HOMES GOING UP— The month of December brought applications for six new single family residences here. The overall new construction estimate rose to almost $2.7 million, more than $1.7 million ahead of figures reported this time last year. Regarding new residences, construction of 13 homes has been reported since October. (SDN Staff Photo)

AND OUTSIDE THE CITY — Dirt work has begun on the $1.9 million project to be called Willow Park Inn and located some ½ mile east of Snyder at the intersection of U.S. Highways 84 and 180. DA announces for judgeship

District Attorney Pete Greene announced Friday he will seek the position of district judge for the 132nd District which includes Scurry and Borden Counties.

Greene, age 38, officially announced his intent Friday morning. Current Judge Wayland G. Holt indicated Tuesday that he would not seek another term.

Greene, a native of Scurry County, has served as district attorney for the 132nd District since 1971, when he was appointed by then-Governor Preston Smith.

Since that time, he has won three successive four-year terms to the post.

Greene graduated from Snyder High School in 1963 and attended Texas Tech University in Lubbock, graduating from there in 1966.

He earned his law degree from Baylor University in November of 1968 and served as an assistant county attorney in Lubbock until April of 1969, when he was drafted into the U.S. Army.

Three month building total nears $2.7 million

As the 1983-84 fiscal year completed its third month, Snyder's building total continued to stay well ahead of the figures reported for the same period last year.

December's building permit figures reached more than $582,000. Aided by figures near $1 million-plus for both October and November, the year-to-date new construction estimate rose to almost $2.7 million.

By comparison, the new year of 1983 began with the building total still under $1 million. Exact figures for '84 and '83 respectively are $2,694,344 and $902,917.

December building projects featured six new single family residences — part of 13 new homes begun here since Oct. 1.

These accounted for the majority of building estimate dollars reported during December. Combined, they equaled almost $432,000 in new construction.

New residential construction is planned at 5503 Cedar Creek Drive, 4606 El Paso, 3608 44th St., 4308 Kerrville, 3203 Houston and 501 North Ave. Q.

Three mobile home move-ins were reported during December also. These were applied for by Petra Jasso, 201 N. Austin; Alvin Ollison, 1009 29th St.; and Pat Federick, 401 28th St.

For the year to date, 20 mobile home move-ins have been reported within the city.

Upsurge noted in nation's economy

By The Associated Press

The nation's civilian jobless rate fell to 8.2 percent in December as the labor market enjoyed its best recovery in 33 years, the Labor Department said today.

The U.S. economy's bullish performance also has put the stock market back on a record-breaking course, and the dollar is smashing records on foreign exchange markets.

And the major retail chains said December sales were the best in several years, while the big five domestic automakers reported the first year-to-year sales increase in four years.

The jobless rate was 8.4 percent in November. Since unemployment hit a post-Depression high of 10.7 percent in December 1982, total U.S. civilian employment has soared by 4 million.

The labor market recovery from the business slump of 1981-82 was at the fastest pace of any post-recession rally since 1951, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The agency initially reported the December 1982 unemployment rate was 10.8 percent, but today the BLS revised jobless statistics for the past 13 months and the new figures put December 1982 unemployment at 10.7 percent.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 13.19 points to 1,282.24 Thursday, leaving it less than 5 points below the record of 1,287.20 set Nov. 29, 1983.

Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange jumped to 159.99 million shares Thursday, easily surpassing the previous record of 149.35 million set Nov. 4, 1982.

Wall Street analysts said stocks, which took a moderate dive in December, were pulled out of the doldrums by a drop in interest rates and the anticipation of healthy reports on corporate earnings for the final quarter of 1983.

The dollar extended its record-setting advance today in European trading by reaching new heights in relation to the currencies of Britain, France, Italy and Norway. It also hit a 10-year high against the West German mark and the Dutch guilder.

The Federal Reserve Board said its measure of the dollar's exchange value, weighted on the basis of international trade with 10 nations, also climbed to a new record.

Meanwhile, the major retail chains checked in with the expected good news about the 1983 Christmas shopping season.

"Robust sales made this Christmas our merriest in years," said Bernard M. Fauber, chairman of K mart Corp.

Some registration by mail...

License policies change

Several changes have gone into effect in 1984 regarding Texas driver's licenses including an added service which will allow many Texans to renew their license by mail.

According to Snyder drivers license clerk Jessie Scarbrough, the identification system for types of motor vehicle licenses has changed as well.

Regarding license registration, persons with clear driving records for the past four-year period may qualify to register by mail. Those who qualify will be notified by a letter from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

After they return the registration information and fee, these persons will be mailed a separate card which must be carried in addition to the plastic license containing their identification photograph.

She noted that if either one is lost, the original license must then be renewed, however, which requires the taking of a new I.D. photograph.

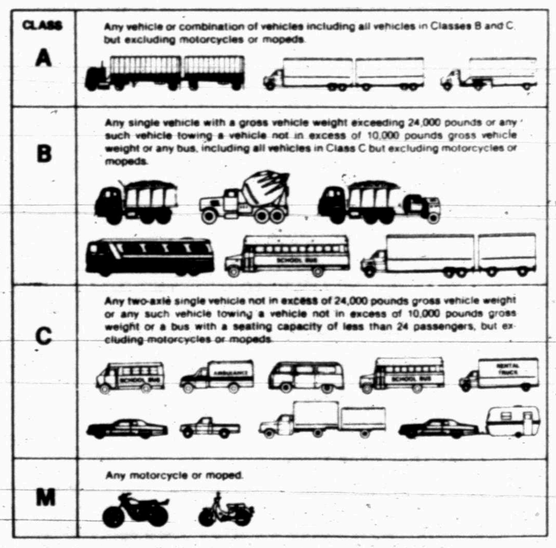

Beginning in 1984 also, licenses will no longer be classified under the old categories of operator, commercial or chaffeur.

