. D. Clopton had already won that bracket before leaving for Dallas last week in order to qualify in the Dallas Open.

In the first flight, Tom Rhule bested Joseph Jenkins in the finals, played Sunday, 5 and 4. Second flight winner was Roy Mamiya, who beat A. L. Van-Dusen, 6-5 in a Friday match.

In the third flight, Robert A. Nester beat Butch McCoy, 3-2, in winning that bracket. Fourth flight honors went to R. L. Stanfield who beat M. A. Miller 1 up. The fifth flight was won by N. S. Salmeda in a 2-1 win over P. Parrino.

Lackland Man Takes Honors in ATC Meet

LACKLAND AFB, Tex. (ATC-PS) — Sgt. J. E. Meiers, U.S. Air Force Marksmanship School, Lackland AFB, captured first place in the individual service rifle championship for the Air Training Command in matches held at Camp Bullis, Tex., near San Antonio April 8-11.

Sergeant Meiers scored a 480-10X with the M-1 rifle. Tex., placed second with a 2641-35X and Randolph scored 2623-28X to come in third.

The individual grand aggregate winner was SMSgt. Ray Bohlander, Amarillo AFB, with a 2756-37X. Amarillo AFB, 943-13X.

Move Clocks Up Sunday Morning

Base personnel are reminded of the change Sunday morning to the new Daylight Saving Time. At 2 a.m. clocks will be turned back one hour.

One way you can remember which way to turn your clock is the phrase, "Spring forward, fall backward."

The change will mean an extra hour of daylight during the summer months.

Need Volunteers

Family Services is looking for additional volunteers to assist in various committees.

They are looking for volunteers from officer, NCO, airman, and Over-There Wives. Ladies who are interested in this program can call the Family Services Center, extension 306, or Mrs. Tom McCranie — 885-2601.

Officers Hold Briefing

Two officers from the 3501st Pilot Training Squadron have initiated their own orientation program for future Air Force pilots.

Maj. Jack R. Cassell, commander of F-Flight, and 2d Lt. H. G. MacCartey, a student in F-Flight, paid a visit this month to Ohio State University at Columbus, Ohio, of which Lieutenant MacCartey is a graduate. They spoke to the students of the Air Force ROTC program who are eligible for pilot training in the near future.

The two officers conducted an informal briefing and question-answer session with the students. They report the students had many questions relating to the Air Force in general, but most questions related to the undergraduate pilot training program.

Major Cassell stated he felt having both a flight instructor and a student currently involved in the program conduct the sessions gave the students both sides of the program. He added that the nature of the questions asked proved the value of the briefing. Major Cassell said he hopes visits of this nature will be continued at regular intervals at major schools across the country.

The visit was made in conjunction with a normal cross-country navigation mission.

KEESLER AFB, Miss. (ATC-PS) — The 3389th Pilot Training School at Keesler AFB, Miss., was presented the Air Force Outstanding Unit award April 11 for achievement during the period Jan. 15, 1967 to March 31, 1967.

The honor, one of the highest given an Air Force unit, is presented for meritorious service or outstanding achievement which clearly sets the unit above and apart from similar units.

During the period covered by the citation, the squadron completed a move from Randolph AFB to Keesler while maintaining its training schedule and meeting all previously programmed class graduations.

U.S. Army Records Largest Increment

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Numerical strength of personnel on active duty in the armed forces rose to more than 3.4 million in January, according to preliminary reports by the Department of Defense.

The sharpest rise—more than 69,000 — was recorded by the Army, 1,477,019 men, compared with 1,426,912 in January of last year. The Marine Corps' strength rose more than 16,000 during the year, from 280,189 to 296,837.

The Navy recorded the smallest increase, with only 874 more men than January 1967 figure of 747,888. Air Force personnel strength rose from 902,385 in January of last year to 904,062, an increase of 1,677 men.

Do you sometimes get the feeling they named your car after the wrong animal?

Aha!

So you've begun to discover the true nature of your beast.

So have a lot of other people. And you know what they've been doing? They've been trading them in on Volvos.

Lately, Volvo dealers have taken in more fish, fowl, felines and assorted other creatures than ever before.

That may be because the problems eating at animal-owners, aren't problems with a Volvo.

The Care-of-the-Animal Problem. The Volvo engine doesn't require constant tuning to stay in tune. And it's known for its ability to stay out of repair shops. Sports Car Graphic Magazine called it: "one of the most reliable, rugged and unbreakable car engines being built today."

The Feeding-of-the-Animal Problem. Volvo gets nearly 25 miles to a gallon, even with automatic transmission.

The Hard-to-Handle-Animal Problem. The Volvo suspension is soft, without being sloppy. The steering is quick. Volvo handles more like a sports car than a roomy family sedan.

The Cramped-Inside-of-the-Animal Problem. Volvo is compact outside, big inside. It has much more leg room than the largest-selling animal. And it's got an enormous trunk.

The Noise-of-the-Animal Problem. The Volvo body is held together with over 8,000 spot welds. It's solid. And if it isn't rattle-proof, it certainly isn't rattle-prone.

The Short-Life-of-the-Animal Problem. Volvo lasts an average of eleven years in Sweden. And while we don't guarantee how long Volvos will last in America, we do know that over 95% of all those registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road.

As you can see, Volvo has little in common with any animal you're likely to meet up with. Instead of costing you a fortune, it can save you one.

Just keep your Volvo a long time, get out from under car payments, and make the payments to yourself for a few years.

And if your friends ask why you no longer drive an animal, tell them you do.
