Road Work West of Sonora on No. 27 Completed Tues.

Paving Finished in Crockett Co., Entire Highway to Ozona in First-class Condition

With completion of the last gaps in the 36-mile stretch of Highway 27 between Sonora and Ozona this week the two towns are now linked with a modern highway, which has been paved for nearly half the distance, the 15 miles in Crockett county.

Womack & Henning of Abilene; third contracting firm to work on the project just west of Sonora, finished their work Tuesday of this week and began shipping out their equipment and teams Wednesday.

The paving in Crockett county was finished three weeks ago.

The new highway shortens the distance from 38 to 36 miles and provides a completely bridged route which has no sharp curves nor steep grades.

Possibility of paving the Sutton county portion is uncertain. It will be spring at least before this can be done, says E. E. Pittman, resident engineer. However, bad stretches on the road will be surfaced by the maintenance department under H. L. Taylor, giving an all-weather road to Ozona if and when it rains.

Sonora Firm Offers Wool at Sealed Bid

Oct. 20 Is Date; Other Houses Also Selling Fall Fleeces

The Sonora Wool & Mohair Company has announced a sealed bid sale of its accumulation of about 200,000 pounds of fall wool on October 20.

Market trends in all classes of wool are definitely upward. Prices are expected to run from 28 cents on up on the short wools. One small sale was made here at 26½ cents. Others have gone at 27 cents in San Angelo. Present market demand is so keen that wool is one of the most active commodities today.

The Schreiner Wool & Mohair Company of Kerrville is to have a sale on the 19th, and the Producers' Wool & Mohair Company at Del Rio will have a big sale on the 17th.

Sonora mohair has not been sold.

18 Cars Sheep, Two of Cattle Moved Out

Week's Movement Goes Mostly to Feeders in North

A total of 21 cars of livestock, 18 of sheep and 3 of calves, moved from Sonora during the last week, most of the stock going to feeders in the north and Middle West.

Thursday of last week M. J. Wade shipped two doubles of lambs, one to Eldorado and one to Jonesville, Mich. Saturday T. A. McMurray shipped the three cars of calves—Aberdeen-Angus stock bought from Alfred Schwiening, Curt Allison and Claude Stites, to Marceline, Mo. On the same day Roy Hildreth, for the Farmers' Union Commission Co. shipped one double of lambs to Bradshaw, Neb., and two doubles to Gilmore, Neb. This stock was from the W. W. West ranch in Val Verde county.

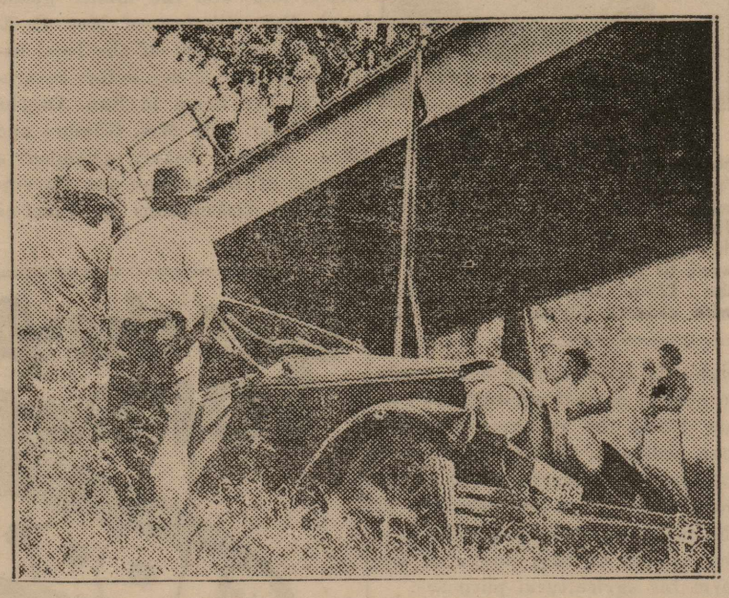

Tuesday Roy Barton sent two doubles of lambs to Kansas City.

Wednesday was the big day with shipments as follows: Woodward, & Ramsey, 2 doubles to Sedgwick, Kan.; Finley-Kitchens, one double and one single to Muleshoe, 1 double to Knoxville, Iowa, 1 to Chariton, Iowa and 2 to Marceline, Mo.; Guss Young, three doubles to Paul's Valley, Okla. The stock shipped by Finley-Kitchens was bought from Oscar Appelt, and consisted of mixed lambs and aged ewes.

Where Narrow Bridge Cost Two Lives

Here is the remains of a roadster which crashed through the rail of a narrow bridge across the Guadalupe river at Gonzales, Texas, recently. August Burt and Sam Johnson were killed instantly when the car toppled off the narrow runway, while E. N. and Herbert Stockton, other occupants of the car, were injured, but will recover. Several serious accidents have occurred on this bridge, located on State Highway 29, south of Gon-zales.

Biard Brings Inspiring Talk to 100 Lions of Group 23

SOME TAXPAYERS PROMPT, CITY BEGINS COLLECTING

Some taxpayers are models of promptness, the City of Sonora finds. Although only a part of the notices for the 1933 levy have been mailed out a number of local owners of personal property (automobiles) have already paid in full.

First, in order, were Miss Bertha Eaton, Earl Duncan and R. S. Covey.

Neal Hollis Approved as Band Instructor

Former Arizona and Kansas Teacher Will Work Here and Eldo.

Neal Hollis, formerly band and orchestra instructor in towns in Kansas and Arizona, has been approved by the Sonora school board as instructor in band music and instrumental work. He will work both in Sonora and Eldorado, and is expected here within a few days to begin enrolling classes.

Mr. Hollis has an excellent record as an instructor, having been in charge of the municipal band of Bisbee, Ariz., of 65 pieces, for the last two years. He also had a drum and bugle corps of 20 in Bisbee.

Before going to Arizona Mr. Hollis was instructor in Kinney, Kansas. In four years he trained three orchestras which won state championships. He also directed girl's glee clubs which won one first and one second prize in state competition.

Meeting Tuesday Declared Best in Club's History

District Governor Arthur E. Biard brought a message of inspiration to 100 Lions of Groop 23 at a meeting here Tuesday night which was characterized as the best in the history of the organization here and in West Texas.

The San Antonio leader of District 2-A delivered a message which was an inspiration, an admonition, and an encouragement to all who heard him. He began his talk with a short plea for support and continued faith in the NRA. He characterized it as the greatest thing in America in half a century and said that it had to succeed because it was the keystone to future progress of the American nation.

Mr. Biard's principal address was on "Leadership." He told first of the great need for leaders and then outlined the principles on which real leadership is based.

He told of his impression of Sonora and praised its wonderful climate and sunsets. He predicted a great future for the town as a tourist center and said its Lions club had been and would continue to be a big factor in its development.

A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the singing of Mrs. Biard, who was formerly an opera singer and stage star. She sang two solos—both popular songs. She was accompanied by

Bronchos Open Home Card against Eldorado Tomorrow

Invaders Favored to Win, But Outlook May Change

The Sonora high school Bronchos open the home football season tomorrow at 3 o'clock with Eldorado on the other end of the local gridiron. The Sonora team has had hard going thus far in its away-from-home games, suffering three losses, while Eldorado has won its first three games, including last Saturday's 12-0 victory over the Brady squad.

