AT THE CHURCHES

BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be no preaching at the Baptist church next Sunday, but an all day singing at 11 a. m. Rev. Clark will preach. No preaching at night on the third Sunday. Bro. J. R. McCorkle will preach at both morning and evening services. Just 25 years ago Bro. McCorkle was ordained to the ministry from this church, and he asks that all the members who were present then attend services with him on this occasion. The pastor is on a visit to his sisters in Ga., and will attend the Southern Baptist Convention at Jacksonville, Fla., before returning home. He expects to be back in time to preach on fourth Sunday. There will be no mid week prayer meeting during the Methodist meeting. Let our members be busy in the work of making our Sunday school one of the greatest in this part of the state.

J. M. Reynolds, pastor.

FISHING ON HOME CREEK

Last Friday morning the editor and J. G. Williamson, the office foreman, loaded on a Ford and made our way to the Williamson home about twelve miles south of town on Home Creek, where we tried our luck fishing. W. T. Vinson and J. S. Gilmore followed us and spent the afternoon with hook and line well bathed in the beautiful waters, but the finny tribe is not much the worse off by our advent in their midst.

Messrs. Vinson and Gilmore fished all evening and never got a bite, so did the editor and Mr. Williamson together with another party who joined us on the creek.

Friday night the fish still showed no signs of being hungry, but Saturday morning business picked up a little and we managed to "catch" a few, the other fellows doing most of the "catching."

We would have continued our stay until the fish got hungry if we had not been called in Saturday at noon on account of sickness, Mr. Williamson receiving a call from his wife who is in a Temple Sanatorium, to come to see her. Glad to say he returned Sunday night and left her improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, parents of our foreman, are two of the best old veterans we ever met. They made life worth living for us while our stay lasted and we felt a deep regret when we had to return to our work, for we had enjoyed being with them, eating their palatable grub and enjoying their friendly association. Their home is not a token of riches in this world's goods, but of happiness and love. We felt like the fish had just begun to bite when we had to leave.

Well, we will try it over again soon, for we are not made of the kind that quit without accomplishments, and quite without accomplishments, and quite without accomplishments.

FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Dallas, Texas, May 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 1922
City Temple, First Baptist Church, Central Christian Church

There are now 1,250,000 in Texas Sunday Schools. Help go after another million.

Final plan for Texas, largest and greatest State Sunday School Convention for all denominations which meets in Dallas, May 3 to 7, have been announced and the Sunday schools of Dallas have arranged for free entertainment, for lodging and breakfast in the homes of Dallas people for the big army of Sunday school workers from every section of the state. It's in Dallas. The churches of all denominations in all of their departments for working hand in hand together with the Sunday schools to make this the largest and best State Sunday School Convention ever held in Texas.

All business and trade interests, all financial interests, all manufacturing interests and civic interests of Dallas as well welcome this great army of the Sunday schools of Texas to their city. Several of the business institutions are sending out literature inviting their customers and friends to the convention.

"Dallas welcomes you. Come on. That is the message of love that is going out to every section of Texas. You cannot afford to miss this Annual Texas Sunday School Convention, the most important in the history of the Sunday school work for all denominations in Texas."

It is expected that the convention will be the largest of its kind ever held in the Southwest. Pre-convention pledge cards of attendance at one or more of the four special sessions, have been sent to Sunday schools over the entire state, and indications are that over 5000 will attend.

Christian Endeavor Convention

The Brownwood District Christian Endeavor Convention met in San Angelo, April 21st, 22nd and 23rd, with the First Presbyterian church, with eighty delegates present and most every society in the district represented.

The welcome address was given by W. L. Downing with the echo returning from the Endeavors, "We are so glad, that you are here, that we are here."

After the close of the first session Friday evening, a social hour and get acquainted meeting was held in the basement. Every one wearing a smile and a hearty hand clasp, saying, "glad you are here." The music was inspiring, choir led by Miss Humphrey and special numbers such as solos, duets and quartets, with violin ensemble with Mrs. Miller as director was a real feast to all lovers of music.

Field Secretary Mr. Huppertz presented excellent addresses on "Carry it with you," "The International Convention," "The 4 P's" and "The Ever present need." Oh! that I could bring you people thru this paper the inspiration that we received while there.

The reception given at the home of Mrs. Hartgrove on Saturday afternoon was enjoyed to the fullest extent of our capacity.

During the quiet hour service, eight young people pledged themselves to Life Work Recruits and Two Legion of Honor and Six Found my life work.

In planning our work for another year but very few changes were made in officers. A new President, Mr. F. Viemon of Brownwood and Mr. E. Cockrell of Ballinger takes second vice president. Jasper McClellan being held over as chairman of "Publicity" and Chas. Oakes chairman of "Good Fellowship" committee.

It was a star convention going over the top in our registrations for the State convention which meets in Houston June 14 to 18 and raising our assessment for state funds $250.00.

Let me urge you Endeavors to attend State Convention if you can but if not then go to Brownwood next spring to the District meeting and bring back to your society the enthusiasm the inspiration that will help put your society on the map of Christian Endeavor.—Contributed.

FIND THE WAY

The incessant war between capital and labor is one of the greatest obstructions to the prosperity of this country. It is ever present, and seems to have no end.

Every strike that occurs costs thousands of dollars. Often it runs into millions, and the whole country suffers because of a disagreement between a small proportion of the population.

Labor must be protected or it will be crushed by unscrupulous capitalists.

Capital must be protected or it will perish at the hands of unscrupulous labor leaders and the radical element of their following.

One can not exist without the other, and the country cannot suffice without both.

Under existing conditions neither side can be trusted to give the other a square deal all around. They have fought so long the Golden Rule appears to have passed from their memories.

And since the Golden Rule will not suffice, government rule should take its place.

There is a way to adjust these differences on a basis that would be fair and just to all, but we do not appear to have the man available who possesses the brains necessary to discover that way and enforce it.

Find the man who can find the way, and clothe him with power to act.

HIGHWAY 7 AND 7A IN COLEMAN COUNTY GET $162,000 AID

(From Democrat-Voice)

The State Highway Commission on Monday allotted additional State and Federal aid in amount $17,000, to Highway No. 7 and Highway No. 7A through Coleman county. County Engineer W. E. Dickerson, County Judge J. G. Mathews and Commissioner Henry Sackett appeared before the Highway Commission Monday in Austin in behalf of these projects.

Highway No. 7 which is designed as the Roger Q. Mills Highway, enters Coleman county at Brown county line and passes through Santa Anna and Coleman. Federal aid in amount $90,000 had been previously allotted to the project; additional aid to the amount of $25,000 is granted, making a total allotment of $115,000.

Highway 7A which is designated as Central Texas Highway, extends west from Coleman through Prec. No. 1 and Road District No. 1 in the direction of Ballinger. Federal aid in amount $25,000 had been previously allotted to this project; additional aid to the amount of $22,000 is granted, making a total allotment of $47,000.

Final inspection of 7A. Federal and State engineers will go over the route of 7A for final inspection Friday. The route as approved, extends from an intersection of the Coleman-Goulds road west thru Road District 1 to four miles west of Valera. It is probable that bids for construction will be asked for within the next six weeks. Bids for construction of Highway No. 7 will likely be called for within next four weeks.

Active construction work on bridge structures of Highway 23 was started Wednesday by the McCall-Moore Co., beginning at Hord's creek near Coleman. Culvert work is also now under way. On the Coleman-Shield road, three and a half miles of grade has been completed by Burks & Hart.

MOTHER OF P. P. BOND DIED MONDAY

P. P. Bond, cashier of the First State bank of this city was called to the bedside of his mother at Cross Plains last Friday, who was reported to be very ill and not expected to live.

Mr. Bond returned home Saturday and carried his family back to Cross Plains with him. He wired the bank here Tuesday morning that his mother died Monday night.

The News joins in extending sympathy to the bereaved.

THE NEWS TO GO BACK TO ALL HOME PRINT

About two months back, the News management decided to adopt a Ready Print service and have four pages of the paper printed in Dallas each week, in order to give our readers a better variety of reading matter, as we are always on the alert to furnish our readers with the best, but in as much as the service is costing us more than we contemplated it would, after this week we will go back to an all home print paper and only print whatever size paper the business will justify.

SHOULD AN EDITOR BE JEALOUS

Why not be jealous for our own town? When we receive our large list of exchanges, practically all weekly papers published in this part of the state, sit down to our desk and begin to peruse their contents, and we see where another town has a better patronage from their local merchants than do we, we become jealous and fear that some other town has a better set of business men than ours, town, which is straining on our nerves, for we feel like that we have a good set of business men as can be found in Texas, and because we are being a bit slighted right at the present time does not cause us to lose confidence entirely in the men of our town.

We would love to see them take more interest in their business, their town, their community and the local paper, for there is no question about the local paper being an index to the community, and if the community is in a striving condition the local paper will show it by the patronage it receives.

Several of our largest mercantile firms have completely withdrawn their support from the paper and we cannot solve the problem. There is not a case on record where a mercantile business has ever accomplished greater things without the use of newspaper advertising and we don't believe that the heads of firms of Santa Anna possess any supernatural power to lead them into achievements of success without advertising.

Your local paper needs your patronage and you need the support of the paper, and if there is anything lacking on the part of this paper to warrant your patronage if you will take the matter up with the editor we will try to right the wrong by removing the cause.

The editor of this paper does not pose as a perfect man, neither are we expecting perfection of our customers, but we claim to be equal to the average and a darn sight better than some. Brake lose from that narrowness and broaden your scope by advertising, a little in the local paper.

Sunday morning another fine shower of rain fell in this part of the country, and Monday still another good rain fell. Crop prospects are very flattering in Coleman county, and unless some calamity befalls us we will roll up good crops in the summer and fall and the nine months drought that has just ended will all be forgotten except water hauling.

The woman who paint must believe that men love art.

BIG LOSS SHOWN FOR OPERATION OF PRISON SYSTEM

(From Democrat-Voice)

Austin, Texas, April 25.—The Texas prisons system operated at a total loss of $1,293,579 last year, according to the auditor's report from 1921 recently filed with Governor Neff. The net loss from operating was $1,056,646 and the loss from sale of the 1921 cotton of $232,041, and a fire loss in 1921 of $22,791, brought the total loss up to the above figure.

All of the thirteen farms operated by the prison system showed losses for the year as did the cotton, oil and sugar mills. The only concerns operated by the prisons that made money in 1921 are the cabinet shop, the drug store, the "store" and the shoe shop. The total profit of these together with a gain in adjustment of the 1920 profit and loss account amounted to $14,323.

At the close of the year there was a total indebtedness on the state prison lands of $55,793.00. The state owns 81,120 acres of land, valued at $3,448,073. The other property of the system is valued at $1,973,688. The system leases 6,920 acres. It also owns 256 head of horses and mules valued at $253,412. The average cost of maintenance per day per prisoner during the year was 41.9 cents; for guarding prisoners it was 22.9 cents and for both it was 64.8.

