

HUGE 'GERMAN SPY' PLOT UNCOVERED BY POLICE IN FRANCE

ACCOMPLICE IS CAUGHT IN ACT OF ESPIONAGE

ARREST ARMY CAPTAIN AS DEFENSE PLANS DISAPPEAR

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—Police announced today that a huge German spy organization had been uncovered with the arrest of an agent in Paris and that warrants had been issued for other members of the group.

Secret service agents were said to be searching for the spies, but even the name of the agent arrested here was not made public.

The organization was uncovered, authorities said, as the result of investigation of charges against a French army officer, Captain Froge, who was taken into custody in connection with the mysterious disappearance of plans for the defense of the city of Belfort.

Authorities declared the spy organization is as large as it is not larger than that for which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Smith of New York and New Jersey and thirteen other persons now are in prison.

Captain Froge, who had been under investigation for a long time, was just about to be cleared of all charges, police said, when the secret service "caught an accomplice in the act" of espionage.

The prisoner arrested in Paris was described as "an officer of a foreign power." He was arrested Saturday night, but was held secretly and questioned. The grilling revealed his connection with Froge, the authorities said.

The Paris prisoner's revelations were "so important," police said, that authorities immediately notified the examining magistrate at Belfort. Froge, in civilian clothes, was crossing the square in front of the court house just as the secret service agents came out the door with their warrant.

Froge was taken into custody without the people in the square realizing what was happening and was taken before a judge immediately.

The captain refused to answer questions until his lawyer could arrive from Paris. He was imprisoned, and the magistrate sent to Paris for the other prisoner in order to question him in the presence of Froge.

AMERICA'S FIRST skyscraper was a steel skeleton building, 10 stories high. Two floors were added later. The skeleton supported the entire weight of the walls, instead of the walls carrying the weight of the building. Dry ice is solid carbon dioxide having a temperature of 108 degrees below zero. It was first made at Long Island City for practical use.

New Directory Is Taking Form

Representatives of the Hudspeth Directory company of El Paso are making the canvass for the 1934 Pampa city directory to be issued in July.

A new feature of the directory will be an oil and gas section which will list the oil industries in the field adjacent to Pampa. An effort is being made to secure from the companies a list of their employees who reside in the city so that the oil field workers may be connected with the companies by whom employed and their exact position shown. Also, many of the executives and regular employees who live in the field will be shown with the company or rural address.

Representatives of the Hudspeth Directory company may be reached through the Pampa chamber of commerce, or by addressing the company at post office box 1624, Pampa.

COURT GIVES OLNEY KILLER A NEW TRIAL

Life Term Given Richardson Charged in Son's Slaying Is Reversed, Remanded.

AUSTIN, May 2 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today reversed and remanded a life imprisonment sentence given Charles S. Richardson of Olney, by a Young county jury, in connection with the slaying of his son, Elga Richardson, 20.

In ordering a new trial, the appellate court ruled that Richardson's motion for a change of venue should have been granted. The higher court found that Richardson's case had been prejudged because of the wide interest in the county where the homicide occurred.

The shooting took place on New Year's day last. Young Richardson was home from college to spend the holidays with his father and his stepmother. Father and son quarreled over money matters and the elder Richardson claimed the shooting was accidental.

Richardson was indicted three days after the shooting. He was placed on trial January 15.

The appellate court found the case had been discussed in every section of the county and that "the sentiment of the people was against appellant and the offense he was charged with having committed."

Testimony showed that young Richardson and his father had been estranged because the son resented his father's early remarriage after the first Mrs. Richardson's death. Richardson testified that he had armed himself with a pistol for purposes of self defense after his and his son had exchanged blows. He contended the pistol was accidentally discharged while he was trying to ward off an attack by his son.

Tom Heflin Is Eliminated In Alabama Race

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 2 (AP)—Political prophets in Alabama today were blattened as fast mounting returns from yesterday's democratic primary showed upsets, eliminated former Senator J. Thomas Heflin in his attempted "comeback," and probably retired one congressman.

Interest shifted to the congressional races and to tight contests for the two seats on the public service commission, as returns showed definitely that former Governor Bibb Graves and Frank Dixon of Birmingham would enter the runoff for the nomination on June 12.

The tabulation from 1,488 ballot boxes out of 2,186 in the state for governor gave: Graves, 78,968; Dixon, 59,994, and Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery, 48,238.

Heflin, who was barred from the primary in 1930, was defeated for re-election to the senate when he ran as an independent had confidently stated yesterday he would carry 6 counties out of 9 in the district, badly in need of nearly unofficial returns gave him a lead in only one—Chambers, his home.

Mother's Illness Takes Mrs. Davis Back to Alabama

While the Gray County Relief board was in session yesterday, Mrs. W. H. Davis, county administrator, received a telegram calling her to the bedside of her mother in Mobile, Ala.

Mrs. Davis left almost immediately. Her mother was believed to be dying, and her father was very ill.

Members of the board present were Alex Schneider, chairman; Hank Breining of LeFors; and C. H. Walker. Little business was possible because of the uncertainty surrounding the proposed emergency road work in this section.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2 (AP)—Judges in the United States fifth circuit court of appeals today assembled to hear arguments in the government's fight against an injunction issued several months ago by Federal Judge Randolph Bryant in the Eastern District of Texas which restrained enforcement of the oil code in the rich East Texas oil field.

FLOOD WATERS DELAY TRAIN AT LELIA LAKE; LIGHTNING KILLS DRILLER AT SHAMROCK

RED RIVER IS RUNNING BANK FULL NEAR ESTELLINE

THE KIND of rain folks had been waiting for fell last night in Pampa, but the precipitation was by no means uniform in this territory.

In Pampa, the official rain gauge showed 1.55 inches. The fall was steady over several hours last night and almost "straight down." It was the sort of downpour, accompanied by rumbling thunder, which has a minimum amount of quick drainage.

