Liver needed

David Crosby of the rock group Crosby, Stills and Nash was in fair condition Friday with a deteriorating liver and was awaiting a transplant. The 53-year-old musician, shown in this 1993 photo, was admitted Wednesday to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center. His liver had apparently hardened and deteriorated because of decades of drug abuse, his publicist Elliot Mintz said.

Yeltsin troubles

MOSCOW — Boris Yeltsin's government was in growing disarray Friday with the resignation of a top advocate of economic reform and the appointment of the third finance minister in four weeks. The shakeup was presented as fallout from the Oct. 11 crash of the ruble, which had raised serious questions about the state of Russia's economy. But more broadly, it underlined the Cabinet's mounting instability./7A

Simpson jurors

LOS ANGELES — Jurors in the O.J. Simpson murder trial could watch edited tapes of "Roseanne," "Home Improvement" and even football under a tentative agreement reached Friday by lawyers and the judge. The 12 jurors are under strict orders to avoid all media and bookstores. However, in an effort to keep them from going stir-crazy, they would be allowed to watch video tapes of news broadcasts and their favorite TV shows with references to Simpson edited out./11A

Twelve residents file applications for District 3 seat on City Council

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Twelve Midlanders have filed for the City Council seat that had been held by Ed Vogler, who died Oct. 11.

The deadline to file an application was 5 p.m. Friday in the office of City Secretary Bill Clanton.

Vogler, 78, a consulting geologist and civic leader who held the council's District 3 seat, was elected in May in a two-way race in which he captured almost 64 percent of the vote.

Other contenders are Bruce W. Blake, Andrew Grier Brunson, Evelyn Gould, Rhonda G. Durham, John F. McGuigan, John O. Nobles III, Charles "Charley" W. Pierce, Don Washburn, James David Webb, Hugh G. White III, and Lee Files Wood Jr.

The City Council is to name Vogler's successor at its regular session in City Hall on Tuesday.

The winner will be decided by a simple majority of the council's six members: Mayor Bobby Burns, Bill Morrow and Jose Cuevas, who hold at-large positions; Pat Schneider, District 1; Juluis Brooks, District 2; and Claudia Egan, District 4.

Each of the 12 candidates is to give a 15-minute talk on his or her merits and aspira-

UNION, S.C. — Susan Smith's boyfriend didn't want a ready-made family. So investigators say she drove to a lake, and with her two little boys still buckled in their safety seats, sent the car rolling into the murky water.

Then she walked away.

On Friday, townspeople jeered her as she was led into court in handcuffs.

"Hold your head up! You're a baby murderer!" one woman shouted at Mrs. Smith after nine days in which she had insisted the boys were abducted by a carjacker who forced her out on a lonely road.

Her lawyer waived the bail hearing and Mrs. Smith never appeared in court. She was taken to a prison near Columbia where a spokeswoman said she would be kept in isolation for her safety.

The 23-year-old secretary was arrested Thursday and charged with murder in the drownings of 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alexander. Prosecutor Thomas Pope said he may seek the death penalty.

Mrs. Smith confessed and led authorities to the car submerged in John D. Long Lake, where divers had unsuccessfully searched for her burgundy 1990 Mazda, investigators said. The

October unemployment declines to four-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dipped to a four-year low last month and hourly wages rose at the fastest pace in 11 years — good news for workers but a fresh sign to economists that interest rates will be going up again.

President Clinton trumpeted the news of falling unemployment just before the midterm elections, saying it showed his administration has "delivered what the American people have long wanted."

The Labor Department said Friday the jobless rate declined from 5.9 percent to 5.8 percent in October, the lowest level since October 1990. The report also showed the average hourly wage posting the biggest one-month gain since September 1983.

Generation X eyes congressional seats

By Sharon Cohen
Associated Press

They're young and restless, part of the twentysomething crowd that watches MTV and wears grunge clothes. But moving beyond the stereotypes of their generation, these 14 ambitious young adults are hoping to make their marks as the youngest members of Congress.

Democrat and Republican with little in common but post-baby boomer birthdays, most are unknown political novices facing the longest odds; one notable exception is Patrick Kennedy, son of Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Disenchanted voters should be receptive to fresh-faced candidates, said Frank Luntz, a Virginia-based GOP pollster.

"Being young this year is better than at any time since 1980," Luntz said. "Young represents change and old represents status quo. . . . In elections like this, people are willing to give young candidates a chance."

Haitian elections must wait, U.S. officials say

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Jean-Bertrand Aristide said Friday he would like to hold parliamentary elections next month, but U.S. officials believe he'll have to wait until next year.

"If the elections could happen in December, I would be happy," Aristide told about 100 legislators in the chandeliered hall of the National Palace.

U.S. officials estimate it will take months to prepare internationally supervised elections. The United States will spend more than $10 million to help the United Nations organize the elections, U.S. national security adviser Anthony Lake said Thursday. It will also help provide security.

The Haitian government has to set up an election council, as well as register voters and allow time for campaigning. Moreover, Haiti's democratic institutions have suffered under three years of military rule.

Two-thirds of the 27-seat Senate and the entire 81-seat Chamber of Deputies will be on the ballot.

The legislators were elected before Aristide was ousted in a September 1991 coup.

Skipper admits negligence regarding oil spill

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A tugboat skipper pleaded guilty Friday to negligence charges for letting a barge run aground in January, spilling nearly 800,000 gallons of oil into the Atlantic Ocean off Puerto Rico.

As Roy McMichael entered the plea in U.S. District Court, the U.S. Coast Guard issued a report concluding he shared blame for the Jan. 7 spill, which has cost at least $86 million to clean up.

Two sailors on McMichael's tugboat, the Emily S, also surrendered their licenses, said Cmdr. Robert G. Ross of the U.S. Coast Guard.

"Tank vessel operators can't spill oil through negligence and expect to be able to just walk away as if nothing happened," Ross said. "I'm hoping this plea sends a message."

No sentencing date was set. Under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, McMichael, 51, of Jersey City, N.J., could be sentenced to up to one year in prison and fined twice the cost of the cleanup.

He made his plea before Magistrate Haydee Delgado and was released on his own recognizance. His lawyer, Peter Satz, did not return a telephone call for comment.

Federal prosecutors emphasized that McMichael's plea came on the condition that he cooperate in an ongoing investigation.

"What we're looking at is whether there are other people liable here," Assistant U.S. Attorney General Lois Schiffer, of the Environment and Natural Resources Division, said in a telephone interview from Washington.

Ross said McMichael showed "exceptionally poor judgment" when he allowed all but one of his crew to go to sleep just 20 minutes after repairing the line towing the oil barge Morris J. Berman.

The sailor left on duty, Victor Martinez, also fell asleep.

The line towing the barge snapped after McMichael ordered the tugboat run at full speed for its destination, the Caribbean island of Antigua. The Justice Department contended he knew the line was faulty.

The barge drifted for hours after McMichael alerted the Coast Guard, the Justice Department said.

Relief program begins for help of flood victims

DURUNKA, Egypt (AP) — They returned to the places where their homes had stood, hoping to find a piece of gold, or just a memento of the life they had before a wave of burning oil swept through their town on surging flood waters.

Rizqa Mohammed dug in the muddy rubble of her four-room house, hoping to recover jewelry that she could sell to help tide her family over.

Other survivors mobbed a truck that had come to deliver blankets Friday, and the driver drove away after handing out only two.

"You have to have influence to get a blanket," one man shouted after the truck.

At least 475 people are believed to have died in Durunka after burning oil from a government depot roared into town on swirling flood waters Wednesday. More than 60 people also died in storms in other southern areas.

Thousands of houses were destroyed, most along a 210-mile stretch of the Nile River between the town of el-Minya and Luxor.

Many residents who returned to the charred ruins of Durunka, 200 miles south of Cairo, wanted to know why promised government emergency supplies were not arriving.

"We haven't seen anything from the government," Noussa Abdel-Sabour said as she stood amid a dozen flattened homes, including her own.

Facing rising criticism, the government announced Friday it was stepping up relief to thousands of families left homeless by fire and floods.It had announced it will distribute $150 to families that suffered fatalities, $60 to the injured and $7 to each resident of the farming community.

President Hosni Mubarak flew over ravaged southern villages, and ordered immediate distribution of blankets and clothing. He also pledged government aid to rebuild homes and businesses.

Mubarak did not visit Durunka, perhaps fearing a repeat of the angry shouts Prime Minister Atef Sedki encountered on a tour Thursday.

Emergency workers continued pulling victims from the ruins. A rescue team leader, Sayed Ibrahim, said 366 bodies had been recovered by nightfall Friday and that searches would resume Saturday for more corpses.

Many of the dead, charred beyond recognition, were being buried in mass graves at the edge of town.

The conflagration was touched off when a train carrying fuel oil derailed en route to a government oil depot during a torrential downpour.

Electrical wires set the oil ablaze and flood water carried it into the town of 22,000 as people slept. Large oil tanks at the depot exploded as well.

Oil-coated water still stood in ponds in parts of the town on Friday. Some families picking through the rubble scattered in panic when a pond of water and oil suddenly reignited, sending flames 30 feet into the air. Firefighters quickly put it out.

The army set up 35 orange canvas tents near the provincial capital, Assiut, for refugees from Durunka, but soldiers kept foreign reporters out.

Mubarak, whose trip was shown on state-run television, toured one emergency camp. A bedraggled man surrounded by children told the president with outstretched hands, "I have nothing."

Government officials said the army was moving tents, blankets, and 80 tons of flour and other staples to the south. Planes from Bahrain and Saudi Arabia arrived with 50 tons of blankets, medicine and other relief supplies. The United Arab Emirates pledged nearly $4 million to help flood victims.

Both state-owned and opposition newspapers criticized the government response.

Poll finds residents divided almost evenly over home-equity issue

By Grady Phelps
Texas Poll Syndicate

Texans are split almost evenly on whether to change the existing homestead laws to allow unlimited borrowing against home equity, according to the Harte-Hanks Texas Poll.

Forty-three percent said Texas should allow home equity loans, while 48 percent said it shouldn't, according to the poll. Nine percent said they didn't know. The poll questioned 1,002 people statewide by telephone last month and has a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

That's more people favoring a change in the laws than in 1987, when a similar Texas Poll showed 36 percent of Texans favored allowing people to borrow money against their homes for reasons other than a mortgage. Fifty percent did not.

For the second time in three years, the Texas Legislature in 1995 is expected to debate whether to delete provisions in the Texas homestead law that restrict homeowners from using their residence as collateral unless they are borrowing money to buy the home, make home improvements or pay back taxes.

The law, passed in 1839, makes Texas the only state that bars home equity lending and basically protects families from losing their home through default or foreclosure on an unrelated debt.

"Some say the legislative fight of 1995 (over home equity) could end up being a turf war in the purest sense of the phrase," said Candace Windel, director of the Texas Poll.

"As the only state in the union where second mortgages on primary residences are denied by law, the issue strikes to the heart of Texas mentality," Ms. Windel said.

"Does state government do the citizens a service by the Texas homestead exemption or does it deny citizens access to their largest single chunk of financial equity?"

Support for a change in the law is divided among native Texans and transplanted Texans, with more non-natives favoring opening the mortgage market.

Among non-natives, 46 percent favor amending the policy while 43 percent favor continuation of the restrictions. Among native Texans, 52 percent voted to protect homeowners while 40 percent lean to a change in the state constitution.

Beyond borrowers' rights is more than $100 billion in unencumbered equity in Texas homes that owners can't tap.

"It's a tough issue, but I support changing the homestead law to allow equity loans," said economist Ray Perryman, president of Waco-based Perryman Consultants Inc., which publishes "The Perryman Report," a monthy economic newsletter.

"I don't feel most Texans understand the issue," Perryman said. "Here is a large resource of capital, and we are the only state that denies it. We're at a disadvantage. It would be a huge shot in the arm for the Texas economy in new building activity, prosperity and jobs."

He said he also understands the opposition of the real estate and home building industries that fear that the freeing of equity in homes might depress home sales.

"But I would be among the first in line to say a homestead law change needs to have strong consumer safeguards built into it to protect people from themselves so that they don't lose their property. It can be done."

Charles Betts, administrative director of the Texas Association of Realtors, which has repeatedly opposed a homestead law alteration, said his organization is confident the existing homestead protection law will prevail again.

"This is a real vested-interest proposition for bankers," Betts said. "It is being promoted by the banking industry as a homeowner's right when in fact it's a lender's right they do not have. The lenders want the right to encumber homestead equity for their loans of any type unrelated to the homestead.

"The economic growth that home equity may create in new borrowing is questionable," Betts said. "The current homestead law offers very valuable protection, we feel, for homeowners. As long as they can keep working and making mortgage payments, they won't lose their home.

"This was particularly evident in the late 1980s when the real estate market went upside down and many investors lost heavily."

Betts said home equity is not an economic issue favoring his association because homeowners could use the freed equity funds to make other real estate transactions such as buying lake lots or other property investments.

Robert Harris, president of the Texas Bankers Association, said the key issue is one of property rights and whether Texans should be allowed to join the citizens of 49 other states who are permitted to manage their own personal assets.

"Why should state government tell Texans what they may do or not do with their personal assets?" Harris said.

Harris said the banking trade association's research has suggested that the economic impact of freeing home equity funds would be felt across the Texas economic spectrum in business growth.

He projected a homestead law change could mean $5 billion a year in an economic punch and create 192,000 new jobs.

"I challenge the opposition to prove to us one single state where home sales have been depressed or there has been a negative impact on the state's economy. The evidence is just not there."

In another question on banking preference, The Texas Poll found 55 percent did most of their banking business with a Texas-owned bank. Twenty-three percent said they banked with financial institutions based out-of-state. Twenty-two percent of the poll respondents were unsure of the origin of their bank's ownership.

The Harte-Hanks Texas Poll was conducted Oct. 6-15 for Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., by the Office of Survey Research of the University of Texas at Austin. The survey polled 1,002 Texans by telephone in a systematic random sample of active telephone exchanges statewide.

moderate 194,000 last month, smaller than the 230,000 to 250,000 most economists were expecting. That is the least number of new hires since January, when a modest 101,000 increase was reported.

Still, economists no longer doubt that the Federal Reserve will raise interest rates a sixth time this year to slow economic growth. Speculation now centers on when and by how much.

On Wall Street, stocks were mixed in late morning trading and bonds remained slightly depressed following the report.

