Leftists Claiming Victory In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Leftist forces claimed victory today over rightists in the struggle for the presidency and their leader, Gen. Juan Jose Torres, marched into La Paz in triumph.

With popular support growing for Torres, Gen. Rogelio Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff who forced President Alfredo Ovando Candia to resign Tuesday, was reported to have taken asylum in a foreign embassy. Two members of his junta also were said to have taken similar refuge.

NEW GOVERNMENT

Torres pledged a new military-civilian government in a speech to the people and said it would be a popular one of the nationalist tendencies. He is expected to assume the presidency.

He said the government would have four basic pillars—the farmers, workers, students and the armed forces.

He declared his was "the revolution of the people and manifests its unwavering will to continue toward the goal of national liberation."

Groups of leftist university students forcibly occupied the homes of military men and civilians considered to be rightists.

Union workers took over the conservative newspaper El Diario, the oldest and most respected in Bolivia.

Dispatches from the interior said leftist workers in the tin mines had expelled Bolivian and foreign technicians of the Mining Corp. of Bolivia, known as Comibol.

People poured into the streets after the announcement of a new government, and some shouted, "Government of the people!"

Groups occupied the building of the Bolivian Institute of Social Studies, run by Roman Catholic priests of the Dominican Order of the United States. The priests were accused by leftists a few months ago of being in the service of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

BOMB PALACE

Torres came to La Paz from his air base headquarters outside the capital and was cheered by the people along the way. Air Force planes flew low overhead along the line of march.

During the night one member of Miranda's three-man junta, Gen. Fernando Sattori, the air force commander, went over to Torres. The two other members drove out to confer with Torres, whose planes had bombed the presidential palace during the night, but caused little damage.

The two, Gen. Efrain Guachalla and Rear Adm. Alberto Albarracin, arrived at Torres' headquarters at the military base of El Alto 12 miles outside La Paz and told him: "We come in peace."

Torres showed them some trucks filled with armed peasants and several army units with their rifles and artillery and said he was ready to attack the government forces.

After the two junta members met with Torres and his rebel command, Torres emerged and told his followers: "Our revolution has won. The two who visited me resigned just now."

Torres' forces circled LaPaz, and encountered no resistance as they occupied the presidential palace and the municipal palace.

Civilians marched on the local jail and freed some leftist prisoners. There were reports police opened fire on the civilians, then joined the revolutionary ranks. No casualties were reported.

Radio broadcasts said Miranda, Guachalla and Albarracin had sought asylum in an unnamed foreign embassy but this was not confirmed.

The country's largest labor union and student and professional organizations called a general strike in opposition to the rightists. The leftists claimed control of Cochabamba, Bolivia's second largest city.

A brief bombing attack on the presidential palace in La Paz and a machine-gun attack on Miranda's command post were the only violence reported in the military power struggle, now in its fourth day. There was no word of casualties.

WANT TO FIGHT

Groups of university students asked for arms to fight Miranda's forces and called for a government that would be "nationalist, of the left and with participation of workers and students."

Miranda led a bloodless rebellion Sunday against President Alfredo Ovando Candia, another general, and Ovando resigned early Tuesday and took refuge in the Argentine Embassy. Miranda then quit his army post, appointed a successor and named him with the navy and air force commanders to a governing junta.

Hormone-Beef Ban Imposed In Sweden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sweden has informed the United States it will no longer permit the importation of meat from animals fattened with hormones.

The ban, imposed last month, adds to a confusing worldwide patchwork of laws and procedures aimed at regulating the use of such hormones as diethystilbestrol.

Virtually all beef in the United States is fattened with this hormone, which is also called DES. The impact of Sweden's decision is not clear, since officials say other nations which have imposed similar bans have reached some sort of accommodation with existing U.S. practices.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says a requirement that farmers withdraw hormone-laced food from cattle 48 hours before marketing protects Americans from eating DES, which is banned from the U.S. food supply because it caused cancer in mice.

Government tests, however, have turned up DES residues in beef supplies in each of the last five years.

The Swedish Veterinary Board, in its report on the import ban, identified 13 other nations which prohibit the feeding of hormones to meat animals. The Swedish group also identified West Germany, France and Italy as other nations which ban imports of meat from animals fed hormones.

Checks with U.S. Agriculture Department and embassy officials in Washington verified that the Common Market, Sweden, Australia, New Zealand, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Switzerland and Ireland ban the feeding of hormones to meat animals.

FEDERAL GRANT
Allocation Given HCJC

Approval of a $41,580 work study allocation for Howard County Junior College was announced today by Cong. Omar Burleson.

He notified Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, that the grant would be to cover 130 students. The sum reported is part contribution toward a total approval in excess of $88,000.

Actually, the college is the administrative agency for several governmental and public service agencies which utilize the young people who must have some work to make it possible to attend school.

The total of the local agency requests was for $109,000, but the figure was pared to $88,000. Participating agencies contribute about 20 per cent toward the cost of the program.

Eggers Slated To Speak Here

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, one of President Nixon's staunchest supporters, and Paul Eggers, Republican candidate for Texas governor, are scheduled to address a Republican fund raising dinner at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Cosden Country Club.

Local Republicans who have not been contacted about tickets for the event should call the W. J. Sheppard & Co. real estate office on Wood Street to make reservations.

The announcement that Eggers will attend the dinner was issued from his campaign headquarters, but has not been confirmed by local Republican officials.

Cops Trying To Track Down Capote

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — California authorities say they have spent 3½ fruitless months trying to track down author Truman Capote and arrest him on a contempt of court charge —but they're still looking.

Capote is accused of failing to respond to a prosecution subpoena to testify as a witness in a murder penalty trial in Santa Ana. A bench warrant was issued for him June 22 in Superior Court.

Since then, Gerald Stevens of the district attorney's office said Tuesday, authorities have tried in vain to get in touch with the author either directly or through his attorney.

Stevens said he believed the 46-year-old author, who has an apartment in New York, a house on Long Island and a desert retreat in Palm Springs, Calif., is now on the Spanish island of Mallorca.

"We have made arrangements," Stevens said in an interview. "If Mr. Capote is found in California we'll arrest him."

Capote, author of "In Cold Blood" and "Breakfast at Tiffany's," had interviewed the defendant in a murder trial, Joseph Morse, in 1967 while Morse was in jail awaiting sentencing for killing his mother and sister, Stevens said.

Soon after, Morse, 25, strangled a fellow inmate. He was tried and convicted of murder again. Capote was subpoenaed to testify at Morse's penalty trial in this second case.

Morse eventually was sentenced to death for the inmate's death and to life imprisonment for the deaths of his mother and sister.

Dist. Atty. Don Keller said Morse told Capote in the interview that if he ever got out of prison he would kill again.

Police Officers In Danger, Guerrilla Conspiracy Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate panel, spurred by testimony of an alleged nationwide guerrilla conspiracy, was urged today to act swiftly on bills enabling federal law enforcement against police assassins.

"Since 1960 close to 600 policemen have been murdered in this country," said Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., testifying in behalf of his bill allowing the FBI to investigate slaying of policemen or firemen.

86 SLAIN

"Last year there were a record number of 86 such murders," Williams said in testimony prepared for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Besides Williams, Sens. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., were set to support their plans to combat the problem. Both Williams and Scott, the Senate Republican leader, are candidates for reelection.

Wliliams' bill would authorize the FBI to enter the case of the murder of a fireman or law officer within 24 hours on the assumption the killer had fled across state lines.

PATTERN

In testimony Tuesday, police officials from California, Omaha, Neb., and New Orleans testified they see an emerging pattern in attacks on policemen that show a national conspiracy is involved.

Capt. Murdock J. Platner of Omaha and Deputy Commissioner Louis J. Sirgo of New Orleans said in separate statements they have evidence members of the Black Panther party regularly monitor police frequencies to frustrate law enforcement activities.

Charles O'Brien, California's chief deputy attorney general and a Democratic candidate for attorney general, testified he fears increasing theft of heavy arms from military arsenals may one day result in terrorists being able to outgun police. He told of a 100 per cent increase this year in killings of law officers in California.

NO DOUBT

O'Brien said he has no doubt the Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panthers are engaged in national conspiracies.

"Revolutionary manuals explaining the clandestine use of explosives and emphasizing the special qualities of the mortar in guerrilla warfare are distributed by the SDS Weathermen, by black militant groups, by the Minutemen and by greedy dealers who profit in the sale of guerrilla warfare manuals," O'Brien said.

First Lame-Duck Session Since Korean War Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — With many members out campaigning, Congress has decided to recess a week from today and return Nov. 16 for a post-election session its leaders predict will be a disaster.

The lame-duck session—including some members whose successors have been elected—will be the first since early in the Korean War.

Most of the pressure for a recess has come from the House whose 435 seats are up for election Nov. 3.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania had said a post-election session will be a disaster.

Since members know an adjourned session is assured, "it is going to be increasingly difficult to get a quorum" betwen now and Oct. 14, Scott said.

Attempting to establish an agenda for the remaining days before the recess, Mansfield has put at the top of the calendar a constitutional amendment to guarantee equal rights for women. However, he did not predict the House-passed proposal can win approval before the election.

He said he fears a filibuster against the amendment but hopes to consider it during daytime and act on crime bills, a job-safety measure and other legislation at night.

DRUG SALES

He called up Tuesday night a bill which sets criminal penalties for drug sales and other crimes, regulates the manufacture and sale of dangerous drugs, and controls drug imports and exports. Debate on the bill is expected to continue through tonight at least.

Mansfield said there is a possibility the Senate may try to pass before the recess a $66.7 billion military appropriation bill approved by the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday.

The House plans to act on it Thursday. The House now is considering an organized crime control bill the Senate passed in January, legislation that is part of the anticrime package urged by President Nixon.

Under tentative plans, a combination Social Security-welfare reform bill is to be the first order of business for the Senate when Congress returns Nov. 16. The House is slated to start off the post-election session with a bill providing for import quotas on textiles and other products.

Measure To Curb Organized Crime, Bombings Due Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive bill designed to curb organized crime and terror bombings headed for overwhelming House approval today.

With law and order an issue in many election campaigns, members had clamored for a chance to vote on the measure, closely patterned on one passed by the Senate last January 73 to 1.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., who brought the bill to the floor Tuesday, said his Judiciary Committee had removed some "extremely repressive provisions" from the Senate bill and also cleared up some constitutional questions.

"It is no panacea for the problems of crime and violence," said Celler, "but it will help."

Celler said public hysteria over crime had helped shape the Senate bill and he urged Congress to give attention to the root causes of crime and disorder.

"The use of naked power is not enough," he said. "We must deal not only with law and order, but with justice as well."

The bill, really 11 bills in one, amends a number of criminal statutes to permit local, state and federal authorities to deal more effectively with organized crime.

Seven provisions are concerned with strengthening procedures for apprehension, indictment and conviction of persons engaged in organized crime, particularly the leaders.

Other sections are aimed at the $7 billion-a-year gambling business run by crime syndicates, and at infiltration of legitimate businesses by mobsters.

The section dealing with terror bombing was added by the House Judiciary Committee at the request of the Nixon administration. It provides for federal regulation of the sale and distribution of explosives and strengthens criminal penalties for their illegal use.

Although there has been heavy pressure on Celler to get the bill to the floor, only a handful of members took part in Tuesday's debate. Most expressed strong approval, but a few protesting voices were raised.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., said the bill was "a clip-and-paste job put together hurriedly to give the impression that Congress was doing something about crime. He and Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., said nothing in it deals with the problem of crime in the streets, which most people are worrying about.

SOUND BARRIER — Sound-reflecting walls, such as this one at Frankfurt, West Germany, International Airport, have been built to cut down noise from jet airliners like the plane taking off. The walls measure 50 feet high and are 2,300 feet long. Situated at end of runway, they cut down on complaints of noise from nearby residents as well.

PEAK SEASON ENDS

CRMWD Totals Higher Than 1969

The Colorado River Municipal Water District closed out its peak season with a record September total of deliveries, monthly production records showed today.

Paschal Odom, assistant general manager, said that the district produced 1,270,533,783 gallons for the month, which boosted the year's total to 12,166,467,953 gallons.

The September figure was up 24.66 per cent over the same month a year ago although oil company deliveries have been curbed sharply. The cumulative total for the year is up 21.18 per cent, although oil and industrial use is down by 8.7 per cent.

The cities used 1,009,115,000 gallons, up principally by the amount Midland used. Figures for the month showed that Odessa took 339,080,000 gallons, down 2.29 per cent; Big Spring 202,313,000, up 2.02; Snyder 65,716,000, up 17.35; Stanton 3,103,000 (it was using its own wells September, 1969), and Midland 398,903,000 (it was not a customer a year ago).

Oil and industrial deliveries amounted to 261,418,783 gallons, down 37.38 per cent from September, 1969. Approximately one-third of this volume of water was in non-potable water diverted from the low flow of the Colorado River as a pollution control step.

The cities have used 8,871,435,000 gallons through the first three-quarters of the year and mining and industrial users 3,295,032,953 gallons. In June, the latter category of users were cut to 50 per cent of normal deliveries from Lake Thomas.

Drifter Charged With Five Robbery - Murders Arrested

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A drifter charged with the robbery-murders of five persons that netted less than $500 was arrested here Tuesday night as he waited to board a bus back to St. Petersburg — 30 miles from the death scene.

Henry Thomas Ashley, 27, was unarmed when federal and state agents took him into custody on a warrant charging him with flight to avoid prosecution.

He was scheduled to appear before U.S. Commissioner P. Donald Dehoff in Jacksonville today on the unlawful flight charge.

Pasco County authorities Monday charged Ashley with the murders of two couples in a roadside tavern near New Port Richey and the death of a hitchhiker whose bullet-riddled body was found on a Gulf Coast beach Sunday.

In New Port Richey, Sheriff Gaines said 20-year-old Richard La Plante was killed by a motorist who gave him a ride late Saturday night.

La Plante's body, pierced by ten .22 caliber bullets was found on a beach early Sunday by fishermen.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dorn and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Vaiana were discovered in the Dorns' restaurant-tavern about noon Sunday. Ten more expended shells from a .22 caliber pistol were scattered about the tavern floor.