New York is probably the only city in the country in which people still take an interest in six-day bicycle races.

From Ohio comes a story of a hen that lays two eggs every week and three on Sundays. The Cleveland Plaindealer says that Ohio either has a marvellous hen or a marvellous liar who thought up the story.

A TREASURE

A treasure seems to have been developed in the realm of modern womanhood in th person of Miss Gertrude Egget, a California school teacher who prefers to peg along in that profession on the modest scale of the teachers' wage than gain distinction on the screen by public exhibition of the proof that she is "the most beautifully proportioned woman in the world."

She has stood firm against the approaches of many moving picture producers who have offered "fabulous salaries," one flat offer $100,000 a year having been refused.

More than that, Miss Egget has given the theatre agencies to understand that she is not for sale. She declares she intends to keep herself "untarnished from the world's gaze" for the man she is to marry. "Hundreds" have sought her hand in marriage, but the man she has picked out has not yet called.

Miss Egget admits that she has sought advice and the best she got was from Agnes Souret, a Paris beauty—the "most beautiful woman in the world" seems to have a sort of fellow masonry among themselves, who said "there is not enough money in the world to make up for the price of a woman pays when she sells her virtue."

The man destiny holds in store as the husband of this California school teacher is going to secure a treasure when he marries her.

SANTA ANNA COUPLE MARRIED IN TEMPLE

Wednesday morning letters were received from Mrs. J. G. Williamson who is being treated in the Temple Sanatorium and her sister Miss Mary Vinson who was there nursing her, stating that Miss Mary was married Tuesday to Mr. Clys is an Ex-service man who seen service in France during the late world war, and is now serving as Adjutant of the Jack Laughlin Post American Legion of this city.

Miss Vinson is one of the popular daughters of Commissioner W. T. Vinson, a teacher by profession and also a trained nurse.

The newly married couple have many friends in this community who will join the News in extending best wishes.

United States Civil Service Commission Washington, D. C.
Secretary, U. S. Civil Service Board.

You have been supplied with announcement No. 1952, amended covering an examination for trained nurse in various branches of the service. The announcement states that applications will be received until further notice.

The supply of eligibles for these positions is not equal to the demand. There is constant call for eligibles to fill positions in the Veterans' Bureau and in the Public Health Service, and at this time there are more than fifty vacancies in the Indian Service.

The positions in the Indian Service pay $840 a year, plus the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Laundry of uniform, furnished quarters, heat, and light are supplied without cost. Meals are furnished at cost.

It is requested that you take steps to secure applicants, particularly for the vacancies in the Indian Service, which are now the most pressing. Newspapers should be asked to print the notice enclosed herewith as an item of news, and the examination should be advertised in every other manner that is available without expense to the Commission.

The Commission would appreciate your prompt and careful attention to the advertising of this examination. By direction of the Commission.

Very respectfully,
JOHN T. DOYLE, Secretary.

SINGING CONVENTION NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday the Eastern District Singing Convention of Coleman county will meet at the First Baptist church in this city for the Quarterly convention.

We hope the good citizens of Santa Anna will show their appreciation of these singers and visitors for among them will be some of the best singers in the country. Let those who can and will prepare a lunch and set a public dinner at the noon hour as is the custom at all conventions of this kind and those who do not feel like taking a part in the public spread prepare and take some one or more home with you for dinner.

Let's make this one of the best conventions held in the county this year.

MARRIED

Last Saturday evening at eight o'clock Mr. Elmer C. Robinson and Miss Ura Norris were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in the south part of town. Rev. J. M. Reynolds officiating.

The editor does not know the happy young couple very well personally, but they are among our best citizens and we join their many friends in extending our best wishes.

It seems to be difficult to get the Harp or Erin back into tune again.

Somebody Believes in you

It may be the firm or corporation for which you are working—

It may be the community in which you live—it may be the gray haired mother who understands you as no one else—it may be the wife who has gone through the years by your side—it may be the boy who is the living image of his father—who has your eyes and your ways—it may be your little girl—who climbs upon your lap in the even tide and says:

"Papa, I know you are the best man in the world."

And—particularly to those loved ones who believe in you—you have a definite obligation to perform—and that obligation is that you leave them adequately provided before you die.

That they may still keep on believing in you—that you are the best man in the world—insure your life today—

PROMISING NEW TREATMENT FOR ERADICATION OF SAN JOSE SCALE

San Jose Scale With Larvae and Adult Beetles Feeding on Them—A, Adult Beetle; B, Larvae; C, Pupa; All Enlarged.

By A. L. QUAINANCE, Entomologist in Charge Fruit Insect Investigations, United States Department of Agriculture.

The San Jose scale is just now exceedingly abundant and destructive in many orchards in the Bentonville, (Ark.) section, and growers state they are unable to adequately control the pest with the usual dormant tree treatments with lime-sulphur spray. While the bureau of entomology believes that thorough spraying with dormant tree strength of lime sulphur will control the San Jose scale, yet to meet the desire of orchardists for other than lime-sulphur treatments, a number of experiments with sprays were undertaken. The purpose of the present article is to call attention to results secured in the treatment of the scale by the use of a spray containing 2 per cent of lubricating or engine oil emulsified with potash fish-oil soap.

Remarkably Effective Spray.

The careful experiments in Florida by W. W. Yothers with various sprays for the control of citrus scale insects and the orange white fly, as published in Farmers' Bulletin 933, resulted in a formula of engine-oil spray which has been found remarkably effective in view of the small amount of oil used, namely, 1 per cent, emulsified with potash fish-oil soap. Mr. Yothers found that any one of several oils of the lubricating type, when thoroughly emulsified and used at the dilution indicated, was quite effective against these scale insects and the white fly, and these sprays have now come into large commercial use in Florida.

The surprising efficiency of a spray containing such a low per cent of oil suggested the desirability of testing sprays of this character against the San Jose scale. The abundance and destructiveness of the scale in the Bentonville section of Arkansas and the desire of growers for other than lime sulphur sprays, has offered excellent opportunity for testing various dilutions of engine oil sprays against this pest. The experiments were carried out by A. J. Ackerman, of the office of deciduous fruit insect investigations, and have included tests of lubricating oils of a strength of from one-half per cent to 4 per cent or 5 per cent, thoroughly emulsified with potash fish-oil soap. The results showed practically complete killing of the scale by one thorough application of the spray of a strength as low as 2 per cent of oil. Orchardists have been so pleased with the results that the 2 per cent oil spray will be extensively used in their present necessity of bringing the pest under subjection.

Injury by Oil Sprays

A point yet to be established in connection with the present experiments is the possibility of injury from oil spray which may result to the trees, twigs, or fruit buds, and several seasons' experience will be necessary before a final decision on this question can be reached. In view of the experience in Florida in spraying citrus trees in foliage with 1 per cent of oil, it is felt that dormant deciduous trees will probably stand without injury one annual treatment containing 2 per cent of oil. In order to render the treatment available to orchardists who may wish to test it on a small scale, the following directions for making the stock emulsion are given:

Formula for Stock Emulsion.

Red Engine Oil, or oil of similar grade Gallon 1
Water do. 4
Potash Fish-Oil Soap pound 1

The oil, water and soap are placed in a kettle or other receptacle and heated until the contents come to a boil. A brown scum appears on the surface of the mixture as it first begins to boil. After boiling for a few minutes the brown scum begins to disappear and at this stage the kettle is removed from the fire and the entire mixture is pumped twice under pressure of about 60 pounds while still very hot. A proper emulsion cannot be made by stirring nor should the mixture be allowed to cool before it is pumped. Too much pumping will often break up the emulsion. During pumping, ordinary pump packing is burnt up rather quickly by the hot oil mixture. For making the stock emulsion on a large scale an all-metal pump would be necessary.

The stock emulsion contains 66.23 per cent of oil. To make a 2 per cent emulsion for use in a 200-gallon spray tank it is necessary to use 6 gallons of the stock emulsion.

Precaution should be taken to prevent the stock emulsion from freezing, which occurs at a temperature of about 15 degrees F. above zero.

Use Soft Water.

In case difficulty is experienced in making a proper emulsion, due to hardness of the water, the water used should be softened by the addition of 1 pound of caustic soda or lye per 100 gallons of diluted spray. The caustic soda should be dissolved in 2 or 3 gallons of water and then added to the spray tank and thoroughly stirred, after which the proper quantity of stock emulsion can be added.

Any one of the following, or similar oils, may be used, some one or more of which can doubtless be obtained in most parts of the country:

Diamond Paraffin Oil.
180 Red Neutral.
Jr. Red Engine Oil.
Nabob Oil.

An oil which has given excellent results in the experiments herewith reported has approximately the following characteristics:

Sp. gravity (20° C.)	0.91
Flash Point	173° C.
Fire point	204° C.
Viscosity (20° C.) (Engler)	17.51
H ₂ O (100)	3.5 per cent
Volatility (loss at 100° C. 4 hrs.)	None
Acid or corroding substances	43 per cent
Distillation 200-370° C.	52 per cent

PLANTING PEAS FOR ALL-SEASON SUPPLY

Soil Should Be Prepared the Same as for Other Crops.

Some Fertilizer Should Be Scattered Where Row Is to Be Planted and Then Raked In—Scatter Seed Along in Furrow.

In planting garden peas first prepare the soil the same as for other crops, then scatter a little fertilizer where the row is to be planted and rake this into the soil. Next stretch a line and make a deep mark with the corner of the hoe. The bottom of this mark should be at least three inches across so that the seed can be spread somewhat and not crowded too closely together. Scatter the seed in this furrow 15 to 20 seeds to the foot, then cover about three inches deep and slightly firm the soil over the seed with the back of the hoe. About two weeks will generally elapse before the sprout appears above the ground.

At least three, and preferably four, plantings should be made at intervals of two weeks in order to keep up a continuous supply, advises the United States Department of Agriculture. If the first planting is of Alaska the second should be of Gradus or Thomas Lexington, while the third should be of Excelor and the fourth of Telephone or some similar variety. This will guarantee a continuous supply.

There is nothing particularly difficult about the cultivation of peas—just keep them well hoed and properly trained upon the brush or wire trellis to keep them off the ground. After the peas are all gathered the vines and trellis can be removed and the ground planted to late potatoes, late cabbage, spinach, turnips, late snap beans, or any crop that it is desired to grow during the last summer or fall months.

PLACE FOR TOMATO PLANTS

Some Protection From Southwest Winds Should Be Provided—Fertilize the Soil.

Select a semi-protected location from the southwest winds for your tomato plants for home use. Buildings, trees, a hill or corn afford good protection. Do not set the plants too close to the protecting object or they will be injured by shade. Fertilize the soil. Set the plants deep in rows five feet apart and plants two to three feet in the rows.

ALFALFA WITH NURSE CROPS

Good Stand Made at Massachusetts Station Planted With Red and a Little White Clover.

