TRIAL OF INDIANA GOVERNOR OPENS

Hickman Trial Testimony Ends

FATHER OF SLAIN GIRL LAST WITNESS TO APPEAR IN TRIAL IDENTIFIES RANSOM $20 BILLS

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGeles, Feb. 8. (AP)—The case of the state in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, was completed and the testimony taking ended at mid-forenoon today. Immediately after a ten minute court recess the defense announced that it would offer no rebuttal testimony and the trial was adjourned to 2 o'clock when the closing arguments will be begun.

Perry M. Parker, who paid $1500 ransom for the mutilated torso of his daughter, Marian, saddened and husked a crowded court room when he appeared today as a prosecution witness in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, confessed murderer of his child.

Hickman sat slumped in his chair, motionless and with head slightly bowed while the state produced his crime equipment, the ransom money and followed this up with the dramatic appearance of his victim's father. He apparently avoided seeing Parker in the witness chair, never turning his head the slightest in that direction.

Judge J. J. Trabucco announced that by agreement of counsel each side would be limited to three hours for argument with the state opening and closing.

The trial ending came with dramatic suddenness, shortly after Perry M. Parker, father of the slain child, Marian, had thrown a hush of suspense over the court room as he took the witness stand. One long hard stare was directed by the apparently grief-burdened father upon the murderer of his child.

The prisoner, slumped and motionless in his chair, looked nowhere but down at the counsel table before him.

HOME TOWN TALK

Substituting for B. D. D.

Wichita Falls found out a few years ago that it doesn't pay to be dissatisfied with the federal census, between enumerations. At Wichita Falls' expense, a special census was taken here a couple of years ago, but the result was never published. The only explanation vouchsafed was that it had been found impossible to obtain an accurate count. Amarillo has just completed a special census. It was probably quite disappointing to Amarillo-ans for it showed only 38,308 inhabitants of the municipal corporation, with several thousand more estimated to be in the unannexed suburbs.

It is no easy matter to get an accurate count in regular census years. It is well night impossible to do so in off-years. Amarillo's population is probably close to 50,000, but the special enumerators were paid on a basis that made it unprofitable for them to find everybody. Amarillo had 16,000 population in 1920. The special census indicates that it now belongs among the first 10 or 12 cities in Texas, in population.

Mr. F. W. Roberts, writing to the editor, thinks this paper in discussing Wichita Falls' invitation to the State Democratic convention, may have overlooked one important factor in such matters. This paper remarked that Wichita Falls was not nearly as far from the center of population as is El Paso, which was once host to a convention. Mr. Roberts calls attention to the fact that there is no Juarez on the other side of Red river. He even went so far—and it was neither kind nor necessary for him to do so—as to enumerate some of the special attractions that Juarez can offer convention delegates.

"I do not intend" writes Mr. Roberts to be uncomplimentary

Will Rogers News Digest

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 7.—America and France signed a treaty that they wouldn't fight each other. Now if we could just sign one with some nation that there is a chance of having war with, why it would mean something. This one is too much like New Hampshire signing one with Arizona. The four babies we want to get one with is England, Japan, Mexico and Nicaragua.

JUDGE DENIES THAT HE TOOK 'BANDIT LOOT'

OKLAHOMA OFFICER FREE ON $5000 BAIL AFTER CHARGE IS FILED

COUNTY ATTORNEY ALSO OUT ON BOND IN CASE

Love County Officials Insist That They Gave Bank All Money Recovered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 8. (AP)—County Judge James C. Mathers Jr., of Love county, under larceny charge with County Attorney Wes Croy in connection with alleged appropriation of a portion of the loot they recovered after robbery of the Love County National bank, feels that the charge was inspired by politics, he said today in a long distance telephone conversation.

"I was dumbfounded when the charge was filed against me," the youthful cowboy-jurist said. "I don't know a thing in the world about it. I just kind of feel that it is a political matter."

Judge Mathers said he could not explain the political connection that he feels exists.

"I have taken no part in klan or anti-klan politics for several years," he said.

Asked if he intended to resign Judge Mathers said: "I don't think I will. I haven't done anything that would justify my resignation. I feel that everything will come out all right."

Judge Mathers admitted that he and Croy took Claude Andrews, one of the confessed participants in the bank robbery at Marietta, to the spot where at least a portion of the bank loot was buried. Of the $5,300 taken from the bank Judge Mathers and Croy returned $5179 to the bank.

Like Croy, Judge Mathers asserted that he did not count the money in the bag, but returned it intact to the bank.

Both officers are at liberty on bond of $5000 each. Their preliminary hearing has been set for February 20.

Mathers, who is 26, has served nearly four years as county judge. He was the youngest county judge in the state at the time of his election. His father, James C. Mathers Sr., now an Oklahoma City attorney gained national note several years ago as a prosecutor of Clara Smith Hamon, who was acquitted in her trial at Ardmore on a charge of killing Jake Hamon, millionaire oil man and Republican national committeeman.

Fred Hansen, assistant attorney general, whose investigations resulted in the filing of charges, had not asked for the officers' resignations this morning, although he announced yesterday that it was his intention to do so.

MACHINE GUN USED BY BAND IN $1000 VISIT TO K. C. BANK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 8. (AP)—Five bandits, carrying a machine gun, held up and robbed the Twelfth Street bank of about $1000 here today. The bank is at Twelfth and Wyandotte streets in the downtown section.

One of the bandits remained on guard with the submarine gun in a motor car in front of the bank while his four companions went inside, flourishing revolvers, the four ordered George H. Buecking, president and seven employes to the rear while they scooped up money in the tellers' cages.

While the robbery was in progress W. C. Jacobs, crossing patrolman, ran to the bank with drawn revolver, he was forced to halt, however, and drop his pistol by the bandit in the car in front.

Shortly afterward the four men came out of the bank, entered their car and sped away. Jacobs followed on a commandeered taxicab, but was soon outdistanced. No shots were fired.

SHOTGUN WARRANTS FOR LIQUOR SEARCH DENOUNCED BY COURT IN REVERSING PANOLA CO. CASE

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—"Shotgun" warrants for liquor searches and "careless and unauthorized conduct" of raiding officers, were denounced Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals in reversing and remanding the one year liquor sentence of Clint Steverson to Panola county.

The court also reversed and remanded the one year liquor conviction of Boyd Cochran, Tom Green county, pointing out that the search warrant was based only on "information and belief" and not sufficient under the court's own ruling that specific evidence of violation must be furnished for a warrant.

A sort of "blank warrant" was used in Steverson's case, the court found, and testimony of officers in trial court showed that the justice of the peace frequently signed warrants, letting the officers fill in anything desired. The warrant for Steverson was based on an affidavit alleging that he and others were believed to have transported liquor in a "wagon, buggy, automobile, wheelbarrow, truck, cart, sled, sleigh, motorcycle, bicycle, motor vehicle, horse drawn vehicle, aeroplane."

The appellate court found that the warrant did not describe the part of Steverson's premises to be searched, and that the officers could not tell from the outside of his smokehouse what was inside. They claimed to have found a barrel of mash buried inside and a jug three-fourths full of whiskey.

"We call attention," the court said, "to such careless and unauthorized conduct and shotgun warrants as only serving, as it does here, to defeat the very purpose for which issued."

Case Reversed and Remanded

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—Failure of the sheriff to produce a search warrant caused the court of criminal appeals to reverse and remand the conviction of Houston Skiles, Wood county, charged with possessing liquor manufacturing equipment.

Skiles claimed he had equipment on hand to manufacture liquor for his sick wife at some future date. A physician's testimony was that he had prescribed liquor for her.

The sheriff, attempting to secure conviction in absence of a warrant, said "we have so many of these things we can't keep up with all of them."

The Continental, Magnolia, Panhandle, American and Orient stations advanced from 14 to 17 cents. Ethyl, No-Nox, Nokies and other special grades also advanced accordingly. While others failed to raise, it was expected that before the close of the day the new prices will prevail at all stations.

Times' Houston Convention Fund Reaches $35 With Francis' Check

The Times will be glad to receive contributions from its readers to the fund which is being raised throughout Texas to help Houston entertain the Democratic national convention in June.

Houston's total expense in this undertaking can hardly be less than $500,000. Many Texans, non-residents of Houston, have felt that the state as a whole should help to share this burden, and have made contributions for such a purpose. The Times has been asked to receive such contributions, and gladly consents to do so.

It is felt that all Texas has been honored by Houston's being designated as host city. It is the first time since the civil war that a truly southern city has been chosen. It will help to make the nation better acquainted with Texas, and the undertaking thus becomes one in which all Texas should share.

The first contribution was received last week from Judge C. B. Felder, who sent his check for $10. Today the check of C. I. Francis, for $25, was received.

The Times understands that it is permitted to accept checks from Republicans as well as Democrats.

Checks may be made payable to Democratic Convention Fund. Acknowledgement will be made in these columns, of all contributions.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY LAUNCHES BURGLARY QUIZ

O. M. PIERCE TELLS INQUIRERS OF ATTEMPTED ROBBERY OF HOME

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ASKS PROBE OF SLOT MACHINES

Investigators Begin Work After Brief Instructions From Judge W. W. Cook

The January grand jury of the 30th district court reconvened in special session Wednesday and started work without anything being added to previous information concerning reasons for the re-assembly.

Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court, by whom the special grand jury was ordered, required less than five minutes to charge the body as to what its work will be. At the conclusion of his general instructions, he asked the grand jury to retire to its chambers and begin work.

"The district attorney informed me that a number of serious cases have arisen since the January grand jury was discharged," Judge Cook said. "He said, and I agree with him, that it would be unwise to wait until the next regular grand jury meets in April to investigate the cases, and to delay until then the returning of indictments which may be warranted. The district attorney will refer the specific cases to you."

Ben Allred, the district attorney, spent a few minutes before the grand jury and announced that he had asked the body, among other things, to investigate and make a report on information that slot machines have been operated in Wichita county recently.

The actual investigations then began. O. M. Pierce was the first witness called. One of the cases under investigation grows out of the attempted burglary several nights ago of Mr. Pierce's home. The assailant, it is alleged, attempted to choke Mrs. Pierce into silence when she awakened and discovered him in the house. Will Hudson, a negro, is under arrest and facing a charge of burglary of a private residence in the night-time with intend to commit a felony.

Mr. Allred said that other cases he will ask the grand jury to investigate include a charge of murder, one of robbery with firearms and one involving a statutory law. He added also that the grand jury will be asked to return indictments in all other cases which have originated since the last grand jury adjourned.

The district attorney predicted that the work of the special body will be completed within two days.

SMALL ESPOUSES THOMPSON'S AIMS FOR THIRD TERM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8. (AP)—On a platform carrying "America first," the slogan of Mayor Thompson of Chicago, as its cardinal principle, Governor Len Small today announced his third term candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The governor's announcement came a few hours after a midnight conference with Mayor Thompson at the close of which it was announced that Mr. Small had espoused the causes supported by Chicago's mayor, including farm relief, flood control and deep waterways which along with direct primaries, completion of the governor's hard roads program and home rule for Chicago formed the main planks in his platform.

HOOSIER STATE'S EXECUTIVE ACCUSED ATTEMPTED BRIBERY BY PREDECESSOR IN OFFICE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 8. (AP)—Waiving arraignment and pleading not guilty to a charge of attempted bribery, Governor Ed Jackson of Indiana went on trial in criminal court here today.

George V. Coffin, Marion county Republican chairman, and Robert I. Marsh, local attorney, who were indicted with Jackson, also pleaded not guilty. They were granted separate trials.

Governor Jackson, Coffin and Marsh are accused of offering Governor Warren T. McCray in 1923, $10,000 and a guarantee of immunity from conviction on embezzlement charges pending against him if he would name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor. McCray eventually named William H. Remy, the present prosecutor. Jackson was secretary of state at the time.

An indication of the many legal squabbles to follow was given when the defense objected to its having to examine talesmen first. Special Judge Charles M. McCabe ruled that the state would examine the jury first. The examination began forthwith.

Two special venires of 50 men each awaited the call for examination as prospective jurors.

Governor Jackson was jovial as he entered the court room and shook hands with numerous people as he passed down the aisle to take a seat beside his counsel.

Klan Brought Into Case

E. W. Johnson, special assistant to Prosecutor Remy, conducted the state's examination of prospective jurymen.

The name of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, and now a life prisoner at the state prison, was brought into the case at the outset. Johnson asked C. A. Bragg, first prospective juror, if he knew Stephenson. He received a negative answer.

Stephenson was charged in the

HIGHEST COURT HOLDS $4 AUTO BUS TAX VALID

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—Refusing writ of error, the supreme court Wednesday declined to question an appellate court decision holding valid state law requiring motor bus operators to pay a special tax equivalent to $4 per passenger capable of being seated in each vehicle.

H. E. English, Jim Peyton and J. F. Lockmiller, owners of the Dallas-Greenville Red Ball line, sought to restrain John Lowery, Dallas county tax collector, from collecting the toll. Trial court upheld their contention, but was reversed by the civil appeals court.

To Collect Here.

Guy C. Raley, Wichita county tax collector, will proceed at once to collect approximately $2500 due Wichita county from motor bus companies under the passenger tax law held valid by a ruling of the supreme court Wednesday.

He will defer action only until he receives official notification of the supreme court's holding, Mr. Raley said. He intends, however, to communicate with bus companies before the official notice is received, he said.

Bus companies here obtained an injunction from the 78th district court several weeks ago to restrain the tax collector from proceeding with collection of the tax. The step was taken, it was said, however, as a means of postponing action on the matter until the supreme court had ruled on cases presenting similar issues from Dallas county.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY TO PROBE ROADSIDE FINES

VERNON, Feb. 8.—A special session of the grand jury convened Wednesday afternoon to investigate the case of C. E. Holley, who is held in the Wilbarger county jail in default of $20,000 bond, on a charge of impersonating an officer.

Officers charge that Holley, through displaying a fireman's badge, made demands for money from couples of cars parked along the highway. It is alleged that Holley by use of his badge and pistol forced his victims to pay "fines" for parking along the highway. He is said to have preyed on automobiles parked on a by-road near Vernon.

Sheriff W. Frank Edmondson said Wednesday that Holley's arrest was made after several months' work by Wilbarger county officers.

The arrest was made Monday night by Deputies Jess Leverett and Boyd McClendon of the sheriff's department.

Norfleet, the police said, trailed the man to Houston from Amarillo, where he was charged with swindling a woman. The ranchman located the man and enlisted services of two city detectives who arrested him on a "John Doe" fugitive from justice warrant.

FATHER OF SLAIN GIRL TELLS STORY of witnesses closely connected with the crime cast a spell of tenseness on the court room crowd.

Parker was called to testify but briefly. He identified letters and telegrams he received from the kidnaper, the bills he paid as ransom to the defendant and identified the latter in the words: "He was the man who took the money."

The prosecution rested its case as recess was ordered at 10:30 o'clock after putting on the stand one final witness after the slain girl's father had testified.

The grief-laden father only once stared hard and long at the prisoner, but the latter slumped and sat motionless in his chair and looked only at the counsel table before him.

Officers Tell of Capture

The two Oregon captors detailed today to the jurors in the William Edward Hickman sanity trial the chase they had along the Columbia river highway in Oregon for the kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker.

Captain Tom Gurdane of the Pendleton, Ore., police, was the first witness for the state. He testified to pursuing the killer of Marian Parker down the highway and to capturing the fugitive with the aid of Lieutenant Buck Lieuallen, Oregon traffic officer.

A stack of $20 bills which were given the slayer by Perry M. Parker, father of the slain girl, as ransom in exchange for her mutilated body were produced by District Attorney Asa Keyes.

Captain Gurdane said he could not identify the bills, as he had not at any time handled them.

Hickman Heavily Armed

The Oregon police officer testified to ordering Hickman from the green sedan, and to Lieuallen searching him. They found a sawed-off shotgun and an automatic pistol in the car, both of which were loaded. Two boys who had been given a lift by the fugitive, Gurdane testified, were with Hickman.

Hickman declared, while standing in the road with his hands over his head, that his name was Peck and he was from Seattle, Gurdane said.

A virtual arsenal array of guns was spread on the rail before the witness for identification. Captain Gurdane at once carefully "broke down" the guns to make sure they were not loaded.

Gurdane identified the double-barreled sawed-off shotgun as the one found under Hickman's seat in the car, and a heavy .38 automatic pistol as the gun he had on the seat between his knees when captured.

Two Guns in Suit Case

The other two pistols, Gurdane said, appeared to be the ones Lieuallen found in Hickman's traveling bag, although he himself had never handled them. The bag also was introduced and identified by the witness.

Defense Attorney Jerome Walsh objected to the display of guns as "intended to create bias and prejudice" and as entirely irrelevant.

Keyes replied that "that is your conception of it, but it is not the state's."

Judge J. J. Trabucco overruled the objection, ordered the defense words stricken from the trial record, and the jury to disregard the objection.

Pile of Bills Identified

A pile of $20 bills were identified by Lieuallen as being the $1400 ransom money he found in Hickman's traveling bag.

The witness also established the identity of the two pistols he found in the bag. In addition, 21 shotgun shells and some boxes of pistol cartridges were identified as having been in the bag. Lieuallen was not certain of the identity of a box of .25 caliber shells.

Keyes then asked him if they fitted the small German pistol, he replied he was not certain, "there were so many shells in there" meaning the bag.

All the shells were submitted in evidence.

The defense did not cross examine either of the Oregon officers.

Walsh entered another objection when the next state witness, a Los Angeles police officer, was called. He objected to Keyes asking this witness also to identify the "artillery" array, insisting that he would stipulate the guns already were identified as the defendant's property.

Trial Nears Close

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8. (AP)—With a quick-time march of final witnesses, the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman today moved into its final stages.

Attorneys for both sides predicted that the last of the evidence for and against the youth's insanity plea to the kidnaping and murder of little Marian Parker would be placed before the jury before the end of today's session. They said it was possible that the jury would hear the final arguments of attorneys and begin its deliberations by tomorrow night.

With the opening of the final scenes of the sensational case it was disclosed that virtually none of the principals in the trial drama had escaped the attentions of writers of "crank" letters.

The latest target for threatening missives is the jury itself. Its members, however, were kept ignorant of the letter which had been received threatening to "blow the whole bunch up" if Hickman was not held "responsible" for the school girl's murder.

The letter, addressed to "the Hickman jury" was intercepted by the court clerk and turned over to Judge J. J. Trabucco and the authorities for investigation. It was declared the work of some unbalanced person—a type also blamed for threatening letters received in numbers by Judge Trabucco, District Attorney Asa Keyes and his aides, as well as the members of the defense counsel.

The last of the state's seven alienists, all of whom have declared Hickman sane in the sense that he was able to distinguish between right and wrong, completed their testimony yesterday.

During the cross examination of Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, one of these expert witnesses, the defense managed to slip into the records Hickman's "closing argument," prepared by the young slayer himself in his cell for delivery at his trial. The admission of a copy of that oration, titled by its young author "Solution of Crime," had been barred previously on a prosecution objection that it was "tommy rot." The Hickman document was dismissed by other state alienists as the plea of a man "at the end of his rope."

Dr. Orbison was asked to examine it to determine whether it contained any evidence of insanity. The alienist labeled it "merely a sophomoric essay on crime."

Dr. Edward H. Williams, the last of the prosecution alienists to testify, declared that Hickman was "obviously feigning insanity" and making "a bum exhibition" of it.

Hickman "Bum Faker"

"He is faking and doing it clumsily," the doctor continued.

As the brain experts completed their analysis of Hickman for the jury, ordinary folk received a chance to give their opinions. In rapid order, four employes of the Los Angeles bank in which Hickman worked until he took up check forging; a former fellow student of the defendant in a Kansas City high school, two residents of Alhambra, a suburb, and a police officer, all of whom had known the youth, were called to testify. All said they considered Hickman sane.

Welby Hunt, Hickman's confessed accomplice in a holdup attempt that resulted in the death of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, testified: "I think Hickman was sane, to all my knowledge."

Cell Mate Testifies

Dale Budlong, a fellow inmate in the county jail, told from the witness stand how the latter slipped him a "fits letter" previously entered into the court record. The letter announced Hickman's intention of staging a "screaming, laughing, diving act" to impress the jury.

Budlong denied that he had been "planted" in Hickman's cell to obtain damaging evidence against him. He said he had not turned the letter over to the authorities but that a deputy sheriff had seen the missive handed to him and had taken it away from Budlong.

At the close of court yesterday the prosecution said the only witness remaining to be called were a Los Angeles officer; the two Pendleton, Ore., officers who arrested Hickman; County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner, and Perry M. Parker, father of the slain girl.