East and south of Pampa, the fall was about the same as here, though heavier in places. The rain began about 8 o'clock at LeFors and continued most of the night. Buses from Shamrock arrived 45 minutes late, but drivers said the roads were drying under the traffic. North of Pampa, the total tapered off to less than an inch and farmers drove to town without mud-chains. A farmer arriving from south of Miami estimated the rain at an inch on his place.

Wheat growers welcomed the moisture but said its value would depend much upon the "next rain." The wheat has been growing rapidly but dry winds quickly halt the growth on warm days.

AMARILLO, May 2 (AP)—Heavy rains, reaching near cloudburst proportions in many localities, drenched the north 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle last night.

Highway bridges were washed out, railroad and highway traffic was delayed while flood water receded, dirt highways south of Amarillo were impassable, streams and lakes were filled.

One death, that of Pleas Pool, 26, oil well driller, who died during late yesterday afternoon at a small stream immediately south of Tulsa. The car and trailer were swept away by a rush of water.

Mrs. Carroll, holding her five-months-old baby in her arms, was rescued 300 yards downstream.

Bridges on state highway No. 9 between Tulsa and Kress were swept away. Kress reported seven inches of rain. Tulsa, six farmers west of Kress estimated the fall at 10 inches. Hart and Flag in Castro county, west of Tulsa, had approximately four inches.

Southeast of Amarillo, the fall was four inches at Claude and Hedley and five inches at Clarendon, St. Francis, northeast of Amarillo, and Umbarger, near Canyon, had three inches.

Santa Fe tracks were flooded between Tulsa and Kress. The south bound Fort Worth and Denver passenger train last night was delayed several hours at Lelia Lake while waiting for flood water, which covered the tracks, to recede.

The Fort Worth and Denver dispatcher reported that the south fork of the Red River, near Estelline, was running bank full today, and threatening to leave its channel any moment.

Highway traffic through Swiss-ear county was suspended at Wichita Falls but due here last night, came in today 12 hours late. The driver reported the roads between Washburn and Memphis next to impassable.

The rain in many communities was the heaviest in two years. The wheat crop, badly on the verge of being ruined, was greatly benefited, and the soil was left in excellent condition for row crop planting. Ranges also will benefit.

Dallam and Hartley counties still were without appreciable moisture. Dalhart reported one-fourth inch of rain, with showers in other parts of that area.

8TH CONVICT IS SLAIN AT PRISON FARM

Arkansas Desperado Killed When He Attacks Guard In A Break for Freedom.

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., May 2 (AP)—Chiff Harback, western Arkansas desperado under a life sentence for a bank robbery murder, was slain in a break for freedom here today.

Harback, who attacked a guard with a hoe was the fourth convict slain by trusty guards at the prison farm in the last week and a half, and the eighth killed this year.

Harback was serving a life sentence for the murder of Dolph Guthrie, a teller, following the robbery of the First National bank of Paris, Ark., last year.

His brother, Eugene, is serving a ten-year sentence and Johnny Wilson is under a life sentence for the same crime.

A. G. Stedman, prison superintendent, said that Harback with other convicts was cutting weeds when he attacked the guard with a hoe. The guard, whose name was withheld ending a coroner's inquest, escaped the blows, and shot Harback with a shotgun.

Wilson, partner of Harback in the Paris bank robbery, figured in a January 17 break in which four convicts were killed and two wounded. Wilson was not hurt.

Pre-Centennial Is Publicized at Guymon's Picnic

The eyes of Texas are upon Pampa and her Pre-Centennial and today those present at an Old Settlers day in Guymon, Okla., are learning of the approaching celebration here.

George Briggs and C. A. Clark drove to Guymon to publicize the Pre-Centennial. Among other things, they carried Dr. Brunow's Texas flag on a 14-foot staff attached to the radiator of Briggs' car. The vehicle also carried two large signs telling of the Pampa Pre-Centennial. It was a parade attraction.

Citizens of Guymon have been growing beards for several weeks to look the part in their historical event. They planned to show the history of this section from Coronado to the present time. Old-fashioned clothing and vehicles were assembled for the occasion.

Patenting the affair after Pioneer day in Pampa, Guymon last year had crowds estimated at 75,000.

Family Awaiting Kidnapers' Call In Tucson Crime

TUCSON, Ariz., May 2 (AP)—The $15,000 ransom to free six-year-old June Robles awaited the call of her kidnapers again today.

There was no public indication the kidnapers or their representatives had come forward to meet the Robles family's offer, first made Monday night when they announced official investigation of the case would be withdrawn pending the ransom.

PAINTERS TO ORGANIZE
LOCAL UNION ON FRIDAY
Pampa painters have been asked to meet in the city court room at 6 o'clock Friday night to organize a local painters union. The meeting was called by H. F. Henderson and J. W. Croust.

Only after a four-hour siege were police-commanded by their prefect, Roger Langeron, in person, able to storm the communists' citadel and drive them to cover.

By 5:30 a. m., calm had been restored, but special guards carrying bullet-proof shields and gas pistols swept into the apartment house fortress, routing the defenders and hustling the captives off to jails.

The rioting flared at midnight, when after a surprisingly quiet day the nation over-hundreds of communists shouting defiance entrenched themselves in the alley. Ripping up floors and tearing out doors in the apartment building, the Reds dug in with a trench across the alley-way and raised barricades.

Later, they took a leaf from the book of socialists who fought in Vienna's recent civil war and turned the fourth and fifth floors of the building into a fortress. There they continued their resistance until routed.

Thousands of police and mobile guards were rushed to the scene when bullets began flying about the small squads of city militia.

