Jim Is Ired Over Moody Statements

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Representative Governor Dan Moody's refusal to "speak on the same platform" with him, former Governor James E. Ferguson today challenged Mr. Moody to "put his finger on any act of mine that would permit him to chase me with criminals."

The governor issued a statement here this morning admitting that he had declined to speak at the projected Athens, Texas, fair because Ferguson also was on the program, saying:

"Certainly, I would not speak on the same platform with Jim any more than I would with some man I might have prosecuted while district attorney."

Ferguson said when he read of Mr. Moody's refusal to speak, he (Ferguson) wired the fair officials "if my coming to your fair is to interfere in any way with its success, you have my permission to cancel the speaking date which you were kind enough to tender me. The success of a county fair should be placed above the ambitions of an individual and certainly above their political aspirations."

McADOO WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE

DECLINES CONSIDERATION FOR PRESIDENCY BUT NOT
"LA COOLIDGE"

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—William Gibbs McAdoo, whose presidential campaign was wrecked in the Titanic struggle with the forces of Governor Alfred E. Smith at Madison Square Garden three years ago, announced today that he would not enter the race for the democratic nomination in 1928.

There was immediate speculation among party leaders as to the probable effect of his announcement on the fortunes of Governor Smith, and others. Many of them read in the statement an invitation to the New York governor to withdraw also, but few of them thought he would do so.

Policies Come First

"Everything possible should be done to prevent the 1928 convention from degenerating into a mere struggle of individuals for personal preferment at the expense of principles and policies of fundamental importance to party character and

FATE MATTHEW KIMES RESTS IN HANDS OF JURY

LIFE OR DEATH UP TO 12 "GOOD MEN AND TRUE"

RETIRE FOR NIGHT

NO VERDICT POSSIBLE
BEFORE THIS MORNING

OKMULGEE, Okla., Sept. 17.—(AP)—The case of Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma outlaw, charged with murder in connection with the shooting of W. J. McAnally, chief of police of Beggs, Okla., during the robbery of a bank there, went to the jury at 9:52 o'clock tonight.

It was decided that the jury should retire without deliberation tonight. Its verdict cannot be reached before tomorrow morning.

LIFE OR DEATH ISSUE FOR KIMES

OKMULGEE, Okla., Sept. 17.—Life or death for Matthew Kimes was set forth as the issue, by the defense in the closing argument preparatory to handing the fate of the outlaw youth, charged with murder, to 12 men tonight.

Death in the chair is the only option that the defense has for the notorious Kimes, as he is under life sentence now. District Judge James M. Hays, in his instructions to the jury this afternoon gave them three alternatives: life imprisonment at hard labor, death or acquittal. Kimes already is under life sentence.

Closing statements began at 3:42 p. m., with County Attorney A. N. Boatman slapping the marble railing before the jury. At 4:46 p. m., Sid White, of Okemah, for the defense, began pounding his left palm with his clenched right fist. At 5:56 p. m., Judge Hays declared an adjournment of an hour and a half. Spectators, hundreds of whom had not risen for light hours, moved toward the door.

The afternoon's events followed a running frazzle with excitement for the latest crowd of the five day race days. Kimes appeared in shirt sleeves for the first time to take the stand and answer nervous questions that consumed an hour. He declared he was with his mother at her sick bed in Van Buren, Ark., on May 15, the day of the death of Police Chief W. J. McAnally at Beggs, for which he is held responsible. "There was no other statement to support the bandit's alibi."

Cold Argonne Rain Once More Pelts Members Of A. E. F., On Reunion Trip

PARIS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Argonne weather—that cold, penetrating, slanting rain—closed in on the American Legion today. The Legionnaires arriving at Paris on the last day of peaceful mobilization for their pilgrimage, found that it chilled them just as it did ten years ago in the trenches and as they went over the top in that fateful forest.

Three thousand legionnaires arrived after having landed from the steamships Tuscania, Corona and Degraisse at Harve, and the steamship Republic at Cherbourg.

Cold rain pelted down upon Marshal Foch, General John J. Pershing and National Commander Howard P. Savage as they paid homage to the American war dead in Suresnes cemetery.

But the rain has neither dampened the enthusiasm of the delegates nor chilled the warmth of the French welcome.

BETTER RATES FOR SHEEP TO AID STOCKMEN

BOOM IS EXPECTED

BELIEVE BETTER RAIL
CONDITIONS WILL SPEED ACTIVITY

New and more favorable freight rates for sheep fed at Lubbock, in transit from San Angelo to the market at Kansas City, which were yesterday announced by the Santa Fe, and which will save Lubbock stockmen thousands of dollars annually, are expected to give an immediate boost to the sheep business in this vicinity.

Some predict that the accelerated activity will be almost in the nature of a "sheep boom."

The announcement came after a year of negotiations by the Chamber of Commerce with various officials of the Santa Fe railway system.

The new rate will be made applicable on October 15, giving its benefit to the stockmen. The 100,000 head of sheep have been shipped here each fall and winter for the past several years. The sheep are fed out on South Plains grain sorghums that grow so abundantly here and on forage crops, cotton seed, hulls, and similar feed stuff.

The shippers formerly paid a rate of 29 1-2 cents per hundred weight from San Angelo here, fed the sheep out, and shipped in the spring to Kansas City paying 62 cents on the sheep to the market city. The new

Levine Has Difference With Pilot

CRANWELL, England, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine, who has quarreled already with three pilots, Lloyd W. Bertand, Clarence Chamberlain and Maurice Drouhin, was at loggerheads with a fourth today, Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, both before and after two unsuccessful attempts to take off for India in Levine's trans-Atlantic plane Columbia.

Their difficulties developed early this morning when Levine said that he wouldn't fly because the ground was too wet for a take off. Hinchcliffe retorted that he was tired of these delays and if he didn't fly today he would not fly at all. "I have reached the end of my patience," he said.

John Cariso, superintendent of the Columbia Aircraft corporation, builders of the plane supported Levine in his argument and Hinchcliffe told him to "shut up."

Then after two unsuccessful attempts in which the plane considerably over-loaded failed to rise from the ground, Levine left for London. Hinchcliffe followed him to the Cranham railway station and tried to prevail on him to stay here overnight and make the flight Sunday morning. Levine, however, said that private business required him to be in London and left. He said there would be no flight until Monday.

Hinchcliffe on returning to his hotel here late today, said:

SCHOOLS TELL OF LUBBOCK GROWTH

CITY ENROLLMENT IS FAR AHEAD; COUNTY SCHOOLS ARE OVERFLOWING

Lubbock city schools are setting a record for increase in their enrollment. At the end of the day of the present school term, according to Superintendent M. H. Duncan, 3429 children had enrolled this being 109 more than had enrolled at the end of the first month last year.

The increase in the city schools was paralleled by a similar jump in enrollment for the county at large.

County School Superintendent W. H. Pevchouse told the Avalanche last night that 2709 pupils were enrolled in the 23 rural schools of the county, according to figures supplied by the principals.

Indicates Growth
Of course a yearly increase in school enrollment is normal, but the unusually large increase here is taken as an indication that Lubbock is growing rapidly—not booming by any means, but steadily, day by day, and week by week, expanding with the growth that means security in the future.

Estimates as to the number of scholars, which the city will have when final enrollment figures are prepared, vary from 4500 to 4800. An average calculation places the number that could reasonably be expected at about 3750.

The largest increase in enrollment, however, showed a larger number of scholars than last year.

R. M. Abbott was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of forgery in connection with the giving of a check to Piggy Wiggy No. 2 store, the complaint stating that the amount of the check was $24.41 and signed "R. E. Williams."

Upon receipt of the check, the management of the store telephoned Mr. Williams, who denied that he had given his signature to the check. Mr. Abbott is charged with giving six worthless checks to the Piggy Wiggy store during the last six months. These checks total about $20, the largest of which was for $4.05.

He was released on $1,000 bond.

Pratt And Mates Lead Swatsmiths Of Texas League

(By The Associated Press) DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 17.—Final statistics on the Texas League season for the 1927 show that the veteran pilot of the Waco club, Derril Pratt, finished in front of the cir cuits' batting regulars with an av erage of .386.

The Cubs kept their laurels for placing four men at the top of the list of hitters who participated in 100 games or more, although at the end it was Blackberry, not Raa Moore, who rounded out the quar tet.

The league's ten leading hitters for 100 or more games: Pratt, Waco, .386; Edgington, Waco, .376; West, Waco, .365; Black berry, Waco, .364; Jenkins, Wichita Falls, .363; Raa Moore, Waco, .350; S. Harris, Shreveport, .354; Sweeney, Fort Worth, .343; Gallo way, Houston, .335; Orzoff, Hous ton, .330.

Jenkins, Wichita Falls, was an easy leader in run getting with 127 followed by Pratt, Waco, and E. Moore, Fort Worth, with 126 each and Harris, Shreveport, with 120.

West, Waco, led in base hits with 228, the second largest total ever compiled in the Texas League. His closest competitors were Pratt, Wa co, 217, and Jenkins, Wichita Falls, 213.

In addition to leading the av erages, Pratt held to the last his lead in home runs, won the week before the season ended. He hammered out 32 against the 30 of Raa Mo ore, Dallas, and the 25 of Jenkins, Wichita Falls.

Martin, Houston, in a whirlwind finish ran his stolen bases total to 36, beating Gross of Dallas by one theft.

Although Hanson, Beaumont, and Wilkins, Shreveport, tied for the title lead in pitching percentages the real leader in double figures was Fussell, Wichita Falls, whose percentage was 734. Payne Wichita Falls was the leader in games won with 23, and Shores Waco, the strike out leader with 125.

MEN PASS FIRST GRIDIRON TEST IN FINE STYLE

HARRIS LOOKS GOOD; DEFENSE SHOWS UP WELL

The recruits of the third Texas Technological college fall football camp were put to a test yesterday afternoon as the trio of coaches lined the gridirers for the initial scrimmage of the season. The net tle of the futures weavers of the scarlet and black was put to a thorough test and many of the re cruits displayed their fight and grit to the trio that were carefully watching the actions of the bats.

The first two teams to combat against one another consisted of the former letter men and a few of the outstanding members of the camp. On the eleven which "Ox" Reed, captain of the 1927 Mata dors, was working, Leslie (Al) Jennings and "Dennis" Denison, a couple of former letter men were placed on the wings; "Chubby" Dewitt and "Red" Carpenter took the tackle positions; Westerfelt and Ox Reed were placed at guard, and Vaughn Corley at center. In the back field Jacques Hardy, fleet pilot of the Marlin high school eleven, runner-up of the class B state championship, was in the quarterback position with Per ey Walker and Woodrize at halves. Pickett, Lampasas product, filled the fullback position. Against this aggregation the trio started Crab tree and Payne at ends; "Red" Cas tleberry and "Mule" Fikes at tack les; "Doc" Harris and Tolson at guards; McWilliams at center; "Duck" Marr, former quarter of the Plovey machine of John Tarleton, at quarter and Elson Archibald and Hodges at halves with Sears at full. Many substitutes were sent in for every position as the coaches were well pleased with the first real ac tion of the camp recruits.

Harris Looks Good

The work of Luther (Doc) Harris, former letter man of the Matador crew, was quite impressive. The shiftiness shown by Jack Hardy at quarter was great and Red Castle berry, tackle of the new Freshman line, showed up well. Red Carpen ter, Ox Reed and Vaughn Corley appeared to show their same fight. Floyd Woodrize, veteran of the Tech backfield, was the same old "Woody." "Buddy" Brothers, for mer Western gristler, displayed great form at half as well as Elson Archibald, who brought in his shift iness and sidestepping for a good advantage. Pickett of Lampasas looks like a good bet for the full back position and Sears will be battling for the position as he ex hibited much scrap in the affray.

Of course the defense, which is a case of individuality, showed up better in the initial scrimmage than the offense. But Coaches Higgin botham and Vic Payne expect to develop a better offense that will be an equal to the defense. An other scrimmage is scheduled on the training card for Tuesday af ternoon prior to the first encoun ter of the Matadors go into.

The first game on the Matador calendar is scheduled for Saturday, September 24, on the Matador grid iron with the Panhandle Oklahoma A. and M. college.

Champs May Come And Champs Go But Shrewd Tex Rickard Holds Stage

By JIMMY POWERS NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Twenty years ago this fall two men sat across from each other in the back room of a saloon and laughed their heads off at a little slip of yellow paper that lay before them.

One man had a red face, bright blue eyes and a diamond horseshoe stickpin. The other was small with an angular jaw and burning black eyes. He looked like a tough guy. He was.

Pretty soon they stopped laugh ing and began to dip their noses into two rather large schooners of blue ribbon beer.

That ended that.

Out in the mining town of Gold field Nevada, George Rickard wait ed and waited for an answer to the telegram he had sent to Joe Hum phries, the gentleman with the red face, and Terrible Terry McGovern, the gentleman who looked like a rather tough guy.

He offered them $15,000 win, lose or draw. That's what caused all the laughter. They thought it was silly. They had never heard of $15,000 for a bout. They had never heard of George Rickard. They had never even heard of Goldfield, Ne vada.

Pulling to get an answer, Rickard signed up Joe Gans and Battling Nelson, piled their entire purse in gold coins in his saloon window— and boxing history began.

On the 23d of this month Tex (they don't call him "George" any more) Rickard will stage a boxing bout that is expected to gross more than $250,000.

It will be the largest boxing bout ever held. It will sell countless ex tras on America's street corners, reverberate out of a million loud speakers, and, taken by and large, considerably hogs the nation's spot light for the moment.

Goldfield, as you may have guessed, has slipped back some since 1906. But Rickard has come on.

How much money have you taken in from fans in the course of your life?" we asked him.

"Close to 20 million," he said, flicking the ashes from his cigar— rather proudly, we thought.

"Other interests? Well—I've got about $1,000,000 stock in the Gar den (the never gives it the formal title—Madison Square). I guess I'm president of the Rickard Oil Co. And still got a hankering to med dle around with cattle."

Tex came by his nickname hon estly. He has no cabaret tan.

He came out of Kansas City in 1890 to go to Texas, where he learned cattle from the bottom up. His first year was a failure. Be fore he left in 1895 he was a mild but "not a roaring success."

He never forgot how to ride or use a lariat. He went from Texas to Point Barrow and Nome in Ala ska during the gold rush in 1896. There he ran the Great Northern Hotel—a hangout for miners, gam blers and those lads who liked a

WOOL MARKET
BOSTON Sept. 17. (AP)—Wool trading has broadened moderately and prices have strengthened somewhat although in most cases they are not notably higher. The market tone is generally optimistic.
Trade sentiment has been influenced by the trend of the London sales. Colonial primary markets have also maintained strength.
COTTON SEED OIL
NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market today showed steadiness. Prices in sympathy with that of cotton and moderate covering for over the week end, closing 4 to 8 points net higher.
Trading was light total transactions aggregating only 6,490 barrels.
Prime crude 8.50; prime summer
yellow spot 18.30; September classed 16.80; October 16.30; December
16.53; January 16.53; March 16.80.
NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—A sharp opening advance was followed by reactions in the cotton market today. December contracts selling off from 21.75 to 21.28, and closing at 21.30, compared with 21.82 at the close the previous day.

The general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 15 points, with late months relatively steady.
The opening was firm at an advance of 29 to 54 points. October contracts at 21.13 and March at 22.06 on covering by recent sellers and trade or commission house buying stimulated by relatively firm latest pool cables.
The opinion was expressed in some quarters that the market had been pretty well liquidated on the week's decline earlier in the week, and belief that it was entitled to rallies, probably accounted for some of the demand. The advance, however, not increased offerings which were said to include considerable southern selling as well as realizing by buyers on recent declines, and the market reacted.
A favorable view of weather prospects for over the week end and talk of probably heavy figures on minerals prior to September 16 were mentioned as factors on the set back which carried October contracts off to 20.88 and March to 21.57, net declines of 4 to 7 points on the nearer positions, while March was net unchanged.

