CANADA SEEKS BIGGER OUTPUT OF WAR GOLD

By M. F. NUGENT
United Press Staff Correspondent
WINNIPEG, Man.—Gold mining through Canada's vast unexploited northlands appears likely to receive greater impetus in answer to the national need for "hard money" to meet increased war expenditures in the United States.

Key men in the mining industry have conferred at length with government representatives around an informal discussion table at Ottawa. No official announcements have been made either by the government or the gold men, now back at their operations, but indications are that:

- 1.—The industry has promised to speed up production of the yellow pay dirt.
- 2.—The government has agreed to place the industry in a restricted category, assuring essential manpower will receive concessions when military conscription is brought about.

Difficult Tasks Faced
But the problem of increasing production is not quite so feasible in fact as in theory. Hence the theory that little exploited mine fields, of which there are many, will see a new lease of life, may not materialize.

Most producing mines could increase millheads and force a higher production figure, but in many cases it would be at the expense of long-run efficiency. Leading mines that have been producing for years are operated carefully and economically. Each mine presents different problems and in each of these have been solved in the blast furnace of experience.

During 1939, Canadian gold mines produced approximately $184,400,000. Indications are that in 1940, the industry will produce about $194,000,000. But the increase over a period of years, is not actually as great as the figures indicate.

Profit in Exchange Rate
When the price was $20.67 an ounce, and it was for many years, the mines operated at a steady rate with little variance in output. When the price jumped to $35, over a period of time, many new operations were launched that could not have been carried on at the old rate. Now, by virtue of the difference between Canadian and American funds, operators get $38.50 an ounce, which will spur new workings.

Managers of the major workings, however, realize costs will be increasing, rather than declining. So they have been turning the extra margin to mill lower grade ore, instead of increasing immediate profits. The difference in prices in the first quarter of the year accounted for $4,395,478 on the production figure, with very little increase in actual output.

Costs Will Increase
While anxious to provide the government with extra foreign exchange, by selling in the United States, the mine men argue that stepped-up production would increase costs. The high grade in their workings would be rushed through and thousands of tons of low grade left behind, difficult or impossible to use in the future. The more ore discarded, the shorter the life of the mine.

Hence they are likely to encourage new exploitation in hitherto unworked territory.

On the other side, some suggest the vast holdings of gold in the United States might change the situation. Should a United States embargo be placed on gold, they say, or the price reduced, it would be to Canada's advantage to get as much out of the ground as possible, immediately.

McElbreath Well Is Given A Test With Showing 110.6 Barrels

CISCO, Aug. 2.—The railroad commission completed its potential test of the Groover and Rose and Jones and Stansley No. 1 McElbreath at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday, with a gauge of 110.6 barrels over a 24-hour period.

The well was tested on natural flow although gas pressure was low, estimated at 150,000 feet. With a little more gas pressure, operators said, the well would produce twice as much.

The date has been sent to Austin where allowance will be fixed. Since the McElbreath opened a new pool a special allowance is due it. What this will be depends on the determination of the commission at Austin, and pending this decision prospective offset activity will be held in abeyance, it was said.

The test of the well started Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and ended at the same hour.

The well, four and a half miles south by west of Cisco, is bottomed at 3,035 feet with the drill penetrating Caddo pay for 73 feet. It was acidized with 4,000 gallons three weeks ago.

The territory is virgin, and the well is believed to have opened up one of the largest Caddo structures in the section for development.

Average Motorist Pays $40 State Tax

WASHINGTON.—The average motor vehicle owner in the United States paid $40.31 in state and local taxes in 1939, according to statistics prepared by the U. S. Public Roads Administration. Of that amount $26.84, or two-thirds, was for state gasoline taxes and $13.47 was for registration, driver and other license fees.

In addition to the state taxes, motorists last year paid about one-third of a billion dollars in "emergency" taxes to the federal government, of an average of about $11 for each vehicle. These federal taxes brought the overall tax bill of the average motorist to more than $50 for the year. Recently Congress increased the rates of and extended the "emergency" taxes for five years. It is estimated that these rate increases will add another $4 to the average annual tax bill of the motorists.

CONSCRIPTION LIMITATIONS ELIMINATED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The senate military affairs committee today voted down by 6 to 4 an amendment to limit conscription to 1,000,000 youths. The amendment had been offered as a substitute for the original conscription bill, which provided for registration of men between the ages of 18 and 65, with selective drafts for military training of youths.

The bill now provides for all men between the ages of 21 and 31, who are physically sound, and who have no dependents to be given military training.

President Roosevelt said in his press conference today that conscription is needed for adequate defense, but that congress must write the law under which the conscription will be operated.

Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma, author of the amendment which would limit conscription to 1,000,000 youths, said today after his amendment was defeated that he would offer another amendment, immediately, limiting conscription to 400,000 youths.

County Chairman Issues Statement

Oscar Lyerla, chairman of Eastland County Democratic committee, has issued the following statement, which is self-explanatory:

"The Democratic Executive Committee will meet Saturday afternoon, August 3rd, at 2:00 o'clock in the district court room. The county convention will meet at 3:00 o'clock at the court house. Absentee balloting under the law starts August 4th, but owing to the fact that the law provides that the State Executive Committee shall meet August 10th and certify to the various county chairmen the names of the candidates of the various State and District offices for the run-off primary, it will be impossible for me to have ballots ready before the 12th or 13th. However, the county clerk can mail out applications for absentee balloting starting August 4th and will have ample time to mail the ballots and receive them back on time.

"Yours truly,
"Oscar Lyerla,
"County Democratic Chairman."