Clinton, stopping in Duluth, Minn., during a cross-country campaign blitz, saw only good news. And he said that if Republican policies had been followed, the economy "would be back in the ditch."

His predecessor, former President Bush, said while campaigning for Republican candidates in Nebraska that Clinton and the Democrats do not deserve credit.

"We handed the new administration an economy that grew," Bush said.

Democrats, facing tough midterm elections next Tuesday, need all the good news they can get. The employment figures were the last major economic data due before the balloting.

"The numbers are exceedingly good," said Labor Secretary Robert Reich. "We haven't seen this blessed combination of employment growth without accelerating inflation in two decades."

Mostly sunny skies ahead

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for mostly sunny skies with north to northwest winds 10-15 mph. The high should be near 70, according to a forecaster at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight should be cloudy with a low near 40.

Sunday should be sunny with a high in the mid- to upper 70s.

After an overnight low of 50, Friday's high reached 82, compared to the record high for that date of 89 set in 1988. The record low was 18 set in 1991.

STATE

Thunderstorms rumbled across north and west Texas Friday, while central and southeastern parts of the state spent the night on alert for tornadoes.

A tornado touched down in Anderson County about 6 p.m., damaging a school building, some classrooms and a bus barn in Cayuga, about 75 miles southeast of Dallas, said Kathy Bennett, Anderson County emergency dispatch supervisor.

"It did tear a building up at the school, did some damage to it," she said. No injuries were reported.

About an hour earlier, a tornado was spotted in Freestone County, but it passed overhead without doing any damage, said dispatcher Suzanne Thomas of the Freestone County Sheriff's Department

Several counties in northeast and north central Texas were placed under a flash flood warning Friday night, while portions of East Texas were under a flash flood watch.

Nearly 5 inches of rain fall in three hours over portions of Northeast Texas, with the heaviest rains falling from Corsicana to Mount Pleasant, the National Weather Service said. Several cars stranded in high waters in Van Zandt and Navarro counties and near Mount Pleasant, officials said.

Winds across North Texas were southerly around 15 mph, while temperatures ranged from 53 at Mineral Wells to 82 at Lufkin and near Killeen.

Saturday's forecast for North Texas calls for mostly sunny skies in the west, a chance for early showers in the central portion of the region and then decreasing clouds. It will be mostly cloudy in the east with a chance of rain and thunderstorms. Highs are expected to range from the 60s and 70s with lows from the 40s to the 50s.

NATION

Heavy snow tapered Friday in the West and thunderstorms stretched from Illinois to Oklahoma.

Some were severe, producing hail, but the main problem was torrential rain in parts of eastern Oklahoma, northwestern Arkansas and southeastern Missouri.

Flooding and rising rivers were reported in northwestern Arkansas and in southeastern Missouri.

A strong low pressure system produced significant snow in the West this week. As it moved toward the southern High Plains, snow began to taper off in southern Utah and northern Arizona, with heavy snow continuing at higher elevations of northern New Mexico and in Colorado.

A strong Pacific storm bore down on the Pacific Northwest and wind gusted to more than 50 mph. A ship near Partridge Point, Wash., clocked a morning wind gust of 80 mph.

Warnings of heavy snow were posted in the Cascades in Washington and Oregon and the Shasta-Siskiyou ranges in Northern California.

The wind was strong along the eastern slopes of the Montana Rockies, gusting to 72 mph at Livingston and more than 50 mph at Cut Bank.

A late-blooming tropical storm strengthened as it traveled across the Atlantic and could develop into a hurricane over the weekend, forecasters said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Officials find body at Big Bend camp site

Staff Report

The body of a San Antonio man was found Wednesday afternoon at a remote camp site at Big Bend Park, according to FBI officials.

Tom Kirspel, supervisor for the Midland office of the FBI, said John Gary Monroe, 43, was found shot to death at his camp site by other campers, who then notified park rangers.

"We're conducting a homicide investigation with the park rangers," Kirspel said. "It appears he was shot twice — once in the chest and once in the head. The body is enroute to El Paso for an autopsy."

Monroe's pickup was found at the site.

Kirspel said Monroe was last seen alive Monday.

"We've talked to people who saw him Monday afternoon alive," he said. "It doesn't mean that there weren't other people who have seen him, we just haven't found anybody who had seen him alive since Monday."

FILE: Twelve candidates apply for District 3 council seat

(From 1A)

tions for the city beginning at 1:30 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

The order of their talks will be determined by lot at 9 a.m. Monday in the city secretary's office.

Profiles of the candidates and reasons why they are seeking the City Council post — according to their applications — follow:

Bruce W. Blake, 40, a Republican, is a certified professional landman, investor in oil and gas, property manager and member of Midland's Parks and Recreation Commission.

Blake recently campaigned for the County Commissioners' Court. But he lost his bid for the nomination in the four-way party primary election and in the two-way runoff election.

Blake advocates efficient and effective spending of tax dollars.

"Every dollar in taxes is a dollar out of an efficient producer's pocket." Government, he said, "does not create any original value" but is necessary to "further public good" and to "achieve the common goals."

Andrew Grier Brunson, managing partner of Brunson Partnership, former restaurateur, instructor in Special Olympics and Little League Baseball coach, is active in promoting Texas natural resources, such as oil and gas.

"I sense that this may be the most progressive council in a decade and (I) would welcome the chance to lend to it specialized experience in negotiating with state and federal legislators, as well as drafting of an effective local sign ordinance," Brunson said. "I am able to vocalize the community concerns of District 3."

Evelyn Gould, part-time office manager and financial coordinator for a group of optometrists, is past president of the Midland League of Women Voters and active in civic affairs.

"I can continue to make a positive contribution to the future of Midland in a non-biased, non-political way so that all citizens of Midland will benefit," she said.

Thomas H. Dollahite, corporate aircraft pilot, is a retired U.S. Army officer, Hospice of Midland volunteer and Civil Air Patrol search-and-rescue volunteer.

"I want to help make Midland, Texas, the best possible place to live, work, play and retire," Dollahite said. "I will strive to enhance and improve our city government and to maintain or even possibly reduce our current tax rates."

Rhonda G. Durham, is manager of Rholyn Management Co., which specializes in oil and gas and real estate. She's a former French teacher at Trinity School, Hospice of Midland volunteer, member of Teen Court's board of directors and is active in civic affairs.

"I wish to see Midland and Midlanders prosper and thrive in the future and hope that the city will offer its citizens opportunities and challenges that will absorb them and attract others," Mrs. Durham said. She said Midland "provides an exceptional quality of life" for its citizens.

John F. McGuigan, is self-employed and has work experience with Hilton Hotels Corp., Americana Hotels, Transworld Leasing and First National Bank of Midland.

"I have no political agenda to advance," McGuigan said. "My goal is to support economic development and diversification while keeping taxes at a reasonable level and providing city services consistent with Midland's well-educated and active citizens."

John O. Nobles III, is a real-estate agent, former bank teller and auditor, chairman of Midland's Planning and Zoning Commission and Little League Baseball coach.

"I am very interested in the future of Midland as this is my home and (I) have deep roots in this city," he said. "I feel that I can help in the planning and leadership through my participation on the City Council. . . . I want to see the city grow and develop in order to encourage new business and families to move to Midland."

Charles "Charley" W. Pierce, owner of Fashion Floors, is a licensed real-estate broker, former Midland College instructor and former volunteer for VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance).

Pierce, 42, said he is an "advocate for better education" and a "positive role model."

Don Washburn, a certified public accountant, is a graduate of Leadership Midland and a member of the Midland Chamber of Commerce's Retention-Expansion Committee.

Washburn said he has a "strong interest in this city and its future. . . . As a fiscal conservative myself, I believe that I can best represent the views of this district and its constituents and am committed to doing so."

James David Webb, is an independent geologist and has served as a grand jury foreman.

"This community has given my family and me opportunities that resulted in a very satisfactory business environment and cultural lifestyle," Webb said. "Living in Midland has been challenging, rewarding and fun. I would now consider it a privilege to give back to the community, through City Council involvement, my time and talents."

Hugh G. White III, a retired geologist, is a former candidate for Midland City Council and Midland College board of trustees.

White said he has the available time and experience to benefit Midland by his service on the City Council.

"I believe that a greater variety of background and skills on the City Council will be of value to the city," White said. "I would like to be involved in public service to the City of Midland in which I have lived (this time) over 36 years. . . . I have a variety of skills and experience which I can contribute to the city's benefit."

Lee Files Wood Jr., managing partner of Hiwest Midland Ltd., served on the March of Dimes board of directors in Midland and on the Revitalize-Downtown-Midland Committee.

"I care very much for this city, and I want to see it continue to grow and prosper . . . and I would like to be able to help shape Midland for the future," he said.

JEERS: Woman goes to court in deaths of her sons

bodies were found in the back seat.

Sheriff Howard Wells said an autopsy indicated the boys were alive when the car plunged into the lake on Oct. 25.

"Her whole world was crashing," a law enforcement source told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity. "She caught her husband in adultery. She was having a relationship with another guy, and he was breaking it off. He had told her he wasn't ready for a ready-made family."

Tom Findlay, 27, said in a statement through his lawyer that he broke off their relationship Oct. 18.

"I was not ready to assume the important responsibilities of being a father," he said. That was not the only reason, he said, and, "At no time did I suggest . . . that her children were the only obstacle in any potential relationship with her."

He and Mrs. Smith worked at Conso Products, where Findlay was a graphic artist, his lawyer, James P. Cooney III, said. Findlay's father is company president.

■ SMITH UPDATE: Call Cityline, 560-2400, enter 6207

Findlay went to police early in the investigation with the letter and was not a suspect, the law enforcement source said. However, Mrs. Smith was suspected almost from the beginning because of inconsistencies in her story.

One was that she said the carjacking happened while she was stopped at a traffic light with no other cars around, but the light required another car to turn it red, the source said.

She also told police she had been at a Wal-Mart in the hours before the abduction, then changed that to say she was just driving around.

Mrs. Smith's lawyer, David Bruck, would not discuss a possible defense strategy or other aspects of the case. All he would say about Mrs. Smith was that "she is heartbroken."

Mrs. Smith and her estranged husband, David, had issued tearful pleas on national television for the return of their children, but her story began unraveling late last week when she failed the first of two lie detector tests.

During the investigation, Wells downplayed speculation that she was the culprit. Sources speaking on condition of anonymity said police had feared Mrs. Smith might commit suicide and take the secret of the children's whereabouts to her grave.

Authorities said they did not believe David Smith or others were involved.

Throughout the ordeal, Mrs. Smith had maintained that a black man took her car and children at gunpoint. The allegation strained relations between blacks and whites in this town of 10,000.

The case bore similarities to a 1989 murder case in Boston in which a white man, Charles Stuart, told police a black man shot his pregnant wife to death. Stuart later jumped to his death from a bridge as investigators zeroed in on him as the killer.

Outside the courthouse Friday, spectators shouted at Mrs. Smith, who covered her face with her manacled hands as she was led into the courthouse.

at the possibility that ice had formed on the wings and that the pilot was slow to recognize the danger because he was flying on autopilot.

■ CRASH UPDATE: Call Cityline, 560-2400, enter 6203

American Eagle said Thursday it is prohibiting all its ATRs from flying on autopilot in icy weather while the National Transportation Safety Board investigates Monday's crash of American Eagle Flight 4184.

Trans World Express, Trans States Airlines, Continental Express, Mahalo Air and Atlantic Southeast Airlines also use ATRs.

The FAA ordered all pilots of the ATR-72, a high-wing, twin-engine turboprop, and a shorter version, the ATR-42, not to use autopilot during icy weather and to avoid "prolonged operations in temperatures near freezing with visible moisture." The agency said such conditions could cause "uncommanded roll."

An autopilot may allow the plane to become dangerously unstable when it is compensating for changing weather conditions because the crew may not realize the adjustments are being made.

The pilot of a different American Eagle ATR-72 flying near the area of the crash the same night said that he encountered turbulence and icing and that his autopilot made his plane roll more than usual.

He said his craft was buffeted by strong wind and he felt a "shudder" as he turned right while approaching South Bend, about 60 miles northeast of Roselawn, where the plane crashed.

The FAA also ordered pilots of ATRs not to extend flaps while circling and to keep engine power at above 86 percent while flying in icy weather.

NTSB investigators said information from Flight 4184's data recorder shows the pilot turned on his de-icing equipment 16 minutes before the crash. The plane was on autopilot in a holding pattern for Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The temperature at the plane's altitude of 10,000 feet was well below freezing.

Ice on a wing can alter its aerodynamic shape, substantially reducing lift and making the craft dangerously unstable.

The plane's flight data recorder showed the craft rolled 77 degrees to the right — standing nearly on end. It recovered slightly, then flipped upside down and plummeted from about 9,400 feet.

Ice on the wings was blamed for the 1987 crash of an Italian ATR-42 that went down shortly after takeoff from Milan, killing 37 people. An Italian government report said the ice made the plane roll in an unusual way, and the crew suspected the roll was caused by a malfunction in the automatic pilot.

The FAA first issued a warning about flying ATRs during icy weather in 1989, after an American Eagle flight over Wisconsin took a roll similar to Flight 4184's, but recovered safely. As a result, the FAA ordered ATR-42 pilots not to use autopilot in icy weather.

The FAA later approved using autopilots in ATR-42s during ice as long as "vortex generators" — small credit-card-size devices mounted vertically along each wing to redirect airflow and maintain lift — were installed. Those devices were installed on Flight 4184.

But ice could cover a vortex generator and make it ineffective, said Chuck Eastlake, professor of aerospace engineering at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, Fla.

EYES: Candidates hope to be youngest members of Congress

(From 1A)

Still, Luntz said, young candidates usually have to run once or twice before they're elected because they lack money and visibility.

Many of the 14 candidates in their 20s fall into that category: They're making their first bids for public office against well-financed, well-known incumbents who represent the district's dominant political party.

Among them is Stephen Hollingshead, 25, a political science instructor at Marquette University in Milwaukee, who said he's running because the timing is right for a Republican — even though he's in a traditional Democratic district.

Hollingshead said his biggest hurdle isn't his age, but his role as a challenger, which makes it difficult to raise money or recruit volunteers. "It has very little to do with the fact I don't have gray hair," he said.

Some young candidates already have established themselves in state government. Randy Tate, 28, has built a political base as a conservative GOP legislator in Washington state for six years.

His motivation for running is a familiar refrain among Generation X types: Those in power in Washington, D.C., are insensitive and outdated. It's time for a change.