81 Years of Stove Manufacture Give

an undeniable superiority!

Beauty, efficiency and economy are the three outstanding characteristics of Buck Gas Ranges that make them the prime favorite of thousands of up-to-date housewives.

BUCK GAS RANGES ARE MADE WITH ARMCO-INGOT IRON
To reduce the possibility of cracking or chipping, ARMCO-Ingot Iron is used. This is the purest iron made and has characteristics found in no other metal. It has unusual ability to grip and hold the porcelain enamel with its matchless surface. Given reasonable care, porcelain fused on ARMCO-Ingot Iron will retain its beautiful surface indefinitely.

WILDER METAL IS USED TO LINE BUCK GAS RANGE OVENS
The first thing that wears out in an ordinary gas stove is the oven. Every time the oven is lighted, rust action takes place because the sudden heat condenses all moisture onto the lining surface. The silvery looking Wilder Metal defies rust. Gas fumes do not destroy it—steam does not harm it, and these linings outlast the rest of the stove, adding years to its life.

COOKING AND BAKING MADE SIMPLE WITH BUCK GAS RANGES
These gas ranges offer the maximum in cooking efficiency and success, because they are the result of 81 years of research and manufacture. In this way, the ideas incorporated in them are proven by actual tests, and the guess work in cooking and baking has been eliminated.

SELECT YOUR BUCK GAS RANGE NOW. MAKE A SMALL DOWN PAYMENT
Gas is just a short time away, and if you select your Buck Gas Range now, and make a small payment down, we'll deliver it to you just as soon as your home is piped for gas and you are ready to use your range. It will bring new economy, beauty and efficiency to your kitchen.

GOVERNOR DAN MOODY SPEAKS AT THE TECH AUDITORIUM AT 3:00 P. M. TODAY

Correct In Style— A Requirement that Comes First In All Women's Apparel

STYLE is a most important factor in the choosing of woman's garments—a factor that we believe comes before every other consideration. At this store we stress it—place it in this first position—carefully consider it in making all our purchases. It gives you sureness of the correctness of garments you choose here—that comfortable well groomed feeling in the wearing—that something that brings that extra glance of approval—that second look, that every woman gives and receives in acknowledging the unusual. See the creations we have assembled for you—model them if you choose. We are especially anxious for you to share their beauty with us.

Dresses of Fine Silk or Light Weight Woolen SILKS

Satin faced materials—possibly used with reversed material for trimmings—fine crepes with dainty lace collars—rich canton crepe weaves—Dresses that are decidedly the favorites for the new season. Many styles are in two piece—possibly with the jacket removable leaving an attractive dinner dress beneath—others in straight line effects with side drapes or cascades. Colors find black a decided favor for it is a color that lends itself ideally to rich satin faced materials. New Blue tones as well as rich redish browns are also popular.

WOOLENS

Not like woollens at all—these lighter weights being featured this season. Fine crepe weaves—wool georgette—Imported novelties—all in almost feather weights. Blacks and Blues lead in popularity while here and there are tan and brown tones. Also in this group are inexpensive jersey and silk and wool sport costumes for the school girl or business woman. Truly a collection of merit.

Coats With a Wealth of Fur In Both Dress and Sport Styles

The finest makers of America designed coats for us this season. In style, material and workmanship they represent the limit it is possible for us to give in coat values. Del Monte Hickey, Palmer, Printzess, Hart Schaffner & Marx, Shagmore, Bobbies—all outstanding as style authorities in some special line. Selections are especially complete both in dress and street types and frankly they are being chosen quickly even at this early date. Visit our department now—slip them on—enjoy their appearance. You'll like them immensely.

and supplies. Reports brought by them were most encouraging. Practically every school reported an increase in enrollment, building classrooms, and conditions such that new teachers and added buildings are needed. All of which is conclusive testimony to the recent growth of Lubbock and vicinity.

G. W. Scott, superintendent of schools at Idalou, reported that the 400 mark in enrollment was passed earlier in the week.

"Increase at the high school is already more than 25 per cent," he declared.

A full attendance for the five teachers who are handling eleven grades of work, at Idalou, was reported by E. L. Hooten, superintendent at that place. Enrollment he said, was 155.

Marshall School Crowded

From Marshall school in the north-west corner of the county came Supt. F. W. Sheppard to tell of the 160 children who have enrolled for the grades taught there. Reported have become conditions and the increase works such a handi-cap on the present teaching staff that it is planned to employ another teacher. Anticipating such action, the teacher has already been selected, it was stated.

Carlisle has 144 enrolled for the four teachers there, it was reported by Supt. H. G. Robinson. C. B. Bentley, principal at Caldwell, reported 67 enrolled, three teachers being employed there. A twenty percent increase in the enrollment was registered at the Union school, west of Slaton, B. A. Myres, the principal, stated.

Liberty Overflows

Liberty school, eleven miles north-east of Lubbock, is overflowing, due to an increased attendance, and Prof. J. B. Leverette, the principal, is planning to purchase additional desks. Another teacher is desired but in the present building there is not room for another. Enrollment is placed at 169.

Manual training and home economics are provided at Wolffarth this year, and 139 are enrolled for the 15 grades there, it was reported by Principal M. F. Stephens.

The proud boast, that Monroe has the best school and is the leading community of the county is made by Principal Floy Blankinship, who was another to visit Lubbock Saturday, enrollment is placed at 140. Manual training and home economics are offered.

A. R. Ship, a Baylor graduate, and secretary of the board of trustees at Hardy, was also a visitor to the county superintendent's office. He reported that 122 are enrolled at Hardy.

Band Going Along

The Lubbock high school band, several clowns and other features will be on this trip to entertain and amuse the South Plains people. Numerous novelties advertising the fair will be given out in addition to catalogs, circulars and similar data.

Four counties will be on the itinerary including Lamb, Taylor, Cochran and Hockley. Each county has already signed up to send a county exhibit to the fair. Littlefield will be represented here September 29 with the high school football team which will play Tabor.

Hundreds of people from the four counties are expected to come to Lubbock during the fair. More cars and more people are needed for the trip and G. P. Kuykendall and H. Sherrod, the committee that will head the delegation request that anyone that can so call them. The trip which was made Friday is said to be the best caravan of boosters that ever left Lubbock but the Kuykendall-Sherrod combination has set their goal for a delegation that will outclass the south trip.

The fair will open one week from the date of the western tour and with fair time almost here the interest that will be worked up by the booster tour will be greater in proportion than the trips that have been made this week.

LAMESA, Sept. 17.—That Lamesa and Dawson county territory is active in oil leasing is seen by the fact that major companies are now contracting all the acreage they can get at $1.00 and 50 cents rental for five and ten years. The Penn well 14 miles north-east of here is now down to about 2,000 feet and drilling with standard rig. The Westheimer well 32 miles west is now drilling at 3,000 feet with standard rig and good oil bearing sands in evidence, according to reports reaching here today. It is believed that Dawson and the east of Gaines counties will be drilled in the next few months. More than a dozen torsion balance surveys are being made here now with as many major oil companies.

Bully Evans Says:

Teams Not Consistent

For utter lack of consistency, the season of 1937 will go down in baseball history as one of the most unusual races ever staged in the big league.

With the exception of the New York Yankees, no other club in the majors has been anywhere close to being consistent, not even the four pennant contenders in the National League.

The Chicago Cubs have come nearest to holding to a steady gait but even McCarthy's club has had its unpleasant moments, such as the loss of double-headers and the dropping of a number of games that seemed, in by having the opposition score three or more runs in the ninth to win.

Both the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants were slow starters, while Pittsburgh slipped several times when an opening presented a chance for the Pirates to take the lead.

The Boston Braves, added by Pitcher Kent Greenfield, have played havoc with Pittsburgh. Since the Smith-Rancourt fight, the Braves have been a thorn in the side of Pittsburgh. Queer revenge.

TIGERS, NATS SUFFERED

Under sponsorship of the local post of the American Legion, proceeds from which will go into a memorial hall and clubhouse fund. A complete sell-out of tickets for the program was apparent Saturday.

For six weeks during July and August, Washington played about .500 baseball and had hopes of making things interesting for New York in the stretch. Then followed the worst trip of the year in the majors.

Opening at St. Louis, Washington won the first game. During the remainder of the trip not another victory was recorded. The closest was a 15-inning tie with Detroit. The Nats' record for the western trip was one victory and 12 defeats.

On form, Washington is far too good a ball club to show such a reversal, yet just immediately after the major league clubs this year.

MACKS GOING AT LAST

Take the case of the Philadelphia Athletics as further proof of the general unsteadiness of the clubs. Picked to win the pennant by many of the experts, the A's played second division ball for some time.

Connie Mack was flabbergasted. He felt that he had a pennant contender and it seemed as if his very excellent judgement was all wet.

Then, after floundering around going nowhere in particular, the Athletics started a winning streak at about the same time Washington began to lose. As a result Philadelphia is fourth place about 15 games behind Washington in second place.

As September started, enjoyed a three-game lead as runner-up to the Yankees.

You also wouldn't think one ball club could lose 18 straight to another, yet that is what St. Louis has done to the New York Yankees.

BETTER RATES

rate will allow the shippers to bring sheep in, feed them out and ship in the spring, paying only one freight charge, that being 68 cents.

It is Bayless, local Santa Fe agent says this will effect a saving of approximately $50 per car on all sheep shipped in, fed out and shipped to market.

The new rate will mean much to the feeding industry in the vicinity of Lubbock. The industry has been on a steady, yet rapid increase and this new rate is expected to give it something of a boom. The industry will give local farmers a better price and market for their grain sorghums, cotton seed products and forage crops.

SLATON COMPRESS BUSY

First Carload of New Cotton, From Lamesa, Received Saturday; Expecting Big Year.

(Special to Avalanche-Journal) SLATON, Sept. 17.—The first carload of this season's cotton to be received by the Slaton cotton compress has arrived. It came via the Santa Fe from Lamesa, having been produced in that territory.

The Slaton compress has a daily capacity of 1,500 bales. It will soon be operating at capacity on this year's cotton. The plant was owned and operated by the Western Compress and Storage company of Abilene from the time of its building in 1922 until it was sold in August of this year to the Union Compress and Warehouse company of Dallas. Arch Underwood is the manager now.

CITY, GIVEN TITLE TO PARK SITE BY COMPROMISE COURT ACTION, PLANNING TO IMPROVE PLOT SOON AS POSSIBLE

As a result of a compromise agreement reached in civil district court here Friday whereby the city of Lubbock was given title to a full block of ground toward the north-west part of the Overton addition for municipal park purposes, city officials are planning to start improvement work on the plot as soon as possible, necessary funds considered, and expect to make the plot an ideal play ground for kiddies in the city.

Members of the city's official family Saturday expressed favor with the actions of State Senator W. H. Bledsoe, one of the defendants in the triangular suit, in taking the lead in the proposed compromise, and his actions in the matter have been pointed to as a very public spirited deed.

Bledsoe Waives Claims

Senator Bledsoe, seeking to hold title to the property in question by virtue of a warranty deed executed by Dr. M. C. Overton in 1909 to him and T. T. Price, now of Dallas, waived all claim to any portion of either of the two tracts in the compromise measure, and according to a statement at his office Saturday, he has executed papers waiving all title or possession to the tract in his name, and half that he gladly signed the deed to the northwest tract, conveying the plot to the city, and that by this, he has accomplished what he had failed to do once or twice before.

The case on trial involved many technical points of law, and in a revision would have been a test of the validity of a warranty deed. No similar case has ever been tried here, and the compromise halted what might have been one of the longest drawn out legal fights in the history of Texas courts.

Agreement is Claimed

Dr. M. C. Overton, plaintiff in the case, sought to recover title to both tracts of land, asserting that in connection with his deed of grant, a trust agreement was drawn up, but not put on record, stipulating that the two tracts in dispute were to be given to city for park purposes. His testimony regarding the agreement was corroborated by others of his witnesses, but was denied by the plaintiff. Documentary evidence showing the agreement was not produced.

The city entered the case last year, when Mayor Pink L. Parrish, sensing the possibility of the city securing a park site under the original grant of the land, brought the matter before the city commission, where it was agreed that counsel would be employed and a cross action entered for title. Due to the previous connection of City Attorney E. L. Klett with the case as counsel for Dr. Overton, the firm of Lockhart and Garrard was retained by the city.

Major Parrish in a statement

Saturday said it was not the intention of the city to take anything away from anybody, but that if the municipality is entitled to one or both of the tracts, it was wanted, and would be used to the best advantage.

Must Be Used for Park

The deed executed by Senator Bledsoe conveying the northwest block to the city stipulates that the plot must be used for city park purposes, and that in the event any attempt is made to use otherwise or to dispose of it, title shall revert back to the grantor. This phase of the agreement also is heartily supported by the city commission, as it will automatically forestall any attempt to dispose of the park. City officials also are well pleased with the location, two or three of them saying the block secured is preferable for the purpose to be used, to the other, as it will afford a park accessible to a section of the city where it is indisputably needed. Municipal parks are not desired nor intended primarily for the wealthier class, it was explained, these being able to take their children to parks at a distance, if desired. This, with other reasons, was cited.

Now, lacking funds with which to start immediate improvements on the park, city officials are beginning to cast about for means to carry out their plans. The American Legion already has virtually offered to take the lead in an improvement program under city supervision, and other civic organizations no doubt will offer like assistance.

McADOO

to the welfare of the nation," Mr. McAdoo said. "Principles and politics must come first. Personal ambitions, however, legitimate, and every selfish purpose should be subordinated to them."

Declaring that he probably could do more to advance the objects of the party as a private citizen than as a candidate for the presidency, Mr. McAdoo said he preferred to stand aside in order that the field might be left clear, "so far as I can clear it." Then he added:

"I shall not, therefore, be a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in 1928."

While not mentioning Smith by name, Mr. McAdoo made it fairly clear in his pronouncement, as he had in conversation with his friends that as a private citizen he would continue to oppose the candidacy of the New York governor. Moreover, he indicated, very strongly, by emphasizing that there must be no nullification of the constitution, that he would oppose any wet candidate.

No Eye Witness

There were no eye witnesses of the crash. Rudolph Kehn, proprietor of the Five Acres restaurant, which adjoins the apple orchard in which the plane struck, said that he saw the plane, heard the 450 horse-power Jupiter engine go dead and watched the plane turn over on one side and drop below the trees.

On the other side of the apple orchard is the Schenck farm. Fred and George Schenck, were the first to reach the scene of the crash. By advice of police they had little to say of what they saw there. They called the five bodies out of the plane and laid out the injured on the grass on the orchard awaiting arrival of ambulances from the city.

Curious Throngs Gather

The entire staff of Hadley field was rushed to the place of the accident and state police were called out to assist in holding the curious crowds in check. By dark every road was jammed with cars, one count disclosing more than 500 within an area of a quarter of a mile.

The Schencks said that the plane was about 350 feet up when the motor stopped. It seemed to waver for a minute and then slowly went into a dive. After the crash there was not a sound, no groans and no cries and they notified police before going near the plane. When they approached it they found that all the occupants were either dead or unconscious.

Charles Saramba, who was sitting on a railroad bridge, near the scene of the crash, told the same story.

Miss Grace Hunter arrived in Lubbock yesterday from her home in Colorado and will re-enter the Tech this week.

GREAT INCREASE IN TECH ENROLLMENT IS SURE

GOVERNOR MOODY TO OPEN COLLEGE YEAR WITH ADDRESS TODAY; PLANS FOR REGISTRATION ARE COMPLETED

Ushering in the third session of unprecedented educational popularity which is marked by greater ceremonies, a greater school and a greater student body, Governor Don Moody, Texas' youngest and most popular governor, will speak this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Texas Technological college gymnasium as the closing feature of the Freshman Orientation week of the college. Estimates made upon the number expected to hear him this afternoon average around 4,500 people, the gymnasium's limit of seating capacity.