A letter code will now be implemented and the various types of licenses will be either Class A, B, C or M. (The illustration at right explains what type vehicles are included in each class).

Other changes include the price for registration with all license fees now costing $10. In addition, the term before these licenses expire will change to four years for all classifications.

Scarbrough stressed that persons notified their license requires renewal should refrain from signing the renewal cards before coming to the license office. Under new guidelines, these must be

Store robbery report results in guilty plea

Four defendants, including one charged in connection with what law enforcement officials say was a bogus armed robbery reported last weekend at a Snyder convenience store, entered guilty pleas to various felony charges in Judge Wayland G. Holt's 132nd District Court Thursday afternoon.

Eighteen-year-old John Curtis Franks pleaded guilty to a charge of theft in an amount greater than $750 and less than $20,000 in exchange for a four-year probated prison term. He was arrested last Saturday afternoon in connection with the convenience store incident.

Michael Allen Peck of 2500 Ave. M entered a guilty plea to an indictment returned against him Tuesday for the Dec. 2 burglary of the Darrell Gordy residence in

If you are at or approaching the big "40" you know you've turned the corner when:

--You have an arm wrestling match with your kid and lose.

--All you want to do after going home from work is rest.

--Old people suddenly don't look that old anymore, and teenagers look like children.

--Your kids get hold of your high school yearbook and ask how the girls got their hair to blow up like that.

--You watch an old movie that was one of your favorites in high school and notice the girls do look like their hair was blown up.

--You notice that every player on the Dallas Cowboys roster has a later birthday than your own.

--You decide to try some waterskiing tricks that once were simple, and you can't do them any more.

--You care more about gas mileage and comfort of a car than what it looks like.

--Someone asks how old you are--and you lie.

The banker said he couldn't afford an airplane.

"Well, you can amorize it," the salesman said.

"You can tell banking isn't what it used to be," the banker observed, "when customers start asking you to make amorous loans."

Q. — Will the insurance rates of persons found guilty of DWI be affected by the new law now in effect in Texas?

A. — Yes. The law includes a clause allowing insurance companies to add a charge to the premium cost for a three-year period to persons convicted of driving while intoxicated.

In Brief

Texas jobless rate increases

DALLAS (AP) — Buoyed by good economic news, a large number of people returned to the labor market in Texas last month but failed to find jobs and pushed the state's unemployment rate up 1 percent to 7.7 percent, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

In November, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate stood at 6.7 percent. In December 1982, the adjusted figure was 8 percent.

"Over the month, the labor force, employment and unemployment all rose," said Bryan Richey, regional commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Man charged with murder of his family

LAMPASAS, Texas (AP) — A 29-year-old Lometa man has been charged with the murders of his father, mother and sister, who were robbed and found slain in their home.

James Haydon of Lometa was arrested about 4 p.m. Thursday at the sheriff's office, said Lampasas County Sheriff Gordon Morris. Haydon has no permanent address or occupation, Morris said.

Haydon, 29, is charged in the shooting deaths of his father Noah Haydon, 60, his mother Edna Haydon, 49, and sister Amanda, 5.

James Haydon had reported the slayings, saying he discovered the bodies Monday during a visit to his family's home in the West Central Texas city of 670.

Morris said investigators believe robbery was "partially" the motive for the killings, "but I am not at liberty to say at this time what the rest of it was."

Wheelchair Users Appreciate Common Sense and Courtesy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: "Four-Wheeler" asked why someone hasn't written a booklet on wheelchair etiquette. Well, someone has. The Schoitz Medical Center in Waterloo, Iowa, has prepared a pamphlet titled, "What do I do when I meet a person in a wheelchair?" It offers suggestions for non-wheelchair users who encounter wheelchair users.

Below are the 12 guidelines from that booklet:

1. Always ask the wheelchair user if he or she would like assistance before you help. Your help may not be needed or wanted.

2. Don't hang or lean on a person's wheelchair because it is part of the wheelchair user's personal body space.

3. Speak directly to the person in the wheelchair, not to someone nearby as if the wheelchair user did not exist.

4. If conversation lasts more than a few minutes, consider sitting down or kneeling to get yourself on the same level as the wheelchair user.

5. Don't demean or patronize the wheelchair user by patting him or her on the head.

6. Give clear directions, including distance, weather conditions and physical obstacles that may hinder the wheelchair user's travel.

7. Don't discourage children from asking questions about the wheelchair. Open communication helps overcome fearful or misleading attitudes.

8. When a wheelchair user "transfers" out of the wheelchair to a chair, toilet, car or bed, do not move the wheelchair out of reaching distance.

9. It is OK to use expressions like "running along" when speaking to the wheelchair user. It is likely the wheelchair user expresses things the same way.

10. Be aware of a wheelchair user's capabilities. Some users can walk with aid and use wheelchairs because they can conserve energy and move about quickly.

11. Don't classify persons who use wheelchairs as sick. Wheelchairs are used for a variety of non-contagious disabilities.

