Real Economy
A Thin Visitor
With All the Warts
Skirts and the Atom

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927, By Star Co.)

Ogden L. Mills says the government will stop drastic economy and begin spending money, devoting large sums to public works, etc.

That won't be the end of economy, but the beginning of a wiser economy. Money in bank isn't anything. Money at work is everything.

Five millions spent in developing power and irrigation projects would mean twice five hundred millions of added wealth in the nation every year.

* * *

Real economy is wise extravagance, abundant spending. A farmer is not economical because he witholds seeds or fertilizer from his land. Nobody knows better than Secretary Mellon, who, with the president, runs Uncle Sam's finances.

* * *

Opportunity does knock. In 1902 John W. Anderson, tall, thin, struggling lawyer in Detroit, saw one of his few clients, Alexander Y. Malcolmson, walk in, bringing another thin man. The thin visitor wanted law work done, and wanted to pay with five thousand dollars' worth of stock in his new company. Anderson took the stock, his partner was indignant and made Anderson pay in his share in cash.

* * *

The thin man that came in was Henry Ford. Later he gave Mr. Anderson, as a dividend, on his $5000 of stock, an extra dividend of $500,000. Still later, he bought back the $5000 of stock for $7,000,000. Mr. Anderson says, "I could have hugged a Ford car."

Observe that if Mr. Anderson had been a successful lawyer, he probably would not have listened to the thin visitor. Opportunity gets a hearing when we are hungry, and our minds are open.

* * *

Cromwell or Mirabeau, you may remember which it was, said to the artist, "Paint me with all my parts," that is what radio does. Chicago's grand opera, with genuine public spirit, permitted broadcasting of a magnificent performance heard by millions. Those that "tuned in" heard the orchestra and singing, also the singers' deep breathing.

* * *

The day is coming when some teacher, perched on the right mountain top, will talk to every human being on earth. "The voice from the clouds" will be a reality, and announcement of the day's great radio event important to the entire world.

* * *

Paris teaches that there is no such thing as an irreducible minimum, as scientists have recently taught that there is no such thing as a particle of matter so small it can't be divided.

The atom turns out to be a little solar system with a nucleus in the centre, with electrons going around so fast that you wouldn't believe the figures—trillions of revolutions to the second.

* * *

The irreducible minimum story comes from Paris. They are going to make women's skirts shorter than ever. The queer thing is that American women will instantly follow suit, if fathers and husbands allow it, which they will.

* * *

A sight to make angels laugh, if they ever do that, is half a dozen perfectly respectable married women, with pink silk legs showing above their knees, occasionally making spasmodic little jerky efforts to pull the skirts down. Why pull them down since you cut them off.

* * *

The Boulder dam canyon, which will pay for itself in new wealth every year and add millions to American prosperity, seems sure to go through. That great development of water power and irrigation, harnessing and preserving the waters of Colorado river now wasted over the border in Mexico, is something like the house that Jack built.

Hiram Johnson, Secretary Hoover and Secretary Work pushed it and fought for it. President Coolidge backed it. Secretary Mellon, with his wise financing, will easily provide the money to pay for it.

* * *

A professional organization of ladies rewrites the ten commandments for children—not easy. One commandment that has caused children to ask questions now reads: "Thou shalt keep pure." That also will cause questioning.

* * *

Another child's commandment reads: "Thou shalt not make for thyself any graven images," that, too, will puzzle children. The desire for graven images, in the forbidden sense, has diminished since the golden calf was built. Children will wonder whether it will be a sin for them to make a snow man, or for the cook to make a ginger cake dog?

* * *

Miss Lillian Courtney, aged 23, entered a restaurant with William Smith, who had bought a flask of liquor. The girl swallowed one drink, then ran into the street screaming that she was blind. She was, and wood alcohol had done it.

Wets will say, "It is a shame to force the public to drink such poison." Drys will reply, truly, "Nobody forced Miss Courtney to drink the wood alcohol."

Millions of people in the United States drink every day stuff that may or may not cause blindness within a few hours.

HEAD OF PLAT FIRM ON BAIL IN BRIBE CASE

Childress County Tax Survey Contract Involved In Indictment

BRIBE CHARGE DENIED

R. B. DeWitt Declares All Dealings in Contract Were Honest

CHILDRESS, Jan. 22.—R. B. DeWitt, head of the Texas Map and Plat Book company of Dallas, was arrested in Childress Saturday afternoon by the grand jury of the district court charging him with attempt at bribery.

DeWitt came up from Dallas to answer the charges and so that papers could be served.

The company with which he is connected has contracted with Childress county to establish ownership and collect delinquent taxes. The alleged attempted bribery charge grew out of securing the contract.

DeWitt Issues Statement

DeWitt issued a statement Saturday afternoon and said that this is the first time in 15 years in dealing with city and county officials that he has ever been involved in a criminal or civil case. He explained how he got the contract.

"When we came to Childress for the first time in January of last year to get a contract, the commissioners court listened what we had to say and deferred the matter part of May we came back and vestigation of what we had to offer in the way of a plat system. Some three months later, the latCochran is a former commisin the meantime, contracts had been made with J. W. Cochran for collection of delinquent taxes."

Cochra nis a former commissioner of Childress county.

The statement made by DeWitt continues:

"In order to enable the commissioners court to make the contract for installation of the plat book system, Mr. Cochran was to work for the Plat Book company at a salary of $250 per month for the life of the contract or for 12 months.

All Acts in Open

"These matters were discussed in open meeting of the commissioners court and apparently were agreeable to the commissioners court, but before the contract was signed, some matters camb up so that it was impossible for Mr. Cochran to work for the Plat Book company. After we went to work he did not offer his services and has not done so since that time.

"Cochran was not a county official at the time and you cannot bribe a private citizen."

The statement also included details of DeWitt's work in other counties showing commendation of his work.

He made a security bond in the sum of $2500.

BOURLAND DIES

Veteran Nocona Cattleman Dies At Temple.

NOCONA, Texas, Jan. 22.(AP) R. M. (Rube) Bourland, 78, veteran cattleman of this section, died at a sanitarium at Temple last night following an operation. Interment will be at Bowie Sunday.

Bourland had resided in Montague county nearly 50 years, and was well known among cattlemen of the state.

Two children, Mrs. Tom Loyd, Nocona, and Mrs. Leslie Ashley, Amarillo, survive.

Jury Unable To Decide Bonner's Fate

This is a recent picture of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bonner of San Antonio. Bonner is charged with having shipped a dynamite bomb in a box labelled as books which killed the father and brother of Mrs. Bonner, whom he married after the tragedy. Before her marriage to Bonner she was Dorothy Barnes. The Record News prints this picture today as the first published in any West Texas newspaper in connection with the trial.

Bonner Case Moved To San Antonio As Jury Locks 10 to 2 For Acquittal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 22. (AP)—The jury which heard the trial of Frank Bonner, charged with the bombing slaying of J. A. Barnes, was discharged here this morning after having been out since 10 o'clock Thursday night. The case was immediately transferred to the 24th. district court in Bexar county.

Bond for the defendant was immediately set at $15,000 and he prepared to make it. The bond on the charge of killing Barnes, for which he was just tried was set at $10,000 and on the charge of killing Barnes' 10-year-old son, Jesse, at $5000.

Unofficial reports from the jury room said that the final ballot was 10 for acquittal to two, but the number of ballots taken was not given.

Barnes was killed when he opened an express package which had been shipped to him by express from San Antonio. The state maintained that Bonner, who later married Barnes' daughter, came to San Antonio from Austin, where he was a university student and had a newsboy deliver the package at the express office.

40-YEAR SENTENCE

Kansas Slayer Gets Long Term At Hard Labor

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Jan. 22. (AP)—Everett Bible, 27, found guilty by a jury in the Montgomery county district court here a week ago of second degree murder for the killing of Charles Faurot on July 4, 1926, near Tyro, Kan., today received a sentence of 40 years at hard labor in the state penitentiary. Notice of appeal to the supreme court was given and Judge J. W. Holdren fixed the bond at $40,000. Bible will be taken to the penitentiary at once.

SLAYER SUSPECT

Tom Whitley On $20,000 Bond In Killing.

BORGER, Texas, Jan. 22.(AP) Tom Whitley, charged with the murder of Mrs. A. A. Monte, wife of a filling station proprietor here who was killed last Saturday night when two masked men held up the station, was released on bond of $20,000 by Judge Webb this morning when the defense waived preliminary hearing. Whiteley was taken to Amarillo late today to face another charge of hi-jacking.

PRINCIPAL IN DUEL ACCUSED

P. E. Little to Fecae Trial In Death of Doctor

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP) P. E. Little, farmer, 29, faces a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting yesterday of Dr. Guy Longbotham, 26, chiropractor, on a business street at Big Springs according to dispatches received here. Little is in a Big Springs hospital. Recovering from two wounds inflicted by Longbotham in the duel between the two.

Little will be arraigned for examinging trial on the murder charge as soon as he is able to leave the hospital, according to Sheriff Frank House. His wounds, one in the left hip and the other in the left side of the neck, will not prove fatal, physicians stated.

Little used a double barrel shotgun and Longbotham an automatic pistol in the duel. Officers have not been able to determine who fired first or the motive behind the shooting.

One Arrest Follows Sheriff's Probe Of Fatal Accident On Burk Highway

One man is in jail and will be turned over to federal authorities on charges of bill raising as the result of investigation by the sheriff's department of the death in a traffic accident Friday night of Mrs. T. S. Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson, who with her husband operated a filling station on the Burkburnett road, was killed when the automobile in which she was pursuing a man who had given her a spurious $10 bill crashed into the parked car of M. K. Smith. Mr. Smith was brought to the General hospital here, and Saturday night it was said that his condition is not considered critical.

Man in Custody.

The man in custody was found in Burkburnett Saturday morning by Deputy Sheriff Dick Morris who went to work on the case early Saturday.

The man now being held was taken before C. L. McKnight, operator of a filling station a short distance from the Jackson station.

Mr. McKnight said a man driving a rickety Ford passed a spur-

ARGUMENTS IN NORRIS TRIAL OPEN MONDAY

Trial Halts Saturday As Defense Witnesses Are Tardy

STATE CLOSES CASE

Additional Defense Evidence To Impeach State To Be Offered

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP) — The Norris murder trial sank almost to a comatose condition here today as the court waited for the arrival of two defense witnesses from Fort Worth, Texas.

A recess was taken just before noon until 4 p. m. but when the hour of reconvening arrived, the witnesses had not appeared, and the court adjourned until 9 a. m. Monday.

The state closed its case with two witnesses, Miss Melba Bullock, a 19-year-old school teacher of Birdville, Texas, near Fort Worth, and C. D. Rogers of Fort Worth.

Accidental Visitor.

Miss Bullock was another one of those accidental visitors to the Norris office, who arrived just about time Dexter E. Chipps was killed in Dr. J. Frank Norris' office at the first Baptist church in Fort Worth. She told of the calm and apparently unperturbed action of the defendant immediately after the killing. She had gone to the church to obtain a sheet of music, and arrived just a moment after the shooting.

She saw Norris standing in the ante-room, and when she told him her mission, he directed his secretary to obtain the music for her, she testified. At the moment, Chipps was lying dead in the private office.

Rogers testified he had been told by H. H Reins that Norris had remarked, "I've killed me a man." Rains previously testified that Norris had made this remark just as he emerged from his office after shooting Chipps.

The defense offered several witnesses in sur-rebuttal, and the state then announced that it closed. The object of the testimony expected from the absent witnesses was to impeach certain state witnesses, defense attorneys said.

Crowds Lose Interest.

Following the unexpectedly mild cross-examination of Norris by the state yesterday, the case descended from its climax to one of apparent little interest, judging by the dwindling of the crowd today.

Attorneys prepared the instructions they will ask the judge to read to the jury, and these will be discussed in chambers with the Judge Monday. It is said some debate may arise over the point of "provoking the difficulty," which the state will ask the court to instruct on. It is probable the defense will resist this proposed instruction.

After the court has charged the jury, arguments will start, probably about Monday noon. It is expected the case will go to the jury Tuesday or Wednesday.

HEADS FARM BUREAU

L. R. Campbell Re-elected State Secretary.

DALLAS, Jan. 22.(AP)—L. R. Campbell was re-elected state secretary by the new board of directors of the Texas Farm Bureau federation, the board announced today. The new board executive committee, W. D. Farris, Ennis; H. G. Lucas, Brownwood and J. E. Montgomery of Tynan, was reappointed.

DRILL EXTENSION REFUSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP) Extension of drilling requirements in oil leases covering the Osage Indian reservation in Oklahoma were denied today, by Secretary Work.

LEGISLATORS IN RECESS

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—Both the house and senate of the 40th legislature were "off for the day" Saturday, as regards regular assembly, but a majority of the legislators were tied up in committee meetings.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

Apprehension over the plight of Americans in China lessened.

The senate agreed to vote Monday on Cyrus E. Woods' nomination.

Lincoln Dixon of Indiana was nominated to the tariff commission.

The McNary-Haugen farm bill was approved by the senate agriculture committee.

Hearings on great lakes water diversion were adjourned to February 25.

House and senate conferees tentatively agreed upon radio control legislation.

Boulder dam hearings before the house public lands committee were concluded.

Two resolutions dealing with the administration's Nicaraguan policy were introduced in the house.

The senate elections committee decided to begin hearings next Saturday on the question of seating Frank L. Smith of Illinois.

Two More May Die From Injuries In Bus Crash Which Takes Ten Lives

TAYLOR, Texas, Jan. 22.(AP)—Physicians at the P. and S. hospital here Saturday night expressed fear that before Sunday the death toll in the Round Rock crash would reach 12.

Fred Acree of Waco and J. G. Berry of Smithville are the Baylor university students for whom the most concern is felt. Acree's back was broken and Berry injured internally.

ROUND ROCK, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP)—Death, riding the powerful engine that pulled the International-Great Northern railroad's crack Sunshine Special passenger train, about noon today snuffed out the lives of 10 vigorous young athletes of Baylor university at a crossing near here touched another so that probably he will die and of the party of 22 allowed only seven to pass uninjured.

The Dead

JIMMIE S. WALKER of Greenville.
IVEY FOSTER of Taylor.
W. E. MURRAY of Gatesville.
SAM DILLOW of Fort Worth.
J. CLYDE KELLEY of Waco.
MERLE H. DUDLEY of Abilene.
BOB HAILEY of Lott.
JACK CASTELLAW of Ennis.
BOB HANNAH.
WILLIAM WINCHESTER.

Injured

ED GOOCH of Ennis.
FRED ACREE of Waco.
AVESLEY BRADSHAW of Waco.
JOE POTTER of West.
J. G. BERRY of Smithville.

Uninjured

WEIR WASHAM.
LOUIS SLADE.
KEIFER STRICKLAND.
COACH RALPH R. WOLF.
J. J. KANE.
CECIL BEAN.

Travelling in Baylor university's motor bus in which athletic teams were accustomed to make trips, the party was on its way to Austin, where a basketball game with the University of Texas was scheduled for the night.

As they laughed and told stories of Sam Bass, the outlaw whose career was ended here, the powerful mogul swept toward them, and turned the scene of the peaceful country-side into a crazy picture of splintered glass and wood and mangled bodies.

Frost Dims Window.

Frosted windows in the bus, a string of box cars on a siding and a little house nearby kept the driver of the bus, Joe Potter, of West, a freshman, from seeing the approaching flier, Potter said. When he sighted the train about 60 yards down the track, he whipped the bus to one side in an effort to run down the right-of-way, he said, only to receive the blow amidship.

Six of the athletes died outright, two died en route to Georgetown, 11 miles away. The train, which stopped about 300 yards down the track after the collision, backed up, and members of the train crew assisted citizens from Round Rock who saw the wreck to help the dead and injured into the baggage car. The train then went to Taylor.

"We were travelling just about 51 miles an hour, because the road was slick from rain, and when Potter saw he couldn't save us by running parallel with the train, he tried to speed forward and across the tracks," Dave Cheavens, sports editor of the Baylor Lariat, student publication at Baylor university, said tonight. Cheavens escaped the wreck uninjured. "Potter did everything that any man could do to avert the disaster."

Kelley Is Hero.

The only word spoken in the bus before the death scattering impact was felt, according to Cheavens, was a cry from Abe Kelley, star guard on the 1926 Baylor football team and Captain of the 1927 team, which preceded an act of heroism.

"Kelley shouted to Wier Washam to leap from a rear window, and then pushed Wier through."

I. K. Howeth of San Antonio in his automobile was within 50 yards of the bus when the collision came.

"I heard the train whistle; but the bus driver apparently did not," Howeth said.

"When the engine was almost upon him, the driver swerved; but the engine crashed through the middle of the big automobile. Parts of several bodies were caught on the cowcatcher."

The bus carried the cream of Baylor's athletic talent.

Grid Captain Killed

Walker, Dillow and Hannah were members of the first string basketball five; while J. Clyde (Abe) Kelley was the outstanding athlete of the Baptist school. Last fall he was named all-southwestern fullback, largely because of his punting ability, and he was captain-elect of the 1927 eleven. Kelley was a star catcher in baseball, and played guard in basketball.

Captain Louis Slade, basketball center, and Keifer Strickland, forward and the scoring star of the team were not injured.

Wesley Bradshaw, who was injured, is well known in eastern professional football. In 1925, he played with Jim Thorpe's Rock Island (Illinois) eleven. In 1922, he was all-southwestern quarterback on the championship Baylor eleven.

Coach Wolf, uninjured, is rated

CHAPLIN WAN BUT SMILING

He Poses For Camera And Airs His Troubles

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Pale from his recent breakdown but decidedly more cheerful than when he arrived a week ago, Chas. Chaplin, film comedian, faced a battery of 50 reporters and cameramen today for what he said was to be his last interview in New York.

Seated on the windowsill in the apartment of his attorney, Nathan Burkan, the little actor smiled on reporters crowded in the dining room of the apartment and posed for photographers for 15 minutes.

The demand of his wife for $4000 a month temporary alimony for the support of the children is another evidence of her "gold digging," he said.

"The report that I have left my starving children unprovided for is absolutely unfounded," he said. "I have ofered to give any amount for their use but she will not take it."

With a smile, Charlie denied he was "through with women" but said on the contrary he hoped to fall in love again when the present difficulty was passed. "Of course, I still like women," he said and gazing out over the fog-covered Central park, added, "after all, one's art is but a love letter to somebody. I am glad I am not through with women."

BORDER BATTLE

Three Mexicans Reported Slain, Texan Wounded.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 22 (AP) — A heavily armed border patrol and a number of customs officers left Mercedes this afternoon for the scene of last night's battle between border patrol officers and Mexican smugglers. Three Mexicans are believed to have been killed, others wounded and Brown Neale, an officer was shot through the leg.

Wichita Falls Goes Through One of Coldest Days Of Winter

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 22.—AP While warmer weather was predicted for parts of the west and mountain country where temperatures reached a minimum of 44 below zero at Fossil, Wyo., last night, the cold wave was taking a firmer grip on Texas tonight.

The cold wave hit the Panhandle last night and North Texas early today, creeping southward as the day progressed. Sleet and rain turned to snow. For a hundred miles south of Dallas the temperature was reported just above freezing with snow in prospect.

LOWEST TEMPERATURE 20 DEGREES SATURDAY

Weather conditions around Wichita Falls were about the same as those prevailing here, although areas to the north reported lower temperatures and those to the south sent word of slightly warmer levels. The lowest temperature here during the day was 20 degrees.

Snow was falling from Amarillo to Childress on the Fort Worth and Denver when dispatchers reports were received early Saturday night. From Childress south to Fort Worth a sleet and mist was falling with a 26 degree temperature at the latter point. Northern points on the line were experiencing colder temperatures.

Cold In Oklahoma

The Katy ran into more frigid climate on the northwestern branch in Oklahoma. Woodward and Forgan, the northern terminals, reported snow and sleet all day with a temperature of 8 above zero at 9 o'clock. Conditions about on a par with those in Wichita Falls existed eastward to Denison.

On the Wichita Falls and Southern, sleet fell throughout the day clear to Breckenridge with a slightly warmer temperature at the southern terminal.

A merry game of slip and slide was practiced all day Saturday by Wichita Falls motorists as they experimented gingerly with icy streets on which unchained rubber tires spun with fiendish persistence.

Half-a-dozen traffic smash-ups were reported during the day, none of which, fortunately, resulted in serious injury to any one. There were some narrow escapes, however.

Perhaps the most unusual accident of the day was not directly attributal to the ice, but it was an accident just the same.

Auto Runs Wild.

Early in the afternoon residents of a house at 704 Holliday street were startled by a crash and jar that rocked the building as though it were beset by earthquakes. An investigation revealed a Dodge touring car parked on the front porch which had lost a pillar, a railing and several other appurtenances. The car suffered only the loss of a headlight.

Pedestrians on the street said the car suddenly appeared at the top of the steep hill which slopes down from Eighth to Seventh on Holliday, careened from side to side and finally shot across the curbing, sidewalk and lawn and halted with a roar on the porch. No driver was anywhere in sight.

Police were called and the machine was towed into the city hall. Later, W. A. Mills of Olney reported his machine had been stolen from a parking place at the top of the hill. He identified the wayward motor as his own and it was turned over to him. Wind is believed to have rolled it sufficiently far along the crest of the hill to start it on the decline.

One woman whose name was not learned was severely bruised and jarred when an auto in which she was riding collided with a street car at Seventeenth and Holliday.

Amundsen, Noted Explorer, To Tell Of Flight Over Pole In Lecture Here

Raol Amundsen, Arctic explorer, who went by air to the north pole in 1926, will be in Wichita Falls next month and under the auspices of the Optimists club he will speak at Junior college the evening of Feb. 23, lecturing on his explorations in the arctic and antarctic regions, according to announcement Saturday afternoon by Solon R. Featherston, president of the Optimist club.

The board of governors of the local club after interviewing Sims-Ble G McDougall, advance man representing the Lee Keedick's agency for the world's celebrated lecturers, signed the contract Friday, and Amundsen's appearance here will be sponsored by the Optimists.

Amundsen has been touring the United States for the past several months, having appeared in most of the large cities of America, giving his famous lectures illustrated by moving pictures relative to his airship flight over the north pole several months ago, and in reference to his southern explorations and discovery of the south pole several years ago, it was said.

On coming to America, he gave lectures in the auditorium of the Roosevelt hotel in New York City before the Astors, Vanderbilts, and a large group of patrons of the city. Tickets sold from $5 to $10 each.

Amundsen is coming to Wichita Falls for a popular price and the money cleared on his lecture will be used by the club in the interest of the Optimists Boys' home.

Mr. Amundsen's speaking date is on Wednesday, and the Optimist club expects to have him as the guest of honor at their weekly luncheon meeting at the Kemp

THE WEATHER

OKLAHOMA: Sunday and Monday partly cloudy; rising temperature.

EAST TEXAS: Sunday cloudy, rain in south portion, colder in south; Monday partly cloudy, rising temperature.

WEST TEXAS: Sunday and Monday partly cloudy.

Local weather conditions for the last 24-hour period reported by the Texas Electric Service company bureau: Maximum temperature, 33 degrees; minimum, 20; at 5 p. m. Saturday, 22; precipitation, .01 inch; sleet; northeast breeze; cloudy; average wind velocity, 12 miles per hour; maximum wind velocity, 18 miles per hour; barometer 29.53.

SLEET AND ICE BLANKET AREA

Low Temperatures Reported Along Railroad Routes

The auto, said to have been driven by J. B. Killings, was somewhat damaged.

An ambulance of the Merkle Undertaking company suffered a broken spring and a Marmon touring car, driven by J. N. Hanley of Grandfield, Okla., was also damaged in a smashup at Wichita street and the Burkburnett road. The ambulance was going after a patient when the touring car, attempting to make a turn, skidded on the icy pavement and smashed into the rear of the undertaking company's machine. No one was injured.

City Traffic Officers Wright and Stubblefield, who were following the ambulance to assist in removing the patient, if necessary, took Mr. Hanley to the city hall where he was later released after an adjustment had been made of the case.

McFarland Injured.

Judge C. M. McFarland of the county court at law sustained painful cuts and bruises when his Ford touring car and a Hudson coach driven by O. H. McCallister skidded into each other on the icy corner of Holliday and Fourteenth. Judge McFarland, who was returning from a fishing trip, was able to go on to his home. Both cars were damaged.

At Ninth and Lamar, a Pierce-Arrow limousine driven by two women suffered a ruined left front fender in a mix-up with a Moore and Richolt Lumber truck. The fender was practically stripped off, while the lumber truck sustained no damage.

A Dodge touring car, owner unknown, lost two wheels at Tenth and Tyler streets when it skidded on the corner and crashed into a curbing.

At Lamar and Seventh, a Buick touring car lost its gas tank when a Ford, approaching a stop sign at the intersection, skidded into the larger car which had already come to a halt.

Sleds in Evidence.

There were numerous reports of minor collisions all over town in which machines, proceeding cautiously, rammed or were rammed by other cars which were unable to stop on the ice. These, however, developed nothing more serious than dented fenders, perhaps a splintered running board and some ruffled tempers.

Mrs. T. E. Jackson was killed and M. K. Smith injured in an accident on the Burkburnett road Friday night.

FIRE TRUCK AND AUTO COLLIDE

A ladder on a Central station truck was demolished when the truck struck a Dodge coupe in making a run to Tenth and Scott about 7 o'clock last night. The Dodge, only slightly damaged, drove away, firemen said.

EIGHTH STREET TRAFFIC IN WILD TANGLE

The Eighth street hill, between Burnett and Travis streets, was turned into an automobile toboggan slide for a short time last night a little after 8 o'clock. Slight damage to a Ford coupe and an Essex coach and a temporary detouring of traffic around the hill were the most serious results.

Cars coming down the icy street would turn in every direction on reaching the bottom of the hill owning to the sudden appliance of brakes, while those going up the incline were stalled when confronted by others directly in front of them. Traffic was halted for some 30 minutes while traffic officers untangled the tobogganers.

Crash Takes Ten Lives; 2 Dying

Baylor's greatest track star of all time. He specialized in the dashes.

Bus Is Crushed.

The top of the bus was crushed, as though it were an egg-shell. Despite the force of the impact, the automobile was not turned over. It was knocked almost in a complete circle.

Several eye-witnesses said that the driver, apparently seeing the train just before the bus reached the track, jammed on his brakes, and attempted to turn parallel with the track; but that the bus skidded on the wet pavement, and swerved directly into the train's path.

The train, the "Sunshine Special" stopped within half a mile of the crossing, and backed up to the crossing. The train crew saw four men extracate themselves from the wreckage.

Part of the body of one man was wedged beneath the cowcatcher.

With the exception of two of the injured who were started in an ambulance for Georgetown, the dead and injured were placed in the baggage car and taken to Taylor.

Weir Washam, diminutive quarterback of the 1926 football team, leaped from the rear of the bus and was uninjured.

About the shattered automobile were bits of green and gold cloth from the jerseys the Baylor players would have worn tonight as they entered the gymnasium at Austin. Bloody clothes and even more gruesome reminders of the tragedy were in evidence.

The inhabitants of this small town were shocked almost inarticulate by the crash, the second of its type within two years. Five Mexicans were killed two years ago at a crossing near here.

The bus, painted in Baylor university's colors, was demolished.

Boys Lock Arms.

Two players, caught on the front of the speeding engine, were carried a distance of about 100 feet. Each had his arms locked around the other.

An ambulance took Winchester and Hannah to a hospital in Georgetown. Both died about 1 p. m.

Telephone service was almost demoralized due to heavy rains and as a consequence, the ambulances called were delayed in arriving.

Switchmen and other employes around the depot were engaged practically all the rest of today collecting organs from human bodies.

Blood stood in pools, whitened by the rain which fell steadily.

The stained waiting room of the depot resembled a war hospital with its bloody cots and quilts.

Uniforms of the men were kept in a locker room and friends were allowed to examine them.

Students from Texas university at Austin and Southwestern university at Georgetown, about 30 miles from Austin, gathered in great numbers. Many were intimate friends of the dead.

The 'Sunshine' Special, late 10 minutes, was detained one hour before it started with its load of death.

Bodies Badly Mangled.

Round Rock townspeople and countrymen milled in silent throngs around the depot hours after the bodies had been removed.

Kelly, star punter, was mangled. The leg which used to boot the football far down the field was severed from the torso.

All the bodies were so mangled that identification was temporarily impossible.

Crash Predicted

A railroad telegraph operator, until Friday stationed at Round Rock, predicted the day he left, 24 hours before the crash: "There's going to be an awful accident at this crossing," according to a Round Rock merchant.

The town tonight is silent.

"This awful thing has thrown a shroud over Round Rock," one resident said. "We couldn't have been more shocked and stunned if a bomb had been thrown in the middle of the street."

Meanwhile, in Austin a cold and silent "gym" is ready for a basketball game which will not be played.

Members of the Texas university squad were among those who came here from Austin to pay respects to the dead.

Joe Holladay, Venus and Herman Kaskey, Quanah, Baylor university students, came to the crossing at Round Rock within five minutes of the crash, and aided in identifying the dead and injured.

Relatives of Merle H. Dudley notified officials here to send Dudley's body to Abilene for burial.

RAIN BLINDED VISION BUS DRIVER SAYS

TAYLOR, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP) The rain, which formed a mist on the windshield and obscured his vision Saturday night was blamed for the Round Rock, crash, which took the lives of 10 Baylor university students, by Joe Potter of West, freshman student and driver of the car.

Potter is in a hospital here, suffering mental rather than physical agony.

"I was driving at a moderate rate of speed, between 20 and 25 miles an hour," Potter said. "It was raining and the windows were steamed up.

"I did not see the train until some one, I don't know who it was yelled 'lookout.'

"I looked and the train seemed to be about 60 yards from the path of our bus. I realized instantly that I could not stop, owing to the weight of the automobile and so tried to beat it across, and thought I was across when the crash came."

ROUND ROCK CRASH TO BE INVESTIGATED

HOUSTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—H. B. Safford of Houston, executive vice-president of the Missouri-Pacific lines, in connection with the wreck at Round Rock, Texas, Saturday issued the following statement.

"An immediate investigation will be undertaken to develop all circumstances surrounding the accident at Round Rock, where, it is our information, ten persons were killed when a bus loaded with students from Baylor university at Waco enroute to Austin was struck by train number 2, the Sunshine Special northbound.

"From what we have been able to ascertain the accident occurred at the crossing just south of the Round Rock station, which was approached in the usual manner and with the use of the customary whistle and bell signals, and where the view is unobstructed for a distance of about one-half mile.

"We regret this very unfortunate occurrence, and express deepest sympathy for the relatives and friends of those killed and injured. The thoughtfulness of members of the train crew and passengers in helping to care for the dead and alleviate the suffering of the other victims of the accident deserves and is given this expression of appreciation."

PRESIDENT OF BAYLOR ISSUES STATEMENT

TAYLOR, Texas, Jan. 22. (AP) The following was issued by President S. P. Brooks at Taylor on his arrival at the physicians and surgeons hospital:

"The heart of Baylor university is torn to shreds at this moment. The awful tragedy that brought death and injury to so many of our noble boys overcomes us all.

"In an hour like this we pray for words of comfort to all the mothers and fathers and families of those dear fellows so ruthlessly taken from us.

"Athletic Director Morley Jennings, business manager, George H. Belew and I hurried to Taylor to be of any services to the injured or the families of the dead.

"Along with the terrible news carried in tomorrow's papers we crave that the same papers announce our presence here in order that any directions may be given us by the families.

"May the God of all the world bring comfort to every bereaved one."

(Signed) President S. P. Brooks.

SUGGEST SUSPENSION OF SCHEDULED CONTESTS

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—Because of the Round Rock crash, Dr. D. A. Penick, professor in Texas university and president of the southwestern conference athletic council, Saturday night wired suggestions to conference basketball teams matched to play tonight that they do not do so.

Penick wired officials of Rice, Southern Methodist university, Texas A. and M. and Arkansas university. Rice is scheduled to play S. M. U. at Dallas and A. and M. to meet Arkansas at Fayetteville, Ark., he said.

Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, president of Texas university Saturday night issued a statement of regret at the crash in Round Rock near here which took the lives of 10 Baylor students.

"The university is much saddened and deeply regrets the passing of these fine young men. Their loss is sincerely mourned," he said.

TRAGEDY WORST CRASH IN TEXAS, ANNALS

AUSTIN, Jan. 22. (AP)—Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the Texas railroad commission made the following comment on the Round Rock tragedy:

"The unspeakable tragedy at the Round Rock grade crossing today, the most serious accident of its kind ever occurring in this state so far as the records of the railroad commission reveal, brings sorrow to every heart in Texas, and the sympathy of every human being in the state goes without limit to the loved ones of these fine young men whose promising lives have been brought to such an untimely and tragic end.

"The next most serious accident of the kind occurred at Houston on November 9, 1926, when eight people were killed and a large number injured.

"These constantly occurring accidents must demonstrate beyond controversy to every public official, to every railroad official and employe and to every citizen the absolute necessity for concert of action both in matters of legislation and private endeavor to prevent these accidents. To this end and purpose the Texas council of safety was organized and is working and it appeals to every citizen of the state to aid in the effort to carry on a campaign of education for greater safety. There is some legislation necessary but a recognition by every individual of the danger, until such time as it is possible to separate all grade crossings, is of paramount importance."

PURDUE TEAM KILLED IN CRASH 20 YEARS AGO

The accident today which killed many members of the basketball squad of Baylor university calls to mind a train wreck in the edge of Indianapolis about 22 or 23 years ago in which the larger part of the football team of Purdue university was killed.

The Purdue team was on its way to Indianapolis for its annual game with Indiana university. The train from Lafayette, Ind., carrying the football team and hundreds of Purdue rooters was running in two sections. In the railroad yards of Indianapolis one section crashed into another train. The coach in which the majority of football players were riding was telescoped, the roof sliding back over the car behind. Few if any in the crushed coach escaped death or injury.

OIL IN WOODLOT

Title to Valuable Oil Tract Is Awarded to Claimant.

WINFIELD, Kan., Jan. 22.(AP) Title to valuable oil land in the Churchill oil district in eastern Sumner county today was declared to be vested in Frank Reitz, who laid claim to a woodlot. Judge C. P. Fulmer handed down a decision here finding Reitz the owner and at the same time denying to the Roxana Petroleum corporation a restraining order to stop the Derby Oil company from drilling an oil test on the two and one-half acre tract.

PASTOR PENSIONS

Ohioan's Estate Provides For Aged Ministers

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 22. (AP)—One hundred thousand dollars of the personal estate of the late Robert F. Wolfe, Columbus publisher, will be used for the pensioning of retired Presbyterian ministers. The amount is bequeathed to the proposed $15,000,000 pension fund in the will filed for probate today.

lious $10 on him Friday night. The bill was found later to be a crude example of "raising" a $1 note having been doctored with green ink and white ciphers pasted on after the numeral "1" in the corners.

A short time after a raised $1 bill was presented to McKnight, a similar bill was presented by a man to Mrs. Jackson. Discovering the fraud soon after the car left, Mrs. Jackson took a pistol, got in a car owned by S. E. Gilmer of Burkburnett and set out in pursuit, Sleet which was falling coated the windshield and made vision difficult.

Glass Cut Throat.

The car crashed into that of M. K. Smith, 911 Seventh street, wrecking both. Mrs. Smith, who was with her husband, was slightly injured. A piece of glass from the shattered windshield of Gilmer's car cut Mrs. Jackson's throat and she died in a few minutes.

The body of Mrs. Jackson is being held at the Merkle Undertaking company pending word from her parents who live near Brownwood and from her daughter at Seagraves.

Diplomas Awarded To "100 Per Cent Class" In Graduation Exercises

Another milestone was passed in the public school system of Wichita Falls Friday night when 25 members of the 1926-27 mid-year graduating class received diplomas. Commendation of the efforts of this group was given by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, who told of this unique class,—unique for 100 per cent of its members had passed the requirements for graduation.

The address of the evening was given by Bert King, local attorney who delivered a talk on character building, basing his remarks from the quotation that the world is full of good things but no good can come from them unless there is labor.

Graduates

The diplomas were awarded by W. B. Chauncey, president of the board of education, to the following young men and women:

Chloe Maria Anderson, Faye Barnett, Ira Lancelot Cain Jr., Donald Douglass Cameron, Maurice E. Carraway, Lucille Carter, Dorothy M. Coleman, Lawson Carter Dennis, Lela B. Fields, J. N. Gallemore, Thelma G. Gwinn, J. Clifford, Hall, Haldeane F. Herron, Ora Lamont Holt, John Louris Keller, Hazel Kirkland, James Lubert Lobban, Valley Fern Lowry, Charles M. McCain, Ben McCleary, Melvin Howard, McKinney, Faire Murphy, Victor Jo Pastusek, Thomas O. Peery, Neal Byrd Prichard and Rudolph Rosenthal.

Honor students in the class were Miss Faire Murphy and Maurice E. Carraway, who each received scholarships from a number of state schools.

Class Banquet

The program opened with the invocation by Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, and was followed by "Atlantis," suite in four parts, (Safranek) by the high school orchestra, directed by R. S. Riggs. The benediction was said by Rev. C. S. McClung, pastor of Floral Heights Baptist church.

The class disbanded in a final meeting and banquet at the Wichita club following the graduation exercises. Ira L. Cain, president of the class, presided; a short talk was made by A. K. Presson, registrar of the college, and Emmett Bauknight, member of the 1925-26 mid-year class also made a short talk.

Motor Essence Furnishes The Romance of Transportation

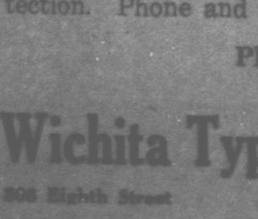

THERE is as much difference in the efficiency of Motor Essence and ordinary gasoline as there is between the modern eight-cylinder car of America and the bulky canal boat of China.

Motor Essence gives a silky smoothness to your motor under any operating conditions. It makes starting easier—gives your car a remarkable increase in acceleration, speed and power—gives you more miles per gallon and eliminate the expense of unnecessary motor trouble. Motor Essence is absolutely pure and odorless—clear as acrystal and has no artificial coloring to camouflage impurities.

Of course Motor Essence should sell for more than the average gasoline but it does not. These dealers charge no more for it than you pay for ordinary gasoline. Drive by one of these stations and ask for Motor Essence, the perfect gasoline.

CLARA NEWS NOTES

Special to The Record News.

CLARA, Jan. 22.—In the membership campaign between the men and women of the Clara P.-T. A., the women were the losing side and gave a banquet to the winners and all members of the P.-T. A. on Tuesday night.

Miss Kathryn Whittenberg had charge of the program. L. H. Adair was toastmaster for the evening, giving a toast to the losing side. Mrs. Orville Jordan gave a toast in response to the winner then J. O. Sehon gave a toast to the ladies that prepared the banquet, and Mrs. Olin White gave a toast to the president, Mrs. E. W. Cullers. G. L. Belcher gave a talk on what the P.-T. A. means to our community, and Supt. E. W. Cullers gave the history of the Clara P.-T. A., organized in 1922 with a membership of 14, and at present there is a membership of 82. Music was rendered during the banquet by Miss Lillie Blalner, violin, and Miss Gertrude Hieserman at the piano.

Two saxophone numbers were rendered by Clarence Hieserman with Miss Hieserman at the piano.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames J. E. Rogers, S. C. Tatum, N. M. Matthews, L. H. Adair, Claud Chandler, L. F. Hamner, H. S. Butts, Ed Hieserman, J. O. Sehon, Olin S. Clara basketball boys went to Petrolia Wednesday for an interesting game. The score was: Clara 21, Petrolia 11.

Ball Games

Last Friday night the Burkburnett voller ball girls came over and played the Clara girls on Clara's court. The scores for the seniors were, first game, 21 to 14 in Clara's favor; second game, 21 to 17 in favor of Burkburnett and the third game 21 to 15 in Burkburnett's favor. The scores for the juniors were: First game, 21 to 12; second game, 21 to 14, both in favor of Clara.

The same night the Landon-Hill team played the Clara team the closest and most interesting game of basketball that has been played on the Clara court this season, the score being 19 to 16 in Clara's favor. But the Clara boys had to work for every point made. This game was refereed by Sam Jordan.

Last Monday night Harrold basketball team met the Clara team on Clara's court but Harrold went back defeated. These scores were 26 to 17. Sam Jordan refereed the game. On the same night the Clara Outlaws and Harrold Outlaws played. The scores were 37 to 10 in Harrold's favor. G. L. Belcher refereed.

Clara was well represented at Cashion last Saturday where they had a practice tournament of volley ball. Our volley ball girls were defeated by Iowa Park. Both teams of basketball and volley ball are getting in some real practice, getting ready for the county tournament which is near at hand. Couches G. L. Belcher and Miss Mary Foster are working hard with their teams.

Pease River Irrigation Project Will Supply 475,000 Acres Plans Show

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Jan. 22.—Maps and preliminary estimates placed in the hands of R. M. Fielder, secretary of the chamber of commerce, by representatives of Floyd and Lockeridge, Dallas consulting engineers, indicate that the Pease and Red River Valleys irrigation project, if it becomes a reality, will be one of the most extensive projects of its kind in the southwest. It is estimated in the preliminary report 475,000 acres in the two valleys can be made available.

Final reports on the project will not be made until late in the summer. No definite promotion action will be taken until engineers have made authoritative repogts.

A lake more than 20 miles in length will be formed above the dam, according to the estimates. Two main canals will lead out from the big dam, one from each end. No diversion dam will be necessary for the project, the engineers state.

Now they last still longer

EXCEPTIONAL staying power has always been a most important quality in Ray-O-Vac radio batteries.

Now a new type of construction makes these long-life batteries last from 10% to 15% longer yet!

This new construction does away with the pitch-filled top, making the 45-volt heavy duty battery four pounds lighter. Short circuits are practically eliminated, and each cell gives all its strength in service.

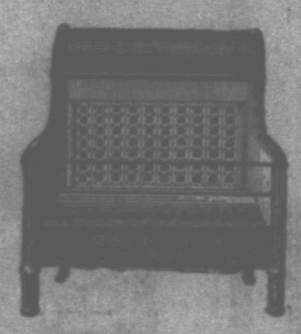

Ray-O-Vac batteries are also famous for their low internal resistance. In "B" batteries this means less distortion in signals and therefore better reception.

There are twice as many radio owners who know these facts, using Ray-O-Vac batteries, as there were a year ago.

Leading radio dealers everywhere handle Ray-O-Vac batteries. If you have any difficulty getting them write us.

