Mite Of A Man Faces Two Days Of Hard Dueling

"ME AGAINST NINE" SARGA TODAY HAS FINAL WORKOUT BEFORE TACKLING NINE MEN FOR DEFENSE OF HIS BLONDE WIFE'S HONOR

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23.—"Me against nine" Sarga (as they call him now in Budapest) donned a derby and Chesterfield and strode today from his modest flat to a gymnasium for a final dress rehearsal of two days' wholesale dueling.

A mite of a man, but bouncing with energy, Dr. Franz was stopped every few yards en route to the gymnasium by duel-loving Hungarians. They told him to "be brave."

Tonight and tomorrow he's to fight nine opponents in defense of the honor of his blonde wife and their unborn baby. He was accused of marrying her for her money.

The 20-year-old wife, Magda, who now knows all, recovered her composure. She bade Dr. Sarga godspeed with the Hungarian equivalent of "give it to 'em, honey."

His 48-year-old mother, who is suffering a heart affliction, told him: "Call me up after it is over."

Makes Furious Lunges

At the gymnasium, amid a great din of clattering foils, Sarga slipped out of his Chesterfield and shirt to disclose a fencing costume underneath.

Grabbing a foil, he made a series of furious lunges at Fencing Master Santelli, who finally had to give way to the dashing midget.

Santelli removed his mask and congratulated the herr doctor warmly.

Eats Last Meal

The ambitious challenger wolfed his last meal before the nine duels in company with the Associated Press correspondent.

He ate a Bismarck herring and a hard roll, and drank light wine.

Dr. Sarga said he probably would fight the duels in his hornrimmed

SOCIALITES MUST BE VERY CAREFUL

DON'T COMMIT MURDER, MARRY FIGHTER OR BAND LEADER OR GET DIVORCE TOO OFTEN

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—If you are in the Social Register and want to stay there, don't commit a murder, don't get too many divorces, and don't marry a prize fighter or an orchestra leader.

Distribution of the 1937 Social Register revived the vexatious argument of who goes in and who goes out.

Looking through the new issue, readers discovered, for example, that Marjorie De L. Oelrichs is no longer listed. She married Eddie Duchin, the orchestra leader.

Thirty years ago Harry K. Thaw shot his way out of the little book when he turned a gun on Stanford White. A few years ago Polly Lauder married her way out through her alliance with Gene Tunney, the boxer.

The Social Register a born in the stuffy snobbishness of the eighties, Louis Keller, a sandy-haired little man with a drooping must che, founded it in the hopes o' enlarging the modest fortune left him by his father.

Keller's inspiration for the book was a shopping and visiting list issued by Mrs. Charles A. Minto and kept alive by her son, Maurice, after her death.

There are editions for 12 cities, the property of Charles Keller Beekman, nephew of the founder, who died in 1922. It has been said on good authority that Beekman would like to sell the book. The reported price is $600,000.

NAZIS SAID SEEKING TO TAKE FREE HAND IN SPANISH WAR

(By The Associated Press)

Unconfirmed reports circulated in London diplomatic circles today that Germany might be considering breaking off relations with Moscow so the nazis could assume a free hand in Spain.

The reports followed hard on the heels of a 45-minute conference between Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain, and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin on an undiscussed subject.

To Protect Shipping

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the British house of commons that Great Britain will protect its shipping from either the Spanish government or the insurgents.

To put teeth into the already strict British arms export regulations, Eden announced the government would introduce a bill to make carrying of arms to Spain by British ships illegal.

Adding indirectly to the Russo-German tension over intervention in the Spanish civil war was the sentencing to death of a German engineer by a Russian tribunal for anti-communist sabotage.

Authoritative Berlin newspapers warned that Germany stands behind every German abroad. The nazi ambassador to Russia appealed for

BONDS FORFEITED IN COURT TODAY

Bonds of Tommie Owens and Moody Young, indicted for operating a gambling house, were ordered forfeited by Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court this morning when the defendants did not appear for trial.

District Attorney Daniel A. Blair asked forfeiture of the bonds, each for $1,000, when neither Owens and Young nor their attorney appeared.

Judge Pitts said next step would be for Young and Owens and their bondsmen to appear to show cause why their bonds should not be forfeited.

Motions for continuances in the cases of H. W. Stabler, charged with operating a gambling house; W. O. Pollard, charged with operating a gambling house, and Cora Matillar, charged with arson, were to be presented this afternoon.

Case of Jasper S. Hubbert, indicted for abortion, was set for trial Friday.

YOUNG WOMAN IS RELEASED FROM JAIL

JESS LEVENS SAYS HE WAS GIVEN NO CHANCE IN CASE

Release of a Lubbock young woman, jailed for failure to testify before a court of inquiry Saturday night, resulted in a protest this morning by County Attorney Jess C. Levens.

County Judge J. J. Dillard ordered Sheriff Tom Abel to release the woman, about 22, after a habeas corpus application had been filed Sunday by George S. Berry, attorney for the woman.

Protest Is Lodged

The county attorney declared he was not given an opportunity to present a case for the state, as he said the law permitted him to do, before Judge Dillard freed the woman.

Fifty persons were heard by a court of inquiry conducted before Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg. City, county, precinct, and state officers raided four places in 1400-block Avenue C. Persons arrested there were taken before the court of inquiry.

The woman released was questioned concerning "bawdy house operations, sale of liquor, and receiving and concealing stolen property," Levens said today. When she refused to testify, he continued, she was ordered to jail by Justice of the Peace Trigg.

Not Notified By Court

"I was notified by the sheriff's office and not by the court that there was to be a habeas corpus hearing last night," the county attorney said. "I was not permitted to make any explanation or put on any evidence."

Oil Tax Brings In Big Sum For Texas

BOOST IN ALLOWABLE AND IN PRICE OF CRUDE SOUGHT

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series on new taxes imposed by the Texas legislature at its special session).

BY HARRELL E. LEE

AUSTIN, Nov. 23—The oil tax section of the omnibus bill passed at the last legislative session probably will raise more money than the other sections combined.

The gross production levy on oil was increased from 2 cents or 2 per cent of value to 2 3-4 cents or 2 3-4 per cent of value. The percentage tax applies when oil is selling for more than $1 a barrel.

Hope For Increase

If production should remain as low during the current fiscal year as in the last and there should be no price increase, additional revenue would be around $3,220,000 annually. But oil men are hopeful the allow-

SECURITY NOW BIG PROBLEM

MANY ISSUES WILL BE FACED BY SOLONS OF VARIOUS STATES

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Social security has joined taxes—the perennial headache of legislators—as a major problem for law makers in at least half the states.

Relief, liquor control and schools demand attention and other legislative issues range from birth control to race track betting.

Start In January

Most state legislatures will start their work between Jan. 4 and Jan. 15. Kentucky and Virginia will not have a regular session until 1938, however.

Ohio seeks a way to equal the $65,000,000 annual income from sales, liquid fuel, cigaret and admissions taxes which expire next year.

Connecticut has a deficit of $10,000,000; New York has one of $57,000,000 which coupled with demands for greater than normal expenditures may hike the budget by more than $100,000,000. Georgia must calculate appropriations for 1936 as well as 1937 and 1938 because no appropriations were made for this year.

Texas has a large deficit in its

HEAVY DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IS CAUSED

MUFFLED CRIES FROM TRAPPED PERSONS HEARD IN NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 23. — A huge landslide smashed through the apartment house section of Juneau, leaving in its wake today four persons reported dead, at least seven injured and an undetermined number missing.

The slide last night demolished two apartment houses, a lodging house, a two-story concrete store and several homes.

City In Darkness

It cut off power lines, plunging the city into darkness and disrupted telephone and U. S. signal corps communications.

Throughout the night rescue workers labored frantically in mud, rock and broken timbers to save persons whose muffled cries they heard through the debris.

Fire Chief V. W. Mulvihill said the number of trapped persons or bodies in the jumbled debris might be as high as 25.

List Of Injured

The injured included:

Alfred Bates, his side pierced by a board.

Gust Erickson, crushed and injured internally.

August Maki, a fractured ankle.

Mrs. H. Lee, negress, a fractured leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Perrson and their two children, Gail and Allen, badly bruised and shocked.

Loosened by heavy rains during the last few days, an earlier slide did slight damage. It was followed a few hours later by a torrent of earth 100 feet wide and ranging from 10 to 40 feet deep.

As the rumble of the slide was heard by persons living at the foot of the mountain, some rushed from their homes. Maki and Bates were hurt as they fled.

Erickson and Mrs. Lee were trapped in his house where rescue crews dug them out. The Perrson family

(By The Associated Press)

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CHESTER AT SEA, Nov. 23—President Roosevelt, appointed "senior pollywog" aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, ordered a watch posted today for Davy Jones, royal agent of King Neptune.