"If I Were a Freshman," is the address Mr. Moody's subject for the address, his talk being delivered especially for the several hundred first year students who have flocked to the city during the past three days.

Citizens to Attend
Besides the students of the college, hundreds of citizens of the South Plains have been invited to hear the governor. A number of the local directors are to be here also today at noon, a dinner will be ordered the governor and the directors at President Horne's home on the campus.

Years ago when West Texas named and made plans for a great educational institution in the midst, little did they realize the school when established would exceed all their expectations. Upon the threshold of the third year of the college indications point toward an enrollment which will place the school in the upper division of the schools of the south, officials say. Two thousand students is the estimation placed upon the enrollment for the coming year by the governing board. President Paul W. Horn and other administrative officials of this number, approximately 400 freshmen are already in the city. The fully 300 more are expected to arrive by the addition of at least 200 old students, their estimation of the enrollment can be fully justified.

Registration Opens Monday
Climaxed by the address this afternoon by Governor Moody, the opening exercises of the college will be well under way tomorrow and the first year students will be allowed to sign up for the term. Freshman registration will also be held Tuesday and then on Wednesday, the advanced students will be allowed to register for the year. The hours of registration will be from 8 until 12 and from 2 until 5:30. Registrar E. L. Dohoney announced yesterday. To avoid delay, students will report in alphabetical order, according to the first letter of their family name, as follows:

Mrs. W. R. Potter Is Endorsed By Many State Clubs As President Of State Federation; Record Excellent

Mrs. W. R. Potter was announced by the Thursday Club of Bowie, her home town, as candidate for the presidency of the Texas Federation several months prior to the District meetings this spring. She carries the endorsement of the clubs of her home, the business men and women of Bowie and a great number of individual clubs and club women throughout the State of Texas.

Mrs. Potter's record shows her endowed with those sterling gifts that will enable her to guide the Federation on to the highest and finest fulfillment of its chosen destiny.

Her Qualification. The duties of the chief executive of this organization, which represents over forty thousand women, are manifold and call for proved ability. Mrs. Potter has served the Federation in many capacities, and knows the work thoroughly. She first served her District, the First, as chairman of Kindergarten, History, Membership, as first vice-president for two years and as president two years. During the eighteen years she has belonged to the First district organization she has never missed a meeting.

Her State Work. From the district where she accomplished work the results of which have remained permanent Mrs. Potter came into the State work, where she has been a faithful and conscientious worker for a number of years. She has been chairman of the committees of Thrift, Scholarship, and Loan Fund, and during the war of the Federation Council of War Work. She was second vice president of the State Federation and supervised the departments of Child Welfare, applied education and home economics while holding that office.

Other Activities. In addition to the work Mrs. Potter has carried on so loyally in the Federation, she is a member of the Texas Woman's Press Association, the oldest woman's organization in the state and is this year serving the association as its president. She is a writer, both of short stories and plays, and history and has won for herself an enviable reputation along these lines. Her history of Texas has been used as text-book for a number of years in Texas schools and her essays, reviews and other articles have been widely quoted and favorably commented upon.

Mrs. Potter, a speaker of force and clearness, has appeared before many gatherings in this, her native, state and is acquainted with the duties of the federation executive through her responsibilities as office holder and committee woman. She has attended many biennial meetings and will be fitted to greet the throng of women who expect to gather at San Antonio next year.

Miss Mabel L. Gibbs To Be Bride of I. Coleman. Miss Mabel Lucille Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Gibbs, of Loco, Okla., is to become the bride of I. W. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Coleman, of Vernon, this morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen, 1911 Broadway, with Reverend Bowen reading the ceremony. About twenty-five friends of the couple have been invited to witness the ceremony.

Mr. Coleman has been employed in the office of Registrar E. I. Dohoney at the Technological college and he is to continue in this capacity. He and his bride are to attend college this winter.

Miss Gibbs has been attending the Technological college for two years except during last winter when she taught at Ropes. The young couple has been prominent in young people's activities at the First Baptist church and has many friends in church and college circles.

Suit Skirts Bow To Uneven Hemlines Two-Thirds Length Jacket Also Seen

The two-thirds length jacket, left, a gray suit, the coat trimmed with chinchilla; at right, beige frisca, banded with kolinsky.

My dear cousin, I have a new suit for fall, and so has Aunt Louise. I am enclosing photographs of both. We bought them from Louise's designer who has delightful fall clothes this year as well as exotic evening creations.

Both of us fell simultaneously for the new two-thirds length jacket which seems to me to be just about right. Aunt Louise's is just a bit more adorned than mine. Here's a frock of beige frisca with a most lovely arrangement of appliqued flowers on the left side in shades of brown and tan. It is charming without the coat, but perfectly darling with it for the coat is a straight little affair trimmed, where there is no need for it, with bands of kolinsky fur. My dress is simpler, but extremely well cut so that it has that "sophisticated simplicity" everyone is trying to get, and despite all I have said against gray, I selected this in gray—just so that the coat could be banded with chinchilla. I must say that this dress gives me a thrill to say nothing of how strong it goes over with Jacques. He said when he saw it that man really did have to get back to Paris to get real Parisian clothes. Considering the splendid time he had in your country, I felt quite proud and pleased.

I wore it the other day when we went to Chateau Madrid, and I really saw nothing there that I liked better. My friend Antoinette bought a very sensible outfit at Lanvins. The coat, which is intended for real winter wear, is of exquisitely quilted black silk lined with beige fur which is arranged in squares set together with bands of black so the inside is far more thrilling than the outside. It is also banded and edged with the beige fur.

With this she has ordered two frocks, one is of black satin with the most romantic sleeves, very full but fitted for a few inches above the wrist. They are made of black and beige ribbon put together in an intricate woven pattern. The neckline is a shallow oval and the belt made of many narrow bands of satin tied in a interesting bow.

The other frock is of beige georgette, rather tailored, with many buttons and a side fastening, and a very uneven hemline, dropped considerably at one side. She has one small close turtleneck of black felt, and one wide-brimmed hat of beige felt with a wreath of flowers in gilt leather.

Do write—I am so interested in your home. It sounds too marvelous to me. Much, much love. GERMAINE

Q Ave. and 19th St.
We had some more additions last Sunday and the largest Sunday school we have ever had. We are thankful that we are forced to add more rooms to our building. Wednesday night about 40 people came out between showers and we had the best prayer meeting we have had in a long time. We had one addition and two more promised to join Sunday night. Best of all, two of our young men surrendered to preach the gospel and another to give his life to serving the Lord with song and personal work. We do not want card players, dancers, gamblers in our church but we desire to set a good example before them so they can see people at work really trying to serve God. Come to our Sunday school, preaching, R. Y. P. U. and Wednesday night services.

State Chairman Asks More P. T. A. Life Memberships

AUSTIN, Sept. 17.—There are close to two thousand Parent-Teachers associations organized in the state of Texas and in membership with the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations, but there still remains at least ten thousand school districts yet to be organized, according to Mrs. Edward Kneeland of Dallas, state chairman of life membership, who is rounding out her 18th year of service. Mrs. Kneeland makes the above statement to the two thousand parent-teacher associations in a letter just sent out in which she makes a strong plea for additional life memberships during this fiscal year which ends October 31. With one hundred and twenty life memberships already in Mrs. Kneeland hopes to make 1927 a banner year and with the funds obtained from this source, work will be done in extending parent-teacher associations into the unoccupied districts, thus bringing the Texas Congress nearer its goal of a parent-teacher association in every school district in Texas.

Mrs. Kneeland says: "The purpose of life membership is an interesting study. Its true meaning is a real investment in the four fold life of the child; i. e. in its physical, mental, moral and spiritual growth."

"Results obtained through this channel by personal effort on the part of many individuals has helped our state to bring its membership up to more than 50,000 in parent-teacher associations and more than 800 life members, all in membership with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, an organization with a membership of 1,135,847 in forty eight states."

REGION LECTURE TICKETS GO FAST

APPLY ALL THE TIME EXCEPT A FEW YET HELD BY THOSE WORKING CAMPAIGN

From indications Saturday the American Legion Post here has almost accomplished its cherished aim in connection with the lecture to be given here September 26.

Dr. Will Hogg—the sale of all tickets for the program fully one week ahead of schedule.

At the office of Amos Howard, city clerk, headquarters for the campaign, no tickets were available Saturday morning. Mr. Howard reported that the last ten tickets from the 2,500 printed, were taken by one of the Legion boys after in the morning, and that he reports reaching him, the bulk of those distributed to salesmen had been disposed of to interested citizens.

Few Tickets Yet Out.
A few—possibly 300 or 400—tickets, are yet in the hands of secret commanders and their workers in the campaign, but a ready demand for these was reported.

J. A. Raley, in charge of the secret of the city between Main and Broadway, reported that he had 200 tickets for the sector that he estimated would require possibly twice his number. During his absence from the city on his vacation, his sector has not been worked, but he said Saturday he planned to start on a fiery campaign there beginning Tuesday morning.

It was anticipated that his supply of tickets would nothing like suffice the requirements, although some of his sector possibly have already bought tickets of other workers.

Meet Monday Night.
A call has gone out from Post commander F. D. Rupe for full attendance of all workers in the campaign at the regular meeting of the Monday night in the basement of the Temple B'nai B'rith. This applies to all citizens who had tickets for sale, regardless of whether or not salesmen is a Legionnaire or ex-service man.

Check-up is to be made on the tickets, and it is imperative that a report be had from each one who has tickets, Mr. Rupe said. It was explained that some may have sold their limit, and still have a few tickets left. It is the plan to again divide the remaining tickets among workers, in order to completely sound out the campaign early in the week.

Ticket Holders Get Seats.
Holders of tickets will be guaranteed seats in the auditorium, sales at the door the night of the lecture being governed entirely by the number of tickets out. It is urged that those who wish to attend the program secure their tickets from one of the workers who yet have them available, in order to avoid possible disappointment.

The lecture, to be given by Dr. Will Hogg, evangelist, who recently made a very successful revival tour, will start at 8 o'clock, and those are urged to prepare to be in their seats before this time. This condition, however, is expected to hold for itself, as no reserved seats are available, except for a dozen seats a half for Gold Star Mothers and veterans of former wars, exclusive of the World War, and it will be necessary to go early to secure a seat.

Revival Will Be Held At Hurlwood

Revival services, which will be held daily and nightly for at least a week and possibly for ten days, will be begun this afternoon at Hurlwood, 16 miles west of here, at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. Ed Phillips, of Siloam Springs, Ark., will head the campaign.

The campaign is under the direction of Rev. G. W. Fort, circuit pastor of the First Methodist church, and the first meeting will be presided over by Reverend McCannless, of Portales, New Mexico.

Hurlwood has just completed a singing school and the song services of the revival are expected to be particularly good. Reverend Phillips has just completed a revival in the Slide community.

WHEAT GAINS IN LOCKNEY SECTION

40 PERCENT ACREAGE INCREASE NEXT YEAR IS SEEN BY OBSERVERS OF GRAIN

LOCKNEY, Sept. 11.—(Press of the fact that the Lockney section would produce a wheat crop on 40 per cent more land during the growing season has lent impetus to wheat culture and this year conservative estimates have predicted a 40 per cent increase in acreage with approximately 25 per cent of the land already seeded. Farmers have realized the importance of preparing the ground in the proper manner and plowing the seed in the ground at the proper time and have prepared themselves for the making of the best wheat crop possible this year. Lockney implement dealers have already sold 62 wheat drills, 42 tractors and 29 harrow-drawers this year to supplement the machinery already in the hands of the farmers. According to the farmers, the wheat ground has been plowed in better condition this year than in all previous years and the one implement responsible for this condition is what is known as the wheeled disc plow, which covers about twice the amount of ground with the same power and places the seed bed in better condition for the seeding than all other methods used prior to this year.

Prosperity For Lockney Expected

LOCKNEY, Sept. 11.—(Merchants and bankers are of the opinion that the Lockney section should be very prosperous from an agricultural standpoint. The growing crop, especially for this section, may be seen in the bright prospects for a bumper crop all over this territory, even though the crop was planted late in the season. The grain section has taken an amazing growth and at this date most of it is fast on the road to maturity, due to the ideal growing conditions. Many farmers have estimated their yield to be from one to one and one half tons per acre.

Alfalfa in the irrigated section has produced unusually well this season and from four to five tons per acre has already been cut. Reports state that the price received was far above average.

Due to the large feed supply, this section will again feed a large number of cows and hogs, and the poultry and dairy business is again expected to net large returns.

Farmers and cotton oil men report the cotton crop to be promising, should the average freezing date be reached this year. Reports state that this crop is advancing fast to maturity with no pest present and a large crop of bolls already on the stalk, however, the acreage has been estimated as being 40 per cent below normal.

MISS MURRAY AIDS WITH FLOYD'S FAIR

FLOYDADA, Sept. 11.—Miss Murray, District Home Demonstration Agent, has consented to judge the entries of the Home Demonstration Club of Floyd county at the Floyd County Fair here at September 22 and 24. Miss Blanche Bass, county home demonstration agent has been advised. Miss Murray will arrive in Floydada on the night of the 21st, to be in readiness to do the judging and incidentally see the Fair in general before she begins her duties. The general exhibits in the ladies department at the Fair this year separately from the Home Demonstration exhibits, and the two will not be in competition.

The longest prize fight ever fought was the one between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke at New Orleans, April 6, 1892. The fighters went 114 rounds in 7 hours and 18 minutes, and ended in a draw.

Sadler Shows At 15th and Avenue H.

Harley Sadler and his troupe, one of the best known dramatic companies on the road in this part of the state, who open a week's engagement here Monday night, will show under its tent at the corner of 15th St. and Avenue H, instead of on the former location at the Union tabernacle, 51 1/2 and 11, officials of the American Legion, which organization is sponsoring the show this year, said Saturday. The change in location was made late Friday. The Legion derives a percentage of the nightly gross receipts of the show, the proceeds to go into the general fund for promotion of the work of the Legion here.

SCENES IN MOVIE ARE SPECTACULAR

MARIE PREVOST TO BE HERE IN "GETTING GERTIE'S GARTER" MONDAY

The dining room of a palatial trans-Atlantic steamship—a replica of one of New York's most fashionable night clubs—an elegantly furnished bachelor apartment and a beautiful country estate are among the spectacular settings for "Getting Gertie's Garter," Marie Prevost's new Metropolitan star comedy which will be on view at the Palace Theatre on Monday next. This amusing screen version of Avery Hopwood's famous bedroom farce centers around the frantic quest of the hero, played by Charles Ray, after an elusive and flirtatious garter worn by Miss Prevost in the role of Gertie.

E. Mason Hopper, who directed "Getting Gertie's Garter," as prepared for the screen by F. McGrew Willis. In the supporting cast are Franklin Pangborn, Sally Rand, Harry Myers, Fritz Ridgeway, Del Henderson, Ella Lee and William Orlandson.

Board Is Blamed For Cotton Drop

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 11.—(UP)—The Atlanta Constitution says it has been informed by Senator Harris of Georgia, that on seeing Secretary Jardine after the cabinet meeting in Washington, he requested the discharge of the persons responsible for the issuance of yesterday's cotton price prediction and was informed that no individual was responsible. The secretary added that a number of persons on the board had passed on it, the senator was quoted as saying.

Lockney Farmers Believe In Cows

LOCKNEY, Sept. 11.—(Produce dealers, farmers and dairymen stand that after the hot months of the summer, the dairy business will again assume its role of being one of the main profit makers of the surrounding farms, and again enable the farmer to live at home as was the experience of last year. On account of the large feed crop and the large supply of dairy cattle on hand, the cream business is expected to assume even larger proportions than for the preceding year.

