Perry, Yoast Win

Sanders And Hobby Win

Briscoe Scurry's Top Vote Getter

Scurry County will have two new county commissioners next January.

Eldon Perry and Charlie Yoast won close races to gain the Democratic Party nomination for commissioner in Precincts 1 and 3, respectively in Saturday's balloting.

Perry received a total of 404 votes, while the incumbent commissioner in Precinct No. 1, W. M. (Marion) Dabbs, had a total of 384, according to complete, unofficial returns.

Yoast had a total of 971 votes, while Thayne Mebane, the Precinct No. 3 incumbent, had 925.

These were the only two local races with runoffs, and since there were no Republican candidates for county offices, victory in the Democratic Party Primary is tantamount to election.

Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde rancher and businessman, was the top vote-getter in Scurry County in the runoff Saturday. Scurry Countians gave him a lead of 2,884 to 977 over Frances Farenthold in the Democratic Party race for governor.

Barefoot Sanders also led in Scurry County in the race for U.S. Senate, receiving 2,602 votes, compared to 1,207 for Ralph Yarborough, according to the complete, unofficial returns.

Bill Hobby of Houston led in Scurry County in the Democratic Party race for lieutenant governor, with a total of 2,210 votes. State Sen. Wayne Connaly received 1,591 votes in Scurry County.

In a closer race, Scurry County Democrats gave James Wilson a lead of 1,913 to 1,758 over Robert S. Calvert for state comptroller of public accounts.

The turnout at the polls was somewhat lighter than in the May 6 primary. The ballots cast in the runoff totalled 3,706, while 4,557 went to the polls in the first Democratic Primary.

Briscoe and Sanders carried every box in Scurry County, and Briscoe rolled up heavy margins throughout the county.

Dolph Briscoe flashed to a landslide victory, surprising in its strength, Saturday as he overcame a brilliant bid by Mrs. Frances "Sissy" Farenthold to gain the Democratic nomination for governor.

Also nominated in an upset was Barefoot Sanders for the U.S. Senate, while Robert S. Calvert was re-nominated comptroller.

Bill Hobby, Houston Post executive, led state Sen. Wayne Connally by a strong margin for the important nomination for lieutenant governor.

Briscoe's runoff victory kept the governor's mansion in conservative hands, since a GOP victory in November would be an upset of stunning proportions. And a Republican victory still would mean a conservative in the state's top job.

Significant was the inability of Rep. Farenthold, an outspoken liberal, to capture any of the vote from such also-rans in the first primary as Gov. Ben Barnes, both conservatives.

Coupled with the upset of liberal Ralph Yarborough by Barefoot Sanders, Mrs. Farenthold's defeat demonstrated that Texas remains a solidly conservative state politically.

Hobby, a personable newspaperman of 40, was an exception to the conservative sweep as he defeated ultra-conservative state Sen. Wayne Connally for the influential post of presiding over the Senate. Hobby's platform showed him a moderate but far from a liberal.

Briscoe, quiet, 49-year-old rancher and banker long identified with wealth and influence, centered his campaign on promises to remove waste from state government and to hold down taxes.

Outspoken Mrs. Farenthold, state representative from Corpus Christi, appealed heavily to liberals, youths and women. She attacked Briscoe repeatedly in an articulate, determined manner. She drew large, vocal crowds but found that Texas' liberal vote is only so big and cannot be materially increased.

Nomination was equal to election for all those in the Democratic runoff Saturday for statewide offices except for the governorship.

In the Repiblican primary runoff for nomination for governor, state Sen. Henry Grover beat Albert Fay, longtime GOP leader.

Long-Sought Agreement On West Berlin Signed

BERLIN (AP) — The Big Four put final touches on the long-sought Berlin agreement Saturday, leaving the city divided but raising hopes for a better future in the thawing East-West political climate.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and their colleagues from France and Britain, Maurice Schumann and Sir Alec Douglas-Home, signed the last protocol in a friendly atmosphere at West Berlin's Allied Control Council building.

As if to underscore the new freedom of movement provided for in the treaty, Rogers then drove to East Berlin for an hour's sightseeing and Gromyko flew to west Germany for an overnight stop in Bonn.

The apparently orchestrated gestures of good will also included announcement in Bonn of full diplomatic relations between West Germany and Poland and final ratification of Bonn's nonaggression treaties with Poland and the Soviet Union.

The treaties recognize the Oder-Neisse line as Poland's western border, officially laying to rest a dispute over German territorial losses that had envenomed relations between Bonn and the Communist bloc since World War II.

But for the people of Berlin-whose city is still split by the Communist wall—it was the protocol signing that held the most immediate significance.

Under its terms effective midnight Saturday, East Germany implements full-time visiting rights for West Berliners to the surrounding Communist-controlled countryside. Eased traffic controls practiced temporarily at Easter and Pentecost also go into full effect. In the two eight-day holiday periods, a million West Berliners, almost half the population, went into East Germany and East Berlin on their first visit in years.

The four powers, victorious over Nazi Germany in World War II, began their Berlin negotiations in March 1970. They initialed the broad agreement last September, marking the first accord on the troubled city since four-power control broke down in disagreement after the war. All-German agreements to fill in details followed, as well as Bonn's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland under Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of detente.

Rayford Price, Finck Defeated

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

Rep. Fred Head of Troup, a mild mannered "Dirty 30" member, defeated House Speaker Rayford Price in unofficial complete returns Saturday night in their bitter runoff for re-election from an East Texas district.

Complete inofficial returns, according to the Palestine Herald, showed Head with 10,936 to 10,623 for Price.

One of Price's earliest backers. Rep. Bill Finck of San Antonio, whom Price named chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, conceded defeat to lawyer Matt Garcia in a neighborhood district in the Alamo City.

Finck said tabulations of election returns by his staff showed him about 900 votes behind Garcia.

He conceded as returns were still being tabulated by election officials. Early returns showed Finck trailing Garcia by a margin of about 200 votes.

"It's democracy on the march. I trust-no I'll say I'm certain—he'll make a good representative and I wish him the best of luck," Finck said of Garcia.

The cigar manufacturer and lawyer said he will continue to serve as chairman of the powerful appropriations committee as long as Price wishes, or he will be glad to step down if asked.

He said he still plans to meet with the committee on June 14 as the special legislative session opens.

Finck, who was seeking his fourth term, said he had "absolutely no idea" about his future plans-such as whether he would run again in the future for the legislature.

Finck came under fire for holding a meeting of his committee in San Antonio last Tuesday, just four days before the runoff election.

Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty, a contender for House speaker, accused him of holding it here to bolster his campaign.

Local GOP For Grover

Scurry County Republicans, only 20 strong, went to the polls Saturday and gave strong endorsement to Henry C. Grover as their party's nominee for governor.

Grover received 17 votes, while Albert Fay received only 3.

There were no other runoffs on the Republican ballot.

Texas Traffic Deaths Increase

The DPS said 1,305 persons have died in auto accidents, compared with 1,294 during the first five months of 1971.

Fatal accidents are up from 1,077 a year ago to 1,106, an increase of 3 per cent.

Two Youths In Dallas Drown

DALLAS (AP) — Two Dallas youths drowned Saturday at an apartment complex in South Dallas.

The victims were Kenneth Rogers, 14, and Lowell Jordan, 12.

Two Die In Plane Crash

WINFIELD, Kan. (AP) Two brothers were killed Saturday in a crash of a twin-engine plane in a pasture about nine miles southeast of Winfield.

The victims were Norman E. Smyer, 44, of Arkansas City, and Jimmy L. Smyer, 42, San Antonio, Tex.

The pilot was Norman Smyer, operator of Smyer Aircraft and Travel Service at Strother Field, located halfway between Winfield and Arkansas City.

The sheriff's office said Smyer was starting a flight to haul two jet engines to New York for General Electric's branch office at Strother. The office said Smyer reported engine trouble and was turning back. The crash occurred 15 minutes after takeoff.

Service For Mrs. Hairston

Mrs. May A. Hairston, 79, a native and life-long resident of Scurry County and widow of a former county judge, died at 1 a.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Her husband, the late F.C. Hairston, served as county judge in 1945-1948. He preceded her in death in 1958.

Funeral service has been set for 4 p.m. today at Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel, with the Rev. Arlie Watson of Abilene officiating. Burial will be in the Dunn Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hairston is rsurvived by two sons, Lewis Hairston of Albany, Ga., and Robert Hairston of Lubbock; two sisters, Mrs. Floyd Sheppard of Colorado City and Mrs. H.B. Richards of Amarillo.

She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Briscoe, Sanders Lead In Borden

GAIL — Borden County went strong for Dolph Briscoe and Barefoot Sanders in Saturday's Democratic runoff election.

Briscoe polled 267 votes for governor, according to complete, unofficial returns, while his opponent, Mrs. Frances Farenthold received only 93 votes.

In the race for U. S. Senate, Sanders got 261 votes, compared to 85 for Ralph Yarborough.

Wayne Connally led in Borden County in the lieutenant governor's race, with 198 votes, compared to 139 for Bill Hobby.

Incumbent Robert S. Calvert led in the race for state comptroller, with 195 votes, while his opponent, James Wilson got 122.

In the only local race, Herman Ledbetter, who led the ticket in the May 6 primary, won a narrow 110 to 100 victory over Harlin D. Williams for Commissioner in Precinct No. 1, based on complete, unofficial returns.

Nearly everybody knew it would be highly significant, but nobody speculated much on the economic impact that a junior college might have in Scurry County during those days when a district was being sought.

The main objective of a college, of course, is to serve students, rather than provide an economic boost for the area surrounding it. However, these two factors go hand in hand, and Dr. Ben Brock, dean of Western Texas College, has provided some interesting information compiled at the close of WTC's first full term of operation.

A survey was conducted by the faculty and administration in an effort to determine their impact on local business. Over 80 per cent of the faculty responded, by listing their local expenditures for the nine-month period beginning last September and continuing through May.

Results of the survey were astounding. Real estate held a wide margin with $250,680 worth of property having been purchased. Automobiles valued at $36,158 also ranked high on the list. Home furnishings added $$16,000 to local businesses, and clothing purchases added another $12,325.

Groceries and living expenses accounted for $66,366 among those reporting.

Thirteen of 30 members purchased major appliances such as dishwashers, refrigerators and cookstoves; 16 bicycles of various makes and price range were included, and 6 purchased power lawn mowers. Medical and drug expenditures totaled $9,105; entertainment $2,500; personal books and supplies $1,870.

More than $29,000 was borrowed at interest from local banks, credit unions, and savings and loan. All but four of the members banked in Snyder. Insurance, home improvements and other miscellaneous items ran the listed total expenditure to approximately $425,000.

No attempt was made to determine expenditures for out-of town students. Some 75 students rented apartments and purchased food and clothing in the community. If the new dormitories fill to capacity next year, Snyder will reap additional benefits of 192 students who normally will spend $40 to $50 each per month on clothing, entertainment, gas, etc. It appears that Western Texas College, in addition to supplying needed educational and cultural facilities, also provides a healthy shot in the arm for local merchants, Dr. Brock concludes.

★ ★ ★

However, we might go a step further and suggest that the basis for these figures and speculation on the future are somewhat conservative, at best. Although the out of town students will make an impact within themselves, the hometown students, many of whom would be going to other campuses and adding to someones else's economy will instead be here in Snyder, many of them for two extra years. It all adds up to a good situation.

This Forecast Couldn't Miss

GALVESTON, Tex. AP—You cannot get a weatherman to make a flat prediction of what the weather is going to be like tomorrow. His prediction is based on probabilities and percentages.

But Dave Benton, chief meteorologist in Galveston, told 200 Civil Defense directors several weeks ago that it positively would rain in Galveston on June 2.

It did. All day long.

"I was sure of it," Benton explained Saturday, "because it always rains on the day of the office picnic."

"That is why this year we had the foresight to get a shelter," he added.

Minister Resumes Services At Lake

DENISON, TEX (AP) - The Rev. Thomas E. Arney resumes his regular services by the water at 17 locations on Lake Texoma this Sunday. They will continue through Labor Day to afford Texoma's millions of visitors the chance to attend a church service while vacationing.

The three services the minister conducts personally each Sunday are held on the water with his congregation clad in bathing suits as often as not.

Three student ministers plus cooperating pastors and lay leaders from area towns help fill out the 17 sites each Sunday.

"Our services are not designed to replace the home church of the individual," said the Rev. Mr. Arney, who became the nation's first full-time resort minister a decade ago when he launched the leisure ministery here. "Rather, it is an effort to fill a religious gap during the vacation period of many Texoma visitors.

"Since this ministry started I have had literally hundreds of people tell me that by being able to attend a service here, they have lost the guilt feeling on Sundays they had felt by being away from their own church," Arney said.

Arney conducts three services each Sunday, the first at 7 a.m. at the southern tip of the Islands, then he varies his second assignment at 9 a.m. with his ability to line up visiting speakers, and winds up at Juniper Point near the Willis Bridge at 11 a.m.