The fictitious representative, who arranges initiations of travelers at their first crossing of the equator, was expected to arrive during the day to prepare facetious accusations against the neophytes.

President Charged

Already the president has been charged with "gross incompetency in failing to carry Maine and Vermont" in the national election.

After official business was completed, a delegation of "royal police" and "shellbacks" called on Mr. Roosevelt, gave him orders to post the watch and supervised formation of the welcoming committee which will greet Davy Jones.

Assistants to the royal agents made preparations to deliver subpoenas to secret service agents in the presidential party for nomination of "dangerous pollywogs." After the group is notified, its members will be confined in the brig to await trial.

NIMRODS TELLING SOME TALL TALES THESE DAYS

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 23 — This warm, dry deer-hunting season in Texas has produced to date more tall tales than it has bucks.

The warm weather has aided the deer in cunningly concealing themselves because there has been no frost to denude trees in the hill country where thousands of deer are slaughtered annually. The dry weather has stimulated the spirits that flow—despite all safety-first admonitions—around many a camp fire to enrich the book of tales. Here are some of the latest:

Dr. Wilson Crosthwait of Waco recounts the hard luck story.

He walked miles one warm afternoon and finally bagged a prize buck. Returning to camp, he laid his rifle down and took the rest cure for his anguished feet in the car.

Just as he settled comfortably, four big turkey gobblers stalked into view. There were the turkeys, there was the hunter, and yonder out of reach was the unloaded gun.

He says for publication that he'll do better next time.

Mrs. W. B. Denson, her husband and five hearty male companions set out from Cameron for West Texas on the first hunt of the year. En route, Mrs. Denson said, her ears rang with the brave tales of her friends and their promises afield. In fact, the lady recalled, she heard nothing else.

The marriage of Miss Stella Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Brown, 714 Avenue O, and Calvin H. Robbins, also of this city, took place Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. John T. Smith of the Broadway Church of Christ read a ring ceremony.

The couple will be at home in Lubbock.

Mr. Robbins is with the Hestand-Kimmell grocery company. Mrs. Robbins is secretary at the Randal and Kilpatrick law offices.

The Lubbock Woman's Forum will meet with the president, Mrs. Raymond Marshall, 2505 Twenty-first street, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through." Adv.

CATTLEMEN TO MOVE STOCK

NEW MEXICAN POLICY STRIKING RANCHERS IN THAT SECTION

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 23 (AP)—The San Angelo Standard-Times reports dozens of West Texas ranchers were ready today to move cattle out of Mexico because of new agrarian measures.

The measures would take millions of acres of land from private owners and divide it among agrarians.

The Palomas Cattle company, according to the Standard-Times, is one of the largest outfits forced to move, and is bringing 30,000 head of cattle out of the Mexican state of Chihuahua.

The company, says the newspaper, has organized a new firm known as the Hueco Cattle company, and is leasing and buying a reported half million acres in the Big Bend section of Texas.

Several San Angeloans were among the owners of Mexican lands and cattle which were reported to have received the "go" signal, the Standard-Times says.

The newspaper reports that some of William Randolph Hearst's cattle were reported to have been taken out in bond and were on feed at Brownfield, Texas.

San Angelo cattlemen who, with Horace Thompson of San Antonio, has 2,200 cows and calves in Mexico left today to look after their cattle.

The newspaper reports Hal Mangum of San Antonio was believed to be the largest operator in Mexico.

LIVESTOCK TRADE REMAINS ACTIVE

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Livestock trading in West Texas continues active with calves generally selling at five cents for heifers and six for steers, although some of the better quality are commanding a half cent more. Lambs are selling at 6 1-2 to seven cents a pound. These prices are about a cent under those paid last year due to the Midwestern drouth which restricted feed supplies.

On account of good grass and an active wool and mohair market this year, a heavy carryover of livestock is expected during 1937.

Steer yearlings are selling on the range at six to 6 1-4 cents a pound. Good nannie goats out of the hair are bringing $4, mutton goats, $3 to $3.50, and kids out of the hair $3 to $3.50 a head.

Calf buygrs representing Texas, California and Northern accounts took more than 3,000 the past week.

Among the large sheep deal was that of Worth Evans and Clay Espy, who took 8,000 mixed lambs from Willie Wilkerson of Sonora. First of the lambs will be delivered Nov. 20.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Mistaken Identity

OLD RAG, Va.—When Philip Smith goes out on a limb to reach for a raccoon on his next hunt, caution will be his watchword.

With a companion he followed their 'coon dogs on a two hour chase. The animals "treed" near Shenandoah national park. Smith climbed the tree.

He grabbed the 'coon and a three-foot wildcat swung into action. Hunter and wildcat hit the ground at the same time.

The two men clubbed the wildcat to death. A doctor treated Smith for deep lacerations of the face.

Bravery By Glass

NEW YORK — Detective Edward Boyle discovered a fight began in a bar when one of three young men who had been drinking threw a glass through a mirror.

Cornelius Sullivan, 25-year-old bartender, received a laceration of the neck in the melee.

Detective Boyle questioned Sullivan about it.

"Well, you know that these five-cent beers and 15-cent whiskeys are," Sullivan said. "In this neighborhood after you've had three of them if you don't fight you are a coward."

Snap Judgment

HOUSTON, Tex. — Night Watchman Albert Homyer, a patient man, argued with another about a dog and was told: "Wait here until I get back." Homyer waited.

The man returned with a six shooter and snapped it five times. On the sixth it fired. But the bullet missed. Flinging down the pistol, he said, "wait here until I come back." Homyer did.

The antagonist came back with a rifle, shot once and missed again.

"By that time," Homyer said, "I thought he might hurt me if he kept on, so I called the police."

Shades Of West

WHEATON, Ill. — Residents of Du Page county will adopt the tactics of crime fighters of the old west.

They have decided to organize a vigilante association for protection against chicken thieves and cattle rustlers.

Aggie-Longhorn Tilt Will Draw Many To Austin

SPORTORIALS
by COLLIER PARRIS

MORE FOOTBALL PICTURES will be shown tonight at the regular session of the Monday Quarterbacks association, or Touchdown club.

Coach Pete Cawthon, who won't be there but who will be ably represented by Coach Berl Huffman, has received a flock of films ordered especially for the club.

Cawthon says it is one of the best pictures shown so far. It is a well developed film of Stanford university's "big game" of 1935.

All new and old members of the Touchdown club are invited to the Hilton hotel ballroom to see the picture. The party gets started at 8 o'clock.

No, there isn't any special train leaving today or tomorrow for New Orleans.

Plans for a chartered choo-choo carrying fans to the Tech-Loyola game there were abandoned about 5 o'clock last Friday afternoon.

And so, low in spirit and physical fitness and unattended by more than a few of the faithful, Texas Tech's gridiron Red Raiders set forth this afternoon upon one of their final raids of the season. They engage the Loyola Wolves Thursday afternoon.

The Loyola Wolves are an up and down, hot and cold team—brilliant one week, pitifully weak the next. But they'll probably be set for Tech after a bad day last week. Jack Meagher's and Del Morgan's Auburn Plainsmen burned them down, 44 to 0. But you must remember that Loyola whipped Catholic university, and Catholic U. whipped DePaul.

Loyola at Los Angeles, De Paul, and perhaps Loyola at New Orleans and University of Arizona, all can thank Ted Cox's Oklahoma Aggies for trimming the Red Raiders down to their present size.

That dough-popping game the Aggies played here early his month proved the undoing of the Red Raiders. Tech won the game, all right, but they lost the next two then and there.

The Raiders were totally unprepared for such a game as the Aggies played. The Tech players thought they were pretty tough and capable of taking care of practically anybody from Oklahoma, but they took a beating, although they won the game.

It is the contention of many ex-gridders, that a boy "in shape" and hustling, isn't going to get hurt in a football game. Coach Pete Cawthon always has prided himself and his team for Tech's ever ready physical condition, and he hates to admit it when a player is hurt.

But the Oklahoma Aggies caught the Raiders in a moment of relaxation, and proceeded to work on the soft spots until they were all soft. They were soft when they faced the Los Angeles team, and that game didn't serve to harden them any.

Take seven regulars out of a lineup that has been functioning together all season, replace them with less hardy and less experienced players, themselves weakened by injuries, and you haven't much of a team left. That's what Texas Tech was Friday against DePaul, and there is little indication the boys'll be different against Loyola, at New Orleans.

Contrary to previous plans, the Tech team will return home before going to Arizona. The Raiders will return Saturday, and probably leave the following Wednesday for Tucson.

IT BEHOOVES US now to get behind the Lubbock Westerner guns and hang tight with them through this week's game.

Coach Chapman's lads, in much better spirit after winning from Clovis last Friday, should go to town on Thanksgiving Day against Plainview. Not that Plainview will be any set-up, however. The Bulldogs always play their best game against Lubbock, and they'll be here Thursday with ambition and a record to uphold.