In this section, it has been the experience of the farmers that money can be made from the feeding of grade cows and after investigation they are now selling their grade stock and purchasing the best that can be had in order to compete with the heavier production of this section as a large number of dairy cattle are already in the country.

MENJOU, PRAISES
HIS HABERDASHERMUCH OF HIS SUCCESS IS DUE TO HIS CLOTHES, POPULAR
STAR ANNOUNCES

"Clothes made me what I am to-day," says Menjou. "I have preferred to believe that my success was due solely to histrionic ability. Now comes Adolphe Menjou, who willingly attributes a large part of his success to clothes and why."

Menjou is recognized as one of the best dressed men on the screen. He says that the player who wants to make a thorough and scientific study of his attire overlooks one of the most important bits of his equipment.

Menjou got a complete wardrobe for his picture, "The Sign of the Cross," from a tailor who is an artist in his profession. My shirts, collars, shoes are made to order. The most conspicuous things sometimes overlooked—neckties, socks, handkerchiefs, etc.—are extremely important and I select them as carefully as I do my suits.

"A man can put on the best tailored suit in the world, yet if his necktie isn't properly tied, it shows up on the screen. Every detail must be correct or he isn't well dressed. The fit and style of his shirt are worthy of the same attention as the suit."

"After I've finished a picture I give the clothes to my personal wardrobe which is kept down to about twenty-five suits."

"In our new picture, 'Blonde or Brunette,' I have eight changes of costume. For this, eleven new suits have to be made."

A man's jewelry, his cigarette case, studs, and other trifles should be selected with care. I never wear more than one piece of them in more than one picture."

"The idea behind all this is that helps me to build up the character I portray. In building up poise, confidence and satisfaction, these are just as essential to men as they are to women."

"A woman in the world could not get on with a run in her stockings and no man can do a convincing millionaire in old clothes."

"Blonde or Brunette," Menjou's latest Paramount starring vehicle, which was headed by Greta Garbo and Arlette Marchal. John Schenck prepared the screen play.

COPRA CRUSHING SLUMP

Copra crushing again has reversed to the United States and Europe after having virtually ceased to be an industry because of the shortage of shipping facilities during the World War. Crushing is established in British Malaya, Dutch East Indies and the Philippine Islands during the war. It has been closed, that the crushing is done where there is a new market for the coconut oil and the battle food and fertilizer come from the shells.

Wandering in the Rocky Mountains for a night and a day without being sure just where you are isn't such uproarious fun. Genevieve Van Doren (top) and Edna Cassidy will testify. Balkan Costumes
Lose Quaintness
Through Styles

MOSTAR, Herzegovina, Sept. 1. —The modernization of old Balkan towns is destroying some of their most picturesque aspects. Belgrade has become a town of fashionable Sarajevo's varied and quaint costumes are merging into an imitation of up to date American and English styles.

Old Bosnia looks like Unter den Linden, so German are the people one sees crowding its fascinating streets. Even Cetinje, the skyward capital of Montenegro, resembles an English or American provincial town.

Villagers as well as people of more pretentious towns show a tendency to imitate the dress of the tourists who make their way through ever increasing numbers.

The valleys of Montenegro, Herzegovina and Dalmatia, however, where the roads go through grazing country, still abound with figures that seem to step out of pages of history.

The world owes a debt of gratitude to the shepherds and goat-herds of these countries for not succumbing to the modern craze. They could, however, wear the latest styles with quite as much chic as any of those they get a glimpse of from the wayside.

Even the goats seem to show their disapproval of modernization. They scamper up the rocks so fast when a car comes along it is impossible to photograph them. When one is caught unaware he generally shakes his head and ruins the negative.

BRADSTREET'S STATEMENT NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP) —Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Reports to Bradstreet's Journal this week reflect a further stepping up in wholesale trade and industrial activities, and in crop reports, however very little gain is visible in retail trade.

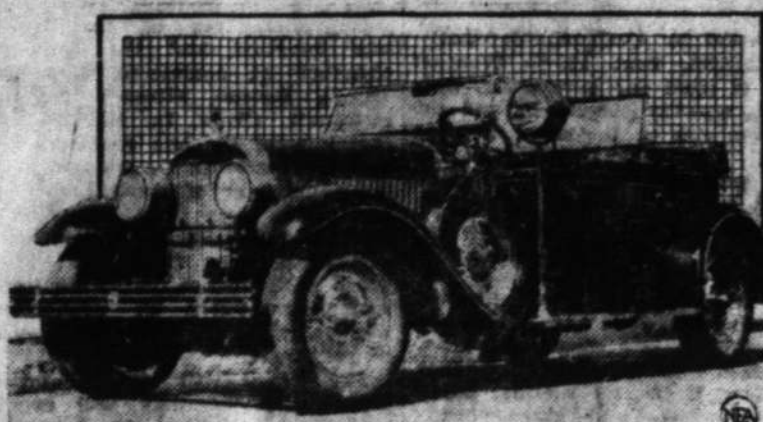

Responsibility for the activity in primary lines and the gain in crop reports seems to rest mainly on the arrival of the long delayed, hot forcing weather, which has, temporarily at least, put a new face on the corn crop prospect and also been a helpful factor in pushing forward cotton and to some extent neutralizing the influence of the boll weevil in areas hitherto complaining of excessive moisture.

Weekly bank clearings $1,429,159,000, an increase of 9.1 per cent over last year.

MOLDED SALADS Star, crescent and other fancy molds increase the beauty of jellied salads 100 per cent. They should be rinsed and thoroughly chilled before using.

Chettie Haddad, Boston wool dealer, has had this Cadillac sport phaeton prepared for an arduous wool buying journey through the dangerous and troublesome country of Iraq, in Asia, where bands of Arabs lie hidden in desert wastes and mountain nooks. Ship's ventilators on each side of the hood will help overcome the terrific heat, large gas and water tanks will take the driver over long vast stretches, while the steel body and unbreakable windshields will stop flying bullets effectively.

LIBRARY DISPLAY

Unique Exhibit at Fair to Be Offered Through Miniature House By County

A unique feature of exhibits at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair will be a display given by the county library.

The booth will be a miniature house wall-papered profusely with coverings of book titles, representing reading material to be found in the library. The titles will line the walls in block fashion, similar to brick construction.

Explaining the system of circulation, a representative of the library will be in the booth to furnish information relative to books and the method by which they might be obtained free of charge.

The display is not to be a book exhibit but explanation headquarters, Miss Frances Hoyt Ford, county librarian, said yesterday.

Call Repair Clerk If Your
Telephone Gets Out Of Order

PUBLIC SERVICE

The Bell System is owned by the public it serves. There are stockholders in practically every town and city in which the Bell System operates. The Bell System of today is an American institution, grown up under American laws, plans, and ideals. It is really publicly owned, engaged in rendering a public service to the entire country, under public regulation.

DOUBLE DUTY

In any emergency speed is one of the first requisites. The following letter from one of our subscribers shows what long distance telephone service can do for you when a long distance must be covered in the shortest possible time:

"I wish to advise you that recently I placed two long distance calls, for parties located in different towns, at which time I requested your operator to kindly rush.

"The operator advised me to hold the line, and a connection was made immediately with the first party. The same service was rendered on the second call. I am taking this opportunity to compliment your Company and the operator on the services rendered me."

Complete Report of Trouble
Speeds Restoration of Service

THERE are 201 parts in your telephone instrument. The wires leading to the switchboard may be anywhere from a half-mile to five miles in length. There are countless connections at the switchboard. You can see the possibility of something going wrong with some of these many parts of equipment.

If your telephone should get out of order, call the Repair Clerk. In making your report, tell just what seems to be wrong—that the bell does not ring; that you cannot raise the operator; that the line is noisy; that people claim they cannot reach you.

Give Complete Report

A complete report of this kind, rather than a mere statement that the line is out of order, will let the repair people know just what part of the equipment is not working properly, and they will know what steps to take to get the trouble cleared and service restored in the quickest time.

In Texas last year approximately $220,000 in dividends was paid to 7500 stockholders.

BIG AGRICULTURAL SHOW IS EXPECTED

13 COUNTY AND 3 COMMUNITY EXHIBITS SIGNED UP WITH OTHERS PROBABLE

The greatest agricultural show that has ever been held on the Plains, is the expectation of officials of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, who have been working for several months in lining up exhibits from over the section.

Thirteen county exhibits and three community exhibits have definitely signed up to bring their products to the fair and several other counties and communities have indicated that they will be here.

Male and Garza Coming.
Hale and Garza counties will be here and reports from the Tri-State Exposition, where their exhibits have been on display for the past week, indicates that they have gathered an exhibit that will rank high with the best in Texas this year. Both counties have a wide reputation for their winnings at state and regional fairs in the past number of years.

Bailey, Hockley, Terry, Lamb, Cochran, Tuskum, Floyd, Lynn, Dawson and Gaines are other counties that have signed up to send exhibits and who will have good crops to select their products from.

Snyder May Exhibit.
Scurry county held its annual fair at Snyder this week end, Sept. 15, 16, and 17 and officials of the fair were at Snyder to line up an exhibit. Although the officials of the Snyder fair have not decided definitely, they are considering sending an exhibit of their best products here for a Scurry County Exhibit.

The representatives of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair that saw the Scurry county exposition report a display of quality products and keen competition among the many communities of Scurry county showing in the agricultural show. Hereford and dairy cattle, wheat, horses, mules and other livestock of high class grade were at the fair also. C. C. Willis, county agent at Snyder was manager of the fair and will likely bring the exhibit to Lubbock.

Dickens county is another county that is debating the question of bringing an exhibit here. Fred Reynolds, county agent will bring the exhibit if the county is represented. Officials of the fair were in Snyder Thursday and report good crops in that county.

North Plains Counties.
Deaf Smith county, which took first place at the Tri-State Exposition, will likely bring an exhibit to the fair here. Brown, Schwab, Castro and other Plains counties have been urged to exhibit but no definite answer has been had from them.

Communities that have signed up to bring an exhibit in are: Hurstwood, Grovesville, New Hope, Stanton, Caldwell, Posey, Canyon, Carls, Shallowater. Others are likely by working on their exhibit and will ask for a booth within the next few days.

Rains Aid Cotton In Howard County

BIG SPRING, Sept. 17.—The recent rains will increase the cotton yield in Howard county several thousand bales according to P. C. Leatherwood, an extensive cotton grower near Big Spring. A mechanical cotton picker will probably be brought to Big Spring and used in demonstrating the latest improvements in cotton picking. This machine will pick two to three bales per day according to Joyce Fisher of Big Spring who will supervise the demonstration.

The grade and staple of the cotton being marketed in Big Spring is running exceptionally good this year according to W. O. Edwards, of the Edward Cotton Company. It was feared that the dry weather would materially shorten the staple but rains came in time to save the staple and increase the yield.

The Big Spring Compress has received to date more than 7000 bales of cotton. Estimates on Howard county's yield range from twelve to sixteen thousand bales. The present price being paid for the staple will place the farmers in a much better financial condition than did the 1936 crop according to T. S. Currie, cashier of the State National Bank of Big Spring.

Tatom Funeral To Take Place Today

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon for L. C. Tatom, district manager of the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company, and resident of Lubbock, who died Friday in a Dallas sanitarium.

Officiating will be D. B. Doak, presiding elder of the Methodist district here; Rev. E. E. White, pastor of the First Methodist church, where services will be held; and Rev. R. F. Dunn of Lubbock cemetery.

Coming to Lubbock for the funeral were C. W. Bartlett, general manager of the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber company; W. T. Tatom, of Taylor; father of the deceased; Mrs. J. B. Strohle of Fort Worth, a brother; and Mrs. Taylor, sister; G. W. Tatom of Hubert, Texas and Mrs. Alvin Gray of Sweetwater, long time friends.

If London continues to grow at the rate it has maintained during the past century, there will be a population of 20,000,000 by 2099.

WOODROW IS HOST TO CLUB MEETING

100 ATTEND COMMUNITY WARMING SPONSORED BY HOME DEM. AGENT

More than 100 persons attended a community warming in the Woodrow community Friday night, an assemblage of 4-H clubs, girls' and women's home demonstration clubs sponsored by Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent.

I. J. Thornton, club leader, D. F. Eaton, county agent, and Miss Baird gave talks before the gathering.

Miss Baird led the community singing, accompanied by Miss Eunice Gatewood on the piano. A cracker eating contest, in which four boys competed, toy balloon blowing competition and a burlesque orchestra were features to furnish laughter. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Friday Miss Baird met with the New Hope girls club, the Posey girls club and the Posey women's club. The meeting of the Posey women's club was held in the home of Mrs. O. R. Patterson with 14 present. The selection of an exhibit for the fair was the main topic of discussion. Apple pie a la mode was served.

There are eight women's home demonstration clubs in Lubbock county, with a membership of 129, and nine girls clubs with 108 members.

CONTEST ON FAIR TICKETS OPENED

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES AND DUPRE P. T. A. OPEN DRIVE FOR FIRST HONORS

The Cumberland Presbyterian Ladies Aid society and Dupre Parent Teachers association started Saturday on a ticket selling campaign for the Panhandle-South Plains fair which gives promise of a classic race for first honors.

The contest which was announced recently by A. H. Davis, manager of the fair is open to all clubs, church organizations, or similar organizations who wish to compete.

A substantial bonus will be paid the organization selling the most season tickets to the fair and a percent will be paid on all sales to the winner and others selling the tickets.

In view of the fact that the two organizations are just starting on the sales campaign, it is to be expected that many others will enter the contest early this week.

The ladies of the Cumberland Presbyterian Ladies Aid society and the Dupre Parent Teachers association will make some money for their organization and will at the same time be assisting in the success of the fair.

Fresh water can be dipped from the Atlantic Ocean for a distance of 50 or more miles off the coast of Brazil. This is due to the enormous amount of water that pours from the mouth of the Amazon.

Expect Fair Yield In Dawson County

(Special to Avalanche-Journal)
LAMESA, Sept. 17. — Weather here is ideal for harvesting. Cotton is steadily coming in and the farmers are in hopes of a good yield. Although Dawson county will fall down a few thousand bales from her usual production, the estimate being placed at 30,000 bales, the increased price will place as much money in the section as formerly. Maize heading is going forward at a steady rate. With a late freeze and frost late feed and cotton will produce a fair yield in this section. Many cotton pickers and maize headers will be needed from now until November 15.

The party will be at Vernon Monday, where they will represent the association; Tuesday they will be at Childress at a similar hearing and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be in Amarillo on a like mission. Floyd Gets First Cotton For Year

FLOYDADA, Sept. 17.—The first bale of the 1937 crop of Floyd County cotton to reach the Floydada market, was raised by W. W. Palmer, prominent farmer and was brought to Floydada Tuesday morning. It was ginned by the Joe Bailey gin early Tuesday morning.

Star Cash Grocery purchased the cotton at 24 cents early Tuesday morning and a premium of $50 in cash and merchandise among business men here was made up and presented to Mr. Palmer through Mr. Nickles, manager of the Joe Bailey Gin Company, who did the ginning free of cost.

Mr. Palmer will be one of the big cotton producers of the county this season. He has an excellent crop and is expected to market nearly 100 bales, according to neighbors and friends.

New Rigs Around Alpine Section

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

ALPINE, Sept. 17.—Two new rigs have been unloaded within the last day or two and all activities are increasing. S. P. Skinner unloaded a rig at Marathon and hauled it out to the Combs ranch where he is to drill a number of test holes to prove out the formation of that immediate vicinity.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Gage lease, near Lemoore, 20 miles east of Alpine, by Wilcox and Anderson, and the indications are favorable by lot men to be very favorable.

FLOYDADA FAIR

Kidder, Okla., will be pitted against the strong Snyder team, which has been rapidly gaining recognition on the Plains. The Snyder team goes from Floydada to Abilene where they are to play during the West Texas Fair.