12. Don't assume that using a wheelchair is in itself a tragedy. It is a means of freedom that allows the user to move about independently.

The center will be happy to send the pamphlet free to anyone who requests it with a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Write the Public Relations Office, Schoitz Medical Center, Kimball and Ridgeway Avenues, Waterloo, Iowa 50702.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty years ago, I was the "other woman." I thought I was lucky when he divorced his wife and married me. I was 24 and he was 35 at the time.

Now 20 years later I'm miserable. He never changed. He just changed wives. All the heartaches he caused his first wife with his lying and cheating are now mine. His first wife didn't lose when she lost him—I lost when I got him.

Abby, please tell women to think hard and long before they get involved with a married man. I can speak only for myself, but it wasn't worth it. Too many people were hurt. First, she was hurt, and now I am hurting.

Actress sues for millions

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for Trader Vic's, the popular restaurant on the ground floor of the posh Plaza Hotel, will get to question the dentist of actress Gina Lollobrigida, who's suing the eatery for $10 million in the case of a broken tooth.

The suit stems from an incident June 17, 1980, when the 55-year-old actress says she broke a tooth while eating shrimp. She contends that from biting into a "hard foreign object" she suffered injury to her "head, body, limbs and nervous system" and that her occupation was affected.

Permission to question Dr. Marc Benhuri was granted by state Supreme Court Justice Andrew R. Tyler in a ruling Tuesday. He also said the lawyers could look over Miss Lollobrigida's dental records.

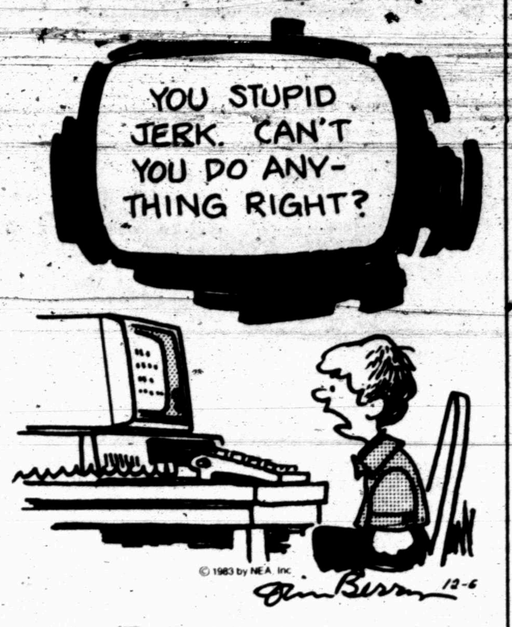

In 1979, Trader Vic's was sued by actor Yul Brynner who claimed he contracted trichinosis while eating spare ribs. That case was resolved in an out-of-court settlement.

Berry's World

"WHO NEEDS THIS?!"

Paul Harvey

In Lebanon, who's on first?

Have American forces been committed to another impossible situation?

Before the hundreds of American dead become thousands — or tens of thousands — we'd better decide if it's worth it.

Lebanon is a tiny mountainous nation east of the Mediterranean — 3 million people who speak Arabic — though Islam is not their national religion.

For hundreds of years, the cacophany of religions have been in conflict: Christian Maronites, Sunni Moslems, Shute Moslems, Greek Orthodox, Druze Moslems, Greek Catholics, Armenian Gregorians, an assortment of Protestants plus some Armenian Catholics and some Syrian Orthodox.

Despite this polyglot population, until their civil war Lebanon enjoyed the highest standard of living in the Middle East, and the highest literacy rate — 70 percent — one of the highest in the world?

The Christian people of Lebanon would prefer to be part of the West, rather than of the Arab world. But Moslems have now become that country's majority.

There is a lesson for other nations in what has happened to Lebanon.

A Christian president opened the door to Palestinian refugees. They flooded in.

Also, the birthrate among Moslems is high.

So many Christians who could afford to leave the country, increasingly uncomfortable, left.

Arab oil wealth became Arab power in the Middle East.

Arab power promoted Moslem power — further challenging Christians in the Middle East in general and in Lebanon in particular.

If this is beginning to appear "a religious war," it is.

Syria, for generations, has dreamed of "Syria Al Dubra," a "greater Syria to include Jordan and Lebanon."

I went there in 1958 when Eisenhower put troops ashore to help Lebanon defend itself.

In 1983 we are too little and too late.

Palestinians used Lebanon as a base for attacks on Israel until Israel got fed up and moved in in 1982. So now the country is jointly occupied by Syrians, Israelis and Palestinians — with the Lebanese — in their own country — left out.

Nobody — not they, not the Soviets and not us — nobody is going to put that Humpty-Dumpty together.

And even a rich nation could bleed to death trying.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Ringing in the ears

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've had constant ringing in my ears for six weeks. Tests showed I'm losing hearing in both ears. My doctor suggested a hearing aid and said it might help the ringing.

When I go to bed I also have pounding in my ears. It seems to be my heart beating or "running away."

I now must have a thyroid test and scans, which have nothing to do with my ears. I'm not satisfied with my doctor's diagnosis. I'd like to know what you think.

DEAR READER — Many people have trouble with noises and ringing in their ears. Each case deserves medical evaluation because some are simple problems, such as wax in the ear, while other problems can be more significant. Still others remain unexplained.