Jack And Jill Had Nothing on Woman Who Carries Water

COLLEGE STATION.—How many miles is it from the house to the well on the average farm? An engineer for the United States Department of Agriculture recently found that a farm wagon who was born and who died on the same farm after an active 50 years of operating the place had been obliged to make on an average of four trips a day from the house to the well to provide water for the household. The well was 20 feet from the house and was 10 feet lower, so that a walk down hill and up was necessary.

The engineer calculated that during 50 years this woman had carried 7,000 barrels of water from the well to the house, had walked a distance equivalent to that from New York to San Francisco and back, and had climbed up a distance equal to 100 trips up and down Pike's Peak.

Home demonstration agents and other workers of the A. and M. College Extension Service are constantly urging farm people who are financially able to install home conveniences providing they do not already have them. According to Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension specialist in home improvement, there is no household labor-saving convenience of more value than a farm water system, and sewage disposal. Literature on probable cost and how to install water systems is available from the Extension Service.

Cement Plants In State Show Slight Production Growth

AUSTIN, Tex.—Despite curtailed production, stocks on hand at Texas cement plants rose 9.5 per cent during June, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced.

June production totaled 672,000 barrels, 11.8 per cent under May, while shipments amounted to 594,000 barrels, down 16.6 per cent from May.

Production still was 21.1 per cent higher than in June of last year, and stocks 30.5 per cent higher, while shipments declined 7.8 per cent.

Output and shipments for the first six months of 1940, however, were 1.6 and 3.7 per cent, respectively, below the first six months of 1939.

11,211 Mattresses to Be Made In This Section Of State

COLLEGE STATION.—A total of 11,211 cotton mattresses will be made for low income white farm families in District 7 of the A. and M. College Extension Service, and 96 will be made for Negro farm families under the cotton mattress program fostered by the United States Department of Agriculture. The program is sponsored jointly by three agencies of the department: the Extension Service, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in cooperation with state agencies.

By July 1, 2,444 of these mattresses had been processed and consigned to applicants, according to Maurine Hearn, district agent in charge of home demonstration agents. Recent shipments of cotton to many of the counties have made it possible to open 165 centers so that the work can be speeded up and additional centers will be opened as needed.

Applicants gather at these centers to work cooperatively on mattresses for themselves and their neighbors. The processing of mattresses is under the direct supervision of county home demonstration agents and county agricultural agents with the help of a community committee of three women and two men in each community where a center is located. "Too much cannot be said for these leaders who are not receiving any pay for their services but are giving their time that all their neighbors who are eligible may benefit from the program," Miss Hearn points out. Two thousand eight hundred and fifty-five different farm families have worked in the centers to date.

School trustees, churches, 4-H Clubs, NYA, the press, civic clubs, and organizations, county land use planning committees, county home demonstration councils, and others have cooperated in every way possible in setting up the program in the counties, and the county commissioners' courts have been the local sponsoring agency in practically every county.

The counties in District 7 are: Blanco, Brown, Callahan, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Gillespie, Jones, Llano, McCulloch Mason, Mills, Palo Pinto, Runnels, San Saba, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor.

Motorcycles May Be Outmoded for Handling Traffic

DALLAS, Tex.—Dallas traffic police may eventually be without motorcycles.

That was the prediction today of Police Chief J. M. Welsh, deeply concerned with constant recurrence of serious accidents to motorcycle officers, and he said that plans for the gradual abandonment of the motorcycles were being pushed.

The motorcycle patrol is recognized as the most dangerous phase of police work, and many officers have been reluctant to accept assignments on the two-wheeled machines.

"Although the decision is not absolutely final, I am fairly certain that we will stop using the motorcycles," Chief Welsh said.

Dog Saves A Man From Being Drowned

FORT WORTH, Aug. 2.—Arthur Hunt, 20, of Waco, today credited Mrs. W. C. Griffin's pet dog with saving him from death in a creek.

Hunt said that after his automobile overturned, throwing him into a creek, the dog, a Doberman Pinscher, pulled him from the water and then woke Mrs. Griffin.

Hunt was not seriously hurt in the accident.

Sinclair Restores Crude Oil Prices

AUSTIN, Aug. 2.—Harry Sinclair said today that his oil companies were re-instating, retroactively, the prices being paid for North and Central Texas crude oil, before the recent four to 24 cents a barrel reduction.

His announcement was cheered at the State Railroad Commission hearing.

Aged Woman Is Found Safe After She Became Lost

CISCO, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Nancy S. Page, 85-year-old widow living on her farm eight miles north of Cisco, was little the worse for her experience after she became lost from her home and wandered several miles before she was found sitting on the side of the road by members of a searching party out of Cisco.

Mrs. Page, who lives on a 320-acre farm on the Canyon road, left home at 5 o'clock to go to the creek about 250 yards distance for water for some flowers. Returning with a pail of water, she became confused, took the wrong path, following some cows which normally would have returned to the barn for the night.

"If those cows had had any sense and gone to the house I wouldn't have become lost," Mrs. Page told her rescuers. Purlind, she has difficulty in seeing clearly at any distance and this accounted for her confusion in surroundings very familiar to her.

She was found after 200 or more Ciscoans, summoned by the fire siren, had scoured the district following intensive searches directed by Police Chief Purdue and Constable J. J. Hones and others.

Still carrying her small water pail, she had wandered one-half mile west and a mile north of the creek, had fallen two or three times, bruising herself slightly, and, finally reaching the road, had sat down in the barrow pit waiting for someone to come along whom she could hail. She had been there more than two hours when Bill Hiesbee and a companion chanced upon her.

She had attempted several times to hail passersby, she said, but the noise of the cars on the road drowned out her voice.

Mrs. Lane lives alone except for a grandson, Clarence Butler, who was away from the house at the time. A son, Lane Page, living a quarter of a mile away, came to the house about 6 o'clock and hauled some water for his mother. When she did not appear within a short time, he realized something was wrong and went in search of her.

