Mellon Asks To Be Relieved Of Prohibition Enforcement Responsibility

SECRETARY OF TREASURY FOR SHIFTING TASK

Committee Hears Veteran Official's Views On Dry Question

WITHHOLDS OPINION

'Wets' Fail to Learn How Mellon Views Law As To 'Fair Test'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (UP)—The 75-year-old banker who has been enforcing prohibition for the last nine years refused today to tell what he thought of it, and asked to be relieved of the task.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, appeared before a house executive expenditures subcommittee and approved the Hoover-Wickershal proposal to turn prohibition enforcement over to the attorney-general.

"We have done everything possible to enforce the law," Mellon said, "but it is a question of making the enforcement more workable."

Unrelated Statute

Asserting that the treasury's business was to manage the nation's finances, Mellon said he "knew of no reason why the treasury should be charged with enforcing an unrelated penal statute."

Representative Igoe, Republican, Illinois, and Representative Schafer, Republican, Wisconson, wets, cross-examined the secretary at length, but were unable to find out whether he thought prohibition has had "a fair test."

"It is a very controversial subject," Mellon said, "and I don't see any occasion now to express my personal opinions. It is not important what my opinion is."

"Do you think there will be a higher degree of efficiency under the justice department?" Igoe asked.

Kemp City Home Lost in Blaze

Special to The Record News.

KEMP CITY, Texas, Jan. 22.—Fire which destroyed the home and furnishings of D. B. Taylor, near here, about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, caused loss estimated at more than $2,000. Nothing was saved from the blaze, all clothing, furniture and other articles having been destroyed. A washing machine in a small shed near the house was recovered.

The flames started from overheating of a flue to a wood stove. Mrs. Taylor, who was in a front room of the house, barely escaped the flames when a neighbor, seeing the fire, shouted to her. She rushed out. No insurance was carried. The house was located on the Taylor-Sibley syndicate lease on the Munger land, about 12 miles southwest of Iowa Park.

Indian Fighter's Body Rests in Ontario

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 22. (UP)—The body of A. W. Graham, 82, last survivor of the Red river rebellion in the Canadian Northwest, lay in his boyhood home here today. The man who escaped dozens of Indian bullets and helped to build the state of Oklahoma when every frontiersman slept beside his rifle, died suddenly last night of heart disease.

Hubby Drank 12 Gallons Of Beer Weekly, Charge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (US)—Twelve gallons of beer a week, even in these piping times of prohibition, is too much, according to Mrs. William Leadbetter. Alleging that that was her husband's quota—and about the limit of his capacity—Mrs. Leadbetter today brought suit for limited divorce.

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The people of Wichita Falls and vicinity will have an opportunity Monday night of hearing and seeing the foremost baritone singer in America. The Musicians club is bringing to Wichita Falls at that time Reinald Werrenrath. He is to sing at the Memorial auditorium. Mr. Werrenrath is without doubt one of the finest artists appearing on the concert stage. The Musicians club is performing a fine service in bringing a singer of Werrenrath's reputation and ability to Wichita Falls, but it will not be worth while to bring him here unless there is a large audience to hear him. What the Musicians club needs to know that its efforts are appreciated is the purchase of tickets and a large audience. Mark Monday night on the calendar and buy your ticket now.

If anything like a full vote is polled in the primaries and elections in Wichita county this year more than 10,000 poll tax receipts must be issued within the remaining eight week days for the payment of poll taxes. Less than five thousand poll tax receipts and exemptions had been issued Wednesday.

This record would seem to indicate that the voters of the county are apathetic toward the issues and the candidates this year. Talker cannot believe this is the case and expects to see a big rush in poll tax payments from here on out.

When the ice begins to thaw danger starts for those who have been enjoying the novelty of going out on Lake Wichita. Stay off thawing ice if you want to escape a wetting and maybe drowning.

Chairman Wilcox has called a meeting of the Democratic state executive committee in Austin on Feb. 1 to act upon the question of the eligibility of bolters as voters and candidates in the Democratic primaries this year. He is calling the meeting thus early to give the bolters an opportunity to take the matter into the courts in case the committee decides to attempt to bar either bolter voters or candidates. Mr. Wilcox himself believes the committee has such a right, whether it will be exercised or not.

Regular Democrats will abide the decision of the committee, whatever it may be, and, of course, will abide the decision of the courts in case the question is taken into them. A great many Democrats have expressed their opinions on the issue, as they have the right and ought to do. And having said their say they can now await with equanimity the ruling of the committee.

More than 900 students from 243 other colleges and universities are enrolled in the University of Oklahoma, reads a dispatch from Norman, Okla. This indicates a preference for and the popularity of the university of our neighboring state. This number does not include those who have enrolled from other states in their first year in college. If we remember something like 500 are enrolled from Texas alone. Most of these are from North Texas to which Norman, the seat of Oklahoma university is nearer than Austin, the seat of the University of Texas. But the fact that so many have enrolled in the University of Oklahoma in preference to the University of Texas must raise some question as to why they are doing so. It is a question that Talker cannot answer. He's ready to hear from anyone who can.

While we are talking we might as well say something about Walter Cline, for a lot of folks are talking about him and wondering whether he is going to get into the gubernatorial race. Walter is taking his time to make a decision for there is plenty of time to make an announcement in case he decides to run. Here's a little talk about him from the Quanah Tribune-Chief, which after naming those already announced says:

"There will perhaps be others to enter the lists before filing time closes and one of these is a West Texan. He is none other than Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls. Cline is a successful business man, an executive of outstanding ability and his friends are positive that he would make the state one of its greatest chief executives. Cline is being groomed by his friends for the gubernatorial honor and West Texas will give him almost solid support because of his qualifications, his personal attraction and the further fact that West Texas is entitled to recognition in the governor's office. These reasons combine to make his candidacy appealing to the voters in this section and should command support in the other portions of the state where thoughtful voters are ready to flock to a man who is free of political embarrassment and entangling alliances and willing to give the state the benefit of his superior knowledge of business administration."

This cold weather is good time to go through the closet and sort out some of the clothing you are not using and put into use where it is badly needed. The Salvation Army nearly always has calls for more used clothing than it can provide. The calls are always greater and more urgent in times of severe weather. Pick out some serviceable garments you are not using and give the army a call. Maybe you have some bedding too that you don't intend to use again and

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT AS AUTO SKIDS ON ICE

Victims of Spur Accident Brought Here In Special Car

BANKER NEAR DEATH

Dick Whittenburg, Graham, And Mrs. F. L. Adair In Hospital

Rushed here early Wednesday morning in a special railroad coach after their automobile wrecked on the icy roads 27 miles from Spur Monday morning, Mrs. F. L. Adair, 2115 Avenue F, and her brother-in-law, Dick Whittenburg, banker and ranchman of Graham, were both in a serious condition at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Wednesday night. J. W. Adair, 18-year-old son of Mrs. Adair, who was slightly injured, has been dismissed from the hospital.

The three were pinned beneath the overturned car when it skidded on the ice about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The boy was able to crawl out from the wreckage and to assist his mother to escape. It required the assistance of 12 men to lift the machine from Mr. Whittenburg, the youth reported.

A physician from Wichita Falls was summoned while the three were given first aid treatment at the Spur hospital. By special arrangement a special coach was obtained and brought to Wichita Falls on the Wichita Valley road early Wednesday morning.

An X-ray examination revealed that Mr. Whittenburg had suffered a fracture of the fifth spinal vertabra and an emergency operation was necessary Wednesday afternoon. His condition was reported very grave at the hospital.

Injuries to her spine made a plaster cast necessary in the treatment of Mrs. Adair, also reported seriously hurt.

Mrs. Whittenburg has been under treatment at the hospital here for the last 10 months and her husband has been spending much of his time in Wichita Falls.

TEMPERATURES MAKE ASCENT

Sunshine Gives Promise Of Bringing Thaw

Though the Middle West was reported still in the toils of frigidity, the Southwest was relieved somewhat Wednesday, and a warm sun which shone over Northwest Texas and parts of Southwestern Oklahoma did much to revive hopes for a speedy end to the cold wave, now in its third week.

The temperature in Wichita Falls at 1 a. m. Thursday was 17 degrees, a drop of six degrees from the recording at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and indications were good for a further drop.

Many cities in this region reported Wednesday they were caring for the hungry and destitute

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 22.—Sam T. Taylor's whiskers froze to the bedpost last Friday night when the thermometer registered 1 degree above zero. The San Angelo grocer sleeps on a porch on the north side of the house and his warm breath meeting the frigid air played the queer trick on him.

Taylor felt a tug at his chin when he tried to turn over in his sleep, and that awakened him. Carefully though a bit painfully, he liberated himself, shredded out the ice, tucked his whiskers under the covers and resumed his repose.

Bartlett's Case Held By Jurors

After almost eight hours' deliberation, the jury trying John J. Bartlett, 62, former deputy United States marshal, on assault charges retired at 9:45 Wednesday evening without arriving at a verdict. The case, on trial in the 30th district court since Monday, was placed in the hands of the jury at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Bartlett is being tried on an attempted criminal assault indictment returned last September on complaints brought by a 7-year-old Wichita Falls girl.

Two hours after the case was put into their hands early Wednesday afternoon, the jurors asked to be allowed to inspect the arrangement of the marshal's office where the alleged assault is said to have taken place last Aug. 10. Judge Allan D. Montgomery explained that the higher courts have ruled against such a procedure and that he was not authorized to permit the visit.

Later the jury asked for the testimony of the defendant in connection with the hour at which he said he took the little girl from her home on the afternoon of the alleged assault. Bartlett testified that he had taken his 11-year-old son, the complaining witness, and her 8-year-old half-sister to a motion picture show that afternoon. No other questions were asked and no indication of the prospect for a verdict were given Wednesday evening.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Montgomery defined an attempted assault as alleged in the indictment as being punishable by from 2 to 99 years imprisonment. He also gave a charge for aggravated assault, punishable by a fine of from $25 to $1,000, or a jail sentence from 30 days to two years, or both.

BRADY COURT TRIMS VENIRE

Judge Informally Quizzes Prospective Jurors

COURTROOM, AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—The second panel called to appear here where John W. Brady, former appellate court judge, is on trial for the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, a 28-year-old capitol stenographer knifed to death, was trimmed late today to about 125 qualified veniremen. Tomorrow will begin the second attempt to fill the jury box, which held three men.

An early adjournment until tomorrow was taken to allow the defense time to examine the qualified list, which the clerk was to draw up.

It was only a two-hour informal session. Brady and the lawyers chatting among themselves while Judge Moore held conferences with the panel members individually.

When it was over, Brady got up slowly and left the courtroom, where he often had represented the

State Emphasizes Life Insurance Policy On Waybourn

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—The part allegedly played by an insurance policy in the murder of W. W. Waybourn of Smithville was emphasized in testimony offered by the state today at the trial of Mrs. Rosa Waybourn, charged with her husband's murder.

Mrs. Waybourn applied for the $10,000 policy for her husband, J. C. Black of Houston, a former Smithville insurance man, testified. Mrs. Waybourn and W. H. Middleton, admitted accomplice to the murder, paid premiums on it with money orders, according to the story of a Smithville postoffice clerk.

The policy again came to the fore during the testimony of Horace Rollins, railroad brakeman and former co-worker of Waybourn. He testified that he once asked the woman whether, if Waybourn lost his job, she would quit him, and she replied she wouldn't. At this juncture in the testimony, the

Autopsies on Bodies of Charity Patients Denied in State Ruling

Texas law does not authorize the Wichita General hospital to perform autopsies on the bodies of charity patients without legal process or the permission of relatives, according to an attorney general's ruling made public in press dispatches from Austin Wednesday afternoon.

The opinion was published in response to an inquiry from hospital authorities here and was communicated to the institution through District Attorney Sam E. Spence, the dispatches said. In announcing his interpretation of the law, the attorney general said that legislation permitting such autopsies might well be instituted.

Under the present provisions, autopsies can only be performed upon an order from a justice of the peace or with the permission of relatives of the deceased, it was explained.

The report from Austin said that local hospital authorities explained in their request for a ruling that charity patients brought under their care sometimes die before physicians can determine the exact nature of their illness. In some cases, they added, the patients are suffering from contagious diseases that result in the exposure of other patients because of the limitations of the law.

Nine School Children and Driver Of Bus Killed in Crossing Crash

BEREA, Ohio, Jan. 22. (UP)—A school bus carrying 10 children, the oldest aged 14, rolled onto Sheldon crossing today just as train 19 of the New York Central came roaring through the rain and sleet, bound from Buffalo to Chicago. The engine caught the bus squarely, carrying wreckage far down the track and killing nine of the 10 children and the driver of the bus.

The accident occurred on the anniversary of just such an accident at Ballevue, Ohio, when 17 children were killed and brought to 113 the toll of Ohio's major grade crossing accidents since 1922.

The bus gathered up the children of Brook Park village after breakfast this morning and left 10 of them at the high school. With the younger children, it started to the elementary school. It was a nasty morning and the cold from the moisture on the windshield and windows of the bus.

Apparently the driver neither saw nor heard the oncoming train for the bus drove boldly onto the tracks. The crossing is unguarded except for a wooden sign proclaiming the presence of a railroad and carrying the familiar injunction to "stop, look, listen."

Peter Ovak, a truckman, working down the tracks below the crossing, heard the screech of the train as brakes were applied and then a sickening crash. He looked up to see No. 19 bearing down, wreckage on its locomotive, sparks flying from nearly locked wheels grinding on the rails and debris still in the air or rolling along the right of way. He and the train crew summoned help but when ambulances arrived all but three of the 10 children, and the driver of the bus, were dead. Two others died on the way to a hospital.

Surgeons with the ambulances found a tragic scene. Torn bodies were strewn and scattered with school books and lunches. A half eaten apple told how one child had raided his lunch. Another had been drawing a comic picture and the half finished work was among the wreckage.

Only Mary Davidson, aged 9, was left to tell the story.

"I was sitting right up in front talking," she told her nurse late today. "I think there must have been two trains. Anyway, we stopped while one went past. Then we started again. Then the bus broke to pieces."

That was the best that Mary could do, injured as she was, to recount the tragedy to which she was the only surviving witness.

The dead were taken to Berea undertaking establishments, where parents gathered to claim the bodies.

they would be better able to prepare their cases."

Schafer tried to get Mellon and Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, who also appeared to endorse the proposal, to discuss industrial alcohol diversion in Illinois, particularly with reference to W. T. Raleigh, Freeport, Ill., perfume manufacturer. Raleigh has been prominent in advocating low tariffs in recent months.

Doran was reported today to be preparing to leave the government service when and if the transfer is made by congress. Officials would not discuss the report, although it was said Doran has received several offers from industrial alcohol manufacturers. Doran originally was a chemist in the prohibition unit.

Plan "Illogical"

Mellon said the original Volstead act plan to place prohibition enforcement under the internal revenue bureau was "illogical."

The treasury secretary said he did not believe the issuance of industrial alcohol permits belonged either in the treasury or in the justice department, but it should be left in the treasury until a definite place is found. He approved the bill by Chairman Williamson of the committee, which in addition to the transfer would give the justice department a final say-so in regard to the treasury's issuance of alcohol permits.

The ultra-wets kept up their fire from the floor of the house, which was passing prison reform bills. Representatives Dyer, Missouri; Schafer, Black, of New York, and Laguardia, New York, all wets, made speeches charging the repeal of the prohibition law would relieve the prison congestion.

state first as a county attorney and later as assistant attorney general, with his wife. She went across the small court yard and back to the jail with him. Friends stopped them occasionally on the way but Brady's weary expression never changed as he met them. He showed his 59 years plainly.

The prosecution summoned two new witnesses during the afternoon, Tom Hughes, a baker at a Texas university dormitory, and his wife. Assistant County Attorney Hardy Hollers refused to say what the Hughes were thought to know about the case. They have never figured in reports as important witnesses.

Judge Moore and counsel for both sides were determined to get a jury here if 12 men with the qualifications can be found. Judge Moore said that if the present panel is exhausted without yielding up nine more jurors, "we'll keep calling them." He sent all witnesses away again until Monday morning, and everybody settled down for three or four more days of work with venires.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

which would help to allay the chill of these cold nights for some needy child.

Met Jake Price on the street Wednesday morning with a smile on his face. No wonder he was smiling. Mr Price is manager of the Municipal Gas company. Wichita Falls has gone so far through the cold weather without any gas shortage. To supply the extraordinary demand for gas brought by the severe cold is an extraordinary feat and Mr. Price's company has done it. This has been done through splendid organization and preparation and good luck, for even with the most careful preparation there is always the chance of an accident somewhere to upset plans.

Gas is brought to Wichita Falls and other cities in North Texas by the Lone Star Gas company through a system of 25 gas fields, 1,000 wells, 25 compressor stations and 3,500 miles of main high pressure pipe lines.

Twelve hundred miles of telephone lines keep a chief gas dispatcher in touch with the cities on the line and the compressor stations. A chief dispatcher always sits at a central point. A drop in temperature anywhere on the system is reported to this dispatcher who sends an order to one or more compressor stations to put on more pressure. The big pumps are speeded up and almost before the gas user sitting in his office or home knows there has been a drop in temperature the gas pressure at his furnace or stove has been raised or at least maintained.

