CELEBRATION AT LAKE NEXT MONTH

PLANS ARE UNDER WAY FOR BIG EVENT THERE WHEN CAR
LINE IS RUNNING.

OLD FASHIONED PICNIC

Political Speaking May Be Feature if Present Plans are Carried Out
For the Occasion.

If the plans now under way are carried out the lake will be the scene of a big celebration some time next month after the car line is in operation and after the improvements there are available for the public's amusement. It had been planned to hold a celebration there on July Fourth, but this was abandoned until the car line could be completed.

It is proposed to have the celebration take the form of an old-fashioned country picnic, with political speeches and other attractions that are certain to prove drawing cards. If this plan is decided upon, speakers of Statewide prominence will be invited.

The pavilion will be completed by the time the celebration is held and there will be no lack of amusement means. The matter is to be brought up before the Chamber of Commerce and will be arranged for as soon as possible.

A Correction.

In making mention of the progress being made on the extension of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern from Frederick to Mangum, the Times said, in effect, that as soon as this extension was finished the two mixed trains now running between Wichita Falls and Frederick would be superseded by regular passenger trains. The Northwestern has been running on regular schedule time a first class passenger train between Wichita Falls and Frederick for the past year or more. What the Times meant to say was that when the extension to Mangum was finished, the local or mixed trains would be abandoned and in its stead another regular passenger train put on, so as to give two passenger trains both ways on this line of road, instead of one passenger and one mixed train each way, as now.

FLOOD SITUATION IS NOW SERIOUS

MANY TRAINS ARE STRANDED
AND PEOPLE ARE FLEEING
FROM THEIR HOMES.

WASHOUTS ON RAILROADS

Traffic is Badly Impeded and Second
Cloudburst Makes Things More Serious Than Ever.

By Associated Press.
Denver, Colo., Aug. 19.—Trains blocked in lonely mountain passes, tracks washed away and in some instances pitched into canyons hundreds of feet below, people driven from their homes to seek safety with their belongings in higher places—these are the scenes that present themselves in a frenzied panorama this morning at daybreak along the overflowing Arkansas river.

Another cloudburst occurred last night near Canon City and the trains of the Colorado Midland, Denver and Rio Grande and other roads are being detained.

A JOINT DEBATE.

Contest Between Lew Dockstader and Thomas Would Be Worth While.

New York Morning Telegraph.
Mr. Lew Dockstader, stump speaker and entertainer, announces that he will discuss "political matters" in an open air speech at a republican outing. It is also stated that Messrs. Raymond Hitchcock and De Wolf Hopper will make speeches at the same time, and the inference is that there will be a debate. If this turns out to be true, give your sympathy before hand to Messrs. Hitchcock and Hopper.

Mr. Dockstader has been making stump speeches for a quarter of a century and, moreover is a hidebound Republican. When McKinley and Bryan were running for the Presidency the minstrel man nightly asked the middle man: "What is the difference between Buffalo Bill and Bill Bryan?" He then informed him with much emphasis that Buffalo Bill had a "show." The Democrats charged that Mr. Dockstader had been influenced by their opponents.

But about this debate. Dockstader is a Republican, while on the other hand Mr. Augustus Thomas is a Bryan Democrat. It is hard to believe, but Mr. Thomas, who overflows with ability and is one of the best playwrights honestly believes that Bryan is the greatest man in the country. Mr. Thomas has no equal as a speaker at first nights. It is a rare pleasure to see him come out on the stage and tell the audience what he thinks of his own play and why he wrote it. Mr. Thomas also has political views, the hallucination about Bryan being the most conspicuous. Why should such a champion of debate as Lew Dockstader waste his energy on unpolitical men who probably have no fixed political ideas? We suggest and urge that Dockstader and Thomas meet on the platform. Such a debate would be extremely interesting and probably Mr. Thomas would be brought to see his error and turn to the majority. Such is our faith in the convincing eloquence of Mr. Dockstader.

At 2 o'clock today the thermometer registered 93 in the shade, a drop of nearly ten degrees from the temperature at the same hour yesterday and the change in the weather is pleasantly noticeable.

MAY GET CRACKER FACTORY.

Such a Concern Wants to Locate in Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls is now in line for a cracker factory which is to be located somewhere in Texas by two capitalists and this city's chances are considered excellent. It had been intended to locate the plant at Temple, but adverse conditions there caused the promoters to abandon this plan and they turned their eyes toward Wichita Falls, where if the deal can be closed, the factory will be located.

