GRANTED DISCHARGE — Larry Florea who was arrested as being absent without leave nearly seven years after he said the Army sent him home to await further orders has won an honorable discharge. Florea said the Department of the Army notified him that the papers will be issued in a few days. Florea is currently working as an auto mechanic at a car dealership in nearby Lebanon, Ohio.

Nuclear spread feared

Carter nixes breeders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced today that he is deferring U.S. development of nuclear breeder reactors, the power plants that produce additional fuel but could help increase the spread of atomic weaponry in the world.

Carter said the risk of spreading nuclear weapons "would be vastly increased by the further spread of sensitive technologies which entail direct access to plutonium, highly enriched uranium or other weapons-usable material." The breeder is powered by plutonium and is so named because it produces more fuel than it consumes.

The statement issued by Carter said the United States will study "alternative designs of the breeder" but postpone their adoption for commercial use.

Without mentioning the project by name, the statment appeared to spell the end of the proposed Clinch River breeder reactor, a $2 billion, demonstration plant planned near Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Carter said he would also defer indefinitely the commercial reprocessing and recycling of plutonium produced by U.S. nuclear power programs.

A reprocessing plant planned by industry at Barnwell, S.C., but now seeking federal support, "will receive neither federal encouragement nor funding for its completion as a reprocessing facility."

Carter said the United States will shift its nuclear research money toward alternative systems of nuclear power that do not make available materials usable for nuclear weapons.

While cutting back the breeder program, which would have multiplied nuclear fuels, Carter pledged to increase U.S. production capacity for enriched uranium, the fuel used in conventional nuclear power plants.

This promise was a reassurance to both the domestic nuclear industry and foreign nations that fuel would continue to be available for conventional plants and they need not necessarily build breeder reactors.

Carter added he would propose legislation "to permit the U.S. to offer nuclear fuel supply contracts and guarantee delivery of such nuclear fuel to other countries."

He said he would continue to bar exports of uranium enrichment and nuclear fuel reprocessing equipment and technology.

And Carter said he would seek establishment of an international program to develop alternative nuclear fuel cycles and measures to assure access to nuclear fuel supplies and spent fuel storage "for nations sharing common nonproliferation objectives."

Sources indicated that Carter did much of the work on the policy statement himself and that it is a strong reflection of the President's personal view on the need to limit nuclear proliferation.

In his campaign for the White House, Carter promised to develop a policy that would halt the spread of nuclear technology and particularly the spread of plutonium, which can be used in the manufacture of nuclear bombs.

Carter's new policy will halt development of any commercial capacity in this country to reprocess plutonium from spent nuclear reactor fuel. This would be a basis for Carter to ask other countries to do the same.

Stetson opposes service unions

WASHINGTON — John Stetson, who said he opposes unionizing the military services, was approved as Air Force Secretary by the Senate Armed Services Committee Friday.

Stetson, who was president of the publishing division of the Houston Post Company from 1963 to 1970 and has had extensive service with aircraft and Middle East oil companies, also told the committee he opposed using women in combat.

Stetson, who has been president of the A.B. Dick office business machine company, said, "I think it would be a mistake to have the armed services unionized."

Pupil charged with killing principal

WHITHARRAL, Tex. (AP) — The principal of the Whithharral High School in this West Texas city was shot and killed this morning by a student, police said.

The principal was identified as Malcolm Omar Tripp, 31.

A spokesman for the Sheriff's Office said Ricardo Lopez, 17, was arrested and charged with murder before Justice of the Peace Earl Ford. Bond was set at $10,000.

Authorities said a .38 caliber pistol was used.

A school official said the shooting occurred in front of the school.

School officials said the student, a freshman, fired three shots and hit Tripp in the back twice.

School superintendent Louis McCormack said that after the shooting, the student walked across the street to a grocery store and laid the gun on the counter and told the attendant he had just shot and killed the school principal. He then asked him to call the police and an ambulance and sat down to wait.

Tripp had been in Whitharral for two years, having moved here from Richland Springs.

The school has 215 students and 20 teachers.

Tripp was pronounced dead on arrival at a Levelland hospital.

Ezzell, Farabee pledge support

City Manager Harry Nagel and local Texas Electric Manager Jack Redding spent Wednesday beginning the process of cutting red tape in the state capitol.

As members of a five-man team seeking funds from state agencies for Big Spring's recovery, Nagel and Redding remained in Austin Wednesday to explore different avenues for possible funding. The three other members of the team returned Tuesday with optimistic reports of a conference with Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, and House Speaker Bill Clayton.

"The legislative process is a slow, complicated thing," said Nagel. "In such a short time, since we have made contact with these state officials, it is impossible to say what the outcome will be."

Nagel and Redding received further assurances from Rep. Mike Ezzell and Sen. Ray Farabee that they "would attempt to legally and politically get money for Big Spring" from the state.

But Nagel explained that the unconstitutionality of receiving money from many agencies may limit the methods of procuring funds for Big Spring's recovery. In many cases it is illegal for one governing agency (tne state) to give money directly to another governing agency (the city), according to the city manager.

"The (State) Attorney General will have to make the final decision on this," said Nagel.

The two city spokesmen did make contact with the State Economic Development Administration to check out possible Title Nine grants for the city.

"Under Title Nine, the EDA is permitted to help fund certain recovery programs with a 75 per cent grant. As an example, if the base reuse study shows that a certain utility, such as a water main, is too small, the EDA could fund improvements of that utility under Title Nine," said Nagel.

Nagel explained that the meeting with EDA officials was just an initial effort to "touch base" with the agency. It is still too early to talk specifics with the EDA "because we don't know now what the base reuse plan will show," according to Nagel.

Nagel reiterated the plan mentioned by the three team members Tuesday to pursue funds provided for natural disasters from the Governor's office.

"This is just one avenue we will explore," said Nagel.

Deputy AF secretary to discuss closing

Joe Meis, Deputy Secretary of the Air Force, will meet with the members of the Big Spring steering committee at 1 p.m. Monday, April 18, in the Wing Conference Room at Webb AFB.

Meis and the steering committee will be discussing procedures associated with the transfer of Air Force properties here. The steering committee was activated to negotiate for the property on behalf of the City of Big Spring after it was announced by the Air Force Webb would be closed.

Meis called Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander at Webb, to say he would arrive early enough to meet with Spannaus the morning of April 18 and would remain over to discuss Air Force plans for the change-over in the afternoon.

JOE MEIS

Meis visited here March 16 with Sec. of the Air Force Thomas Reed for an inspection of the military facility.

Man shot, lies helpless for three hours

Fred McGowan, 527 Scott Dr., accidentally shot himself at 9:30 a.m. today and lay helpless in his home until discovered by his wife at 12:45 p.m.

According to police reports, McGowan was cleaning his 20-gauge shotgun when it discharged, hitting him in the lower right chest.

Neighbors reported that McGowan was immobile after a series of recent operations, therefore, was unable to get to a phone to call for help.

His wife, returning home for lunch, found him still conscious, lying on the floor.

Alert Ambulance took him to Hall-Bennett Hospital where he is undergoing surgery in undetermined condition.

Area schools set Easter break

Big Spring, Stanton, Coahoma and Sands schools will not be in session Friday through Monday to allow for Easter break. School will resume at the normal time on Tuesday.

The only exception in the area is Colorado City which will allow an Easter break through Tuesday.

HC rodeo tonight

The first of four Howard County intercollegiate rodeos gets underway at 7 o'clock this evening in the Rodeo Bowl.

Performances are also scheduled for Friday night, Saturday afternoon, again Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. The afternoon shows get underway at 2 p.m.

Howard College's team, coached by Horace (Hoss) Rankin, is one of the favorites in the local rodeo. Most of the competitors here will be representing senior colleges.

Proceeds from the local events will be used to pay expenses of Howard College entries during the NIRA Rodeo, which will be held in Bozeman, Mont., June 14-18. Host school then will be Montana State University.

Advance tickets for the local show can be purchased for $2 each through the business office of Howard College. Tickets at the gate will cost $2.50. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

The local men's team is led by Charlie Burns, fifth in the nation in all-around standings; Jack Himes, an expert bareback rider who has appeared in many of the major rodeos; and Byron Walker, rated number one nationally in steer wrestling.

Lisa Mann, an all-around cowgirl, leads the Hawk women's team.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Absence excused

Q. Why would school principal John Smith not allow an excused absence for students to attend the funeral of Wanda Ferguson, and wouldn't even furnish a bus for them to go.

A. Smith denies ever having been personally approached with such a request. He said he would allow such an absence to be excused. Of the bus, he said that the transportation department decided a bus would not be available.

Calendar: Rodeo begins

TODAY

Opening night of the first Howard College Rodeo, 8 p.m. Rodeo Bowl. Nightly performances continue through Saturday, and finals are set for Sunday starting at 1 p.m.

Meeting of the Lone Star Boy Scout District at St. Paul Presbyterian Church, 7 p.m.

FRIDAY

Traditional Easter break begins in all Big Spring public schools and continues through Monday. Regular classes will be resumed Tuesday morning.

Borden County High School Junior-Senior prom, 8 p.m., Big Spring Country Club.

Story Hour for three-to-five year olds at Howard County Library, starting at 9:30 a.m. Included will be stories and films. Hostess will be Susan Jordan. Sponsored by Friends of Library.

Offbeat: Alarming story

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — The uniform of volunteer firemen in Carteret County may not be up to par with that of the big city firefighters. But nobody expected the garb that the fellows turned out in when the last alarm came in.

The firemen's association was in the middle of a fund-raising event Saturday night and the next spoof was an all-male wedding. The alarm sounded, a few mn hesitated but they all jumped on the truck, wearing dresses, wigs and women's make-up.

One burly firefighter said nobody dared to tease him about his clothes, but he did get some interesting offers.

TV's best: Awards ceremony

You may want to check out the presentation of awards to outstanding performers chosen by a nationwide, public survey on "Command Performance" at 8 p.m. on CBS. George Burns and Bernadette Peters will be the hosts. Paul Newman appears in one of his first starring roles in "The Silver Chalice," 10:30 p.m. on channel 8. Newman tried to buy this movie so that he could destroy it and erase the blot on his career.

Bill before House

BS schools to gain $595,200?

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — One of the biggest issues of the 1976-77 legislative session is expected to reach the House floor Tuesday — public school finance.

House Bill 780 has been approved by the Education Committee and will be used as the basis for floor debate on school finance. Under the bill, the Big Spring Independent School District stands to gain about $595,200 in state aid for the 1977-78 school year, according to Education Committee estimates.

The proposed bill would up the state's share of the Foundation School Program from 75 to 85 per cent of the total cost and would mandate a local tax cut equal to one-half of the reduction of the money required from local districts.

In the case of Big Spring ISD, that would mean tax relief of about $165,000, based on a decrease of $330,000 in the local share of the Foundation School Program.

The total operation cost of the Foundation School Program for the Big Spring ISD, based on recent test years, is estimated to be $5 million for 1977-78.

Of that total, the local share under HB 750 is projected to be $601,000. The state would contribute a total of $4.7 million, including the state share of the Foundation School Program and $287,500 in equalization aid which goes to enrich programs in poorer-than-average districts.

Other major features of HB 870 include a 10 per cent increase in state money to pay for local districts' transportation costs and a $15 per average daily attendance increase in maintenance and operation allowances.

MISSING — Brandi Summers (left), 5, who requires regular medication for cystic fibrosis, and her half-sister, Tiffany Wise (right), 2, are still missing a week after their mother was stabbed to death at their San Bernardino, Calif., home and the children taken. A detective said police are baffled.

Flood refugees return

UNDATED — Thousands of Appalachia flood refugees began returning to their water-ravaged homes as government agencies set up to feed and assist them. President Carter declared parts of southeastern Kentucky a disaster area Wednesday after a White House official toured the stricken counties. The U.S. Geological Survey said that although some rivers were still to crest today, waters have begun receding across the region. The agency said the flooding was the worst some of the areas could expect in 100 years.

Prosecutor killed

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (AP) — Assassins killed Federal Prosecutor Siegfried Buback, a key figure in the prosecution of the Baader-Meinhof anarchist gang, in downtown Karlsruhe today, police said. They said two men on a motorcycle pulled alongside Buback's car as he was being driven to work and opened fire with a submachine gun, killing the 57-year-old prosecutor and his driver. The assassins escaped.

Fighting in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian-backed Palestinian guerrillas have moved artillery and rocket launchers into the southern town of Nabatiyeh, eight miles north of Israel, and bombarded the nearby Christian strongholds of Marjayoun and Qlaiaa, witnesses reported today. The growing involvement of Saiqa guerrillas underlined Syria's support for the Palestinian offensive against the Israeli-supported right-wing Christians in southern Lebanon.

Hands off policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it intends to maintain a hands-off policy toward West European elections even if it appears that Communist candidates will make gains. But in a policy pronouncement Wednesday, the department left unanswered the question of whether it would look with favor upon the sharing of power by Communists in a coalition government.

GOP leader 'shocked'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes says he is "shocked" to find that two congressional clerks, including one technically appointed by him, are running $1-million-a-year print shops rent-free on the Capitol grounds. "This is one of the archaisms around this place that need to be re-examined and changed," Rhodes said through a spokesman. He was reacting Wednesday to disclosures that clerks Thomas Lankford and David Ramage reap substantial profits and salaries from their privately owned print shops, in addition to the nearly $15,000-a-year salaries they each receive from the taxpayers.

Taking stand seriously

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is taking President Carter's human rights stand seriously — so seriously that it inserted stronger human rights language than Carter wanted in an international aid bill. Rejecting a written appeal from the President against taking "an overly rigid approach," the House adopted an amendment Wednesday requiring Americans on the World Bank and other international lending organizations to vote against loans for countries that violate human rights.

Hiker lost

MOAB, UTAH (AP) — A Houston, Tex. hiker lost since Monday in Utah's rugged Canyonlands National Park has been found in good health, officials say.

Fred Lanier, 21, was separated from his tour group, Discovery Land, Bryan, Tex., about noon Monday. He was reportedly without food or water, and was wearing a down jacket.

Ground searchers on Wednesday found evidence of Lanier and tracked him until nightfall, resuming the search today, says David May, of the National Park Service.

Nixon on Fort Worth TV

DALLAS (AP) — Channel 11 (KTVT) of Fort Worth has picked up the rights to telecast the upcoming exclusive interviews with former President Richard Nixon by David Frost, it was announced today.

The station reaches Big Spring cable subscribers.

Program director Clem Candelaria said the station picked up the interviews after Channel 4 (KDFW) announced it could not reach an agreement with the syndicate selling the interviews.

"We feel that it is money well spent," Candelaria said explaining that the station had come up with a cash requirement to get the film.

"Even if we don't make up our costs," he added, "I thought it was so important to air the interviews in this area that I didn't hesitate to pick up the rights."

The interviews will be aired on May 4, 12, 19, and 25.

Gays continue to gig Anita Bryant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When the ceremonial pitcher tossed the first ball to open the 1977 gay softball league season, he hurled an orange instead.

It was a symbolic aim by this city's large and activist homosexual community against former Miss America contestant Anita Bryant.

Miss Bryant, who is campaigning in Miami for the repeal of a law that bars job discrimination against homosexuals, has become the scorn of the 100,000 homosexuals that officials estimate live in this city of 665,000.

She has also become big business in the stores and bars that cater to homosexual clientele.

Marty Thomason, manager of The Town Squire, said he sells more than 70 white and gold T-shirts a week, at $6.95 each, that are inscribed with the anti-Bryant slogan "Squeeze a fruit for Anita."

Many bars exhibit placards proclaiming: "We serve only California orange juice."

The California orange juice promotion is another jab at Miss Bryant, who does television commercials for Florida orange juice.

The Tavern Guild, a consortium that includes most of the city's approximately 100 gay bars, has an official policy of serving only California orange juice when possible.

A busy record store on gay-oriented Polk Street fills its front windows with gay magazines interspersed with old Antia Bryant records.

"We even sell a few old Anita Bryant records that have gathered dust for years," said a clerk. "I imagine they are buying facetiously."

Miss Bryant's Miami group collected enough signatures on petitions to force a countywide referendum on the job discrimination ordinance but a vote has been postponed by a judge.

Gay leaders here, who see the election as perhaps a crucial turning point in the gay rights movement, were gearing up support for Florida groups opposing Miss Bryant.

Miss Bryant, 37, and the mother of four children, began her petition drive after the Dade County Commission refused to rescind the ordinance. Her husband and manager, Bob Green, also joined the effort.

A devout Southern Baptist, she told the commission she feared the ordinance would encourage homosexuals to recruit youngsters to their ranks. "Homosexuals cannot reproduce, so they must recruit," she said.