It's true that when a person begins to lose his hearing he may hear strange noises. Since you don't hear other sounds as well, you're more aware of the ringing and buzzing sensations. Some of those sensations aren't really from the ear, but may be related to the circulation to the brain.

When there is a hearing loss the use of a hearing aid may eliminate the ringing and buzzing. When a hearing disorder is caused by some correctable defect, correcting the defect may eliminate the noise.

One purpose of the examination is to find out whether you have a hearing loss, and, if so, if it's correctable.

The sensation of hearing your heart pounding may be an entirely different matter. Your letter said your heart was "running," which I presume means it's fast. This may be why you're having a thyroid scan. The question here is why you have a fast heartbeat. An overactive thyroid can cause a fast heartbeat.

The different causes for ear noises and what can be done about them are discussed in more details in The Health Letter 12-10, Help for Tinnitus — Noise or Ringing in the Ear, which I am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm interested in the staph germ. I have arthritic bunches on the upper joint of each finger. I often cut or bruise them and a slight infection occurs. A friend said I might have the staph germ, which she said was very infectious.

DEAR READER — Your are referring to staphylococcus germs. They are present on our skin. Most don't cause any harm, but the germs can invade a cut and cause serious infections. A common boil or abscess usually is caused by the staphylococcus germs infecting the skin.

Those little bunches you mentioned may be nodules. If they're at the joint directly above the fingernail, they probably are caused by osteoarthritis. Swelling or enlargement of the second and third joints, closer to the hand, is more often from rheumatoid arthritis.

You can help prevent hand infections by keeping little cuts clean. Sponge the area with alcohol when first injured. If you develop a significant infection you should see your doctor at once.

Beta Sigma Phi plans annual dance

"Sociology: A Study of Family" was Carol Miller's program topic for Beta Sigma Phi Jan. 2. She discussed the roles of each family member, behavior, interaction of children and parents and social values.

Nineteen members were present for the meeting held at Snyder Country Club with Dena Ellis presiding. Cindy Gayle announced the next club social will be held Jan. 21 at the home of Mona Bryan. Tickets for the Feb. 4 Valentine Dance at the country club were distributed by Twila Polk. She announced that the Tiny Lynn Band, an area favorite, would again play for the dance.

Traditionally Beta Sigma Phi selects a Valentine queen. Last year's queen, Jackie Buckland, entended an invitation to members to a reception prior to the dance when a new queen will be crowned. The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 17 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

GET OUT THE VOTE—The local chapter of American Association of University Women will soon begin an effort to encourage area residents to vote in the upcoming elections. P.F. Saunders writes humorous articles in International Popular Bridge. He uses the first person to describe hands played by his wife, who is the family expert, or by himself, in which he usually does something wrong.

This time he has his wife describe one of her own rare mistakes. Her start is, "I failed to defeat a game contract that I had doubled because I failed to come up with the correct play at trick two."

"I led the king of spades. Dummy played the deuce, my partner the nine and South the three."

The husband continues with, "Obviously, a spade continuation was called for. She leads her six of spades with every intention of getting in with the ace of trumps and giving her partner a spade ruff."

Expert wife says, "That's what I thought. I led a small spade. The jack was played from dummy and held the trick. Then declarer cashed dummy's ace of hearts to jettison his ace of spades."

The husband commiserates with "You couldn't possibly have seen that."

"I certainly could have seen that I had nothing to lose by playing my queen of spades at trick two. Declarer could not get to dummy and I would set the hand by giving my partner that spade ruff."

Cranberries turn into turnovers

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

At this time of year a cook's fancy may turn to using a holiday food, still on hand, in a new way. That's what we did with some leftover cranberry orange relish.

That relish — invented many years ago by a New York City home economist — has become a classic American offering at Christmas time, and it has been used in many ways. But interestingly enough, we were unable to find a recipe using it as a filling for baked pastry turnovers. A search through our large collection of leaflets and booklets plus several books on cranberry cooking and lore revealed no turnover recipes in which even plain cranberries appeared.

The next step, naturally, was to develop a turnover recipe in my own kitchen. Here it is for your consideration.

CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH TURNOVERS

¼-pound stick butter (½ cup)
3 ounce package cream cheese, soft
1 cup unbleached all-purpose flour
Cranberry Orange Relish, well drained (see Note)
Milk

In a medium bowl with a wooden spoon beat together the butter and cream cheese until blended. Gradually stir in the flour until blended. Turn out onto a sheet of saran and shape into about a 4-inch square; wrap tightly; chill until firm enough to handle.

On a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll dough so it is just a little larger than a 12-inch square. Trim edges; save the trimmings to make an extra turnover. Cut the 12-inch square into nine 4-inch squares.

Drop about a tablespoon of the Cranberry Orange Relish off center on each square. Fold each over to make a triangle; press edges with fork tines to seal well. Prick each top with the fork in 4 equidistant places. Place, well apart, on an ungreased cookie sheet; brush tops with a little milk.

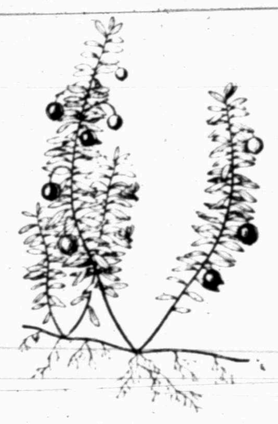

Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until golden brown — 15 minutes. Remove with a wide spatula. Serve hot or warm.

Makes 10.