Alfalfa sowed with peas and oats as early as the ground can be worked, along with red clover, and a little white clover, made a good stand at Massachusetts station. The nurse crop was cut rather early for corn, and the legumes grew so rankly during the moist summer as to make a heavy cutting in September, with two crops the next season.

Millie, the Wallflower

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

© 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Who is the girl in the corner?" asked Mark Wynne of his young hostess.

"Oh, that is Millie Parker—pretty, isn't she? But she can't dance, or doesn't want to—they call her the 'wallflower'—they are a thoughtless bunch!" and with a charming upward lift of her shoulder the most thoughtless one of all turned with him and swung again into the music of the dance.

Doctor Wynne could not dance very well and Elsie was glad to lose him for one of her own set, a graceful, black-eyed youth who sparkled as the town wit.

"Who is that sitting with Millie Parker?" asked Elsie suddenly. "The medicine man is sitting in the shadow of the wallflower," sighed George.

"He cannot be enjoying himself," worried Elsie.

"It looks count he is having the time of his life—and say, Elsie, she looks pretty tonight in that blue dress," he added.

"Where is Alfred Brown?" asked Elsie, changing the subject.

"Sh-h-h. Whisper it—the fever!"

"No! That makes thirty cases in town."

Elsie was silent after that. The epidemic had started, as such things usually do, in an unhealthy slum near the river's edge—there had been whispers of polluted drinking water—of milk bottles washed in the river water—sanitation rules violated, and the town authorities were confronted with a grave situation.

Mark Wynne was passing through the little town from a hunting trip in the North and stopped to see his old friend, the father of Elsie Lee, so his appearance at the little party was a happy accident.

Long after he had retired that night he thought of the dread disease which was sweeping through Laneboro, and he thought of something Millie Parker had said to him that evening while her young companions fox-trotted around them.

Millie Had Come.

"We need nurses," said Millie thoughtfully.

"They can be sent from town—easily," exclaimed Mark, with a mental note to start something when he returned to the city.

"We have thirty here now—one for each case—and now we shall need more. Doctor Wynne, do you think I could help in some case—I have taken care of six people, my own, until they went—and there is no reason why I could not help save a life—I am alone except for some cousins with whom I live." She watched him expectantly.

"Have you any fear of the disease?"

"No."

"Then you might do—you could help a regular trained nurse—relieve her. I will see what I can do."

But when two days later he tried to get word to Millie Parker he learned to his dismay that she had gone to a farmhouse three miles away to nurse an old man who was very ill.

"Poor as poverty herself, and gone to nurse a man who hasn't money enough to pay for his own medicine," complained Elsie's elderly cousin.

"Cannot pay for his own medicine?" repeated the doctor. "I'll take that case myself. I came down to help out, and Miss Millie's case sounds like a desperate one."

"Desperately foolish," grumbled the timid soul as she closed the door gently behind him.

Millie did not question Mark's unexpected arrival at the plain little house on the rocky hillside. Old Peter Jenkins was very sick—he would never be any better—it was impossible to find any one to stay with him—he had no relatives, and so Millie had come.

"She's a pretty little girl," piped Peter in one of his lucid moments; "reminds me of my Susie—little and always tender and careful of old folks. Susie's sleeping out there on the hillside along with her ma and her sisters and brothers. They left me all alone, and I'm just waiting for the word to go. Seems as if it would never come," he added querulously.

Millie flitted into the room with a cup and spoon. "Just a little bit of this, Uncle Peter," she coaxed. "See, I'll take a taste myself first to keep you company." The old man smiled wanly and took the medicine. His dim eyes following the blithe young form around the room. "She's as sweet and wholesome as them wallflowers my wife planted along the stone wall," he murmured.

Millie blushed as she met the young doctor's eyes, for she knew that he had heard her nickname of Wallflower.

One day Peter had a visitor, a grave-looking man, who stayed for awhile and talked in a low tone to the sick man. The next day he came again and brought some other people with him. Doctor Wynne frowned on this, but Mr. Jenkins had his own way.

It was Millie who sat through the long night alone with the dying man; it was Millie who talked with him about Susie and the other children and the wife who had passed on before and who were all waiting for his coming on that other shore.

"And you, little Wallflower," he whispered, "what of you, all alone in the world?"

"I shall find a way," said Millie bravely, trying not to cry over his going, for he did not want to stay. "I am learning to nurse sick people. Taking care of you has helped me, and some day I shall go to a large hospital training school for nurses and—"

"No, no, you will do nothing of the sort, you shall marry Doctor Wynne. He loves you, little Wallflower, and you love him. My eyes are dim, but I could see that!" He smiled cheerfully at her, and she hid her blushing face in her white apron and received his blessing on her bent head. Mark Wynne crept away from the room and Millie did not know that he had heard those words until long afterward. Before morning dawned again Peter Jenkins' happy spirit had winged upward alone.

A few days afterward, when the house was empty of its tenant and Millie was preparing to leave, the strange lawyer came to see her.

"Peter Jenkins left a will," he said tersely. "He died a rich man. You are his sole heir."

The little Wallflower, who thought she had nursed a poor man, broke down and cried miserably. The lawyer took himself off and sent for Mark Wynne.

"You remember Mr. Jenkins' prophecy, don't you, Millie?" he asked.

"You heard?" flashed Millie.

"Yes, and it is coming true, little Wallflower, isn't it?" he whispered.

"Millie Parker married?" shrieked Elsie Smith incredulously. "That little wallflower?"

CRABS USED AS WATCHDOGS

West Indian Species Are Said to Be Remarkably Effective in Keeping Off Intruders.

How would you like a crab in the house instead of a dog, to give warning of unwelcome visitors? Land crabs are used for this purpose in the West Indies.

These particular crabs are about the size of a football, with enormous eyes and feelers. The big claw is usually well developed, being almost the same size as the body. When alarmed the crab holds this claw up in a very threatening attitude.

Crabs are naturally intelligent, and this species shows both affection and faithfulness to those with whom they are in frequent contact. Their strength and speed are amazing, and any intruder will have as much difficulty in releasing the grip of a crab as he will that of an English bulldog which has taken a firm hold.

Silent Threat.

A farmer, being short of teams, hitched a mule and an ox together to help with the hauling. When the team had gone a mile down the road the ox stopped, lay down, and refused to go further. The farmer said nothing; simply unhitched the animal, returned it to the stable, and made the mule pull the wagon the rest of the day.

That night the ox spoke to the mule confidentially. "What did the boss say today?" he asked. "Nothing that I heard," replied the mule. The next day the ox was hitched with the mule again. This time he lay down at the end of half a mile. Again the farmer calmly unhitched him, put him back in the stable, and made the mule do the hauling.

"What did the boss say this time?" asked the ox that night. "I didn't hear him say anything," replied the mule, "but he's leaning over the fence out there talking to a butcher."

Easy.

The flashy townsman was swaggering round the farmyard imparting gratuitous advice to the old farmer. Having criticized the poultry, the hayricks and the rest of the old fellow's possessions, the townsman visited the stables.

"Say, do you know how to make a slow horse fast?" he asked.

"Yes," said the farmer. "Don't feed him."

Very Strangely.

"PEACH OF A PUNCH."

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decoration Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the younger, with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward the boy was to remember his words with startling vividness. In the schoolroom, a few years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Recitations," and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominated "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a class picnic Ramsey is captured bag and baggage by Milla Rost, the class beauty, and endures the agonies of his first love. Ramsey's parents object to Milla and wish he'd taken up with Dora Yocum. Ramsey kisses Milla. Then Milla suddenly leaves town. She marries. Ramsey enters the state university and there is Dora Yocum again. Ramsey meets Dora in a World War debate and is indignantly vengeful.

hand at the paralyzed Ramsey—"you pick out a boob like that for the Chomun side, a poor fish that gets stage-fright so bad he don't know whether he's talkin' or dead; or else he fakes it; because he's a speaker so bum it looks more to me like he was faking. You git this big stiff to fake the Chomun side, and then you go and stick up a goll agalns him that's got brains and makes a pacifis' argument that wins the case agalns the Chomuns like cuttin' through hog lard! But you ain't a-gonna git away with it, mister. Lemme tell you right here and now, I may be a mix blood, but I got some Chomun in me with the rest what I got, and before you vote on this here question you gotta hear a few words from somebody that can talk! This whole war is a capitalis' war, Belgium as much as Chomun, and the United States is sellin' its soul to the capitalis' right now, I tell you, takin' sides agalns Chomun. Orders fer explosives and ammunition and guns and Red Cross supplies is comin' into this country by the millions, and the capitalis' United States is fat already on the blood of the workers of Europe! Yes, it is, and I'll have my say, you boorjaw faker, and you can hammer your ole gavel to pieces at me!"

He had begun to shriek; moisture was from the nose of the seats along the wall, where sat new members of the society, freshmen not upon the program of the evening. A loud nasal voice was heard from this quarter, a loud but nasal voice, shrill as well as nasal, and full of a strange hot passion. "Mr. Chairman!" It cried. "Look-a-here, Mr. Chairman! Mr. Chairman, I demand to be heard! You gotta gimme my say, Mr. Chairman! I'm a-gonna have my say! You look-a-here, Mr. Chairman!"

Shocked by such a breach of order, and by the unseemly violence of the speaker, not only the chairman but everyone else looked there. A short, strong figure was on its feet, gesticulating fiercely, and the head belonging to it was a large one with too much curly black hair, a fat swarthy face, shiny and not immaculately shaven; there was an impression of ill-chosen clothes, too much fat red lip, too much tooth, too much eyeball. Fred Mitchell recognized this violent interrupter as one Linski, a fellow freshman who sat next him in one of his classes. "What's that cuss up to?" Fred wondered, and so did others. Linski showed them.

He pressed forward, shoving himself through the two rows in front of him till he emerged upon the green carpet of the open space, and as he came, he was cyclonic with words.

"You don't put no such stuff as this over, I tell you!" he shouted in his hot nasal voice. "This here's a free country, and you call yourself a debating society, do you? Lemme tell you I belong to a debating society in Chicago, where I come from, and them fellas up there, they'd think they'd oughta be short for a fake like what you people are tryin' to put over, here, tonight. I come down here to git some more education, and pay fer it, too, in good hard money I've made sweatin' in a machine shop up there in Chicago; but if this is the kind of education I'm a-gonna git, I better go on back there. You call this a square debate, do you?"

He advanced toward the chairman's platform, shaking a frantic fist. "Well, if you do, you got another think comin', my capitalis' friend! You went and give out the question whether it's right for Chomun to go through Belgium; and what do you fer the Chomun side? You pick out this here big stiff—integrate. "I'll have my say!" the frenzied Linski screamed. "You try to put up this capitalis' trick and work a fake to carry over this debate agalns Chomun, but you can't work it on me, lemme tell you! I'll have my say!"

"I'll Have My Say!" the Frenzied Linski Screamed.