Dope favors the Weserners, but dope has favored a lot of clubs this season who did not come through as expected. Only last week, for instance....

So plan to let your Thanksgiving dinner digest while you watch the final football game of the year at Tech Stadium, and the final game of the season for the Westerners.

The Class B football championship of the South Plains district will be decided Thursday when Slaton's Tigers play Littlefield on the Littlefield gridiron.

Slaton will rule a slight favorite, but Littlefield is set on winning that ball game. The Wildcats haven't represented the district for some time, and they feel they're about due.

MUSTANGS WILL TAKE ONE FINAL CRACK AT SAM BAUGH

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, Nov. 23 (AP)—It's "tradition week" in the Southwest conference but some 65,000 fans expected to drop everything to witness two spectacles may also sit in on the realization or destruction of some titular dreams.

Heaviest advance ticket sales in history make it probable that 40,000 will bulge Memorial stadium at Austin for the forty-third Thanksgiving day classic between the two state institutions — Texas A. and M.'s cruising Cadets and the University of Texas Longhorns.

Steers Tackle Baugh

For just one more gander at "Slingin' Sam" Baugh, Texas Christian's potential All-America quarterback, 25,000 will pack Ownby stadium at Dallas. There Southern Methodist will attempt to halt Baugh's last fling in conference battle.

Still fingering a slender thread of hope that might give them a championship, the Aggies, weary after four games in 14 days that took them over 5,000 miles, put the Texas game on their "must" list.

Their chance for glory rests upon two rather shaky possibilities — that Southern Methodist beats Texas Christian and Texas takes care of Arkansas at Little Rock on Dec. 5. The odds against these two bits of magic come under the head of "staggering."

Needs Mustang Scalp

Texas Christian needs a Southern Methodist scalp — and they're plentiful at present — to clinch at least a tie for the flag. It could be a clean cut championship if Texas disposes of Arkansas.

Two more games fill out the card, Baylor meeting Rice at Houston Saturday and Arkansas bumping into Vic Hurt's tough Tulsa university crew at Tulsa on Turkey Day.

Another "Sammy Baugh day" gave the Christians a 13-0 triumph over Rice last Saturday, the big 190-pounder heaving a 28-yard touchdown pass to Willie Walls, end, for the first touchdown and then, by cruising 70 yards downfield on runs and passes, placed the ball on the five yard stripe for McCall to plunge over.

Most Shocking Defeat

Most shocking defeat of the weekend was the fall of Coach Homer Norton's Texas Aggies before his old Centenary team, 3-0, at Shreveport. The Aggies running attack that felled Southern Methodist, San Francisco and Utah in the last three times out, folded before an inspired Centenary team that won on Lee Stokes' placement kick into a stiff wind from the 12-yard line.

The season's most cunning play—an intricate lateral-forward pass crafty Morley Jennings had taught his Baylor Bruins only the day before, got the Bears off to a start over Southern Methodist in the first two minutes of play.

Nimble Lloyd Russell, Baylor's quarterback, received the snapback from center, lateraled 15 yards to his right to Billy Patterson and then switched deep around left end. Two ends and a wingback hurried to the right, drew the Mustang secondary with them and Patterson hurled a lengthy forward which Russell snagged and carried 35 yards to a touchdown.

They almost had him on the five but he wriggled loose. Fifteen minutes later he broke over tackle from the 11 for the other score. Aided by a 35-yard gain on a pass interference ruling, the Mustangs scored in the third period on Finley's line smash.

Arkansas, currently deadlocked with Texas Christian, and Texas were idle.

Few Teams Remain In Unbeaten Class

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—The continued slaughter of the top-ranking football teams, including such apparently unbeatable powers as Northwestern and Marquette, left just eight teams today in the ranks of the undefeated and untied college squads.

Northwestern, Marquette, Santa Barbara State of California, Shippensburg (Pa) Teachers and St. Anselm were stopped for the first arranged here Saturday when school officials met here.

For a few hours, there was some doubt that Slaton would be in the final game at all, after going through an undefeated season. Because of a technicality, on which a protest was based, the Slaton folks sat around rather glum and nervous while the executive committee was acting.

Lamesa had protested a Slaton player or players because their names had been left off copies of the eligibility lists mailed to member schools. Through an error in copying from the original, names beginning in "W" were left off, and Slaton does have some players whose names begin with that letter. Actual eligibility of the player was not questioned.

The executive committee is to be commended for taking no drastic action in the matter, although Lamesa was within its rights in framing the protest. As long as players are not actually ineligible, teams should settle their difficulties on the field.

Tech Starts First Grid Raid Into Deep South

JUST AN ALL-AMERICA CUT-UP

Football Fans Are Stunned By Upsets

TWO BIG QUESTIONS ARE BEING FACED WITH SEASON NEAR AN END FOR MOST ELEVENS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Stunned by upsets of most of the nation's proud gridiron clubs, the fans are groping around for the answers to two big questions this week.

Which teams will play in the Rose Bowl January 1 for the mythical national title? And who will win the Army-Navy game?

A Thrilling Close

An annual service classic at Philadelphia Saturday signals a thrilling season's end, although scattered games will be played through December. Already the Big Ten and many of the major teams in the east and throughout the country have concluded operations for the year.

The south probably will settle one half of the Rose Bowl question while Washington, the current leader, and Washington State will fight it out Thursday for the Pacific coast conference title and the western nomination.

With Marquette beaten 13-0 by Duquesne and Fordham held to a 7-7 tie by a supposedly inferior Georgia team, Alabama and Louisiana State are the ranking candidates. Even before Northwestern took its 26-6 thumping from Notre Dame there was little, if any, likelihood the Wildcats would consider the invitation.

Traditional Rivals

Alabama concludes its conference campaign Thanksgiving day against Vanderbilt. L. S. U., which warmed up its offense in a 93-0 rout of Southwestern Louisiana, plays its traditional rival, Tulane.

While southern critics were inclined to rate L. S. U. more highly, indications were that Washington, with an old Rose Bowl beating in mind, would lean toward Alabama should the Huskies come through in the west.

Here's the national program:

East: The Army-Navy game is "tops" this week and it looks more than ever like a toss-up. The Cadets have one more victory and one less defeat than their rivals but Navy's slate appears to have been a trifle tougher.

Fordham, still the only unbeaten big team in the east despite two ties, winds up against New York university. The oldest of the Turkey Day classics finds Pennsylvania a strong favorite over Cornell's sophomores. Pittsburgh meets its city time Saturday.

The survivors include one "big league" outfit, Santa Clara; Western Reserve, which ranks as a "big" small college, and a quintet of small schools, headed by Tennessee Wesleyan.

rival, Carnegie Tech.

Midwest: Northwestern holds the Big Ten title regardless of the Notre Dame beating while Ohio State and Minnesota wound up in a second place tie as the Bucks beat Michigan 21-0 and the Gophers trimmed Wisconsin 24-0.

Nebraska crushed Kansas State, 40-0 to tie up the Big Six championship and now goes west to meet Oregon State, 18-0 conqueror of Oregon. Kansas and Missouri conclude the conference season Thursday.

Southwest: Texas Christian, which conquered Rice 13-0 on lingin' Sammy Baugh's passes, has a chance to take the undisputed Southwest conference lead Saturday by beating Southern Methodist, last year's champion which went down 13-7 before Baylor. Arkansas, now tied with the Horned Frogs, plays a non-conference rival, Tulsa, Thursday. Other conference clashes send Texas against Texas A. and M., Thursday and Baylor against Rice Saturday.

Excitement Stirred Up

Pacific coast: While the Washington-Washington State struggle is the week's big affair the all-Los Angeles encounter between Southern California and U. C. L. A. probably will stir up as much excitement. All four were idle Saturday.

Southeastern: Topped by the Alabama-Vanderbilt and L. S. U.-Tulane games, the conference season winds up with a flock of traditionally important games. Auburn plays Florida and Georgia Tech plays Georgia. Tennessee and Kentucky meet Thursday.

Southern: Duke still has to get by North Carolina State Thursday to retain its title. North Carolina and Virginia Military, each with five victories and one loss, have a chance to tie if Duke should lose. They play Virginia and Virginia Tech, respectively.

Rocky mountain: Denver and Colorado, running second and third to Utah State, vie for runner-up honors Thursday, while the leader encounters Idaho, a non-conference rival. Other Thanksgiving games send Colorado State against Utah and Montana State against Montana Mines.

MATADORS AND LOYOLA MEET THURSDAY

LUBBOCK HIGH SCHOOL TACKLES PLAINVIEW IN HOME GAME

Texas Tech's first football trek to the deep South gets under way this afternoon when the Red Raiders board a chartered Pullman on the Santa Fe line and head for New Orleans and the Turkey Day game with Loyola's Wolves.