TEXAS PORT DOCKS PICKETED BY 4,000 ORDERLY STRIKERS

It was a horse laugh on filling station strikers when this equipage, moved on the streets of downtown Cleveland and amazed on-lookers vowed that they heard

VICTORIA WOMAN FOUND DRESSED IN NIGHT CLOTHES; CLAIMED SHE LIVED IN RIVER BOTTOMS MONTH

Also Says She Lived Under House In Texas Town

VICTORIA, May 2 (AP)—Mrs. Ernest W. Conway, whose strange disappearance on March 27 led to belief she had drowned in the Guadalupe river, was found alive today—four blocks from her home—and still dressed in the night clothes she was wearing when she disappeared.

The 45-year-old woman was found by R. A. McElroy, dairyman, while he was making his deliveries. She had been lying on the ground in the rear of H. H. McDowell's residence. When she saw McElroy, she raised her body with difficulty and beckoned to him. The dairyman immediately recognized her and carried her to his truck. She was too weak to walk.

A night gown, gloves, and bedroom slippers were the clothes in which she was garbed.

Mrs. Conway told McElroy she had been in the Guadalupe river bottoms above Victoria and for the past week had subsisted solely on grass and water.

However, in another statement to her sister, Mrs. Lucy Burnett, she told of having hid under a house within seven blocks of her home all the time she had been missing. She told her sister she had eaten nothing during that time. At night, she said, she had come out from under the house and drunk water from a nearby hydrant.

She was very emaciated but had kept her hair in order and did not appear unkempt. When she disappeared, she weighed 163 pounds and when found had lost so much weight she was reduced to extreme thinness.

A physician was summoned immediately and her sister, a nurse

ALL SHIPPING AT STANDSTILL ALONG COAST

NO ATTEMPT MADE TO HIRE NON-UNION LABOR

By The Associated Press
ORDERLY picketing of the docks at gulf ports today was the latest development in the strike of more than 4,000 union longshoremen demanding higher wages.

Shipping operations were at a standstill and the steamship men maintained silence as to their plans for meeting the situation, although they were keeping close touch with each other.

Influence was brought to bear by the strikers on non-union dock workers and, according to Joseph P. Ryan of New York, the walkout may be extended to longshoremen employed at coastwise piers there. Ryan is president of the international longshoremen's association.

He said between 4,000 and 5,000 longshoremen are employed at coastwise piers in New York and they might possibly strike for recognition of their union and 75 cents an hour as a minimum wage. Negotiations were under way with shippers on these and other points.

At Texas gulf ports, shippers had made no attempt to use non-union labor.

Longshoremen failed to appear for the scheduled loading of the Italian steamer Italo at Beaumont and it looked as if the British steamer Nyanza might face the same situation when she docks.

Lake Charles authorities had under arrest seven negroes in connection with the killing yesterday of Murphy Humphrey, 22-year-old white man, at a dock workers' meeting. Shots were fired into the meeting from the horse of a negro. Grand jury investigation of the shooting was set for tomorrow.

George Carmack, Sam Isaacs, and one Mr. Hamm leaving out of Pampa yesterday noon. Before the rain last night I saw them returning with 200 catfish which averaged about 8 inches long. They were caught with hooks at a lake near Clarendon. As soon as they caught the hooks, said George, the fish began jumping at the bait, and they kept on grabbing at hooks until the three men got tired and came home.

JAPAN'S NEW THREAT OVER CHINA

The picture of international politics in the Far East has undergone a considerable change through Japan's most recent statement of her policy toward China.

Or, possibly, it would be more accurate to say that while the picture remains much the same, it has an entirely different frame.

Japan sets forth the proposition that she holds a special responsibility to maintain the peace in east Asia; consequently, Japan has appointed herself to see to it that China's contacts with other powers are of such nature that they shall not disturb that peace.

For several years Japan has been edging toward a Chinese protectorate. With this new declaration of policy, that state seems practically to have been reached.

Look, for instance, at the way in which such policy can be interpreted.

A Japanese spokesman, discussing the policy, declared at Tokyo that "history shows that technical or financial aid to China almost inevitably becomes military or political, in which event Japan must object."

A good many Americans are engaged in giving technical or financial aid to China right now. Many American aviators are there, for instance, selling airplanes and teaching the Chinese how to use them.

American companies are participating in the establishment of Chinese air routes. The United States government has loaned money to China to buy American cotton and wheat.

All these activities could easily be classed as the kind of aid which might become political; that is, they tend to unify and strengthen China, and the zealous statesmen at Tokyo might decide at any minute that they should be stopped.

One does not have to meditate over this very long to see that the Far Eastern situation has taken on an ominous new aspect. The one encouraging feature is that in recent months the Japanese seem to have grown desirous of getting on better terms with the United States.

We can only hope that that desire will lead Tokyo to moderate the application of this far-reaching and dangerous new policy.

Youngsters Will Give Operetta in Baker's Program

Mother Goose and her numerous children, assisted by the fairy flowers, will be seen Friday night on the E. M. Baker school program presented in city hall auditorium at 7:45.

The operetta, Mother Goose's Garden, will be given by first and second grade children under direction of Misses Julia Shackelford and Clarice Fuller, with Miss Dubbs as pianist.

Myra Aderson will play Mother Goose, who is distressed at the bare appearance of her garden. She calls her children to help plant and make it gay. Louise Cox as Bo-Peep brings the shy violets who are the first to brighten the spot.

"Boy Blue," played by W. H. Dorris, enters with the daffodils. One of the first flowers, the arbutus, is brought by Jack and Jill. Gene Lunsford and Edna Brown. Ella Marie Allen brings the leaves after other flowers are introduced by Mother Goose characters.

Each flower is represented by a quartet of children in costume, who are greeted with a song by the gardeners chorus and a dance of the flowers. Sunbeams, raindrops, and butterflies also appear.

Other children of Mother Goose are Tommy Tucker, played by Bobby Jerome; Jack Horner, by Billy Bass; Miss Muffet, by Betty Jo Hillard; and Mistress Mary, by Blanche Day.