BEN FRANKLIN SCHOOL OPENS

Parents and Public Invited To Visit Today

Formal opening of the Benjamin Franklin school, first unit of the building planned for the Country club Estates, will be Sunday afternoon from 2:30-5 o'clock when members of the board of education, teachers of the school, and the donors of the land on which the new building stands will receive the guests. Citizens of Wichita Falls interested in the public school system are invited to attend the opening and inspect the structure which is fashioned on the most modern style of architecture, it was announced by the committee.

Reception at School

The site for the Benjamin Franklyn school was given by W. B. Hamilton and N. H. Martin, builders of the Country Club Estates. They will be in the receiving line along with Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, members of the board, and Miss Kate Burgess, principal of the school.

Teachers of the school will be in the various rooms, and parents whose children will be at Benjamin Franklin are especially invited to meet the teachers: Mrs. Eloise Hardy Harris, Mrs. J. Eric Wren, Miss Emma Davidson, Mrs. S. L. Butler, Miss Lillie Karney and Mrs. William Rosenblat.

Art Exhibit

Music will be furnished during the afternoon, but other than that no special program has been announced. An art exhibit has been arranged through the courtesy of the art committee of Junior college. Among the pictures shown at the school are "Hill Crest" which found many admirers when exhibited here before; the "Bayou at Sundown," "Sweep of River," "Sunlit Woods," "The Enchanted Forest," and others.

This exhibit was sent by the Yunt Art galleries of Kansas City and include the pictures of Will Henry Stevens of New Orleans and is called the "One Man Show."

NEGRO ESCAPES

Black Wins Freedom Through Bars; Another Man Cut

Just afew hours of siting on the inside looking on the outside was enough for Fraser Martin, negro, who up until 10:30 last night was being held in the city jail for investigation in a pistol carrying case. Martin took advantage of several sawed bars in his cell which had been cut several days ago in another attempted delivery, and gained his freedom.

He slipped out the third story window, dropped to a roof between the city hall and an adjoining building and jumped from there to the ground and freedom. City firemen heard the black as he struck some wires and notified officers. Five other prisoners in the cell preferred the warmth of the jail to the icy night air and remained.

SURPRISE PARTY

Inmates of the temporary home of the volunteers of America, 500 Taylor street, were provided a delicious surprise dinner and party Saturday. The banquet was provided by Mrs. Fred Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Mary Louman, Mrs. Mary K. Hastkings of Burkburnett, Mrs. Frank Watkins of Burkburnett and Jack Mullen of Wichita Falls.

An announcement was made Saturday of a modern two-story brick building, which is to be erected by J. J. Perkins and F. P. Timberlake in the 900 block on Indiana avenue.

This building will be erected next to the Olympia theater and will supplant the Myles O'Reilly frame structure.

The W. T. Grant company, through their representatives, McNeny and McNeny of Dallas and San Antonio, have secured a lease on this building covering a period of 25 years.

The terms of the lease were not made public, but it is understood that it involves several hundred thousand dollars.

The negotiations for this lease were carried on by W. W. Touchstone of the firm of McNeny and McNeny and C. H. Sandford of the W. T. Grant company, who made several trips to Wichita Falls before finally selecting this location.

National Organization.

The W. T. Grant company is a national chain store organization operating in almost every important city from Maine to Texas and is a large department store handling merchandise from 25 cents to $1.

Twenty years ago W. T. Grant of Lynn, Mass., conceived the idea of a 25 cent department store, and started there in a very small way. His business was very successful right from the beginning and in a short while he opened his second store in Salem, only 15 miles distant. This became the nucleus for a great national chain which now employes thousands of people and operates a large number of stores throughout the country on the basis of quick turn-overs and small profits. The success of the company is due unquestionably to the splendid values given to its customers. For instance, when they opened their store in Dallas they sold thousands of pairs of ladies' hose at 5 cents per pair. Cash sales, no delleveries, credits or bookkeeping and quick turn-overs enable them to offer merchandise at extremely low figures and attractive prices, it is said.

Solid Block of Building.

Several years ago C. E. Freeman, who had been with the company practically since its organization, was made president and Mr. Grant chairman of the board. F. A. Powdrell is vice-president and treasurer in charge of financing; B. A. Rowe, vice-president in charge of store operation; L. H. Crawford, vice-president in charge of merchandise; which gives the company a splendid organization.

This building to be occupied by the W. T. Grant department store is the latest announcement in the enlarged building program on Indiana avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets. Other structures being the Perkins-Snider building which was finished during the past year and the Voelker and Dixon building and the McConnell building now under construction. These buildings will fill the gaps and make solid the entire block with brick structures.

Voelker and Dixon are architects for the new building, which occupies a space 50 by 150 feet. The A. J. Rife Construction company has the general contract and J. F. Nunn the plumbing contract. C. G. Williamson has charge of the electrical wiring of the building.

ROARS FOR HOTEL

Lions Announce Program For Marchman Opening

The Lions will roar Monday night at the opening of the new Marchman hotel, for the Lions are in charge of the program to be held in connection with the formal opening of the new hostelry on the corner of Tenth and Lamar. Members of the club are to dress as bell hops and they will be stationed on the different floors to escort the visitors through the building.

Their program consists of music by Jack Gardner's orchestra of Dallas; vocal solos by Mayor R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano, and a short talk by him as well.

Presidents of the men's civic clubs have been invited to assist in receiving the guests, including Dr. R. H. Graham, Lions club; Solon R. Featherston, Optimist; W. S. Abbott, Advertising club; A. L. Huey, Real Estate board; Grover Bullington, Kiwanis; A. E. Myles, Rotary; Arthur Rayzor, business council; C. J. Coffey, University club; C. E. McCutchen, president of the chamber of commerce.

40 AND 8

A meeting of the 40 and 8 will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the office of R. J. Claypool on Scott street for the purpose of arranging plans in relation to the initiation of members into the society Feb. 22. It was announced Saturday night.

Bargain Sale Crowd Swamps Auto Agency—Five Wait All Night to Buy

Is there a market for used cars? Frank Queisser, genial police commissioner and head of Hudson-Essex in Wichita Falls attests to this fact. For early last week appeared announcements to the effect that the general public could pick its cars at prices from 98 cents up.

The line started forming in front of the Hudson-Essex office at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Snow, sleet and the coldest weather of the year failed to daunt five prospective purchasers who were determined to get their cars cheap. At 10 o'clock Friday night there were eight men in line. At midnight three became discouraged and dropped out—but the five remained until the sale opened and they were accordingly purchasing their cars when the sale opened at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Crowds thronged the opening of tthe sale in spite of the weather.

P. B. O'Brien took the first car with 98 cents. R. R. Shields took a touring car at $2.98. Henry Long purchased his conch at $9.98. Norman Larson paid $19.98 for a coupe. W. E. Holden is now driving his Cadillac as the result of spending the night in the cold and $32.48.

"It's a great sale," said Commissioner Queisser.

COFFEY HEADS VARSITY CLUB

University Members Name New Officers at Luncheon

C. J. Coffey was elected president of the University club in the semi-annual election of officers at the regular meeting Saturday noon at the Kemp. He succeeds Burl Bryant who has held the high office the last six months. Other officers elected were E. E. Fischer and Sam Holliday, vice-presidents. John Marrs was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Directors chosen were Burl Bryant, L. E. Dickerson and S. H. Rider. Mr. Fischer was chosen representative from the club to the business council of the chamber of commerce.

Committees named Saturday afternoon by Mr. Coffey included the following: Membership, E. P. Haney, Miss Mary Bingham and Mrs. E. E. Fischer; music, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pitman and Mrs. Hermoine Stuart Vaughn. It was voted by the club to have the president and the two vice-presidents serve as the program committee for the present.

Miss Mary Sutherland, nutritionist of the local chapter of Red Cross, gave an interesting talk on "Health."

"We have not decreased old age diseases," Miss Sutherland pointed out. She spoke of environment, mental attitude and other factors pertaining to and maintaining health.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

FEMININE CAGE LOOPERS PLAN SPEEDY START

Women's League Opens Title Race Wednesday With Band Blaring

Femininity puts masculinity to rout for the time being in Wichita Falls' athletic realm Wednesday night when four coy cage sextets swing into titular action on the Junior college court in strife for the honor of being Wichita Falls' first championship women's basket ball team and winner of The Record News trophy.

Two games are carded with the curtain raiser set for 7:30 o'clock. The opener is billed between the Conocos, sextet sponsored by the Continental Oil company, and the Electric company's 40-piece saxo-M. club takes on the Whippets, sponsored by the Willys-Knight-Whippet Inc., in the nightcap.

Opening of the Amazonian league, the first of its kind ever organized in this city, is to be ushered along with pomp, heavy ceremony and a blare of brass. The Electric company's 40-piece saxophone band, the only one of its kind in Texas—take it from Doc Kelly, will play accompaniment to the pat-pat of rubber-soled shoes and thud of ball against basket. A special selection of numbers has been made by the band leader for this occasion.

Each Confident.

All teams have been practicing earnestly the past several weeks and each has expressed itself confident of prancing through the rest of the league to the championship.

Coaches of the clubs Saturday refused to divulge their probable starting line-ups. Each declared desire to wait until the very last minute because so many of the young women are improving rapidly during the workouts that almost any starting club today may be forced to sit on the sidelines tomorrow and watch its fleeter and more efficient basketballing sisters do their stuff.

P. B. M. Looms.

Although handicapped severely by lack of practice court facilities, the league bids to place four speedy machines onto the floor. At the moment, the Electrics and P. B. M. sextets loom as the class of the loop with the Conocos and Whippets almost ready to slip in and kick up the dope.

Charley Spragins and Captain Jesse Doke have banded together a formidable club to wear the Electrics' red and black colors. In practice session so far the Kilowatts have stood out above the rest of the field.

John Barnard, P. B. M. coach, ran into some early hard breaks and lost several potentially clever players but has rallied lately with a squad that next to the Electrics stacks up as the strongest in the league. The P. B. M.'s gave the Electrics a merry tussle the other night and came very near to trimming Spragins' outfit. With a little more practice, the department store squad feels sure that it can turn back the powerful Electrics.

Neal's Forwards Poor.

Chubby Neal's Whippets have looked fairly good in spots, but team play on the whole is very poor with the forwards serving as the weakest points because they have not as yet learned to "break" when the ball starts up field and elude the guards but invariably with exception of one player, Ruby Holcomb of Iowa Park, stand as if glued to their tracks. At the guard and center positions, Neal seems well fortified.

Frank Ramsey's Conocos may turn out to be the surprise club of the league. In Captain Louise Boyse and Mrs. Bill Abbott, the Conocos have a fine pair of forwards who are liable to jar loose almost any moment in a game and ring goal after goal.

No Girlish Giggles Here, Because These Fair Maids Mean Business When They Open Basketball Titular Drive Wednesday

—All Photos By Bartlett.

There are no girlish giggles emanating from this galaxy of fair maidens, for this bevy of basket beauts are taking themselves quite seriously and certainly do mean business.

Each of the young women is a member of one of the four teams composing the women's basketball league, sponsored by The Record News and four other business concerns. And each is in dead earnest when she declares her team is going to cop the championship in this, the first feminine cage loop ever organized in Wichita Falls.

All have been practicing nobly and expect to be in tip-top physical condition for the league inaugural Wednesday night at Junior college.

The fair fem up in the left hand corner is Miss Louise Boyse, captain and forward of the Conoco girls. Number two, the pretty brunette, is the Whippets' star guard and who is expected to prove one of the league's most sensational defense players. Her name is Mabel Wright. Number three is Rubertina Davis, captain of the Whippets who works at either a guard or forward position. Modena Pierce, number four, is one of the outstanding performers with the P. B. M. sextet. She plays side center. Number five, the little Miss just in the act of flipping a goal, is Veda Oliver, forward with the Electrics. Number six is Captain Jessie Doke, running mate with Oliver on the Electric team. Agnes Blackman, number seven, does the heavy basket-chunking with the P. B. M. club at forward. Number eight is none other than Mrs. Bill Abbott, Conoco forward, whom many declare is the league's best shot at the hoop. Ferrys Brown, number nine, looms as the league's leading center, if you would take the word of the Electrics' coach and several of her Kilowatt team mates.

Top O' The Morn :-: Stuff :-:

BY BLONDY CROSS

AND SO IT EVER WAS

The Southwestern conference is scheduled in sorrow today. Never before has such a catastrophe as that which took from its midst with one deft sweep of fate's hand the entire Baylor basketball squad, occurred in this athletic organization. The lives of 10 youths in their athletic prime, 10 youths who some day would have ranked as 10 of this great commonwealth's leading citizens, were snuffed as if by the mere finger snap of Dame Fate. It will be many months before the conference, and many years before Baylor university can recover from the loss of these stalwarts, the epitome of young Tex as manhood. Fortune was doubly unkind in taking away this type of men. Fate which knows no law, indulged in another of its peculiar quirks when it killed 10 of the cream of young Texas manhood and seriously injured five others, instead of selecting those, of which there is a multitude, this world could fare much better without.

BLOW TO GOLF SENTIMENT

When Lee Wilson, one of the Spudder directors, was forced to stand by in an Arctic gale the other night and watch his investment in a magnificent home sail off in black smoke, there went glimmering before him in the ravages of fire a building to which had been attached quite a bit of Wichita Falls golf sentiment. For it was there Wichita Falls' Country clubbers had been won't to convene in years gone by. It was there across the rolling expanse of what from 1913 to 1922 was the Country club course many a Wichita Falls golfer shot his best score. Then the Country club moved to its present location and the Municipal club, sponsored by Frank Collier, came into being. Until 1925 Muny clubbers held sway, then went over into Week's park. Lee Wilson came along then and invested a small fortune in remodeling the edifice both inside and out and working over the rolling fairways to his taste.

HAS HE EVER FAILED YET?

Cop Commish Frank Queisser was urged Saturday to referee the next wrestling matches. He refused. But you KNOW he will, if you get what we mean.

* * *

Queisser, under impression they will meet Wednesday, inadvertantly remarked that Mantell and Grip can get in there and do their dirtiest to each other without interference from the police. Yet he either Grip or Mantell start roughing the Indian, the Jap or some athlete more popular than the bullet-head or Dutchman and half the constabulary starts unlimbering for action.

* * *

So, after all, the habitual police interference apparently isn't over a point of law. Else it would be Commissioner Queisser's all-the-more solemn duty to reprimand the principals of a Mantell-Grip match because these two roughnecks violate more wrestling rules and ethics in 30 minutes than does the average grappler in five engagements combined.

SOONERS LICK AMES

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 22.(AP)—Oklahoma university took the lead from the start of the game today and defeated the Iowa State basket ball team 36 to 21. Scoring started when West of Oklahoma threw a long goal from the side of the court and Oklahoma piled up a lead of nine points before Ames registered. The visitors rallied, however, and scored 11 counters while the Sooners were adding but six to their total. At no time was Ames in the lead. The score at the end of the half was Oklahoma 15; Ames 11.

PONIES KICK OWLS

DALLAS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Taking the lead in the early part of the game, the Southern Methodist University Mustangs functioned with perfect precision Saturday night and pranced to a 45 to 14 victory over the Rice Owls. It was the first conference basketball game of the season in Dallas for the Mustangs and the initiation test in their new gymnasium.

COYOTES DROP CLOSE MELEE

McCallum's Crew Returns Home This Afternoon

Bud McCallum's barnstorming Wichita Falls high school Coyotes expect to be back in the city Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock from their West Texas basketball invasion, it was learned Saturday night in telephone communication with Coach McCallum at Mineral Wells.

The Coyotes dropped a hard-fought game to Mineral Wells last night, 25 to 22. All the Wichita Falls forwards lost their basket-shooting trajectories and even Coyal Francis, clever goal shooting center and team captain, couldn't hit the hoop.

It devolved upon Mills at guard to do most of the Wichita Falls point-making, Mills looped six field baskets and a free throw for a total of 13 points. Francis accounted for four, Horton three and Watson two points.

George Films About Like You and I Do

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—George Young, 17-year-old conqueror of the Catalina channel, is admittedly one of the world's greatest swimmers, but as a potential motion picture star—well?

That was the reaction today of a high official of the Famous Players - Lasky studio, where George had his first screen test yesterday, the official say the test run off today and then said:

"George would be hopeless in movies. He should tour the country in vaudeville, clean up a fortune and then retire and go to school.

Young is expected to decide in a day or two whether he will go on the stage or into the films, and now it appears that the former will be his choice.

SCHMUTTE TIES GOLDEN IN EL PASO TOURNEY

EL PASO, Jan. 22.(AP)—Johnny Golden, Larchmont, N. Y., professional and L. Schmutte of Lima, Ohio, were tied for the medal score in El Paso's open golf tournament here this afternoon. At the end of 27 holes Golden and Schmutte had cards of 110.

Golden negotiated the first nine holes of the afternoon round in 34, while Schmuette took 35.

Bill Creavy, who was tied with Schmutte this morning lagged behind in the afternoon round and took a 36. His card for the 27 holes was 113.

LOMSKI LAMS TIGER FLOWERS FOR SEASON'S LARGEST UPSET

By MARK KELLY

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22—Standing up under a stiff punch bombardment in the early rounds, Leo Lomski, Aberdeen middleweight, put the season's largest dent in the dope bucket when after 10 furious rounds he was declared a winner over Tiger "Deacon" Flowers, recently uncrowned middleweight champion of Atlanta, Ga.

A crowd of 10,000 persons sat in Wrigley field to see Promoter Dick Donald stage a corking boxing card and to go over the financial top for the first time in his promotional career hereabouts. The decision of Referee Harry Lee was well received as it was the belated rallies of Lomski that caught the crowd's fancy and kept him going a leg weary 10-round battering his colored opponent around the ring at will all though Lomski himself was arm and leg weary to the point of exhaustion.

Great Finish

It was a close fight—so nip and tuck that a rematch would prove a smart venture on any promoter's fault. Lomski won solely on that tenth round finish. But the paying stone to his vicotry was a solid right-hand smash that he landed to Flowers' stomach midway in the seventh round. That wallop went home with the full body power of a punch behind it and caught Flowers coming in with his guard raised.

The grunt that Flowers emitted could have been heard out in the bleachers. He hugged Lomski, wrapped his long arms about him and held him in a clinch until part of his breath was back. But from that point on he fought a retreating fight with Lomski the aggressor right through to the final bell.

Flowers scored a knockdown in the third round when he caught Lomski off balance going out of a clinch. Flowers looped home one of those swinging left hooks and it caught the Aberdeen boy on his whiskers. He plopped to one knee but jumped up so swiftly and tore back into battle so vigorously that to many it looked like a slip. It was a clean knockdown.

Tiger Groggy

Several times Flowers was on his heels and groggy but each time Lomski's frantic efforts to press his advantage made him wild and Flowers would bob, duck and weave out of danger.

Both were so tired after their 10 furiously fast rounds that they dropped exhausted into their stools when it was over and grinned across the ring, each waiting for the other to come forward.

I gave Flowers four rounds, Lomski a like number and called the fourth and eighth sessions even. But the margin by which Lomski took his sessions was more pronounced than Flowers.'

Moving On

LaFayette Fresno Thompson Jr., obtained from the Giants by the Phillies in their recent trade, is expected to "make" the Philly infield, which up to the trade at least had not suited Stuffy McInnis, new pilot of the Phils.

L. THOMPSON

Thompson broke into the majors as a Pirate late in 1925, the Pittsburgh club buying him from Omaha of the Western league to fill the vacancy left by Johnny Rawling's illness. Three years before that LaFayette Fresno had been playing on the George Washington high school team in New York.

Played with Buffalo last year, hitting .332, leading the league in hits and runs, socking 25 home runs, nine triples and 29 doubles, stealing 17 bases and sacrificing 14 times. Was purchased by the Giants to play second before Hornsby deal was made.

Indians Play Altus Five Here Friday

The Junior College Indians did not play Altus Junior college Saturday night at Altus as scheduled earlier but the game is to be staged in the Tribesmen's gym next Friday, it was announced.

The Indians returned yesterday from a two-game trip to Ranger and Munday. They dropped both games by fairly close scores.

Sweeney To Coach Randolph Gridders

CISCO, Texas, Jan. 22.(AP)—Monroe Sweeney, national league umpire, will coach Randolph college football next fall, Dr. T. T. Roberts, president, said tonight. He will succeed Finis West, who resigned to go into business in Enid, Okla. Sweeney is a graduate of Bethany.

BABE GOES IN FOR PICTURES

Sultan of Swat to Screen With Anna Q.

BURBANK, Calif., Jan. 22.(AP) Babe Ruth, home-run king of the American league, has signed a motion picture contract with First National Production corporation, a studio announcement here today said. The bambino will begin work on a film within a few days and will have Anna Q. Nilsson in the feminine lead opposite him.

Early Birds Limber Up For Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 22. (AP)—A score of early birds who came to San Antonio this week to get in some extra practice for the first round of the Texas open golf championship next Thursday were idle today because of a light but persistent rain.

Bobby Cruickshank of New York who yesterday tied the Willow Springs course record of 70 with a series of circus shots contented himself with a little limbering up and none of the other visiting golfers made the round.

Real practice for the event will probably start Monday afternoon when the field which is now competing for the El Paso open title comes onto San Antonio.

Among the players already on hand are George Bowden of Cincinnati; Tom Bord of Fox Hills, N. Y.; Jack Forrester of Shorthills, N. Y.; Harold Long of Oklahoma City; Ralph Hoagland of Chicago; Clarence Hubby of Waco; M. H. Lamb, Mexico; Joe and Jess Pappin, Indian amateurs of Oklahoma; Anthony Manroe of Fairview, N. Y., and Mexico; Victor D'Alberto of the Los Angeles Country club; Frank Walsh of Wisconsin; Daniel B. Gish, Chapultepec Heights Country club, Mexico City; Pat Doyle of New York and "Bettles" Juelg of Mercedes, Texas, state professional champion.

GREENLEAF FALLS

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, tonight stripped Ralph Greenleaf of his world pocket billiard title by coming from behind to whip the titleholder, 450 to 384, in the final block of their championship match here. Rudolph won the third block here, 170 to 77.

TIGER ELEVENS EYE-GOUGERS, SAYS PLAYER

Harvard Grad Blames Break On "Dirty Football" By Princeton

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.(AP)—Assertion that "dirty football" played by Princeton, not the jibes of the Harvard Lampoon was responsible for the break in athletic relations between the Tiger and Crimson is made in an article written by Wynant D. Hubbard, varsity guard on the 1919-20 Crimson teams, are published by "Liberty," weekly magazine. The Lampoon he says, merely "has been made the goat."

Charging that the only two "dirty" games of his own playing career were "the ones with Princeton," Hubbard lodges a number of specific accusations against the Tigers. These cover mainly the period of 1923 to 1926, inclusive, and involve instances of gouged eyes, broken limbs and other injuries which Hubbard says were suffered by Harvard players, in freshman as well as varsity gridiron contests.

Among Hubbard's accusations which he declares are the "root of the trouble," are the following:

Seven Hurt in One Game

(1) That when playing Princeton the players on the Harvard team almost invariably come out of the game torn and scratched badly about the eyes. That the Harvard team, although it played seven other colleges every year never had this happen except when playing against Princeton. That, in one game with Princeton, seven men were torn.

(2) That, in the 1925 game, Miller, Harvard's fullback, came out of the game with the clear imprint of a signet ring on his nose and Daley, star Harvard guard, was "scissored" by the Princeton linemen while going down on the opening kickoff.

(3) That, in the 1924 Princeton game, three of the members of the Harvard team received badly twisted knees and one a broken leg. All of the knee injuries were alike. The men so injured were Daley, Adie, Robb and Gherke.

(4) That, in the 1922 freshman game with Princeton, Jack Maher of the Harvard team had his wrist seized with two hands and dislocated.

Got Charlie Buell

(5) That Charlie Buell, star player on the Harvard team had his ankle broken in the first half of the 1922 game with Princeton: that Buell had played six years of football previous to this without an injury. Photographs of this play show Smith, Princeton end diving onto Buell's outstretched ankle as the latter was in the act of making a forward pass. No attempt to tackle Buell or block the pass is evidenced.

(6) That it is common knowledge that Princeton players direct a constant flow of abusive language at members of the Harvard teams with the express purpose of getting their goats, making them angry, or otherwise distracting their attention from the game.

DON'T BLAME ME, YURPS BINGHAM

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.(AP) W. J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard university, issued a brief statement tonight as a reply to a story published in Liberty magazine. The story written by Wynant D. Hubbard, a guard on the 1919-20 Harvard football teams, charged that Princeton played "dirty" football against the Crimson.

Bingham's statement said:

"The Harvard athletic committee cannot be held accountable or responsible for expressions of opinion made by graduates of the university not officially connected with the athletic committee."

The statement was issued by Stanley Osborne, director of publicity of Harvard, after he had talked over telephone to Director Bingham in Cambridge. Osborne was here today in the interest of the Crimson football team which plays Pennsylvania this year.

Reagan Junior High Five Hard At Work

The Reagan junior high school basketball five have been busy at daily practice on the Zundelowitz court and is fast rounding into shape. The teamwork is improving and Coach Lewis is very well pleased with the way the squad is looking.

Lewis has a very small squad with which to work and will lose two of the best men of Monday when they go into high school. Lavarne Malone and Earl Hutchinson are the pair that Coach Lewis will lose.

John Bell, Bill Wilson, Lewis Blanchard, Paul Dickey, Jack West and Robert Clayton are the ones who at present are the most likely looking prospects on the squad. And there is a good chance of getting a few other men out of the grade school grads Monday.

No games have been matched thus far, but Coach Lewis is angling for a tilt next Friday or some day next week.

DERBY ENTRIES COMING IN, SAYS MATT J. WINN

Matt J. Winn, vice-president and general manager of the Kentucky Jockey club, says he has received a number of entries for the Kentucky derby to be run at Churchill Downs May 14. Entries must be made before February 15.

Hamilton Keene, trainer for the stable of J. E. Widener, Philadelphia horseman, has entered Osmand and Chance Shot. Keene considers Osmand the fastest colt he has ever trained.

YALE USES SAME SHELL

Richard Pocock, the present Yale and former University of Washington boat builder, says: "Yale for the last two years has used the same shell in its annual race with Harvard and it is possible that she will use it again this June."

The present shell is 60 feet 11 inches in length, with a beam of 23 1-2 inches, having what one would call a good round mould.

COMMERCIAL LOOP DEADLOCK SPLITS IN PANHANDLE-GUARD MELEE AT COLLEGE TUESDAY

Three Well-Matched Games Carded In Fourth Week Of Play—Continental and Landon-Hill Revamp Line-Ups

For three weeks running there has been either a three-way or two-way deadlock for the leadership of the Commercial basketball league, but the tie will be broken Tuesday night in play on the Junior college court. Panhandle Refiners and National Guardsmen, knotted for top honors, clash for the first time this season in what looms as one of the most crucial games of the race.

The Refiners and Guardsmen have swept all opposition before them, Tyson's Oilers turned back Continental, Draughon and the Hub Clothiers in three straight victories. The headquarters outfit poured it on the Hub and Continental crews then came back last week to nose out the speeding Landon-Hill quint in a surprise victory. The Soldiers completely outplayed the sporting goods five through the first half, tagging up a 15-5 advantage. Chub Neal's lads rallied in the second half and fought the Guards to a 23-23 deadlock but were toppled in an extra-session play-off, 25 to 22.

John Tyson, captain of the Panhandle team, suspended for a week, will be eligible to be back in the line-up Tuesday. Tyson and his men have been drilling away at a fast gait and feel fairly confident that Tuesday's contest will be stowed away in the Panhandle satchel.

The Guardsmen defeated Landon-Hill last Tuesday, although two of the Soldiers' ring-leaders were out of the line-up. By trimming Neal's club without the services of Hogg and Westerfield, the Guards put in a dire threat to the Oilers. Just what the Soldiers could have done to Landon-Hill with Hogg and Westerfield on hand is problematical.

Draughon vs. Hub

Draughon and Hub Clothiers, slated in one of the triple-header melees Tuesday, appear fairly well-matched.

The Continental-Landon-Hill game may prove a surprise. The Conocos, heretofore admitted the weak sister of the loop, will take the court with a revamped line-up. Perk Ray, formerly star forward with the Coyotes; Pug Gay, a fast-moving and hard-battling guard and Wayne Jones, a highly effective center, have been added to the Continental battle array. With these three luminaries in the van, the Conocos may whip the sox off the sporting goods men. At any rate, Neal's club expects a tough fight for the laurels.

Gantner And Enloe

Neal has been doing a bit of revamping on his own hook. Andrew Ganter, dead-eye forward with the Landon-Hill champions last season, will be back on deck Tuesday, according to Neal. And Paul Enloe of Iowa Park, long and rangey center who is capable, also, of waging a great defensive game, will be eligible to play with the Landon gang Tuesday.

Rehash of team performances up to the present show Panhandle to be the highest scoring squad with the Guardsmen a meager three points behind. Panhandle's team total for the three league games played to date is 94. The Guards tally up with 91. Landon-Hill is third with 81 points.

Rawls of Panhandle is high-point man with 14 field goals and one free throw for a total of 29. Hill of the Guards has scored 26 points and Allen of Landon-Hill has hit the hoop for 25.

Panhandle scoring has been fairly well divided with Haney coming in for 20 points, Wolford 14 and Thurman 10. Meadows, Hogg and January have ably backed Hill in score-making for the Guards. Beck of Landon-Hill has tabulated 21 times.

GOT HIS GOAT

Champ Loses Calf and Goat-Roping Contest by Second

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Louis Jones, of Christoval, world's champion calf and goat roper, attempted two matches here Friday on a horse he had ridden in 20 miles from the ranch and failed before a large crowd attending the sports program of the West Texas Petroleum convention.

He easily defeated Sam Mathers of Eldorado in the first match, lassoing and tying 10 goats in an average of 14.1 seconds to 21.3 seconds, but lost the second contest to Allan Holder of Midland by one second. Holder's total time on six goats was 83 1-5 seconds, Jones' 74 1-5, but Holder beat him on the individual, Jones' fastest time being 8 1-15.

His record is 6-4-5.

"Hank" Russell, Cornell's famous sprinter, who won the Princeton - Cornell - Oxford - Cambridge sprinting events in the track and field meet in England last summer, is not content but has his eyes on the 1928 Olympic games. He is working out at Franklin field under the eyes of Coach Lawson Robertson, of the University of Pennsylvania.

SULLY PUTS IN BID

Another heavyweight, Sully Montgomery, has entered the title quest. Montgomery hails from Texas and out of 46 fights has scored 16 knockouts within four rounds each.

He is 24 years old and weighs 204 pounds. He floored the rugged Johnny Risko and knocked out Jack

BAN GIRDS FOR TWIN BATTLES

A. L. Prexy Gives Old Roman Heavy Run-Around

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—The greatest battles of his 34 years in baseball confront Byron Bancroft Johnson, founder and president of the American league.

If he wins the support again of his league club owners in tomorrow's conference, he will still have to face Monday's clash with Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The commissioner has demanded to know why he was not informed of all the circumstances of the dismissal of Ty Cobb, and Tris Speaker, instead of being handed only the insinuations of crookedness alleged by Dutch Leonard.

Summons All But Comiskey

To answer this question at Monday's session, President Johnson has summoned all his club owners to a conference tomorrow except his ancient enemy, Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox.

Whether the club owners will stand back of him in the dispute with the commissioner, President Johnson tonight admitted he did not know. All of them but Phil C. Ball of the St. Louis Browns, signed a memorandum to Commissioner Landis two years ago assuring the czar of organized baseball that they would see that Johnson would make no more public criticism of the commissioner. On the other hand, all of the seven magnates called for tomorrow's session approved of the dismissal of Cobb and Speaker last September at a conference here when the commissioner was given Dutch Leonard's evidence—letters from Cobb and "Smoky" Joe Wood.

Back of these charges of Leonard which President Johnson has declared he does not believe is a plain story of incompetence as big league managers that the American league executive said should convince anyone of the justice of the league's action.

Landis Won't Comment

Commissioner Landis refused tonight to comment on recent developments in the Cobb-Speaker situation which has been overshadowed by the expected test of strength between the American league executive and himself.

Half a dozen prominent business men already have been mentioned for Johnson's job including even one of his own league's club presidents, E. S. Barnard of Cleveland, but it his long regime is ended tomorrow, Mr. Johnson intimated tonight will die with his boots on and not resign under fire.

WALT TO MEET GENE

Pro Golf Champ Tackles Ex-Champ Next Month

A match between Walter Hagen, professional golfer's association champion, and Gene Sarazen, ex-champion, has been arranged for about the middle of February. They will play the first 36 holes at Sarazen's golf park, Miami, and the latter half at Hagen's Pasadena course at St. Petersburg, Fla.

A committee of business men of Miami have agreed to back Sarazen to the extent of $5000 and Hagen has accepted the terms.

LONE OUTSIDER

Every player on the Marquette university basketball team with the exception of Oliver Dostaler of Houghton, Mich., hails from the Badger state of Wisconsin.

The squad is one of the strongest in recent years.

The New Haven, Conn., ball club has sold Ted Hauk, third baseman, to the Lincoln club of the Western league.

Now You Chase Me

The future of baseball hinges on these three, Tris Speaker, who was forced to resign because of alleged crooked methods, Judge Landis, high commissioner who defends the test to his office, and Ban Johnson, American league organizer, who would throw Landis out.

"I have never bet a single cent on baseball or have I ever gambled while my interest was on in the game," says Tris.

"If you have anything to say about baseball, say it to me," that's the judge.

"I have made many inquiries in baseball that have not as yet been made known to anyone. I will tell them when the time comes," says Ban.

Indians To Run In Texas Marathon

By Universal Service.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 22.—Five Indians, including the two who made the world famous 100-kilometer run last year between Pachuca and Mexico City, will practipate in an 86-mile run between Austin and San Antonio, according to announcement here tonight.

The great run will take place about March 25, during the holding of theintercollegiate meet at the University of Texas.

Athletic authorities here tonight stated that three additional Indians two of whom are record-breakers, will go to Texas for the marathon. All five are expected to set up some remarkable records.

ALWAYS A CHAMPION

George Young, the youthful Canadian swimmer, who won the Catalina channel swim, at 16 was the holder of four records, the 200 and 220 yards, free style, the quarter-mile and the mile. He has also won 15 championships.

Along Cauliflower Alley

DETROIT.—Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., defeated Soldier Jake Dombrowski, Detroit, 10 rounds; Al Corbett, Cleveland, outpointed Lee Hardy, Detroit, 10 rounds; Worcester, Mass. George (Kid) Lee, Worcester, defeated Sailor Friedman, Chicago, 10 rounds; Toledo, Ohio, Frankie Spiegel, Milwaukee, outpointed Homer Leblanc, Detroit, 10 rounds. Louis Carpentero, Philippines, started Carl Feiber, Milwaukee, 2 rounds; Savannah, Ga., "Battling" Finch, Savannah, and Chuck Burns, Chicago, drew, 10 rounds; San Francisco, King Tut, Minneapolis and Tommy Cello, San Francisco, drew, 10 rounds. Freddie Hoppe, San Francisco, was awarded a technical knockout over Allan Sallisbury, Chicago, 4 rounds; Sacramento, Calif., Alfredo Imperial, Stockton, and Ollie Bartlett, St. Paul, drew, 10 rounds.

HAMMER ADDED

Charley Pratt, 1927 football captain at Harvard, has added the hammer throw to his list of competitions in track. Pratt led the Crimson trackmen in the shot, javelin and discus last year and in the six out-door meets made a total of 62 points.

PIRATES STILL TITLE MENACE

Veteran Bush Depends On Flashy Youngsters

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 22. (AP)—Supported by a cast of young and scintillating players Owen (Donie) Bush, new manager of the Pittsburgh Nationals, will combine them with his long major league experience in the hope of capturing the 1927 world's baseball championship.

Staunch followers of the Pirates pick the team to finish first, second or third the coming season, pinning their faith on the speed and playing ability of the young stars, who, despite inter-club strife late in the 1926 season, held the club in a money position. No major deals have been put over this winter, but the club is well fortified in every department with the possible exception of pitching.

Mean Outfield

In the outer gardens Hazel Cuyler, slugger and speed merchant, will be in center with Paul Waner in right. Much is expected of Waner this year because of his brilliant playing last season. The left garden is a toss up between the veteran Clyde Barnhart, Herman Lyne, acquired from Toronto, and Fred Brickell, a product of the Western league. All are fleet of foot and heavy hitters.

A trio of the league's headlights will be at their old positions in the infield. The rangy Grantham is a fixture at first base, Glenn Wright will cavort around short and Pie Traynor at third. The keystone sack, a Pirate problem for many seasons, may be solved by Joe Cronin. Hal Rhyne, former Pacific coast star, also is a keystone candidate, Lloyd Waner, brother of Paul, has played the infield in the minor leagues, but Bush believes he may make a good infielder.

Veteran Catchers

The backstop post will give the new manager little trouble with the three veterans, Earl Smith, Johnny Gooch and Spencer ready for action.

The pitching staff is held in some quarters to be weak, yet it looks good on paper. Kremer, Aldridge, Morrison, Hill, Joe Bush, and Lee Meadows, all seasoned men, are expected to bear the brunt of hurling duty. Songer and Yde may see steady action. To this regular force has been added Chet Nichols, formerly of the New Haven club; and Mike Cvengros, former White Sox moundsman.

Two rookie outfielders will get a tryout, Comarosky, from Williamsport, Pa., and Frye, Johnstown, Pa.

One Sour Note

Although placing great confidence in the young team, experts feel that the passing of 1926 of such outstanding stars as Max Carey, Babe Adams, Carson Bigbee, and Stuffy McInnis, will be felt to a great extent and will dim the chance to capture the bunting.

The first three were released because they were said to have led a movement to oust Fred Clarke from the bench as assistant manager. In the meantime, Clarke, as well as Manager Bill McKechnie, passed from the Pirate picture while McInnis was let out unconditionally.

GULLEY GOES BACK

After an absence of one year Tom Gulley, outfielder, will return to the Little Rock club of the Southern association.

MANTELL RUNS OUT ON GRIP, SO CARLIN YAPS FOR RETURN GO AND GETS IT WEDNESDAY

Swede Swears Knee Has Healed and Declares He'll Drub Lithuanian—Gorman Takes On Pacific Coast Junior Welterweight

Dutch Mantell has taken another run-out powder. Eloquent Al who for the past couple of months has sprinkled oratory all over Northwest Texas in issuance of sundry challenges to members of the tin-ear detachment that frequents San Angelo, Amarillo and Wichita Falls, has turned off the loud speaker with suddenness and finality (?). The voluble Dutchman asked for a match with bullet-headed Charley Grip in here this week, was given the okeh and then got to thinking it over and changed his mind.

"Cannot wrestle Grip this week," was Mantell's reply to Ross two days after he had been told he could have all he wanted of the bullet-head Wednesday.

So Johnny Carlin, who solemnly swears his injured knee has recuperated, has been matched for another fling at the leaping Lithuanian.

Carlin was put out of commission temporarily here last week when Grip grabbed hold of the damaged member, and the yell Johnny let out was sufficient cause for one to believe he never would be able to wrestle again.

Doctor Says Okeh

But hardly had Carlin returned to Amarillo before he started wiring and telephoning for a return bout with Grip. He declared the knee is in good shape and that he will be fully fit to step at his best pace against Grip Wednesday.

Carlin went even further, saying 'I'll guarantee to beat that guy this time or I don't want a nickel."

Carlin's doctor was called over long distance, according to Matchmaker A. B. Ross, and queried about the Swede's condition. The M. D. declared the knee is in good shape, that no ligaments had been injured, that it was only a bad bruise and had healed rapidly, said Ross.

Jack Picks Tough One

Grip is to grapple Carlin two falls to a finish New York commission rules. Johnny last week had Charley on the run until the latter picked on the bum leg hinge. The Swede's exhibition left little doubt in minds of ringsiders that in shape he can whip Grip handily. His corkscrew flying headlock all but beat Grip as it was.

Jack Gorman, the San Angelo flash, tackles Ted Lee of Long Beach, Cal., in a finish match preliminary to the Grip-Carlin argument. Lee recently won the Pacific coast junior welterweight championship. He's expected to prove a hard nut for Gorman to crack.

MALCIEWECZ WINS

Utica Grappler Takes Tough Match From Toots Mondt

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 22. (AP)—with both men reeling and very groggy in a sensational wrestling bout, Joe Malcieweez, Utica, N. Y., pinned Joe "Toots" Mondt, Colorado cowboy, at the end of three hours and three minutes Friday night. Mondt in the last the minutes secured a series of headlocks and seemed destined to win, but Malcieweez, with a desperate effort, got a flying mare hold, raised Mondt above his head and dropped him for the fall, then fell through the ropes completely exhausted. Mondt was in bad shape after the fall and unable to come back for a second try. The referee awarded Malcieweez the bout.

Wee Bob Shoots 70 At Santone

Coast Victor Serves Notice On Texas Open Field

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Wee Bobby Cruickshank, winner of the Los Angeles open golf one of the most dangerous contenders in the Texas open here the latter part of this month on the basis of his practice performances. Yesterday he shot Willow Springs, the tournament course in 70, equaling the course record and going two under par. At the third his drive came to rest in a deep sand trap out of sight of the green, but Bobby had the flag removed and shot a perfect basket with his niblick for an angle two. At the fifth, where a small lake sits directly in front of the green his drive kissed the pin and bounced away a few inches to give him an angle two. His only alternative was to wait a shot getting back in the clear or play an intentional hook, driving directly over the water and then curving back to the green. He elected the latter course and laid his ball within three feet of the pin.

Track Marks To Topple On Coast

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 22.—Eighty-two varsity and frosh candidates for track have reported to Coach Hec Edmundson, University of Washington.

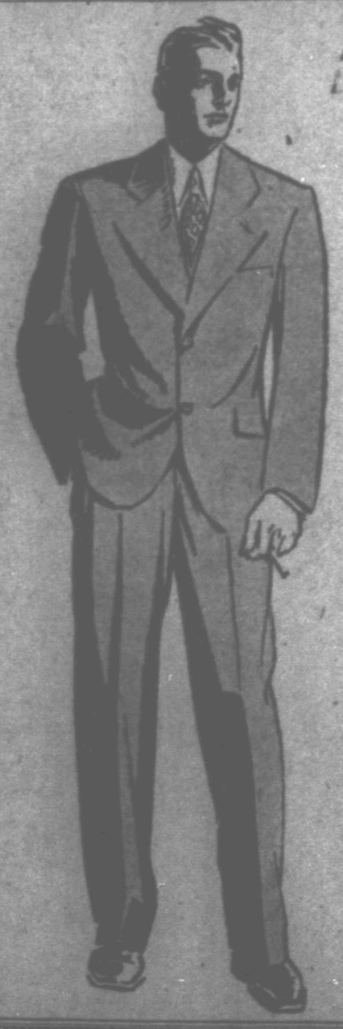

Edmundson's big rub this year with the varsity is going to be in the quarter-mile event. No former varsity men have reported and only three or four of last year's frosh team are on deck. Out of this showing the slim mentor must mold a team that can collect points in the four-mile relay.