He conducts his services from his boat. He pulls up on the beach and starts a record player for about five minutes of religious music to give people in the area a chance to gather.

Some get no farther than the bow or stern of their boat. Others bring camp chairs and sit along the beach. Still others loll in the water and listen.

This year, services will be held at Willow Springs, two sites at the Oklahoma State Park, Soldier Creek, Bridge View, Little Glasses, Lakeside, Skyline Camp, Newberry Creek and the Lake Texoma Lodge in Oklahoma.

On the Texas side services will be held at Preston Fishing Camp, Cedar Mills, Rock Cree, Paw Paw Creek, Juniper Point and at the navigation lights at the south end of the Islands.

At Oklahoma State Park, vacation Bible school classes will be conducted during the summer for the children of the twhousands who come there and camp out for one, two, three weeks or longer.

Presbyterian Synod Meets

The Rev. John Gordon, pastor, and Chuck Jones, youth delegate, will represent the First Presbyterian Church in Snyder at the 130th meeting of the United Presbyterian U. S. A. Synod of Texas, which opens Tuesday on the campus of Trinity University in San Antonio.

Some 350 ministers and laymen from 297 churches in Texas and Louisiana will hear reports, plan programs and vote on recommendations during the Synod meeting, which will continue until noon Thursday.

Business of the Synod of Texas includes hearing and reacting to plans for a new four-state regional snyod, including Oklahoma and Arkansas, of which the Synod will be a part in January, 1973.

Dr. Hugh Nelson, executive secretary of the Synod of Oklahoma-Arkansas, will be a visitor to the San Antonio meeting. Edward F. Tablak, general secretary of the Council on Church Support of the United Presbyterian General Assembly, will speak to the Synod Wednesday evening on "Interpretation and Stewardship."

Vice-moderator of the Synod of Texas, the Rev. Elizabeth S. Johnson, associate pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Fort Worth, will preside Tuesday until a new moderator is chosen. Moderator of the Synod, Rudolph Guerrero, will not preside because of recent illness.

Baylor Has New Degree Program

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A new program leading to the bachelor of science degree in criminal justice has been started at Baylor University for the fall semester.

W. Dewey Presley, board chairman, said the program will aid in creating professionalism in law enforcement.

N. Lee Dunham, director of summer and continuing education, will be coordinator. Dunham spent many months researching and visiting programs in criminal justice. He visited campuses of universities in several states to talk to administrative officials about their degree programs.

Dunham said the program should prepare individuals for leadership roles in police administration, police personnel management, advanced criminal investigation, juvenile procedures and corrective penology.

Baylor's program will be a two-year, upper-level sequence for students who have completed the 64-hour associate arts degree in law enforcement or those who have completed 64 hours of approved law enforcement study.

We welcome anyone to visit our center.

Our prayers are that God will always guide the students through their training. Mrs. Clay, you are doing a wonderful job. You can feel assured that you are definitely helping someone.

The students who helped at the center are Frances Kelly and Jolene Smith of Jayton, Susan Barr and Mary Fugate of Colorado City, and Virginia Green, Helen Robinson, Nell Coleman, Barbara Davis, Linda Ham, Sherry Jenkins, Barbara McNally, Mildred Pevehouse, all of Snyder.

In all sincerity and with deep pride, we, the parents of the graduating class of '72, wish to express our gratitude and appreciation for the privilege of having had the opportunity to honor each of you with the steak dinner, dance, movie and breakfast.

This is a very small token of our appreciation, but you were very deserving...

You all were extremely gracious and humble in your acceptance of our gestures. We are proud of your acheivements and you showed such manners in all we did, and knowing each of you like we do—may you be successful in climbing those mountains.

North Vietnam Is Hit Again By US Planes

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American planes struck more than 250 times in North Vietnam and gunned down their 35th MIG interceptor this year, the U.S. Command reported Saturday.

As the air attacks continued, North Vietnamese troops increased pressure on Binh Dinh South Vietnam's central coast province with more than a million inhabitants and a vital rice crop.

Four artillery rounds landed on a South Vietnamese ammunition dump at Phu My, a district capital, sparking thunderous explosions for 3½ hours, Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported.

Two U.S. advisers had already evacuated Phu My, 32 miles north of the Binh Dinh capital, Qui Nhon. Field reports described fighting there and also 80 miles south in Quang Ngai Province.

Officials said scores of U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft blasted targets Friday in an area in North Vietnam stretching from Hanoi south to the key port of Vinh, destroying nine bridges, 43 supply buildings, 21 storage areas, 41 trucks and 36 boats.

Pilots used television-guided "smart" bombs.

Four Air Force F4 Phantoms escorting bombers about 50 miles south of the Chinese border tangled with two North Vietnamese MIG19s the U.S. Command said. One Phantom downed a MIG with 20mm cannon fire.

According to U.S. figures, the North Vietnamese have lost 35 aircraft this year against four U.S. planes shot down in aerial clashes. Since June 1965, statistics show, North Vietnam has lost 146 interceptors.

The command said no U.S. aircraft were lost Friday but downed planes are not announced if crews are believed alive. Capt. Roger C. Locher of Sabetha, Kan., was rescued Friday after 23 days hiding in North Vietnam.

In South Vietnam, defenders at the central highlands provincial capital of Kontum reported their quietest day since North Vietnamese troops seized parts of the town 10 days ago.

Seven enemy soldiers were killed. There were no South Vietnamese casualties despite sporadic attempts to clear some areas remaining under enemy control, spokesmen said.

There was shelling and some fighting along Highway 14 to Pleiku and North Vietnamese units mined and temporarily blocked Highway 19 linking Pleiku to Qui Nhon on the coast, field reports said.

Air action slowed Saturday because of thunderstorms, with Tropical Storm Mamie moving in over Da Nang.

Two Hurt In Auto Mishap

William T. Williams, 52, 3789 Avenue V, and Stephen Almond, 2, same address, both received minor injuries in a two-car collision on Avenue V at Thirty-fifth Street at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

They were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle and then released.

Williams was driving a 1970 Model Ford that was involved in a collision with a 1968 Model Chevrolet driven by Martha H. Thompson, 3766 Sunset. Damage was minor.

Officers also investigated one other mishap that occurred in the 3800 block of College Avenue at 7:27 p.m. Friday.

Involved were the 1965 model Ford of Robbie Lee Hicks, 2903 Twenty-third Street, and the 1964 Model Plymouth of Guadalupe B. Duran, 316½ Twenty-eighth Street.

First Girl Rabbi Is Ordained

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — America's first woman rabbi was ordained Saturday in ceremonies called "a true test of Reform Judaism."

Sally Priesand, 25, of Cleveland, Ohio, along with 35 male classmates, pledged her dedication in ceremonies at the 107-year-old Rabbi Isaac M. Wise Temple.

"It is only fitting," said Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, president of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, "that among the 36...candidates for the rabbinate, there is a woman.

"It is one of the true tests of Reform Judaism, the fact that every woman is equal with men in the community of the Lord."

It was the 89th graduating class of the HUC-JIR, which has been a center for Reform Judaism in the United States since the early 1800s.

Rabbi Gottschalk laid hands on the shoulders of the black-robed candidates and presented them with scrolls of the Torah near the end of the two-hour ceremony conducted in both Hebrew and English.

Surgery Can Correct Thickened Heart Walls

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors at the Texas Heart Institute have discovered the cause and apparent surgical correction for a type of heart failure which involves the thickening of the walls of the heart.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley, director of the Texas Heart Institute, said the condition, known as idiopathic hypertrophic subaortic stenosis, long has mystified doctors.

The condition involves the thickening of the heart wall with muscle until the heart fails, he said. It was thought there was something wrong with walls of the heart.

"We think that we for the first time have demonstrated that it's the mitral valve that's causing the trouble," Cooley said in an interview between sessions of a symposium presented by the Texas Heart Institute celebrating its 10th year of operation and the completion of a $50 million building program

In nine patients, he said, "we did not do anything but put in an artificial mitral valve" and the heart began to return to normal.

Usually when a heart becomes overmuscular, he said, it is because something has interfered with blood flow from chamber to chamber and the heart has to work too hard to pump.

With this condition, however, doctors could find nothing wrong with the valves that regulate blood flow in the heart.

Cooley said they are still not certain exactly what is wrong with the mitral valve, which lets blood into the main pumping chamber of the heart. One possibility, he said, is that it may not be in the right position to properly regulate the flow of blood.

"It is sort of a suicide situation as far as the heart is concerned," Cooley said. "The more obstruction they get the more hypertrophy (overgrowth) they get, and the more hypertrophy they get the more obstruction they get.

"They keep aggravating each other..the heart is killing itself," he said.

In the past, patients have received temporary relief from operations to cut some of the heart muscle away, he said.

"Now we believe we are operating, not on the effect, but on the cause."

Dr. Robert D. Leachman, a Texas Heart Institute cardiologist, said it was noticed in 1970 that patient with the thickening who had to have the mitral valve replaced for other reasons also had a reduction in heart muscle.

Of the nine early patients who have been given a new valve, two died of unrelated causes, Cooley said. "To our knowledge, of the living patients all are well.

In all, he said, his team has operated on a total of 75 patients with this condition, and no other approach has had better results.

Cooly warned, however, that the patients must be followed for a longer period before the operation can be claimed a complete success. "It may be that five years from now this will be disproved," he said.

2 Rescued From Gulf

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — For seven days and seven nights, 24-year-old Clifford Gay Jr. told his young brother Roger the Lord would save them as they bobbed in the Gulf of Mexico in their tiny boat.

"Today He did," their jubilant mother said Friday night following their rescue.

"There has been so much thanking God and rejoicing around here that I haven't even had a chance to talk to them and find out what happened out there during that terrible week," said Jewel Gay, a member of the Parker Baptist church. "But there will be plenty of time for that now that my sons have come home again."

Clifford and his 10-year-old brother, Roger, were on a fishing expedition last Friday when the outboard motor ran out of gas.

Vets Using Home Loans

DALLAS (AP) — Of the 160,000 veterans in the Dallas area, 72,000—or 45 per cent—have made applications to purchase homes under the GI home loan plan, says Jack Coker, Veterans Administration regional director.

This year alone, there have been 3,697 GI's using the loan for a total of $84.7 million in home purchases.

Coker says that statewide, 91,200 loans were guaranteed during January, February and March of this year compared to 40,900 during the same period last year.

James Dawson, 45, a veteran of World War II and the Korean War is one of those who recently purchased a home under the GI loan.

"I think the GI home loan is beneficial to the veteran. My loan was approved in what I consider a very reasonable period of time and I had no problems whatsoever," says Dawson.

Dawson, who operates a service station, bought a home in the $20,000 price range.

Eugene Hawkins recently purchased what he describes as a $25,000 to $30,000 priced home.

He too, says there was little trouble securing the loan.

"If your finances are in order and you are buying within your means, the problems will be few, if any, in getting a loan approved," says Hawkins.

The average cost of a home since 1946 has been $11,078. Comparatively, the average cost for a home purchased under the GI home loan in 1971 was $22,915.

Paper Cites Misuse Of Stamps

CUERO, Tex. (AP) — The Cuero Record says former state Rep. J. T. Newman paid for three newspapers ad in the Record in 1970-71 with $960 in six-cent postage stamps.

Newman denied using stamps to make the payments, the newspaper said Thursday.

Former Rep. Walter Knapp of Amarillo was convicted and sentenced to four years in prison last week on a charge he used 6-cent stamps from his contingent expense fund to buy a $1,200 used pickup truck.

Ken Long, general manager of the Record, said three employes still with the newspaper witnessed Newman's stamp payments.

Newman allegedly paid $300 worth of stamps for a political ad in his losing re-election campaign on June 26, 1970. Long said Newman's real estate firm made two other payments in 6-cent stamps for real estate ads on Dec. 31, 1970 and on April 7, 1971, totaling $660.

Dist. Atty. Bob Smith of Austin, who prosecuted Knapp, said Thursday no other indictments involving present or former legislators are likely to be returned until September.

FROM MIDDLE EAST

Big Role Seen For Imports

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil writer

HOUSTON (AP) — If current forecasts are correct, the Middle East's role in supplying petroleum to the United States will take a very dramatic jump in the decade ahead.

Most industry officials and petroleum economists are in agreement the current level of U.S. oil imports approaching 4.5 million barrels a day will climb above the 12 million mark between 1980 and 1985.

And there is general agreement most of that sharp increase will have to come from the Middle East.

Only 10 per cent of the oil the United States now receives from foreign sources comes from the Middle East.

The new 1971 edition of British Petroleum's annual statistical review of the world oil industry places a 3,875,000 barrels per day estimate on last year's U. S. oil imports.

It also indicates the Middle East's share of U.S. imports last year amounted to only 390,000 barrels a day. The 1961 statistical review had the Middle East shipments averaging 345,000 barrels a day. During the 10-year period, however, total U.S. imports jumped from a daily average of 1,890,000 barrels to 3,875,000.