The outraged chairman was wholly at a loss how to deal with the "unprecedented situation"—so he defined it, quite truthfully; and he continued to pound upon the desk, while other clamors began to rival Linski's; shouts of "Put him out!" "Order!" "Shut up, Freshman!" "Turn him over to the sophomores!"

"This meeting is adjourned!" bel-lowed the chairman, and there was a thronging toward the doors, while the frothing Linski, asseverated: "I'm a-gonna git my say, I tell you! I'll have my say! I'll have my say!"

He had more than that, before the hour was over. A moment after he emerged from the building and came out, still hot, upon the cool, dark campus, he found himself the center of a group of his own classmates whom he at first mistook for sophomores, such was their manner.

As this group broke up a few minutes later, a youth running to join it, scenting somewhat of interest, detained one of those who were departing.

"What's up? What was that squeal?"

"Oh, nothing. We just talked to that Linski. Nobody else touched him, but Ramsey Milholland gave him a peach of a punch on the snout."

"Whoopie!"

Ramsey was laconic in response to inquiries upon this subject. When some one remarked: "You served him right for calling you a boob and a poor fish and so on before all the society, girls and all," Ramsey only said: "That wasn't what I hit him for."

He declined to explain further.

CHAPTER VIII.

"The way I look at it, Ramsey," Fred Mitchell said, when they reached their apartment, whither a benevolent senior, Colburn, accompanied them. "The way I look at it, this Linski kind of paid you a compliment, after all, when he called you a fake. He must have thought you anyway looked as if you could make a better speech than you did. Oh, golly!"

And as Ramsey groaned, the jovial Mitchell gave himself up to the divan and the mirth. "Oh, oh, oh, golly!" he spluttered.

"Never you mind, Brother Milholland," Colburn said gently. "The Lumen is used to nervous beginners. I've seen dozens in my time, just like you; and some of 'em got to be first rate before they quit. Besides, this crazy Linski is all that anybody'll ever remember about tonight's meeting anyhow. There never was any such outbreak as that in my time, and I guess there never was in the whole history of the society. We'll probably suspend him until he apologizes to the society."

"I'm on the board, and I'm in favor of it. Who is the bird, anyhow? He's in your class."

"I never saw him before," Ramsey responded from the deep chair, where he had moodily thrown himself; and, returning to his brooding upon his oratory, "Oh, murder!" he moaned.

"Well," said the senior, "you'll know him when you see him again. You put your mark on him where you can see it, all right!" He chuckled. "I suppose I really ought to have interfered in that, but I decided to do a little astronomical observation, about fifty feet away, for a few minutes. I'm way behind in my astronomy, anyhow. Do you know this Linski, Brother Mitchell?"

"I've talked to him a couple o' times on the campus," said Fred. "He's in one of my classes. He's about the oldest in our class, I guess—a lot older than us, anyhow. He's kind of an anarchist or something; can't talk more'n five minutes 'r time without gettin' off some bug stuff about 'capitalism.' He said the course in political economy was all 'capitalism' and the prof was bought by Wall Street."

"Poor old Prof. Craig!" Colburn laughed. "He gets fifteen hundred a year."

"Yes; I'd heard that myself, and I told Linski, and he said he had an uncle workin' in a steel mill got twice that much, but it didn't make any difference, ole Craig was bought by Wall Street. He said 'capitalism' better look out; he and the foreign-born workmen were goin' to take this country some day, and that was one of the reasons he was after an education. He talked pretty strong pro-German, too—about the war in Europe—but I sort of thought that was more because he'd be pro-anything that he thought would help upset the United States, thap because he cared much about Germany."

"Yes," said Colburn, "that's how he sounded tonight. I guess there's plenty more like him in the cities, too. That reminds me: I'd better arrange a debate on immigration for the Lumen. We'll put Brother Milholland for the negative, this time."

Ramsey started violently. "See here—"

But the senior reassured him. "Just wanted to see you jump," he explained. "Don't fear; you've done your share."

"I should think I have!" Ramsey groaned.

"Yes; you won't be called on again this term. By the way," said Colburn, thoughtfully, "that was a clever girl you had against you tonight. I don't believe in pacifism much, myself, but she used it very niftily for her argument. Isn't she from your town, this Miss Yocum?"

Fred nodded.

"Well, she's a clever young thing," said the senior, still thoughtfully. And he added: "Graceful girl, she is."

At this, the roommates looked at him with startled attention. Ramsey was so roused as to forget his troubles and sit forward in his chair.

"Yes," said the musing Colburn, "she's a mighty pretty girl."

"What?"

This exclamation was a simultaneous one; the astounded pair stared at him in blank incredulity.

"Why, don't you think so?" Colburn mildly inquired. "She seems to me very unusual looking."

"Well, yes," Fred assented, emphatically. "We're with you there!"

"Extraordinary eyes," continued Colburn. "Lovely figure, too; altogether a strikingly pretty girl. Handsome. I should say, perhaps. Yes, 'handsome' rather than 'pretty.' He looked up from a brief reverie. "You fellows know her long?"

"You bet!" said Ramsey.

"She made a splendid impression on the Lumen," Colburn went on. "I don't remember that I ever saw a first appearance there that quite equaled it. She'll probably have a brilliant career in the society, and in the university, too. She must be a very fine sort of a person." He deliberated within himself, a few moments longer, then, realizing that his hosts and brethren did not respond with any heartiness—or with anything at all—to the theme, he changed it, and asked them what they thought about the war in Europe.

They talked of the war drowsily for a while; it was an interesting but not an exciting topic; the thing they spoke of was so far away. After a few moments of fervor, the conversation languished, and Brother Colburn rose to go.

"To go over and help hang their d—d Kaiser!"

LESSON FOR APRIL 30

ISAIAH'S SUMMONS AND RESPONSE.

LESSON TEXT.—Isa. 6:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Here am I; send me.—Isa. 6:8.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.—Gen. 12:1-4; Ex. 24:1-17; Josh. 1:1-9; Jer. 1:4-10; Matt. 10:5-30.

PRIMARY TOPIC.—God Calls Isaiah to Help Him.

JUNIOR TOPIC.—A Young Man Who Was Ready.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—Our Response to the Call for Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—The Service to Which God Calls Us.

I. Isaiah's Vision of Glory (vv. 1-4).

So definite was this vision that the prophet remembered the very time of its occurrence. It meant so much to him that he could ever look back to it as a day when his ministry took on a new meaning.

1. He Saw the Lord on His Throne (v. 1). Though the death of Uzziah left Judah's throne empty it was made clear to the prophet that the throne of God was occupied. The Lord was high and lifted up, showing that He is above all kingdoms. This was a peculiar preparation of Isaiah for his work. The one who has really seen God can never be the same again; life has a fuller meaning ever afterward.

2. He Saw the Seraphims Above (vv. 2, 3). Just who these beings are we do not know. The word signifies "fiery," "burning." They were glorious beings whose business was to wait upon the Lord, to go on errands for Him. They had six wings—two for flight; two to cover their face, showing reverence; and two to cover their feet, showing humility. These three pairs show that reverence and humility are of equal value before God, with activity. The song of the seraphims shows that they saw holiness as God's supreme attribute. The thrice "holy" perhaps refers to the Trinity. The first choir sang, "Holy, holy, holy," and the second choir responded to this by saying, "The whole earth is full of His glory."

3. The Manifestation of Majesty (v. 4). "The posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke." The smoke, no doubt, signified God's wrath against man's sinfulness (see Psalms 18:8; 74:1).

II. Isaiah's Conviction of Sin (v. 6).

The vision of God brought the prophet to see himself. It is only in the light of God's holiness that we see our unholiness. When Peter got a glimpse of who Christ was he begged Him to depart from him, saying, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord" (Luke 9:33). The prophet not only realized that he was a sinner, but that the nation was a nation of sinners. What the world needs today above all things is a vision of God.

III. Isaiah's Cleansing From Sin (vv. 6, 7).

The taking of the coal from the altar shows that it was connected with sacrifice. The fire that consumed the sacrifice was holy fire. When a sinner gets a vision of God in Christ, the Holy Spirit applies the merits of Christ's shed blood and cleanses from all sin. The soul touched by the fire from the altar of God's sacrifice is freed instantly from all sin.

IV. Isaiah's Call (v. 8).

Immediately following his cleansing came the call. Men must be cleansed from sin before they shall be called to God's service. Though God has many angelic beings who willingly go on errands for Him, yet He has entrusted upon which only cleansed human beings can go. The only ones who can really declare the gospel of God's grace are those who have experienced this saving power. God is asking this same question of men and women. Isaiah readily responded to his call by dedicating himself to the task. He said, "Here am I; send me."

V. Isaiah's Commission (vv. 9-13).

1. The Sending (vv. 9, 10). He had a most discouraging task before him. He is assured that the people will hear his message, but be unmoved by it. They will even increase in blindness and deafness to the divine warnings—they will neither be converted nor healed. Such a hopeless task would only be undertaken by one who had had a vision of God.

2. The Encouragement (vv. 11-13). Facing this discouraging outlook the prophet raised the inquiry, "Lord, how long?" The Lord in His reply assured him that it would not last forever. The land would be desolate, the cities without inhabitants, and the houses without occupants; but as the oak retains its vital substance even long after it has been cut down, so from Judah shall a remnant be saved. The holy seed is the substance which shall constitute the basis of the kingdom which shall come when David's son shall be king.

The Glory of the Rainbow.

'Twas a poet and a lover of nature in her most extravagant garden moods that was responsible for this season's crop of colors. Veritable rainbows will be groups of spring and summer frocks. Mere colors like orange and green and blue enter not into this "florist's paradise." Periwinkle blue, smoked pearl, cornelian, maroon glaze, bonfire, hydrangea, geranium, pumpkin and fuchsia make up her array. Hats of these brilliant shades do much to redeem a dull-colored coat frock.

POULTRY

FEED YOUNG GUINEA CHICKS

Fowls Are Natural Rangers and Do Not Require as Much as Ordinary Chickens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Guinea chicks are fed in much the same way as chickens, but they require less feed as they are natural rangers and can be trusted to find enough seeds of weeds and grasses, bugs, insects and green vegetation in the fields to supply much of their living. For the first 36 hours after hatching no feed is required, as the sustenance from the egg is sufficient to nourish them for this period. The first meal may consist of a little hard-boiled egg mixed with bread crumbs, or bread may be soaked in milk, squeezed partly dry, and fed in small bits. Clabbered milk also is very good.

Three times a day is as often as they need to be fed, one feed consisting of clabbered milk or the bread and egg or bread and milk mixture, and the other two of chick feed. If the coop is placed in a field or pasture where green feed is available, the guinea chicks can secure this for themselves; otherwise, sprouted oats, dandelion leaves, lettuce, or onion tops cut fine should be furnished, say poultry specialists of United States Department of Agriculture. Water, grit and fine oyster shell should be before them always.