In the field events Edmundson is more confident. Herm Brix of football and track repute will undoubtedly set a new conference record in the shotput, he declared.

Frosh distance records are due to go a-toppling also, he believes. Rufus Kiser of Wenatchee, has already broken all former university records for the three-mile cross-country run, formerly held by "Red" Ramsey, Washington distance ace, and since then has smashed his own high record in four performances.

WILDCAT OPERATIONS PAY OFF IN WEEK'S OIL DEVELOPMENT

NEW WELLS IN TWO COUNTIES

Technical Convention Held Here Early in Week

By TOM TRULY
Oil Editor, The Record News.

The past week was one of the most interesting for the oil fraternity that has been experienced here since the early fall months. With the technical convention of the Western Petroleum Refiner's association featuring the first two days of the week there was something happening with more or less of a thrill attached nearly every succeeding day in the week.

More than 55 refiners were gathered here for the two-day meeting which was held at the Kemp hotel and visitors as well as local members were highly pleased with the results obtained in the discussions as well as the entertainment provided by Wichita Falls refiners.

In the fields of the district good results were obtained in a number of wildcat operations. The Marland and Consolidated Oil companies uncovered a new pool in west 1179, T. E. & L. survey. This well is estimated to be good for 50 to 75 barrels from a sand at 1018 to 1024 feet, the last two feet of which were plugged owing to the appearance of salt water. This well opens up a stretch of new territory approximately four miles square in area, being over two miles from the Benson pool in north Young.

Southwest Archer

In southwest Archer county the development was featured by the completion of the Kisk Oil company well on the D. L. Wolf tract in the G. W. Miles survey. This test fooled most of the operators by turning out to be better than a 100-barrel producer in the sand at 1365 to 1371 feet. The Phillips and Oldham pools are virtually connected as the result of this production.

The territory southwest of Vernon in Wilbarger county came back for more of the glory with the bringing in by the Fain-McGaha Oil company and the Roxana Petroleum corporation their No. 2 Fluhmann, located south and west of the No. 1 discovery. The new well found the pay at 1478 to 1481 feet and when drilled in, flowed over the crown block. It is being completed with an estimated daily output of 500 barrels of oil. The Wyoming blizzard was all that prevented a third producer being added to the area as the Gulf Production has its No. 1 Blackman ready to swab. It is showing plenty of oil and considerable gas.

The Gulf partially brought in its No. 1 M. K. Graham in section 855, Premium survey in the Woodson area of Throckmorton county. This well sprayed and flowed 59 barrels in the first 12 hours from two feet of the pay entered at 1819 feet.

Town Lot Play

The beginning of the great town lot play in the Muenster townsite was the big noise in Cooke county. Three wells have started drilling to the immediate vicinity of the Oil Operators Trust well which has been placed on the pump. Reports from Muenster are to the effect that the little city has all it can handle to care for the greatly increased business resulting from the oil activity.

The first production sale of importance in 1927 was made Friday when George Pace sold to M. Pulse, Gus Schulte and I. A. Fine a 46-acre tract with one producer just west of the Wilmot pool and in block 20, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county for a consideration which is believed will go to $100,000. The trade was made on a basis of $550 per barrel for flush production from the first three wells on the tract. The one well is making over 100 barrels daily.

Pipeline runs slumped slightly with a daily average of 101,410 barrels as compared with 101,735 barrels for the previous week.

12-Inch Line To Stovall Gusher

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Jan. 22.—A crew of 50 men is at work for the Phillips Petroleum company laying a 12-inch pipeline to the E. C. Stovall well that came in on December 25 with an initial production of 2000 barrels of oil and 3,000,000 cubic feet of rich gas from the sand at 1858 feet. The well is holding up after 20 days with a daily flow of 1500 barrels. Stovall has spudded in his No. 3, 8 north offset, and the Ruthada Oil company is drilling an offset to the east in block 31.

In addition to the above wells, the Panhandle Refining company is deepening its No. 17 McCluskey and is rigging up on its No. 7. Conner and Son are deepening their No. 4 to the deep sand. The Pements Oil company is drilling on the Graham land while Pitser and west also have operations under way in the South Bend pool.

Pitser and West have brought in their No. 7 Morrison, one mile east of the city limits and it is reported to be making 125 barrels daily. Several other wells are drilling in this pool.

MARKET BETTER

Natural Gas in Panhandle Is Moving Steadily

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Jan. 22.—The market for natural gas from the Panhandle field is increasing steadily, figures of the Amarillo Oil company indicate. Efforts are being made to increase the production and demand and as Amarillo continues to grow, and new industries are brought into the plains capital, a greater consumption will occur.

In December the Amarillo Oil company delivered to the Panhandle Pipe Line company a total of 666,000,000 cubic feet of gas, which it delivered to the Amarillo Gas company to supply industrial and domestic customers.

Wichita District Crude Runs Past Week Average 101,410 Barrels Daily

Pipeline runs of crude oil in the Wichita Falls district made another small drop last week when a daily average of 101,410 barrels was run as compared with 101,735 for the previous week. While Archer county, Burkburnett, Throckmorton county, and Cooke county were in a slump, Electra, Iowa Park, Jack county, Montague county, Wilbarger county and Young county made large gains. Montague county's increase amounted to 170 barrels daily due to the wells brought in by the Continental Oil company. Throckmorton county registered the greatest loss in the district, due to the settling of yield from some of the gushers which have been brought in there.

Daily runs by fields follow:

FIELD—	Past Week	Prev. Week	Difference
Electra	16,330	16,260	gain 70
Burkburnett	11,550	11,705	loss 145
Iowa Park	4,270	4,110	gain 160
Archer county	29,660	30,000	loss 340
Baylor county	115	125	loss 10
Clay county	785	785	...
Cooke county	1,900	1,940	loss 40
Jack county	765	750	gain 15
Montague county	12,530	12,360	gain 170
Throckmorton county	1,785	2,225	loss 440
Wilbarger county	12,975	12,810	gain 115
Young county	9,645	9,535	gain 110

SKELLY'S BUY TOPS ACTIVITY

Amarillo Oil District Has Exciting Week

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Jan. 22.—Skelly's planking down $240,000 for 320 acres in the new Roxana pool in western Carson county, and the extension of that field by the Southwest Oil & Development company's No. 1 Southwest, one mile and a quarter east, is causing members of the oil fraternity to look towards that field as the prime factor in building back the Panhandle's peak of 167,000 barrels per day.

Nearly 2000 barrels were gained by the field for the first time in three weeks, during the second week in January. This followed slumps ranging from three to 5000 barrels.

Skelly's purchase was the north half of section 198, block 4, Carson county, from Henry Schafer, which places an oil value of nine million dollars on the Schafer ranch.

500 Barrel Well

Southwest's new well in that area was estimate dat 500 barrels, initial flow, following a shot of 70 quarts of nitroglycerine, top pay being encountered at 3148 feet in section 195, block 4, Carson.

Other outstanding features of the Panhandle field for the past week consisted in Wheeler county's jump into bigger production rank, and a mile extension, west, of the south Hutchinson field along the river bank.

Wheeler's largest well now is the Gibson No. 1 Bentley, section 42, block 24, which after overcoming water trouble, came to make 35 barrels an hour, initial flow, from the top pay at 2354 feet.

South Area Widened

Phillips Petroleum company extended the south river area in its No. 1 Tinney, which swabbed 1000 barrels the first 13 hours. It is located in section 71, block 46, Hutchinson county, directly west of the gushers opened by the Gulf and Prairie some time ago in sections 70 and 80.

In the new area in Carson county the Roxana has five wells cemented, which will soon be drilling through. Southwest's new well brings with it eight offsets for that territory, which is already beginning to be covered with derricks.

No little interests is being exhibited in the Gibson Oil corporation's No. 1 Hoover, near Canadian in Hemphill county. This test is drilling at 4230 feet with the expectation of carrying it to 4500 feet. Drill cuttings show it is running 140 feet high, correlating with the main Amarillo fold. The company is anxious to complete it as a large gas well. It is now making five barrels of salt water an hour with a heavy flow of gas. This is in rank, wildcat territory.

New Wildcats

Among the new wildcats is that of the Prairie Oil and Gas company in Oldham county. It is the No. 1 Landergin now spudded in at 200 feet, 16 miles north of the town of Vega. It is located near the center of the Oklahoma geological survey, the report indicating a surface dome with 120 feet of closure.

Mid-cintipent, which has just brought in its first well in the field, reports it making 160 barrels at the latter part of the week, a drop of some 200 barrels from the initial flow of three weeks ago. The well, the No. 1 Company, has just been completed in sections 12, block 17.

Among the refineries it is reported from Houston that the Humble has abandoned the construction of its plant of 10,000 barrels here, but several new plants from independents are understood to be on the verge of announcement.

Laying Pipelines

Work on the four trunk pipelines is going merrily on. The Humble is busy in Donley and Castro counties laying its pipe, and the Prairie expects to have its line north completed by spring. The Gulf and Magnolia are building from both ends to the Gulf coast, the two working in conjunction, to be ready to handle oil by the latter part of March. It is thought that the transportation facilities provided by these lines is the reason the Humble abandoned its refinery project.

Southeastern New Mexico is being given another wildcat test in the Gibson Oil corporation's No. 1 on the famous Benita structure of Quay county. The well is situated in 17-8n, 32e, and has just been spudded. Most major operators are checker-boarding around it.

ONE PRODUCER IN WEST TEXAS

But San Angelo Area Gets Plenty Excitement

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 22.—While Gulf Production company's No. 5 McElroy in Crane county was the only producer brought in this week, on the heels of extensions of two pools in Upton county and two new wells in Brown county, widely separated showings of both oil and gas attracted interest this week. Locations numbered 13, Howard county leading with six—all by Marland. Crane county gained four, two by Magnolia and two by Gulf; the Amerada made a location in Upton county, the Lipan Oil company one in Coke county and Kirby one in Pecos. All Texas fields and most of the oil centers in the country were represented at the second annual West Texas Petroleum convention at San Angelo Thursday and Friday.

Gulf's No. 5 McElroy, slightly windening production to the east, initially made 120 barrels hourly from 2465 feet, 22 feet in the pay, and, incompleted. Roxana's No. 3 Hughes, in the northwest corner of section 4, William Teer survey, Upton county, which came in January 14 at 2105 feet at the rate of 4805 barrels daily, had settled to around 3500 barrels at the last report. Roxana's No. 6 Bowen, in the southeast corner of section 6, G. C. & S. F. Railway company survey in Upton, coming in at 143 barrels daily from 2040 feet, increased to 700 barrels daily when deepened 11 feet. These two producers extended the Burleson area about a mile southeast. Drilled to 2130 feet, after topping the pay at 2090, Amerada's No. 3 Hughes, on a lease adjoining Roxana's No. 9 Bowen, appeared good for 200 barrels daily. First reports that it was making 50 barrels an hour were erroneous.

T. & P. Complete One

After pumping 90 barrels of oil in 12 hours, T. & P. Coal and Oil company's No. 1-B Lane, in the northeast quarter of section 1, G. C. & S. F. Railway company survey, in Upton county, was being completed and appeared good for 150 barrels daily. It was over 2200 feet deep. The well extends a half-mile south of the Wentz pool, which is three and a half miles east of the main production. Several other Upton tests were nearing completion. Marland's No. 3-D Hughes, at 2371 feet in lime, was standing 1500 feet in oil and swabbing. Marland's No. 4 Shirley was shut down for orders at 2180 feet with 1300 feet of oil in the hole. Marland's No. 1-B Burleson cleaned out after a shot at 2138 feet, was running tubing. Early in the week it made 12 barrels of oil and six barrels of water in 24 hours and it was estimated good for around 50 barrels daily. Marland's No. 1 Gibbs made six bailers of water an hour before 3126 feet. Marland's No. 1-A Baker had a rainbow of oil in lime at 2195 feet.

Stidham-Thrasher Test

Stidham-Thrasher No. 1 University, in the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 45, block 30, in Crane county drilled to 2965 after having oil showings at 2946 and 2821 feet. The test is a half-mile south of Magnolia's No. 1 University (originally Church-Fields); Prairie-Collett's No. 1-B University, in section 36, block 31, also south of the Magnolia, ran six-inch casing to shut off sulphur water encountered at 3235 feet to test a gas showing at 3272, the bottom. There was 2090 feet of salt water in Zoch and others' No. 1 Sealy in Winkler county when it resumed drilling last Saturday at 3287 feet, increasing to 3700 feet when a depth of 3365 had been reached.

Cosden's No. 1-A Connell, in section 12, block 16, in Ector county, was being placed on the pump with 2000 feet of oil in the hole, after completing a fishing job at 2800 feet. There were two other shows, at 2465 and 2607 feet, the test later being plugged back.

The Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental's No. 1 Ira Yates, Pecos county discovery well, pinched in for storage, flowed 55 barrels in 52 minutes when opened early in the week. The survey for the pipeline from McCamey to the well has been finished and the contract for stringing the pipe has been awarded. Quinby No. 2 Bennett, in section 592, Pecos county, flowed 20 barrels Tuesday from 1230 feet, 10 feet in the pay, according to reports here. Other tests on the section have showed oil but not in paying quantities. The oil, however, is of high gravity. Quinby had two 250-barrel tanks on the lease and it was understood the well was to go on the pump.

Kimberlin-Pickrell's No. 1 Yates, in the center of section 55, block L. H. & T. C. Railway company survey, Pecos county, was drilling at 400 feet. Kimberlin-Cromwell's No. 1 Blackman in section 24, block 2, resumed drilling at 263 feet, after clearing up title. Kirby Petroleum company's location in Pecos is 330 feet from the east corner of the west quarter of section 30, block 7, H. & T. C. Railway company survey.

Concho County

Concho county drew attention early in the week by showings in two wildcats. Arkansas Fuel Oil company's No. 1 Hartgrove made between three-quarters of a million and one million feet of dry gas from 1113 feet, in a hard dry sand, said to correspond to that in the Archer county field. The Associated Petroleum company's No. 1 Waring, four and a half miles south of Eden, encountered a light showing of oil and gas at 1596 feet. Mabry & Taylor's test in Concho county was down 600 feet.

A contract by a Mr. Johnson of Tulsa to drill on a block in southern Runnels county was reported from Ballinger. A test also is to be made on a block west of Talpa obtained by the Pure Oil company, which recently bought the old Russell well 18 miles east of Ballinger, the report added. C. E. Sellix of Ballinger is erecting a derrick on the Charley Ferguson place five miles northeast of Miles, having leased 3,000 acres.

Millions Offered For Oil Field Highway

Underwood and Underwood

This highway, bisecting the Spindle Top oil field in Jefferson county, Texas, undoubtedly lies over oil sand worth millions. Efforts of magnates to buy and drill it are being blocked by state attorney general, who holds county hasn't power to sell it.

SOUTH JONES TO BE TESTED

Noodle Creek Area Now Has Five Producers

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Jan. 22. — A thorough testing of practically every part of southern Jones county is now assured. Since the opening of the Noodle creek area, in the southwest corner of that county in September of 1926, interest in this particular section has increased greatly and every development tends to bring on more activity.

Five wells are now producing oil in the Noodle creek area. Only one hole on that entire area has failed to hit the pay streak, and the dry well is being deepened, with the expectation that a producing sand will possibly be picked up at a lower depth, than that from which the oil in that pool is now coming. The Noodle creek pay is found around 2529 feet, and from that depth a 40-gravity oil is being produced, at the rate of about 2000 barrels per week from the five wells.

Nears Pay Level.

The Mariand Oil company's No. 2 Mason is nearing the pay level and operators are expecting this test to prove a profitable well. All indications during the drilling process have tallied with the other wells which have hit the pay dirt.

Considerable interest is centered in the southeastern part of Jones county now. The Nugent sector is staging out as a likely site for another producing area. Nugent is some 15 miles north and east of Abilene, and is near the east line of Jones county and a short distance from a group of small producers in western Shackleford county.

The T. K. Simmons and others' No. 1 Burnet C. Harvey, section 13, block 14, T. & P. land is producing 25 barrels of oil a day from a depth of 1713-1726.

The Humble-och-Richardson No. 1 King, survey 214, E. T. R. R. survey, the discovery well in that section, is reported to be producing from a depth of 1837. This well is about 10 miles north of the Harvey producer.

Wichita Operators.

Last week Cowboy Evans and Muse & Robertson, drilling at 1616 feet on the J. E. Manley farm on section 55, block 14, T. & P. survey, in the southwestern corner of Jones county, and 12 miles north of this city, struck a sand, from which large quantities of wet gas have been coming since. The tools have been jammed in the hole by the gas pressure and a casing crew is now on the job, getting the mix-up straightened out. The Simmons and others' Harvey well is four miles north of this gasser. Further developments in this well will be watched closely by the oil gentry.

The Gillette and Hickey and others test, on the King plantation, in the Manuel Bueno survey No. 197, is reported to be 2070 feet deep, with several hundred feet of oil in the hole. "Drilling has been suspended for several days on account of minor troubles, but work will be resumed shortly and all present indications point to this well as a potential producer, experienced scouts, familiar with the test declare. This well is 16 miles northwest of Abilene and is about 13 miles north by west from the Evans and others' Manley well.

Clark-Harbin & Baldridge and others' No. 1 John Wheeler, Great George survey, four miles northwest of Noodle creek, in southeast Fisher county, is drilling around 2500 feet. Eight-inch casing was set at 2405. The log of this well is very similar in many respects to the Noodle producers. If this well shoul dprove a producer a vast territory would be opened for development in that section.

PANHANDLE IN CRUDE SLUMP

Old Producer Deepened And Starts at 100 Barrels

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Jan. 22. — Bad weather and delays in completing wells on top of the sand, caused the Panhandle to decline around 7014 barrels the week just ended. The field did 123,410 barrels, against 140,422 last week. Sixteen wells were completed for 4250 barrels initial.

Carson county has three wells, but its 67 wells are making 6402 barrels, a gain of 1401 barrels; Gray county gained 289 barrels to do 10,085 barrels from 97 wells; Hutchinson county has 697 wells, a gain of 12 wells and a loss of 8866 barrels, and Wheeler gained one new well and 103 barrels in output.

The Apex Oil company No. 1 Smith in section 21, block 6, Morris and Cummins survey, and south of the Dixon creek pool in Hutchinson county, was completed in June, 1926, for 200 barrels at 2580 to 2952 feet. Elevation above sea level here is 2987 feet, and when the well fell off the hole was deepended to a deeper sand from 2965 to 3040 feet and shot with 280 quarts it made a flow, bridged and is making 100 barrels through casings.

The Pleasant Way to Reduce

Her Hair Fairly SPARKLES Now!

The woman who knows what to do after waving her hair doesn't fear the effect of hot irons. Nor of frequent washings. A few drops of Danderine—on comb or towel—and the hair is soft and lustrous, and behaves beautifully.

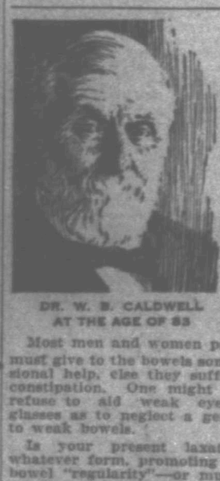

A bit of Danderine rubbed lightly into the scalp, is the one sure way to dissolve every particle of dandruff. But a few drops more make a dressing that is simply marvelous. A sheen that rivals brilliantine, and no grease!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for a period of ten days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Wichita County, a copy of the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the Estate of John Thomas Carter, Deceased: Know Ye That Mabel Carter has filed in the County Court of Wichita County, an application for the Probate of the last Will and Testament of said John Thomas Carter, Deceased, filed with said application, and for Letters Testamentary which will be heard at the next term of said Court, commencing on the first Monday in February, A. D. 1927, the same being the 7th day of February, A. D. 1927, at the Court House thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest said application, should they desire to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term thereof this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 22nd day of January, A. D. 1927.

(Seal) ELIZABETH HALL, Clerk,
County Court, Wichita County, Texas.
By M. F. Yeager, Deputy.

LAST CALL

Final Week Before License Time

trade your car for a late model standard make, light, closed car, in good-as-new condition. Others are doing it—

WHY NOT YOU?

Hundreds of people have inspected the high grade used car displayed at our salesroom—proving our statement that there were not enough high-grade used cars in Wichita Falls to supply the demand. Many have been disappointed because the car they wanted had just been sold. $5000 worth of used cars were sold by us in one day, Thursday, Jan. 20, constituting a record volume. However, there are a few choice bargains left, and we have added nine cars recently taken in trade at actual cost to us. 1927 licenses are paid. Your car taken in trade.

FIRM TONE IN WHEAT TRADE

Grain Market Steady In Saturday Session

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Wheat developed a firm tone today and while the range was narrow because of the light trade last prices were near the top. Firming of Gulf premiums, steadiness in foreign markets, healthier feeling in Winnipeg and conspicuous stability in rye all served to put the leading grain up. Local shorts had difficulty in covering late as commission house absorption took the slack out of the pit on the initial dip. News on rye from Germany and Poland was sensationally bullish.

May wheat opened at $1.39⅝@¾, firmed to $1.40⅛ and closed at $1.39⅝@1.40. July opened at $1.30⅜, sagged to $1.30⅛, rallied to $1.31 and closed at $1.30⅞. Some of the active locals bought wheat here, while there was also buying credited to the northwest. Winnipeg finished much stronger than the Chicago market.

Export wheat sales were probably no more than 300,000 bushels. Liverpool finished ⅛ to ¼c higher, corn up ⅛ to ¼c, oats up ⅛ to ⅛c and rye ⅝ to 1¼c advanced.

Corn averaged a little lower early but gradually steadied and finished with fractional gain. There has been a lack of pressure in the corn pit because of the small primary movement. The locals have been bearish most of the time owing to the small outside trade but selling short, especially on the depressions, has proven unsuccessful.

Primary receipts yesterday aggregated 785,000 bushels compared with 966,000 bushels last week and 914,000 bushels a year ago.

Oats moved up with other grains. Trade was small with commission houses operating on both sides of the market. The movement of this grain from the interior continues materially below last year.

Pit brokers in rye commented on the class of buying today as very excellent.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.(AP)—An increasing trade demand in the cotton market was again encountered as the price of May contracts approached the 13½-cent level and early losses were recovered. May rallied from 13.51 to 13.68 and closed at 13.64, the general market closing very steady at net advances of 2 to 6 points.

The opening was at a decline of 4 to 7 points. Active months soon showed net losses of 9 to 10 points under liquidation, southern and local selling the latter promoted by the easier ruling of Liverpool and talk of large ginning figures. Offerings were absorbed by covering and the increased trade demand noted at the decline.

Early sellers evidently were disappointed by the failure of the bearish features to bring in more aggressive selling and found contracts comparatively scarce when they started to cover in the forenoon. March advanced from 13.30 to 13.47, while July sold up from 13.71 to 13.87, or about 6 to 8 points net higher. The close was within 3 or 4 points of the best.

Private advices from the southwest said ginnings between December 13 and January 16 might reach 1¼ or possibly 1½ million bales and judging from comment in the trade here forecasts of the showing of next Monday's census report were being increased, some traders talking a probable total of around 16,700,000 bales.

Private cables said Liverpool had declined under hedge selling, London and Manchester liquidation, but there seemed a question in the minds of local traders whether this represented anything more than natural reactions from strength and activity reported earlier in the week.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 128,651 bales against 145,869 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.(AP)—The cotton market was fairly active for today's session and prices fluctuated freely within a moderate range. Trading was largely of an evening-up character in advance of the census report on ginnings to January 15 to be issued at the opening Monday. With Liverpool lower than due the market here opened nine to ten points down and continued to ease off in the early trading on liquidation until the price level was 11 to 12 points below the previous close. The market then rallied on shorts covering and in the late trading prices showed gains over the lows of 15 to 16 points. The close was a little off from the best showing two points net up to three points down.

First trades here showed losses of nine to ten points on the lower cables. The market continued to ease off in the early trading until March dropped to 13.28, May to 13.46 and July to 13.62.

The market became steadier in the second hour mainly on covering by shorts in advance of Monday's ginning report and at the highest reached March traded at 13.43, May at 13.63 and July at 13.78.

Prices reacted some in the final trading and the close showed little change for the day.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.(AP) — Wheat proved responsive today to talk about possible market effect of disturbances in China should Russia become more involved. Likelihood that the United States wheat visible supply will show a material decrease on Monday—counted also as a strengthening influence. Closing quotations for wheat were firm ⅛ to ¼@⅜c net higher, with corn unchanged to ⅛c up, oats at ⅛ to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 7c decline to 12@15c gain.

Corn and oats reflected unfavorable weather conditions for the movement of corn; interest was likewise shown in news that the senate agricultural committee as well as the house committee has endorsed the McNary-Haugen bill.

Selling of lard by cash houses weakened that commodity but meats tended to advance.

Total stock sales 1,026,200 shares.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.(AP)—The stock market displayed another sharp reversal of form today, heading upward under the leadership of the low priced merger rails in the first hour and then turning reactionary when selling pressure was renewed agains tthe motors and other leading industrials in the last few minutes of trading. This reversed the movement of yesterday whe na heavy opening was followed by a strong close. Trading was fairly heavy for a half holiday session total sales running above one million shares.

Wheeling and Lake Erie issues resumed their sensational advance, the common touching a new high at 50⅝ and then easing to 48½, up 6⅝ net and the preferred touching a new top at 63, up 6½ points net. Pittsburgh and West Virginia which is mentioned as a likely purchaser of Wheeling and Lake Erie shares jumped seven points to 130, closing a point below the top. Western Maryland common crossed 26 to a new peak and then slipped back to 24⅝ and the second preferred fell from a high of 32⅞ to 31⅛, up ⅛ net. Waall Street was filled with rumors about stocks of these three roads but all lacked confirmation from responsible sources.

Widespread speculative activity also took place in other low priced railroad issues. Erie common touched 42½, the highest price in ten years and the highest prices in a year o rmore were recorded by Wabash preferred "B," Denver ad Rio Grande preferred and "Big Four." On the other hand several of the high grade investment issues were heavy, net declines of a point or more being recorded by Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio and Lackawanna. Atlantic Coast Line dropped three poins.

A sudden outburst of selling in General Motors carried that stock down nearly two points to 148. Savage Arms dropped 2⅝ to a new low at 64. Heaviness also developed in such recent strong spots as American Smelting Collins and Aikman, Pierce Arrow preferred, Pullman, F. H. Shattuck and Woolworth. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped four points. Pressed Steel car and Producers and Refiners touched their highest prices in a year or longer.

Foreign exchanges held steady demand sterling ruling just under $4.85 and French francs around 3.97 cents. Strength of Peruvian exchange was in anticipation of some Peruvian financing here during the next few weeks.

RAILS BULL QUIET MARKET

Wheeling, Lake Erie and West Maryland in Lead

BY BROADAN WALL.
Universal Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland were the outstanding bull features of a generally reactionary stock market, today. Together with New Haven and a few other lower priced rails they were the only stocks to show consistent strength during the half session while continued quiet liquidation was evidenced in the recent industrial favorites such as General Motors, Montgomery Ward and Steel common. The pall of uncertainty that haas hung over the financial district since the first of the year continued to keep many traders out of the market entirely while the rather ambiguous trade reports influenced some further profit taking. Foreign exchange was quiet but steady. Cotton options ruled firm in a dull session while traders waited for the ginning report due Monday and a dull grain market recorded no price changes of importance.

Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland give more evidence each day of being "technically cornered." In other words the floating supply of the stock haas been so reduced by the quiet accumulation of the past weeks as to remove all semblance of a free and oen market so that the extent o fthe rise is limited only by the desires of those who hold control. New Haven continued its quiet advance influenced by belief that the forthcoming reort of earnings for December will show even greater rate of improvement that heretofore exected. Pittsburgh and West Virginia climber on comaratively few transactions due to merger influence. The balance of the railroad grou was nervous however and fractional declines in several of the standard issues caused slight recession in the average rice of the group.

The quiet but steady offerings of General Motors, Montgomery Ward and other recent favorites in the industrial group came through brokers who usually act for that magnate who was most active on the bull side of the market up until a month or so ago. The selling was declared to be profit taking in preparation for quiet lengthy withdrawal from the stock market. As the trade reports gave no real hope for increase in industrial activity for the near future the offerings were augmented by professional selling on the theory that corrective reaction was likely before the market would start the usual spring rise.

Oil shares remained firm as continued quiet accumulation took plac e in the shares of leading independent producing and refining companies. An official of one of the largest companies voiced opinion that the outlook for the industry was never brighter than at the present. Despite continued big production of crude the stocks of oil and gasoline are gradually being reduced and as a result, the forecast, advance in prices of crude oil and refined products was to be expected early in the spring.

CEST DRIVE OPENS MONDAY

Team Captains and Districts Selected

Team captains and workers will launch forth on the second drive for the community chest fund for 1927 Monday morning, January 24. Final plans were made Saturday at noon at the Kemp for the beginning of the campaign which is expected to end in success. Reports of the workers will be given to the chamber of commerce as soon as the teams have completed their work, and the final report will be given Friday at noon at the business council luncheon at the Kemp, it was said.

In the recent effort to raise the $65,000 budget for the community chest for 1927, there was a deficit of approximately $12,000.

Reorganization of teams to canvass that portion of the city which was not asked to participate in the first community chest campaign was made yesterday. Raymond Myers, chairman of the executive committee of the Municipal Welfare Board, was in charge of the meeting, and enthusiasm was shown by the men who volunteered to assist in raising the remainder of the funds necessary to put the 1927 budget over the top.

The city was redistricted into 18 sections and a captain and one worker were assigned to visit persons in this territory. Captains, workers and divisions of the city where they will work are listed as follows:

No. 1—Ohio avenue, river to 11th street, J. C. Hunt. Mile Connelly; No. 2—Indiana avenue, river to 10th street, C. H. Featherstone, Richard Thompson; No. 3—Scott avenue, J. E. H. Bailey, J. L. Story; No. 4—Lamar, Travis and Austin streets, K. C. Spell, W. F. Kingsworth; No. 5—Seventh street, J. M. Williams, C. L. Hunt; No. 6 — Eighth street, L. B. Huffhines, O. R. Hartt; No. 7 — Ninth street railroad to Burnett street, Howard Renfro, Paul Colvert; No. 8—Tenth and Eleventh streets, J. F. Pelham, S. B. Featherstone; No. 9—Perkins-Snider Bldg., Dr. F. R. Collard, Dr. R. H. Graham; No. 10—First National Bank building, R. D. Sartin, Chas. Murray; No. 11—Staley building, first to sixth floors, Jean Montgomery, E. L. Dudow; No. 12—Staley building seventh to twelfth floors, W. Haley, W. C. Krause; No. 13—City National Bank building, first to sixth floors, C. N. Sherrill, Joseph Huckins, 3rd; No. 14—City National Bank building, seventh to twelfth floors, R. G. Epley, J. F. Tarry; No. 15—Harvey-Snider building, Frank Quelsser, Jno. Barnard; No. 16—Wagoner building, J. L. Jackson Jr., C. L. Murph; No. 17—South of Wichita river, Fred Ehbert, H. D. Wolff; No. 18 — Wholesale district, J. H. Allison, A. B. Rose.

Boy Scout News

JAMBOREE

The quarterly Jamboree will be held next Friday, January 28, at the First Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock. This will be one of the biggest demonstrations of Scouting ever held in this city. Parents and friends are urged to attend to see what the Boy Scouts are doing for the boyhood of Wichita Falls.

The following five events, or contests, will be put on: Significance of the scout badge, fire by friction, first aid, knot tying, and Kelly Says. For each of these events there will be awarded an attractive felt pennant to the winning troop, the pennant to be kept by that troop until it is taken away from them by another troop at a later jamboree. To the troop scoring highest in all events a plaque will be awarded. One feature for which there will be no prize will by a blackberry pie eating contest.

The new officers in scouting of Wichita Falls will be introduced.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK

February 7 to 13 will be the seventeenth anniversary week of Boy Scouts of America. Many plans are being made for special good turns, special programs, etc. Sunday, Feb. 13, will be Scout Sunday in the churches of the city and the pastors will preach special sermons on scout subjects.

LIONS CLUB DRILL

Chief Creighton has announced that three more boys can be used in the drill for the Lions club show. Any boys desiring to participate must attend rehearsal Monday, Jan. 24, at the First Christian church.

TROOP FIFTEEN

Troop fifteen, Highland Heights Christian church, had their monthly parent's night Friday. The meeting was called to order with roll call at 7:20 o'clock. The following program was given:

Scout oath, assembly.

Investiture ceremony, Apaches.

Potato race, Apaches and Mohicans.

Significance of the scout badge. History of the American flag. Skin the snake, troop.

Cornet solos, Charles Veros and Charles Crocker.

Games: Grab the hat, monkey race, frog race, scoot the penny, leg wrestle, jump the bag.

The meeting closed with the pledge of allegiance and taps. There were not as many parents as the boys hoped for on account of bad weather, but those who did attend, thoroughly enjoyed the program.

TROOP THREE

Troop three, Lee Toeffler, scoutmaster, had a very interesting meeting Friday at the First Methodist church. The meeting started promptly at 7:30 and ended promptly at 9 o'clock. Much enthusiasm was shown over an advancement hike, planned for one week from next Friday.

A new game, "My Father Went to Paris," was learned and two new songs, "Maggie Riley," and "Sucking Cider Through a Straw," were practiced. Troop three has earned the name, The Singing Troop."

The contestants selected for the Jamboree to be held next week practiced their skill and the boys in troop three have informed local headquarters that their troop fully expect to win the plaque, as well as all five pennants at the jamboree.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Taps."

TROOP TWO

Troop two, Bill McClure, scoutmaster, met Friday evening at 7:30 at the First Methodist church. The meeting opened with a formal ceremony, after which Bill McClure read the announcements.

A period was set aside for practicing fire-building and for instruction in the different contests to be held in the jamboree next Friday night.

A report was given of the hike the boys had last Sunday afternoon to the river. Several tests were passed, games were played, and fires were built. The hike was closed with a game, "Capture the Flag."

The meeting closed with the formal closing ceremony.

EXECUTIVE'S TRIP TO OLNEY

Chief Creighton, accompanied by Kenton Wharton of troop 12, and J. B. Boyle, scoutmaster of troop five and deputy commissioner, went to Olney Thursday afternoon to conduct a scout leadership school.

There were five men in the school, four of whom are to start troops in each of the four churches of Olney. Rev. J. C. Grimes of Loving, Texas, attended the school, also.

The school lasted Thursday night and all day Friday and some very good results are expected from the session. Chief Creighton has promised Rev. Grimes of Loving that he will put on a similar school in Loving before long.

Troop 12 of the Grace Methodist church held its regular meeting Friday night with a contest program. The scouting events of knot tying, fire by friction and others including a hilarious pie-eating contest were enjoyed by all. The winof the events were announced troop champions and will hold that title until another scout breaks his record.

Four new boys put in their applications for membership in the troop. It is hoped that by the time for registration, Feb. 28, 1927, that this troop will be filled.

Kenton Wharton of troop 12, went to Olney, Texas, with F. B. Creighton, scout executive, to assist the latter in putting over a scoutmaster's school there.

In assuming the names of the Indian tribes for the patrols of the troop, as announced last week, it has been further planned to have a large wigwam for the accommodation of each patrol. These will be used by the troop on troop hikes. A contest has been planned for inter-patrol competition. Much of the Indian handiwork will be turned in for points in the contest. Wigwams, long-bows, arrows and war bonnets will be features in the handiwork this time.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

Fairview to Celebrate Opening of Auditorium

Celebrating the opening of the new auditorium of the Fairview school, a box supper and program will be given Monday evening beginning at 7 o'clock. Practically every community in Wichita county will be represented and numbers will be given by members of the Burkburnett Rotary and Lions' clubs. An old fiddler's contest will be a feature of the entertainment and the most popular girl present will receive a 14 karat white gold ring, if is announced.

The public is invited to attend.

Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious or Constipated

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, sold by "California Fig Syrup Company."

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless - No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

A Mother's Experience

"MY young daughter had not been well for over a year when I began giving her Cardui, but very soon after she began taking it, her health improved," says Mrs. Thomas L. Nash, 3 West Jefferson Ave., Vincennes, Ind., whose picture is printed above.

"She had looked badly. Her skin was pale and often sallow. She was very nervous and appeared to have little strength. She was tall for her age and over-weight. She was 14 when I began giving her Cardui, and I had her take the medicine for several months. Her improvement was so noticeable that many of our friends remarked about it. She grew strong and well, and her complexion grew healthy. Her rosy cheeks and cheerfulness were testimony of what Cardui can do for young girls. All the excessive nervousness left her, and she is a normal, healthy girl now.

"I am glad to tell other mothers of my experience with Cardui, as I know many are anxious about the health of their young girls."

Try Cardui, today.

Colorado Guest Is Complimented At Pretty Luncheon

Complimenting her cousin and house guest, Mrs. Marian B. Wallace of Buena Vista, Colo., Mrs. D. G. Whitney was hostess to members of the New Century club at a pretty luncheon at her home Friday at 1 o'clock. Cut flowers were used profusely in the reception suite, and the table was centered with a bouquet of carnations and ferns. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out, and plates were marked with dainty place cards.

Following the menu, the club members had their regular weekly lesson, with Mrs. W. D. Cline leader. The department of the treasury was studied and Mrs. W. P. Boolding discussed "Making Money." Mrs. T. B. Duncan talked on "Public Health" and Mrs. W. W. Gardner talked on "The Secret Service."

In the business session officers for the new year announced were: Mrs. Martin Rowe, president; Mrs. Luke McCrory, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Gutzler, secretary; Mrs. W. D. Cline, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. P. Duncan, treasurer; Mrs. R. P. West, historian; Mrs. C. B. Felder, federation director, and Mesdames J. C. A. Guest, D. G. Whitney and C. W. Gilliland, program committee.

Covers were laid for Mesdames Wallace, C. J. Barnard, W. P. Bolding, W. D. Cline, T. P. Duncan, C. B. Felder, Raymond Gutzler, W. W. Gardner, Ed. Gardner, W. J. Grisham, C. R. Hartsook, M. D. Rowe, R. E. Shepherd, C. W. Snider and Mack Thomas.

Zundelowitz Orchestra Gives Musical Program

Honoring pupils of the high eighth grade of the Junior high school who were promoted to the high school, the Zundelowitz orchestra under the direction of the instructor, Mrs. Hermione Stuart Vaughan, gave a splendid program Friday morning in the auditorium of the building.

The first number was a demonstration of orchestra instruments followed by an orchestra number, "Amerikanization," a melody of American songs with Lois Baber at the piano. The personnel of the orchestra including Katherine Brooks, drum; Durwood Curlee, trombone; Edward Wright, cornet; Robert White, Harry Lewis and Melvin Giles, saxophones; Vernon Black, clarinet; Joseph Pitman, xylophone; Lois Earle Shaw, assistant pianist and Thurman Conrey, P. M. Hester Jr., Homer Donohoe, Mildred Murrell, Robert Dillard, Gertrude Birkman, Johnny Green Hawkins, William Donnell, Celeste Barrett, John Loggie, Merrell Strong, Jimmy Wright and June Houston, violins. Other numbers included:

Vocal duet, "Desert Lullaby," by Helen Willgus and Margaret Knight.

Piano solo, "The Butterfly," (Grieg) Lois Baber.

Vocal trio, "Sweet Miss Mary," (Neidlinger) Edna Gay Phillips, Hulda Maude Cole and Stella Evans, accompanied by Mrs. Vaughan.

Musical reading, "On the Road to Mandalay," (Kipling) Lillian McAbee, accompanied by Mrs. Vaughan.

Song, "Hard-a-Lee (Sailor song) pupils of eighth grade music class composed of Crystal Hansard, Grace Jackson, Duffy Carr, Susie Miller, Edna Gay Phillips, Celeste Barrett, Robert White, Clarence Bain, Eleanor Schaefer, Evelyn Miller, Margaret Knight, Bertha Delaney, Una Gose and Virginia Lee Evans and Frances Wise, accompanist.

Principal Class Talks To Zundelowitz P.-T.-A.

"Co-operation is the first and greatest asset of an organization or community and we have that in this new P. T. A., declared H. A. Glass, principal of the Zundelowitz Junior high school in an address to the P. T. A. meeting Friday afternoon.

Speaking on the needs of the school, Mr. Glass pointed out that among the furnishings needed most was stage curtains and equipment, splendid pictures to decorate the walls, and an addition to the present library space. Miss Ina Pendergrass, art supervisor, told of the needs of an art committee and stressed the importance of artistic training at an early age in child life. She also explained a beautiful display of prints of original paintings by famous American artists and others.

Mrs. John Kinsey talked on the evolution of the rest room, and a selection was given by the Junior high school orchestra directed by Mrs. Hermione Stuart Vaughan. A mixed chorus from students of the seventh and eighth grades gave a song. Devotionals were led by Mrs. F. A. Bash, president of the Reagin P. T. A.

During the business session Mrs. T. M. Conrey, chairman of constitution and by-laws committee, read the rules for the club which were adopted and it was voted to name the organization the Z. P. T. A. Mrs. B. M. Hester, finance chairman talked on raising funds by the budget system, and Mrs. E. P. Bass, membership chairman, reported on the splendid work being done by the room sponsors.

Miss Johnnie Morgan's room received the picture for having the largest attendance of mothers present, and Mr. Golding's room received honorable mention.

Mesdames Sam Kruger and F. E. Brandeberry presented the school two lovely palms to be used as stage decorations.

There were 109 members present.

The house will be decorated throughout with fragrant cut flowers, with pink and green predominating in the color motif. A handsome Madiera cloth will cover the dining table while pink carnations in a silver holder will form the center piece. Pink and green mints in pretty compotes will be arranged over the table, which will also have pink candles at either end. Ice cream and individual cakes will be served.

Out of town guests will be Mrs. Frank Levine and Mrs. Ike Israel of Dallas and Mrs. Harry Karlsberg of Bowie.