Stated another way, the Middle East supplied 18 per cent of U.S. oil requirements in 1961 compared to only 10 per cent in 1971

The addition of North and West African oil would not change the 1961 percentage but it would boost the combined Africa-Middle East share in 1971 to 15 per cent.

British Petroleum breaks down last year's total U.S. oil imports this way: Venezuela and the Caribbean are 2,170,000 barrels a day, Canada 8000,000, Middle East 390,000. Western Europe 145,000, Southeast Asia, 130,000, West Africa 105,000, North Africa 90,000, other Western Hemisphere areas 30,000, other Eastern Hemisphere areas10,00 andRussia-Eastern Europe 5,000.

A decade earlier the breakdown went this way: Venezuela and the Caribbean 1,245,000 barrels, Middle East 345,000. Canada 190,000, East Indies 60,000, Mexico 40,000, and South America and Africa 5,000 each.

In the decade, the Caribbean-Venezuelan share of U.S. imports dropped from 65 to 56 per cent.

World wide inter-area total oil movements meanwhile increased from 9,870,000 barrels a day in 1961 to 27,285,000 daily in 1971. Total Middle East exports climbed from 5,090,000 to 15,250,000 barrels a day, Africa to 5,490,000. Caribbean-Venezuela from 2,635,000 to 3,150,000, and Russia-Eastern Europe Western Europe's consumption from 615,000 to 1,090,000 barrels a day.

At the end of 1971 , Western Europe was receiving one-half of all the oil being exported by other areas.

Petroleum imported by Western Europe increased from 4,465,000 to 13,555,000 barrels a day between 1961 and 1971. Western Europe's consumption of Middle East oil averaged 7,685,000 barrels a day last year compared to 2,855,000 a decade earlier. Her requirements for Africa oil averaged 4,430,000 barrels a day compared with only 430,000 in 1961.

Japan imported 4,615,000 barrels a day last year compared with only 820,000 barrels daily in 1961.

Black Coach Has Will To Succeed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Fred Snowden, the first black to be named head basketball coach at a major conference university, has a special reason for trying to get the faltering University of Arizona team back on its feet.

"If I am able to put together a quality program," Snowden said, "one of the greatest enjoyments would be the knowledge that I was opening the door for all those black coaches who are out there right now doing their homework."

Since resigning his position as assistant coach at Michigan two months ago, Snowden has been busy recruiting.

Former head coach Bruce Larson resigned after finishing with a 6-20 record last season.

Snowden announced earlier in the week that Jim Rappis, a 6-foot-3 guard from Waukesha, Wis., was the fourth "blue chipper" to sign a letter of intent to attend Arizona, a member of the Western Athletic Conference.

Helped by the lure of a new field house for the 1973-74 season, Snowden has brought three other high school players to Arizona. He says all are capable of making the varsity during their freshman year.

They are 6-8 Al Flemings from Michigan City, Ind. and 6-2 guard Erick Money, from Detroit, both high school All-Americans, and 6-5 forward Cornell Norman, who won all-city honors in Detroit.

"We're recruiting as though we had lost every kid and were starting from scratch," Snowden said. "Every time I get a kid, I start recruiting again as if that next kid I want is the first one on my list.

"And we're not just recruiting for now," he continued. "I've had my assistant going back East to look at players who are only high school juniors."

Snowden has a reputation for knowing, and working with, quality athletes. He has coached such major league baseball stars as Willie Horton of the Detroit Tigers, and Alex Johnson, former American League batting champ. In football, he coached Ron Johnson, and in track he coached Henry Carr.

Snowden realizes accusations will be made that he is going to get all of the great black athletes simply because he is black.

"That's just not so," Snowden said. "In fact, I sometimes feel I have to work harder to get the black athletes. Blacks historically have been wary of peddlers. I come along, and I'm a kind of recruiter they've never seen before, and they're particularly wary."

Tennis Begins This Monday

The 1972 summer tennis program, originally announced to begin June 12, has been moved up a week, allowing tennis enthusiasts to sign up Monday, June 5, announced Bill Boles, instructor for the program. Registration will begin at 8:00 a.m. at the Snyder High School courts.

The instructional program is sponsored by the Snyder Public Schools in conjunction with the massive city recreation program.

Boles, junior high tennis coach in Snyder, is a certified instructor with the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association and stated that all of the practice sessions, drills, and competition will be conducted by the guidelines established by the USLTA.

The program is not restricted to any particular age group. "Anyone old enough to hold a racket is old enough to play," said Boles when explaining his philosophy behind the instructional course. He said that this could include almost "anyone from five to 100." Participants will be divided into groups according to their age and ability. Beginners who are trying the game for the first time and players who wish to pick up some valuable coaching tips to improve their game are encouraged to participate.

Coach Boles also stated that a night program for adults will be conducted each Thursday from 7:00-9:00. The night sessions will be for fun and actual play rather than for instruction.

A competitive program is also in progress for seasoned players of tournament experience. This week the team representing Snyder will travel to Big Spring for a tournament. Thus far three tournaments are scheduled for the summer.

Snyder Falls To Big Spring Team

The Snyder Seniors fell victim to their own errors and the pitching of Big Spring's Newman to go down 9-2 in their season opener Friday night in Towle Park.

Newman allowed Snyder only four hits and racked up 12 strikeouts to squelch the hometown offense. Snyder pitcher Robert Braziel gave up seven hits, but the Snyder defense had five costly errors, four of which eventually allowed runs to score.

The visitors scored three runs in the first inning on a single Brewer and two infield mistakes. Newman then made it a quick inning by retiring the first three Snyder hitters in order.

Snyder pushed across its only runs in the second inning after Newman issued walks to Jackie Murray and Louis Loyd and Marvin McClanahan singled.

Newman came back strong in the third after his teammates scored two insurance runs. He struck out the side, and began the fourth inning in the same fashion, but his string was interrupted by a single by Jeff Lambert.

Big Spring scored four times in the fourth inning, but the runs weren't needed.

Lambert, a third inning substitute for right fielder Joe Price, was the only Snyder batter to have two hits. He added a 6th inning single to the one bagger he hit in the fourth. Charles Anderson, third base, and McClanahan accounted for the other Snyder hits.

The big stick at the plate for Big Spring was Brewer, the first baseman, who was two-for-three.

Snyder will travel to Colorado City for an 8:00 p.m. game Tuesday, June 6.

Goolagong, Billie Jean Vie Again

PARIS (AP) — Evonne Goolagong and Billie Jean King, who faced each other across the net at Wimbledon last year, are scheduled for another meeting Sunday in the women's singles final of the French Open Tennis championships.

Both players advanced to the title match with semifinal victories Friday. Miss Goolagong, a 20-year-old Australian, beat Francoise Durr of France, 9-7, 6-4 on the center court of Roland Garros Stadium. Mrs. King of Palm-Aire, Fla., ousted Helga Masthoff of West Germany, 6-4, 6-4. The match was Mrs. King's first semifinal appearance in the French Open.

Four Added To All-Star Tilt

HOUSTON (AP) — Four All-State players have been added to the rosters of the Texas High School All-Star football game scheduled Aug. 3 in the Astrodome.

Wayne Morris, running back from Dallas Oak Cliff and Rick Fenlaw, linebacker from Amarillo High, will join the north football squad.

Joe Washington Jr., running back from Port Arthur Lincoln, and Billy Gordon, center from Port Arthur Jefferson, have been named to the south team.

The north and south basketball teams also have picked up two outstanding players to participate in the Aug. 2 contest in Hofheins Pavilion.

Bobby Darwin Is ComparedToRuth

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Bobby Darwin, the American League's new slugging sensation with the Minnesota Twins, is being mentioned in the same breath with Babe Ruth and Stan Musial and part of his story happened by accident.

Ten years ago he was regarded as a standout pitcher and the Los Angeles Angels, now California Angels, gave him a $40,000 bonus to sign. It didn't work out and after three years in the minors the Baltimore Orioles picked him up for their Elmira, N.Y., farm team.

His best year came in his seventh season. It was 1968 when he had a 10-6 record and 112 strikeouts in 163 innings for Elmira. That fall he took a job on a tow truck and one of the Los Angeles calls he answered involved a two-car accident. Al Campanis, Dodger vice president, was one of those involved. Campanis remembered the name Darwin and when he saw it two months later at the winter meeting he drafted the pitcher. In 1969 Darwin lost six games without winning one for Spokane, a Dodger farm.

Tom LaSorda, a former Dodger pitcher working for them in the minors, suggest Darwin try to become an outfielder even though he had hit only five homers in eight seasons. The idea worked in 86 games for Bakersfield, Calif. In 1971 Darwin hit 17 homers in 91 games for Spokane. However, since the Dodgers were loaded with young outfielders and were thinking of getting Frank Robinson from Baltimore, Darwin would be expendable.

Darwin was traded last October to the Minnesota Twins for outfielder Paul Ray Powell, who didn't make the Dodger spring training roster. Minnesota scouts had followed Darwin and Manager Bill Rigney remembered him as a serious athlete from almost 10 seasons back. That was when Rig managed the Angels and used Darwin in one game as a pitcher. Darwin went three innings, gave up four earned runs and found his way back to the minors.

The $40,000 bonus was written off to experience by the Angels, but Rigney, now Minnesota's pilot, rembered the six-foot-two pitcher with the level swing.

Darwin turned 29 last Feb. 16 and the reason he is being mentioned with names such as Babe Ruth and Stan Musial is that both were pitchers before becoming outfielders and sluggers. Darwin hits home runs for distance but he can never match the longevity record of the Babe and Stan the Man.

Ruth was a winning pitcher who turned to outfielding at age 27. Musial was 20 when a shoulder separation ended his pitching career.

There are others who went from pitching regular positions in the majors. Johnny Lindell of the Yankees, Ken Boyer of the Cardinals and Vic Davalillo of the Pirates started out as pitchers. But none made the jump so late in his career as Darwin.

When he hits a home run one would think of Joe DiMaggio, Frank Howard or Mickey Mantle had hit the ball. Just ask Mel Sottlemyre of the Yankees.

Heavy Bout Is Talked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man who holds the contracts says he expects heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier to defend his title against Muhammad Ali at the Forum in Los Angeles this fall.

"I think we should have the bout in September or October," said Jack Kent Cooke. "And it will be here at The Forum."

That sports emporium was built by Cooke and owned by Cooke and Cooke was the man who guaranteed the multi-million dollar purses for Frazier and Ali when they met last year in New York.

Neither fighter seems to want the return bout in California. Ali favors the Astrodome in Houston and Frazier, all in favor of Los Angeles last fall, now says his manager, Yancey Durham, wants a different site.

Ali is scheduled to meet Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., at Las Vegas, Nev., on June 27.

Reddic Signs With Blinn

DALLAS (AP) — Donnie Reddic of Dallas Jefferson has signed a combination track and football scholarship agreement with Blinn Junior College.

Reddic was the Class AAAA 330-yard hurdles champion. He also was an all-district linebacker.

Old-Timers Game Scheduled Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "A Salute to Casey Stengel," with men who played with, for and against the ol' professor in attendance, will be featured at the Los Angeles Dodgers' Old-timers Game Sunday at Dodger Stadium.

Stengel, the Glendale, Calif., banker who is a New York Mets vice president, will be on hand along with a parade of Hall of Fame members Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Sandy Koufax, Joe DiMaggio, Stan Musial, Joe Cronin, Early Wynn and Harry Hooper.

Hall-of-Famer Casey was involved in 13 World Series as a player and manager over a span of nearly half a century, from 1916 when he played with the Dodgers through 1960 when he managed the New York Yankees.

Stengel's major league career began in 1912 and two players who broke into the majors that year will be present—Wilbur Cooper and Charlie Deal.

Some of the great Yankee players from the past who will attend include DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle, Bob Meusel, Oscar Roettger, Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Gil McDougald, Don Larsen, Andy Carey, Bobby Richardson and Whitey Ford.

Representing the Dodgers are Robinson, Campanella, Koufax, Pee Wee Reese, Jim Gilliam, Don Newcombe, Walter Alston, Babe Herman, Cookie Lavagetto, Dixie Walker and George Cutshaw, the latter of the 1916 team.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the league presidents, Cronin of the American and Chub Feeney of the National, will help salute Stengel, as will the umpires, Beans Reardon, Art Passarella, Pat Orr and Earnie Serfas.

Kuhn will accept on behalf of the Hall of Fame uniforms of the first Dodgers to have their numbers retired-Robinson, 42; Campanella, 39, and Koufax, 32.

The New York Jets gained 1,888 yards rushing last season but their rivals gained 2,302 carrying the ball.

Of Syracuse's 11 football rivals in 1972 only Penn State, Pitt and Army lead in the series with the Orange.

Coo-Coo Martin Returns To Track

BVY BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto grvacing Writer

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Race driver Clifton "Coo-Coo" Marlin ran for the legislature in Tennessee a few years back, and when he lost he went back to driving fast cars with a vengeance.