We must always admire efficiency and we must say that in this emergency the Municipal and Lone Star Gas companies have been highly efficient.

Perhaps Mr. Price was smiling also because the gas meters were going around so rapidly.

Mrs. L. R. Fanning of 704 Harrison street, daughter of Samuel A. Killon who died at his home in Magdalena, N. M., several days ago, has returned to Wichita Falls after attending the funeral services held in Magdalena. Mr. Killon, a former resident of Wichita Falls, was at one time connected with Gus Randolph in the blacksmith business here. He is survived by the widow; three sons, Bert Killon, of White River, Ark.; Charles Killon of Amarillo, and D. L. Killon of Clifton, Ariz.; one daughter, Mrs. Fanning of this city, and one brother, Denver Killon of Graham.

PIONEER TEXAS WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Virginia Lavender, 91, Here 13 Years

Mrs. Virginia Lavender, 91, pioneer resident of Lamar county and a resident of Wichita Falls for the past 13 years, died about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of her son, C. A. Lavender, 1411 Fourteenth street.

Born in Macon, Ga., in 1839, Mrs. Lavender moved to Paris, Texas, about 53 years ago. Her husband, a Confederate war veteran, died in that city about 30 years ago. Since moving to Wichita Falls in 1917, she had made her home with her son.

The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary. Definite plans were not made Wednesday night but the body will probably be forwarded Thursday to Paris for interment.

Railroad Trainmen Have Dinner, Dance

A group of about 100 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, local No. 499 and the women's auxiliary enjoyed a meeting, supper and dance held in the rooms of the Odd Fellows hall Wednesday night, according to E. H. Halbert, president of the trainmen's organization.

Several state officers of the brotherhood were in Wichita Falls for the meeting. The supper was followed by dancing and other entertainment. Music was furnished by Elliott's band. Special radio entertainment was furnished through the courtesy of the Phonograph shop, Mr. Halbert said.

Two Initiated at DeMolay Meeting

Harry Lewis and Henry Anderson were initiated into the Order of DeMolay at a ceremonial of Hope chapter held in the chapter rooms at the Masonic temple Wednesday night when a large crowd of DeMolays and Masons were present.

Fred Husbands was elected master councilor of the chapter in an election held following the ceremonial. Other officers elected were Odell Ballew, senior councilor, and Gayle Dishough, junior councilor. Installation of the new officers will take place at a meeting in the near future.

Bown Urges Giving Contract to U. S. Lines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Postmaster General Brown advocated awarding ocean mail contracts to vessels in which the United States has a financial interest at a hearing today before the house merchant marine committee. Representative Davis, Tennessee, ranking Democrat of the committee, declared himself "opposed to any form of favoritism" in questioning the postmaster general.

Dallas Editor Found Dead at Street Corner

DALLAS, Jan. 22. (AP)—Wilber Shaw, 36, editor of the magazine The Dallasite, was found dead early today at a street intersection in the residence district.

Although no marks indicating a serious injury were found on his body, police expressed the opinion that he had been hit by a motorist and died of exposure. Death by freezing was the verdict returned at a coroner's inquest.

Powers To List Naval Aims Today

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The American, British, French, Italian and Japanese delegates to the five-power naval conference played hide and seek over London today in final exchanges of views before the first business meeting at St. James's palace tomorrow morning, when the chief delegates are to outline the general naval needs of their countries.

From early morning until late tonight the big limousines, flying national flags, slipped through London traffic from embassy to embassy and back and forth from Downing street.

With quiet talks in the seclusion of their own headquarters and at the residence of the British prime minister, the delegates endeavored to remove preliminary difficulties and reach an understanding before buckling down to actual work.

Historic old St. James's palace is ready to receive the most cosmopolitan gathering in its history.

The main conference will open in Queen Anne's old drawing room, an exquisite room decorated in rose and gold. The long dining room adjacent, where huge fireplaces give an air of homely English hospitality, has become the general meeting place for delegates.

County to Issue Poll Taxes to Foreign Born

Foreign born residents of Wichita county who are to receive their final naturalization papers before the July primaries may obtain poll tax receipts or exemptions now, Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, announced Wednesday afternoon.

According to Mr. Raley's interpretation of the law the receipts or exemption certificates, allowing the holder to vote, may be issued at any time up to midnight Jan. 31, although the last naturalization papers will not be final until shortly before election day.

activities towards succoring the game and feeding livestock.

Difficulties arising from frozen water pipes were manifold throughout the section. In Wichita Falls it was estimated that 150 families are being deprived of water by frozen mains. When the city fire department here answered a call and found the nearest fire plugs frozen efforts to thaw them out by building fires around them were futile.

Rising temperatures were expected in this section Thursday.

LAWTON STOCKMEN SEEK TO RELIEVE CATTLE

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 22.—Organized steps to bring relief to livestock in the Wichita mountains were launched by stockmen of this section today. They were fighting roads packed with drifted snow and the work is slow and laborious. Airplane observers report seeing a number of cattle lying on the ground.

Highways out of Lawton are still blocked, and have been for 48 hours. Road supervisors and helpers have been working strenuously to open highway 29 to the east and No. 7 to the west. Trains are running hours late.

The mercury again reached eight below Tuesday night but Wednesday's sunshine brought relief. Pipes have burst in every part of the city and many are carrying water from neighbors' premises while waiting for pipes be repaired.

No reports of persons freezing to death have been received, although there have been two deaths caused by exposure. One death and several narrow escapes from death by gas asphyxiation have occurred. Five Lawton citizens whose cars stalled in a snow drift 12 miles east on highway 29 Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock were forced to remain in a sedan until daylight. Three are ill from the exposure and two suffered frost bitten feet.

Nine families, numbering 53 men, women and children, were quartered in the agricultural building at the Lawton fairgrounds today where gas stoves are kept burning and food distributed. Charity organizations are active in endeavor to see that none go hungry.

A covey of 15 quail which was being fed in Lawton Heights addition was found frozen this morning. Two doves that had sought shelter in a haystack were also found frozen. Although airplanes have been dropping grain in various parts of the county and on the reservation almost daily, sportsmen fear that a big majority of the birds have perished from the cold.

Rotary Club to Hear Talk on Open Forum

In connection with the proposed establishment of a similar institution in Wichita Falls, Elmer Scott, secretary of the Dallas Open Forum, will address the members of the Rotary club in its regular weekly meeting at noon Thursday.

Sponsorship of an open forum here has been suggested to the Rotary club, and Mr. Scott is to explain its operation and success in Dallas. The club has invited the membership of the Junior chamber of commerce to attend the meeting.

WIDOW WEEPS DURING TRIAL

Mrs. Waybourn Hears Insurance Described

Still later, over emphatic objection of defense counsel, the insurance policy was brought up in the story of a conference between Mrs. Waybourn, Middleton, and Judge E. H. Moss of La Grange, county attorney of Fayette county for seven years.

Judge Moss was allowed to tell his story only after the court had taken a recess to decide whether it should be barred as confidential between an attorney and his client.

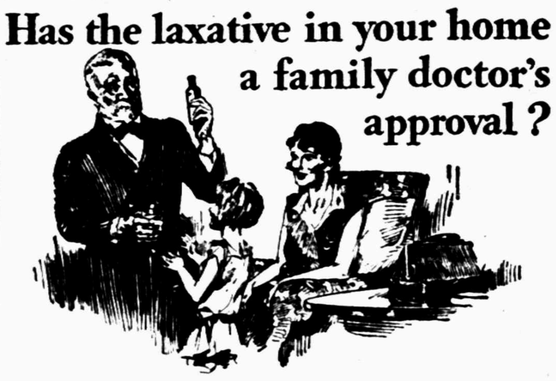

He said Mrs. Waybourn and Middleton came to his office to pass upon the extension of a lien. During the conference, Moss said, he was questioned as to whether, if Waybourn should suddenly die, his children would get the property which she claimed, and who would get the insurance of his life.

"She appeared rather nervous," Judge Moss testified. The conference he said took place on March 5, 1928.

On cross-examination, the condition of Mr. Waybourn was brought out and attorneys suggested the probability that his death from heart disease was expected. At this testimony, Mrs. Waybourn burst into tears, sobbing for several minutes.

Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval?

MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone.

Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval.

A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients.

Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

ENDED HEAD COLD CAUSED BY TRYING TO START CAR

Doctor Showed Quickest Way to End Cold and Help Avoid Risk of Pneumonia

Acting on the advice of his doctor, Charles V. Hutchins, like so many Wichita Falls people has found the quickest, safest and most pleasant way to end a cold instead of enduring needless misery.

When Mr Hutchins went to start his car several nights ago the starter got stuck. Working for more than an hour to get it started, he became so overheated that his clothes were wet with perspiration. Instead of cooling off gradually, he jumped into the open car, hurried through the chilly air to his appointment and developed a severe, feverish cold.

The following evening he called his doctor who advised Ayer's Pectoral. Taking a tempting half-spoonful every 15 minutes, as directed, he was able to sleep without coughing. He continued the treatment and in a day or so, the doctor reports, his cold had disappeared entirely.

Note: See other cases being reported daily in this paper—all certified by the attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral was hospital certified as the best medicine of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, surest relief—with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

BELGIAN TELLS OF DRY LAWS

Optimist Club Hears Talk On Prohibition

Members of the Optimist club were conducted on a brief travelogue-tour of Belgium Wednesday noon at their weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel when Charles E. Opitz of Antwerp spoke informally on the commerce, agricultural, art and customs in that country.

Reference to the operation of modified prohibition in Belgium elicited so many expressiosns of interest from his hearers that Mr. Opitz devoted the remainder of his time to answering questions from the floor. Belgian prohibition laws, which have been in effect about eight years, do not forbid the manufacture and sale of fermented liquors, such as beers and wines, the speaker said. Purchase of distilled liquors for home consumption is permitted, it was said, but such purchases must be for a minimum quantity of two quarts. The cost of such an amount of the commodity practically eliminates its purchase by those who would be offenders, the speaker said.

Mr. Opitz represents R. O. Harvey and company of this city in Europe, and has been in this city for several days in connection with the business of that firm.

Dr. J. P. Hicks of Los Angeles, who is conducting a school of evangleism at the First Presbyterian church, made a brief talk at the meeting, and D. F. Gerstenberger sang a group of solos, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker

Last Rites Held for Civil War Veteran

Funeral services for L. M. Switzler, 84, Confederate war veteran, who died about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the residence, 404 Adams street, were held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the chapel of the Hines mortuary with Rev. John E. Wade, pastor of the Adams Street Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in Rosemont.

Mr. Switzler, born in 1845 at Warsaw, Mo., enlisted in the Confederate forces during the civil war at the age of 17, moving to Arkansas at the end of the war. At various times he was physician, druggist and educator. He moved to Wichita Falls in October, 1927. He had many friends in this city and in the other cities in which he lived.

Survivors include the widow, three daughters, Mrs. J. S. Hughes, Mrs. B. E. Howell and Mrs. Rex Skelton, all of this city; one son, C. W. Switzler; 18 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. A second son died in 1925.

WOMAN BANDIT ON WAY EAST

Pennsylvania Officer Returns Mrs. Schroeder

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22. (INS)—In custody of Pennsylvania officers, Clem Dague and Mrs. Irene Schroeder, wanted for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, Pennsylvania state trooper, were en route east today.

Although Dague admitted participating in the shooting affray which resulted in Paul's death, the woman insisted she knew nothing of the slaying and declined to admit that she was Mrs. Schroeder.

Mrs. Schroeder was confronted yesterday by Patrolman Ernest Moore, Pennsylvania officer, who said to her:

"Hello Irene."

"My name isn't Irene," she retorted.

"Yes, it is," replied Moore. "I used to play with you and your brother Tom back in Wheeling, W. Va."

Moore also identified Dague, but was unable to identify the third member of the trio who was arrested with the other two after a gun battle. It was at first believed he was Tom Crawford, Mrs. Schroeder's brother. He said his name was Joe Wells.

Dague and Mrs. Schroeder yesterday decided not to fight extradition. While the brief hearing was in progress, Mrs. Schroeder held Dague's hand until a police woman was ordered to sit between them.

Before leaving here, Mrs. Schroeder was given an outfit of clothing to replace the shabby garments she wore when captured. A sympathetic Phoenix woman was the donor.

Advantages of Santa Fe's Proposed Colorado Branch Listed in Hearing

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Representatives from four states today gave testimony at an Interstate Commerce commission hearing here favorable to the Santa Fe Railroad company's 380-mile proposed building program to the north of this city.

Nineteen cities in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, and New Mexico and 14 industrial organizations representing heavy shippers in the territory involved participated in the hearing before Examiner Thomas F. Sullivan.

The only opposition developed was that of the Rock Island railroad to one 50-mile stretch of the proposed new lines, and that of two Colorado towns—Springfield and Lamar—which sought to have the route to the Amarillo-Las Animas trunk line changed.

The Rock Island objected to the branch from Dumas to Spearman, both in Texas, which would give the North Plains wheat belt a direct line into Amarillo and an all-Texas route to the gulf for its wheat.

All other intervenors and witnesses were on hand armed with statistics and pleas for a favorable decision to the program, which would serve territories in the Texas Panhandle, the Oklahoma Panhandle, southern Colorado and eastern New Mexico.

Santa Fe executives and citizens from cities along the proposed route, as well as from Pueblo and Denver, Colo., and other heavy shipping points, told how the new construction would open up much new territory to development, and how it would improve railroad service to a wide area between Denver and Amarillo and facilitate the movement of grain and other crops to the gulf.

J. R. Hitchcock of Amarillo, vice president and general manager of the Santa Fe western lines, outlined a comprehensive plan for giving the Southwest a new North and South trunk line through Amarillo; a cut-off for the transcontinental Santa Fe line between Kansas City and Albuquerque, which would avoid the steep grades at Raton Pass, and the linking up of three branch lines with the system's main lines. Each of the lines would open thousands of acres of farming land to settlement, Hitchcock declared.

Estimated cost of the lines was placed by Hitchcock at $15,532,000. One of the projects called for a 220-mile line from Amarillo to Las Animas, Colo., where it would tap two existing branch lines in Oklahoma and Colorado.

A second proposed line of 110 miles would run from Felt, Okla., to Colmor, N. M. This would shorten the distance of the company's present line between Kansas City and Albuquerque by way of Raton Pass by 70 miles.

The third line would be a branch of 50 miles from Dumas, where it would leave the Amarillo-Las Animas trunk, to Spearman, linking a gap in the Santa Fe line from Shattuck toward Amarillo. The extension would cross the Amarillo-Liberal line of the Rock Island near Morse, Texas, and the Rock Island protested its construction on the basis that the North Plains wheat belt of Texas was adequately served by its own road into Amarillo.

J. W. Stewart of Amarillo, chief locating engineer for the Santa Fe, estimated that two-thirds of all the country that would be penetrated by the lines was suitable for farming.

U. S. Judge Takes Slap at Prohibition

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 22.—Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough, in an opinion handed down today, declared unconstitutional that part of the federal prohibition law which permits personal injunctions against liquor law violators.

Judge Woodrough, in announcing his opinion, said the section of the law which permits personal injunctions has been a "dead letter" in the law for 10 years because it shocks common sense and common understanding of the constitution.

"Who thinks that when a bootlegger is placed under injunction that he will quit for the rest of his life?" the judge asked.

"The hope and expectation, and the only one is that the man will be placed in jail without the trouble of a jury trial."

BANK PROBE WAITS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The senate banking committee today voted unanimously to defer consideration of resolutions for an investigation of the banking situation until the senate had disposed of the pending tariff bill.

Mrs. R. H. Henry Dies; Body Sent Here for Burial

Mrs. R. H. Henry, 23, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and formerly of this city, died in Parkersburg last Monday. The body was forwarded to Wichita Falls, arriving late Wednesday accompanied by the husband.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon with Rev E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Active pallbearers will be J. A. McFall, M. Waggoner, Eli Morgan, John Elder, G. W. Curd, H. C. Bowman and G. W. L. Spencer.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Henry is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Stockton of this city. The deceased before her marriage was a prominent business woman of the city and had many friends here.

DEATHS

MRS. L. M. TERRETT

Funeral services for Mrs. L. M. Terrett, 35, who died in a local hospital Monday night, will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the chapel of the Hines mortuary with Rev. S. S. Martin, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, officiating. The body will be taken overland by the Hines company to Charlie for interment following the services.

Mrs. Terrett is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lucy Terrett; two small daughters, Eilleen, 4, and Dorotha, 4; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Smith, Mrs. Ora Cook and Mrs. Jewel Freeman; a brother, W. F. Barfield, all of Wichita Falls, and two half-brothers, H. S. Vaden of Water Valley, Texas, and J. A. Vaden of Stamford.

HUSTON EXPLAINS HIS CONNECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, said in a statement tonight that "there is absolutely no ground for bringing my name into the suit filed by E. H. Price company against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and others.

Huston said the suit related to "the purchase of Florida land by the brotherhood made long prior to any connection I had with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which began in the summer of 1927."

"I undertook, as a public service, to assist that organization in disentangling its financial affairs and for that purpose became an officer of the brotherhood management corporation, and I have never acted in an individual capacity," he continued

"The particular transactions were between the E. H. Price company and some of the brotherhood corporations and I was never given authority at any time by the brotherhood, prior to the termination of my connection with it, to even treat with them looking to a settlement."