J. W. Gregory of Bronte is spending a day in the city.

ADMIRAL BYRD DIRECTS FIELD CAMP BY RADIO

Explorer Completes First Month Of Solitude

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, May 2 (Delayed). (AP)—Although isolated in an underground ice dug-out in which he is spending a lonely winter conducting meteorological observations, Commander Richard E. Byrd still is directing the activities of his field camp 123 miles away. He is doing it by radio.

The veteran polar explorer, completing his first month of self-imposed solitary confinement, radioed that he was digging a third emergency tunnel exit from his under-surface shack, in which are housed his scientific instruments and supplies.

At Little America, the men are putting the airplanes into cold storage for safe keeping. The big Condor plane, with its wing spread of 82 feet, now is being buried in the snow and ice.

Drifts had arisen around the landing struts of the plane until the lower wing was level with the snow. Two deep passages wide enough to accommodate the wings were cut under the lower wing sections and the snow blocks which were hewn out were used in building a six foot wall around the plane.

The flooring of the passages will be driven deeper and the plane will be lowered slowly by excavating under the skis. When the shelter is completed, the skis will be eleven feet under the surface.

The finished hangar will follow roughly an oversize pattern of the plane. There will be room enough for the aviation unit to work on the engines and plane during the winter as the shelter will be roofed over with a tarpaulin as soon as the condor is buried.

Two other planes will be similarly accommodated. Connecting passages between the hangars will be constructed.

Diminished daylight proved the greatest obstacle and the men were forced to start shovelling and digging by the light of a gasoline lantern. The few hours of daylight were overcast and bleak.

The weather has moderated after seven days of snow, the temperature standing at a mere 32 degrees below zero.

Goodyear's New Tire Is Praised

Car owners of this vicinity are giving an enthusiastic reception to the new tire announced by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company.

The newly announced product, which Goodyear has named the "G-3" was especially designed to combat the faster tread wear caused by severe driving conditions imposed by the modern automobile and was in process of development for nearly two years," said Jack Baker, Goodyear dealer.

"Local motorists, particularly those owning high speed, quick accelerating, fast stopping automobiles, welcome the 'G-3' as the answer to their tire wear problems. With a new arrangement of Goodyear's diamond tread block, deeper grooves, wider riding ribs and nearly two pounds more rubber per tire, the 'G-3' has a wider flatter tread that has greater contact with the road. These new features enable the tire to give 43 per cent more non-skid mileage and lessens 'heel and toe' wear 50 per cent."

HOT OIL PRODUCTION IN EAST TEXAS DECREASES TWO-THIRDS

PARKER SAYS
HARD TACTICS
BRING SUCCESSCITES NEED FOR MORE
ATTORNEYS AND EMPLOYEES

AUSTIN, May 2. (AP)—A silver cloud appeared on the hot oil horizon in the East Texas field the past week, with officials estimating that production of illegal crude had decreased as much as two-thirds.

R. D. Parker, chief of proration enforcement for the state railroad commission, which handles oil matters in Texas, attributed the change to more stringent methods that body has used. They included close scrutiny of refinery operations and checking of their sources of oil.

Parker, designated by the commission to lead the new drive against hot oil operators, reported that the average production of the illegal oil had been reduced by approximately 60,000 barrels daily within the last three weeks. He estimated such production at about 85,000 barrels daily three weeks ago. He said the new methods of the regulatory body had had a "discouraging effect" on violators of proration laws. The nucleus of the group of violators is intact but the menacing assault on the hot oil forces has caused them to weaken, in Parker's opinion.

More complete cooperation on the part of local officers in enforcing the penal oil statutes was cited by Parker as the most pressing need of the commission at the present time. He said the process of organizing the local officers was slow but that in many instances they were proving of great assistance.

Increase in the number of assistant attorneys general in the oil field was recommended by Parker. He says the existing staff was badly overworked and could not take care of the complaints as fast as they were reported. Parker said inadequacy of the attorney general's force was "serious" and had become "increasingly so" since Neal Powers, in charge of the East Texas office, had become ill.

Looking to the future of proration, Parker said that "with the continued activity of the attorney general's department we hope to achieve even better results."

The fight against hot oil, however, must be constant and not sporadic, Parker said. "As soon as we get control and break up illegal operations in one part of the field it crops out in another and we must be on the alert at all times," he said.

In the Money

If you want to know how to "look like a million," take a tip from lovely Gleta Glass and grow "green" with envy. She's wearing a new bathing suit of greenbacks that she'll sport as "Miss Prosperity" at a Coral Gables, Fla., celebration. And will she have funds?

The commission, Parker said, also is handicapped by lack of man power resulting from insufficient funds. Parker disclosed that employees experienced in proration enforcement in other fields were being shifted to East Texas. "We could use more men handily," he added.

A more optimistic attitude on the part of operations has followed the commission's drive, Parker reported, saying the operators felt much better.

AUSTIN, May 2.—Courses of oil field workers, on nineteen different phases of work, have been outlined by the American Petroleum Institute's committee on vocational training in Oklahoma and Texas, and instructional manuals in the various courses are being prepared by the personnel workers who represent the oil companies in the two states, according to Ray L. Martin, foreman conference leader in the University of Texas Bureau of Industrial Teacher-Training, who is chairman of the Texas group of the committee.

Mr. Martin and his committee are at present working on courses in oil field mathematics and in the care and operation of internal combustion engines. Classes for oil field workers have been established in Kilgore, Overton, Pine Tree, Ranger, Breckenridge, Eastland and Pampa, Mr. Martin said. It is partly out of these classes that a realization of the need for instructional material has grown and it is to fill that need that the vocational committee is planning the instructional manuals. These classes have been under the direction of trained and practically experienced vocational workers, and Mr. Martin expects to get much of the material for the manuals from them. Mr. Martin has also personally conducted 11 foreman conferences in the oil industry, and has gathered much information from this source. In practically every conference there has been revealed the need for employee training and in most cases employees' classes have been organized following the conferences.