Note: In my kitchen our original Cranberry Orange Relish called for 1 unpeeled, seedless medium orange (cut into 8 wedges); 1 unpeeled, cored, medium McIntosh apple (cut into 8 wedges); a 12-ounce bag (3 cups) cranberries and 1 to 1½ cups sugar.

To use our method: in a food processor with the metal blade process half the orange wedges until finely chopped; add half the apple wedges and process until the apple is fairly fine. Empty the mixture into a container. With the metal blade, chop half the cranberries until fine; add to the orange-apple mixture with half the sugar and stir well. Repeat with the second batch of orange, apple, cranberries and sugar. Before using, tightly cover, and refrigerate overnight.

To use your own leftover Cranberry Orange Relish or some made by our recipe as a filling for the Turnovers, drain enough to make 2-3rds cup and stir in 2 teaspoons all-purpose flour.

WEEDERS GUIDE

Move over all you other nuts and make way for macadamias, which are bursting from their shells in increasing numbers in Hawaii.

The macadamia nut industry is growing an estimated 15 percent annually, mostly on the lush "Big Island" of Hawaii, thriving in the volcanic soil, and more uses are being developed for the tasty, delicate gourmet item.

My guide was Bill Cushnie, orchard manager for Mauna Loa Macadamia Nut Co., reportedly the world's largest processor, which has 300,000 macadamia trees alone at Keeau, near Hilo.

The tropical evergreens with holly-like leaves grow to a height of 40 feet. They spend their first two years in nursery pots before being transplanted to orchards where they begin bearing at age 7 and mature at 14. Some trees bear for 100 years, Cushnie, a native Hawaiian, related.

Asked why the buttery-flavored nuts were expensive, Cushnie said it was due to the long harvest period — spread over seven months — high labor and land costs, and the long time before a tree produces. The trees, which have sweet-scented blossoms, bear nuts in waves requiring five or six harvests.

Because the trees are shallow-rooted, windbreaks of Norfolk pine, some 60-70 feet tall, are used to shelter them from the strong island winds.

The nuts fall to the ground when ripe. Some are harvested by hand or nets. But large growers use a 100 mph wind fan to blow leaves away; then sweepers gather nuts into windrows, and gleaners with suction cups pick up and load nuts into bins for transport to the processing plant.

Jim Kendrick, Mauna Loa vice president of manufacturing, said the higher the tree canopy the more nuts. He estimated that each mature tree bears about 6,000 nuts per year (60 to the pound wet in the shell.)

Half the nut weight is in the husk, which is removed. Then the nuts are dried to help remove the kernels without their splitting.

The nuts, about ¾ of an inch in diameter, need 330 pounds of pressure per square inch, using counter-rotating steel rollers, to break the tough shells.

Kendrick explained that large-size nuts have aesthetic value but all sizes taste the same. The nuts are graded, roasted in coconut oil and packaged.

Kendrick says major uses of macadamias are as cocktail snacks, in ice cream, baked goods, candy brittle, in glazes, and for food service as a sprinkle for fish and chicken, as are almond slivers.

Macadamias are also grown in Australia, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Kenya.

The husks and shells do not go to waste. They are burned, the heat used for drying nuts.

Macadamia nuts were introduced into Hawaii in 1881 by William H. Purvis, who brought seeds from Australia to his sugar plantation on the Big Island.

They were named for Dr. John Macadam, an Australian scientist.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A house is a place where there never is enough storage space. It is also a place where the lack of sufficient storage space has, in many cases, pushed the automobile out of its assigned area in the garage.

Strangely, the garage, even when it's apparently filled with both necessities and junk, is the very location where plenty of storage space still exists. The trick is to look around until the available space becomes visible. It's there. You simply have to find it.

In most garages, especially in the suburbs, the studs on the inside are open and begging to be used as supports for shelves. Attach the shelves to the studs any way you wish, the easiest being to place them on small wooden cleats on the sides of the studs. To keep things from sliding off, if that appears to be a problem, nail small strips of wood to the outer edges of the shelves.

In addition to shelves, small cabinets also can be placed between the studs. Just be sure that the few extra inches will not interfere with the movement of your car and the opening of the car doors. Most cabinets can be open, but if you plan on using a couple of them for the storage of materials that you don't want children to touch, put simple doors on them that can be locked. Even if you have no knowledge of carpentry, don't let any of this intimidate you. Precision work is not necessary, since the shelves and cabinets are to be functional, not decorative. When the shelves and cabinets are to hold something heavy, use metal brackets screwed into the outer edges of the studs.

When the studs are not visible, the most usual material covering them is gypsum board. In that event, it is easy to cut into the board and uncover the space you will need. Where there is enough room, you don't even have to cut into the gypsum board. Build the shelves and cabinets outside the board and attach them through the board into the studs.

A great place for hanging tools and garden equipment is on perforated hardboard, screwed or hammered into the studding. Some space is required behind the perforations so the necessary metal clips can be attached to them. The space is already there if the board is to be hung on open studding. If not, put a few horizontal strips on the wall, then attach the perforated board to them. This will create the needed space for the hanging of the clips.

A way to create extra storage space in the garage is to build a kind of platform, resting on two legs attached to the wall and two outer legs. The platform can be used for the storing of special materials you don't want to leave on the floor, while the space under the platform can be utilized for other items.