The defense said it would have only one rebuttal witness—Dr. A. S. Skoog, Kansas City alienist, who testified earlier in the trial he believed Hickman insane.

TRIAL OF INDIANA GOVERNOR OPENS

Jackson indictment with having had a part in the alleged conspiracy to bring about McDonald's appointment. He testified before the grand jury that indicted Jackson, Coffin and Marsh, and may be a state witness against the governor. Prior to his conviction in 1925 for murder Stephenson was an acknowledged political power in Indiana.

FORMER GOVERNOR TO BE WITNESS AGAINST RIVAL

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8. (AP)—A governor and a former governor of Indiana, each of whom was indicted while in office, are opposed in a case before the criminal court today.

Governor Ed Jackson is the defendant, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony in an attempt to bribe. Against him, as star witness for the prosecution, will be Warren T. McCray, whose governorship immediately preceded Jackson's. It was McCray, the state contends, whom Governor Jackson sought to bribe.

Indicted with Governor Jackson were George V. Coffin, Marion county Republican chairman, and Robert I. Marsh, former law partner of the governor. They are to be tried later.

These three men, with D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, are charged with offering McCray, when he was governor in 1923, the sum of $10,000 in return for the appointment of James E. McDonald as Marion county (Indianapolis) prosecutor. Immunity from embezzlement charges then pending against McCray also was promised, the state has charged.

Stephenson, now serving a life sentence for murder, was not indicted, and he may be called as a state witness.

Efforts by the defense to have the indictment ruled out under the statute of limitations have been overruled.

The indictment charges that McCray did not reveal the alleged attempt to bribe him because he feared the power of the men. The Ku Klux Klan was a prominent factor in state politics at the time. McCray recently returned from the Atlanta federal prison where he served three years and four months for using the mails to defraud in connection with the failure of his extensive livestock and land holdings.

A few formalities were on the trial program today including the arraignment of the three defendants and the entering of not guilty pleas. The task of selecting a jury was next.

Judge Charles M. McCabe of Crawfordsville, was selected as special judge in the trial after Judge James A. Collins disqualified himself.

William H. Remy, prosecutor of Marion county, who will conduct the state's case, was in conference with McCray yesterday. It was Remy who won the conviction of Stephenson and later the conviction of John L. Duvall, former Indianapolis mayor who was found guilty of campaign frauds.

Clyde M. Jones, former public service commissioner and Louis B. Ewbank, former Indiana supreme court judge, will head defense counsel.

MAN CONVICTED OF ROBBERY HERE IS DENIED REHEARING

Special to the Times.

AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—The court of criminal appeals Wednesday overruled appellant's motion for rehearing in the case of George G. Biggerstaff, sentenced to five years in state prison from Wichita county on conviction of robbery, P. P. Robertson was the alleged victim and approximately $1900 was involved. The case had been previously affirmed.

Happened Two Years Ago

George G. Biggerstaff, whose motion for a rehearing was overruled by the court of criminal appeals at Austin Wednesday, was alleged to have operated with a woman confederate who posed as his wife, in holding up P. P. Robertson, a Clarksville farmer, near Electra more than two years ago.

CHINESE PILLAGERS SLAY 300 IN CRUEL LOOTING OF VILLAGE

HONG KONG, Feb. 8. (AP)—The American Presbyterian mission at Holhow, Hainan Island, was informed today that 300 merchants and a Chinese missionary and his family had been murdered by red pirates on the southeast coast of the island.

The slain Chinese Christian minister was a member of the Holhow mission and was murdered at Mancheung on the coast north of Lingshui.

In the attack on Lingshui, 300 merchants and shopkeepers were slain. The town was looted and partly burned. Merchandise was carried off in large quantities.

Several men were kidnaped and it is believed the gang of pirates took them for recruits.

to the tastes of the average Texas politician, but, my dear sir, it is as it is. I am not charging you with the least bit of stupidity, but I am charging that you have forgotten some things that we older indulgers in Texas hospitality still remember. I would like to see Wichita Falls entertain a Texas convention of the Democratic party, but alas! there is no little Juarez across Red River as there is across the Rio Grande from El Paso."

We didn't intend to convey that Wichita Falls can offer the same sort of entertainment that El Paso can extend. Even if it were a fact, we would not want our city to emphasize it, in dealing with the democracy of Texas. What difference would it make? Have not the leaders of the party in this state, Tom Love et al, decreed that Texas must instruct against any candidate whose record as to liquor is flawless? A convention gathered under such a snow-white banner as it is planned to raise would certainly contain no delegates for whom Juarez would have any lure. That's why we didn't refer to it.

According to the writer of "Home Town Stuff" in the Vernon Record, "Vernon has a distinction that perhaps no other city of equal size can lay claim to, namely, her indoor athletic teams must go 16 miles to borrow a gymnasium." We are wondering, in that connection, how far the Coyotes will have to go, next fall, to borrow a football field. If, as has been stated, they won't be allowed to use Spudder park, they'll be without adequate facilities for conference games. Maybe they can effect a trade with Vernon—let the Lions use the gymnasium here in return for the use of the Lion's gridiron.

COSTES AND LEBRIX TAKE AIR FOR TRIP TO CAPITAL OF U. S.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 8. (AP)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, French ambassadors of the air, hopped off from Maxwell field for Washington at 8:10 o'clock this morning. An escort of four planes from the local field accompanied the aviators 100 miles. Weather conditions over the course were reported good.

SIGNAL HONORS PLANNED FOR FRENCH AVIATORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Honors in return for the ovations which attended the arrivals abroad of Lindbergh, Byrd and other Americans await the coming here of the French fliers, Costes and Lebrix.

An official welcoming party, including Secretary of War Davis, Secretary Wilbur, the acting secretary of state; Ambassador Claudel and his staff, and scores of army and navy air officers and attaches of embassies and legations, ignored the elements in planning for the reception at the field. A military escort was ordered to accompany the fliers to the city, where the first honors will be bestowed at a dinner given by the National Aeronautic association.

The three assistant secretaries of aviation will entertain Costes and Lebrix at a luncheon tomorrow after they are formally presented to President Coolidge in the morning by Ambassador Claudel. The fliers will be signally honored at a luncheon at the White House Friday.

PROBE OF COTTON EXCHANGE ACTIONS ASKED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Investigation of charges of manipulation of the cotton market by cotton exchanges and "undue influence" on the department of agriculture in making cotton reports was asked today by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina.

Although urging immediate consideration of the resolution, Senator Smith was forced by senate rules to refer it first to the committee on audit and control.

The South Carolina senator condemned particularly the report issued by the department of agriculture last September predicting a decline in cotton prices.

COEDS MAY GO OUT IN PARTIES AFTER SUNSET

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Feb. 8. (AP)—Greater social freedom for co-eds of Stanford university was announced today by the women's council after the drafting of regulations for the coming year. The new rules allow freshmen women to motor after dark in parties of four or more, and allow two or more women to enter any men's living group.

LA GUARDIA ASKS AID OF U. S. IN COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Charging Pennsylvania soft coal mine owners with assuming an "extra territoriality which not even a sovereign state under our constitution is granted," Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, declared in the house today that the federal government should intervene in the soft coal controversy and "put a permanent stop to these outrageous conditions."

ARGONAUT OF SKIES SOARS FOR HAVANA

bergh climbed out of the plane to say farewell. He then posed before the Spirit of St. Louis for a group picture with men of the marine aviation squadron. Lindbergh was in the center with the president on one side and General Russell on the other.

Six planes of the marine squadron tuned up their engines as Lindbergh turned over the propeller of his famous craft. The first of the escort planes started down the field at 6:30. The last of the escort was off at 6:34.

At 6:34 the Spirit of St. Louis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—New recognition was given Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today by the senate in asking the government to prepare a medal commemorating his aviation achievements.

In reporting the bill of Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, authorizing the medal Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, quoted a recent editorial that Lindbergh "is the hero of every son, the sweetheart of every daughter and the idol of every mother."

Without debate the bill was passed.

taxied the length of the field and halted while Lindbergh climbed out for a final check on the machine. He took off at 6:35.

Lindbergh circled over the city followed by the escort under Captain Pressley, the escort flying in double V. formation.

Lindbergh flew over the field again and then headed for Havana.

Before departing he said he was confident he would land at the Cuban capital at 4 p. m., today.

HAVANA LAST PORT BEFORE LINDY RETURNS TO HOME

HAVANA, Feb. 8. (AP)—The last port of call on his goodwill tour awaited the coming of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today.

The national colors of 21 nations, now meeting here in the Pan-American congress, flew in the tropical breeze above the pavilion at Camp Columbia. The greensward of that flying field was ready for the Spirit of St. Louis to glide down upon it from the pale blue sky completing a hop of some 750 miles from Port-Au-Prince, Haiti.

The airdrome was put in service and the last workman had gathered up his tools and departed leaving the field to the flyer and welcoming throngs.

The reputation of the Lone Eagle for arriving promptly preceded him. His landing was set for 4 p. m., and so sure was Cuba that he would be there on time that the official reception was scheduled for the presidential palace, some eight miles away, at 4:30.

The program in the flier's honor has been so arranged that it will not interfere with the sessions of the Pan-Ame can conference. Receptions and banquets have been left for the evenings when the conference is not in session and citizens will entertain the airman exclusively in the daytime.

Two gold medals have been cast, engraved and delivered for the ceremonies. One will be given the flier tomorrow by the province of Havana at the state department, the other will be presented Saturday at a dinner of the Geographical Society of Cuba.

Special stamps for use on the mail between Havana and Key West were on sale in commemoration of his coming.

This country, the last to be visited on Lindbergh's goodwill tour which has taken him to Mexico, Central America, part of South America and the Antilles, will bid the airman bon voyage Monday. Then he turns the silver nose of the Spirit of St. Louis westward and heads for home—St. Louis.

OUTLOOK FOR TEXAS IS ESPECIALLY GOOD SAYS, PRESIDENT RAILROAD

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The South and Southwest especially Texas is facing what gives every promise of being its most successful year L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific lines said here today.

"The outlook for Texas is especially good," Mr. Baldwin said. "Thousands of home seekers are pouring into South Texas, buying land that is still in the brush and building new homes and producing tonnage at a rate undreamed of even four years ago. In the lower Rio Grande valley shipments are considerably greater than they were this time last year and the country is by no means fully developed. Upward of a thousand homeseekers are visiting that section every week."

LOCAL MINISTER HAS STOCK FARM

Even a minister can be a farmer.

Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, is establishing a stock farm on a 208-acre tract in Clay county, one mile north of Jolly.

Dr. Grafton has purchased 14 Jersey milch cows and one Jersey bull and five registered Poland China hogs. He is having chicken houses built on the farm and plans to purchase his chickens as soon as these structures are completed.

SINCLAIR CONTEMPT DISMISSAL DEBATE NEARS LAST STAGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The end of arguments on a defense motion to dismiss criminal contempt charges against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates, was in sight today when George P. Hoover, counsel for Sinclair made the closing statement for the defense.

Hoover contended mere shadowing of the Fall Sinclair jury was not contempt and declared that in the two months' trial the government had not shown a single act which it believed interpreted as obstructing justice.

The government's contention that when a Burns detective visited the home of a juror, it meant that "Harry F. Sinclair was there" was termed iniquitious by Hoover. He declared that as no one in the juror's home knew the man was a detective Sinclair could not be held for approaching a juror.

Flood Drives Mule Skinner To Tree Tops

FORT SCOTT, Kans., Feb. 8. (AP)—Sam Hunt of near Fulton, 12 miles north of here, was marooned in a tree by flood waters of the Osage river for eight hours yesterday after his team of mules and wagon were swept away when he drove off into the inundated road after crossing a bridge.

Hunt's plight was discovered late yesterday by Sheldon Taylor, a farmer, who, with the aid of Fred White, another farmer, rescued him. The mules were drowned.

Prison and Educational Reform Emphasized in Platform Outlined In Address at Sulphur Springs

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas, Feb. 8. (AP)—Reform of the state prison and educational systems again are to be outstanding planks in her platform as Democratic candidate for governor of Texas Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans of Dallas said in an address delivered here at noon today. Mrs. Wilmans was a candidate in 1926.

The motor tax law, prohibition, tax reduction, the child labor law, the menace of the boll weevil and the primary law also were discussed in the address to be heard by bankers, farmers and business men at the Woman's Forum.

"Believing that there is some good to be found in the most hardened criminal I think legislation should be enacted which would divide the profits of their labor, above their upkeep and maintenance, as a reward for good service, such money either to be sent to their families or saved and given to them upon their release from the prison system," Mrs. Wilmans declared.

Considerable saving in the prison system could be effected Mrs. Wilmans said by relocation of the various units, and centralization at one point, preferably near Austin so the penitentiary commission could keep in touch with the entire system at all times.

Changes to prepare the man serving a term to provide for himself by working at some trade or vocation upon his release also was urged in the address. "I do not believe in providing luxuries, or making life within the penitentiary such as will be so attractive as to make a criminal lose his fear of returning for another crime," she said. "This would nullify the effect of a penitentiary sentence.

"The inmates should have wholesome food and decent clothes. This would tend to build up a desire for a sound body and keep them in health, but the convicted criminal owes the state a debt and he should not be released until he has paid it.

"Studies looking to development of a moral condition which would create a desire to lead a better life upon release should be offered the convict, but I do not believe he should be given his choice of study or work. What education is given him should not be at the cost of his labor, or his earning his keep."

Better administration of the system would result in a saving of thousands of dollars, Mrs. Wilmans said, urging that the prisons be made independent of outside aid.

"We should not buy anything outside the system, but everything should be manufactured within the institution or produced on the farms, for the purchase of canned goods, groceries and other commodities outside the walls has been the source of a great part of the loss to the state."

Appropriation of sufficient funds to assure continual operation of rural schools would do much toward solving the educational problems Mrs. Wilmans declared.

"It is much easier for the great centers of population to secure an appropriate funds for the education of its children for the reason that the cities have great business establishments together with high property values upon which a special tax may be levied for the purpose of adding to the general state appropriation. In the rural districts the schools must depend upon the local tax as a supplement to the state funds and this, in most cases is inadequate."

The per capita apportionment should never fall below $75 and should be increased if possible the address said and added appropriations should be made to increase the salary of teachers.

BONNER DAMAGE SUIT AT WACO DISMISSED

WACO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Dismissal of Frank H. Bonner's $100,000 damage suit against the American Express company which followed his indictment for the murder of J. A. Barnes, and Barnes' young son at Corpus Christi, killed by the explosion of a bomb sent him by express, was contained in a court order received here from El Paso. The case against Bonner was dismissed and filing of the suit followed.

Identification of the express messenger who delivered the bomb was the principal bone of contention between state and defense while Bonner was under indictment.

In the suit Bonner charged that the express company tried to fasten the crime upon him.

HOOVER BOOSTERS FORM CLUB HERE HEADED BY JONES

Al Smith is within 20 votes of the two-thirds majority needed to secure the Democratic nomination for the presidency, according to the declaration Tuesday night here at a Wichita Falls Hoover for President club of Orville Bullington, local attorney and vice chairman of the state Republican executive committee.

Roy B. Jones, president of the Panhandle Refining company was chosen president of the club. The organization meeting was attended by approximately 75 persons.

Mr. Bullington and other speakers insisted that Smith's nomination will make Texas a doubtful state.

"That was conceded," Mr. Bullington declared, "when the Democrats gave their national convention to Texas—the first time it has been held in the south in 75 years."

The speaker said that the Republican party has been making great advances in this state during the past eight years. At the present time, he said, Republican organizations exist in 241 counties, and in most of the precincts of those counties. All the organizations have been perfected since 1926.

Mr. Bullington charged that four years ago, Dr. Butte was "counted out" of 80,000 votes cast for him as governor. Dr. Butte was the Republican candidate for the post in opposition to Mrs. Miriam Ferguson.

"In other words, Republicans came within 20,000 votes of electing a governor of Texas, the speaker said. "It is true that the official report gave the Democrats a majority of 110,000, but Dr. Butte was counted out of 80,000 votes."

Mr. Jones said that Hoover's work for Mississippi flood relief would win many votes for him in the south. Harwood stacy, who was elected secretary of the club; O. R. Hartt, county chairman, and Mrs. P. A. Welty, county and district woman's chairman, were other speakers.

Officers elected were: Vice presidents, Walter S. Curlee, N. H. Martin, L. V. Hull, T. L. Ball, W. C. Witcher, J. T. Harrell, A. W. Eichenberger, Mrs. Louis Gould, Mrs. W. W. Slik, Mrs. W. H. Glover, Mrs. Lillie Mastotler, Mrs. Mamie Dale, Mrs. A. F. Kimmell and Miss Maud Thomas.

AIRPLANE EXPLORATION HOLDS NO INTEREST FOR VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON

DALLAS, Feb. 8. (AP)—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, explorer and lecturer is "about through" with arctic trips, he said here today. Airplane exploration holds no interest for him, he declared.

Held over in Dallas by a missed train connection the 48-year-old polar voyager explained that for him the airplane has taken all the romance out of exploration. "When one flies, everything looks like a great map. There is nothing romantic about that sort of exploration."

LARGE INCUBATOR RUNS AT CAPACITY IN OLNEY

OLNEY, Texas, Feb. 8.—The mammoth incubator of the Olney Feed & Hatchery is running at full capacity, hatching from 3000 to 4500 baby chicks per week. The hatchery was opened for the first time during last season and turned out about 40,000 baby chicks. There is considerably more interest in the poultry industry around Olney this year than there was at this time last year, and the local management predicts a much larger turn out this season.

In addition to hatching baby chicks for sale, the local institution does a small amount of custom hatching for the convenience of its patrons.

Len Small and Big Bill Thompson Arrange to Boss Illinois Affairs During Midnight Confab at Capital

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8. (AP)—The Republican duumvirate of Gov. Len Small and Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago was cemented anew at the executive mansion between midnight and 1 a. m., today.

They came from the politically significant conference arm and arm and smiling. In interviews with both men reporters measured the results of the meeting in these terms:

Governor Small will seek renomination and election for a third term.

Mayor Thompson, in return for political support in Cook county (Chicago), will receive control of state patronage there.

The political requiem for Fred Lundin, "the poor Swede," who elevated Thompson to power and later became his arch foe, was sung.

The differences between Mayor Thompson and Governor Small, distilled to their essence, were Lundin, his alliance with the governor and, through that, his control of much state patronage in Cook county.

If the midnight conference was correctly interpreted as meaning the downfall of Lundin, it appeared quite probable that among the first evidences would be dismissal from the presidency of the West Park board (Chicago) of Dr. John Dill Robertson, who ran as an independent Republican against Thompson in the last mayoralty campaign.

Mayor Thompson left no doubt of his attitude toward Lundin and Dr. Robertson when, during the last campaign, he exhibited two rats in a cage on a public platform, calling one "Fred" and the other "Doc."

Probability that the situation might be clarified before nightfall was seen in the fact that the Republican state central committee was to meet in Chicago today. The mayor was expected to endorse the governor's candidacy there.

United States Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, to whom the senate denied a seat, accompanied Mayor Thompson to Springfield and sat in on the conference.

The accord between Mayor Thompson and Governor Small has come at a time when another active factor has begun making itself apparent in Cook county Republican politics. That is the group headed by United States Senator Deneen, which has indicated it will make a sharp fight for the office of state's attorney of Cook county, now held by Robert E. Crowe of the Thompson-Crowe faction.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE ON DEVELOPMENT OF YOUNG COUNTY ROADS

OLNEY, Texas, Feb. 8.—Highway development is rapidly taking form in the Olney territory and within a short time the grade and concrete drainage structures on all the principal highways will be ready for use, later to be topped with concrete or asphalt. Active construction started about 25 days ago, and already the right-of-ways have been fenced, and the grade thrown up between Olney and Newcastle. Forms have been placed for two new concrete bridges at the south city limits, and the grading crew will be ready within the next few days to start grading the south end of Avenue C entering Olney.

How shocked we would be if anyone ever told us that we were guilty of body odor!

Of course, no one would be so indelicate. But the truth remains that anyone of us may offend.

To live, we must perspire. Even on cool days our pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

This body moisture, whether it can be seen or not, is always odorous. And it never plays favorites. Housewife or banker—laborer or society debutante—all may offend unless they take precautions.

But while others notice body odor instantly—the offender doesn't.

Don't take chances. To avoid embarrassment, just wash and bathe often with the most delightful toilet soap in the world—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

The same gentle, antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores. And Lifebuoy keeps complexions so fresh and clear! You'll enjoy it for every purpose.