RETAIL SALES
38 PER CENT
UP IN MARCHHEAVY RAINS BENEFIT
AGRICULTURE AND LIVESTOCK

DALLAS, Tex., May 1. (AP)—March sales of department stores in large cities, stimulated by pre-easter buying, were 38 per cent larger than in February, says the monthly business review of the federal reserve bank of Dallas, released today. This record exceeded that of the corresponding month last year by 58 per cent.

Notwithstanding the showing of department store sales, the review says that "heavy and widespread rains, with materially improved condition in the agricultural and livestock industries and the continued strong demand for merchandise in both wholesale and retail channels were the outstanding developments in this district during the past 30 days."

The review explains that in connection with the heavy increase in department store sales record over March, 1933, due allowance should be made for the effect of the bank holiday on that month's retail trade activity. Wholesale distribution reflected a further increase as compared with the previous month and exceeded that of March, 1933, by a wide margin. While retailers generally show little disposition to buy ahead the sustained consumer demand has necessitated a heavy volume of replacement purchases.

Collections have been well sustained for this season. The number and liabilities of commercial failures, while seasonally larger than February, were materially lower than a year ago. Debts in individual accounts at banks in principal cities were 8 per cent greater than in the previous month and 56 per cent larger than in March, 1933, the latter increase being due in part to the closing of the banks for two weeks in March last year.

The prospects for agriculture and livestock were materially bettered as a result of general rains in March and the first half of April. Small grains have made rapid improvement. Farmers generally have made good progress with planting operations although this work has been retarded in some areas by wet soil. Vegetation on the ranges is greening and in some sections is furnishing considerable grazing. Livestock have come through the winter in fairly good condition and reports indicate that they are taking on flesh. While the added moisture in the western half of the district has relieved to some extent the effects of the prolonged drouth, there are many areas where there is a marked deficiency in soil moisture and more rain is urgently needed.

The daily average of combined net demand and time deposits of member banks was well sustained during March. The average for the month amounted to $728,121,000, and while it was $342,000 below that in February, it exceeded the average for March last year by $125,798,000. The March figure was $148,913,000, the low level reached in August, 1933.

Construction activity reflected a considerable improvement. The valuation of building permits issued at principal cities in March was 42 per cent larger than in February and 5 per cent above that in March last year.

Murder at
MOCKING HOUSE
BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Anonymous letters have been threatening the life of Piet Dufresne, contractor and political power. Then he is fired upon on a lonely road, takes the case to Connors, head of the police department, and is assigned a heavy guard, and Sergeant of Detectives Harper. Dufresne and Harper just have dined in the former's apartment at the Austerlitz.

Chapter Five
"STRANGE HOST"

Several hours of intimate contact with Dufresne had failed to dispel the haze of uncertainty that clouded Harper's mind. Dufresne's actions and moods had been so variable, so erratic. Ordinarily, affable and courteous, a perfect host, the slightest crossing of his will unleashed a blazing temper and a vitriolic tongue.

Harper began to grow restive under the virtual stalemate that had sprung up and when Dufresne approached the cellarette to replenish his glass the detective felt constrained to voice a protest. "I'd go easy with that, Mr. Dufresne. Whenever there's danger, it's best to keep a clear head."

Dufresne smiled scornfully. "There's not enough brandy in the world to dull this brain of mine," he boasted, then, with the petulant irritation of the tipsy. "But you're not drinking, Harper. I'll not have you insulting my brandy in that fashion."

Sergeant Harper flushed. "You forget that I am here on duty, Mr. Dufresne," he answered stiffly. "If you don't mind, I'll be getting along. You'll be quite safe, I'm sure. No one can get past our men. There's really nothing more I can do tonight. Tomorrow we can go into all the details and map out a plan of action."

Dufresne sat down heavily. His face drooped into sullen lines. "I know what you're thinking, Harper. You're saying to yourself, 'Here is a man who has been shot at. He's scared stiff, he's gone all to pieces."

he's yellow. He's got to keep drinking to hold his nerve together. But you're wrong, Harper. It isn't that at all. I won't deny that I felt shaky after those shots, but there's something else. Did you ever have a premonition, a hunch?"

"Nonsense," the detective broke in, "you must not give way to such ideas. We'll clear up this case in no time. These cases are always troublesome while they last, but an unbalanced brain is seldom consistently cunning. Once they come out from behind the anonymous threat and go into action, they're lost their trump card, and their rope is shortened."

"We've got to put down some bait to tempt this fellow. I think the shortest way would be to give out the announcement that you are going to open up your house. With the proper amount of publicity, that should draw the crank into the open to try again and this time we'll be ready for him. You will be adequately protected while all this is going on."

Dufresne picked up his goblet and downed the contents in two gulps. The sneer had gone from his voice and something stark and naked peered from his brooding eyes.

"Now, Detective-Sergeant Harper, I'm going to show you the kind of rat that is gnawing at me. If I were found murdered tomorrow morning, what would you, as a policeman, think about it? You would know that I had received threatening letters over a period of several months. You would say to yourself, 'Well, that crank shot him at last.'"

"On the other hand, let us forget those letters. Say they do not exist. Suppose, then, that I was found murdered. What would you do? You would go to my family, my wife, my servants, my friends, asking question, looking into their actions, demanding alibis. You would expect to find the murderer somewhere among those who knew me, who had personal contact with me. That would not be unreasonable, would it? Not without precedent," he queried, slyly.