"Young people think Congress is out of touch big time," said Tate, whose political baptism came as a Pat Robertson supporter in 1988. "It doesn't understand the concerns they have trying to find a job, making ends meet, trying to provide for a family."

At the opposite end of the political spectrum, another state legislator eyeing Capitol Hill is the 27-year-old Kennedy, who is vying for an open seat in Rhode Island. He has money, support from President Clinton and nationally known Democrats — and of course, THE name.

"People know my family," he said. "That helps to mitigate any kind of initial sensitivities people may have to my age, the fact they know I've got good resources to draw on in terms of people and expertise."

Kennedy also notes he was a lawmaker at 21.

"I may be young, but I'm not wet behind the ears," he declared, adding that he reflects his generation's more "pragmatic" approach to politics.

"It's less partisan," he said. "I think there's a general feeling that we want to do what works, discard what doesn't and just get on with it."

The Constitution requires that House members be at least 25 years old. The average age of House members in the 103rd Congress is 52; the youngest, Cleo Fields, a 31-year-old, won re-election in October in Louisiana's open primary system.

He says talk of term limits shows voters like the idea of young candidates.

"They don't have the same baggage as many people who have been in politics all their lives," said Fields, who was a state senator at age 24.

Fields has capitalized on his youth, recruiting college students as volunteers, yet he says breaking the age barrier has its pressures, too.

"We have to live up to greater expectations," he said. "If I fail, it adds to the old cliche, 'He was too young, he didn't have enough experience.'"

Credibility is an issue for some voters who may think Generation X knows more about Doc Martens than health-care reform.

"They are very open to the attack they don't have the adult experience to understand the problems facing their constituency," said Luntz, the pollster.

But Bernie Omann, a 29-year-old Minnesota candidate, already has five years as a state lawmaker under his belt — he replaced his father after he died — and worked the family farm, familiarizing himself with agricultural, trade and other economic issues.

Omann, an Independent-Republican who narrowly lost a congressional bid two years ago, contends he and his peers can best cope with issues of the 21st century.

"It's time for this generation to break the mold that people don't pay attention to politics and policy until they're 40 years old," he said.

Russian economics minister resigns; economy reflects ruble's crash

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Yeltsin's government was in growing disarray Friday with the resignation of a top advocate of economic reform and the appointment of the third finance minister in four weeks.

The shakeup was presented as fallout from the Oct. 11 crash of the ruble, which had raised serious questions about the state of Russia's economy. But more broadly, it underlined the Cabinet's mounting instability.

On Tuesday, Yeltsin dismissed the first deputy defense minister, a general accused of corruption and linked to the bomb killing of an investigative reporter.

In recent weeks, there have been rumors that Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin and Defense Minister Pavel Grachev were to resign or be dismissed. And the government barely survived an Oct. 27 no-confidence vote in the State Duma, the parliament's lower house.

Yet despite the turbulence among his ministers, Yelstin appears to remain clearly in charge in Russia, and committed to maintaining his economic reforms. The conservative Duma, various industrial and military lobbies and state officials are all fighting for power amid unclear economic trends and allegations of graft and conspiracy.

The latest victim was Alexander Shokhin, economics minister since January and deputy prime minister since March. He submitted his resignation to Yeltsin on Friday and told a news conference he didn't expect it to be rejected.

Yeltsin had no immediate comment, and his press office said it could not confirm receipt of the resignation letter and therefore had no comment.

Shokhin had indicated a day earlier that he might lose his job over the ruble scandal, like other senior officials did. On Friday, he suggested the crash was being used for "political games."

"The economy has become a hostage of politics," Shokhin said.

His resignation cast doubt on the Cabinet's ability to present a unified political and economic front.

Bosnian Serbs prepare for final showdown with Croats after defeat

KUPRES, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian government and Croat troops consolidated their hold on this strategic town Friday while Serb leaders, smarting from defeat, issued a call to arms and vowed to take it back.

Bosnian Croat militias dug in at defensive positions and ducked when a Serb-fired shell landed from the northwest. Government troops kept watch from positions overlooking Kupres. On the town's outskirts were strewn the bodies of Serb soldiers.

Kupres' streets were deserted except for an abandoned cow and a couple driving a car slowly down a main street. Bosnian Croat soldiers said they were Croats driven out by the Serbs in April 1992 who had come back to check on their property.

Jubilant government officials said the fall of Kupres on Thursday was a sign that fortunes had shifted decisively against the Serbs in Bosnia's 2½-year war. In recent weeks, the Serbs have lost hundreds of square miles of territory on several fronts.

In Pale, the Bosnian Serb stronghold east of Sarajevo, military leaders announced a general mobilization Friday, suspending university classes, setting up student brigades, canceling all leaves and toughening penalties against deserters, including confiscations of their property.

"We are headed for the final battle," declared Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic.

Although outmanned, Bosnian Serb troops are better armed than their foes, and until recently had been supplied by Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. But Yugoslavia cut off supplies in August in an effort to shake its image as an instigator of the war and to end a crippling international embargo.

U.S. dollar finishes high; stocks bullish

TOKYO (AP) — The dollar finished higher against the Japanese yen Friday, while prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange rose moderately in light trading.

The dollar closed at 97.72 yen, up 1.32 yen from Wednesday's close in Tokyo but marginally lower than its level in final New York trading of 97.71 on Thursday.

After opening at 97.74 yen, it ranged between 97.64 yen and 97.77 yen.

Two straight days of intervention by the U.S. central bank, the Federal Reserve, helped strengthen the dollar in New York. Financial markets in Japan were closed Thursday for Culture Day, a national holiday.

The Fed action Wednesday and Thursday helped the dollar move back to above 97.50 yen after it plunged to a post-World War II low of 96.08 yen Wednesday.

Japan's trade minister, Ryutaro Hashimoto, on Friday said he welcomes the repeated interventions by the U.S. central bank to support the dollar.

Hashimoto said he hoped coordinated efforts by the United States and Japan to intervene in foreign exchange markets will boost the dollar to a "reasonable" level but didn't specify what that level would be.

Senator's housekeeper remains cause for hot debate in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Guatemalan whose employment by Sen. Dianne Feinstein has come under scrutiny in the Democrat's tight re-election bid was not legally entitled to work for Feinstein or any other private employer, immigration authorities said Friday.

Feinstein, in a race too close to call with Republican challenger Michael Huffington, has said she employed the woman as a housekeeper from 1980 to 1982 after checking her work documents. She was then mayor of San Francisco.

Huffington contends in an advertisement that began airing Thursday night that Feinstein employed Paiz illegally and is lying.

According to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Annabella Paiz had a visa to work in the United States between November 1979 and November 1980, but only for the Guatemalan consulate in San Francisco.

"She would have violated her status in the country if she worked for anyone else," said INS spokesman Michael Flynn, adding that he could not disclose details of Paiz's work experience for privacy reasons.

Except for that one-year period, Paiz was not entitled to work legally in the United States between 1973, when she entered the country, and 1984, when she received "humanitarian parole" to stay. She has been able to work without legal restrictions for the past decade.

Feinstein spokesman Kam Kuwata said, "If that was the document that was presented to Dianne, clearly, she would not have hired her."

Paiz, in a brief telephone interview earlier Friday, said she was legally entitled to work for Feinstein.

"Yes, I was legal," she told The Associated Press. "I already talked with her (Feinstein) and I'm not going to say anything more." She did not identify the documents.

Last week, it was disclosed that the Huffingtons illegally employed an undocumented immigrant from Guatemala as their children's nanny from 1989 to 1993.

The disclosure damaged Huffington's Senate bid, on which he has spent $25 million of his own money in the most expensive Senate race ever. The candidates have spent a total of more than $36 million.

Feinstein acknowledged employing Paiz but said the woman had provided what appeared to be a legitimate work permit.

Strikers produce own newspaper despite conditions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Striking employees of the city's two largest newspapers put out their own paper Friday — The Free Press.

Reporters and layout editors worked on computers propped on folding tables while other strikers rushed around, discussing future editions and picket line assignments.

"They can take my job away but they're not going to take my voice away," said Cynthia Robins, who wrote a column for the strike paper called Cyn Speaks.

It's a variation of Cyn City, the column she usually writes for the San Francisco Examiner.

The Examiner and the San Francisco Chronicle were available Thursday on the Internet after 2,600 employees in eight unions went on strike Tuesday night. The strikers' paper also was available in cyberspace Thursday.

About 100,000 copies of The Free Press were printed. A second edition wasn't expected until next week, but the unions hoped to put their paper out daily if the strike drags on.

The 12-page Free Press included three full-page advertisements, news, sports and entertainment.

The employees walked off the job in a dispute over pay and layoffs of Teamster delivery drivers and youth carriers. Management threatened Thursday to fire strikers and replace them if they did not return to work by Nov. 9. Contract talks resumed Friday with a federal mediator.

Psychologists give explanation for mothers who kill children: stress

UNION, S.C. (AP) — At the courthouse where Susan Smith arrived to answer charges that she murdered her two young sons, a baffled bystander shook her head and said, "Evidently something clicked in her. Something went wrong."

But what?

Psychologists and others who have studied women who kill their children say the crime may be horrific but is not without explanation or precedent. Often, severe depression or an unbearable "pileup of stresses" may trigger latent emotional or mental illness, authorities say.

"People don't want to believe it. Unfortunately, one of the lessons of this is: Hey, believe it. It happens," Charles Ewing, a forensic psychologist at the State University of New York in Buffalo, said Friday.

Of 9,576 American murder defendants in 1988, 258 were parents of the victim — and 55 percent of the time, the killer was the mother, according to a July study by the federal Bureau of Justice Statistics.

"Child abuse is the one violent crime that females commit as often as males do," said Bridgewater (Mass.) State College psychology professor Elizabeth Kandel-Englander, noting part of the reason is that mothers generally spend more time with their children than the fathers do.

But authorities say there are many reasons why mothers kill.

"Usually there's a complex of factors: the individual's victimization, current stresses and their own abilities to cope," said Glenda Kaufman-Kantor of the Family Research Lab at the University of New Hampshire.

Citing other cases, Kaufman-Kantor said those who kill are "sometimes women who have very low self-esteem, or women who feel that they have the possibility of a relationship and the man doesn't want the responsibility of kids."

On Friday, a Columbia television station reported that Mrs. Smith had been seeing a man named Tom Findlay, who broke up with her Oct. 18 because "he was not ready to assume the responsibilities of being a father." In a separate report, CNN said investigators had found a letter to Mrs. Smith from a boyfriend saying he "did not want any kids around."

"When there's a pileup of stresses, that can be a catalyst for someone who ... perhaps has an emotional illness," Kaufman-Kantor said. "It seems so shocking and egregious when a woman kills her own children. That's because of the assumptions that we make about women — that they're patient, nurturing paragons. They're simply not."

Post-partum depression is often blamed for infanticide, although Mrs. Smith's younger son, Alexander, was born 14 months ago.

"Sometimes when women kill older children, it happens because they're mentally ill or severely depressed," said Kandel-Englander. She noted women sometimes "believe they're saving a child from something terrible. If they're religious, they think the child is going to heaven."

In rare cases, a killing can occur when a person is in a "fugue state," in which memory is absent, she said.

A sign in the front yard of Sean Apke of Lima, Ohio, shown Friday, reflects the horror and frustration at the revelation that Susan Smith admitted to killing her two young sons, Michael and Alex Smith, in South Carolina.

Groping athletes receive punishment

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Three West Point athletes have been barred from playing football for the rest of the 1994 season for groping female cadets when the women ran past during a pep rally.

The three unidentified athletes were also restricted to the U.S. Military Academy grounds for 90 days, received demerits and were ordered to march for 80 hours, the academy said Friday.

Two other players who were also accused of running their hands across the breasts of female cadets on Oct. 20 were cleared because of insufficient evidence, academy spokeswoman Andrea Hamburger said.

The incident occurred during a "spirit run," in which the cadets ran through a cordon of about 200 Army football players.

Col. Alan A. Fox, brigade tactical officer at the academy, handed out the most severe penalty he could impose. More serious offenses can be referred to the superintendent, who can expel cadets.

The academy had moved quickly on the case to avoid comparisons to the Tailhook scandal, in which dozens of women were molested by drunken aviators who formed a gantlet in a hotel hallway during a 1991 convention in Las Vegas.

The names of the athletes' accusers were not disclosed.

"It was handled very quickly, very professionally," said 21-year-old Stephanie Arnold, who as deputy brigade commander is the No. 2 cadet at the academy and the highest-ranking female student, "and I think if other things come up, women will feel very confident they can go and tell people about it."

Clinton does whirlwind campaign for big stakes

■ CAMPAIGN UPDATE: Call Cityline 560-2400, enter 6206.

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — President Clinton's prestige and capacity to govern are at stake along with the careers of the endangered Democrats he is embracing in the closing days of the midterm campaigns. In many ways, Clinton's presidency is on the ballot — and his campaigning shows he is mindful of this.

Clinton's political efforts over the past week have been frantic, as is his schedule for the next few days — covering two or three states a day as he crisscrosses the nation.

Preparing to spend a weekend campaigning in California — a state crucial to his own 1996 re-election bid — the president on Friday sought to capitalize on a new unemployment report to trumpet his economic policies.

"We have delivered what the American people have long wanted," he said after the Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate had dropped to 5.8 percent in October — its lowest level in four years.

He was clearly ready to play his economic card in California, whose long-stagnant economy is finally beginning to come out of the doldrums.

It was no coincidence that Clinton's first stop in southern California on Friday was at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, where he was to formally announce the signing of a $1.6 billion contract between China and McDonnell Douglas for the sale of 40 aircraft.

Sometimes, for all of Clinton's campaigning, it's hard to tell who's on the ballot. Supporters of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo at a rally in Albany chanting "Four More Years" for Cuomo changed their chant to "Six More Years" when they saw Clinton walking to the podium.

Midterm elections are always indirect referendums on presidents, but Clinton raised the stakes — and the political risks — with his final week of campaigning.

"At least he's trying hard and working hard. He didn't hide. He's out there swinging. And Americans like that," said Thomas E. Cronin, president of Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash., and the author of several books on the presidency. "He didn't shrivel up or give up."

The president was confining his home-stretch campaigning to the West Coast and the Northeast and the upper Midwest — including Friday's appearance here in behalf of Democratic Senate hopeful Ann Wynia and a planned return visit to Minnesota on Monday.