The Eagles are favored to win the scrap, but when Sonora and Eldorado meet there is little reliance to be placed in the dope bucket, for the spirit of rivalry is such that past indications often amount to little.

Coach Griffin's men have been working hard this week to remove the sting of defeat received in Rocksprings last Saturday, and they will enter the game Saturday full of determination to make a good showing.

Local people will be interested in the officials who have been secured. Bill Bissett, Crockett county ranchman and a former coach of the San Angelo Bobcats, will be referee, and Chile Adams of Mertzon has been secured as head linesman.

Admission prices have been reduced to 20 and 35 cents for all games this season and larger crowds than in the last few years are expected.

Today at 4:30 o'clock the Colts, Sonora grammar school team, will tangle with Eldorado's grammar school on the local field. The smaller boys are being coached by N. S. Patterson, and are showing signs of real talent.

Building Activity Continues as New Plans Announced

Monte Earwood Too Much for Bronchos in Rocksprings Tilt

Final Score 44-0; Worst Defeat for Sonora in Years; Reserves Show Stuff, Though

The 44-0 defeat handed the Sonora Bronchos last Saturday in Rocksprings can be summed up, say local fans who saw the game, in just two words—Monte Earwood. The gigantic back raced through the line, around the ends, and all over the field to score six of the seven touchdowns registered by the Bulldogs.

The Sonora offense clicked a time or two and the Broncs managed to make three first downs, but all to no avail.

On the defense the mighty Earwood could not be stopped, or was not. Bright spot of the game, from Sonora's viewpoint, was the plucky fight put up by her young and slender reserves — Dickie Vehle, Reggie Trainer, Elma Lee Logan and Melvin Glasscock. The way those youngsters fought against big odds and superior brawn, gives promise of winning teams for the local school when they have the advantage of more weight and experience.

The team as a whole showed improvement, in spite of the overwhelming defeat—the worst a Sonora team has suffered in many years. Coach H. S. Griffin is not discouraged about the future games, for the boys are showing the right spirit and are training hard. He expects them to hold the Bulldogs to a much closer score when the two teams clash here November 4 in a conference game.

Firemen Checking on Fire Hazards

Inspecting All Houses and Making Report of Condition

In observance of fire prevention week, members of the Sonora Fire Department have been working busily this week checking fire hazards in and around Sonora houses and making out reports on each house inspected.

The firemen are doing this work with the permission of property owners in each case and are then making suggestions as to betterment of conditions.

Fire prevention week has also been observed in a number of ways in the schools. Assembly period programs have been devoted to talks on fire prevention, room drills have been held, posters have been made, and essays written.

Ozona Kids Nose-out Sonora Grammars

Score 13 to 6 in Melee Friday Afternoon There

Sonora's junior football team, that of the grammar school, tasted of defeat in its first contest, played against Ozona there last Friday afternoon. The Sonora youngsters, cosniderably outweighed, put up a hard fight to hold their bigger opponents to a 13 to 6 score.

The Sonora score was made on passes—their own and their opponents'. A pass from James Allen Simmons to Elward Glasscock was good for 65 yards, placing the ball on the 10-yard line. Four downs failed to advance the ball, though and Ozona took it over. An attempted pass was intercepted by Peck Kring and he stepped across for the Sonora counter.

DOCTOR, VICTIM OF JOKE, HUNTS HOSPITAL IN VAIN

An aged gentleman appeared in Sonora early Tuesday morning inquiring whereabouts of the Sonora hospital. It seems that the gentleman, who gave his name as Daniell, had received a telephone call in Junction purporting to be from Sonora and telling him that the hospital here needed a doctor.

He caught a ride to Sonora and began his search for the non-existant hospital. When he realized the hoax he went to the San Angelo Telephone Company office to learn the origin of the call. W. R. Barnes, telephone manager, assured Dr. Daniell that no call had been placed from Sonora and told him it must have been an entirely local prank.

The disillusioned man caught a truck back to Junction, a believer in that ancient truth that you can't believe anything you hear and little that you see.

Joe Berger Replaces C. T. Jones on Board

New Member Elected at Meeting Last Thursday Night

Joe Berger, Sonora ranchman and undertaker, was elected to fill the vacancy on the Sonora school board caused by the resignation of C. T. Jones.

Mr. Jones resigned some weeks ago when his daughter, Miss Harva, was elected to the faculty of the Mexican school. The replacement was announced after the board meeting last Thursday night.

Other business considered Thursday night was that of employing a fifth teacher, the largest number in history, for the Mexican school. There are now 196 pupils enrolled, and Miss Jamie Gardner has a room of about 60. Her group will be divided. The new teacher has not been chosen, though several applications are in.

Leaman Closing Out Store Business Here

Announces Sale on Stock; Will Retain Eldorado Establishment

Harry Leaman, owner of the Leaman department stores here and in Eldorado, announced this week the closing of the Sonora store. A sale was launched Thursday to dispose of stock in the local store and it will be closed as soon as stock is disposed of.

Mr. Leaman will retain his store in Eldorado and will continue to live there. Izzy Leaman, his son, who has managed the store here, will be with the firm in Eldorado. Reason for closing the store here is the unsettled condition in merchandise markets and uncertain price outlook.

Geo. H. Neill, cashier of the First National Bank of Sonora, was one of the committee appointed to meet in Kerrville Thursday afternoon to draft a set of regulations for submission to the general meeting at night.

The status of the bankers' code is outlined in an advertisement of the First National Bank in this issue of The News on page 8.

Libb Wallace Erecting New $7,000 Brick Residence

MASONS ASK BIDS

Specifications Call for Hollow Tile, Stucco Temple

Building activity will continue in Sonora for several months, according to present indications. With the near completion of the Baptist church building, Libb Wallace this week began work on a handsome new brick residence, the contract price on which exceeds $7,000. Thursday the building committee of the Dee Ora Lodge No. 715 of the Masonic order gave plans to cotnractors on a new two-story hollow tile and stucco temple. Bids will be received Tuesday of next week.

Mr. Wallace's residence will occupy the lot on south Concho street just south of the Tom Sandherr residence. Work was started Tuesday by a force of men under F. T. Maxwell of San Angelo, architect and contractor.

The house will be about 46 by 55 feet, with four bedrooms, a large living room, kitchen, dining room, baths, hallways and ample closets. A large porch will adorn the front. The exterior will be in a combination effect of light colored brick. The roof will be flat, in the Mission style. A double garage of similar design and material will be built.

Floors will be of hardwood throughout the house. Walls are to be of sheetrock, with textone finish. Floors in kitchen, halls and bathroom will be rubber tile, and the sink is to be of seramic tile. Built-in cabinets and fixtures will be used. Wm. Cameron & Co. has the materials contract, and Gilmore Hardware Company will install plumbing.

Thursday contractors received plans for the proposed Masonic temple, which had been in the making for several months. Approval of the design was received this week from the Grand Lodge of Texas.

The temple will occupy the site of the present building, which is to be razed. Materials in the old building will be utilized in the new structure, and this is one factor in the economy with which it can be built. Cost is expected to be less than $4,000.

The building will be 33½ feet by 62, outside dimension. It will face the highway. Numerous windows on both sides and at front and rear provide ample ventilation. A decorative front consists of double steps leading to a small platform in front of the door, similar to the entry way to the Sonora Wool & Mohair Company building.

The first floor will be occupied by a combination auditorium and banquet hall, with kitchens at the rear and coat closets and rest room in the front at the sides of the door. The stairway to the second floor will be placed in the right front corner.