How about the space over your car? You can hang a platform from the rafters and use it for the storage of articles used only once or twice a year. You can reach it from a ladder that can rest against the platform, so be sure the platform is extra sturdy. If you want to get ambitious and have the skill, you can build a storage area that is more like a room and attach a folding stairway to it. Remember, anything you build in the space above the car must not interfere with the opening and closing of the garage door, but that is easy to handle if you check and measure properly before you begin.

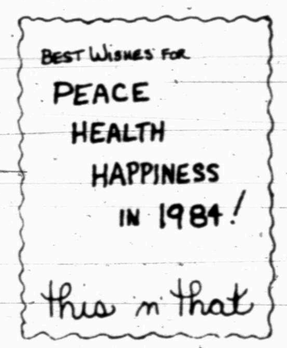

Placing extra or old tires against the wall at the far end of the garage not only gets them out of the way, but serves as a buffer in case a driver doesn't stop exactly where he or she should.

And, if you are lucky enough to have a large garage and do not need to park any cars in it, consider the possibility of converting it into an extra room or two.

Dusters dump Cowley

TONKAWA, Okla. -- Western Texas College's Dusters, playing their first game in almost a month, rocked Cowley Community College of Kansas here Thursday, 70-51, to advance to the semifinals of the Tournament of Champions.

In other games played Thursday, Amarillo popped Rogers State 87-53, Crowder College defeated Hutchinson, Kan. 64-60 and host Northern Oklahoma rapped Bacone College 86-79.

Western, boasting a 15-3 record, will play Northern Oklahoma at 8 tonight. The winner plays at 8 Saturday in the championship game while the loser vies at 6 for third place.

"We're in for a tough one tonight," said Coach Joe Cushing. "I don't know how many years they've had this tournament, but Northern Oklahoma has won it every year."

Cushing said that despite the 19-point spread, the game was a close one.

"We played good defense, that was the difference. We didn't shoot the ball well (31 of 83). They have stiff backboards and rims here and I don't know how many layups we missed. There were a bunch of them. And of course this was our first game after the holidays. Our timing was off and our rhythm was off and we're not in shape like we were before the holidays. But I was very pleased with the way we played, especially considering those things."

Cowley countered WTC stakeout freshman Clara Campbell with 6-5 Sheryl Pfalzgraff and cut off the Dusters' inside game. Sophomore Mary Nell Clayton got the hot hand from outside however, and pumped in 30 points to lead all scorers.

Meanwhile, Campbell had her usual defensive game, grabbing 13 rebounds along with five steals and four blocked shots. She added 8 points.

Sophomore Karen Kuykendall scored 10 points and had seven rebounds. Freshman guard Rhonda Hoelting also had 10 points. Renvy Evans yanked down seven boards as well, as the Dusters ruled the boards 41 to 30 and had only 12 turnovers to Cowley's 20.

Cowley got 14 points from Juana Wilson and 12 from Jane Hess.

Fryar among players in East-West game

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) - Irving Fryar was shipped to the ground in agony because he felt he'd let his Nebraska teammates down in the Orange Bowl.

The All-American wide receiver, no matter how well he does on Saturday, will be helping many people. He'll participate in the 59th annual East-West football game, played for the benefit of crippled children who get free care in Shriner's hospitals around the country.

Another player in the game, Florida quarterback Wayne Peace, said after visiting the hospital in San Francisco this week, "It's so easy to think things aren't going well, that you have problems. This kind of thing lets you know that you've got everything in the world."

Things did not go well for Fyrar in the final minute of Monday's Orange Bowl game.

He was wide open at the goal line with a minute remaining and his team behind 31-24 when he dropped a perfect pass from quarterback Turner Gill. The Cornhuskers scored on the next play but lost the game and the national championship to Miami's Hurricanes when Gill's pass to Jeff Smith on a two-point conversion attempt fell incomplete.

Fryar should have several opportunities to remind a national television audience and about 70,000 fans at Stanford Stadium how good a receiver he is. Gill and Arizona's Tom Tunnicliffe are the quarterbacks who will be aiming at Fryar and other West receivers.

The East squad includes Miami tight end Glenn Dennison, who caught two touchdown passes in the Orange Bowl, and linebacker Jay Brophy of the No. 1 Hurricanes.

Mike Rozier, Nebraska's Heisman Trophy winner, is on the West team but will miss the game because of the ankle injury suffered Monday night. Tulsa's Michael Gunter has taken his place and will share the running back duties with Kevin Nelson of UCLA and Alfred Anderson of Baylor.

Nelson, younger brother of former Stanford star Darrin Nelson, scored a touchdown and ran for 69 yards in UCLA's Rose Bowl victory over Illinois.

Young guides Houston past Mustangs, 60-59

DALLAS (AP) - Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon gets most of the publicity but it's been senior Michael Young who has taken charge for the seventh-ranked Houston Cougars.

Young produced in the clutch again Thursday night, scoring a game-high 24 points and making a key steal-and-bucket that sealed a 60-59 Southwest Conference opening basketball victory over Southern Methodist.

The Cougars were outrebounded 45-24 by SMU and Olajuwon lost his personal duel with Mustang center Jon Koncak.

Koncak scored 21 points and hauled down 15 rebounds. Olajuwon scored 14 points, had 5 rebounds and 4 blocked shots. However, he also was whistled for goal-tending four times.

"I'm the senior and it's my responsibility to pick up the slack," said Young. "I feel like every ball game we play somebody has to carry the load and I take it upon myself every game."