"I'm a Republican in a big Democratic district," said the solidly-built sportsman-civic leader whose voice has a heavy east Tennessee twang. "But I lost by only three percentage points of the vote. Some of my Democratic friends obviously didn't come out and vote like they promised."

Marlin says he got his knickname "Coo-Coo" from some of his neighbors who claimed he had to be in that frame of mind to drive race cars.

Marlin, 40, has been going great guns since he put politics aside temporarily to concentrate on racing.

In Sunday's Mason-Dixon 500-mile event for stock cars, paying $83,500, Marlin will be in a Chevrolet in third place when the 40 starters go to the flag at 1 p.m. at Dover Downs Raceway.

It is the best start he has had in a Grand National event.

Marlin posted a speed of 130.586 mph Friday to share runnerup honors with big money winner Bobby Allison in the first round of qualifying.

Allison, whose $259,532 in prize money was second only to Richard Petty's $330,184 last year, will start his Chevrolet in the front row beside pole-sitter Bobby Isaac because he had qualified half an hour earlier than Marlin.

Isaac, holder of 29 world land speed records for stock cars, won the No. 1 starting spot by driving his Dodge at 130.809 mph. His speed was faster than the pole mark for the 1971 Mason-Dixon, but almost two miles slower than Allison's top speed for the Delaware 500 at Dover last September.

Petty, driving a Plymouth equipped with power steering, got the other second row berth for Sunday's two-abreast start on the one-mile oval.

The third row will be made up of Benny Parsons and Lee-Roy Yarbrough in Fords.

Twenty drivers qualified for starts during Friday's trials, leaving the 20 positions in the bottom half of the order to be filled today.

Sunday's winner will be paid just under $13,000. More importantly, perhaps, the race pays 500 first place points toward the season's championship, in itself worth almost $500,000 to the Grand National Driving Corps.

Carefree Netter Wins Match

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Billy Higgins of Carefree, Ariz., won the Pierremont Oaks Memorial Tennis championship and $300 in first prize money Monday by beating Andy Lloyd of Shreveport 6-3, 6-3.

For Higgins, it was settlement of a 10-year-old score. The last time the two met was at Forest Hills in 1962 when both were members of the Junior Davis Cup team. Lloyd beat Higgins in five sets.

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional baseball clubs will look for the likes of Burt Hooton when the eighth summer free agent draft will be held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hooton, the Texan who hurled a no-hitter for the Chicago Cubs earlier this season, was one of the plums of last season's picks and pitchers are expected to dominate the first-round draft this year.

Among those expected to be grabbed initially by American and National League clubs in inverse order of their 1971 finish, are right-handers Bob Grossman from the University of Maryland; Larry Christiansen from Marysville, Wash, and Dick Ruthven from Fresno State and left-hander Scott MacGregor of El Segundo, Calif.

Others expected to be in demand in the first round of the regular draft are third basemen Dave Calk of the University of Texas and Roy Howell, Lompoc, Calif.; Dave Roberts, University of Oregon, and Richard Manning, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and catchers Richard Bengston, Peoria, Ill., and Bobby Goodman, Memphis, Tenn.

In the regular phase of the draft, the San Diego Padres, cellar-dwellers in the National League last year, will have first pick, followed by the Cleveland Indians, poorest performers in the AL last season.

Others, in order of selection: Philadelphia, Texas, Montreal, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Minnesota, Houston, California, Atlanta, Chicago White Sox, New York Mets, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Boston, Los Angeles, Kansas City, San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis, Oakland, world champion Pittsburgh and AL pennant winner Baltimore.

In the secondary phase, determined by drawings, Los Angeles will go first, followed by Cleveland, the Mets, Texas and San Diego.

Others, in order, are California, Houston, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Montreal, Yankees, Cubs, White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Oakland.

Guerra Inks PanAm Pact

ROMA, Tex. (AP) — Jesus Guerra, three-time Class AA all-state baksetball star from Roma High School, has signed to play for Pan American University in Edinburg.

Guerra's teammate, Wenche Garcia, also a first team all-stater this year, also is headed for Pan American.

Guerra, a 5 foot 10 guard, scored almost 2,500 points in his three-year career, averaging 23 points per game.

The 6-5 Garcia averaged 19 points and 15 rebounds per game.

Cubs And Giants Win In LL Play

The Cubs and Giants of Snyder Little League remain undefeated after beating the Yankees and Athletics Friday.

The Giants downed the Athletics for the second time 14-4 with an offensive attack of eleven hits. The second inning was the big one for the Giants. Eleven runs were scored on six hits to demolish the hopes of the Athletics. Clay Peterson started the inning with a fly ball that was missed by the Athletic centerfielder. Richard Crayton, Athletic pitcher, then put three men on base before being tagged for five successive singles.

The Athletics scored twice in the first, and twice in the fourth. Crayton lofted the only homerun of the game when he connected in the first inning.

The winning pitcher was Billy Rollins who threw three innings before being relieved by John Hopkins. Crayton took the loss for the Athletics. Hopkins had an outstanding night at the plate, leading the Giants with a three-for-four performance. John Reese was two-for-three while Calvin Reese had two hits in four trips.

Crayton, Gerald Snyder, and Tony Pearson had two hits apiece to account for the A's offense.

The Cubs totally devastated the Yankees in the nightcap, downing them 22-5 behind an awesome battery that tagged three Yankee pitchers for eleven hits, three of which were circuit tours.

The Yankees scored three runs in the first inning, but the Cubs came across with seven, spurred by Mike Greenfield's single and a homerun by Timmy Burnett. The Yanks scratched twice more in the game, but the Cubs were not through playing ball. After scoring four runs in the second, the Cubs ran wild with an eleven run third inning. Mark Davis and Jeff Reed smashed homers in the third.

Burnett took the victory from the mound, allowing the Yankees only three hits, and helped his cause by getting three hits. Davis and Greenfield had two hits to assist the assault. Gary Waller, Dana Hanna, and Richard Willis were the only Yankees to get hits.

Following the game against Milwaukee June 13th, the gals will be invited onto the field to compete for prizes and Rangers tickets.

The categories of competition will be: 1, Most unusual hot pants. 2, Most attractive hot pants. 3, Most form-fitting hot pants. 4, Tallest girl in hot pants. 5, Heaviest woman. 6, Oldest woman. 7, Prettiest girl.

Another promotion June 10th will be Sweetheart and Date night. Each woman 14 and older will receive a pair of sheer panty hose.

Other promotions on the home stand include Cap night, bat day, Little League night, flag day and family and senior citizens night.

Injuries Hamper Big Track Meet

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - Injuries grabbed the headlines as the three-day NCAA track and field extravaganza reached inexplicable conclusions after its second go-round.

Southern California's Trojans, favorites to win another national title before this meet started, took a 28-25-22 lead from Texas-El Paso and UCLA Friday in the first day of actual point score. But one key injury hit USC, and the team with the best chance appeared to be cross-town rival UCLA.

At the same time, injuries took a heavy toll as the unknowns and lightly regarded won races:

—With favorites Fred Samara of Penn and Colorado's Mike Hill out with bruises, Connecticut's Ron Evans, in only his second effort of the year, captured the decathlon with 7,571 points. That bettered the year-old NCAA mark of 7,456 by Ray Hupp of Ohio State.

USC's Don Quarrie pulled up after 10 yards of the 100 meter dash after teammates Leon Brown and Willie Deckard had failed to make it that far. UCLA'S Warren Edmonson captured the event in 10.1 after a meet record-breaking 10.0 in the semifinals.

—Defending long jump champion Bouncy Moore of Oregon never took jump in the finals this year because of a 26-8¼, wind-aided, to win the title.

Gary Bjorklund of Minnesota, the defending six-mile titlist, has a bad foot and didn't compete here. That left South African Johnny Halberstadt the winner in 28:50.4. The 5-foot-7 runner is a student at Oklahoma State.

Going into Saturday's final competitions, UCLA looked strongest on the basis of two seven-foot high jumpers, three superb triple jumpers, two 200-meter runners, two 400-meter runners plus a fast mile relay squad still left to compete.

The surest winner appeared to be John Smith, the world record-holder in the 440.

"I'm running easily," said the muscular sprinter who fought off a winter case of hepatitis to get ready for the season.

Smith said it would probably take "about 44.2 or so to win." The world record in the 400, held by Lee Evans, is 43.8.

Shot put artist Fred De Bernardi of Texas-El Paso won his specialty with a toss of 66 feet 6 ½ inches on his last throw and said he was aiming for 69 feet.

UTEP's mile relay team, with Steve Williams out because of injuries, failed to qualify for today's final. However, the UTEP 440 relay team could pick up points, as could Ron Rondeau in the intermediate hurdles.

Kent State's Al Schoterman set the only NCAA record of the first day of finals with a 231-3 hammer throw. The old mark, also the meet record, was 227-10 by teammate Jacques Accambray, who las second Friday in 227-1.

Open Golf Play Set In Limelight

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Television coverage of the United States Open Golf Championship this year will be the most extensive in history, offering live coverage of the leaders on 12 holes.

"I'm not saying we're covering a lot of it," quipped Bud Palmer, among the many announcers who will work the three-day show, "but my assignment is the practice putting green and the ladies' locker room."

That, of course, is a slight exaggeration. Still, coverage is scheduled for a total of 5½ hours, most of it prime time, on holes 6-8 and 10-18 on the picturesque oceanside Pebble Beach Golf Links.

"It's a new concept in coverage," said Chuck Howard, vice president of ABC-TV in charge of sports programming, who will serve as producer of the ambitious undertaking.

One-half hour of taped coverage, much of it involving Open history, is scheduled Friday June 16, 10:30-11 p.m. EDT. Live coverage is set for 5:30—7:30 p.m. EDT Saturday, June 14 and 5-8 p.m. EDT Sunday, June 18.

"It is not the normal kind of coverage," Howard emphasized.

"Since we're going five hours on live coverage, three hours on Sunday, we wanted to get away from dead air time and provide meaningful golf coverage all the way.

"So we decided to expand the number of holes we're covering. The way we're set up we can show the leaders, the players in contention, the entire time we're on the air.

"It gives us much more flexibility. We can pick up the leaders on the sixth hole and take them through No. 8, then have them all the way on the back nine.

"We don't have to fill air time with players out of contention while we're waiting for the leaders to get on camera.

"We can tell the entire story."

Howard said there were a variety of factors that prompted the network to expand coverage.

"First of all, it's the United States Open," he said. "If it's not the premier golf tournament in the world, it's certainly right up there.

"Then there's the fact that it's at Pebble Beach. This is one of the most beautiful places in the United States, the Monterey Peninsula. The television audience has never seen the sixth, seventh and eighth holes. They're all on the water and they are some of the most spectacular on the course—classic golf holes.

"And it's on the West Coast, with a three-hour time difference from the East Coast. That gives us a break on time. We really expect a super audience.

Fans Flock To Horse Races

NEW YORK (AP) — Major professional and amateur sports events drew record crowds in 1971, with horse racing leading at the gate for the 20th straight year.

The statistics were compiled by Triange Publications Inc., publisher of the Daily Racing Form.

Thoroughbred tracks drew 46,750,643 fans and 30,203,645 turned out for the trots for a total attendance of 76,954,288 and an increase of 2,921,871 over 1970.

Automobile racing was a distant second with an estimated 43,700,000 fans, up 1.2 million from 1970.

A close race for third place on the spectator scoresheet shaped up between football and baseball, but for the fifth straight year football won on the basis of attracting nearly 31.5 million fans to college games alone. Including college and pro regular season and post-season attendance, the sport drew 42,039,065, an increase of 1,622,788.

Baseball, both minor and major plus the playoffs and World Series, drew 41,256,145 fans, up 1,337,821 from 1970.

College and pro basketball, including the professional post-season play, drew 32,603,034 fans as the No. 5 sport but enjoyed an increase of 2,684,019, second only to horse racing.

Hockey was next on the list with the National Hockey League attracting 7,965,310, some 1.5 million more than the previous year. But figures for the Stanley Cup playoffs were not included in the statistics. With minor leagues, amateur and college games included, the sport totaled 17,022,190 fans, up 2,211,551 over the previous year.

At the bottom of the list were greyhound racing, 13,666,462, up 988,016; soccer, 4,794,070, up 513,600; wrestling, 3,892,014, up 328,012 and boxing 2,341,116, up 188,054.

Professional golf and tennis, despite their rich purses, were not among the frontrunners.

Yankees And Athletics Win In Farm Play

In Farm League action Friday night, the American Legion Yankees downed the Lions Club Cubs 16-9, and the West Texas Bank Athletics beat the Rotary Club Cardinals 15-4.

The Cubs scored three runs in the first inning to take the lead, but the Yankees bounced back with a five run second inning.

The Cubs scored three in the third and three more in the fourth, but the Yankees scored two, five, and four runs respectively in the last three innings.

Gerald Woodruff pitched for the Yankees and Vic Valentine hurled for the Cubs.

Walter Banks had two hits for the Cubs, and Chuck Bane came in to hit a third inning homerun, but the Cubs still fell short of victory.