SELLING AT A RAPID CLIP — Peter Merli, who runs a San Francisco gift shop, displays one of the anti-Anita Bryant tee shirts which store managers say are selling at a rapid clip. San Francisco's gay community is at odds with the singer's campaign to repeal a Miami ordinance prohibiting job discrimination against homosexuals.

Texans getting raw deal on gas?

HOUSTON (AP)- Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards says he will wait until President Carter announces his energy program April 20 before deciding if it is necessary to halt the flow of natural gas to the northeastern states.

Edwards told the Houston Press Club forum Wednesday he is convinced there is a "deliberate effort by some Atlantic coast states to use all of our natural gas at federally-regulated prices and then they will began drilling.

"And you can bet the gas won't flow south at any regulated prices. All we are doing now is subsidizing the energy bills for people on the east coast," he added.

The governor said Louisiana, Texas, and Oklahoma have been getting a raw deal for several years "and maybe this is the time to form a combine to call to the attention of the rest of the nation what we have done in supplying energy."

Asked what steps he may take if the president's proposal appeared to be detrimental to the oil and gas producing states, Edwards said he could and he would stop the flow of natural gas from Louisiana to the Northeast if necessary.

"And, if it is so bad for the environment to drill off the Atlantic coast, then maybe it is too bad to drill anymore wells off the Louisiana coast.

"If it is so bad to drill in Lake Erie, maybe we should no longer drill in Lake Pontchatrain. And, maybe we should slow down our production to preserve our reserves of oil and gas."

During the past five years, he said, there has been a lot of talk, a lot of rules and regulations about energy "and it hasn't provided one barrel of oil or one cubic foot of natural gas. It's about time people realized this is a national problem, not just one for the energy producing states.

"States with coal supplies sould produce coal; those with nuclear plants should produce energy and those with known undeveloped supplies of natural gas and oil should begin drilling."

He said the Eastern states are concerned about offshore drilling spoiling the environment "but their environment is far more threatened by dilapidated tankers bringing in oil from other nations than offshore drilling."

The governor said the energy producing states are told "to take the environmental risks in drilling. Alright, we will take it, but we sould be able to keep our own oil and gas."

Contract language draws Coors strike

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Supervisory and salaried personnel at the Adolph Coors Co. are continuing to produce Coors beer despite a strike by about 1,500 brewery workers in a dispute over contract language, company officials say.

Members of local 366 of the Brewery, Bottling, Can and Allied Industrial Union struck the nation's fifth largest brewery Tuesday night to protest language in a new contract the union said the firm put into effect unilaterally in early February.

The union represents about 1,500 of the nearly 3,800 brewery workers at Coors.

Company officials said Tuesday night they had no immediate figures on how beer production might be affected by the strike but said the brewery was still in operation.

The union claims changes in working conditions instituted by Coors Feb. 7 are far below conditions outlined in the last negotiated contract and constitute unfair labor practices.

A union spokesman declined Tuesday night to outline just what contract language was at issue, but earlier union officals had said the company package changed holiday schedules, eliminated shift choices by seniority, and allowed foremen to give lie detector tests and order physical examinations for workers at any time.

Two Mexican-American leaders gain awards

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller Foundation has presented awards to two Mexican-American leaders for their contributions to the well-being of mankind.

Vilma Martinez, 32, and Ernesto Gomez, 30, each received a $10,000 award Wednesday from the foundation's trustees as winners of the 1976 John D. Rockefeller III "Youth Award."

Gomez, a school dropout who is now a social worker and leader of El Centro del Barrio and the Bilingual Bicultural Teaching-Learning Center in San Antonio, Tex., has distinguished himself by his "tireless and imaginative work to improve the welfare of Mexican-Americans in this country," a foundation spokesman said.

Miss Martinez, president and general counsel of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, has achieved "outstanding results," the foundation said.

In presenting the award to Miss Martinez, the foundation said "In the three years since she has held this post she has built MALDEF into a thriving, effective organization that has vigorously defended the rights of Mexican-Americans in the Southwest and elsewhere in the United States."

Tris-treated garments production banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency today banned production and sale of children's sleepwear treated with Tris, a chemical flame retardant believed to cause cancer.

However, the Consumer Product Safety Commission voted 3 to 2 against recalling the 120 million Tris-treated garments already sold.

The commission voted 5 to 0 to allow consumers to bring back garments for refunds if they can show that the garments have never been washed.

Commission Chairman S. John Byington said that washing a garment at least three times "will remove any unacceptable risk."

Commissioners R. David Pittle and Thaddeus Garrett opposed this position, saying that the degree of hazard had not been determined.

They said that because Tris had been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals, all garments treated with it should be recalled from consumers.

The commission was first warned about Tris in October 1975 when test results indicated a possible hazard.

The tests, employing a method frequently used by scientists to predict whether a chemical will cause cancer in humans, showed a high likelihood of cancer-causing potential in Tris.

Large-scale production of Tris has continued since then with no warnings carried on the garments.

The commission has said that it cannot ban a substance until it has conclusive evidence that it is harmful.

Commission Chairman S. John Byington, referring to possible legal challenges from manufacturers, said this week, "We must have a record that is sustainable in court."

Tris has been used in children's polyester sleepwear to comply with federal flammability standards. Garments made from cotton and nylon are not treated with Tris.

While production of Tris continued, tests were conducted producing stronger evidence that Tris causes cancer.

The National Cancer Institute reported in February that laboratory animals exposed to Tris showed increased incidences of cancer of the kidney, stomach, liver and lung.

The Environmental Defense Fund, which has campaigned for a ban on Tris, has said that if the chemical is as carcinogenic in humans as it has been shown to be in rats, it could produce an increase of 1 to 8 per cent in the U.S. cancer rate.

The fund has filed two petitions with the commission urging action against Tris. Last month it filed a federal law suit over the issue.

Unwed father wins custody

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An unwed father has won permanent custody of his baby son after a year-long legal fight.

Harry T. Begg III, 28, had been keeping the boy since December, when a judge ruled that permanent custody would be granted if Beggs proved he could give the child proper care.

Roxanne Duffy, 19, had the baby a year ago. She named Begg as father of the then-unborn child while she was staying at a home for unwed mothers in Fort Worth, Tex.

She agreed that, when born, the child should be put up for adoption. However, Begg refused to accept that arrangement. He went to court, got an order blocking adoption proceedings and filed a petition for custody of the child.

In a countersuit, Miss Duffy withdrew her original statement that Begg was the father. A blood test resulted in the child being put in Begg's care. Civil District Judge S. Sanford Levy made it permanent Tuesday.

Tape recording denied defense

FORT WORTH (AP) — Prosecutors in the Cullen Davis capital murder trial will retain custody of a tape recording that says the lives of Priscilla Davis and Stan Farr had been threatened by someone other than the millionaire Fort Worth industrialist.

Contents of the recording have not been revealed publicly other than the information that a woman apparently told investigators she heard someone threaten Mrs. Davis and Farr.

District Court Judge Tom Cave said Wednesday that the tape could be withheld from defense lawyers despite their arguments that they are entitled to any information beneficial to their client.

Davis is charged with the slaying of Farr and with attempted murder in the shooting of his estranged wife.

He also is charged with attempted capital murder in the shooting of Gus Gavrel and the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

The current trial, for which seven jurors have been selected, deals with the Wilborn slaying.

The shootings occurred last Aug. 3 in the Davis mansion where Mrs. Davis was living with Farr while the Davis' divorce was pending.

The woman who said she had heard the threat before the shootings was identified as Sandy Guthrie Myers.

Mrs. Myers was among those who attended Wednesday's closed meeting to determine custody of the tape recording.

She told investigators she had spent several evenings at the Davis mansion after Mrs. Davis was given temporary custody of the palatial home. It was during that time that she heard the threat, she said.

Car sales top million mark

DETROIT (AP) — New car sales passed the one million mark in March for the first time in nearly four years, buoyed by unprecedented spring sales for big American models and small imports.

The industry reported Tuesday that the traditionally robust spring selling season began on a quick note last month with domestic sales of 895,319 cars — up 10 per cent from last year and the second best March ever.

Sales of import cars, predominantly small, inexpensive and Japanese, set a record for any month with sales of 187,700, up 45 per cent from 1976 to top the previous high of 179,000 cars sold in March 1973.

Total sales were 1,083,019, up 15 per cent from a year ago and fourth best month on record.

The last million-plus month was in June 1973, when the industry was in the midst of a sales boom.

Church panes smashed

Vandals were busy in Big Spring recently.

A total of seven windows, three of them stained glass, were broken out at the First Mexican Baptist Church, Northwest 5th and North Doughal, Tuesday night. Damage costs have not yet been estimated.

Vandals used a sharp instrument to scratch the sides of a car belonging to Ronald Simons, Howard College Men's Dorm, Tuesday night. Damage to the auto was estimated at $125.

A patient at the Big Spring State Hospital jumped onto the top of a car belonging to hospital employe Ben Danley, 1101 Blackman. The hood and top of the car were dented, causing $200 worth of damage.

Sneak thieves ripped off four, 15-inch wheel covers from a 1976 Ford Torino belonging to Diana Curry, 1313 Tucson, while it was parked at the Big Spring Bowl-a-rama. The incident occurred sometime between 8:15 p.m. and midnight Wednesday. Loss was estimated at $325.

Della Paxton, 311 W. 5th, was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where she was treated and released following a two-car accident, 6:25 p.m. Wednesday. Ms. Paxton was a passenger in a car driven by Herbert Paxton, 311 W. 5th, which collided with a vehicle driven by William C. Malone, 3801 West Highway 80.

The mishap occured at the corner of Gregg and West Fifth.

Five other mishaps were reported Wednesday.

Vehicles driven by Don G. Hugho, 105 W. 8th, and Lois J. Edmonson, 1503-B Lexington, collided at 500 Main, 9:48 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Hossein Dashtabadi, Webb AFB, and Mary H. Brokaw, Dallas, collided at FM 700 and Wasson, 3:35 p.m.

A vehicle belonging to Mike Kennedy, 417 Westover, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene in the parking lot of the Ramada Inn, 12:07 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Gary W. Schell, Washburn, Mo., and Roy D. Platte, Gail Route, collided in the parking lot of the Sonic DriveIn, 8:54 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Roland D. Byrd, San Angelo, and Guy Ditto, 704 Douglas, collided on the 2500 block of S. Gregg, 9:48 p.m.

Deaths

Robert Lomax

Services for Robert Claude Lomax, 85, who died 9 a.m. Tuesday in a local hospital, were held 2 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. The Rev. James Merrell, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in McLean, officiated.

Burial was in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Survivors include a son, Robert Lomax, Odessa; four daughters, Mrs. Harris Hester, Eufala, Ala., Mrs. Alma Jones, Wichita, Kan., Mrs. James Merrell, McLean, Mrs. Elsie Koening, Big Spring; three brothers, Harvey Lomax, Ocean Spring, Miss., Ramon Lomax, Odessa, Weldon Lomax, Big Spring; three sisters, Ethel Sherrill, Big Spring, Edith Brooks, Borger, Mrs. E.L. Jordan, Fort Worth; 11 grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Mary Ellen Lomax, in November.

Mr. McClammy

Services for Waymon McClammy, 83, who died Tuesday, will be at 4 p.m. Friday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Ted Fields, Carl Brown, Wayne Salmon, Jim Samuels, Rex Greenwood and Harvey Hocker.

Deacons of Hillcrest Baptist Church will be honorary pallbearers.

'Cop can't win for winning'

DALLAS (AP) — Like the headline said Wednesday, "He can't win for winning."

Dallas policeman Arthur Hudnall won a non-paying seat Saturday on the suburban Kleberg City Council, and has surrendered his $15,000-a-year job to fill it.

Hudnall resigned Tuesday, explaining that the Dallas City Charter prohibits civil service employes such as policemen from holding public office in Dallas County.

He said he was unaware of the provisions until three days before the election, and by then had assumed an obligation to Kleberg voters.

Hudnall, with nearly 10 years on the force, told Police Chief Donald Byrd in his resignation letter:

"I'm resigning from the City of Dallas based on the fact that I committed myself to the community of Kleberg as a candidate for city council under the impression that as a citizen of that community I had this right. I cannot in good conscience refuse this obligation based on what I feel is an infringement of my constitutional rights."

Until he finds another job, he said, his family of four will live on his wife's salary as a state agency employe.

FAMILY MEMBERS BURIED — Mrs. Betty Griffin is assisted from the grave side of her daughters, daughter-in-law and grandchildren after their burial Wednesday afternoon. The seven members of her family, including four children, were killed when their car was struck by a Southern Airways plane attempting a crash landing.

ABC jurors dissatisfied

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Members of an expired grand jury have said they are dissatisfied that no action has been taken on the grand jury's recommendations about the operation of the Abilene office of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Much of the dissatisfaction expressed Wednesday in a news conference here centered around the belief that they were not properly informed about the power they had as a grand jury.

Dist. Atty. Lynn Ingalsbe, who was criticized by the former grand jurors, said he "resents" the fact that they held a news conference "with secret matters (things that were discussed in the grand jury room)."

"I will be happy to discuss anything they want to talk about face to face," Ingalsbe said.

The former grand jurors said they have sent a letter, signed by 11 members of the former grand jury, requesting that Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill investigate the operations of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and make a ruling on the constitutionality of Texas liquor laws. They said Hill had not replied to the letter.

They said they also wanted Hill to investigate to determine if there had been any abuse of office in the Abilene office of the commission.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Lee Clyburn said that an expired grand jury has no standing to seek assistance from the attorney general's office.

One former member of the grand jury was critical of Ingalsbe, saying "He never one time told us that if we were going to bring this to a head, we had to indict."

Another complained that the district attorney never told the grand jurors that he believed they had enough evidence to indict anyone in connection with the liqour probe.

In a report issued at the end of their term, the grand jurors asked for the investigation of the entire commission, a more limited investigation into the Abilene office and for a test of the constitutionality of the liquor laws.

To distribute eggs to aged

Boys and girls of Mrs. Clayton Hicks' fourth grade class at Marcy School undertake a goodwill mission at noon today.

At that hour, they will distribute eggs they have decorated to recipients in the Mobil Meals program at the Senior Citizens' Center.

An estimated 75 handicapped persons who gather at the center for hot lunches will receive the eggs.

Lutheran services

Special Holy Week services will continue at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Ninth and Scurry Streets, at 7:30 o'clock this evening, with the program dedicated to "remembering the institution of holy communion."

A Good Friday service is scheduled for 7:30 p.m, Friday, with the "remembering of Jesus' cruxification."

The Rev. Carroll Kohl is pastor of the church.

Boy injured by explosion

HOUSTON (AP) — A 13-year-old boy was slightly injured Wednesday by an explosion as he waited for a school bus.

Anthony Robinson said he had one foot on the curb and one on a manhole when he "went up in the air about eight feet." He was treated at a local hospital and released.

The blast was blamed on explosive gases in the city sewer lines by fire officials and Entex officials who sent experts out to check. District Fire Chief Doyle V. Ebel said the flammable liquid was flushed out with water.

State may escape Easter cold spell

By the Associated Press

South breezes warmed a cloudless Texas today.

And chances appeared better than ever that the state will escape what oldtimers call the usual Easter cold spell. Official forecasters looked ahead and promised it'll be clear to partly cloudy and warm in all sections through the weekend.

Occasional patches of fog in South Texas were the only blot on the weather pattern this morning as the south winds blew at 5 to 15 miles per hour.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 44 degrees at Dalhart in the Panandle up to 59 at Tyler in East Texas. Wednesday's top mark of 84 was shared by Dallas and Waco.

FORECAST

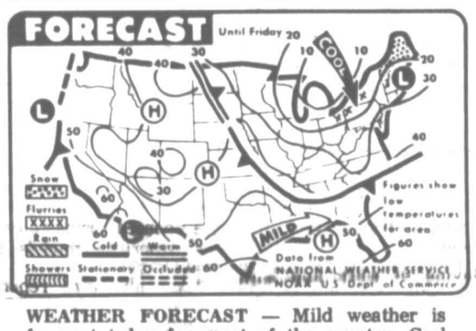

WEST TEXAS: Fair through Friday with no important change in temperatures. High Friday upper 70s and low 80s except near 90 Big Bend. Lows tonight mid 40s to the low 50s except low 30s mountains.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Warm and dry Saturday through Monday. Highs mostly 80s . . . except 90s Big Bend valleys. Lows 40s north and mountains to 50s elsewhere.

Beef conference keynoter named

AMARILLO — Dr. David Phillipson, vice president and general manager of Upjohn Company's agricultural division, will be the keynote speaker for this year's Texas Beef Conference in Amarillo's Hilton Inn. The conference is scheduled for today and Friday.

Phillipson will address the conference delegates during their annual T-Bone Club meeting at the close of the first day's activities. He will talk about general marketing and merchandising principles in the beef industry.