Feature Grid Game.
On Friday evening at 8 o'clock the football season on the South Plains will open with a game between Floydada high school and Plainview high school. These two teams are always strong contenders for district honors in their class and the game is attracting interest from every football lover in this section.

Grady Burson, coach of the Lockney Lions, will likely be the referee for the game and A. A. Bishop of S. M. U. will umpire. Just preceding the game two boys' scout troops will compete for a large American flag. Each afternoon and night of the fair Merry Madcap Dramatic company will offer a good show for the entertainment of the visitors and midway attractions will be open both day and night.

An advertising campaign has been going on by the business and merchants of Floydada, today a caravan of fifteen cars with fourteen rural schools extending invitation to attend the fair. Literature and circulars have been placed in every nearby town and the interest in the event lead the officials to believe that it will surpass all ever held in Floydada before.

It costs no more, and Pasteurization has made it the best for every purpose.

HOCKLEY COUNTY PROVES CO-OPERATION'S VALUE

PORTUGAL WILL PUNISH FORMER NATIONAL HERO

LIEUT. SARMENTO, WHO HEADED REVOLT, IS FUGITIVE NOW

(By Associated Press)

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 17.—Portugal regards Lieutenant Moraes Sarmento as a reincarnation of Robin Hood. D'Artagnan and Leonidas.

Every officer in Portugal is looking for him, from President Camara down, yet he had the temerity to attend a dinner party given in his honor at the palace of the Marquis de Fronteira, and made his escape after the palace had been surrounded by police.

Lieutenant Sarmento is sought for his connection with a bloodless revolution which sought to place Commander Filomeno da Camara in the office of vice president. He has been hunted since he drew two revolvers when taken to the presidency, fired a round from each and dashed away.

He has threatened to shoot anyone who attempts his arrest, and says he has reserved two bullets for the president himself.

Every other principal in the revolutionary plot has been arrested, including Dr. Filadelfo de Figueiredo, director of the national legislature.

Since his escape from the presidency, the lieutenant has remained in Lisbon and has been seen at night clubs and on the streets.

When the police were informed of the dinner party in his honor at the marquis' palace on one of the northern heights of Lisbon, a whole police brigade surrounded the palace. Dancing was going on and the palace was brilliantly illuminated. Scouts, however, had evidently been placed outside, and the alarm was given. All the lights were suddenly put out. A door in the basement opened and four figures emerged into the darkness and fled, firing on the police who pursued them. A waiting motor car took the fugitives out of reach. A raid was made on the palace at dawn and Lieutenant Sarmento was not to be found. Two days later a motor-lorry full of soldiers scoured the Serra with machine guns.

Lieutenant Sarmento is well known in international sporting circles. He represented Portugal at the international horse show at Paris, in May, 1925, and was the winner of the "Foreign Armies" trials in which he competed with the representatives of seven countries.

Lubbock To Rule WFAA On Morning Of September 24

A talk on points of interest about Lubbock will be a feature of the morning Radio Health Exercise program to be given by the Southland Life Insurance company on Saturday, September 24, according to announcement by Nell H. Wright, district agent of the company. That day has been set aside as "Lubbock Day" on the company's schedule of health exercise programs. The morning's program, being dedicated to Lubbock, the talk also referred to will be given by the exercise director at the end of the second exercise period, about 7:05 a. m.

Southland Life Radio Health Exercises, which have been broadcast over Station WFAA at Dallas every morning except Sunday from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock during the past two years, have a large following in the southwest. More than 25,000 position checks, necessary in taking the exercises, have been mailed out by the company.

BODY MADE LOWER BY CHEAT LINES

NEW YORK.—We're being cheated when we buy our cars, but we like it!

The reason is that the cheating causes our cars to appear lower and sleeker. This is done by using "cheat lines," says R. H. Dietrich, noted body designer, in the design of the car.

A molding around the body and extending to the radiator, the wider the better, makes the car look low, he says. The curvature of the roof also produces this effect, and when the windows are wider than they are high, the illusion of low appearance is increased.

LEVELLAND'S CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS UNTIRING IN ITS EFFORT TO PUT ITS SECTION IN PLAINS' FOREFRONT

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LEVELLAND, Sept. 17.—Guided by its Chamber of Commerce, in which practically every citizen works and takes pride, Levelland, second youngest county seat in Texas, is working every day to continue the progress which has made it known for the past four years as one of the liveliest towns on the South Plains.

The Chamber of Commerce, headed by C. J. Rhoad, hardware dealer and Frank Potter, secretary, has facing it at the present time five major objectives upon which its eleven standing committees are busily working. One of these objectives—an annual fair for Hockley county—is assured; two others—a county agent and a state designated highway running from east to west—are practically certain while the other two—pushing poultry and dairy work among the farmers and securing a Sunday mail delivery out of Lubbock—are being worked upon in the tireless municipal fashion which has accomplished so much here in the past.

Fair Coming September 24

Hockley county's first fair will be held on Saturday, September 24, and bids fair to be a start on a great institution for this city and the county as a whole in the future. Practically all of the communities of Hockley county will enter exhibits and after the fair is concluded here the exhibits will be moved to Lubbock to enter the 1927 Panhandle and South Plains fair. Should the county make an extraordinary good showing at Lubbock the exhibits will probably be taken to Dallas for the State Fair next month. W. P. Lee, lumberman, is chairman of the fair committee, and has been aided in bringing his work to a successful culmination by T. D. Dougherty, sheriff; Joe M. Barnhart, grain dealer; and Jack M. Thomas, secretary of the fair association.

Levelland will have Sunday mail delivery if the wishes of the people of this city and Lubbock are granted. Petitions have been widely signed and the okay of postal officials is all that is needed to make the cherished hope a reality. The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has joined hands with the organization here in helping put over this and numerous other projects.

Farm Agent Coming Soon

Hockley county is to have a farm agent in line with the plans of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college as soon as state funds are available to help the tax payers of the county in employing such an official. The preliminary work to secure such a man has already been completed and Hockley county is next on the list to receive state aid in this kind of work. Farmers and business men alike are waiting expectantly for the final success of the issue and the hiring of a county agent promises to help the county greatly.

There are approximately 175 active members of the Chamber of Commerce at the present time and one of the features of this organization's work is the holding of regular monthly banquet meetings in which the ladies also participate, along with representatives of Chambers of Commerce in nearby places. The last such meeting, given over to laying plans for the fair, was held last Tuesday night with 125 present, including representatives from Lubbock, Littlefield, Claude and other communities. Each monthly banquet is in charge of one of the standing committees. The first one was staged by the fair committee and the next will be under the supervision of the roads group.

Band Is Big Success

One of the best pieces of work put over by the Chamber of Commerce, in the past year is the organization of an 18-piece concert band, under the direction of W. D. Crane. While less than a year old, the band is able to furnish very good music for community affairs and bids fair to be one of the best musical organizations in the Plains area in a few years.

While Levelland has shown as much if not more progress than any of the smaller Plains towns in the past year or eighteen months, improvement is by no means at a standstill. Hockley county's $150,000 court house is rapidly rising from its foundation and should be completed in the next 7 months, while water and sewer service within the city limits will be available after two or three more weeks. Advancement in the rural sections promises to be as rapid and as important as that of the county seat for farmers and stockmen of Hockley county, believing theirs the best agricultural county in Texas, are planning to carry on with a program of diversification which will include more dairying and more poultry raising in addition to varied crop planting.

Bank Figures Are Fine

The First National bank of Levelland probably indicates better than any one thing the financial condition of the county and the city. This two-year-old institution, with a capital stock of $25,000, has deposits in the immediate neighborhood of $100,000 which of course includes certain public money now within its keeping. The bank, established two years ago, is in its own building which is large enough to accommodate the business for many years. Modern equipment, including safes and vaults of the finest construction, is found in the building. John H. Doyle, former county judge and a pioneer cowman and stock farmer, is president of the institution. Officers and directors include W. G. Frazier, vice-president; Sam S. Roach, cashier; Maple Wilson and Walter S. Posey, of Lubbock; G. W. Alexander, and Lee Crowder, of White Plains.

Levelland's schools are under the direction of E. A. Hankins, formerly of Lubbock, who is beginning his first educational year for Hockley county this year. He expects a total of 800 students in the two schools here this term and has marshalled a faculty of 22 instructors to aid him in the work. Levelland's school system had its birth four years ago in a frame building, which housed one teacher and 17 pupils. In addition to its growth in students and teachers, there are now two modern buildings, costing $65,000 and $35,000 respectively.

FINAL ELECTION RETURNS GIVEN OUT AT AUSTIN

BALLOTING OF AUGUST
FIRST MADE TEXAS
MORE HISTORY

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 17.—One of the most apathetic, and yet extremely one-sided, elections Texas ever had is reflected in official figures on the August 1 pollings at which the four proposed constitutional amendments were beaten.

Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, gave out, the complete figures today for each of the 118 counties reporting returns, showing a total of about 50,000 votes, with a general average of about 7 to 1 against all the amendments. The tax amendment suffered the worst defeat.

Among the 64 counties failing to report returns are Harris and Wichita, in which Houston and Wichita Falls respectively, are located.

Comparisons Interesting

Some interesting and bizarre comparisons are offered in the county-by-county figures. Cause county against all amendments by a general average of about 41 or 42 to 1, while Hidalgo county carried them all three of them better than 2 to 1.

Cameron county carried the judiciary and for amendments, while El Paso carried the judiciary, tax and salary propositions, all by a good majority.

Hidalgo and Cameron counties, in the progressive Rio Grande valley section, were remitted their state taxes by vote of the legislature several years ago because of flood.

Williamson, home county of Dan Moody, defeated all amendments at an average of about 5 to 1. It is also the home county of Senator A. E. Wood and Representative Claude Teer, administration flood leaders in the legislature.

Totals Are Figured

The state election board, composed of Governor Dan Moody, Mr. McCallum, and Attorney General Claude Pollard, got together Saturday, 46 days after the election, as required by law, opened the sealed returns, counted them and this is what they got:

Amendment to revise the judiciary system, for 10,839, against 69,754.

Amendment to separate the objects of taxation, for 7,527, against 70,983.

Amendment to abolish the fee system of paying county officers, for 8,783, against 68,626.

Amendment to raise the present constitutional limitation on salaries of the governor, state officers and legislators, for 8,645, against 70,276.

France Awaiting American Answer To Recent Note

PARIS, Sept. 17. (AP)—The answer of the United States to the French tariff note is awaited with some concern in the three ministries which share in the responsibility of the foreign office, the ministry of commerce and in a less degree, the treasury. They hope the reply will be of such a nature as to permit of further negotiations. It is fully recognized at the French foreign office that article 217 of the American tariff arms the President with the power to increase the present duties fifty per cent as a reprisal but it is believed also at the Quai d'Orsay that there is nothing yet in the situation to justify such a measure and it is assumed a way out will be found. American observers believe that the ministry of commerce, which had more to do with the framing of the French reply than the foreign office, was impelled by economic considerations to take a stiff position at the beginning for the purpose of bargaining.

CHEVROLET SETS NEW HIGH RECORD

AUGUST PRODUCTION TOTALS
51,452 UNITS FOR BEST
MONTH IN HISTORY

Shattering all previous production records for the manufacture of cars, Chevrolet Motor Company in August completed 51,452 units for its greatest August in history, according to figures released today by H. J. Klingler, general sales manager for the company.

This new record brings the total output during the first eight months of this year to 386,336 units as against 312,507 units during the same period last year and 722,147 units during the entire year of 1926. The 1926 output was passed this year on August 12.

Last August Chevrolet turned out 76,384 units, showing an increase in August, 1927, of 14,867 units, for a gain of more than nineteen per cent.

To accomplish this tremendous volume the nine great Chevrolet factories in the United States have been running practically at peak production during the entire year, while the export plants have maintained a similar fast pace, attesting to the world-wide appeal of the "Most Beautiful Chevrolet."

In view of the fact that the monthly output has consistently exceeded the production schedule—the August volume being nearly 2,000 units over schedule—Chevrolet officials were satisfied that this year's output would approach one million cars.

The monthly gains this year over corresponding periods the past few years chronicle in dramatic fashion Chevrolet's rapid rise to its high place in the industry. Here are the production figures for the first eight months of 1925, '26 and '27:

Manufacturing economies resulting from this enormous output were reflected in the announcement on Sept. 1 of a new low price for Chevrolet's latest model, the Imperial Landau, which now lists at only $745 f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

Street Signs Are Being Posted In Town Of Lamesa

Special To The Avalanche-Journal. LAMESA, Sept. 17.—The city officials ordered work to start at once on setting angle irons to carry street names and numbers throughout the city. The angle iron is to be set in concrete and stand six and one-half feet above the curb, according to R. E. Simpson, mayor of the city. At the top of the post is to be riveted enamel street signs bearing the name and number of the street in both directions.

The mayor also stated that house numbers had been ordered for every house in the city and that he expected the entire job to be completed within three weeks.

The next step at Lamesa will be seeking city mail delivery which, according to J. D. Dyer, postmaster, can be obtained with the proper street and house numbering.

Easy Money In Toll Bridges May Soon Be Done Away With In United States Movement Is Started To Control Evil Of Private Franchises On Highways

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—By all appearances, congress may be expected to pass a law permitting its friends to make their own tolls and toll bridges, since it seems to have given away almost everything but that privilege.

One example is that of granting toll bridge franchises. These bridge tolls are far from the worst instance of public muleting through federal grant, but they are an excellent example because nearly everyone has been held out for a toll bridge. Some profits as a result are so exorbitant that the bridge is all paid for after a couple of years of operation.

But what were they trying to lead off is a menace of the future rather than an existing intolerable situation," explains Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, who has become a leader in the movement to control toll bridges.

The franchise-grabbers, MacDonald points out, have mushroomed into activity within the last three years. The bureau nipped out a system of federal aid highways comprising not more than 1 per cent of the total highway mileage. The government appropriates $75,000,000 to help the states complete this system, of which there will be some 100,000 miles.

Many Streams To Cross
Wherever these highways cross a stream, a strategic position is reached. Congress alone can grant franchise for bridges over navigable streams and the granting has always been a "personal privilege" of the franchise-grabber.

The franchise-grabber has a sure thing because he knows that traffic will be concentrated on the federal artery.

Thus, these franchises become so valuable that one shooting star was found demanding of a company 51 per cent of the bridge stock merely in return for the donated franchise. Another man had a franchise and when he failed to build a bridge the state made plans to build it. The franchise holder tried to make the state pay a large sum to buy him out.

"The only benefit that can possibly be conferred by private franchise is derived from the use of capital which the state can't raise in any other way," says MacDonald. "Very rarely does any element of chance enter in. Often the franchise company only acts as an intermediary between the public and an investment company building the bridge, for which the public really puts up the money."

People Stand Cost
"For this the franchise companies demand charges that run the cost high. State governments can borrow much cheaper. Often the work is let non-competitively and the public pays three or four exorbitant profits. Yet, franchisees are created almost as often as they are asked for."

MacDonald cites numerous instances of exorbitant profit which puts a tax on traffic and often works out to local detriment. He believes all toll bridges could easily be handled by his bureau and the states. One trouble is, however, that the states must initiate all such bridges, even through the federal government is empowered to pay 50 per cent of the cost.

Meanwhile, owing to competition for localities, many towns and cities have been led into the thing by promoters. States with many or large rivers often can't begin to finance the bridges projected, however, and bridges using federal funds must be free of tolls.

"One solution," he says, "is for the public to appropriate or borrow money to build its own bridge, free if possible, or set the option to build as federal aid bridges and raise half the cost by tolls. Or, let private companies build them subject to reasonable limits, fix the tolls, provide for inspection of earnings and operations and provide a fund to retire the bonds and eventually free the bridge."

"We may have to have some toll bridges, but we mustn't have perpetual tolls and the terms should be fair to the public."