The Raiders will make the trip leisurely, stopping at Houston tomorrow for a workout at Rice institute field, continuing to Baton Rouge, home of the Louisiana State university Tigers, on Wednesday. They play Loyola of the South at New Orleans Thursday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

No Special Train

Plans for a special train fell through after Tech's heart breaking loss to De Paul university in its last home stand Friday. Although outplayed and outgained, DePaul slipped over a couple of touchdowns to score a 13 to 6 victory and even the three-year count between the clubs.

In poor physical condition, with six or seven regulars off the lineup because of injuries sustained in the Oklahoma A. & M. and Loyola at Los Angeles games, the Raiders will enter the game on no better than even terms with the Wolves, who are thought to be in good shape.

Lubbock Meets Plainview

As the college team goes South, Lubbock High school's Westerners settle down at their training field for the last week of practice. They entertain the home folks in the season's final game Thursday, playing the Plainview High school Bulldogs in a District 1 conference game.

Victory over Plainview would mean second place in the District 1 race for Lubbock provided Amarillo defeats Pampa on Thanksgiving Day.

A triumph this week would result in one of the best Lubbock High records in several seasons. The Westerners have lost two games, tied one.

Coach Weldon Chapman, ill and downhearted since the overwhelming defeat by Amarillo, will bear down for the next three afternoons in an effort to prepare his club for what may be a tough game. Plainview generally plays its toughest game against Lubbock, a fact brought out last Thanksgiving at Plainview when the Bulldogs took the contest.

The Westerners are believed to be in good physical condition, and should take the field with their strongest lineup Thursday.

LUBBOCK POLO TEAM DROPS

RUNNING WATER SQUAD PROVES TOO TOUGH FOR LOCALS, 9-7

A Lubbock polo team, playing here for the first time in years, was nosed out, 9 to 7, by the clever riding team of Running Water yesterday at the Fair Park racetrack field.

A small crowd of about 250 watched the game, played on the infield of the new track, from the grandstand.

The Running Water team, which defeated Pampa, 10 to 2 and 8 to 1 a week earlier in a two-game series, scored all of its goals in the first three chukkers. The Lubbock defense and offense clicked in the last three of the six-chukker game to score seven times and hold the visitors scoreless.

Young Reese Masten, captain of the Running Water team, and his father, a veteran poloist, led the visitors, the younger Masten scoring most of the Running Water goals.

J. Floyd, Midland player, joined the Lubbock team and scored three goals. Cooper made two and A. C. Woodward scored two. Claude B. Hurlbut, Bob Hester and Smith played for Lubbock.

The Lubbock team plans to meet the popular Lamesa quartet here next Sunday or the following Sunday.

Denny Shute Grabs Golf Championship

JIMMY THOMSON FALLS BEFORE DEADLY FIRE IN FINALS MATCH

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 23. (AP)—Densmore (Denny) Shute, 32, who failed five times to win the American amateur title, but has collected $30,000 in eight years, today wore the professional golfers' championship crown. His money total included the tournament's $1,000 top prize.

He whipped Jimmy Thomson, from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., 3 and 2 in the finals yesterday here.

Hole Made To Order

And he beat Jimmy for the clincher on a hole made to order for the big bomber, the long, 473 yard par five 34th.

He had Jimmy two down and the blaster left an opening by pushing his drive into the woods. Denny spanked a spoon shot smack to the green, four feet from the pin. That was the last shot he had to hit for Jimmy sliced out into a trap and, after missing his putt for a four, conceded Denny an eagle, the hole and the match.

Gets The Jump

Shute got the jump on Thomson on the first hole and never let up.

Shute's only other major title—the British open in 1933—was won in a playoff with Craig Wood. His best in the National open was seven years ago when he finished two shots behind Bobby Jones and Al Espinosa. He was runner up to Tom Creavy in the P. G. A. five years ago. He succeeded Johnny Revolta as P. G. A. champ.

Loyola Is Beaten In Bruising Game

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 23 (AP)—Loyola university's football team, unable to shake Santa Clara's Broncos out of an unblemished record, looked ahead today to their last appearance here this year.

As Santa Clara headed homeward to prepare for an intersectional clash with Texas Christian, the Lions got down to work for San Francisco university's invasion next Sunday.

Loyola lost to the Broncs, 13 to 6, in a bruising game, rough at times, that saw the Lions score first. The Broncos kicked right back to take a 7 to 6 lead and pull ahead in the third period with another touchdown.

Pictures Of "Big Game" To Be Seen

Motion pictures of Stanford university's "Big Game of 1935" will be screened tonight at the regular session of the Touchdown Club, at Hotel Hilton.

Coach Pete Cawthon of Texas Tech has procured the film through the Stanford Alumni association. It is supposed to be one of the best football pictures ever filmed.

The meeting gets under way at 8 o'clock this evening at the Hilton ballroom. Freshman Coach Berl Huffman of Texas Tech will be in charge, representing Coach Cawthon, who leaves with his team for New Orleans this afternoon.

SATURDAY STARS OF GRIDIRON

(By The Associated Press)

Boyd Brumbaugh, Duquesne—Scored one touchdown; threw pass for another and kicked extra point in a 13-0 upset of Marquette.

Bob Wilke, Notre Dame—Scored twice on runs of 30 and 34 yards against Northwestern and paved way for third tally with quick kick.

Lloyd Russell, Baylor—Scored both touchdowns in 13-7 victory over Southern Methodist, running 35 and 19 yards on pass plays.

Larry Kelley and Clint Frank, Yale—Combined to lead Elis on offensive and defense in 14-13 triumph over Harvard. Frank tossed 42-yard pass to Kelley for first touchdown.

Otis Maffett, Georgia—Made fine catch of pass for touchdown and stopped Fordham threat in third quarter by tackling Ram runner so hard he fumbled as teams tied.

Vern Huffman, Indiana—Ran back Purdue's first kickoff 85 yards to ten, later tossed three scoring passes to gain 20-20 tie.

HIGH SCHOOLS ENTER HOME STRETCH

THIRTY-ONE TEAMS IN RACE BUT MANY TO FALL THIS WEEK

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Nov. 23. (AP)—Thirty-one teams remained in the race for the Texas Interscholastic league football championship today but almost half of them clung only to a mathematical chance, their hopes resting on possible upsets of district leaders.

Traditional Thanksgiving day games will tell the story in most instances but scattering district ties appeared likely.

And as the final week dawned for all but sixteen teams only four remained unbeaten and untied—Amarillo, North Side (Fort Worth), Hillsboro and Tivy high of Kerrville.

Dallas Tech fell from the select list last week when Sunset of Dallas sprang a surprise to battle the Wolves to a 6-6 tie.

Here is the state picture as the leaders prepare for Thanksgiving day games:

District 1—Amarillo undefeated, plays Pampa. Can be tied for championship through loss.

District 2—Childress, leading by a game, plays Quanah. Wichita Falls, in second place, meets Vernon. Wichita Falls can tie Childress for title if latter loses and Wichita Falls wins.

District 3—San Angelo, undefeated, meets second-place Abilene which can tie for championship through victory.

Meet For Title

District 4—Austin (El Paso) and El Paso High, both undefeated, meet for title.

District 5—Gainesville, undefeated, plays Sherman. Can be tied for championship through loss.

District 6—McKinney already champion.

District 7—North Side (Fort Worth), undefeated, plays Paschal (Fort Worth). Can be tied for title through loss.

District 8—Dallas Tech plays North Dallas. Can win championship with victory or tie.

District 9—Longview and Gladewater, undefeated, meet for title.

District 10—Lufkin, undefeated, plays Athens. Can be tied for championship through loss.

District 11—Hillsboro, undefeated, plays Cleburne. Can be tied for championship through defeat.

District 12—Kerrville already champion.

District 13—John Reagan plays San Jacinto. Must win to tie Jeff Davis for Houston championship.

District 14—Port Arthur already champion.

District 15—Corpus Christi and Robstown, both undefeated, play for championship.

District 16—Edinburg already champion.

Asked what two opponents—lineman and back—were the best Minnesota had to face in the first half of the 1936 season, the Gophers voted for Capt. Matt Patanelli of Michigan, end, and Cecil Isbell of Purdue, quarterback.

Boy Is Ordered By Judge To Buy Mother A Present

HOUSTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Corporation Court Judge Ben Davison declared a $5 holiday today for the mother of a 15-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to a speeding charge.

"Do your parents know about this?" asked the judge.

"No," replied the youth, "I borrowed $5 to pay the fine and thought I could get by without telling them."

"How do you intend to repay that money?" the judge questioned.

"I have a paper route."