Cards have been issued to more than 100 guests.

Woman's Forum To Present Miss Bewley

An attraction of the Woman's Forum announced for Tuesday afternoon, February at the Country club will be the presentation of Miss Irene Bewley, reader, who will give what is called America's greatest play, "Shut-Up," written by Lula Dollner. Miss Bewley, it will be remembered, appeared here under the sponsorship of the Forum last year and gave "Apple Sauce," considered by the women who attended, the most entertaining program of the entire season. Her second visit here will be looked forward to with enthusiasm by the Forum members and their guests.

Guests' tickets will be sold for 75 cents each or parties of four for $2.50.

Choral Club to Give Elaborate Program

Probably the most pretentious program yet attempted by members of the Woman's Choral club will be the "Musical Festival," to be given Monday evening, February 14, under the direction of the leader of the club, Mrs. Luella B. Thompson and Mrs. E. L. Fulton.

At this time members of Junior Choral club will make their first appearance and the concert promises to be entirely different from the ones given before by the organization. Songs familiar to all will be sung and costumes will be worn with appropriate stage settings.

The most talented artists in the city will take part. An active committee consisting of Mrs. J. S. Pitman, Mrs. W. F. Pagan and Mrs. Jouette Bonner will assist in the arrangements.

Large Party Planned By Women of Club

One of the largest parties of the season has been planned by members of the Woman's Golf association and Ladies Day organization of the Country club to be held there Thursday. Hostesses for the morning and luncheon include Mesdames John O'Donohue, J. A. Jemp, H. B. Patterson, C. C. Arnold, G. D. Hall, J. W. Culbertson, W. P. Bolding, Fred T. Couper, H. F. Weldon and Harold Ruebl.

For the bridge, "42" games and tea served on the mezzanine floor, hostesses will be Mesdames Roy I. Carter, D. H. Caspary, W. B. Chauncey, N. B. Chenault, Arthur Clark, C. H. Clark, E. B. Clark, Earl Clayton and W. D. Cline.

It is requested that the members will make reservations for themselves and guests with Mr. Coats, manager of the club, not later than Wednesday at noon.

Mrs. Hunt Hostess To Unity Club

Mrs. J. C. Hunt was hostess to the Unity club at her home Friday afternoon when Mrs. P. P. Langford was leader of the lesson on "China." Mrs. Carrie Joline discussed "Modern China" and Mesdames Hunt and Langford reviewed "In a Shantung Garden" by Milne.

During the social hour refreshments were served to Mesdames J. J. Daugherty, F. B. Gosline, Carrie Joline, P. P. Langford, O. E. Maer, H. B. Patterson, W. M. Priddy, W. L. Robertson and H. C. Young.

Crockett P.-T.-A. To Meet Tuesday

Members of the Crockett P.-T. A. will meet at the school Tuesday afternoon when the program will be opened with a piano solo by Mrs. O. G. Stephens. Mrs. J. A. Kemp will give the devotionals and a round table discussion will be held as follows: Mrs. J. T. Harrell will talk on the subject, "Unselfishness"; Mrs. D. J. Carithers, on the subject, "Self Control"; Mrs. C. G. Williams on "Thrift," and Mrs. G. L. Shapard on "Self Dependence." A number will be furnished by pupils of one of the rooms and the program will be concluded with a selection by the Junior High school orchestra.

Miss Fisher To Present Pupils

Miss Marguerite Fisher will present her pupils in an expression recital at the First Methodist church Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock when friends of the children and the public are invited to attend. The students will be assisted by two voice pupils of Mrs. Hermione Stuart Vaughan, Irene Goss and Lora Arbuckle, who will give solos.

Miss Fisher's pupils to be presented include Harry White, Mildred Fox, Joe Fletcher, Winnifred Hoffman, Jean Gullihorn, Charles Vaughan, Jack Gant, Thelma Mae Stehlik, Hermione Hearn Vaughan, Homer Donohoo, Lilee Neal, Martha Akin, Charles Edward Smith and Jack Hammond.

Mrs. Furniss Hostess To Deacons' Wives

Mrs. T. J. Furniss was hostess to the deacons' wives of the South Side Baptist church Thursday at luncheon at her home, 1518 Wilson.

Covers were laid for Mesdames J. W. Nicholson, W. M. Cone, W. H. Scarlett, W. C. Perkins, W. R. Harper, J. F. Dashiell, E. B. Parker, Mrs. Lucie Williams of Fort Worth and Miss Eula Mae Deshiell.

IN THE PICTURES

Mrs. R. W. H. McCulloch is an active member of the Ansil Lynn Epworth league of the First Methodist church, south, and is also assistant manager of the Alynworth players, a dramatic department of the league.

Miss Grace Haynie is secretary of the Ansil Lynn league and is also active in other departments of the First Methodist church work.

Mrs. Murrell Hooper was recently elected president of the Young Married People's Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, and has the honor of being the first woman ever elected to the high office.

Mrs. Emmett Quillin was, before her marriage last week, Miss Louise Bachman, one of Wichita Fall's popular business girls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bachman.

Heroes of the South
High School Banquet

Busy Times
Tea for Three
The Week's Affair

DEAR KITTY: With everything centering around schools, clubs and organizations this week we have been in one mad rush doing nothing in particular to boast about but at the same time being extremely busy. Probably the very largest affair was the party at the home of Mrs. P. P. Langford on Wednesday night when members of the W. R. Scurry chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy united with chapters of the same organization in other southern cities and paid tribute to two great southern leaders, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, in observation of their birthdays.

One hundred and fifty guests were present, including about a dozen Confederate veterans, the latter looking forward to the affair as one of the most important events of the year.

* * *

AND then the schools. With the final examinations over, the graduation of the mid-term class accomplished, almost every night of the week, found the seniors enjoying some sort of social meeting, dance or festival.

One of the most delightful of the affairs was the banquet given by the high school orchestra at the Wichita club when with James Giddings, toastmaster, the evening was spent in one continual round of pleasure. Following the menu, talks were made by Dean S. H. Rider, Supt. J. W. Cantwell and by R. S. Riggs, director of the orchestra. Wilma Brown, one of the city's most graceful child dancers, gave a solo number and Reva Rae Brown entertained with popular songs playing her own accompaniment on a ukelele. Marjorie Hines gave a reading and a saxophone duet was played by Lowell Riggs and Bill Rogers. Frances Phillips sang some popular songs accompanied at the piano by Lorene Tucker.

* * *

I AM sure you don't know just how important this orchestra is becoming but when I tell you that it will enter the state musical contest to be held at Belton in April, you will realize that it certainly has something unusual to offer. Sweaters and uniforms for the boys and girls have arrived and they do say that when they don them for special performances that they are indeed a "nifty" looking bunch.

* * *

BUT in talking about other things I almost forgot to mention who went to the banquet which I am sure you will want to know. Besides the ones I have already named, covers were laid for Loneta Smith, Nathaline Lebenson, Wirva Lee French, Francis Palmer, Gene Fisk, Lorene Tucker, Katheryn Steiner, Frances Phillips, Thelma Norvell, Melba Alderson, Isabel Marsh and Wilson Gray, Aaron Kruger, Ray Young, Vernon Bullard, Richard Warren, Ralph Anderson, Lewis Foster, John Harrell, Ira Lee Uttz, Max Friend, Bill Rogers, Bernice Johnson, Melvin McKinney, Fillmore Meredith and Mrs. S. H. Rider.

* * *

AND while we are talking about music reminds me of a charming Wichita Falls young woman who is making a mark for herself in your home town, New York City. This artist is Virginia Hotchkiss, lyric soprano and pupil of Lois Parker, who went east a few months ago and made almost an instantaneous hit on Broadway where she is appearing at the Hippodrome at present in a clever artistic Indian skit. Mention of Virginia in the Billboard, the New York World and other well known publications are most flattering, and her wonderful voice and pleasing personality are receiving hearty recognition among theater fans. The artist possesses an excellent lyric soprano voice and outstanding numbers in the skit in which she takes the part of the Princess Wantura, are two songs written especially for and dedicated to her. These compositions are sold in the lobby of the theater where she is appearing and bear her picture on the cover.

* * *

ANOTHER friend of mine whom I expect you have seen around the theaters of New York City lately, is Mrs. Frank Van Wormer who sent greetings and said, "We have been here for 10 days seeing the shows mostly. Fine snow storm this morning. Leave tomorrow for Dayton, Ohio.

These are busy times with everybody, and among the busiest right now is Mrs. C. W. Stevenson who is planning one of the most elaborate parties of the season to be given on the afternoon of February 5, when she will introduce at a tea three charming matrons, Mrs. Louis B. Holland who has recently come to Wichita Falls, Mrs. Wallace J. Masters and Mrs. George T. Singleton, all three wives of prominent physicians, and the latter a bride of a few weeks who is well known here as formerly Miss Lillian Fain.

* * *

THE largest affair of next week of which your friend, Peggy, has been told anything, will be the annual luncheon of members of the Federated Missionary society at the Kemp hotel Friday. This is always an important event and attended by a large number of women. Installation of officers and the attendant ceremony is a feature of the occasion.

There's really so much going on these days, Kitty, that my advice to you, is not to go to sleep ever; if you do you'll miss something. Better take an airplane and fly down this way if you want to be in the running for the next two months with—

Mrs. Martin Hostess To Coterie Club

With Mrs. J. H. Martin hostess, at the home of Mrs. C. R. Daniels, members of the Coterie club met Friday afternoon and continued the study of Shakespeare's "Macbeth." Roll call was responded to with quotations from the witches, and Mrs. J. L. Waggoner gave a sketch of the history of witchcraft.

Mrs. Arch Collins led the lesson and Mrs. J. H. Massie gave the setting of the play. The outline was given by Mrs. C. P. Burton.

During the social hour refreshments were served to Mesdames E. B. Bailey, A. R. Bleakley, C. P. Burton, Arch Collins, S. M. Goss, Hubert Harrison, A. G. Holmes, Lester Jones, J. H. Massie, Horace Robbins, C. D. Shamburger, John L. Waggoner and E. P. Bass.

Starlight Study Club With Miss Woodcock

With Miss Carrie Waldrip leader of the lesson, members of the Starlight Study club met at the home of Miss Laura Woodcock Thursday evening.

Taking part on the program were Mesdames Mary J. Ranburger, Katheryn I. Mulligan and Bessie Meyer.

At the close of the study lesson, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Wakiki Group Given Rooms at Church

Members of the Wakiki group of Camp Fire Girls of the First Presbyterian church were given two rooms for their meeting place which will also be used for entertainments, according to an announcement made by the guardian.

The group has met and made paper flowers to decorate the rooms and has been busy arranging the furnishings.

Wesley Girls Meet In Social Session Friday Afternoon

Meeting in a combined business and social session, members of the Wesley Girls class of the Floral Heights Methodist Sunday school were guests of Mrs. P. J. Lea Friday afternoon with Mrs. Fred Elkins and Mrs. S. E. Trevathan joint hostesses.

Red carnations and ferns were used efectively in the decorations, and readings were given by Miss Dorothy Nolen and Harriett Peterson.

Those present were Mesdames C. B. Buddrus, H. B. White, O. M. Pierce, J. A. James, O. W. Harvey, W. M. Ford, R. J. Claypool, Charles F. Green, C. M. Goodwin, Milton Gaines, B. H. Minter, C. G. Johnson, Ray Hanks, A. R. Watland and Miss Blanche Cline of Tulsa, Okla.

New Members Honored At Pretty Dinner

Especially complimenting a group of new members, Willard Willis, Mamie Youngblood, Oran Willingham and C. E. Radman, Mrs. Z. W. Harvey and Mrs. Fred Warren entertained members of the McClung B. Y. P. U. of the Floral Heights Baptist church with a prettily appointed dinner at their home on Van Buren Thursday evening.

The house was decorated thorughout with cut flowers and the table was centered with a huge boquet of pink carnations. Following the dinner games were played and a program given which was arranged by Willie Mae Gillispie, chairman of the program committee.

Covers were laid for Fay Gillispie, Mamie Youngblood, Velma Aulick, Thelma Streaky, Daisy Streaky, Wilma Winsor, Lucille Jones, Bonnie Bess Morgan, Alma Griffin, Bertha Dulaney, Ruby Fay Morris, Ruth Brown, Willa Mae Gillispie, Bernice Craddock, Lillian Jones, Aubrey Jane Warren, and Woody Featherston, Bill Box, Lloyd Donley, Harold Rankins, Joe Johnson, R. J. Brown, Jerry Donaldson, Willard Willis, Truman Jobe, Cecil Stokes, Bill Craddock, Zilman Davis, Oran Willingham, Charles Ernest Radman, Weldon Warren, Mrs. Rosa Stokes and the Rev. and Mrs. C. S. McClung.

Officers Announced For Epworth League

Officers for the Ansil Lynn Epworth league of the First Methodist church are announced as follows: C. C. Donaldson, president; Milton E. Price, vice-president; Miss Grace Haynie, secretary; Alfred H. Kass, treasurer; Miss Lucille Ballard, corresponding secretary; Jra E. Lynn, Era agent; E. F. Bohmfalk, song leader; Mrs. M. P. Albritton, pianist; Alene Covey, superintendent of first department; Valley Fern Lowery, superintendent of second department; Mrs. R. W. H. McCulloch, superintendent of third department; Miss Vera Cain, superintendent of fourth department; Miss Marguerite Fisher, director of the Alynworth Players.

Miss Grace Haynie as secretary, and Mrs. McCulloch as superintendent of the department of recreation and culture, is an active in the management of the Alynworth Players, the dramatic club of the league, and both are unusually active in the organization.

For many years this league has taken a leading part in the North Texas conference Epworth league and during this time has financed several young ministers in their study course. Local programs of the league include besides the evening programs at the church on Sunday, the conducting of religious services at the jail for a month of each year and on one Sunday each month, conducting a service at the county farm. An extensive program of social service work is also carried out, and during the year a program of seasonal parties and study classes are sponsored for the benefit of the young people.

Since the year of 1919, this league has made the largest pledge of any in the North Texas conference for missionary work, it is announced.

Novel of Realism Subject For Club

"The Novel of Realism" furnished an interesting subject for members of the Travel club which met at the home of Mrs. E. T. Duff Friday afternoon when roll call was responded to with "Some Realistic Novel I Have Read and What I Thought of the Book." Mrs. C. N. Alexander, leader of the program read a paper on "Realism, Its Meaning and Purpose," and Mrs. John Thomas read a paper on "Realism in Kentucky," using for her illustration, the book "Weeds." "Realism in Virginia and the South" was discussed by Mrs. John Martin who illustrated her talk with Glascow's "Barren Grounds."

Those present were: Mesdames T. M. Conrey, C. N. Alexander, C. H. Clark, Arch Dawson, W. W. Fraser, Ola Hamlin, J. B. Hatchitt, Leslie Humphrey, W. P. Killingsworth, John Martin, Guy Rogers, G. L. Shapard and John Thomas.

HUNDREDS OF WICHITA CHILDREN JOIN IN CANTATA OF HIAWATHA

School Pupils To Present Elaborate Tableau of Famous American Poem

Hundreds of children in the fifth and sixth grades in the elementary schools of Wichita Falls will present the cantata, "The Childhood of Hiawatha," at Junior college Monday night at 7:45 o'clock, when the music will be featured by unison choruses, two part choruses, and songs by girls, boys and the mixed voices. The cantata is taken from the poem, "Hiawatha," by Longfellow and adapted to music by Ira B. Wilson.

Months of Rehearsal.

Miss Erma Nala Voss, supervisor of music in the city schools is directing the program through the cooperation of music instructors in the various schools. This is expected to be one of the best productions given by children of the schools, and months of preparation have been spent by the boys and girls. The cantata was distributed to the music teachers in the schools and taught to the children until each part was learned and all parts memorized. Then the children were brought together for rehearsals and have the cantata learned perfectly, it was said.

Directors of Cantata.

Teachers who assisted in preparing the children for the concert are:

Alamo—Miss Ila B. Cook.
Austin—Miss Frances Smith.
Barwise—Miss Louise Pannill.
Bowie — Mrs. Gladys Wisdom Roberts.

Musicians Club To Have Luncheon

Active members of the Musician's club will enjoy a luncheon at Kemp-Kort Thursday at 12:45 o'clock, according to an announcement made by the president, Mrs. Harwood Stacy. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Ray Eyssen at 2934 or Mrs. C. N. Cameron, 4966 and should be in by Tuesday.

Readers Club Will Give Dramatic Evening

A dramatic evening will be enjoyed by members of the Readers' club at the home of Mrs. Robert Brown at her home in the Country Club Estates Thursday, according to the president, Mrs. Marguerite Fisher, talented reader, in the interpretation of a play.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. McFadden and small daughters, Bettye and Charlotte, formerly of 2207 Grant street, left Saturday for Lubbock where they will make their home.

The Latest!

Photo, rushed from Paris, shows one of distinctive new evening gowns for next season. The unusual feature is the treatment of the back. A panel gathered at the waist with a beaded motif tapers to a point at the neck where it is held by a pearl necklace. The material is velvet.

Mrs. Murrell Hooper New President Of Sunday School Class

Mrs. Murrell Hooper was elected president of the young married people's class of the First M. E. Church, south, for the first six months of 1927. Mrs. Hooper is the first woman president the class has had since its organization, Dec. 4, 1925.

Mrs. Hooper and her cabinet of officers are making plans for the year. The class has a hundred members on roll with a good attendance each Sunday but Mrs. Hooper is planning a drive for better attendance at Sunday school.

Other officers elected, include Mrs. W. R. Scott, first vice-president; Mrs. Ellery Lynn, second vice-president; Mrs. J. T. McNamara, third vice-president; Mrs. W. J. Ranbarger, secretary; Murrell Hooper, treasurer; Mrs. R. P. Finn, chorister; Mrs. J. W. Thorne, pianist, and Mrs. R. W. H. McCulloch, reporter.

The young married people's class with Miss Annie Laurie Long as its teacher was organized to fill a particular need of the Sunday school. To be a member of the class means that a man and his wife can attend the same class together. For this reason a group of young married people met and organized the class. Among those most prominent in the organization were: Roy Carter, the first president; Messrs. and Mesdames. H. W. Gray, J. W. Thorne, Murrell Hooper, R. W. H. McCulloch, E. M. Baker, W. R. Scott, E. F. Bohmfalk, Joe H. MacGregor, Ellery Lynn and Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Heyman.

Sorosis Club Will Have Lesson On Japan

Members of the Sorosis club will meet at the home of Mrs. M. H. Glover Wednesday afternoon and study a lesson on "Japan." Roll call will be responded to with names of the industries of the country and one of the papers will be on Japan vs. United States. Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock will discuss "Japanese Students in America and Laws Regarding Their Immigration."

Highland Heights Women to Meet

Members of the Highland Heights W. M. U. will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for study in the W. M. U. manual which will be taught by Mrs. T. J. Furniss of the South Side Baptist church. The women will meet every afternoon of next week for the lessons, it was announced.

China Studied At Club Meeting

In the regular weekly meeting of Sorosis club held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Timblin, members enjoyed an interesting program on "China," under the leadership of Mrs. M. H. Glover. Mrs. Stanley McGregor talked on "The Great Wall of China," and Mrs. Ernest Archambeau talked on the "Renaissance of China." A round table discussion on art and silk culture was led by Mrs. Glover.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Glover, Archambeau, Joe D. Harris, O. R. Haynie, H. D. Prichard, I. W. Karrenbrock and Stanley McGregor.

Arbor Day Proram For Unity Club

Members of the Unity club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. M. Priddy Friday afternoon for an Arbor Day program. Mrs. J. T. Montgomery will be leader for the afternoon and roll call will be responded to with items of forestry. Mrs. Wiley Robertson will talk on "National Forests, How Established and How Administered," and the leader will give a book review of Hewitt's "Forest Lovers." Mrs. J. A. Kemp will give a reading, "To a Tree."

Music Lovers To Hear Original Ballet

A rare musical treat is promised Wichita Falls' music lovers, according to those who have been privileged to hear the orchestral rehearsals of Ethel Allen Nelson's composition, a ballet de' ente-acte, called "The Two Spirits." Several of the leading dancers of the city have been chosen to interpret the various parts.

This will be presented next month when the Woman's Choral club gives its mid-winter concert which is said to be one of the most pretentious programs ever attempted by a local organization.

Cantawayua Group Meets For Work

Meeting with their guardian, Mrs. Frank Jones, members of the Cantawayua Camp Fire girls cut out pictures for their scrap books Friday afternoon. At the next meeting they plan to make picture frames.

Those present were Thelma McPhial, Winnelle Ward, Marie Trevathan, Beatrice Sharp, Laura Mae Costley, Mildred Johnson, Dorothy Somerville, Bettye Jane Schumann, Lois Corbin, Leellen Boardman, Edith Daugherty, Edith Brown, Dorothy Lee Taylor and Mary Katherine Ward.

Adventures In The Shops

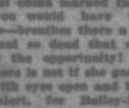

AS TOLD BY

Jacqueline

LUCIE'S Rental Library, with the Fashion Studio, 714 Ninth street, offers an economical means of enabling one always to "keep up" with the best and latest fiction. Such books as: "The Orphan Angel" by Eleanor Wylie (selected by the Book-of-the-Month club), "Nigger Heaven," by Van Dechten, and Barry Benefield's "The Chicken Wagon Family," speak for themselves.

WHAT a pleasant surprise Bailey-Mellue's big sale is! The great reductions scheduled for this entire week should be taken advantage of by every housewife. Just wait until you see your favorite pattern of beautiful china marked for lower than you would have thought possible—breathe there a woman with soul so dead that she will neglect the opportunity! I am sure there is not if she goes shopping with eyes open and bargain-sense alert, for Bailey-Mellue's sale offers the sort of bargains which should be spoken of as values to distinguish them as things of genuine quality tremendously reduced.

HUDGENS Electric Shop and Retail Store, 921-23 Lamar, in the new Marchman Hotel building is another point of interest in the opening which is attracting such wide attention. Agent for:

The American Elevator Co.
Ortho-Sonic Radios.
Masterlites.

The Hudgen's Electric Retail in this splendid location, with attractive store and courteous employes is sure to go far toward pleasing patrons in every way.

WHAT woman would not delight in possessing the beauty secrets of Queen Marie of Roumania! Here is one of them at least — Europe's most beautiful queen has a Eugene permanent wave, and if you have seen the Eugene waves given by the Floral Heights Beauty Shop of this city (1930 Tenth Street) you will not wonder that this added to even Her Majesty's reputation for pulchritude.

With spring sports and uncertain weather in view, a permanent will be by far the most consistently attractive thing for your hair and now that the risk of a "frizz" may be brushed aside by Eugene for the assurance of a soft natural wave, the economy, convenience and beauty of a permanent recommend themselves irresistibly to women of every station.

Call 6360 for appointments.

WOMEN will find the savings accounts of the North Texas Building and Loan association an especially convenient means of filling their purses during 1927.

The six per cent interest-bearing accounts involve no fees, may be withdrawn at any time and pay more than the usual savings interest and after making a payment of ten dollars monthly for six months, you will find yourself the possessor of $60.68. How much nicer than to have merely a worsted pair of extra slippers, a novelty bracelet, a few theater stubs, etc., to show for your money!

If more women realized how rapidly a good sized principal will accumulate in a North Texas savings account, they would not postpone the beginning of periodic savings. The small amounts placed here will hardly be missed at the moment, but in their union there is strength and, aided by interest a "rent con" will be found ready for use when you wish to do something outside the reach of the usual allowance.

ALL Wichita Falls is interested in the opening of the New Marchman hotel and assured of its popularity under the management of Mr. A. W. McCoy.

The Spanish type lobby has called forth much deserved praise. Its tiled floor, walls of stone-effect, arched openings, and old Spanish lantern, with the handsome and valuable painting "A Spanish Cavalier," by D'Ambrosse, create an atmosphere of old romance such as might be expected behind a "Sir Malcrofft's Door."

Speaking of romance—what a lovely home the Marchman would be for a bride! Surrounded by furnishings of perfect taste and by every convenience, a honeymoon will live to a ripe old age.

The suites and rooms of the new hotel are in accord with the lobby in distinction, and a beautiful bath with each room has that much-appreciated and seldom-found article, a three shirred medicine chest.

Service, too, will be found of the most punctilious and desirable in every way at the Marchman—a sort of "hearty and homey" combination, n'est-ce pas? Anyway, the Marchman wins the prize!

ONE of the most pleasant experiences of the week was a long drive about town and into the country in one of the new Cadillac convertible coupes, so often remarked upon as "the best looking car on the market!" This particular one was a sand-colored model with deep jade fenders and dashing orange wheels — one of the most beautiful of these luxurious and adaptable cars — now imagine what fun it was driving such a "doggie wagon" on an already springlike.

Truly, spring is the time to buy a good-looking new car, for the pride and satisfaction derived from its use on the many occasions you wish to be in the open air, can be had from no other investment.

Wives and daughters would like to add a line: "Make it a Cadillac."

THE unusual kid boutonniere and smart taffeta lining of one of the Orchid Shop's spring coats led to a general inspection of the new models.

Even spring, always less formal than winter, demands this year costumes for every occasion rather than sports togs everywhere. Consequently, the beautiful coats of the Orchid Shop range from plaids, tweeds and faithful kasha to satin trimmed in monkey fur and unborn lamb.

Can't you just picture yourself in a sophisticated, all-black monkey creation, or would you prefer the rustle of a taffeta lining at each step? See how they look in the Orchid Shop's mirrors — all are charmingly springlike!

THE new Raley's Drug Store in the Marchman (yes, it is the same Raley of Tenth and Broad) is the most attractive spot in the business section to sip a soda. Beautifully appointed, conveniently located, serving delicious drinks and sandwiches, it will be a favorite for luncheon and after-theater refreshment. Members of the younger set already have this "spotted," and they always place the stamp of approval and popularity upon a place, say what the older generation may.

It's on the corner so "cut through" next time.

NEVER have the spring styles been more lovely than are those of this season, and now they need not be observed only in the fashion sheets, for Miller-Ferguson has received a shipment of beautiful frocks priced within reach of every woman's purse.

In the Little Women's Shop of this store, girls and women who wear small sizes can find dresses from $12.75 to $46.75 in the latest cuts and colors. Among these it is amazing to find such advance models as the new double-breasted four-piece suit (Claridge, New York.)

Miller-Ferguson's other frocks are priced from $16.75 to $68.75 and are equally marvelous buys. Especially attractive in this group are a black georgette trimmed with tan and with the universally becoming bloused back, and a quaint grey, bouffie cleverly elaborated by a wide border (of the bouffins) formed of tiny, rose colored, velvet flowers.

ONE of the most elegant shops to be found in North Texas is that of Anna May McKissack in the New Marchman hotel. Drapes of crimson velvet and gold, a crystal and silver chandelier after those of Napoleon's throne room, the cut glass mirrors suspended by tasseled, silver cords, velvet rugs—these are a few Hi-Lights in the beautiful setting, which entices the discerning shopper into Miss McKissack's shop through either street or lobby entrance, while the exclusive spring apparel shown fulfills all expectations.

WINTER'S Furniture company is the very place to find the things which will make your home beautiful for spring and, aside from the pun, this statement is very, very earnest for Winter's offers the highest quality of furnishings at remarkably low prices and upon easy terms with an assortment of second-hand things, in excellent condition, for the more moderate purse.

A love-bird green bedroom suit tastefully decorated by hand, which I saw there, would give any girl a new joy of living and pride in the orderliness of her room. (A suggestion for her birthday or graduation present.)

But this is only one of the many things which make a home a home, to be found at Winter's. Drop by 600 Seventh street and see for yourself.

SILHOUTTE FIRST FUNDAMENTAL IN FASHION, SAYS LUCY CLAIRE

EXPERT GIVES FIRST HINTS

Correct Lines of Apparel Add Much to Beauty

This is the first of a series of articles on dress that not only tell what is the smartest thing to wear, but how to wear it. The author will write regularly and exclusively for The Record News hereafter.

By LUCY CLAIRE

Favorite Fashion Advisor of the Smart Set.

The first fundamental in the art of fashionable dressing is silhouette.

By "silhouette" I mean outline. Draw a single line all around the edge of your hat, gown, shoes. That line represents the "silhouette."

As I go along in my fashion articles I will point out how the right choice of silhouette in your apparel will add considerable beauty to your figure and your personality.

I shall only take up one or two general instances today, and as time goes on, I will discuss these principles more in detail. To illustrate how important silhouette is, if you are short or stout, you simply must insist on vertical or long outside lines in your apparel because such long or vertical lines will add to your height and tend to slenderize your figure. You may see this illustrated in the model at the right.

The opposite phase of this principle is that tall figures should wear a broken silhouette—the suggestion of a waistline, a narrow hip belt, circular horizontal trimmings and other diagonal or angular lines of the same character, because this tends to shorten or divide the figure and to lessen the appearance of height. Even shoes affect the silhouette by their heels or patterns.

This principle of silhouette is not only true in gowns, hats and shoes, but it is also true in coiffures. The way you wear your hair should depend upon the shape of your face, your features and your neckline, and I shall go into more detail later advising various modes of dressing your hair according to your particular requirements.

The coiffure shown above is smart because it fits the person who wears it, by accentuating the well-chiselled facial features, the head contour and the slender tapering neckline.

"Silhouette" or outline is one of being well-dressed, and I shall constantly refer to this principle as I go on in this series of fashion articles.

To realize the full value of Lucy Claire's articles, it will be necessary to follow them in sequence. We suggest that you clip the articles daily and preserve them as they will contain invaluable hints of permanent importance. If you are not a regular subscriber, telephone 4121 now, and order the Record News delivered to your home every day.

GRANDFIELD SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Frank Parrish was hostess to the Just-a-Mere Bridge club at her home Tuesday afternoon. High score prize which was a pretty perfumery was won by Mrs. Lloyd E. Church and Mrs. Henry Douglas was awarded a tea pot for guest prize.

After a delightful afternoon of play, delicious refreshments of fruit jello with whipped cream and coffee were served to the following guests: Mrs. Henry Douglas, Mrs. L. Loper, Mrs. Grover Teeter, Mrs. Brown Treadwell, Mrs. J. T. Broyles, Mrs. Jack Medlock, Mrs. H. A. Farthing, Mrs. L. E. Church, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Raymond Eversole and Mrs. Frank Parrish.

The next club meeting will be held on February 1, at the home of Mrs. Jack Medlock.

Mothers Club Hostess.

Mrs. Claud Riley was hostess to the Mothers club at her home on West Second street Wednesday afternoon.

The lesson topic was "Modern Civilization of Ceylon."

A delicious luncheon consisting of chicken salad, nut bread, devil's food cake and coffee were served to the following: Mesdames C. L. Mounts, George Hipps, D. C. Jones, Stanley Mohr, W. C. Watson, W. C. Foshee and Claud Riley.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. T. N. Shoat on February the 2nd.

Bearcats Banquet.

Ulpin Gilbreath was elected captain of the 1927 Bearcats at a banquet given by the home economic girls in the hall of G. H. S. Tuesday night to 19 letter men. J. B. Stout, superintendent, Harry Chambers coach and Floyd Rutherford assistant coach together with 20 business men.

The table was arranged very unusually with a gridiron as a center piece, showing our boys playing Ringling. With red and black, high school colors, streamers across the table on chandeliers and everywhere in evidence. The place cards were miniature footballs and the favors lolly-pops dressed as 'puppetts.' The invitations were similar to the place cards, hand painted football men.

E. P. Reagan acted as toastmaster, after dinner he spoke on "Football and Character Building." Orna Grimes led a song 'The Ice Man,' after which Harry Chambers, coach presented the gold footballs to winners of the South Central conference champion and undefeated team.

In balloting for 1927 captain three names were put up, the elected one, Gilbreath received 11 votes, John Hosch five and Carl Jones one, after which Gilbreath made a talk in which he layed plans for a team in 1927 to equal the one in 1926.

After the salad course E. D. Burke proposed naming our athletic field in honor of the maker of the championship team—Harry Chambers. Assistant Coach Rutherford then told of his many pleasant associations with the team of 1926.

Red Cross Head Tells Fable of Colds, And Warns Mothers of Dangers

By THE RED CROSS SECRETARY

This is a story of the inevitable woman who, having "raised seven children, three living and four dead," feels it her duty to draw upon the wealth of her experience for the benefit of young mothers who have only the doctor's book to go by. Everybody knows her many aliases. This time we will call her "Grace Patterson." The young mother we will call "Eloise Grant."

Junior, two years old, has just been tucked carefully away in bed and his mother, after giving him a final loving pat, has pushed up the windows and gone downstairs to join her husband in the living room. Her pretty brows are puckered in a puzzled frown which the man was quick to notice.

"What's bothering you Eloise? Mrs. Patterson called again?"

"Yes, how did you guess?"

"Oh you always have such a hilarious air after she leaves. I've learned to hail that woman with delight. She buoys you up amazingly, telling you how children die. You're a stimulating spectacle after her departure! What was her theme today? The quickest way for youngsters to break their necks, or how to burn babies to a crisp?"

"Jack! Its not that bad—and she has raised seven children."

"Raised? These kids have lived and grown in spite of their mother. What particular advice did she offer you this time?" The frown came back on Mrs. Grant's face.

Danger of Ignorance

"She said that we should let the baby take whooping cough now and get it over. She thinks that the younger a child has the whooping cough the lighter the attack, that the quicker it has all the children's diseases the better and the sooner the parents' worries are over."

"That's just like that fool woman," Mr. Grant's thumb vigorously packed down the tobacco in his pipe. "She'd burn a house up to see whether the insurance was good."

"But Jack, lots of women tell me the same thing. Doesn't experience count for anything?"

"It surely does. I'm not one to Do they form their opinions on the under value experience Eloise, but I want to know whose experience it is before I decide that it's worth accepting. These women! experience of a few children whom they know personally, or do they base their statements on the observation of a great number of children? Look here"—he waved his pipe emphatically—"if scientists who study the records of cases countrywide, if physicians who know their patients intimately for years and years, say that children's diseases are harmful, I'm going to believe them. Their knowledge is wide enough to be valuable. A man who has made the study of disease his business, is pretty sure to know something about it, certainly more than a woman who incidentally or accidentally makes a few unscientific observations. Junior ought to have whooping cough now—"

The man was on his feet.

Whooping Cough.

"I'd like to see that woman. I'd like to tell her that whooping cough is particularly fatal to children under three, that tuberculosis is one of the most frequent aftermaths of whooping cough which exhausts the child's strength and irritates his lungs. Junior with whooping cough! Heaven forbid!"

Mrs. Grant rallied to his side.

"Well, there will be no whooping cough here if I can help it. But the other babies whose parents don't know or are not convinced—I can't always keep him away from them."

"No, you can't. It's in just such straits that we realize our dependence upon other people and come to see a new meaning in that statement 'you are your brother's keeper.' If all parents were suspicious of all colds, if we all only knew that whooping cough and measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria disguise themselves as colds, if everyone of us faithfully kept our youngsters by themselves when they were sneezing and red-eyed, we'd soon be rid of these plagues of childhood. I'd like to add a skull and cross bones to every birth certificate. Under it would be these words: 'Beware of every cold if you want your child to live.'"

"Would it do any good, do you think? Mrs. Patterson, for example wouldn't listen. She doesn't believe we can do any better than our parents did."

"Mrs. Patterson, Eloise, wouldn't learn if she could. Her mind is a closed book. She couldn't understand that scientists have developed new methods for the protection of life, for the promotion of health, just as engineers have through study and experiment improved automobiles and machines in general. We'd be foolish if we didn't use the results of their labor. Cheer up, old lady, some day you women folk will be as keen to accept new methods in child-raising as men are to try new business methods."

Eloise laughed. "Women folks! What of your labors last night to get bubble fountains for the school? Wasn't your opposition masculine?

"Yes," the pipe received careful attention, "yes-s-s we parents sometimes forget to keep on growing mentally, but Junior,"——

"Junior shall not have whooping cough. I'll make colds so unpopular among the mothers I know that a social taboo will be established which will exclude any parent who selfishly or thoughtlessly permits a sniffling sore-throated child to play with the others."

"Go to it, Eloise! If you succeed you will stop this slaughter of the Innocents and I, as your proud husband, shall tell your adoring grandchildren how you commanded the attack of Intelligence against Ignorance.

JUSTICE ON THE SIDE OF MERCY

JUSTICE erred on the side of mercy when Judge Barrett of New York suspended sentence upon Mrs. Catherine Denino, confessed slayer of Louis Fino. Fino betrayed the girl when she was 12, and deserted her. She became a mother and later married Rocco Denino of Chicago.

Then Fino turned up and attempted to blackmail his victim. She confessed to her husband, who renounced her. Fino had threatened to make her secret known to her husband. Betrayed by one man and renounced by another, she returned to New York and shot Fino to death.

She told her story in the court room. Judge Barrett was visibly affected. A jury found her guilty and the merciful judge suspended the sentence. Denino was in the court room for the trial and was reconciled with his wife.

Fino got just what was coming to him. He paid the penalty of his crime and justice erred on the side of mercy when the gray haired judge suspended the sentence and told the 16-year-old wife and mother that she was free to go her way.

A bad dog is a bad dog, he is much more valuable under the sod than treading the sod.

A CALL FROM THE WEST

COLORADO has invited President Coolidge to spend his vacation months in the summer of 1927 in a magnificent palace home near Colorado Springs, and Wyoming has placed at his disposal a noted retreat where all the comforts and all the luxuries of money and genius will make his stay pleasant in the snowy capped peaks of the Rockies.

Cautious Cal is an adroit politician. It would be establishing a new precedent for a president to go west of the Mississippi or of the Missouri river.

Why shouldn't he accept one of these invitations? California and Oregon and Washington are republican states. Wyoming and Idaho and Utah are found in the republican column in presidential years. Colorado and Kansas and Nebraska voted for him in 1924. He would be on the fringe of the great northwest, the corn and wheat producing sections of America. He would be far away from Wall street, where the knights of the golden fleece are ever in evidence. He would be among the plain people and the plain people do the voting.

A WALLOP FOR BIG NAVY MEN

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is not in accord with the plans of the big navy men. He let loose a broadside to spike their guns in the house with a warning that budget estimates for the department for the next fiscal year must not be overstepped.

This aroused the ire of Representative Britten, republican of Illinois, who made this bold decelaration, "when the president is wrong, I refuse to follow him, and he is wrong in this instance. I know more about the navy than the president of the United States does, and the time to appropriate for these cruisers is now."

Representative Britten comes from the home of Farmer Frank O. Louden. He is a chesty man of mark. Now the issue is, will the tail wag the dog? The tail in this instance being the Illinois member and the dog a higher up.

TAX ON LANDS ADVOCATED

ADVISABILITY of taxing land replanted in cotton instead of attempting to assess the $25,000 an acre first proposed, is now being considered by advocates of the Parrish bill, which would prohibit planting of cotton on the same land two years in succession.

Farmer Mike H. Thomas, well known in the cotton world, has taken the stump in support of the Parrish law or some similar measure, to compel cotton acreage reduction. Farmer Thomas has been prominent in the cotton world for 30 years. He is a native Texan and very insistent that a sweeping reduction in acreage must be made or the southern growers will be made to pay the price.

Planting time is coming. There will be another crop in the ground before the champions of reduced acreage conclude their program.

SAN SABA AND THE [illegible]

MILES W. BECK is a soil surveyor [illegible] United States Department of Agriculture. [illegible]tly completed a soil survey of a number of pecan producing counties. This is what he said in his report:

"San Saba is the banner pecan county of the world, because it has more pecan soils and moisture conditions favorable to pecan growth than any other county in the world."

Pecan soil investigation was made by Beck in Dallas, Tarrant, Denton, Ellis and Navarro counties.

He handed the flower to San Saba. It is something to be the banner pecan county of the world.

SPEAKING OF BANKS

AND THE twelve Federal Reserve Banks almost doubled their net earnings in 1926 with profits of $16,610,000 as against $9,450,000 for 1925. Gross earnings for the year were $47,600,000 or about $5,800,000 more than that for 1925. Is this the richest of nations? Yes. Is this the freest of nations? Yes. Is this the most peace loving of nations? Yes. Is this the most forward moving of nations? Yes. Then, in the words of the anchient Mr. Gallagher, "Let 'er roll."

A PROSPERITY PLUNGE

PROSPERITY signs are in the heavens. Now the president of the Missouri Pacific has placed an order for immediate construction of 3120 freight cars, representing an expenditure of $6,500,000, and the first consignment of an outlay of more than $13,000,000 planned for new equipment for the line. Money talks and the rail magnates or operators are doing the talking.

The HOLLYWOOD GIRL

By BEATRICE BURTON
AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

BOBBIE RANSOM, a demure little school teacher, is anything but the flip sort of girl you would expect to be "movie mad." However, she is. She tries to borrow money from her father, a widower, and from her maiden AUNT GERTRUDE, to take her to Hollywood, where she hopes to break into pictures. They refuse to lend her a penny for "such a wild goose chase." So does ANDREW JERROLD, who wants her to marry him.

She finally borrows $500 from the WIDOW PARKINS, who is to marry her father, and goes to Hollywood. There she finds a room at MRS. MANGAN'S, and meets STELLA DELROY, an extra in the movies. Through Stella she lands a job in a picture at the Magnifica Studios, where ROY SCHULTZ a famous director, takes an interest in her. His assistant director, GUS MACCLOUD, falls in love with her, and she with him. He tells her that if he ever gets a picture to direct, as he hopes to, he will give her a big part in it. MONICA MONT, a player at Magnifica, advises her to play up to Gus, and then becomes jealous when she does.

Bobbie goes home when Aunt Gertrude dies suddenly, and her father breaks up housekeeping and decides to marry the widow at once. Andy Jerrold begs Bobbie to stay at home and marry him, but she goes back to Hollywood and MacCloud. She finds that during her absence Monica has been given a good part in a new Roy Schultz picture, and on the strength of it, has bought a lot of clothes and moved into a flat of her own. Mrs. Mangan says she has been running around with Gus, but when Bobbie comes back he seems more in love with her than ever.

Stella Delroy is badly burned in a studio fire, and Bobbie helps her with the little bit of money she has left from her five hundred. But Monica never gives her a cent. Monica is a grafter and has her hands outstretched all the time. One night she asks Bobbie to her new flat for supper with Gus and a TED PIPER. Bobbie buys most of the food and Gus brings the gin. That night Bobbie tells him how her money is vanishing and he promises he'll see that she gets some work at Magnifica. When she does get a call she thinks it was from him, but when she walks on the set, he is surprised to see her and says Schultz must have sent for her.