Failing to find her, he notified Chief Purdue, who took several men and went to the vicinity, conducting a search without results. Constable Hones came back to town and summoned the fire department. At 12 o'clock more than 200 men were engaged in the search. Mrs. Page was found about 12:30.

Daylight Time Is Causing A Riddle

CHAMPAIGN-URBANA, Ill.—The city of Urbana, which recently created an inter-town rivalry by refusing to follow its sister city, Champaign, in adopting daylight saving time, as a result of the dual time systems must set a birthday for the twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ross, Chicago.

The twins, a boy and a girl, were born July 15, at Carle hospital, Urbana, at 11:15 P. M. and 11:31 P. M. Central Standard time, the girl first.

Carle Hospital, however, like the other two Urbana hospitals, adopted daylight saving time with Champaign despite Urbana's refusal to do so. This means that according to hospital (and Champaign) time, the babies were born shortly after midnight July 16.

On suggestion, has been made that the twins be allowed to celebrate two birthdays each year, another is to leave the question up to a joint session of the Champaign and Urbana Chamber of Commerce to take under advisement and settle.

After all it's no boon to twin-city commerce for people to come here for the births of their children and then not even know when it happened, say citizens.

Ros is not too perturbed over the problem and, being quite happy about the whole thing, is expected to settle it for himself. The Urbana city clerk has not yet announced his intentions in regard to filing the birth records of the twins.

BRITISH AND GERMANS SWAP AIR RAIDS AS A BLITZKRIEG PRELUDE

Herman B. Dempsey

The appointment of Herman B. Dempsey, formerly of Ranger, as foreman of the Ballinger pipe line district of Lone Star Gas Company has been announced from Dallas by Elmer F. Schmidt, vice president and operating manager. Mr. Dempsey has assumed his new duties and is making his home in Ballinger, headquarters for the Ballinger pipe line district.

Until his recent appointment, Mr. Dempsey was assistant foreman of the Ranger pipe line district, with headquarters at Pueblo, Mo. at Ranger Nov. 6, 1909. Mr. Dempsey attended grade school here and graduated from Ranger High School in 1931. He joined Lone Star as laborer shortly after his graduation and worked in that capacity until Aug. 21, 1933, when he was named dispatcher of the Ranger pipe line district office, and on Feb. 19, 1938, named assistant foreman of the Ranger pipe line district. He held that post until his appointment as Ballinger pipe line district foreman, effective July 25.

Mr. Dempsey is married to the former Miss Hazel Stevens of Ranger. They have two children, Mildred Faye, 6, and Herman B. Dempsey, Jr., one year old.

In his nine years of service with Lone Star Gas company, Mr. Dempsey has had wide experience in maintenance of natural gas pipe lines which transmit the fuel from the source of supply to cities and communities on the gas system. As Ballinger district foreman he will have charge of maintenance and operation of the company's main line supplying gas to San Angelo, Miles, Rowena, Ballinger, Winters, Talpa and Valera.

British quarters claimed today that Hamburg, Germany's second largest city and the country's largest seaport, was in ruins from the repeated British air raids and said that more than 100,000 other cities had been damaged, some severely. Cities on which air raids have been done the most damage were described by the British as being military objectives, with the industrial section of the Ruhr Valley being bombed on a number of occasions.

At Hamburg it was reported that the naval base, oil supply depots, an airplane factory and other important objectives had been ruined and that huge fires still could be seen throughout the industrial section of the city.

Raids yesterday damaged the great Krupp armament works at Essen, the British claimed, and dockyards at Bremen and airplane concentrations at Cherbourg, the air ministry reported.

Other raids have been centered on industrial objectives, supply depots and fuel refineries.

German troops were reported converging at the eastern channel ports today and Italian forces were massing along the Egyptian border in North Africa.

Some British expressed the opinion that Adolf Hitler might order his invasion against the advice of military leaders because of growing unrest in the German areas being raided by the British.

The Nazis made counter claims of success. They said a British submarine was sunk in the North Sea, a freighter sunk and four others damaged by bombs off the coast of Ireland and that great damage was done to harbor works in air raids. German planes showed Britain with leaflets again today, containing Hitler's "surrender or die" speech which he made recently.

Anti-aircraft guns were heard over Berlin today, but no bombs were reported dropped. At Bremen, British said the famous Focke-Wulf aircraft factory had been hit and some damage had resulted.

Wyoming Notes A Very Few Crimes Go Unpunished

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Wyoming isn't a likely place for major crime.

At least, five out of every six persons tried for more serious offenses in that state realize that, according to a recently issued report.

That's the score during 1939 for the state's district courts—five convictions for every six persons brought to trial. Of 885 cases tried before the 13 Wyoming district courts last year, there were 321 convictions. Guilty pleas were entered by 311 defendants, while 10 were convicted before juries.

Sixty-four cases were eliminated without conviction, and 54 were dismissed.

Of four persons accused of murder, only one was convicted, but 91 convictions on burglary counts were obtained against 98 persons tried. Best average was established in robbery trials, with 16 convictions in 17 cases.

Officials said the number of persons tried reached a record total in 1939. Previous high was in 1937 with 328.

Sam Russell To Speak at Cisco

It is announced from Cisco that Judge Sam Russell of Stephenville, run-off candidate for congress from this district, has accepted an invitation to speak at the State-wide V. F. W. jamboree at Lake Cisco August 16 and 17. Russell will speak at an hour to be designated later.

Clyde Garrett, present incumbent in congress from this district, has also been invited to speak.

Daladier, Scapegoat

We do not know into what wilderness the Petain-Laval government of France is about to send Edouard Daladier. But as they call this former premier of France before their bar of justice, one thinks automatically of Aaron, instructor, according to the Book of Leviticus, to "cast lots upon the two goats; one lot for the Lord, and the other lot for the scapegoat." One was to be offered up as a sacrifice, the other, "on which the lot fell to be the scapegoat" was to be presented alive to the Lord "to make atonement with him," after which he was to be let go "for a scapegoat into the wilderness."