Gaines said investigation showed that the gunman-robber got less than $500 from the five victims.

Kiwanis To Install New Officers Thursday Night

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club will boost the number of past presidents in its membership to 20 Thursday when installation of officers is held.

The affair will be at 7 p.m. in the Howard County Junior College cafeteria.

Dr. Dawson DeViney will turn over the reins to Jack Worsham in ceremonies conducted by John Coffey, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis International Div. 22 and himself a past president of the club.

Others to be installed are Don Lovelady and Bob Bradbury, vice presidents; and Delaine Crawford, secretary-treasurer; also Ben Bancroft, Louis McKnight, Billy Smith and S. A. Walker, directors. Hold-over directors are Dr. DeViney, Don Green, G. G. Morehead, and Henry Thames.

Bill Johnson will be master of ceremonies for the club, and music will be by Ralph Dowden, chairman of the HCJC music department, and Jeff Talmadge, lieutenant governor of the Key Clubs of this area. Joe Gordon, Henry Thames and G. G. Morehead also will have a part on the program.

'It Didn't Work Out That Way'

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — When Linda Anderson moved to this Orange County community two weeks ago, she decided to enter the local beauty contest to meet other girls her age.

"It didn't work out that way," said the 19-year-old brunette, the new Miss Fountain Valley. In a town of 30,000 she was the only entrant.

Could Be 267 Trial Cases

The weeks of Oct. 19, Oct. 26, Nov. 16 and Nov. 30 have been set as jury weeks for Howard County Court. Docket call was held Monday afternoon in County Courtroom for the 267 cases on the County Court docket.

According to County Attorney Bill Eyssen, the exact order of cases to be tried has not yet been set. A substantial number of defendants have indicated that they want a trial, said Eyssen. Twelve defendants have entered guilty pleas since Monday's docket call, and all but one plea involved driving while intoxicated charges. One defendant pleaded guilty to aggravated assault.

1971 Budget For CRMWD Up For Study

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will consider a proposed budget for 1971 when they meet in Big Spring Oct. 15.

O. H. Ivie, general manager, said that the staff is in process of putting final touches on proposals for the board to consider.

Also on the agenda will be the opening of bids for a new concrete spillway at Moss Creek Lake, which will have its level raised by 10 feet in time for next summer's peak demands on the district's supply system. The project is estimated at upwards of a quarter of a million dollars.

Other general business of the district will be on the docket, including possibly discussion of some longer-range activities.

Defendant Gets 45 Years For Robbery

Steve Lewis Blanchard, 22, received 45 years in prison for his part in the July 10, 1969, robbery of a Stanton service station. Martin County jurors at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday found Blanchard guilty and returned the sentence at 11:30 a.m.

Blanchard was arrested in Midland with three companions after the robbery in which station attendant Marcos Tarango, 35, was shot to death.

Two persons are already serving sentences in connection with the robbery. Donald Smith, 22, formerly a sergeant at Webb AFB, is serving a 35-year sentence for robbery. Smith pleaded guilty to robbery Jan. 28, 1970. His wife, Wilma, 21, pleaded guilty to robbery and murder and is serving two concurrent 10-year sentences.

George Lewis Hite, 22, the fourth party in the case, was found insane June 8, by a Stanton jury and confined to Rusk State Hospital. Hite is under indictment for both murder and robbery.

Ski-Masked Bandits Take Gems Valued At $350,000

DALLAS (AP) — Four robbers in ski masks took jewelry which police said was valued at $350,000 from a Dallas contractor's home Tuesday night.

Armed with carbines, the bandits accosted J. L. Williams, Frederic Wagner, their wives and a small daughter of each couple as they returned to the Williams home after a dinner engagement.

Detective Thomas Willingham said the jewels, including a set of rings worth $57,000, belonged to the Williams family.

After escorting their victims inside, the holdup men bound all six with Williams' neckties and quickly sacked up their loot. They fled in a 1970 Cadillac owned by Wagner.

Williams, 48, and Wagner, 49, are partners in a building construction firm.

Police were told the intruders appeared to be men in their 20s and 30s and they treated the two families "fairly well."

In addition to Mrs. Williams' jewelry, the robbers forced her husband to hand over an $11,000 ring and a $3,000 wrist watch. Each of the men was relieved of about $500 cash, and the bandits made off with two shotguns belonging to Williams.

The two families were held up as they alighted from a car in a driveway behind the expensive two-story home of Williams. A maid also was tied up after the gunmen herded the other six people inside.

Willingham said the victims worked free of their bonds and notified police soon after the intruders departed.

Orange Object Mystery

ST. JOHN's Nfld. (AP) — The Canadian Coast Guard ship Bartlett resumed a search at dawn today for an orange object, one of several spotted in the Altantic off Newfoundland where three balloonists disappeared last month.

A tracker aircraft from Canadian Forces Base Shearwater in Nova Scotia was joining the ship and chartered aircraft in a sweep of an area off St. Mary's, on Newfoundland's south coast.

A spokesman for the rescue center in Halifax said today that photographs taken over the search area definitely showed "an orange object in the water. What it is, depends on your interpretation."

Pamela Brown, 28, and Rod Anderson, 32, of New York, and Malcom Brighton, a British aeronautical engineer, left Long Island, N.Y., on Sept. 20 in a balloon in an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

A spokesman for Air Transit Ltd. here, whose aircraft first spotted the orange object Saturday, said: "It's better not to speculate on what the objects are."

But Air Transit Manager Jim Collins said he thought there was a strong possibility that if the three survived the initial impact with the water when the balloon came down they could survive.

"It's only been two weeks . . . people have survived longer than that in the Atlantic," he said. The balloonists were "well equipped."

The trio's last radio message Sept. 21 said they were losing altitude off Newfoundland.

DEATHS

E. R. Diaz, 83, Retired Farmer

Services are pending at River-Welch Funeral Home for Estanislao R. Diaz, 83, who died Tuesday in a local hospital after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Diaz was a retired farmer.

He was born in Mexico Nov. 12, 1886, and came to Big Spring in 1942 from New Braunfels. He married Francisca Montelonga June 24, 1922.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Leandro Diaz, Dallas, S.Sgt. Fred Diaz, Victorville, Calif., and Alfredo Diaz, Desota; four daughters, Mrs. Julia Cabanban, Watsonville, Calif., and Mrs. Clara Hilario, Mrs. Herminia Hernandez and Mrs. Maria Vera, all of Big Spring, and 31 grandchildren.

Henry Williams, Retired Rancher

Retired rancher Henry Allen Williams, 39, was found dead Tuesday in a local hotel. Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter ruled death due to natural causes.

Local arrangements are being handled by River-Welch Funeral Home. The body will be taken to San Angelo for funeral and burial.

Mr. Williams was born May 6, 1931, in Milton, Okla., and had lived in Big Spring six years, coming here from Colorado City. He served in the Army during the Korean war.

Survivors include his father, Henry Williams, Chowchilla, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. H. L. Bethane, San Angelo, and Mrs. Hazel Moody, Bedford.

A. G. Mitchell's Mother Dies

Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, 82, mother of A. G. Mitchell, died Tuesday afternoon in a Denton hospital. She had been sick for some time.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Jack Schmitz and Son Funeral Home chapel with burial in Roselawn Cemetery, Denton.

Survivors include three other sons, Dr. R. B. Mitchell, San Antonio, M. H. Mitchell, Frisco, and T. J. Mitchell, Baton Rouge, La., nine grandchildren, and 15 great grandchildren.

Stanton Rites

STANTON (SC) — Servies for Raul Espinosa Vasquez Jr., 15, of Seminole and formerly of Stanton, are set for 4 p.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The Rev. James Coleman will officiate. Interment will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

MAJOR STATEMENT ON SOUTHEAST ASIA TONIGHT

Nixon's Talk Dovetails With Peace Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will make what he terms a major statement on Southeast Asia tonight in a speech dovetailing with a new U.S. proposal to be offered at the Vietnam peace talks Thursday.

Nixon set elaborate plans to brief key congressmen, the Cabinet and diplomats ahead of his scheduled 15-minute address to be carried live on radio and television.

8 P.M. LOCAL TIME

The broadcast will be at 8 p.m. Big Spring time.

But the White House remained mum on what new offer negotiator David K. E. Bruce will lay on the bargaining table at Thursday's weekly meeting in Paris with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong envoys.

CEASE-FIRE

There was speculation Nixon might propose a cease-fire, or a Geneva-type multination conference on Southeast Asia, or special talks on prisoners of war or a combination of various items aimed at breaking the lengthening deadlock at Paris.

There was talk, too, that Nixon might unveil a speedup in U.S. troop withdrawals beyond the timetable he set last April. At that time he announced another 150,000 men would be brought home from Vietnam by next May, including 50,000 by Oct. 15.

The administration has been expected to make a move on the Vietnam peace front before next month's elections. Nixon, however, told newsmen Tuesday "We do not consider this to be a propaganda gimmick. We are not saying it simply for the record.

NEGOTIATING

"The statement is one that has been prepared only after very thorough consideration of all the issues that are involved in our negotiating position," Nixon said.

"It is a statement that has been discussed with the government of Vietnam, the government of Cambodia, and the government of Laos, and has the approval of those governments . . . .

"It will be the most comprehensive statement ever made on this subject since the beginning of this very difficult war . . . .

"It will cover all of the major issues that are involved in the Southeast Asian area."

The President arranged to brief the Cabinet at 5 p.m. and legislative leaders of both parties an hour later.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers was assigned to do the same for diplomats from interested foreign governments during the day.

THIEU UNHAPPY

Nixon made his announcement within hours after returning from his nine-day European trip. While in Ireland Sunday, he held a special conference with Bruce and his deputy at the peace talks, Philip Habib.

Following Nixon's announcement, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu summoned Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky home from a European tour, arousing speculation in Saigon that Thieu was unhappy with the new U.S. proposal. Political sources said Thieu called Ky home to consult about a possible public response to the U.S. initiative.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was believed to have communicated the terms of the U.S. proposal to Thieu at a meeting Monday.

It will be Miss Moreau's first American-made movie.

Gas Guessing

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 13 square mile natural gas field near here is estimated to contain 60 to 130 billion cubic feet of untapped gas.

The different estimates come from the Texas Gas Transmission Corp., now trying to purchase mineral rights to the field, and local land owners who are fighting acquisition of the field by the company.

The company says the gas is worth $9 million, but the landowners put the figure at $20 million.

Routine Surgery For Sen. Aiken

BERLIN, Vt. (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., 78, has undergone what an aide described as routine surgery at Central Vermont Hospital.

The aide said Aiken was feeling well after the operation Tuesday and expected to be out of the hospital in four days to a week. Aiken is ranking Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Six Times No Charm For Gina

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida quit six times while rehearsing for her first television drama and the sixth time he accepted, producer-director Barry Shear says.

That, Shear said Tuesday, is why Geraldine Page has replaced the Italian actress in a segment of the "Name of the Game" television series.

Shear said Miss Lollobrigida insisted on too many script changes in the segment, "A Sister from Napoli," in which she was to play a Roman Catholic nun.

The producer added: "She found a lot of reasons why she would quit that I personally believed were based on her uncomfortableness at working in this country, as a guest star, at the pace we do TV. We shot 10 pages a day and do 90-minute shows, the equivalent of a feature film, in 10 days instead of two or three months, which she is used to."

Miss Lollobrigida, contacted at the home of a friend, replied, "complete nonsense." She said she once did a 20-page TV special in Italy on very short notice.

She said the "Name of The Game" script was bad and inadequate.

Wife Of Rookie Policeman Shot

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A rookie policeman was relieved of duty early today pending an investigation of a shooting in which his wife was wounded, officials said.

The officer, 26, on the force about 10½ months, was released from jail on a writ of habeas corpus after he was booked in connection with the shooting.

The woman, also 26, was in undetermined condition at a hospital with wounds in the chest and left hand.

Police inspector Jack Hutton said the shooting occurred late Tuesday night at the couple's home. Hutton said the patrolman was relieved of duty pending an investigation.

'Permanent' Mobile Homes Cause Controversy Here

By HOWARD SIMMS

Modular housing lost round one in Big Spring Tuesday night when Carl Strom's request for a zoning change and specific use permit was denied, but Strom predicted that "prefabricated housing is on its way here."

Strom asked for the approval of the planning and zoning commission on a plan for installation of lots in the Central Park addition in the face of a protest from a number of residents of the area.

Strom said he planned to start each unit with a mobile home furnished in Spanish decor to take advantage of factory construction quality, anchor them to the concrete piers of a permanent foundation, and add a porch, carport, storage room, yard fence, and (money permitting) five pecan trees.

LOW INVESTMENT

He said the mobile homes he had in mind would have living areas of 798 square feet in the mobile home property on large 7,000 square foot lots, representing a capital investment about half that of other houses in the same area. Because of this, Strom predicted, the venture would present no danger to the property values in the area.

A dozen owners of property in the area took a different view. Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach, 637 Manor, said, "Our house has an area of 1,700 square feet and a double garage, and building this type of housing certainly would devalue our property."

Rev. O. D. Robertson of the Highland Church of God, 610 State, said the church trustees had studied the matter, and he relayed their request that the zoning be left as it is since they are considering buying lots north of the proposed prefab housing site to build a parsonage and church.

W. I. Finley, 624 Settles, F. T. Archer, 1002 Howell, Orville Bright, 1010 Howell, and Haynes A. Howell, 1009 Howell, said they had put a lot of expense into their property over the years and thought the prefabricated houses would not be on a par with other neighborhood property values. E. L. Whatley, 1023 Stadium, added, "It doesn't look like this is the place for it."

PLACE TO BEGIN

Dr. Lee O. Rogers, 300 Washington, who said he was neither in favor or opposed to the idea, commented, "I don't know if this is the right place to begin, but we have paved streets and utilities within the original townsite, and we need to avail ourselves of the facilities and utilities we already have instead of leapfrogging farther out in the country."

W. H. Bethell, 614 State, asked whether the prefab homeowner would face the same sewer specification and tax evaluation standards as conventional homeowners.