The Constant Flame

By Winifred Van Duzer Author of "THE GOOD BAD GIRL," "GOLDEN ROADS," "THRILL HUNTERS" and Other Popular Serials (Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

What Has Happened So Far

Emily Day, daughter of very poor parents, has a great yearning to make a success. She finds it impossible to mingle with the socially elect of the little town where she lives owing to her poverty and the fact that her father is a factory worker. She loses her heart to Kent Rossiter, a rich young man, who is supposed to be engaged to Marilee Grainger. One moonlight night at a party, Kent kisses Emily and calls her beautiful. He goes away to study law, but she never forgets him. Meanwhile, Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," tells her he too is going to be a lawyer and that some day he intends to marry her. She gets a job with Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, who tells her the only aristocracy in that of work. Mrs. Haiden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic, who proposes to her in vain. Meanwhile, Kitten, Emily's younger sister, is wildly seeking for thrills. She meets Ted Lanier on the sly. Stella Brent, a school girl friend of Emily's finds herself deserted by Skeets Bradley, reckless son of a rich family. Kitten goes on a wild party with Ted without letting her sister know.

Emily gets a raise. Kitten climbs in a window late at night to elude her sister.

Kent comes home for the wedding of his sister Avis, who has thrown herself at Marty Nolan. Fearing her father's wrath she marries a man she does not care for.

Kent almost proposes to Marilee but cannot quite bring himself to do it.

Marilee Grainger and another girl Emily didn't know were in the back seat. Kent sat between them.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXIV

Once, before he left Lyall, Emily did see Kent.

She left the shop late one afternoon, tired and a little discouraged. Frances Haiden had not been able, as yet, to satisfy herself on the scheme of decoration for the new commission and her young assistant was commencing to suspect that even such fascinating things as colors may be turned into hard work.

She sauntered up the River road, feeling keen delight in the monotony of green on every side. And it was as she waited to cross the street—as she waited, curiously enough, under a spreading elm—that a motor load of gay young folk, hatless and laughing, glided by.

Marilee Grainger and another girl Emily didn't know were in the back seat. He sat between them—the Kent of her recollections, the boy of a thousand and one dreams.

Exactly as she remembered him, he was; eyes so very blue, full-cut, merry lips with dinas at the sides, cleft to the center of the proud chin.

Yet thinking it over afterward she decided he seemed not quite so carefree as he had been in the old days. There was about him a hint of sternness; he appeared more than six years older somehow.

It seemed for a second their eyes must meet and she held her breath. Almost she thought him about to speak. But they swept on and he had not seen her.

She stood there rapt with excitement, a furious knocking in her throat. Then the car disappeared down the street and a dreamy sadness possessed her. She went on up the hill feeling that her spirit waited in a great stillness—listened for a strain of half-remembered music.

The next day the society column reported that Kent had gone and a little torment of loneliness gnawed at her heart. Even though she might never see him, to think of Kent down there at Highcliffe, perhaps walking in the garden, under the roses of the pergola was one thing; to vision him faring forth beyond the horizon line, lost in the immensity of an unknown world was quite another and one that shook her.

Life went suddenly stale and colorless; in a driving panic she turned to Kingdon Coles.

He had invited her into the city to dine some evening and attend the theater.

"Not very interesting now," he said. "Shows all closing for the summer. Still the Drama association is trying out a new piece. You might think it amusing."

"Anything would interest me, King. You wouldn't believe—would you?—that I've never been to the theater excepting for a matinee? Living almost in New York, really, and not a glimpse of the Gay White Way when it's gay and white. S'pose you won't believe that."

"Yes," he said. "Why not? Frances told me a little."

That puzzled her, rather. She didn't know, of course, about the tradition of wealth and old-fashioned family now accepted as fact by Coles and the others. Frances never had hinted to Emily that she was sailing under false colors through no fault of her own. And if ever it occurred to Coles to wonder why he failed to be invited to the home of this girl the tradition answered all questions.

He saw her at their friend's house because her family would hold to medieval customs in matters of courtship and marriage. A suitor first would present himself to her parents and after satisfying them would be permitted to call upon her occasionally, sedately and, of course, under proper chaperonage.

Time enough for this. No matter how much in love a man might be there was no need of rushing things. He didn't blame her for wanting to get out of such a moyen-age atmosphere.

Once or twice he had seen the gray eyes light and the sweet face flush suddenly; he had felt a lilt—a singing rhythm—about her. And he suspected that he hadn't touched even the surface of her real feeling. Depths there and heights—vital, exultant heights. But that would come.

Kingdon Coles never underestimated himself.

He waited for her at the ferry one evening and took her to the rose-room of the Van Rex for dinner.

Lights all shaded and soft; the gleam of silver, the hard, white shine of napery. Coles, so very blond, so tall and handsome, suddenly became a Viking.

Color—color—oh, everywhere. In rich gowns of women, flame and vivid blue running along white shoulders; floating in fairy streamers of chiffon and tulle.

Color in the music; the orchestra played simple things that night, songs Emily could understand. The lullaby from "Jocelyn," the Kashmiri song.

Color out in the street where a million jewels seemed to blaze; color in the very roar of traffic.

"I didn't know anything could be so wonderful, King. It makes you feel all sparkle some way."

"And you make me feel so, Emily. Does that please you? That I care so much?"

"Why, of course, King. Oh, look

Every one at the theater seemed to know him. The man behind the window called him Old King Cole.

—the woman in ermine—exquisite—"

He gave it up. She was like a child with a new toy; he could wait to make love to her.

Everyone at the theater seemed to know him. The man behind the window called him "Old King Cole," peering at her over his shoulder, and offered him a box which he declined with a fine air of hauteur. It impressed Emily greatly.

Their seats were down in front and for the first few minutes he kept bowing right and left, sometimes smiling in a weary way.

"So popular," she thought. "Why they all seem to feel honored when he notices them. How important he must be—a power here—"

And the glamour of the evening settled upon him in her mind; all the color, the music, the lights became a part of him and dazzled her. For the first time since she had known Kent Rossiter his image grew dim.

The play perplexed Emily. Like the book by George Bernard Shaw she had tried to read, it seemed to be full of things she couldn't understand. Still everyone else seemed amused—everyone but King who kept muttering, "Stale—oh, rotten!"

And when he asked her, about the middle of the last act, if she'd had enough, she was quite ready to leave.

Still she felt a twinge of pity for a young fellow who stepped up in the lobby and said anxiously, "Hope you liked it, Coles?"

King shrugged dramatically, put out his hands, and the young fellow kept step with them to the door, arguing in a tense, excited voice.

"It's a great idea, Coles. Rough in spots; maybe, but we'll take care of that. Have a heart, will you? All we want is half a chance—"

"You'll get all that's coming and you know it."

"But Coles—"

"Good night."

PEPPERELL Sheets

The fourth generation of Texas women are now buying

PEPPERELL Sheets

IN 1845, the year Texas entered the sisterhood of states, the first snowy Pepperell Sheets were spun from the looms.

These firm, light, strongly woven Pepperell Sheets soon found their way into the Lone Star State, and have been widely used by Texas women ever since.

For four generations, now, Texas housewives have found that Pepperell Sheets pay for themselves in long wear.

"Just how long do they wear?" you ask thriftily.

Frankly, we don't know just how long Pepperell Sheets do wear. We do know that one women's hospital used them for thirty-three years and they were still in good condition when we asked to have them back for examination.

But there is more to Pepperell Sheets than just wear. True, you will like their long life, but you also will like their light strength, their smooth comfort. For a sheet must do more than just wear; it must please you by its appearance and provide restful comfort by its texture all during its life.

When you buy sheets marked with the familiar red Pepperell label, you buy sheets that have had the approval of four generations of Texas women. Which is, we think you'll agree, a strong endorsement for any product.

It is real economy to buy sheets 108 inches long

The extra length permits you to fold the sheet firmly under the mattress at the foot of the bed. And there is enough room left over to fold the sheet back over the blanket and protect it from soiling.

Walter D. Cline Addresses Over Five Hundred Rotarians at Lawton Inter-City Banquet; 49 Wichitans Present

By FRED REASER
Times Staff Correspondent

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 8.—Before more than 500 Rotarians and Rotary Anns gathered about festive tables at the intercity banquet, held in the high school building here Tuesday night, Walter D. Cline, Wichita Falls, first vice president of Rotary International, extolled the objects, obligations, and the opportunity of Rotary.

The dominant factors of Mr. Cline's address were better progress, friendliness, interest, civic pride, in the individual Rotary clubs.

"Do things worth while for the benefit of mankind," declared Mr. Cline. "It is better to make a mistake occasionally than to be inactive, and never attempt to lighten the burden of a brother. Take pride in yourself, your club and your city. Build confidence. Take an interest in civic affairs. Be cheerful and greet your fellowmen with a smile. Radiate the spirit of Rotary, and keep its principles at all times."

In speaking of the various classifications of Rotary, Mr. Cline stated that it appeared to him that "the greatest classification in any Rotary club was that of a minister." Then the speaker urged that every man of Rotary be affiliated with some religious organization.

The program was opened with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, followed by the invocation by Rev. Clarence Hightower, then came the banquet, during which the Lawton High school orchestra played several popular selections. Dwight Wolfinger, Hobart, district governor, told of the international convention and told of each club's work in the Western Oklahoma district. A vocal duet by Misses Mabel and Marjorie Moll, with Mrs. Arno Lund, accompanist, was greatly enjoyed, as was a violin solo by Miss Mayo Pickle, accompanied by Miss Mira McClure; vocal duet by Miss Annette Barber and Carl Roberts, Miss McClure, accompanist, and a whistling solo by Miss Emma Davis. Miss Adeline Fox, accompanist.

Altus Wins Prize

Mat Kochler, secretary of the Lawton club, awarded the attendance prize to the Altus club, which had 69; Duncan was second with 59, and Wichita Falls third with 49. Walters had 26 at the meeting, Waurika 21, Mangum 17, Marlow 12, Chickasha 42, Hobart 12, Wilson 2 and Sentinel, the baby club of the district, 3.

The banquet was served by the women of the First Methodist church of Lawton. The high school girls were the waitresses. All were dressed in little aprons of crepe paper and wore dresses of black. The banquet, as well as the program, was carried out with promptness and precision.

Following adjournment the many visitors were escorted to the Midland hotel to dance as guests of the Lawton Rotary club.

The intercity meeting held here was the largest in attendance ever held in this district, and the honored guest, Watler D. Cline, gave one of the best addresses of any speaker that ever appeared at a Rotary meeting in this district. The Wichita Falls delegation was royally entertained during their stay in the city.

Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, spoke for a few minutes during the banquet and called attention to the Chicago Civic Opera company which is to be in Wichita Falls February 22 and March 1. The speaker invited the Rotarians to bring their friends to see the first grand opera ever brought to Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma. He promised a rare treat to those who attend the events.

SEEDLING 92 YEARS OLD BACK IN TEXAS

Furniture Sold Here Made From Walnut Seedling Taken to Oregon in 1835

The North Texas Furniture company recently sold a suite of furniture made from a Walnut seedling carried from Texas by Napoleon Rice in 1835. Mr. Rice was one of the pioneers of the Western territory, and planted the seedling on the banks of the Calapooya river at the foot of a mountain range near the town of Oakland, Douglas county, Oregon. Napoleon Rice must have been a lover of trees to go to the trouble of carrying a live plant, no doubt in one of the old covered wagons drawn by teams of oxen, over the rough tarils to Oregon.

For 92 years the tree stood as a monument to his energy and perserverance. The age of the tree, as given by the son of the man who planted it, was corroborated by the plainly marked growth rings when the tree was cut down.

Luxuriating in its transplanted location, the sapling grew rapidly and to immense size, its straight trunk solid to the center and presenting no flaws, in fact a perfect tree. The tree was cut into 12 logs and when received at the mill was found to be not only sound but free from all worm holes and bird pecks and from the stump to the top log it was of one uniform and beautiful figure, indeed a wonderfully marked tree.

The stump log measured 10 feet in length and 64 inches in diameter and when cut in the mill produced 55,000 feet of veneer of such a pleasing figure that the entire log was bought by the Hillenbrand industries to be used in furniture made by the American Furniture company and the Batesville Cabinet company.

The distinctive and artistic character of this pattern has been obtained by the use of veneers from this famous tree for the main panels. It will add more than ordinary interest to the possession of this suite to know the complete history of the woods used in its construction.

For Troubles due to Acid
INDIGESTION, ACID STOMACH, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, GASES, NAUSEA
When Pain Comes
Two hours after eating
What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.
One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.
Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.
"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

$3,000,000 INVESTED IN LEGS YEARLY

New York, N. Y.—To develop the symmetrical legs and twinkling toes that musical comedy demands, girls on the stage, or girls with stage aspirations are reported to spend $3,000,000 a year in New York alone.

Dorothy Wegman, "Follies" dancer.

To clothe the beautiful legs of stars and chorusses, another fortune is spent. Producers have been known to tear their hair over stocking bills, a night's high stepping being as hard on chiffon hosiery as a month of ordinary wear by the average girl.

In recent statements the producers report efforts to decrease stocking bills. They say they have discovered that if stockings are cleansed in Lux, they stay like new twice as long, give twice as many performances.

"I would use Lux if it cost $1.00 a box," Eddie Dowling, star and producer, remarked.

Now the wardrobe mistress of every musical comedy in New York uses Lux in cleansing the thousands of pairs of stockings worn by their chorusses—to get double stocking wear.

The makers of Lux say that the secret of the long wear of fabrics washed in Lux is the absolute purity of Lux, and its instant, rich suds that make rubbing unnecessary.

Harmful alkali (found in many soaps) and rubbing with cake soap, quickly wear out fabrics.

Gleaming silverware:
enter, the villain (hard water)

BRIGHT, gleaming silverware—one time. Not bright and gleaming now. It was washed in hard water. But the soap combined with the hard water to form a scummy ring around the basin. That water wouldn't cut the grease on the silverware!

Soft water would, though. And the hardest water can be made soft by adding Melo. Just a pinch or so—then watch the suds come! Grease can't resist that! Gleaming silverware? Yes, indeed! But use soft water. Try Melo.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Rhoda's China-blue eyes were as wide and eager with surprise as a child's. "Oh, tell me Nils! But of course anything you have done is right, I don't know anything about business!"

"Good girl!" Nils laughed huskily, as he drew her plump body close to his side. "It's a pleasure to be your guardian. The fact is, honey, I've taken an option on a big dairy farm between here and Darrow—the Sweet-Clover Dairy company's outfit. You know the place, I suppose, Mr. Hathaway?"

Bob nodded. "Fine property, but the buildings are rather dilapidated. They used to do the biggest business in the state."

Rhoda squealed with excitement. "You're selling our farm, Nils? Honest? You're going to live here? Oh, I'm so happy!"

"I thought you'd be pleased," Nils acknowledged. "She always hated our farm," he explained to Faith and Bob.

The girl's face fell. "You mean—I'll have to leave Mrs. Hathaway?" she faltered.

"I am flattered!" Nils pretended to be more indignant than he was. "What do you think I'm moving to this part of the country for, if not to be with my runaway sister?"

"You're moving here so Cherry will be willing to marry you," Rhoda retorted. "You knew she wouldn't go away off to Minnesota and bury herself on a farm."

"That's where you're wrong, young 'un'", Nils was saying to Rhoda. "I've been negotiating for the sale of our place and the purchase of Sweet-Clover farm since early in September, before I'd met Cherry. But I didn't try to influence her to take me by telling her that in all probability she'd be able to live within 20 miles of her home town and her family. I wanted her to care enough to live anywhere with me," he added stubbornly.

"I must say, Nils," Bob laughed ruefully, "that your courting tactics are fair-to-middling curious, to put it mildly. You seem to be daring Cherry to marry you, rather than asking her."

"Exactly," Nils grinned, but Faith noted that there was a white line of pain about his lips. "By the way, Mr. Hathaway, you are an architect—"

"Not at all by the way," Bob laughed. "I take myself pretty seriously as an architect."

"I hear you have just cause to," Nils answered gravely. "I've made inquiries. You said a while ago that the Sweet-Clover buildings are rather dilapidated. They're worse than that. I want to wreck the whole outfit and build a model dairy plant there, including a home. I'm going to Holland to study their methods, said to be the best in the world, but while I'm gone I'd like for the buildings to be under construction. I'd rather hoped to combine honeymooning and business," he added brusquely.

"Holland?" Bob's face lighted with pleasure. "I've got a book full of Dutch architecture. Like to see it? I use the sun parlor as an office for home work and study. Come along. My idea would be to have the house and barns—"

The door into the sun parlor closed on the two blonde young men and Faith closed her eyes to pray as she had never prayed in her life.

Next: Cherry blown in on a tempest.

Tweeds! Tweeds! Tweeds! The Daytime Uniform of Smartness

Tweed ostumes by Threes and Fours Attend Carolina Sports Events

It's been so long now since tweeds were bristly and harsh that the smart world has quite forgotten that it used to have a prejudice against them. That was seons ago, of course, before French weavers took over the grand old tweeds of England and gave them softness—the one quality they needed to make them the smartest of all informal fabrics!

Now you can't go to any smart place before three in the afternoon and not find tweeds by the dozen. Soft little dresses of lightweight tweeds. Tweed-trimmed sweaters. Tweed coats. A tweed-lined fur jacket worn over a tweed dress. And for spring—men wear tweeds light enough for dresses.

A Quartet That Favors Tweeds

In the picture above you see a group of smart women such as you're likely to meet right now at any of the warm-cool golf and riding resorts of the North Carolina mountains. Quite without premeditation they've all turned out in tweeds. And among them they tell the whole tweed fashion story.

In front you see the tweed coat worn over a sweater and woolen skirt. This is a logical combination and a smart one. There is an agreement between the textures of the tweed coat and the knitted wool of the sweater. And there is an informality to the tweed coat that makes it the best of all partners for this season's many smart winter outfits.

Just back of the sweater and skirt outfit in the picture there is this season's accepted tweed ensemble, its coat and trimmed skirt being of the same soft, small-patterned tweeds. And there is an informal little jersey blouse (sometimes a sweater) that is trimmed with the same tweed to link it with the ensemble and with this winter's mode for fabric-trimmed jerseys.

In the center of the picture there is the smartest of tweeds—the fur-lined tweed topcoat. Only the slim may attempt this, of course, because the fur-lined coat is only meant for the tall and narrow. For those who find the fur lining a bit too much for them there is the kasha or jersey lining, either of which is smart.

In the back of the picture there is the newest and most youthful of this season's tweed outfits—the tweed dress accompanied by the hip-length jacket of sports fur. The fur may be goatskin, or it may nutria or coney. And the point is that the dress must agree with the fur in color and the coat be lined with the tweed of the dress for smartness.

And there you have it. The four smartest versions of the present tweed mode, all met quite by accident in one smart little roadster. Is there anyone who still wonders whether America has said "yes" to the English vogue for tweeds!

Three-weight Tweeds for Spring

That there's tweed news for spring is certain. That there's tweed news for spring, the real tweed season, you may easily imagine. New patterns. New ideas in tweeds. And the arrival of transparent tweeds—the sheerest of smart sheer woolens.

That means three weights for many of the new tweeds: sheer for soft intricately-worked dresses; light-medium for tailored dresses; and medium weight for spring coats.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—A new major general of the national guard will be appointed with creation of the 41st division which takes its units from Montana, Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming.

Mrs. Parker Finds Much Interest in Grand Opera Here

Mrs. Lois Parker, who is covering the trade territory in the interest of the grand opera presentations to be made here February 29 and March 1, left for Abilene Tuesday night, expecting to go from there to Albany, Stamford and Haskell, being back in Wichita Falls Saturday morning, it is announced from grand opera headquarters.

Mrs. Parker reports enthusiastic receptions in the various towns she has visited, according to Harry Hines, general chairman. She has just returned from a trip to some Oklahoma cities, in all of which the most gratifying interest was shown, it is stated.

"At Altus the high school was dismissed early in the afternoon and the pupils all gathered in the auditorium, where I was given the most pleasing reception," Mrs. Parker said. "Plans are being made to charter a bus and a large number of the high school students will either come in it or in private cars. Out of a membership of 30 in the Altus Musical club, 25 are expecting to attend, the majority of them both nights.

"In Lawton the church where I appeared was attractively decorated with flowers and greenery for the occasion, and I spoke to a greatly interested and enthusiastic group of men and women," she stated.

Mrs. Parker declares that the greatest interest is being manifested in all of the territory which she has visited in the vicinity of Wichita Falls, and that large crowds from practically every town are making arrangements to attend one or both nights of the Chicago Civic Opera company's appearance here.

DEBUTANTES KEEP BUSY AT PALM BEACH'S POLLS

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8. (AP)—A socially prominent landslide today had swept Major Barclay H. Warburton into the mayor's chair here. The former Philadelphia publisher made no campaign and solicited no support, but the polls yesterday presented a scene of vigorous and locally unprecedented electioneering—accomplished mostly by the matrons and debutantes of the Elite Winter colony here.