By the end of the first week the young guineas will be finding enough worms and insects to take the place of the egg or milk feed, so this may be eliminated and chick feed given morning and night. If clabbered milk is available, however, it can be continued with excellent success, since guineas are very fond of variety in their ration and it is conducive to quick growth. As the birds grow older, whole wheat, oats and cracked corn can be substituted gradually for the chick feed.

Guineas Pick Up Much of Their Food in the Shape of Bugs and Weeds.

CARING FOR BREEDING FLOCK

If Fowls Are Overrun With Lice or Mites, Fertility Will Be Seriously Affected.

The breeding flock should be watched to see that the fowls keep in condition. If they are overrun with lice or mites the fertility will be affected seriously or destroyed. Care is to be used, too, to see that the male doesn't get his comb or wattles frosted. If the rooster's comb or wattles are frozen to any extent, his ability as a breeder will be impaired, and may not be recovered for several weeks. When the weather is very cold the males intended for breeding should be placed at night in a box or crate partly covered with a bag or cloth. It is a good idea, too, to examine his majesty occasionally at night to see that his crop is full, and that he is not going thin—if he runs at large. Roosters sometimes are so glib that they allow the hens to eat all the food, with the result that they get out of condition. If this happens the rooster should be caught at least once a day and fed separately from the hens.

SPROUTED OATS IN SUMMER

Succulent Properties Do Much to Maintain Egg Production During Whole Year.

It will pay to continue the feeding of sprouted oats to the laying hens throughout most of the summer. There is only a short time in the spring when full advantage can be taken of natural green feed. It soon loses its succulent properties, however, and it will be an advantage to return to sprouted oats. It will do as much to maintain the egg production during the summer as silage does to maintain milk flow in the fall and winter.

INCREASED PROFIT ON EGGS

Where Graded Properly and Quality Maintained Higher Price Is Always Obtained.

If market eggs were graded and quality maintained on the way to market, the value would be increased at least five cents a dozen. This would put a large additional sum in the pockets of producers, while greatly increasing the reputation of shippers in the markets of the nation.

Getting Even.

Elmer Schlesinger, general counsel of the shipping board, said to a Washington correspondent the other day: "I hate to see a lawyer browbeat, bully or abuse a witness, and when that kind of a lawyer gets taken down, nobody is more pleased than I."

"One day in a shipping board case the lawyer for the other side whacked the rail with his fist and yelled at our witness."

"Why do you make such foolish answers, man?"

"The witness gave a shrug."

"Why do you ask such foolish questions?" he said.

According to statistics the U. S. Treasurer is going to show another Half Billion dollars short at the end of this fiscal year. Oh ye normalcy and economy administration, where art thou? The editor of this paper may be a damphool for the want of sense, but a blind man with only one ear could see the handwriting on the wall unless there is halt made in our government waste of expenditures.

Governor Jeff has received several petitions from various parts of Texas, requesting him to call the Legislature in Special Session for the purpose of providing funds to prolong the terms of rural schools. The state is short over a Million Dollars to run the penitentiary, and of course the penitentiary has to be kept up whether we have any schools or not.

The drill team of the Rebekah lodge went to Coleman last Thursday night to witness the degree team of Coleman put on the initiatory work. We hope to see our local lodge soon ranking among the first with a good drill team. We have the talent, all is needed is demonstrated effort on the part of those who are taking the work.

Since we cut our subscription back to the old price of One Dollar a year for the News we have been receiving quite a lot of renewal and new subscriptions, but there are several families in Santa Anna and vicinity who do not take the their home paper that we would love to have become subscribers. Confer a favor on us by telling your neighbors they can get the paper for One Dollar a year and ask them to subscribe.

Since the fine rains have come and the outlook for the future is so much more promising would it not be well for a revival of our Chamber of Commerce? It seems to us that great things are in store for Santa Anna if we could only go after them in an organized way. At least we could eliminate some of the selfishness that seems to abound in us, and indifference towards our neighbors. Step lively, be friendly and sociable and see how quick the community takes on new life.

Mr. J. Frank Turner, Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school has been collecting data from the several Sunday schools in this city and furnishing the same to us for publication. The last few weeks, and we note a growing interest in attendance in all the schools. There are at least two thousand people in Santa Anna and vicinity who could attend Sunday school every Sunday morning and we believe it would well pay any one for their efforts if they would get up and attend. Try going to some of the Bible schools next Sunday and see if it is not worth your time.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

Reputable people everywhere, especially in our cities, are at a loss to know how to reduce the crime wave that is engulfing this country.

The sea of perplexity in which we find ourselves reminds us of the woman who had a baby tiger for a pet. It was little, and cute, and harmless in its infancy. But in time it grew strong, and one day it decided that its mistress would make a good meal and she did.

When crime was at a low ebb we looked upon it as a matter of course, and neglected the precautionary measures necessary to prevent its spread.

Right under our noses it has grown to enormous proportions, and now we are apparently helpless in its grasp.

The tiger is no more dangerous than the criminal with his gun. Both should be rendered harmless before they get beyond control.

Live merchants advertise because they want the people to know of the goods they have to sell, especially when more than ordinary values are offered.

People read the ads because they want to know where they can buy to best advantage, and this can only be determined by knowing what the merchants have to offer.

The local paper is the medium between seller and buyer.

The one should use it, and the other should read it.

Funny, isn't it? Yet it doesn't seem to raise a laugh.

Political factions will accuse each other of every conceivable crime during an election, and then forget all about it after the votes are counted. They will even take a long swig from the same bottle.

If they were convicted of one-tenth of the crimes charged against them there wouldn't be jails enough in the country to hold them.

But it seems to be the way of human nature.

And most of us are human.

When a movement is undertaken for the benefit of this town every citizen has a right to his own opinion, and there can be no valid objection to according him such right.

The opposition, however, should come out in the open and make their objections known, in order that weak points may be given due consideration. It is only by such means that objectionable features can be corrected or eliminated.

The man who opposes in secret and works under cover does more harm than good, both to himself and to the community.

A noted preacher says our American women are so bad they will cause the destruction of this country within fifty years.

We thank the reverend gentleman for postponing our existence for fifty years. Our eyes are still good and we can take in a lot of sights in that length of time.

It may be true, as he says, that the women of today are bad—at least some of them are. But realizing the enormity of our own masculine sins, we are not throwing any stones at the fair sex—not even the flappers.

After all, fifty years is a long time to wait for the blow-up, or kick-off, or whatever way we are to be snuffed out.

They may be bad—we don't know—but we like 'em all, even in their badness.

We'll continue to take 'em as they come, and crowd in as many of those fifty years as we can.

Three hearties for the women!

Who cares to listen to a sky-pilot who likes to hear his head rattle, anyway.

LOOK FACTS IN THE FACE

When a merchant sells an article he makes a certain profit over and above the wholesale cost of the goods, the transportation, and the cost of handling. This rule applies the world over.

Suppose the people of this community have $500,000 to spend within a given length of time.

It is better to keep the profits at home and in circulation among us, or is it wiser to send it all away?

For purposes of illustration, we will say the dealer's profit is 15 per cent, or $75,000.

If the people send away for this $500,000 worth of goods all the money they send away will stay away. We will never see it again.

If, on the other hand, the people buy those goods from local dealers, the money to be sent away will be the wholesale cost of the goods and the transportation charge.

The 15 per cent profit will remain at home, as well as the overhead expenses, such as clerical hire, insurance, heat, light, and various other items.

Keeping that money at home does 2 important things. It increases the money in circulation at home, and it gives employment to local people.

People who are in the habit of patronizing their home merchants invariably have a better and more prosperous community than those who have the catalogue habit.

These are facts worth looking in the face.

The planters have been running at full time in Coleman county here of late, and several fields are showing the results of the warm days and fine rains. The forest is green but the substance is very young and tender, thus, range stock are still showing the results of the long drouth and short grazing, but not long and the appearance will change and all live plants will look much different. West Texas can change her coat and make things hum quicker than any place in the world. April has brought a mighty change in Coleman county.

People generally do unto you as you do unto them. Quit knocking.

Look at the people around you and size them up according to their deeds. How many of them have a ghost of a chance of getting to heaven unless they make a radical change in their mode of living? Very few, you think. Now look in a mirror and study the one you see. What better chance has he?

Dollars for fiction, but not a cent for truth! That is the mental attitude of some people. They spend their time and their money in devouring blood and thunder novels, but never read a line in the Bible. Judges and jailers can tell you a lot about some of these birds.

WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

To All Officers, Unit Directors, Secretaries, et al:

Gentlemen:

Mr. E. E. Lowrie, President of the Traveling Men's Club, an auxiliary of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has sent us the following communication which we would greatly appreciate your reading. Please take this matter up with your County Judge and County Commissioners and get your roads marked. Remember the law of Texas specifically provides for this.

Santa Anna, Texas, April 11, 1922.
 Hon. Clifford B. Jones, Pres.,
 West Texas Chamber of Commerce.
 Dear Mr. President:

I desire to call your attention to the following Road Law in Texas, viz: FROM REVISED CIVIL STATUTES.

Art. 6937—It shall be the duty of all overseers of roads to measure such parts of roads as are in their respective precincts in continuation, and set up posts of good lasting timber or stone at the end of each mile leading from the Court house or some other noted place, and to mark on each post in legible and enduring figures the distance in miles to said court house or other noted place.

Art. 6938—It shall also be the duty of overseers to place conspicuously and permanently at the forks of all public roads in their respective precincts, and at all roads crossing or leading away from such public roads, index boards, with directions plainly marked thereon, stating the most noted place to which each of said roads lead, and at county lines giving the names of the counties; and the commissioners courts of the state are to furnish the funds necessary to provide such index boards.

Any overseer refusing or failing to comply with the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum of not less than ten ($10.00) dollars, nor more than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars.

You will observe that it is mandatory for the County Commissioners to work your roads. I suggest that every Chamber of Commerce or Unit organization in West Texas get busy on this. Let's get the roads marked. The Traveling Men and all others will appreciate it.

Respectfully,
 THE TRAVELING MEN'S CLUB,
 E. E. Lowrie,
 President.

PAYING THE PRICE

On Friday, April 14, George Hornsby gave up his life on the gallows at Bonham as penalty for a capital crime.

The law of God and the law of man says, "Thou shalt not kill," and violation of that law demands the execution of the penalty. The hanging of Hornsby does not return to life the man whom he foully murdered, does not assuage the grief of the murdered man's family, and not in any other sense undo the harm that has been done. But the penalty must be paid.

George Hornsby did not only pay the penalty for a specific crime, however, but paid the cost of a life that has been mispent.

Evidence brought out in this trial indicated that his vout and direction; that the influences thrown about him during the years when his character was being formed were of his own choosing, and none of the best; that instead of having a definite purpose in life, a definite goal toward which to strive, he drifted along aimlessly and from bad to worse. His life story is a duplication of the life stories of a vast number of other men who have died on the gallows, men who had wasted good years frivolously, and finally became so depraved that neither the law of God nor the law of man was given their respect.