"I'll impose a $20 fine and suspend the sentence on the condition you tell your parents about the charge. Furthermore, I want you to save that $5 and buy your mother a present. Report to me next week how you have carried out the instructions."

The boy agreed.

The arrival of twins is such a rare occasion in Uganda, Africa, that the event is made into a festival.

FIRST MATE OF LINER MAKES LIVING ON SEA BUT WRITING IS PROFITABLE

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 23 (AP)—Allen Boyes, first mate of the Point Bonita, a Pacific-Gulf line freighter, makes his living upon the sea but also finds writing profitable. He also is a university student.

Voyages take him to many places where he talks with many persons, and these in turn become the locale and suggest characters for his fiction. He received $50 to $500 for stories and rarely has a rejection, he says.

Boyes, seeking to better qualify himself for writing, takes correspondence courses from Tulane university and the University of California because, he says, his job keeps him from attending college classes.

The young fiction writer says there is nothing systematic about his production. He begins a story when he feels like it and, perhaps finishes it in a few days. On other occasions it requires more than three weeks to get the job done.

Boyes says university professors are very critical of his writing, but he refuses to become discouraged.

"Sometimes they say my stuff is terrible," he says, "but I often sell the same story they pick to pieces. I think they act tough to make me work harder. When I was working for advancement at sea my superiors told me I was impossible, but when the test came they were the first to recommend me for promotion. Maybe it is the same way with the professors."

Appendicitis was first recognized as an exact disease in 1885.

That Girl on Broadway says Mother Nature may be wise, but if so how come she lets trees put on their clothes in summer and take them off in winter?

First New Englander: "So you had an operation on your nose?"

Second Ditto: "Yep. It was a-gittin' so I could hardly talk through it!"

AFTER "handies" gave way to "knock-knocks" and, for a short time, "knock-knocks" gave way to nothing at all, most folks breathed a sigh of relief and turned their attention to politics, death, taxes and Mrs. Simpson.

But up jumped the Old Dickens in the form of another new and nutty pastime called "I'm In Business."

A rage in the East and sweeping toward the West, "I'm In Business" bids fair to run people screwier than its screwy forerunners, "handies" and "knock-knocks".

Here's the way it's played (you'd better be forewarned!):

First sap: "I'm in business."

Victim: "What kind of business?"

First sap: "Bakery business."

Victim: "How's business?"

First sap: "Making dough!"

And here's another horrible example:

"I'm in business."

"What kind of business?"

"Pool room business."

"How's business?"

"Behind the 8-ball!"

The game goes on and on and on—to a yet undefined point.

BEST of the "I'm In Business" gags The Plainsman has heard—if you can call any of them any good—have to do with the candy and gasoline businesses.

Answer to the candy "How's business" is "Sweetest racket in the world," and to the gasoline query, is "You can't hold a candle to it!"

So don't be surprised if an otherwise intelligent, normal person pulls an "I'm In Business" gag on you at any time.

The idea is to be prepared with one to come back at him on!

That Man on Avenue Q says what this country needs is an anaesthetic that will put a person to sleep as easily as a discussion on balancing the budget.

DO you know what the big worry is in Washington now? It's not taxes; it's not the budget; it's not re-employment or any of the other really important problems of the nation.

It's how they're going to seat the big crop of new Democratic senators and, at the same time, please the veteran war horses whose seniority gives them special privileges!

Yep. That's the worry.

Kirke Simpson, one of the Associated Press aces, informs us that Col. Ed Halsey, secretary of the senate, is all a-flutter.

Usually the senate is fairly well divided between Democrats and Republicans and for years it has been a custom and a tradition for the two groups to be divided by a middle aisle called "no man's land."

But when Congress goes into session in January, there will be 15 Republican senators and 81 Democrats, so "no man's land" is liable to be pretty well toward the edge of the chamber if the solons are to be divided into political camps, as tradition dictates.

* * *

OLDER members of the upper house have a great liking for back row seats—and usually get them. The back row desks are closer to the cloakroom and also furthest removed from the oratory and hullabaloo. So, if the Democratic and Republican sides are to be split lengthwise, there won't be enough back seats on the GOP side to take care of the oldsters who want and demand them.

The whole business is quite distressing and some of the capital's best brains are wrestling with the problem.

For our part, we hope the thing is worked out to the best interests of all and that no hearts will be broken over the decision.

Incidentally, we wonder how much better country this would be if the boys up there gave as much thought to our real worries as they do to where they're going to sit in the ornate, air conditioned, heavily carpeted senate chamber!

In one of the local hospitals a doctor, starting his morning rounds, inquired of the supervisor:

"How is the patient in 162?"

"He's very anxious to get back home to his wife," was the reply.

"Humph," said the Doc, "Still delirious, eh?"

IF you've got any kids in your home, with Christmas approaching, you're thinking — and being reminded — about what kind of toys to buy.

Miss Mary Carter, characterized as the "home industry specialist" on the faculty of Hardin-Simmons university, of Abilene, has some dandy scientific ideas, although they may not be so pleasing to the youngsters.

Miss Carter advises parents to consider interests and need of development first in buying Yuletide trinkets.

According to the Hardin-Simmons expert, toys may be classified according to their general purpose. Woolly animals, bright wooden beads and rattlers develop senses, she says. Take-apart toys develop manipulation; paints, molding clay, blackboards and chalk develop creative ability; balls, stick horses, wagons and skates develop bodies and parlor games, etc., develop sociability.

The idea, of course, is for fond parents to sit up nights figuring whether to foster Johnny's sociability and Mary's creative talents, or Johnny's manipulation and Mary's physique.

WE note, however, that Hardin-Simmons' expert is an unmarried lady, hence, we judge, has only an academic knowledge of children.

While all her advice may be good, and ultra-scientific, our opinion is that if Johnny gets a flock of "creative developing" gifts when what he really wants is a bicycle or skates, and Mary gets a wagon when she really wants a blackboard and chalk set, Christmas will be a total flop for Johnny and Mary.

Science to the contrary notwithstanding, we advise parents to pursue the oldfashioned method of making Christmas merry for the kids by giving them, as near as practicable, what they want, rather than what is psychologically "good for them."

Christmas comes but once a year. We parents have 364 other days to put the psychology to the youngsters!

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Marcia has been announced.

Since the disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's business accounts has been discovered.

Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-outs and is given the leading part in the forthcoming play. DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia is given a less important part.

Afterward Marcia, her friend, HELEN WADDELL, and several others stop at TONY STELLICCI'S restaurant. Four men enter and stage a holdup. Marcia's purse, containing a ring that was her mother's, is taken.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

On the morning after the Stagecraft Guild tryouts and the Dog Wagon holdup, Marcia breakfasted as usual with her father. Both of these survivors of the Canfield line were healthy enough to be good-humored of mornings, and therefore talkative, but it was seldom that they had as much fuel for conversation as now.

Mr. Canfield, as a practical person, could offer Marcia little solace in the loss of her mother's ring. It was probable, he pointed out, that the bandits would discard the worn setting and dispose of the ruby by methods which left little hope of recovery.

"Undoubtedly they're the same fellows who have been committing the series of holdups of pedestrians and automobiles in this neighborhood," he said. "They don't take much in any one robbery, but they seem to cover themselves safely. Four men always commit the robbery, and they always use two stolen cars.

"You know, I begin to suspect that although the four themselves are strangers in Bobbs Neck, they may have some local talent driving the cars and acting as lookouts. They always park just right for a getaway, and apparently they know the roads perfectly.

"I'll ride down to the train with you," said Marcia, "and stop in at the police station afterward. Maybe, by some good chance, they'll have news for me."

Her father cast about for a pleasanter topic.

"And what luck did you have at the tryout for the show?" he asked. "You didn't mention it when you came in and sat on the edge of my bed last night to tell me about the holdup, and you had me so excited that I forgot to ask."

"My word!" said Marcia. "You haven't been told the chief theatrical news of the day. I got the leading part, Dad."

"Very fine, indeed," said her father. "Doubtless I am supposed to buy tickets?"

"And come prepared to applaud heartily," said Marcia.

They rode to the station, Marcia in silence as she thought of her lost ring, her father in argument with the chauffeur over a coming prizefight.

"Well, here we part again," said Mr. Canfield as the car stopped. "I now entrain to earn a living for self and child."

"Be sure to bring home another million," said Marcia.

"O. K. So long."

"Goodby."

He crossed the platform to the train and the chauffeur put the car in motion, but Marcia stopped him. Helen Waddell was driving up at a furious speed. Her father leaped out of their car and, ran madly, without a backward glance, toward the train; Helen, leaning on the steering wheel, watched him with the expression of one who sees the family dog carve canyons in the proudest flower bed.

Marcia stepped out and walked over to the Waddells' car.

"Good morning, my companion in last night's crime," she said. "Don't you know you'll burn out your bearings or a blood vessel or something, running around like that? The train doesn't leave for a couple of minutes, at least."