In New Building

FLOYDADA, Sept. 17.—One of the newest and most attractive firms to open for business in Floydada recently has been the Buick Motor Co., which held its formal opening in the A. B. Martin building on North Main Street. T. L. Callaway, agent for Buick automobiles, has been in business in Floydada for some time but until recently the firm has not been able to display their cars owing to their failure in securing a favorable location.

On the evening of the opening more than 150 people viewed the new models and spent a short time inspecting the new building, which is one of the most modern of the new which stores now going up in Floydada. The Floyd county fair to be held in Floydada on Sept. 22, 23, and 24 will see the Buicks on display again at the fair building and the different models will be viewed in the parade to be held on Saturday, September 24.

THE illustration shows a racing car of 20 years ago, compared with a modern racer of one-fourth the piston displacement, and twice the speed, reliability and endurance.

Big Bend Cotton Outlook Bright

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)
ALPINE, Sept. 17.—The Big Bend cotton crop outlook continues to be the best for several years and it is expected that more than a normal yield will be harvested. Good rains throughout the Big Bend—Brewster, Jeff Davis and Presidio counties—have benefited all crops. The cattle is in good condition to go through the winter and the range is good with plenty of stock water.

OAKLAND EXPECTS BIG FALL SALES

OAKLAND - PONTIAC SALES
HEAD REPORTS BIG DROP SEPTEMBER ORDERS

Judged by the manner in which Oakland-Pontiac dealers in all sections of the country are ordering cars in excess of their quotas, the fall selling season gives every indication of being the best in the history of the Oakland Motor Car company, according to W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales.

"Considering the volume of business we have in sight," says Mr. Tracy, "I believe it is a pretty fair indication that practically all of the new model cars are out and the public has no further uncertainty about making its choice. Our reports from district managers and field representatives and orders from dealers have caused us to boost our September and October production schedule."

"Our production for August was the largest we have ever had for that month and topped last year's total by approximately 2,000 cars," said Tracy, "and September and October will likewise be the largest September and October we have ever had."

"In fact, September will be our second best month's production during 1927, being topped only by May production, when 22,000 cars were manufactured. The production totals for 1927, for September and October will top the figures of the months last year by approximately 12,000 cars—the gain being evenly divided between the two months."

CHRYSLER 62 USED BY ELECTRIC FIRM

NEW CAR ADDED TO DAYTON EQUIPMENT FOR AID ON EMERGENCY CALLS

Public service has come in recent years to be more a paramount objective of American public utility concerns, and in the forefront of this modern movement a place of prominence is held by the Dayton Power and Light company, of Dayton, Ohio. This progressive company has just purchased for its emergency service department one of the new Chrysler "62" cars, announced among the three models introduced by the Chrysler Corporation within the last few weeks.

The Dayton Power and Light company uses three automobiles in its emergency service operations. A fire alarm tapper is installed in the service division's headquarters and three shifts of drivers are engaged, so that cars are ready at all hours of the day and night to respond to every fire and police alarm as promptly as the city's public safety departments. The municipal authorities of Dayton have adopted an ordinance authorizing the use of fire whistles on these cars and granting right of way on the streets. Special bodies have been designed and built for the service cars enabling them to render effective aid on their arrival at the scene of a fire or a disturbance of the peace.

The presence of these facilities for coping with emergency needs has already been the means of much saving in life and property which might otherwise have been destroyed. Dayton officials declare and it is predicted that their usefulness will be increasingly evident as time goes on.

The Chrysler "62" was selected by the Dayton company's experts after a careful survey of available automobile possibilities. They gave preference to the new car, among other reasons of its proved ability to maintain a high speed of 62 miles an hour and more being assured by its powerful engine; its rapid acceleration; its responsiveness to drivers' control, resulting in unusual ease and certainty of handling while dashing in and out of congested traffic; and its four wheel drive brakes, which bring the car to a quick and certain stop when necessary.

Florida Sees Real War As Coast Guard Lays Siege To Enemy Rum Runners Land, Air And Water Battles Are Waged In Effort To Plug The 'Booze Leaks'

Coast Guard patrol boat

Editor's Note—Rough and tumble fighting has been going on along the Florida "liquor front." It's between U. S. Coast Guardsmen and embattled rum runners. War is being waged on land, on water, and in the air. The Coast Guard, short-handed, has experienced some very rough handling. Rodney Dutcher, Washington representative of The Avalanche-Journal and NEA Service, has written five stories of the conflict. He describes some extraordinary incidents of the warfare. His information is official. Here is the first story of the series. The others will follow in the Morning Avalanche.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1927, by NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Pirates, murder, corruption and terrorism have led the Coast Guard to declare a war to the finish with the rum-runners operating off the long, ragged coast of Florida.

This war, which is only about to begin insofar as the Coast Guard is concerned, is a war in every sense of the word.

It is being fought on the water, on the land, in the air, and even under the ocean's surface.

Wild tales of the beginnings have been reaching Washington for months. Battles against Coast Guardsmen by smugglers of liquor, aliens, and dope, astonishing in their extent and their vicious nature, have been reported to Coast Guard headquarters here.

Dry Hinterland, West Coast

Although Florida is regarded as a dry state, its coastal front is the wettest territory in the country. Insofar as concerns liquor, according to the Coast Guard.

Fourteen patrol boats now are trying to break up the liquor traffic in Florida waters and these are nowhere near enough. Florida boasts the longest coastline of any state, and her shores are within 20 miles of the great sources of supply at Miami, Gun Cay, and West End. Reinforcement ships gradually are being added to the fleet.

The West Coast as well as the East Coast of this great southern playground is penetrated by the "rumrunners," and patrol boat bases at St. Petersburg and Fernandina have been added to those at Key West and Fort Lauderdale.

The East Coast patrol-area, which sees most of the trouble, is under the command of Captain P. W. Lauriat, one of the service's "fightingest" officers.

The "better class" of rum-runners, it is said here, long since have quit the game and left the field open to murderous hijackers and cut-throats who stop at nothing to deliver the goods and destroy the enforcement effort.

Armaments
A patrol boat has but one machine gun aboard, whereas many "rumrunners" have two, and are sheathed with armor.

Several seaplanes are used in the rum-running traffic; they are able to fly from foreign soil to Florida or back in a matter of minutes, and from their aerial vantage point can assure themselves of safe landing places.

Submarine rum-running, however, is the latest trick of the smugglers. Generally the method is to construct a submersible tank with compartments to be filled with liquor, which is towed by an ordinary craft. If capture seems imminent the submarine is sunk and anchored, pending the owner's return.

A La Turtle

These submarines are from 12 to 60 feet long. A large one captured off the North Carolina coast some time back had an engine and pilot room fitted for human occupancy.

This craft was able to proceed by her own power on the surface. She could not travel under water, but she was able to sink herself whenever desirable.

The smaller submarines can be towed under water behind small motor boats.

One story which has reached Washington tells how a rum-running "king" imported 17 rumrunners from Chicago. This mob was sent out to loot a British booze ship between Miami and the Bahamas. But the British ship beat off the pirates. Two gunmen were killed and the British captain wounded.

Onshore Terrorism

The thing which has most enraged the Coast Guard is the onshore tactics of terrorism adopted by the enemy.

Last January two sailors of the Coast Guard visited a roadhouse near Jacksonville, Fla. They were Water Tender Everett H. Jones and Motor Machinist's Mate Gandy, attached to the Coast Guard's cable repair ship Pequot. They were on liberty.

The roadhouse proprietor offered

The roadhouse man came tearing along in his automobile and ran them down to drive them to Jacksonville in his automobile, but they refused and proceeded on foot. They had not gone far when the roadhouse man came tearing along in his automobile and ran them down. Jones was killed and Gandy has been in a hospital ever since, apparently crippled for life.

A coroner's jury exonerated the roadhouse man, but a Coast Guard board of inquiry held that the two sailors had been deliberately run down. Subsequently the roadhouse man was sent to the Atlanta penitentiary after conviction on a narcotic charge.

Reliable information has been received that rum-runners have offered rewards of as high as $1,000 apiece for the lives of some of the men most active in breaking up the industry.

Another bad feature according to the Coast Guard, is that sometimes local authorities have often been found cooperating with the outlaws. Commanding officers have had to protect their men from some of the ed in one day in one coast city for "spitting on the sidewalk," said a high officer at headquarters here. "Nearly a dozen others were picked up at another Florida town on the pretext of minor infractions. "Law-abiding persons in some communities don't even dare be civil to our men. "Nevertheless, although many of our men have been opposed to prohibition in principle, the vicious tactics used against them have crystallized their determination and their zest for enforcement. Lately we have noted that when we sought to transfer a man because we knew the rumrunners had sworn to kill him, the man has almost invariably requested that he be allowed to stay right there in the fight." NEXT: The story of "Red" Shannon, who thumbed his nose at General Lincoln C. Andrews and made a specialty of ramming Coast Guard boats.

Fastest Four in America Proves Its Claim to Title

Dodge Averages 67.35 miles per hour in Beating All Other Fours in Atlantic City A. A. A. Race

The Atlantic City (N.J.) Speedway Association, without Dodge Brothers instigation or knowledge, bought a Dodge Brothers Four and entered it in a Labor Day race for Four cylinder stock cars. Four cars of other makes also competed. All were strictly stock cars as required by the rules of the association.

The race was for 25 miles—to determine which was "The Fastest Four in America."

The Dodge won.

Its average speed for the entire race, from a standing start, was 67.35 miles per hour (officially timed by A. A. A.).

Generous confirmation, to say the least, of the modest claim of "Mile-a-minute Performance!"

Even more remarkable than the speed, however, is the fact that the car had been driven only 10 days and yet was able to withstand this difficult test without once stopping.

Thus the race not only offers conclusive proof of the Dodge's superiority in speed, but stands also as a glowing tribute to the rugged materials and excellent workmanship that go to make it—
America's Fastest and Finest Four!

GOD'S CARE OF THE OPPRESSED:
The Lord executeth righteousness and judgment for all that are oppressed.
Psalm 103:6.PRAYER: For this assurance, Lord, we thank Thee.

WE ARE HERE

As like the old saying: "We are here" in Lubbock, these days. But instead of it being an army of soldiers it is an army of young Tech students, ready for business. Tomorrow the Tech opens its third year and the number of students is far in excess of the highest number that most of people believed would be enrolled on the tenth year of the history of the institution. Lubbock people did not think that, but other folks away from here did, and many of the newspapers predicted that because of the location of the school in the extreme western part of the state that it would not have the development and growth that it would if placed somewhere else. But that is history, and can be counted merely as one of the misjudged things of this country.

They are here, and Lubbock and the South Plains rejoices in the fact that the young men and the young women of the South are liking the Texas Technological College and Lubbock, and that they come in increasing numbers each term. Lubbock is teeming with young life today. The churches will be crowded with them as they enroll in the Sunday School classes and attend the preaching services, for it is very noticeable that many of them do attend religious services while they are in attendance upon the college here. This is a mighty good indication that they are a group of folks that are worthwhile, and will make a good impression on the sands of time, as they grow and develop into the leaders of the and-in-years to come.

That Lubbock is specially proud of this group of young people and wants them to feel more at home than any other place they could be, the church organizations will show them special honors today by inviting them into the homes of the people of Lubbock. It is a united movement on the part of the churches, and in our opinion it is a mighty good one. At the morning service today every Tech Student who is from any other place than Lubbock will be invited to lunch with some family in this city, and in that way will be able to get better acquainted and it will make the students feel that we have a greater interest in them than merely their presence in this city during the months that the college is open.

Lubbock has always tried to make it as pleasant for the student body as possible, and this year the efforts to keep the young people from getting homesick and lonely will be greater than ever before. It is a fine thing to keep the morale of the student body up, and the pastors and church workers believe that by taking them into the homes in Lubbock and showing more than a passing interest in them this is possible.

And that is not all. The people of this town are contributing their individual funds to the maintenance of a live, wide awake student worker, in the form of a Y. M. C. A. secretary, who will look closely after the interests of the students, help them to solve their many problems, and guide their lives into higher and nobler things than they might drift into, under ordinary conditions. And aside from this the various church organizations will have workers among the students to look after their special denominations, and members of that church in particular. This all goes to show that the people of this community are looking after the student body in a moral and spiritual way, that will no doubt be one of the outstanding features in training of citizens among the young people who will be here this year, and through the years to come.

We are glad you are here young people, and members of the faculty, and you may rest assured that we shall ever be ready to assist you in any way that a city with the people like Lubbock has can.

It is pretty certain that the world is not going to stop moving just because you do not like the course it is going but still people have a right to try to correct things that are proven to be wrong.

WITH LEADEN FEET OF JUSTICE

On the first of January, 1926, a grandstand in Pasadena (California) collapsed during a street parade and several hundred persons were hurt. Ten of those injured died. There was insistent demand that the builder of the stand be punished, and he was arrested, tried, and convicted of manslaughter. He was taken to State prison and the incident dropped out of the news.

September 12, 1927, the grandstand builder appeared in a Los Angeles court for a new trial. The Supreme Court had ordered it after evidence of misconduct on the part of a member of the trial jury which had voted the conviction.

But the Los Angeles judge dismissed the case on the grounds that witnesses have been scattered all over the country. This is true in respect to occupants of the grandstand who survived their injuries. Most of them were tourists who had been in Pasadena for the winter. So it never will be known whether the grandstand builder was guilty or not. He has served more than a year in State prison. Ten persons have been buried. Hundreds of others have a memory of their injuries but they are not going back to Los Angeles to testify.

Yet the leaden feet of justice in this particular case moved with a fair degree of speed. Newspaper readers will remember that the builder of the grandstand was arrested soon after the crash. The trial moved expeditiously and technical appeals did not prevent his going to State prison. But the order for the new trial comes after he had served more than a year of his sentence. No doubt the Supreme Court of California moved as rapidly as the cases on its docket would permit.

The incident is typical of every State and of hundreds of counties within those States. A man is arrested and although entitled to a speedy trial frequently it is the last thing he wants. Keeping witnesses together is one of the greatest difficulties which prosecuting attorneys encounter. It is common enough for witnesses to be discouraged to scatter as far as they can. Defense lawyers know how to distribute encouragement.

The California incident is another argument for rearrangement of our appeals court systems so that cases may be considered as quickly as is consistent with the law and the rights of the accused. Only recently the country has been treated to the glaring illustration of legal delays afforded by the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Every State as well as Massachusetts has its examples.

The public's part is to support at the polls those judges who have established a record for brooking no delays in the trial of cases, and to support every movement designed to simplify and expedite court procedure. Texas voters, last August, rejected the amendments designed to simplify the State's judiciary system, preferring to regard a minor factor of the amendment which many disliked as more important than the amendment itself. And therein Texas voters made a mistake. More educating of the voting public is needed.

MEASURING A LIFE

In writing a tribute to a friend not long since a good Texas lady wrote some splendid thought in bringing out some points regarding the works as well as the deeds that characterized a precious life to the writer. This writer truthfully said that mathematics teaches us that before anything can be measured there must be a unit of measure, and before two things can be compared there must be a common unit. Most measurements are just comparisons. My little cousin who proudly announced that he weighed forty bushels was striving to make himself understood. Bushels and pounds to him were interchangeable; and so they are when talking of corn or potatoes, but not when talking of little boys. There are a number of things that have two standard units, and the lover of figures has worked out formulae for changing from one to the other. Temperature may be Fahrenheit or Centigrade and readily changed from one to the other. Your recipe may call for ounces or tablespoons, pints or pounds, but your kitchen cabinet or some household book has a table for translating from the one to the other.