Judge grants Simpson jurors edited TV tapes, papers

■ SIMPSON UPDATE: Call Cityline 560-2400, enter 6202.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors in the O.J. Simpson murder trial could watch edited tapes of "Roseanne," "Home Improvement" and even football under a tentative agreement reached Friday by lawyers and the judge.

The 12 jurors are under strict orders to avoid all media and bookstores. However, in an effort to keep them from going stir-crazy, they would be allowed to watch video tapes of news broadcasts and their favorite TV shows with references to Simpson edited out.

The plan also would allow jurors to get newspapers — probably the Los Angeles Times, Daily News and Sentinel, the city's black newspaper — with Simpson stories clipped out. The papers would be delivered to jurors' homes a day late.

Jurors would be able to watch edited tapes of sporting events, but nothing from ESPN, the all-sports cable channel that has covered the Simpson case, said defense lawyer Shawn Chapman. Simpson was a star running back for the Buffalo Bills.

"We'd like to restore some normalcy to the jurors' lives," Chapman said. "They've been having a difficult time and we'd sort of like to give them more freedom."

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito tentatively approved the plan. The jurors return to court to get their orders on Tuesday, the same day a second panel of about 80 people will be questioned as lawyers try to find 15 alternates.

The jury, which includes eight blacks and eight women, was selected Thursday. Ito would allow jurors to watch the TV tapes until he decides whether to sequester them.

Earlier in the week, the judge had suggested "The MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour" as the type of show jurors could watch because it has stayed away from Simpson coverage. The jury was thinking more along the lines of "All My Children."

HIV mother keeps son despite father's protests

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An HIV-infected mother on Friday regained custody of her son, who had said he wanted to live with his father because he's afraid his mother will make him sick.

State District Judge Andy Mireles rejected Deepak Midha's last-ditch plea for temporary custody of his son, Leopold. The 12-year-old boy has testified that he wants to live with his father because he is terrified of contracting AIDS and dying if he hugs or kisses his mother.

Midha returned to court Friday after he and his son turned themselves in for fleeing. Leopold was staying with his mother, Cosima Midha.

Leopold ran away from his mother just hours after being reunited with her Wednesday. He and his father then led police on a three-county search Thursday.

"This fight is not over," Midha said Friday afternoon. "It will not end until Leo is back in San Antonio where he belongs — in his home.

"He wants to be here with me. He begged with me and pleaded with me to do whatever it took to achieve that. I will do that," he said.

Attorneys for Mrs. Midha did not immediately return phone messages left at their law office in San Antonio. It was not known when Mrs. Midha, who lives in France, and Leopold would leave the country.

Midha said he would continue his battle in French courts.

Bush brings gubernatorial campaign to Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Declaring his spirits high and victory imminent, George W. Bush solicited votes Friday in West Texas to break open his tight race for governor.

He touted his slight edge among members of United We Stand America — the group formed from Ross Perot's 1992 presidential bid — as proof that Texas residents aren't happy with their schools, welfare rolls and crime rate under Gov. Ann Richards.

"I cut my political teeth right here in Lubbock County," Bush said, alluding to his 1978 loss to Kent Hance in a race for Congress. "Although we came in second in a two-person race, it will be a different story in 1994."

"People are sick of a failed welfare state and they're ready for a change," said Texas Tech law student Andy Keetch, one of about 200 people rallying at a Lubbock airport hangar.

United We Stand announced results Friday of an unscientific, mail-in survey of more than 1,000 of its Texas members. Findings showed 46.1 percent favoring Bush, compared to 44.8 percent backing for Richards.

■ CAMPAIGN UPDATE: Call Cityline 560-2400, enter 6206.

On Thursday, an independent Mason-Dixon Poll of 824 registered voters showed Bush taking his first statistically significant lead at 4 percent, just over the 3.5 percent margin of error. The survey conducted from Monday to Wednesday showed 48 percent for Bush, 44 percent for Richards, and 8 percent undecided.

Another poll earlier this week found that Richards was favored by 46.76 percent, compared with 43.94 percent for Bush. That survey of 517 voters had a 4-percent error margin, making Richards' edge statistically negligible.

Perot, a Dallas billionaire and political maverick, ignited a flurry of endorsement-posturing this week by announcing his support for Richards, a Democrat.

Earlier Friday, in Dallas, a cast of business leaders, politicos and former professional athletes turned out in force for Bush, a Republican.

Former Perot campaign consultant Tom Luce called Bush visionary for laying out proposals to improve public education.

"Under the governor's leadership, she has basically said everything is fine in education, even though property taxes have doubled, even though still half of our youngsters cannot pass basic skills tests, she says everything is fine," Luce said. "Well, I don't buy that, and I know George doesn't."

The Richards campaign disputed Luce's remarks.

Holiday madness hits theaters early

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — You're just recovering from Halloween and — surprise! — Christmas is already here.

To be more precise, the holiday movie season starts this week, earlier than ever before. And not a moment too soon, as far as the film industry is concerned.

There's palpable anticipation — on studio lots, if not necessarily anywhere else — for such holiday-themed fare as John Hughes' remake of "Miracle on 34th Street" and "Home Improvement" star Tim Allen's big-screen debut in "The Santa Clause"; for the decidedly less cuddlesome spectacles of Robert De Niro and Tom Cruise getting monstrous in, respectively, "Mary Shelley's Frankenstein" and "Interview With the Vampire"; for Arnold Schwarzenegger getting pregnant with "Junior"; and for Michael Douglas getting sexually harassed by "Disclosure's" Demi Moore.

That's because, even though the 1994 fall film session has been the second best on record, a perception of disappointment has hung over it like a dark cloud.

More films were released in September and October than there were during the same record-setting months of 1993, and the few hits among them have made less money.

"The year after a record year, it's hard to get improvement," noted Art Murphy, box-office analyst for the Hollywood Reporter. "There have been no big, runaway hits this fall, and business should end up off about $40 million from last year."

Still, Murphy is generally upbeat about the abbreviated autumn film season. He notes that action movies "Timecop," "The Specialist" and "The River Wild" should all end up grossing somewhere in the $40 millions. Moreover, the two fall films that are performing better than pre-release expectations, "Pulp Fiction" and "Stargate" — which has just registered the best October opening ever — could end up grossing upward of $50 million each.

Otherwise, things have been pretty lackluster since the end of 1994's all-time best summer. "You've

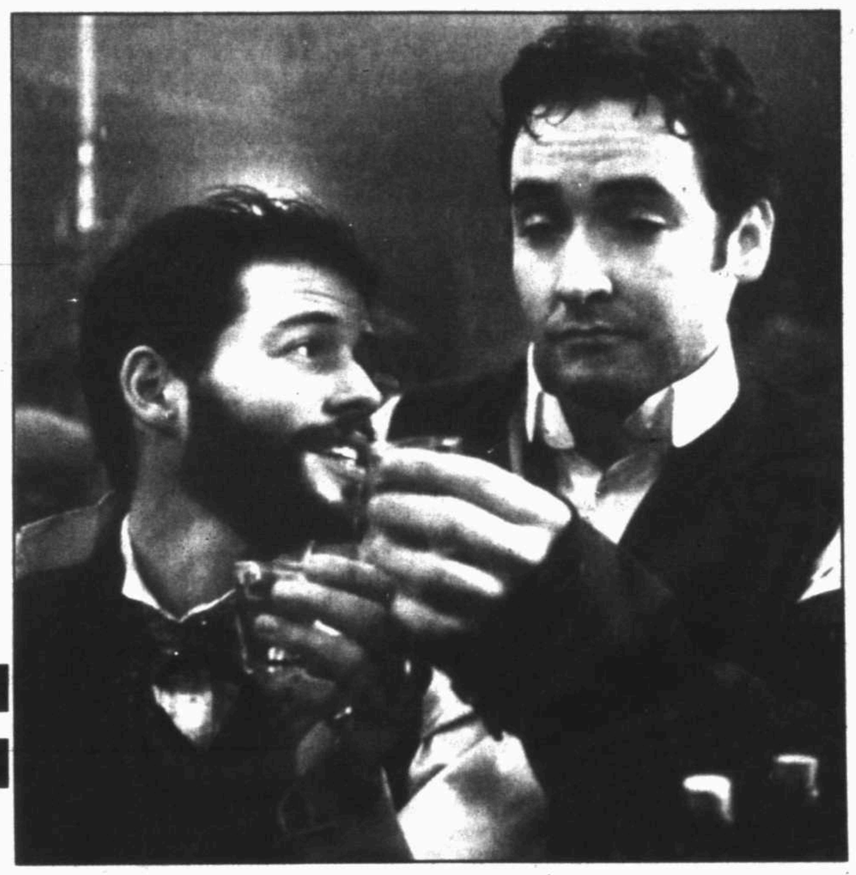
THE ROAD TO WELLVILLE



■ Anthony Hopkins shines as head of talented cast including Matthew Broderick, Bridget Fonda and John Cusack.

In the late 19th century, a rare eccentric named Dr. John Harvey Kellogg propounded his theories of nutrition and hygiene to avid followers. A fierce vegetarian, he railed against the customary American diet of red meat, thick gravies and rich desserts.

The patrons of his Battle Creek (Mich.) Sanitarium were fed granola, Bulgarian yogurt, stewed raisins, okra soup and other healthy delicacies. They also were given peanut butter and corn flakes, which Dr. Kellogg reportedly invented. (His younger brother, W.K. Kellogg, founded the cereal empire.)

The weird world of Dr. Kellogg provides the basis for "The Road to Wellville," a richly textured social comedy written, directed and co-produced by Alan Parker. Zestfully acted by a talented cast headed by Anthony Hopkins, it is a dazzling feat of movie-making.

Matthew Broderick and Bridget Fonda are a married couple who enroll at the sanitarium at her insistence. They occupy separate rooms, since Dr. Kellogg preaches that sex is unhealthy and irrelevant, except for baby-making. Arriving on the same train is sleepy-eyed John Cusack, who aims to start a breakfast cereal company with his aunt's money.

Broderick is at first amused and then appalled by the sanitarium's regimen of enemas, electro-shock baths and cattle-feed meals. Fonda is entranced by the place and drifts away from her husband. Cusack is led astray by a humbug, Michael Lerner, and loses his money.

Dominating all is the demonic Dr. Kellogg, an outrageously hilarious portrayal by Hopkins, hiding behind

No one can label Mary Chapin Carpenter

By Paulette Flowers
Otto Kitsinger
N.Y. Times News Service

Mary Chapin Carpenter first won the hearts of Music Row's skeptics when she opened the 1990 CMA Awards with "You Don't Know Me, I'm Your Opening Act," a song she wrote after being the opening act at too many clubs where people just wouldn't pay attention to her. Now everybody listens to the latest from this three-time Grammy winner and two-time CMA Female Vocalist of the Year.

But it was touch-and-go there at the start. Mary Chapin (and that is her name — like "Mary Ann") was born in Princeton, N.J., but her father worked for Life magazine, and the family moved a lot. She was encouraged to pursue music by her seventh grade science teacher at an international school in Tokyo, Japan.

The family finally settled in the Washington, D.C. area, a place Chapin still calls home. Her father got tired of hearing her sing and play only in her bedroom, so he insisted she go to amateur night at Gallagher's Pub. By the time she graduated from Brown University with a bachelor's degree in American Civilization (1981), she was playing professionally in area clubs at night and working at a small philanthropic organization during the day.

In 1987, she got a record deal with Columbia, but she didn't give up her day job. Probably a

Mary Chapin Carpenter takes chances both musically and lyrically. While she can rock out ("Down at the Twist and Shout," for instance), she's at her best when she makes us listen and think.

De Niro breathes intelligence, complexity into Frankenstein

By Dolores Barclay
Associated Press

The story of Frankenstein is one of the most imaginative and enduring gothic tales, with all the elements for good theatrics: a frightening creature, an obsessed scientist, romance, morality, life, death, revenge and redemption.

In the 1931 film classic, Boris Karloff made the monster a being who didn't know his own strength, but could appreciate beauty and childhood innocence. To this day, despite numerous Hollywood meanderings, his Frankenstein has remained the prototype for the creature.

In the latest film version, Kenneth Branagh's "Mary Shelley's Frankenstein," Robert De Niro breathes intelligence and compassion into the creature, making him far more deep and complex. His performance shows a master at work; De Niro actually becomes the monster, clinging somewhere between life and purgatory.

His performance is a standout in Branagh's sprawling and literate work, which, unfortunately, tends to goes way over the top.

What emerges is a stylish romp, drowned in a sea of excess.

The movie purports to be based on the 1818 gothic tale woven by Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin Shelley on a dark and stormy night while she and her lover, the poet Percy Bysshe Shelley, visited Lord Byron. They were each to create ghost stories. Mary's evolved from a nightmare after listening to the two men discuss science and reanimation.

Branagh, who directed from a screenplay by Steph Lady and Frank Darabont, opens the story on the ice floes of the Arctic Sea. The year is 1794, and Captain Walton (Aidan Quinn), who is stranded on the ice with his ship and crew, is determined to reach the North Pole.

From the chilling mist comes Victor Frankenstein (Branagh), a morally tortured man who is pursuing his murderous creation.

As he tells Walton, he grew up a pampered child, the son of a prominent physician. He is in love with his adopted sister, Elizabeth (Helena Bonham Carter), and much attached to his mother. When she dies in childbirth, he vows at her gravesite: "No one need ever die. I will stop this. ... I promise."

He leaves Geneva to study medicine in Ingolstadt, a town ravaged by cholera. There, he encounters Professor Waldman (an almost unrecognizable John Cleese in a much subdued role), who has experimented with creation.

After Waldman is killed by a one-legged thug (De Niro), Victor swipes the professor's notes, steals his brain and claims the body of the executed murderer.

In what has got to be the most frenzied scene of creation ever put on film, Victor tears through the lab, pulling levers, pushing buttons, jabbing electrodes and propelling a litter containing the patched-together creature over a series of tracks to a coffin-like pressure-cooker filled with amniotic fluid.

Electricity crackles through the air, and Frankie Jr. is born.

But Victor can't live with what he has wrought. He tries to destroy his creation, but collapses with pneumonia. The monster escapes with Victor's journal and finds his way to the woods, where he adopts a family and, through his good deeds, becomes their "forest spirit" — until he is mistaken as the person who attacked an elderly blind man.

It all comes apart for the creature after he reads Victor's journal and realizes that he's a patchwork quilt of body parts. He seeks his revenge against Victor and all that Victor holds dear.