Public Works Director Nolen Chafin said sewer specifications are being upgraded in a mobile home ordinance amendment now being drafted.

LOWER TAXES

Former tax evaluator Novis Womack said he thought the tax situations would be comparable, but the mobile home taxes might be somewhat lower for the same size dwelling.

In rebuttal, Strom said modern construction costs are the obstacle to building houses on a scale equal to that of other houses in the area.

"I've come up with this idea for the forgotten man, the working man, capitalizing on modern construction and modern methods," he said, and asked permission to set up one prefabricated home so people could see whether it works out.

Asked why he couldn't set one up next to his own house first, Strom replied, "The land there would cost too much, and frankly my wife wouldn't let me do it."

The planning and zoning commissioners considered letters of protest and a petition against the proposal before voting unanimously to deny the requested zone change. They expressed a desire to wait on any zone changes for mobile home developments until a more comprehensive mobile home ordinance is drafted and approved.

Barrow Judging Under Way Today

Judging of the 25th annual Howard County 4-H Barrow Show will get under way at 7:30 p.m. today at the stock show barns at the rodeo grounds.

Most of the 4-H club and Future Farmers of America members entering hogs in the show had arrived this morning, in time to spruce up their animals for showtime.

Bill Scott, agricultural education instructor from Abilene, will judge the contest, which youngsters from the six county 4-H clubs and three FFA chapters are expected to enter.

An auction scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday will give the boys and girls a chance to get a financial return on the time they have put into feeding and caring for their hogs.

Bidding will follow the rules established in the spring stock show, when two separate bidding sessions will be opened for each hog. First a per-pound bidding session will establish the "floor," roughly equal to the market price of the animal.

Second, bidders will be allowed to "raise the floor" with premium price bids not based on the weight of the animal, so that relatives and friends who want to show their support for the 4-H program will be able to bid a total sum, usually averaging about $40.

Cold Front Off Fresh Snowfall Texas Bound

By The Associated Press

Showers kept parts of waterlogged Southeast Texas damp today but there was no word of any deluges to match the near-cloudbursts in that section the day before.

A cold front off fresh snowfall in the Rocky Mountains approached the Texas Panhandle, meanwhile, and still more rain was expected to accompany its march downstate Thursday.

As much as 7.19 inches of rain in Orange caused floods which closed streets and lapped into some business places Tuesday, and several tornadoes spun through the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Water rose bumper deep at Orange and elsewhere in the county but authorities said no evacuations were necessary.

One of the twisters dipped to earth near Fannett without causing damage. Others spun through the sky near the Jefferson County airport between Beaumont and Orange.

Heavy thunderstorms spread over most of East Texas later, continuing well into the night. They caused a severe thunderstorms watch to be posted for seven counties in Northeast Texas and parts of Louisiana and Arkansas.

Sizable downpours around Beaumont also caused high water. Streets filled and a major underpass was closed at Beaumont, where the measurement was 3.19 inches. Amounts ranged from 4 to 7 inches in the north part of Jefferson County and one neighborhood in Port Arthur received 3 inches.

Musical Career Not Lifelong Dream Of Famed Lyric Soprano

By LINDA CROSS

"If there was ever any singing to be done, I did it," said Dorothy Warenskjold, classic recitalist, on her early musical efforts in high school.

"I never had any idea of being a singer. I studied privately in San Francisco and then went on the Mills College where I majored in languages. I didn't take any music lessons until my second year there, and then I had no thought of a musical career until my third year of studies," added Miss Warenskjold.

She first performed with the San Francisco Symphony and then went to New York.

"In New York, I got national management and began my career as a touring recitalist," she said. Since then, she has appeared with such organizations as the San Francisco Opera Company, the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra, and other groups across the country.

One of the most unusual performances Miss Warenskjold made was in Denmark at the Rebild Festival. The festival was begun by some American-born Danes to celebrate the Fourth of July, she said. According to Miss Warenskjold, it is the custom for the Danes to sing the American national anthem while any Americans at the festival sing the Danish anthem.

CONCERT SOLOIST

After several years as a concert soloist, Miss Warenskjold began organizing touring companies like the one that performed at City Auditorium Tuesday night. Her troupe is composed of young classical artists, many of whom are getting their first public exposure.

"It's really a master class for young artists where they learn theater techniques. One of the reasons I began this group was to give young people a chance. There aren't many opportunities for young classical artists to perform. This is not a choral group like so many groups; all of these young people are soloists," said Miss Warenskjold.

"The other reason for the group is that I believe the audience has been left out in the last 15 or 20 years. So many artists are so wrapped up in their performance that they forget that if there was no audience, there would be no need for the performer. With the audience in mind, I plan each program to tell a story," she added.

The format which was presented Tuesday night is the same that the group has presented five nights a week during their 12-week tour which will cover 12,000 miles. The program is divided in halves. The first half tells the classical story of "Faust," the man who sold his soul for the power of knowledge.

Miss Warenskjold's presentation of "Faust" consists of 40 minutes of selected arias and the more famous choruses from the opera — "just enough to tell the story."

The second half of the program is a unique performance among musical groups. Miss Warenskjold and her troupe present a brief history of the development of American musical comedy, from the old minstrel shows to "My Fair Lady."

The musical history segment is divided into three parts designed to allow the audience to trace the evolvement of musical comedy through the subtle changes in the music, according to Miss Warenskjold.

"I had first thought of adding spoken explanations to the program but I decided against it. The music stands alone," she said. Miss Warenskjold said that musical comedy is a purely American art form that reached its peak in "My Fair Lady."

"The reason that we do not go beyond "My Fair Lady" is that that was the end of the development of musical comedy. Nothing new has really been added since that item. Our program is sufficient to tell the story of the development of musical comedy," said Miss Warenskjold.

Warm Audience Response For Tuesday Night Concert

Judging from reaction of the audience, it was favorite-tune night at the opener of the Big Spring Concert Association season Tuesday evening.

Slow to warm to the synoptical version of "Faust," the audience nevertheless gave this first half of the program a rousing ovation at the close, occasioning several curtain calls.

Dorothy Warenksjold, whose Musical Theatre opened the series, was well received in her solo passages, but the Soldier Chorus was one of the most popular.

Voices were good and interpretation precise, but there was a notable lack of animation along with projection from the tenors, who, however, must be credited with fine quality and execution.

The musical fare Miss Warenskjold had prepared for tracing the genesis of the American musical theatre appealed to the heavily adult audience.

The ever-popular Victor Herbert "Sweet Mystery of Life" with Miss Warenskjold and Richard Lombardi provoked a generous response.

Lombardi was excellent in the Gershwin "Ain't Necessarily So," pumping some fun into the somewhat restrained presentation.

D. Edwin Binder scored heavily with "Some Enchanted Evening" from South Pacific, and Andrew Rawn, who had run the role of Mephistopheles, did well in several passages.

Peter Roberts' tenor was clear and easy without pressing, and Lombardi and Mariam Boyer, mezzo, were well cheered as were Charles Whitewolf and Maria Delores Ferraciola. Charles Vick, baritone, moved with assurance and ability through several solos and duets. One of the most spontaneous hands of the evening was for Raymond McFeeters, who did a marvelous job of accompaniment at the piano. —JP

Posse Members Get Belt Buckles

Four members of the Howard County Sheriff's Posse were awarded belt buckles Tuesday night for 100 per cent parade participation. The buckles were presented to Al James, Joe King, Cecial Allred and Ruby Allred.

Plans have also been announced for the second playday in a series of three. The playday will be Sunday in the posse arena on the Andrews Highway, with registration beginning at 1 p.m. and the events starting at 2 p.m. Entry fees will be 50 cents per event.

At the close of the third playday, the high point rider in each age group will be presented a belt buckle. Ribbons are awarded through fifth place in all age groups.

Seemed Thrilled Just Before Slain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Just before he was slain at Sharon Tate's estate, a teenager phoned a friend to say: "You won't believe where I am."

"He seemed excited, impressed by where he was," said the friend, Gerrold Friedman, testifying Tuesday at the Tate murder trial about his telephone conversation with Steven Parent, 18.

"He said something to the effect that he was at the home of a movie star—someone big."

Parent, a friend of the caretaker at Miss Tate's estate, was killed along with the actress and three visitors Aug. 9. Police say the killings came just after midnight.

Friedman, 26, said Parent called him about 11:45, saying he wanted to stop at Friedman's house on his way home.

The dark-haired witness, wearing steel-rimmed sunglasses, testified briefly for the state as the trial proceeded with the defendants barred from court.

Charles Manson, shaggy-haired chieftan of a hippie-type clan, is on trial along with three women followers charged with murder-conspiracy in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others, including Parent.

The defendants were ousted from court Monday after Manson leaped at the judge and had to be restrained and the women chanted in singsong fashion.

The defense asked Tuesday to have the trial delayed until the defendants agree to behave in court. Judge Charles H. Older denied the motion, saying: "let's not waste any more time."

Manson and the women listened to testimony via loudspeaker in detention rooms near the courtroom.

Landry Finds Life Of Loser Isn't Easy

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — In World War II, Tom Landry was a B17 pilot. One wonders if the flack was as thick then as the guff he's getting these days over the Dallas Cowboy quarterback situation.

Landry yanked second-year quarterback Roger Staubach after two interceptions Sunday in a 20-7 loss to St. Louis and inserted Craig Morton with no effect.

It was early in the second quarter and Staubach didn't like it. The Cowboys trailed 6-0 and Staubach felt it was only a matter of time until he had the offense purring.

"That's not football," Staubach said.

The fans had their say Tuesday at the monthly Cowboy luncheon.

"How would you like it if Mrs. Landry had doubts about you?" asked one fan.

Landry pondered a moment and said, "Maybe that's why she's not speaking to me."

The Cowboy offense—only last year the best in the National Football League—is sinking out of sight with fumbles, interceptions, and crippling penalties.

"We're in a shakedown period right now," said Landry. "I would like to go with just one quarterback, but you have to see a trend to warrant doing that."

Landry said he realized team morale was down.

"I think mental attitude is important and we don't have good mental attitude right now," he said. "But that will pickup with a few victories."

One fan, obviously in an irate mood, asked Landry, "Do you get paid to come to these luncheons?"

Landry answered "Yes, and you just ate it."

Cincy Turf Could Pose Big Problem

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles could be at a disadvantage playing World Series games on Cincinnati's artificial turf, but the Reds may face a stiffer challenge when they encounter Baltimore's infamous hitting background.

Ever since the Orioles returned to the major leagues in 1954, batters have complained about the white houses which form the chief backdrop behind the center field fence.

Gripes don't come only from the opposition. The Orioles complain, too.

Trees planted beyond the fence haven't grown high enough, and there has been talk about erecting a fence just to provide the proper dark background.

WANT A CHANGE

At an Orioles' stockholders meeting, a minor stockholder took note of the constant complaints and suggested that the club offer to foot the bill for painting the houses across the street a different color.

"The Reds are going to be shocked when they see the ball come out of those white houses," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "It may take them two games to see the ball. That's a fact."

"It even bothers us to a certain extent," Weaver said, "but we're more used to it and we know a few things we can do about it."

Even the Minnesota Twins, who play at least six games in Memorial Stadium every year, complained after Jim Palmer held them to seven hits and struck out 12 in Baltimore's 6-1 American League pennant clincher on Monday.

Even though the Twins had played in the park before, Weaver said he understood their complaint because it was a day game. "Most day games in Baltimore are low-scoring games," he said.

As for the Cincinnati Astroturf, Weaver contends it "won't be a factor at all."

"In fact," he said, "our field is more unpredictable. Grass on top of dirt differs from day to day because of the amount of moisture in the air or on the ground. The infield might be fast or slow depending on Mother Nature. On Astroturf, after you field a few grounders, you know exactly what the ball is going to do."

TRAVELS FASTER

Baltimore outfielder Frank Robinson, who played in the All-Star game at Cincinnati, said both infielders and outfielders have to play deeper on the Astroturf because the ball travels faster.

"You have to be careful on line drives and on high flies which take a big bounce," Robinson said. "And I don't think there's enough dirt around the bases. You have to think about getting to a certain spot before beginning your slide."

MIDLAND IS TOUGH

Storm Flags Are Flying In Camp

Big Spring High School scouts have described Midland High as a powerful team capable of playing much better ball than it showed against Permian last weekend.

Midland was routed, 54-7, by the Panthers but the two teams played it very close for a while. Once Permian got three touchdowns ahead, Midland showed a tendency to slow down.

In the games they reason they can win, the local scouts say, the Bulldogs can be very salty — and Midland is being picked to win Friday night's game with the Steers here.

The Bulldog backfield may not be quite as strong as it was last year, when Galberson Zachery led the Purple Gang to a decisive victory.

In junior Hal Guttery, however, the Bulldogs boast a quarterback with the quickest release seen by the Steer scouts this year. Guttery is also a good scrambler and excels at working the option.

Midland is also big and mobile up front. The Bulldogs have good tackles in Jim Smith, 190; and Bruce Mailey, 199; able guards in G. Lasseer and Steve Johnson and a better than average blocker in center Bryan Vinson.

Guttery gets help in the Midland secondary from Steve Robnett, 166, a strong runner and a good pass receiver; Don Sutton, 182, a fullback who plays with much authority; and Fountain Smith, a flanker who, because of his quickness, is very dangerous on kickoffs and punts. Fountain is also a good pass receiver because of his tremendous speed.

James McElory and Roger McCleskey play the end positions for the Bulldogs. Both have very good hands and run their patterns well.

Coach Larry Click of Midland was new to the league last year when he guided Midland to its upset win over the Steers. He has every intention of making it two straight this year.

Midland was higher rated in pre-season polls than Big Spring, having been placed fourth in most 5-AAAA polls whereas Big Spring wound up next to last.

Dick Bumpas Is Good As Best, Says Coach

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas defensive Coach Charley Coffey coached Steve D Long and Loyd Phillips the year each won the Outland Trophy, but says neither played better than Arkansas defensive tackle Dick Bumpas Saturday night against Texas Christian University.