But no one has ever yet fixed up any kind of a table for interchanging the two units for the measuring of a life. The statistician has something he doesn't know how to deal with. Has the woman who told me that up to the time that her sixth child was born she had never had a cook stove nor a sewing machine, and yet did all the washing, ironing, sewing, knitting and cooking for her family lived more or less in three hundred and sixty five days than the woman who lives in a modern apartment and busies herself with social service? Have they lived just the same? Is it only time that is to be counted in measuring a life, or is it just deeds? And if deeds, how many to the year? The statistician need not bother himself with it all. It was settled a long time ago—It isn't years but deeds that count; the place and number are not so important just so it is the ones nearest the hand and done "to the glory of God."

Now since the City of Lubbock has become the owner of a fine tract of land for park purposes, we see no reason that they not turn this in to a playground for the children of this city.

SO THINK WE

We think that Uncle Sam will have to have another appropriation for the construction of seaching vessels for the lost planes.

We think that the fellow who practices his religion is never considered as a fanatic.

We think the South Plains fair bookers were given a warm welcome in every city they visited yesterday.

We think that it will be a gay day for Abilene when the reception committee from all West Texas greets the pioneer of trans-oceanic flights. Col. Lindbergh may possibly have larger turnouts than the one to be at Abilene but we say not a more appreciative gathering.

We think that a progressive community has one civic development after another—Lubbock's next big development program will be the construction of hard surfaced highways.

We think that if you want to outshine your neighbors acquire a good reputation and keep it polished.

We think that there is always one sure way to get around the road troubles—build permanent highways. Lubbock county should be next in line to put the issue to a vote.

We think that the latest version of a pedestrian is a man whose wife has gone with the car.

We think that it matters not how good the phonograph record is some one is sure to break it.

We think that those who say that life is a burden always make others tired.

We think that it is a very easy task to secure the world's good opinion if you have the right price.

We think that a man may have a grip on his pocket book and still have no intention of traveling.

We think that many pessimists can be found in seven of eight league cities during the last stretch for the league pennant.

We think that the collector of the wages of sin is never turned away empty handed.

We think that no man is entitled to credit for being good if he is not tempted.

We think that zoning laws never will be a complete success until some reference is made of the midnight saxophones.

We think that keeping an open mind does not necessarily mean that everything must be kept out of it.

We think that the new fall hats and clothes are being placed on many of the family appropriations these days.

We think that if too many farms is the trouble with the country today the landing fields and golf courses will attend to it.

We think that if you can be unable to be wise you can at least laugh at those who are.

We think that the husbands who lose the last train usually catch it.

We think that when the yellow streak begins to work out of some people they start having a lot of blues.

We think that after a youngster has made his first ringing speech the next thing he usually does is to purchase the ring.

We think that no city can be a progressive one without boosters. Lubbock has lots of boosters but still she can have many more.

We think that Governor Dan Moody will be greatly pleased with the development of Lubbock as well as the state's youngest educational institution.

We think that it must be a great feeling to state that you will hit a home run for the day. Babe Ruth recently brought before court stated after the charges were dismissed that he would go bust one over the fence—and he did.

We think there is no excuse for any able-bodied man going hungry by the numerous cotton field crying for pickers.

We think that most women would rather manage a man than to be president of the United States.

We think the modest man is one who is able to keep his opinion of himself to himself.

We think there is no man so friendless as the one who has lost his political pull.

We think that the poultry business of the country is looking up and indications are that the coming year will double last year's production in the poultry business.

We think that when a new girl comes to a small town all the boys sit up and take notice.

We think that only a few more days remain until the opening of the annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair.

A SHORT SERMON

BY REV. ARTHUR M. SHAW

"This generation is an evil generation; it seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign of Jonah." (Luke 11:29.)

The text occurs again in Matthew 12:40, and no explanatory comment is given. Christ's own explanation of "the sign of Jonah" is in Matthew 12:41 and is very clear. The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, a greater than Jonah is here." Accepting this as sufficient exposition of that sign, we turn to Christ's refusal to give a sign as the foundation of our theme, "The Miracles Jesus Did Not Perform."

The question of miracles never troubled me greatly. Paul asked Agrippa, "Why is it judged incredible with you, if God doth raise the dead?" Why, indeed? (a) Some object to miracles as violations of nature's laws. No intelligent Christian now believes that Jesus violated the laws of nature. (b) But in denying this some hold that the miraculous involves not the violation but the suspension of law. (c) Still others answer both these statements by saying: "No, miracles simply transcend nature's laws." As a matter of fact, we cannot say that they do any of these things. We do not know all of "nature's laws." Indeed, nature has no laws. God lives and works, and in the visible world his work usually proceeds by certain methods. That's all we know about it. Christ's marvelous works may have been as much in harmony with an unseen divine order and as much in accord with nature's laws as any phenomena observed by man. Jesus was infinitely more than a worker of miracles. Indeed, he often avoided working them, and he generally cautioned those who were benefited by them, to say nothing about it. I think we may profit by the study of some of the miracles he did not work.

1. In the first great contest with Satan he refused to command the stones to become bread to relieve his bodily need, though he afterwards in mercy miraculously fed thousands. He also refused to make a spectacular display of his power by leaping into the throng of people from a turret of the temple.

2. In our text he flatly refuses to give the people a "sign," when there's no doubt that the sign would have won him a great following—for a time, at least. Many think that the main purpose for which he did his mighty works. Some maintain that he is still doing marvels—even such useless marvels as setting saints to gibbering in an "unknown tongue"—simply to show what he can do.

3. When the Samaritan villagers refused him lodging he would not call down a divine judgment upon them. Does he punish men today with trouble, affliction, bereavement, and death? Many think so.

4. Jesus would not force belief on unbelievers. When his own countrymen treated his message lightly, he simply reminded them that prophet is without honor in his own country, and Matthew adds (12:58): "He did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief." Mark says he "could not." Which reminds us that, while there are no physical impossibilities with God, there are moral impossibilities. Jesus generally required faith on the part of those for whom his miracles were wrought: "Dost thou believe I am able?" "According to thy faith, etc." The case of Malchus was one exception. And there are others. It reveals the merciful heart of Jesus and sets a noble example in dealing with enemies.

5. He would not use his power to escape condemnation at the hands of Pilate. "Thinkest thou that I cannot beseech my Father, and he shall even now send me more than twelve legions of angels?"

6. And he should not deliver himself from the cross even when his agony passed all bounds. "And they that passed by rallied on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself; if thou art the Son of God, come down from the cross." But he would not. Nay, he could not! It was a moral impossibility.

Jesus never performed any miracle that was not altogether worthy of God. The wonder is not that he performed miracles. If God revealed himself to men by living a human life among men, superhuman deeds were inevitable. The marvel is that he did not do more, or at least that no more were recorded.

Greater perhaps than any of his works of wonder was his miracle of self-restraint. Among the strongest evidences of the truthfulness of the gospel writers are these miracles that Christ did not work. A modern romancer would have multiplied these recorded miracles many fold. Romish tradition abounds in miracles. The apocryphal Gospels revel in the miraculous. The "Gospel of the Infancy" tells how Jesus as a babe declared himself the Son of God, how as a boy he amused himself by turning his playmates into kids, molding birds out of clay and making them fly, and so on.

Had the evangelists been ro-mancing, their hero would have made bread out of the stones, cast himself down from the temple roof, would probably have destroyed the Samaritan village, and would certainly have confused his unbelieving countrymen, by marvelous works. It is likely he would even have sent Pilate to the cross. But—"He saved others; himself he could not save." His witnesses told their story with artless veracity. They calmly portray a divine man who revealed God's sovereignty in mighty works; his care in the blooming of the lily and the lighting of a sparrow; his kingdom in the hearts of little children, his grace in the souls of all the humble and trusting, and his salvation in a love that went to the cross.

Constitution Is Classic Of Brevity In The Vesting Of Government Power

Editor's Note—The framers of the Constitution looked far ahead of their day, and shown in this article, the sixth of Mr. Atwood's series of 12 on the Constitution. Tomorrow: The Form of Government the Constitution Provided.

B. YHARRY ATWOOD

President Constitution Anniversary Association

The delegates realized that in order to carry out the purpose and plan of the Constitution it would be necessary to make laws, enforce laws, and interpret laws, so they provided for setting up legislative, executive, and judicial departments and vesting them with general power and with specific powers.

The legislative power is vested in a Congress, composed of a Senate and House of Representatives. The executive power is vested in a president. The judicial power is vested in one supreme court and in such inferior courts as Congress may from time to time ordain and establish.

The Constitution of the United States was written in seven articles of approximately 34 sections. The Constitution of the State of Oklahoma, which is illustrative of some of the constitutions of other states, contains 24 articles and there are 60 sections in one article; the Oklahoma State Constitution than in the entire federal Constitution.

This comparison helps us to appreciate the brevity and conciseness of the language used in the provisions of our Constitution for vesting power in the several departments.

Some of the special powers vested in Congress are: to lay and collect taxes; to borrow money; to regulate commerce; to coin money; to raise and support armies.

A specific power which has been under heated discussion during recent months in relation to the selections of Illinois and Pennsylvania for United States senator is the following:

"Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business."

The meaning of this language is very clear that each house has the power to refuse for membership any person whom it, for its own reasons, does not consider properly elected or qualified for membership.

Among the specific powers vested in the president are: To be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States; to make treaties by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Judicial Powers

Some of the specific powers vested in the judiciary are: Jurisdiction in all cases in law and equity arising under this Constitution, laws of the United States, treaties made, in controversies which the United States shall be a party; in controversies between two or more states, between a state and foreign states.

Naturally there are other powers vested in the departments, but these are illustrative of the terseness, statement, dignity of style, wisdom of comprehensiveness, and clearness of expression used in vesting powers under the Constitution.

When we contemplate the bill of dollars that have been utilized in the manifold activities, great enterprises, and marvelous achievements which have resulted from it, it seems almost unbelievable that such simple provisions, which meet all exigencies that have arisen since they were written, and there seems now no reason for making a single change.

Looking Ahead

It is impossible to acquire an adequate conception of the marvel manner in which the powers enumerated without going to the source itself.

When the Constitution was written the location of the national capital had not been determined and the following provision indicates how clearly the authors saw and provided for future contingencies.

"The Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, within such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by casual particular states, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States."

It is remarkable that in a lines such complete constitution provision could be made for the government that no amendment has been necessary regarding it.

The citizens of the District of Columbia have no vote in local or national affairs, and the laws that are administered by a commission, does not consider properly elected or qualified for membership.

LONGING

By Robert J. Craig
Loving Father, come to me,
In my heart I long for thee.
As a mother soothes her child,
Singing songs divinely mild,
Speak, my wounded spirit hears,
Dry these galling, blinding tears.

Jesus—O that wondrous name!
Yesterday and now the same,
Talk to me, I gladly hear,
That which makes my spirit burn.
Thou, Lord, the shadows fall;
Thou to me art all in all.

Holy Spirit, blessed Guide,
Comforter, with me abide;
Teach me, I humbly pray,
To complete my task this day.
O I long to hear "Well done!"
At the setting of the sun.

Nashville, Tenn.
BE STRONG
The little sharp vexations
And the briars that catch and fret,
Why not take all to the Helper
Who has never failed us yet?

Tell him about the heartache,
And tell him the longings for
Tell him the baffled purpose—
When we scarce know what to
Then, leaving all our weakness
With the One divinely strong
Forget that we bore the burden
And carry away the song.

REPEAL OF FEDERAL WAR EXCISE AUTO TAX AS DISCRIMINATION IS SOUGHT BY ALL CLUBS IN NATION

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 17.—Organized motorists under the leadership of the 1939 motor-club constituting the American Automobile Association, moved in a determined fashion today to secure the repeal of the remaining 2 percent war excise tax on passenger cars in the forthcoming session of congress.

Declaring that the tax is burdensome, discriminatory, unnecessary and archaic, Thos. P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., called on all the units of the national motoring body throughout the country to bring to the attention of their representatives in congress the insistent demand of the motorists of the nation that they be relieved of the burden of the Federal excise tax at the earliest possible moment.

To Be Given Committee. Mr. Henry stated that the determination of organized motorists in the matter of the repeal of the automobile excise tax would be presented to the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, which will shortly convene to prepare a new revenue bill to give the taxpayers the benefit of the large surplus in the United States Treasury.

"We shall ask the ways and means committee," said Mr. Henry, "that the repeal of the tax be made a primary item in the new revenue bill. If the committee refuses to eliminate the tax, the car owners of the country must be prepared to force the issue on the floor of the senate and the house, precisely as they did when they secured the first reduction in this war levy." He continued.

Heartily Endorsed

"The position taken by the American Automobile Association as regards the desirability and justice of the abolition of this particular excise levy, which now constitutes a burden of $66,000,000 on the car owners, is endorsed by more than a dozen national organizations, including the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Farm Bureau Federation, National Grange, Rubber Association of America, National Automobile Dealers' Association, National Battery Manufacturers' Association, Automobile Body Builders' Association, National Association of Taxicab Owners, American Drivers' Association, Automotive Equipment Association and Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association."

The reasons why congress should repeal the tax were summarized by the A. A. A. executive as follows: "First, the repeal of this tax would benefit the greatest number of taxpayers, since it is now falling on approximately 2,500,000 people, as compared with 2,500,000 people who are subject to income tax incidence.

"Second, it is a needless support on motorists as a class, since there is ample evidence that the government no longer needs this revenue."

Tax Discriminatory. "Third, the tax is discriminatory in that it continues the war levy on a single product which has already paid $1,000,000,000 to the Federal government as a contribution on account of the world war. To single out and penalize one product while every other product, with the sole exception of revenue, bears no excise tax, is thoroughly inequitable.

"Fourth, the tax now constitutes a peace-time levy on one essential mode of transportation, while all other forms of transportation and communication, have already been relieved of this war impost.

"Fifth, no other group of citizens is bearing as many forms of taxes as such burdensome taxes as are the car owners. In 1935 the tax levy on them, including federal, state, and municipal, was $122,000,000, and the only relief in sight at the moment is from the federal government which no longer needs the contribution it has been imposing on them."

New England, Too, Is A Tourist Mecca Many Avail Selves Of Sights, Sports

By NEA Service

ST. JOHN, N. S. Sept. 17.—Tourists visiting upper New England have had a short jump to make into the historic and beautiful land of Acadia.

Here, for those interested in French, English and American lore, is the country of the first Canadian settlers. Here the loyalist refugees from the United States established their homes in 1783, when it was assured that the colonies would be permanently separated from England.

Nova Scotia, that long stretch of land to the northeast of the Maine coast, is the original Acadia, where the people of Evangeline lived until they were forced out by the British. Acadia reached as far as this city, almost in the center of New Brunswick province, and there are many landmarks still standing, showing the romantic French influence of this early period.

Fish and Game Abound. For the sportsman this country is ideal. Swift streams abound, the lakes are filled with salmon and trout, and more than half the area of the entire province is wooded and alive with deer, bear and wild fowl.

Seventeen hundred miles of well paved highway run through the province in such a way as to cover the country completely. Two railroad lines pass through and take travelers within short distances of splendid fishing and hunting grounds.

Coming up from New England, the motorist may enter by one of three routes. He may go directly to the province along the Atlantic Highway through Portland and Bangor, Maine, striking St. Stephen, the first city. From here he may go on to St. John, by the same southern route, and then farther to the north, Prince Edward Island, at the very eastern edge, or directly across by ferry to Nova Scotia.

Another route into New Brunswick is by way of Edmundston on the northern edge of Maine. This city can be reached by way of Quebec and along the St. Lawrence on the Trans-Canada highway. From Edmundston, the route is southward along the winding and picturesque St. John River through Fredericton, the capital of the province and farther on to St. John.

Down Along the Coast. Instead of entering by way of Edmundston, the traveler may continue along the southern shore of the St. Lawrence as far up as Montreal and then come down along the eastern coast of New Brunswick to Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island. The most important towns on Prince Edward Island is Charlottetown, and the famous city of Halifax, center of shipping and fishing, lies on the southern edge of Nova Scotia.