The second floor will contain the lodge rooms proper, with similar design as to closets and rest room.

The building will be of strong and durable construction, and will be a distinct credit to the local lodge and to Sonora.

Reports that still another residence is being planned for Sonora could not be verified.

Contract Delayed on Bridge

Letting of contract on the bridge over the North Llano River at Fort Terrett was delayed this week when approval was not received from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's bureau of public roads. Approval is expected in time to permit letting a contract at the November 1 session of the highway body. It is a $56,000 job.

Mexican School English Club

Edited by Pupils of the Sonora Mexican School

The Sonora Mexican Parent-Teacher Association met Oct. 5, 1933, with a very large crowd in attendance.

The association opened with the song, "America," led by Esperanza Reyna and Jesusa Chavis, pupils of the sixth grade. Miss Gardner's room rendered a good program of songs, speeches, and a play which was enjoyed by all.

The association voted to use a part of the P. T. A. money to help build up a small library, which is greatly appreciated by the pupils.

We were glad to enlist among the new members Supt. R. S. Covey. Mr. Covey talked to us and expressed a strong desire for the parents to co-operate with the teachers in getting the children to study hard. We want Mr. Covey to come to see us again, also we invite all who are interested to come to the next meeting, which will be held at the school house Oct. 18, 1933.

Our enrollment is increasing by leaps and bounds. We now have on roll 203 and 195 that attend regularly. It seems that all the children are interested very much and it will not be long until we shall need more room.

We have new shades in Mrs. Grimland, Miss Jones, and Miss Gardner's rooms, and they protect the children's eyes very much.

Mr. Jones is teaching his room some new songs to sing at a future P. T. A. program.

Only Two Methods of Treating Cancer Says Health Dept.

Surgery and Radium Will Effect Cure if Started in Time, State Officevrs Warns

Austin, Oct. 4.—"The increasing number of persons in Texas dying from cancer, justifies a warning at this time against cancer quacks and so-called cancer cures. While newspapers, as a rule, do not carry advertising of this type, there are many other ways by which misinformation can reach the public. Undoubtedly there are many persons who, being thus detoured from seeking proper advice, unnecessarily become cancer victims, while others not having cancer, are fleeced out of much money for a cure," stated Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

"There are but two ways of treating cancer First, by surgery; second, by the use of radium or X-ray. Treatment must be started early and in the hands of a competent surgeon. Surgery is relied upon to remove cancerous tumors and is used in nearly two-thirds of the cases. X-ray or radium is used to advantage in one-third of the cases. Frequently the two methods are combined. Self-medication, serums, colored lights, pastes, salves and diets are valueless.

"The great bulwark against cancer is early diagnosis. Every case is an emergency and it is unfortunate that the majority of those with cancer do not seek medical advice until beyond a permanent cure. No hope should be placed in fake cancer prophets and their treatments. Rather, the annual physical examination and an immediate reporting to your physician of any symptoms which may be suspected to be the beginning of cancer, should be relied upon. These symptoms are: any unusual blooding from any body opening, any lump in the breast or other part of the body, any persistent sore, particularly on the face or mouth, and chronic indigestion These conditions may not be cancer, but sometimes they are forerunners of the more common type of this diease. Where cancer is suspected, do not delay, but consult your physician at once."

Federal Farm Loan Head Gives Factors Affecting Appraisal

Normal Value and Average Earning Capacity Chief Considerations, Opinion of Board

Houston, Oct. 4.—The basis on which appraisals are made in connection wtih applications for loans from the Federal Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner was outlined today by A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston. The statement was made, Mr. Williams said, because many persons have evidenced a lack of understanding of the appraisals made of farm properties offered as security for loans

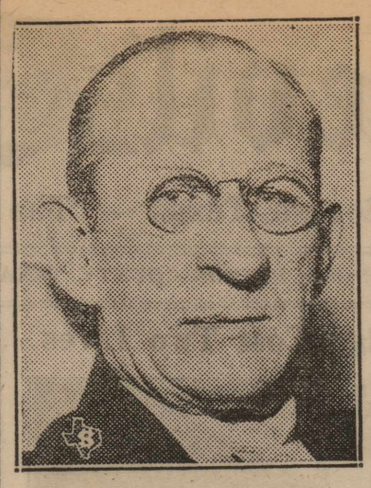

It was explained by Mr. Williams that the basis of appraisal is the normal value of the land for agricultural purposes and its earning power for such purposes is a principal factor. Average prices of farm commodities during the five year period from August 1909 to July 1914 are now being used as a principal guide in determining the earning power and normal value of farms, allowance being made, of course, for changes in taxes and other costs and in the economic position of commodities produced.

"Loans by the Federal Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner ordinarily are made for periods of from around ten to thirty-six years," Mr. Williams said. "In order to arrive at an estimate of the earning power of a farm, over a period of years, many things must be considered by the appraiser. He must determine the number of acres of good crop land, the number in pasture, and the number in orchard, timber, or waste; the character and condition of the soil; water supply; average rainfall; drainage; susceptibility to erosion; the carrying capacity of the pasture land; the prevalence of insect pests and plant diseases; the condition of the roads; and accessibility to markets. He must estimate production costs and the amount and kind of livestock that can be carried on the farm and the probable income from that source.

"Although earning power is given the greatest weight, other factors are of course considered in determining the value of a farm for loan purposes. These include anything that affects the salability of the farm, such as the location, the size and type of farm, community and development, and the distance to markets, schools, and churches. The amount and condition of the farm improvements is likewise important The improvements on a farm may be inadequate or the farm may be top-heavy with improvements with the result that the cost of up-keep may reduce the net income over a period of years. Sale prices are considered, but distress sales during bad years and high sale prices during boom years do not fix normal agricultural values Since the repayment of the loan ordinarily will extend over a long period of years and the money must come from the earnings of the farm, emphasis is placed upon the normal earning power of the farm for agricultural purposes.

"The standing of the applicant, the amount of his equity in the farm, and his ability as a farmer are also considered in making an appraisal. Many creditors are recognizing that where deserving farmer-borrowers owe more against their property than can be repaid from the earnings of the land, it is to their advantage to make some concessions so that these farmers may now obtain loans from the Federal Land Bank and the Commissioner and have an opportunity to save their farm homes."

Chisos Mountain Vegetation Will Be Studied by Botanist

Unusual Variety of Trees and Shrubs Attracts Interest of Texas U. Professor

Austin, Oct 4 —A complete study of the various forms of vegetation found on the Chisos Mountains is one of the botanical surveys planned for the future by Dr. B. C. Tharp, associate professor of botany at the University of Texas. These mountains are situated far down in the Big Bend region of the upper Rio Grande border of Texas. While he has a considerable general knowledge of the flora of the mountain region, some of which he gained during a brief visit there, it is Dr. Tharp's ambition to make a complete survey of the region, since many species of vegetation are peculiar to that particuar locality. Notwithstanding the timberless desert region which spreads out from the foot of the mountains the higher slopes of the imposing range are forested with long leaf pine, pinion, fir, varieties of oaks, Arizona cypress and other trees, some species of which are strangers to these latitudes.

The Chisos Mountains have been comparatively little explored, except by the members of the United States Geodetic Survey which some years ago measured Mt. Emory and pronounced it to be the highest mountain in Texas Attesting this fact is the survey monument placed near the top of the peak which gives the altitude at 9,996 feet.