GAME WON BY WICHITA WITH TWO OUT IN 9TH

Henrietta, Tex., Aug. 19.—With two men out, nobody on bases, and Henrietta two runs ahead, things looked dark enough for Wichita when Hotchkiss came to bat in the first half of the ninth inning in yesterday's game. He drew two strikes and then singled. The crowd was drifting out of the grounds, thinking the game was over, when Guthrie came up and after drawing his two strikes, slammed the ball against the left field fence for three bases, scoring Hotchkiss. Henrietta began to sit up and take notice. Weber was next up and he rolled an easy one to third base. It was fielded well, but at the critical moment, First Baseman Weaver dropped the ball and Guthrie scored, tying the game.

In Wichita's half of the tenth, Carson and Moore hit, Carson going on to the third and scoring on an outfield fly to left field, thus winning a game that was, to every appearance, hopelessly lost. Henrietta had scored in the eighth when Weaver hit with two men on bases. Only three Wichita men reached first in the first eight innings, and not a one reached second, Faree striking out sixteen men.

To Guthrie and Hotchkiss belongs the credit for Wichita's victory, the former's hit saving the day and the latter's pitching holding Henrietta's score down to the limit. The score:
Wichita000 000 002 1—3 5 2
Henrietta000 000 020 0—2 7 2
Batteries—Hotchkiss and Kellough; Faree and Hotz.

By Associated Press.
Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 19.—Mounted and using hickory clubs, the Pennsylvania State constabulary today is keeping the strikers on the move in the Pressed Steel Car Company strike zone at McKee's Rock. It is estimated that over five hundred shots were fired last night and early today. Strike leaders say the shots were fired to draw the constabulary from the plant and allow the men who were dissatisfied a chance to escape.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

WORK ON DENVER TRACKS BETWEEN WICHITA AND FORT WORTH SOON FINISHED.

HAS SPENT MUCH MONEY

Road Has Not Spared Expense in Making Road One of the Finest in the Southwest.

The improvements on the Denver track between Fort Worth and this city will soon be completed, giving that road one of the prettiest and best finished stretches of track in the State. The track has been heavily ballasted for the entire distance and new steel has replaced the old rails throughout the division, this feature of the work having been completed some time ago. A force is now at work on the trestles, replacing all the wooden structures with concrete, thus rendering them much more stable and permanent.

The Fort Worth and Denver has already spent many thousands of dollars in improving its tracks between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth alone and when the improvements are extended to points further west it will expend considerably more. The work on the track is having the effect of making it one of the most reliable lines in the Southwest.

Success of a New York Woman.

From the New York Sun.
Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, a New Yorker, has been appointed superintendent of the public school system of Chicago. It is bad enough from the point of view of the men that one of the other sex should be put over them. It is worse that a mere woman should receive the full emoluments of the place. The advocates of equal pay for equal work in New York will be inconsiderate enough, no doubt, to point to this incident as an argument in favor of their case. In this favored city of ours it has been held in practice that though women teachers may be, in certain instances, of superior rank to certain men, they must not expect to be as well paid as their subordinates. It is a surprising thing that though Mrs. Young is regarded as the highest authority on primary education in Chicago, nobody has ever suggested that she is not a "womanly woman."

Indiana's Great Speedway

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 19.—The three-day automobile race meet under the new racing rules and with the sanction of the American Automobile Association, with which the recently completed ideal motor speedway of this city becomes formally inaugurated, opened today under ideal conditions. The auto races, and perhaps even more, the desire to see the most perfect motor speedway in the country under working conditions, has attracted hundreds of automobile enthusiasts and representatives of automobile manufacturers to Indianapolis and, as a result, the attendance on the opening day far surpassed all expectations. The list of entries is exceptionally large and includes machines of all the principal American and foreign makes.

Naturally, the principal interest centers in the three long distance races, one of which will take place on each of the three days of the meet. The principal event today is the 250-mile race for cars of from 231 to 300 cubic inches piston displacement, the other events being short sprints and record trials by the free-for-all cars. Tomorrow the semi-finals of the free-for-all races will be run, as well as additional record trials. These events will be followed by a 300-mile race for the Presto-Lite trophy, possessing a coin value of $1,000. This trophy will be for cars with 301 to 450 cubic inches piston displacement.

On Saturday, the last day of the meet, there will be finals for the free-for-all cars and a free-for-all handicap, as well as a race for stock cars entered in the short events, with a trophy for the driver who shall have made the fastest mile during the meet. This will be followed by a stock event for cars ranging in piston displacement between 451 and 600 cubic inches. This will be for the Wheeler-Schebler trophy, standing over eight feet in height and representing a silver coin value of $5,000 and a total value of about $10,000.