The collapse of France undoubtedly calls for a scapegoat, someone on whom the sins of a whole generation can be unloaded, and who can then be driven into the wilderness, leaving the people with the illusion that their own sins have gone with the scapegoat, clearing their own consciences and lightening the load on their own backs.

How human that is!

The aged Petain, who passed the World War under a brass hat at headquarters, is about to unload guilt on the shoulders of Daladier, who spent four years scrambling in the mud of the Champaign as a sergeant. The oily Laval, political acrobat who failed to serve in the army in 1914-1918, is to judge the patriotism of the ex-sergeant who tried, too late, to rouse France to reality.

We are too far from France to judge accurately whatever case may be made against Daladier, whatever effort may be made to load upon him the guilt for the war and France's downfall.

But the urgent need for a scapegoat is clear. If France is to be rallied to the new Petain-Laval government, it must be taught that the former leadership was reckless, incompetent, and if possible disloyal.

Two years ago at just this time, Daladier was pleading with France to get down to work. A little later he was breaking the general strike that paralyzed French efforts for the moment. To avoid war, it was Daladier who submitted to the humiliation at Munich.

As between Petain-Laval and Daladier, Americans should not, and do not have to choose. But the odor of the burnt sacrifice, the aspect of sending forth a scapegoat into the wilderness, hangs heavily about the whole procedure.

Not having heard from Confucius in recent weeks, we begin to wonder if he wasn't just another of those political candidates who wound up as also-rans at the conventions.

It being summertime, and hot, we find the Youth Movement extremely inactive, especially when it comes to having the lawn mowed.

In this scientific age, the little voice inside one is no longer his conscience. It's just one of those new pocket radios.

Old Fiddler Has A Home Orchestra

By United Press

MINERAL WELLS, Tex.—Eck Robertson of Panhandle, Tex., "the fiddlingest fiddler who ever fiddled," has an orchestra composed of his children and grandchildren who can carry on when Eck is finished.

Robertson has fiddled in contests and in concerts, but he never calls it "violin-playing" because that's not the kind of music his audiences love. Eck has been fiddling—mostly in Texas but actually around the world—for a half century.

His phonograph records have been best-sellers, among the foot-tapping folks who like the songs of the south and the southwest. Robertson's grandchildren and his children play many instruments but the fiddle is the only one he ever plays.

The "fiddlingest fiddler who ever fiddled" actually learned to play one before he ever saw a real fiddle. Eck made his own musical instrument when he was a farm boy in Hunt County. He used a gourd for the sound box, stretching over it the hide of the family cat, which he had sacrificed for the sake of art with his .22 rifle.

Eck recently won an old fiddlers' contest here.

Traffic Officers Can Now Study Law Enforcement

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—From August 12 to 24, traffic officers from all sections of the country will have further opportunity to study—this time at the National Institute for Traffic Safety Training, to be held at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. A two-week course in traffic law enforcement, one of nine courses offered at the Institute, will be conducted by A. R. Forster, director of training for the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

The course will be essentially similar to the standard traffic officers' training schools conducted by Northwestern and other universities in cooperation of the Safety Division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Instruction will cover all important phases of police organization and procedure related to the development of sound enforcement program including traffic division organization, selection and training of traffic officers, accident investigation, law of arrest, law of evidence, case preparation and court work, planning selective enforcement, enforcement policies, enforcement tactics, reports and records, analysis, public relations and traffic police administration.

Classroom lectures will be augmented by demonstrations and field work. Consideration will be given to both city and state police methods and to needs of departments of all sizes. Instructors will be men qualified by experience in police work and previous training activities.

The course is open to all city and state police officers in active service.

Eastland Teams In Win And A Loss In Ranger On Thursday

Special contests were staged at the Ranger recreation parks on Thursday afternoon between Eastland and Ranger boys softball teams.

In games between the Hodges Oak Park boys and Eastland boys, the 12-year-old team from Ranger defeated Eastland by a score of 8 to 2 and in the 15-year-old contest Eastland boys were victors by a score of 11 to 4.

At Highway Park a pocket checkers contest was staged with Jerry Gran winning first place and Robert Lawson second place.

Glasscock Begins Advertising Rodeo

Bob Glasscock, Route 3, Ranger, has already become a booster for the annual Ranger Rodeo and Celebration, to be held Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 2 and 3, and has started boosting the event in a big way.

Wednesday he went to Fort Worth on a business trip, and while there spent considerable time telling about the rodeo and other special events that are to be staged during the two days.

Present indications are that the Labor Day events will be bigger than ever attempted here, with something happening all day, from soap box derbies to airplane meets and rodeo features.

National Guard to Leave for Its Annual Training Period, But On Longer, More Intensive Schedule

Officers and men of Company 1, 142nd Infantry, Texas National Guard, from Ranger, will leave this weekend for the annual encampment, which will take the form of three weeks of war games instead of the regular two weeks training. The guard unit will train with other guardmen from over the southwest, and at the same time, the entire four armies of the National Guard, comprising 30,000 men, will be training at the same time in other localities. This will be the first time that all four armies have trained simultaneously. Officers and men of the company expecting to leave this weekend are: Capt. Harold E. Angus; Second Lt. Eddie P. Voss; First Sgt. W. H. Angus.

SERIAL STORY

SUMMER THEATER

BY MILDRED WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Although Johnny had been told to wait until the party, he couldn't resist the temptation to go to the theater. He was sitting in the front row, and he was looking at the girl who was sitting next to him. She was looking at him, and he was looking at her. They were both looking at each other, and they were both smiling. They were both looking at each other, and they were both smiling.