Broadway Sets New Hair Vogue

"So many girls in my crowd are talking about the new way they're doing their hair, I just had to try it," says Miss Dorothy Connor, 727 Bergen street, Brooklyn, attractive secretary for a prominent New York City business man. "You've no idea how silky and gleaming it makes your hair. And I don't have to shampoo mine more than once a month, now. Dandering keeps it so clean. All you do is put a few dashes of it on your brush every time you use it. It makes your scalp feel just grand. Your hair is lots easier to dress, and it stays in place wonderfully."

You won't wonder at the overwhelming way millions of girls are showing their approval of Dandering, when you use it. It quickly removes that oily film from your hair, brings out its glorious color, gives it lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses, tones and stimulates your scalp. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl.

ZOË BECKLEY'S CORNER

The Middle of the Road.

"Dear Zoe: I don't like kissing—on short acquaintance. A certain young man asked me to kiss him goodnight, but I did not. He said he would ask again next time. Now how can I refuse and still not seem a prude? —DOT.

There is one way which almost never fails: Joke about it.

When the moment for the kiss arrives say with wide eyes and a seraphic expression, highly exaggerated, of course, for this is all comedy:

"Kiss you? Oh, I couldn't possibly! It's against all my highest, finest, noblest, purest and most idealistic principles. Shall I explain about it?"

He will gaze at you in amazement. But he will be decidedly interested.

"Explain about it?" he will say. "What's there to explain? I wanna kiss, that's all. Come on, gimme a kiss."

"I'd simply love to," you reply, with starry eyes and your most animated expression. "But you see, I can't because I've made it a rule only to kiss my Uncle Josiah, my Grandfather Grimpalmeyer and my third cousin Nathanial. When I've known you seven or eight years, I shall probably kh, you."

All this will reduce him to a pulp of mystification. He will be saying (to himself, of course): "Gosh—what a girl! Gee, how I'd like to kiss her. Wonder if she means all this guff? Somehow, something tells me she will kiss me next time—maybe—if—."

While he is fumbling around in his slow, masculine mind, trying to dope it all out, you are getting out your latch key and fitting it in the lock. With a dazzling smile and the demurest possible look, you whisk inside and peeping round the door, call out:

"Good night, Big Boy—you aren't mad, are you? You see I'm just bashful, that's all. It was a heavenly evening. See you soon. Good-night!"

Come Now, Somebody Answer!

"Dear Zoe: I am 17, good looking, and not a bad kid. I had a date with a fellow I like and he broke it. Are all men alike? Do they all think women are things to play with? Do you believe in waiting for the right one? How can you tell when you have the right one? What is love anyway?

—P. B. C."

Broken dates is a subject on which we are invariably eloquent.

Our contention is that a man or a girl who makes an engagement and breaks it for any other reason than being smashed in a motor accident, or put in jail, or having sudden death at home, should be dropped like a hot coal, and "left lay."

The very basis of good breeding is consideration for others. As for character—well, a person who has no respect for his promise is a pretty poor fish. All men are no more alike than all women are, or all dogs or horses.

There is good and bad in everything, from humans to hot chocolates. Do not cheapen yourself by putting up with people who respect you so little that they make and break dates with you as casually as throwing away old gloves.

Have we made ourself plain on the matter?

We most certainly believe in "waiting for the right one" so far as you are able to distinguish him. And there is indeed the rub. "They all look good when they're far away," as Rube Goldberg used to say. It is when you know them long and well that the flaws begin to show.

Occasionally we are attracted to people from the first instant so strongly that the impression lasts and deepens—and we find it is the real thing. But usually "love at sight" is a delusion and a snare. Try to see a man under all sorts of provocation: Anger, danger, rivalry, business problems, sickness, situations at home, etc. See how he behaves in emergencies. Size up his character.

When you have done all this and you think you love him and he shows every symptom of loving you, and the whole affair bears the test of time, then he's the right one. As for what love is, we will take a day off some day soon, and tackle that—for the millionth time!

TEAPOT INQUIRERS GAIN NOTHING NEW IN BOND TRAIL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Resuming its quest for the elusive Liberty bonds held by the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, the senate oil committee today turned to the story of how James E. O'Neil gave $500,000 of the securities to the Prairie Oil & Gas company after the Teapot Dome scandal broke.

O'Neil is a missing witness in the oil cases, but he formerly was president of the Prairie. Clark H. Kountz, vice president of the Prairie Pipe Line company, testified that O'Neil summoned him to Montreal in May, 1925, at which time the missing witness made restitution to the Prairie Oil & Gas company of the $500,000 in profits he had made out of the Continental transactions in buying oil from the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver, and selling it to the Prairie Oil company and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company.

The witness testified that he was private secretary to O'Neil for a number of years and it was on this account that the oil man gave him the order for the bonds, which then were in the possession of O'Neil's son, Wayne O'Neil.

Bonds Taken From Bank

"Where did you actually get the bonds?" inquired Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor.

"Out at his home at Garden City, L. I." Kountz replied.

"Where did he get the bonds?"

"Out of some bank there."

Kountz explained that O'Neil, in telling W. S. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil company, that he wanted that company to have the bonds, had requested that none of the coupons be cashed as long as Harry F. Sinclair was in difficulties with the federal government as a result of the Teapot Dome lease.

Earl W. Sinclair, brother of Harry F. Sinclair, and president of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company the parent Sinclair organization, told the committee that the sale of the Continental contract to the Prairie Oil and the Sinclair Crude for $100,000 had first been suggested to him by O'Neil.

Oil Sold at Profit

Under the Continental contract, drawn on the same day the Continental bought the oil for $1.50 a barrel, it was sold back to companies in which Robert W. Stewart, of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, Harry F. Sinclair, and others were interested for $1.75. The Crude bought the contract after delivery of a part of the oil.

"I told Mr. Crawley, (vice president of the Consolidated) to tell H. L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude, to come on to New York and get in touch with Mr. Osler (H. S. Osler, of Toronto, president of the Continental), about the matter.

Phillips negotiated the sale with Osler. At that time the contract still had a potential value of $5,000,000. Sinclair said he did not inquire as to how much oil had been delivered under the contract.

"What, if anything, do you know about the bonds purchased by the Continental?" asked Senator Walsh.

"Nothing."

"Did your company get any?"

"No, sir."

Company Owns Bonds

"Have you any Liberty bonds in the assets of your company?"

"Yes, sir, about $600,000."

"Do you know of any individual officer of your company who received any bonds?" inquired Chairman Nye.

"I do not. Certainly none of the bonds the company has now are Continental bonds."

C. E. Crawley, vice president of the Sinclair Consolidated, testified that he had told Phillips to get in touch with representatives of the Continental Trading company about the purchase of the oil sale contract.

"But Mr. Phillips told us he did not see any of the officers of the Continental," Senator Walsh said.

"I do not know what Mr. Phillips testified to, Senator, but that is what happened," Crawley replied.

After hearing these three witnesses, the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. Senator Nye said there would be some executive meetings during the week, but after that there probably would be no more public sessions until next week.

STEWART CONTEMPT CASE ON SHELF FOR DECISION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—With the Stewart contempt case temporarily out of focus pending a judicial decision, the senate Teapot Dome committee held the stage center today with only faint trails in prospect to lead it to the information it seeks—what became of the profits of the Continental company.

The one witness from whom the committee had hoped to get that information, Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, was further removed from the committee's jurisdiction en route to Chicago until he is needed here again. He left for home after Justice Jennings Bailey in District of Columbia supreme court took under advisement the senate's request that he return Stewart to it so that he may be sentenced for contempt for refusing to tell whether he knows anything about the Continental company's Liberty bond transactions.

The justice's decision may not come for a month, counsel for both the senate and Stewart being given nearly two weeks in which to file briefs supporting their arguments for and against the habeas corpus writ by which Stewart had lifted his arrest by the senate.

ROCKEFELLER INSTRUCTED STEWART TO "TELL ALL"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, appeared before the senate Teapot Dome committee by direction of John D. Rockefeller Jr., it was disclosed today in correspondence made public by the committee.

Regret that Stewart did not answer all questions put to him by the committee was expressed by Rockefeller in a letter to Senator Walsh, of Montana, prosecutor of the inquiry, under date of February 3, the day the senate ordered the arrest of Stewart who subsequently obtained his liberty on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Before the Standard of Indiana official returned here from Havana, Rockefeller wrote him that the situation with respect to the Continental Trading company's Liberty bonds had reached such a stage that "nothing short of the fullest and most complete statement of all the facts" relating to the company "can clear the skirts of those who, like yourself, had had no improper connections with the transactions in question, and remove the cloud of suspicion which hangs over the entire oil industry."

This letter was dated January 21 and was addressed to Stewart at his office in Chicago. It was supplemented by a telegram which Rockefeller sent the Chicago oil executive on January 26.

"To yourself, associates, stockholders and public you owe fullest immediate cooperation in clearing up situation," the telegram said. "No desire to protect others justifies withholding the slightest fact.

"Vigorously urge your immediate appearance before senate committee to tell all you know about the matter. Unwilling to believe morning papers' statement you have declined to appear until complete business engagements. No duty to company or stockholders comparable to your immediate appearance. Only such action will justify confidence your friends and business associates have in you."

CASE REVERSED ON FAILURE OF STATE TO PROVE SANITY

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—Failure of the trial court to put the burden of proof of sanity on the state led the court of criminal appeals Wednesday to reverse and remand to Denton county the 11-year murder conviction of Gordon Davidson, carpenter, who had been in an insane asylum many years before the killing of V. D. Smith, fellow carpenter.

The trial judge instead had put the burden on Davidson to prove himself still insane. Smith was shot to death in October, 1926, on the old Fort Worth-Denton road while they were returning from a visit to Fort Worth to get some whiskey.

The fact that the asylum had discharged Davidson as sane in 1924 did not entirely relieve the state of the burden of proving him still sane the court held in effect.

The program closed with a musical reading by Miss Edna Mae Boyd, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Gayle Park.

The pledge service for the Iowa Park auxiliary followed. Talks were made by the presidents of the Stringtown and Valley View auxiliaries, followed by prayer, led by Mrs. J. C. Murphree. A social hour was enjoyed, at which time refreshments were served to about 75 guests.

HIGHER COURT GRANTS TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S WRIT OF ERROR PLEA

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Western Union Telegraph company's plea for writ of error from the third civil appeals court's action awarding $500 damages to Oscar Eckhardt, baseball player and former star University of Texas athlete, was granted Wednesday by the supreme court.

Eckhardt, whose district court judgment was affirmed by appellate action, claims the company, through poor delivery of a message prevented his accepting a proffered contract with the Cleveland, American league baseball team.

COMMUNITY CHEST FUND FOR CURRENT EXPENSES APPORTIONED TUESDAY

OPTIMISTS OF FT. WORTH GIVE PEPPY PROGRAM

Entertainment par excellence, as good as any ever seen in Wichita Falls, made the Optimist luncheon Wednesday noon one of the largest and best in several months. The program was given by the Fort Worth Optimist club members who were returning the visit paid them by Wichita Falls Optimists not long ago.

Wylbert Brown, whose classification was described as "fiddling for a living," must make a pretty good living if it is meted out according to his ability. Brown, dressed as a "hick," got the biggest laughs and the most fun out of the crowd with his clever stories and trick fiddling. From "Pop Goes the Weasel" to "Lay My Head Beneath the Rose," his part of the program was appreciated.

"Doc" E. M. Ladd entertained with a humorous talk which included jokes on several of the Fort Worth crowd, especially Jesse Martin, and was answered in a snappy rebuttal by Martin himself.

Wichita Falls, with its "singing mayor," has nothing on Fort Worth now, it is claimed, with their "singing district attorney" and District Attorney Jesse Martin proved the truth of the statement with a song, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Judge Walter Caldwell was in charge of the program.

After the luncheon, the visitors were taken for a drive over the city. The Fort Worth group included the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Dreer, and Messrs. Jesse E. Martin, Chas. Cotton, L. W. Rowland, T. B. Galloway, F. L. Motherol, L. H. Parrish, Charles Fleming, J. C. Duvall, K. S. Iches, R. A. Gardner, R. T. Welborn, Wylbert Brown, J. C. Ridgway, R. F. Garrett, W. H. Newton, I. F. Cornelson, J. M. Ware.

Committee of 15 To Welcome New Merchants Here

A reception or glad hand committee of 15 members to meet and welcome new merchants and business men who move to Wichita Falls will be created as a new feature of the chamber of commerce, it was voted at a meeting of committee chairmen of the manufacturers and jobbers division in the directors room Wednesday morning.

This committee will be appointed in the near future by R. E. Penick, chairman of the division.

A meeting of the trade extension committee was called for 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to discuss further plans for the trip to Houston for the christening of the "City of Wichita Falls."

The better business relations committee decided to entertain merchants of Waurika with a dinner about the middle of March. Definite plans for this affair will be made within the next 10 days.

The advertising committee reported that active work was being planned and would be started soon.

MANY RESERVATIONS MADE FOR REALTORS BANQUET THURSDAY

Plans for the annual realtor-property owner banquet which is to be held Thursday, February 9, at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, have all been completed and from reservations already made, indications are that a large number of property owners and their wives and friends will attend.

Joe the colored janitor who is starring in the play "Romance of Real Estate," expects to say something about the city manager plan which the citizens of Wichita Falls are advocating for the local city government. Joe having been in the family for more than two decades, assumes not only to run the business of his boss, but is a self-appointed leader in politics.

It is reported that a big deal running into thousands of dollars will be consummated at the banquet.

W. A. Thomas, chairman of the speakers' bureau, city plan, Dallas, is expected to arrive in the city Thursday morning, and in his address at the banquet will likely touch upon the city plan situation. A splendid program has been arranged. Those desiring to attend the banquet may do so by getting in touch with Alfred H. Harris, secretary of the local board, telephone 4117.

Scene of Legal Fight Over $150,000 Claim for Work on Local Irrigation Project Shifted to 78th Court Here

The battle ground of a legal fight involving a claim now totaling nearly $200,000 and growing out of certain construction work in connection with the development of the Wichita irrigation project was definitely shifted Tuesday afternoon from Dallas to Wichita county.

The transfer was completed with the receipt by Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk here, of voluminous records and documents in the case, which were immediately filed in the 78th district court, where the matter now pends for trial. Judge W. W. Cook presides over the court.

The case originally was filed in the 65th district court in Dallas, and was transferred to Wichita county by order of the court of civil appeals. The district court, after refusing to order the transfer, was reversed by the higher body.

The litigation began with the filing more than four years ago on behalf of the W. E. Callahan Construction company of Dallas of an action naming more than 50 defendants, among which were the B. F. and C. M. Davis company, contractors, and the Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1. For the Callahan company it was alleged that the B. F. and C. M. Davis company had failed to carry out satisfactorily a contract to build certain very large works in connection with the creation of the irrigation district. The Davis company, by way of answer, filed a cross action asking judgment against the Callahan company of $150,000, with interest at 6 per cent from late in 1922.

The Callahan company petitioned avers that on November 29, 1921, it was awarded the contract to construct the irrigation system in Wichita and Archer counties, and that at a later date, it in turn let a subcontract to the Davis company to do certain work on various units, including the storage dam at Lake Kemp, the service spillway at the storage dam, the diversion dam spillway, the headgates at the diversion dam, and numerous culverts, bridges and canals.

Cross-Action in Reply

The contract, it is further alleged, stipulated that it could be taken over from the Davis company in the event that unsatisfactory progress should be made on the work. In accordance with that stipulation, the petition further continues, the contract was taken over in September, 1922. Following that action, according to the Callahan company allegations, garnishment proceedings were brought on numerous alleged claims against the Davis company designed to secure possession of sums of money allegedly due the Davis company from the Callahan company. The Callahan company petition set out that the company held approximately $25,000 which it desired to transfer to the Davis company, but was prevented from so doing by the various garnishment proceedings. The garnishment proceedings, it was alleged, had caused unwarranted interference with the Callahan company and injunctions were asked as relief.

The Davis company replied to the petition in a cross-action which alleged that the Callahan company attempted to make such changes in works the Davis company originally contracted to do as to make them virtually new structures much more costly than those called for in the original plans. The Davis company, the cross-action continues, followed the altered plans until September, 1922, when the contract was taken over.

The petition claims that compensation earned for work up to that date amounted to $228,465, of which $185,086 was paid. The sum of $150,000 sued for, it is alleged, represents compensation still due only from work actually done.

NOTED TRIO TO SPEAK AT BAR BANQUET HERE

Three of the outstanding figures in the legal affairs of the state have accepted invitations to speak at the annual banquet of the Wichita County Bar association, to be held on the night of February 25 at the Wichita club, according to announcement Wednesday of W. E. Fitzgerald, president of the association.

Judge Nelson Phillips of Dallas, formerly a supreme court judge of Texas, Calude Pollard, present attorney general, and Judge J. C. Wilson of the federal court for the northern district of Texas, are those who have consented to be guests.

The banquet, it was predicted, will be the biggest in the history of the bar association. Many of the program details, however, must yet be worked out.

COURT OPINION HOLDS YATES OIL SUIT MUST BE TRIED IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—The second of two state suits filed by Governor Dan Moody when he was attorney general attacking constitutionality of the mineral relinquishment act, must be tried in Travis county district court as the result of a ruling of the third court of civil appeals, Wednesday.

The court denied the plea of I. G. Yates, Pecos, and others for trial in their home counties, affirming the district court ruling that the case must be tried here. No further appeal can be taken. The state sued Yates and the oil operators to whom he leased land bought from the state, for recovery of profits accruing to them under the relinquishment act which purports to give patentees of state land fifteen-sixteenths of the oil and mineral rights.

DORAN INTIMATES GORE SLATED FOR TEXAS DRY CHIEF

Special to the Times.

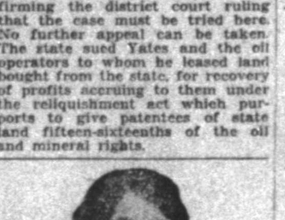

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Officials of the treasury department today admitted that selection of the prohibition administrator for Texas will be determined within the next two days, and indicated that it is probable Frank H. Gore, business agent for the veterans bureau hospital at Kerrville, will be chosen. It is known that Gore was one of the two men from that district certified as eligible, and Commissioner Doran, while declining to reveal the identity of the other, said he had been eliminated. In the event Gore is not chosen it will be necessary to have a re-examination for the position.

ONLY FOUR VOTES CAST AGAINST REFUNDING OF BONDS AT BURKBURNETT

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 8.—Voting in the city election for refunding bonds in the amount of $225,000 was light. A total of 45 votes were cast with four votes against the issue.

These bonds were voted to retire the present bond issues which fall due each year in amounts too large to retire with the present revenue.

These bonds were issued several years ago, and this change in financing their payments is considered a wise move, owing to the financial changes generally in this section.

MAYBE WE WON'T NEED TO IMPORT

It may prove expedient, if Wichita Falls adopts the city manager plan, to import some one for the job. It may develop that there is no one in Wichita Falls available for the task, and that it will be necessary to bring in someone from the outside. But we don't like to see it taken for granted, in advance, that this will be necessary. If city-managerial material exists among Wichita Falls citizens, we should make use of it, and we should be sure that it doesn't exist before looking elsewhere.

The idea that it is best to have an imported product is based on a belief that such a city manager would be untrammeled, that he would have no friends to favor, no personal contacts formed, no personal interests to promote. That might be true of an outside man, at the start, but it would not be true for very long. Human nature doesn't run that way. Soon enough, such a manager would have his friends, would be aligned with this group or that, and would cease to have the unbiased viewpoints that he had to begin with.

If some Wichita Falls man, of probity, of business ability, of, perhaps, some experience in public affairs, can be found to take the job, we hope that method of filling it will be tried first. We believe that familiarity with local conditions and local needs would make such a one more valuable than anyone we could find outside.

THE UNIVERSITY'S BUILDING PROGRAM

An institution that needs an $8,000,000 addition to its plant, that has $8,000,000 in its cash box, but which can't either use the money that it has, nor use its credit to finance the improvements—such is the University of Texas, just now. The owners of a business institution in such an anomalous predicament would be disgusted, or fighting mad, over that kind of a situation; in either event, they would take immediate steps to correct it.

If the university spends only the income from its bonds, and continues to grow as it has grown, it will be in the strange situation of being at the same time one of the richest educational institutions in the country, and one of the poorest in point of equipment. The $8,000,000 building program, we are told, represents one of the immediate and urgent needs; it will not do a great deal more than eliminate the campus shacks.