"Tell him!" retorted Helen, nodding in the direction her father had taken. "I know there's lots of time. Will he believe it? He won't. That man ruins breakfast and the tempers of the whole darn family daily because he perpetually thinks he's going to miss this train. The late Mr. Waddell! What if he did miss it?"

"Just the happy and tranquil life of a commuter's child," murmured Marcia, "out in the country, far from the big city's worry and rush — and crime problem, I might add with sarcasm."

"Wish I were going in for some of the worry and rush," said Helen musingly. "Going in to a job. Doing something. I'm bored to death."

"No program of good deeds in the village on this bright day?" Marcia asked.

"Oh, certainly! I'll go back home now, report to Mother that that man she married failed to miss the train again, and sit around until evening, when we'll draw lots to see who has to drive down and fetch him home."

"It can't be that meager."

"Well, not quite. I mustn't omit mention of the daily shopping. And me with an education! The family might have saved the price. They don't want me to work. I could bust loose, I suppose, and get a job anyway, but they'd take it so hard that I haven't the heart. Darn, but I was born into an old-fashioned family! Though you've heard my complaint before, haven't you?"

They watched the train depart.

"But I must see you for a bit of a talk," said Helen, so suddenly and earnestly that Marcia was surprised.

"Why certainly, Helen! Let's see—I want to call at the police station, and I ought to pick up my copy of the play script and get to work on my part. Why not come along and get yours? Then we can go back to my house and start our reading."

"It's an idea," said Helen. "Though calling at the police station can't do me much good. My only loss was a $5 bill. Try to name something harder to identify. I'm terribly sorry about your ring, Marcia. That was a real misfortune. . . . But send your chauffeur laddie home and come along with me. I'd have to park my car at home anyway before going in yours."

Marcia dismissed the chauffeur and climbed in beside Helen. They stopped at the police station, but there was no news of the bandits.

"Well," said Helen as they entered the car again, "that has to be that for the present. Before going after the copies of the play, let's run up to my house for another spot of coffee, and I'll see whether I can do any errands for Mother while we're out. By the way, where do we go for the

CONTRADICTORY REGULATIONS

We live in a funny country, largely because the rules and regulations under which we live are frequently more than slightly "cockeyed".

Take, for instance, "bank nights."

The Texas Supreme court recently found that the "bank night" system of stimulating theater attendance is not a lottery; that it is entirely within the law.

A high cockalorum of the postoffice department in Texas—Mr. Karl Crowley who is one of Mr. Farley's boys—replied that legal, or not, advertising and news matter dealing with "bank nights" is not mailable—that mailing such information is in violation of the postal regulations. Meanwhile, the state moves to tax "bank night" awards although, according to Mr. Crowley's ruling, it would be illegal for one member of the legislature to write another member pointing out that a certain night in a certain week is "bank night" at a certain theater in a certain town.

So, it seems, we "pays our money and we takes our choice."

One set of statutes under which we work approves "bank nights" and makes plans to profit therefrom.

Another set of regulations is differently applied.

Ho, hum. Stifling a yawn, we wonder how many of our state and federal laws and regulations contradict each other—and which, if any of them, are right.

A THOUGHT

Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his own works: for that is his portion: for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him.—Ecclesiastes 3:22.

From Hollywood MOVIE SIDELIGHTS

Behind The Scenes With The Stars Of Talkietown

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—Freddie Bartholomew has been in this country two years and four months, and likes it so well that he has just about decided to go to Harvard instead of back to Oxford or Cambridge.

He has adopted American slang, especially the colorful technical slang of the studios, and uses it incongruously with long words and his meticulous English accent, which is a definite screen asset, but he hasn't abandoned a trace of it.

The Americanization of the boy star has not changed his dress. Away from the studio he still wears the jackets and short pants of small English gentlemen. The reason for this is that he doesn't care a whoop what he wears.

His aunt suspects that if she put out a ragged sweater and a pair of overalls for him in the morning, he'd don them without a thought.

"A very untidy boy," she said. "Around the house he often shocks people by dashing about in just a pair of shorts."

Has Wicked Left

Three of the things Freddie likes about the United States are hot dogs, soda pop, and football. But he has little time to play or watch football, so his principal recreation around the studio is boxing.

By this time nearly every male on the M-G-M, except maybe Louis B. Mayer, has been socked by Mr. Bartholomew. He has a wicked left and doesn't pull his punches.

For an actor who has scored so conspicuously, Freddie doesn't make a lot of money, as Hollywood salaries are reckoned. He receives about $800 a week.

Most of his savings of the past two years have gone to pay nearly $25,000 in lawyers' fees and court costs of the contest for his custody. He had to pay both sides. In addition to that, 20 per cent of his salary must go to his parents in England.

Nickel Allowance

As a result, Freddie has been saving something less than a fortune. Stylicent Bartholomew's elderly parents have been helping her buy the house in Westwood where she and the boy now are living. He has toys, books, and everything a youngster could want but his spending money is limited to 5 cents a day.

A few months ago he managed to save $2 in nickels to buy his aunt, whom he calls "Sis," an electric clock for a birthday present. But the nickel almost always goes for candy.

A third of the candy goes to Ray Sperry, his stand-in, and a third he leaves in the dressing room of Spencer Tracy. Usually there is a note with Tracy's portion: "From your fan, Freddie."

Young Sperry, whose folks are very poor, recently was tested for a part in "Tom Sawyer," and Freddie had it all figured out that Ray inevitably would become a star.

"We'll take turns," he said. "When Ray is working, I shall be his stand-in, and when I'm working Ray will stand in for me."

Has Tutor Now

As is the proper thing with young English gentlemen, Bartholomew now has a man tutor. His name is Randolph Russel Leroy Van Scoyk, a pleasant fellow of about 32, with degrees from the universities of Kentucky, Chicago and New York's Columbia.

Van Scoyk says his pupil has a mental age of about 18, but that he is not being pushed in his elementary studies. When Freddie gets too far ahead of where a 12-year-old normally would be, his spare time is devoted to extra-curricular subjects.

Freddie is much pleased with his male tutor and just now is devoting all his spare moments to study. He goes around asking property men, extras, directors, and stars: "Did you know that I am now studying Latin?"

Reasons Like Man

Van Scoyk says that an interesting thing about his pupil is that, while Freddie's association with adults has trained him to reason like a man, his reactions and fundamental tastes are exactly those of a boy of 12.

He is utterly naive, yet has a poise seldom attained by any adults. Apparently he was born with complete self-possession. Freddie made his first public appearance at a church benefit in England when he was little more than 3.

In the middle of his recitation—something about a policeman—he halted and addressed his audience: "If you don't mind, I had better wipe my nose."

He hauled out a handkerchief, wiped his nose, smiled in apology. "I'll go on now." And on he went.

Bartholomew is generally up to some quiet deviltry, even if it's only locking his aunt in his dressing room. "I have had to watch him closely from the time he was a baby," she said. "He used to have a passion for stripping off wall paper, as high as he could reach. He would daub paint on anything. And he is still dangerous with a pen knife. Carves furniture."

Aunt Spares Rod

He never has been punished, she said, except by being told that he has displeased her. That quiets him for a day.

But it is easy to see that Miss Bartholomew is pleased because Freddie is a normal boy who gets into normal mischief, and fights; and who two years ago tried to strangle the life out of little June Lockhart, daughter of Gene and Kathleen, because she intimated that he was a sissy.

President Roosevelt Expected To Move Slowly On Plans For Governmental Reorganization, Rodney Dutcher Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Instead of laying down a blueprint of government reorganization for congressional approval, President Roosevelt is more likely to ask for a delegation of power which will enable him to effect reorganization by a step-by-step method through executive orders.

Roosevelt has made no decision about that as yet. He has made decisions as to few if any of the major problems of his next administration—and that covers the vast crop of post-election rumors as to shakeup in the cabinet and the big administrative agencies.

Dutcher

The president is still tired from campaign exertions and prefers to get a good rest before applying his mind intensively to the future.

He has called on individual members of his administration for suggestions to supplement the reports of various committees working on reorganization—the Senate committee under Senator Byrd of Virginia, the House committee under Congressman Jack Cochran of St. Louis, and the Louis Brownlow committee working in cooperation with the Brookings Institution.

Would Avoid Congress Row

Two reasons are influencing him toward filing those various reports and suggestions and pulling from his desk a plan of his own.

First, all previous experience indicates that submission of a comprehensive general reorganization plan would mean a howling dog fight right in Congress as the federal machine charged on Capitol Hill to lobby at cross-purposes for preservation of jobs and bureaucratic power.

Any such big program probably would have plenty of mistakes in the first place and by the time Congress got through chewing on it, close presidential advisers believe, it probably would be a horrible mess.