There's a sort of baroque poignancy to the creature and his story that is lost amid the quick cuts and episodic scenes employed by Branagh. Even worse is the annoying soundtrack that intrudes on all action. (This is something American filmmakers usually love to do — blast canned "excitement" music over action. It's supposed to give us a thrill. All it does is obscure the action and give us a headache.)

HOLIDAY: Christmas comes early at box office

got a whole raft of pictures which are underperforming," noted Variety's box-office analyst Leonard Klady.

Except for "Pulp," traditional fall fare — arty works, serious dramas and adult romances — has failed to find much of an audience.

Some of these films, no matter how well made, simply had limited appeal built into them. "Radioland Murders"? Only in George Lucas' wildest fantasies. And Tim Burton's tribute to the cross-dressing worst director of all time, "Ed Wood," quite obviously was not of the same, must-see caliber as the last black-and-white movie biography by a popular popcorn filmmaker, "Schindler's List."

But other fall disappointments were as much the result of marketing gaffes as of tough-sell subject matter. The Disney folks likely thought they had this year's "Schindler's" when "Quiz Show" debuted to rapturous reviews and massive media coverage in mid-September.

But by opting for a limited exposure, relatively exclusive release pattern — a fine strategy for pre- and post-Christmas awards time, but not wise so close to the start of the prestige picture season — they missed their window to capitalize on all of that positive publicity. By the time "Quiz Show" got to most folks' neighborhoods, the dominant movie buzz was all about Meryl Streep's muscles.

"Disney didn't respond to the heat," Klady noted. As for the fall's well-reviewed, indifferently attended prison picture, "I just don't know how you respond to a picture called 'Shawshank Redemption,'" Klady quipped. "What is a shawshank? Can I buy one at Sears?"

But it wasn't just the upscale stuff that had a tough time of it this fall. "Only You" and the Warren Beatty-Annette Bening remake of "Love Affair" were rejected by romantic moviegoers. Less thrilling action thrillers such as "Terminal Velocity" plummeted out of sight fast. Except for the science fictional "Stargate," supernatural films keyed to a Halloween-stoked audience didn't scare up much business — and attempts to market "Wes Craven's New Nightmare" as a Freddy Krueger art film were laughed at by everyone except credulous critics.

Klady noted that perhaps the season's most puzzling development was the fate of "Little Giants." Kiddie-aimed sports comedies have done remarkably well in recent autumns — "The Mighty Ducks" and "Cool Runnings" were two. But despite decent notices and little competition for small fry film dollars, the football flick has failed to click.

All of which makes movie moguls even more relieved that they decided to start the big-star, big-production holiday season slate at the beginning of November this year. In fact, there wasn't much choice, good fall or bad: So many features are scheduled to open in Los Angeles over the next two months, we can't even list them all. If the rush didn't start early, there wouldn't be enough theaters for 'em.

But before the studios start passing out fat Christmas bonuses, the Reporter's Murphy offers a caution.

"The promotional holiday season starts this week," he said. "But the public doesn't respond (to movie hype) until the weekend before Thanksgiving. Since business is softer now than it was a year ago, if a popular film comes along before then, fine. But let's not pretend the public goes to movies on weekdays before the holidays actually begin."

LABEL: Singer makes her own way

good thing, too, because although "Hometown Girl" got rave reviews from the critics, her music didn't seem to fit anywhere. It wasn't exactly country, but it wasn't exactly anything else either. By 1992's "Come On, Come On," which spawned seven hit singles, people stopped trying to label her.

Now her music is just Mary Chapin Carpenter. Her new album, "Stones in the Road" debuted at No. 1 on Billboard's country charts and at No. 10 on their Top 200 Albums (all styles). Her hilarious performance of "Shut Up And Kiss Me" at the CMA Awards, when Little Richard made her do just that, may have something to do with those figures.

While Chapin can be a show stopper, she always makes sure that the show does go on. Once, just before taping an episode of TNN's "Church Street Station," she ripped a big hole in her black stockings. No one could find another pair right away, so she colored her leg with magic marker so the hole wouldn't show. Another time she was booked in two places on the same night. Rather than miss one of the performances, she got a high-speed ride in a state police car between the gigs.

Silent Fall: Film is pretty to look at, fun to watch unfold

By Eleanor Ringel
N.Y. Times News Service

Aside from an obvious appreciation for nature, there's nothing in the new movie "Silent Fall" to connect it to Rachel Carson's early '60s environmental plea, "The Silent Spring."

Rather, this is a solid, if not inspired, suspense drama. Directed by Bruce Beresford, who brings a sense of quality to any project (even the recent flop, "A Good Man in Africa"), "Silent Fall" is a good example of what a no-brainer should be; not some pre-pubescent Pauly Shore idiocy , but an easy-to-watch, not-too-hard-to-figure-out thriller. Preferably with a good cast, some smart lines and great scenery.

"Silent Fall" does especially well in the scenery department. Set on Maryland's beautiful Eastern Shore, the movie begins with a prosperous couple found brutally murdered in their bedroom. The only witness to the crime is their 9-year-old son, Tim (Ben Faulkner).

Trouble is, not only is Tim traumatized by whatever he's seen, but he's also autistic. While the film goes to great lengths to stress that autism is not an easily understandable condition, it's used for plot purposes to make the boy especially hard to reach.

Enter Jake Rainer (Richard Dreyfuss), a once-prominent psychiatrist who quit treating children after a tragedy befell one of his patients. But at the request of the local sheriff (J.T. Walsh) and Tim's protective older sister (model Liv Tyler) — and maybe just to irk an arrogant former rival (John Lithgow) — Jake agrees to take the case.

The film's central problem is that the plot depends too much on autism as a contrivance — as a kind of freak state that bestows on the victim everything from superhuman strength to an uncanny ability to mimic voices. Akiva Goldsman's script isn't stupid or offensive; it just doesn't always hold up.

What does hold up are Maryland's gorgeous autumn colors. So do the spectacular old houses lining the Miles River (it makes you want to head for the area's nearest B&B).

You'll probably guess the killer (I did and I'm wretched at that). You may well snicker at some of Dreyfuss' more "actorly" moments and a couple of far- fetched plot twists. But all in all, this isn't such a bad way to spend an afternoon.

Preachiness creates casualty of 'War'

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Well-intended Hollywood drivel is somehow even harder to take than the usual, exploitative kind.

"The War," for example. It's a painfully obvious and earnest story that really doesn't have any idea what point it's trying to make, except that people ought to feel better about stuff. Heavily allegorical, this Vietnam-era drama refracts the issues of the age through the prism of children's ignorance. It doesn't work at all, except as a riposte to those grumps who complain that "Forrest Gump" trivializes history.

In 1970 rural Mississippi, the admirable Simmons clan has fallen on even harder times than usual. Dad Stephen (Kevin Costner, actually acting this time) has come back from Southeast Asia, traumatically stressed and paralyzed with guilt. He committed an act of pragmatic cowardice in the bush and won a Purple Heart, but no peace for his conscience.

In and out of psychiatric clinics and generally too shattered to hold a civilian job, Stephen has lost the family's modest homestead. Stereotypically enduring wife Lois (Mare Winningham) works two jobs to keep food on their welfare-shack table.

Meanwhile, their tomboy daughter, Lidia (Lexi Randall), and spunky son, Stu (Elijah Wood), run unsupervised about the woodsy terrain. Lidia's two best friends are African-American girls (LaToya Chisholm and Charlette Julius, the two most appealing of the film's numerous young newcomers) who teach her the Supremes' choreography and ethnic respect. Stu and his buddies are building an elaborate tree fort, a project Lidia and her posse are always horning in on.

But brother and sister have to join forces when the feral horde of Lipnicki children — whose abusive alcoholic father owns the junkyard the Simmonses steal their building materials from — decide the fort is theirs. Having already lost one home, Stu and Lidia aren't about to give up another.

Poignance here grows out of Stephen's sincere efforts to teach Stu that very little in this life is worth fighting for. Showboaty drama occurs when Lidia and her friend stand up to a racist teacher. There's spectacle when Simmons and Lipnicki factions go into vicious kiddie combat over the prized fort. And there are supposed to be tears when love eventually salves even the most grievous losses.

But despite across-the-board competent performances, it's awfully hard to be moved any which way by a story so relentlessly determined to teach lessons both by sermon and parable.

bunny-rabbit teeth, goatee and crewcut. He seems to have stored all the unused energy of his recent low-key roles and poured it into the bombastic, bullheaded messiah. The only obstacle to the doctor's crusade is his demented adopted son, an inspired creation by the protean Dana Carvey.

"The Road to Wellville" gives Broderick, Fonda and Cusack a chance to show that they can handle period comedy as well as contemporary drama. The huge cast (56 speaking parts) is filled with clever caricatures. The production design by Brian Morris captures the splendor of resort living in the last century.

Alan Parker handles his triple duties with skill, especially in paring down T. Coraghessan Boyle's lengthy novel. Only in the latter stages does Parker roam afield, depicting sex therapy that is glaringly unfunny.

The Columbia Pictures release was also produced by Armyan Bernstein and Robert T. Colesberry. The R rating is for ample nudity, sexual situations and language. Running time: 117 minutes.

Thoughtful Moments™

The Footprints of God

In deepest sleep one night I dreamed
That on the beach I walked
God was by my side each step
And quietly we talked.
Then on the sky my life was flashed;
Of sorrow and strife

Just a single set of footprints
At the worst times of my life.
"God — you said you'd stay by me
In good times and in bad —
Why then did you leave me
Each time my life was sad?"
"My gracious child," God
"When your life had simple set of
times I carried you."

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Women to host auction

The Women's Missionary Union of Ranchland Heights Baptist Church is sponsoring an evening of food, music and an arts and crafts auction today at the Suburban Lions Club Building, 2550 Flynt Ave.

At 6 p.m., food will be sold by the Suburban Lions Club. At 7 p.m., an hour of gospel singing, led by Pat Merritt, will begin. Next up will be the auction of arts and crafts. The proceeds will be given for missions.

Pat Hall, president of the Women's Missionary Union, is collecting items for the auction.

All are welcome to attend. For more information call 697-4471 or 683-1947.

■ Quartet to perform

ODESSA — The Southern gospel quartet The Cathedrals will perform at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8 at Temple Baptist Church, 1000 N. Texas St.

The quartet has been nominated for 10 Grammy Awards and has received a Grammy for Best Gospel Performance in 1977, 1978, 1979 and 1982.

The group has received 10 Dove Awards.

Tickets for the Odessa concert are $5 and may be purchased at Ark Family Books and Gifts, The Lighthouse, Midland, and at Temple Baptist Church. For more information call 1-337-3641.

■ Celebration planned

Presbyterian minister and lecturer Peter Marshall will be the keynote speaker for the fifth annual Community Thanksgiving Celebration set for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 20 at Chaparral Center, Midland College campus.

The event is an ecumenical outreach of Golf Course Road Church of Christ.

"Mr. Marshall is renowned for his views concerning the decline of public and private ethics and the critical need for a revival of the moral and spiritual values and traditions on which the United States was founded," said a release from Golf Course Road Church of Christ.

While he is in Midland, Marshall will conduct a series of lectures at the Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 W. Golf Course Road. The free public lectures will be at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Nov. 21 and 22.

All are invited to attend.

■ Area seminar planned

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas, Inc., is hosting an area wide seminar, "The New, the Expanded, the DSM-IV" Nov. 11 at the UTPB Center of Energy and Economic Diversification.

The workshop, which will be conducted by Dr. Norman H. Bouffard, is for counselors, social workers, psychologists, psychiatrists, students, researchers and teachers in the mental health field.

Bouffard is director of counseling at the Pastoral Counseling and Education Center, Dallas. He is an approved supervisor for the American Association of Pastoral Counselors. A licensed social psychotherapist and a licensed psychologist with health service provider status, he has been listed in the "National Registry of Health Service Providers in Psychology" since 1979.

The workshop fee is $45 which includes lunch and course materials. All participants must register in advance. For more information call the center, 563-4144 or 1-800-329-4144.

Deadline for registration is Nov. 8.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your career will take great strides forward. A clash of wills is nothing you cannot handle. Work hard and an employer or client will soon find you indispensable. A recent financial investment will begin to pay off next spring. A residential move or change of lifestyle means greater domestic harmony. Do everything you can to shore up a longtime alliance. A second honeymoon could be even better than the first!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Vivien Leigh, playwright Sam Shepard, actress Tatum O'Neal, singer Ike Turner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Impulsive behavior could rock your love boat. Someone influential will come to your rescue. Although certain strings are attached, they are the kind you like!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Important people acknowledge your contributions publicly. Your common sense approach to financial negotiations pays off handsomely. Spending some quiet time alone recharges your batteries. Let loved ones know that you are on their side.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your ideas strike a chord with those who share your goals. Social gatherings or group travel could be very lucky. Decorate your home to reflect your special interests. Display a collection in a prominent place.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your social life is on the upswing; seek out positive companions. Take time to define your philosophical beliefs before embarking on an intimate relationship. Mistaking physical attraction for mental rapport could prove costly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Personal hopes and wishes need to be analyzed. Remember, people are not possessions; give loved ones more space. Doing something unusual in the way of exercise puts you in an upbeat mood. Eat lightly tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Hidden talents and resources will help you solve a financial problem. Find a quiet place where you can think things through without being disturbed. Investigate any opportunities to increase business profits or your personal prestige.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do not let friends interfere in your domestic affairs. You know what you want and have a good chance of getting it. Be more aware of financial restrictions and business possibilities. Conserve your resources.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The constructive measures you adopt now will bring great contentment in the future. Strive for spiritual growth. Do not sidestep an emotional issue. You need to be supportive of your family and friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Partnerships of all types enjoy highly favorable influences. Personal freedom could become an issue with mate. Seek something different from a new relationship. Maintain a loving heart when dealing with friends and family. Be forgiving.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Do not try to run on nervous energy alone. Nutritious meals lead to greater stamina. A brilliant flash of insight helps you solve a dilemmas. A romantic encounter takes place far from home. Be careful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The suddenness of certain family developments could throw you off-balance. Go with the flow. A desire to settle down grows stronger. Return phone calls and talk with old friends. Their comments could surprise you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): People you count on may disagree with your choices or let you down. Do not panic! Any problems you face are best resolved on your own. Spice up your love life but know the risks.

Marsalis leave from 'Tonight Show' might not be so rosy

LOS ANGELES — Is Branford Marsalis' hiatus from "The Tonight Show" as rosy as his spokeswoman made it sound?