"Bumpas trapped the passer two times, forced two bad passes and caused two interceptions," Coffey said. "He also had five unassisted tackles and two assists. He played as well as any lineman I've ever been around."

For his performance, the 225-pound senior was named The Associated Press' Southwest Conference defensive player of the week.

"Bumpas played the best game of his career," said Razorback Coach Frank Broyles after reviewing films of Arkansas' 49-14 victory over the Horned Frogs. "In fact, it may have been the best game by a down lineman since we've been here."

SURPRISED SELF

"I kind of surprised myself when I watched films of the game," Bumpas said. "I guess I played better because my hand was better and that was our first conference game."

Bumpas broke the thumb on his right hand in fall practice and played the first three games of the season with the thumb immobilized by tape.

Bumpas said the Arkansas defense had a special incentive against the Frogs.

"(Steve) Judy pretty well embarrassed us last year," Bumpas said of the TCU quarterback. "He ran us all over the lot last year. We knew what we had to do and we made up our minds that we weren't going to let them do the same thing to us this year."

Arkansas made a clean sweep of the weekly honors when quarterback Bill Montgomery was named offensive player of the week.

Montgomery, a senior who has led Arkansas to two straight 9-1 seasons, completed 13 of 20 passes for 265 yards against TCU.

Regional Sports Car Meet Due In Lubbock

The regional West Texas meeting of the Sports Car Club of America will be held at the Reddy Room, 1120 Main, at 8 p.m. Saturday in Lubbock.

There will be discussion about forming a new division within SCCA. This will be followed by the election of 1971 officers. Nominees are Lindsey Marchbanks, regional executive and formerly of Big Spring; Steve Willingham, assistant regional executive; Pat Whittington, secretary; Frances Clark, treasurer, all of whom hold these offices; also Costa Unias, competition license chairman; Henry Knight and Allan Little, publicity co-chairmen and editors.

The club will sponsor a gymkhana Sunday at Briarcroft Shopping Center, 50th and Ave. Q in Lubbock. All interested sports car enthusiasts as well as members are invited.

Catfish And Bass Biting In Mitchell's Two Lakes

COLORADO CITY — Fishing has been good in Colorado City lakes, according to reports reaching the Chamber of Commerce. There were particularly good catches of yellow catfish, also several fine black bass and a number of crappie.

The reports include:

Louie's Lakeside Lodge — Oleno Haddock, Ackerly, caught 10-lb., 7-lb., and 6-lb. yellow catfish; also a 4-lb. and a 3-lb. bass, as well as a 3-lb. channel cat in the north lake area.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Henderson, Lubbock, caught a 15-lb. yellow cat in the south part of the lake.

Farrell Ezzell, Midland, hooked a 7-lb. appaloosa catfish.

John W. Ayphe, Lubbock, caught a 6-lb. yellow catfish in the middle of the lake, using goldfish for bait.

Virginia and Charles Guess, Lorenzo, caught a pair of 6-lb., a 5-lb. and two 4-lb. yellow catfish in the middle of the lake in about 9-11 feet of water.

City Park — Brooks Dorn caught a 27-lb. yellow catfish.

Mrs. Ross Seay caught six crappie and 10 catfish. The crappie weighed half to 1½ pounds, and the catfish half a pound.

Charles Ray Burdett, Big Spring, hooked two bass, one weighing four pounds. Another unidentified man came in with three bass weighing up to three pounds.

Cooper's Cove — Mrs. Jack Price, Big Spring, came in with a pound and three-quarter crappie caught on minnows.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Stanley caught two channel cat 1½-lb. and half a dozen pound and a half crappie. They also caught a 2-11 black bass, one yellow catfish weighing 4½-lb., plus some smaller cat.

Mr. Haygood, Big Spring, hooked a 2½-lb. black bass, and netted several good channel cat.

Hallie Allen, Midland, reported catch 20 channel cat, plus one 3-lb. catfish on trotline, using shad and blood bait.

Texas, Troy, Huskers Given Nod By Scribe

NEW YORK (AP) — The conference races get going in earnest this weekend with such early classics as Southern California-Stanford in the Pacific-8, Missouri-Nebraska in the Big Eight, Michigan-Purdue in the Big Ten, Mississippi-Georgia in the Southeastern and Princeton-Dartmouth in the Ivy League.

Spicing the menu are such traditional staples as the annual Texas-Oklahoma war in Dallas and Army-Notre Dame at South Bend.

Southern California at Stanford—Three minutes after last year's game was over, with USC winning 26-24 on Ron Ayala's last-second 34-yard field goal, hardly any of the 82,812 stunned spectators had left the Los Angeles Coliseum. The year before it was 27-24, with Ayala also providing the winning points on a 34-yard field goal.

In fact, USC has beaten Stanford 12 in a row since 1957. So you know the Indians are out for revenge and they had to be thinking Trojan thoughts when they lost to Purdue last weekend, with Jim Plunkett throwing five interceptions.

Stanford kept five injured regulars out of the Purdue game and four of them are expected back Saturday. "Plunkett is as good as any quarterback who ever played out here," says USC's John McKay.

USED TO WINNING

But the Trojans have a quarterback named Jimmy Jones, who, says McKay, "has one advantage—he's never lost a game." In McKay's words, Southern Cal "runs at you for a while and then passes over you."

They run at you with as deep a group of backs as any coach could want—tailbacks Clarence Davis, Lou Harris, Mike Berry and Rod McNeil and fullbacks Charlie Evans, Sam Cunningham and Bill Holland.

Attention Rose Bowl: Your host team in January will be . . . Southern Cal.

Missouri at Nebraska—Mizzou's 17-7 victory last year enabled the Tigers to tie the Cornhuskers for the Big Eight title. This time, they both have great runners, slippery receivers and strong lines, but Nebraska also has a quarterback . . . two, in fact. Nebraska.

Michigan at Purdue—The Boilermakers went from the ridiculous to the sublime, losing to Notre Dame 48-0 and upsetting Stanford 26-14. Michigan has had trouble scoring, but so have their foes. Purdue.

Mississippi at Georgia—No one else has been able to stop Archie Manning so why should Georgia? No reason. Ole Miss.

Princeton at Dartmouth—These bitter rivals triple-tied with Yale for the Ivy crown a year ago when Princeton ended Dartmouth's unbeaten season with a 35-7 triumph in the finale. They've owned or shared the title for eight of the 15 years of formal Ivy play.

A high school prospect who visited Princeton last February after spending some time at Dartmouth told Coach Jake McCandless, "You'd better be ready for Dartmouth in the fall because they're playing the game right now."

QUICKEST TEAM

But quarterback Jim Chasey's ankle may still be a bit tender while Princeton has its quickest team in years. Princeton.

Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas—This game will have to do until World War III comes along. It's an annual attraction of the Texas State Fair and the Friday night pep rallies and near riots in downtown Dallas have become legendary. Besides, Darrell Royal got the winning habit when he played for Oklahoma, but he now coaches at . . . Texas.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

It's difficult for people in this land to keep things in the proper perspective. We're apt to go overboard on horses, religion, crockery sets, collections of jade or football.

About football, we can get very emotional. Coaches weep genuine tears in talks delivered at post-season banquets and those poets of the press box are forever comparing incidents associated with the game to great moments of history — perhaps because their audiences expect it.

A very sincere man long on football moxie, one Vince Lombardi, came to the end of his days recently and limpid saline fluid fell during eulogies delivered all over the land.

One who took a more realistic and, for that reason, a more interesting view of Lombardi's passing was Donald Kaul, who puts his thoughts to paper for the Des Moines Register.

* * * *

Kaul conceded that Lombardi was a great football coach and a fine man. What distressed the writer, however, was that some eulogists also tried to represent him as a symbol of what is right about America — a personification of the qualities that characterize us as a country. That, Kaul offers as a demurrer, Lombardi was not.

In many ways, the writer pointed out, Lombardi's career is illustrative of what's wrong with this country.

"Certainly, Lombardi possessed many admirable qualities — commitment to excellence, intelligence of a higher order, the ability to influence his peers," wrote the Iowan, "but it must be remembered to what use he put his gifts."

"He devoted his life to the instruction of men in the playing of a boy's game. Now that's nothing to be ashamed of, but from a social standpoint it doesn't compare with attempting to build a just society or finding a cure for cancer or selling insurance, even.

"That he should attain the status of a folk hero over candidates of more substantive achievement — Saul Alinsky, Walter Reuther or Ralph Nader, to name but a few who exemplify the sterner virtues — is a sad commentary on the quality of our national life."

* * * *

Sadly, Mr. Kaul is right. Americans have always been the type of people who could express great concern over the decline of the water buffalo in India but ignore the plight of the unwashed in their own community.

* * * *

Kaul says it would be difficult to imagine a pioneer being impressed by the exploits of a professional football player.

"What's so hard about that?" the pioneer would probably say, "No one was shooting at him."

"Today," Kaul writes, "we as a society have removed heroism from our everyday lives and have made it a spectator sport.

"Thus a man whose notion of self sacrifice does not extend beyond running out of beer on Sunday sees no irony in his identification with well-conditioned thugs who knock each other down for a living. 'Vince Lombardi?' he'll say. 'Wunnerful guy. A real American. They don't make 'em like that any more. Discipline. These kids today, they got it too easy. They got it all handed to them on a silver platter. We need more guys like Lombardi, that's what.'

"The guy that is generally saying this is an athlete himself. He plays golf — when his golf cart isn't broken. While the harsh code of Lombardi was universally admired, the country seems to be more attuned to the values of Hugh Hefner. Buy groovy clothes, racy car, stay away from entangling alliances and make a lot of loot. The best things in life cost money.

"The pattern is endlessly repeated in our national life. Is the draft an imposition? Then do away with it and hire ourselves an army.

"Do we need more law and order? Let's hire ourselves some cops and let them handle it.

"Do we need a sense of national purpose? Well, let's put a lot of money into a space program and people it with astronaut heroes. That'll get it done. So long as it only takes money, we can do it.

"The sad fact is that the blood in our veins seems to be running thin. Our entertainments grow increasingly superficial, our vision of life narrower and our heroes smaller.

"In viewing the film, 'Patton,' one was struck by the similarity between Gen. George Patton and Vince Lombardi. Both were strong, dominant men of gigantic egos fired by a fierce dedication to duty as they saw it. But whatever one's opinion of Patton, one must admit that he affected the fate of nations. For better or worse, he mattered.

"Vince Lombardi won two Super Bowls."

Local Men Active In Consolations

Two Big Spring handball players won first round matches in the W. D. Neel Handball tournament in Midland during the weekend, and two who dropped matches are scheduled for consolation round contests Thursday.

Pete Cook lost to Tom Heiting, Odessa, 21-17, 21-18, and Don Farley forfeited to Bob Sumpter, Midland.

Ray Thomas beat Jay Hardy, Midland, 21-8 and 21-12, and Tito Arencibia beat Howard Cherry, Midland, 12-21, 21-16, and 21-10.

In the second round Clark Howard, Odessa, nudged Ray Thomas 21-18 and 21-17, while Bob Sumpter edged Tito Arencibia 21-17, 12-12, 21-1.

Thursday Cook will play Dwayne Hamilton, Midland, and Don Farley will face Howard Cherry.

Bulldogs Must Hold Scrambler

COAHOMA — Except for the usual run of knocks and bruises, the Coahoma Bulldogs came out of their runaway victory over Hamlin Friday in excellent shape.

They go Friday to Ranger to tangle with the Class A team with a 2-2 record. Ranger is probably less formidable than before since it lost its great tailback, but then Jesse Spear, quarterback, is enough to fill the Bulldogs with caution. He is considerably better than average in passing and likes to scramble when the pressure mounts.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please explain to my husband what is wrong with parents getting their three-month-old baby girl's ears pierced? We just did, and we have not heard the end of it from his parents and mine, and from a whole lot of relatives, and even some friends who thought they had to tell us what they think about it.

His parents are barely speaking to us, and when they do they get back on the subject of having the baby's ears pierced, and have called us "crazy, uncivilized, cruel and stupid" We have had it.

Do you know when ear-piercing started and in what country? I know it's been going on for a long time, and it wasn't considered crazy. FED UP

DEAR FED: Ear piercing dates back to the early Egyptians, but if you're planning to use that as an argument in support of your action, I'm afraid it won't help you much. What's done is done. But in fairness to the child, you might have waited until she was of an age to have expressed an opinion. After all, they're HER ears.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I shop at a well-known store in town, and on several occasions I've been told by a certain saleslady who usually waits on me that the item I've asked for is not available thru the store — but she can get it for me. And she does. She "orders" it and delivers it to my home personally. It's slightly cheaper than it would have been had I bought it through the store.

I make the check out to a "trade name," which I imagine she used for this purpose.

The merchandise is O. K., and so is the service, and the price is right. Since the shop couldn't provide me with the item, is this dishonest?

I don't feel right about it because this sales person has asked me not to mention it to the owner of the store.

I am not one to cause trouble, but what do you make of this?

MRS. NO NAME

DEAR MRS.: The sales person obviously has her own business going on the side. This is strictly dishonest. Small wonder it's cheaper. She has no overhead. Her employer not only provides her with a place to do business, but with "customers." If you continue to "buy" from her, you are a party to her dirty deal.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Much has been said about men coming to the table "topless" with hairy chests exposed, and I happen to be a man who agrees, it looks terrible. But how many women go around all day in sloppy housecoats and run-over shoes with no makeup on, and they don't bother to fix themselves up a little before their husbands get home? Before marriage they would never have dared to let their boy friends see them that way, but after marriage, they don't care.

Also, a man who has had his face scratched while trying to make love to his wife who has brush rollers in her hair has grounds for divorce. I, for one, do not intend to put up with it any longer HAD IT

Alcoholism Hits U.S. Taxpayers For Giant Bundle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Up to 224,000 civilian employes of the federal government may be alcoholics whose sickness is costing the taxpayer more than $300 million a year, Congress was told Tuesday.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said in a special report, however, that this loss could be wiped out with an alcoholism control program costing just $15 million a year.

Among proposals before the subcommittee is a bill that would require federal agencies to establish programs for treating alcoholism among their employes and guarantee employes suffering from alcoholism the same employment conditions and benefits as people ill from other causes.