Only a few days ago the report came out of the Big Bend country that smoke was issuing from an extinct volcano on the upper slope of Mt. Emory, and that the people of San Vicente were much aroused over the possibility that the long-slumbering volcano was awakening and that it even might give forth an eruption of lava and ashes.

Besides the forest of a great variety of trees, many kinds of rare shrubs and plants grow in the well watered canyons of the mountains. Pure water springs create running streams which disappear into the earth before the surface level of the mountains is reached. All in all, it is a mysterious and little known region which offers wonderful opportunities for research along botanical and possibly other lines, according to Dr. Tharp.

Home Demonstration Workers Busy on Variety of Projects

Pantries, Catsup Making, Sub-Irrigation with Tile, Sheep Skin Rugs of Interest

Wardrobe Planning in October

The planning of adequate storage space for the 4-H pantry demonstrators, working in the various home demonstration clubs, according to directions sent out by the nutrition specialists of A&M college, will be the demonstrations conducted by the home demonstration agent this month.

The number and length of shelving must be sufficient to take care of the necessary number of cans to supply the family, as shown by the budgets made during the month of August, each family's budget will vary according to the number in the family. A tiny model of a pantry with the necessary labels for the shelves, pictures of pantries made by other demonstrators will be shown

Miss Lola Blair, nutrition specialist of A&M, says in Feeding the Family the 4-H Way, "Nearly 90 per cent of the family's food can be provided directly from the farm or ranch by following the 4-H pantry demonstration plan. The average family of five need spend less than $100 yearly for food. * * * * Health may be improved by careful planning that results in proper amounts and balance of foods to protect the body from disease; time is saved the housewife by having a good selection of canned foods which may be quickly prepared."

The 4-H pantry demonstrators for the county are: Mrs. Leslie Fambrough, Sonora club; Mrs. Joe Berger, Sonora club; Mrs. J. V. Alley, No. 3 club; Mrs. Dee Gibbs, No 4 club; Mrs. S. L. Shroyer, Thrift club, and Mrs. Lee Pearl, Thrift club.

Mrs. Shroyer Makes Catsup

"Tomato catsup by the recommended method is most satisfactory and I like it very much and have put up a dozen or more bottles and have still more to do," says Mrs. S. L. Shroyer, 4-H pantry demonstrator, in talking over her pantry work with the home demonstration agent.

This catsup is made as follows:

For every gallon of pulp use the following:

2 tablespoonfuls of salt, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon mustard (powdered), 1 pint good cider vinegar, ½ level tablespoon each of whole cloves and allspice, 1 level tablespoon each of cinnamon and pepper, 2 small red peppers, sliced and seed removed.

Mrs. Shroyer's fall tomato crop is giving her an ample supply for her winter pantry besides being able to share with her neighbors. She will also soon have greens to can for her food budget.

Passion Play to Be Sponsored by Boy Scout Council

Frieburg Players to Present It in English in San Angelo, Oct. 19-20; Prices Cut

Many persons in Sutton county who saw the European Passion Players from Frieburg, Germany, when they gave the great Passion Play in the Municipal Auditorium in San Angelo in the spring of 1930 have said they were going back to see it again next Thursday or Friday because of the spectacular character of the play and because it is to be given this time in English.

The Passion Play attracted the largest crowd of any performance that ever has been shown in West Texas. It is particularly significant this year because this is the 300 anniversary of the Oberammergau Passion Play. The Frieburg Passion Players have been presenting the play in Frieburg for over 160 years. This is their farewell tour of this country as their passports have been extended for the last time permissable by law. Many of the actors are descendants of the original cast. Only four of the actors have been changed from the troupe which presented the play in San Angelo three years ago.

On its previous performance the tickets sold for from $2.50 to $1 each. This year the prices have been greatly reduced. There are 1,000 tickets at 50 cents for the night performance and 800 reserved seats at 75 cents and a dollar. The afternoon performances are 25 cents for school children and 50 cents for adults, no reserved seats.

Pastors of the churches in Sonora have been asked to make announcement of this greatest of all modern dramatizations because it portrays so vividly and truthfully the greatest lesson in history.

All the profits of the engagement will go to the fund for making improvements at Camp Louis Farr of the Boy Scouts of West Texas.

As in previous shows the seats may be reserved by patrons living outside of San Angelo simply by mailing in their reservations to the Boy Scouts of San Angelo or to the Standard-Times office.

THIS MATTER OF TRAFFIC

The traffic problem has again become serious in Sonora. Periodically the situation becomes so bad on double parking and stopping at street intersections that the city is forced to take drastic action.

The parking problem is particularly acute just after noon when the mail arrives at the postoffice. At times it is impossible to drive through the street because of cars improperly abandoned in the middle of the street. Too, little attention is paid to rulings requiring parallel parking. There is always plenty of room on the street for parking, within convenient distance of the postoffice, and Sonora motorists should be willing to walk a few yards in order that others may be able to drive with safety along the street.

Busses have also been guilty of carelessness. Several times they have parked at an angle which makes them protrude across the street. Such practice is extremely dangerous.

Drivers should also be careful in parking around the drug stores to see that they do not block filling station driveways or stop up the passages left at corners for pedestrians.

35 YEARS AGO

The Devil's River News for Oct. 14, 1899, carried an account of an Ozona fire which wiped out the south side of the square containing seven or more business houses and caused an estimated loss of $15,000, with insurance amounting to only about $6,000.

Other items were included as follows:

Saturday evening Mrs. John W. Hagerlund entertained at high tea Mrs. Lee, Mrs. McGregor, Mrs. Burroughs, Mrs. Huber and Mrs. Saunders.

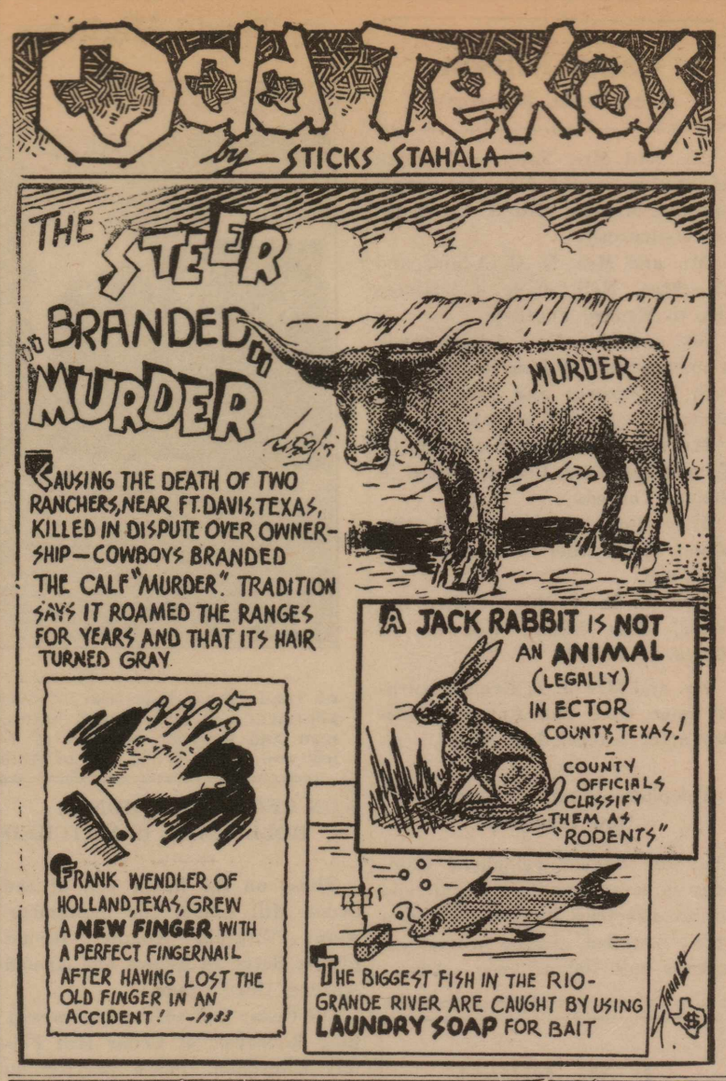

A. B. Scott a charcoal and lime burner of the North Llano, was in Sonora Tuesday. Mr. Scott finds a ready market at San Angelo for all the coal he makes.