... until he discovered why .. "B.O." (Body Odor)
He couldn't understand it. All day long the incident bothered him. What had he done? Why had she left him so abruptly on the trolley that morning? Why did girls always seem to avoid him?
Suddenly an idea flashed into his mind. "B.O."—body odor. Could he be guilty? Impossible—yet suppose he was? ... That very day he switched to Lifebuoy. Now he's a favorite with everybody—invited everywhere. "B.O." no longer robs him of popularity.
It is hard to realize that we may be guilty of "B.O." But just stop and think. We all perspire. Even on coldest days our pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste. True, we don't notice it. Our sense of smell quickly becomes deadened to an ever-present odor. But it's only too apparent to others.
Why, then, risk offending when it's so easy to be safe? Just wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Its creamy, refreshing antiseptic lather penetrates pores so deeply, purifies so thoroughly that "B.O." completely vanishes. And how good you feel after a Lifebuoy bath—how gloriously fresh and clean!
Keeps complexions radiant
Lifebuoy is a marvelous complexion soap. Watch dull skins freshen—poor complexions glow with radiant health. Its pleasant extra-clean scent, that vanishes as you rinse, tells you Lifebuoy purifies. Get some today.

CRASH KILLS NINE CHILDREN

Bus Driver's Death Makes Toll of Ten

train as brakes were applied and then a sickening crash. He looked up to see No. 19 bearing down, wreckage on its locomotive, sparks flying from nearly locked wheels grinding on the rails and debris still in the air or rolling along the right of way. He and the train crew summoned help but when ambulances arrived all but three of the 10 children, and the driver of the bus, were dead. Two others died on the way to a hospital.

Surgeons with the ambulances found a tragic scene. Torn bodies were strewn and scattered with school books and lunches. A half eaten apple told how one child had raided his lunch. Another had been drawing a comic picture and the half finished work was among the wreckage.

Only Mary Davidson, aged 9, was left to tell the story.

"I was sitting right up in front talking," she told her nurse late today. "I think there must have been two trains. Anyway, we stopped while one went past. Then we started again. Then the bus broke to pieces."

That was the best that Mary could do, injured as she was, to recount the tragedy to which she was the only surviving witness.

The dead were taken to Berea undertaking establishments, where parents gathered to claim the bodies.

Mellon Wants Burden Lifted

they would be better able to prepare their cases."

Schafer tried to get Mellon and Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, who also appeared to endorse the proposal, to discuss industrial alcohol diversion in Illinois, particularly with reference to W. T. Raleigh, Freeport, Ill., perfume manufacturer. Raleigh has been prominent in advocating low tariffs in recent months.

Doran was reported today to be preparing to leave the government service when and if the transfer is made by congress. Officials would not discuss the report, although it was said Doran has received several offers from industrial alcohol manufacturers. Doran originally was a chemist in the prohibition unit.

Plan "Illogical"

Mellon said the original Volstead act plan to place prohibition enforcement under the internal revenue bureau was "illogical."

The treasury secretary said he did not believe the issuance of industrial alcohol permits belonged either in the treasury or in the justice department, but it should be left in the treasury until a definite place is found. He approved the bill by Chairman Williamson of the committee, which in addition to the transfer would give the justice department a final say-so in regard to the treasury's issuance of alcohol permits.

The ultra-wets kept up their fire from the floor of the house, which was passing prison reform bills. Representatives Dyer, Missouri; Schafer, Black, of New York, and Laguardia, New York, all wets, made speeches charging the repeal of the prohibition law would relieve the prison congestion.

state first as a county attorney and later as assistant attorney general, with his wife. She went across the small court yard and back to the jail with him. Friends stopped them occasionally on the way but Brady's weary expression never changed as he met them. He showed his 59 years plainly.

The prosecution summoned two new witnesses during the afternoon, Tom Hughes, a baker at a Texas university dormitory, and his wife. Assistant County Attorney Hardy Hollers refused to say what the Hughes were thought to know about the case. They have never figured in reports as important witnesses.

Judge Moore and counsel for both sides were determined to get a jury here if 12 men with the qualifications can be found. Judge Moore said that if the present panel is exhausted without yielding up nine more jurors, "we'll keep calling them." He sent all witnesses away again until Monday morning, and everybody settled down for three or four more days of work with venires.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

Met Jake Price on the street Wednesday morning with a smile on his face. No wonder he was smiling. Mr. Price is manager of the Municipal Gas company. Wichita Falls has gone so far through the cold weather without any gas shortage. To supply the extraordinary demand for gas brought by the severe cold is an extraordinary feat and Mr. Price's company has done it. This has been done through splendid organization and preparation and good luck, for even with the most careful preparation there is always the chance of an accident somewhere to upset plans.

Gas is brought to Wichita Falls and other cities in North Texas by the Lone Star Gas company through a system of 25 gas fields, 1,000 wells, 25 compressor stations and 3,500 miles of main high pressure pipe lines.

Twelve hundred miles of telephone lines keep a chief gas dispatcher in touch with the cities on the line and the compressor stations. A chief dispatcher always sits at a central point. A drop in temperature anywhere on the system is reported to this dispatcher who sends an order to one or more compressor stations to put on more pressure. The big pumps are speeded up and almost before the gas user sitting in his office or home knows there has been a drop in temperature the gas pressure at his furnace or stove has been raised or at least maintained.

We must always admire efficiency and we must say that in this emergency the Municipal and Lone Star Gas companies have been highly efficient.

Perhaps Mr. Price was smiling also because the gas meters were going around so rapidly.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 22.—At a meeting of the new directors of the Graham Chamber of Commerce held Wednesday afternoon following the annual banquet Tuesday evening all officers were reelected. They are H. E. Griffin, president; J. J. Gallaher, vice president; J. W. Maddox, vice president; H. L. Thornton, treasurer, and Ed C. Burris, secretary. At the meeting a number of problems and projects to come up the coming year were discussed. The board of directors is composed of S. S. Bates, J. S. Criswell, A. B. Eddleman, H. E. Griffin, L. S. Graham, J. W. Maddox, A. A. Morrison, S. B. Street, H. L. Thornton, and R. V. Tidwell.

ATTENDS RITES FOR FATHER

Mrs. L. R. Fanning of 704 Harrison street, daughter of Samuel A. Killon who died at his home in Magdalena, N. M., several days ago, has returned to Wichita Falls after attending the funeral services held in Magdalena. Mr. Killon, a former resident of Wichita Falls, was at one time connected with Gus Randolph in the blacksmith business here. He is survived by the widow; three sons, Bert Killon, of White River, Ark.; Charles Killon of Amarillo, and D. L. Killon of Clifton, Ariz.; one daughter, Mrs. Fanning of this city, and one brother, Denver Killon of Graham.

PIONEER TEXAS WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Virginia Lavender, 91, Here 13 Years

Mrs. Virginia Lavender, 91, pioneer resident of Lamar county and a resident of Wichita Falls for the past 13 years, died about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of her son, C. A. Lavender, 1411 Fourteenth street.

Born in Macon, Ga., in 1839, Mrs. Lavender moved to Paris, Texas, about 53 years ago. Her husband, a Confederate war veteran, died in that city about 30 years ago. Since moving to Wichita Falls in 1917, she had made her home with her son.

The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary. Definite plans were not made Wednesday night but the body will probably be forwarded Thursday to Paris for interment.

Railroad Trainmen Have Dinner, Dance

A group of about 100 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, local No. 499 and the women's auxiliary enjoyed a meeting, supper and dance held in the rooms of the Odd Fellows hall Wednesday night, according to E. H. Halbert, president of the trainmen's organization.

Several state officers of the brotherhood were in Wichita Falls for the meeting. The supper was followed by dancing and other entertainment. Music was furnished by Elliott's band. Special radio entertainment was furnished through the courtesy of the Phonograph shop, Mr. Halbert said.

Two Initiated at DeMolay Meeting

Harry Lewis and Henry Anderson were initiated into the Order of DeMolay at a ceremonial of Hope chapter held in the chapter rooms at the Masonic temple Wednesday night when a large crowd of DeMolays and Masons were present.

Fred Husbands was elected master councilor of the chapter in an election held following the ceremonial. Other officers elected were Odell Ballew, senior councilor, and Gayle Dishough, junior councilor. Installation of the new officers will take place at a meeting in the near future.

Bown Urges Giving Contract to U. S. Lines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Postmaster General Brown advocated awarding ocean mail contracts to vessels in which the United States has a financial interest at a hearing today before the house merchant marine committee. Representative Davis, Tennessee, ranking Democrat of the committee, declared himself "opposed to any form of favoritism" in questioning the postmaster general.

Dallas Editor Found Dead at Street Corner

DALLAS, Jan. 22. (AP)—Wilber Shaw, 36, editor of the magazine The Dallasite, was found dead early today at a street intersection in the residence district.

Although no marks indicating a serious injury were found on his body, police expressed the opinion that he had been hit by a motorist and died of exposure. Death by freezing was the verdict returned at a coroner's inquest.

Powers To List Naval Aims Today

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The American, British, French, Italian and Japanese delegates to the five-power naval conference played hide and seek over London today in final exchanges of views before the first business meeting at St. James's palace tomorrow morning, when the chief delegates are to outline the general naval needs of their countries.

From early morning until late tonight the big limousines, flying national flags, slipped through London traffic from embassy to embassy and back and forth from Downing street.

With quiet talks in the seclusion of their own headquarters and at the residence of the British prime minister, the delegates endeavored to remove preliminary difficulties and reach an understanding before buckling down to actual work.

Historic old St. James's palace is ready to receive the most cosmopolitan gathering in its history.

The main conference will open in Queen Anne's old drawing room, an exquisite room decorated in rose and gold. The long dining room adjacent, where huge fireplaces give an air of homely English hospitality, has become the general meeting place for delegates.

County to Issue Poll Taxes to Foreign Born

Foreign born residents of Wichita county who are to receive their final naturalization papers before the July primaries may obtain poll tax receipts or exemptions now, Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, announced Wednesday afternoon.

According to Mr. Raley's interpretation of the law the receipts or exemption certificates, allowing the holder to vote, may be issued at any time up to midnight Jan. 31, although the last naturalization papers will not be final until shortly before election day.

activities towards succoring the game and feeding livestock.

Difficulties arising from frozen water pipes were manifold throughout the section. In Wichita Falls it was estimated that 150 families are being deprived of water by frozen mains. When the city fire department here answered a call and found the nearest fire plugs frozen efforts to thaw them out by building fires around them were futile.

Rising temperatures were expected in this section Thursday.

LAWTON STOCKMEN SEEK TO RELIEVE CATTLE

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 22.—Organized steps to bring relief to livestock in the Wichita mountains were launched by stockmen of this section today. They were fighting roads packed with drifted snow and the work is slow and laborious. Airplane observers report seeing a number of cattle lying on the ground.

Highways out of Lawton are still blocked, and have been for 48 hours. Road supervisors and helpers have been working strenuously to open highway 29 to the east and No. 7 to the west. Trains are running hours late.

The mercury again reached eight below Tuesday night but Wednesday's sunshine brought relief. Pipes have burst in every part of the city and many are carrying water from neighbors' premises while waiting for pipes to be repaired.

No reports of persons freezing to death have been received, although there have been two deaths caused by exposure. One death and several narrow escapes from death by gas asphyxiation have occurred. Five Lawton citizens whose cars stalled in a snow drift 12 miles east on highway 29 Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock were forced to remain in a sedan until daylight. Three are ill from the exposure and two suffered frost bitten feet.

Nine families, numbering 53 men, women and children, were quartered in the agricultural building at the Lawton fairgrounds today where gas stoves are kept burning and food distributed. Charity organizations are active in endeavor to see that none go hungry.

A covey of 15 quail which was being fed in Lawton Heights addition was found frozen this morning. Two doves that had sought shelter in a haystack were also found frozen. Although airplanes have been dropping grain in various parts of the county and on the reservation almost daily, sportsmen fear that a big majority of the birds have perished from the cold.

Rotary Club to Hear Talk on Open Forum

In connection with the proposed establishment of a similar institution in Wichita Falls, Elmer Scott, secretary of the Dallas Open Forum, will address the members of the Rotary club in its regular weekly meeting at noon Thursday.

Sponsorship of an open forum here has been suggested to the Rotary club, and Mr. Scott is to explain its operation and success in Dallas. The club has invited the membership of the Junior chamber of commerce to attend the meeting.

WIDOW WEEPS DURING TRIAL

Mrs. Waybourn Hears Insurance Described

Still later, over emphatic objection of defense counsel, the insurance policy was brought up in the story of a conference between Mrs. Waybourn, Middleton, and Judge E. H. Moss of La Grange, county attorney of Fayette county for seven years.

Judge Moss was allowed to tell his story only after the court had taken a recess to decide whether it should be barred as confidential between an attorney and his client.

He said Mrs. Waybourn and Middleton came to his office to pass upon the extension of a lien. During the conference, Moss said, he was questioned as to whether, if Waybourn should suddenly die, his children would get the property which she claimed, and who would get the insurance of his life.

"She appeared rather nervous," Judge Moss testified. The conference he said took place on March 5, 1928.

On cross-examination, the condition of Mr. Waybourn was brought out and attorneys suggested the probability that his death from heart disease was expected. At this testimony, Mrs. Waybourn burst into tears, sobbing for several minutes.

Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval?

MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone.

Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval.

A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients.

Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

ENDED HEAD COLD CAUSED BY TRYING TO START CAR

Doctor Showed Quickest Way to End Cold and Help Avoid Risk of Pneumonia

Acting on the advice of his doctor, Charles V Hutchins, like so many Wichita Falls people has found the quickest, safest and most pleasant way to end a cold instead of enduring needless misery.

When Mr Hutchins went to start his car several nights ago the starter got stuck. Working for more than an hour to get it started, he became so overheated that his clothes were wet with perspiration. Instead of cooling off gradually, he jumped into the open car, hurried through the chilly air to his appointment and developed a severe, feverish cold.

The following evening he called his doctor who advised Aver's Pectoral. Taking a tempting half-spoonful every 15 minutes, as directed, he was able to sleep without coughing. He continued the treatment and in a day or so, the doctor reports, his cold had disappeared entirely.

Note: Also other cases being reported daily in this paper—all certified by the attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral was hospital certified as the best medicine of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, surest relief—with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

BELGIAN TELLS OF DRY LAWS

Optimist Club Hears Talk On Prohibition

Members of the Optimist club were conducted on a brief travelogue-tour of Belgium Wednesday noon at their weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel when Charles E. Opitz of Antwerp spoke informally on the commerce, agricultural, art and customs in that country.

Reference to the operation of modified prohibition in Belgium elicited so many expressions of interest from his hearers that Mr. Opitz devoted the remainder of his time to answering questions from the floor. Belgian prohibition laws, which have been in effect about eight years, do not forbid the manufacture and sale of fermented liquors, such as beers and wines, the speaker said. Purchase of distilled liquors for home consumption is permitted, it was said, but such purchases must be for a minimum quantity of two quarts. The cost of such an amount of the commodity practically eliminates its purchase by those who would be offenders, the speaker said.

Mr. Opitz represents R. O. Harvey and company of this city in Europe, and has been in this city for several days in connection with the business of that firm.

Dr. J. P. Hicks of Los Angeles, who is conducting a school of evangleism at the First Presbyterian church, made a brief talk at the meeting, and D. F. Gerstenberger sang a group of solos, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker.

Last Rites Held for Civil War Veteran

Funeral services for L. M. Switzler, 84, Confederate war veteran, who died about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the residence, 404 Adams street, were held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the chapel of the Hines mortuary with Rev. John E. Wade, pastor of the Adams Street Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in Rosemont.

Mr. Switzler, born in 1845 at Warsaw, Mo., enlisted in the Confederate forces during the civil war at the age of 17, moving to Arkansas at the end of the war. At various times he was physician, druggist and educator. He moved to Wichita Falls in October, 1927. He had many friends in this city and in the other cities in which he lived.

Survivors include the widow, three daughters, Mrs. J. S. Hughes, Mrs. B. E. Howell and Mrs. Rex Skelton, all of this city; one son, C. W. Switzler; 18 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. A second son died in 1925.

HUSTON EXPLAINS HIS CONNECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, said in a statement tonight that "there is absolutely no ground for bringing my name into the suit filed by E. H. Price company against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and others.

Huston said the suit related to "the purchase of Florida land by the brotherhood made long prior to any connection I had with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which began in the summer of 1927."

"I undertook, as a public service, to assist that organization in disentangling its financial affairs and for that purpose became an officer of the brotherhood management corporation, and I have never acted in an individual capacity," he continued.

"The particular transactions were between the E. H. Price company and some of the brotherhood corporations and I was never given authority at any time by the brotherhood, prior to the termination of my connection with it, to even treat with them looking to a settlement."

SUIT SURPRISES BROTHERHOOD HEAD

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22. (AP)—Alvanley Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with headquarters here, tonight said that the $900,000 suit brought against his organization in New York today was "a surprise" to him. Johnston said he had not been informed of the action.

WOMAN BANDIT ON WAY EAST

Pennsylvania Officer Returns Mrs. Schroeder

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22. (INS)—In custody of Pennsylvania officers, Clem Dague and Mrs. Irene Schroeder, wanted for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, Pennsylvania state trooper, were en route east today.