CHAPTER V

JOHNNY'S relief that Jean and Sue hadn't combined forces to catch Molly's eyes out of the picture in Jean's glance. She wanted to come to the party. How could he have known that Molly's whole point in this visit to the theater was to increase her list of patrons for the Wharf Theater? "Come along and meet all of us," Jean said, and Johnny followed them back across the lawn. The rest of the evening passed so smoothly and uneventfully that Johnny began to think he was under the spell of Jean's ulterior motives. Sue reluctantly called round, and Molly was soon a part of every group. Molly sat on the green flowered love-seat and told them enchantingly about the Theater.

She mimicked Mr. Earl and they howled with delight. She told them how acting was taught at the dramatic school and they loved her for letting down her hair.

"Are you in the first play?" Jean asked her. "I'm an old, old lady," she said in a voice like Miss Bessie Carters. "But I ought to be glad to get that. Apprentices seldom have a line except, 'Maddam, tea is served.' Nobody wanted that part of the old lady, so they let me try out. I don't care about parts. All I want to do is to act."

MOLLY was telling Sue good night, when Johnny went to find Jean. He had watched her as she sat on a cushion beside the empty fireplace, smoking cigarette after cigarette. When she did speak, it was only to urge on Molly's monolog.

"You've been a swell sport, Jean," Johnny told her. "You could have been pretty nasty about all this. And I do thank you."

"Don't thank me," Jean said curtly. "And don't pity me. I'm not going to be a dog in the woodpile, but she's still got to do a lot of thing."

"Why, you acted as if you thought she was lovely. I don't get you women." He was more bewildered than ever.

"Don't you?" she asked bitterly. "Well, this isn't any trap. I'm clearing out the minute I find out she loves you. Personally, I think she's stage drunk."

Molly came back just then, and

Jean flashed her the sweetest of smiles. "See you Thursday at 4:30."

ALL the way home Molly kept telling Johnny how wonderful everybody was. "And Jean Reynolds is the nicest person I ever met. At first, I thought you weren't telling me the truth about you two. Then when I met her, I knew if you'd ever gotten a whiff from a gal like that, you wouldn't have looked twice at little Molly Travers."

"So you've gone into long division, or is it algebra? If I were you, I'd stay away from mathematics. You always get the wrong answers. I've had plenty of time to analyze the way I feel about you. The weather saw to that. Johnny put his arm around her and they went down the dark village street. "I knew if I'd lost you forever, my life was empty. But what do you think of me? Do you really care?"

She was in his arms again, and he was kissing her.

"This is the way I feel about you," she told him. "You are gay and shining like a knight in a fairy tale with all your talk of white steeds. You are young and it's wonderful to be young. I haven't time to be young, or to play. I must work always for what I want most of all." She pushed him away.

"I love you," he told her. "Does it seem too sudden? I've saved that expression for the feeling I have for you. Do you think you could ever love me?"

She was in his arms again, and with a choking sob she was saying, "Oh, my dear, how I wish I had time for love; it would be so easy to let it happen to us. But I haven't time. The theater's in my blood, the way the Cape is in yours. Please, can't you understand?"

THE sun shone on Cape Cod and in Johnny's heart. Molly often stopped by on her way to and from rehearsal, but there were no more picnics. This was the last week before the opening and Carter Earl was working the daylight out of his cast.

Then suddenly she ceased coming by. He looked for her at the stage door and even went by number 43 Cottage street. All to no avail, she said she was too busy to see him.

He assumed that Jean Reynolds had left the Cape entirely. That, too, was for the best. And then one Saturday afternoon he came back from lunch to find her yellow roadster parked in front of his shop. Try, as he would, he was unsuccessful in scuttling the pleasure he felt at knowing she was near.

"Hello, Johnny," she hailed him when he approached. "Know where we could borrow an old lamp?"

"What do you want with an old lamp?" Who was he, Aladdin? That was the cue on which Molly had entered his life, and now Jean. "I'm helping Mr. Earl on props for this show. He believes a person who knows everybody down here can do better than some member of the company. And so far I've had wonderful luck. Look."

She drew the list of properties from her pocket and he noted the checks by nearly every item. "Just like the treasure hunt, only you feel it's much more important."

"You had me going for a minute. The first time Molly came in here she asked for an old lamp. Naturally I thought you were kidding me. Tell me, now that we are speaking, what kind of an actress is our girl friend?"

"Molly is a swell actress," she told him. "But, Johnny," she began and then stopped, "are you still that way about her?" she asked almost shyly.

"I'm afraid so, Jean, only more so." He offered her a cigarette and took one himself. "I haven't seen much of her lately. Earl's been riding them pretty hard."

Jean walked over and found a scorpion shell to use for an ash tray. Her back was to him when she said, "The lead is here. Andre Masters. He is viddy, viddy fond of your Molly."

Johnny went across and turned her around. Still gripping her shoulders, he asked, "Is that why I haven't seen much of her? He's giving her a whirl, you mean?"

Jean took his hands from her shoulders. She turned away from the misery in his face. Then she wheeled swiftly.

"Johnny, I came by to tell you that I'm going back to Boston." Johnny didn't answer for a minute. Molly had left him for Masters. Masters could get her somewhere in the theater. Automatically he began to rearrange his window display.

"I told you I'd leave as soon as I found out Molly loved you." The pottery bowl trembled in Johnny's fingers. His heart pounded so loudly he could hardly hear his own words.

"Molly says she loves me!"

The bowl dropped from his hands and smashed into a thousand bits.

Freckles and His Friends—By Blosser

August 5-21 at Valentine Lake, near Boyce, La.

These horses, which Humberson bought from many parts of Texas and New Mexico, have been inspected at the Mont Thomas stables here by three army officers and an army veterinarian.