Working as the "Tonight Show" bandleader is "not my idea of wonderful musical creativity," Marsalis told the music magazine BAM. "We play the music exactly the way they (the producers) want, but we're laughing the whole time."

There's more.

The bandleader and saxophone player said in the magazine's recent issue that "as long as everybody toes the line in mediocrity, it's cool."

Marsalis' spokeswoman, Annie O'Hayan, had said Wednesday that his indefinite leave of absence from the show starting early next year doesn't reflect unhappiness with the job or host Jay Leno.

In BAM, Marsalis said the on-screen chemistry between him and Leno will never be what David Letterman and Paul Shaffer have because "I'm not the kind of person that's gonna kiss Jay's ... and say everything he does is right."

NEW YORK — Mickey Rourke wins the celebrity room-trashing sweepstakes over his pal Johnny Depp.

Rourke's total at the ritzy Plaza Hotel was $20,000, said Donald Trump, owner of the Plaza. The $5,000-a-night suite was so damaged Thursday it had to be closed to guests for repairs.

"His behavior was completely irresponsible, and it cannot and will not be tolerated," Trump said in a statement.

Rourke causes $20,000 in damages to hotel room.

The actor checked into the Plaza three weeks ago and was kicked out after he "went berserk" and "broke furniture that was unbreakable," the New York Post said, quoting an unidentified Plaza source.

A source in Trump's office said Rourke was banned from the Plaza for life.

No charges were filed, but Rourke should expect a bill.

His spokesman didn't immediately return a call.

Depp was arrested in September after trashing a room at the Mark Hotel. The charge was dropped after he agreed to pay for nearly $10,000 in damage.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Zulu dancers and child singers greeted Whitney Houston at a museum Friday, and the singer pledged about $281,000 to help children in South Africa.

Houston will perform three concerts in South Africa beginning Tuesday.

"Children in South Africa deserve a safe place to live, good health and someone to hold them when they go to sleep," she said at a news conference.

Her donation will support work in children's health, homelessness, education and also go toward advocacy groups.

The concerts will be broadcast by Home Box Office.

LOS ANGELES — In the whatever-happened-to category, we have Jaye Davidson.

The Oscar-nominated gender-bender known for his surprise turn in "The Crying Game" said his androgynous look has been a damper on job offers.

"I don't really have a star career ahead of me because basically, what are they going to do with me?" he said in an "Entertainment Tonight" interview to be broadcast Monday.

"I'm very hard to cast," Davidson said. "I'm not going to be co-starring along with Sylvester Stallone as the next action hero!"

Davidson said he accepted the role of an intergalactic ruler in "Stargate" because he needed the money.

"I didn't have any money at all," he said. "I thought, 'Well, if I ask for $1 million, there's no way I'm going to get it.' And then I can say to myself, 'Well, they wouldn't pay me enough, that's why I wouldn't do it.'"

He got the $1 million.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — The media of the '90s have created an "idiot culture," Carl Bernstein says.

Journalists have abandoned their mission to pursue the "best obtainable version of the truth," focusing instead on the sensational, the lurid and the titillating, the former Washington Post reporter said Thursday at Salem College.

Bernstein won a Pulitzer for breaking the Watergate story with Bob Woodward.

NEW YORK — "60 Minutes" is taking a long, hard look at Jana Wendt, the Jane Pauley of Australia.

"We are now talking about the possibility of her joining us at some time in the future as a regular correspondent," "60 Minutes" executive producer Don Hewitt said Friday.

Wendt, anchor of her own nightly public affairs show on Australian TV, already has taken on three assignments for the CBS newsmagazine, Hewitt said.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ New meeting set

The Parkway Group of Alcoholics Anonymous and the Serenity Group of Al-Anon have announced a new joint "open" meeting from 7:30-8:30 p.m. every Monday at Westminister Presbyterian Church in Odessa. The first meeting will be November 7, 1994.

Like other meetings of the two groups, the new meeting will be "non-smoking." Because it is also an "open" meeting, not just A.A./Al-Anon members are invited, but all who are interested in exploring what the A.A. Twelve-Step program might be able to do for them.

The format of the new meeting is Step Discussion. Each week one of the 12 Steps will be discussed.

Entrance to the new meeting is by way of the southwestern door to the Westminister building on Maple Ave. Parking is in the westernmost church parking area on Maple.

■ Youth event set

Lutheran Youth of Midland and Odessa are invited to a Pizza Supper and Youth Lock-in at 7 p.m. tonight at Hope Lutheran Church, 2003 N. "A" Street in Midland.

For more information, ask your pastor or call 683-1936. Sponsored by Texas Lutheran College and Hope Lutheran Church.

■ Church wants to help

The holiday season is the toughest time for persons who have suffered the loss of a loved one by death or divorce. We want to help. Saturday, November 12, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. you are invited to join us at First Baptist Church, corner of Garfield and Louisiana.

Information about the grieving process and dealing with depression will begin. A panel of single adults will be available to answer questions of coping with the holidays alone. Call Pat at 683-0609, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. for more information.

Admission is free.

■ Classes offered

First Baptist Church in Midland will be offering art classes in oil, watercolor and mixed media, taught by Virginia Whitten of Big Spring. These classes will be taught every Wednesday from 1-4 p.m. in the activities building of the church, and the first class begins Wednesday, Nov. 9th. Beginners as well as advanced students are urged to sign up. For further information call the activities building at 683-0647.

Her paintings express many aspects of her personality. Not willing to stick to one technique, she has used them all. She works in many media, and avoids only one thing — copying another artist's work.

Mrs. Whittens work has been shown in galleries in Lubbock, Houston and Sante Fe, N.M. For over 20 years, Virginia has taught private students in multiple medias, and has taught art courses at Howard College in Big Spring.

She has won more than 300 local, regional and national awards.

■ Guest to speak

John F. Anderson will be speaking at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas during the worship hours of 8:15 and 11:00 a.m. plus a 6:00 p.m. pie supper on Sunday, Nov. 6, 1994.

Rev. Anderson is Pastor Emeritus of First Presbyterian Church in Dallas and served as Interim Pastor at First Presbyterian Church in Midland. He received his B.A. from Austin College, Sherman, in 1941. In 1944, he received his B.D. from Union Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. While attending Union, he was president of Seminary Student Body and awarded the Moses D. Hoge scholarship for graduate study. He received his Master of Theology Degree from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in 1953. He has pastored the church in Tyler, Dallas and Orlando, Fla. He was moderator of the 122nd General Assembly, Presbyterian Church, U.S. in Columbus, Ga. in 1962.

The Pie Supper will be Sunday, Nov. 6, 1994 at 6:00 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

■ Recitals planned

Brian A. Luce, principal flutist of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Flute Teacher with the Fine Arts School of First Presbyterian Church of Midland, will be performing two upcoming recitals with pianist Shari Santorelli in the month of November. He will be giving a Faculty Recital in the Sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church on Monday, November 7 at 7:00 p.m. The second recital will take place on Friday, November 11 at 7:00 p.m. at the Odessa College Music Building recital hall. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Luce, a native of Phoenix, Ariz., is a newcomer to West Texas, having moved here this fall to play with the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale. He received a master's degree in flute performance from the University of North Texas and holds a bachelor of Music Education degree from Henderson State University in Arkadelohia, Ark.

■ Clinic scheduled

CDL Drivers Clinic will he held at First Baptist Church Activities Building on November 12th.

If you do not currently have a Commercial Drivers License you need to come from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. If you have a CDL B you need to come from 1-3 p.m. for an upgrade on air brakes (test) and do an off street safety check.

Lunch will be available for $5.

For information call 683-0647, 683-0648 or 683-0649.

■ Performance set

Harvest Time Church presents The Oak Singers on Sunday, Nov. 6th at 10:15 a.m. The church is located at 2801 S. County Rd. 1207.

The Oak Singers are a gospel music singing group from Live Oak, Calif. In 1977, when they first organized, they entered the California State Fair Talent Contest thereafter they stepped out in faith into a full-time ministry.

Since then, they have recorded many albums in Nashville, Tenn. of which all the songs were written by members of the group. They have traveled to most parts of the United States and parts of Canada, averaging about 270 appearances per year. They have appeared on numerous television programs such as: "Praise the Lord," Santa Ana, Calif.; "The California Tonight Show," Concord Calif.; "The Eleventh-Hour," Modesto, Calif.; "The Old-Time Gospel Hour," Kansas City, Mo.; and several programs from Nashville Tenn.

■ Auction planned

Arts and Crafts made by members of Ranchland Heights Baptist Church will be auctioned Saturday evening at the Suburban Lion's Club building, 2550 Flynt Ave. (West County Rd. 103).

At 6 p.m. sandwiches and homemade desserts will be sold by the Lion's Club followed by an hour of gospel singing led by Pat Merriott.

Highlighting the evening will be the auction of homemade quilts, shirts, baked goods, and other crafts. Proceeds will go to the Lottie Moon Christmas offering. Pat Hall is director.

The pastor, Lucian Rudd, invites the public to attend. For more information call 697-4471 or 683-1947.

■ Breakfast planned

The MCC Men's Breakfast Meeting set for 8 a.m. today at Mid-Cities Community Church, Highway 191 at Exit 1275, will address the subject of the Men's Movement.

During the meeting, a video featuring Randy Phillips, executive director of Promise Keepers, and Edward Louis Cole, author of "Maximized Manhood," "Real Man" and "Facing the Challenge of Crisis and change," will be shown. Via video, Phillips challenges men to know why they need to be a part of " The Men's Movement."

A discussion will follow the video.

The men-only meeting is conducted by Mike Bogart and Russ Austin, pastor of Mid-Cities Community Church.

No admission will be charged. A free will offering will be taken to cover the cost of the video and breakfast. All men 13 years old and older are welcome. For more information or directions to the church, call the church office, 561-9159.

■ Pastor appointed

Author, speaker and evangelist Dean Guest has been appointed pastor of Greenwood United Methodist Church beginning Sunday.

Appointed by the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, Ms. Guest has been minister at Union UMC. She also has served at Leroy Community Church.

She and her husband, John Guest, who is church administrator at First UMC, Midland, have lived in Midland for three and a half years. They have two grown children who are both in the ministry.

■ Singles to meet

FRIDAY NIGHT THUNDER: WEEK 10

MHS shuts out 'Cats

■ Bulldogs finish up 5-5 with 26-0 win over San Angelo but Midland Lee is still in playoffs after Odessa High loss.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

SAN ANGELO — On what may go down as the strangest night in District 4-5A football history, Midland High claimed its share of the glory here Friday night with a 26-0 bombing of the San Angelo Bobcats.

According to the prognosticators, this was news of mammoth significance. This was the upset that lifted the Bulldogs out of the dark ages of losing seasons and left the Purple Pack with a 5-5 mark, its first non-losing campaign since 1989. And this on a miserable, rainy night that ended up feeling like a West Texas sunset.

But there was more. An MHS victory over San Angelo was supposed to eliminate Midland Lee from the state playoffs. But wait! News from Abilene was Abilene High 7, Odessa High 6. Scratch the Bronchos from the playoff list and now insert the Rebels against Amarillo High at 1 p.m. Saturday in Amarillo.

Meanwhile, Odessa Permian pulled off the 31-16 upset over No. 1 ranked Abilene Cooper to head to the Big ANDREWS — Darwin had the theory. But nobody has put it to work better than this year's Big Spring Steers.

The Steers' season evolution came to a rousing head here Friday as Big Spring brushed off the Andrews Mustangs 24-0 to secure District 4-4A's runnerup playoff spot. It was Andrews' (2-7, 2-3 in district) worst loss of a troubled

Buffs run over 'Dogs playoff bid

■ Jerele Lee rushes for 212 yards as Stanton eliminates Coahoma from the playoffs.

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

STANTON — The Stanton Buffaloes ran all over the Coahoma Bulldogs and took a bite out of the Bulldogs hopes for their first playoff berth in 22 years with a convincing 35-15 win in the District 6-2A finale for both teams.

The Buffaloes finish the season at 3-2 in district play and 7-3 overall, while Coahoma capped off an amazing year at 2-3 in loop play and 6-4 for the year.

With Stanton already out of the playoff picture, the Bulldogs only had to win and hope for a Winters victory over Wall.

But it was the Buffaloes who played like the contender while Coahoma seemingly played like the team that did not want to lose.

Lady Chaps survive pesky Chihuahua

■ The Midland College women pull away in the second half for their second win in as many days.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

ODESSA — It would only be natural for Midland College to enter Friday's afternoon game with the University of Chihuahua with a little hangover after the Chap Center celebration to the tune of a 51-point win in its first-ever game Thursday night.

But the Lady Chaps shook off the confetti and kept it simple by pounding the block with 6-foot-3 center Joanna Kailahi to defeat the pesky Chihuahua team 102-84 during the second day of the Odessa College Lady Lioness Tournament.

Midland improves to 2-0 on the year and will play its third game in 48 hours today when they face Ranger Junior College in a 2 p.m. game.

"I think this was a tough game because of the game last night," said Jones, referring to the 119-68 win over Southwestern Christian. "Being a brand new year and a brand new team it made it tough to get ready for this game. I was more concerned with that than the opponent."

After scorching the Chap Center baskets for 15 three-point field goals in Thursday's game, the Lady Chaps found it tough to dial long distance at the OC Sports Center.

Midland overcame a 38-35 deficit by scoring 67 second-half points. Midland warmed up with 53.5 percent shooting from the field in the second half after hitting just 31.8 percent (14-44) in the first period. The Lady Chaps connected on just 3-of-16 three pointers in the opening half.

Chaps foul in season-opening win

■ Midland College tops Ranger by 19 but commits 30 fouls to dislike of coach Pat Rafferty.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

If one was to tell you that Midland College won its season opener by 19 points, you would think the Chaps were back on track for another trip to the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., next March.

And while the Chaps may play in Kansas next spring, the path the Chaps took en route to a 101-82 victory over Ranger Junior College left a sour taste in Midland coach Pat Rafferty's mouth.

Midland committed 30 fouls which resulted in 29 Ranger points. That statistic alone left Rafferty shaking his head after the game.

"You can't guard free throws," said a disgusted Rafferty. "I thought we played without much purpose in the second half. I'm not satisfied with any phase of our game in the second half. We forced some bad shots and got selfish with our shots.

"I'm concerned with how we played. Garden City is a good team and they will check our oil early tonight."