She hears some extra girls talking about him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII.

One of the extra girls, a silly little plump thing, was talking in a hushed voice. Every now and then she threw a sidelong glance at Gus MacCloud from enormous black eyes.

"Of course he's years and years older than I am," she was saying when Bobbie joined the group, "but I've known who he is all my life. His folks live back east, where I come from, and they have scads and oodles of money. There's three daughters and he's the only son. The mother's a widow and she wanted this Gus to stay at home and tend to the business. But he wouldn't—" She broke off sharply as Gus came toward them and told them to go out to the end of the lot, where Roy Schultz was waiting for them in a garden "set."

"You go, too, Miss Ransom," he added in an off-hand way to Bobbie, as if they barely knew each other.

Then he turned and walked away, whistling.

Bobbie stared after him with puzzled eyes. She never could make him out. She never knew where she stood with him. Sometimes, like the night in Monica's flat, he was wildly in love with her, it seemed. Then she wouldn't hear from him for days, and when she did see him he scarcely noticed her.

"I wish I could figure you out, Gus MacCloud," she said silently to his retreating figure.

She sighed and went out into the sunshine where Roy Schultz was waiting for her and the other extras. A garden had been laid out at the southern end of the lot.

Red brick walls enclosed it, and it was carpeted with wide stripes of sod. In the center of it was a swimming pool, and six or seven girls were swimming around in it. Other girls in wide garden hats and light dresses were sitting at rustic tables with some of the extra men.

Roy Schultz, with his cap on the back of his head and a megaphone dangling from each of his hands, lolled in a canvas chair, singing out orders to everybody.

"All right, Miss Ransom, I've got a flapperish stunt for you to do today. Can you flap for me?" he asked Bobbie with a grin, when he caught sight of her.

She nodded.

"This scene is supposed to be a wild garden party," he explained, waving bot hof his megaphones in the air. "You're all supposed to be ginned up and raising Ned generally. Now, what I want you to do is to turn a couple of flip-flops in the pool, take a flat dive or two, and then light a cigarette and swim across the pool smoking it. Think you can do it?"

Bobbie nodded again. "Easy money," she said, thinking of the times when she had raced Andy Jerrod in the water, holding a lighted match in one of her hands, or crossing both of her hands, behind her back and keeping herself going with her feet.

"All right," Mr. MacCloud will tell you when we're ready," he said and looked around for him. He raised the larger megaphone to his mouth and roared, "Hi, Gus! Gus!"

Bobbie spoke up. "I think Mr. MacCloud's back on the stage, where they're fixing up that other scene," she said timidly, and just then Gus came through the pedestrick gates.

Monica was with him, in an old-fashioned dress with balloon sleeves and a tiny hat stuck up on the top of her head like a pancake. Her arm, in a black lace glove, was through MacCloud's arm and her face almost touched his as they came along.

"That's the girl he's going 'round with now," the silly, plump little extra girl said to Bobbie and two others, as they backed away from Roy Schultz. "I wonder if she knows that he has a wife back east, who's divorcing him—and a daughter nine or 10 years old."

"Twenty-Seven's Awfully Old to Be in Pictures," She Said

Bobbie caught her breath in a little gasp. Gus married, and the father of a half-grown girl! She couldn't believe it. But, of course, it must be true.

So that was why he kept saying that he never would marry! That was why he didn't believe in marriage for people who were in the picture business! Because he had been married, and knew what he was talking about.

"Look at the way she's leaning against him," said the talkative little extra, giving Bobbie a poke in the ribs with her elbow. "She's just bats about him. I'd be ashamed of showing my feelings about a man the way she is! I sure would!"

"Yes, you would NOT!" tittered one of the others. "If you could land a director or an assistant director, you'd play him off the boards just the way she is doing. Don't try to tell us fairy tales, dearie!"

"I would not!" declared the talkative one. "If I wanted to, couldn't I go to this MacCloud and get him I'm from his home town and baby-eye him until I'd get a nice job out of him? Of course I could—but I wouldn't. It would be a cinch, though. If he falls for a horse-face like that Mont woman, I guess I wouldn't look so terrible to him!"

Monica came walking up to Bobbie. In the searching sunlight, her make-up was rough and flaky, and her lashes were black and gummy with mascara. She was not the least bit pretty, but her smile had all of its sudden flashing charm.

"Well, you old darling, what did you think of Ted Piper?" she asked, slipping her arm around Bobbie's waist. "Kind-a sweet, ain't he?"

"Yes, indeed, I liked him," Bobbie said.

Monica nodded. "He's a kind of Dumb Benny, though," she remarked. "You know—that kind of a sap who sends you six million calories of chocolates when he knows you're batting to stay thin and would rather have orchids to pin on your coat, anyway. But he means well. He's a good-hearted fool."

"WE'RE READY FOR YOU, MISS MONT!" bawled Gus MacCloud from the other side of the pool, and Monica hurried across where she was duly pushed into the water by Marty Sax, the comedian.

The morning wore away. Two or three times Bobbie found herself close to Gus, but he never looked her way, except while she was doing her swimming stunts. Bobbie couldn't figure out what ailed him. Was he ashamed of being in love with an extra girl? Didn't he want any of these people to know that he knew her? What was the matter with him, anyhow? She asked herself a hundred questions about him, and did not find a single answer.

"And he's married," she said to herself as she sat alone at noontime trying to eat the lunch that was brought to her in a pasteboard box—sandwiches, cake, a banana and a bottle of root-beer. "His wife hasn't divorced him yet—and still he makes love to me. Tells me he never knew what love was until he saw me—but that he would not get married for anything in the world. And all the time he IS married!"

Something that was fine and clean in her suddenly began to shrink from the very thought of the kisses he had given her, and the presents he had made her—a married man making love to a girl. "I must be old-fashioned," she thought, "but it seems wrong to me, somehow."

She sat there, apart from the others on a stone bench under some artificial shrubbery, thinking about him. And, as if her thought brought him to her, he came strolling up to her presently, smoking one of his brown Mexican cigarettes.

"Hello, you!" he said to her, putting his hand down over hers on the stone between them. "Want to have supper with me tonight?" Once more, now that they were alone, he was possessive and eager for her.

And she said "Yes," because no matter how much she tried she couldn't say "No." She didn't want to see—and yet she did.

* * *

At four o'clock all the extras were paid off and sent away.

At a quarter to 5 Bobbie found herself in the little Boulevard beauty shop, where she always went for her manicures. There was a new girl at the first white glass-topped table inside the door. A girl with a crop of short coppery hair, who raised a pair of enormous green eyes as Bobbie sat down opposite her—Stella Delroy.

"Yeah, here I am. Don't drop dead," said Stella. "Put you hand on the cushion. My stars! What awful-looking nails! You must have been sitting in a coal-bin all day!"

"Worse than that. I've been sitting around a dirty, dusty set in a wet bathing suit," Bobbie told her wearily. "I feel as if all the dirt were just ground into my skin."

"You look as fresh as dew," Stella said. "Jiminy! I wish I looked half as young and smooth as you do." She shoved a bowl of warm soapy water towards Bobbie. "Here, stick your hands into that."

"You're not much older than I am."

"I'm 27," Stella answered grimly. "And 27 is awfully old to be in pictures. Do you like your nails pointed or rounded?"

"Pointed." Bobbie's voice had gone dreamy and low all at once. Twenty-seven, she was thinking. Why, she would be 27 in less than five years. Five years in which to grasp fame and fortune, the things she wanted. Only five years.

"I'll never do it if I don't keep my mind on it," she told herself sharply. "I'll never do it, worrying and fussing about Gus MacCloud. I've got to get him off my mind and knuckle down to business."

She knew that if her mind had been on her work that very morning she could have done a much better job, when she swam the pool during the filming of the wild party. She could have swam across, holding a cocktail glass in one hand, if she'd only thought of it then! It would have been a good "gag" and would have made a hit with Roy Schultz.

"But I was too busy worrying about Gus to think of doing it," she told herself angrily, sitting there at Stella's little white table. "First thing I know I'll be where Stella is. Out of everything."

Well, she would tell Gus MacCloud that night that she was quite through with him. He never had helped her anyhow. He had promised to do this, that and the other thing, and he never had done anything except make love to her. All the work she had had, except that first day's work, had come from Roy Schultz. She would put Gus out of her mind. She made up her mind to that!

But when she went home and shut the door of her bedroom she found herself just as flurried and excited about meeting him at 6 o'clock as ever she had been! She took down every dress in her closet, trying to decide which one was the most becoming.

She rubbed perfume into the palms of her hands because he always kissed them, and at the soft, smoth nape of her neck, for the same reason.

Then she remembered that she had just made up her mind never to let him touch her again—that she was going to break with him.

She went into Mrs. Mangan's spotless white bathroom and scrubbed her skin until not a bit of the scent clung to it.

She put on an old blue serge dress and a tiny blue hat, and went down stairs at 10 minutes to 6 to wait for Gus.

"I look terrible," she told her reflection in the hall mirror.

But when you are 22 and have wide-set brown eyes and yellow hair and skin like magnolia petals, to say nothing of a heart-shaped mouth and teeth that have never known an ache, it is not so easy to look unattractive and uninteresting. Just leaving off perfume and lip-stick will not turn the trick.

And that, perhaps, was why Bobbie looked lovelier than usual that night to Gus MacCloud, who was as much in love with her as it was possible for him to be in love with anyone.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Lyrics of Life

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH

LIFE'S PLAY

Life's play is on, the overture is through;
And here we are, and here our work to do.
The footlights glare; in all the crowded place
We vainly look to find a friendly face.
The music stops, the waiting throng is still;
Well, one must play, must play it well or ill.
With all our dreaming, dreaming days are gone;
The hour has struck to act—life's play is on.
Youth's prologue ends; the larger drama now
A man must play; must play, but play it how?
Then from the wings an ancient actor speaks:
"He wisely plays a part who wisely seeks
A part to play—who chooses, first of all,
A part that fits him, be it great or small.
Life's play is on; and, now, to meet the test,
First find your part, then play the part your best."

Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her way and be wise:

Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.

How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?

Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:

So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.—Proverbs 6:6-11.

SEYMOUR PERSONALS

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Jan. 22.—Mrs. C. J. Norton and baby girl Jean of Wichita spent the past week with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. England. Mr. Norton came over for them Saturday, returning to Wichita Sunday.

Grady England visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. England, the past week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cooper and Mrs. Richard Blythe visited friends in Munday on Sunday.

Mrs. Effie and Jack McKay, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McKay, came through from Abilene and were joined by their mother and father, going on the Wichita to visit another daughter, Miss Tula McKay, who is librarian at Kemp library. The party returned home Sunday. The mother went on to Abilene for a few days' visit with the son and daughter.

CITY SLICKERS LOSE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — When James Porter, a farmer of Effingham, Ill., emerged from Union station he was engaged in conversation by Jack C. Corby. Corby drew from his pocket a pencil with a broken point and asked for a knife. Porter had none, but John W. Pierce, standing on the corner, obliged him. Corby pulled at the blade, said a little strength was needed, whereupon he opened it himself. Porter became interested, took the knife, which had been snapped shut again and worked on it himself. He grew red in the face in attempting to open it, and then, goaded by Pearce's taunts, bet $1.50 he could do it if given time. The bet was made but police interfered. Pearce showed Judge Roseen the secret catch which released the spring. As the pair had only 5 cents between them they will serve a workhouse sentence.

BETRAYED BY HER SMILE.

LONDON.—A woman's smile has betrayed many a man. The other day a smile betrayed a woman. Arriving here, Marie Dubois, French modiste, said she had nothing dutiable to declare except a silk-lined handbag, and a large trunk was passed. She appeared so obviously pleased that the customs officer's suspicions were aroused, and on again looking in her handbag he found a paper setting out a list, in French dresses with prices of sale, and 20 silk dresses were discovered in her trunk. All the property was forfeited and she was fined.

THE MAN PAYS!

WILLESDEN, England. —When Joseph Wilson was ordered in court to pay his wife's income tax, his plea was that she would never tell him what she earned. Judges were unmoved by the unique alibi.

Can You Say "No"?

By BRUCE BARTON

Illustrated by RAEBURN VAN BUREN

LINCOLN said a wonderfully wise thing one day.

"I have talked with great men," he said, "and I cannot see wherein they differ from others."

Too many of us have a distorted notion of great men: we see them only on their successful side, and imagine that they have no other. As a matter of fact, the great man is precisely like ourselves, a mixture of success and failure, of joy and deep depression. And very often if we would study him upon the side of his failures, we might learn more useful lessons than those that his successes teach.

No greater genius existed in his generation than Michelangelo. With such magnificent abilities he should have been a happy man: yet he was of all men most miserable. His letters abound in melancholy laments.

What was the secret of his misery? Failure to apply himself? From boyhood into old age he worked incessantly.

Extravagance? He denied himself even the ordinary comforts, to say nothing of the luxuries of life.

No, his tragedy lay within himself—partly in a pessimistic temperament inherited from his father, but chiefly in this fatal weakness: he never had the spiritual courage to say "NO!"

Before he had well begun one work, he allowed his patrons to force other commissions upon him. He undertook too many things. And as a result, in agony of spirit over promises unfulfilled, overwork begun and left half done, he passed his miserable days.

Modern society is in a conspiracy to ruin men as Michelangelo was ruined. It comes with a thousand conflicting claims.

"Be chairman of this," it asks; or "Go on this committee"; or "Leave what you are doing and tackle this new job."

And no man accomplishes anything really worth while unless he learns early to harden his will and to utter that little word No.

"How did you come to discover the law of gravitation?" a pretty woman asked Sir Isaac Newton.

"By constantly thinking about it, Madam," the great man replied.

Newton might have served on a hundred committees; he might have invented a patent churn; he might have made some money in the stock-market in those years when he was "constantly thinking" about gravitation. But he held himself firm to his single purpose, and did the great thing, resolutely refusing the thousand tempting diversions.

It's a curious fact that most children learning to talk can say "no" long before they can utter the syllable "yes." Yet men find it so easy to say yes and almost impossible to say no.

In that fact lies the secret of many failures. It ruined Michelangelo—that fatal inability to say "No!" And it will ruin any man who does not set himself resolutely on guard against it.

NEW MARCHMAN HOTEL SWINGS OPEN DOORS MONDAY NIGHT

PUBLIC ASKED TO RECEPTION

New Hotel Has Air of Charm And Distinction

Wichita Falls' newest and finest hotel — the $400,000 Marchman—will swing open its doors to the public Monday night in a formal reception between the hours of 7:30 and 10:30 o'clock.

Jack Gardener's orchestra will furnish music for the reception through the courtesy of the Adolphus hotel of Dallas, while the Wichita Falls Lions club will present the entertainment program, which includes, it might be mentioned in passing, the highest-powered group of pages that ever hopped bells in Texas. Members of the Lions club themselves will don uniforms and hard-boiled hats and assist the management in the gladhanding the guests, and showing the visitors over the building.

Public Reception.

A. W. McCoy, manager, who has leased the building from O. F. Marchman, the owner, will head the reception committee, assisted by his staff. This staff includes T. H. Edwards, assistant manager, Chief Clerk Frank A. Long, who will be on day duty; Fred Skipworth, night clerk, who is well known in Wichita Falls. The reception line will include a considerable array of Wichita Falls civic and business leaders.

The Marchman hotel is five stories in height, and of fire proof brick, steel and concrete construction. All rooms face on the outside, assuring fresh air and cool breezes in the summer time. The building is of the most modern construction and equipment throughout, and has already attracted many visitors, even though the formal opening is Monday night.

One of the most distinctive features of the new hotel is the spacious lobby, following the Spanish style of architecture throughout. Beautiful furnishings, deep soft rugs, beautifully upholstered furniture and the dark grain of walnut against the Spanish background give the lobby an air of luxury and comfort, as well as distinction and charm, found in few commercial projects. Light fixtures and woodwork are in antique design, and harmonize with the general motif of the building, and the Spanish walls of travantine finish.

Credit To Woman.

If one thing must be selected as distinctive in the Marchman hotel, it is the air of charm and good taste found throughout—and the credit for this accomplishment must go to a woman, Mrs. A. W. McCoy, who has carefully selected the furnishings and draperies of the new building.

While comfort and convenience for the transient as well as the permanent tenant has been the primary goal in the construction of the Marchman, the interior has lost nothing in charm by this accomplishment. Each room is provided with Simmons beds, equipped with Sealy mattresses and box springs. Ceiling fans, summer doors, special lights and telephone add to the comfort of the guest.

There are 125 rooms in the new hotel, practically all of which are equipped with either tub or shower bath. All have running water, and fixtures of the best quality. A new feature of the building is a steel white enamel medicine or toilet cabinet placed in each bathroom. The bathrooms also have floors of tile, built-in tubs and roomy towel racks.

Charming Interior.

The hotel is really something more than five stories, as four rooms on the roof have been fitted up for bachelor quarters and have already been leased.

The halls of each floor are heavily carpeted, while the windows carry draperies of bright colors that add much to the charm of the interior. The great majority of the rooms are furnished in walnut, with variations. Many of the rooms, to be occupied by permanent tenants, have furniture of apple green lacquer, and fixtures and draperies in harmony. An appropriate picture is being placed on the wall of each room in the hotel.

When the Marchman formally opens Monday night to the public, Manager McCoy estimates that at least one-fourth of the rooms will have already been filled by permanent tenants. Members of the Marchman staff have been kept busy during the last week answering telephone calls from prospective guests, and urging all to wait until the final opening before finally deciding. At that, many have already secured their rooms or suites before the hotel was actually completed.

Operates Two Hotels.

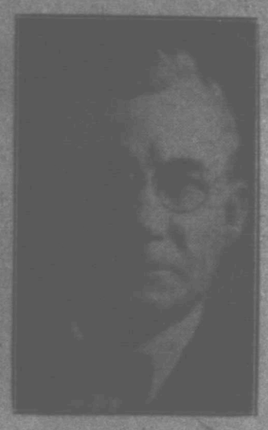

A. W. McCoy, manager and lessee of the hotel, first came to Wichita Falls in 1912, when he managed the Westland (now the Texan hotel. He remained here three years, and in 1914 went to Paris where he lease and furnished the Gibraltar hotel. He operated this hostelry for 11 years, and returned to Wichita Falls in 1926, and leased the William and Mary hotel. More than $10,000 was expended on new furnishings and improvements at the William and Mary, whiche Mr. McCoy will continue to operate.

When O. F. Marchman announced plans for his new building, Mr. McCoy secured the lease. Between $35,000 and $65,000 has been expended by Mr. McCoy in furnishing and equipping the new hotel. Given a fine building of every convenience, he has added many additional features assuring comfort and pleasure for his guests. Members of Mr. McCoy's staff are all experienced in the hotel business and are well known in Wichita Falls.

Hotel Manager and Assistants

A. W. McCOY

T. H. EDWARDS

When the new Marchman hotel is thrown open to the public Monday night, A. W. McCoy, manager and lessee, and T. H. Edwards, two experienced hotel men, will be on hand to welcome guests and to conduct tours through the new building. Mr. McCoy and Mr. Edwards are shown above.

THERE'S A KICK IN THIS

RALEIGH, N. C.—Legally, a mule is entitled to a kick. Mrs. Sara Rector of Buncombe county, widow of a Southern Coal company employe, had been awarded $600 damages because her husband had been kicked by a mule. In reversing the judgment the supreme court said: "If recovery could be permitted under the facts of this case, then every farmer or contractor in the state could ill afford to keep a mule."

West Texas Shippers Saved Large Freight Toll By New Rail Order

STAMFORD, Jan. 21.—Approximately a quarter of a million dollars annually will be saved by shippers of the South Plains due to activity of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in their behalf.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, through its traffic department, of which U. S. Pawkett is manager has successfully presented the Santa Fe differential cases to the railroad commission and as a result, South Plains shippers will be relieved of paying the western differential.

Through an order to be made by the commission following the submittal of the Santa Fe differential cases by the West Texas body, the differential will be cancelled to all main line points on the Panhandle & Santa Fe and also on the Lubbock-Farwell cut-off thus relieving Lubbock, Muleshoe, Slaton, Littlefield and Plainview, and all intermediate points from its payment. The towns named are now to be common points. The differential will continue to apply on points on the smaller branches of the Santa Fe radiating from Lubbock, but will not include many shippers.

In addition to securing the approval of the railroad commission on the question of differential, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in getting the Santa Fe to agree to amendment of their transit tariffs, thus benefitting mill and grain dealers, grain producers and shippers in the Panhandle, and secured their promise to take up special cases of aggravated nature found to exist by reason of joint line arbitraries.

SIXES WIN FAVOR

Motorists Show Wide Interest In Whippet Models.

Not since the introduction of the original Whippet car last June has such an interest been manifested in a new model automobile as that shown by the public in the new line of Whippet sixes, exhibited for the first time at the national auto show in New York City. The great favor being accorded this new type of light six car rivals the nation-wide interest displayed during the summer when the first Whippets, produced by Willys-Overland company made their initial appearance. At that time automotive authorities admitted that the interest of the public had never been so aroused in American over the introduction of a new car.

Throngs have crowded about the new line of sixes which include a four-door landau, four-door sedan, two-door coach, coupe, touring car and sport roadster. Every inch of their trim, cruiser-like bodies are bearing a minute inspection, as well as the compact but powerful six-cylinder motors.

A close examination discloses that in the construction of the Whippet sixes the engineers have not departed from the original Whippet lines, the bodies being characterized by their low hung design and roominess. The hood however, is longer and higher to accommodate the six-cylinder engine. This gives an added streamline effect.

The color combinations and appointments are in keeping with the general smart tone, with fittings of nickeled finish rounding out an attractive blend.

HALEY MADE QUICK SUCCESS

He Was Delivery Boy in 1913, Now Owns Two Stores

Frank Haley, owner and operator of the new drug store in the Marchman hotel started his career in 1913 as a delivery boy for the Palace Drug store. Today Mr. Haley is the owner and operator of two splendid stores which bear his name.

Gives Service.

"Service to the public is my motto," said Mr. Haley yesterday.

"I believe in giving the best service that is humanly possible and to give good service always is our biggest aim. And we invariably give this service with a smile, whether over the telephone, counter or curb. Store Number one, located on Tenth street in the Mary Margaret Inn building, has reached new heights in drug store popularity because of this service.

"I am confident that store Number two in the splendid new Marchman hotel will be equally successful. We have purchased the very latest in drug store equipment and will be prepared to give the public the very best in service. We carry a most complete line of drugs and accessories in both stores and everything that can be purchased at a drug store will be found at both places. Our prescription department is one of which we are especially proud—always keeping an adequate stock of the freshest and purest drugs and biologicals and a staff of trained pharmacists in charge.

Prothro Manager.

G. B. Prothro, who has been connected with the drug business for a number of years and who has a host of friends in Wichita Falls will be the manager of store Number two.

"We are deeply appreciative of the patronage of the public and we do not hesitate to let them feel that we are," said Mr. Haley in conclusion.

SEYMOUR SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Jan. 21—The Builder class, Mrs. Morris Randall's Sunday school class, met in its monthly social hour with Mrs. Chloe Shawver and Mrs. Rollins as joint hostess. Those present were: Mesdames John Henson, Loyd Henson, Whit Whiteside, Claude Russey, Furrih, McIlurley, Porter Brown, Luther Thomas, Hoosier, Seth Cockerill, Ann Carroway, Nugent, Mickey, Roscoe Caldwell, D. B. Daugherty, Mrs. Nell Randall and baby girl.

Sunday School Contest

Mrs. Morris Randall's Sunday school class has had a contest on attendance. The class has been divided into sides and the losing side entertained the winners with a banquet at Mr. and Mrs. Randall's home on Friday. A three-course dinner was served to about 40 members of the class. After the beautiful repast the merry-makers enjoyed "42" for several hours. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Radley, Raleigh Faucher, Chloe Shawver, Jal Siddons, Luther Thomas, Tom Hoosier, Tom Montgomery, Horace Caldwell, Palmer, Randall, Daugherty, Dr. and Mrs. Lowery, Mesdames Porter Brown, Whit Whiteside, Ann Carroway, Carrie Jeffords and Robert Graham.

County Federation

The nominating committee for the officers of the new year met at the municipal building the past Saturday. The meeting being purely business no program was given. The next regular meeting is February 19.

Birthday Surprise

Mrs. Gene Culver surprised her mother with a dinner honoring her birthday. The mother, Mrs. H. H. Faucher having been decoyed from home, returned at the noon hour to find many close friends assembled. A lovely time was spent by the ladies enjoying a delicious dinner at the end of which Mrs. Faucher cut her birthday cake, with the good wishes of her guests. The afternoon, until a late hour, was spent in a most pleasant way.

Those present were: Mesdames Suratt, Will Bailes, Burkley, Holman, Burns, Faucher, G. S. Plants, Lub Faucher, Mont Lankford Sr., and Bob Dickson.

Christian Ladies' Aid.

The ladies of the Christian church met with Mrs. Roy McDaniel on Monday. The afternoon was spent in unfolding plans for the year 1927. Two teams were formed to raise funds for a new parsonage. Mrs. Lively, captain of the west side; Mrs. Cosgwell, captain of the east side. Mrs. McDavid accepted her new office as president in her pleasing way, which won for her the support of her co-workers in undertaking what ever she plans. The hostess served pumpkin pie topped with cream and coffee to Mesdames Keenan, Neel Craddock, Briggs, Hill, Grey, Tom Craddock, J. C. Gouim, J. T. Lively, Migge, Ed. Craddock, Williams, Cosgwell, Taff, Foster, St. Claire.

Know Knothing Klub.

Mrs. Etor Lankford was hostess to the club members and a few guests on Friday. The pleasant hours were spent doing fancy work. Mrs. Nolen assisted the hostess in serving refreshments to Mesdames Scott Sessions, McWilliams, Davis Bradshaw, Tom Craddock, Neel Craddock, Gorman Tarver, Newton, Knox, Hell McDavid, C. E. Johnston, Kerr, Ilor Lankford.

Presbyterian Auxiliary.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church met in their regular Bible study in the home of Mrs. Milam. The Book of Job was studied and greatly enjoyed by those present. Rev. Cargill conducted the Devotional hour. Those present were Mesdames Cargill, Rogers, Jones, Kellum, McDonald, Tolson, Tarver, Dickson, Knox, Bunkley and Rev. Cargill.

After the study hour Mrs. Milam served a salad course and a social talk was enjoyed.

P. T. A. Meeting Held.

The Parent Teachers met Tuesday, January 18, in the high school auditorium. The meeting was a business meeting. The resolutions which had been published before hand were adopted with a few minor changes. The adoption of the resolutions as sponsored by the state body to be presented to our legislators was voted on and Mrs. George Plants appointed as chairman to bring these before our legislative body. Reports of various committees with the usual business concluded the work of the association.

Wednesday Bridge.

The Wednesday bridge players enjoyed their regular meeting with Mrs. Milam. Those enjoying this hospitality were Mesdames Palmer, Baskin Alexander, Johnston, Andrews, Frank Davis, George Plants, Whit Whiteside.

SOLITAIRE TO SOLITARY

LOS ANGELES.—Solitaire so-engrossed the attention of Henry Nunan when he was home that his wife, Iva Nunan, was sadly neglected, according to her complaint for divorce on file here. Nunan never took his wife out to places of amusement, but sat at a table and played solitaire all the time he was home, she declared.

CORPSES BEARD SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—There's a legal tussle on over possession of a 15-foot beard now reposing on a corpse in Nevada. Zachary "Zach" Wilcox, 78, Civil war veteran and in 1923 titled crown prince of whiskerinos, wrote a will leaving his hirsute adornment to the club here. The Whiskerinos intend to take its willed possession, while Funeral Director George Oliver at Reno, strongly opposes any desecration of the body.

FOR HIS WIFE'S SAKE

WICHITA, Kan.—W. S. Brown presented the most original excuse ever given in court here to win release from jury duty. "You see, it's this way," he explained. "My wife asked me to cut out the tobacco habit. For eight weeks I haven't chewed or smoked. But I know if I get in a jury room discussing a case with everybody else smoking or chewing I'll just break down."

Marchman Sees His Confidence In Wichita Falls Justified

MANY CALLED HIM "PLUNGER"

Real Estate Best Investment, Says Hotel Builder

He sat on top of a desk in Wichita Falls' newest hotel—and talked not so much about his new enterprise, but about the future of Wichita Falls and Wichita Falls real estate as an investment.

O. F. Marchman, owner and builder of the new Marchman hotel was called a "plunger" less than 10 years ago when he paid $17,500 for two lots at the corner of 10th and Lamar streets, and then he confided to a reporter that the same two lots are now valued at $100,000.

Best Investment.

"Real estate—that's the best investment in Wichita Falls," he said.

"You can't go wrong on real estate here. Wichita Falls has just started to grow, and the man who backs the city is sure to profit on his investment."

"Your own investments — have they all been pretty successful?" from the inquiring reporter.

This Wichita Falls man, who had rather talk Wichita Falls than his new building, grinned at the question.

"Well, I can say this—I've never bought a piece of real estate here on which I didn't make a profit."

Mr. Marchman came to Wichita Falls in 1908 in the drug business, but soon deserted the pill rolling trade for real estate. That's been his business ever since, and the building of a hotel represents an investment of almost half a million dollars is still of secondary importance in comparison with real estate.

"Of course we had some trouble as the building went along," he said.

Plans For Future.

"You can't build a structure this size and not have a few things go wrong. But all in all, it has been pushed along at a fairly good gait. Opening Monday, it seems the hotel will be filled on the first day—almost as if it was too small to accommodate all the business."

But the many patrons in prospect for the new Marchman aren't disturbing the builder a great deal. Foundations, walls and plumbing has been prepared for the addition of five more stories.

"Just another case of believing in Wichita Falls," said Mr. Marchman. "We're all ready to go right ahead with an addition as soon as demand justifies."

The Marchman hotel was constructed by Robert H. Brown, general contractor, the building cost being approximately $250,000. In addition to this, lots on which the hotel stands are valued at $100,000, representing a total investment of $350,000 in building and lots. Furnishings are valued at between $55,000 and $65,000 or $415,000 for the entire project.

Many features included in the new hotel have been carefully studied in other hotels over the nation. During the last few years Mr. Marchman has made a study of hotels and apartment buildings all over the nation as he moved from one spot to another on his annual summer tours. As a result, you find the Marchman hotel with all outside rooms, of fireproof construction, ceiling fans in each room, all machinery and heating plants in duplicate—assuring uninterrupted service to patrons — "summer" doors for each room, a device which admits the breeze, but assures the occupant of privacy.

Quality Construction.

There are many other features too numerous to mention, including two elevators, and double entrances to the lobby, which is one of the finest and most beautiful in the south. Materials and equipment of the hotel are of the highest quality, carefully selected with a view to making the Marchman one of the most modern inns of the state.

In addition to Robert H. Brown, general contractor, other firms participating in the construction of the Marchman hotel include: J. C. Korleth, Sherman, plumbing and heating; electric wiring, Hudgins Electric company; Otis Elevator company of Dallas, elevators; J. E. Pinkston of Dallas, elevator doors; Sorey and Vahlburg of Wichita Falls are the architects for the new structure. Painting and decorating work on the new building was done by Adolphus E. Jackson of Wichita Falls.

Builder

O. F. Marchman believes in Wichita Falls and its future, so when he built a five-story hotel, the new Marchman, he made plans for adding additional stories. Foundations, pipes, etc., are all ready for an addition, and Mr. Marchman says he thinks it won't be "so long before an addition is needed."

A SLIGHT MISTAKE

Ring Lardner Bares More Baseball Scandals

BY RING LARDNER

To The Editor:

Now that baseball seems to of stepped into the limelight out of season and nearly every paper you pick up give honorable mention to some different old pal of mine as a crook, it looks like I was released from all obligations to silence in regards to a few scandals that I happen to know of myself. Some of them bring in the names of ball players already involved, while others are about athletes who were famous before Judge Landis got his first boyish bob.

Amongst those in the last named class was the case of Frank Schultz and Heine Zimmerman and the incident occurred outside of baseball. We was all setting in a poker game one night and Heine was kind of young and tender and I forgot who opened the pot, but somebody did it for one dollar with one pair and Heine stayed and when it come around to Frank, he boosted it a dollar.

Baseball Student Studies Batter.

The fella that had opened dropped out, but Heine boosted back and Frank boosted him and Heine called. Heine drawed one card to a four-straight and made it, Frank stood pat. Heine bet a dollar and Frank raised him and Heine raised back. Frank boosted again and Heine called. Heine showed down his straight and Frank showed him a full house.

Several remarks were hurled at the Great Zim, such as "You poor So-and-So," and "What and the hell!" and he was finally taunted into the following explanation — "I thought he might of had a flush or somethin'." This case so far as I know was never investigated by the National commission.

Another case which I can vouch for involves Harry Lumley, not so recently of Brooklyn, and Ed Reulbach of those same old Cubs. As you older devils may recall, Harry had a habit of driving baseballs into the next school district. You may not know that Ed was not only a great mechanical pitcher, but was quite a student of opposing batsmen. Well, the Cubs were making a tour of the east and Ed was indulging in one of his wild spells and Manager Chance ordered him to go over in the forenoon to whatever park the club was scheduled to play at and spend two or three hours practicing control.

Butts, Butt—Who's Got the Butt?

Well, we came to Brooklyn and Harry Lumley went on a birthday party one night and when he showed up for batting practice the next morning, he wasn't at hardly what you might call his best. However, he took part in the practice and Big Ed helped improve himself and the Brooklyn batsmen by working against them for quite a while. When he joined his own club after lunch he was jubilant and confided in his mates that he had discovered Lumley's weakness. "He can't," said Ed, "hit a low ball on the inside."

Ed didn't pitch against Brooklyn in that series, but a few weeks later, the Brooklyn club visited Chicago and with Reulbach working and one Brooklyn runner on base in the first inning, up came Lumley and his weakness. Two children named Shapiro took the ball home to their father, who sold it to a friend living next door for 50 cents named Goldberg who liked to get out in the street evenings and play catch. This case was hushed up voluntarily by we newspaper boys.

And here is another incident just as true as the two recorded above and it reflects on Frank Schultz's honor, but I am going to tell it without asking his permission. Mordecai Brown, who lots of us always thought was just as good a pitcher as Matty or anybody else, was finally sold down the river from Chicago to Cincinnati.

The Cubs went down there to play and Brownie pitched against them. As I recall it, he wasn't having very good day, but that doesn't make any difference. What matters is that the pennant race was all settled. Well, Frank liked his base hits, but he also liked Brownie (as who didn't?-

Brownie got in the hole, three and two, on Frank and the next ball cut the heart of the plate.

"Gosh!" said Frank afterwards. "It was hard not to take a crack at that one!"

I will close this editorial with a brief story about Cracker Schalk and Cocky Collins, two of the boys mentioned in Swede Risberg's recent world almanac. One night they asked me for a cigarette and I handed them a package containing five. When they gave me back the package, it contained only two cigarettes.

HASKELL BRIEFS

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Jan. 22.—Veteran exhibitor" is the title given B. M. Whiteker's picture in the December issue of West Texas today followed by more than a column tabulating the achievements of Whiteker as secretary of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce and exhibit manager of West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He personally arranged the prize winning "Sesqui" exhibit and he and his son, John Wiley, overcame every difficulty in placing it when they arrived in Philadelphia, building and decorating it themselves. For ten years his exhibits have scored high in his own county of Haskell and his displays arranged during six years as exhibit manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have won every first prize where he has exhibited except one and that time damage was done his products by rain. The exhibit arranged by Whiteker for Haskell county in 1921 led every Texas county with a full score card and won third place in the state. In 1922 Whiteker put on the first agricultural display ever shown at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, gathering his materials from barns of West Texas farmers and from offices of different chambers of commerce. He was then employed at the fat stock show to take charge of the West Texas exhibit department. Since his appointment he has been handling in person or directing all West Texas agricultural exhibits there in addition to his exhibit work with the West Texas chamber of commerce.

The Haskell county federation of women's clubs and city officials and community leaders of every town and school district in Haskell county are planning a general clean-up campaign and tree planting in February. An extensive adjutation for the towns to cut all weeds and clear all rubbish from resident and vacant lots and for the farm folk to relegate far to the rear of the residence all discarded farm impliments and to beautify the yard with flowers and trees. A preliminary meeting of the county executive board was held in Haskell Saturday.

Coming to Haskell.

The North Ward P. T. A. sponsored the lyceum course this year and cleared one hundred and fifty dollars ($150). In appreciation of the patronage given them by the patrons of the Haskell schools, the Parent Teacher Association is bringing Dr. O. W. Horn of the Tech School at Lubbock to address the high school student body and people in general on the subject, "Community Obligation to the Child and the Child's Obligation to the Community," free of cost. This will be Thursday evening, Jan. 27, at the high school auditorium.

Charles Booth Coming.

Charles Brandon Booth, son of the world famed General Booth will come to Haskell the first of May and lecture on "The Big Brotherhood and Big Sisterhood Movement." At the biennial last May in Atlantic City the program committee gave out the information that at the close of the session, a popular vote would be taken as to the best number on the entire program.

TEXAS EXPORT TRADE GAINS

Wichita Falls Contributes To Huge Total

Wichita Falls contributed its share and then some to the export totals of Texas last year by sending out products valued at in excess of $10,000,000 to the consuming markets of the world. Figures just compiled here by the industrial department of the chamber of commerce show that products with an approximate valuation of $10,670,000 were exported from this city in the 12 months closing Dec. 31, 1926.

Huge Total.

As a matter of fact, an additional $7,000,000 or $5,000,000 figure should be added to this as representing the value of crude oil originating from producing fields in this county and sent by pipe line to Port Arthur where it is refined and exported. Wichita Falls is not credited with these, however.

Oil and its products, of course, constitute the largest item in the city's export business. A close estimate on the value of petroleum products exported in the past year is $5,140,000. Five firms exporting refined products bought about 66,000,000 gallons of refined products during the year, giving this impressive total. Three-fourths of this was represented by gasoline.

Cotton took second place in export value with an estimated worth of $3,000,000. Wheat took third with $1,941,000 and flour fourth with a $572,000 valuation. Miscellaneous products exported are figured at $117,000.

Texas Second.

Recent reports from the department of commerce at Washington show that on the face of reports from all states for the third quarter of 1926, Texas ranked second in the matter of exports. The value of its foreign output in that period was $154,499,192. This was a decided gain over the second quarter totals which were $93,759,087. New York was the only state to exceed Texas in exports, the eastern commonwealth sending out in the third quarter exports to the value of $195,379,017. New York and Texas were the only two of the 53 states and U. S. territorial possessions to exceed the 100 million dollar mark in exports. From these two leaders the figures dwindled down to $86,433 which represented the value of exports from the state of Nevada, the third quarter of 1926.

BURK PERSONALS

BURKBURNETT, Jan. 22. — I. E. Harwell and Karl ten Brink report their first dry hole of three well locations on the E. E. Hardin farm, southwest of Burkburnett. Anna May McKissack Offers New Spring Styles In Marchman Shop

ANNA MAY McKISSACK

An exclusive little shop of the new Marchman building is Anna May McKissack's ladies ready-to-wear and millinery store.

Miss McKissack came to Wichita Falls only a few months ago and opened a shop on Ninth street where she has enjoyed a thriving business. When the new Marchman building location was available she immediately made plans for a move. In her new store she will have on display for the formal opening Monday evening a wonderful collection of new spring stocks of high quality merchandise.

"I believe my new dresses, coats and hats are just what the women of Wichita Falls want, for everything will always be the very latest and newest in style, right from the eastern markets," said Miss McKissack. Ladies are especially invited to the formal opening Monday evening, 7:30.

CHASED BY DEER

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Richard Kefter, while driving through the woods with his car loaded with a bale of hay and a barrel of apples, was chased five miles by a hungry deer. The deer came out of the woods, sniffed the air and started chase. The more speed the driver put on, the faster the deer traveled. Kefter finally threw out a handful of hay and a dozen apples. The deer stopped to feed and the automobile passed on.

NEEDSH HELP, CALLSH COPSH

NEW YORK CITY.—When S. B. Hall, visitor from Virginia, became frightened by a suspected thief he pulled in a fire alarm. Two deputy chiefs, two battalion chiefs, 60 firemen and 15 policemen responded.

"S'll right now, boys," Hall told them. "Just needed a bit of help, but you can all go home now." They locked him up for disorderly conduct.

CUPID DOUBLES BACK

NEW YORK. — An accidental meeting at the home of a mutual friend in Hampton Bay, resulted in the immediate remarriage of Commander Vaughn V. Woodward, U. S. N., to his former wife, Mrs. Lila Hobson Woodward, from whom he had been divorced seven years. Woodward summoned a justice, who performed the ceremony at the home.

HIS MIND'S MADE UP

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Morey Dunn Jr., doesn't want to be governor. The West Palm Beach lad, while visiting his grandmother in Tallahassee was allowed to sit in Governor Martin's chair. "It is too big and uncomfortable," he complained. "I am going to make a supreme court judge out of my father, who is a lawyer," he added.

PART AT WEDDING

LONDON.—Ruth Milton and Harold Archer, both 15, were married in Hull by consent of their parents, but agreed not to see each other for three years.

KISS THEFT UPHELD

MANILA.—There are extenuat-ing factors in the theft of a kiss, an august court has decided. When the lights of the dancehall are dimmed, when the orchestra plays a soft, appealing waltz, and a pretty girl is near—a man who kisses a girl in such a setting is "a victim of circumstances," the supreme court of the Philippine Islands ruled in acquitting Severo Pancho, who was convicted in a court in Sorsogon province of kiss-ing Marcella Dayson, a profes-sional dancing girl against her wishes.

HOW DOES SHE DO IT?

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—While vis-iting here, Mrs. Queen Thomas, school attendance officer in Chi-cago, received a telegram from her daughter, Eleanor, 16, asking permission to go to a moving pic-ture show. Permission was wired back. The mother laughed when asked to explain her method of training young daughters.

HOLE IN ONE, ONE IN HOLE!

SAN FRANCISCO.—A strong box, stolen more than a month ago from the office of a building contractor, was recovered when Walter Ternsted, a Red Bluff golf-er, hit a ball into a pile of refuse. In searching for the missile he discovered the missing strong box.

The Harmless Lunatics—By James J. Montague

"I suppose," said Egbert when, after breaking a putter across his knee and presenting the remainder of his clubs to his caddy, he walked glumly to the locker room and made a sign to Jerry, the mixer, "that you fellows think I'm crazy. But I can't help it. I get that way every time I take an eleven on that last hole. There is surely something about this game that puts a man off his dip."