The animals are expected to be trucked directly to their destination in Louisiana, leaving here August 4 and arriving at Valentine Lake the next day.

Horses accepted are to be from four years old up, from 15 to 16 hands high, and must be otherwise suitable for cavalry use, Humberson said.

Most of the herd, Humberson said, was bought around Sonora, San Angelo, Breckenridge and Stephenville.

Crop Prospects In East Texas Better

LONGVIEW, Tex.—Crop prospects throughout 70 counties served by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce are better this year than at any corresponding period of the past five years, it was learned from the agricultural department of the regional chamber today.

Pasture conditions in most sections are excellent, an announcement from the chamber said. Plentiful rains throughout the summer have contributed to the condition of the range, it was said, and there are increasingly large herds of fine Jersey and Hereford cattle on pasture in East Texas this year.

Boll Weevils and Flea Hoppers Are Worst Cotton Pests

CLEBURNE, Tex.—Boll weevils and flea hoppers are the most injurious insects now infesting Texas cotton, a survey by Texas A. & M. College experts shows.

Cotton conditions are also good, according to Elmore Torn, East Texas agriculture and forestry director.

Dr. F. L. Thomas, head of the Division of Entomology at Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, said that boll weevils were damaging 15 of 21 farms examined in Lee, Milam, Bastrop, Fayette and Washington counties, and on 18 of 25 farms in North Central Texas, where the greatest need of control is in McLennan, Limestone and Falls counties.

Flea hoppers were described as most abundant in Kaufman and Fannin counties, although they are causing some damage in Bell, Ellis, Falls, and McLennan counties. Flea hoppers were found on almost 50 per cent of cotton fields examined in North Texas and on approximately one-third of the farms in North Central Texas.

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

BOXING has been kicked around in New York until it is in a precarious condition throughout the country. It having been clearly demonstrated that Lew Jenkins does not belong in the same enclosure with Henry Armstrong, Mike Jacobs is going to have the boys do it all over again at Madison Square Garden, Sept. 27.

After casting suspicion on the first edition by ordering the purses of the principals and the fees of the officials withheld, the Boxing Commission suspends Eddie Meade for 60 days because he insisted upon additional soft bandage on the charging Negro's battle-torn fists.

With Armstrong's $25,000 in his possession, the suspension will practically keep fat Eddie Meade awake nights. He hasn't any business in New York for 60 days, anyway.

BOTH Armstrong and Jenkins feared broken hands . . . agreed on a little more soft bandage than one of the numerous silly New York rules permit.

A fighter is only handicapping himself with soft bandage. A limit on soft bandage doesn't make sense. It is hard bandage that does damage.

Climaxing an argument with Meade, who refused to unwrap Armstrong's hands before the scrap, Maj.-Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the board, ordered Promoter Jacobs to announce to 23,000 people who had paid $111,000 that the party was off. "You tell 'em yourself," shouted Jacobs, the old ticket scalper, "and come back and tell me how I'm going to get back the dough I've laid out."

MAJOR-GENERAL PHELAN, the brassiere manufacturer, thought better of it when he got out into the air. And now it appears that the celebrated double-talker is going to let a cheese lightweight champion fight a fading welter leader again . . . for no reason at all.

Meanwhile keeping two divisions jammed up. Joe Louis has been reduced from a near million dollar performer to where he draws as little as $50,000. There are two middleweight championship claimants. The feather, bantam and flyweight titles mean nothing at all any more.

Boxing is sadly in need of guidance in New York, its center.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sensations shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or filter.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SEVENTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

I desire to take this method of expressing my thanks and appreciation for the wonderful vote that was cast in my behalf Saturday July 27th. I shall always treasure this manifestation of confidence as one of the finest compliments I have ever received.

I appreciate the fact that my home county gave me the largest percentage vote in the district. They gave me a sixty-seven per cent vote over all my opponents, while my opponent who is now in the run-off received only fifty-seven per cent of the votes in his home county.

I am deeply grateful for the hundreds of people who are writing me volunteering their support and aid, for the hundreds who have come to my office and home and pledged their aid and efforts to the extent that my candidacy will be placed before all the people.

It is impossible for me to answer all these letters and communications now; However, just as quick as it is physically possible, I will acknowledge personally each and every letter, card and telegram that has been received.

I shall do my utmost to see as many of the voters as possible and try to visit each and every box in the district. In the meantime, however, I take this method, and here now solicit the vote and influence and personal efforts of all the voters of the district. With all my friends, old and new, organized into one great force, we will win by an overwhelming majority; and when we win, it will be our greatest delight to serve the greatest people on earth,—you.

Respectfully yours,
SAM RUSSELL,
Candidate for Congress, Seventeenth Congressional District.

SERIAL STORY

SUMMER THEATER

BY MILDRED WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHT 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, although Johnny had been to the Cape Cod and the Cape Cod, she insists on going to the Melton's party. Jean said, "Molly, defending her against Sue Melton's anger."

CHAPTER V

JOHNNY'S relief that Jean and Sue hadn't combined forces to catch Molly's eyes out vanished when he caught the look of triumph in Jean's glance. She wanted Molly to come to the party. How could she have known that Molly's whole point in this visit to the Melton's was to increase her list of patrons for the Wharf Theater? "Come along and meet all of us," Jean said, and Johnny followed them back across the lawn. The rest of the evening passed smoothly and uneventfully that Johnny began to think he was really suspicious of Jean's ulterior motives. Sue reluctantly rallied round, and Molly was soon a part of every group. Molly sat on the green flowered love-seat and told them enchantingly about the Theater.

She mimicked Mr. Earl and they howled with delight. She told them how acting was taught at the dramatic school and they loved her for letting down her hair.