Other topics included in the fifth session of the Texas Beef Conference include beef quality from the consumer's point of view, new trends in beef processing, commodity standards for the beef industry and energy alternatives for agriculture.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Cattle Feeder's Association, Texas Tech and West Texas State University.

Judging team wins first

The Glasscock County 4-H Club Livestock Judging Team won first place in the Sul Ross University-sponsored contest last Saturday. Larry Batla was the overall high individual in the contest. Other team members were Garry Batla, Wayne and Kevin Hirt.

Staci Wilderson was the overall high individual in the range judging contest, and Candy Overton was fourth. Travis Pate Jr. was seventh high individual in wool judging and the wool team was fourth. Other team members were Susan Pate and Lonnie Pruit.

The livestock judging team also participated in the Abilene Christian University livestock judging contest on Monday April 4 and placed second. There were 130 teams entered. Larry Batla was eighth high individual in this contest.

Neese draws prison term

ABILENE — Mel Neese, former recreation superintendent for the City of Abilene, was convicted in 104th District Court here Wednesday on a charge of felony "official misconduct" and sentenced to four years in prison. In addition, Neese was fined $2,000.

The state had contended that Neese had misappropriated city funds by purchasing more than $400 worth of carpet for his own apartment. Evidence showed that installation costs were also borne by the city.

Defense attorneys indicated that the verdict would be appealed. Formal sentencing is set for April 22.

Mrs. Ward takes postal post

FORSAN — Mrs. Leon (Reba) Ward will be sworn in as Postmaster of the Forsan Post Office, 10:15 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Ward has been officer in charge of the post office since the death of Mrs. Alma Rose Murphy, previous postmaster, six months ago.

New concept in horn fly control

MoorMan's IGR Minerals® for grazing beef cattle contains an insect growth regulator that zeroes in on costly horn flies, but doesn't harm cattle or beneficial insects.

It stops their growth in the harmless pupal stage.

They never develop into mature flies that can harass your cattle, suck their blood, cut your cows' milk flow, reduce your calves' or yearlings' growth and gains.

Your cattle also get the benefits of a complex combination of performance promoting minerals. Plus vitamin D and 200,000 units per pound of vitamin A.

Find out more about IGR Minerals and other MoorMan Fly-Control Products from your MoorMan Man when he brings his feed-counseling service to you.

'We'll get something else'

One man who does not appear in the slightest worried about the future of Big Spring after Webb Air Force Base is Dr. P.W. Malone.

Dr. Malone, one of the founders of Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic, has seen Big Spring through its up and downs since the 1930s.

DR. P.W. MALONE

I HAD A chance to visit for half an hour with the foresighted doctor, and he gave me some perspective with which to view the Webb closing.

Dr. Malone has been through this before. He was chairman of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce's Aviation Committee when the Big Spring Bombardier School closed following World War II and when the base was reopened in the early 1950s as Webb.

When the base went away, he recalled, people wondered what Big Spring was going to do.

But at that time, the community was launching its junior college district, and the base became the site for the school's first buildings.

The base was not near the asset following World War II that it is now.

At many points in this country's history, the buildings on a military base were not too valuable because few were permanent. Ten years ago the nation's constructions costs were not pumped by inflation beyond the reach of many small companies and manufacturers. Building a new facility was not that expensive.

NONE OF THIS is true today. Webb Air Force Base contains many permanent and valuable assets. Inflation has made existing buildings the most attractive point any community can have. Dr. Malone knows these things, and he isn't worried.

"When the bombardier school went away, we got Howard College," he remembers. "We'll get something else this time."

World of difference

Around the rim

James Werrell

Sure the Bering Strait is only a few miles wide. But culturally it seems that the distance between the USSR and the U.S. of A. is a bit wider.

I noticed this while leafing through a recent copy of "Moscow News," a Red rag dropped by the office by W.D. Berry, civil defenseman, recently returned from Mother Russia.

TO GIVE YOU an idea of the excitement to come in the rest of the paper, the cover features a picture of Mikhail Kondakov, "a fitter at the First State Ball-Bearing Factory, who will be a delegate to the 16th Trade Union Congress." Can't wait to read about that one.

After glancing through the "Labour Brings Out One's Best" and "The Struggle In Southern Africa" blurbs, I came to the "Around Moscow" section of the paper.

Thinking of stepping out in the Steppes? This is the section to check.

How about a movie? "The Abused Honour of Katarina Blum" is playing at the Bioscop Film Theater. The story revolves around "a young woman who is groundlessly accused of being involved with anarchists. Tormented and persecuted by the bourgeois press, she takes drastic action and kills a journalist."

Despite the possible attraction of watching journalists get killed, this is no "Gone With The Wind."

So how about some sports? You can drop by the Moscow Palace of Weightlifting and cheer on the Central Army Basketball Club in its effort to wrest the European title from the team from Mobilgigi, Italy.

ACCORDING TO THE News, "The game is certainly going to interest fans because Mobilgigi is the current cupholder." I would imagine both teams would have a hard time holding onto their cups in a thriller like that.

By the way, if it's a night on the town you're after, leave the furs at home. According to the Moscow weather report, the climes will be "continuing warm and mainly dry with almost no wind. Night temperature around zero, and daytime temperature around three degrees."

But if you want to spend a quiet evening at home, why not curl up with the "Language Club For Students" section of the News? In this section, Muscovites can pick up English phrases that will allow them to be virtually indistinguishable in a crowd of happy-go-lucky imperialist Americans.

They can learn such zingers as: "Don't miss the stop where you are to get off and change buses," or, "May I recommend you to take this course here? It tastes heavenly. You'll never want any other fish in your life!" or even, "Well, if I don't have it (my hair) done, I look no better than a haystack!"

THE BEST FEATURE on the page is the "He Never Loses His Head" joke under the "Laughs and Smiles" column.

It seems that Mr. and Mrs. McLaury are taking an ocean cruise for their honeymoon. But just underway, the "big passenger ship" they are on hits a rock and begins to sink.

Mrs. McLaury, close to delirium, asks her husband, "Is it true, darling, that the ship is going down?"

"Of course it's true," replies the always-cool Mr. McLaury. "Whatever the captain says goes."

Then, according to the jokesters, "Mrs. McLaury burst into tears, and Mr. McLaury looked at her with something like scorn and said, "Don't be daft, and stop crying! The ship isn't yours, is it?"

Oh, that Soviet wit! Have you ever heard the one about the traveling member of the Toolmaker's Guild whose tractor broke dow near the farm of Vanya Varicosa, friend of the people and supporter of the Five Year Plan? Well, Vladimir had this robust daughter, Ludmilla . . .

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

What is this thing about personal taxes? While visiting my aunt in Sand Springs last weekend a lot of people were talking about whether or not you had to pay it if your county or school board assessed it on your business or personal property.

A man walked into some of the businesses in Sand Springs and said he paid his other taxes but did not and was not going to pay his personal tax. We thought if it was assessed on you, regardless of who you are, you had to pay it.

Up until now I never thought anything about taxes one way or another. We should be more interested in our community and government at all times because we are the future of our community as well as our country.

I read your editorial write-up sent in by Mr. Joe Swinney of Coahoma who was just re-elected to Mayor of Coahoma over a write-in by a small or narrow margin. He said the City Council had to raise taxes to help make ends meet. What about all that money spent on lawyers' fees trying to get the mess straightened out with the water district? It was said when all of this started that Coahoma did not need Sand Springs water revenue. Well if they don't, what have they spent all that hard-earned tax money for? That also goes for the water district.

Shame on all those non-voters this past Saturday.

Congratulations are in order to Kirby Brown for getting out and working so hard to win a seat on the Coahoma school board. Even though Mrs. Diana Harvell did not win, she should be commended for her interest and concern in her community. Even though she did not have children in school, we need more interested women like her. Congratulations to Mrs. Carol Hunter and to my all-time favorite person, Al Valdes.

Dear Editor:

I write this on a Saturday (April 2). This morning at Malone-Hogan Hospital 14 airmen of Class 77-F from Webb AFB came to the fourth floor of the hospital on a project to further better military-community relations.

They had called earlier Thursday to discuss the possibility of carrying out a chosen project which they described as a part of their Professional Military Leadership Education program. Sgt. John Clayton explained that they wanted to present a magic show for the children in the hospital, adding they would also like to decorate the children's ward for Easter.

We don't yet have a children's ward . . . some day, we will have. But, for now, most of the pediatric patients are admitted to 4th floor, usually in the large executive rooms where there's room for family and friends.

So arrangements were made to set up the party in one of these rooms, especially since one four-year-old had just the day before been put into a body cast and otherwise would be unable to participate. The other children were brought in their wheelchairs, along with some visitors and not a few patients and employes who were too young at heart to resist such storybook magic.

It was evident from the first telephone call from the base that this was not one of those do-it-and-get-it-over-with projects. As is typical with military thoroughness, the young men were clearly aware of the underlying purpose of the project, and carried it out in such a way that all concerned were caught up in the sheer fun of it all.

The show was pure magic. The expressions on the faces of those watching were evidence of that. But perhaps the best part was the comraderie that permeated the corridors as the airmen 'did their thing,' talking and visiting with the children, peddling their free donuts, Easter baskets, and bunnies on the floor, and passing out lunch trays to patients as a final gesture before leaving the hospital.

We will miss this kind of thing, once Webb is closed. True, we will sorely miss the dollars that young families spend for medical care those first few years of marriage.

But the folks at Malone-Hogan Hospital will miss as much the young wives coming in to have their babies; we'll miss the young fathers, too. We'll miss the mothers-in-law, the fathers-in-law; grandmothers and grandads who come to visit the sons and daughters who somehow got stranded for a time in Big Spring.

We'll miss the smart young nurses and medical techs, fresh out of school and anxious to practice their profession in our hospital so that they can go on up the ladder toward their life goals. We'll miss their insistence on professionalism.

We'll miss the insights Webb people have brought to us from their hometowns across the nation. We'll miss their intelligence, their brashness, their ability to function well in strange situations. We'll miss thier leadership in our civic groups and churches . . . the update they give to us as neighbors across the fences of Big Spring.

We'll miss their perserverance in carrying out any given mission. Such as doing their part to cement community relations in a town that three days ago started saying goodbye to their dollars, but is just starting to say the goodbye.

So long, Webb. We're glad you came our way.

Dear Editor:

On March 15, I went with three classes of kindergarten children on a field trip to Big Spring High School. As we were loading to go back to our school on the bus, cars were passing as if we weren't there.

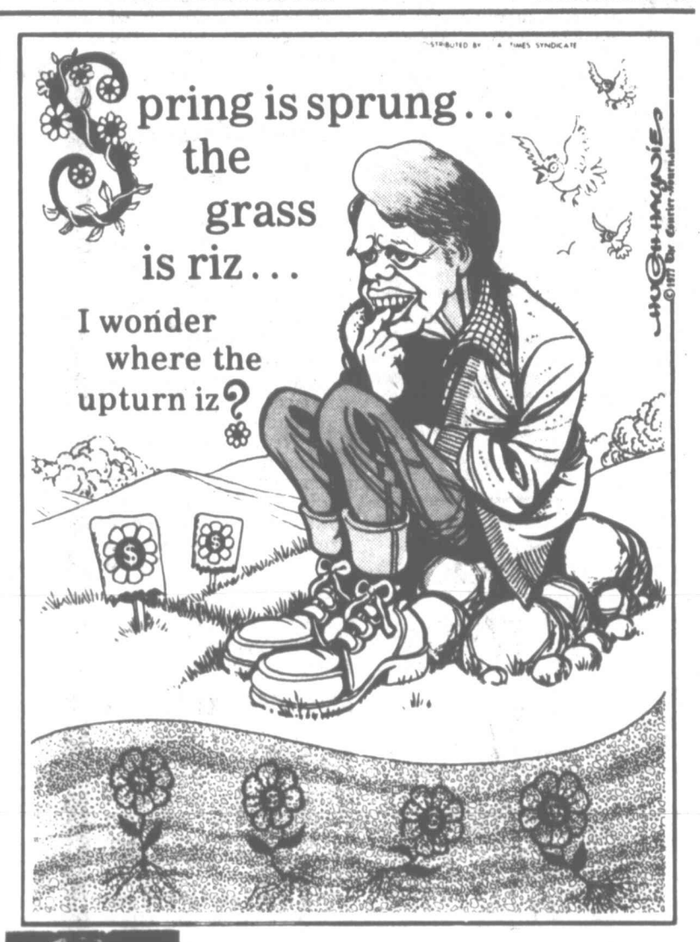

That is, they were until a 19-year-old man in a van stopped. Even then, some continued passing him on the wrong side of 11th Place. honked at those responsible adults. All of us on that bus want to thank him and we feel we need more like him.

I ride the morning kindergarten bus and I know it is hard to see these small children and it is even harder to see those who go to Headstart.

There are zones marked "for busses only." These have the curbs painted red. The buses also have flashing lights to use, but some of the lights don't work. I wish people would stop anyway. Please don't stop or park in these zones.

Let your children walk an extra few feet. It's good for them and safe for others.

Blood pressure can differ

Dr. G.C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do most doctors take blood pressures in the left arm? I find that taking my pressure at home it is sometimes higher in my right arm than in my left. — Mrs. N.N.P.

Most doctors just pick the most convenient one. Most people are right-handed and usually sit or lie in a position that makes their left sides available. Since most doctors are also right-handed this is fine all around.

There can be a difference between pressures from side to side, however. Many doctors take pressures in both arms at the first visit. There can be a difference of as much as 10 or 15 points.

One can only speculate about the variations in pressures. The left arm is a bit closer to the aorta, the main vessel leaving the heart, so pressure on that side might tend to be slightly higher. Also, the right arm arteries, because of all the exercise they get, might tend to be a bit more supple with less blood pressure against the walls.

Taking your own blood pressure may raise the reading a point or two, because of either anxiety or difficulty in attaching the cuff, especially when a right-handed person tries to take his own right-side pressure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem of falling hair. The hair at the top of my head seems to be falling quite a bit. I have been told diet could be a factor. I am at the half-century mark and have been on a self-imposed diet for the past several months. I would appreciate a comment. — Mrs. F.L.

A stringent low-protein diet can cause hair loss, and it might take months for it to become obvious. It is not unusual however, for excessive hair loss to occur at your age, even with a proper diet. My booklet on hair health discusses the problem. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Believe it or not I am trying to gain weight. I'm told I could use about 15 extra pounds. I'm wondering if any of the weight I gain would possibly be in the breasts. If so, I would consider it a plus. — Mrs. P.L.

Can't say. Much of the excess poundage we acquire is in the form of fatty tissue. The breasts are largely fatty tissue, so you might expect some gain to end up there.

I have to disagree with the person who said you could use "about 15 EXTRA pounds." No one needs extra weight. You probably meant "additional" pounds.

For some, trying to gain pounds is tougher than trying to lose them. More calories from all sources is what you need.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I don't know if this can be considered a medical type question, but believe me it's a problem that's ruining family's health. My husband is a compulsive gambler. Have you heard about a group called "Gamblers Anonymous?" Does it help? My husband will try if you say so. — Mrs. R.L.

Certainly have heard of it, and from reports there is remarkable success, comparable I'm told, to the success of Alcoholics Anonymous. Have your husband look up a local chapter. I know there is one in the large city in which you live.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I took tennis lessons and while learning the backhand stroke my arm between my hand and elbow was strained. A knot appeared, stayed a while, then disappeared. There was some discoloration. However, I still cannot rest my arm on a table edge or on a desk. If I do, a sharp pain shoots through my lower arm.

Is this tennis elbow? Do you think it will subside? — Mrs. L.

While tennis elbow is usually confined to the elbow joint, pain can radiate down the arm. The knot and discoloration suggest a possible muscle rupture in the forearm. It should be seen by a physician.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A friend of mine belongs to a group that wants to take all the best things from the various world religions and combine them into one new religion. I think that sounds like a good idea, don't you? — S.P.M.

DEAR S.P.M.: No, I'm afraid I can't agree with you, although I know this idea sounds logical to many people. The idea is actually based on the assumption that all religions — without exception — are mixtures of right and wrong ideas. There are at least two things wrong with that assumption. First, even if it were true, how would we know exactly which ideas were the true ones and which were the false ones? Second, I believe the evidence shows conclusively that Jesus Christ alone gave us the full truth about God.

You see, Jesus Christ made a startling claim. Most of the founders of the world's various religions admitted they were men searching for God; they could give us only their own ideas about God. But Jesus claimed to be God Himself. He said He was not just giving us His own ideas about God; He was telling us the truth about God. "He that seeth me seeth him that sent me . . . For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should say, and what I should speak!" (John 12:45, 49). Now if this is true, we don't need to look elsewhere for the truth. That is why Jesus could say, "I am the way, the truth, the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6).