Overseas Postal Deadlines Told

If you have friends or relatives serving in the armed forces overseas, you'll have to act early if you want letters and packages to arrive before Dec. 25.

Local Postmaster Frank Hardesty said that parcels and ordinary mail must be sent by Nov. 6; greeting cards by Nov. 12; space-available mail covering parcels up to five pounds, Nov. 20; Parcel airlift-mail involving packages up to 30 pounds, Nov. 27; and straight airmail and parcels and greeting cards at straight airmail rates, Dec. 11.

Sea Search Abandoned

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — Search for two Marine fliers presumed lost in the Atlantic off the South Carolina coast has been dropped.

The men and their Phantom Jet disappeared Sept. 30 while on a training flight from the Beaufort Marine Air Station.

The station said when last heard from the craft was about 55 miles from the station over the ocean.

An air and sea search ensued but was abandoned when no traces of the plane or fliers was found. The crewmen were the pilot, Maj. Vincent T. Nolan of Cherry Point, N.C., and 1st Lt. Michael K. Kilpatrick of Lone Star, Tex.

Five Webb Men Honored

Five U. S. Air Force officers and one enlisted man from Webb AFB have been selected for inclusion in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Young Men Of America." Nominated earlier this year, these men were chosen for the publication on the basis of their achievements.

Chosen at Webb were: Captains Richard D. Cook, Dennis G. Scarborough, Corliss E. Zylstra, Brian N. Minturn, and James W. Fisher, and S.Sgt. Raymond R. Besaw, who recently was rotated to Southeast Asia.

Doug Blankenship, past U. S. Jaycee president (1962-63) who is serving as Chairman of the Board of Advisory Editors, said that the men selected "have distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor to the point of being outstanding."

Criteria for selection includes a man's service to others, professional excellence, business advancements, charitable activities and civic and professionsl recognition.

Sheriff Files Attack Count At Sherman

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Harry Blake Christian, already held for trial for murder and robbery, will now face charges of assault to commit murder after allegedly attacking Sheriff Woody Blanton with a sharpened wire in a cell at Grayson County jail last Friday.

The new charges were filed Tuesday by Justice of the Peace A. L. McGuire.

Christian is also charged in the beating death of J. C. Edwards, 61, on July 20, 1968. Clifton Lee Cannon, 21, and Nelson Henry Mask Jr., 24, both of Sherman, are also charged in that case. Mask is still at large.

Judge Refuses To Delay Bombing Of Buses Trial

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Two men charged in the bombing of the Longview public school bus fleet lost motions for continuance of their scheduled Oct. 12 trial Tuesday. They won some other points.

U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice, however, took under advisement a challenge of the writing of the indictment. Defense attorneys claimed the word "public" was deleted in reference to the Longview schools.

$25,000 BONDS

The judge also took under advisement a motion by the attorneys, Joe Tunnell and Merritt Gibson of Longview, for a bill of particulars.

Charged in the case are Fred Loyd Hayes, owner of the Land o' Pines Catering Service, and Kenneth Ray Masters, one of Hayes' salesmen.

Both were named in a federal indictment returned in July with conspiracy to deny Negro students of the Longview Independent School District "privileges secured to them by the U.S. Constitution" and with setting explosive charges under about 33 of the vehicles.

The accused have been free on $25,000 bond each since July 29.

BUSES BLASTED

The buses were blasted and some of them heavily damaged on the night of July 4 as they sat parked in the school district's staging area. Most were repaired by the opening of school.

On another motion by Gibson and Tunnell Tuesday, Judge Justice ruled in favor of the defense and directed that they have access to certain information held by the government.

The judge, on a motion to modify the defendants' release on bond, denied a request they be allowed to carry firearms but permitted them to communicate with certain persons they had been prohibited from talking with under conditions of their bond. They can now talk to these persons, Judge Justice ruled, only when accompanied by Tunnell.

Selection Of Officers Who'll Judge Under Way

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Attorneys began selecting today the officers who will judge S. Staff Sgt. David Mitchell, the first defendant to reach trial stage in the alleged May Lai massacre.

The minimum of five officers must be picked from a 10-man court-martial panel to sit on Mitchell's court.

Each side may remove one member of the panel arbitrarily and may challenge any number for good cause.

If they run out of prospective members for the court, the commanding general for the 1st Armored Division will have to name more officers to the court-martial panel.

The defense hopes to show through questioning of the panel members that Mitchell cannot get a fair and impartial military jury.

The judge said Tuesday he would not entertain a motion to change the trial site until after the defense establishes this.

Tower Concedes More GOP Cash Spent On Senate Race

By The Associated Press

Republican spending in the Texas race for U.S. senator came up for an airing Tuesday in Washington.

The rival candidates—Democrat Lloyd Bentsen and the GOP's George Bush—offered defenses for President Nixon, meanwhile, against some criticisms.

Bush and Bentsen also came face to face at a dinner in Paris, where they exchanged a cordial handshake and both spoke briefly.

Sen. John Tower, the Texan who heads the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, discussed that group's cash outlay in response to a complaint by two fellow party members, Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Edward Brooks of Massachusetts.

TRAVEL CREDIT

Hatfield and Brooks had said the committee provided Bush, now a congressman from Houston, $72,879 for his campaign by Sept. 1 while Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York received only $5,600 and a travel credit card in his bid for re-election.

Tower acknowledged that a larger amount went to Bush but he said Goodell was supplied more money than had been reported. He refused to give exact sums in advance of the committee's report to the clerk of the House of Representatives, due about 10 days before the Nov. 3 election.

The Texas senator is allied with the GOP's conservative wing. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has called Goodell a radical-liberal.

INHERITED MEN

Tower said he is guided in distribution of campaign money by the chances of a candidate to win, organizational support, how much Democrats are spending on the race and other resources of a candidate.

Bush and Bentsen flew to Paris in separate planes and spoke at the Lamar County rural-urban dinner, attended by about 700.

The Republican candidate told the audience he backs President Nixon's fiscal program and said, "I don't think the people want someone to kick the President on the economy. He inherited a mess."

Bentsen has asserted that his opponent supports a welfare measure which would provide a guaranteed annual income, and Bush said it was not that but "a long overdue reform of our present inequitable, disastrous system."

und., take 2 texas politics:
system."

BIG SPENDERS

Speaking in similar vein at College Station earlier, Bush said, "One has only to recall that from 1960 to 1968 the big spenders poured $60.2 billion in inflationary deficit spending into the economy. So President Johnson is right and Lloyd Bentsen is wrong—President Nixon certainly can't be blamed for inflation."

Bush discussed campaign tactics in another speech at Irving.

"The differences between the two campaigns are becoming more obvious. I am for answers as opposed to non-answers. I am for direct solutions, not distortions."

Bentsen referred to the welfare reform measure again at Paris.

"Most members of the President's own party are deserting him in the Senate on this bill," the Democratic nominee said. "It's more than they can take when the so-called work incentives in the bill are so weak that a woman in New York City heading a four-person family would receive more net income from welfare than a woman with an income of $7,000 earned at work . . . .

OPPORTUNITY

"I am for guaranteed opportunity, not guaranteed income."

Bentsen put in another word for Nixon in remarks prepared for students at Austin College in Sherman today, saying he thinks it is unfair to blame the President for failing to prevent campus disorders.

Killer Twister Causes $33 Million In Damages

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — City, state and federal officials were poised today for the expected announcement from Washington that Shawnee, with an estimated $33 million in damage from Monday's killer tornado, qualifies as a major disaster area.

Earlier estimates ranged from $3.5 million to $6 million.

Bruce Cafky, Oklahoma City office director for the Small Business Administration, said he expects Washington to make the official designation sometime today, qualifying the city for low interest, long-term loans to rebuild.

Mayor Pierre Taron issued the new estimate of total damage to the city from the funnel which hopscotched across the community of 25,000 late Monday afternoon.

The tornado's fourth death was recorded Wednesday when Alex Taylor, 66 died of injuries he received in front of the Brackeen Buick Agency, which was demolished by the twister.

Two men were killed inside the building and a woman died in a house trailer.

The victims were John Coats, Roy Lee Coats and Mrs. Allen Roberts.

Eighty other persons were injured.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♡	Dble.	3 ◇
Dble.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♣

A premature double by West on today's hand left his side on the short end of the score.

West opened the bidding with one spade and North overcalled with two hearts which East doubled. He expected to take book in his own hand and anything that his partner could contribute would be pure profit.

South promptly rescued his partner by bidding three diamonds, reasoning that his seven card suit would probably provide a safer haven.

West was caught in the rhythm and doubled three diamonds which became the final contract.

West opened the three of clubs and declarer boldly finessed dummy's jack which held the trick. He followed with the ace and king to discard one of his losing spades. A diamond was led to the ace and South continued with the ten. When diamonds divided three-two, declarer conceded two diamonds and two spades and claimed his doubled contract.

West could have defeated his opponent by underleading the ace of spades at the opening gun. East wins the first trick and West must overtake the next round with the ace to give his partner a ruff. Lacking the benefit of a peek at all hands, West is not open to criticism for his choice of leads. His judgment in doubling three diamonds is questionable, however.

West might have reasoned that when South ran from two hearts, the latter was short in that suit and therefore East's heart tricks might not be cashable at a club contract. The prospects for a substantial killing were not bright and the prudent course would have been to pass and hope for a small profit.

No Mobile Home Zoning Until Council's Changes

Planning and zoning commissioners turned down two mobile home development zoning changes Tuesday night to await passage of an updated mobile home ordinance and decided to recommend approval of two specific use permits to the city commission.

A permit requested by Marcelino Rangel for sale of beer and wine for off premises consumption at the Hilltop grocery, 1706 W. 3rd, and a permit requested by Mrs. O. C. Morrow to allow installation of a mobile home at 1107 W. 7th specifically for use by her mother will be sent on to the city commissioners.

Requests by Bill Chrane and Carl Strom for zoning changes allowing mobile home developments were denied in view of the fact that city officials are in the process of drafting an amendment to the city code to provide better regulation of mobile home parks.

Nolen Chafin, public works director, told planning and zoning commissioners he is almost ready to send the amendment to the city manager and city attorney who will then take it to the city commission.

Speculating on the time required to pass the amendment after it is written, Jim Bill Little said he thought recent changes in operating procedure allowed passage without a "bothersome" public hearing on top of the public readings in the city commission meetings.

Chafin told the commissioners the present ordinance needs to be amended in three major areas: sewage and sanitation requirements, lot sizes, and construction controls in interior streets within a mobile home development.

"We plan to control mobile home parks by requiring each plot plan to be approved by a registered professional engineer, and requiring park owners to take out a license to operate a mobile home park so that we can enforce minimum standards," Chafin said.

A Devotion For Today . . .

The Son of man is come to save that which was lost. (Matthew 18:11)

PRAYER: Dear Father, help me to find and follow Jesus that I may have the life abundant here and eternal life in the world to come. Amen.

Danger Of A Backlash

The over-sell of environmental crisis has and will continue to produce an "ecological backlash," according to Dr. Hans Suter who contributes a column to the Corpus Christi Caller Times. The same thesis was expressed by Dr. Ole Maaloe, head of the Institute for Microbiology at the University of Copenhagen, when he addressed scientists at Lake Geneva in Wisconsin. Popular interest in this field may be short-lived due to exaggerations in initial public awareness of the degree of pollution.

Widespread public interest in anything is almost by definition short lived, according to Dr. Maaloe. One thing which has been a catalyst in stirring up awareness and concern has been the "school of alarmists prophesying an imminent apocalypse," and this also is showing evidence of producing a reaction.

Dr. Suter points out that power companies have blamed the summer brown-outs in the North and East due to restriction on burning sulphur-rich fuels, the normal source of energy. In our own section of the country, oil companies have taken a positive attitude of cooperation, but they sound a warning that there is a price tag attached to the cleanup.

And indeed there is, either in dollars to do the job or in cost to our habitation if it is not done. But excessive scares and predictions of immediate doomsday only contribute to the "ecological backlash," and will delay the sensible, sound and persistent steps which must be taken continuously to reverse the present situation and restore a better balance.

Plea To Be Heeded

The report of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest has stirred up predictable reactions, but what should not be overlooked is the heart of its conclusion, a plea for reconciliation.

William W. Scranton and his colleagues do ring the familiar charges on issues that have given rise to student disaffection and the consequent disruptions of campus life. They cite the war in Southeast Asia, unresponsiveness in university and college administrations, racial injustice, repressive government, and other factors often mentioned.

We also are told that underlying these causes of student unrest there is something more fundamental, something the report calls "a crisis of understanding." There is a conflict, it says, between the old culture and the emerging culture found among the young — a conflict so deep that "we are now in grave danger of losing what is common among us through growing intolerance of opposing views on issues, and of diversity itself."

That is an insight to be cherished, and acted upon. There must be a period of national reconciliation, lest our socity "disintegrate into a brutal war of each against all."

Lost In Texas

The Dumb Theory And Galveston

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Galveston has a fascination that can be explained, probably, by the phenomenon that much of Texas is dry and until a few years ago there weren't any decent bodies of water around except the Gulf of Mexico.

Thus generations of Texans have flocked to Galveston to see what water looks like until such trips are built into our genes and chromosomes and each succeeding generation must go there like salmon going upstream or the swallows returning to Capistrano.

A SMALL GROUP recently selected Sunday afternoon to travel from Houston to Galveston under the wildly incorrect theory that there would be no traffic because anyone going to Galveston for a Sunday outing already would be there.

Several thousand other people held the same dumb theory. The Gulf Freeway was jammed bumper to bumper. This may not be safe at 70 m.p.h. but it is safer than going slower in which case you may get your rearend smashed.

The cars were of all shapes and sizes and condition of disrepair. A remarkable number carried surfboards on top although the surf was nothing special that day. A large number dragged boats.

ONE MOTORIST was something of a train engineer. He was driving a camper, which pulled a small mobile home, which pulled a boat on a trailer. At 70 m.p.h., too.