The Yankees had four players who had big nights at the plate. Raymond Becerra and Samuel Willis each had four hits, and Willis had a homer in the fifth. Ronnie Myers and Paul Valesquez had three hits and Valesquez also homered.

In the second game the Athletics coasted on the pitching of Kenny Tate and a balanced hitting attack to defeat the Cardinals. Tate allowed only six hits to take the victory.

Five Athletics had two hits in three trips to the plate. They were Kenny Harbin, centerfield, David Zajicek, third base, Joe Lopez, right field, Larry Lee, shortstop, and Asher Wright, left field.

Robert Potts led the Cardinals with a two-for-three performance. Randy Wolf took the defeat from the mound.

Holland Using Pill For Birds

ROTTERDAM (AP) — The municipality of Rotterdam began netting pigeons last February to rid itself of the nuisance birds.

But the city is keeping a close watch on the pigeons in another Dutch city, Amsterdam, where pigeons are being fed special food containing substances that interfere with their breeding.

If Amsterdam's 'bird pill' works, Rotterdam may adopt pigeon family planning, according to Rotterdam's informative service.

To speak or not to speak; 'affair' is in question

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have known a couple for a long time. They have teen-aged children and we have always thought they were happily married.

Last week when my husband and I were dining out, we saw the wife dining with a very attractive gentleman. We assumed he was a friend and thought nothing more of it.

The next morning this woman came to my home in tears and practically got down on her knees and begged me not to say anything to her husband about being with this man. She said she would break off the affair immediately.

I was stunned. When my husband came home I told him what had happened and said I had no intention of telling her husband anything. My husband said he was of the opinion that the husband should be told.

Abby, we respect your opinion, and want to know what we should do. MR. & MRS. X.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. X.: Say nothing. Either the lady is not playing with a full deck, or she is testing your friendship. Why would a married woman dine with her lover where she's apt to be seen by friends?

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because I am too embarrassed to ask anyone else and I need advice.

A year ago I married a blue-eyed blond girl. She has a very fair complexion and her ancestors are German and Dutch. I also have blond hair, a fair complexion and blue eyes. My people are Danish and Swedish.

Three days ago we had our first baby, and it doesn't look anything like either one of us. It has dark eyes, dark skin and dark hair. My wife says it must have inherited her father's dark skin which he acquired from working in the Pennsylvania coal mines most of his life. [Is this possible?]

My parents live far away and are begging for a snapshot of our baby, but I am too embarrassed to send one. I have no reason to mistrust my wife, but I am sick just worrying about what this could add up to. Can you explain it? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: After consulting some experts in genetics I am advised that the color of a baby's eyes and skin frequently are darker when the baby is newborn, so don't jump to any conclusions prematurely. Also, if TWO grandparents have dark coloring, it is possible to produce dark skinned, dark eyes, dark haired children, even tho both parents are fair. However, her father's years in the coal mines cannot possibly affect the color of her child's skin.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend whose husband brought back some very good-looking purses from Europe, and she gave me one as a gift. Whenever I carry it someone is sure to notice and compliment me on it. If this friend is present she jumps in with, "Oh, I gave it to her!"

I think this is very poor taste. If I want to tell where it came from, that should be my privilege. Please tell me if she is lacking in manners when she does this, and should I mention it to her. WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: She is proud to have given you something that evokes so many compliments, but it would sound so much better if YOU were to announce it. So next time, beat her to it, and you'll have solved your problem.

DEAR ABBY: You told a correspondent that you were sure there were many men who had forgiven an adulterous wife, but you weren't prepared to cite name, rank and serial number. I submit one who not only forgave his wife, but he paid to get her back:

Name: Hosea [husband of Gover].
Rank: Servant of the Lord.
Serial Number: Book of Hosea, Chapters 1, 2 and 3.

'Man Of La Mancha' Last Of Big Spenders

Editor's note — Getting the book was easy: it's a classic. The music and lyrics? Easy, too. They were from the play they made from the classic. So what was hard to find when they began filming "Man of La Mancha" in Italy? Musicians. The good ones all play for TV, my dear Stradivarius.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

TARQUINIA, Italy (AP) — On a bleak Etruscan hill Don Quixote was about to do battle with a creaking windmill in a scene for what may be one of the last of the movie epics.

Here in Italy United Artists is spending $11 million to film "Man of La Mancha" in a style to which American movie companies are no longer accustomed. Three or four years ago, such outlays were fairly common. Not now. Depressed economics have made the $2 million picture the norm.

Even Arthur Hiller is astonished at the budget for the musical he is completing.

"If it were my decision, I don't think I'd spend that much money in today's film market," said the producer-director.

Under a threatening sky, Hiller was trying to film the title song on the mid-Italy hills that are doubling for Spain's La Mancha. It was a simple scene in which Peter O'Toole as Quixote and Broadway star James Coco as Sancho Panza advance toward the windmill on horseback and mule-back.

The animals balked. The sky changed. The actors couldn't match their lips to the musical playback. After a seemingly faultless 11th take, director Hiller called for another.

"What was wrong? What was wrong?" O'Toole demanded. He seemed unsatisfied with the explanation of a technical error. But he turned his white steed and returned for another take. Afterward he remarked that 20-months' shooting of "Lawrence of Arabia" in various deserts was less arduous than "Man of La Mancha," which started Jan. 13.

For director Hiller "Man of La Mancha" has also been something of an ordeal' but he seemed to be bearing up under it.

"It's my first musical," said Hiller, who directed "Love Story." It is also his first costume picture, and he faced the challenge of interpreting an internationally accepted legend.

In the musical aspects Hiller has the expert help of associate producer Saul Chaplin, who has supervised music from B pictures to "West Side Story" and "The Sound of Music." It was Chaplin who shook his head to signal a bad take when O'Toole and Coco failed to lip-sync to the playback.

"It has never been done before. The studio technicians had no concept of how to go about it, and we had to teach them every step of the way.

"The toughest part was getting good musicians. You'd think that would be easy in Italy. It's not. Their symphony is poor, their opera is good only when they get the right stars to perform. The best musicians are in radio and television, and we had to wait until they were available."

O'Toole and co-star Sophia Loren recorded their own songs. Sophia was a "revelation," said both Hiller and Chaplin; neither knew she could sing so well. O'Toole's songs are more demanding, especially in "The Impossible Dream." While he has "a good dramatic sense," some of his notes may have to be "sweetened" by a more trained voice.

Calendar Adds Days To April

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico Department of Development was in a daze over its days on the 1972 calendar.

The department's official state calendar had 31 days in April.

The same calendar showed Mother's Day to be on Saturday, May 13, instead of its usual Sunday place—May 14.

And, the calendar said the Santa Fe Downs horse racing season would open May 13. The track said it would open May 19.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro won the Delaware Oaks four times at Delaware Park between 1940 and 1955.

Broadway Angels Still Got Skinned

NEW YORK (AP) — Highlights and footnotes on the 1971-72 theater season:

Forty-eight assorted shows opened on Broadway from last June through May 31, an increase of five from the preceding semester. Angels backed esthetic-entertainment hunches with $10 million, of which $6 million quickly vanished.

Balancing off the dismal statistics of 29 fast flops, were such fresh box-office dandies as "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," "Sugar" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Seventeen holdovers from previous seasons also departed, including "Man of La Mancha," which earned $5 million profit on a $200,000 nut; "Promises, Promises" and "1776," each netting $1.5 million on $500,000 investments; and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," which made another $450,000 for Neil Simon on a $150,000 expenditure.

Boxoffice grosses were up with raised ticket prices but there was wide concern and all sorts of theories about declining attendance for all but the biggest hits.

Among the happiest performers of the season were Alexis Smith, Sada Thompson, Elizabeth Wilson, Lee Grant, Phil Silvers, Larry Blyden, Cliff Gorman, Vincent Gardenia and Peter Falk.

The unluckiest included Richard Kiley and Karem Morrow, each in two quick failures; Elizabeth Ashley, Gwen Verdon and Pat Hingle.

TWENTY LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA—Aboard their flying bed to the storybook isle of Naboomdu, David Tomlinson, Angela Landsbury, Roy Snart, Cindy O'Callaghan and Ian Weighill are shown in a scene from Walt Disney Production's "Bedknobs and Broomsticks." It is coming to Snyder soon.

INDIAN IS BACK—Ben Checotah, a 20-year-old Creek Indian from Muskogee, Okla., shown with his wife Peggy, is believed to be the first of his tribe to come back to Macon, Ga., to live since the Creeks were driven from their ancestral home in central Georgia more than 130 years ago. His forebears were among thousands who walked the "Trail of Tears" from the Southeast to the Indian Territory in Oklahoma. A new program is underway to encourage their return to Georgia. Holbrook Sheds Twain Image

Editor's Note — For 18 years Hal Holbrook has been charming audiences with his impersonation of Mark Twain, and it looks like it will be a life-long run. But his TV role was quickly dropped. Why? It only drew an audience of 25 million viewers.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hal Holbrook appeared on television for eight hours and thereby accomplished something he had been trying to do for 10 years—a separation, but not a divorce, from Mark Twain.

Holbrook had the title role in the "Senator" segment of NBC's "The Bold Ones," during the 1970-71 season. Although critically acclaimed and much honored, "The Senator" disappeared—the shows' ratings just did not make passing grades.

The Ohio-born actor had great success over the years impersonating Mark Twain in a one-man series of readings that traveled from off-Broadway to on Broadway, to a television special, and along the way, into a thousand auditoriums and theatres from coast to coast.

"There is no area of the business today that gives you more clout than a part in a television series," Holbrook reflected. "It not only gives you the largest possible audience, but the people who hire actors start to look upon you with a new eye.

"Suddenly, with 'the Senator,' my Mark Twain image was broken. Suddenly I was not that fine old gentleman but an actor of parts—with parts."

"Mark Twain Tonight" has been Holbrook's principal source of activity and financial security for 18 years. And although Hal is no longer dominated by that wit and writer, even his Twain readings have benefited by the Senator.

"Audiences for 'Mark Twain Tonight' increased after the television experience. I've recently wound up six weeks of touring and, in most places, the auditorium or theater was sold out before I even got to town.

"I want to keep on doing it, so I don't have to take on every TV movie that comes along."

For the past decade Holbrook was conscientiously attempting to broaden his identity. He appeared in Abe Lincoln in Illinois and a number of other plays. He toured with musicals including "Man of La Mancha" and "Camelot."

Meanwhile, there was the westward-ho movement by New York actors as more employment opened up in Hollywood—"there were times I felt that I was the last actor left in New York—and eventually Holbrook, too, broke down. He was cast in a two-part episode of "The Name of the Game."

Later the studio—Universal—asked him if he would do a small part in the lawyer segment of "The Bold Ones."

"The Senator" grew out of an executive's interest in a "Bold Ones" segment in following the life, work and family of a man of about 40 who reminded many viewers of the late Robert Kennedy.

"I had the idea of making him a senator," Holbrook said. "And I did not want him to win all his battles: he didn't."

While "The Senator" died young, a victim of the ratings race, Holbrook feels it was a success.

"How can anything be a failure if it plays to a weekly audience of around 25 million people?" he asked. "The fault was not with the audience—what play has ever reached 25 million people a week?—but with the system. The commercial networks must try to please all of the people all of the time. Other media regard the audience as many audiences. The result is that when you are seeking the greatest number, the thing you come up with is formula."

Soviet Spy Ship Heeds Warning

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. 7th Fleet said today one of its destroyer escorts warned a Soviet spy ship away from the mined harbor of Vinh of North Vietnam's central Coast and got a Russian thanks in return.

The Navy said the destroyer escort McMorris signaled the Soviet surveillance trawler Izmeritell last Tuesday by flashing lights and flags.

The Russian trawler altered her course after the warning and signaled: "Thank you for your cooperation and have a pleasant voyage."

U.S. 7th Fleet ships have been patrolling the North Vietnamese coast and notifying other ships of mines dropped in major harbors by U.S. planes May 9.

Quarter Pounder Cheaper

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of beef is on the rise at supermarkets, but the price of a quick "Quarter Pounder" hamburger is going down.

The McDonald's Corp. says it will comply with the Price Commission order Friday to cut the price of the "Quarter Pounder" hamburgers and cheeseburgers sold in 31 company-owned restaurants.

The commission ordered the rollback to the base price level by June 16 because it said the company raised prices without commission approval. The Oak Brook, Ill., firm also was ordered to reduce the price by June 30 to a level low enough to repay customers for the charges found improper.

At many more eateries and at supermarket meat counters, consumers can expect higher prices, another government agency said Friday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that wholesale livestock prices increased 4.9 per cent in May as the over-all Wholesale Price Index rose 0.5 per cent, seasonally adjusted.

By comparison, the over-all increase in each of the previous months was 0.1 per cent when food prices were declining.

Contamination Of Food Is World Problem

ROME (AP) — Contamination of food by chemicals has become a worldwide problem, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization says.

