Hammers Scrimmage Moguls Wednesday

Rotan's Yellowhammers looked 'fair' in scrimmage with Munday Moguls here Wednesday morning. They showed good defense, but inexperience showed on offense.

Coaches Schkade and Jackson report 36 boys out for training and spirit remains good, which will help make up for inexperience. One worry of the coaching staff is injuries. Jimmy Nowlin is out for sometime with a knee injury. Brice Browning suffered injury to a previously damaged shoulder. It is doubtful that either will be able to start against Hamlin in the opening game.

In scrimmage Wednesday morning, little outstanding play was expected, but fans could see some wonderful possibilities for the Hammers during the season with a few 'good breaks.'

Paving Program Has Improved Appearance

The $222,000 paving program in residential section was recently completed and Rotan has taken on a 'new look.' It is well worth your time to drive around and see the wonderful improvement this has made. Eighty-nine blocks were paved which is 73% of the proposed program. 50% is considered successful.

$10,000 in sealcoating on streets already paved puts the town in excellent street condition--much better paved than most towns of comparable size in the area. Many beautiful building sites are now available that were previously undesirable, which is expected to greatly add to new construction of new residences.

Pioneer Paving Co. of Lubbock did the project and their work proved very satisfactory in most cases.

With the new water system completed Rotan is ready for any growth.

NEWS

*** County ***
Agricultural Agent
Texas A. & M. College
Extension Service

The following information was taken from the August 23 South-west Screwworm Eradication Program Report.

For the third consecutive week a new sterile fly production record was set at Mission as 140,866,250 flies were dispersed the week of August 11-17.

Texas makes the national news again, millions of people across the nation will and heard about the screwworm eradication program via Walter Cronkite's evening news program. A news team from CBS-TV visited the eradication headquarters at Mission last week and compiled a film report on the activities of the program, using the theme that while Moscow and Washington discuss unclear test bans, agriculture and science have already combined forces to utilize atomic power for beneficial peacetime purposes.

Texas reported a total of only 16 screwworm cases for the last report week. This is almost unbelievable! This small number of screwworm cases should not, however, lull us into a feeling of apathy. The season when we normally begin to have a build-up in screwworm cases is at hand. Producer vigilance is all the more importance at this time. Prompt submission of possible screwworm samples is the key to a successful screwworm program. Producers would do well to take preventative measures, especially to the point of doctoring animals that may have fresh wounds. For every screwworm case that can be prevented now, it is logical to assume that we will have many less screwworm flies with which to contend later on.

Along with the good news from the program we have a bit of humor. When told that experiments on growing screwworm larvae on beef and mutton lungs were being conducted, one eradication official (who shall remain anonymous asked, "Do you think this will result in the production of a screwworm fly with greater wind capacity?")

At present the only reliable method of checking the quality of cotton on the farm or at the ginning point is grade and staple length. But according to Beverly G. Reeves, cotton ginning and mechanization specialist, Texas A&M University, the cotton moisture meter can be used as a good indicator of quality on seed cotton.

This device makes it possible to determine the proper time for harvesting and the way to conduct the ginning operation to preserve cotton quality, the specialist adds. The moisture content of the cotton fiber when harvested, while in storage prior to ginning, and during ginning is definitely correlated with spinning quality.

The fiber strength, the length uniformity of the fibers, and the amount of tangled fibers or neps in the cotton affect its spinning quality, and the fiber moisture level in turn affects these. Research has shown that cotton harvested at moisture levels above 8 percent is difficult to dry for proper ginning and that cotton with excess moisture tends to deteriorate in storage prior to ginning.

Cotton moisture level is also affected by the amount of trash in the harvested fiber. When trashy cotton is stored for long periods, moisture moves from the trash into the cotton, explains the specialist. Therefore, dry, careful harvesting is needed to produce quality cotton and a moisture meter can help achieve this.

Reeves recommends that you buy a moisture meter if your operation justifies it or have the cotton moisture content checked at the gin, but take advantage of this aid to quality cotton production.