Sergeant Harper was electrified by these words of poison falling, drop by drop. "Mr. Dufresne!" he gasped, sitting bolt upright. "Do you believe these letters to be a screen, hiding the real motive for an attempt upon your life? Are you withholding information from us? That would be extremely foolish. We are here for just one purpose—to protect you, to help you."

Dufresne staggered to his feet. "No, no—I am mad—mad," he stammered, "but that little rat keeps gnawing away. Somehow, I can't feel safe, not even in this room, guarded as it is. That's a horrible feeling, Harper!"

He shivered as he sank down in a chair facing the bright fire, his fingers still caressing the empty goblet. His glittering eyes seemed to be watching things that were hidden from the detective. Truly, he had said either too much or too little.

Dufresne lifted his head. "There it's out now," he said, ruefully. "I want you to remember what I have told you here tonight. Take nothing for granted, accept nothing at its face value. Remove no one from your list of suspects except by actual elimination. No one."

"And now, if you'll excuse me, I think I'll turn in and get some sleep." He lifted the brandy bottle and shook it speculatively. "This should be enough to turn the trick," he added, pressing the button to summon Andrews who was sent for Harper's hat and overcoat.

Dufresne got to his feet a trifle unsteadily. "Good night, Harper, and tell Connors that I am pleased with his selection. I'm sure everything will be all right until morning, anyway. I'll expect you about ten o'clock, and then we can decide on our best course. On your way out will you please tell Markinson that I do not wish to be disturbed tonight on any account? You hear that, Andrews? I've had more than enough for one day."

The gray-haired servant bowed, tall, thin, taciturn. Dufresne moved forward, staggered, caught himself up, and went on, cautious but steady. "Did I show you Mrs. Dufresne's picture, Harper?" he asked. "A very clever woman—Mrs. Dufresne!"

For a few seconds they stood thus, Harper trying to fathom the glittering black eyes peering into his from the shadows above the lamp. Was the man too far gone to remember, or was there a sinister emphasis behind the duplicated remark?

Then from the corner of his eye Harper saw that Andrews was watching him with a thoroughly unpleasant expression on his face, and the old butler's hands were tightly clenched.

Check the Economy of the FORD V8
for 1934 with any
Car at any Price!

This big V-8 Ford motor develops 12% more power than the motor that powered last year's great performer.

MORE cylinders give the new Ford V-8 an effortless flow of power. Flashing pick-up. Expensive car smoothness. But they do not mean greater gasoline consumption.

Eight cylinders merely indicate how the gasoline is distributed. It costs you no more if gasoline is divided in small amounts among eight cylinders instead of larger amounts among less cylinders.

The new Ford V-8 is the most economical car that Ford has ever built. It gives you even more miles per gallon of gasoline than last year's model. But that's only the start...

Tungsten steel exhaust valve-seals inserts make valve-grinding virtually unnecessary. Aluminum-alloy pistons minimize carbon formation...

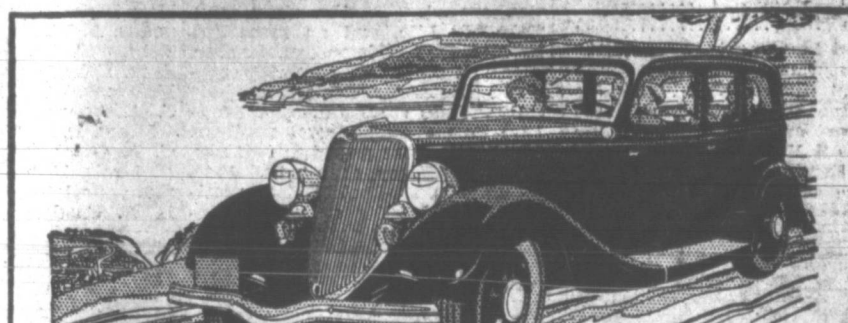

Brakes need relining less frequently because of great braking surface per pound of weight. And Ford springs, which give free action for all four wheels—seldom require lubricating.

And here's good news. Ford parts cost from 17% to 59% less than parts for any car selling at or near the price.

Most important of all, however, is Ford resale value. The record shows that Ford gives you greater "trade-in" value than any other car built.

Remember this About a CHILD'S LAXATIVE
Above all, a child's laxative should be safe and like the child should like to take it. That is why Feen-a-mint, the delicious tasting chewing gum laxative, widely prescribed by physicians, has universal approval by mothers. Delicious Feen-a-mint is safe for little digestive organs. It is prompt, thorough and complete-acting because, by chewing, this laxative is slowly and uniformly distributed throughout the intestines to give "full" but gentle and more natural action. Feen-a-mint contains no richness which might upset a delicate stomach, steal appetite or get stale. Children like Feen-a-mint. "Delay" is dangerous—give them Feen-a-mint for constipation. 45c and 25c at druggists.

ANOTHER FALSE TIP

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 2 (AP)—Cold trails and false clues dulled the search for John Dillinger and his gang today. The latest false tip came from Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., where an amateur sleuth declared that a stranger was George (Baby Face) Nelson, Dillinger ally.

William Hall of Noletette was a business visitor here this morning.

What Is The Expense of Your Automatic Refrigerator For Its Installation and Operation During Its Life-Time?

We can not determine the life-time of Electrolux, but we would like for you to compare its expense with other makes of refrigerators for a period of ten years.

Figures below taken from actual tests of Electrolux and from statistics of other makes.

Makes of Refrigerators	Average Installed Price	Average Monthly Operating Expense	Yearly Operating Expense	Ten Years Operating Expense	Total Expense For Installation and Operation
ELECTROLUX	$240.00	30c	$ 3.60	$ 36.00	$276.00
OTHER MAKES	$229.50	$3.00	$36.00	$360.00	$589.50

Now prospective buyer, from the above table you will note that the total cost of Electrolux is less than half that of other makes. Yet at the same time Electrolux offers just as much from a standpoint of efficiency and safety, will last longer because its unit is hermetically sealed and has no moving parts. It's more desirable because it can be operated from natural gas, bottled gas, electricity or kerosene. Furthermore, Electrolux can be bought on payments just as low as any other refrigerator. Call at once and select size for your convenience.