The university's hands must be untied to spend the money it has, or steps must be taken to limit its student body. It must be allowed to grow, or its growth artificially checked.

ONE OF THOSE "BOO" YEARS

Does business have to be "off" in presidential election years? A writer in the Magazine of Business thinks this notion is a bugaboo that it is time to discard.

"Along about February, once every four years," he writes, "it has been our habit in America for a hundred years or more to unlock the alibi clothespress and take out the faithful old ghost mantle labelled 'Presidential-Year Bugaboo' and slip it over our heads and go about saying 'boo' to each other.

"Merchants said 'boo' to manufacturers. Manufacturers said 'boo' to the producers of raw materials and to their fellow manufacturers. Employers said 'boo' to their workers and the workers said 'boo' to the grocery man and the butcher. And so it went, round in a circle. Everybody said 'Boo! This is a presidential year.'

"Now, there are always plenty of factors to make business sag a bit without scaring it to death, but the curious fact is, that of the last 10 presidential election years, covering a period of 40 years, in spite of all the booing everybody could do, in six of these years business refused to sag from any cause for any considerable period, and in the other four years what sagging there was happens to have been due largely to deep-seated economic causes rather than to presidential politics, with the possible exception of 1896, when business actually did get a little frightened over 'free silver.'"

The presidential year bugaboo is just one of those habits that we've gotten into. This will be a good year to shake it off.

THE LINE SHOULD BE DRAWN

The test of a Democrat, in the form of his pledge to support his party's nominees, has more than usual significance this year. There have been a number of nominal Democrats who have hinted pretty broadly that if someone unacceptable to them is nominated, they will desert the party. Others have made the unequivocal declaration of such intent.

It's their privilege. If they place prohibition, opposition to Tammany or opposition to Catholicism above their Democratic privileges, no one can question their right to do so. But their right to be something else first, and Democrats second, and then come into a Democratic convention or primary and attempt to have a voice in the party's councils, can be challenged, and should be. They are under no obligations to enter the party's conventions or primaries, but if they do enter they assume the obligation to abide by the results.

One candidate for United States senator, in Texas, has said that he will not support Al Smith if the latter is nominated. Thomas B. Love, who aspires to leadership of the party in Texas, has intimated that he will do likewise, bolting his party's ticket being no new experience for him. We do not see how either can claim to be a Democrat. There is no room in the party for those who take the pledge with reservations. If they place other ideas above those of their party, their duty, if they would be consistent, is to form new parties in which their ideas may dominate.

It is to be hoped that the state executive committee will take steps to deal with such question-mark Democrats. It isn't a matter of being for or against any one candidate. It's a matter of drawing the party lines so that they include only those who are Democrats first.

CAN CITIES BE TOO BIG?

And now they are predicting that Chicago, in the near future, will be a city with a radius of 150 miles from the center of its downtown district to the city limits.

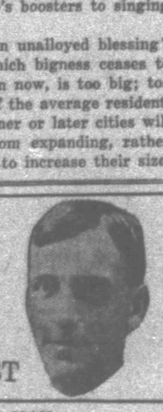

This implies a tremendous amount of growth, and doubtless has set Chicago's boosters to singing roundelays at a great rate.

But will it, after all, be an unalloyed blessing? Isn't there a limit beyond which bigness ceases to be desirable? New York, even now, is too big; too big, that is, for the comfort of the average resident.

It is just possible that sooner or later cities will try to find ways to keep from expanding, rather than doing all in their power to increase their size.

JUST FOLKS

—By—
EDGAR A. GUEST

THE MISSING MAN.

There was a man I once knew well,
Who had no stocks and bonds to sell;
No subdivided acres which
In seven years would make me rich;
No sets of books to fill my mind
With knowledge of the deeper kind;
No self-improvement courses in
The mystery of how to win,
Whene'er he called it was to say:
"Well, how are all your folks today?"

I wonder where this man has flown?
I wish he'd make his presence known,
Whene'er he came to visit me,
He asked no gift for charity,
He never asked me to subscribe
To funds to feed an Indian tribe
Or carry on deep sea research
Or lift the mortgage on his church.
Whene'er he called it was to chat
In fellowship of this and that.

I watch to see him pass my door,
But unto me he comes no more,
For every caller now I find
Has dotted lines he wishes signed
Oh, good old friend, I fancy you
Suspect that I have work to do,
And that is why you stay away,
But come again to me, I pray
That I may say: "Well, after all,
One man still pays a friendly call."

Maxims of Marmaduke

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine

For several years Charles Edward Jerningham contributed to Truth, an English periodical, under the pen name of Marmaduke.

He had a rare gift of succinct statement.

A few years ago a collection of his casual essays and crystalline epigrams was published under the title of The Maxims of Marmaduke. The other day I came upon this volume in a second-hand book store and, while motoring across a corner of Iowa on a January afternoon, I noted these suggestive entries:

"It is not the mischievous that do the most harm; it is the mistaken."

"Taste is the sense of the appropriate."

"Tact is the sense of the opportune."

"It is a sign of mediocrity to have settled opinions on unsettled subjects."

"The fool succeeds where the wise man fails—for the former generally has the courage of his folly; the latter, the fear of his wisdom."

"The tyranny of the strong is being replaced by the tyranny of the weak; the latter threatens to be the worse of the two."

"It is a poor triumph that has none to share it; a great grief that has none to halve it."

"It is almost everything to have the courage of our opportunities."

"If you want poetry, look for it in the prosaic, in those who feel that which they cannot express, not in those who express that which they do not feel."

"At the bottom of it, it is not more comfort we strive for, but more consideration."

Most of the literature of aphorism and maxim is distressingly artificial, cute rather creative; and yet there is no book quite so satisfying for a train journey as a book of aphorisms or maxims, provided there is a germinal quality in the sentences.

For a train journey, the ideal book is small and not too sustained, packed with brilliantly brief sentences that start something in the reader's mind, so that five minutes of reading can be followed by thirty minutes of thinking.

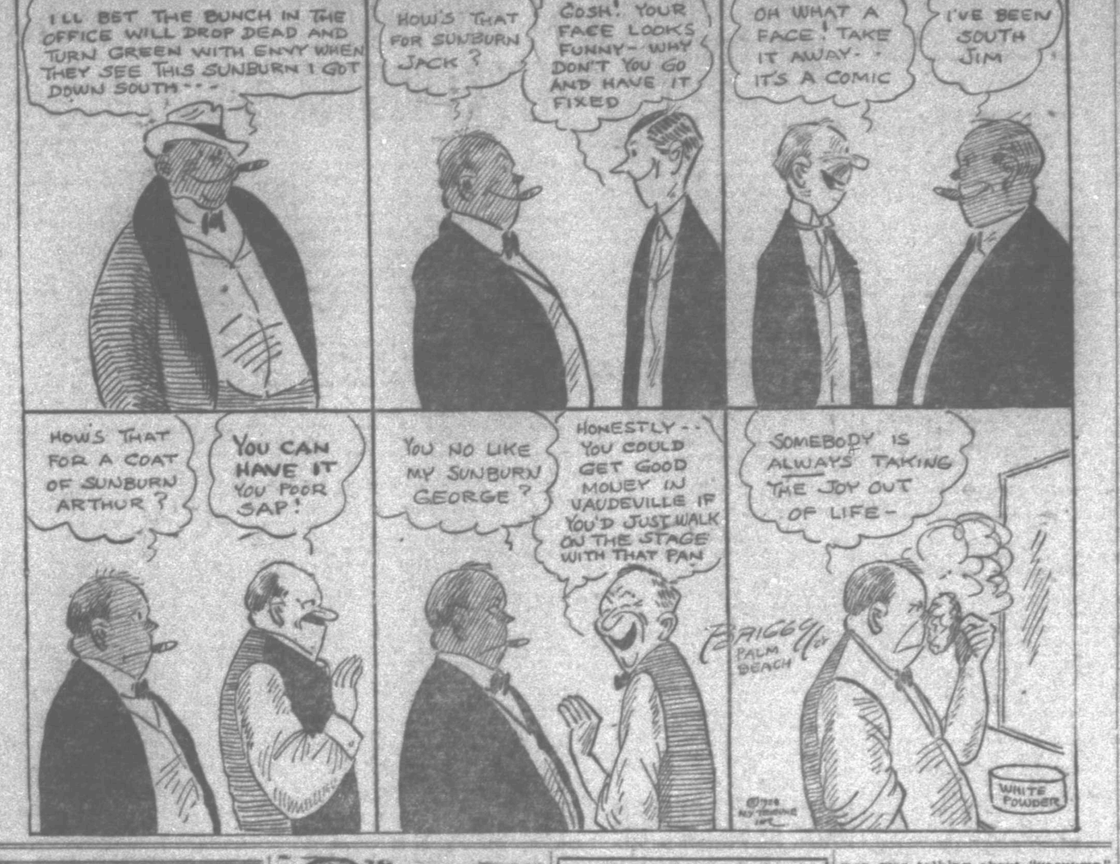

There is a day of good raw material for reflection in the ten sentences I have quoted from Jerningham.

Here are a few books of aphorisms and maxims and brief discussions that I suggest for your bag when you next go on a journey:

The Maxims of Marmaduke.
The Pensees of Joubert.
The Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius.
Gracian's The Art of Worldly Wisdom.

Your Boy's Teacher.

When Hal Flood Byrd was a boy of 16 he was called on to recite. The teacher asked two questions:

"What was the name of the sixth wife of Henry VIII?

"What was the date of the battle of Marston Moor?"

Hal Byrd threw down his papers and walked out.

"What difference does it make?" he flung over his shoulder.

Byrd's father ordered him to return and he refused. "I am not learning anything that is worth while," said he. "Just a lot of useless things."

Now he is governor of Virginia. In his single term the constitution of the state has been made over into a workable modern document. The county governments have been relieved of the rule of political oligrachy. Taxes have been reduced and yet 5000 miles of good roads have been built without a penny of bonded indebtedness.

Could he have done these things if his young years had been wasted on irrelevancies? If he had been taught to parrot memories? Work in a printing office taught him to think.

George Bernard Shaw declares his schooling was a success because he defied his teachers and refused to clutter his brain with useless lumber.

Two years ago my neighbor's son was the despair of his parents. He failed in every study. He was idle and careless and "dumb." Then he was sent to a different school.

Last year he stood first in every class but one and second in that. He frightens his elders by his enthusiasm over plane geometry. He knows no dates but he has a sound comprehension of American history.

His teachers have taught him to think.

I never have any part in a presidential campaign except to be amused by it. Therefore I hope Gov. Al Smith of New York will be the Democratic candidate, for he will surely add unusual interest. A Texas editor told me recently that in his town—there are no Republicans in Texas—a Methodist preacher said in his pulpit that if Al Smith, a Catholic, should be nominated by the Democrats, he would vote for the Republican. Whereupon the people in the audience arose to their feet and cheered five minutes.—Ed Howe's column.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

They tell me that real good mothers don't fret about their kids like they used to. The doctors and nurses have been training the girls to take the baby kinda easy and not be jumping up and catching cold all night to see what he's bawling about. Lots of the women is catching on great.

An old-fashioned mother come in to visit a new-fashioned one that had a new kid, only five or six weeks old.

"My goodness!" said the old-fashioned one, "I can't stand it to hear the poor little thing howl that way in his bed! He must be in pain."

"Nope! I'm not going to bother with him. He's just a lazy kid, and I'm not going to raise a lazy son if I can help it."

"But he must be hurting, to howl like that."

"Nope. He's just lying on a pin, and he's too lazy to roll over."

20 Years Ago TODAY

From the Files of THE WICHITA DAILY TIMES

February 8, 1908.

District Attorney F. A. Martin left this afternoon for Fort Worth.

The new secretary for the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, Walt Smith, and several other members made a canvass yesterday which brought the membership of the organization up to 225.

The canvass will be resumed next week and will not be stopped until fully 300 members have been enrolled.

Mr. Staniforth, a Gainesville man, arrived here yesterday and is prospecting for a location for a pressed brick and tile plant.

Last night a few of our leading business men met Mr. Staniforth at the local stock company for the purpose of manufacturing brick and tiling.

In company with Mr. C. W. Bean, Mr. Staniforth is today making an investigation of the brick clay in and around Wichita Falls, and if he concludes the clay to be found here is suitable for his purpose, the company will be organized.

Some time ago a quantity of clay which abounds in this locality was sent to a brick manufacturing concern in an eastern state and an excellent quality of brick was manufactured from it. This brick is pronounced by experts to be as good as any made in this section of Texas.

A Boy and the Man

The boy had been very good—almost too good. Short pants, starched turned-down-and-over collar, flowing bow tie and with no mark less than 95 he had graduated from a grammar school! A teacher's pet.

The boy was very bad—almost too bad. Long pants, stand-up collar, brilliant four-in-hand and no marks higher than 65: A teacher's nuisance.

The change from grammar to high school was great and the burden he carried was greater; forty extra pounds, six added inches, a thousand dreams a day of things to do and to be and a thousand and two contemptible acts a day to offset his dreams. The boy was sliding fast.

Into the picture comes a man. Tall, twinkly-eyed, and bristling with everyday knowledge. Ostensibly a teacher of science, but in reality a teacher of boys. He pitfled no trenchments. The man merely taught well. The laboratory had little apparatus and so he made some. The cases had few specimens and he walked the fields for them. The pupils had few brains and he set about to help them to acquire more.

The boy woke up. He reduced his tricks to a thousand less two a day and kept his thousand a day of dreams. Here was a man! One good teacher out of seven. One who did not rant or scold. One who was patience personified, learning definitized and soul glorified. What he did not know, so the boy thought, was not worth knowing, and as the man knew everything, there was no limit to which the boy did not strive.

Against the wall of the science room a mouse was running. The man was talking about "vacuums." He claimed to have one under glass on the plate of the air pump. The boy knew he had more in front of him. "How do we know there is a vacuum in the space?" No answer. "Come now, boys, just think." A few feeble attempts to answer. "Would an animal be able to live in a vacuum?" . . . A wild spring and the boy had the mouse by the tail saying: "Here he is, let's try it."

A glorious chance for expulsion of the boy. A glorious chance for the man. He took it. And the way he took it made him that day the greatest teacher that the boy ever supposed could exist this side of heaven.

Attitudes were reversed. Dreams were overtaking tricks at the rate of two a day. A dormant soul had been touched by the Divine Fire. The boy must become a teacher like this man.

Years pass. The man called elsewhere to develop a new idea in education takes the boy with him as his first assistant. And there we will leave him.

Today, this boy was in the mirror when the snow-tinged hair was parted.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER

Deep Thinker

If parents do not want their children to have ideas different from their own why are they educating them?—GIRL OF SEVENTEEN.

Answer.—A penetrating question my young friend. The purpose of education is to prepare youth to meet adequately the problems of life as they arise. The problems you will have to meet are different from the problems your parents had to meet.

I do not believe that going to school will necessarily give you the ability to solve every problem which faces you throughout life. You will find that your early home training; the influence of the church; of the community, and your father and mothers judgment, sympathy and understanding will have a very great bearing on your future interpretation of life. Wise parents do expect their children to have improved ideas—notice I said improved ideas. Different ideas may not necessarily be an improvement. The ideas of your parents on conduct may be superior to your own.

Silly Ass

My little freshman high school daughter gets along beautifully with grown-ups and with younger children, but she seems lost with those of her own age. She has been out of school a good deal, is very fond of music, health is not very good, but her marks are excellent. How can she become more popular.—WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer.—From grown-ups she learns. To younger folks she can give. Those of her own age mean a "give and take" proposition.

I should watch that I might discover a classmate toward whom your daughter somewhat leans, then I should invite this girl to the house. Provide interesting entertainment, giving the two girls a chance to do things which will bring them together. Expect, of course, to have the invitation reciprocated.

Let the girl start in easily in her campaign for popularity. In the generally accepted sense of the word she may never be "popular" because she may never be of the gang. I have an idea that she is, at least at present, not interested in the average silly gigs of her classmates. You understand I mean no offense to the "gang" because we all go through a silly age, some of us almost indefinitely.

LAFOLLETTE POINTS THUMB AT COOLIDGE THIRD TERM HOPES

WISCONSIN SENATOR WINS SENATE'S ATTENTION TO RESOLUTION

DEBATE ON ANTI-THIRD TERM PROPOSAL TODAY

Borah Wants Future Inmates of White House Limited to One Six-Year Term

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The third term issue, with particular reference to President Coolidge, stood flat-footed on the senate floor today, demanding attention and inspiring political crystal-gazing encompassing both present and future.

Described by some Republican soothsayers as the "third term bugaboo," the question held the right-of-way beginning at 2 o'clock in the form of a resolution by Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, declaring that departure from the "precedent established by Washington and other presidents" of retiring after the second term would be "fraught with peril to our free institutions."

Brought unexpectedly before the senate with Senator LaFollette's statement that he wanted the resolution adopted because an effort is being made to "draft" President Coolidge, it was opposed today by a counter resolution that would sidetrack it to the judiciary committee. A vote on that resolution, by Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, was set for 2 o'clock, and was calculated to bring to light the division of senators that may be expected on the LaFollette proposal itself.

Senator Bingham was one of the administration champions who led the fight against the resolution, which would put the senate on record as commending "observance of this precedent by the president." He was joined by Senator Pepper, Republican, Ohio, in declaring that the resolution if given the force of law would make it "impossible or difficult" for the Republican party to reelect Mr. Coolidge this year or in 1932.

The debate brought out contentions that President Coolidge cannot be considered as having served two terms, because he completed the unexpired term of President Harding before being elected president in his own right, and also the argument that the resolution could have no bearing on him because of his announced decision not to be a candidate.

Senator Fess and Senator Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, agreed that another term for Coolidge would not be his third, while Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, attacking the third term idea, said President Coolidge would have been defeated if he had decided to run again on that issue.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, believed public sentiment was opposed to third terms and he proposed a constitutional amendment restricting the term of office in the White House to six or eight years.

AUTOMOBILE CAPTURED WITH $3000 IN MONEY IN NEW ORLEANS HOLDUP

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8. (AP)—An automobile bringing $3,000 to the city from the Saint Claude Inn, a Saint Bernard parish club, was attacked and captured as it entered the downtown district here early today by six bandits after they had engaged four occupants of an escort automobile in a stiff gun battle, in which many shots were fired. None was injured in the firing.

In addition to taking the money, Clarence Williams, driver of the bank roll car said he was rapped over the head with a pistol and relieved of a $500 diamond ring while $110 was taken from Roy Hanold, Williams companion, before they were thrown from the speeding machine.

R. T. Carson, proprietor of the inn and three employes were following the car driven by Williams in the escort machine. Carson said the bandits squeezed between them as they passed an intersection and opened fire on the escorts forcing them to retire. The bandits boarded the leading car after forcing them to the curb.

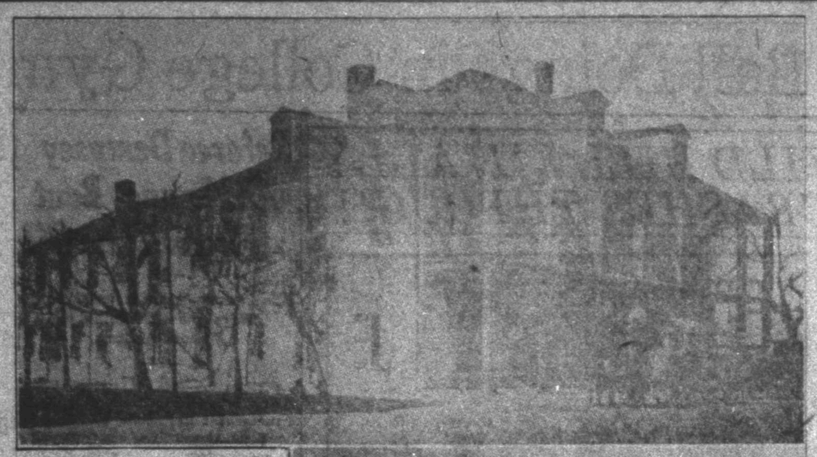

The automobile used by the bandits was riddled with bullets fired by the escorts. It was identified as the property of Mrs. Leon Bloch, which was stolen earlier in the evening.

CONVENTION CITY SCENE OF EARLY TEXAS HISTORY

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 8. — Few Texans and a comparatively small number of people in other sections of the United States know that the headquarters selected by the leading candidates for nomination at the national Democratic convention, here in June, the Rice hotel, stands on the same site where the early affairs of the Republic of Texas were directed.