Miss Myrtle Mayfield left Monday morning for Sonora, Sutton county, where she has accepted a position in the millinery department of a large store in that town. Sonora is 60 or 70 miles inland due south of San Angelo. It really seems almost out of civilization, but the very fact she has gone to handle ladies' hats proves that there are women there, and wherever there are women there is civilization.—Walnut Favorite.

A. C. Fambrough, the bicycle agent, made a pleasure trip to R. E. Potter's ranch in Val Verde county last week, returning Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Baugh arrived in Sonora Wednesday night, from their bridal tour. The News welcomes Mrs. Baugh to her new home and wishes her much happiness. They will make their home with the groom's mother on the square.

R. T. Baker is pasturing 200 cows and calves with Robson Bros. on Buffalo Draw of the Llano.

Texas Business Is Definitely Better, State Survey Shows

Car Sales 119 Per Cent Over Same Month, 1932; Employment Gains in September

Austin, Oct. 4.—Despite the complex problems which continue to cloud the outlook of industry and commerce in their national and international relations, it is gratifying to note that several business indexes show definite improvement along a number of lines, according to Dr. F. A. Bueche, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research

"New passenger car registrations in the seventeen larger counties of the state showed an increase of 11 per cent over July and 119 per cent over August, 1932," Dr. Buechel said. "Charters granted durting them to do business in Texas indicated a slightly better than normal seasonal gain. Commercial failures were the smallest in number for any August since 1920 except in 1928 when there 28 recorded, against 33 this year.

"September employment conditions in Texas show a marked improvement both over August, 1933, and September, 1932. For the week ended September 1*, a total of 911 establishments reported 71,250 employes, against 68,243 for the same firms in August and 64,391 in September, 1932, showing a gain of 4.4 per cent and 10.7 per cent respectively. While the rate of pay has shown practically no change during the month, the increase in buying power represented by the sharp rise in number of workers should be material.

"Department adn clothing store sales during August showed by far the greatest percentage improvement of any August since the records of the bureau of business research began in 1927."

BANKERS PREPARE FARM FINANCE BOOK

Tells Bankers and Farmers What to Consider in Making Sound Loans

A book on "Making Farm Investments Safe" has been prepared by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, summarizing material published by it during the past ten years. It presents a compendium of scientific facts, practice and experience in farming, with timely and helpful suggestions to serve as a reference and guide in the daily routine of banking and farming. From it practical workers in these fields can obtain an idea as to what extent and n what manner farm loans should be limited by soil erosion, weeds, plant diseases, rodents and fire hazards.

The book also indicates how much is added to the security of a farm loan by the farmer who keeps accounts and practices good business methods, as well as the extent to which loans are safeguarded by crop rotation, production of legumes, judicious use of commercal fertilizers, the use of quality seed and the providing of home grown feeds.

Another section sets forth the precautions that should be exercised by both the banker and farmer when negotiating loans to increase or improve dairy production, or beef, sheep, swine or poultry production, as well as what factors should be considered in the economic marketing of products and the way efficiency in production affects efficiency in marketing. Many other everyday details of farm life that l ve a practical financial significance are treated in the book.

Favors Work in Exchange for Free Food

Editor Devil's River News.

Dear Editor—The government is starting out to buy surplus products of meat, butter, grain, etc., to distribute to the needy, hungry and distressed That is certainly a step in the right direction, and is to be encouraged for two important reasons. But why not go a step farther and complete the circuit. Let these people work for what they eat. Let them do something for what the government gives them, then it will cease to be a dole, which is so undesirable.

Any self-respecting person, and about three-fourths of those to whom the government may supply food, clothing or shelter, are willing and anxious to work for what they get. And if they get food then work or employment is what they need to fill up the gaps. As for those not willing to work for board and clothes, is it any worse to draft them into constructive civilian work than it is to draft them into destructive war? Constructive work is what makes them contented. If there is a surplus of products for food and clothing, is there not also a surplus of idleness and trouble? Employment will keep them from fomenting worry and trouble for themselves and others. Is it not just as important to keep people occupies as it is to feed them? Of course, it is not possible for the government to provide jobs for all with pay; so those who cannot get one of that kind, have to take one for board and clothes. That is the way it works out in actual practice in everyday life.

You will say that the employment of the millions of idle would compete with and tend to lower the wages of, or throw out of a job those already employed. I say it can be prevented. I say there is work a plenty for everybody without getting in each other's way. Does the government not have anything else that needs to be done? Nothing else on which it could employ an organized unit of unorganized idle class or number of people whom it is feeding or needs to feed?

There are many ways, or rather, different jobs on which the government could employ these people, which would redound to the benefit of the whole United States, the employed as well as the unemployed, if it was only far-seeing enough to begin looking around to find something for them to do. Yes! Begin looking around to see what could be done about it. It might prove to be a great opportunity, even the salvation of the United States. Who can tell?

Sincerely,
IRA SHURLEY.

Musical entertainment consisted of dinner music by Miss Elizabeth Francis at the piano, a violin solo by Mrs. J. A. Ward, jr., with piano accompaniment by Miss Watkins and violin accompaniment by Miss Rena Glen Shurley.

Sonora Women Hear Menard Co. Agent Here Friday

"A newspaper story is one of the most effectual methods of reaching the public with educational information given out by the Extension Service of A&M college," said Mrs Max Menzies, Menard county home demonstration agent, in her address to a gathering of Sutton county women here Friday.

Mrs. Menzies, quoting Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, associate editor of the Extension Service News, said: "The measuring rod to a good news story is this: are you putting out information of this demonstration which will help someone who is not present at the meeting?"

Those attending the Friday conference from out-of-town were Mrs. Menzies and Miss Frances Wilroy of Menard, Miss Leah Cox, Mason county agent, and Mrs. Chester Bannowsky of Junction.

Mrs. R. M. Searcy

Wedding bells instead of school bells have rung out, and now there is one less girl endeavoring to enter the masculine gates of Texas A. and M. college. The former Miss Evelyn Stanford, now Mrs. Searcy, was one of 12 Bryan girls trying to get permission to attend Texas' sanctum sanctorium of masculinity at College Station. A. and M. authorities say traditions of years would be shattered if girls were allowed to attend the school.

brought to the agent's office a rug she had tanned and dyed a dainty lavendar-pink to be used in her guest room, which is done in pink.

She first washed the hide in the same manner wool is washed, using three tubs of suds made from a mild soap flake at the temperatures of 120 to 110 F., and rinsed in lukewarm water, about 110 F.