Although Dague admitted participating in the shooting affray which resulted in Paul's death, the woman insisted she knew nothing of the slaying and declined to admit that she was Mrs. Schroeder.

Mrs. Schroeder was confronted yesterday by Patrolman Ernest Moore, Pennsylvania officer, who said to her:

"Hello Irene."

"My name isn't Irene," she retorted.

"Yes, it is," replied Moore. "I used to play with you and your brother Tom back in Wheeling, W. Va."

Moore also identified Dague, but was unable to identify the third member of the trio who was arrested with the other two after a gun battle. It was at first believed he was Tom Crawford, Mrs. Schroeder's brother. He said his name was Joe Wells.

Dague and Mrs. Schroeder yesterday decided not to fight extradition. While the brief hearing was in progress, Mrs. Schroeder held Dague's hand until a police woman was ordered to sit between them.

Before leaving here, Mrs. Schroeder was given an outfit of clothing to replace the shabby garments she wore when captured. A sympathetic Phoenix woman was the donor.

Advantages of Santa Fe's Proposed Colorado Branch Listed in Hearing

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Representatives from four states today gave testimony at an Interstate Commerce commission hearing here favorable to the Santa Fe Railroad company's 380-mile proposed building program to the north of this city.

Nineteen cities in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, and New Mexico and 14 industrial organizations representing heavy shippers in the territory involved participated in the hearing before Examiner Thomas F. Sullivan.

The only opposition developed was that of the Rock Island railroad to one 50-mile stretch of the proposed new lines, and that of two Colorado towns—Springfield and Lamar—which sought to have the route to the Amarillo-Las Animas trunk line changed.

The Rock Island objected to the branch from Dumas to Spearman, both in Texas, which would give the North Plains wheat belt a direct line into Amarillo and an all-Texas route to the gulf for its wheat.

All other intervenors and witnesses were on hand armed with statistics and pleas for a favorable decision to the program, which would serve territories in the Texas Panhandle, the Oklahoma Panhandle, southern Colorado and eastern New Mexico.

Santa Fe executives and citizens from cities along the proposed route, as well as from Pueblo and Denver, Colo., and other heavy shipping points, told how the new construction would open up much new territory to development, and how it would improve railroad service to a wide area between Denver and Amarillo and facilitate the movement of grain and other crops to the gulf.

J. R. Hitchcock of Amarillo, vice president and general manager of the Santa Fe western lines, outlined a comprehensive plan for giving the Southwest a new North and South trunk line through Amarillo; a cut-off for the transcontinental Santa Fe line between Kansas City and Albuquerque, which would avoid the steep grades at Raton Pass, and the linking up of three branch lines with the system's main lines. Each of the lines would open thousands of acres of farming land to settlement, Hitchcock declared.

Estimated cost of the lines was placed by Hitchcock at $15,532,000. One of the projects called for a 220-mile line from Amarillo to Las Animas, Colo., where it would tap two existing branch lines in Oklahoma and Colorado.

A second proposed line of 110 miles would run from Felt, Okla., to Colmor, N. M. This would shorten the distance of the company's present line between Kansas City and Albuquerque by way of Raton Pass by 70 miles.

The third line would be a branch of 50 miles from Dumas, where it would leave the Amarillo-Las Animas trunk, to Spearman, linking a gap in the Santa Fe line from Shattuck toward Amarillo. The extension would cross the Amarillo-Liberal line of the Rock Island near Morse, Texas, and the Rock Island protested its construction on the basis that the North Plains wheat belt of Texas was adequately served by its own road into Amarillo.

J. W. Stewart of Amarillo, chief locating engineer for the Santa Fe, estimated that two-thirds of all the country that would be penetrated by the lines was suitable for farming.

U. S. Judge Takes Slap at Prohibition

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 22.—Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough, in an opinion handed down today, declared unconstitutional that part of the federal prohibition law which permits personal injunctions against liquor law violators.

Judge Woodrough, in announcing his opinion, said the section of the law which permits personal injunctions has been a "dead letter" in the law for 10 years because it shocks common sense and common understanding of the constitution.

"Who thinks that when a bootlegger is placed under injunction that he will quit for the rest of his life?" the judge asked.

"The hope and expectation, and the only one is that the man will be placed in jail without the trouble of a jury trial."

BANK PROBE WAITS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The senate banking committee today voted unanimously to defer consideration of resolutions for an investigation of the banking situation until the senate had disposed of the pending tariff bill.

Mrs. R. H. Henry Dies; Body Sent Here for Burial

Mrs. R. H. Henry, 23, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and formerly of this city, died in Parkersburg last Monday. The body was forwarded to Wichita Falls, arriving late Wednesday accompanied by the husband.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon with Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Active pallbearers will be J. A. McFall, M. Waggoner, Eli Morgan, John Elder, G. W. Curd, H. C. Bowman and G. W. L. Spencer.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Henry is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Stockton of this city. The deceased before her marriage was a prominent business woman of the city and had many friends here.

DEATHS

MRS. L. M. TERRETT

Funeral services for Mrs. L. M. Terrett, 35, who died in a local hospital Monday night, will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the chapel of the Hines mortuary with Rev. S. S. Martin, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, officiating. The body will be taken overland by the Hines company to Charlie for interment following the services.

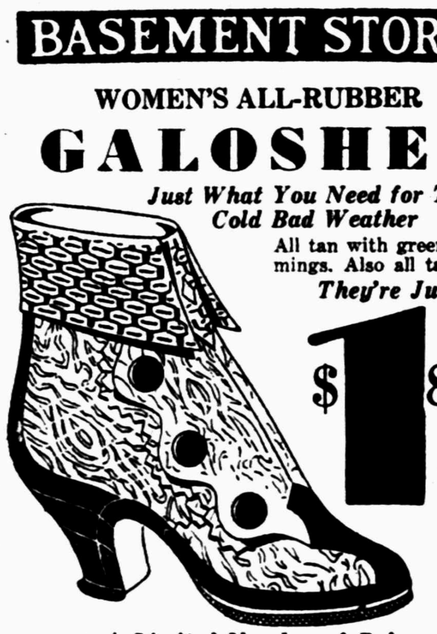

Mrs. Terrett is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lucy Terrett; two small daughters, Eilleen, 4, and Dorotha, 3; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Smith, Mrs. Ora Cook and Mrs. Jewel Freeman; a brother, W. F. Barfield, all of Wichita Falls, and two half-brothers, H. S. Vaden of Water Valley, Texas, and J. A. Vaden of Stamford.

Customs Fraud Charged By Borah's Affidavit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—An affidavit charging that the government was being defrauded of more than $200,000 a year in customs duties on Canadian grain imports at Buffalo under the duties on Canadian grain imports at Buffalo under the "over run" system was submitted to the senate today by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho.

Girls politely snubbed him
... until he discovered why .. "B.O." (Body Odor)

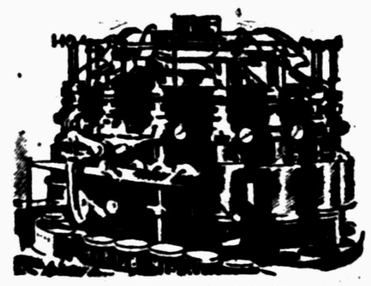

He couldn't understand it. All day long the incident bothered him. What had he done? Why had she left him so abruptly on the trolley that morning? Why did girls always seem to avoid him?
Suddenly an idea flashed into his mind. "B.O."—body odor. Could he be guilty? Impossible—yet suppose he was? ... That very day he switched to Lifebuoy. Now he's a favorite with everybody—invited everywhere. "B.O." no longer robs him of popularity.

Miss Mary Jo Kell Elected President Of Century Club

Miss Mary Jo Kell was elected president of the Century club when members met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Warner Zimmer in the Westmoreland apartments. Other officers named were Mrs. Dick Davis, vice president; Mrs. Van Lesley, secretary; Miss Thelma Fisher, treasurer; Mrs. John Barnard, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Almond Gates, reporter; Miss Helen Grisham, critic; Mrs. J. C. Strauss Jr., parliamentarian and Mrs. J. Warner Zimmer, historian.

The program committee named included Miss Gene Nelson and Mesdames H. B. Dudley and Darrold Kahn.

After members present had responded to roll call with assigned themes, the feature of the program was a review of Strachey's "Elizabeth and Essex," splendidly given by J. C. Strauss Jr.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames Dick Davis, H. B. Dudley, J. C. Foster, Almond Gates, Darrold Kahn, Van Lesley, Cecil Putty, J. C. Strauss Jr., Edwin Weldon and Misses Anabel Couper, Mary Jo Kell, Gene Nelson, Thelma Fisher and Marguerite McDonald with the hostess and one visitor, Mrs. George Cullum. Mrs. S. A. Man is a new member of the club.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We read that there are three distinctive types of dress in three diflengths, ranging from just below the knee to the floor.

When we know positively the only distinct type that will be worn by many women is that which is left over from the wardrobe of last year.

The associate editor of Harper's Bazaar says of style: "There is no other theme of so much interest to women."

We challenge the statement: even if the word "society" had preceded the word women, we insist that since the day when woman was simply a parlor ornament, she has developed many interests stronger than the latest style.

The subject has been taken up in some of the late magazines. Women are going to the bat (excuse the slang) for common sense clothes.

France has not led in good taste in all things; her artists and her men of talent have lagged behind other nations; why should Paris dictate styles to the women of the world?

Cellini sneered at French "bad taste" in his day.

A writer in the North American Review says that a bunch of cold-blooded business men met to decide what women should wear.

They do not ask, she says, what women want. They ask, "What do our pockets want?"

Every woman knows that the mills want women to use more quantity and that corset makers want her to use fitted dresses.

Dresses for several years have been made of four or any way five yards of goods. They could be put together without a series of fittings that kept a woman standing for hours while a dressmaker with a mouth full of pins took in a seam and redraped a fold.

Woman spent those hours in golf or bridge or club work. She laughed at the styles of the '90's as well as at the amusements of that era. And now the mauve decade is reaching out to enslave her again.

One society woman was given two dozen dresses by a French modiste on condition she wear them. Actresses and movie stars and needy aristocrats are, they tell us, being used the same way.

Will woman accept the silhouette and sweeping skirts? Not while she still has last year's clothes.

'Safety First' Is What All Women Want of Marriage

If a Woman Receives Appreciation Of All Her Efforts From Her Husband Married Life Is a Success; If She doesn't Get It Marriage Becomes Ashes in Her Teeth, Says Dorothy Dix.

What do women want of marriage? They want safety first. This is a primeval desire that we have inherited from our cave mothers who looked out for some place secure from danger in which to bear and rear their young. That is why every woman yearns for her own home and why every woman, no matter how emancipated she is, wants some man to cling to and protect her and to stand between her and the world.

Every woman wants to look up to her husband. She wants him to be stronger than she is, wiser than she is, more poised than she is and less dominated by emotions. She wants him to be a staff to lean on, a rock of refuge to which to flee in every time of trouble, and unless he is, marriage is a blighting disappointment to her.

It is true that you see women love weaklings. You see them love drunkards and philanderers and shiftless ne'er-do-wells, but the affection they give to these is not the love of a woman for her mate. It is a maternal love that is half pity, half contempt, and the woman is never happy herself or contented. Marriage has not given her what she longed for and expected.

A woman wants love in marriage. Above all earthly things she desires a husband who is a perpetual lover, and not a dumb one either. A girl nearly always says "yes" to her most ardent suitor, the one who has the most fiery line of love-making, and she looks forward to spending the balance of her days in an atmosphere of adulation with one who will tell her how beautiful and wonderful she is and how he couldn't live without her.

And as long as a man will feed his wife on soft talk he may fail to provide the beefsteaks and she will never find it out. As long as he will hold her hands she will cheerfully work them to the bones for him, as long as he will kiss her on the eyes she will be as blind as a bat to his every fault and shortcoming. At the bottom of every peevish wife's disgruntlement is the fact that her husband never gives her a kiss that isn't the peck of duty and habit; that he never pays her a compliment or notices what she has on and that he expects her to be mind-reader enough to know that he still loves her, even if he never gives any outward and visible sign of it.

Women want companionship of marriage. Women are gregarious creatures who dearly love the sound of their own voices, and when they marry the big idea is to get a steady to whom they can tell everything they think they think and who will entertain and amuse them by recounting the things he has seen and heard during the day.

Picture, then, the disappointment of the woman who finds out that in marriage she has acquired not a fireside companion but a human clam that nothing can make open up. In many a household a mummy could be substituted for the husband and the wife would never find out the difference so far as his conversational powers went. Nor does the woman who spends every Sunday and holiday alone while her husband is off playing golf consider that marriage is a gay and alluring adventure. If she had known that she would be left to flock by her lonesome, she would have stayed single where she could, at least, have had other men's society without scandal.

Women want justice in marriage. They put into it just as much as men do. A wife works just as hard and longer hours than her husband does. She makes more sacrifices on the altar of the home than he does. All that she has of body and mind and soul have gone into the firm of Benedict & Co., and she feels that she has the right to be treated as a full partner with a voice in the management of the firm and to receive her fair share of the profits.

And a woman feels that she has been cheated and flim-flammed and that marriage has been a losing venture for her when she finds out that she is married to a tightwad who will not give her a square deal and who expects her to work like a slave for her board and clothes. Perhaps the most blighting disappointment that ever comes to any woman is when her free-handed lover, who lavished gifts upon her in their courting days, turns into the niggardly husband who doles out nickels to her and asks her what she did with that quarter he gave her week before last.

Women expect faithfulness in marriage. Before he is married a man has the whole world of women from which to pick and choose, and when he finally does select one girl from all the others of her sex and asks her to be his wife, she naturally supposes that she comes up to his ideal and fires his fancy and is what he desires in a life companion. Also, she concludes that, being an individual of reasonable intelligence, he will not marry until he is ready to settle down.

Fancy the shock of surprise and horror with which she realizes that man is still an imperfectly domesticated animal and that it is harder to keep one penned up in a home than it is to keep a wild lion in a cage and that when a woman marries her real work begins because it is a hundred times as difficult to keep a husband as it is to get one.

And, perhaps above all, what women want most in marriage is appreciation. They resent being taken for granted. They don't begrudge the work they do for their families nor the sacrifices they make for them, but they want their families to give some indication that they have at least known when a dinner is good and that mother is tired after she has watched for weeks beside a sickbed. They don't want to have to be a female Sherlock Holmes who will deduce that their husband still love them from the fact that they haven't been divorced and there are no flappers on their horizon.

They want their husband to tell them that in their eyes they are better looking than they were when they were girls and that they love them more and more every day. They want their husbands to tell them that they bless heaven for having bestowed them upon them as wives. They want kisses that have passion and romance in them instead of those that taste like flabby buckwheat cakes.

And if women get appreciation in marriage, it is a success. And if they don't, it is ashes in their teeth.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. Jno. F. Sippel Named Candidate For Re-Election

Notices have been sent out by the State Federation of Women's Clubs of Maryland that it is presenting again as a candidate for the national presidency, Mrs. John F. Sippel, who was elected president at the biennial held in San Antonio.

The national federation will hold its meeting in Denver in June.

Mrs. Sippel is the only national president, besides Texas' own president, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, who has ever visited in this state. She was present in two state federation conventions and was the guest of the Woman's Forum in the autumn of 1928 when she delivered an address at the November luncheon given in her honor.

She is a great favorite, it is said, with the federated clubwomen of Texas.

Baritone's Radio Audience Expects Unusual Concert

Reinald Werrenrath, who will sing at the Memorial auditorium Monday night under the auspices of the Musicians club, was one of the first of the first rank artists to broadcast, and also one of the first to record for Vitaphone.

He has sung successfully, of course, and received many thousand applause letters on the Atwater Kent and Victor radio hours.

His voice lends itself specially well to broadcasting, and that charming informality and intimacy which is so attractive when Mr. Werrenrath is on the concert platform also manages to communicate itself over the air to his invisible audiences.

For this reason, many who have heard him in radio hours are looking forward, it is said, to his appearance Monday night.

C.-C. Board Cancels Meeting Thursday

Directors of the chamber of commerce will not meet Thursday night as formerly announced, according to officials of the organization, owing to the absence of J. S. Bridwell, president.

Mr. Bridwell is in Houston in connection with the effort of independent oil operators to obtain adjustment of the new schedule of prices on crude oil, and will not return in time for the scheduled meeting, it was said.

Appointment of standing committees for the year, selection of which was interrupted by the trip to Houston, will be announced within the next few days, officials stated.

Mrs. Caldwell Illustrates Talk Given Travel Club

After a roll call answered by the names of Paris shops and designers, the program on France was continued Wednesday when members of the Junior Travel club met in regular session at the Forum clubhouse.

Mrs. W. H. Caldwell was leader for the day and made an outstanding talk on "In and About Paris," illustrating the talk by throwing on the wall with the aid of a mirror-scope, pictures from postcards she had gathered on a tour of Europe. Intimate personal knowledge made the talk of particular interest, it was reported.

Mrs. E. T. Duff gave a splendid paper on "A Night in Paris," and "The Chateau Country" was beautifully described by Mrs. E. A. Deaton.