"Are you in the first play?" Jean asked her.

"I'm an old, old lady," she said in a voice like Miss Bessie Carters. "But I ought to be glad to get that. Apprentices seldom have a line except, 'Moddum, tea is served.' Nobody wanted that part of the old lady, so they let me try out. I don't care about parts. All I want to do is to act."

MOLLY was telling Sue good night, when Johnny went to find Jean. He had watched her as she sat on a cushion beside the empty fireplace, smoking cigarette after cigarette. When she did speak, it was only to urge on Molly's monolog.

"You've been a swell sport, Johnny," Johnny told her. "You could have been pretty nasty about all this. And I do thank you."

"Don't thank me," Jean said curtly. "And don't pity me. I'm not going to be a dog in the woodpile, but she's still got to do a lot of thing."

"Why, you acted as if you thought she was lovely. I don't get you women." He was more bewildered than ever.

"Don't you?" she asked bitterly. "Well, this isn't any trap. I'm clearing out the minute I find out she loves you. Personally, I think she's stage struck."

Molly came back just then, and

Jean flashed her the sweetest of smiles. "See you Thursday at 4:30."

ALL the way home Molly kept telling Johnny how wonderful everybody was.

"And Jean Reynolds is the nicest person I ever met. At first, I thought you weren't telling me the truth about you two. Then when I met her, I knew if you'd ever gotten a whirl from a gal like that, you wouldn't have looked twice at little Molly Travers."

"So you've gone into long division, or is it algebra? If I were you, I'd stay away from mathematics. You always get the wrong answers. I've had plenty of time to analyze the way I feel about you. The weather saw to that. Johnny put his arm around her and they went down the dark village street. "I knew if I'd lost you forever, my life was empty. But what do you think of me? Do you really care?"

She was in his arms again, and he was kissing her.

"This is the way I feel about you," she told him. "You are gay and shining like a knight in a fairy tale with all your talk of white steeds. You are young and it's wonderful to be young. I haven't time to be young, or to play. I must work always for what I want most of all." She pushed him away.

"I love you," he told her. "Does it seem too sudden? I've saved that expression for the feeling I have for you. Do you think you could ever love me?"

She was in his arms again, and with a choking sob she was saying, "Oh, my dear, how I wish I had time for love; it would be so easy to let it happen to us. But I haven't time. The theater's in my blood, the way the Cape is in yours. Please, can't you understand?"

THE sun shone on Cape Cod and in Johnny's heart. Molly often stopped by on her way to and from rehearsal, but there were no more picnics. This was the last week before the opening and Carter Earl was working the daylight out of his cast.

Then suddenly she ceased coming by. He looked for her at the stage door and even went by number 43 Cottage street. All to no avail, she said she was too busy to see him.

He assumed that Jean Reynolds had left the Cape entirely. That, too, was for the best. And then one Saturday afternoon he came back from lunch to find her yellow roadster parked in front of his shop. Try, as he would, he was unsuccessful in scuttling the pleasure he felt at knowing she was near.

"Hello, Johnny," she hailed him when he approached. "Know where we could borrow an old lamp?"

"What do you want with an old lamp? Who was he, Aladdin? That was the cue on which Molly had entered his life, and now Jean. "I'm helping Mr. Earl on props for this show. He believes a person who knows everybody down here can do better than some member of the company. And so far I've had wonderful luck. Look."

She drew the list of properties from her pocket and he noted the checks by nearly every item. "Just like the treasure hunt, only you feel it's much more important."

"You had me going for a minute. The first time Molly came in here she asked for an old lamp. Naturally I thought you were ribbing me. Tell me, now that we are speaking, what kind of an actress is our girl friend?"

"Molly is a swell actress," she told him. "But, Johnny," she began and then stopped, "are you still that way about her?" she asked almost shyly.

"I'm afraid so, Jean, only more so." He offered her a cigarette and took one himself. "I haven't seen much of her lately. Earl's been riding them pretty hard."

Jean walked over and found a scallop shell to use for an ash tray. Her back was to him when she said, "The lead is here. Andre Masters. He is veddy, veddy fond of your Molly."

Johnny went across and turned her around. Still gripping her shoulders, he asked, "Is that why I haven't seen much of her? He's giving her a whirl, you mean?"

Jean took his hands from her shoulders. She turned away from the misery in his face. Then she wheeled swiftly.

"Johnny, I came by to tell you that I'm going back to Boston." Johnny didn't answer for a minute. Molly had left him for Masters. Masters could get her somewhere in the theater. Automatically he began to rearrange his window display.

"I told you I'd leave as soon as I found out Molly loved you." The pottery bowl trembled in Johnny's fingers. His heart pounded so loudly he could hardly hear his own words.

"Molly says she loves me?" The bowl dropped from his hands and smashed into a thousand bits.

Freckles and His Friends—By Blosser

August 5-21 at Valentine Lake, near Boyce, La.

These horses, which Humberson bought from many parts of Texas and New Mexico, have been inspected at the Mont Thomas stables here by three army officers and an army veterinarian.

The animals are expected to be trucked directly to their destination in Louisiana, leaving here August 4 and arriving at Valentine Lake the next day.

Horses accepted are to be from four years old up, from 15 to 16 hands high, and must be otherwise suitable for cavalry use, Humberson said.

Most of the herd, Humberson said, was bought around Sonora, San Angelo, Breckenridge and Stephenville.

Humberson, now 55, has been engaged in buying and selling polo ponies and U. S. Army horses for the last 25 years. He has shipped polo ponies to well-known milkenaires in New York, and he once loaned the Duke of Windsor, then the Prince of Wales, a pony to use while refereeing a match at the Meadowbrook Polo Club, Long Island, N. Y.