The speedway park, which is expected to become the center of motor racing in the United States, is admitted by all visitors to be the most perfectly equipped and arranged place for the purpose for which it is intended. Fully $350,000 have been expended to transform an old farm on the Crawfordville pike into an ideal speedway park. The speedway, which occupies a considerable part of the park enclosure, is without a rival in this country. If not throughout the world, it is five miles long and consists of two courses, each 2½ miles long and the outer, oval course, including the inner and more curved track. The track is fifty feet wide on the straightaways and sixty feet at the turns. The outer line of the course is banked twelve feet high, thus permitting of a gradual incline that makes it possible for a driver to leave the track at any point via the lower slope if his car gets into trouble. There are no fences around the track, thus giving a driver a chance to jump for his life if his car goes over the upper embankment, and if it shoots across for the inside he has plenty of room to restore the machine to control. The surface of the track is covered with gravel, firmly rolled and cemented together with asphalt oil. The grounds, buildings and the track are illuminated at night by thousands of acetylene gaslights and it would be possible to hold race meetings at night. The grounds enclose forty-one buildings, among them club houses, garages, training quarters, oil houses, machine shops and twenty-two stands of various capacity for the accommodation of spectators. For the benefit of visitors who come in their own automobiles, there is a car park which will hold several thousand autos and other vehicles.

Blondes and Crime

From Boston Traveler.

In an article in the current issue of the Medical Record, Dr. Charles E. Woodruff of New York, contends that unfavorable climatic factors are causing unfitness for survival of immigrants to this country. His theory is that the light of the sun is stronger in this southern latitude than immigrants find in their more northern homes, which acts unfavorably on them, morally and physically, until the jails and institutions are full of blonde northerners, who are unable to stand the struggle for existence in a climate for which they are unfit; as a consequence they fall into poverty, disease and crime.

In an examination of thousands of inmates of Clinton prison, Elmira reformatory, Blackwell's island prison in New York and in Boston pauper and criminal institutions, Dr. Woodruff claims he finds a large preponderance of northern blondes.

It is claimed, due to the ability to stand our climate, that the southern brunettes races get along better with a much less percentage of crime, outside of murder, besides being able to support themselves and families, while the more brainy and stronger northerner succumbs, and that this process of elimination, owing to unfavorable climatic conditions, differs in no respect from that which goes on among irrigated plants and in lower animals under similar conditions.

We have taken space to outline this theory which will undoubtedly cause a great deal of discussion, because in our opinion, it is a good example of the half-naked science, which tackles and stiles a question in a week, and which is doing so much to discourage the work of real scientists, who devote years of faithful work to a subject, often to have the results of their researches doubted because of the notoriety seekers who are filling the press with their immature conclusions. The blonde theory of crime can be catalogued under only one head—Rot.

TRAVELER A SOVEREIGN.

The Tourist in Morocco Has Supreme Authority Over His Caravan.

National Review, London.
When the weather is fine and the road in good condition, what can be more pleasant than a journey in the land of the Moors? The climate during the autumn and spring is perfect. The nights are cold, and you may find ice on the water in the early morning, but directly the sun appears the warmth is like that of a beautiful September day in England. The sky is never overcast by clouds, except when the rain is about to fall and the atmosphere is one of a wonderful bluish transparency. I find something in the atmosphere of Morocco which I have not found in other countries, something of freedom which is both elevating to mind and body. There are none of the so-called conveniences and comforts of civilization. There are no time tables to be consulted, no arbitrary hours of departure or arrival, no right of road or speed limits to be observed. There are no bridges to the rivers, no taverns or rest houses, at which you can dine or stop for the night; no laws to be observed and no authorities, if there were, to carry them into effect. There is no one to protect you in case of danger, and you are entirely dependent on yourself for your food, your lodgings and safe conduct. Thus you can make your own laws to govern your daily life and the lives of those who accompany you. You are in supreme authority, for far in the interior there is no questioning and no redress.

Each tribe which you pass may regard you with different feelings, and therefore you must make friends with each separately and regulate your conduct to meet each individual case.
There is no race more peaceful and hospitable than the Arabs once they know you. Every Moor you meet on the road stops to salute you and ask the usual questions: "Where are you from?" "Where are you going?"
"What is your country?" "What is your business?" Once these are answered to his satisfaction, the stranger will become a friend and often accompany you for some distance on the road.