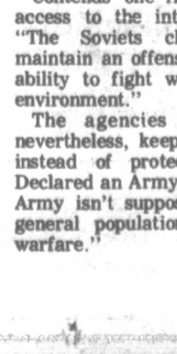

Was Jesus who He claimed to be? Yes! How do we know? Because He rose again from the dead! This act forever sets Jesus apart from all the religious leaders of the world. And it also means that He alone can forgive us and save us when we put our trust in Him.

Daily record

Liz Smith

WASHINGTON, A.C.-D.C. President Carter will get the drop on his presidential memoirs; he is keeping a daily diary of his reflections, thoughts and actions . . . Michigan's Don Riegle Jr. is getting a reputation as the Senate's bad boy. He had to be reprimanded by the sergeant at arms for taking food onto the Senate floor. (And, Don, don't talk with your moth full!) . . . Candy Bergen and her former boy friend Bert Schneider (he made the controversial "Hearts and Minds") are arriving in D.C. for a party this weekend given at the Institute for Policy Studies . . . Sen. James Abourezk, the 46-year-old Democrat from South Dakota, isn't kidding about resigning his seat when his term ends in January 1979. He is already writing his first novel about a disillusioned senator (roman a feet of clay?) . . . June Bingham, wife of the Democratic liberal congressman from the Bronx, asked Good Housekeeping to remove her byline from an article after she says the editors added remarks which weren't hers about Chappaquiddick . . . There'll be a big shakeup at Parade magazine because longtime top overseer Lloyd Shearer (he is your question-and-answer man Walter Scott) wants his 25-year-old son, Cody, to take over in Washington. Others would like to wrest control of the newspaper supplement from the Shearer dynasty.

HOT STUFF: Don't look for Robert De Niro on Oscar night. He and his wife are leaving town for the big event whether he wins for "Taxi Driver" or not . . . Most sensational casting news of the year is that Billy Wilder has signed Marthe Keller and William Holden for the leads in the Tom Tryon fiction "Fedora" about a fading film star. Holden, hot since "Network," made his two best movies for wild man Wilder . . . Here is the number one name bruited about to head up the plum National Endowment of the Arts — Tom, that's right, Hoving. (He'd be free if the Annenberg wing at the Metropolitan falls through finally.)

No protection

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Army has conducted hundreds of germ warfare tests in places like New York City's subway system and Washington's National Airport. Yet, incredibly, no one has bothered to prepare plans to protect the American citizenry from a biological attack.

THE MILITARY HAS spent millions on ways to defend against biological warefare, but has concentrated only on protecting its own troops. The general population is supposed to be guarded against biological attack by the Public Health Service. Yet the agency admits it has no program whatsoever to protect the public.

This glaring deficiency in the national defense occurs at a time when military analysts fear that the United States is becoming increasingly vulnerable to a biological attack from the Soviet Union.

The United States destroyed the last of its offensive biological weapons in 1973 after an agreement with the Soviets to ban germ warfare. But worried Pentagon officials say they have no way of verifying whether the Soviets have actually completed their end of the agreement.

Contends one Army official with access to the intelligence reports: "The Soviets clearly intend to maintain an offensive capability, an ability to fight war in a chemical environment."

The agencies of government, nevertheless, keep passing the buck instead of protecting the public. Declared an Army spokesman: "The Army isn't supposed to protect the general population from biological warfare."

Echoed a spokesman for the Public Health Service: "We don't have a role. There is no formal function for preparedness against a germ warfare attack in the Public Health Service."

Footnote: The Agriculture Dept. developed defoliants for use in Vietnam in the 1960s. It has the responsibility to defend the nation's animals and crops against chemical warfare. But the Agriculture Dept., too, has no defensive program. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D.-Mass., is trying to insure that someone will protect the public from a chemical attack.

STRANGE DIPLOMACY — While the world spotlight is focused on Soviet-American talks, relations between the United States and Czechoslovakia have seriously deteriorated.

CURIOUSLY, THE REASON for the rupture can be traced to the influence of a potent Washington law firm. The firm's most prominent partner, ex-Sen. Geroge Smathers, D.-Fla., is a back-slapping buddy of Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D.-La.

At the law firm's instigation, the obliging Long began obstructing delicate negotiations with the Czechs. He recently fired off a brash letter to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance about the Czech situation. The powerful senator warned that certain conditions must be met before he would allow normalized relations with Czechoslovakia.

The story should be told from the beginning:

During World War II, the Allies confiscated 18.4 metric tons of Czech gold.

Big Springers in state of semi-shock?

Webb closing 'quotes'

Editor's note: Les Thomas, staff writer for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram visited Big Spring shortly after the announcement that Webb Air Force Base would be closed. The following story includes his observations of the effects of the announcement.

By LES THOMAS
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
Written For The Associated

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — A few yards from the end of the Webb AFB runway there stands perhaps the most strategic liquor store in the whole American defense system.

From behind the counter, Elvin Lay, 74, watched a small silver speck scream down the runway until it turned into a roaring T38 jet trainer as it lifted up just in front of his picture window.

Lay, a retired farmer, shook his head and said he may be the only man in Big Spring who won't be sorry to see the base close.

"Sometimes it sounds like they're going to suck you right up the tailpipe," he observed. "It's nerve-wracking.

"They could close the thing tomorrow as far as I'm concerned."

But for other residents of this West Texas city of 28,000, the news that Webb will close has not been welcome.

Even though it has been expected for nearly a year, the announcement last week of Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed's decision still seemed to leave much of Big Spring in a state of semi-shock.

For starters, Big Spring expects to lose about one-fourth of its population or more. The government predicts as many as 1,830 persons could eventually leave when closing of the base is completed in six to eight months.

For those who remain, an impact statement predicts. unemployment will go from the current 3 per cent to perhaps as high as 12.8 per cent. Webb AFB is Big Spring's biggest employer. A $38.2 million payroll will also evaporate.

The impact statement predicts as many as 2,938 housing units could go on the market as well. Merchants can count on a drop of about 16.9 per cent in retail sales.

School enrollment, too, will drop drastically, a range of 15 to 23 per cent, and Big Spring is already counting on closing at least three schools—possibly four.

But those are only cold statistics of the gaping economic hole Big Spring will feel when it loses a base that has been here 26 years.

Relatives and classmates and uprooted families and old friends soon will be among the many "who are going."

When the word came Wednesday, the news didn't wait for newspapers to print it. It went door to door, ear to ear.

"It got around town like a prairie fire with an 80-mile an hour gale behind it," said one merchant.

"Like the black plague," added newspaper editor Tommy Hart.

Used car dealer J.K. Thomas was about to close a deal on a used car when he got the word. So did his customer.

"He was going to be one of the ones transferred overseas," said Thomas. "So what did he need a car for? He backed out. It cost me $800."

Sales already have been dented on the row of car lots that leads from the Big Spring square to the air base. Because of the Air Force customers, the car business was big in Big Spring. The city has more than 20 dealers.

But several said business has been in a state of limbo since it was first learned nearly a year ago that Webb might be closed. "Over the years there was a time when we did probably 75 per cent of our business" with servicemen, said Thomas' partner, Wayne Crady.

With its flat, red ground backed up to cedar speckled mesas, the economy of Big Spring as long as most residents can remember has always been tied to cotton, cattle, oil and the U.S. Air Force.

The effect of the Air Force base on Big Spring is so far reaching it is hard to find anyone who will not be affected by the change.

Mayor Wade Choate, for example, manages the federal credit union at the base. City Manager Harry Nagel owns a convenience store near the base.

Nearly everyone expects to suffer economically. The big questions are: How much? And for how long?.

The crisis of losing the base seems to have divided Big Spring into two schools of thought. On the one hand "you have doomsayers," said newsman Hart.

But a larger—or at least more vocal—camp is the group of civic boosters, most of them businessmen, who keep vowing that Big Spring is going to rebound full speed from the jaws of economic disaster.

J. Tom Graham, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, shares that philosophy himself.

"We're going to build it back," Graham vowed. "There's nothing else we can do."

Graham said the economic pressure extends to the city's government and schools.

"But we're going to get some government assistance in that area," he said. "There's no danger that the city schools would go bankrupt —or that taxes will go up that much."

But for a Big Spring that is already economically edgy, one big fear is that the legislature this session will put through a new refinery tax that could fall heavily on the Cosden Refinery, Big Spring's second biggest employer.

"A town like this can stand one blow," Graham said, "but I don't know about two.

"That tax would cost the refinery $1 million a month."

Most Big Spring leaders have tied their main hopes for recovery on a loan that calls for the city to take over the more than 2,000 acres and $130 million in facilities at Webb and use it to recruit and house new industry.

But a stumbling block to that ambitious plan is that Big Spring lost its year-long fight to keep the base open. It seems to have taken its toll on the town's morale.

Thanks to you it works...

10 Lashes For Abby's Cat Slip

DEAR ABBY: Shame on you for your non-answer to that 10-year-old girl whose pet cat, Sinbad, kept running off to be with his girlfriend.

You missed a perfect opportunity to tell all cat-owners to have their pets spayed and altered. Just a few words from you might have prevented the birth of thousands of unwanted kittens who might end up in a decompression chamber.

If you print this, lots of purrs to you from Benny, Toby and Phoebe who live with the Richards in Ridgecrest, Calif.
GAIL

DEAR GAIL: I'll take 10 lashes with a cat o'nine tails for my sin of omission. Thanks to you and thousands of other readers who wouldn't let me get away with it.

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of Meals on Wheels? It is a non-profit, privately operated service for the elderly and handicapped who live alone and cannot prepare meals for themselves, and consequently are reduced to a diet of tea and toast.

There are many such services scattered throughout the U.S. and Canada, but because they are independently operated we don't know where they are.

Abby, you would be doing a tremendous service if you publish our address so we can act as a clearing house for those who provide the service and those who need it. We will provide a national list of Meals on Wheels kitchens, and distribute it for the price of paper and postage.

Our address: Meals on Wheels
Capitol Hill United Methodist Church
421 Seward Square, S.E.
Washington, D.C. 20003

Gratefully,
NEIL SCOTT (FOUNDER)

DEAR MR. SCOTT: Indeed I have heard of Meals on Wheels and the wonderful service it performs. I consider it a privilege to help coordinate your efforts.

DEAR ABBY: Before long it will be graduation time again, and while I don't have time to keep up a correspondence with many friends, I would like to let them know that one of my children is graduating.

Please remind people, Abby, that an announcement is not a solicitation for a gift. I cringe at the thought of people feeling obligated (and many people do).

Should I state "No gifts please"? I do think it sounds dumb. Maybe if you just print this, people won't get the wrong idea when they receive an announcement.
FLORIDA MOTHER

DEAR FLORIDA: A graduation announcement is no more than that and can adequately be acknowledged by card or note of congratulations.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.M.: I like the way Malcolm S. Forbes put it: "Anybody who thinks money is everything has never been sick. Or is."

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school, and my parents still treat me like I was 2 years old. Last Friday night I went to a basketball game with some kids and said I'd be home by 12:30 p.m. Well, I didn't get home until 1:25 a.m., but it wasn't my fault. The kid who owned the car went for a ride afterward, and I couldn't get home without him.

When I got home my mother was practically in hysterics. My father said if I'd been gone another five minutes they'd have called the police.

I've been grounded for six months. I tried to explain that it wasn't my fault, and if they'd let me off this time it would never happen again, but they wouldn't listen. Don't you think their punishment is too rough for what I did?
GROUNDED

DEAR GROUNDED: Yes. But if you take your punishment like a man, perhaps your parents will be so impressed with the maturity of your behavior, they'll shorten the grounding time. Try it.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Examines alternate sources of energy

"Now That The Dinosaurs are Gone" was the title of a film shown to the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Tuesday evening by Mrs. Sandra Killough of Texas Electric Service Company. The group met Tuesday evening at the Western Sizzler.

Mrs. Killough discussed nuclear power and lignite coal as alternate energy sources. She gave the specifics of a plant now under construction at Glen Rose, with a projected completion date in 1981.

Mrs. Jerry Thomas, president, presided.

Mrs. Gerri Dietz, who is employed by the Big Spring Independent School District, was the vocational speaker, describing her duties in the accounting department.

Mrs. Kae Winn, Mrs. Jane Vargo, Mrs. Helen Ball and Mrs. Muriel Denton were inducted as new members during a candlelight ceremony.

Capt. Vivian K. Elmadolar was a guest.

Miss Reavis honored at gift shower

Miss Donna Reavis, bride-elect of Alan Garner, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Milton Lewis, San Angelo Highway.

Hostesses were Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Lambert Misek, Mrs. Ellis Pointevint, Mrs. Nile Cole, Mrs. Jerry Harbour, Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson and Mrs. Robert Rogers.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with blue candles. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The honoree was given a "potholder" corsage made of blue flowers tied with white ribbon. Mrs. Rubin Reavis, mother of the honoree, was also presented a corsage.

Guests included Mrs. L.W. Hatfield, Miss Shari Hatfield and Mrs. Larry Hatfield, all of Snyder.

Miss Reavis and Garner will be married April 16 in the Birdwell Lane Baptist Church.

Piano pupils in recital

Piano students of Mrs. L.B. Thomas and her student teacher, Valerie Richardson, were presented in recital Monday evening in Howard College auditorium.

Participating in the spring event were Rodney Browning, Robin Burchett, Lori Elliott, Robin Ethridge, Dean Pherigo, Becky Upton, Paula Allen, Manuela Cisneros, Valerie Barnes, Becky Adams, Tracie Wilkerson, Phyllis Hardeman, Dionne Fletcher and Valerie Richardson.

Big Spring on path of bird migrations

"Birds migrating from south to north begin arriving in Big Spring by March and continue until May," said Mrs. Polly Mays when she spoke on bird watching Monday for members of the Captain Elisha Mack Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Mays continued by noting that birds migrating from north to south begin arriving in Howard County in July, the peak migration being in August through late October. She said at least 26 species have been observed as summer visitors; 86 as winter visitors; 85 migrating each spring and fall; with 40 species remaining the year round. The Purple Martin is thought to be the least migrant, first observed in Howard County in the spring of 1968. The Purple Martins arrives about March 15 and, by late July, the birds leave the houses and gather in migrating flocks. They may be seen later on fences and wires in late evenings as they prepare for their journey to winter along the Amazon River.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. John Cobean, 605 Colgate, with Mrs. William Riley, regent, presiding. The announcement was made that the chapter has received a certificate of award for its monetary support of the DAR schools. Also, Mrs. Riley said that trading stamps are being requested by the Kate Duncan Smith School, Grant, Ala., to apply to special projects for the school.

The chapter has been invited to attend a program sponsored by the B&PW Club April 26. It features Miss Hope Harrington speaking on "Hope for Freedom."

Mrs. John Cobean and Mrs. Ireba Griffith were hostesses. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. David Duke, 2902 Clanton, at 7:30 p.m., May 2.

MRS. WILLIAM F. HENNING JR.

Pre-Easter activities fill week for Hennings

By CAROL HART

The week preceding Easter is a busy one for many people. But for Joy Henning, recent bride of the Rev. William F. Henning Jr., minister of First Presbyterian Church, the week has proved to be hectic indeed.

The Rev. and Mrs. Henning have had Dr. B. Harrison Taylor, who is serving as a speaker for pre-Easter services at First Presbyterian Church, as a guest in their home this week.

"Dr. Taylor arrived Saturday night," said Mrs. Henning. "We had members of a committee at church over Saturday to meet him." He has been speaking three times daily during the early part of the week, and Mrs. Henning has been present to hear him at all sessions. She has begun each day this week with a breakfast at 7 a.m., followed by a 10 a.m. Bible study, and a 7:30 p.m. service.

Tonight, Mrs. Henning plans to attend the Maundy Thursday communion service at First Presbyterian Church and, tomorrow, the Good Friday service at noon.

Rev. and Mrs. Henning, who were married March 12 in Atlanta, Ga., reside at 10 Indian Ridge. In addition to her activities at church, Mrs. Henning is in the process of becoming adjusted to Big Spring and to Texas.

The Hennings have had time to explore parts of Texas, a state Mrs. Henning remembers only as having driven through once about ten years ago. They viewed Big Bend, the Davis Mountains and San Antonio prior to returning to Big Spring. "I appreciate the diversity of the state," said Mrs. Henning.

NEW LIFE

Mrs. Henning said she has discovered a "different way of life" in Big Spring. "There is a slower pace here. In Atlanta, everyone is in a rush. Sometimes, I take off in the car, then remember that there is no hurry. It's nice to slow down. There aren't any traffic jams on the way to the grocery store."

While living in Atlanta, Mrs. Henning was employed at the headquarters for the Presbyterian Church. "I have been working outside of the home for 10 years," she said. "This is the first time in that time that I've had a chance to be home all day." She is enjoying her job as homemaker.