On the same spot of ground where the Democratic candidates are to direct their fights for nomination in 1928, the destinies of the infant Texas republic, now the largest and one of the most solid Democratic states in the Union, were formulated. For on this the capitol of the republic once stood, from the memorable day in 1836, when General Sam Houston with a mere handful of volunteer troops routed the large Mexican army at the battle of San Jacinto and captured Santa Anna, general of the Mexican army and president of the nation, until the capitol was removed to Austin four years later.

From March 2nd, 1835, when the Texans declared their independence until a few days before the battle of San Jacinto, Harrisburg, now a part of Houston, was the capitol. Santa Anna burned this town in his march to the gulf, the capitol building being razed and the records of the republic destroyed.

Soon after the battle another capital was built on the site where the Rice hotel now stands and during the next four years General Sam Houston, then president of the republic, directed the affairs of the infant republic.

MISUSE OF POLICE IN COAL MINE WAR CHARGED BY SOLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Declaring that "police in the employ of coal companies" were terrorizing and assaulting the striking coal miners of Western Pennsylvania, Representative Casey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, in a speech today in the house, laid chief responsibility upon the Pittsburgh Coal company.

Speaking in support of his resolution seeking congressional investigation of conditions in the coal industry in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia, Mr. Casey said the police are commissioned by the state but are hired and paid by the coal companies who direct their activities. He charged that the police are carrying on a vicious campaign for the destruction of the United Mine Workers of America and lowering of wages of the miners.

"No matter from what angle one approaches the situation, they sooner or later arrive on the doorstep of the Pittsburgh Coal company, the Mellon company," he said.

Mr. Casey said he had 218 affidavits of men and women assaulted by "coal and iron police." He asserted that there is "frightful destitution and starvation in the coal fields as a result of the wage cutting and union-busting campaign of the coal companies."

Germans Protest Displaying Film Of Edith Cavell

BERLIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—The German government is making protests against the showing of a motion picture built on the career and execution of the English nurse, Edith Cavell.

The foreign office today issued this statement:

"The German ambassador at London and the German minister at Brussels are making all efforts to prevent the purse Cavell film being shown to the public; their standpoint being such a film can only revive painful memories and embitter relations between the countries.

The film version of Edith Cavell's execution differs from the German official account.

The official account contains nothing about a German officer in Belgium having shot her to death with his revolver or about a German soldier in the firing squad having refused to obey the order to fire.

Shows Texas Children How To Get Strong

This is little Pauline Gardner, who has lived most of her eight years at 1429 Burnett street, San Antonio. She's the happiest, huskiest little thing you ever saw, not to be a "tomboy." She never is absent from school or Sunday school, now, and she's always at the top of her classes.

Her mother says: "Pauline wasn't always rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and strong like you see her now. When she was about two years old, we had a lot of trouble with her. Her stomach and bowels seemed to be weak. She suffered a lot from constipation and biliousness. She was fretful and peevish most of the time; her breath was bad and her tongue was coated.

"Nothing we gave her seemed to do any real good until we found California Fig Syrup. It stopped her trouble quick. We kept on giving it to her for four or five days and at the end of that time she was just fine, and had started picking up weight. Since then I have used California Fig Syrup with all my children. It's simply splendid."

California Fig Syrup quickly cleans all the souring mass out of your child's stomach and bowels, and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Children like its rich, fruity taste. It doesn't gripe or make them sick, and they can eat anything they want while taking it.

All drugstores have it. Be sure to ask for it by full name, "California Fig Syrup," so you'll get the genuine, endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

BIG NAVY VESSEL SETS RECORD GOING VIA PANAMA CANAL

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Feb. 8. (AP)—The giant aircraft carrier Saratoga was tied up at the wharves of Balboa today having accomplished the most difficult operation ever attempted in the Panama Canal. Because of the size of the ship, which is 106 feet across at its widest part, allowing only a clearance of two feet on each side, it took three days to maneuver her through the canal.

In yesterday's passage from Gatun lake through one lock at Pedro Miguel and two at Miraflores to the Pacific the ship slightly scraped the frame work of the emergency lock at Pedro Miguel. These locks, like the three negotiated by the vessel at the Atlantic end of the canal are 110 feet wide. When the vessel passed through the Gatun lakes Sunday part of the superstructure of the ship peeled off several feet of concrete from the top of the lock. The ship was not damaged.

The ship began its descent to the Pacific at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived at Balboa at 6 in the afternoon. The delay was due to the low tide prevailing in the Pacific at the time which forced the vessel to wait in the lower chamber of Miraflores locks for the high tide at 4:16 p. m.

Cantor Unable To Earn $4500 Weekly Salary

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Actors Equity association council has before it today a request from Florence Ziegfeld Jr., that Eddie Cantor, black-face comedian of the "Follies," be ordered back to work.

Cantor produced a doctor's certificate, when the Follies was about to open in Philadelphia recently, to the effect that he was suffering from pleurisy and should remain in bed. The show was closed, and Ziegfeld told the council the closing had cost A. L. Erlanger and himself $35,000.

But recently, Ziegfeld charged, Cantor has been seen driving on Broadway and attending shows. The producer said he was ready to take the show out of storage, and go on the road again with Cantor in his usual star part.

Cantor suggested in return: "Mr. Ziegfeld certainly should know that I am too good a business man to give up $4500 a week salary if I am at all able to play."

He admitted being in Manhattan every day, but explained that it was on visits to his physician, and offered to undergo an examination by the producer's personal physician and if found physically fit, to return to the stage the next day.

LUBBOCK COUNTY CASE IS REVERSED

Two Long Term Murder Sentences Also Affirmed by Court of Criminal Appeals

AUSTIN, Feb. 8.(AP)—Finding error in trial court's charge the court of criminal appeals Wednesday reversed the case of J. R. Germany, sentenced to five years from Lubbock county for alleged misapplication of public funds and affirmed two long term murder sentences.

Part of Germany's appeal rested on the contention that he was not tax collector of the city of Lubbock as charged by the state. This phase was not disposed of, however.

Affirmed: Fred Davis, Dale, negro, 99 years, for the slaying April 16, 1927, of M. C. Palmer, Llewellyn Perkins, San Jacinto county, murder, 25 years, for the killing of Mike Huerta, November 14, 1926.

The court also declined to uphold contention of Jess Evans seeking habeas corpus release from a Fannin county fine assessed for violation of tick eradication laws, that the statutes in question are unconstitutional. Evans denied relief, also claimed the "no statute" in the judiciary is invalid.

Booker Kyle, under a murder charge for the fatal shooting of Rosetta Evans in Tyler county, was denied bond as he was in trial court.

Among those refused rehearings: Elbert Hill, Victoria county, robbery, 15 years; Willie Fisher, Harris county, murder, death, for the killing of Rosa Lee Finney; Robert Walthall, Nueces county, forgery, life.

The claim of F. L. Clopp, Rockwall county, that he already has served sufficient time to pay a fine imposed him for driving while intoxicated, failed of approval.

WARDLAW IN AUSTIN ON POLITICAL MISSION

AUSTIN, Feb. 7. (AP)—Louis J. Wardlow, Fort Worth candidate for governor, measured the political situation here Tuesday with former Governor James E. Ferguson, former Senator T. H. McGregor, Clarence Gooch of San Saba and former Representative John T. Smith of Austin.

Mr. Ferguson reiterated that he would throw his full support to Mr. Wardlow, who was born on a Falls county farm about 48 years ago and is six feet and 4½ inches tall, weighing 260 pounds.

"Any man who said he would not like to be governor would be lying," Mr. Wardlow observed. Some of his issues will be tax reduction, reorganization of the state highway department and rural reform. He announced that he expects to "cover every inch of Texas if time permits," and that his active stumping will start within 30 or 40 days.

BEARS PIN HOPES ON IMPROVED HITTING IN COMING RACE

MANY NEW FACES ARE LISTED ON SAN ANTONIO ROSTER WITH VET FRANK GIBSON IN CHARGE

(Editor's Note: The following is the fourth of a series of stories by the Associated Press dealing with the 1928 prospects of Texas league clubs.)

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Harry Ables, president of the San Antonio Texas league baseball club, declared vehemently at the close of the 1927 season that he would rebuild his seventh place team completely. He has kept his promise.

Only a half a dozen of last year's regulars are conceded even a chance to stick with the new combination. Having dropped one manager, Honus Mitze, in mid-season, the Bears have demoted his successor, Bob Couchman, to the role of coach, and have signed Frank Gibson, big league catcher, who was with the Cards, to direct the 1928 pennant fight. Couchman, after 21 years of active service on the hill, has decided to retire as a pitcher.

The weak-hitting aggregation of last summer is no more. Ables has retained only those few men he considered worthy of the name "batters" and has either cut adrift or used in trades all the rest.

Training away from home has often been tried by Texas league clubs, but none has followed the practice for any length of time. The San Antonio club this spring moves over to Fredericksburg, about 75 miles from the Alamo city, for its conditioning work. And San Antonio is noted far and wide for its attractive climate. For years one or more big league clubs have gone to considerable trouble to train their athletes at San Antonio. Harry Ables, the Bruin boss, says the move is simply to get the players away from the fans.

The Dallas Steers for the last few years have sent their batterymen to Mineral Wells for their early work, bringing the entire squad back to Dallas after 10 days or so at the resort. There is little doubt but that the athletes benefit somewhat from the healthful advantages of such a resort as Mineral Wells. But taking the players from the home city to get them away from the fans always has appeared to us as so much folly. The magnates figure their attendance will be larger if they bring in the players only for the exhibition games. We doubt if there is any appreciable gain in patronage at exhibition games through this practice. We know of one specific instance. In 1913 the Galveston club trained at Cuero and brought the team home only for exhibition games, but the crowds were just about the same as ever.

Sunny California is proving more popular each year as a training ground for ball clubs. The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates discovered California and have been migrating to the west coast each spring for several campaigns. This year there will be a number of minor league clubs in California. Undoubtedly, California has the best of all climates, but it also has its disadvantages, aside from the heavy expense involved. Players training in California have been known to attribute sore arms and various ailments to the sudden change from the California climatic conditions to those of the northern and eastern states. It is a severe change and some players might be affected by it.

The Chicago Cubs probably have the happiest training arrangement in baseball. Williams Wrigley Jr., principal owner of the Cubs, owns and reigns over Catalina island, where the Cubs train. A splendid playing field is provided and every facility for conditioning is provided. Aside from the grind of training, the players have the opportunity of enjoying life. Swimming, fishing and golf may keep busy those so inclined when not more seriously engaged.

Until last spring the Wichita Falls club nearly every year has seriously considered taking the Spudders to some nearby resort, preferably Mineral Wells or Marlin, for at least part of the training program. But last year the weather was just about all that could be asked and the Spudders won everything there was to win, so this winter there has been no thought of moving the training grounds from Athletic park.

Wichita Falls has witnessed all sorts of training weather in the past. There was the spring that the players made up a "pot" and gave it to Hippo Hodges to run unclad around the park in a couple of inches of snow. The spring of 1926 was the banner poor one. The Spudders had mighty few working days. It was cold and rainy all the time. Those who have not lived for long in Texas or belong to that other well known classification are predicting another tough spring, so far as training conditions are concerned. This group points to the uniformly great weather of the winter thus far and predicts that some of the other kind is bound to come before it is over.

Never before have Wichita Falls fans been offered a basket ball program that promises as much entertainment as that carded at the junior college Wednesday night. Two teams in each of the leagues clash in playoff games for first half championships. Landon-Hill-Electrics play Conocos in the Commercial league game and P. B. M.-Whippets play the Electrics in the girls' contest. Landon-Hill-Electrics, by virtue of their victories over every team in the league after losing their opener to Hub clothiers probably rate as favorites over the Conocos. But Continental has the kind of team that is well nigh unbeatable when its ace scorers are right. If Dickey, Waller and Ray have their eyes on the hoop, an upset may be recorded. In the girls' game there is no favorite. The teams have met twice, each has won a victory and they loom as evenly matched as any two teams could be.

A rival attraction Wednesday night also offers something good. Alec Ross, czar of the wrestling and fight games in Wichita Falls, inaugurates an amateur fistic tournament with something like 40 rounds of boxing. Alec says he has 49 entries and hopes to put on 16 or 17 bouts in the first round Wednesday night at The Gym. If the expected number of scrappers appears the show promises to be a great one. The boys who will compete will be fighting for the fun of it and the satisfaction that comes from victory. It is a safe bet that there will be more action and honest effort in 35 or 40 rounds of amateur boxing than in a year of professional shows.

Heavy Swatters

Now, with the exception of one or two positions, he has a .300 hitter at every post. In the outfield, according to prospects now, will be Frank (Pug) Griffin, a slugger purchased from Wichita Falls; Lyman (Chief) Nason, another husky who swings a murderous mace, secured in trade for Les Phipps from Shreveport, and either Leo Najo, the Mexican fly-snatcher from the 1927 team, or Chet Giles, a Texarkana rookie who stacked up well in the last weeks of last year's race. Ables may buy one more outfielder.

Oscar Ray Grimes, veteran of 14 campaigns, secured from Little Rock of the Southern association, where he batted .358 for third place in the league, is scheduled to hold down first base. Roy Leslie, who played that position, went to Omaha in a five-for-one trade that brought the Bears Omaha's ace catcher, Frank Meyers.

Frank Philbin probably will play second base again. He was one of the three Bears able to hit over .300 last season.

Ray Flashkamper, one of the best shortstops in the minors, has been returned by the Chicago White Sox and is a cinch for his position.

Third base will be the prize in a three-cornered fight between Al Modecae, bought from Shreveport, Jim Battle from Little Rock, and Lynton (Dusty) Boggess from Waco. One of the unsuccessful pair will be retained for utility.

Train Out-of-town

Meyers and Gibson will split the heavy work behind the bat. The acquisition of Gibson gives the two experienced catchers. Before Gibson was signed the team was without a veteran backstop and Ables was forced to give Leslie, Jimmy Long, Sep Good, Clarence Hetherly and Albert Moss in exchange for Meyers to the Omaha Western leaguers. Pete Arnold, a promising youngster who saw some service last season, probably will understudy the newcomer.

Jack Robertson from Beaumont, Hinkle and Traxler from the Eastern league, and an expected ex-major leaguer, whose signing has not yet been announced are the chief pitching additions. Andy Messinger, Jim Lindsey and Dana Fillingim of the 1927 staff will be back to form a staff nucleus. Ables also hopes to get a pitcher and an outfielder possibly from Detroit's Tigers, who train here in the spring.

The Bears will inaugurate out-of-town training. For the first time, the squad will be kept from the sight of the home fans, except during a couple of exhibition games possibly, until the league season starts. The camp will be located at Fredericksburg, almost 90 miles distant.

Big Basket Ball Doings in College Gym Wednesday Night

Amateur Boxers Are Scheduled Wednesday Eve

Forty Rounds of Scrapping Promised in Opening Eliminations At the Gym

Approximately 40 rounds of boxing, with amateurs scrapping just for the fun of it, is the inducement offered to the fans in the first of a series of amateur eliminations Wednesday night at The Gym, it is announced by Alec B. Ross, manager of the club. Forty-nine boxers have signed up for competition in the tournament, according to Ross, and as many as possible of the first round eliminations are to be held Wednesday night.

Those who have enlisted in the tournament include five light heavyweights, eight middleweights, 13 welterweights, 12 lightweights, 10 featherweights and one bantamweight.

The plan calls for three-round matches in the first round of elimination, with winners being matched in future bouts and the losers dropping out. Three judges, named by Ross as Dr. L. F. Stripling, Dr. C. E. Graves and Morris Wolff, will give the decisions, with an extra round tagged on when the judges are unable to select a winner. Pairings will be decided by drawings at the ringside before the start of action.

An admission charge of 25 cents for men and 10 cents for women and children will be made to defray expenses of the tournament, it is announced.

WILD BILL FINALLY CRASHES THROUGH

BILL MEHLHORN

A couple of years back Bill Mehlhorn, now of Pittsburgh, earned much notoriety from perching in a tree over the eighteenth green and kidding Bobby Cruickshank out of a short putt that would have given the wee Scot a tie for top honors in the Texas open golf championship at San Antonio. This year it's different. Mehlhorn, the famous Wild Bill, used his mashie and putter to beat a great field and cop the title. His 297 was one stroke better than the score of Harry Cooper.

PROS LEAVE FOR HOT SPRINGS TOURNEY WITH BILL MEHLHORN CROWNED NEW TEXAS CHAMP

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 8. (AP) With $6000 in prize money in their pockets more than one hundred professionals were journeying to other tournaments Wednesday after competing in the Texas open event which concluded Tuesday with Bill Mehlhorn the champion for 1928.

Most of the golfers were en route to Hot Springs where they will compete in the central open tournament.

Mehlhorn added $1500 to his winter winnings by taking the Texas title. He won in a day of hectic golf in which he tied the course record of 68 in the morning round and then shot a 73, eight over par to finish the day.

Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Buffalo, N. Y., took second money and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., who won the event last year, was third. Mac Smith of New York, champion in 1925, took fourth money. Mehlhorn's aggregate, 297, was the highest score that has ever won the Texas title.

Referee Dempsey And Tunney Bout Draws Time Off

Illinois Commission Suspends Dave Barry for Officiating in Unlicensed Show

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP) — Dave Barry, who counted nine over Gene Tunney last September and won a name for himself, has been suspended indefinitely by the state boxing commission. Barry's license was revoked on the ground that he refereed an unlicensed boxing match a week ago.

The absence of Barry from the ring will deprive fans of the opportunity of ragging him for the count in the Dempsey-Tunney fight. At all boxing shows in which Barry has refereed since last September it has been the practice of fans to start a unison count between rounds, going from 1 to 14. It was Dempsey's contention that Tunney was on the canvas 14 seconds.

Paul Prehn, chairman of the boxing commission, expressed regret at the necessity for suspending Barry.

"He is one of the best referees we have," Prehn said. "We cannot overlook his offense, however, as a fatality in the unlicensed boxing match, conducted as it was without proper safe-guards for the boxers, might have meant the repeal of the boxing law."

The commission said that the boxing match Barry refereed took place on a platform more than four feet above the floor, and that there were no ropes around the "ring." Seconds, attendants and physicians were not provided, the commission found.

Eddie Anderson of Moline, Ill., and Dave Adelman of Philadelphia, who boxed on the card were suspended.

The suspensions were the commission's first moves in a campaign to eliminate what it believes to be an unwholesome condition existing at neighborhood boxing shows.

MANDELL AND FIELDS MEET ON FEBRUARY 23

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—In one of a series of bouts to prepare himself for the defense of his title, next summer Sammy Mandell, lightweight boxing champion, will meet Jackie Fields, western aspirant for the title, at the coliseum February 23. The match was assured Tuesday when the Illinois State Athletic commission granted Promoter Joe Coffey a permit for the show.

Both boxers will weigh in over the lightweight limit so that Mandell's title will not be at stake.

RACQUETS VICTORY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—America defeated England, 3 to 2, in the international racquets series by capturing two of the three singles matches Tuesday. The teams split even in two doubles matches on Sunday.

TITULAR PLAYOFFS IN BOTH LEAGUES SCHEDULED; L-H-E-, GUARDS, CONOCOS IN FRONT

Big doings are scheduled at the junior college Wednesday night when first half basket ball championships will be decided in two league playoff games, the first starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Both the commercial and girls' league first half races wound up in ties and the program Wednesday night was arranged to decide the two half-championships.

In the commercial league game, Landon-Hill company-Texas Electric Service company and Continental Oil company mix it in a game that promises everything in the way of excitement.

Texas Electric Service company defeated P. B. M.-Whippets last week to get a tie for the top and now must whip the Whippets again Wednesday night to carry off the crown for the first half. In their first meeting the P. B. M. crew won the verdict, so all is square between the two teams thus far.

Second Half Started

L-H-Electrics, National guards and Continental blasted open the second half race Tuesday evening with victories over Hub clothiers, junior college and Draughon Business college, respectively.

The high spot of the evening was the tough scrap the powerful guards received from the college Indians. The guardsmen were expected to walk away with an easy decision, but the Indians played their best basket ball of the campaign and the winners were fortunate to stow away a 29 to 15 triumph.

The collegians set the pace through most of the game and it was not until the fourth quarter that the guards caught up. Then Curley Walkup got right and sank enough field goals to sew up the game. In all, this forward counted 14 points for his team. Atkins, Kirkland and Allen led the Indian attack.

Hub Goes Down

In the initial game Landon-Hill-Electrics displayed the best goal shooting of the season and smothered a weakened Hub team. The loss of two regulars from the clothiers' lineup was felt, but the L-H-E crew was working smoothly all the way and topping off an efficient floor game with extremely good goal marksmanship. The score was 31 to 12.

W. J. Howard made his debut with the clothiers and netted eight of his team's points. Francis and Gaulner led the scoring and Davis and Clary played well in the guard positions.