In a surprisingly short space of time a life of this kind comes to its full fruition. A majority of the desperate criminals of the present day, throughout the country are young men—like Hornsby—less than thirty years of age.

The cure for crime is not accomplished merely by the infliction of the penalty. Before crime shall be stamped out, the conditions which cause crime must be removed, and they can be removed on the gallows. Millions of dollars and unlimited time is being spent in the cause of disease being prevented, although the treatment and curing of disease is continued, in order that disease may be made less formidable. And so it must be in the handling of crime. Causes which contribute to the making of criminals must be sought out and removed which, punishment of criminals is continued. Boys who are left to their own devices, deprived of parental care and direction, and permitted to form bad associations and run with remarkable ease; into crime as boys are permitted to run the risk of becoming criminals many of them will follow the path trodden by George Hornsby. Had he been blessed with good parents, given a chance to form good associations and had proper direction of his ambition and plans when a boy, he might today occupy a place of great usefulness in some community of the country instead of a criminal's grave.

General Pershing says the army needs second lieutenants. Well, as the man remarked when he saw a woman kissing a dog, there is no accounting for taste.

University of Texas News Service

Austin, Texas.—W. R. Long, auditor of the University of Texas, has just given out the annual financial report of the University for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1921. The report has been sent to Washington, D. C., and will be published in the next bulletin printed by the Department of the Interior. Mr. Long's report contains a complete list of the funds received by the University from all sources for its maintenance during the last fiscal year, as well as valuation of property, scholarships and fees of the University as they stood at the end of August, 1921.

The total receipts amounted to $2,285,891.09, of which there were the following items: The sum of $122,233.98 from students fees, tuition, and laboratory charges, $106,746.08 of it being the receipts of the Main University at Austin, $11,233.98 the receipts of the Medical College at Galveston, and $4,233.53 the receipts of the college of Mines and Metallurgy at El Paso.

The Main University Annexes at the Main University amounted to $15,614.65, while the board for these buildings and the cafeteria combined amounted to $99,116.75.

A private endowment fund of $1,697.96 was the income from the Littlefield fund for Southern History. State and Federal endowment funds came from three sources as follows: $274,786.61 from University lands; $2,933.36 from rentals, and $32,592.87 from interest on bonds, amounting to $310,312.84.

Appropriation of the Legislature for the current expenses of the University was divided into three parts: $1,181,114 state revenue for the Main University; $136,316 state revenue for the Medical College and $38,193 state revenue for the College of Mines and Metallurgy, amounting to a grand total of $1,356,623.

Other sums for the University came from such sources as the United States Government, a subsidy for vocational teaching, $7,687.22; private benefactions, $100,000, gift of the late Major George W. Littlefield, and a final sum of $267,624.69 miscellaneous, with the federal government.

Valuations of the University property and scholarships were classified as follows: The library, scientific apparatus, machinery and furniture valued at $1,640,734.32; grounds at $1,298,333.12 and the buildings, including the dormitories, at $2,494,140.04. The dormitories alone had a valuation of $242,600; the endowment funds, including the lands in west Texas, amounted to $10,823,028.66 and the aggregate payments for fellowships and scholarships for the year were $9,457.22.

U. S. BOYS WHO SERVED WITH ALLIES GET PREFERENCE

Washington, D. C., April 26, 1922.—Under a ruling of the United States Civil Service Commission today, citizens of the United States who served in the forces of the Allies during the World War will be given preference in appointments to civil service positions.

Heretofore, the preference has extended only to those who served in the American forces, to their widows, and to their wives under certain conditions.

In authorizing this extension of the preference, the Civil Service Commission states that consideration is given to the fact that service in the forces of all the Allies was in a common cause, and for a considerable time under a common commander-in-chief; that is, after March 29, 1918, when Marshal Foch was placed in command of all the allied forces.

We have equal suffrage now, but there are still a lot of women who had rather get their names in the society column than be elected to office.

BAPTISTS RAISE $30,000,000 CASH

ALL GENERAL WORK STRENGTHENED BY 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN. IT IS SHOWN.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Sums That Have Been Appropriated To Various Objects Set Forth By Headquarters Office At Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. E. Gill, Baptist Representative in Europe, on Left, and P. V. Pavloff of All Russian Baptist Union.

From the beginning of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign to January, 1922, a total of $30,356,319.41 had been paid in to objects fostered by the Campaign. It is announced by the general headquarters office at Nashville. Of this amount $28,799,971.16 came in through the payment of regular Campaign subscriptions and the remaining $1,556,348.25 in special contributions.

Regular receipts from the various states follow: Ala., $1,201,184.76; Ark., $714,683.09; D. of C., $123,280.01; Fla., $469,753.53; Ga., $3,000,174.10; Ill., $298,576.13; Ky., $3,187,656.15; La., $307,391.13; Md., $393,517.46; Miss., $1,243,846.50; Mo., $1,190,754.70; N. M., $145,929.97; N. C., $2,211,741.50; Okla., $840,562.65; S. C., $2,633,840.53; Tenn., $1,797,483.10; Tex., $5,162,658.85; Va., $8,279,085. More than 250,000 baptisms were reported by Southern Baptist churches last year.

How Money Was Distributed
Seven general objects of the denomination were embraced in the Campaign program, and from the regular Campaign contributions those objects have received the following amounts, according to a compilation by the headquarters office: Foreign missions, $5,434,012.53; home missions, $3,562,600.87; state missions in the seventeen states and local work in the District of Columbia, $4,954,813.26; Christian education, $7,192,442.79; Baptist hospitals, $2,004,099.16; orphanages, $2,103,787.33; and Relief and Annuity Board, which ministers to aged dependent ministers and their families, $799,126.99.

What Money Has Done
These funds represent an advance, ranging from 200 to 300 per cent, in the contributions of Southern Baptists to their general missionary, educational and benevolent work, prior to the inauguration of the Campaign, and have enabled the boards and other agencies to greatly extend their services in all departments. In addition to sending out more than 180 new missionaries since the Campaign began, and providing many church buildings, mission residences, schools, theological seminaries, publishing houses, hospitals and the like on the older fields the Foreign Mission Board has been enabled to open work in the new fields of Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania and Southern Russia in Europe, and Palestine, Syria and Siberia in Asia, and Dr. Everett Gill, for many years a missionary in Italy, but more recently a pastor in Kansas City, has been named special European representative to supervise the greatly expanded work on that continent. Dr. Gill is giving much of his time to distributing Baptist relief funds in Russia and otherwise looking after the interests of the denomination there.

Home Work Enlarged
Among the outstanding accomplishments of the Home Mission Board are the aiding of more than 1,000 churches with loans and gifts for church buildings, completion of the big tuberculosis sanatorium at El Paso, enlargement of the work in Cuba and the Canal Zone, strengthening of the 37 mountain mission schools and the development of all eleven departments of the work of the Board. In all seventeen states of the Southern Baptist Convention the state mission work has been greatly extended, the number of Baptist hospitals in the South has been increased from eleven to twenty-three, all of the older eighteen Baptist orphanages have been aided in material ways and two new ones have been established, while the number of aged dependent ministers and their families has been doubled and the amount of aid given them increased 100 per cent.

Collections Are Pushed
While the collections so far represent a big gain over the contributions of Southern Baptists to their work before the Campaign, the sum collected is not all that is due and in all the South an effort is being made to collect as much more as possible by the close of the Convention year, May 1, that some of the work may suffer.

SIZING THINGS UP

In sizing things up, especially those having a bearing upon local conditions, it is well to remember that there is more than one angle from which a question should be viewed.

Many people err in judgement purely haste and over zealousness.

Impressions are often formed at first glance, and unless a person is willing to probe beneath the surface and consider all available facts those first impressions will remain and become fixed convictions, irrespective of whether they be right or wrong.

Then there are those who, having formed a hasty conclusion, refuse to recede from their position even when confronted with indisputable proof of their error of judgement. That is pure stubbornness.

But in this town, as in all other towns, there are many people who are quick to form impressions, but are willing to, and do, analyze the arguments of the opposition. Often their views are completely changed as a result of the additional information they thus acquire.

Sizing up local conditions is an admirable habit, but induce haste in forming conclusions is regrettable.

Best results are obtained by taking a calm survey of the situation from every conceivable viewpoint before taking a definite stand.

Communities prosper and grow when their citizens adopt this plan.

It is the better one for this town.

Great For "Flu" and "Grip" Coughs
"I had an awful cold that left me with a dreadful cough," says Mrs. M. E. Smith, Benton, La. "Bought Foley's Honey and Tar of our druggist and it cured me completely." This grand remedy should be in every household at this time, when influenza, grip, coughs and colds are so prevalent.—C. K. Hunter, Druggist.

ON GETTING MARRIED

A pastor in one of the cities of the country who is being sued by his wife for divorce is quoted as making the statement to his congregation that "it takes a man of nerve and a woman who is brave to face the marriage ceremony today."

If this is true, why the "today?" What difference is there in the marriage ceremony of today from that of yesterday?

It takes more than "nerve" and "bravery" to enter into the marriage ceremony. It takes judgement and it takes honesty and sincerity. It requires the square deal between the two parties to the marriage contract. It means consideration for the other party.

No man or woman should enter into the marriage ceremony who does not know how to compromise on the non-essentials. Any man or woman who marries with the expectation of having it all his or her own way is headed straight for the divorce court.

And this great fact might be taken under consideration by the minister in question as well as by all others. When a marriage ends in failure it is not wedlock that is at fault but the parties who enter into it.

More people would be demanding the bonus if they did not fear they would have to help pay it.

It is harder to be truthful about yourself than about others. If you don't believe it, try it.

STOP THAT ITCHING

If you suffer from any form of skin disease such as Itch, Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Crackhands, sore Feet, Dandruff, Falling Hair, Old Sores, or Sores on children, or any other skin disease we will sell you a jar of Blue Star Remedy on a guarantee that if not satisfied we will refund your money.—C. K. Hunter, druggist. 6-31t.

THE BONUS PLAN

Suppose congress does carry out its announced intention of giving to each ex-service man a certificate of credit instead of a lump sum in cash, what will be the result?

Hundreds of thousands of young men will take their certificates to the banks or pawn shops and borrow as much as possible on them, and will fail to meet the loans when they fall due. The banks or pawn shop men will either keep the certificates until maturity, or sell them to those who will.

The certificates, in other words, will find their way into the strong boxes of the wealthy while those from whom they were issued parted with them for half their value or less.

The certificates will eventually be paid, not to the men who fought for the country, but to a few wealthy speculators.

The more one thinks about this particular bonus plan, the less satisfactory does it appear.

It is said that President Harding has 50 pairs of trousers. But we'll bet a hat that he hasn't enough suspenders to go around.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK

May 1 to 6 has been designated as General Improvement week throughout the country, and our local postal employees are making preparations to correct all errors and overcome all difficulties in the distribution of the mail from the Santa Anna Post Office.