A study prepared jointly with the World Health Organization calls for a continuous survey and monitoring of raw and processed food to detect contaminants and harmful additives.

While food has always been exposed to biological contamination, "chemical contamination, once largely local, has now become a worldwide problem," it says.

"Certain types of chemical contamination might cause irreparable damage to body organs, cancer, or may in certain cases cause defects in future generations."

The study lists different types of contaminants in food, such as mercury residue in fish, heavy metal contamination in canned fruits and vegetables, pesticide residues in root crops, meat and milk, and fecal pollution in shellfish or drinking water.

Emphasizing the financial loss caused by pollution, the report says: "In the United States, one-fifth of the area capable of growing shellfish has been closed because of increasing pollution. The annual loss runs into tens of millions of dollars. The closing of fishing waters in Canada and the United States because of mercury contamination has caused great losses to the fishermen and to the firms that processed the fish."

It also finds that millions of pounds of meat are condemned each year because of diseased condition or residues of pesticides and antibiotics.

The couple made the announcement as they left London for a vacation

London's Big Ben Is Leaning

LONDON (AP) — Labor M.P. Marcus Liptons fears that the Leaning Tower of Pisa will soon have a rival in London's Big Ben clock tower.

Lipton fears the 113-year-old, 326-feet-high clock tower at the Houses of Parliament slowly is leaning to the northwest and one day may come crashing down.

Experts at the Department of the Environment, which looks after such things, say the world-famed clock with the world-famed chrimes is settling and leaning but should be standing many years from now.

Couple Repeats Vows In New Deal Church May 20

Shirley Diane Stirl of Loraine, Texas and Dennis Lee Douglas of Ozona were united in marriage May 20 at 3 p.m. in New Deal Church of Christ. Bill Young, minister of the church, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Stirl of Loraine and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Douglas of Ozona.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white crepe and silk organza, designed and made by her mother. A gathered skirt fell from fitted empire waistline into a train. The bottom of the skirt was adorned with a ruffle and seed pearls. The neckline, fitted bodice and cuffs were decorated with pearl overlay on lace. The veil was attached to a headpiece worn by her mother in her wedding and it consisted of three bands decorated with porcelain orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and lemon leaves attached to a white bible borrowed from her sister.

"Something old" was the headpiece, "something new" was her dress, "someting borrowed" was the white bible and "something blue" was a satin and lace garter made by her mother.

Jeannine Isbell of Haskell was maid of honor. She wore a yellow crepe gown with empire waist and short puffed sleeves trimmed with white lace with yellow insert. Her headpiece of white silk organza was a white bow with lace streamers. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

Gary Douglas of Odessa was best man. Ralph Stirl of Loraine and Robert Mayfield, Jr. of Los Cruces, New Mexico were ushers.

The couple were married before an arch of yellow gladiolas and lemon leaves. Baskets of gladiolas and greenery flanked either side of the arch.

The musical program was recorded selections by Mrs. Don Richburg, organist, and Mr. Gary Douglas, who sang "The Wedding Prayer."

A reception was held at the New Deal Clubhouse. The serving table, centered with an arrangement of yellow and white carnations held the bride's cake, presided over by Mrs. Tom Hughes, Patricia Dierschke and Janice Isbell.

For a wedding trip to Arkansas, the bride wore a baby blue dress with white accessories.

The bride attended Angelo State University and is now a senior at Texas Tech. She is a home economics major and member of the American Home Economics Association. The groom also attended Angelo State and is now a senior Animal Science major at Texas Tech. Both are on the Dean's List. The groom is employed at the Texas A&M Research Station north of Lubbock.

Out-of-town guests came from Hermleigh, Loraine, Ozona, Austin, Big Spring, Las Cruces, New Mexico, Lubbock, Odessa and San Antonio.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in Abernathy May 19. The couple will reside in New Deal.

Uncle Sam Is Biggest Customer At Supermarts

Editor's Note—Probably the biggest customer at the supermarket checkout counter is Uncle Sam. The government is currently spending over $2 billion yearly to buy groceries for the nation's 11.1 million poor. This is the food stamp program, friend of the needy, foe of many others.

By JOHN T. WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Of the 20 persons standing in lines at the supermarket checkout counters, 12 had no money to pay for the goods they had gathered to feed husbands and children during the coming days.

When their turn at the cash register came, only a few of the dozen passed the moment without some outward display of emotion.

An elderly woman moved her gaze from the floor to cast quick, almost guilty glances around as the final item was rung up.

A small man who had grown back into himself with age came through moments later, talking vaguely and to no one in particular of a son "high up in IBM." When he ruffled through his billfold, one lone dollar appeared briefly and was quickly passed over. The counter boy's grin was not friendly as he packed the man's two bags of groceries.

Still later an argument erupted at counter four. "Damn it, what do you mean I can't buy this steak and have butter if I want it. It's my right ain't it. I saved two months for this night. Gimme the steak at least."

An assistant manager intervened briefly. The man got his steak and butter. The clerk got a handful of coupons. Like the other 11 in the store, the man had paid with U.S. Department of Agriculture food stamps, grocery money for 11.1 million American poor.

The program to relieve hunger or prevent outright starvation among one out of every 20 Americans is expected to cost just over $2 billion this year. And those costs would roughly double if all Americans eligible for stamps signed up for them. That the program exists points up a major problem in modern American life. Stamps were born in the Great Depression, halted as unnecessary in World War II, and then restarted as a nation soaring to unprecedented affluence realized millions of fellow citizens had been left behind in hunger.

The potential for further explosive growth has led to many a nightmare for President Nixon's budget planners. Efforts to trim the program even slightly touched off instant congressional and popular uproars. Now there is an Administration backed bill in Congress that would abolish 90 per cent of the stamp program and could severely constrict the food budgets of those on welfare and the working poor who make up 40 per cent of those presently on food stamp rolls.

A major election year battle appears certain over stamps since the poor and their advocates in Congress want the program retained and expanded.

Those arguing for a larger and more generous program point out that the present assumed food budget for a family of four come out to about 30 cents per person per meal.

The present food stamp program was initiated by the late President John F. Kennedy in1961 but its greatest growth came under President Nixon.

Nixon, in calling for an expanded drive against hunger, told Congress in May, 1969: "Something very much like the honor of American Democracy is at issue.

"... America has come to the aid of one starving people after another. But the moment is at hand to put an end to hunger in America itself for all time.

"That hunger and malnutrition should persist in a land such as ours is embarassing and intolerable."

And yet, Department of Agriculture spokesmen say, antihunger programs have failed to reach millions who by federal standards are in nutritional need. Part of this is said to be due to the aversion of many persons to the welfare stigma attached to stamps. But state and local welfare agencies often are incapable or unwilling to expand their present food stamp workloads paid for almost entirely by Washington.

Welfare supporters also claim the President in 1972 is backpeddling on his promises of 1969 and cite the proposed abolition of food stamps among other plans to back their charge.

For instance the Agriculture Department under orders from the Administration proposed last year cutting off or drastically reducing food stamps for 2 million persons. It was first said that economy dictated the move, but then it was discovered that $200 million appropriated by Congress for the stamp program had been impounded by the Bureau of Management and Budget. Fifteen state governors, including some Republicans, sent representatives to a Connecticut caucus that denounced the move and accused the Administration of "retreating from the principle" of a "basic nutritional diet to indigent and needy families."

Critics noted that the now abandoned regulations would have favored poorer states, especially in the South and Midwest. As now constituted the program still discriminates against nearly all states which have especially high costs of living.

Those lobbying to have the program expanded claim the allotment should be boosted to $134 per month for a family of four. Even this, these advocates say, does not take into consideration the sharply higher food costs since the diets were originally worked out.

Nutritionists in the Agriculture Department have recommended adopting such a diet in the past, but their concern was for calories rather than balanced budgets.

In principle the program is in its final phases of overhaul with firm federal standards going into effect July 1. Some states have said they cannot meet the target on all points, however.

The new program includes restrictions aimed at "hippies" and youths in communes which some congressmen call "free-loading kids." The restrictions also have cut off hundreds of thousands of more conventional poor from food stamp benefits.

Now all persons in a household who share the same living quarters and cooking facilities must be related to qualify for stamps. One ineligible person in such a household deprives all of benefits. Besides hippies this is aimed at unwed mothers living with their men. Excluded are those 60 or older prompting one Agriculture spokesman to note, "Aparently congress decided sin was okay if you are over 60."

Those who do qualify for food stamps must obtain Authorization to Purchase Cards from welfare offices. In some cases this can require days of waiting in lines to complete the application and then weeks of waiting for approval. Waiting in line is especially hard on the elderly, crippled and the working poor. Waiting for the card itself can even mean in the most extreme cases near starvation.

Mrs. Sam Brown of the Community Nutrition Institute headquartered in Washington, said of the waiting: "It's really criminal in many places." She said in many areas her organization had found racism. Also, she added, welfare workers at the local level sometimes feel the poor should be made to pay in harassment for drawing on public funds.

GTE Develops Long-Life Laser

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — A sunlight-powered laser that provides the long life required for practical space communications systems has been developed by GTE Sylvania Incorporated, it has been announced.

By means of lenses and mirrors, the new device collects and focuses rays of the sun. The rays stimulate material in the laser to produce beams which can carry voice, data, television and other communications.

Dr. Donald E. Caddes, manager of the company's Electro-Optics Organization, said that the limiting factor of space communications' lasers has been relatively short life.

"Present lasers are powered by electric discharges or lamps and are not yet capable of operating the required 5 to 7 years in a communications satellite," he explained.

Junior Editors' Quiz on POMPANOS

QUESTION: What is a pompano?

* * *

ANSWER: Pompano is the name of a variety of fishes valuable for food. Pompanos are salt water fish, prefer warm waters in the winter. They are found in the oceans along the Atlantic coast of the U. S. and in the seas from the West Indies to Brazil.

The common pompano or butterfish is about a foot and a half long. It weighs about 7 or 8 pounds. It is bluish in color on top and is silvery or light gold underneath. The body is oblong and flattened. It is an excellent food known for its delicious flavor. Large quantities of pompano are caught along the Florida coast.

The Round Pompano lives as far North as Cape Cod. The Great Pompano which often grows 3 feet long, lives in seas from Florida to the West Indies.

The California Pompano or Harvest Fish which lives in the Pacific Ocean is not a true pompano. Bluefish closely resemble pompano, but it belongs to another species of fish.

Ford Problem Gets Reprive

By DAVID BURKE
APBVUSINESSWriter

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of a shutdown in new car production at Ford Motor Co. was lessened this past week by a compromise proposal from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

EPA Chief William D. Ruccelshaus said Friday he would let Ford distribute, but not sell, its 1973 cars pending retesting of the vehicles to ensure that they meet current antipollution standards.

Ruckelshaus had told Ford he could not certify the 1973 cars after the automaker reported that tests it had submitted for next year's models had not been done correctly. Without certification, the cars could not be shipped anywhere in interstate commerce.

Ford said that if cars piled up at its factories, it would have to shut down production, throwing as many as 450,000 people out of work at Ford and at related industries.

To solve the problem, Ruckelshaus said he would give Ford cars conditional certifications that would allow Ford to ship its cars to dealers if they met a shorter antipollution test. The cars could not be sold, however, until final certification was granted.

Ford said it had no way of immediately evaluating the effects of Ruckelshaus' proposal, and would have to discuss the matter in detail with EPA personnel.

In another step, the Environmental Protection Agency said all industries would be required to apply whatever technology is broadly usable, regardless of the cost, to control water pollution.

John R. Quarles Jr., EPA assistant administrator for enforcement, said that where water-quality standards demand more money, time and effort, they will have to be applied.

On the economic front, the government announced that wholesale prices rose faster in May than in March and April while the nation's unemployment rate remained unchanged at 5.9 per cent.

On the positive side was news that building awards climbed sharply in April from 1971 levels and factory orders rose last month from previous month levels.

However, machine tool orders during April fell 22 per cent from 1971 figures. And on the international front, Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson forecast that the foreign trade deficit during this quarter will be even worse than the first quarter's record-breaking $1.5 billion.

The Commerce Department said new factory orders edged ahead in April, rising 0.6 per cent from March levels to a seasonally adjusted $63.9 billion.

Inventories, which have been lagging in the current economic recovery, declined, about 0.2 per cent. But a Commerce Department economist said he expected them to come along as soon as sales pick up.

Machine tool orders dropped 22 per cent in April from March, the National Machine Tool Builders' Association said. It noted, however, that they were 67 per cent ahead of 1971 levels, which the indistry was particularly hard hit by the recession. Orders totalled $92.9 million in April, compared with $119.1 million in March and $55.6 million in April 1971.

Regarding foreign trade, Peterson said that even though the second quarter will show the worst figures ever, there should be some kind of pickup in the third quarter.

With imports exceeding exports in April by a seasonally adjusted $699.4 million, compared with March's $584.3 million, the U.S. merchandise deficit for the first four months of this year was worse than in all of 1976, when it totalled a record $2.05 billion.