"Maybe you're mixing up cause and effect," said Bill, soothingly. "Maybe if you hadn't been off your dip already you wouldn't have to go around so often buying back the clubs you've given to caddies when you game went sour. Sit down and slip that bracer slowly. I'd like to tell a story.

"About thirty years ago a bird name Jones Murphy and I were doing a survey out in a little prairie town where there was nothing in the way of amuse-ment but a gopher colony and an occasional cyclone. Naturally we got hard up for amusement after a while, and Murphy suggested that it might be a good scheme to send back to New York for some clubs and lay out a little five-hole golf course. They ran cattle on the prairie, and the grass was eaten down pretty smooth.

"Well, inasmuch as we had to be there for five months, some-thing had to be done to keep from going gooty, so I agreed. The next day we went around to a rancher and asked him if for a consideration he would keep his cows out of a big twenty acre lot on Saturday and Sundays, so we could play golf in it.

"He wanted to know what golf was. We tried to explain it to him, but we didn't have much suc-cess. But we convinced him that we wouldn't break down his fences or set fire to the grass, so he agreed to rent us the tract for ten dollars.

"A week later the clubs ar-rived, along with a mower for cutting the greens, and some flags and tin cups. So Murphy and I took the metal tape, meas-ured off the fairways, sunk the cups, put poles in them and started cutting the greens with the mower.

"The rancher and his hired help, consisting of two cowboys and a cook, came and leaned over the fence to watch us at work. They were full of curiosity about what we were doing. Murphy told them it was a game, and prom-ised to teach them how to play it, when we got the course in shape. They pressed him for further in-formation, but he said it would be easier to tell them all about it when we had the clubs and balls there, which would be next Sunday.

"Next Sunday we were out at six, and they were waiting for us. On a ranch six o'clock is just a little past the middle of the forenoon. Murphy and I played around, and then walked over to the gate, on which the spectators were sitting.

"'We just played one round,' I told him.

"'What do ye mean, ye played? All I see you do was to walk along an' hammer that little ball with them sticks.

"'Well, you see, that's the game. The one who can get it across the green with the fewest strokes wins that hole.'

"'But the other feller don't do nothing to prevent ye hittin' it.'

"'No, of course not, that wouldn't be fair.'

"'And you don't hev to hit the ball on the fly nor nothin'. You just got to knock it along off'n where it lays on the ground.'

"'Yes, sir, that's it.'

"'I s'pose the next time round, the other fellow tries to take the ball away from ye and hit it his-self?'

"'Oh, no, he just hits his own ball.'

"Old man Smithson climbed down off the gate and started to walk back to the ranch house. The two cowboys and the cook followed him. All four shook their heads slowly as they walked. We were a little surprised, but we were so enthusiastic about trying our new course that we soon got absorbed in the game, and did not think any more about it till that evening, when we went home for dinner.

"The old man, with whom we boarded, was naturally a great talker but that night he said nothing whatever, merely looking at us curiously from time to time, then glancing at his assistants, and then back at us again. There seemed to be a sort of sad look in his eyes. When we bade him goodnight and went to the bunk room he asked Murphy if we had been in good health lately, and if we had any complaint to make about the food.

"Next Saturday afternoon there were eighteen cowboys from various ranches in the region, on the gate. They watched us with serious faces, now and then whis-pering quietly to one another.

"As we moved along over the course they climbed down and moved along with us, watching everything we did. None of them spoke to us. After a time this became rather eerie.

"I walked over to them when we finished a round. 'This game is called golf,'' I said.

"'I'm your friend, stranger,' said one of the cowboys, nervously 'ain't got nuthin' again ye. But I'd advise ye to slip that club back in the holster pretty pronto.'

"He reached toward his belt. I restored my brassie to the bag.

"'Wouldn't you like to know how the game is played?' in-quired Murphy politely. 'Glad to teach it to you.'

"'Jes slip your weapon in the holster, if ye don't mind, pardner,' said the man. Murphy's club went back among its companions.

"'Now,' said the cowboy, 'we help' on a neutral footin' you can tell us the rudiments of this here pastime.'

"Well, we told him. We ex-plained the swing, and the shots with the different clubs, and the rules, and the difficulties, and the art of golf, for half an hour. But every time we would absent-mindedly start to draw a club out of the bag as an illustration, each of the sixteen listeners would scowl slightly and reach toward his belt. So we depended on language alone.

"When we had finished, the first spokesman said, 'But I thought ye told us there was some game involved in these convolu-tions of yourn.'

"'Why, yes,' said Murphy, 'I just explained that.'

"'But all ye do is to nudge that pill along like you were rollin' a bar'l, with nobody to interfere with you or nothin', and nobody to be shoved out of the way, is that right?'

"'Yes.'

"Jes' Slip Your Weapon In th e Holster ef Ye Don't Mind, Pard-ner," Said the Man."

"Our visitors looked at one an-other solemnly, then they all strolled over to their horses and rode away. No sound came from them.

"Old man Smithson told us a few weeks later, when we took our leave of him and set forth for home, that there had been a meeting of the law and order committee of the region the day after our second game, and that a strong party in it urged that we be shot.

But he said he convinced them that we were only harmless luna-tics, and so, although they kept us watched secretly while we played for the rest of the season, they permitted us to have our liberty."

DOCTOR ERRS

WASHINGTON.—In diagnosing a case, Dr. Catherine Amburger made a sad mistake. She thought William Wiles was a delivery boy. She opened her door and threw a dishpanful of water in his face. She said she was tired of answer-ing the door bell for delivery boys. Then she found out Wiles was a bill collector. She told her story to the judge. "Five dollars," said his honor.

TALKED TO WIFE BY DOG

NEW YORK.—Her husband re-fused to speak to her, but would address their dog in her hearing, whenever he had to say something for her ears, Mrs. Walter Menke charged in a separation suit. The judge ordered Menke to pay her $20 a week.

ALL A DREAM.

GLENDALE, Cal.—Obed Lucas, 15-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Lucas, went to bed suffering from a slight attack of football fever and in his dreams he staged an entire game. The game had to be called, however, when young Lucas swung a desperate kick at a phantom ball and dented the wall of his bedroom with his bare toes, putting a foot temporarily out of commission.

ROOF IS LICENSED.

SEATTLE, Wash.—When Oscar Leindahl made his plans to build a cottage retreat in the woods, he collected several piles of old auto license plates at garages—2,300 all told—and now has a water-tight roof on the cabin. He laid about five inches to the weather in nail-ing them down, then applied a thick coat of roofing paint.

WHY LIBRARIANS GO CRAZY.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark.—A col-lege student puzzled a librarian in the local Carnegie library for a minute with a request for "Oranges and Peaches." Pressed for fur-ther information, she said, "I am sure that is the name the profes-sor said. It was written by a man named Darwin," she explained. She didn't notice when the librarian handed her "The Origin of Spe-cies."

BOB MOORE OPENS STORE

Wichita Man Join By Three Sons in Furniture Trade

R. E. (Bob) Moore is holding the formal opening of his new furniture store in conjunction with the opening of the new Marchman hotel.

Mr. Moore is one of Northwest Texas' pioneer citizens, coming to this country in 1887 as a cowboy on the Waggoner ranch at Electra. In 1910, when the town of Burkburnett was founded he organized the Farmers' State bank and served as its president for three years.

Following this he purchased two furniture stores, which he sold in 1918 and entered the oil business. His re-entry into the furniture business took place in December of 1926, when he opened his store in the Marchman hotel building.

"I expect to offer Wichita Falls and North Texas a quality line of popular priced furniture," said Mr. Moore yesterday.

"We have a splendid store and our stock is complete in every detail. We have been opened for business since December 1 and are highly pleased with the reception accorded us thus far. While we have been under a great handicap, by not having sidewalks completed, nevertheless, we have enjoyed a very good business and are confident that the public will appreciate our offerings.

Mr. Moore has his three sons associated with him in the store, Orville, Fulton and Clarence Moore. R. M. Jones is a salesman for the store.

Mr. Moore extends a cordial invitation to the public to call during the opening and inspect his store and stock.

Another Member of Marchman Hotel "Family"

Above is shown a front view of the Bob Moore Furniture company, which formally opens to the public in the Marchman hotel building Monday night. Mr. Moore has been doing business at his new place for more than month, but will join other members of the "Marchman hotel family" in the formal welcome to the public.

COTTON CUT IS DOUBTFUL

Acreage Reduction Leaders Not Sure of Results

With a 1926 Wichita county cotton crop of 23,500 bales as compared with a 1925 crop of 21,000 bales, speculation is rife hereabouts as to whether or not 1927 will really bring the much-discussed cut in cotton acreage.

No one of authority will hazard a direct opinion on the matter. A farmer, they point out, is a more or less uncertain entity in the nation's economic picture and the North Texas farmer is no exception to the general run. So the intentions of the farmer in the matter of cotton raising next year remain problematical. He may or may not profit by the 1926 price debacle and limit his production accordingly. Right now, he seems to be guided by the recent upheaval through which the cotton world has gone and memories of which are still painfully vivid.

No definite action has been taken here to bring about a wholesale reduction in acreage. Farmers who took advantage of the cotton pool formed by Wichita county banks to extend loans with warehouse bales as collateral were asked to pledge a reduction next season, but a comparatively small amount of cotton has been stored. Here as in many other points throughout North Texas the cotton has been turned about as rapidly as it was ginned.

The 1926 crop in Wichita county represented a total valuation of approximately $1,175,000. In 1925 the smaller crop of 11,000 bales brought $1,600,000 through higher prices.

National Leaders and Organizations Show Interest In C.-C. Convention

One of the figures of national importance in the business world of America will be in Wichita Falls next May for the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Such is the announcement of Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber, who has just returned from a 10-day business trip to Washington in the interests of the coming convention. The identity of the distinguished visitors. Mr. Harrison told the business council Friday noon, will not be revealed for the present, but he said he had assurance that Wichita Falls would be favored by the visit of the dignitary who ever he may be.

Optimistic views are held by Harrison concerning the convention. He declared that while in the east he had interested the New York Times, the National Geographic society, the United States Chamber of Commerce and other influential organizations in the convention and, especially, in the huge and colorful pageant "The Congress of Nations," which is to be a big feature of the sessions.

WANTS WOOD, NOT BOOKS

PALM BEACH, Fla.—The library at West Palm Beach wants wood, not books, right now. Directors of the library have requested donations of firewood instead of reading matter during a temporary spell of "red-flannel" weather. One director suggested in a meeting that "some of those old books be burned."

MODERN CAFE IN MARCHMAN

Good Food, Good Service Is Promise to Patrons

Among the enterprising tenants of the new Marchman building is the Marchman cafe.

New and modern in every respect is this new business for Wichita Falls. Modernly equipped with all the necessary facilities that go in an up-to-date restaurant. The interior is beautifully decorated, tile floors, with a capacity of serving 56 people. It is steam heated, well ventilated with two big exhaust fans, affording a constant flow of fresh air at all times.

Popular Prices.

The cafe will serve and cater to the public in general at popular prices. It will also carry a complete line of cigars, cigarettes and tobaccoes and for the convenience of their trade will keep on hand a stock of Martha Washington candies.

The personnel of the Marchman cafe includes Fred Ebner and E. Elliott.

Mr. Ebner is an old and experienced business man in Wichita Falls, having owned and operated the Tenth Street Market for the past nine years and previous to that time being with the Star Market on Tenth street for seven years. Mr. Ebner has been active in business and social circles in the city and has a host of friends that assure the success of his new venture.

T. E. Elliott has been associated with several business concerns in the city for a number of years. He was city salesman for the Goodnez wholesale grocery company, also with the Armour Packing company of Fort Worth.

Opens Monday.

Nothing has been left undone in making this one of the most beautiful and modern cafes of this section of the state. It is ideally located, and every effort will be made by the proprietors to render the very best service possible to attain.

The formal opening of the cafe will be Monday evening at 7:30, in conjunction with the opening of the hotel and other business places of the building. The public in general is cordially invited to visit and inspect thoroughly the cafe and kitchen equipment.

SOIL FERTILITY AIDED BY BEAN

Taylor Farmers Use Mung Bean to Diversify

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Jan. 22.—The farm lands in this section of the state have not reached the stage where the application of commercial fertilizer is necessary for plant production, but going on the idea that "a stitch in time, saves nine," Taylor county farmers are starting on an extensive program of soil improvement.

As a means of assuring the permanent fertility of the soil various legumes are being planted by the agriculturists in this section. Sweet clover has been found to be adapted to this section and it has been found that the clover not only enriches the soil, but also produces excellent hay crops. This plant will be extensively grown this year.

The Mung bean, recently imported from China will be used by many farmers. This legume has been found to be a hardy drouth resister and its nitrogen gathering properties are especially good, experiments conducted by the United States department of agriculture, have disclosed.

Soy beans, which have been used generally in other sections will also be grown here.

Taylor county farmers are starting now to build up the soils of their farms, so that when the land passes into the hands of their children, the fertility of the ground will not have been dissipated.

"STEWED" DUCK EASY TO GET

PORT ARTHUR. — "Stewed" duck is the latest epicurean delight here. Nimrods began by using whiskey-soaked grain in the feeding places of the birds. When the ducks have consumed a certain amount of the "doctored" feed they set in a strange and unseemly manner for ducks, hunters say, and they have no difficulty in bagging the intoxicated fowl.

Kill Kare Club.

Mrs. M. P. McCracken was the charming hostess for the members of the Kill Kare club and a number of special guests at her home on Tuesday afternoon. Several delightful hours were spent in playing progressive 84, after which refreshments of chicken salad, bakeless cake, sandwiches, olives and coffee were served at the game tables. Special guests for the afternoon were Mrs. J. F. Hollis, Mrs. Bert Bloodworth, Mrs. Roy Graham, Mrs. Sam Casey and Mrs. Dave McMillan. Club members present were Mrs. W. N. Lunn, Mrs. Lucy Ransome, Mrs. Roy Reath, Mrs. Frank Alexander, Mrs. Will Thomas, Mrs. George Rice, Mrs. O. H. McAlister and Mrs. J. R. Wilson. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. W. N. Lunn Tuesday, February 1.

Choral Club Practice.

The Choral club has changed its practice night from Monday to Tuesday and will meet each week in the A. A. Cooper home at 7:30 p. m. on that evening. The members of the club are hard at work in preparation for the program which they will present some time during the latter part of February in the Palace theater. They will be assisted by W. E. Young, director of the choir of the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls, with Miss Annette Walsh at the piano. Admission will be charged to this affair, the proceeds to go to the Altruistic club to help defray expenses of the district federation meeting in April. After the program the Choral club plans to entertain its friends with a reception at the Country club.

Dance At Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hunt were hosts for a delightful informal dance at the Country club last Thursday evening. Haverstock's orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The guest list included Misses Leone McCracken, Bernice and Geneva Groves, Monette Tilley, Katherine Manton, Frances Bell, Alma Farmer and Anna Louise Morrison of Graham; Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cooper, Dr. and Mrs. Fern Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hunter, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Hamilton, Mrs. S. O. Callahan Jr., Mrs. Guy Collins, Mrs. Lydia Carpenter, Mrs. Henry Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Elby Wilburn, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Harell, Messrs. Fowler, Barlow Bryant, Paul Smith, Frank Thyng, Carl Griffin, Bruce Nesbit, Troy Dees Price, O. P. Herm and Tribble.

Baptist District Rally.

A district rally for the Baptist conquest campaign was held in Wichita Falls Tuesday, with Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas and other prominent men of the denomination on the program. Among those from Olney attending the meeting were the Rev. and Mrs. Miles B. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Anderson, Mrs. A. W. Wright, Mrs. Jeff Keeter, Mrs. D. L. Wolf, Mrs. Tom Gulmarin, Mrs. Pate, Mrs. Wheat, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. S. J. Marcell and Mrs. Morrin Hannis.

Club Night Country Club.

Club night was observed at the Country club last Monday evening—the occasion proving a delightful one, though the attendance was unusually small. Several pleasant hours were spent in dancing, playing bridge and chatting before the inviting open fire, and at the close of the evening sandwiches and coffee were served. The club members present were Dr. and Mrs. George B. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Callahns Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Rice, Mrs. Lydia Carpenter, Miss Monette Tilley, Miss Sara Belle Shaw, Walter Shaw and Carl Griffin.

Celebrates Birthday.

In honor of her twelfth birthday Miss Mutt McCracken entertained with a dinner last Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. McCracken, covers being laid for twelve of her school friends. A delicious chicken dinner was served, after which the beautiful birthday cake with its twelve candles was cut amid much merriment. Those present to enjoy this delightful birthday celebration with Mutt were Misses Frankie Lee Spencer, Jeanette Harrell, Frances and Ruth Waggoner, Joyce and Gannell Pate, Margaret Bull, Evelyn Wells, Jack Drum, Paulita Blauncett and Verlyn Gadberry.

Ladies' Missionary Society.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Cumberland Presbyterian church met Monday afternoon at the usual hour at the church. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Della Campbell. Study of our South American Mission work was begun. The first chapter of our study book "What to do With Latin America" was read and discussed by Mrs. Joe Campbell. A business meeting was then held. Two new members were added to the society.

Those present were: Mesdames Walter Partain, W. L. Meaders, Miles, W. M. Massie, Cleve Powell, Joe Campbell, John Davis, E. H. Sharp, Michels and Misses Willie Meaders, Della and Dixie Campbell.

BOB MOORE OPENS STORE

Wichita Man Join By Three Sons in Furniture Trade

B. E. (Bob) Moore is holding the formal opening of his new furniture store in conjunction with the opening of the new Marchman hotel.

Mr. Moore is one of Northwest Texas' pioneer citizens, coming to this country in 1887 as a cowboy on the Waggoner ranch at Electra. In 1910, when the town of Burkburnett was founded he organized the Farmers' State bank and served as its president for three years.

Following this he purchased two furniture stores, which he sold in 1918 and entered the oil business. His re-entry into the furniture business took place in December of 1926, when he opened his store in the Marchman hotel building.

"I expect to offer Wichita Falls and North Texas a quality line of popular priced furniture," said Mr. Moore yesterday.

"We have a splendid store and our stock is complete in every detail. We have been opened for business since December 1 and are highly pleased with the reception accorded us thus far. While we have been under a great handicap, by not having sidewalks completed, nevertheless, we have enjoyed a very good business and are confident that the public will appreciate our offerings.

Mr. Moore has his three sons associated with him in the store, Orville, Fulton, and Clarence Moore. R. M. Jones is a salesman for the store.

Mr. Moore extends a cordial invitation to the public to call during the opening and inspect his store and stock.

Another Member of Marchman Hotel "Family"

Above is shown a front view of the Bob Moore Furniture company, which formally opens to the public in the Marchman hotel building Monday night. Mr. Moore has been doing business at his new place for more than month, but will join other members of the "Marchman hotel family" in the formal welcome to the public.

COTTON CUT IS DOUBTFUL

Acreage Reduction Leaders Not Sure of Results

With a 1926 Wichita county cotton crop of 22,500 bales as compared with a 1925 crop of 21,000 bales, speculation is rife hereabouts as to whether or not 1927 will really bring the much-discussed cut in cotton acreage.

No one of authority will hazard a direct opinion on the matter. A farmer, they point out, is a more or less uncertain entity in the nation's economic picture and the North Texas farmer is no exception to the general run. So the intentions of the farmer in the matter of cotton raising next year remain problematical. He may or may not profit by the 1926 price debacle and limit his production accordingly. Right now, he seems to be guided by the recent upheaval through which the cotton world has gone and memories of which are still painfully vivid.

No definite action has been taken here to bring about a wholesale reduction in acreage. Farmers who took advantage of the cotton pool formed by Wichita county banks to extend loans with warehouse bales as collateral were asked to pledge a reduction next season, but a comparatively small amount of cotton has been stored. Here as in many other points throughout North Texas the cotton has been turned about as rapidly as it was ginned.

The 1926 crop in Wichita county represented a total valuation of approximately $1,175,000. In 1925 the smaller crop of 21,000 bales brought $1,800,000 through higher prices.

National Leaders and Organizations Show Interest In C.-C. Convention

One of the figures of national importance in the business world of America will be in Wichita Falls next May for the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Such is the announcement of Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber, who has just returned from a 10-day business trip to Washington in the interests of the coming convention. The identity of the distinguished visitors, Mr. Harrison told the business council Friday noon, will not be revealed for the present, but he said he had assurance that Wichita Falls would be favored by the visit of the dignitary who ever he may be.

Optimistic views are held by Harrison concerning the convention. He declared that while in the east he had interested the New York Times, the National Geographic society, the United States Chamber of Commerce and other influential organizations in the convention and, especially, in the huge and colorful pageant "The Congress of Nations," which is to be a big feature of the sessions.

WANTS WOOD, NOT BOOKS

PALM BEACH, Fla.—The library at West Palm Beach wants wood, not books, right now. Directors of the library have requested donations of firewood instead of reading matter during a temporary spell of "red-flannel" weather. One director suggested in a meeting that "some of those old books be burned."

MODERN CAFE IN MARCHMAN

Good Food, Good Service Is Promise to Patrons

Among the enterprising tenants of the new Marchman building is the Marchman cafe.

New and modern in every respect is this new business for Wichita Falls. Modernly equipped with all the necessary facilities that go in an up-to-date restaurant. The interior is beautifully decorated, tile floors, with a capacity of serving 56 people. It is steam heated, well ventilated with two big exhaust fans, affording a constant flow of fresh air at all times.

Popular Prices.

The cafe will serve and cater to the public in general at popular prices. It will also carry a complete line of cigars, cigarettes and tobaccoes and for the convenience of their trade will keep on hand a stock of Martha Washington candies.

The personnel of the Marchman cafe includes Fred Ebner and E. Elliott.

Mr. Ebner is an old and experienced business man in Wichita Falls, having owned and operated the Tenth Street Market for the past nine years and previous to that time being with the Star Market on Tenth street for seven years. Mr. Ebner has been active in business and social circles in the city and has a host of friends that assure the success of his new venture.

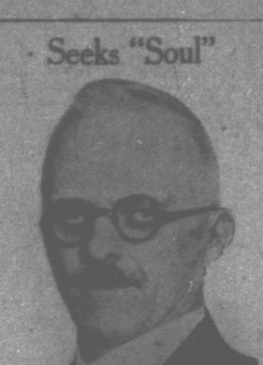

T. E. Elliott has been associated with several business concerns in the city for a number of years. He was city salesman for the Goodnet wholesale grocery company, also with the Armour Packing company of Fort Worth.

Opens Monday.

Nothing has been left undone in making this one of the most beautiful and modern cafes of this section of the state. It is ideally located, and every effort will be made by the proprietors to render the very best service possible to attain.

The formal opening of the cafe will be Monday evening at 7:30, in conjunction with the opening of the hotel and other business places of the building. The public in general is cordially invited to visit and inspect thoroughly the cafe and kitchen equipment.

Seeks "Soul"

Dr. Heber J. Curtis, astronomer of Allegheny, Pa., observatory, wants science to prove the existence of such a thing as a "soul." He considers that the soul must be shown to possess continuity just as time and energy continue forever.

SANITARY TRANSFERS NOW

DETROIT.—Detroit street railway conductors are forbidden from moistening their thumbs to distribute transfer slips. The order was issued by the company in the interest of public health.

THE FALL OF MAN!!

WASHINGTON.—W. H. Graham, business man, fell from his seventh floor office window and lived to tell it. He rose and walked a short distance, but could not speak from loss of breath. He appeared to be only slightly injured.

SOIL FERTILITY AIDED BY BEAN

Taylor Farmers Use Mung Bean to Diversify

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Jan. 22.—The farm lands in this section of the state have not reached the stage where the application of commercial fertilizer is necessary for plant production, but going on the idea that "a stitch in time, saves nine," Taylor county farmers are starting on an extensive program of soil improvement.

As a means of assuring the permanent fertility of the soil various legumes are being planted by the agriculturists in this section. Sweet clover has been found to be adapted to this section and it has been found that the clover not only enriches the soil, but also produces excellent hay crops. This plant will be extensively grown this year.

The Mung bean, recently imported from China will be used by many farmers. This legume has been found to be a hardy drouth resister and its nitrogen gathering properties are especially good, experiments conducted by the United States department of agriculture, have disclosed.

Soy beans, which have been used generally in other sections will also be grown here.

Taylor county farmers are starting now to build up the soils of their farms, so that when the land passes into the hands of their children, the fertility of the ground will not have been dissipated.

"STEWED" DUCK EASY TO GET

PORT ARTHUR. — "Stewed" duck is the latest epicurean delight here. Nimrods began by using whiskey-soaked grain in the feeding places of the birds. When the ducks have consumed a certain amount of the "doctored" feed they act in a strange and unseemly manner for ducks, hunters say, and they have no difficulty in bagging the intoxicated fowl.

Kill Kare Club.

Mrs. M. P. McCracken was the charming hostess for the members of the Kill Kare club and a number of special guests at her home on Tuesday afternoon. Several delightful hours were spent in playing progressive 84, after which refreshments of chicken salad, bake-rite cake, sandwiches, olives and coffee were served at the game tables. Special guests for the afternoon were Mrs. J. P. Hollis, Mrs. Bert Bloodworth, Mrs. Roy Graham, Mrs. Sam Casey and Mrs. Dave McMillan. Club members present were Mrs. W. N. Lunn, Mrs. Lucy Ransome, Mrs. Roy Roach, Mrs. Frank Alexander, Mrs. Will Thomas, Mrs. George Rice, Mrs. O. H. McAllister and Mrs. J. R. Wilson. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. W. N. Lunn Tuesday, February 1.

Choral Club Practice.

The Choral club has changed its practice night from Monday to Tuesday and will meet each week in the A. A. Cooper home at 7:30 p. m. on that evening. The members of the club are hard at work in preparation for the program which they will present some time during the latter part of February in the Palace theater. They will be assisted by W. E. Young, director of the choir of the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls, with Miss Annette Walsh at the piano. Admission will be charged to this affair, the proceeds to go to the Altruistic club to help defray expenses of the district federation meeting in April. After the program the Choral club plans to entertain its friends with a reception at the Country club.

Dance At Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hunt were hosts for a delightful informal dance at the Country club last Thursday evening. Havarstock's orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The guest list included Misses Leone McCracken, Bernice and Despva Groves, Monette Tilley, Katherine Manton, Frances Scott, Anne Farmer and Anna Lou-ella Morrison of Graham; Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cooper, Dr. and Mrs. Fern Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cowden, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Hamilton, Mrs. S. O. Callahan Jr., Mrs. Guy Collins, Mrs. Lydia Carpenter, Mrs. Henry Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Elby Wilburn, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Harell, Messrs. Fowler, Barlow Bryant, Paul Smith, Frank Thyng, Carl Griffin, Bruce Nesbit, Troy Dees Price, O. P. Herm and Tribble.

Baptist District Rally.

A district rally for the Baptist conquest campaign was held in Wichita Falls Tuesday, with Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas and other prominent men of the denomination on the program. Among those from Olney attending the meeting were the Rev. and Mrs. Miles B. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Anderson, Mrs. A. W. Wright, Mrs. Jeff Keeter, Mrs. D. L. Wolf, Mrs. Tom Guimarin, Mrs. Pate, Mrs. Wheat, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. S. J. Marcell and Mrs. Morrise Hannis.

Club Night Country Club.

Club night was observed at the Country club last Monday evening—the occasion proving a delightful one, though the attendance was unusually small. Several pleasant hours were spent in dancing, playing bridge and chatting before the inviting open fire, and at the close of the evening sandwiches and coffee were served. The club members present were Dr. and Mrs. George B. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Callahns Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Rice, Mrs. Lydia Carpenter, Miss Monette Tilley, Miss Sara Belle Shaw, Walter Shaw and Carl Griffin.

Celebrates Birthday.

In honor of her twelfth birthday Miss Mutt McCracken entertained with a dinner last Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. McCracken, covers being laid for twelve of her school friends. A delicious chicken dinner was served, after which the beautiful birthday cake with its twelve candles was cut amid much merriment. Those present to enjoy this delightful birthday celebration with Mutt were Misses Frankie Lee Spencer, Jeanette Harrell, Frances and Ruth Waggoner, Joyce and Gannell Pate, Margaret Sull, Evelyn Wells, Jack Drum, Paulita Blauncett and Verlyn Gadberry.

Ladies' Missionary Society.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Cumberland Presbyterian church met Monday afternoon at the usr 1 hour at the church. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Della Campbell. Study of our South American Mission work was begun. The first chapter of our study book "What to do With Latin America" was read and discussed by Mrs. Joe Campbell. A business meeting was then held. Two new members were added to the society.

Those present were: Mesdames Walter Partain, W. L. Meaders, Miles, W. M. Massie, Cleve Powell, Joe Campbell, John Davis, E. H. Sharp, Michels and Misses Willie Meaders, Della and Dixie Campbell.

COMEDY PLOTS SPLIT HONORS WITH DRAMA AND THRILLS

"KID BROTHER" FILM CLASSIC

Well Rounded Programs At Theaters For Week

By RUTH MORRISON

Sundays continue to roll around in spite of the amount of work they require, for Sundays do mean work. Everything from preparing for guests to writing a movie column!

Let me see—from the locks of the theater calendar and my reaction from the first showing of "The Kid Brother" at the Majestic last night, Harold Lloyd brings down the attraction of the week. "The Kid Brother" is a comedy classic. Harold gets by with mirthful murder and gloom in his fatal victim. He is the least of three brothers in this picture, but proves to be the greatest. The son of an officer of the law in a one-horse town to which comes a medicine show that brings trouble to some, incidentally, a lady love for Mr. Lloyd, the film is one huge laugh from start to finish.

* * *

What's in a name? Billie Dove proves that there is plenty. She is exactly the kind of person whose description fits in with a mental visualization of her name. Genile, demure and beautiful. In "The Marriage Clause" now at the Strand, she portrays a wonderful story of stage life.

* * *

At the Olympic—Jack Holt in Zane Grey's "Man of the Forest." Jack is at his best, of course, in this western production. The vaudeville act is "The Frivolity Girls."

* * *

If you missed "We're In the Navy Now" when it made its first appearance here a month ago, here is your second opportunity to see Wallace Beery in something equally funny as "Behind the Front." It is at the Mission for two days.

* * *

And now—just a word of gossip about what we thought of the showings during the past seven days. To me, "Stella Dallas" was the cream of the week. You will say it is sad. True, but when are not the sacrifices of a mother incentive for such an emotion? Belle Bennett played the part of the blindly adoring mother to perfection. Too blind to see that she was a millstone around the neck of her child, she did the only possible thing when the truth was placed before her. The picture was genuine and it is a long season that brings to us as fine a one as this.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton are stars in "We're In the Navy Now," at the Mission Tuesday and Wednesday.

Famous Comedy To Open Tuesday

Adolphe Menjou may remain Uncle Sam's suave sophisticate, Harold Lloyd should keep on as America's perennial playboy, Jack Holt can continue upholding the honor of the west, Bebe Daniels may well may on as Hollywood's joyful tomboy but—as for Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton—let them continue to be the screen's funniest comedy team, in films similar to 1926's fun fest, "Behind the Front."

Paramount officials realized the public demand for a sequel to the first "sunny side of the war" picture and cast about for another good story. Monty Brice, adaptor of the earlier production, handed in an original script, which upon being read caused everyone to fall into convulsions of laughter. It's name? "We're in the Navy Now."

And so—the picture which arrives at the Mission theater Tuesday for two days, traces the lives of a prize fighter and his manager from the day they innocently join the navy till their final return to the ring. If you don't believe it to be chuck full of shrieks, listen to one typical situation.

After having been vamped by a nurse aboard ship, the boys are asked to take her over the side in a rowboat. They do this and she suddenly vanishes into thin air. Lost in a fog, their boat is cut in two by an immense dreadnaught. Picked up by rescuers, they tell of their adventures with a whole fleet of submarines! Then—but why continue? "We're In the Navy Now" is really a life-saver in a sea of inferior productions.

Two Stars "Broke" Ten Years Ago

Broke in Los Angeles in 1916—popular screen stars in 1926—that's the record of Norman Kerry and Art Acord, both of whom are under long-term contract to play in Universal pictures. Acord's latest starring production, "The Scrapping Kid," will be seen here at the Gem theater today.

In 1916 these two friends drifted into Los Angeles from Salt Lake City. They were two gay young travelers, both unbelievably broke. They met a paint salesman, who told them he was going to visit one of the movie studios to get an order.

They went along, purely through curiosity. Then their entry into pictures followed the logical course. A director pressed them into service as extras. Both continued to work as "atmosphere."

Acord's likable personality, his manly good looks, and his ability at riding, fighting, shooting and roping, made him a western star.

Kerry was too handsome and magnetic for directors to overlook long. He was chosen for better and better parts, finally leading roles. Both recently signed new long-term contracts with Universal—and both are being starred in their own productions.

"The Scrapping Kid," is said to be one of Acord's most unusual productions. Clifford Smith directed it from a story by E. Richard Schayre, and the supporting cast includes Velma Connor, Edmund Cobb, Jess Deffenbach, Dudley C. Hendricks, Jimmy Bowdwin and others.

Childress Men Guests of Texas Cattleman

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Jan. 22.—Julius Smith of Fort Worth, cattleman and farmer, was host to several local men Thursday evening at a venison dinner at the Nave hotel. Following the dinner Judge A. J. Fires spoke on old times in Childress county and the Panhandle. He told of the organization of the county and the removal of Childress from a point four miles from here to its present site and the organization of the city. Those who attended the dinner were Judge Fires, Charles Barnes, Herman Smith, R. D. Wiley, Fred L. Hazlett, Gene Reynolds of Dalhart; L. D. Campbell of Kansas City, Mo., and the host.

EX-CROWELL MAN DIES.

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Jan. 22.—A loss of just been learned here that George Teague, for many years a resident of Crowell but for the last 20 years a resident of McAlister, Okla., had died at his home on Nov. 15.

Zane Grey's "Man of the Forest" shows today at the Olympic, with Jack Holt and Georgia Hale.

Harold Lloyd Lets Locks Grow Long In Tribute To His Art

O Art, what sacrifices are made in thy name!

Ask Harold Lloyd, he knows!

The popular funmaker's latest tribute to Art was to let his hair grow long. This open defiance of all tonsorial traditions did not spring, as many humorously supposed, from any desire on Harold's part to protest against the high price of haircuts, nor from a vainglorious ambition to rival the Seven Sutherland Sisters. Not at all and far from it. It was Art that demanded this sacrifice from the bespectacled comedian.

In his latest comedy achievement: "The Kid Brother," now at the Majestic, Lloyd portrays a young and bashful swain who suffers from an exaggerated inferiority complex. Of course, he has to look the part, hence the flowing locks. With his shaggy hair, overalls, gingham shirt and tattered hat he personifies a typical mountain lad.

Harold's rib-tickling experiences in Paramount's latest release arise as the result of a hero in the eyes of his family who consider him a weak-kneed, timid soul. Much of the fun and excitement revolves around an old-fashioned medicine such as was popular 20 years ago. Needless to say, Harold comes out with flying colors, but only after a variety of mirth-provoking complications that will keep audiences in a perpetual state of laughter.

As usual, Lloyd has surrounded himself with a supporting cast of ample merit and experience. Jobyna Ralston again lends her charm and beauty as the leading lady. Ralph Yearsley, Eddie Boland, Constantine Romanoff, Walter James, Olin Francis and Lee Willis are others who ably second the star.

ZANE GREY NOVEL HERE

Jack Holt Stars in "Man Of The Forest"

A fascinating love story spun against the background of the far west, with some of the most spectacular scenic effects ever recorded by a camera. That's "Man of the Forest," a Paramount picture from Zane Grey's novel with Jack Holt, Georgia Hale and El Brendel in leading roles, which opens at the Olympic Theater today.

This western narrative of adventurous romance has been treated by the director, John Waters, who also made "Born to the West" and "Forlorn River," in refreshing fashion. Of absorbing interest, the production is not dependent on freak horseman or marksmanship or an exaggerated theme of conflict, but instead, presents a plausible romance in which the wilderness background is only incidental.

Holt offers another splendid characterization in the title role. Georgia Hale, making her first appearance in an outdoor picture, enacts the heroine. A fine vein of comedy, developed by El Brendel, who scored heavily in "The Campus Flirt" is carried with deft directorial touch.

Warner Oland makes a thoroughly detestable villian as the man who schemes to defraud Miss Hale of her ranch and claim her love under false pretenses. Incidentally, the theme of his conflict with Holt is developed in splendid fashion.

Made in the high mountains of California, the scenery is inspiringly beautiful and would make the picture above the average even if the praiseworthy efforts of an excellent cast were absent. Tom Kennedy, Ivan Christie, Bruce Gordon and Vester Pegg are numbered among the hard riders.

Nordhausen, a quaint city of about 30,000 inhabitants, located in the Harz mountains of Germany, will soon celebrate its thousandth anniversary.

FRANCIS X KEEPS YOUTH

Star Shows Old Fire In Strand Picture

The age of miracles has not yet passed. Ample proof is given in "The Marriage Clause," at the Strand today and tomorrow with Francis X. Bushman, who appears not a day over 30. How he does it, we don't know, but to see him playing opposite sweet Billie Dove, is enough to knock all the other younger so-called leading men into a cocked hat.

"The Marriage Clause," is a brilliant story of stage life, that mysterious hunterland of the drama that is perhaps the least known of all vocations. Here we see the busy stage-hands, electricians, grips, prop men, technicians, performing the tasks that keep the play moving on well-oiled hinges.

Bushman is superb as the stage director. He portrays his role with a fire and feeling undimmed by the passing of the years. He revives one's faith in the old school and his finished performance speaks ill for the modern, poorly-equipped youth of the average picture.

Billie Dove is perfect as the actress. Her striking beauty and intelligence are most appealing and there is not a scene in which she doesn't ring true. It was indeed a wise choice that prompted Universal officials to play these two gifted players opposite each other.

Warner Oland as the theatrical manager is, well . . . Warner Oland! One can scarcely give him more praise. In everything in which we have seen him, we feel convinced that nobody else could have handled his roles better. Grace Darmond as the jealous actress makes one want to shake her and tell her to live and let live. It was a difficult part and she handles it with delicacy and finesse.

Henry LaGarde as the doctor, Caroline Snowden as Fanny, Oscar Smith, Andre Cheron, Robert Dudley, Charles Meakin and the balance of the wonderful cast prove that there is such a thing as the perfect figure. Frankly we intend to see it again.

WHIPPET ADDS NEW MODEL

Sport Roadster Promises Speed and Beauty

An important addition to the Whippet line of motor cars is the Willys-Overland presentation of a new sport roadster on this chassis. This body is shown for the first time at the 1927 automobile show in New York. Although the designers of the roadster adhere to the general streamline effect characteristic of the Whippet group, this car offers notable innovations in the four-cylinder field.

Racy Lines.

It presents a racy and smart appearance with its low hung body sweeping back and ending in a graceful curve at the rear in which is mounted a rumble seat with sufficient room to accommodate two persons. This feature, the makers declare, has an appealing effect to the younger sets as it permits of a chumminess between passengers in both front and rear. The roadster is equipped with an automatic windshield wiper. The backward slope of the one-piece windshield bears out the general contour lines.

Interior appointments are in keeping with the modern idea. The upholstering is of grey leather material. This blends with the body color scheme of Corson green below a red striping and Champlin green above.

In the front compartment ample roominess as provided with a seat 41 inches wide and 17 1-2 inches deep. The rear seat is 43 inches wide and 14 1-2 inches in depth.

The steering wheel is adjustable in its support to three positions while the driver is provided with driving room of 34 1-2 inches from clutch and brake pedals to the front seat.

Four-Wheel Brakes.

As on all Whippets, four-wheel brakes are standard equipment, this being one of the safety features of this group of cars stressed by the makers. The radiator shell is of nickel and the bullet headlamps also have nickeled shells supported by a strong tie-rod.

The collapsible top is of a rubberized, durable fabric, and is easily raised or lowered. With top raised or folded back compactly at the rear the roadster presents a snappy appearance.

The power plant is the standard Whippet motor which develops 31 horse power.

Road Saturation Far Away, He Says

"The highway saturation point, like the automobile sales saturation point is a myth. However, present day big city parking problems and street congestion are warnings to all growing urban centers to prepare for the traffic needs of 20 years hence," is the comment of W. R. Tracy, director of sales of the Oakland Motor company in answer to a question now current in many leading cities.

"There has been considerable discussion as to whether or not the capacity of the highways and streets of this country has reached a point where it seriously impairs the continued increasing sales and use of motor cars," he adds, "and I am convinced that a road-saturation point has not been reached and that it is hardly possible that such a condition will ever confront us. The American public will not surrender the use of such daily practical utility as the motor car because of adequate street or highway capacity. One has but to observe that all our large cities and our small ones too, are demonstrating that they do not intend to yield to highway congestion. Each year their accomplishments show progress along this line. They are widening their main arteries. They are cutting through new streets, making short cuts, paving lesser streets, building more highways and wider ones at a cost of millions of dollars. Some are already building one paved street above another in order to insure adequate transportation.

"The rural communities are hardly a step behind the cities. Many have built and many more are now building wide thoroughfares replacing the narrow country roads and lanes with latest type hard roads. Good roads are an economic necessity. In its final analysis it is purely a matter of good business. Even the smallest communities realize that business follows good roads and that real-estate values increase almost in direct proportion to good roads.

"One observes also a splendid balance of distribution and use of motor cars between cities and rural communities. About 55 per cent of all motor vehicles are in use in rural communities and towns of 10,000 population and under, while 55 per cent of the population is found in these districts. This would indicate that street congestion or highway capacity has had little or no effect upon the sale of motor cars.

"I do not mean to minimize the fact that every large city has a parking problem, that streets are often crowded and as a result, some people prefer not to drive under such conditions. This should be warning to prepare now for the future requirements."

"GHOST" PROTECTS CRIMINAL

BUCHAREST.—After assaulting his mother with a club, Janos Taucsen, storekeeper in Arad, small Rumanian city, fled to the cemetery and hid in the crypt of his father. Police were unable to find him for three days. When he did finally emerge from his hiding place in order to surrender because of hunger, they were so frightened at what they thought was a ghost that they ran away.

SCOTCH OR JOKESTER?

DES MOINES, Iowa.—If one gift can be more unique than another, the most unique gift of stationery that changed hands during the recent give and take period was one received by the sweetheart of a salesman who visits most of the towns in Iowa. The box contained 48 sheets of paper and 48 envelopes, no two of them from the same hotel.