Making one fight at a time presumably would allow more careful planning and give Roosevelt a better chance of getting what he wanted.

Second, the president is concerned with the desirability of improving administration from the personnel standpoint. He may seek in some cases to build big new combinations of federal functions around certain top-notch administrators of special gifts rather than to create posts of great importance and then start whistling for men of sufficient caliber to operate them.

He can work better along this line through the step-by-step method.

Mergers Are Expected

Insiders take it for granted that there will be consolidation of social welfare agencies—including WPA, the Social Security Board, CCC, and possibly the Department of Labor—and that this will mean creation of a new cabinet post.

Outstanding possibilities for the job are Harry Hopkins of WPA and John H. Fahey of HOLC. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins might be considered a possibility, but certainly is not a likelihood.

There will be important reorganizations of government financing and housing agencies, but details and probabilities as to administrators are now matters of sheer speculation.

The president hasn't said anything to anyone concerning specific cabinet or other major personnel changes. Most of the rumors as to such changes are inspired by those who want certain things to happen.

Changes Are Forecast

It is generally known that there's a move on to make Secretary Ickes comptroller general, that Secretary Roper is extremely unpopular among New Dealers, that Secretary Swanson is a sick man, that certain groups for years have vainly urged a more aggressive man as attorney-general than Homer Cummings, that Secretary Perkins makes no great dent, and that Jim Farley is soon to resign as postmaster-general.

Hence, there's one certainty and several possibilities of change, but at this writing that sums it up and Farley's successor has not yet been picked.

Believing that his second administration is likely to be more important in history than his first, the president is anxious that it be more ably and efficiently administered.

That's why, with respect to reorganizations and shakeups, he may be expected to proceed carefully and slowly.

WHAT IS PUPIL DILATION AND HOW IS IT PRODUCED? Nature provided muscles to regulate the size of the pupil to control the amount of light entering the eye in proportion to the intensity of the light. Excessive light is very injurious. Reaction of the pupil is to contract, reducing the amount of light entering the eye. Light of less than normal intensity necessitates more light entering the eyes to maintain normal or near normal vision. These muscles act involuntarily.

Fixed abnormal pupil dilation is produced by a drug instilled into the eyes which paralizes the muscles hence Nature is interferred with, preventing the regulation of the size of the pupil as required by light stimulation. In this condition, eyes cannot be used for near work. Remember this no drug can refract light or the human eye. Our Modern Scientific Optometrical Eye Examinations Are Safe and Free From Pupil Dilation.

COURT ACTION

and county jails for failure to testify remained in custody this morning. One, a woman, had been released at the request of Levens because he had been informed her two young children needed her.

A man and a woman remained in county jail, and the others were held in City jail.

One complaint charging illegal possession of a pistol will be filed against a man in county court as a result of the inquiry. Other charges may be filed.

Drunkenness cases, petty thefts, gambling, and other misdemeanor cases held the attention of police Saturday night and Sunday.

Twenty-two men and women were arrested for intoxication. Nine were fined $15 each, one was fined $50, one posted appearance bond, eight cases were dismissed, and no disposition had been entered in three cases.

Eight negroes arrested for gambling pleaded not guilty in corporation court and posted appearance bond.

Of 16 persons booked for investigation during the two days, six were held. Eight had been released without charges and two had been transferred to county jail.

A 24-year-old negro, who said he came here from Chicago, will be charged with theft of a pair of new boots from another negro, Robert E. Lee. The theft allegedly occurred near Idalou.

A 34-year-old negro, arrested Sunday by police, will be charged in county court with illegally carrying a pistol.

Officers said they had evidence another negro, who gave his age as 30 years, had been selling liquor "by the drink" in The Flats, negro quarter. About a gallon of liquor was confiscated. A whisky glass also was taken.

A 40-year-old Meadow woman pleaded guilty in two cases of shoplifting Saturday. She paid fines of $15 in each case.

A complaint charging robbery was filed Sunday against a man who this morning had not been arrested, said Justice of the Peace Trigg. Theft of $10 from a cash register was alleged.

Three complaints charging drunkenness and one alleging violation of the law of the road also were filed with Justice of the Peace Trigg. Fines of $1 and costs were assessed in two "drunk" cases and one was dismissed.

One coupon was taken from the driver's license of the man who pleaded guilty of violation of the law of the road. He was fined $25 and costs.

Justice of the Peace J. T. Inmon fined two men $1 and costs each for drunkenness, one man $1 and costs for operating an automobile with an incorrect license plate, and one man $1 and costs for disturbance.

LANDSLIDE

was caught in the three-story Nickinovich frame apartment house and were among the first removed.

A terrified woman and two children, none of them badly hurt, were taken from mud up to their necks.

Mulvihill said efforts were centered on rescuing persons whose voices could be heard. Four were believed to be in one place. In another spot a woman apparently was under a piano.

Flash Herber Now All-America Back

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Arnold "Flash" Herber, Green Bay Packers' star passer, wasn't an All-American in his college days but he's playing All-American football now.

Herber, who joined the Packers six years ago without fanfare after attending St. Regis college at Denver, has been the passing ace of the Packers' steady drive toward a shot at the national professional league title. The Packers took the Giants into camp 26 to 14 at New York yesterday. Herber's deadly arm played a big part in the victory. It was the ninth in 10 starts this fall for the Green Bay eleven.

Boston's Redskins routed Brooklyn 30 to 6, Pug Rentner scoring two touchdowns.

Chicago's powerful Bears remained tied with the Packers for the western section lead by beating Philadelphia 28 to 7.

Detroit defeated the Chicago Cardinals 14 to 7 in a two touchdown fourth period drive.

Deputy Is Too Late To Serve Warrant

Deputy Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter went to San Antonio yesterday to serve warrants charging embezzlement on a man and a woman, but he found on arrival that the pair had been released after a habeas corpus hearing there.

The couple was wanted in Lynn county. The woman's father had signed the complaints. The man was identified as being a Mexican. The complainant said about $600 in cotton and turkeys had been sold by the two. Carpenter was informed the woman had married the Mexican, who had deserted his wife and three children.

Fort Worth Pastor To Speak In City

Dr. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth, well known pastor, will speak Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Tabernacle Baptist church, Fifteenth street and Avenue N, said Rev Ben D. Johnson, pastor, Monday.

A special service has been arranged for the occasion. The public is invited, said Reverend Johnson.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Worries over European unsettlement based on the Spanish war contributed to a downturn in today's stock market.

At that, cheerful domestic business news brought support for a number of issues after fast selling at the opening had caused the ticker tape to lag and distributed losses of fractions to 2 or more points in most departments. Offerings tended to dry up near the fourth hour and the pace slowed appreciably.

Aircrafts, oils, sugars and a smattering of specialties ignored the reversal in other sections of the list and a few sizable advances were registered.

Bonds tilted moderately backward and commodities were mixed. Foreign currencies were quiet.

Preferred issues of American Woolen and Guanatanamo Sugar got up about 3 points each at the best. Manati Sugar was up 2 and improvement was shown by American Steel Foundries, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, North American Aviation, Standard Oils of N. J., California and Indiana, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Newport Industries, Deere and Public Service of N. J.

In the losing divisions were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, International Nickel, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Goodyear, General Electric, Paramount, Radio and American Metal.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3 lower to 1 higher with liquidation for the first December notice day tomorrow taken by the trade. Dec. 11.77; Jan. 11.72; March 11.69; May 11.69; July 11.63; Oct. 11.37.

Trading was fairly active but the initial prices were narrow and irregular. There was considerable exchanging from December to later months. The trade again absorbed most of the December offerings and there was also some foreign buying, but hedge selling and offerings from New Orleans in the later positions caused the market to sag somewhat toward the end of the first half hour. March sold off from 11.71 to 11.68 while next October eased from 11.27 to 11.21. Prices generally at the end of the first half hour were from 1 to 9 points net lower. New York cotton exchange service reduced its estimate of foreign crops by 300,000 bales and placed the total world crop at 29,751,000 bales. World consumption of all cotton is currently running on an annual basis of 29,000,000 bales or more, the service said.

Liverpool was relatively irregular with foreign and local buying meeting hedging against outside growth and Bombay selling.

Prices sagged a few points further later in the morning under continued Dec. liquidation and exchanging to later months. Trading otherwise was restricted, the disposition being to await results of the first notice day tomorrow. Mch at mid-day was selling around 11.67 and prices generally at that time showed net losses of 4 to 9 points.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23 (AP) — Prices were irregular today at the opening of the cotton market here.

Dec. and May were 2 to 4 points lower while March and Oct. were firm in quiet dealings.

First notice day for Dec. tomorrow induced some liquidation in that position. Dec. opened at 11.76 and then dipped to 11.73.

March opened at 11.69, May at 11.65 and Oct. at 11.26.