Britain's Gallery Raising Money To Keep Picture

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Everyone knows that money can't buy everything, but try and prove it. Britain's National Gallery, one of the world's great museums, is about to do just that.

J. Paul Getty bought a painting here last year that a member of the British royal family could no longer afford to keep. Now Getty will not be allowed to keep it either. The gallery is going to stop him. By appealing to the man in the street, it has just about raised what's needed to match billionaire Getty's price—1,763,000 pounds or $4,583,800.

The gallery has less than $39,000 to go in order to make sure the Titian masterpiece "The Death of Actaeon" stays in Britain, in its permanent collection, instead of going to the United States. Even by the most pessimistic estimate, all the money should be in hand by July.

The success of the appeal defies all expectations.

Never before had anyone in Britain sought so much money just to keep one picture—in this case a Greek myth painted by an Italian master for a Spanish king. The Titian was no more British than spaghetti. But the fact it had been held in this country by aristocratic families was enough to make it a matter of national pride.

Behind the successful appeal is a textbook case in that relatively obscure field of international competition—the politics of art—involving some fancy footwork by governments, museums and dealers.

The Earl of Harewood, pronounced Harwood, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II and 18th in line for the British throne, put the Titian up for sale at an auction last June.

At the time Lord Harewood's family still owed some $2 million in death duties from the estate of his mother, the former Princess Royal. Inheritance taxes in Britain rise to a whopping 85 per cent, often forcing rich heirs to sell art treasures to pay them off.

In effect, the tax policy was benefitting government coffers and forcing the sale of valuable paintings. American museums could usually outbid the British at auctions. This happened when British owners sold the Velazquez portrait of Juan de Pareja in 1970. New York dealers paid a world record price of $5,544,000. The painting went to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

The British government refused gallery entreaties to buy it back. For the same price, the government said, it could air-condition the National Gallery, build a new wing, and have almost $3 million left over. Besides there were greater priorities for the government funds in health, education and other programs.

The Titian was expected to exceed the price paid for the Velazquez. Experts said it would almost certainly go to America.

Despite the odds, the National Gallery was determined to have the Titian, which it had displayed for 10 years on loan from Lord Harewood. An appeal for funds went out even before the auction.

Gallery policy is to show the development of European art at its highest level. The Titian masterpiece, painted by the Venetian artist in 1559 for King Philip II of Spain, is an important link. It shattered conventions of its time and clearly foreshadowed the French impressionists, particularly Renoir.

Much to the surprise of the art world, the Titian fell well short of a record price. One reason was some subtle but legal tactics by French and Co., the American art dealers acting for Getty's museum in Malibu, Calif.

Only French and the London-based American dealer, Julius Weitzner, were left in the bidding. To continue the auction would have forced a far higher price. So French stopped. Weitzner got the painting.

Then French purchased it directly from Weitzner at his price, plus a commission, saving the funds that would have gone into higher auction bids. Weitzner later contributed part of his commission to the National Gallery appeal.

As soon as Getty was revealed as the new owner, the curator of his museum in Malibu, Burton Frederickson, offered to lend the Titian back to the gallery, if they would lend comparable works to the Getty museum. "The National Gallery has enough in its basement to match the displays of many an American museum," Frederickson said.

The gallery refused, preferring not to risk shipping the Titian back and forth across the Atlantic. Then Getty lent the Titian to the gallery anyway for the course of its year-long appeal.

Cynics noted that Getty now lives outside London, in suburban Surrey. But the gallery found his offer generous, and accepted.

When the fund drive began, however, gallery publicity made no mention of Getty's intention to lend the Titian for part of the year anyway. Instead it presented the prospect of an irretrievable loss to the British art world, "a major disaster."

"The highest degree of national importance attaches to this painting," it said.

The government, pleased that the price fell short of the expected record, agreed to chip in this time. More than half the funds needed, however did not cost the government another cent. It simply agreed to let the gallery sacrifice money already earmarked for gallery purchases over the next four years, and use that for the Titian.

The rest of the money needed was to be split evenly between contributions from the public and the government. In the end, the government was to give less than a quarter of the total needed.

Private foundations contributed the bulk of the donations, many of them anonymously. World famous artists like ballerina Dame Margot Fonteyn and composer Benjamin Britten helped raise funds through charity shows.

The 260,000 people who have seen the Titian at the National Gallery during the appeal have dropped about $100 a day into collection boxes there, and the occasional fat check. Now that the tourist season is under way, American dollars are more frequent than British pounds.

Usually, the talk in the gallery's boardroom, where the Titian is displayed under spotlights, is all money and very little art. Attendants there are constantly asked the total raised and the mechanics of the export license, withheld for 12 months to let the gallery try and match Getty's price.

A father explained to his young son how much the painting cost. The boy wanted to know if that included the frame.

Getty is philosophical about the whole business.

"To be honest, it is not a picture I would care to live with," he told a newsman. "Who would want to start the day by looking at a picture of a man changed into a deer and then eaten by hounds?"

Agnew, Milliken Plan A Rematch

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has accepted a challenge from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for a tennis rematch at the National Governors Conference next week.

Milliken is to be teamed with fellow GOP Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia against Agnew and his aide, C.D. Lard.

The foursome played last in early May at the Republican Governors conference in White Sulphur Springs. W. Va. Milliken and Holton won, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6, but Milliken took a hard Agnew return in the ear.

Moments after hitting Milliken, Agnew was struck by a ball himself.

"They never tell it when I get struck," Agnew quipped at the time. He has made news for tennis or golf accidents involving his partners.

Birth Rate In Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberalized abortion laws, economic decline and women's lib are cited by population experts as some probable causes of the sharpest dip ever in the nation's birth rate.

The rate has almost declined to a point of zero population growth, according to a new report released Friday.

For the first three months of this year, the National Center for Health Statistics said, the birth rate was 15.8 children per 1,000 population. That compares with 17.6 per 1,000 for the same quarter last year and 17.3 for all of 1971.

Those figures mean that prior to the end of the first quarter of 1972 women in child-bearing ages are likely to have had in their lifetimes an estimated average of 2.145 children compared with 2.284 for all of 1971, said the center, a branch of the Census Bureau.

If that dips to a family size of 2.11 children over a woman's lifetime, according to population specialists, the country will level in population growth by about the year 2010.

Pouring Of Concrete Started

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The first pouring of concrete for the field of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport began in late May—the largest paving contract in the world—costing $57 million and involving 620 acres of concrete.

Ready at the start, said airport officials, was the world's largest stockpile of aggregate of 400,000 tons.

MORE FACTS about modern drugs

① In the past ten years, wholesale prices for all commodities went up 20%, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In the same period, prices of specialty drugs did not go up at all.

② Most modern drugs go down in price after sales and production increase. Salk vaccine, penicillin, and streptomycin are typical examples.

New Organization For Executives

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: Do you know of any union for executives? -- M.S., Cleveland

I'm not aware of any union for executives, but there is a new industry organization for executives which may interest you. It's called the National Association of Professional Executives (NAPE), and was formed to lobby for improvement of the executive's lot. Goals include legislation to require portable retirement plans (you own your own pension, and it goes with you from job to job), and more equitable unemployment insurance benefits. You can get details by writing NAPE at 1100 Seventeenth St. NW. Washington, D.C. 20036.

Dear Joyce: Is this a terrible time to start my own business? Should I wait for better times? -- B.Y., Houston

Statistics gathered by The Conference Board, a major economic fact-finding organization, show that business failures among small firms did indeed rise during the recent recession, but that they have been falling lately and generally going down over the last decade. According to the board, in 1968, the number of failures went below the 10,000 mark for the first time in some 15 years. Failures dropped to a record low in 1969, went up slightly in 1970, and dipped again in 1971. Failures have continued to drop this year.

Over half of all business failures happen in the first 5 years, due mainly to a lack of business experience and difficult economic conditions. If you've got the "right" business idea, know-how and capital, Conference Board figures suggest that prospects for starting a new business aren't as bleak as you may have thought.

Dear Joyce: I was promoted to manager of a small department in my company 2 years ago. At first, I was happy to be advanced, but now I find the work so routine that I shudder at walking into the office every morning. I'm always tired (for no apparent medical reason), easily irritated (with stupid things like a stuck desk drawer), and I feel boxed-in. Why don't I just quit? Because I've got a family to support and because I'm not sure that in the long run, I wouldn't be better situated with my present company. What does one do in a case like this? This letter is in confidence, so if you publish it in the newspaper, please change enough of it so that it won't be traced to me. -- TRAPPED ON WEST COAST

Whenever I print a letter which could cause embarrassment to its writer, I disguise enough precise facts to protect the writer while trying to keep the gist of the situation.

For unhappy workers everywhere, try a do-it-yourself career checkup. That is, rate your performance and your company's performance. Space prohibits a description of the questions to ask yourself, but readers who want a free copy of my "Career Checkup Worksheet" can send a long, white, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me at this newspaper. Specify title.

After considering pertinent factors, if you still want to stay on your present job, the obvious thing to do is to talk with your supervisor, asking for greater responsibilities and more challenging tasks.

Schaefer Opens His Own Church

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A defrocked minister emerged from a year of seclusion Friday and announced that he has formed his own church to serve people "who have been ignored by the present church."

"That means gay people ... blacks, revolutionaries, you name it," said Wil Schaefer, who lost his credentials as a Methodist minister over his romance with a woman who now is his wife.

Schaefer said he has formed the Wheat Wine Mission Ecumenical Church and has been appointed bishop by a board of directors that included himself, his wife and a doctor of clinical psychology.

Clad in an all-white outfit and mod brown boots, Schaefer told newsmen at a local tavern that he plans to establish not only a church but also such facilities as a clinic for people with problems in the areas of drug abuse, alcoholism and marital difficulties.

Schaefer said three men soon will be ordained in his church as priests, including a former Roman Catholic monk and the former local chairman of the Student National Coordinating Committee.

He had remained in seclusion at a farm near Luling, about 60 miles east of San Antonio, after he lost his ministerial credentials at a church trial last year. He and his wife Judith, who recently bore a son, now have moved here.

Schaefer was ousted from the First United Methodist Church of Laredo over his romantic relationship with his present wife. At the time he was married to another woman—Rita, his wife of nearly 14 years.

Records show Schaefer was divorced from Rita last November and married Judith at Luling on May 5.

Schaefer said his first church services will be held at a San Antonio park Sunday afternoon.

"We do not wish to teach a religion but a way of life," he said in a statement. "We seek not to form a church but a revolution."

Mrs. Marcos Loses Child

MANILA (AP)—The Philippines' first lady, Imelda R. Marcos, suffered a miscarriage Friday night, losing the child that had been expected in December, her doctor said.

Dr. Gloria Aragon said the 42-year-old Mrs. Marcos lost the child on the presidential yacht after suffering excessive bleeding.

She was taken to a suburban medical center by ambulance Saturday morning. She was reported resting comfortably.

President and Mrs. Marcos have three children.

VD Control Program Started

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Health Department has started a five-year program to halt the venereal disease epidemic in Texas.

The department has received $1.7 million in federal money for the program and will get another grant in July.

"Texas has made great strides in VD control by significantly decreasing the incidence of early infectious syphilis," said Dr. James Peavy, state health commissioner. "But lack of funds has prevented the launching of a really effective attack against gonorrhea."

Incidence of gonorrhea has been rising in Texas since 1957, and has risen 31 per cent in the past two years.

During 1971, Peavy said, 50,193 cases of gonorrhea were reported to the health department, and officials believe the total, including unreported cases, may be more than 180,000.

Gonorrhea is the number one problem among all communicable diseases in Texas, Peavy said.

"During the next five years the State Health Department will conduct an intensified statewide campaign designed to reverse this trend and to reduce the prevalence of infectious gonorrhea to a controllable level," Peavy said. "Many of the efforts will be centered in the five major metropolitan areas where 72 per cent of all VD-infected individuals live. Control efforts will be initiated in all 24 standard metropolitan areas, which account for 91 per cent of all venereal diseases."

He said of the cases reported last year 81 per cent were 29 or younger.

Exhaust Pollution Is Tested

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M University researchers are using two wind tunnels to determine measures to east air pollution at the Laredo U.S. Customs Station.

Under a $20,000 General Services Administration (GSA) contract, Texas Engineering Experiment Station environmental experts are testing traffic exhaust pollution at the Laredo station.

It has top prioprity in a five-phase GSA program, with the federal agency calling the Laredo Station pollution the worst on the Mexican and Canadian borders.

The threat to station employes' health was shown in several federal and state studies that determined carbon monoxide concentrations often exceed 50 parts per million of air. Other monitored pollutants are hydrocarbons, sulfur dioxide, hydrogen sulphide, ozone and particulates.

Dr. Spencer R. Baen, experiment station assistant director, said the Laredo problem involves heavy concentrations of exhaust emissions under the covered station. A canopy measuring 250 by 140 by 20 feet high covers the all-weather station on the Rio Grande.