So you roll over the causeway, seeing the beautiful new Galveston News Building on the right, and down Broadway past the mansions of the once terribly wealthy. All at once you burst onto Seawall Boulevard and the whole Gulf of Mexico is in front of you.

Seacoast residents probably can't understand the excitement most inlanders feel when they view the sea.

This day, the seawall was lined with automobiles from which their occupants had disappeared. They were not in the sea — not that many, anyway. We never did find them.

Stewart's Beach, the biggie, was crowded this day. But you can't overcrowd Galveston's 30 miles of surfline.

SO YOU CAN swim almost anywhere in semi-privacy as if the whole Gulf of Mekico were your private pool.

Out from the motels lining the seawall creep the visitors on the first day of vacation — the mother, her skin pale and enveloping considerable flesh, leading the youngsters down the seawall steps to their first taste of swimming in the sea. The kids take to it like ducks.

It is noticeable that only a few go very far into the water, although it is frustratingly shallow near the beach.

In fact, the beach is so shelving that a person almost feels he can walk all the way across the Gulf of Mexico to Yucatan or some place like that and pick himself a banana or coffee bean or whatever they grow there.

It is not always so heavenly. Sometimes the Gulf grows angry, as they say, and climbs to the top of the seawall and smashes at any cars daring enough to challenge the waves.

There is no discrimination on the beaches. But there is an interesting gathering of people.

YOU DRIVE west on Seawall Boulevard and suddenly the pavement, which has been rising, simply stops and you plunge down a little slope.

And in front of the driver is a vast collection of what is called ethnic minorities.

This particular Sunday afternoon there must have been several hundred persons there — on the sand and in the sea.

There are no installations except shacks selling beer and a few other necessities nor any roadways except trails beaten out in the damp sand.

And right here was the happiest place on the 30 miles of beach. This crowd really knew how to have fun.

Billy Graham

I have few friends and my relatives have no respect for me as I am deceitful, vindictive and self-centered. Is there any way I can change? J.R.

You sound to me like a good candidate for Christian conversion. Jesus said: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." Your life, according to your letter, has been self-centered, it needs to be God-centered, and "other-people" centered. This change of attitude is a complete reversal of what you have been. It is up to you to shift the center of your life from self ("deny yourself") to Christ and others. Then, the Lord said you must "take up your cross." The Christian life is one of cross-bearing, and it means that you are willing to bear the reproach of Christ's cross, to accept His deed upon Calvary as atonement for your sins, and to walk in gratitude to God — to live for the One who died for you. And then last: to "follow" Him. This means that Christ becomes your model of Christian service and love, that you love as He loved, and walk as He walked. The Bible says: "He that sayeth he abideth in Him, ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked." I John 2:6. How to do this! Repent of your selfish life, and accept Christ's new life for you.

'LET THEM OUT FROM UNDER THEIR ROCK!'

John Cunniff

Fascinating GNP Defects

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1971 the Gross National Product, which is said to be the total output of goods and services, will surpass $1 trillion. Ten years earlier the figure was only one-half that.

Does this mean that America is twice as productive or twice as powerful or twice as rich? Does the per capita GNP growth to roughly $5,000 next year from about $2,700 in 1961 mean that life really has improved that much?

Many such assumptions are made each day. None is correct.

The obvious defect—one that is recognized by economists but seldom by the public—is that today's dollar cannot be used to measure yesterday's activity. The 1971 dollar will be worth one-third less than the 1961 dollar.

The other reasons are detailed in a fascinating paper prepared by Dr. F. Tom Juster for the National Bureau of Economic Research, an awesomely prestigious, coldly scientific assemblage of scholars.

"The GNP," says Juster, vice president of the Bureau, "is neither simple, nor unambiguous, nor comprehensive." It is not he says, "necessarily a good measure of economic performance."

Among the defects, Juster says, are these:

—Nonmarket activities of people are not measured. The efforts of housewives and students and voluntary workers are not included in the GNP because they are outside the marketplace. That is, they are unpaid.

If the student quit school and took a job as a laborer, or if the housewife became a waitress, their efforts would show up in the GNP. But would the nation really be producing more?

—The GNP really doesn't measure all investments. It measures the additions to capital assets of business and housing, but not the total accumulation of these assets.

—The output of many governmental services are measured by the salaries paid to public employes, not by the social and economic contributions they make.

Why, asks Juster, should the output of the police services be measured in salaries paid and the cost of police cars, rather than by the social and economic value of crimes prevented or violators apprehended?

Why also should the value of education be measured as the cost of teachers' salaries, teaching equipment purchased in the market, the cost of buildings and so on, rather than by the gain in pupil knowledge?

And why should the value of health services be measured by the cost of doctors' fees and drugs, not by the reduction in mortality rates, the lessening of time lost because of illness and so forth?

—The GNP does not measure social or economic welfare.

Now we know that output doesn't necessarily improve life, nor does the way we measure it really reflect the situation. "A tornado that sweeps through Texas and destroys millions of dollars worth of capital assets will almost certainly cause the GNP to rise," Juster says, explaining that workers will have to be hired to remove the debris, new equipment purchased, investments made.

It is becoming increasingly apparent to Americans that there is also a negative aspect to production. The output of a factory is measured, but no provision is made for "negative benefits," such as air and stream pollution.

And speaking of negative benefits, shouldn't there be some way to subtract from GNP the time lost sitting in traffic jams or waiting for commuter trains or circling an airport because the runways are jammed?

Juster's definition of the problem is designed to produce some day a more meaningful measurement of social and economic performance.

Curious Doughnut-Jellier

By BOB HARING
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Have you ever wondered about the wierd jobs of the world?

Like, who puts the jelly in the jelly doughnuts?

Or who stuffs the cotton in the aspirin bottle? Or who pins the pins in the neatly folded new shirt? Or who ties the laces in a new pair of shoes?

It's easy to imagine the crises that might occur if none of these jobs got done. At the same time, it's hard to imagine anybody spending a lifetime—or even a 7½-hour day—stuffing little bits of cotton into little green bottles.

In older days, the spirit of taking pride in one's craft helped.

But it is a little tough to imagine taking a great deal of pride in being the world's best doughnut-jellier.

And just how would you judge anyway?

Presumably, whoever puts the jelly in the doughnuts uses some sort of a pastry stuffing device, a thing that looks a bit like the clothing casing around some types of bologna. Squeeze it and blirp! Out plops a blob of jelly to be surrounded by doughnut.

But what sort of standards determine the great jellier?

How many doughnuts you can do an hour? How much jelly you squirt into each doughnut? Or how little? Or is it how you hold the jellier? Or the finesse with which each plop plops?

Maybe the best criteria would be fairness—do you squeeze exactly the same amount of jelly on each doughnut.

That, at least, would be the most help around the house.

It would avoid all those family fights that begin:

"Joel's doughnut has more jelly than mine."

To Your Good Health

Confused By Too Many Names

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About two years ago my doctor, after an EKG, discovered that I had a heart ailment, called it "angina," and prescribed . . . .

Some time later, not feeling much better, I went to an internist. After EKG and the "step" test, he called it "coronary insufficiency" and prescribed the same medicine.

Finally my family insisted that I see a cardiologist. After another extensive EKG, he called it "ASHD" and prescribed a different drug, which was for the better.

I would like your opinion about the three diagnoses and the change in medication. — D. B. W.

The "three diagnoses" are essentially the same, but couched in different language.

"Angina pectoris" means chest pain, due as a rule to a weakened heart. This does not mean that the pain is continuous. It comes and goes. Medication taken at the right time often can prevent it.

Your first doctor discovered a heart weakness which, while it wasn't yet causing pain, was of a type which probably would.

Although you recount that you had no pain, you went to another physician because you "weren't feeling much better," so I assume that your condition was causing some distress.

The second physician called it "coronary insufficiency," meaning your heart wasn't able to meet heavy demands on it. In a word, the same thing again, a weakened heart.

So then you went to a third physician who called it ASHD, or "arterio-scherotic heart disease." The arteries feeding the heart muscle had become "hardened" or narrowed, and no longer could carry enough blood supply to meet heavy demands on your heart.

That still is just another way of saying the heart is weakened. In this third case it gives the cause of the weakening — hardening of the arteries — but it is still the same basic diagnosis.

Both the medications you mentioned are used to increase the circulation, the latter one somewhat more powerful, but with the same end purpose.

It might be that if you had gone back to either the first or second physician, you might have been put on the medication you are now using.

All I can say is that there is no conflict between the three diagnoses. I might well add that coronary-insufficiency patients who are careful not to exceed the capabilities of their hearts, and are helped along with any of several medications, often make those "failing" hearts remain serviceable for a good long time.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

A New Slate Of Awards

The motion pictures have their Oscars to distribute among their elite, and television entertainment has its Emmys. In either case, the range of awards is expanded annually, so that there is something for everyone. Those who don't scratch should either see their psychiatrists, switch deodorants, or make a list of "where did I go wrong?"

This practice is copied widely, even to the level of local organization who pick men and women of the year, bosses, rookie dishwashers of the year, sweethearts, etc. Yet, it seems to me there is one field which is in desperate need of a system of awards for its own — the television commercial. Hence, I make bold to suggest several categories for starters:

The Silly Sally Award — This is for the commercial which makes its housewives on detergents and similar ads sillier than all others. Extra points will be given for imparting innocent stupidity, kookie voice modulation ranging between infant and idiot, and to make the lady of the house seem like a befuddled scullery maid. Competition here will be fierce, and this award should be comparable to an Oscar.

The Christene Award — This draws its name from christening — the development of new names for products. For instance, there is a new detergent on the market, grossly misnamed. It should have been called "Whack!" because the package, held by the hawkster, is always whacked on top the washer or table for emphasis. This is to illustrate that points will be given for the obvious, the complete disassociation, a name with what the product does, and distinctive noises. The razzberry will, however, disqualify an entrant.

The Fizzle Puss Award — This is reserved primarily for the best blank stare by a character at the end of a commercial. After a straight product pitch, someone says something that causes one of the characters to turn toward the camera with a sticken look, as though slapped in the face with a piece of fresh liver. Points can be earned by injecting a touch of anticipation, the elegance of the gesture of turning toward the camera, shrugging, tightening the chin and twisting the mouth.

The Hot Flash Award — This will go to the producer who manages to crowd the greatest number of subliminal flashes into a 30-second period. Speed, however, will not be the final determinant, for the amount of reverse images, changes in color, the multiplicity of split screens and mosaics will enhance chances for winning.

The Cannonade Award — This is reserved for the nosiest commercial. The frontal assault upon the ear drums may qualify, but the favored contestants will be those who skillfully raise the pitch until, at the end of a short commercial, the listener is absorbing decibels at a volume which leaves him shaken, trembling and powerless to resist.

The Double Switch Award — This is for those incongruous scenes which start in the midst of sylvian splendor and end suddenly in a raucous strip tease. This can be the lovely lady who turns torch singer, or the boilermaker who suddenly turns on Beethoven. The greater the gulf between the two possibilities, the more points will be awarded.

The Waybacker Award — This will be for creation of characters like those wearing cocked hats and riding white horses, men with handle bar mustaches with a coat flung over their shoulder, men in dazzling white suits swooping from the skies or in knight's armor charging down a suburban street.

Cop-Out On The Electoral Change

WASHINGTON — In this congressional election year, I trust that those voters capable of lucid thought will mark Richard Nixon lousy for his pusillanimous and expedient retreat on the constitutional amendment for direct popular election of a President.

THE AMENDMENT, which passed the House, is dead for this Congress as a result of the Senate's refusal to cut off a filibuster against it. But it could have been salvaged had President Nixon redeemed his lofty promise to support it with all the vigor of his office. Nixon not only offered his own direct-election proposal, but earlier this year let Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., know through White House aides that he would lend a hand to the Bayh version.

Nixon's help at showdown time may have marked a new low in copping out. It consisted of the bland statement by Minority Whip Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., "reminding" members of the Senate that he "wanted to emphasize that the President of the United States is for the constitutional amendment."

BIG DEAL. With help like that, Birch Bayh must have been tempted to look to his enemies for support. As Richard Nixon knows perhaps better than any other politician, there is only one way for a President to get something done and that is to call in the troops and issue marching orders. Instead, he ran and hid when the bell rang for the last round.

The reason for his flight was as obvious as it was inglorious. The South, which helped him beat Hubert Humphrey in 1968, was almost solidly against the Bayh bill, and the Republican vote was evenly, and significantly, divided on the cloture vote — 19 for and 19 against. When the chips were down, therefore, Richard Nixon opted for his own political skin.

WELL, THE President had plenty of so-called respectable company in his self-serving and nescient pussyfooting. The roll of those who voted against considering the amendment on its merits was cluttered with Senators who should be ashamed of themselves.

There was Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who so often has seemed to possess genuine statesmanship. There was the lofty Bill Fulbright of Arkansas, who talks such a good progressive fight. There were Dominick and Allott of Colorado, Dole of Kansas. Goldwater of Arizona, Stevens of Alaska and Williams of Delaware — Republicans all, and all fond of portraying themselves as a cut above their fellows.

TO THEIR CREDIT, Griffin and GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania supported the cloture effort, but there wasn't much else they could do. Both knew the administration had decided it was politically unwise to get involved. Courage is not enough if the party's leader is nowhere to be found.

Fortuitous Timing On Nixon Visit

WASHINGTON — The President's trip to Europe was a lucky break. He, of course, never anticipated that he would be able to confer on the spot with any of the leaders of Eastern Europe at the very time that the Middle East lost perhaps its most influential personality — President Nasser of Egypt — and policy-making anew became immediately necessary.

THE TWO-HOUR conference between President Nixon and President Tito of Yugoslavia, who is known to have a great deal of influence in the Arab world, was in itself a fortunate opportunity. The sending to Cairo of Elliott Richardson — now secretary of Health, Education and Welfare but formerly undersecretary of state — with top aides of the President, and the conferences with American ambassadors in the Mediterranean meant that firsthand information would be available from other diplomatic sources at a moment when this was of the utmost importance in setting America's policies in the Middle East. The United States maintains no embassy in Cairo.