HORSE FOR 15 CENTS

SANTA FE, N. M.—A horse may be bought here for 15 cents. The market has taken a bad slump. Fifteen cents was what was bid when Chief of Police Lopez tried to auction a stray picked up in the street. The horse was a cast-off racer and was 20 years old.

"The Kid Brother" with Harold Lloyd and Jobyna Ralston is at the Majestic through Wednesday.

NEW CAMERA GIVEN TEST

Figures On Screen to Appear In Three Dimensions

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Movie Editor

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—Most of Hollywood is accepting the tales of George K. Spoor's natural vision camera with an open but interested mind. So far there is no way of knowing whether the scenes photographed of "The American" are going to revolutionize the industry or if they will be a series of distorted scenes.

Only the huge camera specially built to give the figure on the screen substance as well as height and width, has been brought to California. The projection machine is in Chicago and the completed film cannot be seen elsewhere.

Film In Doubt

When Commodore J. Stuart Blackton finishes filming his picture this week he will gather up his celluloid and go east to witness the result.

Naturally he and his players, Bessie Love, Charles Ray and Ward Crane are consumed with an overwhelming curiosity. After the day's work is done there is no way of knowing whether Charlie is acting too much for the stereopticon or whether Bessie is too coy, but they do know exactly how "The American" is progressing as an ordinary motion picture. Commodore Blackton declared that he could not work in the dark and that he must see the result of his work each day.

So while the huge awkward-looking camera, necessary for the stereopticon scenes, is in action, an ordinary camera is photographing the same scenes simultaneously. In case the stereopticon picture fails to meet expectations there will be the every day garden variety of movie waiting in the offing.

Charlie Ray who is as eager as a child waiting for Christmas to see how the new-fangled film will look on the screen, told me of his impatience.

"I have made the long shots with added action and the close-ups with restraint, obeying an old rule that I have followed for years."

Our conversation started at the Fine Arts studios where "The American" is now progressing, and finished at the Beverly Hills home of Douglas MacLean at an evening party. Charlie is coming back with a rapidity that must delight his friends after his days of worry over production conditions. He goes from one picture to another and at the present moment is in such demand, free-lancing is more profitable than a contract with any of the producing companies.

Billy Dove plays in "The Marriage Clause" with Francis X. Bushman at the Strand today and Monday.

KNIGHT SEDAN WINS FAVOR

New "Foursome" Model Carried On Great Six Chassis

The Willys-Knight Foursome sedan, presented for the first time at the New York automobile show in January, is the latest addition to the line of Willys-Knight great sixes. This new model is totally new in design but adheres to the same quality features embraced in other models of the great six line.

The Forsome is mounted on the Great Six chassis which features a double drop frame and is equipped with Belflex spring shackles, front and rear, to provide quietness, spring flexibility, and eliminate vibration through absorption of road shocks.

Rich In Color.

The appointments of the Foursome are rich while the color combination of Magdalen blue below the belt and the black superstructure present a perfect blend.

The steel trunk at the rear adds a distinctive touch. Underneath is the fuel tank completely concealed from view, although the cap for filling is within easy reach.

Interior of the Foursome carries out the quality aims of the makers. All metal trimmings, lifts and handles are of gun metal silver, Adams pattern, while the woodwork and inside finish is of inlaid Circassian walnut.

The graceful body lines give an individuality and dash to the car in its entirety which carries out the best features of the finest body engineering coupled with the latest ideas in quality motor car construction.

Upholstering is of Chase mohair with straps at the window sides of the same material.

A feature presented in the Foursome body construction is the use of a soft steel panel top which, according to the engineers, eliminates the rumble so noticeable in many types of closed cars.

Comfort For Driver.

Two features are carried out, making for the comfort of the driver—one is the new type of heel rest at the base of the accelerator while the other is an adjustable steering column. The position of the steering wheel may be set to accommodate the personal comfort of the driver.

The Foursome is powered by the Knight six-cylinder sleeve-valve motor, capable of producing a speed in excess of 60 miles an hour and a reserve power to meet all demands. The new type manifold, Willys-Overland engineers declare ensures quicker warming up, gives greater power and adds to the fuel economy.

Willys-Overland officials declare that production of the Foursome will be kept at high tide to meet the demand for Foursome purchasers.

BAD NEWS FOR AIR COPS

CROYDON, England.—Merry England now has regular air taxi service. A London company, with hangars here, is sponsoring the service. The enterprise promises to carry "fares" anywhere in Europe, and Asia at 40 cents a mile, but will specialize on short flights to various points in the British Isles. A Birmingham man arranged for a 30,000-mile business trip to the border of Russia through Holland, Germany, Belgium and France.

Chrysler Introduces Wide Variety Of New Models In Auto Show

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — Foremost among the host of new cars and new features placed before the throngs which jammed the Grand Central Palace, as well as the special exhibits at the huge uptown hotels and the distributors' sales rooms during the Automobile Show week, once again Chrysler focused the major portion of attention upon itself.

Refinements in engineering and manufacturing which the motoring public has come to expect from Chrysler were almost eclipsed by the first time by this manufacturer.

One of the most sensational of these novelties was the Chrysler Imperial "80" sportif phaeton. Unusually striking in its color combination of black and Burmese blue, with striping of Italian cream, this model readily gained the hearty approbation of all who saw it. Upholstery is of dark blue, hand buffed Spanish leather. Six black wire wheels, with nickelled rims, with the two spare tires mounted in wells in the front fenders, are standard equipment. The top is of the disappearing skeleton type, so constructed that it can be folded back and booted in conventional manner, or stowed completely away in a compartment back of the front seat. The streamline effect of the body lines is emphasized when the top is hidden from sight.

Still another Imperial "80" body type that held the interest of the crowds was the newly announced Standard 5-passenger sedan at $2675, f. o. b. Detroit, the lowest priced enclosed model on this chassis. This car is done in Haig green with Italian cream striping.

On the "70" chassis two new body types were also presented — the new four-passenger coupe at $1595, and the cabriolet at $1745, both prices f. o. b. Detroit. Both of these are entirely new body styles in this price field for Chrysler and judging from the comment, are bound to prove as popular as did the Chrysler brougham and roadster types introduced in other years.

Probably no single body type attracted such attention among the lower priced sixes than did the new Chrysler "60" two-passenger coupe, with rumble seat, priced at $1245 f. o. b. Detroit, which also made its debut at this show. There are many who believe that this model should prove to be one of the most popular cars in the entire Chrysler line, because of its appeal to those of small family, as well as those who desire a second car for personal transportation. This car is in Wills green, with flamingo carmine striping, upholstered in mouse gray mohair, and leather rumble seats to match the body colors.

Still another surprise was the announcement and showing of the landau-sedan on the Chrysler "50" chassis, priced at $885, f. o. b. Detroit. This car is finished in Armory Green, with Haig green and gold bronze trim and striping, and upholstery of silver-gray mohair.

OOH! WHAT'S HER SECRET?

DES MOINES, Iowa.—When a young woman weighing 188 pounds was arrested last May on a liquor charge, she escaped prosecution by jumping bail. Now a dainty miss of 98 pounds is under arrest, identified by two policemen as their former prisoner. Judge Tom Sellers decided to let the matter of identification and accounting for the missing 88 pounds go over to the grand jury.

OLDS ISSUES SPORT COUPE

New Model Priced At $1085 In Lansing

Oldsmobile announces a new sport coupe as an addition to its line of body types. It was shown at the New York Automobile Show for the first time. D. S. Eddins, vice-president and general sales manager of Olds Motor Works, announces that shipments of this type will begin the latter part of February.

Roomy Interior.

The sport coupe has a roomy interior seat for two or three passengers and a second, or drop seat for two is formed by raising the rear deck. The upholstery is genuine leather in a tan shade. The drop seat compartment is fully upholstered and the seat cushion and back have same spring construction as does the interior seat.

The upper structure of the sport is of weatherproof tan fabric landau bars. The fabric is in pleasing harmony with the Czarina brown duco finish of the body. Maroon molding is used and the striping is in cream. Natural wood or disc wheels are optional.

The entire rear quarter of the top can be opened so that passengers in the drop seat can converse with those in the front seat with the same ease and freedom as in a sedan. When opened, the rear wall of the top buttons to the coupe roof.

Fisher Body.

The sport coupe body is designed and built by Fisher and comes fully equipped with front and rear bumpers, snubbers, motometer, rear view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, gasoline gauge, twin beam headlights controlled from the steering wheel and VV windshield. It also has the four-wheel brakes and 30 by 5.25 inch balloon tires which were recently added to Oldsmobiles.

The Oldsmobile six cylinder engine with dual air cleaners, oil filter, crankcase ventilation, two-way cooling, thermostatic water control and the many other improvements that have been incorporated in Oldsmobile during the past year is the power plant employed in this new body type.

The price of the new sport coupe was announced as $1035, f. o. b. Lansing.

BUILDS AN AIR YACHT

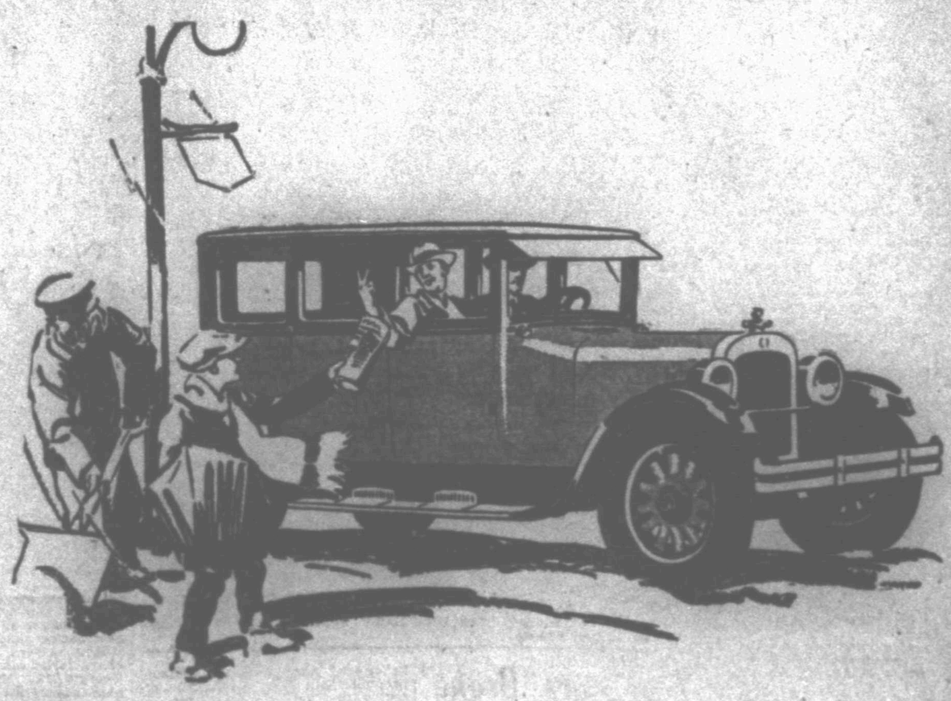

LONDON. — An airplane fitted up with luxurious "living rooms" is being built here for Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian millionaire. It's features include a salon with rich carpets and hangings, comfortable arm chairs which can be removed and beds substituted for night flying, and a completely equipped lavatory with wash basins and mirrors. There is a small foyer at the entrance to the "apartments" which will be heated in winter and cooled by a diffused air system in summer. Loewenstein will be able to have five guests with him on his air journeys.

CROSS OCEAN TO LISTEN

NEW YORK CITY.—The prize case of heroine-worship has been discovered here. In 1924, Galli-Curci gave five concerts in London. Ida Cook and her friend, Louise, heard the first concert and immediately bought tickets for the remaining four. When Galli-Curci left the ambition had been born to follow her to America and hear her sing again. For two years the girls saved every penny that could be spared and at last got enough to make the trip. They were in their seats very early when the diva sang the other night.

FORBIDDEN TO LOVERS

LONDON.—The council at Middlesborough, England, has adopted an ordinance declaring it a misdemeanor for couples to "spoon" in the city library.

NEW MARMON WINS PRESTIGE

"Little" Car of Luxurious But Compact Design

Powered with an eight-in-line engine, Marmon's new small fine car, the first of its kind ever offered to the American motoring public, has made its appearance in all parts of the country, following its pronounced success at the New York Automobile Show where it was introduced to the public.

This new type of quality automobile is a definite answer to the ever-growing demand for a large luxurious motor car in a compact form. That it will further increase the prestige of the Marmon name already is assured by the immense amount of interest that is evident in all parts of the country.

G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon company, in a statement issued in connection with the introduction of the new eight, is emphatic in declaring that "the Little Marmon is not in any sense a European type car, but on the contrary, is a companion to the large Marmon."

Line Is Complete.

Further, according to Mr. Williams, the new Marmon Straight Eight is backed by seven years of planning of which several years have been devoted to actual experimental work. Its introduction completely rounds out the full line of fine motor cars built in Marmon factories and sold under the Marmon name plate at prices ranging upwards from $1795.

Included among the features that definitely stamp the Little Marmon as a truly fine small car are:

More power per cubic inch of piston displacement than any other production engine.

Seventy honest miles an hour, insuring wide range of operation and extreme flexibility.

Hypoid bevel rear axle drive gears.

Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers engineered into frame.

Full pressure lubrication to all vital moving parts.

Auxiliary oiling of pistons and cylinder walls when starter is engaged, an exclusive Marmon feature.

Rubber shackles insulating frame.

Wheel base of 116 inches and extremely low center of gravity.

Self-energizing mechanical four-wheel brakes of Bendix type.

Pedco system of theft prevention.

Six Body Styles Introduced.

The initial offering of the Little Marmon consists of six body types which are quoted at prices ranging from $1795 to $1995 f. o. b. Indianapolis. In addition to these, the company is planning to introduce a complete line of custom-built bodies on the small chassis during the next few months.

TIRES CHEAP

Cost In Comparison With Other Commodities Lowest Ever.

"If beefsteak cost 10 cents a pound, eggs a dime a dozen and butter eight or ten cents, they would be on a footing with tire prices now, based on the cost of living," declares Wm. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company. "Tires are now cheaper in dollars and cents than they have ever been—cheaper even than they were on a 10-cent crude rubber basis.

"Everything else that enters as a necessity or a luxury into American life seems to be going up and up in price. There are improvements, of course, in various commodities, on which their makers and sellers try to justify higher prices.

"But nothing has been improved so many hundred per cent in the last few years as the automobile tire. Yet its price to the user has come steadily down and down, all the time—with a few fluctuations on the way, of course. The tire man, that is the quality tire man, may well feel proud of his product and his business.

"The tire, more than any other part of the automobile, has made the great growth of motor transportation possible. The tires of a dozen years ago, made and priced as they were then, were absolutely unequal to the task presented by the growing industry and popular demand for automobiles. Tire mileage was too high priced a luxury for any save the rich.

"Reliable tires were a dream. The man who made a trip 'thar and back' without a blowout or several punctures considered himself very fortunate. Big mileage was a vision. Tire manufacturers' guarantees, then, ranged between 3500 and 5000 miles. Now there is no mileage guarantees, but the tire that does not deliver four times the miles that were advertised before the war is a disappointment indeed."

WELL, GOAT'S THE GOAT!

COLUMBIA, S. C.—"Mutton, mutton, 'who's got the mutton?" Such was, in effect, the plaint of a chamber of commerce committee which 10 years ago was arranging a great barbecue in Columbia for national guardsmen returning from Mexican border patrol duty. Sheep were not to be had in anything like the quantities required. Nevertheless the barbecue was provided, and the newspapers reported the homing guardsmen gleefully pleased with the rich and tender roast mutton so generously served them. The truth, bared after these years is that the committee learned that John W. Condr had a hundred or so of goats and brought from the herd enough for the feast.

Queen Marie Accepts American Car

The last activity of the Queen of Rumania before boarding the Berengaria for her return home, was to attend an informal reception in the grand ball room of the Hotel Astor, New York, arranged by Willys-Knight, Inc., and the American Armor corporation for the purpose of presenting her a Willys-Knight great six town car of bullet-proof construction. This car which has been in the course of preparation for the past six months, was built to the exact requirements of Europe's most beautiful queen, expressed before her American trip was contemplated. It is the second Willys-Knight to be owned by the royal family.

Second Willys-Knight.

Although wearied to exhaustion by the social excitement of her American trip and the rush of her last day here, the queen came directly to the Astor from her farewell dinner at the home of Vincent Astor and was enormously interested in the beautiful enclosed model which half a dozen of the leading automobile decorators and custom body builders of the United States had prepared for her. She was even more interested in the demonstrations of its bullet-resisting qualities.

With a Thompson machine gun, Charles B. Toole, president of the American Armor corporation, fired at the right hand door. The metal was dented but the bullets were flattened and dropped harmlessly to the ball room floor. The queen's own chauffeur, Alvah Jacobsen, was also put through a bullet-resisting test. He was made to take off his coat in order to don an eight-ounce bullet-proof vest and was then fired upon at close range with a 45 caliber automatic pistol. He was not harmed in any way and one of the bullets was dug out of the chauffeur's coat and presented to the queen as a souvenir.

Invisibly Armored.

In addition to being the first armored town car ever built, the queen's new personal Willys-Knight great six is also the first invisibly armored passenger car in the world. It is lined completely, including the roof, with Bovite metal which, on account of its light weight, has added only a little over 200 pounds to the weight of the car as regularly supplied. Over the metal and completely hidden is the most exquisite imported upholstering in two appealing shades of green. All of the vanity cases, door handles, lights and other fittings, are in green baked enamel to match the upholstering and carpets. A special fleece-lined robe with the great seal of Rumania embroidered in full colors, has been made for the car under the supervision of H. T. Armstrong, America's leading automobile decoration expert who is responsible for the exterior and interior decoration of the queen's armored Willys-Knight.

The official presentation was made with a very graceful speech by Sir William Letts, managing director of the Willys-Overland-Crossley interests in Europe and past president of the British Society of Motor Traders and Manufacturers. Sir William arrived at the Queen's party just in time, for the annual advertising dinner of the Sphinx club where he had been one of the chief speakers.

Steel Frames Fall Five Stories On Chevrolet

The strength and sturdiness built into the Chevrolet closed car bodies was strikingly proved recently when 5000 pounds of steel frames fell five floors from the roof of the Great Western freight depot in Minneapolis, Minn., to the top of a Chevrolet sedan. The body of the car was uninjured.

The radiator, however, was smashed in one place and the spring of the car broken, while the body was not even scratched. The steel frames, 50 feet long, 25 feet wide and ten feet in height, were being hoisted to the top of the building by a derrick when a strong blast of wind tipped the mass of steel downward with several tons of bricks.

Large crowds assembled at the scene of the accident were strongly impressed with the strength of the Chevrolet body. Had any one been in the car at the time, they would have escaped uninjured, experts said. Another car standing a few feet away was brushed by one of the steal girders and completely demolished, its whole side being torn off.

Young Quotes Figures To Show Trend of Auto Field To Eights

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—To substantiate further his recent expression regarding the tremendous inroads that the eight cylinder principle is making among motor cars in the class of $1500 and up, Dubois Young, president of the Hupp Motor Car corporation, points to the increased number of eight cylinder cars exhibited at the 1927 automobile shows. He also quotes figures to show how the number of four cylinder cars is steadily decreasing before the advance of the light six, and that the majority of six cylinder manufacturers are concentrating on the price field below $1500.

"The three groups to which I pointed some time ago are sharply outlined in a fairly close census of the 1927 models. It is seen that the four is supreme up to $900, the six from that point to $1500, and that the eight practically dominates everything above the $1500 level," says Mr. Young.

"The New York automobile show makes it plain that only six four-cylinder cars, all priced below $900, remain on the market; in the six-cylinder class, 20 are priced below $1500, and 16 above that market; 19 companies exhibit eight-cylinder cars; of this number 15 are straight eights, the type first introduced in the medium priced field by the Hupmobile. It is significant to note that with only two exceptions, the 16 companies now showing sixes above $1500 all have other models either in the lower price field or among the eights.

"In the New York show—always the place for revealing the new things of the year—five manufacturers of sixes entered the straight eight field simultaneously. Probably nothing would induce them to do so but this conclusion that the day of the high priced sixes is definitely past," Mr. Young continues. "The superiority of the straight eight principle over the six, or any other principle, will continue to lower the sixes in price just as the superiority of the six principle over the four, in operating smoothness, has compelled the four to abandon the entire field above $900."

However you judge closed car value—in exterior refinements—or in the more important attributes of fine performance and long life, you cannot close your eyes to the advantages of the new Hupmobile Six Sedan.

Here you will find beauty and luxury in generous measure. The new metal ball-back body gives a graceful silhouette that lifts this car above the commonplace. Upholstery is of genuine mohair, harmonizing in color with the finish of the body. Hardware is of the highest quality and the complete equipment leaves nothing to be desired.

Built to regular Hupmobile standards, for years recognized as better than average, this Sedan would rank as one of the foremost quality cars in America.

But Hupmobile goes 10% beyond—Hupmobile makes its quality of materials and workmanship 10 per cent finer than required.

While thus adding 10% to manufacturing costs, Hupmobile adds not one cent to its price. As a result, the Hupmobile Six is recognized far and wide as offering more quality, per dollar of purchase price, than any other six on the market.

See this improved Sedan, drive it and realize its new ease of steering and control—and you'll have no other six at any price. We will gladly arrange a demonstration.

Chillicothe--A "Whistling Post" That Became A City

Hardeman County Town Is Capital Of Rich Agricultural Section

Cotton, Grain, Produce Bring Fat Returns To Chillicothe Residents

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT

CHILLICOTHE, Jan. 22.—The almanacs dispose of Chillicothe with an unadorned announcement that it is in the extreme southeastern portion of Hardeman county on the junction of two important West Texas railroads and that it has a population of close to 2000.

True enough, but that is just one corner of the picture the almanac might have drawn had it gone into more detail on the real Chillicothe of today. The whole story of this progressive little West Texas city—one of the true civic pioneers of all West Texas—is a story of stable agriculture, aggressive experimentation and flourishing retail business.

The name of Chillicothe appears on the maps of Texas back in the 70's. That was long before Vernon, Childress and Wichita Falls had attained sufficient importance to merit inclusion in the geographies. The Hardeman county of today had not been organized at that early date although it was created in 1858 from Clay county. Formal organization was made in 1894.

However, prior to the organization of the county, Chillicothe was a center of considerable importance to the cattle barons whose vast herds roamed the unfenced lower plains of the Panhandle. It endured as a typical frontier town until the coming of the railroad and the development of agriculture as a factor of greater scope than cattle raising. With the transition of the West Texas plains, Chillicothe itself transformed. Its business enterprises which in the early days catered to the needs of the cowpuncher and plainsman, modified themselves and adopted their sevices to the more modern need of the farmers, the business man and the housewife. The livery stable gave way to the garage and the feed store grew into a filling station. Cattle pens were largely replaced by cotton yards. Modern school buildings and up-to-date church edifices replaced the tiny log structures that served for both education and religion. Paved streets spread out where once were bottomless quagmires or foot-deep beds of dust. Improved highways radiated in all directions. Gas and electricity came as substitutes for cord wood and coal oil. Finer homes were built. In short Chillicothe's chrysalis was complete.

In its modern garb it has all the earmarks of an alert community supporting four churches, two graded schools, one high school and a city hall. Four cotton gins handle the cotton production of the tributary farming area; a cotton oil mill turns out a vast amount of cotton oil products; two grain elevators serve the extensive wheat production territory and the needs of the entire community are cared for from a transportation angle by the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway and the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient. Over the Denver, Chillicothe has main line access southeast through Wichita Falls and Fort Worth to Dallas. Northwest the same line gives service through Amarillo and New Mexico to Colorado points. Northward, the Orient links with Kansas City and to the south it touches the Texas border and Old Mexico.

One of the important factors in Chillicothe's agricultural life is the state experimental farm five miles southwest of the city. In point of years, this is one of the oldest in all Texas, having been established some 15 years ago under the supervision of Texas A. & M. college. It was originally located north of town, but about eight years ago a more favorable site was made available on the present location and it was transferred to this point.

Under the direction of Superintendent J. R. Quinby extensive experimental work has been done particularly with forage crops. The development of Sudan grass as an item of agricultural value is credited to the Chillicothe station.

Two banks, the Quanah Light and Ice Company, Webb Telephone Company and a city water works comprise the utilities of the community.

A citizenry that progresses as West Texas progresses plus the physical and material equipment of a modern city, is making of Chillicothe one of the outstanding smaller communities of the state.

Chillicothe operates under the aldermanic system of municipal government. Its water system is municipally owned with more than 300 connections. Other facts about Chilicothe are as follows:

Source of municipal water supply, wells; average daily consumption, 60,000 gallons; maximum supply available, 120,000 gallons daily. Gas, natural; franchise granted. Power and light: service connections, 300; furnished by high line to city. Sewerage system municipally owned. Pavement: hard surface, one-fifth mile. City assessed valuation, $1,294,364: city tax (exc. schools), $1.50; school tax $1; total rate, $2.50. Schools: one high and two grade, with total enrollment of 600.

Chillicothe is at the intersection of the Fort Worth & Denver City and Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroads and is served by the main line highway leading from Texas to Colorado. It has cottonseed oil mill, five cotton gins, mattress factory and other industries. There are several wholesale houses and distribution branches. It is surrounded by a good farm country, producing cotton, wheat, corn, oats and grain sorghums. There are two banks, one weekly newspaper and about 100 general business establishments. Altitude 1400 feet.

Chillicothe derived its name from Ed Jones founder of the town, who came to Texas from Chillicothe Missouri.

Hardeman county, in which Chillicothe is located, has an area of 487,140 acres of which 75.2 per cent or 366,150 acres are in farms. Over 166,237 acres are improved farm lands.

The county is healthy because of its high altitude which in places reaches 1560 feet.

Cotton, wheat, forage and feed crops are grown in abundance and livestock and dairying is extensively followed. Immense deposits of gypsum and gypsite are found here encouraging very large industries using these materials.

Quanah, the county seat, is a railroad center and splendid transportation facilities exist throughout the county. Highways are in splendid shape also. The Red river and the Pease river water this county providing water for agricultural and stock raising uses.

Lake Pauline covering 1500 acres is one of the beauties of this county.

The average value of farms, buildings and improvements in Hardeman county is $15,773 of which $13,341 is represented in buildings and land. Land values average $34.95 per acre.

NEW MARMON WINS PRESTIGE

"Little" Car of Luxurious But Compact Design

Powered with an eight-in-line engine, Marmon's new small fine car, the first of its kind ever offered to the American motoring public, has made its appearance in all parts of the country, following its pronounced success at the New York Automobile Show where it was introduced to the public.

This new type of quality automobile is a definite answer to the ever-growing demand for a large luxurious motor car in a compact form. That it will further increase the prestige of the Marmon name already is assured by the immense amount of interest that is evident in all parts of the country.

G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon company, in a statement issued in connection with the introduction of the new eight, is emphatic in declaring that "the Little Marmon is not in any sense a European type car, but on the contrary, is a companion to the large Marmon."

Line Is Complete.

Further, according to Mr. Williams, the new Marmon Straight Eight is backed by seven years of planning of which several years have been devoted to actual experimental work. Its introduction completely rounds out the full line of fine motor cars built in Marmon factories and sold under the Marmon name plate at prices ranging upwards from $1595.

Included among the features that definitely stamp the Little Marmon as a truly fine small car are:

Eight cylinders in line with a S. A. E. horsepower rating of 24.3 and an actual brake horsepower of 65 at 3300 revolutions per minute.

More power per cubic inch of piston displacement than any other production engine.

Seventy honest miles an hour, insuring wide range of operation and extreme flexibility.

Distinctive body styles of ultra-smart appearance.

Hypoid bevel rear axle drive gears.

Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers engineered into frame.

Full pressure lubrication to all vital moving parts.

Auxiliary oiling of pistons and cylinder walls when starter is engaged, an exclusive Marmon feature.

Intake manifold of down-draught type, which insures an even and dependable distribution of fuel by conveying gasoline mixture to a point above and equidistant from each cylinder.

Rubber shackles insulating frame.

Wheel base of 116 inches and extremely low center of gravity.

Self-energizing mechanical four-wheel brakes of Bendix type.

Fedco system of theft prevention.

Six Body Styles Introduced.

The initial offering of the Little Marmon consists of six body types which are quoted at prices ranging from $1795 to $1925 f. o. b. Indianapolis. In addition to these, the company is planning to introduce a complete line of custom-built bodies on the small chassis during the next few months.

TIRES CHEAP

Cost In Comparison With Other Commodities Lowest Ever.

"If beefsteak cost 10 cents a pound, eggs a dime a dozen and butter eight or ten cents, they would be on a footing with tire prices now, based on the cost of living," declares Wm. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company. "Tires are now cheaper in dollars and cents than they have ever been—cheaper even than they were on a 10-cent crude rubber basis.

"Everything else that enters as a necessity or a luxury into American life seems to be going up and up in price. There are improvements, of course, in various commodities, on which their makers and sellers try to justify higher prices.

"But nothing has been improved so many hundred per cent in the last few years as the automobile tire. Yet its price to the user has come steadily down and down, all the time—with a few fluctuations on the way, of course. The tire man, that is the quality tire man, may well feel proud of his product and his business.

"The tire, more than any other part of the automobile, has made the great growth of motor transportation possible. The tires of a dozen years ago, made and priced as they were then, were absolutely unequal to the task presented by the growing industry and popular demand for automobiles. Tire mileage was too high priced a luxury for any save the rich.

"Reliable tires were a dream. The man who made a trip 'ther and back' without a blowout or several punctures considered himself very fortunate. Big mileage was a vision. Tire manufacturers' guarantees, then, ranged between 3500 and 5000 miles. Now there is no mileage guarantee, but the tire that does not deliver four times the miles that were advertised before the war is a disappointment indeed."

WELL, GOAT'S THE GOAT!

COLUMBIA, S. C.—"Mutton, mutton, 'who's got the mutton?" such was, in effect, the plaint of a chamber of commerce committee which 10 years ago was arranging a great barbecue in Columbia for national guardsmen returning from Mexican border patrol duty. Sheep were not to be had in anything like the quantities required. Nevertheless the barbecue was provided, and the newspapers reported the homing guardsmen specially pleased with the rich and tender roast mutton so generously served them. The truth, bared after these years is that the committee learned that John W. Condr had a hundred or so of goats and brought from the herd enough for the feast.

Queen Marie Accepts American Car

The last activity of the Queen of Rumania before boarding the Berengaria for her return home, was to attend an informal reception in the grand ball room of the Hotel Astor, New York, arranged by Willys-Knight, Inc., and the American Armor corporation for the purpose of presenting her a Willys-Knight great six town car of bullet-proof construction. That was long before Vernon, Childress and Wichita Falls had attained sufficient importance to merit inclusion in the geographies. The Hardeman county of today had not been organized at that early date although it was created in 1858 from Clay county. Formal organization was made in 1894.

However, prior to the organization of the county, Chillicothe was a center of considerable importance to the cattle barons whose vast herds roamed the unfenced lower plains of the Panhandle. It endured as a typical frontier town until the coming of the railroad and the development of agriculture as a factor of greater scope than cattle raising. With the transition of the West Texas plains, Chillicothe itself transformed. Its business enterprises which in the early days catered to the needs of the cowpuncher and plainsman, modified themselves and adopted their sevices to the more modern need of the farmers, the business man and the housewife. The livery stable gave way to the garage and the feed store grew into a filling station. Cattle pens were largely replaced by cotton yards. Modern school buildings and up-to-date church edifices replaced the tiny log structures that served for both education and religion. Paved streets spread out where once were bottomless quagmires or foot-deep beds of dust. Improved highways radiated in all directions. Gas and electricity came as substitutes for cord wood and coal oil. Finer homes were built. In short Chillicothe's chrysalis was complete.

In its modern garb it has all the earmarks of an alert community supporting four churches, two graded schools, one high school and a city hall. Four cotton gins handle the cotton production of the tributary farming area; a cotton oil mill turns out a vast amount of cotton oil products; two grain elevators serve the extensive wheat production territory and the needs of the entire community are cared for from a transportation angle by the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway and the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient. Over the Denver, Chillicothe has main line access southeast through Wichita Falls and Fort Worth to Dallas. Northwest the same line gives service through Amarillo and New Mexico to Colorado points. Northward, the Orient links with Kansas City and to the south it touches the Texas border and Old Mexico.

One of the important factors in Chillicothe's agricultural life is the state experimental farm five miles southwest of the city. In point of years, this is one of the oldest in all Texas, having been established some 15 years ago under the supervision of Texas A. & M. college. It was originally located north of town, but about eight years ago a more favorable site was made available on the present location and it was transferred to this point.

Under the direction of Superintendent J. R. Quinby extensive experimental work has been done particularly with forage crops. The development of Sudan grass as an item of agricultural value is credited to the Chillicothe station.

Two banks, the Quanah Light and Ice Company, Webb Telephone Company and a city water works comprise the utilities of the community.

A citizenry that progresses as West Texas progresses plus the physical and material equipment of a modern city, is making of Chillicothe one of the outstanding smaller communities of the state.

Chillicothe operates under the aldermanic system of municipal government. Its water system is municipally owned with more than 300 connections. Other facts about Chillicothe are as follows:

Source of municipal water supply, wells; average daily consumption, 60,000 gallons; maximum supply available, 120,000 gallons daily. Gas, natural; franchise granted. Power and light: service connections, 300; furnished by high line to city. Sewerage system municipally owned. Pavement: hard surface, one-fifth mile. City assessed valuation, $1,294,364: city tax (exc. schools), $1.50; school tax $1; total rate, $2.50. Schools: one high and two grade, with total enrollment of 600.

Chillicothe is at the intersection of the Fort Worth & Denver City and Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroads and is served by the main line highway leading from Texas to Colorado. It has cottonseed oil mill, five cotton gins, mattress factory and other industries. There are several wholesale houses and distribution branches. It is surrounded by a good farm country, producing cotton, wheat, corn, oats and grain sorghums. There are two banks, one weekly newspaper and about 100 general business establishments. Altitude 1400 feet.

Chillicothe derived its name from Ed Jones founder of the town, who came to Texas from Chillicothe Missouri.

Hardeman county, in which Chillicothe is located, has an area of 487,140 acres of which 75.2 per cent or 366,150 acres are in farms. Over 166,237 acres are improved farm lands.

The county is healthy because of its high altitude which in places reaches 1560 feet.

Cotton, wheat, forage and feed crops are grown in abundance and livestock and dairying is extensively followed. Immense deposits of gypsum and gypsite are found here encouraging very large industries using these materials.

Quanah, the county seat, is a railroad center and splendid transportation facilities exist throughout the county. Highways are in splendid shape also. The Red river and the Pease river water this county providing water for agricultural and stock raising uses.

Lake Pauline covering 1500 acres is one of the beauties of this county.

The average value of farms, buildings and improvements in Hardeman county is $15,773 of which $13,341 is represented in buildings and land. Land values average $34.95 per acre.

KNOW WEST TEXAS

For more than three months The Record News has published in its Sunday magazine, stories and pictures about West Texas towns. These have been prepared by staff writers with considerable care and expense.

Future installments of the Sunday magazine section will carry stories about and pictures of other West Texas towns, for which material is now being assembled by staff writers.

Latest Facts from Science, Mechanics and Invention

Disease Is Now Easily Diagnosed by the Voice

WHEN you go to see your doctor do you ever wonder why he asks you to say "ah," or "ninety-nine" or something else equally as meaningless to you?

The doctor is not interested merely in hearing the sound of your voice. His test is to determine the clearness or otherwise of such sounds, which are a valuable indication to him of the state of your health. For example, an affected lung conveys only a dull resonance. Therefore, to set up the required vibration some definate enunciation of a word is needed, and "ninety-nine," which gives three clear-cut enunciations together, setting up a really resounding vibration, is found to be peculiarly suitable.

In diagnosing disease today, however, the physician has more than the sound of the voice to guide him. He is no longer dependent on his own powers of observation in making a diagnosis, but can call in specialized help such as the pathologist, the bacteriologist and the radiographer, whose sciences have reached a marvelous degree of accuracy. He can even do more than this, especially in the matter of diagnosing by the voice, for he has for his use charts on which the speech of his patient actually has been recorded.

The Device for Recording Vibrations of Speech. As the Patient Begins to Speak the Drum in Motion and a Voice Record, or "Melody Plot," Is Traced on Smoked Paper.

Medical scientists know that critical observations of the components of speech are helpful in early diagnosis, as this faculty of speech is undoubtedly one of the most recently evolved combinations of nerve and muscle. For this purpose sensitive apparatus has been devised for recording the speech of patients, especially those to be treated for some nervous disorders.

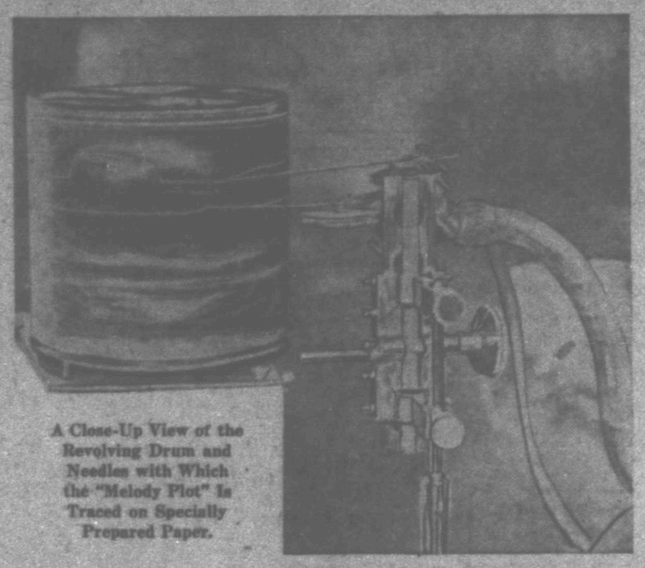

The speech record is taken by the patient speaking into a flexible mouthpiece, which is connected by a wide-bore tube to a loose diaphragm linked to a light lever, so that any movement of the diaphragm is magnified. The oscillations thus obtained trace a line on the surface of smoked paper around a revolving drum; the paper is removed and varnished, and the tracing can then be studied and subjected to micrpecopic examination and measurement. The nature of the diaphragm is such that it fulfills a dual purpose: (1) of recording the actual speech vibrations—"intonations"; (2) by not being taut, it allows the explosive character of aspirates and so forth to be indicated clearly on the tracing.

The mechanism of speech is thus explained: When the larnyx or voice-box is set in motion the sound produced passes upward through the mouth, and is converted by the lips and tongue into speech. At the same time, however, it also passes downwards, through the lungs to the wall of the chest, though here it becomes, not speech, but simply a sort of muffled and vibrating echo, its intensity and clearness largely depending upon the condition of the lungs as a carrying medium. It is the recorded zig-zag lines of the speech vibrations that afford the physician an indication of the condition of his patient's health.

The simplest speech sounds require accurate coordination of the muscles of the larynx, mouth and respiratory systems.

Such sentences as "Good-morning," and "I am not feeling very well today," are used to convey the mood of the patient. The smoked paper tracings for this kind of investigation have to be subjected to special scrutiny, for in this group the physician is not dealing with any defect in articulation, but in changes of mood, and these are expressed in the voice by changes of intention, that is, in "vibration rate." The length of each "wave" is measured. The results are plotted on graph naper and the resultant curve is termed the "melody plot."

These melody plots, physicians say, are particularly valuable in cases of hysteria, which are marked by excessive flexibility of the voice. Although the epileptic and the hysterical "fit" may be almost indistinguishable, the "melody plots" are very different, and should present no difficulty in recognition. This flexibility of the voice may be perhaps the expression of some peculiarity of epileptic character, as recent studies of mental make-up have shown physicians that the patient is unable to make adaptions to his life generally, and the "fit" may then be the flight from an environment which would otherwise be intolerable.

A Close-Up View of the Revolving Drum and Needles with Which the "Melody Plot" Is Traced on Specially Prepared Paper.

Another speech test consists of having the patient repeat at regular intervals the word "Pa." A study of the resulting melody plot will indicate any defect, it is claimed. The repeated reproduction of the same sound, and any lack of coordination in this reproduction is easily noticed on the tracing. Another factor now brought to light is the difficulty in the accurate timing of the interval between the sounds. The normal person does not seem capable of reducing this error to much less than ten per cent. When this error is increased the condition of general paralysis is strongly indicated.

This speech-recording device is also used in a study of alcoholism, the effects of which are revealed in the recorded vibrations of the voice. Alcohol, physicians explain, depresses or inhibits the action of the nerve cells. This at first sight may appear contrary to expectations, but further investigation shows what cells it first affects. They are the cells which have been evolved most recently in the history of the race, and are subserving the highest psychic or mental function. So at first, with a little alcohol, the only effect noticed is one of apparent excitation, which state is really one where the highest psychic control has been removed, and the less highly differentiated nerve centres are thus free to act; and so on until, should enough alcohol be taken, the drinker may die as a result of such narcotizing of nerve cells that even those centres responsible for life itself may be thrown out of action.

Blood Tests for Success in Mixed Marriages

BLOOD tests to determine whether marriage between a man and a woman would be a "psychological error" or a blessing, are now possible, according to Dr. Pierre Berillon, a noted French experimental surgeon.

Dr. Berillon is quoted in the Pathfinder as saying that "the crossing of different races is a grave mistake. French women should not marry German, Russian, Polish or Flemish men, according to his theory. Likewise French men shouldn't marry Latin brides. Neither should French intermarry with the Americans and the English, because they are racially antagonistic.

"Ideal marriages result from marriages between persons representing races who are friendly. Not friendly politically, but in the sense that they do not clash physically. It is just as dangerous for two antagonistic white races to intermarry as it is for races of different colors. People should choose their mates, or have them chosen for them, with as great scientific care as the blooded animals of the farmyard are mated. Complete fusion of the atoms of the couple is necessary to real happiness in the matrimonial state. Science, by studying blood reaction, can tell whether such fusion is possible.

"From my studies I have come to the conclusion that, in our European system of life, the crossing of antagonistic races, even though of the same color of skin, gives a product of evident inferiority, from the point of view of health, reaction of diseases and morals. The half-breeds, the issue of these different races, are recognizable by their physical defects and inferiorities. When you meet a dwarf, a giant or an extremely fat person, you can be sure that you are in the presence of a half-breed of the white race."

Many of the children who are the offspring of parents of antagonistic races, according to the French surgeon, are physically deformed. On this theory he also explains much of the crime now so prevalent in the United States. Intermarriage between people of the Nordic and Latin races, he declares, is responsible. "On the other hand, intermarriage of Nordic races produces splendid specimens of manhood and the is best seen in America."