But Mrs. Henning has had very little time for slowing down. Since coming to Big Spring, she has been spending much time acquainting herself with the people and places in town. She has been going with her husband as he visits hospital patients and has taken off to tour the city alone. "I get in my car everyday and I find somewhere I want to go. I have a map of the city." She added that she has gotten lost on occasion, but usually finds the place where she was headed.

"I am amazed by the lack of rain out here," she said, adding that this is the rainy season in Atlanta. "But the stars are incredible." City lights and pollution in Atlanta block out a good view of the stars. "I love the openness of the sky here."

"The friendliness of the people was what impressed me most about Big Spring," she said. "I haven't felt like a stranger. I felt I arrived in town with a family here. Everyone at the church has been great."

BIKERS

The Hennings have found time to devote to outside activities which they both enjoy. They have taken several long rides by bicycle throughout the city and have been playing tennis when the opportunity arises.

Mrs. Henning also hopes to have time to devote to sewing and gardening, her favorite hobbies.

Describing herself as "a country cook," Mrs. Henning said she cooks many of her recipes without written instruction. Some are those which have been in her family for years and "are in my head." She wrote down the instructions for several of her favorites, and they appear on page 11-A.

Easter table is elegant

Dress your Easter table in springtime finery to set the mood for a festive holiday meal boasting traditional foods prepared in a distinctively different fashion. To enjoy tradition with ease, highlight the occasion with a boneless "fully-cooked" ham — juicy, tender and delicious. Coated with a marmalade glaze, accented with creme de cacao and decorated with orange curls, it's a real conversation piece and compliment-catcher.

Encircle the ham with Rice en Orange, hollowed out oranges mounded with fluffy rice pilaf. The rice is prepared in its stay-perfect pouch, then heaped into the oranges and baked along with the ham.

Springtime Peas offer bright color contrast to the pink ham. Elegant little baby early peas frozen in butter sauce are gently tossed with bright pineapple tidbits and crisp sliced almonds.

Golden whole kernel corn with sweet peppers teams with crisp cabbage and mellow cubes of cheese for a super new salad.

NEW CLEANSER FROM CLOROX: REMOVES THE DIRT, NOT THE SHINE.

It doesn't replace scouring powder for everything. Just for most things.

Until today, you crossed your fingers and hoped your scouring powder wouldn't scratch.

But now there's new Soft Scrub Cleanser to use instead. It's an entirely new concept. Liquid cleanser made with a mild abrasive. Just enough to remove the dirt, not the shine.

Look for Soft Scrub in the cleanser section. Near all those scratchy scouring powders.

Texas Recipes

West Texas Steak with Wahoo Sauce

6 tenderized steaks, about 1½ pounds
1 (15 ounce) can tamales, drained (reserve sauce)
1 egg, beaten and mixed with 1 tablespoon water
Flour and bread or cracker crumbs for breading
Salt and pepper
½ teaspoon chili powder
Oil for frying
½ cup tomato juice or sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder

Wrap each steak around a tamale and secure with toothpicks. Dip steak rolls in beaten egg, then in flour seasoned with salt, pepper and chili powder. Dip again in egg, then in bread or cracker crumbs. Brown steak rolls on all sides in hot fat; reduce heat and drain off excess fat. Cook steaks until tender, about ten minutes. Remove steaks to platter and keep hot. Add tamale sauce to tomato sauce and chili powder. Bring to boil and pour over hot steaks. Serves 6.

Serving Suggestion: Mash two ripe avocados with salt and pepper; combine with diced chopped onion and fresh tomatoes, chopped. Serve on bed of chopped lettuce with crisp corn chips and steaks.

Recipes by Mrs. William F. Henning Jr.

CHEESE-SAUSAGE BALLS
3 cups Bisquick
1 lb. sausage
1 lb. softened cheddar cheese
Make into small balls and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

SQUASH CASSEROLE
4 or 5 tender summer squash
1 egg
1 onion, chopped
½ cup bread crumbs
grated cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper
3 tbsps. margarine
Cook squash and onion until tender. Drain off excess water. Mash squash with potato masher or wire wisk. Add beaten egg, bread crumbs, salt and pepper and margarine. (Texans may add a chopped-up pepper.) Bake in greased casserole for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Top with grated cheese prior to the last 10 minutes of baking time.

SWEET POTATO PIE
2 cups cooked, mashed sweet potatoes
1½ cups sugar
1 stick butter (½ cup)
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
Boil potatoes in water until tender. Peel while warm, put in large mixer bowl. On low speed, whip well. Add butter while potatoes are warm, then sugar, egg, milk and vanilla. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake in 350 degree oven until filling is set and begins to brown.

ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE
Grease casserole and line with saltine crumbs. Put alternate layers of canned asparagus, hard boiled eggs, and grated sharp cheddar cheese. Pour one can of mushroom soup (undiluted) over whole casserole. Put cracker crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

AUNT DORIS' CORN-BREAD
Bacon grease
1 egg
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup white corn meal
3 tsps. baking powder
Pinch soda
Heat bacon grease (2 or 3 tbls.) in iron skillet until it smokes. Beat until frothy egg and add buttermilk.
Sift and add cornmeal, 3 tbsps. oil or bacon grease, 3 tsps. baking powder and soda. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

SPOONBREAD
3 cups milk
2-3rd cup grits
3 tbsps. butter
3 tbsps. sugar
salt
3 eggs
1 tsp. baking powder
Cook milk and grits until thick, stirring often. Add three tablespoons butter, sugar and salt to taste.
Cool mixture to room temperature. Add egg yolks and baking powder. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into grits mixture. Put in greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour until brown. Serve with butter.

1½ cups flour
1 cup sugar
3 tbsps. cocoa
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 tbsp. vinegar
6 tbsps. oil
1 tbsp. vanilla
1 cup cold water
Sift dry ingredients together into 8 or 9 inch baking pan. Make three holes. Put oil in one hole, vinegar in another, and vanilla in another. Add water and stir well. Bake in 350 degrees oven 30 to 35 minutes.

ICING
3 tbsps. soft margarine
1 cup sifted XX sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
2 tbsps. milk
Cream margarine with sugar. Add vanilla and milk. Add more sugar to spreading consistency.

Pleasing Easter planned-overs

Pleasing "planned-overs" can be featured for several meals following your traditional Easter dinner. Ham, the most versatile of meats, is delicious the second time around, especially when combined with rice, vegetables and fruits for savory soups, a la kings and salads.

For a sampling, try Creamy Ham and Vegetable Soup, elegant enough to headline a gourmet dinner and hearty enough to satisfy robust appetites. Then escape from ho-hum macaroni salads with Ham and Rice Mandarin for a bright and refreshing spring luncheon. Or choose Ham a la King for a party-perfect brunch entree.

All these appetite-arousers are prepared with ease by combining extra ham from the feast with rice in convenient cooking pouches, vegetables frozen in sauce in their own pouches, canned sliced mushrooms and condensed soups.

CREAMY HAM AND VEGETABLE SOUP
1½ lbs. cooked smoked ham, cut in ½ to ¾-inch cubes
1½ cups sliced celery
2 cups hot water
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) cauliflower frozen in cheese sauce
1 pkg. (10-ozs.) sweet peas frozen in butter sauce
2 cups milk
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ cup water
2 tbsps. flour
Place ham cubes and celery in Dutch oven or large pot. Add hot water, cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Remove frozen vegetables in sauce from their pouches and add to ham. Add milk and pepper. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Stir water into flour to blend, combine with soup and cook slowly 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. 6 servings (1½ cups each).

HAM A LA KING
1½ lbs. cooked smoked ham,
2 pkgs. (11 ozs. each) frozen rice pilaf (rice with mushrooms and onions)
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) mixed vegetables frozen in butter sauce
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 jar (2½ ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 can (11 ozs.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 can (10¾ ozs.) condensed cream of celery soup
¼ cup milk
⅛ tsp. curry powder
dash pepper
2 hard cooked eggs, cut up
Cut ham in slices ¼ to ½ inch thick and cut in julienne strips. Cook rice and vegetables according to package directions. Snip vegetable pouch and drain the butter sauce into large saucepan. Add onion and mushrooms and cook 2 to 5 minutes, until onion is transparent. Add soups and milk and stir until smooth. Add ham, mixed vegetables, curry powder and pepper and cook slowly 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Fold in eggs. Turn rice into serving bowl and fluff with fork. Serve Ham a la King with the rice. 6 servings.
Tip: For festive serving, shape rice in a ring mold or individual molds.

HAM AND RICE MANDARIN
2 pkgs. (11 ozs. each) frozen rice verdi (rice with bell peppers and parsley)
1½ lbs. cooked smoked ham, cut in bite-size wedges
1½ cups thinly sliced celery
1 can (11 ozs.) pineapple tidbits and mandarin orange segments
¼ cup mayonnaise
lettuce
Cook rice according to package directions; chill. Combine ham, rice and celery. Drain pineapple and orange segments; reserve 2 tablespoons syrup. Blend reserved syrup with mayonnaise and combine with ham mixture. Fold in pineapple and orange segments. Chill. Serve on lettuce. 6 servings.

BAKED SMOKED HAM—ORANGE-DE CACAO GLAZE
7 to 10-lb. boneless "fully-cooked" smoked ham
¼ cup sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup orange juice
¼ cup orange marmalade
2 tbsps. creme de cacao
Place ham on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 F.) until meat thermometer registers 130 F. Combine sugar and cornstarch in small saucepan, stir in orange juice, marmalade and creme de cacao; cook slowly, stirring constantly until thickened. Brush warm glaze over ham and return to oven until thermometer registers 140 F. (Allow approximately 15 to 18 minutes per pound.) Decorate top of ham with curls of orange peel, if desired.

SPRINGTIME PEAS
2 pkg. (10 oz. each) little baby early peas in butter sauce
1 can (13¾ oz.) pineapple tidbits, drained
2 tbs. sliced almonds
¼ tsp. seasoned salt
Cook peas according to package directions. Stir in pineapple, almonds and seasoned salt. 6 to 8 servings.

Note: To prepare orange curls to decorate ham, cut around each reserved slice from tops of oranges with a sharp knife in spiral fashion to form curls of thin peel. Press into glaze on top of ham.

LITTLEST MARINE — Pfc. Perry J. Pleban, 20, of Cleveland, Ohio, stands at attention before his drill instructor, S. Sgt. H. Braswell, at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego. Pleban, who stands 4-foot-9, is the smallest man in the Corps, so far as the Depot can determine. Pleban just completed 12 weeks of boot camp and was promoted to private first class.

San Marcos city manager quits

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP)- Jim Baugh, 32, said today he is resigning June 3 as San Marcos city manager to take a similar job in Brownsville. He finished at Southwest Texas State University here and went to work for the city as an administrative intern in 1971, moving up to city manager in May 1973.

Energy

Krueger slaps proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The energy proposals to be unveiled April 20 by President Carter may extend federal price and allocation authority into the intrastate market, according to U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger.

Krueger said Wednesday that this and other features of the new energy proposal could devastate the Texas economy.

Under existing federal priority policies, that would mean that gas which now fuels Texas utilities and industries would be shipped to Northern homeowners during winter months. "Texas may lose hundreds of thousands of jobs," he said, since it relies more heavily than any other state on natural gas for industrial uses.

RRC power faces test

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — The authority of the Texas Railroad Commission to set certain rates that Lone Star Gas Co. can charge to the cities will be challenged, according to the North Texas Utility Advisory Board.

The board made the Wednesday after a a meeting here with representatives of six cities served by the Dallas-based utility company. The cities are Wichita Falls, Wellington, Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon and Dodson. There was no indication of when the motion will be presented in Austin.

The board is composed of city officials in the North Texas area and its purpose is to fight utility increases by Lone Star Gas Co.

The argument they will take to the railroad commission is that the state agency has no jurisdiction or authority to set the gate rate that the company can charge the cities, a spokesman for the board said.

The board said the gate rate in the case of Lone Star amounts to a double charge because it is a rate set by the transmission and distribution system of the company to its marketing division. The rate then is added by the company to the charges to customers as part of its operation, they said.

Attorneys for the board said that if the commission agrees it does not have jurisdiction, then the jurisdiction will be assumed by the cities.

If the Texas Railroad Commission agrees with the North Texas group, Lone Star can appeal to the Federal Power Commission.

Mobley makes acquisition

KILGORE — Mobley Company Inc. of Kilgore has announced the purchase of Dallas-based Sonics Transport Inc., an oil field service company operating from West Texas terminals in Eldorado, Sonora, Breckenridge and McCamey.

The company operates a fleet of trucks for transporting produced salt water, drilling fluids, brine and oil field equipment.

Mobley Company's new subsidiary has been named Mobley Transports Inc., and will be headquarted in Austin with John Mobley serving as president.

Commenting on the purchase, Mobley said the acquisition was an extension of services already performed by the parent company in East Texas and Northern Louisiana.

"We are taking immediate steps to ensure that the quality of our customer services in Mobley Transports will become the best obtainable anywhere," he said. "Other Mobley operations are number one in every market we serve and we fully intend for Mobley Transports to reach the same position."

Wildcat wells watched in area

Wildcat wells are scheduled for three area counties — Glasscock, Martin and Mitchell.

Belco Petroleum Corp., will drill the No. 1-CR-30 Calverley, an 8,000-foot wildcat in Glasscock County, two miles southeast of the Blalock Lake, East (Wolfcamp) field, but separated by an 8,250-foot failure, three miles east-southeast of the Blalock Lake, South (Wolfcamp field) and 1⅝ miles north and slightly west of the Wolfcamp production in the Garden City West (Wolfcamp and Spraberry) field and six miles northwest of Garden City.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of 30-34-3s-T&P. It is, in addition, a half mile west-southwest of the 8,100-foot failure King Resources No. 1 Calverley abandoned June 7, 1969.

The Blalock Lake, East field produces at 7,914 feet and the Blalock Lake South field at 8,246 feet.

RK Petroleum Corp., will drill a 12,200-foot Devonian wildcat in Martin County, 1¼ miles southeast of the depleted Devonian opener and 1⅝ miles east-northeast of Wolfcamp production in the Wolcott field, 3⅜ miles east-northeast of a two-well 5½ mile northwest extension area of the RK (Devonian) field, a west offset to marginal production in the Sulphur Draw (Dean) field and 10 miles north of Tarzan. It is the No. 1 Hippity Hop.

Location is 660 feet from the south and 4,561 feet from the west lines of Ward County School Land No. 253.

The Devonian opener of the Wolcott field produced at 11,972 feet.

American Trading & Production Corp., Midland, will drill a 7,500-foot wildcat in Mitchell County, 18 miles south of Colorado City, six miles northeast of depleted production in the Jameson (Strawn oil) field and a southeast offset to a 7,817-foot failure. It is the No. 1 W.L. Ellwood Estate.

Location is 1,650 from the northeast and 660 feet from the northwest lines of 26-16-SPRR.

The failure, Sun Oil Co. No. 1 Ellwood, abandoned July 4, 1948, topped the Pennsylvanian at 7,280 feet and the Ellenburger at 7,660 feet on ground elevation of 2,168 feet.

Dozen pupils sent home following fight

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — School officials at Ross Sterling High School here said 12 pupils were sent home after a noon hour fight Wednesday.

Police officers, called during the fight between black and white pupils, remained about two hours on campus to assure that fighting would not resume when classes were dismissed.

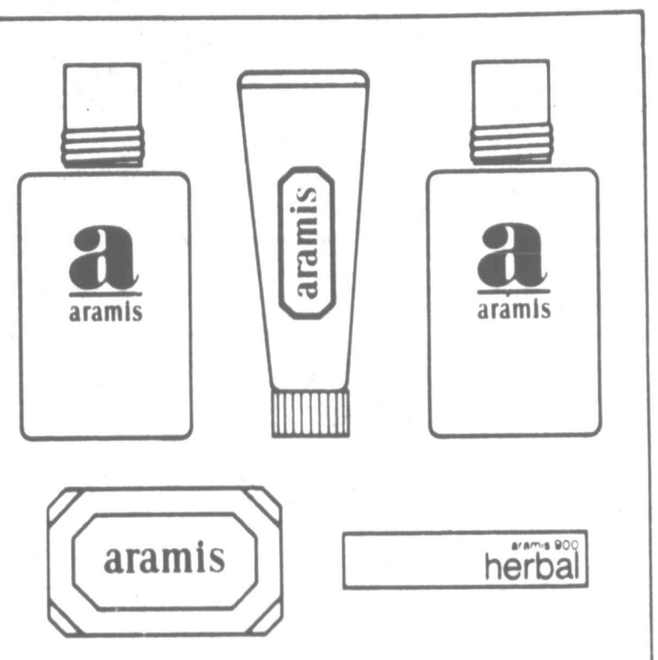

Asst. Supt. Barry Nettles said the incident grew out of a fight the previous day. He said a black pupil rushing outside in pursuit of a white pupil was injured when he pushed his hand through a glass door.