The Cougars, now 11-2 for the season, became the first team to win 25 straight SWC games.

Young's 10-foot jump shot came after he stole an SMU pass and drove the length of the floor.

SMU dropped to 12-3 with the loss before a sellout crowd of 9,534 fans in Moody Coliseum.

Olajuwon had to play the final 8:29 of the game with four fouls. His goal tend of a Koncak shot gave SMU A 59-58 lead with 2:05 to play before Young's steal.

Houston resumes action Saturday night by hosting TCU while the Mustangs entertain Rice in a regionally televised game.

In other SWC action Saturday, Texas A&M is at Arkansas in an afternoon televised game and Texas Tech is at Texas.

Neikro joins the Yankees

ATLANTA (AP) - Phil Niekro is headed for the Big Apple.

"We are pleased to announce we have reached an agreement with the New York Yankees and consider it an opportunity for Phil to continue his distinguished career with an excellent organization," Niekro's agent, Bruce Church, told the Associated Press Thursday.

After 20 years of facing National League batters as a Brave, first in Milwaukee and then in Atlanta, Niekro will be taking his knuckleball to the American League for the first time.

"Maybe the American League will be good for me," Niekro told the Atlanta Constitution in an interview published today. "I know some people have suggested not hitting and running the bases will keep me stronger. The league will be a challenge and, I think, a lot of fun." The American League uses a designated hitter.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Washington Redskins' back-to-basics offense - John Riggins left, John Riggins right - is warming up for a busy afternoon Sunday when the defending Super Bowl champions play San Francisco for the National Football Conference Championship.

"We are not so bullheaded as to say we are going to run John 50 times no matter what," said assistant coach Joe Bugel. "But you know that sooner or later John is going to get the ball. The fans would kill us if he didn't."

Riggins, averaging 23 carries a game, rushed for 1,347 yards and scored a record 24 touchdowns this season. In last Sunday's playoff victory over Los Angeles he carried the ball 25 times for 119 yards, the fifth straight playoff game he has rushed for over 100 yards.

Earlier this week, Riggins predicted that he would carry the ball some 37 times.

Bugel, architect of an offensive line that includes All-Pros Joe Jacoby, Russ Grimm and Jeff Bostic, says the Redskins will run straight ahead against the 49ers, moving inside the tackles.

"That's our cup of tea. If you don't stop us there you don't stop us," he said.

Defensively, the 49ers will use both three-four and multiple four-three defenses.

"They show you a number of different looks depending on the situation," Bugel said.

Bugel, who came to the Redskins three years ago after building the Houston Oiler offensive line that carried Earl Campbell to the rushing crown, says the 49er defense is loaded with talent.

"There are some guys back there who can hurt us. (Fred) Dean, (Dwaine) Board and (Jack) Reynolds are three of the best. Their secondary is the best we have seen this year. All hard hitters and all talented athletes," Bugel said.

The Redskins, 15-2, go into Sunday's championship with a 10-game winning streak. The 49ers, who edged Detroit 24-23, last week to advance to the title game, have won four straight in raising their record to 11-6.

The first meeting between the two teams in three years, it will mark the first time that a conference championship game will feature the winners of the two preceding Super Bowls.

"This will be a classic," said Bugel. "They won a Super Bowl and then we won a Super Bowl. What more can you ask?"

The 49ers were to workout today and Saturday at the University of Maryland.

Hart looking to new league

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Add Jim Hart, former star quarterback for the St. Louis Cardinals, to the list of those seeking jobs in the United States Football League.

Hart, 39, insisting he's still feeling spry enough to compete, became available when the Cards unceremoniously cut him.

"I've been waiting for this conversation for a number of weeks," the veteran of 18 seasons in the National Football League said after getting the news from Coach Jim Hanifan Wednesday. "It didn't surprise me."

Hart also declared despite the wear and tear of 198 games and 5,069 passes, he was not ready for retirement.

Raiders aware of how wild card club can win

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Can a wild card team make it to the Super Bowl? Yes, indeed, and nobody knows more about that than the Los Angeles Raiders.

Just three years ago when the Raiders, then playing in Oakland, not only got to the Super Bowl as a wild card. They won it decisively.

Now, the Raiders are favored in their attempt to return to the National Football League's showcase event. Standing in their way are the Seattle Seahawks, a wild-card entry in post-season action for the first time.

"What impresses me about them is what impressed me about us three years ago," said tight end Todd Christensen of the Raiders. "They appear to be a team of destiny and that, a lot of the time, is a lot more scary than their ability.

"I think we have a collection of better athletes, but that really at this time of the season is irrelevant. The year that we won the Super Bowl, there were at least three teams that were better than we were but we went all the way because we got the breaks and we made things happen."

The Seahawks will be trying to make things happen Sunday in the American Football Conference championship game at the Los Angeles Coliseum before a hostile crowd of more than 90,000 and a national television audience. Kickoff time is 1 p.m., PST.

The winner will advance to Super Bowl XVIII at Tampa, Fla., on Jan. 22 against the survivor of the NFC Championship game between San Francisco and Washington earlier Sunday.

Three years ago, the Raiders went 11-5 and finished second to San Diego in the AFC West. They got to Super Bowl XV by beating Houston, Cleveland and the Chargers, and won it with ease, whipping Philadelphia 27-10.

"If you'd asked me if I would be surprised to be in the AFC game the first of the season, I would have said yes," said Seattle wide receiver Steve Largent. "But at this point, taking them one game at a time like we have, I would say no. Last week (a 27-20 upset of Miami) was no fluke. We deserved to win."