Then your servants, horses and mules with their many vagaries are a constant source of study. Mules are amongst the most intelligent of animals, and they regulate their lives and their conduct in a manner that is almost human. The mule never grumbles or protests. If asked to do a journey of twenty miles, it will do it;
if asked to go fifty, it will go the fifty without a halt with superb determination. On arriving in camp each mule stands quietly still until the load is lifted from its back. Then they roll and lie down to have a nap before dinner, which they know will not be served until nightfall. If the hour is passed by a few minutes they demand their corn with plaintive cries. All who are fond of travel and who enjoy a life in the open air under the bluest of skies
and in the most agreeable of climates
and in a company of chivalrous and romantic people, should travel in Morocco.

Studies in Misery.

From Baltimore American.
Studies in the causes and conditions of crime and poverty proceed from the viewpoint of the individual and the family. That submergence of the tenth whose rescue is the religion of modern social science is caused by conditions that run through the entire range of society is not generally grasped. Hence the shunting of responsibility on the part of the unfortunate and erring.
The highest authority said: "The poor ye have with you always," thus enunciating the broadest aspect of poverty that it is a by-product of human failure in the higher and happier realms of life. The misery corps is coming now to be regarded as a martyr corps, and the range of relief is coming more and more to take account of the fundamental causes.

A recent writer who made an analysis of 5000 families abiding where the wolf has his lair and the serpent of vice his habitation, reports that unemployment is the principal cause of poverty and crime, after which comes other causes, with drink ranking seventh. The problem is not simply to employ, but to fit many of the unemployed for employment. After all, studies in misery furnish fulcrums for betterment of conditions and so the great menace of poverty may be held in check as civilization advances. In proportion to means of livelihood the population of this country ranks higher in happiness than any the world has seen. So that misery is not the keynote of America.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity
—Tonight and Friday, fair. Cool—er tonight in the interior.

There is likely to be some interest injected into the congressional race in this, the Thirteenth district, next year. John H. Stephens for the past fifteen years has represented this district, and is to have an opponent in the person of Senator John W. Veale of Amarillo, and from present indications he is going to prove a formidable one. While Mr. Stephens is popular and has the advantage of being personally acquainted with fully fifty per cent of the voters of the district, Mr. Veale is also a very popular man and a good mixer and vote getter. There are many voters in the Thirteenth, however, who have about concluded that it is not exactly right to give to any one man a lifetime job as congressman, but are rather inclined to the belief that after serving two or three terms in congress, a man should be willing to step aside and allow the honor to pass to some other fellow who is equally as well qualified to represent the district. Mr. Stephens has made a most excellent representative, but it will not do to say that the honor of representing the Thirteenth in congress has been preempted by him alone. There are a number of able men in the district, who, no doubt, would willingly accept the honor, but who have kept out of the race through fear of defeat by the present incumbent. The people, as a rule, however, have great admiration for a man who is not afraid to put up a fight and has the ability to make it. Veale is such a man and if successful will make the district fully as able a representative as it now has.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal says that Georgia richly deserves the bale of hay offered by the Department of Agriculture for the best all around aggregation of legislative assemblages in the country. But then the C. A. is in Tennessee.

If those mimic wars are only made realistic enough, they are apt to have the effect of scaring all of the young society buds out of the militia. That would be hard on the buds, but not on the militia.

The Commissioner of Agriculture will have to quit traveling now, as his appropriation for that purpose is exhausted. Just how the State can stand it is hard to imagine.

Taft is to speak from the gallery of a Houston hotel. The average experience with the Houston hotel is that the gallery, being on the outside, is the best place to be.

Within six weeks after the crime, the Indian student who murdered two men in England was hanged, without ever entering a plea of insanity or the unwritten law.

With parts of Oklahoma and Texas enjoying temperatures of 107, Wichita can look cool and breezy at 101.

Does It Pay to Be Honest?

From the Independent.
The discharge from the Western penitentiary in Pittsburg of three men, convicted of assisting in the wrecking of the Enterprise National Bank there several years ago, and their almost immediate assumption of positions of trust, has caused a diversity of opinion as to whether or not it pays to be honest. Each of the three men served but half the sentence originally imposed in the United States District Court where they were tried, their sentences having been commuted by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft upon the pleas made by the wives of each of these men. Within the last three months the shortened terms of this trio have expired and they were all met at the doors of the prison by carriages and escorted to their former homes.

After two days spent in quietude with their families two of them were given responsible positions in the heart of the city by persons who were swayed by their appeals that they had been misled by the cashier of the wrecked bank who chose to fill a suicide's grave rather than pay the penalty of his crimes at the altar of human justice. One of the men is now employed with a large real estate firm at a good salary; another is connected with a bank above that which he held prior to his fall with the failure of the bank, and the third is to assume a good position in the near future. While figures are not obtainable, it is generally understood that the trio will be earning more money in the new positions than its members did when they were working in the bank whose wrecking wiped out the entire fortunes of thousands of small depositors.