The "ONION and GARLIC" Holiday

A View of a Swiss Market Stand Well Stocked with Onions and Garlic to Be Used in Celebration of the Holiday for These Two Vegetables.

MANY strange holidays are celebrated throughout the world, but among the oddest of all is the "onion and garlic day" of the Swiss. In certain parts of Switzerland the natives think a whole lot of garlic and onions, and on November 18th of each year it is customary for patriotic citizens to go to the public markets and lay in a supply of these two vegetables sufficient to last through Winter.

This custom dates back, perhaps, to the days of Israel in Egypt when Moses, leading his people through the wilderness, their supply of this food ran short and they threatened to return to Egypt.

Throughout the Orient to this day the people of different nationalities and religions lay in a large supply of onions and garlic when the Winter comes.

HARD or SOFT BEDS

SHOULD brain-workers sleep on soft or hard beds? Medical and psychological authorities have been conducting a series of experiments to determine the relative value of soft beds to those who "work with their heads."

As a test to determine this students who had slept on hard and soft mattresses were given sums in multiplication to be worked out in half an hour. Their exhalations in terms of calories were measured both before and after the tests. It was found that a person burns up eleven calories after eight hours' sleep on a hard bed and the same number after six hours on a soft bed.

The tests also revealed that a person who has slept only six hours on either a hard or a soft bed has at the time of waking a faster mental reaction than one who has slept eight hours under similar conditions.

Will RUBBER Outwear METAL?

RUBBER, in many instances at least, is proving to be more durable than metal. A contributor to Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering, in proof of this assertion, says that steel skid chains on automobiles traveling over brick or concrete pavement have but a short life, while the tires, exposed to the same service, will show no signs of wear. Another example is found in the rubber conveyor belt. Such belts have a wearing surface made up of rubber one-eighth to one-quarter inch in thickness. Yet such a belt will carry millions of tons of abrasive materials, such as coke, before failure of this thin cover occurs.

Rubber-lined shaft-bearings for rotating machines, lubricated only with water, have proved to have longer life than metal sleeve bearings when subjected to the action of abrasive materials. For pumps handling liquid containing solid matter it has been established that such a bearing eliminates wear on either shaft or bearing, provided there is sufficient water flowing over the bearing properly to lubricate it. This is due to the fact that the rubber surface will not permit particles to imbed themselves, but the particles roll to the helical grooves through which the lubricating water flows and are then carried off.

Rubber lining is best suited to cylindrical mills used in the wet grinding of fine materials, requiring small balls that have a large grinding surface. Among the applications that have given good results is to the portland cement industry, where rubber-lined mills show increases in efficiency ranging up to 20 per cent. In ceramic grinding operations the rubber lining gives good results because it reduces contamination and the impervious smooth rubber surface permits the mill to be cleaned thoroughly when changes of pigment or other colored material are to be made.

Rubber is proving valuable in the protection of the wearing parts of mixers and other rotating machinery. In the mixing of finely ground abrasives, such as carborundum, a mixer was used with bronze arms to eliminate undesirable contamination which occurred if iron or steel arms were used. These bronze parts had a life of but six weeks and caused much trouble. As a test, the arms were covered with a one-eighth inch coating of rubber. After ten months' service the coating was still in excellent condition.

On an Ohio River sand dredge a sheet of rubber placed at the discharge of a conveyor received the impact and abrasive action of some 250,000 cubic yards of sand and gravel during seven months. This rubber outlasted ten steel plates of the same thickness.

The lining of sheet metal chutes with rubber has proved of great value in prolonging the life of chutes carrying abrasive materials. Also pipe or flues carrying gases contaminated with abrasive dusts give longer life when made of rubber-lined sheet metal.

Rubber serves as a protection against corrosion. Hence there is a growing tendency toward the use of rubber as a lining for chemical engineering equipment, or to protect the moving parts of machines.

COTTON "Shirts" for SAUSAGES

COTTON coverings for sausages are announced as the result of ten years of research at the Mellon Institute, in a report made public through a bulletin issued by the American Chemical Society. This product is now available and is completely standardized in length and width. It is said to be unquestionably satisfactory from the sanitary and hygienic standpoints, and is moderate in price.

The first problem which engaged the attention of the students in this field was that of a suitable raw material. Since the film-forming material sought must be edible, the list of available substances was brief.

The material found most satisfactory was a high-grade type of purified cotton linters. A broad investigation of this material was made and a method developed whereby the cotton linters could be readily formed into seamless tubes with very thin walls.

It was thought for a long time that, to adapt cellulose successfully to the use as a casing for sausages, some kind of modifier would have to be added to the film to soften it and eliminate the stiff, papery quality characteristic of many cellulose films. The whole problem of making the film soft enough was finally solved in a very simple manner, when it was found that very thin cellulose films were exceedingly soft and pliable, and if the thinner film was strong enough, no softening agent was necessary.

A machine was devised to make the casings. It was found that about 100 feet of casing from one filling could be made with the laboratory machine.

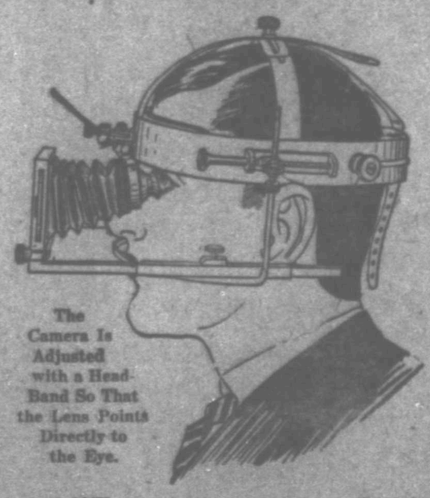

The first test gave very poor results, mainly because of bulging and bursting of the casings during stuffing. Finally it was suggested that the casings might be tried dry. A trial of this idea revealed that this method was the one to be used.

The strength of dry cellulose films was found to be nearly twice that of wet films, and this gave a wide margin of strength in the stuffing operation. Immediately after stuffing, the case acquired moisture from the meat filler and became very soft and pliable.

The drying of the casings in cloth tubes made it possible completely to control the diameter and to make the diameter perfectly uniform throughout the entire length. This is a very important feature in the sausage industry, and is something which has never been realized in the manufacture of animal casings.

The casings now in general use are sheep casings imported from China, Russia, the Levant, New Zealand, Australia, Western Europe, and South America, and hog casings from native hogs or imported from China. Until the advent of the cellulose casing, no suitable synthetic casing had ever been devised which could satisfactorily replace the animal casing.

A CAMERA for Studying the EYE

The Camera Is Adjusted with a Head-Band So That the Lens Points Directly to the Eye.

MANY organic diseases, such as Bright's disease, are indicated by changes in the structure of the nerve-screen (called the retina) which lines the human eye. Thus the eye doctor's ophthalmoscope often detects troubles not previously suspected.

A Philadelphia occulist, Dr. J. F. Herbert, Jr., has newly patented a camera for taking photographs of the interior of the eye. It is supported by a frame adjusted upon the head of the patient, with a head-band that encircles the head above the eyes. It may be adjusted to any size of head by a bolt-and-slot connection.

Thus fastened upon the patient's head, the eye of the camera (which in optical principle is constructed like a human eye) looks directly into the eye of the person under observation. Into his eye a strong beam of light is thrown by an electric lamp positioned in front of the camera.

In the middle of the ground-glass at the back of the camera are scratched a series of fine lines. When the patient sees these lines distinctly, after the apparatus has been adjusted, the focus is correct for a picture of the eye under examination, and it only remains to insert a plate-holder, remove the slide and take the photograph.

Ideal Age for Marriage

THE ideal age for marriage is twenty-nine years for the groom and twenty-four for the bride, according to a report in the Journal of Social Hygiene. Deviations of four years on either side for the groom and of two years for the bride make little difference, but marriages in which either party is nineteen or younger are from ten to a hundred times as risky as at the ideal age.

These conclusions were reached from a study of 1,000 impartially selected cases from the Domestic Relations Court of Philadelphia. The two most plausible explanations for the findings are either that premature or delayed marriage is a symptom of permanent character traits that are unfavorable to success in family life, or that the boy or girl under twenty-one has not a sufficiently broad experience to select a mate with whom a successful home can be established.

If immaturity rather than permanent instability is the cause, postponement of marriage and educational guidance may do much to eliminate domestic disaster, it is pointed out.

What the Inventors Are Doing

IN a new type of what might be called a fireless cooker, which can be used for all types of cooking, two electric light bulbs furnish all the heat necessary. One is placed near the top and the other near the bottom of the cooker. Cooking can be carried on without the use of water other than that contained in the materials themselves. This method is said to make vegetables in particular more tasty. Even though water is not added to them, they cook in their own moisture and are rendered most tender and nutritious.

A novel invention in the way of an automatic register is the latest attachment for typewriters. It is a big help to story and magazine writers as it enables them to tell how many words they have written. The register is connected up with the space bar so that whenever the space bar is struck between two words, the number of words written is registered on the indicator.

A new roach trap utilizes the knowledge that a roach prefers an opening only slightly larger than his body to one much larger. The bait is placed in a screened, covered box, which is entered through a wedge-shaped passageway containing slots of various widths. The roach, attracted by the bait, chooses the slot most suitable to its size, enters the box and is unable to find the way out.

Police "Amazons" to Curb Girl Bandits

How Brigades of Fearless Women "Fascists" Are Stamping Out Flapper Crime and the Night Club Menace and Solving the Weird Disappearances of Pretty Provincials in London Which Increased Alarmingly During the Coal Strike.

By SANDOWN STRACHEY.

LONDON.

"WE are going to stamp out feminine crime in this city if it takes half a century! And we are going to minimize the perils which face pretty, unprotected provincial girls, who, swallowed up by London, mysteriously disappear and are never heard from again. Let the night clubs, among other malefactors, beware!"

That, in effect, is the slogan of the Amazon Fascists, who recently banded together to throw fear into the hearts of evildoers, especially young women of the underworld who form blackmail gangs and the like.

The Amazons—stalwart feminine souls who wear military uniforms, click their heels, and address each other as "Sir"—have been ridiculed by people skeptical of their prowess. But they have also been called brave, splendid, and dauntless.

They proceed on the theory that, just as it takes a thief to catch a thief, so it takes a woman to unravel the baffling crimes that women have directed so frequently of late in London. Feminine wits against feminine wits and presto! the crime is solved. That's the notion of the Police Amazons.

Good old Scotland Yard and all the other highly standardized male detectors of wrongdoing have made an awful bust of curbing the feminine criminals lately, say the Amazons.

The official women's police, they argue, is pretty much of a failure, because it is so restricted. Scotland Yard assigns all the big jobs in crime regulation to men.

The Women's Auxiliary Force, a brigade of women who adopt a uniform similar to the official police, and who were second to arrive on the scene, are all very well, but inadequate for the tremendous job.

Hence the Fascist Amazons, whose numbers already are said to run close to ten thousand. They have uniforms and a military organization. They are also drilled in certain forms of gymnastics, such as jiu-jitsu, so that they can cope with feminine criminals who offer physical resistance.

The Amazon brigade works under the direction of a chief of staff, Miss Lintern-Orman, a handsome woman of truly martial bearing. She is about six feet tall, shingled and muscular, and she gives her orders in a "she-who-must-be-obeyed" manner.

I called on Miss Lintern-Orman recently. I stood in her office, feeling most humble, gazing into the steel-blue eyes of a stern-faced woman with a shock of red hair.

"Who are you?" she demanded, "and what is your business?"

I explained. Her suspicious manner vanished.

"Our organization," she told me, "is made up of active members and a special patrol—a picked body of about 1,000 women. One of our commanders is a baker's manageress, five work in offices, one is a dancer, one an artist, two are nurses.

"All our active members are expert wrestlers. We can call on them for strike duty, we can function at political meetings. I cannot give you our true membership, that would not be fair. We are organized to aid the Government and to defend our country. Our banners, as you will observe, carry the motto—"British Fascists—For King and Country."

The suggested political significance of the movement of Amazons is generally lost sight of in consideration of their problem of curbing crime among women. This is a grave situation confronting the police in all English cities, but it is especially important in London.

The feminine crime problem in the metropolis is divided into three major classes:

The first concerns girls who come to London in search of fame and fortune, and disappear.

The second has to do with the widespread night club evil.

The third relates to girl bandits and burglars.

I have set them down in this order because girls who mysteriously drop out of sight are often identified with the wild life of the night club underworld, with its drugs and dissipation, and still later with banditry.

The task of solving the enigma of girls who disappear in London has long confronted the police, but it has loomed to tremendous proportions with the after-the-war unrest. The great city is the mecca for girls from all parts of the provinces; they come here to make their way on the stage, as domestic servants, as dress mannequins and as office workers.

The problem as it affects one part of the country was set forth recently by W. R. C. Williams, of the Welsh Presbytery, who organized a committee to look after girls who come from Wales.

"A great many Welsh girls come to London," said Williams, "and during the strike many were forced to find work, owing to poverty at home. They answer advertisements in the newspapers and take jobs in London when they are untrained and so unsophisticated that they cannot protect themselves from temptation.

"There have been a large number of cases of these girls being quickly dismissed. Sometimes they find themselves in households of doubtful character. Then it is not long before some of them drift into a disreputable life and their parents cease to hear from them.

"In a few cases the girls have been completely lost to their relatives from the moment of their reaching the station in London, and it is feared that night-club agents and white-slave decoys in the guise of welfare workers or employers may have got hold of them."

To deal with this problem of disappearing girls, it has been suggested that the British Amazons and the Women's Auxiliary Force of the Police could serve by dividing the whole of London into sections for patrol, each company being responsible for the girls who are reported to live in that district. Each girl, as she leaves home in the provinces, can give her name and address to a member of one of the protecting organizations in her home town. This will be forwarded to London so that the girl can be given help if she needs it.

The night-club evil is blamed by many crime experts for a large proportion of the lost girls. It has been estimated that there are 11,000 night clubs throughout the larger English cities, most of them in London. Many function without licenses and without the knowledge of the police.

Undoubtedly many of the open and recognized ones are mere pleasant places of amusement, but it is also true that some are breeding places for crime. Only recently, when one was raided and closed up, the police learned that the proprietor was an ex-burglar!

The pretty girl alone in London is not here long before she receives an invitation to a night club. This is especially true if she is trying to win her fortune on the stage. She may find it hard to get a job singing or dancing in a musical comedy, but it is comparatively easy for her to join a staff of entertainers at a de luxe dugout if she is young and comely.

From that point she must watch her step. As a night-club entertainer, she is expected to dance with the customers, and the customers come from all walks in life. She may find herself smiling across the table into the eyes of a duke or she may be dancing with a motor bandit or a dope peddler. All classes rub elbows in the night clubs.

Recently the Bishop of London led a deputation to Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks to ask for a law authorizing the police to enter night clubs at any time. This, it was felt, would put a check on the drinking and immorality of the clubs. And the presence of one of the new policewomen might serve to protect the girls.

The embarrassment to which a careless and youthful feminine guest can be subjected by chance acquaintances of the night clubs was shown in an incident brought before the police a few days ago.

The woman, Mrs. Edith Welford, of Guilford Street, Russel Square, all unwittingly found herself, after an escapade, in the dock with two burglars.

She had met the two men, Frederick Malvern and George Sidney Reed, at a night club. Later, while intoxicated, she had accompanied the pair in a taxicab to a house in the Maida Vale district. She had waited outside while the men entered the house. They told her they lived there and that they would be out in a moment.

While she was waiting and, all unwittingly, keeping watch, a policeman came along. He knew that the owner of the house was away and he questioned her. The result was that he entered and arrested the two men. They were convicted of entering with intent to steal. The police believed Mrs. Welford's story and released her after an examination at the Marylebone Police Court.

Other young women have not been so fortunate as Mrs. Welford. Drifting into the night clubs, they have fallen for the wiles of the sleek, pale-faced young men who welcomed them, only to find later that they were prisoners in houses which they were not permitted to leave.

The narrow escape of one girl some time ago brought a closing of one of the most notorious clubs and imprisonment of the owner and proprietress, Mrs. Kate Merrick.

Kate, or "Mother" Merrick, was known as the "Model Mamma of the Underworld," because she lived the life of a respectable housewife by day, diligently caring for her children, and changed character at night to preside over a de luxe hideaway, the famous Forty-Three Club. She also operated several other resorts, among them Daltons Club, and the Little Club.

To one of them came a girl named Vashti Roop, a young woman of foreign extraction, pretty and unprotected. She was popular among men and they swarmed about her at the club. Among them was one Gregory Dean.

Dean, apparently, was a cut above the rest and he fell really in love with Vashti Roop. He began to fear for his sweetheart's safety and he tried to get her—away from her evil environment. When this failed, he notified the police.

The result was a raid, the arrest of "Mother" Merrick, the proprietress, and a blow to the night-club game in general. Mrs. Merrick served six months in jail because of the evidence of scandalous goings-on at her club.

While she was in prison she is said to have turned to religion and she spent much of her time in reading. But her night-clubs—the ones that had not been closed—seemed to go on just the same.

One ironic happening was the marrying of the woman's own daughter, Dolly Merrick, into the nobility. Although Dolly was known to have frequented her mother's clubs, she seemed uncontaminated by her surroundings. At any rate, she bagged one of the matrimonial catches of last year, young Lord de Clifford, who traces his title back to the thirteenth century.

The opportunity of meeting male members of the nobility is one of the chief lures, in fact, held out to girls to persuade them to frequent night clubs. But most girls are not so fortunate as Dolly Merrick. For one duke the girls meet there are a dozen crooks.

It is easy to understand the lure of the clubs for girls who want to meet members of the haute monde. Some of the hidden pleasure palaces are extremely fashionable, their membership includes the names of statesmen and the pick of the London bluebloods. Such a club as the famous Kit-Cat is visited quite often by the Prince of Wales, but even the Kit-Cat was raided just a few nights ago. Policemen in evening dress surrounded the place, took down the names of everyone present and carted off all the ledgers and files to Scotland Yard. One other club, just organized, has a committee of eight sponsors, each one of whom is a member of the nobility.

The dangers to young girls generally come from clubs much lower in the social scale than these, however. At these "jungle hideaways" girls meet men who are responsible for their widespread participation in motor bandit raids. The girls are used as decoys and watchers by the men, who hold up motor cars, and raid country houses.

Generally, the girl bandits when captured are defiant. Here is where the women police come in. They not only can be of great aid in bringing about capture, but they can also gain the confidence of the girl malefactors afterward and effect a change in the girls' point of view.

At least this is the claim of the new independent policewomen of London. Speaking for the Women's Auxiliary Force, the Commandant, Mary Allen, said recently:

"It is conceded that there are special police duties best performed by women. Our members must be prepared to give understanding and sympathy to those other women who are brought under their charge as prisoners. Efficiency in detecting crime is not enough. The policewoman must be willing to inquire patiently into the histories of the girls and to set them on the right track for the future. Most of the girls are first offenders. If treated right, there is a good chance they will go straight in the future."

Television: Science's Sequel to Aladdin's Magic Lamp

Radio Transmission of Beauty Pageants, Land Battles and Sea Fights, Brought Right to YOUR Living Room from Thousands of Miles Away, Is the Latest Thrilling Promise of the Electrical Wizards.

By RAY DOVELL.

CROSS Aladdin and his magic lamp off your list! Relegate the traveling carpet of Bagdad to the antique collector—or the ragman! And throw away your well-thumbed copy of The Arabian Nights, for—

Science is about to eclipse them all. Modern genii are almost ready to give to a world already filled with wonders the greatest marvel of them all—television, meaning the ability to see at a great distance!

This surprising announcement was made the other day by no less a personage than Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, chief consulting engineer for both the General Electric Company and the Radio Corporation of America.

Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, Famous Radio Engineer, Illustrating the Marvels of Radio Transmission to His Young Son, Verner.

Addressing the St. Louis section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Dr. Alexanderson declared that there remained only three important steps toward the ultimate goal of television. These are:

1. Broadcasting of pictures in conjunction with radio programs.

2. Transmission of messages or letters faster than they can possibly be read.

3. Radio transmission of moving pictures.

In placing the seal of possibility upon what was once regarded as the most fantastic of scientific dreams—simultaneous seeing and talking over great distances—the engineer said that the problem had been reduced to terms of speed. The time limit for the perfection of the apparatus he placed at 10 years.

You can carry this prophecy to its logical conclusion. Translated into lay terms, it means simply that at some future day you and countless other thousands of Americans will be able to turn a switch on your "tele-radio" control and tune in on Shanghai, San Francisco, Palm Beach and London. Distance will mean nothing.

The picturesque parade of beggars and coolies and lovers which throng the Bund in Shanghai at midday you can, simply by fingering a gadget on your home set, bring into your own living-room. Another twist and you're a spectator at Pasadena's tournament of roses three thousand miles away. If you manipulate a synchronizing device, you'll bring in the band music along the line of march; will even hear the hubbub of the critical spectators crowding within a few feet of the gorgeously decorated floats!

The model of the television projector used by Dr. Alexanderson consists of seven light sources converged by an optical system to a revolving drum carrying 24 mirrors. The latter reflect the light cluster to a screen. Using seven lights instead of one, the illumination is increased forty-nine times. But, paradoxically, by using seven light beams in multiple, the speed at which each must travel is reduced by the ratio of 7 to 1.

Because an independent control over each of the seven lights is necessary, the engineer placed a cluster of seven photo-electric cells at the transmitting machine. These, in turn, control a multiplex radio system with seven channels, sending out seven intermediate carrier waves which are "scrambled" and sent out into the ether by a single transmitter. The process of "unscrambling" takes place at the receiving end, whereupon each carrier wave resumes its control over one of the seven light beams.

Below: A Remarkable Picture of a London Strike Scene Transmitted Across the Atlantic in Twenty Minutes by Photoradiogram, During Recently Conducted Tests. Through Television, Says Dr. Alexanderson, It Will Be Possible to Transmit, Simultaneously, Sound and Photos at Moving Picture Speed, or at the Rate of Sixteen Per Second.

Famous Painting, Guido Reni's "Aurora," Transmitted from London by Photoradiogram During Tests Conducted by the Radio Corporation of America. Note the Accurate Reproduction and Sharpness of Lines.

Dr. Alexanderson states that the principle is closely allied with telephotography and the photoradiograph, to the development of which many famous engineers have contributed. Among these are Korn, Belin, Ranger, Jenkins, Ives, Karolus, Peterson, Baird and others less famous.

In his address at St. Louis, Dr. Alexanderson said, in part:

"In the well-known play by George Bernard Shaw, 'Back to Methuselah,' is described a scene which is supposed to take place in the year 2170. The head of the British Government holds conferences with his various Cabinet ministers several hundred miles away. He has at his desk a switchboard, and in the background of the room is a silver screen. When he selects the right key at the switchboard, a life-sized image is flashed upon the screen of the person with whom he is speaking at the same time as he hears the voice.

"It is now several years since Mr. Owen D. Young expressed the hope that radio would soon give us visual means of communication. The idea at the time seemed absurd, but work was promptly started. A commercial service across both the Atlantic and the Pacific is the result. It takes at present 20 minutes to send one of these pictures, but from moving picture practice we know that television means only speeding up to a rate of sixteen per second. It is a long way from one picture every 20 minutes to one every sixteenth part of a second, but all the links have been perfected and we are now faced only with the problem of working faster."

By the Simple Twist of a Dial in Her Home in New York, This Girl Will Instantly Become a Spectator at a Rose Pageant in California, Three Thousand Miles Away. An Ingenious Photo-Drawing of the Television-Projector as It Will Look When Perfected.

What part will television play in the next great war, is one of the questions which military leaders and scientists are asking themselves. Will some sort of a field transmitter be at hand to allow a commander-in-chief to see from his headquarters a hundred miles behind the lines his crack divisions, his shock battalions, slogging forward against the enemy's emplacements? And will he — the commander-in-chief in question—be able to listen to war's inferno of bursting explosives, dying men's screams and the curses and prayers of the wounded and living?

Will the President of the United States watch from the White House in Washington great naval engagements in mid-Pacific or Atlantic? See with his own eyes the maneuvering, the skillful, daring method of attack and counter-attack? Study the effect of broadsides delivered at distances ranging from 10 to 20 miles.

In all, probably every one of the "impossibilities" are going to come true some day. Dr. Alexanderson would not be quoted concerning the possible military application of television, nor would General Harbord or David Sarnoff, of the Radio Corporation of America. But it is known that work alone these lines is proceeding in the hands of some of the ablest engineers America boasts.

But listen to Mr. J. L. Garvin, editor-in-chief of the London Observer:

"In the sense of social change and international communication," he editorializes, "we are in the midst of a revolution as distinctive and momentous as any that mankind has ever gone through.

"Little more than thirty years ago, in the minds of most middle-aged people born in the earlier half of the nineteenth century, we were passing through what we may call the 'dead water' mood. Civilization was slowing down.

"Then dawned the new era of amazement. X-rays were discovered. The whole age of radio-activity began. Amid sneers the motor car appeared, destined to have a sweeping effect upon life. The Niagara was harnessed. Young Marconi began the practical development of wireless telegraphy. By airplane and airship man began to master the air as surely as he had mastered the land and sea.

"Scientific transformation in the last few decades has been brought about by such continuous gradations that no one in our time can appreciate all its magnitude and significance.

"And all this may be eclipsed by the discoveries of the next thirty years, when telephoning between London and New York is a long-established commonplace and people can see other peoples across the entire world.

"The facts of the moment and their promise for the future surpass all of the fairy tales about wishing caps, invisible cloaks, magic carpets and seven league boots!"

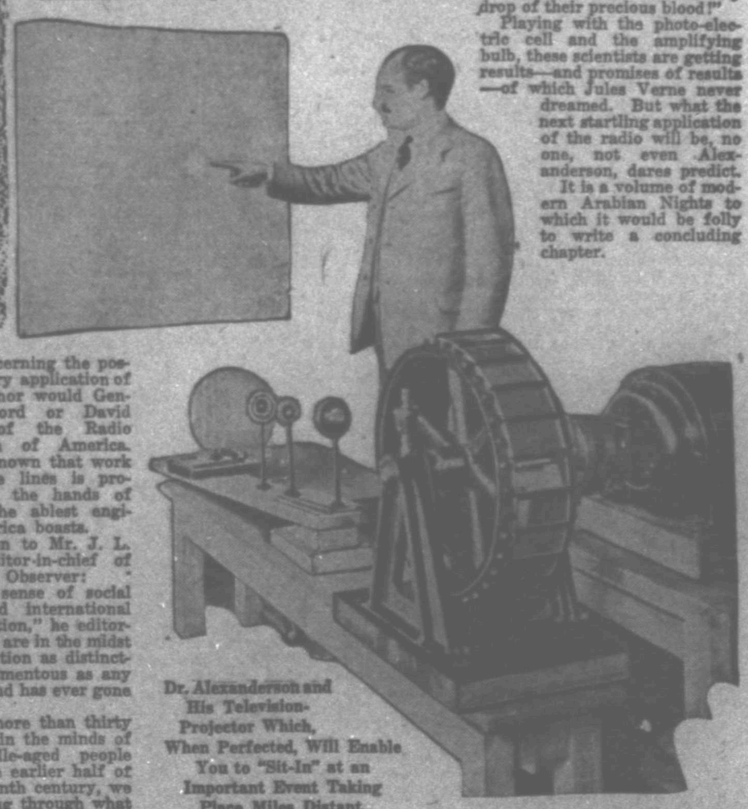

Commenting upon the television apparatuses developed by Alexanderson and J. L. Baird, the Scotch scientist, he expressed the opinion that they were going to prove of incalculable importance in the next great war.

"Imagine," he exclaimed, "the general who sends his country's best manhood against an enemy watching the progress of their advance, listening to all the inferno of Hell which they are passing through in the name of God and country!

"What an incentive to the general staff to make no mistakes, to shed not one unnecessary drop of their precious blood!"

Playing with the photo-electric cell and the amplifying bulb, these scientists are getting results—and promises of results—of which Jules Verne never dreamed. But what the next startling application of the radio will be, no one, not even Alexanderson, dares predict.

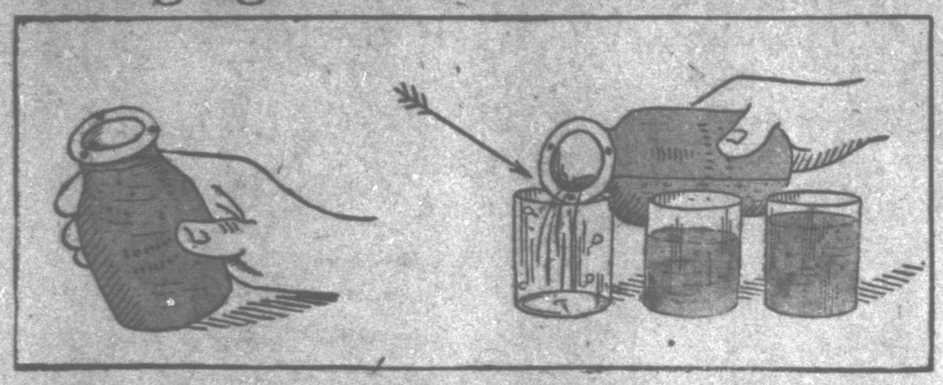

It is a volume of modern Arabian Nights to which it would be folly to write a concluding chapter.

MAGIC — The Weekly Puzzle Page — RIDDLES

Changing WATER Into "WINE"

ONE of the most popular tricks is that of changing water into "wine." Like many things that appear to be difficult it is really quite easy to perform.

First get a milk bottle and two or three clear glasses. At equal distances apart place on the mouth of the bottle three or four small drops of paste mixed with analine dye of the proper color and glue, as indicated by the arrow.

When you wish the water to appear as "wine," hold the bottle in such a way that the water flows over the speck of dye. When you wish to pour just plain water turn the bottle so that the water does not touch the speck of dye. Thus you can pour water or "wine" at will.

Professor Monk's Jungle School

PROFESSOR MONK opened up a school in Jungle Land the other day and sent an invitation to attend to all animals who wished to become wise. Professor Monk, however, being very smart, originated his own method of giving instructions, using only letters or figures or a combination of each. For the first lesson he assigned the following to be expressed, according to his own method. For example, he would spell Kate K8. Now proceed with the lesson and express each of the following according to Prof. Monk's method:

1. A tropical fruit.
2. Not difficult.
3. How a tramp looks.
4. A girl's name.
5. Something a debtor gives.
6. Sidewalks in Winter.
7. To rot.
8. What fishermen use.
9. Intemperance.
10. Make thin.
11. Fitness.
12. Containing nothing.
13. Peer.
14. A prophet.

Magic Square of Numbers

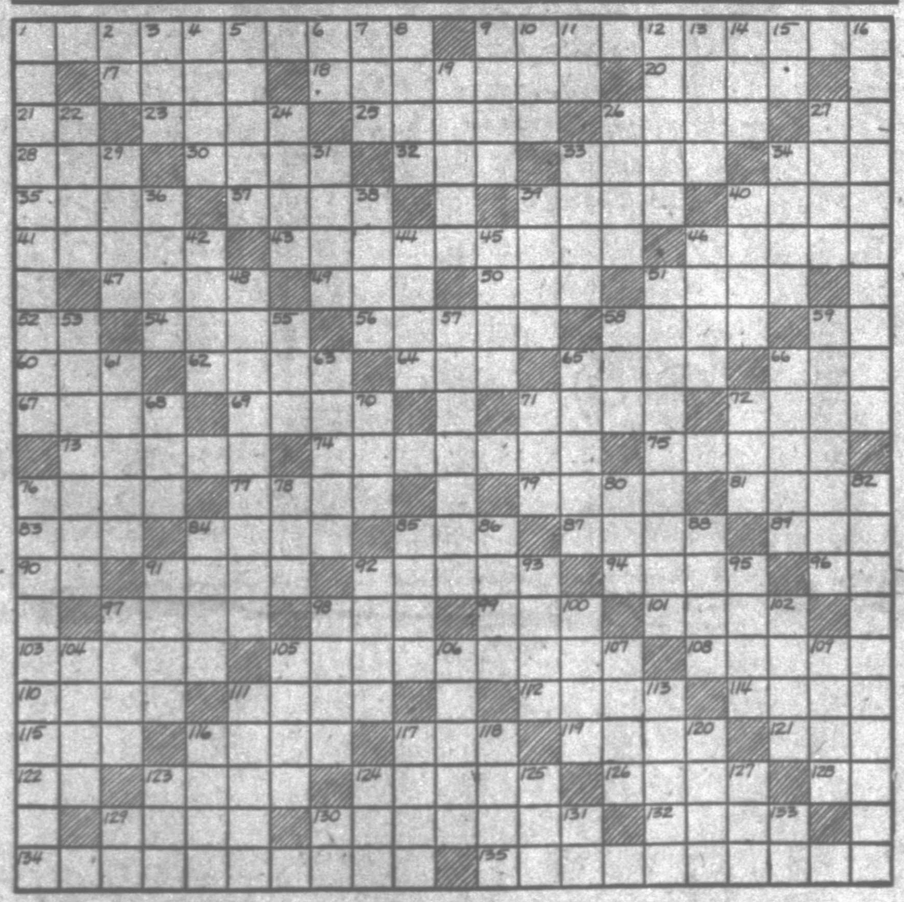

NINE numbers have been indiscriminately placed in an equal number of squares as shown in the accompanying drawing. The puzzle for you to solve is this:

Leave the figure five in its present position in the centre square and rearrange the remaining eight numbers in three rows of three figures each, so that when added horizontally, vertically or diagonally the sum will always be fifteen.

7	6	4
1	5	2
9	8	3

Lesson in Hidden Geography

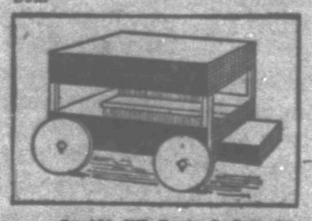

A GEOGRAPHICAL name is hidden in each of the following sentences. In some instances the name may be found by combining a part of two or more words.

1. In counting the jumpers, I accidently overlooked three of them.
2. As I rap, I say, "Hurry up!"
3. A housewife holds a pan a matchless article.
4. The poor man has to toil from early to late.
5. He boasted that he could win on a walk.
6. The tents were spread in great circles to shelter the crowds.
7. Although he traveled from day to night, he failed to arrive in time.
8. The potato is of the tuber lineage.

A Toy Motor Van

MAKING a toy motor van out of odds and ends picked up about the house will afford hours of amusement to many children who will find the toy easy to make.

First get the trays of two empty match boxes, some cardboard, pins, toothpicks and a big cork. Two long seats made of cork are placed inside of the bottom tray. A square piece of the cork is stuck in the front of the tray to represent the hooded engine. Next cut four toothpicks to the same length and paste them upright in each corner of the tray. Now take the second tray, turn it upside down and let it rest on the four upright toothpicks to form the top. The wheels are cut out of the cardboard and fastened in position with a pin thrust through the bottom of the box.

Here's a Puzzle Problem

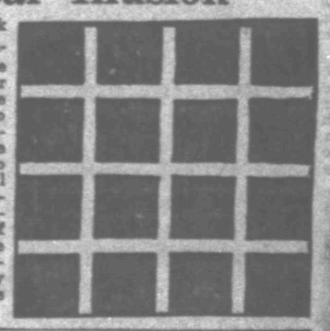

JANE'S father gave her a check for a birthday present. When she cashed it at the bank the paying teller made a mistake, giving her dollars for cents and cents for dollars.

After leaving the bank Jane bought a box of candy for sixty-five cents, whereupon she discovered the cashier's mistake. Then she counted the money she had received and finding that she had been given just twice the amount her check called for, she hastened to the bank to have the error corrected.

Now what was the amount of Jane's check?

An Optical Illusion

EACH of these sixteen black squares are completely separated by broad continuous white lines, but after gazing steadily for a few seconds at the center of the drawing you will be surprised to see, apparently, a series of curious little gray dots appear where the white lines cross. Continue to gaze at the squares and you will see dots disappear only to reappear if you keep on looking steadily at the squares. There are, of course, really no gray dots, these spots being merely an optical illusion produced by the persistency of an image upon which the eyes have been steadily focused.

REUNION - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

THE tenth year reunion of the Statesville Girl's High School, class of '14, came around with this enviable showing: Every one of the sixteen graduates was not only living, but carrying on that living within a radius of two hundred and fifty miles of Statesville.

Ten of the girls were married. Four were teaching. One practiced medicine in Statesville and the sixteenth was librarian in an adjacent town.

It was quite a record. One of which the class of 1914 was justifiably proud. Of the ten married girls, eight of them had families and, so far as was apparent at least, with the exception of Lalite Emery, who was widowed and the sole support of four children, every marriage was a happy one and nicely prosperous.

There had been nine reunions of the class of 1914. Every one of them attended by a two-thirds majority. With the exception of Lalite, who had been the class beauty, every girl had attended one or more of these reunions.

Lalite had married first and moved furthest from Statesville and the babies had come close together. And then had come the widowhood, and an impecunious one at that. So year after year the girls had to content themselves with reading Lalite's letter of regret. Such amusing letters, all full of Lalite's drolleries.

This year, however, the tenth, it was decided at all cost to round it out as a perfect occasion befitting a class which could actually boast an intact tenth reunion. Lalite must come. Brenda Ufland, who had made the star marriage of the class to an enormously wealthy turfman who lived in Springfield, enclosed a round-trip railroad ticket in an envelope to Lalite with this letter:

Dearest Lalite,

If your mongrel emotion, false pride, is stronger than your feeling of loyalty and devotion to the old 1914 bunch who are just aching to see you after all these years, why then just you tear up this railroad ticket and tell us the truth, that you don't care a whoop any more about us. Brenda.

Of course that brought Lalite. There were four youngsters all under eight to be handed over to the care of a neighbor and the Morse girls in the house on the hill had to consent to postpone Lalite's day as seamstress to them for a week, and there were fourteen chickens, two cats, a poodle and a turtle to be boarded out before Lalite could haul out the dusty old valise that she had not used since those incredibly remote days of her honeymoon, and cram hasty necessaries into it for the trip to Statesville.

It was unbelievable that she was going. For nine years Lalite had not been out of Granite City. The thought of going back to Statesville, of seeing its dear, tranquilly shady streets once more, of finding herself face to face with the schoolmates of days gone by, was like a pain to her, too precious to be borne.

Her emotion swamped even her fears for the children. The thousand and one fears that she had thought would be ruinous to her enjoyment of the trip. Ted was apt to be nervous and therefore rough in the home of neighbors. What if Mary should develop one of her croup attacks? Oh, dear, she had meant to send over to the obliging neighbor who was caring for the children for the three days, a box of the special brand of graham wafers the baby liked to take to bed with him. Oh, dear. . . . But it was difficult to fasten long on even these worries when the dear, the unbelievable moment of reunion was approaching.

Poor Lalite. Her pretty blondness was ashes-of-roses now, and the blue dress she wore a dowdy fright—and she knew it; but it was hard to concentrate even on that. The girls—in a few hours there would be Terry and Bess and Eda and Brenda—

They met her in a group. A noisy group at the same old red brick depot. And drove her back, the whole nine of them, crammed into Terry's Ford roadster.

It was the most exciting, the most thrilling, the most emotional evening in all of Lalite's life, since the night she had left Statesville the prettiest bride that ever blushed her way out of it.

Dear girls. Why, fancy—Bess with twins! And Eda a little gray now, but oh, so much more handsome than she had been as a girl, and head librarian! How chic they were. Half of them with bobbed hair and shorter skirts than Lalite in all her experience as a local seamstress had ever dared attempt for her town.

How chic! And gay and modern and happy. Why, Brenda fairly radiated. Brenda wore furs in June. Light tan summer fur that she had brought back from Paris. Brenda wore long earrings and blew smoke through her nostrils and brought every one of the girls black enamel vanity boxes with gold monograms.

Like an old doll left out in the rain over night. An ashes-of-roses woman.

Lalite—SO BEAUTIFUL.

The girls were even a little too sweet with Lalite. As Bess confided to Brenda, with tears in her gray eyes, she broke their hearts. Why, Lalite had been all blue and gold. Lalite had been a lovely pussy of a girl with the bluest eyes, the brightest hair that curled about her neck. Lalite had been a Dresden figurine. Something too dainty for the every-day world. The first, too, of all the class to marry. A promising marriage to Tom Powell, an engineer who the year of his death was already engaged in building one of the large viaducts of the state.

Poor Lalite. She was like an old doll left out in the rain over night. Even her eyes had lost their blue, as if she had strained the color out of them from bending over to thread needles. Her hair had turned from its bright kind of gold to ashes-of-roses. A dead ashes-of-roses.

In the end, Brenda did not even allow her to use the return railroad ticket, but drove her all the two hundred and seventy miles home, in her limousine that was caparisoned inside like a Pullman car.

It was a beautiful trip. Three of the girls besides Brenda went along. How they giggled. How they reminisced. Brenda, who had neither chick nor child, was in no hurry to get home. Husband off batting, as she put it. House full of servants and house-party guests. Bore! Let the guests wait. Eda was due back at her post as librarian, but, as she said, too much was enough. It was good to steal the extra day before going back to the grind. Bess had no reason for hurrying home, either. Her twins were in the care of an efficient trained nurse and did not need her. As for her husband, it would do him good to be taught to feel the want of her.

Lalite was needed all right. Twelve hours before she reached home, her restlessness began to set in. After all, as Eda said, too much was enough. Four days were too much. There were times when it seemed to Lalite she must get out and push the speeding car.

How the girls teased her! "What's the attraction, Lalite? Who's waiting for you by the old garden gate?"

Waiting for Lalite were four smeary-faced youngsters at a neighbor's gate.

It was the most absurd, the most riotous, the most tearful home-coming that any mother's daughter of them had ever borne witness to. Lalite's baby broke into howls and began to beat at her face with small frantic paws from the hysteria of happiness at her home coming. The second little girl fairly flew at her mother's face, too, and began to beat at it and sob. Some one released a poodle named Jake, who added to the melee by almost knocking down his mistress and the third child, a boy named Rodney. He was a solemn child, with Tom Powell's eyes. Rodney only took hold of his mother's hand and looked up at her quite mutely, with his face twisted and so adoring that to look upon it was to feel abashed.

Mary the eldest came forward quietly, too, and took her mother's arm, and looked at her long and slowly.

"Oh, Mother," she said, "you're so beautiful. I never knew it until you went away from us. I think—I think you're the beautifulest person in the world."