In the first half Midland used its catquick back court to keep Ranger out of it rhythm. The Chaps stole the ball 16 times in the first half, including seven by freshman guard Rob Foster who led all Midland scorers with 20 points.

Trailing 5-2 early, Midland went on a 14-2 run to carve out a 16-7 lead with 14:43 to play in the first half on back-to-back three pointers by Foster and Devon Phillips. The two combined for 26 first-half points.

Ranger stayed within reach in the first half thanks to Midland's fouling. The Chaps committed 18 personal fouls in the opening half and Ranger took advantage scoring 17 of its 32 points from the foul line.

Ranger whittled Midland's 28-point halftime lead down to 14, on two Durville Patton free throws to make it 79-65 with 6:55 to play, but could draw in closer.

"We just didn't play smart in the first half," said Ranger coach Tommy Simmons, whose Rangers drop to 0-3 on the year. "If we had made more of our free throws it could've made a difference. In the second half we played more our tempo."

Patton was a one-man scoring machine for Ranger with 38 points, including 28 in the second half.

In the earlier game, Howard guard Kovossy Franklin scored 27 points to lead the Hawks to a win over Garden City (Kan.) Community College. Garden City led by eight points, 37-29, with 2:11 remaining in the first before Howard took the elad for good with 9:20 to play in the game.

CHAP NOTES: With its win over Ranger, Midland improves to 18-2 in season openers and to 13-1 in the series over Ranger. Tonight Midland (1-0) will face Garden City (0-1) at 8 p.m. and Howard (2-0) will face Ranger (0-3) at 6

Gooden booted for 1995 season

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight Gooden, the beloved but bedeviled pitcher who carried the New York Mets to baseball's biggest prize, was suspended Friday for the 1995 season because of repeated drug violations.

Gooden, who will turn 30 in two weeks, already had been suspended once this year — for 60 days on June 28 after testing positive for drugs. He underwent treatment at the Betty Ford Center from July 22 to Aug. 14, but tested positive again.

"Dwight Gooden needs to get his life in order," Mets general manager Joe McIlvaine said. "Dwight needs himself to realize the problem and come to grips with it.

Gooden, the NL Rookie of the Year in 1984 and the NL Cy Young Award winner the following year with a 24-4 record, led the Mets to the World Series title in 1986. But less than six months later, he admitted he had a cocaine problem and voluntary entered a treatment center in April 1987.

"The bottom line is he's going to have to rid himself of the problem. That's it. There's no maybe or fine line," said Gooden's agent, Jim Neader.

Neader met with the pitcher for about an hour Friday on the front step's of Gooden's home in St. Petersburg, Fla. Gooden chose not to speak publicly Friday, but probably will make a statement next week, Neader said.

"He's determined to beat it and get back to 100 percent health," Neader said. "And when that is achieved, then we'll think about baseball."

Gooden, a Cy Young winner by age 20, has been a larger-than-life figure in New York. A multistory portrait of him on the mound is painted on the side of a building in midtown Manhattan, visible to all exiting the Lincoln Tunnel.

The last Met from 1986 championship team, he technically severed his ties on Oct. 24 when he filed for free agency after completing his $15.45 million, three-year contract.

McIlvaine, who has spoken with Neader about re-signing the right-hander, had only one message to send on Friday: Get help.

"He has been offered the best assistance baseball and the New York Mets have to give for his problem and has not taken advantage of this guidance and help," said McIlvaine, who picked Gooden in the first round of the 1982 draft. "All of us who love this man urge him to get the help he needs, put God into his life and exhibit the same tenacity he showed on the mound, especially in the early years of his career when a lead in the seventh inning meant a victory in the ninth.

"Dwight," McIlvaine said, "needs to demonstrate that same degree of competitiveness to defeat a far more insidious enemy that is sucking the life out of him both personally and professionally."

Baseball's ruling executive council, acting in the absence of a commissioner, ratified the suspension Friday during a telephone conference call. Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig, the acting commissioner, made the decision, management lawyers said.

"All these things are difficult and very sensitive," Selig said.

When he arrived at Shea Stadium, Gooden drew huge crowds of fans who came to see his crackling fastball and sharp-breaking curve.

As a 19-year-old rookie in 1984, he was 17-9 with 276 strikeouts in only 218 innings. It was then that he earned the nickname "Dr. K" as adoring fans hung "K" placards in the stands after each Gooden strikeout.

Rockets begin title defense with win

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Hakeem Olajuwon scored 19 points, including a turnaround jumper with 1:17 left, as Houston held off New Jersey 90-86 Friday night to begin defense of their NBA championship.

Commissioner David Stern awarded the Rockets their championship rings in a pre-game ceremony that included a laser-and-fireworks show.

And then, the Rockets went to work, trying to get a start on duplicating last year's 15-0 start that tied an NBA record.

Houston held the lead from late in the first quarter until the Nets took a 73-72 lead with 8:08 left in the game on a basket by Kevin Edwards.

Warriors 123, Spurs 118

SAN ANTONIO — Tim Hardaway scored 29 points to lead Golden State past San Antonio in a season opener delayed 50 minutes after more than 12,000 gallons of water blasted into the Alamodome.

A pregame fireworks display triggered the arena's sprinkler system, which includes a large water cannon. Players and fans were drenched by water pouring out of the cannon, sending them scrambling for cover.

Once the game finally got underway, Golden State tied the score 99-99 with 8:31 to play on a 3-pointer by Hardaway.

Bullets 110, Magic 108

LANDOVER, Md. — Rex Chapman hit a running jumper with less than a second left Friday night as the Washington Bullets overcame a 17-point deficit and Shaquille O'Neal's 28 points for a 110-108 season-opening victory over Orlando.

Washington trailed 108-107 with 2.4 seconds left when Mitchell Butler bounced an inbounds pass from midcourt to Chapman, who sank a 20-footer from the left side of the key. He was fouled by Horace Grant and made the free throw for the final margin.

Knicks 120, Celtics 107

BOSTON — New York spoiled the opening of the Celtics' last season in Boston Garden as Charles Smith scored 23 points and the Knicks pulled away in the third quarter.

With Smith and Patrick Ewing getting 11 points each, the defending Eastern Conference champions outscored Boston 36-22 in the period after leading 60-55 at halftime.

Ewing finished with 21 points and a game-high 13 rebounds despite not suiting up for any of New York's seven preseason games following arthroscopic knee surgery July 6. John Starks added 17 points

NBA Roundup

Bucks 91, 76ers 86

PHILADELPHIA — Vin Baker scored 11 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter to lead Milwaukee to a win over Philadelphia in their season opener.

Baker's free throw with 30 seconds left gave Milwaukee, playing without top draft pick Glenn Robinson, a 89-86 lead. Philadelphia's Lloyd Daniels turned the ball over with 10 seconds left as the Sixers were setting up for a 3-point attempt.

Pacers 94, Hawks 92

ATLANTA — Antonio Davis hit two free throws with 4 seconds remaining as Indiana edged Atlanta after blowing a 16-point lead.

The Hawks had two chances to force overtime in the final seconds when Ken Norman missed a running jumper in the lane and Kevin Willis failed on a follow tip.

Bulls 89, Hornets 83

CHICAGO — Jo Jo English sparked an 11-0 run early in the fourth quarter and Chicago opened its United Center era with a victory over Charlotte.

Scottie Pippen scored 22 points for Chicago, which held Charlotte to three baskets in the final quarter.

Larry Johnson had 17 points for the Hornets, who are 4-23 against the Bulls and 1-6 in season openers since joining the NBA in 1988. Charlotte played without injured center Alonzo Mourning.

Lakers 115, Pistons 98

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Nick Van Exel scored a career-high 35 points, including six 3-pointers, in leading Los Angeles to a win over Detroit.

Grant Hill, the Pistons' top draft pick out of Duke, led Detroit with 25 points in his NBA debut and Terry Mills added 20 for the Pistons.

Nuggets 130, Timberwolves 108

DENVER — Bryant Stith scored 25 points and Robert Pack had 23, leading Denver to a victory over Minnesota in the season opener.

The Nuggets, pounding the ball inside to take advantage of Minnesota's shot-blocking deficiency, used a 45-point third quarter to open up a 20-point lead.

Jazz 119, Heat 108

SALT LAKE CITY — Jeff Hornacek scored 21 points and Karl Malone added 20, including 14 in the third quarter, as Utah Jazz opened the season with a victory over Miami.

Glen Rice and Steve Smith led Miami with 19 points apiece.

AREA FOOTBALL REPORT

Rangers go undefeated in loop

GREENWOOD — Bucky Smith scored on two second half touchdown runs and the Greenwood Rangers beat Kermit Friday to take an outright District 8-3A championship. The Rangers play Clint in a bi-district playoff Friday in Pecos at 7:30 p.m.

Greenwood finishes its season at 8-1 overall and 4-0 in district. The eight wins ties the Rangers most ever wins for a season. A win over Clint would be Greenwood's first playoff win.

The Rangers rushed for 337 yards and took a 7-6 lead at halftime on quarterback Josh Jones' 53-yard pass to Andy Smith. The Rangers were hampered by four lost fumbles but held Kermit (3-6, 2-3) to 38 yard rushing.

In the second half Greenwood's Smith had TD runs of 11 and 60 yards. Smith had 158 yards on 19 carries in the game. Jones rushed for 72 yards.

MCHS takes district with win

Alex Awtry threw three touchdown passes and ran for two others as Midland Christian beat El Paso Faith Christian 48-0 to win the Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools six-man District 1 with a 3-0 league mark. The Mustangs finish their regular season at 7-3.

The game was called at halftime because of the six-man 45-point rule. Faith Christian falls to 4-6 overall and 2-1 in district.

Awtry ran from ten yards out to begin the scoring in the first quarter. He then hit Michael Nash with a 19-yard pass and had a 50-yard run for a TD. The Mustang quarterback found his brother Alan with a 20-yard TD pass to end the first quarter at 26-0.

Rankin reigns over winless Miles

MILES — Rankin used a 20-point first quarter outburst and then survived a driving rain storm until the game was called in the third period for a 28-0 win over winless Miles here Friday.

With the win, Rankin won its first back-to-back games this season and improves to 3-7 and 2-4 in District 8-1A while Miles drops to 0-10 and 0-5.

Rankin scored twice within a 2:26 period in the first quarter to race out to a 14-0 lead.

Trinity drops final game

ABILENE — John Estes threw for four touchdowns after Ross Thomas ran for three in a 45-0 Abilene Christian win over Trinity here Friday. The loss ruined Trinity chances to make the Texas Associaton of Private and Parochial Schools six-man playoffs.

Trinity ends their first year of league play at 5-5 overall and 0-3 in District 1.

BUFFS: Lee rushes for 212

(From 1C)

way," said Stanton coach Bill Grissom. "I felt like we contained their running game and took away any chance they had to run the ball."

The Buffalo defense did just that as they knocked their two top running backs out of the game in the first half.

"When they knocked our running backs out, we were forced to throw the football," Coahoma coach Eddie McHugh said.

"When you throw the ball, you either score or turn it over," McHugh added.

Although the Bulldogs put the ball in the air 32 times, ironically both of the their touchdowns came on the ground.

The first score was on an Eric McMillan three yard run in the opening quarter to give Coahoma its only lead of the game 7-0.

The other touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Brandon McGuire scored from five yards out.

While the Stanton defense was shutting down the Bulldogs attack, the Buffaloes offense took the first half off, before exploding in the third quarter for 22 unanswered points.

Trailing 7-6 entering the second half, Stanton used the outgoing legs of senior tailback Jerele Lee for 212 rushing yards.

Lee also gave his teammates the lead for good when he romped 26 yards for his first of two touchdowns for a 14-7 advantage at the 5:18 mark of the third period.

Later in the quarter, a Coahoma punt forced Stanton to start from their own 17. Two plays later, Lee went off tackle and used his blazing speed down the sideline for a 77-yard score.

Stanton was not yet through. On the ensuing kickoff, the Bulldogs fumbled the ball and the Buffaloes set up shop at the Coahoma 30.

Four plays into the drive, J.J. Ortiz found paydirt from eight yards out and a 28-7 lead.

"In the first half we just made so many mental mistakes. I felt we should have been up 21-7. In the second half we cut out the silly mistakes and things went our way."

What the Buffaloes accomplished in the third quarter was short of spectacular, amassing 186 yards of total offense and allowing the flea bitten dawgs only 28.

But things got a little tense for Stanton in the fourth quarter. The Bulldogs score midway through the period on McGuire's scoring run to make the score 28-15.

After Stanton failed to convert a first down near the Coahoma 16, the Bulldogs used 10 plays, mostly through the air, to advance to the Stanton 12.

On second-and-10, a McGuire pass bounced off the chest of his intended receiver at the one yard line and into the waiting hands of Stanton's Eric Martel who then returned the ball 99 yards for the clinching score.

"This was a big game for us. We don't like them and they don't like us either so we took care of that tonight," Martel said.

STEERS: Big Spring ends playoff drought season and put Big Spring in the playoffs for the first time in head coach Dwight Butler's four years.

(From 1C)

The Steers play their first postseason game since 1990 at 2 p.m. Saturday in Big Spring against District 3-4A winner El Paso Parkland (8-2, 3-0).

Big Spring (6-4, 4-1) began its season losing seven turnovers in a 25-0 bumbling defeat against Borger. Friday, the Steers didn't turn the ball over for the second straight game, played sound defense and showed the kind of offensive balance they'll need if they want to win in the playoffs.

"I thought after the Levelland game (a 28-7 loss) we had a little downer, but that just shows the guts of these kids," Butler said. "They refused to be defeated ... A lot of people gave up on them but they never gave up on themselves."

The Steers struggle on offense early this year and depended heavily on transfer running back Quinton Dickson in midseason. But Friday junior quarterback Bucky Crenshaw, who began the year on the bench behind Dustin Waters, and several other Steers contributed equally to a capable attack. Big Spring scored on its first three possession to take a 17-0 first-half lead.

"We've got five or six receivers we can go to all the time," Crenshaw said. "It's great to spread the offense out and keep the defense guessing."

Dickson finished with 76 yards rushing and fullback Donny Hill had 74 yards and scored a touchdown. Waters caught two passes and threw a touchdown pass off a reverse. And lumbering tight end Daniel "Bubba" Franks made three catches.

The Steers rushed for 193 yards and were successful the few times they went to the air with Crenshaw hitting four of five passes.

"I've always felt comfortable," Crenshaw said of his status after once backing up starter Waters. "I just get in a groove and I guess everybody feels comfortable with me."