From almost every point along any highway, trips may be made into the wilds of the province, for fishing and hunting. The laws are liberal and American tourists require no special license except those they ordinarily obtain in the states.

Thousands of American tourists have already availed themselves of the advantages this country affords. Thousands more are expected before the touring season is over. The government authorities are helpful and courteous, so that a journey into this country is altogether a pleasure.

AMERICAN MADE AUTOS LEAD EAST

MARKET EXPANDING RAPIDLY TO EXCLUSION OF OTHERS,
DODGE MAN SAYS

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—Sutherland Pileh, representative of Dodge Brothers, Inc., in the Near and Far East, has just returned to the home office after a year's trip of nearly 50,000 miles. Mr. Pileh visited practically every city of commercial importance in Egypt, Palestine, Persia, India, Siam, Indo-China, Malay States, China, Japan and the Philippines, studying the conditions under which motor cars and trucks, particularly those manufactured by Dodge Brothers, are being marketed.

American made automobiles and trucks predominate in the countries visited by Mr. Pileh, he says, almost to the exclusion of those manufactured elsewhere. He reports that the market for American made vehicles is expanding rapidly in India, although the British, Italian and French manufacturers are making strenuous efforts to regain their one time supremacy which has been practically wrested from them by the United States.

Trucks manufactured in America enjoy a practical monopoly in India. Mr. Pileh states, except for government and municipal use. "As India is governed by England it is only natural that British trucks are used by the government," he says. "However, American trucks even have a foothold in this field, the mail contract in Bombay being served by Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers vehicles."

Returning to the United States, Mr. Pileh visited Hong Kong and Shanghai where all business is at a standstill because of the civil war that has been raging in China for months. China has just imposed a 20 per cent import duty which, Mr. Pileh reports, will undoubtedly still further reduce motor imports to this market.

In Japan Mr. Pileh found automobile sales comparatively good, despite the recent financial crisis. The splendid new roads that have been built from Kobi to Osaka and from Yokohama to Tokio, coupled with other ambitious road developments now in progress, should make this market for United States cars and trucks well worthy of intensified sales efforts, he says.

DAWSON'S FIRST FAIR BIG EVENT

LIVESTOCK, POULTRY, FARM
AND COMMUNITY EXHIBITS
TO BE FEATURED

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal) LAMESA, Sept. 17.—The Dawson county fair will be held on Sept. 23 and 24, and will show livestock, all kinds of poultry and agricultural exhibits together with community booths. Many attractions will be in evidence during the fair, such as rodeos and carnivals.

This is Dawson's first real fair and it is hoped that it will be a starter of what will not only be a permanent fair for Dawson county, but a regional fair for the lower South Plains. There is here a great territory yet not served by any exposition and there is now a demand of such an event at Lamesa.

Lamesa's business men are behind the project and will give liberal premiums on all exhibits. The farmers of Dawson county are taking a lead. All exhibits will be in charge of C. B. Martin and Miss Ezra Grimes, county agent and home demonstration agent respectively.

Above all things, Lamesa and Dawson county welcome all adjacent and neighboring communities and towns to attend.

Cotton Moving Well At Lamesa

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal) LAMESA, Sept. 17.—Cotton is now beginning to come in at a steady pace. Gins are now ready to take care of all the cotton that will come in. Although Dawson county has a greater amount of her cotton acreage in late planting it is estimated that 25,000 acres are of the early planting and it is this that is being picked now.

Sample are turning out fine, according to ginners and buyers and middling cotton is bringing a good price on the market at Lamesa. Cotton picking will be in full swing by the middle of October at which time several hundred pickers will be needed.

Showers Benefit Littlefield Crops

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal) LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 17.—Heavy rains fell in this part of the county Wednesday night and Thursday. This will be very beneficial to all crops and practically assures a good harvest of feed and puts all the moisture in the ground that is needed for cotton. There will be quite a large acreage of wheat sown this fall on the strength of the season already in the ground.

CHAPTER XLVIII

When Vera Cameron arrived, by way of the Long Island railroad, at the Pennsylvania station, her first impulse was to take a taxi but an instinct of caution made her choose the vastly impersonal subway instead. There was a thrill of adventure in the trip—the short ride to Times Square, the taking of the shuttle to Grand Central, the boarding of the East side subway for the long, swift ride to the Bronx.

When she reached the apartment house in which Vivian Crandall, thirty-million dollar heiress, had been living for three months as "Virginia Craig," twenty-five-dollar-a-week legal stenographer, she was immediately swept into a whirl of excited activity.

"For I'm to be married tomorrow!" Vivian Crandall, caroled. "Paul is convinced, at last, the exceptional darling. We're sailing tomorrow at three. Our old passports are still good, you know, so there'll be no trouble on that score. Oh, I'm so happy I want to cry and sing at the same time!"

"Sailing?" Vee-Vee questioned, puzzled. "But I thought you were going to live on Paul's income—my dear, we are!" Vivian assured her. "Paul's bank has been accepted and he has been given a five-hundred-dollar advance—think of it! Five hundred whole precious dollars—a fortune! And the paper he's been working for is sending him to Paris to work. Oh, we're going to be scandalously rich! Now, how did you get here? Did anyone try to stop you?"

"I simply walked out of the house and took a taxi," Vee-Vee reassured her. "Now what are your plans?"

"Well," Vivian swept a pile of clothes from the bed and plumped herself down upon it, "we're simply going to be married—in Connecticut. Paul has found a perfect love of a little old minister over there to say the words over us, and he has promised to keep our marriage a secret until we are safely away. We're traveling tourist third-class, as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allison, of course, so there's no possibility of the reporters getting wind of the story for ages. But aren't you curious as to where you came in?"

"A little," Vee-Vee smiled. "You're to be my bridesmaid, of course, and Jerry is to be Paul's man. Isn't it perfect?"

"Jerry?" Vee-Vee felt the hot blood drying her cheeks and throat and her eyes wavered, miserably. "I don't think Jerry will particularly like this arrangement," she stammered.

"Like it?" Vivian echoed, amazed. "Why, he's Paul's best friend, and I don't know anyone I like so well except my beautiful, unselfish double!"

"I—oh, thank you!" Vee-Vee burst into tears. "But what I meant was that Jerry will not be so pleased to see me, judging from trust a woman to know how to handle a woman."

"What's going on in my kitchen?" Vivian Crandall asked in the doorway. Paul Allison's arm about her shoulder.

"Oh, go away with you!" Jerry chuckled. "I just wanted you to see that all was right with the Jerry Macklynas. Go on with your own appointing. We're busy."

"When you're through crushing the life out of that poor girl, you big brute," Vivian laughed at him. "I want her. I have something to show her."

When at last Jerry permitted Vee-Vee to join Vivian in her bedroom, Vee-Vee was startled out of her hummed condition by a sight which brought a cry of delight and envy to her lips.

For on the bed lay a wedding dress—the kind of bridal robe that every girl dreams of and only fortune's favorites can achieve. It was of ivory-white satin, embroidered richly in seed pearls, with panels of real lace set into its turgid folds. Frothing over the foot of the bed was a dream of a wedding veil all rose point lace and tulle, with an adorable, tiny cap of lace and orange blossoms. Even the tiny pearl-embroidered white satin shoes were there, too, complemented by stockings of intricately wrought cobweb.

"Oh, Vivian!" Vee-Vee breathed, dashing to lay a caressing, reverent hand on the misty veil. "You're going to be a dream of loveliness in this!"

"I? Vivian pretended great surprise. "Why, my dear, don't you know a divorced woman can't wear a veil for her second marriage? That is your wedding dress—from me to you with love." And she took Vee-Vee's face between her hands and kissed her gently on both cheeks.

"But—how did you know that Jerry and I—?"

"Were going to be married?" Vivian finished the sentence for her, laughing. "In betting circles that would have been called a hundred already—went with Paul when he to one shot. Jerry has the license got ours. You're to spend the night with me, then we'll all drive over months with Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Crandall without learning to care for them, to sympathize with them in their tears for their daughter. "I have already written them a long letter, telling them all about Paul and our plans," Vivian answered. "They will be immensely relieved to know that I am not disowning them, and when Paul's book comes out they will be proud of him. Another lovely literary lion above all human creatures."

An hour later, over dinner, the four made final plans for their double wedding.

"I shall have to invite Aunt Flora," Vee-Vee announced suddenly, from Jerry's knees. "She would be dreadfully hurt if I were married without her permission and assistance. And Aunt Flora, justly considered herself a connoisseur of weddings, having been leading lady in four of them herself."

Vivian and Paul exchanged a rather rueful glance, but Jerry joyously led the way to the telephone making sure that Vee-Vee was close behind him by holding tight to her hand.

The soft, drawing voice of Flora Crandall's maid came over the wire. And in answer to Vee-Vee's request, informed her, prefaceing her news with a delightful giggle:

"Miss Flora ain't here. Her and Mr. Preston got married today and went to Atlantic City on their honeymoon."

"How unoriginal of her!" Vee-Vee laughed, after she had given the news to Jerry. "By the way, Jerry, where are we going? Or is that to be kept a secret from me too?"

Broom Corn Raised Near Littlefield

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal) LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 17.—Very much interest in being shown in the production of broom corn, in this section of the country. The first sale of the season was brought in on Monday of this week by Hugh Barber, living eight miles southwest of Littlefield. Mr. Barber has in twenty acres to broom corn, from which he expects to harvest at least seven tons. It has been estimated that there will be something like 225 tons of broom corn produced in the Littlefield trade territory alone this season, and as it is now bringing around $200.00 a ton, this should prove to be very profitable crop for this country.

TRUCKS CONVEY SCHOOL KIDDIES

ENROLLMENT OF LITTLEFIELD SCHOOLS EXPECTED TO GO OVER 1000

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 17.—The Littlefield public schools opened Monday with a total enrollment of 948 for the first day. Of this number about 200 are transported to and from school in the district's trucks.

Twenty-four trucks are being used at present for this purpose. It is expected that by the first of the second week the enrollment will reach 1200. Mr. B. M. Harrison, the superintendent, expresses himself as being well pleased with the outlook for a very successful year of work, with every department thoroughly organized and in charge of experienced teachers.

The school cafeteria, in charge of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Spinks, is considerably enlarged this year, and the best hot lunches served there are very much appreciated by the teachers and pupils.

Major Hoople Writes On Labor-Saving Here's To The Inventors, He Proposes

BY MAJOR HOOPLE McCORKLE
Avalanche-Journal Philosopher

This is the day of inventions, and the fellow who can devise some machine to make life's burden easier is always in demand. It makes no difference what kind of a machine this may be—whether it be a mouse trap or an electric milker. If it will make it possible for us to rest more and work less we will buy all he can produce.

When our forefathers were showing the Indians back across the Mississippi people never worried about work. A muzzle loader shotgun was considered a fair weapon and bear meat a palatable dish. But we have learned better than to appreciate such crude things. We want automatic guns that will shoot nine times before the hunter can stop them, and some of them have to be thrown in the river before they are finally brought under control. Bear meat might be used for fish bait, but not for consumption. Too tough—want something soft, and if science permits we will have it.

That is that. Therefore the manufacturer of labor saving devices always enjoys liberal patronage, and the inventor is given the thanks of a civilized world.

America has a lot of inventors but Thomas A. Edison is one of the best. He has given us many (maybe several hundred) instruments and machines that we accept as a matter of course. We appreciate them in a way, but the only way we have is what we will do when Mr. Edison's life work is ended. Who will take his place? Well, Mr. Edison is a great character and he will be missed by Americans, but his passing will not mean the end of "patents." There are a million people in America today who are working on patents and a lot of them will be useless, many of them will be good. The world is not going to suffer as long as it pays out for labor-saving machines.

We Used To "Get By" When we look back and wonder how we ever managed to live without electric lights, but we did and we were happy without them. In another 20 years the ordinary electric light may look as crude as the old oil lamp does today. Some fellow will devise a machine that will make it possible to bottle or store sunlight, and all we will have today to have daylight is to open a can of sunshine. The only shine we have bottled now is moonshine, and while some of it is rather powerful, it is not sufficient to light up a whole county. Only one or two men can get "lit up" on one container.

Electric sweepers clean our homes, and they are good as far as they go, but before some of us pass the final examination of life we may see a gravity machine that will gather up trash and leave all furniture and rugs intact.

On for the Doctors Medical science is further advanced than most any other, but even the most able surgeon finds the use of a knife and needle necessary. The X-Ray is good and it is possible to locate anything from a twisted appendix to an ingrowing toenail with it but locating and removing are two different things. We need a powerful radium or gravity machine that is sufficient to remove the offending members without pain or loss of blood. Some day we will get it for the knife is too crude an instrument to be appreciated, and the fellow who can make a painless machine to take its place will get a fortune that will enable him to live in Hollywood.

Already we are talking and taking pictures by wireless. Why should one be compelled to dress and ride to the town photographer for a picture when it can be taken

The Age Of Speed

This is the age of speed, and while most of us have very little to do we think we are overworked. Fifty years ago locomotive firemen fed coal wood into the furnace, and they thought they had a "snap." Today we don't need firemen, but the motorman who takes the place of engineer and fireman crumbles about being overworked, when all he has to do is press an electric button, and sign an occasional train order. In time he will have an electric rubber stamp to do his signing.

Even printers are getting grouchy. When they had to stand on their feet and "kick 10-point" by hand they thought life was a pleasure. Now they seat themselves in front of an electric typesetting machine and wonder why the boss doesn't furnish rocking chairs. But they had just as well make the most of it, for in a few years some fellow will make a typesetting machine that will be operated by radio, and the back office force of the print shop will include the office devil and a porter, and the two will take it day about tuning in the radio typewriter.

NEW YORK WOMAN BEATEN TO DEATH WITH QUIRT

ELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)— Mrs. Frank Young, 38, was beaten to death with a whip, or some similar instrument, in her home last night by an unidentified man for whom police were searching. Her body was found by police after her 13-year-old son had informed neighbors a strange man was beating his mother.

14,000 Killed in Five Years
More than 14,000 persons have been killed and nearly three and a half million injured during the past five years as a result of highway accidents, the association stated in explaining the need of such a campaign. Last year the accident toll was 25,302 killed and 759,660 injured, and the economic loss resulting from accidents was $638,875,560. The figures have been mounting steadily for five years.

The American Road Builders' Association, which is the world's largest organization representative of the highway industry, has inaugurated its safety drive in an effort to start the accident figures on a downward path. The contest, designed to bring out new ideas for safety, is an important, long campaign.

First Prize is $500. There will be nine other prizes totaling $500. The awards are offered for "the best workable plan that will decrease street and way accidents. The plan, the association explains, "may be a complete comprehensive thesis, a description of a single idea, or a description of a highway type. The plan must be practical, capable of being put into operation at reasonable expense."

Winners will be announced by press and by radio January 1928, during the annual convention and road show of the Association in Cleveland January 9 to 15, report compiled from the submitted for the contest will be presented to the convention.

14,000 Killed in Five Years
More than 14,000 persons have been killed and nearly three and a half million injured during the past five years as a result of highway accidents, the association stated in explaining the need of such a campaign. Last year the accident toll was 25,302 killed and 759,660 injured, and the economic loss resulting from accidents was $638,875,560. The figures have been mounting steadily for five years.

The American Road Builders' Association, which is the world's largest organization representative of the highway industry, has inaugurated its safety drive in an effort to start the accident figures on a downward path. The contest, designed to bring out new ideas for safety, is an important, long campaign.

First Prize is $500. There will be nine other prizes totaling $500. The awards are offered for "the best workable plan that will decrease street and way accidents. The plan, the association explains, "may be a complete comprehensive thesis, a description of a single idea, or a description of a highway type. The plan must be practical, capable of being put into operation at reasonable expense."

Winners will be announced by press and by radio January 1928, during the annual convention and road show of the Association in Cleveland January 9 to 15, report compiled from the submitted for the contest will be presented to the convention.