4,064 FAINT WHILE ADOLF HITLER TALKS

600 EMPLOYEES AT SEMINOLE WOULD STRIKE

SINCLAIR WORKERS IN VOTE TO QUIT ON THURSDAY MORN

SEMINOLE, Okla., May 2 (AP)—A strike in the greater Seminole oil field appeared imminent today. Six hundred union employees of the Sinclair-Prairie Oil company voted unanimously last night to walk out tomorrow morning unless five demands are met.

The new agreement sent to the company for approval insists upon union recognition, a closed shop contract, restoration of the tentative agreement signed by Harry P. Sinclair in New York, April 6, restoration of thirteen men discharged last Saturday and restoration of the 1929 wage scale.

Previously, the group composed of members of three unions—the machinists, boiler-makers and oil field workers, had voted to strike and the date was set last night after some of the workers had urged an immediate walkout. However, others, insisting the company should have an opportunity for further negotiations, prevailed.

Lon Code, a member of the federated committee which recently represented the unions in conferences in Washington and New York, of which the Sinclair tentative agreement was one result, was named chairman of the committee which drafted the resolutions.

"No quarter will be given," the committee declared.

Grandfather of Lindy Changed His Last Name

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., May 2 (AP)—Except that Ole Mansson had other ideas about it, the man who flew solo from New York to Paris might have stepped from his plane at Le Bourget, flying field, France, and said:

"I am Charles A. Mansson."

County records disclosed today that the grandfather of Charles A. Lindbergh was born Ole Mansson, but that he assumed the name of Lindbergh when he migrated to the United States from Sweden in 1860. Many other early settlers from Europe took new names which they believed more in keeping with the new country.

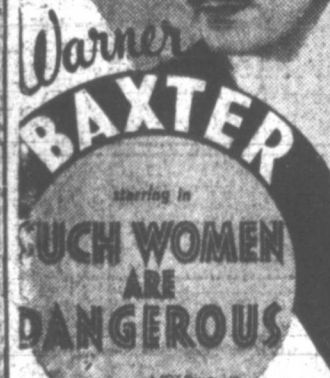

In Sweden, Lindbergh's grandfather served in parliament and later was secretary to the king. With him when he settled in Minnesota were his wife and son, Charles.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Sharp selling waves hit the stock market in the last half hour of trading today and quoted values in all categories declined 1 to 3 or more points. There was nothing especially to account for the relapse. Previously the session had been marked by extreme dullness. The close was heavy. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

PRESIDENT OF CHAMBER HAS MILD PRAISE

SECURITIES ACT MUST BE CHANGED, SAYS HARRIMAN

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Strong criticism of the administration was mingled with praise today before the annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Henry I. Harriman, president, opening the first general session, reported the new deal's first year had seen brightening economic horizons everywhere.

Immediately following, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company, made this statement: "The treatment alling business is receiving reminds one of the patient who was purged, and when I say with leeches at both wrists and temples; fed a powder of dried brains—and yet, said the old doctor, he died."

Robertson in his attack asserted a planned economy was "undoubtedly necessary," but added that "we need better plans not more plans."

"Human plans have to be run by average men," he said, "it makes no difference whether they are Utopian or otherwise and just how a Utopian plan can be run by a far-from-Utopian average man, I have never discovered."

Harriman asserted actual unemployment had been reduced to four millions. He praised the abolition of child labor, and then laid down the rule that:

"Frank, constructive, and helpful criticism is desirable from every standpoint; but rejecting and blocking desirable reforms will result either in national suicide or in complete revolution."

While generally optimistic and temperate Harriman mixed in some criticism of his own. He contended the securities act must be changed, asserting it interferes with the flow of capital into the heavy goods industries, in which most of the nation's unemployment is contained.

COURT HOUSE NOTES

Grover Crone, arraigned in Justice W. S. Baxter's court on a burglary charge, waived preliminary hearing and his bond was set at $500.

In Justice James Todd Jr.'s court, D. T. Morris was bound over for the grand jury on $500 bond for allegedly removing mortgaged property from the state. In another case, Josh Main made $500 bond on a complaint of house-breaking after waiving preliminary hearing. He is alleged to have attempted to enter A. D. Daubenspeck's house.

District Court
New suits filed in 31st district court: I. A. Shannon vs. Chas. Hickman, suit on debt, transferred from Potter county; B. M. McDow vs. Liberty Mutual Insurance company, compensation; N. B. Goodwin vs. Traders & General Insurance company.

Couple Is Married
Justice Baxter Saturday evening married James A. Griffin and Mrs. Bonnie Berry. The ceremony was at the Baxter residence.

Six Men Arrested
Six persons have been arraigned on misdemeanor complaints in Justice Todd's court since Friday. Four charges were for drunkenness and two for vagrancy.

It was in connection with NRA that he made this plea for business cooperation:

"In the carrying out of an experiment of such vast proportions, mistakes are to be expected, and with improved business activity, and with the wide experience already acquired under codes, it is most essential that both business and the government cooperate to preserve that which is good, and eliminate that which is bad, in the recovery act, and, indeed, in the whole recovery program."

Harriman found reason for "conservative optimism," concerning domestic business conditions. He said the index of business activity has risen from 61.7 in February 1933 to 78. In March of the present year, and that the whole had risen from 59.8 to 73.7.

Declaring there were about seven million people out of work, Harriman asserted that about three million of them are normally unemployed, leaving the present excess at around four millions.

PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY

SOMETIMES we get the opinion that Americans no longer care for the real thing. They are satisfied with cleanups that get no further than the front page. They are satisfied with moral conditions as long as prohibition is a word to use, in print. That prohibition or some other law is not enforced does not worry many so-called reformers—it is the form, not the substance, of morality that satisfies them.