Members present were Mesdames O. T. Alles, W. H. Caldwell, E. A. Deaton, E. T. Duff, R. O. Kenley Jr., Thelbert Martin, J. A. McFall, W. J. Morgareidge, C. C. Myers, I. R. Sheldon, Wayne Somerville, G. H. Watson, G. K. Wilson, O. W. Wilson, D. O. Johnson, Clyde J. Brannan and John Humphrey, with one guest, Mrs. Esther Williams of Chico, Texas.

"Ordinary soaps can do great harm"

says the famous beauty expert

CARSTEN of Berlin

"Daily cleansing with Palmolive Soap is the basis of all my treatments, even the most elaborate"

Facade of Carsten's famous beauty salon on the Kurfurstendamm in Berlin one of the most elegant shops on an avenue famous for its smartness.

Ordinary soaps can do great harm. Modern beauty specialists advise a soap made of vegetable oils . the pure oils of palm and olives. Palmolive Soap is safe for the most sensitive complexion. It leaves the skin in the best possible condition for a beauty expert's treatment."

Leo Carsten

KURFÜRSTENDAMM 200, BERLIN

Today, more than ever before, it is important to wash the face with this soap containing olive oil... safe, bland, non-irritating.

"NEW beauty treatments, such as ultra-violet rays and radio-active preparations, undoubtedly have their value in certain conditions of the skin, but it must not be imagined that older and simpler methods are superseded," says Leo Carsten, proprietor of the famous "Figaro" beauty shop on the Kurfürstendamm in Berlin.

"Soap and water, for example, are still the finest possible cleansers for the skin," he adds. "You will realize the importance of this when I say that daily cleansing with Palmolive Soap is the basis of all my treatments, even the most elaborate."

Herr Carsten, better known as "Figaro," is head of the leading beauty salon in middle Europe . . . located on one of the most fashionable streets in the world. He, himself, is well known in Berlin social circles as well as in the world of beauty science.

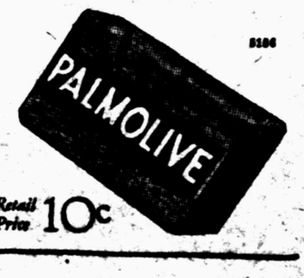

18,900 famous experts agree

In this shop . . . in other beauty shops patronized by the smart women of the world's leading capitals . . . the advice to use Palmolive is part of every recommended home facial treatment.

Palmolive is made of the oils of palm and olives . . . no other fats whatever. Its color is the natural color of those oils. Its natural odor makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes.

This is the Palmolive treatment

This is the way to get the best results: make a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Massage it into the face and throat. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. That's all. Yet thousands of great beauty experts, millions of their clients, find it the most effective safeguard for beauty. And Palmolive costs so little that one uses it for the bath, of course, as well. Begin these twice-a-day treatments tomorrow. They will protect your skin from irritation . . . keep it fresh, glowing, lovely.

18,907 Beauty Experts advise Palmolive Soap! Never before such overwhelming professional endorsement!

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THERE'S MORE IN THE LITTLE ONE!

TAKE this big package of soap bubbles in your left hand. Take this smaller package of White King in your right. Which is the heavier?... Well, you see how it is!

The answer is that White King's granulated and condensed form permits it to pack closer in the carton, like powdered sugar. So you really get more soap from the smaller package.

White King Granulated Soap is economical for another reason. A little goes so far! A teaspoonful in a basin of water for fine lingerie—a cupful for the washing machine. And it's absolutely pure—if water won't hurt it, White King won't. At your grocer's.

NOTED INDIAN PREACHER DIES

Henry Land's Life Ends in Tucson, Ariz.

SAPULPA, Okla., Jan. 22. (UP)—The life of civic achievement of Henry Land, 73-year-old Creek Indian, ended today at Tucson, Ariz., a message to his family here said.

For 40 years Land was a Baptist preacher among the Indians and translated the first Baptist song book for his tribesmen. Although a minister, he was a venerable member of the Creek house of warriors.

Added to his ministerial work, he was a pioneer in education work, both before and after the coming of the white man to Indian territory. He aided in the establishment of the Euchee Indian school and served as its superintendent four years. He built Dewey college, Sapulpa's first school for white children, before there were any public schools in this city.

He was known as the builder of the first hotel and opera house here. That was before the country was settled by white men.

After his period of ministry had passed Land acted as interpreter for R. M. Loughridge, pioneer Presbyterian missionary to the Creeks. He served as clerk of the Creek nation's supreme court and for many years was a leading Indian attorney in the practice of criminal law.

The aged Indian's body will be brought here for burial. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Salina Land, who is ill at Tucson and five children, Paul Land, Indian attorney here, John Land, Mrs. Helen Johnson and Knaustaway Land, all of Sapulpa, and Samaria Land of Tucson.

Hale County Dairy Products Net $210,000

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Jan. 22.—Sufficient proof that prosperity follows the dairy cow was demonstrated in Hale county in 1929 when farmers in the vicinity of Plainview received an average of $20,000 each month for their butterfat marketed in this city. At the same time local buyers were shipping out 800,000 pounds of butter and 164,250 gallons of cream. The total received by the farmers for their butterfat in one year was $210,240 for 525,600 pounds.

The above figures compiled by the Plainview board of city development indicate the tremendous amount of new wealth that is coming not only to Hale county but to every county in the Panhandle of Texas as the direct results of increased interest in purebred dairy stock.

Memphis Reports First Mishap Due to Ice

Gov. Holloway Has Breakfast of 'Pop and Peanuts' on Stalled Train

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 22. (UP)—"I was where I could not be reached by telephone or telegraph and it was certainly a relief," Governor Holloway said today relative to his having been snowbound for 22 hours Tuesday and Tuesday night between Tuttle and Mustang.

"We ate peanuts and drank soda pop for breakfast and lunch and it was just like home in Arkansas," the governor said.

Holloway was among the 60 passengers snowbound on the Frisco, who arrived in Oklahoma City about 6 a. m. Wednesday.

The governor had been to Altus where he made a speech Monday night at a county-wide gathering of the chamber of commeree.

"I got up about 6 a. m. Tuesday, thinking I was in Oklahoma City and found we were snowbound.

"Everybody made more or less of a picnic of the affair and there was little inconvenience aside from some of the women and children not having proper food.

"The 'news butch' had a plentiful supply of everything except fruit. What little fruit he had was soon exhausted and we made out on peanuts, candy and pop.

"On an occasion like this one doesn't miss breakfast as much as one would think.

"We were comfortable throughout the experience. At 2 p. m. it became evident we would soon be without heat, unless aid got to us as the water in the engine was running low.

"All passengers were assembled in the Pullman and about 3 p. m. another engine from Chickasha got through and hooked on to us and relieved the fear of no heat.

"The new engine pulled us six miles back to Tuttle where we were able to obtain hot food. We got to Tuttle about 4 p. m. and stayed there on the siding until the track was opened at about 4 a. m. this morning. We then came on into Oklahoma City getting here about 6 a. m."

A relief expedition was sent out in automobiles from the adjutant general's office late Tuesday in an effort to rescue the governor and other passengers but this expedition turned back at Wheatland. They were unable to get through because of drifts.

Trade Board Flays U. S. Farm Board

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 22. (INS)—The federal farm board, as it is functioning at present, is "using government and public funds to interfere with prices and legitimate business," a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Kansas City board of trade, charged.

The stinging resolution called the attention of the United States Chamber of Commerce to the activities of the board. The resolution, the contents of which were made public today, was adopted by the board of trade at its meeting last night.

The agricultural committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which meets tomorrow in Washington, was asked to consider the charges outlined in the resolution.

Texas House to Probe Highway Offices Built at Tyler

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (INS)—Investigation of the action of the state highway department in erecting an office building in Tyler is provided for in a resolution adopted by the house today. It was introduced by Representative T. T. Bond, of Terrell.

The resolution calls for the creation of a committee of three members to inquire by what authority and from what funds the building was constructed. It was attended by lengthy and heated debate.

"Every time we get an efficient state department," Representative Walter Beck of Fort Worth, declared in opposing the resolution, "somebody wants to appoint a smelling committee to have it investigated."

The resolution was approved over his strenuous protests.

Vernon Answers Appeals For Aid During Cold

GANGSTERS' FOE STIFLES BOMB

Prosecuting Attorney Escapes Possible Death

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (INS)—The federal government's drive to purge the gang-ridden village of Melrose park of alcohol terrorists was speeded up today when Edward Markham, assistant state's attorney, reported an attempt to kill him by placing a bomb in his automobile.

Investigators have found a motive for the bomb plot in the prosecutor's activities against a powerful syndicate of alcohol cookers and terrorists who have made the village their headquarters.

Hearing an outcry from his 11-year-old son, Markham ran from his home thinking his son was being kidnaped. Two men fled from his garage at his approach, one of them turning to fire a shot point blank which missed the prosecutor.

Going into the garage he found the two had been working at the ignition wires in his automobile to connect up the bomb with the starting device in such a way as to cause an explosion when the car started.

United States marshals brought in to halt the reign of gang terror reported that former Chief of Police Rocco Passarella and Patrolman Emil Ristau, who disappeared Thursday, have not been killed as it was supposed.

Ristau and his wife were found last night at the home of Mrs. Ristau's mother, Mrs. Hannah Olin, in Aurora, Ill.

They declined to explain their absence.

The two "honest cops" were told to leave by two trustees and a third village official to prevent them from testifying after making a series of raids, federal agents declare.

Cowboy Mayor of Omaha, Neb., Dies

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Jan. 22. (INS)—Pans were made here today to return the body of James Dahlman, 73-year-old "cowboy" mayor of Omaha, Neb., to that city for burial.

Hundreds of messages expressing sorrow poured into this city this morning when announcement was made that Dahlman, who came here recently for his health, had died during the night. A stroke of apoplexy was the cause of death.

Dahlman spent his youth riding the plains of Texas and at one time was sheriff of Dawes county, Texas. His ability to handle cattle rustlers earned him an envious reputation throughout the Lone Star state.

Except for one term, Dahlman served 21 consecutive years as mayor of Omaha. Dahlman launched his political career as chief lieutenant to the late William Jennings Bryan.

BRANIFF CUTS WICHITA FARE

Rate to Oklahoma City Now Posted at $6.50

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 22. (UP)—Another drastic reduction in international air line and air-rail rates were announced today by J. D. Lewis, operating vice president of the Universal Air Lines.

Standard rate over the Braniff division of the Universal lines which runs through Oklahoma City will be approximately five cents a mile, to come under rail and Pullman fare to a number of nearby points, Lewis said.

From Oklahoma City fares to surrounding points served by the line will be as follows:

Tulsa, $6.50; Chicago, $42.60; Wichita Falls, $6.50; Dallas, $13; San Antonio, $25.58; Kansas City, $19; Fort Worth, $11.50; Houston, $28.20; El Paso, $41.70.

All reductions are effective at once, Lewis said. The fares include transportation to and from all airports and allows each passenger 25 pounds of luggage.

Love County Board Appeals Tax Ruling

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 22. (UP)—The Love county excise board today filed an appeal in the state supreme court from an opinion handed down by the state tax review court on a tax protest brought by the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad.

The tax review court recently sustained the railroad company's protest against Love county placing interest accruing from notes held after sale of a municipally owned light plant, into the general funds.

The court held the interest must be placed in the sinking fund since the light plant was built with bonds voted by the people.

Before Baby Comes

Ease and Comfort for Expectant Mothers

The muscles, tissues and nerves must "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges. Much pain and suffering may result. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have used "Mother's Friend"—that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-relieving, which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician—and have been relieved of the strain and the pain, the discomfort and the nervousness that result from the distension and the stretching of the skin and the tissues which attend this delicate condition.

Mother's Friend lessens pain

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the coming months. It is so soothing and relaxing. It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.00 per bottle. Try a month's supply tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed to you free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. F, Atlanta, Ga.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves . . . the lure of a graceful, modern figure . . . don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commended—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

THE PARROT FEVER

Daily Editorial

A SUFFICIENTLY enlarged cross-section of whatever metal, far from showing a solid, impermeable mass, would disclose particles of matter arranged in helter-skelter fashion, very much like a slice of cheesy stone.

Dr. Jeffries, president of the American Society for Steel Treating, says that we can increase the hardness of any ore to an indefinite degree, by reducing the size of its unit crystals, and then laying them tight against each other in exact rows.

That's about what occurs when tungsten is forced through a hole one-thousandth of an inch in diameter. Even glass, which we assumed to know its own business, discovers itself three thousand per cent more compact after such atomic compression.

Steels, harder and denser than diamonds, and aluminum alloys of incredible wear resistance, are en route from experimental laboratories to motor plants, machine shops and aeroplane factories.

And that isn't all, by a jugful.

A different casting method which enables seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of equipment to duplicate the work of two and a half million dollars' worth of paraphernalia, has successfully demonstrated that ingots, ready for the rolling mills, can be cast in whirling drums at a saving of five dollars per ton, besides eliminating fifteen per cent of waste, inevitable under the best present practice.

Which means that industry, during the next decade, can take a several billion dollar tuck in overhead with a corresponding lowering of construction and manufacturing costs.

The news throbs with further cuts for automobiles, tin plate, household utensils and agricultural implements.

THE FIRST way of doing everything is thriftless and expensive. And so are the second, third and fourth procedures.

None of our formulae are utterly precise or free from loose habits.

That's why no concern can feel certain of permanent leadership.

There's always some bright young man with a jimmy in his brain, preparing to break into the field and steal the market for a simpler-produced and abler-engineered article.

Cocksure enterprises, of any dimension, invariably emerge from their day dreams on laurel mattresses, to find wider-awake competition setting the pace and getting the orders.

Foresight alone survives. Managements that aren't in touch with test-tubes, research developments and patent office filings, are in the predicament of nations without a cross-check on the arsenals, hangars and naval bases of rival powers.

"Eternal vigilance" and success are inseparable partners.

The unexpected consistently happens. Complacent Sheffield underestimated the significance of King Gillette's wafer blade, and forever lost command of the razor blade.

The once strongly intrenched wagon-builders of the United States discounted the gasoline cloud that suddenly appeared above Detroit and promptly joined the Dodo Club.

The parrot fever, which so unduly disturbs us all, has actually raged, in a more disastrous form, beyond recorded memory.

Ninety per cent of society is hopelessly infected with the tendency to repeat blindly what yesterday thought best, instead of taking cues from tomorrow's evident trends.

The last thing you want—and get—in this life is an obituary.

An Eye-Opener

SINCE near-zero temperatures entirely unorthodox for this community continue to predominate despite our many imprecations, some measure of consolation might be gained from a search for whatever concealed benefits exist in the situation.

Recognition of the valuable deposit of moisture in the soil will be general. Crop growth in this vicinity during the coming year will be greatly enhanced by the considerable amount of water provided, and if the present ice and snow be removed by a gradual thaw, the absorption of moisture by the soil will be the most ideal for the greatest good.

There may be other considerations, too. Houses already built and occupied in Wichita Falls probably will receive little alteration, although some individual owners improve foundations and have their plumbing revamped before another winter rolls around. But those who build residence or business property here in the future may recall the drastic climatic conditions of 1929-30, and give the occupants of such buildings the benefit of greater protection against blue northers. Foundations will be sunk low enough, and built of such material that the rush of Alaskan ozone may at least be interrupted before raising the floors. Water pipes and drainage lines may be given more protection, both above and below ground, to save their users and owners the painful inconvenience and expense which are being so commonly experienced now in the city.

From this angle, as well as from that of tall-tale telling, the present climatic scourge should be remembered.

A Voyage of Discovery

GIFFORD PINCHOT, former governor of Pennsylvania, has returned from the South Sea islands, and his three-masted schooner yacht will lie at anchor in Savannah harbor until next spring, when it will go out on another voyage of discovery.

The world is full of yachtsmen, and their comings and goings don't ordinarily draw much attention. But there is something about Mr. Pinchot's sailings that sets them apart, somehow, and gives them an especial interest.

When he was a boy in high school, Gifford Pinchot dreamed of sailing away to the South seas and examining the mysterious islands of that enchanted region for himself. He grew to manhood and found himself too busy to do it. He got into politics and wound up as governor of Pennsylvania; yet all the while that dream stuck in the back of his mind, waiting to be acted on.

So, at last, when he found that he had time enough, Mr. Pinchot got his yacht, invited friends and relatives to go along and set sail. He went to the South seas, he came back, and he is planning to go again in the spring; and the rest of us, who will never get the chance to put our own boyhood dreams into operation, would give a good deal to know if he really found what he was looking for.

For this business of hunting the lost islands that we glimpsed when we were young is the riskiest kind of navigation a man can attempt. Those islands aren't on any chart. The canniest skipper is apt to sail right by them without knowing they were there.

We don't know what Mr. Pinchot's experience was. To be sure, he found indubitable islands, in the South seas. He went ashore, looked at the rocks and bushes, talked to the natives, and very likely took a number of photographs. But whether the shade of that high school youngster of long ago was really satisfied is something else again. No one knows but Mr. Pinchot, and he will never tell.

Those distant shores, in reality, are impossible to reach. They are one landfall that no voyager ever makes. Even Magellen himself must have found that there were some coasts that his bark could not gain. The real horizon is eternally unattainable.