Draughon Business college held Continental fairly well in the closing game, losing, 19 to 21. Inability to score continued to hold back the business college lads, Rhoades at center accounting for all but two of his team's points.

Tunney Strong For Compulsory School Boxing

Heavyweight Champion Believes Sport Would Prove of Vast Benefit to College Men

By GENE TUNNEY,
World's Heavyweight Champion.

Compulsory boxing in the colleges. Why not?

I found myself asking that question the other evening at a moving picture show where a news reel shot was shown, picturing the gymnasium of a southern university where boxing had been made a part of the regular course of study. Perhaps a hundred students were engaged in what looked like one of those old fashioned battle royals which used to be a feature of fight programs.

Of course, regular boxing instruction will take the place of the scramble shown in the picture and I am going to be keenly interested in the results, for I am convinced that boxing should be made not a matter of choice for a student, but compulsory. I think it would solve a lot of student problems that keep college officials worried today, and would result in a higher standard of scholarship, better athletics and more successful men after graduation.

Not long ago I read a press dispatch with the heading "Students With Tummies Prove to Be Dummies." It went on to say that a general college survey had shown conclusively that the fat students were sluggish minded and almost always far behind the average in their class marks. Shortly afterward I read another story of how one of the big universities had refused to admit 90 students until they took off a total of one ton of flesh.

The professors believed that the fact that they were overweight would be a mental handicap and that they would retard their more precocious classmates. The story also stated that the findings at that college were that most students were found to be overweight and that their marks in their studies suffer accordingly. These are but two samples, of many instances of student problems which are being given weighty consideration and all kinds of remedies are being suggested. I think compulsory boxing would stop all the discussion.

Cannot Shirk.

In the first place boxing is the only kind of exercise at which a man cannot shirk. He may be told to work out so many hours a day in a gymnasium but the lazy-minded fellow or the one who feels that he is in good shape enough as he is, will find a way to slip through his routine without exerting his muscles. When I was a youngster in the gymnasium I knew a lot of boys whose ambition was to develop big biceps or thick chests or broad shoulders and they couldn't be induced to take all-round exercise. But of what use are bulging biceps in later life of the weaker, neglected parts of the body begin to break down?

Another thing is that the college "grind" would get a benefit that he never got before. Instead of becoming hump shouldered over his books, boxing would keep his body and mind in such shape that he would absorb the contents of his books with twice the speed. Moreover, constant tip-top physical trim would give him a self assurance after leaving school that would permit him to make the best use of the knowledge he so eagerly sought. Anyone who has seen a brilliant honor man in college slip down into some bottomless rut in business life because of his lack of self assertiveness should agree with me readily on this score.

Boxing Best Exercise.

And the college athlete wouldn't escape a boxing regime either, according to my plan. As a matter of fact he would be one of the principal beneficiaries of compulsory boxing. I never took very seriously the stories of football players who spent vacations doing the heaviest work they could find in order to be fit for their games in the fall. It is a fine, loyal thing for an athlete to do for his school but I don't think it is the best way. Swinging a pick and shovel is more likely to make a man muscle bound and stale than it is to put him in the best shape for swift muscular obedience to brain and nerve. For such strenuous activity as football the only way to prepare is by building up every muscle, every tendon by easy stages until each fibre of the body is ready for the severest shock. Boxing is the best exercise in the world to accomplish this building up.

Again, boxing would do a lot to prevent injuries in college sports and it would solve the problem of the let-down between football and basket ball and track seasons. And the athlete who emerged from school in the spring in perfect shape undoubtedly could keep in shape by boxing throughout the summer and step back again in rare form, ready for anything.

Parents and college officials need not be afraid that the students would turn into a wholesale lot of fighters and bullies. Boxing never did that for any man, at least since men of the ring have been boxers instead of unscientific lovers of brawls. On the contrary, compulsory boxing would improve every college man not only mentally and physically but morally.

Develops Confidence.

The man who learns to box must by the nature of the sport acquire self confidence. When he gets into a ring he is on his own while in team sports he has a certain dependence upon other members. The big things of baseball or football are planned on the bench by some expert coach while the boxer must lay his own plans, tell himself when to act, and, all in all, be his own general, colonel, captain and corporal. He has no one to blame for wrong instructions.

Another thing is that the boxer, and especially the amateur boxer, as college students would be of course, is fair because it is the nature of the game to make him so. Fouls in the ring can't be concealed as they can when a mass of men are tangled up on a field.

As a matter of fact I do not think that professional boxers often foul intentionally. It is usually only the little fellow whose bread and butter is at stake who slips over the rules, or the scrapper fighting madly to regain lost prestige.

Compulsory boxing in colleges could be carried along without the slightest sacrifice of any other sort, and I know it would correct many things that sometimes make people doubt the usefulness of universities to all saudents. It would set a new standard of physical soundness, individuality in thinking, self-confidence and masculinity.

SIX CONFERENCE CAGE TEAMS SCHEDULED IN FOUR WEEK-END GAMES

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 8. (AP)—Six Southwest conference basket ball teams will be in action this week-end.

Every outfit except that of Rice which will continue a rest, will be under way in one gymnasium or another.

Arkansas' two game series with Southern Methodist university at Fayetteville, will headlin as the Hogs and Mustangs are fighting for top place.

Texas will have it out with Baylor Saturday night in Waco while A. & M. and Texas Christian university attempt to settle the business at College Station.

HORNED FROGS LOSE TACKLE OF '27 TEAM

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 8. (AP) Texas Christian university's 1928 football prospects weren't helped any Tuesday when Felix Reynolds, 220 pound tackle, dropped out of school.

Although serving his first year on the varsity the big sophomore played in practically all of the games last fall and easily won his letter.

Felix has had difficulty with his scholastic work and when he failed in two subjects this last term he decided the struggle was not worth continuing.

ANDERSON EVENS SCORE BY DEFEATING SHADE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8. (AP)—Joe Anderson, Kentucky middleweight Wednesday was a step nearer a bout with Mickey Walker, world's champion in his class, while Dave Shade, long a veritable shadow of the doughty Mickey, was a notch back on the pugilistic trail.

In the battle replete with action and featured especially by Shade's stirring last minute rally, Anderson evened his fistic score with Shade by reversing here Tuesday night a decision which the latter had been given over him in New York last year.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED YOUNG COUNTY TOURNEY

OLNEY, Texas, Feb. 8.—An announcement was made here Wednesday of the schedule of games to be played here Friday and Saturday, when the basket ball teams of Young county meet in their annual tournament. According to B. C. Schulkey, director of athletics in Young county, the following schools will be represented: Olney, Jean, Loving, Eliasville, Newcastle, South Bend, Flint Creek and Graham.

The opening game will be played between Olney and Jean at 2 p. m. Friday, followed by a game between Loving and Eliasville. At 7 o'clock Friday evening Newcastle will meet South Bend and Graham will meet Flint Creek.

The semi-finals will be played Saturday morning, between the winners of the Olney-Jean game and the Loving-Eliasville game; also between the winners of the Newcastle-South Bend game and the Graham-Flint Creek game. The winners of these last two games will play for the county championship at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

PONIES START BASEBALL PRACTICE ON WEDNESDAY

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 8. (AP)—Eight veteran players besides nearly a score of greenhorns were to trot out on the Southern Methodist university baseball field here Wednesday for the first day of practice.

With the infield intact and two leading pitchers remaining, Coach Ray Morrison must develop three regular outfielders to replace regulars of last year who graduated. On this branch of the game, Morrison says, depends the future of his ball tossers in the Southwest conference.

The Mustangs last year were noted for their lack of punch, but development of slugging outfielders will do much to repair the faulty section of their game. Among regulars of last year Morrison will have Alex Hooks at first base, Albo Brown at second, Gerald Mann at short, George Hemple at third, and Redman Hume and J. W. Miller on the mound, with Buddy Craig and Robert Drye backstopping. Hooks wielded a heavy bludgeon last year and is expected to contribute much to the Pony aggressiveness this year. Brown and Mann led the Southwest conference in double plays started last year. Hume, playing his last year of college baseball, has aspirations toward a professional career in the lot, and will be pointed toward that end.

WRESTLERS DRAW FINES FOR ROUGHING AT TULSA

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 8. (AP)—A battle with fists terminated what was begun as a wrestling match here Monday night between Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., and Pat McGill of Omaha, Neb. More than a dozen policemen were required to separate the two men and a small group of fans who clambered into the ring when the matmen began butting each other with their heads. Referee John Hopkins gave the match to Malcewicz after McGill had knocked the Utica Panther out with his fists. The city athletic commission overruled Hopkins and called it a no contest, some of the members claiming Malcewicz started the rough house. Each wrestler was fined $50.

By using oil to lay the dust in London schools, instead of having the floors scrubbed regularly, it is hoped to save $60,000.

BURKBURNETT FOOTBALL SQUAD IS BANQUETED

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Feb. 8.—The Burkburnett High school football banquet was a huge success Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. W. G. Merritt.

Babe Green and Hammett Vance, captains-elect, Wee Willie Griffin, 1927 captain, Mrs. Edith Goodlett and Mack "Icabod" Turner of Wichita Falls were the principal speakers. This was then turned into a round table discussion from the players which brought forth many timely short talks.

Expressions for the hopes of the 1928 team were given and that the team bested to again stop the teams that they had defeated this year as well as to beat those that beat them. Another general subject for the talks came from the fighting spirit shown by the team and their true sportsmanship on and off the gridiron. The team had a none too successful year in 1927 but displayed a fine spirit all season.

Covers were laid for Captain Wee Willie Griffin, Imagine Anderson, Hugh Williams, Vida Ballard, Hammett Vance, Pauline Patterson, Henry Green, Addie East, Grace Chilton, Jimmye Ballard, Owen Smith, Jesse Merritt, Gerald Goodwin, Vincente Goodlett, Louise Wood, Ursey Gore, Elbert Buckner, Eloet Jarrell, Sunny Knouth, Lee Roy Eddy, Toby Green, Jude Willingham, John Gibhart, Violette Steele, Margery Gallager, Anna Louise Blair, Louis Wood, Juanita Ford, Ethyle Harper, Harvey Moore, Margaret Snoddy, Wade Goodlett, Mack Turner, Nina Williams, Mrs. Edith Goodlett and the hostess, Mrs. W. G. Merritt.

SWEDISH PRINCE IS CHAMPION ON SKATES

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 8. (AP) Sixteen-year-old Prince Bertil, third son of the Swedish crown prince, became a hero to Swedish children Wednesday by winning the national skating race for scholars.

To make his victory even more impressive, the prince broke the old school record by one second, covering 500 meters in 52 9-10 seconds.

Crown Prince Gustav Adolphus, who has made several visits to the United States, was a proud spectator of Bertil's popular victory.

Some Yawn

CINCINNATI.—Mary Curran, 15, walked open-mouthed into a police station here. She apparently could not shut her mouth and her attempts to speak brought forth only a gurgling sound from her throat. She was rushed to a hospital where physicians repaired a dislocated jaw. Mary then explained that a terrific yawn had been the cause of the trouble.

CURB MARKET QUOTATIONS

Sales of stocks, 524,800.
Sales of bonds, $4,783,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—The curb market showed strength for a time in the early trading but it was not long before liquidation of many speculative accounts impressed itself on the trading, turning many of the early gains into losses and creating an unsettled condition for a good part of the remainder of the day. There were some special movements, including the continued quiet buying of the St. Paul issues, both the common and preferred stocks making further fractional gains, and the adjustment bonds were also in demand at a slightly higher level.

Industrial specialties had the widest fluctuations. Newmont Mining dropped over 5 points, and then recovered part of its loss. Deere & Co. which rose over 3 points lost all its gain. Johns-Manville moved in the same way, and American Rolling Mills, after advancing a little over a point fell 2 points. Tubize had an early loss of 3 points. Mercantile Stores was one of the strong features of the early trading moving up over 5 points.

Commonwealth Edison, which had a decline of 7 points in yesterday's trading, rallied about 6 points but met a heavy supply again and reacted sharply. American Light & Traction, which started with a gain of a point, reached 3 points before the end of the forenoon. Electric Bond & Share and United Gas Improvement both declined over a point. Auburn Motor was a strong feature moving up 4 points.

Oil stocks were heavy. Vacuum fell nearly 2 points and Imperial Oil of Canada declined about a point. Standard Oil of Indiana shares had a rally in the early trading and then reacted.

COTTON EASES OFF SIX POINTS AFTER PARTIAL RECOVERY

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Continued dry weather in West Texas and talk of a steadier spot situation, brought in covering and trade buying on an early decline in the cotton market today with partial recoveries in later trading. After showing net losses of 15 to 19 points, prices rallied to nearly yesterday's closing quotations, but demand tapered off on advances with the mid-afternoon market quiet at net declines of 1 to 6 points.

The cotton market opened barely steady today at a decline of 1 to 10 points. Selling on relatively easy cables was restricted by reports of continued dry weather in droughty sections of Texas, while there was covering or trade buying on reiterated reports of a steady spot situation.

The comparatively moderate demand was readily supplied at initial prices, however, and the market soon eased off under liquidation and scattered southern selling. May declined to 17.52 and October to 17.35, active months showing net declines of 14 to 19 points at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported hedge selling with local and London liquidation in Liverpool and that while there was slight improvement in demand for light goods from India, the turnover was unimportant.

Offerings were comparatively light after the early selling had been absorbed, and the market was firmer on continued reports of a steady spot situation in the South, talk of a better tone in the goods market and continued lack of rain in West Texas. Business remained quiet, but the market was steady at midday, May selling around 17.65, and October 17.47 or about 10 to 15 points up from the lowest and within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

Futures closed steady, 9 @ 12 points higher. Spot steady; middling 18.15.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8. (AP)—After ruling easy during the morning the cotton market firmed in the afternoon trading today and prices made new highs, 12 to 16 points above the early lows. Covering and moderate trade buying were responsible for the recovery. At the highest March traded at 17.54, May 17.33 and July 17.35, or unchanged to 2 points above yesterday's close.

Exports 5942 bales.

The cotton market opened easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables, but rallied promptly when weather map failed to show either rain, snow or sleet in the western drought section despite reports yesterday of precipitation in the Texas Panhandle. First trades showed losses of 5 to 13 points. The subsequent rally carried March and May contracts to 17.27 and July 17.33, or 3 to 8 points above the initial prices. The market broke later on favorable weekly weather and crop reports than expected. March sold off to 17.18, May 17.17 and July 17.22, or 12 to 14 points under the previous close.

Towards the end of the first half hour prices showed a tendency to rally.

The market gradually recovered from the early dip on moderate covering by shorts. March and May rallied to 17.31 and July to 17.34, or practically parallel with the previous close.

Towards noon some realizing and liquidation developed and prices eased off 7 to 9 points below the previous close. The market showed no definite trend and news developments affecting prices were lacking.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net advance of 12 to 14 points.

CORN PRICE GOES TO HIGHEST LEVEL SINCE LATE 1927

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—With trading on a broad scale, corn advanced sharply today, to the highest price level since early in December. Increasing demand for immediate delivery corn was to a large extent the basis of the advance, with big industries reported active in the buying. Toward the last, wheat prices rallied, sympathizing with corn strength.

Corn closed buoyant, 1¼ to 2¼ cent net higher, wheat at ⅛@¼ to ⅜ gain, oats ⅜ to ½@⅝ cent up and provisions showing a rise of 2 cents to 10 cents.

In connection with a break in vessel rates from Argentina announced today, and with predictions of increased shipments from there significance was attached to the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations showed a decided drop, whereas an advance had been looked for. On the other hand, however, reports were current telling of serious damage to winter wheat in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Missouri.

Indications today of a falling off in the volume of the corn crop movement gave emphasis to the bullish effect of moist weather prevailing.

Steel output last month made the second largest gain on record and the steel corporation's unfilled orders statement is expected to show an increase of more than 200,000 tons, the largest excepting that of 512,420 tons in the previous month, since December, 1925. Steel output has continued to gain in February. The trend of prices is still upward, in contrast with the situation a year ago, when prices were declining. Current operations of steel corporation plants are placed at 85 per cent against 84 per cent last week.

Grain Pit Notes

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Corn traders are still looking for higher prices. Strength in the cash market is attracting their attention and while outside interest in futures is light, it makes many bulls more confident of their position and causing them to support the market on all setbacks.

Handlers here sold 165,000 bushels of cash corn yesterday to the seaboard for export and with a continued foreign demand and no pressure of offerings at the gulf, it would not surprise those in touch with conditions if the volume of this business enlarged materially.

Sugar and Coffee

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—No change occurred in the raw sugar market early today, although offerings were much larger with sales confirmed of about 30,000 bags of Cuba to local operators at 4.27 delivered. Duty-free sugars were also available at the same level.

Continued liberal offerings in the spot market, and a reduction in storage rates on raw sugar by licensed warehouses was responsible for active liquidation in the raw sugar futures market, prices at midday showing net losses of 1 to 2 points. The principal selling pressure was in the May and July positions, with a good part of it believed to be against purchases in the spot market.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.70 for fine granulated with trading still light and confined to nearby requirements.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Coffee, spot barely steady. Demand limited; Rio No. 7, 14 13-16; Santos No. 4, 21¼. Rio futures, steady; sales 13,000 bags. March 12.73; May 12.34; July 12.21; Sept. 12.15; Dec. 12.01.

BOLD ROBBERY STAGED IN FORT WORTH DRUG STORE

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (AP)—Police today were searching for a young man of about 22 years of age who late last night held up employes of the Medical Arts drug store and escaped with $193.

The youth was alone and unmasked. The robbery occurred in the downtown section of the city.

After covering three clerks with an automatic pistol he forced Miss Frances Johnson, cashier, to open the cash register for him. The robber gave his commands so quietly that E. K. Weaver, manager, sitting in his open office on the mezzanine floor above, did not know that the store had been robbed until after the youth had fled.

While hastening out of the building the robber dropped some of the stolen money, but stopped and picked it up and fled out of a side door.

SHARP REACTIONS FOLLOWED BY DULL TREND IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Sharp reactions took place in many stocks during the early part of today's stock market, but a recovery set in during the afternoon as pools resumed operations in some of the recent favorites. Passing of the American Sugar Refining dividend was followed by a break of 11½ points in that stock, but it failed to halt the recovery which was under way when the announcement was made. Trading, which had been conducted at a brisk pace during the morning, turned dull on the rally.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported further improvement in the trade position, and Wall street looks for an increase of more than 200,000 tons in the January unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, which will be made public on Friday. General Motors' dividend action tomorrow also is awaited with considerable interest, although the final quarter's earnings will not be available until the middle of the month.

Montgomery Ward continued its sensational advance by climbing 6 points to another new high record at 147½. Consolidated Gas jumped more than 4 points to a new top at 134¾. U. S. Industrial Alcohol crossed 112 to the highest price in seven years. Coppers moved forward under the leadership of Kennecott.

Two theories were advanced for the recent weakness of Freeport-Texas, one that liquidation was based on an unfavorable report on the life of the property, and the other that it represented the forced liquidation of a large block of stock. Freeport, Greene Cananea and Vanadium Steel all rallied 3 to 4 points from their earlier high levels. U. S. Steel common and General Motors also were prominent in the afternoon recovery.

Irregular price movements attended the opening of the market today. Electric Auto Light and Consolidated Gas opened at new highs and Sears Roebuck, International Harvester and A. M. Byers were a point or so higher but blocks of Studebaker were bought raising it a point to 66½ the highest in three years. Losses of a point or so were registered at the outset by Missouri Pacific preferred, International Telephone, Greene Cananea Copper, Vanadium Steel and Crucible Steel.

A flood of selling orders reached the market soon after the opening, causing many stocks to break badly. Freeport, Texas which sold as high as 109½ last month, soon fell back more than 7 points to 82½ and others of yesterday's weak spots continued to decline. Indications of tightening money rates and recent calling of loans by banks was largely influential in the selling. The increase in the Boston and Dallas rediscount rates yesterday was another straw in this direction. U. S. Steel dropped nearly 2 points in the first half hour despite expectations of larger unfilled orders on January 31, to be reported Friday. Vanadium Steel and Greene Cananea Copper quickly lost 5 points and Montana Power 4, while recessions of 2 to 3 were scored against Radio, Houston Oil, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric, Wright Aeronautical, Montgomery Ward, and a few others. Canadian Pacific, Atchison, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Union Carbide moved against the general trend in the early trading. Foreign exchanges were steady at the opening, Sterling cables ruling around $4.87½ and French francs just above 3.92½ cents.