The Laredo station is a major crossing point, Baen noted, and many times traffic is backed up deep into Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

South winds, heavy traffic, the recessed bridge and canopy air trap compound the pollution problems, Baen said.

A recent report showed inspectors' tours are limited to short periods of time. Inspectors complain of dizzy spells, headaches, nausea, weakness, fatigue and breathing difficulty.

One possibly acceptable solution, according to preliminary tests, would be construction of a large deflector placed at an angle in the prevailing wind direction so as to direct ground winds under the canopy for forced air circulation.

Wye Oak, a black oak, soars 125 feet over Jockey Hollow in Maryland State Park. It is reinforced with cables and patched with concrete. Because the patches obscured many annual rings, the tree's reported age of 230 years is only a close estimate.

Oil Men Will Grapple With Several Issues

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas independent oil men will grapple with a number of issues affecting their role in the industry at the 26th meeting of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association Sunday through Tuesday.

President William J. Murray Jr. of Austin expressed plans for a "distinctly upbeat" meeting in anticipation of improvement in domestic exploration and drilling.

Finishing touches will be put on a restructuring program to improve coordination among independent associations in Texas.

A special study committee, headed by Malcolm Abel, Midland, will propose a presidential council composed of some 26 members serving as an action body, empowered to carry out policies of the association. The executive committee now composed of 104 members would be pared to perhaps 62 and would function in the role of a board of directors.

Presidents of regional associations would participate in the council although indications are they will not vote in order to avoid the problems arising from wearing "two hats" as officials of two groups.

One issue which traditionally divides the independents is that of compulsory unitization which will come up for renewed attention.

Netum Steed, Wichita Falls, chairman of the state petroleum issues committee, indicated the membership will confront a proposal to endorse the principle of unitization legislation provided there are adequate safegyards for producers and land and royalty owners.

Some reports indicate a unitization bill has been drafted and may soon be the subject of intensive study, TIPRO spokesmen said.

Steed's committee will meet Monday, as well the national petroleum policy committee headed by George P. Mitchell of Houston.

Mitchell said steps can be taken toward improving unity among industry segments and restoring domestic drilling by improved wellhead incentives and changes in the oil import program to permit producer participation.

Other topics include pending drilling and fund legislation, prices and decontrol of natural gas, "burdensome" industrial safety and health regulations and restrictive air and water pollution control methods.

Railroad Commission Chairman Byron Tunnell will receive the TIPRO "hat's off" award at a luncheon. Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., will speak.

May Rains Dwindle Near End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy shower activity, including torrential rains that devastated the New Braunfels-Seguin area, continued through the first two weeks of May in Texas.

The bounteous rains elevated South Central Texas, the state's midlands and upper coastal areas from a condition of mild to incipient drought to wetter than normal.

Torrential rains below Canyon Dam, hit the New Braunfels-Seguin area on the 11th and 12th, and resulted in 17 deaths by drowning and property damage estimated at $17 to $20 million.

On the Comal River, the cellar door record begun by Capt. Julius Giesecke in the old Rennert Brewery, showed a high water mark of 34 feet, 4 inches, for the May 11-12 flood, the highest mark since the flood of June 8, 1872, when the water reached 35 feet 8 inches. A mark of 34 feet 10 inches was recorded in a September 1952 flood.

Little rain fell during the last half of the month, except for moderate to locally heavy showers in both the northern high and northern low plains from May 28-30.

North Central Texas, East Texas and the Trans Pecos region generally were deficient in rainfall throughout the month and experienced moderate drought during the latter half of May.

May rainfall totals followed by the percentage of normal precipitation accumulated since Jan. 1 at selected locations included:

Abilene 2.47, 43; Amarillo 2.81, 48; Austin 7.88, 78; Brownsville 2.02, 112; Corpus Christi 5.99, 137; Dallas 1.09, 39; Del Rio 2.61, 81; El Paso 0.04, 17; Fort Worth 2.35, 47.

Cotton Planting Is Near Completion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Good weather enabled more planting on the High and Rolling plains and across West Central Texas this past week, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Dr. John E. Hutchinson, director, said cotton planting is moving toward completion on the South Plains and crops are progressing well in other parts of the state although rain is needed.

Moisture remains short over much of East and Northeast Texas although some showers fell during the week, Hutchinson said. The Far West received good rains earlier and moisture is generally adequate over South Texas. Soils are drying out rapidly in central areas.

The watermelon harvest is in full swing in South Texas and corn is in the roasting ear stage. Some early grain sorghum is being combined in the Rio Grande Valley, noted Hutchison.

Small grain harvesting and hay making is active. But yields are off due to lack of ground water. Irrigated alfafa is producing good yields in the Far West.

Livestock are doing well across the state except for the continued surge of screwworm cases. More than 1,500 cases were confirmed during the previous week as compared with only 444 cases throughout all of 1971. Sheep shearing is about completed in western areas.

PANHANDLE: Light rains in most areas have boosted crop and range prospects but more moisture is still needed, reports W.W. Grisham, Jr., Amarillo. Corn is growing well and soybeans are up to a good stand. Cotton planting ranges from 10 to 60 percent complete, and planting of irrigated grain sorghum is about 65 percent complete. Planting of dryland grain and forage sorghum is starting.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton planting is well over 90 percent completed. Much of the crop has good stand although some poor stands have been reported in northern counties. Some replanting is under way due to heavy rains and hail in Bailey, Hockley and Lamb Counties. About 75 percent of the irrigated grain sorghum has been planted, but much of the dryland crop still remains to be seeded. The wheat harvest is about to start.

ROLLING PLAINS: The wheat harvest is active Cotton planting is 15 to 90 percent complete and grain sorghum planting is 25 to 80 percent complete, says James Early plantings are up to a good stand. Harvesting of alfalfa hay is under way. Marketing of stocker cattle continues.

NORTH CENTRAL: Soil moisture is short for freshly planted crops. Harvesting of wheat and hay baling are active. Corn and grain sorghum is completely planted with only small acreages of cotton left to be seeded. Commercial vegetables are making good growth. Peaches and pecans are progressing well.

NORTHEAST: R.S. Loftis, Overton, says farmers are delaying peanut and soybean plantings due to lack of soil moisture. Corn is in need of rain. Sweetpotatoes and tomatoes are doing well with some sweetpotatoes being harvested. The pecan crop looks good. First hay cuttings are under way with short yields.

FAR WEST: Good soaking rains fell over much of the district early in the week and should boost dryland crops and ranges. About 75 percent of all dryland crops have been planted. Irrigated crops are progressing well. Some small grain and alfalfa harvesting is under way. Alfalfa yields are good and farmers are receiving top prices for their hay. Livestock feeding is stopping as ranges improve.

WEST CENTRAL: Some small grain harvesting have light yields, says Allen Turner, San Angelo. Cotton and grain sorghum planting are in full swing, but a few areas are too dry for it. Early stands of grain sorghum look good in Gillespie and Schleicher Counties. Sheep shearing is about complete with fleeces heavier than usual in Coleman County. Coke County reported its first screwworm case this year.

CENTRAL: Cotton is growing well with scattered thrips, fleahoppers, and boll weevils. Much of the grain sorghum is blooming with some midge infestations in Hill and Falls Counties. About half of the small grain crop has yielded low. Peanut planting is active. Some peaches are ripening. Rain would help.

EAST: Soil moisture ranges from short to adequate, reports Bill Lehmberg, Overton. The corn crop, in the tassel stage, looks good. Home vegetable gardens are making good progress although there is some insect damage. Pastures and ranges look good but need rain. The hay harvest is in full swing.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Planting of peanuts and soybeans is in full swing due to favorable weather. All other crops are making good progress. Pastures and ranges had rains, and livestock are in good condition. Some hay is being harvested. Mosquitoes increasing and are bothering both livestock and people.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Peanut planting and other crops are progressing well, notes Bryan Swain, College Station. Corn is tasseling and grain sorghum is beginning to head. Recent heavy rain and hail damaged some cotton in Gonzales and Guadalupe Counties. Hay is being cut for the first time with good yields. Peaches and pecans look good. Tomatoes and watermelons are small in size this year. Some pastures need rain.

SOUTHWEST: Western counties need rain. Corn and grain sorghum are making good growth, and the hay crop looks good. Spring vegetables are being harvested along with some early peaches. Pastures and ranges are in good shape. Sheep shearing is about complete, and the early lamb crop is moving to market. External parasites and screwworms still plague livestock.

SOUTH: Corn is in the roasting ear stage, and a few early fields of grain sorghum are being harvested, reports James Selman, Weslaco. Boll weevils and fleahoppers are infesting some cotton. Cotton in Nueces and San Patricio Counties has been damaged by standing water. The watermelon harvest is in full swing while harvesting of cucumbers and squash continues. Other vegetables are also moving in light supplies. Ranges are lush.

ETSU Creates New Title

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — The East Texas State University regents have created the title "professor emeritus" and bestowed it on two professors.

Dr. Paul W. Barrus, professor of English, and Dr. J. H. Clements, professor of physics, are the first East Texas U. professors to be so designated.

Dr. Richard C. Meyer, vice president for academic affairs, explained that the new faculty rank was created "to recognize distinguished service to the institution." It will be granted only at retirement.

Both Dr. Barrus and Dr. Clements served as department heads. Dr. Barrus joined the university's English faculty in 1949 and became head of the English Department in 1952. Dr. Clements joined the faculty in 1948 as professor and head of the physics department.

Highway Deaths Up In South Africa

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The Department of Statistics reported that 8,392 people were killed in 218,925 highway accidents in 1971, compared with 7,948 fatalities in 205,267 accidents the year before.

'Panic Lines' Helping Kids With Problems

Editor's Note—Kids' problems aren't new. They just have a different way of expressing them today. But one treatment of them is different. These are the phone services where you can always find someone to listen to what's bugging you. Tune in on one such operation.

By STEFAN DONEV
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Jean, 22, is on one phone serving as an emotional anchor for a spaced-out teenager high on "all the drugs I could find in my mother's bedroom."

Betty, a grandmother, is on another line talking with a boy who wants her to perform what some call an "unnatural act."

Welcome to Hotline.

When it seems no one will listen, or when a person is afraid to talk to anyone who knows him, he can—in the northern metropolitan Detroit area—call Hotline. There are other "emergency telephone services" in the area aimed at the under-25 set, and hundreds more, under various names, across the country.

These panic lines are an outgrowth of the suicide prevention telephone services, according to Charles Slem, Hotline's administrator and the only person directly connected with its night-to-night operation who will allow his real name to be used.

Slem, 27, who worked on one of the first panic lines in California is working on his doctorate in clinical psychology. He and two part-time secretaries are the only paid workers.

"We're here when you need someone to talk to," said Slem.

"We can't always solve problems, but hopefully we can help a person think them out and get a little better understanding of himself and the problem. And, we have a backup team of lawyers, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, doctors and clergymen.

"All we actually do is talk to people."

"There are days," said one of Hotline's 40 volunteer "listeners," when "I feel like an emotional toilet."

"But we really enjoy it," added Alice, a mother of three teen-agers. "There's a feeling of accomplishment from helping someone.

The listeners usually work two hours a week. Hotline runs from 6 p.m. through midnight daily from an unmarked office in a modern, suburban office building.

It operates through donations and community-group funding and answers more than 100 calls a week.

The listeners range from Jean, a student and at 22 the youngest, to Betty, a grandmother, the oldest—but the owner of a young-sounding voice.

Hotline takes no stands on anything.

"A listener must be nonjudgemental," said Slem. "We're not gods. We can't tell a person what to do. We listen, care, and talk. Hopefully we'll get him thinking. That's it."

A listener also has to be strong. "You won't find any losers here," he said. "If they weren't strong they couldn't stand the strain."

"It's too discouraging."

Volunteers go through four stages, including a telephone interview with a psychiatrist and a "role-playing situation."

Bill recounted his "final" exam: "The girl said she wanted an abortion. The first thing I could think to ask was, 'Are you sure you're pregnant?' She wasn't. I told her where she could get a pregnancy test without her parents finding out, and then we talked about abortion and alternatives."

But all calls aren't emergencies.

"I remember one night," said Bill, "when the biggest call was from an 11-year-old girl who wanted to know how to get an 11-year-old boy more interested in her than in sports."

Most of the listeners are women.

"I think it's harder for a man," said Alice. "They lack patience. They have a tendency to yell, 'Look you dumb kid, cut the crap and wake up!'"

"It doesn't help the operation much, but I've heard some male listeners do it and really wake the kid up. I suppose it's a matter of having the right touch."

Bill, whose wife is also a listener, said the listening technique has become a regular part of their lives.

"But," he added, "periodically I have to yell at my wife to quit hotlining me!"

One frustration felt by many of the listeners is "How did it all turn out?"

"We find out occasionally," said Alice. "But there are so many times when we never do."

"The strangest thing of all," said Betty, "is that the problems kids have today haven't really changed. They still get confused, uptight, fight with their parents and wonder what life's all about.

"Their way of expressing it is different now, but they're the same problems I had when I was a kid ... and some of the same problems I have now."