A demonstration will be given in the public school this week, instructing school children how to properly address letters and parcels, where to place the return, etc.

A coupon will be placed in each box of the post office Monday morning, and the name of every person receiving mail by that box should be written or printed on the coupon and returned to the post office. If the patrons of the post office and rural routes will cooperate with the employees a perfect distribution of the mail can be brought about, which cannot be accomplished otherwise.

If you have visitors it will be good policy for you to notify the Post Master in order that your visitors may receive their mail without delay. Should you make a change in your address, you should at once notify the Post Master for they are no mind reader.

This town is fortunate in having a clean and courteous set of employees to handle and dispatch their mail, and they will appreciate your cooperation in the improvement of the service.

San Angelo, April 24.—Making a statement Saturday protesting his innocence of any misconduct, J. H. Armstrong announced that he was a candidate for re-election to the office of County Superintendent. A special election to fill the vacancy will likely be called Monday to be held within the next thirty days, it was announced by J. T. Mathison, county judge.

Novel Frocks for Matrons; Spring Hats for Girls

IT IS time for the matron to choose her afternoon frocks for summer, and she faces this fact with a light heart. Years of experience have taught her that in afternoon dress she shines at her best—and there is no end of beautiful things to choose from. It is spring and the desire comes for lovely colors and sheer fabrics, made up with a cleverness or an elaboration that belongs to the summer time of life.

Many such handsome models as

that one pictured here await the sure demand for conservative and dignified frocks that embody some of the season's novel style points. This one will please the women who find the low waist line, or the chemise dress, unbecoming—and no style is good style when it does not become its wearer. So it pins its faith to the normal waist line, but takes advantage of fashion's last word in other respects with four long panels of georgette, longer than the skirt of crepe de chine, which they veil. Each panel is decorated with moire ribbon, arranged in pencil, or cartridge belt plaits, set in groups of three at intervals, and threaded through slashes in the braids with chiffon, like that pictured here with round shirred crown and brim bound with braid. The upper brim is covered with two fluffy ruffles of chiffon and millinery braid makes the side crown. A sash of velvet ribbon and a spray of small blossoms at the left side of the brim complete the fascinations of this little-girlish hat. In the same style is the bonnet of taffeta and millinery braid with daisies and verbenas set in little clusters on the velvet ribbon sash, ending in a bow at the left. A little copy of a grown-up, off-the-face style is made of braid and finished with a small silk cord and tassels to please the little maid.

PRETTY HATS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

georgette. The bodice of crepe de chine is bloused over the girle of georgette, and has the ribbon decoration at the front. Very becoming long sleeves of georgette offer another enticing background for the same decoration, and it reaches its climax in a large rosette that finishes the girle.

In those fascinating millinery gardens, where lovely things for grown-ups have always blossomed out in spring, little ladies this season find that their headwear, too, has been much considered. They are delighted with the millinery show, and even that

For girls in their later teens hats make another story and not a brief one. A wide-brimmed model, trimmed with a rope of chenille about the crown and loops of it hanging over the brim edge, across the side and back, is quite certain to please. Each hanging loop of chenille supports a shiny crescent-shaped ornament.

HAD HEARD ABOUT IT

"Well! well!" exclaimed the facetious stranger. "So that is Chiggersville?"

"That's right," said Lem Botts, proprietor of the village grocery store. "I guess you've heard about this place before."

"Sure! A man mentioned it on the train."

"One of our citizens?"

"No, the brakeman. He bawled: 'Chiggersville!' just before we got here."

Hence the Wistful Look.

"Who is the old gentleman with such a wistful look on his face who is bidding farewell to that husky young fellow?"

"That's a college professor taking leave of a football star who sat in his class room for four years and imbibed little Latin and less Greek. The young man is going away to accept a position as a coach at $12,000 a year, while the professor will stay on the job for $3,000."

On Duty.

"Some of those street beggars are pathetic looking objects."

"Not more pathetic looking than the men who hang about the entrances to auditoriums and wait to escort their wives home from highbrow lectures. The way those unfortunates pace the sidewalks, stare at electric signs, read last week's lithographs on the billboards and chew meditative cigars would melt a heart of stone."

An Unwritten Chapter.

"I see where a champion pugilist buys expensive motorcars and maintains a large retinue, but there's one episode in his life I'm still waiting to read about," said the cynical person.

"And what is that?"

"An account of how he bestowed a nice new tiled restaurant on the 'hot dog' vender who fed him when he was hungry."

The work on the Eastland county's $5,000,000 highway system, although delayed to some extent by the recent rains over that section, is moving steadily forward. There are at present about 800 men working, and the grading and concrete work is about 80 per cent completed, while it is estimated that the rock work of all characters is about 50 per cent completed.

Contracts for thirteen miles of asphalt paving to cost $34,000 have been awarded by the Harris County commissioners court. The roads to be improved are: Yale street road, .85 mile; Washington county road, 2.52 miles; Humble road, 5 miles; Crosby road, 2 miles; La Porte road, 2.7 miles.

Austin, Tex.—The attorney general's department has approved a bond issue for $150,000 of Laredo street paving bonds. These bonds will mature serially and bear interest at 5 per cent.

Condensed Austin News

Approximately $700,000 was received at the office of the United States Internal Revenue collector this week, most of which was income tax.

The Attorney General approved $150,000 of Laredo city improvement bonds, 10-40s, 5c. The bonds were brought here by W. M. Brennan, Mayor pro tem and chairman of the paving committee.

Judge James A. King, former State Tax Commissioner, has been retained by the Texas railroads as a resident special tax counsel to represent them before the courts and State departments in matters involving the taxation of carriers.

S. M. N. Marrs, First Assistant State Superintendent, filed his formal application with Frank C. Davis, San Antonio, to have his name placed on the Democratic ticket in the July primary as a candidate for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

An additional $100,000 in cash was received at the State Treasury from the Brown-Crummer Company of Wichita, Kan., on the loan of $750,000 to the State Prison System. This makes a total of $450,000 in cash which has been advanced and $300,000 in securities.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals this week overruled the second motion for rehearing in the case of Findlay vs. State of Texas, from Travis. The State recovers 55,000 acres of land alleged to have been excess and vacant in the grant of $,000,000 to the Capital Syndicate for erecting the granite capitol of Texas.

It was announced by the Adjutant General's Department that five new companies of the Texas National Guard have been fully recruited and ready for Federal recognition. These are the companies: Company E, 141st Infantry, San Angelo; Company H, 141st Infantry, San Saba; Company M, 141st Infantry, Beeville; Company E, 144th Infantry, Arlington; and Company F, 143d Infantry, Huntsville.

The Federal State Fire Underwriters of Dallas, a reciprocal concern, has been granted license by the Department of Insurance and Banking. A. L. Houston is attorney in fact. The application for license shows spot business to be $539,200 and future business $29,848.

The Attorney General's Department has approved the following bond issues: Chillicothe independent school district, $60,000, maturing serially and bearing 6 per cent interest; Lella Independent school district, $12,500, maturing in forty years, with ten-year option, 6 per cent interest.

The University Land Purchasing Commission is expected to resume July 1 its work of closing out purchases to the remaining half of the 134-acre addition to the University campus. About $650,000 has already been expended by the Land Purchasing Commission in the purchase and approximately an equal amount remains to be expended for additional purchases.

The board of directors of the Scottish Rite Educational Association, in session here, discussed equipment and supplies for the dormitory which the association is constructing at the University of Texas.

The State Fire Insurance Commission has awarded credits to three additional towns, effective until March 1, 1923, the maximum of 15 per cent off the final rate being given Kerns, Streetman and Santa Anna.

Smart Boy!

Johnny was putting some questions to his father on the subject of astronomy, in the course of which he asked if the moon was inhabited.

"Oh, yes," said the parent (knowing nothing about the matter); "there are people living in the moon."

"Are there many?" queried the youngster.

"Yes, lots," was the reply; "far more than in this world."

"Mustn't they be crowded when it's a new moon?" said Johnny.

THOROLD, THE GIPSY

I walk hand in hand with the seasons through the world. Winter, your enemy, is my friend and companion. Gladly do I see him come, with his white mantle, through the bare woods and over the brown hills. I watch the budding forth of spring, too, and her light and changing skies, as I would the sports of a beloved child. I hail the majestic summer, as if the God of my own land had come to visit our race even here; and in the yellow autumn, too, with the rich fruit and the fading light, I have a comrade full of calmer thoughts. The sunrise and the sunset and the midday, to me, are all eloquence. The storm, the stream, the clouds, the wind for me each have a voice. I talk with the bright stars as they wander through the deep sky, and I listen to the sun and moon, as they sing along their lovely pilgrimage. Is not this enough?—G. P. R. James, in "The Gipsy."

TO PREVENT SHIP'S ROLLING

Gyro-Stabilizer, It Is Believed, Will Do Away With All Danger of Seasickness.

Philadelphia. — A large gyro-stabilizer, designed to eliminate seasickness by preventing the rolling of ships, is to be tested at the plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Similar devices have been used on yachts and small ships, but the stabilizer at the Westinghouse plant, which weighs 120 tons, is designed for use in the largest ocean-going vessels.

The stabilizer, which will be installed in the shipping board steamer Hawkeye state, operates on the principle of the common toy gyroscope. The theory of its operation is that when the ship rolls, the gyro-stabilizer exerts force in the opposite direction, equalizing the motion.

The wheel of the stabilizer, which furnishes the power equalizing the roll of the ship, has a revolution of 800 turns a minute, and the force is such that it is said to spin for eighteen hours after the power is shut off.

It is said the stabilizer also can be used to roll a ship, thus being effective in moving stranded vessels from shoals. The action is controlled by small gyroscopes along the sides of the vessel. These register the direction of the roll and automatically start the large stabilizer wheel revolving in the direction necessary to counteract the motion of the ship.

CHURCH BONDED WAREHOUSE

Somewhat Peculiar Reason for Its Being So Designated, and the Congregation Is Happy.

Gloucester, Mass.—The Portuguese church of Our Lady of the Good Voyage has been designated as a bonded warehouse of the United States, and every member of the congregation is happy.

The action was taken in order that a new set of bells imported from England might be stored in the church rather than in the federal customhouse, pending decision as to whether duty of from 35 to 40 per cent shall be levied on them.

Members of the congregation have been working for years to obtain the carillon. When $15,000 was finally raised the bells were ordered in Loughboro, England, and were received here some time ago. Customs officials, however, decided that they were dutiable, whereupon the congregation was in a dilemma as to where to find the extra money. It was discovered, however, that a private individual or corporation may be designated as a bonded warehouse of the United States and this law was invoked on behalf of the bells. Customs officials agreed to such a procedure the congregation gave a bond of $15,000 and the bells were brought to Gloucester, where they will be hung when a tower is constructed.

Meanwhile the house of representatives has passed a motion to remit the duty.

RISES IN DEFENSE OF FLIRT

According to English Author, Fickleness Is Simply Natural Desire to Be Liked by All.