When salt is withheld from the diets of animals their growth is impaired. Salt is used in the synthesis of protein in the animal's body and this should be provided free choice to all animals daily.

During 1962, 41.1 percent of the nation's total dairy cows and heifers two years old and older were bred artificially. Eight state reported 50 percent or more of their cows bred artificially while Texas bred only about 12 percent of its dairy cows by this means.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waldrop of Hamlin spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Reese.

"God Speaks Through His Ministers"

Harold Churchill, Pastor Highland Home Baptist Church

"THE CARPENTER OF NAZORTH"

"Is not this the Carpenter?" (Mark 6:3)

Just before Labor Day it is good to remember that in the days of His flesh Jesus had a trade. By the sweat of his brow he earned a living for the family of Nazareth.

In order for us to understand the personality of Jesus and to understand our work today we must not let more impressive facts mar our appreciation of this fact, Jesus our Lord did physical labor.

The Greek word translated carpenter today literally means a worker in wood. It is easy for us to think of Jesus as the city builder, the wagon repairman, and maybe the toy repairman. Jesus must have had a good skill in making yokes for the oxen of that day. Listen to what he said to Matthew, "Take my yoke upon you . . . for my yoke is easy." In these eighteen hidden years he became the "Carpenter of Nazareth" very closely related to the toil of the common folk of today. This is appreciated today when we are prone to think of an impersonal Master.

The people that lived in the day that Jesus lived in thought that any kind of manual labor was degrading to the noble race of man. In taking up a trade he stamped heaven's approval upon honest work and dignified the toil of the hands. The people that asked the question at hand, "Is not this the Carpenter?" did so with a certain amount of contempt in their voice. They thought that anyone who had done any hard labor was not good enough to become the prophet or the promised Messiah. In all the life of Jesus our Lord he taught that work was not a curse but a health giving blessing. It is idleness that destroys and degrades men. Charles Kingsley, an English preacher said, "Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do this day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance and self-control, diligence of strength of will, cheerfulness and contentment, and a hundred virtues the idle never know."

The motive behind the entire life of our Master was ever to please God. "My will is to do the will of Him that sent me?" This attitude was always present in the life of Christ. Even in the carpenter shop there was never the idea that this is just killing time. He felt sure that when His hour had fully come the Heavenly Father would move him out of the carpenter shop. You know, it is not really what we do that counts so much as it is how we do it. All honest work is honorable in the sight of God. We must strive to please the Master with the kind and quality of our daily labor. Some labor with the mind and very little body is involved and still more work with the body and the mind. Let us please God with our motive for work of any sort. The motive of Christ was ever to please God. Does our motive please God?

My Electric System is LOCALLY OWNED!

It was a question of doing without electricity or building our own system. So we built our own. We organized an electric cooperative, borrowed $4,959,688.00 from the Rural Electrification Administration and began serving those people who had no electric service. Since 1938 we have repaid $1,220,686.00 on the Principal and $759,598.00 in interest on the loan. We offer a dependable, efficient, economical electric service. Our member-owners spend approximately $1,653,000.00 annually with home-town merchants to use this electricity.

Midwest Electric Cooperative has been a blessing to its member-owners, has stimulated the rural economy and brought a new way of life to the rural community.

Residue Program Paying Local Farmers

Residue Management is helping several farmers in the Upper Clear Fork Soil Conservation District produce better crops with less moisture. Bobby Gruben, had an area on a farm west of Rotan, that just seemed to run out of moisture too early in the year. Last fall he spread cotton burs on this area and applied fertilizer in the spring. This year there is little difference in the cotton on this area and the rest of the farm. The cotton burs held the moisture in place and kept it from running down the terrace channel. Billy Joe McCombs says that he seldom has to scratch cotton on land that has followed feed. He finds there is enough residue left on the ground to keep the soil from crusting over as quick after a rain, as it does on cotton ground. Regardless of the type of residue used, it should be left on the surface of the soil as long as possible. Generally this means that only sweep type implement should be used until April 1st for spring planted crops and August 15 for fall planted crops.