The dye was prepared by boiling in a little water for about 5 minutes then adding ½ cup vinegar to each gallon of water to be used in the dye bath, then straining and adding to sufficient water to float the hide easily. The hide must be worked in the dye bath, by the hands (use rubber gloves) until the dye is well worked into the wool. Care must be used not to get the dye too strong in color, as when it is put in the tanning solution the dye is driven in well and the color is intensified.

Mrs Berger is so well pleased with her first attempt that she is planning to try a hide in orchid soon.

Sub-Irrigation Successful

Three hundred and four feet of tile for a sub-irrigated garden has been laid by W. H. Dameron of the Ranch Experiment Station in his 34x40-foot space, and six rows of winter vegetables have already been planted. He has four feeder pipes, to each of which are attached two strings of pipe 32 feet long.

When the tiles were laid this garden was powder dry and the water was turned in and allowed to run very slowly, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Dameron reports that the water had reached the surface by 6 o'clock the next morning. He was delighted with the results.

Cedar Hill Club Meets

The Thrifty Club at Cedar Hill was given an interesting explanation of the pantry by Mrs. Etta W. Ringgold, county demonstration agent. She showed the value of a home pantry from the standpoints of economy and convenience. A miniature pantry with labeled shelves carried out the idea. Mrs. S. L. Shroyer, pantry demonstrator for our club, received helpful hints in preparing her pantry demonstration.

Those attending were: the Misses Hazel Thiers, Nell Adams, Pearl Cross, Rosa Shroyer; Mesdames Ringgold, J. T. Eubank, Willie Andrews, E. R. Keithley, B. H. Cross, and the hostess, Mrs. S. L. Shroyer. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. R. Keithley October 21. The club will make cheese at this meeting.

CHAPTER IV

THE assistant general manager of the Rancho Valle Verde walked, with a jingling of spurs, into the cool, vine-enclosed veranda where Don Jaime lay at ease in his chaise longue, while a nurse, almost old enough to be his mother, sat in an adjacent chair knitting.

"Well, how's our boss, Mrs. Ganby?" Ken Hobart queried.

"His wounds have all healed by first intention," the nurse answered. "I should say he'll be up and around again in a month. Probably lame for a month or two thereafter. At any rate he loses me next week."

"Why don't you remain here, do Don Jaime in the eye for another month's salary and take a nice, quiet vacation?' Hobart suggested.

"I'd like to, but it would be taking money under false pretenses. I like this ranch. It's so peaceful here," Mrs. Ganby said. "Every night I hear a coyote chorus from those buttes yonder. It's thrilling. I dare say, Don Jaime, you find it rather dull here—such a young man as yourself."

"I do not," Don Jaime replied, almost curtly. "It is the home of my ancestors and I love it."

"Don Jaime resembles the Chinese. He worships his ancestors," Ken Hobart informed her. "But he's never lonely here. Too much to do."

"Why doesn't he get married? Certainly he can afford a wife, Mr. Hobart," the good lady queried.

"I only look after his cows and his lands, Mrs. Ganby." After the fashion of the men of wide horizons Ken Hobart was averse to discussing personalities. "I've brought the mail, Don Jaime," he added.

"Thank you, Ken."

"Don't try to sort it," Hobart urged. "The letter you're looking for lies on top. I've slit all the envelopes for you.'

Don Jaime read his mail. Presently he looked up and there was a glint of deviltry in his black eyes.

"Don Prudencio Alviso writes me that he has been engaged by Miss Antrim as attorney for the estate; that Miss Antrim has given the Federal Trust company a check in payment of the notes it held against the estate and that the bank has resigned as co-executor. Old Prudy tells me that with his appointment he received a retainer of a thousand dollars and instructions to secure a good man to count those sheep. Such generosity overwhelms him. As a sheep-counter he suggests you, old leather-face, and I second the nomination. An honest count of those sheep is most desirable, Ken."

"I'll have to have help."

"You will—a court order."

Don Jaime lifted some very expensive stationery to his aristocratic nose and smelled it hungrily. "Attar of roses," he murmured. "I dare say that's as close as I'll ever get to Miss Roberta Antrim. The lady says she's going to leave everything in her lawyer's hands, with instructions to consult with me, and whatever we two decide to do will meet with her approval. She says she dreads coming down here in summer and she has accepted so many engagements of a social nature, that she just cannot contemplate abandoning her plans."

"Who is Roberta Antrim?" the nurse inquired.

"The niece and sole heir of the man Antrim I killed after he'd busted me, Mrs. Ganby. She doesn't know I'm the bright boy that bumped old Tom off. I wrote her a chap named Jim Higgins had done it."

Ken Hobart chuckled.

"That's his gringo alias, Mrs. Ganby. The first Higuenes to be heard of in Spain was called James Michael Higgins. But the Spaniards gave it a Spanish twist. With the passage of time James Michael Higgins, the big Mick, developed into Jaime Miguel Higuenes. When did that happen, Don Jaime?"

"When the first J. M. married a red-headed Spanish woman who insisted on spelling the name as it was pronounced. So the tribe of Higuenes was born. The family migrated to Mexico early in the Nineteeenth century, and my great-grandfather married the daughter of an Irishman who owned this rancho. That brought the Celtic strain up a little. My grandfather added to it by marrying a girl who was half Irish, and when he looked at his offspring he was glad he'd done it. He noticed the cross had increased the height, breadth, general appearance, industry and temper of the Higuenes tribe. We looked much more like Black Irish than Mexicans now, and were probably a little more than half Celt. But we had Spanish customs and a Spanish outlook on life and Spanish was our mother tongue. Also we had no reason to be other than proud of our Spanish blood, so we never mixed it with Indian. When we moved to Texas my grandfather fought under the Stars and Bars. He sent my father to the Virginia Military institute and father married a Carrol of Virginia and begot me."

"You have never been married?" the nurse asked.

"Never."

"Aren't you going to be?"

"I fear not. The loneliness here—the coyote chorus on the buttes—all militate against it, Mrs. Ganby."

"The right girl," said Mrs. Ganby, "wouldn't mind it in the least. Go forth and search for her, Don Jaime."

"Impossible," the master of Valle

"Impossible," the Master of Valle Verde Replied Lazily. "I Have Sheep on My Hands."

Verde replied lazily. "I have sheep on my hands."

"If I can credit the gossip I heard in Los Algodones, you killed the owner of those sheep trying to get rid of them."

Don Jaime nodded.

"Well, why don't you get rid of them, then?"

"The foreman, Bill Dingle, is still living and in charge of those sheep. He's a bad man and a better shot than old Antrim. Besides, if I get those sheep off my range, now, where will they go? Why, to somebody else's range, of course, and then there'd be trouble and we might lose Bill Dingle."

"So you're putting up with those sheep on your range merely because this Antrim girl is her uncle's heir."

"That's the proposition."

"Why, is she a friend of yours?"

"No, I've never met her. But then no Higuenes has ever quarreled with a lady."

"I fail to see how you are going to escape a quarrel with her, Don Jaime. You killed her uncle."

Don Jaime winced. "Perhaps she will believe that I had no alternative; that, not until after I had killed him, did I know he was her uncle. In fact, I didn't know I had killed anybody until Ken rode down the draw and informed me of my luck."

"Well, the fact that you are being so excessively nice to her since may mitigate the affair, although one can never predict the attitude a woman will take. A woman is usually guided by her heart, not her head, Don Jaime."