Since Premier Kosygin of the Soviet Union had made plans to confer with the acting president of Egypt and other officials, it was timely for President Nixon to express his thoughts to someone as intimately connected with the whole situation as is Marshal Tito. The two-hour discussion will mean a great deal, because Mr. Nixon made clear America's intentions in the very grave and delicate conditions that exist.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC receptions given Mr. Nixon by the crowds help to emphasize that the United States is popular with the people not only in an allied country like Italy but also in Yugoslavia.

The fact that Marshal Tito had a long conference with President Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and foreign affairs adviser Dr. Henry Kissinger indicates that undoubtedly every phase of the Mideast question was covered. Certainly no such progress could have been made by indirect communications or by the normal methods of diplomatic negotiation.

THE UNITED States and Yugoslavia have been improving their relations steadily. It is known that President Nixon intended to talk with President Tito in order to enlist his influence as a friend of the United States in helping to work out a program for peace in the Middle East.

The Egypt-Israel confrontation is one of the most difficult in modern history. The Arab world is by no means united, and the late President Nasser was not altogether sure that he could control the Palestinian rebels and the leaders of some of the Arab countries who are opposed to the idea of a settlement with Israel.

EVEN WITH someone as peacefully inclined as President Nasser, the problem had reached a critical state. With the death of the Egyptian leader, outside influence perhaps can play a greater role in guiding the policy of Egypt. The United States, for its part, will be expected to use its powers of persuasion to obtain Israel's consent to any sensible peace plan that might emerge.

The communique which was issued after President Tito and President Nixon talked for several hours said:

"Both sides agreed that negotiation rather than confrontation is indispensable for peaceful and just solutions of international problems."

THE VISIT can prove in the long run to be very meaningful. Indeed, in retrospect, the President may some day say that this trip to Europe unexpectedly turned out to be one of the luckiest breaks he had during his first two years in the presidency.

Again word comes from MRS. ERNIE KEEFFER (Louise Hayes who moved from here in late 1930's) that she and her husband have escaped from the devastating fires in California.

Several years ago when fire raged in Malibu hills and canyons, brush burned to the edge of their driveway. This year the nearest blaze was a mile away but too close for comfort with the winds as they were. The Keeffer home is on a hill that overlooks the beach so she says they are spared the sight of the blackened canyons that are to the rear of their property.

The Keeffers were disadvantaged only by the traffic checks which all the inhabitants of the area appreciated because it kept people out that had no business in the vicinity. Cosmetic Producers Borrow From Nature

By MARY SUE MILLER

Makeup and treatments based on nature's own ingredients are on the increase, as predicted here sometime ago. In this era of synthetic everything, the development seems refreshing. Unpolluted!

However, it is not exactly revolutionary. It goes back, back, back. References to natural beautifiers are found in the Bible. Cleopatra is said to have "used the worth of 400 denarii of spices but once, to anoint her hands."

Some of our cosmetic firms have always made use of such time-honored naturals as lanolin, mink and turtle oil, almond and olive oil, cucumber and strawberry extracts, and glycerine. Your great-grandmother doubtless knew about all of these wonders and whipped them into her kitchenmade cosmetics.

What she could not have known about are the modern processes of refining, sterilizing, emulsifying and a dozen other scientific steps. All of which make today's products safer and more effective.

And there's more. Several new lines purport to be entirely free of synthetic material. Beeswax replaces imitations. Earth colors like ochre and vegetable colorings tint makeup. Wheat germ oil "nourishes" lipstick. Quince goes into wave set.

Sound intriguing to you? If so keep watch for debuting products. The above is only a sample of what's to come.

Mrs. Star Warford, a guest, gave the program, presenting entertaining and humorous excerpts from Mark Twain's "Eve's Diary and Adam's Diary." Mrs. Warford teaches English at Howard County Junior College.

Members selected Mrs. Tommy Rutledge as their chapter sweetheart. Each member brought art supplies to be given to Westside Community Center.

A coffee for rushees was held Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Ted Hicks, 4061 Vicky, with cohostesses Mrs. Pettit, Mrs. Rutledge, Mrs. Jackie Hopper and Mrs. Tom Warren.

In carrying out the chapter theme, "Light Many Lamps," the group spent the morning making decorative candles. Mrs. Raphael won a prize for making the most creative candle centerpiece.

The next regular meeting will be Oct. 19 in the home of Mrs. Leon Miller, 2604 Lynn.

Oil Industry Law Cases Described

R. H. Weaver, local attorney, was guest speaker Monday at the Desk and Derrick Club meeting at Cosden Refinery conference room.

Weaver discussed several law cases involving the oil industry, and the effects the cases will have on future decisions. In one case involving the use of fresh water for second recovery process, it was ruled that the defendant could not use the fresh water when salt water or polluted water was available and suitable for the job.

In another case, mentioned by Weaver, an oil lessee holding a contract for oil, gas and mineral rights, discovered a pig iron deposit on his property. However, the court ruled that he was not entitled to the pig iron because it was not chemically related to the oil.

Mrs. John Damron presided at the meeting, and appointed a nominating committee. Comprising the committee are Mrs. G. C. Broughton Jr., chairman, Mrs. Paul Sheedy and Mrs. Stan Ballou. Mrs. Sue Faulkenberry reported on the national convention she attended Sept. 12 in Atlanta, Ga. The next meeting will be Nov. 2.

Dieters Discuss Nutritious Meals

"Everyone should eat three meals a day, even if they are dieting," said Mrs. Doyle Fowler, speaking at Tuesday's meeting of the TOPS Slender Benders at Midway School. Mrs. Fowler discussed vitamins and minerals, stressing that persons buying vitamins should purchase pure vitamins rather than synthetic ones in order to get their "money's worth."

The weight report was given by Mrs. Joe Rogers, and members were asked to bring items to work on at the next meeting. They will be sold at the December bazaar. Next Tuesday's meeting will feature a program on small appliances given by Mrs. Donnie Reid.

Mrs. Clay LaRochelle Cites Types Of Beauty

Rushees were entertained with a "Can I Be Beautiful?" program by Mrs. Clay LaRochelle at Monday's meeting of Phi Zeta Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Wayne Stroup, 1304 Baylor, served as hostess. Rushees were Mrs. Byron Hedges, Mrs. Rick McKinney and Mrs. Allen Carlile.

Mrs. LaRochelle posed questions about physical beauty, inner beauty, and the difference in beauty at the age of 19 and the age of 40. She discussed good grooming and beauty of personality.

Mrs. Joe Schalk presided, announcing that the annual Valentine dance will be hosted by the BSP City Council in February. The next meeting will be Oct. 19 in Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Home Demonstration Clubs Slate Exhibit, Luncheon This Month

Plans for the fall home demonstration club exhibit were discussed at the Howard County HD Council meeting Monday at the HD agent's office. Mrs. Joe Meyers, exhibit chairman, announced that the exhibit will begin at 10 a.m., Oct. 21, at the First United Methodist Church and will include a luncheon. Each club is to bring a flower arrangement, and each member is to bring a salad.

Mrs. Vern Vigar presided at the meeting and Mrs. Alton Underwood gave the devotion. It was reported that there are $286.86 in the treasury and the council agreed that each club member should contribute $1 to the treasury. Mrs. Frances Zant, Texas HD Association chairman, reminded members that this is National 4-H Club Week, and that a 4-H exhibit is on display at the old Wackers building at Second and Main. It was announced that Mrs. Delaine Crawford, HD agent, will accompany the four county 4-H delegates to the 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill.

Guests were Mrs. Stewart Anderson, Mrs. E. A. Williams and Mrs. J. R. Clements. City HD Club members served as hostesses. The next meeting will be Nov. 2.

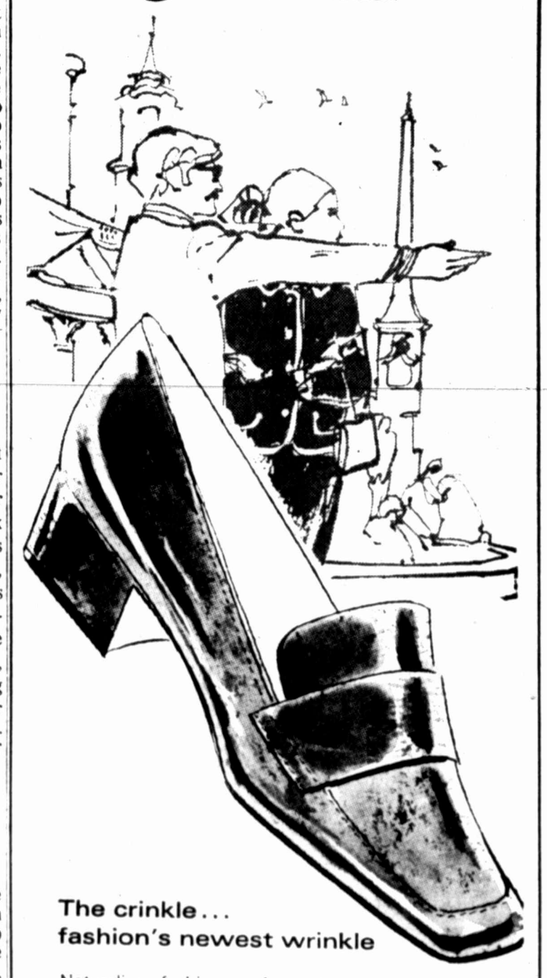

Contest Concludes At Salad Supper

TOPS Salad Mixers met at Knott Community Center Tuesday for a salad supper marking the end of a four-week contest. Mrs. Jack Griggs was crowned queen for the month, with Mrs. Dan Brasher as runner-up. Mrs. Edward Simpson was the weekly winner. The next meeting will be Tuesday, when members are to bring white elephant prizes for games. Guests were Mrs. Dalton Wright and Mrs. Elmer Dyer.

Rebekahs Speak On Anniversary

John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge heard a program on the 119th anniversary of Odd Fellowship Tuesday evening when the speaker, Mrs. LaVerne Rogers, was assisted by Mrs. W. E. Rayburn, Mrs. K. C. Webb and Mrs. Ralph LaLonde. Mrs. Charlie Boland was pianist. Lodge instruction will be offered next Tuesday.

SITTING ON HIS TAIL — Warrant Officer Herbert Keody, 21, of Chattanooga, Tenn., sits on the tail fin of his downed Cobra helicopter gun ship which had suffered an engine malfunction during an insertion of 1st ARVN troops near the DMZ. The hard landing caused the breaking of the Cobra's tail.

Agnew Says Nixon 'Mover' In Bid To Root Radicals

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says President Nixon is "a prime mover in our drive to root out of positions of power those radical liberals who frustrate our progress at home and undercut our efforts for an honorable peace abroad."

Agnew told a Republican dinner Tuesday night that he welcomed the President's return from a nine-day European tour for that reason and because it meant the end of a delicate diplomatic mission.

LIKE TO PLAY

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, who sat at the head table with Agnew, was asked last week about Agnew's criticism of Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and replied he would be glad when Nixon returned because "when the President is away there are those who like to play."

At Buffalo, N.Y., Tuesday, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller told newsmen he had spoken to the White House about Agnew's criticism of Goodell.

He declined to say who he talked to at the White House but said he expected a "policy decision" within a week.

Rockefeller appointed Goodell to the seat after the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and supports his bid for election to a full term.

About 1,500 persons attended the $150-a-plate fund-raiser for GOP candidates in Pennsylvania including Scott.

POLICE TANGLE

Outside the Hilton Hotel, site of the dinner, police tangled with about 200 shouting demonstrators when a girl tried to burn an American flag. Thirty-seven persons were arrested, including a news photographer, on various charges including disorderly conduct and assault and battery on a police officer. Police said there were no serious injuries.

When Agnew arrived at Greater Pittsburgh Airport, he was asked about Scott's support for "Republicans everywhere."

Agnew replied: "Sen. Scott, as you know, is the minority leader of the U.S. Senate and he's the mother hen of all Republicans in the Senate. Sometimes it's very difficult for a mother hen to realize she's sitting on a bad egg."

LOUD CHEERS

At the dinner, Agnew said that since 1969 Goodell "has sought flamboyantly and ceaselessly to openly divorce himself from our President and from the Nixon administration.

"When anyone—of either party—constantly disavows, incessantly upbraids, and wages war on his own President in every major issue area, he consciously alienates himself from his own party and thereby forfeits a right to his administration's support."

The statement was met by long, loud cheers and applause. Scott sat silently puffing on his pipe.

Agnew said that although Scott has differed on occasion with the administration, he supports his re-election bid because "on most great issues of our time, this Republican leader has fought faithfully, courageously and skillfully, arm-in-arm with this administraiton."

Hypnotism Sends Girl To Hospital

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Cynthia R. Perkins of Berea was in Ingleside Hospital in Cleveland today after being hypnotized in a class at Berea High School.

Cynthia's classmates said she was one of 10 volunteers Tuesday when another 16 - year - old girl offered to hypnotize some class members during an experiment on human behavior.

Principal Gerhard Deutschlander said he did not know of the hypnotism until the experiment was over. "That sort of thing is not part of the school curriculum," he said.

The young hypnotist told the volunteers they were freezing and all began shaking. The girl then told the 10 they were getting warmer and soon would wake up. Only Cynthia did not come out of the hypnosis and continued shaking and thrashing about and cried: "I'm freezing. I'm freezing."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Perkins Jr., of Berea, said their daughter apparently recognized them.

"But she wouldn't let us touch her," her mother said. "She kept screaming, 'You're so cold. You're so cold. You're putting me in a freezer.'"

Mrs. Perkins said her daughter "had a good night" after she was given sedatives at the hospital.

Classmates said the girl who did the hypnotizing had hypnotized several pupils at different times and that no problems had arisen.

Green's Father In Good Shape

J. E. Green, father of Don Green, Big Spring, came through his fifth operation in three years in good shape, the son reported.

Green, a retired farmer who now resides in Floydada, had an eye removed Tuesday in a Plainview hospital. Don Green returned here last night after a visit at his father's bedside.

Local Engineers Named To Posts

Daniel R. Roybal, staff engineer with Cabot Corp. since Sept. 1, was named Big Spring councilor Tuesday night at a meeting of the Permian Basin section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in Midland.