Police Chief R. H. Turner said rumors circulated that the youth had been stabbed.

Have your air conditioning checked now to save energy and money this summer.

At this time of year, your air conditioning serviceman can probably work your call more easily into his schedule. He'll get your unit ready to deliver dependable cooling all through the summer.

A properly maintained air conditioning system also cools with maximum efficiency and that's an important step towards saving energy and your energy dollars.

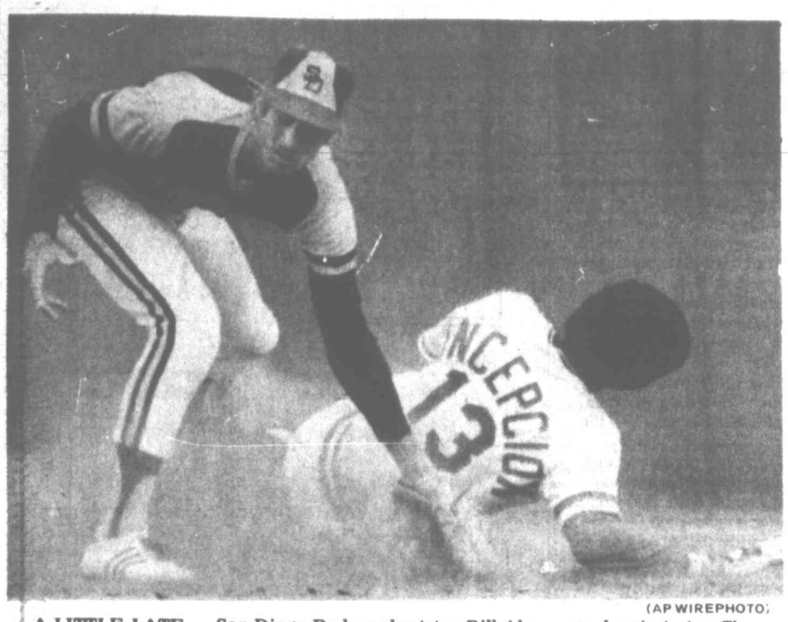

Although Texas Electric does not service, sell or install air conditioning equipment, we do want you to get full value and top efficiency from your electric service.

All forms of energy cost more these days. If you're serious about saving electricity, call or write for our energy-efficiency booklet.

A LITTLE LATE — San Diego Padres shortstop Bill Almon reaches in to tag Cincinnati Reds runner Dave Concepcion as Concepcion steals second base in the fifth inning of a game in Cincinnati Wednesday. Concepcion got into second ahead of the throw from Padres catcher Gene Tenace.

Other teams open, Reds win

By the Associated Press

The first hit off John Montefusco today will not only be a blow to his ego, but to his pride as well.

The San Francisco pitcher who believes he can do anything will try to do something only one person has ever done in baseball — pitch two consecutive no-hitters.

"I'd really like to pitch another no-hitter because I may never get the chance again to throw two in a row," Montefusco said as he prepared to pitch the Giants' opening game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Montefusco, a swaggering right-hander who pitches as good a game as he talks, hurled a no-hitter against the Atlanta Braves in his final appearance of 1976 — losing a perfect game by walking a batter in the fourth inning.

Montefusco, a 16-game winner last season, is matched against Don Sutton, the Dodgers' 21-game winner of 1976. A year ago in their opener at San Francisco, the Giants beat the Dodgers with the same pitchers starting.

The game is one of eight baseball openers on the second day of the major league season.

Elsewhere, it's St. Louis at Pittsburgh and New York at Chicago in National League inaugurals. In the American League, Chicago will be at Toronto, Kansas City at Detroit, Texas at Baltimore, Milwaukee at New York and Cleveland at Boston.

In Wednesday's traditional opener at Cincinnati, the Reds defeated the San Diego Padres 5-3. In the American League season opener Wednesday night, the California Angels spoiled the debut of the expansion Seattle Mariners with a 7-0 victory.

Cesar Geronimo smashed a two-run homer and Ken Griffey drilled three hits as Cincinnati roughed up 1976 Cy Young winner Randy Jones. The chilly season opener attracted 51,937 at Riverfront Stadium despite a three-inch snowfall prior to the game and temperatures which dropped to 14 degrees with the wind-chill factor.

Veteran left-hander Woodie Fryman, the National League's oldest starter at 36, survived a shaky start to win his first outing with the Reds. Fryman walked six in 5 1-3 innings, while giving up three runs and seven hits.

Southpaw Frank Tanana scattered nine hits and Joe Rudi drove in four runs with a home run and a double, leading California over Seattle. The record Kingdome crowd of 57,762, which welcomed big league baseball back to Seattle, included Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and American League President Lee Mac-Phail.

The 23-year-old Tanana, a 19-game winner in 1976, was in trouble only in the eighth inning. Rudi, one of three high-priced free agents acquired by California during the off-season, collected three hits for the Angels.

Rangers aim for Blue

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Rangers open the American League baseball season in Baltimore today still hoping to get a lefthander for their regular rotation. They are aiming high — they want Vida Blue of the Oakland A's.

Ranger owner Brad Corbett came back from Chicago Wednesday saying the chances of getting the superstar lefthander were "better than 50-50" and appeared ready to give Oakland owner Charles Finley a sackful of money and six players for him.

But Finley apparently was stil unimpressed although he did admit that Texas was interested in Blue.

"If you go to any pawnshop in the world, there are usually three brass balls hanging over the door. Do you know what that means? It means, 'we trade, we sell, we buy'. That's my philosophy," Finley said when asked about the possbile sale of his lefthander.

Corbett reportedly was willing to pay $1.5 million for Blue and give up five or six players.

But the deal, even if it came about, could be blocked by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who already has voided a previous sale of Blue to other team.

Getting Blue would be a financial burden on the Rangers since the lefthander is now making a reported $200,000 a year. It would make it necessary for the Rangers to attract at least 1.5 million fans during the season.

"If we can't draw with Vida Blue, this area doesn't deserve baseball," Corbett said.

Red fan elaborates

By JAMES WERRELL

CINCINNATI — "Oh say can you see . . ."

The loudspeaker blared out the National Anthem on opening day at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Army Color Guard was out of step, according to James Werrell Sr., Cincy resident, who attended the game, in an exclusive interview this morning.

"The weather was snowy and cold, and so were the players," said Werrell. It's my gut feeling that the spirit wasn't in either team. They were just going through the motions. I enjoyed the game because of all the errors."

The confessed Reds fan claimed that his team proved that they "were only human and not just a Big Red Machine, at least not yet," this early in the season.

"The Padres were just ragged," said Werrell.

Most of the 52,197 fans kept warm cheering enthusiastically, according to Werrell. But some relied on tubs of Wiedemann beer (a local brew) sold in the park, or cans smuggled in (no names please, requested Werrell) to ward off the cold.

Werrell continued with a series of first-hand observations:

—"Trying to be objective, I would have to say that the Padres' brown and yellow uniforms were pretty ugly."

—"Morgan (Reds second bagman) was showboating, and wasn't playing up to his usual standard."

—"There were no streakers at the game. It was way too cold."

—"both Woody Fryman (Reds starting pitcher) and Bill Plummer (catcher filling in for the injured Johnny Bench) were starting for their first time in the big game. Plummer can hit, but his arm is not nearly as good as Bench's."

—"The peanuts were flying," Werrell concluded.

Weiskopf deceiving in Master's classic

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf says he doesn't worry about how he plays, what the media thinks of him or the sudden emergence of challenging young players all around him on the pro golf tour.

It sounds almost as if the talented, outspoken Weiskopf isn't much concerned about how he fares in the Masters. But he is, and his fellow competitors are well aware of it.

Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner here, was favored as the first of the season's four major golf championships opened today on the par-72, 7,030-yard Augusta National Golf Course. The 72-hole event concludes Sunday.

There were other top contenders in the field of 77, too. Proven winners such as defending champion Raymond Floyd, Hubert Green, Al Geiberger, Tom Watson and Hale Irwin. Young phenoms such as Ben Crenshaw, Bruce Lietzke and Mark Hayes. Foreign stars such as Gary Player of South Africa and David Graham and Graham Marsh of Australia. Even players battling nagging injuries, such as Johnny Miller and Jerry Pate. And, of course, four-time Masters champion Arnold Palmer, in a class by himself.

But none of the players was ignoring Weiskopf. Although he hasn't made much noise this season, he's been playing pretty well — third at Doral, in the top 12 four other times. And he plays very well at Augusta, having finished second a record four times — to Nicklaus in 1972 and '75, to Player in 1974 and to George Archer in 1969.

Also, it doesn't hurt to card scores like the 30 he shot on the back nine Sunday or the 31 he scored on the front side Monday in practice.

'Lam' Jones may get new record

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas track Coach Cleburne Price says there is a chance Johnny Jones' 9.85 in the 100-meter dash at the Texas Relays will be recognized as a new world record.

Price said he learned Tuesday that the International Amateur Athletic Federation's rule against recognizing hand-timed recores does not go into effect until August.

The currently recognized record, 9.95 by Jim Hines at the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968, also was hand-timed, Price said.

Price will submit Jones' mark to the National Amateur Athletic Union, and if that body gives its blessing, it will be sent on to the IAAF.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good time for you to be overly direct with anyone in stating views of a critical nature. Not a good time to go ahead with plans you have in mind. Wait for another day.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Before you look into a new venture be sure you complete whatever work you have already started. Steer clear of one whose background is different from your own.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you do not enjoy doing it, you still have to take care of pressing responsibilities. Study new and more improved systems for the days ahead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle problems with associates wisely and have an improved relationship with them. Outsiders can be most helpful now. Be of real assistance where some public matter is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A co-worker makes it possible for you to be more sure of yourself. Be wiser to the ways of others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put some talent you have to work and make big inroads into greater success for the future. Find out what mate expects of you and try to please more. Avoid one who is jealous of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A family tie is not feeling up to par so be more thoughtful and kind with this person. Don't criticize. Get busy at routines early and forget a new venture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle problems early and get down to routine matters. Be careful of one who is a hypocrite.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do whatever will make your financial status more enviable and feel safer, happier. Try to cut down on expenses and be sure to pay whatever bills are essential.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are going through a trying time right now, but later all works to your benefit and you feel happier, more optimistic.

CAPICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen to what a good adviser has to suggest. A good time to handle matters of a confidential nature, also.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) After lunch is best time to get into whatever will increase personal happiness. Take no chances where reputation is concerned.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you are poised in handling any career or business affairs and gain backing from bigwigs. A credit matter needs your immediate attention.

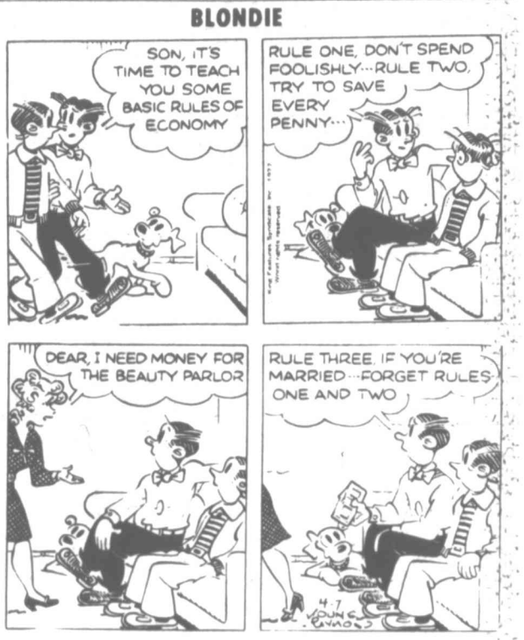

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who early in life needs much attention and kind discipline in order to keep out of trouble. There is curiosity in this nature which needs training. Then life can become successful.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Pride and hustle in Big Spring?

With three of the nine members of the editorial staff here natives of Cincinnati, Ohio, conversation frequently turns to the Reds of the National League West.

And quite naturally, those conversations always have something or other to do with Pete Rose, the man that Tommy Hart has called "the number one man in baseball today."

The consensus around here is that Rose is not called "Mr. Hustle" for nothing. We all agree, even the prejudiced Red fans from Ohio, that Rose is great because he gives everything he has to the game every second he is out there on the playing field.

So, okay, I'm not telling you anything you don't already know. Just be patient.

No doubt, many, many big league players, college, high school, little league, pee wee, etc., have decided to be another "Mr. Hustle." Just like left-handed screwball wizard Carl Hubble, who used to say back in the 1930's: "First decide what has to be done, then do it dang it," numerous baseball players have set their minds to hustle 100 per cent.

But Hubble, (who was wont to plagarize Greek philosophers), even though he struck out Gehrig, DiMaggio and four other superstars in a row in an All Star game, probably didn't give everything he had at all times. That just seems too hard a feat for a human being. Not to say that Rose isn't human. (For those of you who don't remember Hubble, he's the one who always won the pitching duels with Dizzy Dean).

The Steer baseball team has a few members who try to emulate Rose. That fact, in addition to the four or five good batmen, probably accounts for the locals' position at the top of the charts, in a year when graduation was supposed to have made them cannon fodder again.

Pride, desire and talent are usually the main factors in the fortunes of any sports team. There are others — luck, quality of opposition, etc., but the first three usually determine winners and losers.

In high school, pride and desire sometimes make up for a lack of talent. Just look at the football tradition at Permian. "Mojo" means catching and tackling a 9.6 halfback even if you're the slowest member of the team. Permian proved that point this past season by doing a number on the vastly superior Odessa High squad.

The Steer baseball team has developed the talent and desire this year that can make a winning team. But like a woman in labor for 20 hours, the birth of pride is a slow and difficult process, especially for someone who has been led to believe it is.

But the locals are developing a pride in themselves as a team, and before the season is out, perhaps they'll even be driven hardby that sense of pride. "But pride doesn't mean a damn thing if you don't win," said one of the players recently.

Coach Tom Collins believes that his charges are on a roll. He has stated that they peaked early with the impressive opening win over league favorite Abilene High, and have played less quality ball, even though they were winning, until the Lee loss. The Cooper win was the Steers of old, theorizes Collins.

Even though Collins is "very disappointed" in the locals' base running, he concludes that they are now playing the best defense they've played all year. "We're going back up," said the coach.

Collins is a very knowledgable coach, and understands his players better than anyone, so don't start calling him a dreamer. The most common way to describe Big Spring in past years has been "losers" and "chokers." The theory is that those teams were content to run in the back of the pack, and if for any reason they found themselves near the top, they would fold their tents out of surprise and return to the bottom.

No doubt a number of people said the same thing after the Steers lost to Lee last Saturday: "They can't play well when they're number one, they don't know how."

The locals didn't choke against the Rebs. Lee did the same thing to the Steers that Richard Pryor did to the sheriff in "Silver Streak." (Sorry, can't elaborate). Suffice to say, the Steers were cold and the Rebs were hot.

But against Cooper, the Bovines disproved the old adage about choking, at least for the time being, anyway. If they can maintain just the caliber of baseball they are capable of playing, then they'll win district.

And if they win district, that will assist in the making of a U-turn in all the other sports in Big Spring. Don't especially hold your breath, but surely don't turn your back. You may be snubbing the next Pete Rose.

Astros make good Gonzalez move

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie Julio Gonzalez may be the best move the Houston Astros have made this season.

Gonzalez, who will open the season Friday night as Houston's starting second baseman, surprised everyone but himself in beating out Rob Andrews for the starting job.

The one most surprised was Andrews, who thought he had the position won and intended to spend spring training honing his skills. Then Gonzalez went on a 12 for 22 hitting spree and Andrews now is doing his honing with the San Francisco Giants.

"I wasn't surprised that I started hitting the ball," said Gonzalez, starting his sixth year in professonal baseball. "I always knew I could hit. When you get a chance to play in the major leagues, you don't hold anything back. I gave it all I had."

The sparkling performance of Gonzalez not only provided Astros Manager Bill Virdon with a starting second baseman, it made Andrews expendable.

"We were able to trade Andrews and get two very useful players in Rob Sperring and Willie Crawford," Virdon said.

Gonzalez played on the same team with the New York Mets' Felix Millan in the Puerto Rican league and Millan convinced Gonzalez to choke up more on the bat.

But Gonzalez got off to a slow start hitting in spring training before starting his streak. "I still was swinging up on the ball," Gonzalez said. "Deacon (Jones) has worked with me and it's getting better. I have to learn better to swing down."

Astros General Manager Tal Smith said Gonzalez didn't beat out Andrews with his hitting streak. "You don't judge a player by a hot streak in spring training," Smith said. "It was obvious after just watching Julio a few days that he had major league potential."

"You wouldn't dismiss a guy just because he went 0-20 in spring training. If he went 0-100, there's a point where you say he doesn't have it."

Astros first baseman Bob Watson, who formerly played on the same infield with Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan, said Gonzalez and Morgan have many similarities at the same stage of their careers.