Mrs. Leo Bailey and Joe recently made the guided tour at Carlsbad Caverns National Park in New Mexico to see one of the wonders of the world.

Use Pre-Primed Board

MAKING a home chalkboard is an easy job for Dad or a high school lad. Materials needed are Masonite Tempered Preswood, factory primed or plain; and a can of chalkboard material available in black or green.

Note, in the illustration, how the do-it-yourself fan has rounded the top corners of the board and drilled holes for hanging it. He also has beveled the edges all around and cut a piece of molding which he'll fasten to the bottom as a chalk trough.

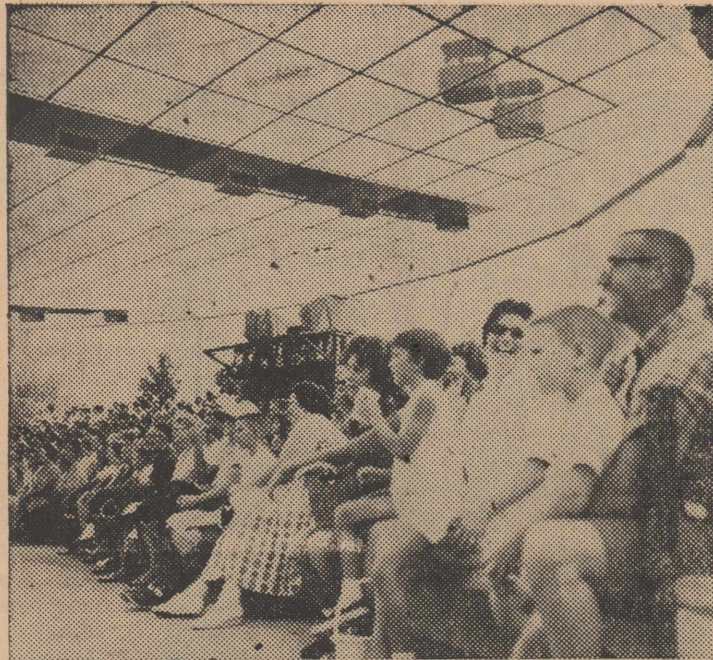

One coat of slating material covers the primed hardboard. Two might be needed if you use the unprimed surface.

Excellent locations for home chalkboards are the kitchen, recreation room, children's room and basement or utility room. Boards made as suggested are professional in quality, as good as those found in schoolrooms.

Several of these useful chalkboards can be used around the house or farm. Their cost is nominal. All the materials are available at the lumber yard.

SIXTY TONS AND WHAT DO YOU GET? With a unique display of technical skill and ingenuity, engineers have placed sixty tons of overhead air conditioning at the Six Flags 40,000 square foot open air Amphitheatre. The delightful show as well as the benefits of this cool innovation are reflected in the faces of the theatre goers.

SIX FLAGS PLAYING IT COOL

If you hear someone saying it's as cool as all outdoors, don't be too sure he's referring to the winter season. He may be talking about Six Flags in the summer.

The reasoning behind this statement is that engineers at the 115-acre Park, located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, are attempting to set up enough air conditioning units to cool off a large portion of the big tourist attraction.

Nearly 700 tons of air conditioning are already in operation—enough to cool a 16-story building, according to management.

The latest project involves air conditioning the Six Flags Amphitheatre. This 1200 seat open-air theatre, where the popular Campus Revue musical variety show takes place, encompasses approximately 40,000 square feet of space. Completion of this unique innovation is expected this week and theatre goers can watch the entertaining shows in cool comfort, thanks to sixty tons of overhead air conditioning.

At Six Flags all of the queue lines as well as buildings are completely air conditioned.

Engineers and technicians still have a long way to go and right now "Old Sol" is in the lead over the Park's cool air output. But work is continuing to add new units for better visitor comfort.