Don Jaime appraised the old nurse with kindly interest. "I take it, Mrs. Ganby, that you are old enough to be guided by your head. You told me you are a widow. Have you any children?"

"One—a boy of fifteen. He has been quite crippled since his twelfth birthday. Infantile paralysis."

Don Jaime considered this. "Suppose you had a comfortable home where you could be with your boy always—not necessary to hustle hither and yon nursing people? I should have a hostess here. For some time I have felt that Flavio's wife is too—well, elemental, for the job. This hacienda should know a gentlewoman's management—at nurse's wages. There are always some puppies around here, and your boy could play with them. I suppose you could carry on with his schooling—you know, it does get lonesome here sometimes."

"Oh, Don Jaime! You mean it!"

He nodded. "I'd like to be able to invite nice people to visit me, Mrs. Ganby. I should like to have my friends from the surrounding country come to dinner oftener, but I'm never satisfied with the appearance of my board, the menu or the service. I have no time to train maids and housekeepers—and if I did I wouldn't know how."

"Yes, a man is very helpless. I should be glad to come, Don Jaime."

"You are very kind. Ken, you run up to El Paso and get the boy. Mrs. Ganby will arrange that detail with you. Now clear out and let me sleep."

Mrs. Ganby, with tears of happiness in her middle-aged eyes, followed the assistant general manager into the ranch office.

"How long have you known Don Jaime?" she asked Hobart.

"A long time. Went to the state university with him. My father and I had a cow outfit down in the Big Bend country but we went broke during the post-war deflation period. Jaime and I enlisted for the World war—and spent two years guarding the border. At that we dodged more lead than some of those who went to France. After the bank closed in on the Hobarts I joined the rangers; now I've left them to work for Don Jaime."

"He is congenitally magnificent."

Ken Hobart laughed. "Always remembers he's muy caballero, Mrs. Ganby. He does things with a flourish. It isn't pose. His people have always done it. His father died when he was twenty. He's twenty-eight now. His mother died giving him birth, so you see he's manraised."

"Why do you suppose he engaged me, Mr. Hobart? Do you think he suspected he was doing a very wonderful thing for my boy and me?"

"Yes, I think so. Jimmy can see through a ladder. But he engaged you, principally, I think, because he wants the Casa Higuenes to be running in civilized fashion in case his luck holds and he should have the honor of entertaining Miss Roberta Antrim and her duenna."

"Why is he so interested in the niece of this vicious old man he had to kill?"

"Because Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes is a romantic Mick, that's why. He saw a full-page rotogravure picture of her in the Suburban Gentleman, and picked her for the mother of his children."

"Oh, dear, he's quite hopeless! She may photograph beautifully even with red hair, freckles and green eyes, but she may also be mean and selfish and irritating; she may be without manners."

"In that event," said Ken Hobart, "she just won't be the mother of his children. Don Jaime doesn't want the Higuenes tribe to vanish from the earth, but he would prefer to have them vanish rather than breed something ignoble. Where will I find this boy of yours?" he demanded, to change the conversation. "I'm starting for El Paso now."

Mrs. Ganby wrote a note to the people with whom she boarded her crippled son and returned to her patient.

"What a charming man your Mr. Hobart is, Don Jaime!" she began.

"He'll do in a pinch"—laconically.

"He is very devoted to your interests."

Don Jaime did not answer. His glance was out through the arched gateway, from which the road ran straight down the valley. A mile away a dust-cloud was gathering on that road.

"Somebody is coming in a hurry," he murmured. "When they hurry it's always bad news."

A solitary horseman galloped up to the gate, threw himself off and hurried up the steps.

"Well, my friend?" Don Jaime queried in Spanish. "What evil message do you bring and from whom?"

"Thirty riders crossed the Rio Grande at daylight, senor. They are rounding up several hundred of the senor's cattle. It is a raid."

"My thanks are due you, my friend. They will not get far. Who sent you here?"

"The American customs agent at Los Algodones, Don Jaime. He bids you send your riders to head them off before they recross the river with your cattle."

"Return and tell him I have but forty men available. The others are attending a baile at the Rancho Verdugo. Forty men will be sufficient, I think. Return to the customs agent with my gratitude for his timely warning and tell him my men will start in ten minutes, perhaps less."

The man touched his hat, flung himself on his horse and galloped away. Don Jaime lighted a cigar and smoked contentedly, while Mrs. Ganby watched him with alert curiosity.

Presently Ken Hobart, arrayed in his "town" clothes, came to announce his impending departure.

"Delay it until tomorrow, Ken," his employer ordered casually. "I have a job for you." And he recounted the tale brought by his recent visitor. "Take forty men and ride for the river. If this man's tale is the truth you will have work there. I think, however, he lies. Have Caraveo arm the other men available and instruct him to have them remain in the barns with their horses until I send him word that he is not going to be needed."

"A plant, eh?"

"I've been expecting reprisal, Ken. I told this messenger I had but forty men available but would send them immediately. Go with them. Then we shall see that which we shall see. I smell sheep."

Hobart departed to fulfill his orders, and Don Jaime stretched himself for his siesta.

Suddenly he opened his eyes and turned to Mrs. Ganby. "Please tell Flavio to assist me to enter my house," he said. "There is more dust to the south. We shall have visitors—about ten, I think."

When the Indian came Don Jaime spoke to him in Spanish. The old peon picked Don Jaime up in his strong arms, carried him inside and laid him on a sofa. Then he departed casually.

"You will oblige me by locking and bolting that door, Mrs. Ganby," Don Jaime requested gently.

Presently came the sound of hurrying feet on the veranda, and through the iron-barred tiny window that gave on the veranda Mrs. Ganby saw men standing about. There came a smart rap on the door.

Vineyard Queen

A new industry for Texas was formally inaugurated at Newcastle, Young county, when Mrs. Roy E. Veal, wife of a grape grower, broke a bottle of grape juice against the new farmer-owned grape juice factory there, first in Texas. Mrs. Veal was crowned Queen of Vineyards. She is pictured above in her cellophane gown, which, besides being beautiful, prevented her frock from being soiled by the grape juice.

Disease Prevention Valuable in Valley

No Epidemic Resulted from Terrific Storms and Floods

Austin, Oct. 3.—Value of disease prevention or public health work has been clearly demonstrated in the storm stricken area of the Rio Grande Valley where state, county and city health officers have pooled their abilities and resources to the end that there has not been any outbreak of communicable diseases following that disaster. Private interests have also assisted by supplying materials that could not be purchased by the officials on account of a lack of available funds.

There was great danger immediately following the storm that typhoid fever might become epidemic due to contamination of water supplies. Chlorine, in proper amounts, was put in these supplies and an extensive campaign of immunization against typhoid fever was started, which up to this time has reached over sixty thousand persons. The proper disposal of sewage was another problem that had to be attended to immediately.

Much of the land was covered with water and this created a wonderful chance for multiplication of mosquitoes and the attendant danger of malaria. These places were drained where possible, and if impossible, they were oiled. The mosquito eradication work being done in the Valley is one of the largest ever attempted in the United States.

Exactly how much sickness and suffering has been prevented cannot be accurately estimated, but, from past experiences, it is safe to say that the actual saving in money is many times more than the amount which has been spent for prevention.

CHATTERING ANNIE

Hi folks!

This is station A-n-n-i-e broadcasting the usual b-l-a-b around school.