All of this, of course, is only another way of saying that the world never quite comes up to our early imaginings. We surmise that it has enchanted islands and mystic valleys, but we can never get to them. So we have to be content with what we can get.

But it isn't a total loss. What if we can't make our dreams come true? At least we have had them; and, having had them, we know that we are meant for something that this world cannot give us. We can have confidence. Later, perhaps, there will be a greater voyage.

A Prophet With Honor

AMERICANS who have given any attention to Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, during recent months will be inclined to feel that the ovation given him at King George's banquet for naval conference delegates at the Savoy in London Monday night was a sincere response to his convincing personality.

There are elements in the speech and bearing of Mr. Stimson which readily inspire confidence. His discourse is remarkably free from high-sounding phraseology. It presents briefly but clearly, in terse sentences, the conclusions or observations of a mind which impresses you with its incisiveness.

When speaking, he appears restrained to the point of commendable modesty without sacrificing the tone and expression of sincere conviction. His manner is that of a straightforward business man, intent upon a fair and equitable exchange.

If Mr. Stimson's encouraging brand of statesmanship may be evaluated according to the assembled leaders' reaction to his first commitment, our present secretary of state will add materially to this country's prestige in the movement for world peace.

Lions Hear Talk on Education of Blind

Progress made in the education of blind persons was discussed before members of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon by M. C. Hanks, international lecturer for the blind.

The speaker lost his hands and eyesight several years ago as a result of a dynamite cap explosion in a Colorado mine of which he was part owner.

Work done by Lions International in behalf of improved facilities for teaching arts and trades to blind persons of this country was commended by the speaker.

Melvin Jones, general secretary of Lions International, is expected to be present at the first inter-city meeting of the year, to be held at the Wichita club on Feb. 10, it was announced.

The coming of Reinald Werrenrath, American concert baritone, to the Memorial auditorium next Monday night under the auspices of the Musicians club, was announced by Frank Cripliver.

"LOVEJOY" : By : Beatrice Burton

What Has Happened Before

Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife are happy with their baby and tiny bungalow until their wealthy neighbors, the Aldersons, come into their lives. Mrs. Alderson, whose husband is elderly, has an affair with a man named "Jack." Tom's suspicions are unjustly directed to Lovejoy when Jack telephones and hangs up abruptly. Lovejoy speaks to Mrs. Alderson about it. When Lovejoy takes Tom to a card party at the Aldersons', Norrie Shane comes to look after the baby. Lovejoy is amused to discover Norrie's fondness for Tom. Steve Oglebay, Lovejoy's former sweetheart, is present. When Tom receives attention from another girl, Lovejoy is furious. Going out with Steve, she asks him to kiss her. She wants to get even with Tom. Next morning mutual recrimination takes place. Tom compliments Norrie Shane on her appearance. Lovejoy is peeved. She hires a maid in spite of Tom's objections. Then daily letters arrive. They are for Mrs. Alderson but Lovejoy has agreed to receive them for her.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XVII

"There was a mail-box key in the house when you and Mr. Nicholson rented it," Mr Jervis, the landlord, told her over the telephone. If I have another one made for you I'll have to add half a dollar to your rent this month."

If he did that Tom would be sure to ask him what the extra money was for. And when he found out that it was for a mail-box key he would wonder why Lovejoy wanted to keep the mail-box locked. It always had been unlocked, and they never got any important letters anyway.

"Never mind then, Mr. Jervis. I'll take care of it myself," Lovejoy said when she thought it over, "Goodby."

But she did not take care of it. There was no locksmith in the neighborhood. And if she telephoned for one to come to the house he would probably charge for his time as well as for the key itself.

"I'll just watch for the mail-man instead of letting Hilda do it," she made up her mind.

For the next two days she did watch. But no letters came from South Port until Thursday afternoon. Then two came.

They came at half-past one while Hilda was getting dressed for her afternoon off.

"I'm going to run over to Mrs. Alderson's for a minute, Hilda," Lovejoy told her, tapping on the door of her bedroom. "Please stay here until I come back. I don't want the baby to be left alone."

Aline was in the living-room, buying linens from a swarthy oily little man whom she called "Ben." He had two suitcases of them open on the floor, and when Lovejoy came in he was unfolding a large tablecloth of cream-colored lace.

For a moment Lovejoy forgot the letters she had brought with her.

She stood stock-still in the doorway, her eyes darting from the lace cloth to the suit-cases on the floor.

"What lovely things!" she cried and went down on her knees beside them. "Baby dresses! Luncheon cloths! Pillow cases!"

"Yes—and you look at them while I read these," Aline said to her, stooping to take the letters out of her hand. "I'll be right back."

She marched out of the room, opening one of the letters as she went. She came back 10 minutes later, and by that time Lovejoy had bought a baby dress and a tablecloth with napkins to match.

"I can't afford any of these things," she said to Aline, "But I'm going to buy them anyhow. I'll go back home for the money."

She had cashed Tom's check and there were four $50 bills rolled up in a pair of her silk stockings in the bottom drawer of her dressing table.

She separated one of the bills from the others and took it back to Aline's house. Ben gave her back $20 in change.

"I spent thirty bucks on linens today," she told Tom that night when they were idling over their coffee at the little dinner table.

He frowned, and she went on:

"Now I need some new glassware and some silver. Then I'll be all ready to give a party. We'll have to have the Aldersons over to dinner some night, and I thought we'd ask Norrie and Steve Oglebay, too."

Tom did not say a word.

"I know you're jealous of Steve," Lovejoy went on after a second, "but we don't know any other men to invite, do we?—And I'm jealous of Norrie, so that makes us quits."

She laughed at that. But Tom didn't.

"Gosh all hemlock! I don't know that we ought to give a party, even a little one, just yet," he said quietly. "It costs like the dickens to have people in for a meal."

Lovejoy's black eyebrows went up. "You forget that I have almost $200," she answered, "and if I want to spend some of it on an evening's entertainment it's my own business, it seems to me. You always said that running the house was my affair."

She would have said more than that. But just then Hilda came in to carry out the empty coffee cups.

The presence of Hilda in the house had completely spoiled things in a way. Living with Tom wasn't half so much fun as it had been before she came, Lovejoy often told herself.

The two of them had always done the dishes together. They had always prepared breakfast together, and they had shouted at each other from room to room, like two children playing house.

But all that was over now. For the house was so small that Hilda always seemed to be in the same room with them—a stranger as well as a servant. They were ill at ease whenever she was within hearing-distance. And she always was there, of course. They had no privacy at all.

And yet it's a comfort to have her—if only to look after the baby. Lovejoy thought the next morning as she dressed to go downtown and start shopping for glassware and new sofa cushions and silver plate for the dining room table.

It took her two days to spend the $170 that she had left. But she spent it all on silver and glass and cushions and a big crystal tray to hold cigarets.

"I haven't a cent left to buy food for the dinner," she told Tom blankly that second night when she showed him all the new things.

She had expected Tom to be angry.

But he laughed in a good-natured way.

"You ought to be shot for spending all that money on things that we don't need," he said, pulling her down on his knee in the old lover-like way and putting his face against hers. "But I had another stroke of luck today. I sold another big block of bonds and I'll have a pretty nice lot of money to turn over to you on Saturday, Mrs. Nicholson. So you can have your party, anyway."

Lovejoy turned in his arms and kissed him on his mouth.

She would have done it again. But just then the kitchen door squeaked and Hilda came into the dining room, her hands full of dishes.

Lovejoy jumped up from Tom's knees and shook herself impatiently.

"If you keep on making money like this," she said, "I'm going to start looking around for a decent house. We can't live in this box-car of a place much longer. We've got to have a place with back stairs and a back bedroom for Hilda so she won't be under our feet all the time!—I declare I can't even kiss you any more with any comfort!"

Tom nodded. But the tiny frown that had been on his forehead so often lately came upon it again.

Lovejoy didn't see it. She was examining the green glass cigaret box that she had bought that day, and her eyes were bright with satisfaction.

"I'll never rest until I have a new house and loads of lovely new things for it!" she said.

Tom made a noise in his throat that was a half snort and half a sigh. "I don't expect much rest until then, either," he remarked drily.

Early the next morning Lovejoy telephoned Norrie, and Norrie promised to come for dinner on Saturday night.

"Tom will come for you," Lovejoy told her, "in his car."

Norrie'll get a terrific boot out of a ride with Tom, she thought cheerfully when she hung up the receiver but he's safe with her.

Norrie, she told herself, had about as much emotional appeal as an ice-box.

A little later she telephoned Steve Oglebay at his office.

"We want you for dinner on Saturday night—Tom and I," she told him. "Please say you'll come, Steve. You're one of the few friends I have, and I've missed you so much the last year."

As a matter of truth she had hardly missed him at all. But it was always good policy to flatter men a little. They loved it.

"I'll be glad to come," said Steve, "7 o'clock?"

At six on Saturday night he sent a big box of pale pink roses to the little house in Stallings lane.

And at 10 minutes before seven, while Tom was on his way to get Norrie Shane, he came himself.

Lovejoy had seen his car stop before the house. Her color was high and her heart was beating fast when she opened the door to him.

"I'm so glad you came early, Steve!" she told him breathlessly. "We'll have a few minutes to ourselves. Tom's gone for Norrie Shane."

She was one of those women who never really let go of a man so long as they can possibly hold him. She didn't want Steve Oglebay—and yet she hated to lose him, somehow.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Tough on the Parrot

Every winter America has to have a new malady and this year it is Parrot Fever. Due to a successful publicity campaign, it has gone over big and at the present moment any person who feels a little feverish while living in proximity to any green bird leaps into bed and demands a consultation of doctors.

PHILLIPS

It's a tough break for Pretty Polly. The woods and parks are full of parrots thrown out by frightened owners and many a bird has been killed and stuffed in the ash-can for the mere reason that the owner's annual attack of asthma had returned or that the lady of the house felt feverish sitting in an unventilated room beside a hot stove.

Doctors, when baffled, used to attribute any illness to tonsils or teeth but 1930 opens up with them taking your pulse and then asking suspiciously, "Have you a parrot in the house?"

There are present indications that family pets are going to have a hard year. The discovery of goldfish gout is almost inevitable. All that is required is for some newspaper to appear somewhere with a story that Luke McPhootle, 35, white, is in bed with a puzzling illness, which is being attributed to goldfish sickness (Pigerrotsis). Twenty-six new cases will break out the next day in that community and from that time on no goldfish in the country will be safe.

Other Possible Maladies

House cat chills (Jsitticarorosis): A strange malady contracted by fondling kittens. The first symptom is a tendency of the patient to purr. A slight fever follows during which the victim will drink milk only out of a saucer. A craving for liver, fish and catnip follows. The alarming point is reached in about five days when the patient exhibits a strong desire to sit on a back fence at night and cry weirdly.

Pomeranian Pneumonia (Gsippippitts): This is believed to be caused by proximity to dogs. The patient feels nervous, irritable and slightly goofy, whirling around in circles in pursuit of an imaginary tail. Headache ensues, followed by a desire for beef bones. The crisis comes on the tenth day and is marked by a tendency to growl at the wife and bite the doctor.

Canary Rickets (Bjiccicissis): The patient first shows alarm when he notices feathers on his waistcoat after reading a newspaper under the bird-cage. He or she then develops a rash and tries to fly across the room or swing from a chandelier. Little can be done about it.

Why Fat
WHEN SO MANY FIND IT
EASY TO REDUCE

All can see everywhere that countless people have found the right way to fight fat. Slender figures now prevail. Excess fat has largely disappeared. Mark the people you know who in late years have gained new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, by combating fat.

One great reason lies in the discovery that most fat people have an under-active gland. Its failure to control nutrition permits too much food to form fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, combat that cause.

Their method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. People have used Marmola for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. And the results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

Why retain your excess fat when so many have ended theirs? Go try their method—try it now. Get Marmola, read the book in the box. Take four tablets daily, as directed, and watch the changes that occur. Do this in justice to yourself, to please your family and friends. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Health and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

Obstructive Hepatic Jaundice

Obstructive hepatic jaundice is much more serious than the simple catarrhal jaundice, and the skin and mucous membrance may range in color from a bright lemon or orange to a greenish black. In the latter case it is called black jaundice. The jaundice is chronic, the patient frequently has sweats, suffers from boils and has itching of the skin. Because of the absence of bile pigment from the feces their usual color is changed and they appear a chalky gray. Both the urine and perspiration show quantities of bile. The urine may vary from yellow to green in color, and enough bile may be in the sweat to discolor the clothing. In jaundice of this type practically no bile is making its way into the intestines.

In order to produce a cure it is necessary to find out what is causing the stoppage. Among other causes may be gall stones, since jaundice is usually present in cases of gall stones. When a large stone slips into the duct from the gall bladder, it may cause the duct to dam up. A chronic inflammation of the duct may also cause it to swell and thus obstruct passage of bile.

The presence of growths in the abdomen will sometimes stop the flow. Even during pregnancy jaundice may be noticed. In long standing constipation where there is impacted material in the hepatic flexure of the colon, sometimes there is enough pressure to produce jaundice. If the colon is prolapsed, the liver and ducts escape this pressure, but some jaundice may be caused anyway, since the body re-absorbs the bile from the intestinal walls when the emptying of the colon is greatly delayed by obstruction.

Sometimes kinks or adhesions of the gall ducts will also produce this type of jaundice.

A very careful diagnosis is necessary in each case to discover the exact cause before one can determine on the best method of correcting it. The dietetic method proves very successful in handling most cases of jaundice, and often the whole trouble can be cleared up with no other measures. However, the right type of abdominal massage is often of great value, especially in cases of kinks, adhesions or pressures from obstructions. Usually a two weeks' grapefruit fast is advisable in beginning the treatment. If the two weeks' fast does not bring about a recovery, I usually advise a change to the buttermilk fast, as this will generally be found helpful in aiding the stored up bile to be removed.

In addition to the dietetic regime, other treatment should be introduced, as indicated by the causes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pneumonia

Question: J. G. asks—"What are the symptoms, cause and effect of pneumonia? Does it leave the health wrecked? Can a person have pneumonia more than once?"

Answer—Pneumonia is a very serious disorder, and usually follows a heavy congestion of the lungs, such as would be caused by influenza or a deep cold. There is usually an expectoration of a large amount of purulent mucus, and and some temperature, although most of the time this is not very high. One can have pneumonia several times during one's lifetime, but each attack causes a severe injury to the system and a scarring of lung tissue from which one perhaps never wholly recovers.

Lead Poisoning

Question: A. L. P. asks—"When a person uses large amounts of white lead in his employment, is there any special danger in drinking quantities of milk as a prevention against lead poisoning? Does milk counteract the lead in any way?"

Answer—You should endeavor to avoid the white lead touching your skin if possible so that you will not absorb so much of it. Drinking large quantities of milk, or of a milk diet, is sometimes used for the treatment of lead poisoning—the principal help being in the large amount of liquid producing elimination.

Asthma

Question: Mrs. L. H. writes—"Please tell me what you think of osteopathetic treatments for a boy six years old who is troubled with asthma."

Answer—Osteopathic treatments would be of great help to the boy but he should have a correct diet and certain breathing exercises. In this way he can be entirely cured. If you will send me your name and address I will forward the diet instructions necessary to the treatment of asthma. For additional help, have the boy take the osteopathic treatments.

Permits for Work on Homes Total $32,750

Building permits totaling $32,750, a sum amounting to more than the entire previous total for the first 22 days of this year, were issued in the office of the city engineer Wednesday. The permits were for construction of two homes in Country Club Estates and repairs on two other homes.

Claude Woods is building one of the residences, a $16,000 home at 2200 Berkeley drive, and Ed Howard is constructing the other, a $15,000 home at 2024 Berkeley drive. Repairs amounting to $1,500 on the home of Dr. C. M. Simpson at 1204 Rosewood street and to $250 on that of J. C. Mann at 1665 Elizabeth street were also designated in the permits. Wednesday's total brings the year's permits to $52,391. Each of the permits Wednesday was taken out by Mytinger & Walker.

Volunteer Purchases Boost Deep Oil Fund

With all personal solicitation checked effectively by continued arctic weather, subscriptions to the capital stock of the Deep Oil Development company continue to mount at a satisfactory rate by voluntary remittances, according to Harry Hines, general manager.

Thirty-four separate subscriptions were received in one day recently, it was said, and the total amount of stock now sold is more than $725,000.

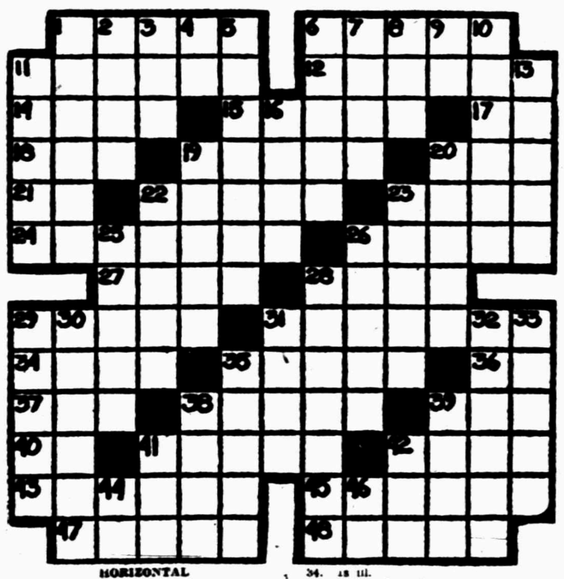

All papers for the incorporation of the concern have been completed, it was said, and permit to do business in Texas has been received.