The price of trying to air condition much of the entertainment area at Six Flags would stagger the imagination. However, management feels it's well worth it, when the comfort of its guests is concerned.

It would seem to be somewhat of an impossibility to have the coolness of one's own living room throughout Six Flags. Yet one park technician smilingly summed up the situation by quoting a famous phrase. "The difficult we do today, the impossible takes a little longer."

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Austin--These waning days of summer vacation are attracting more and more Texas parents and their children into the great outdoors for a final fling at fun in the sun before reopening of school begins to confine them to home.

It's time of increased exposure to the hazards of accidents and sudden emergencies which inevitably come with accelerated outdoor activity.

Of the 68,000 people who die each year in Texas, some 10% die as a result of accidents. No doubt many are saved by prompt emergency care, but many more could be saved.

It is rather common to find that people throw all responsibility on the physician or the rescue squad which respond to emergency calls, undertaking none themselves except to telephone for help. Sometimes, they do not know what to do; other times they are too excited to think or act wisely. The urgency of the situation may lead people to give grossly improper care for burns, internal injuries or extensive lacerations.

The person telephoning for help should not rely upon the physician or ambulance attendant to give him advice; he should ask what to do until help arrives. In most cases the telephone conversation need not be rushed; there is time for careful directions in cases of poisoning, heart attack, burns or head injury. Even though the caller has never had a course in first aid or has forgotten what he learned, he can still obtain directions that may save a life.

"Hurry cases" of first aid include cessation of breathing, severe bleeding and poisoning. In these cases a delay of even a few minutes may result in death. Rescue squads save extremely few people who have stopped breathing unless someone has given artificial respiration on the spot.

Teaching people to react promptly and efficiently in emergencies is one of the major goals of the "medical self-help" courses now being conducted around the state by local medical societies and state local health departments and civil defense organizations. Conceived originally as a tool for civil defense training against times of nuclear attack, the content of the courses also ideally equip people to cope with personal peacetime emergencies.

Further information on medical self-help courses can be acquired from local medical societies.

Meantime the important rule to remember when summoning medical help or an ambulance in the event of serious injury or sudden illness is this: ask what first aid measures to take.

Almost every great teacher of morals or of religion has said just what Jesus of Nazareth proclaimed. In every land and in every age it is the basic rule of good living; you cannot improve on it. Therefore do not try to change it, but live it. It will work in the experience of every man and of all men; it will make for happiness for each man and for each society of men; it works in the home, in the school, in the business, and in the nation and world.

What do you really wish that men would do to you? Let you alone and allow you to go your own way? Try it, and you will have a lonely world. There could be no homes, no neighborhoods, no nation.

Do you wish other men to work for you and for your success, while you forget their welfare? What sort of a world would that make, if all the rest did the same? Strife and war, with bitterness and suffering and sorrow for all. If you toil only for your own good and every other man works only for himself, we shall have a poor sort of a world. If we help no one and no one helps us, we shall be poor together; we shall turn the whole universe into one vast poorhouse.

Do you wish others to be friendly and kind and generous in their dealings with you? Then join with the rest in making all life friendly and kind and generous. Homes and neighborhoods and nations will find happiness and prosperity together.

Do you wish others to be honest and truthful and trustworthy? Match them with the same high virtues and all of life becomes trustful and free and dependable.

Do you wish others to be courteous and appreciative of you? Then form the habit of speaking with grace and with good words for their efforts and their deeds. You will bring the glow of happy inner satisfaction for them and they will give your life a sense of worth; each thus becomes important to the other.

Do you wish others to be ready to lend a hand when you have a hard task to do? Then form the habit of helpfulness and we build for mutual prosperity and for a cooperative society.

They who keep "the Golden Rule" will discover that it is the "rule of God"; God helps those who help each other; He is the Father of love and of saving helpfulness; it is the divine way. The "Golden Rule" is still golden.