The Seahawks were 9-7 during the regular season including 38-36 and 34-21 victories over the Raiders. They earned their wild-card berth by beating the New York Giants 17-12 and the New England Patriots 24-6 in the final two games of the season.

After whipping Denver 31-7 in the AFC wild card game, Seattle disposed of the favored Dolphins last Saturday to earn its berth in the title game.

The Raiders, runaway winners of the AFC West title, were 12-4 before blasting Pittsburgh 38-10 in their first playoff action last Sunday. Seattle tied for second in the AFC West with Denver.

"We're a team that's improving and improving the most in the last three games we've played," said Largent. "We're still an unpredictable team. If we can stay in our game plan and run the ball well, we can be awfully hard to beat."

Not only did the Seahawks beat the Raiders twice this season, they've beaten them five times in the last six meetings.

Turnbull upset

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pam Casale upset Wendy Turnbull 6-4, 6-7, 6-4 to advance to the quarterfinals of the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Washington women's tennis tournament.

Mobil lawsuit is settled

LAREDO, Texas (AP) Millionaire rancher Clinton Manges said he would meet in Houston with two firms interested in buying oil and gas leases he won in the settlement of a $1.7 billion lawsuit against Mobil Oil Corp.

The settlement was reached Thursday morning and approved by visiting Judge George Miller. Agreement followed months of complex negotiations between Mobil, Manges, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and Exxon Corp.

Mobil was not required to make a cash payment under the terms of the agreement, but Manges and the state will begin receiving proceeds from 129 producing oil and gas wells, 76 belonging to Manges and 59 owned by the state.

The money from the state's wells will go to the public education fund.

Manges and Texas are expected to receive several hundred million dollars more, when the mineral rights they won in the suit are leased.

Manges said he he was going to Houston Thursday night for a meeting with two potential lease buyers.

Manges said he was "real happy" with the agreement.

Mobil said in a statement released after the hearing that it was "pleased to have concluded the matter." But it said that it maintained from the beginning that its lease was valid but decided to settle rather than going to trial "because of the extremely high cost of lengthy litigation."

Snyder.

Peck, who was also serving a probated sentence for burglary of a habitation granted in September, had his probation revoked and was also sentenced to six years in the Texas Department of Corrections for the new offense.

William Lee Steel entered guilty pleas to two of three charges against him. The third charge was dropped. He had been indicted for the Oct. 4 theft of two three-wheel motorcycles from Key Brothers Honda Dealership in Snyder; the Oct. 17 burglary of the Jimmy Joe Key residence in northwest Scurry County; and the Nov. 7 burglary of the Von Criswell residence in the Kingswood Apartments in east Snyder.

Steel entered his pleas in exchange for a 10-year probated term in connection with the motorcycle thefts and a separate five-year probated term in connection with the Key residence burglary. Charges against Steel in connection with the Criswell residence burglary were dismissed in light of his other pleas.

Also entering a guilty plea and receiving a two-year jail term was Earl Eugene Morris, indicted Tuesday for felony DWI. Morris had been on probation for burglary of a residence since December of 1981 and also had that probationary term revoked by the court.

Assault reported

Police investigated a reported assault incident noted early Thursday morning by junior high school officials.

School officials called police at 8:28 a.m. and reported that three students had been harrassed and possibly assaulted while waiting for a school bus in the 1000 Block of 25th St.

Detectives report having identified and questioned a suspect in the incident but no arrest was made. The case has been referred to district court officials.

Car fender said dented

Two misdemeanor complaints were filed with city police Thursday morning.

Rose Villa of 2402 Ave. L called police at 8:31 p.m. and reported the vandalism of her car. According to reports, someone had apparently dented the left front fender of her 1979 Thunderbird while the car was parked at her residence between 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday.

Marsha Burrus, an employee of Hinshaw's House of Flowers in the 2800 Block of College Ave., called police at 11:59 a.m. and filed a misdemeanor theft report.

Burrus told investigators that a mantle clock, valued at $165, had been stolen from the shop earlier in the morning.

In other action, officers arrested one local man on a charge of public intoxication early Friday morning.

One wreck Thursday

A single minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder Thursday afternoon.

According to reports, a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Clemey Smith Andress of 1811 Huffman Ave. was involved in a collision with a 1979 Pontiac driven by Paul Christian Wiman of 2300 32nd St. It occurred in the 2700 Block of 32nd St. at 3:24 p.m.

No injuries were reported in the accident and damage to both vehicles was listed as minor to moderate.

Cases said cleared with juvenile arrests

Snyder police detectives reported clearing three recent misdemeanor complaints with the arrest of two juvenile suspects Thursday night.

According to reports, the suspects were arrested in connection with the Jan. 2 vandalism of the Drilling Mud Inc. offices on 29th St.; the Jan. 4 burglary of a Coke machine at the Bunkhouse rooming house; and a Jan. 4 theft of an electric motor from a Snyder Heating and Air Conditioning truck parked at the Densell Fambro residence at 2102 41st St.

Both suspects were released to the custody of their parents.

City officers also arrested a female juvenile suspect on a misdemeanor shoplifting charge around 3 p.m. Thursday. Police were called to Eckerd Drug in the Varsity Square Shopping Center by the store manager and took the subject into custody.

She was later released to the custody of her parents.