Crop Prospects In East Texas Better

By United Press
LONGVIEW, Tex.—Crop prospects throughout 79 counties served by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce are better this year than at any corresponding period of the past five years, it was learned from the agricultural department of the regional chamber today.

Pasture conditions in most sections are excellent, an announcement from the chamber said. Plentiful rains throughout the summer have contributed to the condition of the range, it was said, and there are increasingly large herds of fine Jersey and Hereford cattle on pasture in East Texas this year.

Boll Weevils and Flea Hoppers Are Worst Cotton Pests

CLEBURNE, Tex.—Boll weevils and flea hoppers are the most injurious insects now infesting Texas cotton, a survey by Texas A. & M. College experts shows.

Cotton conditions are also good, according to Elmore Torn, Texas agriculture and forestry director.

Dr. F. L. Thomas, head of the Division of Entomology at Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, said that boll weevils were damaging 15 of 21 farms examined in Lee, Milam, Bastrop, Fayette and Washington counties, and on 12 of 25 farms in North Central Texas, where the greatest need of control is in McLennan, Limestone and Falls counties.

Flea hoppers were described as most abundant in Kaufman and Fannin counties, although they are causing some damage in Bell, Ellis, Falls, and McLennan counties. Flea hoppers were found on almost 50 per cent of cotton fields examined in North Texas and on approximately one-third of the farms in North Central Texas.

THE PAY OFF

BOXING has been kicked around in New York until it is in a precarious condition throughout the country. It having been clearly demonstrated that Lew Jenkins does not belong in the same enclosure with Henry Armstrong, Mike Jacobs is going to have the boys do it all over again at Madison Square Garden, Sept. 27.

After casting suspicion on the first edition by ordering the purses of the principals and the fees of the officials withheld, the Boxing Commission suspends Eddie Meade for 60 days because he insisted upon additional soft bandage on the charging Negro's battle-torn fists.

With Armstrong's $25,000 in his possession, the suspension will practically keep fat Eddie Meade awake nights. He hasn't any business in New York for 60 days, anyway.

BOTH Armstrong and Jenkins feared broken hands . . . agreed on a little more soft bandage than one of the numerous silly New York rules permit.

A fighter is only handicapping himself with soft bandage. A limit on soft bandage doesn't make sense. It is hard bandage that does damage.

Climaxing an argument with Meade, who refused to unwrap Armstrong's hands before the scrap, Maj.-Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the board, ordered Promoter Jacobs to announce to 23,000 people who had paid $111,000 that the party was off.

"You tell 'em yourself," shouted Jacobs, the old ticket scalper, "and come back and tell me how I'm going to get back the dough I've laid out."

MAJOR-GENERAL PHELAN, the brassiere manufacturer, thought better of it when he got out into the air. And now it appears that the celebrated double-talker is going to let a cheese lightweight champion fight a fading welter leader again . . . for no reason at all.

Meanwhile keeping two divisions jammed up. Joe Louis has been reduced from a near million dollar performer to where he draws as little as $50,000. There are two middleweight championship claimants. The feather, bantam and flyweight titles mean nothing at all any more.

Boxing is badly in need of guidance in New York, its center.

Horses Leased To Army For Practice During Maneuvers

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste
If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SEVENTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

I desire to take this method of expressing my thanks and appreciation for the wonderful vote that was cast in my behalf Saturday July 27th. I shall always treasure this manifestation of confidence as one of the finest compliments I have ever received.

I appreciate the fact that my home county gave me the largest percentage vote in the district. They gave me a sixty-seven per cent vote over all my opponents, while my opponent who is now in the run-off received only fifty-seven per cent of the votes in his home county.

I am deeply grateful for the hundreds of people who are writing me volunteering their support and aid, for the hundreds who have come to my office and home and pledged their aid and efforts to the extent that my candidacy will be placed before all the people.

It is impossible for me to answer all these letters and communications now; However, just as quick as it is physically possible, I will acknowledge personally each and every letter, card and telegram that has been received.

I shall do my utmost to see as many of the voters as possible and try to visit each and every box in the district. In the meantime, however, I take this method, and here now solicit the vote and influence and personal efforts of all the voters of the district. With all my friends, old and new, organized into one great force, we will win by an overwhelming majority; and when we win, it will be our greatest delight to serve the greatest people on earth.—you.

Respectfully yours,
SAM RUSSELL,
Candidate for Congress, Seventeenth Congressional District.

THANK YOU FOLKS . . . FROM EVERYWHERE . . .

Your vote and confidence in me makes me feel doubly grateful and by lacking only a small number of votes for a majority, that you do want me to stay on the job. I'll work hard for your interests.

Nursery School Is Letter Perfect In A Fire Drill Test

Children of the Nursery School participated in a fire drill this morning, under observation of members of the Ranger Fire Department, and cleared the building in exactly two minutes.

Miss Edna Moad, supervisor of the nursery, had trained the little folk in fire drills for some time, and the test drill this morning was performed to get the reaction of the fire department.

At the sound of the fire gong the youngsters left the building in an orderly manner, all fires were turned out by the employees and the children were counted after they assembled down the street in front of the playground area. All this took but two minutes much to the surprise and delight of the fire department members who witnessed the performance, and declared it perfect in every detail.

Choral Group To Sing At Services

The combined Ranger Choral group, under the direction of Mrs. Homer Smith, will have a leading part in the evening service at the First Methodist church Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. This group of some thirty voices, is composed of both children and young people. They have been meeting regularly through the summer for practice, and have made other public appearances.

Among the numbers which they will sing are: "Living for Jesus," "In the Garden," "He Sends the Rainbow with the Rain," and "A Child's Prayer." The general theme for the service will be "My Father And I."

The public is cordially invited. Regular fire drills are conducted at the nursery as a matter of precaution, and each of the pupils knows exactly what to do when the alarm is sounded.