Harry Ray, section chairman, appointed Roybal to be in charge of coordinating activities of the section with members in the Big Spring area.

Ray also announced a meeting in Big Spring No. 5 sponsored jointly by the section and the Instrument Society Of America. The meeting will be open to wives, and V. A. Johnson, director of corporate planning, El Paso Products, will speak to the group on "What Do Engineers Do?"

Curtis Strong, process engineering manager for Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., was named to handle arrangements for the February meeting in Big Spring, sponsored jointly with the Texas Society of Professional Engineers.

Allied Forces Report Killing 82 Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces today reported 82 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed in small ground actions in South Vietnam, an American pilot killed in the crash of his U.S. Air Force plane, and 21 enemy mortar and rocket attacks in the past 24 hours, most of them in the Mekong Delta.

The plane, a propeller-driven A1 Skyraider, went down Tuesday in Thua Thien province, in the northern part of the country. The cause of the crash was not known, the U.S. Command said.

DEFENSE RING

In Cambodia, Communist forces made another attack on the government force stalled 47 miles north of Phnom Penh, at Taing Kauk, and made "minor harassing attacks" at four points on Phnom Penh's outer defense ring, 5½ to 24 miles northeast, east and south of the Cambodian capital, a Cambodian military spokesman said.

The Cambodian spokesman said one government soldier was killed and more than 30 wounded in the mortar and infantry attack at Taing Kauk. The Cambodian force there is engaged in the government's first major offensive of the war, an attempt to open the highway between Phnom Penh and Kompong Thom, 50 miles north of Taing Kauk.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon reported two ground encounters in Vietnam and said American units killed 18 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese without taking any casualties.

MILITARY SCRIP

The South Vietnamese command announced that 64 of the enemy were killed in six scattered ground actions with government troops. It said government casualties totaled four wounded.

The South Vietnamese announced that one of the mortar bombardments in the Mekong Delta killed two civilians and a soldier and wounded four civilians and two soldiers in a district town 42 miles southwest of Saigon.

Meanwhile, American authorities suddenly called in all military payment certificates—the currency used by the 390,000 GI's and by U.S. Government and contract civilians—in a move aimed at thwarting black marketeers and counterfeiters.

The currency is being exchanged for a new series in a one-day, blitz operation. Any military currency in the hands of speculators, money changers or other unauthorized persons became immediately worthless because it could not be turned in for new money.

It was the third time since U.S. military scrip was introduced in Vietnam in 1965 that it was recalled and exchanged.

Weatherman Recording Hints 'War'

NEW YORK (AP) — A tape recording said to be made by a leader of the radical Weatherman group promises a "fall offensive of youth resistance that will spread from Santa Barbara to Boston, back to Kent and Kansas."

The voice on the tape was identified as that of Bernardine Dohrn, fugitive leader of the group, by her sister, Jennifer, at the headquarters of the Youth International Party—Yippies—here, where the recording was played for the press Tuesday.

According to the tape, the offensive began with the bombing of the police statue in Chicago's Haymarket Square Monday.

"Now we are everywhere and next week families and tribes will attack the enemy around the country," the voice said.

The recording was received Tuesday, postmarked from Chicago Monday, according to Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, one of the Chicago 7 trial defendants.

New Cabinet In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Premier-designate Saeb Salam succeeded early today in forming a 12-man cabinet, Beirut Radio reported.

Salam, a veteran Moslem politician and rebel leader during Lebanon's 1958 civil war, was asked to form a government two days ago after the new president, Suleiman Frangieh, took office.

Salam, 65, ended his cabinet-making at 3 a.m. after 15 hours of nonstop consultations with the country's leading politicians. It was believed he had put together a coalition of several political groups.

Death Threat Ultimatum

MONTREAL (AP) — A death threat ultimatum neared its expiration today as Canadian officials waited through the night for further word from the Quebec separatists who kidnaped British diplomat James Richard Cross. The government already had rejected the ransom demands and showed no sign of giving in.

LETTER MAILED

A Montreal radio station received a message Tuesday night purporting to come from the kidnapers. It gave the government until 8:30 a.m. EDT today to meet their demand for the release to Cuba or Algeria of 21 men in prison or awaiting trial along with $500,000 in gold.

"If they do not comply with our demands, we won't hesitate to do away with Mr. Cross," the message said.

The note said Cross was well and a letter from him to his wife had been mailed in downtown Montreal.

The message was found about two hours after Canadian Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons in Ottawa that the ransom demands were "wholly unreasonable" and "will not be met." But Sharp called on the kidnapers to negotiate with the government, saying, "It may be there are conditions we could meet."

ANOTHER MESSAGE

Another message purportedly from the kidnapers was found in an Ottawa bus station early today. It referred to five essential conditions for the release of Cross without listing them and called for a reply by 9 a.m., a spokesman for the foreign ministry said. Sharp in his statement had listed a total of seven demands by the kidnapers.

Cross, 49, and Britain's senior trade commissioner in Canada, was kidnaped from his home Monday by members of the FLQ, the Front de Liberation Quebecois, which for years has been waging a campaign of terrorist bombings to make French-speaking Quebec independent. Four of the men whose releases were demanded are serving life sentences, three for murder. Three are out on bail awaiting trial, two are awaiting sentence and three are in jail awaiting trial.

REJECTION

The Montreal police would not say whether they believed the note received by the radio station was authentic. But Robert Lemieux, an attorney for 12 of the men whose release was demanded, said he did not doubt that Cross would be "executed if the demands of the kidnapers are not met."

The British government agreed with the rejection which Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's cabinet decided on after a 2½-hour meeting and consultation with London.

Intech Adds UF Support

Intech, Big Spring's newest business firm, added its support to the United Fund's contention that "you have to do it or it won't get done" with a check that brought today's Fund total up to $7,948.75.

Bob Reasor, manager of International Technovation, a division of Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., presented the check to Ken Perry, chairman of the 1970-71 drive.

Although Intech is already equipped with a local office the gift will be totaled with Paul Meek's out-of-town division gifts since Meek was the campaigner who contacted Intech for the gift.

Still No Leads In McGann Case

LUBBOCK — Results of laboratory tests in the Sept. 29 slaying of George McGann, Big Spring, have not been received by authorities from the Department of Public Safety Labs in Austin.

No inquest will be held until the results of the tests have been received. Sheriff's deputies report no leads in the case.

Manhattan Dailies Face Guild Strikes

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's only major Manhattan-based afternoon paper, the 700,000-circulation New York Post, was missing from newsstands again today as a strike by members of the American Newspaper Guild continued.

The threat of similar action at the two other major Manhattan dailies loomed Tuesday night when guild members at the Daily News voted overwhelmingly to authorize a strike.

A similar vote was taken by guildsmen at The New York Times last month. In neither case was a strike set.

A picket line first appeared at the Post at 6 a.m. Tuesday after more than six months of bargaining between management and representatives of the 430-member guild unit failed to bring about an agreement.

Craft unions, some of which have already reached agreement with the paper, respected the picket line and the Post did not attempt to publish.

"Judging by their differences, this could be a very long strike," commented Theodore Kheel, one of the mediators who had worked through the night trying to negotiate a settlement.

Through statements issued by their officials, the Guild and the Post management traded charges and counter-charges during the strike's first day.

Announcing the decision to strike, guild executive vice president Thomas J. Murphy said: "The guild negotiating committee regrets that management refused to grant concessions made to other unions and even failed to correct the long-existing inadequacies at the Post.

"Therefore, we have no alternative but to proceed to set up our picket lines."

A statement issued by the Post denied this and said the newspaper had offered the Guild the same 41.69 per cent three-year wage package and the same reduction in hours negotiated by six of the nine craft unions.

At present, the Post's guildsmen — who include editorial, advertising and other employes — earn salaries ranging from $89.95 a week in the lowest classifications to $239.20 for the highest, covering senior reporters and editors.

The Post statement said the Guild's demands included a series of money items that would force the newspaper to go beyond the 41.69 per cent package, and included "proposals for reclassification of almost a quarter of the Post's Guild employes into higher eage groups."

School Meet Melee Leads To Charges

HOUSTON (AP) — Nine persons, including the head of the Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO) here, were indicted Tuesday on felony charges of injuring property after a melee which disrupted a Houston School Board meeting Sept. 14.

Among those indicted were Gregory Salazar, 20, the MAYO coordinator here, and Yoland Garza Birdwell, 29, another MAYO leader, and her husband, Waler Blake Birdwell, 28.

Salazar was also charged on another count of injuring property as he ran down an administration building hall to escape police.

Dist. Judge Joseph M. Guarino set bond on each indictment at $1,000.

The incident occurred after Mexican-Americans failed to receive permission from the school board to address it regarding a boycott of public schools. The boycott ended after three weeks when the board agreed to appeal an integration ruling which paired Mexican-American and Negro elementary schools.

A group of young demonstrators charged the board table as the board prepared to close the open meeting and go into executive session.

In the ensuing struggle, ash trays, tables, chairs, water coolers and other property was damaged.

The penalty for injuring property, a felony, on conviction is two to 20 years in prison.

Rescue Unit Gets New Commander

The new commander of Detachment 18, 42nd Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron Webb AFB, has officially taken command.

Maj. Robert D. McDougal, formerly a standardization officer for the squadron, replaces Lt. Col. Roland E. Speckman, who has been assigned to Robins AFB, Ga.

Maj. McDougal entered the Air Force through the enlisted ranks in 1951 and following basic training reported to Savannah, Ga., where he stayed for two years.

He earned his commission in December, 1953, and by May, 1954, the major completed his navigator training.

Following a tour with the 18th Tactical Fighter Wing at Kadena AB, Okinawa, Maj. McDougal retrained as a pilot. In 1958 he reported to the 22nd Helicopter Squadron at Goose Bay, Labrador, and later to Oxnard AFB, Calif.

After staying for more than two years at Paine Field, Wash., where he commanded Detachment 4, Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center, the major was sent to Vietnam. The unit was shipped out on a 12-hour notice to become the first fully operational rescue unit in the war zone. When it was replaced by a permanent unit in November, 1964, the unit moved to Takhli RTAFB, Thailand, until January, 1965.

Following a three year tour at Misawa AB, Japan, Major McDougal transferred to Wheelus AB, Libya. There the major led the largest rescue operation in Air Force history when, during the floods in Tunisia, the unit was credited with saving more than 2,500 lives.

MAJ. ROBERT McDOUGAL

After operations closed at Wheelus, Maj. McDougal transferred to Spain and then came to Webb.

His decorations include the Bronze Star with one oak leaf cluster, the Air Medal with five oak leaf clusters and the Air Force Commendation Medal. His combat awards include: the Combat Readiness Medal with one oak leaf cluster, the United National Service Medal, Republic of Vietnam Commendation Medal and Order of Knight, Republic of Tunisia.

Anti-Litter 'Brainstorm' Meet Set

A "brainstorming" session on the problem of litter in the city has been scheduled for 5 p.m. today at the Chamber of Commerce office by Sgt. Bob Butler, chairman of the Pride People task force.

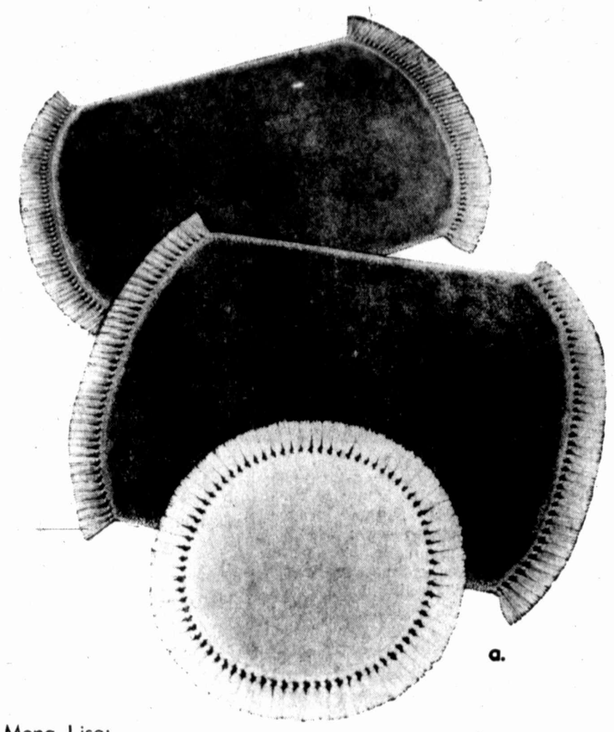

Butler has asked anyone interested in litter to attend the meeting, whether they are members of the Pride People or not.

"I know this is not the first anti-litter campaign," Butler said, "but perhaps if we take the best ideas of the past and put them together with new thinking, we can develop a plan which will be both effective and continuing."

The "brainstorm" session is planned as a way of identifying the major problem areas, so that subcommittees can be set up to develop detailed projects in each area.

Great Cost

LONDON (AP) — Labor turnover, sickness and absenteeism costs Britain's electronics industry at least 75 million pounds a year, according to a government report. The report claims that 3.7 million working days were lost in 1969 through absenteeism, compared to 335,000 in industrial disputes.

German Parents Promise Appeal To State Agency

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP)—Turned down on seven of 15 demands by the Mexican-American school board majority here, the head of a German parents group says he will appeal to the Texas Education Agency.

Gordon Erkfitz of Uvalde, chairman of the German-American Parents Association, aired the proposals at a stormy school board meeting Monday night.

The demands ranged from requests for German language courses to German food in the school district's cafeterias.

CIVIL RIGHTS

The Mexican-American school board majority refused the organization's request for half-day holidays on Texas Independence Day and San Jacinto Day.

"In denying the observance of the two Texas holidays," Erkfitz said, "we believe the majority on the school board is violating the civil rights of students."

He noted the school gave a half-day off for Mexico's independence day, Sept. 12, and plan another Oct. 12, also a Mexican holiday.

School officials said the requested holidays could not be observed because their calendar already had been drawn up.

Erkfitz also asked the board to require an American flag in every classroom and recitation of the pledge of allegiance at the start of each day in every classroom.

The trustees voted 4-3 to take up these issues at their November meeting.