"I like being adored," she said, "even though I dislike the person who adores me."

"You can express that more simply by saying, 'I'm a flirt,'" said Philip.

"But it's such an ugly word. Besides, everyone likes being adored; everyone is a flirt in that sense. It's only the people who never are adored who call it flirting. They would like to be adored, but as they can't, they call the rest of us rude names. But it's no use going about trying to be adored because nobody has the least idea as to how to set about it. It's not the least use being kind and honest and amiable, for that only makes you mildly popular, while the most disagreeable people get worshipped. And it isn't any good being beautiful. I dare say beauty hurries people up, because there is obviously something rather attractive about it, but it's not a bit of good by itself. Perhaps brains have got something to do with it, or is there a sixth sense which directs it all?"—From "Lovers and Friends," by E. F. Benson.

Caller's Comment on Matter of Time Somewhat Embarrassing to All Parties Concerned.

We had been spending the evening with acquaintances with whom we had but little in common. In consequence, the time seemed to drag interminably, and when my wife asked me the time I glanced thankfully at my watch.

The hands indicated 9:30. I looked again, shook it and held it up to my ear.

"Funny," I muttered, "the darn thing seems to have stopped. According to this it's only 9:30."

The hostess laughed a little as she referred to her watch. "That's exactly the time I have, too, and that's the time the clock over there on the piano says. I guess, maybe," she didn't finish, but merely laughed.

Since then when she asks the time, I tell it without any comment. It's less embarrassing.—Baltimore American.

NOTED PRELATES IN LONDON

Leo XIII and Pius XI Said to Have Been Familiar With the British Metropolis.

The new pope, Pius XI, visited London as well as Oxford in early life, in the latter place especially the great Bodleian library naturally attracting such a great scholar. He was himself librarian of the great Vatican library, and known everywhere as a booklover.

It was said that the late Pope Leo XIII knew his way about London better than a great many natives, as he had spent much time there before being raised to the papacy, exploring the slum and other problems in the metropolis.

Pope Leo XIII was the only one of that exalted rank who ever sat in the British house of commons and in the distinguished strangers' gallery at that. He also is said to have enjoyed the hospitality of Lord Palmerston under that distinguished statesman's own roof. That was, of course, before his exaltation to the papacy.

Mr. Jenkins Took a Cracked Club To Tame Lions

The exhibition ended rather badly. It very nearly was a big day for the lions and a sad day for Mr. Jenkins—all for want of proper care in getting ready.

Many a man who has business to do and a living to make and a job to fill is as careless how he feeds his body as Mr. Jenkins was in picking out a club.

Some foods are too heavy, some are too starchy, many lack necessary elements and so starve the body—and many load the system down with fermentation and auto-intoxication.

Grape-Nuts helps build health and strength. It contains the full richness of wheat and malted barley, including the vital mineral elements, without which the body cannot be fully sustained. Grape-

Nuts digests quickly and wholesomely. Served with cream or good milk, it is a complete food—crisp and delicious.

Grape-Nuts is just the food for those who care to meet life's situations well prepared in health. Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today. Try it with cream or milk for breakfast or lunch, or made into a delightful pudding for dinner.

CAUGHT IN THE ROUND-UP

When you know of something that has happened in the community that would be of local interest to the public and you do not see it in the paper, perhaps it is because you did not tell the editor. We want all the news that is news and if you know something—be it up, the people can't read on your stomach.

Miss Elizabeth Walters spent last week with Brownwood friends and accompanied the Glee Club of the Howard Payne College over the country where they put on several musical concerts.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Taylor returned last Friday night from Wichita Kan., where they went to attend the bedside of their son who was critically ill, suffering with an attack of meningitis, glad to say they left their son improved and on the road to recovery. Mr. Taylor reports the grain crops fine through the northern part of Texas, part of Oklahoma and Kansas.

The local churches and Sunday schools in the town are taking on new interest and showing signs of progress. Some of the local lodges are busy and some are sitting still. We would like to see the whole community wake up and get busy. What account is life lived when spent in a selfish way? There is pleasure in living to serve, why not wake up and serve the community?

W. W. Childers attended the Roger Q. Mills Highway Association meeting at Waco first of the week and reports a very interesting meeting. Judge L. G. Mathews of Coleman was also in attendance.

A fine baby boy took up board at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cheaney Wednesday.

A woman shot and killed her husband near Bronte last Sunday morning, while he was trying to enter the storm cellar where his wife and children had resorted to Saturday night, seeking safety from him while he was intoxicated. The wife will not be prosecuted, it is said.

Edna Oakes and Jasper McClellan attended the District Convention of the Brownwood District of the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church at San Angelo last Friday to Sunday, an account of which will be found elsewhere in the News. They report a fine meeting and a good time.

T. C. Watson was among those to call since our last issue and renew his subscription to the News, and also the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News.

Carl Williams of Rockwood called in Saturday and renewed his subscription to the News.

W. Davis and family of Falls county passed through these parts this week enroute to New Mexico. Mr. Davis is a brother-in-law to Mr. Traylor who lives near Santa Anna.

Banhardt Rothermel was carried to Coleman Monday, where he was placed in the hands of County authorities. It is charged that Banhardt is mentally unbalanced, but we hope it will prove only temporary with him.

Prof. Parrish is teaching a night class in vocal music at Live Oak this week and next.

Mrs. C. F. Shield of Trickham sends us a check for $1.00 and ask that her figures be marked up another year on our mailing list. This editor remembers meeting Mrs. Shield while at Trickham recently attending the Coleman county singing convention.

Mrs. L. S. Howard of Roscoe is here this week visiting her brother, R. P. Crum who is on the sick list. We hope to see him out again soon.

The firm of Simmons & Greer closed their doors last week and made a voluntary assignment in bankruptcy. We hope there can be some way provided whereby this store can be reopened and continue to do business.

Clyde Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sims, left Tuesday evening for Houston.

H. H. Brown of the Liberty community was among the callers at this office Wednesday.

Several of our local citizens found some real sport Wednesday at the City Lake. The lake was filled to overflowing and some fine Bass were making their way through the spillway, and several good ones were caught. The editor stayed in, because we know if we made our advent at the lake the Bass and all other fish would turn the other way.

D. R. Risinger returned from Lampasas last week where he was called several days back to attend the funeral of one of his brothers.

The citizens of Ballinger voted more than two to one last week in favor of a bond issue for street improvement and a water works system.

We have several subscribers living outside of Coleman county, some of them in other states, who are delinquent on our books and we are going to revise our list during the coming month and all who are delinquent will be dropped from the list. Several are being sent to friends and relatives by local citizens and others are paying for the paper themselves, but we have no way of knowing except as they come in and tell us, so if you are having the paper sent to a relative or friend and want it continued, please call and pay for same. Others living out of the county who are taking the paper if you want it to continue you will please send in your renewal subscription with in the very near future, for after May no paper will be mailed out off Coleman county that are not paid for.

Parent-Teachers Association meets Friday, May 5, with our teachers. Officers to be elected. All members are expected to be present.

CROSS ROADS NEWS

The rain which fell here Monday was a splendid one.

Little Frank Bowden fell from a work bench one day last week and received several bruises.

Mrs. Theo. Spencer spent one day last week with Mrs. Clarence Spencer.

Miss Georgie Williams spent the past week with Miss Ula Jones of Brooksmith.

Mrs. Walter Tucker spent several days last week with Mrs. J. E. Wagner.

Miss Floy Williams visited in Trickham Monday.

Opal Battles is spending a few days with Mrs. Theo. Spencer this week.

Mrs. Williams visited Mrs. Charlie Bowden Sunday.

Mrs. Clark who has been sick the past three weeks was carried to the local hospital this week for treatment. Roland Williams and Henry Spencer attended church Saturday night at Live Oak.

Miss Celeste Cupps spent Saturday night with Mrs. Spencer.

FLOOD LOSS IN TEXAS HEAVY

The biggest rains in several years have fallen in Texas this week. Nine inches of water is reported to have fallen in Fort Worth and vicinity Tuesday, several lives were lost and many families rendered homeless.

The levee at Lake Worth across the Trinity River broke and heavy property damage followed in the lowlands. Crops were destroyed, homes and their contents were swallowed by the swollen stream.

At the time of writing the above, we have no general report from the heavy rains that fell throughout the country late Tuesday evening, which was the heaviest rain in this country in years.

Santa Anna and vicinity received a five inch rain late Tuesday evening, accompanied by some hail, but at this time no serious damage has been reported to us.

Think back over the past year. What have you done to improve conditions in the home community? Now think again, and catalogue the numerous opportunities you have allowed to slide by because you think you "didn't feel like doing it." Other years are yet to come.

PAYING THE PRICE OF FOLLY

Folly is sweet while it lasts, but the taste is bitter when we pay the price.

While our troops were fighting for victory in France the rest of us were fighting for dollars at home—at least the majority of us were.

Money literally poured into America from other countries in return for our munitions and supplies and food-stuffs. There seemed no end to the stream of gold.

Prosperity came with a leap, profiting with a bound, and insanity outstripped them all.

Everybody made money—big money—and apparently the question uppermost was how to make it fly.

And it flew.

People who before the war could hardly afford a sewing machine suddenly blossomed out in fine raiment and rode in expensive automobiles.

Nothing was too good or too high in price.

Money was the only thing that was cheap.

It came easily, went swiftly, and forgot to return.

In the early days the foolish virgins went out without oil in their lamps, and had no light.

The five wise virgins filled their lamps, and had light.

The virgins remind us of our own people in the profiteering days.

Foolish heads of families spent money like water. Now they have water, but little money.

Wiser ones saved their money, and now live in comfort and plenty.

That is the difference between wisdom and folly.

If the people had of saved their money instead of squandering it in riotous living they would not be feeling the pinch of want.

Wise men saw the reaction that was sure to come. They accumulated all the money possible and invested it in interest bearing securities. They are now profiting from their wisdom.

Those who considered only the pleasures of the hour are now wondering how to combat the miseries of the future.

They are paying the price of their folly.

THE BONUS

There is room for honest difference of opinion over the soldiers' bonus matter.

There are those who believe that the men who served the country in the world war should be given some substantial recognition of their services by a grateful country, while there are others who believe that a man's first duty is to his country, and that none of those who did not suffer by reason of wounds or disease or accident while in the line of duty should be paid anything more than they have already received. All the people are agreed that the country cannot do too much for those who were disabled while in the service.

But whatever one's views may be, all of us will agree that if congress passes a bonus bill it should be because the members of congress honestly think it should be passed and not through hope of gaining votes or fear of losing them.

A bonus given under such circumstances would be worse than no bonus at all. A bonus given under such circumstances will be resented by those who receive it.

The congressman who respects himself or his position will not consider or discuss the political effect of his vote, but rather the justness of the proposition before him. And the ex-service men will be pretty hard to fool in the matter.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat. Mr. Postmaster, straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Hubert Work.