While many of the depositors have been ruined financially for the rest of their lives, and have not yet received employment since they were thrown out of work when the financial crisis first struck Pittsburg, these men, even though they were the victims of unfortunate circumstances, walk into the largest institutions of the city and transact business at good salaries. In the district where the bank formerly stood the placing of these men in good positions after their release from prison on shortened terms is received with considerable hostility for many of these persons have been forced to suffer privations and are now in almost destitute circumstances, while the men who assisted in the spiriting away of their money own the homes in which they live and are now employed at wages better than their victims ever received.

What Olive Oil Will Do.

Suppose you knew that the use of a gallon or two of olive oil in your cooking during the next 6 months would improve the health of each one in your family and would actually keep them from sickness and a doctor's bill. Do you think you would hesitate about spending the few dollars that the oil would cost? Of course you wouldn't. Well there are a great many cases on record where the regular use of Olive Oil has improved the health and weight of people who were not at all well, has given them more energy for their work and has actually helped some people to get well when doctors and medicines have failed.

Olive Oil has no magic about it but it feeds the blood and drives out of it impurities by putting into it just what the body needs to keep it strong, well and healthy. You can't afford not to use it constantly. We sell more of Monarch than any other and have it in 1-2 pt. bottles at 40c, pint bottles at 75c. We also have Heinz's Olive Oil in 50c bottles.

The Wrights.

Up in the air, above the clouds,
Flying like birds in their sweeping flight,
Sailing their boat on the ether waves,
Following sky trails, long and light,
The world is watching their daring deeds.
Ready to glory give and gain
To the dauntless men of the air sea's voyage
Alot in their floating aeroplanes.

When Columbus sailed o'er the ocean
strange
And found a world at its other gate,
He was a hero for all the race;
His deed to the end of time is great.
As he then conquered an ocean's path
And gave a hemisphere to the race,
Will these two tread in his glorious way
And give us another world of space?

Earth has been girdled with rushing speed,
The watery plains of the ocean crossed;
Under the earth and the water, too,
Is travel to see that no time is lost.
Is the time come when the long attempt
Which has been men's hope, their trial
depair,
To chain the unconquerable element erst,
Will travel the limitless roads of air?

Returning Sanity in Europe

From Wall Street Journal.

A year ago it is highly probable that any such revolutionary outbreak as that in Persia would have set the British-jingo newspapers to writing of the "Russian peril," and would have endangered the excellent understanding between France and Great Britain which has been so firmly established. We would have been favored with talk about "underground German influence," and all the rest of the dangerous nonsense which seems to save the European journalist the labor of collecting accurate and authentic news.

Probably the European newspapers have not advanced greatly along the road to perfection since that time, but they necessarily supply what the public demands, and it is clear that the public does not care about having its flesh made to creep at present. This is a real and substantial gain for international sanity, and shows that possible situations, held in terror over the Nations for years by their self-appointed mentors, become very ordinary matter-of-fact events when they really materialize. There are in British politics today a score of men who went right up in the air at the mention of a further Russian advance toward India. Here is such in advance in actual effect, and these critics are silent or can find no one to listen to them.

So may it ever be. If we can rid ourselves of the idea that Nations must exist forever in a continued state of readiness to give and take offense, we shall have made great progress. It is very certain that if the constitutional party now in control in Persia is able to carry on the government of that turbulent country it will have the support and encouragement of Great Britain in doing so. Great Britain is the mother of parliaments, and, unless she is prepared to retract from the policy of centuries she will be the friend now as ever of constitutional government.

By the slow process of education, with the Douma as teacher, Russia is also beginning to look upon constitutional government in a better and more enlightened way. She has probably had enough of unpopular wars, as the experience with Japan must have demonstrated to the Russian government. It is certain that an aggressive campaign in the Near East to stifle the first growths of Persian liberty would be deeply resented by the intelligent part of the Russian people, and that part is rapidly attaining the power of effective expression.

The gain for good feeling and National right living is one which the whole world shares. We have had more than enough advocacy of raw-head and bloody bones methods to establish National greatness. Even the German Emperor is talking peace, and it is not impossible that we may reach that almost ideal condition when he will not find it necessary to talk at all.

Don't Believe Everything You Hear

The chap in the picture up there, believed when he heard the "honk, honk" of an old gander behind him, that he was about to be smashed in the back by an automobile. The result spelled disaster to his pail of milk.
And so, if anybody happens to tell you that they can give you a good lumber bargain as we can, you just look around before believing that. Get our prices and see our stock, and be convinced that there's only one really right place to buy economically, and that place is right here.
Figures talk. So get our prices.