Andrews entered the game with a chance to make the playoffs if it beat the Steers by 10 points or more. And Big Spring could've still made the playoffs with a loss by less than 10.

But the Steers took their opening drive 80 yards for a touchdown and held Andrews to four first-half first downs. Crenshaw scored from the 1-yard line on the opening possession after keying the drive with a 34-yard run on third and six.

"That was a big key to the game," Butler said. "We didn't want to come over here and play the point spread. We wanted to come over here and stay on a roll. We were fortunate to get a big play early from Bucky on the bootleg scramble."

Big Spring got a 31-yard field goal from Drexell Owusu to make it 10-0 and Waters hit Franks on fourth and seven from the Andrews 18 for a 17-0 score. Big Spring converted on six of their first eight attempts on third or fourth down.

The Mustangs completed only one of 16 passes for no yards.

"All year long we never developed as a team and there's lot of factors in that," Andrews coach Mike Lebby said. "We had injuries, we had defections. But the kids always played hard."

Andrews had a long drive to open the third quarter, going 67 yards before throwing an incomplete pass at the Steers 13 on fourth down. Big Spring's Hill scored on a 16-yard run with 2:54 left in the game for the final tally.

Big Spring takes a team with no playoff experience into the game with Parkland.

"We're looking forward to getting back in front of the home crowd with some playoff atmosphere," Butler said. "Who knows (how the players will do). None of them have been there before. I think they'll respond to it well."

So far their response has been good.

DAWGS: Leaverton boots two against wind

(From 1C)

School playoffs against Lubbock Coronado in Lubbock while Cooper will host Lubbock Monterey in the Small School bracket where Lee resides.

But as far as MHS coach Ronnie Reeger was concerned, this was a victory to savor, no matter the outcome of other 5-5A exams.

"If this wasn't our top game, it was within the top one," Reeger deadpanned. "We put together a near-perfect game, and I can't think of a better ending for the seniors on this team. Getting that fifth win is a big deal. I'm really proud of these kids."

Reeger said his troops went into this contest "trying to win the game. We don't have any control on what other teams do, but we needed this fifth win."

And the Bulldogs so completely dominated the Bobcats, that there was no question in this one.

The MHS offense drove for scores on the opening drive of each half as the defense made its presence known like at no other time this season.

Early in the game, MHS defensive end John McCright set the tone with a sack of Bobcat quarterback Bobby Townsend. The message was sent and the Pack never backed down.

"With the weather the way it was, we knew we had to stop the run first," McCright said. "We were just on track tonight and it was great."

With the tone set, the MHS offense ripped off a 78-yard scoring drive with quarterback Criag Coleman hitting a wide open Carl Hickey for a 42-yard strike.

"I saw the defender step inside, and knew this was my chance. I just took off and Coleman hit me with a perfect pass," Hickey said.

David Leaverton, the junior kicking phenom, then gave MHS breathing room with field goals of 34 and 28 yards into the wind as MHS led 13-0 after three quarters.

You would then expect MHS running back Roy Coats to go into cruise control, but lineman turned runner, Paul Howard, came on in the fourth period to salt the Bobcat wounds with 53 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

"It was nice to score since I've never scored a touchdown at any level of play, even elementary school," Howard said. "I came into the season expecting to play linebacker. They changed me to a two-technique on defense and then moved me to running back."

"I tell you Howard is a lineman," Reeger said. "That's just about how bad things got for us with our backs this year with all the injuries we had. He did a great job for us."

Coats ended the night as the game's leading rusher, but missed the 100-yard barrier by six yards. Coats ends his final season with over 1,300 yards rushing. He took a roll in the mud after the game.

San Angelo had a couple of scoring opportunities, but lost four fumbles and Tim Warren also picked off a Townsend pass attempt at the six-yard line. Lineman Matthew Gilmore also had a big game as did linebacker Ricky Cunningham.

MHS isn't going to the playoffs, but the climb was impressive. The 'Dogs were 0-10 just a year ago and were within a two-point conversion against Odessa Permian this year of having a 6-4 campaign. What makes this one even sweeter was the fact that the Bulldogs beat a team they weren't supposed to beat. The Bulldogs end 4-5A play at 2-4, tied with San Angelo and Odessa High for fourth place. Lee goes to the playoffs as the third place team with a 3-3 record.

Only two weeks ago, MHS stood at 1-21 in 4-5A play. They now have a two-game district winning streak — and it's only 42 weeks until they play again.

non-district games before going 6-0 in 4-5A and fell behind the Cougars (5-1 in district, 9-1 overall) 18-10 at halftime Friday.

But Permian (6-0, 7-3 overall) scored 21 unanswered points in the second half to give Cooper its first loss. L.C. Ward got all of the Panthers second half scores on runs of 2, 26 and one yards. He led all rushers with 165 yards.

The Panthers will next play Lubbock Coronado in a Class 5A bi-district game.

Cooper quarterback Zac Allen threw two touchdown passes and rushed for 62 yards. But the Cougars fumbled five times and lost two of them.

The teams traded touchdowns for an 8-8 second quarter score. Permian got a safety to go up 10-8. But Allen hit Ben Rozzell on a 40-yard pass play with 58 left before halftime to put Cooper up 16-10

Ward scored one of his second half TDs in the third quarter and two in the fourth.

Eagles boot Broncs from postseason

Staff Report

ABILENE — Abilene High eliminated Odessa High from the Class 5A state playoffs with a stunning 7-6 here Friday evening.

Odessa High (6-4, 2-4) needed to win to advance to the playoffs after Midland High's 26-0 win over San Angelo Central, but Abilene's sophomore quarterback John Lackey passed a seven-yard scoring strike to Rickey Holmes in the fourth quarter and Sonny Young's extra point proved to be the difference.

The win ends Abilene High's season at 2-7 and 1-5 in district 4-5A.

Poor weather conditions and stingy defense stymied both offenses. Odessa High, which was ranked among the state leaders in total offense earlier in the year, could manage just 177 yards of offense.

OHS got on the scoreboard early when LaQueency Williams run it in from five-yards to make it 6-0 after the kick failed.

Williams led all rushers with 109 yards in 11 carries.

Abilene was led by Nathan Mays with 84 yards on 18 carries.

Cooper tennis advances into 5A state finals

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Highland Park and San Antonio Alamo Heights set up a rematch of last year's Class 4A University Interscholastic League Team Tennis final by winning their semifinal matches Friday.

In Class 5A, defending champion Abilene Cooper will face Houston Clear Lake in Saturday's finals.

The finals are scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. at the Penick-Allison Tennis Center at the University of Texas at Austin.

Highland Park (15-1) defeated Wichita Falls, 11-7, while Alamo Heights (12-1) routed Friendswood, 17-1, at the Intramural Fields courts at the University of Texas at Austin.

Texas-A&M matchup not so traditional

■ A rare non-Thanksgiving battle between the Longhorns and Aggies is not the only thing different about one of the oldest college footbal rivalries.

AUSTIN (AP) — The traditional battle between Texas A&M and Texas today will be anything but traditional.

The game has been moved from its longtime Thanksgiving night date and won't be on television for the first time in 12 years, because A&M is barred from TV by NCAA sanctions.

Each team enters today's game without a victory from the previous week for only the 10th time in 101 meetings.

And then there's the 55-foot Aggies bonfire tipping over and the fact that Texas coach John Mackovic is trying to win back Longhorns faithful who have been calling for his job after losses to Rice and Texas Tech.

About the only thing that has remained the same is the bad blood.

"It doesn't matter if either team was undefeated or either team had lost every game," Texas quarterback Shea Morenz said. "This is Texas A&M, it's a huge rivalry. If you can't get up for this game, you can't get up for anything."

Both teams have plenty to get fired up about.

The 11th-ranked Aggies (7-0-1, 4-0-1 Southwest Conference), who rank sixth nationally in defense, are coming off a shocking 21-21 tie with lowly Southern Methodist.

Texas (5-3, 2-2) has watched a season filled with Cotton Bowl promise degenerate into a nightmare of injuries and player suspensions, culminating in the first loss to Rice in 29 years and a 33-9 blowout by Texas Tech last Saturday.

Now, with Tech and Rice in the driver's seat for the postseason game in Dallas, players say today's game has become a must-win for the Longhorns to salvage a respectable season and possibly their coach's job.

"I think it would take beating A&M and winning our next two (against Houston and Baylor)," center Dan Neil said. "That would give us an 8-3 record, a bowl game and would certainly be better than what a Texas team has done in the past few years."

Texas hasn't been to a bowl since the Cotton in 1991.

The Aggies, the conference's best team and without bowl hopes due to probation, have won nine of the last 10 against Texas, including an 18-9 decision at College Station last year.

"Everyone is talking about where they're going," A&M coach R.C. Slocum said. "This week, teams are trying to wrap up their trips to the Cotton Bowl. It's just something else that we have to work through."

Texas replaced A&M with Baylor for its Thanksgiving Day game so that the Longhorns could get on national television.

A&M will have to overcome a Texas offense that features towering wide receiver Lovell Pinkney, who was suspended from three games earlier this year, as well as the superstition of the Aggies' 55-foot bonfire.

Legend has it that if the bonfire falls prematurely, which it did earlier this week, Texas will win.

Superstitions aside, Texas must stop A&M's bulldozing running game led by Rodney Thomas, who is averaging 5.2 yards per carry and had 134 yards and two touchdowns against SMU.

Mackovic has said the Longhorns will avoid kicking to A&M's all-purpose back Leeland McElroy, who as a sophomore already has four career kickoff returns for touchdowns.

A&M's "Wrecking Crew" defense is led by Antonio Armstrong, who has five sacks.

The Longhorns' defense, which is giving up 366 yards per game, has been ravaged by injury. Only end Tony Brackens and safety Tre Thomas have started all seven games.

Houston faces possible probation

HOUSTON (AP) — Free furniture for a University of Houston running back in 1991 may cost the school two years of NCAA probation, the Houston Chronicle reported Friday.

The newspaper, citing an unidentified source close to the case, said the infraction stems from John Jenkins' tenure as Houston's football coach.

The university has told the NCAA it believes there is sufficient evidence to warrant a finding that members of Jenkins' staff improperly arranged for player Ostell Miles to receive furniture for his off-campus apartment in 1991, the Chronicle source said.

The newspaper said school officials have suggested to the NCAA that its football program be placed on two years probation with sanctions that include a loss of two scholarships and a reduction in practice time. The university did not propose bans on bowls or television appearances.

Athletic Director Bill Carr said Thursday that he would not comment about an "ongoing" probe.

The inquiries stemmed from allegations of impropriety in Jenkins' program made by former assistant coach Steve Staggs.

The NCAA Committee on Infractions can approve the proposed penalties or seek harsher sanctions.

The infraction involving Miles, a highly recruited player who spent less than one season at Houston, occurred less than three years after the university's football program had been placed on NCAA probation for a series of similar violations under Coach Bill Yeoman.

The timing of the violation means Houston technically is eligible to receive the NCAA's so-called "death penalty" for repeat violators. However, the NCAA committee has been reluctant to impose that penalty in recent cases.

Allegations of NCAA rules violations and other impropriety in Jenkins' program were first aired publicly in the spring of 1993 by Staggs, leading to Jenkins' departure and a university investigation which it has refused to make public.

Jenkins, now an assistant coach with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, said Thursday he was not aware of efforts to resolve the case.

"The last time I talked to anyone (regarding the case) was well over a year ago when I talked to (Houston senior associate athletic director) Billy McGillis," he said.

Asked about the Miles matter, Jenkins said he does not remember "being asked anything from an extra benefit standpoint."

The university and the NCAA have been working in recent weeks to complete the summary disposition process in time to have the penalties considered by the committee at its Nov. 11-13 meeting in Kansas City, the newspaper said.

Miles signed with the Cougars in 1991 after two years at Pasadena (Calif.) City College. He left school seven games into the 1991 season for undisclosed reasons. Miles spent the 1992 and '93 seasons with the NFL's Cincinnati Bengals before being cut in training camp this year.

Anderson, Oliver to make Texas Baseball Hall

ARLINGTON (AP) — Longtime Detroit manager Sparky Anderson and former Texas Rangers Al Oliver and Jim Kern will become the newest inductees into the Texas Baseball Hall of Fame, officials announced Friday.

Morris "Buddy" Hancken, a player, manager and owner of several Texas minor league baseball teams, also will be inducted during an annual banquet to be held Nov. 21 at the Arlington Marriott Hotel, the Hall of Fame said.

Other honorary and media members will also be honored. Dr. Bobby Brown, who recently retired as American League president and was a former member of the New York Yankees, will receive a special achievement award.

Anderson, the fourth-winningest manager in baseball history, has won seven division titles, five pennants and three world championships. With Cincinnati (1970-78), he won back-to-back World Series titles in 1975 and 1976.

WOMEN: Kailahi scores 27 for Lady Chaps turned in her second strong performance of the tournament. After scoring more than 40 points in a win over Clarendon Thursday, Ramirez scored 15 of Chihuahua's first 17 points of the game and ended the night with 35.

But Midland's conditioning was the difference down the stretch. Chihuahua had four players with three fouls with 11 minutes to play and Midland extended a 66-61 lead with 8:57 to play to win by 18.

The shortage of treys was Kailahi's cue and she stepped up with 13 points in the opening period to keep Midland close.

"We just were able to hit the three pointers like last night and the guards did a good job of getting me the ball down low," said Kailahi, who held a five-inch height advantage over the tallest player from Chihuahua. "I felt I had an advantage over them down there."

Midland built an early 22-8 lead with six points apiece from Kailahi and Rashunda Jarmon but Ramirez kept Chihuahua in the game with 19 first half points. Chihuahua never led in the first half until Isabel Flores canned an off balance three-pointer at the buzzer to break a 35-35 tie.

LOOKING FOR EXTRA INCOME

OR A STEADY PART TIME JOB.....

Does a Weekly and Monthly Income Sound Appealing????

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has an opening on one of its "Special Allowance" routes. This route receives a regular income from rack sales, $250 per month gas allowance in addition to the regular monthly route profits.

As with all newspaper distributorships, this opportunity requires a P/T, a 7 day a week commitment (when you go out of town, you must arrange a substitute for yourself) and it is early morning work which allows for time to go to your "regular job".

Newspaper distributorships can provide great supplemental income for housewives and/or mothers, senior citizens, college students or any other adult wanting to "moonlight".