Completion of the entire capitalization of $1,000,000 within a short time was predicted by Mr. Hines.

Schools Provide Loans for Players

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 22.—Tired of the hide and seek of col-egiate sport, eight Tennessee and irginia colleges in the Smoky ountain conference have come ut of the bushes to sanction di-ect loans to their athletes for three ears.

Directed by W. O. "Chink" Lowe, onference athletic commissioner, hese schools set out in 1926 to liminate deception and under-over financing which Lowe be-ieves are evils of the usual method f paying school expenses of in-igent athletes.

"It's for the good of the player, ot the team," Lowe explains.

The plan applies to football and ther athletics, but football play-rs receive the principal benefit.

"We don't mind a player getting utside help so long as he tells us bout it," Lowe said. "The thing hich will bar him is a lie."

The essentials of the plan are:

Each athlete upon entering col-ege fills out a card showing wheth-r he receives aid other than from is parents.

If other help is received, whether a loan or gift, the amount and ame of creditor or donor must be iven.

Schools in the conference are ree to loan up to $300 annually o any student.

If the card shows no outside aid, and the commissioner learns the player is receiving aid, he is barred permanently from confer-ence competition.

If the card shows he is receiving aid, that's all right, loan or gift.

Schools under Lowe's supervision are Milligan, King, Tusculum, Emory and Henry, Carson-New-man, East Tennessee Teachers and Maryville Lincoln Memorial.

DODD KEEPS COOL AND WINS

Lanky Tennesseean Is Team's Mainstay

By PAUL SANDERS
(Associated Press Feature Service Writer)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 22. (AP)—The boy whose heart pumps ice water.

That's Bobby Dodd, who has quarterbacked Tennessee's football team two seasons in its three-year stretch without a defeat and who is the main spring of the Vol bas-ket ball outfit.

Ranking with the few great quarterbacks brainy enough to be reckoned coaches on the field, Dodd applies the same tactics to basket ball and his style is so effective that Tennessee is up with the lead-ing contenders for the Dixie cage title.

A lean, lanky and languid-look-ing lad from the hills of east Ten-nessee, Dodd is the coolest custo-mer Tennessee ever has had. He refuses to get excited and with Dodd around, nobody else gets ex-cited.

He has handled the fiery Gene McEver and Buddy Hackman, the touchdown twins, so well that they have run riot on southern gridirons two seasons. His markmanship with punts and passes have been two of the biggest factors in Ten-nessee football success.

In an all-star charity game in At-lanta between teams from the northern and southern divisions of the Dixie conference, Dodd quarter-backed 'em dizzy and stole the show with Hackman as a mighty helper.

Playing guard in basket ball, Dodd is one of the Vols' leading scorers and is generalissimo of the defense.

In the spring he devotes his time to baseball, playing first base.

Bobby will be back with Hack and Mack on the gridiron next fall. But the touchdown twins have be-come a triumvirate.

Tigers Awarded Football Sweaters

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 22.—Mon-day morning during the chapel ex-ercises in the high school audito-rium the Electra high school Tig-ers were presented with football sweaters. Coach Harvey Stanford made the presentation of the sweat-ers to Captain Bill Crass, Captain-elect Aubrey Smith, Hub White, Morris McDannald, Veryl Hughes, Othal Loftin, Paul Head, Millard Welch, Ray Johnson, Coye Sande-fer, Woodrow Brashara, Joe Smith, Brooks Adams, Leonard Curfman, and Kermit Koerth. After the boys received their sweaters, Supt. B. M. Dinsmore, in behalf of the athletic association, presented Coach Stan-ford with a sweater similar to those given the boys in appreciation of the valuable work he has done as coach of the Tiger squad.

Billiard Wizard to Give Exhibition Here

Expenses of Special Session Cared for by Action of House

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (INS)—The house finally passed today, a mileage and per diem bill car-rying and appropriating $150,000 to pay the salaries and expenses of the present special session of the legislature.

A resolution was adopted in the house to have a joint legis-lative committee of seven mem-bers, appointed to investigate the amount of state lands owned in Travis county. The commit-tee would also investigate over-crowded conditions in capitol buildings and the amount of rental being paid by state de-partments now occupying pri-vate office buildings in Austin.

GOLFERS END DAY WITH TIE

Smith and Espinosa Lead Agua Caliente Field

AGUA CALIENTE, LOWER California, Mexico, Jan. 22. (AP)—Like a staunch ship weathering a storm, Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo., professional rode a gale to-day into a dual leadership of the Agua Caliente $25,000 open golf tournament here. The close of the third round, with but 18 holes to play tomorrow, found this young and most consistent money win-ner in tournament golf sharing hon-ors with Al. Espinosa, Chicago vet-eran, with cards aggregating 224 for the 54 holes.

Mariners in quest of golf in early days prayed for such a gale as blew here today, but golfers in search of the greatest purse of money ever offered to them—$10,000 to the winner—did not relish it. It blew all hopes of par playing into van-ished expectations. Five over par was the best card turned in today, this honor being shared by Al. Es-pinosa and Johnny Dawson of Chi-cago, one of the high ranking amateurs in national golf.

The second bracket, with cards aggregating 225 for the 54 holes, was shared by Al. Watrous, De-troit; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Calif., and Charles Guest, Los An-geles.

The Dutra brothers, of Spanish descent, who threatened the Scotch-men yesterday with the low cards of 72 each, placing Olin Dutra in the lead of the tournament and Mortie not far behind, today were blown back to cards of 79 each. Tomorrow is the last day of the tournament.

Phelan Placed On Boxing Commission

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—The New York state athletic commis-sion filled its roster today with the enlistment of Brig. Gen. John U. Phelan, commander of the 93rd brigade of the national guard. General Phelan will fill the va-cancy left by the resignation of George E. Brower, who became district attorney for Kings county.

For several weeks the choosing of the third "solemn solon" to help Chairman James A. Farley and the solid man of sport, 85-year-old Wil-liam Muldoon, minister to the needs of boxing, has stirred up a slight political storm. For a time it appeared that David F. Soden of Brooklyn was certain of the ap-pointment, made by Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn. Soden withdrew his name yesterday.

General Phelan, at one time com-mander of New York's famous 69th regiment, was also the center of the storm that rose in New York political and fistic circles in 1926 when the late Tex Rickard matched Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney for a heavyweight title battle. Gen-eral Phelan, then chairman of the license committee, an adjunct to the athletic commission, refused Dempsey a boxing license and forced Rickard to make the match despite Chairman Farley's conten-tion that Harry Wills, the giant negro, was the logical contender.

Phil Scott Due To Arrive in U. S. Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (UP)—Less than six weeks after he was stretched on the canvas at Madi-son Square garden gesturing that Otto von Porat had fouled him, Phil Scott returns from England tomorrow morning aboard the liner Homeric to meet Jack Sharkey in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.

After referee Jack Dempsey awarded him a doubtful victory on a foul over Von Porat, the English heavyweight champion left for home, with the jeers of New York boxing fans still ringing in his ears, convinced that he was forever ruined as an attraction in this coun-try.

But memories are short down cauliflower alley and James J. Johnston, Scott's American repre-sentative, is the shrewdest and most influential boxing manager in New York City. A little balking on Sharkey's part, a little ultima-tum on William Muldoon's part and a little dickering on Johnston's part and the match was made.

Polish Plugger to Race In Boston Saturday

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (US)—Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish plug-ger, will get his baptism of board-floor running in the Boston garden Saturday night. The erstwhile center of A. A. U. controversy, barred from two meets in New York City because of "suspicious circumstances" surrounding his coming here, will engage in the two-mile run at the William C. Prout Memorial games. A. A. U. sanction for Petkiewicz's American debut has been granted by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the union, it became known.

One of the boys Petkiewicz will race is Harry Richardson, of the University of Maine, co-holder of the intercollegiate cross-country championship.

San Antonio Indians To Practice at Home

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Just by way of being different the San Antonio Indians will do their spring training in San An-tonio. Northern ball clubs work off winter fat and limber up arms at San Antonio, so why shouldn't the local ball players do the same?

Manager Homer Hammond has a contract with the government to use the Fort Sam Houston ball park, which is an excellent grass field. The training season will start March 10.

Art Shires Got Biggest Thrill as Star of 1924 Waxahachie Grid Team

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Art Shires has accomplished much and received considerable publicity since he left Waxahachie five years ago, but the so-called "Great One" says his greatest athletic thrill came when he was wearing the football uniform of Waxahachie high in 1924.

The local high school team was playing its arch rival, the Hills-boro Eagles. The game was near-ing an end and the Eagles were leading, 7 to 0, when Shires, play-ing quarter for Waxahachie, hurled a long pass which Lowell Kelly caught over the goal line for a touchdown. The try for point failed and Hillsboro still was lead-ing, 7 to 6.

Led by the aggressive Shires, the Indians kicked off to Hillsboro, and held the Eagles for downs and the ball went over on the Eagle 40-yard line. Three plays failed to gain and Coach A. A. Scott of Waxahachie sent in Leroy Wilson, now of Dal-las, to try for a place kick. Wil-son could not talk on the first play, but Shires knew that Scott wanted him to try a place kick. The Great One, however had other plans. He didn't let Wilson do the kicking. Instead, he told Wilson to hold the ball while Shires did the kicking.

52-Yard Goal Kick

The ball was passed back to Wil-son, who held it on the Indian 48-yard line. Shires kicked and the ball sailed 52 yards over the cross-bar, giving the Indians a 9 to 7 victory.

Whenever they get together Hills-boro and Waxahachie fans still talk about that 52-yard place kick of Shires that won the game.

Playing Shires in football caused Waxahachie to be suspended from the interscholastic league, but Waxahachie won the baseball championship the following spring as the league officials has nothing to do with that sport.

Shires played first base and pitched on the Waxahachie baseball team in 1925, alternating with "Peck" Jones, who later played with the Kansas City Blues and other professional baseball teams. There was a great rival between these two players and one was loath to let the other out do him.

That year Waxahachie went to Rotan, out in West Texas, to play a series for the state champion-ship. Jones hurled the first game and allowed only one hit.

Pitched One-Hit Game

Shires got sick that night. Some said he suffered the attack so that he would have an alibi if he did not also pitch a one-hit game the next day.

The Great One showed his critics that he needed no alibi for in the second game he allowed only one hit, giving Waxahachie the state title. A committee of fans voted him the most valuable player on the team and gave him an award. The Indians won 24 games without meeting defeat that year.

Coach A. A. Scott of the Indians says that Shires was the most ag-gressive player ever to perform on the local team, but that he did not play his position any better than several other teammates.

Several of the men that played on the high team with Shires later performed in professional base-ball.

While at Waxahachie Shires was just as fearless a fighter as he is now. One day he and a teammate left a certain small business estab-lishment in Waxahachie after a lit-tle trouble. The proprietor fol-lowed Shires to the door, drew a gun, and ordered him never to re-turn. Onlookers had to hold Shires to keep him from taking the gun away from the proprietor.

During his career here, Shires was known as "Shifty" and "Chesty." He was called "Shifty" because of his fast footwork in fielding the first base position. No one needs to be told why he was called "Chesty."

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Holding their slate clean for the season, the Tech Matadors swept their two-game series with the Ok-lahoma Christian college basket-eers, winning tonight's tangle here 41 to 24. Clarence Hodges scored 18 points for the winner, and Mad-dox ran up eight for Oklahoma.

SNIFFING OF NEIGHBORS CAN'T REMOVE HIS STILL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—His still, be-lieves C. W. Nelson, at last can bub-ble in peace and quiet.

He is seeking a new fuel for in-ternal combustion engines, but the neighbors are suspicious. They sniffed alcohol, which he uses for a base, and called the police.

The police came, looked over the plant, and left. The neighbors called the sheriff. A squad of depu-ties came, looked and left.

The neighbors had that try-try-again spirit and phoned federal pro-hibition agents. They also put on a come-look-go act.

Now there's nobody else for the neighbors to call.

PETITION ASKS NEW PRORATION

Action Follows Meeting of Oklahoma Operators

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 22. (UP)—A petition asking an order for further proration in all major pro-ducing oil areas of Oklahoma was filed today with the state corpora-tion commission by Wirt Franklin, Oklahoma City oil operator.

Hearing on the petition was set for Jan. 27.

Additional curtailment in poten-tial production was asked for the East Earlsboro, Oklahoma City, greater Seminole, Logan county Allen dome, Sasakawa and Pear-son-St. Louis-Asher areas.

Filing of the new petition fol-lowed the recent meeting of Okla-homa operators at Tulsa when plans of production curtailment, to prevent further price reduction, were formulated.

The petition asks that beginning with Jan. 31 and extending to March 31, all wells in the Okla-homa City field be curtailed 75 per cent of their potential production and if the time proration is ap-plied be divided into classes A, B, C and D with each class of wells permitted to produce three days and thereafter remain shut in for nine days out of each 12-day pe-riod. Authority, however, was asked for the umpire and operator committee named in the original order, to further reduce the output or to increase it to 33 1-3 per cent of potential production as the oil demands fluctuated.

A 56 2-3 per cent curtailment in the East Earlsboro field from Jan. 15 to Feb. 28 was asked with the operators committee empowered to reduce the output to 25 per cent of potential or to increase it after Feb. 28.

The petitions requested that starting Feb. 1 and continuing to March 31, all wells in Logan coun-ty, the entire greater Seminole dis-trict, Allen dome, Sasakwa and the Pearson-St. Louis-Asher areas be prorated by curtailing potential production 30 per cent.

The petition states that probable demands for Oklahoma crude from this time until March 31 will be approximately 600,000 barrels a day and that the potential production of state fields is 900,000 barrels daily and in February and March will approximate 1,000,000 barrels a day.

The applicant further alleges that since issuance of the original order, and owing to circumstances over which the producers had no control certain purchasing com-panies have curtailed their taking of crude oil and others have re-duced the price and that further demoralization is threatened.

If this should happen, the peti-tion continues, it would force abandonment of many old small wells in the state which if pre-served would ultimately produce large quantities of oil.

State Deaths

P. A. WALKER

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 22.—P. A. Walker, prominent farmer of Dod-sonville, Texas, died suddenly Sun-day after an attack of acute indi-gestion. He had just eaten a hearty dinner and had gone to town where he had been enjoying a game of checkers at the Dodson-ville Drug store. He arose from the game and remarked that he had a severe pain in his chest, and a doctor was called. Mr. Walker fell to the floor of the drug store and within a few minutes was dead.

The deceased had resided in the Dodsonville community for a num-ber of years, and was well known. He had a large number of friends in and around Hollis.

FREEZE HALTS FARM ACTIVITY

Deliveries of Poultry, Eggs And Milk Blocked

Residents of the rural districts, who are responsible for activity in agricultural, poultry and dairying production, are frozen in quite as completely as the industry in which they are engaged, according to information brought in from those sections Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the county's staff of workers succeeded Wednesday in making numerous brief trips into the country surrounding Wichita Falls, and found practically all families hibernating to the maximum extent possible as a result of the severe weather. Save for providing feed and water for livestock and poultry, all work in the rural sections is firmly padlocked beneath a heavy blanket of ice and snow.

Deliveries of chickens, eggs, milk and other routine commodities have almost stopped during the past week, dealers here stated.

Unless a quick thaw develops within the next day or two, according to G. C. McGown, county farm agent, much of the moisture contained in the ice now on the ground will be lost. Slow melting of the ice, above a frozen soil surface, sacrifices most of the resulting moisture to the air. A maximum of 24 degrees registered Wednesday afternoon, with a forecast of continued cold, offered no great promise of the desired thaw.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Cotton continued quiet but showed a generally steady tone again today on trade buying and covering which was probably promoted by steadiness in Liverpool and reports of a steady spot situation in the South. March contracts sold up to 17.40 and closed at 17.38 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 7 points.

Reports of continued cold weather in the belt attracted some attention, but failed to stimulate any general interest.

Toward the close some trade buying was reported while there was a little more covering which appeared to be supplied by the realizing of early buyers. Expectations of comparatively light figures from the census bureau on ginnings prior to Jan. 16, may have helped the undertone of the market but were not generally mentioned in connection with the buying.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22. (AP)—Extreme dullness featured today's session of the cotton market and there were long intervals between trades. Prices fluctuated within a range of 1 to 2 points for practically the entire session. With the ginnings report due tomorrow there was little disposition to trade on the constructive side and fears that the farm loan board through the new marketing association might support the market was said to stifle any desire on the part of bears to sell short.

There was some activity in final trading which was attributed to a good European demand, both here and in New York. March contracts advanced to 17.24 and closed one point under that figure for a net gain of 4 points. The general market closed steady at net advances of 3 to 10 points.

Although Liverpool cables were about as expected the market opened fairly steady. First trades showed gains of 1 point and prices gained a point additional after the start with March at 17.21 and May at 17.45, or 2 points up.

This range prevailed all through the greater part of the session with only occasional trades. January contracts, which expire Saturday, showed unusual strength, advancing to 17.08, or 10 points up. Uncertainty as to acreage for the new crop was named as another factor in checking the desire to trade.