Liverpool reported Bombay buying in distant months, but selling of near positions gave prices a jagged appearance in the English market.

Anxiety over the European situation also depressed prices in Liverpool.

There was little hedging at New Orleans and aside from the liquidation in Dec. the market had few contracts to absorb.

Commission houses continued bullish. Out of eight market letters of this morning seven favored the buying side.

Narrow price movements prevailed during the morning and the market held at small losses. Most of the selling continued to converge on the December position. Informed trade circles predicted that tomorrow would see a good amount of the certificated stock tendered against the December option.

Dec. sold at 11.72, March at 11.65, May at 11.66 and Oct at 11.24.

One bullish news item appeared during the morning when the Garside service reduced its estimate of foreign growths to 17,355,000 bales. This placed the total indicated world production at 29,751,000 bales. Consumption is currently running above 29,000,000 bales.

Dry weather prevailed over most of the belt, with some showers in South Texas. Temperatures took a dip toward lower ground and were under normal in most sections.

OIL TAX

able will be higher and that prices of crude will rise within a few months.

Texas levies a 3-16 cent per barrel tax for enforcement of oil proration. It also is attempting to collect a tax on intangible assets of pipelines. Oil companies, in addition, must pay their ad valorem taxes and they contend the gasoline tax is a burden on them.

Claim It Is Too Low

Many in Texas claim the oil levy is too low. F. W. Mechem of Tyler, in his campaign for governor last summer, urged a 15-cent per barrel production tax to pay pensions to everyone over 65 years old. The house voted at the recent session to increase it to 3 1-4 cents but the senate would not agree.

The legislature ordered a 50 per cent increase in the tax on gas, 37 1-2 per cent on sulphur and new taxes on carbon black, marble, cinnabar and other ores.

J. W. Byrne of the comptroller's department estimated additional revenue from a tax of 3 per cent of value on natural and casinghead gas would be more than $150,000 yearly and that from the sulphur tax increase about $375,000 per year. First payments of the carbon black levy are due December 25. The tax is one-twelfth of a cent per pound when carbon black is selling for four cents a pound or less and three per cent of value when its market value is more than four cents.

Although the present sulphur tax of $1.03 per ton is four times as large as that six years ago, some in the legislature believe it should go higher.

Byrne said little revenue would be obtained from the new tax of ten cents a ton on marble and cinnabar and five cents on other ores. The first thousand tons a year of any producer are exempt.

UVALDE, Nov. 23. (AP)—Vice-President John Nance Garner strode into his 68th year today with a nervous trigger finger for his deer-hunting gun.

The vice-president said he would return to Washington about Dec. 1.

Cotton Sales Over Sunday Brisk Here

Cotton sales in Lubbock Sunday and over the week-end were variously estimated at from 7,000 to 8,000 bales and as high as 10,000 to 12,000 bales.

Movement was brisk. Many out-of-town buyers came in for the day, as well as ginners from over the area. Cotton row was well pleased with the results of sales.

Cotton harvest is rapidly nearing the close. Various estimates place the crop as around 80 to nea ly 90 per cent out, for the county. General average over the territory is better than 80 per cent.

This one isn't so new, but it will bear another telling.

C. A. Rowland of Kerrville, hunting on a ranch in that scenic area, heard a squirrel bark. He turned at the sharp cry and as he did so a wildcat ran out of the brush. He shot it. Then another big cat popped out. Bingo again. Then a third. Mr. Rowland pinched himself and shot again, another cat biting the dust.

A little while later, he shot a big deer.

Nobody knows what became of the squirrel.

And that prompts the further observation that it struck me last night that, on the whole, the cast they've chosen ought to get along pretty well together. Don't you think so? As people, I mean; not just as characters in the play."

"Yes," said Marcia, pondering an exception. "Yes, indeed."

"With exceptions, no doubt," continued Helen, "if you don't mind my reading your thoughts, which agree so thoroughly with my own."

Marcia laughed.

"I admit that you've read my thoughts."

They arrived at the Waddells' home and settled before the fire in the living room to await coffee before Helen resumed the conversation.

"Mind if I speak out freely, man to man? Something I've got to tell you anyway."

"I don't mind at all," said Marcia.

"It's an item of information. I could hardly decide whether to tell you. But I've known you long enough and well enough to prefer to tell you myself — risking your reception of it — than to take a chance on its getting loose and reaching you later in a garbled version. From someone, let's say, like Dorothy Osborn, who advertised her depth of sweet nature so well with her stage whisper remark at the Guild tryouts last night."

She watched for the effect of this.

"Yes, I heard it," Marcia said. "I'll admit, further, that it was not at all pleasant."

"Naturally it wasn't. No one cares to be present when a person so lacking in breeding is putting on a demonstration. It's bad-mannered, and embarrassing to people who have been reared above it. If you don't mind, I'd like to say that I think I can appreciate what all this affair has meant to you, and that I think you have been pretty splendid for all these several weeks. It's hard to speak like this, Marcia, but it goes along with what I've got to tell you."

"Thanks, Helen."

"The item of information I spoke of came by telephone this morning. Long distance. Of course you remember my cousin, John Waddell, who has visited here several summers. He lives in Chicago, you know. He called early this morning, and fortunately I answered. He had met Frank Kendrick often while visiting here, of course."

At the sound of the name Marcia seemed to bend, but Helen determinedly rushed on.

"John didn't know about Frank's —being on the missing list. But he knew something must be terribly wrong because yesterday noon he saw Frank in a Loop restaurant—working as a busboy!"

Grimly Helen kept her eyes from Marcia's stricken face. Grimly she refused to pause. The words tumbled out.

"John said Frank pretended not to know him. Said John was mistaken — his name was something else. But John, of course, knew he couldn't be wrong. So he telephoned me to ask what was the matter, and whether he should do anything. I told him I couldn't answer right off; I'd have to call or write later. And that's all."

That was all! Only a dreary renewal of the week-old confusion in her mind, Marcia realized. Only a resumption of torturing speculations, when one was trying to stop remembering.

"I didn't tell even the family what the call was about," Helen was saying. "I wanted you to know first. The question as I see it is, what do you want done — how do you feel about the whole thing?"

That was, certainly, a question, Marcia agreed silently. How did she feel? At the moment, she was not sure that she felt at all.

The loss of the ring, at least, was for the time out of mind.

'PICK-PROOF' POCKET

BUDAPEST, (AP) — Isidor Kaufmann, a tailor, has perfected what he hopes is a "pickpocket proof" pocket of metal netting. He hasn't tried it himself yet, but means to "as soon as I have collected enough royalties on it to make it necessary."

"BLACK-DRAUGHT IS PURELY VEGETABLE" —What Does That Mean?

A great many things can cause constipation and there are many remedies to relieve it, but possibly none more popular than the "vegetable" laxatives.

Among these, Black-Draught is outstanding. In its manufacture, leaves of a certain plant are used, and the roots of certain others. These are dried so they will keep without preservatives . . . no other chemicals change from the way they grew in "Mother Nature's medicine garden." By their being finely ground, the digestive system extracts the active medicine right where it is needed. Constipation is relieved.

Black-Draught is so economical that a 25-cent package averages upwards of 25 doses.—Adv.

The Clean, Gentle Way to clear mucus from

STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS

Which is the more pleasant way to clear up the accumulated mucus in your nostrils? To keep on blowing into your handkerchief until your nose is sore? Or to insert a pleasant, soothing ointment that gently breaks up the obstructing mucus?

Surely you prefer the latter, and that is why you should always use Mentholatum. It not only breaks up the mucus and enables you to breathe more freely, but also soothes the irritated membranes.

Thanksgiving Dinner

. . . and then the peaceful feeling that comes from good digestion and smoking Camels!

OFF TO A GOOD START—with hot, spiced tomato soup—delicious in itself and an exciting prelude to the delights to come!

THE MAIN EVENT—the time-honored turkey of our forefathers—done to a crisp and golden brown—flanked by a mountain of ruby cranberry jelly. And you enjoy it even more when you smoke Camels. For Camels speed up the flow of digestive fluids. Increase alkalinity. Help digestion run smoothly.

DOUBLE PAUSE—First for the crisp refreshment of Waldorf Salad—then for the sheer pleasure of Camel's costlier tobaccos. This double pause clears the palate—sets the stage for dessert.

WHAT WILL YOU HAVE? Reading in a circle, there's a piping-hot Plum Pudding . . . luscious Pumpkin Pie . . . Mince Pie a la mode . . . and layer cake with inch-deep icing. Thanksgiving dinner just wouldn't be complete without one of the traditional desserts shown here to add their characteristic touch of holiday cheer.

SO TO A HAPPY ENDING—over coffee and after-dinner Camels.

Enjoy Camels—every mealtime—between courses and after eating—and you can feel on top of the world.