Kenon wins Dr. J duel

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — San Antonio's Larry Kenon won a one-on-one duel with celebrated forward Julius Erving Wednesday night.

The Spur forward burned Philadelphia and his shadow, Dr. J., for 31 points to lead San Antonio to a 131-109 National Basketball Association rout of the 76ers.

A standing-room-only crowd of 11,246 saw Kenon score in double figures for the 41st consecutive time.

"I don't get any more pumped up playing against 'J' than anyone else," Kenon said about his former teammate when they both played on the New York Nets.

"We knew they were afraid of our running game and we pushed the ball down their throats. And we had no defensive lapses.

"This was the real Spur team tonight," Kenon said.

San Antonio's victory ended a three-game losing streak that saw the Spurs have extended periods of defenseless basketball.

"We were forcing the ball all night and forcing our shots, too," Sixer Coach Gene Shue said.

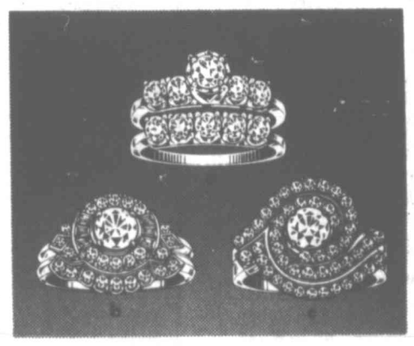

San Antonio led 66-56 at halftime and its biggest lead was 16 points until the end.

Rockets do no wrong

By the Associated Press

This season, when someone asks Rudy Tomjanovich, "What's wrong with the Houston Rockets?" he can finally answer, "Nothing!"

"Every season I listen to 'What's wrong? What does the team need? Who will you draft? What are the problems?'" Tomjanovich said. "This year we're on top."

And a good share of the credit goes to Tomjanovich, who scored 28 points as Houston defeated the Boston Celtics 104-93 Wednesday night and clinched the National Basketball Association's Central Division title for the first time.

"It's like coming out of a cave for me," Tomjanovich continued. "It's a great team. We've had no problems all year. It's just all the guys put together. We go out and play tough. I can remember 10 or 12 games we've been out of and come back and won."

This wasn't one of them; the Rockets led most of the way. When the Celtics, led by John Havlicek, pulled within three points with just under nine minutes remaining, three points by Mike Newlin and Moses Malone's two free throws broke it open. Newlin finished with 21.

Ira edges Roby in 8-B meet

SNYDER — Ira edged Roby by a mere point in the District 8-B girls' track and field meet here Wednesday.

Ira had 139 points, Roby 138. Third was Loraine with 103 while Highland finished fourth with 63, Westbrook fifth with 32 and Hobbs sixth with 26.

Westbrook won no first place but wound up third in the sprint relay.

Sabra Murray of Highland was high point individual with 36 points.

House tightens economic pinch on prostitutes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas lawmakers met briefly today before taking off for a four-and-a-half day Easter holiday.

Both houses planned to quit about noon and not resume debate until next Tuesday morning.

On Wednesday, House members voted to spend more state dollars on highways and to tighten the economic pinch on convicted prostitutes.

The Senate whizzed through 12 measures in less than two hours and sent them over to the House.

A 116-22 vote in the House sent to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's desk — via Comptroller Bob Bullock — a bill providing $528 million more for highway financing than motor fuel taxes will raise over the next two years.

House members approved a complete rewrite by the Senate of the bill they passed earlier with a $674 million price tag.

Bullock must certify the funds are available before Briscoe can sign the bill — and they are. This is the first major bill to pass both houses that taps the $3 billion that some call a surplus and others a "balance" in the state treasury.

Briscoe originally wanted an $825 million program but says he accepts the Senate plan and will sign it.

The House passed, 114-26, and sent to the Senate a bill raising the maximum penalty for first-offense prostitution from a $200 fine to a $1,000 fine and 180 days in jail. Subsequent convictions could get a prostitute a year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill widening the definition of pandering to include setting up a sexual date for pay, even if the pimp or madam receives no money.

A 129-8 vote sent to the Senate a bill giving the state banking commissioner the power to review and, if necessary, block acquisition of 25 per cent or more of a bank's stock.

Briscoe requested the bill, which was precipitated by two South Texas bank failures.

Sent to the governor was a Senate bill giving the Texas Public Utility Commission $368,013 to hire 24 new employes through the end of August and transfering $227,000 from travel to pay for salaries.

The measures approved by the Senate Wednesday included:

—A proposed constitutional amendment that would allow appointment of additional judges for Courts of Civil Appeals if future legislatures see the need in any of the current 14 districts. The vote on the amendment will come in November of this year.

—A bill authorizing honorably retired peace officers to carry pistols for five years after retirement.

—A bill allowing county judges who are not lawyers to be named juvenile judges.

—A bill allowing oil and gas well drillers to take water for use in drilling wihtout getting special permits from the Texas Water Rights Commission.

—A bill that would allow Travis County commissioners to enact ordinances concerning building developments.

—A bill that would let the Department of Health Resouces set up family practice residency training programs at East Texas Chest Hospital, Tyler; San Antonio Chest Hospital, and Harlingen Chest Hospital.

—A bill calling for fuller disclosure in applications for state bank charters.

—A bill that would let state colleges and universities pay travel expenses of prospective state employes. Currently, many schools list the job hunters as "consultants" in order to pay travel expenses when they appear for employment interviews.

The House defeated two bills Wednesday afternoon — an unusual occurrence.

A 73-59 vote knocked down Rep. Mickey Leland's bill to create a four-acre Fifth Ward State Park on the site of a junk yard across the street from a ghetto school in Houston. It would have been the state's first inner city state park.

And Rep. Mike Ezzell, D-Snyder, saw his bill providing protective services for abused, neglected or financially exploited old people trounced 87-53.

Opponents indicated they feared the added power the bill would give the state welfare department, which would investigate reports and provide protective services for old persons who were unable to help themselves.

Oswald's pal killed himself

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The death of George de Mohrenschildt, a one-time friend of Lee Harvey Oswald, was a suicide, a coroner's jury has ruled. The jury, however, refused to investigate the reasons for the suicide.

State Atty. David Bludworth said the reason he took his own life was 'irrelevant." Bludworth made the comment after the Palm Beach County panel released its findings Tuesday.

"We're here to determine whether he did commit suicide, or not. The other facts about why he took his own life are for someone else to look into."

De Mohrenschildt was found shot to death March 29, hours after an investigator for the House assassinations committee tried unsuccessfully to interview him about the assassination of President Kennedy.

His daughter, Nancy Tilton, testified at the jury's hearing that de Mohrenschildt had been "harassed by dif'erent people."

"One name was Oltmans," she said. "He (de Mohrenshildt) said that man was trying to force him to say things that weren't true."

Willem Oltmans, a Dutch journalist, said in testimony before the committee last week that de Mohrenschildt had told him about a conspiracy to kill Kennedy.

Jobless aid bill blasted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A bill raising the maximum unemployment benefit from $63 to $77 a week was described by president Harry Hubbard of the Texas AFL-CIO as "grossly inadequate."

The bill cleared the state affairs committee, 7-2, Wednesday although Hubbard said the proposed $14 increase would leave Texas with the lowest unemployment benefits of any state.

The increase would cost the state an extra $1,328,000 in 1978-79.

Hubbard said the AFL-CIO supported other measures that are pending and would hike benefits more.

It was noted that the proposal makes it more difficult for jobless persons to collect benefits.

A requirement is added, for example, that the person be "actively seeking work." It also would require a person to accept work at less pay and poorer working conditions than he might consider suitable, if he has been unemployed for 10 weeks.

Another new provision states that anyone receiving unemployment benefits from another state or the federal government may not get benefits in Texas.

Trinity: Largest floating crap game in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Judge Nelson R. Link of Palestine, Tex., first came to Washington to get some federal money for his favorite water project, Jimmy Cartrr was just a peanut farmer from South Georgia.

And, if all goes according to his plans, Link expects to still be coming to Washington for his project long after Carter has returned to Plains.

Link is one of thousands of people who have come to Washingtin in the past two weeks on an annual pilgramage to the federal pork barrel. His experience illustrates some of the problems Carter faces trying to cut back on the size and nature of the federal public works program.

Judge Link's project is the Trinity River project, the biggest single effort the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has ever undertaken.

If it is ever fully completed, it will create several massive reservoirs in East Texas and turn landlocked Dallas and Forth Worth into seaports by means of a 350-mile barge canal to the Gulf of Mexico. It will cost more than $2 billion.

The environmental lobby, which Judge Link tends to characterize as "a bunch of professional do-gooders from upstream," thinks of the project as a classic boondoggle that will destroy thousands of acres of natural habitat to enrich a few businessmen.

That's not what Judge Link wants Congress to think. So, on Tuesday, he and 161 other Texans boarded a chartered plane and flew to Washington.

The group included bankers, utility officials, newspaper publishers and other businessmen from the Trinity basin. It also had a full compliment of local officials like Link.

The group leaders, over 15 years, have polished their Washington routines. They started off with a reception in the Rayburn House Office Building in a room provided for them by Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex.

One by one, the members of the Texas congressional delegation whose districts abut the Trinity basin dropped by to have a drink and reiterate their support for the project.

They included powerful congressmen like Jim Wright, the House majority leader, who originally introduced the Trinity legislation in the 1960s; Ray Roberts, chairman of the water subcommittee of the House Public Works Committee, which authorizes projects; and George Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which funds them.

After an evening on the town, Judge Link was ready to play his role as one of the ten Texans who would actually testify. The rest crowded into the committee rooms behind him.

He asked the committee to disregard the environmentalists and plough full speed ahead with the appropriations for Tennessee Coloney Lake, a massive reservoir near Palestine that he feels would solve the flood problem.

Link called this year's $15 million fund request "modest," and compared too the eventual cost of the whole project, it seemed to be. The full cost is spread over many uears of planning and construction.

The judge never mentioned, and the subcommittee did not ask about, the complex calculations of costs, future benefits, and environmental impact that formed the basis for the Carter administration's challenge to Trinity project. That opposition has been at least temporarily abandoned, thanks in part to Wright's intercession at the White House.

Nonetheless, the Texans were warmly received by the subcommittee chairmen, in the House and Senate, Rep. Tom Bevill of Alabama and Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi.

"Very impressive. The best presentation we've had so far," said Bevill.

By contrast, the handful of Texans who have made their way to Washington to testify, against the Trinity are a disorganized and inconsequential group: a theology professor, a long-haired organic farmer, and John Henry Faulk, the television personality who was blacklisted during the McCarthy era and now lives in Madisonville, Tex.

Woody trial questioning

FORT STOCKTON, Tex. (AP) — Defense and prosecution lawyers today began questioning a new 80-member panel of prospective jurors for the captial murder trial of Alan Ladd Woody.

The 11th juror for the trial of Woody, 20, of Center Point, was selected Wednesday.

Woody is being tried in the strangulation death of Mrs. Beth Pearson, 15, of Kerrville. He is also charged with murder in the death of Carol Ann London, 18, also of Kerrville. The bodies of the two girls were found last August near Cypress Creek in the Kerrville area after they had been missing for about a year.

Lawyers Wednesday accepted a 23-year-Fort Stockton automotive machinist as the 11th juror and the fifth man for the panel.

Dist. Atty. Joe Tuck of Kerrville and defense lawyer Marvin Miller of San Antonio Wednesday completed the questioning of 12 prospective jurors from a panel of 60 summoned Tuesday.

Another 80 prospective jurors have been ordered to report for possible jury duty Thursday in an effort to complete the panel.

So far a total of 143 potential jurors have been questioned.

Woody is being tried on a capital murder charge in the death of Mrs. Pearson because the prosecution contends aggravated rape was involved in her death.

Excavating for nitro

HOLLIDAY, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Army demolition experts resumed excavation work today at the site of an old cellar where it is believed that 15 gallons of nitro glycerine may have been stored for about 30 years.

The about 150 persons who were evacuated from a three-square block area around the cellar were permitted to return to their homes late Wednesday when the digging was called off for the night.

The search for the old nitro glycerine in this North Texas town located about 12 miles south of Wichita Falls got under way after Mrs. Georgia T. Lynch of Wichita Falls recalled that her late sister, Mrs. W.C. Curlee had told her that her husband mixed and stored nitro glycerine in the cellar for use in the oil fields before he died in 1947.

An explosive sniffing dog confirmed that there is dynamite in the area of the old cellar, according to Staff Sgt. Dennis Bouse of the 61st Ordinance Detachment from Ft. Sill, Okla.

Rosa Carrasco on her way to freedom

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Rosa Gomez Carrasco, the widow of a notorious alleged drug kingpin who died in a spectacular prison escape attempt in 1974, apparently is on her way to freedom after nearly three years of hiding and uncertainty.

Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandel said Wednesday after a four-hour interview with Mrs. Carrasco that he will recommend that she not be indicted for helping her husband's attempted escape from prison.

"I will recommend to the grand jury that it not indict Rosa Carrasco for providing implements of escape to her husband because of insufficient evidence," Sandel said after the Huntsville meeting.

Mrs. Carrasco was charged in July 1974 with helping her husband and two other men get guns that enabled them to take hostages in a Huntsville prison library. At that time, Sandel said he learned at the meeting, she was on her way to Mexico for a 2½ year stay before turning herself in at San Antonio Monday.

Carrasco, an accomplice and two women hostages died in a hail of police bullets on Aug. 3, 1974 after an 11-day siege in which 15 hostages were held.

Sandel said he will meet in two to three weeks with the Walker County grand jury to give them details of his meeting Wednesday with Mrs. Carrasco and her attorney, Anthony Nicholas.

The district attorney said that during the meeting she denied any knowledge of the escape attempt by her late husband. She said she fled San Antonio to Mexico before her husband's death, driving a car she paid $150 for.

Mrs. Carrasco was quoted as saying she went to Piedras Negras, Mexico, just across the Texas border for several months and then lived in Central Mexico at Guanajuato for two years under an assumed name. Sandel said she was supported by a married Mexican resident during that period.

Sandel said she went back to Piedras Negras last December and stayed there until three weeks ago before turning herself in Monday at San Antonio.

"I was tired of hiding and running all the time. I had nothing to hide," said Mrs. Carrasco on her return to San Antonio late Wednesday.

Asked about her reasons for leaving Texas, Sandel said, "She said she was afraid to stay in San Antonio because of all the publicity surrounding the escape attempt. She said she was afraid someone would hold her children for ransom, and she didn't have any money. She said she came back because she missed her children, who were staying with her mother."

Sandel said Mrs. Carrasco will remain free under $100,000 bond until the grand jury acts on her case. He said that Nicholas, her attorney, suggested she planned to seek employment with a nursing home.

Vocational ed hearings

AUSTIN — Texans will have the opportunity to express their views on the proposed Texas State Plans for Vocational Education and Adult Education for Fiscal Year 1978 during public hearings Friday, Mary 13, in Austin.

The hearings will coincide with the meeting of the State Board of Education committee on programs and personnel development at 8:30 a.m. in the board room of Riverside Square North, 150 East Riverside Drive.

The committee will consider the preliminary drafts of both 1978 state plans at the meeting.

Copies of the preliminary draft of the State Plan for Vocational Education will be available to the public in the state's 20 regional education service centers, junior colleges, and approximately 15 major school districts.

Draft copies of the State Plan for Adult Education are now available in the regional education service centers.

Thousands of school-age and adult students in vocational education programs across the state are affected by the plans, which govern administration of those programs by the Texas Education Agency.

Interested citizens who wish to voice an opinion at the public hearings should register with Cadar Parr, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for occupational education and technology. Persons seeking additional information about the preliminary plans should also contact Parr.

Janey Briscoe says 'seniors' offer wisdom

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Texas First Lady Janey Briscoe says that younger generations are making a mistake when they assume that senior citizens are unable to contribute to society.

In a brief speech Wednesday before the Generation Connection Forum, Mrs. Briscoe said senior citizens "have so much to offer ... so much to give ... so much wisdom. There is no way to get wisdom until you live. These mature citizens can do so much for the rest of us."

She added, "Our generation has the idea that because a person has reached 60 or 65, that he no longer is able to contribute. These mature citizens have been segregated from the mainstream of our society."

Price code hoax called 'crazy'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Medical Association would like everyone to know that kidney dialysis is paid for by Medicaid — not those blackstriped price code labels on food cans.

A TMA official said Wednesday that the organization's office here is being deluged by calls from Texans seeking a place to redeem the labels to aid kidney patients.

"It's crazy," assistant communications director Steve Carrell said of the rumors. "People in communities all over Texas have been led to believe the tags can be redeemed.

"They're going nuts collecting these things."

The rumors have been reported in several Texas towns, including Jasper, Center, Marshall, Giddings, Longview, Houston, Pflugerville and Nacogdoches, Carrell said.