Few laws are rigidly enforced. Lately THE NEWS has been asked to announce that running by stop-signs, speeding, and driving without lights or with only one light would be stopped. The inference that officers will diligently and uniformly enforce the traffic laws of Pampa is not to be drawn, if experience in the past is any criterion. Such announcements have been made before, but they were little better than the intended "effect" upon the readers. Yet we say that you cannot enforce the laws by announcing that officers will be active. In the first place, there are not enough officers working in daytime to enforce such an edict; in the second, the reaction of the "outraged" public usually halts the drives quickly. Citizens want the laws of traffic enforced all right—on the other fellow. We shall see.

"PARTICIPATION" is a word with a new emphasis in education. It means that students should be impressed with the necessity of taking an active, personal interest in public affairs. It means, too, that citizens should be willing to abide by the laws imposed upon others. We think churches would do well to stress the same word. There are citizens in churches in such numbers that law enforcement would be readily possible if churchmen stood together for consistent enforcement of the statutes. . . . But you can't impress the public through printed warnings with no force behind them.

ROTARIANS ARE CHAMPIONS OF AAUW TOURNEY

Selby, Mitchell And Bowden Star For Rotary Club

Stiff and sore but game to the final whistle, the Pampa Rotary club basketball team last night defeated the Junior chamber of commerce team 21 to 9 to win the A. A. U. W. basketball tournament. The youthful Jaycees hadn't recuperated from their strenuous game Monday night and tougher veterans took advantage of the breaks.

The Kiwanis club team took the consolation game by defeating the Lions club 14 to 0 in a brief encounter. The A. A. U. W. team again showed its superiority over the town team with a 16 to 12 win. The game was among the most interesting of the tournament.

Playing shots off the backboard, the Harvestettes swamped the championship A. A. U. W. team in an exhibition game at the close of the tournament. The university women were tired and unable to cope with the speed of the school girls.

The Rotarians slipped R. A. Selby, Kiwanis club star, into the game and while the Jaycees were covering Odus Mitchell, R. L. Bowden and Selby went through to score. Mitchell, however, broke loose on several nice jaunts which netted counters. Philip Pond and Travis Lively were the other Rotarians in action.

The Jaycees used Fred Lamb, Dan McNaughton, Slim Norman, Jack Buck, Earl Kolan, Russell Kennedy, Bob Knox and Bert Hobson in an effort to stop Mitchell and company, but to no avail.

Several of the Town team players failed to appear but Mrs. Ralph Thomas, captain, fielded Mrs. Glen Sheehan, Mrs. Ruby McMahon, Mrs. W. C. de Cordova, Mrs. Bill Murphy, and Miss Opal Cox to assist her. The A. A. U. W. team fielded Miss Angela Strnad, Mrs. E. L. Norman, Mrs. J. B. Massa, Mrs. E. C. Will, Mrs. Bruce Pratt, Mrs. Dixon, and Miss Madge Rusk.

The Kiwanis club used practically the same team that played Monday night while the Lions had to use a pick-up unit.

Roadrunners And Hollis Team To Play Here Today

Unless more rain fell before game time, the scheduled encounter between the Dandiger Roadrunners and the Hollis, Okla., team was to get under way at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Roadrunner park. The same two teams will meet tomorrow afternoon at the same hour.

Water drained off the playing field soon after the rain of last night quit falling, and the brisk wind and bright sun which appeared through the clouds at intervals this morning dried the infield until Manager Aaron Ward of the Roadrunners decided it would be dry enough by game time.

Hollis has a strong team this year. The club is leading the Red River Valley league which is composed of eight good teams. Many names on the club roster are known to Pampa baseball fans.

There was some wonder here yesterday when the names were released of the G. Nell, listed at shortstop. Can this be the same Gordon Nell who cavorted around first base for the old Pampa Grays? And is W. Wilson, outfielder, the Hack Wilson who formerly played for the Roadrunners? The Slim French on the pitching staff is the former Pampa Grays hurler.

The name of Bellah, Adair, Hutson, and one of two other players are well known in Panhandle baseball circles. The strength of the team can be guessed by the outcome of Sunday's game with Crowell, one of the teams in the Red River Valley league. Hollis won the encounter 37 to 1.

The Hollis batters connected for 11 home runs and six triples. Crowell, the week before, held Vernon, one of the strongest teams in the league, to a 5 to 2 score and won a game the previous week.

Mrs. E. A. Records and daughter Mary Lee, and Miss Sophia Trout, accompanied Miss Edith Newman to her home in Perryton, Wednesday. Mrs. Records and daughter and Miss Trout will visit relatives there before returning to Pampa.

Proceeds amounted to about $50 and will go into the scholarship fund.

Rehearsal of "Stabat Mater," a sacred work to be given by a local group in Amarillo May 6 in collaboration with the Amarillo civic chorus, will be held here tonight at the Methodist church at 6:30 p. m. Emil F. Myers of Amarillo will direct the practice tonight.

from Boston, cared for her. The sister had been here for the past year attending her. Mrs. Conway's husband also was called.

This was the fourth time Mrs. Conway had disappeared. On one occasion she was rescued from Galveston bay. Another time she was found wandering in the woods near Bloomington.

Her sister said economic conditions had "preyed on her mind and she had a constant dread of starvation."

That the story Mrs. Conway told the dairymen was based on fact was evidenced by her having been seen late yesterday by Mrs. J. Harry Jones and Mrs. G. H. Worthing, while they were out riding. They said they saw a woman coming up the road from the river.

Mrs. Conway's husband, formerly prominent Y. M. C. A. worker in Texas and other states, is now serving as field secretary for the Texas relief commission with headquarters at Big Spring.