Towards the close evidence of foreign demand stimulated some activity here and active positions sold up 4 to 5 points from yesterday's close. Final prices were at or near the best and showed a small net gain for the day.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Liverpool cotton cables were unchanged to one point higher, and opened unchanged to 1 lower. Chicago market opened unchanged to 2 points higher. There was little change in prices during the forenoon but the market strengthened a little in the afternoon and closing was at top prices for the day, 3 to 7 points net higher.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Cotton goods were in a little better demand for converting. Wash goods are being bought steadily. Fine goods show a moderate gain. Burlaps were unchanged. Raw silk was unchanged. Silk merchandise is being bought steadily for cutting purposes.

Entire Stock List Has Strong Tone As Further Improvement Is Made

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (US)—Further price movement was scored in the stock market today although the pace of the advance in the early hours was not sustained throughout the session. For a considerable part of the day the entire list showed a strong tone, with substantial gains being registered in various issues. The buying at times was of hurried character, probably in large part reflecting covering by shorts. This opinion was confirmed in some degree by the failure of the market to hold the early betterment to the close. Nevertheless, industrials finished the day up more than half a point on the average and rails scored an equal improvement. The more aggressive activity was noticeable in lower-grade stocks, the leading stocks being inclined to remain comparatively quiet and finishing with only moderate change. Thus, U. S. Steel closed off ⅜ of a point, while American Can showed no change at all.

Even the motion picture stocks after their display of strength were inclined to yield to profit-taking and perhaps additional bear pressure, but most of them closed higher on the day. Radio-Keith, in which manipulation has been more evident than in the others, attained a new high on the recovery before reacting, while Paramount lost most of its early gain. Basis for much of the recent buying of R. K. O. was belief that it might eventually secure control of Loew's by buying the Fox interests in that company. Loew's acted best of the entire group. Fox was the temporary sensation of the day, enjoying a brisk run-up which at one time represented a four-point gain. Considerable short-covering took place as the volume of trading in the stock at increasing prices expanded to considerable proportions. The activity, however, was disclosed as a temporary flyer by a speculative group which quickly took profits. The situation in Fox apparently has not changed in the last few days despite the desperate efforts to straighten out the tangled affairs.

More encouraging trade reports from the steel industry resulted in some display of strength by these stocks, Steel common running up across 171 while the independents showed greater strength. Newton Steel reflected renewed buying which resulted in an advance of 2⅜ points. Copper stocks continued under pressure as various reports were spread concerning the action by the leading producers to protect the present price level for the metal. It is thought likely they will determine upon additional curtailment of production.

Heavy selling developed in U. S. Industrial Alcohol which forced the issue down sharply and sympathetic weakness broke out in Air Reduction, which owns a substantial block of Alcohol. The liquidation was inspired by reports that Union Carbide has developed a new process for producing industrial alcohol at lower cost than existing processes. Carbide was firm throughout the day. Greater attention will probably be directed toward the other Carbon stocks, in view of the known large-scale programs for development of their business. Columbian Carbon, which is generally regarded as the unit of the Standard Oil interests for development of natural gas resources, was steadily acquired throughout the recent break. Estimates of materially larger earnings with full development of the natural gas business have not been revised. Renewed activity in Columbian will probably develop with expiration of the rights.

Short covering, which played an important role in the entire market's better performance, was most noticeable in Radio and Montgomery Ward. Both stocks enjoyed a firmer appearance on steady buying, divided between the shorts and people who have been attracted to both former bull pets by their relatively low price compared with the fantastic heights to which they were boomed in the bull market.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Wheat values went strongly upward at times today but re-acted later influenced by word that big export sales from North America were mostly Canadian. Meanwhile, the trading basis for United States hard winter wheat on the Gulf of Mexico was firm, touching the best figures yet this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at ⅛c net decline to ⅛c advance; corn finished ⅛c off to ⅛c up; oats ⅛@⅛c to ⅜@⅛c advance, and provisions 5c to 7c down.

Much notice was taken of a statement issued today by one of the larger grain houses here pointing out that the speculative trade was bullish some months ago when the price of wheat stood at $1.60, although the cash wheat situation then was bearish, whereas, now with the price more than 30c lower speculators are largely bearish, despite cash wheat being in a strong position to respond to any increased demand. Persistent buying of wheat future deliveries here went hand in hand today with such advices.

Corn prices appeared to be governed chiefly by the action of wheat. Oats reflected smallness of receipts. Provisions declined, owing largely to setbacks in the value of hogs.

SERVICES HELD FOR DR. TYSON

Rites for Physician Said at Christian Church

Funeral services for Dr. L. C. Tyson, physician and ranch owner of Wichita Falls for the past 37 years, who died Tuesday at the family home, 1512 Tenth street, were held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the First Christian church, with Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, officiating. Interment was in Riverside under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Classes of the high school and Junior college were dismissed at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to enable students and teachers to attend the services. Mrs. S. H. Rider, daughter of Doctor Tyson, was a member of the administrative faculty of the high school for many years and Mr. Rider is at present dean of the college and principal of the high school. Besides the teachers, Doctor Tyson and his children, all of whom attended school here, numbered scores of students among their friends.

Born in Rome, Ga., Nov. 26, 1849, Doctor Tyson came to Wichita Falls in 1893 following a period of residence in Arkansas where he moved after the civil war. He retired from active practice of medicine in 1919 after more than a quarter of a century of activity in this section. At that time he turned his practice over to his son, Dr. W. S. Tyson, who died in June, 1928. The aged man's health began failing soon after the death of his son.

He was also interested in ranching and irrigation, having owned and operated a ranch near this city for many years.

MRS. J. A. STREET

The body of Mrs. J. A. Street, 70, who died in a local hospital Tuesday morning, was forwarded Wednesday morning to Winters, Texas, by the Hines mortuary. A daughter, Mrs. C. A. Floyd, accompanied the body.

MRS. LIZZIE TAYLOR

The body of Mrs. Lizzie Taylor, 59, of Strong City, Okla., who died in a local hospital about 4 a. m. Wednesday, was forwarded to Strong City at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening by the Merkle Undertaking company. Interment will be in that city Thursday.

Survivors include a brother, Walter Morgan of Frost; a sister, Mrs. Linnie Lowry, of Waxahachie; one half-brother, George Morgan, of Frost, and one half-sister, Mrs. Marie Morgan of Ballinger.

Club Offers Course In Manual Training

Another activity was added Wednesday night to the rapidly growing list at the Wichita Falls Boys club, in the annex to the city hall on Ohio avenue, when J. T. Ryle, director of manual training and mechanical drawing at the Reagan Junior High school, organized classes in those subjects for the boy members of the club.

Mr. Ryle volunteered his services at the request of W. B. Ward, director of the club and chairman of the boys work committee of the Rotary club, which is sponsoring the young organization. The instructor has been connected with the Reagan school here for the past several years and will offer expert instruction in wood working, the handling of tools and in mechanical drawing. Classes will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 and from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock each Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night.

County Heads to Vote On Division of Taxes

Distribution of the county road and bridge funds among the four precincts for 1930 will be determined in a special meeting of the county commissioners court called for 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

At that time H. H. Haynes, representing the Electra precinct, is expected to ask for a 25 per cent cut in the tax funds, an increase of 5 per cent over his allotment last year. The other three commissioners have indicated that they are still willing to accept the 1929 apportionment. By that distribution the Wichita Falls precinct got a 40 per cent cut, and the remaining 60 per cent was divided equally between Electra, Burkburnett and Iowa Park.

Negro Awarded $1,000 In Damage Suit Here

Joe Bradley, negro, was awarded a $1,000 judgment against Sam Wolfson, owner of the Wichita Junk company, by the verdict of a jury in the 89th district court Wednesday afternoon. Bradley claimed to have suffered permanent injuries to his hand when it was struck by a falling wheel while he was assisting in the loading of a truck for the company last July. The plaintiff was represented by Ewing Clagett, attorney.

MAJESTIC: "So This Is College," with Elliott Nugent, John Montgomery and Sally Starr. Not a return to your old campus, but the next thing to it. "Old Black Joe," Paramount screen song. Sound news.

STRAND: "The Gold Diggers of Broadway"—anyone that hasn't met Winnie Lightner yet? Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: "Tonight at Twelve," with all-star cast. Educational comedy, "Be My King."

Gem: "Frozen River," with Rin-Tin-Tin. Comedy, "Freshmen's Frolic."

One of the many plays constructed with the palpable object of building a strong antagonism to war in the minds of the present generation will be given by the Wichita Falls Little Theater as its February offering, Feb. 3, and running four nights. "The Enemy" was written by Channing Pollock, whose serious advocacy of social reform has been credited with sincerity despite the fact that it motivated successful plays.

In the production to be seen next month, the leading character will present a young man ready to launch in his own country a campaign against war, built upon the thought that "the enemy" against whom nations eternally prepare armies and armament is in reality the element and hatred within the minds of their own peoples. Upon the eve of his crusade, the great war of 1914-18 breaks upon the world. Following a brief period of dismayed stupefaction, the young Karl himself is swallowed up in the frenzied spirit of war-making which engulfed his fatherland.

The tragedy enacted in the subsequent action of "The Enemy" visits upon the principal character penalty in the loss of his infant son, just before the father's return from war, with the bereaved mother elating in the delivery of her boy from the horrors of war.

The play is not devoid of humor, however, as its open devotion to the abolition of war might imply. Karl's father, Behrend, is conceived as a radical Junker, preaching loudly from his prominent position one doctrine and out of respect for the comfort of his own corpulent person adroitly pursuing another. Virgil Childress will carry the role of Karl, with Roy Carter portraying the part of Behrend.

Pauli, the young wife, will be played by Miss Marguerite Fisher, with little Jane Fisher in the role of the baby boy, Kurt. Others in the imposing cast are Mrs. J. S. Crumpler as Bauraski, Edward Smith as Bruce, with Jimmy Fox, J. W. Thorne, Miss Marjorie Woolsey, and Wheeler Patterson in the remaining roles.

After Elliott Nugent's rendition of "I Don't Want Your Kisses" in "So This Is College," we become convinced anew that producers of screen entertainment must add a school of music to their layout, or hire some new hands. For the sake of smooth continuity, atmospheric as well as narrative, there is a dire need for young men who kept up their piano practice past the recital stage. We have everything running smoothly for our young hero and bring him into the girls' dormitory drawing room at 7:55 sharp for the 8 o'clock date with the most beautiful girl. She gets downstairs just one jump ahead of his discovery that he simply must sing to her. Follows his spread-formation at the piano, with the head thrown back, much pash radiating from the boyish face, and the song begins. But not with the piano. Somewhere in that dormitory—that so carefully matroned dormitory—a symphony orchestra was in hiding that night, and provided Eddie with the nicest accompaniment. Not every girls' dorm provides such up-to-the-minute service for the limber-tongued collegiate who comes a-courting, even though he be the star halfback. The truth being that the insertion of orchestral accompaniment into such a private little scene was very jarring and equally inane. If the boy must sing a song, we should much prefer his using the instruments at hand for accompaniment, even though it be bass drum.

Of the innumerable collegiate-wisecracks notching the soundtrack of "So This Is College," we like the one about "the big hind wheels getting all the brakes." It alleviates the chagrin we feel at being unable now and then to keep abreast of developments.

THEATER RENAMED

New Mission to Change Official Title to The State

The State will be added to Wichita Falls' complement of Publix theaters on Feb. 2.

Announcement of the name selected for the house formerly known as the Mission was received Wednesday. While alterations on the stage and auditorium, and installation of sound-projection equipment, are under way, it was said, a large ornamental electric sign is being made for use in front of the new showhouse, at 819 Indiana.

"In Old Arizona," the first all-talking outdoor picture completed by the Fox producing units, has been selected as the opening attraction at The State. Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe carry the leading roles, enacting a tale of early days in the romantic old Southwest. Critics have styled the picture as an admirable combination of sound and motion elements for screened drama.

NIGHT SCHOOL FOR FLYERS

Club to Give Course In Fundamentals

Announcement of the opening of a night school for rudimentary instruction in flying by the Students' Aero Trades club at 901 Hamilton building Thursday night, Jan. 23, between the hours of 5:30 and 10 p. m. was made Wednesday by those in charge of the movement.

Instruction in airplane construction, functions of airplane engines, meteorology, navigation, nomenclature, air traffic rules and other subjects included in the usual ground school course will be given by Scotty (D. L.) Norman.

Mr. Norman is now in charge of mechanical service at the Municipal airport, and was formerly connected with the Wichita Falls Air Transport company at Staley field here. Enrollment for this school maybe made Thursday evening during the hours named.

A total of six fires in Wichita Falls Wednesday resulted in property damage estimated at more than $4,000, the destruction of a landmark of the city, a servant house, an automobile, and a garage and caused damage to two other automobiles, according to reports at central fire station.

Old Building Wrecked

Considerable difficulty was experienced by firemen in fighting the blaze which damaged the building owned by I. A. Fine and F. C. Carter at Tenth street and Scott avenue about 11 a. m. Upon the arrival of the trucks, it was discovered that the two nearest fire plugs were frozen solidly and could not be used. While hosemen were laying long lines to distant plugs, Ralph Maricle of the Maricle Coal and Feed company, brought a bale of hay from his store a block away, scattered the hay in a heap about one of the frozen plugs. Gasoline was poured on the mass and ignited with the expectation that the flames would thaw out the plug.

Contrary to expectations, the burning hay melted the metal connections and left the ice apparently intact, firemen being unable to coax water from the plug. Additional difficulty was found in the fact that the blaze was confined to the interior of the roof of the frame structure and firemen had to tear out large strips of roof and wall before water could be directed on the blaze. Damage to the building was estimated at $1,000 and that to fixtures, most of which were recovered, at about $500. The old building was a landmark of the city, having housed scores of establishments for more than 20 years. The structure will be torn down in the near future, according to Mr. Carter. A new building will probably be erected but no plans had been announced Wednesday.

Garage and Sedan Burn

While firemen were battling the blaze at Tenth and Scott an alarm was turned in from the home of A. J. Jackson, 1916 Sixth street. A garage and a large sedan were completely enveloped in flames before the alarm was given. Both were destroyed, with an estimated loss of $2,000.

Damage estimated at $500 was caused when fire destroyed a servant house in the rear of a home at Tenth and Grace streets about 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A few minutes later firemen were called to 2136 Avenue G to extinguish flames in an automobile. Damage was slight.

At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning slight damage was caused by fire in an automobile at 2005 Garfield street. Firemen were called to 719 Ohio avenue about 10 a. m. to extinguish burning waste oil in the rear of a cafe.

Henrietta Officers Hold Man on Wichita Charge

The arrest in Henrietta of Lee Hudspeth, wanted here on a liquor charge, was announced Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff W. G. Bralley. Hudspeth is being held in the Clay county jail at the request of the sheriff's department. He was charged with the possession of a still several months ago when the equipment was found inside a dry goods box on the running board of an automobile here, Mr. Bralley explained.

NEGRO WOMEN GO TO TRIAL

Court Disposes of Two Other Cases

Selection of a jury for the trial of Jennie Lou Boyd and Hallie Spears, negresses charged with robbery, was begin in the 30th district court late Wednesday afternoon. The two women are accused of having taken $60 from J. W. Morgan at the point of a knife in Electra last November. Trial of the case is expected to last through most of Thursday.

The questioning of the jurors was begun by Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants to the district attorney, after two pleas of guilty had been accepted and sentence passed earlier in the afternoon.

J. O. Russell, charged with theft by bailee, was sent to the state penitentiary for two years on his plea of guilty. Russell acknowledged taking an automobile from the Howard Stripling rental agency last Aug. 28. A second charge against him, alleging attempted assault, was dropped after the sentence was imposed.

Frank Clinton, 17, was given a five-year suspended sentence for burglary after he had admitted breaking into the home of R. N. Norris near Iowa Park on last Thanksgiving day. He was accompanied, he said, by Tom Page, an older man, now in custody in Fort Smith, Ark. The two took a shotgun, a rifle, a pistol and four shirts, the defendant testified. The boy told the jury that he would return to his mother, who has not been told of his arrest, if he were allowed a suspended sentence.

Mr. Anglin said Wednesday afternoon that the cases of G. L. Parks, charged with theft by bailee; Roy Allen, under a whisky indictment, and Robert Young, indicted for burglary, were yet to be called during the present week.

Suit Here Seeks To Confiscate Ether

A shipment of 72 cans of ether is named defendant in a federal condemnation suit filed Wednesday afternoon with Miss Jesse Cowan, deputy United States clerk here. The suit, seeking an order of condemnation for the confiscated goods, was transferred here from the Dallas district.

According to the papers on file here, the 72 cans of ether were shipped to a local physician by the Ohio Chemical and Manufacturing company. Norman A. Dodge, United States district attorney, styled a "proctor" in the suit, alleges that the ether is "adulterated, misbranded, and that its purity falls below the professed standard under which it was shipped." He claims it is liable for confiscation and condemnation and asks for an immediate hearing.

Vernon Auditor Reports Conditions Are Sound

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 22.—Wilbarger county is on a sound financial basis as the year 1930 gets under way, according to figures announced by E. L. McHugh, county auditor. He reported a total of approximately $508,658 on hand in the various funds, less the current outstanding bills, which, in every case, are less than the available cash for each particular fund.