After the market had absorbed the deluge of selling orders which eventually embraced some of the railroads, pools which had the courage of their convictions went right ahead with their business of marking up individual shares. Consolidated Gas, International Paper, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and International Business Machine displayed conspicuous strength. Recoveries from the early low levels were sharp in many instances. The rate for standing call loans was maintained at 4½ per cent.

The closing was firm. Buoyancy of mail order issues, Sears Roebuck following Montgomery Ward to a new peak at 91, induced concerted buying of numerous other shares. Chrysler, heavily accumulated, reached 60 and American Republics sold at the same figure after gaining more than 5 points. Early losses in several stocks were transformed into substantial gains. Total sales approximated 2,700,000 shares.

Bond Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Steady prices characterized the bond market today. Traders continued to mark time, awaiting developments in the money situation, while expectations that new offerings in February will exceed the aggregate for January gave them additional reason for caution. That a 4 per cent rediscount rate soon will be universal in the federal reserve system was further evidenced yesterday by the advance of rates in Dallas and Boston.

Strictly high grade mortgages were not very active. Rock Island 4s and New England Telephone 4½s made slight gains, and there was moderate buying of some of the New York Traction liens. Seaboard issues, which have been declining steadily since the first of the week, showed some signs of improvement in the early dealings.

Some of the convertible and semi-speculative bonds were accumulated in considerable amounts, especially Kayser 6½s, which had a point gain.

Price changes in the foreign group were nominal. Some of the Italian obligations attracted attention, but business on the whole was nominal.

U. S. government securities again were extremely dull in the early trading.

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the following day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.
Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.
Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.
Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 2 p. m. on week days with the exception of Saturday's and Sunday's issues. For Saturday's issue before 11 a. m. Saturday, and for Sunday's issue before 2 p. m. Saturday.
Where ads are ordered and paid for no refunds are allowed where ads are cancelled before expiration date.
Closing Hours: Ads accepted for week days until 2 p. m.; for Saturday's until 11 a. m.; and for Sunday's issue until 7 p. m. Saturday. Ads received later than above hours will appear under "Too Late to Classify."
Exceptions: Want Ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.
The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headings and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

SALARY PAID TO COUNTY JUDGES AGAIN AT ISSUE

AUDITOR DECLARES OFFICIAL PAID MORE THAN LAW ALLOWS

STATEMENT DEFENDS REPORT ON RECORDS

Only One Error Discovered in Examination of County Books, Smith Asserts

The question as to whether Wichita county judges of the past several years have collected larger salaries than allowed by law was raised anew Tuesday afternoon by Clinton E. Smith in a statement addressed to newspapers as a reply to critics of the 10-year audit of county records recently completed by Smith, Allred and company, auditors. Mr. Smith is the head of that firm.

His investigation, his statement says, causes him to cling to the opinion that Wichita county operates under a special statute which provides that the county judge shall receive a flat salary of $3600 yearly, and shall turn in all fees to the county.

"We have not changed our opinion on this and intend to spend our own time to get this matter straightened out as soon as we can get to it," his statement says.

Wichita county, it was explained, has operated under laws interpreted as providing that the county judge may receive a total of $5000 per year, part of which is derived from excess fees. For the last three years at least, it was said, county judges have collected $5000. E. W. Nicholson has just completed his first year as county judge, and B. D. Martin served in that office for the four years preceding.

The same question was raised by Mr. Smith several weeks ago, and as a reply, E. P. Walsh, county auditor, exhibited an opinion from the attorney general's department which held, in effect, that the maximum salary for the Wichita county judge is $5000 annually.

Mr. Smith also vigorously denies in his statement that any material errors were made in the audit. He declares that thus far, only one error has been found, and that it was discovered by his office.

Smith's Statement

He intends to go more fully into his discussions Friday, he said, when the county commissioners' court will hold a special meeting to discuss the audit. The meeting results from the declaration at Monday's regular session by T. R. Boone, local attorney, that inaccuracies have been discovered in the part of the audit relating to A. F. Kerr, who died while serving as district clerk.

Mr. Smith's statement follows:

"Some reports have been published in your paper about the recent audit of the county that are far removed from the facts in the case and to which we call your attention. It appears to us that your reporters have published items stating that certain errors have been made without going into the real situation and explaining in any way the kind of character and have left the general impression that our report is nothing but a large volume of errors. We are going to make a confession. There has been uncovered the large total of one error to date. We made it, we found it and we called it to the attention of the party concerned. There is apparently an effort being made somewhere to discredit our work.

"Your paper calls attention to claims of Mr. Sommerville that our report was erroneous. We made one error in Mr. Sommerville's account and promptly called it to his attention. Our figures check with his and we have agreed on the correctness of his account. He has shown where he collected funds for other officials and claims they were paid over to them. He has claims against all these officials of the county for certain funds which were reported paid to him. The balance due the county he has paid in during 1927. We did not audit 1927 and, therefore, could not credit 1927 payments. So far as we know there is no controversy between Mr. Sommerville and our firm of any kind.

"About the Kerr estate, you stated that Mr. Boone charged errors. Mr. Boone claimed around $200 difference in criminal fees paid by the state. We have compared our figures with the figures of Mr. Boone and there is not one cent difference in the amount of the criminal fees. Mr. Boone claims credit for $4,875.22 additional salaries. He is claiming this allowance based upon records which we did not accept for lack of proper support. We charged the estate with $20,023.64 in our original report; should we allow the claim of $4,-875.22 the estate will still owe $26,-467.62. There is no dispute other than the salaries, therefore, the balance of $26,467.62 must stand. Representatives of the Kerr estate claim all amounts prior to 1920 exempt and are contesting $7,077.83 of the amount we show due. We are wondering if someone will say this is our error if they win this claim. Our contract with the county contained a clause whereby we were not to accept anyone's figures other than our own, accordingly we credited the Kerr estate with such receipts for funds as were on file in the county offices. We were perfectly justified in not crediting anyone with items not supported.

County Records Bad

"The books and records of the former officials of the county were the worst we have ever checked. The state law requires the county auditor to keep accounts with all officers and also requires all officials to file annual reports. There was not, that we could find, up to December 31, 1926, a single account with any county officials on any permanent book in the auditor's office. Likewise some county officials did not file one correct annual report during the entire term of office. Would the public have approved our giving credit to these former officials indiscriminately? No. We believe our figures are correct and are going to stand behind them. The only change that will be made is where an officer furnishes us with bona fide records which had not before been submitted to us. We audited every record covering the 10 years that was on file in the courthouse. We could not be expected to search the homes of the former officials for records. All had notice that their accounts were being audited and if they knew their records were not at the courthouse then they should have presented them to us. The auditor's office should have had accounts with them also.

"Now the old skeleton about the salary of the county judges. There was a special statute passed in 1921 creating two courts in Wichita county. Volume 49, Vernon's Complete Texas Statutes, paragraph 1970—164 and 1970—165 states that the judges of these courts shall pay in to the county all fees collected and receive in lieu thereof from the general funds of the county the salaries of $3,000 and $2,600 per year. If a special statute governing in other similar cases why not here? We have not changed our opinion on this and intend to spend our own time to get this matter straightened just as soon as we can get to it. We have been supported in our opinion in this matter by every lawyer with whom we have advised. The present county auditor and county judge are the only parties with whom we have discussed the matter that are not in accord with us. It may be that they are correct and the balance are wrong, but we want to know for sure. We are not lawyers but we can read and interpret the plain statutes. We were informed through the papers that Mr. E. P. Walsh received an overnight telegraph opinion from the attorney general's office confirming his opinion. Granting the fact, all we have to say is that there are in our opinion a number of just as good lawyers in Wichita county as any assistant attorney general. We believe their opinions are as good. They know of the special statute passed in 1921 and we are afraid the party who would run the risk of giving an overnight opinion by telegraph is one who might possibly overlook this statute. All we want to know is what is correct.

Expected to Recheck

"Some may ask why these former officers were not called in conference before we delivered our report and such information as they had at various places checked beforehand. This was discussed with the commissioners court and we decided it would only delay getting out the report and delay settlement of claims. It was agreed that quicker action could be had on any recheck after the report was delivered. We knew and the commissioners court knew that every officer shown indebted to the county would protest. That is only human. We expected to recheck accounts with them and their representatives and are doing so. We want the public to know that we were employed to audit and ascertain these accounts. We want them to know that we are doing so. We want it known that we are ready to audit any records submitted and to give additional credit where it is due. We want it known that if we make an error we are men enough to admit it then and there. We are not politicians and have no desire to dodge facts and have no axe to grind. We are doing what we contracted to do and the cards are going to fall face up and stay where they fall.

"We have been informed that large sums of the trust fund of A. F. Kerr have been paid out for fees during 1927. If such is the case someone must have collected the county's money. There was at December 31, 1926 $15,655.31 in excess fees to the credit of former officers, all of whom had received their maximum fees, which should have been paid to the county. If this has been paid out the county certainly has lost. The question is why was it paid out and why was it passed by the county auditor? We believe he would be the guardian of these funds the same as any other county funds."

SAYS STATE BOARD WITHOUT POWER IN MRS. FIELDS CASE

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8. (AP)—With the abolition by the general board of the Federation of Women's clubs of the office of state biennial chairman, any power of the state board in the matter was destroyed, Mrs. Homer D. Wade of Stamford, member of the state board, biennial treasurer, and state chairman of finance, declared in a statement in which she outlined the circumstances under which the resignation of Mrs. J. U. Fields of Haskell as state biennial chairman was requested.

There is no action which the state board can take in the matter in Mrs. Wade's opinion, but it is expected that an early meeting of the board will be called by Mrs. W. R. Potter, state president, in Dallas, to make the position of the state board in the matter clear.

The office of state biennial chairman was established a year ago by the general board in Washington, and Mrs. Fields was asked by the state board to fill the office, the statement said. Mrs. Henry Drought of San Antonio was named local chairman.

With the discovery in January by the general board that the former procedure of the federal board had been to have only one biennial convention chairman, and that one a woman living in the city in which the convention was to meet, the general board asked the state board to request the resignation of Mrs. Fields, the statement continued.

According to Mrs. Wade, the state executive committee refused to make this request of Mrs. Fields on January 7, out of consideration for Mrs. Fields.

The matter was referred back to the general board and resulted in the abolition of the office of state biennial chairman on January 18.

The Texas board has no authority to recreate the office, and consequently there is nothing further which the board can do in the matter of retaining Mrs. Fields as chairman, Mrs. Wade declared.

Mrs. Drought is now in complete charge of biennial plans, it was explained. The state committee in charge of the convention was asked to act on the matter at its two-day meeting which ended yesterday, but it merely passed a resolution declaring lack of jurisdiction.

JUDGE R. O. KENLEY ADDRESSES LIONS ON MUNICIPAL ZOO

Judge R. O. Kenley, Wichita Falls attorney, spoke at the regular weekly luncheon of the Lions club at noon Wednesday on the municipal zoo.

"I am heartily in favor of the municipal zoo which you are sponsoring," he said. "I think there is nothing better than a zoo to teach city children the things of nature. Children of today do not get enough of nature. Their life is too artificial."

Referring to an invitation to attend the Fort Worth Fat Stock show extended to Wichita Falls by two representatives of the exposition who attended the luncheon, Judge Kenley said, "I commend to you the Fort Worth Fat Stock show. My wife and I attend it every year. There are many outstanding men which lend an added attraction to Fort Worth."

Bob Sweeney and Lon Fishback, dressed in cowhide boots and the other regulation attire of a cowpuncher, appeared before the club to extend personal invitation to attend the annual Southwestern Fat Stock Show and Exposition.

Mr. Sweeney announced that he and Mr. Fishback planned to cover 4500 miles in a publicity tour on behalf of the exposition. Fishback sang, "I Would Like to Be in Texas When They Round Up in the Spring," and Sweeney sang "My Blue Heaven."

It was announced that the losing side in the recent club contest would entertain the entire club with a barbecue at the residence of Dr. R. H. Graham, president, at Call field February 22. Roy E. Carter was captain of the losing team and E. F. Bohmfalk headed the victors.

Dr. Graham announced that the bear recently purchased from the St. Louis zoo would arrive next week and would be placed in the municipal zoo at Call field.

It was announced that the Lions Cub band and a delegation of club members would parade downtown at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening to advertise the comedy, "The Patsy," to be staged under the auspices of the club at the Wichita Falls Junior college auditorium February 13.

Mrs. J. S. Pitman announced that the Woman's Choral club had cleared $785 profit on the concert given here by John McCormack.

E. F. Bohmfalk led a singsong at the close of the meeting.

SHELBY COUNTY LIQUOR CONVICTION REVERSED

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—The one-year liquor conviction of Demos Johnson, Shelby county, was reversed and remanded Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals because his plea of immunity was stricken from the trial record and the defense bill of exception in that connection qualified by the trial judge over defense objection.

Johnson was refused benefit of his own testimony that he had gone before the grand jury and told "all about" his quart of whiskey on which the case was based. The consequent plea of immunity was improperly ruled out the high court held.

WICHITANS ARE ENTERTAINED FORT SILL POST

GOOD WILL DELEGATES ENJOY VISIT TO OKLAHOMA ON TUESDAY

LUNCHEON IS SERVED INSPECT RESERVATION

First Artillery Band Gives Concert and Wichitans Are Shown Army Equipment

By Staff Correspondent

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 8.—The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce good will delegation met with a splendid reception at the Fort Sill army post here Tuesday noon. Major General LeRoy Erwin, commandant, placed Captain J. E. Ray, editor of the Guidon, the official organ of Fort Sill in charge of the Wichitans. Captain Ray took the members of the delegation to the officers' mess for luncheon, and later showed them over the reservation.

The official host, Captain Ray showed the visitors the various types of field pieces now being used by the artillery corps at the fort. Inspection was made by the Wichitans of the barracks, mess halls, recreational rooms, stables and other interesting things about the camp.

The First Artillery band gave a concert for the delegation and as the band is one the best in the army it was a rare treat. This band may be brought to Wichita Falls to play in the new Memorial auditorium if certain members of the Wichita Falls good will crew can manage to persuade the army officials of the post to let them appear in concert.

Battery A, motorized light field artillery, Battery D, horse equipped, both using French 75's, were inspected by the visitors. The pieces of artillery were late models made in the United States. Major P. D. Glassford, commanding officer, and Captain A. E. Fox, adjutant, of the First Field artillery, personally conducted the Wichita Falls party through the area occupied by the artillery units.

The army horse show stables were inspected during the afternoon. The visitors saw several animals that are to be entered in the army's team at the Olympic games. The United States army has been competing in the equine events of the Olympic games since 1912. The animals being trained for the games at Fort Sill number 23. Major C. P. George is in charge of the training; Captain W. H. Colburn, Captain N. J. McMahon and Lieut. E. Y. Argo are also helping in the training of the army horse show team.

Major J. R. Alfonte, quartermaster corps, who was formerly commanding officer at Call Field near Wichita Falls, conferred with a number of the men about supplies for the future building.

Major Phillipe Hays, executive officer, welcomed the Wichitans in behalf of the commandant who could not greet the visitors personally. Major Hays stated that he had noticed a very friendly feeling existing between the officers and men of the military post toward the city and people of Wichita Falls.

The Texas-Oklahoma fair and the polo games held at Wichita Falls has been of much interest to those living at Fort Sill, Major Hays stated. An invitation was extended the visitors to return in May when the Fort Sill horse show will be held at the post.

Drowning of Pets By High Water Is Alleged Damage

The allegation that a cat, rabbit and other pets were drowned by water which flowed into a house after the grade on Broad street was changed in preparation for pavement was contained in a suit for $750 damages which, it was announced, would be brought against the city of Wichita Falls Wednesday afternoon.

Plaintiffs in the action are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mauldin, 2107 Broad street, and they are represented by C. J. Brannan, local attorney.

They allege that in the past, precipitation has drained from that area by following a number of diverging channels. Recently, it is alleged, however, the grade of Broad street was altered as a preliminary to pavement, and that, as a result, all water drains toward a common point so as to form a long-standing body of water of large size.

Following a recent rain, it is alleged, water flowed into the Mauldin home to a depth of six inches, damaging furniture, house and household goods. It further alleges that a "house cat, rabbit and other pets belonging to plaintiffs' son were drowned."

The suit, it was said, will specially allege that the city has been negligent in failing to provide sufficient storm sewer facilities to handle the drainage.

TO RESUME DRILLING IN TEST TWELVE MILES TO NORTH OF CLARENDON

CLARENDON, Texas, Feb. 8.—A contract was entered into this week with J. T. Thompson and Ernest Reynolds of Pampa for the completion of the A. T. test 12 miles north of this city which was drilled to 3500 feet last summer and discontinued. The contract calls for the well to be put down another 500 feet or to oil in paying quantities.

Several other blocks are being formed in the northern and eastern part of the county and it is thought that within 30 days several new locations will have been made in this county, with prospects of others soon.

WAR ON PRAIRIE DOGS BEGINS ON FORT SILL MILITARY RESERVATION

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 8.—Prairie dogs which formerly infested the Fort Sill military reservation by thousands, and which were objects of curiosity and interest to tourists, will shortly be seen no more on the 55,000 acres which compose the military ranges.

A war of extermination against the pests has been under way for the past two weeks and will continue as long as the active little animals can be found. Poison has been put out over the entire dog-infested areas of the reservation with the result that only about one hole in 20 now contain dogs. This treatment will be continued until all prairie dogs have been exterminated.

It is estimated that 60 per cent of the animals were destroyed during the poison campaign of last year. Persons with adjacent properties to the reservation have been requested to join in the process of extermination.

AT THE THEATERS

Well Balanced Vaudeville Bill For This Week

Comedy, music and an act featuring "new and greater mental achievements" make up what promises to be an unusually good vaudeville program at the Majestic Thursday and Friday.

Harry Kahne whose billing title is "New and Greater Mental Achievements," is a splendid looking young chap possessing a bright cheerful personality almost convincing manner and a marvelously superior mind which in conjunction with his ability as a chirographist permits him to offer what is conceded to be the greatest act of its kind ever witnessed by a discerning public. Concentration is the keynote of his offering single, double, triple and quintuple concentration in order named is performed with a certainty that never lacks confirmation. Quintuple concentration is the final feat offered. It consists of Mr. Kahne reading from a newspaper and writing exactly what he reads backwards. At the same time regarding the population of cities, capitols of countries, and what cities are noted for and adding a column of figures to represent the required total. It is a feat beyond comprehension and Mr. Kahne, "the master mind," is said to be the only person known to science who is capable of performing this feat successfully.

Dan Holt, Dale and Adair

Some people are born with an instinct for music, and to paraphrase an old saying, music is thrust upon many who have neither the desire nor the talent. But everyone should attend a conservatory if his object is musical supremacy. In "The Musical Conservatory" there are seven pupils—black faced entertainers — whose musical instinct is inborn. Five of them constitute the "Hazel Churchill Orchestra." The other two, Dale and Adair, play banjo and harmonica. Dan Holt the professor does not take his position very seriously. His methods of teaching are coated with fun. He puts the class through its recitations which includes several old time Southern tunes and tap dances.

Weston and Lyons

Joe Weston with different associates has been a factor in vaudeville for many seasons and very often has gone a starring in musical comedy. Several months ago while in Boston he attended a performance of a stock company in which Miss Collette Lyons was appearing. He was attracted by her fine performance and considered her just the type he was in quest of. Then Mr. Weston came back to vaudeville, and of course brought Miss Lyons with him. Here they are offering the type of entertainment which she had made popular—character impersonations, songs, dances and characteristic humor.

Bertram and Saxton

Gus Bertram and Vernon Saxton, the Kentuckians in "A Cycle of Songs," are considered by many as the best two-man singing teams in vaudeville. Their voices blend harmoniously and their program of popular melodies is always kept right up-to-the-minute. They possess an abundance of naive comedy and secure a goodly number of laughs with well placed catch lines.

Groh and His Piano Hounds

W. H. Groh, who is the Groh of the vaudeville combination known as Groh and Adonis, has enlarged his field of fun. The enlargement is both as to company and to material. The act is now known as "W. H. Groh and His Piano Hounds." These piano hounds are most unusual hounds. Who they are and what they are, must not be told in advance. Sufficient to say that there are no other piano hounds quite like these of Mr. Groh's. His assistants further include George La Rowe.

On the screen, Esther Ralston in "Love and Learn," comedy and Paramount News.

"The Patsy" Will Be Given Here Monday by Lions

"The Patsy," a comedy of American home life by Barry Conners, author of "Applesauce," will be presented at the Wichita Falls Junior College auditorium by the Redpath players February 13, under the auspices of the Lions club.

Receipts from the drama will go to the benefit of the Lions Club band and the junior high school libraries.

In the quarter ending September 30, 1927, 82,947 boy babies and 80,063 girl babies were born in England and Wales.