I suppose everyone knows about our hard luck at Rocksprings last Saturday. Although Sonora was highly represented, both by the pep squad and citizens of Sonora, it seemed as though luck was against the boys. The pep squad certainly strutted the old spirit when they put the drill on, and it was really pretty. If every one would get behind the Bronchos like the pep squad does I believe we could defeat Cox's Army. We're hoping that Mr. Griffin and the boys make a good showing in the game next Saturday.

The English IV class is really laboring over "Old Chaucer." They are already advising the juniors to start memorizing now, so as to be ready for it next year. I suppose we'll lay all blame to Miss Swafford.

Those seniors had better be on the look-out because these juniors might surprise them with a big party one of these nights. So watch out!

Have we got a bunch of fighting Colts? well, I sould say. They went to Ozona last Friday, and although they were up against larger men, they really put up a fight. I'm sure the grammar school pep squad gave them quite a bit of consolation in their trying moments. Perhaps ten years from now, we'll be going hundreds of miles to see those same colts play in an interscholastic league game.

Fire Prevention week will soon end, and both grammar school and high school have accomplished a lot. Grammar school has had fire drills, and made attractive posters while the high school has written themes concerning fire prevention. The best of the themes are going on display in Mr. Covey's office for the inspectors to see.

This week ends the fifth week of this semester, so everyone had better get down and really study before grades come out, for we certainly don't want our new report cards all marked up with red ink.

As all good things must come to a close, I shall sign off until next week.

As ever—

The school's getting started
In the most approved style.
It'll be snappy and peppy,
It's gonna be worth your while.

The news is really newsy;
The jokes are simply grand;
And the snappy sports colums
Are going to beat the band.

We've got a sure enough editor
That sure enough knows her stuff
The staff is getting warmed up
But, gang, that's not enough.

You've got to bet behind us
And boost us to the sky;
Remember its your high school;
Don't just shake your head an' sigh.

We really are so busy,
We don't see how we can,
Just you get right, and show
You'll back 'em to a man.

Seniors Choose Rings, Invitations

As Chattering Annie told you last week the senior class has made a final selection of rings and has made a tentative choice of invitations, both of which were ordered from an out-of-town concern.

The seniors had previously selected rings but as they liked these better they cancelled the former order and sent for the stone-set ring shown by another company. Wristlets and belt buckles are to be given with the rings.

As the rings were gold with a blue stone and the colors were blue and gold, the class chose invitations with a blue and gold monogram. Everyone in the class seems to be satisfied and the rings are on their way.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL TEAM LOSES TO OZONA, 13-6

The grammar school school Colts played a hard game at Ozona against the Ozona Boys Friday afternoon, October 6, but were beaten 13 to 6. The Ozona boys were heavier and older, being largely composed of second stringers from the high school team.

Jesse Kring intercepted a short pass and ran about 13 yards for the Sonora touchdown. Louie Smith starred in the line, keeping the opposing backs in hot water most of the game. Elward Glasscock took a pass for about 65 yards.

Quarterback Francis Archer turned in a good defensive game. The line held well considering the weight of the opposition. Good sportsmanship and clean playing marked the game. A return match here is scheduled for the 20th. A heavier line-up is expected.

A grammar school game will be played with the Eldorado grammar school team as a feature of this week-end.

Bulldogs Defeat Sonora Bronchos

The Sonora Bronchos lost the game at Rocksprings Saturday with a 44 to 0 score. The Sonora boys did all they could to the Rocksprings team, but it seemed useless for them to try. Nevertheless, the Bronchos did not give up hope, for they stayed right after the Bulldogs until the end of the game.

The Rocksprings team out weighed the Bronchos a great deal. Monte Earwood (Rocksprings' star player) seemed to be the source of most of the touchdowns. Earwood was finally knocked out and had to quit the field in the last quarter.

None of the Sonora boys had to leave the field because of injuries, although some received very sore limbs.

The pep squad surely did its best to help win the game. Although the Bronchos were losing, the pep squad kept on. They yelled just as hard as the boys played.

MISS ALLISON RELATES EXPERIENCES ON TRIP

In assembly Thursday morning Miss Allison gave a very interesting talk on her trip to Chicago. She told especially about the trip there and back, but she also told about some of the interesting things she saw in the city of Chicago and at the fair grounds. Miss Allison especially emphasized the fact that the crowd was so agreeable and polite everywhere she went. Instead of a great noisy mob of people, shoving and pushing its way through the buildings, she found that the people were polite and considerate toward each other.

Miss Allison told of her trip to the Mammouth Cave in Kentucky, her visit to the Wrigley Building, her experience on a tobacco warm, and many other interesting points of her journey. The report was amusing and interesting as well as educational.

Students who went to Chicago will be the next to tell of their trips.

ENGLISH CLUB HAS FIRST MONTHLY MEETING

The English Club held its first monthly meeting Monday, Oct 2. Incoming officers spoke to the club; Katha Lea Keene speaking on "English Bugaboos," and Louise Briscoe on "English in Other Subjects." The meeting was conducted by the new president, Katha Lea Keene. Louise Briscoe, secretary, read the by-laws of the club.

It was agreed to answer roll call at the next meeting with a quotation including a correct usage which is commonly abused. Plans for a Better English week were briefly discussed, and it was decided that this should be observed in the latter part of October.

SONORA PEP SQUAD GIRLS MAKE ROCKSPRINGS TRIP

The pep squad girls, accompanied by their leaders and sponsor, went to Rocksprings Saturday with the football boys. They paraded the streets before the game there. The pep squad girls were the center of attraction as the opponents did not have their uniforms, although they have planned to have them by their next game.

At the half of the game the girls did a drill, which was unusually pretty. The pep squad is still working. They are not going to drop the boys just because Rocksprings outscored them. The pep squad girls are stil behind the boys and they are ready to help "pick" the Eldorado Eagles here next Saturday, October 14.

Among those who attended the Rocksprings game were Misses Ches Thorp and Nina Roueche and Messrs. Vincent Roueche and Billy Penick.

MENARD MEN PAY $78 FOR UNLAWFUL HUNTING

One buck killed out of season cost two Menard county men a total of $78 when they were convicted of charges brought by C. H. Jennings, district game warden, in justice court at Menard the first of last week.

Adolph Byars of Menard was also found guilty of hunting deer at night. His companion, Geo. Wagner, of Hext, was fined for killing a buck out of season.

Brady Lamb Feeders Uncertain

Lamb feeders in the Brady section, where many Sutton county lambs have gone in past years, are uncertain as to what they want to do this fall, O. L. Richardson, local stock dealer found on a visit there Saturday. Dry weather and uncertain market conditions are causing the hesitancy being shown this year, says Richardson. Low prices for meat and high prices for feed have put the feeder in a tough spot.

First, layin' money away at interest must be a pretty good habit if so many follow it. An' second, the First National Bank must be a pretty good bank to do your savin' in."

Notice to Our Banking Customers

The Banking Code has now been signed by President Roosevelt and will go into effect Monday, October 16, 1933. The Code has regulations governing fair competition and makes it mandatory that banks in each section have uniform policy of operations.

The Act requires that every bank adopt uniform Service Charges in connection with the operations of certain checking accounts, and governs the handling of Savings and Time Deposits.

This schedule has not yet been worked out, but will be completed as soon as possible. At that time we will give due publicity to the requirements of the Code so that all our friends and customers may become familiar with its terms and co-operate with us in carrying it out.