"Nobody knows how the rumor got started," added Carrell. "One town had a grocery store that thought the hospital was redeeming the labels, while the hospital thought the grocery store was redeeming them."

Similar rumors in the past have caused Americans to collect pop top tabs, tea bag tags and cigarette packages. Popular rumor had it that you could redeem empty cigarette packages for a wheelchair during the polio scare of the early 1960s, he said.

State Medicaid pays all dialysis costs for the first three months and federal Medicaid picks up 80 per cent of the tab thereafter, Carrell explained.

Carrell said National Kidney Association officials in Houston told him they are also getting several calls a day from persons wanting to redeem the labels.

"It's an easy community project. People are quick to get together and help in things like that, especially in the spring, Carrell added. "Communities and groups hear about it and start these massive movements to collect these things.

"And when they've collected thousands of them, they call us to find a place to send them. We have to tell them there is absolutely nothing they can do with them."

Mental health month

"There is a large, metal bell, at our national office, which was cast from the shackles and handcuffs that once bound mentally and emotionally disturbed people," said Shirley K. Camfield, President of the Mental Health Association in Texas.

"This bell is now a symbol for the Mental Health Association, ringing out hope for the mentally ill and victory over mental illness," she added.

During May, Mental Health, Month, Bellringers will be collecting to help the association continue their work.

Ms. Kathy Blagrave is coordinating the campaign in Ackerly; Mrs. Wendell Shive in Coahoma; Mrs. R.E. Strickland in Forsan; Mrs. Linda Cypert in Garden City; and Mrs. Lois Rhoten in Luther Also Mrs. J.M. Sterling in Colorado City.

The association's logo, used in conjunction with the slogan "Citizens Who Do Make A Difference" stresses strength through unity, while making full allowance for individual differences.

The logo depicts a group of people standing with hands joined, forming an unbroken circle. In the center is the Mental Health Bell.

The changing shades of people, overlayed on the changing shades of the world in which they live, suggests the power of different individuals united to change conditions. The unbroken circle of people suggests togetherness and unity of organization.

The circle of people with heads toward the bell suggests the many heads concentrating together through an organization trying to find solutions to problems.

That mental health is a full-time, year-round activity is suggested by the fact that there are 12 people forming the circle.

During May, people here can "make a difference" by contributing to the Mental Health Association.

Enzyme energy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In a research project being conducted at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School here, enzymes — chemical change agents — are now being used to convert agricultural wastes and waste paper products into alcohol and other liquid fuels which can be used to power automobiles and heat homes.

Enzymes may help to make more efficient use of agricultural crops which are now used as animal feed to produce meat and poultry, the researchers say. By using enzymes to convert waste products into inexpensive yet nutritious animal feeds, more crops, like corn, wheat and soybeans can be used directly as human food.

Malamud wins Jewish award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Malamud, who once said "Jews and Jewish life are my turf," was recently awarded the B'nai B'rith Jewish Heritage Award for 1976. The 62-year-old novelist, holder of a Pulitzer Prize and two National Book Awards, received the $1,000 prize for "excellence in Jewish literature."

Malamud has said that for him the Jew is a symbol of man's tragic experience. "I try to see the Jew as a universal man," he said. "Every man is a Jew, though he may not know it."

Racism remark sparks flap in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — A remark by U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young that he sometimes thought Britain had "invented racism" touched off lively reaction Thursday among delegates to the United Nations.

Young, the first black American ambassador to the world oganization, told a British Broadcasting Corp. — BBC — interviewer that Britain institutionalized racism "more than anyone else in the history of the earth."

He also accused Britain of being "a little chicken" in handling racial matters at home and in southern Africa.

"I lived in England for about 30 years and believe me there's a lot of truth in what he is saying," said Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul of Mauritius, a spokesman for the Organization of African Unity — OAU.

"Ambassador Young is outspoken, but he speaks his mind sincerely and we respect him for it."

But a Western diplomat, who asked not to be identified, accused Young of being "a clumsy team player."

"Look, when you are in the process of delicate negotiations, you just don't go around making disparaging remarks about another member of the team," he said.

There was no comment from the British mission, but a spokesman said Ambassador Ivor Richard might have a statement later in the day.

In the interview, taped in New York and broadcast in Britain Tuesday night, Young said he thought "it would be in Britain's self-interest to have a little more backbone in facing up to race at home and abroad."

Appropriations bill zips along

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today approved a $15.7 billion state budget bill for 1978-79, more than $400 million larger than the Legislative Budget Board's proposal.

It reflects the diversion from the treasury of an additional $528 million for highways over the next two years. This was finally approved by lawmakers Wednesday.

General revenue expenditures would total $5.9 million, about $90 million less than the LBB had recommended.

The reduction is deceptive, however, because the increased highway expenditures reduced the amount of money that will pass into the general fund.

Expenditures approved by the committee are $3.7 billion greater than those allowed in the general appropriation act that expires Aug. 31.

Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, chairman of the committee, said the bill probably won't hit the floor for more than a week. It would be eligible next Thursday.

But the House has the $694 million state school aid bill scheduled for that Tuesday, making it unlikely that any other time-consuming bills will be set for that week.

The bill raises state employes' salaries 3.4 per cent a year and allows agency administrators to provide merit raises of up to 3.4 per cent. Merit raises, however, could come only from money provided by cost-cutting measures taken by the agencies.

Welfare payments in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program will increase from an average of $32 to $40 per recipient. Foster Care payments will rise from an average of $100 to $174 next year and $200 in fiscal 1979. Cost to the state will increase $74.3 million.

Prison appropriations include $72 million to build a multi-purpose facility, including a medical unit, that will house 2,900 inmates.

The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation will receive a $108 million increase to expand community care programs and increase the staff of state hospitals and special schools. Also provided was $13 million to construct a new building at the Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences.

Budgets for the 24 senior colleges and universities would rise $277 million, mostly to keep up with inflation and enrollment increases.

Biggest judgment ever against city

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for a construction firm say it could receive about $5,112,525 after a district court jury ruled in its favor in its six-year-old damage suit against the City of Houston.

They said it will be the largest judgment against a municipality in the state.

A four man, eight woman jury ruled Wednesday that R. F. Ball Construction Co., Inc., general contractor of of the Houston Intercontinental Airport, and six of its subcontractors should be awarded $3,759,209 for additional work they did on the airport for which it claimed the city did not pay.

Bud Cecil, representing Ball, said the company also is entitled to $1,353,315 in prejudgment interest at 6 per cent accumulation from the time the Houston City Council denied Ball's claim in 1971.

The jury deliberated about four and a half days following a trial of seven weeks in which more than 4,000 exhibits were introduced.

Ball sued the city for $7.8 million in May, 1971, claiming that more than 400 unexpected change orders requested by the city caused a two-year delay in completion of the airport.

The company contended that the construction changes in the airport's two terminals and other structures increased Ball's cost to about $26 million although the city paid the company only $20.1 million.

The city maintained that Ball and the subcontractors had been paid every thing owed them.

"We're pleased," said Cecil. "You always hope you're going to get more money. But they (the jury) worked very hard on the verdict. This will be the largest judgment against a municipality in the state."

Asst. City Atty. Jo Rollins would only say "We're going to have to look at it." when asked if the city would appeal the verdict.

A spokesman for Mayor Fred Hofheinz said the mayor would not comment on the case until he has an opportunity to review it with the city legal department.

Ball began construction on the airport iln June, 1965. The proposed completion date was April 20, 1967. However, bad weather, strikes and other delays kept the airport from opening until June 9, 1969.

Three pot plane suspects fail to post $250,000 bail

BIG LAKE, Tex. (AP) — Three men were charged Wednesday with possession of marijuana and placed in jail under individual bonds of $250,000 after authorities confiscated Tuesday a planeload of marijuana in this West Texas city marijuana in this West Texas city.

Justice of the Peace Pauline Stout said she set bond of $250,000 each for the three men identified as Kevin Kinnanne, 28, Steven P. Wells, 27, and Steve Baker, 28. Authorities said their hometowns were not known.

The three men were arrested Tuesday morning after they tried to buy a car.

The twin engine plane landed on a ranch a few miles north of the city, damaged its landing gear and was abandoned by its pilot.

Judge Stout said that she went out to the plane and the marijuana smell was so strong that she sniffed it the minute she stepped out of her car. "You could not believe they could pack that much junk into one airplane," she said.

Crossroads never came

Once upon a time, Stanton almost became a big railroad center.

Recorded in the transportation section of a San Antonio museum is a railroad that started to go County. They had the full with the Atchison, Topeka ground in Stanton."

In addition to the Texas and Pacific Railroad which goes through Stanton to this day, back in 1904, the Santa Fe Railroad started laying a branch line from San Angelo to Sterling City in Sterling County and convinced the intention of joining that line with the Acthcison, Topeka and Santa Fe at Lubbock.

In 1905, a man came to Stanton named "Mister Durant". That's all anybody recalls that he was called.

Nobody seems to remember his first name. He told the citizens that the railroad was to come from Sterling City to Garden City in Glasscock County, and cross the T&P at Stanton making the town a railroad crossroads.

The purpose of the railroad was to have been to handle the movement of the many thousands of cattle which were being trailed into Stanton for shipment from as far north as Brownfield, Seminole, Lamesa and Andrews.

Seminole and Andrews have never been served by any railroad at all to this day.

"Mister Durant" told the Stanton people that if they would raise $200,000, he would build the end of the line from Satnton to Lubbock.

Now if you didn't live in 1905, you don't know how much $200,000 was at that time. I wasn't alive then, but Mother was and I can imagine those people worrying about that kind of money.

The money, however, was raised by a group around Stanton and was to be paid to Durant "if and when the material was laid on the ground in Stanton"

The cross-ties were unloaded as promised and the rails were to come later. About this time, a Mr. O'Donnell, after whom the town of O'Donnell was later named came down to Martin County and convinved the backers of the railroad that their "Mister Durant" was a crook and a liar and that if they turned over their $200,000, they would never get a railroad built.

"Mister Durant" quietly disappeared. Then Mr. O'Donnell brought in his engineers, equipment, a crew and many horses and mules and set up camp west of town.

He proceded northward constructing the railroad dump which still can be seen in several places between Stanton and Lamesa, even today.

But for some reason which remains unknown, when Mr. O'Donnell had almost reached Lamesa, the project stopped. By then the rails had arrived. They had been brought in by Texas and Pacific and were put in a stack beside the rails that Mister Durant brought.

Eventually, Texas and Pacific bought both stacks of rails. The backers never did get a railroad.

One old timer in Martin County said, "Mister Durant and "Mister O'Donnell went west, but the railroad didn't".

So there's still just one railroad over there. This year, it sold the depot. The Chamber of Commerce was alert enought to hang onto it and plans to make a domino hall for or citizens — or some project.

But the second railroad — well it was gone with the wind — out in that lonesome area between Stanton and Lamesa where I sometimes ride fence.

Combat is what it's all about

By OMAR BURLESON,
M.C. 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The idea of an all-voluntary military force had a very great appeal when enacted in 1973. A study now going on in the Senate Armed Services Committee reflects that it may be a luxury that the United States can no longer afford. Doing away with the draft and going to an all-voluntary system has lived up to few of the expectations of those who advocated the change. It would seem that the higher pay provided, high unemployment and other factors, would have been conducive to maintaining proper levels of enlistment. This, however, has not been the case. In the last quarter of 1976, the Army was 6 per cent under its recruiting objectives, the Marines fell short by 15 per cent and the Air Force is experience difficulties.

The selective reserve is now 52,000 below its authorized strength and our Individual Ready Reserve suffers a shortfall of 180,000, which is expected to increase further.

In spite of what was supposed to be a development of higher morale in the services, the Navy reports an AWOL and desertion rate higher than even during the Vietnam war. Admiral Watkins, Chief of Naval Personnel, testified that the concept of an all-voluntary force is not working. General David Jones, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, testified recently that the advent of the all-voluntary force has transformed the concept of military service "from a profession and a calling, to a job or occupation." He said further that the nation must question whether economic benefits are beginning to outweigh "duty, honor and Country" in terms of military motivation.

Incidentally, seemingly it is this transformation of the concept of military service that has fueled pressure for unionization within the armed services. The pressures are growing in spite of increases in enlisted pay since 1967, far exceeding the rate of inflation and pay increases in the private sector.

As a short-term remedy, the Brookings Institution recently proposed greater utilization of women and reduction in physical standards of selected occupation specialists, and other management changes which, they believe, would provide the military with sufficient numbers of otherwise qualified personnel.

Several senators on the Armed Services Committee, after hearing this proposal, expressed the opinion that more fundamental changes are needed and that short-term tinkering is no substance for long-term solutions. Senator Sam Nunn of Georgia is of the opinion that it makes little sense to pay large bonuses to entice young people into service and to pay further bonuses to those same people to serve in combat areas while, on the other hand, it must mount costly job training and summer programs to address serious unemployment problems so prevalent among young Americans.

There is little question but that options and alternatives to the all-volunteer concept must be considered if we are to have an efficient armed force. These options should be thoroughly considered in search for viable alternatives before we are forced to make decisions in a crisis atmosphere.

In addition to the importance of meeting this problem is also the need for answers to our overall readiness which includes all military hardward. There are questions being raised as to the performance of tanks, guns, ships, planes and all other hardware in our arsenal, should combat be required. After all, combat is what it's all about and not simply for parades on special occasions.

Plane ruckus

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men were in custody here today after they allegedly caused a disturbance on a Delta Airlines flight.

The FBI said the two men were arrested Wednesday when the plane made an unscheduled landing at Houston Intercontinental Airport.

Robert Robinson, 34, of New York City, who allegedly scuffled with a number of persons aboard the flight, was charged with interfering with a flight crew.

Royce Ralph Creed, 36, of Downey, Calif., was charged with crime aboard an aircraft in connection with the alleged theft of $1,800 from Robinson.

Robinson was being held under $10,000 bond and Creed was being detained by local authorities on theft charges, the FBI said.

The plane was met by airport police who turned the two men over to federal marshals. The plane continued on to Atlar'a after the stop here.

Wife slain, man wounded

BROOKSHIRE, Tex. (AP) — Christopher Downing remained in critical condition in a Houston hospital today with a gunshot wound in the head after his estranged wife was shot to death in a motel here.

Police said officers found Downing Tuesday by his car in a wooded area near San Felipe Park just west of here.

Earlier in the day police said a man walked into the motel where Carolyn Downing worked as a desk clerk and shot her several times with a pistol.

Exotic energy eyed

Exotic energy sources make good speculation, but conventional sources will still account for most of the energy output by the year 2000.

This was the summation of Bob Goodwin, customer service director for Texas Electric Service Comapny, in an appearance Wednesday at the Downtown Lions Club in the Settles.

Today oil accounts for 49 per cent of electric power generation, gas 26 per cent, coal 18 per cent, hydroelectric 4 per cent, nuclear 3 per cent. By the turn of the century nuclear (fission and fusion) will be up to 17 per cent, coal will be 19 per cent, gas 18 per cent and oil 35 per cent (17 per cent import).

The "exotics" such as wind, geothermal, solar, burning trash, tides, etc. will account for an aggregate of 10 per cent.

The reason? Most of them simply are prospective sources and not significantly available today. It will take years of research for practical applications, and in most cases the economics of the yield will make them impractical except for specialized uses. For instance — it would take 1,800 giant windmills (far more efficient than any so far known) to turn out as much energy as one conventional large fuel-burning electric generating plant.

TESCO is looking to the future by building a third lignite (coal-fired) plant, plus one nuclear fission plant. Additionally, the company is cooperating in the Tokamak research for nuclear fussion (forcing light elements together to release vast amounts of energy), also on wind and solar experiments said Goodwin. For the foreseeable future, however, most Texas energy will come from gas and oil.

Ladies day will be held Wednesday, April 20, at Howard College new club room, Gary Bradbury, president, reported. Wayne Henry, lightbulb sale chairman, said that captains will pick teams at an April 15 meeting at 5 p.m. at Big Spring Savings and Loan. A large delegation is being sought for the district convention in San Angelo April 22-24 to support Big Spring's bid for the 1978 Lions District 2A-1 convention. The club still is seeking names of children who would be guests of the club at either the crippled children's camp or the camp for diabetic children. Bert Andries is chairman of this.

Fire victims identified

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men believed to have burned to death in a house fire have been identified as Jonah Venice, 52, and Harvey Polite, 54.

The bodies of the two men were found in the remains of the one-story house Tuesday night.

Arson investigator J. E. Thornton said Wednesday an investigation has determined the fire was deliberately set with a flammable liquid.

No free films at library

No films will be shown at the Howard County Library Saturday afternoon, due to the fact that the library will be on a holiday schedule.

The movies are ordinarily screened without charge and are youth-oriented.
